Midland labor force falls below 100,000

Seasonal trends lower labor market; city still has state's lowest unemployment

By Mella McEwen
mmcewen@mrt.com

A month after Midland's labor force climbed past the 100,000 mark, Texas Workforce Commission figures show it has fallen back, dropping to 98,842 in August.

The number of employed Midlanders also fell in August, the commission said Friday, but so did the number of unemployed Midlanders. That sent Midland's unemployment rate dipping to 2.8 percent from 2.9 percent in July and 3.4 percent last August.

Midland continued to report the state's lowest unemployment, followed by Odessa with 3.4 percent.

Willie Taylor, chief executive officer of the commission's Workforce Solutions Permian Basin office, said the decline could be part of a seasonal trend as college students left Midland to return to school.

Midland lost 600 jobs from July to August: 200 jobs each in the mining, logging and construction sector, which includes oil and gas, in leisure and hospitality and in government. Those losses were offset by a 1900-job gain in education and health services.

Taylor said he was puzzled by the 200-job loss in government that was reported by both Midland and Odessa. Texas Workforce Commission Economist Gabriel Guzman told him that since 2007 the government sector in both Midland and Odessa has reported declines in the month of August. The exception was a 300-job gain in Midland in 2012.

Taylor also inquired about Midland's

Few fireworks in first governor's debate

■ Debate focused on border issues, school funding

Associated Press

EDINBURG — Democrat Wendy Davis came out swinging against Republican Greg Abbott over classroom funding and women in their first debate Friday night, but uncomfortably skirted whether she supported President Barack Obama.

Still, no real fireworks livened up a mostly tepid gubernatorial debate in the Rio Grande Valley — a backdrop that made border security a major topic. Davis needs to gain ground fast with less than six weeks until Election Day, and she turned to face Abbott when delivering her sharpest barbs.

But Abbott played it safe in this final stretch of a costly race that the longtime Texas attorney general has led from the start. He stayed content to not engage Davis and put her in the toughest spot not with any answer, but with a question.

"Do you regret voting for Barack Obama?" Abbott asked.

Davis seemed to laugh nervously and didn't answer. She instead digressed, saying she was focused on the race.

The Fort Worth state senator stuck to public school cuts and women to lob her toughest attacks. Abbott's office continues to defend in court $5.4 billion in funding cuts to Texas schools that a state judge found unconstitutional, and Davis again questioned why he won't let the suit drop.

"That's not liberal, that's not conservative, it's just dumb," said Davis, looking at her opponent. Abbott said he's bound by his office to continue to fight.

Texas nixes booze sales at gun shows

Associated Press

AUSTIN — After hundreds of negative responses, Texas officials appear to be backing off a plan to allow alcohol to be sold at some gun shows, which would have come with strict conditions.

Staff at the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission has recommended withdrawing last month's proposal at the panel's next meeting on Tuesday.

Alcohol sales would have come with strict conditions, such as banning the sale of live ammunition, a requirement that firearms be disabled and not allowing a buyer to walk out with their weapon.

Despite those limits, the plan still conjured worries about a possibly volatile mix of guns and alcohol. Texas prohibits concealed handgun license holders from carrying their weapons into bars.

The commission asked for public feedback and hundreds of responses poured in from all sides.

"It was for the most part negative," agency spokeswoman Carolyn Beck said Friday. "They were either against it because they didn't think alcohol and guns should mix, or there was feedback against the restrictions."

Some critics even called the proposed rule a conspiracy to ensure something bad would happen to stir up a complete ban on gun shows, Beck said.

Beck said the rule was drafted to address the Dallas Safari Club's

Texas Supreme Court weighs oilfield fraud case

By Jim Malewitz
Texas Tribune

Texas' drilling bonanza can mean long-lasting windfalls for mineral owners in the state's hottest shale plays – if those lessors make sure oil and gas operators pay what they promise. But doing so can prove incredibly difficult, as shown in a case the Texas Supreme Court will soon decide.

The court heard arguments on Wednesday in an East Texas dispute over just how much "due diligence" a mineral owner must show in auditing his or her payments. The case concerns whether a mineral owner should get extra time to sue for fraud after discovering that an operator provided false information about drilling plans. The legal team for Charles Hooks, the plaintiff, calls the matter "perhaps the single most important policy issue in Texas oil and gas today."

A Jefferson County jury returned a verdict in Hooks' favor, saying Samson Lone Star, an oil and gas partnership, owed him more than $21 million for withholding royalties. The First Court of Appeals in Houston reversed the ruling, saying Hooks waited too long to file the suit, and could have discovered payment discrepancies years earlier by poring over public records.

Samson, backed by Texas' biggest energy groups, argues that the four-year statute of limitations on fraud cases is appropriate, and that mineral owners should take more initiative in auditing their royalty payments. Looser limits would create uncertainty for oil and gas operators, the company argues, making it difficult for them to balance their books.

The Texas Supreme Court has set a high bar for mineral owners in past disputes. John McFarland, an oil and gas attorney who filed a brief in support of Hooks, said he knows of no similar case in which the mineral owner prevailed. The court last addressed the issue in a 2011 royalty dispute, when it overturned a jury verdict favoring a mineral-owning family to rule in favor of British Petroleum (BP).

On Wednesday, the justices did said little to reveal their leanings. They asked pointed questions to attorneys on both sides about how the case differed from the BP dispute and how the court could craft a ruling that does not encourage fraud in cases where fact-checking can prove difficult.

In the complicated case, Hooks argues that Samson shortchanged him after violating provisions of its lease of his land along the Pine Island Bayou, which divides Jefferson and Hardin counties. Under the contract, Samson, which was also leasing adjacent land from other owners, agreed it would not drill a well within 1,320 feet of Hooks' property for fear that it would drain Hooks' resources. Under that agreement, if the company did drill within that buffer, it would have to pay Hooks "compensatory royalties," drill an "offset well" to prevent drainage or release its claim on the adjacent properties.

But in 2000, Samson drilled a slanted well that bottomed out 1,080 feet away from Hooks' property? – without following any of the other terms of its agreement. Hooks did not ask about the well until a year later, when Samson presented him with another offer.

Before accepting that offer, Hooks, a veteran oil and gas attorney, asked about the location of the nearby well. Glenn Lanoue, Samson's landman, told Hooks the well was 1,500 feet away from his property line, according to Hooks' testimony. Later, at Hooks' request, Lanoue sent him "a true and correct plat based on the best of my knowledge" showing the well 1,400 feet from Hooks' acreage – still outside of the buffer zone listed in Hooks' lease.

Taking Lanoue's information at face value, Hooks agreed to Samson's offer and he collected royalties on it. Hooks did not discover the error until 2006. He scrutinized the map after learning that several mineral owners had sued Samson for issues unrelated to that well.

In 2007, Hooks sued Samson for a variety of offenses, including fraud. The suit came well after the statute of limitations allows.

Hooks argues he should get extra time to sue under the state's "discovery rule," saying that Samson's false information kept him from discovering the fraud for years.

"Samson showed an utter disdain for the truth and its contract obligation to the Hooks," Shannon Ratliff, Hooks' attorney argued on Wednesday.

But Samson's legal team argues that Hooks and other mineral owners in such disputes should get no extension. They say lessors should take more initiative in auditing their royalty payments and consulting official state records – rather than taking operators at their word.

"This court has always expected people to act with reasonable diligence in the conduct of their affairs," Cynthia Keely Timms, Samson's attorney, told the justices. "There are public records, and if you're exercising reasonable diligence, you can go to the public record."

Checking public records is easier said than done because those records often depend – at least partially – on information submitted by oil and gas operators. In Hooks' case, several different maps were on file with the Railroad Commission of Texas, the state's oil and gas regulator, and many were incorrect. Ratliff told the justices that Samson also filed false information with the General Land Office, Jefferson County and Hardin County.

The false information popped up in the public record "like popcorn," Ratliff said.

Timms said that Hooks, as an oil and gas attorney, should have known which information was accurate, and that one particular map on file from a third-party operator was a "gold standard."

"You're suggesting that if your client just filed a few fraudulent documents, that's okay?" Justice Debra Lehrmann asked Timms.

"That's not what I'd call it," Timms answered.

Justice Don Willett asked Timms: "How would a court craft a holding that would not incentivize or encourage deceit?"

The attorney replied: "It's not like we benefited in anyway from this," and the litigation "cost millions of dollars."

"With all these Railroad Commission filings, with all these public records, it's really hard to get away with anything," Timms added.

Body of sheriff's deputy found in lake

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Divers found the body of a missing Central Texas sheriff's deputy Friday, a day after her patrol car was found swamped by floodwaters minutes after she radioed for help while checking flooded low-water crossings.

Senior Deputy Jessica Hollis was found dead Friday afternoon in Lake Austin, an emotional Travis County Sheriff Greg Hamilton announced Friday afternoon. Hamilton said he had been determined to "bring her home."

Efforts to locate the deputy had been suspended before nightfall Thursday because of the storms, which were remnants of Hurricane Odile.

The National Weather Service forecasts more heavy rain through today over much of West Texas, with flash flood watches issued through Friday night. Rain fell Friday in Southeast Texas and elsewhere in the state, with high waters clogging roadways and impeding traffic in metro areas such as Austin and Houston.

Hollis, 35, a seven-year veteran of the department, was checking low-water crossings during storms. She radioed shortly before 2 a.m. Thursday to say her patrol car was being washed away in an Austin-area subdivision, Travis County sheriff's spokesman Roger Wade said.

Hollis' empty car was found a short time later, but she could not be located.

"We believe she was swept into the low-water crossing by water going down the street," Wade said.

Earlier this week, rainfall pelted parts of the state. In Plainview, about 45 miles north of Lubbock, 4.5 inches of rain was reported over 24 hours ending at 2 p.m. CDT Thursday.

"We are getting moisture from Odile," said Cory Van Pelt, a National Weather Service forecaster in New Braunfels. "We also got a lot of Gulf of Mexico moisture that came in, a combination of the two."

The Austin area received 5 to 7 inches of rain early Thursday, Van Pelt said. About 40 miles north of Austin, near Jarrell, a weather service observer measured almost 11/2 inches of rain within 30 minutes.

Austin-Travis County EMS handled three swift-water rescues in the region Thursday morning, Benavides said. No injuries were reported in those rescues.

This undated photo provided by the Travis County Sheriff's Office on Friday shows Senior Deputy Jessica Hollis. On Friday, officials said her body was found after she was swept into Lake Austin when heavy rains flooded parts of Central Texas early Thursday.

Baylor student board OKs concealed guns

Associated Press

WACO — Baylor University's student senate has approved a resolution that would allow students and others who have concealed handgun permits to carry their guns on the Waco campus.

It still needs approval of the Baylor board of regents before it takes effect. And the student body president, Dominic Edwards, could veto the measure over the next seven days.

School spokeswoman Lori Fogleman told the Waco Tribune-Herald that Baylor officials believe allowing the guns would create security challenges.

The resolution approved Thursday was written by 20-year-old senior Gannon McCahill after a student was killed and two others wounded in shooting this year at a university near his hometown of Seattle.

Texas law allows college students with concealed carry licenses to have guns in a locked compartment in their car on campus.

Three charged in El Paso mortuary scheme

Associated Press

EL PASO — Three people have been arrested on dozens of charges in El Paso after authorities found five bodies in various stages of decomposition at a funeral home and evidence of misconduct in the handling of bodies.

Last month, El Paso County Clerk Delia Briones found her unauthorized signature on a burial transit permit she received from a Portland, Oregon, mortuary service, authorities said Thursday. El Paso County sheriff's investigators said the name of Joseph Solis, owner of El Paso-based Mortuary Services Inc., also was on the transit permit.

Solis was arrested a week ago and now is charged with 37 counts of forgery and 35 counts of abuse of a corpse. He remains jailed under $405,000 bond.

Authorities determined his Texas mortuary services license was suspended in March after a complaint that he'd been forging the name and license number of a Houston funeral director to transfer bodies in and out of Texas, cremate or embalm them.

700 babies may be exposed to TB in El Paso

Associated Press

EL PASO — More than 700 infants may have been exposed to tuberculosis at an El Paso hospital over the past year by an employee recently diagnosed with the illness, health officials said Friday.

The employee, who worked in the nursery at Providence Memorial Hospital, tested positive on Aug. 25 and was placed on leave, but she may have exposed infants and about 40 other hospital workers starting in September 2013, said Dr. Hector Ocaranza, the health authority for El Paso County.

The bacteria that cause TB can lay dormant for months or even years before they grow and cause an active case of the disease, according to the El Paso Department of Public Health. The bacterial infection is spread through the air when someone sick with TB coughs or sneezes.

"This is an incredibly large exposure investigation, and it involves infants, so it is particularly sensitive," said Carrie Williams, spokeswoman for the Texas Department of State Health Services. "Babies are more likely than older children and adults to develop life-threatening forms of TB."

Hospital workers have been tested and officials are waiting on results, Ocaranza said. Letters were sent Thursday to the parents of the infants directing them to undergo screenings, which are being offered for free at the hospital. New Mexico health officials said at least 50 of the potentially affected babies live in New Mexico.

Ocaranza didn't say how the nursery worker may have contracted the disease, citing privacy laws. Employment and medical records were reviewed to determine which infants and hospital workers may have been exposed.

