Our reaction to the disclosure that the proposed new Texas Constitution doesn't designate Austin as the capital city was to suggest to Mike Ezzell, our own State Representative, that he immediately get Snyder's name in the pot to become the seat of Texas government.

He reminded us, of course, that a bill already has been prepared to make it Austin again. This, apparently, is regarded as a minor chore, however, as the text of the bill has only 12 words. This must set an all-time record for brevity in the state legislature.

Ezzell says the greatest concern among legislators is that only a very small fraction of the qualified voters in the state will go to the polls to vote on the constitution revision. Historically, Texans have not turned out very well to ballot on constitutional issues when there was nothing else up for a vote on tthe same day. This is an "off year" so far as regular elections are concerned.

During recent weeks, Ezzell has been appearing before various groups in his district to discuss the constitution proposal. He said he had not "argued" either way on the issue, but merely had sought to inform the groups of its contents and he plans to continue this course from now to Nov. 4.

He has taken straw polls in several of the gatherings he has addressed and, surprisingly, all of the proposed constitution changes have been favored each time.

It seemed to Mrs. Gary Harless that her three-year-old daughter, Kara, was running an awful lot of water through a lavatory. So, she inquired about it.

"I've found this pretty shell and I'm washing the mud out of it," explained Kara.

A pretty shell? Here in West Texas? The mother investigated promptly and found her daughter busy as a beaver trying to get a snail out its shell.

Bailey To Help Defend Patty

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst now has flamboyant criminal attorney F. Lee Bailey on the team defending her in a case tangled by her own words.

Meanwhile, investigations into unsolved crimes whirl around Miss Hearst and the friends who accompanied her on the underground trail she traveled for more than a year and half.

And a revolutionary group, in a communique claiming responsibility for a bombing, says that Miss Hearst has rejoined "her nest of ruling class vipers."

Miss Hearst had initialed an affidavit asking release on bail and saying she had been nearly insane from her captivity by the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army. Later, however, a taped jail conversation was released in which she calls herself a "revolutionary feminist."

One of her attorneys, Terence Hallinan, expressed outrage at release of the taped jail conversation. Hallinan, codefense counsel John Knutson and Bailey, a Boston attorney known for taking troublesome cases, visited Miss Hearst in jail Friday.

Several hours after the visit, Hallinan and Knutson announced they had recruited Bailey, whose cases have included the trial of Albert DeSalvo — the self-confessed Boston Strangler. They said Bailey will ask for permission next Tuesday to act as a defense lawyer.

Miss Hearst, 21, faces federal bank robbery charges for her alleged role in the holdup of the Bank of Hibernia here by SLA members two months after they kidnaped her on Feb. 4, 1974.

3 Hermleigh Residents Are Hurt In Crash

Three Hermleigh residents received injuries, one serious in a two-vehicle mishap Friday at 6 p.m. at the intersection of FM Road 6106 and FM Road 644 approximately four miles south of Hermleigh.

Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital were Constan John Grossman, Rt. 2, Hermleigh, operator of a 1969 GMC pickup, Mrs. Roy Goebel, Rt. 1, Hermleigh, driver of a 1972 Chevrolet pickup, and Mrs. Mary Zalman, Rt. 1, Hermleigh, a passenger in the Goebel vehicle. Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

Hospital authorities reported Saturday that Mr. Grossman was in serious condition with multiple injuries. Mrs. Zalman was reported in fair condition with multiple injuries. Mrs Goebel was treated and released.

The Grossman vehicle was traveling west on FM Road 1606, and the Goebel vehicle south on FM Road 644 when the mishap occurred.

It was investigated by Highway Patrolmen.

OPEC OKs 10% Oil Hike

REACTIVATE OIL CONTROLS—Reps. John Dingell, D-Mich., left and Clearence Brown, R-Ohio, congratulate each other after the House voted to reactivate oil price controls for another 50 days. The Senate also approved the measure. The bill now goes to President Ford for his signature. (AP Wirephoto)

Rate Frozen Until June

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A Venezuelan official said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided today to raise the price of oil 10 per cent as of Oct. 1 and then freeze the price for nine months. America's top energy official called the move "outrageous."

Venezuela's chief delegate, Valentin Hernandez Acosta, said the hike would put the price of oil at $11.51 a barrel, up from the current $10.46. This means American motorists would pay roughly a penny more for a gallon of gasoline starting Oct. 1 if the hike is passed on to them directly.

Hernandez Acosta said he was taking a lunch break before returning to discuss other issues on the agenda in an afternoon session scheduled to last for around four hours. The final communique, officially announcing the new price hike, was not expected to be announced until then.

In Washington, Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb, who called the reported hike "outrageous," also criticized Congress for failing to enact a national energy policy to reduce U.S. dependency on foreign oil. The United States imports about 38 per cent of its oil.

"I'm not sure whether it's the OPEC price increase or the congressional price increase," Zarb told White House newsmen.

Agreement on a price boost came after Saudi Arabia and an Iranian-led faction reconciled their differences. The Saudis had been trying to keep the hike down, the Iranian faction wanted the boost to be higher.

"It's all over gentlemen, they have reached an agreement," Mana Saeed al-Otaiba, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates said.

Prior to this morning's meeting, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, who had opposed a price increase of more than 5 per cent, had said he was "very hopeful" that agreement would be reached.

Nigeria's Mofia Tonjo Akobo said "everything seems certain."

Delegates to the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries conference said nations which had backed Iran's demand for a 15 per cent increase had indicate increasing flexibility.

The compromise appeared close to Yamani's latest proposal for separate 5 per cent increases Oct. 1 and Jan. 1, followed by a price freeze for a year or more.

Saudi Arabia originally sought to extend the price freeze at $10.46 for a 42-gallon barrel of Arabian light oil, the standard OPEC unit. Other cartel members called for price hikes of from 10 to 35 per cent.

A 10 per cent increase would result in American gasoline price hikes of about a penny a gallon. That is assuming the United States continues to import about 38 per cent of its oil and refined products; the OPEC price increase is passed on to customers uniformly on all products; and there are no other changes in oil price that might increase or decrease the effect.

A flat 10 per cent price increase would add an estimated $15 billion to the non-Communist world's oil bill over the next 15 months.

That figure was close to the estimated $13.8 billion in Saudi Arabia's official negotiating position Friday and was much less than the additional $22.5 billion a 15 per cent boost would have cost.

Yamani spelled out his position in unusual detail before Friday evening's session that came seven hours after his return from London, where he had held long-distance consultations with his government.

Yamani had held out earlier for a single 5 per cent increase Oct. 1. But he confirmed Friday that he had been authorized all along to settle for another "nominal" 5 per cent hike Jan. 1, followed by a long price freeze.

WARNS THIS IS LAST EXTENSION

Ford To Ink Controls Bill

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he will sign a bill reinstating oil price controls until Nov. 15, but he issued a warning to Congress that this extension will be the last.

The House and Senate gave final approval Friday to an agreement with Ford for re-establishing controls while efforts continue to reach a compromise on a national energy policy.

Controls on most U.S.-produced oil expired Sept. 1. The new bill reinstates the controls retroactive to that date. When controls finally expire, petroleum product prices will increase.

In other energy developments on Friday:

—A Getty Oil Co. report was made public showing the firm privately predicts that natural gas prices will increase more than 300 per cent if price controls are removed.

—The Interior Department said it will no longer allow major oil companies to pool their resources to bid for offshore petroleum leases.

—Standand Oil Co. of Indiana (Amoco) and Standard Oil Co. of California (Chevron) filed suit challenging the federal government's right to collect oil import fees for July and August.

The bill temporarily reinstating oil price controls breezed through the House on a 342-16 vote and through the Senate by a 75-5 margin. A short time later, Ford spokesman Ron Nessen indicated the President was prepared to sign the measure.

Nessen said that under the extension, Ford will be free to act administratively any time after Nov. 1 to produce his own plan for controlling oil prices.

DESPITE APPEALS FOR CLEMENCY

Spanish Terrorists Shot

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Five young Spanish terrorists convicted of killing policemen were executed by firing squads today, military authorities reported. The executions immediately unleashed a torrent of international protest.

The five condemned men had appealed to Gen. Francisco Franco, the 82-year-old Spanish head of state, for last-minute reprieves of their death sentences. Despite worldwide appeals for clemency, he refused.

Learning of the executions, Pope Paul VI, who had made a public plea for clemency, declared before some 5,000 persons at the Vatican's audience hall: "We cannot stop this talk with you without confiding torment for the dramatic news that the executions took place."

The French government-controlled radio broadcast Mozart's Requiem after announcing the executions and politicians of all sides issued protests. Demonstrators sacked the Spanish Embassy in Lisbon and surrounded the embassy in Athens; condemnations poured in from European governments, the Common Market, international jurists in Geneva and elsewhere.

But the influential Madrid daily ABG said the executions were a lesson to those "who have splashed Spain with innocent blood" and it said Franco showed both justice and clemency by upholding five sentences and commuting another six.

Franco on Friday had commuted the death sentences of six of 11 convicted police killers, including a pregnant woman and a brain-injured Basque. But he confirmed the sentences on the other five.

Condemned were two Basque guerrillas: Juan Paredes Manotas, 21, and Angel Otaegui, 33; and three members of the Patriotic Revolutionary Anti-Fascist Front — FRAP — an extreme leftist group: Jose Humberto Baena, 23; Ramon Garcia Sanz, 27, and Jose Sanchez-Bravo Sollas, 21.

Three of executions were carried out at a military barracks 15 miles south of Madrid. The others died in Burgos in north-central Spain and in Barcelona on the northeast coast.

Police armed with submachine guns surrounded Madrid's red-brick Carabanchel Prison as three vans carrying three of the condemned men emerged early in the morning. They were followed by dozens of jeeps packed with police.

Legal sources said death by firing squad at a military barracks was chosen because authorities feared the alternative — the medieval garrote — might spark disturbances among prison inmates.

By Spanish law, the executions had to be carried out within 12 hours after Franco's cabinet formally "took note" of the sentences. After that only the chief of state could stay them.

The government was deeply divided over the execution issue, torn between international protest and the demands of its own security forces for the executions.

From the time they were first convicted under Spain's tough antiterrorist measures, the fate of the 11 terrorists had become the object of an intense Europe-wide campaign.

MORE SEEKING TECHNICAL TRAINING

Economy Boosts College Enrollments

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

Three university graduates, all with doctorate degrees, applied for admission this fall to the school of nursing at Texas Woman's University in an effort to find a skill needed on today's tight job market.

Baylor University Registrar James Berryhill says many college graduates are going into technical education to arm themselves for the battle with unemployment.

Enrollment in state-supported technical schools has increased 37 per cent and Dr. Maurice W. Roney of Waco, the Texas State Technical Institute president, said, "economic pressures and shortages of qualified technical specialists have caused parents, counselors and high school graduates to become aware of the advantages of having technical training."

While the technical and community college enrollment soars, sharp increases also are reported in colleges and universities throughout Texas. Youths, apparently pressed by the lack of jobs and aware of the growing need for specialized educational training, are crowding into both private and state-supported institutions of higher learning.

Dr. E. Douglas Norton, dean of admissions and records at North Texas State University in Denton, reported an enrollment increase of about 1,000 this year, as compared to the fall of 1974, and said:

"I think the economy has something to do with it. The students either want to go back to school to gain more skills or they just don't want to sit around the house all day without a job."

At Austin College, a Presbyterian-related school in Sherman, enrollment has hit a record of 1,219, up 5.4 per cent from last year.

Dr. James Winder, assistant dean for admissions and financial aid, pointed to the economy as one major factor in rising enrollments. He said older students, those 21 to 23, decided to return to school, recognizing that to get a job meant having to get an education.

"Students from blue collar families have increased because fathers, possibly laid off their jobs once or in the process of retraining, want something better for their children."

In an Associated Press survey of Texas colleges and universities, both large and small, the trend was upward in at least 90 per cent of the cases.

