WILSON OUTLINES THREE CHOICES

NOMINEE IN BRIEF CLEAR CUT STATEMENT DEFINES ISSUES OF CAMPAIGN

FEELS CERTAIN OF VERDICT

Says His Party is Sincerely Determined to Obey the Voice of Thoughtful Men Everywhere

By Associated Press.
New York, Nov. 2.—The following statement by Governor Wilson, Democratic candidate for the presidency, was issued today from the headquarters of the Democratic National committee:

"The issue is now clearly made up and goes to the people. I, for one, do not doubt the verdict. The voters must take one or another of three choices.

"First. Entrust again the government to the regular Republican party which always begins a campaign with promises of action and then always at the end draws back and warns against, to attempt anything at all for fear it should not satisfy those who control credit and whom it has so long permitted to act as trustees for the people in every matter of policy.

"Second. Place the guidance of their affairs in the hands of men who are searching about for some new manner in which to perform old duties, all along, plain and imperative, which can be easily performed without the invention of new methods. For example, without shifting the whole energy and initiative of the government.

"Third. Go forward without postponement or experiment or confusion, to effect the reforms which the whole country waits for and which all parties by the ordinary process of the instrumentality of a great established and undivided party, clear and explicit as to its purposes, willing to have us rest our powers in of legislation; willing to be guided by the common counsel of the nation as a whole, the plain people with the rest, regardless of every interest, the little as well as the big, because connected with every interest by sympathy and comprehension, and soberly determined to obey the voice of thoughtful men everywhere, by a carefully considered force of moderate yet courageous reform. The mere statement of the choice is a prediction.
We shall trust ourselves and let the little group of discoverers who would have us rest our powers in dered, Miss Sofia Singer, the Baltimore heiress, to trust us also."

Governor Wilson indicated in speeches tonight, on behalf of the Democratic legislative ticket of New Jersey, that even if he is elected President of the United States next Tuesday he will continue to act as governor of New Jersey perhaps until next March.

"I have not stopped being governor yet," he said before an enthusiastic crowd here, "and it is my ambition to be associated with the legislature of New Jersey which meets next January in doing some further things in setting the people of New Jersey free of private and special interests."

The governor declared that in the midst of an era of reform, New Jersey voters had obstructed his aims in their behalf by making both legislative Houses Republican in 1912. He appealed for a Democratic legislature to enable him in the session which begins January 1 to continue his program of reform, which he said had not yet been completed.

Mr. Wilson also urged a Democratic legislature so as to add William Hughes to the list of Democrats in the United States Senate. The nominee said that if it were a matter of personal choice with him as between the presidency on the one hand and a congress of opposite political complexion he would prefer not to be elected president.

"It would be desperately lonely," he said, "without a Democratic House and Senate. I can think of nothing more heart-breaking to a man than to be in the position of knowing what ought to be done in the country and be powerless to do it."

The governor motored from Long Branch to Threshold and Red Bank to make other speeches along similar lines.

Ten Spans of L. & N. Bridge Burned Special to the Times.

St. Louis, Nov. 2.—Ten spans of the Louisville & Nashville two mile bridge across the bay of St. Louis were destroyed by fire this afternoon.
A stiff north wind was blowing and the fire was under control. The fire was discovered after the passage of a southbound passenger train. A large force of men was put to work and trains will be running by tomorrow.

NO ARRESTS YET FOR EXPECTORATING

If Ordinance is Being More Rigidly Enforced it is Not Apparent

The city's announced intention to arrest and prosecute violators of numerous ordinances, including those against spitting on the sidewalks, swearing in public places and several others, had not resulted in any great number of arrests up to last night.
The jail was fairly well filled, but the victims were mainly those who had partaken too freely of chili tonic and other remedies.

A representative of The Times yesterday afternoon counted fourteen places on the west side of Ohio avenue between Seventh and Eighth, where someone had expectorated on the sidewalk, and if the ordinance was being enforced any more rigidly than usual it was not apparent to the naked eye.

Nine drunks faced Mayor Bell in the city court yesterday morning, each drawing the customary $10 per.
Among them was a well dressed young man who later was seen on the street gang, clad in patent leather shoes, a neat collar and tie and other sartorial delicacies, looking somewhat out of place but handling his shoval quite ably nevertheless.

