WORLD FAMOUS MAGICIAN IN PERRYTON FRIDAY EVENING UNDER AUSPICES OF THE SCHOOL

Mel-Roy The Great, world famous magician now on his eighth annual tour, will appear at the school auditorium on Friday evening, October 25, at eight o'clock, under the auspices of the school, the proceeds going into the general activity fund. Tickets for this attraction are now on sale by the football boys. By buying your ticket from one of the Rangers, you will not only see a fine, educational entertainment, but you will help the football team along.

The Tribune of Medford, Oregon, dated May 16, says in part, "Magician proves real entertainer. Proving that magicians are as good as ever, even if they are not as numerous. Mel-Roy, world-famous wielder of the magic wand, completely mystifies a large and appreciative audience at the senior high school auditorium last night, and spoke well for a good attendance at his return act this evening."

Witnesses of his act agree that it is crammed full of highly entertaining and mystifying feats. The program is varied with humor and is interspersed with enlightening dialogue, which adds greatly to the enjoyment of the magician's baffling effects.

A complete stage setting and numerous "props" lend to the program an atmosphere that convinces all onlookers that it is the performance of a genuine magician.

Terracing Conserves Moisture And Increases Crop Yield

(By Harley A. Dan'el)
Acting Director of Goodwell Experiment Station

The possibilities of greatly increasing the efficiency of moisture utilization and decreasing the cost of crop production on typical wheat land of the southern high plains has been demonstrated at the Panhandle Agricultural Experiment Station, Goodwell, Oklahoma for the last ten years. The data on these moisture conservation practices has recently been published in Panhandle Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin No. 58.

A study was made on the relation of spacing to terrace efficiency on Richfield silt loam soils with a slope of about 1 per cent. The width of the areas between terraced plots used in this study, was approximately 35, 70 and 140 feet with 3-inch, 6-inch and 12-inch vertical intervals respectively. The closer spaced terraces were considerably more efficient in production. This plot made an average gain of 289.9 pounds of grain per acre, while the plot with the 6-inch vertical interval made 102.3 pounds and the wide spaced terraces made a gain of 99.0 pounds per acre. The percentage increase in grain yield varied from 76.3 to 390.9 per cent on the plots with terraces approximately 35 feet apart.

Although a high terrace was unnecessary where a close spacing of terraces were used, the 3-inch vertical interval, the most efficient spacing would appear impractical. The solution of the problem lies in the use of contour listing between the terraces which will distribute the water more evenly over the land and properly save more moisture.

Figure 1, gives an example of contour furrows in action after a hard dashing rain of about one inch. The rows were listed 3.5 feet and each furrow was an individual terrace to this rain. Although a wheat crop was growing on the experimental plot at the time of this rain 50 per cent of it was estimated as runoff on the unterraced land, but all of the water was retained on the terraced and contoured listed plots. The observations made in this study indicate that contour listing was capable of holding and distributing the majority of surface water, while terraces at a 6-inch to 12-inch vertical interval, depending on the slope of land and type of soil, would be sufficient to provide the necessary safety factor for the larger rains.

During the period from 1926 to 1935 inclusive, the grain yield was multiplied by the annual average price of grain, based on the Kansas City market, the total calculated increase in income was $23.33 per acre or an annual yearly increase of $23.33 per acre.

According to information received from Project No. 27 of the Soil Conservation Service near Dalhart, Texas, the cost of terracing the high plains land was 77 cents per acre, not including labor. The extra cost of cultivating was estimated by officials of the Soil Conservation Service of the same project to vary from 20 to 50 cents per acre per year. Assuming the extra cost of cultivating terraced land to be 50 cents per acre, the total expense of the terraces for the 10 years was only $5.77 per acre. After the total expenditures were deducted from the total calculated increase in income the net income was $17.56 per acre, which no doubt would have paid for the land.

The writer has talked with a large number of the more progressive farmers of the high plains country who have practiced sound farming and all of these men say that they have made money by conserving the moisture. Therefore it would seem logical that every farmer who owes for his land should terrace and contour cultivate his farm as another means of insuring the payments each fall. The farmer who had his land terraced has made an additional saving in plant food for the future generation that would be hard to evaluate, by stopping wind erosion.

The picture given in Figure 2, taken from the wind erosion control plots at Goodwell, Oklahoma during the 1935 growing season, shows very clearly why terraces have increased the yield of crops enough to pay for the land in a short period of time. Picture 1 was taken June 5, and 2 was taken from the same place September 8th. Picture 3 was taken from a different location on the same plot and it shows the effect of moisture conservation on plant growth much better than the picture 2. The plots on the left in these pictures were terraced and that on the right unterraced.

Picture 1 was taken just after a hard dashing rain of about one inch, and it shows the reason for the greater plant growth and the increased yield on the terraced plots. The furrows on unterraced land act as ditches and drain the water from the field while lister furrows on the contour hold the water in place where it falls. A careful study of these pictures show that moisture conservation practices was certainly one of the very important steps in securing a vegetative cover on this land for protection against wind erosion.

The question has often been asked "What will be the condition of the future farm home on the Plains?" In an attempt to answer such a question from available data, the writer would like to suggest the following statements: If the farmer continues to drain all the water that falls, from the field with his nice straight rows, the future home may be a shack, partly covered with dirt, surrounded by badly eroded fields, without plant or animal life. But if the climatic conditions in the future are as they have been in the past, the future home on the plains may be a happy place to live, if the farmer only farms to make a living and saves all the water that falls by sound farming practices. The crops may paint lines of glamorous colors as they are seeded and grow to maturity on the contour. The farm animals and flock may feed and play in full content on the little green meadows between the contour furrows on the hillside as they grow to profitable income. The children may have an opportunity to receive an education and the entire family, no doubt, may have sufficient necessities to make farm life on the plains, a pleasure.

CREDIT FOR SCHOOL IS DUE YOUR MERCHANTS

The "Herald's" "Kitchen Chautauqua," opening tomorrow for a three day session at the American Theatre, is made possible through the cooperation of the Perryton merchants with this newspaper. We feel sure that the women of Perryton, Spearman, Booker and surrounding communities will derive much benefit from the wonderful lectures and demonstrations that Mrs. Beulah Mackey Yates will bring and we request that those attending read carefully the messages of local and national advertisers appearing in the three cooking school editions. These business firms, through their advertising, have made possible this three day event, and if you feel that you have been helped by the school and have enjoyed same, we ask that you personally thank the merchants for their generosity and also show appreciation in a more substantial method by patronizing their store.

American Legion Auxiliary Sponsoring Cake Baking Contest

One of the features of every cooking school is the cake baking contest and the management of the Herald is pleased to announce that this event will be presented this year under the sponsorship of the Pierce Johnson Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary with the Piggly Wiggly store, owned by W. M. and L. C. Boston, cooperating.

The rules for the cake baking contest are very simple. Any citizen of the Oklahoma or Texas Panhandle can enter the contest by registering at the Herald "Kitchen Chautauqua" to be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the American Theatre in Perryton. Entrants may enter any kind of a cake they desire, the only requirement being that the flour used in baking the cake must be "Golden Sheaf," which is on sale at the Piggly Wiggly in sacks as small as six pounds. All cakes entered, whether they win prizes or not, become the property of the Auxiliary, who will sell same, the proceeds going into their Child Welfare fund. The cakes will be judged by Mrs. Beulah Mackey Yates at the closing session of the school on Wednesday afternoon. Cakes must be entered by 9:00 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Prizes as follows for the first three cakes will be given by the Piggly Wiggly store:

1st. Place: 48 lb. sack Golden Sheaf flour, 1 lb. can Schillings coffee, and 1 qt. King Parrot Salad Dressing; 2nd. Place: 24 lb. sack Golden Sheaf flour, 1 lb. can of Schillings coffee, and 1 qt. King Parrot Salad Dressing; 3rd. Place: 24 lb. sack Golden Sheaf flour, 1 lb. can Schillings coffee, and 1 pt. King Parrot Sandwich Spread.

"Making Kitchen Work A Pleasure"

By

BEULAH MACKEY YATES

Today's housewife expects her cooking utensils to be in keeping with her up-to-date kitchen. They must enhance the beauty of her workshop. They must be efficient—and above all, they must be convenience to use. And appearance, convenience and efficiency all are available in the cooking utensils of today.

Today's cook likes her recipes where she can find them quickly and use them easily. She likes to make her own book of favorites, clipped from this and that. She has the choice of a loose leaf book, or a box file of cards, with her recipes alphabetically arranged.

The automatic time and temperature controls on today's ranges, render most important service to the cook. With a dependable temperature control she can put her food in the oven and forget about it until time to take it out. With the added convenience of the time control, cooking can go on even in her absence. Dinner put in the oven at noon, can be cooked when she wishes and can be ready to serve when she returns. An added feature in temperature regulation is provided in one range. For instance, it gives a high searing temperature for meats for a certain time, then automatically gives lower temperature for the rest of the time of the cooking period.

There is a combination aluminum pot roaster and stewer that will please the most exacting cook. Utensils that serve more than one purpose are one of the latest conveniences. This one does an admirable job in any one of its several roles. Several vegetables can be cooked together in the steamer insert without their flavors mixing. No drippings from the cover fall back on the food. The lower section—the kettle itself—is excellent for all kettle needs—is for pot roasts, stews, large quantities of vegetables or whatever you wish. Its cover fits closely and is heavy enough not to dance up and down when the food is cooking.

One line of glass cooking utensils has appeared with a decorative note in the permanent frosted design—which emphasizes that these dishes are something more than cooking utensils. Always used for serving dishes as well as for cooking, they fit that role better than ever. They keep food hot a long time after it comes out of the oven, and washing only one dish for both cooking and serving has its obvious advantages. These dishes also have the two-in-one idea, which the pie plates forming the cover for casseroles—a most practical scheme. These covered dishes may also be used for storing cake after it is baked in them with excellent results. After several days' storage the cake is almost as fresh as if just baked.

New coffee makers are always of interest, especially the new glass ones. You put water in the lower section and coffee in the top, then set the coffee-maker on the electric unit which comes with it, or, if you prefer, set it over a gas flame. Coffee from these coffee-makers never reaches the boiling point and has an excellent fresh flavor.

Sell through the want ads.