Another finding, also apparently related to the economy, was the growth of the community colleges and the university branches. Parents, their pocketbooks hit by inflation, are keeping the children at home rather than sending them to main campuses with the additional expense of room and board.

Consider the University of Houston, where the central campus enrollment jumped from 29,996 to 30,300, but its Clear Lake and downtown branches reported much higher increases, percentage-wise. The Clear Lake campus had a 100 per cent hike.

McClellan County College and Midland College are two examples of the spiraling enrollment in the community college system. The Waco facility reports a 21 per increase and Midland a 33 per cent jump.

Most of the larger universities in the state are having growing pains, with Texas A&M reaching a record enrollment of 25,247. Registrar Robert A. Lacey said the 3,784 student increase this fall is the largest in the school's 99-year history. Registration included 7,182 women, a 32 per cent increase over last fall.

Lacey pointed to several reasons for the sharp increase including "a high retention rate among students, with 80 per cent of last year's freshman class returning."

The registrar also said A&M was offering new programs aimed at meeting the job needs in several specialized fields, and this had brought additional students to the College Station

VIEWPOINT

Control Bug Catching

The free enterprise system has been stifled so long in this country that some of its traditionally strongest proponents now appear reluctant to endorse it 100 per cent.

President Gerald Ford has been the leading spokesman in favor of as it concerns the energy industry, demanding decontrol of oil and gas prices and a return to the free market. However, the president's firm stand was actually less than it appeared because he was obviously using it as a wedge to get Congress to meet him somewhere on middle ground. His veto of legislation to extend controls achieved this purpose. Congress now is in the process of enacting legislation extending controls for an interim period of specified length to provide time for developing a long-range program.

The problem, in its most acute form, has been with us only a little over two years—too short time for congress to come up with a program. Meanwhile, producers and consumers can reflect on the effects of controls and see little change in the overall situation in the past year. But the status quo apparently is attractive to many more now than it was in earlier days. It even reached the point where some of the major producers themselves expressed doubts about decontrolled prices.

This is one of the most alarming factors confronting the country today. If business and industry which were born and reared in free enterprise and then thrived on it for years now fear it, how much longer can it exist?

Will Can't Be Decreed

It has been proven easier to banish smallpox from the earth than what has been called "mankind's last scourge"— illiteracy.

There are more than 800 million illiterate people in the world and their number is increasing, says UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. And one major reason why years of effort and expenditure have not had greater impact on the problem is lack of will.

This conclusion is based on an analysis of literacy projects in USESCO'S Experimental World Literacy Program. Thirteen countries in three continents took part in the program — Algeria, Ethiopia, Guinea, Madagascar, Mali, Sudan, Tanzania, India, Iran, Syria and Ecudor. The degree of sucess of the projects varied widely as the countries themselves.

At the beginning of the experiment, says the program's report, "most countries knew how to approach (and in some cases achieve) much more massive literacy as a part of broader social-economic change, if they wanted to."

But most apparently did not want to. Only Tanzania was stimulated to launch a mass campaign. An eventual worldwide campaign for the eradication of illiteracy, hoped for when the program was launched, is not yet in sight.

"Neither literacy nor development can be willed into existence by international agencies," says UNESCO. "At best they can perhaps prick the conscience of national governments."

"They don't want shellfish that taste good, Charlie . . ."

Texas Tech set an enrollment record of 22,580. Baylor reported an additional 338 students, and the University of Texas officials said there was slight increase over the 41,841 who registered last fall.

Texas A&I at Kingsville, with almost 300 additional students, offers another example of meeting a growing educational need with a new program.

Dr. William J. Hall, registrar and dean of admissions, said the school now has a doctoral program in bilingual education, with a backlash of a strong enrollment in undergraduate bilingual classes."

A couple of private universities, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, had minor enrollment drops. At TCU, registration figures showed 6,018 in school this year, compared to 6,132 in 1974. Southern Methodist has 9,665 students, down 3.8 per cent.

But, Joe Sherman of the SMU Information Department, said the decline can be attributed to a drop in part-time adult students. "Our undergraduate enrollment is up 1 per cent and our graduate school has increased 1.5 per cent," he said.

Here are the fall 1975 enrollment figures compared to those of a year ago in the colleges and universities contacted by The Associated Press. The first figure is enrollment this fall; the second figure is the 1974 enrollment.

Price Of Oil In Spotlight

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of oil was the subject of debate among government leaders on both sides of the Atlantic during the past week.

In Vienna, oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met to decide how much more to charge for their oil. They had earlier said they would increase rates effective Oct. 1 to offset inflation and higher import costs.

And in Washington the administration and Congress continued to search for an answer — if only interim — on the direction of domestic fuel prices.

By week's end it Congressional leaders and President Ford had agreed on a plan to reimpose oil price controls for 55 days or until Nov.15, time enough perhaps to reach agreement on long-term energy policies.

Domestic oil controls expired Aug. 31 but Ford has said he would accept a gradual phaseout to avoid inflationary consequences of immediate decontrol.

The OPEC meeting revealed the cartel's greatest divisions since its concerted drive for higher prices began in 1973.

The largest producer, Saudi Arabia, apparently sought an increase of no more than 5 per cent, while price hawks like Iran wanted more.

At one point Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, walked out of the meeting to note "complete differences of opinion" among the participants.

OPEC's problem, according to analysts here, is both economic and political. Slack demand for oil caused by the recession has raised questions whether higher prices will weaken sales and drastically hurt the Western industrialized nations.

On the other hand the more aggressive OPEC nations feel sharper price gains are necessary to offset their import costs and to preserve OPEC power.

Questions of supply and demand were also being raised in the United States, where the aluminum industry's previously united price front was eroded by some companies' discounts.

Aluminum companies, like steel firms, have been able to maintain or increase prices despite slack demand this year. The discounts raised the question whether they can continue to do so.

In Detroit American Motors Corp. said it was raising prices of 1976 model cars an average 4.4 per cent or $154, but keeping the $2,889 Gremlin as the lowest priced auto produced here.

Car sales in mid-September meanwhile nearly matched the previous year's relatively strong level, giving auto executives and workers further reason for optimism.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

City Police investigated the accident.

Building Increases In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Led by the nonresidential sector, the Texas construction industry continued its slow climb in August, reaching a level 40 per cent higher than a year earlier.

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported the growth Saturday in its monthly construction review.

The bureau's index of construction, measured by the value of permits issued, was 224 in August—meaning it was 2.24 times the level of August of 1967, the base year.

"While month-to-month increases in authorized construction have been modest, they have been continuous; so it looks as though the Texas construction industry is pulling out of the recessionary cycle," the report said.

Nonresidential construction was up 26 per cent from July and 77 per cent above the August 1974 figure while permits for new homes and apartments declined sharply. Despite the drop-off, the residential construction index still was 21 per cent higher than it was in August 1974, the bureau said.

The report noted that the national average price for previously occupied homes was $38,900 and for new homes it was $45,200.

In the Houston metropolitan area, however, the average price for a "used" home was the highest in the nation, $70,100, the report said, while in Dallas it was $43,700. New home prices averaged $54,000 in Houston and $56,200 in Dallas during August.

Laredo had the biggest percentage increase in new residential construction authorizations for the first eight months of the year, 273 per cent of the total for January-August 1974, the bureau said. Dallas, with 10,316 new dwelling units, is down 42 per cent from the first eight months of 1974, it observed.

MAURICE: Are you going to get married?

BEATTY: Yes, I'd like to be married. I'd like to have children. That movie, "The Only Game In Town," didn't get the greatest reviews in the world, but it said something very important to me. A true thing. That while the institution of marriage seems to have fallen on bad times, it's still the only game in town. No matter how we try to push away from it, we're left with only one abiding thing, the family unit.

MAURICE: Do you think the press has treated you unkindly?

BEATTY: I feel I've been a victim of many writers, possibly because I don't conform to what they think I should be. Maybe because I don't say what they want me to say. But I refuse to attack the freedom of the press.

MAURICE: Will you tell us about the estrangement between you and your sister, Shirley MacLaine?

BEATTY: The so-called estrangement was reported several years ago when a big news magazine was preparing a Shirley MacLaine cover story. I was new to Hollywood, with only one movie under my belt, when a reporter called me on the telephone and wanted me to start talking about her. I said I didn't know what kind of thing they wanted to write about, that I'd better not say anything until I knew more about what they were getting at. So the article came out and it said I refused to even discuss my sister and that I hung up on them. Shirley was away somewhere when the story broke and it wasn't until about three months later that she finally called me and asked me why I wouldn't talk about her. She understood completely when I explained what really happened, but from then on papers carried on an imaginary feud between us.

MAURICE: Why is it that you do not grant that many interviews?

BEATTY: We do not need to reveal ourselves to others, but only to those we love. For then we are no longer revealing ourselves in order to seem but in order to give.

MAURICE: Can I get you to tell me about Michelle?

BEATTY: Michelle is some kind of lady. One of the most admirable things about her is her great sense of humor. She and I are very close and even though we have our differences from time to time they tend to complement our closeness. We never hassle each other – and that's super-important.

MAURICE: Does the idea of being irresistible to women appeal to you?

BEATTY: If I thought it were true, it would appeal to me very much. It's a wonderful idea - would that it were true.

MAURICE: Does that mean you have ever been turned down by some of the ladies?

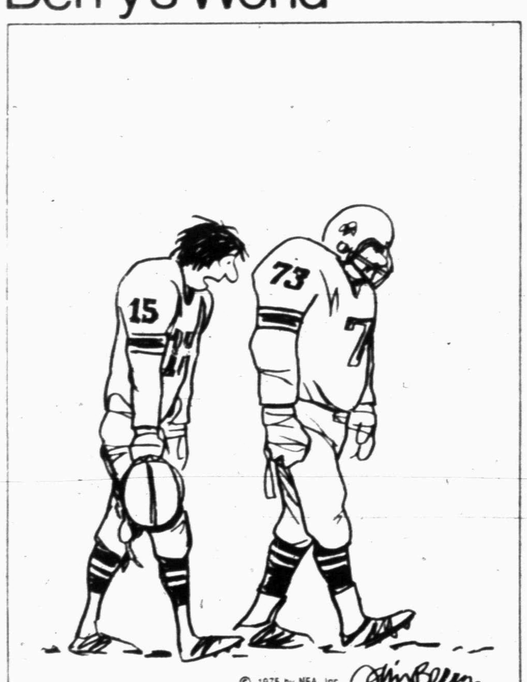

BEATTY: I think you can safely assume that, yes.

No conception after surgery

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I've just had a hysterectomy, leaving the ovaries in. There are a couple of questions I would like to have answered.

Since the ovaries are still producing eggs, is there any chance of becoming pregnant? I'm 42 and of course wouldn't want a pregnancy any more as we have our family.

With the cervix and the uterus removed, where does the sperm go when there is intercourse? And, can intercourse be the same as before the hysterectomy.

DEAR READER—The egg (ovum) is fertilized in one of the tubes of the uterus. There is no way new sperm can come in contact with a new egg to start a pregnancy after a hysterectomy. It is an absolutely positive means of birthcontrol.

The sperm can't get out of the vagina after the removal of the uterus with the cervix. The area at the roof and farthest end of the vaginal canal where the cervix was located is simply closed surgically. The vagnal canal then becomes a blind alley. The sperm mixes with the vaginal secretions and is lost with them.

There are occasional women who claim that they got more enjoyment from sex before a hysterectomy, but more often the opposite is true. Some women claim to get pleasure from pressure against the cervix, but the anatomy and physiology studies all show that the sensory areas that give a woman satisfaction are in the outer area and the inner one-third of the vaginal canal.

What happens back there doesn't make make much difference, and that is also why it is not a man's size that really counts in his ability to be a good lover.

The cervix is relatively insensitive. For this reason a woman can have an irritation of the cervix and never know it. If the cervix were really sensitive it is probable that a woman would feel the beginning of cervical cancer, and that would be helpful in saving lives, but it isn't.

