Year Of 'Peace' Costly

By TED BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Veitnam AP—Heavy fighting was reported today on the first anniversary of the cease-fire that was supposed to end the Veitnam War but didn't.

The South Vietnamese command claimed that 62 Viet Cong were killed in three battles 45 to 110 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta. Government losses were put at 15 dead and 10 wounded.

Neither the government nor the Viet Cong held any special ceremonies to mark the anniversary of the peace agreement which secured the release of American prisoners of war held by the Communists and paved the way for the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

The Saigon command, in revised casualty figures covering the year of the cease-fire, claimed 45,202 Communist troops were killed since Jan. 28, 1973, while casualties on the government side were 12,803 military men killed, 56,085 wounded, 4,223 missing; 2,163 civilians in government-controlled areas killed and 5,983 wounded.

The military casualities are about half what was reported in the year before the cease-fire.

The Communists have refused to give casualty figures, and there is no way to check the accuracy of the government figures.

In Cambodia, the insurgents shelled the southern part of Phnom Penh before dawn and again during the morning, killing six persons and wounding 19.

This raised the toll from almost daily Khmer Rouge artillery attacks on the city to 152 killed and about 375 wounded since Dec. 23.

Field reports said the Khmer Rouge also shelled an area on the southern rim of Phnom Penh later in the day, killing four persons while wounding seven.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1974. There are 337 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1871, Paris surrendered to the Germans in the France-Prussian War.

On this date:

In 1547, 9-year-old Edward VI became King of England, on the death of Henry VIII.

In 1821, Peru's independence from Spain was formally proclaimed.

In 1932, Japanese forces attacked the Chinese garrison at Shanghai.

In 1945, in World War II, an American truck convoy from India crossed the frontier between Burma and China, reopening the Burma Road.

Ten years ago: France was establishing diplomatic relations with Communist China.

Five years ago: Two American airliners hijacked to Cuba.

One year ago: A one-day-old cease-fire in Vietnam was shattered by fighting throughout the country, but the U. S. continued a fast withdrawal of forces.

Nixon Proposes Veteran Pension, Benefit Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today proposed cost-of-living increases in veterans' pensions and an eight per cent boost in GI benefits as part of a $13.6 billion legislative package for veterans.

Nixon also urged that Congress restore Nov. 11 as Veterans Day, repealing part of a 1968 law which switched the holiday to the fourth Monday in October.

The proposals were contained in a special message to Congress, one of a series Nixon is sending to Capitol Hill before his State of the Union address Wednesday night.

The President said his administration is preparing legislation to grant the 2.4 million persons receiving veterans pensions the same type of automatic cost-of-living increases available to Social Security recipients.

He also said the veterans pension program should be restructured to assure that the neediest pensions will receive at least as much as adult welfare recipients.

Nixon said the eight per cent increase in education benefits he is seeking will supply an extra $200 million in aid for the more than two million taking advantage of the GI bill education and training allowances. The increase is needed, he said, "to keep pace with inflation."

Legislation is pending in both House and Senate to provide for a 13.6 per cent increase.

The President reported that the Veterans Administration is embarking on the greatest program of hospital construction in its history.

He said a record $276 million is being sought in fiscal 1975 which begins next July 1 for hospital construction, and that his budget will provide funds to hire an additional 7,600 medical personnel.

In addition to the medical, education and pension benefits, Nixon said America should "repay her debts to the men and and women who have served her well," by setting aside certain days to commemorate their service.

Noted Geologist Raps Politicians

HOUSTON (AP) — An internationally known geologist said today "demagogic publicity crazed politicians" are attempting to drag the petroleum industry down.

"They are the ones which should be discredited for their failure to do something about the energy situation for over a decade," said Michel T. Halbouty, Houston consultant and independent oil operator.

"We repeatedly warned them and they ignored us. If they had heeded the warnings of petroleum industry spokesmen in the last 14 years or so we would have our own self-dependency for energy and would not have to worry about the current energy crunch."

Halbouty's remarks were prepared for a luncheon speech before the Houston Association of Petroleum Landmen.

"The irresponsibility and incompetency did not lie with the oil companies, but with those Congressmen who repeatedly labeled as self-serving and scare tactics the honest, serious warnings voiced by responsible individuals who foresaw the inevitable consequences of our government's insouciant energy policies," Halbouty said.

"Now that these predictions have come true they do not want to blame themselves, but they take the easy route of laying the entire blame on the 'big oil companies'. I put the blame squarely on their shoulders — it belongs nowhere else."

Halbouty was critical of the manner in which seven oil executives were treated last week when they appeared before the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by Senator Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

"I resent the ridicule and derision heaped upon executive members of our industry when they are asked to present their views," he said. "I am shocked at the implication and innuendos of the political prosecutors that everything these executives present is a lie and a mis-representation: . . I am bewildered at the tactics and the high handedness that they employ to gain the publicity and notoriety which they think is necessary to perpetuate themselves in office."

Halbouty mentioned only Jackson and Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., by name.

He said this is an election year and nothing would please them more than to chastise and abuse oil executives so they can go back to their constituents and tell them "Look how great I am. I made the president and chairman of the board of 'this' and 'that' major oil company bend down to my demands."

"This is coercion practiced in a manner which takes the meaning of decency out of the democratic principles intended by the signors of our Constitution," said the former president of the 15,000-member American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Another In Race Here For School Board

Another candidate entered the race for a place on the Snyder Independent School District Board of Trustees this morning.

He is David L. Hines, 38, who lives at 3110 Thirty-seventh Place. He is construction foremen for the E. D. Walton Construction Co.

Hines is a candidate for Place 5 on the board, the post now held by Dan Cotton who has announced that he will not seek re-election.

Two other candidates already have filed for places on the ballot for the April 6 election. Bill Eiland, the incumbent, is seeking re-election to Place 4, and Mrs. Loren Sullivan is a candidate for Place 3, the post now held by William J. Schiebel, who also has announced that he will not seek re-election.

March 7 is the deadline for candidates to file.

Porter Pleads Guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former scheduling director of President Nixon's re-election committee pleaded guilty today to a charge of lying to the FBI about the Watergate break-in.

Herbert L. Porter, 35, of Laguna Niguel, Calif., was released on personal recognizance pending completion of a presentence report.

Assistant special prosecutor Richard BenVeniste told the court that on July 19, 1972, one month after the Watergate break-in, Porter was questioned by two FBI agents working on the case.

The prosecutor said Porter told the agents about a conversation in which he and Jeb Stuart Magruder had discussed spending $100,000 to hire college students as campaign speakers.

"There was no such conversation," BenAveniste said.

Israel Lifts 97-Day Siege Of Suez City

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer

SUEZ, Egypt (AP) — Israel's invasion forces lifted the 97-day siege of Suez City today, surrendered 300 square miles of Egyptian territory to the United Nations and freed Egypt's encircled 3rd Army.

Scores of Israeli half-tracks rolled out of Suez City toward canal bridges to the eastern bank. The vehicles were filled with singing, clapping soldiers.

"We are going home," the Israelis sang in Hebrew — to the tune of "This land is your land, this land is my land."

They raised their fingers in V-for-victory signals and waved captured Egyptian flags. Some armored cars were painted with "Good-bye Africa."

In a midday ceremony, the Israelis formally handed control of the city at the southern gateway to the Suez Canal to the U.N. Emergency Force.

U.N. troops immediately began taking control of Suez — with the 15,000 civilian inhabitants — and the southern invasion zone, holding it for at least six hours.

"We are to prevent any unauthorized Egyptian movements until the Israelis are clear," said Col. Reino Raitasaari, commander of the Finish U.N. contingent. "So far, everything is going smoothly. I do not think I will have to shoot anyone. When I went to inform the Egyptian commander of the handover, he was still asleep. That is the best possible omen."

Israeli officers said that by nightfall Egypt would regain all the occupied land from Adabiya, 12 miles south of Suez, to a line in the desert about three miles north of the canal-side city.

That is about a third of the enclave carved out of Egyptian territory west of the canal during the Israeli invasion at the close of the October war. It leaves Egyptian lines open to the 20,000 3rd Army soldiers encircled since October.

The full-scale pullout called for in the disengagement accord engineered by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began officially Friday. But even before then, soldiers had started pulling apart positions and bunkers, reeling in hundreds of miles of communications wires and digging up or marking nearly a million mines, Israeli officers said.

The disengagement is to be completed within 40 days from Friday. Although the final positions remain secret, it is understood that Israeli forces will pull back to a lightly armed line about 12 miles east of the canal, with the main Israeli defenses at a line near the startegic Giddi and Mitla passes about 20 miles back.

U.N. peacekeeping forces will take up positions between the Israeli lines and Egyptian forces east of the canal. The Egyptians also are understood to have pledged to thin out their forces east of the canal.

Hearing To Delay Trial Bogs Down

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — A hearing on a motion to delay the trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, a defendant in the Texas mass murder case, bogged down today in procedural problems and was recessed after a short session until 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Lawyers for both the Houston Chronicle and the Houston Post appeared in court to find out the scope of subpoenas ordering them to bring all they had published on the mass murders here in which 27 teen-agers met their death.

Jim Crowther, a lawyer for the Post, also asked District Court Judge William Hatten to put out a protective order to stop Will Gray, Henley's lawyer, from asking reporters their sources.

Gray said on Friday he had plans to ask the more than 60 newsmen subpoenaed in the case who gave them a statement by another defendant. The statement by David Owen Brooks, 18, accused Henley of killing some of the youths whose bodies were found in graves in and near here.

Hatten said, "I don't see how I can make a decision in advance until the materiality of the question comes up."

Gray said Friday he was not trying to put reporters in jail who refuse to reveal their sources and, "I'm just trying to protect you fellows from the shame of releasing all this prejudicial material.

"We want to find out which police officers or district attorney's men released such prejudice."

Gray said previously if his motion for continuance fails, he will ask for a change of venue. This morning Hatten said he will personally regard testimony in the continuance hearing as applying to any motion for a change of venue.

Gray said he also plans to file a motion to quash the indictment and allow Henley to go free because of the massive publicity in the case.

Galveston County Ruled Illegally Gerrymandered

AUSTIN (AP) — A three-judge federal court announced today it would rule that Galveston County was unconstitutionally gerrymandered by the Legislative Redistricting Board in 1971.

