Divers Get Seven Out Of Cave

LAFAYETTE, Ga. (AP) — A cave-wise professor and six students — trapped beneath a mountain for 29 hours by flash floods — kept warm with calisthenics, warmed soup over a candle and traded jokes until rescue divers reached them.

The stranded party emerged bedraggled but chipper Sunday night after 29 hours in a large underground cavern.

When the first diver finally pulled his way against the force of gushing water through a 2-foot high, 60-foot long tunnel to reach the stranded spelunkers at about 9 p.m. Sunday, the cavers were preparing to make their own way out.

"Two minutes later, we would have met them all down the cave," said Warren Moore, a 22-year-old student at Georgia Southwestern College.

The first to slog from the watery cave was Cheryl Gillis, 19, who collapsed into the arms of her mother, Canolia Gillis of Macon, one of several anxious parents who kept a fireside vigil at the cave mouth in remote northwest Georgia.

"Thank God she's safe," Mrs. Gillis sobbed.

"The first 200 feet was comparatively easy," said Larry Bean, the diver who first reached the party. Then came the 60-foot underwater struggle.

Once he found air on the far side, Bean shouted, "Is anybody home?"

"They started yelling, 'Hey, we're here! We're here!'" he said. He said the group was high and dry about 1,500 feet from the mouth of the cave. "They were standing together on a bank in a large-sized room," he said.

Bean carried a spare oxygen tank and made seven trips, guiding one caver

Chinese Announce Troop Withdrawal

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — China said today it has begun withdrawing its troops from Vietnam, 16 days after they struck across the border to teach a bloody military "lesson" to Hanoi.

Peking's official news agency said the invasion force was being pulled out "after achieving the goals assigned them." But Vietnam called the Chinese attack a failure, and one Vietnamese ambassador said he did not believe Chinese troops were being withdrawn.

Intelligence sources in Bangkok said today they had not detected signs of a withdrawal, but throughout the conflict there has been a time lag between action in the field and analysts' reports here.

Kyodo, the Japanese news service, said in a dispatch from Peking that the government announced all Chinese troops were being withdrawn.

The announcement warned that "the Chinese side reserves the right to strike back again in self-defense" if Vietnam resumes the border "provocations and incursions" that China said forced it to launch its "self-defense" invasion Feb. 17.

"The Chinese government proposes once again that the Chinese and Vietnamese sides speedily hold negotiations to discuss ways of ensuring peace and tranquility between the two countries and then proceed to settle the boundary and territorial disputes," it said.

It also called on the rest of the world to "take measures to urge the Vietnamese authorities to stop promptly their aggression against Kampuchea (Cambodia) and withdraw all their forces of invasion."

A radio commentary by the Voice of Vietnam, broadcast at about the same time as the Chinese withdrawal statement, said Peking's leaders had "failed in their large-scale invasion to teach Vietnam a lesson and could not fulfill their expansionist aims."

At a meeting in Manila of the U.N. Economic and Social Commission of Asia and the Pacific, Vietnamese Foreign Minister Hoang Bich Son said of the Chinese withdrawal announcement, "We don't believe in what they say."

"From our experience China says one thing but does another," he said. "They say they will withdraw, but actually they are intensifying the war."

In recent days Hanoi has repeatedly dismissed unofficial reports of an impending Chinese withdrawal as misleading, saying Peking was actually stepping up the fighting.

A Hanoi summary of the two-week war said 10 per cent of the Chinese invasion force was killed or wounded and half the tanks and armored vehicles were destroyed. It said the corpses of Chinese officers only were taken back to China from Vietnam, and it took hundreds of trucks to transport the bodies.

Intelligence sources in Bangkok and elsewhere have said the Vietnamese lost Lang Son days ago.

Floods, Storms Take High Toll

A-J News Services

Flash floods spawned by melting snow left much of Illinois under water today, but the floodwaters that belted the Southland with up to 15 inches of rain began to recede. Weekend storms across the nation killed at least nine persons.

Texas, meanwhile, enjoyed balmy weather that gave the state a preview of spring. Sunny skies with temperatures ranging from the 50s on the South Plains to the 70s in South Texas are forecast this afternoon and Tuesday. No rain is in the forecast for the next couple of days in West Texas.

It was a much different story in Alabama, however, where five persons, including a 5-year-old girl, drowned Sunday. More than 200 families were forced to flee because of rising waters and tornadoes. Two drowned in Georgia and Missouri and two more died in Minnesota and Iowa.

Most of the evacuees returned to their homes Sunday. However, some Alabama river dwellers were told to start filling sandbags in anticipation of rising waters through Tuesday. Rivers across Alabama were receding today, but flooding remained a threat in the lowlands.

In Illinois, the temperature rose to the low 40s over the weekend, quickly melting January's blizzard snows and causing severe flooding in many Chicago suburbs. A number of roards were closed downstate.

Storm sewers filled and melting snow swelled rivers and creeks. In East Chicago Heights, firemen in fishing boats donated by neighbors rescued 13 families whose homes were threatened by a rising creek.

The flooding, aggravated by heavy rains Saturday, shorted some underground electrical circuits and power outages were reported in and around Chicago. Ice jams posed a new hazard, and police feared more flooding would come if the ice breaks up or more rain falls.

In Washington state, weather officials issued avalanche warnings due to heavy rain and rising temperatures. Two mountain climbers died in an avalanche Sunday on 11,000-foot Mount Rainier.

In Florida, the storm dumped up to 14 inches of rain on some areas of the Pan-

Trade Act Criticized In Austin

AUSTIN (UPI) — Realtors and defense attorneys today charged Texas' Deceptive Trade Practices Act is making consumer attorneys rich at the expense of businessmen's honest mistakes.

"This act in its present form has not only been inequitable, it has resulted in windfall profits to consumer attorneys," said Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless. Meier said the current law allows consumers to blackmail businessmen with the threat of triple damages.

Consumer representatives and two law school professors, however, said proposed changes in the statute will destroy the law and eliminate needed protections.

"The present law's treble damage provision provides incentive for consumers to act against deception, and makes deception unprofitable," said Joe Longley of Austin, former chief of the Attorney General's consumer protection division.

Page Keeton, former University of Texas Law School dean, said Meier's bill "guts the act."

Dozens of consumer representatives sported yellow lapel tags decrying the proposed changes saying "Consumer Destruction Act is a Real Lemon."

Realtors, attorneys who represent businessmen such as automobile dealers and other proponents of the proposed revision of the act far outnumbered the consumer representatives.

Carter To Meet Sadat In Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will fly to the Middle East Wednesday in a effort to salvage hopes for peace between Israel and Egypt, the White House announced today.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter will arrive in Egypt on Thursday afternoon for talks with President Anwar Sadat and will proceed to Israel on Saturday evening for talks with Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

A U.S. official who asked not to be identified said that at this point there are no plans for a three-way meeting among the leaders. The official said he did not know when Carter would return to the United States.

The announcement of the trip came some two hours after Begin told Carter at a surprise White House meeting that the Israeli cabinet has responded positively to U.S. suggestions for resolving some of the remaining obstacles to an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

Minutes after the announcement, Begin read a statement to reporters saying "the memorable visit will be of great importance to our people."

Begin said he would fly home Wednesday to prepare for the president's arrival. He planned to leave for New York late today after meeting with members of Congress.

"I believe the visit to Cairo and Jerusalem will further the cause of peace," Begin said. He took no questions.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said the developments "offer new promise" but added that "we should be under no illusions" that the road to peace would be easy.

Shortly before announcing his plan to go to the Middle East, Carter called Baker and Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., to brief them on the development.

The announcement of Carter's travel plans said his talks in Egypt and Israel "will focus on the peace process, regional security and bilateral issues."

The U.S. official said Carter believes his travels will "offer the best hope for success" in his months-old effort to promote an Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The White House announcement said:

"The president believes that we must not allow the prospects for peace, which seemed so bright last September to continue to dim and perhaps to vanish. If we do, the judgment of history and of our children will rightly condemn us."

Before Carter's trip was announced, Powell emphasized that "difficult issues remain." He said "the next step in the peace process is still under discussion."

Carter's secret proposals to salvage faltering peace hopes stirred interest in Israel and optimistic reports in that country's press.

Carter, holding a black umbrella aloft, walked from his Oval Office to greet Begin in a driveway. After a brief greeting, the president escorted the prime minister into his office.

Summoned to join the president for the brief mid-morning meeting were Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, presidential advisers Zbigniew Brzezinski and Hamilton Jordan and Powell.

"The Israeli government has responded positively to American suggestions on ways to help resolve some of the remaining differences" between Israel and Egypt, Powell said in a statement.

"However, it is important to understand that difficult issues remain. The next step in the peace process is still under discussion."

The surprise development appeared to buoy the hopes of U.S. officials who had expressed no optimism Sunday in announcing the American move.

But even then they emphasized that the U.S. suggestions dealt wwith only some of the remaining obstacles to completion of the long-elusive peace treaty.

"I'm sure that it's going to contribute to the process of the negotiations," Deputy Prime Minister Yigael Yadin told reporters after the cabinet meeting in Jerusalem. He made clear he was referring to Begin's recommendations and not Carter's proposals.

Neither side would disclose details of Carter's plans for breaking the Egyptian-Israeli stalemate in negotiations on a peace treaty, nor what Begin had recommended to his cabinet. But one Israeli of-

Iran Reveals Executions

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran resumed oil exports today for the first time in three months, and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime executed eight more of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's former officials, including four generals and a former member of Parliament.

A spokesman for the National Iranian Oil Co. said the tanker World Ambassador started loading 110,000 tons of light crude and 140,000 tons of heavy crude for the Mitsui Trading Co. of Japan at the Kharg Island terminal in the Persian Gulf.

It is the first shipment of crude oil for export since December, when the oil industry's 65,000 workers went on strike as part of Khomeini's campaign to bring down the shah's regime.

Another tanker was scheduled to arrive at Kharg Island on Wednesday to load crude for Ashland Oil, an American company.

The new government has said it will not restore the previous export level of 5.4 million barrels a day because it wants to conserve the oil reserves for the future. The national oil company said production Sunday was 1.7 million barrels, and industry sources predict it will be increased to 3 million barrels a day, with about 2.4 million barrels being exported.

In another development today, the Swiss government rejected a request by Iran's revolutionary authorities that it immediately "freeze" the assets of the shah, his family and associates in Switzerland. The Swiss said the situation did not merit emergency legislation and suggested that Iran instead follow the normal court procedures for such an action.

A communique from Khomeini's Revolutionary Committee announced that seven more former officials died by firing squad at 5 a.m. today after one of the ayatollah's special Islamic courts found them guilty of killing or torturing opponents of the shah.

This brought to 24 the number of former officials whose executions have been announced. Several others have been reported but not confirmed, and three men accused of shooting anti-shah demonstrators were stabbed to death by a mob in the central Iranian town of Najafabad three days ago as they were being taken to prison to await trial.

The communique said the seven executed in Tehran and their crimes were:

Gens. Abdullah Khajehnouri and Fakhr Modares, former chiefs of army courts who were responsible for the jailing and execution of thousands of opponents of the shah's regime.

Gen. Ali Akbar Yazdejerdi, former military governor of Mashad, responsible for the massacre of many people during anti-shah riots there.

Two Slayers Rebuffed By High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to hear the appeals of two convicted killers in Texas.

The justices refused to hear the plea of Billy George Hughes Jr., convicted and sentenced to die for the April 4, 1976 slaying of state trooper Mark Frederick. The court also left intact the death sentence of convicted Texas murderer Sammie Felder Jr., who in 1975 killed a Houston quadraplegic whose home he burglarized.

In a ruling of national significance, the Supreme Court ruled today that state laws which provide alimony payments only for women foster unconstitutional sex discrimination.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices struck down an Alabama law that required husbands, but never wives, to pay alimony.

Similar laws are on the books in 10 other states: Georgia, Idaho, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, New York, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee and Wyoming.

Noting that Alabama law provides for hearings in individual divorce cases to decide which spouse, if any, is financially dependent on the other, the high court said: "There is no reason, therefore, to use sex as a proxy for need."

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., writing for the majority, said the Alabama law violates men's constitutional right to equal protection.

Brennan said the state law "carries with it the baggage of sexual stereotypes" — that a woman's place is in the home and a man's place is in the marketplace and world of ideas.

Justices Potter Stewart, Thurgood Marshall, Byron R. White, Harry A. Blackmun and John Paul Stevens joined Brennan's opinion.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr. dissented, voicing doubts whether the court had jurisdiction over the particular Alabama case involved.

In other action, the court:

—Upheld a lower court outlawing of Missouri's requirement that doctors tell abortion-seeking women they will lose all parental rights if a live birth occurs. The justices also returned to lower court pending state action a decision barring prosecution of a South Carolina doctor on state charges of murder and performing an illegal abortion.

—Ruled in effect that reporters and news organizations have no right to be fo-

Proposed City Food Law Triggers Dispute

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Analysis

What appears on the surface to be a disagreement between Lubbock and Texas Department of Health (TDH) officials over the merits of the controversial proposed city food ordinance could develop into a legal challenge to the regulatory authority of state agencies, with potentially significant ramifications for many Texas communities.

Under the Texas Constitution, home-rule cities — communities with a population greater than 5,000 that have adopted governing charters — are empowered to pass ordinances that do not contain provisions "inconsistent with the Constitution of the State or of the general laws enacted by the Legislature of this State."

Lubbock is a home-rule city, one of 214 in Texas as of Jan. 15, 1977, and according to assistant City Attorney Donald Vandiver, "The question that has arisen is whether the rules of the State Health Board (overseer of TDH) will prevail in a home-rule city."

Vandiver said that regulations promulgated by a state agency may not possess the same authority as laws passed by the state legislature. If Lubbock's contention proves correct — and it perhaps will only be resolved in a courtroom — then home-rule cities may find themselves in the ambiguous position of competing with state agencies for final authority over local matters.

Asked whether regulations promulgated by a state agency might not have the authority of legislative statutes, Hal Nelson, assistant chief of the legal division of the State Health Board, said, "I do not happen to think that is a valid position.

"The crux of the matter, as I see it, is whether the ordinance of a home-rule city must be at least as stringent as regulations concerning the same matter adopted by the State Health Board."

In response to the state attorney's opinion (which Nelson stressed was his own and not necessarily that of the State Health Board), Vandiver said, "It is absolutely essential to make changes to meet local conditions."

The simmering debate over the power to amend the state food sanitation regulations to suit a local food ordinance is of consequence to several Lubbock organizations.

Perhaps the most concerned group is the City Health Department, which modeled the proposed ordinance closely to the state regulations but included a number of additional requirements, one of which is the controversial food handlers training program.

Lubbock Health Board chairman Dr. Ray Santos defended the proposed ordinance at a Feb. 22 city council hearing, saying the ordinance simply complies with existing state and federal food regulations, and "we can't be in conflict with them."

But substantial modifications to the proposed ordinance may result if the city discovers it can successfully challenge TDH.

Among the changes to the proposed ordinance recommended by Associated

Americans Expect Too Much From Love, Therapist Believes

By IRA J. DREYFUSS

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Do you expect your lover to be everything to you? If you do, you're expecting too much from love, and you could be hurt by the experience, says Dr. Debora Phillips, a behavior therapist who lives and practices here.

You may call it love, but she says it could more precisely be called a dependency.

"Dependency doesn't equal closeness or intimacy," says Miss Phillips. "It's a need for an object; for someone to be there, to bolster up insecurity."

And if you think your love life may be a dependency, you're far from alone, says Miss Phillips. Most American marriages are based on false assumptions as to what love is and what people should expect from it. It's one reason so many of them end in divorce, she says.

"We have grown up with a myth that we can find someone to fulfill all our needs, that there's going to be one person out there who is going to do that for us," she says. "And so many people keep finding a person to do that."

It doesn't work, she says, and they keep looking.

"They just think they found the wrong person," says Miss Phillips. "They don't learn that it's a myth."

And, she says, that can be dangerous.

Dr. Edward J. Sachar, director of the New York State Psychiatric Institute in New York City, says such people crave love so much it becomes an "addiction."

Their symptoms often come to light as a depression following the loss of their love object, in which they shrink from life, becoming apathetic, says Sachar. When in love, they are euphoric, he says.

It's very difficult for such a person in the throes of lost love to accept a compliment, because they don't feel worthy of it, says Miss Phillips. They don't feel liked by others, she says.

Milton E. Haynes, a New York therapist and social worker, says love addiction can be classified as narcissistic — a continuation of a self-centered, infantile state of development.

He says such people "didn't get the kind of maternal nurturance a child needs, and they're still seeking it.

"They don't know they should return love," he says. "You won't get much from someone like this except thwarted."

She says people suffering from a dependency on love need to learn how to stand by themselves if they are to stop leaning on others.

Her technique is a kind of assertiveness training, aimed at developing at teaching a person he or she can stand alone.

But Sachar, a psychiatrist and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at Columbia University in New York, says ordinary therapy alone may not be not enough. He says the psychiatric institute, after a rigidly controlled 1½-year study involving 20 women, has found a class of drugs that opens the way to rebuilding the personality.

The drugs, he says, are called "monoamine oxidase inhibitors." He says they're available by prescription, and, to his knowledge, are the only drugs that work.

He says MAO inhibitors keep the women in the study from crashing into depression when rejected in love. Instead of the depression, the subjects merely become "upset, like you or I," he says.

With their emotional storms eased by the drug, he says the women "then begin therapy to regulate their lives, so they're no longer love addicts."

DANCE MASKS

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Dance Masks of Mexico," an exhibition of traditional Mexican craft form, is on display at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History through Dec. 31. The museum says the 185 masks were created for dance dramas and "are among the surviving traditional Mexican folk-art forms fused with the beauty and magical power of the old Mexican Indian way of life."

DR. LAMB

All-Purpose Vitamins

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a bachelor and, quite frankly, my cooking leaves a lot to be desired. I eat intermitently at best and wonder if I should start taking vitamins. The question is, are there better brands than others and can vitamins replace a good dietary intake?

DEAR READER — I wish people would get their vitamins and minerals from good wholesome foods. That's the way nature planned things. There are people who do not eat a good, balanced diet, for a variety of reasons, and these are the ones who should take vitamins. Many people who live alone, young or old, don't eat properly. This is sometimes related to lack of cooking ability, as you confess. In other instances it is from lack of interest or just plain difficulties in cooking for one person.

I don't think it makes a lot of difference which vitamin tablet you take, as long as you take an all-purpose vitamin tablet you can buy at any grocery store which contains the recommended daily allowances (RDA) for all the important vitamins.

I'm also sending you The Health Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA) to give you my thoughts on what you should be eating. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

There is nothing wrong with taking vitamins if you need them. I believe some older people's vitamin requirements are increased. The hazards in vitamins are associated with taking large amounts.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have just given birth to a baby with the Down syndrome and congenital leukemia. Both the baby and I were extremely anemic. He is at the children's hospital in the intensive care unit now with a very uncertain prognosis. I would appreciate any information you can give me about this birth defect.

DEAR READER — The classic characteristics show a rounded head with physical features that resemble those commonly ascribed to orientals. That's a very superficial distinction, however, because you can readily tell a baby of oriental parents born with this defect.

You are going to hear a lot about this problem so I will confine my remarks to two points that you might not hear. In the past, it has commonly been said that women over 35 were the ones who gave birth to children with the Down syndrome. More recent evidence shows that only 20 percent of children with the Down syndrome were born to women over 35 and 80 percent to women below the age of 35. Most births are from women below 35. These women have 90 percent of all babies born.

The abnormal gene for the Down syndrome doesn't necessarily come from the mother. Recent studies have shown that the chromosomes from the father cause the Down syndrome in about one out of four cases.

College Student Happy To Own Furniture Firm

Charbonneau, 18, founded Andre Furniture Industries a year ago while he was a senior at South Windsor High School.

"I plan to be a millionaire before I die," the college freshman says.

Charbonneau, who has been making cabinets and furniture since he was 12 or 13, specializes in making plastic-laminated furniture.

Two or three area stores carry his products, and he also sells to private customers.

"My goal is to have orders stacked up for six weeks at a time," he says. "Right now, we deliver in 10 days to two weeks."

He and his staff — all under 21, including his younger brother and sister, Kevin and Kim — make tables, bookcases, waterbed frames and desks in a building owned by Charbonneau's father.

He plans his first major expansion with a move soon across the street to a larger building.

"I haven't made as much money on some jobs as I had anticipated," he said. "But I've never lost money on a job. I've never underestimated. I just have a feel for business and prices."

After little or no profit in the first few months, the company has started making money, he says.

His 48 working hours a week leave him little time to keep up with his business-administration courses at the University of Hartford.

"I'd rather do well at my business than in school," he said, but adds that the work in some ways helps his school work.

"When I study accounting, I go home right away and apply what I've learned, because I do my own bookkeeping," he said.

U.S. Composers Capture Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Twelve American composers have been named winners of the annual music awards given by the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters.

Winners of the Goddard Lieberson Fellowships of $10,000 each were Gerald Levinson, assistant professor of composition and theory at Swarthmore College, and Bruce MacCombie, assistant professor of music at the Yale School of Music.

The academy's own awards of $4,000 each went to Vivian Fine, Paul Chihara, Robert Subotnick and Robert Starer.

Six Charles Ives Scholarships of $4,000 each went to Susan Blaustein, Robert Beaser, Marilyn Bliss, David Goodman, Carl Breener, and Tobias Picker.

Promotions Aid Liquor Sales

By PHILIP GREER
And MYRON KANDEL

In the hotly competitive market for liquor sales, seven whiskies and liqueurs have been identified as the brands to watch in the 1980s. One leading industry expert has dubbed them the "sizzling seven" and says American consumers will be buying more and more of them in the decade ahead.

The seven — only one of which is produced in the United States — have been heavily promoted in this country in recent years and as a result they have far outdistanced the growth rate of the rest of the liquor industry, even though each one carries a premium price.

The seven sizzlers are: Amaretto di Saronno, an Italian liqueur; Crown Royal Canadian whiskey; Grand Marnier, a French liqueur; Jose Cuervo, a Mexican tequilla; Stolichnaya vodka from the Soviet Union; Tanqueray gin from Britain, and Wild Turkey, an American bourbon.

As a group, they have had an annual compounded growth rate of 22 percent since 1970, compared with an industry-wide rate in the distilled-spirits market of just 1.5 percent in the same period, according to figures given us by Impact, a semi-monthly newsletter that's considered the bible of the wine and spirits industry. (The growth rate was actually far greater, but Impact omitted Amaretto di Saronno and Stolichnaya from its comparisons, since their sales in this country were negligible in 1970.)

Marvin R. Shanken, the newsletter's editor and publisher, points out that the skyrocketing sales of the seven are no accident. Each brand has received a heavy promotional push in the U.S. The average marketing expenditure for the group last year, he told us, was a "staggering" $7.26 a case (or just over 60 cents a bottle), more than 300 percent greater than the $1.75-per-case (or 15-cents-a-bottle) average for all distilled-spirits brands.

Shanken says he culled his "sizzling seven" from the more than 6,000 labels of liquor products sold in the U.S. While marketing strategies for the seven have varied, he notes, each shares a common thread — they are at the high-priced end of their respective categories.

The resulting higher profit margines, he explains, provide the extra dollars for high-powered consumer advertising and sales promotion.

The most expensive of the seven is Grand Marnier, which sells at an average national retail price of $14.50 a fifth, according to Impact figures. Next come: Amaretto di Saronno and Crown Royal, both at $11.50; Wild Turkey at $9.50; Stolichnaya, at $7.85; Tanqueray at $7, and Jose Cuervo at $6.

Shanken estimates that the retail sales value of the seven brands totaled $440 million last year and will top $525 million this year.

The biggest seller in the group is Tanqueray gin, which started the decade with sales of 325,000 cases and is likely to break the magic million-case barrier this year, giving it a three-fold increase for the decade.

Even more impressive, though, is the spectacular sales performance racked up by Amaretto di Saronno, which was virtually unknown in this country in 1970 (with sales of only 2,000 cases). It hit 180,000 by 1975 and will reach an estimated total of 750,000 this year. The other "off-the-map" brand at the start of the decades was Stolichnaya vodka (with sales of 3,000 cases in 1970). It reached 71,000 by 1975 and will soar to an estimated 380,000 cases this year. This five-fold leap gives the Russian vodka the honors as the fastest-growing brand in the group over the last four years.

Wild Turkey, the lone American entry, has gone from 120,000 cases in 1970 to an estimated 700,000 cases this year.

The most heavily promoted of the seven brands last year was Crown Royal, which spent $7 million on advertising and sales promotion, according to figures gathered by Shanken. (The Canadian whiskey rose from 152,000 cases in 1970 to an estimated 780,000 this year.) Next came Wild Turkey, which spent $5.5 million, followed closely by Amaretto di Saronno, with $5.2 million.The Italian liqueur plans to step up its promotional efforts more than any of the others this year, Shanken estimates, budgeting for a 35 percent increase.

As a group, the seven spent a total of $29 million last year to attract the interest — and sales dollars — of the American consumer, a figure that's expected to grow by 20 percent to $35 million this year.

School Seeks Scholars

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Like his colleagues in the athletic department, Dr. Peter Consacro is busy recruiting for the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

The difference is that Consacro looks for brains, not brawn. He's competing with such schools as Harvard and Yale for the cream of high-school intellects around the country.

Consacro, head of UTC's Interdisciplinary Studies Department, is in charge of the institution's University Scholars program, which brings to UTC each year about 20 students who are in the top 5 percent of the National Merit Scholarship tests and who are demonstrated leaders.

Because it's small and relatively unknown, UTC goes one step further in its recruiting program than most universities, Consacro said. UTC pays the expenses of up to 60 students to come and spend three days on the campus, meeting with teachers and previous scholars and seeing the university's physical facilities.

The program, which replaced the old freshman honors program, is in its second year. Of the 20 freshmen and 30 sophomores, two have dropped out. They got married and had to go to work, Consacro said.

"We used to have freshman honors and we'd recruit for that too," Consacro said in an interview. "But there was nothing to keep those students together after the first year, and that's when I proposed a comprehensive program over four years."

The students may major in anything but they are required to take interdisciplinary seminars each year to give them a broad background in the humanities, fine arts, non-Western cultures, and the social, behavioral and natural sciences.

Why do universities need such programs?

"The university has a responsibility to provide education for very talented people who are going to be leaders in their communities," Consacro said. "If you don't look for this type of student, the level of learning, the atmosphere at the university will drop. These people provide a kind of leaven. They mix with other students and improve the intellectual climate on the campus."

