Curling Irons Next?—
Quality Pecans—
One Law For All—
"Ripple" Lights—

"The Utility News," issued by the Texas Public Service Information bureau, tells of a new use of brands in Texas, a machine recently perfected now being used to brand electrically walnuts, pecans and other nuts. At San Saba, a pecan company is also using electricity to sort, crack and pack pecans. At this rate, judging from the Utility News reports, it won't be long before West Texas cowboys, if there are any left, will be riding to the roundup in a flivver and branding calves with an electric curling iron hooked on to one of our cross-country power lines.

* * *

The brand once was a mark of ownership, but now it denotes quality. The company with an inferior product cannot afford to brand its wares, while the firm with a superior or quality product usually tells it to the world in every way possible. If pecans are to bear a trade mark or brand, we have seen many produced in Wichita county which are as fine as any.

* * *

A display of fine Wichita county pecans placed in the lobby of the City National bank suggests that Wichita residents should plant pecan trees at city residences for shade and ornamentation. This is a good plan for the many home-owners who have built new residences this year. A pecan tree is about as pretty as any other, and in Wichita county produces a fine fruit which should make it more desirable than the ordinary shade tree.

* * *

The test of the state's labor law, defining the number of hours which women may work, seems likely to involve more than a decision as to the legality of the statute. As explained by Dr. C. W. Castner, against whom the original complaint has been field, superintents of state institutions have little choice in the working hours for women employes: If the hours are shortened, then state appropriations are not sufficient to employ enough help to care for all patients and if the hours are lengthened, state employes are placed in the position of violating the law. The state legislature appropriates the funds, and the board of control sets the working hours. The superintendent executes orders.

* * *

If the law is upheld as to its application to state institutions, there seems little the legislature can do but increase the amount of money for the care of the state's unfortunates. Texas is a wealthy state, and it should provide for its unfortunate defectives, both for the sake of humanity and for the protection of society. In any case, there should not be one law applicable to private enterprises and another favoring state institutions.

The "ripple" system of traffic regulation is placed in effect on Wichita Falls streets, a progressive movement on the part of Commissioner Roy Carter and police officials. The system, which keeps traffic moving at a steadier flow and with fewer interruptions, has proved successful in other cities, and should improve conditions here after motorists become familiar with the change in the lights. There will doubtless be some little confusion for the first few days, but within a week the down-town driver should be able to make the entire light zone without a stop.

ADMIRAL GETS HARD PENALTY FOR CRITICISM

Magruder Loses Status Of Commanding Any Naval Post

WILL GET SALARY

Severe Discipline Almost Without Precedent In Navy's Annals

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder was severely disciplined late today for his now celebrated articles criticizing the administration of the navy.

After a lengthy conference with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur that official placed him in the status of "awaiting orders."

In brief, this means that the navy will no longer require his services as commander of a ship, yard, or even at a desk in the navy department.

Admiral Strikes Flag

And in almost as brief and picturesque style, Admiral Magruder struck his flag. From the office of Secretary Wilbur he walked to the office of chief of operations, where all officers are required to register, and wrote behind his name "unknown."

This discipline is almost unprecedented for an officer of Magruder's rank and station. He is to receive his pay, but will have no duties except to report regularly to the secretary of the navy. There are three forms of "awaiting orders" and in this respect, at least, he received the lightest form. One is to report home for orders. He would then be prohibited from leaving his home town without obtaining permission from the department. Another is to remain in Washington. His punishment merely confines him to the United States.

Throughout the navy, however, it was generally conceded that he will "await orders" until he reaches the retirement age, and that so far as this administration is concerned he is not to pace his own quarter deck again or see his two-starred flag floating from a ship under his command.

His offence has never been quite clearly defined by the navy general board. He wrote an article in a current weekly in which he declared that the navy is overorganized and possesses too many officers. He also declared that the costs for work in navy yards (he was until last Saturday commandant of the Philadelphia yard) are excessive for the work produced.

Magruder Holds Tongue

Following the publication of this article he was quoted in the newspapers as being in a rather defiant mood toward navy officials and threatened to "tell lots of things." He repudiated the interviews, particularly one phrase in which he was quoted as saying he expected the navy would send him to Samoa for talking out of turn.

Instead of exiling him to the remote island where he would have a command, the orders today virtually exile him from the service. He had hoped, and it was even intimated at the department, that he would be given a desk there and the opportunity of working out a plan of reorganization. Even this was denied him.

He resented the discipline keenly, but was still able to smile, He refused, however, to make any comment for publication except to say:

"I could say an awful lot, but I guess I had better not at this time."

"Ripple" Lights and No Stops, If You Know How, Says Scott

With the installation of the "ripple" traffic system Monday came new problems for officers and motorists, according to Traffice Officer J. H. Scott.

"Motorists who back parked cars away from the curbs must be guided by the light signals as well as the moving autos in the streets," Officer Scott said.

"In backing out from the curb, the motorist must be guided by the light at the street intersection behind him. If the light behind is red, he may back out from the curb and go ahead. If it is green, he must wait until the red light comes on before backing out. Otherwise he will become entangled with the passing traffic.

"This feature of the traffic rules is going to be enforced, so motorists will be wise to watch the lights."

The alternating or "ripple" system of light signals on the down-town streets will permit a motorist driving at a normal rate of speed to drive entirely through the business section without having to stop for a red light.

On Scott avenue and on Ninth street two of the signal lights will be red and two green, each pair changing to the opposite color simultaneously. On streets where there are only three lights, two will be red while one is green, the two changing to green when the one becomes red. This system, it is believed, will speed up traffic and relieve the congestion during the busy hours

400 Wichita Falls Residents To Take Active Part in Chest Drive

With more than 400 citizens lined up for active service on committees and campaign details, the Wichita Falls Community Chest campaign which is set for November 19-25, with a goal of $65,000, has every prospect of being an unqualified success, according to members of the board of directors of the campaign.

The Advertising club is in complete charge of all publicity for the campaign, including bill boards, posters, window cards, window decorations, newspapers and a number of entirely new and unusual features which will be used all during the days of the campaign as well as in advance. One of the most interesting of these will be a three-story thermometer on the side of the City National bank building which will register the progress of the campaign from day to day.

Members of the Advertising club's special committee are meeting every morning for a two-hour session and will continue to do so until the campaign has gone over the top, according to A. E. Kelly, chairman of the committee. This is a fair example of the remarkable enthusiasm and interest which is being evinced for the campaign on every side, Harry Hines, in charge of the campaign, stated.

Directors of Chest.

The board of directors of the Community Chest campaign includes Walter Cline, chairman; Harry Hines, vice chairman; Roy Jones, Saul Lebenson, W. M. McGregor, Lester Jones, Dr. Paul Henry Packard, J. ### Local Firms Use Report On Population For Sales Drives

The following statictics are given in the annual report of J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial commissioner of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Trade territory population, 805,718.

Acreage of territory, 23,212,800.

Square miles in territory, 36,270.

Inhabitants per square mile, 22.5.

Total post office receipts for territory in 1926, $89,811,060.60.

Total building permits issued in 1926, $24,849,272.

Wichita Falls has a population of 68,113, as of October 10, 1927, with the population of its accredited trade territory in Texas and Oklahoma set at 805,718, according to the annual industrial report of J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial director of the chamber of commerce. The report was completed during the week and has been submitted to the board of directors of the commercial organization.

The report is a comprehensive digest of trade and industrial conditions in 47 Texas towns and 23 Oklahoma towns, and is based on accurate data collected from these towns by J. Malcolm Harrison, special representative working out of the industrial department of the chamber of commerce.

Accurate Survey Made.

"Our traveling representative has visited each town in the Wichita Falls trade territory, collecting all accurate data regarding the various towns which would be of interest to investors, industrial concerns, shippers, wholesalers and other business men," Mr. Chatham said. "He has called on the officials and members of the chambers of commerce and other commercial organizations and the largest buyers in the various towns, pointing out the advantages of trading in Wichita Falls and urging them to do their buying here. We have received numerous letters from Wichita Falls jobbers, testifying that this service has already begun to get results."

This plan of collecting information regarding the city's trade territory is believed to be original with the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, according to Mr. Chatham. Other cities which make surveys usually employ some company with headquarters in Chicago or New York to make their investigations. These companies send a crew of workers into the territory who are not acquainted with local conditions. They make the survey in a few weeks time, file their report with the chamber of commerce and then move on to some other city. Such reports usually touch the "high spots" only.

Check on Conditions.

"The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, on the other hand, keeps a representative constantly in the field," Mr. Chatham pointed out. "He works throughout the year, visiting all of the towns in the territory and making thorough investigations of conditions and prospects. He becomes thoroughly acquainted with conditions, with the result that our report is accurate and comprehensive."

In recent months chambers of commerce in other cities, having heard of the success of the Wichita Falls plan, have begun to pattern their industrial surveys along the lines followed here, it was said.

The population figures for Wichita Falls are based on scholastic census, number of telephones, postal estimates and other available data.

The growth of the city from 1918 to the present day is graphically depicted in Mr. Chatham's report. The 1918 population was set at

Nine Under Arrest After Series of Bank Raids

Fort Worth and Terrell Police Hold Six Men and Three Women as Suspects in Bold Robberies

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7. (AP)—In the arrest here this afternoon of four men and three women, and the arrest of two other men at Terrell, Texas, today, Fort Worth police believe they will soon have the solution of at least three Texas bank robberies and perhaps others in Oklahoma. Charges of bank robbery have been preferred against a seventh man arrested here Saturday in connection with the robbery of the bank of Tehuacana last Thursday. Money taken from one of the four arrested here today bore serial numbers corresponding to those on bills taken from the Tehuacana bank, police said. Police tonight were checking up details of two other Texas bank robberies in the hope to make one or more arrests before daylight tomorrow.

Plain clothes officers this afternoon were led to the house in which the seven suspects were arrested by H. R. Bruton, who was arrested here Saturday. One of the men was heavily armed and it was upon his person that currency identified as some of the loot taken from the Tehuacana bank was found.

All of the prisoners taken here this afternoon said they were from Oklahoma. One of the women was a member of the Comanche Indian tribe.

Earlier in the day officers here were notified of the arrest at Terrell of two other suspects in the robbery. ## Permits For Poultry Plant and New Homes Raise Building Total $168,000

Wichita Falls building permits received a big boost Monday when M. Johnson took out two, one for $100,000 and the second for half that amount, and Mytinger and Walker took out two residence permits. One of these was for $10,000 and the second for $8000.

Mr. Johnson's permits are for work being done on his poultry farm. The $100,000 permit is for the farm buildings while the other is for his residence to be located on the property near the Westmoseland swimming pool. The chicken farm buildings are nearing completion and in them will be more than 40 cars of lumber, one car of lime, five cars of cement and two cars of roofing all bought through the Great West Lumber company of Wichita Falls.

F. A. Smith, city building inspector, declared all of the buildings are of excellent type. Work on the home will be started in the near future.

J. B. Peacock will occupy the $10,000 brick home for which Mytinger and Walker took out the permit. It will be on Park Place drive. Mr. Peacock has been in the oil business at Tulsa, Okla., but is moving both his business and home to Wichita Falls. The second residence at 1683 Speedway is being constructed for an unnamed client. It will also be of brick.

WATER SYSTEM PLEDGED AS BANK SECURITY

Citizens Expected to Vote On Proposal In Next 30 Days

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Adequate Water Supply Goal of Plan By City Council

City councilmen showed Monday night they believe in cleaning their own house. Finance Commissioner Oral Jones stated that in looking over the lists of sewer tax delinquents the names of several city employes had been found. It was immediately voted that city employes must pay up this tax on the next pay day or they be dismissed from the service. Mr. Jones reported collections as "coming along fairly well" but that as soon as he could get his delinquent lists in shape that cutoff men would start out.

Taxpayers of Wichita Falls will be called upon within 30 days to decide whether or not the physical properties of the city water works shall be pledged to Thompson, Hoffman and company, invesment bankers of New York, for a loan of $1,800,000 to be used in improving the city water system. This was unofficially decided at the city council meeting Monday night.

Vote on the matter was delayed until Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in order to give City Attorney Thelbert Martin time to draw the ordinance calling the election in proper form. Practically all of the details were agreed upon at the meeting Monday night and the adjourned meeting is for formal purposes.

Interest Rate 4.75

The proposed plan is for the bankers to make the loan to the city at an interest rate of 4.75 percent and the company will issue and sell bonds against its first mortgage. The company has offered sufficient bonus to bring the interest figure down 5 cents more on the $100.

Present outstanding water bonds for $66,000 bear 5 per cent interest and these will be retired. At the new interest rate a material saving will be made to the taxpayers as these bonds have option clause whereby they can be called in 10 years although issued for forty.

The first use proposed for the money is the protection of Lake Wichita, with $90,000 devoted to the work. This will mean the raising of the spillway two feet, backing up more water and making it safer. A canal will also be built to prevent refinery wastage from reaching the lake and polluting the water.

The second item is for $484,782 to be devoted to the flow line and distribution system. The present open canal flow line will be done away with and a conduit will replace it bringing the water to the filtration plant in much better shape. The rest of the money is to be used in pushing water lines into parts of the city now served and replacing mains that are now inadequate.

It is planned under the third item to spend $375,980 on the purification plant.

Pavement replacement, valves, hydrants,, castings, engineering and incidentals have been set down at $80,748. This item is considered unusually small but through certain contracts the city ha smade these items can be purchased cheaper than they otherwise could, it was pointd out.

The last item in the figures agreed to Monday night was $37,000 for an elevated tank.

Improvements Imperative

It was agreed among the councilmen that improvements and additions to the water system are imperative and must be started as quickly as possible. Informal discussion developed that some were in favor of passing the election call at once but upon the advice of Mr. Martin the matter was delayed. Discussion of the figures took well over an hour.

Harry Hines, vice chairman of the Community Chest drive, appeared before the council and outlined the coming campaign which will open Nov. 21. Each commis-

KIWANIS TOLD OF BIG GAME

Richards Gives Lecture On African Hunt

Tales of big game hunting in Rhodesia, Africa, by Charles H. Richards held members of the Kiwanis club enthralled for more than three quarters of an hour Monday noon. Mr. Richards stopped at the regular quitting time of the club but at the insistence of the members gave more of his talk. The lecture was accompanied with lantern pictures taken on the hunt by Mr. Richards.

"Climatic and health conditions are much better in Rhodesia," he said, "than in the Congo where Roosevelt hunted. There are 130 species of game in this district and the hunting is not as hard work as in the Congo."

Pictures were shown of wildbeeste, giraffe, zebra, sable bucks, roan bucks kudu and elane. The speaker said he could never get up heart to shoot giraffe as they are harmless and are usually sentinels for zebra and the smaller animals. The sable buck was described as the most beautiful but the roan as the best sport.

Guy E. Curtis, educational director of the First Christian church, operated the lantern for Mr. Richards.

Miss Dell Ray gave two musical numbers. She was accompanied by Mrs. F. R. Collard on the piano.

J. W. Akin, chairman of the nominating committee, informed members that nominations must be in by the close of the meeting Monday.

Will Spencer called attention to the meeting Thursday night at the courthouse to form an anti-tuberculosis society.

Shrine Circus Draws Good Crowd at Opening Here Monday

Old and young alike were attracted to the ball park show grounds Monday night to witness the opening of the Shrine circus. And a goodly crowd was there, fans from the city and surrounding towns came enmasse to witness the presentation of the Shrine circus. The circus is here for three days, to conclude Wednesday night. With the weather man good to the circus going public, a warm balmy night made a visit to the big tops an added pleasure.

The Bob Morton circus is the main attraction and comes here after an absence of over two years and brings perhaps the best fraternal circus production ever witnessed in this city.

From the appearance of the sensational Four Graces, and Leo and Ruth Hendrix company in a brilliant aerial opening, until the final drops to the great nets below of the famous Flying Franklins, there is not a dull moment in the long program of circus features. Beautiful white Arabian horses, greys and bays and chestnut browns, prancing and dancing ponies and a bevy of beautiful feminine stars seemed to fill the big arena.

Hosts of funsters, representing the best of all clowndom and headed by Hany Sylow brought oceans of merriment and shrieks of laughter from the vast throng present. Flying acts with intrepid artists in daring and breath taking stunts furnish thrills a plenty. The ground and stage acts include the world's foremost gymnasts and acrobats. The Tyannas, with the strong woman and her agile partner Patricks, the team of Large and Morgner and the turn of Allie Johnson alone constitute an evening's entertainment. Performances will be repeated twice today and tomorrow, the afternoon exhibits are arranged at special prices for the school children and start at 4 p. m.

The annex tent at the Shrine circus is crammed with many beautiful displays of the latest and newest in automobiles. The night performances start at 8:15 and the doors are open at 7 to allow an inspection of the automobile exhibits.

