Demo Leaders Favor Upping SS Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders of House and Senate have endorsed an increase in Social Security benefits that exceeds the 10 per cent hike suggested by President Nixon.

Senate leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and House leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said Monday they favor upping benefits by 15 per cent.

Nixon said last week he wanted Social Security increased by 10 per cent by next April 1, but Albert said House Democrats "want a bill effective earlier than that and one higher than 10 per cent."

Mansfield said he agreed with Albert. Albert said the cost of living has come up more than 10 per cent since the last boost in Social Security. He added that he could not predict that such a bill would pass Congress this year.

School Bus Kills Boy

HOUSTON (AP) — A school bus killed James Ray Hall, 7, today.

State police said the boy apparently was running alongside the bus, trying to catch up with it when he fell beneath a rear wheel.

The accident occurred a short way from the boy's home in northwest Harris County.

Is There Any Other Kind?

FORT WORTH (AP)—Police sought a teenager today in the death of a college student whom investigators said was the victim of "a senseless killing."

Joe Michael Ervin, 17, was charged Monday with the Aug. 8 shooting death of Rodney Gene Bonham.

Bonham, 21, a student at Tarrant County Junior College, was shot as he and a friend sat in a parked car outside a bowling alley. He died four days later.

Bonham's companion told police two youths came up to the car and one of them shot Bonham. Police said there was "no reason for it whatsoever."

Bonham's father told police someone called the family home the day after his son died and said, "I'm sorry he's dead, but we all have to go sometime. I'm sorry I shot him."

Friends of Bonham started a reward fund that by last week had grown to $650.

Bottomless Strategy

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The judge was Earl Warren Jr., the courtroom — once again — was a bar.

And there, stepping right out of the middle of a movie screen to the stirring "William Tell Overture" was Miss Carol Doda, pioneer of the topless entertainment.

Without her top, naturally.

Her role was that of "expert witness," sort of, in Sacramento's case of the bottomless dancers.

Miss Doda was summoned from her San Francisco nightclub Monday by the defense in the case in which Sheila Brendenson and Suzanne Haines are charged with lewd and dissolute conduct and indecent exposure for dancing nude at the Pink Pussy Kat beer bar in Sacramento.

Defense lawyers didn't make clear their entire strategy in having Miss Doda put on her act for Judge Warren's Municipal Court jury, but they talked of "community standards." The question of whether so-called "bottomless" dancing goes beyond commonly accepted community standards is an issue in the case.

More Meat Boycotts

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives who conducted local supermarket meat boycotts last month say their campaigns were only a partial success — local prices dropped temporarily — but their movement is far from over and is spreading nationally.

"The movement is spreading faster than I can keep up with it," said Mrs. Mickey DiLorenzo who in August led a two-week meat boycott at supermarkets in the Levittown, Long Island area of New York.

NIXON SUPPORTS DEVELOPMENT OF SUPERSONIC PLANE — This is an artist's conception of what the 1,800-miles-an-hour supersonic transport plane will look like in flight as proposed by the Boeing Company. President Nixon said today he will ask for $662 million in the next five years to develop a supersonic transport aircraft.

SST Gets Green Light Signal From President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today he will ask for $662 million in the next five years to develop a supersonic transport aircraft.

The United States must go ahead with the plane—called the SST— "to maintain its leadership" in the world aircraft industry, Nixon said.

"I want the United States to continue to lead the world in air transport," he declared at a White House brief. "The SST is going to be built."

TOO NOISY?

Nixon noted his decision on the 1,800-mile-an-hour, 300-passenger airliner came after a "spirited debate within the administration."

Opponents of the project have argued it is impractical, too expensive and too noisy.

Nixon asked $96 million this year in new funds from Congress in addition to $99 million in unused carryover appropriations for the SST program.

This would rise to $314 million in fiscal 1971, then progressively fall to $189 million in fiscal 1972, $48 million in fiscal 1973 and $15 million in fiscal 1974.

To meet a major objection from some opponents, Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said the SST would not be allowed to fly over population areas until the noise factor comes within acceptable limits.

TEST FLIGHTS

Volpe said government investment in the SST would total $994 million of the approximately $1.4 billion needed to build two prototype aircraft by 1972.

The first test flights are scheduled for late 1972, with commercial use expected by 1978.

In addition to the need for continued U.S. leadership in world aviation, Nixon said a further reason for going ahead with the SST—the plane "would bring the world closer together in a physical sense and in time."

Backers of the SST had called for $200 million to keep the project going fullblast through next June 30.

Opponents of the project contend much of the $600 million the government already has put out for research and design study has been wasted. They say sonic booms would make it impossible to fly the plane over inhabited areas and that the federal funds are needed to solve other domestic problems.

It is estimated another $600 million in government funds will be required before the first of two prototypes of the Boeing Corp. produced 1,800-mile-per-hour aircraft can be flight tested in 1972.

The airplane, to carry 300 passengers, would be expected to go into commercial use in 1978.

The U.S. government has accepted Boeing's revised, fixed-wing design and the company is ready to begin production this year.

SALE OF 300

Contact provisions provide the government would recover its investment after the sale of 300 planes. Boeing hopes to sell more than 500 SSTs by 1990 which would mean possibly a $1.1 billion royalty to the government.

U.S. efforts to build a big supersonic jet have been spurred by similar projects in the Soviet Union and by a British-French combine.

A Boeing official, complaining about the delay in the decision, problem and other obstacles said last month the sonic boom had been overstated.

Bob Withington, Boeing's SST program director, said the company had been working on the assumption the plane would be flown over land at subsonic speeds. And he said he thought the noise level for takeoffs and landings could be controlled.

Water Flows As Result Of Jordan-Israel Deal

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets attacked Egyptian artillery and fortifications along the Suez Canal today after five Israeli soldiers were wounded on that front, the military command in Tel Aviv reported.

It said the raid was in response to what it called "continued cease-fire violations" by the Egyptians.

A spokesman added that all Israeli planes returned safely to base. He declined to say exactly where along the canal they had struck.

A communique distributed in Cairo by the Middle East News Agency said Egypt's "Sinai Commando" organization inflicted heavy losses Monday on several Israeli positions. The Sinai Peninsula is Egyptian soil occupied by the Israelis since the June 1967 war.

The communique said the commando unit fired Soviet-made rockets into an Israeli ammunition dump, setting off "explosions and fire that continued for a long time."

Another unit attacked Israeli artillery positions and ammunition dumps 15 miles east of Port Fuad, the communique said. "Enemy losses were great," it claimed. A bridge used by the Israelis to supply the area was blown up, the communique added.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli spokesman said three Israeli soldiers were wounded when their vehicle struck a mine north of El Qantara on the Israeli-held east bank of the canal.

Two more were injured in a mortar exchange south of the canal's Great Bitter Lake.

This was the highest number of Israeli casualties reported in a single day on the canal since Israel's air and tank assault on Egyptian territory Sept. 9.

In another development a Jordanian military spokesman said four Israeli jet fighters crossed the cease-fire line and circled 20 miles west of Amman, Jordan's capital.

The aircraft were intercepted by anti-aircraft fire which forced them back into occupied territory, the spokesman said.

Although Jordan and Israel continue hostilities, another secret deal between those two governments has started water flowing again through Jordan's Ghor irrigation canal.

FAMED CRIMINAL LAWYER

Enters Green Berets Case

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Famed Boston criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey is going to defend one of the six Green Beret officers charged with murdering a Vietnamese double agent, the military attorney for the officer announced today.

Bailey will take charge of the defense of Capt. Robert F. Marasco of Bloomfield, N.J., who is scheduled to go on trial before a general court-martial on Oct. 20 along with Capt. Leland J. Brumley of Duncan, Okla., and Capt. Budge E. Williams of Athens, Ga. However, the defense is expected to seek a postponement of the trial.

Edward Bennett Williams, another of America's best known criminal attorneys, is expected to direct the defense of Col. Robert B. Rheault of Vineyard Haven, Mass., the former commander of Special Forces troops in Vietnam and the highest ranking of the defendants. Rheault and two others are to be tried after the other three officers, but there are indications the charges will be quashed if the first trial ends in an acquittal.

Both Bailey and Williams are expected to arrive in Vietnam next Monday or Tuesday.

A third prominent trial lawyer, Henry B. Rothblatt of New York, arrived in Saigon Monday to defend Capt. Brumley and Maj. David E. Crew of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who is scheduled to be tried with Rheault and Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr. of Jefferson, S.C.

Marasco's military attorney, Capt. Thomas H. T. Young, spoke by transpacific telephone with Bailey in Boston today and told newsmen Bailey said he would be "happy" to join the defense.

