Gas Line Making Business In Santa Fe Yards

The Texoma Natural Gas Company is this week unloading in the Spearman yards of the Santa Fe 82 cars of 24-inch pipe, which is the first consignment of a shipment of more than 250 cars, which will be unloaded at this point within the next two weeks.

This pipe is to be used in the construction of a natural gas pipeline running from the Hutchinson and Moore county fields to Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and other northern states.

The line when completed, will be the property of the Continental Construction Company, Inc., of Kansas City.

Two crews of workmen are busy unloading the pipe, and other crews are busy stringing the same along the right of way.

This line will run across the R. P. Kern property, one-half mile west of Spearman.

It is rumored that another big natural gas line will be built across this section soon, making three in all. The first one built runs across the J. A. Ward farm, five miles west of town. The exact location of the third line is not known at this time.

The Phillips gasoline line, running from the Phillips camp near Borger to Kansas City and other points east, is now under construction.

Getting Ready For School

Julia Wilbanks, baby daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. H. L. Wilbanks, and Gerald Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Davis, had their tonsils removed while Dr. Powell, specialist, was in the city Wednesday. Gerald is the son of the manager of the Spearman Equity Exchange. There was really nothing very serious about either of these operations, tho it would be hard to make the kiddies think so. They are merely getting ready for school. Roy Boney of Morse and J. A. Willey of Gruber were other patients of Dr. Powell Wednesday.

The managers and employees of the Gruber Motor Company and the McClellan Chevrolet Company and their families were entertained with a delightful picnic at a scenic spot on the Palo Duro on Tuesday evening, August 19, given by the McClellan Brothers, members of the two firms.

The picnic was featured by many laughable athletic stunts. There were numerous car-bumping contests, the main event being between the two managers, Bill and Ted McClellan. The judges of this feature event decided that it was a draw between the two contestants with the exception that Ted lost the rear one-half of his shirt in the encounter.

At a late hour eats were spread and every person present proved his ability as a consumer of no mean ability. After various topics of conversation, including politics, were exhausted the merry-makers departed for their respective homes. The party numbered forty.

Spearman Day at The Tri-State Fair

AMARILLO—Tuesday, September 25, has been set aside by the directors of the Tri-State Fair association as Spearman Day, and all residents of that county are extended a special invitation by Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the association, to attend the fair on that, their own day, on any other day.

Under plans now being completed by the association, this year's fair will far surpass that of any previous year.

Cash prizes, aggregating $18,000 will be paid to exhibitors at this year's fair. Of this amount $5,000 will go to beef cattle exhibitors; $3,000 to swine exhibitors; $3,000 will be paid in agricultural premiums and $500 to exhibitors of pot stock.

A zoo crammed to overflowing with animals of every type will be one of the attractions.

A new automobile building, costing more than $25,000 is being erected for this year's fair and will be completed September 1.

The largest exhibition of farm implements ever shown at a fair in any part of the United States has been arranged for and will be on display. Each night before the grandstand, Ernie Young's Revue in "Spanish Nights" will be given.

Each afternoon Leonard Stroud and his troupe of trick and fancy riders will entertain the crowds, while other riders will vie for prizes aggregating $6,000 to be given to the winners in the rodeo contests which will be staged daily.

These attractions outlined above are only a few of those arranged by the association to make this year's fair the biggest and best ever.

A WIERD BET IS THIS

In the event Mrs. Ferguson wins over Mr. Sterling in Saturday's primary election, N. L. Beck will roll a peanut with a 20-pound crow-bar from the Triangle Service Station No. 1 down Davis Street to Main, around the Hastings Drug corner to the Morton Ford corner and return to place of beginning.

In the event that Mr. Sterling wins, Dallas Boland will do the peanut rolling stunt, using the same implement.

Pat Nelson is to referee, and guarantees to see that the loser delivers the goods.

The stunt will probably be pulled off Sunday morning following the election Saturday.

Jonathan Intercedes for David
The beginning of Saul's jealousy of David was in a popular refrain which was passed from mouth to mouth after David had slain Goliath. The women of the different towns sang it with exultant dances and with timbrels, coming out to meet Saul as he returned from the war with the Philistines. It was not a song likely to please such a monarch as Saul, for it ran:

"Saul hath slain his thousands, And David his ten thousands."
Fits of insane melancholy seized Saul and as David sought to soothe him with his sweet singing and playing on the harp, he twice hurled his spear at him and tried to kill him. And still further, seeing David was favored of the Lord and of the people, Saul ordered all his servants, and Jonathan as well, to seek opportunities and put David to death. Learning thus of David's imminent peril, Jonathan contrived an interview between his father and himself. It was venturesome for Jonathan to do this, for he might easily turn his father's wrath against him. Thus Jonathan was ready to lay down his life for his friend, or at least to jeopardize his favor with his father, and perhaps risk succession to the throne. He must also have realized by this time how likely it was that David, with his great natural gifts and his vast popularity, would succeed to the kingdom rather than he himself. But Jonathan was entirely happy in the prospect of his friend's exaltation. He was glad to say, as John the Baptist said of Christ, "He must increase, while I decrease."

