Mexican Gas Purchased

Carter Hails Accord As 'Breakthrough'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced an agreement Friday for the purchase of Mexican natural gas — an accord he termed "a significant step toward providing a new energy source for our country."

Carter told reporters the agreement, which climaxed two years of often difficult negotiations, also represents a "breakthrough" in the development of a "deeper and broader relationship" with Mexico.

Although the Mexican gas, to be imported by a consortium of U.S. pipeline companies, will fetch a higher price than gas from Canada, Carter said "the price is fair to both countries."

Assistant Secretary of State Julius Katz said the higher price for Mexican gas would be "hardly noticeable" because it will represent only one-half of 1 percent of U.S. consumption.

Negotiators for both governments had pushed to complete the elusive agreement in advance of the arrival here next Thursday of Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, who will confer with Carter on a host of bilateral issues.

Initial imports of gas piped in from Mexico will be small — about 8 percent of total gas imports. But officials say they view the agreement as significant because it establishes rules for U.S. access to the Mexican gas reserves, believed to be potentially among the largest in the world.

At the outset, Mexican gas will cost $3.625 per thousand cubic feet, the equivalent of $21 per barrel for crude oil.

Although this is sharply lower than Mexico's original demand of $4.95, the new agreement provides for future quarterly price hikes, keyed to an index that ties gas to the price of fuel oil.

The purchase price of the Mexican gas compares with a current American market price of about $2.25 and a Canadian price of $2.80.

The White House press office said the agreement "gives the Mexicans fair value for their gas while providing United States consumers with an additional gas supply at a price that is competitive with alternative fuels."

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher represented the United States at negotiations concluded this week in Mexico City.

On Thursday night in Mexico City, Christopher abruptly cut short talks that had been predicted would last "for several days."

Misintepreting this development, The Associated Press reported erroneously that the negotiators had failed for the second time in two months to strike a deal.

The United States is expected to import 300 million cubic feet of gas per day starting around Jan. 1. The daily cost will be roughly $1 million.

U.S. officials said Canada is likely to review its price for gas exports to the United States because the Mexican price is higher. They said the Canadian price could go to $3.30 or higher.

Originally, Mexico wanted the price tied to the cost of high-grade heating oil delivered to New York. The equivalence is calculated by determining how much gas would be required to match the potential heating power of a barrel of oil.

Formula Of $4.95

Under that formula, officials say, Mexican gas would have been priced at about $4.95 per thousand cubic feet.

Former Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger balked at that price last year, in part because the Carter administration was then trying to persuade Congress to set a much lower controlled price for American producers.

The stalled negotiations were resumed following a Carter visit to Mexico City in February that underscored a variety of emotional issues dividing the two hemisphere neighbors.

U.S. negotiators succeeded in persuading Mexico to peg the price of gas to an index that incorporates residual oil, which is less expensive than high-grade heating oil.

Both senators from Texas cheered the announcement Friday of an agreement to import Mexican natural gas as a good sign for the future.

Bentsen Calls "Start"

"The price is higher than we had hoped to pay, and it's a small amount of natural gas, but at least it's a start," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said.

"The reported conclusion of an agreement on the sale of Mexican natural gas to the United States is heartening," Sen. John Tower said. "However, there remain several unanswered questions pending the release of specificinformation."

Bentsen, a Democrat, added that he canceled a Senate speech he planned to deliver last Wednesday on U.S.-Mexican relations after learning of the pending agreement.

"I had held a lengthy discussion with Energy Secretary Charles Duncan on the natural gas negotiations earlier that day and was advised that a breakthrough had been achieved," Bentsen said. "Secretary Duncan deserves a lot of credit for his work to bring these negotiations to a successful conclusion."

Tower, a Republican, said he would not be able to judge the real significance of the natural gas agreement until all details were known.

U.S. Feels Cuban Troops Withdrawal 'Unrealistic'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has not asked the Soviet Union to withdraw its combat brigade from Cuba because it would be "unrealistic" to expect the Russians to leave, Carter administration officials said Friday.

Instead, they said, the current negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union are aimed at eliminating the combat capability of the Soviet troops.

The officials, who asked not to be named, said the administration feels that demanding withdrawal of the troops would be "unrealistic and unnecessary."

They refused to specify exactly what steps the administration feels would eliminate the combat capability of the Soviet troops.

But in the past weeks, the administration's definition of combat capability, while vague, has centered on the command structure of the troops and the equipment that allows them to perform combat roles.

The Soviets have insisted publicly that the troops are only advisers to Cuban forces, that they have been in Cuba since 1962 and that they have a right to be there.

The United States traditionally has accepted the presence of Soviet advisers in Cuba. The current uproar started last month when U.S. intelligence decided that the Soviet troops in Cuba had formed a combat brigade of 2,000 to 3,000 men.

Since the announcement of that finding, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin have held five negotiating sessions in an effort to resolve the issue.

Officials said the initial negotiations were information-gathering exchanges in which Vance sought answers to specific questions that American intelligence officials raised about the troops.

With those answers in hand, the talks have shifted to a discussion of what can be done about the situation.

President Carter, who has said he will not accept the status quo in Cuba, was quoted by his chief spokesman Thursday as saying the United States will act on its own to alter the status quo if the negotiations with the Soviets are not fruitful.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter would "be prepared to take whatever actions are appropriate," although he ruled out any direct military action.

Other administration officials have said the National Security Council is considering a number of options to apply economic pressure to the Soviets.

The dispute over the troops has stalled Senate consideration of SALT II, the new strategic arms treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union.

One senator who has followed the Cuban situation closely said Friday that a "cosmetic" approach that alters the nature of the Soviet force and yet leaves combat troops in Cuba would be unacceptable to the Senate. The senator, asking that he not be named, said such an effort likely would lead to rejection of the SALT II pact.

He called the idea "a trial balloon" being offered by some State Department

Application For New Bank Here Accepted

THE REGIONAL Administrator of National Banks has announced he has accepted an application to organize a new national bank in Lubbock to be located at Slide Road and Fourth Street.

According to Edward Graner, regional director for the banking agency's corporate activities, the bank will have total capital of more than $2 million. Proposed names for the bank, in order of preference, have been listed as "National Bank of Texas," "Guardian National Bank" and "University National Bank."

Proposed organizers for the bank are J.R. Blumrosen, Max Caraway, B.R. Griffin, Joe Roper, Morris Turner and Jack Wirtz.

Fair Skies For Fair Seen As Eight-Day Run Opens Today

FIDDLERS WILL fiddle, magicians will conjure and gunfighters will shoot it out today as the 62nd annual South Plains Fair opens today.

Despite scattered showers that fell in the Lubbock area Friday evening, fair skies and warm temperatures are predicted for the first day of the regional exposition.

"We feel real good about everything; we're ready to go," said fair general manager Steve Lewis.

Today's fair activities will include free performances of Bob Ford's "World of Magic" at 4, 6, and 8:30 p.m. at the outdoor stage. The Amarillo Gunfighters will perform immediately after the last two magic shows.

On the Midway, the Gene Ledel Shows has imported a stellar lineup of rides and shows that are sure to please thrill buffs of every persuasion.

Eleven shows are scheduled during the eight-day fair, including Grammy-award winners Tammy Wynette, Charley Pride, the Statler Brothers and other country entertainers.

But perhaps one of the most popular fair attractions — the Old Time Fiddlers contest — is scheduled to kick off a long list of free performances at 1 p.m. today in Fair Park Coliseum. Fiddlers competing in four age groups will be vying for

1 p.m. — 12th annual old time fiddlers' contest, free, Fair Park Coliseum.

4, 6 and 8:30 p.m. — Bob Ford's "world of magic," free, outdoor stage. Amarillo Gunfighters will perform immediately after the last two shows.

5 and 7 p.m. — "Flatland Bluegrass Band," free, outdoor stage.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m. — Vandermolde, Europe's fastest hypnotist, free, outdoor stage.

All day: Gene Ledel's million dollar midway; displays in the women's building; commercial displays, both indoors and outdoors; winning agricultural exhibits in the agriculture building.

Dispute May Cost Scholarship Funding

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

SOME TEXAS Tech students may be the losers in a battle between the Texas Coordinating Board and the federal government, but winners in the controversy may be nursing students at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital and radiology students in Plainview.

More than 100 Texas Tech students have had their scholarship money frozen because of a squabble over what institutions are eligible to receive certain federal grant money for students. The federal government says the state can distribute the money, but must include non-profit educational institutions as recipients.

The state, in the form of the Coordinating Board, disagrees.

Because the non-profit schools are not under the jurisdiction of the Coordinating Board, and therefore do not have to meet its standards, they should not be entitled to a share of the federal money, says Dr. Kenneth Ashworth, Texas commissioner of higher education. Ashworth termed it a battle over states' rights to maintain their "own quality standards for higher education."

While the battle continues, some $4.1 million in scholarship money for Texas students has been impounded. The Coordinating Board estimates that 10,000 students in Texas attending public and private colleges and universites are affected by the issue.

In the past, only public and private colleges in Texas accredited by groups recognized by the Coordinating Board (such as Tech's accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities) were eligible for this federal money.

Under a new law, however, the federal government requires Texas to share grant money with an additional 34 nonprofit post-secondary institutions.

In the Lubbock area, the expanded definition would include Methodist Hospital School of Nursing and Central Plains Hospital School of Radiological Technology at Plainview.

These two schools are not accredited by the Southern Association and are not recognized as higher education institutions by the Coordinating Board.

Officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have set a deadline of Feb. 1, 1980, for Texas to expand its definition of eligible institutions to include those schools or lose the $4.1 million for all students.

"They're forcing us to penalize 10,000 Texas students," Ashworth said. "We do not believe we should have to share the funds with those 34 nonprofit organizations and thereby dilute the funds available to accredited colleges and universities."

Half of the money distributed through the program comes from state appropriations and a percentage of tuition and fees collected from Texas students. The remainder is matched by the federal government.

At Tech, where this federal money is distributed under either the Texas Public Education Grant or the State Student Incentive Grant, the 1979-80 allotment would have been $64,000.

Ronnie Glasscock, Tech's assistant director of financial aid, noted that even if Texas loses its federal funds in the program, Tech still will receive the state share of $32,000.

But Tech anticipated the controversy and the impounding of funds, Glasscock said, and made arrangements just before the fall semester to transfer the 109 Tech students receiving $19,300 on this program to other types of financial aid.

"We're not going to jeopardize our students," Glasscock said. "Our kids need this money."

Because Tech transferred the students affected by this issue into other aid programs, none had to drop out of school. But Glasscock said, "It might mean instead of getting all grant money, they may have to work more or borrow more" to stay in school.

Students at other colleges may not be so lucky. Jane Innis of the student services division of the Coordinating Board said at least one Texas school has told her it will lose students because of the issue. But another school, she said, has indicated it will scrape up additional money from contributors to keep students in school.

"It depends on the resources available to an institution," she explained.

The viewpoint of those who will benefit from the new interpretation is un-

Chimp Given Human Blood Transfusion

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — Human blood has been used to save the life of a baby chimpanzee in what researchers say may be the first human-to-chimp transfusion.

A spokesman at the University of Oklahoma Institute for Primate Studies said Friday about four teaspoons of human blood were given Wednesday to Zeb, a 3-week-old chimpanzee.

An Institute official said Zeb appeared healthy and has gained some weight from his 2-pound, 2-ounce birth weight. Zeb and his healthier twin brother, Zeke, have been under 24-hour care since their premature birth.

Pat Crown, an institute administrative assistant, said a university graduate student, Mel Allen, was called late Wednesday to donate blood to the chimp. Allen's blood type is considered a universal donor type, reducing chances of rejection by the chimp's body.

Cattleman Jay Taylor Receives Spur Honor

By GERRY BURTON

NEARLY 2,000 persons paid tribute Friday to the accomplishments of a man who has served the livestock industry for half a century.

Jay Littleton Taylor of Amarillo — a rancher, businessman and "adviser to presidents" — received the second annual National Golden Spur Award in ceremonies at Lubbock's Memorial Civic Center.

Eight national livestock organizations sponsor the award. Taylor's impact on the livestock industry was told through a slide presentation for the guests who dined on steak in an old-fashioned prairie party atmosphere.

Songs and dances by the Ft. Griffin Fandangle Sampler, plus some oldtime fiddling, set the stage for the award ceremony, which was followed by dancing until midnight to the western swing of Hoyle Nix. Actor-rancher Dale Robertson was party emcee.

The National Golden Spur Award — Steuben glass combined with a gilded OK Spur, tool of the early working cowboy — will be on display in the Ranching Heritage Center today as Old West fans enjoy scenes from the ranching past in the outdoor museum at Texas Tech.

Griffin Bell, former U.S. ttorney general and frequent visitor to the Anderson Muleshoe Ranch near Gail, will be

Misplaced Comma Delight To Man; Not To Bank

But unfortunately for the Lubbock bank that increased the man's account by $11,000, officials didn't discover the mistake until after the man spent the cash. The bank now is seeking a legal remedy for its error.

In a suit filed in 99th District Court, officials for First National Bank of Lubbock admit they erred in wiring $11,000 instead of $1,100 to William P. Davis' account in an Albuquerque, N.M., bank on Oct. 31, 1978.

But those officials contend Davis has admitted spending the mistakenly deposited cash and refuses to pay the $9,900 in excess funds back to the bank. They have asked District Judge Thomas L. Clinton to hold a hearing on the matter and then order Davis to repay the extra money, along with interest accrued since Nov. 1, 1978, as well as court costs and other "general relief" to which the bank is claims it is entitled.

According to the suit, the Lubbock bank was asked by First State Bank of Morton to wire $1,100 for their customer, Great Western Meat Company, to Davis' account with Albuquerque National Bank.

The Lubbock bank, however, "through a mistake" wired too much cash credit and since discovering the mistake has asked Davis to repay the cash, the petition states.

Clearing Weather Forecast For Today

Fair skies are forecast for today's opening of the Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock after a Friday afternoon shower dropped about a tenth of an inch of moisture on Lubbock and scattered areas over the South Plains.

National Weather Service forecasters predict highs today in the lower 80s, with lows tonight in the upper 50s, accompanied by light and variable winds.

There is no indication of moisture today, according to the NWS.

Meanwhile, thousands of Houston area residents mopped away flood debris Friday under the first blue skies Houston has seen in four days.

Other Houston area residents prepared for rising waters along the banks of Cypress Creek, and a scientist said he had warned "the politicians" a long time ago of the danger of heavy rains this year.

Houston area residents continued to clean away the remainder of debris and water that had covered streets, seeped into homes and stalled scores of cars from the downtown business area to the suburbs.

But for hundreds of others who live along the banks of Cypress Creek and the tributaries of the San Jacinto River, the worst was yet to come.

The Harris County Flood District said Cypress Creek, which snakes through the northern part of Houston, was expected to bring widespread flooding when upstream flood waters pushed the crest above 30 feet.

Trouble also was forecast along the fingers of the San Jacinto River from Lake Houston Dam to the Houston Ship Channel.

Meanwhile, Clayton Crooker of the Institute of Storm Research at the University of St. Thomas in Houston said he had warned "the politicians around here that this was going to be one of the wettest decades in Harris County history."

"We went to great pains to bring this to the attention of the County Commissioners Court in 1973, but they wouldn't listen. They could have bought rights of way along bayous and creeks cheap then, minimizing future flood damages."

Short Trips Can Expend Gas Without Planning

Plan short trips carefully. Short trips are costly in terms of gas mileage. A vehicle started cold and driven four miles mayaverage bout 8 miles per gallon. The same vehicle warmed up and driven 15 miles may average nearly 13 miles per gallon. However, don't idle the engine to warm it up, drive slowly the first few blocks.

Strike Results In 'School At Home'

DETROIT (AP) — With no end in sight to a two-week-old teacher strike, parents in Detroit have been turning to home-study kits for their children in such numbers that the school district has run out of its supply of 12,000.

The first batch of the kits was exhausted by Friday — one day after officials started giving them out — as thousands of parents streamed into regional school offices to take up offer of free teaching materials.

The kits, mainly reading and mathematics materials, are designed as supplemental teaching aids under normal conditions. But with all the city's public schools shut and 189,000 students idled in the teacher walkout, school officials decided to distribute the kits "to see that the education process continues for our students," Superintendent Arthur Jefferson said.

Detroit's teaching staff of about 12,000 has been on strike since Sept. 10, after the teachers narrowly voted down a tentative agreement between the school board and the Detroit Federation of Teachers.

Under court order, bargaining resumed Friday on the key issues: teacher demands for cost-of-living protection and a wage-reopener clause. Robert Blackwell, a state mediator, has labeled the dispute, the largest teacher strike in the nation, a "classic stalemate."

With the talks stalled, about 1,500 of the homework packets, geared to different age levels, were sent to each of eight regional school centers, and school officials are now scrambling to reproduce thousands more.

"We got more people than we expected," said Louis Ellis, director of curriculum development and services. "We are in the midst of a massive reproduction, and supplies will be reinforced."

The new batch probably will not be ready until Monday, Yvonne Johnson, a schools spokeswoman, said Friday. One regional office manager, she said, promised to keep churning out the supplies, "until his copying machine broke down."

Waiting in one office, Ruth Rivera said she gave up her lunch hour to get materials for her son. "My son is tired of being at home. He wants to go back to school," she said.

Other parents, arriving later, were upset to find the supply gone.

"Offering the homework material is a good gesture, but there's no planning behind it," complained Andre Humes. "They must not think parents are concerned. Well, this should prove it to them."

"I wish school would hurry up and start," said Marge Blount, a mother of three. "I want them (her children) in school to get an education."

Gliders Association Brings Pilots Back Together

DALLAS (AP) — She held court in a dark, cold building as an appropriate, chilling mist fell outside.

They came from across the country and across the sea to pay homage, laying gifts of memories at her feet.

The old girl is a reconstructed CG-4A — CG for Combat Glider.

Number 515691 never will fly, but the aircraft is an accurate replica of gliders that carried men and heavy equipment into combat, mostly in the European Theater, during World War II.

It is made entirely from actual combat glider parts scrounged in the best military tradition from across the United States during a five-year period. It was assembled in a hangar at suburban Mesquite, and this week is the featured attraction of the annual World War II Combat Gliders Association. Many of the pilots got their training at Lubbock, on the high plains of West Texas.

"You know, you should talk with some of these guys," said association officer Joe Menard. "You had to be half crazy to fly these things."

Like other pilots, Lester was half flier and half infantryman.

"I always carried a .45 (pistol)," he said during a conversation beneath the long but bulky wooden wings of 515691. "We used to carry airborne...they had as much firepower with fewer men as infantry. We tried to make everything lighter. We started with carbine...and we ended up carrying grease guns (automatic rifles)."

Lester admitted to a certain fondness for the gliders, which are not to be confused with graceful sailplanes that soar for hours on wind and thermal currents.

Combat gliders were ignominiously towed to the fray, usually behind C47s. They were packed with up to 15 troops in battle gear, or with combat equipment or light artillery that could not be dropped by parachute.

Skimming low over the ground, the gliders were released from their tow ships and sometimes landed where and in the manner prescribed.

Since the gliders were considered expendable, they often made less than picturesque landings.

SHARING WAR STORIES — World War glider pilots reminisce about their flying experiences while seated in the no-frills cockpit of a reconstructed CG-4A glider at an airport near Mesquite. "We tore a hell of a lot of 'em up," Lester said. "You know, sometimes you'd stop them by raking the trees with the wings."

The pilots have no successors, and the esprit they display is obvious. The association takes in some 80 percent of the estimated 2,000 glider pilots still around.

They are older than many World War II groups because they entered the military later — mostly between 25 and 35 years of age.

While powered flight pilots in cadet training had to display 20-20 vision without glasses, glider pilots could sport spectacles, and many did.

Now they are in their late 50s, and some are in their 70s. They remained clear-eyed and fun-loving. They tell their war stories with all the gusto and hand action of a P-51 fighter pilot describing a dogfight.

Instead of enemy planes, they mostly talk of trees and other obstacles that can slap down a plane with little maneuvering capability.

Imaginative Nazi troops erected telephone poles in a line where they expected a glider assault, forcing the craft into a prescribed air space easily blanketed by ground fire.

Nevertheless, the gliders crept in often enough to disgorge their war machinery and men. Operating under cover of darkness, they soundlessly deposited their cargoes from Normandy to Burma.

The volunteer airmen cavorted appropriately during their meeting at a plush hotel, entertaining themselves and their guests, who included members of the British glider service.

During a rare, somber moment, one said:

"You know, the best way to say it is that bomber pilots had to fly five missions to get an air medal. Fighter pilots had to fly 25. Glider pilots had to fly one."

Authorities Seek Clues To Photographer's Death

DALLAS (AP) — Police hunted for clues Friday in the case of a Dallas Morning News photographer found shot to death in his car in the parking lot of a downtown hotel.

The body of Larry Provart, 29, was found by landscapers Thursday afternoon in the lot of the Loew's Anatole Hotel, where Provart had been assigned to cover a story about an awards banquet Wednesday night.

AN EDITORIAL:

HSCH Covered Up In 'Leaves'

AFTER GOVERNMENT policy, the next biggest cause of inflation is a slowdown in the growth rate of productivity relative to the cost per manhour of labor.

And one of the most glaring drags on productivity is the practice of paying people for not working.

The effect this has on inflation is especially noticeable in labor-intensive industries such as health care, where the cost spiral has exceeded the overall double-digit inflation monster of the recent past.

Members of the Board of Managers of the Lubbock County Hospital District are stirring uneasily under the realization of how granting excessive fringe benefits can add to the costs of running a hospital.

"WE'RE GETTING WHACKED," Board member Gwen Stafford said the other day as she noted that Health Sciences Center Hospital staff personnel get up to 25 days (five weeks) a year in paid two-week vacations plus holidays and sick leave.

Management personnel receive 35 days—and can accrue up to 60 days.

Private business and industry also have become more generous in leave and vacation policies in recent years, but there the loss in productivity often is made up through automation and other labor-saving advancements.

In hospitals and government service, where holidays and leave time greatly exceed the private sector average, the fringe benefits just add to the costs that must be borne by the public.

At the very new county-owned teaching hospital, for example, almost 10 percent of the total paid employe hours budgeted for 1979 was in the form of paid leave time.

THE PROBLEM IS that, once granted, a too-generous employe benefit becomes almost impossible to take away even as the expense climbs year after year.

Envious of federal employe retirement plans, labor unions have been demanding and getting fatter pensions for fewer years of work, for example.

Management gives in on pension and leave time demands, all too often, because it takes little out of the budget the first year or two.

As time goes on, though, the consumers and/or taxpayers find themselves paying for, say, two on-the-job workers and two retired or on-leave workers when they buy a product or service.

As employes ourselves, all of us want more leisure time; it is a mark of the good life. The trick, though, as the Hospital District is discovering, is to keep a reasonable lid on these fringe benefits lest our personnel costs get so high that our business goes bankrupt.

AN EDITORIAL:

Let The Voters Be The Judges

SEN. WILLIAM Proxmire, D-Wis., rarely known to shy away from a fight, may have to reconsider now that the Supreme Court has served notice that continuing his past habits could land him in jail.

Worse, other federal judges may be encouraged to discourage like-minded lawmakers who speak their mind.

Proxmire's monthly "Golden Fleece" awards to the federal agency making the biggest waste of taxpayer money have provoked responses from chuckles to chagrin on topics ranging from a federally financed study of tennis-court behavior to excessive use of government limousines.

Proxmire's recent problems were caused by a Michigan researcher who objected when the senator said a federal subsidy to study a monkey's emotional behavior was a lot of "monkey business."

THE LOWER federal courts dismissed the researcher's libel suit against Proxmire on the ground that press releases announcing his Golden Fleece award were a legitimate activity immune from a court suit.

But the Supreme Court decided in its latest term that the researcher's right to his good name outweighed Proxmire's right to speak his mind. Once Proxmire voiced his criticism off the Senate floor, the Court ruled he lost his constitutional protection.

Chief Justice Warren Burger, on behalf of the High Court, wrote: "Valuable and desirable as it may be in broad terms, the transmittal of (newsletters) to inform the public and other members (of Congress) is not a part of the legislative process."

The case now awaits hearing in a lower court on whether Proxmire's remarks were libelous.

WHILE THE Supreme Court in the past has warned that members of Congress could be legally accountable for actions such as bribery or invasion of privacy, it never attempted to limit what legislators could say.

What makes court challenges against seemingly legitimate congressional comments particularly questionable is that at the same time the Supreme Court found Proxmire liable for his press releases it ruled that an ex-New Jersey congressman could not be prosecuted for refusing to testify before a grand jury on political corruption charges.

The court reasoned that the lawmaker was immune because the suit involved his filing of a bill, which is official House business.

A congressman's first responsibility should be to his constituency and, secondarily, to the institution he serves. The Supreme Court would be better advised to busy itself with more important matters and leave the judging of a lawmaker's performance to the voters who put him there.

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

Python's Satire Of Jesus Lacks Redeeming Quality

WASHINGTON—One of the clues to our times is that the word "irreverent" has become almost exclusively a term of praise, while "pious" now sounds derisive. Iconoclasm has become a principle.

We pride ourselves on being able to see through things—which is all well and good. But when we see through them, do we succeed in seeing beyond them? Or do we merely become endlessly, indiscriminately tolerant of bad things?

Which brings me to a movie called "Monty Python's Life of Brian." This time the subject of the group's irreverence is Jesus Christ.

I haven't seen it and don't plan to; I manage to miss a staggering number of films annually, and a film that insults Jesus goes right to the top of my miss-list.

SURELY SOMEONE will wonder whether I intend to judge a film without having seen it. And I must say frankly that yes, in a sense, and for a purpose, that is exactly what I am doing.

About the film's execution I must be silent. But about the idea that the life of Christ is a joke there is no need to be silent at all.

Now Monty Python is a funny group and they may indeed have made a hilarious movie. But a movie can be hilarious and bad. Even high art can be radically immoral, like Leni Riefenstal's classic celebration of Nazism, "Triumph of the Will."

There is no debate about whether Miss Riefenstal knew how to point a camera. But there is also no debate about the objects on which she chose to lavish her admiring attention.

SOME PRUDISH people affect to find all bawdy jokes unfunny. That is wrongheaded. A joke is not immoral because it isn't funny, or unamusing because it is immoral.

If only life were so simple. Some of the funniest wit is bawdy, or cruel, or otherwise improper. If Evelyn Waugh had had more charity, he would have written worse books.

Others make the reverse error of thinking that what is artistically good must be morally innocent. These are generally the people who are addicted to Irreverence.

They think that anyone who objects to obscenity must object to sex, or that anyone who can't laugh easily at blasphemy must lack humor.

THEY MIGHT stiffly refuse to laugh at a racist joke, without wishing to have their own sense of humor impugned. And they would be right.

Richard Schickel, reviewing the film for Time magazine, shows an odd ambivalence. Those who protest, he says, "are quite right to do so, for this is no gentle spoof, no good-natured satire of cherished beliefs."

But he winds up calling it "daring"—intended as praise, though Faust too was daring. He finds a hopeful note to conclude on: "Maybe all the earnest protests will attract those who need it most: adults who have not had their basic premises offended, and therefore have not examined them, in too long."

SCHICKEL WAFFLES, but no more than most people nowadays who have to deal publicly with embarrassing subjects like religion.

Maybe it's good for us to be offended! Thus we have passed from a taboo on blasphemy to a taboo on condemnations of blasphemy.

C.S. Lewis reminds us that belief in a benign God emerged from an era before anesthetics. Religion came to be, one might say, at a time when nothing buffered man from pain, the raw perception that things matter.

Relativism, I suspect, is a bourgeois indulgence: we can afford to speculate. Why, we can even afford to make fun of people who believe, and to counsel them that a little shock may be good for them.

"WHAT DO YOU MEAN, I CAN PUT MY CLOTHES BACK ON? THESE ARE MY CLOTHES"

GEORGE WILL:

The Sin Of Omission

ASPEN, Colorado—Here I sit, blind to a mountain setting of incomparable beauty, lost in contemplation of a catsup bottle. Or, more precisely, of an ugly (to me) label on a catsup bottle.

It is special catsup; or perhaps it is especially ordinary. It has a plain white label with severe black print that says, simply: "Catsup." Smaller but legible print announced: "This catsup may vary in color or consistency. It is suitable for everyday use."

I had lived in happy ignorance of "generic products." These are products sold under no brand name. Out here in the wild (well, sort of) West and, for all I know, elsewhere, generic products are popular. But, they are, to me, puzzling.

Consider the phrase on the catsup label: "suitable for everyday use." I want to conform to the contemporary idea of the National Consumer, so I wonder: What does "everyday use" preclude?

Should, this catsup be used on the Fourth of July? Should the label be read to imply: "Do not use this catsup on Christmas and other religious festivals"? (Perhaps that is academic. Who uses catsup on Christmas?)

Squinting at labels in the generic foods section of supermarkets, and taking copious notes, does one's reputation no good, but it does introduce one to a whole new universe of nuance.

For example: "These mushrooms may vary in color, size and maturity. They are especially suitable for everyday cooking purposes." Not just suitable, "especially" suitable.

EVIDENTLY THE generic mushrooms are better as mushrooms than the generic paper towels are as paper towels. (Generic towels are suitable, but not "especially" so, for everyday use.)

And the mushrooms beat the dickens out of the generic syrup, which is described, dismally, as just "acceptable" for everyday use.

The label on the canned corn says the corn is suitable for "regular home meals." That leaves the Will family out. They have had only highly irregular meals since the children materialized.

Granted, generic products are, on average, 37 percent cheaper than national brand-name products. Economy is especially important in Aspen's City Market, where prices give new meaning to the phrase "Rocky Mountain High."

NEVERTHELESS, FINDING myself puzzled in the generic foods section, I asked myself what Woodward and Bernstein would do in a similar situation, and I knew at once to accost a store employe with the question, "Who makes your generic catsup?"

Why, he replied with ill-founded confidence, it says right there on the label: Topco Associates of Skokie, Illinois.

He spoke like the Somerset Maugham character who was always throwing out statements with the take-it-or-leave-it casualness of Euclid making observations about geometry.

I pounded like a NIT (a Nader-in-Training). "All the label says," I insisted, "is that the catsup is 'distributed' by the Valu Time division of Topco."

FURTHERMORE, THIS label, which is ostensibly so straightforward, contains a circle which looks, to the casual observer, like some sort of official seal. In the middle of the circle are the words "Valu Time."

Around the circumference of the circle are the portentous words: "Specification Approved."

"Specification Approved"? That is, I'll bet, generic guff.

Style, someone stylish once said, is the art of omission. Perhaps the catsup label is surpassingly stylish. I have an awful feeling that the label is supposed to be, in some socially responsible sense, the acme of good taste.

Tastes, I know, differ. "To a toad, what is beauty?" asked Voltaire. "A female with two popeyes, a wide mouth, yellow belly and spotted back."

Maybe generic labels are beautiful to people who live upright, sober and godly lives. To me they are as ugly as toads.

I KNOW, intellectually, even if I do not accept, emotionally, the fact that the laws of neither man nor God nor nature decree that a catsup label should be colorful and distinctive, and familiar because of advertising.

And perhaps I don't care if my catsup is lurking in the pantry, threatening to vary in color or consistency. Perhaps I don't even care who makes the "specification approved" stuff. Nevertheless, I have two objections.

First, it is only a matter of time before supermarkets crank up advertising campaigns to brag that their generic brands are better than their competitors' generic brands.

Furthermore, what is the point of being an American if supermarket shelves are going to become banal?

The trouble with everyday life is its everydayness. If this is to remain the greatest country in the world, American catsup must rise above that.

ANDREW TULLY:

Politics As Usual

WASHINGTON—As soon as I returned from what Presidents and lying columnists call a "work-play" vacation, I called up Carrington for a fill-in on the political scene.

First, I asked whether Jimmy Carter were still President.

"Well, yes and no," said Carrington. "He still holds the title, but he can't get anything done. Congress is back in town to resume ignoring him, the economy is more of a disaster than ever, and the Russians have combat troops in Cuba."

I was stunned. "What happened to Carter's Whip Inflation Plan No. 33?" I asked.

"YOU'RE THREE weeks behind," Carrington said. "The President is now not accomplishing anything with Plan No. 39. Prices are up again, and so is unemployment. The big banks have all raised their prime rate to a record 12-3/4 percent."

"Mercy," I said. "I suppose Carter will have to take another boat trip down the Mississippi."

