Steer Wrestling Champ To Be At Bogata Rodeo

Thurman Russell, current CRA Steer Wrestling Champion, will be among the 400 or more cowboys and cowgirls competing in the Bogata rodeo June 25, 26, and 27. Russell started out as a bare back and bull rider but found the doggin more to his liking. He started out as a 16 year old high school cowboy and graduated into the pros when he got out of school. He got his card in the CRA in 1974 and has been in the top 15 almost every year since then. 1980 was his best year in money won. He has won two saddles from the CRA and ETRA along with three average buckles which included the L.R.A. All of this along with over $15,000.00 was quite a year for Russell. At the CRA Finals in Sulphur Springs in October, Russell placed in three of the four goes and won the average. Thurman Russell will be a favorite for the Steer Wrestling Championship at the Bogata rodeo in Bogata, Texas.

Steer wrestling needs three things for a cowboy to be successful, 1) perfect timing, 2) skill, and 3) muscle. It, like most of the other events, has no roots in everyday ranch work. It was first used as an exhibition at wild west shows but later was used as one of the standard events in rodeo.

Modern steer wrestling utilizes a technique which relies on timing and leverage more than on brute strength.

Today's steer wrestler hauls two horses, one which is used by a hazer, and the other used by the dogger. After the dogger jumps from his horse to the steers horns, he stops the animal and twists his head until he falls to the ground with all four feet in one direction. A good run is a time from three to five seconds.

THURMAN RUSSELL is the current CRA Steer Wrestling Champion, and will participate in the upcoming Bogata Rodeo. Russell likes "doggin" best, and has won saddles, buckles, and over $15,000 for his efforts.

Queen Contestants Needed

A big feature of the rodeo again this year will be the selection of a Rodeo Queen.

In the Rodeo Queen Contest, the entrant must be between the ages of 14 and 19 (inclusive) as of the date of the contest.

Entrants must not be married or ever have been married.

Entrants must live within a 25 mile radius of Bogata, Texas.

Entrants will be expected to ride in the Grand Entry each night of the rodeo and in both the Rodeo and the Frontier Day parades.

Entrants will be expected to wear western attire at the above mentioned events.

Entrants will be asked (but not required) to submit a snapshot for contest publicity.

Judges will be from well outside the 25 mile radius such that no girl should have any unfair advantage.

Judging will be based on the following categories: horsemanship, 33 and one-third; appearance, 33 and one-third points; personality, 33 and one-third points.

Candidates will be required to waive all liability.

Horsemanship pattern to be used is reining pattern number one of the American Quarter Horse Association.

This year's Bogata Rodeo Queen, Michelle Thomas, will present the trophy to the 1981 Queen. Those wanting to enter the competition are asked to complete the entry form in this week's paper and mail to Bill Buckman, Bogata Rodeo Association.

Summer time, and the world is full of rodeos. All over the southwest rodeos are taking place, some good, some not so good.

Bogata, however, has one of the finest rodeos around, and should take great pride in the quality performances they produce.

It is astonishing how many folks go to every performance of the Bogata rodeo, and the variety that they can find there.

The Bogata Rodeo is not just sport or entertainment, it is a tradition. As it, and the accompanying frontier days approach, beards for the beard contest begin to appear, and horses, long-unridden, are to be seen trotting down side roads and highways, as folds prepare of the parade and grand entries.

Children sport shirts, and caps marked with the imprint of the Bogata Rodeo Association, and business in western hats, shirts and boots picks up.

The Bogata Rodeo Association is to be commended, and all the hard work they put into the whole thing appreciated, for it gives us not only Bogata, but the entire surrounding area something to be proud of and look forward to.

Look out, folks, it's rodeo time again!

All-Around Cowboy Tries For Second Title

Winnbora, LA cowboy Mike Fletcher is the All-Around in the CRA for 1980. Fletcher started out strong in his two favorite events, the bare and saddle bronc and was regular at the pay window for most of the year. He started by winning the all around at Mt. Pleasant, Texas in June and continued to win until the finals in October. He had a great finals placing twice in the bare and won third in the average. He also placed once in the saddle bronc.

The All-Around is won by the cowboy who wins the most money in two or more events. There are a great number of cowboys who enter more than one event but few make it into the All-Around. Fletcher, who was runner up in both the Saddle Bronc, Bare Back and with the money he won in team roping, gave him an outstanding year. Mike Fletcher will be at the Bogata Rodeo June 25, 26, and 27 going for his second All-Around in the CRA.