Many women have better sex lives after a hysterectomy because they no longer need fear pregnancy. Also, there is usually a reason for a hysterectomy and correcting that condition usually makes life and sex more enjoyable

DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband is 72 years old. Last year he had an operation for an enlarged prostate.

Ever since this operation, when we have sex, there doesn't seem to be any semen come out. We are wondering where it all goes to.

DEAR READER—The normal discharge flows forward and out the urethra, because small valves at the neck of the bladder next to the prostate close off the bladder. During prostate surgery the valve is damaged. This is necessary to remove the enlarged area of the prostate that causes problems by obstructing the normal flow of urine out of the bladder.

After the prostate gland has been bored out to permit normal urine flow, the valve can't close during the man's organsm. The semen flows backward to the bladder. It passes out in the urine when the man voids.

The retrograde flow of the semen should not diminish the pleasure of the orgasm. The orgasm still occurs, you just don't see the visible evidence of it.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O.Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer all your questions personally, he will answer representative letters in this column.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am writing to you about my brother. What happens to a boy 15 years old who has asthma and smokes one cigarette in the morning and another one in the evening? I don't want my brother to know I wrote you.

DEAR READER—Your secret is safe. Most people who have asthma cannot tolerate cigarette smoke well. It often acts as an irritant to the lungs and increases asthma attacks and their severity.

Two cigarettes a day in a normal person isn't much, but anyone who has any lung problem should not invite disaster by starting the habit. Two a day is a starter on the way to more a day and increased lung disease as well as other health problems.

If you want to read about the other aspects of smoking cigarettes write me in care of this newspaper, P.O.Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send 50 cents, a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and ask for The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Does fluoridation of the water supply have any benefical effects on the prevention of broken hips, spinal collapse, and other bone fractures of the elderly? Recently I broke my hip, and the doctor prescribed fluoride tablets.

Our community has tried for years to have the water supply fluoridated, but it has been effectively blocked by opponents with archaic agruments. Are there any statistics that would back us up as far as bone fractures are concerned?

DEAR READER—This is an emotionally charged issue. The pros are supported by the results of fluoridation of water on prention of dental decay, and the cons point out that fluorine is poison. It is, but so is oxygen if you get too much and chlorine in the hydrochloric acid normally formed by your stomach. Almost all of our natural environment is poisonous if we are exposed to the wrong amounts.

The American Medical Assn.'s (AMA) latest recommendatons were published in their journal recently (1975). The AMA has evaluted controlled studies of fluoridation of water since 1945. Their report emphasizes that no adverse effects have been noted in people using water with fluoride within the recommended levels. They recommend 0.7 to 1.2 parts per million (ppm) of fluoride in all drinking water. The AMA recommendations go on to note the benefits derived for the teeth, and., and of interest to you, further notes that it might be useful in preventing osteoporosis.

Osteoporosis is the softening of bones that occurs with age. It increases the chances of having a fracture of the hip, arms, or anywhere else for that matter, even with a minor fall.

Osteoporosis is caused by many factors unrelated to the amount of fluoride in your water or diet. It is more apt to occur with a calcium deficient diet and follows the period when sex hormones production declines.

A number of outstanding clinics (including Mayo's) do use a combination of fluoride' calcium' sex hormones and vitamin D individually or in combination depending on the patient and the clinc. Fluoride has been reported to be of major benmefits.

I have had some questions about the difference between fluorine and fluoride. The ending "ide" means salt. The chemical union of sodium and chlorine forms table salt, sodium chloride. Flourine belongs to the same group of chemicals as chorine, and when it combines to form a salt it is called flour-ide.

Scrubbers Scrubbed At Lignite Electric Plant

WACO—The chairman of the board of Texas Utilities Co. said Friday the company will not install a $36-million "scrubber" at one of the company's lignite-burning electric generating plants.

Texas Utilities Chairman T.L. Austin told the Texas Air Control Board at a meeting here that installation of the expensive device would be a "rip-off" of the company's customers.

"It is a real rip-off against system customers who must pay the bill yet receive no significant benefits," Auston told the board. "A scrubber will add about 18 per cent to the cost of every kilowatt-hour produced."

To meet requirements of the Environmental Protection Agency, the State Air Control Board requires the installation of scrubbers—devices that are intended to remove sulfur dioxide gas from power plant emissions—on new coal or lignite power plants.

The plant in question is the Monticello lignite plant near Mt. Pleasant. The plant is jointly owned by Texas Electric Service Co., Texas Power & Light and Dallas Power & Light, the member companies of Texas Utilities Co.

The first two units of the Monticello plant will not have scrubbers because constructition on them began before the scrubber requirement was implemented. The third unit the one in question now—is not scheduled to begin producing power until 1978.

Austin pointed out that the company's lignite burning plants have never exceeded primary health standards for sulfur dioxide emissions. Scrubber equipment has not been proved reliable, he said. And even if it worked, "such equipment will not significantly improve the quality of the air people breathe," he added.

"Customers are already deeply concerned over rising costs," Austin said. "Thus we cannot in good conscience sit back and accept an added burden of $36 million for this unnecessary equipment. It just doesn't make sense."

Besides the added cost, Austin said, scrubbers would use up extra fuel and would produce large quantities of "gook" that presents a solid waste disposal problem.

"The solid waste created by the scrubbers is environmentally detrimental," he declared.

Austin said he respected the expertise and dedication of the board members, but that he must disagree on the need for scrubbers. He gave board chairman Charles Barden a letter informing him of the company's decision not to install a scrubber on the third unit of the Monticello plant.

"You may have no recourse but to order a shutdown of construction," Austin told the board. But substituting oil for lignite would add $80 million in fuel costs per year," he said. "Therefore, if you order the system to shut down construction, we shall probably be forced to put in the scrubber. But it will be your decision, not ours," Austin said.

Texas Utilities has previously agreed to put scrubbers in the first two units of another lignite plant, at Martin Lake near Henderson. The sulfur content of the lignite to be used at Martin Lake is higher than the sulfur content of the lignite used at the Monticello plant.

The three Texas Utilities system companies serve about four million people in a 75,000 square mile are of North Central, East and West Texas.

Cards May Replace Checks

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Checks, as most bank customers know them today, may soon be a thing of the past, a bank official from Nebraska says.

Kermit Hanson, chairman of the U.S. Bank of Omaha, said Friday within five years bank customers will be doing most of their banking with a small plastic card.

The card will be used to buy clothes, to pay the water bill and to handle most transactions where checks are now used, Hanson said.

Hanson told a meeting of the Texas Bankers Association the electronic fund transfer system would replace checks and thus cut down on the amount of paperwork now handled by banks.

He said his bank was one of the first to use the electronic transfers, which eventually will cost customers about 20 cents per transaction.

Pact Okayed By Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League have joined the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Cincinnati Bengals in voting in favor of accepting the latest management proposal for a four-year contract.

Blaine Nye, the Cowboys's player representative, announced the result of the vote Friday, saying the players "by a clear majority" voted to accept the contract offer.

The official vote was 20 in favor of the proposal and 14 against with three players abstaining.

Nye said he does not feel there will be a strike by the players. "I guess we will just have to play without a contract, like we did last year," he said, "unless something is worked out later on.

He added: "Personally, I think this team would have accepted the new proposal 100 per cent had there been some modification of the Rozelle Rule in regard to salary arbitration. The big hangup for those who voted against it was salary arbitration."

Flag Grid Team Wins

Tuesday night, Gibson Discount Bombers started off their flag football season in Sweetwater by downing Ludlum Measurements by a score of 44-0.

The scoring started when Frankie Grimmett picked off a pass and raced 45 yards for the tally. Gibson's quickly struck again on a 55 yard scoring pass to J.B. Lee. The offense kept up its momentum by scoring on a 45 yard end sweep by Steve Grimmett. A quick pass over the middle to Danny Lunsford gave the Gibson team a 32-0 halftime lead.

The second half was more work on defense as the locals scored on another pass interception. The final tally came on a keeper play by Marvin McClanahan. The defense played exceptionally well, picking up six interceptions—two by Frank Grimmett, one by Lee, McClanahan, Lunsford and Steve Grimmett. Jerry Fore had four sacks of the Sweetwater quarterback.

Thursday night also proved to be disastrous for United Gypsum as Gibson's scored a 57-0 victory. Both teams were scoreless on their first possession, then Gibson's got to rolling. Gypsum punted and Steve Grimmett fielded the ball and headed for the sideline. He raced 65 yards for the score.

From then on, it was a race track. Marvin McClanahan completed touchdown passes to Frank Grimmett, Rick Hopper, Danny Lunsford and Ron Hester. McClanahan also scored on a keeper play. Jerry Fore and Dennis Higgins were outstanding on defense, sacking the quarterback once each for safeties. This gives Gibson's a 2-0 record for the young season.

Next action is Thursday night when Gibson's faces Adadis at 7:15 p.m. in Sweetwater.

MIAMI STOPS ATTACK

Sooners Mere Mortals

BY JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Oklahoma's unbeaten football string now stands at 32 games, but the top-ranked Sooners proved themselves mere mortals in nipping a gutty, heavy underdog University of Miami team 20-17.

"With this game, we don't deserve to be ranked No. 1," Sooner Coach Barry Switzer admitted after Friday night's game. "But no No. 1 team ever went through a season and played every game at top capabilities."

Oklahoma's wishbone attack had appeared unstoppable in averaging 461 yards rushing while routing Oregon 62-7 and Pittsburgh 46-10.

But the young Miami team, which couldn't stop Georgia Tech's wishbone in a 38-23 loss last week, held the Sooners to 176 yards while amassing 289 itself.

"We were damn lucky to win," said Switzer, given the winner's role only through a blocked Miami punt and fumble recovery. "Miami was as good or even better than us."

"I think at moments that we were greater than Oklahoma tonight," said Miami Coach Earl Selmer. "Those two big errors really took it out of us. We're a young team...we are going to make mistakes."

Oklahoma got all its points in the second period after Miami sped 74 yards on its first series for a 7-0 lead on Larry Cain's 19-yard run.

After Oklahoma held Miami at its 27 later in the first quarter, a punt and personal foul call against Miami gave the Sooners the ball on Miami's 37 and led to a 34-yard field goal by Tony DiRienzo.

End Duane Baccus then blocked a Miami punt to give Oklahoma possession at the Hurricane 11, and Elvis Peacock ran in from six yards out.

Two plays later, Oklahoma's Mike Phillips pounced on a fumble by Miami's Otis Anderson at Miami's 27. Joe Washington, held to 54 yards in 14 carries, got the touchdown from the three-yard line.

A 26-yard punt return by Washington to Miami's 25 resulted in no more than a 21 yard field goal by DiRienzo just before halftime for the frustrated Sooners, but it proved to be the winning points.

Miami drove from its own 40 yard line to Oklahoma's eight at the start of the fourth quarter without scoring, then settled for a 53-yard field goal by Chris Dennis after forcing the Sooners to punt from their two.

Quarterback Kary Baker then combined with split end Mike Adams on a 72-yard play, 40 yards through the air, for a touchdown that put Miami within three points with 7:09 left to play.

But Miami's hopes died at their 45 with three minutes left when Baker fell on his fourth-down fumble, two yards shy of a first down.

Christoval Downs Ira

CHRISTOVAL—The Ira Bulldogs absorbed their first loss of the season as Christoval romped to a 44-6 victory in a non-conference, six-man football game here Friday night.

Christoval scored one touchdown in the first period, two in the second and three in the third to over-power the visiting Bulldogs.

Ira's only score came in the third quarter when Eddie Woolsey went 65 yards for a touchdown on an end-around play.

Ira also was hit with an injury in the game. Center Joe Sanchez, who operates at the nose guard position on defense, suffered a shoulder injury and had to leave the game. Coach Patrick Sadler said he did not know Saturday morning whether Sanchez would be out of action the coming week.

The Bulldogs, who now have won three and lost one, will host O'Brien next Friday night in the last non-conference game of the season.

