A 5 p.m. rodeo parade Wednesday will herald the beginning of the 51st annual Scurry County Rodeo.

The parade Wednesday kicks-off four days of rodeo competition in the coliseum. Performances will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.

The books closed Monday for this year's entries with from 250 to 300 contestants expected. Events will include bareback riding, tie down calf roping, saddle bronc riding, team roping, barrel racing and bull riding.

Championship bull fighting events are scheduled also plus a goat sacking competition nightly for the youngsters.

Producer for the rodeo this year is Smokey Davis of the Rafter 'D' Rodeo Company of Fulshear.

Regarding Wednesday's parade, it will form at 4:30 p.m. at the intersection of 27th St. and Ave. Z.

The parade route will go east down 27th St. to circle the downtown square. The parade will then go south down College Ave. to 30th St., turning back there to the west to end at Ave. Z again.

After Wednesday's rodeo performance, the first of four nightly rodeo dances will begin in the ag annex. Featured will be Jody Nix and the West Texas Cowboys of Big Spring.

Rodeo tickets at the gate will be $4 for general admission and $3 for children 12 and under.

Q. — Is the East Highway paving project finally over?

A. — All of the paving is complete as of Saturday. There still remains some cleanup of the gutter areas as well as restriping the highway surface, highway officials say.

Unrest, boycotts continue

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Scattered labor unrest and school boycotts persisted today following the first mass black protests under a month-old state of emergency, but the large majority of students and workers were reported back at their classes and jobs.

The Labor Monitoring Group, an independent fact-finding body, said significant labor unrest was reported today only in the Port Elizabeth area. General Motors spokesman Mike Kileen said GM's plant in the Cape Province city was closed for the second day.

Kileen said some 2,000 blacks reported for work, but later asked to go home, apparently because they were worried about conditions in their residential townships, where student strikes were continuing.

Other Port Elizabeth employers said workers were trickling back to work as bus service gradually resumed.

Peter Mundell of the Department of Education and Training, the government agency for black education, said attendance among the country's 1.7 million black students appeared "almost identical" to the estimated 80 percent who went back to school when classes resumed Monday.

The separate protests Monday were the first concerted mass actions since the government's imposition of a nationwide state of emergency on June 12.

Tens of thousands of blacks stayed away from jobs and schools, but the main effect of the protests appeared to be in areas noted for anti-apartheid activism.

Black trade unions proclaimed the national day of action against the detention of more than 200 labor leaders, who are among an estimated 3,500 people held without charge under the emergency.

Up to 70 percent of workers stayed off the job at Port Elizabeth, or reported briefly and left. The industrial city on the Indian Ocean has been a center of protest during nearly two years of racial unrest in which more than 2,000 people have been killed.

The vital mining industry reported few problems, however, and only scattered strikes were reported in most parts of the country.

TELEPHONE REPAIRS UNDERWAY — Southwestern Bell telephone workers Clay Everett and W.B. Shaw are pictured around 2:45 p.m. Monday as they began splicing five underground cables back together at the intersection of 21st St. and Ave. N. Texas Electric Service Co. crews, setting a replacement pole at the location, inadvertently cut the cables shortly after noon. Service was said interrupted to an estimated 300 to 400 customers primarily in north Snyder. (SDN Staff Photo)

Oil value sessions to begin tomorrow

Hearings related to oil value questions for the coming tax year will begin at 10 a.m. Wednesday as the Scurry County Appraisal District review board comes into session.

The sessions will be at the appraisal district offices, 2612 College Ave.

Valuation engineers with the firm of Thomas Y. Pickett and Associates of Dallas will be on hand to answer the initial questions of some 37 individuals registered to appear.

If questions are not resolved at this level, the three-member review board is charged with deciding disputes related to values.

The review board is the final board of appeal for taxable values short of litigation through the courts.

Assuming all oil-related questions are finalized Wednesday, the review board will consider questions related to agriculture, residential, commercial or personal property values beginning Thursday. Those meetings are set to begin at 9 a.m.

An additional 22 persons are scheduled to question real estate appraisals during Thursday's hearings.

The district review board is comprised of Harold Lacik, Ross Carroll and Walter Stirl.

P&Z appointments, budget study slated

Two appointments to the city's planning and zoning commission — vacancies occurring with the appointment of two former P&Z members to the Snyder city council — are scheduled Tuesday during a called session of the city.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at city hall and will include the council's first discussion of the proposed budget for 1986-87.

Preceding this will be several budget items slated for council action, to include the P&Z appointments.

The addition of Fred Castillo and Joe Fowler to the council June 2 created the two vacancies on the city board. These two posts, as well as one vacated position on the builder's board of appeals, are due appointments Tuesday.

The council also faces four items of old business. These include:

—A second and final reading of a rezoning ordinance seeking to change two lots and a portion of a third located in the 1000 Block of 24th St. from R-3 (general residential) to C-2 (commercial). The change has been requested by Stan Pavlik, who indicated he plans to build a commercial building at the site.

—A second and final reading of a rezoning ordinance seeking to change a 2.1 acre tract located in the East 100 Block of 37th St. from R-1 (single-family residential) to C-2 (commercial). The change has been requested by Gene Best, land owner, who plans to sell the property to individuals planning to open a day care center at the site of the former Snyder Christian School.

—A second and final reading of a rezoning ordinance seeking to change portions of a four-block area located in the 500-800 Blocks of U.S. Hwy. 84 from R-3 (general residential) to M-1 (light manufacturing). The change has

Former college head accepts interim post

Dr. Robert L. Clinton, who served Western Texas College as its first college president for 11 years, has accepted a temporary assignment as interim president of Amarillo College.

DR. ROBERT CLINTON

Clinton accepted the appointment only some three months after his retirement as executive director for the Austin-based Texas Public Community Junior College Association, a post he assumed upon leaving WTC in 1981.

The appointment at AC in Amarillo is until a new president there can be chosen. That selection is scheduled by Jan. 1, 1987.

The AC post became vacant with the resignation of President H.D. Yarbrough, who is to leave the college during August to enter the insurance business in Powell, Wyo.

Clinton served Western Texas College upon the formation of the college district in 1969. The first fall semester of classes at WTC were offered in 1971.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "For many folks, tomorrow is their best labor-saving device."

Thanks to the computer, some experts calculated last week that the world's population would soon hit 5 billion. A Snyder resident may well have that distinction.

The baby, born last Monday in Sweetwater, was Russell Scott Lee. He weighed 7 pounds, 6½ ounces and was born at 9:59 p.m.

The parents are David and Cindy Lee of Snyder. Cindy is one of the gals who works at one of the front desks here in the SDN office and takes care of classified advertising.

