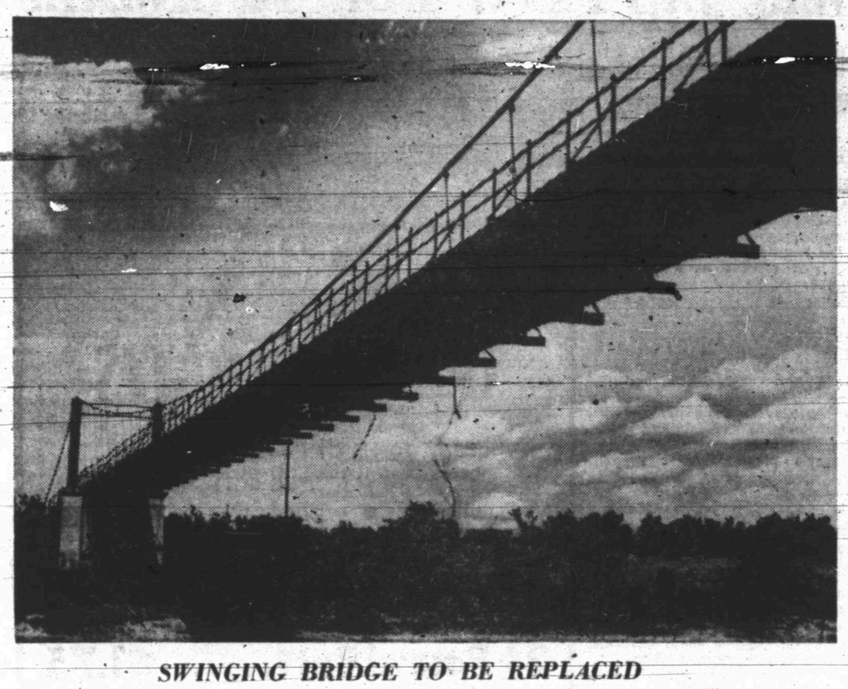
Expansion Of Air Force Is 'Toned Down' In Platform



SWINGING BRIDGE TO BE REPLACED

A new bridge is now under construction across the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos River in Kent County to replace this 50-year-old suspension crossing. The new bridge, which will be 390 feet long and 24 feet wide, will be built about 450 feet south of the "swinging bridge." Contractor on the new bridge is Harry Newton, Inc, of Graham, who is also paving a 4.5 mile road from the bridge to Highway 380 just west of Clairemont. Cost of both is $105,000, and Newton is to complete the work in 120 days. Plans are now underway for the paving of the 9.7 miles of road from the bridge to the Scurry County line to meet pavement in this county now under construction.

Cover Crops Planted As Drouth Continues

A large acreage of wind-resisting grain sorghums will be planted in the dry soil of West Texas this summer, Louis P. Merrill, Fort Worth, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service, said last week.

Merrill said many farmers in this area are already planning large plantings of grain sorghums and sudan grass for wind erosion control as well as for income, adding that many will probably plant the feeds where small cotton is now dying from heat and lack of moisture.

The SCS director said many agriculture leaders are now urging farmers to plant the sorghums and sudan this month if any effective rain falls during the month.

If the rain does not come before Aug. 1, conservationists will recommend the planting of small grains, such as rye for winter cover on land subject to blowing. If there is not enough moisture before Dec. 1, the farmers will then have no choice but to control the soil by emergency tillage, conservationists say, and they call that method an expensive and temporary solution and a poor substitute for seasonal and longtime prevention measures.

Many Borden and Scurry County ranchers have shipped their cattle to other areas for grazing, while Coke and some other counties were reporting that even brush is dying from lack of moisture. The SCS director said Scurry and Borden are included in counties listed as critically needing protective cover.

Merrill warned farmers that another winter of high winds on unprotected crops and range lands will mean damaged that will take many years to repair.

Ireland Finley, PMA administrator here, said that many farmers will be planting grain sorghums until late in July to provide a possible income. He added that this area must have adequate rainfall before the grains can be planted.

Candidate Hits Gov. Shivers

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft stormed into this convention city today for their toe-to-toe struggle for the GOP presidential nomination.

The general ripped off a promise that "I will never give up" in the battle for the nomination in the Republican National Convention that opens on Monday.

The Ohio senator pledged that he will go "all-out" himself for the big prize.

Contesting Delegations File Appeals To Convention Floor

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—All seven states with contesting delegations to the Republican National Convention filed appeals today from seating decisions of the National Committee.

Both sides in the Texas dispute appealed from the ruling that seated 22 delegates for Sen. Taft and 16 for Gen. Eisenhower.

The appeals will be considered by the Credentials Committee of the convention starting Monday. They involve 91 delegates.

The Texans repeated their previous arguments. The Eisenhower factions led by Houston oilman Jack Porter maintained they had the majorities. The Taft people, led by Henry Zweifel, Fort Worth charged that the Eisenhower people were mostly Democrats trying to overrun the regular Republican Party organization.

Zweifel, who is national GOP committeeman from Texas, charged Porter was personally ambitious to get the committeeman's post.

Eisenhower forces have appealed National Committee rulings seating 71 Taft delegates, including the 22 from Texas. Taft forces have appealed 20 seats given Eisenhower, including the 16 from Texas.

Texas Republicans kept on shooting words at each other today.

Both sides in the Texas dispute charged the committee did wrong in seating 22 delegates for Sen. Taft and 16 for Gen. Eisenhower. Taft himself had suggested that division as a compromise but his Texas backers professed not to be pleased with it.

What they've been shouting about for months is: what makes a bona fide Republican; whether the Eisenhower supporters in Texas are Democrats who wanted to vote for the general or voters who had made a genuine switch to the Republican Party.

The same trouble divided Louisiana Republicans.

Texas and Louisiana are both of the traditional Democratic South where Republicans are extremely scarce.

Neither state requires voters to register their party alignment.

So when big numbers of persons turned out this year in the two states saying they were new Republicans, the regular party machinery officers cried that many a Democrat had slipped in to do a little vote maneuvering.

Most of the newcomers were for Eisenhower. Regular party machinery officers in the two states were solidly for Taft. Eisenhower backers argued that if the GOP is to build up strength in the South, it must appeal to independent voters and to disgruntled Democrats.

Possibly Two Polio Deaths Saturday In Texas Are Reported

By The Associated Press

One and possibly two polio deaths occurred in Texas Saturday. The case load in the big cities mounted.

Definitely diagnosed as the victim of polio was George Devore Fairtrace Jr., member of a prominent Texas family, who died in Fort Worth.

Albert Randolph Alexander, 19, Houston, died in Houston Saturday but hospital authorities said the cause of death was not finally determined. Symptoms indicated polio.

Denmark Will Give Tanker To Russians

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 5 (AP) — Denmark tonight was reported planning flat rejection of an American protest against delivery of a Danish-built tanker to Russia.

No one would guess what the results might be, but it was generally agreed that even if the U. S. government cuts off all military and economic aid to Denmark, a 1948 contract for the tanker must be followed through.

Contrary to expectations, no final decision on Denmark's reply to the American protests was reached at today's hastily summoned cabinet meeting. But a government source indicated the ministers will tell party leaders Monday to turn the tanker over to Russia.

The informant said party leaders will endorse the government's stand unanimously.

Meanwhile, the controversial 13,000-ton tanker Apsheron—still flying a gilt hammer and sickle emblem on her funnel and with a Russian crew aboard — was at the shipyard of Burmeister and Wain Company here. The vessel was ready to clear out at a moment's notice.

Niels Munch, president of Burmeister and Wain, said earlier he knew nothing of newspaper reports that the tanker might sail tonight.

Murder Trial Starts Monday

HASKELL, July 5 (AP)—Thomas Clifford Livesay, 36, of Amarillo charged with murder in the death of a colorful Panhandle recluse, will go on trial here Monday.

A special venire of 100 prospective jurors has been summoned. This will be the state's fourth attempt to try Livesay, one of two men charged in the death last fall of Joshua Blocher, aged Bailey County recluse and founder of the little hamlet of Progress near Muleshoe.

The case originally was set at Muleshoe in Bailey County, was moved to Farwell in adjoining Parmer County, and then to Tulia in Swisher County.

Lester Douglas Stevens, 51, also of Amarillo, already has been sentenced to death for his part in the slaying. The two men were allegedly trying to find money which Blocher was rumored to have hidden in his shack.

LITTLE HORSEPLAY

Bitterness Of Convention Is Different From Previous Ones

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—The air in Chicago today is heavy with bitterness.

On Monday morning, the thousands of Republicans who have been crowding into the city during the past week get down to the deadly-serious business nominating a candidate for the presidency. Another national political convention is about to begin.

And this is what people—the partisans and neutrals alike—are asking:

"Was there ever a convention that started like this?"

A national convention, normally, is a kind of carnival, a Mardis Gras with a purpose. People put on caps and buttons and badges. They mill around in hotel corridors with buzzers and cow-bells, and crowd the bars and restaurants trading wisecracks like college boys on the night before a football game.

They have a very good time. Even the paid professionals tend to look on the whole panorama with a certain indulgence, although they stand to win or lose a great deal.

There is relatively little of that atmosphere here today.

The heat and aggravation stirred by the straight-out contest between Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is fierce and desperate. Both sides are playing this convention for all there is in it. This is a fight to the death.

Possibly, this is because only two men appear, at this point anyway, to have a chance for the nomination.

In 1948, there were at least four—Dewey, Taft, Stassen and Warren. And on the fringes of the contest, so to speak, were the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Consequently, the partisan feelings, which are as inflammable as high octane, were diffused during the pre-convention period.

It is not like that today.

There have been fist-fights in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, where both Taft and Eisenhower have their headquarters.

The other night, some young Republicans came to serenade Taft, and then went up to floors into Eisenhower's headquarters, chanting "We want Taft . . . We want Taft."

The people who are working for Eisenhower stormed out of their offices, mobbed the youngsters, and threw them bodily down the stairs.

The members of the Republican National Committee come out of the conferences on delegate-seating, flushed, perspiring, their faces working with anger.

The news conferences are loaded with partisan climbs, trigger-ready to laugh and applaud any stinging remark aimed at the opposing candidate, apparently the rougher the better.

A blizzard of mimeographed statements and pronouncements comes each day from both sides. They bristle with words usually reserved for the Democrats . . . "corruption . . . misrepresentation . . . distortion of fact . . barefaced steal," and so on.

Bitterness, and still more bitterness.

The convention, proper, has not yet begun. Yet the fight has been so fierce that many people already are emotionally exhausted. But you see very little drinking or partying, compared to other conventions, as you go down the hotel corridors. People apparently are too tired at the end of a day.

Champ Chutist Says Record Won't Stand

GRAND PRAIRIE, July 5 (AP)—Neal Stewart, who set a new world's record of 124 parachute jumps just before midnight last night, said today expects the honor to be short-lived.

"Swedish will break it," said the tough, wiry, stunt man from Birmingham, Ala. "He can if he wants to. . .and he'll want to."

The parachutist, 27, referred to John W. Swedish, an acquaintance, who set the old mark of 123 in Iowa.

The record for most jumps in one day represented nearly 24 hours of harrowing experience, climaxed by the final successful jump just 11 minutes before the midnight deadline. He had started jumping at 16 minutes after midnight yesterday morning.

During the last five or six jumps, he said, his head ached so much "I didn't even know where the field was."

Agreement On Other Issues Is Seen At Meet

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP) — Republican platform drafters, at the insistence of Eisenhower forces, were reported tonight to have agreed to "tone down" a proposed national defense plank stressing a sharp expansion in air power.

This action was taken, top-ranking platform leaders said, after Rep. Christian Herter of Massachusetts, had raised questions about the plank.

As written, it had raised the threat of a break in the heretofore harmonious effort of the Resolutions Committee to come up with a statement of principles acceptable to the major candidates for the presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower himself, at a news conference, confirmed reports of others that the platform on foreign policy appeared to be shaping up fairly well to his satisfaction. He said he understood it embraced his views.

The general conferred late in the day with the chief draftsman of this plank, John Foster Dulles.

Eisenhower has opposed placing "too much" reliance on air power to thwart expansion of communism.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, chief rival of Eisenhower for the nomination, has advocated a greatly expanded Air Force and less reliance on land armies.

The defense plank made no recommendations on universal military training—a measure favored strongly by Eisenhower in the past. While still standing by his position, the general said at a news conference today it is not now "a momentous issue." He said it would be difficult to devise a program to fit both the nation's long-term needs and the present state of emergency.

Eisenhower declined to be drawn into a commitment at the news conference on whether he favored repudiation of the Yalta agreements. He said there were some things about the Yalta pact he didn't like. But he insisted that few persons, including himself, knew everything the pact covered. Hence, he said, he could not give a flat yes or no answer.