"Nope," said Carrington. "The latest rumor is that he's going to criss-cross the country on a motorcycle."

"What about those Russian troops in Cuba?"

"At first, Carter said those Russian troops were nothing to worry about. Then he said the troops had been there for quite a few years. Then he said he'd be terribly put-out with Brezhnev if the Russians didn't pull those soldiers out."

"I SUPPOSE the Republicans are jumping all over Carter."

"Naturally. But give Carter credit for playing smart politics. By saying the troops had been in Cuba for quite a few years he implied that they had been shipped there while Jerry Ford was President.

"Ford blew up over what he called political innuendo by the administration, and demanded the immediate withdrawal of the Russian fighting men."

"That must have driven the State Department up the wall."

"It did. When the news first broke, they said the troops had been in Cuba since the mid-70's. Then, when Ford howled, they said they were just quoting from intelligence reports."

I CHANGED the subject. "Is Ted Kennedy running yet?"

"The answer is an unqualified yes. He announced by saying his family no longer was opposed to his candidacy. But he'll formally get in the race in November."

"That must be a blow to Jerry Brown."

"Apparently not. He's still speaking in homilies and answering questions with questions. Went to New England, said Kennedy didn't scare him, said as the underdog he could speak more candidly on the issues, said he was not going to be 'mealy-mouthed or wishy-washy' on the country's problems."

"How has Carter taken all this?"

"As usual. He says we've got to trust the Russians and get that SALT treaty ratified."

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Rich In A Pinch

DALLAS—Shove that stack of bills aside for a minute and let's dwell briefly on the compensations of forever running out of money before the end of the month.

It won't take long, because there aren't a whole lot. Of compensations, that is.

But we are spared at least one problem that plagues the very rich: We don't have to worry about what to do with our unspent money.

Don't laugh. There really are folks who don't use it all up on groceries. Some of them actually have quite a bit left over and, once you can bring yourself to accept this, you can begin to appreciate their dilemma.

They can't just let it lie around the house, now, can they?

THIS IS Big Money we're talking about. The kind investment counselors tell you should be out there "working for you."

We peasants, on those rare occasions when the landlord and the butcher don't get it all, tuck it away in the old checking account, secure in the suspicion that the light, gas and telephone people won't let it linger there. We are never disappointed.

Wealthy families used to stash some of their funds in savings accounts, but there's no future in that any more.

Their dollars just sit there and shrink, and the bank hasn't been invented that pays enough interest to keep up with inflation.

So what do the poor rich do?

WELL, THEY worry. They worry about tax shelters...and the stock market...and commodities...and land values...and international currency rates...and the roller-coaster prices of gold and silver.

They spend a lot of time puzzling over their portfolios, because the first thing millionaires are inclined to do with leftover money is invest it in Wall Street.

That's good for a lot of headaches right there. It used to be that when times were bad, the price of stocks went down. A man could count on that, and many a buck was made by buying low and being patient.

So what happens? All summer long, with rumors of a recession echoing up and down "the street," the silly market kept going up.

A COUPLE of weeks ago, it actually hit a 10-month high, in spite of record-breaking interest rates, threats of an autoworkers' strike and generally fuzzy economic figures.

A lot of folks made a lot of money, on paper.

Then, one short week later, the market began to tumble, sliding as much as 15 points in a ringle day. Was it a "normal correction"—or a hint of worse to come?

Is it time to sell—or sit tight?

Aren't you glad all you have to worry about is the price of hamburger?

The latest nail-gnawing fad is to store leftover money in gold and silver.

Come the Big Bust, say the gold bugs, that's the only thing left in the world that will be worth anything, and skittish people who are only half-rich are collecting Krugerrands and ingots and gold and silver stock.

SO FAR, they're not sorry. Every day, seems like, gold hits a new high. Last week it went to $380, a four-week jump of more than 20 percent. Silver did even better; it bounced up 35 percent.

"It's not surprising," says one broker. "Just look at the vast pools of money floating around. Paper currencies are declining. People have to put their money somewhere."

But they're keeping their fingers crossed. Gold has a reputation for swinging wildly from money-making highs to stomach-lurching lows, squashing gold bugs almost overnight.

And there's another worry you and I are spared. Neither do we have to puzzle over the intricacies of T-bills or Certificates of Deposit or M-1 and M-2 or even how to wangle a tax shelter in real estate before the Arabs beat us to it.

And, since we don't have any extra millions to put to work, we also don't have to worry about getting taken on a Rembrandt painting, or egg-sized emeralds and diamonds and rubies or Louis XIV's favorite desk.

But rich folks do.

Funny, I thought you'd say that.

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

NOT MUCH discussed is one certain kind of pollution about as irritating as any other. It's "public service message" pollution. Preaching. Admonishing. Warning. Advising. Ordering.

Television and radio stations are called upon to devote so much of their time to the stuff. And the well-intentioned busybodies, knowing they can get free time, pour upon us a constant creek of condescending crud.

"Do you know where your children are?" "Stay alive at 55." "Pray together." "Don't litter." "Support the boat people." Each notion is worthy in its own right, no doubt. What's not worthy is the silly superior tone they take in telling us what's what. If God wanted us to be preached to, He would have created Joan Baez.

Q. Is it necessary to put the astronomy telescopes on mountaintops?

A. To put them away from metropolitan areas is necessary, at any rate. Glow from city lights bounces back from clouds, thus to make the starlight fade. Scientists call it light pollution. Sky scopes in cities are said to be virtually useless.

Q. What's a pico-second?

A. One trillionth of a second. It's the time it takes a pulsed laser beam to work.

Sixty percent of the strokes on a standard typewriter are made with the left hand.

Many a man with mental trouble has proclaimed that he is Jesus here to save mankind. But nonesuch ever kills himself, according to a psychiatrist. That wouldn't do, clearly. How can he save mankind, if he's dead? It is the depressive who kills himself, rather, thinking in the depths that mankind isn't worth saving.

Average area of the 50 states is 72,392 square miles. That state that most nearly approaches the average is North Dakota, with 70,665 square miles.

Clock Problem Nearing End For Teachers

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — The time-clock controversy at Pueblo County schools is winding down.

Pueblo County Teachers Association members, miffed at being told to punch in and punch out, have agreed to use magnetic in-out boards instead.

Association members voted 115-3 in favor of the compromise Thursday night. School board members will vote on the issue at Monday's meeting.

The compromise also stipulates that teachers will receive their first pay-checks of the school year with no pay withheld, since more than two-thirds of them refused to sign in or sign out in the absence of the time clocks.

The controversy began Aug. 20 when the board decided to install time clocks for teachers in answer to pincipals'complaints tht some istructors were arriving late or leaving early.

The teachers denounced the action as a slap in the face of their professionalism.

Three days later the board backed off slightly, voting to use time clocks in four schools for a nine-week period, then rotate the clocks so all district schools would have the clocks for nine weeks at at time.

During the time schools were without time clocks, teachers were to sign in and out.

On the first day of school, Sept. 4, two-thirds of the teachers refused to follow the directive and at teachers association meeting, they voted not to abide by the district's regulations.

Four Youths Cleared Of Murder Charges

CHICAGO (AP) — A Circuit Court judge has freed four teen-agers named in delinquency petitions in connection with the fatal beating of an 82-year-old man whose bicycle was stolen.

Judge James Walton ruled on Thursday that the youths had not been found guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt."

He said he was not satisfied with a homicide investigator's account of an oral confession by one youth accused of murder. And he cited conflicting testimony from the only eyewitness in the case.

Louis Feinstein, a doctor, was knocked from his bicycle and beaten to death with a baseball bat on July 2. He was riding along a lakeshore bike path on the South Side. His bicycle was taken by the assailants.

Three youths aged 16 and one 13-year-old were arrested several days later and named in delinquency petitions citing them with robbery and murder.

Walton also threw out the murder confession of one of the boys. The judge said police had not carefully explained to him his constitutional right to call a lawyer. He also ruled that an identification by the eyewitness, 11-year-old Lawrence Johnson, was invalid because he was shown photos of one of the boys before identifying him in a police lineup.

The Grass Everyone's Talking About
DIXIE GREEN
ELITE OVERSEEDING MIXTURE
A BEAUTIFUL GREEN LAWN FOR ALL SEASONS
HOW DO I PLANT "DIXIE GREEN"

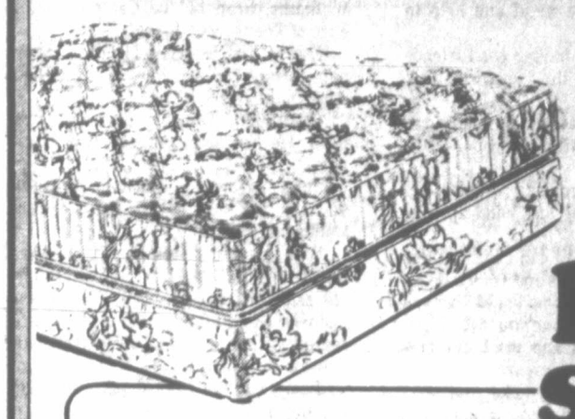

1. Overseed an existing Bermuda Lawn
a. Scalp, or mow existing lawn or bermuda as low as possible, and pick up the clippings.
b. Apply "Dixie Green" seed with a cyclone or drop type spreader at a rate of 2-4 pounds per 100 sq. ft.
c. Apply fertilizer (Zipp 16-8-8, Fertilome w/iron, or Pax Winterizer, note: DO NOT USE ANY WEED & FEED FERTILIZERS!
d. Water & keep damp for approximately 10 days. Do not allow water to puddle or run.

2. New Yard, Bare Areas Caused by Shade, or No Existing Turf.
a. Rototill soil to a depth of 1½"-2" in order to loosen soil. (Note: some new yards, that have just been prepared by the builder have enough loose soil on top that no tilling is needed.)
b. Rake until a good level seed bed is prepared.
c. Sow, seed, fertilzer, and water as above.
NOTE: The Dixie Green is not meant to take the place of Tex-Turf 10 or any other Bermuda, however, since it is getting too late to have coverage with Bermuda, the "Dixie Green" will give a beautiful lawn this fall & winter, then Bermuda may be sprigged into "Dixie Green" next spring.

3. Mowing?
"Dixie Green" should not require mowing for the period from Dec. 1st through March 1st, unless there is an extended period of unseasonably warm weather.

Shakeup Hits Teamsters Union Officials

CHICAGO (AP) — The executive director of the Teamsters Union's scandal-ridden $1.5 billion Central States Pension Fund has resigned and the controller has been fired.

Controller Donald Maxfield was fired. He had been brought in by Shannon.

John Yarbrough, assistant executive director, will take over Dwyer's responsibilities temporarily.

Williams and Frank E. Fitzsimmons, the teamsters' international president, put aside differences when Shannon was dismissed so a united front could be presented against a federal investigation of pension fund abuses.

Last year, the labor department sued Fitzsimmons and 10 former trustees of the pension fund to recover tens of millions of dollars in alleged illegal or imprudent loans.

Teamster sources who did not want to be identified said Williams would like to use the pension fund as a power base for a campaign to replace Fitzsimmons. They also said that Dwyer's resignation was no surprise. He had been brought in as a "caretaker" executive director on an emergency basis after Shannon was forced out, the sources said.

Shannon, a former Notre Dame football star, was hired as a reform director after a series of scandals jarred the pension fund.

Imported Cars To Cost More This Year

DETROIT (AP) — Sticker prices of stripped-down 1980-model imported Volkswagen, Audi and Porsche cars will increase by an average of 6 percent over the 1979 models, the importer announced Friday.

Options will go up 8 percent, said Volkswagen of America, Inc.

The increases were effective immediately. Destination charges on both imported and U.S.-built models will be boosted by an average of $19, effective Sept. 28, VW said.

On Aug. 17, VW announced a price increase on its U.S.-built cars — the Rabbit model — of 4.8 percent.

The only other price announcement so far came from General Motors Corp., for some of its cars, with other price announcements to come in October. GM did not state the average increase for the cars to which the increase applied, but calculations showed it to be about 3.6 percent.

VW said Friday's increases were made necessary by stiffer pollution control requirements, the strength of the German mark against the U.S. dollar, higher production costs and the addition of some options to the standard equipment list.

The smallest sticker increase was on the two-door Dasher model, $362 or 5 percent from $7,228 to $7,590. The largest dollar increase was $2,595 or 7.8 percent for the Porsche 928, which goes from $32,885 to $35,450. The largest relative increase was on the Porsche 924, which rises 9.4 percent or $1,370 from $14,600 to $15,790.

PEOPLE — PLACES - THINGS

Sport May Become Drag

THORNDIKE, Maine (AP) — High school senior James Bean was wearing traditionally male clothing to play on a traditionally female team until the local school directors got wind of it.

Now he's going to have to wear a skirt, or a kilt, like the girls who make up the rest of the Mount View High School varsity field hockey team.

Bean dislikes the attention that followed the school board's decision this week. "What I wear isn't important," Bean said Thursday. "I just want to be left alone and play hockey.

"It was inevitable that a boy would try out for field hockey, sooner or later. I just happened to be the one," he added.

The school board decided Bean must wear a kilt because it is part of the team uniform.

Coach Margaret Prior said normally she would not accept a senior who is a first-year player on the hockey team. But she "didn't want a hassle" over sex discrimination charges.

Ed Norton May Return

WESTBROOK, Conn. (AP) — Veteran actor Art Carney says he may ask his old friend Ed Norton to help him out next month when he signals the start of a race to raise funds for the Leukemia Society of America.

ART CARNEY

Carny, who has a home in this Long Island Sound community, is recuperating from a recent illness.

"I'm going to show up, shoot a gun, wave to people and visit with my friend here," Carney said Thursday, referring to 10-year-old Heidi Bulgini. The girl's mother, Janice Bulgini, is organizing the race on Oct. 7.

"I might call a dear friend of mine in New York, a senior subterranean sanitation man named Ed Norton and ask him to make an appearance to help Heidi and her mom," Carney said, referring to the character he made famous in the television series "The Honeymooners."

Cartoonist Hospitalized

MILTON CANIFF

DALLAS (AP) — The creator of the cartoon features "Steve Canyon" and "Terry and the Pirates," Milton Caniff, has been hospitalized for what doctors called a minor stomach ailment.

The 72-year-old cartoonist, a resident of Palm Springs, Calif., was hospitalized Thursday. He was in Dallas attending a Newspaper Comics Council meeting.

$1 Million Gets You Into Art

NEW YORK (AP) — If you have $1 million and want to break into the art field, Citibank believes the time is right and is ready to help.

The bank and Sotheby Parke Bernet, the auctioneers, have teamed to provide assistance to persons interested in art as an investment who are willing to start in a less-than-modest way.

"It's not a program for all people," Donald H. Rundlett, a Citibank senior vice president, said Friday at a champagne brunch to announce the association between the bank and Sotheby. He said $1 million was the minimum seed money for anyone interested in adding to a portfolio.

Under the arrangement, Sotheby will provide Citibank and its prospective investors with information and advice on worthy works headed for auction. Sotheby will not necessarily handle the merchandise sold, and it will look for good buys outside its own walls.

Birdcalls Fool Diners

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Diners in a downtown restaurant looked for birds on the chandeliers, and the waitresses hovered protectively over their trays. Bob Jaynes chuckled and kept his secret.

Jaynes, a strapping 6-foot-8 Vietnam veteran, started imitating bird calls when he was a boy and now he is so good at it he can sometimes fool even the birds themselves. The 30-year-old Springfield resident says his birdcalls kept him alive in Vietnam. He would make realistic birdcalls on patrol and the Viet Cong, hearing the calls, would think there were no humans in the area.

Shook Bandit Baffles Teller

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — After waiting nervously in the teller's line at the Fidelity Union Trust Co. branch on Broad Street, the flustered bandit finally reached the front.

He handed the teller a plastic bag and a note — which gave directions to get from Newark to Kearny, N.J.

"What's this all about?" the baffled teller asked, according to police.

The robber took the note back, read it, and whipped out a second note. It read: "Give me all the money. Don't play around. Large bills."

The teller handed over $350 in cash and the suspect fled.

Police said the robber, about 25, was perspiring heavily and his hands were shaking during the incident Thursday.

Union Leader Released

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller, hospitalized earlier this week for stomach pains and nausea, was released Friday from Charleston Area Medical Center.

ARNOLD MILLER

John Brown, director of community affairs for the hospital, said Miller was released in good condition and was not placed under confinement. He said that as far as he knew, Miller planned to go hunting this weekend.

Miller has been hospitalized several times in the past year, once after he suffered a stroke and a heart attack within a short period of time in 1978.

Transylvania Denies Visa

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The Romanian government has denied permission for American actor George Hamilton to visit Transylvania to promote a film spoofing Dracula, an aide said Friday.

HAMILTON

Hamilton was denied a visa after the Romanian culture ministry said his film "Love At First Bite" did not agree with the Romanian government's interpretation of the life of Count Dracula.

Astronaut Stafford Retiring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Thomas P. Stafford, who as an astronaut flew around the moon in 1969, has decided to retire from the Air Force Nov. 1, Pentagon officials announced Friday.

At 49, Stafford is one of the youngest generals on active duty. Air Force officials said he is retiring for personal reasons and there were no policy differences between him and Pentagon officials.

Now Air Force deputy chief of staff for research and development, Stafford was on leave Friday and unavailable for comment.

Stafford became an astronaut in 1962. He piloted Gemini VI in December 1965 to the first rendezvous in space. In May 1969, he was commander of Apollo X, the first flight of the lunar module to the moon. This mission did not result in an actual landing on the moon.

He logged his fourth spaceflight on the Apollo-Soyuz test project mission in July 1975.

Dalai Lama Visits LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The exiled Dalai Lama began a five-day tour of Southern California here Friday by exchanging prayer scarves with local Buddhist followers.

The spiritual and national leader of six million Tibetans recently said "some progress' has been made in talks with the Chinese regarding a return to his homeland.

The Dalai Lama now lives in Dharmsala, India, in the foothills of the Himalaya Mountains. He left Tibet in 1959 during an outbreak of violence between Tibetans and Chinese soldiers who had occupied the country since 1950.

Democratic Government Takes Over Central African Empire

PARIS (AP) — Forces of "democratic liberty" took over the Central African Empire on Friday after 14 years of bizarre and bloody rule by Jean-Bedel Bokassa, a onetime army sergeant who styled himself a new Napoleon, ruling over a poor, backward land. French troops were flown in to help the new regime.

Former President David Dacko staged a bloodless coup and unseated Emperor Bokassa I late Thursday night while the dictator reportedly was in Libya.

Bokassa flew to France and was allowed to land but was refused asylum,official French sources said. He was expected to fly to Libya Saturday morning.

The official sources, who asked not to be identified, said Bokassa's Caravelle jet aircraft was refused permission to land at two Paris airports but was allowed to set down at the military airfield at Evreux, 60 miles to the west, because it was running short of fuel.

A presidential spokesman said earlier that Bokassa's presence in France would be "inopportune at this time."

Troops sealed off the Evreux base after the plane landed.

There were reports that no one was allowed to leave Bokassa's plane and that his son, Prince Georges, who has been in France for some months, went to the base but was not allowed to see his father. Bokassa's favorite wife and some of his other children also are in France, but officials indicated they would not be allowed to join him.

There also were reports the plane's French crew was refusing to fly it back to Libya, but the official sources said crewing the aircraft was a minor problem.

The Central African national radio, monitored in neighboring Chad, said all police forces in the country had given their "unconditional support" to Dacko. French sources said, however, that two companies of French soldiers had been flown to the capital, Bangui, at Dacko's request to help maintain order.

The French Foreign Ministry said the Central African army, an extremely weak organization, had become "invisible" after the coup.

The sources said there was "complete calm" in Bangui, except for some looting of stores owned by Bokassa's relatives. The radio announced a 6 p.m.-6 a.m. curfew had been imposed on the landlocked nation of 3.5 million people in the heart of Africa.

The 58-year-old Bokassa was the third African dictator to be toppled this year, after Uganda's Idi Amin and Equatorial Guinea's Francisco Macias Nguema.

Dacko, 49, was the country's first president after independence from France in 1960. He was deposed on New Year's Eve 1965 by then Col. Bokassa, who headed the army at the time.

In December 1976, Bokassa proclaimed himself emperor and the Central African Republic an empire. A year later he crowned himself in a multi-million-dollar ceremony modeled after his idol Napoleon's imperial coronation.

He gained his greatest notoriety around the world with recent disclosures of a massacre of schoolchildren in Bangui. But over the years there were persistent reports of human rights violations.

He instituted such medieval penalties as cutting off ears or hands for crimes. In 1972, he reportedly led a detachment of soldiers armed with clubs to a jail and ordered them to beat 45 men imprisoned for theft. Three died. Last January, Bokassa ordered the brutal suppression of student demonstrations, in which his government admitted a number of people were killed. Other sources put the number at 50 or more.

In the children's massacre, the human rights organization Amnesty International alleged that about 100 students who protested government regulations requiring them to buy and wear uniforms were slain last April 18 in Bangui. An independent commission of African jurists confirmed that the massacre had taken place and said it was "quasi-certain" Bokassa himself took part.

France and the United States halted economic aid to the country as a result of the massacre. A French Foreign Ministry official said at the time that the aid cutoff probably would lead to the emperor's fall eventually.

French sources said that when the coup began, the airport and the radio station were taken over by Dacko partisans and Dacko himself moved into the radio station.

"I am acting ... to re-establish democratic liberties, to return rapidly the sovereign power of the people and to assure its security," Dacko said in an early morning broadcast.

"The nation has gone back 100 years," he said, referring to Bokassa's reign, which observers generally agree undermined the economy of the Texas-size, largely agricultural land.

French sources said Bokassa was in Libya negotiating a deal for financial aid in exchange for a Libyan military base in the north of the empire.

Several exile groups had formed recently in France with the avowed aim of ending Bokassa's regime. One exile leader, former Prime Minister Ange Patasse, said the opposition groups would meet soon "to form a common position" on the Dacko takeover.

Crocodile's Approach To Life Keeps Zoo Officials Guessing

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Inga Stina, an 8-year-old crocodile in the city's open air zoo, has a decidedly liberated approach to life.

She has just laid approximately 15 eggs — the first croc to do so in the zoo — and no one knows for sure who the father is.

It could be Henry. Then again it could also be Helmut.

"She associates with both of them so it is very difficult to say," said Jonas Wahlstrom, who is in charge of the zoo's aquarium.

There are at least 15 eggs, but more could be buried in the sand in the crocodile enclosure, Wahlstrom said Friday. They have to be kept at constant 86 degrees. The sand is heated by an underground heater.

Zoo officials speculated that Inga Stina's love life took an upswing as a result of the crocodiles' gourmet diet of Chinese quail.

The quail were imported in bulk by a Stockholm catering company which hoped to create a new eating trend. Unfortunately the quail tasted too "gamey" for the city's gourmets.

So all 14,000 of the frozen birds were given to the zoo, where it was estimated they will last the crocodiles two years. Before the quail arrived they had a diet of fish and rats.

"They've certainly seemed fitter and more active since we've been feeding them the quail," Wahlstrom said.

CONRAIL FIRE

NEW YORK (AP) — Conrail train service in and out of Grand Central Terminal was interrupted for nearly an hour at the start of the morning rush hour Friday after an electrical fire in a transformer under the station.

Protection Benefitting Kennedy Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is gaining valuable political fringe benefits along with his new Secret Service bodyguards.

Even though the agency tries to stay out of the politics of the candidates it guards, Secret Service agents cannot avoid helping a campaigner in a variety of ways as they work to insure his security.

Agents were deployed around Kennedy late Thursday on orders of President Carter.

Kennedy said he appreciated Carter's generous offer. Usually, such protection would go only to a declared presidential candidate who had qualified for federal campaign aid. But that doesn't begin until Jan. 1, 1980, and there is no indication that Secret Service protection will be offered to other candidates ahead of that schedule.

It's likely that at least seven Republican candidates, plus Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, will be entitled to Secret Service protection at the beginning of the campaign year.

President Carter, of course, has permanent Secret Service protection.

The practice of guarding candidates dates back to June 6, 1968, when then-President Lyndon B. Johnson deployed the Secret Service after the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy as he campaigned in Los Angeles.

Edward Kennedy, brother of both Robert Kennedy and the assassinated President John F. Kennedy, has faced an increased number of threats since he declared two weeks ago that he was considering a 1980 challenge to Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Carter ordered protection for Kennedy after the White House receivd a Secret Service analysis of the senator's safety.

Kennedy will get more than protection from his Secret Service guards. In the process of guarding any candidate, the government helps to finance his campaign travels and takes over much of the advance work that is vital in a presidential campaign.

The agency refuses to say how many agents are assigned to guard a candidate on grounds that would breach security. But 1976 candidates and campaign aides said the number ranged from 12 to 20, depending on the travel schedule and circumstances.

Whatever the number, their presence can help with the campaign travel budget. Chartered airplanes are costly, and strict spending limits can force a candidate to curtail their use. But with the Secret Service aboard, the government picks up the tab for the seats the agents occupy, and that doesn't count against the spending ceiling imposed on the candidate.

Perhaps more important is the advance work that goes with Secret Service protection.

In advance of the 1976 campaign, the Secret Service issued a pamphlet advising the candidates on what the agents will and won't do. According to the brochure, a day or two before a candidate visits a city, an agent will go there to check out and coordinate security arrangements.

"Other advance arrangements are made, including logistics, coordination of press identification and the designation of emergency sites," the booklet says.

That puts in the hands of the Secret Service the logistics of moving the candidate from place to place, mapping routes, dealing with local police and dozens of other details involved in a political campaign appearance.

Without the Secret Service, such details fall to the candidates' own advance men. Again, that costs money that comes out of the campaign treasury and counts agains the canddates' spending limits.

The 1976 guidebook said agents "provide protection 24 hours a day, 7 days a week ... handle all security problems and police contacts ... provide security extending to the candidate's food, letters, packages, luggage, cars and residence...."

Bankruptcy Filed On Local Properties

Three Lubbock apartment properties have been filed under Chapter 12 of the Bankruptcy Act to hold off creditors until specific financial arrangements can be made.

Altura Towers, Kings Park and My Main Place were filed under the act Tuesday in Federal Bankruptcy Court in Dallas. The owner of the properties is Sundown Apartments, New York Associates but the property is leased by Lubbock realtor Jay Fikes.

Neither Fikes nor a spokesman for the New York owner were available for comment but the attorney for Sundown Apartments, John L. King of Dallas, said he thinks the apartments' financial troubles are due to severe problems with air conditioning in the complex and the resultant loss of tenants.

The apartment manager at Kings Park confirmed that tenants there experienced problems with air conditioning but that she only had been manager for about four weeks and did not know the details of the problems.

Attorney King did not know a specific dollar amount owed to creditors, but said that Sundown Apartments owes several million dollars in mortgages on the properties.

No hearing date has been set for the creditors or Sundown Apartments, the attorney said.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

BIORHYTHMS FOR SEP. 22, 1979

PHYSICAL
Criticals: 3, 14, 26, 37, 49, 60, 72 ..... Can become dizzy
Highs: 4-13, 27-36, 50-59, 73-75 ..... Strong as a lion
Lows: 1-2, 15-25, 38-48, 61-71 ..... Take it easy day

EMOTIONAL
Criticals: 14, 28, 42, 56, 70, 84 ..... Avoid confrontation
Highs: 1-13, 29-41, 57-69, 85 ..... You are in good spirits
Lows: 15-27, 43-55, 71-83 ..... Woe is me time

INTELLECTUAL
Criticals: 10, 26, 43, 59, 76, 92 ..... Psyche unreliable
Highs: 11-25, 44-58, 77-91 ..... Good for concentration
Lows: 1-9, 27-42, 60-75, 93-95 ..... Thinking sluggish

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 2: Now find the corresponding number for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

These numbers are yours permanently. Check them each day for your biorhythm reading.

Computers To Help In Redistricting

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Tim Von Dohlen said Friday vindictiveness will play no part in redistricting legislative and congressional seats in 1981.

Von Dohlen, chairman of the House Committee on Regions, Compacts and Districts, made the assertion as the panel took a running start at the redistricting problem.

He and Speaker Bill Clayton said they expect computers to play a major role in redistricting, and the committee received a sales pitch for a computer system recently used in remapping Mississippi legislative districts.

Von Dohlen said he and Clayton don't care to emulate former Speaker Gus Mutscher, who punished political enemies in 1971 by eliminating their districts.

"I am going to work from the premise he (Clayton) doesn't want to do it and I don't want to do it. ... I don't think we are going to be faced with a vindictive type of bill," Von Dohlen said.

Besides, he said, a bill that can satisfy the U.S. Justice Department almost inevitably will have no room for political retaliation.

Under the federal Voting Rights Act, the Legislature's final House, Senate and congressional reapportionment bills cannot take effect until approved by the Justice Department.

The Texas Constitution requires legislative redistricting in the first lawmaking session after a decennial census. Failure to do so, or rejection of a bill by the Justice Department, would dump the remapping job on a special five-man redistricting board. This happened in 1971 when senators could not agree on new district lines for themselves and a state district court threw out Mutscher's House redistricting bill.

The U.S. Constitution requires congressional reapportionment.

Clayton brought Dr. Alan Heslop, director, and Tom Hofeller, assistant director, of Claremont (Calif.) College's Rose Institute to Austin to explain the "Redis" computer system marketed by the institute.

"Redis" was used recently to draw Mississippi legislative lines that complied with the Voting Rights Act.

Because of legal requirements that make mathematical equality of population a must, "I don't think it is possible for any large state to go through redistricting without computer assistance," Heslop said.

Von Dohlen's committee also was told by George legislative aide Linda Meggers that the Voting Rights Act will make redistricting much more demanding than it was in 1971, when Texas was not covered by the act.

"They start with black and Hispanic areas and work out. The rest of the state is up to you," she said of the Justice Department.

She said Justice took Georgia's 1971 redistricting bill and "bounced it back like a rubber ball." Only then, she said, did Georgia learn that Justice considers a majority black district to be 65 percent black, not 51 percent.

State Comptroller Tracking Down Overdue Loans

AUSTIN (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock, already on a drive to collect on overdue state student loans, said Friday he is adding overdue joint state and federal college loans to the effort.

Bullock has collected over a million dollars on defaulted state-guaranteed loans by withholding paychecks from state employees who owe money on the loans. The comptroller said Friday he will now help Texas colleges collect on federal loans.

"The National Defense Student Loan program and its successor the National Direct Student Loan program include 10 percent state funding and I've told Texas colleges and universities that at their request I'd hold checks to any individual identified on our system as a defaulter," Bullock said.

State law prohibits state payments to anyone in debt to the state.

The comptroller complained that the federal government has "shrugged off collecting these loans." He said he decided to aid Texas colleges and universities after learning that the U.S. Senate defeated a proposal to allow the Internal Revenue Service to deduct loan debts from tax refunds.

The exact amount owed on the state-federal loans will not be known until the 37 colleges and universities contacted report back to the comptroller's office.

Bullock said national figures show that federally-backed education loans classified as delinquent may exceed $2 billion.

The Texas College and University Coordinating Board in August held loan defaults totalling more than $39.9 million from 24,685 former students.

Key Witness' Credibility Questioned

EDINBURG (AP) — Daniel Rodriguez, who says local District Attorney Oscar McInnis asked him to arrange another man's murder, dscribed Fiday his past murder and drug convictions under questioning by McInnis' lawyers, who tried to tear down Rodriguez's credibility.

Rodriguez said he had fled the United States and lived in Mexico four years to avoid arrest on the murder charge.

Defense lawyer Jack Skaggs led Rodriguez through a line of questions on his background.

Rodriguez, who is nearing the end of his prison term on murder and drug convictions, is the key witness for the State Bar of Texas in its civil suit to strip McInnis of his law license.

The Bar alleges McInnis engaged in unprofessional conduct by asking Rodriguez to get a hit man to kill Noe Villanueva.

The intended target of the alleged plot is the ex-husband of a woman McInnis represented in a child custody fight.

McInnis and Rodriguez allegedly planned the murder-conspiracy while the convict was in the Hidalgo County jail in 1978.

"We feel it is vital to be able to show this man's character," Skaggs told State District Judge Joe Evins after Bar lawyers objected to questions about Rodriguez's past arrests.

"This man has a long history of having worked with law enforcement officials against criminals and with crooks against law officers," Skaggs said. Evins approved questions about the man's past criminal history.

