Nixon Signs Drug Bill Aimed At Pushers

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a drug bill aimed at drug and narcotics pushers, asking public support for an all-out fight against drug use by young people.

Enforcement tools provided by the new law, plus the support of all citizens, may "save the lives of thousands of young people who might otherwise be hooked on drugs," Nixon said.

"In order for the laws to mean anything they must have the support of the public," he said.

The drug bill eases somewhat the penalties for narcotics and drug users, stiffens penalties for professional drug traffickers and extends federal controls over previously unregulated drugs.

Nixon, addressing himself to "all of you who may be seeing this signing ceremony or hearing it," said drug use among people is a major national crisis.

The ceremony took place at the downtown Washington headquarters of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

The new law de-emphasizes punishment of drug users in favor of educational programs aimed at preventing a person from taking up the habit. It reduces the crime of possessing marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor.

But senators and representatives, with White House backing, wrote in stiffer penalties for pushers of narcotics and dangerous drugs, tightened restrictions on their legitimate sale and manufacture and armed federal narcotics agents with "no knock" search authority.

Inclusion of the no-knock provision, which allows officers with a warrant to enter a premise without announcing themselves, sparked a minor filibuster in the Senate and a fight in the House during the year and a half the bill was before Congress. On final passage, less than a month before the congressional elections, the President got what he wanted.

Included in the law is a provision for a study of marijuana effects federal officials hope will be given the same respectful response as the 1964 surgeon general's report statistically linking cigarettes and lung cancer.

Until that report is in, one year from now, the Nixon administration remains, in the words of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, "diametrically opposed" to any relaxation of laws prohibiting possession and use of marijuana.

The same study commission is required to present within two years a report on causes of drug abuse.

Possession of marijuana, previously a felony under federal law, is reduced to a misdemeanor. Judges are empowered to grant probation, parole or dismissal of charges in cases involving first offenders.

Casual distribution of marijuana, as typified by passing a reefer among friends, is considered a misdemeanor. All changes in penalties take effect six months hence.

Education, treatment and rehabilitation programs for drug and narcotics users are given an extra $26 million under the new law.

The measure brings under strict federal control the previously unregulated distribution of tranquilizers, pep pills, sleeping pills and similar drugs.

There are a few tickets to the Cotton Bowl football game available to fans of Snyder and area. Malven Stevenson, who handles the Cotton Bowl allotment for this area each year, says they will be available through this week. Any that have not been disposed of by the end of the week must be sent back to Dallas for the drawing next week.

Of course nobody knows at this early date which football teams will be performing, but at this writing it appears that either Texas or Arkansas will be the "host" team. And there may be more than a bare possibility that Notre Dame will be back as the visiting team. The Irish like the money and now that they have had a taste from the post-season bowl, they are likely to wind up in a bowl game again, provided their won-lost record continues to sparkle. There has been some talk about Notre Dame going to the Orange Bowl, but they are known to like the idea of a return to the Cotton Bowl where the financial rewards are better for the visiting team. Penn State grabbed off an Orznge Bowl bid last year and then regretted it. A lot of Texans regretted it, also, because it kept Texas from getting a chance to quell those No. 1 claims that poured out of Pennsylvania last autumn. There have been no claims from that quarter this season, however.

Lloyd Palmer, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association, says there must be improvement on two fronts if the cost of tarffic crashes is to be reduced. The number of such crashes must be reduced, of course, and then the cost of repairing damage from the crashes which do occur must be reduced. Palmer says that "vehicles must be engineered to survive without major damage in a front or rear impact at 10 miles per hour. He said today's automobile cannot withstand five mile-per-hour impact on their bumpers without a great deal of damage.

Actually, use of the word "bumper" on today's cars is a joke.

PANHANDLE HAS SNOW

Front Triggers Weather Furore

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A rash of tornadoes, flood-triggering rains and giant hailstones pounded parts of Central and North Texas during the night, and a cold front triggering the weather furor brought snow in the Panhandle.

By this morning most of the thunderstorms moved eastward into Northeast Texas while showers fell around San Antonio and along the Middle and Upper Texas Coast.

As much as an inch of snow collected on the ground at Dalhart. Weather Bureau observers reported most of the light snow peppered down in a belt 20 miles wide from north of Perryton to southwest of Amarillo.

Twister funnels spun through the air and occasionally touched ground in at least half a dozen areas but caused surprisingly little damage.

One tornado tore part of the roof off an unoccupied farm house east of Dallas near Rockwall and skipped northeast past Royse City.

Still others were spotted near Grand Prairie, south of Clifton in Bosque County, over the Polytechnic section in Fort Worth, north of Waxahachie and near Lake Ray Hubbard.

Winds topped 50 miles per hour in several areas as gusty thunderstorms dumped rainfall at rates up to two inches per hour. In addition to the twister threats, as many as 45 counties in Central East Texas stayed under a severe thunderstorm alert for hours.

A district on the east side of Dallas measured up to 1.8 inches of rain and an overflowing storm sewer in a low part of the Oak Cliff section sent water rising five inches deep in four homes.

Warnings against flash flooding along creeks in rural areas and at some underpasses went out for several counties. Among the latest of these were Wood County and the south half of Van Zandt and northwest half of Smith counties.

Hailstones as big as baseballs battered an area near Stephenville, and icy pellets the size of golf balls bounced off the rooftops in parts of South Dallas. Smaller hail descended near Fort Worth, Nocona and Tyler.

Near dawn the cold front generating the turbulence had shoved as far south as a line linking Paris, Dallas, Brownwood, San Angelo and Pecos.

In its wake the early morning temperatures dipped to 32 degrees at Perryton, 33 at Dalhart, 36 at Amarillo and 38 at Lubbock.

Eban Questions Right Of UN

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban is questioning the right of the U. N. General Assembly to discuss the Middle East while the issue is before the Security Council.

He raised the question at a news conference Monday, minutes after Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad made the opening speech in the assembly debate. Eban said that in his address to the 127-nation assembly today he would "not take the defensive" but would make no change.

Riad accused Israel and the United States of collaborating in a policy of deceit and aggression that has blocked peace in the Middle East.

The Israeli foreign minister called Riad's speech "a violent and dishonorable tirade."

Eban said it is well known that Egypt is shoveling in more arms and equipment, "probably even as we are talking now."

He told the newsmen that assembly debate on the Middle East at this stage might be a violation of the U.N. charter. He added that he would sound out delegation chiefs on what he described as this "dangerous situation."

Eban said as he arrived in New York Sunday that he had not come "in a defensive mood."

The roadblock to negotiations, he charged, was Soviet and Egyptian "violation of the cease-fire standstill."

The chief of Israeli military intelligence, Gen. Aharon Yariv, told a news conference in Tel Aviv that Egypt and the Soviet Union have set up one of the most advanced missile systems in the world in the Suez Canal zone. He estimated that 500 to 600 missiles have been deployed in the zone.

Israel has been boycotting U.N. mediated peace negotiations, charging that Egypt violated the cease-fire by setting up the missile sites.

A group of African delegates has drafted a resolution asking Israel to resume talks under mediator Gunnar V. Jarring within two months. An Israel official in Jerusalem said the proposal was unacceptable.

Bandits Issue Invitations

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — About $100,000 in cash and jewels was stolen by six masked bandits who issued engraved invitations for about 100 ringside patrons to attend a party after the Ali-Quarry fight, police said today.

After the guests arrived, the hosts ordered them to a basement to disrobe, robbed them and then fled with two women as hostages, the police said.

As each group of persons arrived Monday night at a Northside address, police said, they were met at the door by a woman. As they stepped inside, a bandit waring a ski mask and carrying a sawed-off shotgun greeted them.

The guests then were taken into the basement where they were forced to disrobe and lie down on the floor, officers said they were told. Their jewelry and cash were taken.

One of the persons robbed told police that people were "piled on top of each other at one point."

Police said only a few persons had filed complaints, but that they had talked to a number who had been robbed.

The majority were "too embarrassed to file a complaint," the police said.

Also surviving are two sons, Charles Easterwood of Austin and Bob Easterwood of Seattle, Wash.

Funeral service has been set for 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. The Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Ecuador's AF Chief Kidnaped

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — The commander of Ecuador's air force was kidnaped early today, the defense Ministry announced.

It said Gen. Cesar Rohn Sandoval, 45, was abducted at 1:15 a.m. in his car.

Authorities arrested two sons of ex-President Jorge Zavala and a son of a former provincial chief in connection with the kidnaping.

