TROOPS CLASH AS RUSSIA BREAKS WITH CHINA

Wichita Falls And Surrounding Cities Report Season's Highest Temperatures

CROPS SUFFER DURING DAY OF EXTREME HEAT

Hot Winds Accompany Blistering Rays of Sun to Wilt Plants

MERCURY HITS 108

Iowa Park and Several Other Points Report 110 Degrees

Temperatures that shattered the year's record and soared to extremes that would kill droves in the larger eastern cities, where a 90-temperature takes its scores of victims, were felt in Wichita Falls and its neighboring cities in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma Wednesday.

But the only loss of life attributed to the heat that had been reported to the Record News at a late hour was that of an overheated monkey in Frederick, Okla.

Aside from this fatality, the damage centered among the late crops, which suffered intensely from the heat and the hot winds.

New Record Here

The Wichita Falls temperature of 108 degrees established a new record for the year, but such an extreme was not without precedent, that temperature having been reached on June 28 of last year. However, the gradual approach to that mark, gained slowly over a period of 18 days during which the mercury each day attained 90 degrees or over made the peak temperature hard to bear.

Neighboring cities were less fortunate, record temperatures of 110 degrees being somehow endured in Iowa Park, Memphis, Haskell and Hollis, Okla. Other records were reached in Electra and Vernon where the temperature equalled that of Wichita Falls, in Clarendon, where it soared to 109 degrees, and at Borger where the mercury stopped at 107 degrees.

107 at Childress

Childress' temperature reached a maximum at 107 degrees.

Complete reports of the heat situation in representative towns of this area, as reported by Record News correspondents, follow:

IOWA PARK—With a record temperature for the year here today when the mercury went to 110 degrees, dry land crops were considerably damaged and are greatly in need of rain. The irrigated land crops apparently suffered less from the sun and hot wind.

ELECTRA—The mercury here today reached 108 degrees, the highest for the season. All late seed crops were suffering from the hot winds and the beating sun. Cotton was holding up under the heat, but rain is greatly needed.

VERNON—A record for the season was set today when the thermometer registered 108 degrees during the afternoon. No prostrations were reported, but crops in the region suffered from the heat, especially the dry land crops and late seed crops.

CHILDRESS—With a maximum of 107 degrees for the day and a temperature of 102 even late in the evening, late seed crops in this section were considerably damaged today. The cotton seemed unhurt, but all lands need rain.

MEMPHIS—Summer crops were wilted by the hot winds and scorching sun here today when the tem-

Colonel Smith returned with the legal document and handed it to George, saying: "I hope you and Liza will be happy together."

"Liza!" exclaimed George. "I told you Hannah, colonel."

"Well," replied the colonel, "I will get the license changed, but it will cost you $3."

George reflected a minute, then replied:

"Bos, I'll just keep this license—there ain't $3 difference in them gals."

TEXAS ACCEPTS 2 AMENDMENTS

Latest Figures Show 2 to 1 Count

(By The Associated Press)

Although an in-road was made Wednesday in earlier returns from Tuesday's election unofficial returns, tabulated by the Associated Press from more than 100 counties, cities and towns, indicated the two constitutional amendments had been accepted by the Texas electorate.

Early returns, mostly from the larger cities, showed a ratio of nearly three to one in favor of the amendments, but as rural districts, especially those of the Panhandle, reported the majority was cut to a little better than two to one.

The last compilation approved the measure to increase the salary of the governor from $4,000 to $10,000 by 21,145 votes to 10,134 against. The amendment to add six more justices to state supreme court was favorably reported by a vote of 21,670 to 9,737.

Should the official count confirm the unofficial figures it would mark the end of efforts of years standing to give Texas' chief executive a salary increase. Several previous attempts at the polls were turned down. The measure, however, would not become effective until 1931, or until after the election of a new governor.

The court amendment, advocated by bar associations in order that legal procedure might be speeded up, was voted upon for the first time Tuesday.

It would become effective in 40 days, the new members of the court to be appointed by the governor. Five members of the court would constitute a quorum, and it would require the assent of at least five members to establish a decision.

The further flow of returns continued to confirm early predictions that the amendment balloting was the most apathetic election ever held in Texas. It was estimated that less than 10 per cent of the qualified voters exercised the right of suffrage.

C.-C. DIRECTORS FAVOR DEEP OIL TESTS

Board Names Committees To Draft Program For Wichita Area

INDEPENDENT PROJECT

C.-C. Leaders See Favorable Prospects for New Producing Levels

Directors of the chamber of commerce in a meeting held Wednesday asked the oil and gas committee, of which Landon H. Cullum is chairman, N. H. Martin, and Harry Hines, directors, to proceed as soon as possible with the formulation of plans for the encouragement of drilling for deep oil in the vicinity of Wichita Falls.

Foster Tests

The plan for fostering deep oil tests was first presented to the chamber of commerce by N. H. Martin in January, it was said. The directors have been investigating the project, and recently many suggestions and plans have been submitted by different citizens, officials said. No particular plan has been endorsed by the organization, and no funds of the chamber of commerce are to be used in any such drilling projects, it was announced. Every possible aid will be given, however, to fostering deep tests along practical lines, and it is possible that a definite plan will be submitted to the board of directors for its approval within the next few weeks, it was said.

Members of the board stated that many experienced oil men and geologists have declared that structures in the vicinity indicate oil is paying quantities at depths lower than those from which present production has been drawn.

Besides Mr. Cullum, the oil and gas committee includes Ed Petersen, C. P. Burton, Walter N. Alexander, E. H. Eddleman, Reese E. Allen, W. T. Knight and E. P. Bass.

Oneal Urged for Post

Approval was given to the work which has been done recently by officials of the chamber of commerce in Wichita Falls' trade territory. Co-operation with different cities and towns in the territory in connection with highway development and other community projects was reported. The board asked that such extension activities be continued.

Application of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway for permission to build a line from Childress to Pampa, and that of the M.-K.-T. railway to purchase the Beaver, Meade and Englewood railway, were approved. The hearing on the first case will be held at Fort Worth July 29, the other at Oklahoma City July 26. J. W. Chatham Jr., traffic manager of the chamber of commerce, and J. C. Mytinger were authorized to represent the organization at the hearings.

Endorsement of Ben G. Oneal for appointment as one of the six fish and game commissioners for the state, who are to be named by Governor Moody before Sept. 1, was forwarded to Austin by unanimous vote of the directors.

Opposition to any tariff on oil also was contained in a motion passed by the body.

BIG JOB

Red Hen Adopts Family Of Puppies and Now All Are Pleased

Special to the Record News.

COLEMAN, Texas, July 17.—A Rhode Island hen, owned by C. C. Cornelius of this city, has tackled a big job, having adopted four English bull pups, about four weeks old. The hen, pups, and mother of the pups all seem to be pleased with the adoption. The hen is very attentive and remains with her canine family day and night, hovering over them at night, while the mother dog is unconcerned and only serves when meal time comes, and then it is necessary to conscript her for that important service. The pups do not understand what their new mother means by clucking and scratching, but they are perfectly content when she hovers them, and they nestle close to her at night. The hen adopted the puppies about 10 days ago. She does her best seemingly to understand them, but when they pull her wings and get rough with her, she seems to be puzzled, yet she apparently enjoys their companionship and will not permit any intruding on her rights.

SOLONS CLOSE SESSION'S WORK

House Recesses Until Time To Adjourn Sine Die

AUSTIN, July 17. (UP)—Work of the present session of the Texas legislature was brought to a practical close late today when the house adjourned to 11:30 a. m. Saturday, just half an hour before the time set for sine dine adjournment.

The senate recessed until tomorrow.

Prospect of a fourth special session vanished today when Gov. Dan Moody was shown a $8,000,000 error in his calculation on state appropriations. Until today he had thought a $6,000,000 appropriation for rural school aid was a part of the board of control budget. He learned that appropriations made by this session are $2,000,000 less than the board of control recommended for the purposes.

At a short session this afternoon lack of a quorum in the house forced withdrawal of two tax resolutions.

One resolution called for a committee to draft tax laws carrying out the suggestions of the state tax survey. The other proposed a committee to enforce adequate rendition for taxation of sulphur, oil, gas, salt, coal, lignite, and other underground sources of wealth.

A compromise bill to force the insurance of all school houses was ordered printed for information of next session on the pledge of advocates that no attempt will be made to pass it at this session.

Under the proposed bill a school board refusing to insure will have the insurance placed by the department of education. The premium cost will be withheld from the schools' apportionment.

AUDITOR FILES REPORT ON COUNTY FUNDS

$100,000 Deficit Looms If Rate Is Unchanged, Says Barnett

OFFICIALS WARNED

Commissioners to Debate Issue at Special Meet Friday

A ten-cent increase in the county tax rate for 1929, bringing it to 85 cents on the $100 valuation, will be recommended in the auditor's financial report to the commissioners court in a special meeting to be held Friday morning, according to an announcement made Wednesday afternoon by Paul Barnett, county auditor.

The increase is necessary to avert a serious financial crisis within the next two years, Mr. Barnett declared. A much greater increase will be necessary to meet the 1931 obligations of the county unless some immediate provision is made to increase the surplus in the interest and sinking funds, the auditor explained.

Sinking Fund Tax

The proposed increase applies only to the interest and sinking funds and has no bearing on the operating expenditures of the county, Mr. Barnett said. It will be necessary in order to meet obligations already incurred, he declared. The greatest need lies in special road and bridge funds Nos. 1 and 2, both of which have heavy principal and interest payments to meet annually, according to the auditor's interpretation of the figures prepared by the department. Cuts in the rate and the retirement of a number of outstanding bonds have so reduced the surplus and the revenue for these funds that they will be heavily in the red by 1931 at the present rate, Mr. Barnett asserted.

The auditor will suggest to the commissioners that they increase the county revenue $80,000 in 1929 by raising the rate for special road and bridge fund No. 1 from 1¼ cents to seven cents, and by increasing that on No. 2 by a jump from eight cents to 17 cents. In

Frederick M. Kelleher, Veteran Of Oil Industry, Claimed by Death

"Uncle Fred" Land and Lease Expert, Succumbs at Hospital Wednesday Night; Services Set Friday

Frederick M. Kelleher, 69, considered by oil men as one of the most widely known figures connected with the industry in the Midcontinent fields, and for many years head of the land and lease department of the Texas company, died about 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night in a local hospital.

During 23 years of active service in Oklahoma and Texas, Mr. Kelleher had become known to hundreds of his associates in the unending quest of productive lands as "Uncle Fred." It was said that he purchased for the Texas company probably the major portion of the immense acreage developed by that concern in North Central Texas and in the panhandle territory. When he resigned from their employ about two years ago, it was to enter the ranks of the independents in the Wichita Falls district. His activity continued until a few weeks ago.

Mr. Kelleher became identified with the oil industry early in life. He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 3, 1860, and in his teens worked as a telegrapher in various cities of that section, principally for newspapers and brokerage houses.

Worked at Famous Exchange

He next took a position as telegrapher with the old Oil Exchange at Bradford, Pa., an institution made famous among the old-timers by the legendary exploits of "Coal-oil Johnnie," and by the transactions in oil stocks, fabulous in amount in that period.

While engaged with the Old Exchange, Mr. Kelleher served two terms as comptroller of the city of Bradford. At the same time, his interest extended to the production phases of the oil industry, occasioning frequent trips to the old Spindle field in South Texas, as well as to productive areas in Indiana, Oklahoma, Montana and Kansas. He came to Oklahoma in 1906 and became connected with the old Producers' Oil company, from which

WHEAT PRICES SCORE GAINS

Bad Weather Spells Doom Of Canadian Grain

By WILLIAM B. McKENNA

CHICAGO, July 17. (UP)—The world, with more wheat in its bins than ever before at this season, suddenly has awakened to the fact that the crop which should supply its needs a year hence is fast deteriorating the result of a long period of hot, dry weather. As a result prices of the commodity are mounting to new high levels, as traders of every nation attempt to profit from the situation.

The prairie provinces of Canada, which last year produced 518,000,000 bushels of the world's supplies, are the center of the big crop scare, but Australia and Argentina also are reporting weather most favorable for starting their grain.

Heat Finds Canada

Canada today experienced temperatures bordering or 100 degrees, a condition spelling approximate disaster for the weakened spring planting.

The American northwest has been subject to practically the same drouth conditions as Canada, and B. W. Snow, one of the country's best known crop experts, estimates the spring wheat crop of North America at least 400,000,000 bushels less than in 1928.

From the huge crop of last year there is expected to be a carryover of over 100,000,000 bushels in ex-

Fruit Fly's Havoc Starts Gossip Which Closes 12 Florida Banks

TAMPA, Fla., July 17. (US)—Florida faces an amazing condition tonight with 12 banks closed as virtually the direct result of the havoc wrought throughout the state by the Mediterranean fruit fly.

The financial institutions that failed to open their doors for business today, it is stated, carried deposits totaling $40,000,000.

A peculiar aspect of the situation is found in the statement issued this evening by State Comptroller Ernest Ames to the effect that the failures were due to "unfounded rumors" and not to real business conditions in Florida.

The real cause for the closing of the banks, Comptroller Ames declared, was a condition brought about by "unwise gossip" concerning depredations by the fruit fly; to "chronic croakers predicting that the hegira of the fly meant the ruin of Florida's products for the season with resultant financial disaster."

Men and women, alarmed at the gossip, started withdrawing their deposits, and a run on the banks resulted.

SOVIET FORCE REPULSED IN RIVER BATTLE

Army of 40,000 Reported In Readiness to Invade Manchuria

Russia Breaks Diplomatic Ties as Sequel To Rail Seizure

LONDON, July 17. (Thursday) (US)—Coincident with reports from Riga that a new note had been handed to the nationalistic Nanking government by the Soviet government breaking off diplomatic relations, it was reported that a large Russian armed force was preparing to enter Manchuria. This Russian expedition, according to the Daily Telegraph correspondent at Peking was equipped with airplanes and poison gas.

According to a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Shanghai, 40,000 Russian troops were massed between Blagovestchensk and Manchuli, facing Chinese troops at several points.

Another dispatch to the Daily Mail said that Russian troops had attempted to cross the Amur river but were repulsed.

RUSSIA BREAKS OFF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

MOSCOW, July 17. (AP)—Russia tonight broke off dilpomatic relations with China.

The soviet government made public its reply to the Chinese note, the latter having come in response to an ultimatum from Russia. In this note the soviet union said all means of reaching an amicable settlement had been exhausted.

