Area Farmers Attend Soil Meet Friday Night

Farmers and business men from Hall, Donley, Collingsworth, and Childress counties packed one side of the Memphis High School gym Friday night to hear O. Dooley Dawson, manager of the agricultural department of the Second National Bank of Houston and see a film "This Is Our Land."

A forceful exponent for improvement of the nation's critical soil conditions, Dawson told the assemblage gathered in the high school gym that exhausted soil means the ultimate deterioration of the nation. Hall County, he said, showed a spirit of progressiveness, but must maintain its vigilance and strive for improvement.

"This section is fortunate in not having any more rainfall than it has," the speaker said. "The soil here is particularly susceptible to erosion by rainfall."

Progress of the county in its soil conservation program was outlined by Hall County Agent W. B. Hooser, acting master of ceremonies, who said that contour farming and terracing were practiced on 80 to 85 per cent of the land. Over 2,000,000 linear feet is in terracing and 54,222 cubic feet of dams have been constructed on farms, he said.

C. D. Peckenpaugh, vice president and general manager of the Burlington lines, told the farmers that in their hands lies the future of railroad transportation. "About 95 per cent of the freight revenue comes from the soil," he said. "We realize that the future of transportation lies in the future of the soil."

Hall County Judge John Russell, president of the one variety cotton program for this county, gave his personal experiences in conservation and the benefits he had derived from the practices.

The fire department answered a call to West Noel street last Friday afternoon when a school bus caught fire.

The bus had just loaded and left the school. The motor burst into flames when the bus stopped at an intersection, but by the time the children had unloaded it had burned out.

Fire department officials said the fire was started by gas leaking from a faulty carburetor.

Final Date for Cotton Insurance Is January 31

All Hall County farmers who wish a guarantee on cost of production for their 1947 cotton crop should contact the AAA office before January 31, the closing date for accepting applications for cotton insurance, according to Lynn McKown, ACA secretary.

The Crop Insurance Corporation will pay approximately $4 in losses for every $1 paid out by Hall County farmers in premiums for the 1946 crop, McKown said. Out of 300 farmers covered by insurance in 1946 over 200 will be paid losses on their crops. The continuous loss paid by the government on cotton every year has caused premiums to be raised and coverage reduced, McKown stated.

The 1947 cotton insurance program does not offer a guarantee of profit on the cotton crop, McKown said, but for a given rate it guarantees cost of production and places cotton farming on a level with industry by insuring the producer against risk on production costs.

McKown reminds farmers that (Continued on Page 8)

WOLF POISONING IS PLANNED FOR PRECINCT NO. 3 DURING FEBRUARY

January 31 Is Last Day for Donations To March of Dimes

The March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is a "living memorial" to Franklin D. Roosevelt, R. C. Lemons, local campaign director of the 1947 March of Dimes declared this week. Hall County contributions will be accepted through January 31, Mr. Lemons said, so that all will have a chance to give to this cause.

Mr. Lemons asserted that the late Mr. Roosevelt would have preferred the American people to commemorate him in a living institution like the March of Dimes, dedicated to alleviation of human suffering, rather than in monuments of stone or bronze.

The statement by the campaign director said: "The March of Dimes is our living memorial to a great American humanitarian, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Stricken by infantile paralysis, he lived to see the day when the world would be free of this scourge." (Continued on page 4)

Arden Gains in War Should Be Held in Peace, Says President

Victory Gardens in Peace, Urged by Truman

The following statement by the President was read to the National Garden Conference in Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson:

"An important factor in winning the war was the magnificent contribution of food production by our Nation's Victory Gardeners. In peace this potent force should be kept organized and encouraged in its pursuit of the art of gardening."

"The value of gardening in building strong bodies, healthy minds and a happy people has never been greater. Today we need physical strength to increase production of all the commodities the nation needs; we need moral strength to combat confusion and other economic dislocations; we need spiritual strength to see us through the trying days of post-war adjustment. We need clear minds to cope with the problems of establishing a lasting peace. Today we need relaxation, happiness and congenial relationships among our people."

"These needs can be met in great part by a continuing program which involves the participation of millions of Americans in home gardening. Eating more nutritious foods, improving home surroundings and aiding community development will make this land of ours an even better place to live in."

Washington, D. C.—Eighteen million vegetable gardens are in the United States next to the National Garden Conference which met here was told, in order to maintain a high level of nutrition in this country in spite of the increasing cost of living, President Truman, Secretary of Agriculture, and other leaders praised the accomplishments of the nation's Victory Gardeners during war years, and urged that the activity be continued in peacetime, not only for its food values, but for its social and educational values.

The value of home gardens to national defense was also stressed by the conference, which cited as a reason for a permanent campaign:

"The need for keeping the art of gardening alive as a defense measure against any emergency such as war, drought or economic collapse. We should not lose the art of gardening."

1. That all existing garden groups and organizations be encouraged to assist veterans and new gardeners in 1947 in the finding of plots and instruction in cultural methods to be used in each area. That maximum opportunity be given rural and urban groups and Junior Garden Clubs to participate.

2. That labor and management work together in a common ground in establishing a garden program for employees.

3. That the Department of Agriculture use its Extension Service and other organizations as mediums of publicity in each of the 48 states to publicize the need for home gardens in 1947.

4. That the value of home gardens to national defense was also stressed by the conference, which cited as a reason for a permanent campaign:

"The need for keeping the art of gardening alive as a defense measure against any emergency such as war, drought or economic collapse. We should not lose the art of gardening."

Program for 1947.
The week of February 2-8 designated as National Garden Week.
At June 9-14 be designated as National Home Food Preservation Week.
That the 1947 National Garden Conference be held during the week of November 2-8.

