In Brief

USAir deal

LONDON (AP) — British Airways will invest $750 million in USAir under an agreement announced today that forms the world's largest airline alliance.

Both companies said the agreement was "the first major step towards the creation of a truly global airline group."

The deal gives British Airways four seats on USAir's board of directors and a 21 percent stake in the carrier.

Good report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan predicted today that the U.S. economy would enjoy a modest pickup in growth that will push the unemployment rate down significantly next year.

Greenspan, delivering the Fed's midyear assessment of economic prospects, sounded an optimistic note while conceding that the economy so far has failed to perform up to expectations.

In his prepared testimony, he did not specifically promise to make further cuts in interest rates. However, in the past he has often signaled the bank's willingness to do so should the economy's performance fall below expectations.

Jobless rate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas unemployment rate in June jumped to 8.3 percent, its highest level since March 1988, state officials reported today.

The June rate was nearly a full percentage point increase over May and more than two points higher than a year ago.

"We now have approximately 742,600 individuals trying to find jobs, and this has pushed our statewide rate to the highest level we have seen in four years," Texas Employment Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers said.

The number of jobless Texans rose during the month by 97,800. But Ms. Nabers said all the reasons for the surge aren't clear.

Baker arrives for peace talk

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III arrived today for talks with King Hussein on the Middle East peace process, possibly his last diplomatic mission.

He left Israel with rumors flying that he will step down to quarterback President Bush's re-election campaign. He did not deny the rumors Monday.

Baker is on a regional tour aimed at injecting new life into Arab-Israeli peace talks. He was spending four hours in Amman meeting with the king and Prime Minister Zeid Bin Shaker. He also planned to go to Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Baker was greeted warmly by Foreign Minister Kamel Abu Jaber upon his arrival at Marka military airport near Amman. They immediately drove off to the royal palace to meet the king.

In Israel, Baker offered public support for the absorption of tens of thousands of Jewish immigrants, hinting that Bush may approve Israel's long-denied request for help in getting $10 billion in commercial bank loans.

Baker's statement after a meeting Monday with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and his financial advisers could point the way to approval of the loan guarantees following Israel's decision to limit Jewish settlements on the West Bank and in Gaza.

Bush is likely to take that step when Rabin visits him in Kennebunkport, Maine, during the second week in August, Israeli sources said.

A State Department official said late Monday that no agreement had been finalized. But, he said, "we are hopeful that will be the case."

"We are hopeful we are going to be able to resolve this in ways that meet their needs as well as ours," said the official at a briefing for reporters that shielded his identity.

Baker met with Foreign Minister Shimon Peres before heading for Jordan today and called his stay in Israel a "very, very fruitful visit."

"I will be carrying the message that in my view there is a new opportunity to move forward," said Baker.

Best of Texas show returns

The third annual Best of Texas Steer and Lamb Show will be held this weekend at Scurry County Coliseum.

Livestock for the show will be brought in Friday. The lamb show will open at 9 a.m. Saturday with over 300 lambs expected.

The event will continue at 8 a.m. Sunday with over 200 entries in the steer show.

The show is the first of several prospect shows to be held this summer. It gives youth a chance to gain experience in showing their animals before the major shows in the winter months.

The lamb show will be judged by Joel Cowly of College Station and the steer show will be judged by Wayne Mabler of Electra.

The public is invited to come out and support local youth. There is no admission charge.

Drug-resistant tuberculosis sparked by AIDS epidemic

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — The AIDS epidemic has sparked the outbreak of a mutant strain of tuberculosis that defies all medical treatment, scientists said today.

"We are dealing with untreatable tuberculosis like we did in the 1920s when we had horrendous tuberculosis," said Dr. Donald Enarson, an investigator with the International Union against Tuberculosis and Lung Disease in Canada.

Authorities at the eighth International Conference on AIDS said the combination of the virus that causes AIDS and the highly contagious tuberculin bacillus accelerate the progress of both tuberculosis and AIDS, which destroys the body's natural immune system.

Tuberculosis spreads faster through the bodies of people with weak immune systems. But scientists here said they are at a loss to explain why the progress of acquired immune deficiency syndrome is quickened by tuberculosis infection.

The mutant tuberculosis strain — referred to as multi-drug-resistant tuberculosis — survives the assault of standard anti-tuberculosis drugs like rifampin and isoniazid.

Tuberculosis has infected nearly half of the 10 million people suffering from AIDS, said Dr. Jose Luis Valdespino, a researcher at The National Institute of Epidemiological Diagnosis and Reference in Mexico.

The mutant not only poses a threat to AIDS victims but to healthy people as well, Valdespino said.

Tuberculosis spreads in the air, moving quickly through crowded communities, such as prison populations and inner-city areas.

Tuberculin bacilli quickly invade the body's vital organs, targeting and destroying the lungs.

Because of the mutant's resistance to standard therapy, an increasing number of AIDS sufferers will ultimately succumb to tuberculosis, according to Enarson.

He speculated that the mutant strain may have been spawned not by AIDS, but rather by the misuse of standard anti-tuberculosis drugs in an attempt to quickly suppress the infection in already-weakened AIDS patients.

Incorrect drug therapy can spur genetic changes in disease agents that allow them to survive within the body.

Two enter guilty pleas

A twenty-five-year-old Snyder man pled guilty to charges of felony criminal mischief and driving while intoxicated Friday afternoon in 132nd District Court.

Eddie Gutierrez, whose address is listed as Post Road Box 30, was sentenced to two years in the Scurry County Jail Work Program on the two charges, both of which occurred May 31. Gutierrez was also charged a $500 fine on the DWI charge, for which he was indicted by a grand jury earlier this month.

Also pleading guilty to charges of felony driving while intoxicated was 34-year-old Mary Villanueva of 4400 Ave. U. Villanueva was sentenced to three years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, probated, and a $750 fine in connection with the June 21 charge.

C-City youth dies in wreck

COLORADO CITY — A former Snyder resident, 19-year-old Robbie Smith, died early today from injuries sustained in a one-vehicle accident, three miles south of here.

Smith, a resident of Colorado City, was passenger in a 1987 Jeep Cherokee which he owned and which was driven by James Edward Franco, 17, of Colorado City. Franco and another passenger, 16-year-old Shannon Reeves of Spokane, Wash., were not seriously injured. Officers said Franco and Reeves walked 1.4 miles to a residence to report the accident.

The mishap occurred about 12:20 a.m., three miles south of Colorado City on Seven Wells Road. The vehicle was northbound when the driver apparently lost control and it overturned one and three-quarter times. No one was thrown from the vehicle.

Treatment plant focus of two city workshops

City officials will hold two meetings Wednesday in preparation for construction of the city's new $4,375,000 wastewater treatment plant.

A 10:30 a.m. meeting will be held with representatives of the Texas Water Development Board to discuss required operational procedures for construction and requirements for the city's loan under the State Revolving Fund Loan system.

A 1:30 p.m. meeting is scheduled between city officials and the general contractor for the plant, R.P. Contracting of New Braunfels.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the mechanics of the plant, a proposed starting date and procedures for keeping the current plant in operation while the new one is being built.

Snyder was originally approved for a State Revolving Fund Loan of $4 million to cover estimated costs of plant construction. The city council voted to request an addition $375,000 from the state after bid proposals came in higher than expected.

The total loan of $4,375,000 was approved by the water development board at 5.5 percent interest.