Generals Explain Landing

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Two American diplomats reported from the Soviet-Turkish border today that "a pilot error" caused a light plane with two U.S. generals on board to land in Soviet Armenia six days ago.

An embassy spokesman said the two diplomats met the generals, their American pilot and Turkish escort officer at the guest house where they are being detained just a few miles from the border.

He said the four men are being held "in quite comfortable circumstances" and apparently have not been severely interrogated.

The pilot told the diplomats that a freak gust of wind caught the unarmed, two-engined plane last Wednesday and blew it across the border. When the pilot regained control of the plane he found himself over the Soviet town of Leninakan, but mistook it for the Turkish town of Kars.

The spokesman said the pilot then made a routine landing at Leninakan airport, still believing that he was in Turkey.

The diplomats reported the generals in good health. They are Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Scherrer, chief of the U.S. military mission in Turkey, and Brig. Gen. Claude McQuarrie Jr.

Jumbo Jet Fire Causes Panic

LONDON (AP) — The 89 passengers aboard a 747 just arrived from Los Angeles slid down escape chutes today when the jumbo jet's inner port engine burst into flames.

"We looked out the window and saw a giant flash and a huge sheet of flames," one passenger aboard the Pan American World Airways plane said.

The passengers, some in near-panic, took off shoes and wrapped themselves in blankets for the slide. Several suffered minor cuts and bruises. Two fainted.

Capt. Bob Marshall, the pilot, said he planned to restart the engine to snuff the fire but decided to open the escape hatches when some passengers grew excited.

"If the fire had occurred in flight I could have put it out by increasing the revolutions of the engine," he said.

The plane had been on the ground about two minutes.

The Federal Aviation Administration in the United States earlier this month praised the 747's safety record and said engine overheating was not a problem. That statement came after the National Transportation Safety Board said 747 engine fires had been caused by "near critical temperature conditions." It urged the FAA to act to prevent recurrences of incidents such as had occurred aboard 747s belonging to American Airlines and Air France.

One Pan Am spokesman said he presumed that in today's incident the engine had overheated after landing. Mechanics at Heathrow Airport began taking the engine apart.

Glenn James, a Qantas Airline employe traveling as a passenger on the Pan Am plane, said the crew should have announced an emergency.

"The passengers were not told there was any trouble, and the result was that a lot of them, having seen the flames, stood up and were making moves to get out. We ... were told to keep our seats until we got to the tarmac, which is the normal announcement when there is nothing wrong with an airliner. This resulted in a great deal of confusion," he added.

Nixon Hits Campaign Trail

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is resuming his energetic off-year election campaigning after clearing the way for a heads-I-win-tails-you-lose verdict from the voters on Nov. 3.

Well in advance of Nixon's departure for Republican rallies tonight in the Florida resort cities of Palm Beach and Miami Beach, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler spelled out for the first time the chief executive's precise campaign goal:

"To see how closely we can tighten the gap of tradition."

Those 11 words could mean Nixon is lowering his election-day sights and has abandoned hope of a Republican surge next Tuesday. Or they could signal a White House effort to set the stage for post-election claims of a triumphal Nixon intervention if GOP condidates make only a respectable showing.

Ziegler stated Monday that, traditionally, the president's party loses about 30 House seats in off-year balloting and "doesn't fare well in the Senate."

He noted, as has Nixon in some campaign speeches, that 120 years have passed since another president, Zachary Taylor, entered the White House—as did Nixon—to face a Congress controlled by the opposition party.

Ziegler's message was clear: Nixon is fighting uphill because all presidents elected from Taylor to Nixon went into off-year elections with the benefit of congressional majorities.

Thus, it would seem, the White House will be prepared to speak well of Nixon's efforts on the stump no matter what happens.

At the same time, Republican hopes of gaining control of the Senate have faded in recent weeks.

Adopted children should know facts

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A young mother complained that her mother in law always introduced her and her children, who were still toddlers, as "my daughter in law and her two adopted children." The young mother was resentful and you agreed that she had a right to be. I think you are both wrong.

It is never too soon to let children know that they are adopted. They should hear the word "adopted" long before they even know what the word means so they'll grow up knowing that they are adopted.

I still remember when I was 8, running home from school, crying because someone told me I was adopted. I begged my mother to tell me it wasn't true. She assured me it wasn't. When I was 12, I heard that story again, and again I asked my mother if it was true. Again she swore it wasn't. Not until I was 24 and about to be married did my mother tell me the truth, and even then it was a terrible shock.

Please retract your statement, Abby. That mother in law was wise to have introduced the children as "adopted."

MRS. L.

DEAR MRS. L.: I agree, it is never too soon to tell children they are adopted, but I think the parents should tell them, and having once been told, unless it is said with obvious pride, it's not necessary to include the word "adopted" in every introduction. From the young mother's letter, I assumed that "pride" was lacking. She could have been mistaken. And so could I. Thank you for making a valid point.

DEAR ABBY: I am not even sure how to word this, but I will do my best. There are six couples of us who go around together. We are all in our middle thirties, and we all like to dance. There is no hanky panky in our crowd. We're all satisfied with our own husbands and we don't fool around.

There is one man in our group, who is really a nice person, but when he dances, he holds his partner extremely tight and close. It's not only the tightness and closeness, but he gets so intimate when he dances—it's downright indecent. I just hate to dance with him. I keep pulling away and struggling the whole time.

At first I thought he danced that way only with me, but I noticed another girl having the same trouble with him. Finally, a few of us started talking and it turns out he dances that way with all of us. Abby, is it possible that he isn't aware of what he is doing? His wife is a lovely person, and I'm sure she doesn't know the way he dances with us. Can this problem be solved without hurting his feelings?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Why all the pussyfooting around? It's a pretty safe bet that this man is aware of what he is doing. When he asks you to dance, tell him no — you don't care for his style of dancing. He'll get the message. And don't worry about hurting his "feelings." I have an idea he can look after himself.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written a letter to you before but I think the following might interest you and some of your readers:

Yesterday was an old man's birthday. He was 91. He awakened earlier than usual, bathed, shaved and put on his best clothes. Surely they would come today, he thought.

He wouldn't take his daily walk to the gas station to visit with the old-timers of the community because he wanted to be right here when they came.

He sat on the front porch with a clear view of the road so he could see them coming. Surely they would come today.

He'd skip his noon nap that day, because he wanted to be up when they came.

He has six children. Two of his daughters and their married children live within a few miles. They hadn't been to see him for such a long time, and today was his birthday. Surely they would come.

At supper time, when a small cake and ice cream was served, he wondered if perhaps he shouldn't wait and have dessert with "them" when they came.

Night time came, and he went to his room and got ready for bed, and his last words before turning out his lights were, "Promise to wake me when they come." It was his birthday and he was 91.

Son Makes Plea For Bentsen

Seeking grass roots support for his father, Lan Bentsen, son of the senatorial candidate, came to Snyder yesterday to visit with local Democratic leaders and supporters.

He said the "undecided people" will determine who the next senator will be. A recent poll showed that Lloyd Bentsen has a narrow margin on his opponent, George Bush, Lan said. He added that the closeness of the race is due to the fact that 87 per cent of the Republicans in the state will vote, compared with only 30 per cent of the Democrats.

Lan claimed that George Bush is "losing his independence" due to outside support.

"Texas needs a Democratic senator—someone who will stand up for Texans," the young man said.

Lan declared that there is a "Bush blitz" on television, especially during the closing days of the campaign, and he indicated the Republican candidate will owe political favors to those who help him if he is elected.

Taking another shot at Bush, Lan said only two of 151 bills introduced by Bush were made into law.

"We need the support of Scurry County," Lan said, adding that he and his father and the "Bentsen team" would appreciate the support local residents can give them.

Alfven, Neel Share Award

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The 1970 Nobel Prize in physics was awarded jointly today to a Frenchman and a Swede at the University of California's San Diego branch. But the Swede's wife refused to wake him up to tell him he was $40,000 richer.

"It's too early in the morning," the wife of Prof. Hannes Alfven told a newsman who telephoned their home in La Jolla at 3:35 a.m. PST. "It's too early —he's still asleep."

Mrs. Alfven hung up, then took the phone off the hook.

Prof. Alfven shared the prize with Louis Neel of Grenoble University.

The last Nobel award of the year, in chemistry, also was announced today and went to a native of Paris now living in Buenos Aires, Argentina, Prof. Luis F. Leloir, for his discovery of sugar nucleotides and their role in the biosynthesis of carbohydrates.