Poster Girl's Mother Makes Drive Appeal

An appeal to women in every community for greater giving to the March of Dimes was received at campaign headquarters here from Mrs. Frank Drury of Louisville, Ky., mother of the 4-year-old poster girl who symbolizes the fight against infantile paralysis.

In making the letter public this week, R. C. Lemons, chairman of the March of Dimes committee, said:

"All of us have a tremendous stake in the fight against polio. No child or adult will be safe until the preventive for this hideous disease is discovered. Nancy's mother, Mrs. Drury, speaks to us all and for us all. She asks that we do our part, not only by contributing ourselves, but by telling everyone how her child, like thousands of others, escaped crippling through the help provided by the March of Dimes."

Nancy Drury was stricken when the infantile paralysis epidemic swept through Kentucky in 1944. She is a completely healthy and normal child today. Only her immediate family can still see traces of the disease which attacked her viciously then as it attacked more than 25,000 Americans last summer in the worst epidemic the nation has known for thirty years.

Your local chapter will tell you, as mine told me, where to go and how to get the best modern treatment for your child.

"We're proud that Nancy was chosen to be the poster girl for the 1947 March of Dimes. She wants to do her part to make sure there will always be help for other children who might need it. Help us help the others. It is our only way of thanking you for the help you gave us through the March of Dimes."

In the last 50 years, potato yields in the United States have increased a bushel an acre each year.

Interest Is High In Farm Terracing

The new soil program has been in operation but about three weeks, and already approvals have been issued for around one-third as much terracing as was issued during all of 1935, according to Lynn McKown, ACA secretary.

Around 14 different crews are in operation in the territory, McKown said. One reason behind the high interest in terracing is the cooperative effort of AAA, the extension service, and the soil conservation service.

Around 2,000,000 feet of terraces were constructed last year, McKown said. This was one of the highest figures in the United States for county terracing.

pressure than a losing team," Woodson declared. "They have a better chance to develop character, for it is much harder to keep a team progressing when it is winning."

In his introduction of the speaker, C. R. Kinard of Abilene said that Woodson had the unique record of having won 71 games, lost 9, and tied 3.

Toastmaster Ace Gailey was introduced by Homer Tucker. Tucker also introduced special guests. Supt. W. C. Davis introduced the coaches, and Coach Curtis Kelley in turn introduced the Cyclone squad members. J. Claude Wells, Democrat editor, gave a short talk on the value of a clean, unselfish athletic program and explained the basis of the selection of the outstanding linesman and back. He then named McQueen and Hickey.

After Coach Woodson's talk he showed color films of the Hardin-Simmons-Texas Tech game and the Hardin-Simmons-Denver game.

paralysis in the prime of life his indomitable courage in overcoming his affliction made him a symbol to thousands similarly affected.

"Through his own sufferings his great spirit flamed with a love for all humanity. His personal fight to surmount his physical handicap caused by this cruel disease encouraged and gave hope not only to those stricken like himself but to the people of the entire nation and world.

"So that his own inspiration could be kept alive and handed on to polio sufferers in the nation Franklin D. Roosevelt founded the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to carry on to victory the fight against the disease.

"During his life he infused this crusade with his own unconquerable resolution and handed on the torch of his magnificent faith to the people of the nation. More than anything else he wished to see the elimination of this disease which has left a legacy of human wreckage in its trail down through the ages.

"To Americans who believe in things of the spirit more than purely material things, he bequeathed this great living memorial to carry on what was dearest to his own great heart. It would be his desire that we commemorate him not in monuments of stone and bronze but rather enshrine his memory in a living institution dedicated to the alleviation of human suffering.

"In giving to the March of Dimes we are carrying out a duty we owe to a great man, a great humanitarian and a great American."

Top Entertainment To Small Audience In "Shining Hour"

The West Theatre presented "The Shining Hour" at the high school auditorium last Friday evening to a small but enthusiastic audience of about 100.

Producer Charles Thomas' portrayal of David Linden, the sensitive young farmer, drew top comment from the play-goers. His able development of this demanding and dramatic role drew heavy applause from the Memphis audience.

Conflict in the play started from the time Henry Linden brought his beautiful and charming wife, Mariella, to live with his family on a Connecticut farm. David, Henry's brother, falls in love with Mariella, and she with him. David was already married to Judy, whom the whole family loved. Judy, rather than spoil the happiness of her husband, tells Mariella and David to go away with each other. She then walks into a burning barn and is killed.

Keith Wheeler's drama rang true, with the exception of a lack of realism in the climax—but the tense pattern was well developed by the competent cast.

A reception was given the staff after the play by members of the Memphis Little Theatre. Coffee and sandwiches were served.

Training School For Inseminators Is Organized

A training school to qualify individuals as technicians in the artificial insemination of dairy cattle will be held at Texas A. and M. College February 4-14.

Richard E. Burleson, assistant dairy husbandman of the Texas A. and M. College extension service, states that the school will be open only to those who will become available as technicians in Texas artificial breeding associations. Enrollment will be limited to ten students.

Qualifications for a technician's position include dairy or farm experience, an interest in dairying,

Sophomore News

By SCHOOL REPORTER

The sophomore class met at the roller rink about 7 o'clock Monday night for a skating party. The floor was reserved by the class in order that the sophomores would have the entire floor. Skating lasted until 10 o'clock and was one of the best parties of the year.

Burleson announces that prospective artificial breeding technicians who wish to take the training course should send an enrollment application, along with their qualifications, to the Dairy Husbandry Department, Texas A. and M. College, College Station, Tex. Individuals accepted for enrollment will be notified.

Soil Program Is Profitable

Any farmer is likely to agree that if he could put money in the bank and draw 95 per cent interest, he'd have a very profitable deal.