Williams said it was one of the largest cases of TB exposure that the state health department has been involved in. Ocaranza noted that TB is treatable and said the possible exposure at the hospital doesn't represent a public health threat.

The discovery of the infected employee also prompted an inspection of the hospital by regulators, who found several violations that could threaten the hospital's Medicare funding and posed "an immediate jeopardy to patient safety," said David Wright, deputy regional administrator for the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services.

Wright declined to specify the violations, saying only that they were in the areas of infection control, patient rights and management oversight. He also declined to say if the violations were related to the TB exposure.

The hospital has until Tuesday to submit a corrective plan. Wright didn't know how much federal money Providence receives, but he said that for some hospitals, it amounts to 60 percent of the operating budget.

Man attempts to run acquaintance off road

A Midland man is in jail after allegedly intentionally crashing into a female acquaintance's vehicle, which had a child inside, with his SUV on Wednesday.

Wright

Mickey Lamar Wright, 25, was being held on a $100,000 bond for the first-degree felony charge of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and $75,000 bond for the second-degree felony of endangering a child with imminent danger of bodily injury. On Thursday, Wright was charged in an unrelated event with the state jail felony of theft of a firearm, and bond had not been set as of Friday afternoon.

At 1 p.m. Wednesday, an officer was dispatched to the intersection of Mockingbird Lane and Whitman Drive to address two vehicles that were involved in a disturbance, after a black SUV allegedly rammed into a silver vehicle, according to the affidavit. The officer stopped the SUV on Courtyard Drive and made contact with the driver, identified as Wright.

Wright had been at the police department speaking with a detective and was on the loop when he saw the acquaintance, who also needed to speak with the detective, he reportedly told the officer. Wright said he followed the woman and attempted to wave her down to notify her about the detective but hit her vehicle in the process, according to the affidavit.

The officer then spoke with a witness who followed the SUV and said he saw the SUV hit the alleged victim's silver vehicle near Mockingbird and Whitman, causing it to swerve and almost leave the roadway, according to the affidavit. When the silver vehicle tried to drive away, the black SUV began to follow, the witness told police.

The officer also interviewed the alleged victim in the silver vehicle, who said she was driving on the loop with her child inside when she saw Wright, who then attempted to run her off the road, according to the affidavit. The alleged victim then said she kept driving to get away from Wright, but he made several more attempts to strike her vehicle before following her and ramming into her vehicle at the intersection of Mockingbird and Whitman, court documents stated.

The officer observed damage on the left side of the silver vehicle, and silver paint transfer and damage on the right side of the black SUV, according to the affidavit.

According to a second affidavit, Wright was charged again Thursday, this time stemming from a theft that occurred in February.

On Feb. 28, an alleged male victim reported $2,100 worth of items stolen from his vehicle, which might have been left unlocked, according to court documents. Included in the stolen items was a Beretta pistol, which was later found at Cash America Pawn after being pawned by Wright, according to the affidavit.

Officers made contact with Wright, who admitted to pawning the gun, the affidavit states.

If convicted, Wright faces between five and 99 years in prison for the first-degree felony, up to 20 years for the second-degree felony and up to two years for the state jail felony of theft of a firearm.

Teen charged with sexual assault of female child

An 18-year-old Midland man was charged Thursday in connection with the reported aggravated sexual assault of a female child younger than 14.

Day

Thomas Oliver Day is being held without bond for the first-degree felony. He is also being held on a $50,000 bond for second-degree felony of sexual assault of a child and an additional $175,000 for another first-degree felony charge of aggravated sexual assault of a child, according to the arrest affidavit. He was charged Nov. 26 and March 3, respectively.

The most recent charges were filed following a report from the alleged victim's older brother, who is also a juvenile, according to the affidavit. Court documents do not say how old the alleged victim is, or when the alleged assault took place.

The juvenile witness told a Midland Police Department detective that he saw Day put a stick inside his younger sister's private parts, as well as use his hands to touch her private parts and he showed the witness what he was doing, according to the affidavit.

Day has been in custody for about a year, according to the records office.

If convicted, each first-degree felony carries between five and 99 years in prison, and the second-degree felony carries up to 20 years.

Former Big Spring prison guards sentenced for suicide

Associated Press

ABILENE — Two former guards at a West Texas federal prison have been sentenced on charges stemming from an investigation of an inmate suicide two years ago.

U.S. District Judge Sam Cummings on Friday sentenced 45-year-old Frederick Hernandez, of Big Spring, to 10 months in prison and 42-year-old Christopher Moore, of Dallas, to three years' probation.

Prosecutors say both worked at the Big Spring Correctional Center, a federal lockup run by a private contractor, and pleaded guilty earlier. Investigators looking into the suicide of an inmate determined paperwork that showed required safety checks and inmate counts were falsified.

Hernandez said he signed the logs showing the checks were conducted even though he knew they had not. Moore acknowledged knowing the forms were false, but concealed the fact and failed to notify supervisors.

State Sen. Wendy Davis and Attorney General Greg Abbott answer a question during the Rio Grande Valley Gubernatorial Debate against Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott in Edinburg on Friday. For the first time since 1998, the Republican and Democratic nominees for Texas governor debated their positions in a South Texas setting.

DEBATE

race since 1990, when Ann Richards became the last female and Democrat to win the job. Democrats have made comparisons to Richards pulling off a late comeback that year, but time for Davis is quickly running out.

She has unleashed rounds of TV attack ads statewide by tapping more than $27 million in fundraising — a record for a Texas Democrat. A memoir Davis recently published revealed an abortion she had in the 1990s for medical reasons, and on the campaign trail, she has better harnessed the tenacity that first made her famous during her nearly 13-hour filibuster last year.

But Abbott still remains a big favorite, entering the final stretch with a 3-to-1 edge in cash to spend and double-digit polling leads.

Hours before the debate, Davis got a pep talk of sorts from the White House.

Vice President Joe Biden said "do not give up on that race" at a Democratic National Committee event in Washington. Hillary Rodham Clinton also mentioned Davis among a slate of female candidates this election year "who give me hope" while speaking at the same Women's Leadership Forum.

"If you have an extra dollar, give it to Wendy Davis. We're going to win that race," Biden said.

annual convention, a massive event that draws up to 50,000 people that is mostly designed as an exhibit and may include only a few booths with weapons.

Alice Tripp, legislative director for the gun-rights group Texas State Rifle Association, said that after initial worries, the group was satisfied the alcohol-sale rules would not have affected traditional gun shows, where hundreds or thousands of weapons can be bought or sold.

"It was never going to impact the traditional gun show," Tripp said. "Nobody that operates a traditional gun show, not the clubs, not the promoters, they didn't want it."

DALLAS

Nearly $200M in losses for Dallas pension fund

Bad real estate investments, including a luxury resort and vineyard in California, have cost the retirement fund for Dallas police officers and firefighters almost $200 million, according to a report by the fund's staffers and a consultant.

The failed investments that began in 2005 also include upscale homes in Hawaii and large tracts of land in Arizona and Idaho.

The fund's board listened to a presentation about the $196 million in losses by its staffers and a fund consultant Thursday. The presentation did not specify the losses, but The Dallas Morning News tallied the numbers and confirmed them with fund officials.

BALCH SPRINGS

Councilwoman investigated in 911 abuse

Balch Springs police are investigating a city councilwoman who they say called 911 to test the response time of officers.

Deputy Police Chief Jonathan Haber told KXAS-TV that Councilwoman Wanda Adams called 911 from a Dollar General store on Thursday. He said she told the officer she was testing them.

Adams said she made the call because the employees feared for their safety following a string of burglaries. She said their concern constituted an emergency. Adams said the emergency call was valid, but she was also interested in response times.

UNEMPLOYMENT

From 1A

200-job loss in the mining, logging and construction sector, especially since Odessa reported a 300-job gain from July to August. Guzman said the drop "reflects the data reported in the sample and is subject to revision. The 200-job decrease in mining, logging and construction for Midland was the first over-the-month decrease since September 2012 with a loss of 200 jobs."

So far this year, the sector has added 2,400 jobs, far more than the 1,400 jobs added in the same eight-month period of 2013, Guzman said.

"The annual growth rate for mining, logging and construction in the Midland MSA remains elevated at 13.1 percent. The average change for this industry in August is actually zero, so a minor swing in either direction is not entirely unprecedented," Guzman told Taylor.

For the 12 months from August 2013 to August 2014, Midland added 4,800 jobs for a growth rate of 5.6 percent. The mining, logging and construction sector added 3,200 jobs for a 13.1 percent growth rate.

Despite the August decline, Taylor said Midland's labor market remains healthy. Wages remain stable and the continuing low level of unemployment claims means residents are finding jobs, he said.

"The Permian Basin region still has over 257,000 in its workforce," he noted.

The region is looking for skilled workers from health care to truck drivers to educators and continues to go outside the Permian Basin to recruit workers, he said.

Taylor predicted that as the region's housing shortage is addressed and housing costs fall, more workers will come to the area seeking jobs.

"We have to make sure everyone is taking the right training and preparing themselves for the workforce, making good career choices. This is the place to turn your life around," he said.

Statewide, the unemployment rate moved higher, to 5.3 percent from 5.1 percent in July. But the state added 20,100 jobs during the month, and 395,200 jobs have been added over the year.

"Texas added 20,100 jobs in August, with the private sector showing steady monthly growth for well over four years," said Texas Workforce Commission (TWC) Chairman Andres Alcantar. "We encourage Texas veterans to visit their local Workforce Solutions office to take advantage of the many tools and services that allow them to translate their military skills and experience into good-paying civilian jobs."

Goods-producing industries in Texas accounted for a majority of the growth in August. Construction added 6,900 jobs over the month. Manufacturing employers added 1,800 jobs in August. Mining and logging increased by 4,500 jobs, and notably grew by 9.1 percent over the last 12 months.

"Every major industry in Texas showed positive annual growth and Texas employers added 395,200 jobs over the year, achieving an annual growth rate of 3.5 percent," said Hope Andrade, TWC commissioner representing employers. "I commend Texas employers for continuing to grow their investments in the Lone Star State."

While Midland reported the state's lowest unemployment, the highest was in McAllen-Edinburg-Mission at 9.8 percent.

For victims, settlement marks a step in recovery

Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Maria Lennon said she felt some relief when she heard the news Friday afternoon: A judge had finalized a $190 million settlement between Johns Hopkins Hospital and more than 8,000 patients of a gynecologist who used tiny cameras to secretly photograph women and girls during examinations.

Lennon had visited that gynecologist, Dr. Nikita Levy, for 15 years, and could receive some of the money. But for Lennon and many others, no monetary award can erase the ongoing shock, grief and fear.

"I feel vindicated," Lennon said Friday. "But my nightmares aren't going to go away."

Levy was fired from Johns Hopkins Health System in Baltimore in February 2013, after a female co-worker spotted the pen-like camera he wore around his neck and alerted authorities to her suspicions that he was using it to record his patients. Levy committed suicide days later, following a raid on his home that uncovered roughly 1,200 videos and 140 images stored on his home computers. No criminal charges were filed, after authorities determined that Levy did not share or distribute the images.

The Associated Press does not typically name possible victims of sexual abuse, but Lennon and others agreed to be identified.

Attorneys filed the class-action lawsuit last October, alleging that Johns Hopkins should have known about Levy's misconduct and put a stop to it. Hopkins agreed to a $190 million settlement in July, and Baltimore Circuit Court Judge Sylvester Cox approved the agreement Friday.

Lawyers for the plaintiffs have asked for 35 percent of the settlement. The judge is expected to rule on the request after a hearing next month. The settlement funds are expected to be paid by an insurer.

Lawyers said it is impossible to determine which of Levy's 12,500 patients were photographed because the images do not show their faces. As a result, all of Levy's former patients are considered plaintiffs in the case. Lawyers said between 8,000 and 9,500 signed up to join the suit.

The women's lead attorney Jonathan Schochor said he believes it is the largest single-perpetrator sexual abuse case on record.

"This result is truly historic, groundbreaking, unprecedented and extraordinary," Schochor said. "These women didn't run. They were brave. And now they're recognized as a very, very serious force in this city and all cities across the United States.

"We proved that this conduct will not be tolerated," Schochor said, "and that their damages will not be trivialized."