In discussing the air power issue, the general said he felt he could claim a "lot of credit" for the fact that the Air Force has gained independent status, on an equal footing with the Army and Navy.

Meanwhile, platform drafters, in a declared move to take farm problems out of politics, propose to strip the politically-appointed secretary of agriculture of powers to fix farm prices and other policies.

Instead, such policies would be determined by a non-partisan board, operating in the farm field much in the manner that the present Federal Reserve Board sets banking and other monetary policies.

A recommendation for this drastic governmental change has been made to the convention's Resolutions Committee by a sub-group on agriculture.

Ana Paulker Bumped From Her High Red Position In Romania

VIENNA, Austria, July 5 (AP) — Romanian Foreign Minister Ana Pauker, the international darling of communism and one of Stalin's former friends, has been shoved from her office in a tightening Soviet stranglehold over the Black Sea nation.

Her ouster was formally announced by Communist news agencies today. Western diplomatic reports from Bucharest said the fact that she is a Jewess was a major factor in the internal cut-throat rivalry for power that led to her purging.

Western observers here believed the time is coming when she will be put on trial as a traitor despite the fact she was a faithful, lifelong Communist who once had the special privilege of being able to get the ear of Stalin by long-distance telephone at any time.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency ADN said her dismissal was ordered by the National Asembly in Bucharest. Simion Bughii, a Russian-indoctrinated official who formerly was Romanian ambassador to Moscow, was given her job to make sure Romania is kept under the Kremlin's heel.

There was nothing in the files of diplomats here, in Washington or Berlin that shed any further light on him.

Obviously Mrs. Pauker, 59-year-old daughter of a rabbi, was removed with the consent of the Kremlin. The ouster of the woman whose iron-gray, close-cropped hair made her a prototype of Eastern Europe's women Communists had been expected more than a month.

At the end of May she was abruptly dismissed from the Romanian Politburo for "anti-Marxist, capitalistic tendencies." Her fall corresponded with that of Finance Minister Vasile Luca and former Interior Minister Teohari Georgescu.

Since then there have been unconfirmed reports she was in a Bucharest prison or enroute to Moscow as a captive. The meagre official announcement today offered no light on the whereabouts of the tough, hefty woman.

Since 1947 she had been in charge of Romanian foreign policy. She spent long years in prison for the Communist cause. Her son fought for the Russians in the second World War.

The Communists have been removing Jews from many high positions in Eastern Europe, however, partly because the Russians fear too great a concentration of any ethnic group in high places. She arranged to have her aged father sent to Israel two years ago.

Slaughter On Highways Up

By The Associated Press

Violent deaths of the July Fourth holiday period pushed grimly toward the 400 mark Saturday. The timetable of traffic fatalities was ahead of the National Safety Council's forecast.

With the crush of homeward-bound motorists still to come, auto mishaps already had claimed at least 226 lives. The council predicted a toll of 430 for the period from 6 p.m. Thursday to midnight Sunday.

The highway death rate was at a much faster clip than the three-day 1952 Memorial Day week end when 363 persons were killed—an all-time record for a Memorial Day holiday.

In addition to the mounting highway toll, 101 persons had drowned, and 42 had died from a variety of other causes.

Only two were victims of fireworks—one death each in Maine and Arkansas—to give the only encouraging aspect to the over-all toll of 371 violent deaths. The nation could well acclaim the vigorous campaigns against careless use of fireworks.

Senator Connally Honored By Colleagues For Senate Service

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Sen. Tom Connally's colleagues on the Foreign Relations Committee today hailed him for outstanding service they said he had given "the entire free world by his great ability, initiative and statesmanship."

The white-haired, 74-year-old Texas Democrat, who has headed the committee for 10 years, retires at the end of this year.

The other committee members presented Connally with an inscribed silver bowl at a ceremony on what may be the final day of his active career in Congress. He first came to Congress 35 years ago as a Representative, has served four six-year Senate terms, and is fourth ranking in seniority in that body.

The committee staff presented a leather scrapbook to the chairman.

In a resolution praising Connally, the committee pointed out that he had headed it "during years most critical to the destiny of this nation."

The resolution gave him credit for much of the development of the bi-partisan foreign policy and called the roll on important international measures he had piloted through the Senate: The U. N. charter, the Marshall Plan, the North Atlantic Treaty, the mutual security program, the Japanese Peace Treaty and the West German peace settlements.

Later, on the floor, Connally heard himself lauded by his junior Democratic colleague, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, as a "statesman who belongs to the ages."

Connally, later resigned as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Connally announced his resignation in the Senate as Congress voted toward adjournment. He gave no reason.

Vice President Barkley, who was presiding, immediately appointed Connally's Texas colleague, Sen Johnson to succeed the veteran legislator on the atomic committee.

An aide said Connally was giving up some of his duties preparatory to leaving the Senate.

In the ceremony honoring Connally, Johnson said of the Texas veteran:

"Since 1924, when he attended the Interparliamentary Union in Geneva, he has been a commanding figure not only on the national scene but on the world scene.

"At international conferences, in the United Nations, in world councils, his keen mind and his powers of oratory have been a mighty force for the United States. His grasp of the present and his high vision of the future have brought to the entire globe a picture of America at its best."

Johnson said Connally "fought for soil conservation—and our broad and fertile fields are dramatic testimony to his success."

He added:

"He fought for rural electrification—and the lights that shine mightily in thousands of Texas farm homes are the prize of his struggle.

"He fought for our small businessmen and today they can hold their heads high—secure in the protections he won for them.

"He fought for the development of our oil fields—and the rich and mighty cities that have sprung up on our plains are the monuments to his triumphs.

"We will also remember his patriotism, his courage, his sense of responsibility that led him to fight for what he believed to be right.

"Something is leaving the Senate—something great and very human. A splash of color—a surge of vitality—a vision of statesmanship—a rare quality of humanity. That is Tom Connally."

ROCK COLLECTOR'S DISPLAY

J. O. Guinn, Camp Springs rock and mineral collector, always starts his visitors out with a look at this group of rocks in his front yard. Two large, odd-shaped rocks, found when streets were first built in Camp Springs, he has named his "dinosaur and egg." (Staff photograph.)

Prospector In Scurry Gathers Minerals And Ores At His Farm

Not all prospectors are desert rats. Scurry County has its own native prospector, who lives over behind a loaf-shaped hill at Camp Springs.

For 62 years, ever since he came to Scurry County as a boy, J. O. Guinn has been collecting rocks and minerals, watching for odd-shaped stones or the glint of something that might be gold.

In front of his gray-weathered square house — he never got around to painting it, too busy farming and prospecting — part of his huge rock collection is on display.

First to catch the eye are rocks that look like prehistoric monsters, dug out of the ground when the roads in Camp Springs were built. Another big rock with a large depression in it was used, Guinn thinks, by the Indians for grinding meal.

Prominent among this group are pieces of petrified wood — ossified, Guinn explains, is the proper term. Some of them came from a huge petrified tree on the Harrell Ranch north of Camp Springs. As Guinn first remembers it, it was 320 feet long, but now souvenir hunters have cut it to 60 feet.

Any time he wants to look for petrified wood he can find it. On the hill beside his house — the Mountain, he calls it — he finds a seemingly unlimited supply. He thinks it's because his hill and the site of the petrified tree are on the same level and once formed the edge of a sea that washed the wood ashore.

From the Mountain, too, come perfectly round stones, some the size of golf balls, others as big as base balls. The Guinn boys used to play ball with them, and when they hit something hard they broke in two, smoothly and evenly. These may be meteorites, Guinn believes, and he has written to a prominent meteorologist in Dallas to come by and look at them.

On the "sample board" under a mesquite tree are rocks, fossilized bones, and ores that haven't been sorted yet. Here are quartz, gypsum, fool's gold, copper ore and pieces of old molasses pitchers, all thrown together. Guinn is interested in pieces of old glass because they turn purple when left in the sun, getting darker and darker with time. It's because the glass absorbs the sun's red rays, he explains.

He has 14 different kinds of fossilized sea shells from Sand Canyon near Fluvanna, he says. One snail-like specimen measures almost a foot across.

His most exciting experience with fossils came when he discovered a gigantic skeleton near Camp Springs. The skeleton had a horn like a rhinoceros's, only it was at least seven feet long. He said he loaned it to the geology department of Texas Tech.

"I wrote to the Smithsonian institute asking them what it was," he said, "and they wrote me that there never had been any such animal, I was just seeing things."

It is in the Guinn storm cellar that the real treasures are found. Here he keeps his register of visitors who come to see his collection — a piece of brown paper attached to a clip board.

In the cellar is the greatest collection of mineral ores — gold, silver, iron, copper, cinnabar, to name a few. There is a great lump of pure salt from a South Texas mine; every visitor gets a chance to lick it and prove for himself that it's real salt.

The collection of arrowheads kept in the cellar includes many shapes and sizes. Guinn has everything from tiny bird-sized arrows to a tomahawk. It's easy to find these Indian relics, he says. Just pick out a stretch of flat ground above a spring — more than likely it was an Indian camp ground. One of his best sources has been "Carroll Davidson's old field," just below the Guinn place.

Many of his mineral specimens were brought back from prospecting trips he has made over most of West Texas. And many of them are reminders of mines that might have been, of deals that might have made him rich if something hadn't gone wrong.

FACE LIFTING ON EAST HIGHWAY

Construction combining two buildings into one at Avenue F and the East Highway is nearing completion as shown above. On the left is Contella's Cafe which is expected to be completed this week. The middle portion joins the previously separate buildings and will house the offices of Ben F. Thorpe, owner of the buildings, and other tenants. On the right is Crowder-Hall Drug Co. Prayer Services Being Held In Many American Factories

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP) — It's noon at a Texas oil refinery. The sharp blast of the 12 o'clock whistle halts all work, and several hundred workmen seize their lunch pails and run—for prayers.

They are among increasing thousands of Americans who are wedging a period of Bible study and prayer into a short lunch hour or are coming early to work in order to get it.

It's a growing practice in factories, foundries and oil refineries, in business, newspaper and advertising offices in numerous Southern states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana and elsewhere across the country.

In some places the services are held daily; in others they are weekly or monthly. Some are very short, others fairly long. In one respect, however, virtually all are alike: they show how Bible teaching and precepts can help solve the problems of daily life. Sometimes the service closes with a discussion of office problems and a prayer for guidance in their solution.

Look into the Sinclair Oil refinery at Houston as the whistle sounds the half-hour lunch period. Workmen in overalls are streaming from all parts of the plant, their helmets gleaming in the sun. Some troop into an old pump house, repaired and refurnished by management, now known as Chapel 1. Others fill the benches in a refurbished storage room—Chapel 2. Sandwiches come out of the lunch pails and the men begin to munch and listen.

Harry Sampson, a plant inspector who also is a preacher, steps up to the lectern. First comes a Bible reading, then a short sermon. The service closes with a brief prayer. Then a welder, his goggles hanging around his neck, leads a closing hymn with a ringing voice—and the men file out to their jobs.

Various people and causes sparked the workday prayer meetings in various parts of the country.

The Sinclair services grew out of the day that one of the workmen discovered Harry Sampson was a minister and asked him to explain some Bible passages that had puzzled him. The two men met in an office to talk at the lunch hour. The janitor overheard them and asked if he could come. News of the Bible discussion spread. Before long the office was so crowded that more space had to be found.

Another minister - worker, assistant electrical foreman D. G. Harding, helped inspire the services now held daily in the maintenance shop at Shell Oil refinery, Houston. At the John Mitchell Jr. Company of Dallas, manufacturers of cotton gin equipment, the employes' regular devotional service grew out of management's offer of jobs to theological students to enable them to learn industry's problems first hand.

Prayer services conducted several times a month in 10 New Jersey plants are the outgrowth of work started by Anthony Monteiro, now pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Newark, while he was working his way to the ministry as a foundry worker.

The Norm Advertising Agency, New York City, the Dallas (Tex.) Morning News and the magazine Guideposts, New York City and Pawling, N.Y., start every working day with an early morning service.

Factory Workers Get More Money But Dollar Is Cheaper

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Labor Department figures indicate that the average American factory worker has had enough pay increases since the Korean War to more than cover the rise in the cost of living.

However, while Factory Joe has been getting more money in his pay check the dollar has cheapened. As a result his savings and his insurance policies have lost value.

Non-factory workers have had less luck on wages. And even inside the factory worker group some are doing better than others. For example, makers of electrical machinery have had pay increases that put them much farther ahead of rising prices than workers in textile mills.

If the steel workers get all they're asking they will top the whole manufacturing field for pay raises since Korea.

It is possible to get vehement arguments that Americans are better off because of rising wages and full employment and that they're losing ground every day as the dollar buys less and taxes take so much.

