RAZOR THOUGHT USED IN DISSECTING BODY

Fiend Took Body to Lonely Spot In Country, Finally Tossing Remains Into Creek.

(By Associated Press)

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 12.—The mutilated body of Dorothy Schneider, five years old, kidnaped from her home in Mount Morris near here today was discovered in a creek three miles from the Schneider home tonight.

The body had been dissected with a sharp knife, apparently a razor. Dr. R. Brasie, coroner, who examined the body expressed the fear that the deed was actomplished by an escaped maniac from the state hospital for the insane at Pontiac. An extensive manhunt was begun immediately.

The child was abducted at noon today, block from her home, as she was returning from kindergarten. The mother, Mrs. Mabel Schneider, 24, who witnessed the abduction, told police the kidnaper drove up to the curb alongside the child in a dilapidated automobile, grabbed her and drove rapidly away. The mother, who had been standing on her porch awaiting the return of her daughter, ran screaming to the nearest police station where the affair was reported.

Officials traced the machine on a road west of Mt. Morris, to a spot adjacent to a farm operated by Archie Bacon. The farmer told officers that a car answering the description of the kidnaper's machine became mired in the mud and that he saw the driver get out of the

Wilbur Modifies Navy Cost Figure

Says 20-Year Program Will Cost $2,500,000,000 In Place of First Estimate of Three Billion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—Without giving details, Secretary Wilbur told the house naval committee today that the navy department contemplated a twenty-year warship construction program which on the basis of present day prices would cost about $168,000,000 annually, or in the aggregate, in excess of $3,000,000,000.

Tonight, from his office at the department, he issued a statement that his estimate was erroneous, and should have been about $129,000,000 a year at present prices. Spread over two decades, this would total slightly more than $2,500,000,000.

The $168,000,000 annual estimate, said Mr. Wilbur, did not apply to the 20-year plan, but to "a discarded five-year program which includes ships not in the bill before congress and not now authorized

(By Associated Press)

RANKIN, Jan. 12.—Fingerprints of the two men shot in a gun battle between Sheriff J. O. The bodies were being held at an undertaking establishment.

Meanwhile word from Fort Worth quoted President W. M. Massie of the Texas Bankers association as saying that after an investigation without "red tape" to establish the fact that the men were actually killed in an attempted robbery of the bank, the reward of $5,000 for each dead robber would be paid to the sheriff and his deputies, Hugh Gillespie and C. RALLS, Jan. 12.—The heroism and presence of mind of Howard Pritchart, 30, was tonight credited upon tonight by their leaders to with having saved the lives of two of three children who were alone in the home of their father, H. Democrats Select Houston, Marking Upset, Politically Dramatic Bid of Jesse Jones and Other Texans, With "Cash On Hand" Gets Gathering for Texas.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Selection of Houston, Texas, for the 1928 democratic convention, one of the most notable political upsets in recent years, had many politicians puzzled tonight in view of the quick and dramatic manner in which the choice was made.

For three days committee members had been milling around hotel lobbies exchanging opinions on where the convention should go, with hardly a casual mention of Houston. Proponents of San Francisco, Detroit, Chicago and Miami, talked glibly of large bids. Offices were opened for distributing information on behalf of their candidates. The Houston people kept still.

Cash On The Barrel

Then in the closing hours for receiving bids, Texans placed a certified check for $200,000 on the table matching the largest sum offered up to that time, leading San Francisco to raise its offer from $200,000 to $250,000.

At about the same time it was decided to press the decision on a convention site immediately, whereas, many members had expected to take it easy until after the Jackson Day

Mrs. Snyder Dies at 11:09, Gray at 11:16; Reporters Are Main Witnesses To Dual Execution.

FRANTIC EFFORTS OF ATTORNEYS FUTILE

"Forgive Them, Father" Is Cry of Woman; Gray Silent When Executioner Asks for Statement.

(By Associates Press)

SING SING PRISON OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray died in the electric chair tonight, she crying out for forgiveness and he inaudibly muttering prayers.

Mrs. Snyder was pronounced dead at 11:09 o'clock, and Gray at 11:16.

Both had been announced resigned to their fate by their spiritual advisors shortly before the time for the execution and they walked to the chair without assistance. Neither had been given any opiate or stimulant of any sort.

As each sat in the chair, a priest for Mrs. Snyder and a minister for Gray murmured prayers.

Not Slightest Hitch

The execution was carried through without the slightest hitch. Just before 11 o'clock Warden Lawes called the official witnesses, four doctors, and 20 reporters, into his office and told them that the time had come.

Briefly he outlined the procedure to avoid possible confusion, and then all started for the death chamber. The way led outdoors across prison grounds, into a walled court and so through a door directly into the death chamber.

This is a large bright room about 50 feet square with four doors, four short benches for witnesses and the chair.

Room Bare But Bright

There are no other furnishings. The plaster walls are a light cream and the floor, stone. It is a room giving no impression of sadness but for the central chair with its straps and metal.

Besides the official witnesses, seven doctors, half a dozen guards, the executioner and his assistants and the warden were the only ones in the room.

After all had entered and scarcely before the witnesses had seated themselves or found standing room along the walls Mrs. Snyder was brought in.

She entered through a door behind the chair over which a large sign bearing the one word "Silence," was fastened.

Called on Deity

At first her utterances were incomprehensible beyond the fact that she was calling on the Deity.

"Have mercy on my soul," were the first words plainly distinguishable.

"Forgive Them," Cry

"Forgive them, Father," she cried. "For they know not what they do."

She was silent and as if at some unseen signal the black mask was placed over her face and the executioner, Robert Elliott standing in a little alcove pulled down the switch.

It seemed to watchers that death was so sudden it must have been entirely painless. There was no struggle and no outcry.

Gray immediately followed and the process was repeated. When he was asked if he had any word, however, he made no response, merely continuing his soundless prayers, and the mask was strapped in place.

"All right, boys," a guard called to the reporters among the witnesses and all dashed to their waiting cars.

There was a mad race of roaring engines then for half a mile to the roadhouse where two score of telegraph wires had been installed

Beauty!

How and Why

KEEPING THE HANDS IMMACULATE

No hand that is stained or grimy may make any pretension to beauty, no matter how well shaped it may be. But no matter how poorly shaped, if the hand is immaculately clean, the texture of the skin good, the nails well shaped and in good condition, it may be adjudged beautiful.

Use hot water, a toilet soap of good quality, and a good bristle brush as your first step toward this scrupulous cleansing. Do not economize on soap, for poor soap will intensify any skin trouble you may have or may start such trouble by roughening the skin and so preparing the way for unfriendly germs.

If deep-seated grime remains apply a cream with an oily base. That is, the solvent should be in the nature of a cold cream and not a vanishing one. For the purpose of cleaning the hands, it is necessary to buy an expensive cream. Vaseline, or an oil such as liquid petrolatum, cotton seed, olive, will serve the purpose as well.

NEXT: Mechanical stain removers.

—THE— WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

We hardly needed a serious research to tell us that we Americans are eating much less than our forebears did, or even than we ourselves did a few years ago. But the National Industrial Conference Board has just completed such a study and gives us figures on the subject. We ate 10 per cent less meat a person than in 1907, they say, and 20 per cent less white flour bread and other foods made from wheat flour.

The report reminds us that whereas "ham and eggs" once meant two eggs and a real hunk of ham, it may now mean but one egg and a wee slice of ham. An order of "chops" or "cutlets" which once always meant two, may now mean but one, and bread and butter are not served as a matter of course with all orders.

e guess as to why we once ate that and now like this—salad roll and coffee and pie—is that hinery has done away with power which had to be fed—our evolution from a day when worked with our bodies into a when we are more inclined to rk with our minds, has naturally suited in the needs and desire for ss food.

First Real Test For Matador Cagers Comes Tonight

Series With Hill Billies Opens At Tech Gym Tonight

Games Called at 7:30 o'Clock; Payne Works for Better Team, Offensively and Defensively.