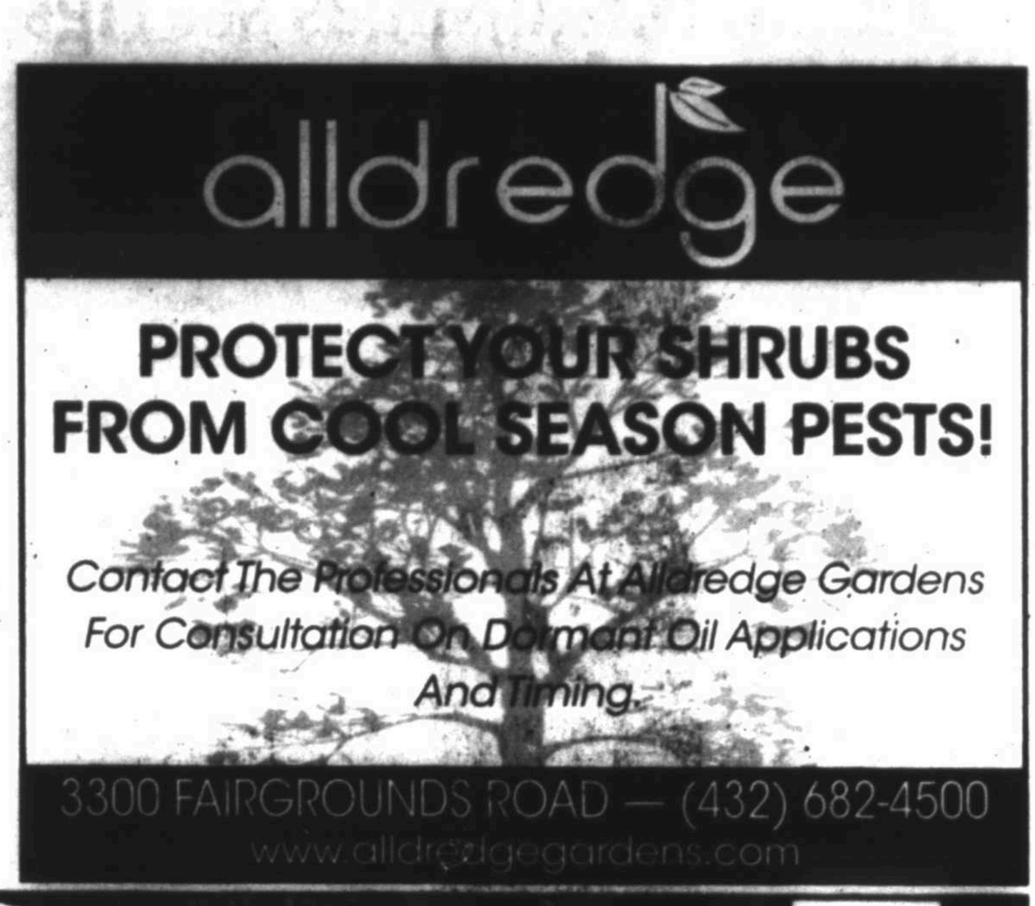
In 44 days the funds will be placed in an interest-bearing account and a team of attorneys, psychologists and psychiatrists will begin evaluating the women, who will each be placed into one of four categories based on trauma level. Those categories will dictate how much money each woman will receive. Lawyers said they hope to complete the evaluation process within a year.

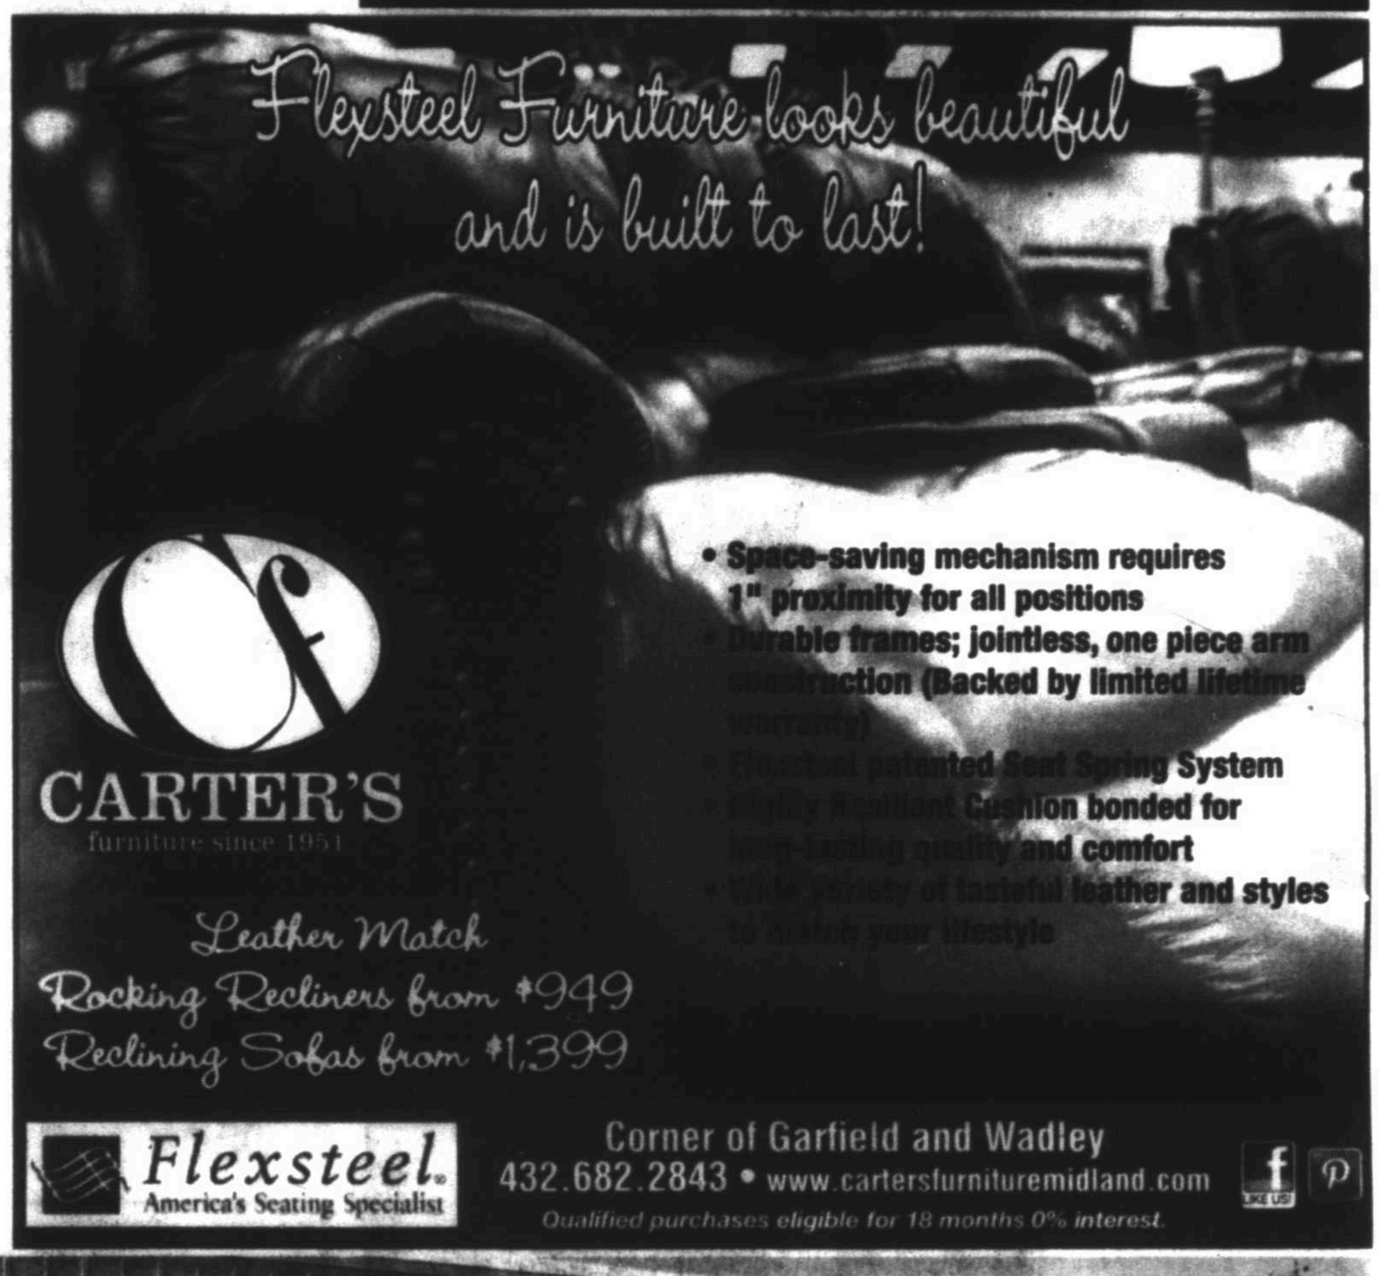
Schochor and Howard Janet, another attorney working on the case, said women told of Levy asking them to strip naked on the examination table and administering pelvic exams without gloves, among other instances of what Schochor calls "boundary violations."

"His examinations have been described as sexual in nature and not clinical," Schochor said, adding that many former patients told him that Levy would become "irate" if they tried to find a different doctor.

Lennon said throughout her years as Levy's patient, she'd always found him to be inappropriate and rude but didn't realize that what he was doing was wrong. Now, Lennon said, she is traumatized.

"I still feel eerie when I go to the GYN," Lennon said. "When I think about it I get chill bumps and want to throw up. Do I need to take a security guard to the gynecologist? Maybe I do."





Permian Basin sheds six rigs

From staff reports

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the Permian Basin decreased six this week to 560, according to the weekly rotary rig count released Friday by Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

In District 8, which includes Midland County, the count was unchanged at 332.

Texas had 900 rigs statewide, a decrease of five. In other Texas basins, there were 205 rigs in the Eagle Ford, up two; 66 in the Granite Wash, down one; 46 in the Haynesville, up one; and 25 in the Barnett, unchanged.

At this time last year there were 452 rigs in the Permian Basin and 836 in Texas.

The U.S. rig count was unchanged this week at 1,931. There were 1,601 oil rigs, up nine; 329 gas rigs, down nine; and one rig listed as miscellaneous, unchanged.

By trajectory, there were 378 vertical drilling rigs, up six; 1,341 horizontal drilling rigs, down one; and 212 directional drilling rigs, down five.

A year ago this week there were 1,761 rigs in the U.S.

The top five basins by rig count this week were the Permian; the Eagle Ford; the Williston with 198, up four; the Marcellus with 81, down two; and the Mississippian with 78, up one.

The top five states by rig count were Texas; Oklahoma with 215, up two; North Dakota with 189, up four; Louisiana with 113, down two; and New Mexico with 99, up one.

In the U.S., there were 1,856 rigs on land, up four; 13 in inland waters, unchanged; and 62 offshore, down four.

There were 58 rigs in the Gulf of Mexico, down four.

Canada shed 28 rigs this week for a total of 377. There were 202 oil rigs, down 20; 175 gas rigs, down eight; and zero rigs listed as miscellaneous, unchanged. Canada had 388 rigs at this time last year.

The total number of rigs in the North America region — which includes the U.S. and Canada — decreased 28 this week to 2,308. There were 2,149 rigs in North America a year ago this week.

Exxon to end Russian drilling project

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Exxon Mobil said Friday that it will wind down a drilling project in Russia in compliance with U.S. sanctions, but said it received a license to keep working beyond the sanctions' deadline in order to complete the work.

U.S. sanctions against Russia over its involvement in the Ukraine require the removal of U.S. workers on projects in the Russian Arctic and other select locations by September 26.

Exxon is drilling an exploratory well in the Kara Sea in the Russian Arctic, and had planned to stop drilling in October in order to remove equipment and personnel before winter set in.

Exxon said it has received a license from the U.S. Treasury Department for more time to wind down operations safely and close up the project before winter "to ensure a safe and environmentally responsible completion," said Exxon spokesman Richard Keil. "The license is non-renewable and no further work is permitted."

Unless the sanctions remain in place for many more months, they are not expected to lead to a delay in the Kara Sea exploration project.

The project is part of a broad collaboration between Exxon and the Kremlin-controlled Rosneft, Russia's largest oil company. The two aim to explore for oil and gas in technically challenging formations in Russia.

These formations are thought to hold large troves of hydrocarbons, but producing oil from them requires the type of expertise found at western oil companies such as Exxon.

Even if successful, the projects aren't expected to result in new oil and gas production for several years.

Fence jumper sparks evacuation

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Much of the White House was evacuated on Friday after someone jumped the fence at the executive mansion.

The incident occurred just minutes after President Barack Obama and his daughters left the White House on Friday evening aboard Marine One on their way to Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland where Obama and his family were to spend the weekend.

White House staffers and Associated Press journalists inside the West Wing were evacuated by Secret Service officers, some with their weapons drawn. A Secret Service agent at the scene said someone had jumped over the fence on the north side of the White House.

Those evacuated were later allowed back into the White House, but the area remained closed to pedestrian traffic.

Last week, on the anniversary of the Sept. 11 attacks, the Secret Service apprehended a man who jumped over the North Fence of the White House. Officers drew their firearms and used a service dog as they took the man in custody.

Congress backs Obama on aid to Syrian rebels

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama on Friday signed into law legislation authorizing the military to arm and train moderate Syrian rebels fighting Islamic State militants in the Middle East.

Obama acted a day after a Senate vote capped congressional action on the request, which passed by wide margins despite reservation about whether his strategy will do enough to stop the surging terrorist group, which has seized large swaths of Iraq and Syria. Congress will revisit the issue after the midterm elections.

Thursday's bipartisan 78-22 tally Thursday blended support from Obama's close Democratic allies and some of his fiercest GOP critics, including top Senate Republican Mitch McConnell of Kentucky. It put leading contenders for the 2016 GOP presidential nomination on opposite sides. Some of Obama's liberal allies defected.

The legislation also provides funding for the government after the end of the budget year on Sept. 30, eliminating any threat of a shutdown in the run-up to November elections that will seat a new House and decide control of the Senate. The House approved the bill on Wednesday.