"We wanted the best and we have got the best," Young said.

The Army is holding in abeyance charges against two other Green Berets, CWO Edward M. Boyle Jr. of New York City and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith of Naples, Fla. They were arrested along with the other six but last week began getting special treatment amid reports they would testify for the prosecution against the six officers.

Rothblatt, who is also defending Boyle and Smith's civilian lawyer, George W. Latimer of Salt Lake City, denied that their clients had made a deal with the military.

Rothblatt said statements from the military implied that Boyle might be a "stooge," and as a result the warrant officer and his family have "suffered tremendous embarrassment."

Latimer said Smith also had been cast "in an unfair light," that "there has been no agreement" between his client and the military.

"The prosecution probably will call them," said Rothblatt, "but there is a big difference between being subpoenaed and turning state's evidence."

Rothblatt said the defense definitely would subpoena Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, as a witness because "he has direct knowledge of the facts in the case . . . and the public has the right to know what role he played."

12th Time Is Fatal

SEATTLE (AP) — During 23 years, holdup men robbed or tried to rob grocer Alfred Mathison 11 times.

Monday was the 12th time. The body of the 77-year-old Mathison was found in the doorway of his neighborhood store. He'd been stabbed under the chin. A paring knife was found on the floor beside the emptied cash register.

Housing Bill Provides For New Rent Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate called up for debate today a $6.3 billion housing bill providing for the first time direct federal rent subsidies for public housing tenants.

Although the bill essentially provides funds to carry on existing housing programs it does call for a major change—authorizing the Department of Housing and Urban Development to pay $75 million toward part of the rent of project dwellers.

Supporters said this was designed to revitalize the public housing program.

Under the plan, sponsored by Massachusetts Republican Edward W. Brooke, the government would pay that part of the rent which exceeds 25 per cent of the family's income. For families in the direct circumstances, the subsidy plan could mean no rent payments at all.

Brooke said HUD had told him 180,000 persons in these projects were being required to pay more than 25 per cent of their income in rent. There are approximately 4 million persons in public housing now.

The government currently indirectly subsidizes rents by paying nearly all of the cost of paying off the bonds which pay for construction, but there has been no direct rent subsidy.

The bill would revise public housing financing in a way that could lower present rents or prevent them from rising.

Under this provision, HUD for the first time would pay a part of the costs of maintenance and operations of public housing projects. This now comes entirely from rental income.

A third change would permit a sharp increase in public housing construction costs.

Present law allows a $750 per room increase in high cost areas. The bill would allow a 45 per cent boost.

Sponsors said that, for example, this would permit a per room cost of about $4,000 in New York as compared with $3,100 now. New York officials have complained the present ceilings are strangling the program there.

The bill also contains $3 billion additional for urban renewal over the next two years.

WHEELS SPIN THE TRUTH

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Warren Knowles was the first user of the state employment service's new job finding computer.

The computer evaluates a job seeker's abilities and suggests a job he could fill.

The governor's qualifications were fed into the computer: Lawyer, former state senator, governor.

The wheels spun, the lights flashed. Suddenly, the screen went blank, and the employment service had its answer: There was no state job available for Wisconsin's top official.

THE SILENCE HURTS $500,000 WORTH — Lawyer Nicholas A. Abraham contemplates his silent telephone in his Boston office. Abraham has filed a $500,000 damage suit against the New England Telephone Company. He claims phone still doesn't work right despite repeated complaints since January, 1968. Abraham says callers hear what appears to be ringing, but it doesn't ring in office, so potential clients hang up assuming office is closed.

Mexico City Air Crash Toll Increases To 30

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The probable death toll has risen to 30 in the crash Sunday of the Boeing 707 jetliner from Chicago, Mexicana Airlines said Monday night.

The airlines said 25 bodies had been recovered and five more were believed under the wreckage in a swamp near the international airport. The army was building a bridge through the marsh so a crane could remove the wreckage.

The plane carried 111 passengers, many of them Midwesterners going to Mexico City and Acapulco for vacations, and a crew of seven. Five of the crew were killed, including the pilot and copilot.

More than 50 persons were injured in the crash. Monday night nine of them were reported still in serious condition in the American-British-Cowdrey Hospital.

A civil aeronautics official said the plane's recorder was recovered and probably would be sent to the Boeing Co. in Seattle for study of the information on the plane's approach. The jet crashed short of the runway as it was landing in a drizzle.

At least six newlywed couples were aboard the plane.

Francis T. Moran Jr., 30, of Chicago, and his bride of one day, Mary Jane, 23, escaped with injuries that were not serious.

James Pietrazakowski, also of Chicago, was killed but his bride was reported in satisfactory condition.

Patricia Waters, 21, bride of James Waters, 22, of Joliet, Ill., was missing, and her husband was listed in serious condition.

The other newlyweds were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hoffman of Milwaukee and Mr. and Mrs. James Brian of Chicago. All were reported in satisfactory condition.

West Texas Man Accused Of Rape Wins Reversal

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed and remanded Monday a 10-year sentence of a West Texas man accused of raping his young daughter.

The girl, 14, testified that her father, Billy Gene Massey of Winkler County (Kerritt) picked her up on the afternoon of June 10, 1968, carried her into a bedroom and assaulted her by force.

"He accused me of doing it before and he was going to do it," she said.

The girl told her boy friend about the attack 6 1/2 days later. A doctor said he found sperm in the girl.

The prosecution won a pre-trial motion forbidding the defense from mentioning in front of the jury several matters in the case, including any evidence that the girl had had prior or subsequent intercourse.

The state said the law only requires proof of age and the act for statutory rape.

But the court said there is a well-recognized exception to the rule. When the state alleges the act was accomplished by force the defense is allowed to present rebuttal evidence, the court said.

The doctor testified outside the hearing of the jury that it was "most unlikely" that the sperm he found could have been from an act accomplished 6 1/2 days before.

The court said: "The proof of force tends to cause the jury to be relied on by the state the accused should be permitted to combat by the evidence usual in force cases."

Hospital Plans Pastors Clinic

An introductory clinical pastoral education course will be offered at the Big Spring State Hospital over a nine-week period.

The first session will be held at 8 a.m. Oct. 9 at the hospital. The course, under the direction of Chaplain Lee Butler, will require a full day each Thursday at the hospital through Dec. 4.

The course will include unit assignments in learning better how to relate and work with emotionally disturbed people. The pastor will be introduced to various kinds of treatment in mental illness, including milieu therapy, somatotherapy, and psychotherapy.

One major emphasis of the course will be group therapy in which the minister becomes better acquainted with his own identity and theological role.

The only cost involved in the course will be meals and transportation to the hospital said Chaplain Butler.

Any interested person, as well as any pastor in the area, is invited to participate in the course. More information may be had by writing Chaplain Butler at Box 231, Big Spring 79721, or by calling 267-8216, Ext. 260.

Check Thefts And Burglary

Big Spring police investigated several incidents Monday evening and Tuesday.

Sig Rogers, 710 E. 14th, told officers a portable tape recorder, an electric guitar and an assortment of old coins had been taken in a break-in at the Sig Rogers Sign Co., 404 Douglas, early Monday. Entrance to the building was made through a rear window.

In a burglary at the James McNew Fina Service Station, 1400 Birdwell Lane, nothing was reported missing, but several coin machines had been destroyed in the incident. The break-in occurred Monday night.

John Hammond of Houston told officers while he was hitchhiking from Kingman, Ariz., his two suitcases had been stolen Tuesday evening when he stopped at a service station, IS 20 and US 87. Police listed no value of the missing items.

Roger Mayon, 1201 Mesa Drive, reported the theft of approximately $30 in travelers checks. He told officers the theft occurred Monday night while his car was parked at a drive-in, 2105 W. 3rd. He said he had left the checks on the front seat of the car.

Game Violations Fines Are Paid

David Wayne Hildebrand, 20, 508 W. 3rd, was released this morning from the county jail after paying fines of $50 in Howard County and $25 in Glasscock County on a game violation charge. Hildebrand was picked up Sunday night and transferred to the county Monday morning.

It's just a famous visual illusion. Which proves you can't always believe what you think you see. Nor are you always aware of what you hear.

Take Muzak, for example. It is a musical environment, only people don't really listen to it. They react to it—psychologically and physiologically. We design it that way. Muzak is scientifically programmed to motivate people and increase their efficiency. DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of a little incident that happened to us. To this day I still can't believe it.

First, let me explain that I am 22, my husband is 24, and we have a four-month-old baby. My husband and I set out for a drive-in movie, and we took our baby with us.

Outside the drive-in theater was a sign saying "NO ONE UNDER THE AGE OF 17 ADMITTED!"