Jonathan's Covenant With David
Sam. 20:14-17
Before Jonathan separated from David, he repeated their covenant of friendship, extending it to include their families, far into the future. Jonathan foresaw that David and not he himself would succeed Saul as king, and it was the brutal custom of the East, on the accession of a new dynasty to control it in power by putting to death all descendants and relatives of the preceding monarch.

"But thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house forever," Jonathan has asked for his own life, when David should come to the throne, and now he asks also for the lives of his children and their children, whom David's zealous followers, if not David himself, might massacre in such a case. "So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David." With David as representing and binding his descendants as well as himself, David remembered this covenant and was true to it in the kindness which, after Jonathan's death and his own accession to the throne, he showed to Jonathan's lame son, Mephibosheth (2 Sam. 21:13; 21:7). "Saying, And Jehovah will require it at the hand of David's enemies," v. 16. "The thought seems to me that if the covenant were broken by David, God would see that David's enemies punished him for his faithlessness."

was thoroughly devoted to his father. Such blindness comes from jealousy! "Whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to put David to death."

David's Lament For Jonathan
And Saul. 2 Sam. 1:17-27
The circumstances of the deaths of Jonathan and Saul were related to our last lesson (1 Sam. 31:3, 4). Saul was a suicide, killing himself in the battle rather than fall into the merciless hands of the Philistines. Jonathan died bravely fighting his country's foes.

The final passage in our lesson is a part of David's lament for Saul and Jonathan. The entire song should be read. It contains several of the most familiar quotations from the Old Testament.

"The artistic skill with which the successive thoughts of this ode are introduced is equal to the beauty and passionate tenderness of the thoughts themselves."

"The writing of such a song, the spirit of admiration and eulogy which pervades it, and the unusual enactment that it should be taught to the people, show how far superior David was to the ordinary feelings of jealousy, how full his heart was to the generosity."

The Love of Jonathan for David
In one respect the friendship between Jonathan and David was unique; it was a friendship between the heir to the throne and the one who was to succeed to the throne. In all ordinary cases such men would have been rivals, perhaps bitter rivals, for one would have found it hard to love the man who was destined to supplant him; while the other would have found it difficult to love the man he was to supplant. "The love of Jonathan for David," says Matheson, "rests upon a totally different level had no barriers; it coincided with his interest. But the love of Jonathan for David had every prudent argument against it. He puts out his hand to save the destroying hand of his father a man whom the popular voice had predicted to be his own supplanter. In this he is animated by a purely personal liking, he is an absolute spend-thrift for the sake of love."

"David and Jonathan" is a combination of two for three thousand years has grown in meaning. This friendship is the heritage of the human race; it represents in meaning and influence that of Damon and Pythias, and just for the reason that it has in it an element not found in theirs.

Experiments in everything from socialism, communism, dictatorship, and absolute and limited monarchy have been tried in this world and found wanting. A monarchy, to be sure, would be the best of all governments provided we could have an intelligent sympathetic executive at the head, but such men cannot be selected either on a basis of military following

Until something better itself we will be satisfied with democratic government, making, its appeal to the masses, its apparent indifference to all the other usages and customs that are created because too many unintelligent people

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR AUGUST 24, 1930

General Topic—Jonathan and David: A Noble Friendship
Scripture Lesson—1 Sam. 18:1-4; 20:14-17; 32-34, 41, 42; 1 Sam. 1:25-27.

1. Sam. 18:1. And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul that the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2. And Saul took him that day, and would let him go no more home to his father's house.

3. Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul.

4. And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his apparel, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

1 Sam. 20:14. And thou shalt not only while yet I live show me the loving-kindness of Jehovah, that I die not.

15. But also thou shalt not cut off my kindness from my house forever; no, not when Jehovah hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth.

16. So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, And Jehovah will require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17. And Jonathan caused to wear again, for the love that he had to him; for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

32. And Jonathan answered all his father, and said unto him, therefore should he be put to death? what have I done?

33. And Saul cast his spear at him to smite him; whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to put David to death.

34. So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no food the second day of the month; for he was grieved for David, because his father had done him shame.

41. And as soon as the lad was gone, David arose out of the place toward the south, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times, and they kissed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.

42. And Jonathan said to David in peace, forasmuch as we have sworn both of us in the name of Jehovah, saying Jehovah shall be between me and thee, and between thy seed and my seed, forever.

And he arose and departed; and Jonathan went into the city.

2 Sam. 1:25. How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! Jonathan is slain upon thy high places.

26. I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: Very pleasant hast thou been unto me; thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women.