Obama said Thursday that the support from both Republicans and Democrats "shows the world that Americans are united" in combating the Islamic State group. He said the militants thought they could frighten or intimidate Americans, but the Senate vote had showed them they were wrong.

"As Americans, we do not give in to fear," Obama said. "We pull together. We stand together."

U.S. troops would train Syrian rebels at camps in Saudi Arabia, though the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Martin Dempsey, said it could take a year before they would return to the battlefield in Syria. The arm-and-train authority only extends into December, and lawmakers are to revisit the issue in a postelection, lame-duck session.

Supporters of the proposal agreed that more has to be done to combat Islamic State extremists who are on the move in Iraq and Syria and shocked the world by beheading two American journalists and a British aid worker. The U.S. estimates the extremists can muster 20,000 to 31,500 fighters across Syria and Iraq, with two-thirds of them in Syria and the rest in Iraq. Terrorism experts say they are better organized and more dangerous than al-Qaida, which is lending urgency to the effort.

But opponents of Obama's strategy say it would hand weapons to shadowy groups that could prove untrustworthy and whose top priority is to topple Syrian President Bashar Assad.

"Intervention when both choices are bad is a mistake. Intervention when both sides are evil is a mistake. Intervention that destabilizes the Middle East is a mistake," said Sen. Rand Paul, R-Ky., who is considering a run for the White House in 2016. "And yet, here we are again, wading into a civil war."

Rebels fall in double overtime to EP El Dorado

By Chris Hummer
chummer@mrt.com

Aztecs	51
Rebels	44 (2OT)

EL PASO — Sometimes football isn't fair.

On a night Lee senior running back Aron Dobbins was everything and more for the Rebels; it's his fumble that ended up deciding the game in double-overtime.

Dobbins produced 325 yards of total offense, including 249 rushing, and three touchdowns. But it's a fumble that will likely haunt him in a 51-44 El Paso El Dorado victory Friday night at the SAC Complex.

Dobbins

The Aztecs threw the game-winning touchdown on 3rd-and-26 when quarterback , Austyn Hill lobbed a jump pass to 6-foot-4 wide out Torian Jordan, who reeled in the ball over 5-foot-10 corner Colton Cox.

It was on the next offensive play when Dobbins committed the fumble, tarnishing what would have been one of the best nights in a stellar career.

Twice previously, Lee had appeared to win the game in what proved to be a crazy contest. In the first overtime, Wesley Hall, who replaced starting quarterback Jon Schwalbach, threw a 25-yard touchdown on the first play of overtime. But the lead was short lived, as El Dorado running back Sergio Gonzalez scampered for a touchdown on the very next play to tie the game at 44.

In the waning minutes of regulation, Dobbins led the Rebels down the field in crisp fashion, with the drive culminating in a 2-yard touchdown run by the senior with 1:19 remaining.

But Lee could not hold its lead. A long kick return put the Aztecs on the Rebels' 49-yard line. Lee looked to have El Dorado stopped after a Ryan Dean sack would have given them 3rd-and-20. But Dean, who threw the quarterback to the ground, was called for unsportsmanlike conduct and it gave the Aztecs new life.

The Aztecs took full advantage, using most of the remaining time with a Hill pass to Cameron Covington tying the game.

It was not a pretty contest by any means for Lee. The Rebels committed six turnovers — three interceptions and three fumbles — and switched quarterbacks for much of the first half. After a Schwalbach interception early in the third quarter, Hall played the remainder of the game. The junior threw for 192 yards in the loss.

In total, Lee finished the

Bulldogs	28

One week after turnovers helped Midland High win, they doomed the Bulldogs on Friday night.

Midland High committed four turnovers against El Paso Franklin, two in each half, and the Cougars converted all of them into points in a 42-28 victory at Grande Communications Stadium.

El Paso Franklin is the second team from the Sun City to come onto Midland ISD's home field and win. The Bulldogs, meanwhile, were left frustrated after their first loss of the season.

"They had no turnovers, and that was absolutely a big part of the game," Midland High coach Craig Yenzer said. "We will correct those things. They are a good football team and hats off to Franklin."

During halftime of the game, running back Darius Reed was transported to Midland Memorial Hospital after he passed out in the locker room at halftime. Yenzer said after the game he wasn't sure on his status but did say he was taken to the hospital.

The Bulldogs outgained the Cougars (4-0) 535-404 in total yards, but the four turnovers will loom large in this game, including one just seconds into the fourth quarter when the score was tied at 21.

Midland High (3-1) had a pair of chances to take the lead in the third quarter and early in the fourth, but could not come away with points.

MHS drove to the Franklin 21 midway through the third quarter but Eric Haverstock could not hang on to a pass from a scrambling Ryan Goodrum in the end zone. MHS settled for a field goal but didn't get any points. Blake Boring connected on his first attempt but MHS called time out, and Boring's second attempt was blocked.

Early in the fourth, though, with the game still tied at 21 the Bulldogs were driving again and worked to the Franklin 8-yard line. But Franklin recovered a fumble on second down, ending another Midland High chance.

Franklin, meanwhile, turned that turnover into points by driving 92 yards in nine plays as Baylor Romney completed the drive with a 3-yard touchdown pass to Aaron Smith with 8:49 remaining in the game. It was the third time in the game the Cougars turned turnovers into points.

"We made some halftime adjustments and decided to spread them out a little bit," said Romney, who rushed for 136 yards and completed 15-of-20

Mustangs	35
Trailblazers	10

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

Justin Fender said his Midland Christian team played a little ticked off against El Paso Americas on Friday night, and it showed.

First of all, the Mustangs were coming off a humbling blowout loss to Calvary Baptist (La.) last week. And then there was the extra motivation of not many people picking them to beat a UIL Class 6A opponent in the Trailblazers.

The Mustangs used that fire and anger to play a well-rounded game in an impressive 35-10 victory over Americas on a beautiful evening for football at Mustang Field.

Fender rushed for 111 yards and three touchdowns, while quarterback Garry Powell added 208 yards passing to lead the Mustangs (2-1).

"That loss killed us inside and we knew we had to come out with fire and intensity like no other," Fender said. "I don't know how else to say it, but we were just mad. (The Trailblazers) were dancing on our

Goodell: 'Same mistakes can never be repeated'

By Barry Wilner
Associated Press

NEW YORK — More defiant than contrite, Roger Goodell announced no sweeping changes in his first public statements in more than a week of turmoil surrounding the NFL's handling of players accused of crimes.

The commissioner was definitive about one thing: He has not considered resigning.

Goodell was short on specifics Friday as he discussed how he would address the rash of domestic violence incidents in the league. He said the NFL wants to implement new personal conduct policies by the Super Bowl.

"Unfortunately, over the past several weeks, we have seen all too much of the NFL doing wrong," he said in his opening statement. "That starts with me."

The league has faced increasing criticism that it has not acted quickly or emphatically enough. The commissioner reiterated that he botched the handling of the Ray Rice case.

"The same mistakes can never be repeated," he said.

Goodell said he would meet with NFL Players Association chief DeMaurice Smith next week, and they would work with outside experts to evaluate the league's policies.

Among the areas that will be examined is Goodell's role in discipline. The commissioner now oversees all personal conduct cases, deciding guilt and penalties.

He will establish a committee

UTPB VOLLEYBALL TEAM SWEEPS HENDERSON ST.

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. — The University of Texas-Permian Basin volleyball team came away with a 25-17, 25-21, 25-23 victory over Henderson State on Friday.

The Falcons (4-9) were led by Caitlyn Guajardo who had nine kills on the day while Rachel Dixon and Ryley Carmen each had seven.

The tightest moment of the night for the Falcons came in the third game when Henderson State (1-9) tied the game at 23, but kills from Guajardo and Annelise Sanchez helped UTPB hold off Henderson State for the win.

UTPB'S RODRIGUEZ FINISHES IN TOP 10 AT UTSA RICARDO ROMO CLASSIC

SAN ANTONIO — UTPB runner Neraly Rodriguez finished sixth for the UTPB women's cross-country team end with a time of 19 minutes, 51.8 seconds in the 5K on Friday during the UTSA Ricardo Romo Classic.

The UTPB women finished fifth as a team behind Trinity, Tarleton State, Texas A&M International and Butler Community College

Brandon Summers of UTPB finished 16th overall in the 5K men's race, crossing the line in a time of 16:49.2. The Falcons also finished fifth behind Tarleton State, Trinity, TAMIU and Butler CC.

RUATA WINS 100 BREASTSTROKE

Alex Ruata of UTPB won the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 58.64 seconds in a UNT Pentathlon meet.

Other teams at the meeting included TCU and the University of North Texas. Ruata was the lone Falcon swimmer to post a top-6 finish on Friday. Ruata added a second place in the 100-yard individual medley with a time of 54.83.

FROM WIRE REPORTS

LPGA

YOKOHAMA TIRE CLASSIC: At Prattville, Ala., South Africa's Paula Reto birdied her final hole Friday for a 6-under 66 and a three-stroke lead in the Yokohama Tire LPGA Classic.

Reto had five birdies in a six-hole stretch on her opening nine — the back nine on Capitol Hill's Senator layout. The 24-year-old former Purdue player finished with eight birdies and two bogeys to reach 13-under 131.

Caroline Masson of Germany and Thidapa Suwannapura of Thailand were tied for second at 11 under. Masson had a 68, and Suwannapura shot 69.

Reto, Masson and Suwannapura will be grouped together in the final round.

Lewis, the 2012 winner in the event dropped from the schedule last year after losing its title sponsor, was third at 9 under after a 71. She had five birdies and four bogeys.

Sydnee Michaels, Alison Walshe and Moriya Jutanugarn were 7 under. Michaels shot 65, Walshe 68, and Jutanugarn 69. Former University of Alabama star Stephanie Meadow was 2 under after a 74.

Lexi Thompson, the 2011 winner at age 16, missed the cut with rounds of 70 and 78.

Champions

HAWAII CHAMPIONSHIP: At Kapolei, Hawaii, Tom Pernice Jr. birdied his final four holes for a 12-under 60 and a four-stroke lead in the Champions Tour's Hawaii Championship.

Pernice finished a stroke off the tour record of 59 set by Kevin Sutherland last month in the Dick's Sporting Goods Open in Endicott, New York.

Pernice played his final nine holes — the front nine at Kapolei Golf Club — in 7-under 29, also birdieing Nos. 1, 2 and 4. He had five birdies on his opening nine.

The 55-year-old Pernice, a two-time winner on the PGA Tour winner, won the Principal Charity Classic in June in Iowa for his third Champions Tour title.

Michael Allen was second after a 64.

Web.com

WEB.COM TOUR CHAMPIONSHIP: At Ponte Vedra Beach, Florida, Zac Blair topped the Web.com Tour Championship leaderboard at 12 under when second-round play was suspended because of darkness.

Blair was 5 under with three holes left in the round that was delayed because of rain. On Thursday, the 24-year-old former BYU player shot a 63 to match the record on TPC Sawgrass' Dye's Valley Course.

After missing the cuts in the first three events in the Web.com Tour Finals, Blair needs to earn about $40,000 in the season finale to earn a PGA Tour card.

The four-event series is limited to the top 75 players from the Web.com Tour money list and Nos. 126-200 in the PGA Tour's FedEx Cup standings.

The top 25 on the Web.com money list have earned PGA Tour cards. They are competing against each other for PGA Tour priority, with regular-season earnings counting in their totals. The other players are fighting for another 25 cards based on their earnings in the series.

PGA European

WALES OPEN: At Newport, Wales, Ireland's Shane Lowry shot a 6-under 65 to take a one-shot lead in the Wales Open, and Scotland's Stephen Gallacher missed the cut in his final tournament before his first Ryder Cup.

Lowry had a 9-under 133 total on Celtic Manor's Twenty-Ten Course.

Belgium's Nicolas Colsaerts and Dutchman Joost Luiten were tied for second. Colsaerts had a 68, eagling the 18th hole for the second day in a row, and Luiten shot 69.

SA Lake View 40 Greenwood 7

SAN ANGELO — Nick Martinez ran for four touchdowns as San Angelo Lake View had no trouble handing Greenwood its third loss of the season.

Lake View improved to 2-2 on the season as it totaled more than 400 yards in total offense. In addition to Martinez, who rushed for 81 yards and added a 68-yard strike to Brandon Lee for a touchdown, Anthony Chappa added 109 yards and a one score.

The Rangers (1-3) barely eclipsed 200 yards in total offense. Greenwood averaged a little more than 3 yards a carry on the ground and totaled 62 yards in the air on 17 attempts.

The Rangers have now stuggled over the last two games against Lake View, including last year, the Chief have outscored the Rangers 92-34.

Greenwood will celebrate homecoming next week in a non-district clash with Snyder.

Mayweather called before Nevada boxing commission

By Tim Dahlberg
Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — Once again, Floyd Mayweather Jr. has some explaining to do.

Nevada boxing regulators have ordered Mayweather to appear before them next week to answer questions about scenes aired on the Showtime network prior to his fight Saturday night against Marcos Maidana. Specifically, they want to ask Mayweather about two lengthy fights in his gym where neither fighter got a rest break, and another scene showing marijuana being used at his Las Vegas mansion.