The note placed the entire responsibility for all consequences on the Chinese government.

It further declared all soviet officials would be recalled from the Chinese Eastern railway, that all railway communications between soviet territory and China would be suspended and that the diplomatic consular representatives of the Nanking government would be ordered immediately to leave the union of soviet Socialist republics.

The soviet note said that the Moscow government would reserve all the rights arising from the Peking-Muleden agreement of 1924.

It declared the Chinese reply to the Russian ultimatum was unsatisfactory in content and hypocritical in tone.

Countering the Chinese charge that Russia had been persecuting Chinese citizens in soviet territory, the note said that this was a hypocritical endeavor by China to justify its own outrages in the arrest of Russian citizens. The note declared the nationalist government knows Russia has had recourse to repressive measures only in the case of insignificant groups of spies, opium traders, white slavers, smugglers and other criminal Chinese.

BREAK CAME AS REPLY TO ULTIMATUM WAS DUE

The Russian action in breaking off diplomatic relations came at the expiration of time set in an ultimatum the soviet union dispatched to the Chinese republic July 13. That ultimatum gave the nationalist government at Nanking three days in which to rescind its action in seiz-

Baby Girl Drowns in Bathtub As She Plays With Young Brother

Despite almost two hours of work with the lung motor, alternating with the prone pressure method of resuscitation, ambulance men of the Merkle Undertaking company were unable to bring Myrle Smith, 10-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, 2410 Polk street, back to life after the infant had drowned in the bathtub at the family residence about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Smith had been bathing the infant and a two and one-half year old brother and had taken the stopper from the bathtub. When the water had drained to a level of about three inches, the mother went across the street to use a telephone, leaving the children in the tub. She returned in a few minutes and found the infant girl face down in the tub, the water being at the same level as when she left. The small boy had either stuffed a wash rag into the drain or allowed it to become caught there, preventing the water from draining out, it was said.

When she could not revive the infant, Mrs. Smith sent a frantic call for help. All efforts of the ambulance men and a physician proved futile in forcing the small body to breathe again. The body was taken in charge by the Merkle company.

Funeral services will be held from the family residence at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment will be in Rosemont Burial park.

Mr. Smith was in Oklahoma on a business trip at the time of the accident. Mrs. R. A. Gentry, mother of Mrs. Smith, who has been visiting friends in Tyler, Texas, will arrive in Wichita Falls Wednesday night.

$7,500 BOND FOR SCROGGINS

Olustee Farmer Waives Preliminary Hearing

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, July 17.—S. B. Scroggins, Olustee, Okla., farmer, held in connection with the death here two years ago of John Slaughter, nightwatchman, today waived preliminary hearing, and his bond was set at $7,500.

E. A. Simpson, Amarillo, special prosecutor in the case, whose aid was enlisted by Clarendon citizens, and other prosecuting attorneys made no objection to the amount of the bond. The case was bound over to the grand jury, which meets next October.

Scroggins' attorneys announced his bond would be completed Thursday. Meanwhile the defendant was taken back to the county jail here.

In the hearing conducted by Justice of the Peace L. O. Lewis, states' attorneys introduced in evidence a statement officers said was made by Walter Scott, negro, taken in custody a few weeks ago in Wichita Falls. The statement will thus become a part of the evidence to be examined by the grand jury.

Scott made statements implicating a man he said he had worked for in Clarendon, officers said. His employer, he said, made him an offer to kill Slaughter. Scott is now in jail at Amarillo.

The case is attracting wide interest, and a full courtroom today witnessed the brief proceedings.

Scroggins was brought here recently from Oklahoma. He waived extradition and came with officers willingly, expressing surprise at the proceedings, and denying implication in the killing. Slaughter had been one of his best friends, he said.

Three former members of the chapter who had not been present at a meeting of several years, were among the guests Wednesday night. They were Harry Cohen, George Rose, and Everett N. Latham. About 10 master Masons also were present.

ing the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria.

It also demanded restoration to office of Russian rail officials deposed and the liberation of all Russian nationals who had been imprisoned. By the terms of the ultimatum the closing of Russian institutions in Manchuria, such as banks, railway unions and business syndicates, also was to be rescinded.

Time Expires

The three days specified in the ultimatum expired Tuesday, but the soviet government learned that there had been a delay of 24 hours in translating and transmitting the note to Nanking. With this time added, the ultimatum expired at midnight Wednesday, which was almost the exact hour at which announcement of the break was made.

Nanking had sent a reply which the Tass agency, official Russian news distributor, described as "a conciliatory communique." As given out in Moscow, the Chinese nationalist government in this reply said it desired peaceful relations with the soviet union and that measures taken at Harbin ought not to affect the relations. The intimation was that they were directed at individuals rather than at the Russian state itself.

The Chinese note stated it had been written before the entire text of the Russian ultimatum had arrived at Nanking, but that enough had come to make the general tenor of the communication understandable.

While Tass described this note as "conciliatory" and while that estimation was echoed from Tokyo, the popular opinion was reflected by mob attacks upon the Chinese consulate in Moscow. These were especially violent on Tuesday night.

Aside from this evidence of hostility, there was little to indicate the imminence of a break. An indirect dispatch by way of Riga, Latvia, said that L. M. Karakan, vice commissar for foreign affairs, had handed a note to the Chinese representative at Moscow which expressed surprise at the vagueness of the Nanking reply to the ultimatum. This report also said that M. Karakhan refused to take any responsibility on behalf of his government for alleged activities of communist propagandists in Manchuria.

It was this alleged activity in spreading Soviet doctrines that the Chinese blamed for the entire situation.

On May 27 a number of raids were made by Manchurian authorities on the Russian consulates in Haroin and other cities. Chang Hsueh-Liang, present war lord of Manchuria, reported to Chiang Kai-shek, nominal head of the nationalist government, and to C. T. Wang, foreign minister, that these raids had uncovered indisputable evidence that Rusisans in Manchuria were violating the anti-propaganda clause of the 1924 treaty.

In explaining the seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway, Nanking spokesmen said that China was determined to stamp out communism and especially to do away with the under-cover spread of doctrines aimed at weakening the nationalist movement. They declared that they were actuated only by motives of self preservation in taking this course and as late as Tuesday evening one of those spokesmen declared that the government was determined to hold that which it possessed.

WASHINGTON DOESN'T THINK THEY'LL FIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 17. (AP)—Severance of relations with China by Soviet Russia was viewed by Washington diplomatic circles tonight with apprehension but with the conviction that it did not necessarily presage war.

perature rose to 110 degrees, setting a new record. Nearly all crops were damaged, cotton less than any of the others.

CLARENDON—Apparently the record temperature recorded here today when the mercury rose to 109 degrees had not hurt the crops, but considerable damage will result if there is no rain within the next week. The cotton and hardier crops seem to be holding up well, but others are beginning to wilt.

BORGER—Borger and Hutchinson county today sweltered under the highest temperatures of the year, the mercury climbing to 107 at 3 o'clock this afternoon, according to the thermometer at the bureau of mines. Crops in the region were damaged and are in need of rain.

HASKELL—The heat wave here reached a maximum for the season today when the mercury went to 110 degrees. The minimum for the afternoon was 104 degrees. Crops in the district were considerably damaged.

HOLLIS, Okla.—Cotton in this region is suffering from the hot wind today when the temperature went to 110 degrees. Other crops were wilted and damaged. There is great need of rain within the next few days.

FREDERICK, Okla.—The temperature reached 104 degrees here today, and was about the same yesterday. Aside from thirsty crops the only damage that has resulted was the loss of a monkey yesterday. The animal died as it sweltered in a cage in front of a cafe here. It belonged to a show company.

Shade Big Item For Church Club's Meeting

The wisdom of assembling in the shade by the river's edge being emphasized by the prevailing torrid weather, the monthly dinner of the men's club of the Floral Heights Methodist church will be held Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Dan Boone park, according to officers of the club.

Besides an elaborate picnic dinner, an abundance of cold drinks will be provided to follow the horseshoe tournaments and other contests which have been planned for the occasion. A challenge from Lon S. Cowling Jr. to the entire membership of the club for horseshoe pitching honors has been promised many takers, it was said. Frank B. Creighton will be in charge of other games.

Sam Householder of Byers and R. H. Henry of Burkburnett will speak following the dinner. Milt Gaines, who is in charge of arrangements, emphasized the invitation extended to all men of the church to be on hand at 6:30 p. m.

cess of the previous period, but in a world which is accustomed to consume about 70,000,000 bushels more each succeeding year, this will give only partial relief if nearly three-fourths of the world's wheat country, now complaining of adverse conditions, produce only a small fraction of their expected yield.

Millers Buy Wheat

That European importers, who were refusing wheat at 50 cents below present levels late in May, are alive to the uncertainty of the world wheat situation was shown by today's seven cents higher close at Liverpool, and the volume of late wheat purchased by United Kingdom millers on the advance.

Sensational gains registered in all wheat have attracted a wider speculative interest than at any time in recent history. Grain brokers on the Chicago board of trade are swamped with buying orders from all parts of the country and new records for business in the wheat pit have been established in the week's three session.

In sharp contrast to the conditions of less than two months ago, when wheat was selling down to nearly 90 cents on the board of trade here, today's closing quotations ranged from $1.44⅞ for the July delivery to $1.84⅝ for the December. Gains over Tuesday's closing levels amounted to from 7⅞ to 8⅝ cents a bushel.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practic, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, billiousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health; keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?—Adv.

Show-down test . . . at Roosevelt Field, New York, reveals the true cigarette preference of Aviators.

DEATH PLOTTED FOR INSURANCE

Attorney Sought for Hiring Gangster to Kill

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., July 17. (UP)—After months of comparative lassitude, southern Illinois—one time home of machine-gunning gangsters—has developed a "murder mystery reminiscent of the days of Charley Birger.

The only fly in the ointment is the fact no one was murdered.

But that doesn't seem to matter to southern Illinois, for a warrant has been issued for the arrest of a prominent St. Louis attorney—R. Fhad Bennett—charging him with hiring an alleged gangster to kill a West Frankfort, Ill., bankrupt, one Olin King, now residing in this county, for his $15,000 insurance.

To bring a four-day old story right down to date, Bennett is "believed to be" in Florida; King is at home in Carbondale, admittedly "afraid of my life," and the alleged gangster's whereabouts are known only to himself and authorities, neither of whom will divulge it.

In short, the weirdest police chase in recent southern Illinois history has entered a lull that may presage a storm, and increasing indications are that before it is closed, the lid may be blown off several heretofore ambiguous situations.

Bennett allegedly contracted to have King killed to permit him to collect $15,000 insurance on King's life, of which he was beneficiary by virture of a mortgage on the intended victim's defunct business.

The mystery of the case lies in the fact that last Thursday King supposedly "disappeared," when as a matter of fact he went into hiding with the full knowledge of authorities in an effort to trap Bennett.

King's car was reported found badly battered in an abandoned road in this county, with nearby evidence of "a terrific struggle," while reports were sent out to that effect, King in reality was reading them in the seclusion of a Belleville, Ill., hotel.

The tipster—allegedly approached by Bennett to put King out of the way for $1,500—actually went straight to the authorities, took them into his confidence, and got orders to "appear to go through with this thing so we can trap this man."

After the reports of King's disappearance, the tipster told authorities he returned to Bennett and received $260 on account with a promise of the remainder as soon as King's $15,000 life insurance was paid to Bennett.

The entire ruse was designed to lure Bennett into the state of Illinois from his home across the Mississippi river in St. Louis. That ruse failed, newspaper men finally "got wind of it," and forced the whole matter out of the authorities, who promptly issued a warrant for Bennett's arrest.

Filipino Siamese Twins Take Sisters As Brides in Impressive Ceremony

By H. R. ERKINS
United Press Staff Correspondent

MANILA, P. I., July 17.—Before 5,000 persons at Loudres church in Intra Muros, the old Spanish city of Manila that is surrounded by walls, Lucio and Simplicio Godino, Filipino "Siamese twins" who are joined at the case of their spines, were married to Filipino sisters, Victoria and Natvidad Motos, here yesterday.

Lucio married Victoria while Simplicio became the husband of Natvidad.

Impressive Service

Following the impressive service within the church, the grooms stood with their backs to each other and kissed the brides, who were attired in beautiful white dresses of their native land.

The heavy guard of police was forced to throw its full strength against the crowd to prevent the wedding guests from surging about the newlyweds.

Dontedoro Yangco, wealthy business man and philanthropist, who is guardian of the twins, acted as best man for both.

When the ceremony was completed the bridal party proceeded to a large auditorium specially constructed by Yangco for the occasion and participated in an elaborate reception.

Barriers Broken

The wedding followed legal difficulties occasioned by refusal of Manila's municipal court clerk to issue marriage licenses when they were first demanded.

"Although in one sence each of you may be considered as single because you are not married, nevertheless in a more complete sense, and in reality, neither of you is single because you are naturally joined, or compounded," a formal statement by the clerk said.

"Consequently each of you is possessed of a dual personality, so your joint marriage with said sisters would most certainly resolve under circumstances in composite marriage since each of you would naturally have two wives, while each wife would have two husbands."

Case is Appealed

An appeal was then taken to the attorney general, with citation of the wedding of English Siamese twins a number of years ago as precedent. A Protestant minister also argued in behalf of the twins and their desire to marry.

The Siamese twins claimed:

"It is true we are inseparable, but there is a mutual understanding between us and our fiancees regarding our marriage. We understand it is man's inalienable right to enjoy marital bliss and interference with such a right means interference with personal liberty."

Consequently the attorney general reversed the ruling of the city clerk.

A honeymoon in the islands has been planned, after which the twins propose to tour the United States, leaving their wives here.

P-T.A. Vacation Circle Studies School Programs

The most enthusiastic meeting yet held by the Parent-Teacher vacation study circle took place Wednesday morning in the Memorial auditorium.

Mrs. A. W. Burnsides of Benjamin Franklin school conducted the main lesson on "Programs for P.-T. A," reading in the course of the lesson a splendid paper containing sample programs in detail for a year's work.

Mrs. H. W. Conn of Fannin school discussed ably, "The Need of Home and School Cooperation," explaining the vital necessity of home and school working hand in hand in matters of health, study and along all lines pertaining to child welfare.

Mrs. Frank B. Creighton, councillor and adviser of the study course, read what Angelo Patri, prominent educator, says about the importance of cooperation between home and school.