27. How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished! Time—Jonathan's victory at Michmash, B. C. 1085. David and Jonathan make their covenant, B. C. 1073. David and Jonathan part, B. C. 1068. Death of Jonathan, B. C. 7063.

Place—Saul's capital, Gibeath Mount Gilboa, where Saul and Jonathan died.

Introduction
One of the most difficult of all Christian virtues to put in practice is that form of generosity that can without jealousy see another advance into the place of honor and advantage that would naturally have been ours—or seen help him on and into it. It always demands something of that emptying of self that Saul preaches of Jesus (Phil. 2:7).

Another shining Christian grace is unswerving fidelity in friendship; friendship love to the limit; and until death; and beyond. Now these are the distinguishing marks of the friendship of Jonathan and David. The friendship of these two men, Saul's son and Saul's enemy, has become an undying ideal of human friendship; as Jesus' out-lasting love for sinful men is of the divine. The Damon and Pythias of Holy Writ are these two young Hebrews.

The Victory Over Goliath
It is not wonder that David's combat with the Philistine giant Goliath, won the immediate admiration of Jonathan. The crown prince was prevented in some way, perhaps by absence, perhaps by Saul's will, from undertaking the battle himself; but we may be sure that he would have liked to do so. Jonathan had the same impetuous bravery that animated the young shepherd, and showed it in his exploit at Michmash (1 Sam. 14). Both were ready to make the most of the weapons and forces at hand. Both young men had "the strength of an ox" because their hearts were pure. Both were capable of the most ardent devotion to high and unselfish ideals. Such is the material of true friendship. David, after his victory over Goliath, was brought before Saul, and his answers to the king's questions were so mainly as to arouse the prince's instant admiration. "And Jonathan loved him as his own soul."

Saul Tried to Kill Jonathan
"And Saul cast his spear at him to smite him." Saul's mania had reached such a pitch that he was ready to kill his oldest son, his heir, the hope of the kingdom, a young man of ideal character who

ANOTHER FAMOUS 14 POINTS

DEVELOPED FROM MORE THAN 10 THOUSAND OBSERVATIONS DURING THE PIKE'S PEAK TEST, NOW BECOME YOUR GUIDE WHEN BUYING MOTOR OIL

Between September 6 and October 5, 1929, three popular nationally known brands of motor oil were tested side by side with CONOCO Germ-Processed oil on Pike's Peak under the supervision of the American Automobile Association Contest Board.

The Board's findings have been expressed briefly in the "fourteen points" below.

- 1 That the test procedure was followed accurately and that no deviation therefrom occurred which might seriously affect the soundness of any conclusions based upon the data;
- 2 That a reduction in the rate of wear occurring during the use of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil over that occurring with the other oils used to the extent of 76.4 per cent was shown during these tests;
- 3 That greater stability of the subject oil during these tests was shown by records of examination of drained oils being nearer the viscosity of the original or fresh oil and by chemical tests of drained oils with the fresh oils;
- 4 That frictional temperatures occurring during the use of the subject oil were lower than temperatures occurring during the use of the comparables;
- 5 That higher compression pressures were obtained with the use of the subject oil during these tests than with the use of other oils. It would be directly inferred that this was caused by better ring seal;
- 6 That using the subject oil and during each test, greater gasoline mileage for economy was obtained than during the use of the comparables;
- 7 That less oil consumption as shown by the records of these tests occurred with the use of the subject oil;
- 8 That carbon deposits collected from the combustion chambers and cylinder heads and weighed by the official chemist were shown by the records of the test to be less after the use of the subject oil than after the use of the comparables;
- 9 That the subject oil showed a reduction in the case of crank-case dilution during these tests;
- 10 That during these tests the subject oil showed improved compression pressure, decreased rate of crank-case dilution and decreased gasoline consumption, indicating an improved ring seal;
- 11 That a reduction in the operating fuel and oil cost occurring during these tests with the use of the subject oil is substantiated by the records;
- 12 That with the use of the subject oil there occurred less deviation from engine to engine in compression pressure at starting speeds (as shown by the records) would indicate that improved compression at higher speeds might have occurred during these tests;
- 13 That the reduction in the rate of wear occurring during these tests with the use of the subject oil as shown by the records would indicate a longer motor life;
- 14 That while there is no reason to suppose that results similar to those of this test would not show under other conditions, it is important that reference to these findings be accompanied by the statement that, in so far as the report is concerned, they cannot, as conclusions, be extended generally. However, the inference that they might be so is reasonable and rational, although not conclusive.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., St. Louis, Mo.

BACILLARY WHITE DIARRHEA A "PIPE DREAM?"