While he won't find a bank around that will offer him a proposition like that, there is a deal that will bring him profits on the same basis, says Dr. Roy L. Donahue, farm unit demonstration supervisor of the Texas A. and M. College extension service. And Dr. Donahue is talking about fertilization as a part of a soil building, crop rotation program.

A farmer can put into the soil five pounds of minerals—lime, phosphorus, potash—and take out 100 pounds of dry grass, explains Dr. Donahue. He can look at the 95 pounds as interest on the fertilizer investment. And where does the 95 pounds come from? From the air and water says Dr. Donahue, which the good Lord has provided free. In fact, 95 per cent of the dry weight of plants comes from air and water.

Applying fertilizer and growing soil building legumes is like reversing the process of investment—putting in the interest and drawing out the principal. The interest, in this case, is lime, phosphorus, and potash.

HANGER GAS

By AIRPORT REPORTER

Two more Civil Aeronautics inspectors, Frank Canier and W. A. Smith of Amarillo, visited the airport on Thursday of last week. They inspected facilities for veterans' training, and gave the Memphis Air Service the go-ahead signal for approved veterans' flight training. They were flying the well-known AT-6 advanced trainer, and found the field more than adequate for their fast and powerful pursuit-type ship.

Another AT-6 was flown into the field on Saturday by Cecil Hunter of Amarillo. Cecil is better known as "Stuttering Sam" of radio fame. He was returning from Mangum, Okla., where he furnished entertainment for a civic club program. Cecil is an experienced pilot with 3,500 hours of flying to his credit, and operates an extensive training and sales business for aircraft at the municipal airport in Amarillo. He was accompanied by his six-year-old son.

A new use for aircraft was demonstrated last week by the West Texas Utilities Company which had a converted L-5 here with special radio equipment used to locate points of radio interference along power lines. Members of the armed forces will remember the L-5 as the army ship used for just about anything from liaison to emergency evacuation of wounded from advanced positions. Hence, the novel use of the plane for checking radio interference will come as no great surprise to army veterans.

W. D. Watkins flew up from Abilene recently to conduct business with the West Texas Cotton Oil Company here. He was flying a twin engine Cessna transport which had been converted from the army UC-78 executive transport.

Eddie Foxhall brought his converted UC-78 from Dallas Sunday. The ship carries five people and can be quickly set up as a flying ambulance. The trip from Dallas took an hour and thirty minutes. Eddie plans to keep the ship on the airport here.

Bob Sweeney, an Ercoupe distributor from Oklahoma City, dropped in Sunday. He was on his way to Clarendon, but stopped here to look over the airport which he had not known to be in existence. He spent the afternoon giving demonstration rides to Charlie Meacham, T. D. Weatherly, Ed Hutchinson, Billy Balley, Carl Harrison, and Wendell Harrison. Incidentally, Bob never did get to Clarendon, his original destination.

Two ships from Turkey have been into the airport several times lately. Billy Fuston and Roy Fuston came over in Billy's Piper Cub, and Lewis Eudy, with his brother, have visited here in their Interstate Cadet. Billy now operates the field at Turkey. He has hanger space for three ships and is developing excellent sodded landing strips.

S. J. Brazelton of Roaring Springs came in Sunday in his Super Cruiser, and spent the day visiting with old friends here. He is a former Memphis resident.

Frozen-Food Plan Presented

Whether to buy a home freezer or rent space in a community food locker—that's a question that many frozen-food conscious farm families are trying to decide now.

A good answer to that riddle for an average family of four is a combination of both sides of the question, says Miss Gwendolyn Jones, food preservation specialist of the Texas A. and M. College extension service. Combining rented locker space with a small home freezer of about six cubic feet is a solution that appears to strike a good balance between cost and convenience.

Here's how she has it figured: A six-cubic-foot home cabinet with separate freezing compartment will provide enough space for freezing and storing those fruits and vegetables that are brought in each day, until they are ready to be taken to the locker. And when the growing season is over, the cabinet furnishes plenty of storage space for a number of packages of each type of frozen food, as well as space for left-over and cooked foods. Assuming that such a home freezer would last ten years, and figuring in the purchase price and operating costs, a six-cubic-foot box will cost the family about $73 a year to own and operate.

Then, renting three food lockers at $12.50 each, and using locker plant facilities for handling meat, the total cost per year of both the lockers and the home freezer amounts to about $155. This plan costs a family only a little over 80 cents a week more than if they depended entirely upon the community food locker, says Miss Jones. And in return they have a good supply of frozen foods at home, and higher quality fruits and vegetables due to faster handling from garden and orchard to the home freezer.

Guthrie Wins Seven Ribbons In Bantam Show

O. R. Saye and Roy L. Guthrie, attended the Texas All Bantam Show at Dallas Saturday. Guthrie showed fourteen bantams and took seven ribbons. Saye, who has White Wyandotte bantams strictly as a hobby, did not show any birds.

The places captured by Mr. Guthrie were: first and fourth hen, third cock, fourth cockerel in Partridge Cochins; fourth cockerel, eighth and ninth hens in Silver Sebrights.

In addition to the regular show which ran from January 23 to January 27, Dallas entertained 14 national meets and 7 district and state meets. The national meets were: The National Meet of the American Bantam Association, The American Silkie Club, American Barred Plymouth Rock Club, Sebright Club of America, National Rhode Island Bantam Club, International Mille Fleur Club, Rose Comb Bantam Club of America, United Minorca Bantam Club, Texas Cornish Club, Wyandotte Bantam Club, Japanese Bantam Association, United Orpington Club.

The district and state meets were: Sooner Bantam Club, American Cochin Bantam Club, Dallas Bantam Club, Hamburg Bantam Club, Fort Worth Bantam Club, San Antonio Bantam Club, Texas Bantam Association.