Cindy (and Russell) worked part of Monday morning before signals started to arrived that Russell might be Mr. 5 Billion.

Maybe Russell Scott Lee can make that a useful bit of trivia later on in life. If the old TV show, "I've Got A Secret," ever returns, Russell would be a natural.

Perhaps he can use it to his advantage in finding a job 20 years from now. It helps to be innovative when looking for work.

Being resourceful reminds us of the story about the personnel manager who advertised a job opening. He received a large number of applicants who had assembled in the outer office.

The first young man was ushered into the office for an interview, and the personnel manager began explaining the job to him.

"We need someone in this job who can make fast decisions. We need someone who can really think on his feet. Can you show me you're capable of doing that?"

Without a word, the young man got to his feet, stuck his head out the door of the personnel manager's office, and announced to the waiting applicants, "Okay, you guys, you can all go home...the job's been filled."

A fellow coffee drinker says his wife has come up with some strong rationale for compulsive shopping. She says, "If God hadn't intended for me to buy these, the store wouldn't have them in my size and color."

In Brief

State deficit

AUSTIN (AP) — The projected state deficit could grow to more than $3 billion, a spokesman for Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

And the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee says it could hit $3.5 billion by the time the current budget cycle ends Aug. 31, 1987.

Bullock will revise his estimate after June sales tax collections are reported. Last month, he said the deficit would be at least $2.3 billion.

Spokesman Tony Proffitt said Monday that Bullock now "has every reason to believe it will be over $3 billion."

Oil prices rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices advanced slightly today following their decline of the previous session, which analysts had blamed on widespread fear that the current market glut would intensify because of heightened production by OPEC nations.

The August-delivery price of West Texas Intermediate, the main U.S. crude and an important market indicator, rose by 23 cents to $11.27 per 42-gallon gallon barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange. On Monday, West Texas Intermediate fell nine cents in nervous dealings.

Higher deficit said expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's budget director, voicing concern over worsening projections of government red ink, says the fiscal 1987 spending plan Congress approved last month fails to meet a mandated $144 billion deficit target.

That means money bills passed by Congress may be vetoed even if they are within the limits of the budget blueprint for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, Budget Director James C. Miller III said Monday.

"The deficit situation, frankly, at this point, based on our latest information and calculations, looks worse, not better," Miller told an invited group of reporters.

In 1985, the government ran up a record deficit of $211.9 billion. The administration had been predicting that the deficit for the current fiscal year 1986 would be $202.8 billion.

Now, Miller said, "Unless something happens, I expect the deficit to exceed $212 billion and be in the neighborhood of $220 billion."

Likewise, "the actual deficit we experience for '87 will be a very large number. ... It breaks my heart," Miller added.

Miller cited a sluggish economy, lower-than-expected government revenues and Pentagon spending running about $8 billion more than expected as contributing to the worsening deficit projections.

He also repeatedly emphasized the estimates were preliminary and subject to change when the administration issues a detailed report on the economic situation during the week of Aug. 4.

Nonetheless, Miller reiterated that the president is opposed to new taxes to cope with the problem, "So we've got to look at total spending as a way to get the deficit down."

Miller said neither the budget the president sent to Capitol Hill in February nor the spending plan Congress approved in late June would meet the $144 billion deficit target for fiscal 1987 set by the Gramm-Rudman budget law.

Congressional budget writers had rejected the president's budget almost as soon as he submitted it, saying it fell short of the deficit target.

Both spending plans projected deficits slightly below the target.

"I'm $10 billion or more pessimistic," Miller said of the ability of either plan to meet the target.

Thus, Miller said the administration was not tied to the limits for individual money bills in the budget Congress adopted.

"Since we did not embrace the congressional budget resolution, we do not necessarily have that mark as our point of reference," Miller said.

Miller's comments added to the pressure on Congress in this election year to make good on the deficit-reduction law it enacted last year.

The Supreme Court last week struck down the provision of that law for automatic cuts if Congress and the White House fail to meet annual, declining deficit targets.

Supporters of the Gramm-Rudman law have been discussing how to quickly repair the portion of the statute calling for the automatic, across-the-board spending cuts.

Former FBI agent who spied lacked blessings gratitude

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard W. Miller was a "tormented man" and not to be hated, said the judge who sentenced the only FBI agent ever convicted of spying to the maximum two life sentences plus 50 years in prison.

"I believe you are going to sentence me as if I committed these crimes," Miller told U.S. District Judge David Kenyon Monday. "I did not commit them." "I shall continue to assert my innocence with an appeal that I hope will result in a new and fair trial."

Kenyon, who described Miller as a tormented man ungrateful for the blessings life gave him, said his crime was so severe he should never again know the joys of freedom. In addition to imposing the maximum sentence, Kenyon imposed the maximum fine of $60,000.

Miller, 49, a portly, bumbling FBI agent whose lackluster 20-year career ended with his arrest in 1984, broke the silence he had maintained through his trial as he stepped to a lectern in the packed, hushed courtroom.

"I never intended to injure this country or benefit the Soviet Union," Miller said. "My conduct was of no damage to this country."

Kenyon accepted the argument of U.S. Attorney Robert Bonner, who said Miller had "besmirched the reputation of the FBI" and damaged national security, selling out his country for sex and money.

"It seems to me a person who deliberately, for their own personal gain, betrays their country, should not walk again in this country as a free man," Kenyon said. "It is this court's intention to sentence the guilty with that in mind."

He specified that Miller serve at least one-third of his concurrent sentences. Bonner said the earliest Miller could be eligible for parole would be in 16 years.

Miller was found guilty June 19 of conspiring with his lover, Svetlana Ogorodnikov, 36, and her husband, Nikolay, 53, to pass classified documents to the Soviet Union. The government said he agreed to accept $65,000.

Turnabout Is Fair Play In Battle of Junk Mail

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: For the benefit of "Too Much Mail," and others who want to know how to put a stop to being the recipient of unsolicited mail: punch five or six holes (use a large pin) in the card to be returned. The computer will reject it.

For years, my husband made contributions to a political party. After his death, I wrote "Deceased" on the card and returned it. Solicitations continued to come.

A friend had the same experience and passed the above information on to me. It worked beautifully. The rejected card was obviously read, and my name removed from the files. Sign me,

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE IN VA.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: You told "Too Much Mail" that once her name is "in the computer" she's automatically solicited, in which case her only defense would be to ignore the solicitation. Not true! Here's how I handle junk mail: I just take those postpaid envelopes and return everything — including the envelope!