Alfven was honored for "fundamental work and discoveries in magneto hydrodynamics with fruitful application in different parts of plasma physics," the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences announced.

Neel was cited for "fundamental work and discoveries concerning antiferro magnetism and ferri magnetism which have led to important applications in solid state physics."

Neel was eating lunch in a restaurant in Besancon in eastern France when told of the award. He observed: "There are very few Nobel prizes but many good physicists. I am above all happy for this prize for the French school of magnetism, which is highly regarded."

Alfven, 62, works alternately in the United States and at the Royal Advanced Technical School in Stockholm. He once threatened to emigrate to America unless the Swedish government gave him a professorship with adequate funds for his research in plasma physics. The government complied.

Neel, 66, is a native of Lyon and a graduate of the Ecole Normale Superieure in Paris. He worked at the University of Strasbourg's Weiss Laboratory for research in magnetism from 1932 until 1945, when he went to Grenoble. There he is director of the National Advance School of Electrotechnics, Hydraulics, Radioelectricity and Applied Mathematics.

Lebanon Expells Leary

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanon expelled Timothy Leary today and started the former Harvard teacher back to Algiers.

Police picked up the American advocate of LSD and marijuana along with his three companions and put them aboard a plane for Cairo. It was expected that they would be shuttled on to Algiers, which Leary left last weekend after the Algeria refused to let him hold a news conference.

Traveling with Leary were Jenifer Dohrn, sister of the fugitive Weatherman Bernadine Dohrn; Donald Cox, self-styled field marshal of the Black Panthers; and Martin Kenner, who says he is chairman of something called the committee to defend the Black Panthers.

The group had said they were touring the Middle East as guests of Al Fatah, the largest of the Palestinian guerrilla organizations. A Fatah spokesman denied this, saying: "We have enough political tourists and enough problems of our own without them."

Leary escaped from a California prison farm where he was serving a 10 to 15 year narcotics sentence. He arrived in Algiers last week and took refuge with Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, another fugitive who lives there, but Algeria is reported to have had second thoughts about providing a haven for Leary.

Jewish Temples Bombed

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Bomb blasts rocked two Jewish synagogues early today, 15 days after similar explosions damaged two store-front churches, several public buildings and a private home.

No one was hurt in the synagogue blasts.

Police Commissioner John Masterella said the incidents appeared to be part of a "coordinated attack," but that no motive had been established.

At the Light of Israel Sephardic Center, Rabbi Solomon Cohen said repairs might cost $40,000 to $50,000.

At the Temple Beth Sholom damage was limited to a small rear section.

Windows in buildings near the two temples were shattered by the concussion.

Rabbi Cohen said most of the damage to the Sephardic Center was in one corner where a hole was blown through the wall.

Residents in the area of the center told police they heard screeching tires as an automobile apparently sped away from the scene shortly after the explosion.

The main post office and federal office building and a county office building were among the targets in the Oct. 12 bombings. The two churches had Negro congregations.

Police said that as in the case of the previous attacks no warnings were given and no notes of explanation were found.

Today's bombings were about six miles apart.

Rockies Has Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air streaming into the midcontinent scattered more snow over the central Rockies today and triggered soaking rains in sections of the Midwest and South.

Temperatures dipped into the teens and occasionally lower in in the northern Rockies before daybreak.

One to 2 inches of snow fell overnight in scattered areas of Wyoming and Colorado. Travelers warnings were in effect for southern mountain sections of Colorado and north-central and northeastern New Mexico for locally heavy and blowing and drifting snow.

Seven inches of snow blanketed Hays Center, Kan., and 3 inches whitened Imperial and North Platte, Neb., Monday.

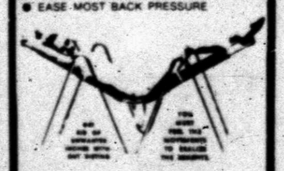

The snow gave way to cold rain over the eastern Great Plains.

Thunderstorms ranging from Iowa to Arkansas and Texas dumped an inch or more of rain in parts of Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Illinois.

A tornado swooped down near McAlester, Okla., late Monday and smashed two trailers in a four-trailer convoy. High winds also unroofed a house near Conway, Ark. No injuries were reported in either storm.

Fog shrouded portions of the Great Lakes region: Cloudy and generally mild weather prevailed eastward to the Atlantic.

Manson Predicted Race War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former follower says Charles Manson once predicted a race war which would begin with "an atrocious crime in the richer sections of Los Angeles."

Brooks Poston, 21, said Manson described "an atrocious [illegible] with stabbing, cutting bodies to pieces, smearing blood, writing 'pig' on the walls."

Poston stifled at the Sharon Tate murder trial Monday as the state sought to establish a motive for the slaying of the actress and six others.

Manson, 35, shaggy-haired leader of a hippie-type "family" is on trial with three women followers, charged with murder-conspiracy in the slayings.

Poston said Manson held group sessions in which he told the family that a black-white revolution was imminent, that the blacks would rise up, kill some whites and incite whites to kill each other. Poston said Manson thought that "after blackie had the world, he'd see that he didn't want it because it was too much responsibility and he'd give it over to Charlie."

Poston, a lean youth in jeans and a leather jacket, said he joined the family because he believed Manson was Jesus Christ.

On cross-examination Poston said he became convinced of Manson's divinity "while I was on LSD."

Taylor Speaks To Study Club

The Cosmorama Study Club had its second meeting of "The Soaring Seventies" on October 21st at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Cohosts were Mrs. John Reed and Mrs. Claude Donaldson.

The theme of the meeting was "The best profit of the future is the past" with Mat Taylor, Soil Conservationist for Scurry and Borden Counties, relating our future wealth and enjoyment of natural resources to our present and past protection of this inheritance.

Ecology is today's "In" word. It is today's "concern". Yet, as Mr. Taylor pointed out, soil conservationists have been concerned with and acting upon this for 40 years. The Soil Conservation Office is an integral part of area efforts toward becoming aware of our duty in the ecology movement. It helps local farmers and ranchers carry out soil conservation practices on their land. Major preventative steps consisting of terracing, strip planting, use of ground cover, root plowing heavy mesquite, and seeding grass to range lands are being taken to combat soil erosion from drainage and winds.

We learned that the principle water pollutant in this area is silt, while dust and sand are the major air pollutants. We also learned that brush is the largest water user in the state-that soil conservation also helps birds and wildlife. Maybe we have just become aware of the efforts being made by our Soil Conservation Office here and are relating it to the new ecology movement, but being aware is a much better preparation to "doing" than being unaware. Our thanks to Mat Taylor for bringing our vision to area accomplishments.

Mrs. Milton Ham was a guest at the meeting.

Woman Chasers

When Hurricane Celia ripped a tornadic trail through Texas, rural electric systems in her path needed help in a hurry. Within hours volunteers from other rural electric cooperatives in the state were on the scene to help restore service. Many of these skilled men had followed the devastating track of such shady ladies as Audrey, Beulah, Carla and Camille. They are among the 2500 employees of 77 member-owned rural electric systems in Texas who provide a first class electric service to their own member-owners. But a neighbor called for help and they answered. It is this spirit of cooperation that has helped make the rural electric cooperatives first in service to rural Texans, Helping Texas Grow.

ON THE HOUSE

Nails belong to that category of consumer products which usually are purchased on a haphazard basis.

"Give me a pound of those" or "I'll take a box of these" is a fairly general buying term. In most cases, the purchasers make their selection on the basis of [illegible] appear to be the right size and type for the projects at hand.

In many instances, making a choice this way isn't too important. But sometimes it is. The nails may be too thick and cause the wood to split; they may be too short and not go far enough into the second piece of wood; they may be too long and protrude where they shouldn't; they may not have a coating to prevent them from rusting when used for outside work; or they may be the wrong type and not have sufficient holding power in the material being used.

It isn't necessary to memorize the many different types of available nails in order to make a sensible purchase. All that is necessary is to recognize that such differences exist and to explain to the hardware dealer or other supply store owner the purpose to which the nails will be put.

This is perhaps easier said than done since, as one hardware dealer explained to me, "most people—men especially—are reluctant to admit they lack knowledge about such a simple thing as nails, so they just pick the nails that seem to be what they want."

The nails with which most of us are familiar are known as common nails. They are the kind that have round, flat heads and diamond-shaped points. Ten penny nails—designated at 10d—are 3 inches in length; 8 penny nails are 2½ inches; 6 penny are 2 inches; 4 penny 1½ inches; 3 penny 1¼ inches; and 2 penny nails are 1 inch in length. [illegible] are similar to common nails, but thinner. Finishing and casing nails have small heads so they can be driven below the surface. Brads are much the same, but smaller, and wire nails, which have regular heads, are very tiny.