Preventable Diseases

Dr. John W. Brown Says Smallpox and Diphtheria are Preventable Diseases

Austin, Texas, October 16—"Quarantine and isolation have long been practiced to limit the spread of contagion. Theoretically, these measures should no longer be necessary for diphtheria and smallpox, two diseases which are absolutely preventable," said Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. Practically, however, we still have smallpox with us and cases as well as deaths due to diphtheria, occur only too often. Control and preventive measures are now practiced against scarlet fever, measles, and whooping cough. Nevertheless, until such measures find more universal application, isolation and quarantine must continue to be emphasized. These are, in a true sense, essential aids in the control of disease.

The attitude of people toward observance of health regulations varies as greatly as does human nature itself. Most families, realizing the necessity for restrictive measures, cooperate readily. This attitude is exemplified by the mother who learned that her little girl had measles. She waited a while and then telephoned to the health office to ask that her home be placarded. Mothers in increasing numbers are asserting this sort of health consciousness.

There is, of course, the opposite attitude, that of evasion. Failure to report the presence of suspected communicable disease in the home is unfortunate. A chief purpose of isolation is to allow for the infected person to rid himself of the disease germ. In the case of scarlet fever, this period covers a number of weeks. If proper isolation is not observed and a child is allowed to return to school while still infectious, the danger to other susceptible children is obvious. To counteract such danger requires constant vigilance on the part of teachers, nurse, and physician or health officer.

BURLESQUE STAR GIVEN SINGING ROLE IN FILM

The insistence of Joe E. Brown upon the utmost realism in his new First National comedy "Bright Lights," showing Sunday and Monday at the Ellis Theatre, gave Esther Burke, Los Angeles "Follies" soubrette her first chance in pictures.

Brown's title role was that of a burlesque hooper.

"Instead of getting screen people," said Brown, "let's get some regular working troupers out of the burlesque showhouse in Los Angeles."

Director Busby Berkeley agreed. The girls of the show were not only cast en masse, but Miss Burke, their leading lady, was chosen as soloist after a voice test.

Ann Dvorak and Patricia Ellis singing the principal songs of "Bright Lights," though the star Joe E. Brown, sings several comic numbers.

"Romance Of Coffee"

The exact time and circumstances marking the first use of coffee as a beverage are shrouded in mystery and legend. In fact, there are many legends about the early drinking of coffee, but perhaps the one most generally accepted runs something like this:

"A venerable doctor-priest named Omar in the city of Mocha, in Arabia, committed some indiscretions involving a lady, and for his offense the authorities banished Omar to the hills in the interior. Food was scarce and the doctor nearly starved. He once saw some wild goats eating the dried berries that had fallen from a certain kind of bush, and soon after they became frisky and gambled about like young kids.

"Omar gathered up some of the dry berries and stewed them in a pot, drinking the decoction, and immediately the pangs of hunger subsided and he felt revived.

"Thereafter, he subsisted largely on the brew from the coffee berries, until a party of his friends, searching the hills for him, found him. He gave them some of the brew and they liked it. They carried a quantity of the berries back to Mocha where they created a sensation. The rulers of the city sent out and brought Omar home under a full pardon, and when he died, it is said he was canonized as a saint.

The gathering of the coffee berries and the drinking of the brew went on apace in the city of Mocha and spread throughout the Mohammedan areas.

Eventually some one, possibly Helen of Troy, carried the brew to Rome; but the early Christian Church opposed its use. The drinking of coffee was condemned and it was denominated a "devil's drink."

However, Pope Clementine, hearing of the beverage, decided to investigate for himself. He had some coffee served to him. He was delighted with it and is said to have exclaimed, "Isn't it a pity the Devil should have a monopoly on anything so good. We'll baptize it and make it a truly Christian drink." And he did.

The consumption of coffee then spread through Austria, Germany, to England and to the Scandinavian countries. Many interesting incidents are connected with this new habit. A king's ransom was once paid in coffee. A treaty of peace was once made between Austria and one of its enemies on the basis that the victors would take coffee in payment of all indemnities.

The Coffee House as a meeting place became a feature of the artistic and literary life of London. It was in a London Coffee House that The Spectator was born and Addison, Steele, Samuel Johnson and others of their group met and discussed many matters.

In the United States Coffee Houses flourished in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Some became world famous. It was in these Coffee Houses in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, that the leaders of the early colonies gathered for discussions. And it was in these meeting places, over their cups of coffee, that the most important state papers of the Colonies and the United States, such as the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, and the preliminary draft of the Constitution were written.

In 1632, a Captain Matthew DeCieu of France, on his way to a post of duty in the Island of Martinique, carried a coffee plant from the Royal Gardens in Paris. The ship was becalmed and DeCieu shared his small daily ration of water with his precious coffee plant, keeping it alive and planting it on his arrival at Martinique. From this plant came the start of the now famous plantations in Mexico, Central America and Brazil.

The growth of the coffee industry in the Western Hemisphere has been enormous. Nations to the south of us, gather much of the revenue to maintain their governments from that industry.

The people of the United States constitute the best and largest market for the coffee growers of those Southern neighbors, and coffee is destined to be the bond that will bind the peoples of the Western World together in firm friendship.

The Duncan Coffee Company of Houston is a good customer of many of the leading shippers and coffee merchants in South America, Central America and Mexico, and their popular brands, Admiration and Bright & Early Coffees, are made up of the finest coffees grown on carefully selected plantations in those countries. Coffee is America's favorite beverage—and Admiration and Bright & Early are Texas' favorite coffees.

Appreciating the greater food value in fresh coffee and the frequent ill effects of stale coffee, the makers of Admiration Coffee have developed a fast motor truck deliv-

"The Magic Of Well-Prepared Foods"

By

There is a magic something about food—a quality that, conceived in the imagination of the cook, is in subtle and devious ways expressed until food itself catches the power to awaken delight in those who look and partake. To sit down to a dinner bereft of it is indeed a sad proceeding. Unnecessary, too, for cultivating the thousand and one tricks that make food tempting is the smart housewife's delight, her play to the gallery, so to speak.

Making some meat and fish—everyday ordinary varieties—appealing and appetizing is what I call, "putting on the parsley." For parsley is the most widely used garnish there is. However, a sprig of parsley for every drab dish is not the whole story. Food must be brought to its delicious point of discrimination and ingenuity. Nor will parsley, curly, fresh and green though it may be, ever make up for an ill-cooked roast, or still be a festive touch if used too often.

Just consider two effects a dinner of this fare can give—pot roast, potatoes, carrots and bread and butter. Picture it first with no interest taken in it except as sustenance and you will find it rather dreary.

But if you sear the pot roast to a dark brown with slices of onion, and a fraction of a clove of garlic in the pan, then boil it slowly for hours in a small amount of water to which the juice of canned tomato is added to flavor, it will take on an entirely different aspect. Just try it sometime. Then serve it on your very best platter, (if it is silver, all the better) and pour part of the rich gravy around it. Top the meat with parsley and serve the extra sauce separately.

There is nothing quite so good with a pot roast as a baked potato, done to a turn, popped open and sprinkled with paprika and a bit of butter. The carrots, if cut in lattice shape with the wiggly cutter that does it so quickly, or in slender strips, are pleasantly dressy. A compote of watermelon pickle, a dish of celery curls and ripe olives, and bread sticks and butter balls bring to the dinner table an air of festivity.

No good cook will allow expensive cuts of meat to come to the table in mediocre fashion. A crack-

SET PACE FARM MORTGAGE FIELD

COOPERATIVE AMONG FARMERS SET PACE IN THE FARM MORTGAGE SYSTEM

French Lick, Ind., Oct. 3.—The 600,000 farmers who own stock in the Federal land banks through their national farm loan associations in excess of $100,000,000 have built a permanent cooperative first farm mortgage system which is an important factor in the farm lending field and as such will continue to have a wholesome effect on interest rates and terms of farm mortgages. This statement was made here today by W. I. Myers, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, at the annual meeting of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

Governor Myers cited the fact that interest rates on farm mortgages averaged around 8 per cent 19 years ago when the banks were chartered and that these permanent cooperative institutions since then have made loans at 5 to 6 per cent on a nation-wide basis. Following the establishment of the Farm Credit Administration, he said, rates have been pushed down to the all-time low in this field—4 per cent.

The Governor stressed the fact that these banks are not government banks, that prior to the emergency the farmers owned practically 100 per cent of the stock and that they now own nearly half, and the way is open for them again to own them completely.

"Because these banks have been temporarily called upon to handle emergency refinancing loans from government appropriated funds there may be some justification for the misbelief that they are not cooperative and belong to the government," the Governor concluded. "People forget that the Federal land banks were established as farmers' cooperative credit institutions. They have a 19-year record of making sound first mortgage farm loans, having built up a two-billion dollar business on that basis and are continuing to make loans on a cooperative basis without any essential change.

ling brown is the fundamental decoration for roasts, steaks and chops. This crispy brown may be enhanced, but not made up for, by parsley. For the sake of variety on different occasions use water cress, mushrooms, triangles of toast or strips of pepper.

As important as making the most of the meat dishes are the touches the clever chef has for the fish. Wedged-shape pieces of lemon and parsley are the necessities if you wish to astonish and please your guests with a bit of broiled fish. Hard-boiled eggs and paprika give zest to the cream sauce served with the kinds of fish that are broiled, such as cod, salmon, haddock and red snapper.

A cream fish becomes more unusual when served in French scalloped shells topped with buttered bread crumbs.

THOUGHTS FOR SERIOUS MOMENTS

Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead. Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving, cheering words while their ears can hear them and while their hearts can be thrilled.—Henry Ward Beecher.

You may depend upon it that there are as good hearts to serve men in palaces as in cottages.—Robert Owen.

To judge human nature rightly, a man may sometimes have a very small experience, provided he has a very large heart.—Bulwer Lytton.

"These banks have given farmers better terms than they could secure elsewhere not only as to interest rates but also the long terms for which the loans run and the provision for systematic, orderly repayment in small installments. Compared with interest rates previously paid, farmers with Federal land bank and Land Bank Commissioner loans will save over $55,000,000 this year on interest alone.

"The total loans by the Federal land banks," he said, "now exceed $2,000,000,000. One out of every four mortgaged farmers has a cooperative loan, for the number of Federal land bank loans now exceeds 600,000.

"Building along much the same lines as the cooperative Federal land banks, 560 production credit associations have been organized and have been furnishing short-term production credit during the last two years, now having loans outstanding amounting to $110,000,000. Similarly, credit has been available to farmers' cooperative buying and selling organizations, through the establishment of 13 banks for cooperatives. These banks have served the credit needs of over 1,000 local cooperative marketing and purchasing organizations which is 5 times the number served at any one time by the old Federal Farm Board.