Construction is expected to begin in August and will take one year to complete.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If we're gonna limit the terms of elected officials, let's also include those TV network commentators."

It's vacation season, and some of the advertisements in the travel section look appealing. One says you can actually fly to and stay in Las Vegas for a week for under $500. What it doesn't reveal is the cost of the trip home.

There are those who travel foreign lands, looking for offbeat events. One travel reporter has encountered a number of signs and notices written in what the person who inscribed them fondly believed to be English.

Part of his collection of favorites have been put in a little paperback titled, "English Well Speeched Here." Here are some samples:

In a Norwegian cocktail lounge is a sign which reads, "Ladies are requested not to have children in the bar." Among the delicacies on a Moroccan restaurant menu is "Dreaded veal cutlet."

In a flier for a Polish hotel restaurant is the following: "As for the trout served at the hotel Monopol, you will be singing its praises for your grandchildren as you lie on your deathbed."

A Roman doctor proclaims himself, "A specialist in women and other diseases." On the desk at an Athens hotel is a sign which reads, "If you consider our help impolite, you should see our manager."

An advertisement for donkey rides in Thailand advises, "Would you like to ride your own ass?" In a Kowloon hotel there is a warning which reads, "It is forbidden to steal hotel towels. Please if you not person to do such is please not to read this notice." A Roman laundry suggests: "Ladies, leave your clothes here and spend the afternoon having a good time."

Bumper sticker seen on travel trailer pulling a boat: "Work is for those who don't know how to fish."

Judge to decide curfew in Dallas by end of month

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge received more evidence Monday regarding Dallas' new teen ordinance and said he expects to uphold the ordinance or overturn it by the end of next week.

On behalf of the ordinance, which requires youths under 17 to be off the streets by 11 p.m. weekdays and midnight on weekends, city attorney Sam Lindsay presented statistics on juvenile crime in Dallas as evidence the ordinance is needed.

But the American Civil Liberties Union, which filed a class-action lawsuit on behalf of an estimated 200,000 youths affected by the ordinance, challenged the city's interpretation.

U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer told both sides to come back to him Thursday with a further appraisal of the statistics. He said he should have his decision ready by July 31.

Joe Cook, North Texas regional director of the ACLU of Texas, told reporters at an afternoon news conference the ordinance is a waste of time and money.

Police already have the power to stop and arrest juveniles involved in unlawful activity at any hour of the day or night and should be encouraged to continue with such arrests, the ACLU official said.

Meanwhile, law-abiding citizens should not be stopped and questioned whenever they are out, no matter what the time, he said.

The city presented to Buchmeyer an analysis of 2,660 juvenile arrests between Jan. 1 and June 30 of this year. Of those, it said 482, or 18.1 percent, occurred during curfew hours. Of those arrests, 406, or 15.2 percent, occurred in public places covered by the curfew.

Of 450 arrest reports provided separately to the ACLU by the city, only 271 clearly fall under the curfew ordinance and 100 of those were runaways, who would not respond to a curfew anyway, Cook said.

The remaining arrests either occurred at the suspect's home, may have occurred during daylight hours, or were made when the juvenile was accompanied by an adult in whose charge the teen may have been placed, he said.

The statistics "buttress our case that the ordinance is not needed," Cook said.

Spouse charged with wife's murder

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A 72-year-old Arkansas man was charged Monday with murdering his 87-year-old wife, whose body was found Sunday morning in a Vega motel room.

Joe Huss Cauthens of Rogers, Ark., is charged in the death of Gladys Cauthens, his wife of 45 years. He was arraigned before Oldham County Judge Don Allred and later released on $50,000 bond, said Vega Police Chief Bruce Burrell.

The police chief said Cauthens called the front desk of the Best Western Sands Motel in Vega, about 25 miles west of Amarillo, Sunday morning to report the death of his wife.

Burrell said he was contacted by the motel's desk clerk. He said he dispatched an ambulance to the motel.

"When I got there, I found that the lady was dead and that the male subject had injured himself," Burrell said. "He had slashed his wrists."

Cauthens was treated at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo and released into police custody Sunday.

Cauthens is free to travel, but he must return to Vega if an Oldham County grand jury returns an indictment against him next month.

Burrell said Cauthens told authorities he had killed his wife out of "mercy."

The cause of Mrs. Cauthens' death has not been released by officials.

Pathologist Dr. Elizabeth Peacock performed an autopsy on Monday, but results will not be available for at least two weeks.

Questions of Nationality Are Easily Answered if Asked

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In reference to a problem you were asked to help with: I have a story that will make your correspondent feel much better about her inability to tell one Asian from another.

Chompoo, a sweet little Thai girl, lived in our apartment building while going to school in Washington, D.C. While shopping with her in one of the big department stores, we spied another Asian-looking girl, so we pointed her out and asked if that girl was also Thai.

Chompoo said she'd find out, so she went over to her and they exchanged a few pleasant words, introducing themselves. As it turned out, the other girl asked our Thai friend if she was Filipino.

Chompoo said that many times they can't tell one nationality from the other themselves, so how could we be expected to? We had people of all nationalities in our home nearly all the time and we enjoyed them all, but like you said, Abby, "Ask them — most of them are proud to tell you and will not take offense."

M.B.B. (RETIRED IN FLORIDA)

DEAR M.B.B.: Most, but not all. One reader wrote to say that she (out of curiosity) approached a gentleman with Oriental features and said, "My friend and I have a bet on. Where are you from?"

The gentleman replied, "Cincinnati."

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, I saw a vase that caught my eye at a flea market, so I bought it for $20. It never seemed to fit anywhere in my home, so it ended up in the back closet.

Recently, while I was cleaning out the back closet, a couple of old friends stopped by. The wife saw the vase on the floor and admired it, so I gave it to her. She was very pleased and took it home.

A few days later, she called me — all excited. She said she had engaged a professional to come to her home to evaluate their possessions for insurance purposes, and the appraiser told her that the vase I had given her was worth several thousand dollars! She said that she and her husband had talked it over and decided that since I had given her the vase, they would leave it to me in their will — and if I predeceased them, it would go to my children. (I could tell by her tone that she thought she was being very generous.)

I am aware that I have no legal claim on the vase. Also, they did not have to tell me about the appraisal, or remember me in their will. However, had the situation been reversed, I would have returned the vase as soon as I learned of the appraisal.

Now I no longer feel friendly toward this woman. How would you have handled this?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST ASKING: I, too, would have returned the vase immediately upon learning its value.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for devoting an entire column to "pet peeves" in word usage and language. Let me bring to your attention, however, that "forte" is also pronounced "for-tay," and "loan" is now acceptable as a verb.

HELEN M. AHLERS

DEAR HELEN: According to my Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, when "forte" is used to mean "strong point," it is often pronounced "fort-ay" — as in the musical term "forte," also pronounced "for-tay."

Woes of migrant workers compiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Very few migrant farm workers are able to lift themselves out of poverty and the wretched working conditions that exist across the United States, farm labor officials say.

The migrant workers won't be able to improve their lives until they obtain the right to form unions, said Carlos Marentes, director of the Union of Border Farmworkers, based in El Paso.

"The situation in which the agricultural workers find themselves is an embarrassment and moral disgrace to this country," Marentes said Monday.

"Without the right to collective bargaining, agricultural workers will continue living in poverty and will continue suffering injustices."