David Clyde Is Back In Majors

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Two years ago he was a $100,000 bonus baby, a high school phenom with a blazing fastball. And he was a sorely needed gate attraction for what was professional baseball's worst team.

Today he is back in the big leagues after the sobering bus rides and cold sandwiches of the minor leagues where he tried to perfect a curve ball to keep batters from laying back and waiting for that other pitch which they always knew was coming.

Remember David Clyde? Texas Rangers fans apparently don't.

Clyde, who has suffered through the trauma of divorce proceedings as well as up-and-down outings at Pittsfield of the Class AA Eastern League, was greeted by a crowd of just 4,942 when he made his comeback debut Sept. 17 in a 3-2 loss to California.

The 20-year-old former schoolboy All-American, major league's No. 1 draft pick in 1973, pitched seven innings, allowed six hits and all three runs. It wasn't a bad performance for a young man who has had more than his share of pressure and publicity.

"He was more relaxed for that game than I've ever seen him," said Rangers pitching coach Sid Hudson, who has been nursing Clyde along after the psychological shell-shock of big league seasons of 4-8 and 3-9.

Clyde pitched before 218,240 fans in 12 starts in 1973. Some say he saved the Ranger franchise. Owner Bob Short desperately needed cash that miserable season before he sold the team to a group headed by Brad Corbett.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

Regular, continued use of mineral oil preparations for constipationis not without its dangers, a consultant writes in the AMA Journal. The oil might be breathed into the lungs, causing a kind of pneumonia that can be fatal. Also, the oil may interfere with the absorption of important fatsoluble nutrients in food. If bothered by consistent constipation problems, see your doctor. He should be able to correct the cause of constipation, meanwhile recommending a safer laxative.

IT'S 50-50—That wasn't anywhere close to the score, of course, but Snyder's No. 50 (Dennis Buchanan) and Andrews' No. 50 (Charlie Russell) were about to lock horns on this play in Friday night's game in Tiger Stadium. Meanwhile, Kelly Ragland (11) is handing the ball off to Mitchell Smith (34) for a good gain. The Tigers romped to a 61-20 victory.

Tigers Crush Andrews In Easy 61-20 Victory

The turning point in the game was when Snyder kicked off.

After that, things got worse for the Andrews Mustangs as the Snyder High School Tigers rolled to an impressive 61-20 victory over the visitors from the west here Friday night. It was one of the greatest efforts by a Snyder team. They struck by land and air and completely shut off Andrews' ground game. They probably would have scored by water too if there had been any of it around.

Andrews was pushed back from its 13 to its 3 on its first possession. On 4th down, a host of Tigers blasted through the line and blocked the punt with linebacker Ricky Beard recovering in the end zone with 10:08 left on the clock. Dane Witherspoon's extra point kick made it 7-0. It was impossible to tell which Tiger blocked the punt, but Mac Wellborn, Doug Morrell and Beard were all over the punter.

On the Tigers' first possession, they marched 77 yards to pay dirt in seven plays with tailback Bobby Thompson getting the TD on a 9 yard burst around right end. Witherspoon's kick was wide. Thompson also turned in two nice runs in the drive, a 33 yard romp, and a 15 yard run.

Andrews' Mike Puckett recovered a fumble at the Tiger 30 late in the initial period, and the Mustangs drove on in with tailback Joe Vara taking a pitchout one yard around right end for the TD early in the second quarter. Mike Parker's extra point kick cut the margin to 13-7.

If the Andrews fans had mustered any enthusiasm after that touchdown, it was quickly dispelled on the ensuing kickoff. Tiger tailback Mike Flynn fielded the ball at the 10, headed up the middle, cut to the east sidelines about the 50 and won a footrace to the goal. Witherspoon's extra point kick left the Tigers in command, 20-7 with 10:59 remaining in the half.

Andrews was unable to move the ball and Larry Gee returned their punt 37 yards to the Mustang 23, but a clipping penalty moved the Tigers back to the visitors' 39. On first down, quarterback Kelly Ragland fired a quick toss in the left flat to Bobby Thompson. He made the reception at about the 28 yard line, cut up the middle and raced to the goal. Witherspoon's kick was wide but Snyder was ahead 26-7 with 9:32 remaining.

The next TD was set up by fine defensive work by Tiger ends Billy Allbritton and Mike Freeman. They knocked down Mustang punter Ricky Chesshire at the Andrews 20 and Snyder took over on downs. They covered the distance in three plays. After an incompletion Ragland hit Kenny Thompson lateraled to Bobby Thompson for a six yard gain to the 14. Ragland faded to pass on the next down, saw daylight, and scooted through a hole between left tackle and end for the touchdown. Witherspoon's kick made it 33-7 with 7:28 remaining.

Allbritton set up the next touchdown a few minutes later when he hit the ball carrier so hard he fumbled. Allbritton recovered at the Andrews 34, and the Tigers marched the distance in five plays with Steve Green engineering this drive. He called on Flynn who responded with a seven yard romp to the 27. Flynn's number was drafted again, and he cracked through the line on a quick opener, cut to the west sideline and ran to the 4 to set up first and goal with a 23 yard gain. Ricky Beard plunged for three to the one, then Flynn went over left guard for the TD. Witherspoon's kick made it 40-7 in favor of the Tigers with 4:10 remaining in the half.

Witherspoon missed a 43 yard field goal attempt on the last play of the half.

Snyder completely dominated the first half, gaining 119 yards rushing and 45 yards passing compared with 17 yards rushing and 24 passing by Andrews.

Snyder took the kickoff opening the second half and drove 63 yards in six plays with quarterback Steve Green scoring on a 48 yard run. Facing 4th and five at the Andrews 48, the Tigers elected to go for it. Green rolled out, cut to the right cleared by blocks thrown by Gee and James Smylie, and ran untouched to the end zone. Witherspoon's kick made it 47-7 with 8:35 remaining.

Give Andrews credit for trying. They fought back with determination and actually outscored Snyder, 14-7, in the third period. They got their first 3rd quarter score on a one yard plunge by fullback Joe Falcon and the second one on a two-yard sweep by tailback Joe Vara. Mike Parker kicked both extra points. The quarter ended with Snyder still very much in command, 47-20. Several of the Tiger reserves were in the game when Andrews scored its last two touchdowns. Both of them were set up on long passes by Booger Brooks to Mike Puckett.

Snyder scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Bobby Thompson got the first one on a 36 yard romp around left end after taking a pitchout from Ragland. Greg Pavlik set it up with a fumble recovery at the 36.

Tiger fullback Mitchell Smith scored the final TD on a four yard burst over left tackle to cap a 6-play 47-yard march highlighted by a 15-yard screen pass, Ragland to Smith. Witherspoon made good on both of the last two extra point kicks.

Another Tiger touchdown in the fourth quarter was called back. It was a 25 yard aerial from Ragland to Larry Gee. Snyder had an ineligible receiver downfield on the play.

For the third straight week, the Tigers put forth great team efforts on both offense and defense. Greg Pavlik and Billy Allbritton both were outstanding on defense.

Nine Tiger backs carried the ball. They all did some good running and benefitted from crisp blocking. Seven Tigers got in on the scoring act, led by Bobby Thompson with three TD's Flynn contributed two, and Smith, Green, Beard and Ragland each scored one. Ragland completed 5 of 10 tosses for 97 yards and one TD. Green connected on 1 of 5 for 10 yards.

Thomspon was the game's leading ball carrier with 90 yards on seven carries. Green carried only twice, but he netted 54 yards. Falcon was the leading runner for Andrews with 47 paces on eight carries.

Next Friday night, the Tigers open their quest for a second straight district championship at Lamesa.

Cardinals Look For Surprises

DALLAS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, who have never won a game in Texas Stadium, visit the wild, wild Dallas Cowboys Sunday wondering what surprises Dallas Coach Tom Landry will unwrap in the National Football League game.

According to Landry, what the Cowboys did last week was "alert everybody we can win a game every once in a while."

Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox, who watched his team unravel 18-7 before Dallas' wide open offense featuring the spread formation and an impregnable defense, got more to the point: "They kicked our butts."

Cardinal Coach Don Coryell, who guided his team to the National Conference Eastern Division title in 1974, said, "The way Dallas played against Los Angeles just showed how good they are...We will be playing one of our toughest games of the season."

If you go by the record books, Coryell is correct. St. Louis has won just one out of its last eight games against the Cowboys and dropped all four contests the clubs have played in new Texas Stadium.

Offensive tackle Dan Dierdorf of the Cardinals says: "It's not easy for us to go into Texas Stadium and win. We've never won down there and I'm sure that's going to be on our minds. We'd like to make the trip back from Dallas a happy one for a change.

"Any time we're on the field with Dallas, we'll look back on that game when the season is over as a very crucial one."

St. Louis was up to its old cliff-hanging tricks last Sunday, defeating Atlanta 23-20 on Jim Bakken's 25-yard field goal with 0:00 showing on the clock.

"I think 11 of our 14 games were like this last year," Coryell said. "I think it will be the same again this year. I hope they are because then we'll be in all of them."

The young Cowboy defense led by ends Ed "Too Tall" Jones and Harvey Martin and veteran cornerback Mel Renfro put the clamps on Ram quarterback James Harris, permitting him only five yards passing.

"We played almost a perfect defensive game," Landry said. "The most difficult thing in football is to come off a big win or a big loss and that's what we'll be facing going against the Cardinals. In running back Terry Metcalf and receiver Mel Gray, they have one of football's most explosive offenses. You have to stop those two guys to beat them."

Landry added, "Coryell has given them confidence. Defensively, they give up yards but not many points. It should be a 21-17 or a 24-21 game."

Coyotes Rip Grady

GRADY—The Borden County Coyotes of Gail trounced Grady Friday night, 36-12.

The Coyotes drew blood early as the halfback Darin Tucker took a hand-off and rambled 37 yards the second play of the game for a touchdown.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Gail picked up a safety when Grady fumbled a punt out of the end zone.

Richard Long, playing halfback, finished up Borden County's first half scoring with a 10-yard run for a touchdown, then quarterback Joe Zant passed to Larry Simer for the bonus points.

Long crossed the goalline from 6 yards out to start the Coyote scoring in the second half. Zant to Simer for the extra points was good.

The speedy halfback who already had two touchdowns for the night, Long got loose for a 50-yard run for the next Gail tally.

Grady picked up its first score late in the game on a 60-yard TD pass.

Joe Zant passed to HB Gene Cooley for 35 yards and the Coyotes final touchdown.

Grady finished up their scoring with another long touchdown pass, this time covering 40 yards.

Coyote Coach Bob Dyess singled out Jim Buchanan, defensive guard and Tye Zant sophomore safety, as outstanding on defense.

Borden County entertains Whitharral next Friday night.

Congress Eyes NFL Situation

By ALEX SACHARE

A Congressional subcommittee, hoping to coax both sides in the National Football League's labor dispute "to be a bit more statesmanlike," will hold hearings next week in an effort to end the series of negotiations, impasses, threats and strikes which has lasted 20 months.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey, ranking Democrat on the House Education and Labor Committee and chairman of its labor-management relations subcommittee, said the sessions, to begin Monday, would be part of the panel's oversight of the National Labor Relations Act and the National Labor Relations Board.

"We want to find out if there has been, by either the players or the owners, any unfair labor practices that are violations of the law," Thompson said.

Then he added another aim: "I think it can be reasonably said that evidence of Congressional interest, even an objective interest, might well cause both sides to be a bit more statesmanlike—if that is the phrase—to get together and arrive at a contract."

McKinnon Is Braves' GM

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Braves have appointed player personnel director Bob MacKinnon general manager of the National Basketball Association club.

MacKinnon, 48, who returned to the Braves in May after serving as head coach of the American Basketball League's St. Louis Spirits last season, takes over the position vacated last spring by Eddie Donovan.

Hermleigh Falls To Benajmin

HERMLEIGH—The Hermleigh Cardinals fell 52-14 Friday night to an undefeated Benjamin squad.

Tim Peterson and Mike Kruger each scored for the Cardinals on touchdown runs.