"In brief," Governor Myers said, "The Farm Credit Administration is a cooperative credit system through which farmers reach the investment market and obtain funds for long-term credit, short term credit and credit for cooperative marketing and purchasing organizations. These loans are made on terms fitted to farmers' needs and at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound business practice."

Open Season on Colds

State Health Office Says Go To Bed When First Symptoms Of Cold Develop

Austin, Texas, Oct. 16.—"The 'open season' for the so-called common cold has again arrived. Victims of this general complaint will constantly increase during the winter months, large numbers of persons will become temporarily incapacitated, many will become dangerously ill, while yet others will succumb to complications," stated Dr. John F. Brown, State Health Officer.

In spite of the wonderful strides in disease prevention made in the last few decades, the problem of the common cold yet remains to be solved. If the situation lent itself to mass control, there possibly would be no problem. Unfortunately, however, the matter cannot be handled in that way. The solution in view of the present-day limitations, rests somewhat upon the intelligent cooperation of the individual. So far, this has proved to be an insurmountable barrier. The trouble arises because the victim fails to appreciate the possibility of 'only a cold.' In fact, with the days work to be done, it is difficult to be self-persuaded that one should remain at home, and possibly in bed, if overtaken by such an infection. Feeling quite able to move around, it is hard to realize that rest and care represent the best treatment not only for the cold itself but as a preventative of more dangerous supplemental conditions.

The average person argues that home and bed are all right when one is too sick to be any place else. However, the scientific facts prove that most of the calamities now charged to common cold could be avoided if one would at least stay at home when this infection appears and remain there until it is cured. In fact, on a business basis, it is the economical and wise procedure. For 'only a cold' may develop into a very real illness; therefore, every precaution should be taken to minimize the spread of this infection.

Miss Margaret Rupprecht and her room mate at Texas Tech, Miss Ernestine Herring, Lubbock, came Friday evening to spend the week-end visiting in Margaret's home.

"Saving Time By Serving Ready Prepared Vegetables"

By BEULAH MACKEY YATES

I have often been asked: "Why do some perfectly intelligent, modern-minded women still hesitate to give their families ready prepared vegetables?"

The answer is: "They did, yet perhaps they don't." But for years their hesitation was quite noticeable. They served prepared breads and rolls as a matter of course. They bought ready prepared soups, pickles, jellies, and jams, even cakes and pies and cookies. Yet they spent hours in their kitchens scraping, peeling and washing vegetables!

If you are one of the few women left who do this, let me whisper in your ear: The reason you do so is because you do not yet know enough about canned foods to put your complete trust in their wholesomeness.

Here and now, then, I am going to tell you a few pertinent facts about canned vegetables—the inside story as it were.

The modern canned vegetable supplies all the nutritive value, all the minerals—calcium, iron, phosphorus—and the highly prized vitamins that you get when you buy the raw vegetable in the market and cook it yourself in your own kitchen. Practically all good grades of vegetables are now canned right where they grow, so that none of the nutritive value is lost during shipment to the cannery. Within a few hours after the vegetable is picked, every bit of its priceless food value is sealed safely into the can.

All vegetables packed by the canners are expressly grown for the purpose—grown from selected seed it may surprise you to know.

Many farm vegetables are not satisfactory for canning.

Let me settle another point, too. It is perfectly safe to keep food in an opened can, provided you put it in a refrigerator and give it the same care you would give any cooked food. There is absolutely nothing about the can that is harmful to health.

Letting the can stand open to aerate the vegetables, or rinsing them in cold water before cooking, takes just so much from their flavor and food value. If you do either of these things now, I urge you to stop.

It is perfectly safe to store unopened canned foods on your pantry shelves for any length of time.

provided you keep them in a moderate temperature, away from steam pipes and radiators.

The next time you serve canned peas heat them quickly in their own juice until it is practically cooked away. This same method makes an amazing improvement in the flavor of all canned vegetables.

If you use vegetables cold—say, for salad—chill them well before serving.

Save every precious drop of juice. It makes wonderful sauce and soups and is particularly rich in nutritive value—one of the bargains you dream about.

Wilford Lance, a student of Texas Tech, is home for the week-end.

Mrs. Cloud Mills, Booker, and Miss Allene Hamker, Lipscomb, were Perryton shoppers Saturday.

"Aluminum Ware For Cooking"

By

It seems a long time since huge copper kettles were used to brew rich broths and heavy stews. We favored these heavy vessels because they permitted the contents to cook slowly and thoroughly and the possibility of burning was reduced to a minimum. But oh! what a back-breaking job it was to wash these heavy kettles afterwards.

That is the first reason for the introduction of aluminum in cooking. Even though it is light in weight, it keeps the contents cooking slowly and thoroughly quite as well as the old iron or copper kettles, and is easy to handle, easy to keep clean, and it always looks like new.

Frankly, I do not know why it is that food cooked in aluminum never chars, but merely dries up. I only know that such is the case. Good aluminum vessels are quite thick in spite of the fact that they are so light and this of course, furnishes a very good protection to the contents from the actual flame under the pot.

And, from experience I find that acid foods and fruits do not taint when cooked in aluminum vessels or when strained through aluminum collanders. Also, I find, in preserving, that because the heat is spread evenly over the entire utensil instead of concentrated at the bottom, the fruit stays more whole and solid and does not shred up, making a very good looking can of preserves.

Another practical material point in favor of aluminum is its durability. They do not seem to dent or bend readily, and they are kept always bright and shining with a very little effort. Their utter lack of seaminess, nice round edges with no sharp tearing corners on which to cut the hands, and their general appearance and lightness makes them a joy to use.

I do not know if they have realized it, but the designers of aluminumware have constructed aluminum vessels along the best lines of beauty. It has a distinctiveness all its own in the matter of design. I suppose that it is because of the nature in which it is made.

At any rate one finds a great and pleasing variety of design, both in relation to utility and beauty in aluminum. I just can't say it looks like silverware, nor like pewter ware.

not antique brass or copper, for it doesn't. It looks just like aluminum ware! It actually seems to have been the inspiration for distinctive design all its own.

Speaking aesthetically, I am charmed always with the sound—or rather the lack of it—that comes from the handling of aluminum pots and pans. Nothing so grates the nerves as the clatter and bang of pots and pans. But with aluminum ware it is different. Not that it does not have a sound at all, but the sound is so soft that I really appreciate it for that quite as much as for the other properties.

Says Mrs. Yates, Cooking School Instructor

No home can be modern without gas appliances cause gas is definitely a modern fuel... as modern as today's automobile.

End home drudgery by connecting with the gas system. No more ashes, no more fires to build, no heating troubles. Light just one match this time and the fire will last all winter—keeping your home warm—at just the right temperature.

And in the kitchen, the modern housewife is finding gas indispensable. It makes cooking and baking easier and faster—no soot, no dirt, no fuss. Gas is gaining too, because it is so very economical. Automatic hot water heaters are a revelation in the home.

Mrs. Beulah Mackey Yates

Constructor in the Herald's Kitchen Chautauqua

It's worth the few cents a day it costs to have in case of emergency—to say nothing of the convenience to yourself and your friends," Mrs. Yates continues.

Especially on bad, winter days, when you don't want to get out to do your shopping or run errands, a telephone in the home is a great deal.

Out of gas? Car won't start? Phone your garage service station! Need groceries in a hurry? They'll be on their way in a few minutes after you hang up the receiver! Cleaning work, drugs, a doctor—scores of services are available to you with a simple telephone call. It's convenience like this that you are gaining yourself of when you try to do without a telephone.

Find that it doesn't COST—it PAYS to have one in your home. A TELEPHONE INSTALLED TODAY! YOU CAN STILL BE LISTED IN THE NEW DIRECTORY WHICH

BAKING POWDER USE EXPLAINED

MRS. BEULAH MACKEY YATES
ADVISES OBSERVANCE OF SIMPLE RULES
FOR SUCCESS

Because of the increased efficiency of K C and some other baking powders in use today, representing about 80 per cent of the baking powder consumed, they should be used properly to produce best results.

Knowing that baking powder leavens cake it is natural to assume that adding an extra half teaspoon to the amount specified in a recipe will give a cake greater lightness. The fact is that too much baking powder may cause sinking in the center, tough, gummy, coarse dry crumb, or cake that runs over the pan.

For best results it is a good plan to follow two simple rules: First, always use the amount recommended on your baking powder can. With K C one level teaspoonful to a cup of flour is sufficient. This proportion has been worked out as best for that particular type of baking powder. Second, measure carefully—an excess amount of any baking powder does not produce best results. A level teaspoon means that you must level off with a knife.

K C baking powder, which is used by Beulah Mackey Yates in The Herald cooking school, is manufactured by baking powder specialists who make nothing but baking powder—under supervision of chemists of national reputation. The quality is always uniform—K C is dependable.

Used according to directions it will produce the finest of baked goods. K. C. is one of the most economical and efficient products entering the kitchen. You will be convinced of this by giving it a trial and observing the results obtained.

The manufacturers will mail, postage paid, a copy of the K C Cook's Book if you will send them your name and address with a slip taken from a can of K C baking powder. Send your request to Jacques Mfg. Co., Chicago, Ill.

WPA EMPLOYEES HAVE TO WORK

AN HONEST DAY'S WORK FOR A DAY'S PAY WILL BE REQUIRED OF ALL
WPA WORKERS

San Antonio, Oct. 16.—Reiterating that a dollar's value must be received for every dollar spent by Works Progress Administration in Texas, Administrator H. P. Drought this week instructed engineering officials to plan greatest possible efficiency in the works division.

"We have no fear of running out of man-power on these projects," Drought explained. "When Texas' list of employables has been exhausted, our job will have been completed."

Federal authorities have attempted to secure final approval of approximately twice as many projects as can be financed out of available funds," Drought declared. "This has been deliberately done to afford a maximum of latitude in operating the program by insuring instantly approved projects of every character. It is obvious, therefore, that we cannot prosecute every project. We are expected to utilize these projects to meet the need for employment that exists in each locality, choosing from among the approved projects those which require the number and particular classes of workers that are available from the relief rolls."

Drought asserted that fairness to the sponsors who, in many instances, are contributing materially toward the completion of projects demands that work be done thoroughly and conscientiously.

"We must never lose sight of the fact that our major purpose is the rehabilitation of human beings," Drought declared. "It is only through demanding an honest day's work for a day's pay that we can remove the specter of the dole from the lives of persons who are subsisting on WPA wages."