There are special nails for use in wallboard, floors, wire lath, roofs, shingles, masonry and many other kinds of materials. These speciality nails aren't always on display, so you have to ask for them.

When you are nailing one piece of wood to another, the general rule is that two-thirds of the nail should go into the second piece. This isn't always possible, a prime reason why you should use the strongest available nail which won't split the wood. And nothing prevents splitting the wood as much as first driving a pilot hole, especially for hard wood.

FOR ECONOMIC KNOWLEDGE

Many Owe Samuelson

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An entire generation of Americans, thousands of professors included, owes its basic knowledge of economics to Dr. Paul Samuelson, recipient of the 1970 Nobel Prize in economics.

Samuelson's massive "Foundations of Economic Analysis" was required reading in almost every college economics course and, in fact, was the only textbook in many of them. It covered everything.

That this enormously successful book, a classic which Samuelson updates every few years, was hardly the basis for his selection is a testament to the breadth of his work.

No one area of Samuelson's output, in fact, can be detached from the mass of his production. His writings and research covers the field generally and specifically: over-all theory, welfare economics, price theory, international trade.

And while he has demonstrated an ability to write for the masses, as evidenced by a popular magazine column, the professor's greatest strengths are in the area of highly mathematical analysis.

Samuelson is considered a Keynesian, meaning that much of his thinking appears to have been influenced by the late John Maynard Keynes, a British economist who believed in governmental involvement in order to moderate the business cycle.

Keynes approach was fiscal. He felt that government spending could be used to regulate the up-down cycles that have appeared regularly in industrial economies. He didn't fear budget deficits, and even suggested they might be used to "spend" a lagging economy into health.

Many economists today consider Samuelson the foremost academic interpreter and systematizer of Keynes' theories, which therefore pits him, at least in a popular sense, against Prof. Milton Friedman and the monetarists.

Friedman, who reportedly also was considered for the prize, believes that the economy is essentially stable if not interfered with by the federal government. A steady growth in money supply is viewed as sufficient fuel.

In politics, Keynesians have usually been associated with Democrats and monetarists with the Republican party. Friedman, in fact, was the economic adviser to Sen. Barry Goldwater and still has entre to Washington.

To some degree, however, the differences may be growing less stark as they are practiced. Each has had its failures, and economic practioners today tend to be less doctrinaire than a decade ago.

In the Nixon administration, for example, there may be detected some of each school, and many ecots in academia, business and government feel free to borrow from either school and redefine the ideas to fit the situation.

Nevertheless, many observers who tend to view economics with a political connotation will find in Samuelson's award a victory for the notion that government involvement is necessary in modern industrial economies.

Junior Editors Quiz on AGATES

QUESTION: How is agate made into jewelry?

* * *

ANSWER: The very common mineral quartz, often seen as crystals, can occur in a fine-grained form called chalcedony. Such a mineral may have formed inside a pocket or crevice in other rocks. When broken free, the hardened chalcedony lump may look something like (1). If, when cut across, such a lump may show beautiful banded colors, it is the form of chalcedony called agate. (2). Many people have the interesting and profitable hobby of cutting and polishing agate to make rings and many other kinds of decorative objects. Our picture shows a home workshop with an agate buff hard at work. First, the man has to cut the stone into slabs with a diamond wheel to show the banded effect. Then he shapes it, finally giving it a high polish with a felt wheel. Below are some objects our agateer has turned out. Many agates are truly beautiful in the decorative banding and color contrast. And there is a remarkable luster to the surface which tempts exploration by the finger tips. Give an agate piece to someone and the chances are he or she will treasure it for many years.

Paint Job Disrupts Household

By JOY STILLEY

New York (AP) — What causes sore muscles, headaches, a general feeling of malaise and a firm conviction that things will be even worse tomorrow — symptoms that appear regularly every three years?

It's not some dread tropical disease — it's a paint job on an apartment. And though it isn't an illness recognized by any medical authority, the recovery period is long and painful.

So is the preparation.

It's a two-day operation to transform our abode into a setting untouched by human fingerprints, and the logistics must be charted accordingly.

Since I can get more meals in a restaurant that way, I always advocate doing the kitchen first, thus putting it out of commission for an extra day. A logical partner is the bathroom, and we throw in a couple of bedrooms for good measure. What we really should do is throw out the entire contents of those bedrooms

Instead we empty all the closets, taking down shoe racks, tie holders and old empty boxes that might make it through one more Christmas, and remove pictures, lamps, mirrors and other impediments from the walls.

The clothes get draped gracefully across the dining room chairs and the rest of the stuff goes into boxes that optimistically seek a resting place under the table among sister and brother boxes filled with junk from the kitchen cabinets.

The table itself is covered with dishes, glasses, toasters, coffee pots, pans blenders and everything else that needs a temporary home away from home. Leaning against the walls at various precarious angles are ironing board, drying rack, vacuum cleaner, window screens and any number of long-handled objects that are fugitives from the broom closet.

Then all the furniture must be arranged in intimate little groupings in the center of the rooms to be painted. My husband supplies the brawn for this enterprise. I supply the brains, deciding which piece looks better atop the bed — the dresser, the bookcase or the night table.

Once the first day's art work has been completed, all these things must be returned to their place of orgin. The the living room and the dining room and a few odd little alcoves and halls must be dismatled and the obstacle course through the house replotted.

We've pretty well solved the second-day problem this time though. Our daughter is away at college so we just stacked everything in her newly painted room, firmly closed the door and hope one of her classmates will invite her home for Thanksgiving. That way he have until Christmas to get things straightened out.

Angela On Hunger Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Black revolutionary Angela Davis is on a hunger strike at the jail where she is being held for extradition to California, one of her lawyers says.

Margaret Burnham, the attorney, said Miss Davis refused to eat after being isolated from other prisoners in the Women's House of Detention.

"She is only asking for equal treatment, the same treatment given the other women," Miss Burnham told newsmen Monday.

Jail officials said Miss Davis had been given private quarters, but was permitted to use the library one hour a day.

She had been charged with murder and kidnaping after being accused of buying guns used in an attempted prisoner escape Aug. 7 in San Rafael, Calif., in which four persons were killed. She was captured here Oct. 13.

Rickles Asks Resort License

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Don Rickles wants the state to license him as part owner of the $20-million Kings Castle Hotel-Casino at Lake Tahoe.

Rickles, who would own 1.6 per cent of the resort headed by Nathan Jacobson, is one of several entertainers to acquire minor interests as part of agreements to perform in the hotel. His application, filed Monday, requires approval of state gambling authorities.

He will teach a credit course, "A History of Motion Picture Art," this fall.

Brakhage has created some 50 films. Among them are "Window Water Baby Moving," a poetic and powerful account of the birth of one of his children; "Dog Star Man," an autobiography, and several environmental films showing mountains, snowstorms and forest fires.

Ali Wins In 3rd Round

ATLANTA (AP) — Muhammad Ali is back and ready to meet champion Joe Frazier in a fight that should be an explosive climax to what has been several years of confusion, frustration and doubt in boxing's heavyweight division.

"I'm ready to settle the title," Ali said Monday night after disposing of tough Jerry Quarry in three rounds in Ali's first fight in 3½ years.

"Quarry was much harder to fight than Joe Frazier will be," said the man who rose to the heavyweight championship as Cassius Clay and then was stripped of his title when he was convicted of refusing induction into the Army.

"We're ready to fight him as soon as we can get rid of Foster and as soon as Clay can get ready," Frazier's manager, Yank Durham said in East Stroudsburg, Pa., where Frazier is training for a title defense against light heavyweight king Bob Foster in Detroit Nov. 18.

Frazier did not see Ali's triumphant return, which was shown on closed circuit television, but he didn't go to sleep until he knew the result.

Foster, who has a thunderous left hook could upset an Ali-Frazier fight. Another block could be Ali's conviction which drew a $10,000 fine and a five-year prison sentence. The conviction still is being appealed.

Ali was a heavy favorite to win the historic fight at Atlanta's old Municipal Auditorium, jammed with 5,100 people, but it was the manner in which he won it which showed that indeed he once again is a major force in boxing.

From the opening bell of the scheduled 15-rounder until the fight was stopped at the end of the third round with blood gushing from Quarry's split left eyebrow, Ali was in complete command.