The Texas Tech Matadors meet with the Hill Billies of Daniel Baker college here this evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the college gymnasium in the initial college game for the 1928 season. The games with the Hill Billies, which will be played this evening and tomorrow evening, were originally scheduled for January 20 and 21, but since the Daniel Baker semester examinations came on these days, the games were moved up for this week-end.

Since defeating the Amarillo Gassers in the first two games of the Matador calendar for basketball, Coach Victor Payne, handler of the Tech cagers, has been working with the squad to develop an improved machine, both defensively and offensively. The Matadors registered their highest score with the Gassers in the last game here by ruffing up a score of 51 to 23.

Although the score of the game would indicate that the Matadors were accurate in goal shooting against the Gassers, but, on the contrary, the Bullfighters missed many chances and Coach Payne throughout the past week has stressed more accuracy and time in making the baskets.

Coach Blair, handler of the Billies, is coming to Lubbock with an experienced club that has been through several scheduled games thus far and have emerged victorious in some very closely contested games.

AGGIE BASEBALL

Outlook Not So Bright For Winning Team

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 12.—When Bob Countryman, new Texas Aggie baseball mentor, reports Feb. 1 to take his charges in hand for the 1928 Southwest Conference season, he will be confronted with the problem of building a team largely from recruits from the freshman and battalion teams of last year. Among the forty-eight men who have answered the call for varsity diamond candidates this year, only four lettermen and four squad men from last year are to be found.

The lettermen who make up the nucleus around whom Countryman is expected to build the new Aggie team are Captain Hiram Broiles, outfielder, from Fort Worth; J. F. Blount, infielder, from San Augustine; J. V. (Sib) Sikes, the Leonard flash who will be in the lists for his third varsity diamond letter either as first baseman or pitcher, and J. D. Wyman, also a twirler, from Cleburne. All these players are seniors and will be in their last year as Aggie players. Broiles and Blount were two of the Aggies leading hitters last year and Wyman and Sikes both finished the season with good records as winning pitchers.

CROSBYTON STRONG

Cagers Win From Spur, Dickens, Lorenzo, Floydada

CROSBYTON, Jan. 12.—The Crosbyton Chiefs under the direction of Coaches Vaughn and Wetherby have won five out of six games from the following teams: Spur, Floydada, Lorenzo, and Dickens. A strong combination has been worked up and chances are that the Chiefs will be strong contenders for this district. The basketeers will meet Floydada tonight in their second game, having won the first.

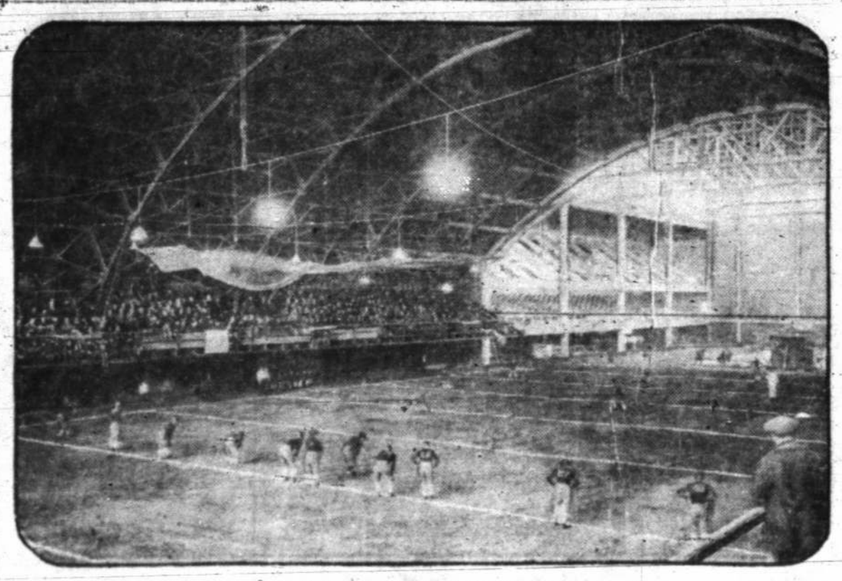

POSTPONE MEETING

Western Association Session February 5

TOPEKA, Kans., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Postponement of a meeting of Western Association officials scheduled for next Sunday at Joplin, Mo., until February 5 was announced here today by Dale Gear, president of the league.

The meeting was delayed, Mr. Gear said, to permit additional time for perfection of the Joplin club's organization and decision by the Okmulgee, Okla., club as to whether it will remain in the league.

Lincoln Is Likely To Remain Part Western League

Mid-West Circuit Moguls Hold Session at Oklahoma City to Arrange Schedule for 1928.

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 12.—The retention of Lincoln in the Western League during the 1928 season appeared likely tonight as club owners in executive session pondered over the report of a special committee which had spent most of the day in an attempt to solve the major problem, if the mid-winter schedule meeting.

However it appeared in the scheme of operation for the coming season, that the Lincoln franchise would be under the management of Spencer Abbott, formerly of Tulsa, who would succeed Dick Breen.

Breen, who operated the Lincoln franchise last year, came before the club-owners today with a proposal to transfer his club to Pueblo, Colo. He said that he had been promised a new park and cash backing should the franchise be moved to the Colorado city which has been without organized baseball for several years.

Pueblo fans, Breen said, had promised him the support he would need to successfully put over a club there.

Abbott, who a few years ago was part owner and manager of the Tulsa Oilers, put in his appearance here today and said that he was willing to take over the franchise at Lincoln under certain conditions. The Western League magnates understand that his condition was that the league absorb any indebtedness over the Lincoln territory so that he would begin the season with a clean slate.

A committee consisting of Lee Keyser, of Des Moines, Milton Anfenger of Denver, and Barney Burch of Omaha was appointed by President Dale Gear to investigate both sides of the Pueblo-Lincoln question. The league chiefs were considering the report of the committee early tonight.

The games are to be held at Iowa City, Ia., on March 9 and 10 in the new University of Iowa field house, shown here, the largest of its kind in the country. It cost $400,000 to build, is large enough to be used for football practice and has a cinder track of six laps to the mile. It will accommodate 8000 spectators.

Nine Taken Into "L" Association

Includes Eight of Those On 1927 Lubbock Westerner Football Squad; Barton Presides.

In the first initiation of the "L" association, the high school athletic association for lettermen, nine new members were taken into the organization, including eight football lettermen of the 1927 gridiron team and one of the 1927 track team. Raymond "Whacker" Barton, president of the organization, presided over the meeting.

The new members taken in were James Whitesides, Trent Campbell, Preston Crawford, Earnest Dowell, Moody Smith, Bill Tatum, Luther Williams, Edward Pangburn and Kenneth Smith.

Due to graduation, Gordon Dickinson, wielder of mercy of the association, automatically became an inactive member and officer and Bill Tatum was chosen to fill his vacancy in the organization. Two other members of the association, Curtis Allen and Trent Campbell, became inactive as they too, were of the winter graduation class.

Two More Teams Join Basketball League In City

Addition of Grollman and The Avalanche-Journal Quints Makes Eight Club Loop Instead of Six.

At a meeting of the Lubbock city league for basketball two other teams, Grollman's and The Avalanche-Journal, were admitted and the league became an eight club loop instead of a six-team league as originally planned. The members of the league accepted the constitution and by-laws that were drawn up by the arbitration board.

Tuesday evening in the Lubbock high school gymnasium the first games of the league schedule will begin with the Wholesalers meeting with Grollman's and the Super-Main Service station meeting with the Axtell company. Thursday evening the Hemphill-Price company will meet with the Avalanche-Journal, and the 131st Field Artillery will meet with the Bankers.

Season tickets for the league will be placed on sale tomorrow at $1 each, which will allow admittance to all City league games for the season, which averages less than four cents per game. The funds taken in from the season tickets will go to pay the expenses of the league and should there be any surplus left in the league treasury it will go for the athletic equipment of the Lubbock high school teams.