Consacro doesn't like the comparison to athletic recruiting, but says it has some validity.

"They are recruiting people gifted in athletics," he says. "We are looking for students who are gifted intellectually and who have leadership potential."

And the scholars don't get the same all-expense-paid education many top athletes get. Out-of-state students get $4,000 for the four years and Tennesseans get $3,000, about half of what Consacro estimates they will need for their education.

Consacro told the 56 scholars candidates who visited the university recently that the program was designed to give them "a taste of excellence — you need it only once and you will want more and then you won't ever be willing to accept mediocrity."

Blind Seeing Eye Dog Earns Human Guide

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI) — Mingo, an 8-year-old guide dog for the blind, is going blind himself, but has earned his own guide, a human.

The golden retriever was returned to his trainer, Mrs. Robert Johnson, by the Sacramento minister Mingo served for six years.

Mrs. Johnson, a housewife who helped train Mingo, said Thursday she now will be the dog's eyes since Mingo has inoperable cataracts of his own.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Woe Men Voters League

ONE OF THE major problems which faces the nation in "turning things around" is being emphasized over and over again in Washington these days.

As the nation's capital breathes a sigh of relief from its worst snowstorm in half a century, it was braced for another kind of assault, not involving farmers.

A large contingent of state and local government officials has been and will continue converging on the town, most of them wanting something.

THAT SOMETHING is continued revenue sharing and counter-cyclical—automatic anti-recession—aid. Both are threatened with extinction.

The first group to arrive was the nation's governors. The second has been about 800 state legislators. Next on the visiting list is the National League of Cities, and lastly, March 11-13, the National Assn. of Counties.

All four groups have been disturbed by President Carter's Fiscal Year 1980 budget request, which recommends that total grant-in-aid outlays to state and local governments be increased by less than one percent, to $82.9 billion. If the rate of inflation is taken into account, Mr. Carter's proposal would amount to an actual decrease in federal aid.

ALREADY, THE nation's governors and spokesmen for the League of Cities have expressed opposition to such curbs.

They point out that many cities are in financial straits already and depend upon the money for crucial services.

Should such funds suddenly be cut, then local taxes would have to make up the difference.

The revolt against current taxes, let alone new ones, has already had major effects on state and local revenues across the board.

THE ISSUE raises several questions.

In the first place, it emphasizes the folly of depending on Uncle Sam for use of money sent him in the first place. In the second, one wonders what the government would do with the funds thus saved. And thirdly, state and local governmental agencies need to be looking at ways to save and cut spending as well as does the federal government.

And lastly, to coin an Oxford expression, all of it is not Federal, State or Local funds. It's the taxpayers!

J.R. BLUMROSEN says he disagrees with a recent chronicling of why merchants charge $3.49 or $4.98 instead of even money for merchandise. Says he:

"The true history is that in the olden days department store sales people would make a sale, then have to make a ticket and send it, along with the money, through a tube or conveyor of some type to a central office. The central office then would make proper change.

"The purpose of making change was to not let the sales people completely handle the transaction. In other words, if someone came in and bought something for a dollar it would be very easy for a sales person to give the merchandise to the customer and take the dollar and stick it into his pocket.

"By charging 98 cents, you had to have change and, therefore, the owner of the store then would receive the money and the sales person would not.

"If you will do a little checking on your own, you will find that this is the true history, or at least it is what I have been taught since I was six years old."

I'll take your word for it, J.R. Any story that's been around since you were six years old takes on an aura of truthfulness just out of antiquity if nothing else.

Agreed. But until 100,000 Lubbockites turn on their TV sets to watch the school board president perform, I'll have to say they're more enthusiastic about cheering the defensive back.

ON WHITTLING mountains back down to molehills:

Mayor Dirk West blasted as "incredible and stupid" allegations by Texas Youth Council parole supervisor Jimmy Ward that City Manager Larry Cunningham had lied about Criminal Justice Planner Dorothy Miller.

Cunningham was accused of saying Miss Miller had attempted to influence a SPAG advisory committee's recommendations on which criminal justice projects to fund.

Well, golly gee Ned, let us see now:

(1) As a SPAG staffer, Miss Miller wouldn't be doing her job if she didn't evaluate proposed projects and give committeemen information they need to make a judgment;

(2) Committee members aren't doing their jobs if they don't take staff data and make independent judgments;

(3) The City Manager has not only the right but the duty to report his objections to the City Council and criticize the decisions if he disagrees with them; and

(4) I've known Larry Cunningham for y'ars and y'ars and y'ars and I've asked him some pretty tough questions in my day. I've never had reason to think he was capable of lying.

Holmes Alexander:

Unwanted In Sects Plague Us

WASHINGTON—Fasten seat belts. Bumpy air ahead. No, this wasn't an aircraft, but the celebrated, marble-pillared Senate caucus room where Sam Ervin and Joe McCarthy did their acts.

The issue? Cults, first amendment rights of religion and free speech.

As chairman, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., had opened by explaining that this was a pick-up group of six senators and representatives, was not an investigation, not a forum, not a "media event," but an inquiry into the spooky phenomenon which had thousands of parents in dismay.

Their children were being brainwashed and alienated by mysterious forces. Strange sects called the Unification Church of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon, the People's Temple, which had supervised the mass suicide in Guyana, the Church of Bible Understanding and others not named, were conducting this subversive invasion under cover of the Constitution.

COULDN'T AMERICANS worship as they pleased? Couldn't they write and speak without interference of the government? Yes, but to what purpose?

If the adversary witnesses were right, this was an attempt at anarchy, at religious "totalism," at overthrow of the country. Sensational nonsense?

Not from such a witness as the spokesman of the American Civil Liberties Union, the Rev. Dean M. Kelley, whose liberalism is above suspicion. Kelley was urging that the U.S. government's duty was to protect the citizens against enemies in whatever disguise. He said:

"The ACLU deplores the reluctance of public officials to prosecute those who kidnap, assault and imprison others...Such criminal action should be punished...

"THE ACLU opposes murder, coercion and other violations of the criminal law...but we do not oppose vigorous prosecution by law enforcement authorities."

These views and opposing views, whipped the emotions of the crowded room. What goes on here?

In the streets outside, metropolitan police were struggling to contain the embattled farmers who had brought their tractors and other rural equipment to snarl traffic in a demand for farm price subsidies.

These were the same streets where anti-war protestors had fought with the cops a few years ago, and the same streets where foreign diplomats get assassinated and violent crime strikes night after night.

Is this the way it happens when a democratic republic crumbles into its decline? American power everywhere is in retreat as the alliances that once bound the free world together fall apart.

Dare we defend Taiwan against Chinese invasion which Defense Secretary Harold Brown declares will never come? But Iran, a similar ally, has cancelled $7 billion of American arms, and all but closed its oil supplies to us.

At a time when the political parties sought to be closing ranks against foreign threats, there are Republicans organizing to defeat the treaty limitation on strategic arms, and only because of how it might humiliate the President.

There are Democrats who want to replace Jimmy Carter, and it is hard to see where their loyalties to the country restrain their personal ambitions.

There may have been worse times for America, but that was when we had our titans with us —Washington and the Early Americans, Lincoln, who knew that American union was the citidel of human freedoms.

Today, we look for similar leaders, and they are not in sight.

Treasure Chest Tips Aren't Very 'Taxing'

(Tenth of 11 columns)

AS YOU MIGHT expect, the biggest impact of the '78 Revenue Act, passed so late last year, will be on the income taxes you will owe for '79 and will be reflected on the tax returns you will file in the spring of 1980. These points stand out above all others.

(1) For millions of Americans, higher Social Security taxes will more than offset the income tax cuts voted by Congress.

The following figures, prepared by the Research Institute of America, shows the net tax change from '78 to '79 for individuals in various income groups—when the Social Security tax bite has been placed against the income tax reduction. The RIA assumes your deductions equal 23 percent of your income. (Minus means you pay less, plus means you pay more.)

IF YOU ARE single, with an income of $15,000, your net tax change will be $67 less in 1979 than it was in '78; but if your income is $20,000, it will probably be $38 more in '79 than in 1978, and if your income is $30,000, $101 more.

If you are married, with two dependents, and an income, earned either singly or combined, of $20,000, your net tax change for 1979 will probably be $12 less than in '78; but if your income is $30,000, derived from only one wage earner, it will probably be $18 more.

If your income is $50,000, derived from only one wage earner, your net tax change for 1979 will be $294 less than in '78, but if derived from two wage-earners, each making at least $22,900, it will be $39 more.

IF YOUR INCOME is $100,000, derived from one wage earner, your net tax change for 1979 will be $869 less than in '78; but if it is derived from two wage earners, each making at least $22,900, it will be only $336 less this year than last.

On top of the capital gains and other tax breaks analyzed in this series, here are other key changes to be made for '79.

(1) The personal exemption for yourself, spouse, each dependent, the 65-or-older, etc., will be $1,000 against $750 for so many years. For instance, if you have five exemptions, you will be able to claim $5,000 on your '79 return instead of $3,750, as in '78.

The total gross income a dependent can have without becoming disqualified as a dependent also increases from less than $750 in '78 to less than $1,000 in 1979.

(2) BUT WHILE you are getting higher exemptions, you will be losing the '78 general tax credit of $35 per exemption, or 2 percent of up to $9,000 of taxable income, whichever is the larger.

While most of you will benefit from this change, many of you actually will be worse off with the new higher exemption and no credit, than you were with the $750 exemption plus the general credit for '78.

Worse off, for instance, will be all of you who are single with $9,000 or more of taxable income claiming one exemption!

The extra $250 exemption can't save more than the taxes at your highest bracket.

Regardless of whether this bracket is 30 percent, 40 percent, 50 percent, or even 70 percent, it can't make up for the loss of the $180 general credit (2 percent of $9,000 of taxable income) that was allowed for '78.

WHATEVER TAX savings you receive from the bracket and rate changes in '79 will be reduced by your loss of the general credit.

(3) There will be no deduction allowed on your '79 return for state and local gas taxes on nonbusiness cars, etc. But this generally is a small amount and is completely immaterial if you use the standard deduction.

(4) The standard deduction (now known technically as "zero bracket amount") goes up a bit for '79. If you are single or a head of household, you will get $2,300 instead of $2,200; if you are married filing a joint return, your standard deduction will be $3,400 instead of $3,200.

As in former years, the standard deduction will be built into the tax rate schedules or tax tables as a zero bracket amount.

(5) A quite revolutionary change (as tax changes are measured) will be the completely new tax rate schedules to apply in '79. The schedules are much shorter, with wider brackets and changed rates. These rates and brackets are built into the tax tables that millions of you will use for your '79 return.

AS AN illustration, the 1978 tax rate schedule for married taxpayers filing jointly has 25 separate income categories and the brackets are close to each other ($3,200, $4,200, $5,200, etc.).

The 1979 tax rate schedule for married taxpayers filing jointly has only 15 separate income categories and the brackets are much wider ($3,400, $5,500, $7,600, etc.).

The top bracket before the 70 percent rate in the 1978 schedule for married taxpayers filing jointly ran from $183,200 to $203,200; the 1979, from $162,400 to $215,400.

John D. Lofton:

SALT And Other Fantasies

WASHINGTON—Julia Moore is the public programs coordinator for the eight-man SALT Working Group located in Room 5517 at the State Department.

She vehemently and vociferiously denies that what this boiler-room operation is involved in is "selling SALT"—that is, peddling the Carter administration's views concerning the impending strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT) with the Soviets.

Moore says that what the SALT Working Group does do is help set up "educational briefings" around the country, like the one Feb. 22 in Minneapolis, Minn.

She said the purpose of that conference on "U.S. Security and the Soviet Challenge" was to provide "enough information so that community leaders out there, when they read their newspapers and when they see a SALT II agreement, will be able to evaluate it themselves."

WHEN ASKED if the administration desires a real, honest-to-goodness debate over SALT, Moore replies, with a straight face: "Of course, of course. We're trying to promote a discussion."

Now, if you believe all this, then you probably also believe in Santa Claus, the Easter Bunny and the Tooth Fairy.

Take the Minnesota conference...please. Sponsored by the Greater Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce and the State Department's Bureau of European Affairs, it featured four speakers—all members of the Carter administration: Vice President Mondale; a deputy secretary of state for European affairs; an official from the State Department's Bureau of European Affairs' office of Soviet affairs; and the director of the State Department's Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs.

In addition, the Minnesota conference audience, whose members were to question the speakers, was an invitation-only group chosen from a list "that the co-sponsors provided us with," according to Moore. She says the audience had been hand-picked "so that we get a broad-range audience and not a limited audience."

WHEN I SAY this whole thing has all the earmarks of a stacked deck, Moore says hey, look, on one of our programs last year we had Eugene Rostow, the Yale law professor who is a tough SALT critic and a member of the Committee on the Present Danger.

She also notes that at a State Department-sponsored conference this month, in Birmingham, Ala., another foreign policy hardliner will also be appearing—Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham (Ret.), the former No. 2 man at the CIA and ex-director of the Defense Intelligence Agency.

You mean you sought these people out and asked them to be a part of your program, I ask? Yes, we most certainly did, says Moore. She says that Rostow was asked because the conference was in Hartford and he is from Connecticut, explaining "we try and use local people."

WELL, AS YOU might guess, Rostow recalls things a bit differently. He tells me that he was included in the State Department's conference last July because a co-sponsor, the head of the state's AFL-CIO, John Driscoll insisted that the discussion be balanced. It was.

When I tell Moore what Rostow has told me, she says: "That's his version." But she doesn't contradict it.

Down in Alabama, Don Newton, executive vice president of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, also tells a different tale.

He says: "When we were approached last November by the State Department's SALT Working Group, we said we didn't like the idea of a SALT forum with only administration officials.

"WE LAID down two conditions: (1) both sides must be presented and we must approve the participants, and (2) it must not cost our chamber anything." Newton says the State Department agreed to this and, working through Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., the chamber was able to get Graham.

In our conversation, at times rather testy, Moore and I agreed on almost nothing. But she is correct when she says that SALT is a "very complex" issue.

Because this is so there is an extra burden on the State Department to play fair—to voluntarily balance its SALT conferences with critics as articulate as the defenders of the administration.

Thus far, however, this has not been done. And the fact that it hasn't is an outrage.

Footnote: Although candidate Jimmy Carter ran for President promising as "open administration," some of his people seem to have not gotten the word.

When I asked Bill Dyess, assistant secretary of state for public affairs, if there is a computer printout showing where and when department officials have spoken and are to speak on SALT, he confirmed that there is. But, he said, this information is for "internal use" and "probably won't be released to the press. I don't know."

When I ridiculed his refusal to say that I could have a list of public officials who have spoken and are to speak publicly, he suggested that I invoke the Freedom of Information law.

Subsequent to my talk with Dyess, I was called by David Fisher, director of the State Department's public programs. He promised to mail me the computerized list I was seeking.

A veteran congressman told a new colleague, "In Washington, if you're not confused, you haven't heard all the facts yet."

San Francisco Mayor Plans Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The announcement by Mayor Dianne Feinstein was of a decidedly nonpolitical nature: she's getting married.

MRS. FEINSTEIN

Mrs. Feinstein, 45, who took office as the city's first female mayor after the City Hall asassinations of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk in November, says she's engaged to investment banker Richard Blum.

The mayor said Saturday she and Blum, 45, plan a religious ceremony before family and friends sometime after her daughter's July wedding.

Mrs. Feinstein, first elected a city supervisor in 1969, ran unsuccessful campaigns for mayor in 1971 and in 1974.

Her second husband, neurosurgeon Bertram Feinstein, died of cancer last April. Her first marriage to attorney Jack Berman ended in divorce. They had one daughter, Katherine, 21, who is engaged to building contractor Scott Morrison.

Philosopher Predicts 'World Man'

FULLER

"I live on a little planet called Earth," says the architect, inventor, philosopher. "People don't live in single places. You find very few people here in town who were born here."

His comments came at a weekend news conference in which he predicted that national boundaries would become archaic and the concept of "country" will be obsolete by the 21st Century.

A new "world man" will emerge on the global scene, said Fuller, designer of the geodesic dome. Large corporations and churches, realizing it's futile to confine their activities to national boundaries, already operate on a global scale, he said.

Fuller envisions future generations of human beings "cross-breeding" into a "world man."

Armstrong Back In Public Eye

CINCINNATI (AP) — When former astronaut Neil Armstrong started making commercials for the Chrysler Corp., it may have seemed he was making a giant leap back into the public eye.

ARMSTRONG

But it really was only a small step — Armstrong remains a very private man.

In the 9½ years following his historic walk on the moon, Armstrong has kept out of the spotlight. In 1971, he moved to a farm and began teaching aerospace engineering and doing research at the University of Cincinnati.

"I have looked at a lot of opportunities without discounting the entire field," he said of his decision to do the commercials. "At Chrysler, they've got a long history of solid engineering, and this is the basis on which they approached me to represent their organization."

But Armstrong refused to be identified on the basis of Apollo 11.

"He wanted to make sure nobody dressed him up in a space suit," said Chrysler public relations manager Moon Mullins. "He said in no way did he want to take advantage of his background."

Nixon Angered Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) — The late President Eisenhower, furious over a political slight from Richard Nixon, once ridiculed Nixon by imitating his vice president's hunched posture, says Newsweek magazine.

The magazine quotes author David Halberstam, who described the incident in his new book, "The Powers That Be." Halberstam's source for the incident was Republican Party strategist Len Hall.

Hall was called to Eisenhower's office after Nixon had turned down Eisenhower's offer to campaign for Nixon in the 1960 presidential race, which he lost to John F. Kennedy.

"The President was in a rage," the book says of Eisenhower. "'Did you see him? Did you see him?'" it quoted him as saying to Hall.

"Ike did an imitation of Nixon, hunched over, shoulders bent, head down. 'Did you see that? When I had a frontline officer like that in World War II, I relieved him,'" the book quoted Eisenhower as saying.

The Lighter Side
Of Today's News

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — A 23-year-old woman has complained to the Contra Costa Sheriff's office that her romance with a beekeeper didn't finish sweetly — it ended with a pie in her face.

Jeanne Garcia told deputies she agreed to have dinner with the beekeeper to end their romance. After dinner, he left the table only to return with a gooey cream pie, which he planted on her face. He then snapped a couple of pictures and left.

But that wasn't the end of it, Miss Garcia told deputies. Outside she discovered someone had let the air out of a tire on her car.

New Orleans Policemen End 16-Day Walkout

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans police, their union in a shambles after a 16-day strike that failed, faced a contempt hearing today for defying a back-to-work order issued at a judge's home hours after the walkout began.

Mayor Ernest Morial, in announcing an end to the strike Sunday and withdrawal of the city's recognition of any police union, also said he was withdrawing an offer to recommend that the contempt citations be dissolved.

Civil District Judge Richard Garvey, whose back-to-work order subsequently was upheld by the state's 4th Circuit Court of Appeal, could sentence disobedient officers to six months in jail.

Garvey issued the order at his home within hours after 1,100 of the city's 1,514-member police department began their walkout Feb. 16 for higher wages and increased benefits. It came a week after a 30-hour police walkout in which the Teamsters Union won recognition of its Police Association of Louisiana.

The walkout devastated tourism during Mardi Gras — an estimated $50 million industry — but the National Guard and state police maintained law and order during the boisterous Carnival street party.

Saying they refused to be "held hostage" by striking police, captains of the city's major Carnival krewes, or social clubs, trumped the union's high card by canceling their parades or moving them to the suburbs.

Police began trickling back to work Saturday after Mitch Ledet, secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Teamsters, and Vincent Bruno, president of the policemen's union, said they would recommend approval of the city's latest offer.

But the city's offer was rejected, 447-173, after Police Superintendent James Parsons announced the city would prosecute strikers who slashed 330 tires on police vehicles and committed other acts of vandalism.

The walkout dissolved entirely — along with the union and its hopes for a contract with the city — when strikers continued their return to work Sunday.

"The present state of confusion makes it impossible for the city to continue negotiationh the union, since we cannot determine who represents the organization," Mayor Morial said Sunday.

"Accordingly, we wish to make it clear at this time that the city's final offer, laid on the table last Thursday, is now withdrawn and there is nothing to be accomplished by further negotiations."

However, Morial said he would abide by the city's offer to increase uniform allowances by 10 percent to $275 a year, to increase life insurance coverage and to develop a new formula for computing overtime. He said the package would cost the city $2.5 million a year.

Morial promised amnesty to all police officers who returned to work prior to Saturday night's rejection vote, but said amnesty for those returning later would be considered on a case-by-case basis.

"Even though their hearts were on the picket line, I just don't think they could hold out much longer financially," said Bruno, who called police headquarters Sunday for reassignment. "We put up a good fight. We were overcome by superior forces, I guess you might say."

Safety Bottles Threat To Aged

CHICAGO (UPI) — The safety cap that keeps junior from opening pill bottles also may be preventing seniors from taking their medication, the Journal of the American Medical Association reports.

In a commentary in the March 9 issue, a New-York based group of physicians who specialize in geriatrics agreed, "with the introduction of child-resistant medication containers, the geriatric patient had suffered another setback in an already poor record of medication compliance."

Studies show a good number of elderly patients would rather skip the pill than deal with the frustration of losing a fight with a bottle cap. Or, if the battle is won, the cap may be left off for easier access next time, causing many medicines that should be tightty capped to lose strength.

Doctor or patient may request an easy-open container, the report said, but too many physicians overlook the probtem, and few patients are aware there's an option.

President Authorizes Campaign Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has not yet said he will seek re-election next year — but he's doing the preliminary work for a campaign.

In a major step, the president authorized creation of an "exploratory" campaign committee to be headed by Democratic National Committee Treasurer Evan Dobelle, a Democratic source said Sunday.

DNC staff members telephoned between 800 and 1,000 party leaders across the county Saturday to inform them the committee will be formed, probably within the next 10 days, the source said.

The law requires that candidates who intend to raise funds for a political campaign file papers with the Federal Election Commission. Forming an exploratory committee allows money to be raised on behalf of a candidate without having to make a formal announcement.

Asked when Carter would announce his candidacy formally, the party source said, "I wouldn't expect it until the end of the year."

Dobelle, who worked on Carter's 1976 campaign but did not hold a title, will be "campaign coordinator" instead of manager.

That was seen as an indication that major campaign strategy could still come from the president's chief aide and 1976 campaign manager, Hamilton Jordan, and other senior White House staffers.

Both Jordan and press secretary Jody Powell will remain in the White House, "at least for the time being," the source said. Dobelle was expected to resign as DNC treasurer to take up his new duties.

The exploratory committee is being formed mainly to begin raising money for the 1980 campaign, rather than to build a Carter organization around the country, the source said.

"That's the reason almost every exploratory committee is filed," she said. "You can't raise a dime without a committee on record (at the FEC), whereas you can organize."

Most of the 1980 presidential hopefuls so far, such as Republicans George Bush and Ronald Reagan, have filed papers for exploratory committees. But the only major candidates to announce formally are former Texas Gov. John Connally and Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill.

"In the case of the president, it allows him to keep politics out of government a little while longer," the party source said.

Blumenthal Tells Japan Of Possible Barriers

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said today that Japan must restructure its economy to allow more imports of manufactured goods or run the risk that Congress will raise barriers against that nation's exports.

Blumenthal said after meetings in Toyko today with Japanese leaders, including Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, that the Japanese fear Congress may order a surcharge against imports into the United States.

The purpose of the surcharge would be to raise the consumer price of imported Japanese goods, presumably including color television sets and automobiles, to slow U.S. demand for those products.

The Japanese "consider this to be a real risk; it would be a real risk," Blumenthal told reporters en route home from an 11-day trip to China and Japan.

The treasury secretary spent nine days in China during which he presided over successful negotiations to settle $197 million in U.S. claims against China left over from the Communist revolution in 1949.

Under the accord, China agreed to pay to 677 American claimants 41 cents for each dollar of claim, a total of $80.5 million.

Blumenthal also represented President Carter at the official opening of the U.S. Embasssy in Peking, the first in China since 1949.

The secretary told reporters in an airborne news conference that he will report to Carter this week on his China visit.

He said the next step in further cementing Sino-American relations will be a formal trade agreement. Officials traveling with Blumenthal said there will be an exchange of proposals on a trade pact in mid-March, followed by a meeting in mid-April.

Blumenthal said his counterpart in China, Finance Minister Zhang Jingfu (Chang Ching-fu) will visit the United States in June or July.

A trade agreement is likely to be discussed further at that time. Such an accord is important because it spells out the terms and projected volume of trade between the two countries.

China is said to be particularly anxious that an agreement provide tariff concessions under the most favorable terms permitted by U.S. law.

During an overnight stop in Japan, Blumenthal said he told Ohira and other Japanese leaders that the Chinese are serious in their commitment to modernize their economy. However, he said he told them, "It's an ambitious program; they've got problems to overcome, and only gradual progress could be made."

Blumenthal said he expressed to Ohira and others this country's continuing concern over the large Japanese surpluses in its trade with other nations, especially the United States, which was in deficit to Japan by a record $12 billion last year. That figure accounted for about half of the total U.S. trade deficit.

"It is very important for them to move in the direction ... of restructuring their economy to bring about a greater opening of the Japanese economy to imports, especially imports of manufactured products," Blumenthal said.

"They said this was their goal, but it takes time," he continued. "They showed a greater understanding of the problem than before."

The large Japanese trade surpluses have led to economic problems for other nations. This has been especially true for the United States, since the combination of a Japanese surplus and U.S. deficit has helped to drive down the value of the dollar and has been cited as a cause of the nation's worsening inflation rate.

U.S. officials are afraid the Japanese surpluses will become chronic, even though some progress in reducing it has been made in recent months.

"The Japanese are aware of dissatifaction in the Congress. They are concerned, and they ought to be, that Congress might unilaterally take action they would wish to avoid," Blumenthal said.

One U.S. official traveling with Blumenthal said Washington would like Japan to import more American cigarettes, among other things.

"It isn't that we want them to smoke more, but if they are going to smoke, we think there should be equal treatment," he said privately.

Other than trade, Blumenthal and Ohira discussed China's invasion of Vietnam and the economic summit meeting to be held in Tokyo this June.

Amin Apparently Not Concerned About Latest Artillery Attack

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Tanzanian invaders shelled a town 70 miles inside Uganda apparently in preparation for an attempt to take it, but 52 miles to the north President Idi Amin and residents of his capital of Kampala showed little concern.