Both sides have to depend on records of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics to compare manufacturing wages versus the cost of living. The following figures show by what percentages average prices and wages had risen in April this year over prices and wages at various previous times:

Over	Consumer Prices	Hourly Earnings In Manufacturing
1929	54	192.6
1939	89.8	161.6
Aug. 1948	8.1	22.8
June 1950	10.9	14.0

Hourly earnings rose between three and four times as fast in the past 23 years as the cost of living.

Even youngsters who didn't start working until after World War II have had an advantage. Since the start of the Korean War in June, 1950, living costs have risen 10.9 per cent, while average factory wages have risen 14 per cent.

But not all workers are faring equally well.

Labor officials feel that the white collar worker is taking it on the chin, but it is difficult to sift the statistics on them out of those for the industries in which they work. There is no average figure for the white collar group. There is, however, a figure for workers in retail trade, and this is taken as indicative of white collar troubles.

Here are percentage wage rises for different worker groups from June 1950 to March this year:

Retail trade	9.2
Textile workers	11.5
Auto workers	12.8
Durable goods	14.7
Non-durable goods	11.9
Electrical machinery	16.9
Steel workers (through March)	13.0
Steel workers (if they get current demands)	27.0

These figures are taken from Wage Stabilization Board records.

The money saved by all groups and the insurance they have bought have dropped in value. Taking the 1939 value of the dollar as a base, a dollar has dropped 5.9 cents in value just since the Korean War. This means that for every $1,000 saved since that time the saver would only get about $940 worth of goods if he were to spend his savings.

BLS records, coupled with those of the Department of Commerce, show how factory wages and corporate profits compare from June, 1950, to December, 1951, the period in which prices rose most swiftly.

Hourly earnings in manufacturing rose 12.5 per cent.

Corporate profits before taxes rose 12 per cent.

But after corporation income taxes were taken out, corporate profits actually fell 17.5 per cent. The amount distributed in dividends still had to pay individual income taxes on them.

Senators Get Surprise Visit From Truman

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—President Truman paid a surprise visit to the Senate today and got a rousing ovation from the members and from spectators who crowded the public galleries.

The President went to the Senate after lunching at the Capitol with prominent Democrats at the office of Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle. He slipped quietly into the rear row seat he once occupied as a senator from Missouri.

Several senators discovered his presence and came to his side to shake hands. Beaming broadly, Truman chated for several minutes with them.

Then Vice President Barkley, presiding over the Senate, took note of Truman's presence and introduced him "as a great President of the United States."

When Barkley concluded, senators on both sides and the gallery spectators rose and applauded the President. He smilingly acknowledged the ovation.

WHO WILL BENEFIT?

In a desperate effort to give lagging Snyder business a shot in the arm a number of merchants here have signed up for a promotional program deceptively called "Appreciation Day."

It and similar "trades day" schemes are designed primarily to attract customers into the stores and to encourage them to make purchases. They are also designed to fill the pockets of the franchise sellers, who do not live in Snyder, have little or no interest in the welfare of Snyder, and probably spend very little of their "take" here.

The main pulling power for these "trades day" promotions is the "something for nothing" feature.

The way it works is the franchise is sold to the merchants for a certain amount. In the case of the promotion being pushed here the franchise costs $16. Thereafter the merchant must pay $3 per week. Of this amount 75 cents goes to the franchise selling company, $2 goes into a kitty and 25 cents goes to cover expenses.

Customers are then given tickets with their purchases from participating merchants. These tickets are marked with figures designating from 5 per cent to 50 per cent. The percentage is the amount of the pot won if the ticket is drawn at a drawing held on the "trades day." The percentage designation on the ticket is determined by the amount of purchases made. A 25-cent purchase will bring a ticket marked 5 per cent. From there it goes on up to a $25 purchase which will entitle the customer to a ticket marked 50 per cent.

This means that not more than half the pot will ever be won. The pot will naturally mushroom and cause a great deal of local interest among those with sporting blood.

The pressure salesmen of the scheme tell us this is all legal because merchants can give tickets away if they want to and that you don't have to be present to win. These arguments will in all likelihood be dispelled by its actual operation. We doubt if anything will be given away, and if someone wins who isn't present at the drawing, we will be surprised.

With the number of merchants that are signed up now the "trades day" sellers will be taking nearly $4,500 gross out of the city every year.

The Chamber of Commerce has certainly displayed lack of study and bad judgment in its endorsement of this project.

It seems to us that the merchants of this town could use their money much more appropriately in honest sales promotion and keep themselves above the level of a croupier.

Textile Manufacturer Plans Big Cuban Cotton Plantation

HAVANA, July 5 (AP)—One of the world's most modern cotton plantations is being laid out in Cuba, where cotton hasn't been grown for years.

Dayton Hedges, who came to Cuba from New York in 1919 "when the contracting business got to be a headache," is establishing the plantation on 30,000 acres he bought in Pinar del Rio Province, on the Southern coast of Cuba about 80 miles from Havana. Hedges, now a veteran textile manufacturer, says the plantation "probably will be one of the most modern in the world. It may be one of the largest, too, since I don't know of any that run to 20,000 acres."

"It will be mechanized throughout," he said. "There won't be a hoe on the place. We are going to plow, plant, cultivate, dust and pick the cotton mechanically.

When Hedges came to Cuba, he first bought a number of electric power plants in little towns near Havana, ran them for years. Later he got into the textile bsuiness.

"I've always thought about growing cotton, but never really had time before. Now that my boys are running the mills, I'm going to give it a whirl.

"We will start planting in September, with the main planting to be done in November.

"The fields and rows are being laid, of course, to fit the machinery. Fields will be irrigated, with a pump on each unit of about 300 acres. Once we plant, we will spread a chemical on the rows to kill weeds and grass. By the time it loses its strength, the cotton should be up enough to throw shade and keep out weeds.

"So far as I can see, there is no real obstacle to growing cotton in Cuba. We do have boll weevils here, but they were not too serious, even without spraying. We plan to get them by airplane dusting."

Farm experts say cotton was abandoned as a crop in Cuba when Spain began buying Egyptian cotton, and the United States became a big exporter of cotton. Anyhow, Cuba found sugar brought better returns per acre.

Man Preaching In Far East Was Jap POW For 42 Months

OSAKA, Japan, July 5 (AP) — No man of God draws bigger crowds in Japan than the Rev. Jacob DeShazer, Christian missionary.

His theme is "hold no bitterness in your heart." For three years the people of this country have flocked to hear his story.

It's a remarkable story.

As one of the Doolittle raiders, Sgt. Jacob DeShazer bombed Japan spectacularly in the early days of the Pacific war — and then endured 42 months as a Japanese captive.

DeShazer's plane ran out of gas over Japanese-held Chinese territory after the Doolittle raid. The crew parachuted in the dead of night. Bombardier DeShazer landed in a graveyard. He and the others in his crew were picked up the next day by the Japanese, with three survivors of another crash. The pilot and rear gunner of DeShazer's plane were beheaded. So was the pilot of the other crashed plane.

DeShazer and the four others were held captive in prisons in Japan and China. For the blue-eyed, wavy-haired sergeant there were months of grilling — then many terrible months of solitary confinement.

One day the Japanese told the five prisoners they could have one book — to take turns reading.

'We chose the Bible," said DeShazer, "because it has lots of words. We wanted to read all the words we could get."

"Unless you know what an awful thing solitary confinement can become," DeShazer said, "you cannot imagine the hunger with which I devoured that Bible. I spent every waking hour reading — and I strained to stay awake. For the three weeks that it was mine to read, I devoured it and suddenly God gave me a repentant heart. I was able to read the Bible and I understood it.

"While I was in prison, the Lord called me to come back to the Far East and teach the Japanese people. When God speaks to a fellow, the fellow knows it."

Freed at the end of the war, DeShazer entered Seattle Pacific College in 1945 and began studying for the ministry. He came back to Japan in December, 1948 — with his wife he had met in college.

"I work seven days a week," he smiled, "Twenty-five hours a day. Only one half of 1 per cent of the Japanese people are saved — Protestant. That means I have 199 per cent for me to work on."

DeShazer uses a car equipped with loudspeaker to drum up attendance for nightly meetings. In sermons he always uses an interpreter. "I say a sentence and then the interpreter repeats it. It sounds like a slow business, but the Japanese will go to hear an American preacher."

Gold was discovered in Tasmania in 1851 and 20 years later a valuable tin strike was made.

Bees-And-Flowers Stuff Out As Seedsman Creates Plants

By The Associated Press

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. — The old bees-and-the-flowers story is taking an awful kicking around at Fordhook, 500-acre trial farm of seedsman David Burpee.

Mother Nature has been relegated to a back seat and her wing-ed assistants are [illegible] here where X-ray, atom bombardment, chemicals and human beings are short - cutting evolution and deliberately creating monsters in the development of new plant varieties and the improvement of old ones.

All these modern tools in the hands of horticulturists produce changes in plants' cell structures, sometimes desirable but usually crippling and useless. With them, and by paying close attention to Mendelian law, new and better plants are constantly emerging. But with the careful experimentation going on, nature's buckshot and casual methods of production have pretty much had to make way for progress.

Fordhook is a combination plant laboratory, hospital and testing ground for flowers and vegetables which, if they pass the really rough examination, will be grown in home gardens from Maine to California few years hence. Its rolling farmland is sliced into fields which are really small wards. There are isolation blocks where plants are carefully protected from pollen - contact with other varieties. There are maternity wards and paternity wards — separated by space and woodlands. There are co-ed fields, too, but carefully chaperoned. Birds and bees are excluded from some of these by a fine-screen nylon net completely covering the fields. Others are as carefully covered to keep a hive of bees in controlled contact with growing things.

It's all part of the search for bigger, better blossoms and fruit. Some of the new vegetables and flowers have been in-bred, cross-bred and souped up so highly that even the most determined bee finds it impossible to carry his cargo of pollen to its logical destination. Other flowers have had their shape changed so that the normal process of self - pollination is no longer physically possible. Needling chromosome counts and cross - breeding has produced "mules"—sterile plants which can only be reproduced by what the botanists call "asexual methods."

And where the old - fashioned methods of pollination are useful, the requirements of cross-breeding are so complex that the only useful bees would be ones which could pick out the designated father plant from which to collect pollen but could also make notes on its activities.

Rather than try to train bees to read and write, Burpee has taught literate humans to hand-pollinate. At one point during the summer, the creation of special hybrid tomato seeds requires the services of a corps of 50 workers, who carry pollen from one tomato variety to the flowers of the mother plants. And the record-keeping is as complicated as a bank's.

Fordhook has in the works literally hundreds of projects. For instance, they've found a radish, tender and crisp to the core, which is the size of a plum. They are cross - breeding the big radish with small varieties in an effort to "fix" the shape so it will also be uniform and pleasing to look upon. They are fussing around with eggplants, trying for a sturdy stem so that it will hold the fruit off the ground. They are working on snapdragons, for color and for a new habit of growth—branches which grow from the base of the plant. They are also testing seeds from all over the country, watching for reactions to eastern climate. Sometimes a plant which is sensational in California—where there's another trial farm—breaks down, reverts to old type of flowers much too late for use by home-garden owners in less benign climates.

Wonder plants being produced by controlling nature.

Bigger Prizes On Floats Used In Rodeo Parade Here This Year

No entries have yet been filed for competition in the Scurry County rodeo or the first day parade, reports indicated yesterday.

Billy Boren, rodeo association president, said entries usually are not turned in until about three days before the four-day event begins.

The parade, which will be held in the afternoon of July 16, will be the only one this year. The association usually holds one each day before performances, but they decided one large parade will be more effective.

Leon Huff, Chamber of Commerce manager, is taking parade entries. Deadline for entering is 5 p.m., on July 15, he said. Prizes for floats in the parade will more than double the 1951 prizes. First prize will be $125, second $100, third $75, and fourth through seventh $25.

Boren said the bunting which will advertise the rodeo is selling fast. The decoration is sponsored by the Optimist Club. The rodeo president said a large number of merchants have already decorated the fronts of their businesses to welcome rodeo visitors.

D. D. McGlaun, rodeo secretary, said that about 50 of the 70 box seats have already been reserved, adding that they are selling very fast. Priced at $20 a box, they will be the only reserved seats this year. General admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Stock for the rodeo will be furnished by Goat Mann of Denville and will be the same stock used in the Stamford Cowboy Reunion. Cowboys participating in the show will compete for $3,400 in prize money.

Dances will be held each night of July 16-19 prformances, with music furnished by the Light Crust Doughboys. Admission will be $1 per person. The Optimists will handle concessions at the dances, while the Junior Chamber of Commerce will have concessions at the rodeo performances. The Jayceeettes will assist the junior chamber and will also sell souvenir programs.