Marentes testified during a briefing organized by the Helsinki Commission, which monitors compliance of the so-called Helsinki Accords in all 48 member countries of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

The Helsinki Commission is focusing on migrant farm workers' problems in the United States before extending its scope to Europe and other regions. Monday's briefing was one of four the commission will hold before compiling a report on U.S. conditions.

Commission staffers in the last six months journeyed to Florida, Texas and California to observe working and living conditions for the migrant farm workers, most of whom are originally from Mexico and Central America.

Panelists chronicled grim statistics.

"Very few farm worker families are able to emerge from poverty," said Ed Kissam, a farm labor policy consultant.

Nationwide, seasonal agricultural services workers earned on average $6,500 a year for 141 days of farm work, according to the National Agricultural Worker Survey. In the Texas-New Mexico area, that average dropped to $5,300 last year, Marentes said.

"In the chile fields of New Mexico, as in many places, they pay by piece rate ... and this pay has not changed for the past 10 years," he said.

Another problem, Kissam said, is that migrant workers are chronically underemployed. In South Texas, farm workers average only 6.6 months of farm work a year, he said, and have difficulty finding other jobs in the off-season.

Workers are often crowded 15 or more to a two-room shack, and sent unprotected to fields freshly sprayed with pesticides without access to drinking water or portable toilets, Marentes and Kissam said. Children also are forced to work as adults, and the workers are denied access to health programs, workers compensation or unemployment benefits.

"If this were not enough, their human and civil rights are constantly violated by the various authorities that operate along the border region and especially by the Border Patrol," Marentes said.

He blamed conditions in part on lack of enforcement of existing regulations by the Labor Department, and violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Migrant and Seasonal Workers Protection Act by labor contractors.

But John Fraser, a Labor Department deputy administrator, said his agency was doing its job.

Latest crash raises questions about V-22 Osprey's future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania Rep. Curt Weldon was working on a plan: bring the experimental V-22 Osprey to Houston for the Republican National Convention next month to help build momentum for the controversial tilt-rotor.

At a local airport, delegates would get a chance to see the aircraft in person. Such a display, he believed, would generate enthusiasm and bring additional pressure on the Pentagon, which only recently relaxed its opposition to the program.

But the prospects for that appearance — and the future of the aircraft itself — came into question Monday after seven crew members reportedly were killed when an Osprey prototype crashed near the Marine Corps Air Station at Quantico, Va.

Weldon, a Republican, and other congressional supporters conceded that the accident could embolden the plane's critics, who have described the Osprey as poorly designed and too costly. Another prototype crashed last year.

Monday's crash took place at a critical time for the Osprey. This week, congressional committees are poised to consider new funding for the plane as part of an agreement with Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

"We are in the middle of trying to work out a compromise with the secretary of defense and it's a very fragile compromise at this point," said Democrat Pete Geren. Geren's Fort Worth congressional district is where the aircraft is being partially developed.

Geren said it was "impossible to assess at this point the impact on the program until we know what was involved."

Weldon said the Osprey "has flown successfully more than any other new technology." But he acknowledged that the crash, if attributed to a design defect, could have a major impact on the future of the program.

The Osprey, which takes off like a helicopter but flies like a plane, is being jointly developed by Bell Helicopter Textron in Fort Worth and Boeing's helicopter division in Ridley Park, Pa. It's intended to replace the Marine's aging CH-46 helicopters, which went into service three decades ago.

The Pentagon has in recent years sought to kill the program. But under pressure from Congress, Cheney recently agreed to free $790 million set aside last year for the V-22 and to spend the $755 million that Congress is expected to approve this year.

The House and Senate committees were expected to take up bills related to that agreement this week. Marine Lt. Col. Kerry Gershaneck said it was too early to assess the impact of the crash.

Defense lobbyists, declining to speak for the record, acknowledged that the crash could lead to problems for the program.

Lubbock man shot to death

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — A 19-year-old man was being held Monday in connection with the death of a Lubbock man who was shot outside a southwest Houston shoe store while he waited for his wife and three children to finish shopping, police said.

Marcel Shannon, address unknown, has been charged with capital murder and bond denied. He remained in custody at the Jefferson County Jail late Monday, police said.

Benjamin Garza, 28, was shot in the head Sunday, and his body was dumped in the parking lot, said Robert Hurst, a spokesman for the Houston police department.

"All the information we've got now is that he just walked up to the car and shot Garza in the head," Hurst said.

Shortly later, authorities from the Chambers County Sheriff's Department and the Texas Department of Public Safety found Garza's missing station wagon. Shannon evaded immediate arrest by fleeing into a wooded area near Anahuac, Hurst said.

After a manhunt that included horses and dogs, Shannon was arrested about 10 p.m. Sunday at a truck stop on the west side of Beaumont, in Jefferson County, Hurst said.

Low-fat muffins

NANCY BYAL, Food Editor Better Homes and Gardens Magazine, For AP Special Features

Zucchini bread, zucchini cake, even zucchini waffles and pancakes sound healthful. But actually, many of these gardener's baked delights can be high in oil or other high-fat ingredients.

Not so with these zucchini muffins!

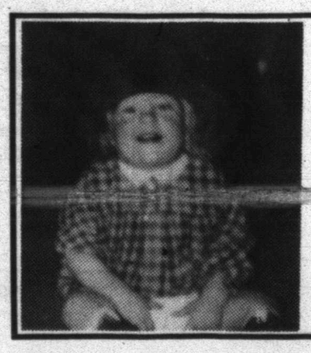

ZUCCHINI MUFFINS

1 cup Oat Bran Baking Mix
1 slightly beaten egg white
3 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 tablespoon honey
1/2 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
1/2 cup shredded zucchini
Non-stick spray coating

In a large mixing bowl stir the Oat Bran Baking Mix. In a medium mixing bowl stir together egg white, water, cooking oil, honey and pumpkin pie spice. Add egg white mixture to the baking mix all at once. Stir just until moistened. Fold in zucchini.

Line 4 muffin cups with paper bake cups or spray with non-stick spray coating. Spoon batter into muffin cups. Bake in a 400-degree F oven about 18 minutes or until light brown. Serve warm. Makes 4 muffins.

Oat Bran Baking Mix: In a large mixing bowl stir together 2 cups all-purpose flour, 2 cups whole-wheat flour, 2 cups whole bran cereal, 1 cup oat bran, 1/2 cup non-fat dry milk powder, 1/2 cup packed brown sugar, 3 tablespoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. To store, transfer mix to a tightly covered container; keep for up to 6 weeks at room temperature or for up to six months in the freezer. Makes 8 cups.

The final deal was decisive

By Phillip Alder

In the final of the open trials held in Memphis, the team of Edgar Kaplan/Norman Kay, Bill Root/Richard Pavlicek and Mike Passell/Brian Glubok were 39 international matchpoints (IMPs) behind with 16 deals to go. After 15 of these in the Root/Pavlicek room, they had moved ahead by seven IMPs, having won the session by 47-1. This was the fateful final deal.

Four hearts was the contract at both tables. There are three top losers: one spade, one heart and one club. So it appears that it will come down to a club guess.

At the other table, system restraints had forced North to open one diamond. After South responded one heart, West made a light take-out double. When East produced the heart king during the play, it was easy for South, Eric Rodwell, to place West with the club ace and make his contract.