Lukaya, on the main road from the border to Kampala, has been under heavy artillery fire for several days, diplomats in Kampala reported by telephone. But the diplomats said conditions in the Ugandan capital were normal and there was no suggestion of evacuating the 3,000 foreigners, 130 of them Americans.

The Daily Nation newspaper in Nairobi quoted a source close to Amin as saying that the Ugandan president and his military commanders were debating whether to launch a new offensive, but that Amin had hopes his earlier requests for cease-fire negotiations with Tanzania would be granted.

The informant also claimed that 2,500 Libyan and Moroccan troops had arrived in Uganda to help Amin, but Western diplomats in Nairobi said they had no indication of such a troop movement.

In the Tanzanian capital of Dar es Salaam, exiled former Ugandan President Milton Obote admitted for the first time that his supporters are now fighting Amin's forces in Uganda.

Obote said in an interview for television that his guerrilla forces are "marching towards Kampala." Obote was overthrown by Amin on Jan. 25, 1971, while he was in Singapore attending a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers.

Amin and Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere have been bitter enemies since Amin ousted Obote and Nyerere gave the former president asylum.

The former president said he is certain that the outcome of the current campaign is going to be the fall of Amin's regime, but he said he does not plan to return to Uganda as president.

"I will return as a Ugandan," he said. "We want to liberate the country first before we talk about leaders. First we must liberate the country, then we will sit down to decide how to elect our next president."

He added, however, that "I have a lot of support inside Uganda. That is a fact."

In statements released in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam, Ugandan exiles said that raiders who struck the border town of Tororo last week succeeded in their objective of seizing arms from a government armory there, and that 300-400 troops loyal to Amin were killed in the battle.

The anti-Amin expatriates said the raid had been planned well in advance with dissident soldiers in the town, and "all objectives were achieved." Their claims could not be verified.

Sources in the city, however, reported that truck and rail traffic from Kenya through the key border town has been reaching Kampala normally. They said the anti-Amin guerrillas tried to cut the supply line Friday by attacking Tororo, but government forces repulsed them.

Amin said in a broadcast carried by Radio Kampala that the younger of his two wives, 22-year-old Sarah, proved to be "the best woman commander in the army" by leading a strike force of women on a mission under fire.

The broadcast said while Amin was directing his forces from his command post, Sarah led six vehicles "without his knowledge" through heavy fire and without sleep for two days to accomplish her mission, which was not disclosed.

Uganda invaded northern Tanzania five months ago, occupying 700 square miles of border territory which Amin claimed, but the Tanzanians drove the invaders out. Nyerere's forces retaliated several weeks ago by punching into southern Uganda.

Reports from Ugandans in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam indicate the Tanzanians have occupied the two biggest towns in southern Uganda, Mbarara and Masaka, within 50 miles of the border. Telephone communications with both towns have been cut.

Most observers here believe the Tanzanians have no intention of pushing all the way to Kampala. Nyerere's aim is believed to be to punish Amin for his October invasion and to maintain enough pressure on him to end his eight-year dictatorship.

Brezhnev Re-Elected Russian President

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leonid Brezhnev today began another five-year term as president, an election winner along with all the other 1,499 candidates handpicked by the Communist Party.

The outcome of Sunday's election was so certain that the Tass news agency didn't even bother to report the names of the winners or the number of votes each received. It merely reported the percentage of eligible voters who cast their ballots — 99.58 percent.

"Everywhere elections to the Supreme Soviet passed in an organized manner and in an atmosphere of high political activity on the part of the voters, who demonstrated the unbreakable unity of the party and the people, the triumph of socialist democracy," the Central Electoral Commission reported.

Brezhnev, wearing an overcoat and plaid woolen scarf and accompanied by his wife, Victoria, cast his ballot in a small, white voting hall crammed with reporters and cameramen.

Steadied by his wife's hand, Brezhnev strode along a red carpet to the box where he dropped in his vote.

Since there was only one name on each ballot, there was no need for Brezhnev to enter a voting booth or mark his ballot.

Voters may strike the lone candidate's name or write in another in a private voting booth. But few choose to do so, since stepping into the booth easily singles them out from other voters.

In a brief chat with reporters, Brezhnev said he felt "very well," and that a SALT II treaty will be signed "when the documents have been prepared by (U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus) Vance and our minister..."

Asked what the Soviet Union will do if China does not end its invasion of Vietnam, Brezhnev replied: "You're asking me?"

Brezhnev ran for a seat in the Supreme Soviet representing the Bauman district in another section of Moscow from where he lives. But — like all 1,500 candidates in the nationwide election — his was the only name on the ballot so his election was a mere formality.

In the current parliament, party members hold 72.2 per cent of the seats, but all candidates must be officially approved and they run unopposed.

Arab Ministers Consider Ways To End War

KUWAIT (UPI) — Arab League Foreign Ministers met in closed session today to consider a joint Syrian-Iraqi working paper on how to end the 10-day-old border war between North and South Yemen, political sources said.

As the session entered its second day, Yemeni officials disagreed on how well the Syrian-Iraqi mediated ceasefire was holding.

South Yemeni defense minister Col. Ali Ahmed Nasser Antar told the Iraqi News Agency in Aden today that "total calm is prevailing along the border area for the second straight day."

But an unnamed North Yemen official told a Kuwaiti newspaper that South Yemeni forces in the south had opened new fronts and launched tank attacks Sunday.

The foreign ministers from both countries sat down Sunday to discuss their 10-day border dispute at an emergency session of the Arab League in Kuwait.

Both arrived aboard the same plane from Baghdad amid predictions the meeting would approve a plan calling for a permanent cease-fire supervised by an Arab peace-keeping force.

A South Yemeni source said, "All problems have been almost settled in Baghdad but the conference will be useful in working out the implementational measures."

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said, "The conferees will not depart before ending the problem."

The optimistic viewpoints contrasted with bitter statements issued in Aden, the South Yemeni capital, and in Sanaa, the capital of North Yemen.

Each government charged the other with violating a cease-fire that both sides had agreed to put into effect Saturday.

"North Yemen will not open a dialogue with the Aden government before fighting halts and South Yemeni troops withdraw from all territories they occupied," the official was quoted as saying.

The pro-Western regime in Sanaa also charged that Marxist South Yemen used Cuban and Ethiopian troops to capture two North Yemeni provinces.

BOAT PEOPLE LAND

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Forty-five Vietnamese refugees landed by boat at Kuala Tumpat, 210 miles northeast of Kuala Lumpur, a police spokesman reported Sunday. He said the 23 adults and 22 children, who reached shore Saturday, were being temporarily housed at Kuala Tumpat and would later be sent to the Pulau Island refugee camp. Malaysian camps currently hold 53,000 Vietnamese refugees.

Liberals Complaining About SALT Treaty

Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D.; Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.; and William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Sunday they might oppose a new strategic arms pact unless it will "substantially curb the arms race."

The senators said the proposed SALT II treaty — expected to be ready for submission to the Senate later this year — may be only a "dangerous illusion of security" that will spur, rather than control, the arms race.

The warning could represent serious trouble for the treaty, which would need two-thirds Senate approval. However, the statement could also be seen as an attempt to offset conservative pressure on Carter.

"We believe that any agreement which encourages the redirection of the arms race rather than curtailing it is at best transitory and at worst a dangerous illusion of security," the senators said in a statement.

"That is why we have concluded that the proposed treaty is very difficult if not impossible for us to support."

In a speech two weeks ago, Carter said SALT II would stabilize the arms race while allowing the United States "to pursue all the defense programs we believe we may eventually need."

Hatfield called those comments "contradictory at best and deceptive at worst," saying the treaty apparently will permit the two superpowers to develop major new weapons systems under the guise of stabilizing the arms race.

"These weapons systems will seriously complicate any future effort to control, verify and negotiate numerical limitation in our nuclear arsenals," Hatfield said.

"Our diplomats have been told to negotiate around and protect the Pentagon's wish list for a whole new crop of weapons," said McGovern, the Democratic Party's 1972 presidential nominee.

He complained that Carter appears willing to sacrifice long-term hopes for comprehensive arms control in exchange for "a few hardliners' votes for a very modest interim step in the SALT II agreement."

Meanwhile, Proxmire said the SALT II treaty, which was intended to reduce spending on nuclear weapons, might ironically end up causing greater military spending.

"SALT will be the vehicle for justifying the MX program, which will cost at least $30 billion," Proxmire said. "SALT II will also encourage pressures for a new continental air defense system at a cost of at least $15 billion, a new manned penetrating bomber and an interim bomber."

The MX is a new mobile missile designed so it can be moved either on the ground or in the air to prevent its destruction by a Soviet nuclear strike.

Proxmire said the treaty should seek real reductions in land-based missiles on both sides to ease the fears of a first strike and result in savings to taxpayers.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

The Newspaper Bible

Luke 11:21—30, The Living Bible

22 Until someone stronger and better armed attacks and overcomes him and strips him of his weapons and carries off his belongings!

23 Anyone who is not for Me is against Me; if he isn't helping Me, he is hurting My cause.

24 When a demon is cast out of a man, it goes to the deserts, searching there for rest; but finding none, it returns to the person it left

25 And finds its former home all swept and clean.

26 Then it goes and gets seven other demons more evil than itself, and they all enter the man. And so the poor fellow is seven times worse off than he was before."

27 As He was speaking, a woman in the crowd called out, "God bless Your mother — the womb from which You came, and the breasts that gave You suck!"

28 He replied, "Yes, but even more blessed are all who hear the Word of God and put it into practice."

29, 30 As the crowd pressed in upon Him, He preached them this sermon: "These are evil times, with evil people. They keep asking for some strange happening in the skies (to prove I am the Messiah), but the only proof I will give them is a miracle like that of Jonah, whose experiences proved to the people of Nineveh that God had sent him. My similar experience will prove that God has sent Me to these people.

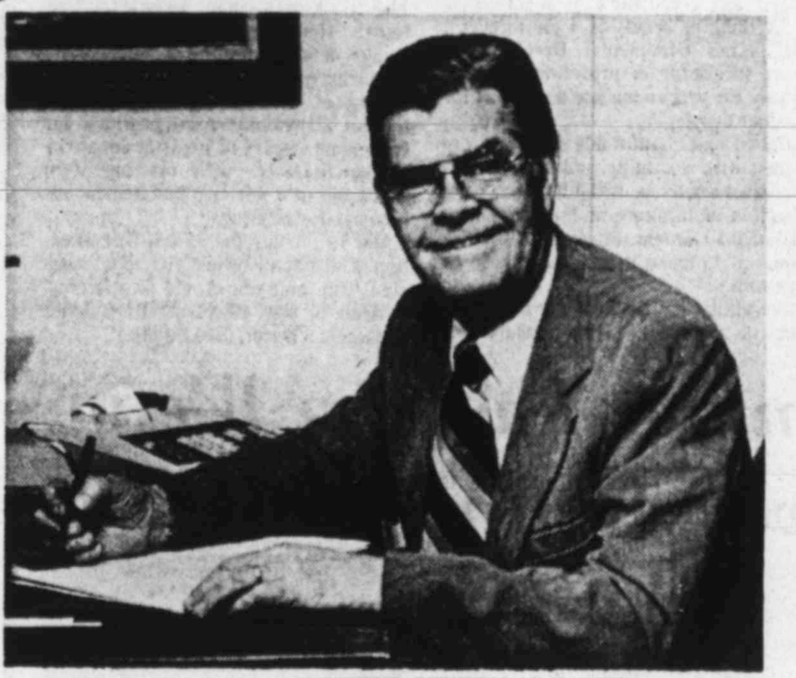
NEW FACILITIES EXCEL — Note the Used Car Department facilities just completed (bottom) at Pioneer Lincoln Mercury, and the big central building of the firm (top) on its spacious tract at Loop 289 and Utica. With the expansion, the firm provides facilities outstanding in all the Southwest.

Pioneer Lincoln Mercury Firm Continuing 'On The Grow'



JIMMIE GUNN, PRESIDENT, GENERAL MANAGER

Pioneer Lincoln Mercury has again expanded its operation with the opening of new Used Car facilities adjacent to the dealership at 4801 Loop 289 South (Loop 289 & Utica).

"With this latest expansion, Pioneer Lincoln Mercury becomes the finest new and used car dealership in the Southwest. No other Lincoln Mercury dealership can offer what we are now capable of providing," Jimmie Gunn, president and general manager of the company, said today.

Ten Year Growth

Pioneer Lincoln Mercury, which opened its doors 10 years ago this month, began operation on 1½ acres at 9th Street and Avenue H with 20 employees. Today, the dealership covers nine acres and employs over 60 people. As the operation celebrates its 10th anniversary, it also celebrates its third year at the present location which includes, not only the used car facility, but some 26,000 square feet of showroom, offices, service department and body shop.

"Throughout the years, we have appreciated our many customers very much. To them, we've had a total commitment and have taken great pride in standing behind what we've sold. We think that's why we've continued to grow as we have," Gunn further stated.

Staff Excels

Randall Caviness, general sales manager, said: "We now consider ourselves the No. 1 Lincoln Mercury dealership with the finest stock of new and used cars within a 300 mile radius of Lubbock."

Gene Holeman is used car sales manager at the new facility. Used car specialists include Ramzi Baranzi, Roy Houk and Cruz Reyna.

Les McDowell heads the company's ultra-modern and efficient Service Department which features the latest and the finest equipment. It includes Strobe balancer to handle any type wheel, Rotunda tune-up engine analyzer scope, infrared exhaust analyzer and the best equipment to handle front end service. Dennis Bernard and James Dillon, service specialists, feel that the dispatching and inter-communications systems in this department speeds up the work of service personnel. They honor major credit cards and there is easy access and ample parking for this particular operation.

New car specialists are George Dale, Monroe Jeffcoat, Ted Jenkins, Dusty Earl, Wayne Waters and Joe Paulk.

"We invite our friends and neighbors to come visit us during the grand opening of our new Used Car facilities. We'll have a big array of good, clean, previously-owned cars to display. We'd also like to showcase all the beautiful 1979 Lincoln Mercury units as we celebrate 10 years of service to the people of the South Plains," Gunn concluded.

Optical Store & Boutique Outlines Services, Quality, Styles For All

"Our Boutique is Unique" is the motto but nevertheless an understatement of the services and products of The Optical Store & Boutique, 5202 Slide Road, phone 792-0901, in Lubbock!

Thoroughly in keeping with the firm's consideration of the customer's welfare, the folks there emphasize:

(1) Children should have an eye examination annually;

(2) Adults should take the same step every two years;

(3) Even if one does not wear glasses, eye examination on a systematic schedule is recommended;

(4) See your eye doctor and then when glasses are advised, bring his prescription to us at The Optical Store & Boutique, and we'll prove our uniqueness and capabilities, with you benefitting.

(We want to see you keep your frames in good repair; and we'll help if you simply give us the chance!)

Sunglasses

It also is pointed out at this season that with advent of accelerated outdoor activities, sunglasses will be popular. See us for optical-quality sunglasses, with no prescription necessary for these.

"And did you realize that The Optical Store & Boutique stocks the complete spectrum in frames, including a utility selection combining style with surprisingly low price?"

Yes, quality lines in frames and glasses are just as near as The Optical Store & Boutique, just south of 50th & Slide, clearly marked on the west side of Slide. Phone 792-0901.

A departmentalized arrangement of rooms and areas provides four distinct categories in our service: (1) utility selection, (2) another where quality is the sole consideration, (3) designer frames, and finally (4) the Boutique.

So, whether the attractively priced lines in frames and glasses for the student, as example, or the very finest in choices from the Designer collection or the unusual and expensive lines within the Boutique are preferred, this Lubbock facility is outstanding, in a class by itself.

Upon entry into The Optical Store & Boutique, one is impressed with the pleasing but striking decor (such as the art deco in the Designer Room carried out in mirrors, pictures and fixtures), a customer consideration that exemplifies the firm's uniqueness.

One may first discover the Designer Collection where an area is devoted entirely to designer frames by Ralph Lauren, Givenchy, Diane Von Fustenberg, Oscar de la Renta and other top designers.

Then there is the Children's Corner in another segment of the complex.

And who could not help but be most intrigued by the Boutique where antique decor dominates and where the unusual and expensive lines are displayed. Some glasses are set with diamonds, some with 18k gold settings, some with real cultured pearls. Custom design with special precious stones, etc., is a specialty.

Lines are out-of-the-ordinary, with some exclusive in Lubbock to the Boutique, such as the Martin Creations from West Germany.

"See what we mean when we say that 'Our Boutique is Unique,' providing a product and service seldom experienced anywhere?"

"May we have the pleasure of your visits? We know we can serve you within one or more of our departments."

March Spring Sale Providing Special Savings At Jones Ornamental Decor

So much is going on at Jones Ornamental Decor that one is urged to read the following items, one by one, correctly hinting of the "goodies in store" at the 3403 34th St. (Indiana Gardens) business.

Throughout March a big sale is arranged, with 20 per cent off on all outdoor furniture!

Included is Woodard Mayfield Mesh, Woodard Desert Flower Strap, Plantation Patterns Mesh, Barrycroft aluminum, with many accent pieces such as end tables, folding baker's rack, coffee tables, etageres, one-of-a-kind spring base cushion chairs, sofa, club chairs, ottomans and swings, to name a few.

Also marked at the big 20 per cent off during March are all outdoor accent pieces such as urns, planters, plant stands, park benches, grape design settees, chairs, sportsman cookers, hibachis, electric barbeques and kettle type barbecues.

What an opportunity!

Furniture for a lifetime of pleasure is the true situation at Jones Ornamental Decor, and the Spring Sale underway throughout March makes for even greater ease and savings in selection of the items you have desired.

Items From Kessler

"Be sure and see our collection of rattan and bamboo styles of furniture by Kessler.

Aside from the tremendous stock at this time, new selections will be arriving throughout the month.

(Did you realize that Jones stocks gorgeous headboards, dinettes, bar stools and scads of decor items?)

For Year-Long Enjoyment

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever", and Jones Ornamental Decor seems most successful in providing items of beauty for year-round use as well as for outdoor living.

Casual and comfortable furniture, designed with durability and style receiving equal attention, is the thumbnail description of furniture at the Jones firm in Indiana Gardens. Stocked is furniture designed to make it easy for anyone to live with.

Versatility is the key word for our lines of furniture . . . for pleasure outside in the summer and to be enjoyed in the family room during the winter.

"Dress your furniture up or down with vinyl, cloth patterns or velour.

No Hibernation!

"Our line of furniture doesn't hibernate! It is designed for comfort, style and with the big consideration — durability. So many of our customers agree. Our business is giving you pleasure."

"Indicative of the type furniture stocked at Jones Ornamental Decor, select from Kessler, O.W. Lee, Woodard, The Blacksmith Shop, Plantation Patterns, Homecrest, Barrycraft, etc., names of our furniture manufacturers producing quality that you can trust."

Imagine . . . more than 5,000 square feet of showroom space provided for convenient display of items at Jones Ornamental Decor, with the big store chock full of a selective but tremendous merchandise offering.

Add to all this the March Sale situation at this home-owned and home-operated firm, and you should find it most difficult to stay away . . . from Jones Ornamental Decor, 3403 34th St.!"

Spring, Summer Fashion Wear Prettiest Ever At MoDean's

No wonder there's excitement at MoDean's, in Sunshine Square!

There is a so-gorgeous array of spring and summer arrivals dominating there, thoroughly in keeping with the shop's tradition of fashion rightness that has greeted each new season.

Sure recognition of '79 fashions (for Easter and the balmy days beyond) is reflected beyond a doubt in the inviting selection at the 4515 50th Street store where everything is pretty, practical and fashionable.

Spectator Look

Select from separates, after-five numbers, big-top blouses and more, in the soft, sheer and pretty fabrics with spring colors . . . and even polka dots which are very good this year.

Then there are accessories, lingerie, hosiery in pastel shades, and sleep wear.

A very good choice in handbags to complete the ensemble is part of the MoDean's story, too.

Modean Clayton has been owner of the firm for several months, and she certainly is no stranger to the city and area fashion community as she for three previous years was with Linda G's, the business she purchased last fall.

Only reliable lines and name brands to which one is accustomed at a better shop are found at MoDean's, with some selected new lines added to the traditional ones. Master Charge, Visa and layaway purchases are invited.

Friendly, personalized service is the rule, and the customer cannot help but enjoy the welcome and be thrilled at the chic selection afforded.

"Shopping now for spring and summer at one's leisure in the relaxed atmosphere of the beautiful and elegant MoDean's is an experience to be enjoyed . . . won't you discover for yourself how this Sunshine Square shop is extraordinary?"

'SHOULDN'T HOMER RIES BUILD YOU A STORMASTER SHELTER, TOO?'

Stormaster Shelters Acclaimed As Tornado Protection Factors

"Most likely someone within your acquaintance has arranged for the safety of a Stormaster Shelter. Have you given your family this same consideration?"

'Tis the season of the year to seriously arrange for protection during windstorms or tornadoes.

"In Lubbock and area, the Stormaster underground shelter protection can be speedily and easily secured by consulting with the Stormaster specialists at 3406 62nd St., phone 792-5977, who season after season have served most admirably, and who have been proven time after time.

Stormaster shelters are built right; they serve a definite need in the unsettled spring weather conditions of the South Plains; and they are backed with the professional understanding and integrity of their builder, Homer Ries.

Ries, the only authorized Stormaster builder in the South Plains and Panhandle, prides in the Stormaster and in its construction. A graduate in engineering, he appreciates the needs of the area and the quality of Stormaster. Mrs. Ries is a native of Lubbock; he is a longtime resident and both are graduates of Texas Tech.

Stormaster is not new in underground protection; it has been in business for over two decades in the Oklahoma City and Dallas areas.

The Stormaster unit is not pre-fab.

It is built in a choice of two sizes, 6 ft. by 8 ft., and the more popular family-size 8 ft. by 10 ft., with construction taking about three days, depending on the weather, of course, and involves digging the hole, setting forms, pouring cement, finishing with paint, benches and electrical outlet.

All concrete work is a one-pour operation with six-sack cement reinforced with paving mesh — no cold joints. It is guaranteed not to leak or seep. It is painted inside and outside and comes complete with seats, vents, electric box and special Stormaster doors.

Safety Factor

(The doors are so constructed that children may enter unescorted.) The extra-strength plywood door covered with galvanized metal is attached to a heavy steel frame which is embedded in the concrete. This waterproof door was designed especially for this shelter.

Stormaster construction qualifies for Title I financing.

For full information check now with Homer or Mrs. Ries at Stormaster of Lubbock, 3406 62nd St., phone 792-5977. If there is no answer, please keep calling, day or night. Part-time office help is on the job as well as Mr. and Mrs. Ries.

Stitch 'n Time, In Caprock, Stocks Multiple Clock Lines

The Stitch 'n Time store, in Caprock Center South, is a store in which you'll love to browse and select, an establishment that you will not soon forget!

Located next to the Toy Box at south side of Caprock Center in Lubbock, the Stitch 'n Time is relatively new, so the following aspects of its operation are concisely itemized for one's attention and consideration:

(1) Stitch 'n Time has the "largest selection of floor clocks in West Texas," its owners report.

(2) A two-store buying power (Lubbock and Amarillo locations) enables savings that are passed on to the customer.

(3) A three-year warranty is afforded on clocks from the firm.

(4) Delivery and set up on all floor clocks is available.

(5) Helpful, knowledgeable salespeople man the establishment.

Business & Industrial Review

Selected Specials, New-Season Arrivals Mark The Stork Shop

More than ever, for anything in maternity wear, it makes sense to depend upon Lubbock's only exclusive maternity wear shop, The Stork Shop, 3416 34th St. in Indiana Gardens."

For example:

At this time a large and selected group of dresses, pants, tops and jeans is marked at 1/2 price, for a limited time only.

These present a real opportunity for quality and savings.

And hinting of the season fast approaching, The Stork Shop has received new styles in swim suits, terry tops and shorts.

There are lots of other spring and summer arrivals now dominating at The Stork Shop, and one can doubly profit by taking advantage of the special group sale and at the same time inspecting and purchasing new arrivals for the new season.

Lingerie, Too

Selection is always enabled from a wide stock at The Stork Shop where a complete line of maternity lingerie is included.

Brand names are important at The Stork Shop where quality is assured without exorbitant price. Lines such as Phil Jacobs, Daran, Marion Sue, Charles Lewis and Maternity Circuit are featured.

Use of Visa and Master Charge is welcomed.

Store hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week.

Under ownership and active management, since February '78, over a year ago, of longtime Lubbock resident Mrs. Doyle (Ida) Langford, The Stork Shop actually dates its record of service back some 30 years.

Since its establishment, it has been in the same Indiana Gardens location; and under the ownership of Ida Langford it has been remodeled, rearranged and stocked most admirably.

Everything at The Stork Shop says "welcome."

Smallwood's Posting Reduced Prices On Filter Queen Model

"If you live on the High Plains, if you are aware of West Texas dust . . . then you deserve a Filter Queen home sanitation system from Smallwood's!"

To make this possible, Smallwood's for a limited time is marking the deluxe Filter Queen Model 33 at a reduced price of $339.95!

The Filter Queen "traps dust as no 'vacuum cleaner' can! There are no bags, no mess; it is the ultimate in home sanitation systems with cyclonic pressure action that prevents dirt and dust from reentering the room. Filter Queen is easy to handle and comes with a complete set of attachments.

In short:

"Any 'vacuum' cleaner cleans rugs, furniture and drapes; only Filter Queen cleans the air, too!"

Filter Queen maintains peak efficiency at all times because outgoing air never has to push its way through accumulated dirt or a clogged bag. Filter Queen digs dirt, flushes it out completely with a powerful cyclone of air.

"Highly efficient Filter Queen attachments give one extra help all the way. For instance, the exclusive Wonder Rug Nozzle lets you clean under chairs and sofas without having to lift heavy furniture from one spot to another. Even your thickest pile rugs and hard-to-clean upholstered furniture keep spic and span with the help of Filter Queen."

Multiple Uses

Filter Queen takes the hard work out of such chores as cleaning venetian blinds and keeping hard floors glistening bright. And one can do dozens of jobs with Filter Queen . . . everything from cleaning, waxing and polishing . . . to de-mothing, paint spraying, even to drying your hair!

Small wonder the Filter Queen home sanitation system has been termed one of the most important developments in home sanitation in 50 years.

The current sale prices at Smallwood's can put a Filter Queen in your home! Why delay?

Other Products, Services

Smallwood's also carries several complete lines of vacuum cleaners, together with parts and bags for most brands.