By seeking approval of more projects than necessary to absorb all employables from Texas relief rolls as of May, 1935, state WPA officials hope to be able to choose only work of permanent worthwhile nature in the program which has already taken several thousand persons off the dole.

She covers every phase of the home and personal well-being. Her training and association with civic organizations in various parts of the country, give her complete command of subjects relating to the providing and preparation of foods and the management of the home.

The "Kitchen Chautauqua" Cooking School will be held three days on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The public is cordially invited to attend any and all sessions. There is no charge for admittance, and no obligation at any time.

ELECTION SAT.

must be assured that a sufficient number of farmers will participate to make a program operative and successful.

Facts upon which farmers can base their judgment have been presented at a series of community meetings. Evidence was presented to show that livestock numbers are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring the greatest increase in hog production that the country has ever seen in a similar period and consequent disastrous hog prices.

During the past 45 years there have been ten such violent ups and downs, or cycles, which have undermined the swine industry, brought violent upswings and downswings in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power and wiped out markets for industrial products.

"The referendum, which is to be held on October 26, is intended to provide an opportunity for full and free expression, both for and against a voluntary adjustment program, on the part of all corn and hog producers," E. M. Regenbrecht, chairman of the State Corn-Hog Review Board at College Station, said upon discussing plans for the referendum in Texas.

"It rests with Texas farmers themselves whether or not there is enough interest and demand for a corn-hog adjustment program to justify the AAA offering such a program," he pointed out.

He also pointed out that an adjustment program might be urgent in view of corn and hog prices and the outlook for future production, and yet if enough farmers do not vote in favor of such a program, the AAA Administration will not be justified in offering a new program.

"Voting in the referendum will in no way bind producers to accept or sign a contract, as the contract itself, should the producers vote for one, will be entirely voluntary as was the last one," he said.

NEW PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY HAS MANY YEARS EXPERIENCE IN WORK

Vigorous support of the American Legion in all its activities with special emphasis on civic and patriotic service will be the program of the American Legion Auxiliary during the coming year under its new leader, Mrs. Melville Muckelstone, of Chicago.

Mrs. Muckelstone, who was elected National President at the national convention in St. Louis last month, has assumed her duties actively and is giving leadership to the work of the Auxiliary's 400,000 members. Her first undertaking was the organization of national committees to direct different major activities.

Mrs. Muckelstone has brought to the national presidency unusual talents for leadership developed through ten years of service in the Auxiliary. At the time of her election she was completing three years as chairman and vice-chairman of the national legislative committee during which she did highly effective work to place the strength of the Auxiliary behind the Legion's legislative program.

As President of the Department of Illinois in 1933, Mrs. Muckelstone had experience as the head of a large Auxiliary organization and served as official hostess to the national convention, held in Chicago that year. She represented Illinois on the national executive committee in 1934.

Beginning her Auxiliary work in the ranks of her local unit, Mrs. Muckelstone rose to the unit presidency, then to the presidency of the Cook County Council, composed of 110 Auxiliary Units. Election to the second vice-presidency of the Illinois Department and appointment as chairman of the Department national defense committee followed. Her achievements brought a national appointment as Americanism chairman for the central states and advanced her through the first vice-presidency to Department President.

Mrs. Muckelstone is a speaker of winning power and has been in constant demand for addresses before clubs and public gatherings, as well as Legion and Auxiliary groups. Thorough college and business training gave her the background for her success in organization work. She was secretary to the agricultural department of the International Company for one year assistant manager of the National

The New Ford V-8 For 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is New about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the Newest Engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised features "with the car thrown in"—but, after all, it is the Engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare, horns are concealed in circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased Beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HEAD OVER POLITICAL SPIEL

Whether it was due to the fatigue of our "make-up" man in the mechanical department of the Herald and the front office man who checked the paper or was just one of those "bone-heads" that happen every so often in newspaper plants just the same as in other businesses we can't say, but through a "mix-up," readers of this week's Herald will find a political "spiel" from Democratic National Committee under the "International Sunday School" heading on our regular church page. We owe an apology to Rev. A. C. Williams, pastor of the Perryton Church of Christ, who edits the Sunday School lesson for us each week. The lesson will be found elsewhere under the regular heading. Due to the great amount of extra work, issuing two extra eight page papers on Sunday and Tuesday, and attending to all the details of the Herald cooking school, the Herald force has been able to find but little time to sleep during the past week, so if this is the only "bonehead" in this week's issue, we will be happy.

MEL-ROY HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

MAGICIAN TO GIVE PROGRAM
AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM
UNDER AUSPICES OF
RANGERS

The magic rabbit is getting ready to make his unexpected appearance at an odd mystery program to be given by Mel-Roy The Great, magician at the school auditorium,
Friday night, starting at 8 o'clock,
under the auspices of the football boys.

It has always been a mystery how a rabbit could appear and disappear in so many different places.
He is likely to tumble out of anyone's hat and just as likely to vanish in some one's whiskers. Mel-Roy's is like that. His antics will give you many minutes of fun and thrills, he will absolutely captivate you with his skill and performance, as he has done many audiences both over the radio and from the stage of most of the leading cities throughout the United States.

Some of the Oriental mysteries on Mel-Roy's program are particularly interesting. He presents the bewildering and seemingly impossible mystery of shooting a steel arrow through an assistant's body.
This is only one among the other effects too numerous to mention.

The entertainment is for the whole family, for everybody, both young and old.

Proceeds will be for the benefit of the football boys.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. J.
Vasey, Carlsbad, N. M., will be happy to learn that a son, John Crockett, put in his appearance at their home on October 17. Mr. and Mrs. Vasey formerly lived in the southwest part of Ochiltree county and have many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Stark and children were business visitors in Banger and Fritch Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carter and son and Ray Grabeel returned home Wednesday from a two weeks visit with relatives in Virginia. Mrs. Grabeel accompanied them, but will make a visit in Detroit, Michigan before returning home.

I. B. Stark, B. B. Lee and Leonard Stark left Sunday for Fritch where they have carpenter work.

Dr. T. J. Wright and son, John pletion of applications.

The dates scheduled for the signand it is imperative that every wheat grower in the county sign by that time as the applications have to be checked and ready to go to the state wheat offices shortly after. All wheat growers in the county, regardless of whether they have had contracts previously or not, can sign the new contract applications. The new contracts are

RAINFALL TOT- ALS .66 INCH

APPROXIMATELY TWO-THIRDS OF AN INCH OF MOISTURE
FALLS DURING PAST
EIGHT DAYS

Rainfall throughout the Panhandle during the past week has ranged from three-quarters to two inches. In Perryton the official precipitation has been .66 of an inch according to the government measure reported by Attorney Jack R.
Allen. This moisture has fallen as follows:

Wednesday, Oct. 16	.18
Thursday, Oct. 17	.20
Friday, Oct. 18	.02
Sunday, Oct. 20	.13
Thursday, Oct. 24	.13
Total	.66

The precipitation on Wednesday and Thursday of last week was much greater in the Spearman, Notla and Booker vicinities than it was in and around Perryton. The Sunday rain was about the same over this county, but did not extend very far into the Oklahoma Panhndle. The above report for Thursday, October 24, was the result of a slow drizzling rain that had fallen during most of the day.

NO SCHOOL ON ARMISTICE OR THANKSGIVING DAYS

Superintendent W. B. Irvin of the Perryton schools has announced that there will be no school on Monday, November 11, Armistice Day. Another holiday during the month of November, will be the two-day period for Thanksgiving observance on November 28-29. For the latter period, school will in reality be dismissed for four days, including the regular Saturday and Sunday vacation, thus giving the teachers and pupils an opportunity to visit at distant points if they so desire.

GUYMON PLAYS HERE OCT. 25

OKLAHOMANS INVADE RANGER FIELD FRIDAY AFTER-NOON AT 3:00
O'CLOCK

One of the strongest grid teams in the Oklahoma Panhndle will invade Ranger Field for the weekly football classic Friday afternoon when the locals meet the husky Guymon squad.

Local business firms will again be closed for the football game this Friday afternoon. The committee in charge of closing requests all those who signed up to please remain closed until after the game is over. Although the original petition stated closing from 3:00 until 4:30, this was intended to mean until after the game. Some firms have not been permitting their employees to go to the games, merely closing their doors and then reopening at the designated hour. The purpose of the petition that was circulated and signed by nearly every local firm was to close and attend the game, reopening after it had finished.

The game is one that is being looked forward to by the local dopers who are anxious to get a line on the coming Spearman contest.
Guymon lost last Friday to the Lynx-men by a score of 6 to 0, but from all accounts outplayed their opponents in every department of the game except the one that counts, scoring, making more first downs and gain-more yardage.

Just how the Burkmen will stack up with the Guymon team may give some indication as to the comparative strength of the two teams that will meet here on Armistice Day.

FOUR POLLING BOXES IN OCH- ILTREE COUNTY

AAA Officials Will Discontinue
Present Program If Farmers
Do Not Vote

Voting Will Be Voluntary

Ochiltree County Farmers Will Vote at Black, Farnsworth
Notla and Huntoon

Four polling places where Ochiltree county farmers can cast their votes in the nation-wide corn-hog referendum on Saturday, October 26, have been set up in the county.
It is announced by J. T. Stovall,

Only one question will be on the

the 1935 program which expires on November 30, 1935? All operators and owners, or their official representatives, of farms which produced corn or hogs in 1935 may vote whether they signed 1934 or 1935 corn-hog contracts or not. Each eligible person is entitled only to one vote.

The schedule of the polling places which will be open from 8:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., together with the corn-hog committee who will be in charge is as follows: Black, W. M.
Deck; Farnsworth, E. W. Rogers; Notla, W. L. Henderson Jr.; and Huntoon, Jacob Schwab.

RANGERS TAKE FOLLETT GAME

WIN BY 32 TO 0 OVER CRIP-PLED PANTHER SQUAD
IN CONFERENCE
SESSION

Coach Otis Burk's Rangers added their most decisive victory of the year last Friday afternoon, trampling over a crippled Follett Panther squad by a 32 to 0 count and scoring their first conference decision.

With Heil, Panther fullback, and two regular guards, Terrel and Sper-out of the game on account of sickness and an unexpected death in the family of one of the players, the Follett aggregation was shifted out of positions to meet the emergency, depending upon light weight players to fill the gaps and leaving only three reserves, Sewell, Davidson and Brannen.