It's lots of fun, and it forces the sender to pay first-class extra postage to get their own junk returned!

PORT CLINTON, OHIO

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I recently read the letter about the person receiving too much junk mail. Here is my solution to the problem at the sender's expense: Take the entire junk mail contents, including the outside envelope, tear it to shreds and mail it back to them in their postpaid envelope. Leave your name and address label in one piece so they'll know who it's from. They don't like the mess, or paying the postage. It worked for me!

NANCY J. KELLEY,
HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "Too Much Mail" to write "Refused — Return to Sender" on the envelope or package. The postal service will return it to "sender" and collect the postage due. She will be removed from the list. I've had my name removed from lists this way.

HELEN SHEPHERD,
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have a good way to get off mailing lists, or at least a good share of them. Especially the begging letters. If there is a U.S. stamp on the return envelope, I cut it off and use it. If it is a postage-guaranteed envelope, I seal the empty envelope, write my name on the back, and mail it.

They'll get the message after a while.

NO NAME IN WEATHERFORD, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: You gave the address for DMA's (Direct Marketing Association) Mail Preference Service as a solution to reducing the quantity of unsolicited mail.

I liked an alternative that I tried with success with one organization. If there is a return envelope with a permit number to pay return postage, just put something heavy in the envelope.

For those who want to know what percentage of their contribution actually goes to the beneficiary, and how much goes for "administration" and fund raising, write to: the Charities Division of the Council of Better Business Bureaus, 1515 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22209. People have a right to know how their money is spent.

SALLY HUNTER,
ALEXANDRIA, VA.

DEAR READERS: Everybody hates junk mail, right? Wrong! Read on for a major surprise.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get on a list that will get me some junk mail? I live alone and enjoy looking at catalogs and all kinds of advertisements. I even welcome campaign literature and religious material. I find it depressing to go to my mailbox and find it empty. If you use my letter in your column, please don't use my real name. My neighbors will think I've lost my mind.

Secretary of Education backs no-pass, no-play

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Two Texas education reforms — teacher competency testing and the no-pass, no-play rule — deserve A grades, says the U.S. secretary of education.

"I agree with the principle of no-pass, no-play," William J. Bennett told the annual meeting of the Southern Legislative Conference on Monday. "I also support no-pass, no-teach. I think if we're going to be rigorous in terms of our expectations of the students, we ought to be equally rigorous in our expectations of teachers."

Although both reforms sparked considerable controversy after being enacted by the Legislature in 1984, Bennett said those ideas are strongly supported by the majority of people nationwide.

"The American people are very clear about this. Public opinion is very strong on both issues," Bennett said.

"It's a sports-minded people. It's a people that believes very much in extra curricular activities. But it also believes there are priorities in school. And the first and the main priority of school is to learn."

Texas in 1984 adopted a statewide no-pass, no-play rule which bars students from sports or other extra-curricular activities for six weeks if failing any class.

Although the rule has angered some coaches, parents and students, Gov. Mark White has rejected all suggestions that the rule be eased.

The 1984 school reform law also requied that teachers and school administrators pass a literacy test to keep their jobs. Afout 97 percent passed the first test. The second exam, for those who failed, was given last month.

Bennett said he favors requiring teachers to pass a test that is more difficult than the one Texas educators took.

'Summer Fiesta' dancers perform for women's club

A group of 87 guests attended the July 9 "Summer Fiesta" of the Snyder Christian Women's Club luncheon. A number of the guests were from out of town.

Special music for the event was provided by Debra Martinez, Pat Reynolds and Connie Williams. Mrs. Martinez sang a solo entitled "The Prodigal," and the trio sang together the selection "Holy Ground."

A program depicting Mexican folkloric dancing was presented by six young people. Dancers were Marissa Candanoza, Joey Rodriquez, Noah Torres, Andrea Candenoza, Patricia Barrera and Omar Villa. Narrator for the dancers was Rachael Rodriquez.

Fontaine Tebo from Kansas City, Mo., a national representative for Stonecroft Ministries, was a special guest. She indicated that she travels some 11 months out of the year throughout the United States for Stonecroft. Her primary duties include helping start new Christian Women's Clubs as well as conduct workshops on various topics. Tebo, who has a master's degree in computer programming, has been employed by Stonecroft since January 1986.

Also attending was Claire Windsor, area representative with Stonecroft Ministries. She resides in Abilene and is a volunteer who oversees the Abilene and Snyder Christian Women's Clubs.

Jennifer Askew of Odessa was the guest speaker for the luncheon. She shared how she was able to overcome depression after the birth of her second child. She advised that if anyone is suffering from depression that it is very important that they seek help.

Christian Women's Club is open to all women with no membership or dues. The next scheduled luncheon will be Aug. 13 featuring students from Kellye's School of Dance.

Straight approach offers best shot

By James Jacoby

Looking at the hand of a lifetime, South opened two clubs (an artificial game-forcing bid), only to hear West leap right to five diamonds. There was now no easy way to discover if partner might have an ace. Although South had a potential loser in diamonds and one in spades, South did what you and I would — he bid six hearts.

If the slam could be made, East-West had a cheap sacrifice at seven diamonds, but West thought he might take two tricks, and East hoped that his black cards had defensive value, so both defenders passed. West led two rounds of diamonds, declarer ruffing in on the second trick.

There are two approaches to playing this slam. First, declarer could immediately play six rounds of hearts. The advantage of such a play is that a defender with four spades may feel that it is important to hang onto his clubs and so carelessly ditch a spade. Here that kind of mistake should not occur, since West should throw his two spades as soon as possible to warn East that he must guard spades. Such discarding would also imply that West held something in clubs, so East would not have to hold that suit.

The pure approach to declarer play is better. South should draw only one round of hearts and then play A-K-Q of spades. If spades split, all is well. If they do not, declarer can take a chance that East, who holds four spades, also began with three hearts. In such a case, South can ruff his low spade in dummy, scoring up his small slam.

Here's the Answer
By ANDY LANG

Q. — We have a wooden fence at the front of our house and around one side. The one at the side divides our property from that of our neighbor. We have decided to add a couple of feet to the height of that fence, which now is 6 feet high. Can we add lath to the top of the fence?

A. — Yes. Lath usually is added to an existing fence when you want the wind to pass through. But there is more to it than that. Do the local regulations permit an 8-foot fence? Have you talked with your neighbor about it? Do you have a good reason for the change? Have you thought about it for a considerable amount of time? Why the reason for all these questions? Because high fences have caused more dissension among neighbors than almost any other single thing.

Summit is still questionable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a snag over a summit, the United States and the Soviet Union are picking up the pace of discussions on nuclear issues.