Dump Site Threatens Water Sand—Barnard

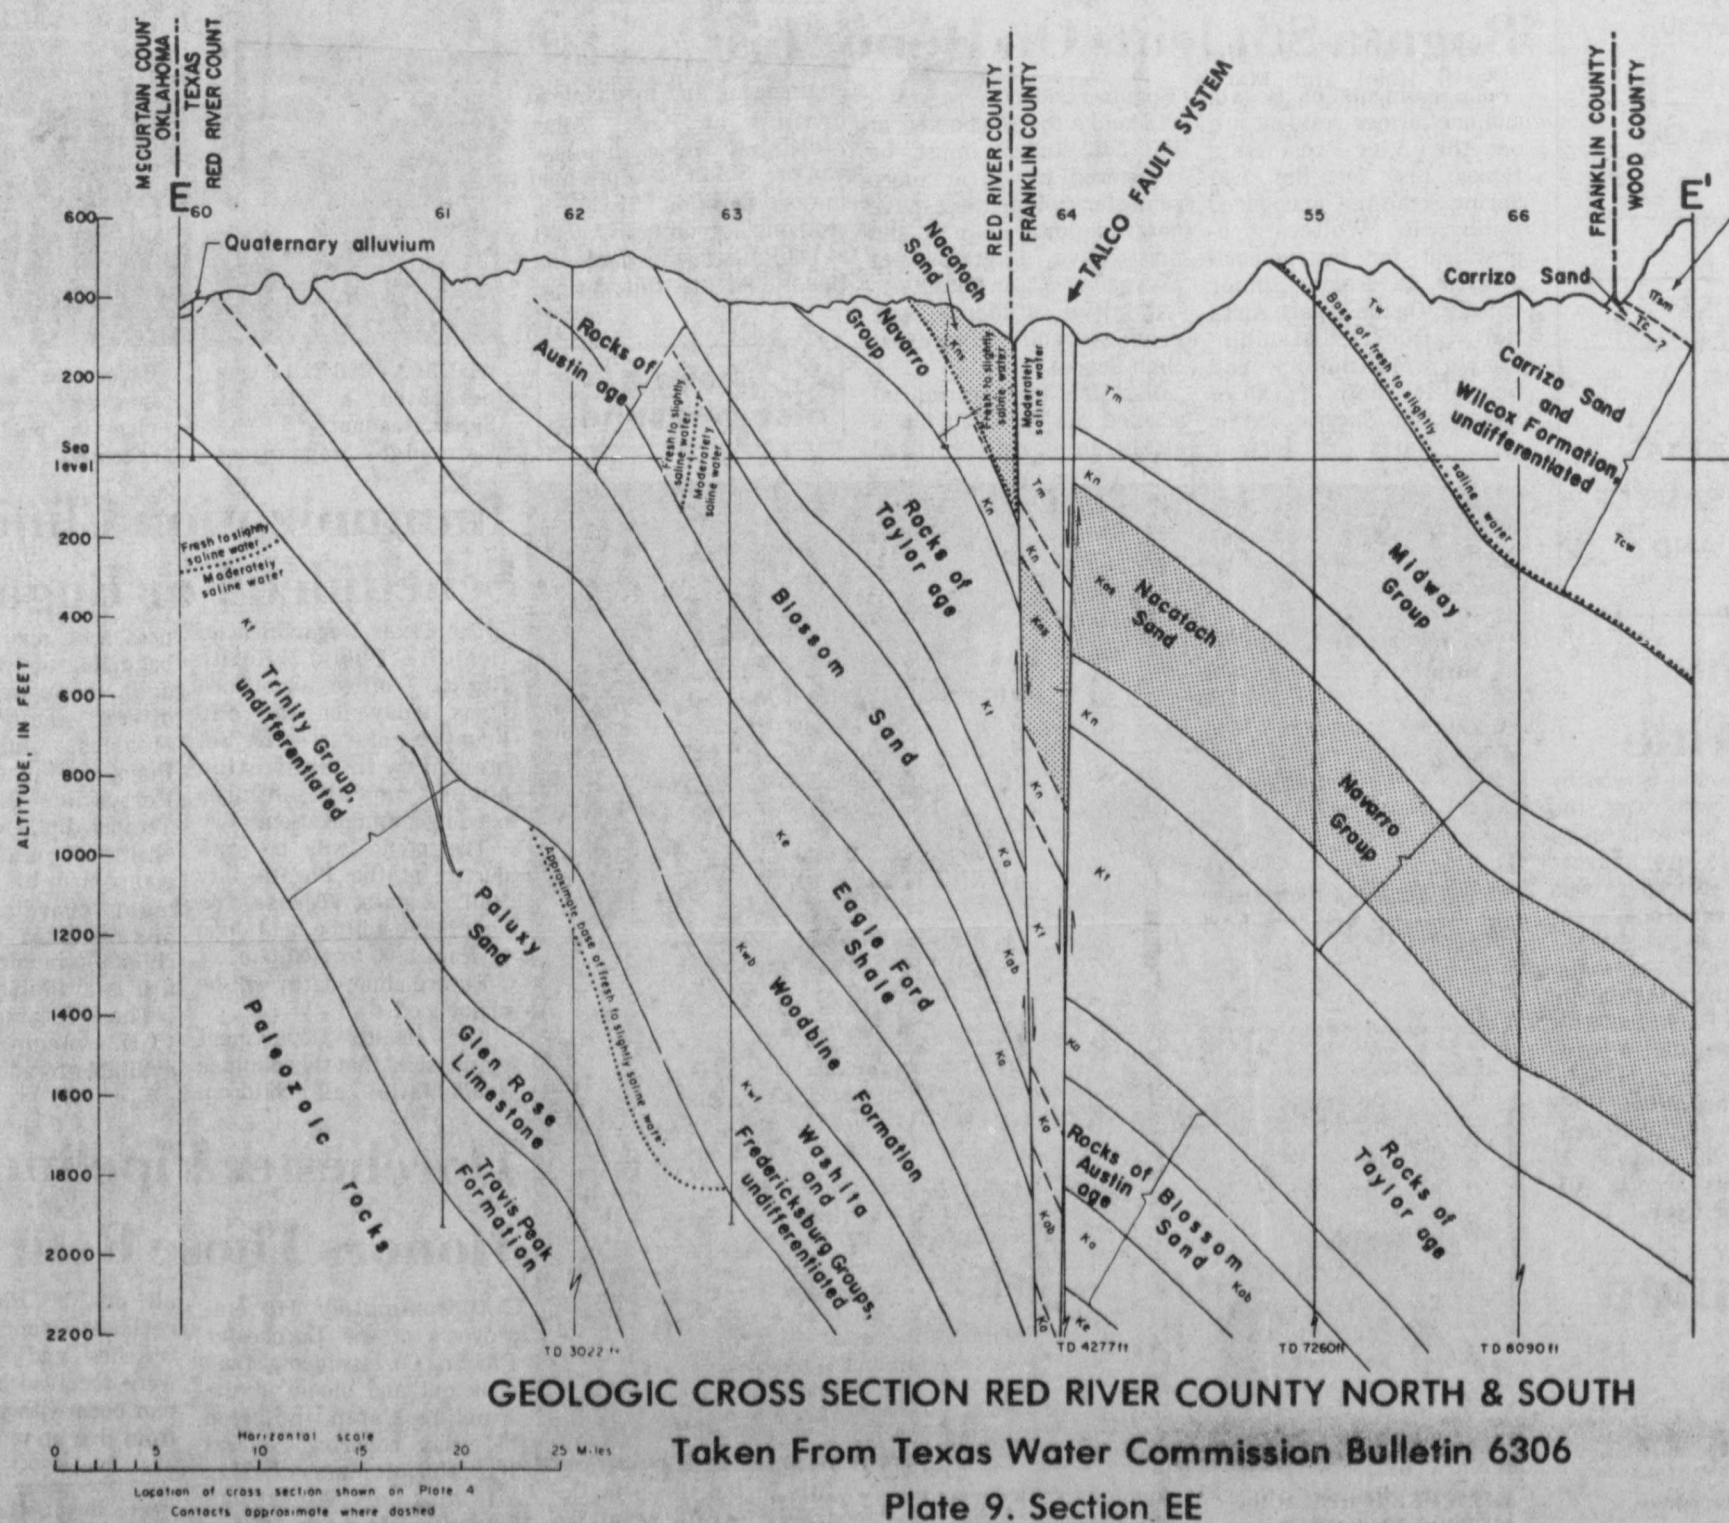

By Wm. C. Barnard

The principal aquifer or water producing sand stratum in south Red River County is the Nacatoch sand. The city of Bogata and many private users take water from this formation. The Nacatoch sand is a narrow belt reaching from Hunt County to the Red River in Bowie County. The stratum is about five miles wide on the west side of Red River County and some six miles wide on the east side. The bedding plane of the formation slopes to the south at about eighty feet per mile. It outcrops along the northern edge and is from 200 to 400 feet thick on the south, where it is blocked by the Talco Fault system along and parallel to the Sulphur River. The stratum is made up of numerous layers and lenses of sand and marl. The water is generally of good quality, but may be slightly mineralized near the fault line. The sand is covered by a thin mantle of terrace deposits and alluvium. This surface deposit is pervious to water and in some places is saturated. It is the principal means of recharge of the aquifer from the high rain fall of the area. The movement of the water in the aquifer is to the south in the direction of the dip and toward the areas of withdrawal. The cities of DeKalb, Talco, and Commerce as well as the city of Bogata and many private users take water from the Nacatoch Sand.