Using his 5½-inch reach advantage and showing he had not lost his punching speed, Ali peppered Quarry with stinging left jabs and jolted him with left hooks and rights. It was a straight right in the third round that ripped open Quarry's eyebrow, a wound that required 15 stitches.

"The guy I saw with Quarry was the same guy that fought Folley," said Ali's manager, Angelo Dundee. "I was amazed at what I saw."

Ali, now 28, fought Zora Folley March 22, 1967 and won by a seven-round knockout.

Ali's transformation from lecturer, actor and fast food impresario to a fighter that closely resembled himself 3½ years ago was truly amazing. Ali weighed 238 when he began training for the Quarry fight six weeks ago. Monday night he weighed 213½, just two more pounds than he weighed when [illegible] more than Quarry.

Ali's victory not only opened the way for him to get a crack at regaining the championship which he points out he never lost in the ring, it opens the way for one of the most lucrative fights in history.

Monday night's fight did more for Ali than just restore his pride. He figures to get more than a million dollars from his percentage while Quarry could end up with about $500,000. Ali had been guaranteed $200,000 against 42½ per cent; Quarry $150,000 against 22½ per cent.

The only statistic announced was the sellout crowd of 5,100 in the Auditorium. There were no figures on the live gate or the gate from closed circuit television shown at 206 locations, with 900,000 seats in the United States and Canada.

The bout also was beamed live to Europe, South America, Australia, Asia and the Soviet Union with a delayed telecast to Great Britain.

Winning the fight was termed by Ali "more than a win for a fighter. It was a social victory." This was a reference to his victory against the banishment imposed on him after his conviction.

Ali saw plans for many fights fall through until Atlanta granted him a license. Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox publicly opposed the fight but could not legally stop it since it was municipally licensed. Georgia has no state boxing commission.

Since being licensed to fight in Atlanta, Ali also has been granted a license by New York State.

The crowd, dotted with such personalities as actor Sidney Poitier, singer Dianna Ross, commedian Bill Cosby, baseball star Hank Aaron and fighter Jimmy Ellis, was solidly behind Ali and roared its approval of his victory, one of the most important and, for him, probably the most satisfying of his career.

Ali's comeback fight was the 30th victory, 24th by knockout, in 30 fights since turning pro in 1960.

Lamesa Slips To 9

AUSTIN (AP) — Unbeaten Poth eased past Sonora and Albany for the top Class A spot in this week's Austin American-Statesman poll of coaches on schoolboy football.

Poth's Pirates received four first place votes to three each for its two challengers in the tightest contest this season.

Although there was some shuffling among the runnersup in other divisions, Wichita Falls stayed on top in Class AAAA, Ennis in AAA and Iowa Park in AA.

Post lost some of its pull as it nipped Weimer 7-6, while Sonora pounded Bangs 52-0 and Albany blanked Roscoe 40-0. All others in the top 10 won, and Pflugerville moved up to seventh, exchanging positions with White Deer.

Odessa Permian gained one first place vote in Class AAAA victory over Abilene Cooper and trails Wichita Falls by 13 points in the rankings. The Coyotes claimed 12 first place votes and the Panthers had the other three. Austin Reagan moved into fourth behind Port Arthur Jefferson, while fourth-rated Killeen dropped out of the top 10 after a tie with Corsicana. La Marque, South Oak Cliff, Baytown Lee, Arlington, San Angelo, and Beaumont Pollard followed in that order.

Ennis retained its lead over Brownwood in AAA with a 33-8 win over Marlin. Third-rated Brenhan dropped to 10th after a loss to A&M Consolidated. Lamesa fell from sixth to ninth after losing to Colorado City. Jasper took over the third spot, with Monahans edging up the fourth, Plano to fifth, and Daingerfield to sixth.

Iowa Park was an almost unanimous choice as the No. 1 AA school, with the only other vote going to third-rated Refugio. Floydada retained its second place rating and the remainder of the top 10 was the same except that Alpine replaced Granbury after Granbury lost to Fort Worth Kilpatrick.

Highlight games this week include Abilene at San Angelo, Dallas South Oak Cliff against Dallas Wilson, Beaumont Pollard against Beaumont Hebert, Plano at McKinney, Brenham at Houston Elmore, Iowa Park hosting Jacksboro and Sonora against Mason.

Malven Has Grid Ducats

Snyder area football fans who want tickets to the annual Cotton Bowl game next Jan. 1 have been advised to contact Malven Stevenson at his real estate office.

Stevenson handles the sale of Cotton Bowl tickets here each year. He said tickets for the coming Cotton Bowl game are here, but must be sold this week since any unsold tickets are to be returned to Dallas before next week's drawing.

Longhorns Are No.1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Texas Longhorns, defending national champions, sneaked past Ohio State today into first place in The Associated Press college football poll.

Texas, which trounced Rice 45-21 last weekend to run the nation's longest winning streak to 25 games, drew one less first-place vote than Ohio State—16-15—but piled up 670 points to 664 for the Buckeyes, who had to come from behind in the second half to defeat Illinois 48-29.

Some 38 sports writers and broadcasters across the country participated in the poll, which had Ohio State on top all season.

The Longhorns, Buckeyes and third-place Notre Dame all have 5-0 records.

"This really does flabbergast me," enthused Coach Darrell Royal, who once said Texas could never be No. 1 unless every team in the Big Ten had been beaten. "It really surprises me," he added, "but it's a pleasant surprise."

Then he asked with a chuckle, "This isn't the final poll, is it? Notre Dame's still right in there and we have five games left."

Besides Ohio State, fifth-ranked Michigan also is an unbeaten Big Ten team.

Notre Dame picked up four of the remaining seven first-place votes, with one apiece going to No. 4 Nebraska, No. 5 Michigan and No. 7 Air Force. All those teams retained last week's rankings, but Stanford climbed past Air Force from eighth to sixth after edging UCLA 9-7.

Notre Dame was idle last weekend, while Nebraska crushed Oklahoma State 55-31, Michigan whipped Minnesota 39-13 and Air Force trounced Boston 35-10.

Rounding out the new Top Ten were Arkansas, Tennessee and Louisiana State, which were ninth, 11th and 14th, respectively, a week ago.

Auburn, a 17-9 loser to LSU, fell from sixth to 12th and Southern California dropped from 10th to 18th after bowing to Oregon 10-7.

The Second Ten consisted of Arizona State, Auburn, Mississippi, San Diego State, Pittsburgh, Oregon, Missouri, Southern Cal, UCLA and Northwestern.

Last week it was Tennessee, Arizona State, Ole Miss, LSU, Houston, UCLA, San Diego State, Pitt and Colorado and Toledo tied for 19th.

Golden Tors Vs. Matadors

Lo! How the mighty have fallen.

The big surprise in District 3-AAA football last week was Colorado City's 20-10 conquest of previously undefeated Lamesa. Sweetwater also raised a few eyebrows with its 34-0 triumph at Brownfield.

After three weeks of league warfare, Estacado is the only unbeaten team in 3-AAA competition. The Matadors are a full game ahead of runnersup Sweetwater, Lamesa, Colorado City and Brownfield. Estacado is 4-0 in league play while the other four teams sport 2-1 records. Dunbar, 20-6 conqueror of Snyder, remains all alone in third place with a 1-2 mark while Snyder and Lake View, victoryless in three outings, share the cellar.

Lamesa and Brownfield have the best record for the season, having lost only once in six contests.

Several important games are on tap this week with Snyder hosting Colorado City, Estacado hosting Lamesa, Sweetwater at Lake View, and Brownfield at Dunbar.

Royals Win First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit's runaway Pistons set a record for success while Cincinnati was snapping a string of futility.

The undefeated Pistons, making a shambles of the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division, battered Seattle 142-111 Monday night.

In the only other NBA game, the Cincinnati Royals won their first game of the season after five setbacks, walloping Atlanta 126-107.

In the lone American Basketball Association game, the Virginia Squires remained unbeaten and in solid command in the East Division, belting the Memphis Pros 120-103.

The Pistons pulled three games ahead of idle Milwaukee in the NBA Midwest Division and dropped the SuperSonics, now 3-3, into a three-way tie with San Francisco and Los Angeles for supremacy in the Pacific Division.

With Dave Bing leading Detroit's attack with 35 points, the Pistons ran roughshod over Seattle, opened a 15-point bulge after one quarter and expanding the lead to 75-48 at the half.

Despite cooling off in the second half, they ended up with a brilliant 63.9 shooting percentage from the floor. Don Smith topped the Sonic scorers with 19.