Belmont Sells Stallion For $150,000.
New York, Nov. 2.—Rocksand, August Belmont's famous racing stallion, today sailed in regal style aboard the steamship Minnewaska for London.
Mr. Belmont, who sold Rocksand to a French syndicate of sportsmen for $150,000, was at the pier to bid his pet farewell.

TURKS' POWER NEAR ITS END

BULGARIANS FOLLOWING THEIR VICTORIES WITH DASH THAT IS SURPRISING WORLD

FEEBLE RESISTANCE

Is now Offered to Advance of Victory on Constantinople—Peace Negotiations On

By Associated Press.
London, Nov. 2.—After negotiations were proceeding in London with a view to bringing the war in the East to an end Sir Edward Grey, secretary of foreign affairs, today received the Russian, Austrian, Turkish and Italian ambassadors and the Bulgarian senators.

Only two lines of forts, both known as Echealla, one to the northwest of Adrianople the other stretching across the peninsula now stand between Turkey and total obliteration of her power in Europe. On neither of these lines can much reliance be placed.

So confident are the Bulgarians of their ability to overcome the shattered arm of Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, that part of their army is being sent back to Adrianople.
It will there complete the investment of that fortress.

There seems now to be no escape for the Turks. The Bulgarians are following their successes with a dash that surprises the world. They are now endeavoring to get a force of their troops between the routed Turkish army under Nazim Pasha and the Tchatalja line. This move would fulfill the two-fold purpose of putting an end to all Turkish resistance and stopping the defeated and maddened Ottoman soldiers from reaching Constantinople, where their arrival is so much feared.

If the Bulgarians' plan succeeds, they are likely to go to Constantinople where they will dictate their terms of peace, but the Bulgarians always have aimed at the occupation of the province of Adrianople.

War vessels of the powers are hurrying to the East to protect the Christians among the Turkish population.

Fleeing Turks Massacre Woman and Children.

Sofia, Nov. 2.—Bulgarian reports say that the Turkish troops during their retreat from Eski-Baba to Lule-Burgas, massacred two hundred women, old men and children in the village of Atvall. A number of the victims still were writhing in their death agonies when the Bulgarians entered the place.

Turks Burn Bulgarians Alive.

Sofia, Nov. 2.—Before evacuating Bunarhisar, the Turkish troops shut up two hundred Bulgarians in the barracks and set fire to the building, according to the Mir. All the Bulgarians perished. The Turkish troops, according to the same newspaper, are

ELECTION TURNED OVER TO VOTERS

CAMPAIGN NOW ABOUT TO CLOSE HAS HAD FEW PARALLELS IN COUNTRY'S HISTORY

CLAIMS OF VICTORY

Were Made by Chairmen of the Three Leading Parties Last Night

By Associated Press.
New York, Nov. 2.—The general election of 1912 has been turned over to the voters of the United States, according to the leaders of the three principal parties. A cessation of activity in all camps tonight, a recouping of strength for the final attacks Monday and an effort Tuesday by each faction to "get out its vote" marked the termination of a campaign conceded to have had but few parallels in the nation's history.

In all the states, polling places will open Tuesday with the attention of the country focused on them. There are few states outside the "Solid South" where results are conceded to be one way or another. Confident claims by Democratic leaders of a sweeping victory are met by emphatic assertions from the Republican and Progressive managers that they expect success, respectively for their presidential candidates.

The presidency and the vice presidency, the House of Representatives, the Senate, the local governments of many of the most populous commonwealths hang in the balance on Tuesday's election.

In New York the Progressive-Republican-Democratic fight for the State ticket has been so keen as to render the outcome uncertain until the votes are counted. In many states the introduction of Progressive tickets has broken up what had been a normal Republican majority, and has made the control of State offices an open question.

Within the last week complete polls of state and county leaders have been made from New York by the chairman of the three National campaign committees. Upon the prediction of success that has come from the various states, each of the party leaders claims at the conclusion of the last week of the campaign that their candidate for the presidency has the assurance of success.