A key unresolved issue in the trial is whether the State Bar can use as evidence several tape recordings of Rodriguez's conversations with McInnis.

Judges in state and federal criminal hearings have forbidden use of the tapes in court and eventually thrown out criminal charges against the district attorney on the solicitation to commit murder allegation.

Those earlier rulings do not apply in the civil case.

The murder-conspiracy allegation is the Bar's central complaint.

The scheme allegedly involved Rodriguez arranging for a Mexican hit man to kill Villanueva in Reynosa, Mexico after the intended victim was lured there by his ex-wife.

Rodriguez testified he went to the local sheriff, who then called in the FBI and U.S. attorney, after McInnis became serious about the plan.

If the jury agrees with any of the Bar's allegations of misconduct, Evins will decide whether to strip McInnis of his law license.

The 63-year-old prosecutor is suspended from office pending a separate suit to remove him from his elected post. He faces a federal trial later this year on charges of lying to a grand jury.

Former Official Denies Misuse

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Eschel Rhoodie, the former official who controlled a multimillion-dollar South African propaganda campaign, pleaded innocent Friday to charges of misusing government funds.

Rhoodie was extradited recently from France to face seven fraud counts involving alleged misuse of a secret government account.

He resigned as director of the South African Information Service after press reports about a clandestine campaign to purchase favorable public opinion abroad.

Female Graduate Follows Dad's Lead

Then, for sentiment's sake, they went through the ceremony again out by the B-25 Mitchell bomber mounted at the gate. Martin trained in the B-25.

"I think we can safely say I am the first father to pin his wings on a daughter that trained at the same base he did," Martin said.

A father-son situation at the same base is rare itself, but Lt. Martin and her two fellow students bring the total of Air Force women pilots to only 30.

Martin, who later transferred to jets, flew the C-124 and the C-130 for most of his 20-year career. In Vietnam, he flew the small unarmed Skymaster as a forward air controller, searching out enemy targets and calling in bombers and fighters to destroy them.

Lt. Martin came into the Air Force through the ROTC program at Washington State University. The Air Force brat, who grew up all over the country, calls Wenatchee, Wash., home.

Reese's other women graduates — Lt. Cathy Caseman of Atlanta, Ga., and Lt. Karen R. Klingenberger of Costa Mesa, Calif., — will be flying KC-135s for the Strategic Air Command. Lt. Martin will go to Air Training Command headquarters at Randolph Air Force Base for instructor pilot training and then return to Reese as a T-37 instructor.

Next weekend, she begins another career. She marries Airman 1.C. Richard Evans, a security policeman stationed in Germany.

With a pilot slot the more critical career, he will have to follow where she is assigned. Papers already are in for his hoped-for Reese assignment by the time she returns in April.

Rank won't be any problem with the pair. That was settled at ROTC as far as public life is concerned.

"Linda was my unit commander," Evans said Friday. It didn't bother him a bit. He, 'oo, is an Air Force brat.

Pushmobile Derby Scheduled Sunday

The South Plains Council of the Boy Scouts of America will hold its annual Cub Scout Pushmobile Derby starting at 2 p.m. Sunday at Lowrey Field.

Drug Defendant Denies Charge

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The pre-sentence hearing of a 27-year-old drug defendant was continued Friday when an agitated U. S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward ordered federal officials to support allegations made against the defendant in a pre-sentence report.

Robert Wayne Lindley, 27, of 1921 39th St., who has pleaded guilty to possession of methamphetamines with intent to distribute, took the stand to dispute an allegation that he was "a major distributor" of the drug popularly known as "speed."

Answering questions from his attorney, Gerald Anderson, Lindley said the report, written by federal probation officer Jim Parsons, also alleged that he was involved in a laboratory operation to manufacture the drug, and Lindley claimed, "I've never seen a laboratory."

Referring to a plea bargaining agreement between Anderson and Assistant U.S. Attorney Bob Slough, Judge Woodward said, "If this is true, then this is not enough years."

Terms of the plea bargain were not revealed in the 9:30 a.m. hearing in federal district court.

"The man ought to get the punishment he deserves — no more and no less," Woodward said.

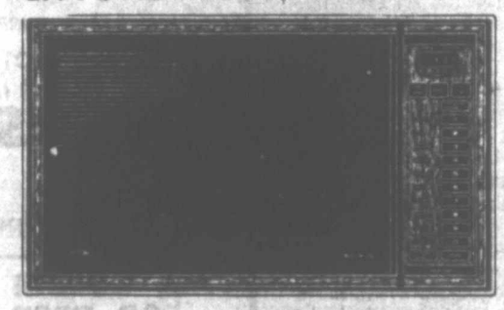

He ordered Slough and Parsons, who attended the hearing, to produce evidence Tuesday pertaining to the allegations in the report.

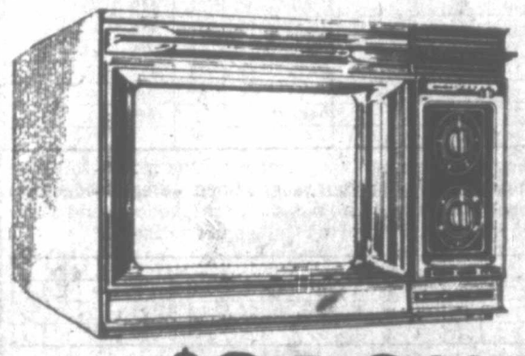

"You wouldn't have said it if it weren't true, would you, Mr. Parsons?" Woodward asked.

"No, sir," Parsons said.

Chicago Sun-Times To Hike Daily Price

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Sun-Times will raise its daily newsstand price from 15 to 20 cents beginning Oct. 1, the newspaper announced Friday.

Home delivery subscription rates will not be raised then, said Charles D. Fegert, executive vice president of advertising and circulation.

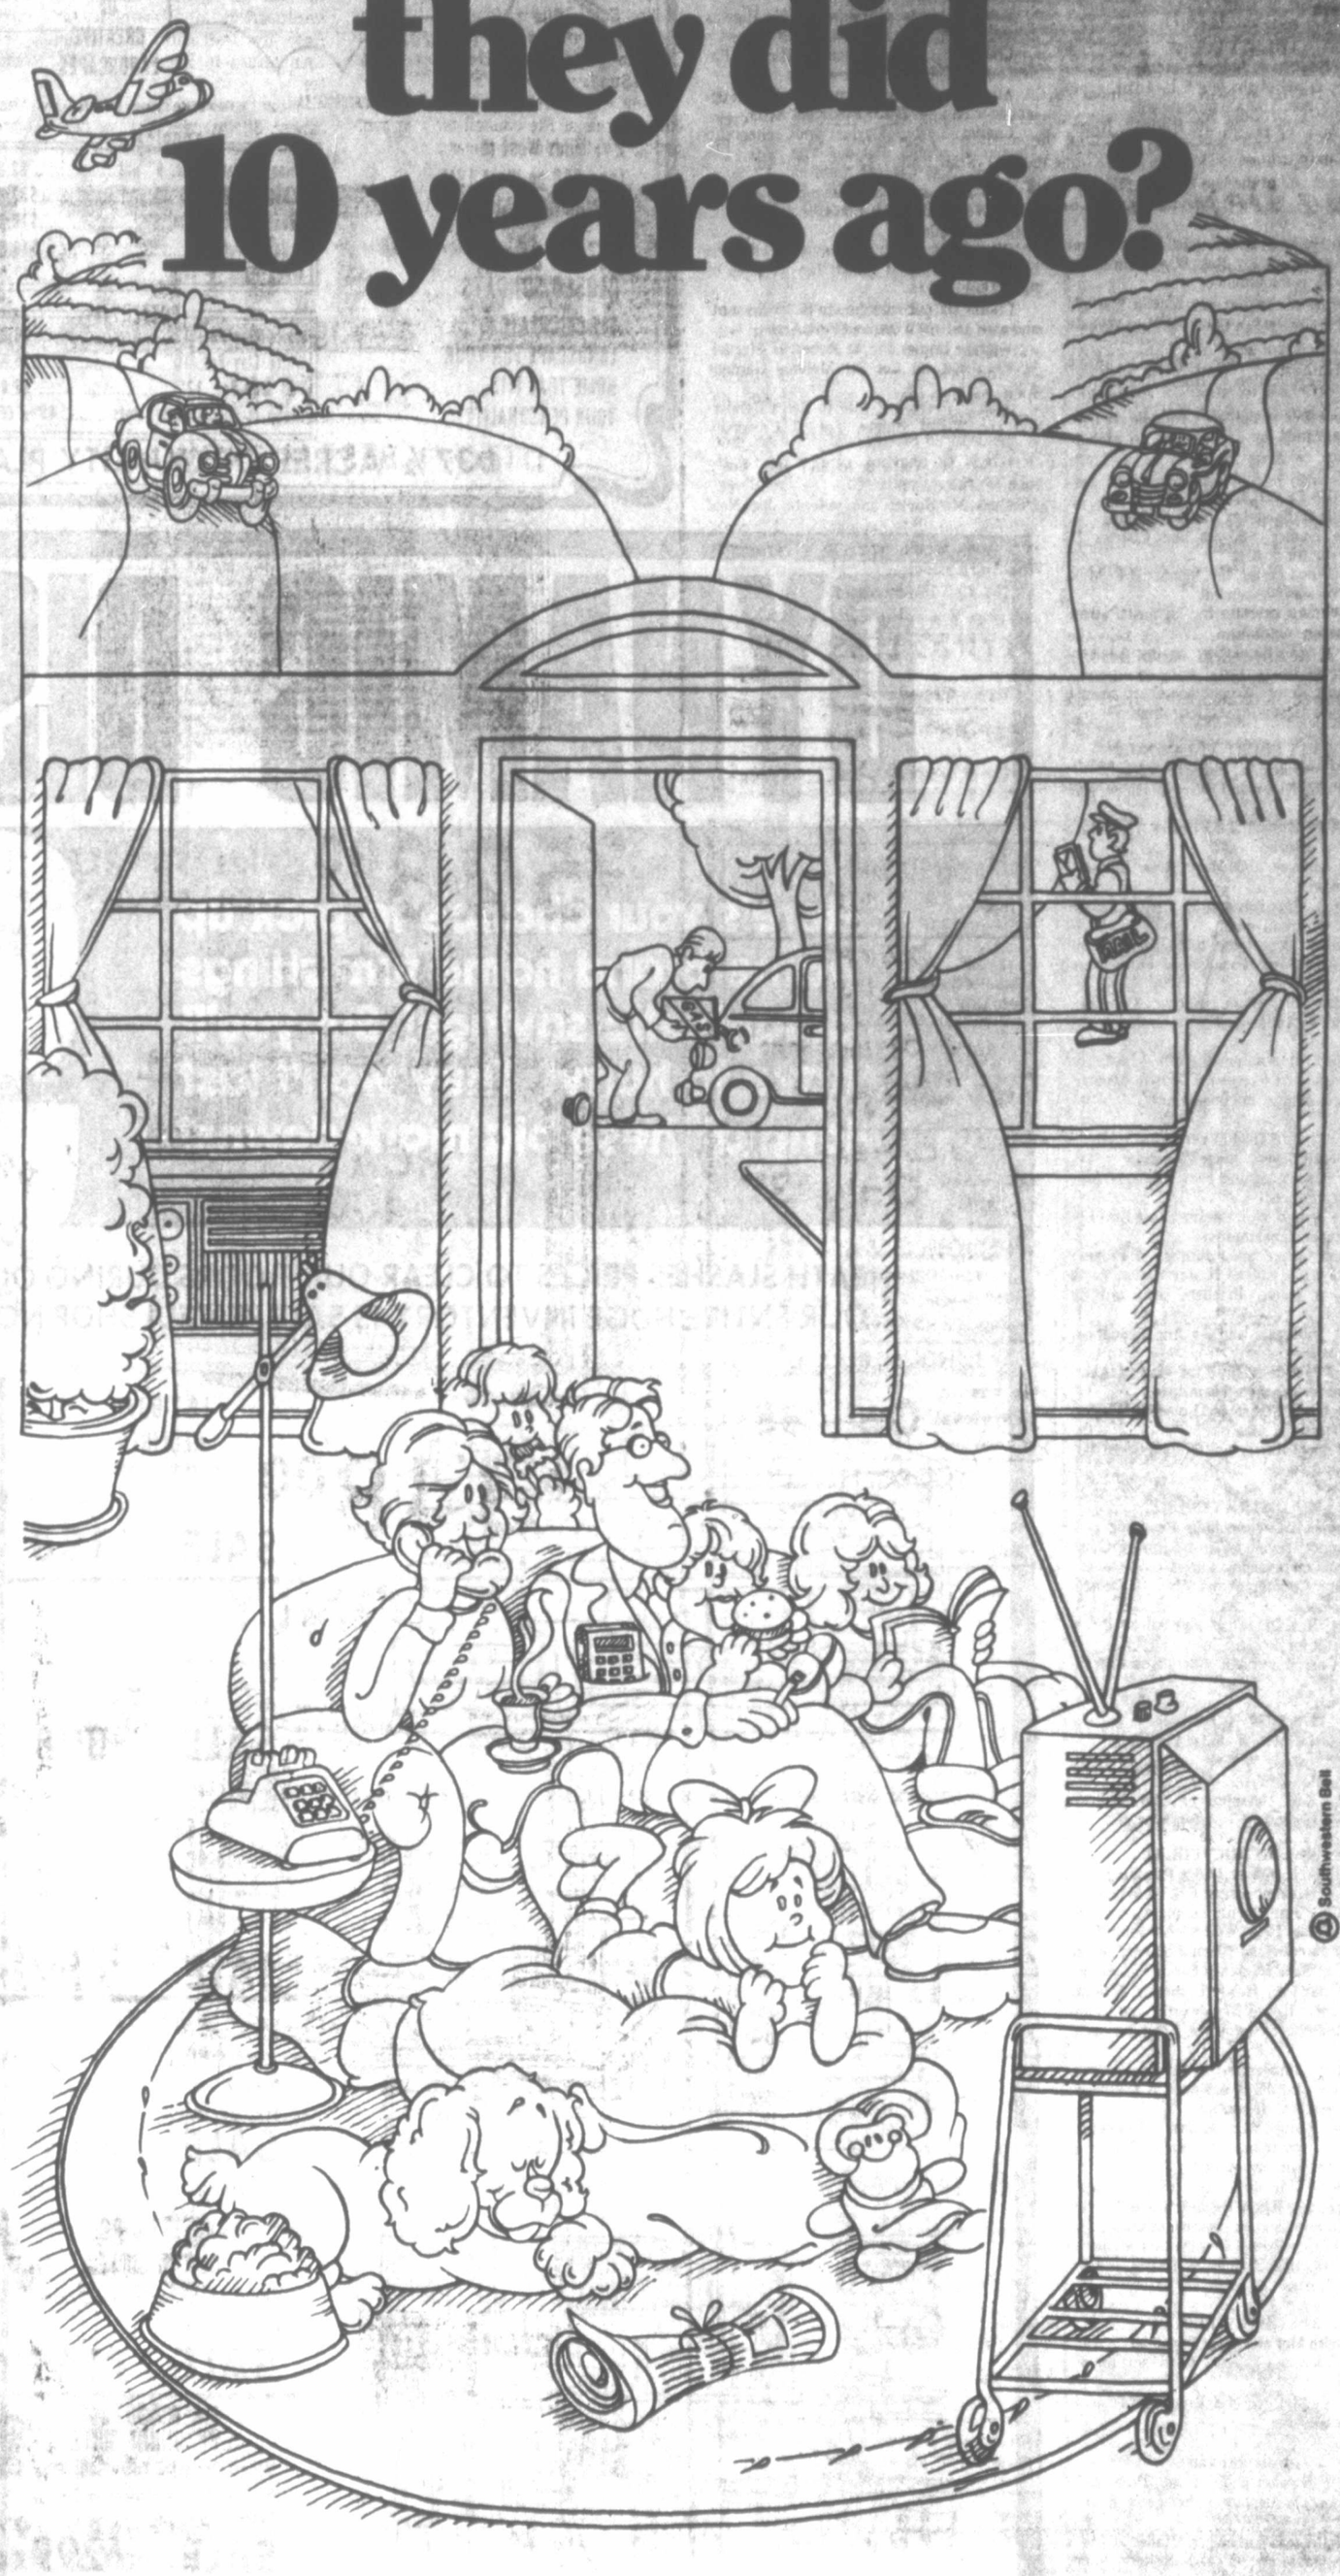

Fegert said the increase was due to increased costs and an expanded editorial product.

"Since the last price increase 5½ years ago, costs have risen steeply," Fegert said. "In that period, for example, the cost of gaoline has risen more than 130 percent, and the price of newsprint has gone up 85 percent."

Standard Oil Co. Discovers Oil Off Coast Of Newfoundland

By The Associated Press

Standard Oil Company of California's Canadian subsidiary said Friday it has discovered oil off the coast of Newfoundland, but analysts and government spokesmen said it was not known whether the field contained enough oil for commercial production.

While there are grounds for "cautious optimism" about the "Hibernia O-15" well, 214 miles east of St John's, "I detect a rising tide of hysteria, or oil fever," Newfoundland Mines and Energy Minister Leo Barry said at a news conference in St. John's.

Barry added that while the Hibernia well yielded high-quality oil, it will take until at least mid-1980 to determine whether the Chevron Standard Ltd. discovery lies in an oilfield with commercial potential.

Nonetheless, "we're encouraged" by the results, although "we just cannot speculate beyond the facts we have at hand," said Chevron President A.B. Bristow in a telephone interview from Calgary, Alberta.

Newfoundland has estimated its oil reserves may total 2 billion to 10 billion barrels. Recovery of oil off the eastern province's coast may prove difficult, with cold, wind, rain and icebergs all presenting obstacles for North Atlantic exploration and production.

Rumors about the oil find by Chevron and a group of Canadian and U.S.-owned partners helpd to pushstock markets sharply higher Thursday. Oil issues retreated Friday after the Chevron announcement.

Chevron said the well, drilled in 300 feet of water, produced crude oil at a rate of 800 barrels a day at a depth of 13,600 feet. The rate compared with a previous maximum of 250 barrels a day for any well drilled off Newfoundland's coast, but was far under that for a recent major oil find in Canada's arctic Beaufort Sea.

The Beaufort well produced 6,000 barrels a day at a depth of 14,200 feet in initial tests. There are 42 gallons in a barrel.

Barry characterized the test results from the Hibernia well as "neither a giant leap forward nor a small step." Senior energy economist Daryll G. Waddingham of the Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal added that the well appeared to produce oil at "a reasonable, but not a high rate" of flow.

Other analysts in Toronto expressed disappointment at the initial test results, with one, who asked not to be quoted by name, saying the well's potential appears to be "hardly commercial."

Chevron said it is drilling the well to a further depth of 16,100 feet for further tests.

Canada's current proved crude oil reserves — those recoverable under existing economic and technical conditions — are estimated by the American Petroleum Institute at 8.3 billion barrels, although Canada's western tar sands deposits may yield far more oil in the future. U.S. proved reserves total 33.7 billion barrels.

The Hibernia well is owned by Chevron; the government-owned oil company Petro-Canada; Mobil Oil Canada Ltd., a unit of Mobil Corp.; Gulf Canada Resources Inc., controlled by Gulf Oil Corp.; and Columbia Gas Development of Canada Ltd., controlled by Columbia Gas System Inc.

Appeals Court Rejects Claim Of Overcharges

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has rejected government claims that Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) overcharged gasoline customers by $10 million in 1973 and 1974.

The company did not violate government regulations when it used estimates of its future crude oil costs in determining consumer prices, the court ruled.

The Federal Energy Administration had claimed in 1974 that the company's calculations could only include actual increases in its costs of purchasing crude oil. The government agency wanted the company to refund the money to customers.

The 2-1 decision was handed down last week by the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals, a special court headquartered here to decide energy-related cases.

The case centered around two Sohio purchases of crude oil — one from foreign suppliers and a second from domestic producers.

In the first instance, Sohio, in September 1973, contracted to buy foreign oil to be paid for at the prevailing world price in February and March 1974.

In the fall of 1973, however, the Arab oil boycott sent world prices skyrocketing, and Sohio could only estimate what it would actually pay for the oil when it was delivered in early 1974. These estimates became part of the company's consumer pricing.

Vandalism, Fights, Robberies Keep Lubbock Police Busy

A Lubbock construction company owner told police Friday that criminal mischief was responsible for $3,500 damage to one of his company's vehicles.

Ira Page, 62, owner of Page Construction at 6000 Duke St., reported that between 8 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday someone set fire to a yellow 1964 front end loader that was parked on the company's parking lot.

Police reports indicate that gasoline from a five-gallon can was sprinkled on the vehicle and then ignited. A 12-inch pipe wrench and two cigarette lighters were found near the loader.

A 24-year-old conductor for Santa Fe Railroad told police Friday that someone had stolen his pickup truck.

Reports indicate that between 9 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday stole Jerry Shifflett's yellow and white 1971 Ford truck that was parked in the driveway of his house at 4504 80th St. Police reports indicate the keys to the truck were left in the vehicle and the doors were not locked.

Officers Friday morning were walking around with reports of numerous fights, robberies and a story that a man, after failing to locate his mother-in-law, shot someone's German Shepard dog.

It still was not known exactly what happened in a barroom brawl about 2 a.m. Friday in the 1800-block of 19th Street. Police do know, however, that a 25-year-old Lubbock man, who allegedly fired a .357 magnum revolver in the air outside the club, was taken to Health Sciences Center Hospital, where he was listed in fair condition Friday.

Police, dispatched after receiving a report of a shooting at the nightspot, arrived on the scene and found two men lying in the parking lot. However, EMS attendants found neither man had been shot, and just one of the subjects required medical treatment at the scene.

The third man, who reportedly had been wielding the revolver, could not talk to officers at the hospital because he was only semi-conscious, police said.

Several witnesses said the incident started when yet another man had called a woman a derogatory name inside the club. Reports state the woman and several friends decided to leave the nightspot, and that the man with the foul mouth followed.

The armed man and the person who had been harassing the woman got into an altercation over what had been said inside the club. This resulted in the gun's being displayed, according to other witnesses. They said the gunman fired once in the air and then was knocked unconscious by someone else.

One person told police the gun was picked up by a Mexican-American man and that he began shooting, but did not hit anything. Others said the gun was taken from the injured man and brought into the club.

It was not clear what happened to the two men who were lying in the parking lot when police arrived. One report states that sensible accounts of what happened could not be taken at the time because of the "confusement and excitement" inside the nightspot.

In another incident, officers went to West Texas Hospital about 2 a.m. Friday and were told by Billy d. Pickering, 52, that he had been playing pool at a club at 23rd Street and Avenue J when, "for no reason at all," the owner of the club began beating and kicking him.

Pickering, of 1522 28th St., was treated for a cut in the back of the head and above the right eye.

Alex and Diana Carrasco, both 20, of 2824 Auburn St., and Sonny Obadillo, 18, of 302 Vernon Ave., said they were at Estacado High School, 1502 E. Itasca St., about 10:30 p.m. Thursday when they were attacked by four Mexican-American men.

Carrasco and Obadillo said they were kicked and beaten to the ground. Mrs. Carrasco, who is pregnant, told police two of the assailants kicked and punched her and shoved her up against the school building several times.

The woman complained of abdominal pain, but reports indicate none of the victims sought medical treatment.

A 15-year-old Estacado High School student said he was beaten and robbed by four black males about 8 p.m. Thursday while walking in Mackenzie Park. He said the bandits held him to the ground and took $20 from his pockets.

The bandits reportedly were wearing blue jeans and all sported hats — two black, one blue and one white-striped.

Officer Paul Booth arrested a 22-year-old Austin man about 9:45 p.m. Thursday in the 6500-block of Avenue P after he said he saw the man knock a 61-year-old Lubbock man to the ground.

Booth said in his report he was directing traffic when the victim ran up to him and said the younger man had just exposed himself to his wife.

Reports indicate the man was told to stay with Booth until another officer could arrive.

Military Patrol, Posts Attacked By Guerrillas

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP — Leftist guerrillas attacked a military patrol and four national guard posts Friday, officials said. A guard spokesman said three guerrillas and one guardsman died in one attack and several guardsmen were wounded.

Unarmed youths later barricaded two intersections outside the Ministry of Labor to support workers' demands in two labor conflicts, but police made no effort to intervene, eyewitnesses said.

Several hundred persons inside the building, including Labor Minister Roberto Escobar Garcia, left without incident through a side door. The estimated 200 youths roped off the intersections at both ends of the street, blocking access to the building and creating rushhour traffic snarls.

The guard spokesman blamed the attacks on the Popular Liberation Forces and the Armed Forces of National Resistance, two guerrilla groups seeking in union with other pro-left organizations to topple the military-backed government of Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero.

The guard posts were in Soyapango, on the eastern edge of the capital and Santo Tomas to the south, and in the towns of El Transito, 35 miles east of San Salvador, and Armenia, 30 miles to the west. The patrol was attacked on the airport highway.

The deaths were in Santo Tomas, which the spokesman said was hit by the FPL, generally regarded as the most radical and violent of the leftist groups in this troubled Central American country.

The spokesman said the attackers used a variety of weapons, including rifles carried by the Salvadoran armed forces, bazookas, grenades and shotguns. He said most of the more sophisticated weapons apparently had been captured from the Salvadoran military.

The youths hung banners on the walls of the ministry building bearing the name "28th of February Popular League," recalling a bloody demonstration on that date in 1977 that protested the results of presidential elections.

The youths, wearing red bandanas over their faces, hauled materials from nearby construction sites to erect three foot high barricades.

Police limited surveillance to a single helicopter.

The youths said they were supporting striking workers at the San Lorenzo Dam, under construction at the Lempa River 36 miles northwest of here. Workers there demand an undisclosed increase in their average $5 daily wages.

Special Singing

Bro. Bill Harrell

We feel that Bro. Bill Harrell is one of the most outstanding soloist in America today. God has micraculously spared him from two open-heart surgeries. Through these experiences, he has a closer walk with God. He sings each song with much heart-felt experssion. The songs that he will be singing will bring honor to God and will be a blessing to you. He has traveled through-out our country bringing the Gospel in song. He has several records and tapes. We feel he will be a blessing to you spiritually.

The world's most important question

"What must I do to be saved?"

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved"

Acts 16:30, 31

Bethany Baptist is an old fashion Baptist Church ...

Where the Lord still meets with his people and his spirit is still felt in every service. As our visitors come from week to week, they express to us how they feel God's presence in our services. In the days in which we are living, many churches have completely programmed the Lord out of their services. We feel it is of the greatest importance to have God meet with his people and we extend to you a friendly welcome to attend our special sixth anniversary service.

If You Were To Die Today, Are you 100% Sure You Would Go To Heaven

"Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners"
I Timothy 1:15

— God's Plan for Man's Salvation —

Step 1 — The Sinner

There is a reason you need to be saved!

"Behold, I was shapen in iniquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me." (Psalm 51:5)

"As it is written, there is none righteous, no not one." (Romans 3:10)

"For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23)

Step 2 — The Sentence

There is a penalty for your sin — eternal death!

"Wherefore as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." (Romans 5:12)

"And as it is appointed unto man once to die, but after this the judgment." (Hebrews 9:27)

"For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Romans 6:23)

Step 3 — The Savior

God has made the provision for your sinful condition — Christ!

"Neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." (Acts 4:12)

"For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16)

"But God commendeth his love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Romans 5:8)

Step 4 — The Scope "Whosoever"

"But as many as receive him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." (John 1:12)

"That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." (Romans 10:9,10)

"For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." (Romans 10:13)

Obediance

"For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ . . ." (Romans 1:16)

"Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in Heaven." (Matthew 10:32)

"And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord . . ." (Acts 10:48)

Invitation!

REVIEW
STEP 1—THE SINNER — "For all have sinned . . ."
STEP 2—THE SENTENCE — "Wages of sin is death"
STEP 3—THE SAVIOUR — "Christ died for us"
STEP 4—THE SCOPE — "Whosoever"

Will you, by faith, pray this prayer?

Lord Jesus be merciful to me, a sinner, and come into my heart and save me right now. I now receive Jesus as my Saviour.

If you prayed this prayer, and were serious, my friend, Jesus just saved you. Read Romans 10:13

The Story of Bethany Baptist Church 1973-1979

Bethany Baptist Church came into existence 6 years ago on August 15, 1973. Rev. and Mrs. Ross Spencer began the work with a vision of lost souls and a need for a prosperous fundamental work. Their dream was realized when the church was organized at the first location of 35th Street and Raleigh Avenue with 41 charter members.

Within a few short months, the church had grown rapidly and had to begin a building program. By the time a building was completed, it had been outgrown. Rev. Spencer asked his congregation to buy property at the intersection of 40th Street and Quaker Avenue. A new building at that location was started immediatley after the site was purchased. On December 7, 1975, the church members moved into a new building with 550 in attendance for the didication service.

From a humble beginning in 1973, bethany Baptist Church has grown into the largest fundamental work in attendance with more than 800 persons coming into the fellowship of the church by membership. The buildings and property are now valued at over $450,000 and new facilities containing a youth activities center and additional Sunday School space has been built. With a fleet of eight buses, Children are picked up in all areas of our city including Reese Air Force Base, Hurlwood, and Carlisle.

The Lord's blessings have been with the church since its beginning. We praise Him for the souls that have been saved and for the precious, faithful people He has sent our way to labor in the work which God himself established.

Carter Threatens Favors Cutoff For Anti-Program Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, concerned over his defeats in Congress, is threatening to cut off White House favors to congressmen who repeatedly vote against his programs.

House Democrats said Carter made the threat Thursday night after several voiced complaints that the president was not using his powers in an effort to help them get his programs passed.

Rep. Gunn McKay of Utah, who attended the meeting Thursday night at the White House, quoted Carter as telling the congressmen:

"Look, I'm not going to reap retribution on every person who doesn't vote the way I want, but I've been into a lot of your districts and if you're not going to give me any help I'm not going to keep going into your districts or send my wife or family there."

Keeps Voting Printouts

Other Democrats said Carter told them he is keeping computer printouts of their votes in his desk.

Another congressman, who asked that he not be identified, said Carter told the group: "I'm watching the votes and if you expect me to send mysef, my wifeor my Cabinet to your district when you're not helping me, you're kidding yourself."

Carter made the statements in a meeting with members of United Democrats of Congress, an organization of moderate to conservative congressmen.

Participants described the meeting as a lively, plain talk session. About 60 Democrats attended the session.

Discuss Carter Defeats

They said both Carter and the House members spent much of the two-hour session discussing a string of Carter defeats in Congress, including an embarrassing rejection Thursday of a bill designed to implement final details of the Panama Canal treaties.

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., who also attended the session, said Carter was hurt most by the Panama Canal vote. The treaties are to go into effect on Oct. 1.

Preyer quoted Carter as saying: "It's the worst blow of my presidency."

Preyer said Carter "did not strike me as harsh. I think the president was really very patient with us."

Deny Threat Charge

On Friday, House leaders angrily denied that Carter's statements constituted a threat to his opponents. Democratic Leader Jim Wright said the meeting "was inspiring" because Carter got tough.

"This was a family meeting and whoever selectively leaked out what he said is a crum — and wrong," Wright said. "I did not hear any threat."

He acknowledged that Carter said he is keeping track of House votes but contended "that is no threat."

Asked if Carter's recent defeats were due to a "breakdown in leadership, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said that was not the cause, but he acknowledged that "the train is off the track."

O'Neill, who did not attend the White House meeting, said he and other party leaders are asking House members why they have voted against Carter and are trying to bolster support for him.

Preyer said several House members at the meeting told Carter he should use more presidential clout to keep Democrats in line during votes on his programs.

Preyer said that led Carter to reply that he would not cut off federal grants to the districts of his opponents. But he said the president then noted that he could cut off "little social things like invitations to the White House or sending my wife into the district."

Carter reportedly said he would continue to press for passage of his programs and said he had no intention of being frightened out of the 1980 presidential race.

"Damn it, I'm a fighter," the president was quoted as saying. "I'm tenacious. I don't give up."

PROMISED LAND ... DOWN THERE SOMEWHERE — The land promised by the real estate agent's sign is there under all that water; those kids are standing on it. Ranch Day Activities Slated At Tech Today speaker for the business session of the 10th annual meeting of the Ranching Heritage Association.