Johnny Green was Cincinnati's big gun with 30 points, 15 in the fourth period. The Royals were never headed after snapping a 40-40 tie early in the second quarter. Lou Hudson paced Atlanta with 28.

Virginia cruised to its sixth victory—and consigned Memphis to its third defeat in four games—on the strength of George Carter's 26 points and 24 by Charlie Scott. Jimmy Jones, who tied Wendell Ladner for Memphis scoring honors with 18, became the seventh ABA player to pass the 5,000-point career mark.

In another development, the New York Nets of the ABA announced that superforward Rick Barry, who reinjured his right foot last Friday, will be sidelined for about five weeks with what physicians called a "fatigue fracture."

Hardaway Is Reinstated

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) —Running back Danny Hardaway is back in the good graces of Texas Tech football coach Jim Carlen.

Hardaway, a junior from Lawton, Okla., was reinstated Monday after Carlen had met with seniors on the team. Hardaway was suspended from last Saturday's Southwest Conference game with Southern Methodist for missing curfew.

Carlen pointed out at the Red Raider Quarterback Club Monday that he doesn't buy the Dr. Spock brand of discipline. He said if his children need a whack they get it.

"I don't go for Doc Spock too well," Carlen said.

Carlen said in Hardaway's case "You have to always punish a kid that's playing. If there is any double standard, it has to go in that direction.... a third or fourth team has more justification (for breaking the rules). A kid who's playing should be happy."

Hardaway, a regular, will be available for duty against Rice Saturday.

Carlen's talk about discipline got a rousing cheer from the Red Raider Club audience.

Travis 8th Grade Remains Unbeaten

Travis 8th grade remains the only undefeated, untied team in Snyder between grades eight and 12 after seven weeks of competition. The young Blue Devils have a perfect 5-0 record. For the season, Snyder teams have won 22, lost 13 and tied 1.

Tech Frosh Flail Okies

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Tech freshman football team has broken a 10-game winning streak held by the Oklahoma University freshmen the past three seasons.

Tech stopped the Oklahoma freshmen 18-10 Monday night with four field goals by Don Grimes and Jimmy Carmichael's 24-yard touchdown pass to Andre Tillman.

Grimes booted field goals of 22 and 34 yards in the second quarter and added a 39-yarder in the third to put Tech ahead 9-0. His 45-yard field goal in the final quarter set a school record for field goals in a game.

Linebacker Steve Wade intercepted an Oklahoma pass late in the final period to set up Carmichael's scoring strike.

Dexter Bussey scored for Oklahoma in the fourth quarter with a four-yard run and John Caroll added the extra point before kicking a 19-yard field goal.

Catcher Manny Sanguillen of the Pittsburgh Pirates made 159 hits this year. That's only six less than the Panamanian made in his two previous seasons in the National League.

Booster Club Meeting Set

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 8 p.m. today in the high school cafeteria. Members will see game films of the Dunbar contest and hear scouting reports on Colorado City—this week's opponent.

Many Doctors Reluctant To Perform Abortions

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The liberalization of abortion laws has not broadened the views of the medical community but has polarized them, a New York physician says.

A small proportion of doctors on hospital staffs must perform abortions because of the unwillingness of their collegues, Dr. Robert E. Hall, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Columbia University said Tuesday.

Those who do the work are regarded "with esteem not markedly higher than that previously reserved for the backstreet abortionist," he said in a paper for the American Public Health Association's 98th annual meeting.

The reluctance of some doctors to do abortions in a reflection of a male-dominated society, Hall said, citing a medical journal article which depicted the pregnant woman as a symbol of male potency.

The ability of the woman to terminate pregnancy represents a threat to the male's potency and masculinity, the cited article stated.

Many New York hospitals also are conservative as regards abortion, Hall said, and make it as difficult and expensive as they can for the woman. These hospitals are not conforming with the substance of the state's liberalized abortion laws, he said.

As a result, he said, abortion centers and clinics are being established throughout the state, "soliciting referrals and willing to abort any woman who has the right amount of cash in hand."

A similar thing happened early in the century when hospitals "evaded their responsibility for prescribing contraception" and outside clinics were set up to provide this service, Hall said, but warned that the medical risk of abortion is greater.

Dr. Edmund W. Overstreet, a professor at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, appeared on a panel with Hall and others and predicted that abortion on request soon will become legal everywhere in the United States."

While Hall spoke against abortions in physicians' offices, Overstreet said it may become necessary in order to meet the demand for this service.

In the decade preceding liberalization of the California law late in 1967, there were an estimated 600 therapeutic abortions a year in the state, Overstreet said.

Since liberalization, the number jumped to 24,000 in the first half of 1970 and is expected to total 60,000 to 75,000 for the year, he said.

Decisions Face Baptists

AUSTIN (AP) — The Baptist General Convention of Texas must grapple with some tough problems as the main portion of its 85th annual convention gets under way tonight.

The general convention's Christian Education committee ... borrow money to repay a Small Business Administration loan used to repair Hurricane Celia damage — or withdraw from the convention.

Three hurricane-damaged churches in the Corpus Christi area also accepted federal loans and are expected to feel the heat of some "messengers" to the convention who have stood unflinchingly for separation of church and state.

Another issue will be the recommendation that the Baylor University College of Dentistry in Dallas be removed from convention control so it can seek government financial support. The Baylor College of Medicine in Houston was removed from convention control two years ago.

Another question to be decided is whether to move the 1971 convention from Amarillo to Houston and make it a joint gathering of every white, black and Mexican-American Baptist group in the state—a historic first.

Other issues include a $14.7 million budget, aid to parochial schools, liquor-by-the-drink, drugs, social justice for minority groups and the role of the layman in church.

Some 2,000 messengers are expected to attend the convention.

CampaignPaceQuickens As Election Day Nears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon's impending visit in support of Republican candidates lent impetus today to the final week of the 1970 political campaign in Texas.

Rep. George Bush, the Houston congressman running for U. S. senator on the GOP ticket, made no secret of his pleasure at the stops Nixon will make Wednesday for rallies at the Gregg County airport and in Dallas.

Lloyd Bentsen, the Houston insurance executive who's the Democratic nominee, took a somewhat dimmer view.

Bush, stumping from Orange and Beaumont to Corpus Christi, said Monday. "I'm tickled to death that he (Nixon) is coming to campaign for me. It's good for Texas."

Taking note of deprecatory remarks by some Democrats, Bush said, "The President of the United States is no outsider in Texas or any other state." He added that Bentsen backers had complained because "they are just uptight and scared."

Bentsen, at Mineral Wells, said, "I'm glad President Nixon is coming and I hope Democrats will join Republicans in making him feel welcome. He's the only President we have and I want to support him every way I can.

"I think Texans can and will give President Nixon a colorful welcome—without having to welcome my opponent's coattail tactics."

Bush and Paul Eggers, the Republican candidate for governor, plan to be among those greeting Nixon as he reaches the Gregg County airport about 4 p.m. Wednesday and will accompany him to Dallas for an evening rally.

Speaking at Waco, Bentsen told an audience at the Texas State Technical Institute that politics prompted an administration decision to close the General Dynamics plant employing more than 1,400 in Waco.

"It is becoming obvious that government pressure prompted this alarming decision," Bentsen declared, "since the same work being done here (tests and modification of the F111 warplane) is to be switched to California, where it will cost approximately twice as much. This is raw partisan politics at its worst."

The Democratic candidate also stumped at Killeen, Temple Vernon, Gainesville and Fort Worth before moving on today to Abilene.

Again taking Nixon forces to task, Bentsen said in remarks prepared for his Abilene stop, "This administration permits its White House staff to telephone Texans to try to coerce them into voting for Republican candidates, and yet it refuses to use the great influence of the White House to hold down prices and wage demands."

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

• • •

Q — I want to put in for some expenses I forgot to claim on my income tax return last year. How do I do it and when will I get my refund?

A — To make a change in your tax return obtain a copy of Form 1040X from your local IRS office, enter the required information and send it to the IRS service center for your region.

Generally, you can make a change in your return anytime within three years from the date it was due. Interest of 6 percent a year will be added to your refund which you should receive in 3-5 weeks.

Q — I just sold a vacation home I owned. Can I invest the profit I made on it in a trailer and avoid paying taxes?

A — No, you cannot. The tax law provision that permits the postponement of taxes on the gain from the sale of a home applies only to the taxpayer's principal residence. A vacation home is not covered.

Q — I moved here recently when I changed jobs. Can I deduct my living expenses while I'm getting settled in a new place?