Well, a policeman stopped us outside the gate and said we couldn't take our daughter into the theater because she was under 17.

Now, Abby, I mean, what is a four-month-old baby going to see and tell? Wouldn't you say that was going a little too far?

SPRINGFIELD, VERMONT

DEAR SPRINGFIELD: I think the policeman was being somewhat unreasonable. But had there been a "babes in arms" clause tacked on to the ruling, you'd probably see nine-year-olds carried in by their parents.

DEAR ABBY: We have a wonderful daughter whom we have not permitted to date until she reached 16. (Louise was allowed to go to boy-girl parties, but not "date" in a car with just one boy alone.) She is a fine, bright girl, very pretty, with high moral standards and she accepted our decision without whining or rebelling.

Our problem is that the first boy Louise dated on her 16th birthday is a 22-year-old college man. Her father says he is too old for her. Of course Louise is upset over this. We have nothing against the boy. He is very nice and comes from a good family, and we like him as a person, but not as a constant companion for our daughter. An occasional date would be all right, but these two don't care to see anyone else. We are afraid Louise will want to get married and throw away her chances for a college education.

Are we wrong to try to keep them apart?

LOUISE'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Not only are you wrong, I doubt if you can do it. You could demand that Louise date others and just to please you she may "go through the motions." But if she has already lost her heart to this young man her feelings for him would probably only grow stronger. But don't worry, if Louise has high moral standards and is bright, she'll not rush into anything prematurely.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say a few words to HAD IT, who griped about having to pick up the tab when he dates a woman.

I say, a man who wants the pleasure of dating a lady who has gone to the trouble and expense of making herself attractive, well-groomed, and stylishly dressed, had better be prepared to put his hand in his pocket.

Otherwise, let the idiot stay home and sit in front of the mirror and enjoy looking at the one he loves the most.

All the good men are either dead or married. And only half the married ones are good.

Nixon Creates Construction Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon created a special commission Monday which he hopes will help halt spiraling wage costs in the construction industry that have contributed to nationwide inflation.

Nixon set up a construction industry collective bargaining commission to give equal representation to employers, labor unions and the public.

A major commission role, Nixon said, "is to develop voluntary tripartite procedures in settling disputes." He said this machinery would not provide for compulsory arbitration nor would it infringe on rights to strike or lockout.

Representing in essence a voluntary effort, Nixon said that by bringing a third party into labor disputes in construction, he hoped the collective bargaining process could be facilitated.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠
Pass 3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠
In today's hand South's bid of three spades on the second round may appear to some players a distinct effort to be fancy. Actually that was not his intention. After his partner's raise to three clubs he could have gone on in that suit, but there is always the temptation to seek a shorter way home and he did not wish to abandon the prospect of a three no trump contract if North had some mild stopper in hearts.

North, on the other hand, could hardly be blamed for taking South at his word and proceeded quite reasonably to four spades. It is true that South might have retreated to the more comfortable terrain of five clubs, but in a sporting mood he decided to fight it out in spades. With a bit of cooperation on the part of the defenders, he was able to bring home the somewhat bizarre contract.

West led his fourth best heart and the deuce was played from dummy. East put up the ace and returned the ten. He hoped to put West back in with the king in order to obtain a diamond shift thru North's holding. West won the second heart trick, but unfortunately he misread East's purpose. West, perhaps unwisely, decided that East had a doubleton heart and wished to overruff dummy on the next round.

A diamond was discarded from the North hand and South ruffed in with the deuce of spades. A club was led over to the ace and a spade was returned. When East played low, South put in the jack of spades which held the trick. The ace of spades was cashed as all hands followed and another club was led to the nine. The king of spades was cashed and, when the queen did not appear, East was revealed to have a trump trick.

South could continue at this point to lead clubs until East ruffed in with his high trump, but in so doing he would give up all chance to make the contract, for he has no entries left to his hand to run the good clubs.

He therefore led the dummy's remaining trump and conceded East his spade trick. If the latter had another heart, the defense would have been able to cash the setting tricks in that suit. Fortunately for South, his opponent had to exit with a diamond and declarer took the rest of the tricks.

A five club contract would have gone on the rocks when the diamond finesse failed. West could and probably should have defeated four spades by shifting to a diamond at trick three. Since South has bid clubs first, and later called spades, it becomes increasingly unlikely that he will be found with as many as three hearts.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"You, like the lamp, must shed light among your fellows, so that, when they see the good you do, they may give praise to your Father in heaven." (Matthew 5:16, NEB)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, grant us grace to let Thy love burn in our hearts today, for only so can we reflect Thy light. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Redistricting Moratorium In Order

There is speculation in Austin that there may have to be a third special session of the Legislature before February to redistrict the state House of Representatives. Whether or not that will happen is within the discretion of the federal courts, where faulty representation has been charged.

It can hardly be argued persuasively that the Texas House's representation — or that of its congressional districts or state Senate — for that matter — measures wholly up to U.S. Supreme Court standards of equality on a population basis. On the other hand, it can be persuasively argued that those standards cannot, as a practical matter, be accurately approached until fresh population data are available.

The U.S. Census Bureau has recently estimated that Texas' population has increased 16.8 per cent between April, 1960, the latest official decennial census figure, and July 1, 1969. That means that Texas' population has increased 1.6 million in the past nine years, from more than 9½ million to well over 11 million, and it could increase by nearly 200,000 more by the time the 1970 decennial census is taken.

Any court-ordered redistricting legally would have to be based on 1960 decennial census data. And yet no one knows exactly where the nine-year increase in state population is located, or how much and to where the total population has shifted in location during that time. Thus it would be statistically impossible for the current Legislature to redistrict accurately for equality-of-population representation no matter how closely it might follow any court order or how thoughtfully that court order might be drafted. And even if it did have to redistrict before February, 1970, it would have to do the whole complex task over again in the 1971 regular session in order to bring representation in line with the new decennial census.

The federal courts would be well-advised to place a moratorium on court-ordered redistricting of legislative branches for a responsible period before the taking of a new census. Needless work and confusion would be avoided, and the actual intent of the U.S. Supreme Court's representation rulings would be just as well served.

Public Bond Rates Need No Tampering

Virtually every state and local government official, as well as financially informed citizens, will back Gov. Preston Smith's plan to remove the tax exemption on interest income from state and local bonds.

That House-passed bill, now under Senate Finance Committee study, views that exemption as a "loophole." Actually it is a fair recognition of the constitutional principle that one level of government should not tax another.

It is true that investors (mostly institutional rather than wealthy individuals) can lower their federal income-tax liability by buying state and local bonds, the interest income from which is not now considered taxable earned income. But the real beneficiaries of this exemption are state and local governmental units' taxpayers, because their tax-financed public-improvement bonds are marketable at a lower interest rate.

Remove the exemption, and those interest rates (already about doubled during current inflation) will shoot up to unmarketable levels. In normal times, it would mean that state and local taxpayers would have to pay more to issue bonds, with the "more" then going to the federal Treasury. As it now is, the state reaps a direct benefit.

It has been argued that the federal government could subsidize state and local bond issues to offset the interest rate increase caused by the exemption removal. But as Gov. Smith angrily pointed out, any such scheme would only give the federal government bureaucratic control over state and local bond programs. Anything the federal government subsidizes it also regulates.

States and their local governments are having enough trouble financing essential public works without Congress upsetting their already shaky bond market in the mistaken notion that it is closing a tax "loophole." If Congress is so sure that this is a "loophole," why does it not remove the federal income-tax exemption on interest income from the federal governments' own bonds?

Holmes Alexander The Pentagon Goes To The People

WASHINGTON — At the Pentagon they are calling him "Mr. Clean."

He is Dr. John S. Foster, director of the Defense Department's research and engineering — the most important shop in Washington for our military defenses in the 1970's.

SOME MONTHS ago I suggested in this place that Dr. Foster ought to come out of the bushes and speak his piece, not just to Congressional committees, but to the American people at large. The other day Dr. Foster did so, as best he could. He addressed the Armed Forces Management Association, which is a segment of the industry-military complex, but Dr. Foster stood on tiptoe and shouted above the heads of his immediate audience — trying to get the nation's attention.

His message was a very candid confession that the Pentagon's methods of purchasing weapons was lousy, and that the Pentagon's communications with the American people was worse.

MR. CLEAN, that is, was coming clean. He said that past and present methods of buying weapons "have cost us the confidence of the public and are threatening our country's future security." He said it was no longer a question of finding good explanations for back-firing military contracts, for "the country's patience has run out." The question was whether by "major surgery" on Defense Department management, the Pentagon could win back public trust or whether we must surrender technological superiority to the on-charging juggernaut of Soviet militarism.