Over this upset squad, the Rangers swept to victory, Jones scoring once in the first, McWilliams in the second, Jones converting on both occasions, Jones again in the third, and McWilliams and Kent in the final period.

Follett opened with a kickoff, with

CHRISTMAS CARD RACKET

The Christmas Card racket is with us again and a number of local organizations are selling cards to friends and others, thus taking business away from local business firms that support the churches, pay city, school and county taxes, give to numerous charities and subscribe to the many appeals for aid for "this and that" that confronts the small town business man.

We say it is not right! We say that any organization that sponsors a Christmas Card sale is not giving the local business firms that carry cards, a square deal. We'll go a little stronger and say that they are giving them a dirty deal. The Herald is probably the largest card dealer in Perryton. We give to every worthy cause that is presented to us. We believe that representatives of this paper do more than their prorate part in civic and community affairs. We always give freely of the columns of our paper to the promotion of all organizations in the county, yet some of those that we give the most publicity to are the first to "knife us in the back" with the peddling of Christmas Cards.

In the first place, Christmas Cards handled in this manner through organizations and private individuals are usually of an inferior grade for no member of the national association of greeting card manufacturers will sell cards to any but a legitimate dealer. Organizations and individuals will reject at once an offer to peddle groceries, oils, hosiery, or what have you, owing to the fact that that would be competitive to their local merchants, yet they will accept without hesitation the opportunity to sell Christmas Cards. Is this right? We say that it is not! Does the mail order card house that sells you the cards ever subscribe to an appeal for funds for your organization? Do they pay taxes? Do they support your churches? Do they publish a newspaper that gladly publishes any information for your organization? Just think these statements over and then decide if you are giving Perryton card dealers a square deal.

THE PRIMARY RECIPE

By Beulah Mackey Yates, Herald Cooking School Director

How to cook husbands. A good many husbands are entirely spoiled by mismanagement in cooking, and so are not tender and good. Some women keep them constantly in hot water. Others freeze them, put them in stew, roast them or keep them in a pickle.

It cannot be supposed that any husband will become good and tender managed in this way, but they are really delicious when properly treated. In the selection of your husband, you should not be guided by the silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel, nor by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon.

Be sure and select him yourself as tastes differ. Do not go to the market for him, as those brought to the door are always best. It is far better to have none than not to learn how to cook him. See that the linen in which he is wrapped is white and nicely mended, with the required number of strings and buttons. Don't keep him in the kettle by force, as he will stay there himself if proper care is taken.

If he splutters, do not be anxious; some husbands do this. Add a little sugar in the form of what some confectioners call "kisses," but do not pepper or vinegar on any account. A little spice improves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not try them with anything sharp to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently while he stays too long in the kettle and become flat and tasteless. If thus treated you will

NO MORE SLAVERY CONSTIPATION

Not a word to say about your favorite laxative or cathartic—that's your business.

All we ask you to do is to get one 40 cent jar of Kruschen Salts and take as much as will lie on a dime in your morning cup of tea or coffee.

The six precious salts in Kruschen help to cause stomach, liver, gall bladder and bowels to function naturally and healthfully—you clear the system of poisonous waste and acid and regular blissful bowel action will gladden your heart.

Before the jar is empty you'll feel fine—keener mind—actively alive—more ambition.

No more laxatives—no more cathartics and no constipation when you take your little daily pinch of Kruschen. At Perryton Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you and he will keep always pleasant.

A PRAYER FOR A WOMAN

By Beulah Mackey Yates, Herald Cooking School Lecturer

God, give each true good woman, Her own small house to keep, No heart should ache with longing, No hurt should go too deep. Grant her age-old desire, A house to love and sweep.

Give her a man beside her, A kind man and a true— And let them work together, And love a lifetime through. And let her mother children As gentle women do.

Give her a shelf for her dishes, And a shining box for bread, A white cloth for her table, And a white spread for her bed. A shaded lamp at nightfall, And a row of books much read.

And let her work with laughter, And let her rest with sleep, No life can truly offer, A peace more sure and deep. God give each true good woman, Her own small house to keep.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

Mae Huling VS. George S. Huling No. 402 in District Court, Ochiltree County, Texas.

The State of Texas to the Sheriff or any Constable of Ochiltree County—Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED, that by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Ochiltree once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon George S. Huling, whose residence is unknown, who is alleged to be a non-resident of the State of Texas, to be and appear at the next regular term of the District Court of the County of Ochiltree, to be held at the Court House thereof, in the City of Perryton, on the second Monday in November A. D. 1935, the same being the 11th day of November, A. D. 1935, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 7th day of October A. D. 1935, in a suit, numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 402 wherein Mae Huling, is plaintiff, and George S. Huling, is defendant; the nature of plaintiffs demands being substantially, as follows, to-wit:

That she has resided as a bond fide resident in the State of Texas, and County of Ochiltree, for more than one year next preceding the filing of this suit.

That she was married to defendant on or about the 28th day of March, 1935, and lived with defendant as his wife until about the 15th day of April, 1935, at which time they separated.

That defendant represented to her that if she would come to Kansas City and marry him he would marry her and treat her as a wife should be treated but that after she had married him he took her to a small Cafe and informed her she must work out her expense of coming to Kansas City that she was without funds and friends and was forced to work without pay until about two weeks later when defendant disappeared with most of her clothes and what jewelry she had since which time she has not seen or heard of him. That a lady learning of her condition took her and procured her employment to earn money to come home, and informed her of the kind of man she had married, since which time she has remained at home in Perryton, Texas. That by reason of the things heretofore alleged it is impossible for her to live with him as his wife. She prays for judgement dissolving her marriage with defendant and for such other and further relief that she may be entitled to.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you before said Court on the first day of next term thereof this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in the City of Perryton, this 7th day of October, A. D. 1935.

WEIGHED IN THE BALANCES

Verses to Memorize: "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."—Prov. 20:1.

"He that keepeth the law, happy is he."—Prov. 29:18.

Lesson Text:—Daniel 5:17-28.

I. A Baffled and Trembling Court

Belshazzar had taken the vessels of the temple and prostituted their sacred service to gods of lust in a drunken revel. He defied the God who had humbled Nebuchadnezzar, failing to heed the warning of punishment meted out to those who defy Jehovah. Inflated with the vanity and pride of Babylon, drunk with the fiery wine and wantonness of the occasion, the wicked king, with wives, concubines, nobles, courtiers indulged themselves to the full in feasting and making merry while the Medes were being gathered under the walls ready for the attack upon the rioting Belshazzar.

In the midst of the feast a most startling thing happened. On the plaster of the wall a man's hand began to write. The words were strange and terrible. All eyes turned in that direction. The king's knees smote together in great fear. What could this strange handwriting mean? What terrible judgment could be wrapped up in those words that could not be read.

So the king sent for his wise men. Surely those versed in star reading could tell him what the writing said. But to no avail. Fakery could not interpret the writing. Thus it has always been with impostors. As long as hypnotic means can be employed, and trickery resorted to, men can be deceived into thinking that some supernatural thing is being done. A case of autosuggestion for a case of ordinary illness may prove sufficient. But we see no broken limbs healed, new eyes or teeth put in, nor any genuine miracle performed by impostors. We are not told whether these pretenders insisted that the king lacked faith, thus preventing them from reading the message or not. Perhaps they were sufficiently honest to simply admit the task beyond them. But the trembling king has one more choice. A certain man, Daniel by name, is suggested to him as the one who can make known the writing.

II. A Humiliating Review
Daniel did not care for the king's rewards. He was summoned to the court to tell the king the truth, not to flatter him. He began by reviewing the life, prosperity, and humiliation of Belshazzar's father, Nebuchadnezzar. This king had refused to give God the glory for the greatness of his kingdom. Therefore he had been deprived of the right use of his mind. For seven long years he had wandered beneath the stars, feeding and sleeping with the beasts, till finally he was made humble. This ought to have been a lesson to Belshazzar. He ought not to have likewise blundered by vanity and haughtiness. So he must reap his sowing. Vengeance from heaven swoops down upon him that fatal night. The awful letters inscribed upon the wall rang his disgraceful knell.

III. Mene Mene Tekel Uphurs In "Mene." The interpretation of this word was that God numbered the kingdom and brought it to an end. Tekel. "Thou art weighed in the balances and art found wanting." God's balances are true. They never err. Had the king been weighed for wealth, popularity and kindred items, he would have tipped the scales in a grand way. But he is not being measured by the fancy of his own inflated mind. He must face the truth, terrible as it may be. With all his popularity and idolatrous religion, he falls short. He cannot mock God and go unpunished. Heaven came not to warn him, but to reward him. "Peres. Thy kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and the Persians." Belshazzar's folly must cost him his kingdom. Already outside the palace the enemy waited for its prey. That night was Belshazzar's slain.

IV. Some Conclusions
As the king was weighed by the word of God, so shall we be. He was not weighed by his feelings, his opinions, nor imagination. He must face what God said. Though we be not temporal kings, though we might occupy only a humble station in life, yet our words, deeds, actions are a matter of record and stand for us or against us in the end. Let us so live that the balances of heaven will register in

DISPELLING THE FOG

By Charles Michelson
Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee

Ex-President Hoover's bid for the Republican nomination next year is the most interesting political development so far in the campaign. His speech at Oakland last week could hardly have been more informative if he had said: "Big Business is the natural and ordained Government of the United States and I am its prophet."

In that ponderous utterance whenever he pointed out one of the short-comings of the Roosevelt administration—from his own point of view, of course—he coupled with it an indication of how differently he had acted when he was President; how wise and far-seeing he had been. He was not vengeful towards the people who had chucked him out of the Presidency. On the contrary his attitude appeared to be one of forgiveness, with the constant suggestion that he was willing to let bygones be bygones, and to step in and rescue the voters from the fate into which their inconsiderate act had plunged them.

The address was aimed straight at the multi-millionaire interests, of which the Liberty League is the mouthpiece and evangel. Naturally he did not mention the AAA among the errors and crimes of the Roosevelt administration. It is, of course, obvious that there can be no Republican success without something in the farming country to sweeten the Eastern money and influence to which the appeal was obviously directed.

Perhaps it was the farmers' salvation measure to which Mr. Hoover referred when he generously admitted that there might be an isolated object or two in the Roosevelt policies that were not so bad as the rest of them. But he was careful to say that, while there might be a modicum of good intention about such things as regulation of securities, old age pensions and unemployment insurance, the Roosevelt method in regard to these were all wrong.