FRESHMAN CAGE TEAM

17 Out of First Squad Of 60 Work at A. and M.

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 12.—Seventeen men from the squad of more than sixty who first reported as candidates for the Texas Aggie freshman cage team for 1927-28 are working out daily under the direction of Freshman Coach R. G. Higginbotham and much promising material for varsity teams of coming years is being developed. S. J. (Punk) Baker, captain and star of the 1926-27 Texas Aggie varsity quintet, is assisting in the training.

As in football, the freshman squad is used to scrimmage with the varsity, but in addition the "fish" team will meet quintets from several of the high schools of the state. Definite announcement of the schedule has not yet been made but negotiations are under way for games with Bryan, Houston, Austin and Waco teams.

There are at present about 165,000 one-teacher schools in the United States, but they are decreasing at the rate of 5,000 annually, Mr. Fevehouse said.

LUBBOCK BECOMING A CITY OF FINE HOMES

—Is further evidenced by the selection by four different families of four 100-foot home sites in University Place, last week, for their permanent residence.

A plain sign of good portent for the future value of this highly restricted tract is that people who have selected home sites in what has heretofore been the most exclusive location, are in many cases requesting us to accept their lots as all or part payment for one of our University Place 100-foot sites.

They realize fully that nowhere else in Lubbock, has anyone who builds a fine home on two lots, any protection against his value being depreciated by another's building a mediocre house on the adjoining 50-foot lot.

Here in University Place, overlooking the Tech campus, you have such protection, and many governing features which always have and always will send land and location values up continuously. The price and terms will interest you. Investigate!

HARRY DELF'S great comedy of American home life, "The Family Upstairs," featuring Noah Beilhars as "Pa Heller," is to appear here in the near future. "The Family Upstairs" is one of the greatest comedy successes of recent years because it is true to life and true to type. It is uproariously funny, delightfully human, and tells a story that mirrors the long, hard road to domestic bliss. Mr. Beilhars is a headliner in the field of dramatic characterization. For years he has devoted his entire time to individual recital work. A strong metropolitan cast will appear with Mr. Beilhars.

MR. MOODY IN WASHINGTON

Governor's Moody's last-minute decision to attend the Jackson Day dinner of the democratic party at Washington is significant, although under different interpretations. It is obvious that he did not go because of his own sincere wishes, but only at the insistent request of his friends. And this brings up the question of why his backers so pleadingly urged him to make the trip.

In acquiescing to the demand it is likely that Governor Moody is doing more, politically speaking, for these backers than for himself. They have their own plans for him and for his future, and to have him attend the Jackson Day dinner and mix and mingle with the party's leaders was a part of their plan. Texas is faced with the decision of sending a delegation to the convention this summer either supporting or opposing Al Smtih. Those opposed to Smith, and holding out for an instructed delegation to that effect, want Mr. Moody to reiterate before the meeting his demand that the democratic party nominate candidates who are out in the open in favor of prohibition and the Eighteenth Amendment. This would be their master stroke against the possibility of the Texas delegates getting on the Smith ticket.

The Smith element wanted Governor Moody present, with a view of letting the rest of the country know that the Texas governor is interested in national affairs, and hoping to build up sympathy for their plans of making him a running mate on the next ticket.

His behavior may not play into the hands of either faction, and, although he went only after urgent requests from others, The Avalanche ventures the guess he ultimately decided on the trip because he wanted to be on hand to hear what the others said, and that he has accepted no cut-and-dried piece to act for anyone.

GREAT THINGS AHEAD FOR THIS COUNTRY THIS YEAR

Superlatives are all the go these days. Positive and comparatives are not in for the time.

Not "great" or "greater" but "greatest"; not "big" or "bigger" but "biggest" is the degree that must be used in describing the situation in which the world finds itself at the present time. In thinking of the stupendous possibilities of the new year, the infinite importance for all time and peoples of the things that are going to happen, while the next 365 days are being registered upon the dial of time, we find ourselves overcome by the sweep and power of our emotions. More things, and greater things, will be done this year than has been done in any other year since the beginning of history; and the tragedy of it all is this: The events are all behind the veil, hidden away by the mists that always hang about the future. We may feel perfectly safe in saying that never has there been such anxious looking ahead as is going on right now. The millions of the human race are straining their eyes while they stand on tiptoe and with bated breath watching for the development of 1928. These developments are sure to come. There is no power below the stars that is able to stop them. They are on the way, and it is as sure as fate that they will arrive on time. About this there is no doubt; but there is much doubt —agonizing doubt — when we try to answer the question, "Will the things that are about to be done be the things that ought to be done?". Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight will see radical moves made in politics—domestic and foreign; in political economy; in labor and capital; in the status of women, in all lands; and in the laws that hereafter are to govern the continents and the seas. The questions keep coming up: Will these moves be in line with the right? Will those who are set for the management of things be able to keep their mental and moral poise midst the tempest of passion that are sure to assail them, and so be prepared faithfully to do what the old eternal justice has mapped out for them? To come directly to the point, will the one country which comes pretty near having the controlling influence in the world today measure up to its opportunity? In the words of the editor of the Manufacturers' Record, "Is our country, through executive action, or through the voice of the people, going to indicate that it does not appreciate the difference between the forces of good and the forces of evil, and so make the most stupendous blunder in our history?" If so, then will the American flag be trampled in the dust, and become, instead of the symbol of civilization, for which it has always stood, the emblem of cowardice and fear. The flag of Washington and Lincoln, the flag to which the whole world is now looking as to the guardian of its most sacred hopes, is to have no such ignoble destiny as that. A truce to all cowardly fears as we look ahead to the unfolding days of the New Year! We will have faith in our country. The war has been over a long time and great hearts have told us, and told us truly, that our country has played with its most serious and solemn responsibilities like a child with its baubles; but there is an end to all things, and we will trust that America will wake up and make the world's interests its own, and work for their promotion. We will look, therefore, for the rich harvests of the centuries, the golden fruitage of the struggles of humanity from the grim stone age up to the day that now is. We will prepare to join in the universal Te Deum, the victory song of the man over the brute, of the soul over the body, of reason and right over selfishness and fanaticism. Oh, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Eight, put your best foot forward. The world is expecting great things of you; let it not be disappointed.

THE PRICE OF CARELESSNESS

The long expected has happened. Owners of private passenger cars, beginning December 12, will have to pay an increased rate for public liability insurance. Te raise for the whole country averages 16 per cent. For some years past, the rate on this type of insurance has been going down steadily.

The experience data on which the new rates are based covers the period from 1923 to 1927, inclusive. The data shows the downward trend of accidents stopped and turned abruptly upward in 1925. In 1926, the insurance companies as a whole suffered an underwriting loss, and the available data for 1927 shows the upward trend of losses is continuing.

The new rates were adopted after long and careful study and the principal causes which forced upward revision of rates are:

1. More powerful automobiles and greater speed.
2. Increased mileage of improved highways and greater use of automobiles.
3. Increasing frequency of claims.
4. Growing tendency on part of injured persons to demand larger damages.
5. Marked tendency on part of juries to award larger damages.

Every day the newspapers recount automobile accidents where not only one but numbers of persons are injured and killed by one collision. Accident prevention work has been carried on by railroads, insurance companies, public utilities, private industries, cities and states. If it had not been for this work, rates would have shown a greater increase.

Commenting on the situation, Albert W. Whitney, Acting General Manager of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, says that praiseworthy results have been accomplished through traffic regulation, strict examination of requirements for drivers, safety campaigns among both drivers and pedestrians, revocation of the driving licenses of operators and penalties imposed by courts on careless and reckless operators.

"There is much work yet to be done in the field of accident prevention and the companies are among the most enthusiastic in hoping that the near future will bring forth results which will justify a downward revision of rates."

In the meantime, the situation is largely up to the public. It can cooperate to reduce accidents or it can destroy safety measures and, in addition to injury and death, it can pay increased insurance rates. The price of carelessness comes high, with or without insurance.