There were 2,775 bantams exhibited from 35 states and the Dominion of Canada. Some 150 fanciers and breeders from more than 20 states attended the annual banquet in the Jefferson Hotel.

Plaska will have charge of the show barn. The buyer will be given a certificate to assure him of getting the calf he bid in at the auction. Plans are underway to construct a special auction stand, Potts said.

"Boys will receive ribbons and prize money immediately after the class has been judged, Mr. Potts announced. Calf and swine entries will be as previously announced in The Democrat. There is an increase over prize money offered last year. The grand champion will receive a $30 award, and the reserve champion will receive a $20 award.

"The 4-H and FFA committee of the chamber of commerce is determined to provide a permanent home for the annual calf show," J. B. Crockett, chamber of commerce manager said, "and the committee has received excellent cooperation from the business men of Memphis on this matter."

Committeemen present at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon were Chairman T. M. Potts, M. C. Allen, Frank Foxhall, T. E. Noel, Arthur Gidden of Plaska, Frank Monzingo, J. F. Smith, Doc Saye, and Clyde Milam.

Four others injured in the crash were A. W. Frost, Wilma Byrene Glenn, and Donald Ray Berry of Amarillo, and Forest A. Richardson of Electra.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewett and Carol were riding in a model A Ford sedan, headed west. Richardson, Berry, Frost, and Miss Glenn were riding in a 1941 Mercury driven by Frost, going east.

The accident occurred about 1:15 o'clock. Investigating patrolmen said that Jewett had apparently started to make a left turn on to a side road. The Mercury sedan, in its own lane, crashed almost head-on into the lighter car.

Womack ambulances from Hedley, Memphis, and Clarendon took the injured to the hospital.

Mr. Howell pointed out that all chapter chairmen serve without pay. "The time and effort spent in this work is a contribution to the community welfare," he said, "and it should be recognized as such by the public."

Dog Owners Warned To Vaccinate, Get Tag; Rabies Found

Dogs must be vaccinated and licence tags must be purchased, city officials warn Memphis dog owners. The time limit has been extended to March 1, but after that time action will be taken concerning stray dogs, W. P. Baten, chief of police, stated.

Old tags expired January 1, and Glen Carlos, city tax collector, reports that few new tags have been purchased.

Two dogs with rabies were killed in Childress Tuesday, it was reported, and the heads have been sent to Austin for verification. The disease is thought to be spreading from coyotes.

Tournament Play Is Postponed

District basketball tournament play has been postponed for one week and will be played at Lakeview February 7-8 and 14-15, according to a decision at a recent district basketball meeting. District games will be played off in a round robin, with Lakeview and Shamrock being named as favorites, it was announced.

At the end of this school semester, with only half of the basketball schedule completed, Memphis had lost three players because of ineligibility, according to an announcement by school officials. These players are Larry McQueen, Jimmy McElreath, and Dink Miller. Boys remaining on the squad will be back for two or more seasons with the exception of Bill Hickey who will be back for one season.

Baptists to Make Religious Survey

Providing weather conditions are favorable a group of workers from the First Baptist Church will attempt to call at each home in the entire city of Memphis on Sunday afternoon, February 9, in an effort to obtain information which will help the churches of Memphis be of better service to the people, according to an announcement by the First Baptist Church.

Pastors of other churches have agreed to cooperate in this move. In return all information concerning each church will be forwarded to the respective churches just as soon as the census has been completed.

A recheck of the county clerk's records on vital statistics prove The Democrat erred in stating there were no twins born in the county last year. The recheck showed Oma Jane and Ima Jean were born June 10, 1946, to Mr. and Mrs. Welding Duke of Memphis, and while the county clerk's records did not show it, twins were born November 11 at a local hospital to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McKnight of Clarendon. Their names are Diane and Deana, and they are the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Ott Bevers of Lakeview. That should put the record straight, but since the error was made one J. O. Fitzjarrald thinks some more should be said about the matter. He has been trying for months to get The Democrat to run a personal item to the effect that Ott Bevers was NOT in town Monday, and that "Ott Bevers received two government checks when he shouldn't have received but one. He was paid for two shelter belts, when he had but one—the other being a cocklebur patch." We wouldn't run them and still refuse to run them, for Ott is paying us by the year to not run anything about him that Fitzjarrald tries to get us to print.

By the way, I have an idea that other sets of twins were born in Hall County, and their births were probably reported in The Democrat following the blessed event just like the McKnight twins were reported the week they were born. If they were omitted I am sorry. On the other hand, I am glad that a prolific county like Hall did produce some twins.

Those who have a part in publishing The Democrat are always proud to know that their efforts are not entirely in vain. Following the editorial in last week's issue about the chamber of commerce, written by Bill McCoy, news editor, many compliments have been received personally, by telephone and by letter. In closing his orchid to phis, George Young of said: "That's the editors this week's issue of The Democrat . . . and we should join the publishers of newspaper in extending congratulations to the chamber of commerce of Memphis, men, our bouquet! And here's wishing you success through the year come!" In addition, Mr. wrote J. B. Crockett, manager, and enclosed a his comments over the part of that letter is here "May I take this liberty that, in addition to a fan of commerce, your has a splendid newspaper remarks on the recent were inspired by an editor The Memphis Democrat, quoted liberally from a torial. I should like to your city is indeed form have outside representa the creditable Democrat am sure all of you must appreciate the good work by its publishers."

Wouldn't such things person glow and glow whether he be one of the on The Democrat or a official of the Memphis of commerce?

The Democrat is making annual designation of the ing lineman and back of phis Cyclone football two outstanding 1946 were recognized at the banquet given by the Thursday night. ENTERS "SLICK CHICKS" CONTEST . . . Lou Ellen Bennart, Roselle, Ill., with her entry, "Cleopatra," for the "Most Beautiful Hen in All America," contest being conducted by the Poultry and Egg National Board. The national winner will be awarded a golden egg and her owner will be given a $500 prize.