Against Pavlicek, Bob Hamman led the diamond 10. Afraid the lead was a singleton, Pavlicek didn't want to continue with the ace and another heart. Instead he led a low spade; maybe East wouldn't rise with the ace. However, now West could win with the ace and lead his second diamond. When East got in with the heart king, he gave West a diamond ruff. West cashed the club ace to defeat the contract, gaining 10 IMPs and winning the match by three.

Even if declarer had played trumps immediately, he probably would have gone down. Once he learned that West had the spade ace, he would have been inclined to place East with the club ace (the theory of split aces).

Powder transformation helps handbags

NEW YORK (AP) — Loose powder is hard on the handbag — and everything in it. So to touch up makeup on the go, pressed powder was the alternative.

Now comes the Turn-It-Loose Powder Mill from Avon. The company says that with a twist of the compact, a built-in shaver transforms pressed powder into a single, fresh application.

Key City halts Snyder Stars

Abilene squad stops Snyder's run at Little League title

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

ABILENE — It was a game of comebacks.

First, powered by a two-run homer, Abilene Key City came back from a 7-2 deficit. Then Snyder's Little League All-Stars came back to take a 9-8 lead.

But the Key City squad had the last word, scoring the tying and go-ahead runs in the top of the sixth inning Monday to claim a 10-9 victory to take the District 1 championship and eliminate Snyder from the Little League post-season baseball tournament.

The Area 3 champion Key City squad will now host the Section II Tournament, playing District 7 champ Weatherford Friday at 6 p.m.

Snyder jumped out early, scoring three runs in the last of the first frame to negate a two-run opening-inning burst by Key City.

The big strike in the inning came on a bases-loaded double by Dustin Fish that drove in David Smith, who walked, and Toby Delce, who got on with a fielder's choice.

The Snyder offensive barrage continued in the second when Eric Gard and Delce each singled, Paul O'Connor, who singled and scored in the first, walked and Kyle Beck slapped a two-RBI single into right field.

Fish followed with a two-run single of his own to lift Snyder to a 7-2 advantage just two innings into the game.

Starting pitchers O'Connor for Snyder and Abilene's Jarod Jeter buckled down and went through the next two innings scoreless before Abilene started its first rally.

Peter Abrigg drilled a line drive double into right-center, scooting to third on a throwing error. He was plated by Caleb Borden, who rapped a single.

Benito Perez followed with a towering two-run homer over the fence in straightaway center field to pull Key City to within 7-5.

Nathan Jimmins and Josh Stearns each walked and Jeter smacked a single that tied the game at 7-all.

Jeron Powell, Abrigg and Borden were each issued walks, forcing in Jeter with the go-ahead run.

Snyder waited to answer until the fifth when Cory Mandrell, pinch-hitting for Tommy Fields, walked, went to second on a Smith single, then hit third on a passed ball.

Toby Delce and O'Connor both reached on errors that allowed Snyder to regain the lead, 9-8.

Abilene, with three outs left in the game, scored the winning runs. Powell singled and scored when Abrigg tripled. Abrigg came in with what proved to be the game winner on a sacrifice fly by Borden.

Snyder couldn't come up with the tying run in the last of the sixth, in spite of getting Kelly Gentry on base with a walk and Gard as far as second before being forced out.

Dustin Fish was Snyder's top hitter Monday, punching a double and a single in three at-bats.

Key City's only two-hit performance came from Abrigg, who had a pair of extra-base hits and two walks on the night.

Snyder's Johnny Pena took the loss in relief of starter O'Connor. The pair combined for three strikeouts and seven walks while giving up 10 hits to the potent Abilene lineup.

Powell, who relieved Jeter, accepted the win for Key City. Abilene pitchers walked seven Snyder batters, fanned 10 and surrendered eight hits.

Houston downs Pirates, 11-8

HOUSTON (AP) — The catch hurt Houston outfielder Luis Gonzalez, but it hurt the Pittsburgh Pirates even more.

Gonzalez made a sliding catch in the seventh inning off the bat of Don Slaught Monday night to preserve an 8-7 Houston lead that eventually increased to an 11-8 victory over the Pirates.

"Gonzo's catch turned it around," Houston manager Art Howe said. "It saved a couple of runs at least and closed the inning."

With Barry Bonds at second base and Lloyd McClendon at first, Slaught drove a sinking liner near the left field line where Gonzalez dived for it and caught it while sliding. Gonzalez partially dislocated his left shoulder, but was still able to throw to the infield where McClendon was doubled off first base.

"I heard something pop" Gonzalez said.

"I was fortunate that it's not serious injury," Gonzalez said after learning that x-rays were negative.

Gonzalez and the Astros were simply glad to score some runs after managing only four runs in Atlanta's four game sweep of Houston over the weekend.

Astros catcher Eddie Taubensee, who was batting .176 coming into the game, started the home run derby with two-run shot in the second inning as part of his 3-4 performmance.

Ken Caminiti also homered, singled and drove in three runs as the Astros snapped a four-game losing streak.

"It was a hitters game," Taubensee said after the Astros and Pirates each logged 12 hits.

However, Taubensee recognized the value of defense.

"The catch by Gonzo could have been an inside the park homerun if he doesn't get it," he said.

Bonds had trouble believing what had happened to the Pirates, who had allowed only four home runs in the previous 29 innings.

"They had juiced-up bats," Bonds said. "They just kicked our butts but we both played well. They had me running in the outfield like I was Carl Lewis."

Willie Blair (2-4) worked one inning for the victory and Doug Jones pitched 1 2-3 innings for his 20th save.

Roger Mason (2-5) was the losing pitcher.

Bullpen loses lead in loss to Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers were at Witt's end. Bobby Witt, the talented but erratic Texas righthander, had a 4-1 lead with two innings left, and pitching on 14 days rest, he was looking strong.

But after giving up a one-out single in the eighth — just the fifth hit he allowed — and with 101 pitches behind him, Witt was removed Monday night.

"When Bobby Witt went off the field, you could feel the momemtum pick up in our dugout. He can be on and off, but when he gets it going, he's as tough as anybody in the league," said Milwaukee starter Chris Bosio.

"When Toby (Harrah) removed him, there was a big sigh of relief. Everybody knows the problems they've had out there in the bullpen this year."

Those problems continued. The Brewers, thanks to an error on Texas centerfielder Juan Gonzalez for dropping a fly ball, scored three runs in the bottom of the eighth to tie the game.

Milwaukee then used B.J. Surhoff's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the ninth off ex-teammate Edwin Nunez to produce a 5-4 victory that extended the Brewers' winning streak to four games.

"This is a pretty sweet comeback," said Garner. "The situation was looking bad."

Pat Listach's two-run triple following Juan Gonzalez's error keyed Milwaukee's three-run eighth.

"It hit my glove. I just lost it," said Gonzalez, who didn't think he should have been charged with an error after a long run.

Listach followed with another shot to left center off Kenny Rogers to make it 4-3.

In the ninth, Greg Vaughn rebounded from an 0-2 count to draw a walk from Nunez (1-3).

Robin Yount followed with a bloop single off second baseman Jeff Huson's glove. The hit moved Yount into sole possession of 18th place on the all-time hit list with 2,965.

Daryl Hamilton walked to load the bases and Dante Bichette flied out to short left. Surhoff hit a medium fly to center field and Vaughn easily beat a wide throw from Gonzalez.

Cowboys RB...