A — You may be able to deduct a portion of your living expenses under changes in the law made by the 1969 Tax Reform Act. If you qualify, meals and lodging while occupying temporary quarters at the new job location for up to 30 days after obtaining employment may be deductible. The maximum deduction allowed for these expenses is $1,000.

For details on moving expenses, send a post card to your IRS district office and ask for a copy of Publication 521, Tax Information on Moving Expenses. It's free.

Q — My children live with me not with my ex-husband under the terms of our divorce. Does that mean I claim them as dependents?

A — Yes, the general rule covering children of divorced or separated parents is that the parent who has custody for the greater part of the year is entitled to claim the dependency exemption. There are exceptions to this rule, however, depending on the actual terms of the divorce and the amount of support furnished by you and your former husband.

Don't forget about the other dependency tests. They have to be met, too, to claim these exemptions. For more information, send a post card to your IRS district office and ask for a copy of Publication 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents."

Nixon Orders More Consumer Data Released

By DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For years the pulses of consumer organizations have quickened at the prospect of getting a peek at what the government—the nation's biggest purchaser—knows about brand-name products.

Now, after a 12-month survey, the government has found it has test and experience data readily available on only three items: hearing aids, surgical soap and tree-marking paint.

Officials made that disclosure Monday after President Nixon formally committed the government to releasing some of the information it gets as it buys billions of dollars worth of goods each year.

The President instructed officials to sift through and release more data—but there remained a question of just how much useful consumer information will result.

In the study that preceded Nixon's executive order, government agencies estimated to presidential consumer assistant Virginia Knauer that only one-tenth of 1 per cent of what the government buys is tested brand-name products.

"I was startled. And those on my staff were startled at how little tested brand names the government used," said Mrs. Knauer at a news conference Monday.

The hearing aid information actually already is public. It was released after Consumers Union filed suit to force the data out of the Veterans Administration.

And the other items—soap used by surgeons and paint used to mark trees along hiking trails—aren't exactly big consumer items.

However, irresponses to Mrs. Knauer's queries, the Commerce Department and Veterans Administration have listed products for which it has test or experience data, although not necessarily by brand name.

The products are water faucet washers, asphalt roofing, vinyl and asphalt tiles, interior and exterior paint, home siding, insulation, sealants and caulking materials, eye glasses, hospital beds, clinical thermometers, dry milk, cream substitutes and elastic bandages.

The General Services Administration, the government agency which does the most purchasing, originally said it could identify no products for which it could provide information from its own testing or experience. But officials in Mrs. Knauer's office say the agency subsequently said it had data on 900 items.

What sort of information on any of these items is available is not known, Mrs. Knauer stressed.

It is now the GSA's job with Mrs. Knauer's advice—to translate the data into a form useful to consumers.

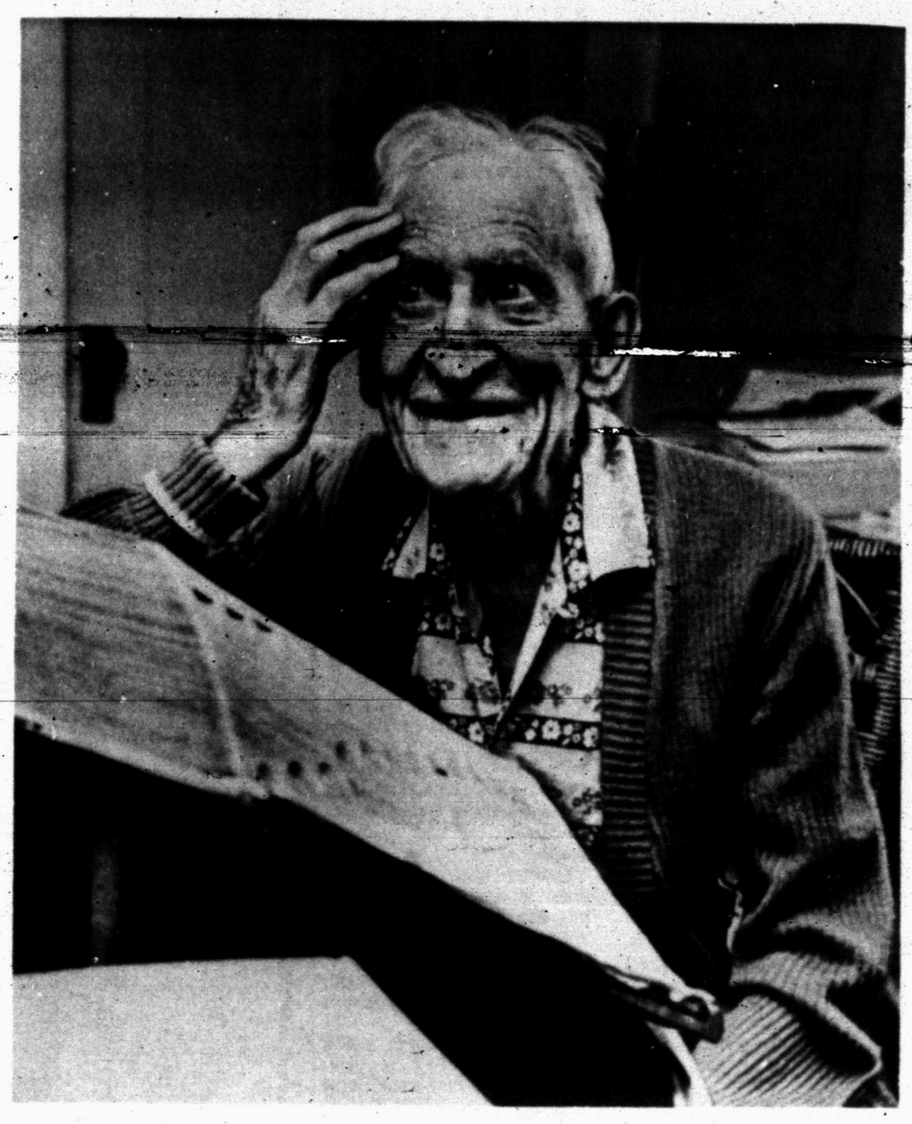

Exactly how this will be done is not yet clear.

Most of the government information relates to specifications drawn up to solicit bids on products most of which are not available in the same form to consumers, officials say.

In the past the government has resisted releasing its specifications or tests of whether products meet the specifications on grounds that suppliers would shy away.

The government also has contended the information is so technical as to be of little use to consumers.

The same arguments were used in initially refusing Consumers Union's request to see the hearing aid data. Consumers Union has said the information is extremely useful.

Scientist Proves Early Man Earlier

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A noted scientist says new archaeological findings prove that man migrated to North America —probably from Asia—30,000 to 80,000 years earlier than previously supposed.

"Man has been in America for more than 50,000 years," Dr. Louis S.B. Leakey told newsmen Monday. "We are satisfied that we have uncovered a new chapter in the history of man in America."

Leakey said small pieces of stone unearthed eight months ago in the Mojave Desert of Southern California show that man lived there at least 50,000 "and more probably 100,000 years ago."

Leakey, one of the world's best known experts on early man, announced the findings at the Leakey Archaeological Foundation, together with scientists who worked under his direction.

Earlier calculations placed man on the North American continent no earlier than 20,000 years ago. The new findings, in a gully near the desert town of Calico, now present scientists with a gap of at least 30,000 years about which they know absolutely nothing, Leakey said.

The stones found at Calico under 22 feet of topsoil apparently formed a hearth about 16 inches in diameter, he said. A colleague, Ruth Simpson, reported that magnetic tests showed the rocks had been subjected to intense heat.

Near the hearth were chips of stone that must have been used for scraping, perhaps to skin animals, Leakey said.

Leakey said carbon dating and other tests place the age of the stones at 50,000 to 120,000 years.

The nature of the soil prevented fossils or other signs of animal or plant life from being preserved, scientists said.

Asked Monday where the first North Americans come from, Leakey said, "They must have come from Asia. Your bisons, your mountain sheep all arrived here fully evolved and undoubtedly came from Asia. Man must have followed them."

Sewer Funds Needed

FORT WORTH (AP) — The most urgent need in Texas' drive for clean water is funds to help cities upgrade their sewer systems, Chairman Gordon Fulcher of the Texas Water Quality Board said today.

He also said it would be unrealistic to expect the state's water to regain the purity it had in the days when the Indians were the only Texans.

Fulcher spoke to the Texas Municipal League.

He noted the board has asked the legislature for $51 million over the next two years to help towns match federal grants for sewer construction.