And the spectacular giant-screen Muntz television is stocked, also, at Smallwood's. Imagine . . . larger-than-lifesize home theatre! Brightness, razor sharp detail in foreground and background and magnificent color creates the impression that you are right there, in the middle of the action!"

Repair on all stereos is a specialty at Smallwood's, and numerous home entertainment products are stocked at all times.

"You'll like Smallwood's way of doing business; you'll appreciate the values and the personal attention assured by owners Eugene and Evelyn Kerr and staff at this firm that has served for over two decades in Lubbock. Remember the Filter Queen Special, and remember the Smallwood's location, 3019 34th St., phone 795-5253."

Tuftwick Relates New Milliken Arrivals, Savings, Selection

"Start the good life at your feet with beautiful carpets from Milliken Carpets!

"Milliken and Tuftwick have all the stlyes and colors available in today's carpet market . . . so . . . treat your home royally with Milliken Carpets from Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock!"

Milliken carpets are priced $3 to $5 a square yard below suggested retail prices.

For example:

"Fanciful is a soft-yarn continuous filament nylon, manufactured to sell for $13.95 sq. yd. Our price at Tuftwick is $8.95 installed over a 1/2-inch pad!"

What a way of greeting the new season . . . of fixing up the home for spring and summer enjoyment!

It is Tuftwick's way of saying "the very best to you: we want to help in your home beautification and in your budget."

"Low prices are the rule at Tuftwick, with extraordinary savings posted whenever possible.

Easy terms are available, with no money down, and with up to 36 months to pay!

"If you have not been through the showrooms of the big Tuftwick Carpet,Inc., within the last few weeks, you are in for a real treat at your next visit."

First, there is a thrilling selection of patterns and materials.

Secondly, the prices and values simply cannot be beat.

Third reason for a trip to Tuftwick Carpet at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road could well be the most attractive display yet. Everything in the showroom has been conveniently displayed for easy viewing, comparison and selection. It is an attractive, inviting place in which to shop.

The basic reason for shopping Tuftwick has not changed, however, and that is the integrity and experience of a capable staff devoting all efforts to serve the customers carpet needs as only possible with an experienced staff that "knows carpeting" and knows how to please in every transaction.

Guys & Gals Hairstyling Emphasizes 'Anytime Appointments', Modest Cost

"Have you discovered the Guys & Gals Hairstyling, featuring 'anytime appointments' at its 2605 Canton Ave. location?"

"If you already are a customer, you know of the expert attention there; and if you are new, a delightful experience awaits, as only the finest in hairstyling is afforded.

"Actually, a lot of people are glad that Marjorie (Barrett) Flowers is affording this type establishment. As owner of the shop since February, Marjorie has devoted full attention to 'the things that count' in a hairstyling salon.

Some of these plus-factors are:

Haircut and blow dry for either guys or gals is a sensible $6.50 on the Tuesday evening special.

Senior Citizens prices, on Thursday included shampoo and set. $4: permanents, $18: cut, wash and set. $7: frost, $18; and color. $8.

And no kidding, as a special convenience, appointments can be made any day from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Guys and Gals Hairstyling is open Mondays through Saturdays, with Sundays appointments by request. The phone: 793-9167.

Thursdays are special days for senior citizen consideration. Savings on shampoo and sets, permanents, etc. are arranged for senior citizens on Thursdays.

Now, isn't this offer of "anytime appointments" refreshing? Marjorie hopes to build her business on the old-fashioned idea of service, together with a staff that knows its business and keeps up to date via study and special attendance at seminars, etc.

Marjorie Flowers, as owner, is on the job every working day. She is a lifelong Lubbock resident and is a graduate of Lubbock High School. She has two daughters, Denise, 17, a student at Mickie's Beauty Academy; and Zelma, 15, a student at Heritage Hall.

On hand at the shop is Beth Caffey, a Jessie Lee graduate and an operator who has long had an extremely good following in the city area where she still serves at Guys and Gals; Kelly Etherton, assistant manager; Linda Meletti, a Cinderella graduate and a most proficient hair-care specialist.

Each invite friends and new and old customers alike to come in, make or renew acquaintance, and learn of this "service-oriented" firm.

(Though very much in business at this time, a Grand Opening is planned soon, with gifts and special features. Watch for it . . . but come on in for the best in hairstyling!

We're at 2605 Canton Ave., remember; phone 793-9167.

Durability, Beauty, Cost Seen Among Arcadia Man-Made Stone Advantages

"Most likely you have observed and admired the use of Arcadia Stone in homes, businesses, yards or institutions in your neighborhood or community, wherever you live within the area.

"We at Arcadia Stone Manufacturing Co., 1922 Ave. E, phone 744-6640, Lubbock, invite your visits, inquiries and inspection. We would consider it a privilege to give a free estimate in your own situation."

"Individuals and contractors alike, throughout the region, have voiced enthusiasm for Arcadia Stone. This is no surprise, for after all, can you imagine a lightweight and durable man-made stone at a fraction of the cost of some other materials, and available in seven decorator colors?"

Full details of the product and services are available at Arcadia Stone Manufacturing Co., home-owned and home-operated by Jim Haynes who has constructed beautiful homes throughout the area, together with construction of fireplaces utilizing Arcadia Stone.

Arcadia stone has been used for exceptional beauty and warmth in numerous area situations . . . commercial and residential. It can be used wherever stone or masonry veneer is desired. It can be used to veneer complete homes or to enhance the quality of one's present residence.

Enduring Investment

Arcadia Stone is an enduring investment, whether for attractive fireplaces, for beautiful wall and floor tiles, for stepping stones, even the very popular exterior use on metal buildings. (Or interior walls for offices, as another practical and functionally-beautiful usage.)

Arcadia Stone is ideal for other interior ornamental work such as walls, arches, columns and planters; it affords the attractive way to add a distinctive new look to the home's interior.

The Lubbock firm has its own installation crews, or one can purchase the stone for "do-it-yourself" projects.

Adds Special Accent

Adaptable for either inside or exterior use, Arcadia Stone is flexible; it can be used on any sound surface including metal, wood, block and even sheetrock. It can add architectural beauty to shopping centers, commercial and professional buildings.

Maybe it is an entryway, a bath or a kitchen . . . or exterior landscaping and fences . . . whatever the situation, Arcadia Stone is an attractive accent.

Culligan Water Systems Seen As Consideration For Family

"You are not alone if you are concerned about the fluoride concentrations in much of the drinking water in the High Plains area."

More the reason to turn to Culligan (the "we treat water seriously" folks) at 5280 34th St., phone 792-3341 in Lubbock.

Possibly the solution in your own situation is a Culligan Aqua-Cleer reverse osmosis drinking water system, said better than having bottled drinking water, at a fraction of the cost. Available for rental or purchase, this system removes from 90% to 95% of all minerals including fluoride and sodium in the water, the Lubbock firm emphasizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Tardy are the owners of the Lubbock Culligan operation, and they are most happy to explain in detail the several units and services in the Culligan family of drinking water systems.

Aqua-Cleer Popular

More about the Aqua-Cleer unit:

The separate, compact components of this system install out of sight wherever space is conveniently available.

A fine filter removes particles such as sediment or dirt, larger than five micros.

Household water goes through the reverse osmosis membrane. A major portion of the dissolved impurities and all suspended particles are discarded to drain.

Drinking water for instant use is stored in plastic-lined chamber, pressurized by air behind a rubber diaphragm.

The carbon absorption filter controls chlorine and other tastes and odors, reduces organic impurities.

A handsome polished chrome Culligan special faucet is installed, with finger touch lever for intermittent or continuous flow, mounting on sink or counter.

"Service is very much in the picture at Culligan, and a representative is glad to test the water quality that's being provided by your Aqua-Cleer system as often as you like, at no charge."

Portable Exchange Tanks

Soft water portable exchange tanks in Lubbock and surrounding area is a key Culligan service.

It is emphasized that portable exchange water rental has several advantages including no customer maintenance problems or inconvenience.

Multiple Advantages

"Shouldn't the impurities be removed, for a certainty, in your own drinking water? Better drinking water surely has a place in your home . . . for thirst quenching, cooked fruits and vegetables; soups, sauces and desserts; instant foods and beverages; for mixed drinks, summer drinks, frozen juices and ice making; for coffee, tea and chocolate; and even for plants, aquariums and photography.

"And if you read the papers and hear the news, then you are familiar with report after report of fluoride rates in drinking water somewhere in the area, maybe in your own supply.

Get full information regarding water quality water conditioning equipment and related services (likely provided at less cost than you had believed) from the Lubbock Culligan firm, phone 792-3341, at 5280 34th St. (Ask for details about current saving of $49 on soft water installation.)

Congress Eyes Vote On Taiwan Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, over President Carter's objections, is almost certain to approve legislation expressing American willingness to defend Taiwan against potential economic or military threats from Peking.

Both the House and Senate vote this week on Taiwan security proposals declaring that Chinese moves against Taiwan would be "of grave concern to the United States."

Similar legislation has won lopsided approval by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs panel.

A Senate Foreign Relations Committee report released late last week said, "The long United States-Taiwanese association would make it extremely difficult for the United States not to respond firmly to hostile activity directed against Taiwan.

"A U.S. failure to respond firmly would have grave consequences for America's international standing. ..."

State Department officials have said Carter will reluctantly accept the wording approved by the committees, but opponents of the president's China policy have indicated they will push for tougher, more specific pledges of help to Taiwan.

Under the new policy, the United States recognizes only one China and the Carter administration is fearful a specific security pledge would imply recognition of the Taiwanese government, thus jeopardizing the new ties with Peking.

Congressional approval of a tough Taiwan security provision could result in a presidential veto of a more general bill giving Carter authority to carry out his new China policy.

In the Senate, where the China issue comes up Tuesday, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., will push for U.S. commitments to provide specific kinds of weapons to Taiwan.

Efforts are likely in both the House and Senate to declare threats from Peking would be against "the national interest" of the United States, wording State Department officials want weakened.

When the House debate begins Thursday, there will also be moves to establish an American liaison office in Taiwan, which would duplicate the type of relationship the United States had with Peking before diplomatic recognition was announced Dec. 15.

Last Thursday, the United States completed the process of dropping diplomatic relations with Taiwan while opening an embassy in Peking.

To handle Taiwanese business and cultural ties, the United States had been scheduled to open a private American Institute there as a replacement for the U.S. Embassy.

But $2 million required to open the institute has become entangled in the congressional battle over the more general China bill.

As a result, relations between Taiwan and the United States are now in limbo, with various officials predicting an interruption in trade and the inability to deliver defensive weapons to Taiwan.

It is unlikely the institute will open until Congress has completed work on the China bill.

In the alimony case, William Orr, now a resident of San Francisco, where he is president of the Orrox Corp., challenged the Alabama law after he and his wife, Lilian, were divorced in 1974.

In those proceedings, Orr agreed to pay his ex-wife, still a resident of Opelika, Ala., $1,240 a month in alimony.

In July 1976, Mrs. Orr charged that her ex-husband was almost $3,000 in arrears in his alimony payments, and Orr was ordered to show why he should not be held in contempt of court.

As a defense, lawyers for Orr argued that the decree was invalid because it was based on an unconstitutional state law.

A Lee County trial court ruled that Orr was in contempt, and the ruling was upheld by the Alabama Supreme Court. Orr then sought help from the nation's highest court.

Today's ruling does not necessarily mean a final victory for Orr, however.

Justice Brennan emphasized that the case now returns to Alabama courts to determine whether Orr's 1974 commitment to pay alimony is still binding.

Jury Panel Sought For Area Trial

Individual questioning of prospective jurors in the capital murder trial of John Thomas Carter of Lubbock, accused in the October slaying of an elderly Lorenzo couple, was scheduled to get underway at 1:15 p.m. today in Crosby County.

Forty jury prospects remained on the panel after exemptions and excuses were heard this morning in 72nd District Court in Crosbyton.

Carter, 34, is accused along with Paula Bruce, 57, of Lorenzo of the shooting deaths of Valton Vernoid Gandy, 73, and his 68-year-old wife, Cora. The couple was found Oct. 2, 1978, lying outside their home two miles north of Lorenzo.

Carter, indicted on two counts of murder, will be tried first for the death of Gandy, according to George L. Thompson III, one of Carter's two attorneys.

As to whether Carter will come to trial for the killing of Mrs. Gandy, Thompson said "a great deal depends on what the jury does with the first case."

"Theoretically we could try him on this first case and then on the second," Thompson said.

Carter's trial will be heard by Judge Denzil Beavers, who Feb. 14 rejected a request for a change of venue.

Davis Funds In Spotlight

FORT WORTH (AP) — Cullen Davis' income was expected to be in the spotlight again today when the divorce trial of the multimillionaire and his estranged wife, Priscilla, resumes.

Accountant Stan Winters was asked by defense attorneys trying to link Davis' personal and business fortunes to return to the stand today.

Winters testified for about five hours during Friday's session, telling about the companies owned by Kendavis Industries International, the conglomerate owned by Davis and his brother Kenneth Davis, Jr., of Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Davis' attorneys hope to use Winters' testimony to show the personal financial affairs of Davis are part of the business empire controlled by him and his brother and should be shared in a property settlement with Mrs. Davis.

Davis contends his business interests should not be considered part of the community property.

Davis spent seven days on the witness stand after the trial began two weeks ago as Mrs. Davis' attorneys Jerry Loftin and Ronald Aultman grilled him about his finances.

Davis stepped down Thursday, and Mrs. Davis was the next witness. She testified she was not aware of the extent of Davis' wealth when they were wed Aug. 29, 1968.

"He said he would always care for me and give me far, far more than Jack (Wilborn, her first husband) ever could," Mrs. Davis said.

Noted U.S. Climber Dies In Avalanche

LONGMIRE, Wash. (AP) — Willi Unsoeld, one of America's greatest mountain climbers, was killed in an avalanche on Mount Rainier, the second in his family to die in the sport.

Unsoeld was a climbing instructor in Grand Teton National Park from the late 1940s until about 1960, and climbed Mt. Everest by the West Ridge as a member of an American expedition in 1963. It was the first time that Everest had been climbed by any route except the South Col.

Unsoeld made many first ascents in North and South America, as well as in the Himalayas.

Unsoeld, a professor at The Evergreen State College in Olympia, and Janie Diepenbrock, a student from Sacramento, Calif., were caught in an avalanche Sunday afternoon while descending through Cadaver Pass at the 11,000-foot level, said Larry Henderson, a spokesman for Mount Rainier National Park.

Other members of the 22-member college climbing party dug the two out of the snow after 15 minutes, but were unable to revive them, Henderson said.

The remaining climbers spent the night at Camp Muir at about 10,000 feet awaiting arrival of a rescue party today. Attempts will be made to recover the bodies when conditions improve, Henderson said.

In 1976 Unsoeld's daughter, 20-year-old Nanda Devi, died on an expedition with her father and other climbers on the Himalayan mountain for which she was named.

Unsoeld, 52, had been a director of the Peace Corps in Nepal and served there with the Agency for International Development from 1962 to 1967.

He lost nine toes to frostbite on the Everest expedition in 1963.

An Oregon native, he received a physics degree from Oregon State University in 1951, was graduated from the Oberlin College school of theology in 1952, studied at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, Calif., from 1952 to 1954 and received a doctorate from the University of Washington in 1959.

Survivors include his wife, Jolene, also a mountaineer; sons Regon, 26, and Krag, 22, and daughter Terris, 20.

handle around Pensacola. An estimated 5,000 persons had to be evacuated and damage was estimated in the millions, but there were no deaths. The evacuees returned home Sunday night.

"I've lived in Pensacola 57 years. Never in my life — not even during a hurricane — did we get this much water," said Escambia County Commissioner Kenneth Kelson.

Ray Bidinger, forecaster at the National Weather Service in Miami, said Sunday night, "The weather system ... is still up there in that same area. Right now, it extends from a low pressure area in the Great Lakes to the Florida Panhandle and into the Gulf of Mexico."

Much of the storm's wrath was concentrated over northeastern Alabama. The body of 5-year-old Audrey Norris of Birmingham was found in a drainage ditch. Police said she apparently wandered away from her aunt's front porch on the city's north side and fell into the rain-flooded ditch.

A rescue team in northeastern Alabama watched helplessly as Kathy Todd, 26, was thrown into the seething water from atop her car, which had been stranded in a flooded field. Her body was found three hours later.

Coosa County authorities said James Gardner, 18, and Theodore Brooks, 57, drowned when their car was washed off a bridge.

In northern Georgia, where an average of 4 to 6 inches fell Saturday and Sunday, an 18-year-old man drowned in a flooded soybean field when a boat overturned. His name was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Seven Georgia college cave explorers were rescued Sunday night after spending 29 hours in an underground cavern where they were trapped by high water.

While the Southeast was busy mopping up and filling sandbags Sunday, portions of the Midwest from Missouri and Iowa into northern Michigan and Minnesota were back groaning behind ther shovels and plows.

A foot of snow was reported in parts of Michigan.

"We've got about 1,000 snowmobiles running around and it's impossible to catch them with (squad) cars with chains," said Sioux City, Iowa, police Sgt. Tony Sunclaves. The vehicles are illegal inside the city limits.

Iowa authorities blamed the storm, which was accompanied by 40 mph winds, for at least one traffic fatality. Benita Herrick, 20, was killed Sunday when she apparently lost control of her car on ice-glazed Iowa 146.

In southwestern Minnesota, 350 motorists were stranded by the storm. Near Albert Lea, in southern Minnesota, Elmer Grasdalen, 68, died of an apparent heart attack when his pickup truck became stuck in the snow and he was forced to walk a half mile.

In Missouri, Andrew County authorities recovered the body of Ora Jane Shelby, 94, Sunday. They said she had apparently drowned the day before when the car in which she was riding was swept into a flood-swollen river in the town of Nodaway.

In Texas, a prevailing high pressure system over the entire state will bring another round of fair and mild weather to start the week, forecasters said this morning.

Lubbock conditions, which cleared Sunday and warmed to a sunny 55 degrees in the afternoon, are expected to remain fair through Tuesday, with winds light today at 10 to 15 mph.

Rescuers Reach Cave Explorers through the water after another.

They told Bean that during the ordeal, "They huddled together in order to keep warm and they slept. The professor took good care of them."

Barry Beck, an assistant professor of geology at Georgia Southwestern College in Americus and an ardent cave explorer, led a group of 11 into the Pigeon Mountain cave at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Tony Able, 19, one of four cavers who escaped before rising waters fed by torrential rainstorms flooded the only way out, reported after his friends were rescued that they told him "it was exciting and they had a good time."

The rescued spelunkers were wrapped in blankets, given dry clothes and offered warm drinks to offset their lowered body temperatures. Within 15 minutes several were giggling and joking.

"Oh, peanut butter and jelly — thank you," Miss Gillis said when she was offered a sandwich.

The seven rescued cavers were whisked past reporters to Tri-County Hospital in Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., 33 miles to the northeast.

"We were kind of expecting exposure to take more of a toll than it did," Bean said.

Bean's successful effort was the third try to reached the trapped party. The others — late Saturday and at midday Sunday — were hurled back by the water's crush.

But Beck said the party was "completely in control of the situation at all times."

He added that none of the students doubted they would be able to escape the cave.

"The type of students who pick this kind of activity, they're self-reliant to begin with," he said. "Some of them jump out of airplanes just for kicks."

Beck said experience would give the students confidence from "just knowing you can handle something like this."

Rains let up at about 5 a.m. Sunday and the water began to subside, reducing the force of the water inside the tunnel.

When the party entered the subterranean world Saturday morning a light rain was falling and the water level in the cave only slightly higher than normal.

They explored for about six hours. Equipment problems forced two of the party to head back early — Beck's 13-year-old son, Eric, and 18-year-old Tony Johnson, son of acting Georgia Southwestern President Harold Johnson.

Johnson and young Beck found the water level perilously high on their return trip, but they could not fight the currents to go back and warn their friends.

Later, Able and Mark McCoy, 18, left the cave about 4 p.m. Saturday, after the elder Beck noticed the water level in the cave was rising rapidly.

"We knew we were in for trouble," Beck said later by telephone. "Every crack was now gushing water like a fire hose. It was roaring.

"We started hurrying toward the exit, about three-quarters of a mile away. But by the time we got close, about 20 minutes walk, the water was up to the passageway — only inches from the ceiling."

Beck said that after Able and McCoy left, they realized it was "too dangerous" to try to get the rest of the group out.

"It would have been foolish to try to escape," he said. "We (went) back to where there was a place 30 to 40 feet above the river. We huddled together to stay warm. ... But we were soaking wet at that point and darned chilly."

Beck described how he and the students kept warm.

—Designated clothes-changing rooms in food establishments be limited to new structures and facilities which are planned and built after the effective date of the ordinance; the proposed ordinance would require the facilities in existing establishments where "employees routinely change clothes."

—Food establishments which under the proposed ordinance would require structural changes, modifications, additions or deletions exceeding $2,000 be given five years to comply with the standards; the proposed ordinance does not specify a time for compliance.

—Add to Sec. H of the proposed ordinance, which requires the submission of plans and specifications to the health department for approval prior to the construction, eetensive remodeling or conversion of a food establishment, the condition that approval of the plans by the health department shall prevent the city from "assert(ing) a claim of non-compliance against any person when such structure or building is completed according to such plans and specifications as approved."

—Food establishments failing an inspection by the health department (score of less than 60) will be allowed 24 hours to correct the deficiencies. The failure of the required inspection the next day is cause for suspended operations. The proposed ordinance would immediately suspend the operating permit after failure of the initial inspection until the violations were corrected.

—"Substantial hazard to the public health," which in the proposed ordinance is immediate grounds for a suspended operating permit once the permit holder is notified, should be more clearly defined "to be sufficiently definite to comply with the requirements for a constitutional criminal law." The proposed ordinance would empower the health department to suspend the permit upon the inspector's finding "unsanitary or other conditions in the operation of a food service establishment which, in his judgment, constitute a substantial hazard to the public health."

—Inspections of food establishments by the health department be made within 24 hours of receipt of the written request; the proposed ordinance stipulates that reinspections will be made within 10 days of receipt of written requests.

—Food handlers school training be offered free to all employees to permitted food establishments, and all Lubbock permit holders must satisfactorily complete a course offered by either the health department or the Texas Restaurant Association within 12 months of the effective date of the ordinance; the proposed ordinance would require all employees of establishments failing an inspection to take the course.

Determination of whether the recommended Associated Foods changes violate state regulations is in several cases a matter of interpretation — a future headache for the city council.

For example, while the proposed ordinance speaks of "substantial health hazard," the state regulations say "if an imminent health hazard exists, such as complete lack of sanitization, refrigeration, or sewage backup into the establishment, the establishment shall immediately cease food service operations."

Hugh Anderson, attorney for Associated Foods, said recently that the state "imminent health hazard" clause, though somewhat vague, still offered a clearer definition than the proposed "substantial health hazard" phrase.

Another example of the difficulty of interpreting the exact intent is the allotted period for reinspecting establishments that have failed earlier inspections. Lubbock food businesses, interested in avoiding revenue-losing shutdowns by the health department, are seeking mandatory reinspections within 24 hours of receipt of written requests. The state regulations merely state that "one or more reinspections shall be conducted at reasonable time intervals to assure correction."

Just how soon the city council will be able to settle this squabbling between the Lubbock food establishments and the city health department is uncertain.

The city attorney's office intends to meet with attorneys from the State Health Board in the future, and representatives from the Texas Attorney General's office may also attend, said Vandiver.

Nelson confirmed this statement, saying the State Health Board legal staff has received an extensive letter and legal brief from the Lubbock city attorney, but he added that his department had not yet determined its course of action.

"I can't give you an exact date," Nelson said of the proposed meeting.

And looking beyond the impending meeting between local and state interests, if Lubbock succeeds in obtaining the right substantively to enact its own food ordinance, each provision differing in intent from existing state regulations must be examined for its constitutionality, Vandiver said.

Mondale Blasts Recent Demands For Constitutional Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale, declaring that the federal government has economic responsibilities that go far beyond developing a balanced budget, today criticized growing demands for a constitutional amendment to mandate budget balancing.

In the Carter administration's most detailed response to the balanced budget movement, Mondale told a meeting of the National League of Cities: "If the federal government defined a balanced budget the way many state and cities do now, we're already in balance."

He noted that most states and cities categorize capital spending separately from operating expenses so they can borrow funds without assuming a deficit. The federal budget puts capital spending alongside operating costs and the result now is a deficit running at about $40 billion.

Beyond that, Mondale said that mandating a balanced budget would hurt the government's ability to manage the economy.

"Sometimes we need a deficit in order to stimulate the national economy," he said. "That's what Franklin Delano Roosevelt did in the depths of the Depression." And sometimes, he said, the government wants to run a surplus, raising more than it spends, in order to curb demand for goods and therefore to slow inflation.

Mondale also criticized efforts to convene a constitutional convention that would consider a balanced budget amendment, saying scholars fear the convention could be opened up to consider many other changes to the Constitution.

Meanwhile, Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee said such a convention should not be necessary, and he pushed his plan for Congress to adopt a constitutional amendment that would require two-thirds approval by both houses any time a budget deficit is necessary.

"That way, we can't go into deficit by accident," he told the city officials.

House Majority Whip John Brademas, in prepared remarks, told the league that a balanced budget amendment would be as "foolhardy" as Prohibition.

The Indiana Democrat said the amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages was a noble experiment, but a dismal failure that later had to be repealed.

"In my judgment, a balanced budget amendment, no matter how well-intentioned are its supporters, would be equally foolhardy," he added.

Former Lawmaker Returns To School

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sam Landes, once a member of Ohio's legislature, finds he can draw from his previous work experience for a new activity he's pursuing — acting.

"In politics, we're all hams," Landes says.

Landes is appearing in a play at Wright State University, where he recently enrolled as a freshman. He plays Sir Oliver Surfaces, one of the leading characters in Richard Sheridan's "The School for Scandal."

Landes, 61, began his college career at the start of the winter quarter.

"When I was in school before, I did just enough to get by," the former lawmaker says. "Now I'm an eager beaver. I try to get in the front row so I can hear. I do my reading. I do all the writing. I'm loving it."

Landes served three terms, from 1961 to 1967, as a Republican in the Ohio House of Representatives from Madison County. During that period, efforts to set up Wright State began.

"We had in mind a little commuter college, but it's turned into quite a place," Landes says.

Wright State waives tuition for students over 60, but that wasn't what drew Landes back to school.