The announcement came as the court began receiving testimony on how seven other counties should be divided into single-member House districts.

The court already has ruled that at-lage election of state representatives in the counties unconstitutionally diluted the political strength of monority groups.

During testimony late last year, witnesses told the court the redistricting board had assigned the core of Galveston County's black community to a district where they were an insignificant minority. The purpose was to make a district in Galveston County where Nick Mrajl, a former aide to Ben Barnes, could expect to receive strong support, the witnesses said. But Krajl lost.

"In Galveston County, we are holding there is a gerrymander, and we're leaving it up to the legislature to solve it in the next two years," said presiding judge Irving Goldberg.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Larry York told the court that plans for five counties were being submitted by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Secretary of State Mark White, defendants in tte redistricting case.

Briscoe had been under heavy pressure to submit plans since the court had ruled that it would accept plans only from parties to the suit.

Briscoe and White did not approve plans for El Paso and Travis (Austin) counties, apparently because of lack of unanimity in their House delegations.

The court received testimony on four different plans for Tarrant (Fort Worth) County. A plan presented by lawyer Don Gladden, which strengthened labor-liberals and provided a predominantly black district was criticized by Carlos Puente, who was an organizer for La Raza Unida party in 1972. He said the Gladden plan would be devisive because blacks and browns would be contending for two House seats rather than cooperating.

The three judges are considering proposals to divide into single-member districts Tarrant, Jefferson, McLennan, Travis, Nueces, El Paso and Lubbock counties. Twenty-seven House seats are affected.

Service For Mrs. Williams

Funeral service was set for 2:30 p.m. today at the First Baptist Church for Mrs. Ethel Rose Williams, 73, who died at 4 p.m. Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. Ken Andress was to officiate and burial was to be in the Hermeigh Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Lamar County, Mrs. Williams came to Scurry County in 1920 and except for a few years in Midland had lived here since then.

She is survived by her husband, Ross Williams; three daughters, Mrs. Howard (Rosemary) Jones of Snyder, Mrs. C. B. (Jo Ann) Stroud of Dallas and Mrs. Dale (Barbara) Williamson of Clifton, Ariz.; a son, Don Hodnett of Albuquerque, N. M.; 13 stepchildren and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were to be Rossie Williams, G. B. Williams, Jack Farren, Roy Hallman, Jeff Martin and Buddy Stewart.

Scores of Israeli half-tracks rolled out of Suez City toward canal bridges to the eastern bank. The vehicles were filled with singing, clapping soldiers.

"We are going home," the Israelis sang in Hebrew — to the tune of "This land is your land, this land is my land."

They raised their fingers in V-for-victory signals and waved captured Egyptian flags. Some armored cars were painted with "Good-bye Africa."

In a midday ceremony, the Israelis formally handed control of the city at the southern gateway to the Suez Canal to the U.N. Emergency Force.

U.N. troops immediately began taking control of Suez — with the 15,000 civilian inhabitants — and the southern invasion zone, holding it for at least six hours.

"We are to prevent any unauthorized Egyptian movements until the Israelis are clear, " said Col. Reino Raitasaari, commander of the Finish U.N. contingent. "So far, everything is going smoothly. I do not think I will have to shoot anyone. When I went to inform the Egyptian commander of the handover, he was still asleep. That is the best possible omen."

Israeli officers said that by nightfall Egypt would regain all the occupied land from Adabiya, 12 miles south of Suez, to a line in the desert about three miles north of the canal-side city.

That is about a third of the enclave carved out of Egyptian territory west of the canal during the Israeli invasion at the close of the October war. It leaves Egyptian lines open to the 20,000 3rd Army soldiers encircled since October.

The full-scale pullout called for in the disengagement accord engineered by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began officially Friday. But even before then, soldiers had started pulling apart positions and bunkers, reeling in hundreds of miles of communications wires and digging up or marking nearly a million mines, Israeli officers said.

The disengagement is to be completed within 40 days from Friday. Although the final positions remain secret, it is understood that Israeli forces will pull back to a lightly armed line about 12 miles east of the canal, with the main Israeli defenses at a line near the startegic Giddi and Mitla passes about 20 miles back.

U.N. peacekeeping forces will take up positions between the Israeli lines and Egyptian forces east of the canal. The Egyptians also are understood to have pledged to thin out their forces east of the canal.

Hearing To Delay Trial Bogs Down

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — A hearing on a motion to delay the trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, a defendant in the Texas mass murder case, bogged down today in procedural problems and was recessed after a short session until 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Lawyers for both the Houston Chronicle and the Houston Post appeared in court to find out the scope of subpoenas ordering them to bring all they had published on the mass murders here in which 27 teen-agers met their death.

Jim Crowther, a lawyer for the Post, also asked District Court Judge William Hatten to put out a protective order to stop Will Gray, Henley's lawyer, from asking reporters their sources.

Gray said on Friday he had plans to ask the more than 60 newsmen subpoenaed in the case who gave them a statement by another defendant. The statement by David Owen Brooks, 18, accused Henley of killing some of the youths whose bodies were found in graves in and near here.

Hatten said, "I don't see how I can make a decision in advance until the materiality of the question comes up."

Gray said Friday he was not trying to put reporters in jail who refuse to reveal their sources and, "I'm just trying to protect you fellows from the shame of releasing all this prejudicial material.

"We want to find out which police officers or district attorney's men released such prejudice."

Gray said previously if his motion for continuance fails, he will ask for a change of venue. This morning Hatten said he will personally regard testimony in the continuance hearing as applying to any motion for a change of venue.

Gray said he also plans to file a motion to quash the indictment and allow Henley to go free because of the massive publicity in the case.

Galveston County Ruled Illegally Gerrymandered

AUSTIN (AP) — A three-judge federal court announced today it would rule that Galveston County was unconstitutionally gerrymandered by the Legislative Redistricting Board in 1971.

The announcement came as the court began receiving testimony on how seven other counties should be divided into single-member House districts.

The court already has ruled that at-lage election of state representatives in the counties unconstitutionally diluted the political strength of monority groups.

During testimony late last year, witnesses told the court the redistricting board had assigned the core of Galveston County's black community to a district where they were an insignificant minority. The purpose was to make a district in Galveston County where Nick Mrajl, a former aide to Ben Barnes, could expect to receive strong support, the witnesses said. But Krajl lost.

"In Galveston County, we are holding there is a gerrymander, and we're leaving it up to the legislature to solve it in the next two years," said presiding judge Irving Goldberg.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Larry York told the court that plans for five counties were being submitted by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Secretary of State Mark White, defendants in tte redistricting case.

Briscoe had been under heavy pressure to submit plans since the court had ruled that it would accept plans only from parties to the suit.

Briscoe and White did not approve plans for El Paso and Travis (Austin) counties, apparently because of lack of unanimity in their House delegations.

The court received testimony on four different plans for Tarrant (Fort Worth) County. A plan presented by lawyer Don Gladden, which strengthened labor-liberals and provided a predominantly black district was criticized by Carlos Puente, who was an organizer for La Raza Unida party in 1972. He said the Gladden plan would be devisive because blacks and browns would be contending for two House seats rather than cooperating.

The three judges are considering proposals to divide into single-member districts Tarrant, Jefferson, McLennan, Travis, Nueces, El Paso and Lubbock counties. Twenty-seven House seats are affected.

Service For Mrs. Williams

Funeral service was set for 2:30 p.m. today at the First Baptist Church for Mrs. Ethel Rose Williams, 73, who died at 4 p.m. Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. Ken Andress was to officiate and burial was to be in the Hermeigh Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Lamar County, Mrs. Williams came to Scurry County in 1920 and except for a few years in Midland had lived here since then.

She is survived by her husband, Ross Williams; three daughters, Mrs. Howard (Rosemary) Jones of Snyder, Mrs. C. B. (Jo Ann) Stroud of Dallas and Mrs. Dale (Barbara) Williamson of Clifton, Ariz.; a son, Don Hodnett of Albuquerque, N. M.; 13 stepchildren and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Tell mate you're not sex object and leave

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The other night, after a fairly calm evening with friends, my husband offered me to one of his friends. You can't imagine how much this hurt me.

I did the only thing I could think of doing. I refused in no uncertain terms, even tho he tried his best to talk me into it.

My husband and I finally went to bed, and made love before going to sleep. I love my husband, but I doubt that he really loves me. He has tried to get me to go to bed with his friends before, and every time I've told him no, and not to ask me again, but he keeps on trying.

I have told my husband that if I want sex outside of my marriage, I will do the choosing, but so far I am satisfied with him alone.

I get depressed every time I think about my husband's wanting to pass me around to his friends, and lately I've been taking it out on our 2-year-old son. I am open for suggestions.

NOT FOR LENDING

DEAR NOT: My suggestion would be leave him, and look for a man who would respect his marriage vows as you respect yours. But first I would give him an opportunity to get his head together. If he refuses counseling, then leave him—unless you want to continue to live with a man who regards his wife as his personal property—and a sex object to pass around to his friends.

DEAR ABBY: I am one woman who is against women's lib because it advocates free love for women as well as for men.

Maybe I'm peculiar, but I don't want any free love before marriage. What I do want is a man whose moral standards are just as high as mine.

Why should a girl remain pure for a husband who has slept with so many girls he has lost count?

"20 AND STILL PURE"

DEAR "20": If you've reached 20, and are still holding, hooray for you! Women's libbers are pushing for the same privileges for women as men. That doesn't necessarily mean they advocate promiscuity for everybody, they simply want one standard for both sexes, which is what you want, no?

DEAR ABBY: The barking dog problem can be solved, and very easily. Our neighbors simply would not believe that their dog, which they kept outside on a chain day and night, barked and howled constantly when they were not home. Our patience grew thin, especially on Sundays when they drove off somewhere for the entire day.

One Sunday we put our tape recorder out under our bedroom window, and made a two-hour recording of the canine concert. When they returned after their Sunday sojourn we hid the recorder in our bushes, locked our patio gates, turned up the volume, and went to the movies.

In two days the dog had disappeared.

TRANQUIL IN TUCSON

DEAR TRANQUIL: This may not have helped your friendship with those neighbors, but it certainly did improve the neighborhood.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cuba To Welcome Brezhnev

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba prepared a big welcome today for Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

His trip, the first to Cuba by a high Soviet official in more than two years, comes amid wide speculation about possible improvement of relations between the Communist island and the United States. However, the trip was scheduled last September, long before such speculation began.