Widely Differing Opinions Have Been Printed About This Disease. Most Investigators Now Agree That Blood is the Only Dependable Means of Detecting its Presence in the Parent Stock. Sanitation and Elimination of Carriers the Effective Weapons Against find experts of unquestioned reputation who assert with positiveness that Bacillary

White Diarrhea (B. W. D.) is one of the most serious diseases of poultry. It is a disease of the blood, and is transmitted from hen to chick through the egg. These writers are also of the opinion that the blood test is the only sure means of detecting the disease in mature fowls. My own study of the disease extending over a number of years convinces me that the true B. W. D. is a genuine contagious bacterial disease transmitted from hen to chick through the egg, and is quickly spread from affected chicks to others in the brood.

This fact should be fully realized by poultry raisers everywhere. For B. W. D. is one of the worst diseases affecting baby chicks. Losses up to 50 per cent are not uncommon and not infrequently 80 to 90 per cent of a hatch will be wiped out. Of those that survive, many will retain the germs in the ovary or egg sack where they will find their way into the egg causing infections of future generations, if these birds are used for breeders. The most critical period is during the first 48 hours. All cases of bowel troubles in baby chicks are not B. W. D. by any means. Simple Diarrhea is not contagious, and it is usually caused by faulty feeding, improper brooding, dampness, etc. Affected chicks are dull, dispirited and deject looking. In the most serious cases a white pasty substance closes up the vent. As a result the chick becomes pot bellied and utters a pitiful "peep-peep" indicative of great pain. Death usually follows in a few hours. Those only mildly affected may develop rapidly, show no outward signs of the disease and reach maturity with the germs concealed in their ovaries. Such fowls are called carriers or re-actors.

Since carriers show an external evidence of their condition, the importance of finding some way to detect these disease spreaders has long been recognized. Several tests are now available, but the most reliable one is that known as the Agglutination Test. There are many biological laboratories in the country capable of making such tests. Once it has been determined which hens are the carriers of the disease, they should be separated from the flock and used no more for breeders.

Steps can be taken to limit the spread of the disease. Baby chicks should be divided into small flocks of 100 or 200 or less. By this means they can be watched more closely. If any are noticed with bowel troubles, they should be removed at once and either kept to themselves a few days for developments, or killed and burned. Droppings should be cleaned out often. Feeding and watering equipment should be kept scrupulously clean at all times. Floors should be cleaned often and disinfected with a 3 per cent dip and disinfectant solution. Dry, clean litter should then be placed on the floor. By covering the brooder room floor with half-inch mesh wire, raised a few inches from the floor, will do a lot to prevent the spread of the disease. Chick Tablets should be dissolved in all drinking water for the first three weeks. Fresh buttermilk or clabbermilk should be fed daily in clean protected vessels.

Only feed of the best quality should be fed. It is especially important that incubators and brooders be thoroughly scrubbed and disinfected before being used for fresh hatches. A very important factor in the control of this trouble is to keep houses, runs and all equipment in 100 per cent clean and sanitary condition at all times by cleaning often and using only a good dip and disinfectant. The germs of B. W. D. may remain alive for months and unless such precautions are observed may cause an outbreak of the disease. Copyright, 1929, by Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.

WOMEN DICTATE AUTO FASHIONS

American women dictate the purchase not only of their own cars but of those of the family. Only bachelors run sheepishly around in automobiles of their own choice. Nicholas Trott, motor expert, declared in the current number of Woman's Home Companion. "The mirror," says Trott, "is becoming a more powerful salesman than any well-groomed man on a sales floor. When a woman wishes to look over a car, a long pier mirror is wheeled around so that she may see how her costume fits with the color of the body and how her lines coincide with those of the car."

"Body manufacturers," Trott says, "are kept on the jump to suit the tastes of women who want to match cars to their costumes. The woman who can afford but one car is the most particular. Those with many costumes are less particular, but they are fastidious. I recently met a woman with a peculiarly colored dog. She was bound to have a painting job that matched him. She paid plenty for the car, but she got what she wanted, as most women car buyers always do."

"Reds is often in demand as a color for a car, but we never let one go when we can, because of rules in outlying towns, which forbid cars to have the same color as those of the fire or police department."

"Gasoline tanks in cars were moved forward," says the writer, "because women refused to scramble out and watch the measure."

MR. AVERAGE FARMER BROADCASTS

Station YFBL—Yours for Better Livestock—Mr. Average Farmer doing the talking. Well, the summer's just about over. In fact, it already has ended and is the middle of the winter as far as I am concerned when I measure out feed for my milk cows. I am giving them the same rationation as I fed last January, and don't even turn them out in the pasture anymore.

"They're paying me big dividends on my investment, too. The milk produced is holding up wonderfully, and the test is as high as ever. I am keeping an accurate set of books, and they show me that am making more money so far this month than I did in June. That's a help."

"I raised a pretty good alfalfa crop this year, enough to last all winter, I think. Along with that and plenty of silage I am feeding my milk cows a grain ration consisting of 200 pounds of ground barley, 300 pounds of ground oats, 200 pounds of wheat bran and 100 pounds of linseed meal. My cows are Holsteins, so I feed them one pound of grain a day for each four pounds of milk. Farmers who have only Timothy or prairie hay should use 300 pounds of linseed meal in the grain ration instead of 100, because these days are low in protein. I have three cows that are to freshen early in November, and I am drying them up this week, because eight weeks of rest before calving will insure higher production and a better calf. Experience has taught me that.