Billy Graham

I believe that "Christian Education" is the answer to today's problems. Do you agree? J.V.

It depends, of course, on your definition of "Christian Education." If it means the education of the mind without a change of heart, then I do not believe it is the answer to our problems. The meaningfulness of knowledge depends upon the use one can make of it. We know that one can be an educated criminal, or an educated useful citizen, depending upon what use we make of our knowledge. While I am a firm believer in education, I also believe that it can be used wrongly unless the heart is right.

When the Pharisees asked Jesus which was the greatest commandment, He said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Notice, He put the "heart" before the "mind." The condition and attitude of our hearts enables us to make the best use of knowledge. But, having said that, I must remind you that Jesus' statement indicates that the "mind" is important also. Christianity is not a "cult of the stupid and unlearned." Some of the keenest men of history have been notable Christians. They used their knowledge to build a strong faith. So, Christian education, in the Scriptural sense, implies the education of the whole man, heart, soul and mind. If the mind is developed to the exclusion of the heart, we may become educated fools.

DR. FOSTER comes to his office at 7:30 a.m., stays there 12 hours or more, works Saturdays, works Sundays. He has outside offers for three times his present salary. The only decent assumption must be that he loves his country and trembles for her military future. He's in a position to know. He hears the fast-closing Russian footfalls. He sees that the USSR has unwitting fifth-columnists in the U.S. Senate. He senses that the American people are being conned into a loss of faith in its Armed Services, much as they were being seduced a year or so ago into the claptrap about "police brutality."

WE SHOULD ALL wish that Dr. Foster had a taller soapbox to speak from. What he's saying needs to be heard far and wide. "We must have broad technological superiority over (Russia); not parity, superiority." The Soviet Union has already pulled "roughly even . . . in . . . defense-related research and development."

BUT THE THRUST of his address was not against the unilateral disarmament bluffs in the Senate and elsewhere. Dr. Foster gave them only oblique and unfavorable mention. The aim of the Defense Department must be to regain the people's confidence, and this can only be done, he said, by Pentagon purchasing contracts which are manifestly beyond suspicion and immune from reasonable criticism.

ONE ICEBREAKER THAT ISN'T

John Cunniff Lot Of Gambling Blood In Americans

NEW YORK (AP) — "Mutual funds were designed to be used as prayer rugs in the temple of investment, but too many people are using them as knee pads in a crap game," said George Washburn, who has many thousands of dollars in funds.

That's one way of viewing the so-called performance derby, in which dozens of mutual funds try at any hour or week to prove that their investments have risen more sharply than those of their competitors.

The mania, as some call it, has been a startling—even alarming—developing of the past few years.

Funds to whom millions of dollars have been entrusted have taken gambling shots with green stocks. And in a rising market, such as prevailed in recent years, they have often pocketed big returns from their big risks.

There's a lot of gambling blood in Americans, it seems. Reading about the feats of these mutual funds, casual observers soon became deeply committed stockholders, buying up shares of the front-runners.

By leading the derby, or placing high on the list, some rather new and small funds attracted so much money that they became giants of finance in a matter of a year or three.

And now Washburn, who runs the mutual fund department at Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis, says it's all wrong. The fixation on short-term performance, he maintains, is a lot of nonsense.

"Short term should mean 10 years," he says. "You can't judge a counsel's ability to manage a portfolio in less than that."

Washburn has preached consistently that funds should not be purchased for short-term aims but should be tied to long-range objectives, such as retirement.

He maintains that the performance derby has badly distorted the role of funds. Money invested in a mutual fund should not be gambling money, he states. It should be the very money that now goes into the bank.

"The future of this business," he says, "is going to come not from its use as an investment but its use as a means of savings. We're talking about savings, not speculation."

The notion that funds are for quick profits, Washburn feels, has misled customer and salesman alike.

Customers continue to put the bulk of their savings in the bank, despite inflation, and commit only a small part to securities. And salesmen, instead of aiming their efforts at the billions of dollars that Americans set aside for savings seek only the smaller portion that is reserved for speculation.

But aren't mutual funds, no matter how broadly diversified, a good deal riskier than banks? Perhaps, but Washburn feels the risk can be minimized by choosing funds with consistent records for many years.

These are generous words indeed, but Terry Young can afford to be generous. Starting first as a film critic and then as a script writer, he has directed more than 20 movies, including "Wait Until Dark" and three of the James Bond pictures, "Dr. No," "From Russia With Love," and "Operation Thunderball," which has taken in more than $60 million.

"I believe that makes it one of the top five or six in film history," remarked Young, who has just finished "The Christmas Tree," starring William Holden and 11-year-old Brook Fuller.

Young, a tall, uninhibited Irishman who used to box at Cambridge University and had four tanks shot out from under him as an officer in the Irish Guards armored regiment during World War II, showed up for lunch wearing a turbanlike head bandage.

"I fell down a companionway in a sailing boat while carrying a tray of drinks," he explained.

Hal Boyle Dramatic Realism

"I had to have eight stitches, but they're mending nicely."

A colorful and controversial figure, as effervescent as soda water but considerably more flavorful, Terry feels a new day has dawned in the film industry, one in which it is no longer so dependent upon stars.

"The director is coming into his own now," he said. "People are shopping for directors almost as much as for stars. The writer's turn is coming, but isn't here yet."

"I think the trend is good, because the most important things in a picture are, first, the subject matter and then the director."

What about the actors? Young waved his hands expressively.

"A special type of picture will always require a star," he said, "but the marvelous thing today is you can make a picture without a big name. It has been shown you don't always have to have a star."

To Your Good Health 'Water Pills' No Substitute For Proper Diet

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If diuretics ("water pills") are taken daily for several years for weight reduction purposes, what harm can this cause to the kidneys or other organs? — Mrs. A.T.

Diuretics have a place — but a limited one — in weight reduction programs. Some people have a tendency to retain water in the tissues.

But relying on such pills for any continued time is quite another matter. The drugs remove fluid but not fat, and you are only kidding yourself if you believe otherwise.

The thing we want to do is control fluid by more natural means. Principally, this means that if you use a lot of salt, or like salty foods, you should cut down sharply on the amount of salt you eat, because salt (the sodium in it) can cause fluid accumulation.

Excessive use of diuretics can also cause a loss of essential minerals, particularly potassium and sodium, and in some instances when continued use of diuretics is necessary, steps have to be taken to replace these lost minerals.

The diuretics will not harm kidneys if no kidney disease is present, but if there is kidney disease, you need to be under a doctor's care.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is your opinion of a diet which puts emphasis on high-fat, low-carbohydrate intake, with the idea that calories don't count? Is it safe? Is it true that low-calorie diets are not effective, but harmful? — K.M.

It's a variant of the idea that you can "eat all you want" of some things if you avoid others. Some of these diets which sound so attractive on paper result in malnutrition in certain respects. In other cases, people just get so sick of the monotony that they give up. Unit for unit, fats contain twice as many calories as carbohydrates. Low calorie diets, if balanced, are not harmful.

Calories count, and it is a pity that people are misled by tricky wording and trick diets. If you want more of the details of how these trick diets fail, you'll find them in my booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," which you can obtain by sending a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents to Dr. Thosteson, care of The Herald.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim Setting The Record Straight

There has been a movement back to nature in the past decade, with entire families packing up and heading out on the open roads with tents and cooking utensils for a week or two in the wide open spaces.

My parents are among the group that considers camping out the only way to spend a vacation, but to me "roughing it" is staying in a motel without a swimming pool.

I HAVE BEEN on a number of camping trips, and I don't think I have ever had just a really fantastic time.

When I was in junior high I participated in a field trip to Big Bend National Park. Skunks slept with us. Little, tiny insects embedded themselves in our food. We froze to death at night, and there were three cases of heatstroke during the day. I nearly drowned in the Rio Grande.

WE WENT MOUNTAIN climbing, and one of the boys fell off the mountain and broke his arm. The park rangers had to climb up, strap him in a litter and lower him down the face of a cliff, and then it was 150 miles to the nearest hospitals. And it wasn't even a very big mountain.

Our bus driver made a wrong turn, and we wound up on a dead-end road with a 150 degree slant and canyons on both sides. There were two ways to get down, back down or turn around. There were two buses, and they decided to try one of each.

THE PEOPLE on the other bus said it was a little exciting barreling backwards down a mountain road and wondering whether the brakes would hold, but I think we had the best time of all. Our driver opted to try to turn the bus around, it resembled a caterpillar trying to go the other way on a grass stem.

I HAVE TO ADMIT I saw some of the most gorgeous sunrises ever, but I don't even like sunrises. Normally I don't wake up until about noon.