The latest talk of a U.S.-Cuban thaw arose after Cuba's ambassador to Mexico recently remarked to newsmen that Cuba was willing to negotiate with Washington if the United States would lift its economic blockade of the island.

The ambassador, Fernando Lopez Muino, and the Cuban Foreign Ministry later declared there was nothing new in Cuba's long-held attitude toward the United States.

Also figuring in the speculation is a scheduled appearance of U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger at a meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers early next month.

Foreign observers think that Kissinger may seek a breakthrough in the 15-year-old status of relations between the two countries and that Brezhnev will push for this in his talks with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Brezhnev reportedly is anxious for some arrangement between Cuba and the United States because of the strain of maintaining the Cuban economy. Soviet aid to the island is estimated at $1.5 million to $2 million a day, much of it in fuels and oil.

In October 1971, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin visited the Caribbean island for five days, holding intensive talks with Castro, attending public ceremonial activities and taking car-and-plane trips to some outlying provinces.

Brezhnev's trip is expect to include more of the same, and Havana radio, monitored in Miami, has been quoting Castro as saying it would be "the most important visit in the history of our country."

Kissinger And Date At Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Spectators got an added treat at the National Hockey League game here between the New York Rangers and the Los Angeles Kings.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, accompanied by his frequent date Nancy Maginnes, arrived at the Madison Square Garden event midway through the first period of the Sunday night game. They were accompanied by several Secret Service agents.

Those in nearby seats stood and applauded Kissinger.

'Exorcist' Takes Top Honors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Exorcist," a screen portrayal of Satan's deeds which is luring widespread attention from U.S. moviegoers, has critical acclaim from foreign critics.

"I suppose that the selection of 'The Exorcist' will inspire a new devil theory to account for it," said William Peter Blatty, author of the book on which the movie is based.

Blatty spoke from the stage after "The Exorcist," which is about a teen-age girl's fight with Satan, took Golden Globe Awards for best movie, best screenplay, best director and best supporting actress for 1973.

Saturday's judging, which precedes the annual Academy Awards and includes television as well as movies, was conducted by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association, whose members are correspondents for newspapers in 50 foreign nations.

The young star, Linda Blair, hid her face and sobbed uncontrollably as she accepted the award as best supporting actress for her role as the bewitched child.

Al Pacino, who played the honest cop "Serpico" in a movie based on a former New York City policeman, won the award for best dramatic actor.

Marsha Mason, the poolshooting prostitute in the "Cinderella Liberty," won the award for best dramatic actress.

George Segal and Glenda Jackson were named best actor and actress in the musical and comedy movie category. They appeared in "A Touch of Class."

"American Graffiti," a night on the town with a high school class of 1962 with background disc jockey commentary by Wolfman Jack, took the award for best comedy or musical movie.

James Stewart was named best television dramatic actor for his series "Hawkins."

"The Waltons" was chosen best overall television series.

The award for best television comedy series went to "All in the Family," and its co-star Jean Stapleton shared best comedy actress billing with Cher Bono of the "Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour."

Jack Klugman of "The Odd Couple" was selected best television comedy actor.

One Injured In Mishap

Apolonia C. Garza, 607 Thirty-fifth Street, sustained minor injuries in a one-car mishap in the 400 block of the East Highway at 8:05 p.m. Saturday. He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by City Police.

Officers said his 1969 Model Plymouth was in collision with a highway sign post.

City Police also investigated one other motor vehicle mishap Saturday. It occurred on College Avenue at Thirty-seventh Street at 4:48 p.m. Involved were the 1971 Model Chevrolet of Hugh Scott Kelly, 4510 El Paso, and the 1972 Model Chevrolet of Jose Antonio Lopez, 1308 Nineteenth Street.

Damage in the one-car mishap was considerable, but there was only minor damage in the other one.

City Firemen Are Called 7 Times

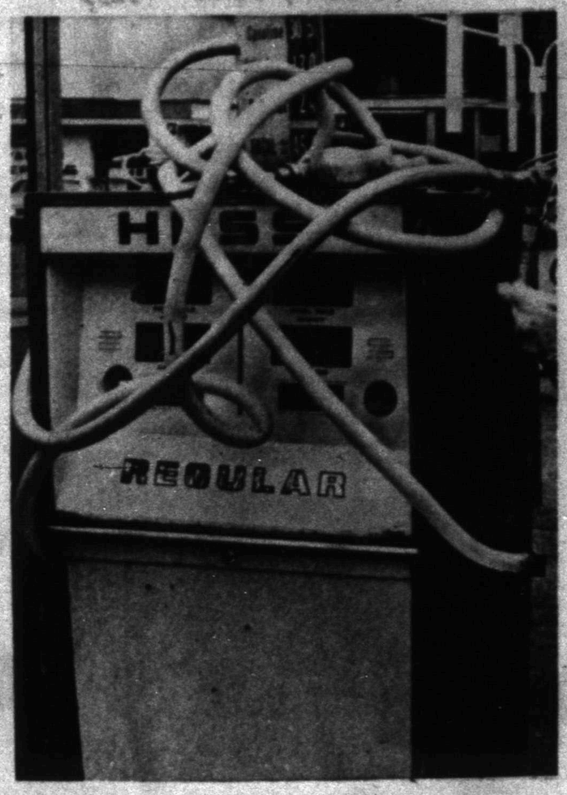

City Firemen answered seven calls over the weekend.

They extinguished a grass fire at Thirty-seventh Street at Avenue E at 1:25 p.m. Saturday. There was a fire in a bedroom closet at the H. O. Beard residence, 2903 Denison, at 8:05 p.m. Saturday.

Firemen extinguished grass fires one mile west of Union at 1:55 p.m. Sunday, at Tenth Street and Avenue R at 3:10 p.m. Sunday, on West Thirtieth Street at 7:50 p.m. Sunday and at the Von Roeder Seed Farm at 8:50 p.m. Sunday. The other call was to a minor car fire in the 1900 block of Twenty-fourth Street at 7:50 p.m. Sunday.

Delegates To Write Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislator-delegates to the Texas Constitutional Convention expect to write a portion of what they hope will be the Texas Constitution of 1974 this week.

Although today and most of the week was again set aside for long public hearings on constitutional proposals, the 181 senators and representatives are scheduled to vote at 1 p.m. Thursday on the preamble and the first of at least 16 articles to the new constitution.

Anything the legislator-delegates approve will go to Texas voters for a final say before it becomes a part of the state's new policy document.

Article I, with its guarantees of equal rights, freedom of religion, speech and press and right of trial by jury, was placed off limits to change by this convention by the resolution that ordered the constitutional rewrite.

However, there might be a floor move to amend the preamble which says, just as the 1876 document: "Humbly invoking the blessing of Almighty God, the people of the state of Texas, do ordain and establish this constitution."

The American and Texas Civil Liberties Union has protested the "Almighty God" reference is distasteful to some religious sects and those with different ideas of a divine being.

Released On Bond

Two persons were charged in Justice of the Peace Court this morning with driving while intoxicated, second offense. They are Earnest James and Apolonia C. Garza. Garza was released on $1,500 bond, and James was released on $750 bond.

Texans Express Their Ideas About Education

AUSTIN—Texans from all over the State have been expressing their ideas about what the constitution should say about education, according to State Representative Renal B. Rosson of Snyder, who is serving on the Education Committee of the Constitutional Revision Commission now meeting in Austin.

Delegates have been divided into committees to thrash out provisions of the proposed constitution, and Rep. Rosson's committee has been meeting morning and afternoon, and sometimes at night, to hear witnesses who wish to appear before them.

Most of the education discussion has been dealing with the clause "equal educational opportunities," Rosson said.

"Many feel this clause is too restrictive," Rosson noted, "and I am inclined to agree with them. Some feel that the term, 'an equitable educational opportunity for each scholastic in the State' would more nearly outline the desires of most people."

Rosson said he was also opposed to the part of the proposed constitution which permits in the distribution of State resources the Legislature to take into account the variations in local tax to support other local government services.

"This latter sentence would allow local districts to become lax in their taxing for local needs or desires and under such provision shift the heavier tax burden to other areas of the State," Rosson said.

Other areas of concern, according to Rosson, include the sections eliminating the requirement for the available school fund to be distributed on a per capita basis, and the provision that public funds shall not be used for support of religious, church affiliated or proprietary schools that provide education below the college level. Rosson states that he favors the present constitutional provisions providing for use of public resources for public purposes.

Another point of disagreement is on the makeup of the State Board of Education. Most committee members feel the board members should continue to be elected, rather than it being partially appointed as recommended by the Constitutional Revision Commission, Rosson said. Decisions on the dedicated school tax will also be made soon, he added.

He also said he hoped residents of the 63rd District were watching with interest the workings of the constitutional revision, and urged them to take an active part by writing or calling if they have any questions or suggestions to make.

Hood Named To Review Panel

DALLAS—Bill Hood of Snyder, has been named to the review committee of Hardin Simmons University in Abilene by the Christian Education Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Hood is superintendent of the Snyder Independent School District.

The committee oversees the operation of Hardin-Simmons on behalf of the commission.

The commission is an arm of the 2-million member Texas Baptist organization. It directs denominational endeavors at eight colleges and universities, one academy and through 83 Baptist Student Unions and 27 Bible Chairs on public and private institutions.

British Troubles Increase

LONDON (AP) — A 24-hour wildcat rail strike cut services for British commuters between 50 and 80 per cent today and caused huge traffic jams.

British Rail said commuter services from the south into London's Waterloo Station were cut by 80 per cent. Services from the east and the north to London terminals were down 50 per cent.

Hundreds of trains were delayed or canceled. Traffic into London was moving at three miles an hour on congested roads from the south.

Signalmen and rail clerks defied leaders of their union and said they would not work today to protest being sent home Sunday without pay.

The signalmen, guards and porters have been drawing pay as usual for weekend time but for seven weeks have been unable to work because of the ban on weekend work by engineers and firemen demanding wage increases in excess of Prime Minister Edward Heath's anti-inflation ceilings.

The government railway board for the first time refused to pay 20,000 nonstrikers for doing nothing Sunday and estimated it saved $880,000.