"Above and beyond our need for sufficient operating funds to do the thing necessary in our clean-up program, that of providing assistance to the cities is the most urgent," Fulcher said.

Fulcher cited Galveston as a city where active work is going on to improve local water quality.

More than 5 million students —or 27.3 per cent of the U.S. high school population—are taking school courses in music instruction.

Drug Workshop For Teachers, Students

By JUDY TERRELL
and
JAMES HOOD

Students and teachers representing several Snyder Public Schools attended a drug workshop, Oct. 21, at Travis Junior High School. The program was under the direction of John Short, high school counselor.

The idea for the workshop started with a bill passed by the legislature stating that Texas public schools must have some type of drug education program by the 1971 school year. The workshop held in Snyder attempted to get a rough sketch of how drugs could be put into next year's school curriculum. Students and teachers participated in order to help find a successful way of presenting drugs in the schools.

At the local workshop Dr. Wilton N. Jones and Jerry McWilliams, local pharmacist, spoke to the group concerning drugs.

Dr. Jones led the group in a discussion concerning the drug problem in Snyder. He also explained the effects of different types of drugs. This was done as an informal discussion session.

McWilliams gave a talk on the different types of drugs, their content and their effects on the human body. Questions and answers followed his discussion.

Short and Fred Beard, principal at Lamar Junior High, were accompanied by Denise Voss, Judy Terrell, Bill Branson and James Hood, Snyder High School students, at a previous workshop held in Sweetwater during the latter part of September, which was sponsored by the Texas Education Association and the Region XIV Education Service Center. Bill Merkel, drug consultant of the Abilene regional center led the workshop. The purpose of this workshop was to instruct the district representatives to bring back ideas to their local schools to help start their own workshops.

"We hope the parents as well as the whole town of Snyder realize the drug problem. We also hope they will be eager to help if called upon," Short said.

Illness Traced To Chicken

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Nine Edgewood High School pupils were in satisfactory condition Tuesday with symptoms similar to a food poisoning attack that struck nearly 200 pupils and teachers last week.

A total of 178 Edgewood pupils and teachers were treated for food poisoning Friday in Laredo while on a football trip. Health officials blamed the affliction on fried chicken bought here.

A hospital spokesman said the nine pupils under care here Monday were among those who went to the Laredo game.

Jose L. Gonzalez, director of the Laredo-Webb County Health Department, said Monday tests showed fried chicken bought in San Antonio "definitely" caused the food poisoning.

"All other foods brought by the students from San Antonio and those purchased (in Laredo) were also analyzed in the laboratory for bacterial contaminants with no significant results," a report released by Gonzalez said.

He said soft drinks from concession stands at the football game were being tested in Austin.

The Health Department said doctors reported several pupils who became ill actually were not victims of food poisoning. They said it was a case of "mind over matter" for those particular pupils.

Edgewood School District officials announced Sunday they will make an investigation to find the cause of the affliction.

Frazier Denies Slayings

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — The bearded young man accused of murdering five persons at a luxurious hilltop mansion denies doing it, public defender James Jackson says.

Jackson, court-appointed to defend John Linley Frazier, said at a news conference Monday his client has told him he did not kill the victims and didn't know them.

Frazier, 24, was arrested last Friday as he slept in a dilapidated cowshed where he lived—less than a half mile from the mansion where four days earlier five people were found shot dead and thrown into a swimming pool.

The victims were Dr. Victor Ohta, 45, his wife, Virginia, 43, their sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and his secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Jackson said Frazier's actions "are not like those of a normal person ... He does not understand the gas chamber. And he does not know right from wrong."

The attorney said Frazier's personality "changed radically" after an auto accident last May in which he suffered a head injury.

One person, described as a close friend, told a newsman that Frazier was "a fairly straight family-oriented sort of a guy" until about May, when he quit his job as an auto mechanic and "turned almost overnight into another wired-up hippie."

He separated from his wife of four years a short time later.

Jackson said he had no immediate plans to change Frazier's "not guilty" plea to a plea of insanity because he feels the evidence is all circumstantial.

But Jackson said David Marlow, former chief of the University of California psychology department on the Santa Cruz campus, had talked to Frazier four times and "is expected to testify that Frazier is not mentally competent."

Rockefeller Orders Apples

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has ordered that at least an apple a day be given to residents of institutions operated by the state Departments of Social Services and Mental Hygiene.

"If everyone would eat an apple a day all would be better off," Rockefeller said.

New York State is a major producer of apples.

Challenges Discussed By TESCO President

COLORADO CITY — Challenges that Texas Electric Service Company will face in the future and how they will be met were discussed last night by Burl B. Hulsey Jr., company president, in speaking to some 350 employees and their guests at the Civic House here.

Speaking at the annual meeting of employes to honor members of the company's Quarter Century Club, Hulsey pointed out the growth in size and reliability of the company's power system, noting that the present generating capability is 25 times what it was 25 years ago.

He said that because of the present sufficient fuel supply, adequate electric generating reserves and construction work in progress, the company is not faced with the problem of blackouts or brownouts.

In touching on some of the challenges facing the company both now and in the future, Hulsey emphasized the rising costs of operations and of borrowing money for construction purposes. The company recently sold $25 million in first mortgage bonds at an interest rate of 8¾ per cent, almost double the interest rate paid just five years ago, he said.

TESCO realizes its environmental responsibility, Hulsey assured employes, and has been working not only to preserve the environment but also to enhance it whenever possible.

He cited two examples, one the catfish growing research project being carried on at the Morgan Creek plant near Colorado City and another, the long-term leasing of Lake Colorado City shoreline to the State for a park.

Hulsey presented Quarter Century Club award watches to two employes who had completed 25 years of service with the company during the year. The two are D. A. Merritt of the Sweetwater distribution department and E. G. Smith of the Morgan Creek plant.

Other members of the club attending the meeting were introduced by B. L. Brown, division manager, who was master of ceremonies.

Old Glass Paves Street

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — More than a million used glass bottles and jars collected by Southern Californians have gone into the nation's first city street of glasphalt, a new paving material.

The 600-foot-long street, in an industrial area, is a result of federally sponsored research begun three years ago at the University of Missouri.

The problem: do something useful with waste glass and thus correct America's mammoth trash problem.

One solution: blend 12 parts broken glass, six parts stone dust, one part asphalt and a half part lime, producing the new surfacing for roads.

Researchers said glasphalt passed all significant tests before being tried here, although they will watch the street carefully to make certain jagged edges do not result which could puncture tires.

Since last spring, the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute has been paying half-a-cent a bottle for used glass at eight recycling centers in the Los Angeles area.

The volume has reached a million bottles a day.

Most of the glass is melted down to make new containers. But about 300 tons of reclaimed, crushed glass went into the three-inch thick paving on the new Raymer Avenue here.

Developers of the industrial park where the street was laid gave the city a five-year guarantee the road would be satisfactory.

Draft Dodge Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr has offered a possible way to duck military service for some lucky ticket holders from the nation's first draft lottery.

He established a policy Monday that permits men who drew numbers over 195 in the December 1969 lottery to drop their student, occupational, fatherhood or hardship deferments and declare themselves 1A before the year ends.

Exposure to the draft for any part of the year counts for the entire year, Tarr said, and the candidates are then moved to a less vulnerable category in 1971.

Tarr said number 195 "has been projected as the highest number which any local board can reach" in 1970 and higher numbers appear safe as the Vietnam war de-escalates.

The procedure also would be "helpful in gaining an accurate picture of the nation's manpower situation," he said.

The dodge won't help ticket holders from the second draft lottery last July, however. They will be in the first-priority group facing the draft next year and shifting to the 1A category would merely expose them all year. But they could wait until late in 1971, determine their number's probable safety and then voluntarily join the 1A manpower pool.

The policy statement also asks local draft boards to give prompt consideration to requests to drop deferments and be reclassified as draft-eligible.

Tarr warned deferred men that they must give proof in advance to their local draft boards if they want their student, occupational, agricultural, fatherhood or hardship deferments renewed.

Application Made For New Bank

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Banking Department says it has received an application for a proposed "Republic Bank of San Antonio," with $400,000 capital, $400,000 in surplus and $200,000 in reserves.

Proposed directors are Robert A. Hollingsworth, Ted N. Marosis, Douglas L. Saunders and James D. Stewart, all of San Antonio, and Arthur Mitchell of Austin, the department said Monday.

By offering tax benefits, a central European location and a stable industrial climate—no strikes in 40 years—the government of Luxembourg has induced foreign investors to build new factories there.