Well, I'll see you again soon. Station YFBL—Yours For Better Livestock—signing off.

second In Command

ile the Sterling-Ferguson will dominate the run-off priond at Texas forget for a e the importance of nomi the right man for lieuten- governor. The history of the it has happened many times the lieutenant governor be the governor and filled the most acceptable, and with cret than his predecessor, xample, right here in Texas, levision of Will Hobby Jole the impeachment of James

E. Ferguson. In the coming primary we have two candidates for lieutenant governor. One is Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, an elderly extravagan- salesman with no legislative back- ground, but only the record of hav- ing briefly attempted to win a seat in the United States senate as the enthusiastic champion of the Ku Klux Klan. The other is one of the soundest men in Texas, Edgar Witt of Waco.

Considering the circumstances, with its possible eventualities, Witt's nomination for second in command is significantly impor- tant. West Texas voters should line up with him in a body, for here is his legislative record:

He actively supported the legisla- tion creating Texas Technologi- cal college.

He was a leader of the movement in behalf of the over-burden- ed cowman and helped put over the act to re-value their lands.

Senator Small's river-bed bills had his enthusiastic support, and he was one of the senators to vote for their re-passage over the gov- ernor's veto.

It was Witt, who, in the regular session of 1929, introduced the resolution asking congress to place an import duty of $1 per barrel on crude oil; and he was one of the authors of the pipe line bill sponsored by independent oil operators of Texas before the last special session.

West Texas cotton farmers have not forgotten jim bollworm regu- lations. Witt supported the bill set- ting up appropriations to pay them for losses incurred in enforcement of the quarantine.

Witt's home folks are sad on him. He has been in the senate of Texas for 12 years. He was way in army service, when his friends put his name up as his first term; and against a candidate who cam- paigned the district, he won by a seven-to-one vote. He has been re- elected twice without opposition, and in the primary of July 26 Mc- Lennan county endorsed his candi- dacy for lieutenant governor by a vote of 10,305 to 3,128 for all his opponents combined, the candi- date nearest him receiving only 957 votes.

Attack Ferguson Pardon Record During Last 29 Days In Office

Senator Witt has been a mem- ber of all the important commit- tees of the upper house, chairman of most of them at various times. He has the support of nearly every colleague in the upper house, and is completely deserv- ing of West Texas support.

Texas will never be shamed by the type of candidacy represented in Edgar Witt.

COMMUNISTIC AGITATION

We hear much about communis- tic activities and the spread of ultra radical views throughout the country these days. The cause of this is obviously due to the busi- ness stagnation of the present months and extensive unemploy- ment throughout the country. With the next few months or a year at most, when business is again rolling forward, the voice of the radical element will become faint.

But right at present it is a bit annoying, and may prove to have its undesirable effect upon the political situation within the next few months. People who are in straitened circumstances finan- cially are apt to be against every- thing that is an ready to adopt anything that is new.

For these reasons it is up to business and industry to attack these distressing problems that create unemployment, and elimi- nate as nearly as possible the hard- ship that comes into countless thousands of homes when work is hard to find.

Business men and thoughtful economic observers are the ones who have the knowledge and ex- perience necessary to correct the economic evils of these times. Our entire business or economic sys- tem is a delicately poised mechani- sm. The thousands of sources out of which it has evolved can be understood only by those familiar with the system.

To expect reform and improve- ment from the inexperienced radi- cal who knows little about the countless forces that play upon our economic life is like expect- ing the man who cannot drive a car to design a new and better model.

NATURALLY

The inquisitive old lady was bending over the bed of a wound- ed soldier whose head was swan- ed with cotton and linen.

"Were you wounded in the head my boy?" she asked.

"No'm," replied a joint voice. "I was shot in the foot and the bandage was slipped up."

PAINFUL OCCASION

"Well, how did you enjoy your visit to the dentist's?"

"I was bored to tears."

On Saturday, August 23, the people of Texas will be called upon to decide one of the most mo- mentous questions which has ever been presented to them. That ques- tion is whether the law enforce- ment forces of the State are to be demoralized by a wholesale policy of executive interference through an abuse of the pardoning power. What this would mean may be judged by the actual record which the Ferguson made when they were in control of the State Govern- ment before. The Dallas Dia- patch of August 13 printed an editorial which gives a graphic pic- ture of this record. It is given herewith for your information:

EDITORIAL.—To the Friends of the Victims. Quoting from the record, the secretary of state presents the pardon statistics for the last 29 days of Jim Ferguson's wife in the office of Governor.

They show 35 men pardoned who had assaulted Texas women and girls. Can the mothers of Texas respect the appeal for their votes of a woman governor who in less than one month will turn loose on them a horde like that?