Advices from Austin state that the Highway Commission, on January 17 will let road contracts in four counties. However, we looked in vain for the name of Lubbock among the list. We can't refrain from wondering just how long it will be before we begin seeing some result from the unanimous bond issue vote of six months ago.

Nothing short of a straight-out declaration for enforcement of the prohibition law by both major parties will be acceptable to the Anti-Saloon League, declares Dr. A. J. Barton of that organization. Perhaps it would be wise to go farther and require bond with good and sufficient security guaranteeing compliance with the promise.

The father of Hickman seems to have changed his mind about what should be done with his son. When confronted with his confession he declared the law should be allowed to take its course. Now he is of the opinion his son is crazy and should be confined in an asylum. Well, a tomb is one form of an asylum.

OUT OUR WAY — By Williams

SO THINK WE

We think that Remus might have been crazy. The jury said he was, but even them we believe that some crazy folks have fooled some mighty good juries.

—o—

We think Ruth Snyder realizes by now that she has gotten into a very hard row of stumps, and it looks like this is her last day on this earth. She has been begging for her life for several months, but no one seems to be inclined to want to help her much.

—o—

We think that the wages of sin is death, and several of the killers of the nation will find it out in a few days.

—o—

We think there is no reason for whiskey being sold on prescription basis. If a man is in need of medicine, we are of the opinion there are other things that can be used with more success.

—o—

We think that there are lot of elderly women running around these days like "chickens with their hair hair cut off."

—o—

We think that when the French army gets their olive uniforms on, they may possibly carry the olive branch too.

—o—

We think many people shivered when they thought of the death of Ruth Snyder. There were many different views in the matter, and many believed that she should not have been electrocuted. The crime, however, that she confessed to have committed was one of the worst that the nation has known, and it looks like there is hardly no punishment severe enough for such criminals, but many turned their thoughts to the child she leaves. The example may possibly be the making of the child, however, and it may be possible through the death of the mother that the child will grow to be a better woman, and be of some benefit to the world, while if the mother were in prison, a life termer, she would always have the blight of the sin of the mother, anyway. Such people as Ruth Snyder and her companion slayer are of no worth to the nation and are possibly better out of the way. Their punishment will likely be as severe as any human being has ever received at the bar of justice in the world beyond the grave.

We think that men running in debt for whiskey and women running in debt for fine dresses and hats and things to wear when they are not able to afford it is responsible for more broken homes than possibly any other one thing. Living beyond one's income is apt to get them in tight places, and cause them to do things they would not, had they not allowed their desire to excel, or be like someone else that was more able to go the gait. Live in your own sphere. Be ambitious, but not too ambitious.

OPINIONS

PAY POLL TAXES.

With only January left to pay poll taxes, it is time that the people of Carson county give serious consideration to this matter if they are to become qualified voters in 1928.

This year is going to be one of important elections for Carson county, and it is well that every resident should make his plans to vote in the various elections. Most of the incorporated communities will hold city elections in April.

Some time during May, steps will be taken for the election of delegates to the National Democratic Convention. The first Democratic primary will be held the fourth Saturday in July; the second primary, the fourth Saturday in August.

In September, the state Democratic convention will be held, and a formal platform outlined for the party. Climaxing the year's voting will be the general election to be held in November, at which time the President of the United States will be elected.

Several elections pertaining to local matters may be held during the coming year. To participate in any of these elections, it is going to be necessary for voters to have their poll tax receipt. As there is usually a big rush at the end of the month, it is fitting that everyone should pay poll taxes promptly.—Panhandle Herald.

YOUR HEALTH

PAIN IN THE SHOULDERS DEMANDS USE OF X-RAY

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of The American Medical Assn. and of Hygeia, The Health Magazine

In relationship to bones, joints, or to any portions of the body that move against each other there are little sacs of fluid which act to relieve the pressure and friction.

Under some circumstances these sacs of fluid become inflamed, either because of infection or because of sudden severe stresses that may be thrown upon them. When they become inflamed they are painful, since they are in constricted positions where they cannot enlarge easily.

Survey 450 Cases.

Investigators in the Massachusetts General Hospital made a study of 450 consecutive cases in which the chief symptom was pain in the shoulder. In many cases this was due to some definite infection of the join. In others it was due to a broken bone or a dislocation, but in a considerable number it was due to a swelling of the sac that has been mentioned, or to some deformity of structure.

In many instances the tearing of a ligament or the rupture of a portion of the muscle, such as occurs in what the athlete calls "charleyhorse," will lead to a severe pain in the shoulder.

Since there are numerous causes that may be responsible for painful shoulder, it is suggested that a careful study with the X-ray or any other special means of diagnosis be made in every instance. Many people throw undue stress on this joint by bad posture and as a result get an inflammation of the fluid sacs that have been mentioned.

Correcting the Cause.

The treatment of such cases involves, of course, a correction of the cause. It may be necessary to manipulate the joint so as to get the structure into proper position and to hold it in that position until it has been fixed.

In practically every instance inflammation may be relieved by the application of heat. Modern medicine provides many methods of securing sufficient heat in such cases. These involve the electrical methods, the use of constantly circulating hot water and the use of other devices which will apply the heat directly to the points concerned and thereby bring about recovery.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported the superstitious of the country will have a bad day today. It is Friday the Thirteenth. Some folks will be afraid to walk today. They will be afraid not to walk, and they will have a miserable time. Black cats will be watched with a considerable degree of alarm, and if some one backs their car into you today in an effort to keep from crossing the street where a black cat crossed, you need not be surprised.

It is reported that quite a number of auto owners paid their auto tax yesterday. You had better pay yours today. For tomorrow may catch you in the net of the law. According to our information, he who drives without a license plate of the 1928 variety is in danger of being arrested, fined and penalized for driving without the necessary authority from the state.

It is reported that Hassell is getting rather nervous since the second sentence has been placed on him. He possibly thinks he is no cat, and does not have nine lives. He is pretty certain the law will take its toll this time for the lives of thirteen that Hassell is said to have confessed to have taken in his life. He has quite a large ratio to his credit anyway. Thirteen to one is not anything to be sneered at.

It is reported that a big law suit has just been instituted in London whereby a stamp collector has a claim for the loss of stamps collected which he has insured against theft to the amount of 44,000 pounds. The question arises with the insurance company. Were the stamps worth that much? They evidently thought they were when they were taking the premiums from the insured, which they had been doing for a number of years.

It is reported that there is much trash in the alleys of Lubbock that should by all means be cleaned up. There are some alleys that are so littered with boxes and paper and other trash that it is difficult to drive a car through them. Such a condition will work sadly against our insurance rates should the state fire chief come along and find it in that condition. We should not want to keep the alleys cleaned for that reason alone, but we should want to do so from a civic pride if for no other reason.

LAUGHS

Two children were discussing their breakfast.

"I had a 'nawful good breakfast," said Johnny.

"So did I," said Emmy Lou. "I had somethin' specially nice that begins with 'N'."

"A norange?" suggested Johnny.

"No."

"A napple?"

"No. It was a negg."

Nathan Neitelbaum and Aaron Neinstein were in a taxicab, being driven, rather recklessly it seems, by an Irish driver.

"If we get killed," reasoned Neinstein, "the Irishman gets killed, too."

"Don't be a fool, Aaron," replied Nathan. "What does an Irishman care for his life if he can kill two Jews?"

Boss—"Rastus, you good-for-nothing scamp, where have you been loafing all day? Didn't I tell you to lay in some coal?"

Rastus—"Yassu. Ah's been layin' in de coal all day, though dere is lots softer places whar Ah'd ruther lay."

Old Lady (sniffing) — "What's that awful odor?"

Farmer—"That's fertilizer."

Old Lady (astonished)—"For the land's sake!"

Farmer—"Yes, ma'am."