Smith shoots for 2,000 yards

AUSTIN (AP) — Run, Emmitt, run.

Emmitt Smith plans to do just that in 1992, all the way to 2,000 yards.

"That's my goal," said the NFL's 1991 rushing leader. "If I can average 125 yards per game for 16 weeks that's exactly 2,000 yards."

Smith rushed for 1,563 yards last year, becoming the first Dallas Cowboy ever to lead the league. He carried 365 times for an average of 4.3 yards per try.

For Smith to become the first NFL player to reach 2,000 yards since Eric Dickerson did it for the Los Angeles Rams in 1984, it would require 100 more carries for Smith at his current average.

"I only had two long runs last year and I think I can have more long ones, which would help my average," Smith said. "It's something I would like to accomplish because I set my goals high. If I stay healthy I think I have a good chance."

Reminded that too many carries have burned out some NFL backs, Smith said his running style prevents his body from taking a beating.

"Earl Campbell basically ran over everybody in his way," Smith said. "I try to avoid every contact possible. Tony Dorsett didn't give up any clean knockout shots.

"Jim Brown has scoffed at runners who run out of bounds and that was fine for him. But I intend to be great my own way and avoid contact."

Smith said he could recall only three solid hits on him last year, twice against Cleveland and once against Phoenix.

"Of course I would love to get spelled in some games because if I'm asked to carry 360 times or more I would be taking risks in shortening my career," Smith said.

"I want to be ready to retire some day when I'm ready, not when my body tells me I have to retire. But I'm ready to carry the ball as many times as they want me to."

Smith, in the last year of a three-year contract, hopes to get a giant pay raise commensurate with his status as the NFL's top runner.

"I hope they come to me before training camp and get it over," Smith said. "I don't want to have any contract squabbles."

Owner Jerry Jones has yet to sit down at the negotiating table with Smith.

"We'll just have to see what happens," Jones said. "Right now we're trying to sign nine veterans and get them to camp."

Smith was the Cowboys catalyst to an 11-5 regular season and a playoff berth. He rushed over 100 yards in eight games and matched Dorsett's club record of 12 touchdowns in a season.

Dorsett still owns the Cowboys single-season rushing record of 1,646 yards

Smith said there's no reason the Cowboys can't make it to the Super Bowl.

"Every year our talent level has increased," Smith said. "We're 10 times better than we were in my rookie season. Some people say the offensive line isn't good but how can it be a sorry line if I'm the NFL's leading rusher?".

The Cowboys have basically become Smith's team.

Even quarterback Troy Aikman wears a T-shirt on it with just two words: "Emmitt Smith."

Not bad for a rookie who missed his first NFL training camp and had to battle to get into the starting lineup.

"I had to scratch and claw to get in there," Smith said. "And they're not ever going to get me out of there again."

Montana in S.F. camp on light work schedule

by The Associated Press

The hardest thing for Joe Montana is trying not to work too hard.

Montana, out all of last year because of a torn right elbow tendon, attended camp workouts with the San Francisco 49ers Monday, but did not throw. The 49ers don't want him putting too much pressure too soon on his surgically repaired passing arm, so every fifth day or so he won't throw.

"It's the schedule they've decided on and it's going to be part of our routine for a while," coach George Seifert said.

Not that Montana, who quarterbacked the 49ers to four Super Bowl victories, is happy about the enforced rest.

"I tried to talk them out of it but they wouldn't listen," said Montana.

Oilers

Quarterback Warren Moon weighed his business goals against his athletic needs, and his desire to be ready for the season won out on Monday.

Moon ended a 10-hour holdout and reported for the first veterans' workout, setting aside a year-old contract dispute in the interest of getting started as the Oilers attempt to improve on last season's second-round playoff appearance.

Broncos

Like Montana, John Elway is taking it easy. He spent the morning of Denver's first full workout on the sidelines, giving his strained left hamstring a chance to rest after being injured during mandatory 40-yard dashes on Sunday.

Giants

Quarterback Phil Simms came to terms, reducing the Giants' list of unsigned veterans to 10 as New York's camp opened.

Cardinals

Timm Rosenbach, coming back from reconstructive knee surgery that kept him out all last season, wore pads and went full-speed in drills, completing the next-to-last step in his recovery.

All that's left for the fourth-year quarterback is actual contact.

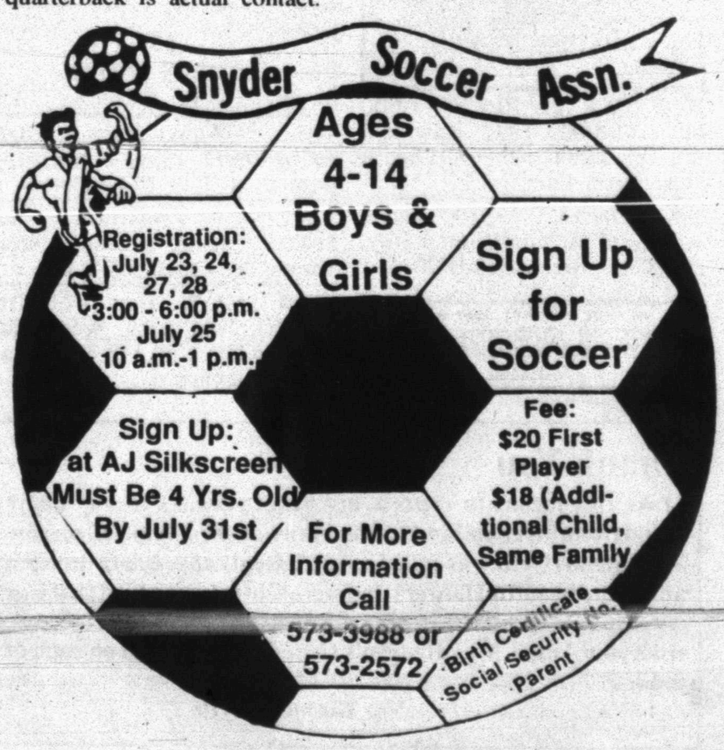

Correction...

Monday's SDN incorrectly listed Joe LaRoux and Elliott Cox as winners in Presidents Flight at the weekend Snyder Country Club Golfer's Memorial Partnership.

John Lacik and Eddie Johnson captured the title in the flight with their 66-65--131 score.

Dr. Gott
By Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Does a pituitary tumor have anything to do with not being able to conceive? I have two children and would like one more, yet I am having trouble getting pregnant. Is there a connection?

DEAR READER: The pituitary, sometimes called the "master gland," participates in many metabolic reactions and releases several hormones necessary for normal health. For example, pituitary hormones control the thyroid gland, the adrenal glands, the body's growth, water balance — and reproductive organs in both sexes, including menstruation, milk production and formation of sperm.

Because tumors of the pituitary ordinarily reduce the function of this gland, fertility could certainly be influenced by such growths. These tumors are usually treated by surgery or radiation.

I should emphasize that pituitary tumors are rare. Other, more common problems, such as infection in the Fallopian tubes, bear no relation to the pituitary gland. Therefore, I suggest you share your concerns with your gynecologist. Such a specialist is the place to start.

Because vaginal infections may affect fertility, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Vaginal Infections and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you explain DFRP (deep facial rejuvenation process) for me? The before and after pictures in my local newspaper's advertisement look fabulous.

DEAR READER: I advise you not to be taken in by newspaper ads that promise to make you look younger. There is no safe and easy way to do this.