17 Sip Too Freely Of Cup That Cheers

Constable Frank Morgan and deputies decided that prohibition wasn't prohibiting as Volstead had intended, so they went on the warpath against imbibers of forbidden liquors over the week-end.

With the dawn of Monday they had up 17 men and women—15 of whom had supped from the bibulous bowl so freely that they knew not where they lived, nor did they care.

In such extremeties they were confined to county jail, to "sleep it off."

The 17 paid their fines and were released when arraigned in justice court on charges of being drunk and as vagrants Monday.

Dismissal of County Suit Asked By Smith

Motions to dismiss the suit of Wichita county against former Sheriff Fred K. Smith for $500 in excess fees will be heard by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Tuesday. The demurrer of Mr. Smith and his sureties contends the petition of the county is not legally drawn. The county contends these fees were not turned over by the sheriff for the year 1926 while he takes the position that they were used in conducting the business of the office and are not excess fees. Granting of the motions will probably cause an indefinite postponement of the suit, according to county officials.

KELL OPPOSED AS DIRECTOR

Federal Reserve Board Postpones Session

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (AP)—Due to absence from the city of Colonel C. C. Walsh, federal reserve agent, who is in Washington, the regular monthly meeting of the Dallas federal reserve board was postponed until some time next week, leaving the matter of removing Governor Lynn P. Talley of the bank in abeyance. Resolutions urging Mr. Talley's removal on the grounds of his failure to understand problems of small banks of this section were recently adopted by several groups of bank members of the reserve system.

A mail vote on two new directors will be taken November 15 and Myron Pease, spokesman for bankers behind the ouster move, has indicated his faction will oppose the re-election of Directors Joe Frost of San Antonio and Frank Kell of Wichita Falls, in favor of two candidates in sympathy with their views.

When Cupid Guides the Traffic There'll Be No Accidents

Drawn by
Dorothy Flack

DAN CUPID has donned the Traffic cop's uniform and what a good time he's having! For you can rest assured that all the regular traffic stops short when he is handling the signals. Clear the road! Here come two whom he knows should be walking the road together, but here they are at the crossroad and can't seem to catch up to each other. So on goes the signal! Everything stops and SHE trips daintliy, breathlessly across for she knows she's pursued, and she's not quite ready to give up her deliciols freedom. But what SHE wants and what Dan decrees are two different things, for She hasn't a chance to dodge him.

And HE, grinning at Dan as he strides along, knows there's no use trying to turn back. In fact, he wouldn't if he could For Love is too sweet to deny.

So there they are at Life's Crossroad! Strangers until just this minute when Dame Chance and Dan Cupid see to it that they meet. For it has been written in the stars that these two shall go their separate ways until they reach the Crossroad and then—well, the road goes straight before them and their feet unerringly keep step each with the other down Life's rosy path until they reach the Garden of Dreams-Come-True.

Fat Chance Does Woman Have Who Plans To Marry "Sight Unseen" Man

What Chance of Happiness Has a Woman Who Plans to Marry a Man She Has Never Seen? Lucky Wife Who Possesses the Perfect Husband. Should Young Couples Spoon in Public?

Dear Dorothy Dix.—A young woman friend of mine has become engaged to a man she has never seen, and with whom she got in touch through a correspondence club, and she is planning to marry him. Do you think this is safe? This woman is 30 years of age, has always lived a straight life and tried to be a dutiful daughter, but she has had no desirable social environment where she could meet men, and as she has always lived at home she isn't qualified to make a living for herself. What do you think of her chances of happiness if she marries this man?

DOUBTFUL.

Answer: I think she has about one chance in a million, and that's taking a pretty long shot at happiness.

Decent men do not have to advertise for wives. They do not have to get them in that way. Any man who is half way fit to marry can find all the women in his own community who are willing to say "yes" to him. The one crop that never fails is the spinster and the widow crop.

I think that any woman who would even contemplate marrying a man that she has never seen, and of whom she knows absolutely nothing except the highly colored fairy tales that he has written about himself, is a fit subject for the home for the Incurably Feeble-Minded, and some friend and well-wisher should see that she is committed to one before she does herself any harm.

It is, of course, a pathetic thing that a woman's life should be so dull and barren, and that she should be so hungry for romance that she is willing to seek it through the murky channels of correspondence with an unknown man, and to take what is offered her sight unseen.

But it is better to be bored and lonely than to indulge in a foolhardy adventure that is bound to end in disaster. It is better to be an old maid than it is to be married to a bigamist, or a crook. It is better to be starved for sentiment than to have to pay for your bite of it with shame and tears.

How any woman can be fool enough to risk her whole life's happiness by marrying a perfect stranger is beyond all human comprehension. To begin with, she has no idea what she is getting. The man may have half a dozen wives in other parts of the country for all she knows. He may be an ex-jailbird. He may be a drunkard. He may be so lazy and shiftless that his wife will have to take in washing to support him.

Any one of these things is likely to be true of him because a man must be considered highly undesirable if none of the women who know him is willing to take him.

The happiness of a wife depends on so many things in a husband. It depends upon his personal habits, upon his temper and temperament, upon his congeniality, upon his generosity, upon his morals and his manners.

How then is a woman to judge whether a man will suit her or not if she has never laid eyes upon him until he arrives with a marriage license in his hand.

Why, there are some men you wouldn't look at for a million dollars a year. There are other men whose table manners you couldn't stand at any price. There are other men with whom you would quarrel over everything — from politics to pie.

All of this without taking love into consideration. And nothing else on earth makes matrimony tolerable but that.

So urge your friend to get a job and go to work and forget all about her correspondence beau. There is enough risk in marrying a man you have known from his childhood up without taking a chance on something you draw out of the grab bag.

DOROTHY DIX.

* * *

Dear Miss Dix.—You say there is no such thing as a perfect husband. That is ridiculous. I have got one. We have been married five years and that is time enough to try one out. My husband is always a lover, thoughtful, tender and true. A lavish provider in every way; a fine business man; a square shooter; the dearest of daddies to our two little daughters. He thoroughly enjoys a good time and gives me the best there is. He NEVER quarrels or gets fussy and says unkind things. There is love and understanding in our home. No in-law problems. His people are mine. What is more, he isn't a puppet who is tied to my apron strongs. He is a HE-MAN to all the world, a perfect husband, sweetheart and daddy to his family.

I just want you to know you don't know all about everything, and that there is one perfect husband. A CONTENTED WIFE.

Answer: I stand corrected, but don't blame me too much. I simply spoke out of my own observation and I have never been privileged to behold such a paragon as you possess.

Permit me to offer you my felicitations and to suggest that if you ever happen to be in need of a little spending money you could make it by putting your husband on exhibition. He would be a drawing card in any side show. Less fortunate women would pay any price to behold a perfect husband. But you certainly are the Darling of the Gods.

DOROTHY DIX.

-:- Our Rhyming Optimist -:-

By Aline Michaelis

CHILL rains now drench the earth and bleak winds blow, the wings of night still shadow morning hours, and in the garden, tossing to and fro, the dead leaves mock bright memories of flowers. No note of song drifts down the wind today, the feathered choir have winged their way afar to voice sweet madrigal and roundelay on shores where Summer and the sunlight are. But ever blustering about the door the north wind seeks to find an entrance there; now loud and shrill, and now with sullen roar of baffled beast retretaing to its lair. It would be sad to say a long good-by to Summer and her train as they depart; but who has fear of Winter's wind and sky as long as it is Summer in the heart?

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

A Poor Gamble.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you please give me your opinion regarding matrimonial clubs? Have not successful marriages resulted from them? What do you think of them? FRED M.

WINNING a wife through a matrimonial club or agency is usually a gamble in which the cards are stacked against you.

The woman you choose as your wife, should be one whom you know well as a friend, a dearly-loved chum. You need to study her and her background.

If a matrimonial club could be conducted along ideal lines, with perfect references and under government auspices, it might succeed in bringing congenial responsible young men and women together with a view to marriage. But I do not know of any such agency. Your chances of meeting the right life-partner in the average matrimonial agency is about one in one thousand.

When Children Learn the Joy of Giving

By L. Lamar Matthews

HORACE lies all day in a little white bed in a Fresh Air camp. He is the only child in that particular hospital and until recently he was very lonely.

L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

Now he has three young friends—Myra, Florabelle and Jane. He has never seen them but he gets letters from them and postcards and little presents that relieve the tedium of his illness.

Myra, Florabelle and Jane have "adopted Horace" and they make it their business to keep him supplied with playthings.

Myra's mother is an officer in the Anti-Tuberculosis League in her town. She drives out occasionally to the Fresh Air camp, where the huts are grouped beneath the pine trees. One day she found a new patient in the newest of the huts, and the patient was a child. When she went home she told Myra about the little boy and suggested that she send him one of her picture books.

Myra enjoyed doing that. And in the midst of hunting up the books Florabelle and Jane came over to play. Of course they were interested in the story of poor little Horace of the Fresh Air camp—and then they forgot about him for a while.

Toward the close of the after noon the children decided to try their skill at carving little things from soap as they had learned to do at school.

While they were absorbed in this fascinating handicraft, Myra's mother came in and stood admiring the dog, the bird and the air plane that had been carved from the sticky kitchen soap.

"Why don't you send those things to Horace?" she suggested. "They would make him laugh."

Nothing could have pleased the little girls more. So they wrapped up their works of art in tissue paper and sent them, with the picture books, to the sick child.

He was so pleased with their gifts that they were inspired to make others. Next time they fashioned funny things from the pith of cornstalk, using toothpicks for the limbs of these queer animals, tables and dolls.

Then they agreed to "adopt Horace." And now he is their own special protege. They are always on the lookout for play things that will amuse him, and they take keen delight in providing entertainment for this little invalid.

Now, those children's parents could supply Horace with expensive toys and never miss the money. But they have the good sense to let the children finish their own undertaking in their own way. In the first place, it gives them something to do that ennobles the spirit and teaches a lesson of helpfulness and kindliness. In the second place, it makes them happy to have something worth while to carry on. In the third place, Horace likes their home-made gifts more than he would any other kind.

When children begin some small enterprise grown-ups should keep their hands off and let the youngsters perfect their own plans. Well-intended interference has nipped in the bud many youthful ventures, and killed the zest in numberless undertakings. Don't interfere with children's innocent little plans. Don't laugh at them. Don't talk about them. What they are doing and thinking and striving to achieve means a great deal more to them than appears on the surface to the casual observer.

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

By ANN LISLE

Beppo Takes Charge.

"I'VE got some friends in the world after all," Jill Hathaway said softly to herself, as the dark-eyed stooping Italian followed her into her room. "So you've come to—be kind to me and to tell me that Conchetta has forgiven me for keeping that tip——"

ANN LISLE

"So you coulda give it back," Beppo said gently. "We understand. But such thing so long ago nobody remember. Nobody remember the bad. Albody remember the gooda. Conchetta and Beppo love the bambina of Signora Duane."

Jill looked at him gravely. "It was a long time ago. I was only seventeen then." She felt old now—as old and as sad as the world of Autumn with Winter hard on its heels.

"You leetle bambina now," Beppo said with a warm smile.

"You loved Folly, didn't you?" she asked strangely. "There was somebody to mourn her."

"We burn for her a candle," Beppo told her. "She was kind lady. She giva me jobs when I little wop no spika de English. She teacha me da English. Always she do what her hearta tella her—and it not always tella her so wise."

"Thank you," Jill said gravely "That's a very nice way of putting it. . . . . I think it would be wonderful for me to go to such good friends of my mother's if—I won't be putting you out too much."

Beppo bowed gravely. "You have never papa," he said. "You hava no mama. Beppo be please to be papa and mama to the bambina of Signora Duane."

There were a thousand questions Jill wanted to ask him. . .What had he meant by saying she never had "a papa"? Was she, indeed, a love child, a child of disgrace who owed her name to the broadmindedness of Jem Hathaway—or was there somebody else—something that danced on the edge of memory with the rest of her dream and faded before she could capture it? But all she managed to say was:

"I didn't think I had a friend in the world. I couldn't imagine what I was to do until you came just now."

You pack," Beppo said succinctly. "Alla what is of Folly we put in her trunk and we senda it at hospital so you notta remember so much. Alla what is you, we taka to me. And from now on, till you getta good rest you not think. You just letta Beppo think."

"All right," Jill agreed wondering if it was a dream and hoping she'd never wake up if it was. You think for me."

So Beppo fell to with a vengeance. He sorted, packed, discarded, arranged and strapped things at a rate of speed that made Jill feel as if a friendly cyclone had her in its grip. He whirled her out of the Xavier and into a taxi in less time than it seemed possible one could break up the nearest thing to a home one had ever known. He attended to bills, to all the details of giving up her room. He eliminated Folly and Jill and all traces of them from the shabby little hotel which had never taken much interest in Folly Duane and which was glad to have her and her affairs erased from the somewhat grimy and greasy pages of its register and history.

Beppo didn't leave a forwarding address. Such a thing was entirely outside of his ken and his kindly plan to help Jill forget. She had said she hadn't a friend in the world. Beppo had enough sense of values to know that it must be true, else she wouldn't be left to him and his charity at this critical moment of her life. He took her out of the Xavier as casually as he would have uprooted a flower from soil in which it wasn't doing well—and as tenderly.

The telegram from MacNeil Shannon arrived a half an hour after Jill had left with Beppo, and the nonchalant clerk said to the messenger boy:

"Too bad you didn't get here sooner. She's left with a man friend and didn't leave no forwarding address." . . . Record of that went back to MacNeil Shannon at the Shannon Hotel out on the Pacific Coast. It was the sort of thing to be expected of Folly's daughter. But it didn't satisfy Mac. He wired Roy Scarlett. But Roy was down at Dr. Potter's waiting for Viv to gain enough strength to face life. And he wasn't having his mail forwarded from the house—only the business stuff.

And it was Tuesday before Dr. Potter ventured to show him the cruel account of Folly's death which the Monday papers had carried. But Roy it must be remembered, wasn't on very friendly terms with Jill who had once annoyed him by totally misunderstanding his attempt to be friendly to the kid who looked so much like his lovely wife. And he didn't see any reason to agitate himself about the hot-tempered youngster who had given every sign of being able to take care of herself.

So Jill took refuge with Conchetta and Beppo and drooped and pined in their kindly but garlicky home atmosphere. And then one day Vivian sat up in bed and asked with amazing passion:

"Roy—can you ever forgive me?"

"Darling, I've been a great fool. I thought if you knew about my poor mother you'd turn against me. I thought it was too much of a blot on the record for a proud, ambitious man like you to accept . . . When I married you I didn't see that my mother's tragedy was mine . . . When I began to see that because of it I didn't dare be a mother, I got a notion of how much it meant——"

"Must we talk about it?" Roy asked. "The Heath case is a closed book. I am not sorry I saw the pages . . . But they don't make any difference. Nothing makes any difference but you—dear?"

"Not even Jill?" Viv asked dreamily. "Don't you even mind about Jill?"

"Jill?" Roy demanded. "What's Jill going to do with it? Must we think even of Jill?"

"I was only sixteen when she was born," Viv said quietly. "But that doesn't let me off. She's my responsibility. I can't shift her to someone else. There isn't anyone else any more. I've got to look out for her. Will you stand by, Roy?"

When Manners Are Correct

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Regarding Olives.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

May I enter your cozy corner for some advice? The girls in our class have a club which we attend every Wednesday night. Last Wednesday night we had stuffed olives for supper with other foods. My friends and I took the olives in our fingers and nibbled at them while others took them up on their forks.

Please tell me which is the proper way. And do not hesitate to criticise my way, for I want to know which was right.

AUNT ZUBY

INDEED, you are receiving the friendliest kind of welcome into my corner! As a matter of fact, your letter was one of the most delightful that I have received in the years that I have had the column. Bless you for it! If you are really an "aunt," I wish I were one of your nieces—they are fortunate.

You and your friends were quite right to eat the olives in your fingers. Of course, if there was a serving fork or spoon with the olives it should be used to take the olives to the plate, but when olives are eaten—green olives, ripe or stuffed ones—they should be eaten in the fingers. It looks very "up-stage," doesn't it—to see people eating olives with a fork?

Won't you please come soon again to my column?

(Mrs Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

Insanity on the Increase

SIX small banks were robbed in the states of Texas and Oklahoma in a single day. All the robbers got away with their loot. Insanity is on the increase in the mother state and the step daughter state, as Oklahoma is the step daughter of Texas.

A New Yorker shot four men in a row over a $500 real estate deal. All four died of the wound. Now their slayer has been sent to an asylum for insane criminals. Not long since, the governor of Texas revoked the pardon or parole of a convict. It appears that the convict had been paroled on the promise that he would be sent to an asylum for the insane. He was found running at large. He had not been placed under restraint.