Smithy Works Way Through College With Mobile Forge

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH—Enterprising Joe Miller, the college smithy, is working his way through school by shoeing livery stable nags.

With a forge, made from a milk can, and a half-ton truck, the Carnegie Institute of Technology freshman is sure he can clear $525 a month during summer vacations.

Joe, who is studying mechanical engineering, started his blacksmithing career after lining up several contracts with stables and private owners.

He travels from job to job in the old truck which bears his milkean forge and other equipment.

Joe says the milk can was a natural for a forge, strong and light and just the right size. A blower attached to the side of the can gives Joe the air blast he needs.

He based his income estimate on the assumption he can line up four horses to shoe six days a week. Joe says competent horse shoers are in demand in Pittsburgh.

There are more horses around this steel capital than you might think. In nearby South Park, some 5,000 acres boast more than 25 miles of bridle paths. Riding academies and stables virtually surround the park. Hundreds of Pittsburghers ride their own horses evenings and Sundays.

Joe learned the blacksmith's craft from Bill Farnum, a one-time rodeo performer in the Pacific Northwest. Farnum took the youth under his wing for a two-year apprenticeship.

"People think blacksmithing is dangerous," says Joe. "Actually when you're working under a horse, you know instinctively what the horse is going to do by the various small movements it makes.

"And if it's a particularly temperamental horse, we rope him up before we shoe him. I've never been hurt while shoeing a horse."

Big 4th In Atlanta

ATLANTA, July 5 (AP)—"Biggest celebration on record," sighed the Atlanta police department today as it counted 650 Fourth of July arrests.

The figure is almost twice the number of arrest recorded last year.

Facts And Figures Present Picture Of GOP Convention

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—Here is a facts-and-figures preview of the Republican National Convention.

Place—The International Amphitheatre, 43rd and Halsted Streets on Chicago's South Side.

Seating capacity—12,190.

Delegates—there are 1,206 delegates and the same number of alternates.

Time — The convention opens Monday. This session and other day sessions are scheduled to begin at 11:30 a. m., EST. Night sessions are scheduled to start at 8:30 p. m.

Monday (night)—Keynote speech by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Tuesday (day) — Credentials Committee reports on delegate contests. This report is expected to touch off a floor battle between Taft and Eisenhower forces—if it already hasn't been started by an Eisenhower move to amend the rules on seating disputed delegates at the first session Monday.

Tuesday (night) — Speeches by Joseph Martin of Massachusetts and by Herbert Hoover.

Wednesday (day) — Platform Committee presents 1952 GOP platform.

Wednesday (night) — Candidates for president are placed in nomination.

Then the 1,206 delegates will vote. Nomination requires 604 votes. Balloting will continue until the contest is decided. If deadlocked, the convention can recess until Thursday. After the presidential nominee is chosen, the delegates will select a candidate for vice president by the same balloting process.

Duration — The target time is four days for the convention. There is no time limit, but the Democrats are scheduled to take over the amphitheatre July 21.

TV and radio—The proceedings will be televised by NBC, CBS, ABC and DuMont networks.

Radio coverage will be carried by CBS, ABC, MBS and NBC networks, by at least 25 regional networks and by 75 independent stations.

Another Scurry Test To Try In Ellenburger

Slick Moorman Oil Co. has announced it will drill an 8,000-foot wildcat three and one-half miles southeast of Snyder at the No. 1 Warren Sturgeon. Operations are to begin immediately.

Location for the No. 1 Sturgeon has been made 330 feet from north and west lines of section 38-3 H&GN

This was the second Ellenburger wildcat location announced in Scurry County during the week. The Texas Co. had earlier announced plans to drill the No. 1 M. A. Fuller as an Ellenburger prospector in extreme North - Central Scurry County. Cooper & Thrash of Kilgore have also scheduled an Ellenburger project, to be drilled as the No. 1 Cooper & Thrash one-half mile north of Hermleigh in the Buffalo Creek - Ellenburger field. That field has only one other producer.

West Germany Shows People Its Democracy

BONN, Germany (AP)—The young democracy of West Germany is fostering democracy among its people by having them come to visit the federal Parliament — the first free national assembly since pre Hitler times.

With American financial aid, a special effort is made to bring the youth of the country here to attend parliamentary sessions, to witness the debate which lets the Communists get up and lambast the government and the free world.

Since Parliament was inaugurated here nearly three years ago 580,000 Germans have come to visit the white concrete, box-like Bundshaus. Of these 285,413 have been admitted to sessions of the Bundestag, or lower house.

Many thousands more have come to gawk at the building and, through windows, at the Parliament chambers, and sit in the Rhine terrace restaurants.

Since 1949 more than a million persons have applied for passes to visit the Bundestag sessions. Less than one-third could be accommodated in the galleries.

During its first two years Parliament met four days a week. There were all-night sessions that proved such a strain that the schedule was gradually reduced to its present two days weekly for the lower house and once weekly for the upper house (Bundesrat).

Then the visitors were so numerous that grandstands were erected outside the glass walls of the lower house so that spectators could look in on the proceedings through windows.

New Location Spotted In Kelley-Snyder-Cisco

Standard Oil Co. of Texas has announced location for a new Cisco sand test outside the proven Kelley - Snyder - Cisco field.

It will be the No. 1-S S. L. Terry, located 467 feet from north and 2,000 feet from east lines of section 384-97-H&TC. That is about seven miles north of Snyder. Contract depth is 6,300 feet, and operations are to begin immediately.

Bleachers Collapse

ESTELLINE, S. D., July 5 (AP)—More than 1,500 persons escaped serious injury when an overloaded section of bleachers collapsed during a Fourth of July amateur show at the race track here last night.

Helium is widely used now to fill balloons because it will not burn and is, therefore, much safer.

Rolfe Fired, Relief Pitcher Moved Up

DETROIT, July 5 (AP)—The last-place Detroit Tigers today fired Manager Red Rolfe and in a dramatic, surprise move boosted relief pitcher Fred Hutchinson, fiery 32-year-old right-hander, into the managerial post.

President Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr. announced the [illegible] of Rolfe and third base Coach Dick Bartell at the conclusion of a board of directors' meeting that preceded tonight's game with St. Louis.

The firing of Rolfe to quell the gripes of critical fans had been expected.

But the appointment of Hutchinson, only Tiger hurler with a winning percentage, came as a jolt. He will take over for tonight's game.

Hutchinson hadn't figured prominently in the pre-meeting speculation. First base Coach Ted Lyons, former Chicago White Sox pitcher and manager, had been the original choice of Briggs but Lyons turned down the job last night.

Briggs said Coaches Lyons and Rick Ferrell will be retained. No one will be appointed immediately to take Bartell's place.

Hutchinson was appointed to fill out the season but Briggs declined to comment on whether he will be retained next season.

Briggs hopes Hutch, recognized as a scrappy competitor, can fire up the dispirited Tigers and lift them out of the cellar—a spot in which the Tigers never has finished. No other major league club distinction.

Hutch, curly-haired favorite of Tiger fans and the American League's player representative to Commissioner Ford Frick's office, was in his 10th season with the Tigers.

National Loop Picked To Win All-star Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (AP)—The National League, riding the crest of a two-game winning streak, was established a 13-10 favorite today to vanquish the American League in the annual all-star game in Philadelphia Tuesday.

It marks only the second time since the inaugural of the mid-season classic in 1933 that the National Leaguers have ruled the favorite. The other time was last summer when they justified the odds-makers' opinion by thrashing the junior circuit's best, 8-3. The American League, however, holds a 12 to 6 edge. No game was played in 1945.

It is not difficult to see why the National has been picked to make it three in a row. Led by such stalwart sockers as Stan Musial, Ralph Kiner, Hank Sauer, Bobby Thomson and company, the National, up to the Fourth of July, had crashed 157 home runs to only 126 for their rivals. The older loop boasts the top hitter in Musial (.333) and the majors' No. 1 home run hitter and run producer in Sauer.

Neither manager, Leo Durocher of the Nationals or Casey Stangel of the Americans, has given any hint as to which pitcher they intend to start. The guess, however, is that Robin Roberts, the Philadelphia Phillies' right-handed fireballer, will oppose Bobby Shantz, the little left-hander of the Athletics for the first three innings.

Cubs Handed Fourth Straight Defeat

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—Big Ted Kluszewski supplied the power and veteran Kenny Raffensberger the pitching as the Cincinnati Reds handed the Chicago Cubs their fourth straight lacing by a 7-1 score today.

Kluszewski walloped his seventh home run and two doubles to drive in four of the Reds' runs as Raffensberger posted his ninth victory with a walk-free six hitter.

Locke Favored At Meet

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—South African golfer Bobby Locke is a firm 3 to 1 favorite to win the British Open golf championship, in which play begins Monday.

Nine American entries are included in the biggest post-war field of 273 entries, among them veteran Gene Sarazen, who won the title 20 years ago.

Connolly Cops English Crown In Tennis Tilt

WIMBLEDON, England, July 5 (AP)—Maureen Connolly, petite powerhouse from San Diego, Calif., whipped Louise Brough, 7-5, 6-3, today to become the first teen-ager in 65 years to win the coveted women's singles title in the All-England tennis championships.

The 17-year-old bombshell also holder of the U. S. singles crown, surged from behind twice to end the comeback hopes of the veteran Miss Brough, three times Wimbledon champion from 1948 to 1950.

Playing with the precision of a mechanical doll, Miss Connolly cut down Miss Brough with a display of faultless ground strokes and uncanny anticipation.

Frank Sedgman, Australia's magnificent Davis Cupper, completed a "triple" by sharing in the doubles and mixed doubles title.

The Aussie teamed with countryman Ken McGregor to retain the men's double crown. They scored a thumping 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 victory over Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, and Eric Sturgess, South Africa.

Then Sedgman joined with Doris Hart, Jacksonville, Fla., to take the mixed doubles title. They defeated Enrique Morea, Argentina, and Mrs. Thelma Long, Australia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Sedgman won the men's singles Friday.

Miss Connolly had less success in the finals of the women's doubles. She teamed with Miss Brough, but the two singles finalists were beaten by Miss Hart and Shirley Fry, Akron, Ohio, who retained their title, 8-6, 6-3.

Swimming Records Fall In Trials At New York

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—In another series of glittering performances, America's male swimmers bettered three Olympic records in as many events today, capped by young Yoshi Oyakawa's sparkling victory in the finals of the 100-meter backstroke.

The backstroke was the only final run off in the second day of the Olympic tryouts and it followed sterling performances by Ford Konno in the 1500-meter free style and Jerry Holan in the 200-meter breaststroke. All three are from Ohio State.

Attendance At Longhorn League Games Is Up

ABILENE, July 5 (AP)—Longhorn League attendance for the first half of the 1952 season is up 8 per cent, League President Hal Sayles announced today.

The total stood at 225,259 as compared with 209,375 for the same period last year.

San Angelo is setting the pace at the gate with 46,425 attendance for 35 games. Next is Odessa with 34,990 for 36 games and in third place is Midland with 31,483 for 32 games.

Only three clubs—San Angelo, Roswell and Vernon—are running behind the pace set in 1951. Sharpest increases in attendance were reported at Big Spring, Midland and Odessa.

Over Par Golf Is Good Enough To Win Cup

MIAMI, Fla., July 5 (AP)—The cream of America's week-end golfers found the tough Miami Country Club's par 70 an impossible goal today as they warmed up for the National Public Links tournament with an 18-hole battle for the Warren G. Harding team trophy.

A Chicago team was 17 strokes over par with 227, but it was good enough to capture the trophy by a one-stroke margin.

Stephen Foster, who wrote such songs as "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Old Folks At Home", died homeless and forsaken in a New York hospital charity ward.

Whiteway Yanks Keeping Safe Margin At Top Of Little Loop

The Whiteway Yankees pushed themselves to a full two games ahead in the Little Baseball League Friday night when they defeated the Quarterback Giants 14-7.

While Marcum, the winning pitcher, allowed the Giants six hits, the Yanks managed 10 off Mills. The Yanks committed three errors, and the Giants had two.

With less than three weeks of play left, the Yanks will meet the Optimist Cardinals, fourth place team, at 9 o'clock tomorrow night. Playing at 7 o'clock will be the Lions Cubs, second place, and Holder Indians, third.

Yankees Win Off Of Error

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 (AP)—A throwing error by veteran shortstop Eddie Joost led to a pair of ninth inning runs which gained the New York Yankees a 3-1 victory over Philadelphia here today.

Joost tossed wildly to first on a perfect double play set-up after he fielded Phil Rizzuto's grounder for a forceout at second base with one away.

The miscue allowed Mickey Mantle to tally from third, and a few minutes later Rizzuto, who got an extra base on Joost's heave, scored all the way from second on an infield hit by Bob Cerv.