Moreover, although some techniques — such as collagen injections — produce short-term benefits of apparent youthfulness, the long-term consequences are almost always unpleasant and may cause permanent disfigurement. Stay away from this stuff, learn to love your wrinkles and grow old with style.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My niece was born with Poland syndrome. Apparently this is quite rare as her doctors say they haven't seen a case in 15 or 20 years, and it normally affects boys only. Is there a support group or information you can provide to fill in the blanks?

DEAR READER: Poland's anomaly is an extremely rare birth defect marked by partial (or complete) absence of a pectoral (chest) muscle and hand abnormalities on the same side. The condition can be relatively minor or it may cause severe problems with the hand, necessitating reconstructive surgery.

I am not aware of any support group for this condition, but readers can obtain information about support groups in general by writing or calling the National Health Information Clearinghouse, P.O. Box 1133, Washington, D.C. 20013-1133, or telephone 1-(800) 336-4797; (703) 522-2590 in Virginia.

Wins model contest

NEW YORK (AP) — Tricia Helfer, an 18-year-old Canadian, has won the 1992 Supermodel of the World contest.

The 5-foot-10, blue-eyed brunette competed against models from 33 countries.

Al Gore settled into No. 2 spot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Al Gore traces all the fun he's having these days as Bill Clinton's running mate to a night last year sobbing over his word processor, translating his anguish about an accident that nearly killed his son.

He was working on his book on the environment and trying to explain how the accident had changed his world view.

"As the words finally broke through and came through my fingers to the keys, I could not control the emotion," Gore said Monday. "It was, I mean, I was just sobbing ... as the words were finally flowing out of me. It was one of the most intense and painful and moving experiences that I have had in finally allowing myself to be able to put that into words."

The experience, to hear Gore tell it, underscored to him the trivial nature of most politics and gave him a common bond with total strangers.

"When our family was reached out to by all these thousands of people, most of whom we never ever knew, it just blew me away," Gore said in a session with three reporters aboard the Clinton-Gore campaign bus. "It just shattered a barrier inside me to accepting, emotionally, the genuineness with which people want to communicate with each other but have trouble doing."

The Tennessee senator bristles when asked if, after three years of refusing interviews to discuss his son's recovery from being struck by a car, voters might think he's trying to score political points by talking about it now.

"Should I censor myself because of a deadly fear that someone in the press is going to say, 'That's a cynical manipulation,'" he said. "I came to the conclusion — I don't care. I don't care because I am going to say what is in my heart."

Four days into the Clinton-Gore bus caravan from New York to St. Louis, Gore has proven to be an eager and emotional cheerleader for the Democratic presidential nominee.

His job has been to introduce Clinton, and he has, not surprisingly, been effusive in his praise. "I know I'm bragging on him," Gore said during a televised town meeting Monday night in Kentucky, after detailing some of Clinton's education reforms in Arkansas.

Man on trial kills 2, himself

CHICAGO (AP) — A former police officer on trial for bank robbery slipped free of handcuffs in a courthouse garage, grabbed a gun from a guard and killed two other guards before fatally shooting himself, authorities said.

Jeffrey Erickson, who had been dubbed the "bearded bandit," was being taken from the courthouse Monday after the sixth day of his trial. His wife and sometime accomplice, Jill, had fatally shot herself in December during a high-speed chase after his arrest.

Prosecutors said the couple used more than $180,000 stolen from eight banks over a 21/2-year period to open a bookstore and buy a home.

Erickson, 34, somehow got out of handcuffs as he was being led through the basement of the Dirksen Federal Building back to the Metropolitan Correctional Center with eight other prisoners, said FBI special agent Ross Rice. He wrestled a revolver away from a deputy U.S. marshal, then shot and killed another deputy marshal, Rice said.

Two girls stabbed in home

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County authorities have said they have few clues in the stabbing deaths of two girls in the northwest Harris County home where one of them lived.

The bodies of Christine Michelle Wiley, 10, and her friend, Kynara Lorin Carreiro, 7, were found in the home of the older girl shortly before 4 p.m. Monday, Harris County Sheriff's Deputy Dave Hansen said.

The bodies were lying on a bed in the rear bedroom of the house, Sgt. Bruce Williams said.

The girls, who were neighbors, were discovered by the 14-year-old brother of the older victim, who then alerted another neighbor.

"He comes out crying and trembling, and in shock: 'My sister, she's dead,'" Curtis Henderson, 15, said. "I came in the house and they were like laying on the beds, with just a shirt on, blood all over."

Henderson said he, Jeremy Wiley and several other boys had been playing football and Nintendo in a yard across the street most of the afternoon. He last saw the girls when another boy went to the Wiley home seeking a Nintendo tape.

The girls met the boy at the screened door and told him they didn't have what he wanted. They left the main door open, as it had been all day.

Williams said it would not be known whether the girls were sexually assaulted until autopsies were conducted.

"At this time, all that we can tell is apparent stab wounds," Williams said.

Nothing was taken from the house, he said, but the girls "could have walked in on somebody. However, we don't have anything to substantiate that.

Area teens return home

Two Hermleigh teens reported missing since Sunday night returned home early this morning.

Seventeen-year-old Leon Mireles and 15-year-old Robin Thurman were reported missing at 11:40 p.m. Monday when Mireles' mother notified the sheriff's office that the two had left at around 10 p.m. Sunday to go fishing.

According to reports, the pair, who lives with Mireles' mother at 600 James St. in Hermleigh, left their residence in a red 1977 Ford Pinto station wagon and had not been heard from since.

Deputies requested an attempt to locate in several areas including Colorado City, where it was reported that Mireles likes to fish.

According to a family member, the pair returned home at about 8 a.m. today.

Woman fatally shot in front of Jefferson Co. courthouse

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A Jefferson County sheriff's deputy was arraigned today and accused of murder in the fatal shooting of his ex-wife outside the county courthouse where she was going to complain he was harassing her.

Bond was set at $100,000 for Dan Smith, 32, of Beaumont, pending filing of formal murder charges expected later today, spokeswoman Cindy Price said. Smith, who remained jailed, has worked as a deputy for 41/2 years, first as a corrections officer and then as a patrol officer since June 1991, Ms. Price said.

Kathy Lee Rideau Smith, who would have turned 34 today, was shot four to six times as she walked toward the courthouse's main entrance shortly before 4 p.m. Monday, Beaumont police officer Billy Blankenship said.

Justice of the Peace Vi McGinnis said that Ms. Smith was on her way to a courthouse appointment with sheriff's department internal affairs investigators, where she was going to complain that the deputy — her ex-husband — had been harassing her.

Ms. Smith, an optician dispenser, encountered the uniformed deputy about 30 feet from the entrance of the courthouse, as she walked with her mother, her 16-year-old sister and a 7-year-old niece, Ms. McGinnis said.

The two began arguing, then the deputy shot Ms. Smith in the head, mouth, abdomen and hand with a 9mm automatic pistol, Ms. McGinnis said.

The woman was rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she died just after 4:30 p.m., Blankenship said.

Horrified witnesses told the Beaumont Enterprise that the deputy reloaded his weapon, placed the gun in his holster and calmly walked into the courthouse, where Blankenship said he surrendered to sheriff's deputies.

Officers note theft, wrecks

Snyder police began investigating a theft and worked three minor traffic accidents Monday.