The Mustangs built-up a 30-8 half-time margin, before they coasted to victory.

Ken Groves and Keith Connor paced Banjamin with three touchdowns apiece.

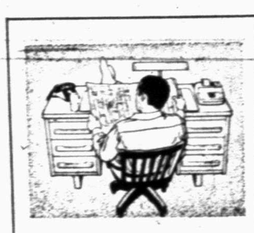

The Cardinals are still looking for their first victory after three outings.

OUT OUR WAY

IDENTIFICATION—G.A. Parks, Jr., left, and Mickey Schmidt, Scurry County Museum director, check identifying marks on a bottle with a description in a bottle identification book. Bottles are currently being featured in a temporary museum exhibit.

COLLECTORS' FAVORITES—Bottles which once contained cure-all patent medicines called "bitters" are favorites of bottle collectors. Sketched above are some bitters bottles, fairly plain compared to some of the really elaborate ones. Common colors for bitters bottles were shades of amber, aquamarine, clear and a wide range of greens. The rare ones were blue, puce, amethyst and milk glass, according to Doreen Beck's Book of Bottle Collecting.

DISPLAYED IN MUSEUM

History Is Reflected In Bottle Collections

Take a batch of sand, add some soda and lime, heat the mixture to something like 2500 degrees Farenheit and you will have molten glass.

Shape it, color it if you like, and when it has hardened you will have a product useable in an almost endless variety of ways.

The Phonenicians have been credited with the discovery of glass, and the first hollow glass vessels (or bottles) we know of were made about 1500 BC in Egypt and Mesopotamia. Bottles have been preserved for thousands of years, but the bottle collecting market has become so large in recent years that it is now ranked among the 10 most popular hobbies in the United States.

Bottles from the collections of two Snyder residents, Mrs. Wayne Boren and G.A. Parks Jr. are currently on display in the Scurry County Museum. Both Mrs. Boren and Parks are primarily collectors of old bottles. Mrs. Boren inherited most of her bottles from her mother, the late Mrs. J.W. Bondurant, and she has added others over a period of years. Parks became interested in bottles about 12 years ago when he found a Snyder Bottling Works bottle and began to learn how bottles reflect the history of the area in which they were originally used.

Among Mrs. Boren's favorites are commemorative bottles honoring such historical figures as Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Jenny Lind. She also has a group of barber bottles. These once held astringent lotions which barbershop patrons purchased and left with the barber to be used only for them.

A conversation piece in Parks' collection is a Watkins Extract Bottle with a Trial Mark embossed on the side. The Watkins company has been in business since 1868 and originated the "money back guarantee", according to an advertisement. Customers could use the bottled extract down to the Trial Mark and were guaranteed their money back upon return of the unused contents if they were not satisfied. The company issued a reproduction of the Trial Mark bottle in 1973 and Parks purchased one of those to display with the original issue.

Parks also has in his collection medicine bottles from Grayum Drug, one of Snyder's early-day businesses on the south side of the square, and from the City Drug where Charlie and Woodson Stimson operated on the north side of the square in later years. They are identified by embossed lettering on the side.

In both collections are bitters bottles. Bitters were a special category of patent medicine, often containing nearly 50 per cent alcohol. During the Civil War, Dr. J. Hostetter persuaded the government to substitute his Celebrated Stomach Bitters for whisky and quinine as an invigorant which is an indication of the wide acceptance of the mixtures. Bitters were put into bottles that took all sorts of shapes and forms—barrels, log cabins, ears of corn, fish, etc.—and these bottles have become favorites of collectors.

Future collectors looking for glass containers which are common today may have difficulty in locating them if the recycling trend continues. There will be fewer glass containers, too, because plastic is replacing glass.

The bottle display may be seen in the Scurry County Museum Monday through Thursday from 8-5 and on Friday from 8-4. The permanent gallery is presntly closed to visitors because of work being done on the dispalys there, but special exhibits are planned in the lobby and mulit-purpose room.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

For Sunday, Sept. 28, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're not overly patient with the family today; if everyone's walking around the house with a long face, you may be to blame.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Giving orders comes easy to you today. However, if you want others to follow your edicts, you'd better try to set a good example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you've committed yourself to picking up the tab today, first check the prices or you'll make a king-size dent in your wallet.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others will make such heavy demands on your time you won't have much to yourself. Put your dreams away for another day.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) You will be hypersensitive today. Weigh what others say or you'll mistake a sincere comment for a put-down.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Have fun with friends today, but don't mix in money or things of a material nature. If you do, hard feelings will result.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) Normally, you're very considerate of others' feelings. Today, you'll be so intent on having your way you'll get someone's hackles up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov 22) Be content to let sleeping dogs lie. You're likely to unwittingly dredge up some old, unpleasant issue that could be very disturbing to a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) It's a losing proposition to give business advice to a friend today. If the situation doesn't pan out, he'll blame you for his failure.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) You're not a good team player today. Avoid getting into a situation where you must rely on a partner. Neither will be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Where usually you're willing to lend a helping hand, today you will resent it deeply if anyone asks for a favor.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Take no risks today where someone else is calling the shots. If you can't be captain of your own ship, pass the action.

Your Birthday

Sept. 28, 1975

Events and conditions will force you to be extremely ambitious this coming year. Just be sure to repay favors to anyone who's helped on the way up.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN)

For Monday, Sept. 29, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Make no hasty judgments today on important domestic issues. The perspective you have on them is slightly distorted.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your generosity today is apt to exceed your resources or capabilities. Promise nothing you'll have problems delivering.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you borrow something today that a friend prizes, treat it with extra respect. A careless mishap could mar the friendship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't bank too heavily on luck to gain your aims today. Logical thinking and lots of effort are "musts" if your plans are to work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not too great at keeping secrets today, so be careful. Should you let the cat out of the bag, at least try not to embellish the facts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your budget could get a trifle bent unless you begin now to trim some of your nonessential spending.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll do more talking about your goals today than taking action. Your conversation makes for good listening, but poor results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not a good day to attempt on your own tasks in areas where you lack expertise. Line-up capable assistance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful in negotiating agreements today. Get all the details spelled out clearly before shaking hands on the deal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're likely to do things today against your better judgment. Weigh both sides of issues carefully before plunging in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep your mind on your work today, or you're going to make a big mistake with something that's usually a snap for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may find yourself in a situation where your first impulse is to grab the tab. Don't — let the freeloaders pay their share.

Your Birthday

Sept. 29, 1975

Be extra-alert for opportunities this coming year that emanate from individuals you've worked with before. Check those offered carefully. One may be of real value.

Consumer Service Plan Set By Postal Service

A nationwide Consumer Service Program designed to improve and broaden the quality of mail service was announced today by Postmaster Tilson.

Beginning Oct. 1, the U.S. Postal Service will introduce a program at the Snyder Post Office and other offices across the nation to encourage mail users to register problems they may have with their mail service.

At the core of the program is a consumer service card, through which problems are identified and which postal managers attempt to expeditiously resolve.

The Consumer Service Program reflects Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar's determination that mail services to the public will be "friendly, courteous and efficient, as well as speedy and relaible."

"Good service is a far broader concept than just fast mail handling, as important as that is," the Postmaster General says. "It is also built on employee courtesy, our responsiveness to customer needs, the sympathy and understanding we bring to your own expectations of what good postal service is all about."

Tilson urged customers in Snyder to bring their inquiries and complaints to the attention of postal managers. And if people feel their problems have not been properly handled, the Postmaster said, they should see him personally.

To make it easier for a customer to make a suggestion or complaint about postal service, the new customer service card will be available from letter carriers and at post offices.

According to Tilson, the card is two postal cards with carbon paper between them. "One copy goes to me or a station superintendent so work can begin on the problem," he said. "The other goes to Postal Service Headquarters in Washington for cataloging and analysis. The cards will help management spot problem areas and trends and take corrective action if necessary."

The Consumer Service Program was tested earlier this year in Illinois, Massachusetts, Arizona, and Rhode Island. Postal Customers in the test found the cards easy to complete and most complaints were resolved to the customer's satisfaction.

The card should take no more than two minutes to fill out. The postmaster also said he and his staff are willing to discuss any problems, including lack of courtesy, irregularities in deliveries or collections, collection box convenience and postal office hours.

"We want you to come to us with your problems," concluded Tilson. "The whole point of this service program is to bring your problems and gripes out into the open where we can attempt to resolve them."

Hunts Felt Confident Of Acquittal All Along

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Bunker Hunt says he and his brother, Herbert, felt all along they would be found innocent on federal wiretapping charges by a jury that "had all the facts."

But after hearing the jury's innocent verdict here Friday, Herbert said, "It's been a long five years."

The jury deliberated less than three hours. The millionaire Hunts were named in a six-count indictment in 1972. They faced a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison and a $60,000 fine.

Both Hunts admitted ordering the taps, but they said the taps were done to protect their late billionaire father H. L. Hunt's companies from inside embezzlers.

At the end of the week-long trial, the jury apparently believed the Hunts' claims.

Throughout the trial, Bunker, 49, and Herbert, 46, denied willfully or knowingly violating the federal wiretap statutes. They said their 80-year-old father refused to believe his sons' descriptions of the embezzlement scheme and demanded proof.

"What better motive, what better purpose, what better intent, than to help their father?" one defense lawyer said in his closing argument.

But the jurors were also told by one prosecutor: "Nowhere in the judge's charge does it say anything about ignorance of the law being a defense."

In his charge to the jury U. S. District Court Judge Halbert Woodward said in a key section that was was inserted despite prosecution objections and arguments: "An act is done willfully, if not voluntarily and intentionally, with bad purpose or evil intent and with specific intent to do what the law forbids and not something which is merely accidental, careless, negligent, or inadvertent. The word 'willfully' is also employed to characterize a thing done with ground for believing it is lawful."

Another part of the instructions said "a good motive alone is not a defense where the act done is a crime no matter how commendable the motive may seem. However, evidence as to a motive of an accused is to be used by the jury as an aid in determining the state of mind of the accused or the interest of the accused."

After the verdict, about two dozen members of the Hunt family poured into a Lubbock hotel room and toasted the decision with champagne.

"Lamar said this is what it's like at the Super Bowl. And this is our Super Bowl," said Mrs. Bunker Hunt.

Lamar is a brother of Herbert and Bunker. He owns the Kansas City Chiefs, the 1970 Football Super Bowl champs.

Panel Briefed On Grain Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State Charles W. Robinson said Friday he was unsure when he will return to Moscow for further negotations on regular sales of U.S. grain.

Until such a long-term agreement is reached. President Ford has said there will be no lifting of an informal moratorium blocking further sales by U.S. grain firms to Russia and Poland.

Robinson briefed members of the Senate Agriculture Committee on the negotiations behind closed doors for almost an hour.

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., said they were "very reassured." Both have been critical of the State Department's new predominant role in foreign export policy and what they consider broken promises by Ford on unrestricted grain shipments.

"Genuine progress" was made during the first round in mid-September. Butz reported after Robinson returned home for consultations with administration, labor and trade officials.

PEOPLE MOVER TO HALT MONDAY

Airtrans Negotiations Have Reached 'Impasse'

DALLAS (AP) — Airtrans, the automated people mover system at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, may screech to a halt Monday evening following a breakdown of negotiations Friday between LTV Aerospace Corp. and the airport board.

LTV and the board announced that negotiations over the system had reached an "impasse" and the interim maintenance contract with LTV would end at 6 p.m. Monday.

J. Erik Jonnson, airport board chairman, said: "For quite a few months we have been working with LTV and LTA (an LTV subsidiary) to see if we could reach a reasonable consensus on the problems associated with Airtrans. It appears now we are at a complete impasse — and this I regret very much. The board has negotiated in good faith, but the matter is now in the hands of the lawyers."

LTV said in an official statement that "the failure of the airport board to accept any of the various settlement proposals offered by the company is extremely disappointing. These proposals provided the basis for a fair and equitable agreement between the parties and would have assured continued uninterrupted service of Airtrans."