Meanwhile, leaders of the engineers and firemen were threatening to call a series of one-day strikes starting Feb. 5 if the rail board did not agree to new talks.

Burglary Reported

Burglars took $191 from the Midcontinent Supply Company, 1400 College Avenue, sometime between Wednesday afternoon and Friday morning, according to a City Police report.

Officers said the money was taken from an envelope in a desk drawer in the office.

Young Marrieds Face Changes, Challenges

COLLEGE STATION — Exchanging "I do's" brings young couples face-to-face with many changes.

This change in marital status also calls for different responsibilities and development tasks (growth needs), Jane Fleischer, specialist in family life education, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, noted.

"While the husband attempts new developmental tasks as a young adult male, his wife works out her growth responsibilities as a young adult female.

"Each learns what it is to be married—and what's expected of them as a husband or wife.

"Both must learn what it means to be an adult—with adult responsibilities—at home and in the community," the specialist added.

"However, several factors influence the development of young marrieds.

"These include physiological maturation, with its adult drives for ongoing sexual fulfillment, and personal aspirations of each partner to establish their marriage according to dreams built through the years."

Although developmental tasks of the married couple are basic to establishing a family, they differ somewhat in each family, class and culture, Miss Fleischer said.

Here's the Answer

Q. — I bought two unfinished pieces of furniture some time ago and finally got around to finishing them. I used clear shellac and when I got through, everything looked fine. But more than a week has passed and I find the surfaces of the furniture a bit sticky. Not much, but just enough so that when I put on object on the table, for instance, it sticks to it slightly when it is lifted up later. Can you tell me what caused this condition and how to correct it?

A. — First, I assume that you used diluted shellac rather than the product as it comes out of the container. Denatured alcohol should be mixed with the shellac in about a 50-50 proportion, although various other mixture combinations are acceptable depending on the use to which the material will be put. When shellac is used full strength, which it sometimes is by professionals, it requires considerable know-how to get good results.

Secondly, shellac may not dry properly if it is applied during a period of high humidity. It should always be used when the weather is dry. And third, the failure of shellac to dry can be caused by its being too old. Shellac deteriorates with age. Sometimes this occurs when it stays on a dealer's shelf for years, although knowledgeable dealers take steps to prevent this by moving containers to the front of shelves at periodic intervals.

Or you may have had the shellac in your own workshop for years. Or you may have failed to keep the container airtight after its last use. Because of this, you should never buy a large amount of shellac that will not be used within six months or so.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, bleach, stain and varnish remover are explained in Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

Lawyer's Nostalgic Look Back

TIFFANY STREET. By Jerome Weidman. Random House. 429 Pages. $7.95.

With "Tiffany Street," Jerome Weidman carries his running saga of the life and times — both present and past — of Benny Kramer into its third and most enjoyable volume.

Benny is a guy who grew up in New York City — first the Lower East Side, then the Bronx — and in the books Benny, now middle-aged and a prosperous lawyer, looks back at the days of his youth and tells wonderful stories about them.

In "Tiffany Street," Benny is fresh out of high school, working for an accounting firm as an office boy-clerk, and is hot to get his law degree. The time is the Depression, but the things that happen to Benny are so human, so warm, often so funny, that it makes one wonder if there really weren't "Good Old Days," especially when contrasted to what is happening to Benny now, a successful lawyer who keeps wondering "Is this a way for a man to spend his life?"

Perhaps not, but it's an excellent way for a reader to spend his time.

Weidman also pleases by doing a largely good job of balancing the stories of the older Benny and the youth he was. His transitions from one to the other are, for the most part, smooth and professionally done with the reader rarely being abruptly dumped from the Depression into the present or vice versa. And Wiedman, with more than 30 books and plays behind him, writes a clean, seemingly effortless prose that's a pleasure to read.

Second Successor Of Great Man Fairs Better

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The corporate executive who succeeds the "great man," the person who built the company, will often find himself walking in a shadow so deep and dark that he has a 50-50 chance of tripping on his face.

So hazardous is the assignment, suggests Prof. Eugene Jennings, that the executive so chosen might seriously consider biding his time and letting someone else take the job until the great man's presence fades.

When the first successor fails to fill the great man's void, the patient executive then can step forward. The second successor, says Jennings, stands a 70 per cent chance of keeping the job for at least five years.

Jennings, a Michigan State professor of business administration, psychologist, author, and executive and corporate consultant, cites the airline industry as an ideal illustration.

C.R. Smith, American Airlines chief during its period of greatest growth, was succeeded by George Spater, who soon lost the job.

George Keck followed William Patterson at United, and he too failed to keep the spot.

Same with Najeeb Halaby, who succeeded Juan Trippe at Pan American. And the list doesn't end there.

Of those who fail, said Jennings, who has studied such happenings since 1948, about 40 per cent are fired outright, 30 per cent leave voluntarily, and 30 per cent are shelved, or moved out of the line of command.

One of the reasons for the dismal record of first successors is that the great man tends to hang around in the wings, despite his promises not to do so. Even if he isn't physically present, his shadow is.

Here are some of the explanations Jennings has found:

1. The job is impossible to fill. Not even the great man can fill his own shoes, because the system he has built is really bigger than any man. The great man doesn't know it, but even he hasn't been filling his shoes for a long time.

2. The great man doesn't delegate authority when he is building the company. As a result, the succesor has never been properly trained. There is no way for him to get the total weight of the office on his back.

3. The system the great man built is responsive to him, not to the successor. The new man has different strengths and weaknesses and the system doesn't know how to react to them.

An employe's entire security system may be built around the way he responded to the old man, said Jennings. He cannot change easily. Typically, the successor at some time or other has to cry out:

"I'm not the old man. That's not the way we do it now. There's a new landlord around here."

4. The great man stays long after he should have gone, and as a consequence leaves a faulty chain of command. In the process of scrambling for the great man's favor, potential successors often spatter each other with mud.

This forces the great man to reach down below the first level of lieutenants and pick an inexperienced but relatively unTarnished successor from the third level.

That man often will lack seasoning, and so be weak and inadequate. And those who wanted the job but didn't get it will be inclined to skewer him.

5. When the great man hangs around too long he tends to put many decisions on the back burner. He is far below the height of his powers, but he doesn't realize it.

When the new man takes over he is suddenly presented with decisions that have reached crisis stage. He is amazed by all the problems he didn't know existed. In effect, he is presented with a battle for personal survival.

Whether he survives, says Jennings, can almost be decided by the flip of a coin.

Red Tape Is Worse Abroad

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Friends tell me increasing red tape is making life more complicated in the United States. But after four years in Latin America, I am convinced I am living in the bureaucrat's paradise.

Everything is complicated. I used to live and work in one country where just going to the post office was a trial. Each window, manned by a snarling woman in a blue smock, sold different kinds of stamps.

After shuttling about long lines several days a week, I was forced by necessity to bribe an office boy to mail my letters for me.

I used to pay local taxes in another country. Since nobody there pays taxes unless absolutely necessary, the tax authorities have hit upon an ingenious solution.

Nobody leaves the country without a document from the authorities saying all taxes have paid up to date.

I had to pay my taxes monthly with a visit to the Treasury Ministry. My first trip there went smoothly until I was asked for the tax stamps.

"What tax stamps?"

"Why the stamps to prove that you've paid the tax on paying your taxes," said the ill-tempered lady behind the desk. I should have known. She was wearing one of those blue smocks.

"OK, sell me some stamps," I muttered.

"We don't sell them," she said. "Go to the post office."

The next month, I was prepared. I invested $5 in tax stamps and dutifully pasted them on the back of my tax declaration and my check.

"Oh, you shouldn't have done that," said the woman in the blue smock inspecting my stamp collection.

"But you told me the last time I needed tax stamps to prove that I've paid the taxes on paying my taxes?"

"That was last month. The regulations were changed. You don't have to use stamps anymore. But you will have to give me a new check and make out another declaration. We can't accept any documents with stamps on them."

I've decided to write a book for foreigners on how to cope with Latin-American red tape.

For more information, just write me. The letters must be in triplicate, typewritten, one-inch margins and signed in ink, not ball-point.

One more thing, don't forget the tax stamps.

Junior Editors' Quiz on QUAIL

QUESTION: What are quail?

ANSWER: In North America the name quail applies to several birds of the Phasianidae family, related to the grouse. Perhaps the best known of American quail is the bobwhite, native from the Gulf States to southern Ontario. It is a plump bird about the size of a robin. It has reddish-brown feathers with black, white and buff markings. It lives among grasses and thickets which afford cover. The bobwhite is better known for its cheerful "Bobwhite" call than anything else.

In the western United States, there are a number of varieties of quail, e.g. Gambel's quail, mountain quail, scaled quail and others, some of which have crests and plumes on the head. Quail feed on the seeds of weeds, discarded grain, wild fruit and insects. They eat insect pests which endears them to the farmers.

Quail are among the most popular game birds of America, but are able to survive by virtue of their rapid reproduction. They have from 10 to 12 eggs in the normal clutch and their preservation is aided by their habit of running and hiding rather than taking wing when approached by hunters.

Three Die In Plane Crash In NM Desert

SANTO DOMINGO PUEBLO, N.M. (AP) — A single-engine plane crashed Sunday on the desert near the northern New Mexico Indian pueblo, killing the pilot and two Texas passengers.

The dead were identified as pilot Bernard Gillet, owner of Taos Airways charter service; Dr. William Chalmers of Fort Worth, Tex., and Lawrence Smith of Houston, Tex.

Chalmers, 41, was on a pleasure trip to New Mexico, a Fort Worth associate said.

Smith left Houston Wednesday to see about a job as a real estate salesman in New Mexico and was due to return Sunday to move his belongings to New Mexico, his stepfather Joseph E. O'Rourke said in Houston.

The manager of the Taos Municipal Airport, Richard Gonzales, said the Beechcraft Bonanza left Taos en route to Albuquerque about 1:30 or 2 p.m. Sunday.

Ed Dover, flight service supervisor in Albuquerque, said the crashed plane was tracked by sounds from its emergency locator transmitter.

"The airplane was on a flight plan from Taos to Albuquerque," Dover said. "He did become overdue on his time of arrival here, but that was about the time we got the report on the beacon signal."

Pilots in the area heard the emergency signal and relayed word.

Dover said the emergency locater is "a miniature transmitter" which triggers off if it is subject to any undue impact."