At 12:23 p.m., James Corley reported that someone had stolen his lawnmower from 1112 26th St. A report for Class B theft was filed.

Police worked a two-vehicle accident at 7:17 a.m. at Coliseum Drive and Avenue F. Involved were a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by O.B. Franks of 2706 Ave. Z and a 1986 Ford driven by Justin Chad Pinkerton of 100 37th St. No. 19.

At 11:32 a.m., officers investigated an accident at 37th Street and Coliseum Drive. Involved were a 1985 Ford pickup driven by James West of Rt. 3 and a 1990 Buick driven by Joyce Buchanan of Rt. 2.

Officers worked a third mishap at 1:49 p.m. in the 3800 block of College Avenue. Involved were a 1991 Chevrolet driven by Lloyd Richards of Colorado City and a 1985 Ford pickup driven by Eugenio Davila of 1708 Ave. N.

At 1:50 p.m. Monday, police received a report of a domestic disturbance in the 3000 block of Avenue N. No charges were filed. Police submitted a report for family violence.

A second report for family violence was filed by police at 8:55 p.m. in reference to a domestic dispute in the 300 block of 35th Street. No charges were filed.

At 9:21 p.m., police received a report of a three-year-old left unsupervised in the 1900 block of Coleman. The mother was located and the child was released to her. A report will be sent to Children's Protective Services.

Reports for criminal mischief in reference to damage done to a loaned vehicle and criminal trespass in regards to a woman going into a residence without permission were also filed Monday.

Police also aided stranded motorists, responded to complaints of loud music and handled other routine business, all without incident.

Mubarak to visit Israel

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak said today he has accepted an invitation from Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to visit Israel and that a new chapter in Egyptian-Israeli relations has begun.

The Egyptian president also told a news conference, held jointly with Rabin, that Egypt and Israel can push forward the Arab-Israeli peace process.

But Mubarak said Israel must do more than suspend Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, home to 1.7 million Palestinians.

Neither he nor Rabin mentioned any concrete agreement, saying only that they had exchanged views.

The two leaders spoke with reporters after 90 minutes of private talks that they continued over a working lunch at the Kubbah presidential palace.

The summit was the first in six years between leaders of the neighboring nations. Relations were strained by the hard-line policies of recently defeated Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

In reply to a question, Mubarak offered to play host to the U.S.-sponsored Arab-Israeli negotiations that have been stalled for three months.

Rabin said Israel initially was committed to having the talks resume in Rome but would welcome shifting them to Cairo later.

Shamir's government had pushed to have the talks held in the Middle East as a way to reinforce Israel's place in the region.

Rabin and Mubarak want to continue the process that began in 1979, when Egypt signed the first and only peace treaty between Israel and an Arab nation.

Rabin held discussions Monday in Jerusalem with Secretary of State James A. Baker III, who arrives here on Wednesday as part of his swing through the region to get the Mideast peace talks rolling.

Prime Minister Atef Sedki greeted Rabin at Cairo International Airport, where the Israeli leader was accorded full honors, including a band playing both national guard.

Buffalo soldiers finally honored

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — When Jones Morgan ran away from home in 1897 to join the Army, he signed up with a group that only now is beginning to claim its place in history — the Buffalo Soldiers.

The cavalry and infantry units, made up solely of black soldiers, are being honored at their birthplace, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., decades after they first won acclaim by helping to settle the West.

Morgan, now 109, plans to be on hand Saturday for the dedication of a 13-foot statue of a black soldier, rifle in hand and riding a horse, on a tree-lined avenue leading to the base, in sight of where the soldiers first set up camp in 1866.

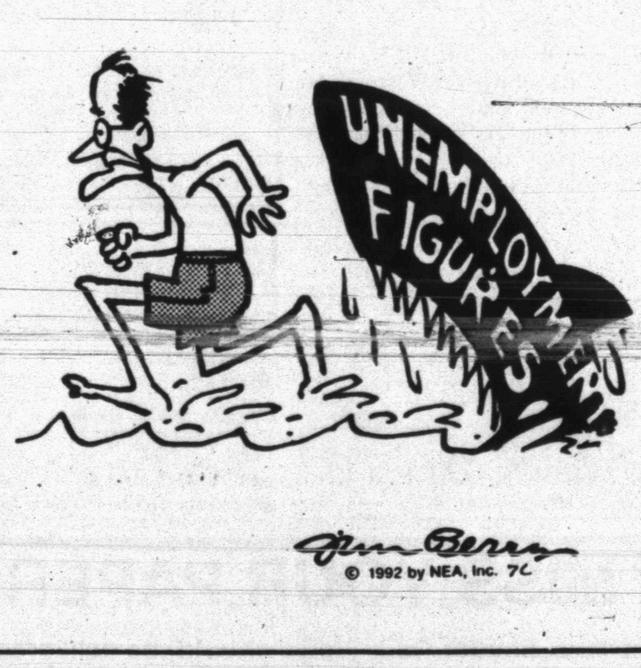

It pays tribute to the 9th and 10th Cavalry and the 24th and 25th Infantry regiments, whose bravery and toughness prompted Native Americans to name them after the fiercest animals on the Plains. Later, the 92nd Airborne also was given the nickname.

The first Buffalo Soldiers guarded the Western frontier against Indian attacks, winning 13 Medals of Honor during their early campaigns.

"Indians called them Buffalo Soldiers because of the big coats they wore in winter and their curly hair. And they fought so fiercely," said Bill Hunter, member and historian of the 24th Infantry Regiment Association.

Morgan joined the 9th Cavalry at age 15, tending horses. "They used me for domestic stuff," Morgan recalled. "Anything needed fixing in the place, they sent me."

HELPING CHILDREN IMPROVE THEIR KNOWLEDGE

Knowledge could be one of the most valuable resources a youth can develop. It takes knowledge for almost everything we do. the more knowledge youth have, the more things they can do. The more a person learns about something, the better he or she will be able to do it.

To help children learn the power of knowledge in resourceful living, ask them to tell you five things they know how to do today that they did not know how to do one year ago. Ask them to share how their life would be different if they had not learned how to do these things.

Let summer months be a special time for them to learn about things they want to learn. The school year is a time when their learning is directed almost daily. Ask them what they would like most to learn to do during the summer. Guide them to practical sources for learning, sources that do not have to cost a lot of money. A few examples are the local library, the county extension office, people you know who have the knowledge and would share a little time with them to mentor their development, or people your children know who could teach them.

Help them to develop the feeling that learning can be fun and is within their reach. By setting their own goals for building their knowledge resource and seeking manageable ways to do this, children develop competence and motivation for continuing this important, resourceful life skill.

ASCS, SCS move into new offices

Employees of the Soil Conservation Service and Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service moved into new offices Monday.

The offices are located at 5309 Big Spring Highway, north of Snyder Nursing Center. Although the building is called the USDA Complex, it is being leased from a private contractor and is not a government building, officials said.

Telephone numbers and office hours for SCS and ASCS will remain the same as before.

The SCS, through the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, is the agency assigned the technical responsibility for applying sound soil and water conservation measures such as terrace systems, waterways, range seeding and improvement.

Local SCS employees are District Conservationist Terry Hefner, Range Conservationist Mike Squires, SCS Technician Mark McDaniel, District Technician Terri Weber and District Clerk Dee Blackwell.