We traveled around the park on school buses, and now, I can't believe I ever submitted to riding around in the desert heat in an unairconditioned bus.

We also took a five-mile hike at noon without water, now that was

The entire purpose for this rather lengthy dissertation is because one of my classmates who made the trip. I saw her the other day and she said: "Remember our camping trip to Big Bend, wasn't that fun?" This is just to set the record straight.

Marquis Childs Our Time Of Continuing Crisis

WASHINGTON — In the vocabulary of the commentator the word crisis recurs as a leitmotif with depressing predictability. Crises — political, military, environmental — pop up almost daily and are the grist of the commentator's mill.

Until recent years the locale of the crisis was conveniently distant. Restless natives in Aden or Bombay or Timbuktu were bent on overthrowing whatever established order had survived the previous uprising. As trolley cars were burned and hapless bystanders came under the attack of the forces of law and order we could, from a great distance, take a condescending view of these aberrations.

The tax reform bill passed by the House corrects some of the more glaring inequities in our own structure. But the modifications proposed by the Nixon Administration give little evidence of any recognition of the need to distribute income more equitably in relation to need.

A GLARING INSTANCE illustrates how outmoded the structure is. The income tax deduction allowed for each dependent in a family is $600. Theoretically, this is to help defray the upbringing and education of each child. In light of present-day prices it is absurdly small.

More important than particular correctives is the way in which the national income is shared out. It is here that the pattern in the West is strikingly similar. At the top the very rich have political power to resist any significant change — a leverage that will be exercised in the struggle in the Senate to modify the House bill.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, that has all been changed. The crisis today is in the next street, in the college across the park, in the housing development around the corner. And the reasons why this is so bear a strong family resemblance to the circumstances that set off the disorders, the recurring crises, in the so-called underdeveloped countries.

JUST BELOW this small body at the top of the pyramid are the trade unions representing about one-fourth of all wage earners. The union leaders, too, have great leverage and they mean to use it in Britain, France, Italy and this country.

The continuing threat to stability comes from the outsiders — from the blacks, the poor, the dispossessed — who are determined to fight their way into the system by any and all means. They will not be fobbed off with promises of Fair Deals, Great Societies, promises never matching the glow of rising expectations. This is the crisis of our time and all the disorders, the violence, the unrest come out of it.

THE PROBLEM in the overdeveloped countries is essentially, in one aspect, the same. It is a lopsided distribution of income in the face of the revolution of rising expectations. For there should be no mistake about it — that revolution is as real in the ghettos of Detroit and Chicago as it is in Tanzania and Mali.

THE CONTINUING threat to stability comes from the outsiders — from the blacks, the poor, the dispossessed — who are determined to fight their way into the system by any and all means. They will not be fobbed off with promises of Fair Deals, Great Societies, promises never matching the glow of rising expectations. This is the crisis of our time and all the disorders, the violence, the unrest come out of it.

Art Buchwald We Take 'Em One Game At A Time

WASHINGTON — "Coach Nixon, don't want him to get hurt?"

"No, it isn't. Spiro had no experience when he came on the team, and he's just learning the plays. I'm very pleased with his progress. And it's a great comfort for me to know he's suited up and sitting on the bench."

"I'd like to make one thing perfectly clear, I believe I've got a good team, a hard-working team and a team that could win another championship in 1972."

"You've got some tough opposition. How do you think you'll do against the Inflation Rockets?"

"No problem. It's just a question of everyone holding the line. If we tackle hard we can lick them."

"WHAT WILL your over-all strategy be when you take on Inflation?"

"I don't believe it's the coach's job to get into things like strategy. Obviously, I don't want Inflation to run away with the game, but I don't think I should call the signals from the bench. I prefer to give David Kennedy the ball and let him run with it."

"What about your game with the Segregation Boosters? The scouting reports indicate they're tough this year."

"I NATURALLY would like to beat Segregation as much as anybody. But I differ with the Monday-morning quarterbacks on how we can do it. I'm against rushing, and I don't believe we should try to score against them every time we've got the ball. I'm satisfied with a first down every once in a while in contrast to those who are always demanding touchdowns."

"There is some question as to who will be calling the signals against Segregation. Some say that so far Strom Thurmond has been calling them."

"DON'T BELIEVE everything you read in the sports pages. Strom was on my team from the beginning and I have the highest respect for him, but that doesn't mean that I'm going to put him in the game. I've got two great backs in John Mitchell and Bob Finch and if they can't defeat the Segregation Boosters, nobody can."

"You've been using Spiro Agnew springily so far. Is this because you

Population Facts

BUDAPEST (AP) — By the end of 1968 Hungary's population numbered 10,275,000 persons, 39,000 more than the previous year, the news agency MTI reported.

There were 33,596 more females than men but this ratio was slowly changing. While in 1949 the ratio was 1,081 women for each 1,000 males last year it was 1,068 to 1,000.

MRS. CHESTER F. BARNES JR.

Say Vows In Church Chapel

Miss Nancy Smith and Chester F. Barnes Jr., both of Houston, were married at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Memorial Drive Presbyterian Church Chapel in Houston with Dr. Marvin Boyd performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Byron Smith of Richardson, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Barnes Sr., 1308 Dixie.

The soloist, Mrs. J. S. Norman Jr. sang "The Greatest of These is Love" before an altar decorated with white flowers, a large white cross and a large white dove. The bride and groom were seated in the front of the church.

The bride was attired in a gown of white English net, accented with white chrysanthemums and centered with a tiered white wedding cake topped with white doves and pearl hearts.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Houston where she majored in journalism at the university, she was named a Vanity Fair Beauty for two years and was elected to the Sigma Chi Sweetheart Court. She is employed by the Greater Houston Builders Association.

The bridegroom attended the University of Houston, serving as a cheerleader. He was affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. Currently, Barnes is vice president of Snoopy's Restaurants, Inc., Houston.

After a wedding trip to Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes will reside at 7992 Locke Lane. For traveling, Mrs. Barnes carried a Kelly green dress with enhanced with banding of the lace. From the elevated waistline, a wide panel of the net overlaid the back of the slender skirt to form a circular train.

Sprays of Venice lace flowers held tiers of white illusion which formed her shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias, pompon daisies and stephanotis.

Miss Kathy Cushion, the maid of honor, was attired in a gown of Capri blue chiffon. The bridesmaids were styled with brief footlets for hospital patients, at chapter.

Two fund-raising projects will be the selling of a household cleaner and a bake which is scheduled Nov. 22 with the place to be announced. Mrs. Loy Carroll is the ways and means chairman.

Mrs. Lonnie Zant announced rush plans; the first event being a pizza party at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 6, in the home of Mrs. Dick Egan, 2710 Rebecca.

The wedding will take place Oct. 18 in the Church of Christ, Minter Lane, Abilene.

A LOVELIER YOU Shiny Hair Returns In Fashion Trend

By MARY SUE MILLER

You are one up on hair fashions if you've crossed off geometric cuts and styling fantasies. All the tortured teasing, screaming colors and trumped-up effects are gone. Doomed!

New do's are conceived in naturalness upon healthy, shining hair. The hair's the thing!

Styles vary in length, but are always sleek. Short hair caps the head like a calotte of smooth, glossy feathers. More often than not, shoulder lengths have a side part with full ends brushed under. Long hair falls like weighted satin and, for an unruffled life, wears a golden barrette.

Occasionally hair is piled atop the head, but it goes up and ends up with the slickest possible finish. When waves or curls are used in any style, they are soft and relaxed. Like nature's best effort.

Your other hair — a wig or wiglet — will follow the natural theme, too. Little "skullcap" wigs are light as air and spring into soft waves with the flip of a comb. Long falls and braids are designed more than ever to mix, match and infiltrate with your own locks.

Hair fashions, like makeup and clothes, gives you the feeling of being — naturally — a very pretty girl. Now I ask you: Who can object to your looking a natural beauty? Not you! Not the male!

Xi Mu Speaker Advises Tour Of United States

"I wish everyone would tour the United States before they travel to foreign countries," said Mrs. Roy Granbery at Monday's meeting of Xi Mu Chapter Beta Sigma Phi.

"See the U.S.A." was the subject discussed by Mrs. Granbery in conjunction with the year's study theme, "Do Your Own Thing." The speaker showed slides of a recent trip to New England, when Granbery, a private pilot, flew the family over 5,200 miles as they toured various states. Also, slides were shown of the family's trips to Washington, D.C., and Key West, Fla.

Mrs. Jerry Snodgrass was named chapter Valentine sweetheart. Mrs. Leslie Caperton, president, announced the group will sell BSP cookbooks for $3.50. The books feature 2,000 recipes said Mrs. Roy Granbery at Monday's meeting of Xi Mu Chapter Beta Sigma Phi.