The most important furs of Canada are first muskrat, second beaver.

Negro Double League Leader

DALLAS, July 5 (AP)—Dave Hoskins, Dallas' Negro pitcher, has the distinction this week of leading the Texas League both in pitching and hitting.

It harkens to the days of the immortal Dode Criss, who used to be a top hurler and three times led the circuit in batting but couldn't get credit for the latter since he didn't play in enough games.

Hoskins will be the same way in batting but anyway he has the best average for the time he has gone to the plate while hurling. Dave has hit .842 with 25 blows in 73 times at bat.

The actual hitting leader still is Grant Dunlap, Shreveport, who, while he has slumped somewhat, still has the average of .341 on 74 hits in 217 trips to lead the regular players.

Hoskins with 12 victories against only 5 defeats tops the "regular turn" pitchers. Hal Erickson, Dallas, has won the most games, showing a 13-6 record.

Phillies Beat Giants With 7th Inning Homer

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Shortstop Granville Hamner, hitting only .259 at game time, smacked a home run off the left field foul screen in the seventh inning today to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the New York Giants.

$27.95
pay as little as 1.25 a week

- New speed selector dial — easy to set even with slippery fingers.
- New juicer — squeezes, strains, and traps pulp. Easy to attach and clean.
- Three beaters — triple whipping action — easier to clean because there is no shaft through the center of the blades.
- Built-in light — illuminates the entire bowl.
- Balanced motor and beater unit — easier to hold and control when you use it on the stove.

Complete with two mixing bowls, juicer, recipes and instruction booklet.

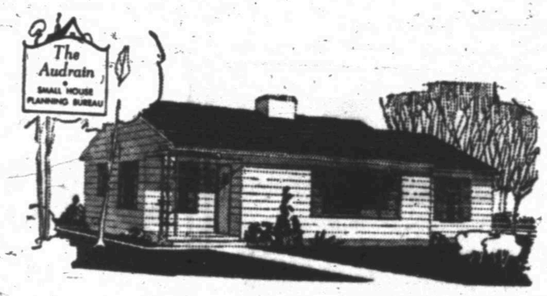
For Your Protection



A Real Estate Board has been Organized In Snyder

How This Protects You...

Your local Real Estate dealers who are licensed to deal in Real Estate obligate themselves to protect the citizens of their community by limiting membership to this board to local, permanent dealers. No Fly-By-Night, quick scheme so-called real estate men are allowed to join this local organization. Membership is open only to Real Estate Dealers who can meet with the requirements of the constitutions and by-laws of this group.

Buy or Sell With Safety..

When you place your property with these Dealers or buy from them you know that you are doing business with a permanent Snyder establishment, one whose business is established for fair dealing and protection to buyer and seller.

KNOW YOUR REAL ESTATE BOARD, THEY HAVE ORGANIZED FOR YOUR PROTECTION.

Plan Tests On Scurry Well

Operator is preparing to run completion tests at Superior Oil Co. and Intex Oil Co. No. 13-578 R. H. Jordan, Northwest Scurry project.

The well is to be completed from an Ellenburger pay section at 8,360 - 370 feet. That zone flowed oil after a drillstem test reported Thursday. The well kicked off and began flowing when the test tool was pulled. Operator reported the flow was not gauged, nor were further tests run.

The No. 13-578 Jordan is about two and one-half miles northwest of Fluvanna and near the Winfield-Mississippian field.

Kent County Well Is Completed As Oiler

Chapman & McFarlin Producing Co. No. 63 D. M. Cogdell has been completed as a new producer in the Cogdell-Strawn field of Kent County.

It pumped 24 hours on the completion test for a potential of 117 barrels of 40 gravity oil with no water. The production was natural from open hole from 7,383 - 404 feet. Top of the Strawn pay was at 7,386 feet. Gas-oil ratio on the test was 602-1.

The well is 660 feet from north, and 1,975 feet from west lines of section 46-4-H&GN

Oil And Gas Production For Defense Cut By Steel Strike

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Continuation of the steel strike is causing the Petroleum Administration for Defense increasing anxiety.

Data compiled by the PAD shows the long-range oil and gas production picture already has been adversely affected and the [illegible] gets worse by the day.

Here are some figures rounded up by the PAD:

The shutdown of steel mills means a loss of 5,000 tons a day of oil country tubular goods, which is the equivalent of 3,400 wells a month.

Twenty per cent of the drilling rigs that were exploring for oil before the steel strike began have been forced to shut down. For the first three weeks the industry got along fairly well with line pipe on hand, stocks from foreign sources and the like, but those supplies are fast playing out.

Construction of crude and refined products pipelines has been thrown weeks behind schedule.

Crude oil pipelines with a capacity of 1,150,000 barrels a day and products pipelines with a daily capacity of 415,000 barrels have been delayed four to six weeks.

Completion of new refineries to handle 156,000 barrels a day, scheduled for the third quarter ending Sept. 30, has been delayed three to four weeks; completion of 176,000 barrels daily capacity scheduled for the fourth quarter is four to six weeks behind schedule.

The submerged oil lands controversy apparently is back where it started some 14 years ago.

Supporters of state ownership of the lands beneath the marginal seas, unable to count enough votes to override the presidential veto, didn't force the issue in the Senate.

Sen. Holland (D-Fla), leader of the states ownership faction, notes that the matter can be brought up anytime throughout the remainder of the year if Congress reconvenes in special session.

With the convening of the next Congress Jan. 3 the tidelands legislation will have to be introduced again and go through the whole legislative mill once more—introduction and referral to Senate and House committees for hearings, and, if approved, action by House and Senate.

The oil and gas depletion allowance on federal income tax returns came through Congress unchanged, although the administration proposed cutting the rate from 27½ to 15 per cent.

Secretary of the Interior Chapman was spokesman for the happening of George Gibson, Pittsburgh, as finance counselor of the PAD. He had been absent for a year and a half to help the Turkish government evaluate bids for construction of a petroleum refinery.

Oil Well Completions Drop Another Week

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—Oil well completions dropped again this week, when 171 were drilled compared with 177 the previous week, the Railroad Commission reported.

The year's total rose to 5,904 compared with 5,559 a year ago.

Six gas wells were brought in making 430 for the year against 442 last year at the same date.

Operators abandoned 115 dry holes.

Wildcat operations led to six oil wells and 82 dry holes.

Pluggings included 113 dry wells, 4 gassers and 39 oil wells.

The total average calendar day allowable today was 2,724,523 barrels, a decrease of 172,229 barrels from last week as the curtailed July permissive flow went into effect.

Kelley-Snyder-Cisco Field Test Brought In

Standard Oil Co. No. 4-S-8 Mrs. Jessie W. Brown, Kelley - Snyder - Cisco field test, has been completed for a potential of 117 barrels of 42.9 gravity oil.

The well pumped 24 hours on the completion test. Production is natural from open hole at 6,190 236 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 672-1.

The No. 4-S-8 Brown is 1,379 feet from north and 1,300 feet from east line of the lease in section 441-97-H&TC.

Completion Try On Wildcat In Nolan County

J. C. Barnes of Midland No. 1 Faver, Northeast Nolan wildcat, is preparing to set oil string and try to complete as a producer from an Ellenburger section.

[illegible] burger at about 5,895 feet. It developed some [illegible] tree oil in two drillstem tests between 5,895 - 6,130 feet. Details of these tests have not been completely reported.

On a four-hour test from 6,130-155 feet, gas surfaced in 40 minutes. Recovery was 2,385 feet of free oil and 90 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud with no water. Open flowing bottomhold pressure was 765 pounds, with 30-minute shutin pressure 2,400 pounds. Gravity of the oil was about 50 degrees. No gas-oil ratio was reported.

The No. 1 Faver is about one-half mile northeast of Sohio Petroleum and Hunt Oil No. 1 Faver, a small Ellenburger discovery completed several years ago. It is also one location west of Rowan & Hope No. 1 Faver, a Swastika sand discovery completed last year. The Barns project reported no shows in the Swastika.

The Barnes No. 1 Faver is about five miles east of Sweetwater in section 47-21-T&P.

Refinery Workers' Average Pay Drops

AUSTIN, Jculy 5 (AP)—The average weekly pay of petroleum refining workers dropped $19-45 in May as the result of a labor-management dispute involving 22,955 workers.

Average pay of all factory production workers in Texas was $62.73 per week in May, down $1.64 from April, the Texas Emlopyment Commission reported today.

The refinery dispute ended in May, sending all but 3,442 oil workers back to their jobs.

The number of workers involved in labor management disputes for the month was 20,151, the largest number on record. Before the month ended, only 3,358 employes were still in disagreement with their employers in 35 disputes.

Unemployment increased slightly in May, totaling 88,800. This meant three out of every 100 in the Texas labor force were without jobs.

Mrs. Scott McDonnold, 3004 Thirty-ninth Street, tried to beat the heat one afternoon at the Beacon Lodge pool. The blue waters at the lodge pool are available to swimmers who are staying there. Mrs. McDonnold got her sun tan last month on a fishing trip to Possum Kingdom Lake.— (Joe Dave Scott photographs.)

Mrs. R. C. Miller, Jr., and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marshall Erwin enjoy the sun bathing facilities at the Country Club pool. Mrs. Miller's daughter, Linda, finds the water more attractive than the side of the pool. A small wading pool at the east end of the regular pool provides a place for the younger set to splash, while the pool's graduated depths please both the novice and the expert swimmer.. This pool was the scene of two play parties Friday for children of the Country Club members.

Two Pools Help Beat Heat

Harold Hooks watches while his friend, Troy Burks, demonstrates a swimming stroke for young Mike Booth at the Beacon Lodge. Mike, whose home is in Farwell, Tex., was visiting his sister, Mrs. McDonnold, who is pictured at the top of this page.

Mrs. Charles McCaleb, left, one of the Country Club's newest members, entertained her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. A. McCaleb, of San Antonio, with an afternoon at the pool. Bobby Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Beard, is more interested in getting into the pool with his brother than in sun bathing.

Mrs. George Graves decided the Beacon Lodge diving board made a good place to catch the sun's rays. Mrs. Graves and her husband are hoping construction of Snyder's park and swimming pool won't be too far distant, since the two are avid swimming enthusiasts.

Pointing to the drawings in the playroom of her home is Bettie Estes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Estes. The drawings were all done by her father and represent typical high school scenes and teenage comics. (Sue Holmes photograph.)

TEEN TALK

By SANDRA COOPER

When Bettie Estes and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Estes, began decorating their playroom, they were looking for the typical teen age scenes and faces and their results are truly something to admire.

The drawings cover one wall and were all done with black ink and pen on the white background by Mr. Estes, who is county surveyor. Bettie has begun to color the pictures and the Snyder High School Tigers were her first undertakings.

One of the main attractions is an architect's drawing of the new high school. Then the school sports, football, basketball, baseball, track, are throughout the scenes. Teen agers at a fountain look very comfortable and above this founatin are pictures of the local teen age comic stars.

Bettie's favorite is that of a cowboy on a bucking bronc. Around the cowboy begins scenes which include football, majorettes, cheer leaders, and the supporting fans.

Equipped with a piano and record player and connecting with the kitchen, the room is in a nice position for handy ice box raids and causes it to be the favorite room of many of Bettie's friends.

Then he boarded a new Constellation for a flight to New Orleans. From there he flew in a DC-3 to Lake Charles where his sister, Mrs. J. L. Adkins, met him.

Science Learns Why Humans Get Hangovers

PRINCETON, N.J., July 5 (AP)— Science now knows a chemical reason why humans get hangovers.

The reason suggests a cure, too—but the cure would be worse than the hangover.

The horrors of the hangover come from what alcohol does to enzymes. Enzymes are vital chemicals that make the machinery of living cells tick in normal fashion. There are enzymes in all cells of your body.

The enzymes get tackled by the excess alcohol of too much drinking. The alcohol wedges itself into empty spaces inside the enzyme molecule and the enzyme is blocked or taken out of action. The cell can't carry on its normal chemical reactions, thus leading to the headachey, butterfly and despairing effects of the hangover.

Theoretically, the cure would be to squeeze the alcohol out of the enzymes. But that would take tons of pressure. And would be more than a bit lethal.

The hangover explanation comes as a by-product of research by Dr. Frank H. Johnson, physical chemist in Princeton University's Department of Biology.

Dr. Johnson is studying life in its basic form, the molecules of the living cell. He is learning what effects heat, light and pressure have on chemical reactions of cells, and what drugs do to enzymes. The knowledge may aid in finding differences in enzymes of normal and cancerous cells, or explain some other puzzles of disease and health.

New Fly Killer Found

NEW YORK (AP) — For a lethal swat at flies which have become resistant to DDT, there's a new insecticide developed by Commercial Solvents Corp. This fly-killer named Dilan, in one treatment controls house flies for five to nine weeks or longer, says Dr. Roger W. Roth, entomologist for the company.