"I didn't even know about it. I enrolled and went down to pay my fees and the lady asked me how old I was. I didn't mind her asking because I've always looked 90," he says.

Landes put his son-in-law in charge of his insurance business, and the youngest of his five children now has completed undergraduate college work.

"That relieved some of the financial obligation and sort of freed me up to go to school," he says.

Landes says he missed politics after he left office.

"I missed seeing all the acquaintances, missed the friendships. That's one negative about being in school. I don't get around to see my friends," he said.

Campaign Fails To Win Farm Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any success the farmers achieved in a month-long campaign to lobby Congress for higher crop prices likely will be minor.

James Webster, the Agriculture Department director of governmental and public affairs, said the farmers do not have the votes in Congress to significantly change farm policy.

Many members of Congress have said farmers are doing all right and it is time for economic belt-tightening anyway.

"There is no mood at all in the administration to rock a boat that's moving along in good course," Webster said Sunday.

Last year the farmers saw legislation passed to raise wheat and cotton prices. But this year, Webster said, "there just aren't going to be any changes" in farm policy.

Hundreds of farmers and their tractors arrived in the city Feb. 5, delaying thousands of commuters in sometimes unruly demonstrations for higher crop prices.

Once most of their tractors were on the mall near the Smithsonian museums, police blocked them with city vehicles. Limited demonstrations were permitted later

Lubbock Officials Want Aid Changes

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

When it comes to assistance from the federal government, it's better to be a poor person living in the Northeast and Midwest than in the South and West, Lubbock city officials say.

They blame federal funding formulas designed to benefit "frost belt" states and say they want the formulas changed.

That was the message three city officials delivered to Housing and Urban Development Deputy Assistant Secretary Marshall Kaplan at a recent meeting in Austin.

Specifically, they discussed the year-old Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) program, one of two federal programs aimed at helping the nation's economically "distressed" cities.

Lubbock Mayor Pro Tem Alan Henry, who attended the Austin meeting, called the UDAG program the "most blatant" of federal programs benefiting only the Northeast and Midwest.

The UDAG funds, which must be used in tandem with private monies and efforts, go only to cities which can meet four of six requirements.

Lubbock meets only one of the six, and most southern cities also fail the test, Henry said.

Those criteria are "deliberately biased in favor of the Midwest and Northeast," he charged.

The six minimum standards of "physical and economic distress" established by HUD and how Lubbock measures up are:

— More than 34.5 percent of the city's housing must have been built before 1940. (Only 29 percent of Lubbock's housing is the required age.)

— Per capita income within the city rose by no more than $1,424 between 1969 and 1974. (Lubbock's rose $2,104.)

— The city's population grew by 15.52 percent or less between 1960 and 1975. (Lubbock's population grew 28 percent.)

— The city's unemployment rate was 7.69 percent or more in 1976. (Lubbock's was 3.9 percent.)

— Manufacturing and retail employment in the city grew by 7.08 percent or less between 1967 and 1972. (No figures are available for Lubbock.)

— More than 11.23 percent of the city's

The Slim Gourmet

'DIETETIC' SPELLS CAUTION — Noting that many consumers confuse the word "dietetic" to mean "no calories," two researchers made a study of more than 100 "dietetic" food products, comparing them with closely related regular products. Reporting in the professional magazine Diabetes Care, researchers Irene M. Wunschel and Bagher M. Sheikholislam concluded that the dietetic foods are really no different from, nor better than, regular foods ... and they usually cost more! They pointed out the sugarless products sweetened with Sorbitol have just as many sweetener calories as they would with sugar.

LOSE WEIGHT (BUT KEEP YOUR MATE!) — When psychiatrists took a closer look at the marriages of 14 successful weight-losers, they found two divorces, one separation, 10 troubled couples and only one marriage that had survived ostensibly unchanged. The gross obesity of one (the wife in 12 out of the 14) had been the stabilizing factor among partners who shared feelings of insecurity or inferiority. When the newly slender partner began to feel more attractive and secure — and more interested in sex — the other partner often reacted with fear, jealousy and withdrawal.

Three of the husbands became impotent and three became openly homosexual. All of the patients had been grossly obese and slimmed down through bypass operations, according to a report recently published in Family Health Magazine. The psychiatrists — from the Universities of Kentucky and Wisconsin — suggested that some of the problems might have been avoided if the couples had been prepared for the possible discord that can accompany extreme weight loss.

CAN YOU SHRINK YOUR STOMACH? Dieters used to think so. But then the experts said no, that the smaller appetite after dieting was due to changing habits, lower food requirements and a number of other factors, but the stomach itself remained relatively unchanged. Now, the experts are taking another look. According to Health Digest, researchers at the (Houston) Texas Health Center found that stomachs of starved rats did indeed shrink — more than other body tissue — when the rats were put on stravation diets or fed intravenously. Dr. Leonard R. Johnson, a physiologist at the Texas Center, found that the release of the hormone, gastrin, is directly related to the growth of the stomach and small intestine.

ANOTHER WAY TO REDUCE HEART ATTACK RISK — Learn Japanese? Better yet, learn Japanese cooking techniques! An investigation of more than 8,000 Japanese men living in Hawaii disclosed that the ability to read and write Japanese was one of the best indicators of cardiac health. According to a report abstracted in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association, Honolulu heart study researchers also observed that those who adhered to their ancestral tongue were also more likely to cling to other traditional ways, including the high-vegetable, less-meat Japanese diet.

KEEPING THE DENTIST AWAY — An apple a day, or oranges, might help! According to a study in Nutrition Reviews, apples and oranges tend to be protective against tooth decay. Researcher K.L. Clancy of the University of Rochester studied 143 junior high students and found a negative relationship between cavities and the intake of apples, oranges and fruit juice.

EVEN FIBER MAY BE FATTENING — The assumption that the fiber content of foods is non-nutritive (no calories) is false, according to Dr. P.J. Van Soest of Cornell University. Reporting in Food Product Development, Dr. Van Soest noted that fiber isn't digested like other foods. But it does undergo chemical changes in the body due to fermentation. The gasses released have substantial caloric value.

BRINGING BACK THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS — Americans are slowly changing their eating habits back towards fresh produce, according to the Farm Index, a commodity-watching publication of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. People are eating more salads, because they contain few calories. And consumption of low-calorie vegetables, such as cauliflower, broccoli, snap beans and greens, is increasing.

Low-calorie mayonnaise, tartar sauce, French dressing, coleslaw...for these and others, plus diet tips, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents to SLIM GOURMET SALAD IDEAS, in care of this newspaper, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

At Wit's End...

BY ERMA BOMBECK

In the beginning, there was a credit card.

I slipped it into my billfold and every time I went to that particular department store, I handed it to the saleswoman and she stamped it and gave it back.

In time, I had a dozen of them or so rattling around in my purse. Then came a general charge card that was to do away with all the little ones, followed by a more sophisticated one that I could use in Europe and Asia if I ever got there.

Then my bank came out with one that had my picture laminated on it. This was followed by one that guaranteed to the world that I was good for $25 even if I was caught naked without any other charge cards.

Today, I have 135 pieces of laminated identification in my handbag. It has turned into an awesome responsibility just keeping track of them. Sometimes, I have terrible dreams where I go into a department store, open my handbag and my credit cards are gone. All I have is cash.

You cannot imagine how choked up I got this week when through the mail came THE NOTHING CARD. It's put out by a company in Loveland, Colo., and is touted as the card to end all credit cards.

Frankly, I regard the NOTHING CARD as a way out of the economic pits. The card buys nothing. Therefore, you owe nothing at the end of the month, have no monthly statements, no finance charges, no computer errors, no letters or mailgrams or phone calls threatening to take it away and no travel magazines.

It'll take a little getting used to — not paying for food that you ate 30 days ago or going now and paying now — but the rewards are worth noting. Once Americans put aside as much as they want to spend and pay in cash, prices will go down, business will give you the money instead of the card company and according to the brochure, people will buy fewer lamps with hula dancer bases.

My husband is crazy about the NOTHING CARD. He says it's safer than Traveler's Checks, buys what we can afford and besides, Millard Fillmore photographs well.

He won't let me leave home without it.

Borrowed Buck Brings Bundle

WOMBWELL, ENGLAND (WNS) — Albert Ullyett felt that he would never see his dollar again when his wife Jean borrowed it just as he was leaving for work.

"I knew she would do something foolish with the money, and she did," he said.

The 41-year-old woman bought a lottery ticket, won $800,000 and made her mate retire.

"First I'm taking Albert on a delayed honeymoon," said Jean Ullyett. "Then I'm making him give up his night job at the factory so that we can live a daytime life and see our six kids occasionally."

She is also buying a minibus for multiple sclerosis victims because her first husband died from the disease.

Disunity, that's the trouble. It's my absolute opinion that in our complex industrial society, no business enterprise can succeed without sharing the burden of the problems of other enterprises.

DermaCulture
Terrace Shopping Center
... COMPLEXION PERFECTION

GENTLE VACUUMING PROCESS

If you are young enough to dream; but figure you are too old for miracles ... you may be in for a surprise!

If skin that glistens with cleanliness and presents a texture as sleek as that of the typical apple-cheeked four year old is what you want, it is available as the end product of a treatment at the DermaCulture Studio, 4902 34th Terrace Shopping Center. In fact, DermaCulture is the proven way to "complexion perfection."

The sophisticated procedure, first developed in 1938, requires months of intensive training on the part of its technicians. Because of this, only dedicated and caring technicians complete the training requirements.

The DermaCulture method was originally developed for problem skin. It has even restored severely damaged complexions and enjoys an enviable reputation for creating fragile, flawless complexions. Treatment begins when the patron reclines on a comfortably padded table with legs elevated for circulation promotion and complete relaxation. The first step of the procedure consists of a satiny facial cleansing administerd by quick, cool fingers of an expert therapist. Most women go through only the motions of skin cleansing and generally speaking, only the surface soil is removed. Very few people have the correct conception of what constitutes a really clean skin.

After the cleansing, a vaporizing solution is applied to soften scaly facial cells so often found in the average complexion. The face is not subjected to the normal friction of other parts of the body that helps the skin to constantly renew itself. The solution softens pore-trapped bits of film that clog the natural cleaning and lubricating factories working below the skin.

Next comes application of an infra-ray mask which opens pores and further softens any unwanted accumulation. Superfluous material is then gently vacuumed away by a vacuum cleaner which very much looks like a bent drinking straw. It is a very gentle process. Then a technician deftly plucks away blackheads, white heads, or as we prefer to call them, "pore-plugs"

The final step is a pleasant firming technique using highly perfected patented equipment. The customer's reward is a superbly smooth-skin.

Every skin can look better in only one treatment, some skin problems require a series before real correction is effected. DermaCulture, effective in the removal of acne, pimples, skin blemishes of every type, scars and other severe skin problems, is used by several airline schools including American, Delta and Texas International, who regularly send the stewardesses and trainees for treatments when skin problems are discovered. In the Dallas studio, as many as thirty will come at one time.

SCRUB WITH HONEY AND ALMOND GRAIN

A number of TV and screen personalities in California, where the first DermaCulture Studio was established, have discoverd the great benefits derived from DermaCulture, as might be expected, since the repeated application of stage make-up can cause problems.

The procedure was developed by a German specialist who came to this country and found no therapy treament available. Since then it has been improved with newly invented aids.

After the initial treatment, the supercleanliness can be renewed in the home, with products such as a cleanser made with barley, honey and almonds — a cleanser which again, gives the skin a newness and silkiness possible only with the removal of excess lubrication. One soap, made especially for excessively oily skin, has kelp as its main ingredient. Another new product in the line is a soap for normal skin. The astringent, the mildest and most gentle ever developed, is a boon for the woman who must be careful with a fragile complexion. This green, herb-based liquid has a natural fragrance coming only from the herbs necessary to make it.

DermaCulture has a complete line of cosmetics that are excellent for all types of skin. In fact, all of our cosmetics are free of any perfume and the ones used on the face are totally free of oil as well. These cosmetics can be purchased without taking the treatments, although we prefer to give at least one in order to thoroughly cleanse the skin and demonstrate the proper use of the cosmetics.

It has been proven in other cities in Texas that DermaCulture treatments and the use of our skin care items are most effective in the protection of the skin of the most avid tennis players and all other outdoorsy people. The skin retains a softness that belies the many hours spent in the sun. All sun-loving people should be patrons of DermaCulture for the sake of their skin.

The skin is the largest organ of the body, and one of the most important. Not only is a lovely skin important to you personally, but your complexion is the first thing other people notice. You can paint it-you can powder it-you can tan it-but unless your skin is so clean and healthy that it needs no improvement, DermaCulture treatments may be the only way to your natural skin beauty.

DermaCulture, a proven beauty concept that is available to you here in Lubbock. if you value your skin — your looks — your poise and personal ego — if you would achieve the serene self-confidence that only comes with looking your best — DermaCulture. It's the common sense approach to skin care.

Additional information and appointments may be made by telephoning DermaCulture Studio, 4902 34th Terrace Shopping center, 792-8535, Monday through Saturday.

FIRMING TECHNIQUE

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1979 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠7 ♡KQ8 ◇K63 ♣QJ10762
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Dble.
Rdble.	?

What action do you take?

A.—It looks as if one or both of the opponents are taking advantage of the vulnerability to throw a spanner in the works—your hand is too good for everyone to have the values they profess in this auction. Your first duty is to advise partner of the enemy's shenanigans, and the surest way to do that is to cue-bid three spades. This bid also implies that you do not have four hearts, for with a heart suit and game-going values, you would have simply bid game in hearts.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A96 ♡9652 ◇732 ♣1064
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
2 ◇	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Even though you have an ace, you don't want to make any bid that might sound in any way encouraging, because your perfectly balanced hand is something of a liability. Therefore, we suggest that you simply rebid three no trump.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A10965 ♡83 ◇J984 ♣K6
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♡
Pass	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Even though partner has shown a minimum opening by passing, don't be so willing to sell out to the opponents at a low-level. Those part scores are too easily converted into a game. You actually have a reasonable hand—8 points and a fair suit—which merits a competitive rebid of two spades.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:
♠AK9852 ♡AJ ◇AKJ10 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	4 ♣

What action do you take?

A.—By opening with a demand bid, you have created a forcing situation—partner cannot pass before your side has either reached game or doubled the opponents. East has taken advantage of the vulnerability to preempt, but you are in no position to double or rebid your spades. Therefore, pass the decision around to partner. Since a forcing auction still exists, the only thing he cannot do is pass!

Q.5—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A72 ♡A103 ◇74 ♣K9763
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—If you were not a passed hand, you would approach the matter slowly by responding two clubs. Now, however, that action could land you in the wrong spot—partner is allowed to pass any response you might make in this situation. Since you have fine support for partner's suit and near opening bid strength, make the value bid of three hearts.

Q.6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A7 ♡10963 ◇QJ954 ♣84
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—An awkward hand. You do not have the values for any forwarding-going bid, yet passing partner in one spade, or taking a preference to two clubs, on a doubleton would be sheer folly. The only sensible thing you can do is rebid one no trump—a two diamond rebid would show a much better suit.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J1072 ♡KQ6 ◇K984 ♣KQ
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have fine support for partner's suit, but a minimum hand, which is useless. Thus, a raise to two hearts would be a whit too encouraging. The choice is between one spade and one no trump, and we slightly prefer the latter because our spades are weak and much of our strength is concentrated in our doubleton club.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ8752 ♡J6 ◇7 ♣K1063
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♣	Dble.	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Your fit in clubs improves your hand, and if partner has a smattering of support for spades, you might easily make a game in that suit. In terms of points, your hand doesn't quite measure up to the requirements for a redouble, but by taking that action now, you will make the subsequent auction easier.

UNCONSTRUCTED LOOK — Still very much on the fashion scene, these handsome coordinates feature a loose fitting natural color blazer with notched lapels and patch pockets, combined with matching pleated pants. The trousers have side besom pockets, belt loops and a tapered leg. The box-weave shirt has a full body, small collar, bellows chest pockets and small cuffs, adding sparkle to the look.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have been corresponding with a man in an out-of-state prison for quite a number of months. We have never met. I started writing to him because a mutual friend asked me to. You might say I did as an act of kindness.

He is serving time for armed robbery. From his letters, I am not convinced that he has learned his lesson. He has a lot of anger and hostility in him.

My problem is that he thinks he is falling in love with me. I do not feel the same. (We've exchanged pictures.) I care for him as a friend and would like to keep in touch, but not at the risk of endangering myself. He might get out in six months; I don't want a lovesick, rejected ex-con on my hands, if you know what I mean.

How do I go about letting him know I don't want a romantic relationship with him? I don't want to hurt his feelings, but I certainly don't want him for an enemy either. Please advise.

Okie From Muskogee

Dear Okie: Be honest. Write your pen pal and tell him you hope he isn't falling in love with you because your feelings for him are strictly platonic.

DEAR ABBY: I work in the Department of Vital Statistics but nobody listen to us. Maybe they will listen to Dear Abby.

If you anticipate a need for your birth certificate (in applying for a passport, Social Security, entering a new school, or for any other reason), DON'T wait until the last minute. Write to the Department of Vital Statistics in the city where you were born and request your birth certificate to have on hand in case you need it.

Don't wait until two weeks before you take a trip to a foreign country. It sometimes take THREE MONTHS to get a birth certificate (everyone waits until May or June.)

A letter stating that your birth is on file is NOT acceptable. You must produce the certificate itself (with the raised seal) in most instances.

If for any reason your birth is not recorded, this will give you plenty of time to file a delayed birth certificate before you need it.

Please, be wise and act accordingly.

Jacksonville Journal Fan

Dear Fan: All right, all you readers out there who weren't born yesterday, please take note!

DEAR READERS: For 23 years I've been helping you with your problems. Now is your chance to help me with mine.

If you should see DEAR ABBY T-shirts, nightgowns or anything else for sale bearing my name, please let me know where it was purchased. (The name of the store and city.)

The DEAR ABBY name is being used without my permission and in order to protect my copyright I must take legal action against the manufacturers. Will you please help me to track them down? Many thanks.

Teen Shoots, Kills Relatives At Party

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A barrage of bullets turned a family birthday party into a deathtrap as a teen-ager calmly entered a room and killed his father, mother and older brother, police said. Doctors operated to save the life of another brother.

A third brother, whose birthday was being celebrated, and a sister-in-law escaped injury as they sat around a table in the family's dining area eating cake Sunday afternoon, police said.

Lonnie Cruise, 19, was arrested in a bedroom of the house, police said. He was treated at a hosptial for an apparent overdose of an unspecified substance and held without bond, police said.

"Lonnie just walked in and started shooting," said Police Capt. Gary McGee, adding that no motive has been established.

He identified the dead as James Cruise, 54, owner of a Jackson floor covering company; his wife Helen Cruise, 50, and Jerry Cruise, 23.

Larry Cruise, 21, was listed in critical but stable condition at a hospital after doctors successfully removed a bullet lodged near his heart, said a family spokesman, who did not wish to be named.

Police said James Jr., celebrating his 26th birthday, and Joy Cruise, Larry's wife, managed to escape. Larry made it to a car and drove part way to the hospital before Joy realized the severity of his wound and took over, McGee said.

"I was in the back yard, and I heard what I thought was air rifles or pop guns at the Cruise house, and screaming and hollering," said T. Jasper Lowe, a neighbor. He said he paid no attention, thinking neighborhood children were making the noise.

Lowe said his wife then told him something had happened next door.

"I came out the front door, and Helen was lying there on the ground," Lowe said. Mrs. Cruise was taken to a hospital where she died minutes later, police said.

McGee said the bodies of the elder Cruise and his son were found in the dining area of the house, located in an upper-middle class neighborhood in north Jackson.

Police said they recovered two 22-caliber rifles, one from the bedroom where Lonnie was arrested, and another on the floor near the kitchen.

Census Bureau Ready To Count Residents

DALLAS (UPI) — Noe Balli, assistant regional manager of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, has been through the rehearsals and strategy sessions and is ready to begin the gargantuan task of counting Texans.

"Oh, yes, it's quite imposing. Very much so," Balli said of the 1980 census. "It's a most challenging job."

Balli will direct the thousands of workers — temporary and full time — who mail questionnaires and walk and drive to the desolate areas of the nation's third most populated state to do follow-up work.

The 1970 census placed Texas' population at 11.19 million, an increase of 16.9 percent from 1960, and projections indicate the 1980 figure will show an even larger jump.

"Right now we're going at it in phases," Balli said. "We're trying to get started in the northern region and will be adding about 700-plus employees.

"But this phase is just preparing the mailing list (which will be mailed next year). We're hoping to do as much of this as possible by mail."

Farmers

but some disrupted traffic.

Most of the farmers and their tractors left town last weekend on police orders.

The farmers want Congress to pass legislation that would force Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland to set government crop loans at 90 percent of parity. In effect, that would set a price floor that would raise wheat and corn prices by two thirds.

Crops are collateral for government loans. Farmers pay back the loans with interest or forfeit their crops to the government.

Webster predicted that Congress may make a small change in farm law by moving the legal deadline for announcement of feed grains programs from Nov. 15 to Oct. 15.

Last year Bergland promised farmers he would announce the program by mid-October. Farmers, who make many spring planting decisions in the fall, were angered when President Carter waited until November to announce the program.

The month-long occupation caused an estimated $975,000 damage to the mall and cost $2.5 million in police overtime and other expenses. The farmers helped residents dig out of a 24-inch snowfall but much of the goodwill was lost in in later demonstrations.

Grand Jury May Study IRS Files

EL PASO (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating drug traffic and racketeering activities here may soon delve into information gathered by Internal Revenue Service agents.

The federal investigation, triggered by the shooting death of El Paso narcotics defense lawyer Lee Chagra, has reached into Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Washington and Florida.

Two Fort Bliss soldiers and a 55-year-old man were arrested during the weekend in connection with the Dec. 23 slaying of the flamboyant Chagra, FBI agents said Saturday.

That slaying, and the attempted assassination of assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr outside his San Antonio home last November, have been at the core of the grand jury investigation in this West Texas border city.

Pfc. Don White, 21, of Richmond, Calif., and Spec. 4 David Leon Wallace, 20, of Compton, Calif., have been charged with capital murder. White was arrested Friday night in El Paso and Wallace was picked up Saturday in Compton.

FBI agents, working with police, arrested Fred Asper, 55, Saturday in Las Vegas on a federal warrant charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder in the Chagra case, said Special Agent James Powers, chief of the Las Vegas FBI office.

El Paso Police Chief William Rodriguez said after the three arrests that there were no warrants outstanding in Chagra's death.

U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd of El Paso said he has sought authorization to present IRS information to the grand jury. He said he expects to receive that authority in "10 days to two weeks."

Boyd indicated the IRS information could sharpen the focus of the grand jury's sweeping investigation into drug trafficking, prostitution and organized crime activities.

Chagra was gunned down in his fortress-like office near downtown El Paso. Reports that a large amount of money was taken from the office and whisked across state lines touched off the joint federal investigation by the grand jury and agents from the FBI, IRS and the Drug Enforcement Administration.

Federal agents have said information generated by the grand jury investigation led to the indictment of Chagra's brother, Jamiel Alexander "Jimmy" Chagra, on narcotics charges by another federal panel in Midland. He was arrested at his home in Las Vegas last week.

A bond reduction hearing is scheduled Tuesday for Jimmy Chagra, who is being held in the El Paso county jail under $1 million bond.

City Officials Seek Changes In Federal Aid Formulas

population is at or below the poverty level. (Lubbock meets this requirement with 17.1 percent of the city's population at or below the poverty level in 1970.)

The last requirement is "the only important one," Henry said, since it indicates the number of poor people in the city.

The other five criteria are written with older, stagnant cities in mind, he said. However, he said, "growth cities like Houston and Dallas have just as many problems as a stagnated city like Cleveland."

"Our city was a very young city in 1940. There's no way our city or most other cities in the south have that age of housing," Henry said of the first requirement.

"Some of the biggest blighted areas in Lubbock are fairly new and not built properly to begin with. Some are not more than 20 years old," he said.

"A low income citizen of Lubbock should have just as much access to government programs as a low income person in New Jersey," Henry said.

"The federal programs single out cities which obviously have had waste and corruption and this simply is compounding the problem.

"All the money going into New York and Cleveland has not helped," he said. "It has made them more dependent on federal dollars — there's no incentive to help themselves," Henry said.

"Persons with below poverty level income should not be penalized because they don't live in a city which is not well-managed."

The HUD criteria meant 83 percent of the UDAG money distributed in January ($90.6 million) went to cities in 10 Northeast and Midwest states and to Washington, D.C. The remaining 17 percent was funneled to three southern states and one western state.

Henry said he doesn't want new and untried federal government programs begun, but wants the government to "reevaluate existing programs and cut out the wasteful ones."

Those few remaining programs "should be administered fairly," he said. "We don't want more attention, just the same attention.

"If they can't do that, they should cut out the programs completely."

Also, Henry said he'd like to see the requirements changed to permit portions of a city to be eligible for the federal funds, even though the entire city can't qualify.

"We have areas in Lubbock which are just as distressed as the entire cities (which qualify) as far as poverty," he said. "We need to help those folks."

If criteria were developed for "pockets of poverty" in a city, four of Lubbock's census tracts, where approximately 15,600 people make their homes, would meet the required four of the six HUD criteria.

Although Henry is not optimistic the changes will be made, he said Kaplan's visit to Austin meant the federal government has heard the complaints.

Kaplan's visit followed a Congressional request that HUD study UDAG eligiblity criteria and report back by March 31.

"The very fact that Congress asked HUD to look into it is encouraging," Henry said. "Enough voices have been raised, that Congress heard."

Young Boy Blamed In Apartment Fire

HOUSTON (AP) — A 4-year-old boy's playing with a cigarette lighter was blamed Sunday for a fire that damaged about 45 units in a west side apartment complex.

Arson investigators said the boy was playing with the lighter while his parents were asleep. They said the fire ignited a sock, spread to a couch, and then spread to other apartments.

All occupants of the affected units escaped without injury. One fireman was treated at the scene for a minor injury.

Testimony Continues In PUC Hearing

AUSTIN (AP) — Electric companies in the Texas Utilities system followed federal accounting rules in exchanging part ownership in a lignite power plant, the Public Utility Commission was to hear today.

Robert K. Campbell, president of Texas Power & Light Co., was expected to offer prepared testimony today that his company acted properly in selling interest in the Martin Lake plant to sister company Texas Electric Service Co.

Campbell is one of two rebuttal witnesses scheduled to counter recommendations from the commission staff that TESCO, TP&L and Dallas Power & Light refund some $20 million to their customers.