Tentative plans were made for a Halloween party for students in special education classes at Moss Elementary School.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Jack Blizard, 2111 Cecilia. Refreshments were served from a table laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of red zinnias.

The next meeting will be Oct. 13 in the home of Mrs. Wade Choate, 2324 Brent.

Car Insurance Premiums Should Be Hiked Zero?

AUSTIN (AP) — Estimates on how much car insurance premiums should be increased ranged from zero to 114 per cent Monday.

The Governor's Committee on Auto Insurance has recommended that the industry's figure, 114 per cent, should be cut to 9.9 per cent.

F. Darby Hammond, executive director of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service said: "Any way you slice it, what the committee said to the insurance industry in effect was 'we know you are losing money but we want you to lose more.'"

"And there is no way that forcing companies to continue operations in the red will not eventually harm the public," he said.

Harry Hubbard of the Texas AFL-CIO, a member of the governor's committee, sent a telegram to committee Chairman Price Daniel saying a called meeting was urgently needed.

Hubbard said the committee may have been misled by an estimate on the number of car accidents in Texas last year.

The committee was told there were 940,272 accidents in Texas last year.

But the Department of Public Safety said only 328,526 accidents were reported.

"It may be that these and other figures provided have misled the committee and that no rate increase is needed at all," Hubbard said.

Marine Death Investigation

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — An investigation into the death of a recruit who said he was "kicked and choked" at the Parris Island training base indicates fellow trainees may have hit him and pushed him against a wall, a Marine spokesman says.

Pvt. Stephen E. Melson, 18, of Millsboro, Del., died Sunday after being hospitalized Sept. 7, four days after arriving at the Marine recruit training depot.

A Marine spokesman said in-told doctors at the U.S. naval hospital at nearby Beaufort that he had had the symptoms of which he complained for at least eight days.

Doctors at the University of South Carolina hospital in Charleston, to which he was transferred, said death resulted from kidney failure, uremic encephalopathy and pneumonia. Autopsy results have not been announced.

Twenty-Two Pupils Attend Colleges Under OPI Plan

Twenty-two Big Spring students are attending college this year under Opportunity Plan, Inc. OPI, as it is called, is a non-profit organization operating on the campus of West Texas State University under the direction of its founder, Milton Morris. Funds for the plan come from donations by private citizens all over Texas, often former students who were once helped by OPI.

OPI is available to any Texas student regardless of race, color, or creed, at any approved Texas college, but it is centered at West Texas. The plan combines financial counseling, part-time job opportunity, and supervised financial assistance for any deserving student. He is judged purely on his own merit and receives loans at an interest. Herbert Johnson, Bauer elementary school teacher, represents OPI in Big Spring. Another plan incorporated under OPI is the Talent Search which encourages students to get back into school — any school, vocational included — and continue their education. Morris leaves Wednesday for Washington, D.C., to raise funds for this portion of OPI. Big Spring students currently in school because of OPI include: Rosemary Lupe Cevallos, Leonard Torres, Eulalia Trevino, and Manuel Munoz, all at West Texas State; Connie Trevino, Tomasa Cruz, Virginia Lujan, Guadalupe Lara, at Howard County Junior College; and Pete Rodriguez at Texas A&M.

Suspends Surgeon Who Performed Transplant

HOUSTON (AP)—Dr. Conrad Moore, who performed a partial eye transplant last April, was suspended Monday night by the Harris County Medical Society.

The Houston Ophthalmological Society previously suspended Moore for "ophthalmic practice not in keeping with the standards of the community."

Methodist hospital, where Moore is a staff member and where the eye operation took place, would not comment.

Moore has 20 days to appeal to the Texas Medical Association. He also can appeal to the American Medical Association. At the time, a release from the hospital referred to the operation as a total eye transplant. Four days later Moore said he had transplanted only the front part of the eye to John Madden of Conroe.

Moore is an assistant professor at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Indian Guides Meet Today

An organizational meeting for Y Indian Guides has been set for 7 p.m. today at the YMCA, and fathers and sons are invited to participate.

The Y Indian Guide is aimed primarily at youngsters in the first and second grades, and it is a father and son program. Morris Holmes, Longhouse chief, will preside over the session in the YMCA all-purpose room. Phil Raign, medicine man, will assist.

On hand to help new boys and their fathers will be the chiefs of the four tribes — Jim Shilenburg, Tejas; Bill Carlile, Crow; Billy Johnson, Comanche; and Charles Tuttle, Sioux.

All boys and their fathers who now are members are urged to attend the meeting.

TRIGGERED PICKETING Youth Remains In Jail Unable To Pay Fines

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A Mexican-American youth, whose jailing set off picketing, remained in jail today, unable to pay the $225 in fines levied against him, police said.

Juan Pablo Morales Anzaldua, 17, was arrested Thursday and charged with loitering after he took part in a demonstration at a local high school.

He was later charged with possession of lewd and obscene material after police said some printed matter was found in his pocket. At his trial, he was also charged with contempt of court, fined $25 for loitering, $100 on the contempt charge and $100 for possession of obscene materials and ordered to serve three days in jail.

A member of the advisory committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission was in Del Rio Monday looking into the charges after State Rep. Carlos Truan said Sunday Anzaldua was convicted on flimsy evidence.

Members of the Political Association of Spanish Speaking Organizations picketed the jail Saturday where Anzaldua was held.

Oil Depletion Stand Stated By President

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A deputy counsel to President Nixon said in a letter Monday that the President "continues to stand by his campaign commitment" supporting retention of the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance.

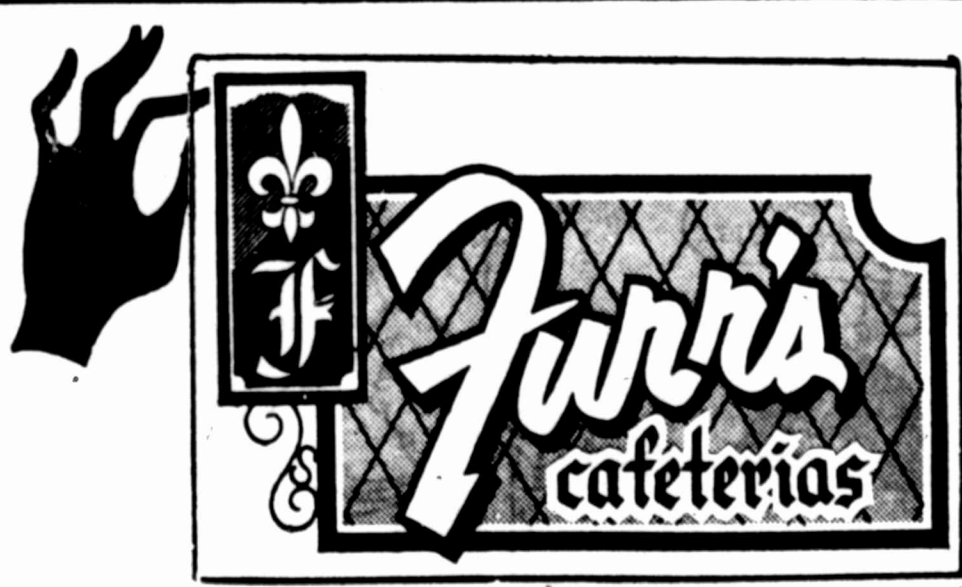

Midland County Judge Barbara G. Culver said she received the letter from Harry S. Dent in response to one she wrote the President. In her original letter she enclosed a resolution adopted recently by the Midland County Commissioners Court, urging the retention of the present oil depletion tax allowance.

"Your letter to the President has been received, and he has asked me to respond on his behalf," said Dent's letter.

"The recent testimony given before the Senate Finance Committee is to be corrected very soon by the Secretary of the Treasury. The President continues to stand by his campaign commitment."

"As you may know, the House did vote to lower the oil depletion allowance (from 27½ per cent to 20 per cent), but this was an action of the House of Representatives and not of the President."

Early this month the Secretary of the Treasury told the Senate Finance Committee that the Nixon administration would reluctantly "accept" the allowance reduction voted by the House.

Turnkey III Fire Growing

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A congressional subcommittee may be invited here to study Turnkey III, a proposed poverty war housing project that has drawn opposition from neighborhoods designated as sites for the program.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., said Monday he was checking into the possibility of inviting the House housing subcommittee, of which he is a member, to study Turnkey III and the entire public housing situation here.

Officials of the San Antonio Housing Authority, sponsor of Turnkey III, outlined the proposed project for city councilmen at a public meeting Monday night.