The company said that the failure of the negotiations "means that there will no longer be any contract between the parties after Monday. In the absence of such a contract, there will be no way the company can continue to provide further maintenance service."

LTV shut down the system last March for 10 days after the airport board refused to the Airtrans system without further testing and activation of its sub-systems for carrying airline employes, luggage and mail. So far, it has operated only to move passengers and supplies between terminals.

During the negotiations, LTV was reported to have reduced its original $18.5 million in "add-on" contract claims to about $9 million, but the board reportedly asked that the amount be cut in half again.

One of the main points of contention has been the airlines' demand that the original contract specifications for a 30-minute transfer time of baggage be reduced to 15 minutes; and air mail transfer from the original specification of 50 minutes to 30 or 40 minutes.

SPE Meet To Open Tuesday

DALLAS (AP) — About 5,000 petroleum engineers and oil industry executives will discuss effective planning of energy production when they meet here this week for the 50th annual convention of the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

There will be a special session Tuesday afternoon when five panelists will discuss engineering manpower for the exploration, drilling and production of oil and natural gas to supply the world's energy needs.

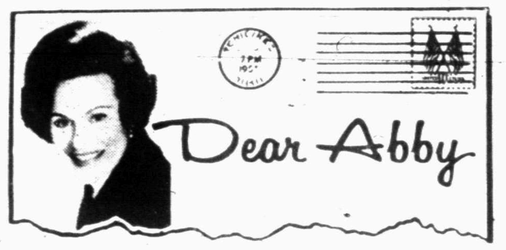

Speakers for this session will be Sheik Abdullah Tariki, spokesman for the nationalization of Arab oil interests and founder of Arab Petroleum Consultants in Kuwait; Donald Ray of Amoco Production Co. in Chicago; Forrest E. Hoglund with Esso Middle East in New York City; Robert L. Whiting, professor of petroleum engineering at Texas A&M, and Herbert W. Woodson of the Mechanical Engineering Department of the University of Texas.

Keynote session for the meeting will be Tuesday morning when industry representatives will evaluate various sources for supplying future energy requirements.

Four panelists at that session will evalute potential energy supply contributions to be made by oil and gas, coal, nuclear and shale oil.

Bible Terms Cleared Up

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Isn't it true that the original sin was sexual intercourse? And doesn't it say in the Bible that Jesus was conceived "immaculately," meaning that he was conceived without sexual intercourse?

H.J. IN N.C.

DEAR H.J.: The original sin was eating the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden.

The terms, "Virgin Birth" and "Immaculate Conception" are commonly confused. The Virgin Birth refers to the miraculous conception of Jesus.

The Immaculate Conception applies to MARY, the mother of Jesus, because she was conceived without the original sin on her soul. It is NOT the same as the Virgin Birth.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please remind your readers that when they, or their children answer the telephone, to say only, "Hello"?

Some children are instructed to answer with, "Smith's residence, Mary speaking." Or if they have a housekeeper, she is told to answer with, "Smith's residence." Some even answer with their telephone number.

Without realizing it, they give too much information to a stranger who could use it for potentially dangerous purposes.

When you answer the telephone, and the party on the other end asks, "What number is this?" DO NOT disclose your number. Instead, ask, "What number did you call, please?"

It is best when answering a telephone to simply say, "Hello," and if the caller does not identify himself immediately — hang up.

By crosschecking numbers, addresses and the names of children, criminals can gain valuable access to the family's comings and goings, with possible harm to their children while they are away from home.

Never tell a stranger that a member of the family is "out of town," away from the house or when he or she will return.

MRS. H.E.I.

DEAR MRS. I.: Thank you for some excellent suggestions.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound silly to you, but my problem is my name. My mother can't seem to remember it.

My name is Elaine and I am 13-years-old. I have two older sisters, Judy who is 16 and lives at home, and Shelly, who is 20 and away at college.

First my mother calls me "Shelly," then she calls me "Judy," and finally she gets around to calling me by my right name. This makes me feel like nothing.

It really bugs me.

ELAINE

DEAR ELAINE: If it's any comfort to you, you are not alone. Mothers get into the habit of calling off the names of their children (usually starting with the eldest) before they hit the right one. Don't feel slighted. It's not intentional.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THOSE WHO INQUIRED: A reader signed, "Why Not Take All Of Me?" wanted to know if there was some way he could leave all usable parts of his body after death—not only his eyes and kidneys.

Yes: Write to The Living Bank, Box 6725, Houston, Texas 77005, or the Nat'l. Kidney Foundation: 116 East 27 St. N.Y., N.Y. 10016.

They will put you in touch with the nearest organ bank in your community. Also, please be patient. When this hits print, they'll probably get thousands of requests.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

MR. AND MRS. BRETT CORWYN BELL

Replogle, Bell Wed In Ceremony At Arlington

Miss Shawn Rue Replogle and Brett Corwyn Bell exchanged wedding vows Aug. 30 at 7:30 p.m. at Hillcrest Park Baptist Church, Arlington. Dr. Charles A. Thrasher, minister of the church, officated in the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob D. Bell, of Snyder, are the parents of the groom. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Replogle of 2111 Cloverdale, Arlington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was adorned in a white satin gown featuring bell sleeves, a high neckline with lace appliques encrusted with tiny seed pearls. Her veil of nylon net was edged in Chantilly lace and attached to a Mantilla.

For something old, the bride wore a diamond watch presented to the mother of the groom by the groom's father the first year they were married.

She carried a cascading bouquet of blue and white carnations entwined with English ivy and centered with a large white orchid.

Mrs. Ray Johnson, sister of the bride, of 508 Oakwood, Euless, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length blue gown with white lace collar and cuffs, and carried one white and one blue carnation with blue streamers. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Robert Reid of San Antonio. She was dressed identical to the matron of honor.

Little Miss Shelley Johnson, niece of the bride of Euless, was flower girl. She wore a light blue gown with slightly darker flowers and carried blue and white carnations. Her headpeice was of fresh flowers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Replogle chose a formal gown of sea green sheer fabric over taffeta featuring high neckline and long full sleeves. The groom's mother wore a formal length creation of pale green.

Bruce Carlton Bell served his brother as best man. Ronnie Replogle, brother of the bride, of Arlingon, was groomsman, Tommy Lee Bell, cousin of the groom, of Odessa and Jerome Hickman, of Arlington, ushered wedding guests.

The church altar was decorated with palm greenery and centered with an arched candelabra and two arched candelabra and two spiral candelabra on either side.

Musical selections included "The Twelth of Never" sung by Alan Wallace and "We'll Walk With God" sung by Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wallace.

The reception was held in the East Ballroom of the Cibola Inn in Arlington. Mrs. Tommy Bell and Mrs. Bruce Bell presided at the bride's table. Mrs. Jerome Hickman registered wedding guests.

For the wedding trip to Dallas and San Antonio the bride chose a two piece green pant suit with a dark green turtleneck shell.

To compliment her out-fit she wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Snyder.

The bride is a graduate of Sam Houston High School in Arlington. The bridegroom is a graduate of Snyder High School and attended Western Texas College one year. He is presently employed by I&R Meter Service as a welder.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Brad Crawford, Jr., Kevin and Kyle, of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Bell and Johnny, of Odessa; Mrs. Brad Crawford, of Snyder, maternal grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Bell of Rankin, paternal grandparents of the groom.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the Mendoza Room of the Cibola Inn in Arlington. Twenty guests were present.

Cancer Patient Writes Book

MAKE TODAY COUNT. By Orville Kelly. Delacorte. 203 Pages. $7.95.

When Orville Kelly learned he had cancer, he refused to face the reality that he was dying. He and his wife would not even mention the words "cancer" and "death" out loud.

Eventually, however, he realized that because of his attitude, he was, in a sense, hastening his death. That is, he was not enjoying what time he had left. By taking the negative view, which is the outlook taken by the bulk of people faced with death, he was also making his final days with his family miserable.

When Kelly realized that he had to face the inevitable, he decided to go a step further. He correctly surmised that there were others going through the same ordeal and he organized a meeting of other terminal illness victims for the purpose of group discussions.

It became apparent to Kelly that it was important for the victims to be able to share their mutual problems through discussion. The first group he organized in his home town called itself "Make Today Count."

The news of the first meeting spread quickly and there are chapters springing up all around the country today. This book is Kelly's own story and there are valuable lessons in it for everybody, not just terminal illness victims. At the least, his story should affect any reader's attitude toward death, because, as one writer put it, breathing is a terminal illness.

Money Question Still Gets Answer

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Is there a way of coexistence for money and the single girl?

"In spite of recent inflation raising her cost of living as much as 15 per cent in a year, facts indicate yes."

So emphasizes W. Scane Bowler, chairman of and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., a financial services organization.

"There are some career girls who are prone to money problems — who often have trouble surviving in the world of business.

"For these women, there is the now legendary race to the bank each payday. Take-home pay is often virtually spent before the check is even in hand."

What causes this flurry, hurry — and most of all, worry?

"Poor management," Bowler says. "A great deal of it could be alleviated with a little more stop, look and caution."

Budget, budget — and budget again. Get it down on paper — calculating in your head simply won't do.

First things come first. No. 1 on the hit — not miss — parade is rent. Never be in arrears more than two or three days. It can wreck your credit standing, to say nothing of your once warm relations with the building management.

Consider life insurance as a "cushion" for retirement years.

Scrimp on buying things that are not really needed. Watch out for impulse buying. If an item strikes your fancy, let it simmer overnight before purchasing.

Plan — don't jump — into equity investments.

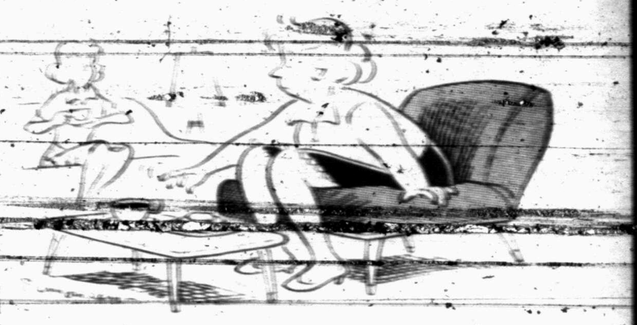

Skim off the top of the salary check for deposit in a savings account.

Cut out luxuries which you may enjoy but which do nothing to improve your career, health or image.

Avoid overuse of credit cards.

Choose Furniture For Comfort

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are redecorating this fall, keep your anatomy in mind, says well-known interior designer, Michael Greer, of New York.

"The human form is seldom considered, but it is the most important aspect of decorating. Some homes are built for everything but comfort," he contends.

In Greer's experience, people worry about color, style and lots of other things and they may even wind up with a pretty room, but a most uncomfortable one.

"Your back, arms, legs and eyes should be considered when a room is being planned or you are choosing furniture," he contends. "Low coffee tables are hard on the back, armless chairs make the arms seem like excess appendages, dining room chair seats often are too small for capacious posteriors."

Lighting should be especially important to women as they grow older, he advises. Bright lights "can highlight bags under the eyes." It will also emphasize coarse skin, wrinkles, puffiness. At the other extreme are very dim lights, a strain on the eyes. Then, too, lighting and colors must be considered.

If you want to be a popular hostess, your home should be comfortable. Seating an older woman "or any one wearing corsets" on armless sofas or chairs "can be a terrible thing" for them. How do you rise gracefully in such a predicament?

In fact, some furniture makes little sense to him. For example, upholstered feet on sofas and chairs. They not only become worn and dirty, but what is the point? Furniture feet can be lacquered, painted or even of raw wood and can be easily maintained. Ottomans also invite his scorn. Why not sit on stools or benches? Big ottomans "are ridiculous, bulky and space consuming."

"Coffee tables should never be less than 24 inches from the floor because if a table is lower you can hurt your back bending over it, and as for trying to reach such a table from some chairs or sofas you'd need arms like a gorilla's."