The three-member commission has heard testimony since Feb. 20 about a six-month investigation of affiliate transactions among the three utilities.

TP&L sold part of its ownership in the plant to TESCO, in exchange for electricity generated by TESCO's cheapest natural gas supply. DP&L also bought some of TP&L's interest in the plant, but not in exchange for energy.

TP&L officials said they had overcommitted themselves financially in the power plant and needed some relief. TESCO spokesmen said they needed to replace soon-to-expire natural gas contracts with other energy sources.

If refunds are ordered, one-fourth of TESCO customers will receive only $3.36, said vice president E.D. Scarth.

"In my opinion, TESCO's bond rating would be lowered, which would raise the cost of long-term financing for many years," said Scarth about the effects of a refund in his prepared statement.

About 25 percent of TESCO residential customers use between 200 and 500 kilowatts month, said Scarth, an electrical engineer.

Campbell called staff criticism of the Martin Lake deal offensive to "rational and equitable accounting practices and ratemaking considerations."

The staff said that TESCO paid TP&L too much for a share in the power plant.

"At the time of the transfer, the property had not been devoted to utility service and the original cost had not yet been determined," Campbell said.

Navy To Investigate Ship Collision

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — An investigation is planned to determine why a Navy amphibious transport collided in fog with a Greek merchant ship, injuring two Navy officers, one seriously.

Lt. John Alexander, a Navy spokesman, said the USS Francis Marion collided with the Starlight about 8:42 a.m. Sunday, two miles west-northwest of Cape Henry Light in the Chesapeake Bay.

Lt. Cmdr. Donald Miller, 35, of Virginia Beach, underwent surgery at Portsmouth Naval Hospital for leg injuries, the Navy said.

U.S. Eyes Alternate Forms Of Energy

NEW YORK (AP) — Higher oil prices and spot shortages brought on by the shutdown of Iranian oil production are focusing interest on several alternate forms of supply that a few years ago were little more than dreams.

And while commercial solar, wind and geothermal power are still decades away, other alternate sources — like oil from tar sand and shale, and natural gas made from coal — may be practical in the next few years.

"The Iranian situation points up the United States' vulnerability," says Gary Ross, an analyst for the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an industry group. "Therefore, from both economic and political considerations, we have to look more favorably on alternate energy sources."

The sources of two of the three most practical sources are plentiful in the United States: oil shale and coal. And large deposits of tar sand lie just over the border in Canada.

Known in the trade as synfuels — short for synthetic fuels — the three processes involve producing ordinary types of crude oil and natural gas from unlikely sources. Shale oil production involves mining oil-bearing shale and using heat to squeeze the oil out of the rock. Experts estimate there is enough oil shale in Wyoming, Colorado and Utah to supply the United States' oil needs for nearly a century.

To get oil out of tar sand — also known as bitumen — the heavy, sticky sand is washed with hot water to separate the sand and oil. In coal gasification, the coal is smashed to bits and heated until it turns into a mixture of gases. The better quality gases can be mixed with natural gas to augment supply of that fuel. The low-quality gases produced can be used to power the gasification plant itself.

Although the technology for synfuels has been in place for several years — small-scale coal gasification projects existed before World War II — the cost has been seen as prohibitive. The price tag on extracting crude oil from shale, for example, is estimated by most experts to be about $20 a barrel.

That's 50 percent higher than the $13.35 a barrel OPEC began charging Jan. 1. But the Iranian situation is narrowing the margin. Independent price increases by many oil-producing nations have raised their prices to nearly $15 a barrel. And the Iranian-caused shortage of supply on the spot oil market has pushed some prices there up over $20 a barrel. General crude-oil prices may not be far behind.

"If we end up in that range, it will send the right signals through the private sector and maybe we'll get some oil from shale out of the ground in about five years," said Arnold E. Safer, an analyst at Irving Trust Co.

The cost of getting oil from tar sands is several dollars more per barrel than with shale. Gas produced from coal costs about $5 per 1,000 cubic feet, some three times what natural gas now costs.

But Eugene Nowak, who analyzes energy for the Blyth Eastman Dillon brokerage house, feels these methods may be practical soon, too. "Everytime the price of a major fuel like petroleum rises, it does bring us somewhat closer to development of other energy sources," he said. "At some point it could trigger a substantial effort in one of these fuels."

Opposition from some parts of the oil industry and a meager amount of encouragement from the Department of Energy, analysts say, has retarded growth in the technologies that could bring prices down still further.

And production of these forms of fuel on a full-scale commercial basis is still at least a decade away, although pilot plants are already in operation.

"It's a longer-term proposition," says Ross. "It can't help us today, but it can help us in the future."

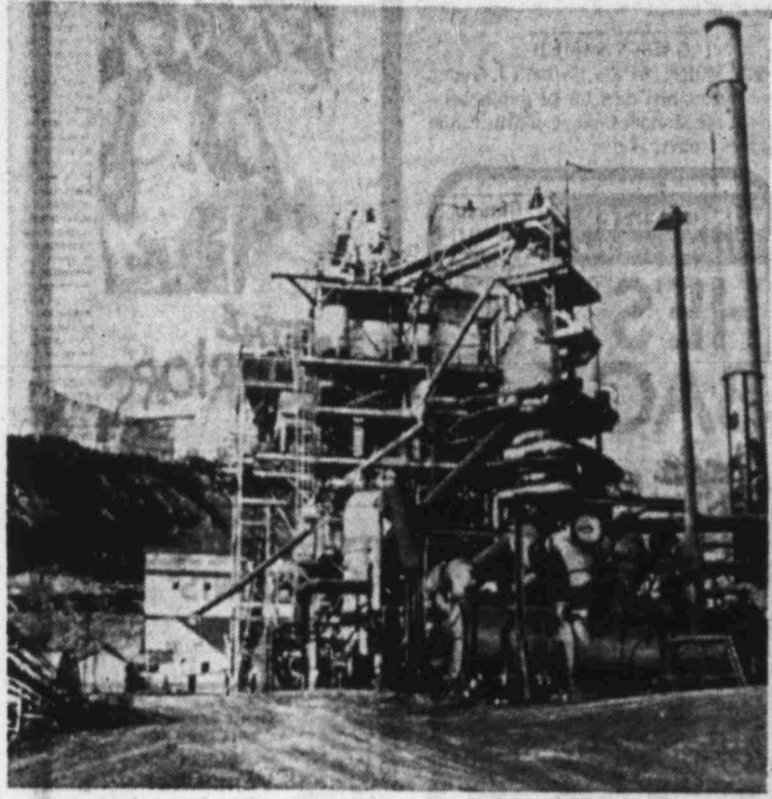
Says Nowak: "We ought to be thinking about these things very hard very simply because of the long time lags involved."

Nowak says that the large amounts of capital involved in starting full-scale production of synfuels may be more than one company can bear. "One of the problems, of course, is that these are massive projects, these are billion-dollar projects," he says. So he suggests that it could take a consortium of companies — or government incentives — to bring synfuels into commercial production.

In addition to price constraints, synfuels have other problems, many of them environmental. Strip-mining to get at shale and tar sand is not looked on favorably by environmentalists, and the manufacturing processes for those fuels and coal gasification can cause pollution.

Similar, but more acute problems, are dooming a much more common fuel source, coal, which has been all but written off by the energy industry and government as a long-term answer to energy problems.

But backers of synfuels think their problems are surmountable. And at the right price, analysts say, synfuels could play a significant part in the nation's energy picture. "It's just a matter of trying to get them out," says Nowak. "That costs money."



OIL SHALE PLANT — This photo shows the Paraho oil shale test plant at Anvil Points, Colo. Extraction of oil from shale or tar sand is becoming more attractive with the high oil prices and spot shortages resulting from the shutdown of Iranian oil production. Experts estimate there is enough oil shale in Wyoming, Colorado and Utah to supply the United States' oil needs for nearly a century. (AP Laserphoto)

ECONOMY SURGE URGED

TOKYO (AP) — The All-China Federation of Trade Unions has called on Chinese workers to launch "a nationwide movement to increase production and practice economy" to speed up China's modernization program, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported Saturday. The federation passed the resolution Tuesday, Hsinhua reported in a dispatch from Peking.

Clown Always Tries To Be Himself

By EMMETT KELLY
Professional Clown

What's the hardest thing to be? Yourself. But if you find the courage to be the person God intended, you're going to come out all right.

KELLY

Let me tell you how I found out about this. Back in the Depression work was tough to come by, so when I landed a job as a clown with the Sells-Floto circus in 1933 I was overjoyed.

Right away I knew I had found my niche. Trying to cheer people up gave me a feeling of satisfaction and made me want to do a creative job.

Within a few weeks, however, my creativity turned out to be a problem. When I tried to add a few new touches to my act, the head clown gave me a dressing down. No free-lancing, Kelly. Stay in line.

At that time clowns looked pretty much the same: powder-white faces, silly white wigs, zany smiles and baggy white suits with ruffled collars. We had prescribed uniforms and a prescribed routine. One day I decided I had to do something original or burst.

In my mind I had a picture of a sad-faced, woebegone hobo clown. He didn't jump into being all at once, though; I dreamed him into reality bit by bit.

As a kid, I loved to draw. Mother encouraged me and persuaded Dad to pay for a correspondence course in cartooning that I took.

At age 20 I went off to Kansas City to make my mark. Unfortunately, no one had told Kansas City and the art world that I was coming. As a result, I wound up cutting butter in a creamery.

Eventually, I did get work as a pen and ink cartoonist for a film company that made motion picture trailer ads and lantern slides for movie theaters. One of the characters I created was a baggy pants hobo.

My career took another track when I joined the circus. Still, the joy of creating things never left me, and when I was searching for some way to develop a new type of clown, that old hobo drawing popped into my mind.

Dusting off my pad and pencils, I began trying to draw the hobo I wanted to bring to life. I knew he was a mournful tramp, with a six-day beard and ragtag clothes. But there was something about him with which everyone could identify. An underdog, dn on his luck, but still hoping his ship would come in.

To get the character I wanted, I added a bulbous nose, arched eyebrows and a sad-sack, turned-down smile. I was getting close.

When the circus played in New York, I bought a brown hat with dirty splotches on it for a dollar. I next had a shoemaker construct the biggest, floppiest shoes I could imagine.

Back in my room, I put on the raggedy clothes and makeup. Looking in the mirror, I saw the character I'd been dreaming about, and as I looked at him his name came to me. Willie. Weary Willie, I said.

The circus moved west, and I tried to work up courage to introduce Willie. Finally, in Mason City, Iowa, I donned the clothing and waited until all the others clowns had entered the Big Top. I followed, and it was love at first sight. The audience took one look at Weary Willie and loved him.

Only the clown master was unsmiling. Afterward, he told me to forget the hobo. So I went back to my all-white costume and finished out the year.

But something kept whispering. Be yourself, Kelly. Don't be like that fellow in the Bible who buried his talent in the ground. When we struck our tents in the last town, I gave notice I was quitting.

You see, I believed in my creation, and when you really believe in something you are filled with a faith that can move mountains, just like it says in the Bible. The Lord made each of us unique, I believe, and we are truest to Him when we are true to ourselves. Anyway, that was the conviction I had about Willie and my future.

A few weeks later, I heard about a job opening and went for an interview.

Well, show me your act, the boss said.

I put on my costume and makeup and introduced him to Willie. Willie didn't have his whole act together yet; there was no sledgehammer to crack peanuts with and no broom to sweep the circle of lights made on the floor by a spotlight, but otherwise he was complete.

The circus boss sat through my routine poker-faced. But finally, when I was through, he shook his head resignedly and laughed out loud.

I never saw an act like this one, he said, but I think they'll like you.

He was right. Sad-faced Willie had his 45th birthday recently and people still enjoy his unorthodox antics.

So if you ever worry about being yourself, stop it. Weary Willie's had almost half a century of fun just being himself. And so have I.

Package Mailed 34 Years Ago Finally Arrives

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — In 1944 a Clarksville soldier mailed his mother a photograph of his Army buddies. After apparently falling off a postal truck or out of a mailbox and being gnawed by vermin until it was thrown out in the garbage, the package arrived — 34 years later.

But Mae Baggett never received her son's picture because she died before it reached home from Camp Edwards, Mass. The cylindrical package, found by a mailman on a roadside last December, wound up in the hands of Louise Lackey, Kenneth Baggett's sister, before being returned to Baggett himself.

The mystery of the photo's circuitous route didn't end once the package arrived in Clarksville.

Parts of the labels on the tube — frayed by the teeth of rats or mice — were missing and what was legible in fading ink was a puzzle to be untangled.

The address read: "ggett, Cl——lle, Tenn., Route 3t, Care Of Weems."

A mailman figured the correct road was Route 3, not Route 3t or Route 31, and he delivered the package to Mabel Allen, a sister of Cook Weems, in whose house the soldier's mother lived during World War II.

Good News Inspires Mart Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Favorable news on several international fronts helped inspire a broad rally in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.49 at 824.24.

—The Chinese announcement of withdrawal of forces from Vietnam after more than two weeks of border fighting.

—The resumption of some shipments of oil from Iran following the political upheaval in that country.

—Word that Israel's cabinet had approved recommendations by Prime Minister Menachem Begin on American proposals to break the stalemate in the Mideast peace talks.

Informed sources were quoted as saying that Begin had agreed with the U.S. suggestions. And the White House announced today that President Carter will fly to Egypt and Israel this week.

Stocks which were hit hardest in the market's February decline were among leaders of the advance. Polaroid, for example, climbed 2⅛ to 40¾ in active trading, and Boeing was up 1⅞ at 66⅝.

The NYSE's composite index rose .44 to 54.81, and the American Stock Exchange market value index gained 1.03 to 164 even.

Volume on the Big Board came to 11.50 million shares at noontime, up from 11.04 million at the same point Friday.

Suspect Charged In Beating Case

Trinidad Lovato of 2101 Emory St., No. 139, was found about 6:20 p.m. hiding in a cold storage vault at a club in the 400-block of Quirt Avenue, police said. The club manager also was taken into custody for hindering an arrest.

Charges of causing injuries to a child were filed Friday against Lovato by the Criminal District Attorney's office.

The child, who was rushed to Health Sciences Center Hospital Thursday by a child welfare worker, was in satisfactory condition this morning. The boy reportedly had injuries, including a broken leg, over most of his body. The tot was in critical condition Friday.

Lovato, reportedly the boyfriend of the child's mother, was being held today in the county jail.

Police said they got information that Lovato was in the club Sunday afternoon, but when they went to the business the manager said the suspect was not there.

The manager reportedly led officers through the club, opening up bathroom doors and a storage room, but hesitated when police wanted to go inside the freezer vault. The 44-year-old manager, also in jail today, allegedly pretended that the vault door was stuck. But on officers' insistence, the man opened the door and the suspect was found hiding next to a vault wall, police said.

Texas Department of Human Resources case worker Nora Stinson said she found the child at a babysitter's residence shortly after 5 p.m. Thursday after receiving an anonymous phone call.

The child's 27-year-old mother, who has three other children, said her 2-year-old usually is left with the sitter each day while she goes to work. But the boy was left at their Emory Street home Tuesday with the woman's boyfriend, according to police.

The mother said she came home about 5 p.m. Tuesday and found her boyfriend drunk, and the tot suffering from bruises on the face. She said, however, she did not immediately notice the bruises over most of the child's body.

Mrs. Stinson said the child suffers from a brain disease — requiring a tube to be inserted to drain fluid — and cannot walk or talk.

Measure Would Set Strict Penalties

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter reportedly plans to send to Congress a hospital cost containment bill that would trigger federal controls only if voluntary efforts at holding down costs failed.

The proposed measure would set stiff federal penalties for hospitals that overcharge or cheat their patients, The Washington Post said today.

Carter was expected to outline his proposal at a news briefing today, but that session was postponed, probably until Tuesday, because Carter was involved in Middle east developments today.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, also had planned to appear at the briefing. The bill's congressional sponsors were expected to include Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Reps. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., and Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y.

According to the Post, the bill would cover the nation's 6,000 non-federal hospitals, although hospitals already regulated by state cost controls could be exempted.

The proposed measure would rely first on hospitals' efforts to voluntarily keep down costs, an idea rejected last year by the administration. If voluntary efforts were unsuccessful, federal controls would automatically go into effect.

Other features of the bill, according to the Post, include:

—The HEW secretary would "promulgate" an annual "voluntary percentage limit" for the average nationwide increase in hospital costs, based on federal formulas. A list also would be drawn up for each state and hospital.

—A hospital could be required to pay a penalty of 150 percent of any overcharges.

—Hospitals could lose their eligibility to collect Medicare and Medicaid payments if they turn away the poor in an effort to maximize their incomes.

—A hospital that holds its cost increases below the federally set level might get a 1 percent "bonus" to spend as it wants the next year. A hospital that fails to meet the target level might have its coming year's allowance slashed by 2 percent.

Southwestern Bell Announces Project

Southwestern Bell will begin construction this month on a $65,000 project to provide additional toll facilities in the Lubbock-Hurlwood area.

Bob Dunbar, division manager, said workmen are placing buried cable from Milwaukee Avenue west to Farm Road 179 on Highway 160. The cable will provide better long distance service for Lubbock-Hurlwood customers as well as provide the facilities for future long distance growth, he said.

Dunbar said the project is a joint undertaking by Southwestern Bell and General Telephone Co. to provide better service for customers. The project is scheduled for completion in July.

Benefit Dance Set To Aid Crash Victims

A benefit dance to help pay medical expenses for a Lubbock couple injured in a car-pickup accident Feb. 9 in Amarillo will be at 9 p.m. Wednesday in Westernaire Lounge at 4805 Ave. Q.

Byron and Nancy Eldredge were seriously injured when a pickup truck apparently left the southbound lanes of Interstate 27 and struck the Eldredge vehicle after being airborne for about 40 feet, according to police reports.

Eldredge, 35, was reported in fair condition today in Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas after recently undergoing surgery to relieve pressure on the brain. He was transferred to the Dallas hospital from Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo Feb. 26.

Eldredge sustained head lacerations and a concussion in the accident and a subsequent bladder infection has complicated his medical problems, according to Kathy Parker, a family friend.

Mrs. Eldredge, 26, was released from the Amarillo hospital after being treated for severe head cuts and a shattered bone in her right arm. Mrs. Parker said she is still under a doctor's care.

Eldredge is employed by South Plains Communications and his wife by Citibus of Lubbock. They have two sons, Vaughn, 12, and Danny, 8, and a daughter, Stacy, who is 4.

A trust fund has been set up at First Federal Savings and Loan in Lubbock to help the couple meet their mounting medical bills.

Wilburn Roach, owner of the Westernaire, said admission to the benefit is $2, with all proceeds going to the Eldredge family. Local entertainer Tiny Lynn will provide the music.

Region Short Of Moisture

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Moisture is short over the Panhandle while the rest of Texas has adequate to surplus amounts, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

The service reported that while moisture was short, the cotton harvest is nearing completion in the Panhandle and land preparation is active. Wheat is responding to warmer weather, the service reported, and cattle is improving.

Adequate moisture was reported over the south plains, north central Texas, northeast Texas, central Texas and south Texas.

The rolling plains, far west Texas and southwest Texas report good moisture while adequate to surplus moisture is in east Texas and the coastal bend.

LOVE ENDURES — John and Greta Rideout are shown with their daughter Jenny as they appeared on a television show in January after their reconciliation. The young couple had testified against each other in what was believed to be the nation's first trial of a husband charged with raping his wife. After a whirl of television appearances and magazine interviews, the couple withdrew to a secluded apartment on the ouskirts of Salem, Ore. (AP Laserphoto)

Rideouts Emotionally Drained, Withdraw From Public Life

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Tacked on the wall of John and Greta Rideout's sparsely furnished apartment is a hand-lettered sign: "Love can endure all things."

But the Rideouts, who captured national attention when wife accused husband of rape then stunned everyone by kissing and making up, are still having their problems.

Greta Rideout says the couple has yet to visit a marriage counselor.

"We should," she said. "Things aren't peachy keen around here."

The couple has other loose ends untied.

After the trial, Mrs. Rideout said she wanted to do volunteer work at the Women's Crisis Center, the hotline for battered women which counseled her after the alleged rape. She has yet to report.

When they reconciled, the Rideouts spoke of a new religious interest. Mrs. Rideout said they haven't joined any church, although they read the Bible together at home.

It was almost five months ago that Mrs. Rideout called police and accused her husband of beating and raping her. The young couple testified against each other at what was believed to be the nation's first trial of a husband charged with raping his wife.

Rideout was acquitted. Then, within two weeks of the trial's end on Dec. 27, the Rideouts announced they had rediscovered their love.

Mrs. Rideout, 23, said when she first got back with her husband, "It was a good feeling to know there wasn't any hatred, considering what happened.

Follow-Up

"But it's hard when the subject comes up about the trial," she added. "We've talked about it quite a bit, but we end up disagreeing and arguing. ...

"There are a whole lot of things I would have done differently if I had it to do over again, but pressing charges isn't one of them. I don't regret that. That's a definite."

Mrs. Rideout spoke nervously to a reporter, with her 21-year-old husband asleep in a bedroom after an all night shift. She said he doesn't want them to talk with reporters anymore.

She recalled the whirl of television appearances and magazine interviews that followed the reconciliation. The Rideouts were seen gazing lovingly at each other in restaurants and were photographed cuddling at home with their 3-year-old daughter, Jenny.

Then they withdrew, moving to a secluded apartment on the outskirts of town. They got an unlisted telephone number.

"We were emotionally exhausted," she said. "We wanted to get away from it all, to find a place that is out of the way."

Mrs. Rideout said they made about $800 from television appearances and a magazine article. But now, she said, she is out of work and they are having trouble stretching Rideout's part-time salary.

"It would be nice to be settled and financially secure like everyone else," she said, smoking a cigarette and looking around the $300-a-month apartment she says they no longer can afford. "When we signed the six-month lease we thought John would be working full-time."

Voyager I Reveals Details Of Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 1, sailing through its historic rendezvous with Jupiter, excited scientists today with a first-ever close look at the tiny moon Amalthea and revealed details of the giant planet's swirling clouds.

The spacecraft's closest approach to the distant and mysterious planet was taking it within 172,750 miles of the colorful cloud tops.

Black and white pictures of Jupiter, taken from less than 200,000 miles away, showed churning clouds and several dark ovals. The pictures, displayed on television monitors at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, looked like snowdifts rippled and swirled by the wind.

Jupiter, 1,200 times the size of Earth, appears to be mostly a fast-spinning ball of liquid hydrogen and helium with a rocky core and a surface coating of thick clouds. It has no solid surface.

The clouds, which displayed a dazzling array of colors in earlier Voyager photos, are formed into alternating dark and light belts.

After passing Jupiter, the ship, carrying 11 cameras and instruments, will inspect at least three of the planet's 13 moons and search for possible undiscovered satellites.

With the first leg of its one-way journey completed, Voyager 1 will head farther into space for a 20-month cruise to distant Saturn — a golden planet nestled inside brlliant rings.

A sistership is trailing Voyager 1. Voyager 2, some 50 million miles behind, is due at Jupiter in July and at Saturn in 1981. NASA says it may send Voyager 2 on to Uranus, a far-away world never visited by man's machines.

Both Voyagers will one day leave the solar system and drift endlessly through space. Each ship contains a phonograph of Earth sounds — from music and bird songs to a message from President Carter. The recordings were included in case the Voyagers are found by inhabitants of another world.

The Voyagers are following a trail blazed by two earlier American spacecraft. Pioneer 10 and 11 reconnoitered Jupiter in 1973 and 1974. Pioneer 11 will be Earth's first emissary to Saturn this September.

Michelle Marvin Faces Cross Examination

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Michelle Triola Marvin takes the stand again Tuesday but this time faces cross examination by her own attorney in the Lee Marvin property settlement trial.

The trial, entering its eighth week, was in recess Monday.

Miss Marvin was called to the stand Friday by Marvin's attorney David Kagon to testify about her sources of income since leaving Marvin and apparent misrepresentations on a job application to the William Morris Agency.

She also acknowledged she recently signed a contract with the agency to possibly write a book and give lectures.

Miss Marvin is seeking half of the actor's estimated $3.5 million earnings during the six years they lived together, from 1964 to 1970.

The 46-year-old one-time supper club singer admitted she lied on her job application.

"Mr. Kagon, I did not have a job," she said. "I needed a job."

She said Marvin supported her for a year and a half after they separated but no one else has supported her to the present.

She worked at a variety of jobs, she said, after the payments were cut off in 1971 when Marvin became convinced she was planting unfavorable items in trade publications about him and his wife, Pamela.

The jobs included watering friends' plants and typing scripts until she landed the job at the Morris agency as a secretary in 1973.

Other sources of income, she said, included war bonds she inherited, loans from Milton Berle and his wife, and refinancing the Mercedes Benz Marvin had given her when they broke up.

Miss Marvin has contended she gave up her own career to help Marvin end deserves half of the money and property he acquired during the period they cohabited.

Auto Insurance Rating System Draws Attacks

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The traditional system of basing auto insurance rates on factors like age and sex is under attack and the resulting changes are expected to mean lower premiums for some drivers and higher prices for others.

Several states, including Hawaii, North Carolina and Massachusetts, already have put into effect regulations barring the insurance companies from taking martial status, sex or age into account when setting rates.

A series of public hearings is scheduled in California this month and next to consider the fairness of using geographical territories in setting rates. Hearings on the use of age and sex as rating factors were held last month in Florida and South Carolina.

Most insurance companies oppose the changes. They argue that the traditional criteria are valid, based on the risks presented by various groups of drivers.

Opponents of the existing system contend it unfairly penalizes some groups of people. One problem with eliminating the old standards is finding new ones to use instead. The most frequent proposal calls for linking premiums to individual driving records and experience.

While a new system of setting rates would benefit some drivers — people under 25 would no longer pay higher prices just because of their age, for example — it would also mean an increase in premiums for those who now get preferential treatment.

Regardless of the rating system in use in your state, you can save money if you shop around and learn what to look for. Compare rates from several companies. The variation from one firm to another can be substantial. The dealer you buy your auto from may suggest a particular firm, but you don't necessarily have to follow his or her recommendation.

Consider cutting down on your coverage by increasing the deductible amount you pay yourself. Suppose, for example, you have a collision policy with a $50 deductible and you are in an accident involving $300 worth of damage. You pay the $50 and the insurance company pays the rest. If you are willing to pay more in the event of an accident, your premium goes down. A switch from no deductible to a $50 deductible can save you nearly 30 percent; increasing the deductible from $50 to $100 cuts the bill by 10 to 20 percent.