BORGER'S NEEDY

Three cases were reported to the Herald last Saturday in which it was declared the family was in destitute circumstances. We were informed that the Community Chest had in the neighborhood of seven hundred dollars in the bank, but the man whose duty it was to pass on all cases was out of the city. Nothing could be done about it till he returned.

The wife of a paralytic was out begging bread for her hungry children at home. Neighbors rendered temporary relief, we were told.

It is inevitable that some people will appeal for charity who do not need it. In a case of that kind investigation will determine the worthiness of the applicant.

The Herald feels that a permanent committee should be appointed to investigate all matters pertaining to actual want, and should be so empowered that action could be had should one happen to be away from the city. In that case action could be taken in all charity cases appealed to it, and a report tendered the executive committee at a regular or call meeting. We hope to be able to report within a few days some such plan has been carried into effect. Our suggestion is only tentative and is not intended to influence the administration of funds in the possession of the community chest. We only hope that it shall be so administered that action can be had at any time.—Borger Herald.

This western country probably has less of the needy with us than most other sections of the country, but it seems that there might be even a better organized method of taking care of such. What is every body's business seems nobody's business, and where there are many different organizations it is sometimes confusing, and it sometimes is the means of imposing by some people, they will call on one organization and then another and another till they have gone the rounds, and may be receiving more than their share of recognition among the people of the town. We are of the opinion that there should be only one organization in a community where those in need could call and receive the assistance they deserve. If all of the funds were gathered into one place, the buying power and the organized efforts would be better and the expense of operating the same would be more economically carried on.

The Community Chest seems to be one of the best systems of taking care of the situation and there is positively less duplication that way. We know that the Red Cross is doing a fine work and the Salvation Army, but we are of the opinion there are duplications in this which costs the people more than it would if all the effor concentrated under one gre ganization.

A Britisher's View

We have been hearing a great deal about British propaganda lately Here is a reaction to it from the other side, as expressed by John Foster Fraser in the London Graphic.

"Of course it does not matter two hoots what I think about America. But as many 100 percent Americans have been telling Britishers the truth about themselves, a little reciprocity ought not to be out of place.

"My disadvantage is that, on and off, I have lived for only five or six years in the United States. I lack the keen penetration and crisp intelligence of alert Americans who make a rush tour through the decadent lands east of the Atlantic and then on returning to their home towns, give illuminating interviews on 'What's Wrong With Europe.'

"The vibrant patriotism of Americans thrills me. There is Senator Borah of Idaho. I believe chief of the foreign relations committees in Congress—who boasts he has never been abroad, and is not going abroad because he recognizes that coming in contact with alien influences might just conceivably, give a tremor to the foundation on which his effulgent patriotism is built. No English statesman has the courage to make a stand like that.

"Really, I do not know why any Americans should allow themselves to be perturbed by what stodgy-brained and presumably jealous Europeans say about them. But they are nervous and jumpy, some old roue of a monarchial country has designs on their sweet democratic virginity. And now Big Bill Thompson, mayor of Chicago, has blurted out what similarly educated countrymen of his have been quietly thinking.

"Just now the world is called upon to witness the behavior of little England toward a great and glorious republic with three times its population. Big Bill Thompson has sounded the tocsin, the clarion has rung, the fiery cross has sped from Hoboken to Hollywood, and all true Americans have been called upon, at $10 a time, to rise in their millio save their country from bei nexed by the British empire. ever the cost, King George sh be allowed to set up his cap Chicago.

"Though America is belie have two-thirds of the gold world, a tremor seizes pa Americans whenever an Engli approaches, for he will have gold in his pouch for purpo bribery and corruption—and and corruption is a noxious sin of which true Americans to know nothing. It is notorio the British ambassador has gold to subvert the loyalty o gress—but so far congressme stood adamant against graft offs and subventions.

to carry the news reports of the executions.

DESPERATE MOVES OF ATTORNEYS ALL FAIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Frenzied last minute efforts to stave off the execution of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray failed today and the two were prepared to make their trip to the electric chair tonight.

Their last day on earth was marked by a series of desperate moves by their lawyers to postpone their execution. The last one failed when Federal Judge Goddard denied writs of habeas corpus Gray's signed by his mother, and Mrs. Snyder's by herself. The attempts to delay the execution began early this morning when Warden Lawes of Sing Sing prison, was served with a stay of execution granted by Supreme Court Justice Levy. That effort ended late in the afternoon when Justice Levy vacated his own order.

In the meantime uncertainty hovered over the condemned pair up to the moment when Justice Levy rescinded his order for a stay. Even prison authorities were not sure that Mrs. Snyder and Gray would be executed as scheduled.

Gray's lawyers wheeled into action in an effort to obtain a reprieve for their client. If one were granted Mrs. Snyder, it would be unfair, they said, if the woman were permitted a few more days of life if a like respite were not given Gray also. They prepared to go into federal court with a writ of habeas corpus signed by Gray's mother, asking that his execution be deferred as long as Mrs. Snyder lived.

The warden who described himself as "merely an agent of the state," telegraphed and telephoned to Governor Smith, at the Biltmore hotel, and to the attorney general at Albany, for instructions as to his course of action.

The governor referred him back to the attorney general with directions to abide by any decision he should make.

Meanwhile, at Sing Sing the last minute preparations for the double execution were proceeding as if there was no question that the original schedule would be maintained.

Decision Not Binding

Later in the day Attorney General Ottinger announced his decision that Justice Levy's stay of execution was not binding. This was interpreted as assuring that the sentence of death would be carried out upon the two slayers.

However, Justice Levy in New York, asserted that his action was just and legal "no matter what Ottinger says." The attorney general's opinion, he declared, was only as good as that of any other lawyer.

Then with startling suddenness, Justice Levy announced that a hearing before him on the necessity of the stay was advanced from 10 o'clock this morning, the time for which it was originally set, to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

But at 2 o'clock former Judge Edgar F. Hazleton, chief of the Snyder counsel, telephoned the court room that he would be unable to appear at the time scheduled. The hearing was deferred again for an hour.

Levy Vacates Order

Finally Hazleton and his associates, together with representatives of the attorney general's office were ready to argue their cases. It was a brief hearing, ending with Justice Levy vacating the stay he had granted the night before.

Justice Levy declared that his court did not have jurisdiction "not under the civil or criminal law, but under the Constitution of this state" to grant a stay and to continue it if he so desired. His chief concern he said, had been the interests of Mrs. Snyder's daughter, Lorraine, who will be the benefactor of the insurance on her father's life now in dispute by the Prudential Life Insurance company.

"I guess that's the end," Hazleton said when Justice Levy vacated his own order stay.

His chief hope had been pinned on that order, although he had one more move to make. Lawyers for both Mrs. Snyder and Gray presented their applications for writs of habeas corpus, but these too were denied.

LAWYERS HOLD LAST CONFERENCE IN CELL

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Snyder heard tonight from her lawyers that all their efforts to save her from death in the electric chair had failed. At 8 o'clock they came to the death house to tell her goodbye. More than an hour later they left her to report that the condemned woman was sobbing in her cell, but in good mental condition as could be expected "under the circumstances."

The lawyers, serious of face as they told of their good-bye to the client for whose life they had fought in vain in all available courts, declared that they were at the end of the resources.

"She must die, there is nothing more we can do," said Dana Wallace, as Judge Edgar F. Hazelton, his partner told of the last conversation her counsel would have with Mrs. Snyder.

Two hours before the execution of the woman and Judd Gray, convicted with her, could be held, a crowd was assembled as near the prison as guards would permit, only those with ample credentials, of which there were only a few, could enter the barred walls of Sing Sing.

Joseph Lonardo, third of Mrs. Snyder's trio of lawyers, remained with her when Hazelton and Wallace left the prison. A few minutes later he emerged from her cell to say that although she knew all was over she was calm.

Ruth Penitent.

"If ever there was a true penitent," he quoted her, "It is I."

Lonardo said she clung to his hand like a child while he talked to her. Her color was good, he reported and her hand warm.