Tasteless Aspirins

CHICAGO (AP) — Aspirin is prepared as a tasteless powder for children's doses now. The powder dissolves in water, milk or fruit juices, and the youngster doesn't know he's getting medicine. The powdered form is made by the Armor Laboratories here.

JULY 4 VISITORS HERE

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gray and their son and daughter, Randy and Betty Bob, of Stone Mountain, Ga., were July 4 visitors of Mr. Gray's mother, Mrs. R. E. Gray, 701 Twenty-ninth Street. Mrs. Gray's daughter from Abilene, Mrs. L. D. Harris, Mr. Harris and their sons, Dale and Kenny, were also out-of-town visitors here. (Staff photograph.)

Former Snyder Man Succumbs

Funeral services for Buck Baird, former Snyder resident, were conducted in Lubbock Thursday, following his death Tuesday in a Meridian hospital.

A military service was conducted at the graveside in Tech Memorial Park, after services at Rix Funeral Home chapel. The Rev. Tom B. Anderson, Presbyterian minister, officiated.

Mr. Baird was born April 4, 1900. He was a veteran of World Wars I and II, was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars port in Lubbock, the Disabled American Veterans in Lubbock and the American Legion post in Walnut Springs.

Survivors include his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Melvin Dull of Lubbock, Gail, Mary Nita and Linda Biard, all of Walnut Springs; one son, S-Sgt. Mack A. Baird of Randolph Air Force Base; one granddaughter; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baird, Sulphur Springs; two brothers, Ligon Baird of Los Alamos, N.M., and Porter Baird of Dallas; three sisters, Juanita Baird of Sulphur Springs, Mrs. H. E. West, Shallowwater, and Mrs. Floyd House, Snyder.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE COMING WEST FOR July 10, 1902.)

The primary election Saturday resulted in bringing a large number of people to town than has been here on any previous Saturday for several months. The vote polled was larger at every box than the county clerk was expected. The chief interest outside of the county centered on the race for district judge between P. D. Sanders and H. R. Jones, though not a little excitement was created over the contest between W. J. Miller and L. H. McC[illegible] the county's endorsement for representative. A strong pull was made by Judge Grisham's friends to carry the county for him for district attorney and the effort resulted in a nice complimentary vote but the county gave a handsome majority to Cullen C. Higgins, her favorite man for the place. As will be seen by referring to our tabulated statement in another column H. R. Jones carried the county for district judge by 56 majority, and W. J. Miller for representative by 12 majority. Tom Elza for assessor ran 11 votes ahead of Crump, his nearest competetor. Suits' majority over Kutch for sheri[illegible] was 17.

F. J. Graynum and family and their cook left today for an overland trip to the mountains of New Mexico where they will spend the greater part of the summer recuperating.

Dr. Byron Jones returned Sunday from an extensive trip over the plains country. He left the other boys, W. O. Wellborn and Maxey Williams, at Big Spring. They are expected in some time this week.

J. T. Bostick of Kent County was in town Monday. Mr. Bostick reports the barbecue on Double Mountain on July 4 a fine success, something near 300 people being on the grounds.

J. F. Clawson was in from Light Monday. He reports the marriage of Miss Lula Dunn of his community to a Mr. Shropshire. The marriage took place at Gail Sunday.

R. F. Randall of LeForest, Garza County, was in Snyder Monday and ordered the West sent to his address for one year.

Nat M. Stukes of Saltillo, Mexico, came in Tuesday to visit his son-in-law, Jim Chambers, whom he had not seen for 20 years.

T. J. Thompson left Tuesday for Floyd County to look after his cattle interest. He was accompanied by his family [illegible] several days.

The Rev. A. B. Roberts returned the first of the week from Lynn County where he had gone with a bunch of cattle for pasturage.

Lee Boren and family returned the first of the week from a trip to New Mexico.

Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for July 7, 1927)

What happened Monday? The finest Fourth of July that was ever attempted in Snyder, coming from the throats and heads of between 12,000 and 15,000 people that swarmed Wolf Park from early morn until late at night. Snyder never did better in entertaining its friends, committees working as one perfect unit gave a barbecue and picnic that was the wonder surprise of the years. This was the first public entertainment of this nature since 1921, and Snyder and Scurry County responded to that invitation with a wonderful barbecue and entertainment, culminating with a concert by the wonderful Post Junior Cowboy Band....

Of interest to all is the fact that the State National Bank at Lamesa will reopen its doors. Last week's O'Donnell Index stated:

"We are indeed glad that we are able to announce to the public that the State National Bank of Lamesa, which was temporarily closed several weeks ago, will again be opened for business today or tomorrow. This information was given the Index the first of the week."

A recent booklet received at the Times-Signal office from the Department of Commerce states that it is the official census of Texas agriculture. It shows 1,332 farms for Scurry County in 1925 compared with 1,077 for 1920, and 1,424 for 1910. The report shows that the value of crops was $3,835,298 on acreages, 887 acres in corn, 622 acres in wheat, with 100,281 acres in cotton, 302 acres in hay crops and 26 acres in watermelons. Large acreage was reported for apples, peaches, pears, plums and prunes, grapes, 247 cords of fire wood being cut.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Raymond Aucutt and Miss Vena Edmonson surprised their friends by driving to the home of Rev. L. D. Sanders of Snyder where they were married. The bride is the very pretty and lovable daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Edmonson of Snyder. The groom until very recently also resided in Snyder but has for the past year made his home in Clovis, New Mexico, where the young couple will live. They have the congratulations and best wishes of their many Snyder friends in their new home.

Mrs. William Allen Jones

William A. Jones, Bride Are Visitors in Fluvanna

Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Jones, who were married June 25 in San Antonio, are visiting relatives in Fluvanna.

Mrs. Jones is the former Miss Shirley Grace Kelley, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Samuel G. Kelly of San Antonio. Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Jones of Fluvanna.

The Rev. Henry W. Quinius read the ceremony in the Beacon Hill Presbyterian Church.

Miss Clara Walvoord was soloist, and Miss Sharon Schoifield, organist.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Patricia Carl Kelly. Wallace H. Jones, Jr., of Fort Hood was his brother's best man. James A. Miller, James Brownmiller, David Cater and Donald Jones, cousin of the bridegroom, of Fluvanna, ushered. David Kelly, brother of the bride, acted as junior usher.

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. Miss Mary Lee O'Mealy and Miss Shirley Bell O'Mealy were in charge of the bride's book, and Miss Jane Harris and Miss Virginia Hicks assisted in serving. Music was presented at the reception by Mrs. Minnie Jones, aunt of the bridegroom.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Jones, Donald Jones and Mr. and Mrs. James Aaron, all of Fluvanna; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Jones, Jr., of Temple, Mrs. Minnie Jones of Wilburton, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Landrum of Eagle Pass.

Curly Tops Possible For All

By The Associated Press

Gentlemen still prefer blondes—judging by the numbers of women who are bleaching or coloring their hair to lighter shades.

New hair color treatments are so convincing that lightened topknots look more like gifts from Mother Nature than artifical tints. A further help to bleached blondes is a new "very gentle" home permanent wave lotion which is designed to put soft ringlets into sunbleached or color - treated tresses.

Before this lotion is used, however, the top-knot needs regular brushings and scalp massage for one or two weeks. This helps stimulate the flow of natural oils and distributes them evenly over parched or dyed hair strands.

If hair has reached a really bad stage of dryness due to sunbleach, two or three cream rinse treatments must be given to bring it back to normal condition.

After hair is healthy again, prepermanent-test curls should be taken. Hair is shampooed and when it has dried to the barely damp stage, waving lotion is applied to one crown and one front curl in the part of the hair most affected by the sun. The rest of the hair is tied out of the way while this is being accomplished. If test curls look frizzy, discolored or brittle, the home permanent should not be continued. At least 10 days or two weeks more of reconditioning treatments will be needed. If curls are soft and natural looking, the rest of the head can be waved.

With this new kit, you look at your curl after 30 minutes and another every 15 minutes after that until you see the amount of curl you want. Then you are ready to neutralize by a new process which is said to save 20 minutes over the old method if directions are followed to the letter.

'Problem Child' Needs Special Attention

DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
Associated Press Staff

It's easy enough, in puzzlement or exasperation, to label a youngster "problem child." It's more difficult, but far more rewarding, to look behind his outward behavior for clues to inner disturbance.

Peter Blos, distinguished psychologist, member of the Advisory board of the Child Study Association, and member of the Department of Student Personnel at Brooklyn College in New York City writing in the National Parent-Teacher Magazine, helps us to read those clues.

Before deciding Junior is a problem child, he cautions, we would do well to determine first whether he is not a child who has a problem.

We should find out whether the demands being made on Junior are within his capacity at this stage of his mental, physical and emotional growth, says Blos.

Another child may be troubled not because of goals that are out of reach but because the means taken to attain certain resonable and practical goals are quite unsuitable.

For example, parents have a right to look after Junior's health by seeing that he gets enough sleep every night. Yet he can become a problem when his parents completely disregard neighborhood standards and insist on his going to bed unusually early. Young boy wants to be and act like his friends. He has a strong and impelling urge to be like everybody else his age. He resists being babied. This combination of forces [illegible] arted, can stir up all sorts of difficulties at home, in school, and in the community.

Emotional growth in children has its ups and downs. We are often disappointed to see how a child [illegible] for a time, can't seem to stand still for a time, and actually slips back now and then as well. Problems connected with his hill-and-valley growth pattern, says Blos, we call developmental problems. They are to be expected to a degree in all children.

In addition to these developmental problems, he says, we should make allowances for the effects of accidental events on the growing child's personality. Birth, death, sickness, change in environment, crises in the parents' lives, and innumerable other events somehow have to be assimilated by the child, made a part of his growth—and this effort may temporarily obstruct or retard his normal progress. As he copes with these experiences, he gains in maturity.

The patterns in the lives of real problem children stand out.

First—A serious and persistent lack in the scheme of his experiences—lack of friends; inability to play; disturbance in sleep, appetite, or elimination; persistent feats; inability to concentrate or learn in accordance with his mental capacity.

Second—A real problem child reacts consistently in inappropriate ways to normal situations. He may show no regret or sorrow when ordinarily such emotions would be appropriate and understandable. He may look forward to some happy event and then show deep disappointment over it.

It is perhaps unfortunate, he concludes, that parents are more concerned with a child's mental progress than with his social and emotional growth. In either case, a child is suffering from some kind of deficiency, and this will ultimately disrupt the unity of the personality.

Asphalt Coat Improves Lawn

URBANA, Ill., July 5 (AP) — An overcoat one sixteenth of an inch thick promises new help for starting grass to grow on lawns and slopes.

The method has been developed by Harold M. Smith, a University of Illinois soil scientist, during three years of experiments.

Previously, if [illegible] a newly seeded lawn the seed would wash into pockets with an uneven stand of grass resulting.

Or a freshly sown highway shoulder or grass waterway on a farm [illegible] come gullied in a single rainstorm. Seed, fertilizer, topsoil, and labor would all be lost.

Smith solved the problem by spraying asphalt on the ground surface after preparation and seeding. Not only did a thin crust hold everything, but seedings came up from one to two weeks earlier, he noted.

Two special asphalts have been found useful for the purpose. A liquid type, tradenamed terolas, is produced by the Shell Oil Company. The other, called a cut-back material or asphalt mulch, is put out by the Lion Oil Company. Ordinary asphalts proved unsatisfactory, Smith said.

He said either of the new products is superior to straw mulch, the usual material for protecting new seedings.

Bathing reportedly was stylish among the Kraos at a time when perfume was still a substitute for [illegible] and water in the courts of Europe.

THE FAIR STORE
North Side of Square Snyder, Texas

Mrs. Cecil Yarborough and son, Chip, soon to be 6 years old, arrived in Snyder last week. Dr. Yarborough has assumed duties as superintendent of schools. The family comes from Port Neches.

TALK OF THE TOWN

By SUE HOLMES

Gardeners accustomed to the growing flowers in the fertile soils of South Texas find our local turf requires a good deal of elbow-grease and energy.

One such newcomer is Mrs. CECIL YARBOROUGH, easy-to-talk-to wife of the new superintendent of the Snyder schools. The family moved last week from Port Neches and is living at 2501 Thirty-second.

Mrs. Yarborough, who is a native of the rose country around Tyler, names "digging in the ground" her favorite hobby and she's undaunted by the challenging hard soil here. The main problem this week was sand in the water meter which prevented getting water to drink—much less allowing any water for the yard.

The Yarboroughs are a school teaching family, since the superintendent and his dark - haired wife went to school together and both went into the teaching field. She will teach second grade next fall and when son Chip enters the first grade.