The two sides have agreed in principle to hold separate talks on U.S. and Soviet weapons tests and also on the 1979 SALT II treaty to limit long-range bombers, missiles and submarines.

But either or both meetings could unravel over arrangements and agendas, while Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's visit here for a summit meeting with President Reagan remains up in the air.

The talks on the treaty, which Reagan has vowed to scrap, will be held in Geneva on July 22 provided the Soviets do not object to U.S. representatives raising allegations of violations of the unratified accord, a U.S. official said Monday.

The session was proposed initially by the Soviets after Reagan said that toward the end of this year he would allow U.S. bombers carrying cruise missiles to surpass the ceiling set by the treaty.

White House spokesman Edward Djerejian refused to say whether the Soviet invitation had been accepted or rejected. But another U.S. official, who spoke only on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press the United States had agreed — but only if other issues could be raised.

These include allegations that the Soviets violated the unratified accord by withholding information about their missile tests and by deploying an illegal long-range missile, the SS-25. The Soviets have denied the charges.

The U.S. response did not specify the issues U.S. representatives would want to bring up in the discussion, the official said. But, he added, if the Soviets tried to limit the meeting in advance it would not be held.

The Pentagon had recommended Reagan reject the Soviet request as likely to produce what one U.S. official last week called "a public relations circus."

The State Department was reported, however, to be in favor of a session on the treaty, while Kenneth L. Adelman, the U.S. arms control director, and Edward Rowny, senior presidential adviser, took the position the United States should be free to accuse the Soviets of flouting the accord.

The two sides last week agreed in principle to a separate meeting on underground nuclear testing. The agenda would be broad, including U.S. efforts to improve ways to make sure limits set in a 1974 treaty were observed as well as Gorbachev's call for a ban on any further nuclear weapons explosions.

Peter Gott, M.D.

Symptoms of hyperactivity

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 4-year-old started to wet himself. A urologist said he had a reflux that might or might not be serious. The doctor also said to take him off sweets and caffeine, since he was hyperactive. That has helped a lot. Should I pursue this reflux matter and, if so, with what kind of specialist?

DEAR READER — If your child is truly hyperactive, he should be examined by a pediatric neurologist, because the urinary problem is only one of many difficulties common to the syndrome. These include short attention span, emotional instability and difficulty with coordination, vision, memory and language. Does your son's pediatrician believe that some tensions and stresses at home might have caused your son to start wetting himself? This type of behavior can be the result of periods of anxiety.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Ten years ago I was told I had a high level of salicylates in my blood. What does this mean?

DEAR READER — Aspirin is salicylic acid; therefore, you must have had a blood test that indicated you had aspirin in your body.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Every time I get a toothache, I also get persistent prickly pain in my side and my toes and ankles swell up. If I press on the gums of the offending tooth, the side pain and swelling ebb away. My dentist thinks that my problem is psychological, but I know I'm not imagining this. I am an exchange student from Africa, so maybe I'm not making myself clearly understood to him.

DEAR READER — Perhaps you're not, yet I have no ready explanation for the phenomenon either. Accupuncture has shown that various body parts can be influenced by stimulation of other, distant body parts. I suppose that something of this sort may be operating in your case. In addition, you might be experiencing a peculiar reaction to the pain of the toothache, which disappears when relieved by gum pressure.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I take lithium for manic depression. My husband does not want to have children because he says manic depression is hereditary. Is this true?

DEAR READER — Some forms of mental disorders, like manic depression, do tend to run in families but, to my knowledge, this condition has not been shown to be hereditary. Ask your psychiatrist to discuss the issue with both you and your husband.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter, now 2, was born with a dislocated hip, which the doctor said was hereditary. Is there any test that could be done before a baby is born to determine whether this disability exists?

DEAR READER — I am not aware of any safe test that could predict whether an unborn child has congenital dislocated hip. In some cases, X-ray studies of the baby shortly before birth might demonstrate the abnormality, but I don't believe this knowledge would make any difference in the outcome or management of the condition. Therefore, the risks of the X-ray exam seem unwarranted.

Lawyers zero in on victim's family

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A defense attorney in the first lawsuit stemming from the 1985 crash of Delta Flight 191 attacked the condition of one victim's businesses, saying either state authorities or the oil industry slump would have shut them down.

But Delta attorney Frank Finn told jurors Delta Air Lines considered a $300,000 settlement "fair under the facts" in a claim against the airline by Kathy Ann Reynolds, the wife of Paul Reynolds. Reynolds was one of 137 people killed in the Aug. 2 crash.

Mrs. Reynolds' suit is the first of 50 similar suits related to the crash to go to trial. Testimony in the case before U.S. District Judge David O. Belew was scheduled to resume today.

But on Monday, the crash was scarcely mentioned and attorneys zeroed in on the Reynolds family while Mrs. Reynolds, 29, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., wept.

Finn said that at the time of his death, Reynolds was involved in "boiler room" oil lease ventures "close to illegal if not illegal under Florida law."

Finn claimed Reynolds and his wife also were frequent users of drugs and alcohol. A year before his death, Reynolds beat his wife in a "drunken rage" while Kathy Reynolds held their young daughter, Finn told jurors.

Within 10 weeks after the crash, Kathy Reynolds was involved with another man, Finn said the evidence would show.

"They ask for recompense for lost companionship," Finn said. "When counsel said she was alone and grieving, the facts are simply not there."

Lax security contributed to escape

GILMER, Texas (AP) — Jerry Walter McFadden, whose escape from Upshur County jail sparked a two-day manhunt, threatened to flee again and waged a brief hunger strike after visitation rights were suspended upon his return, Sheriff Dale Jewkes said.

But this time, an escape won't be as easy, because officials at the jail have been warned to tighten up on security.

'Significant number of jobs' will not be lost in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Johnson Space Center will retain all work positions except for 100 management jobs transferred to Washington, NASA administrator James Fletcher said in response to a report that Houston would lose 1,900 space center jobs.

"I don't know where those figures come from," Fletcher said Monday.