William F. McCombs, Democratic chairman, asserted today that Gov.
Wilson will carry the nation by an "astounding majority."

Charles D. Hilles, Republican chairman, declared President Taft was assured of a majority in the electoral college.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon, Progressive chairman, declared "all indications point to a Roosevelt landslide." The presidential candidates rested tonight with their active participation in the campaign over. Governor Wilson will vote at Princeton and receive returns Tuesday night at his home there.

President Taft will vote in Cincinnati and remain there at the home of his brother, Charles P. Taft, until the results are known Wednesday morning.

Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay will vote early and devote the day to rest.

Each of the candidates will have a special wire telegraph force receiving the election returns. Senator Joseph M. Dixon, Progressive National chairman said:

"The nation will be astounded by the enormous vote for Roosevelt and Johnson next Tuesday. The election returns of four years ago count for nothing in the present contest. All indications point to a Roosevelt landslide. No one longer questions that.
Col. Roosevelt or Mr. Wilson will be elected. Taft certainly will be a bad third in the race with the Debbs pushing him closely for third place in Connecticut, Illinois and Indiana."

"The last ten days have seen a tremendous drift to Roosevelt in every part of the country. Facing political revolution as we do, there can be no certain yardstick of measurement as in former years. Based on most comprehensive reports from every state chairman of the Progressive party, it now seems certain we will carry twenty-five States, having a total of 297 electoral votes. Wilson will carry twelve states, having 130 electoral votes. Taft states, having a total of 104 electoral votes, I believe to be doubtful."

St. Louis Man Burned to Death.

By Associated Press.
St. Louis, Nov. 2.—W. T. Douglas, a local financier, was burned to death and twenty other persons were injured in a fire which destroyed the Berlin Hotel early this morning. One hundred and fifty guests were forced to flee in their night clothes. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

STANDARD SELLS STOCK TO PIERCE

ST. LOUIS MAN, NOW IN COM-PLETE CONTROL OF WATERS-PIERCE CO.

PROBE WILL CONTINUE

Settlement of Suit Will not Stop Government Inquiry by Wickersham

By Associated Press.
New York, Nov. 2.—Announcement was made this afternoon that the Standard Oil Company had sold H.
Clay Pierce all of their holdings in the Waters-Pierce Company. This ends long litigation. Negotiations for the sale have been under way for several days, and pending their culmination the hearing to which the Waters-Pierce interests tried to oust the Standard Oil from control was adjourned from day to day.

The stock, with Pierce's present holdings, gives him complete control of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.
The price paid per share was not announced, although it is understood about $3,000,000 was involved.

The termination of the Stand Oil Waters-Pierce oil-litigation will not affect, according to officials here, the investigation by the department of justice to determine whether the deceitful dissolving of the Standard Oil Company is being violated.

The government is pressing the inquiry but because of its ramifications it is not yet possible to tell when a move would be made in the courts.

Close attention has been given to the fight of the Standard Oil and Waters-Pierce interests by Attorney General Wickersham. In addition to investigating the phases of the situation developed by the suit, the government is looking into a number of questions of absence of competition in certain localities.

The department, it was learned today, recently concluded an investigation of increased prices of oil and gasoline, which excited the suspicion of officials, but it was found to be due to the law of supply and demand, rather than to any understanding or consolidation of interests.

The inquiry is said to have indicated the great oil fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia are materially decreasing in production with no compensatory increase in the western field, while there has been a tremendous increase in the consumption of various oils, particularly gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil, due to the development of the automobile and the internal combustion engines and the use of oil for fuel by railroads, steamships and factories.

CITY PLAN FOR WICHITA FALLS

EXPERT MAY BE BROUGHT HERE TO LAY OUT PLAN FOR FU-TURE IMPROVEMENTS

KESLER IS SUGGESTED

Chamber of Commerce Will Ask Civic League For Its Co-operation

Plans are under way for bringing to this city some expert in city planning, such as Mr. Kesler, who is now at Dallas, to advise with the citizens regarding future improvements. The matter has been taken up by the Chamber of Commerce, which in connection with the Civic League, will endeavor to have Mr. Kesler, or some one else prominent in that line of work to come here and deliver an address.