He said visual flight conditions were indicated in the area between Albuquerque and Santa Fe around the time of the crash. Santo Domingo Pueblo is 29 miles southwest of Santa Fe.

Lee Jaramillo, a reporter from KGGM-TV, went to the scene in a helicopter and said, "It was snowing, but it mostly was sleet.

"There wasn't much snow on the ground. Where the plane landed, it was flat with hills around it. It was real muddy, like clay."

Jaramillo said the front section of the plane "was badly torn, like it might have nosedived a little bit. Both sides and the midsection were torn also. The wings were still attached to the plane."

Fred Fair of Taos said he owned the plane, a J-model Bonanza, and had leased it to Taos Airways for the past four or five months.

Archaeologists have discovered that the fashion for platform shoes goes back to Roman times, notes Marilyn Brown, consumer education-clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Job Tips For Non-Veteran

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: Can you help me find a solution to a problem that is affecting most young men in this country? Early last year I passed the telephone company's employment test, but whenever I call them about a job they tell me they must hire veterans first. Can you tell me why a veteran who was not previously employed by them is hired as soon as he has passed the test? I thought discrimination was outlawed in this country. This condition also exists in the civil service. How is a person who did not serve because of a high number in the draft supposed to get a job when they are giving veterans this preference? -- DISGUSTED, Cherry Hill, N.J.

Veterans are given preference as a reward for serving their country. You might agree with this socio-political decision if you were the beneficiary.

Surmounting this problem requires that you hone your job-hunting skills; I suspect you are the proverbial babe-in-the-woods when it comes to knowing HOW to search for a job, and how to present yourself as an applicant too desirable to turn down regardless of your non-service background. If you haven't saved any of my past columns on the jobsearch, go to the library and get books on the subject.

You may be getting turndowns because you fail to sell yourself -- sloppily or incompletely filled out application forms, poor appearance or mannerisms, for instance. If you really want to work for the phone company, try this approach.

The next time you call the phone company, find out the name of the employment manager. Write the manager a business-like letter asking for a few minutes of his/her time to discuss a matter of great importance to you, and say that you will telephone on a certain day to learn when an appointment would be convenient.

When you get the appointment (which may be with another member of the employment staff), be prepared to state WHY you want to work for the company and what you have to offer. Don't complain about veterans getting favored treatment; stress your qualifications. If the response is still negative, ask the employment person the same question you asked me, but phrase it differently -- "What would you suggest I do to obtain my goal of employment with your company? I would be grateful for any suggestions you may have."

What do you achieve by this tactic? You are trying to focus the interviewer's attention on you as a qualified individual, not remain merely a name on a list. If there are no jobs available, the interviewer can't create one from thin air, but he may be moved by your sincerity to advance your name on the waiting list. Or, he may tell you frankly why you are being turned down if giving preference to veterans isn't the real reason. Further, the interviewer may suggest personnel people in other industries that have job openings.

Conducting a persistent, knowledgeable jobsearch is your best solution. Or, you know the old saying, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em" -- become a vet.

Suit Filed On Welfare Proposal

By CHRISTOPHER CABOT
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A plan to verify welfare eligibility by having recipients personally pick up next month's checks has become a headache for officials and a rallying point for welfare rightists.

Early this month, State Welfare Commissioner Fred Friend announced plans for eligibility checks of Tennessee's 191,390 recipients of Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC).

Since then, the Nashville Welfare Mothers has filed a class action suit in federal court seeking to block the plan, and a black state lawmaker filed a resolution in the legislature directing Friend to halt his "policy change." The suit is pending. The resolution failed to pass the House last week.

The Nashville chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called for Friend's resignation, and civic groups across the state have called the plan humiliating and unproductive.

Friend has defended his plan by saying the state must reduce AFDC overpayments in the next six months or risk the loss of $738,000 in matching federal funds. The plan is the only conceivable way to quickly weed out welfare roles, he said.

Under the plan, AFDC recipients would have to report in person to county welfare offices to validate their claims. State welfare officials say three types of proof must be presented — proof of residence, proof of identity and proof of the number of persons for whom claims are filed.

Black political leaders in Memphis, where some 20,000 AFDC recipients are to gather for the verification, first loudly opposed the idea, then saw it as a "golden political opportunity."

Jesse Epps, president of Memphis' National Tenants Union chapter, said black leaders have arranged with the election commission to have voter registration booths set up during the welfare check.

Eisenhowers Join Nixons

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — David and Julie Eisenhower joined President and Mrs. Nixon at their mountain retreat for an overnight stay this weekend, the White House said.

The Nixons had driven here Thursday night, and daughter Julie and son-in-law David arrived Friday night for dinner. The President reportedly has spent much of his time preparing his State of the Union address for delivery to a joint session of Congress Wednesday night.

Truman Capote Is Hospitalized

Capote asked that no further information be released.

IRS Eliminates Need To Report Little Details

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1973 tax returns.

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has made few changes in federal income tax laws for 1973 returns but the Internal Revenue Service has added several new wrinkles of its own.

The changes amount to time-savers. They excuse taxpayers from reporting little details on deductions as long as adequate records are kept in case of an audit.

For example, no longer will taxpayers have to report details of dividend and interest payments on a separate schedule. A lump sum is all that's necessary on form 1040.

One reason for this change is that the IRS already gets copies of interest and dividend payments from banks, savings and loan associations, other financial institutions and companies. It can make cross-checks by computer if necessary.

If a taxpayer is audited, however, he will need the statements from companies on dividend payments and savings institutions on interest to verify the amount earned.

The IRS has also eliminated the need for listing names of the charitable institutions to which contributions are made. Instead, a lump sum may be put down for the deduction if the taxpayer has receipts, cancelled checks or other forms of documentation.

Names of the charitable institutions and the amounts have to be listed separately, however, if the taxpayer wishes to claim estimated cash contributions. There is space on schedule A of form 1040 for "other cash contributions" for which there is no documented proof.

The IRS says it isn't worried that providing this space will cause abuse, with taxpayers putting down wild estimates of contributions. The agency's computers will in effect "grade" returns to see if there is any serious deviation from the average.

If the computer finds returns with big variances from the norm, said a spokesman, the chances increase that the IRS will audit the return. But the IRS isn't revealing how much in estimated contributions the computer will accept as average.

Some officials also suspect that a lot of the contributions claimed by taxpayers in the past have been estimated, anyway.

Another time-saver is elimination of the requirement to list the names and dates for claiming payments to doctors, dentists and hospitals. Again, adequate records should be kept on file by the taxpayer.

Because of a court ruling, the IRS has put directly on form 1040 and form 1040A, the short form, spaces for taxpayers to check off $1 of their taxes for financing the 1976 presidential campaign.

On line 8 of the form, there is a small box for a single taxpayer or a couple to check off $1 of their taxes in 1973. Also, on another line just above the space where the form is signed, taxpayers may check off part of their 1972 taxes for the 1976 campaign.

The second space is easily missed. The IRS denies that it separated the two spaces on form 1040 so that taxpayers would overlook the chance to check off $1 of their 1972 taxes. Last year, only about 3 per cent of all taxpayers checked the space. One reason is that IRS provided a separate form for the checkoff then. That form is no longer necessary.

Another change in this year's forms is the removal of income restrictions on filing the short form, 1040A. Last year, any taxpayer who earned more than $200 each from dividends or interest could not file the short form.

Clemmons Gets Belated Tombstone

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's taken nearly 200 years but Nicholas Clemmons is being recognized officially as a Revolutionary War soldier — thus entitled to a free tombstone from the Veterans Administration.

It turns out he was sold into two years servitude to pay for passage to America from his native Germany and was cook for his soldier-master, Gen. George Washington.

So the newly carved headstone is to be erected over Clemmons' grave in a ceremony in the Lake Park Cemetery in Youngstown, Ohio, later this month or in early February. He died in 1834.

He's getting it thanks to the persistance of his great-great-great-great-granddaughter, Mrs. Margaret Fay of Westlake, Ohio. She got help from Mrs. Mary Burrows, commander of the United Veterans Council in Youngstown, and her congressman, Rep. Charles Carney, D-Ohio.

When Mrs. Fay applied to the VA to establish that Clemmons was a soldier, no records of his service could be found in the National Archives, repository of the records of long-past wars.

So Mrs. Fay got together family records and affidavits to make her case.

According to the family records, Clemmons was born in 1749 in Germany and emigrated with his wife to America in 1775. When the war broke out, Clemmons was offered his liberty if he would serve for six months as a private with his master.

Clemmons accepted the offer and served another six months to free his wife, who had been sold to someone else. He continued to serve until the end of the war.

The clincher was a biography of Washington in which the general was quoted as saying:

"Cheer up, friend Nicholas. Be of good cheer. God will be with us. We will see better times soon."

All veterans with honorable-type discharges are eligible for free headstones, whether they are buried in a government cemetery or a private one.

Daughter Of Sinatra Weds

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra's youngest daughter, Tina, and music publisher Wes Farrell were married at Caesar's Palace, where Sinatra made a gala return as an entertainer last weekend.

Sinatra, his mother "Dolly" and his other daughter Nancy attended the Saturday night wedding in the penthouse apartment of Clifford Perlman, board chairman of Caesar's World. It was the first marriage for Tina, 25.

Farrell is the owner of Chelsey Records.

Sinatra opened at the club Friday night after a three-year retirement from night club entertaining.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Most merchants are truthful in their advertising, and straightforward in their sales techniques.

They strive to describe accurately the products and services they offer, and instruct their sales representatives to allow you to make your independent decisions about merchandise, free from high-pressure techniques.

They plan to be in business in their communities for a long time, and know that that very small percentage of merchants who subscribe to unfair or deceptive business practices tend to acquire only one-time customers.

Those ads that begin "It's just too good to be true..." usually are just that.

People may respond to such ads, but if they feel victimized by misleading advertisers, they'll pass the word around. Eventually, those businesses will run through customers, and have to close.

It's the job of the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division and of local district and county attorneys to shorten that cycle as much as possible. And it's the intent of this column to put consumers on notice so they will be informed, and less likely to fall prey to unscrupulous business practices.

The 1973 Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act prohibits false, misleading and deceptive trade practices, unconscionable actions, and breaches of warranty, and gives injured consumers the right to file private suit.