Don't buy coverage that you don't need. Collision coverage which protects your car against damage may not be needed on an older car. It makes little sense to pay $100 a year for a car that is worth only $300. The amount you would get from the insurance company probably would not pay for repairs since the most you can collect, no matter what your coverage, is the current market value of the car.

Remember: If you itemize deductions, you can deduct any fire, theft or collision loss above $100 on your federal income tax return. That cuts the value of the loss.

Buy a cheaper car. The cheaper the car is to repair and the lower the price of parts, the lower the premium for insurance.

Look for discounts. Does your insurance company offer lower rates if you don't smoke? What about a "good student" discount for younger drivers or a multi-car discount for families with more than one auto? Can you save by joining a carpool?

Try to pay your premiums for the full period of the policy. It costs more to pay on the installment plan.

Notify your insurer if your annual mileage goes down or if someone who normally uses the car leaves home, to get married or go to school, for example.

Limitations Proposed For Children's Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Children and cartoon characters could continue eating cereal in those television ads — but only inside a special commercial border and only if viewers were warned vocally they were watching an advertisement.

That's the suggestion of Robert Choate, the man who blew the whistle on the nutritional value of cereals in 1970 and head of the Council on Children, Media and Merchandising.

He suggested Sunday that TV commercials aimed at children should be set off by a border or some other device, the way advertising in newspapers is separated fom news.

Choate made the proposal on the eve of five weeks of Federal Trade Commission hearings starting today on its controversial proposal to crack down on children's TV advertising.

In addition, he said, commercials themselves should disclose the approximate cost of any toy or product more than $2, and include graphic symbols portraying relative nutritional worth or potential health or safety hazards.

And he suggested that public service messages on nutritional or dental health be run in every half-hour segment where four or more commercials for edible products appear.

Last year, the FTC offered a plan whereby:

—Commercials aimed at very young children would be banned.

—Ads for highly sugared foods, including some cereals, would be forbidden when the audience is comprised mostly of children under 12.

—And advertisers would have to pay for nutritional meesages counteracting the allegedly bad health habits caused by the commercials.

That proposal, one of the most controversial in the agency's history, has already produced several files of testimony, including public hearings in California in January.

During the new hearings in Washington, more than 120 witnesses are scheduled to testify.

The food industry and broadcasters, among others, condemn the idea as an example of over-regulation at best and possibly a trampling of First Amendment free speech rights at worst.

"We believe breakfast cereals, regular and presweetened, provide essential nutrition at breakfast and do not increase the incidence of children's tooth decay," said General Mills, a leading cereal producer, in advance of the hearings.

"The typical fortified ready-to-eat cereal provides 25 percent of the recommended daily amount of at least seven vitamins and iron," its statement said.

Choate drew headlines in a 1970 appearance before a Senate subcommittee, when he charged that many breakfast cereals had little nutritional value. Tte industry disagreed strongly.

He says many cereals have since been reformulated and his criticism of them is less strong.

His suggestion for something short of a ban on commercials seen by children, however, is different from the position adopted by most other public interest groups involved.

For the moment, most back the FTC's stricter approach.

INSULATION USED TO BE A DETAIL. NOW IT'S A PRIORITY.

Used to be, insulation in commercial, industrial and institutional buildings was frequently taken for granted.

The energy crisis has changed all that.

Which brings us to the buildings we build. Butler buildings. Because they're built around pre-engineered systems, the roof and wall systems are designed with superior insulation to provide you with the best available seal against outside heat and cold, regardless of the climate.

Butler building systems have always been time and money savers. But more important, now they're energy savers. We'd like to show you why. Call us. 774

Cleland Says Alcoholism VA's Biggest Problem

ATLANTA (UPI) — The head of the Veterans Administration says more and more Vietnam veterans have become alcoholics, making drinking the biggest problem the VA now faces.

Max Cleland, who lost both legs and his right arm in Vietnam, said Sunday, "The VA has the only unified program for it (alcoholism); what the military has is three different approaches, but we see the overall size of the problem, especially among Vietnam-era veterans."

The former Georgia state senator, who was appointed VA director two years ago by President Carter, said he plans to expand alcoholism treatment units by 25 percent this year — for a total of 100 clinics in VA hospitals.

He said the VA now treats about 100,000 alcoholics, 30,000 of them Vietnam-era veterans, compared to about 12,000 Vietnam-era veterans being treated for addiction to hard drugs."

Cleland said a VA survey of half the disabled Vietnam-era veterans being treated showed "almost 30 percent of them experienced problems with drugs and alcohol".

AND THE WINNER IS — By the looks of things, the rooster on the left was a winner and the one on the right a loser in an illegal cock fight east of the city. Both, however, wound up in the clutches of the law Sunday afternoon. The gamecocks here are two of six roosters confiscated by authorities in a raid on the cock fights about 3 p.m. A 15-year-old youth and 24 men were booked into Lubbock County Jail in connection with the incident and bond was set between $200 and $2,000. Cock Fight Leads To Arrests

By ESTHER LONGORIA
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Following a raid on illegal cock fight east of the city, 24 men and a 15-year-old youth were booked into Lubbock County Jail Sunday in connection with the incident.

Four of the men were arrested for promotion of gambling with temporary bond set at $2,000 each. The others, who were spectators at the event, were arrested for misdemeanor gambling offenses, carrying temporary bonds of $200 each.

The group, all from Lubbock County and ranging in age from 15 to 50, was arrested about 3 p.m. after two undercover Department of Public Safety officers observed two cock fights and a dice game in the barn, located on a dirt road about 1 1/2 miles east and one-quarter of a mile south of U.S. 62-82.

Sheriff's deputies, along with other DPS troopers, Texas Rangers, a Texas Tech policeman and an assistant from the criminal district attorney's office, converged on the barn after the undercover DPS officers had observed the gambling operation for about 45 minutes.

While law enforcement officers made preparations to raid the establishment, a DPS helicopter monitored activities.

During the raid, sheriff's deputies confiscated six roosters; seven pairs of gaffs, which are pointed instruments tied to the animal's legs during the fighting; four pairs of boxing gloves, tied to the animal's legs during training; a number of knives; and two vials of drugs supposedly used to excite the roosters.

Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard said his department had received complaints from area residents concerning the cock fighting, and sheriff's deputies had been watching this particular operation for the past four Sundays.

"Generally, the fights began at noon and the gambling continued until about 5 p.m.," the sheriff said.

FASH Strike Over; Trouble Continues

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Firebombed trucks are being replaced, tacks are gone from the highways and bruised ribs are healing. But not all the trouble ended when independent steel haulers abandoned their 10-week strike.

Some members of the dissident Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers (FASH) are still fighting to regain the jobs they lost for parking their rigs. Others, who lost 10 weeks' wages trying to improve the lot of 30,000 independent steel haulers, have switched to hauling less troublesome cargos.

The strike, one of six since FASH formed in 1967, was accompanied by shooting, rock-throwing, beatings and firebombings. About 400 incidents were reported in Pennsylvania alone.

Shippers say the protest reduced steel movement by up to 15 percent with some of the backlog still waiting to be loaded. The temporary loss of revenue plus damage topped $2 million for at least one firm near Pittsburgh, the nation's steelmaking center.

The group still faces a federal lawsuit filed by seven leading U.S. steel companies. The suit seeks $3 million in damages and $300,000 in penalties for each day of the strike, which began Nov. 11 and was ordered to end Jan. 10.

The financial damages, part of the same suit that ended the strike, won't be settled until the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals rules on an attempt to overturn a strike injunction issued by U.S. District Judge Louis Rosenberg.

FASH, with its headquarters in a small office on Pittsburgh's industrial North Side, seems ill-prepared to pay such a financial penalty. The members, estimated to number between several hundred and several thousand, conducted the protest without benefit of a strike fund. Chairman William J. Hill steadfastly declines to specify the group's membership or assets.

"The court broke our strike," said Hill, a strapping, mustachioed former trucker with a raspy voice. "Once the court action started, it weakened the hell out of us."

FASH's chief rival, the Independent Truckers Association, called the strike a blatant failure, and Hill acknowledged that the walkout soured a number of steel haulers.

"A lot of guys have gotten out of this business. They just feel they can't beat the system," Hill said.

Meanwhile, FASH filed a suit of its own seeking reinstatement for 150 members fired or blacklisted for refusing to drive. U.S. labor laws forbid such reprisals against union members, but authorities view it as a group of small businessmen barred by anti-trust laws from acting in concert to affect interstate commerce.

Besides legal hassles, FASH failed to win clearcut victories on strike issues — the right to bargain for itself, higher rates and uniformity for a morass of road regulations among various states.

As a result, FASH has only Teamster good will to count on for contract language that reflects the needs of members who often lease their rigs to Teamster signatories.

"The steel haulers are going to get only what the Teamsters are willing to give," Hill lamented. "Our hands are tied."

Angelo Fonzi, an executive with Interstate Motor Freight, says the strike might pay off as the Teamsters union renegotiates its Master Freight Agreement, which expires this spring.

"Let's say they're bargaining somewhat harder for steel haulers," he said.

Passman Case Nearing Court Date

MONROE, La. (AP) — Attorneys will begin picking from among 150 prospective jurors today the panel that will decide if former congressman Otto Passman is guilty or innocent of accepting bribes, conspiracy and income tax evasion.

Passman, 78, is accused of taking $213,000 from South Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park, including $98,000 in alleged bribes, to influence U.S. and South Korean officials to help Park sell U.S. rice to Korea.

The one-time chairman of the House subcommittee for foreign operations appropriations, described by his attorneys as "a sick, broken down old man," also is accused of failing to pay $77,000 in income taxes on $143,000 that Park claims he gave him.

"I never took one dime from Tongsun Park," Passman has said repeatedly since his indictment nearly a year ago.

The only other former congressman indicted in the scandal, California Democat Richard Hanna, pleaded guilty in March, 1978 to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the U.S. government. He is confined in a federal institution at Montgomery, Ala.

Passman was indicted on March 31, 1978, by a grand jury in Washington, D.C., but a federal judge granted a defense motion to move the trial to Passman's hometown because of his age and ill health.

Park was the central figure in the influence-buying investigations and was named an unindicted co-conspirator when Passman was indicted.

Park, under a promise of immunity, was expected to be the prosecution's chief witness. Critics have said he spread cash liberally through Washington during the early 1970s to get congressional approval for increased aid to South Korea.

Also expected to be called as witnesses are Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards and Rep. John Breaux, D-La., of Crowley. The prosecution has also indicated it may call Hanna.

Passman was first elected to the U.S. House from Louisiana's 5th District in 1946 and held the post until his defeat in 1976 by political novice Jerry Huckaby of Ringgold.

Lubbock Man Reports Being Robbed By Pair

A 31-year-old Lubbock man told police that two black men jumped into his pickup truck, pulled a knife on him and robbed him of $52 early Sunday.

Erasmo Cavazos of 1017 E. 29th St. said he was sitting in his pickup truck in the 2700-block of Juniper Avenue when the two men jumped into his truck.

Cavazos reported that one of the men pulled a knife and held it to his throat demanding that he hand over his money. When the other suspect pulled out a straight-edge razor, Cavazos gave his wallet to the duo.

The victim said the men took his car keys and left in a 1966 light blue Oldsmobile headed south on Southeast Drive. Cavazos said the men were thin and 26 to 35 years old.

In another assault, Geneva Hawkins of 2228-A Redbud Dr. told officers that a middle-aged black man hit her on the head with a pistol and drove off with her car about 8 a.m. Sunday.

Three Lubbock Christian College students, two 19-year-olds and a 20-year-old, were arrested on suspicion of burglary about 2 a.m. today while reportedly stashing their loot in the LCC field house.

Car thieves apparently were working overtime this weekend, with four Lubbockites reporting their vehicles stolen.

Larry Robertson of 7822 Ave. V said his $6,000 pickup was stolen while it was parked in front of his residence between 10:30 p.m. Sunday and 3 a.m. today.

Jessie O. Jones of 7803 Vernon said he noticed his $3,000 vehicle missing from in front of his house about 1:45 a.m. today.

A $4,300 car, owned by Gerald A. Gonzales, reportedly was stolen while parked at 13th Street and Avenue G between 2:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Sunday.

Darren Curtis Welch of 4007 48th St. told police his car, worth about $2,000, was parked at 1411 Ave. J Sunday afternoon when thieves apparently drove it off.

In reported break-ins, Savario J. D'Angelo of 1706 26th St., Apt. F26, said her place was burglarized between Friday morning and 10 p.m. Sunday and $2,500 in property, including a television set, stereo and assorted household items, was stolen.

John David Warren of 2302-B 14th St. said he lost $696 in jewelry and a stereo to house burglars Sunday.

Cash and a saxophone, totaling about $886, were taken Saturday at Gary Casey Horby's 1409 Ave. T residence.

In weekend thefts and break-ins, Jim Bain, a salesman at the Radio Shack at 8203 Indiana Ave., said burglars took $1,209 worth of stereo equipment from the store about 3:25 a.m. Sunday.

Rodney Taylor reported that someone took his $350 motorcycle while it was parked at 314 University Ave. about 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

Bryan Williams said someone drove off in his 1974 Pontiac Firebird while it was parked at 2115 14th St. sometime between 1:30 a.m. and 2:45 a.m. Sunday.

Dwayne Moss of Brownfield told police that someone drove off in his car, valued at $1,500, while it was parked at 3211 58th St. sometime between noon and 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Paulette Brownfield said someone grabbed her purse from her shopping cart while she was in a grocery store at 3249 50th St. Saturday afternoon and made off with $250.

Al Melendez of 3007 Mesa Road told police he lost $110 when someone took his wallet from a locker at the YMCA. He said the break-in occured sometime between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday.

In criminal mischief activity, Lawrence Gautreaux, owner of a restaurant at 2420 Broadway, said that someone shattered the front door glass to the establishment at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Jury Selection Begins In Hart Murder Trial

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — Jury selection was scheduled to begin today in the first-degree murder trial of Gene Leroy Hart.

He is charged in the June 13, 1977 slayings of three Tulsa-area Girl Scouts at a northeastern Oklahoma summer camp.

District Judge William Whistler of Vinita will preside over the trial, which is expected to include a week of jury selection and perhaps three weeks of testimony.

In all, 900 Mayes County residents have been summoned as potential jurors.

Hart's chief defense attorney, Garvin Issacs, has indicated he is ready to go to trial after several last-minute efforts for another delay in the case were stymied last week.

District Attorney Jack Graves, who was elected to succeed Sid Wise and took office in January, and Tulsa County District Attorney S.M. "Buddy" Fallis Jr. will conduct the state's case.

Hart, 34, was charged 10 days after the slayings at Camp Scott near Locust Grove. He was captured by state agents 10 months later, April 6, 1978, in a shack 50 miles from Camp Scott.

He was bound over for trial following a month-long preliminary hearing that ended on July 6, 1978. After testimony from nearly 100 witnesses. It was one of the longest such hearings in state history.

Hart had been a fugitive from the Mayes County Jail for nearly four years when he was charged in the slayings.

He had sawed his way out of the jail in September 1973, while awaiting a post-conviction relief hearing on charges of kidnapping, rape and burglary.

Testimony during the Girl Scout slayings preliminary hearing brought into focus details of the attack on Lori Lee Farmer, 8; Michele Guse, 9; and Doris Denise Milner, 10.

In the pre-dawn hours of the second day of what was to have been a two-week encampment by three busloads of Girl Scouts, a killer crept unseen into a platform tent and bludgeoned the three victims.

They were taken with their sleeping bags to a spot several yards from their bloody tent, where they were sexually molested. A counselor came upon the grisly scene at 6 a.m.

The killer left behind a roll of heavy tape and a flashlight masked to create a narrow beam of light. Knotted cords were found around the necks of two of the girls, one of whom died by strangulation. Two girls had their hands bound behind their backs, one with cord and the other with tape.

Investigators didn't find any fingerprints or eyewitnesses.

Hart, whose family had lived in the area, was charged after searchers found tattered pictures in the surrounding woods. They contended he could have developed the photos as a prison photographer's assistant several years earlier.

Residents Debate Compromise Proposal

HOUSTON (AP) — An overflow crowd of about 1,200 appeared sharply divided Sunday night as Clear Lake City residents debated a compromise proposal aimed at settling court challenges of Houston's 1977 annexation of the area.

Residents of the area adjacent to the Johnson Space Center are to vote Saturday in a non-binding referendum on the proposal under which Houston would turn 65 percent of the area's property taxes over to the Clear Lake Water Authority which would then provide most city services except police protection.

The Houston City Council gave tentative approval to the plan last week. Even with approval by residents of the area, the proposal still would require state legislation authorizing the water authority to perform such services as garbage collection.

Four court suits have challenged the annexation of the 17 square mile area that has about 20,000 residents. The suits center on double taxation charges and most of the plaintiffs have indicated they will drop the challenges if the compromise plan is adopted.

REQUEST DENIED

In 1927, then unknown Adolf Hitler's request for an inscribed photograph of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini was denied with these instructions: "Please thank the above-named gentleman for the sentiments that he expresses ... but Il Duce was unable to grant his request."

Oil Rig Blaze Kills Two Men

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fire broke out on an offshore drilling rig in the Gulf of Mexico early today, killing two men and forcing 27 others to flee the rig in a survival capsule, the Coast Guard reported.

The rig continued to burn and a spokesman for Placid Oil Co. said the flames were apparently being fed by a wild gas well which blew out during drilling.

There was no word on pollution, but the rig was on a platform which contained about 14 producing wells.

"The other wells are shut in by a containing system," said James King, a spokesman for Placid Oil in Houma, La. "It appears there was a blowout, but we don't know many details about it."

He said a fire boat was pumping water on the flames, but with little apparent effect.

Other ships on the scene picked up the survivors, he said, but no names were available. He said most worked for contractors aboard the Penrod 30, a jack-up type drilling rig.

The platform, owned by Placid, was located about 45 miles south of Morgan City, La.

Bob Baeten, a spokesman for the Coast Guard, said the rig was engulfed in flames three hours after the blowout.

Baeten said the survivors escaped in a saucer-shaped survival capsule which was dropped overboard when the fire broke out.

Irish Drop Another TV Contest

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — It was a strange way for Notre Dame to prepare for the NCAA basketball tournament. But Coach Digger Phelps thinks it may work out for the best.

The second-ranked Irish, who just can't seem to do the job when they're on national TV, were upset 62-59 Sunday by Michigan. It was the game of the week on NBC and was played before a Pontiac Silverdome crowd of 37,283 — second largest ever to watch a college game.

Friday night Notre Dame dropped a 76-72 decision to 15th-ranked DePaul. The Irish closed the regular season with a 22-5 record. Four of the losses were in nationally televised games.

"We'll take this weekend as a negative and turn it into a positive," Phelps said, "like we did last year when we lost the final game at Dayton. We have to regoup and get it going."

Notre Dame, seeded No. 1 in the Mideast Regional of the National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney, has a bye the opening round. Sunday at Murfreesboro, Tenn., it faces the winner of the Tennessee-Eastern Kentucky game.

Michigan State, which also drew a bye, is in the same region. Sunday at Murfreesboro the Spartans will play the winner of the Detroit-Lamar game.

Michigan, ranked high before running up some losses, will sit home with a final record of 15-12.

Raiders Get NIT Bid

By DON HENRY
Executive Sports Editor

"Yeahhhh."

Geoff Huston didn't waste words in expressing his elation on the announcement Sunday that Texas Tech will host Indiana Thursday night in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament and the possibility of returning home for his final games as a collegian.

First-round pairings for the 24-team, New York City-based NIT were announced Sunday, and it took Tech officials only a few minutes to accept the invitation. The game with the Hoosiers will be played in Lubbock Coliseum beginning at 7:30 p.m., and tickets will go on sale "hopefully" Tuesday morning, athletic director Dick Tamburo reported.

Tamburo, Raider coach Gerald Myers, and Tech administrators were about the only persons in Lubbock learning of the invitation prior to Huston, who grew up in New York and was one of the city's leading players at Brooklyn Canarsie High before signing with Tech.

"Pretty good," said Huston, whose short jumper beat Texas A&M in overtime in the quarter-finals of the Southwest Conference tournament last week, a win that possibly secured the Raiders' selection. "Coach Myers called me (the team captain) a few hours ago and told me to tell the others.

"We were hoping for it, now we're glad for the opportunity to keep playing.

"After we lost to Arkansas (in Friday's semifinals), Coach Myers told us to keep our heads up, that we might get to play some more."

And, while Huston was spreading the word to his teammates Sunday night, Myers was at his office, trying to locate films of Indiana and running down scouting reports.

Indiana, of the Big Ten, stands 18-12 for the year, Tech 19-10.

"We're real happy," said Myers, in an understatement. "It's a real reward for the older players — and great experience for the younger guys. I'm sure it'll create a lot of interest (in Lubbock).

"I've got to try to locate some information about them. The Aggies played (and beat) them in the first tournament of the season, but I don't know if they filmed it."

NIT officials first contacted Tamburo, who, in turn, had to get permission from Tech president Cecil Mackey and the Board of Regents to accept the invitation. That official approval didn't take long.

"This is super for Gerald," said Tamburo, "just super. It's a great shot in the arm for our entire program.

"Now, we have to try to get some tickets printed. The printer told us that he is pretty sure he can get us some tickets late Monday, so, hopefully, we can put them on sale Tuesday morning."

Prices will be $5 for adults and $3 for students, and they will be sold as general admission on a first-come, first-served

NCAA Field Strong

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — This year's NCAA Basketball tournament may be the finest ever, says Wayne Duke, chairman of the nine-man committee that put it together.

"Very definitely, I think it is the strongest tournament field and the best-balanced," Duke said Sunday after announcing the pairings, seedings and at-large entries in the 40-team tournament.

Besides expanding from 32 teams to 40, this year's tournament features two other important innovations — seeding and first-round byes. In addition, the committee was empowered to ship any team out of its natural geographic region to any of the four regional competitions. DePaul and Marquette, shifted from the Mideast to the West, were the most notable teams affected by this new wrinkle.

The top six seeds in each region won byes into the second round. In first-round action at four sites Friday, the No. 7 seeds will face the No. 10 and the No. 8 seeds will meet the No. 9.

After three days of meetings and "many arduous hours of culling information from many sources," the committee seeded North Carolina, 23-5, first in the East Regional, Notre Dame, 22-4, first in the Mideast, UCLA, 23-4, first in the West and top-ranked Indiana State, the tournament's only unbeaten team at 29-0, No. 1 in the Midwest Regional.

In addition to 23 automatic qualifers from various conferences, the committee picked 17 at-large teams, including Notre Dame, Duke, the No. 2 seed in the East, DePaul and Marquette, the second and third seeds in the West, and Louisville, third seed in the Midwest. The four regional winners will advance to the championship round March 24 and 26 in Salt Lake City.

Other at-large entries are St. John's and Syracuse in the East; Detroit, Iowa and Louisiana State in the Mideast; Southern Cal, Utah State, Utah and Pepperdine in the West, and Southern Alabama, Texas andNew Mexico State in the Midwest.

Automatic qualifiers were: North Caro-

A Taste Of Revenge

THEY HAD TO go about 4,000 miles to do it, and endure the hardships of an expense-paid vacation in Hawaii, but the Dallas Cowboys got a bit of revenge against the Pittsburgh Steelers a few days ago. It wasn't the Super Bowl, admittedly, but it was a morale-builder for the 'Pokes. Those Steelers ain't invincible, after all!

What it was, as Andy Griffith used to say, was the annual Superteams competition. It matches the Super Bowl foes and the World Series participants, except that the haughty New York Yankees have refused to compete the last couple of years and have been replaced by the Kansas City Royals. The Royals have proved to be very fine athletes, as video viewers saw yesterday. (The Cowboys and Steelers will be on the tube next Sunday.)

There was more than a little interest in the event this year, because of the recent Super Bowl thriller between the Steelers and the Cowboys. With all the angry words, charges and counter-charges hurled at the time of the Big One, everyone wanted to see what would happen when the bitter rivals squared off again.

THEY WERE NOT disappointed. Relations between the two teams were cordial enough, but there was an undercurrent of emotion that made the contest more than just fun and games. There was a lot of pride at stake.

"We already had the first round won and a place in the finals locked up when we went into the final event, the tug-of-war, and the network officials talked of canceling it," Cowboy safety Charlie Waters said last weekend after returning to Dallas. "But we wanted to go ahead and compete against the Steelers in the tug-of-war, as a matter of pride."

There were a lot of good athletes on both sides, since the teams included the

Day Off Sparks Phoenix

By The Associated Press

One look at the calendar told Phoenix Coach John MacLeod how to perk his team up. There's nothing like the prospect of a couple of days off in March to spark a pro basketball player's engine.

"We had a horrible game Friday night," said Suns center Alvan Adams. "We were lethargic, nobody was excited or pumped up or anything. Coach told us to forget about it and he'd give us the next two days off, so we should let it all out Sunday."

That's exactly what the Suns did, romping past the Philadelphia 76ers 119-94 before a national television audience. The aggressive Suns shot 50 percent from the field, forced 38 Philadelphia turnovers and made 20 steals.

"This was by far our best game," said Adams, who contributed 23 points to the Phoenix attack. "I don't think there are many teams who are going to beat us if we play like we played today."

"It was a great effort for us, all of us," said MacLeod. "Everybody contributed. We set the tempo quite well and that's important. It was well executed and played hard. We had a lot of steals, which certainly helped."

In the second half of the National Basketball Association's national TV doubleheader, the Denver Nuggets rallied to defeat the Los Angeles Lakers 113-99. In other games, the Washington Bullets nipped the San Antonio Spurs 129-128, the Golden State Warriors edged the Kansas City Kings 111-110 in overtime, the Seattle SuperSonics beat the Houston Rockets 119-109, the Portland Trail Blazers trimmed the Cleveland Cavaliers 106-102 and the Milwaukee Bucks outscored the Boston Celtics 135-122.

Philadelphia has lost nine of its last 11 starts and is 1-6 on its current road trip, which ends Tuesday night at Atlanta.

Phoenix broke the game open by outscoring the 76ers 34-15 in the second quarter to lead 64-44 at halftime. In that period, the Suns shot 65 percent from the field, had seven steals and forced 10 turnovers.