Myles O'Reilly, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, is deeply interested in this subject, and will endeavor to have the new charter empower the city authorities to employ such an expert to work out a definite "city plan" for Wichita Falls. At yesterday morning's meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. O'Reilly brought this matter up, and it was agreed to bring Mr. Kesler here if possible.

Mr. O'Reilly believes, with many others, that Wichita Falls will eventually be a city of 100,000 population and he believes that the present is the time to prepare for her growth.
He points to the present experiences of Dallas and Fort Worth, which are scattered over wide areas and which were forced to spend large sums for Every Democrat Should Cast His Vote Tuesday

To the Democratic Voters of Wichita County:

On next Tuesday will be fought throughout the United States with the ballot the greatest political battle of modern times. The battle lines of the three dominant political parties are already drawn. The Democratic hosts, under the courageous leadership of Woodrow Wilson are in the open and are marching in solid phalanx to that long delayed and much deserved victory which is all but in our grasp. We are going to win. Wilson and Marshall will be elected. This is conceded on every hand. In fact our adversaries cannot even half heartily dispute it. Our leaders not only deserve the greatest electoral vote in the history of our party but likewise the greatest popular vote, to the end that they shall be clothed with the great prestige of national confidence.

It is the duty of every Democratic voter in Wichita county to go to the polls on next Tuesday and to vote the straight Democratic ticket from President to constable. You have the opportunity not often accorded to us of voting for winners. Many of our voters knowing the certainty of both the electoral and popular vote of Texas for Wilson and Marshall and knowing that the entire Democratic ticket is safe in Texas will content themselves with remaining away from the polls and later of bemoaning of how they would have voted had they considered it necessary to go to the polls.

Victories are never won by such half-hearted adherents. We cannot compel anyone to vote and, surely, no true Texan should have to be urged to exercise that highest prerogative of American citizenship, the right to vote, the right to select our public servants.

It is again imperative that we cast our full strength in Wichita county for our State Democratic ticket. Our representation in every convention in the State for the next two years depends solely upon the number of votes cast for Governor Colquhoun next Tuesday. We cannot count you if you stay away. Good intentions and deeds will not help us any. Let me therefore urge every Democrat in Wichita county to exercise your duty as citizens by going to the polls next Tuesday and voting the straight Democratic ticket from beginning to end. Let us be able to say on next March 4th that we voted for our great Democratic President—Woodrow Wilson and not be compelled to say what we would have done if we had gone to the polls. Let us not only each of us go to the polls to vote but to insist on your friend and neighbor doing likewise. We owe it to our leaders, to our party, ourselves and our country.

A. H. BRITAIN, Chairman Wichita County Democratic Executive Committee.

TROOPS READY TO GO TO CUBA

SOLDIERS "SLEEPING ON ARMS" AND TRANSPORTS HELD IN READINESS

NO ALARM IS FELT

Conditions in Cuba Where Menocal Won Sweeping Victory Not Disquieting

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—The preparation of the army transport at Newport News for immediate service is one of several steps taken already by the general staff to have the army in readiness for service in Cuba, should disorder arise demanding intervention. The transports are calculated to convey three regiments, and it is believed the soldiers could be landed in Cuba within nine days.

The three regiments already designated and forming part of the so-called "expeditionary force" of five thousand men are all in the eastern division, and mostly in the department of the Gulf. They also have received preparatory orders and the men are packed up and "sleeping on their arms."

Officials are careful to make it plain they do not expect it will be necessary to dispatch the troops, feeling much encouraged at the peaceful manner in which the Cuban election was conducted yesterday.

Four Transports Ready.

By Associated Press.
Port Monroe, Va., Nov. 2.—The army general staff has ordered four transports in reserve here to be prepared within four days for instant readiness to carry 2900 troops to Cuba.

Sweeping Victory For Conservatives.
By Associated Press.
Havana, Nov. 2.—The sweeping victory of General Mario Menocal and Enrique Jose Varona, the conservative candidate for the presidency and vice-presidency and of the remainder of the conservative ticket, appears to be fully confirmed by the returns received from the provinces of Cuba, during the night.