Mrs. C. B. Baum of Alamo school read a beautifully written paper showing the result of much research work on "Importance of an Educated Membership," ending with the statement that the Parent-Teacher association is the ideal organization for educating parents along lines that make them better able to answer their children's questions and direct their thoughts.

Mrs. O. H. Karr of Sam Houston talked briefly on "The Relation of the P.-T. A to the School," saying that P.-T. A. should supplement school work, since neither home alone nor school alone can prepare a child to live successfully.

Mrs. P. B. Cox of Zundelowitz Junior High led a spirited general discussion on "Why I Belong to the P.-T. A." during which many amusing reasons were given for the first attendance at one of the meetings. Main reasons given were interest in all welfare work, the good of the parent's own child, as a help to teachers, as an education to the mother, interest in all forms of education and training for welfare work or club work.

Another general discussion on "What P.-T. A. Has Done for the School," proved very enlightening, emphasizing health work, physical training, and elevation of the standard of teaching.

Mrs. Harry ten Brink made an instructive impromptu talk on the need and duties of room sponsors.

Mrs. Creighton requested that each student write a paper of 100 to 200 words on "What the Vacation Study Course Has Meant to Me." These papers will be collected next Wednesday and sent to the state P.-T. A. office in Austin. They will be returned to the writers at the last lesson.

The main subject for the next lesson is "Membership." The following students are preparing talks or papers for the next meeting, which will be held Wednesday morning at the usual hour and place: Mesdames E. C. deMontel, J. J. Strief, O. H. Karr, P. B. Cox, A. J. Newby and W. T. Wade.

A Daily Illustrated Poem For Children

By Wymond Garthwaite

WINGS

I only wish that I had wings—
Then I could do all kinds of things,
I'd fly above the clouds up there
And dive and slide around the air.

I wouldn't hear my mother call,
I wouldn't go to school at all,
I'd be so high they couldn't see
Or even guess that it was me.

I'd fly around the moon and stars
And see the people up on Mars.
I'd pay a visit to the sun.
Oh, say—I'd have tremendous fun!

Why wings would take me everywhere—
Gee Whiz! I wish I had a pair!

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, July 17. (US)—Ambrose Bierce offered the best definition of adore:

"To venerate expectantly."

It's the fashion now to remarry your last (or your last but two or three) husband. But it doesn't mean that the domestic trouble courts will go out of business, as this kind of reunion is usually "an armed truce for the purpose of digging up the dead."

A Mr. Brown in Chicago keeps bees. They are pets and a remunerative investment. But the neighbors do not share his enthusiasm, and complain that the bees are trouble makers. The health commissioner advises some sort of restraint. Did you ever try to restrain a bee?

Still, Chicago boasts of a lady on Galt avenue, who has for a pet, a deodorized skunk. She calls it "Sachet," and it is very affectionate.

Mebbe he could de-sting his bees. A fine job for somebody!

Two families living in Western Springs, Ill., sued each other for $100,000 each. They both had gardens and the suit was caused by the disappearance of flowers out of their respective gardens.

It will be up to the court to figure out how long this must have gone on to be worth $200,000. It would be interesting to know the locations of gardens if neighbors could steal $200,000 worth from each other before being caught.

A Tulsa, Okla., girl sues a rich man for $1,500,000. She says he asked for her love and then turned it down. But before that he showed her will leaving her $1,500,000.

An Italian proverb says: "The furrier gets the skins of more foxes than asses."

One by one the girls are finding it out, but it will take a long time.

Moody Signs Bills

AUSTIN, July 17. (INS)—Gov. Dan Moody signed and filed with the secretary of state today the Hornsby bill granting easement to the title on Austin streets to aid in a city paving program. The Parrish bill granting authority to Lubbock county to give title to land for a postoffice building, the Morse bill allowing the Texas Valley and Northern railroad to remove 10 miles of track, were also signed, and also several local and school bills.

FOODS GOOD FOR CLEAR SKIN

Physician Recommends Three Vegetables to Improve Complexion

It may seem strange to hear a professor of medicine recommend the eating of cabbage as an aid to beauty, as was done in an address in St. Louis recently. He stressed cabbage, carrots and spinach as diet aids to a good skin.

We believe that most medical authorities will agree that the clear and beautiful complexion is one of the results of good health. If that is so, the words of a food scientist have a bearing on the subject of beauty. This authority says that we should eat at least one raw fruit and one raw vegetable each day, also a fruit and a vegetable well cooked. The vitamins and minerals found in fruits and vegetables tone up the whole system. They give many of the healthful elements the body requires in the diet.

A dash of sugar is recommended for adding to the pleasure of eating fruits and vegetables. Nature developed this supreme flavorer for relieving our diet of blandness and monotony. Use a dash of sugar on cereals, on berries, in stewed fruits. Remember an old secret: Use a dash of sugar in nearly every vegetable while it is cooking (preferably in little water). This small amount of sugar does not make the vegetables taste sweet. But it is surprising how it develops the natural flavors of the foods. Foods tastefully prepared encourage healthful eating. The sugar way is the happy way. The Sugar Institute.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

How to Swat Gossips

"Dear Betty Brainerd: I am greatly troubled, I am supposed to be good looking, I dress nicely, I am 23 years old, and it doesn't make any difference whom I go out with or what I do, the gossip that it starts about me is driving me mad. People come to my mother with all sorts of stories about me. There is not a word of truth in them. People tell me also, and although I have a few very good friends who say others are jealous of me, I want you to tell me how in the world I can put a stop to being continnually gossiped about. Every time I make the acquainance of a new boy friend some one runs to him with all sorts of stories against me. I and my real friends have said everything we can but nothing seems to stop them."

The only effective form of counter-attack against the gossips is a strong silence. It is the only honorable and dignified counter-attack.

Gossip merit contempt and there is no contempt so efficient and eloquent as silence. The pen is mightier than the sword and the thunders of silence more potent than a Niagara of hysterical and undignified resentment.

Gossips are mental midgets. Serene, grown-up people don't quarrel publicly or privately with people half their size intellectually.

Empty heads make much noise. Gossips talk much and succeed finally in talking themselves into more trouble than they cause anybody whom they malign.

It is not necessary to give them enough rope.

They'll take it!

Gossips are cowards. Psychiatrists call them defectives. Decent people, capable of holding their tongues and living quietly and pleasantly with their neighbors, call them nuisances.

Mosquitoes are nuisances, too.

They can, however, be kept put of one's home, and that is true also of gossips.

Gossips suffer from delusions of social influence. They are like selfish, small-fry politicians who are forever making speeches and running for office . . . but never get elected.

Decent, intelligent people have a way of rebuking "politicians" of that sort. And they don't have to enter into public debate with them to accomplish their purpose.

Gossip, properly assayed, therefore, is a mere social fire-cracker. Silent and dignified contempt is TNT!

Selfish Mother Expects Girl To Continue Single

What Is an Only Daughter's Duty To Her Mother? Shall a Man Give in to His Jealous Wife?

Dear Dorothy Dix—A sweet, amiable girl of 23 is in love with a fine young man who has the means of making a comfortable living for her and they wish to be married immediately. The difficulty is this: This girl is an only daughter. Her mother adores her, has lived solely for her, the mother's happiness is in this girl's hands. The mother does not object to the young man personally, but she violently refuses to her daughter's marrying. When marriage is mentioned the mother cries, tells her daughter she has given up everything for her, has done without things in order that the daughter might have them. This is absolutely true. She has kept the girl dressed beautifully, has given her a good education, has spent hundreds of dollars developing her musical talent, and now when the mother could have some pleasure out of her daughter the girl wants to go off and get married.

Do you think this girl is doing the right thing by getting married and leaving her mother? The mother is 48 years old.

—THE MOTHER'S FRIEND.

Answer—Of course the girl should marry her sweetheart, and the mother is utterly selfish and unreasonable in trying to prevent her doing so.

If the mother were not a self-centered egotist, who puts her own happiness before that of her child, she would not attempt to keep her daughter from marrying and doom her to the lonely life of an old maid. For every woman knows that the think that every woman craves is the love of a good man and a husband and children and a home of her own. Every woman knows that wifehood and motherhood is the career that nature ordained for woman to follow and that she is happiest and best fulfills her duty to the world when she follows the predestined lines laid down for her sex.

This mother was probably a happy wife. Certainly she is a woman who has found great joy in motherhood. Her daughter has been a source of pleasure and interest to her ever since she was born. She has had the thrill of seeing her mind unfold, her talents develop. She has had the ineffable bliss of feeling a child's arm around her neck, a child's head snuggling into her breast, a child's hands clinging to hers. She has had something on which to pour out the treasures of her heart.

How can a woman to whom motherhood has meant so much be willing to deny motherhood to her only child?

This mother considers that she has a right to monopolise her daughter for the balance of her life and that her daughter should sacrifice her life to her because the mother has cared for and educated her and dressed her prettily. She is trying to make a bargain worse than Shylock's demand for a pound of flesh over the heart, because she is demanding everything from the girl in return for very little. On the face of it, it is an unequal trade, that because the mother has given 23 years of care to the girl she expects her to pay back with 40 or 50 years of her life.

Also the mother has done no more than her duty. When she brought the girl into the world she owed her the best that she could do for her in the way of upbringing and training and fitting her to meet life. The duty of the parent to the child is always infinitely greater than that of the children to the parent.

When a mother tries to keep her children from marrying and to segregate them to herself she is, perhaps, unconscious of her cruelty because she forgets how differently children feel toward their parents from the way parents feel toward their children. A mother can be perfectly happy with her children. She can desire no other companionship than theirs. They fill her life to the brim with interests and amusements.

But no matter how much the children love their mother she is not enough for them. They want young companions; they want to do the things young people are doing and to do them with young people and they crave the love of the opposite sex. They are never satisfied with mother's affection because it is not the love of man for maid, nor maid for men.

You often hear mothers boast that they are such chums with their children and that they go everywhere with their children and take part in all of their games and sports, but if mother knew the truth she would know that her children suffer her continued companionship as a matter of duty; that they are often bored to tears with her and that they look upon her as a spoil sport when she tags them all the time.

So far as expecting a girl to be on her knees in gratitude to a mother who has made her the one object of her life, it is a misfortune instead of a blessing, for it hangs mother like a millstone around daughter's neck as long as she lives.

It never leaves the girl free to follow her own life. She always has mother to consider. Mother to take care of. Mother to keep placated. Mother whose feelings are always being hurt if she doesn't get the most attention. Mother who has to go and live with the girl when she gets married, no matter how little the husband wants her. Mother who has no interest outside of the girl and who is a parasite who sucks her very heart's blood.

So I have no sympathy for your neurotic mother who wants to sacrifice her daughter for herself. And I should certainly urge the daughter to go on and marry her fine young sweetheart. And, furthermore I should advise the mother to get married herself and if she doesn't to take up some work in which she can interest herself and I urge her not to go and live with her daughter, but to maintain her own home and to live her own life instead of trying to live her daughter's for her.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—This is a story of a man, his wife and a girl. The wife is a woman who is good morally, but she neglects her house, her baby and her husband for bridge parties, etc. The husband is a home man who after work hours is always cutting grass and puttering around the house. He works hard and saves. The girl is a splendid young woman. She works as a bookkeeper in the man's office.

Their connection is a purely business one. No sentiment either way, but the wife has become insanely jealous of the girl, slanders her character and demands that the husband dismiss her. The husband refuses because he has no fault to find with the girl. Now what should they do? Should the husband tell the girl how his wife feels about things? Should he fire the girl to please the wife? Should the girl get another place to work?

—AN OBSERVER.

Answer:—A jealous woman is a dangerous lunatic and there is no more dealing with her rationally than there is with any other insane person. This being the case, the salvation of the girl is for her to give up her job. Otherwise the jealous woman will spread scandalous lies about her that she will never be able to live down no matter how innocent she may be.

It is hard on the girl and it is hard on the man who is being forced into letting an employe go who has given good satisfaction, but the worst punishment will fall on the wife. For she could take no surer way of killing her husband's affection for her than by showing him how little faith she has in him and by putting him in a ridiculous position as a man who is afraid of his wife and who has to do what she says in his business in order to allay her unjust suspicions.

Moonlight Picnic Given by College Education Classes

No more delightful moonlight picnic has been given than that organized by the education and psychology students of W. A. Mangum, in Junior college summer school Tuesday night, which the class of R. O. Jonas was invited to join.

The party left town at 7 o'clock and drove to the Prescott farm on the Red river, where the Magnolia pump station is located. This is reported to be one of the prettiest picnic spots within 50 miles. The largest trees in northwest Texas shade it through the day—oaks, elms and pecans. A thick sodded grass lawn with tables and benches convenient, make it desirable, it is said, from a utilitarian standpoint and as lovely from the artistic.

A delicious picnic supper was spread directly after their arrival and thoroughly enjoyed.

Games and other entertainment passed the time until 10 o'clock when they started home.

Miss Lois Patterson directed the activities and students attending declared it the most enjoyable picnic they had known in school life. Miss Korn entertained with most enjoyable impromptu readings.

Minister, Run-down in Health, Gains 7 Lbs. in 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes, "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again."

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny," tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never causes gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, get your money back from druggist or manufacturer.—Adv.

Careful, Mother! When your baby's fretful, feverish, don't give him something intended for grown-ups! There's no use when you can get Fletcher's Castoria—the pure vegetable, pleasant tasting preparation doctors recommend for babies—which millions of mothers know is safe.

Give Fletcher's Castoria at the first sign something's wrong. See how quickly it will comfort a restless, crying youngster. When Baby has caught cold, it keeps the little bowels from clogging. It quickly relieves colic, gas, diarrhea, constipation, etc., in babies—and older children, too. Keep on with it until your child is grown. Bigger appetite, better digestion, more perfect elimination will surely reward this sensible care. Be sure you get genuine Castoria. Look for the Fletcher signature on the wrapper.

ANIMALS SHOW LOVE OF MUSIC

Dogs, Cats and Elephants Listen to Tunes

By JAMES K. MARTINDALE

CHICAGO, July 17. (UP)—If canine yips and yelps interrupt your musicale, don't blame Fido—blame Chopin, Beethoven and the rest of the composers, because dogs love their music.

Fido's defender is Edward H. Bean, director of the Chicago zoological gardens, now under construction, who asserts that dogs bark at music not because they are endowed with a low, unpolished disposition, but because they want the world to understand that they are music lovers.

"Furthermore, Director Bean comments, the barking dog may be a far more truthful critic than the guests of the drawing room.