Included in the household are a dog and two birds. "The pets stood the trip up here better than we did," Mrs. Yarborough laughs.

As to inside hobbies, she says collecting plates and demitasse cups and saucer are her favorites.

"We've already discovered that Snyder is a friendly town, and we're looking forward to making new friends," she said.

The family is Methodist.

Reports from the Country Club picnic Friday have come in from various sources. And it must have been a good old fashioned July 4 celebration with a play party for the kids and plenty of fried chicken and all those goodies the women whip up.

Among the charter members were the H. J. BRICES, JOHN KELLERS, HUGH BORENS and JOE STINSONS, who found plenty to talk about, between the politics and the weather situations.

Mrs. BOB BICKERSTAFF and Mrs. B. L. McKINLEY, JR., and their committee planned the swimming parties for the children, to the obvious delight of the toddler set on up to the teen agers. LINDA MILLER, SONNY HARRELL and DAVID BRICE came out winners in the swimming contests.

David's parents, the RICHARD BRICES, were reported to be a very attractively dressed couple—she in a cool looking gray picnic dress and he in stark white ensemble. In another group on the lawn were the CHARLES COOPERS with the baby son who finally assumed a "to heck with all this celebrating" attitude and dozed calmly off to sleep. Baby Charles's mother was wearing yellow denim with hand - painted Western motifs on the skirt and pockets of the blouse. Her black hair was topped with a yellow hat matching the dress.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. FRANKLIN BROWNFIELD of Lubbock, Mrs. JACK DENNIS and son of Fort Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. JAMES [illegible] of Elwanga and Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] of Quesa.

Families of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars members were packed into the picnic pavilion adjacent to the club house Friday evening for an old-fashioned wiener roast. Later, Harlan Birdwell's orchestra played for dancing.

All in all, it was an enjoyable fourth, with Snyder's highways and streets accident-free.

There's a house on Twenty-seventh Street where a large percentage of Snyder's handwork is done. For its there that Mrs. A. N. MIXON sews and her daughter, REBA, tats and embroiders.

Reba, who had polio when she was two years, has had to stay in bed almost all of the last six years. She is 40 years old now and until the time she became bedfast, her mother says she was an expert cook and housekeeper. She was lots of help to Mrs. Mixon, too, since Reba's grandfather is living with them. Now besides sewing for the public, the industrious woman has the house to keep and meals to prepare, and Reba's needs to watch.

Tatting is Reba's favorite form of handwork and she's done some beautiful pieces of edging and trim in every color. She's made long strips of ecru insertion, and she's made yards and yards of tiny edging for baby dresses. The colors she's chosen for the delicate trim are yellow, blue and pink.

Women for whom Mrs. Mixon sews often bring stamped dresser scarves, table clothes and dish towels for Reba to embroider. Her embroidery is neat and perfect, but she says she had rather tat. Her mother says, too, that she dislikes embroidering cup towels, because the material is usually too loosely woven to conform to Reba's tight embroidery stitch. A perfectionist in her work, she likes to work on nice fabrics.

Reba is able to be up a little, but neither she nor her mother leaves the house much any more.

You can see Reba's tatting and embroidery at Mrs. BILL NICHOL's yarn shop on Avenue U.

Rewarding Results From Camp For Handicaped

By DR. MARTHA M. ELIOT

Laughter and shouts echoed around the lake.

Out in deep water, a few children were diving off a float, swimming several feet away, then back [illegible].

A counselor was watching a little boy wade into water up to his chest. Finally, the lad stretched out his arms, lifted his [illegible] floor, and swam unaided for a few stokes. When he pulled his face out of the water, there was a look of wonderment and pleasure on his face.

On shore, a member of the camping staff said, "Isn't it swell they can all get out in the water. That boy has cerebral palsy. This is the first time he's ever been able to swim."

For many of the children in the water were handicapped children. Some children have to get about with the aid of braces. Some have unseen handicaps—speech difficulties, hearing loss. These conditions do not need to rule out summer camping for them. For a handicapped child can get as much—and sometimes more—out of the camping experience than a physically normal child.

This does not mean, of course, that a summer camp may take handicapped children without making some adjustments in camp life routine. And some handicapped children would not be able to participate sufficiently in a camp program to benefit from it.

In the State of Washington, a camping experiment is being tried by the Washington State Society [illegible] and Adults and the Agricultural Extension Service of Washington State College.

With graduate students as counselors, handicapped children get a chance at summer camping along with children without physical handicaps. No counselor has more than five children under his care. Since the camp site is on a lake, children whose condition does not permit them to take long hikes can be ferried over to picnic grounds or special outdoor play areas by boat, while more active campers make the trek on foot.

All the children join in swimming at the camp, with non-swimmers kept in a shallow pool at the edge of the lake while they learn the first rudiments of getting along in the water.

In Connecticut, also, handicapped children go to camp if their physical therapist and a medical social worker from the Connecticut State Department of Health, as well as, members of the Connecticut Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. spend time at the camp, acquainting staff members with the children's needs.

Children without handicaps, if they learn to work and play with handicapped children, can benefit [illegible] understanding the feelings and hopes of a child with a physical handicap.

For such a child has the same to go to camp. He wants a chance to get out in the outdoors, to test reasons as any child for wanting his abilities to learn, and to make friends.

Many camps in the country can, with advice from persons trained in working with handicapped children, open their rosters to such children with mutually rewarding results.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boren and daughter, Cathy, of Kermit are visiting in the home of Mr. Boren's mother, Mrs. Tom Boren and other friends and relatives.

Mrs. W. B. Lee, 2907 Avenue W, and granddaughter, Dawn of Norfolk, Va., returned this week end from Kerrville, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lee. They also attended the Kerrville rodeo.

Frank Wilsons Hosts At Lawn Party Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson entertained with a watermelon party Friday night in the lighted back yard of their home, 3003 Thirty-eighth Street.

Guests were members of the board of education, administrative staff and their families. Included among the 45 guests were Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Yarborough and son, Chip. Dr. Yarborough is the new superintendent of schools.

Bruce Carson and son, Paul, of Austin are week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Bolger and sons, 3100 Hill Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Fountain, of Dallas are spending several days visiting in the home of Mrs. T. B. Bell and daughter, Genell, 2500 Avenue B.

By FRANCES BROOKS

The smart click of their heels preceded the two young Texas women down the broad and polished deck of the Queen Mary. Three times a hoarse whistle had drowned out the tumult of the New York dock, and finally, the mighty steamer had left shore with a gentle, lake-like movement.

The Southern drawl of Randals Home seemed a long way off. Sally, her close pal from Hockaday School in Dallas, was to continue as her roommate and companion during the two months school-sponsored tour of Europe.

Marianne, recalls she wore a crisp, white piqué skirt, a trim little black and white checked blouse with all-black patent accessories, that first day out. They headed into the capacious dining room to lunch to soft music.

"Wonder why it's so deserted", opined Sally.

"Maybe everybody's seasick," suggested Marianne, engrossed in an excellent shrimp cocktail. "Food's devine".

Emerging, they discovered all too soon that they had, with blase indifference, eaten lunch while the ship eased past the regal Goddess of Liberty under the awed view of most passengers.

• • •

Marianne's sparkling stories haven't lost a whit in freshness since her parents gave her the trip as a graduation present two years ago.

"The tour included five of us girls, young and ready for adventurous travel, several older couples, and Dear John, the one boy who signed up for this tour. He was gallant, and if we were dining in a fancy restaurant anywhere in Europe, he would always ask each of us to dance, then without flinching, start all over again.

"Be sure you go second class if you make the trip over," Marianne stipulates. "We too often ran into older couples, retired, who had saved their money for this trip and sat contentedly in their easy deck chairs. They dressed, sometimes, lavishly, for dinner. We did if we felt up to it. Though I never wore a hat the whole trip except on the mementous visit to the Pope. Along with 42,000 other people (it was pilgrimage time) I saw him and his entourage enter the vast, echoing chambers of the Vatican. Even that huge palace seemed close that day".

• • •

Glumly seasick 5 days later when they docked at South Hampton, the girls trod firm ground gratefully. Taxis whisked them to their London hotels.

"We were dreadfully spoiled in those European hotels. Always in your room you find this little box with three push buttons: maid, waiter, and valet. Ring, and one or all practically fall in at you."

"Expect anything, guidebook notes told us of Paris, and visits to Bal Tambourine and the Lido, the French capitol's gayest night spots, bore out the stories. Fabulous floor shows outdo anything New York knew in the burlesque days of Jimmie Walker. Paris has the entertainment art, we were assured, but we found it too ribald for our tastes."

A cool sidewalk cafe in mid-afternoon is just the thing. Marianne and Sally, with John escorting, had quickly re-ordered after one gasping sip of the fiery chartruse-colored drink. (Coffee ice cream is your best gastronomic bet in France) The Champs Elysee was teeming that afternoon—the smartly frocked little Frenchwomen avidly chatting with their companions, students in clusters arguing, students everywhere. People from every part of the globe, many in native garb. . . A familiar face, that of a Fort Worth acquaintance, hove into view bearing out the French promise, "Thirty minutes at a cafe and you meet someone you have known."

• • •

The majesty of Switzerland scenery captured Marianne's enthusiasm," but you almost get too much of it.

Anyway, the day a boat was to take our group to Lake Geneva Sally and I awakened early, turned over, rubbed tired muscles, looked at each other, and lay back. We spent the day with American magazines and three boxes of those swiss chocolates, the last work in chocolates."

• • •

"Copenhagen bound, we were surrounded by quaint Norway when we admired the deep valleys and thick, brilliant - green foliage. Sally was expecting a camera, and I struck out with her for the Oslo railway station while our party back at the boat waited. Nobody spoke English. We queued up in a line, and thirty minutes later, discovered it was the station. But no camera had arrived. Signs at all restaurants inform the tourist, we never sell fish after it is 12 hours old."

• • •

But, when it was all said and done, the warm, lively charm of Italy quite stole their hearts away. "Leave the most time for your southern European visit," begs Marianne . . . "We were taken to our hotel in Venice by motor boat, passing other pagodas and floating taxis. . . Water is everywhere. Our stay at the Excelsior (In Venice everything is named "Excelsior") was dreamlike—balconies, the inviting canal scenes, and. . . "You enter a restaurant and are brought a salad, which if you are wise, you will ignore, and this heaping bowl of spaghetti. Best take tomato sauce, as meats and milk are questionable. (They never heard of Louie Pasteur) Stuffed, you lean back with a cigarette and in comes the meat course, with probably another course or two later.

"Oh, I could talk forever. But if you go to Europe, please visit Italy, Naples most especially and my blue Mediterranean."

Helps For Homemakers

Send your questions to "Helps for Homemakers", Snyder Daily News, or call 3-5468.

My little girl likes to help me dust, but she doesn't know how to handle a dust cloth so that it doesn't get her dirty. I have read of a treatment to give rags so that it does. Do you know how to do this? Mrs. G.

We have a recipe for "dustless dusters." Here it is—what you do: Cut cheesecloth to size of dusters.

Prepare mixture:

1 pint hot water (extra hot)
¼ cup lemon oil

Stir oil in hot water.

Press in 4 or 5 pieces of cheesecloth. Work oil and water into cloth. Squeeze dry. Hang to dry. You'll find it more convenient to hem dusters.

• • •

I am always soaking pans only to find the next morning that the soaking hasn't helped budge the stuck food. Perhaps you could tell me what I am doing wrong. Mrs. P. C.

Since you didn't say what was cooked in the pans you were soaking, here is a chart which may help you in the future.

Cold soak—for egg, meat, cheese, fish, and dough dishes, because these food harden when heated.

Hot soak—for sugar, syrup and candy dishes because these sugars dissolve quickly in hot water.

Hot soda soak—for grease, gravies, and roasting pans and dishes, because soda makes soft soap with the grease and hence it cleans.

Aluminum kettles are soaked without soda and cleaned by scouring.

Quick breaks are easy with brown'n serve rolls and their variations.

For a different breakfast bread or tea time treat, try Orange Wedge Rolls:

1 teaspoon melted butter or margarine
6 Brown'n Serve Rolls
2 teaspoon orange juice
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
6 orange sections

Brush butter over top of each roll. Make a lengthwise cut in the top of each roll. Combine orange juice, sugar and cinnamon. Insert ½ teaspoon sugar mixture and 1 orange section in each cut. Bake in a greased shallow pan in a moderate oven (400 F.) for 12 minutes. Serve immediately.

For a not-so-sweet treat, Parmesan rolls might hit the spot:

1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
6 Brown'n Serve rolls

Combine butter, mayonnaise, and cheese. Make a lengthwise cut in the top of each roll. Insert 1 teaspoon cheese mixture in each cut. Bake in a greased shallow pan in a moderate oven (400 F.) for 12 minutes. Serve immediately.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

Giant Danish Seaman Recalls Dangerous Exploits In Arctic

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — With his great bulk, flowing beard and peg leg, Peter Freuchen looks like an old sea dog from the misty past who accidentally wandered into the 20th Century.