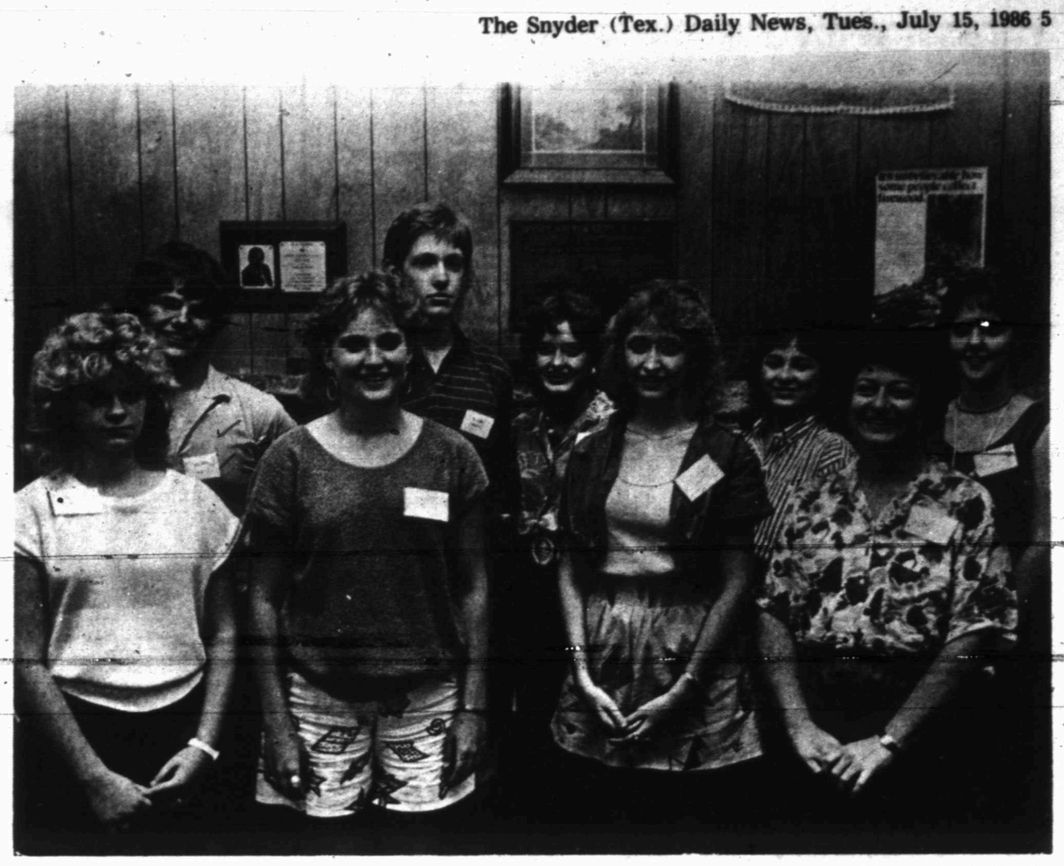

Speaking at a news conference in Washington, he said there were no plans to reduce the number of work positions at the Johnson Space Center, although he said that about 100 management jobs now being performed at Johnson will be transferred to Washington.

Based on statistics released by U.S. Rep. Mike Andrews, D-Texas, the Houston Chronicle, quoting unidentified sources, reported Monday that Johnson would lose 1,900 jobs and about $1.5 billion in payroll when the management of the space station moves to Washington. Andrews is a member of the House science and technology committee which oversees NASA.

Fletcher announced last month that the space station management center would be moved from Johnson to NASA headquarters in Washington, but he said Monday that would mean only about 100 jobs and that some of those could come from other NASA centers.

According to the Chronicle, the 1,900 lost jobs would include civil service as well as contractor positions that now exist and those that would have been created to handle the space station development.

A spokesperson at the Johnson Space Center, Billie Deason, said she knew of no document that reflects such a sizable work force reduction. She said space station managers are meeting now to determine which of the NASA centers will perform specific jobs.

ENJOYED CAMP--Eight Borden County youths and the county extension agent participated in an electricity camp sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) July 7-11. They were among 132 4-H'ers and agents from throughout the South Plains who attended the camp in the Sacramento Mountains south of Cloudcroft N. M. Charges traded over Chile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Secretary of State Elliott Abrams and Sen. Jesse Helms are accusing each other of indefensible behavior and swapping other charges in a tempest over U.S. policy toward Chile.

The disagreement Monday focused on the presence of Ambassador Harry G. Barnes Jr. at the funeral of a 19-year-old Washington resident who was fatally burned during anti-government protests in Santiago.

But in swapping charges in separate Associated Press interviews, the State Department official and the Republican senator from North Carolina clashed on the role the Reagan administration should take in Chile.

Helms, just back from a week-long visit to the South American country, said Chile was "really the only country in Latin America placing its faith in the market economy and free enterprise." The senator said it also had the best chance of moving toward "a stable, productive democracy."

He said the funeral of Rodrigo Rojas de Negri last Wednesday at the Chilean Human Rights Commission was "a Communist rally" and that U.S. citizens and Chileans Helms met with in Santiago had accused Barnes of "consorting constantly with the left."

Dextor Clinkscale...

Starting safety is AWOL Cowboy

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Cowboys starting strong safety Dextor Clinkscale was missing from the ranks of Dallas veterans who reported this weekend to training camp, making the fifth consecutive year that a veteran missed at least the first day of camp.

Meanwhile, Mark Walen was on hold Monday, and the other two holdouts were still holding out as negotiations continued — sort of.

Clinkscale's agent Paul Schoonover said he planned to meet Clinkscale Monday night.

"Technically, he doesn't have to be there for several days, but I'm not saying that's why he's not here," he said.

According to a section of the collective bargaining agreement, Clinkscale is not required to report to the club's training camp any earlier than 15 days before the team's first scheduled preseason game or July 15, whichever is later.

Mike Sherrard and his agent haven't talked to the Cowboys in a week. Darryl Clack and his agent were scheduled to meet with team representatives this week — maybe. And Walen's fate depends on what they do.

"It's the same status it's been, although if you can continue to talk, that's fine," said Joe Bailey, the NFL club's vice president of administration who is in charge of negotiating contracts.

The problem is there have been no talks between Bailey and Leigh Steinberg, who represents Sherrard. Steinberg is looking for a 4-year contract for his client worth $1.76 million.

The Cowboys reportedly offered Sherrard roughly $500,000 below that figure, then dropped their offer to $1.2 last Monday. That was the last time both sides talked.

"When they dropped their offer, at that point they said unless we wanted to accept, we were not to bother to call back," Steinberg said. "I have not called since then. It's not a matter of pride. I would call 27 times a day if it made a difference, but they made it clear it won't make a difference."

Steinberg continues to negotiate with the Arizona Outlaws of the United States Football League, and he said the club was presenting options to its four-year, $1.9 million offer.

Clack's agent, Bruce Allen, talked with the Cowboys several times Sunday and said he was scheduled to meet with Bailey in Los Angeles.

"We've set up a meeting to try to find out if this is their final offer," Allen said of the Cowboys' reported four-year $800,000 offer.