Greer decorates in many areas of the United States. He is simultaneously working in Texas and on Fifth Avenue. His interior design message is comfort, above all. But there is no reason why you can't have a well-decorated home that is also a pleasure to live in, he insists. He likes reproductions of furniture as well as antiques "if the craftsmanship is good" and they serve the anatomy. His own favorite furniture is Louis XVI, but most periods go together, in his opinion.

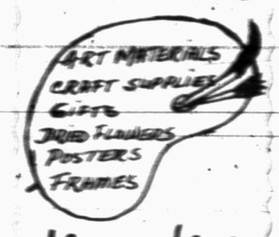

"I have seven periods in my own apartment — I really like everything but Victorian, because of some of the armless chairs. It was a graceless period. I can't understand why they are bringing back armless chairs. What are you supposed to do, put your hands in your pockets?"

His advice to young decorators would be to consider the human form before anything else. People should be accommodated, not decorated. It is even terrible to be a guest in a room that makes you feel uncomfortable, he contends. One will not detract from a room by furnishing it to suit one's comfort.

He is against all decorating done merely for prettiness or appearances "like books bought by the yard to fill up bookshelves for people who can't read."

He doesn't like other pretenses — calling ordinary glass "crystal," or for that matter, referring to draperies as "drapes." And as for chaise lougue, he doesn't mention it any more, because in type it usually shows up "chaise lounge," confusing the issue even more.

Since termites leave scented trails to guide their cohorts to the feast, researchers hope to reproduce the secretion in test tubes and use it to lead the insects into death traps.

Interlock Knits Great For Feminine-Looking Fashions

COLLEGE STATION—Interlock knits—one of today's newest fabrics—help create the popular soft, feminine lightweight fashions, but they require several precautions for success in sewing, Beverly Rhoades, a clothing specialist, says.

"Homesewers can find interlock knits in a wide range of solids and brightly colored heat transfer prints, and they often cost less than similar quality traditional double knits, because the knitting method is mechanically fast, efficient and easy.

Miss Rhoades is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"To identify an interlock knit, look at the cut edge along the width of the fabric. An interlock knit looks the same on both sides, with a back loop opposite each front loop, producing parallel vertical rows of loops," she explained.

"Most pattern styles suitable for soft, lightweight fabrics are appropriate for interlock knits, too. But avoid styles with many small pattern pieces such as yokes or insets," she cautioned.

To sew on interlocks, the specialist recommends using the same general techniques that apply to lightweight double knits--with a few additional safeguards.

"These are necessary because interlocks will run (like nylon hosiery) along the vertical loops in one direction only.

"To identify the direction of the run, gently spread the vertical loops apart at each end, and the problem end will show."

To prevent or check against runs, cut garment pieces—when possible--so that the hem edge is cut along the edge that runs. This way, if a small run starts in the hem allowance, it can be sealed easily with fabric glue or other products designed to prevent fraying.

"When handling the fabric after cutting, do not stretch the fabric along the cut edge that runs. Stay stitch or zig zag to stabilize this cut edge.

"And for best results, use sharp shears and fine, smooth ballpoint pins and machine needles."

The specialist reminded homesewers to handle the fabric gently during construction and when wearing or caring for the garment, because runs may start where yarns of the fabric are broken. But again, fabric sealing products will stop these runs, she said.

The Weeders Guide

Can you visualize one million tulip bulbs in bloom? That will be the gift to America in honor of its 200th birthday by the people of The Netherlands and the Holland Flower Bulb Industry.

Gifts of tulip bulbs will be given to nearly 100 cities, villages and hamlets and some states. Bicentennial committees will arrange to plant them in special public gardens this fall. There they will burst into bloom in the spring for our Bicentennial.

To highlight the presentations of the bulbs, Margriet Verdegaal, special envoy for the Holland Bulb Industry, will visit 16 of the 100 municipalities. During this fall, she will officially present the gifts to governors, mayors and other state and municipal officials. And she will help in public ceremonial plantings.

Her visits will include New York; Hartford, Conn.; Boston; Washington; Philadelphia; Cleveland; St. Louis; Lansing, Mich.; Chicago; Minneapolis; Denver; Seattle; San Francisco; Los Angeles; Dallas and Atlanta.

Envoy Verdegaal was born and raised in the bulb industry of The Netherlands.

There were Dutchmen trading along the Hudson River even before the Pilgrims reached our shores on the Mayflower in 1620. With long, close ties between the two nations, the Dutch will help keep "America the Beautiful."

There were tulips here even as America was beginning — at colonial Williamsburg; in Nieuw Amsterdam gardens near the "patch of cabbages." Thomas Jefferson had a Dutch bulb garden at his Monticello home.

Dutchmen made their marks in this country early. Hollander Peter Minuit with $24 worth of beads and other merchandise bought from the Indians land now Manhattan Island. The last Dutch governor of Nieuw Netherlands (parts of New York and New Jersey) was Peter Stuyvesant. Other prominent Americans of Dutch descent include James Madison, Martin Van Buren, Zachary Taylor, Ulysses S. Grant, Jefferson Davis, William Taft, Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt, descendants of Klass Martensen van Roosevelt, a farmer from Holland who settled in Nieuw Netherlands in the 1640s.

The Dutch also helped teach tolerance, freedom and equal rights, a Dutch official pointed out, and in this spirit:

"The people of The Netherlands and the Holland Flower Bulb Industry extend their most sincere appreciation to all Americans for accepting the gift of one million bulbs as Holland's Salute to the Bicentennial."

The bulbs for America will generally be reds and yellows and a bicolor of red and yellow. But for patriotic Bicentennial displays there are many bulbs of red and white available at garden centers to be planted with blocks of blue hyacinths, crocus and muscari, to form various designs — flags, stars and the letters USA.

Incidentally, your garden supply dealer may have suggestions and garden designs that will tell you how many bulbs you may need for them.

In most areas Oct. 1 is an excellent time for bulb planting.

Opening lead — A ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North and South were playing sound preemptive bids. At least North thought they were. He assumed that South would have a side ace for his three-diamond opening, whereupon he could count on 10 tricks at notrump.

Of course, if South did hold an ace, a double of four spades was clearly indicated, but North didn't think of that. He wanted the game.

South wanted no part of four notrump and ran to five diamonds. He anticipated a double of four notrump, but that didn't keep West from doubling the diamond contract.

West's hand clearly called for a trump lead, but he opened the ace of spades which gave South all he needed to bring the hand home.

South used a rather standard play. He ruffed the spade, led a trump to dummy's ace and a second one back to his 10. Then he led the nine of hearts. If West ducked, South would win in dummy, discard his other heart on the king of spades and lose two club tricks.

Actually, West took his ace of hearts and led a low club. South paused to consider possibilities, decided that to play low would be to go down one irrespective of where the ace of clubs was, played dummy's king and when it held, claimed his contract. He announced that he would discard one club on each of dummy's major-suit kings.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN

Liz, Burton Swarmed By Fans

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her former husband, actor Richard Burton, were swarmed by 500 fans at Jan Smuts Airport upon their arrival here from Switzerland.

Police linked arms with Miss Taylor and carried her through the crowd to a waiting Rolls Royce, where she managed a smile and a wave. Burton followed closely behind, dressed casually in a gray sports jacket and open-necked shirt.

The pair is in Johannesburg to participate in a celebrity tennis tournament.

In 1694 fire destroyed more than half the English city of Warwick.

MR. AND MRS. DARRELL LEE STOUT

Cindy Swigert Becomes Bride Of Darrell Stout

Miss Cindy Kay Swigert became the bride of Darrell Lee Stout August 23 at 7 p.m. Reverend Virgil Mott officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Swigert. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stout are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of silk and satin with bridal lace around the neck, sleeves, waist and bottom of the gown. Her veil was attached to a Juliet cap and extended to the floor.

The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations with baby's breath. For something old she carried a white Bible; something new was her gown; something borrowed was a tiny pair of pearl earrings belonging to her mother; something blue was the blue garter.

Sherry Derrick, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of pink and red flower print. Lace accented the neck, waist, sleeves and bottom of the gown. She carried a nosegay of red and pink carnations with baby's breath. Bridesmaids were Lori Swigert, sister of the bride and Kathy Stout, sister of the bridegroom. They wore gowns similar to that of the matron of honor.

Flower girl was Terri Stout, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a red gown identical to the bridesmaids.

The groom's father, Herbert Stout, served as bestman.

Roger and James Swigert, brothers of the bride seated wedding guests.

The couple repeated wedding vows before a condelabra, entwined with greenery, and holding twenty-eight burning tapers.

Kathy Hammitt and Pam Irwin presented traditional wedding music and special selections and including "The Theme From Love Story" and "Color My World."

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table held the three tiered wedding cake, decorated with red and pink flowers and topped with sugar bells and white doves. Barbara Freman and Roxanne Elridge and Sherry Derrick presided at the table.

The grooms table, covered with a beige lace cloth, held an ablong two layered chocolate cake with red burning candles on either side. Mrs. Ruby Stout, mother of the groom presided.

For the wedding trip to Roswell and Ruidoso, New Mexico, the bride chose a pink pant suit with red accessories.

The groom, a 1975 graduate of Snyder High School, is employed at King and Brown Furniture Store.

Revisit Memories

NEW YORK (AP) — Most widows prefer going on vacation to places where they went with their late husbands, according to Mrs. Beatrice L. Green, executive director of the Widows Travel Club, which arranges for widows to meet for traveling purposes.

"One of their most important possessions is their memories," points out Mrs. Green, "and the widows enjoy going back to places where they had fond memories when they were married."

City Folks Pick Their Own Crops

PETALUMA, Calif. (AP) — Harvest time in Sonoma County, north of San Francisco, is a time of incentive for city dwellers to take a leisurely drive through the countryside — and harvest their own crops.

In 1972, 100 of the small farmers of the county organized a Farm Trails Plan, in hopes of encouraging more city visitors. A map of the small farms where persons could drive up, pick their own and pay less was available at every Chamber of Commerce office in the country. The 1975 map includes 150 members, offering everything from berries, apples, plants, mushrooms, persimmons and herbs to chickens and pheasants.

Bob Larson of Petaluma, president of the organization, says, "Each year we have added 20 to 30 new members. For some of our members it has meant the difference between failure and success."

The dollars and cents saving to those picking their own fruit, etc., is not great. However, many consider the freshness of the product to be worth it. "We are selling freshness and quality," says Mrs. Helaine Campbell, vice president of the organization. "What you are buying in the supermarkets is 10 to 14 days old."

A Little About One Or Two Hundred Things

By JEAN EVERETT

Members of the Pioneer Skills Festival committee were pleased with the response to their booth at the county fair. They wish to say "Thank you" for the interest shown in their projected plans for the July 3-4, 1976 Bicentennial-Centennial celebration and in particular to the idea of publishing a county "old recipe" book. Over 150 persons registered, promising to contribute recipes to the book or items for display at the festival. To you who have recipes 50 years old or older, please mail them to the Bicentennial-Centennial Commission, P.O. Drawer CC, Snyder, Texas 79549.

We are also interested in old household hints or remedies, such as this one, contributed by Wilson Bright. Mr. Bright says it was passed to him by an old Negro mid-wife:

"Rub wasp nest on baby's feet to make him step fast when he becomes a man."

The recent Scurry County Fair brought memories of early day gatherings to mind, and this account was shared with us about Rayolene Smith Isaacs, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.P. Smith of Snyder, and wife of Jack Isaacs.

Eunice Smith, a sister, recalls that Rayolene was always afraid of horses. "Papa gave up on making a cowgirl of her, but he never ceased to try to rid her of the fear of animals," Eunice said. One year their father suggested that if Rayolene would feed and care for it, he would give her a registered pig and that she could take it to the county fair. Rayolene was captivated with the idea, and named her new pet Piggy Mischief. "And that he was" commented Eunice.

The fair date came. Mr. Smith took Rayolene and Piggy Mischief off to the showing. When they returned home, Rayolene was a most happy little girl. She ran to the house to tell her Mama that Piggy Mischief had won first prize, but "there wasn't any other pigs there."