In that brief month 133 men convicted of murder were given unconditional freedom. Do the kind men and friends of the slain who speak to them no more but whose memory they treasure be- lieve that justice has been done in freeing 133 murderers in that brief last month in office?

The record shows 124 robbers pardoned in that brief time. Can the filling station operators, drug store owners, and other victims of hucksters believe that all of a sudden 124 of the type who victimized them and were caught became sufficiently repentant and reform- ed to justify their freedom?

And in the list was 127 liquor law violators. Do you doubt that a large percentage of these par- donees have returned to their stills and their bootlegging?

There is a promise to pardon 2900 more if the woman is again elected governor. It is said that all the friends of all the convicts will vote for her in hope and anti- cipation. Where will all the friends of all the victims be on election day and how will they vote?

The people of Texas do not know this record. If they did there would be no question about the result of the election. Consider that more than four murderers a day were turned loose on society during the final twenty-five days of Ferguson's term. Do you know more than four robbers a day, more than four bootleggers a day, and more than one rapist a day? Jim Ferguson is declaring in every speech that 2,000 of the murder- ers, robbers, bootleggers, and rapists now in prison will be turned out without delay if his wife is elected to be a figure-head Govern- or. It is not necessary to picture to you the absolutely demoralizing and paralyzing effect such an event would have upon the law-enforc- ing machinery of the State. It would make of Texas the Mecca of the underworld. If the people of Texas could appreciate what this would mean, they would rise in indignation and banish the Fer- gusons from our public life forever.

BANKER'S POLL SHOWS GOOD TIMES RETURNING

"Good Times" will return to America in October, bankers of the country voted, 2 to 1, in a poll analyzed in The American Magazine by Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Commerce.

The remaining one-third of the bankers polled put the date not later than January 1. All predicted a healthier condition than pre- ceded the 1929 debacle. "The climb will be healthier than that after any previous depression," Klein declares. "The condition of 1929 was hysterical. We are head- ing toward an earned prosperity rather than hysteria. We will arrive at the brass tacks era rather than another brass band age."

Klein points out that eleven de- pressions in the past forty years were on the average, or about 13 months' duration. In no case, he adds, have these depressions, es- pecially that of 1929, covered areas on the business map as have those of 1907 and 1921.

Outright stockholders in the six major corporations of the United States have increased by nearly 200,000 since the market crash, Klein says. Business and invest- ors are more closely knit by im- proved transportation and com- munication. The country profits by improvements in a similar one. "Foreign trade," says the As- sistant Secretary, "will grow with the stabilization of foreign buying power, because Europe still buys half its needs from America. We will have a far more substantial economic body after the passing of the cream-puff age in business."

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Important rides in its southwestern natural gas production program is reported by the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company. With a goal of 800,000,000 cubic feet open set for December 1, the completion date of the company's huge natural gas system from the Tex- lucky, two new wells have just been completed which raise the company's available production at this time to more than 100,000,000 cubic feet. The Fannie Fern Weymouth Number 1 gas well, located in section 37, block B-10, EL&ER survey Potter County, Texas, is open flow with a rock pressure of 430 pounds. The producing horizon was topped at 1745 feet and drilling continued to 1875 feet. The well is situated at the junction of Red Draw and Plum Creek Canyon, and the company spent a week building a road to the location before drilling equipment could be moved in. Another well recently completed is the Burnett No. 1, section 29, block 5, I&GN survey, Carson County, Texas, which has an open flow of more than 15,000,000 cubic feet. Six Mo-Man rigs are drilling in the Panhandle, and eight in the Hugoton field of Southwestern Kansas.

Chevrolet Announces New Price Reductions on Sport Models

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 14.—Price reductions of $40 on all sport models in the Chevrolet Six passenger car line were announced here today by H. J. Klinger, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

The models affected are the Sport Roadster, which is now priced at $515; the Sport Coupe, reduced to $615; the Club Sedan, now $625 and the Special Sedan $685. All models formerly were priced $40 higher.

This latest move of the company brings the price range of the Chevrolet Six to less than that of the four cylinder Chevrolet at the time of the changeover at the close of 1928. At that time the four cylinder was priced from $495 to $715, while the nine different passenger models in the six cylinder line today range from $495 to only $685, following this latest reduction.

The move of the company comes after the announcement that the new wheels may now be had on optional equipment without extra cost of any Chevrolet Six passenger cars.

The Mystery of The Ice Business

How does the ice industry continue to grow with so many mechanical refrigerators on the market? The question has been asked again and again by the very small section of the general public who know that the ice business is growing. By far the greater majority of people believe that this once great industry is in a decline. The facts are otherwise, and the following article, entitled "What of the Ice Business?" by Charles C. Small, president of the American Ice Company, explains why it is otherwise.