Allen reportedly is asking for a 4-year deal worth $1.1 million. Allen said the Cowboys want to give his client a five-year contract.

Walen, meanwhile, hurt his ankle during the off-season and has been put on hold until Sherrard's and Clack's situations have been resolved.

NL all-stars favored in pitchers-haven 'dome

HOUSTON (AP) — The names are new, but the story is the same at the 1986 All-Star Game: American League sluggers against National League pitchers.

And tonight's meeting features a different twist — the Astrodome — the worst hitter's park in the big leagues.

"I had heard it was a tough place for home runs," Oakland's Jose Canseco, a rookie whose 23 homers lead the major leagues, said after batting practice Monday. "And I found out it was true.

"I thought the ball would be a little more lively. I found out it's kind of dead."

That was never more evident than the last time the All-Star Game was at the Astrodome. In 1968, an AL lineup featuring Harmon Killebrew, Carl Yastrzemski and Frank Howard was held to three hits in a 1-0 loss.

Since then, the fences have been moved in. The distances down the lines are now 10 feet closer at 330 feet, and the rest of the perimeter has been pulled in about eight feet, to 400 in straightaway center field.

Even so, fewer home runs are hit in the Astrodome than any other major-league park, even with increased homer totals throughout the majors this season.

"Those 10 feet might help me," California rookie Wally Joyner, who has 20 homers, said.

Joyner, the first rookie elected to start an All-Star Game since fans resumed choosing the team in 1970, joins an AL club that also boasts Jesse Barfield and Lance Parrish, both with 21 homers, and Jim Presley, with 18.

Glenn Davis is the only NL player with 20. Overall, the AL players have outhomered their counterparts 266-192.

The NL, however, has faced such muscle before. The counter has always been pitching, and the result has been a 36-19-1 edge, including 13 victories in the past 14 games.

Fastballing Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets, working with six days rest, will start for the NL.

"I think he's the best pitcher in baseball," NL Manager Whitey Herzog said.

Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela and his screwball or Houston's Mike Scott, whose split-fingered fastball has helped him lead the majors in strikeouts, probably will follow.

Gooden threw two scoreless innings in his previous All-Star outing, while Valenzuela has not allowed a run in 4 2-3 innings through four games.

Boston's Roger Clemens, leading the majors with 15 victories and topping the AL in ERA and strikeouts, will oppose Gooden. He will be pitching after going nine innings on Saturday.

"I hope two days' rest is enough for my arm. I don't know if I'll go the full three," he said.

Screwballer Ted Higuera of Milwaukee and knuckleballing Charlie Hough of the Texas Rangers are expected to follow Clemens.

"I know how good the National League team is and what they can do — I pitched against a lot of them when I was in that league," Hough said.

"But following a hard thrower like Clemens doesn't mean I have an advantage. I followed some pretty hard throwers before and I still got hit pretty hard if I didn't pitch well."

Clemens, Higuera and Hough are three of the 15 first-time All-Stars for the AL. The NL has 10 players making their first appearance.

The game, to be televised by ABC, will start at 8:35 p.m. EDT after Vice President George Bush throws out the first ball.

It is a sellout, with more than 45,000 fans expected.

The AL will be trying to win its first game at an NL park since 1962 at Wrigley Field. In the last 14 years, the AL's lone victory came against a team managed by Herzog, in 1983.

The AL lineup was announced as: Kirby Puckett, cf; Rickey Henderson, lf; Wade Boggs, 3b; Lance Parrish, c; Wally Joyner, 1b; Cal Ripken, ss; Dave Winfield, rf; Lou Whitaker, 2b; Roger Clemens, p.

For the NL, it was to be: Tony Gwynn, lf; Ryne Sandberg, 2b; Keith Hernandez, 1b; Gary Carter, c; Darryl Strawberry, rf; Mike Schmidt, 3b; Dale Murphy, cf; Ozzie Smith, ss; Dwight Gooden, p.

Americans garner three gold medals

MOSCOW (AP) — Heavyweight Bruce Baumgartner knew exactly what he had to do in order to win a gold medal in freestyle wrestling competition at the inaugural Goodwill Games.

Baumgartner, John Smith and Dave Schultz provided the American team with their only victories Monday night in the competition otherwise dominated by the Soviets.

The Soviets, with wrestlers in all 10 finals, took seven gold medals and three silvers. The three golds they didn't get went to Americans — all in close bouts.

The wrestling results, along with the Soviet's sweep of the first three places in the men's all-around gymnastics competition, gave the Soviet Union a total of 145 medals, 59 gold, after the first 11 days of the games. The United States is second in both categories, with 99 medals, 34 gold.

Baumgartner, the 1984 Olympic champion in the 286-pound class, earned the gold by scoring the final point in a 4-4 match against David Gobedzhishvili.

"I knew all I needed was to score the final point to win," Baumgartner said holding an ice pack on his swollen left knee. "I had a two-pointer, he had a two-pointer, he had two one-pointers and I had one. In that case, I knew that if I got the final one, I would win."

Baumgartner got the point with 22 seconds remaining, capping a comeback from an early 3-0 deficit.

"I was terrible in the first period," he said, adding that has been a problem for him against Gobedzhisvili. In the 1985 world championships, the Soviet took a 6-0 lead and won 9-3. Baumgartner pinned Gobedzhisvili in 1:23 at the 1986 World Cup championships.

The 20-year-old Smith, the youngest member of the American team, defeated Khazen Isaev 6-3 in the 136-pound class. Smith's triumph marked the first loss in the tournament for any member of the Soviet team, which had won 31 consecutive bouts until that point.

Schultz, the 1984 Olympic champion at 163 pounds, rallied from a 2-0 deficit in beating Adlan Varaev.

Baumgartner said he expects to meet Gobedzhisvili again in the world championships at Budapest in October, and build on his series margin over the Soviet. Baumgartner said he leads the series 4-2, while the Soviets claim it's only 3-2.

Baumgartner said he has torn ligaments inside both knees and needs surgery on them, but will wait until he retires from wrestling before having the operations.

The American wrestling silver medalists were Kevin Darkus, 125 pounds, Andre Metzger, 149 pounds, and James Scherr, 198 pounds.

In gymnastics, Yuri Korolev led the Soviet's 1-2-3 finish with 117.50 points.

Geddes earns first LPGA tour victory

KETTERING, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Women's Open that wouldn't end was finally won by the woman who couldn't win.

Jane Geddes carded a 1-under-par 71 Monday to defeat Sally Little by two strokes in an 18-hole playoff to capture the 41st U.S. Women's Open golf championship at the NCR Country Club.