His parole was revoked and the court of criminal appeals held that the governor was within his power when he revoked the act of clemency that turned an insane man with criminal tendency back to the penitentiary.

There is no valid reason why society should not be protected. There is no sensible reason why murderers and hi-jackers, who slay without provocation and whose motive is gain, should be handled as tenderly as babes in the arms of their mothers.

Approaching a Climax

REPRESENTATIVE DICKINSON of Iowa is a prominent republican lawmaker and leader. He is for a westerner for president on the republican ticket and the westerner must be acceptable to the farmers of the west, the growers of things.

Dickinson of Iowa has let the leaders of his party know that Lowden of Illinois is the only man who will be able to carry the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Maryland, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Nevada and possibly Indiana, should Al Smith be the democrat nominee.

He concedes in advance two or more large eastern states to Smith and predicts that only the border states, or rather their captures in 1928 will give the victory to the republicans.

If the republican growers of things in the mid-west and the northwest carry out their threats there may be a smashing of big machines and a relinement of voters next year. Trade marks, bogus trade marks, which divide on ancient lines may be thrown in the discard.

This Is the Law

ATTORNEY General Claude Pollard, in his opinion, held there is nothing left to the discretion of the automatic tax board in making its findings in July, speaking of general economic conditions in determining the tax rate, but it must compute the rate by the formula fixed in the statute. Therefore, when the board met in July it had no authority to consider anticipated improvements in general conditions and take advantage of the same to reduce the tax rate.

If there is a surplus of $5,000,000 rolled up then when the board meets in July 1928 there should be a reduction in the tax rate that will make the heart of Jones, the freight payer, swell and throb with joy. There are good times in grand old Texas in the month of November of the year 1927. Foreign demand for cotton had a vast deal to do in the making of the prosperity now enjoyed by the people of the southwest.

Cotton gamblers, regardless of their unpopularity in rural districts, had something to do in the making of general prosperity. A lean cotton crop had a vast deal to do with it. Truth is whenever there is a lean cotton crop there is a lot of new money in Texas.

Youth and Religion

A HOPEFUL pastor in a large city says youth is coming to regard religion as something that can be applied to the whole realm of life, and not to be used in compartments. If young people are reaching this conclusion they are passing beyond the conception of the older generation and they are doing well. The trouble with what grownups call religion is that it is merely a department of life—like grandfather's Saturday night bath.

Religion isn't a department phase. It is meant to give current to the stream of life.

Sinclair's Mistrial

"WHERE there is oil there is hell," remarked a veteran oil operator in Mexico to an American newspaper correspondent not many years ago. A juror talked too freely to a reporter and other outsiders. Now the talkative juror is on the rak. That is, he is in the hands of the law.

Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall remain in the meshes or the hands of the law. For six years they have been under indictment. For six years scandal after scandal has attached to these naval oil leases transferred by Albert B. Fall to Doheny and Sinclair. For six years the sordid story of the shame of a people has been told and retold by the newspapers of America.

All the naval leases have been restored to the government. All the high principals in these so-called frauds, have thus far escaped conviction. Regardless of this, Fall is a broken thing; Doheny has fallen from his high estate and Sinclair, with all his millions, walks alone.

He has lost the respect of his former associates, his name has been tarnished, his innocence has not been established and the disclosures which ended in the mistrial have added additional weight to a burden that even a Hercules or a Colosus could not carry.

Drudgery

ORATORS can get excited about the poor women who have to work long hours in shops and factories. Penny-a-line philosophers worry a lot about the problems of the business woman. But the women who have the hardest time are the wives of workingmen who spend more hours over the washtub, the kitchen stove, and the baby's cradle than any stenographer ever spent at her desk.

And most wives get poor pay and little entertainment.

Christy Makes a Hit

HOWARD C. CHRISTY made a portrait of Dictator Mussolini. Christy must have painted true to life. His creation captured the dictator. He was so pleased with himself and the likeness that he ordered a second setting. Genius knows no country or nationality. Mussolini knows what he wants. Just now he is sitting astride of the highest crag.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Let the long-suffering male emit a jubilant cheer and perhaps even a few well-placed heh-heh-heh's of triumph. For it appears, from a recent decision in a case tried in this neighborhood, that the worm is about to have his turn. Mayhap it is only temporary. Yet . . . let us hope. At any rate, here is the joyous example:

A young man in New Jersey, having been given the air by his fiancee, felt, perhaps, that he might later find use for the jewelry and assorted cash which he had given her. In lieu of suing her for the actual recovery of his property, through some legal technicality, he sued for $3000 cash. Perhaps he asked for what the tabloids refer to as "heart balm." Howsoever, the twelve good men and true decided that the fickle young woman must either return the jewelry and money or give her ex-fiance $850.

* * *

A friend reports that while visiting at a resort in New England he overheard a passionate soliloquy by an aged lady resident. And so that you may know to whom she was referring, let me state, that at the time, a prominent Turkish-American novelist was staying at the place.

"New England isn't what it used to be," said the venerable lady. "Why, when I was a girl, you had to be somebody to get into this place. Now they admit Armenians and Turks and all kinds of heathens. They even admit New Yorkers!"

* * *

There is nothing that players on the Big Stem, as Broadway is called, will not do to gain publicity. A columnist tells me that he had been receiving letters signed with the names of well-known feminine stars, praising a member of a popular orchestra in high terms, offering various incidents in his career as subjects for stories to be printed. At last, the columnist received a letter signed by a well-known actress. And the signature was misspelled. So he went to the lady and asked her if she had written the letter. She denied it. Subsequently, he went to other women of the stage, asking them if they had written the letters to which their names were signed. All denied it. Evidently, the young man had been praising himself incognito.