"Dogs are keenly responsive to varieties of tone," according to Bean. "Their ears are attuned to delicate pitches which escape humans. Dogs discern barbaritiesin sound which cause them actual pain, but which humans never appreciate. Moreover, when they raise their voices to chime in with the music they are in high or low pitch, according to the music heard."

Bean's laboratory experiences also have tended to show that dogs are not the only members of the animal kingdom who are fond of providing obbligato. Music, he says, will make the toughest tomcat forget that the cat world is full of dogs.

"I have seen kittens roll over in delight at a Viennese waltz," he said. "Possibly the musical comprehension of cats is even higher than that of dogs, just as that of quiet listeners is superior to tappers of feet.

"But there are some creatures in the animal world, just as in the human world, who are not susceptible to the soothing strains of music.

"The monkeys, by their outspokenness, are like most pestiferous gallery fans. Their gestures and threats are constantly a source for disapproval from the more sedate bears. Birds, curiously enough, display an undercurrent of envy at particularly fine flute playing and have been known to droop with discouragement at a soprano's practice thrills."

It takes no more than a furious outburst of jazz to render the lumbering elephant unstable, Bean has found.

"Normally a benevolent, home-loving race, dignified of bearing and possessed of a high sense of humor, the elephant becomes absolutely bereft of reason at the sound of music. Their conduct at these times, what with mad cavorting all over the lot, flapping of ears and wiggling, is a zoological scandal."

DEER SLAYERS EVADE ARREST

Poachers Are Menace To Okla. Forest Preserves

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., July 17.—An ordinary straw hat minus identification mark was the only clue left by two poachers who shot a deer on the forest preserve Monday. Notwithstanding efforts of forest rangers and deputy game wardens, poachers continue their depredations, although several arrests have been made and fines of $100 and costs assessed in each case of deer slaying.

Deputy Game Warden L. E. Crawford was only a short distance from the scene of Monday's shooting and gave immediate chase of the two men, but they escaped in the brush. The deer had been shot six times with a .22 rifle and the men were engaged in cutting it's throat with a pocket knife when frightened away.

Supt. H. H. French states that the big herd of deer on the preserve is barely holding its own in numbers, so many of the deer are killed. The increase amounts to several hundred per year. Many of the deer wander off the preserve and are slain in the fields of nearby farmers while feeding.

Eckener Maps Route of World Flight

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

BERLIN, July 17. (US)—The Graf Zeppelin will slip its moorings at Friedrichshafen on Aug. 1 on its second transatlantic flight. After landing at the U. S. naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., the giant will about-face and take off eastward within the week for Friedrichshafen, Tokyo and Los Angeles on the first round-the-world dirigible flight.

This was announced officially today by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the leviathan of the air.

The world-flight of the Graf will be the first of its kind in the history of aviation. Starting from Lakehurst, the silver streak will battle the Atlantic to moor for its first stop at Friedrichshafen, its home port, on all other trips but this.

The second stop will be at Tokyo. Before reaching the Japanese city, the Graf will have to cross the Siberian wastes, parts of lower Russian and China.

Then comes the most dangerous portion of the journey, which is expected to total more than 25,000 miles. The crossing of the Pacific, from Tokyo to Los Angeles, will be made, according to Dr. Eckener, before the treacherous typhoon season sets in.

The final leg of the round-world flight, from Los Angeles back to the haven at Lakehurst, will take on the aspect of a triumphal and steady march along the home stretch. The Graf is expected to sail over several coast cities before its start to Lakehurst, and will pass over Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Washington and New York before mooring at the naval station near the New Jersey coast.

After the end of the world flight, the Zeppelin will take on passengers for its flight back to Germany.

Streit's Guilty Plea Is Blocked

TOPEKA, Kan., July 17. (UP)—Cecil Streit's fate was tossed today between the influence of his affection for Mrs. Vivian Scraper, 25, with whom he is charged in a $14,000 payroll robbery here, and the desires of his family.

Streit entered court for his arraignment declaring willingness to plead guilty as an accomplice in the robbery to which Mrs. Scraper confessed, so that he might accompany her to prison. His attorneys, however, guided by wishes of the boy's family, blocked the guilty plea and obtained a continuance until next Tuesday and a sanity test for their client.

Mrs. Scraper's friend, whom she called her "honey mans," Tuesday night confessed to aiding in plans for the robbery which was executed boldly by the woman. Mrs. Scraper previously had denied Streit had any connection with the theft which, it was indicated, she staged in his behalf.

Officials Criticized In Negro Ouster Probe

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., July 17. (UP)—Citizens here today criticised an investigation by state officials into the exile of all North Platte negroes after a policeman had been killed by a negro, who later committed suicide last Saturday night. While the negroes returned to their homes, white persons expressed resentment against efforts of officers, under orders from the governor, to discover leaders of the mob which forced the negroes from the town.

Herbert Kaufman's SPIDERS AND FLIES Daily Editorial

CLARKE BROTHERS have just failed with liabilities so far above assets that depositors will probably be wiped out. As a result of the wreck, a federal grand jury has returned indictments against the firm, but the really guilty parties, in interest, are "the people of the state of New York," who inexcusably expose its citizens to the dangers of unsupervised private banking.

The business of handling other folks' money is a ward of legislation and deserves statutes as drastic and protective as the code for insurance and trust companies—neither of which is permitted to operate at discretion nor allowed to receive, loan or invest funds without submitting books and transactions to periodic examination.

The Clarke smash and its attendant publicity warn the country to put an end to all such remaining institutions. However the law may deal with the men responsible for the peculations and speculations that have beggared countless widows and thrown scores of old couples on the charities.

Mere legal retribution won't restore a penny to the victims or prevent duplicate catastrophes in Manhattan or other negligent communities.

An intelligent democracy owes its constituency inviolate safeguard for their life savings and devised estates. No method will ever likely exist entirely to rid finance of birds of prey, but banking can be sufficiently regulated to check extensive defalcation and maladministration, before felony and recklessness may completely strip public pockets. Meanwhile, rogues and fiscal sharpers will continue to bait their traps with excessive interest rates, and Wall street spiders keep entangling helplessness and credulity in their webs, by speciously promising profits that legitimate and honest concerns never contract to deliver.

MONEY HAS a normal market rate. Its wage is set by supply and demand. Anybody who agrees to pay heavier hire for its use than current quotations is either risking confided investments in a doubtful undertaking, or deliberately short-changing. The only safe place for inexperienced cash is in a federal or state bank—and the stronger the better.

Yet even country banks have exploited the aegis of the federal reserve to convince customers that U. S. billions were standing behind their individual operations—and have so advertised themselves.

And a certain ex-governor of a coast district, to the writer's personal knowledge, furnished and urged the use of prepared copy, filled with statements supporting that untruth. For the benefit of doubting Thomases, here's a verbatim specimen:

"Member of the federal reserve system.

"Your bank.

"It cannot be too strong in reserve banking power. It should not lack any facility to serve all your banking requirements.

"The $2,200,000,000 of gold reserve of the federal reserve system give strength and reserve power to this bank from every business standpoint.

"The (.....) National bank of (.....).

"Back of every member bank $2,200,000,000 in gold reserve."

It may further intrigue the reader to learn that the institution which inserted the ad had, at that time, a working capital of $50,000 with $38,000 of it sunk in buildings, fixtures, et ceteras. Heigh ho.

Wagons, Stars and the Meaning of Democracy

JAPAN, like the United States, has its "self-made men"—financial and industrial magnates who started without money or prospects and finished with great wealth and power.

William Philip Simms, American journalist, who has been touring the island kingdom, has interviewed a number of these men recently. He finds that there is the same spirit of optimism and determination abroad in Japan that there is in the United States; and he adds:

"That, I believe, is the secret of Japan's rapid progress. For just as is the case in America, Japanese young people make the sky the limit, however humble or poor they may be today."

It is a good many years since young men were advised to hitch their wagons to stars. But that advice is still good. What a man becomes depends chiefly on what he wants to become; and when we say that a nation is full of opportunities we really mean that its conditions are such that they inspire very young men to determine on the best.

And that, after all, is what has made America a land of promise ever since its birth.

There was a new set-up in this new nation. A peculiar combination of political freedom and unexploited natural resources made America a land where ambition thrived. Any man could look for anything he wanted here, with a reasonable chance of getting it. The cities and towns were new, ready for new ventures; the back country was limitless, waiting for men who could take its open spaces and turn them into cash.

Thus democracy came to mean two things. Not only could any poor boy aspire to the presidency when he grew up; he could also aspire to greatness in financial or industrial fields. There were no checks on any kind of ambition. And, in consequence, America became, and still is, the promised land for the energetic.

Today the old situation has changed. No longer are there vast stretches of good farm land awaiting settlers, mighty forests ready for the first industrious timber dealer, rich mines full of ore for the ready spectator. The natural resources have been largely exploited. The field is nearly closed.

Yet the opportunities remain, nevertheless. The great corporations that rule industry and commerce need brains and energy in ever-increasing quantities. The young man who enters their service can be sure that he will have every chance he needs to display his worth. The temper of the times still permits every man to "make the sky the limit."

As long as those conditions last we need not worry about our democracy. It is safe. And, by the same token, if that state of affairs holds good today in Japan—then Japan, too, is becoming a real democracy, even if the nation is only three-quarters of a century from feudalism.

Fist Fights and Baseball

ROWDYISM on any athletic field is, of course, a thing to deplore. It is distressing, unsportsmanlike, and all that sort of thing. And yet—well, no dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan will be sorry to read that Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs and Ray Kolp and Pete Donohue of the Cincinnati Reds felt impelled to use their fists on one another after a recent game in Chicago.

The only serious complaint against baseball in late years has been that the players had lost the old time enthusiasm that made the game interesting. In the days when Ty Cobb, Kid Elberfeld, Frank Chance and Bill Carrigan were in their prime big league baseball was forever skirting the edges of fisticuffs. Nowadays it is more refined and gentlemanly and, sometimes, much less exciting.

But the fan can take heart when the players get to fighting. Ball players do not fight unless they are terribly in earnest about the game itself. And when they feel that way they are pretty sure to play interesting baseball.

A Police Chief Recants

THE AMERICAN FLAPPER, apparently, has a certain dauntlessness before which even the determination of a chief of police is as nothing.

The police chief of a small Illinois city the other day, stirred by the outrages his modesty suffered whenever he walked down the street, announced that the girls must wear stockings. Any girl, he declared, who appeared on the street bare-legged would be taken to the city jail. Then he sat back and waited for developments.

They came rapidly. The girls who had been going stockingless continued to do so, and defied the chief to arrest them. And, presently, the chief wilted. He rescinded his edict; more, he announced that he had never issued it, and said that anyone who said he had, lied blackly.

And there the matter stands. Evidently it takes a strong man to defy the American flapper.

Quotations Worth Noting

"Ours is a big country with great diversity of custom, habit and opinion of right and wrong. National laws designed to apply to all of us must be flexible enough to provide room for our various customs and ideas. There is not enough money or power enough in this or any other country to compel the people to respect laws they regard as stupid."—William L. Chenery, editor, Collier's.

"The most important thing in golf? As I understand it, reference is meant to that element which the great majority have so much difficulty in acquiring. If this is a fair assumption, then my answer to the question is relaxation."—Joe Kirkwood. (The American Golfer.)

"There seems hardly any limit to what could be done in the way of producing a good world, if only men would use science wisely."—Bertrand Russell.

"Girls have some values everywhere, even in such regions as Papua and Patagonia . . . it is only in the United States that they are prized for what they are more than for the promise of what they will become when time has matured the rawness of extreme youth."—E le Clare Phillips. TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon

(Copyright by Public Ledger)

Dr. Moffett's Face

"Wait and see," was the response.

Still closer came the doctor, the bluish steel of the automatic gleaming menacingly in the verdant light. At length there was only the width of the table between him and the other two. He leaned forward. Out of the green smudge blazed a pair of eyes, scrutinizing the visitor's face. The doctor's shoulders jerked back.

"The Picaroon!" he exclaimed.

As he spoke, the doctor's arm came upward. He held the pistol pointed straight at the visitor. The latter had dropped his arms, releasing the girl from his embrace, looking straight and smilingly into the greenish blur that was all he could see of Moffett's face.

"Your noble countenance seems to be in eclipse, doctor," he remarked pleasantly.

"You will be in eclipse before long," remarked Moffett grittily. "It was very clear, Dale. I never suspected—but then I thought Miss Castle acted a bit queer when you wound your paternal arm around her. Maybe the paternal part of it wasn't convincing. Anyway, you whispered in her ear, and she gave a start. I almost suspected something then. Will you tell me how you got out of jail?"

"I was never there. I shun jails, doctor. I was fortunately saved from that sad experience."

"Saved? How? By whom?"

"By a few thunderclaps. You see there was no thunder the night Miss Conway was murdered. But it did thunder last night, while you framed up the evidence against me. There was enough thunder to curdle every pitcher of cream in New York. That's where you made a mistake."

Evidently Dr. Moffett did not quite understand. "It doesn't matter," he declared. "It would have been better for you if you had gone to jail."

"That sounds ominous."

"It is just as ominous as it sounds I think you are bluffing, Dale. I don't believe you brought any policemen with you. The police and the Picaroon usually travel separate paths. But if you did"—there was a blurry motion of a hand, and the pistol rose a trifle higher—"if you did," Dr. Moffett added, "your career ends right there."

The Picaroon made a wry face. "That's an awfully unpleasant thought. I am deeply devoted to my career—"

"The career of a thief!"

"You're mistaken, doctor. Nothing so vulgar. I'm a collector."

"A collector of other people's jewelry!"

"No, a collector of autographs and rare books—first editions and such things. It's a pleasant hobby. You ought to cultivate it. It's far more agreeable than murdering people."

"I'll consider your advice."

The Picaroon glanced at his watch.

"They are a little late," he observed.

"Maybe their watches are slow."

A pair of eyes blazed at him out of the greenish haze. "I still think you are bluffing," Moffett declared. "However, if any strangers come to the gate, I shall know it instantly. A gong will give me warning. The moment it rings I'll put a bullet through your heart."

A gasp sounded behind the Picaroon's back.

"Through my heart, eh?" He appeared to consider. "Not such a bad idea. It's a quick death, and almost painless. If shoot you must, please shoot straight. I should hate to be mussed up. Being a physician, you know, I suppose, on which side my heart is?"

"I do," said Moffett grittily, "and I promise to shoot straight."

"Thanks. Awfully decent of you. Don't forget, doctor."

"Don't worry. I shan't forget. It's the custom to humor people who haven't long to live. I'll humor you by aiming straight at your heart."