But how can consumers, or businessmen, tell what types of advertising may be permitted or prohibited?

The act includes a "laundry list" of 19 practices which are prohibited specifically. And it says that the body of case law built up over several decades of cases handled by the Federal Trade Commission will serve as a guide.

It also states that local city ordinances can be passed to outlaw deceptive practices.

In general, state law, legal precedents, and local ordinances are in agreement on the following basic "rules of thumb" for identifying deceptive advertising or other misrepresentations:

1. The effect of the whole ad or label or business transaction must be considered, not just a portion.

2. If a word or term is ambiguous, and one meaning is false, the word or term is "deceptive."

3. Deliberate use of very small type to set out qualifications of disclosures may be considered a factor in causing a practice to be held deceptive.

4. If a business practice "tends to deceive," it usually is considered "deceptive."

5. To determine if a practice is deceptive, you have to determine its effect on the "ordinary purchaser," and this includes the gullible and unsophisticated consumer.

6. Normally, the argument that competitors are using the same type of deceptive advertising complained of is not considered a defense.

7. Even if a certain customer who appears in a place of business is not deceived by a specific ad or practice, if it is considered deceptive to the general public, it is unlawful.

8. If an advertiser abandons a deceptive practice, he still can be ordered by a court to cease that practice, in order to prevent possible resumption.

If you are in doubt, as a consumer or as an advertiser, as to whether a practice could be considered deceptive, consult your lawyers, or contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

YEAR AFTER WAR IS OVER

Legion Post Observes MIA Awareness Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Dennis P. Sullivan, an alumnus of Rice High School, '65, and Vietnam's Central Highlands, '67, put his beer on the table and leaned forward.

"I mean if somebody's an MIA, and the North Vietnamese know, why not say so and put the guy's family out of their grief. It's got to be better than going to bed every night hoping you're going to hear something."

It's a Sunday not quite like the others at Capt. Edward L. Grant American Legion Post No. 1225. National MIA Awareness Day, one year after the cease-fire. The war is over and done with, like a lousy summer job, with some missing men among the reminders.

Denny Sullivan, a 25-year-old policeman, and four of his buddies are shooting the breeze in the tiny barroom of the post, located in a tired old neighborhood of the Bronx called Highbridge.

There's Jack Conway and his younger brother Jim, Dickie Morrison, and Glenn Amlung. All are under 30, graduates of the same Catholic grammar school, products of the neighborhood, veterans of the Army.

While a basketball game blares from the television and old Tom Flynn keeps his counsel at the end of the bar, they talk about the Vietnam war and America's 1,100-plus men still missing in action.

"Everyone remembers, but it's no big deal anymore," says Sullivan. "Like at a family gathering, someone will say, 'Hey, what do you think about the POW-MIA situation.' And someone else will say, 'Yeah, it's a bitch. Pass the roast beef.'"

Jack Conway served 11 months in Vietnam. Now a salesman for a beer company, he doubts a full-scale effort is under way to account for the MIAs to whom President Nixon has dedicated the day.

Jim Conway, an electrician who joined the Army three years after his brother, feels the MIAs are no longer an issue that politicians will bring up. Not enough drawing power, he says.

"The politicans won't pull rank because everytime they bring it up, the liberals start their warmonger routine," Sullivan says. "'Don't get involved, don't mention it. Just shut your eyes and the bogeyman will go away.' That's the way they feel."

All five say they have been driving with their headlights on to show support for the MIAs, and Jack Conway thinks the idea of a special day is good. "You've got to remember the families on Memorial Day and Veterans Day and so forth, it's a way of showing them respect. You don't want to say it wasn't worth it."

The talk turns to the war. They say it could have been won if America turned on the power. But you do what you have to do.

"I'd go again," says Amlung, a bartender, and everyone agrees.

Wadley Will Is Settled

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A settlement on the estate of the late J.K. Wadley of Texarkana apparently has been reached by the parties involved, Special Chancery Judge Henry S. Yocum Jr. of El Dorado has said.

Yocum said he did not know the terms which might be included in a settlement.

Testimony documents were to be offered for probate today when proceedings in the case resumed at the Miller County Courthouse.

Any settlement must be submitted to the court for approval. Attorneys for both sides in the litigation have remained silent on a possible settlement.

The purported will and trust fund Wadley allegedly established were filed and offered for probate in Miller County Probate Court last August by several charitable, religious or educational institutions listed as beneficiaries in the documents.

Emily DeWare of Santa Barbara, one of Wadley's daughters, contested the alleged will and trust fund.

Wadley, a pioneer Texarkana resident and prominent oilman, died Jan. 28, 1973 at the age of 96.

The document offered by the organizations divided the Wadley estate into charitable and noncharitable trust funds, consisting of three-fourths and one-fourth of the estate, respectively.

The existence of a second trust fund allegedly established by Wadley was disclosed shortly before the probate proceedings were postponed for the first time last October.

The second alleged trust fund was to be set up to distribute income from a number of oil and gas leases among the Baptist Foundation, Wadley Hospital, Wadley Research Institute and the First Baptist Church. Also listed as beneficiaries in the document were a number of Wadley's friends and employes, his sisters and a trust fund established for his two daughters, his granddaughter and his grandson-in-law.

The second alleged trust was signed by Wadley, but not dated or signed by witnesses. It also did not carry an acknowledgment by a notary public.

A Wadley accountant has testified that the second document never was executed because the oil and gas leases involved did not become productive.

Crosby Plans Fishing Trip

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Singer Bing Crosby is planning a fishing trip to relax from a month-long bout with a rare lung ailment.

Crosby, 69, dressed in a sports coat, slacks and hat, was driven from Peninsula Hospital on Sunday by his wife, Kathryn, to the family estate in nearby Hillsborough.

The entertainer underwent a 3½-hour operation on Jan. 13 in which surgeons removed two-fifths of his badly abcessed left lung. Doctors, who had feared the lung might be cancerous, later said the disease was caused by a rare African fungus that Crosby probably contracted on a safari last summer.

Dr. Stanley Hanfling, Crosby's family physician, said the singer planned to go on a fishing trip and then would join his family at their winter home in Baja California, Mexico.

Midway Church at Midway, Ga., has cypress window shutters which have served since 1792, and in its churchyard is an unprotected cypress grave marker on which the date, "1790," is still distinguishable after 169 years.

Gas Rationing May Be Necessary By Spring

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline rationing may be necessary by spring unless the Arab nations resume oil shipments to the United States, says Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who headed three days of energy crisis hearings last week.

Meanwhile, the Federal Energy Office urged utilities to cut power use by five per cent below normal next month.

The request came Sunday in the announcement of residual fuel allocations for utilities, which the FEO said will permit them to meet about 95 per cent of their normal power needs in February.

Jackson indicated Sunday that gasoline rationing may be necessary by the second quarter of the year.

"I don't think there's much doubt about it unless there are some developments overseas which indicate that we will get extra crude material," the Washington Democrat said on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Federal energy chief William E. Simon said the February allocations to utilities will affect 148 utilities in 39 states, primarily on the east and west coasts.

Actual fuel deliveries are expected to be about five per cent less than in February 1973, FEO spokesmen said, because some utilities have switched to coal or other methods of generating power.

The allocations, FEO said, are designed to provide for 95 per cent of February needs plus to provide at least a 12-day inventory of oil by March 1.

On the NBC program "Meet the Press," Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said he would oppose gasoline rationing except as a last resort.

Ikard also said he does not expect gasoline prices to reach the $1-a-gallon level some have predicted.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, appearing on the ABC program "Issues and Answers" said he "would certainly favor some action to keep gasoline from going any higher."

In another development Sunday, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said a new Treasury Department report shows that American oil companies used the foreign-tax credit to cut their 1971 U.S. taxes by 75 per cent.

Simply by taking advantage of the credits system, he said, oil companies cut their taxes due to the United States from $3.2 billion to $788 million, he said.

Under Internal Revenue Service rules firms operating abroad can deduct most of the taxes they pay to foreign governments from U.S. taxes due.

In other energy related developments:

—Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said on the WABC-TV "Eyewitness News Conference" in New York that the oil companies should be regulated in the same manner as public utilities, if not actually transformed into utilities.

—The Saudi Arabian oil minister, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said King Faisal is considering cutting Saudi oil prices because of concern over international trade.

Fifteen Die In Texas Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violence claimed 15 lives in Texas during the weekend, including nine persons killed in traffic accidents.

The toll once more was below the levels for many weekends before a gasoline shortage put a crimp in Sunday motor trips. It was recorded between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

These were among the victims:

Two small brothers died Sunday when flames trapped them in an apartment house bedroom in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas. They were Elmo Estrado III, 2, and Robert James Estrado, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Estrado.

John Carolan, 41, of San Antonio was killed about 11 p.m. Sunday on the city's southwest side. Police said his car hit a utility pole and Carolan was thrown beneath the vehicle.

Killring Boss, 45, was shot and killed Sunday in a Houston lounge. Police said a man was being sought for questioning.

Officers said a crosscountry bus struck and killed Colores Cardwell, 32, of Waco as she was running across Interstate 35 south of town. They described the accident as unavoidable.

Willie Kindrick, 37, was fatally shot Sunday at his home in Houston. Authorities charged his wife Ruby with murder. Her bond was set at $20,000.

Miguel H. Urbina, 50, was found shot to death Saturday night in the restroom of a Houston lounge. Detectives said Urbina had been shot several times in the chest.

Edwin Sheets, 17, of Houston was killed Saturday night when a car struck a tree. Police in Houston said the 17-year-old driver of the car, Lee Ray Wilson, was injured.

Charles Price, 20, of San Antonio died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday night. Price's motorcycle collided with a car on a San Antonio street.

Two men died late Friday when the transport truck in which they were riding left U.S. 180 East near Breckenridge, clipped a telephone pole and a tree, smashed through a rock wall and plunged into a rock house. Investigators identified the dead as Vernon Ray Boling and Dave Anderson, in their 40s and both of Graham.

Bruce I. Spalding, 21, and Randell K. Hudspth, 20, both privates at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, died early Saturday when the car in which they were riding collided headon with a vehicle on Interstate 35 on San Antonio's east side.

Investigators said Walter D. Copland Jr., 65, of Mesquite, Tex., was killed Saturday when his car ran off Interstate 45 and hit a tree about nine miles north of Conroe.