HAND PAINTED SWIM SUITS . . . Bathers at Santa Catalina Island, off Los Angeles, have adopted the fad of hand painted bathing suits. Betty Stewart is wearing The Tigress, one of the designs set for 1947. The accentuated design is carried on the back of the matching celanese prospector coat.

KNOWS SAFE SPOT . . . Snow and ice don't mean anything to this heavily furred little squirrel, who knows the safe spot for squirrels as he rests in Chicago park. He is not so sure about the photographer and the safety of his hoards of buried nuts.

RHAPSODIST IN BLUE . . . A policeman's life may not be a happy one, but Frank Pallozza, veteran Philadelphia policeman, is making his a musical one, now dividing his time between law enforcement and an operatic career. Put them both together and you have a coperatic career.

NOT EVEN A WARM DRINK . . . "Tina," pet dog of Chuck Burns, Chicago, is all dressed up for zero weather, but would rather get inside where the milk is not frozen over.

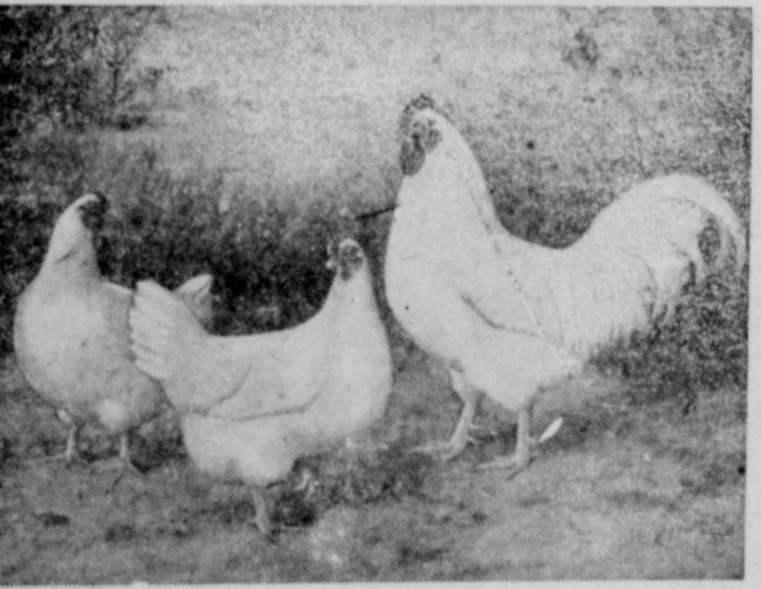

PRAY FOR THEIR HERO . . . Boys at St. Mary's Industrial school, Baltimore, are shown praying for the recovery of Babe Ruth, baseball's all-time home run king, who recently underwent a serious neck operation. Babe started his baseball career at St. Mary's school, 32 years ago.

ONE SHORT--BUT STILL GOOD . . . While they lack one of coming up to the Wayne Quints, these four Holsteins were born at Clinton Hollow, N. Y. Shown with the quads are farmer Reuben Hynder and his sister Mrs. Elva Rowe. Quads are rare, almost as rare as Quints. While several have been born in the middle west, south and west during the past few years, the number reported from the east have been rare. Hynder says he knows of no others.

CHICKENS OF TOMORROW . . . Black and white reproduction of oil painting by Arthur O. Schilling, poultry artist, judge and authority, of his conception of what the "Chicken of Tomorrow" should look like. A nation-wide contest is now being conducted to select the ideal market fowl.

CHICKENS OF TOMORROW . . . Black and white reproduction of oil painting by Arthur O. Schilling, poultry artist, judge and authority, of his conception of what the "Chicken of Tomorrow" should look like. A nation-wide contest is now being conducted to select the ideal market fowl.

KING OPENS PARLIAMENT . . . King Michael of Rumania is shown reading his speech at the ceremonial opening of the new Rumanian parliament in Bucharest. Neither the United States nor Great Britain has recognized the new government of Rumania, which, they charge, is the product of an unfair election.

WERFEL GETS NEW SHOES . . . Werfel, 6, of the Am Himmel orphanage, Vienna, Austria, shows unbounded joy after his first pair of new shoes. The gift was from clothing donated by Americans and distributed by the American Red Cross.

WILD BOAR HUNT . . . Wild boar hunts are still interesting, thrilling and dangerous in North Carolina. They are dangerous quaries, and it is rare that they do not kill or maim a valuable dog. The huge animals--some of them weighing over 400 pounds, run into "hells or slicks," but when finally bayed will charge dog, hunter, anything, slashing out with their razor like "tusks." Above is a characteristic Russian boar. Note long snout, absence of neck, large shoulders and slim hams. The meat scarcely resembles pork in taste.

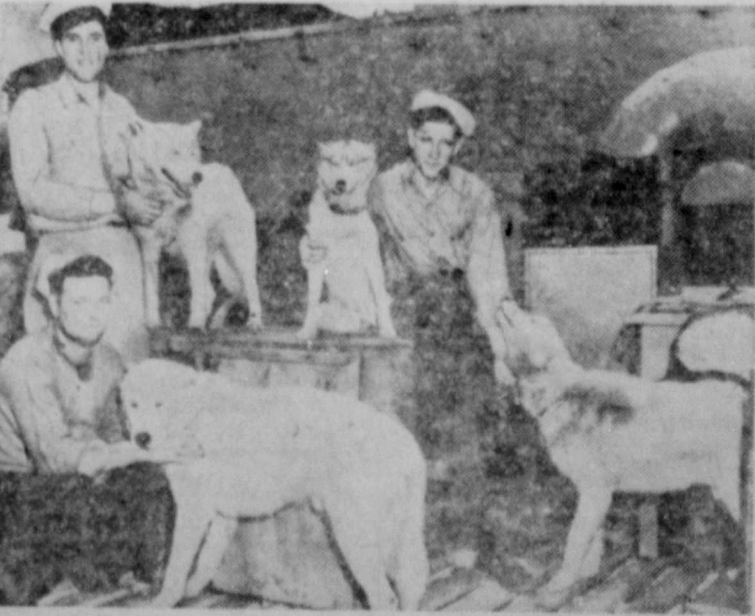

JOES IN SHANGHAI . . . Chinese college students in a fancy dress parade at the Shanghai university.