The proposed location of the chemical waste dump in southwest Red River county is about six miles from the Bogata City water wells. It is in an area that is occupied by the Nacatoch Sand. Any leakage from the dump would infiltrate into the waterbearing stratum and ultimately contaminate the water wells. After the sand and wells are polluted, there is no way to reverse the condition. The pollutants are not degradable.

If the water from the Nacatoch becomes unusable by the people who now depend upon it, it will be necessary for area residents to go out of the area and into another aquifer and another watershed that is clean and undamaged. The cost would be prohibitive and time required a burden. Let us not consent for the dump in this area. There must be other alternatives.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Wm. C. Barnard, former mayor of Bogata, worked most of his life as a civil engineer, on projects of such magnitude as the Pan American Highway in Central America and the Delta-Mendota Canal in California. After 22 years in heavy construction work with the L. S. Lacey Co. in Dallas, Barnard returned to Bogata to retire. The information in this article was compiled by Barnard from the Texas Water Commission Bulletin 6306, printed October, 1972.

DID YOU KNOW?

By Jarvis

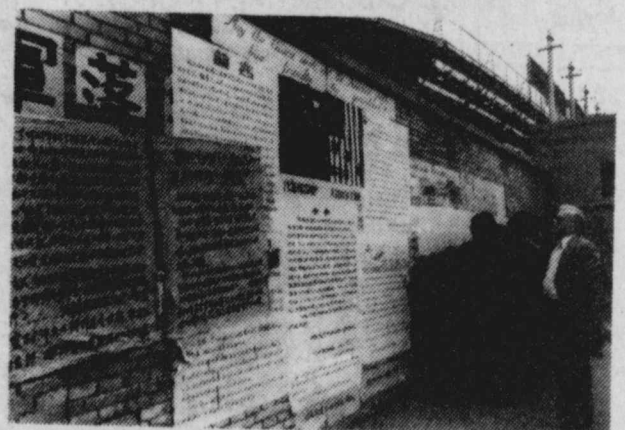

BUDDY'S WORKSHOP