General confidence is felt that there will be no disorder but as a precautionary measure, the military occupation probably will continue until Monday.

hood of Timber Workers and his eight associates charged with murder as a result of the Grabow labor riots July 7, were acquitted this afternoon.
The jury took less than an hour to bring in the verdict.

HE CONFESSES KILLING WOMAN

IN STATEMENT MADE TO POLICE CAPTAIN CLOWN GIVES DE-TAILS OF KILLING

CLAIMS SELF DEFENSE

Alleges "Baltimore Heiress" Had Tried to Induce Wife to Sell Herself

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Nov. 2.—Charles N.
Kramer has confessed that he murdered Miss Sofia Singer, the Baltimore heiress, "amounted Police Captain Max Nothbar late this afternoon after he had questioned Kramer" or Conway, as he also was known, for three hours.

Both Kramer and his actress wife have made statements to the police, who consider their investigation done at an end.

Kramer, whose stage name is Conway, added to the statement made yesterday by his wife, Beatrice Ruth Kramer, known on the variety stage as the "Dorcas Queen." He said he knocked down Miss Singer in self-defense when she attacked him with a razor after he had spoken her for making, he said, a suggestion to Miss Kramer to go out and "sell" some more.

Kramer exonerated his wife from all blame in connection with the crime. The former clown, high diver and circus acrobat, paced her cell all night, begging for a word from the turnkey who refused to give him so much as a syllable. He heard his wife's outcries as she made her confession yesterday, but could not get information as to their cause, or what she said.

Today Capt. Nothbar began his systematic visit to Kramer's cell, occasionally saying, "Well, do you want to see me?" Finally, Kramer broke into tears and begged to be allowed to tell his story. First he pleaded to see his wife; it was not allowed.

"Don't send me back to that jail cell," he cried, "I'll tell it all." Kramer's story, differed from that of his wife only in the detail that he claimed self-defense. In justification, he said he never meant to kill Miss Singer, and that he bound and gagged her to prevent her making a outcry.
He said he took $35 from Miss Singer's purse and two suits of clothes belonging to W. R. Worthen, Miss Singer's fiancé, because he was penitent and slightly elated. He said his wife fled through an alley, he said, hoping to get away before Miss Singer revived, believing that she would not want to come into publicity by prosecuting him.

The man told his life history, after he ran away from home to join a circus. He said he had been convicted of horse stealing and that he had served an eighteen month sentence in a reformatory. Kramer, after promising to tell all, was confronted by his wife. He begged to be let go, from her own lips, that she had consented to what she knew.

The woman was brought before him weeping. Then ended his resistance.

"Yes, I did it," he said. "I killed Sofia Singer."

Kramer and the woman were then formally charged with murder. Worth-en is detained as a witness.
He said they packed their suitcases before leaving the rooming house.

"I am not convicted yet, and what's more, I won't be," he declared, assuming a defiant attitude as he was led to his cell. Kramer said he was born at St. Mary's, Ohio, March 2, 1886.
The inquest on the body of his victim will be resumed Monday.

"She wanted my wife to sell herself," he said. "She proposed that they meet two strange men," said Kramer.
I resisted this, and rebuked Miss Singer. We had some words and then she attempted to strike me with a door knob. I wrested this from her, and then she picked up a razor on my dresser and rushed at me. I struck her with the door knob. She fell on the floor and the razor dropped from her grasp. My wife had no hand in it. She had left the room before the assault occurred. I did not think that Miss Singer was seriously hurt, so I gagged and bound her to prevent her making an outcry. In this, I acted alone, also."

Conway then told the manner of his flight from the Indiana avenue boarding house. He said he did not hear of his victim's death until Tuesday morning when he read about it in a newspaper. Conway said the assault upon Miss Singer occurred between 8:00 and 9:30 in the evening. His wife had said it was 11 o'clock.

You Won't Wear Vaudeville Clothes

this season—not if you keep pace with the good dressers who set the styles. And that's not implying that there isn't life and snap in young men's clothes this fall either. You'll find plenty of vigor and dash when you come in to see these new suits and overcoats from the House of Kuppenheimer, but they're always within the bounds of good taste. Lots of older men like to wear these clothes too, gives them a touch of smartness and spirit. They look well on men of most any age. All Kuppenheimer clothes are guaranteed pure wool—that's something you can always take for granted. We've got a lot of good things to show you. Mayor Bell Explains Purpose of Bond Issue

To the Voters of Wichita Falls: The city council has submitted to you two propositions to be voted on November 5th.