The victory was Geddes' first in four years on the LPGA Tour and it came in a tournament that was plagued by four rain delays, two suspensions of play because of the weather, a nearby chemical spill that resulted in a course evacuation, and even an earthquake.

But Geddes survived all that and a head-to-head matchup with Little on the extra day of play.

"I just felt I had something to prove," said Geddes, who began playing golf at age of 17.

Geddes' time came Monday and resulted in a $50,000 payday. It was anything but expected, however, since the 26-year-old former Florida State University player had never been in a playoff as a professional or an amateur and Little was unbeaten in four previous playoffs as a pro.

Geddes became the 11th person to capture a Women's Open for her first professional victory and was the second such player in a row, following 1985 champion Kathy Baker.

"After a while (the doubts) started rubbing me," Geddes said. "It started affecting my golf game and my demeanor on the golf course because I started putting a lot of pressure on myself.

"But I really felt I had this to prove to myself and the people who've been questioning me," Geddes said.

There were three ties and three lead changes during the playoff over NCR's 6,243-yard, par-72 layout.

Geddes and Little, who finished the 72-hole tournament with 1-under-par 287 totals, were both two under through 13 holes.

But Geddes rolled in a five-foot birdie putt at the 14th to go to three under. Her lead grew to two shots when Little bogeyed the 15th.

Geddes bogeyed two of the final three holes, but so did Little, giving the South Carolinian a victory in the fifth playoff in the history of the women's Open.

Little, winless over the last four years because of a lengthy series of injuries and illnesses, held a three-stroke lead after seven holes.

"There was a lot of pressure playing head to head," Little said. "I don't feel I gave it away. Jane played well to win."

Geddes had rounds of 74, 74, 70 and 69 during the 72-hole tournament, while Little posted scores of 73, 72, 72 and 70.

"I've always said all I need is that first win," Geddes said. "Early in the week, somebody asked me if I could win the Open and I said yes. I'm very confident. I think I have a golf game that suits the tour.

Golfer signs with WTC

Clint Adams of San Angelo has signed a letter of intent to play golf for the Western Texas College squad this fall.

The four-year starter for San Angelo Central High School was named to the second team All-District in his junior year and garnered fourth place honors during regional competition in Lubbock.

As a senior, Adams placed second in district and was named a runner-up medalist with a 72.5 average for six rounds. In 1986, he also placed at the Abilene Invitational Tournament by scoring a 71 average for 36 holes.

According to Dave Foster, WTC golf coach, Adams was "highly recruited by 12 major universities and four or five other junior colleges."

Adams is one of some seven freshmen who have signed so far this season.

Subpoenas issued to players, coach

BALTIMORE (AP) — Although they still may not be called to testify, two players who were with Maryland basketball star Len Bias the day he died, as well as Coach Lefty Driesell, are being subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury, prosecutors say.

Bias' death June 19, the result of his use of cocaine, will be the subject of a grand jury investigation in Prince George's County

NASA hopes shuttle will be able to fly again in year '88

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA says it's well on the way to fixing the things the Challenger accident commission found wrong and that it has set a new target — the first quarter of 1988 — for flying the space shuttle again.

"Instead of saying we will fix things that the Rogers commission felt were wrong, we are in the position of saying we are fixing things the Rogers commission found wrong," NASA Administrator James C. Fletcher told reporters Monday.

He and Richard Truly, head of the shuttle program, held a news conference hours after Fletcher delivered to the White House a report on actions NASA has taken since the Rogers commission made nine major recommendations last month.

The report said space agency engineers are working on a completely new design for the booster rockets which caused the Jan. 28 Challenger explosion, as a contingency in case no other approach is found suitable for the joint seals on the boosters.

"We are going to take a look at designs that assume we can't use the existing base hardware," Truly said, while conceding a new design would make it impossible to meet a first quarter-1988 launch schedule.

"The reason we are doing it is that if we get into testing and we should have a test failure that shows our design analysis was inadequate, we'd have a head start on an alternate approach," Truly said. "However, everybody that's been involved in the redesign believes there is a design available with the present hardware."

Fletcher said the space agency had responded favorably to each of the recommendations but said "there is one negative piece of news that came out after studying the problem in some depth."

He said the July 1987 flight resumption, which had been NASA's plan when he became administrator two months ago, "was a little optimistic in view of the extensive tests that have to be done on the solid rocket motors before we feel comfortable flying again."

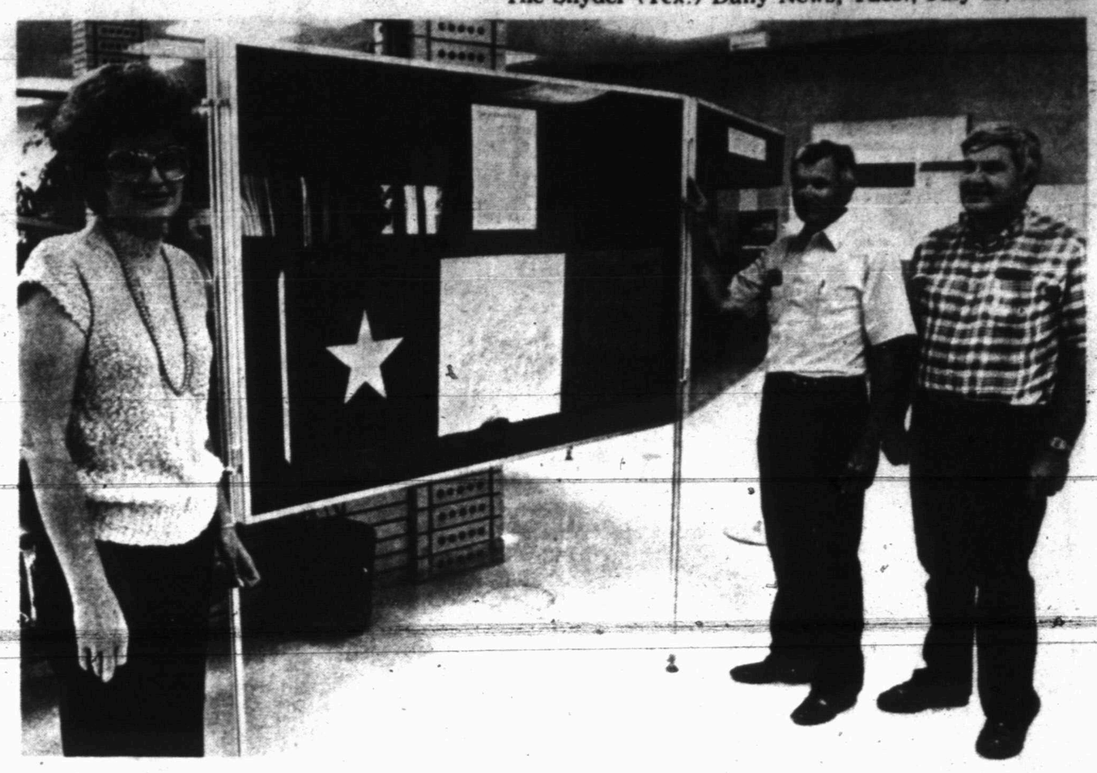

The interim report is expected to help the administration decide what to do about building a replacement for Challenger. The accident left the shuttle fleet with only three vehicles and unable to launch satellites.