Lakers 113, Nuggets 99

Los Angeles led throughout until Denver edged in front 84-82 with 10:10 to play. The Nuggets went on the outscore the Lakers 36-20 in the final period, scoring repeatedly on fast breaks'

Dan Issel led Denver with 25 points, hitting nine of his last 11 shots from the field. Charlie Scott also played well, igniting the Nuggets' running game down the stretch.

The victory pulled Denver to within four games of first-place Kansas City in the Central Division while Los Angeles' lead in the Pacific Division was cut to one game over Seattle and two games over Phoenix.

Warriors 111, Kings 110 (OT)

JoJo White of the Warriors led all scorers with 30 points.

Bullets 129, Spurs 128

Tom Henderson scored six points in the last 20 seconds as Washington held off San Antonio and snapped the Spurs' four-game winning streak. Elvin Hayes scored 32 for the Bullets, the fourth game in a row that he has been over 30, while Wes Unseld contributed a season-high 28 points and grabbed 17 rebounds.

George Gervin led the Spurs with 34 points, including six in the last 54 seconds.

Blazers 106, Cavaliers 102

Rookie Mychal Thompson hit 10 of 15 shots from the field and scored 25 points as Portland pulled to within one game of San Diego in the race for the final Western Conference playoff spot. The Blazers saw a 17-point lead shrink to one before Larry Steele hit three free throws in the final 1:20 to pull it out. Steele scored 17 points in 19 minutes.

Bucks 135, Celtics 122

Marques Johnson hit on 15 of 22 field goal attempts and scored 36 points and the Milwaukee Bucks made all 23 of their tries from the foul line in snapping an 11-game road losing streak by beating Boston.

Sonics 119, Rockets 109

Seattle outscored Houston 16-6 in the final 5:39 to beat the Rockets and pull to within one game of first-place Los Angeles in the Pacific Division. Lonnie Shelton scored a season-high 28 points for the Sonics while Moses Malone had 36 for Houston.

players named to the Pro Bowl. It was Dallas' strongest entry ever in the video promotion, with Waters, Cliff Harris, Tony Dorsett, Thomas Henderson, Roger Staubach and Randy White among those representing the 'Pokes. White had the cast removed from his broken thumb just a day before he went to Hawaii, but he competed despite the handicap.

Sure enough, big Randy was one of the key men in the tug-of-war as the Cowboys dragged the Steelers to the edge of the pond in less than 20 minutes and Dallas was proclaimed the winner. It was most satisfying.

WATERS AND THE rest of the Cowboys also were very proud of their comeback in the obstacle course. The obstacle run figured to be Pittsburgh property, since ace wide receiver Lynn Swann holds all the records in that event. Some say he invented it. Whatever, he goes over the wall and the jumps like Superman.

So when the leadoff man for the Steelers took a huge seven-second advantage over the Cowboys' first runner, it looked hopeless for the boys from Big D. But the 'Pokes kept whittling away at the Pittsburgh lead, giving them an outside chance for victory when Tony Dorsett lined up against Swann in the final pairing. Swann had to press so hard to beat Dorsett that he fouled and Dallas took the greenbacks and the glory!

Dorsett's good attitude and competitive spirit at Superteams impressed a lot of Cowboys who had not had the opportunity to really get to know him.

"There's the offense and the defense," Waters remarked, "and we don't have much contact during the season. But Dorsett made a lot of friends and showed us what a classy guy he really is.

"I think he is going to have a lot of great years for the Cowboys before he gets through."

AFTER BEATING THE Steelers, the Cowboys may have been a little complacent. At any rate, they were soundly thumped by those puny baseball players from Kansas City in the championship round.

It should have been no surprise, because the Royals tied the 'Pokes for the title last year. Oh, the shame of it all!

"Those guys (Royals) were pretty good athletes," Waters reported, mournfully. "They really wiped us out in volleyball and bicycling, and they did better in the strength events than you would think."

Charlie was so broken up about it that he and his wife had to stay in Honolulu an extra week, at network expense, to get over the shock.

basis. There will be no reserved seats anywhere in the coliseum, Tamburo said.

The NIT, once strictly a New York City tournament, has gone regional, with the first round on home sites. Last year, on that format, Texas won twice at home and then went on to take the title. The final games are in New York City.

The tournament will begin with seven games Wednesday and five on Thursday.

The Wednesday slate has Nevada-Reno at Oregon State, Wagner at Old Dominion, St. Joseph's at Ohio State, Rhode Island at Maryland, St. Bonaventure at Maryland, Clemson at Kentucky and Northeast Louisiana at Virginia.

Thursday, in addition to the Tech-Indiana game, Alcorn State will play at Mississippi State, a Mid-American Conference team at Purdue, Holy Cross at Dayton, and Texas A&M at New Mexico.

The field is packed with perennial tournament teams, Kentucky being defending NCAA champions, and Indiana having won the NCAA title in in 1976, the year Tech went to the Midwest regional semifinals.

The NIT will include several nationally ranked teams. Ohio State is ranked 17th, Purdue 19th in the Associated Press poll.

Second and third-round sites will be determined later, NIT officials reported. The semifinals and finals will be played in Madison Square Garden March 19 and 21.

Soccer Signups Begin Soon

Signups will begin Wednesday for the South Plains Men's Soccer Association.

An organizational meeting will be held, Tuesday beginning at 7:30 p.m. at Hodges Community Center, involving the soccer association and the sponsoring city Parks & Recreation Department.

After Tuesday night's meeting, an additional signup period will be held at Hodges Community Center on March 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Persons interested in additional information on the program can contact Rolf Gordhammer, 742-3674, or 792-0064. Persons can also contact the city Parks & Recreation Department's Chuck Swallow, 762-6411, extension 2670.

Duke said the committee poured over voluminous materials "for many arduouse committee poured over voluminous materials "for many arduous hoursittee poured over voluminous materials "for many arduous hours" in making the selections and pairngs.

"We had available to us a 72-page compilation of materials the average fan doesn't see," he said. "We looked at won-loss records, who they played, the records of teams they played and whether their opposition had winning records. We also looked at where they played. We think that represents a very important element, too."

Tech Netters Fall To VU

The Tech tennis team dropped it's third straight match to Vanderbilt University Saturday 6-3, but it wasn't a heart felt loss as they went neck and neck with last year's third place Southeastern Conference team, .

The Raiders will travel to Canyon on Friday to compete in the West Texas Indoor Invitational.

Chaparrals Head West

HAWKINS (Special)–Lubbock Christian College's baseball Chaparrals, who will log almost 5,200 miles on the bus during March, bring their traveling show here today for a four game series with Jarvis Christian.

The Chaps are 1-1 on the young season and head coach Larry Hays is the first to admit that the 16-7 romp over the University of Texas-El Paso Saturday was much more enjoyable than the 4-2 defeat in the opener.

"We just gave that first game away. We had mistakes running the bases, we weren't talking to one another during key situations with runners on and things like that. But you learn from your mistakes and I think we'll be better now."

LCC, which holds a 15-0 lifetime edge over the Bulldogs and has won all five games played here, will use a pair of righthanders today, with sophomore transfer David Hanna slated to go the opener and sophomore Dan Sanders in the nightcap.

LCC will return home Friday-Saturday-Sunday for a seven game series.

'Remember... This Is Only The Beginning,' Lemons Told Team

By STEVEN R. REED

HOUSTON With 15,449 fans certain that a life-and-death struggle for regional basketball supremacy was about to tip off, Texas coach Abe Lemons wandered through the bowels of the Summit, chewing Juicy Fruit and worrying whether the officiating would determine the Southwest Conference championship game against Arkansas.

It was 7:10 p.m. Saturday. Two hours and 37 minutes later, Lemons would know.

Lemons trailed his Longhorns into the Summit but dropped out of the pack before it ever reached the dressing room. He made small talk with sportswriters in the make-shift cafeteria, then ambled toward the locker room door.

Inside, assistant coach Barry Dowd finished at the blackboard. Lemons, pacing the carpeted floor amid the waiting Longhorns, offered his thoughts.

"There's only been one lane (3-second) violation called in the whole tournament. Their big guy (Steve Schall) stood in there all night last night and they never called it.

"If that big guy (referee) is out there they (Arkansas) can bite you on the jugular vein and they won't call it. So if they bite you, bite 'em back.

"The first five minutes are crucial. Don't get down there and slop something on the board. Be patient. We've got to cut their penetration out. Rebounding is not one of our fortes."

Chalk in hand, Lemons mapped white lines from point to point on the blackboard.

"Remember one thing. This is not the end. This is just the start. Regardless of what happens, this is just the start. This is not your last ballgame. This is the start of your season. We're going to go someplace for sure.

"We beat Arkansas once and we can beat them again. All you have to do is just work harder."

7:40 — The Longhorns hit the floor for their warm-up drills as Lemons and trainer Spanky Stephens lounged behind. Lemons asked for an anti-diarrhea pill, blaming his woes on "only the second meal I've eaten since I came to town."

"I been sick like somebody's pet coon."

Spanky recalls a trip to Fayetteville, Ark., when half his group didn't make the flight, the luggage was mistakenly dropped off in Fort Smith and the car picking up the luggage was rammed by a taxi.

"So what's new about going to Arkansas?" Lemons responded. "Wait till you try to get out."

Crowd noise penetrated the concrete to reach the dressing room as Lemons thought aloud.

"There's a 75-year-old man I saw on TV the other day. He's a trick shot artist. Can drop kick 480 out of 500 shots. He's bent and boney but he never misses. Never played ball. I wish I had his name I'd bring him to the gym during workout and get on Moore. He's so cocky. I'd tell him, 'John, you're not any better than that old man over there.' He'd say 'oh yeah?' and then I'd bring that old 75-year-old trick shot guy out on the floor and watch John's face when he drop kicked in the first hundred."

7:58 — The team returns from warm-ups. Tipoff is scheduled in two minutes.

"Y'all already through?"

Tyrone Branyan mentions that the tipoff has been delayed until 8:09.

"Well, I've told you everything I know," Lemons says.

"Any if you see the deal on TV about the race horse, a trotter, that chews tobacco? Red Man's all he'll chew. He's won $100,000. You give him Beechnut and he'll spit it out...

"You hear about the resolution up in Little Rock to commend me for my goodwill toward Arkansas? They defeated it 95-0. I sure hate that...

"Be careful on your drives. They'll be falling down all over the place. They'll be laying out there like a rick of wood. Let's go get 'em."

With 10:20 to go in the first half, Arkansas freshman Scott Hastings tumbles across the floor, the victim of the onrushing Branyan. The referees' whistles are silent. Maybe he was wrong to worry about the calls.

With 10 seconds to go and Texas trailing 16-15, Branyan scores to give Texas the lead but the basket is wiped out and Branyan is called for charging. Arkansas scores at the buzzer for a three-point lead at halftime.

"See, what did I tell you?" Lemons says as he whirls in the hallway outside the dressing oom. The team is inside. Lemons' only companions are assistant coach Steve Moeller and a reporter.

"That play is the difference. They (the Razorbacks) lay down on you. Hell, it takes away your game. You can't go to the basket. They're going to fall if you do. They're going to fall down. It just cuts out your game. Ty gives him a little move and they go down.

"It's just like I told you. They (officials) have to be on top of it. If you turn, if you make any move at all, they're going down. They'll go down if you shoot a jumper."

Inside, Dowd again was waiting.

"You're doing all right. You did a good job getting in the 1-and-1. The key is just to be patient. You couldn't be any better than being one-up, where we ought to be. But they're dictating the style of play. They're holding it for 2-3 minutes and then we bring it down and make a shot in 10 seconds. We're getting good shots. I don't know why they're not going down."

Pausing for breath, he reflects upon the Razorbacks' ability to draw a foul.

"It's awful to see a 6-9, 230-pound guy fall down against a 150-pound guard. He'd sure be a sucker in a fight.

"I never saw such a long half. I never saw so many timeouts. The TV guys must have sold it to some northern store that has to have 47 time outs.

"Let's go."

The second half is a deliberate, agonizing endurance test. With 1:31 to go and Texas trailing by one Branyan dives into a pile of players scrambling for a loose ball. He gets the foul. Texas guard Jim Krivacs is outraged. His protests earn a game-breaking technical foul. The one-point lead goes to three and Arkansas retains the ball. Lemons also is outraged, but avoids a technical.

"You played a helluva game."

As he walks toward the locker room, congratulating every Razorback he can reach, the Longhorn band begins "The Eyes of Texas" and Lemons stops in his tracks, turns toward the band, raises both arms over his head, his hands signifying "hook 'em."

9:53 — Lemons reaches the locker room, entreating his team to ignore taunting Arkansas fans. The door shuts behind him.

"You played a helluva game."

Feller Working To Stay Known

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The tall, loose-jointed man wearing wire-rimmed spectacles extends his celebrated right arm for a handshake, and says:

"My card."

It isn't an ordinary card. It is a folded card as big around as an official American League baseball, which it depicts. Open it and you get an introduction to the bearer — Bob Feller.

There is a head picture of a younger Feller and a brief biography, detailing his election to baseball's Hall of Fame, his three no-hit and 12 one-hit games and the notation, "Selected at the Baseball Centennial as the world's greatest living right-handed pitcher."

In an age of fleeting legends, it is hard to forget Bob Feller, the Iowa farm boy whose blazing speed mowed 'em down in the era of Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams.

DiMaggio has managed to remain in the public eye as a dignified huckster for an instant coffee machine and a New York savings bank. Williams plugs fishing equipment, but, like many of his contemporaries, has drifted into the shadows and surrendered center stage to the Pete Roses, Dave Parkers and Reggie Jacksons.

Not Rapid Robert.

Zealously, he struggles to keep his name and exploits on people's lips. There is not a diamond personality anywhere, active or inactive, who so thoroughly saturates the baseball map.

Spring training finds him zipping from camp to camp — Florida to Arizona. He never misses a Hall of Fame ceremony at Cooperstown, N.Y. He is the most faithful regular at Oldtimer Games and other functions. From Bangor to San Diego, Detroit to Dunedin, he hits the tank towns as well as the metoropolitan centers.

Have Indians Uniform No.19. Will travel.

"Got to go to Appleton, Wis.," he said after starting in the annual Oldtimer's Game at Al Lang Field here Saturday and striking out Willie Mays, the first man he faced.

"I go to about 90 to 100 functions a year to talk to business groups and kids. This is in addition to my baseball appearances. From the first of May until Labor Day, there are not two days in a row that I don't have a baseball in my hand. Most of the time, I am in uniform."

It's not the same uniform he wore for two decades with the Cleveland Indians, starting as a 16-year-old prodigy out of Van Meter, Iowa, in 1935 and ending as the winner of 266 games — with a four-year break for Navy duty in World War II. That one's in Cooperstown.

Feller reached into his temporary locker and pulled out an 8 x 11 inch flyer with a full-length autographed picture on the front and a thorough historical record of his accomplishments on the back.

"I give this to the fans who come out to watch me," he said. "Cost me about seven cents each."

Then he hauled out another item — a gold-embossed certificate that could have been a college diploma or a license to sell booze.

The certificate said, "This Certifies That (blank space for name) Batted Against Bob Feller (blanks for date, place and result)," followed by the signature of a witness and Bob Feller, himself.

"This is my new gimmick — something special," he said. "I do a lot of stuff for banks, corporations and such. For a fixed amount, I agree to pitch to some of the executives and hand out this certificate. They love it."

For extra special friends, Feller has a bronzed, life-sized replica of his right hand grasping a signed baseball. "It's the kind of thing you see in museums," he explained.

The 60-year-old Hall of Famer said he finds audiences more interested in baseball anecdotes than the game's problems.

Raider Baseballers Gain Split With Rice

The Texas Tech baseball team split a doubleheader with Rice University at the Tech diamond Sunday afternoon, picking up it's first Southwest conference victory of the young season.

The Raiders dropped the opener 7-0, but won a 15-7 slugfest in the nightcap to notch a 1-2 SWC slate. Overall, Tech is 6-5 while the Owls are 4-5 but 2-1 in loop play.

Steve Ibarguen picked up his first win of the year in the second game as he came in for starter Robert Bryant in the first inning and went on to give up only two hits and a pair of runs in 3 1/3 innings.

Randy Newton, Larry Selby and John Keller provided most of the offensive fireworks for the Raiders in that second game as they picked up 10 of Tech's 17 hits and drove in 9 runs. Keller had 5 RBI's in the game, bringing his total to 19 for the year--the best on the team, and ripped his second triple of the year.

The Raiders got 2 runs in the first, three in the second, four in the fifth and then six more in the final two frames. James Miller picked up the save as he threw 5 1/3 innings.

Mentioned Briefly

TRACK AND FIELD

PRINCETON, N.J. — Villanova University won its third straight IC4A Track and Field Championship, capturing six of the 12 track events to outdistance Maryland for the title.

Villanova, with world class runners Sydney Maree and Don Paige dominating, nailed down its 16th IC4A indoor championship in the last 22 years.

The Wildcats finished the 58th annual meet with 99 points. Maryland accummulated 78 points to take second place and Manhattan finished third with 34.

FORT WORTH, Texas — Dan Ripley of the United States registered the best indoor pole vault in history, soaring 18 feet, 5¾ inches and American sprinters swept their events, leading the U.S. over the Soviet Union in a dual track and field meet.

Ripley's mark surpassed the indoor record of 18-5¼ set last year by Mike Tully at the NCAA Championships in Detroit.

The U.S. men's team beat the USSR 75-66, while the Soviet women had a 52-46 edge, giving the Americans a combined 121 18 victory.

GOLF

ORLANDO, Fla. — Bob Byman defeated John Schroeder with a par on the second hole of a sudden death playoff and scored his first victory in the United States in the Bay Hill Citrus Classic.

Schroeder had to scramble for a par on the first playoff hole and bogeyed the next, failing on a 5-foot, par-saving putt.

Each finished the regulation 72 holes at 278, 6 shots under par. Schroeder had a final round 70 and Byman a par 71.

SARASOTA, Fla. — South African Sally Little shot a 67 for a 278 total to win the Bent Tree Classic golf tournament by two strokes over defending champion Nancy Lopez.

SINGAPORE — Lu Hsi Cheun of Taiwan beat countryman Hsu Sheng San on the second hole of a sudden death playoff in a golf tournament.

Both players had completed regulation play at 4-under-par 280.

TENNIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Top-ranked Jimmy Connors defeated Arthur Ashe 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, to win his fifth U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championship, tying the record for major indoor titles won by one player.

Ashe was again denied the only major U.S. title he has never won.

DALLAS — Martina Navratilova beat Chris Evert 6-4, 6-4 for the championship of a $200,000 women's tennis tournament.

AUTO RACING

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. — Only 10 miles into the Carolina 500 Grand National stock car race, Cale Yarborough and Donnie Allison crashed while battling side by side for the lead, triggering another controversy and an eight-car chain reaction accident that sent three drivers to the hospital.

Pole position starter Bobby Allison won the event by more than a lap over rookie Joe Millikan, who had relief help from six-time Daytona winner Richard Petty for about 80 miles midway through the race.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Gilles Villeneuve of Canada, driving his Ferrari T-4 over 78 laps at an average speed of 117.5 mph, won the South African Grand Prix with a time of 1 hour, 41 minutes and 49.96 seconds.

HOCKEY

TORONTO — Toronto Maple Leafs owner Harold Ballard reinstated Roger Neilson as coach of his National Hockey League team Saturday night, 36 hours after Ballard had announced Neilson's firing.

Moments before Toronto took the ice against the Philadelphia Flyers Saturday night, Ballard insisted that Neilson "wasn't fired. He was just put on furlough for a day or two."

Ballard refused comment on a report that the Leafs players threatened not to play Saturday if Neilson was not returned to duty.

The Leafs responded to Neilson's return with victories over the Flyers and the New York Rangers.

GYMNASTICS

PARIS — Christa Canary of Northbrook, Ill., tied for first place with Maria Filatova of the Soviet Union in the all-round event of the Gymnastics Grand Prix of Paris.

Each of the girls finished the four-exercise event with 37.65 points.

SKIING

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — Peter Wirnsberger of Austria captured his second World Cup men's downhill ski race of the season, but his victory was marred by the severe injury of Italian racer Leonardo David.

Wirnsberger covered the 3,028-meter course in 1 minute, 42.88 seconds, .03 seconds ahead of Switzerland's Peter Mueller, the World Cup downhill leader.

David remained in critical but stable condition at Burlington, Vt., Medical Center. He sustained a hemorrhage in his head when he lost control on a bump and fell crossing the finish line in Saturday's race. He then spun around several times, hit his head on the snow, then got to his feet. However, after skiing over to one of his coaches, he collapsed.

Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden continued his unprecedented string of World Cup giant slalom victories, but Peter Luescher of Switzerland was the big winner.

Luescher virtually clinched his first World Cup overall title when American Phil Mahre, his only real challenger, fell in the first run of the giant slalom and broke his left leg.

Stenmark remained unbeaten in the giant slalom this season, winning his eighth of the season with a superb second run. He came from .52 seconds behind Luescher after one run to win by more than two seconds.

ANNOUNCING AN IBM SEMINAR ON SMALL COMPUTERS

If you're in charge of any kind of business, you've probably thought about how a computer could help with your expanding information needs.

Well, now there's a free IBM seminar designed for businessmen just like you. It features a discussion of the applications and benefits of IBM's small computers.

Small computers can handle a wide range of important jobs, including order entry, invoicing, receivables, payroll sales analysis, and inventory management to name just a few.

There are small, easy-to-use, low-cost IBM computers for the first-time user, available with programming already written for over twenty different industries. And there are small IBM computers that can be programmed specifically for your use.

But whatever your data processing requirements, the IBM seminar on small computers can help you with the kind of basic information you need to make an informed decision about the role of a computer in your business.

If you'd like to attend this free IBM seminar, call your Lubbock —IBM General Systems Division Office ... Ask for Ronna Davis to reserve a seat.

Girl To Begin Acting Career

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jodi Ford is 7 years old and begins her acting career next Tuesday as one of the stage orphans in the Broadway musical "Annie" — about the comic-strip character Little Orphan Annie.

The 4-foot-4-inch Jodi, had never seen a Broadway show — neither had her parents — until catching "Annie" for the first time last week.

Jodi will be the first minority child to play an orphan in the show.

"She's the first," says her mother, Carol Ford, of Newark, Del. "The other day somebody said something about her being the first black child in 'Annie.' She said, 'I'm not black, I'm brown.'"

Jodi replaces Sarah Parker, who moves up to the title role.

Jodi started dancing lessons at age 3½ and soon graduated to Philadelphia's Al Albert television variety show where Andrea McCardle, Broadway's original "Annie," got her start.

"Annie" producers recently spotted Jodi on the Sunday morning TV show and asked her to join the five other stage orphans in the chorus of the long-running musical.

Silver Collection Being Shown In LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Monumental Silver from the Gilbert Collection" is on display at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art through Aug. 5.

The exhibit consists of more than 40 pieces of English silver and silver-gilt in the rococo and neo-classical styles by silversmiths Paul de Lamerie (1688-1751) and Paul Storr (1771-1844).

The collection has returned to the museum following a tour of the United States which included showings at the High Museum in Atlanta, the San Antonio Museum, the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond, and the Seattle Art Museum.

ART GIFT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Bacchus and Ariadne," a painting by the Italian artist Guido Reni (1575-1642), has been given to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art by the Ahmanson Foundation. The painting measures 38 by 34 inches and was painted between 1619 and 1620.

Optical Illusions Can Be Spooky

By SHARI LEWIS

Nothing spooky is ever really as scary as it seems. It's all in illusion.

Draw a face (ghost, skeleton, pirate or any picture you wish). Make it about 3 inches tall and color in the face with a solid bright color — say red — leaving white lines for the mouth, nose and eyes. If you star at this picture without blinking as you count up to 20, and then look at a plain wall or sheet of white paper, you will see the same picture, but in green!

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: A man who wears either blue or brown socks keeps them all in the same drawer in a state of complete disorder. In total there are 20 blue and 20 brown socks in the drawer. Assuming that there is insufficient light for the man to see the color of the socks, how many must he take out of the drawer to be sure that he has a matching pair? (Look for the answer in Sunday's Kids-Only Club column.)

Little Girls Wait In Line To Imitate Shirley Temple

NEW YORK (AP) — They lined up with parents and waited for hours just to imitate Shirley Temple, but apparently little girls aren't what they used to be.

The innocence and appeal of the dimple-faced, ringlet-coiffed child star is not so easily found.

Hopeful young girls in California, Illinois and Texas have already gone before director Walter Bernstein, looking for a girl to star with Walter Matthau in his remake of Miss Temple's "Little Miss Marker."

And on Thursday, 200 more came out in New York City looking for a shot at the role of the abandoned child left to a bookmaker, played by Matthau. Only three were deemed good enough to go before the cameras for a screen test.

Eight-year-old Stephanie Pember of New York was one. She admits that she hasn't had much acting experience. She did play the part of a reindeer, she says.

But she says she doesn't recognize Matthau — the slovenly half in the movie "The Odd Couple," the obsessive coach in the "Bad News Bears" and the inept adulterer in "California Suite."

Nor does she know anything about "Little Miss Marker" or Shirley Temple.

But as far as Casting Director Deborah Brown is concerned, it doesn't matter. Stephanie and 14 others from around the country will test before the camera, and when they do, only three things will count.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will be adept at keeping the big expenses under control tomorrow, but the smaller outlays might damage your budget severely. Be pennywise, too.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are not sure of what you want to do or what your motives are, put off doing anything until later. You'll then have a more postive direction.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Getting your facts straight should be your No. 1 priority tomorrow. You will have a strong tendency to jump to conclusions because of faulty information.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your head may not be all-together tomorrow, and you might have trouble trying to add two and two. Take special care with financial matters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Important goals could slip through your fingers tomorrow because of your lack of attention. Negligence will take its toll.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The ways and means to say what is on your mind may not be present tomorrow. Rather than talking in circles and making little or no sense, keep quiet.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although sometimes we may be justified in telling others what we think of them it is rarely wise to do so. Turning the other cheek will get you farther in the long run.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Advice given by you or offered to you will fall on deaf ears tomorrow. Neither you nor the other parties will be listening, so nothing can be resolved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It won't be the big things that can give you fits tomorrow but bunches of incidental items. Don't spend more on them than they're worth.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Before making plans involving another, better check to see if this person will go along with you. You could get caught holding an expensive bag.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Touchy family issues could create unnecessary friction tomorrow if you voice them without thinking of the consequences. Leave them at rest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before finding fault tomorrow, be double sure your own skirts are clean. You may start the critique, but someone else could end it.