One is a bond issue of twelve thousand dollars for sewer purposes. It is the purpose of the council to make many extensions of our sewer system, also to install an incineration plant in order that we may burn the city's garbage. This plant will cost about three thousand dollars. All will readily admit that will be a much better way of disposing of city garbage.

The other proposition is a ten thousand dollar bond issue for street improving. The real purpose of this is to light the streets of our city. As it is now the city is practically without a system of lights and consequently very poorly lighted. If you vote these bonds we promise you one of the best and most beautifully lighted cities in the whole South.

HARVARD CAPTURES PRINCETON GAME

Drop Kicking and Line Plunging of Brickley Were Important Factors in Victory

By Associated Press. Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 2.—Drop kicking and line plunging of Charles E. Brickley backed by well trained team-mates won Harvard football supremacy over Princeton after a lapse of a quarter of a century. The score was Harvard 16, Princeton 6. Brickley kicked two field goals and a goal from placement of 47 yards and battered the lines for longer gains than were made by any other players.

In addition he intercepted two Princeton goal line, where Hardwicke had the honor of carrying the ball over for the Crimson's only touchdown. Hardwicke kicked goal.

In the play which resulted in Harvard's touchdown in the last few minutes of the game, Brickley was carried helpless from the field and may not resume play before the game with Yale three weeks hence.

The Princeton score was the result of Harvard's inability to fathom new, beautifully executed, forward passes which covered a total distance of 53 yards and resulted in a touchdown by Walters. The Tiger touchdown was in the second period and up to that time Princeton had a trifle the better of the contest. In the remaining periods the Tigers were never in Harvard's territory and were entirely on the defensive.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 2.—Vanderbilt defeated the University of Virginia here this afternoon, 13 to 0.

MRS. LINDLOFF IS BITTERLY ATTACKED

Is Characterized as "Wholesale Murder Engine" by State Attorney

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Attacking Mrs. Lindloff bitterly, assistant state attorney Frances M. Lowe characterized her today as a "wholesale murder-engineer." He accused her of having sent her whole family into eternity that she might profit through insurance.

"And before her boy's body was cold," he added, "she sent her sweet heart to an insurance office to obtain blanks so that there would be no delay in the delivery of the money."

"She looked through her magic crystal 'ball of fate' and she read in its depths not the fate of her dupes, for she knew that, but she found there computations of her death-profits, gleaned from the demise of her own flesh and blood."

Mrs. Lindloff winced at the bitterness of the prosecution's denunciation and looked at her attorneys pleadingly. They tried to engage her in conversation but she refused, sitting agitated at the severity of the prosecutor's arraignment.

"You have heard a great deal about mineral poisons, and this, that and the other medicine," he shouted "I call your attention to the combination of poison and insurance. It was 'bad medicine' for all her kin."

Mrs. Lindloff then started to weep. Attorney Geurin demanded a verdict of acquittal for his client.

"The state ridicules her story," he said, "because they could not disprove it."

The case is expected to reach the jury on Monday afternoon.

Battleship Firemen Fatally Scalded

By Associated Press. Norfolk, Va., Nov. 2.—Two firemen on the battleship Vermont, M. C. Horan and R. M. Wagner, were so badly scalded last night when the head of a boiler blew out, that they died today on the hospital ship Solace. Four others were injured, H. W. Cramer being dangerously burned.

LAST DOLLAR RECEIVED FOR WILSON FUND

M. D. Rowe contributed a dollar to the Wilson fund and with his contribution it was announced that no more contributions would be received here. This dollar brought the total for Wichita county up to $319, which is $19 more than this county had been called upon to contribute. If it is found after the election that the National committee has a deficit of course, any Democrat who feels like it can send in a contribution to help make up the shortage.