The project would locate low-income families in homes which developers estimate would be worth $14,000 to $23,000. The price is subject to negotiation and Housing Authority officials say none will cost $23,000.

Residents of the three school districts designated for the homes have staged mass meetings in opposition to Turnkey III.

Miss Statser completed one year of service here in August. She attended Howard County Junior College and North Texas State University.

The 1970 light-your-fire Buicks are here.

They're just for you. The cars you've been asking for. From Buick 1970. This one is the GS 455. Sleek, sporty, exciting. Its engine? 455 cubic-inches. 350 horses strong. With a four-barrel carburetor that breathes through real air-scoops. Four on the floor? A finely tuned 3-speed automatic? Both are available. Power disc brakes. Positive traction differential. High performance rear axle ratios, too. And lots more. Wide-tread fiberglass belted tires that are standard on all 1970 Buicks give improved traction during braking, cornering and acceleration; significant increases in tread life, and substantially superior resistance to road hazards. Side guard beam construction for added protection. Body by Fisher. There's luxury, too. Bucket seats, if you want them. Full carpeting. Obviously the most exciting car we've ever made. And one that you've been asking for. See it. See all the 1970 Light Your Fire Cars. The Gran Sports and Skylark Sport Coupes and Convertibles.

Rookies Have Banner Year In Pro Ball

Greg Cook, Jim Mitchell, Warren Bankston, Don Herrmann, Calvin Hill, Roger Staubach, Ron Johnson, O.J. Simpson. It's looking like professional football's Year-of-the-Rookie. Cook, a 22-year-old Cincinnati Bengals, passed the experienced San Diego Chargers' dizzy. He hurled scoring strikes of nine, 78 and 39 yards and ran nine yards for another score in the Bengals' 34-10 shocker Sunday.

"Cook was fantastic," said Bengals' Coach Paul Brown. "He just doesn't play like a rookie. He is not an ordinary young man."

Cook, the Bengals' first-round draft choice from the University of Cincinnati, completed 14 of 22 passes for 292 yards.

A 235-pound tight end from Prairie View A&M, Jim Mitchell, was given the game ball for his part in Atlanta's 34-12 upset over San Francisco. Mitchell caught touchdown passes of 13 and 42 yards in the Falcons' first triumph in six league games against the 49ers and their first victory ever on opening day.

"I thought it would be a little tougher than this but it was tough enough," Mitchell said. Pittsburgh fullback Warren Bankston, a 225-pounder from Tulane, got his chance after injuries sidelined Dick Hoak and Don McCall.

He fumbled twice, setting up a field goal and a touchdown for Detroit, but he roared over from the six for the winning touchdown in the clutch in the 16-13 victory.

"My brother came up from Louisiana when he heard I was going to start and I told him I was going to score and throw the ball in the stands," Bankston said.

The ball cost $25 and Steeler Vice President Dan Rooney said Bankston will have to pay $100 for his exuberant antics, as is the league practice. But he smiled as he said it.

Don Herrmann, a receiver from Little Wayneburg, Pa., State, scored two touchdowns in the last five minutes as the New York Giants stopped Minnesota 24-23. Herrmann ran over on a 16-yarder from quarterback Fran Tarkenton, making the score 23-17 and then in the last 59 seconds, Tarkenton caught Herrmann open in the end zone with a 10-yard pass that clinched it.

Herrmann said he was thinking about one thing during those final minutes: "A lower is a player who sits around hoping someone else makes the big play. A winner is someone who wants to make it himself."

Calvin Hill, the Cowboys' first round draft choice from Yale, broke open the St. Louis-Dallas game in the third quarter with a halfback pass, a perfect 53-yard touchdown throw to speedy Lance Rentzel. It boosted the Dallas lead to 14-3 and the Cowboys went on to win it 24-3.

"It spiraled," said St. Louis safety Larry Wilson, who was beaten on the play.

Hill, a 6-4 220-pounder who also gained 70 yards in 18 carries, said of the touchdown pass: "It spiraled, and it usually doesn't do that in practice. I just kept thinking, don't over-throw him."

Hill wasn't the only Dallas rookie to deliver.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
TOM SEEVER, star hurler for the New York Mets, when informed that San Diego Padre rookie righthander Al Santorini had decided to pattern himself after Seaver:
 "Great. He'll have a sore arm in a month."

STAN JONES, coaching aide of the Denver Broncos:
 "I once had it made as a Chicago Bear until somebody wrote a book saying the only way to really see a game is to watch the guards. A coach read it and right away I was in trouble."

EARL WEAVER, manager of the Baltimore Orioles, after his contract had been renewed by the management:
 "This club was fair . . . Of course, it could have been fairer."

ROSIE GRIER, former professional football player, now a TV actor:
 "I have no intention of getting back into any aspect of football. I might work with kids as a hobby. I'd like that—trying to train kids and encourage them in the game. But I don't want any part of professional football—even a coaching job . . . There are numerous opportunities for Negroes in films and TV now. But you've got to be pretty black. They want Negroes who show up black. A poor light-skinned Negro had better forget it . . . Lots of professional actors don't like it that athletes are getting into 'their business.'"

GIL HODGES, manager of the New York Mets, after learning that Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers started darkening his gray hair this summer:
 "Hey, Mayo, are you standing on your head when you get your shoes shined?"

Senior SAM HOLDEN, who caught his first touchdown pass for SMU against Air Force recently:
 "Chuck Hixson is the best passer in the business. He knows just how to throw it to make it easiest on the receiver. He can throw over the defensive man and complete it without an interception, he can hum the ball or he can make it a soft throw easy to catch. He also gets it at just the right height to prevent the opposition from hitting you high and hurting you."

JOHN BRIDGERS, former Baylor coach, now with the Pittsburgh Steelers:
 "Lawrence Elkins (former All-American at Baylor) was really good for us. He had started our last two games, caught 19 passes and was our leading receiver. Then he broke his collarbone, real bad. It looked like he had regained all his old speed and quickness. Now, he's out for the season."

DR. DON TARR, stock car driver:
 "I'm racing for a living. Being a doctor is my hobby."

Scribe BERT McGRANE:
 "Have you heard about that alumni council who told their coach after a long losing streak, 'There's a train leaving town in 30 minutes. Be under it.'"

STEVE STUART, Baylor quarterback:
 "I wouldn't hesitate to say Bill Montgomery of Arkansas is the finest quarterback in the country. I'd rate him with anybody—Joe Namath, or anyone you could name. I'd have to say he's the best quarterback I've ever seen."

GARY HAMMOND, SMU split end:
 "I was planning on being the starting quarterback as a sophomore. I was listening to our opener last year with Auburn—not listening too closely because I wasn't involved, you know what I mean?—and the announcer kept saying Hixson this and Hixson that. And golly, finally I realized he was messing up my plans."

Dog Fans Hear Ozona Report

COAHOMA — Films of the Coahoma-Winters game and a scouting report on Ozona will highlight tonight's program of the Coahoma Quarterback Club.

The meeting gets under way at 8 o'clock in the high school cafeteria. A banner turnout is expected, since Coahoma is undefeated and well ranked in statewide ratings.

IN STATISTICS Steers Maintain Edge Over Foe

In their two games played thus far, the Big Spring Steers have outgained the opposition both on the ground and through the air but the foe has more first downs (19-18).

The Longhorns have picked up a total of 388 yards rushing and passing to 305 for the enemy.

Rick Peurifoy leads all Steer rushers with 124 yards net in ten carries for a 12.4-yard average. He counted three touchdowns in last week's game.

Gary Kitchens May Be Out

STANTON — This is the week the Stanton Buffaloes are determined they will turn the corner.

Rotan, boasting two victories, including a 26-16 win over Spur, comes to town and Coach Gerald Lloyd and his charges are dedicating their home opener with Rotan to the season's first victory.

Whether Gary Kitchens, back of the week for the first game, will be able to go is problematical, for he went out in the first quarter against Seagraves with a shoulder injury. It was not broken or separated, but it will be late in the week before a decision is reached on whether he can safely go. If not, Roy Kelley, his replacement, is in fine shape. Roy almost took Back of the Week honors on the basis of his play.

Lindsey Jones, linebacker who has been out with injuries, is due back for the Rotan game. Mike Hurst, however, is out for the season with a knee injury. Mims has a bad shoulder but is expected to start.

Stanton was giving Seagraves a hard time until the half and would have gone to the showers all even except for a punt return. In the third, however, Stanton injuries and thin bench turned the tide.

QBC SLATES MEETING

Big Spring Quarterback Club officials expect attendance at their meetings to pick up, now that the Steers have tasted victory.

The booster organization meets again at 8 o'clock this evening in the high school cafeteria.