It will be interesting to watch the Liberty League's reaction to the Hoover candidacy. That organization consists largely of Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, and a little in the background, Mr. John Raskob. They are two of the ablest journeymen in the political machine shop.

Six years ago, at the beginning of Mr. Hoover's term in the White House, Mr. Raskob undertook the rehabilitation of the Democratic party from the prostration consequent on the Hoover landslide. He chose for his field marshal Mr. Shouse. The then President was obviously the best target for their enterprise, and nobody can ever say that they did not do a first class job.

There are many opinions as to the reason for Mr. Raskob's financing of the project. In view of the popular prejudice against admitting that any politician is disinterestedly patriotic, let us assume that the motor magnet's chief incentive was pride. He had made good in every business in which he had engaged and did not relish having that record blemished by a failure as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Well, they put the Democratic party on its feet again; then unhorsed Mr. Hoover. The convention of 1932 did not eventuate according to their hopes and plans, but that is, as Kipling put it so often, "another story."

Incidentally the Democratic National Committee is still paying off, rather painfully, its indebtedness to the former chairman. New Messrs. Raskob and Shouse find themselves in the same boat with the dismounted Hoover; with the same objective, the breaking down of Franklin Roosevelt's popularity. It may appear a strange fellowship, but that is how things go in politics. For example, in the days of the anti-Hoover crusade Mr. Frank Kent was the most savage assailant of the Raskob-Shouse enterprise. Today he is marching along with them, shoulder to shoulder, while Mr. Hoover comes a-wailing.

I wonder if the Hoover courting call has any relation to the recent exhortation by Dr. Simeon Fess, who in the dim past was a Senator and a Republican National Chairman, to the Republican voters to keep themselves free in thought, word and deed from any commitment to any individual candidate or any individual platform plank? They are to send uninstructed delegations, or favorite son delegations, only to the Republican National Convention.

Thus it was in the dear old days of Harry Daugherty and the smoke-filled room out of which issued the actual candidate.

Naturally, Mr. Hoover stresses the same theme in different words. It would surprise nobody if he came out sometime with an "I-do-not-choose-to-run" declaration. That is part of the game, for in no other way can a smokey room nomination be presented as a call from the nation that no patriot can ignore.

Incidentally, Mr. Hoover did some marvelous acrobatics with figures in his Oakland speech.

It must be news to some people that the bank panic started with the nomination of Roosevelt, and that recovery was checked by the same incident. Those of us who attended the Democratic convention of 1932 in Chicago seem to remember that its opening was coincident with the run on the Dawes bank. That was when General Dawes held up President Hoover for a $90,000,000 loan from the RFC with the threat that if it was not forthcoming his banks would be shut next morning, and that the other Chicago banks would of necessity follow suit. The government is still trying to collect that loan.

The statisticians tell me that something like six thousand banks had already folded up as an element of the depression which was nearly three years old before Roosevelt was nominated.

One of the cardinal sins charged against the Roosevelt administration is our going off the gold standard. In the same speech the ex-President speaks with admiration of the progress made by England toward recovery. England beat us off the gold standard by two years, and incidentally defaulted on her four billion dollar debt to us, in her steps in the direction of budget balancing.

That argument is almost as impressive as the Ex-President's tearful concern for our children who will have to pay in huge taxes for the extravagance of the Roosevelt administration's relief program. The present President has indicated that the national income if the existing business trend continues, will automatically balance the budget within a few years, without the imposition of higher tax rates. As between the President who saw prosperity just around every corner, during the greater part of his term, and the one who straightened out the banks and whose wicked system brought business from the red ink into the black, which do you suppose people generally will believe?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Probation After Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 27.

The Golden Text is: "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him"

(James 1:12).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "When Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils" (Mark 16:9).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In his resurrection and ascension, Jesus showed that a mortal man is not the real essence of manhood, and that his unreal material mortality disappears in presence of the reality" (page 292).

Sub-Debs Meet
The Sub-Debs met at the home of Luella McMillen, Tuesday evening, the first meeting of this season. New officers were to be elected, but as all the members were not present election of officers was postponed until a later meeting. The next meeting will be at the home of Bette Bryan.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

We met at club period Friday. We practiced on the play to be given October 14. We sang "Lullaby Blue", an English song. We began to learn our Girl Scout Laws. There are several girls who have passed their Tenderfoot test.

2A NEWS

Dempsey Calhoun and Nona Holdeman have been sick several days. David Dickson and Gene Johnson were absent, Friday. Billie McLarty and Betty Jean Jacobs read stories to the room. Friday, which were very much enjoyed. Billie Geen Youngblood brought a story from home, Wednesday and read it to the room. These children made one hundred in spelling all the first six weeks of school. John Lawrence Brown, Betty Ruth Hardgrove, Burton Harper, Helen Marie Hudson, Betty Jean Jacobs, Billie McLarty, Arlo Sue North, Charles Reed, Mary Lou Rupprecht, Donald Seymour, Yvonne Trolinger and Virginia Williams.

BIOLOGY

We are just about to gain strength and knowledge from our first six weeks test, which we had last Thursday. We have learned that an insect is an animal having three body parts: head, thorax and abdomen. It has two pairs of wings, mouth parts adapted to chewing, three pairs of legs, and an external skeleton of chitin. Ed Schroeder presented Reese Nowlin with a centipede, which was six and one half inches long.

7TH AND 7TH NEWS

This week we are taking our first six weeks examinations. Most everyone is doing well. Bernice Carter spent Thursday night with Dorothy Budock. We had perfect attendance, Monday and Tuesday. Those spending Friday night with Emma Fae Bull were Irene Rowe, Billie Turner and Dorothy Budock.

BAND NEWS

October 16, the band held their election of officers with the following results: Joy Hergert, President; Lee Kent, vice-president; Rex Lawrence, Short Symonds, and Harold Witt Librarians for music; R. C. Johnson Jr., Bob Whippo, and Earl George Sargeant-at-arms. And last but not least Donald Farnsworth reporter.

NEWS 5B

We are making Halowe'en posters. We have a fruit club in our room and at the end of this week we are going to bring some fruit and eat it in school. Audrey Dunn, Polly Ann Holmes, and Billy Robertson made one hundred in six weeks test.

HIGH SCHOOL SPELLING

I was favorably impressed with the way our high school pupils responded to the recently added spelling period.

During the last generation some of the emphasis has been removed from the subject of spelling. The usefulness of spelling, however, has not diminished. We need it every day—whether we are conscious of it or not. It is equally essential to a typist or penman.

When a business letter contains words that are not spelled correctly the effectiveness of the message is decreased, if not wholly lost. Many of our high school students are excellent spellers but there are also many who are not. Good and bad spellers will be helped by this added period for corrective spelling. The list of words used will be made up of words spelled incorrectly in English papers turned in to the English teacher.

It is my wish that we use this period to improve our spelling and our understanding of words.

ROOM 4B

Paul Allen Fletcher was elected as our home president. Etold Jones and Edgar Poer brought pumpkins. Our home room is going to have a Halowe'en party. We are decorating our room.

The Junior Glee club will sing this coming Thursday. Carmeneta Wright—Reporter

INITIATION TO BE WEDNESDAY

HI-Y CLUB STARTING WORK ON ACTIVE PROGRAM; STAGE TICKET CAMPAIGN

The Hi-Y club met Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. Plans were made to sell tickets for the Ellis Theatre to the show, "Wanderer of the Wasteland," which will be the attraction next Saturday. The Hi-Y club gets a percentage of the receipts.

The Dalhart club has arranged to be over here on October 23, and initiate us into the state organization of Hi-Y clubs.

The program was opened by a song led by Dick Nies. Then a prayer was led by Fred Koehn.

The following captains was chosen to lead them in the ticket-selling campaign: Harold Hudson, Bob Whippo, Ray McWilliams, George Prewitt, R. T. Correll and Clyde Jones. The team that sells the most tickets get either one or two tickets to the show. The other teams get nothing.

Mr. Hampton taught us the club purpose which we will repeat as part of the program every night after this. The purpose is: "I promise to the best of my ability, to create, maintain, and extend through the school and community a high standard of Christian character."

The program follows:
Courtesy to my fellow students — R. T. Correll, Jr.
Courtesy to my girl friend — Ray McWilliams.

Courtesy in traffic — Sidney Jines
Courtesy to strangers — Leland Mone.

Courtesy to our parents — Jack Williams.
Courtesy to our neighbor — Bob Whippo.
Courtesy to small children — Guy Turner.
Courtesy to old people — Clyde Jones.

Courtesy in business — George Prewitt.

The next meeting will be next Wednesday night at 7:45 o'clock in the auditorium when the Dalhart club initiates us. Following the initiation will be refreshments served by the home economics girls.

Following the regular program a quartet composed of R. T. Correll, Bob Whippo, Dick Nies and Leland Mone sang several numbers. A second quartet composed of George Prewitt, Jack Williams, Clyde Jones and Earnest Ferguson gave the first a little competition.

BAND NEWS

Forty members of Perryton high band left at noon Tuesday for Spearman to represent Perryton at the Marvin Jones Day program.

They gave a concert in front of the court house; then paraded to the high school where they opened the program by playing a few numbers after which Mr. Jones spoke.

The band went to the football game Friday and played to the winning of Perryton 32 to 0.

The Blues books that W. I. Byron ordered for the band arrived last week, and they have some very pretty pieces in them. Among them are: "Sobbing Blues," and "St. Louis Blues," which we have already learned.

SPECIAL CHAPEL

Thursday, October 17, the orchestra, directed by Mr. Park, played as the school marched into the auditorium for chapel. Mr. Byron led as everyone sang the school pep song. After prayer a short message was given by Reverend Hines.

After the message a short program was given by the Girls Glee club directed by Miss Neufeld. There is a large glee club this year, and the girls make a nice showing in their uniforms. Their selections were, "Garden of Tomorrow," "When Mother Played the Organ," "Japanese Sand Man," and "The Waltz You Saved For Me." Mary Lee Wilson accompanied them on the piano.

HOLD COURT OF HONOR MONDAY

BOY SCOUTS FROM PERRYTON DISTRICT GATHER FOR DISTRICT COURT OF HONOR

The Court of Honor for the troops of Perryton, Pollett and Gray met last week at the school auditorium for the purpose of giving badges and advancements to Boy Scouts installing new scoutmasters and to present troop characters.