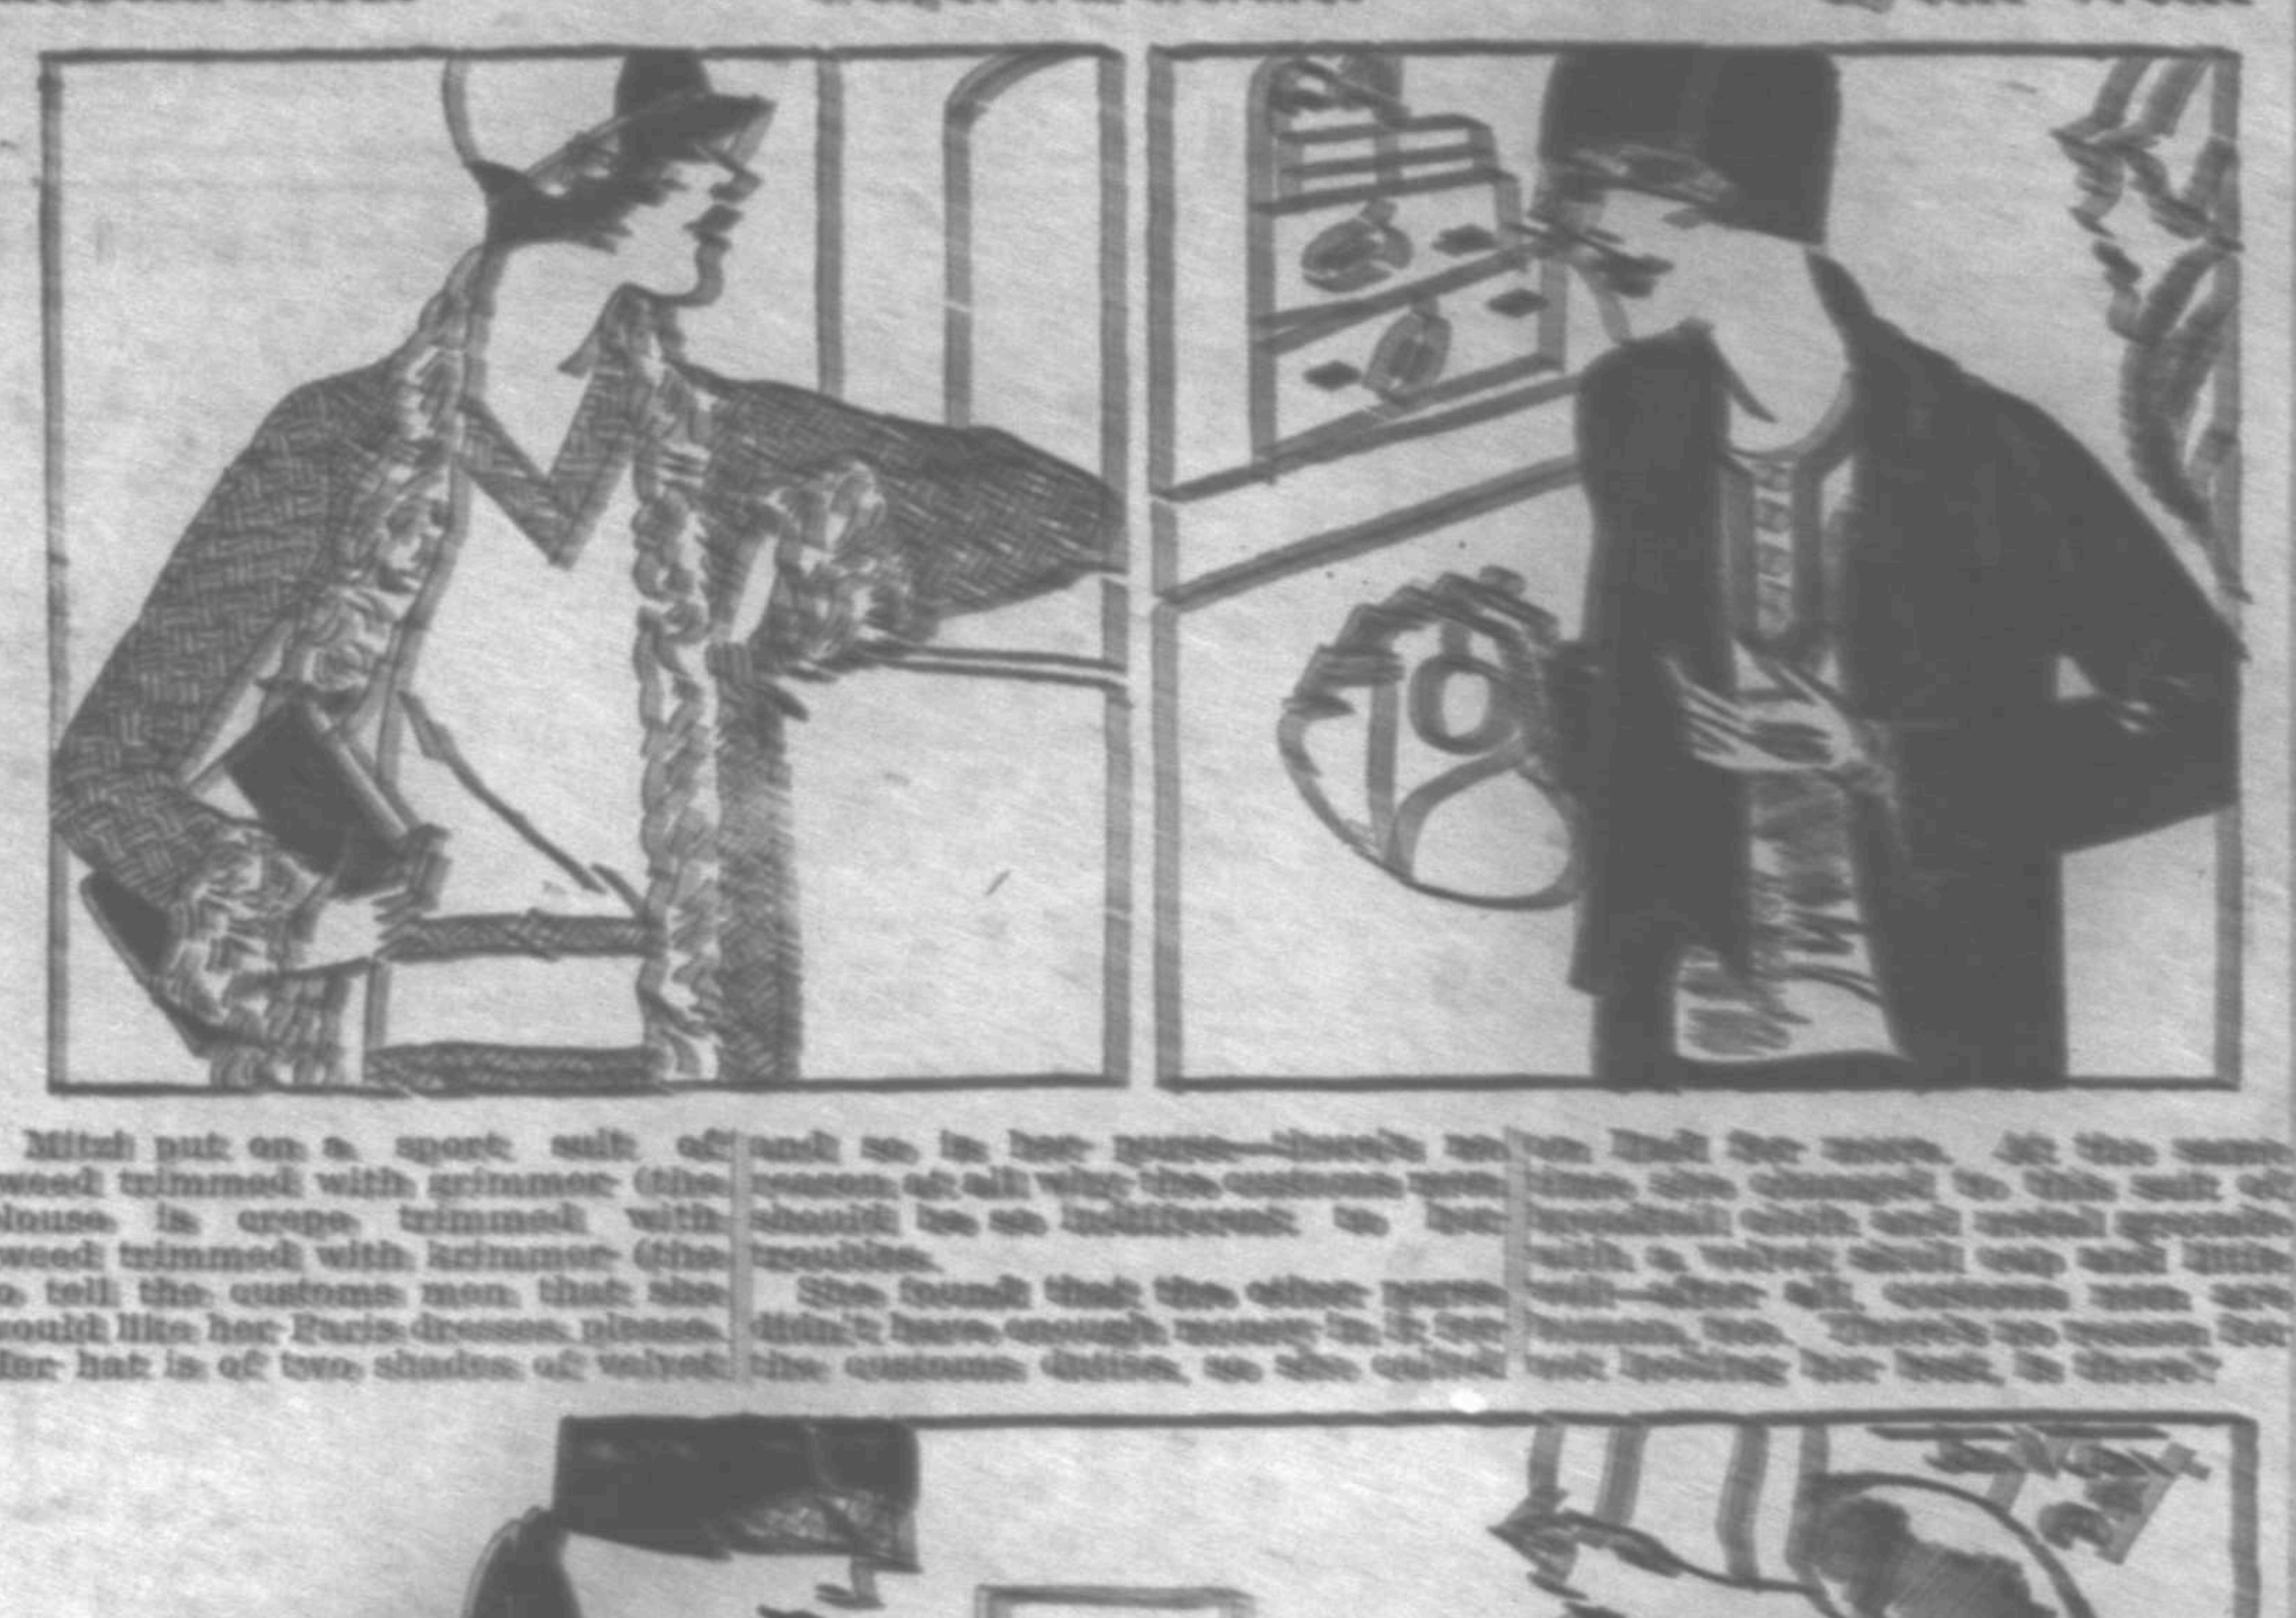
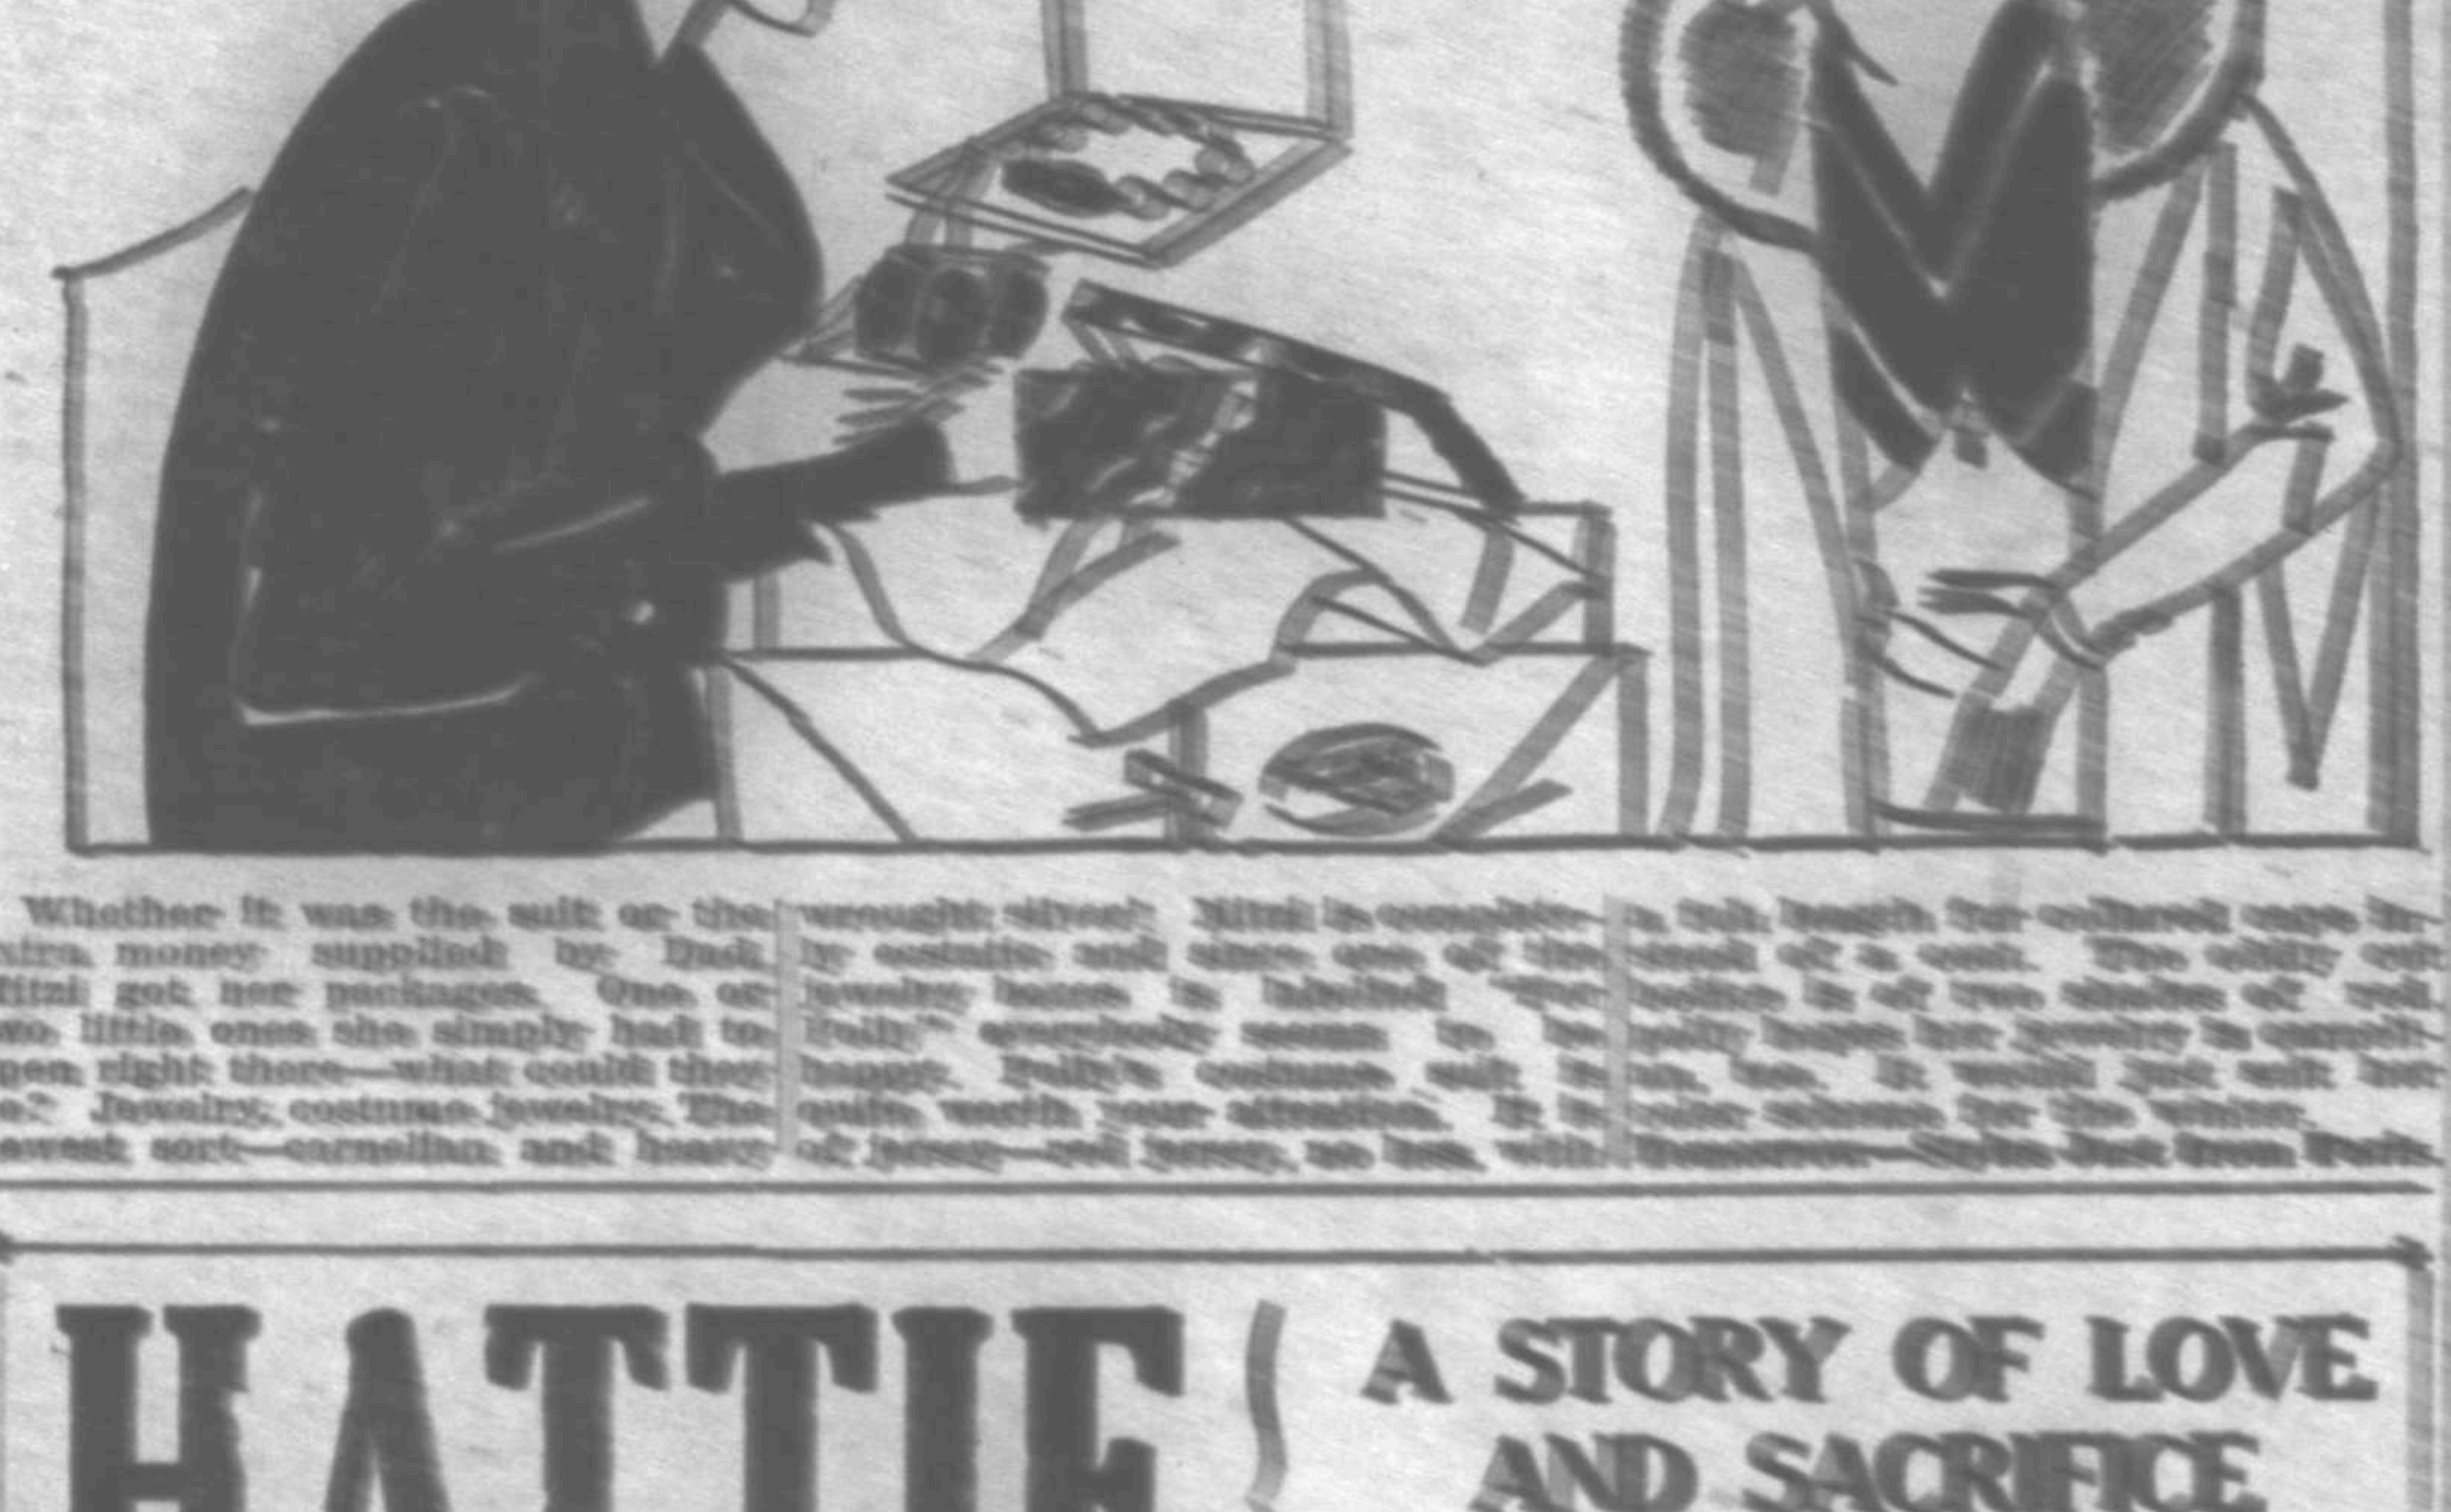
MODISH MITZI Well, It Was Worth It By JAY V. JAY



Mitzi put on a sport suit of tweed trimmed with krimmer (the blouse is crepe trimmed with tweed trimmed with krimmer) (the [illegible]) to tell the customs men that she would like her Paris dresses, please. Her hat is of two shades of velvet and so is her purse—there's no reason at all why the customs men should be so indifferent to her troubles.

She found that the other purse didn't have enough money in it for the customs duties, so she couldn't [illegible] for more. At the same time she changed to this suit of [illegible] cloth and metal brocade with a velvet skull cap and little veil—after all, customs men are human, too. There's no reason for not looking her best, is there?



Whether it was the suit or the extra money supplied by Dad, Mitzi got her packages. One or two little ones she simply had to open right there—what could they be? Jewelry, costume jewelry. The newest sort—carnelian and heavy [illegible] "Daily" everybody seems to be happy. Daily's costume suit is quite worth your attention. It is of jersey—red jersey, no less, with [illegible] hopes her jewelry is carnelian, too. It would just suit her color scheme for the winter.

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is

LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. De Brissac makes love to Hattie as part of her training for screen work and Hattie seems powerless to resist him. She refuses to go with him on his yacht away from her family, however. O'Malley, to whom she becomes engaged, advises her to try to get work at another studio and invites a lawyer to look over her contract with De Brissac. A rival studio gives her a part and she goes to work for them.

She is a failure without De Brissac and finally she sees him in a restaurant. He asks her not to tie up with the other concern for more than one picture.

Then Alice's husband, who has deserted her some years before, comes back—one more for Hattie to support.

Hattie meets Lucille and tells her her troubles. Lucille advises her to go back to De Brissac in spite of his love-making.

The De Brissac picture is advertised and Hattie gets many fan letters.

Hattie and Henry go to the private screening of the picture.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

It was fun afterward to find herself the positive center of attention. These great people all pressed her hand and said unbelievable things. She almost felt the reality of it. But the bewilderment in which she these days had her being would creep in. The picture was de Brissac's, not hers. Alone she was nothing. Perhaps they would offer her a new job. She dreaded the though. They would find her out just as Mr. Mortimer had found her out. Unless they knew already. Very likely they did. . . . Yes, they did. Mr. Zeeck drew her to a corner, and spoke pleasantly of the picture and of her unquestionable success.

"You may know," he went on to say, "that Mr. de Brissac is leaving us. He is forming a company of his own. Possibly he has already made you an offer."

Hattie shook her head.

"Well, he will. He could hardly afford not to. But this company of his is a venture. It may not succeed." Not a word about the broken contract. How kind he was. "Understand that you've not been very happy on the Plantagenet lot. I think you had better come back to us. You know, I think, that we have broken with the star system. We don't feel that it's healthy. The trend of the business is away from it. And I'm sure you know yourself that you need experience, training."

"I'm no good," she said, all confusion. Her mind couldn't keep up with his fluent talk. He was such a great man.

"You mustn't say that, my dear. Not after England. You have undoubtedly a bright future ahead of you. You will probably have some big offers. But my advice is that you refuse them. You don't want your career to be a flash in the pan for want of sound training. I think you had better come in with us. We can train you, teach you. And while we feel that the big salaries won't last—really, they can't last—we'll pay you enough to live comfortably on, say $250 a week. Not more now, but we would consider a small increase next year. Suppose you come to my office at ten tomorrow. Talk it over tonight with your family, and see if they don't feel with me that you should attach yourself to a strong company like ours and build your career soundly. You'll be running no risk whatever in doing that. I'll have Mr. Harkin call for you in the morning and drive you over here."

She knew that Henry was eagerly curious, but she couldn't tell him what Mr. Zeeck had said. Finally, however, he asked. They were on the way home. And then, still confused, still with that hot pleasant sense of being dragged through the hours faster than she could think, she briefly told him. And he responded with an impatient sniff that seemed to put him farther away from her.

"Two hundred and fifty a week! Humph! Why that's outrageous after this. We can do better than that; a damn sight better!"

To Alice, who followed her into her room, she merely said, listlessly—

"Oh, yes. It's a wonderful picture. Everybody was nice to me."

She was glad when Alice went and she could shut the door. She was trying to understand Henry. He was taking her career for granted. She hadn't thought he'd take that tone. She didn't know how to meet it. Lucille said that morals didn't matter. She had caught the same attitude in the books de Brissac had made her read at least; that passion was a force to be respected. Could that be the truth? This conflict of ideas was like a battle within herself, wrecking brain and nerves. Somehow she must contrive to speak out her real thoughts to Henry. It couldn't be true that money alone mattered. You think so from the undertone of feeling in this talk. And it couldn't be that Henry really believed that. Her thoughts, that so often blazed up while she was alone, seemed to waver and lose their character when other people talked to her, until she always ended by saying nothing. Nobody knew what she really thought in that little head of hers. They'd be surprised if she ever found a way to let it out. . . . In the morning she'd have to tell Alice about Mr. Zeeck's proposal. It wouldn't do to leave it until Mr. Harkin actually appeared to take her over there. And Alice would have to come along, doubtless. Perhaps Arthur, too, and she didn't want him along.