Those attending will get to see films of Big Spring's exciting 29-15 victory over Midland Lee and hear a scouting report on Big Spring's upcoming foe, Odessa Ector.

Also due for an appearance at the convocation are leaders of the BSNS cheering section.

Mays Clubs 600th Homer; Braves Win

By MIKE RECHT
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Didier has become perhaps the first catcher ever to pull off the hidden ball trick, but no one—except Babe Ruth—has ever been able to make them disappear like Willie Mays.

Wonderful Willie, with one wave of his magical bat, became only the second man to hit 600 home runs in a major league career when he blasted a two-run, tie-breaking, pinch hit blast in the seventh inning Monday night, giving San Francisco a 4-2 victory over San Diego.

The homer also put the Giants one half game ahead of Atlanta in the National League's West Division after Didier's bit of mysticism helped the Braves to a 5-3 triumph over Houston.

MILLER FOOLED

It also was the seventh inning and Houston had two runs home when Didier waved his magic finger and presto! . . . the ball disappeared, then reappeared, just in time to catch Norm Miller trying to score from third, ending the threat.

"I saw the pitch was low," Miller explained. "Then I saw something white go back and hit the backstop and I heard Salty (third base Coach Salty Parker) yell 'go,' and I did. I couldn't believe when I saw Didier coming at me with the ball."

Actually, a look into Didier's bag of tricks showed only a finger guard that had flown off his finger. The umpires later made him disgorge it after Houston protested.

Also in the West, Cincinnati jumped ahead of Los Angeles into third place, four games back, by coming up with two runs in the ninth inning for a 2-1 victory over the Dodgers.

And in the East, Tom Seaver gave St. Louis a dose of Mets magic with another baffling performance on the mound as New York beat the Cardinals 3-1 and reduced its magic clinching number to three. No other games were scheduled.

Willie's Smash Earned Car, 390 Stock Shares

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Willie Mays says he thrives on pressure, but he felt relieved to have some of it lifted from his back when he became the second major leaguer ever to hit 600 home runs.

The pressure was building up. I had been trying too hard to hit home runs," said the 38-year-old wonder after he clouted No. 600 as a pinchhitter Monday night with one on in the seventh inning to give San Francisco a 4-2 victory over San Diego.

"The big thing is that it won the game," said Mays after keeping the Giants a half game ahead of Atlanta in the National League's frantic Western Division race.

Frank Torre, the former Milwaukee first baseman, represents the Adirondack Bat Co., and has been following Mays and the Giants around for several weeks waiting for Willie to hit No. 600. The milestone Ruth was the only other big smash earned Mays a $12,500 leaguer ever to hit as many sports car and one share of stock as 600.

A small crowd of 4,779 gave Mays a standing ovation and the entire San Francisco bench was waiting at home plate as Willie rounded the bases on a gimpy knee injured several weeks ago in a home plate collision with Chicago catcher Randy Hundley.

"It was a thrill to see all my teammates waiting at home plate — that's something you don't see very often," Mays said.

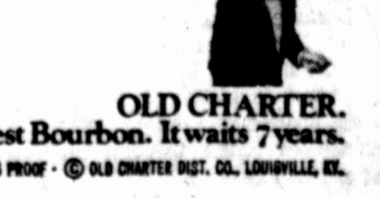

Mays, slowed by age and injuries, doesn't even consider the possibility of catching the all-time home run leader, Babe Ruth, who hit 714 roundtrippers, but he said he would like to hit 700.

Oxen-Driven Wagon Missing

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The oxen-driven covered wagon that adorned the Nevada Highway Department's official seal for 39 years has disappeared over the distant mountain range for which it was heading.

The department adopted Monday a new seal which it said was more in keeping with the times.

The new emblem presents a modern freeway that winds between mountain ranges to connect scattered communities. A jet aircraft's just above the horizon.

TRAFFIC LINED UP TWO MILES AT BROWNSVILLE

Dope War Draws Motorists' Ire

By The Associated Press

Operation Intercept headed into its third day Tuesday with traffic still backed up at border points while customs agents continued their massive crackdown on drug smuggling.

Traffic stacked up for blocks at all crossing points between Mexico and Texas with some persons saying they waited as long as six hours to cross.

Customs officials refused to say much about the giant operation which was searching every car that crossed the border. But reports said, customs officers from as far away as New York have been flown in to help.

WORKING OVERTIME
In Laredo, Oran Pugh, customs agent in charge, said his force has been doubled but some were still working overtime. But late Monday he said, "Right now, it's no worse than a normal weekend."

In California, a spokesman for the operation said the program was disrupting contraband drug traffic from Mexico "and reducing the supply of narcotics, other dangerous drugs and marijuana in the United States."

That was the intent of the operation. Up until midnight Sunday, seizures along the border from San Ysidro, Calif., to Brownsville, Tex., amounted to 3,084 dangerous pills, a spokesman announced. He said the "below normal" figure indicated the program was working. No marijuana or hashish was found, he said, during the first 9½ hours in the search of 418,161 persons along the 2,500-mile border.

FOUR ARRESTS
There were four arrests for possession of dangerous drugs. Jack Goldberg, 19, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was arrested on a marijuana smuggling charge at El Paso International Airport. Authorities said his suitcase contained 25 pounds of marijuana.

For the entire operation, the spokesman issued these search figures from 2:30 p.m. Sunday until midnight: 106,563 vehicles and 308,584 passengers; 104,547 pedestrians; 70 private aircraft and 699 passengers; 30 commercial aircraft and 1,119 passengers.

Motorists who crossed the border found customs agents swarming over their cars, opening hoods and trunks, peering down window wells with specially-built optic devices, taking off hub caps, and searching luggage and clothing.

Most residents in Texas border towns were staying as far away from the border as possible. Pugh said many border shoppers were leaving their cars and walking across the bridges connecting the two countries. TEMPERS FLARE

At Brownsville Monday night, those at the rear of the line who had no power to change the order. At El Paso, a number of cars waiting in line during the hours wait were stalled as they ran out of gas. There were a number of boiling radiators as the cars inched toward the inspection facilities.

One woman in line said she would help customs agents tear her car apart if "they'll just let me out of here."

Agents said it was taking about 15 minutes to inspect one car. Motorists said the line was moving at the rate of one block per hour.

Agents refused to comment on seizures of marijuana or drugs by the crackdown, referring all inquiries to Operation Intercept headquarters in California. Questions there also went unanswered.

DUMB ENOUGH?
One man in line at Brownsville said, "I just think they are not going to catch anyone. No one is dumb enough to haul it (drugs) in the car when they see this setup," he said.

But some customs agents said they did not expect to make seizures but that drug smuggling would be stopped by the massive searches.

If Operation Intercept did not catch many drug smugglers it did raise tempers.

Bill John, chairman of the Merchants' Committee of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce, described the disorder as "pathetic."

The operation caused massive dislocations of normal life. In El Paso, traffic between that city and Juarez, Mexico, was badly snarled Monday.

Thousands of "green carders," persons legally admitted for residence in the United States but who live in Mexico, were delayed or absent from jobs in El Paso.

NIXON'S BABY
Businessmen on both sides of the border placed protesting calls to Washington and Mexico City complaining of loss of customers. A meeting of the International Committee of El Paso's Chamber of Commerce was at rates up to 50 per cent cheaper than scheduled flights to nonmembers of the chartering group, or to groups organized solely for the purpose of flying cheap.

The Civil Aeronautics Board soon will resume hearings in California on reports of mass illegal flights to Europe originating in that state.

And the CAB's enforcement bureau says it probably will file a number of formal complaints against alleged violators this fall.

Those lines found in violation are subject to fines and even service suspensions if it is proven they have sold charter seats

Light Showers Are Erratic

Early morning rains over an inch in the rain gauge, Fair-Howard County were concentrated in the southeast sector with Coahoma reporting about an inch Monday night and Vincent reported a trace of rain since Monday with cloudy skies this morning. Only a trace of rain fell at Lake J. B. Thomas, but Morgan Creek station, halfway to Big Spring, had 1.14 inches of precipitation, and Sweetwater nearly hit the inch line with .92. Big Spring itself received an official .07 of an inch of rain with reports from the east side of town registering .15 and .11 this morning.

Lomax, in the southwest of the county, reported about half an inch of rain early this morning with cloudy skies but Elbow, a close neighbor to the east, received just traces of rain between six and seven this morning.

In the northwestern part of the county Knott reported .7 of an inch in the rain gauge, Fair-Howard County were concentrated in the southeast sector with Coahoma reporting about an inch Monday night and Vincent reported a trace of rain since Monday with cloudy skies this morning.