The lawyer said his client spoke of her daughter, Lorraine and said she wanted her to grow to be the woman her mother would have liked to be.

Lonardo said Mrs. Snyder's hair from lack of dye, was streaked yellow and brown.

Father Francis Murphy, Chaplain of Queens county jail, who converted her to the Roman Catholic faith, was admitted and spent some time with her. He reported she was bearing up well, but gave no details of his visit other than to say she had made her last confession to him and he had given her absolution.

Object to Autopsy.

Formal notice of objection to the performance of an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Snyder after execution was served on Warden Lawes tonight by Attorney Lonardo acting for Mrs. Josephine Brown and Andrew Brown, her mother and brother, who at the same time claimed the body.

"Please take notice," the statement read, "that we, Josephine Brown and Andrew Brown, respectively mother and brother of Ruth Snyder, do hereby object to the making of any surgical incisions upon the body of Ruth Snyder, who is to be put to death. And we object to the removal of exposure of any of the internal organs of the said Ruth Snyder upon the grounds that the post mortem examination as described in section 507 of the code of criminal practice does not include or contemplate tampering with the body after a current of electricity shall have passed through it and the body has been pronounced dead and any such mutilation is illegal, against public policy and unnecessary.

"We hereby claim the body to be delivered into our custody after the sentence of death has been carried out."

Samuel L. Miller, attorney for Gray, came from his client's cell, saying that the man in the case had declared to him:

"I am truly sorry for my sin. I am not, I think, of a criminal nature. This crime was something over which I had no control."

OBJECTION OF FAMILY IS OVERRULED.

ALBANY, N. Y. Jan. 12 (AP)—Objection by relatives of Mrs. Ruth Snyder to the making of "any surgical incisions" upon her body after execution at Sing Sing prison tonight was overruled in an opinion by Attorney General Albert Ottinger.

"Under section 507 of the code of criminal procedure," said Mr. Ottinger in his opinion, wired to the prison officials, "the physicians, after the execution of a convict, may make incisions and examine the organs of the body if they deem it advisable. They cannot remove the organs and deliver them into the possession of any person."

and for which no authorization or appropriation is requested."

The naval secretary said that his statement to the committee would be corrected.

He added that the administration's recently announced $172,000,000 program for 25 cruisers and 46 other fighting craft was a part of the more comprehensive plan which includes the replacement of battleships as soon as permissible, under the terms of the Washington treaty.

The secretary said it was the navy's hope to complete the cruisers and other auxiliary craft before 1936 and then begin the replacement of capital ships.

Chairman Butler asked the secretary upon his next appearance before the committee to describe what a first-class navy is, and added: "You have made a statement that will shock the country when you say the United States has not a first-class navy."

station on a tip that the bank would be robbed, Sheriff Barfield reported. The younger of the two men stepped from a roadster and attacked the rear door of the bank, which he quickly opened, the sheriff said.

While this was being done, the officer's report recounted, the other man, about 45, unloaded an acetylene tank and torch from the car and dragged it up to the door of the bank. The officers stepped up as the younger man emerged from the bank after putting out the light in it and Sheriff Barfield ordered them to throw up their hands. A shot from a .45 calibre pistol was the reply, fired by the younger man, according to the sheriff.

Head Nearly Severed

A load of buckshot by one of the officers almost blew the back of the younger man's head off. The other ran and fell 200 yards from the bank, dying in about 15 minutes from two bullet wounds.

Each man was armed with a .45 calibre pistol, wore gloves and was roughly dressed.

A telegram from El Paso addressed to McCamey and containing only the word "yes," was found on the younger man, but Sheriff Barfield said tonight that he had little hope that it would prove a clew to the men's identity.

HALL CONDEMS BANKERS' REWARD

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 12. (AP).—E. V. "Buddy" Hall, Gulf company scout in a serious condition here from shotgun wounds received when mistaken for a Sylvester bank robber Tuesday in Garza county, today unsparingly condemned the $5,000 reward offered by the Texas Bankers association for "dead bank robbers." He described it as "the worst piece of business permitted in Texas."

machine carrying a bundle and walk toward the creek. The driver returned two hours later, without the bundle, according to the farmer, who said he assisted him to get the machine out of the mud.

Police on arriving at the creek, designated, found the child's body.

The kidnaper was described as about 30 years old, of medium height, light complexioned and wearing a light suit and dark overcoat. His machine was of the sedan type.

teers all heavily armed, patrolled the streets.

WALSENBURG, Colo., Jan. 12. (AP)—State policeman Max Lordeman was shot and one unidentified Mexican youth was shot and wounded in a clash between police and striking coal miners here this afternoon.

Following the clash, the strikers went to the I. W. W. hall and barricaded themselves on the second floor and started firing out of the windows at any state police who appeared on the street. A two-block area around the I. W. W. headquarters was roped off by the police and a hurry call sent for all available mine guards in the county. State police said they intended to storm the hall and would use machine guns if necessary.

State police mounted a machine gun on a truck and drove it to a street intersection where it could sweep the I. W. W. headquarters. The police were preparing to mount two more machine guns at once.

Women Jeer Officers.

Forty women, of which 25 were school girls of 18 or under, gathered at the edge of the zone that had been roped off by state police and joined nearly 200 men they were singing "Solidarity," the I. W. W. song. Efforts of state police to disperse them were unsuccessful so they remained and jeered the officers.

Louis N. Scherff, chief of the state police, announced that as soon as reinforcements of guards were obtained from various mines a march would be started on the I. W. W. hall.

At the adjournment of the state industrial commission meeting, five members of the striking miner's committee, accompanied by Fred S. Caldwell and Ed Delaney, their counsel, went into within half a block of the I. W. W. hall, and, believed mistaken for state officers, were greeted by gunfire from the hall. They immediately beat a retreat.

Convention

dinner tonight, and to vote tomorrow.

Backers of each city in the running were allowed fifteen minutes to present their case to the national committee.

Jesse Jones Makes Offer

made it almost impossible to hear. Cries of "louder" greeted each speaker, and Chairman Shaver rapped incessantly for order until Jesse Jones, financial advisor to the committee, took the floor on behalf of Houston, his home town.

With his appearance applause, and then cheers rang out, and the committee rose as one to honor the huge Texan who had been a wheel horse of the democratic national organization ever since Colonel House first brought him into the circle of party leaders fifteen years ago. Many times he had gone down into his pocket to help the party treasury. As recently as 1924 he had headed the sub-committee that financed the campaign of Davis and Bryan.

Abruptly the room was silenced, and Jones pleaded the cause of Houston in a full voice that echoed. Other speakers had laughingly referred to republican contributions to their bids, and had told jokes, but this Texan advocated Houston in dead earnest, as the heart of a rockbound democratic state, and as the "Capital of the Great Empire of the Southwest."

Build If It's Needed.

Then Representative Daniel E. Garrett, of the Lone Star State, in an old fashioned democratic exhortation, appealed for Houston as an indication of gratitude for the solid democratic vote invariably returned by the South. John Boyle of San Antonio, followed with a two-fisted selling talk on what Houston had to offer. He agreed with Jones that if a larger auditorium was needed "Houston will build it between now and June."

The allotted fifteen minutes had long since elapsed before any one seemed to notice it. The Texans were trying to retain the floor until the young Texas governor, Dan Moody, could arrive from his train, but they finally had to yield and permit Cleveland and San Francisco to present their bids.

This over, Chairman Shaver appointed tellers for the balloting, but before the first vote could be recorded, Jones faced the audience once more.

Moody Makes Invitation

"Dan Moody was late for once in his life," he said, "but he's here now, and I want you to meet the youngest governor, of whom Texas is so proud."

The 34-year-old Texas auburn-haired state executive took the floor amil a thundering ovation.

"It is not only the people of Houston who invite you," he said, "but also the people of Texas."

He blushed with the cheering, and stepped aside for the first ballot. Houston had 30 to 25 for San Francisco and 23 for Detroit.