Mr. Wurtzell's secretary called up at 20 minutes to ten in the morning to say that the lawyer was on his way to the flat on a matter of great importance. She was still talking when Mr. Harkin appeared. And Hattie hadn't yet told Alice about Mr. Zeeck's offer, had merely let things drift. The situation appeared now to the girl as a sort of catastrophe. She felt as she had felt in the mailing room or in the public school when caught in some petty mischief and scolded. They'd scold her now for not talking it over. They'd think her queer. Probably she was very queer.

Mr. Wurtzell and Mr. Harkin knew each other. What a small little world the picture business was anyway. For a few moments they fenced, these two men. Mr. Harkin spoke guardedly of the engagement at the Eastlander lot. But Mr. Wurtzell—also of the two, had authority—explained that he had come over on a very urgent matter and suggested deferring the Eastlander engagement for an hour or so. The family sided with him. Mr. Harkin, finally said that he would call up a little later, and withdrew. He surely had his precise instructions, that genial young man, and a high-hiding contest was not to be considered.

Mr. Wurtzell promptly laid his cards on the table. Mr. de Brissac wanted Hattie as an important item in his comprehensive new plans. She was inexperienced, yes, but he was a great genius and would develop her to a commanding position in the world of films. [illegible], Wilbanks, Rasmussen and Rath, as his counsel, had organized the company—De Brissac, Incorporated. Of that firm, Mr. Wurtzell himself was a junior member. Because he knew Miss John, and had already acted as her attorney, he had been given authority to negotiate with her. All was dignified and in order. It seemed almost like a great diplomatic business, the way he put it. Arthur's color was up and his eyes shining; he chewed a cigar, twisting it round and round with his mobile lips and shifting it from one corner to the other and back without touching it with his fingers. Hattie wished he wouldn't do that.

Alice said—"Grandma! I suppose it's better bring her in. She'll want to know."

"I'll help her," said Arthur, sympathetically, and did so, putting her in the arm chair and slipping a cushion under the lame foot. He then tried to watch Mr. Wurtzell's eyes, with [illegible] of clarity and with the aid of questions from Grandma, Mr. Wurtzell patiently [illegible].

Then it was his turn.

"Mr. de Brissac already has two great pictures planned for Miss John. He has plenty of money back of him and the full confidence of the Board of Directors. They trust his judgment. They've got to. They know that he makes no mistakes."

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

CHRONIC DISORDERS OF CHILDHOOD

I am convinced that faulty feeding is the principal cause of all disorders of children. This is true in the so-called children's diseases, which are only acute manifestations of chronic disorders and, of course, likewise true of every one of the common types of diseases which children develop.

The baby's troubles are mostly constipation, flatulence, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, bronchitis, worms, and skin rashes. Every one of these troubles are directly due to faulty diet and no other cause. As the child grows older these same troubles persist with perhaps the additional fault that the child is either underweight or overweight.

These chronic disorders and symptoms can be entirely prevented by careful feeding habits, and also can be easily cured if parents will take the time and trouble to study the science of food chemistry and conscientiously force their children to follow the proper dietetic rules.

I know from my experience with dieting thousands of children that it is impossible for a child to develop enlarged tonsils or adenoids unless he uses too many starches or sugars. When these foods are eliminated or greatly reduced and the proteins and green vegetables increased, the tonsils always reduce to their normal size, and can then properly perform their mysterious function of assisting in the balancing of the metabolism of the growing child.

Bronchitis is caused principally by the same indiscriminate use of the carbohydrates and hydrocarbons, and can be easily prevented or cured by very simple dietetic changes.

The child who is underweight is starving for proteins and the organic minerals and vitamins. It is never because he eats too little food, for stuffing on every kind of food will not bring about the desired increase in weight. The under-nourished child needs food of the right quality, and not an increased quantity. Often, cutting down the amount of food used will relieve the overburden of stuffing to which the child has been subjected, and he can then really digest and assimilate a small amount of the right kind of food elements.

Skin rashes are due almost wholly to improper combinations of food, such as the careless mixing of starches and acids, the combination of sugars and starches, and using several kinds of fruit at one time. Outside of the rashes caused by poisonous weeds there is no other cause of a rashy or itchy skin except the irritating poisons which come from faulty food combinations.

The under-nourished child is in a sorry plight due to his parents' ignorance, but the child who is overweight is also a fit subject for the development of such chronic disorders as diabetes and heart trouble, and has no resistance against the infectious and contagious diseases.

Parents must assume full responsibility for the health of their children and cannot blame fate, as the newer knowledge of nutrition is very simple and easily understood by anyone who will take the time and energy to learn.

QUESTION: A reader writes: "Am reading your articles with much interest. In speaking of fasting, do you believe a person having mental work should do with absolutely no food on these days, or should some liquid such as fruit juice be taken if one keeps at work?"

ANSWER: I usually recommend a fruit fast rather than a plain water fast. It seems to me that patients eliminate better while taking the fruit juices. Of course, there is some stimulation from the fruit sugar which makes it easier for one to keep on with his work while taking the fast.

QUESTION: Mrs. E. R. writes: "I am 60 pounds overweight and would like very much to practice your famous fruit juice diet. However, one problem confronts me. I am in the second month of pregnancy. Would the diet prove harmful?"

ANSWER: The fruit juice fast would be decidedly beneficial to you at this time or any time during pregnancy. Fruits contain practically all the bone-building material you require, but while taking such a fast your body has a chance to eliminate impurities and your system will be cleansed to more easily meet the ordeal you are about to go through. After the fasting keep your diet well balanced, and do not make the mistake of thinking you must "eat for two." (See tomorrow's paper for full instructions on taking an orange juice fast.)

ANSWER: There are no definite symptoms of tapeworm which can be depended on. Sometimes the patient loses weight and has a ferocious appetite, but this is not always the case. If you suspect you have a tapeworm, I suggest that you go to your druggist and have him give you a tapeworm remedy. Then watch the stools. There are many different kinds of intestinal worms besides the tapeworm, and some of the others will produce trouble such as nervousness, rectal itching, nausea, etc.

MANY ATTEND C. E. MEETING

Burkburnett Rally Draws Large Crowd

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 7.—At a Christian Endeavor rally at the Central Christian church Sunday afternoon, nine different churches were represented, there being endeavors from Electra, Seymour, Oklahoma City, Vernon, and from Floral Heights, Highland Heights and First Christian churches from Wichita Falls besides the local members.

Plans were made for a similar rally in Vernon, Sunday, Nov. 27.

The services were started by singing, "Faith of Our Fathers" and followed by a prayer by Rev. Reese Jones. Harriet Roe read the devotional and then turned the meeting over to Jack Dale, who introduced the district officers.

An interesting program was rendered, features of it being a duet by Burchess Eason and J. T. Morrow, and a talk by William C. Marzan of Oklahoma City, who is a native of the Philippine Islands. A general discussion was held on "What C. E. Has Meant to Me."

JUST FOR FUN.

If you wish to figure it on a comparative score basis, Bible's Texas Aggies line up as one of the nation's most formidable elevens and are well on the trail not only to the championship of the Southwestern conference but to some kind of leadership that takes in its scope the south, Missouri valley and middle west along with a thrust at the east. Calculating, just for the fun of it, on a comparative score slate you can say the Farmers' slaughter of the Southern Methodist university Mustangs ranks the Bible machine as a contender in all these sections. The Ponies murdered the Missouri Tiger, valley leader, thus in turn giving the Aggies the top of the valley conference. Missouri has trimmed Nebraska, the Kansas Aggies, Northwestern and West Virginia. Nebraska, by the way, slammed Syracuse under a three-touchdown defeat. The Ponies beat Texas who previously had downed Vanderbilt, one of the Southern conference's strongest teams. Vandy, by the way, played the powerful Georgia Tech team to a deadlock Saturday. The Aggies beat Sewanee, which however, doesn't mean so much. Tennessee and Georgia are the undefeated and untied leaders of the Southern conference but these teams in turn may be topped ere the race in run, reflecting indirectly more credit to the Texas Farmers. The Rggies' overwhelming defeat of Arkansas who later overwhelmed Louisian State, if you're still figuring it on the comparative score basis puts the Southwest conference leaders several touchdowns better than possibly could any other Southern conference club trim L. S. U. Nebraska isn't in the big Ten conference, Northwestern is, but several notches down the line. However, step by step from the Missouri defeat of Nebraska and Northwestern, the Mustang victory over Missouri to the Aggie win in game with the Mustangs links the Aggies in a way with the middle west and Big Ten quite favorably. As far as that goes, a fellow might dig deeper and figure out by comparative scores that Texas A. & M. is undisputed champion of the football world. But it doesn't mean anything.

* * *

Taking it on comparative scores: A. & M. beat Arkansas, 40 to 6, and then was held to a scoreless tie by T. C. U., so it's all wrong—Arkansas didn't win that game Saturday at Fort Worth; T. C. U. won it.

* * *

IF

Football in Texas is very much on the incline. You can't prove it because the boys are not going to play, but it is doubtful if many, for that matter, if any of the leading teams in the east or middle west could come down to College Station and run over the A. & M. team, or go to Dallas and beat S. S. U. by anything like a decisive score. Perhaps the A. & M. or S. M. U. team playing for instance Princeton, the eastern leader, in the east might find the sledding considerably tough. But Princeton playing on Kyle field or in Ownby bowl probably would discover the going just as rough. It is doubtful if any team from any section of the country could come into Texas this year and beat either A. & M. or S. M. U. by any walk-away score. It is doubtful could they beat these teams at all.

* * *

SOARING.

The Southwest conference is gaining greater recognition. S. M. U. has another powerful team coming up next year, so have the Aggies. Baylor will be much stronger, too, in 1928. Texas university is not expected to show any decline in strength and "on paper" this year Texas looks stronger than S. M. U. although defeated by the Ponies. Apparently, it won't be many seasons to come before the conference is ranked with the leaders in the east, the mid-west and the far west. A. & M., if it takes that jaunt to the coast this year for the Roses tourney tilt with the Pacific champs, may start the ball rolling out that way. 'Bama gave the coast a couple of fits. Both Texas A. & M. and S. M. U. are classed as stronger than the Alabama team.

* * *

The odds ever are against a team playing away from home and more so is this the situation in high school circles. Wichita Falls high school plays the Golden Sandstorm at Amarillo Thanksgiving day in game that may decide the championship of district number one. The Coyotes would do well to get up there on the Panhandle top an endeavor to become acclimmatized several days before the game. A superior team quite often may become an inferior team battling the Sandstorm in that "rarified" atmosphere.

* * *

FALSE ALARM

The Waco baseball park, that "pepper box" orchard where fly balls go for home runs, is owned by private interests and is being placed on sale. But that shouldn't prove very good news to the rest of the Texas league, for reports from Waco have it the Waco team is considering seriously purchasing the bandbox for a permanent home.

Football Special Planned For Turkey Day Contest

District One Championship Hinges On Wichita Falls Game in Panhandle City

An intensive campaign for the sale of tickets for the Football Special on which local gridiron fans will journey to Amarillo on Thanksgiving day to witness the game between the Wichita Falls high school team and gridsters of the Plains city will be launched Tuesday morning, when a special ticket-sale committee will be appointed at a meeting at the chamber of commerce. The session is called for 10 o'clock.

Reservations for the special train, which the Denver road has agreed to run on a basis of 125 minimum round-trip fares, may now be made at the office of J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial commissioner of the chamber of commerce. Just dial phone No. 2022 and tell Mr. Chatham to reserve passage for you.

Plans fo rthe football special were made at a meeting of the special train committee Monday. Mr. Chatham reported that the Denver road agreed to run the special on a minimum of 125 round-trip fares at $8.25 each. If as many as 150 persons make the round trip on the special the fare will be only $6 each, he said.

Members of the committee expressed the belief that 150 more football boosters would take the trip, but in order to protect the guarantee to the railroad the advance sale of tickets will be at the rate $8.25 each. If 150 or more tickets are sold refunds of $2.25 will be made on each ticket.

The train will leave here at 6 o'clock Thanksgiving morning, arriving in Amarillo in time for lunch. Returning, the special will leave the Panhandle city at 7 p. m. arriving here shortly after midnight. The train will be fully equipped for such an excursion, it was said. The baggage car will be turned into a diner, sandwiches, coffee and cold drinks may be obtained.

Members of the special train committee include W. E. Huff, J. R. Welch, P. S. Richardson, Horrace Robbins, Blondy Cross, Al Parker, Oral Jones, Carter McGregor, J. W. Chatham and D. H. Berry, assistant traffic director of the chamber of commerce.

COYOTES MAY SEE AMARILLO PERFORM.

Although the Amarillo team plays Vernon this week and Electra next week while Wichita Falls still must turn back Quanah and Plainview before invading the Panhandle city, the Thanksgiving Day game at Amarillo between the Coyotes and Sandstorm is figured by many high school football fans as the crucial tilt of the season for both teams, the game on which hinges the championship of district number one of the University of Texas interscholastic football league.

Wichita Falls is expected to take Quanah with ease but may find Plainview stiff opposition. The Bulldogs have developed surprisingly in recent weeks.

Lions May Fool You.

Dopesters figure Amarillo as a big favorite over Vernon at Vernon Friday and if the Vernon team is as crippled as reports have it, the Sandstorm should win in a canter. But if Coach E. A. Baggett's machine is in good shape Friday the Amarilloans more than likely will be sent home on the short end of the score. With a Vernon team in shape and playing at home no team has the edge on the Lions. There's something more or less uncanny about the situation, but the Lions in their own lair are exceptionally tough to down.

If he possibly can make satisfactory arrangements with local officials, Coach A. Y. (Bud) McCallum plans carrying his entire squad of Coyotes to Vernon Friday to see the Amarillo team in action. If arrangements possibly can be made, that game certainly will be well-scouted as far as Wichita Falls is concerned.

Pack Works Late.

Wichita Falls will play Quanah at Spudder park Saturday, it was announced yesterday. This game should prove a good workout for the Pack.

Although Quanah looms as soft pickin's for the Coyotes, Coaches McCallum and Coyal Francis shot the Wichita Falls team along at top gait until long after dark Monday. The squad was drilled largely on fundamentals, working diligently at blocking on the tackling dummy and drilling awry with ball-carriers endeavoring (and some doing it) to run a gauntlet of tacklers lined up and down the field before them. The athletes pegged away until it was too dark to navigate.

Minor Hurts.

Wichita Falls came away from the 20-0 victory over Electra Saturday in comparatively fair physical condition. Allred has a stiff mitt. Chewning has a tight shoulder. One of Mitchell's hips is not in the best of shape and Mills still limps around on a bum peg. All are expected to be ready to play by Saturday afternoon.

With settlement of the district one race still far in the offing, the remainder the state struggle appears to be shaping up fairly well. Beaumont looms as the winner in its section. Temple and Waco stand out as the top clubs in central Texas. The Wildcats smothered Austin last week and loom as a menace to Waco's prestige in district eight. However, interscholastic league fandom winks at this threat as it does all over gestures toward upsetting Tyson's Tigers before they climb as high as the state semi-finals or finals.

LONGHORNS PREPARE FOR KANSAS AGGIES

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Fresh from a near licking at the hands of Baylor university Saturday, the Texas university Longhorns took the training field Monday to prepare for their second intersectional contest of the season. It will be here next Friday, Armistice day, with the Kansas Aggies, the only remaining game before the annual Thanksgiving tilt with Texas A. & M. college.

Widener Sorry For Earl Sande

Suspended Jockey to Be Allowed Hearing

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7. (AP)—Baltimore news today quotes Joseph E. Widener, of the Philadelphia Jockey club, as declaring the action of the Maryland Racing commission in revoking the license of Earl Sande, America's foremost jockey, for alleged foul riding at Pimlico last Friday would be upheld by that body. He also was quoted as criticising the rule as being "too harsh."

"It seems a shame," the News reports Widnener as saying to its representative over the telephone from Philadelphia, "that a boy with the reputation of Sande's should be railroaded. It is criminal."

Sande was accused of bumping Reight Count, the favorite, in the $54,000 Pimlico futurity. He was suspended by the stewards for the remainder of the meeting and after reviewing the complain of the track officials, the racing commission revoked Sande's license. Mr. Widener is the owner of Batteau which Sande was riding when he committed the alleged foul.

According to the News Mr. Widener said the New York Jockey club upheld the ruling of every recognized racing body in the country. In this case no exception will be made.

Sande was said to have gone to New York today in the hope of enlisting the support of Jockey club members in his efforts to obtain re-instatement, the racing commission having consented to grant him a hearing.