Women Lose In Contest With Waiskey

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Scotch fathers, husbands and lovers, members of St. Andrews' Society of the District of Columbia, are practically in hiding today as a result of their decision last night to abolish women from their official banquet, because their presence would precipitate the absence of Scotch whiskey at the function. Indignant Scotch women are threatening reprisal. The vote for whiskey was against women was virtually unanimous and was taken after a heated discussion at the annual election of the organization.

Finch Found Guilty

This genius likes to sleep with his windows up and curtains as well, but he does not enjoy getting up early. His bedroom faces the east and his slumbers are disturbed by the early rising sun. He has attached weights to the curtains which are released when the sunbeams strike a sensitive plate attached to machinery which sets on a pawl releasing the weights. To check the sudden stop of the weights so that there is no unnecessary jar or noise in the working of the mechanism a spring holder has been attached.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ENDORSES BOND ISSUE

Committee Named to Get Out As Large a Vote As Possible On Date of Election

The bond issues which are to be submitted to the property-owners at Tuesday's election—$10,000 for street lighting and $12,000 for sewerage extensions—were heartily endorsed yesterday morning at a called meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Several other matters received attention.

Those present were President Huff, Secretary Forester, Messrs. Bell, Brin, Orth, Kell, Marlow, Carrigan, Taylor and O'Reilly. A committee was appointed to attend to the awarding of the $200 in agricultural prizes which the Chamber of Commerce agreed to give earlier in the year. The sum of $200 is available for these prizes, and the best records by members of the girls' tomato clubs, the boys' cotton and corn clubs will receive the awards.

The directors went on record as strongly favoring the bond issues and calling on the citizens to vote them next Tuesday. A special committee consisting of Messrs. Marlow, Brin and O'Reilly was named to get out as large a vote as possible, to carry the proposition by a large majority.

Mr. O'Reilly brought up the question of employing a landscape gardener for this city, as set forth in more detail in another column. The directors then adjourned.

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT IN THE KATY WRECK FRIDAY.

The Katy train which was wrecked Friday morning near Bonita, reached this city late Friday evening, after about six hours delay as a result of the accident. The precautions which the Katy took in rushing physicians to the scene from this city and other places were apparently unnecessary, as only a few of the passengers were injured, and these very slightly.

Several Wichitans were passengers on the train and some of these, chartered an automobile at Bonita, going across country to Bowie in time to catch the Fort Worth & Denver, reaching this city at 1:40. All were considerably jarred and shaken up by the overturning of the cars and consider it strange that injuries were not more serious and numerous.

OIL FIELD SHOWS GAIN IN DAILY PRODUCTION OF 2405 BARRELS OVER SEPTEMBER

DRILLED INTO SAND FRIDAY AND WILL BE GOOD FOR 125 BARRELS OR BETTER

That Company Has Average of 8300 Barrels Daily—October Total Over Half Million

Corsicana's Guffey and Keowan, Near Burk Burnett May Come in This Week

A daily production of 16,568 barrels is shown by the October field report for the Electra oil operations, these figures being inclusive of the Burk Burnett and Eeds wells. This is a gain of 2405 barrels over September, when the production was 14,163 barrels.

The Producers' company still has the big end of the production at Electra, with a total of 8300 barrels; a month or two ago the Producers and Corsicana were neck and neck, but the Texas company concern has drawn ahead. The Corsicana's production for October was 5728 barrels daily and the Guffey's 1390.

The total production for the month, based on these figures, would exceed the half-million barrels mark for the first time in the field's history.

Of the wells outside the Electra field, but included in the Electra figures, the Northwestern Oil company's No. 1 Eeds is making 95 barrels; the Corsicana's No. 1 Schmorcker 102 barrels and the same company's No. 1 Embury 125 barrels. The production is distributed as follows:

The Thornberry well has been abandoned for good this time, and the casing is being pulled. It was 2250 feet when abandoned.

Frank Crawley of Tulsa has been employed by the Guffey in its production department. The Fuel Oil Journal's correspondent has this to say of Mr. Crawley: "We all dislike to lose Frank Crawley from Tulsa, where he has been in the land department of the Gulf Pipe Line Company, and the Gypsy Oil Company for several years, but the J. M. Guffey Petroleum Company wanted him in North Texas. Hereafter people who desire to offer him holiday gifts, valentines and him steers can reach him through the postoffice at Wichita Falls, Texas. How the froth of oil for us, Crawley."