Dedication of a porte cochere, the gift of Helen Campbell of San Antonio inmemory of her parents will take place prior to the 11 a.m. annual meeting. The covered carriage door will protect the east entrance to the David M. DeVitt and Mallet Ranch Building which serves as orientation center for the 12-acre ranch museum.

Robert L. Pfluger, chairman of the Tech Board of Regents, will welcome the group and Dr. Leslie C. Drew, director of The Museum at Texas Tech, will give a progress report.

Jim Kassahn, Ranching Heritage Association president, will conduct the business session. John R. "Rich" Anderson, the association's second vice president, will introduce Bell.

Cliff Teinert of Albany, a member of the Ft. Griffin Fandangle, will close the meeting with his classic presentation of the "Cowboy Prayer."

Ranch Day activities at the center, which usually begin before the meeting, will kick off at noon this year. At each of the restored buildings on the 12-acre site museum docents and graduate students will demonstrate various facets of Texas ranching life. The structures help illustrate ranching's beginnings on the Texas Coastal Plain to its maturity on the High Plains.

The aroma of campfire coffee and sourdough biscuits will fill the air along with the sound of horseshoeing in the Renderbrook Spade blacksmith shop.

There will be the lonesome, sometimes raucous sound of the harmonica in the Matador Half Dugout.

Lye soap will be in the making and the rub board will be busy at the washtub near the Box and Strip House.

School will be in session at the Bairfield School.

Chuckwagon barbecue by Texas Trails will be served at noon.

Tickets for Ranch Day, including the barbecue, are $6 for adults and $2.75 for children.

Hobby Group In Manila

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A delegation headed by Texas Lieutenant Gov. William P. Hobby Jr. arrived Friday for an overnight stop before going to China to explore markets for Texas oil drilling equipment.

State government officials and representatives of the Texas oil supply companies comprise the 14-man delegation, which flies to Peking today. Hobby said the visit will last 12 days.

A 35-member agricultural delegation headed by Texas Gov. William P. Clements, meanwhile, was in Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia for rest and sightseeing after a tour of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. The group is scheduled to return early next week.

Senate Stages Secret Debate On Forced Draft Registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate went behind locked doors Friday to hear secret details about manpower problems facing the armed forces in wartime and arguments for compulsory draft registration.

For nearly three hours the public and press were excluded as senators reviewed the outcome of a Pentagon test pointing out the armed services' equipment and personnel shortages.

It was the Senate's first secret debate since May 15, 1978, when it was considering the sale of U.S. warplanes to Egypt and Israel.

Friday's closed session was requested by Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., to bolster his case for registering young men for a military draft — an idea that appears to have died in Congress this year.

Faced with a 252-163 House vote against registration and a threatened filibuster in the Senate, Nunn said he would settle for a debate on manpower shortages and would drop his campaign for passage of a registration bill until next year.

Nunn's bill, opposed by the Carter administration but supported by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the nation's top military body, would require registration of all men between the ages of 18-26, beginning next January.

Senate leaders agreed Thursday to Nunn's request for a secret meeting. At 10:13 a.m. Friday, Nunn requested that the Senate go into closed session, and the presiding officer ordered the sergeant at arms to clear the visitor and press galleries and lock the doors.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., who had threatened to filibuster to block registration, said the closed session did not persuade him to change his position.

Describing the closed session, Hatfield said the sergeant-at-arms was sent out after the doors were closed to round up enough senators for a quorum — half the 100 members. The attendance quickly dropped to about 45 senators and had dwindled to about 15 at the end.

"That so many drifted off was indicative there was skepticism ... or they felt we weren't going to reach any conclusion," said Hatfield.

Nunn argued that registration alone would not solve the military's manpower problems, but said it would cut three months from the time it would take to mobilize new recruits, complete training and make them available for duty.

Nunn sought the session after Defense Secretary Harold Brown refused to lift the secrecy stamp from details of a 1978 mobilization exercise called Nifty Nugget. The senator, chairman of the Armed Services manpower subcommittee, argued that Nifty Nugget underscored the need for registration.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, a member of the manpower subcommittee, said he also had reviewed the classified information, but had not come to Nunn's conclusion that registration would solve problems that were unveiled.

The test, largely a paper exercise, showed problems in mobilizing enough National Guardsmen and reservists on short notice, mounting a big enough airlift to the fighting front and getting standby ammunition plants into production quickly, according to Pentagon sources.

Gen. Bernard Rogers, until recently the Army's chief of staff, told Congress earlier this year that it also showed problems in coordination among government departments. "First, I think we found that there had to be somebody in charge of mobilization," he testified.

Citing shortages of combat manpower, Rogers said, "We only have sufficient (personnel) in there for a very small percentage of combat arms requirements. They would only last for 'X' days, but 'X' is not a very large number of days."

However, Richard Danzig, an acting deputy assistant defense secretary for manpower, testified that Nifty Nugget "resulted in evidence of planning deficiencies instead of evidence of resource shortages."

Dispute May Cost Scholarship Funding

derstandably different.

"It would be a great boon," said Irene Wilson, director of Methodist nursing school, who explained that unlike her school, universities have "many other sources" of financial aid for students.

Viola Steelman, director of the radiology school in Plainview, said the grant money would be important to her students because, "It's almost impossible for students to work on the outside." She explained that in the second year of the 24-month program, students must be available for on-call emergencies. Besides, she said, "After eight hours a day in school, they're really tired when they go home."

Although radiology students "have to work to learn," Mrs. Steelman said they are not paid for their work and that scholarships available to them do not cover all their expenses. The federal grant money would greatly benefit her school, she said.

"It might make it possible for a student to attend who otherwise couldn't," she added.

The Coordinating Board has tried to stall the issue by supporting U.S. Rep. William Ford of Michigan in his introduction of an amendment to federal law that would allow Texas and other states "the right to retain control over higher education," according to Ashworth.

But Ashworth said the problem is, "By the time the amendment passes, the spring semester will probably have started and 10,000 students will have lost the scholarship aid they were counting on."

Ashworth also tried to persuade HEW to allow the state to exclude "certain types of nonprofit institutions." But acting commissioner of education Dr. Mary Berry of HEW would not agree to a modification of the law.

"At this time, the office of education is waiting for us to throw in the towel and accept their conditions," Ashworth said. "Frankly, I think we're going to lose the money."

Eight-Day Fair Run To Kick Off Today

$2,000 in prize money in the 12th annual contest.

The grand champion fiddler will receive $140 and a plaque, while winners in individual age brackets will collect proportionately smaller cash prizes and a trophy. The contest is approved by the Texas Old Time Fiddlers Association and standard rules of the association will apply.

For the fifth straight year, an all-youth rodeo has been scheduled as a fair event and is fast becoming one of the major attractions, according to Lewis. Sponsored by the fair and Lubbock County 4-H Clubs, the all-youth rodeo will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Fair Park Livestock Pavilion next Thursday, with performances also scheduled for next Friday and Saturday.

More than $60,000 in premiums are being offered to prospective exhibitors at the fair. The record premium figures are listed in the fair catalogues, available at the fair offices at 105 E. Broadway.

More than 130,000 free gate admission tickets to the fair have been distributed to students and teachers throughout the South Plains and eastern New Mexico. Area students and teachers annually are guests of the fair on area school day. This year area school day is Monday, city school days are Tuesday and Wednesday, senior citizens are admitted free Thursday and college and military personnel enter free Friday.

The evening entertainment schedule includes:

—The Charley Pride Show, 5 p.m. and 8 p.m., Sunday.

—The Statler Brothers Show, with special guest Barbara Mandrell, 5 p.m. and 8 p.m., Monday.

—The Eddie Rabbit Show, with Janie Frickie, 8 p.m. Tuesday.

—The Dave and Sugar Show, with John Conlee, 8 p.m. Wednesday.

—The Golden Years of Country Music by South Plains College, John Hartin and Eddie Trice, 7 p.m. Thursday.

—The Tom T. Hall Show, with Charlie McClain, 8 p.m. Friday.

—The Tammy Wynette Show, with Rex Allen Jr. and George "Goober" Lindsey, 5 and 8 p.m. Sept. 29.

Tickets for the shows are $4, $5 and $6 — except for the South Plains College show, which costs $2 and $3. The tickets are available at the Fair Park Coliseum box office, Dunlaps, Sears, and Hemphill-Wells at the mall, Luskey's Western Wear and Ed's Wagon Wheel.

Palestinians, Israelis Swap Charges Of Attacks Along Lebanese Frontier

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas claimed Israel sent a tank-led raiding force into southern Lebanon on Friday that was "repulsed" and withdrew after threatening strategic Khardali bridge.

An Israeli army spokeswoman in Tel Aviv said, "Israel has made no attack. Any reports of an attack are not true."

Instead, she said, the Israeli command received reports that guerrillas of the Palestine Liberation Organization made three attacks starting at 4 p.m.(9 a.m. CDT) on pro-Israeli Christian Lebanese militias in southern Lebanon. She said the militiamen, led by Maj. Saad Haddad, responded to the PLO assaults with light weapons and artillery fire but did not use tanks.

She said the fighting occurred near the border town of Qleiaa, controlled by Haddad's right-wing militias, which receive military equipment and supplies from Israel.

In the initial report from the PLO's central operations room in Beirut, a spokesman said tanks and armored cars "landed about 40 soldiers in a no-man's land south of the bridge" and "our forces are trying to stop the Israeli advance." He gave no casualty figures.

Several hours later, the Palestinian news agency WAFA said the raiders had been repulsed and "withdrew southward to the town of Qleiaa."

The Khardali bridge is three miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese frontier. Its northern bank is patrolled by units of the 5,800-member United Nations force sent into southern Lebanon in the spring of 1978.

U.N. units serve as a buffer between the Christian Lebanese zone along the border and Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies farther north. There were no reports of U.N. troops being engaged in the reported clash.

WAFA said the situation remained "tense" at the bridge.

PLO chieftain Yasser Arafat huddled with his top advisers in Beirut and one of his commanders said alerts had been ordered at Palestinian refugee camps throughout Lebanon.

The PLO has been anticipating a retaliatory strike by Israel for a bombing in Jerusalem Wednesday that killed two persons and wounded more than 40. The PLO said its guerrillas planted the bomb.

One high-ranking Palestinian official expressed belief the clash near the bridge was "a diversion of our attention so that the enemy can launch a quick, painful strike somewhere else."

The U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon, with troops supplied by eight nations, arrived in southern Lebanon in early 1978 to oversee the withdrawal of Israeli army units that invaded and occupied the zone.

U.N. officials mediated a cease-fire 28 days ago, following a bloody series of raids and shellings. They reported the truce was violated Sept. 7.

U.S. Discounts Soviet Pullout

officials and said Carter did not list it as an option when he discussed the issue with congressional leaders on Thursday.

"If he had done so, it would have drawn fierce opposition," this senator said.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who has been kept abreast of the negotiations, told reporters after a White House briefing Thursday that he thought the solution to the Cuban problem would require a presidential certification that Soviet combat forces are no longer deployed in Cuba.

Otherwise, said Church, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the SALT II treaty will not be ratified.

That was a slight but significant shift from Church's earlier statement that the treaty could not be ratified unless the troops were removed. It left open the possibility that they would not have to physically leave the island for Senate concerns to be satisfied.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Friday that there were still no firm plans for Vance to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Rock Island Still Idled

CHICAGO (AP) — Trains of the strikebound Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad remained stalled Friday despite a back-to-work order by President Carter, and no one could say when they would roll again.

Railroad officials were on their way to federal court in an effort to get cash to operate, while striking unions remained off the job.

On Thursday, Carter used his authority under the National Railway Labor Act to order strikers back to work for a 60-day cooling off period. The railroad is vital to the shipment of grain and other products in the Midwest.

But it remained uncertain Friday when the union and the railroad would comply. The railroad, which operates in 13 states, wants a $30 million federal grant that it says it needs to resume service, but has not applied for it.

For the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize another carrier to assume control of the line temporarily, a federal judge first must declare the Rock Island has no cash.

Rock Island officials said it was unlikely that U.S. District Judge Frank J. McGarr would do that right away.

Vote Delayed On Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House on Friday postponed until next week a fourth vote on a proposal to raise the pay of congressmen and top bureaucrats.

Announcement that no votes would be taken until Tuesday on the pay proposal, which already has been defeated three times, came as the House was debating the ground rules.

Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, said the vote on the newest pay proposal — to hike salaries 5.5 percent — was postponed because many members were not present for the debate. House attendance often drops sharply on Fridays as many members leave early for their home districts.

Delay of the proposal until next Tuesday could put added pressure on the House to act because the pay proposal is attached to spending legislation that is needed by Oct. 1.

White Rhodesia Solon Slain

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia(AP) — Black nationalist guerrillas firing anti-tank rockets ambushed and killed a white member of Parliament — the second member slain by insurgents in a week, military authorities said Friday.

Theunis de Klerk, 43, married and the father of three children, was killed when guerrillas fired a rocket at a vehicle he was riding on his farm 220 miles south of here, authorities said.

He was the first white legislator to die in the seven-year war with guerrillas loyal to either the Robert Mugabe's Mozambique-based Zimbabwe African National Union or the Zambia-based Zimbabwe African Peoples Union of Joshua Nkomo. The war has cost some 20,000 lives, mainly blacks.

GEORGE HARRISON — PAUL McCARTNEY — JOHN LENNON — RINGO STARR

BEATLES ASKED TO PERFORM — The United Nations has asked the Beatles to get together again for a concert to benefit Vietnamese "boat people" and other refugees, a U.N. spokesman said Friday. United Nations Seeking Beatles Reunion

UNITED NATIONS (AP) -The suffering of the "boat people" might do what pleading fans and show business promoters have failed to achieve in nearly 10 years: bring the Beatles back together.

A U.N. spokesman confirmed Friday that the four members of the Fabulous Four, who have not all played together in 10 years, are being urged to play a benefit for the refugees of southeast Asia and elsewhere. U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim would sponsor the event.

Dirk Summers, an independent Los Angeles concert producer who reportedly was handling negotiations, told a Long Island City, N.Y., radio station that three of the four Beatles — Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr — had agreed to perform together on the same stage in Geneva, Switzerland. Summers said a four-hour concert was planned, and would include rock star Elton John as master of ceremonies, with Leonard Bernstein conducting the Vienna Philharmonic in an interpretation of Beatle tunes.

Summers said in the interview that the other Beatle, John Lennon, had not yet responded to his concert proposal.

U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani said Waldheim spoke personally with Harrison, adding that all of the Beatles had shown interest in the project and were considering it. Harrison organized and performed in a 1971 concert in New York to raise money for famine-struck Bangladesh.

Giuliani said U.N. officials were not informed on the status of negotiations being handled by Summers, but the Washington Post reported in Friday editions that the three have agreed to the idea.

But a spokesman in the office of New York lawyer John Eastman said Paul McCartney would not agree to perform in such a concert. Eastman is McCartney's brother-in-law.

The New York Post said in its Friday editions that Lennon had agreed only to working on the same bill as his three former partners, but not to performing with them.

The Beatles have made records separately since they split up in 1970. Last spring, three of them — minus Lennon — played together at a pivate pary.

Giuliani said the location and date of the proposed concert was undecided. Some reports put it probably in New York, but a U.N. source said the site would be Geneva, headquarters for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

The source said the commissioner's office has been the principal U.N. agency working on the concert, which would be televised by satellite around the world.

Giuliani said the success of last January's rock and disco benefit by the Bee Gees and other performers — which raised nearly $4 million for the U.N. Children's Fund, UNICEF — had encouraged Waldheim to endorse the Beatles idea.

That concert, held in the U.N. General Assembly hall in New York, provided income from television and from rights to music performed.

Giuliani was unable to say whether the Beatles project originated with the United Nations or with show business promoters. "Ever since last year's concert we have had many contacts with show business," he said. "Just where and how the Beatles project started I could not say."

U.N. sources said the talks with the Beatles had been going on for some months.

Home Financing Dollars May Be Made Available

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of a Senate committee looking into the state's mortgage money crunch said Friday that Texans — those who can qualify for home financing — pay more for interest than for everything else in their homes.

But Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, also predicted that a new state agency may be able to come up with $200 million for Texans looking for home financing. "It's abundantly clear to me that unless government takes a role in making money available, single-family housing may be a thing of the past in the not too distant future...unless you happen to be born rich," he said.

Parker is leading the Senate Interim Committee on Financial Institutions as it tries to figure out how to make home finance money more available to Texans. At Friday's session, the committee's first, the members said they want to hear from lending institutions, state agencies that deal with lending institutions and home-buyers who cannot find financing.

The committee chairman said he is confident that the new state housing authority will soon be able to make financing available at 7 or 8 percent. The agency will sell revenue bonds to raise the money. Gov. Bill Clements has yet to make the necessary appointments for the authority.

Parker said he did not think the agency would have a "dramatic effect" on interest rates at private institutions.

The Port Arthur legislator complained that recent action to raise mortgage rates in Texas will probably do little to make home financing more available. He said the Legislature hurt home financing availability by raising interest rates allowed on other forms of loans. Those rates make it still more attractive for lending institutions to invest in things other than homes.

"We've done the worst thing possible for money for housing by making money for everything else available at a higher rate," Parker said.

The committee also plans to look at the charters the state grants to lending institutions.

"We should give some attention to the method we now have of chartering lending institutions and whether the commission they receive when they get the charter means anything," Parker said, adding that some institutions may violate the intention of the charters by using deposits from one area for loans in another.

"The charters direct the banks to serve the community...not just invest the money at the highest interest rate possible," Parker said.

Simulation Of Deep Sea Dive Saves Woman's Life

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 41-year-old Arkansas teacher, near death because of an air embolism in her brain, spent a third day Friday in an Air Force hyperbaric chamber — in which doctors are simulating an unusually long deep sea dive they say has apparently saved her life.

"There was nothing else that could've been done," said Air Force Dr. Dean Heimbach. "She was in a coma and near death when she came in. She's coherent now. We're no longer afraid she will die."

Jane Benton, a junior high English teacher from Fairfield Bay, Ark., lapsed into a coma during a routine biopsy surgery Tuesday in Little Rock because of air bubbles that had gotten into her bloodstream and were blocking blood circulation in her brain.

The woman, whose condition was similar to that of a stroke victim, was flown Wednesday in an air ambulance to San Antonio's Brooks Air Force Base — which Heimbach said is one of only "five or six" medical facilities in the nation equipped with a hyperbaric chamber sophisticated enough to handle Mrs. Benton's case.

Mrs. Benton, accompanied by Air Force Dr. Jerrod Dunn and a medical technician, was placed in the chamber Wednesday afternoon and "taken down" to a pressure equivalent to a 165-foot dive into the sea.

She regained consciousness Thursday afternoon and is gradually being "brought back up" through lessening of the pressure in the massive chamber, which is 10 feet in diameter and 25 feet long. She was at 40 feet late Friday.

If the pressure is reduced too quickly, those inside the chamber would be stricken with "the bends" just like a diver that surfaced too rapidly.

Mrs. Benton and those caring for her are expected to be removed from the chamber late Saturday after more than 72 hours there. Heimbach said such a lengthy chamber treatment is rare.

The increased pressure in the chamber, Heimbach explained, compresses the air bubbles in Mrs. Benton's brain until they are small enough to be absorbed into her system.

Increased supplies of oxygen inside also increases the amount of oxygen in her blood, hopefully lessening the chances of severe brain damage.

"Whether or not there's going to be any permanent brain damage, like any stroke patient, only time will tell," said Heimbach. "We are trying to keep the affected areas of the brain from dying. If they don't die, she should regain all of her functions in time."

"She was just about dead," said Mrs. Benton's brother, J.B. Myers, a Church of Christ minister in Sulphur Springs, Texas. "They didn't offer us any hope in Little Rock. This has been a miracle."

Myers and the victim's mother, Myrl Myers, were able to talk Friday to Mrs. Benton through an intercom system. Any additional food or supplies is sent in through a decompression tube.

Mrs. Myers and her son are maintaining a constant vigil, catnapping near the chamber. Dr. Dunn and the technician, Staff Sgt. Steven Whitley, also are able to sleep for short periods of time on a pallet.

Brooks, an Air Force medical research center, allows civilian emergency cases to use its hyperbaric facility for a nominal fee of $23 per day. Heimbach said Air Force doctors treat about two civilian cases per month, usually patients stricken with gas gangrene, carbon monoxide poisoning, "the bends" and other illnesses.

"We couldn't have paid the money I'm sure this is costing," said Mrs. Myers.

Mrs. Benton, who is divorced, had been in perfect health until a routine physical before the school year started, said Mrs. Myers. A chest X-ray at that time showed a spot on her lung and she was undergoing the routine biopsy when the air embolism occurred.

Chicago Facing Minority Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — All students in Chicago schools will be non-white within five years unless the federal government "adopts a more positive position towards" the city's desegregation plans, an Illinois congressman maintains.

Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., said in a letter to Patricia Roberts Harris, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, that Chicago "should have an integrated school system ... but ... what will be achieved towards creating a better educational system in Chicago when no white children participate in that system?"

Mrs. Harris has said she would give Chicago 30 days to show it was willing to integrate its schools or that the matter would be referred to the Justice Department.

United Auto Workers President Says Union Favors Kennedy

DALLAS (AP) — Sen Edward Kennedy would be the United Auto Workers' "overwhelming favorite" in a primary race against President Carter, the president of the 1.5 million-member union said Friday.

Douglas Fraser's statement marks the first time he publicly predicted his workers would back Kennedy and stems from a Monday vote by the union's International Executive Board that allows UAW members to support the candidate of their choice in next year's primaries.

Some UAW members in Florida had asked for the sanction because of some "draft Kennedy" movements there.

"In a head-to-head run against Carter, Kennedy would be the overwhelming favorite among our active people," Fraser said.

UAW union officials from across the country are in Dallas for two days of meetings on the proposed contract with General Motors.

Fraser said the executive board's vote to officially let the union officers and members work for their choice of candidate is "a change for us"in recent elections. The last time was in 1960.

"The Florida people wanted to be involved," Fraser said. "Most of them wanted to go into the Kennedy campaign."

Although Fraser said his rank-and-file members like Kennedy, he was encouraged that the Carter Administration had opened talks with the labor movement to reach a "national accord" on inflation and labor policy.

UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone, chief negotiator for talks with General Motors, told the 2,000 officials that the UAW is now closer than ever to a 32-hour week.

The increased incentives for early retirement plus the additional paid personal holidays will create more jobs and bring the union closer to its goal of a four-day work week, Bluestone said.

"We will increase by well over 11,000 the number of workers it takes to produce the same products," he said. "What we are after is to reduce the work time to the time when we have the true 4-day work week."

Bluestone said the daily wage for an average assembly worker now will be $76.08. The annual three percent wage increase will be contained in the new contract, but the cost of living formula has been upgraded, he said.

With an assumed eight percent inflation rate, he said, the total cost of living allowance would be $1.69 by June of 1982. Added to a basic assembler's salary of $9.63 per hour, in that month, the worker could make $11.32 per hour.

The tone of the meeting was overwhelmingly favorable and local representatives said they expected broad support for the contract back home. This contract marks the first round of negotiations without of a strike of some kind since 1958.

The UAW GM Council endorsed the contract hands down last Tuesday in Detroit.

Questions from the floor dealt basically with individual problems and the complicated stock purchase plan.

People Paying Pretty Penny To Protect Whooping Cranes

By BOB TUCKER

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — It costs at least $68,000 a bird to provide a suitable stopover in the Great Plains for whooping cranes on their way to Texas each fall, and the local folks are picking up the tab.

Customers of the area's rural electric power cooperatives are being billed at the rate of $100 each over the next 35 years.

Why such big bucks for a bunch of birds?

It starts with a $7.5 million trust fund to protect a habitat in Nebraska for the endangered whoopers.

About two-thirds of the world's 109 wild whoopers usually migrate through the Dakotas in late September and October and into Nebraska on their 1,600-mile journey from the Northwest Territories to Texas.

"Needless to say, $7.5 million is a heck of a lot of money, and that money is being put up by rural electric cooperatives for wildlife protection," says Hexom, who wrote an article on the subject for the North Dakota Rural Electric Cooperative Magazine.

"I'm not advocating the extinction of the whooping crane," he added in a telephone interview. "But I think it's important to our members to point out where our money is being spent and the reason for rate increases."

The co-op which employs Hexom is a member of the Bismarck-based Basin Electric Power Cooperative, which serves 300,000 consumers in eight states.

Basin, with a 42.27 percent share in the Greyrocks Dam project, paid $3 million into a $7.5 million fund to protect a whooping crane habitat along the Platte River in Nebraska. The fund was established last year as a result of a lawsuit brought by environmental groups against sponsors of the project near Wheatland, Wyo.

Hexom says "it's virtually impossible to put a meaningful dollar value on the whooping crane."

He starts out by citing a Congressional Research Service report which arrives at a $3,500 annual cost for protecting each remaining crane. The report was issued recently at the request of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., in response to questions from East River official Larry Green.

McGovern wrote Green, citing the "good news" as the $3,500 figure. The "bad news," he said, "is their report is filled with so many bureauctatic qualifiers that this figure becomes virtually meaningless. In all my years in Congress, I have never read such gobbledygook in response to a congressional inquiry."

In addition, McGovern noted the whooping crane trust fund was not "factored" in the study. That cost alone adds another $68,000 to the cost of each whooping crane, Hexom figures through simple division.

Taken further, the figure means each of Basin's consumers, including 8,000 in North Dakota, will pay an extra $100 on their electric bill over the near 35 years, says Basin spokesman Win Curtiss of Bismarck.

"We find it difficult to finance programs to help people in this country, yet we don't blush at spending $100,000 per bird for one resting area," says Curtiss, using his own cost-per-crane formula.

David Harper, assistant information manager at Basin, said some members of the cooperative "are not pleased with the idea."

"It's not that they are insensitive to the idea," he said. "Their concern is that the dollars and cents just keep mounting up."

Ag Department Prepares Book

FOOD AND NUTRITION — The Department of Agriculture has prepared a new booklet aimed at helping you choose a healthful diet.

Entitled "Food," the booklet provides up-to-date information on current food and nutrition issues and suggets ways to apply this information in making food decisions.

Foods are divided into five groups and the booklet suggests ways to select them for calories and nutrition. Other sections discuss fiber, sodium, fats, sugar and iron.

Using the concept that something is better than nothing, the booklet also suggests ways of fitting breakfast into various lifestyles.

Robbing From Rich Useless, Says Tax Foundation Study

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The poor and middle class still pay the biggest chunk of America's federal income tax bill and a recent report indicates that forcing the rich to pay more would do little to ease the burden on the rest of the people.

The Tax Foundation Inc., a research group based in Washington, D.C., studied Treasury Department and Internal Revenue Service figures for 1976 — the latest year for which it could get complete statistics.

The group asked what would happen if the people at the top of the economic ladder — the people in the 50 percent bracket and up — were taxed at 100 percent? What if their taxable income were, in effect, confiscated by the government?

The foundation said the extra money would boost tax revenues by less than 4 percent: it would be enough to run the government for less than a week.

The problem is that there are relatively few people in the top money brackets; their total income is small compared to the total income of the millions and millions on the lower end of the scale.

Look at some figures:

The total tax base for 1976 — the money subject to federal income levies — was just under $671 billion. The tax paid was about $153.5 billion.

The largest sum of taxable money — $158 billion or just under 24 percent of the total — was earned by people in the 19 percent bracket, people who generally have adjusted gross incomes of less than $10,000 a year.

People in the 22 percent bracket, many of whom also earn less than $10,000 a year, reported taxable income of $107.4 billion or about 16 percent of the total. Together, the people in these brackets paid about 35 percent of the tax in 1976.

Almost 90 percent of the total taxable income reported in 1976 came from people in the 32 percent bracket or below; these people paid a little less than 80 percent of the tax.

People who are taxed at rates of more than 50 percent had a little more than 2 percent of the taxable income in 1976; they paid about 6 percent of the tax. If they had been taxed at 100 percent, the Tax Foundation said, they would have had to pay an additional $5.6 billion. Since federal spending in 1976 totaled $366.4 billion, the extra money would equal the cost of government for about 5.6 days.

Note: Income tax rates run from 14 percent to 70 percent. People in all but the lowest bracket actually are taxed at several rates. According to the Tax Foundation, for example, a married couple's taxable income of $3,000 would be taxed at three levels — 14 percent for the first $1,000, 15 percent for the second $1,000 and 16 percent for the third $1,000.

When people talk about someone being in a particular tax bracket, they generally are referring to the top rate at which he or she is taxed. A taxpayer in the 50 percent bracket, for example, would pay the 50 percent rate only on the top part of his or her income; the rest would be taxed at a lower rate.

The figures used by the Tax Foundation are based on taxable income only. They do not reflect total income and people in upper brackets often can avoid taxes on part of their money by taking advantage of deductions for things like capital gains and interest expense.

SHELLING OUT — Research done by the Tax Foundation Inc. indicates that the poor and middle class still pay the biggest chunk of America's federal income tax bill. The research also shows that if the richest people were taxed at 100 percent, it would only boost tax revenues by less than 4 percent. (AP Laserphoto)

The figures also are based only on reported income. A recent study by the Internal Revenue Service indicated tht up to $35 billion i income fom legal and illegal sources may go unreported every year; the lost tax revenues on the money could total up to $26 billion.

The income tax, meanwhile, isn't the only bite that the federal government takes out of American paychecks.

The Tax Foundation calculated that in fiscal 1979, a typical taxpayer — married with two children and a non-working spouse — earning $18,000 a year, will pay 27 percent of his or her gross income in federal taxes. Income taxes will claim $1,791, the foundation said, and Social Security will take $1,103. An additional $1,920 will go for indirect taxes — corporate income taxes, excise taxes on liquor, gasoline, etc., and employers' contributions to Social Security.

Publisher Visits White House

By CONNIE CHAPMAN
Family News Staff

September 9 was a day long to be remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Buck Cunningham of Lubbock. That Sunday they were part of a group — all associated in some way with gospel music — which attended a special concert on the lawn of the White House.

The concert was held in conjunction with a meeting of the Gospel Music Association, and included many of the best known gospel musicians from across the country who been invited by President and Mrs. Carter to perform for them and their guests.

From the very first excitement of hearing from her son in California that an invitation from the White House was on its way, right through to their return to Lubbock earlier this week, the couple has been completely thrilled by the whole experience. Although they have traveled abroad and in much of this country, the Cunninghams found their first visit to our nation's capital to be very impressive.

"It is just terribly awe-inspiring to be right there and see what makes America tick," Mrs. Cunningham said Thursday. She also was impressed with how helpful all the people in the city were to tourists like the West Texans.

The Cunninghams met her son and daughter-in-law, Harold and Judy Spencer of Canyon Country, Calif., in Washington the day before the concert. Harold Spencer is president of Manna Music, Inc., a music publishing company of which Mrs. Cunningham is the owner. Mrs. Cunningham is the present chairman of Christian Women of Lubbock.

With the White House invitation came instructions to bring along a lawn blanket to sit on during the concert. Judy Spencer decided to bring along a very special quilt which could be autographed by the First Family and other celebrities attending. Mrs. Carter did sign the quilt and so did many others. However, the president never signs anything like that in public, so the quilt was given to an aide who promised to have the presidential signature put on it and to return the quilt by mail to Mrs. Spencer. The story of the quilt became part of the story of the gathering reported in the Washington newspaper.

There was no receiving line and an informal picnic atmosphere prevailed, Mrs. Cunningham reported. Fried chicken and potato salad were served to the guests. After some time in the hot September sun, the Cunninghams decided to move into a shady area and selected a picnic table under a tree. Looking up, they were surprised to see a bare-footed Amy Carter and one of her girl friends in the tree. "Of course we had to coax Amy to come down and autograph our programs," Mrs. Cunningham laughed.

MRS. BUCK CUNNINGHAM

The program for the concert included a variety of music, from longtime gospel music singers to some of the newer musicians in the field. Included among the peformers were the Archers, James Blackwood, Dave Boyer, Shirley Caesar; the Rev. James Clevelend, the Goodman Family, the Howard University Gospel Ensemble, Julia and Compnmay, the Kingsmen, Barry McGuire, Mighty Clouds of Joy, Larry Norman, Doug Oldham, Reba Rambo, the Speer Family and The Trio.

In the program for the concert, President Carter wrote of his belief in the importance of gospel music. "The true message of gospel music is peace. Its instruments are goodwill and understanding. Its mission is hope."