The reader of this article perhaps thinks that the ice business is a dead way, or a long while ago. He has no doubt seen nothing the advertising display of the manufacturers of the small mechanical household refrigerator—many he owns one himself. If he knows that some of his friends have become owners, coming from this he has likely concluded that everywhere this machine prevails and he asks himself what is going to become of the ice industry in the face of all this of business? Let us now look into the facts.

First of all, we find that the large ice companies handled more business last year than in any previous year, and showed larger net earnings for their stockholders than in any previous twelve months. Not only more business in dollars and cents, but actually these companies sold more tons of ice. And all of this in cities where for five or six years past the mechanical refrigerator was being pushed skillfully and aggressively by some of the best merchandisers in the business world.

"These facts are all a matter of record, but most persons usually overlook them or forget them when the subject of the ice business comes up for discussion.

"I sometimes mention the facts to my friends and they listen politely but I know that they remain mystified.

"However, the mystery begins to clear up when one takes time to really study the ice business.

A Large Market

"One clue to the situation was revealed some years ago by Henry Ford. Although everybody wants to own a motor car, over half of the population, as Mr. Ford discovered, is quite happy with a good cheap car which costs you there. Some buy Packards and Lincolns, but the bulk of car owners buy Fords, and Mr. Ford's profits, accordingly, are them all.

"A nice little engine of ice factory in your home or office is all right enough if you can afford it, but most of the ice it produces isn't any better than the product placed in your refrigerator by the ice man, and where the machine may be able to reduce the temperature in the food chamber a few degrees lower than the temperature in an ice-cooled box, there is nothing wrong with the quality of refrigeration supplied by melting ice. In fact, it is just a little bit better because it is more moist and the food doesn't dry out so quickly.

"It is conceivable that some day everybody will leave Mr. Ford and the other producers of good cheap transportation and turn to Rolls Royces, but most of us would be willing right now to buy a few shares of stock in Mr. Ford's business provided that they can be had without paying too large a premium.

"And so it is in the ice business. There are millions of families in the United States whose total ice bill averages not more than $9 a year. What practical appeal has a machine for them? Of course, every year thousands of folks move into the Packing class, but for each such instance there are hundreds of Ford business to start on the Ford basis.

"The above is, of course, not all of the story of the ice industry. I use the illustration merely to indicate one of its basic factors of strength. There are other features equally significant and distributing costs through the application of engineering science, the continuous development of new uses for ice and refrigeration and so on. But it would be tiresome to describe these. However, they all go into the making of a successful ice business and in them lies the other part of the answer to why the volume grows and where the profits come from, in the face of the new competition."

KONJOLA ENDS NEURITIS AND STOMACH PAINS

Grateful Man Eager to Endorse Famed Medicine That Did So Much For Him

MR. W. T. BRYANT

"Konjola is the best medicine ever made," said Mr. W. T. Bryant, 1009 Merrell Street, Oak Cliff, near Dallas. "Neuritis became so severe in my leg that I could scarcely walk. There was a constant ache in my back and shoulders. I could never get a perfect night's rest. My bowels were irregular and I was constantly taking cathartics. I always had a sour stomach, frequently accumulations of gas and severe headaches. My vitality was at a low ebb, and I felt miserable.

"After trying Konjola on a trial I am a different man. Konjola re-energized my organs to normal condition and they now function perfectly. I am no longer bothered with indigestion or constipation. The neuritis pains have completely left me and my entire system is in good condition. Konjola deserves all the praise it gets—and more."

When taken for six to eight weeks, Konjola the new and different medicine, will work wonders. It will astonish those who suffer from the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and osteoarthritis, neuritis, and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Spearman at Hastings Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

YOUTH AND AGE

"What this town needs," we frequently hear, "is more young blood in its various community activities. The old stagers who have made their way are not so interested in seeing the town boom as the younger folks."

There is much truth in this, but of course we must recognize the need and value of older heads in all effort to promote the town's business and industrial interests. For real progress in Spearman we need the co-operation of both old and young.

For a community is not essentially different from a business, and how successfully a combination of youthful enthusiasm and mature judgment carry the affairs of an organization forward to success.

Youth is the time of ideas, enterprise, and enthusiasm. It is impatient of delay and ever ready to plunge ahead in search of new fields of activity.

Age is the time of judgment, caution, and analysis. It is hesitant about rushing into error. It wishes to take time to consider.

Logically the best course is somewhere midway between these two points of view. A community or business made up entirely of young men would be eternally plunging into costly errors, making a considerable furor but accomplishing little. A community or business handled entirely by old men would be continuously planning and considering, but getting little started.

Hence it becomes evident that a community prospers and progresses most when we have both old and young men co-operating for the best interest of the town.