My husband and I recently purchased an old house and spend our weekends working to renovate it as a retirement home. With the help of friends, we hope to keep contract labor expense to a minimum. This summer, we will be ready to paint, inside and outside, and we are getting ready. My husband is making it difficult to hold down expenses. He thinks we must have the most expensive paint and the costliest brushes available to do a proper job. I tell him the most expensive is not necessarily the best. I may concede that expensive paint may be worth the money, but to me a paint brush is a paint brush. You need a small one for painting trim and tight spots and a wide one for flat and wide surfaces. Am I right?

Both choices are important, but price is not the deciding factor. Choose a paint with a recognizable brand name. There are paints for every purpose, paints for various types of wood, outside paint, inside paint, latex paint and oil base paint. Each is formulated for a specific use. If you are inexperienced where paint selection is concerned, ask your paint store manager to help select the type of paint you need for each phase of your painting program. He can recommend quality paints in different price ranges.

Quality brushes are as important as quality paint. But, the most expensive may not be the best and may be suitable only for one or two specific uses. Regardless of size or style, hog bristle or synthetic bristle, paint brushes are designed for use with specific paints. A calcimine brush should be used when applying water-thinned paints to large areas. Enamel and varnish brushes are required for application of oil-based paints and lacquers. Seek the advice of your paint store manager.