Ronnie S. Hemby, 25, of Tomball, an off-duty Houston policeman, was found shot to death Saturday night in the front seat of his car. He was shot in the head.

Brown In Race For Governor

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. set out today to capture the California governorship his father lost to Ronald Reagan eight years ago.

The 35-year-old Democrat formally declared his candidacy with a pledge to "create a new spirit of activism and hope in state government." He said he would start with a sweeping reorganization of the state's executive offices.

Brown's prepared statement of candidacy did not directly mention that his father, "Pat" Brown, was governor from 1959 to 1967.

He became the fifth formal candidate for the Democratic nomination in the June 4 primary and is considered the frontrunner by many experts, partly because of public opinion polls that show he has high name identification.

As secretary of state, Brown has received a reputation as a tough enforcer of state election laws. Republicans have accused him of using his authority for partisan purposes, and Gov. Reagan proposed in his State of the State address this year that the office be made nonpartisan.

Man Not Bitter On Claim

By DENNIS C. KOIS
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — "I'm not bitter. I want to forget the past," said Edward Kanieski after his $250,000 false imprisonment claim was rejected.

Kanieski was released in 1972 after spending 20 years in prison on a first-degree murder conviction. The Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled he had been convicted on circumstantial evidence not sufficient to warrant a finding of guilty. His claim of false imprisonment was rejected earlier this month by the State Claims Board.

"I was a little surprised," Kanieski, 55, said Sunday of the rejection.

"I figure I should of got something for what I lost," he said in a telephone interview. "My family grew up without me. My wife is in a mental institution. I lost my property and my health. I had nothing when I came home."

Kanieski, who lives alone in an apartment in Wisconsin Rapids and whose only income is from welfare, was 34 when convicted and sentenced to life in prison in 1952 for the first-degree murder of Clara Bates. The 76-year-old woman was found beaten and strangled in her room adjoining a tavern she operated in rural Grand Rapids, Wis.

Though his conviction was overturned by the high court in March 1972, the Claims Board said state law required that, after hearing the evidence, the board must find "it clear beyond a reasonable doubt that the petitioner was innocent of the crime for which he suffered imprisonment before it can grant relief."

"Although evidence may have been insufficient to convict, on the other hand there is insufficient evidence to show that it is clear beyond a reasonable doubt that the claimant was innocent of this crime," the board said.

Panhandle Gets Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skies cleared today in the wake of the latest cold front, which brought up to two inches of snow in the Texas Panhandle and at least one tornado in turbulence which pummelled eastern sections of the state.

The frontal system also touched off numerous showers and often severe thunderstorms in already soaked areas of East and Southeast Texas and here and there through the coastal plains.

Pinehill, in Rusk County, was the target for a twister which injured one person and damaged several mobile homes Sunday night.

Along with a series of severe thunderstorm alerts, briefly torrential rains caused temporary warnings against flash floods in at least half a dozen counties.

Perryton, in the northeast corner of the Panhandle, measured two inches of new snow. Only flurries were reported elsewhere in that part of the state.

In the cold air behind the front, early morning temperatures skidded to 15 degrees at Perryton, 18 at Dalhart, 21 at Amarillo, 27 at El Paso, 28 at Lubbock, 30 at Wink and 31 at Childress. Readings elsewhere ran from the higher 30s into the 60s, staying as high as 66 at Houston and 67 at Brownsville on the coast.

Top marks Sunday afternoon reached as high as 83 at McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley while the mercury climbed to only 33 at Dalhart.

Forecasts promised fair and cool to mild weather throughout the state.

They're No. One—Irish Coach After 94-75 Loss

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

There was a return to normalcy over the weekend in college basketball.

"They're No. 1, no doubt about it," admitted Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps after his Irish were whipped 94-75 by mighty UCLA Saturday night in Los Angeles.

"They beat us. They were very, very good," added Phelps. "That UCLA shooting was just unbelievable."

The Bruins, who saw their record 88-game winning streak snapped 71-70 at Notre Dame a week ago, wasted little time in getting revenge. Encouraged by a frenzied, partisan crowd of 12,874, Bill Walton opened the game with a hook, Tommy Curtis followed with a three-point play and UCLA raced to a 9-0 lead. The cold-shooting Irish were held scoreless for the first five minutes and the outcome of the much heralded rematch was never really in doubt.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 North Carolina State beat Purdue 86-81; No. 4 North Carolina defeated No. 5 Maryland 82-73; No. 6 Marquette downed Chicago-Loyola 71-54; No. 7 Vanderbilt upended Mississippi 71-56; No. 8 Providence topped Rhode Island 78-64; No. 9 Alabama took Georgia 86-71; and No. 10 Long Beach State rocked Northern Illinois 106-71.

Also, No. 11 Indiana buried Northwestern 82-53; No. 12 Southern California dumped Fordham 70-60; No. 13 South Carolina edged Seton Hall 75-74; No. 15 Michigan got by Iowa 86-84 in overtime; No. 16 Pittsburgh coasted past Penn State 83-61 in a Sunday game; No. 17 Wisconsin beat Ohio State 69-64; No. 18 Centenary routed Southern Mississippi 103-87; No. 19 New Mexico held off Colorado State 54-49; and No. 20 Arizona State defeated Utah 82-74.

Walton, forward Keith Wilkes and freshman Marques Johnson were the prime movers in the convincing UCLA triumph. Walton, the 6-11 two-time All-American, dominated inside while piling up 32 points and 11 rebounds before fouling out with 5½ minutes to go.

"I told my players to always try and hit the open man," added Bruins' Coach John Wooden. "We have a tremendous scoring machine in Bill Walton and, until they stop him, we should try to get the ball to him."

Wilkes contributed 18 of his 20 points in the first half and Johnson, a surprise starter, was impressive while scoring 16 points. John Shumate led Notre Dame with 25 points.

Phelps managed to find some consolation with the thought that no one else has beaten UCLA in three years.

"The only thing I can say as far as our game last week is concerned," he said, "is that you can never take it away from us. We earned it. History is history."

North Carolina State, trailing by 15 points, managed to rally in the second half behind junior David Thompson. Thompson netted 26 points, including the go-ahead basket with 1½ minutes left.

Darrell Elston collected 20 points, hitting nine of 11 tries from the field, in North Carolina's win over Maryland. The Tar Heels cashed in on several turnovers to break open a close game midway through the second half.

Marquette, running off 12 straight points in the first half, recorded its 16th victory in 17 outings. Earl Tatum led the balanced Warriors' attack with 15 points.

Jeff Fosnes and Terry Compton teamed for 30 points in Vanderbilt's victory. The Commodores are 14-1 on the year and share first place in the Southeastern Conference with Alabama.

Freshman Bob Cooper scored 20 points and senior Marvin Banrnes pulled down 23 rebounds as Providence made it 15 wins in 17 outings.

Charles Cleveland netted 33 points and Leon Douglas added 18 as Alabama upped its mark to 13-2.

Leonard Gray hit on 10 of 14 shots and collected 22 points in Long Beach State's one-sided romp. All five 49er starters hit for double figures and Rick Aberegg added 15 assists.

Steve Green was the top man for Indiana with 24 points. Gus Williams hit 16 points and Mike Westra added 12 in Southern Cal's triumph. Mike Dunleavy gave South Carolina its margin of victory by sinking a pair of free throws with just seven seconds left.

Freshman Steve Grote's 27 points helped Michigan survive against Iowa. Billy Knight scored 20 points and Mickey Martin added 16 as Pitt ran its win streak to 15 games, second to Maryland-Eastern Shore as the longest string among major colleges.

Wisconsin, 11-2, piled up a 17-point lead and then held on behind Gary Anderson's 18 points for the win. Robert Parish and Barry McLeod scored 24 points apiece as Centenary made it 13 victories in 14 outings. New Mexico, playing without its top two scorers, who were suspended for missing curfew, held Colorado State scoreless for 11 minutes of the second half with a stall. Lionel Hollins' 19 points was tops for Arizona State, 12-5.

Laver Wins Net Tourney

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — You have to admire Arthur Ashe's optimism. He elected to receive first against Australia's Rod Laver in Sunday's final of the $100,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Tournament. That's like kicking off to the Miami Dolphins.

"I always elect to receive," said Ashe. "It gives me the extra serve in a tie breaker."

Yeah, Arthur, but first you have to get to a tie breaker.

The 35-year-old Laver served three quick aces in the first game of the first set and went on to beat Ashe 6-1, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, to earn the $15,000 first prize. Ashe consoled himself with $7,000.

Ashe remarked Saturday after reaching the finals of the initial 1974 World Championship Tennis (WCT) competition that he felt he knew how to beat Laver, but was concerned if he had the skills to carry out his game plan.

Raiders Rule S'West Roost

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

To look at Texas Tech's track record on the road this year and Rice's won-loss column, you would think the defending Southwest Conference champions should have an easy time of it Tuesday night in Houston.

Tech has defeated Arkansas and Texas on the road to storm to the SWC lead with a 4-0 record while Rice is tied for the cellar with two other teams at 1-3.

But Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf has a warning for the high-riding Red Raiders: "This is the hardest working Rice team I have ever seen ... they give a tremendous effort."

A record A&M crowd of 8,140 barely ruffled a feather as the Owls fell to the Aggies 80-79 Tuesday night, causing Rice Coach Don Knodel to mumble: "We did everything but win."

Tech has shown tremendous poise itself under adverse circumstances. The Red Raiders blew a 15-point lead to Texas Saturday afternoon in their big regionally televised shootout but stole victory 85-81 on two clutch free throws by Steve Trncak, heretofore a reserve.

Trncak, with Tech trailing 81-80, wasn't rattled just frightened, when Texas called time out after he was fouled with 36 seconds left.

"I was scared to death with TV and all," Trncak admitted.

"The one game I start would be on TV," he sighed. "I was just scared and I was praying. I knew when Texas called time out they were doing it to psyche me."

Trncak sank both free throws and Phil Bailey's layup with 16 seconds left clinched the victory.

The loss dropped Texas alone into second place with a 3-1 ledger.

In other games Saturday night, pre-season favorite Southern Methodist finally played with the consistency Coach Bob Prewitt has been asking to down Baylor 79-74 and Arkansas took a big win on the road 86-74 over Texas Christian.

Arkansas, A&M, and Baylor are tied for third place with 2-2 records while TCU and SMU join Rice in the cellar at 1-3.