The Cunninghams have framed the invitation to this memorable event and it has a place of honor on their living room coffee table. The only regret they have is that the pictures taken with their own camera of them with the First Family didn't turn out.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY
BY DR. PAUL G. DONOHUE

Dear Dr. Donohue: My internist says that at 87 I am in good health, but he says frankly that he doesn't know anything about my complaint. My muscles are tender to the touch, especially my legs. Sometimes they ache enough at night to keep me awake, but get better if I rub them hard. I had kidney scans and a thyroid gland scan, also x-rays. I have been examined by a neurologist, all with negative results. Have you any suggestions? — M.R.

Congratulations on your otherwise good health at 87.

You have had excellent attention. The fact that your leg muscles feel better after rubbing them indicates a circulation disturbance. You can try to increase your walking moderately and use hot baths or packs. Also continue your massaging.

Suggestions are only that. One is that generalized muscle pain is sometimes the first symptom in rheumatoid arthritis, and it can appear before any joints are involved. Your doctors have investigated other possibilities. Both hypothyroidism and certain kidney ailments produce muscle pain, hence your thyroid and kidney tests.

Other less likely causes of muscle pain include infectious diseases like trichinosis, a parasitic illness often contracted from eating too rare pork, or brucellosis, transmitted by certain domestic animals and their products. These illnesses produce sufficiently clear symptoms for your doctors to have noted them. Has the possibility of polymyalgia rheumatica, a common illness in the older age group, been considered?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have consistent bad breath. I floss my teeth daily and have them cleaned and checked frequently. Could this be caused by my confirmed hiatal hernia? — P.R.W.

There are dozens of causes for halitosis. Most relate to the mouth itself — poor oral hygiene, tooth decay, gum inflammation, tooth abscesses, poorly-fitted dentures and well-known foods like garlic. Hiatal hernia should not cause it unless there is constant regurgitation of only partially digested food.

Once you've gone down the checklist of common causes, then you might look to other, less common ones. Sinus infection, or infection in the windpipe or lungs may be factors. For this reason, chronic halitosis is best reported if an obvious cause cannot be found. The booklet, "Bad Breath Can Be Corrected," discusses the common causes. Readers may obtain a copy by sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Doctor Donohue: I have a problem with my right hand going numb during the night. This happens after I have been asleep for several hours. Some nights it takes awhile to get back to sleep. Since I have to get up for work at 6:30 a.m., this is becoming a problem for me. Also, I notice a deterioration of my hand between the thumb and wrist. Can you explain this? I use my hand constantly at work. — D.H.G.

I would have said you were putting pressure on your arm by having it in an awkward position while you slept. This could cause compression of a nerve, resulting in the numbness you describe. However, when you say that there is a deterioration of your hand, it sounds like a different and more severe problem that requires a neurologist's (nerve doctor's) evaluation. There may be a disturbance of the local nerve supply to the wrist, as in carpal tunnel syndrome. This can occur with occupations that require constant use of the hands and wrists.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What hopes does a man have to regain his sexual activity? At the age of 50 my husband cannot perform his sexual duties. Is this a stage or will he overcome it? Does he need to see a doctor for this problem? He was in the navy and participated in the atom bomb test. Would this contact have had an effect on him? — Mrs. H.G.

Impotence is defined as the inability to achieve or maintain an erection. The greatest cause is psychological. There are many medical causes, too. A partial list would include vascular (blood vessel) disease, problems with the spinal cord, diabetes, hypothyroidism and adrenal gland disease. The list is longer. These conditions should be investigated. Often psychological factors may cause temporary impotence. The atom bomb test should have no bearing on the problem.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

You've all been just great in sharing hints concerning the care and convenience of the elderly and handicapped with our reading audience.

The Soap and Detergent Association was kind enough to send me some additional tips on how best to equip the bathroom to make it more accessible to the elderly and handicapped.

As they stated, and we all know, daily grooming is important to a feeling of well being for everyone. But for an elderly or handicapped person, it can be frustrating or impossible to perform cleanliness routines in a bathroom not equipped with safe and appropriate apparatus.

The Soap and Detergent Association suggested attaching grab bars securely to the wall near the tub, shower, sink and toilet.

Non-breakable soap dishes and drinking glasses should be used. Grooming aids, including towel racks, toilet tissue roll, mirrors, counter and storage space should be at a height for convenient access.

Provide a sturdy, slip-resistant seat in the tub or shower. Of course, the tub and shower flooring should have a non-slip surface. Wall-to-wall bathroom carpeting provides more secure footing.

Good lighting is essential. A soft nightlight eliminates dangerous groping for a light switch.

Store medications separately from other items and label each in large, clear letters, or some other form of easy identification.

Lever-type faucet handles may be easier to manipulate than knobs.

Don't overlook accessories that make bathing and grooming easier and more comfortable. A pocket sponge to hold soap can be easily handled for lathering up and the soap doesn't slip out of the hand as easily.

Long-handled back brushes, hose spray attachments and magnifying mirror attached to the wall near the washbasin are aids to consider.

If the person has to clean the bath alone, provide long-handled brushes and sponges, as well as a convenient place to store the cleaning products.

Bathroom space is a factor for people in wheelchairs or dependent on walkers. If you're designing a new bath, keep this in mind.

Ideally, the showerstall floor should be flush with the floor outside, with a slight slope toward the drain, or with a low curb.

A toilet measuring 18 inches from the floor is more convenient than a conventional 15 inch model. Also consider setting the washbasin 36 inches higher than 31 inches.

Finally, it's a good idea to install a telephone in the bathroom, and a call signal button so help can be summoned in an emergency.

So, with thoughtful planning, the elderly and handicapped can carry on usual grooming routines.

This can be accomplished by simply rearranging the bathroom, by supplying different surroundings or remodeling the bath to include safe, convenient fixtures and funishings.

Hope a little sunshine comes your way today. — Hugs, Heloise.

DEAR HELOISE:

Kitty box deodorant is an excellent ashtray filler for recreation areas in the home, such as basement, yard, or patio.

Use large, colorful containers (painted, empty tuna cans are really great) and fill them about half full with the litter.

MISCELLANY

Community Hospital of Lubbock will host an open house and refreshment time Sunday at 2 p.m. in the hospital. This is for all expectant parents who will be having their babies at Community Hospital between now and the end of October. These couples will have an opportunity to participate in a question and answer time about their upcoming hospital stay and will be given a tour of the hospital by the director of nursing, Mrs. Francil Walker. Mrs. Louise Stokes, director of volunteer services, will be in the hospital lobby to greet each couple at 2 p.m.

Veterans of World War I Hub of the Plains Barracks 1489 will hear reports from its national convention participants at a regular meeting today at the Lubbock Adult Center, 26th Street and Avenue P.

A sing-along will start off the meeting at 11:30 a.m., followed by a noon luncheon. The separate business meetings of the barracks and auxiliary will begin at 1:15 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gill, Lesbia Schroeder and Mabelle Hard will present tapes prepared at the national veterans convention in Hot Springs, Ark.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A recent column of yours appeared in the Cape Cod Times and riled some nursery school teachers. They phoned me about it, although they were not aware that I knew you personally.

The letter had to do with an 18-month-old child who hit his mother in the face — very hard. You suggested that the mother make the child sit alone in a chair for a half an hour.

I agree with the teachers who phoned me to protest. Thirty minutes is much, much too long for an 18-month-old child to sit. It would be extremely frustrating and may even be frightening. Five or 10 minutes would accomplish a great deal more and would not create the anger or panic.

In my opinion, the best way to deal with the problem would be for the mother to take the child on her lap and say, "I will have to hold your arms for a few minutes to help you remember that you may not hit me." It might also be a good idea to give the child something to hit — a rag doll, or a pillow he can call "Mommy."

Now that I have done what I told the unhappy teachers I would do, I will sign off with affectionate regards, as always — Eda (LeShan)

Dear Eda: How nice to hear from you, even though it's a letter of complaint. Rest assured yours was not the only one I received.

I concede that 30 minutes is too long for an 18-month-old child to sit in a chair, but five minutes is not quite long enough. I'll settle for 10 minutes — with the rag doll thrown in for good measure. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Our neighbors are moving away, and we shall miss them very much. Last week we had them to dinner and they brought gifts for our three children — religious medals, symbolic of their faith but not ours.

My husband felt the gifts were thoughtless, although well-intentioned. I did not agree but had to admit he had a point when he said, "Would you give THEIR children a neck-chain with the symbols of OUR faith?"

We trust your judgment and know you are a fair-minded person. Please give us your viewpoint on this matter. — The Family In Brooklyn

Dear Brooklyn: The gifts should be accepted in good faith since that was the spirit in which they were given. The children need not wear them, however. They can be kept on the dresser (or in a drawer) as a reminder of loving friends.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 22-year-old son has just received a very fine promotion and an increase in salary. Of course, we are proud of him. He has been with the firm only two years. Although the additional money is extremely important to him, the promotion means more because it is evidence that he was considered mature enough to handle a bigger job.

The question is this: Would it be out of line if his father and I wrote a letter to our son's boss and thanked him for this wonderful display of confidence? — Busting Our Buttons In Baltimore

Dear Buttons: A letter of appreciation is always welcome, but it should come from your son — not his parents. If he decides to write, he should keep it low-key. Superlatives and excessive thanks can be embarrassing.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," give no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

"Too bad you went into Stayman," said South. "I would have wrapped up three notrump. Of course, I was unlucky not to make fourt hearts. It took a spade lead, a misplaced spade jack, a 3-1 trump break and a misplaced diamond king to cook my goose."

"It also took a misplaced lack of playing ability to cause your downfall," replied North.

North was a trifle severe, but South had played like an optimist at a time when pessimism was called for.

East took his ace of spades and returned the deuce to South's 10 and West's jack. Now West led the king of spades.

South ruffed in dummy and started after trumps. When trumps broke 3-1 he could never get to dummy to discard his low diamonds on the queen-jack of clubs.

If South merely discarded a diamond from dummy on the king of spades, he would have been home. He could get in, draw trumps with three leads, cash the ace-king of clubs, enter dummy by overtaking his deuce of trumps with dummy's three, discard his losing diamonds and win the rubber.

Ask the Experts

A New York reader asks if we ever underlead an ace against a slam.

The answer is that if we do we don't do so often.

Hawaiian Airlines Get Good Marks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The airlines operating out of our 50th state continue to dominate the customer satisfaction statistics, judging by the June consumer complaint report of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Aloha and Hawaiian both recorded 1.28 complaints per 100,000 passengers during the month, the lowest complaint rate of any major scheduled airline in the country.

Overall, the board reported that it received 3,051 consumer complaints in June, down almost 16 percent from May.

Reservation problems, including oversold flights, were the most common complaints. Other problems drawing a lot of letters included baggage troubles, scheduling and customer treatment.

WHAT'S UP?

What's up in exercise?

A few celebrities have yet to lace up running shoes. Here is what some prominent women say they do instead of jogging to keep fit, according to Ms. magazine.

— Loretta Swit of "M*A*S*H" plays pool.

— Linda Kelsey of "Lou Grant" gardens.

— Katherine Helmond of "Soap" practices yoga.

— Actress Rita Moreno does housework.

Meanwhile, diva Beverly Sills says she trys to avoid even thinking about exercise.

Singer Dolly Parton admits to occasionally thinking about sit-up, push-ups or knee bends. She has even been known to try one. But the mere thought is usually enough to send her to bed for a nap.

Parton: No runner.

Lisa Lyons: Woman of the '80s

There's nothing wrong or unnatural about a woman "pumping iron."

That's the contention of one very beautiful woman, 26-year-old Lisa Lyons. The lovely Californian wants to be the world's greatest weightlifter and wants to be taken seriously by the rest of the world — especially by men.

In the October issue of Esquire magazine Lisa, a 5-foot-3-inch brunette with "a perfect little Bardot-Ronstadt face," reveals that she entered the once exclusively male world of weightlifting two years ago after meeting Arnold Schwarzenegger.

"When I met Schwarzenegger, I saw there was potential to do something dramatic with myself," she says. "I'd been an art student. I'd wanted to do medical illustrations and I loved the suppleness and grace and understanding of power. I fell in love with the (body building) scene." Today she can lift 265 pounds off the ground.

Lisa believes she represents the woman of the future. "I am a normal person," insists the queen of California's famed Gold's Gym. "Everybody thinks that to be a body builder you have to be a freak, but I don't think body building is very different from basketball. Except that in body building, the end you're striving for is aesthetic. It's living sculpture.

"I think you should feel free to pursue whatever you feel will benefit you. Women should be able to have a choice in ideals of physical beauty. We're going into the 80s and we're headed into androgyny anyway, so why not?"

Frank Inn, owner and trainer of the American superstar mongrel, Benji, went to London recently to find a British look-alike for Benji to appear in the English sequences of the new film, "Oh Heavenly Dog." Here he looks at the six finalists selected through a London newspaper competition.

What's up in video games?

Fans of the pingpong-shooting gallery variety of video games that are played on TV screens will probably love Milton Bradley's new hand-held version of the same toy, Microvision.

About the size of a large pocket calculator, the $50 toy is being called another revolutionary breakthrough in the newly developed video game field. Microvision, which uses a silicon chip for memory and batteries for energy, accepts any one of seven programs (additional game cassettes are sold separately). A digital score and the field of play are shown on the tiny screen.

The Springfield, Mass., company introduced its new toy to the press at a luncheon in New York's plush 21 restaurant. Among the celebrities who experimented with dials, swatted balls and elicited high-pitched beeps were Jack Palance, Abe Vigoda, Victor Borg and Howard Cosell.

In an unusual marketing scheme, the toy company has arranged for their new game to be featured on board Pan Am's fleet of 747s, as well as in a New York area limousine service.

COCKPIT OF MEMORIES — Foster A. Lane poses in the cockpit of his Waco, a vintage biplane he keeps in a hanger in Columbus, Ohio. Lane, 76, flew to Columbus in 1934, rented a hanger at what is now Port Columbus International Airport and went into business for himself. (AP Laserphoto)

Barnstorming Days Recalled By Aviator Of Over 50 Years

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP0 -The roar from the open exhaust of the silver-winged biplane fired the memories of more than 50 years of aviation pioneering for Foster A. Lane as he squeezed into the plane's open rear cockpit.

"Barnstorming was an exciting Life," said Lane as he demonstrated the skills needed to maneuver his recently purchased 51-year-old Waco 10 biplane. "I was carefree then, not married. We'd fly from hayfield to hayfield, circling to attract a crowd and then land and take people for rides for about $2 to $5."

Lane is 76 and still an active pilot. Tall and slender and mustachioed, the only things that betray his age are his graying hair and a face weatherbeaten by countless hours in open cockpits.

"Barnstorming, without a doubt, was what first began to sell the public on the idea of aviation," said Lane, turning the worn cloth helmet and goggles over in his hands. "So was the thrill show, where we'd fly wing-walkers and parachute jumpers and perform aerobatics. It all helped get the public excited about the idea of flying."

Lane bought his first airplane -a Waco 9 -in 1928. After polishing his skills as a barnstormer, an airshow performer and member of a three-plane flight demonstration team, he went to work as a test pilot for several aviation companies based at Cleveland Airport.

The Depression took its toll in the aviation business, forcing many into bankruptcy. But Lane believed strongly in the future of air travel, and scraping together $1,000, he flew to Columbus in 1934 and rented a hanger at what is now Port Columbus International Airport and went into business for himself.

Lane Aviation Corp., as it's called today, he began as a charter and instruction service. The fledgling firm, he recalled, lacked one important component to help launch its flight to success: an airplane.

"At first, banks didn't look upon aviation as a legitimate business. So, we had to downplay the idea. A three-month loan for $200 was the extent of my credit back them." he said, smiling. "They obviously didn't believe in flying."

Lake took the money and bought a Driggs Skylark III. In addition to flights around Ohio. Lane Aviation also opened routes to nearby cities like Chicago, Detroit, Louisville. Passengers using the service were required to wear helmets and goggles, as they were flying in open cockpits.

"It was a crude start," Lane conceded.

"A lot of our business came from film crews who worked for outfits like Pathe News and Movietone News. If there was a disaster of some kind — a flood along the Ohio River or a mine cave in in West Virginia -These fellows would come into Columbus and ask us to take them to the scene. They'd strap their big cameras in the doorway of the plane and off we'd go. They were adventurous people."

A lot of pilots earned their wings with instructions from Lane Aviation. "During World War II, we trained over a thousand pilots for the military," he said.

Business aviation is the strength of Lane Aviation today. The company operates an extensive charter business and also leases office and hanger space to companies wanting immediate access to an airport.

"This fuel crunch will definitely change the way we live," he predicted. "I believe we'll be seeing new games and activities developed which can be played at home. Long distance tarvel won't be as prevalent as it is today."

Lane said he believes the fuel shortage is real

"I'm trying hard now to buy an electric car," said the man who has spent most of his life in the air. "I feel I should set an example."

Infant Whale Dies Despite Rescue Try

SEATTLE (AP) — Florence the baby whale, named for the Oregon town where more than 40 whales died after beaching themselves last summer, died Friday despite the frantic efforts of attendants.

The infant sperm whale's death came three days after it beached itself on the Oregon coast, touching off a major rescue effort to save its life.

Scientists said the hopes of saving the 500-pound, 12-foot mammal were slim — sperm whales normally nurse for a year. But round-the-clock efforts were begun after the whale came ashore Tuesday.

The whale — its sex has not been determined — died at the Seattle Aquarium after last-minute efforts that included a form of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation into its blowhole, injections of stimulants and the pounding of its body in hopes of restarting its heart.

Some attendants were in tears as it became apparent that Florence was dead. But scientists hoped to learn from the whale's body.

"We don't want this death to be just another lost life," said Dr. Tag Gornall, director of the Marine Resources Center in Seattle.

Gornall said scientists from the around the country were being invited to participate in the autopsy, and aquarium officials say they suspect the whale — estimated to be about a week old — was ill.

Florence seemed to gain strength after her arrival at the aquarium on the back of a flatbed truck Wednesday, apparently improving Thursday and seeming somewhat stronger early Friday.

Boston Hospitals Preparing For Pope's October Visit

BOSTON (AP) — So many old and sick people will crowd near Pope John Paul II to try to receive a blessing when he celebrates an open-air Mass at the start of his United States tour on Oct. 1 that Boston hospitals are planning for their busiest day ever.

Boston officials predict that up to 2 million people — or almost four times the population of the city — will try to catch a glimpse of the pope.

The city's hospitals are making elaborate plans to cope with the 50 percent increase in heart attacks and other medical emergencies that are expected when the pope celebrates Mass on Boston Common.

"We expect to see extremes of several kinds — the very old, the very young and, most of all, those who are already sick," said Russell Kulp, head of emergency services for the city Department of Health and Hospitals.

"A lot of ill people will make the effort to see the pope in the hope it will help them by receiving special blessings," Kulp said.

On an ordinary day, emergency rooms at Boston hospitals handle 1,350 cases. But on Oct. 1, they are expecting 2,000.

To cope, the city will station 29 ambulances at the Common, along the pope's parade route and elsewhere around the city. Boston City Hospital will set up four medical field stations on the Common capable of handling serious emergencies, and the Red Cross will run 12 first aid stations.

"Statistically, we know that a number of heart attacks are going to take place. Other people who are claustrophobic are going to faint, or collapse, or have anxiety attacks," said Dr. Earle Wilkins, director of the emergency room at Massachusetts General Hospital.

His hospital is also getting ready to care for the pope if he falls ill, or is hurt.

"You do train yourself in this business to think of all the crazy things that can happen," Wilkins said. "If what happened to a president in Dallas could happen, then anything can. That is the fear we all live with."

A team trained in life-saving techniques will travel with the pontiff in Boston.

Massachusetts General and two other hospitals, Boston City and St. Elizabeth's, will hold operating rooms empty and teams of surgeons and heart specialists on hand in case they are needed by the pope.

Each will have a copy of the pope's medical records, and Wilkins noted that hospitals that treat such famous visitors must agree to let "a Secret Service agent, specially trained as an operating room technician, to be present in the operating room if any surgery is performed."

In New York, where the pope will arrive for a two-day visit on Oct. 2, the city's Emergency Medical Service says it is "working closely with the Police Department and the Secret Service" to provide total services capable of handling any emergency.

At "major sites" on the pope's route there will be Mervans — Medical Emergency Room Vans — and at the two stadiums, Yankee and Shea, there will be strategically-placed, fully-equipped paramedic teams capable of giving immediate medical attention to any victim while an ambulance is being called.

Mobile units and ambulances will be positioned along the route the pope's motorcade will take on the way to the United Nations, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harlem, the Bronx and the stadiums.

In two other cities on the pope's U.S. itinerary, Philadelphia and Washington, officials said they were reserving special sections of seats to accommodate handicapped people who wanted to attend Mass.

CHURCH NEWS

Officials Say U.S. Reaction 'Ridiculous'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Church officials said they are puzzled by the controversy in the United States over Pope John Paul II's six-day American tour beginning Oct. 1.

"It's ridiculous," snapped the Rev. Vincent O'Keefe, an American Jesuit official, reacting to the fuss over Masses being said on public property, public funds being used for extra police protection and construction of platforms for rallies during the papal visit.

"It' s a classic case of one being unable to see the forest for the trees," said an Italian prelate, who asked not to be identified. "The pope is not only a religious leader. He is a world leader and a head of state. I am puzzled why his visit cannot be perceived as a joyous and peaceful occasion that will help bring them together."

Although about 70 nations maintain diplomatic relations with the Holy See, or the pope's court, the United States does not. The president has a personal representative to the Holy See, which is represented in the United States by an apostolic delegate.

Official Vatican spokesmen declined comment on the controversial issues on grounds they "constitute internal affairs of another country." Some analysts, noting that the United States is the first non-Catholic country the pontiff is visiting, said they have anticipated "some problems but not of this magnitude."

Monsignor John Foley of Philadelphia, here to arrange the pontiff's visit, rejected arguments that a planned papal Mass on the government-owned mall in Washington would violate the First Amendment, which provides for separation of church and state.

"I don't see any conflict at all," he said. "The Holy Father is a head of state, and his visit won't be unlike the one by Queen Elizabeth II who is also the head of the Church of England."

Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair, who in 1963 succesfully sued to ban compulsory prayers in U.S. public schools, asked a federal court Tuesday to stop John Paul from celebrating a Mass Oct. 7 on the Washington Mall.

"It's ironic that the United States, which guarantees freedom of religion, should question these things when Communist Poland did not raise any objections," Foley said, referring to the pontiff's eight-day visit to his native Poland in June.

Foley also said there exist "some glaring inconsistencies" in handling the church-state matters in the United States such as the retention of military and congressional chaplains in the United States.

However, he said he personally favored the Boston "formula" in settling the dispute over the cost of the papal visit.

"I think it's fair if the city pays for the platform for a rally, normally required in receiving a popular head of state, while the church picks up the tab for altar arrangements that will be used for religious rites," he said.

The Boston archdiocese announced Tuesday it would pay for a $150,000 altar to be used in a papal Mass on Boston Common. Still in dispute is whether the pope would be able to celebrate Mass on the public Common.

During Pope Paul VI's one-day visit to New York in 1964 there was no apparent protest over an estimated $1 million police overtime bill or any other aspect of the trip.

Vatican Banker To Accompany Pope In U.S.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — American Achbishop Paul Marcinkus, the Vatican's chief banker and long-time papal bodyguard, will accompany Pope John Paul II during his visit to Ireland and the United States, it was announced Friday.

The tall and broad-shouldered Marcinkus, a 57-year-old former football player from Cicero, Ill., has been in charge of papal security during trips outside the Vatican for years. He accompanied Paul VI during most of his travels and maintained the job with Pope John Paul II, going with him to Mexico and Poland.

Marcinkus also is president of the Institute for Religious Works, the Vatican's powerful bank.

The pope addressed a group of 30 Jesuit superiors Friday, telling him he was concerned about discipline in their order, the most powerful religious order of the Roman Catholic church.

"The crisis that has been troubling religious life lately, has not spared your order, causing disorientation in the Christian people and worry to the Church, the hierarchy and also personally to the pope who is speaking to you," the pontiff said.

The pope did not elaborate. But the Vatican is known to have been worried by Jesuit theologians speaking out against traditional doctrine and by Jesuits involved in active leftist policies in various parts of the world.

Bishop Confesses Ignoring Farmer's Invitation To Pope

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Bishop Maurice Dingman confesses he wasn't too enthusiastic at first about the letter from an Iowa farmer that is bringing Pope John Paul II to this state of small family farms.

"I ignored it," Dingman says of the invitation for a papal visit that Joseph Hays and his children wrote by hand on the dining room table of their farmhouse in Truro.

The bishop doubted the Vatican would pay much attention to the letter. But then, he says, colleagues reminded him that he always said "the best ideas come from the people."

"They shamed me in doing it," Dingman recalled. Thus he forwarded the letter, which traveled through the church bureaucracy to Rome. Thus, back through the same channels came the reply:

Pople John Paul II would visit Iowa on Oct. 4, the date of the feast of St. Francis of Assissi, whose beloved birds flutter in profusion across the Iowa countryside.

Iowa is the must rural area the pope will visit and the Diocese of Des Moines has the smallest number of Catholics, about 80,000, of any of the six cities of his tour. By contract, Boston and Chicago each have more than two million Catholics and New York has almost that.

But Bishop Dingman thinks it was his state's country nature that attracted the pope

"It is very understanding that our invitation, with its focus on rural America, carried the day," the bishop said.

Dingman noted that Pople John Paul had reached the rural people earlier on visits to Mexico and Poland. He said, too, that when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev wanted to see American farming in action two decades ago, he came to Iowa.

"In the eyes of the world, if you want to see agriculture in the United States, you go to Iowa," Dingman said, adding that the pope's visit to Iowa would have special meaning.

"I think the reality of his visit, with the eyes of Iowans and the world upon him, will help bring about a new and deeper appreciation of land as a gift from God -something more than a commodity to be bought and sold for profit," the bishop said.

Iowa, whose more than 34 million acres of agricultural land is estimated to be split into 131,000 farms, consistently ranks first, second or third among the states in commodity exports, all-crop production and total acres of principal crops harvested.

Iowa's rural nature aside, it's estimated one million people will try to see the pope in the state. Hotels and motels were booked to capacity within days of the Vatican's announcement of the visit and a shortage of buses developed in the surrounding states.

While in Iowa, the pope will visit a rural parish near Des Moines. He will also celebrate a mass at the 600-acre Living History Farms, whose working models of farm buildings -from the 1800 to the 21st century -are dedicated to those who earn their living from the land.

The rural parish, St. Patrick's Church, is located near Cumming some 25 miles south of Living History Farms. The church is about 10 miles from -and the closest Pope John Paul will get to the -80-acre farm where 39-year-old Joseph Hays lives with his wife and four children.

But Hays, because of his letter to the pope, will be the unofficial host for the papal visit, along with official host Dingman. Hays, 38, his wife, Ann, 36, and their four children will help form a procession to the altar at Living History Farms. The family will present the bread and wine used in the Mass celebrated by the pope.

Hays gave his letter to the bishop during a picnic on July 19 at Immaculate Conception parish in St. Marys, where Hays attends church, saying simply, "I want you to give this to the Holy Father."

The letter said: "I don't want to be presumptuous, but we would love to have you visit Iowa."

Hays saw Dingman did not really expect anything to come of the letter. "I recall the bishop said, 'Well, that's something.' I could tell he wasn't too excited about the idea," said Hays.

The bishop later admitted when Hays gave him the letter, the thought of telling the farmer -but didn't -"That's impossible."

Farmer Hays did not share the doubt he saw in Dingman's expression.

"There was something somewhere in my mind that I could see it happening," he said.

Hays is typical of many Iowans in that he also works for John Deere, a major maker of farm machinery, to supplement the income from his farm. And Bishop Dingman feels this family farm heritage was a key factor in deciding the pope to visit Iowa.

He said he hopes the papal visit will nurture the family farm as a place for the rebirth of moral values and the work ethic that pushed the pioneers westward.

"I think his presence will cause the seeds of virtue to thrive once again in our midst," said Dingman, 65, a native of St. Paul, Iowa.

He said those values no longer have the strength they should, with the decline of family farms nationwide. Iowa, through a strict ban on foreign farmland ownership passed this year and a constant monitoring of corporate farming, is trying to preserve family farms.

"Somehow, America has to get back to its original spirit," Dingman said. "I feel that the family farm, which is where it all began in this country, is essential to our future."

Church Employees Push For Organized Collective Bargaining

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

American churches face a spreading movement of their employees to organize for collective bargaining, and a leading church labor expert says the churches must uphold the process to maintain their credibility.

Churches long have preached the right of union organization, he says, and it's now essential for them to affirm that principle in their own practices.

Any attempts to circumvent it would undermine church efforts in behalf of justice "at all levels of society," adds Msgr. George G. Higgins of Washington, D.C., long-time Roman Catholic specialist in labor relations.

Quoting a 1971 declaration of Catholicism's international Synod of Bishops, he says that for the church effectively to defend justice it first must be applied "within the church herself."

Yet for many reasons, including the personal commitment of most church employees to serving Christianity, often at comparatively low pay, they've remained largely without group representation or contractual stipulations on terms of work.

Msgr. Higgins, secretary for special concerns of the U.S. Catholic Conference, issued a Labor Day statement to clarify the church's stand on the matter.

Citing official church pronouncements, he said "administrators of church-related institutions must unequivocally recognize the right of their employees to organize, if they so desire ...."

He said when unionism arose in this country 50 years ago, American industry mistakenly sought to crush it. He added that church institutions, for ethical as well as practical reasons, should "avoid making the same mistake now that their own workers are belatedly beginning to exercise their right to organize."'

He said public confusion over the matter had resulted from a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision holding that the National labor Relations Board has no jurisdiction over church-related schools.

The decision was based on the constitutional separation of state and church and "did not question nor negate the right" of church workers to organize, he said.

CHURCH BRIEFS

An afternoon of singing will highlight Southside Baptist Church's second annual God's Family Day on Sunday. Special services will be held at 10:50 a.m. and 2 p.m. Dinner will be served following the morning service.

During Sunday's 10:45 a.m. worship service, elders and deacons will be ordained and installed at First Presbyterian Church. Leaders of Women of the Church also will be recognized at this time.

• • •

Pioneer Park Church of Christ, 708 Avenue T, will hold a series of gospel meetings Sunday through Wednesday. Sunday services will be at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. and weekday service will be at 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Claud Parrish of Pasadena, a former missionary in Scotland and Norway, will be the leader.

Church Holds World Evangelism Forum

The annual World Evangelism Forum of the Sunset Church of Christ will continue through Sunday. The annual Youth Evangelism Forum will be held concurrently.

The theme for these meetings will be "When By Reason of Time," based on a passage in the book of Hebrews.

Marvin Phillips, director of the Evangelism Workshop of Tulsa, will be the keynote speaker. Reuel Lemmons, editor of the Firm Foundation and sponsor of the Pan-American Lectureship, will address the opening meeting. Joe Cannon, a long tenure missionary in Japan and New Guinea, will speak about missionary life.

Today's program will highlight challenges from the mission fields of the world.

The youth conference will include slide presentations about mission fields requesting teams and hear reports from returning young missionaries.

Episcopal Mission To Welcome Bishop

The Rt. Rev. Manuel C. Lumpias, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of the Central Philippines, will be a guest at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church, 42nd St. and Elgin Ave., Sunday.

The visiting bishop will celebrate Eucharist, preach and perform baptisms at the 10 a.m. service and speak at the adult discussion hour following.

Church To Honor Former Pastor, Wife

ROPESVILLE (Special) — Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray will be honored by the Church of the Nazarene Sunday.

Gray will teach the adult class and preach at the morning service and Mrs. Gray will lead devotions. At 6:30 p.m. they will show pictures of their recent visit to Guatemala as missionaries.

The Grays have been active in evangelistic endeavors for the past ten years. Gray formerly was a pastor of this church. He also has served as a counselor at the Christian Counseling Center of Lubbock and as and as a research editor for a Bible company in Wichita, Kansas. Evangelistic work has taken them to Great Britain, Ireland, Israel, Greece, Hawaii, Guam and Guatemala.

Methodist Church Schedules Three Days Of Revival

TULIA (Special) — Encounter with Christ is the theme of a three-day revival scheduled at First United Methodist Church Sunday through Wednesday.

The Rev. John Jakway, pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church of Hibbing, Minn., will be the preacher. Leading the singing will be the Rev. Richard Edwards, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Booker.