He was born in Denmark 74 years before the turn of the century and has been an explorer and whaling captain. He has spent about half his last 47 years in the Arctic.

His hearty 6 foot 5 frame strained the canvas of the chair in his modernistically furnished East Side apartment as he looked at his thick leather-encased peg leg.

"I didn't mind so much," he smiled. "My humor wasn't in the left leg."

That was in 1925 and a snowstorm was blowing in frigid Hudson Bay Territory. He had become separated from his party after going back for supplies. He crawled under his sledge to sleep. Next morning he was snowed in—and without his snow knife.

"I didn't worry," he said. "I just went to sleep again. When I awoke there was no feeling in my leg. It took me four hours to crawl to camp."

Later he said he chopped off his own gangrenous toes and the next year the leg came off below the knee. His Eskimo wife died on that trip.

But that wasn't Freuchen's most fearsome experience in the Northland. That had come in 1918 when he fell into a crevasse in a Greenland icecap. He braced his body against the sides to keep from dropping thousands of feet further. His companions lowered a rope.

"I never have been able to forget the fear that the rope wouldn't be long enough," he said. He thinks he will eventually die in such a crevasse.

In his fabulous career he has harpooned whales from small boats, written 24 books, acted the part of a whaling captain (easy for him) in one of them, mapped the Greenland icecaps, been a Siberian ice pilot, fought in the underground after escaping from the Nazis twice in World War II.

In 1911 he suffered frostbite to his face which made shaving difficult. He let his beard grow until forced to have it off to prevent recognition by the Nazis during the war. For the same reason he exchanged his peg leg for an artificial foot. He was on Hitler's "shoot on sight" list. He helped smuggle Allied airmen and refugees from Denmark to Sweden.

Freuchen began his expeditions in 1906 when a youth of 20. In 1910 he went to Greenland for 10 years. Then natives used bows and arrows. He built the first homes in Thule. From 1921 until he lost his leg he was in Hudson Bay.

"I thought I couldn't travel any more," he said. "I've seen so much that I put it into plots and turned to writing."

His first novel, "Eskimo," was published in 1926. This was the one Hollywood made into a movie, three years after Freuchen came to the United States. His latest book is "The Law of Larion," published this year. He has toured the county three times lecturing.

Explorer Peter Freuchen

At present he is a correspondent for a Danish newspaper. He spends much time covering United Nations activities. He is often called in by the U.N. on Arctic problems.

"The most exciting thing about my experiences has been seeing civilization come to the North," he said. "Before that primitive man had nothing to think about. Problems came with the white man but that has been good for the North."

Freuchen had two children by his Eskimo wife. One of them, Papaluk, is now a writer. He remarried in 1945. His young and attractive wife's name is Dagmar. She is a fashion illustrator and art teacher.

But she hasn't been able to domesticate this great Dane completely. He still spends the summer and fall in Greenland almost every year. He has fishing interests there.

And once a week he sits down to a whale steak.

Colds Fewer Where Floors Are Oiled

CHICAGO (AP)—Colds and other respiratory infections are fewer in Army barracks or hospitals where floors and blankets are oiled, a study in the Journal of Infectious Diseases reports. The oiling reduces bacteria in the air by as much as 90 per cent during tasks like sweeping and bed making.

THE LAW IN TEXAS

Basic American Principals Expressed By Forefathers

Our Declaration of Independence, signed 176 years ago, is considered by lawyers as expressing a basic principle of our American way of life—our belief in a government of laws rather than a government of men, and in certain individual rights that must not be denied by governing bodies.

The indictments set out in the document against King George III of Great Britain charge him with numerous violations of that tenet. Among the complaints enumerated are the following:

"He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people."

"He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent for laws for establishing judiciary powers."

"He has made judges dependent upon his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries."

"He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good."

"He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation: For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury; For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences; ... For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments; ... For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever."

Our forefathers who subscribed to the principles of the Declaration of Independence were willing to fight for their beliefs. The Revoluntionary War followed, dragging through weary years of suffering and suspense. Each of us takes pride in their eventual triumph over gigantic obstacles.

In 1787, when the framers of our Constitution met at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence had been signed 11 years previously, they set to work to create a system of checks and balances in government which was to perpetuate the fundamental theory mentioned in the preamble of the earlier document:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal: that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

"That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed: ..."

Some 5 years later, the first ten amendments to our Constitution were adopted at one time, specifically detailing various basic civil rights stemming from the underlying theory of the Declaration of Independence.

Our courts day by day guard these rights for us.

Local Talent Show Planned

A special feature of local talent will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Palace Theatre, D. F. Nichols, manager of Snyder Theatres, Inc., announced today.

Nichols said that a large number of Snyder residents, most of them high school students, have been chosen for the show and will begin rehearsals tomorrow night.

R. I. Brown, show promoter, will coach the local artists in preparation for the feature, which will be made up of impersonations of various actors and actresses.

Nichols said the movie feature, "The Loan Shark," with George Raft, will be shown before the stage show.

Admission prices will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rosser, 3702 Austin Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hemphill, 419 Thirtieth Street, returned yesterday from the state bar association convention in Houston.

PATTERN by American Designer TONI OWEN

1105

American designer Toni Owen has given the old stand-by a new lease on glamour this season with this basic coatdress. The collar stands up for an appealing neckline; and the cuffed sleeves are attractive and comfortable. The skirt is full, just right for cotton or light-weight wools for fall. The original dress was of heavy, ribbed black cotton, but linen or taffeta would be equally good. Size 12 requires five yards of 39-inch material, or three and three-quarter yards of 54-inch material. The pattern is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. To order it, No. 1105, send $1 to Spadea Syndicate, Inc., Dept. 163, Box 258, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N.Y. For air mail, enclose an additional 25 cents. Pattern booklet No. VI is 15 cents, and may be ordered from the same address.

Television And Radio Fight For Freedom To See And Hear

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Television and radio, like the press, are battling for the people's right to look and listen.

[illegible] is pointed up by the campaign of the airwaves men to get their cameras and microphones into the hearing rooms of Congress, and into the hearings on the delegate contests at the national political conventions at Chicago.

Sen. Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat, has sponsored a resolution to bar radio and TV at Senate committee hearings. The Republican National Committee voted this week to prohibit TV and radio broadcasts of the delegate contests.

But campaigns attracting national attention are being waged on the state and local levels, too. Some of those efforts to aircast meetings of state government bodies and city council meetings have succeeded, some have not.

The fight against radio and TV coverage of governmental hearings is not based solely on a desire for privacy for witnesses or others.

Some of the complaint has been that it causes too much confusion in a mechanical way—with lights, cameras, microphones and cables distracting from the business at hand.

Jim Bormann of station WCCO, Minneapolis, president of the National Association of Radio News Directors ("ARND"), took up this and other aspects of the situation in a letter to McCarran.

"The technique for recording newsworthy events on sound and film is constantly improving," he wrote. "We foresee the day when the microphone and the camera in a jury room will be no more conspicuous than the judge's thumb."

McCarran has expressed concern that civil rights of witnesses might be jeopardized by radio or TV. Bormann expressed belief proper safeguards could be worked out.

"As we see it," he wrote, "the best approach to the problem would be along these lines: Establish safeguards for the rights of persons appearing before the committee . . . and at the same time safeguard the rights of the people to know more rather than less about what their government is doing in committee or elsewhere."

The NARND similarly protested House Speaker Sam Rayburn's interpretation of House rules last February to restrict coverage to paper and pencils.

Broadcasters can point to a court of progress in their contention that decision in New Jersey as evidence microphones should have the right to go in to the same places that newspaper reporters do with their notebooks and pencils.

Tom Tighe, manager of station WJLK at Asbury Park, N. J., sought permission last fall for his station to broadcast a City Council public hearing on a proposed luxury tax for the shore resort. The City Council refused permission.

"We took the view that radio was entitled to parity with newspapers in reporting the news and took the case to court," Tighe related.

Superior Court Judge Schettino heard the case and backed Tighe's contention. Schettino ordered the city to permit the radio station to place its microphones in the public hearing chamber.

He held that the constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press applied to radio.

But here is one example of what some stations run up against, with less successful outcome.

KWAT's attempt to broadcast a City Council meeting in Watertown, S. D., lasted less than five minutes. The mayor apparently had approved the idea.

Goldman's Concert Band Is 42 Years Old, Still Popular

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—"How many concerts have I conducted?"

Edwin Frank Goldman of the Goldman Band repeated the question, thought it over, and said: "I suppose 10,000. And do you know, I've never missed a concert!"

He could justly be proud of having dug out of the archives a long list of band pieces written by the master composers and forgotten. He could be proud of having persuaded the finest living composers to write band music. He could be proud of having himself composed, among other numbers, exactly 100 marches, or only two fewer than Sousa. And he could be proud of those 10,000 concerts.

But the thing this white-haired, black-eyebrowed, sturdy man is proudest of, apparently, is that he never missed a concert.

"I shall be 75 next Jan. 1. Long ago I planned to retire when I was 60, and bought a country house to retire to. I've sold it. I plan now to keep on conducting. When I got for a physical examination, the doctor says, get out of here, you waste my time. I never had a headache in my life. I even have every single one of my teeth. See!"

The Goldman Band is 42 years old. At present it is playing in the New York and Brooklyn Guggenheim [illegible] outdoor concerts six nights a week.

But the band is known across the country, for it makes music for the man in Main Street. The Goldman Band and Edwin Franko Goldman . . . or his son and assistant [illegible] Goldman . . . have been heard all across the continent in parades, at fairs, expositions, particularly on holidays like yesterday.

There are 10 bands in this country to every orchestra, says Goldman. But one of the last of the professional concert bands is Goldman's.

John Philip Sousa, bandmaster of an earlier generation, said that the first time he heard "really fine music" it was music by older members of the Goldman family. Goldman tried for a place in Sousa's band; he was a good enough cornetist, but there was no vacancy, so for 10 years he played with the Metropolitan Opera.

In the summer he played with bands in parks. He asked himself: Why cant a band play as artistically as an orchestra? Why can't it have its own music, instead of playing transcriptions, often "bad ones, of works intended for symphonies?

Against the advice of his sage friends, he told Toscanini, then the [illegible] conductor, that he was looking for [illegible]. Why? To organize a band, bravo, said the Italian maestro.

Nowadays you can listen to a Goldman Band program including music written for Goldman by composers like Milhaud, Vaughan Williams and Schoenberg. [illegible] son or two later you hear them in transcriptions for orchestra played by the big symphonies in Carnegie Hall.

Record Box: Brahms was well along in his career before he risked writing and publishing his first two string quartets, Opus 51. Ravel first attracted important critical attention . . . and some of it was bitterly hostile . . . with his quartet in F. They were written within 30 years, the Brahms in 1873 and the Ravel, 1902-03.

Brahms' Quartet No. 2, in A Minor, played by the Hollywood String quartet comes from Capital, and the Ravel is played by the Paganini Quartet and printed by CA Victor. Each work is fairly representative of its composer.

Mahon Votes Against Wage-Price Controls

Most Texans in the House voted for an amendment which would have terminated price and wage controls July 31, 1952, the Congressional Quarterly news bureau reported to the Daily News this week.

Although the measure was rejected by the House with a vote of 150-244, Texans voted for it 12-4. Total Democratic vote was 36 for, 162 against. Republicans voted for it 114-81.

George Mahon of the 19th Congressional district was among Texans voting to end controls.

The measure was one of the Defense Production Act Amendments of 1952. Republican - Southern Democrat vote pushed most of the amendments through, thus virtually ending price control.

The amendment to continue controls but to suspend ceilings on materials which have sold below ceiling for three months was passed by the House, 210-182. Texans, including Mahon, approved it 16-3. Republicans voted for the measure, 154 - 40, and Democrats against it, 141-56.

The measure ending [illegible] control Sept. 30, except in critical defense areas or cities requesting control, passed the House 226-169. Mahon was among the 13 Texans voting for the amendment, while four voted against it. Republicans voted for it 168 - 26, Democrats against it 142-58.

Three other amendments to the act were passed, with a similar distribution of votes. They were the Cole Amendment, giving retailers and wholesalers their customary pre-Korean price markups; the Lucas amendment, placing control of [illegible] Board in the hands of public members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate; and the Smith amendment requesting the president to use the Taft-Hartley law to stop the steel walkout.

In the days before the white man came, Kentucky was known by the Indians as "The Dark and Bloody Ground" because of the wars between the Iroquois and Cherokees for its possession.