Other information has come to us about a County Fair held at Wolf Park on Sept. 20, 21, 22 in either 1928 or '29. Mrs. Joe Caton was superintendent of the Ladies Department of the fair, with the following chairmen listed:

Mrs. Dixie Smith, chairman of the curios; helper, Miss Ruth Smith.

Mrs. W.R. Bell, chairman of the floral dept.; helpers were club ladies.

Mrs. Ellen Warren and Mrs. G.W. Brown, chairmen of the culinary.

Mrs. Sallie Head, chairman of the dairy products.

Mrs. W.E. Smith, chairman of the canned goods, with Mrs. W.J. Ely as helper.

Mrs. C.E. Fargason, chairman of the textiles, with Mrs. Winegar as helper.

Miss Alma Nell Morris, chairman of the art; Mrs. Lizzie Lee, helper. The following comment was noted: "All worked together in perfect harmony with each other and with the town and county women and county demonstration and county agent. Mr. Willis, Miss Davis and Miss Murray, the state agents, were fine."

If you attended the Fair at night last week, you may have been attracted to the Centennial booth by the flicker of a kerosene lamp lending a warm glow to the reproduced early-day room. Mrs. Drew Bullard and Mrs. Danny Lunsford designed and set up the room. The art work they did on plain brown wrapping paper was incredibly good. Did you realize the booth was not actually paneled in old lumber?

Contents of the room--the rocker, ladder back chair, cane bottom chair, the rug, tables, lamp and books and doily--were contributed by Mrs. E.M. Ashley, Mrs. Derl Lovell, Mrs. Jim Brown, and Mrs. Z.W. Davis. Mrs. Brown of Ira also loaned the use of her old church fan, and the 1918 calendar was on loan from the Scurry County Museum. The string quilt is being quilted by Mrs. Davis (Janelda) and you may have seen her on Saturday as she worked on it.

Mrs. Davis is handwork chairman for the July 3-4 festival. Please contact her if you have any old quilts or coverlets, crochet, knitting or tatting that you would be willing to display. Janelda says that your old quilt tops may qualify, and that if you desire to do so, you may have them quilted between now and July and enter them in the show. The quilts do not have to have been pieced and quilted all by the same person, or at the same time. So, dig down into that cedar chest or closet for those tops that you have been saving; quilt them; and enter them in the antique quiltshow next year.

The Altrurian Daughters have a Sunbonnet pattern quilt, made in 1932 by their members and given to Mrs. Nancy Caton at that time. Since Mrs. Caton's death, the quilt has been given back to the club, and they have promised to show it at our festival.

I have recently come into possession of two quilt tops passed down in my family, and hope to have them ready for display. Since I do not quilt, I am looking for some one who does this sort of work. Perhaps others would like to know of someone who quilts for the public. Please contact me and I will pass the information on.

Dressed in attire of days gone by, Ina and Warren Fargason of Hermleigh were the hit of the Fair on Thursday afternoon as they visited with the crowd and helped to advertise the Bicentennial-Centennail celebrations for next July.

Others who helped with the Bicentennial-Centennial booths were Delbert Downing, LaVerta Lovell, Lida Rhoades, Martha Thompson, Carol Bullard, Paula Lunsford, Kathryn Redwine, Lillian Ashley, Janet Brown, Genie Grizzle, Margaret Daughtery, Carolyn Reeder, Janelda Davis, Evelyn Boone, Fred Davis, Lois Carlile, and Jean Everett.

TEODORO MARTINEZ, JR.

Former WTC Instructor Is Honored

Teodoro Martinez, Jr. Associate Dean of Administration at El Paso Community College has been selected for inclusion in the 1975 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Teodoro Martinez, Sr. of Asherton, Tex.

Young men between the ages of 21 and 35 are recognized for their accomplishments to their nation, community, and profession and who have become leaders at an early age.

"Such outstanding accomplishments are the result of diligent and continous work by young men across the country seeking to make their states, cities, and communities a better place to live," says Doug Blankenship, Chairman of the Advisory Board for Outstanding Young Men of America.

Martinez is a doctoral candidate at the University of Colorado in community junior college administration and served his internship at EPCC.

He has worked as an instructor of business at Western Texas College, Snyder, and in the Dallas Independent School District. He was also a teaching assistant at Sul Ross State University in Alpine.

He received his bachelor of science and masters degree from Sul Ross State University.

FAMOUS CAR TO BE DISPLAYED—This is the 1934 model Ford that gained fame as the "getaway" car of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, noted fugitives of the early thirties. It will be displayed here Tuesday through special arrangements made by the J.C. Penny Co. and C.R. Anthony Co. Stores in Snyder. Also to be displayed will be the $87,000 Russian Limousine of Joseph Stalin. The two famous vehicles will be on exhibit Tuesday on the Snyder square, one in front of Anthony's and the other in front of Penny's. There will be no admission fees, but any volunteer donations received will go to the Scurry County Heart Fund.

Conservationists Blast Regulation Of Land Use

Directors of the state's 196 soil and water conservation districts opened their 35th annual convention Wednesday morning in Fort Worth with a three-way blast against legislators and bureaucrats they say are attempting to regulate the use of privately owned land.

"Although the most recent attempt, the Udall Bill, was defeated in the Congress, there's a race between bureaucracies to get regulatory powers over private property," Dee Brune of Sealy, president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation District Directors, told some 600 persons meeting in the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel.

Dr. W. Philip Gramm, a Texas A&M University economist, said "Land use jurisdiction has been historically left in the hands of local government, and that is where it belongs."

Gramm said defeat of the recent land-use proposal was an example of what can be done when American agriculture and industry take a united stand against growing federal control.

"It is my private conviction that local people can come up with better lasting solutions to resource problems than those from far off," added Lyle Bauer of Harper, Kansas, vice president of the National Association of Conservation Districts.

U.S. Representative Sam Steiger said in his address to the Wednesday night banquet that "federal legislation to control use of privately-owned land would be another bungle by Congress and would result in creation of another federal structure which couldn't do anything right."

The Arizona Republican and member of the House Committee on the Interior said he managed to kill the last two attempts for a land-use bill in Congress.

"Land use is not a partisan issue," Steiger said. "It was interesting that I had a lot of help from Representative Abraham Kazen, a Texas Democrat, while Rep. Morris Udall, sponsor of the bill, is a Democrat from Arizona and he had a lot of help from Representative Alan Steelman, a Republican from Texas."

"Steiger's law (his approach to the problem) is that when a federal structure is created to do anything, people within the structure always spend more time on the structure than on the mission," the fifth-term lawmaker said.

Steiger also told the directors, each of whom is a landowner:

"This is the most bungled Congress there ever was, and if the backers of land-use planning don't get it through this session chances are less they'll get it through a future Congress.

"The Congress of the future has to be more moderate. It can't go anywhere but up." Steiger added.

During the Thursday morning session, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Robert W. Long said that the Environmental Protection Agency has been pressured into unbalanced thinking and actions which haven't taken into consideration the importance of the nation's food production system.

"The EPA has acted too hastily in its decisions to ban a product from the market without having definite proof of accusations," Long told the directors.

"The USDA does not agree with the EPA's scientific analysis or its lack of thought given to banning of a product on the impact of the economy," Long added.

Long called for pressures on the EPA to use balanced thinking in decisions and actions, and said that the USDA feels balanced judgment could be workable to a much higher level than at present.

Long referred to recommendations or banishment of chemicals such as growth hormones and pesticides and herbicides necessary to control insects and diseases of crops and to control brush.

Long and R.M. Davis, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, are on an inspection tour of soil and water conservation programs in much of West Texas.

Davis encouraged the directors of the state's 196 districts which encompass 99 percent of Texas to speak out to the general public and to special interest groups on the importance of conservation.

Davis said also that Texans are doing a good job of restoring production to land, but that is a continuous and hard task.

State Representative Ed Mayes of Granbury also told the final general session of the directors, "Certainly it's in the public interest to control erosion and pollution, but the actions should be left to the landowners, and not some bureaucrat in Washington."

Soil and water conservation districts and others now are embroiled in a hassle with some members of Congress, lobbyists and others who seek legislated regulations on use of privately owned land.

During the business session the directors voted on a number of resolutions pertaining to soil and water conservation.

Dee Brune of Sealy was re-elected president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation District directors and Kenneth Kuykendall of Cherokee was re-elected vice-president.

The 1976 annual meeting will be held in McAllen next fall.

Attending from the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District were district directors W.L. Wilson, Jr., and Walter Stirl. Also attending were Mrs. Wilson, Herman Hundsnurcher and Soil Conservation Service District Conservationist Erwin Pavlik of the Snyder Field Office.

Five County Officials Indicted

EMORY, Tex. (AP) — A grand jury here has returned a 21-count indictment charging three Rains county commissioners, the county judge and an ex-commissioner with "abuse of office."

The indictment Friday charged County Judge Cecil Johnston with one third class felony and four misdemeanors.

Others named in the indictment on counts listing from two to six misdemeanors were; commissioners E. L Daugherty, J. T. Kirkpatrick, K. H. Northcutt, and ex-commissioner E. E. Northcutt.

The indictments are based on incidents which allegedly occurred in 1974 and early 1975.

The felony charge against Johnston was for allegedly misappropriating funds from the permanent county school improvement fund.

BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL MEETING:

On Oct. 9 at 9 a.m. in City National Bank Conference Room in Colorado City there will be a meeting to discuss a diapause boll weevil control program. This is for producers in Scurry County who would like to attend also.

We plan to either have another meeting here in Scurry County or an individual letter to each cotton producer explaining the program, or both, if those producers attending feel that the program can work. As most of you know every cotton producer in the area will have to be in the program or a fall diapause spray program cannot be effective.

All this will be discussed at the meeting and if you can and would like to attend feel free to do so.

REPOTTING HOUSE PLANTS:

Late summer and early fall is an ideal time to repot house plants.

Repotting prepares house plants for the winter season and improves their overall performance.

Use of a good soil mix gets the repotting process off to a good start. Such a mix may be made by mixing two parts each of garden loam and peat moss and one part of sand. Well rotted manure or shredded leaf mold may be substituted for the peat moss.

Garden soil alone is seldom suitable for potting plants because it is usually too low in organic matter. A good soil mixture provides the three things most needed by potted plants – support, good soil aeration, and ability to hold adequate moisture and nutrients.

Pasteurizing the soil mixture to kill disease organisms, insects and weed seeds is recommended. This can be done by putting the soil mixture in a shallow pan and placing it in a preheated oven at 200 degrees F. for 30 minutes. The soil should be moist but not wet before placing it in the oven.

As soon as the soil cools, use it to pot new plants or reset old ones. Always use clean tools and new pots or you will reinfect the soil with harmful organisms. Sterilize used clay pots the same as the soil, and wash plastic pots thoroughly in hot soapy water.

A simpler and much easier way to handle pot plants in the home is to purchase the prepared mixes that are available in your nursery or garden supply center.

COTTON DEFOLIATION:

About this time of the year many producers begin to want to get started defoliating cotton. Some years this might be the right time, however under our present crop conditions, I believe we need to wait awhile.

The use of dessicants and defoliants does not speed up maturity of cotton. And most of the cotton in Scurry needs additional time to complete maturity.

The application of dessicants gives the cotton plant the same shock as a frost. So the old saying that "if you are ready for frost then you are ready to defoliate" is true. Before applying dessicants and defoliants follow the recommendations on percent open cotton. This is, apply when cotton is fully mature and 75-80 percent of the bolls are open, and preferably when 90 per cent are open.

Sammy Davis Jr. Is Hospitalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sammy Davis Jr. has been in a Century City hospital since Tuesday after he walked in "on his own two feet" and requested treatment for nearitis.

The 49-year-old star's physician, Dr. Gerald Blankford, said Friday a final diagnosis on the entertainer's bad left leg hasn't been made, but that mainly "he (Davis) is fatigued.