On the four ensuing ballots, Houston never relinquished the lead. It won finally with 54 to 48 for San Francisco.

HOUSTON JUBILANT OVER CITY'S SELECTION

HOUSTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Houston was jubilant tonight that it had secured the democratic national convention, although its joy took the form of individual expression rather than an organized demonstration.

Mayor Oscar Holcombe when he heard the news seized his hat from his desk in the city hall, threw it in the air and gave a whoop.

Scores of other city officials, bankers, business men and public service officials and men in many walks of life called the convention "the biggest thing that could ever have happened to Houston."

F. M. Law and C. S. E. Holland, among the leading bankers, were already making plans to care for the host of delegates. Mr. Law announced that Houston had "established a reputation for hospitality and that the people will not be found lacking even if the idea stunned us a little at first."

Roger Seaman, assistant general manager of the chamber, announced that the city auditorium, the largest auditorium in Houston, has a seating capacity of 5,000 with additional space in the Junior auditorium in another part of the same building for 750 persons.

The chamber of commerce officials also said that hotel accommodations easily were available for fifteen thousand visitors.

Lamesa Banquet

us, and it is our duty to carry on the fight, maybe in not such a pioneer way as they did."

Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, was another speaker on the program, who stressed the importance of cooperation, outlining the mental, moral, physical and financial elements of the work. E. H. Whitehead, publicity manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, also spoke on the organization's work.

Stressing the mutual cooperation between towns of the section as necessary to the advancement of the various other towns, as well as the entire region, B. Sherrod, of Lubbock, spoke on "Community relationships."

Judge Gordon B. McGuire, of Lamesa, was included in the speakers also. Representatives from Snyder, Gail, Colorado, Seminole, Seagraves, Brownfield, Lovington, New Mexico; Floydada and Clarendon made short talks.

Music was given throughout the meal by the Ray Lewis orchestra.

Jackson Day

vention into the Solid South this year, for the first time in history. Democratic leaders from over the nation came together tonight at a Jackson day dinner designed to help to harmonize the differences that made for party tragedy at the Madison Square Garden convention in 1924.

Only one of the central figures of the Madison Square Garden battle, William G. McAdoo, attended the dinner tonight, but the other, Alfred E. Smith, of New York, sent a message, expressing his regret at being absent and urging the party to unflinchingly meet each specific problem of the day.

Neither McAdoo, who has voluntarily retired from the political arena, nor Smith had any reference in their prepared statements to past differences. Instead each sounded a rallying cry for the party to apply the principles set down by Jackson and Jefferson as the one way to the white house.

Other Harmonizing Signs

There were other signs of harmonizing efforts aside from the addresses at the dinner. During the day friends of Governor Smith in the national committee decided to defer until convention time—June 26—their efforts to change the system of selecting the national chairman so that he would be elected by the committee itself and not the party nominee for president.

Selection of Houston as the convention city also was described by some committee members as a further effort at harmony in the party—a recognition of the long service the democracy of the south has given the party, a service unbroken in every national election since the Civil War.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP).—A brilliant scene was presented tonight as the hosts of democracy gathered at scores of tables in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel for the Jackson Day dinner—The first such affair of national proportions held here since 1920.

On the stage at one end of the vast room was a life-sized portrait of Andrew Jackson. Festoons of roses were placed about the speakers' table, where also were half a dozen microphones connected with amplifiers.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war president, was the first to take a seat at the speakers' table. She was given the place of honor behind a bank of red roses.

Davis Toastmaster.

John W. Davis, standard bearer in 1924 and toastmaster tonight received a warm welcome as he and Mrs. Davis took their places. Davis sat to the left of Mrs. Wilson with Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader of the house, on her right.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland likwise got rounds of applause.

Rogers and Moody.

Will Rogers, the only man at the speaker's table in a sack coat could scarcely find time to eat because of joking with Jesse Jones of Houston and Dan Moody, the young Texas governor. The seat to Rogers' left, reserved for W. G. McAdoo remained vacant during the beginning of the dinner.

Ralls is enjoying a substantial home building season. More than twenty homes have been built within the past 60 days and there are now five more being built. The greatest farm improvement program that Ralls has seen in five years is now in progress. Many of these new homes being built are on farms.

The Ralls chamber of commerce succeeded this week in getting the last half-mile of road between this town and Post put in good condition. The entire road from Silverton to Post is now in such condition that towns along the route are in position to ask the state highway commission to designate this road as a state highway.

How Ruth Snyder Paid and Paid For Her Unfaithfulness

The above pictures of Mrs. Ruth Snyder electrocuted last night with her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, for the murder of her husband, show graphically how the woman paid for her crime and unfaithfulness even before she went to the chair. The top picture shows her as she was before her husband's murder, the beautiful "Tommy", as her friends called her, who was a good sport on "parties". Lower left shows her just before she was placed in the Sing Sing death cell and lower right shows her as she looked in court as she fought for her life. The picture at the bottom to the left, is that of Lorraine Snyder, 9 year old daughter of the executed woman, who was made an orphan by her mother's perfidy.

The Story With A Thousand Thrills

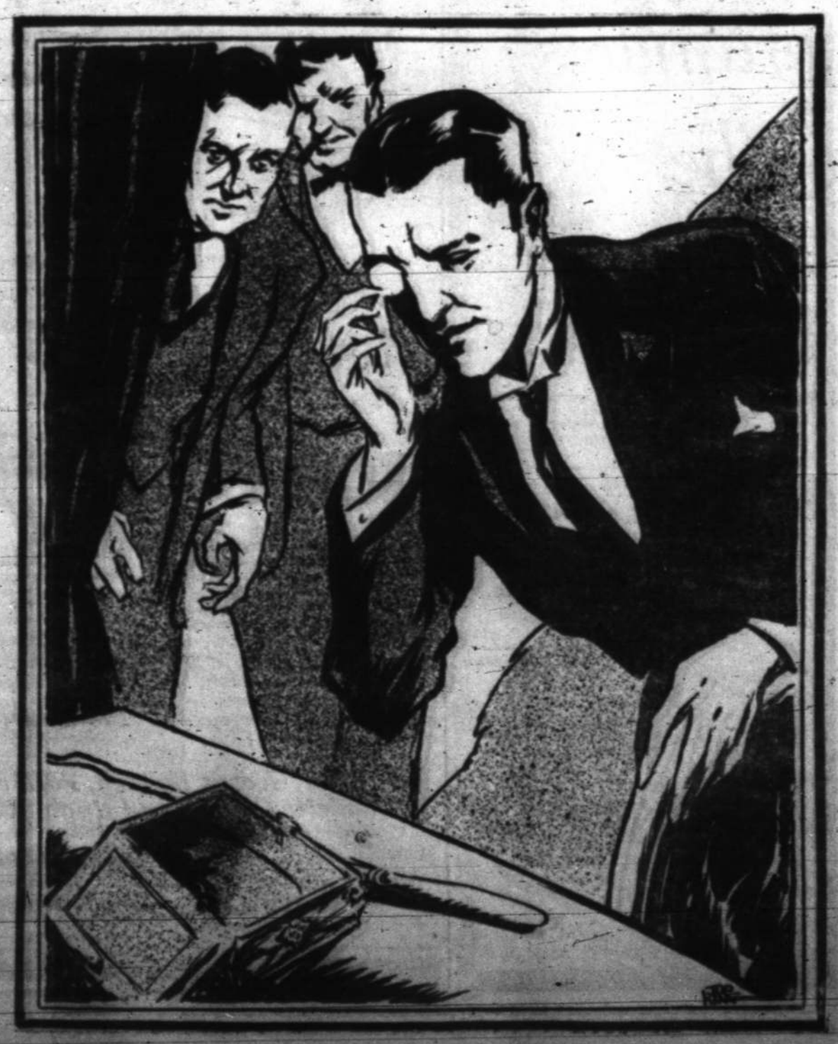

On the dressing table; not far from the murdered body of Margaret Odell, lay the jewel case. It was twisted out of shape by the terrific leverage that had been necessary to force it, and beside it lay a brass-handled poker.