Services will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Breakfast and worship will be at 7 a.m. and evening worship at 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

Singer to Present Sunday Concert

Johnny Ray Watson of Lorenzo, gospel vocalist, will present a "mini-concert" during the 10:50 a.m. worship service Sunday at Lakeridge United Methodist Church.

Watson, a former McMurry College basketball star, now travels full-time presenting church concerts and providing music for revivals.

Following the concert, the Rev. Bill Couch, Lakeridge UMC pastor, will preach a sermon entitled "A Sending Community."

Lakeridge United Methodist Church was organized in February and now meets in the Winfrey Private School, 83rd Street and Toledo Avenue.

Visiting Bishop To Celebrate Eucharist

The Rt. Rev. Leonardo Romero-Rivera, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northern Mexico, will be the guest celebrant and preacher at the 11 a.m. Sunday Eucharist at the new Episcopal mission, the Church of the Holy Cross, meeting at Winfrey Private School, 83rd Street and Toledo Avenue.

The bishop is a 1956 graduate of San Andres Seminary of Mexico and was consecrated in 1973. He is currently president of the Committee for Reconciliation of the IX Province and is one of the leaders of the U.S. Commission on Hispanic affairs.

The Mexican bishop and the Rt. Rev. Willis R. Henton, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas, have been leaders in a joint effort by parishioners from both diocese in the construction of many buildings for the Episcopal Camp in Monterrey.

Borger Preacher To Conduct Revival

LITTLEFIELD (Special) — The Rev. Lyman Paul Wood, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Borger, will lead revival services from Sunday through Wednesday at the First United Methodist Church.

Sunday services will be held at 10:55 a.m. and 7 p.m. Weekday services will include a breakfast hour at 7 a. m. and evening services as 7:30 p.m.

The Gabriels, Jeff Walter and Robin Lyle will lead the singing for these services.

Brownfield Church Schedules Revival

BROWNFIELD (Special) — The First Foursquare Gospel Church will hold revival services Sunday through Sept. 29. Jerry Golden, evangelist and author of "Too Tough for God," will lead the services.

Jeremiah Ginsburg, concert pianist, will provide special music.

Golden is the founder and director of the Jerry Golden Evangelistic Association and has been on the PTL Club and the 700 Club.

What a disappointment! You had a tremendous drive, the perfect chip shot, and a brilliant putt; then your ball stopped a hairsbreadth from the edge of the cup. The birdie you thought was yours didn't materialize.

Of course, it's only a game; it doesn't really matter. But blighted hopes are not always so trivial. What if something really big passes you by? Suppose you don't get that promotion, your son's scholarship is given to someone else, an important client changes his mind, or the stock market wipes out your investment? Where do you turn? Where do you find strength to meet life's disillusionments?

Spiritual values are constant. Fortunes may shift and change but your Church stands firm. The truths and inspiration you find there give meaning, purpose, and stability to your life.

Stock Prices Reach High

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward to another 1979 high Friday as buyers and sellers slugged it out in the heaviest trading of the year on Wall Street.

New York Stock Exchange volume reached 52.38 million shares, the heaviest total since a 59.48 million-share day on Oct. 30, 1978, and the fifth largest in exchange history.

The Dow Jones average of 13 industrials, coming off a 17.24-point upsurge Thursday, added another .25 to 893.94.

That brought the average's gain for the week to 14.84 points.

The market began rising sharply late Thursday as rumors circulated about an oil find at an exploratory well off the Newfoundland coast.

Radiation Victim Claims Treatment 'Ruined Life'

By TOM TIEDE

WILBRAHAM, Mass. (NEA) — Joseph Victor's story began at the end, so to speak — the end of World War II. It was 1945 and Victor, a good-looking Marine in his teens, had survived. He came home from the Pacific with nothing more than an occupational rash on his neck; he was happy to be alive.

The joy was temporary, however.

A few years later he would wish he was dead.

The rash, it turned out, was folliculitis, an irritation of the hair nodules. It used to be called barber's itch. It was a common problem for soldiers stationed in hot or unsanitary places, and it often went away of its own accord. Victor's didn't go away, hence he had to seek medical help.

The doctors recommended X-ray treatments. That meant Victor would be irradiated, of course, but neither he nor his physicians thought much of it. It was the 1940s, and though Hiroshima and Nagasaki were fresh in everyone's memory, the subject of radiation was not yet a public concern.

Victor took six X-ray treatments to begin with. His total roentgen exposure was 420. He didn't know what a roentgen was then (it's the unit used to measure ionizing radiation), and he didn't much care. What mattered was that the treatments worked; the rash on his neck was nicely removed.

But he wasn't cured. Within months the folliculitis returned, and Victor was again advised to undergo irradiation. So, during the next few years, the young veteran was X-rayed time after time. One doctor shot 1,170 roentgens into his face; another technician didn't even keep the totals.

Still, there was scant worry given the risk of the exposure. A dermatologist did caution Victor about the treaments, yet a subsequent radiologist apparently never so much as mentioned the hazard. Victor says the latter fellow just kept saying, "Joe, don't worry, nothing is going to happen."

Something did happen. In 1953, seven years following the first radiation treatment, Victor's nose turned crimson. So did his chin and his chest. Tumors had began to grow in the tissue of his skin, and, unfortunately, they were malignant. In time he was told that carcinomas were developing.

He was 26 years old.

He had cancer on his face.

That's when he wished he was dead.

The corrective operations began in 1957. And they have not yet ended. In the last two decades Victor has undergone plastic surgery 20 times, and he says the physical and emotional toll have been quite terrible: "What's happened, to put it bluntly, is that my life's been ruined."

The surgery itself has been debilitating. At one point, in order to graft skin to repair a wound, Victor was forced to spend 63 days and nights with a tube of flesh growing from his shoulder to his face. He says he has suffered severe pain, and describes his operations as "nightmares."

Then too the surgery has stolen great periods of his life. He grew into middle age in the hospital, thus there has seldom been time for anything but preparation for or recuperation from the knife. As a result, he's had to neglect his personal life; he has never married, for instance.

Not that he's had many opportunities to marry. For the worst thing about Joe Victor's numbing ordeal is that his features have been mutilated. Huge pieces of flesh have been cut from his face, and, though skillfully done, the reconstruction is patchy, discolored, scarred and incomplete.

Victor's nose is reshaped. His upper lip is partly cut away, and the lower lip lacks the muscles to close the mouth. His chin has been remade, but the skin is much lighter than that of the rest of his face. The scars on his neck look as if they were caused by fire; his chest is also disfigured.

The veteran says children who see him sometimes call him a clown. And he doesn't find it easy to go out in mixed company. But, he adds, he no longer wishes to die, because there is too much to live for. "I used to wonder why all this happened to me," he explains, "now I think I know."

Victor says he may have been put on the earth to illustrate "the dangers of the times in which we live." He believes his purpose is to teach people that radiation is unsafe, any amount of radiation. In this regard he has become a resolute opponent of all forms of nuclear power.

Despite his discomfort in public, then, Joe Victor is now marching in the nuclear protests. He says he wants everyone in the nation to see his face. This is his mission, he thinks: "If I can help keep other people from ending up like me, well, everything that I've been through will have been worth it."

The Oscar-winning documentary "Scared Straight," shown on nationwide television last spring, dramatized this year's most popular model for treating juvenile deliquency. It showed a program in New Jersey which put teenagers in a room at the Rahway state prison with 25 hardened convicts. With a well-practiced routine, the cons menacingly impressed on the kids the sordid side of prison life, including the loss of privacy and the constant threat of assault and homosexual slavery.

The program was "90 percent successful" in scaring young people out of future delinquency, claimed a narration by Peter Faulk, the actor. The method has been adopted in various forms by a large number of states and in Canada.

Not so fast, says a rigorous evaluation by a professor at the Rutgers School of Criminal Justice in Newark, New Jersey. James O. Finckenauer's study has shown, he says, that "kids not only aren't 'scared straight,' they also may be more inclined to commit crimes after going through the program."

The prison program dealt with some juveniles who were on probation for previous offenses, others who were simply curious volunteers. Its claims of fewer rearrests, and of reductions in deliquent behavior came primarily from results obtained by a local judge, Finckenauer says.

"Several days or weeks after the sessions, he wrote to the institutions that sent juveniles to the program and asked 'to your knowledge, have any of these kids been in trouble since their visit?' The judge reported that of the 7,000 juveniles on whom he received reports, 90 percent were straight just after the prison visit."

Finckenhauer's study took a small but representative sample of juveniles from nine different agencies that refer kids to the project. The juveniles were randomly allocated to an experimental group that visited Rahway for the "scared straight" treatment, and to a comparable control group that got no special treatment.

The results showed "no consistent difference between the two groups in terms of changed attitudes," Finckenauer reports.

More important, he says, "results from a six-month follow-up study of both samples showed that the project was worse than ineffective in deterring future deliquent behavior."

Each juvenile's court record was tracked, and any further recorded offense, regardless of disposition, was counted as evidence of failure. Finchenauer says that "A significantly higher proportion of the juveniles who did not attend the project did better in terms of avoiding subsequent offenses than did the group that attended."

"The failure rate among the control group was only 11 percent; among the experimental group, 41 percent. The juveniles in the experimental group committed more subsequent offenses, and more serious ones, than did their control-group counterparts."

Another survey, of the records of 67 youths from one New Jersey county who went through the project, soon confirmed Finckenauer's findings: after periods ranging from one or two years, a total of 51 youths in this group, or 76 percent, was subsequently rearrested.

Just why the "scared straight" project seems to encourage crooked behavior is not clear, Finckenauer says. He speculates that the project may set in motion a "deliquency-fulfilling prophecy." For one thing, "The program may inadvertently romanticize prison inmates and, possibly, criminal behavior."

For another, he says, "In demeaning and belittling young 'tough guys,' the program may compel them to go out and prove that they are not scared by committing further crimes."

In recent years the impression has gotten around that nothing works with juvenile delinquents, Finckenauer says. In fact, studies show that "some methods work with some juvenile offenders under some conditions," so the "scared straight" approach is not the only alternative.

"'Scared straight,'" warns Finckenauer, "should make us scared of all panaceas."

School, Former Teacher Settle Out Of Court

MATHEWS, Va. (AP) — A lawsuit filed by a former high school teacher who said he was not rehired because he required his history students to read Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World," has been settled out of court.

Mathews County school officials, named as defendants in the $50,000 lawsuit brought by L. Stuart Gibbs, refused to disclose the amount or nature of the settlement.

"The case has been settled out of court. We feel satisfied with the settlement. We feel like we've been vindicated," said Mathews High School Principal Harry Ward, one of six defendants.

Ward said both sides had agreed not to disclose settlement terms. Gibbs could not be reached for comment.

School Superintendent Gray Bradford also refused to discuss the agreement and would not say whether Gibbs would be reinstated to the faculty at Mathews High School. Reinstatement was one of the terms in the suit, filed May in U.S. District Court, Newport News.

The settlement was reached Wednesday after two days of negotiating between the two sides.

Sex Change Violates Vows, Says Judge

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Common Pleas Court judge has ruled that a wife need not support a husband who changed his sex, because the switch violated marriage vows.

Judge Samuel Rosenberg, Thursday ruled against Ms. Leslie Phillips, the former Ralph Plotkin, in her suit for support against Tamara Plotkin.

The Philadelphia couple is in the process of divorcing.

Judge Rosenberg said although common sense would indicate Tamara Plotkin was the injured party, the law requires a husband to care for a wife "who suffers either mental or physical disorder."

Phillips argued there were indications of mental disorder in the period before the sex-change operation and therefore she was entitled to support.

But Rosenberg said, "the prevailing viewpoint seems to be that transsexuals are psychologically healthy individuals."

Tamara Plotkin, he said, had entered into marriage without any idea of her husband's underlying predilection and wasn't aware until 1974 when she came home and found Ralph wearing a dress.

The Judge said in denying the petition for support that Ralph's change to Leslie was in violation of his marital contract with Tamara.

VA Says No Time Limit For GI Loan Applications

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some questions often asked of the Veterans Administration, and the answers.

•How soon after discharge from service must a veteran apply for a GI loan?

There is no time limit. All veterans who were ever eligible for this program are still eligible.

•How long can a veteran go to school under the GI bill?

The maximum is 45 months of full-time attendance. This amount is earned with 18 months of more of military service.

The first patent for false teeth was granted on March 9, 1822, to Charles Graham of New York City.

Jury Convicts Man Of Raping Estranged Wife

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — A jury convicted a 32-year-old man on Friday of raping his estranged wife, a conviction that was believed to be the first of its kind in the state.

James J. Chretien was also convicted on a related burglary charge, but was acquitted on one charge of rape and one charge of burglary. He could face up to life in prison on the rape charge. The burglary charge carries a minimum mandatory sentence of 10 years.

Judge Thomas J. Morse Jr. scheduled sentencing for Monday.

Chretien was led from the courtroom after the verdicts and taken to the Salem jail. His 32-year-old wife, Carmellina, and their 9-year-old son, James Jr., were not in the courtroom for the verdict.

The boy testified soberly for about 15 minutes Thursday as his parents watched and wept. He described an early-morning argument between his parents at his mother's Haverhill, Mass. home on Feb. 8.

At the time, the couple had been granted a divorce, but the decree was not final.

"I didn't hear them arguing when they were in the bedroom," said young James, a fourth grader. "My father dragged my mother into the bedroom."

The boy lives with his mother.

Testifying in his own defense at the three-day trial, Chretien said he entered his wife's house because he had heard screams. But he denied having intercourse with her.

Carmellina Chretien said she was raped.

The trial was the first of its kind in Massachusetts this century. In a similar trial in the 1800s, the defendant was acquitted.

District Attorney Kevin Burke called the decision a boon for battered wives.

"It is clearly a precedent-setting verdict for Massachusetts and for victims of abuse," he said. "I think it indicates that if victims of sexual abuse come forward, they can be protected by the law. No class of individual is exempt from the law if they cause other people to be abused."

Last year, John Rideout was acquitted of raping his wife, Greta, in a trial in Portland, Ore. that was believed to be the first prosecution of a man charged with raping his wife while they lived together.

Man Convicted In Shootings Of Officers

MARION, N.C. (AP) — James W. Hutchins was convicted Friday of two counts of first-degree murder and one count of second-degree murder in the deaths last May 31 of three law enforcement officers.

Hutchins, 50, sat silently through the reading of the verdict, which the jury reached after four hours of deliberation.

Hutchins was convicted of first-degree murder in the death of Rutherford County Deputy Owen Messersmith, 58, and state Highway Patrol Trooper Robert Peterson, 37, and of second-degree murder in the death of Rutherford Deputy Roy Huskey, 42.

Huskey and Messersmith were shot when they answered a disturbance call at the Hutchins home outside Rutherfordton on May 31, and Peterson was killed a short time later after he followed a car seen leaving the site of the earlier shootings.

The jury's deliberations began Friday morning after two days of testimony.

A principle prosecution witness was Charlotte Hutchins, 18, who testified that a fight between her and her father prompted her to call the sheriff's department, which sent the two deputies who were killed

Property Owners Association Facing Class Action Suit

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The city's suit against signers of Lubbock Property Owners Association petitions this summer was declared a class-action proceeding Friday and opened up to all Lubbock voters who want to participate in LPOA's efforts to have three tax limitation amendments added to the city charter.

After a 20-minute conference with District Judge William Shaver, City Attorney John Ross and LPOA counsel Warren Goss agreed to the class-action status of the suit, which city officials filed in July asking for a declaratory judgment against 10 signers of LPOA petitions seeking an election to have the amendments added to the charter.

However, the attorneys Friday decided to drop the names of seven original defendants in the suit and have the group represented by just three LPOA board members — Robert D. Green, Daniel J. Faulkner and Carroll F. Garner.

Shaver announced that the court will notify other members of the class and persons who wish to become "sub-class" members of the suit through announcements in The Avalanche-Journal and notices placed in monthly water bills.

Although Goss had filed a motion asking Shaver to dismiss the city's suit as a class action, following Friday's ruling the attorney said he was pleased with the decision to continue the suit but on a broader basis.

"This expands the classes from one group to possibly include all voters of Lubbock," Goss said. "I feel all voters will be bound by any vote that may result."

Goss said that the stipulations agreed to Friday should be filed by Wednesday, and after all parties are notified, the judge will set a hearing on the merits of the case.

Ross added that he expected all the preliminary legal procedures to be completed and a hearing set within a month.

The two attorneys squared off in Shaver's 140th District Courtroom last week to battle over whether the city has any basis for filing the suit.

At that hearing on Sept. 14, Goss argued the state court did not have jurisdiction over the issues raised in the suit, namely that various state laws establish a city's budget procedures and prevent tax limitations through petition.

Goss argued, however, that "no controversy exists concerning any statutory violations or any contested rights under any state of facts."

He added that no conflict with state law can exist unless the amendments are submitted to voters and approved, so the city's suit seeking a judgment defining the council's legal responsibilities regarding the petitioned election is improper.

After an hour of testimony last week, and studying the extensive briefs filed by Ross and Goss earlier this week, Shaver opened Friday's session with the announcement that he does have jurisdiction in the case at this point and instructed the attorneys to present evidence concerning the class-action question.

However, only three witnesses were called by the city attorney before Shaver called the recess and asked to speak with counsel in his chambers.

Ross first called city secretary-treasurer Evelyn Gaffga, who told the court she took custody of the three petitions presented to the council at its regular July 12 meeting.

The first petition, seeking a $1.12 per $100 property valuation tax levy limit, contained 3,744 valid signatures, Mrs. Gaffga said. The second petition, which would restrict the city's assessed valuation to 60 percent of the fair market value of taxable property, was signed by 3,721 registered Lubbock voters, she said.

The final petition calling for voter approval of any tax increase was signed by 3,723 registered voters, she said, adding that election code rules require petitions to have five percent of the electorate before the city can call an election. Five percent of Lubbock's voters, she said, is 3,113, thereby making the petitions valid from that standpoint.

Goss, however, questioned the differences in the total amount of valid signatures for each petition, noting that since all petitions apparently were not signed by the same people, each petition represented a separate group of petitioners.

Green, who also is president of LPOA, and Faulkner also testified Friday as to their membership in LPOA and their participation in formulating the petitions.

Both men also said they authorize any legal actions taken by Goss to have the elections called and will follow through with all necessary steps to have the proposed city charter amendments submitted to Lubbock voters.

President Woodrow Wilson was a regular golfer. He used to play in the snow with golf balls painted red.

Tech, 'Cats Rivalry Set For Final Act

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

TUCSON, Ariz. — The long, lopsided rivalry between Texas Tech and the University of Arizona apparently will come to an end here this afternoon when the Red Raiders and Wildcats collide in Arizona Stadium.

Today's meeting will be the 30th between the old Border Conference rivals. The series began in 1932 when Tech scored a 21-0 victory over the Wildcats in Lubbock. Since that time, the Raiders have lost only three games to Arizona. One game ended in a tie.

When Arizona was admitted to the Pac-10 two years ago, the Wildcats were forced to change their scheduling policy to accommodate their Pac-10 opponents. For this reason, the annual clash with Tech had to be dropped.

The tilt will begin at 1 p.m. CDT. Originally, it was scheduled to be played tonight, but earlier this week ABC-TV decided to televise the contest regionally and the starting time was moved up.

Viewers in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah are expected to see Tech and Arizona go at it.

Temperatures are expected to be above the 90-degree mark at kickoff time. The mercury could climb to 100 degrees by the time the contest comes to an end.

The Red Raiders will be looking for their second win of the 1979 season today against the Wildcats. Tech defeated New Mexico 17-7 last weekend to even its mark at 1-1 following a 21-7 setback to Southern Cal the opening Saturday of the season.

The Wildcats suffered their first loss of the year last Saturday when the California Golden Bears nipped them in the fourth quarter by a 10-7 margin. Arizona's two wins have come against Colorado State and Washington State.

"Tech is a better team than California," Arizona head coach Tony Mason said earlier this week. "They run well, throw the ball well and are a physical, tough football team.

"We'll have to be excellent to beat them, but I think we'll play a good game. We have to be excellent against everybody we play, though."

Saturday's battle will be the first road game of the season for Tech and the first and last time in '79 that the Raiders play on natural turf.

"It's different playing on grass and it can affect your players psychologically if you let it," Red Raider mentor Rex Dockery admitted. "Your receivers and backs don't feel as fast on grass. Also, we will have to wear different shoes than we are used to.

"Overall, I don't think it will be as great an adjustment for us, though, because we work out on grass quite a bit during the fall. Our practice field area is entirely grass and we work there considerably."

Tech and Arizona are similar football teams in several areas. Both squads depend on their running attacks to move the football. Both squads have strong, experienced offensive lines. Both squads have defensive units capable of making the big play when necessary.

The Wildcats depend on junior fullback Hubert Oliver in key yardage situations. Oliver (5-11, 205) is the 12th-leading rusher in the nation this week after three games, averaging 127.3 yards per outing.

Tech also depends on senior fullback James Hadnot to pave the way for the offense. Hadnot is bigger than Oliver, but his results are much the same as his Arizona counterpart.

Hadnot is the 15th-leading runner in college football with an average of 123.5 yards per game. The 6-2, 230-pounder from Jasper lugged the leather 29 times for 153 yards against New Mexico.

Arizona's offensive line is led by seniors Ron Catlin and Norm Katnik. Catlin (6-4, 260) is a three-year letterman at tackle. Katnik started all last season for Mason at center and the 6-2, 250-pounder is regarded as one of the best pivots in the Pac-10.

Seniors also make the Tech offensive front a well-respected unit. Center Joe Walstad (6-3, 255) and the quick side of the line — guard Larry Martin (5-11, 225) and tackle Ken Walter (6-4, 250) — have seven letters among them and five years of starting time. They are joined on the strong side by junior guard George Smitherman (6-2, 250) and junior tackle Mark Gesch (6-4, 270).

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Monterey and Midland didn't just get into another football game Friday night. Sonofagunandgoodgoshalmighty, they tied into a classic. . .

A real fist-clincher. . .white-knuckler. . .teeth-grinder. . .foot-stomper. . .and palm-sweater, in other words.

Midland won the contest at Lowrey Field 22-21. And it couldn't have been much tighter. If the Bulldogs had caught cold Friday night, the Plainsmen's noses probably would have run. Just look at the stats: Both teams had 16 first downs, 199 rushing and three penalties each.

The difference between the two turned out to mistakes — Monterey's, not Midland's.

The Plainsmen lost a pair of fumbles and a couple of interceptions to an alert Bulldog defense. And in the waning moments of the contest, with the result hanging by a chinstrap — and the Bulldogs marching to what-would-be the winning TD — a pass interference penalty all but spelled doom for the hosts.

"We're still making too many stupid mistakes," said Monterey coach James Odom, looking like his first assistant had just run away with his wife. "Fumbles, the interference penalty. . .they all hurt us.

"But what's tougher is to be down 14-0 and come back like we did and still lose. That's the toughest part."

After scoring what must be the most unusual touchdown in modern times, the Plainsmen had taken a 21-10 lead with 3:55 left in the game. It was the first time Monterey had led Midland since the Bulldogs took a 14-0 lead in the first-half.

With Monterey on Midland's 26, back Willie Johnson took a straight handoff from quarterback Kent Potts. After a 5-yard gain, Johnson was hit and the ball squirted 15 feet straight up into the air, a la a missile. Potts caught the loose ball on the fly and rambled around left end for the score. He added the last of three extra points, putting Monterey up by 7 points 21-14.

Midland was unable to move the ball against a strong Monterey defense on its next series of downs. And after a 61-yard punt off the foot of Russell Hays that died on the Monterey 3-yard line, Monterey took a self-inflected safety. Potts took the snap and fell into the end zone, allowing Midland to cut the lead to 21-16.

It seemed like a good move at the time. But, like that proverbial trick cigar, it backfired.

An offsides penalty on the kickoff after the safety helped Midland take over at its own 40. (On the first kick, the Bulldogs had taken over at the 40.). From that point, it took Midland only six plays to march the 51 yards for the winning score.

With just six seconds left, quarterback Michael Felot heaved a desperation pass in the direction of Hays. But Monterey's Larry Hallmann was called for the interference, setting up Midland on the 1. Then with three seconds left, Billy Applin, who'd scored the Bulldogs' first TD back in the first period, leaped over the pack and tumbled headlong into the end zone for the winning TD.

Whew.

Monterey's only hope of winning the game was to run back the ensuing kickoff for a score. But things like that only happen in Pat O'Brien movies and in coaches' dreams.

"This was a tough one (loss)," said Odom, after Monterey's first defeat of the year against a pair of wins. "It's really tough. But now we'll see what kind of character the kids here have. We have another tough one next week (against Estacado)."

The Plainsmen, who'd held a 14-game win streak over the Bulldogs heading into Friday's contest, showed signs of life in the first half after falling behind 14-0 on the 5-yard burst by Applin and a 43-yard dash by Felot.

Both Midland TDs came on cashed-in turnovers, the first a fumble recovery by Royce Cottrell, the second on an interception by Rick Ankerholz. But with 2:25 left before the break, Potts sneaked over from the 1 to give Monterey its first score. The TD had been set up after Monte McCright had recovered an Applin fumble on the 35.

Johnson, who ended the game with 145 yards — his third straight 100-yard performance this year — scored with 15 seconds left in the third quarter to tie the game at 14-all. Johnson scored on a swan dive after fine blocks by center Mike Gregg and the right side of the MHS line — Brent Lowrey and Charles Robinson.

Then the fourth-quarter fireworks were unpacked.

The win leaves the Bulldogs with a perfect 3-0 mark for the year. Midland will take the week off before starting District 5-AAAA next Friday night.

Chaparrals Ready For Tarleton State

By DON HENRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Buddy Fornes sees his Tarleton State defense as getting stronger by the week. Jerry Don Sanders feels its plenty strong right now.

But today, Lubbock Christian College will test its recently gained scoring talents against Tarleton's defense as the two teams collide at Coronado High School field.

Kickoff is set for 2 p.m.

The visiting Texans were ranked fourth in the nation at the close of the 1979 season and filled that same spot in the NAIA Div. II preseason poll. However, a 17-13 loss to Austin College cost them that lofty spot in their '79 season opener.

However, last week TSU rebounded to clip Sul Ross 15-8 and this week Tarleton climbed to 17th spot in the national rankings.

Fornes and Sanders agree that defense has played a major role in Tarleton's comeback.

"I think we will be a good ball club," Fornes remarked this week. "We have a lot of young folks up front. But they're learning the ropes now and I think we will be getting stronger and stronger."

"They seem to execute their offense well. But probably, defense is probably their strongest point right now.

"They look to be stronger against the run than the pass, but of course, in the film we saw, Austin College passed 40 some-odd times against them.

"I feel we are as ready as we can be," added the Chaparral coach. "It'll be a matter of our execution against their strength.

"I think we have more confidence now in what we're doing. We're a little more ready to get after somebody now, because we know it can be done."

This confidence came after thumping Regio-Montana, a team from Monterrey, Mexico, 47-0 here last week. That was the school's first win after lopsided losses to McMurry and Sul Ross.

Tarleton whipped Sul Ross 15-8 just a week after Sul Ross drubbed the Chaparrals 47-0 in Alpine.

While LCC's quarterback situation settled somewhat last week, Tarleton's leadership position remains in the hands of a reserve. However, Greg Edwards stepped in and led the Texans to the win over Sul Ross.

After returnee Shelby Weight, the TIAA's offensive player of the year in 1979, decided not to return to school, Fornes moved up Dan Smalley. But Smalley sustained a hamstring muscle pull in the Austin College game, and it hasn't responded well enough to let him return to the lineup.

LCC will go with Kent Allison, who played the first half in the Mexico game.

Both teams could rely on their runners, LCC going to Ted Thornton and Marvin Wiley and Tarleton to Henry Mills and Ricky Bush. Mills is the starter at halfback, and he has picked up 118 yards in two games. Bush plays behind him but he picked up 54 yards rushing against Sul Ross.

Wiley is LCC's leading rusher, after picking up 102 yards against Regio-Montana.

In other Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association action, Austin College and McMurry will tangle in Sherman this afternoon for the league lead. AC is 2-0 with wins over defending champion Tarleton and Trinity, and McMurry has beaten Trinity.

In the day's other league game, Trinity will play at Sul Ross.

Next week, LCC will go to Sherman to play Austin.

Bovina Embarasses Sons, 'Horns 60-0

It was that kind of night as Lazbuddie outrushed and outpassed the visiting Bovina Mustangs but just couldn't put any points on the scoreboard.

Bovina won the game 6-0.

Bovina wasted no time in putting its points on the board, connecting on a first-quarter touchdown pass of 16 yards from end Lynn Read to end Freddie Quiroga. The dipsy doodle play had to hold up, with the attempt for 2 points on the conversion failing.

Lazbuddie had 169 yards rushing and 88 yards passing. Bovina had 116 yards on the ground and 43 yards passing. But it should be added the Longhorns threw two interceptions and lost three fumbles.

Meadow Upends Ropes On Safety

ROPES (Special) — The Meadow Broncos capitalized on a fourth period Meadow fumble and tackled the Ropes' quarterback in the end zone for a safety to pull out a 9-6 victory.

Ropes scored once in the third quarter when they blocked a Meadow punt and recovered it in the end zone.

Three Way Trips Patton Springers

PATTON SPRINGS (Special) — Three Way's Eagles kept their season record unblemished here Friday night, primarily on the strength of a 21-point third quarter, taking a 48-36 win over Patton Springs.

Patton Springs' 20-point fourth quarter almost made it close anyway, and the final statistical edge for Three Way in total yards was 500-490.

CTK Drubs Loraine 37-16

LORAINE (Special) — Christ the King quarterback Darrell Kitten completed nine of 13 passes for 180 yards to complement a 266-yard Trojan rushing game as CTK defeated Loraine 37-16 Friday night.

The Trojan defense played its role in the win, limiting Loraine to only 92 yards rushing and picking off three interceptions.

Loop 'Horns Edge Ira 'Dogs 26-22

IRA (Special) — The Loop Longhorns squeaked out a narrow victory over the Ira Bulldogs by a score of 26-22 Friday night.

Loop saw touchdowns scored by Alan Freeman on a 16-yard run, Bert Gibson on a 10-yard pass play, Darran Ancinet on a 50-yard run and Cameron Press on an 8-yard pass. The Bulldogs stayed close, however, thanks to Robert Mitchell's 65-yard pass reception, Darryl Carley's 15-yard pass reception and A.D. Thillit's 5-yard scamper to the end zone with but 5:14 left in the contest.

Loop was nine of 15 passing, and Ira was 3-11. Neither quarterback threw an interception.

Patriots Blow Past Spur Bulldogs 60-0

TURKEY (Special) — The hometown Patriots bullied the Spur Bulldogs 60-0, shooting out 404 yards on the ground to only 63 for the visiting team.

In the first of 21 points in the first period, Patriot back Terry Brittin scored on a 43-yard run, followed by a 2-point conversion on a pass from Rod Carpenter to Dee Dowd.

Valley's fullback Ray Williams padded that on a 3-yard scoring run, with Johnny Cotton kicking the PAT. Tailback James McNary struck again from 3 yards out, but the kick failed.

Odessa Rides Past Hobbs Eagles 35-0

ODESSA (Special) — Odessa's Bronchos put together drives of 59, 69, 72, 36 and 75 yards here Friday night to score five TDs and put a 35-0 pasting on the Hobbs Eagles.

The Bronchos now stand 3-0 for the season, while Hobbs drops to 0-3.

Odessa hit the scoreboard twice in the first period with fullbck Jim Harris and halfback Trey Hawkins each taking the ball the last 3 yrds for TDs. With PAT kicks by Terry Connally, it was 14-0.

Halfback Jordie Mason carried the ball the last 3 yards for the third TD, in the third period, and fullback Greg Adams scored the fourth TD from a yard out in the fourth quarter.

Klondike Destroys Garden City 61-0

GARDEN CITY (Special) — The Klondike Cougars completely destroyed the Garden City Bearcats 61-0.

The Cougars picked up 26 first downs, 214 yards and 69 yards passing, and held the Bearcats to five first downs, 30 yards rushing and 40 yards passing.

Andrews Nudges Seminole 29-21

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

ANDREWS — The Andrews Mustangs and the Seminole Indians traded points here Friday night like housewives trade Green Stamps on Wednesday.