"Thanks. Do you know, doctor, I picked up a most curious edition of Lobeira's Amadis of Gaul' the other day. As a mark of my appreciation I'll will it to you."

"Oh, thanks," said the doctor dryly.

"The only question is how I am to mention you in my will. Shall I designate you as Dr. Moffett or by your real name?"

Again the doctor's eye blazed at him out of the green blur. "You think you know my real name?"

"Oh, yes. I discovered it the morning following your visit to my apartment. Surely you haven't forgotten.

"That was the night you flashed a green light in my face and gave me a wallop on the jaw. Not that I bear you any hard feelings on that score. I dropped my grievance when my jaw dropped back to its normal size."

"Oh," said Dr. Moffett in a soft and curious tone. "So you think you know who I am, do you?"

"Yes," said Dale. He cast a glance over his shoulder at the white-faced girl standing behind him. He felt a wrench at his heart. She must know some time. Why not now?

As if she had construed his backward glance as a question, the girl finally spoke.

"I know too," she declared. "I saw his face."

Dale whirled round. "You—you saw?" he stammered. "Then you know?"

She nodded. He marveled at the casualness of her reply. He had feared the discovery would temporarily crush her, but instead she seemed to bear up amazingly well. Perhaps her infatuation had not been as deep as he had feared.

"Yes, Miss Castle knows," said the doctor in a queer voice.

With a start Dale swung round again. The four words had been spoken in a way that sent a chill through his being. In a moment Moffett's meaning was terrifyingly clear. The doctor's safety demanded that she should be silenced. She had signed her own death warrant when she looked into his face.

"Yes, Miss Castle knows," the doctor added, "but I don't think you do."

"Oh, yes." Dale controlled his sharp, tumultuous sensations. "Your left sleeve is empty, isn't it? I can't see very well in this light, but—"

"Yes, Ainsworth, your left sleeve," Dale began, but even as he spoke a sense of bewilderment crowded his brain.

"Ainsworth?" the girl exclaimed in a voice of stupefaction. "Why, how ridiculous! You don't think—"

Moffett's laugh interrupted her. "What an amusing misapprehension!"

"If you are not Ainsworth," said the Picaroon lamely, "who are you?"

Before the doctor could reply a loud gong sounded somewhere in the house. Axelson, standing near the door, gave a sharp exclamation. For an instant the pistol wavered in Moffett's hand.

"Who am I?" he echoed ironically. "That is something that you will never know. Through the heart, did you say?"

The girl screamed. There came a sharp crack. A muffled cry of horror rang out, and Adele shrank away, hands clasped against her white cheeks.

The Picaroon clutched his heart, staggered back, gazed with a groggy expression at the little curl of gray vapor that eddied in the green light, reeled with a drunken corkscrew motion, threw his arms and went tumbling to the floor. A groan sounded, a hoarse, shuddering gasp for breath, then silence.

And then another long, strident peal broke through the stillness. Dr. Moffett dropped the pistol to the table.

"It will take them several minutes to batter down the gate in the fence," he remarked. His voice was curiously quiet. "We'll have ample time to get out the back way. Get the brown bag from my room. Hurry!"

The last word, sharp as a whiplash, brought the old man out of his stupor. He ran from the room. The doctor stepped away from the table. His movements in the green light grew obscure. A little click came, then a sliding sound, as if a drawer controlled by a spring had opened. There was a hurried shuffling of papers.

Axelson reappeared, carrying a small traveling bag. He placed it on the table. The visible part of Dr. Moffett approached again. He dumped a handful of papers and other articles into the bag.

"Get Annie and Caesar," he commanded. "No, just wait a moment. First—"

He broke off as a dull roar sounded outside.

"What—what was that?" Axelson jerked out.

"They are trying to shoot the lock on the gate to pieces. It's a good lock and it will take several shots. Axelson—"

Through the green haze the doctor's eyes traveled to Adele. She stood at the wall, trembling, her hands clasped across her breast, gazing in horror at the limp form that had fallen beside the table.

"We can't take her with us," Moffett murmured.

Axelson gasped. He stared crookedly at the girl.

"Neither," said Moffett, "can we leave her here alive."

Axelson jerked up his shoulders so they almost touched the lobes of his ears.

"I've done my share of the nasty business," said the doctor. "Do yours."

He flung the pistol toward the old man, and the latter caught it. With spasmodic jerks of his shoulder he turned it over and looked at it. Another muffled roar suddenly penetrated the walls.

"Hurry," said the doctor.

Axelson hesitated. "I—I don't like to do it."

"Neither do I," said the doctor calmly. "I haven't the right kind of nerve for that sort of thing. It has to be done. Quick! They may be here any moment."

The old man fingered the weapon a moment longer. He drew up his gaunt figure. "I won't!" he rasped out.

"Eh?" Dr. Moffett's sharp eyes cut a blaze through the green space that separated them. "You won't? When did you get so squeamish? You had no scruples about getting Miss Conway out of the way."

"That was different. She had it coming to her. But this one"—he glanced crookedly at the girl—"didn't double-cross us, the way the other one did. She only did what anybody else would do in a pinch like that. I won't do it!"

He threw the pistol from him, and it clattered noisily to the floor, falling close to the motionless form lying there.

There was the sound of footsteps on the other side of the table. A deadly look pierced the shuddering old man. Doctor Moffett's dim and fragmentary figure stooped over the weapon.

"I won't forget this, Axelson," he muttered angrily. "Well, if you won't do it, then I must. The outcome will be—"

He broke off with a started exclamation. He had just reached for the pistol lying on the floor but a quicker hand had forestalled him. With a laugh the Picaroon leaped to his feet.

"Don't move, Moffett," he advised quietly. "I can shoot straight, even if I can't see your face. Stay right where you are, Axelson, until I tell you to move. Permit me." He threw something at the doctor's feet.

"What—what's that?" stammered the doctor in a stricken voice.

"The bullet you wasted. And here is something else." His left hand dipped into the inside pocket on the left side of his coat. He drew out a volume of ancient appearance. "This is Lobeira's 'Amadis of Gaul,' the book I promised you. I trust you will appreciate the thick leather binding—thick enough to stop a bullet."

He tossed the book on the table. For an ancient volume it was a rather big book of a format slightly larger than that of the usual novel. The doctor tried to speak, but the words choked in his throat. From the wall, where Adele had been standing, came a trembling sigh of relief.

"Do you know, doctor, I didn't really think you would shoot," said the Picaroon. "But, since you had to shoot, it was nice of you to humor my whim and shoot straight at my heart. Oh, Axelson!"

With an uncertain gait, his head lolling unsteadily, the old man came forward.

"Axelson," said the Picaroon, "you are a vile old scoundrel, but I shan't forget that you refused to do as this blackguard told you." He looked out over the old man's head. "What are those things on the mantel?"

Axelson followed his gaze. "Candles."

"Oh, to be sure. Green candles, aren't they? That's why they don't stand out in this light. More protective coloring!" The Picaroon chuckled musingly. "Light them, Axelson."

The old man twisted his head and hesitated.

"Light them," the Picaroon sternly repeated, flourishing the pistol just a little.

Axelson obeyed. Soon two small yellow flames shone through the green illumination.

"One more thing, Axelson," said the Picaroon briskly. "I want you to switch off the green light. You know how. Hurry!"

The old man shook from head to foot. He looked at the dim figure of his master, but Moffett did not appear to notice him.

"I—I can't do that, sir," he protested.

"Hurry!" said the Picaroon, and his voice cut like steel.

With a tottering gait the old man went across the floor. A small, sharp sound came, and the green illumination faded out.

"Steady, Moffett!" The Picaroon warned. "One more move and I shoot—not to kill, but to cripple."

Now the only light in the room was the yellow sheen of the two candles. The Picaroon waited until his eyes had become accustomed to the different illumination, then took a brisk step toward the doctor.

"Ah!" he exclaimed. "A green mask—exactly the same shade of green as the light. Talk about protective coloring! But what's this?" He gazed narrowly at the mask, noticing a faint, greenish glow emanating from the fabric. "Oh, of course! Some sort of phosphorescent substance. The mask had to be luminous itself, in order to blend perfectly into the general illumination. Now we'll see—"

With a swift motion he tore the mask from the doctor's face. Then he stood spellbound, staring.

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed in a dull, hollow voice. "Mr. Ferryman!"

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, July 17.—The reason for the unsurpassed beauty of the Woolworth building, I am told, lies in the fact that Cass Gilbert, the architect did not predetermine the building's height. As it pushed higher and higher toward the sky, he would view it from several blocks farther up Broadway. When the proportions of the tower pleased him, he ordered the roof put on . . . .

Harry Stevens sells 12,000 hot dogs on a good day at Yankee stadium . . . . One of the town's better known night club habitues spends $35 a week in tips to hat check girls . . . He owns a $5 hat . . . . One of the girls he has been tipping for the last three years was legally adopted the other day by a millionaire, who is going to give her an education.

Hello, Molly!

A new star is in the ascendant on Broadway. She was recently "discovered" at her debut in vaudeville—but for years she has been the idol of the lower east side. Her name is Molly Picon. Down in the Jewish section where she lives, Molly is far more popular with the children than is Babe Ruth or any other public idol. Lindbergh included. Wherever she goes she is followed by a yelling throng of kids who cry, "Hello, Molly." And so it was quite natural that Joseph Rumshinsky should write for her a musical comedy entitled, "Hello, Molly!" I watched her debut on the English-speaking stage and found her to be tiny, hamely, inexpressibly attractive and a good comedienne. Her English had far less Jewish accent than that of, say, George Jessel or Sophie Tucker. Back in the standing-room section—the best place to observe the reaction of an audience—stood several casting agents for important producers—so it may be that Molly will desert her east side this winter for the uptown musical comedy stage. It will be no surprise, for the east side-to-Brodway trial is a well-worn route.

Summertime Fun

One of the delights of summertime riding on the elevated is taking the chance of having one's hat, purse or fur snatched. Open windows mean the open season. Girls are usually the victims, although an expensive Panama hat is fair game. The thief stands on the platform, close to the train, and near the object he intends to snatch. The train starts, and the plunder is snitched through an open window. The victim can do nothing about it, for the train is in motion, and rarely is anyone on the platform alert enough to interfere.

A Middle Car

There is one Black Maria in New York that is rarely put to the use it was intended for—the transportation of prisoners from the scene of arrest to the station house, and from the station house to court. The patrol wagon of Coney Island makes its appointed rounds, like a postman, on schedule, and picks up loads of nothing more dangerous than a squad of whimpering lost children. The Coney Island station house on a Sunday afternoon looks more like a settlement nursery than an armory of the law, for 100 to 150 lost children will have been lodged there during the day. The police frequently suspect that they are being made the goats—that slack-witted young parents out for a good time purposely lose the baby, knowing well that the child will be handsomely cared for by the bluecoats until mother and father are ready to go home. So far, the lost baby account book has been kept balanced. The police have found no extra children on their hands after the day's work.

Rise of an Amateur

From being a camera enthusiast to becoming vice president of a $30,000,000 aviation concern is just a logical step or two in the business progress of young Sherman M. Fairchild. Fairchild, during the war, perfected a camera for taking pictures of enemy positions. After the war he went into the aerial view business, and many of the pictures you have seen of the New York skyline have been the work of his company. He used to rent planes for his picture work, until he decided it would be cheaper and more satisfactory to build his own. He designed a cabin monoplane, with folding wings and apparatus for shooting pictures through the floor. The Fairchild was a good ship, and there appeared to be no reason why it should not be sold to others. So the young inventor established a quantity-production factory out in Farmingdale, L. I., and built mail and passenger planes. And now, at 33, he owns a camera corporation, a corporation for making aerial maps in Canada, another map company here, a flying service, an engine factory and, of course, an airplane factory. All these holdings, in turn, are subsidiaries of the Aviation corporation, of which Fairchild is a vice president.

An Imaginary Interview With Mr. Rockefeller on His 90th Birthday

Q.—Mr. Rockefeller, how does it seems to be 90?

A.—Splendid. I wouldn't feel any better if I had sunk a forty-foot putt.

Q.—At that grand old age, sir, are you truly happy?

A.—Well, I would be if I could correct my slice.

Q.—Is it true that as a small boy you were determined to be the richest man in the world?

A.—That's going pretty far back. My difficulty just now is determining facts in my career from fiction. I have read so many stories of my life by so many people that I believe some of them myself.

Q.—How about the stories so widely published that you were very hard on your competitors in the old days?

A.—Well, I never conceded any two-foot putts.

Q.—Do you feel any sense of responsibility for what the gasoline pumping-stations have done to American scenery?

A.—Well, some of the stations make me feel pretty guilty, I admit, but I get some satisfaction from the thought no Rockefeller ever had anything to do with the hot-dog industry.

Q.—How do you explain your failure in life at 90?

A.—What failure?

Q.—That of triumphing over all obstacles in life only to take up golf?

A.—I don't consider my golf a failure.

Q.—Why not?

A.—Well, I am one of the few men in the world to play it under the right conditions. I dress in my private room where I can't hear any golf club quartet or listen to anybody tell what he did on the sixth last Tuesday.

Q.—That alone is sufficient to prolong a man's life, is it not?

A.—Absolutely. A golfer can't live long in close proximity to other golfers.

Q.—Does the price of gasoline influence your game?

A.—No, but I suppose news that it has advanced two cents a gallon doesn't do it any harm.

Q.—How is your short game?

A.—I am long on my short game and short on my long game.

Q.—Do you use special clubs?

A.—No. Standard.

Q.—Do you show any temper at golf? When you dub one, what do you do?

A.—Well, when I dub an easy one I withdraw a five-million-dollar gift to Chinese missions or something. But as soon as I get a good one I give the money back again.

Q.—One more question, Mr. Rockefeller: Do you consider golf good for the American business man?

A.—Yes, after he's through being a business man.

A message from mid-ocean was received by Sam Kruger Wednesday when his son, Aaron, who is on route to the world conference of the Y. M. C. A. on the island of Ameland, Holland, sent the following message:

"No seasickness so far. Fine weather, excellent food, beautiful scenic trip down the St. Lawrence yesterday. Am in mid-ocean. We have a rare group of boys, having interesting talks and discussions upon countries we will visit. The day in Montreal with sightseeing and farewell dinner gave us real start on our mission of friendliness. Had a wonderful trip around old Quebec, and some funny feelings as the old boat left the dock. The Canadians were fine and gave us a great time."