Besides the Tech-Rice joust Tuesday night, other games include Arkansas at Baylor, SMU at TCU and Texas A&M and Texas. The TV Game of the Week has A&M at Baylor Saturday afternoon.

Texas Coach Leon Black wasn't counting his charges out of the race despite Saturday's heart-breaking loss.

"The same thing has happened all year," Black said. "We've gotten back in a ball game and then haven't been able to put it away. It's a tough defeat but we've got a lot of games remaining."

Texas' Larry Robinson turned in a career high of 38 points.

Asked if it was his best game, Robinson said "We lost so I don't think I could say that."

Although Ira Terrell only scored 14 points, there were signs SMU may be rounding into the form some experts expected of the Mustangs before the season began.

Zack Thiel, who scored 19 points, said "We played aggressively ... but when you're 0-3 you have to play aggressively ... there's still a little pride left on this team."

ALI, FRAZIER BOTH PREDICT VICTORY

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — "It'll be no contest. I'm going to do what I shoulda have done last time," a cocky, bombastic Muhammad Ali, the 8-5 favorite, predicted as he prepared for tonight's do-or-die 12-round rematch with Joe Frazier.

A sullen and introspective Frazier, declining any prefight interviews, couldn't hold back a growl as he left the ring after Sunday's formal weigh-in.

"I'll shut his trap for good," he whispered huskily into the ear of a friend.

The fight at 10:30 p.m. EDT at Madison Square Garden is a sequel to the celebrated Fight of The Century on March 8, 1971, matching then two champions who had never lost a bout, and it will be almost as rich.

The Garden is a $1 million sellout, with its 20,400 seats priced at between $20 and $100. The soul people, resplendent in minks and glistening jewelry, have moved in for the occasion.

Bob Arum, Ali's lawyer and head of Top Rank, Inc., predicts that a billion people throughout the world will see the fight on closed television, live and delayed.

Arum said the fight could gross $18 million, with $9 million to be distributed among the two principals and Top Rank. Ali and Frazier, fighting under an $850,000 guarantee, thus could collect $3 million each.

They received $2.5 million for the first fight, won by Frazier on a decision. Ali, who had been idle for more than three years was overweight at 215 pounds, slow and out of shape.

Nevertheless, he put up a strong fight, punishing the then recognized heavyweight champion so badly that Frazier required hospitalization. Ali had a blood vessel ruptured in his jaw.

Ali weighed in Sunday at 212 pounds, only 1½ pounds heavier than when he wrested the world heavyweight crown from Sonny Liston Feb. 25, 1964 in Miami Beach, Fla.

Frazier weighed 209 compared with 205½ the night he beat Ali at the Garden.

Because of the scuffle earlier in the week at television studio after Ali had called Frazier ignorant, the two fighters weighed in separately, and Commissioner Ed Dooley of the State Athletic Commission was just as happy about it.

Earlier he had fined the two fighters $5,000 each for conduct detrimental to boxing.

Frazier made the first appearance, striding through a corridor of people to take his place on the battered old scales on which Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Joe Louis and others have gone through the ritual over the years.

Ali strode in with his usual retinue and fanfare. Smiling and waving, he weighed and then began his non-stop spiel.

"Frazier didn't want to face me at the weigh-in because he is nervous," Ali shouted. "He is frightened.

Ali, 32, and Frazier, 30, probably will be fighting for their ring lives. The loser is almost certain to bow out. The winner may go on to get a multimillion-dollar shot at the winner of the George Foreman-Ken Norton title fight in Caracas, Venezuela on March 26.

Yarborough Wins 500

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Cale Yarborough used one of his favorite lines to describe his pleasure Saturday after winning the rain-delayed, $103,000 Winston Western 500 mile stock race.

"I'm as happy as a cat on a warm brick," the stocky blond chortled. "We are going for the championship this year, running all the races on the circuit, and winning the first one gives every member of the team confidence that we can do it."

Yarborough, who is a Republican county commissioner in South Carolina — he still says he "rode to office on Mr. Nixon's coattails" and not because of his popularity as a driver — drove his Chevrolet home just under four seconds ahead of all-time star Richard Petty.

Petty, a $1 million career winner, started the final 50 miles trailing Yarborough by about 20 seconds. But the second-generation Dodge driver found some extra steam and made a race of it to the wire.

Third place went to David Pearson.

Nichols Is San Diego Champion

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "As you get older," Bobby Nichols said, "The wins feel even better than before. But they come harder; a lot, lot harder."

The big guy, 37-year-old former national PGA champion and now the club pro at Akron's Firestone Country Club, escaped with a victory he didn't expect Sunday when gritty little Rod Curl missed a 10-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole of the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm surprised to win," Nichols said. "I really didn't expect to. I figured he'd make that putt. I was never really confident about it."

Nichols, however, put together a three-under-par 69 for a 275 total and the 11th victory of his career. He collected $34,000 from the total purse of $170,000 and admitted the victory may prompt him to play a slightly heavier schedule.

Curl, a 5-foot-5 Indian, who was seeking his first victory in six years on the tour, had a 70 in the bright warm sunshine and tied for second with veteran Gene Littler at 276, 12 under par on the 7,047 yard south course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club. Littler blazed into contention with a final round 66.

Tom Watson and Miller Barber were next at 278, Watson with a closing 70, Barber with a 69. Rookie sensation Ben Crenshaw had a 71 and was alone at 279.

Nichols' victory, of course, was the first of the year by anyone other than Johnny Miller and interrupted — at least briefly — the domination of the tour by the young players.

It was the first time this season that anyone older than 26 had finished either first or second. Miller, who made an unprecedented sweep of the first three titles of the year, did not play in this one.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Final scores and money-winnings Sunday in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament on the 7,047 yard, par 72 South Course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club (a-denotes amateur):

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Charles Pagnini of Whitman Mass., who played three varsity seasons with the Northeastern University football team, will receive the 25th annual "Unsung Hero Award" tonight at the Boston Tobacco Table's Silver Anniversary dinner.

Westerners Host Clarendon Today

Fighting to remain alive in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference basketball race, the Western Texas College Westerners will host Clarendon Junior College at 7:30 p.m. today in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The Westerners will be out for revenge since they lost an earlier contest, 83-76, in Clarendon.

"They have good size and good strength," said Coach Mike Mitchell of the Westerners. He pointed out Clarendon's Joe Pride, a 6-5 sophomore from Philadelphia, Pa., led the nation in rebounding last season as a freshman. He currently is the leading rebounder in the region.

Other starters for Clarendon probably will be Evander Ford, 5-9 sophomore from New York City, and David Graham, 6-3 freshman from Ft. Lawson, Okla., at guard; Junior Siegeler, 6-10 sophomore from Vernon, at center; and, Herman Brown, 6-4 sophomore from New York City, at the other forward position.

Coach Mitchell said he would start Ken Fowler, 6-2 freshman from Austin, and Danny McDaniel, 6-2 sophomore from Little Rock, Ark., at guard; Norman Barnes, 6-8 freshman from Richmond, Va., at post; with Harold Ward, 6-6 sophomore from Passaic, N.J., and Eugene Harris, 6-7 freshman from Hattiesburg, Miss., at forward.

Other Westerners ready for action are Jerry Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder; Brian Minor, 6-5 freshman forward from Richmond, Va.; Kent Horsley, 6-8 sophomore center from Snyder; Greg Hill, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Midland, Pa.; Gary Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder; Luis Blanco, 5-11 sophomore guard from Fort Stockton; Kevin Jones, 6-5 freshman forward from Snyder; and, Eric Grant, 5-10 sophomore guard from Hondo.

WTC is 13-6 for the season and 4-4 in conference play while Clarendon is 9-8 for the campaign and 3-3 in conference action.

Bulls Beat Detroit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Pistons were battered and beaten Sunday — but unbowed.

In a National Basketball Association game marred by 65 foul calls, five technicals and the ejection of Detroit Coach Ray Scott after a confrontation with referee Bob Rakel, the Pistons were beaten by the Chicago Bulls 109-91.

"Nothing will ever change in Chicago for us," declared Scott, whose team was playing its third game of the weekend. The Pistons beat Houston Friday night and Seattle Saturday night.

"The situation always has been lousy, and I will be the most surprised person in the world if something will happen," Scott said. "Our team comes here real loose and then it gets the book thrown at it for trying to play the game."

The Bulls, leading 85-81 early in the fourth quarter, outscored Detroit 16-4 in the next six minutes to break the game open. The loss left Detroit 1½ games behind Chicago in their battle for second place in the Midwest Division.

Scott was tagged with two technicals and ejected in the second quarter following a violent confrontation in which he tried to attack referee Rakel. Coach Dick Motta of the Bulls was assessed one technical, as were players Norm Van Lier of the Bulls and Bob Lanier of the Pistons.

Forward Bob Love led the Bulls with 21 points, followed by Jerry Sloan and Howard Porter with 20 each. Bob Lanier topped Detroit with 20.

Tigers To Visit Hereford

The Snyder Tigers face possible elimination from the first half championship of District 4-AAAA when they take on the Herford Whitefaces at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hereford. The program begins at 4 p.m. with the sophomore teams of both schools meeting, followed by a 5:45 p.m. clash between the junior varsity squads.

Coach Bob Moore of the Tigers points out Herford has an outstanding record. The Whitefaces are 17-7 for the season and 2-1 in district play. Their only loss was to Plainview by a 51-48 score. By comparison, Plainview beat Snyder 51-49 in double overtime.

"Everybody on our team is healthy, and we had a good workout Saturday," Coach Moore said. He stated the Tigers again will use the triple post attack. Thus probable starters will be Roy Lee Carter, 6-2 junior, Welton Cobb, 6-0 junior, and Larry Johns, 6-2 junior, will be at post with Tim Jones, 5-8 senior, and Chester Cobb, 5-11 sophomore, at guard.

Other Tigers eager for action are Willie Tippens, 5-8 junior; Greg Gary, 6-4 junior; Sid Perry, 5-11 junior; Greg Gafford, 5-11 junior; Randy Gressett, 6-2 sophomore; Robert Alderete, 5-9 junior; Eric Schrader, 6-2 junior; and, Danny Brumley, 5-10 junior.

Snyder is 8-14 for the season and 1-2 in district play.