"We all know TV is drama but our main responsibility is the health and safety of fighters," said Francisco Aguilar, head of the Nevada State Athletic Commission. "Before we draw a conclusion about what we saw on TV we want to make sure we have all the information."

Mayweather is shown on the "All Access" show promoting his fight cheering on two fighters at his gym who fought 31 minutes straight without taking a break. Mayweather explained on camera that the fighters would go until one of them quit, much like fights used to be in the early days of boxing a century ago.

"The dog house — the rules are you fight till whoever quits," Mayweather said.

Aguilar said he is concerned that fighters could be hurt by not having rest breaks and proper attention in the ring. He said it is the commission's duty to protect fighters, whether it is in sparring or in the ring during a real fight.

"I want to ensure that what they're doing is in the best interest of fighters," Aguilar said.

Mayweather will appear Tuesday before the commission both in his role as a fighter and a promoter. His Mayweather Promotions was licensed earlier this year to promote fights, and he has a stable of fighters who train at his Las Vegas gym.

Mayweather will also be questioned about a scene in the show where he watched as several women rolled marijuana joints in his home, though Aguilar said it was not his major concern. Mayweather did not smoke, but at one point told an assistant to go buy more rolling papers for the women.

Mayweather is listed as the executive producer of "All Access," a promotional series which aired in the weeks before the fight. He has talked often about Showtime allowing him to be in charge of content for the show, which shows him and his opponent preparing for their fight.

Mayweather was also the center of controversy a few days before the fight when he suggested that Ray Rice's original 2-game suspension should have been his only punishment, and that worse things than Rice punching his then-fiancee in an elevator happen behind closed doors in other people's homes. Mayweather later apologized for the comments, saying he shouldn't have been asked about Rice in the first place.

Mayweather won a unanimous 12-round decision over Maidana in their rematch to improve his record to 47-0.

passes for 165 yards and two touchdowns. "In the fourth quarter we came out with more energy and enthusiasm and it finally came together."

MHS went three-and-out on its next possession, and Franklin responded by driving 79 yards for a score as Romney broke free for a 21-yard TD run to put the game away with 2:52 left at 42-21.

"Turnovers were huge and they were game-changing for us," Romney said.

MHS rallied from a 13-0 deficit in the first half to tie it at 21 on the back of running back Reed. Reed rushed for 174 yards on 14 carries in the first half, including a 67-yard touchdown run. But the Bulldogs couldn't sustain the momentum in the second half as Raekwon Anderson and Ricky Hubert took over running back duties, and untimely turnovers made the difference in the second half.

"We had our chances in the third quarter, and we got guys open in the end zone and didn't make the play, and we had guys open on the crosses and didn't make the play," Midland High coach Craig Yenzer said. "I'm still excited and we are real explosive. I told them, 'If you weren't disappointed I'd be worried.' There's a lot of disappointment in that locker room right now, but I think everybody understands how good we can be."

From 1B

50-yard line before the game and we were like, seriously guys? (Coach Greg McLendon) wanted to us start fast, and so we came out and that's what we did."

The Mustangs set the tone on their first drive as Fender and Powell led the way with some tough runs. MCS capped off the 11-play, 68-yard drive with a 1-yard touchdown run by Fender.

"We had it our minds that we could win this game," Powell said. "There was no doubt in the locker room or in any of our minds. We had one job to do, and that was to come out here and start fast."

Meanwhile, the Mustang defense did a good job of bottling up Americas senior dual-threat quarterback Q Drennan, a University of New Mexico commit, to 31 yards rushing on 14 carries. Drennan was also stopped five yards short of a first down on Americas' first drive of the game to turn the ball over on downs.

"Coach (Mike) Mungia and Coach (Kenneth) Hines came up with a great game plan," said Fender about his defense. "We knew their quarterback ran draws and he likes to run. And we knew he threw the ball too. We had somebody on him the entire time and we knew we had to keep him in the box."

The Mustangs capitalized on the stop when Fender capped off a 71-yard drive with another 1-yard touchdown run to give MCS a 14-0 lead.

Another Fender touchdown run made it 21-0 early in the second quarter.

The Trailblazers finally answered when they had their best drive of the night midway through the second and finished it with a 20-yard touchdown run by Joshua Fields (120 yards rushing on 29 carries) to cut the lead to 21-7.

But MCS took a 28-7 halftime lead when the Mustangs scored on their fourth consecutive drive to start the game, as Powell found Zyan Burditt for a 39-yard pass and run.

Powell completed 12 of his 18 passes on the night to go with one touchdown and no interceptions, to go with 61 yards on eight carries to enjoy his best night in his young Mustang career.

"Garry can not only throw it but if somebody's not open he can just take it and run," Fender said. "He's such a good athlete and I'm proud of the steps he's taken and the leader he's become."

The win was exactly what the Mustangs wanted and needed after having a rough game in Louisiana.

"We played smart football, we started fast like I asked them to do," McClendon said. "We're a tough football team when we do that. We've still got things to fix and we probably got a little tired in the second half in some areas. But overall, I'm extremely proud."

GOODELL

to review NFL personal conduct, seeking experts in the area of domestic abuse and violence to serve on it. Goodell's role with such a committee was not directly addressed.

"Nothing is off the table," he said.

One of the key questions is how to balance the league's desire to take a stance against violent acts with the due process requirements — and the sometimes slow pace — of the legal system. Goodell indicated the league is considering becoming "engaged" in the investigation process while law enforcement is still handling its probes.

Goodell said he believes he has the support of the NFL's owners, his bosses.

"That has been clear to me," he said.

The commissioner and some NFL teams have been heavily criticized for lenient or delayed punishment of Rice, Adrian Peterson and other players involved in recent domestic violence cases. Less than three weeks into the season, five such cases have made headlines.

Vikings star running back Peterson and Carolina defensive end Greg Hardy are on a special commissioner's exemption list and are being paid while they go through the legal process. Arizona running back Jonathan Dwyer was placed on the reserve/non-football illness list, meaning he can't play for the team again this season. Ray McDonald, a defensive end for San Francisco, continues to practice and play while being investigated on suspicion of domestic violence.

Groups such as the National Organization of Women and league partners and sponsors have come down hard on the NFL to be more responsive in dealing with them. Congress also is watching to see how the NFL reacts.

NOW President Terry O'Neill reiterated her calls for Goodell to resign.

"NFL Commissioner, Roger Goodell today did nothing to increase confidence in his ability to lead the NFL out of its morass," O'Neill said in a statement. "What Mr. Goodell doesn't seem to understand is that he should be aiming to make fundamental changes in the organization."

Rice was initially suspended for two games. Goodell admitted more than a month later that he "didn't get it right" and announced tougher penalties for future domestic violent incidents.

After video emerged of the assault, the Baltimore Ravens cut the star running back and the league banned him indefinitely.

Goodell reiterated Friday that he didn't believe anybody at the NFL had seen the video before it was published by TMZ. The Associated Press reported last week that a law enforcement official says he sent the video to a league executive five months ago.

Citing Rice's appeal of his suspension, Goodell declined to specify Friday how the player's description of what happened was "inconsistent" with what the video showed — the commissioner's reason for changing his punishment.

The NFL asked former FBI director Robert Mueller to conduct an investigation into the league's handling of the Rice case. The law firm where Mueller is now a partner, WilmerHale, has connections to the NFL. Goodell insisted Friday that it wasn't a conflict of interest because Mueller himself has not previously worked with the league.

Goodell acknowledged he has learned that interviewing Rice and his now-wife together is an inappropriate way to handle a domestic violence case.

The commissioner declined to address whether any women were involved in the decision to suspend Rice for two games, but conceded that's "exactly what we're concerned about."

"We didn't have the right voices at the table," he added.

The NFL has since added domestic violence experts as consultants. It also announced it is partnering with a domestic violence hotline and a sexual violence resource center.

In a memo to the clubs late Thursday, Goodell said that within the next 30 days, all NFL and team personnel will participate in education sessions on domestic violence and sexual assault.

The league will provide financial, operational and promotional support to the National Domestic Violence Hotline and the National Sexual Violence Resource Center.

OU is making the most noise in the Big 12

OSCAR LEROY
oleroy@mrt.com

It was supposed to be a fairly quiet week in the Big 12 Conference with six teams being off, but then Texas Tech announced that defensive coordinator Matt Wallerstedt had resigned for personal reasons.

It wouldn't be a Texas Tech football season without some drama, and there are reports and rumors about the reason for Wallerstedt's resignation on Thursday. Many Tech fans would probably respond that giving up a ton of rushing yards on the ground through the first three games would have been sufficient.

How much Texas Tech improves on defense with former co-defensive coordinator Mike Smith taking over remains to be seen. And whether or not Texas Tech will be a factor in the Big 12 remains to be seen.

If there is a silver lining for the Red Raiders and their fans, it's that other than Oklahoma, Baylor and Kansas State, the conference seems a bit wide open after the big three. Every other team has some sort of question mark or key injury to address before they can be in a legitimate conversation for Big 12 contention.

It's still early in the season, but it's never too early to start thinking about how the conference stacks up after the first three weeks.

Here are my Big 12 power rankings:

1. Oklahoma (3-0, 0-0): The Sooners were picked as the favorites to win the conference by many, and so far they haven't disappointed. OU is coming off a 34-10 victory over Tennessee out of the Southeastern Conference and is in West Virginia today to play the Mountaineers in their first Big 12 game of the year. The Mountaineers have played better than most have expected, and Morgantown has been known as a tough place to play, so we should find out a lot more about the Sooners today.

2. Baylor (3-0, 0-0): The Bears would be higher, but they haven't really played anybody. Still, Art Briles has got it going on in Waco as the Bears have been rolling over opponents like they were playing JV teams. The offense is as explosive as ever, and the defense has looked solid so far. The Bears next head to Iowa State on Sept. 27, and Ames has always been a tricky place to play for visiting teams.

3. Kansas State (2-1, 1-0): Bill Snyder always has his Wildcats among the league's better teams, and this year is no exception. The Wildcats are coming off a 20-14 loss to No. 5 Auburn on Thursday night, but they showed they can hang with the country's best programs.

4. Oklahoma State (2-1, 0-0): The Cowboys' only loss this season came against No. 1 Florida State, 37-31, which tells you a lot about their potential this season. The bad news is that starting quarterback J.W. Walsh is out for an indefinite period of time with a right foot injury. But junior Daxx Garman has come in and done a pretty good job under center and is coming off a 43-13 victory over UT-San Antonio, where he passed for 315 yards and two touchdowns. OSU next hosts Texas Tech on Sept. 25.

5. TCU (2-0, 0-0): The Horned Frogs are determined to get past last year's disappointing four-win season, and so far they've played well, including a 30-7 victory over Minnesota last weekend. Still, the Horned Frogs haven't

Hill has Aggies off to perfect start

By Kristie Rieken

Texas A&M quarterback Kenny Hill throws a pass before a game against Rice in College Station on Sept. 13. Kenny Hill insists he wasn't daunted taking over for Johnny Manziel as quarterback at Texas A&M. He did, however, ask the 2012 Heisman Trophy winner and one of the most popular college players in recent history for some advice.

COLLEGE STATION — Kenny Hill insists he wasn't daunted taking over for Johnny Manziel as quarterback at Texas A&M.

He did, however, ask the 2012 Heisman Trophy winner and one of the most popular college players in recent history for some advice.

"He just said: 'Go out there and be you. You don't have to go out there and do anything crazy, just go out there and ball,'" Hill recalled.

So far he's done just that, leading No. 6 Texas A&M to a perfect start with a chance to improve to 4-0 for the first time since 2006 with a win today at SMU.

The ultra-confident 19-year-old burst onto the scene by throwing for a school-record 511 yards in A&M's season-opening win at South Carolina. He woke up the next day and realized his phone was broken and couldn't be fixed, so he tracked the buzz on Twitter — suddenly he had gone from unknown backup to one of the hottest players in college football. Manziel and others were calling him Kenny Football, a sensible nod to Manziel's "Johnny Football" nickname.

Except Hill didn't like that. He wanted his own nom de plume.

He went through a list of names and decided "Kenny Trill" was his favorite. He was stunned by the media attention his new nickname elicited.

"That was nuts," he said. "I get on Twitter and 'Kenny Trill' is trending on Twitter. I think it's just unbelievable that it took off like that."

Trill has long been used by Texas rapper Bun B, who calls himself Bun B Trill OG. Bun B tweeted about the nickname, saying he liked the idea of it but that Hill would have to do more to be "trill." Hill was floored that perhaps the most famous rapper in Texas addressed his moniker.

"I think at some point I can earn that nickname," he said, "To say that he likes the idea was pretty cool, too. Just to talk about my nickname, I think that's unreal."

If it were up to coach Kevin Sumlin, Hill would probably be called Kenny Chill.

Sumlin said he has seen his quarterback yawning in practice sometimes and simply shakes his head. But his serene personality helped him go on the road to South Carolina for his first start and not bat an eye in directing a surprising 52-28 rout of the Gamecocks.

FSU suspends Winston for entire game

By Kareem Copeland
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Top-ranked Florida State will face Clemson without Jameis Winston — for the entire game and not just the first half.