No trace of the thieves who escaped Tuesday night with 7,000 gallons of gasoline from a 10,000 tank belonging to the Morgan and Cain Oil company at Iowa Park had been found by investigating county officers late Wednesday.

Dick Morris, deputy sheriff, said the gasoline had been drained from the wholesale storage tank and hauled away in two tank trucks carrying trailers, according to the evidences of tracks leading to and from the main tank. The loss was discovered about noon Wednesday. The gasoline was valued at around $1,000.

Kids Furnish Roaring Program For 5,000 at Bellevue Park

Witnessed by nearly 5,000 persons, the "kids' night" vaudeville program at Bellevue park Wednesday night proved to be the most entertaining bill of the season, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, and C. C. Frazee, summer recreational director, who planned the stunts and games.

Following a concert by the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, the program was turned over to the kids in the audience who took part in several fun-producing events. Two boys sitting astride a large pole had a pillow fight, each trying to knock the other off the pole. The next event brought roars of laughter from the audience. A blindfolded boy was instructed to jump over "a box which was in front of him" without touching the box. There was no box, but the boy experienced great difficulty in getting over it.

Three fighting events were the rooster fight, in which two boys hopping on one leg with arms folded tried to overbalance each other, the leg wrestle, fought by two boys lying on their backs wrestling only with one leg, and the Indian wrestling, in which two boys tried to unbalance each other by grasping hands. One of the best events was the blind boxing when two boys, blindfolded, with gloves on their right hands and rattles in their left hands, fought a one round battle.

The Pippins-Holland stringed instrument band, made up of KGKO players, presented such numbers as "Chicken Dumplin's," "Hell Among the Yearlings," "Leather Breeches," and "Wednesday Night Waltz." Al Griffin, as an added number to the bill, presented several popular selections on his banjo. The Playground band concluded the performance.

The display is being given as part of a special program for the last three days of this week and Sunday.

Opening a two-week engagement, Walt Whiteman and his orchestra, under the management of Ralph Britt, will play at the pavilion for dancing Thursday evening and night.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8:30 o'clock a special vaudeville bill will be presented at the coliseum, featuring Honey Boy and Sassafras, blackface comedians of station KGKO. Five acts of vaudeville, billed as Fields' Brothers comedy, under the direction of George H. Hodgins, will be given. Other numbers will be the Hickory Corners Fiddle band, the six all-American Hawaiians and Frank Shepherd, tenor.

Worker Injured in Fall In Critical Condition

The condition of R. A. Joiner, who suffered a broken back and complete paralysis when he fell 20 feet to the ground at the Panhandle refinery Tuesday morning, remained unchanged Wednesday, according to reports of attendants at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital.

Mr. Joiner suffered paralysis of the entire body, two fractures of the spinal column and injury to the spinal cord, physicians said. His condition was described as still critical, no change having been noted since the time of the accident, which occurred while he was working on a condenser box from which he fell. He was taken in an Albert's company ambulance to the hospital.

Park Employes Start Day Two Hours Earlier

Workmen employed by the city park department will go on duty each morning after Thursday at 6 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock as in the past, it was announced Wednesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent. The change will affect about 30 men at all the parks except the zoo, the cemetery and the golf course. The hours were set up as a result of the request of George D. Fairtrace, city manager, that lawns be watered during the early morning hours in order to lessen the amount of water going through the filtration plant in the evenings. The men will go off duty at 3 o'clock instead of 5 o'clock each afternoon.

SPUDS TIE IN NINTH WITH THREE HOMERS AND WIN IN TENTH

WICHITA TAKES SECOND PLACE

Bennett, Turgeon and Lapan Hit for Circuit

Special to the Record News

BEAUMONT, July 17.—The battling Spudders came from behind today to beat the Exporters in dramatic fashion. Trailing 5 to 2 in the ninth inning, Bennett and Turgeon hit successive home runs over the left field wall and then with two out Lapan clouted for the circuit over the left field fence to tie the count.

Then the Spudders scored two in the tenth to win, 7 to 5. Fitzgerald doubled in the tenth after one was out and Tom Estell, former Spudder who had pitched superb ball until the ninth, was replaced by Grimm. Bennett popped out but Turgeon walked. Hermann then came through with a slashing two-base drive to center that scored Fitzgerald and Turgeon.

The victory sent the Spudders from fourth to second place, half a game behind Waco. Beaumont fell from first to third, half a game behind Wichita Falls. Fort Worth, in fourth, also trails the Spudders half a game.

Payne Hurls Good Ball

George Washington Payne chucked a creditable game of ball for the Spudders, save for two innings, the second and eighth when the Exporters scored all their tallies.

Both clubs got nine hits each. Bill Kelly, Exporter first baseman, was batting leader with four hits in as many times up, including a double. Turgeon maced a triple in addition to his homer. Fitzgerald, Hermann and Swanson got two blows apiece. One of Fitzgerald's blows went for two bases.

Fast fielding again featured, with each club making only one error.

Exporters Start Scoring

Beaumont scored two in the second. Kelly singled and advanced to third on Wetzel's double. Easterling lifted to Fitzgerald, scoring Kelly, and sending Wetzel to third. Boggess singled, scoring Wetzel.

The Spudders tied the count in the sixth, when Benton and Bennett both strolled and scored on Turgeon's triple.

The Exporters tallied three in the eighth and seemingly had the game won until that miraculous ninth. Swanson singled. Stapleton's throw on Petrie's bunt was late and both runners were safe. Payne fumbled Huber's bunt, filling the bases. Kelly doubled, scoring Swanson and Petrie and advancing Huber to third. Bennett took Wetzel's fly and held Huber at third. Easterling hoisted to Fitzgerald, scoring Huber.

The clubs will play the third and final of the series tomorrow.

Clark Griffith Is Resting Well

Nat Prexy Recovering From Appendicitis Operation

CHICAGO, July 17. (UP)—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American league baseball team, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at Mercy hospital this afternoon.

Dr. Charles Sawyer, who performed the operation, reported that the Senators' chief was resting well after recovering from the anaesthetic.

Griffith arrived Monday with the Senators for a four-game series with the Chicago White Sox. He was stricken suddenly at his hotel last night and removed to a hospital. Doctor Sawyer said the gangrenous condition of the appendix would necessitate drainage and would make Griffith's recovery slow.

Griffith is one of the most commanding figures in baseball. Years ago he was one of the star pitchers for the Chicago White Sox, and later became captain and manager. That was back in 1903.

Griffith was a star pitcher in the National league for the old Chicago Cubs in 1901.

Jim Demands Raise If Tom's Too Heavy

NEW YORK, July 17. (US)—The boxing commission received a telegram this afternoon from Joe Gould, manager of Jimmy Braddock, who meets Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title Thursday night, stating that if Loughran comes in overweight and if the commission rules that the bout will not be for the world's title he, Gould, will demand that the garden officials make new contracts calling for a larger share of the gate for the challenger.

The commission decided they would make a ruling in the case after the men weighed in at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Yankee stadium. They undoubtedly will declare Braddock the champion if he wins and is at weight, regardless of how heavy Loughran may be.

The SPORTLIGHT

The Long-Lasting Ones

To help settle one of those innumerable arguments that clutter up the sporting ensemble the question has been asked concerning the game that gave its players the longest span of service.

Who lasts the longest in sport, the ball player, fighter, golfer—or who else?

The ball player does pretty well. Ty Cobb lasted 23 years in the majors, and Jack Quinn has been around 24 years. Babe Ruth broke in with the Red Sox 16 seasons back, and he is still earning a pretty fair living.

The fighter has the shortest span. Few are much good after 33. Jack Dempsey began to make a fair living around 1918, and he was pretty well through around 1927. He was a ring money maker for less than 10 years, which has no connection with his promoting work. If he takes another job at the till his money career will be extended to 11 years.

Walter Hagen began making money as a professional golfer around 1912. So he has been collecting for 17 years. He had a strong showing at Brookline in the open 16 years ago and won his first title 15 years ago. As he is still British champion, it is pretty evident that he isn't through yet. Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor and James Braid are all close to 60 and they are still entering competitions.

As the pro golfer can make a good living out of teaching, he has the big edge. Vardon, Braid and Taylor have been active in golf for about 40 years, and that tops the earning span of any other professional sport.

In amateur tennis Bill Tilden began to attract notice about 12 years ago, reaching the top around 1920. Bill Larned and Norman Brookes outlasted practically all other tennis players, but 10 years around the top is a long turn at tennis.

Frank Kramer and Bobby Walthour proved that you could ride a bicycle for about 20 years and collect en route.

A Laurel Sprig for Manush

Dear Sir:—Paeans of praise are written of a great number of major league performers, but little is said of that tower of strength on the St. Louis Browns, Heinie Manush.

Manush right now, is one of the few outstanding performers in the game. He not only is a hard and timely hitter, but a splendid fielder who holds many seemingly extra base hits to singles. Remove Manush from the Browns' lineup and the team would be hovering somewhere in the second division. Heinie doesn't get the recognition he deserves, and it is about time that some sport writer gave him a break.

Last year, notwithstanding the decision of the committee of sports writers who voted to award the American league valuable player prize, Manush was far and away the leading ball player in the circuit. He was done an irretrievable injustice when he did not get the prize, since he played in practically every game, if not all, and made the most hits in the league and was the leading batter, and was largely responsible for the Browns finishing third in the pennant race.

—H. B. A.

Business of passing the laurel sprig along to Heinie, who, as H. B. A. remarks, is quite a ball player, any way you figure him.

"If you want the name of the best all-round in baseball," writes L. P., "here it is—Waner, Waner and Comorskey, of the Pirates. By outfields I mean hitting, fielding, ground covering, base running and the whole job of playing. I believe this bunch will be good enough to bring the Pirates into another pennant if Donie Bush doesn't bump into another run of tough luck."

Pace Setting

The point that Bobby Jones brings out about the strain of pace setting in golf applies to almost any sort.

Gameness in front running has been badly overlooked. The entry that comes from behind has been given most of the credit when often he has the easier job.

This goes for a pennant race. The team back of the top can shoot the works with a definite target ahead. But when the front running team sees its margin cut away the mental effect is depressing. The Yankees had 13 games shot from under them last summer, when they looked to be a certainty. It was not until the Athletics had pulled up on even terms that they whirled and struck.

When you pile up a lead in any contest and that lead begins to dwindle and slip away there is often a feeling of panic that the entry coming from behind never knows. This can affect a group as well as an individual.

A boxer may pile up a big lead and then start to playing it safe. When an opponent begins to cut that lead away in the closing rounds the party of the first part always has a tough time getting started again.

One of the toughest turns in sport is to ease up and then try to steam up later on. Christy Mathewson and Bill Tilden were two masters at this art, but there have been many in sport. Matty could loaf with a lead and then bear down when the pinch came. So could Tilden in his prime. But they were exceptions. The competitor who piles up a lead and then eases up usually has a great desire to kick himself when he finds this lead peeled away, where he might have continued the pressure to win easily. Not so many can get a new grip on themselves and pick up the earlier pace. There are both mental and physical handicaps to overcome and the nervous system to readjust and direct.

Daily Dope

By LARRY DAILEY

IN A SEASON marked by one of the finest crops of rookies that ever graced the Texas league, or any minor circuit for that matter, there is one who overshadows the rest of the starry juveniles. The best of them all is Dick Sullivan, and it is not only because he wears regalia of the Wichita Falls Spudders that I make that assertion.

It has been many a year since I have seen a ball player of more promise than the cocky kid outfielder from Denison. His worth now and potential greatness is because he can do everything on the ball field—and in all departments he is an expert and for a youngster, an amazingly finished performer.

A batting average of .360, marked by many extra-base slams, attests to his hitting prowess. He has the speed of a greyhound and is a sure ball hawk, to make him a brilliant fielder and always dangerous on the bases. And he throws with the power of a riflelike arm and with accuracy.

SO MUCH for the mechanical gifts of our youthful Mr. Sullivan. But the diamond skill of Dick does not stop there. And, indeed, it is his mental faculties and will to win that round him out as a ball player of vastly great future. For though he is a star mechanical player, his smartness and aggressiveness will be important factors in his career.

Sullivan always plays heads-up baseball. Twice in consecutive games last week he sized up situations in a flash and threw out runners at the plate trying to score from second on a comrade's single. This play Dick made in preference to the orthodox and safe method of returning the ball to second base. He is a terror to the opposing club when on the base lines. Several times this year he has bewildered pitchers, some of them veterans, to the extent that they have been guilty of balks. He has instinctive aptitude for the lost art of base stealing; takes a good lead and knows how to slide, which with his speed makes him a mighty dangerous customer on the paths.

He is a hustling ball player, giving his best all the time, and while highly aggressive and confident is a fine, clean living, likeable young man.

Sullivan is no flash in the pan. He could not have maintained the pace he has set all season if he were a morning glory. He is a star in his own right, established and unquestioned.

J. Alvin Gardner will sell him to a major league club at the end of the 1929 campaign for a pretty penny; close to $25,000.

And the boy will be worth every cent of it.

AMONG OTHER fine-looking youngsters in the Texas league are Pitcher Vic Frasier and Infielder Jeffries of Dallas; Outfielder Larry Cox of Fort Worth; Shortstop Akers and Second Baseman Stewart of Shreveport; Outfielder Sanguinet of Waco and Catcher Jack Crouch of Wichita Falls.

Major league prospects, all of them.

KLEIN LATEST DIAMOND STAR

Phil Youth May Supplant Ruth as Swat King

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, July 17. (UP)—The latest major league sensation is Charles (Chuck) Klein, young Phillies' outfielder who in his second year in professional baseball, has won a reputation as one of the hardest hitters in the National league.

The 23-year-old slugger hit two home runs against the Cubs at Philadelphia yesterday and tied two major league home run records—five homers in three consecutive games and three homers in three consecutive times at bat.

Klein's home run streak has hoisted him to the major league lead in homers.

One of Leading Hitters

Not only is Klein threatening to win Babe Ruth's laurels but through games of yesterday Klein had a hitting average of .369, placing him fourth among the hitters in his league.

Although the 1929 season started six days later than the 1927 season, Klein is only two homers behind Ruth's record schedule. Ruth hit No. 30 on July 12, 1927, but it was not until July 24 that he hit No. 31.

Klein's rise to major league fame reads like a fairy tale. Two years ago he was playing semi-pro ball around Evansville, Ind. He got a tryout with the Fort Wayne, Ind., club in the Central league (class B) last season and was hitting .340 when the Phillies picked him up in mid-season.