Announcing a new production record

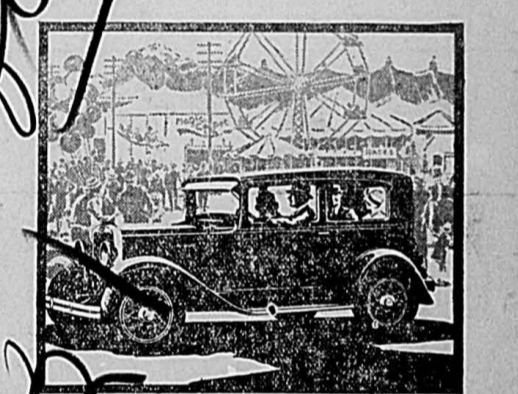

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

- the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—the greater comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil,

Does Spearman Need A Library

Spearman is a progressive city; it is the center of a progressive country. The citizens of these plains still have that pioneer spirit of the men who just brought civilization to the prairies. Now we are concerned with making that civilization more complete.

But Spearman has no library. The school library serves those of school age, but it is apparent that it cannot suffice for the town. We are careful to give the younger generation the advantage of a good education. Why not give them the advantage of a library as well?

Every business man in Spearman knows that he would be benefited by a library.

Housewives would find a good book a very refreshing means of relaxation both mentally and physically.

People of the surrounding country have time in the winter months that could be improved by a library.

In fact, there is no one who would not be the better for this institution. It is really needed.

What do the people of Spearman think of it?—Nova Schubert.

A necessity is a luxury that you see in a neighbor's home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burran enjoyed a pleasant drive to Gruver last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Hobart Dick and son Bennie Fred spent the week end in Amarillo visiting friends and relatives.

J. T. Smith, good farmer of the north flats country, was in the city Thursday and was a pleasant caller at this shop.

Albert Burran, representing Trinity Portland Cement, in the city looking after business matters and visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burran.

Henry Klutz, who has been in ill health for the past six months, was taken to Baylor hospital at Dallas last week by Mr. and Mrs. Ike Klutz, for examination by specialists. His many friends sincerely hope that the needed relief soon will find the needed relief from his illness and soon will be restored to his former good health.

Business Houses Will Close Two Hours For Ball Games

We, the undersigned merchants, and business men of Spearman, agree to close our places of business Tuesday, August 26, from 3 to 5 p. m., that all who desire may attend the ball game in Spearman played between the Lions Ball Club and the Cris ball team. It is the opinion that most all visitors to Spearman on that date will attend the ball game and do their trading after the game.

City Gets Farmers' Money, Says Jardine

"If a farmer becomes prosperous, what happens to the money he makes?"

This question is answered by former Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine, in the current issue of the Country Home.

The city gets it in the end, he says.

"On the face of things it appears that everything else would take care of itself if the farmer is given more money and allowed to spend it as he wishes," Jardine continues. "But experience proves that this is not necessarily true. Many families, relatively prosperous, move to town to get the benefits of the city's standard of life. The prosperous farmer either sells his farm or places a tenant in charge. In the latter case, the farm must support two families. The new man has his fortune to make out of the soil. The owner spends his income on things that deprive his farm community not only of his money but his intelligent direction of his farm, his income is spent in the town. If he sells it outright, his wealth goes into stocks and bonds, which enrich the cities. If he stays on the farm, his surplus wealth goes into securities that build the cities. The perennial loss of surplus wealth from the country is one of the outstanding causes of a barren country life. It is slow to accumulate, but surplus wealth can do a great deal if it is wisely utilized. It should be the means of making the farm home a desirable place to live," Jardine declares.

BUY WITH SAFETY

Two men claiming to be English sailors visited a neighboring city recently with a stock of alleged orientals smuggled into the United States, so they asserted in their sales talks. These were offered at ridiculously low prices and sorry to relate many citizens of that community took the bait.

Long before the poor quality was discovered the glib talking salesmen with a picturesque yarn aroused interest which was hundreds or thousands of miles away. And a few more people will have learned that it pays to do business with local merchants whose business life is dependent upon a reputation for fair and honest dealing.

If people would stop one reason they would readily see that

Two colored men were standing on the corner discussing family trees.

"Yes suh, man," said Ambrose "I can trace my relations back a family tree."

"Chase 'em back to a family tree," said Moses.

"Now, man, trace 'em, trace 'em."

"Well, they ain't but two kind of things dat live in trees. Big and monkey, and you sho' ain't got no feathers on you."

TEACHERS WOULD STOP CHILDREN'S HOME WORK

A committee of New York teachers has made a strong protest against "home work" for high school pupils. Irritation of being asked to "do problems" on which the old folks are a bit rusty, is one of the reasons, resulting from letters from annoyed parents.

"Parents, no matter how patient," pleads one teacher in the Woman's Home Companion, "aren't much use with home work. Methods have changed. Arithmetic, spelling, geography and history are taught in terms different from those which the elder generation remembers. Forty years ago the high school curriculum consisted of nine subjects. Today there are 250 distinct subjects covered in high schools. Any boy or girl may come home any night puzzling over