A replacement for Challenger and enhancing the shuttle spare parts inventory would cost $2.5 billion.

Fletcher said he discussed the replacement shuttle extensively at the White House, but that there was no decision.

The first recommendation of the Challenger commission, headed by former Secretary of State William P. Rogers, was that "the faulty solid rocket motor joint and seal must be changed" and that "no design options should be prematurely precluded because of schedule, cost or reliance on existing hardware."

A leak in a joint on the right booster rocket of Challenger allowed hot gases to escape, causing the main fuel tank to explode in the 74th second of flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. All seven astronauts aboard, including school teacher Christa McAuliffe, were killed.

FLAGS ON DISPLAY — A set of true-to-life replicas of eight flags of the Republic of Texas went on display Tuesday morning in the lobby of Snyder National Bank. Crafted by French artist Andre Demay, the flags are part of a limited edition produced for the Sesquicentennial under the direction of The Gallery of the Republic in Austin. The exhibit is sponsored locally by Southwestern Bell. Pictured with the flags are (from left) Janelle Orr, SNB staffer, and Pee Wee Graves and Donald Fritz of Southwestern Bell. (SDN Staff Photo)

Hit-and-run said cleared

Police reported clearing a recent hit-and-run accident here Monday.

A 22-year-old Snyder man was identified as the driver who fled the scene of a mishap reported by David White on July 11.

No criminal charges were filed in the case, however.

In other action, police logged three misdemeanor arrests including two men jailed for soliciting without a permit and one for disorderly conduct.

DPS investigates two-vehicle wreck

Department of Public Safety troopers investigated a minor traffic mishap at the intersection of Ave. M and 37th St. Sunday afternoon.

Involved in the 6 p.m. collision were a 1977 Dodge driven by Jessie Dail Blackstock of Hermleigh and a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Jerry Weldon McClain of 501 32nd St.

Blackstock reportedly sustained minor injuries which did not require medical treatment.

Northside Baptist to present film

"A Distant Thunder," a Mark IV Pictures Incorporated production, and a sequel to "A Thief in the Night," will be presented by Northside Baptist Church, 1909 16th Street, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Patty, the leading character in "A Thief in the Night," is among a large number of people held prisoner because they have not received the Mark of the Beast. Since the day Patty awoke and found Jim, her husband, had disappeared, she has suffered grief, loneliness, hunger and fear because of the Evil One that works for the control of the world. Patty and her two friends, Wenda and Sandy, escape the attention of the authorities for a time. When Wenda and Sandy attempt to help an elderly man, they are arrested by an armed patrol. The girls succeed in warning Patty that their hiding place has been discovered. Patty makes a daring attempt to outwit the soldiers sent to sieze her. Audiences are thoroughly engrossed with her predicament.

The film answers many of the questions raised by other recent motion pictures. Events foretold in the Bible as a part of the Great Tribulation, are vividly portrayed in "A Distant Thunder".

Opposition supporters take over international bridges

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The main opposition party has vowed to stop traffic for five minutes today in this border city and block a major highway Thursday to protest state elections they claim were stolen.

Thousands of supporters of the opposition National Action Party Monday night took over two bridges over the Rio Grande linking Juarez with El Paso, Texas, while Mexican army soldiers with riot gear and city police stood ready.

Lorenzo Garcia of Albuquerque, N.M., was caught with his wife on the Juarez side when the takeover started. He said the two were able to walk to El Paso unharmed.

"We pushed our way through, but no one prevented us from coming over," said Garcia.

The conservative National Action Party, or PAN, is seeking annulment of July 6 state elections to choose a governor of Chihuahua, the mayor of 67 cities and 14 state legislative seats. PAN leaders claim the elections were marred by massive, government-instituted fraud.

Results released early Monday showed the government Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, nearly swept all the races. PRI, which hasn't lost a presidential or gubernatorial election since its founding in 1929, has rejected allegations of fraud.

The bridges, connecting the downtown areas of each city, were thick with PAN supporters waving party banners, chanting political slogans and singing the Mexican national anthem in an impressive show of solidarity during the two-hour takeover that ended shortly after 10 p.m. MDT.

The U.S. Border Patrol's 30-member riot squad was placed in downtown El Paso streets, out of sight of the bridges, said Gustavo de la Vina, acting agent in charge of the federal agency.

The entire Border Patrol regular staff of about 100 patrolmen was also called out "in anticipation of any possible mass entries," and blocked off all city streets leading to the bridges, de la Vina told the El Paso Times newspaper.

"Needless to say, there were some tense moments," de la Vina said.

The massive takeover started when Gustavo Elizondo, PAN candidate for mayor of Juarez, spoke to some 10,000 people at a 7 p.m. rally in front of city hall.

Elizondo said all PAN supporters should stop their vehicles for five minutes at 2 p.m. MDT starting today.

"It doesn't matter where you are or where you're going," Elizondo told the crowd, which went wild, cheering and waving PAN banners and flags whenever two government helicopters carrying soldiers flew overhead.

City police has been under control of the Mexican army since last Thursday. The army has kept a watchful eye over rallies staged by the two parties over the weekend, with at least two helicopters flying over any demonstration.

"I want you to promise me we will neither provoke violence nor accept violence," Elizondo told the crowd. "Our cause is peaceful."

He then directed the crowd to split in two and for each group to take a bridge, which are about a block apart with city hall in between.

Army soldiers carrying see-through shields, tear-gas canisters and batons arrived at the scene and began walking to the international lines at mid-bridge but shortly after, they were called back while the crowds applauded. A man in a van used a megaphone to continually urge the crowds to remain in place but not provoke violence.

Elizondo also said supporters should meet at 6 p.m. MDT Thursday at a roundabout to block the Panamerican highway. He said similar actions were to be take by PAN supporters all over the state of Chihuahua.

"There's no easy, fool proof solution, but I know a successful step we can take. I think we should have a survival price for oil in our country, one that approaches $22 a barrel