He's Husky Youth

Klein is a left-handed hitter and drives the ball like a rifle shot, g.ving the power of his broad shoulders behind his swing. He weighs 185 and is 5 feet, 11½ inches in height.

"He is a fine type of youngster," Baker said recently. "He is a natural hitter and conscientious worker. He hasn't a single bad habit and is a credit to the national game."

BROWNS BLANK RED SOX

Unpleasant Breath

An offensive breath, sometimes called halitosis or fetor oris, is an unfortunate affliction common to most sick folks.

The one with the most offensive breath often does not know anything about it, although it is unpleasantly noticeable to friends and acquaintances. It presents one of the most serious social and business handicaps. I have even known doctors, dentists and nurses whose breath was so unpleasant as to drive patients away.

It may seem a silly reason, but unpleasant bodily odors as well as a bad breath stand very high in the list of the real causes for divorce. A husband may possess very fine qualities, and still his physical presence may become actually repulsive to the wife because of a tobacco or onion breath. While the tobacco or onion causes could be easily removed, there are many others which might be called disease causes which are more difficult to eliminate. Here are a few causes which are quite common:

Catarrhal trouble of the mouth, throat, bronchi, stomach or sinuses. These troubles can be discovered by the physician if the individual does not know which one is causing his own trouble. A proper diagnosis will of course indicate the correct method of treatment.

Pyorrhea and trench mouth can be cured through removing the primary cause of overacidity of the stomach and the contributing causes of bacterial infection. Scaling of the teeth or treatment of the gums should be given by a dentist, and periodical calls made upon the dentist to prevent further trouble.

The cheese-like matter in the crypts of the tonsils will make a very disagreeable odor with those who have diseased or infected tonsils. The tonsils can be cured through diet and local treatments or if this is not done they should be removed.

Decayed teeth should be given the proper care, and would never develop very far if the dentist was consulted frequently.

Some of the most common of the disagreeable odors in the breath come from the fact that the lungs are forced to eliminate quantities of poisonous gases because of the toxic condition of the body due in many cases to constipation or colitis which causes the poisons of the intestines to be re-absorbed and actually thrown out through the breath.

All smokers must realize that a smoker's breath is never pleasant, even to other people who are also smokers. Those who enjoy smoking should always brush the teeth after each smoke or at least two or three times daily. There are many harmless deodorants on the market which a smoker can use as a gargle. Most of these can be used several times daily without harm to the mouth, and although the tobacco odor is not entirely destroyed it is made less noticeable by the stronger and more pleasant smell of the deodorant.

The hygiene of the mouth is most important, not only for reasons of cleanliness, but because otherwise toxins and disease producing organisms may thereby gain entry into the system. Often, pus from mouth infections may be absorbed in large quantities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tuberculosis of Bone

Question—M. K. asks: "How does tuberculosis of the bone start, and what is the cause of the disease?"

Answer—The cause of bone tuberculosis is practically the same as that of tuberculosis in any other part of the body. There is a long period of enervation and a gradual building up of a poisoned state of the blood. Often a bruise or blow seems to start the trouble, but the real cause is from the conditions I have mentioned.

Spinach

Question—N. W. writes: "I find it impossible to get spinach in a restaurant that is free from sand and grit. Will you please state in your column if it is possible to thoroughly clean this 'ring of vegetables' and how it is done?"

Answer—I know it is true that the greatest objection to spinach you get in restaurants is because the cooks are careless about the preparation of it. This is one of the principal reasons why spinach is not used in the cheaper restaurants. It requires a long time to prepare it by washing in several waters, and many restaurant managers feel that their patrons are not willing to pay enough for spinach to justify taking the time necessary to properly clean it. To clean spinach at home you should separate all the leaves and hold each leaf under running water, placing the washed leaf in a clean dish, the safer plan being to wash each leaf the second time, placing in another clean dish. While the spinach is still wet, place in a covered pan without water, then cook with a high fire for five minutes. Do not remove the cover until ready to serve.

Chillicothe Charity Organization Needs Aid

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, July 17. (Spl.)—It takes about $300 per year for the Goodfellows' club of Chillicothe, the charitable organization, to function properly, according to C. W. Underwood, chairman of the committee. The organization is short of funds and a drive is to be put on in the near future to get in money to carry on charitable work among the needy of the city.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, July 17. (Spl.)—J. A. Rutledge of this city has just returned home from Charlotte, N. C., where he attended the Old Settlers' reunion. He came back by way of Mississippi and visited relatives about his old home.

PROHI AGENTS ACCEPT BID TO SEARCH HOUSE, AND WIN

SUBURY, Pa., July 17. (UP)—Col. Wilbur Leitsell, dry enforcement official, was glad today that his men accepted the invitation of Charles Feudale, of Shamokin, to "come right in and satisfy yourselfes, I've got no liquor in the house."

One agent stumbled against the tread of a stair step. The tread popped up, revealing a cache of liquor, Lietsel said. Other agents found a wine cellar behind secret panels, and still another discovered that the gas jets leaked intoxicants, the official said. Feudale was held in $2,000 bail for federal court.

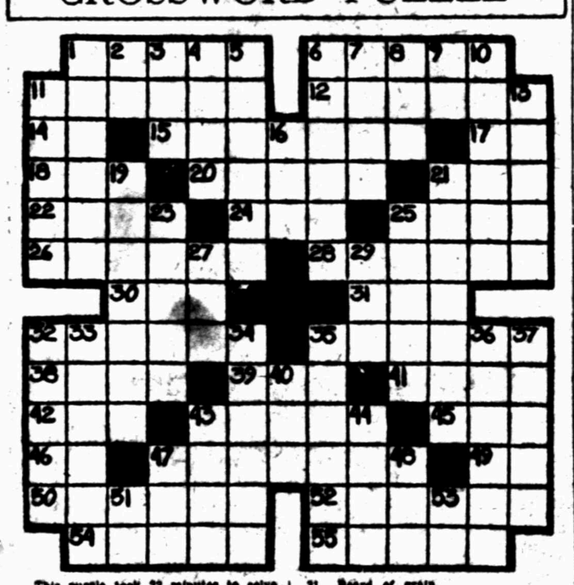

YOUTH GOES ON TRIAL IN DEATH OF PARENTS

CORSICANA, Texas, July 17. (INS)—Lloyd Davidson went to trial in district court here today on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his father, W. T. Davidson. Young Davidson is already under sentence to 99 years in the penitentiary on a charge of killing his stepmother. The couple were alleged to have been clubbed to death and their house fired to conceal the evidence.

Special to The Record News.

COLEMAN, Texas, July 17.—Bebout and Sullivan drilled in their No. 2 Haas located in section 71, G. H. & H. R. R. survey for a 35 barrel producer. The sand was encountered at 1489 feet and was drilled five feet in. This well is 300 feet soutwest of their No. 1 which is now making about 15 barrels per day.

A number of new locations have been made in the south part of the county during the past few days. Coleman Pool Has New Oiler

Special to The Record News.

COLEMAN, Texas, July 17—Midwest Exploration company scored their first producer in the Eastland Oil company pool, eight miles northeast of Coleman, by drilling in their No. 1 Keeney Monday afternoon. The well started flowing at the rate of 35 barrels per hour after drilling five feet of pay sand. The gas sand was topped at 1996 feet and was drilled to 2005 feet, after which the well began to flow. According to nearby wells several feet of sand remains to be drilled. This well is located 400 feet east of the White Eagle No. 1 which is now making about 1,800 barrels per day.

The White Eagle Oil company is rigging up on the No. 2 and No. 3 locations off-setting their No. 1 to the south and west. The Eastland Oil company is rigging up on their 8-A which is an offset to the White Eagle No. 1, to the north. The Mid-West Exploration Co., is rigging up on their location near the northwest corner of the I. Keeney tract in the John H. Wood survey, offsetting the J. J. Crowder tract. This location is about 4000 feet southwest of the Tower-McKanna well which is to be tested Wednesday.

FAILURE TO PAY DEBTS KEEPS JOBBER IN JAIL

WARRENTON, Mo. (AP)—Bernard S. Reiss, once a St. Louis shoe jobber, has spent a year behind bars here because he hasn't paid his debts.

Reiss, a voluntary bankrupt, says he can't; that his money was all lost in a few months of gambling.

Federal Judge Charles B. Faris doesn't believe his story and ordered him to pay $27,345 or go to jail in contempt of court.

Counsel for Reiss contend that he is virtually a prisoner for debt, in violation of the constitution, and a rehearing is being sought. Reiss, however, says he sees no possibility of ever repaying his debts and expects to spend the rest of his days in jail.

Attempts to recover $3,000 lost on a bad loan led to his gambling orgy, he says. He came to this country as an Austrian immigrant when a youth. He is 34 years old and has a wife and four children.

Spot Gasoline Prices Changed

Special to the Record News

TULSA, Okla., July 17.—To develop a greater spot trade, many of the Midcontinent refineries on Tuesday, July 16, made a sharp readjustment of their spot gasoline quotations.

Those who joined in the readjustment arbitrarily reduced their U. S. motor gasoline prices from 8⅝ and 8¾ cents to 8 cents, with a few still holding at 8¼ cents a gallon and expected to follow suit.

While sales managers report that spot business continues slow, investigation shows that contract shipments are brisk. Gasoline stocks in the Midcontinent area were reduced around 55,000,000 gallons, one agency reporting that the refiners reporting to it, showed a withdrawal of 52,000,000 gallons, a gain of 4,800,000 gallons.

Because of the readjustment it is difficult to learn just what the average prices are for many products, but inquiry shows that 64-66, 375 endpoint gasoline was to be had at from 8½ to 8¾ cents a gallon. Natural gasolines are still soft, the A grades being at 6¼ cents; B's at 5¾ cents and C around the same level.

Kerosene has also softened, the 41-43 grade being available at 5¼ to 5½ cents.

DAWES MAKES GREAT APPEAL

Ambassador Pleads for Anglo-American Amity

LONDON, July 17. (INS)—There is no "pussyfooting" in the diplomacy of Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, newly appointed American ambassador to England. He stands for the new brand of frank statements openely arrived at.

The diplomat made this plain in his much discussed address to the travel association of Great Britain in historic Vintner's hall, the home of the British wine trade. The speech, delivered with all the vim and vigor of this strenuous new ambassador, aroused considerable comment in the press today.

The Evening Standard called the speech "dynamic" and made allusion to "Hell and Maria," a phrase made famous by General Dawes before he was elected vice president of the United States.

Ambassador Dawes counseled the English on how to attract tourists and he told how he got acquainted with the British during the war. He spoke feelingly and with much gesticulation of the war sacrifices made by the English. His speech was a powerful appeal for Anglo-American friendship.

Lord Derby, who introduced Ambassador Dawes, spoke of the various ties binding America and England. He spoke of Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago, who brought Reigh Count to England to race. Reigh Count suffered a relapse of form and ran poorly winning only one race, but Mrs. Hertz' gallant and sporting conduct in the face of defeat, her good humor and her continual optimism won the full admiration of the British, Lord Derby said.

During the luncheon a giant goblet filled with spiced wine was passed among the 200 diners. Ambassador Dawes touched his lips to the rim of the cup but whether he drank any of the wine is not known.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 17. (AP)—An increasing demand attributed to less favorable weather reports, the further advance in grain, and continued fear of boll weevil damage to the crop, caused an advance of about $3 per bale in cotton today. The new October contract sold up to 19.08 making a recovery of 113 points from the low level of Tuesday.

The opening was firm at an advance of 5 to 13 points relatively steady cables from Liverpool and apprehensions that the rains or showers in central belt sections would increase the danger of boll weevil damage. After gains of 20 to 28 points, the market reacted slightly under selling. Offerings were readily absorbed and the market soon firmed up again.

Buying became more active and general during the afternoon. Some stop orders to buy were uncovered as the market worked above 19.00 for new October contracts. December sold at 19.35 and March at 19.43.

July was relatively quiet but followed the advance in later months, selling at 18.60, or 60 points net higher. Closing prices were several points off from the best under realizing.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 17. (AP)—Cotton advanced $3 a bale today, making a gain of $5 a bale above the lowest point of the recent decline. The advance was attributed to an oversold market. Shorts seeking to cover found keen competition from trade and other buying. Alarm at the spread of the boll weevil and high temperatures in the southwest coupled with too much rain in the eastern belt were contributing influences.

October which closed yesterday at 18.23, advanced to 18.92, up 69 points net for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 54 to 61 points.

Liverpool came in 5 to 10 points better than due and first trades showed gains of 7 to 9 points. Prices continued to improve during the first hour on rains in the eastern belt, October trading up to 18.46 and December to 18.65, or 22 to 23 points above the previous close.

The market turned easier after the publication of the weekly weather and crop summary. October eased off to 18.26 and December to 18.46, or 18 to 20 points down from the early highs.

The market rallied sharply after midseason on active short covering. At the highest December traded to 19.10 or 67 to 69 points above the previous close. There was a reaction of 7 to 8 points in the final few minutes on profit taking. October closing at 18.84 and December at 19.03, or 60 to 61 points net higher for the day.

Call Money Rate Drop Sustains Stocks Despite Heavy Selling

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 17. (US)—Drop in the call money rate sustained the stock market despite quite heavy realization today. The official rate dropped steadily from renewal of 12 to 8 per cent with funds loaned toward the close at 7 per cent on the outside. The Steel news proved temporarily disappointing and the stock closed 2⅜ lower while other standard industrials lost about a point on the average.

Specialties influenced by individual developments featured again with Air Reduction up 9, Case Threshing 16¾, Remington Rand 2⅝, and Simmons four. Several Utilities enjoyed renewed demand with United Gas moving 2¼ further into new high territory and United Corporation gaining over two. Closing big demand for Alleghany Corporation that influenced three point advance featured a strong Rail department. Coppers and Oils remained listless. Turnover held to the 4,000,000 share level.

Easing in the call rate offset the fear of further increase in brokers' loans. After last week's surprise reduction in the loans both bankers and brokers keep their fingers crossed in forecasting. In fact the belief is growing that the brokers' loans reports are not all they seem. There are rumors that indicate some favored ones may be able to "guess" close to the figures before it is officially issued. The general belief, however, is that this week's statement will show loans at a new high record figure for all time representing gain of about $50,000,000 for the week reported on. As the call rate eased there was immediate resumption on talk that money would remain easy for the balance of the month but after the unwarranted tightening in rates of the last week there can be no surety in such opinion.