HELPFUL IDEAS FOR SUCCESSFUL RETIREMENT

The Road Back

As one retiree put it, "What used to be is no longer." Translated, he was lamenting the fact that the good old days are gone and it takes more money to do less than at any other time in our history. This is a man who had reviewed his pension plan and predicted retirement income some ten years ago and felt good enough about the prospects to include a vacation cruise when he retires in 1983. Now he wonders if he will be able to afford a fishing trip to Canada for the weekend following his last working day.

For many, settling into retirement is no longer the mere matter of leaving a forwarding address for regular pension payments. Inflation eats money with a passion and even those of substantial income anticipate money concerns as retirement approaches. Generally speaking, we have simply lost our confidence in the future. Americans have become so accustomed to escalating prices, and the reduction in individual buying power that comes along with it, that the thought of trying to continue to do as well on less income is downright frightening. We have, to some measure, lost our confidence in the future.

There are signs that things are getting better. Even the most optimistic observers, however, are quick to point out that the road back to the "good old days" represents a long and difficult journey. Let us hope that it does not take too long. The increasing number of retiring Americans each year swell the ranks of the largest senior citizen population in the nation's history. Things will become extremely crowded if every man's security requires that he hit the road in search of supplementary income.

INTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

A weather-beaten cottage—picturesque on a beach—is not so romantic in the suburbs.

If you decide to add a new roof, re-side or simply paint, consider how these improvements will affect your home's "curb appeal"—its appearance and attractiveness. Choose materials that not only protect but also enhance your home's beauty.

As with many things, it's often smart to start at the top.

When re-roofing, it's usually a good idea to install the same style of shingle as was there in the first place. Chances are it best complements your home's architectural style.

Most homes today have asphalt shingles, which are made of a heavy paper or a fiber glass base coated with asphalt and topped with a layer of mineral granules. It is these granules that give the shingle its distinctive color.

Fiber glass shingles have become very popular in recent years—they don't absorb water and are thus better able to withstand curling, buckling and shrinkage—and they carry the highest U.L. fire resistance rating.

Asphalt shingles come in colors and sizes to suit nearly any style home or color scheme.

The following guidelines in coordinating your home's

If you need new roofing, glass fiber shingles are the best buy.

appearance are suggested by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, a leading building materials manufacturer.

Keep color combinations simple. Most experts recommend a maximum of three colors for the siding, roof and trim. Roof color should meld with the body of the house.

Light-colored roofing shingles create the illusion of height, while dark ones soften the effect of a tall house or flatten out a sharply angled roof. White shingles create an impression of airy coolness.

The new three-dimensional shingles cast intriguing shadow lines and combine the richly textured look of wood with the fire resistance and durability of asphalt shingles.

Light or muted colors are best for the body of a house, with a darker shade of the same color for the trim.

When painting, look at your house as a whole. Study its architecture, its shape and proportions as well as how it relates to other homes in the neighborhood. This will help you visualize the color in the context of the home's setting—both natural and man-made. Remember, the colors you choose should reflect your home's "personality" as much as your own.

A free brochure on auditing your home's aesthetic and maintenance needs, "Keeping Your Home in Shape," is available by writing: N.B.I. Meeks, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, Fiberglas Tower, Toledo, Ohio 43659.

GARDEN

Azalea And Rhododendron—In The House Or Garden

Azalea and rhododendron are both members of the Ericaceae family. Azaleas were introduced into Europe from China shortly after the beginning of the 19th century. The type specie of the rhododendron, a garden hybrid, had arrived from Asia Minor almost a half-century before. Today, they bloom in a variety of colors around the world.

In some areas of the United States, outdoor blooming of azaleas is heralded as the arrival of spring. Winter and early spring are normal flowering times, but earlier or later blooming can be induced with house plants. Summer cuttings should be placed in peat compost, located where light is available (yet not in direct sunlight) and frequently watered. When danger of frost is past, outdoor relocation is accomplished by plunging the pot into peat or good soil in a shaded area.

Less delicate care and attention is required by the Japanese Azalea, a dwarf evergreen shrub which blooms into crimson flowers. Plants filled with blooms require little attention if planted in acid peat moss, in semishade. Further cultivation is not required, as roots are very near the surface. There is, however, one precaution: the plant bed should be raised to allow good drainage.

Hybrid rhododendron may be tall or short and may bloom early or late, but usually in spring and early summer. They prefer light shade with some sun and do best in acid soil that contains no lime. In fact, in areas where the water supply is known to contain lime, it is recommended rainwater be collected and used in preference to tap water. Rhododendron add color to a spring or summer garden and are widely used as a patio pot plant.