DRIVE DOG TEAMS ON ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION . . . Shown on the fantail of the U. S. S. Mt. Olympus, flagship of the navy's 1947 antarctic expedition are the drivers of the three dog teams and four of their huskies. The drivers are: Coxswain Robert G. Smith, Chattanooga, Tenn., crouching; Chief Boatswain's Mate R. R. Johnson, San Diego, Calif., left; and Seaman 1st Class E. R. Spuhng, North Judson, Ind.

HOGAN WINS AGAIN . . . Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., who captured the $10,000 Los Angeles golf tournament for the second time in his money-winning career, by a 72-hole score of 280, a new record for the Riviera Country club course.

Six-Inch Sermon
by ROBERT H. HARPER
The Giver of Life
For February 2: John 4: 1-26
Selection: John 11:25
The man's son lay in his home at the point of death, his father journeyed to Cana in Galilee to heal the lad. The Lord had rebuked the father because of great need, he the nobleman that his son live. Returning home the man found that at the very hour Jesus had given him assurance of his son's healing, he had to amend.
At the pool of Bethesda in Jerusalem Jesus healed a poor fellow who had been a paralytic for eight years, and bade him to take up his bed and walk. Nobody offered the afflicted man up to get into the pool—Jesus him in a moment of time. Why there was a home to Jesus must have loved to go, which has become the type that is sweet and beautiful in Christian home on earth—that of Mary and Martha. But a great fell upon the home—Lazarus, brother of the sisters, had been dead four days when the Lord returned to Bethany. When Jesus wept, and the Lord said, "Behold, how he loved!" Then Jesus cried with a voice that could still the dead of Galilee—or call the dead to Lazarus, come forth.
The Teacher who could weep the tomb of his friend, who wept with the feeling of infirmities and bowed down in the weight of his griefs, is of the trust of all of us. Let him for our life, full and the present and for ever.

PEOPLE ARE ASKING THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT ARMY ENLISTMENT

What educational benefits do I get under the GI Bill of Rights?
If you serve honorably on active duty for a period of 90 days, the day of which is served between September 16, 1940, and the date of termination of the present war, or you are discharged because of an actual service-incurred injury or disability incurred within that first 90-day period of service, you are upon discharge, entitled to one year of education in the college, trade or business school of your choice for which you can qualify. In addition, each month of active duty, including the first three, prior to the termination of the war, entitles you to another month of post-service education, up to 48 months.
Four tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year will be paid by the government. Also, you will receive $65 a month living allowance; $90 a month if you have dependents.

What about family allowances?
For men enlisting or reenlisting now, family allowances will continue until six months after the war is officially ended.

What are my chances of going overseas?
If you enlist for 3 years, you may select to serve in any overseas theater which has openings, especially Japan or Korea.

Can I still choose the branch of service I want to serve in?
Yes. You can pick any branch which has quotas to be filled. If you enlist for 3 years.

Is there any way I can reenlist in my old grade?
Yes, you can, if you reenlist for a 3-year term within 20 days after your honorable discharge.

Is there any other way I can reenlist in grade?
Yes, if you held one of certain military occupational specialties and were discharged on or after May 12, 1945, you can reenlist in a grade depending on the length of time you held the desired M. O. S.

OVER-CROWDED CLASSROOMS AND LOW STANDARDS MUST BE ENDED

Editor's Note: This is the third article in a series prepared by the Texas State Teachers Association.

Education in the United States is a big business. Out of a total population of more than 130,000,000 people, some 30,000,000 are children of school age; 930,000 teachers are employed, many other thousands are janitors, bus drivers, clerks, and general maintenance employees. What about Texas? Out of our 6,500,000 people, 1,500,000 are children of school age between 6 and 18. 46,000 teachers, 4,500 bus drivers, 6,000 janitors, and a large number of clerical employees, cafeteria workers, etc., are employed.

Public attention is focused today on the public schools in the United States to a degree never before witnessed in the history of our country. The exodus of teachers from the classrooms of our public schools has been going on at such a rapid pace as to cause general alarm throughout the nation. It should create alarm, for all superintendents throughout the nation will tell you that the situation is grave.

Since 1941, 350,000 teachers in the United States have left the classrooms. They do not intend to return under present standards. This mass exodus of teachers from the schools has created the most dangerous shortage of teachers in the history of our country. Some of the vacancies have been filled by new graduates, and many more by old teachers coaxed out of retirement. The gap, however, shows no signs of improvement.

In Texas, the situation is in many instances even worse. One out of six teachers in the state are rated as sub-standard in qualifications; 10,000 teachers are in their present job for the first time; 1,500 emergency certificates will be granted this year in order to get "someone" in the classrooms. 2,400 classrooms have enrollments of 40 pupils or more. Since 1941, forty per cent of the teachers in Texas have quit; more than 7,000 members of the Teacher Retirement System of Texas during the school year 1945-46 signed under oath a statement that they were quitting the teaching "profession" and withdrew their deposits from the retirement fund; 1,300 classrooms were vacant in September when school opened because they couldn't get a "teacher" to take the job. Out of the tens of thousands of students in Texas colleges and universities, fewer than 10 per cent are preparing to be teachers.