Montgomery Ward's further rise reflected the growing bullishness of the Cutten group. Other chain stores enjoyed good demand. Resumption of activity in Safeway Stores was accompanied by reports that pointed to merger developments in the near future. The company reported record earnings for the quarter just ended and is doing better this period. Two leading chain store organizations are mentioned as interested. Paramount reported the record earnings expected but the results were not quite as good as expected. However, it is stated that current returns are the largest for this month in the history of the company and further betterment is expected for the remainder of this quarter.

All is not finished in the Utilities. Important development in Italian Superpower is expected soon and continued quiet accumulation of Nation Power & Light is in anticipation of closing of another grouping arrangement before long. Remington Rand registered record high price with the group interested showing more aggressiveness. The new management has effected numerous economies and in addition the close affiliation with Underwood points to ultimate improvement of Remington Rand's trade position. Group work continued in foundation and its further advance was accompanied by rumor of merger developments. An added bearish factor was at work in the automobile group with flotation of report that tire price cut was to be expected before long.

St. Paul is called a "second Erie" To talk dividend for St. Paul common now would cause as big a laugh as did such report concerning Erie when first mentioned here. Now everyone in the street is confidently awaiting a dividend on Erie common. If the new St. Paul management continues to enjoy the success that has marked their activity during recent months there will be fully as much reason to expect payment on the junior St. Paul stock in a year or so. Reports of revenues for recent months would indicate that the company could show net of $7 a share for the common this year. It is doubtful if it will do so as the management is desirous of building up as strong a financial position as possible.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, July 17. (AP)—Practically 12c advance in 12 hours was the New Star record established by wheat values today. Forced rapidly on by sweep of buying orders, and as a result of reported fast increasing crop destruction throughout the Canadian prairie provinces and adjoining American states the wheat market today quickly overran $1.50 a bushel. Today's top quotations were 11¾c up from yesterday's bottom level.

Wheat closed nervous, near the day's maximum of 4⅞c to 8⅛c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3c to 3⅛c up, oats 2c to 2⅛c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

The Crown Cork International corporation was formed in the autumn of 1928 to acquire and develop companies engaged in the bottle crown and natural cork disc business and other branches of the cork industry outside the United States. Through actual purchase or the acquisition of companies having foreign subsidiaries the company acquired control of companies operating in France, Germany, Spain, England, Canada, Brazil and also has a United States subsidiary. Through its Spanish manufacturing subsidiary in Spain it has sufficient production to supply requirements of all its companies.

The combined companies have an annual combined capacity of 24,000,000 gross of crown and 20,000,000 gross of natural cork discs. The company is not yet old enough to supply comparative earning statements but the combined sales for 1928 were about 19,000,000 gross of cork discs.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 310,000 shares of Class A stock paying $1 cumulative dividends annually which has no par value and 200,000 shares of no par class B. The class A stock first receives $1 a share. Then when class B has received $1 in any year further distribution is shared equally between the two classes. Class A elects one-third the directors and class B two-thirds. No dividends have as yet been paid. As on Jan. 1, 1929, according to the pro forma balance sheet total current assets were $3,372,102 current liabilities amounted to $658,601 and net working capital was $2,713,501. Book value applicable to the combined A and B stock was $6.49 a share.

IRRIGATION OF CROPS GAINING

Diversification of Products Also Makes Progress

An increase of practically 100 per cent in land under irrigation and a considerable increase in crop diversification has featured the first four years of development in the Wichita valley following the completion of the Lake Kemp irrigation system, according to information given at district offices here.

While some water was distributed from main canals in 1924, general use of the system began in the spring of 1925. At that time 19,875 acres were supplied with water. The services was gradually extended through the construction of many additional community laterals, the report in the fall of 1926 showing 26,697 acres of land under irrigation. In 1927 a little more than 2,000 acres were added, the total irrigated area being reported as 28,995 acres. By the end of 1928 the acreage being serviced had reached a total of 38,820.

According to estimates given by officials in charge of the irrigation system, lands so located as to be irrigable with the present canals approximate 50,000 acres in combined areas. This figure would indicate that almost 80 per cent of the territory to which irrigation waters are available have completed connections for its distribution.

A gradual reduction of the portion of irrigated lands given to the growth of cotton has been recorded during the last four years, while the development of other crops has constantly increased. Cotton commanded 77 per cent of the area in question in 1925; dropped to 65 per cent in 1926; to 45 per cent in 1927, and in 1928, with a diminished wheat acreage, rose again to 56 per cent of all cultivated lands.

In 1928 the acreage was divided among various leading crops as follows: cotton, 21,658; feed 5,256; corn, 2,366; pasture, 2,405; wheat, 1,532; oats 1,424; truck 400; alfalfa, 582; potatoes, 223. Other crops developed in considerable quantities included barley, cane, clover, fruit and nursery (small trees).

FLOUR MAKER'S PROTEST LEVY

Millers Divided on Cuban Tariff Provision

WASHINGTON, July 17. (INS)—Flour millers representing Buffalo, Minneapolis and southwestern interests engaged in a controversy before the senate finance committee today over an amendment in the Hawley tariff bill which would deprive millers of the benefit of Cuba's preferential tariff if Canadian wheat is used in flour exported from American mills to that country.

John Pillsbury and W. L. Harvey, both of Minneapolis, representing Buffalo-Minneapolis mill owners, urged the senate committee to strike out the house provision and maintain the present milling-in-bond law.

Both contended that if the house provision stands American millers will lose their Cuban export business to Canadian mills.

E. G. Hogueland, representing the Southwestern Millers' league of Kansas City, defended the house provision. He asserted that if it stands flour millers in the Southwest would be able to sell flour in Cuba made from American wheat and that the American farmers would likewise benefit.

GIRL'S PLANE DOWN IN WILDS

Margaret Perry Forced to Land in Desert

EL PASO, Texas, July 17. (AP)—Although running out of gas in the desert wastes of Chihuahua is an unhappy predicament for any aviator, Miss Margaret Gilbert Perry, 24, of New York, hopes to have better luck when she competes in the first national women's air derby next month.

Miss Perry arrived in Juarez yesterday by train after the plane in which she was piloting the route she expects to follow in the derby ran out of gasoline, and she and her co-pilot, Clyde Larson, 20, of Los Angeles, were forced to land in the Chihuahua desert country 40 miles south of Juarez.

The aviatrix made preparations today to have the plane brought out of Mexico on a flatcar. The landing gear was torn away when the landing was made.

NEGRO RETURNS SECOND RING

Black Goes to Trial Today In Gem Theft

Following the recovery early this week of the second of two diamond rings snatched from the counter of the Kirby Jewelry store here several weeks ago, the trial of Ben Jones, negro, charged with receiving and concealing the jewels, will be called at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the 30th district court, George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, announced Wednesday afternoon. Grover Johnson, another negro, charged with grabbing the stone from a tray on the counter of the store, will probably be tried as soon as the Jones case is completed, the attorney said.

Jones has employed no attorney and has not asked the court to appoint counsel for him, members of the district attorney's office said. The negro is expected to plead guilty.

The second stone was recovered by Sam Spence, district attorney, and Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, who went with Jones to his father's home near Crockett early this week. They returned with the ring early Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Spence said no new charges would be filed because of evidence that the relatives of Jones had no knowledge of the history of the ring.

Jury Selected In $25,000 Suit Here

Selection of a jury for the trial of a $25,000 damage suit brought by C. O. Griffith against the Fort Worth and Denver railroad was completed in the 78th district court Wednesday afternoon before Judge Allan D. Montgomery, sitting for Judge W. W. Cook, absent on his summer vacation.

Mr. Griffith, former switchman for the railroad, alleges in his petition that the explosion of a firebox on an engine on Nov. 17, 1928, caused injuries to his eyes which have practically deprived him of sight and made it impossible for him to go on with his work.

The questioning of the jury began after Judge Montgomery had temporarily overruled a defense exception alleging that Griffith was not in the employ of the company at the time of the accident. The plaintiff is represented by the firm of Weeks, Morrow, Francis, and Hankerson, attorneys.

Wichita Service Man Talks

Gains on Orgatone and Feels Five Years Younger

C. C. Goodman, the well known Frigidaire service man for the Texas Electric Service company, and residing at 2602 Fillmore street, Wichita Falls, Texas, recently made the following remarkable statement regarding his experience with Orgatone:

"Most every home I went into in my line of work were talking about the good results they were receiving from Orgatone and I decided to give it a trial on myself. I am certainly glad I did for I've gained wonderfully and am feeling five years younger since I commenced taking Orgatone. For 11 years I had been in a terribly run down condition and had no appetite. After eating I would have spells with gas and sour stomach which would often follow with sick dizzy headaches and I was so nervous and restless I didn't feel like taking any interest in anything.

"I have now taken five bottles of Orgatone and my improvement is remarkable. All my indigestion and other pains have left me and when I sit down to the table I can eat a hearty meal like a good healthy man should, the best of it all is, it it doesn't pain me one bit as that gas, billiousness and all the other bad feelings disappeared right after I had finished my first bottle of Orgatone. My strength and energy have returned, and I don't know what a headache is now. Orgatone has certainly taken care of me and I am more than glad to speak a good word for it."

FIVE KILLED IN 1929 RUM WAR

Civilians Comprise Entire Casualty List

WASHINGTON, July 17. (UP)—Five civilians have been killed by federal officers so far this year in enforcement of prohibition, official records of the treasury department showed today. The government forces have suffered no casualties.

The five statements were by officers in the customs service, one by the coast guard and another by the prohibition bureau. The recent prohibition shooting during a raid near Tecumseh, Okla., is not included because the shot was not fired by a federal agent, the department said.

Tiny Texas Town Celebrates Birthday

LEONARD, Texas, July 17. (UP)—Although larger cities may scorn Leonard's growth—1,700 people in 50 years—10,000 persons flocked to this little Northeastern Texas city today to help celebrate its golden anniversary.

With Indians, cowboys, and pioneers in covered wagons encamped here as they were when the town was founded, residents and visitors tonight looked forward to two more glorious days of celebration.

The events started today with a parade at 10 a. m. One float consisted of a huge birthday cake with the appropriate number of candles. On another float rode the queen of the festival, Miss Elizabeth Clark, attended by girls representing neighboring towns.

Bonham and Greenville were also represented by floats. The parade was led by the band of the Farmersville Chamber of Commerce. Indians and cowboys were dressed in native garb and added to the realism of the celebration.

Dairy Experts Accept Invitation of Court

Three dairy experts who have applied for a position newly created in Wichita county have wired their acceptance to invitations for a conference between themselves, the county commissioners and a special bankers' and dairymen's committee at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, according to an announcement from John P. Marrs, county judge, Wednesday afternoon.

One of the three is expected to be employed for a period of three years at a salary around $350 and expenses, the judge said. The expert is expected to begin his work immediately in an effort to further the development of the dairy industry in the county.

Jury Returns Verdict In Suit for $18,000 Fee

The judgment in the $18,000 commission suit brought by Ed Mulligan against the Omar Gasoline company remained unsettled Wednesday afternoon after a jury in the 78th district court had returned a verdict answering all the issues in favor of the plaintiff. Judge Allan Montgomery has asked for briefs and will receive motions for judgments from both sides in connection with questions of law involved in the case.

Mr. Mulligan is seeking a 5 per cent commission on a $360,000 sale closed here between the Omar Gasoline company and the Texas company, according to the evidence introduced in the case.

10 CENT TAX HIKE URGED

Bond Funds at Low Mark, Barnett Says

his recommenadtions, the difference is partly made up by slight reductions in other funds which now have a surplus and will have no heavy abligations within the next few years, he explained. One of the changes involves the temporarily abolition of the two-cent public building fund, applying that revenue to meet the needs of other funds, he said.

Expenses Unchanged

Except for the jumps in the two special road and bridge funds, all other changes suggested are slight decreases, and the jury, general, hospital maintenance, and regular road and bridge funds are unchanged, according to the statement prepared by the department.

Mr. Barnett said Wednesday afternoon that successive cuts in the tax rate have decreased the revenue of the two special funds to such an extent that they will not be able to meet the 1931 payments without an increase in the rate. He estimated that they would be around $100,000 in the red early in 1931. The auditor said that a 10-cent raise this year or a much larger one next is the only solution, adding that another small increase might be necessary next year even if the rate is sent to 85 cents for 1929.

"I believethat two small raises will be more satisfactory to the people than one big one, and certainly the county' financial status will be better. We can slip by this year and part of next, but the 1931 bills will be too much for us unless we look ahead."

Marrs Hopeful

Mr. Barnett said he did not think proposals to get increased revenue from the collection of delinquent taxes would serve the purpose.

"In the first place only a certain small part of the amount could be apportione dto these funds which are in need," he explained, "and that would not be enough. We can't meet the problem by hiring a tax man to lookup back taxes."

John P. Marrs, county judge, repeated Wednesday afternoon that he still hoped, in spite of the auditor's figures, to hold the tax rate down, declaring himself personally in favor of employing an expert to look up oil and farm lands which have been delinquent for year.

Judge Marrs added that the commissioners have never considered employing a man on a commission basis for the competion of such work. The court has considered and is considering obtaining an expert on a straight salary basis, he declared, at a small cost to the county. The judge said that he believed between $100,000 and $150,000 in delinquent taxes could be collected within 12 months time. He emphasized the point that no plan of commission payment has been considered.

T. W. McHam, county treasurer, said Wednesday afternoon that he believed the increase, now or later, would be necessary to carry the two special funds.

The statement of the conditions of the various funds will be laid before the commissioners when they assemble Friday afternoon. Preliminary conferences indicated a stiff resistance to the increase and pointed to prolonged discussion before the rate is finally set.

"Self Defense" Negro's Plea in Wife Whipping

Eddie Hall, negro, was acquitted of aggravated assault charges in the county court at law Wednesday morning after he told a jury that, instead of whipping his former wife, as charged in the complaint, he had merely held her at arm's length to prevent her from whipping him.

It wasn't his fault, he declared that she had slipped and fallen to the ground while the holding-off business was in progress. The jury cleared him of the charges after a brief consideration of the case.

Hands Artists Rave About

Whenever New York artists or photographers want an exquisite pair of hands for "close up" reproduction they call in Annette Grandin. She has hands of rare beauty that can stand "close up" reproduction because they are so delicately white and smooth.

"The secret," Miss Grandin says, "lies not in any special care, or in the use of fancy lotions, but simply in a skin bleach of my own making. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable, and at the same time perfectly harmless bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night and this keeps my skin not only clear and white, but soft and smooth."—Adv.