But in the end, it was two big defensive plays by backup Mustang tackle Ray Romo that provided Andrews with the margin of victory.

The Class AAA Mustangs took a wild 29-21 victory from the Class AA Indians to stay undefeated at 3-0. Seminole fell 2-1 with the loss.

First, Romo picked off a Seminole fumble in midair and raced 41 yards for a touchdown to tie the score 13-13 in the second period. Then, in the fourth quarter, Romo blocked an Indian punt that gave the Mustangs the ball at their own 24, and Andrews cashed it in for the final touchdown of the night.

"Our starting quick tackle (George Gonzales) hurt his arm this week," explained Andrews coach Bill Shipman. "So this was Romo's first time to play. He had trouble against the run — but he sure didn't have any trouble with the big plays."

And Seminole also made plenty of big plays, namely on kickoff returns. Jim Hill, who gained 110 yards on 11 carries for the Indians, also broke loose for a 61-yard TD romp in the second period to give the visitors a short-lived lead.

The Indians dominated a wild first half and led 21-19 at the intermission. But the AHS defense shut them out in the second half.

None the less, the game was plenty close.

The Mustangs wound up with 280 yards of total offense, 278 for Seminole. Indian tailback Ricky Green led all rushers with 117 yards on 16 carries.

Andrews' Van Pearcy had 109 yards on 20 totes, including a 48-yard touchdown burst.

"Our defense was kind of erratic in the first half," admitted Shipman. "Plus Seminole just played super. But, I thought our defense came around in the second half."

The Mustangs also stopped kicking to the Indians' deep men, who were averaging more than 40 yards a return.

"Yeah, we quit that," said a grinning Shipman. "That was sort of like playing with a stick of dynamite with a short fuse."

Seminole's Wes Womble set the tone for the contest when he took the opening kickoff and raced 91 yards to the Andrews' 6-yard line. Two plays later, quarterback Mike Grass carried in his first TD to make it 6-0.

The PAT was good.

The Seminole lead didn't last long though. Van Pearcy went 60 yards on two carries, and after the PAT, it was 7-7. The game not even two minutes old.

But the Indians' Ricky Green matched Pearcy's efforts with a 53-yard burst of his own on Seminole's first play from scrimmage. But the drive failed when Kirk Jackson was wide on a 21-yard field goal attempt.

But the Indians were not to be denied. After David Kelly recovered a Pearcy fumble, Grass scooted 18 yards around end for the TD. The kick failed, and Seminole led 13-7.

Things calmed down a bit until Romo picked off the fumble and scored his big touchdown.

But the kick was wide, and the score mained even.

Then, with 48 seconds left in the half, Seminole's Hill burst for his 61-yard score. Grass ran for the 2-point conversion to put the Indians up by eight.

But here Friday night, 48 seconds could last a lifetime. Sophomore quarterback Keith Brooks returned the kickoff 69 yards to the Seminole 29.

Then, he connected on two straight passes, the last a touchdown to Robbie Jones with 21 seconds left to put Andrews back in the game 21-19.

Kicker Van Eisenbach connected on a 23-yard field goal early in the third quarter to put Andrews ahead to stay.

Hornets Shut Out Visiting Bulldogs

SUDAN (Special) — The hometown Hornets stung the visiting Anton Bulldogs 21-0, scoring 7 points in the second quarter and 14 in the third period.

Following a scoreless first quarter, Sudan's back Victor King ran into the pay dirt from 40 yards out and the PAT was good by John Chester. King scored again in the third quarter on a 17-yard gallop, and Chester's kick also was good with 3:40 left in the period.

With 1:18 left in the same period, Sudan back Joey Bellar scored on a 35-yard run and Chester again made it over the goal post.

Pirates Win On Indian Miscues

MORTON (Special) — The Morton Indians took a strong stance in the first half Friday night in their football game with Cooper, only to lose their grip and fumble away the game in the second half 20-14.

The win puts the Cooper Pirates at 2-1 for the season, while Morton drops to 1-1-1.

Quarterback Billy Cadenhead scored on a quarterback sneak after a 67-yard drive in the first quarter for Morton, and David Moore scored from 7 yards out in the second period for the Indians, and Moore's two PAT kicks put them up 14-0 at the half.

The second half featured seven Morton fumbles.

Cooper quarterback Lynn Smith passed to tight end Brady Tipton 7 yards after a fumble for Cooper's first TD. Mike

Kemp recovered a Morton fumble and then ran it in from 20 yards out for the second Pirate TD. A 2-point conversion (Smith to Tipton) knotted the score. Then Cooper recovered a Morton fumble on the Indian 42-yard line, and a Smith-to-Brady Tipton pass for 20 yards was the difference.

Cooper led in rushing yardage 190-90 and in first downs 16-11 but trailed in passing yardage 74-47.

Third-Period Scores Give New Deal Win

NEW DEAL (Special) — The New Deal High School Lions came from behind in the third quarter to score two touchdowns and beat the Roosevelt Eagles 14-7.

Roosevelt scored its touchdown in the first quarter when running back Ganthius Caraway ran the ball in from the 1-yard line. The kick by Junior Vasquez was good, and after a scoreless second half, the Eagles led at halftime 7-0.

Early in the third quarter, however, New Deal tied the game when running back Bill Thiel scored a touchdown on an 8-yard run. The kick was made by Martin Adams.

Thiel scored again in the third quarter to put the Lions ahead when he ran the ball in from 4 yards out. The extra point kick by Adams again was good.

The New Deal defense proved itself in the fourth quarter when the Lion punter dropped the ball on his own 11-yard line. But the defense prevented Roosevelt from scoring.

Sundown Pulverized By Plains 42-0

PLAINS (Special) — Plains quarterback James McElroy threw for three touchdowns and rushed for almost 100 yards Friday night as the Cowboys pulverized the Sundown Roughnecks 42-0.

Plains' first period score came on a 3-yard run by tailback Matt Barron but the extra point failed.

McElroy hit end Alan Bell for a 4-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter and hit Wayne Davis later on a 10-yard pass to score. Davis also passed to wingback David Huerta for a 33-yard touchdown play.

Plains Cowboys only third quarter score was a 10-yard McElroy pass to Huerta for the score.

Matt Barron scored the Cowboys' last touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 1-yard run.

Although Plains lost two fumbles, they rushed for 233 yards and passed for 91 to give them a 1-2 record for the season. The Roughnecks are also 1-2.

Wildcats 'Offensive' To Friona

FRIONA (Special) — Amarillo River Road rolled up nearly 400 yards of offense and outlasted the host Friona Chieftains here Friday in a thrilling 27-20 match of AA teams.

Friona scored first halfway through the first quarter on a 1-yard run from halfback Rod Owen. Mark Montoya added the extra point.

But The Wildcats from Amarillo rallied back, scoring two touchdowns in three minutes, and a third only four minutes later.

The first River Road score came on a 6-yard pass from Pat Rogers to Nelson Morton, while fullback David Webb bulled over from 2 yards out for the second.

That score was set up when River Road recovered a fumbled kick deep in Chieftain territory. Rogers hit tight end Paul Tarbet for the third score, and also the 2-point conversion, giving the Wildcats at 20-7 halftime lead.

Friona scored twice in the second half, on a 78-yard pass from Joe Malouf to Owen, and a 25-yard run by Chuck Nichols. Montoya added an extra point, but a 2-yard run by Wildcat halfback Hunter Hartsfield, and the ensuing extra point by Don Lackey iced the game.

Snyder Plows Past Big Spring 28-0

BIG SPRING (Special) — The Snyder Tigers snowed under the Big Spring Steers Friday 28-0.

The Steers took the opening kickoff and returned the ball to the Snyder 14-yard line. However, five plays later a Steer runner fumbled the ball on the 1-yard line and the Tigers recovered. That was as close as the Steers came to scoring.

Snyder scored its first touchdown late in the second quarter when quarterback Mike Roemisch ran the ball in from 4 yards out. Sam Willis kicked the extra point.

After the Tigers recovered another Big Spring fumble on their own 23-yard line, fullback Bobby Degrade ran the ball in from the 15-yard line. Willis kicked the extra point, and the Tigers led at halftime 14-0.

Snyder's other two touchdowns came in the third quarter when tailback Keith McClaine scored from 48 yards out and safety Bryan Vincent interecepted a Steer pass and raced 36 yards for a TD. Both extra point attempts were good.

Panthers Slip Past Wildcats 17-13

WINK (Special) — After the Wink Wildcats scored on the first play of the game, the Jal, N.M. Panthers came back to win 17-13.

After the opening kickoff, Wink quarterback Gayland Richardson threw a 68-yard scoring strike to Steven Esquivel. The extra point was kicked by Donnie Graves.

Jal scored again with 33 seconds left in the half when quarterback Allen Dobbs threw a 5-yard touchdown pass to Craig Summers. The kick by Velesco was good, and Jal lead 10-7 at the half.

After a scoreless third quarter, Jal scored again on a 30-yard pass from Dobbs to Summers. Velasco kicked the extra point, and Jal was ahead 17-7.

Smyer Shuts Out Dawson 23-0

Smyer scored first early in the game when Smyer defensive end Bruce Fowler blocked a Dawson punt and ran it back 20 yards for a touchdown.

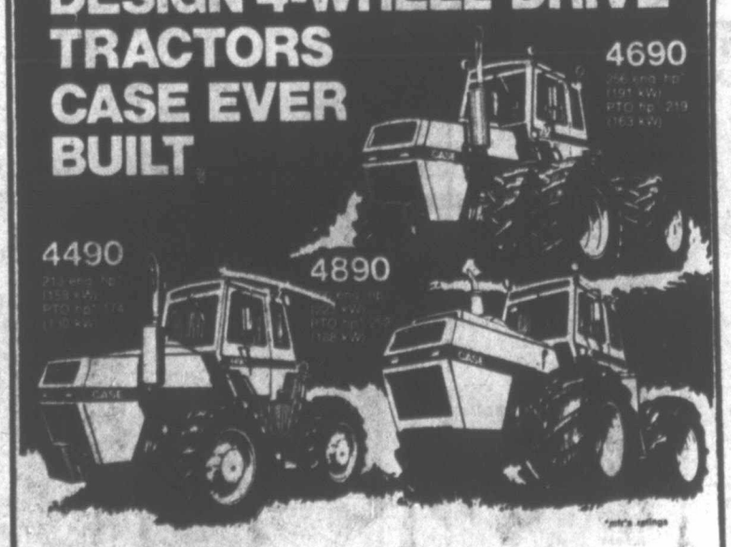

In the second period, Bobcat slotback William Mosley ran back a 92-yard punt and Dennis Scott added a 36-yard field goal.

The Dragons and the Bobcats now are 1-2 for the season.

Littlefield-Slaton Showdown Ends In 0-0 Tie

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

SLATON — What was supposed to be a classic offensive showdown between the Nos. 2 and 3 Class AA teams on the South Plains got sidetracked somewhere between the opening kickoff and the final gun.

Instead, Littlefield and Slaton fought to a 0-0 tie in a defensive battle of epic proportions.

There were a few too many mistakes for the game to considered a classic, but when the referee raised his hands over his head, signalling the game's end, there was an expectant hush over the crowd. It was as if everybody wanted to stay for one more period.

Both coaches pointed to their own team's mistakes as the keys to the game. For Slaton, there were four fumbles, for Littlefield, several key drops and two missed field goals.

But the real key to the game was how well each team took away the other's offensive strengths.

Slaton shut down Littlefield's vaunted passer Eddie Gregory about as much as possible, limiting him to only 10 completions out of 28 attempts for 105 yards.

Littlefield, on the other hand, limited Slaton's Lance Bownds to 115 yards rushing on 17 carries, 73 of them coming on a pair of fourth-quarter long gainers.

Those last 12 minutes were whoppers.

First, Slaton had the ball. Moving from their own 27, the Tigers got a big break when Bownds popped up the middle and sprinted away from the field. Only a last effort by defensive back Joseph Ayala stopped him from scoring. As it was, he picked up 49 yards and moved the ball deep into Littlefield territory.

The drive was apparently stymied when, after a 5-yard penalty and a 9-yard loss on a quarterback sack by blitzing linebacker Dale Demel, Slaton faced a third and 18 at its own 43.

But running back Jesse Titus, hobbled all season with an ankle injury, burst through the line on a draw play, picked up blocks as he cut to the sideline, and bulled the ball down to the Littlefield 16 for a gain of 27 and a first down.

Three plays gained 4 yards and, with a fourth down at the 12, Slaton head coach Ed Cook sent in the placekicker, Troy Moses. But one of the onrushing Wildcats got a hand on the field-goal try, deflecting it enough that it fell harmlessly in the corner of the end zone.

Now it was Littlefield's turn.

Moving from their own 20, the Wildcats picked up 3 on a run up the middle. Then Gregory, who had completed only two of his last 11 attempts, found Ruben Torres cutting across the middle on a post pattern for 32 yards.

A pair of runs gained 3 yards and then disaster apparently struck. Slaton defensive back Charles Phenix cut in front of Gregory's intended receiver and picked off the pass. Only problem was there was a flag upfield — offsides against the Tigers, nullifying the turnover.

Instead of losing the ball, Littlefield had a third and 2 at the Slaton 37. Torres gained 1. Fourth down and a yard to go with only 5:55 left. Gregory, not noted as a runner, plunged for 3 yards and the first.

On the next play he was forced out of the pocket and scrambled for 7 more. Michael Williams carried twice for 11 yards and Littlefield had a second down and 2 at the Slaton 15.

Torres turned the corner to the 7 on a reverse but an offsides penalty took it back. On the next two plays the Wildcats were held to only 2 yards.

That brought up a fourth and 5 at the 18 with only 1:58 showing.

Littlefield kicker David Smith, who had earlier missed badly on an attempt of 21 yards, came on to try a 34-yarder.

The snap was good, the hold solid and Smith stroked smoothly through the ball, sending it arcing high toward the goalposts. A silence blanketed the crowd as it waited for the referee's decision, then bedlam broke loose on the Slaton side as he waved it off, wide to the left.

"Our fumbles just really did kill us," said Slaton coach Cook. "I thought we did a great job of taking away their passing game. We tried to put more pressure on the quarterback.

"We couldn't shoot our linebackers very often because we really respected their run, so we had to try to just turn the ends loose on the rush.

"I don't think our kids stood in awe of them, but we did respect them. We think of them as one of the class teams in the area."

Littlefield's Jerry Blakely echoed similar sentiments.

"Number one, we played a great football team, particularly a great defensive football team," Blakely said. "I was very proud of our defensive linemen too. I wasn't sure our ball club would be able to stand up the their physical running game.

"We made too many mistakes to win, that's all. I thought we played 48 minutes with all of our hearts, but unfortunately not our heads."

Hereford Sneaks Past Borger 14-13

HEREFORD (Special) — Hereford quarterback Derek Dirks hit Felix Soliz for a touchdown and a 2-point conversion with only nine seconds left as the Whitefaces snatched a thrilling comeback, 14-13 victory from the Borger Bulldogs here Friday.

The Whitefaces took possesion at their own 20-yard line with only 1:10 remaining and marched 80 yards in six plays, five of which were passes. Dirks hit Soliz to tie the game on a 27-yard pass, and the pair teamed again for the extra points.

After a scoreless first quarter, Hereford running back Joe Walker streaked 85 yards with 8:50 remaining in the half, but the try for the extra point failed.

The third quarter also was scoreless, and the Bulldogs extended their lead to 13-6 on a 4-yard run by Wendell Holland with 4:05 left in the contest. That extra point try failed, opening the door for Hereford's last-minute heroics.

Hereford totalled 284 total yards to 23 for Borger, but suffered greatly with the loss of two fumbles. Borger fumbled three times but recovered each time.

The victory is Hereford's second of the season while the loss drops Borger to 1-1.

Childress Slashes Paducah 47-0

PADUCAH (Special) — Though they were penalized 13 times for 125 yards, the Childress Bobcats gained 355 yards on the ground and embarassed the hometown Dragons in a 47-0 thrashing.

The Dragons scored three times in the opening period, the first coming when back Ralph Sims went over from 5 yards out. Perry Morren kicked the PAT.

In the second quarter, Sims went over from the 3-yard line and Morren kicked the PAT. Bobcat back Craig Clifton snatched up a 25-yard pass from quarterback Barry Johnson to score the second TD in the second period. Morren's kick was good.

In the final period, the Dragons managed to hold the Bobcats to only 7 points when Morren scored on a 3-yard run and Morren's foot again was acurate.

Paducah was good for 204 ground yards, but lost three fumbles and was penalized five times for 34 yards.

Wolverines, Mustangs Tie 6-6

SHALLOWATER (Special) — Springlake-Earth and Shallowater battled to a 6-6 deadlock here as both teams missed extra point attempts that could have won the game.

Shallowater scored first as Mustang split back Rodney Jackson scamped 23 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter.

Both teams came up with outstanding defensive plays at crucial times in the game. Springlake-Earth staged a strong goal line stand at their own one-inch line to thwart a Mustang drive as the first half ran out, while Shallowater defensive back Norbe Anaya picked off a Wolverine pass at his own 5-yard line late in the game to shut down SPE's final offensive threat.

Buffs Sneak Past Tough Kangaroos

KRESS (Special) — The Kress Kangaroos got on the scoreboard first Friday night, thanks to a 36-yard field goal by Henry Amador in the first quarter. But it wasn't enough, as the Petersburg Buffaloes stampeded back for a narrow 20-17 victory.

Fullback Mike Phillips' 4-yard run and two dramatic scoring tosses by quarterback Todd Shurbet to wingback Quentin Berry — the first for 67 yards and the second for 20 — provided the Petersburg scoring.

Down 20-9 in the fourth period, the Kangaroos fought back with a 27-yard touchdown scamper by Henry Amador. The conversion run by Glenn Terrell narrowed the gap to 3 points. But they were not to score again.

The Buffaloes ended the night with 268 yards rushing and 44 yards passing. Kress had 186 yards rushing and 59 yards passing. Phillips had 147 yards rushing for the victorious Buffaloes.

New Home Pounds Whiteface 57-6

NEW HOME (Special) — New Home's Ricky Roberson took the opening kickoff Friday night and scampered for an 85 yard return to paydirt, setting the scene for what would turn out to be a 57-6 slaughter of the Whiteface Antelopes.

The Leopards put 37 points on the scoreboard in the first half, and the entire total of 57 before Whiteface staved off a whitewash with a late fourth-quarter score by Goose Saens.

Scoring for the Leopards was relatively even. Roberson wound up with three touchdowns, Robert Estrada had two, Stoney Gill had two, and Mickey Kieth and Bob Villarreal both had one.

Chee Paces Grady To 38-32 Win

GRADY (Special) — Grady halfback Ronald Chee rushed for 221 yards to pace the Wildcats past the Highland Hornets 38-32.

Grady survived a 12-point fourth quarter rally by the Hornets and racked up 437 yards rushing to give them a 3-0 record for tha year.

Grady scored first in the second quarter on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Larry Key to tight end Leandro Gonzales and Chee scored on a 3-yard run.

Highland got on the board twice on a 9-yard run by fullback Monte Richburg and a 32-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Jones to split end Larry Owens. Grady also scored on a 9-yard pass from Key to Gonzales and a 1-yard run by Chee to make it 26-14 at the half.

Ralls Upends Happy 24-20

HAPPY (Special) — The Happy Cowboys weren't all that happy after losing a close one to the Ralls Jackrabbits and remain winless in three outings early in the season.

The Jackrabbits racked up 24 points to Happy's 20. The first score in the game came in the second quarter when Ralls quarterback Keith Webb threw a scoring 12-yard pass to end Abel Garcia.

Ralls struck again in the second period when fullback Harold Anderson went over from 4 yards out. Both PATs in the second quarter failed.

It was Happy's turn in the third quarter, after quarterback Scott Railsback threw a 24-yard TD pass to end Ralphe Shipman with 8:25 left in the period. The Cowboys cashed in again in the same period on a Railsback-Shipman combination from 9 yards out.

Both extra point trys were good by Peewee Moore.

But it was Ralls again in the final period when Webb threw a 3-yard scoring pass to Garcia. The 2-point conversion failed. With 9:40 left in the game, Webb leaped over the goal line from 1-yard out, but again the point after failed.

Lobos Down Tors 18-10

LAMESA (Special) — The visiting Levelland Lobos came through in the final period, scoring 12 points, to run past the Lamesa Golden Tornados by a 18-10 margin.

With 6:44 left in the first period, Lamesa was the first to strike when back Tony Maxwell went over from 2 yards out, capping a 72-yard drive. Lamesa fullback Will Wright's PAT was good.

Levelland came back with only 21 seconds left in the opening period when quarterback Steve Caddell struck from 7 yards out, but the extra point failed.

With 54 seconds left in the half, Lamesa's Wright kicked a 26-yard field goal to give his team a 10-6 lead into the locker room.

But, following a scoreless third quarter, the Lobos were the only ones to score in the final period, the first coming when Caddel leaped over from the 1-yard line. Their 2-point conversion try was no good.

With only seconds to go, Lamesa tried a field goal, but it failed and Lobo defensive player Ron Anderson picked up the ball and ran it all the way back to score from 85 yards out.

Floydada Powers Past Post 20-7

FLOYDADA (Special) — Backed by fullback Mac Collins' 30 carries for 210 yards and one touchdown — not to mention two dramatic scoring strikes from quarterback Troy Marquis to split end Tracy Womack — the Floydada Whirlwinds beat the Post Antelopes 20-7 Friday in a game that was not as close as the score indicated.

Floydada found itself stopped by its own mistakes in a scoreless second quarter, losing three fumbles to the visiting Antelopes.

But the final statistics saw Floydada grinding out an awesome 329 yards on the ground and 70 yards in the air. Meanwhile, Post totalled 47 yards rushing and 81 yards passing.

Post drew first blood in the game with a first-quarter, 32-yard pass from quarterback Drew Kirkpatrick to tight end Mark Holly. But the Larry Rodriguez conversion was the last bit of Antelope scoring offense for the night.

Swifts Resist Longhorns 7-0

NAZARETH (Special) — The Nazareth Swifts scored a first period touchdown and resisted a fourth-quarter comeback by the Hart Longhorns to win 7-0.

Nazareth's score came with 4:22 left in the first quarter on a 2-yard run by Bryan Huseman, which was set up on a 16-yard run by quarterback John Steffens. Huseman kicked the extra point.

The Longhorns had a chance late in the game when they had the ball deep in Nazareth territory. But Hugh Wilhelm intercepted a Hart pass and the Swifts ran out the clock for the victory.

The Longhorns are now 1-2 for the season and the Swifts are 1-2.

Muleshoe Tramples Hornets 24-0

TULIA (Special) — Muleshoe Quarterback Mike Northcutt ran for two touchdowns and threw for another as he led the Mules to a 24-0 win over the Tulia Hornets.

Northcutt scored on a 2-yard run late in the first quarter and on another 2-yard run early in the second. Both conversion attempts failed.

The Mules scored again late in the second quarter when Zeke Pecina ran 4 yards for a touchdown. Again, the conversion attempt failed, and the Mules lead 18-0 at halftime.

Pecina scored on another 4-yard run in third quarter and then Northcutt threw a 32-yard touchdown pass to split end Jim Norman.

Muleshoe is now 2-1 for the season, while Tulia is 1-2.

Antelopes Beat Owls In Squeaker 13-12

ABERNATHY (Special) — The Abernathy Antelopes squeezed out a 13-12 win over the Hale Center Owls Friday after running back Sylvester Dunn scored on a 6-yard run late in the third quarter.

Abernathy, whose season record is now 2-0-1, scored first in the first quarter when Dunn ran the ball into the end zone from 21 yards out, but then fumbled the ball and had it recovered by his teamate, tight end Dean McGuire. The extra point kick by Willie Betts was good, and the Antelopes lead 7-0 at the half.

Hale Center came back to score again early in the fourth quarter when Compton ran the ball in from 12 yards out.

Longhorns Lose Basketball Player

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Wade Blundell, a 6-6 forward from New Orleans, has notified University of Texas coaches he is quitting basketball because he has lost interest in the game and is dropping out of school.

"The fun is gone," Blundell told the Austin American-Statesman.

Blundell, a sophomore business major, said he probably will enroll in a school close to home.

Despite an outstanding record at New Orleans' Rummel High — hitting on 67.1 percent of his field goals and 88.7 percent of his free throws as a senior — he played only sparingly at Texas last year.

Idalou Grinds Out 26-6 Victory Over Frenship

By RANDALL PERRY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

IDALOU — When you find the situation getting unsteady, it's best to just take the ball and shove it down the other guy's throats.

The saying may be as old as the game of football, but the Idalou Wildcats found themselves in such a situation here Friday night.

Carrying a comfortable 13-0 lead, the Wildcats were surprised by a lightning-quick 80-yard drive by the scrappy Frenship Fighting Tigers late in the third quarter.

Finding its lead cut to 13-6 and momentum clearly shifting to Frenship, Idalou calmly put together two ground-oriented, fourth-quarter drives to come away with an easy 26-6 victory over Frenship.

Except for Frenship's third-quarter flash, Idalou clearly controlled the game, grinding out 20 first downs and 269 yards on the ground. Frenship, meanwhile, could garner only 168 yards of total offense, with nearly half of it coming on the long drive.

"That game was a lot closer than the score indicates," a happy Ritchey said after the game. "With a break here or there they could have easily won. They have a fine team."

Indeed the Tigers did quieten the partisan Wildcat crowd with the blitzkrieg drive which took only six plays to complete.

But Idalou came right back with a 17-play, 74-yard drive, culminated by a 1-yard plunge by workhorse fullback Ruben Reyes, who carried the ball 31 times for 187 yards and three touchdowns.

Idalou put the game on ice when Frenship fumbled on its own 38. Nine plays later quarterback Brad DeBusk hit reserve halfback Gary Fabila on a fourth-down pass from the 2-yard line.

"It wasn't a matter of our kids waking up to a critical situation," Ritchey explained of the two fourth-quarter drives. "We just got our offense together."

Because of the torrential downpour just before the opening kickoff, the game was marred by 12 fumbles, six of which were lost, four by Frenship and two by Idalou.

Idalou picked up its first score with 3:09 left in the first quarter. Reyes scored the 6-pointer when he bulled in from the five, climaxing a six-play, 53-yard drive. Big plays in the drive were a 16-yard run by Reyes and 21-yard run by halfback Alan Emery, who also booted two of three extra-point tries.

The Wildcats scored again on a 4-yard run up the middle by Reyes with 6:29 left in the half. The score was set up by a 40-yard punt return by Emery, who picked up 70 yards on 11 carries while running out of the tailback position in Idalou's I-formation attack.

Frenship surprised the slumbering Wildcat defense with its 80-yard drive in the third quarter. The big play in the drive was a 41-yard pass from reserve quarterback Ken Attaway to split end Todd James to the Idalou 27.

A 15-yard run by fullback John Johnson set up the touchdown, a 12-yard sprint by tailback Eddie Muniz.

Idalou came right back with its back-to-back drives. The first drive, a 74-yarder, was a perfect example of the I-formation at its best. If Reyes was not bulling his way up the middle, DeBusk was either keeping the ball himself out of the option or pitching it to Emory just as he was fixing to get clobbered by a Frenship end or linebacker.

It took Idalou four tries from the 2-yard line to score, with the touchdown, a scrambling 2-yard pass from DeBusk to Fubila, coming with only 27 seconds left in the game.

"I'm satisfied with the kids," Ritchey said. "If we can play 48 minutes of consistent football we'll be all right. But we'll have to be consistent, because there are several fine teams in our district."

Idalou kept its season record unblemished at 3-0 while Frenship's record dropped to 1-2.

Cubs Sneak By Denver City 7-6

DENVER CITY (Special) — In what had to be a heart-breaking loss before the home fans, the Denver City Mustangs outrushed and outpassed the visiting Brownfield Cubs — but missed on a second quarter conversion and came up on the short end on the scoreboard by a 7-6 count.

Both teams now stand with 1-2 records for the season.

Brownfield wasted no time in capitalizing on a big break in the first quarter. On the first play from scrimmage, Denver City fumbled and Brownfield recovered on the Mustangs' 19-yard line. Then, on the Cubs' first play from scrimmage, Cub quarterback Kelly Reid tossed a 19-yard scoring strike to tight end Kevin Billings.

Denver City halfback Bruce Speights brought the Mustangs back with a 3-yard sweep into the end zone in the second quarter. But the Mustangs then decided to go for 2 on the conversion — and the ground attempt was stopped short.

Dimmitt Falls To Tahoka 21-6

DIMMITT (Special) — The Tahoka High School Bulldogs belted the Dimmitt Bobcats 21-6 Friday and evened their season record to 1-1. The Bobcats suffered their third straight loss.

Tahoka scored late in the first quarter when fullback Clifford Oages ran around right end on a 9-yard touchdown run. Kevin Elmore kicked the extra point, and the Bulldogs lead at the end of the quarter 7-0.

The Bulldogs scored again in the second quarter when quarterback Todd Brown ran 21 yards on a keeper to score. The extra point kick was good, and the Bulldogs led at the half 14-0.

Dimmitt got its only score in the third quarter when fullback Jimmy Stewart ran 41 yards for a touchdown. The pass for the extra points fell incomplete.

Tahoka's final touchdown came in the fourth quarter when fullback Oages ran the ball in from 25 yards out. Elmore kicked the extra point.

Clovis Blanks Palo Duro 9-0

AMARILLO (Special) — The Clovis, N.M. Wildcats upped their season record to 3-0 Friday by shutting out the Palo Duro Dons 9-0 Friday.

After a scoreless first quarter in which Clovis lost a fumble and had a pass intercepted, the Wildcats scored about halfway through the second quarter when halfback Gene Shelton ran the ball in from the 3 yard-line. The extra point kick missed, and the Wildcats led 6-0.

Defense dominated the third quarter, as again neither team could score. Then, late in the fourth quarter, kicker Jay Wright booted a 32-yard field goal to give Clovis a 9-0 lead.

The leading rusher for Clovis was fullback J.R. Houston, who ran 13 times and gained 112 yards.

Aspermont Pulls Ahead Of Jayton

ASPERMONT (Special) — Jayton's Jaybirds pulled out to an early 6-0 lead in the first quarter, but a pair of TDs by the Aspermont halfbacks Marvin Louis and Ned Swink put the home team in the win column Friday night 14-6.

The Hornets also snared a pair of interceptions to aid the winning cause, Aspermont's third in a row without a loss for this season.

Jayton falls to 1-1-1.

Jayton's Patrick Parker scored a TD from 3 yards out for the Jaybirds' sole TD of the night, and the PAT failed.

Louis scored from a yard out in the second quarter, and Terry Hayes' first of two good PAT kicks for the night made it 7-6. Swink went in for the final TD from 1 yard out in the final stanza and Hayes' boot made it 14-6.

Aspermont led in first downs 14-8, in yards rushing 206-109 and interceptions 2-0 while Jayton led in yards passing 28-13.

Lockney Dumps Olton 21-0

OLTON (Special) — Lockney tailback Junior McDonald snatched the ball on the opening kickoff and ran it back 100 yards to score to lead his Longhorn team to a 21-0 victory over the Olton Mustangs.

Following the early first-quarter score was the successful extra-point kick by Lockney's Jeff McDonald.

Still in the first period, Longhorn tailback Curtis Ford went over to score from 2 yards out, but the extra point failed, making the score 13-0 at the half.

In the third quarter, Longhorn quarterback Steve Warren completed a pass to tight end Kevin Evans for a 9-yard scoring play. The 2-point conversion was good with halfback Danny Delgado completing a pass to Arnold Alaniz for the 2 points.

Lockney made 12 first downs, 145 yards ground rushing and 59 yards in the air. Olton got 10 first downs, 93 yards on the ground and 59 yards in the air.

Whitharral Stomps Western Hills 50-0

WHITHARRAL (Special) — Flying lessons come tough, but the visiting Lubbock Western Hills Baptist Academy Eagles never came close to getting off the ground here Friday night. The home team Panthers plastered the Eagles with an embarrassing 50-0 whitewashing.

Scoring 38 points in the first half, the Panthers raised their record to 2-1. Meanwhile, the grounded Eagles will have to tackle their next lesson with an 0-3 record.

Mustangs Looking To New Face

By The Associated Press

Jim Bob Taylor answers the question tonight of whether "Mustang Mania" will perish without a Ford in its future.