SANDE HAS WITNESS.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7. (AP)—Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, has hopes of being vindicated of the charges that caused the Maryland racing commission to bar him from all tracks in North America.

"I am innocent of any wrong," he said, "and I hope to be vindicated and intend remaining here for the purpose of seeing this thing through."

The jockey, whose silks whirled ahead in many a major race, has written asking the commission to grant him an opportunity to tell his story and to introduce three witnesses in his behalf. The witnesses, he declared, are all jockeys who rode in the Pimlico futurity Friday when Sande is alleged to have deliberately cut in front of Reigh County, the favorite, forcing him against the rail and running his stride.

The appeal was posted Sunday and Jervis Spencer Jr., a member of the commission, said the commission would be willing to listen to anything the rider might have to say.

MUSTANGS REST

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (AP)—To enable them to recover from a number of injuries none of which can be termed serious, however, Coach Ray Morrison today ordered a complete rest for the Southern Methodist university Mustangs, who returned home late Saturday after a decisive beating by the Texas Aggies at College Station.

TEXAN WINS AT OXFORD

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Recent word received by W. T. Mather of Austin from his son, Ed Mather, who is at Oxford university in England, told how Ed had won the freshman tennis singles championship at Oxford university. To win the match Mather defeated Di De Villers, another freshman, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, 9-7.

SORDS POINTS

A Lesson in Sportsmanship

BY JACK SORDS.

Every now and then some example of true sportsmanship bobs up that makes a fellow glad he is interested in sports in spite of the many unpleasant instances that are bound to occur, especially in the professional ranks. Money being "the root of all evil" is supposed to be the reason for numerous bits of "off color" stuff, but among the amateurs, as well as the pros, everything is not always as it should be.

The latest bit of professional sportsmanship was exhibited by John Gooch, battery mate of Miljus in the last game of the late and snappy world series. Gooch steps up to bat with the declaration that Miljus' pitch was not a wild one, but a passed ball on his part. He claims that he was squatted down, and the pitch, though a little high on the outside, should have been at least stopped. Whether or not that takes any of the weight off of Miljus' shoulders is another matter. At any rate it was a rare exhibition of sportsmanship.

A NEW ERA IN SHAVING!

The New DARWIN Safety Razor Blades Now Available In This Territory

OUR CHALLENGE

We definitely claim, without any reservation whatever, that Darwin Blades render the old type of safety razor blade obsolete. The Darwin Blade with its Superior Cutting, Rustless Edge, gives a degree of shaving ease and comfort never before believed possible; and it will Stay Sharp Many Times Longer than the average razor blade. Darwin Blades are made in Sheffield, England, the city which has been world famed for its steel for many hundreds of years. But the reason Darwin Blades are so infinitely superior to the old kind is that instead of being manufactured of the corbon steel hitherto universally used for safety razor blades, they have been made entirely of new steel—Patent Cobaltcrom Steel—a triumph of modern invention. The Darwin is the only safety razor blade in the world made of this new steel. That is why it is superior—as far in advance of others as pneumatic tires are of the solid ones. A new honing process is also employed to give the razor that marvelous edge which will be such a revelation to you.

GORMAN BACK IN LOCAL RING

Welterweights Replace Big Boys On Canvas

The big, beefy boys take a recess in Wichita Falls wrestling circles and the little fellows swing back into harness. Weight and brawn give way to science and speed.

The card:

Jack Gorman, San Angelo, versus Kid Nelson, Kansas City. Welterweights, two falls to a finish.

Teddy Waters, Childress, versus Roy Chick, Sydney, Neb. Junior middleweights, two falls to a finish.

Place: 605 Scott arena.

Time: 815 o'clock Friday night.

Efforts were made to bring Dutch Mantell back against Jackie Gorman, Matchmaker Ross said, but declared Dutch would have nothing to do with Jack. Kid Nelson is said to be a fast little article and tough as a boot. He holds a verdict over Matty Matsuda, won in San Angelo.

Roy Chick is another of these roughsters, Ross says. The Nebraskan so out-roughed Mantell in Amarillo, according to Ross, that the inexorable Dutchman ran out of the ring and wouldn't play. That sounds like a fairy tale, but so the story goes. Chick evidently knows his Marquis of Packinghoue.

Gorman never has failed to put up a great fight. If Nelson is good enough to beat Matsuda, then Jack will have his hands full.

GLICK FIGHTS BERNSTEIN

Brooklyn Button-Holer Must Wait For Return Go With Morgan

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—Joe Glick, the Brooklyn button-hole maker, must wait a bit for his second shot at the junior lightweight championship of Tod Morgan, Seattle sharp shooter.

Although Todd took Joe to rather decisively in their first title mixup at Madison Square Garden, last December, a return match was arranged for the state arena late this month, until the New York state athletic commission discovered Jack Bernstein of Yonkers had posted a former challenge.

Now Glick and Bernstein will fight 10 rounds on the Garden card November 14 to decide who shall face Morgan December 16 in a 15-round match for the 130-pound title.

Playing 'em Over

With the Dixie Champions

"SAN ANTONIO, May 20.—Frank Philbin set the stage with a two-bagger to center and Leslie Phipps rang down the curtain with a single through short, scoring Philbin in the ninth inning with two down to win the final game for the Bears in the Spudder series, 5 to 4, Friday before 4000 cheering fans, giving San Antonio two of the three games played and likewise a boost in the percentage column, at the same time checking the Spudder lead."

---

Wichita Falls was riding on the league top three and a half games ahead of the Bears after that defeat. And the Spudders had a long road trip still before them through South Texas.

Joe Kiefer did the pitching for the Williams crew and gave up 10 hits. The Spudders bumped Newman for 14 safeties, but as you know, it's the team that scores the most runs which wins. Mann led our attack with three singles. Fitzgerald, Turgeon and Kiefer each got a couple of blows.

SPORTS through Edgren's EYES

By Robert Edgren

There's only one kind of a popular champion—the fellow who fights.

Little Terry McGovern was the most popular featherweight the world ever looked at. Terry never stepped back. He always rushed forward. For years he knocked out practically all his opponents. His fights were startling and sensational. He was the only fighter of his weight who classed with the big fellows in drawing power. Because "Terrible Terry" delivered the goods every time he stepped into a ring.

Extreme caution, ability to jig lightly out of danger, to dodge and clinch and wrestle and stall, and to fight only in streaks when it seems safe to fight, may prove that the bird who does it is a smart business man, but it doesn't catch the fancy of the crowd.

Young Corbett of Denver, who eventually knocked out Terrible Terry, was another great knockout artist, and extremely popular in his days.

Stanley Ketchel, the greatest middleweight after Bob Fitzsimmons, probably never ran a step backward in his life. He ran forward. I'll never forget the night in Philadelphia when Stanley fought the great Sam Langford, one of the finest fighting heavyweights of them all, who could easily be heavyweight champion if fighting today. For two rounds Langford nearly knocked Ketchel's head off. At the end of the second Ketchel reeled back to his corner. I happened to be sitting at that angle of the ring and I looked up at Ketchel as he tottered home for the minute's rest, looking down, making an evident effort to walk straight. His face was twisted into an expression of fury, and he was grinding his teeth. At the next bell Ketchel leaped from his chair and ran across the ring to meet Sam. Ketchel's first savage right hand hook struck Sam above the ear and split his scalp for a couple of inches. It was a furious fight, with little Ketchel savagely attacking, through the remaining rounds. And physically or in point of boxing skill Ketchel had no right to be fighting Langford. He had one of the greatest fighting hearts ever given a fighter by the god of battles, and no one who ever saw him fight will ever forget this.

Fitzsimmons, Greatest of All Time

Bob Fitzsimmons was the superlative master of fighting men. Weighing only 156 pounds, he knocked out Corbett, the heavyweight champion. Fitzsimmons was thought to have a trick of stalling in many of his fights against bigger men. He was said to have been most dangerous when apparently almost out. When the gigantic Jeffries knocked Bob flat on his back in the second round of their first fight. Fitz got up in time to avoid being counted out. He didn't run around the ring to recover. He jumped at Jeffries and cut loose with the most furious attack Jeff remembers having experienced in any fight. He gave Jeffries a furious fight for 11 rounds. But Jeffries would have knocked out any man living, that night.

When Fitz was hurt he didn't go away. He slipped in close to find an opening for the big punch. Gus Ruhlin had old Bob tottering in the fifth round of their fight. People who didn't want to see the famous veteran knocked out were leaving the pavilion. Then Fitz staggered into Ruhlin in the sixth and knocked the Akron Giant out with a terrific punch over the heart. Afterward, when Fitz was training to fight Jeffries the second time, Ruhlin and I spent a few days boxing with him at Bensonhurst. Gus could jab Fitz with ease, and I told Gus I couldn't see why he didn't fight Fitzsimmons again.

"Oh, this is all right in the gymnasium," said Gus. "He doesn't cut loose and punch. He's a tricky old bird. He played groggy last time and when I thought I had him, he nearly killed me. I thought for two weeks after I got that punch I was going to die. I wouldn't fight him again for a million dollars. When he plays groggy you want to look out."

Old Bob was listening with a grin.

"You don't know 'ow near you 'ad me, Gus," he said. "When I 'it you that last punch I didn't know whether I was on my 'ands or my feet. When I'm groggy I like to let 'em think I'm stalling."

Three men who fought Fitzsimmons have told me he was the greatest puncher and the greatest fighter of his weight on earth. They were Jeffries, Ruhlin and Sharkey. And Bob Fitzsimmons was still popular when he fought his last fight at the age of 52. Even then the glamor of his courage and his puch hung about him.

Fighter's Aggressiveness "Wins" Crowd

What was John L. Sullivan, who was often spoken of as "the most popular man in the world," but an aggressive, furious puncher? Sullivan never ran backward in a fight. But he ran forward a lot. John's first set-to with a good professional was in Boston when Mike Donovan was middleweight champion. Mike was to take on some local boxer, and the boy Sullivan was sent to box him.

"I'll go easy with you, young fellow," said Donovan, knowing Sullivan hadn't been in a ring before.

"You'll be lucky if I don't break your neck," growled Sullivan to the champion. Sore, Donovan decided he'd teach the novice a lesson. Donovan ducked, and Sullivan swung his right arm like a club, hitting Donovan between the shoulder blades and knocking him down so hard his nose was broken by striking the floor. Sullivan became a professional fighter soon afterward, travelled to New York and fought his way to the top in a couple of years.

Jim Jeffries was probably the greatest of all heavyweight champions. He was stronger than any other fighter, weighed 220 pounds in condition, was fast as a middleweight, could box, and could hit as hard as anyone. While not furiously aggressive he had plenty of courage. He never ran from an opponent. He wouldn't step back even in the second fight with Fitz, when Jeffries had both eyes nearly closed, both ears nearly torn off, his teeth loosened, his nose flattened and one cheek bone fractured before he knocked Fitz out.

While fighting his way up, and as champion, Dempsey was reckless and furiously aggressive. He never ran from anybody, never went back unless he was driven back by punches, and then he leaped in against the blows as he did with Firpo, trying to "get started" and fight again. He was a spectacular champion. I think that if he'd had been a little wiser and had followed his own inclinations instead of being influenced by Kearns, in wartime, he would have been the most popular of all champions. He certainly had "color."

It may be that we are becoming so intellectual that we prefer sprinting to fighting, the deft and innocuous jab to the "sock" or the "wallop." But I doubt it. After each clever boxing champion there's always a hard-slugging fellow who comes along when people are tired of boxing, and gets all the glory. There may be a Sullivan or a Jeffries in next year's crop. Sometimes they come up with a rush. Now and then some novice piles up an impressive string of knockouts, and then flops when put against more "class." But one of these may come through. One like this Baker, on the western coast—a tough, reckless youngster with a string of 23 straight knockouts. Or some other with a mental complex limited to driving persistently ahead and hitting until something drops. After all, that's the dauntless fighting men who are remembered when the smart lads are forgotten.

"Juniors" Drill Lightly Monday

Reagan Preps For Game With Brewster Gang

Wichita Falls' three "junior" football teams, the Junior college Indians, Zundelowitz juniors and Reagan juniors, swung back into practice harness Monday.

Reagan under the tutelage of Coach Morris is drilling fora week-end encounter with Brewster's Iowa Park Hawks. The game marks resumption of a long outstanding rivalry which dates back before the one-time Wichita Falls junior high school was divided into two schools, Zundelowitz and Reagan.

Coach Golden has no game game scheduled but hopes to line one up soon.

Ludgate's Junior college Indians are "gameless" for the week with the college mentor looking for opposition. The squad romped through a gay workout yesterday. Their next regularly scheduled mill is with Wesley college here Nov. 19.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The annual rumor that the New York Giants will not return to Sarasota, Fla., next spring, for their training campaign, has bobbed up again. It is said that McGraw has been leaning toward the old location, Texas, for two or three seasons—ever since the real estate circus tent in Florida blew down and fell in the lemonade vat.

McGraw took the Giants to Sarasota several years ago, after becoming interested with John Ringling, the circus man, in real estate ventures there. The presence of the National league club was of great value to the town and surrounding sections, of course.

However, McGraw found San Antonio and the Texas climate ideal for training, and always brought well-conditioned teams out of the Lone Star state. Now that quiet rules in Florida, he feels the urge to switch. On the other hand, he may well figure that should he take his ball team out of Florida, he will leave the center of the baseball stage entirely to the Yankees. And the Giants have been crowded out of the picture far enough as it is.

• • •

Dick Hanley, new coach of the Northwestern university football eleven, which started the present Big Ten season like champions, only to be bumped off by the ignored Illini, was discussing his team after its decisive victory over Ohio State preceding the throwback. "If the boys will put out of their minds all this national championship talk and play football, we'll have a great year," said Hanley.

After the 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of Zuppke's team the week following, Hanley was asked to explain the reversal of form.

"The boys went into the game with an inferiority complex," he said. "The minute the Illinois band, bigger than the Northwestern band, marched down the field, the team decided it was beaten. And so it went all the way through."

However, a calm consideration of facts leaves one with the impression that the victory over Ohio State gave the Northwestern fans too much hope, in view of State's showing later against Michigan, with a team which Coach Wilce of State called better than the one which faced Northwestern.

Which reminds us of the joke now being pulled with keen delight by Wisconsin alumni, students and followers.

"Do you know what was the longest forward pass ever made in the Big Ten?" is the query.

"No, what was it?"

"Northwestern's pass of Thistlethwaite to Wisconsin," replied the witty one.

JOEL HUNT, AGGIE BACK, RATES ALL-AMERICAN, AVERS CRITIC

Conference-Leading Texas Farmers Haven't All Clear Sailing to Southwestern Title

By JINX TUCKER.

WACO, Nov. 7.—As a result of their sweeping victory over the S. M. U. Mustangs, the maroon of Aggieland is now waving aloft in the Southwestern conference. The race lacks much of being over, but the Aggies are showing a pair of flying heels to the balance of the conference, and have a golden opportunity to win the fifth Southwestern conference title for Dana X. Bible. At Kyle field Saturday afternoon, Bible presented a machine, which was invincible, but following that great game, there is bound to be a let-down. The Aggies play Rice on Friday of this week, and because of the fight the Owls always show against the Farmers, they will have an outside chance of victory. Still the individual brilliance of Hunt alone should carry the Aggies to victory and if they can win this week, they ought to have the necessary time to get ready for the Longhorns.

Prestige Raised Again.

The victory of the Farmers over the Ponies Saturday adds to the prestige of the Southwestern conference, for the eastern and midwestern critics can hardly help but note that an S. M. U. team, which slaughtered Missouri, was in turn slaughtered by the Farmers. For the only game Missouri has lost this season has been to the Ponies, and Missouri has won from the Kansas Aggies, Nebraska, Northwestern and West Virginia.

Hunt May Make All-America.

If there is a fair-minded critic in the east or middle west, Joel Hunt will be on the All-America team this year. We can point out a score of backs who have made the All-America in the last six or seven years, who cannot compare with Hunt. If the Aggies can triumph over Rice and then defeat Texas university on Thanksgiving day, there is certainly no good reason why Texas A. and M. should not be allowed to play in the Tournament of Roses game in Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's day. The Pacific coast representative will certainly know it has been somewhere if it does meet A. and M., and if it is looking for real competition that's the team it will play.

Hunt's Punting Phenomenal.

The accuracy of Joel Hunt's punting Saturday was phenomenal. He booted the ball eight times for an average of 43 yards, and so remarkable was his accuracy that never did the S. M. U. safety so much as get his hands on the ball. So you can now add to Hunt's other achievements, the fact that he has developed into the best punter in the southwest.