These conditions are not common to country schools only. Cities are hit just as hard. Their populations have grown rapidly and beyond the school facilities available. Many cities operate a part of their schools on a double shift basis; many classrooms are so overcrowded that several students will be found having to stand during the class period; teaching aids are scarce for the requirements in many instances.

Low pay is the chief reason for such conditions as now exist in the Texas public schools. In Texas, there are approximately 43,500 classroom teachers. Their average salary last year according to pay records in the State Department of Education was only $1,493 a year. The "take home" pay for a single teacher, after withholding taxes and five per cent deposits to the Teacher Retirement System, was only $111.35 a month or $25.70 a week, or $3.67 per day. This will not even buy food; pay rent; and buy decent clothes; much less take care of many other necessities of life. The beginning pay in practically any field of employment today is far greater.

What is Texas going to do about the situation? Are the people willing to pay teachers more? It takes money to do the job. Money means taxes. We just as well face the issue in the very beginning. If the salaries of Texas teachers should be increased an average of say $750 each, the cost would be $34,500,000. This is exactly what will be asked of the legislature of Texas which convened January 14.

The Texas State Teachers Association will request the legislature to provide for a beginning minimum salary of $2,000 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree; $2,200 for a teacher with a master's degree, and $2,400 if the teacher has 6 years of college work. For the first 12 years of experience, an annual increase of $54 per year will be requested. Local school districts under the association's plans can supplement salaries if they desire to do so.

To make this increase possible, a per capita apportionment of $55 will be needed instead of the present apportionment of $35. Additional apportionments for the rural aid schools will be needed making the total increases in state school expenditures approximately $35,000,000 annually.

A part of the increased state per capita apportionment for the school year 1947-48 will have to come from a direct appropriation from the general revenue fund of the state. This is permitted under the state constitution by an amendment adopted in 1918. Following the adoption of this amendment, Governor Hobby in a message to the legislature recommended an appropriation from the general fund of the state to the available school fund. The appropriation was made by the legislature in 1919. In his message to the legislature recommending this appropriation, Governor Hobby said: "It is gratifying beyond measure to witness the enthusiastic interests of the people's representatives in that cause which concerns more than any other the future of our state. The civic glory of Texas was assured when the pioneer law makers and the early patriots and the early settlers founded the best and highest grade educational system the state's resources would permit. And now, when the resources and the natural wealth of our state are shown to exist in an abundance never dreamed of before, it is fitting to make the larger provision for a comprehensive system of education beginning at the bottom and going all the way to the top."

Governor Hobby further said: "The adoption of the amendment to the constitution on November 7, 1918, authorizing the legislature by appropriation from the general funds of the state to meet such deficiency as may exist for the support of the public schools of the state for a term of not less than six months, makes it possible to bring the common schools of Texas up to the standard of the highest in the Union."

Are these requests out of line with what is being done in other states? The record says no.

HOW MUCH DO STRIKES COST?

THE AMERICAN Economic Foundation has made an effort to measure the cost to workers, industry and the public at large, of five of the principal postwar strikes. The conclusions gleaned are necessarily incomplete, due to the many intangibles involved—but it is evident that the cost is immeasurably greater than most of us realize.

Between September 1, 1945 and September 30, 1946, more than 124,000,000 man-days were lost because of strikes, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Assuming 8 hours to each day, and assuming that the lower figure of $1 per hour was the average wage, this means that more than $998,000,000 was lost in direct wages alone—to say nothing of the infinitely greater loss in production of goods, related layoffs in other industries, etc.

In the coal strike in the Spring of 1946, wage loss to miners, according to the Bituminous Coal Institute, totaled $145,000,000. But that was only the start of it. According to the CPA Administrator, the secondary cost, measured in lost production affecting all Americans, was $2,000,000,000.

So it goes, down the long and dismal list. The worker loses—industry loses—and the public loses most of all in unprocurable goods, lost opportunities. The only solution is a system of arbitration which will keep industries producing while the pros and cons of labor disputes are thrashed out. Then the worker will get whatever benefits his case entitles him to—and the country will be spared the shutdowns which have made normal production impossible.

TOWARD PRICE STABILITY

IT WOULD be a daring man indeed who would state categorically that the peak of the price rise has been reached—or that prices in general are due for an immediate and substantial downturn. But the all-out inflation that some forecast when OPA vanished into the shadows has certainly not occurred—and in some very important fields, including foods, a degree of price stability has been reached.

The good sense of most consumers is in part responsible for this—more and more of them have turned away from articles which they considered excessively priced. An increase in the supply of goods has also helped. And finally, the attitude of retail distribution toward consumer problems has been of immeasurable value.

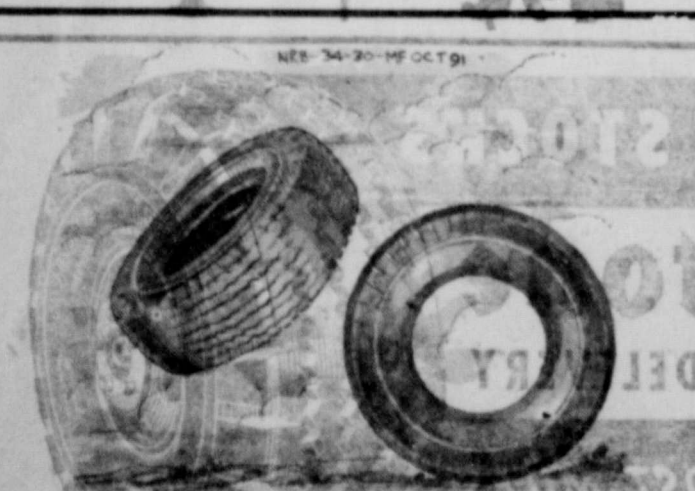

The typical retailer works on the principle that a main duty is to protect consumer purchasing power so far as he can—and to sell honest merchandise at a fair price. This is true of chains and independents, variety stores and department stores. Long before OPA, retailers voluntarily held prices down when there was no law to prevent them from profiteering to their hearts' content. All during the war, retailers opposed hoarding and other inflationary influences. And since the war ended, they have led in efforts to keep prices from running wild.