Upper Colorado SWCD directors are Walter Stirl, Burl Belew, Leon Sterling, Brent Murphy and Charlie Henderson, chairman.

The ASCS handles USDA farm programs such as cotton, wheat, disaster, the emergency feed program and others. Employees are County Executive Director Joe Hefner and program assistants Pam Naegele, E.L. Franklin, Connie Robbins, Carolyn Reeder and Karen Nachlinger.

The Federal Land Bank will no longer be sharing office space with the ASCS and SCS, officials note. Producers needing services of the Federal Land Bank should contact offices in Colorado City or Sweetwater.

ASCS and SCS offices had previously been located at 3423 Ave. T for some 30 years.

Major outdoor farm show set for fall of 1993 near Lubbock

LUBBOCK—Officials of the Farm Progress Companies and the city of Lubbock announced here today that a major outdoor farm show will be held on farm property just east of the city beginning in the fall of 1993.

Both in scale and concept, The Farmer-Stockman Show will be unlike any other agricultural event ever held in the state of Texas or the Southwest. Attention will be centered on actual harvest and planting of crops and on working livestock demonstrations.

In making the announcement at a news conference, Farm Progress President Allan R. Johnson, Lubbock Mayor David R. Langston and Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Rick Perry stressed that the annual show will be a major outdoor exposition in which farmers and ranchers will not only be able to examine equipment at close hand, but can also witness it at work.

Tomm Budd, vice president and publisher of the Farm Progress Companies, which publishes farm magazines in 18 states across the nation, said that The Farmer-Stockman Show will follow the successful pattern set by Husker Harvest Days in Nebraska, and the Farm Progress Show, the nation's premiere farm show held each year in the Midwest. Both of these shows are also sponsored by the Farm Progress Companies.

Texas Farmer-Stockman magazine will sponsor The Farmer-Stockman Show. Dates for the initial event in 1993 will be October 12-14.

Budd said that the dates were carefully chosen in order to be timely for actual harvest of such crops as cotton, corn, grain sorghum and soybeans, as well as for planting wheat, other small grains and forage crops.

The show site will include a 60 acre exhibit field where farmers and ranchers can examine equipment and visit educational events, and 500 acres of additional cropland where actual harvesting, tillage and planting demonstrations will take place. Exhibitors will include major farm equipment manufaturers, livestock suppliers, irrigation equipment makers, and many other companies engaged in producing marketing of agricultural equipment and products.

The location of the show was carefully chosen. Lubbock is the center of one of the nation's most intense agricultural production areas. It and surrounding counties regularly produce a quarter of the U.S. cotton crop. It is also an irrigation, cattle feeding and grain production center.

Actual work at the show site will begin this October with the preliminary layout of streets and utilities. Tillage work will begin this winter and crops will be planted next spring for the 1993 harvest.

26 Texans selected for TALL program

COLLEGE STATION—Twenty-six young Texans recently were selected to participate in the third class of the Texas Agricultural Lifetime Leadership (TALL) program.

TALL, a two-year educational program designed for people ages 25 to 40 in agriculture-related careers, identifies and develops leaders to shape and direct the future of agriculture. The class meets in various locations every other month for about three days and studies current issues related to agriculture, said John Sykes, TALL coordinator.

Seminars this year will be held in College Station, Sulphur Springs, Lubbock, the lower Rio Grande Valley and Mexico, Corpus Christi, Austin, Washington, D.C., Amarillo, Houston and San Angelo. Class members also will be able to study the global implications of agriculture and other business interests by participating in an international study tour.

In each location, participants will study the economy and industry of that area and subjects that might encumber area businesses. Issues include water control, environment, food safety, animal welfare, education and other social issues.

"We traditionally schedule a tour of another state," Sykes said. "We decided to forego that this year and concentrate on Mexico and its economy in light of the pending free trade agreement and development of trade relations with Texas."

Additionally, TALL provides training in communication skills and other areas of personal development.

"Agricultural producers always have known you're going to reap what you sow," Sykes said. "There's a shrinking representation in agriculture as the average age of producers increases and the industry endures radical changes. Agriculture must have strong spokespersons at all levels of decision-making," he said.

Fifty young people have participated in the previous two classes. The most difficult decisions for a TALL applicant may be the time commitment, Sykes said. The curriculum involves at least 50 days over a two-year period.

"I am amazed at the chemistry of TALL alumni and class members. They really become a family as lifelong relationships are developed. Their network is phenomenal and their commitment to strengthening agriculture is the best in the state," he said.

"TALL had given me a holistic perspective to the agricultural industry. It has taught me the diversity of views in agriculture that I didn't understand two years ago," said Jim McAdams, a Huntsville rancher who participated in TALL II.

"We talk of global agriculture, but it doesn't really all come together until you actually witness the economic, social and political diversity," he said.

Another TALL participant, Tim Laws, vice president of Sulphur Springs State Bank, noted that society in the United States has evolved from a predominantly rural society focused on agriculture to one that is more urban.

"As that has taken place there has been a real gap in leadership in the agricultural sector and in rural America. This program was created to fill that gap," he said.

"The applicants for TALL III were all talented agricultural people," Sykes said. "The competition was strong and the judges had a difficult time determining this class."

Per capita rate falls

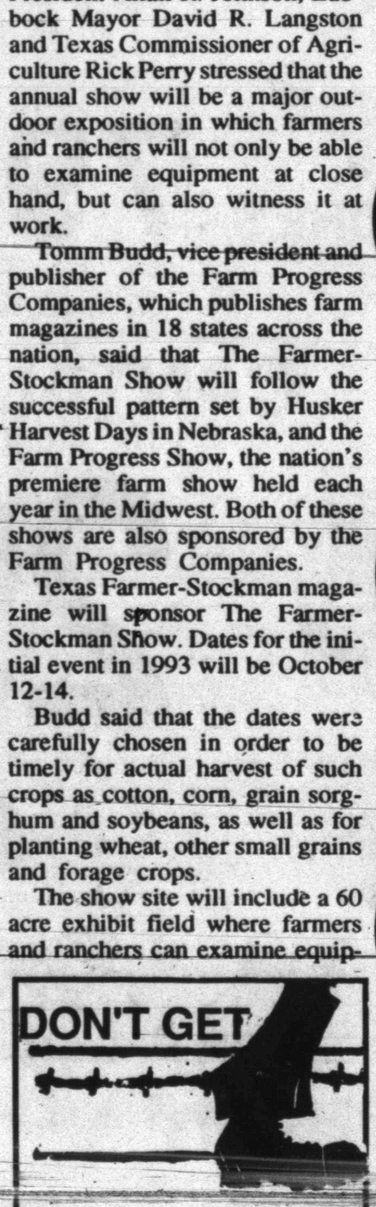

WASHINGTON (AP) — Per capita use of 27 major vegetables and melons fell slightly in the United States during 1991 to 391 pounds, according to an Agriculture Department report.

A 5 percent reduction in the use of fresh vegetables and melons, due largely to weather-reduced production, more than offset increased use of potatoes, vegetables for freezing and dry edible beans, said the July report.

"For 1992, per capita use of all vegetables is forecast to remain near that of 1991, as increased use of fresh vegetables is offset by lower potato and processing-vegetable use," it said.

U.S. vegetable production in 1991 rose 2 percent from the previous year.

"Record-large output of potatoes, dry beans and processing tomatoes more than offset lower fresh market vegetable and sweet potato output," the report said.