Florida State interim President Garnet S. Stokes and athletic director Stan Wilcox said late Friday night that the star quarterback will be suspended for the entire game today.

The Heisman Trophy winner was originally suspended for the first half after making "offensive and vulgar" comments about female anatomy on campus Tuesday.

"Based upon the results of our continuing investigation of Tuesday's incident involving Jameis Winston, we have decided to not play him for the entire game against Clemson on Saturday night," the school said in a statement.

Redshirt sophomore Sean Maguire will make his first college start.

Coach Jimbo Fisher has said the offense won't change with the strong-armed Maguire, but he has only thrown 26 passes for the Seminoles.

"You're not the second-team guy at Florida State if you're not a really good player," Clemson coach Dabo Swinney said. "Obviously, we don't have a ton of film on him, but he's a guy they recruited to be a great player."

The No. 22 Tigers start a more traditional quarterback in senior Cole Stoudt. Freshman Deshaun Watson will also see been tested and will not be until Oct. 4 when they play Oklahoma.

6. West Virginia (2-1, 0-0): The Mountaineers have been playing better than expected as they gave Alabama (a 33-23 loss) a run for its money and are coming off a 40-37 come-from-behind victory over Maryland. Senior quarterback Clint Trickett has been an improved and healthy player this season, and he's coming off an outstanding performance against Maryland in which he was 37-of-49 passing for 511 yards, four touchdowns and one interception. We'll see if the Mountaineers can move in the rankings when they host the Sooners today.

7. Texas (1-2, 0-0): The Longhorns showed a lot of fight, but a late touchdown by UCLA handed Texas a 20-17 loss at Jerry World last weekend. Despite the loss, the fact that they had a chance to win the game after a 41-7 humiliating home loss to BYU the week before had to give UT fans some encouragement. The bad news is that solid quarterback David Ash has given up football because of his concussion history and sophomore Tyrone Swoopes has to show that he can get the Longhorns into the end zone more.

8. Texas Tech (2-1, 0-0): Having to go with their sixth defensive coordinator in the past six years is only part of problem for Kliff Kingsbury and the Red Raiders. Tech hasn't looked good at all in come-from-behind wins against Central Arkansas (42-35) and UTEP (30-26). Tech then got gashed for 438 yards rushing in a 49-28 loss to Arkansas. We'll find out soon enough how telling the first three games were to the Red Raiders. Tech heads to Oklahoma State for a Thursday night game Sept. 25.

9. Iowa State (1-2, 0-1): The Cyclones are coming off a 20-17 victory over rival and usually underwhelming Iowa and competed well against Kansas State (a 32-28 loss) to forget a humiliating 34-14 loss to FCS power North Dakota State in the season opener. Paul Rhodes will have his Cyclones competitive, but they have yet to show that they can be a factor in the Big 12.

10. Kansas (1-1, 0-0): The Jayhawks are coming off a 41-3 loss against a solid Duke team, but you would expect them to be a little more competitive in Charlie Weiss' third year. Where this program is going is anybody's guess, but the Jayhawks needs to find more consistency on both sides of the ball if they want to make strides in the Big 12.

of those different environments helped, but his demeanor certainly helps because he's so calm," Sumlin said. "You don't want that out of your linebackers, but it probably helps him in a situation like that. (Offensive coordinator) Jake Spavital said he has zero nerves; that's about right."

His receivers love that about Hill and said it helps the team stay balanced no matter the situation.

"That's why we knew he would do so well because he has a sleepy demeanor to him," receiver Malcome Kennedy said. "A lot of guys will come out and look at him and wouldn't expect a threat from him, but he's just a natural baller. He has every trait of a quarterback you would want."

Hill beat out heralded freshman Kyle Allen for the job in camp. He feels lucky he was given a second chance.

Like Manziel before his first season as a starter, Hill was arrested. According to an arrest report, he was picked up on a public intoxication charge in a College Station bar district in March and gave police a fake name. He was suspended, but Sumlin reinstated him before camp and said Hill and Allen would compete for the starting spot.

"After that situation I thought that would be it for me and I thought Kyle would just get the job," Hill said. "But when he said that I knew I still had a chance and I just tried to make the most of my opportunities."

Now that he has the job he isn't planning on letting up. He knows that if he slips Allen could fill in seamlessly.

"It's pushed me to play hard every single day," Hill said. "I can't make a lot of mistakes because he's right there at my heels ready to take my spot. It keeps me motivated to keep working hard."

It's a work ethic he developed playing for Texas football powerhouse Southlake Carroll. He led the team to a state championship in the state's largest classification as a junior in 2011 by passing for more than 3,000 yards and 25 touchdowns and running for 1,400 yards and 24 more scores.

He said the pressure of performing at a school known for producing top-level college quarterbacks made his transition to starting at Texas A&M much easier.

"That helped me going into this just knowing I didn't have to be anybody else," he said. "Just knowing I could just go in and play as me and that would be enough. As of right now — how we're playing, it's enough right now."

Hill has done a great job of easing the pain of Manziel's early departure to the NFL and is off to a better start to his career. He is the only player in school history to throw for 1,000 yards (1,094) in the first three games of a season.

This week he'll return to the area where he grew up when the Aggies face the Mustangs in their first road game of the season. It's the first of two straight games in the Dallas-Fort Worth area with Texas A&M meeting Arkansas at the Dallas Cowboys' stadium next week.

Hill, son of former major league pitcher Ken Hill, is looking forward to playing in front of scores of family and friends this week, but has avoided the harassment of people begging for tickets. Although he's become one of the hottest names in college football, Hill was at the mercy of his parents when waiting for a replacement for his broken phone.

They finally brought him a new one, ending a more than two week span where the teenager was disconnected. His face lit up like a child on Christmas morning when talking about getting his new one.

"Oh my goodness," he said, "my parents brought that phone to me and I was immediately on it and didn't get off the whole night."

There was one problem, though: He got a new number and didn't have any of his contacts from the pre-Kenny Trill days. That might be a good thing.

"It's kind of nice honestly because I don't have a bunch of people blowing my phone up," Hill said before flashing a huge grin.

snaps after being ranked by multiple recruiting sites as the No. 1 dual-threat quarterback in the country.

Stoudt has thrown for 446 yards, one touchdown and one interception with a 63.3 completion percentage. Watson has thrown for 213 yards, four touchdowns, no interceptions with a 76.9 completion percentage.

The Tigers will run their hurry-up offense and emphasize tempo regardless of who's in the game.

"One is more of a decision-maker. He's not going to throw into tight coverage; he's not going to take the sack," Florida State defensive end Mario Edwards Jr. said. "The other one will force it. He's not scared to take chances."

Former powers Miami, Nebraska set to play

By Eric Olson
Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — Miami will play No. 24 Nebraska on Saturday night for the first time since the programs were finishing their runs of dominance, and the history isn't lost on today's players.

But to them, the game at Memorial Stadium is more about the future of two teams that haven't won a title of any kind the past decade.

"It's a big thing when it comes to playing Miami because of the tradition," quarterback Tommy Armstrong said, "but we're not looking back on that. We are just going to play like any other week and prepare the right way. It's a normal game for us."

There was nothing normal about the last five games between the teams, all in bowls. The winner in four of them was crowned national champion, most recently Miami after the 2002 Rose Bowl.

This is by far the most anticipated game on Nebraska's home schedule. It coincides with the 20th anniversary celebration for the 1994 national championship team, which defeated Miami in the Orange Bowl for the first of Tom Osborne's three national titles.

Osborne, as athletic director, set up the home-and-home series that winds up in Miami next year.

"There was no grand scheme behind it," Osborne said. "Miami turned out to be available, so we signed them up."

It was 2009 when the games were scheduled, and Blake James was still four years from becoming Miami's athletic director. James senses the nostalgia, though. He worked in administrative jobs at both Miami and Nebraska in the 1990s.

"I think they're some of the greatest times in Hurricane football history," James said. "And so, excited to have these two games set up."

What to watch for in the Big 12

Things to watch in Week 4 of the Big 12 season with a light schedule.

GAME OF THE WEEK: No. 4 Oklahoma at West Virginia. While six Big 12 teams are getting the weekend off before conference play kicks into full gear, the Sooners (3-0) leave the state of Oklahoma for the first time this season to take on West Virginia (2-1) in a league opener for both teams. The last time the teams played in Morgantown two years ago, the Sooners pulled out a 50-49 victory after Landry Jones threw his sixth TD pass with 24 seconds left. The Mountaineers, who opened this season with a tough 33-23 loss to No. 3 Alabama, are coming off a 40-37 win over regional rival Maryland on Saturday. WVU got a field goal as time expired after blowing a 22-point lead.

BEST MATCHUP: West Virginia QB Clint Trickett vs. Oklahoma defense. Trickett leads the Big 12 with 408 yards passing per game, with seven TDs and one interception. The senior has thrown for at least 300 yards in four consecutive games. The Sooners defense has more interceptions (six) than touchdowns allowed (four).

INSIDE THE NUMBERS: Oklahoma, coming off a decisive 34-10 win over SEC team Tennessee, goes for its eighth victory in a row. Bob Stoops tries to become the first coach to win 100 Big 12 regular-season games.

LONG SHOT: A lopsided victory for Kansas (1-1) in its last non-conference game. The Jayhawks are only slight favorites at home against Central Michigan (2-1), and have only an 8-6 edge in games against Mid-American Conference teams. Both teams are coming off lopsided losses, the Jayhawks 41-3 at Duke, and Central Michigan 40-3 at home to Syracuse.

IMPACT PLAYER: West Virginia senior receivers Kevin White and Mario Alford, who are 1-2 in the Big 12 in receptions per game. White leads the league and is second nationally with 10.7 catches per game, and his 153.3 yards per game is fourth nationally. Mario has seven catches a game.

Texas/Big 12 preview capsules

NO. 6 TEXAS A&M (3-0) AT SMU (0-2)
2:30 p.m. (ABC)
Line: Texas A&M by 33.
Series Record: Texas A&M leads 44-29-7.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

The Aggies try for their first 4-0 start since 2006, and need only 37 points to reach 200 points in the first four games of a season for the first time since 1917. SMU's home opener is its first game since coach June Jones' sudden resignation Sept. 8, after the Mustangs were outscored 88-6 in their first two games.

KEY MATCHUP

Texas A&M defensive front against SMU offensive line, which has two sophomores and a freshman starting. The Aggies have three sacks in each of its games, while the Mustangs have given up 13 sacks their first two games. Myles Garrett has already matched Texas A&M's freshman record with 5 1/2 sacks through the first three games.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas A&M: QB Kenny Hill is the first Aggies quarterback with 1,000 yards passing in the first three games of a season. He has thrown 139 career passes without an interception, including 117 this season.

SMU: Redshirt freshman QB Kolney Cassel makes his first career start with Neal Burcham likely out for the season with an elbow injury. Cassel, the kid from Washington, was limited by injury to five games as a senior in high school, then redshirted last season at SMU before playing in the first two games this season.

FACTS & FIGURES

SMU, which opened the season with a 45-0 loss at then-No. 10 Baylor, is playing two Top 10 teams in the same season for the first time since 1989, when the Mustangs played at No. 1 Notre Dame and No. 9 Arkansas. ... There have been 16 different players who have caught passes this season for Texas A&M, and eight of them have scored touchdowns. ... The Aggies will be in the Dallas market two weeks in a row. Their next game is Sept. 27 against Arkansas at the Dallas Cowboys' home stadium in Arlington, Texas.

NO. 4 OKLAHOMA (3-0, 0-0 BIG 12) AT WEST VIRGINIA (2-1, 0-0)
6:30 p.m. (FOX)
Line: Oklahoma by 10.
Series Record: Oklahoma leads 4-2.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

The Sooners head outside the state of Oklahoma for the first time this season in the Big 12 opener for both teams. West Virginia already has given one Top 5 team a fit when it lost to Alabama 33-23 in the season opener.

KEY MATCHUP

West Virginia WR Kevin White against Oklahoma's secondary. White is second in the nation with 32 receptions for 460 yards, including 216 yards last week against Maryland. The Sooners have yet to allow an opponent to surpass 100 receiving yards.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Oklahoma: WR Sterling Shepard. The junior caught five passes for 109 yards last week and will go up against a secondary in flux. Cornerback Daryl Worley, who has both of West Virginia's interceptions this season, has been suspended indefinitely after an arrest. But cornerback Ishmael Banks returns after being suspended for the first three games by the NCAA for an unspecified academic eligibility issue.

West Virginia: QB Clint Trickett. The senior has had a complete turnaround from a 2013 season in which he threw for seven touchdowns and seven interceptions in seven starts. He's surpassed 300 yards in his last four games, including career highs of 511 yards and four TDs against Maryland.

FACTS & FIGURES

The last time Oklahoma and West Virginia met in Morgantown two years ago also was at night and was a dandy. Landry Jones threw six TD passes, including a 5-yarder to Kenny Stills with 24 seconds left to seal a 50-49 win. ... West Virginia has had little trouble moving the ball this season but has had trouble finishing drives, coming away without points on six of 19 chances inside the 20-yard line. ... Oklahoma beat Tennessee last week in Norman, Oklahoma, and doesn't have another home game until Oct. 18 against Kansas State, a span of five weeks.