We are beginning to see the success of these efforts now, as more and better goods flow into the stores. No one knows what the "normal price structure" of the future will be, or what relation it will bear to 1941 or any other year. But we can feel confident that American productive methods, plus efficiency and competition in retailing, will give the consumer maximum protection against exploitation.

Highway 66 Meet
In a move to form an organization to work toward publicizing Highway 66 and bettering the highway facilities, representatives from various towns on the highway in the Texas Panhandle met in Amarillo January 10 and set up a State Highway 66 Association. A similar organization was functioning before the war, but gradually disbanded. The Amarillo chapter of commerce called the meeting January 10 after a delegation representing the New Mexico Highway 66 Association requested that an organization similar to theirs be formed.—The McLean News.

Skull Studied
Just what the find of human bones on the O. W. Denning place south of Floydada may mean was not known by local officials, but Bun Hopper, deputy sheriff, said he was turning the skull and bones over to Texas Rangers in the expectation that laboratory tests would develop facts in the case.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

Canyon Airport

Civil Week in WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The President's State of the Union message and his budget report, and their reception by the politically hostile congress figured in the speculation about future events... taxes, the national debt, the balancing of the budget, a cabinet post for public welfare, and merger of the armed forces.

There is a unanimity of agreement that the President's message on the State of the Union was well received from both sides of the aisle in the congress. Also there was agreement that by both the tone of his message and his recommendations the President had, for once, satisfied both liberal and conservative elements in his own party and that at this time there is a stronger feeling of unity among the Democrats than has been the case for many months.

On two counts, major counts, the President runs into strenuous opposition from the majority in Congress... on the size of the budget and on his recommendation not to cut taxes at this time. Representative Knutson, chairman of the powerful house ways and means committee, insists on his 20 percent reduction in taxes for everybody up to incomes of $300,000 and then a 10.5 percent cut for them. This latter amounts to little, however, since only about 600 people will be affected. Then Representative Taber, New York, insists on a 29 billion dollar budget compared to some 33 billion asked by the President.

Representative Knutson, however, is running up against some opposition to his tax cut program in his own party. Ben Eugene D. Millikin (D., Colo.), chairman of the new senate finance committee, which will handle tax bills, is by no means enthusiastic over the house Republicans plan to cut individual income taxes across-the-board. Says Senator Millikin, "writing a tax bill is not an exercise in logic; it is an exercise in necessity," and he wants to see the budget reduced and a long-term debt reduction plan adopted before committing himself to any specific tax-cutting proposal.

This congress has already been dubbed a "get-ready congress." Get ready for 1948 is the implication. And, of course, the issue of curbing the power of labor unions is the hottest issue. There will be many bills thrown into the hopper, punishment for labor law violators.

There is a real belief that the closed shop will be outlawed. Nor is there any expectation that there will be any ban on wage controls (not a law to incorporate unions to incorporate).

BARABBAS A Novel of the Time of Jesus By Emery Bekassy

Out of the most tremendous drama in history—the crucifixion of Jesus—comes the story of Barabbas the gentle Preacher from Galilee while a frenzied mob howled to Pilate for the release of the murderer, and the death of the Galilean.

Who was this Barabbas that the Jerusalem crowd should choose him in preference to Jesus of Nazareth?

The gospels have little to say about the reasons behind this crucial choice, but from the scant facts about these world-shaking days the author has created a powerful, stirring novel set in an era not unlike our own that pulsates with a spirit of violence and a kind of desperate hope. Though Barabbas had only been in the presence of Jesus a few times, their life threads shuddered even more closely together until they met in a blood-red pattern when the two stood together at Passover Time and heard the crowd shout, "Release unto us Barabbas."

DOUBLE OR QUITS By A. A. Fair

A murder mystery, Donald Lam and the indomitable Bertha Cool were dismayed to find how much more intrigue went on in the Devarest household than they first suspected. They thought Mr. Devarest was giving them an easy chance to combine a vacation with a little extra cash when he asked them to discover who stole his wife's jewels from the study safe. Then things became annoyingly complicated.

SPOONHANDLE By Ruth Moore

Every person who has read the advance copies of this book about Maine people in a seacoast village has made two comments about it. First, a protest on picking it up, "What, another book about Maine life?" and then on laying it down, "Now that's the real stuff. That's the kind of folk who really live in the north country of New England." The happy love story, and the two young people involved in it, are not especially original or true. But with this exception every character is fairly set before you. The author sees clearly, and shows you clearly, how everybody—including the people nobody likes,

In that picture above is the road-eye view of the "sole" of an auto's shoe. You'll quickly note something special about this tread-sole... how broad, flat and husky it is. It was engineered that way. It's the tread of the postwar B.F. Goodrich Silvertown.

That broadness and huskiness give the tread more contact with the road... less wear at any point... one of the reasons it gives better than prewar mileage.

The other reason is built into the tire... a 35% stronger cord body, engineered especially to carry this husky tread and give better resistance to road shock and blowouts.

Burglars ripped open two safes in Tulia High School January 17, escaping with approximately $150 in typing fees, basketball game receipts, and laboratory fees, according to a report by The Tulia Herald.