Baylor made a sensational showing against Texas, but lost the game in a most heart-rending manner in the waning moments of the contest. Still that hardly takes away any of the glory that belongs to Baylor for their fight in that game. Baylor clearly outplayed a formidable Texas team, which was doped to win from the Bears by at least three touchdowns, and while the score reads 13 to 12, the fact remains that each team made two touchdowns. Texas was fortunate enough to add one of the extra points. Baylor "blew" both the chances.

T. C. U. Is Nosed Out.

The T. C. U. Horned Frogs faded from the championship picture as they lost to an Arkansas team, which has now finished its conference schedule with three victories and one defeat. Arkansas was unable to arrange its fourth conference game this year, so it was agreed to let the game with L. S. U. count as a conference game. The Porkers won from L. S. U., Baylor and T. C. U., but lost by an overwhelming score to the Aggies. The Porkers have an outside chance for the flag. They can get it if both the Ponies and Aggies drop another game.

Texas university is now placed in a most unusual position. No doubt the Longhorns would rather for any team in the conference to win the title than S. M. U., but if Texas should win the game from the Aggies on Thanksgiving day, the Longhorns will do naught but win the title for the Ponies, provided the Mustangs win from Baylor and T. C. U., which is quite likely. The Longhorns at this time do not have a mathematical chance of winning the title. They cannot possibly finish the season with a percentage as high as that of Arkansas, and the Porkers have finished their championship schedule.

Games This Week Mean Much.

The game between the Rice Owls and the Texas Aggies, and the contest between S. M. U. and Baylor this week will mean much. The Owls and Bears may flash a surprise. The Owls, battling for Rothegeb, former Aggie coach, will be keyed to the highest pitch of the season. The Aggies, on the other hand, will be stale, and may become careless. It is apt to develop into a great battle. The Baylor team will go to Dallas Saturday, ready to fight every inch of the way, and that may mean considerable. If the Bears can rush Mann as did the Farmers (there will be a chance. It is very doubtful if S. M. U. will play the game against Baylor that it did against A. and M. The Mustangs "shot the works" Saturday, but the Mustangs' best left them a number of lengths behind.

TWO NEW BIG LEAGUE PILOTS

McKechnie Heads Cards, Shotton Leads Phils

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—National league teams will have at least three new pilots for the 1928 pennant race.

This was assured today when two shifts were announced almost simultaneously. One resulting in the selection of Bill McKechnie, to succeed Bob O'Farrell as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and the other sending Burt Shotton to replace Stuffy McInnis, at the helm of the Phillies. The Boston vacancy, created by the departure of aDve Bancroft, to Brooklyn, was filled recently by the appointment of Jack Slattery, Boston college coach.

"Comeback" For Bill.

McKechnie was a Cardinal coach last season and takes over full managerial responsibilities with the hearty approval of the man he succeeds. O'Farrell never has entertained managerial ambitions and succeeded Rogers Hornsby, it is understood, only at the request of President Sam Breadon.

It is a comeback for McKechnie, who led Pittsburgh to a pennant and world's championship in 1925, but was released at the close of the 1926 season after dissention had cropped out in the Pirate ranks.

Shotton a Veteran.

Shotton has played the "big time," outfield for Washington, the Browns and Cardinals but managed the Syracuse Internationals last season, converting them from a second division outfit to a pennant contender and finished in second place.

SAINTS PLAY JACKETS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—Coach Jack Meagher and his St. Edwards Saints started drill in earnest Monday for their most important game of the season with Howard Payne at Brownwood Friday. A win by the St. Edwards club would practically cinch the Texas conference championship for them, while a loss would definitely eliminate them from the race.

Okmulgee Ministers Score Texan's Appearance

OKMULGEE, Okla., Nov. 7. (AP)—Appearance of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth fundamentalist preacher, at the First Baptist church here today, was condemned by the Okmulgee Ministerial Alliance in a resolution voted unanimously.

Dr. Norris spoke at the First Baptist church this morning and was scheduled to speak again this afternoon. The Rev. E. L. Watson, pastor of the First Baptist church, was not invited to attend the alliance meeting. The Rev. A. L. Bowman, pastor of the Southern Methodist church, withdrew before the resolution was voted upon.

The ministers said they were not aiming at Mr. Norris' denomination or views, but were voicing their disapproval of the "character and record of the man."

Dr. Norris was acquitted several months ago of a charge of murdering D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, in his church office.

BODY TORN BY BLAST IN TENT

Funeral Services Today For John Hale, 49,

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 7.—Investigation of an explosion, presumably of dynamite, that instantly killed John Hale, 49, proprietor of a recreational establishment at McCamey, Sunday, continued today with three men arrested by Sheriff Bud Barfield and are still in custody.

No charges had been filed. The suspects maintain their innocence. Two of them were sleeping in a nearby tent, they told officers, when the explosion hurled Hale through the top of his tent, located near the Humble refinery east of McCamey. Save for fractures of the skull, Hale's body was not mutiliated badly. A companion said to have been sleeping with Hale escaped with minor bruises. Cause of the blast is undetermined. No enmity towards Hale is known to have existed and he kept no explosive in his tent.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. John D. Miller of San Angelo, a sister, two brothers and four daughters. Burial will be made here Tuesday afternoon.

AFTER PERIOD OF TORTURE, MAN FINDS RELIEF FROM ITCHING

Skin now entirely healed

Charlestown (Boston), Mass., Dec. 18:—"Last June I had an itching irritation on my back, principally between the shoulders, and also on the back of my hands, extending to the shoulders. The skin was apparently clear of any disorder, but the itching was intense. After a vigorous rubbing with a Turkish towel there would appear two spots, about an inch apart, which bled from the effects of the rubbing. I used Bay Rum and other lotions before I tried your Resinol Ointment. At bedtime my back received a thorough washing with Resinol Soap and a very generous application of Ointment, after which I would rest quite comfortably until about two or three in the morning, when I received another application. A third upon arising would be enough to make me feel at ease during the day. Thanks to the above treatment, the trouble is now entirely healed." (Signed) John John W. Matthews, 1 Crystal Place.

Yield Expected to Fall Short of 1926

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Nov. 7.—The cotton crop of Clay county is about 90 per cent harvested and ginning operations will soon slow off, according to reports from over the county. Bought Her Freedom for Ten Cents!

"IT'S GLORIOUS to have no more dread of faulty elimination. And to know there can be no offense to perspiration, and no need to check it. I would never be without the candy laxative—

CASCARETS

Keeping the System So Clean There Are No Body Odors

A lot of people who never have to take a laxative eat a candy cascaret now and then. Do you know why?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, as they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drugstore has for 10c and 25c.

Seminole Had Hectic Week

Things Pop Fast During Period

TULSA, Okla, Nov. 7.—One of the most hectic weeks that the Greater Seminole oil field of Central Oklahoma has had in its career of 18 months is now history.

Developments there took place frequently last week, and one might be constrained to say—"hourly."

Its decline that has been under way since the Oklahoma Corporation Commission ruled that its output should be restricted to 450,000 barrels a day, the daily pipe line and tank farm capacity, assumed sensational aspects, and when everyone was expecting their sharp declines to become sharper, then the field made a right about face and piled up sensational advances.

While the daily declines were under way, it was decided by some of the proration committee to lift the ban on shooting, swabbing and other field efforts on most of the field, but this decision was not vised by all of the Seminole field operators and the lid was kept intact until Jan. 1, 1928.

Isolated, or outside wells in the Seminole district, anyone if which could open a new pool, were ordered kept shut down or pinched to a small daily output.

New Pools Opened.

At the beginning of the week the Gypsy Oil company had opened a new pool to the east of the Searight pool, the second area of the Seminole field, and northwest of the Cromwell pool, which was Oklahoma's sensation in 1924.

Then the Independent Oil and Gas company and Highway Oil Refining company opened a new pool south of Little River, in the southern area of Seminole.

Twenty-four hours afterwards the Gypsy Oil company found a new pool west of Bowlegs.

At a conference Saturday it was decided to pinch the three discoveries in, thus halting any movement to open up other outside wells.

And, on top of the above developments, the Seminole field is again declining after its 48 hours comeback on Thursday and Friday.

Saturday's and Friday's gauges:

| Area | Sat. | Wells | Fri. | Wells |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Little River | 47,181 | 64 | 46,489 | 62 |
| Bowlegs | 123,174 | 269 | 124,420 | 268 |

| Seminole City | 64,801 | 324 | 64,677 | 325 |

Panhandle Profits For Past Quarter $246,000

RECEIPTS OF COTTON DROP

Market Holds Steady Tone Here

There was little change in cotton Monday, the market closing only two points higher than the close of Saturday.

Prevailing prices paid for the staple in Wichita Falls ranged from 16 to 20½ cents, with very little available at any price.

The slump in local receipts which set in last week, indicating the beginning of the end of the cotton season in this vicinity, continued Monday, with Wichita Falls cotton yards receiving only 29 bales.

There was no change in the cotton seed market. Local gins paid $35 a ton for prime seed.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today, with an early advance followed by reactions. January contracts sold off from 20.99 to 20.87 and closed at 20.88, the general market closing steady at a net advance of 1 to 7 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 12 to 17 points, active months selling about 13 to 18 points net higher in early trading on covering and local buying met southern hedge selling and realizing, and after early buying orders had been supplied, the market appeared to be without much support. Further evening-up in preparation for tomorrow's holiday or the government crop report on Wednesday was dominated by realizing or liquidation of small long accounts.

December sold off from 21.00 to 20.80, or 2 points net lower, while May reacted from 21.27 to 21.12, within 3 points of Saturday's closing quotation. Last prices were within a poin for two of the lowest.

Private reports published the past few days averaged 12,754,000 bales, compared with 12,977,000 a month ago, but in the opinion of local brokers, traders most generally are looking for a government report on Wednesday of around 12¾ million bales and ginnings prior to November 1 of around 10,000,000 bales.

Except for a little flurry of activity at the start, the volume of business was small, suggesting that scattering accounts had been pretty well evened up before the close of last week, leaving the market relatively sensitive to small orders either way.

Exports today 25,977, making 2,290,987 so far this season. Port receipts 73,475. U. S. port stocks 2,281,612.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7. (AP)—Trading in the cotton market today was mostly of an evening-up character in advance of the government's ginning report and yield estimates due Wednesday. December contracts ranged from 21.13 to 21.03 and closed at 21.05, compared with 21.00 at the previous close. The general market closed quiet and steady at a net advance of 5 to 11 points.

The opening was steady, first trades showing gains of 4 to 6 points. Favorable Liverpool cables and map indications for unfavorable and colder weather induced trade buying and prices continued to advance for a time after the start. The demand was supplied on gains of 12 to 17 points with December at 21.13 and March 21.24. Short covering also was in evidence in the early trading.

Some belated liquidation about the middle of the morning carried December down to 21.03 and March 21.10, 10 to 14 points down from the highs. The market gradually improved during the afternoon and prices recovered to within 10 to 13 points of the high, but near the close there was additional liquidation and January made a new low at 21.06, but other active months did not reach their earlier lows. Prices rallied slightly at the end and closed at a small net gain for the day. Exports for the day 25,977 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Wheat developed an upward tendency today, stimulated by reports of rust and frost in Argentina and by smaliness of the United States visible supply increase. Corn displayed marked strenkth owing largely to a forecast of rain or snow throughout the corn belt.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at the same as Saturday's finish to ⅝ cent higher, with corn ⅝ to 1c up, oats showing ¼ to ⅝c to ¾c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Provisions were responsive to an upturn in hog values.

FIRM TONE IN WHEAT TRADE.

Crop Damage Abroad Is Influencing Factor

By Universal Service

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Wheat futures held firm most of the day, the strengthening influence being the fear of crop damage in Argentina. Weather news from that country was quite mixed so that a feeling of apprehension prevailed, having sufficient influence to curtail the selling if not to stimulate any important buying.

Corn ruled firm throughout the session. Offerings were light most of the time and there was covering by shorts and buying by local traders. Weather conditions were less favorable. Oats displayed firmness much of the day while rye was unsettled.

At the close of the session wheat prices were unchanged to ⅛c higher and corn ⅛@1c higher. Oats closed ⅛@⅛c higher while rye was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. Export sales of 400,000 bushels of wheat were reported at the seaboard. Liverpool wheat closed ⅝@1 pence highe. Buenos Aies closed unchanged.

The con maket developed some individual strength because of improved shipping demand from New England and because rain and snow was predicted for most all states. Much of the buying was by shorts but there was also demand from local traders who look for a better market. Offerings were light most of the day. Some local selling developed on the advance. The movement of corn from the interior is fairly liberal but country offerings are now limited.

Oats trade was moderate but market firm.

Rye trade was small and featured by relative easiness o fthe December.

HEALTH CLINIC ON THURSDAY

Dr. John Potts, Fort Worth Will Be in Charge

Plans for the tuberculosis clinic to be held on Thursday of this week at the courthouse are nearing completion, according to Dr. F. R. Collard and A. A. Spencer, members of the organization committee in charge of the clinic and public meeting to be held the same evening.

The clinic will be in charge of Dr. John Potts of Fort Worth, under the auspices of the Texas Public Health association and the Wichita County Medical society. The clinic hours are from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and all tuberculous patients able to attend same are urged to be present for examination by Dr. Potts who has a wide reputation as an authority on tuberculosis and diseases of the respiratory system.

In the evening at 8 p. m. in the district court room, Dr. Potts will give a popular lecture on tuberculosis, following which the Wichita County Tuberculosis association will be organized and a program of work for the new association will be outlined by those interested in the movement. The Wichita County Tuberculosis association will be affiliated with the Texas Public Health association and the National Tuberculosis association.

According to a statement made by the national organization, tuberculosis is very prominent as a cause of death between the ages of 15 and 44. In 1924 there were 101,500 deaths from tuberculosis in the United States, of which number about two thirds were of persons between the ages just mentioned. In other words, about 65 per cent of all deaths from tuberculosis occur during the period of life when a persons is of greatest economic value. In spite of the continued fall in the general death rate from tuberculosis in the United States, it is still the most destructive and fatal disease in the most productive period of the lives of men and women. Of the deaths that occur from all causes in this age group (15 to 44) about one out of every four is due to tuberculosis.

Citizens of Wichita Falls are urged to attend Thursday night's meeting and learn more about this disease which is fatal to so large a group of our people.

State Board May Be Named in Accusation

County Attorney Wayne Somerville announced Monday afternoon that he may file charges against members of the state board of control in a day or two charging them with violation of the "9-54" hour labor law. Two such cases have already been filed against Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent of the Wichita State hospital. Mr. Somerville expressed it as his opinion that as the board of control employs not only Dr. Castner but makes the schedules of time and pay for all employes, they should face charges with the superintendent.

When informed that R. B. Walthall of the board had requested the attorney general to defend Dr. Castner, Mr. Somerville said that he would also ask that department for aid in the prosecution. "It is hard to tell what they will do," he said. The attorney general is supposed to aid in the enforcement of the law and also to act for the state.

BANDITS TAKE $75 LOOT HERE

B. H. Minter's Grocery Here Hijacked

They told the clerk who greeted them at the door that they wanted to get some "steak," but it proved to be a "stake" in the form of $75 and a gold watch with which three men who held up the B. H. Minter grocery, 1914 Polk street, late Monday evening, departed.

The robbery occurred just about dark. Although police and members of the sheriff's force trailed them as far as Lake Wichita, they were unable to catch up with the robbers.

Mr. Minter was in the rear of the store at the cash register, counting the day's receipts, when three unmasked men entered the front door. The clerk, Everett Skelton, who was in the front of the store asked the men what they wanted.

"We want to get some steak," one of the men declared.

One of the robbers remained at the door, as the other two went to the rear of the store. Guns flashed. "Put 'em up and face the wall," one of the bandits directed. Mr. Minter and Skelton obeyed.

The hi-jackers took about $75 from the cash register, and one took Mr. Minter's watch, a 20-jewel D. W. Raymond Elgin. They then left the store, got into a Chevrolet roadster in front and drove away. Police were notified.

Mr. Minter said the men appeared to be about 25 or 30 years old. They were clean shaven, dressed like laboring men and wearing cowboy boots, he said. They were cool and possessed, acting as though they were experienced hands in the business of robbing, he declared.

"Although I was facing the wall most of the time they were in the store, I would recognize them if I see them again," Mr. Minter said.

TRADE AREA SURVEY REGISTERS VALUABLE DATA

C-C COLLECTS SALIENT FACTS

Business Firms Supplied With Information

19,000, with a scholastic population of 4555. There were 3072 telephones in the city that year.

In 1926 the population had increased to 60,119, with 9369 scholastics and 10,365 telephones.

Big Increase Shown.

Ten months later, or on October 10, 1927, there figures had increased to 68,113 population, 10,479 scholastics and 10,750 telephones.

Wichita Falls assessed valuation in 1918 was $10,604,788. In 1926 that had increased to $45,100,000, while this year the assessed valuation is $49,793,260.