NICHOLLS (0-3) AT NORTH TEXAS (1-2)
2:30 p.m.
Line: None.
Series Record: North Texas leads 5-0.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Interim coach Steve Axman makes his debut for Nicholls a week after Charlie Stubbs resigned for health reasons with a 10-38 record in his fifth season. The Colonels will try to snap a nine-game losing streak in their final non-league game. North Texas wants to bounce back from a surprisingly poor performance in a 42-21 home loss to Louisiana Tech. It's the first meeting since 2002 for these former Southland Conference foes.

KEY MATCHUP

North Texas offense vs. Nicholls run defense. The Mean Green have struggled on the ground, averaging just 3.2 yards per carry. They have a chance to get well against the worst run defense statistically in the FCS. The Colonels are allowing 415 yards rushing per game, including 495 in a 73-7 loss to Arkansas.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Nicholls: QB Kalen Henderson was the leading rusher in a 27-10 loss to Division II foe Henderson State. He finished with 58 yards rushing despite four sacks and had 147 yards passing.

North Texas: RB Reggie Pegram has a team-leading 152 yards rushing after missing the final five games of last season with a knee injury.

FACTS & FIGURES

Axman has been out of football since 2011, when he wrapped up a five-year stint as offensive coordinator at Idaho. He was Troy Aikman's quarterbacks coach at UCLA in the late 1980s. ... North Texas wraps up a three-game September homestand, the first in school history. It's the first time since 1966 that North Texas didn't have a road game in September. .. North Texas is 122nd nationally in total offense at 242 yards per game through three games after setting a school record with 5,336 yards last season (411 per game).

Independent daughter wants less help from her parents

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I graduated from college, and I'm starting my first full-time job and moving into my first apartment. I bought all the furniture for it, but needed help moving in.

My parents decided to drive five hours to my new home to transport the furniture in a truck they rented — without consulting me. While I appreciate their help because I would not have been able to lift some of the items on my own, I feel they have overstepped the normal boundaries of parenting an independent 27-year-old daughter. They also decided they would spend the night in my apartment and sleep in my newly purchased bed without asking me.

Am I crazy for thinking my parents are not respecting my space? I don't want to be ungrateful, but I feel violated in some way. This is my first step out into the real world. — BECOMING INDEPENDENT IN ILLINOIS

DEAR BECOMING INDEPENDENT: How exactly did you plan to get the large items of furniture from point A to point B if your parents hadn't stepped up to the plate? They were attempting to help you as they always have, not violate you. Although they were mistaken, they assumed that after a five-hour drive plus doing the heavy lifting, they'd be welcome to stay the night and not have to check into a hotel.

Because that wasn't the case, you should have thanked them for their generosity and told them you had made other arrangements for getting the furniture transported and installed instead of resenting them for it. Your problem isn't pushy parents; it's that you didn't speak up in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 27-year-old single mom, career-focused and driven in what I do for my son and me. I want the best for him. He is 3.

I am having a hard time meeting someone who will accept the two of us. Men come up to me all the time at work or when I'm out, but once I mention that I have a small child, it's like they run and hide. If I wait and tell them later, they get upset that I didn't bring it up earlier. I have no idea what to do.

I am ready to settle down and be a "family" with someone. How do I fix this? What should I do? — LONELY IN SUGAR LAND

DEAR LONELY: You're doing nothing wrong, and nothing needs "fixing." A man who approaches you and then runs in the opposite direction when he learns you have a child, isn't interested in the kind of relationship you're looking for. He's looking for fun, not continuity.

So be honest about your situation from the beginning. While the idea of settling down is nice, you need to do it with someone whose priorities align with your own, and the men you have met so far don't qualify.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Sept. 20, 2014:

This year you often seem to hold in your feelings. Part of the reason is that you are perpetually evaluating different situations and your feelings about them. If you are single, you easily could get hurt if you remain so withdrawn. You will encounter someone very intriguing this year. Remember that everyone's sensitivities are different. If you are attached, the two of you need to be able to tune in to each other's moods and feelings. Your sweetie understands your sense of vulnerability. You both need to plan on special time together as a couple. LEO makes an excellent healer for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ You will be in the right mood for some fun. Letting off steam in your quirky way tends to make you and those around you feel good. A loved one might feel a little depressed. Only this person can change his or her mood. Tonight: Let out your inner wild child.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★ You might feel as if a loved one has rained on your parade. On the other hand, you are likely to gain some insight into why this person's behavior bothers you. Try to root out the issue. Perhaps you feel threatened or uncomfortable. Tonight: At home, making a favorite meal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Be ready to express your feelings with several different people. A friend or loved one might need to be told how much he or she is cared about. On some level, you could be tired of always having to assure others. Don't make it a big deal. Tonight: Favorite spot, favorite people.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Be aware of how much you have to offer, and refuse to be intimidated by a difficult person or situation. Do not put yourself down, as you are quite adored. A child or loved one could be ornery. Know what you want from a domestic situation. Tonight: Your treat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ You seem to radiate energy and excitement. Happiness is contagious. Demonstrate your compassion for someone in a way that means something to him or her. A domestic matter could be weighing you down. Let it go! Tonight: Let the good times rock and roll.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ You might want to see what is going on behind the scenes with a child or loved one. This person might be more on the fritz than you realize. Add a little excitement and nurturing to the moment, and you will witness a quick change. Tonight: Vanish while you can.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ You know what you want, and you'll be willing to verbalize exactly what you desire. How you approach a loved one could be much different than usual, as he or she could feel out of sorts. Unexpected behavior could throw a boomerang into your day. Tonight: Your choice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★ You will be much happier if you simply relax and do what you want to do. Refuse to hold back or get tense in various situations. Learn how to say "no" in a caring way, and others will respond in kind. Check out a new gym or exercise program. Tonight: Others notice you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You can't disappear, even if you try to. You are a prominent part of someone's life, and this person counts on you. Whether it is the child within you he or she adores or the person you are now makes very little difference. Tonight: Try a new type of cuisine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ Getting back to the basics counts. You can't escape how important it is to you to have a stable home life. Try to factor in more excitement to your routine, as that will be much better than the same old, same old. Tonight: Let a close loved one know how you are feeling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★ Defer to someone else. You might decide to veer in a different direction at the last moment. You will get quite a reaction! Unpredictability seems to be your middle name. A parent could be very difficult to listen to, but try anyway. Tonight: Go where you want to be.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★ Your perceptions might not be correct. You could be missing out on an important detail or two. Understand that sometimes you can't seem to see the big picture. You are likely to pull the wild card financially. Anything seems possible at the moment. Tonight: Pace yourself.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed Bid(s) will be received until 11:00 A.M., September 29, 2014 to be opened at 11:00 A.M., in the Office of the City Secretary City Hall, 300 N. Loraine, Midland, Texas for the following Bid(s):

RFP No. 8415-15

For Concession Management Services for the City of Midland Municipal Golf Course

If the Contract is awarded, it will be awarded to either the lowest responsible bidder, or to the bidder who provides goods or services at the best value for the City of Midland. In determining the best value for the City of Midland, the City of Midland may consider the criteria enumerated in Section 252.043 of the Texas Local Government Code. Information for Bidders, Proposal Forms, Specifications and General conditions for bidding may be obtained from the office of the Purchasing Agent, City Hall, 300 N. Loraine, Midland, Texas.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING
FAIRGROUNDS ROAD WIDENING
FROM PECAN AVENUE TO LOOP 250

The City of Midland will hold a public meeting to discuss the proposed improvements to Fairgrounds Road, from Pecan Avenue to Loop 250, in the City of Midland, Midland County, Texas. The public meeting will be held on:

Tuesday, September 23, 2014
6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.
Lee Freshman High School - Library
1400 E. Oak Avenue, Midland, TX 79705

The meeting will be held in an open house format. Maps and drawings reflecting the proposed build alternatives will be on display and staff will be present to answer questions. The open house meeting will be interrupted briefly for a formal presentation at 6:30 p.m. Citizens in attendance will be able to comment on the project and will have a chance to speak directly with the project staff.

The proposed project is needed to address increasing traffic volumes due to increased regional commercial and residential development as a result of energy sector growth.

The purpose of the project is to improve capacity of the roadway by providing additional through lanes as well as auxiliary lanes for turning movements. The additional capacity of the proposed arterial will facilitate the mixed use traffic, including those containing hazardous materials, and will be consistent with the City of Midland Master Thoroughfare Plan.

Maps and drawings reflecting the proposed build alternative and other information about the proposed project will be available beginning September 18, 2014, for public inspection at the City of Midland, Engineering Office, 300 North Loraine, Midland, TX 79702.

Verbal and written comments relative to the proposed build alternative may be presented at the meeting. All written comments must be submitted by 5:00 p.m., October 7, 2014, to Mr. Matt Carr, P.E., City of Midland, P.O. Box 1152, Midland, TX 79702, in order to be included in the public meeting record.

Persons interested in attending the public meeting who have special communication needs or require physical accommodations are encouraged to contact Shellie Mitchell at 432-685-7287 at least three (3) working days prior to the public meeting. The City will make every reasonable effort to accommodate these needs.

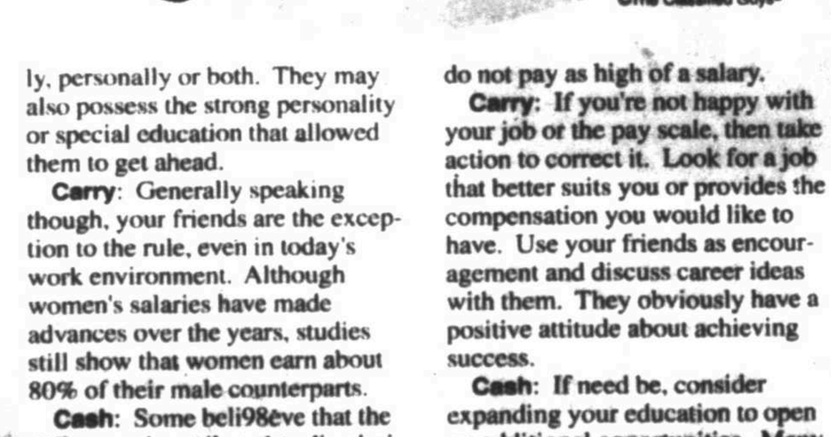
Ask the Guys

THE CLASSIFIED GUYS



Duane "Cash" Holze & Todd "Carry" Holze

09/21/14 ©The Classified Guys®

Dear Classified Guys,
For years I've been hearing television reports on how women don't get paid as much as men or how they don't get the same job opportunities. I have to say that this is not the case with most of the people I know. For most of my friends, the women have a job that pays far superior to their boyfriends or husbands. One woman is a marketing manager for a beverage company and she earns six figures. Another is a dance instructor earning more than her husband who works in computers. All of their jobs are making me disappointed to be a guy in the work force. I can barely make ends meet with my job and with this market I don't see mega opportunities in the classifieds lately. Has the work forced changed since people have been complaining about equality between men and woman, or are my friends just the exception to the rule?

Carry: Your guy friends should feel very lucky. Maybe when they go out to dinner, the women pick up the tab.

Cash: Before we address your job situation, let's look at your friends. Most likely, these women have made great sacrifices to get where they are, either professionally, personally or both. They may also possess the strong personality or special education that allowed them to get ahead.

Carry: Generally speaking though, your friends are the exception to the rule, even in today's work environment. Although women's salaries have made advances over the years, studies still show that women earn about 80% of their male counterparts.

Cash: Some beli98eve that the difference is attributed to discrimination. Others believe it is due to the fact that men and women seek different career paths. For example, men typically look for jobs with higher pay to support their family while women choose emotionally rewarding professions that do not pay as high of a salary.

Carry: If you're not happy with your job or the pay scale, then take action to correct it. Look for a job that better suits you or provides the compensation you would like to have. Use your friends as encouragement and discuss career ideas with them. They obviously have a positive attitude about achieving success.

Cash: If need be, consider expanding your education to open up additional opportunities. Many higher paying jobs will be available to you with more education or skills.

Carry: With a little work, you could land the perfect job. However when you go out to celebrate with your friends, you may end up paying for dinner!

Fast Facts

More Money

Who should stay home with the baby, Mom or Dad? It's often a question couples must address. A study, entitled "Behind the Pay Gap", used data from the U.S. Department of Education and found that 20% of mothers were out of the workforce only ten years after graduating college. Another 17% were only working part-time. The men of the same age were a different story. More than 98% of them were still working full-time and less than 2% had dropped to working part-time.

Top of the List

For the past twenty years Forbes Magazine has been publishing a list of the world's wealthiest people. This year's list, also known as the "Billionaire's Club", has a record 1,645 members with 268 newcomers. Only 172 of these members are women with 42 added this year. Topping the women's list is Liliane Bettencourt, number eight on the Forbes list, worth around 37 billion dollars. Her father was the founder of cosmetic giant L'Oreal. She is followed by Christy Walton worth 36.9 billion. Christy is family and heir to Walmart founder Sam Walton.

Class Trip

I took my third-grade class on a field trip to the zoo to see two elephants that were rescued. As we came across two men with a wheel barrel and shovel, I asked if they would mind explaining to the children what they did at the park.

Feeling rather proud, the first man stopped and told the class that he works with the new elephants on the front end. "I make sure they get the proper food and water so they're very happy," he explained.