R. H. Prewitt presided over the meeting and C. A. Clark from Pampa was here to install the Scoutmen.

J. H. Neufeld and I. R. Buchanan received the charter for troop 54 as representatives of the Lions club, which sponsors that troop. The charter for troop 55, Mr. Clark said, had not arrived yet but it will be here in a few weeks.

Speeches were made by the representatives from Pollett, Gray, Perryton, and the scoutmasters from all places made talks. Mr. Hampton and Mr. Eaton were installed as scoutmasters, the former going in as scoutmaster of troop 55 and Mr. Eaton going as assistant scoutmaster of troop 54. After the speeches, second class badges were presented to Sidney Jines, Charles Ready, and four boys from Gray.

First class badges were presented to Harold Hudson, John Huston, and three boys from Gray. The Scout band was present and favored the audience with several selections. Mr. W. B. Irvin was chairman of the committee that examined the boys that got the badges as to whether they knew and remembered the things that they had to pass to get their badges. All of the boys seemed to know the questions well.

ATTEND F. F. A. MEET

The local chapter of F. F. A. (Future Farmers of America) was represented at the Panhandle district meeting held in Clarendon, October 19. Delegates from local chapter were Garland Daily, Bill Tindle, Embury McCall and John Neilson, chapter advisor.

During the meeting officers were elected from the members of various chapters in the district, to serve for the years of 1935 and 36 in the panhandle district. Objectives were then set up by the F. F. A. boys for the district chapter to work out during the years 1935 and 36. They will hold the next meeting in Pampa, December 14. Schools represented in the meeting were: Clarendon, Miami, Pampa, Quail, Claude, Panhandle, Samnorwood, and Perryton.

The teachers of Vocational Agriculture held a short meeting to make plans for the future work.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

The public speaking class finished its first six weeks examination and is now ready to begin a new phase of work. Soon the class is to begin practicing on one act plays under student direction for the contest at Pampa next spring. The class will be divided into three groups and characters will be selected for the plays from those groups. The work promises to be very interesting and we hope to bring to light much undeveloped talent.

LATIN TWO

In Latin 2 we have been studying about the Roman Wedding. The following scenes describe three important parts of the Roman wedding. The sponsalia and betrothal, correspondents to the modern engagements, except that it was a formal ceremony with the Romans and still is in European countries. The nuptial was the wedding ceremony itself. The deduction was a procession in which the bridegroom conducted the bride to her future home.

ORCHESTRA NEWS

At the orchestra practice Tuesday, October 22, the following officers were elected:

President—Kenneth Balzer.
Vice-President—Helen Tallman.
Secretary and Treasurer—Mary Lee Wilson.

Reporter—Claudine George. The orchestra practices the second period this year. There are a larger number of violins in the orchestra at present than we have had for several years.

From our new books we have learned some new marches. In about two weeks we will appear in our new uniforms, which we are working on now.

Advertise it if you stock it.

RANGERS TAKE PANTHER GAME

DEFEAT FOLLETT BY 32 TO 0 SCORE IN DECISIVE CONFERENCE CONTEST

The Rangers ran rough shod over the Pollett Panthers here last Friday afternoon in a conference game. The outstanding play was a 40 yard run featuring McWilliams. Most of the Perryton boys played good football, according to the Perryton mentor. It was the best demonstration of end play we have had so far this season. A grand total of two yards was made on the wing men during the entire afternoon, which is good in anybody's league.

The guards and tackles had some what of a let down, letting the smaller Panther team gain 60 yards through our big line. It was simply a case of non-hustle on the part of Reese Nowlin, Pat Ferguson and Speedy Johnson. Clyde Jones made most of the Ranger points, but at no time did Clyde really run hard enough to look like the fullback coach had expected him to be.

This week's work will be spent on fundamentals of football, tackling, blocking, charging, etc.

The football game with Follett was of course a victory, but the Ranger mentor is very much dissatisfied with the type of football some of our men played, and this week they are getting plenty of work in an effort to overcome the weaknesses.

Last year our team was actually afraid of Spearman, and Spearman says that the Rangers are the same type this year, and will tuck their tails and run when the Lynx come on the field.

HOME ECONOMICS II

When Miss Hutchison handed the Home Ec papers back the other day, she said, "Some of you can't even spell yet." Neida Rose Wright brightly responded "Y-E-T." The upper class initiated the freshmen Monday night. A belt line extended from the history room to the Home Ec room and each freshman was gently pushed through it. After walking over bed springs, tables and chairs and jumping in a pan of water, they were taken to the kitchen and fed some nice scabs, puss, pickled eye balls, and alum water.

After they cleaned up the Home Ec department, they were given instructions on how to dress, Tuesday. They were to wear one white and one black shoe, their dresses wrong side out, no make up, their hair parted in the middle and cold cream on their face. Every time an upper classman spoke to them they were to say, "Yes, your highness."

We were then favored by a solo by Doris Thompson and a song "Kissin' Games" by Jeanne Pinkerton. They were then given popcicles and sent home.

The Home Ec II girls are going to attend the cooking school.

61 NEWS

We had perfect attendance last week.

Those who made one hundred every day last week were Gene Budock, Arthur Harper, Wilma Holland, Robert H. Holt, and Dorothy Woods.

Those who made one hundred in spelling on their six weeks examination were Kathleen Allen, Walter Bowen, Marie Carlson, Robert Howard Holt, Charles Patton, Pete Williams, and Ona Grace Francis.

Hunter Wayne Murphy moved to town.

Kathleen Allen spent the week-end in the country.

SENIOR NEWS

We are glad to have Evelyn Clark in our class again this year. Evelyn has attended school in Shattuck, Oklahoma, for the past six weeks, but is planning on finishing the term in good old P. H. S. Our English classes are preparing talks on "Advantages That Were Mine the Day I Was Born." We are anxiously awaiting to have them off of our minds.

Winifred Butler has been absent on account of sickness. We are happy that she is back in school to-day.

The ring committee is holding a meeting with local jewelers to-day. They will decide on some of the samples.

Josephine Addington, Kenneth Balzer, Jack Allen, and Ethel Gurfey were absentees last week.

"Scatter Sunshine with Greeting Cards". A card for every occasion at Stewart Printing Co.

SCHOOL PATRONS

The report cards of all pupils in Perryton Independent School district will be issued for the first time this week. They go out on Thursday afternoon. Please look at these cards carefully before signing them. If they are unsatisfactory, now is the time to see the teachers or Superintendent.

It is easy to wait until the end of the year expecting that improvement may be shown but now is the time to help us to do better work for your children. Do not wait until the end of the year because it will be too late then.

Please return the cards to school Friday of this week.

THRU THE KEYHOLE

Myrtis Dowers vs. Jimmy Blair is the main bout of the season with Bybil Apple vs. Knute Dowers running a close second.

What has happened to that match between Doris Cofer and Clyde Jones. Could it be a third party?

Monroe Ballard has been accused of cradle-robbing. Will someone give us the details on this subject.

What is this we have been hearing about Coralee Tandy and that young preacher at Notia. Ask her if you think you can find out any more than we did. (Watch out for that right.)

Thanks to whoever sent this in: "Lee Kent ran the radio down on his dad's car the other night." Who could have thought it?

The Juniors would have given the Seniors the "ha! ha!" if they could have heard some of the talks the Seniors gave on their avoidpoups. Say, I want to tell you that our editor and assistant editor are swell guys. They deserve the best of co-operation, so lets give it to "em" Come on gang!

The Pitts sisters Inc., are sure after "em!" when one is away the other one will take the matter in hand where the other one left off. This is a tip—this system works like a charm.

BASKET BALL NEWS

We are getting along swell in basket ball. We are about to find out that we have to know our do's and don'ts. If anyone wants some nice literature to read, come around and we will loan you about twenty pages of do's and don'ts.

There are five Opals out this year, Opal Rowe, Opal Burgess, Opal Allen, Opal Gibson, and Opal Waggoner. Coach Kelley said that if he had one more, he'd make a team out of them.

There has been a few slight injuries but nothing serious.

We are beginning to realize that we're bigger pansies. Coach Kelley is thinking of naming us his Pansies of '35-'36. We are looking for some ball games and our first game will be in two or three weeks. Doris Cofer and Luella McMillen are on the outs. Could it be basket ball? You name it.

Abbie Hooper says she is having eye trouble. Maybe she has been seeing too many CCC boys.

DEBATING CLUB

The debating club wrangled over whether Texas should have a two or one house legislature, during their last meeting.

Coralee Tandy upheld a one house legislature while Rayford Nowlin and Henry Davis wanted a two house plan.

The debate club will hold forth on the merits of cabinet participation and responsibility to Congress in this weeks meeting. Hand books on this years league debate subject will be here soon.

LATIN I

Our Latin I is progressing just fine. We learned some new songs such as "America," "Hail! Hail! The Gangs all here," and others. In class this morning we sang, then we declined words. What's good about Latin is that every day we do something new.