Vance had glanced but casually at the different objects in the rooms, but when he came to the dressing table he paused abruptly. Taking out his monocle, he adjusted it carefully and leaned over the broken jewel case.

"This steel case," he said, "was never torn open by that wholly inadequate iron poker."

Heath nodded his head approvingly. "So you, too, noticed that, did you?——And you're dead right. That poker might have twisted the box a little but it never snapped the lock."

He turned to Inspector Moran.

"I say!" Vance commented. "Something devilish queer took place here last night."

"Oh, not so queer," Heath amended. "It was a thorough job, all right, but there's nothing mysterious about it."

Vance polished his monocle and put it away. "If you go to work on that basis Sergeant," he returned carelessly, "I greatly fear you'll run aground on a reef. And may kind Heaven bring you safe to shore!"

And there you have the key to one of the most baffling murder mysteries in New York police history. THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE, by S. S. Van Dine, author of THE BENSON MURDER CASE, begins in The Morning Avalanche, Sunday, January 15. Watch for it.

Today—"Black Friday"—Is a Lucky Day According to History of United States

Don't feel that you ought to stay indoors and keep your fingers crossed just because today happens to be Friday the 13th.

According to the superstitious lore of the ages Friday the 13th may be fraught with evil omens—but America at least, ought to regard the day as the luckiest on the calendar.

Friday and the number 13, either together, or separately, have played a large and beneficent part in American history, and anyone who thinks they are unlucky will have to take a second guess.

Pershing's Birthday

To begin with, it's supposed to be the height of ill luck to be born on Friday the 13th. Yet Gen. John J. Pershing, war-time commander of the A. E. F. was born on such a date, and it must be admitted that he has risen pretty high for a man whose life began under an unfavorable star. The exact date of his birth was Sept. 13, 1860.

Then, as everybody knows, there are 13 stripes in the American flag. Originally, when that flag was most in need of fortune's smiles, there were 13 stars also. And, of course, there were 13 colonies at the time of the Revolution.

If 13 were an unlucky number for America, George III ought to have won that war in no time. But the combination proved so lucky for America—whose revolutionary commander customarily signed his name Geo. Washington, in which, there are exactly 13 letters—that on June 13, 1778, the kingdom of France decided to come to the new country's aid, and thus made certain the success of the war for independence.

You might notice that there are 13 letters in "revolutionary," too.

As if they were aware of these things, the fathers of the Republic then proceeded to work 13 into the American scheme very effectively.

For our national motto they picked "E Pluribus Unum," which has 13 letters. On the escutcheon of our country they put an eagle, each wing of which has 13 feathers. They laid the foundations of the White House on October 13, 1792. They organized the Northwest territory on July 13, 1787.

So much for our early history. Now let's come down to modern times.

Wodrow Wilson, wartime president under whom America was victorious in its greatest war, had 13 letters in his name. And there are 13 letters in the signature of his military chieftain, the afore-mentioned John J. Pershing. The great American victory of St. Mihiel was won on Friday, the 13th.

Our prosperity rests on our industries and if they should have bad luck the country as a whole would share in it. But there are exactly 13 letters in the name of one of our biggest corportations—General Motors—and there are 13 letters in the title of another industrial giant: the Standard Oil Co., which has enjoyed fortune's smiles for years.

Now let's examine Friday a bit. Is it unlucky?

Not for America. Columbus sailed on a Friday and discovered land on another Friday. The Declaration of Independence was introduced on a Friday. And, as if that isn't enough, in 1776, when George III called for a day, of fasting and prayer in Britain to insure the defeat of the rebellious colonies, he issued his proclamation on Friday the 13th.

'Peg Top' Trousers To Make Comeback

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. (AP)—The peg top trouser—recall it, standing out at the hips like the riding breeches of a British staff officer and scarcely large enough at the cuffs to pull on—is coming back.

But—hasten to add members of the International association of clothing designers, it will be a modified peg top," without the tight-fitting cuff effect.

Spring models of men's clothing will show the peg effect and fall clothes will bear the full influence.

The collegian this year will surrender the many-buttoned coat that for several years has covered him almost to the chin, for two-button models, the designers have decreed.

DISTRESS SALE

Comfortable, modern home with garage, well located, convenient to all schools, MUST be sold quick or owner will be foreclosed on $2,500 monthly payment loan.

A very small cash payment and a car will secure title to this place which cost owner $6,000.

A second lien will be accepted as further payment. Owner is willing to lose $1,500 on place!

These are facts that are made with no other purpose in view than placing before someone who wants a real bargain this opportunity—else the loan company gets the place and owner will lose equity.

Owner is not leaving town . . . but the place must be sold and sold mighty quick! The first man who comes into my office and even acts as though he is interested will get the best bargain I have ever offered since coming to Lubbock. Owner is fighting for time—act quickly!

Moscow Plans To Banish Enemies

Rumor In Berlin Is That Several Opponents To Soviet Regime Will Be Sent to Other Lands.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Just What the Moscow government intends to do with a number of opposition leaders who have been marked for discipline, is somewhat of a mystery and so far as Soviet quarters in Berlin are informed, the proposed deportations of these men have not yet been made effective.

Leon Trotzky, Karl Radek, Gregory Zinovieff and Christian Rakovsky, former Soviet ambassador to France, are reported to be among those who are to feel the weight of the Soviet government's hand. All of these men have opposed the government strongly, particularly Trotsky, who with some of his lieutenants gradually has been deposed from official position.

Soviet circles in Berlin attempt to minimize the importance of the contemplated action, professing to see in it merely a disciplinary measure intended to make the opposition amenable to party discipline.

"It will be noted," said a well informed Soviet spokesman today, that the men who are to be sent into the provinces are those whose reentry into the party seems desirable. They must go through a rigorous disciplinary force and do humble party work in outlying places and thereby show they are penitent but this is in no wise like the Czarist measure of lifelong banishment."

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (AP)—Relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports of steadiness in the Southern spot markets, failed to stimulate any general or aggressive buying in the cotton market today, but were reflected in a moderate advance in prices. March contracts sold up to 19.20 or 21 points net higher and closed at 19.18 the general market closing very steady, at net advances of 18 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 10 points in response to the better showing of Liverpool.

Active months showed net advances of 16 to 20 points in early trading on covering, Liverpool and a little trade buying, but demand was comparatively small and prices eased off several points during the midday under realizing.

The market firmed up again during the afternoon on renewed covering May advanced to 19.29 and July to 19.06 net gains of 20 to 24 points. The close was within a point or two of the best.

Exports today 24,847, making 4,202,620 so far this season. Port receipts 14,714, U. S. Port stocks 2,463,015.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. (AP)—Stock prices drifted rather aimlessly in the early part of today's session and then turned upward in response to favorable trade news. This included the prediction of President Sloan of the General Motors Corporation that first quarter sales and profits would break all records, and a further pick-up in steel mill operations now reported to be around 75 percent of capacity.

The recovery, which ran from 1 to 6 points in a number of issues, and even higher in a few specialties, was by no means general as final quotations disclosed a number of 1 to 2 point declines. Trading showed a marked reduction in volume, reflecting the waiting attitude on the part of many professional operators the day's sales running just over 2,100,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 12. (AP)—Material upturns took place in the price of corn today, largely as a result of better export demand, together with extreme smallness of country offerings. Hillsdale, Ill., reported cash corn bringing $1.00 a bushel at a public sale, near there.

Late profit-taking led to something of a setback from the day's top prices for corn, the market closing unsettled, 3-8 to 1 1-2c net higher. Wheat finished unchanged to 3-8c lower, oats a shade to 1-8 to 1-4c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

Wheat prices were steadied by corn strength, with oats likewise borrowing firmness from the upward tendency of corn.

Provisions firmed up as a result of the corn advance.