Looking at the other gentleman, the kids asked what he did. "I work with the elephants as well, but in a different capacity," he explained. Leaning on his shovel he added, "I work the back end."

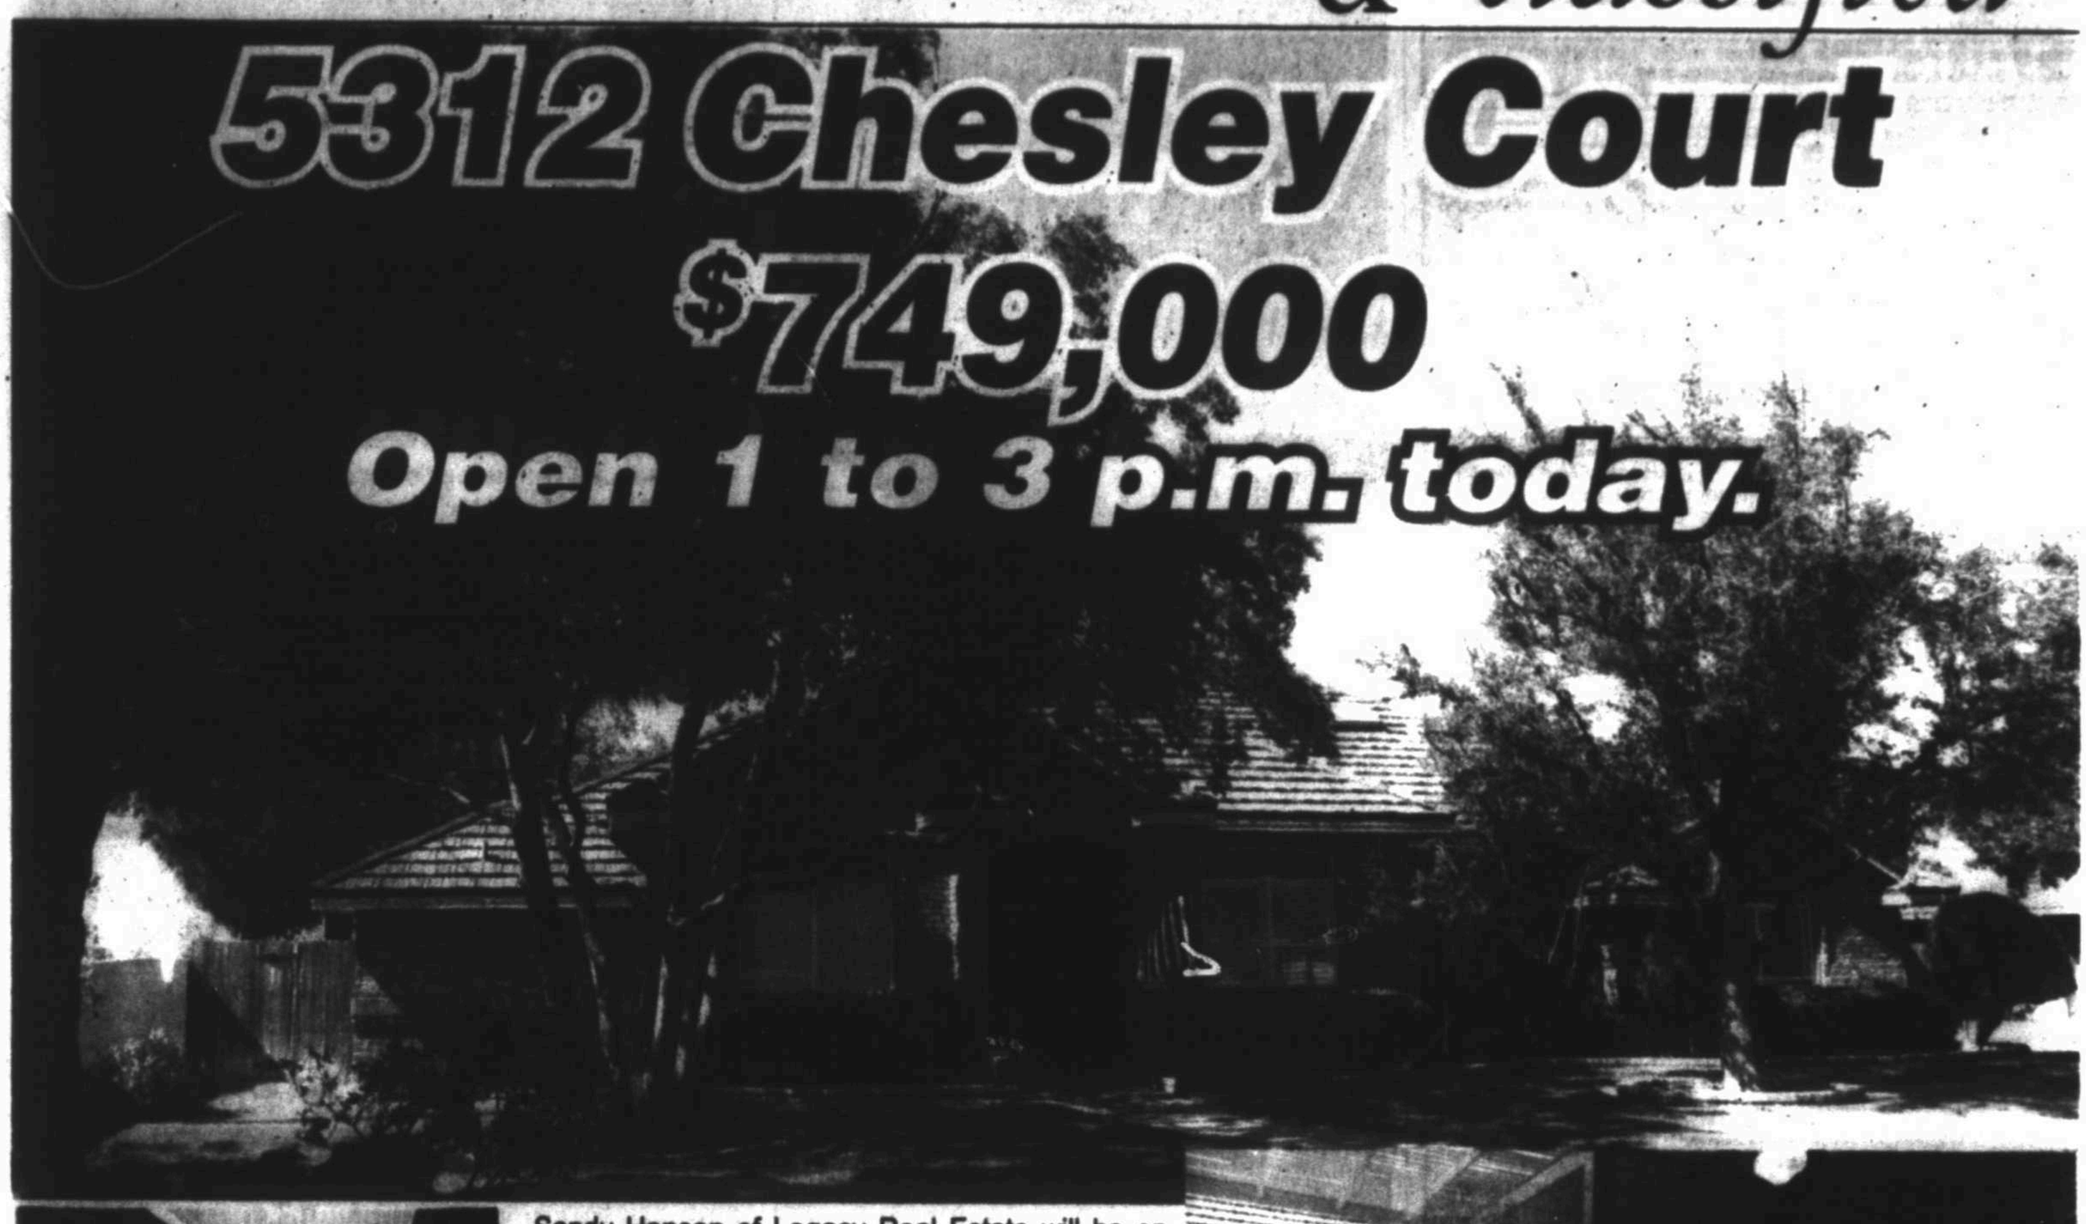
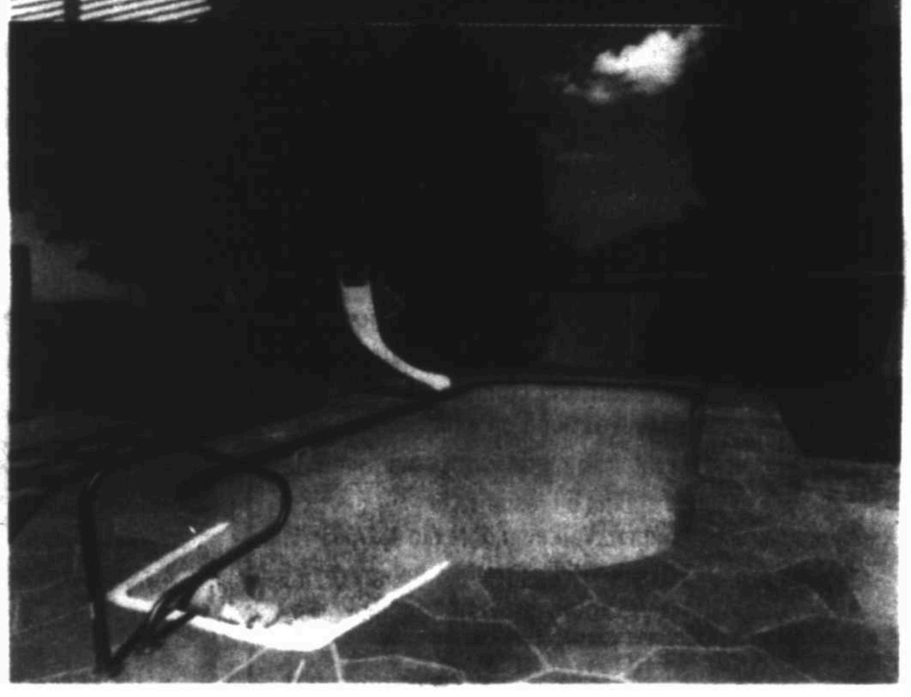
5312 Chesley Court

$749,000

Open 1 to 3 p.m. today.





Sandy Hanson of Legacy Real Estate will be on hand to answer questions and show you the great features of this home built for sheltering your family, entertaining your friends and enjoying the good life.

To schedule a visit, telephone Sandy Hanson at (432) 618-0613 or (432) 638-3819. You may also email her at sandy@sandyjhanson.com.

If location, style and amenities matter to you, 5312 Chesley Court in Green Tree North, might be your top choice.

This home, built in 1992, is a family-size wonder with sequestered bedrooms and plenty of bathrooms, a well-arranged updated kitchen and a yard to enjoy every day.

Located in Green Tree North on a sheltered cul-de-sac, Midland Drive and Holiday Hill Road are a few turn signals away and provide straight shots to commercial hubs and shopping. That said, open spaces and West Texas views are just a peek over the fence for the best of both worlds.

Chesley Court is a treed street and 5312 Chesley is home to oak, pecan, magnolia and pine trees. Sage, oleander and ornamental grasses are Texas friendly.

The living room is both serene and comfortable with space to entertain and space to relax. Paired with a formal dining room, the grand room construction means visiting and dining in style with the kitchen a few steps away.

The kitchen is a cook's delight with abundant cabinetry in a hand rubbed finish, granite counter tops, a coffee bar, work desk and Kenmore Elite appliances. The breakfast area adjoins the family room, which is blessed by a wood burning fireplace and bookshelves. Dignified crown molding completes the style.

A pocket door opens onto a short hallway leading to a carpeted guest bedroom and tiled bathroom.

Also adjacent to the family room is game room with wet bar, fridge and hearty stone fireplace. Doors open to the patio and pool and access a half bath for swimmers.

The carpeted master bedroom adjoins a tiled master bath that is filled with wow factors. Recently redone with teal glaze on the walls, granite counter tops, dropped shelving for air-cleaning plants, an oversize glass shower and skylight, the closets will surprise you. The U-shaped construction allows access directly to the outside hot tub, while providing access to 16 oversize built-in drawers and eight cabinet doors to store hot tub and pool accessories.

Children's bedrooms are joined by a Jack-and-Jill bath and if you have a princess, so much the better. Think pink on one side of the bath and think young prince on the other side with coffee, ecru and blue paint.

Outside, the pool with slide is surrounded by stamped Kool Deck to deflect strong summer sun. An oversize patio and pergola cooled by a pair of ceiling fans await.

Thinking practically, this home boasts a 40-year Decra roof, plantation shutters for interior cool, a dog run and extra space for offices, play or pets.

New homeowners may check with Green Tree Country Club for membership opportunities.

The new owner's bonus: Iconic West Texas views of blazing sunsets and distant pump jacks.

Bedrooms: 4, including sequestered master and guest bedrooms; Baths: 3 full, 1 half bath; Living areas: 3; Size: 4,421 square feet; Garage: 3 stalls