Bank deposits have shown similar increases, although they are not so large this year as in 1926. In 1918 bank deposits totalled $10,869,735.44, against $26,133,685.95 in 1926 and $23,419,362.85 this year.

The trade territory population is based on reports from 31 Texas counties and 10 Oklahoma counties. Population of the Texas counties is set at 587,285, and that of the Oklahoma counties at 218,433.

This territory consists of 27,621 square miles in Texas, and 8649 square miles in Oklahoma. The density of population in the Texas area is 20 to the square mile; in Oklahoma, 25.26 to the square mile.

Big Area Surveyed.

Texas counties covered in the survey are: Wichita, Wilbarger, Hardeman, Childress, Hall, Collingsworth, Donley, Briscoe, Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Crosby, Motley, Cottle, Foard, Knox, King, Dickens, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Jones, Baylor, Archer, Young, Stephens, Jack, Clay, Montague, Wise and Cooke.

Oklahoma counties are Tillman, Cotton, Jefferson, Stephens, Comanche, Jackson, Harmon, Greer, Kiowa and Caddo.

Does Wichita county have the "hottest" and "dryest" weather in these United States? Not according to the industrial survey.

A comparison of Wichita weather with that of the far-famed resorts of Miami, Fla., and Los Angeles, Cal., shows that the local climate compares favorably with the best anywhere.

Mr. Chatham's report sets out that, according to government records for the last four years, the average temperature in Wichita Falls has been 64.5 degrees, with an average yearly rainfall of 24.77 inches.

Good Climate Here.

That is not quite as hot as it was out in Los Angeles during 1926, and but slightly warmer than in Miami during 1926.

Government records show that the average temperature in Los Angeles in 1926 was 65 degrees, with a rainfall of 18.56 inches.

In Miami the average 1926 temperature was 61.5 degrees, with 51.39 inches rain.

Wichita Falls is a city of home owners, the report sets out.

"A great many of our laboring people are home owners, which is a most satisfactory condition," the report says. "For the last several years the building and loan associations in Wichita Falls have assisted in increasing home ownership through their associations. They loan up to 50 per cent of the appraised value of the property and offer a sound investment for saving funds. There are now three building and loan associations in Wichita Falls, with total assets on Sept. 1, 1927, of $7,000,000."

Fuel conditions here offer an attractive inducement to industries, it is pointed out.

"Wichita Falls, being located in the Mid-Continent field, is ideally situated to offer very cheap fuel," Mr. Chatham pointed out. "Fuel oil is used by a large number of industries and the supply is abundant. The present value of fuel oil, as of Oct. 15, is 95 cents a barrel. In addition to the supply of fuel oil, Wichita Falls has an abundant supply of natural gas and very cheap electricity.

"An abundant supply of water is available from a chain of three lakes, known as Lake Wichita, Lake Kemp and Diversion lake, with a combined capacity of more than 200,000,000,000 gallons. The water system, municipally owned since 1920, gets its water supply from Lake Wichita, with a reserve supply at Lake Kemp, the seventh largest artificial body of water in the world, impounding 13,070,000,000 gallons."

The report includes statistics regarding oil production in this district since 1923 refineries and production of refined products; transportation facilities; switching facilities street railway accomodations; highways; all public utilities and rates; tax rates in all classes; telephones and telegraphs, fire protection, government, schools, library, hospitals, newspapers, hotels, churches, labor, living conditions and other data that may be desired by prospective investors and industries.

In outlining industries already here, Mr. Chatham said:

"The city is rapidly becoming an industrial and distributing center. Several of the largest plants of their kind in the southwest are located at Wichita Falls. We have one of the largest flour mills in this section, glass factory, fruit jar factory, motor truck factory, 11 oil refineries and many other concerns of various manufacture.

"Wichita Falls also enjoys the rare distinction of being the first city in Texas to be chosen as a manufacturing center for cheese. The creamery industry in Texas has lagged far behind other sections, but early in 1927 the Kraft Cheese company of Chicago, the largest manufacturers of cheese in the world, announced that they were planning on an extensive program in the south and definitely decided on locating their initial plant in Texas at Wichita Falls. Actual construction on this factory began the last of September and it is expected to be in operation by January 1, 1928. The value of this plant to Wichita Falls and Texas is inestimable. It will increase the dairying and diversification in all sections of the state."

Statistics regarding the 70 towns covered in the survey include their population, distance from Wichita Falls, railroads, postal receipts, bank deposits, building permits, railroad tonnage and public utilities.

Texas towns surveyed are: Abilene, Anson, Aspermont, Benjamin, Bomarton, Bowie, Breckenridge, Brownfield, Burkburnett, Childress, Chillicothe, Colorado, Crowell, Decatur, Dodsonville, Dublin, Electra, Estelline, Gainesville, Goree, Graham, Hamlin, Haskell, Henrietta, Iowa Park, Jacksboro, Knox City, Lamesa, Lubbock, Munday, Nocona, Olney, Plainview, Quanah, Post City, Ranger, Rule, Seymour, Snyder, Spur, Stamford, Sweetwater, Tahoka, Truscott, Vernon, Weinert and Wellington.

Oklahoma towns: Altus, Ardmore, Carnegie, Chickasha, Clinton, Comanche, Cordell, Davidson, Devol, Duncan, Elk City, Frederick, Grandfield, Hobart, Hollis, Lawton, Mangum, Roosevelt, Snyder, Tipton, Walters and Waurika.

In concluding his report Mr. Chatham said:

"Wichita Falls is rapidly recoming a manufacturing and distributing center of northwest Texas and southwest Oklahoma. We are far enough away from Dallas and Fort Worth to convince the prospective manufacturer that this is the logical place to locate his factory or branch."

If memory serves one correctly, never has an attraction of such fame and proportions as the Ziegfeld Follies, which will be seen at the Palace theater on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 8 and 9, with matinee Wednesday, appeared in Wichita Falls.

For 20 years the world-famous Follies have been the outstanding annual event in New York City, and so consistently successful has each edition been and so prolonged have been the metropolitan runs that until now it has been impracticable to send the great spectacle on tour to all cities. But now, through special transportation arrangements, by which the huge company travels in its own train, and since it has been found within the realm of possibility to secure famous stars for the tour of the Follies, the cities outside of New York, Boston and Chicago will have an opportunity of seeing what is perhaps the world's greatest celebrated musical entertainment intact, and, it is understood, in all its gorgeousness, exactly as presented annually at the New Amsterdam theater, New York.

For the 20th edition which is to be seen here, Joseph Urban designed the settings and Ben Ali Haggin supplied the lavish tableaux, which have ever been a feature of the Follies. The music is by George B. McConnell and James Hanley. Gene Buck and Irving Caesar are responsible for the lyrics, rhymes and jingles, while the comedy scenes are the work of J. P. McEvoy, whose recent successes include the Potters and Americana.

Brilliant names are found in the cast, including Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and their Denishawn Dancers, internationally famous dance stars, also a special ballet, and many principals, whose names are familiar to theatergoers throughout the land. Seats are on sale at the Palace theater box office.

Federal Agent Accused of Talking To Member of Teapot Mistrial Jurymen

William J. Burns Accuses U. S. Assistant Attorney General of Making Contact With Jury Member

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—Back fires were started today from two different sources by those who have come under grilling in the government investigation of charges of jury tampering in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial.

William J. Burns, founder of the detective agency bearing his name, gave life to the first with a charge that the only agent who made contact with any member of the now dismissed jury was not a Burns man, but an employe of the federal government itself. That employe promptly gave the "lie" direct to the accusation.

Juror Asks Hearing.

Edward J. Kidwell, celebrated juror No. 11, got back into the limelight by filing a petition with Justice Siddons asking for a contempt rule against the street car conductor and newspaper reporter who said he talked freely about the case during the trial and expressed the hope of getting an automobile a block long. Action on the petition was deferred.

While these events were occurring on the outside, the grand jury inquiring into formal charges of attempts to influence the jury laid against Harry F. Sinclair and his confidential agent, Henry Mason Day, drove ahead steadily with its work, examining eight witnesses and preparing to continue its inquiry for many more days.

Burns Before Jury.

Burns, chief under Harry M. Daugherty of the department of justice, bureau of investigation, was the first of the day's witnesses. He came out of the grand jury room bubbling over with conversation, which he carried on with newspaper corespondents for nearly an hour.

With six of the Burns men who shadowed the jury as a backfield audience, the internationally known detective lauded the virtues of his own men and startled his listeners with a demand to know why the district attorney had not made public a "complaint and affidavit" filed by his agents with Justice Siddons last Friday making charges against a government man.

Burns Accuses Two.

"The only person who has made contact with on of the jurors was a government employe and a newspaper reporter," he declared in a high pitched voice that must have carried to the grand jurors in a nearby room.

There was a scattering of news men, some heading for District Attorney Gordon's office and others for the chambers of Justice Siddons.. The justice, who was holding court, said he had received no such "complaint and affidavit" in the case. Gordon asserted he had never seen anything like it and that Burns was in error if he contended, as he did, that the facts recited were in the reports seized by government agents in the raid on the Burns men" headquarters at the Wardman Park hotel.

Later Burns made public copies of what purported to be affidavits of two of his operatives, William V. Long and F. J. O'Reilly. That by Long told of following an automobile bearing the license P-1738 to the Potomac flying field across the Potomac river from Washington, where the occupant talked with Norman J. Glascock, juror No. 10. This was on October 22, ten days before the government had a mistrial declared.

O'Reilly's affidavit was that the car bearing the license P-1738 was owned by Harry R. Lamb, a special assistant attorney general, who, the reports of the operatives showed was shadowed for days and nights, or at least the car bearing the license was.

Accused Man Called.

Lamb was promptly summoned and sent before the grand jury. When he came out he declared that the allegations respecting him made by the Burns men were "lies;" that he never had been at the Potomac flying field in his life; that on October 22, the day it was claimed his car was there, the car was in a shop for repairs and he did not obtain it until late in the day. When he drove to the Washington golf and country club in nearby Virginia, to play golf.

Neil Burkinshaw, assistant district attorney directing the grand jury inquiry, said the Lamb matter was a piece with many other things found in the reports of the operatives; charges which when run down proved to be without any foundation in fact.

Burns Defends Day.

Burns freely conceded to newspaper men that Henry Mason Day employed the detective agency now conducted by his son to shadow the members of the oil conspiracy jury; declared that this was a proper thing for "the defense" to do and asserted that such employment was justified by "the facts" obtained as to a government employe making contact with a juror.

"None of the Burns men made contacts with the jurors," he added. "Of course, they could not legally do that and if any did we will be glad to assist in his prosecution."

ARCHER CITY COURT OPENS

State to Announce Ready In Burrier Case

Judge E. G. Thornton of the 30th district court Monday morning impaneled the Archer county grand jury and work on criminal cases was started with District Attorney Ben Allred in charge. There are but few cases to come before the inquisitorial body and it is expected to complete its work in three days.

Before leaving for Archer City Mr. Allred said that the state will announce ready Nov. 14 when the trial of J. W. Burrier is called. Burrier is charged with the murder of John McDaniel, filling station operator between Wichita Falls and Archer City. He is also under indictment for the robbery with firearms in connection with a holdup of the filling station.

Burrier will attempt to prove an alibi and claims the charge is a case of mistaken identity.

Mayor Loses Car While at Revival

Has anyone seen a gray and tan Chrysler roadster, bearing Montague county license No. 704-860? If so, Mayor R. E. Shepherd would like to know just where it was seen and who was driving it.

The mayor drove the car downtown Monday night and parked it near the First Christian church. He attended the revival services being held at the church. When he came out at the conclusion of the services his car was gone.

Police were notified of the theft at 9:45 o'clock, but had not found the car at an early hour Tuesday morning.

Police Hold 30 Men In Bandit Inquiry

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (AP)—Thirty persons were being held by police here today for investigation in connection with robberies of two groceries and a filling station Saturday night in which $471 was taken. Two unmasked bandits took $115 from the till of the filling station, others held up a grocer and his wife and escaped with $6 while an unmasked man held up the manager of a chain grocery at the point of a six shooter and escaped with $350.

The Dangerous Age

The caveman thought he was living in a dangerous age. Little did he know how safe he was. But how could he guess that his descendants would be killed off by the thousands by huge steel monsters breathing smoke and fire? He never heard of automobile accidents—he never heard of hospitals or nurses or doctors—or doctor bills.

Wichita Falls Wholesale And Jobbing District Shows Growth

New Warehouses for Biggs and Company and Standard Sanitary Mfg. Company Add to Area

A new wholesale and jobbing district is springing up in Wichita Falls almost "overnight."

This district is located in the blocks bounded by 14th and Lamar, 15th and Scott, where two large warehouses are already under construction and additional improvements are being planned for the new year.

Biggs and company, distributors of gin and mill supplies, are having a modern, two-story warehouse erected at 14th and Lamar, fronting on the latter street. This company's warehouse is now located on Ohio, between Sixth and Seventh streets.

The Standard Sanitary Mfg. company, distributors of plumbing supplies with headquarters at Dallas, is having a warehouse erected at Scott and 14th, on lots adjoining the Biggs building.

Water Mains Enlarged.

With the prospect of this district becoming one of the leading warehouse sections of Wichita Falls within a short time, the city is changing the water mains which serve that area, replacing the small pipes with a six-inch line. This will increase the water power and fire protection for this budding commercial district.

The Biggs building is 100 feet by 150 feet, and will be two stories with a 40 by 100-foot basement. It will front on Lamar.

A steel shed, 40 by 150 feet, adjoining the main building is being erected on the south side. It will be used for storage of steel pipe.

The front, ground floor of the main building will be divided into offices.

The entire north side of the building will be fitted with rows of bins for the storage of pipe fittings and small articles.

The second floor will be a mazzanine, with a big monitor skylight, 90 feet long, affording illumination. The skylight will cover two-thirds the area of the building.

The building will be equipped with freight elevators.

The structure will be of brick, with basement of reinforced concrete.

A sprinkler system costing $3500 will be installed, for use in case of fire. This system, it is said, will materially cut down the insurance rates.

Plans Factory.

James Biggs, head of the company, plans eventually to establish a factory in the building where leather belting will be made, it is said.

John Tulloch of Sherman was the architect who drew the plans for the structure.

A. H. Smith of Fort Worth and Wichita Falls is the contractor, with R. S. Smith, local representative, actively in charge of the job.

These contractors have had offices here for about a year and a half. R. S. Smith, the local contractor, practically "grew up" in the contracting business, having worked at it since a young man. He came here from Fort Worth, and has been actively engaged in contracting and architectural work in this vicinity for the last 18 months.

He has from 15 to 20 men employed on the job, and increases that number to as high as 50 when needed. The building will probably be finished by December 15, Mr. Smith said.

Two-Story Building.

The Standard Sanitary building will also be two stories high, fronting on Scott avenue.

The building will be 71 feet wide by 150 feet long. J. A. Kemp is having it built for the Standard company at an approximate cost of $28,000 to $30,000. It is scheduled to be completed by January 1.

There will be a show room and lobby in the front of the building. This section of the house will have terrazzo floors, black and yellow marble walls in white sanitas paper, picture and cornice moulds and interior decorations in enamel.

Contractors declare it will be one of the best equipped show rooms for plumbing supplies between Dallas and Denver.

The building will be equipped with freight elevator service with hydraulic power, and other modern devices.

Spur Track Constructed.

R. C. Cato of Wichita Falls is the general contractor, actively in charge of construction. He has been here since 1909, and has supervised the erection of many buildings in this city and vicinity.

Voelcker and Dixon of this city were the architects.

Mr. Herblin, general manager for the Standard Sanitary Mfg. company for the Panhandle and southern Oklahoma, will be manager of the plant here. He previously has had to depend upon the Dallas warehouse for distribution of merchandise in this territory.

The Denver railroad has laid trackage in the alley between the two buildings to take care of their shipping. The spur will also be able to take care of the shipping of other plants that may be erected in that vicinity.

New Sidewalks Are Planned at Crowell

CROWELL, Nov. 7. — Property owners on California street are making plans to construct sidewalks along that street from the business district to the intersection of the FFF highway, it is reported. Many school children traverse this street and the sidewalks will be of great benefit to them.

DRIVE UP AND DOWN

the residence streets of this city and look at the pretty homes, not the expensive mansions, but those occupied by, as Mr. Bryan used to call them, the "Great American Average Man." Look at those well kept yards. A visitor from New Orleans told us recently he had never seen so many pretty yards. Notice the general good appearance of these hundreds and thousands of homes and then consider that this institution is aiding nearly 2000 people to own such homes successfully in a way that they can pay for them out of regular monthly income with assured complete ownership in a given time. You can then get some idea of how this company has helped and is helping to build Wichita Falls. We will lend you the money to own a home.