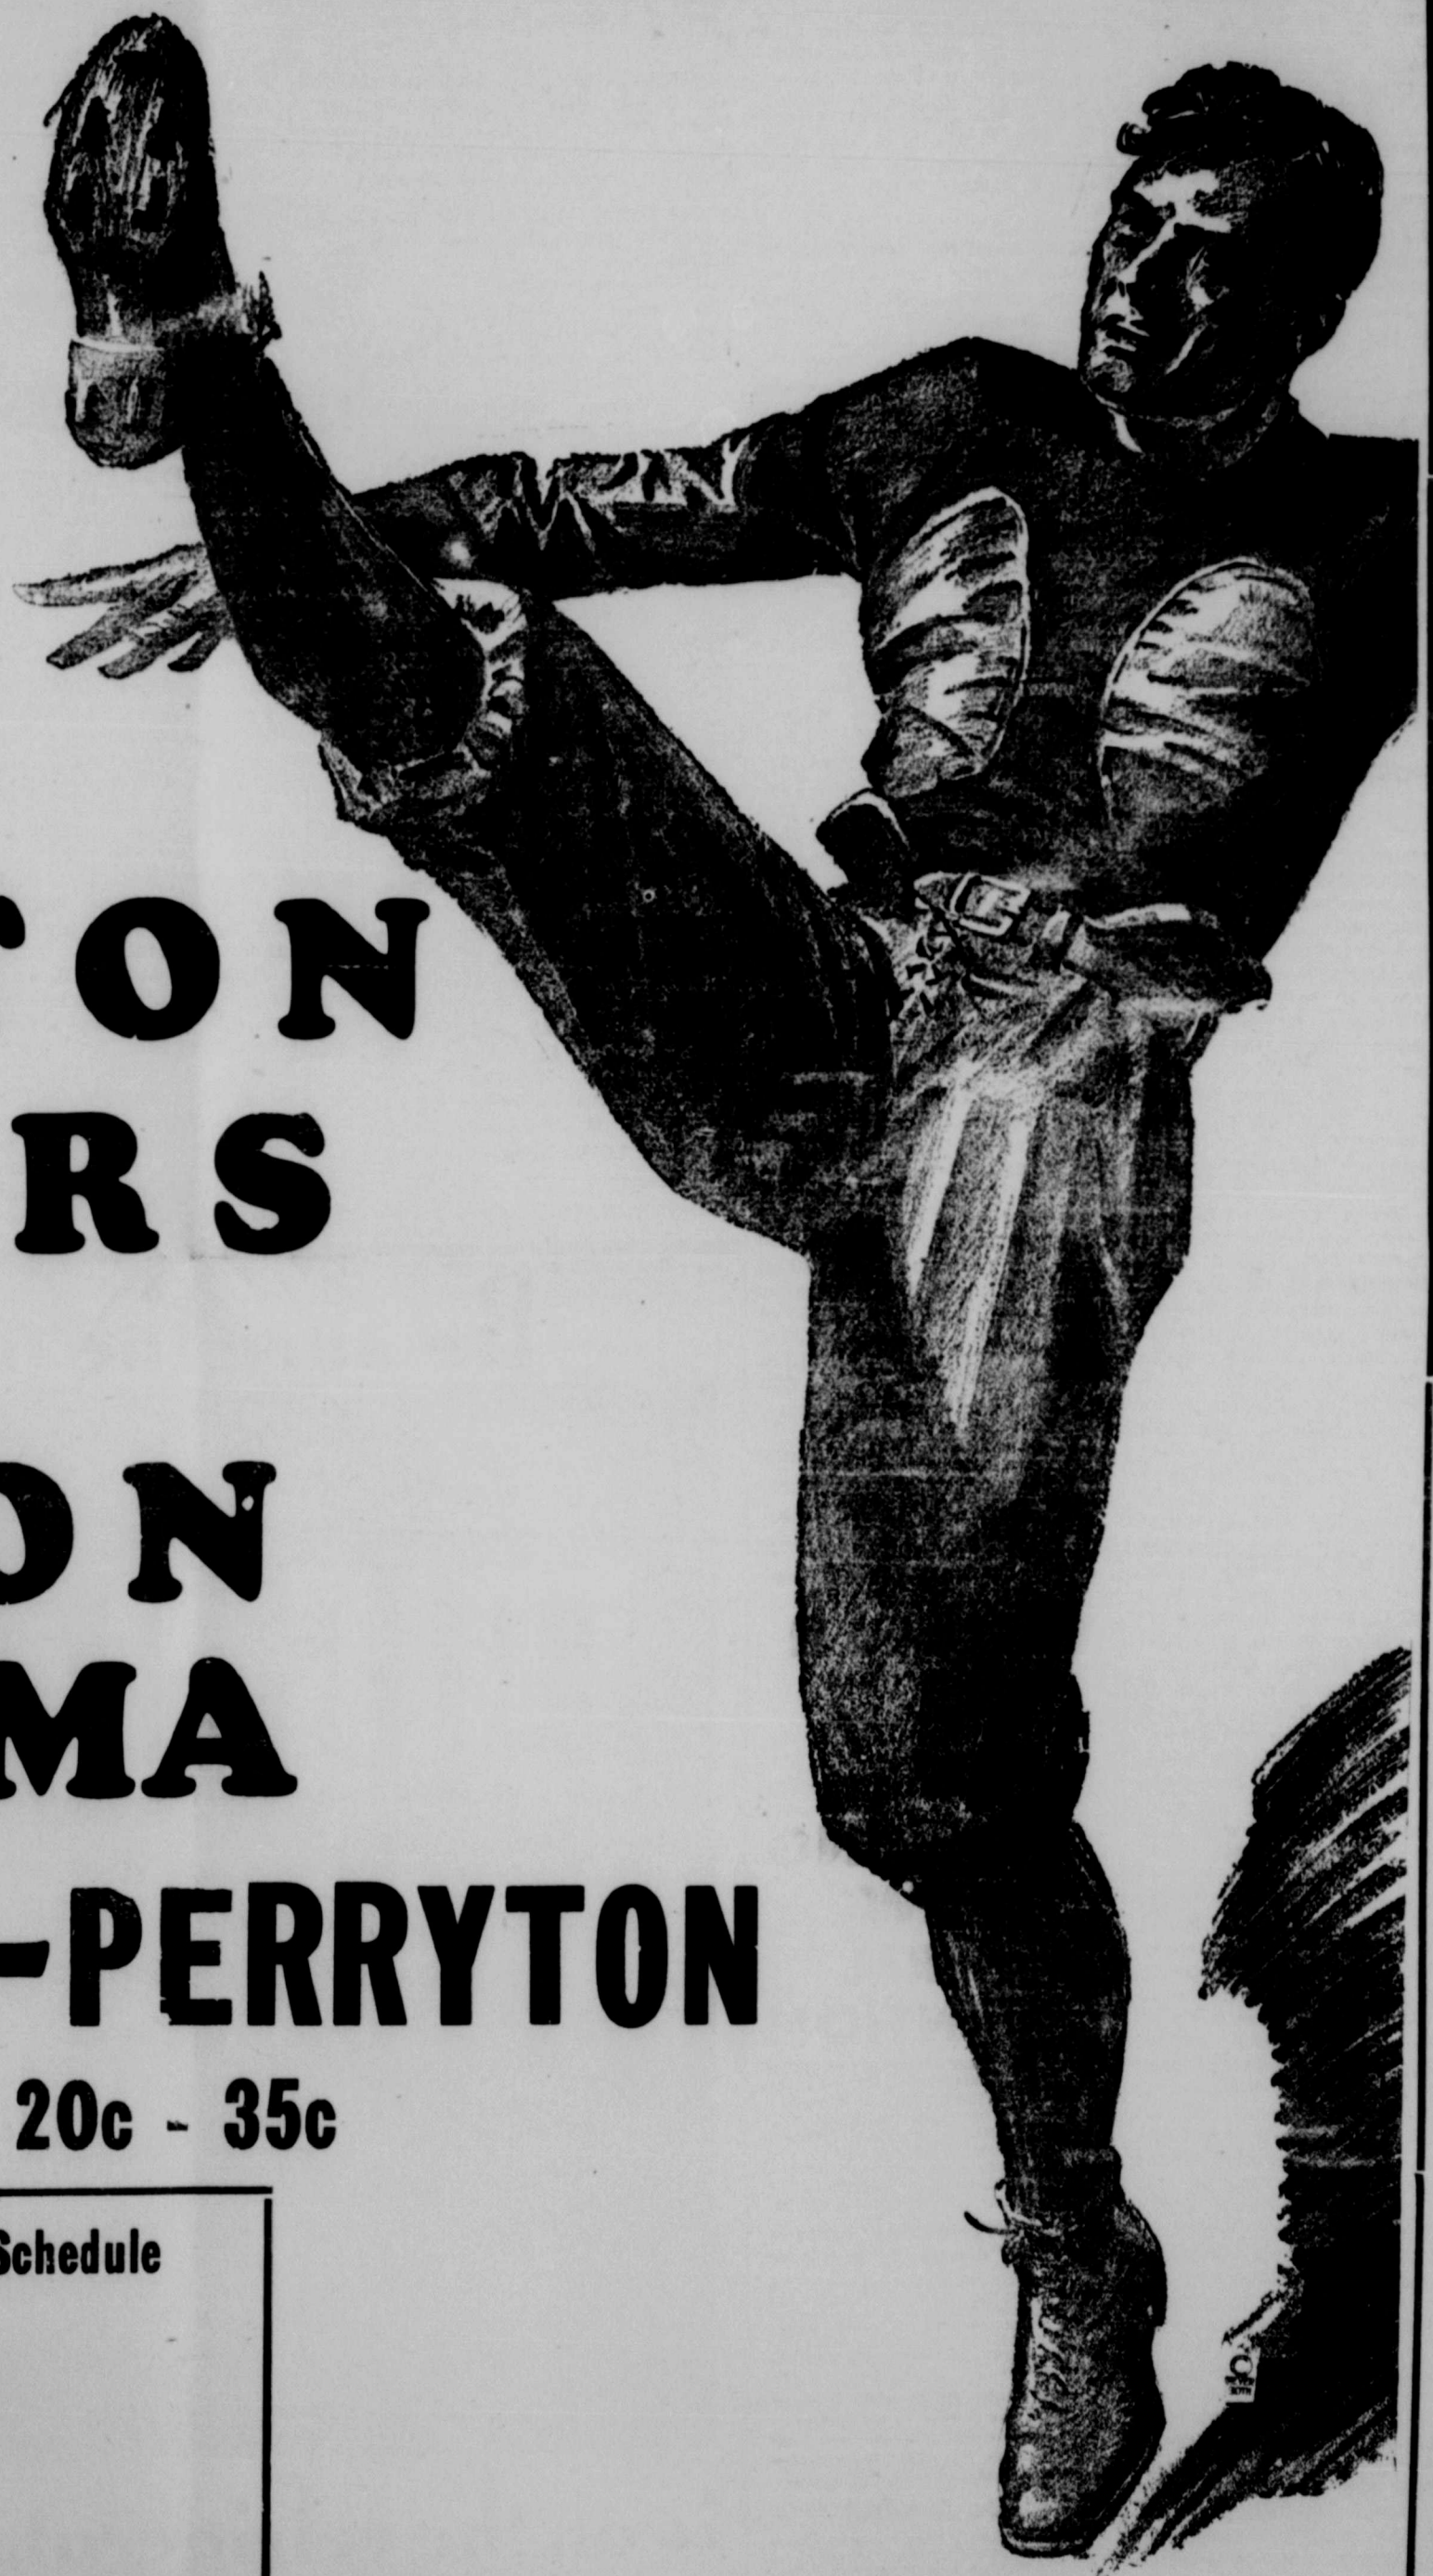

AIRCRAFT CLUB

The Aircraft club met the sixth period, Friday. Ines Johnson has not kept her promise to have a program every week, but she said she would have a good program next Friday. Nell Office visited part of the period with us.