Taylor is a sophomore quarterback from Somerset who took over the Southern Methodist offense last week against Texas Christian when Mike Ford was lost for the season with a knee injury.

He came out gunning and completed two touchdown passes — one to TCU — but showed courage and running ability as he led the Mustangs to a 27-7 victory over the Horned Frogs.

"I need to instill confidence in my teammates," said Taylor. "There's a lot of pressure on me, but the only pressure I feel is the pressure I'm putting on myself. I know the team isn't looking over their shoulders wondering whether I'll perform.

"We win as a team and lose as a team. They know it takes 22 players and special teams to win. I'll prepare for the game and do the best I can. After that I'll just let it go from there."

Unbeaten SMU is an eight-point pick over once-beaten North Texas State at Texas Stadium.

"I know this team is behind me and I know Mike is behind me, too," said Taylor.

Only two other SWC teams are favorites in a weekend of fullscale non-conference activity except for idle Houston.

Texas, finally coming out of hibernation as the last collegiate team to tee it up, is a 17-point pick over Iowa State at Austin while Arkansas is an 11-point choice over Oklahoma State in Little Rock.

Penn State is a 10-point favorite over the Texas Aggies in a day game, Alabama is a 17-point choice over Baylor, Tulane is a 6-point nod over Texas Christian, Texas Tech at Arizona was rated even, and Louisiana State was an 18-point nod over Rice.

The SWC is 6-2 against outside competition going into today's matchups.

"We'll have to throw it at least 18 or 20 times to do well against Alabama," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "They are just too physical of a team to run against as much as we have done in our first two games."

"I've played out there twice and both times the games were incredibly exciting," said Tech Rex Dockery. "In 1975, they kicked a field goal with 12 seconds left to beat us. In 1977, we intercepted a pass in the end zone with less than two minutes left to hang on and win."

Texas A&M hopes to finally put the SWC in the victory column against Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, who is 6-0 against the league.

"Penn State has been nationally ranked about as long as I can remember," says Aggie defensive tackle James Zachary.

Government Regulations Problem To Cattlemen

By KATHLEEN HARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer

While the cattle cycle, low markets and inflation are problems that periodically correct themselves in the ranching business, government regulations "seem only to get worse," Lauren Carlson of Chokio, Minn., National Cattlemen's Association president, told about 100 ranchers here Friday.

Carlson spoke at the Livestock and Money session of the Golden Spur Symposium at the Texas Tech University Museum.

"Increasingly, we are governed by huge staffs of unelected activists — people who translate their biases and points of view into more laws and regulations," he said.

The NCA president described the regulation writers as "coercive utopians trying to impose their idea of utopia on the public instead of trying to bring about a change through public opinion and the democratic process."

"One example is found in the area of diet and health," he said. "The recent Surgeon General's report on health indicated people should eat less red meat."

"One problem is that the regulations are written and implemented by people in agencies who are not directly responsible to the public," he added, referring 273 new laws enacted by Congress in 1977 with 7,568 new regulations written by unelected personnel in federal agencies based on the new and previous laws during that period.

While it is hard to measure the impact of regulation on the total economy, he said, direct costs have been estimated at more than $100 billion a year.

In addition to the economic percussions, Carlson said, the slowing of technical advances and the slowing of gains in production efficiency have a more serious impact.

"One example of regulatory costs is the coming ban of diethylstibestrol as a growth promotant," he pointed out. "The economic cost of losing this drug has been estimated at a minimum of $500 million per year with no benefit to the public in terms of better health."

Carlson said that though there is currently a great concern about energy, trucking regulations which prohibit backhauls, require circuitous routing of trucks and impose certain weights and lengths in some states waste at least 65 million gallons of fuel a year.

The cattleman said ranchers must assert themselves more strongly to help determine the destiny of the livestock industry.

Agriculture is more vulnerable to increased production costs, since higher costs cannot as readily be passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices, Walter Minger, senior vice president of San Francisco's Bank of America, said.

"Agricultural commodity prices are not responsive in the short run to input cost pressures," he explained. "So there is a lag before commodity prices increase enough to offset the increase in expense."

While inflation is hard on a young rancher because of the costs of land, structures, equipment and cattle, it is equally hard on the established rancher, Minger noted.

"Because of inflation, the younger cattleman's investment may be two or three times that of the senior rancher," Minger said. "But the established rancher, in order to realize his 'wealth', must sell out, pay the capital gains and try to reinvest. If he doesn't sell out, he'll wind up living modestly and dying rich."

In order to survive with inflation, Richard McDougal of Lovelack, Nev., past NCA president, said the producer must exercise some restraint in his buying habits.

"Ranchers must be more frugal in their business," Minger noted, "so that they don't contribute to the problem of inflation."

Utilizing replacement costs in planning to get a true picture of depreciation is one way to help curb the inflation crunch, he pointed out. Also, when cattle prices are high, he said, ranchers should establish and develop equity.

Dr. William Flatt, director of the University of Georgia Agricultural Experiment Stations at Athens, Ga., discussed the importance of agriculture research as a hedge against inflation.

"Research improves productivity and those improvements are passed on to the consumer," he said. " That keeps the economy in balance."

Flatt said agricultural research has a 50 percent per year rate of return on the investment. If research dollars are reduced or if inflation continues to whittle the funds away, Flatt said, the rate of return will drastically decrease.

"While the producer benefits from greater returns," Flatt said, "the consumer is the final beneficiary with food prices lower than they otherwise would be."

Food Stores Add Non-Food Items

Twenty-five years ago, a store's inventory increased to 3750 items, including quite of few in the non-food category.

Today, the number of different items in a modern supermarket totals more than 11,000, featuring a wide variety of non-food merchandise.

By DUANE HOWELL

SOME OF THE U. S. COTTON EXPORT credit funds for South Korea are in jeopardy.

Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said in Lubbock this week that efforts are being made to keep a viable amount of funds available.

It makes more sense, he said, to make the loans to Korea rather than to allow stocks to build up in this country, with price-depressing effects, and possibly trigger federal deficiency payments to growers.

U. S. cotton exports to Korea have increased from 512,000 bales in 1970-71 to 1.3 million bales in 1978-79. The United States accounts for 98 percent of Korea's raw cotton imports, a heavy volume of which comes from West Texas.

This major U. S. cotton export market has been built, maintained and expanded largely through effective use of the Commodity Credit Corp.'s GSM-5 credit program as a market development tool, industry sources say.

THE GSM-5 PROGRAM CREDIT EXTENDED to the Spinners and Weavers Association of Korea (SWAK) has enabled Korean textile mills to finance about 40 to 50 percent of their annual purchases of U. S. cotton.

However, the GSM-5 program, the dependability of U. S. cotton exporters, and U. S. cotton quality has had a favorable spillover effect which has resulted in the Koreans purchasing over the years more than 95 percent of their cotton requirements from the United States.

The GSM-5 credit program, operated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is self-supportive and doesn't cost the taxpayers one dime, industry sources point out. The U. S. government actually makes a profit on the program. The Koreans never have defaulted on their repayments.

Korean use of GSM-5 three-year credit has enabled U. S. cotton exports to expand significantly and, indirectly, has helped the Korean textile industry to expand from 900,000 spindles in 1970 to 2.9 million spindles in 1979.

The textile industry is Korea's largest employer. A healthy textile industry there contributes directly to the economic stability and political security of Korea, some sources say. This is of primary importance to the United States, they add, since Korea is a close ally.

FOR CALENDAR 1980, SWAK — WITH FULL support of the U. S. cotton industry — has requested $200 million in self-supporting USDA GSM-5 credit to assist in their purchases of U. S. cotton.

It was reported Friday that it appears only $50 million will be approved. The squeeze on export credits is said to revolve, at least in part, around attempts to get the Koreans to agree to reduce their textile exports to the United States.

For fiscal year 1980, the Carter administration has cut the amount of GSM-5 credit available for all U. S. agricultural exports to all countries to only $800 million, compared with $1.6 billion authorized for FY 1979.

This decrease has "very negative" competitive implications for cotton and other U. S. agricultural exports in the world market, sources say. Adequate GSM-5 credit — at least $1.6 billion — must be available to overseas customers to maintain and expand export markets for U. S. agricultural products, they add.

Market losses in Korea — one of cotton's largest two export outlets — because of inadequate GSM-5 credit are viewed as intolerable in light of the larger-than-normal crop predicted by the USDA of 14.2 million bales.

WITH A CROP OF THAT SIZE, it is argued, the USDA could easily find itself with an eventual large buildup of stocks as well as costly deficiency payments to growers. It is termed ironic that the USDA, through its lack of action on credit which is fully repaid, could expose itself to tremendous payment costs which are a direct taxpayer outlay.

The CCC's non-commercial risk assurance program (GSM-101) has been offered to the Koreans as an interim substitute for GSM-5 credit. Basically, the GSM-101 program would enable private U. S. banks to make three-year loans to foreign customers and be assured by the CCC against defaults caused by non-commercial risk occurrences.

However, industry sources say current indications are that the Korean government will not approve this program because it, unlike GSM-5, is not a government-to-government program.

It is argued that it is in the best interests of the U. S. cotton industry, the U. S. government and this nation to provide adequate GSM-5 credit to Korea and other reliable customers for American agricultural products.

"To do otherwise," industry sources say, "could create risks of market loss which could result in serious econonomic consequences for U. S. agriculture."

COTTON FUTURES RALLIED LATE in the session Friday on commisson house stop-loss buying as nearbys closed 44 to 62 points higher in moderate to heavy trading.

Floor brokers said trade and speculative buying accelerated increases, which pushed October up 53 points to close at 64.63 cents, and December up 62 points to finish at 65.05 cents. The last-minute activity came after thin and mixed earlier dealings.

Some buying was said to have been prompted by the lateness of the crop, a tight carryover and tight near-term supplies, a tight basis and good export business lately.

The USDA earlier this week reported that U. S. cotton export sales activity was strong in the week ended Sept. 9. Sales for the 1979-80 marketing year totaled 146,000 running bales and included 23,000 to Romania, 21,700 to Hong Kong, 20,000 to Bangladesh and 16,900 to Japan.

Cotton exports also were strong at 122,200 bales, of which 15 percent was destined for Europe and 78 percent for Asia.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean futures closed mostly lower Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Trading was uneventful as traders anticipated a pickup in harvesting activity over the weekend and an eventual increase in cash grain sales as farmers clear space for newly harvested crops.

An Agriculture Department report that domestic soybean supplies had risen 7 percent since last year to 173 million bushels as of Sept. 1 reflected larger stocks than expected and encouraged some selling.

There was uncertainty in the market about what to expect from Brazil on world soybean and soybean product markets over the next few months. The world's second largest soybean producer reportedly may need to import soybean oil by December.

At the close, soybeans were 2 to 3½ cents lower, November $7.24; wheat was 2¼ cents lower to 1¾ cents higher, December $4.49¼; corn was ¾ to 1⅛ cents lower, December $2.80; and oats were 1¾ to 2 cents lower, December $1.56½.

Cattle Mart Dips Again

By Reuters

CHICAGO — Cattle futures closed 10 to 150 points lower led by January on 20,207 cars Friday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The market recovered after slumping the 150 limit in most contracts. Distant December briefly giined 20.

Prices were forced to three week lows, off 4.32 from highs, on selling touched off by the bearish construed pig crop report. Scattered buying on the scale-down was mostly from the cash cattle commission house, reflecting firmer beef.

Wholesale beef was up 1 cent at 101 cents a pound, f.o.b. river points. Cash cattle were steady to weak with the best top $68.50 per hundredweight. Slaughter was 119,000 head. About 15,600 head are expected Monday at the major markets.

Feeder cattle futures closed 20 to 150 lower led by November at the limit loss. Sales totaled 2,385 cars. Prices were lower from the start and skidded the limit across the board before recovering.

Prices fell to three week lows, 5 cents under recent highs, on spillover selling from the pork pits which inturn were influenced by the bearish pig crop report. Late support was prompted by some improved beef demand at noon.

There have been 242 deliveries thus far. Cash feeder cattle were steady with the best top $103 per hundredweight at St. Paul. The major terminals are expecting about 1,300 head on Monday.

Hog futures closed the 150 limit lower with sellers across the board. Prices were locked at the limit decline from the start following the bearish pig crop report. Heaviest numbers on hand in nine years and the forecast for 10 percent more December through February farrowings kept up pressure.

Three week lows were posted in deferreds after new highs earlier in the week. Selling came despite reduced hog runs and higher prices for cash hogs and improved pork trade at noon.

Wholesale hams were up 1½ to 1¾ cents at 71½ to 73¾ cents a pound, f.o.b. river. Cash hogs were steady to up $1.25 with the best top $40.25 per hundredweight at Indianapolis. Kill was 340,000 head. Receipts at the major markets on Monday are expected to total 33,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed the limit of 200 lower with sellers over across the board. Sales held to 462 lots with thousands of unsold offers. The market was locked limit from the start in response to the pig crop report which noted 16 percent more hogs on hand.

Traders are looking for further limit level losses on Monday, at least at the start. Selling continued despite light hog runs and higher prices along with firm tone to cash bellies.

Wholesale bacon was unchanged to up 1½ at 32 to 36½ cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

Hybrid Cotton Shown

Present and new varieties will be seen during the annual field day of the Southwestern Division of Delta & Pine Land Co. from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday at the research unit near Idalou.

"Also to be shown are several future varieties along with developments in hybrid cotton," said Jay Marks, marketing manager.

Jerry Carroll, cotton breeder for the Southwestern Division, said a sizable portion of the world's largest private cottonseed research and breeding program is here on the Plains.

Stretching from the Deep South, where the company originated in 1915, to California, the firm is breeding and marketing both picker and stripper cotton varieties.

Having a nationwide breeding program, Carroll said, is of benefit for the Southwest in two substantial ways.

"First, we have always utilized a diversity of parental materials from other regions as a means of improving cultivars developed for the High Plains grower," he said.

He cited an example of Deltapine varieties developed in Arizona under conditions of high temperature and moisture stress.

"We have found some of these western-developed varieties to be outstanding sources for varietal improvement in both the areas of fiber quality and performance under dryland conditions," he said.

He cited another example involving verticillium wilt resistance. When grown in the San Joaquin Valley of California, he said, the wilt tolerant varieties from the High Plains "simply die before producing a crop" because the wilt is so severe.

Since the firm now has a full-scale research program in California, Carroll said, the program has "an extra means" for screening and developing High Plains wilt varieties.

"We are just concluding our first season in California and we are finding, not to our surprise, that some of our future High Plains varieties have truly superior vert wilt resistance in comparison to present commercial varieties available on the High Plains," he said.

The on-Plains research was begun here in 1968.

TV Guests Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the guests scheduled to appear on this Sunday's nationally broadcast interview programs:

•Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Johnny Carson Concedes To Problem With Alcohol

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson concedes in an interview with CBS' Mike Wallace that drinking became a problem for him, and "I found that it was probably best for me to not really tangle with it."

"I used to have a little pop, I sure did," Carson says in an interview taped for CBS' "60 Minutes." "I don't handle it well."

"You and McMahon, really, you don't," Wallace asks, referring to Carson's longtime "Tonight" show sidekick, Ed McMahon.

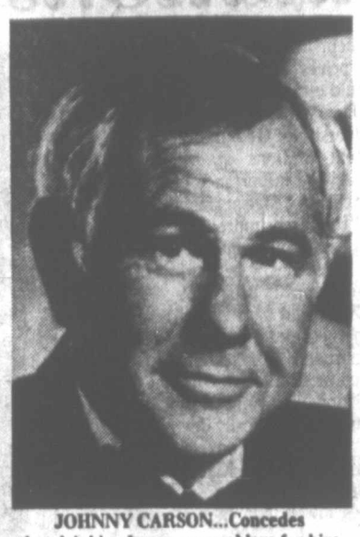

"I don't handle alcohol well at all, no. Really, I don't," Carson says, adding: "Oh, Ed and I have had some wonderful times in the past."

The segment, to be aired Sunday evening, was taped at Carson's California home last spring. A portion of the interview, in which Carson proclaims he would like to leave "Tonight" after 17 years as host of the late-night show, was edited for broadcast in June.

The dispute with NBC over Carson's desired departure still has not been settled.

"Tonight" guests, Wallace says in the newly edited segment, often describe Carson as "a gentle man, a kind man." "Are you reluctant," the interviewer asks, "in putting together your monologue, to go 'hard' on a guy?"

It's at that point that Carson, in reply, mentions problems with drinking:

JOHNNY CARSON...Concedes that drinking became a problem for him

"Wilbur Mills had his problems ... it was amusing to most people, then you could do jokes about it," Carson says. "I stopped doing jokes immediately, as soon as the people found out that he was an alcoholic, and had emotional problems."

Wallace quotes McMahon as saying "that from time to time, you were going to take on the whole Russian army. And he — and you didn't have bazookas to do it."

"That's right," Carson replies. "No, that's one reason I found that it was probably best for me to not really tangle with it.

"I just found out that I ... I did not drink well, and ... when I did drink, rather than a lot of people who become fun-loving, and gregarious, and love everybody, I would go the opposite.

"And it would happen," he says, clapping, "just like that."

Beach Boys Cancel Concert; Hope To Reschedule Later

The concert by The Beach Boys, slated for 8 p.m. Oct. 2 at the Lubbock Coliseum, has been cancelled. According to coliseum officials, "No reason was given at all for this. Concerts West just called us up and told us to cancel it."

Marc Kogan, with Concerts West in Los Angeles, told The Avalanche-Journal Friday afternoon, "It was just a matter of the band having to readjust some dates on this short territorial tour. They'll be playing other Texas cities, but we unfortunately had to drop shows in Lubbock and Baton Rouge, La. They'll play Baton Rouge on the next tour, and we'll hopefully be able to pick up Lubbock either later this year or early next year."

'Cheesecake' Shots Forbidden By Authorities

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — This resort city's tourism authority has ordered its staff photographer to stop snapping promotional shots of women in bikinis, calling the practice "out of style."

Officials are also concerned that the daily "cheesecake" shots were not consistent with the city's support for the National Organization for Women, which has imposed an economic boycott on Florida and other states that have not ratified the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

Ted Griffin, executive director of the Convention and Visitors Authority, said he wants the photographers to concentrate instead on "a more action and situation-oriented, visitor-type photographic essay format."

Losses to this aging resort have been estimated at $13 million over the past two years because of the NOW boycott. But Griffin insists that he has not been pressured by NOW or other pro-ERA forces to cut out the cheesecake shots.

Photographer Tom Gura said it doesn't bother him that there will be no more cheesecake shots. "It's just one of those things. It doesn't faze me."

Cold Temperatures Stop Marathon Swim

NEW YORK (AP) — A 39-year-old New Jersey lifeguard gave up an attempt to swim a figure-8 course around both Staten Island and Manhattan because of the cold Friday, after 11½ hours in the water.

Palmer Donnelly, of Bayville, N.J., a father of three, had swum successfully around each island on separate occasions last month.

He set out on his 75-mile marathon shortly after 3 a.m. Friday, hoping to reach his goal in about 40 hours in what he said was an effort to promote the cause of energy conservation.

A muscular 5 feet 8 and 180 pounds, Donnelly works as a lifeguard in the summer and as a social worker in other seasons.

TV Guests Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the guests scheduled to appear on this Sunday's nationally broadcast interview programs:

•Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Johnny Carson Concedes To Problem With Alcohol

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson concedes in an interview with CBS' Mike Wallace that drinking became a problem for him, and "I found that it was probably best for me to not really tangle with it."

"I used to have a little pop, I sure did," Carson says in an interview taped for CBS' "60 Minutes." "I don't handle it well."

"You and McMahon, really, you don't," Wallace asks, referring to Carson's longtime "Tonight" show sidekick, Ed McMahon.

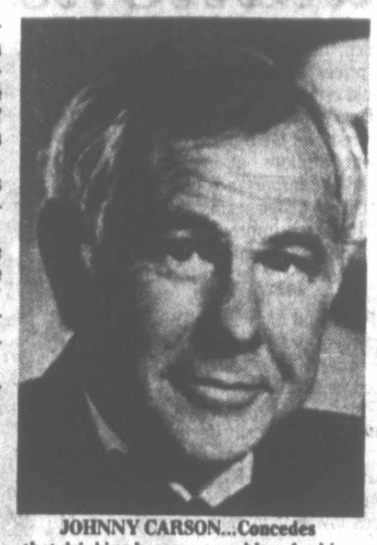

"I don't handle alcohol well at all, no. Really, I don't," Carson says, adding: "Oh, Ed and I have had some wonderful times in the past."

The segment, to be aired Sunday evening, was taped at Carson's California home last spring. A portion of the interview, in which Carson proclaims he would like to leave "Tonight" after 17 years as host of the late-night show, was edited for broadcast in June.

The dispute with NBC over Carson's desired departure still has not been settled.

"Tonight" guests, Wallace says in the newly edited segment, often describe Carson as "a gentle man, a kind man." "Are you reluctant," the interviewer asks, "in putting together your monologue, to go 'hard' on a guy?"

It's at that point that Carson, in reply, mentions problems with drinking:

JOHNNY CARSON...Concedes that drinking became a problem for him

"Wilbur Mills had his problems ... it was amusing to most people, then you could do jokes about it," Carson says. "I stopped doing jokes immediately, as soon as the people found out that he was an alcoholic, and had emotional problems."

Wallace quotes McMahon as saying "that from time to time, you were going to take on the whole Russian army. And he — and you didn't have bazookas to do it."

"That's right," Carson replies. "No, that's one reason I found that it was probably best for me to not really tangle with it.

"I just found out that I ... I did not drink well, and ... when I did drink, rather than a lot of people who become fun-loving, and gregarious, and love everybody, I would go the opposite.

"And it would happen," he says, clapping, "just like that."

Beach Boys Cancel Concert; Hope To Reschedule Later

The concert by The Beach Boys, slated for 8 p.m. Oct. 2 at the Lubbock Coliseum, has been cancelled, According to coliseum officials, "No reason was given at all for this. Concerts West just called us up and told us to cancel it."

Marc Kogan, with Concerts West in Los Angeles, told The Avalanche-Journal Friday afternoon, "It was just a matter of the band having to readjust some dates on this short territorial tour. They'll be playing other Texas cities, but we unfortunately had to drop shows in Lubbock and Baton Rouge, La. They'll play Baton Rouge on the next tour, and we'll hopefully be able to pick up Lubbock either later this year or early next year."

'Cheesecake' Shots Forbidden By Authorities

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — This resort city's tourism authority has ordered its staff photographer to stop snapping promotional shots of women in bikinis, calling the practice "out of style."

Officials are also concerned that the daily "cheesecake" shots were not consistent with the city's support for the National Organization for Women, which has imposed an economic boycott on Florida and other states that have not ratified the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

Ted Griffin, executive director of the Convention and Visitors Authority, said he wants the photographers to concentrate instead on "a more action and situation-oriented, visitor-type photographic essay format."

Losses to this aging resort have been estimated at $13 million over the past two years because of the NOW boycott. But Griffin insists that he has not been pressured by NOW or other pro-ERA forces to cut out the cheesecake shots.

Photographer Tom Gura said it doesn't bother him that there will be no more cheesecake shots. "It's just one of those things. It doesn't faze me."

Cold Temperatures Stop Marathon Swim

NEW YORK (AP) — A 39-year-old New Jersey lifeguard gave up an attempt to swim a figure-8 course around both Staten Island and Manhattan because of the cold Friday, after 11½ hours in the water.

Palmer Donnelly, of Bayville, N.J., a father of three, had swum successfully around each island on separate occasions last month.

He set out on his 75-mile marathon shortly after 3 a.m. Friday, hoping to reach his goal in about 40 hours in what he said was an effort to promote the cause of energy conservation.

A muscular 5 feet 8 and 180 pounds, Donnelly works as a lifeguard in the summer and as a social worker in other seasons.

Chiefs Score Early To Humiliate Dunbar 41-0

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

SAN ANGELO — It was a game without turning points, question marks, lucky bounces, or a second guess. It would be considered high drama by those who prefer Miller Light commercials.

The chief accomplishment of Dunbar High School in its 41-0 loss to San Angelo Lake View here Friday night was that the winning point total had not been doubled.

The Chiefs, who lead 35-0 at halftime and substituted their second and third string offense during the final two quarters, had been that overwhelming.

"This is not easy — not easy at all," said Dunbar coach Van Jefferson, following the Panthers' third consecutive defeat in which they have failed to score a point. "And we had a good week's workout, too.

"But Lake View is a real good club and took it to us. We made mistakes and a few holes in our defense have to be cleared up."

Lake View exploited those defensive gaps by raising 3 yards and a cloud of Doyle — senior halfback Mike Doyle — who rushed for 192 yards on 23 carries, all in the first half. He also ran for four touchdowns and had an 84-yard kickoff return nullified by a clipping penalty.

Dunbar, on the other hand, had its only scoring threat rejected when quarterback James Nelson fumbled at the Lake View 20-yard line midway in the first quarter. The Panthers managed only six first downs in the game, just one in a second half when they were held to 7 yards offensively.

Lake View, during the first half, was not forced to punt, victimized by penalties or gulity of a turnover, while amassing 244 yards, all on the ground.

"I don't feel too good," Jefferson said. "We're going to have to buckle down and find some people who want to play. Some of our players haven't accepted the responsibility. We all have a job to do and we're gonna do it."

Just as well, he hopes, as Lake View had done its job Friday night.

Bulldogs Conquer Mustangs 28-0

Running back Ronald Johnson scored three touchdowns for the Bulldogs and gained 257 yards on 28 carries.

Johnson scored from 1 yard out in the first quarter, from 16 yards out in the second and from 15 yards out in the fourth quarter.

The Bulldogs other touchdown was scored by Alvin Mills on a 1-yard run. All four extra point kicks by Joe Rodriguez were good.

Wilson's season record dropped to 2-1.

TECH VOLLEYBALLERS LOSE

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (Special) — Texas Tech lost three matches and split one in being eliminated from the San Diego State Volleyball Tournament Friday.

Caprock Clips Eagles 14-0

O'DONNELL (Special) — The O'Donnell Eagles pleased their homecoming crowd Friday night by notching their first win of the season with a 14-0 victory over Borden County.

The game remained scoreless until the third quarter was all but over, as Eagle halfback Gilbert Morales swept 9 yards around end for the game's first score with only 49 seconds left in the period. The extra point attempt failed.

O'Donnell scored again with 2:39 left in the game on a 13-yard quarterback keeper by Stanley Forbes. Eddie Hancock passed to Morales for the 2-point conversion.

Eagle back John Olivan averaged more than 10 yards per carry during the game, although he did not score. He covered 104 yards in 10 carries, accounting for nearly half of O'Donnell's total yardage.

Rebels Gun Down Bulldogs 10-0

MIDLAND (Special) — Backed by a first-half offense and a tenacious full-game defense, the Midland Lee Rebels extended their record to 3-0 with a tough 10-0 victory in the trenches over the visiting Plainview Bulldogs.

Plainview's failure to capitalize on good field position saw the 'Dogs drop to 1-2.

Midland Lee opened the scoring with a 23-yard field goal by Larry Linne in the first quarter. Then, with less than a minute left in the half, the Rebels quarterback, Gary Butler, ran 3 yards for a score. Linne's kick was true.

But the real excitement came in the second half, when a stunning Rebel defense made not one, but two goal line stands. With 27 seconds left in the third quarter and Plainview facing fourth and goal from the Rebels' 4-yard line, Rebel Barry Corley came up to stop the ball carrier short of the goal line.

Lightning was to strike again in the fourth quarter, when Plainview again put together a sustained drive — only to come down to fourth and goal from the 4-yard line and be stopped dead cold, this time by Rebel James McGarrity.

Statistics were relatively even, though a key factor may have been Rebel punter Barry Corley's three kicks for a 43-yard average.

ENMU Hosting Howard Payne

PORTALES, N.M. (Special) -Eastern New Mexico's football team, coming off a 21-7 loss to defending NAIA national champion Angelo State, hosts Howard Payne University for Parents' Day at 7:30 tonight in Greyhound Stadium.

The 'Hounds will be looking to avenge a close 19-14 loss to HPU last year. They stand at 1-1 on the year (with a 50-0 win over New Mexico Highlands in the opener) while Howard Payne is 0-2.

So far the Yellow Jackets have lost to East Central Oklahoma 24-23 and Texas Lutheran 23-6.

Crosbyton Rambles By Mats

CROSBYTON (Special) — The Crosbyton Chiefs blasted the Motley County Matadors 29-0 Friday in a game played in the rain and marred by 16 fumbles.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Chiefs got on the scoreboard when halfback LaVance Coppage ran 87 yards for a touchdown with 9:42 left in the first half. Quarterback Kyle McGinnes ran for the extra points, making the score 8-0.

The Chiefs' final score came with 7:03 left in the game when Williams ran for another touchdown from 66 yards out. After McGinnes passed to Williams for the extra points, the Chiefs lead 29-0.

TECH SOCCER MATCH

Texas Tech's soccer team will play the University of Houston at 2 p.m. today at the Fuller Track Stadium. Houston is in second place in the Southwest Conference and Tech is coming off a 3-2 loss to Rice last week.

Major League Roundup

Astros Sink Reds

By the Associated Press

Catcher Bruce Bochy singled to left field in the 13th inning to score Craig Reynolds and give the Houston Astros a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati, cutting the Reds' lead to 1½ games in the National League West.

Tom Hume, 10-9, the last of three Cincinnati pitchers, was the loser and Joe Sambito, 8-4, was the winner.

Cincinnati had taken a 2-0 lead on Ray Knight's two-run home run in the second inning before Houston's Terry Puhl pulled the Astros even with run-scoring singles in the third and seventh innings.

Houston starter J.R. Richard survived the Reds' second inning and came back with a dramatic strikeout performance in the later innings. Richard finished with 15 strikeouts, equalling his all-time single-game record, before he was replaced by Sambito to open the 12th.

Twins 3, Brewers 2

Ken Landreaux hit a two-run homer with one out in the Minnesota ninth and Butch Wynegar followed with a bases-empty shot, rallying the Twins to a 3-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Loser Moose Haas, 11-10, carried a four-hitter into the ninth, but Roy Smalley walked leading off the inning. After Glenn Adams popped up, Landreaux hit his 15th homer to tie the game 2-2.

Cubs 2, Pirates 0

Rookie Scot Thompson singled in two runs in the fifth inning and Lynn McGlothen checked Pittsburgh on four hits as the Chicago Cubs defeated the Pirates 2-0.

McGlothen, 12-13, and Don Robinson, 8-7, dueled into the bottom of the fifth when McGlothen singled with one out. Ivan DeJesus followed with his third single of the game, sending McGlothen to third, and took second on a looping throw to the infield by right fielder Dave Parker.

Red Sox 4, Tigers 1

Carl Yastrzemski drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the first inning and the Boston Red Sox went on to a 4-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers in a game called after 6⅓ innings because of rain.

Rookie John Tudor allowed only six hits and one unearned run in becoming the first Boston left-handed starter to win a game at Fenway Park since Bill Lee on July 15, 1978. It was Tudor's first major league victory against two losses since being called up from the minors on Aug. 10.

Blue Jays 3, Yankees 2

Tom Underwood and Tom Buskey combined on an eight-hitter and the Toronto Blue Jays pulled off their second triple play of the season en route to a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Underwood, 9-16, scattered six hits in working seven innings while Buskey earned his seventh save pitching the last two innings.

Toronto scored all its runs in the first inning when Rick Bosetti singled with the bases loaded and New York center fielder Bobby Brown committed two errors.

Padres 3, Dodgers 1

Dave Winfield drove in three runs with a single and a two-run homer to give Juan Eichelberger his first major league victory, as the San Diego Padres defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1.

Winfield's three RBI gave him a total of 113 for the season to lead the National League and set a Padres' club record previously held by Nate Colbert with 111 in 1972.

White Sox 7, Mariners 4

Chet Lemon's three-run double keyed a five-run Chicago third inning and sparked the White Sox to a 7-4 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

The uprising enabled rookie left-hander Steve Trout to improve his record to 10-8.

Jorge Orta hit his 11th homer of the season off Mike Parrott, 13-11, for another Chicago run in the eighth inning and the White Sox added one more in the ninth on Rusty Torrez' homer.

A Julio Cruz single, followed by a single from Leon Roberts and an outfield throwing error provided Seattle's first run in the first inning which snapped a string of 19 straight scoreless innings by Chicago pitchers. The Mariners added three runs in the eighth, two on a homer by Willie Horton.