Northwestern Oil Company's No. 2, M. A. Eeds, which was dry in the Eeds sand, found another sand with what is said to be a good showing of oil, twenty feet deeper. Operations at the well were delayed by a fishing job and the sand has not yet been tested. There was considerable disappointment when this well found the Eeds sand dry and if it finds something only twenty feet deeper it will go far towards proving that section.

MEMBERS OF ORDER WILL BE GATHERED HERE FROM MANY DISTANT POINTS

COMING NEXT SUNDAY

Senator-Elect Will Speak at Woodman Unveiling and Methodist Church At Night

Members of the order of Woodmen of the World from many parts of Northwest Texas will gather in Wichita Falls next Sunday to attend the unveiling ceremonies at Riverside cemetery, at which Hon. Morris Sheppard of Texarkana, supreme banker of the order and senator-elect from Texas, will deliver an address.

There will be a parade from town to the cemetery headed by a band. The parade will form at Woodman hall, corner Eighth and Ohio and will march out to Riverside, where there are two Woodmen monuments to be unveiled. There will be but one ceremony, however, in the evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Sheppard will deliver his lecture on "Christian Citizenship" at the M. E. Church, South, and it is expected that some of the other congregations will disband so that their members may attend.

States have been granted for the occasion on all roads entering the city and many of the bridges in neighboring towns have notified John T. Young of this city that they will have large representations here. The Petrolia lodge will send seventy-five, its officers say, and there will be other large visiting delegations.

Mr. Sheppard spoke in Wichita Falls during his campaign for the Senate, but this will be his first public appearance in this city outside of that occasion.

Early alleged to have been a tool-dresser for Drake No. 1 back at Throckville, expects to leave shortly for Mexico to look over the oil field of the Southern Republic and he may drill a well down there.

The Sun Company's well on the Luke Wilson ranch in Archer county is down 1100 feet. There has been considerable caving and it now has a fishing job.

People Who Have Used Fowler's Stomach Wafers

EVERYONE PRAISES THIS GUARANTEED CURE.

Wherever Fowler's Stomach Wafers have been used we have hundreds of friends who have recommended it to their friends and insist on them trying it. It is simply wonderful the way this stomach wafer cures all forms of stomach troubles, from the mildest cases to chronic cases of years standing.

Fowler's Stomach Wafers are sold on a basis of "money back if you are not satisfied," and druggists are authorized to give you your money back when you ask for it. They are convenient to carry, pleasant to take and you are judge of their merit. Try them today and not how quickly they bring relief to your poor stomach. Placed in the mouth they are chewed up and swallowed—no bad taste. Fowler's Stomach Wafers work instantly and in cases of cramps, over-eating, gas, sourness and mild forms of stomach troubles the relief is immediate. In chronic cases relief is felt at once, but it takes longer to effect a permanent cure. These wafers are sold by all first class druggists. Trial size sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps by addressing Harry L. Fowler & Co., San Antonio, Texas.

You Can Save 25 Per Cent ON YOUR Winter Suit or Overcoat

Hundreds of satisfied customers testify to the saving of at least 25 per cent by buying their winter clothes here. We have a complete line of high grade and medium suits and overcoats, in all wool fabrics of black, blue, brown and gray colorings, and all of them priced one-fourth lower than any other house in the city can offer them for.

Men's and Women's Shoes

The special sale prices still prevail on our men's and women's shoes, and this certainly makes our store the cheapest place in Wichita Falls to buy high grade foot wear. We carry several of the best brands on the market, in blacks and tans, and white bucks for ladies, and can save you from 25 to 40 per cent of your shoe expense.

The "Turkey Trot" is amusing, no doubt to the Balkan allies.

"It's all over but the shouting." Come to the Times office on Tuesday night and read the bulletins. This invitation is made as broad as possible and no one is excluded. The Times will give the news whatever it may be, just as it receives it.

But one more day and then the battle of ballots begins. Get out your pol-lax receipt and be sure to vote. Texas now stands third in the list of states that have contributed most to the Wilson and Marshall campaign fund. It as many Democrats who voted at the July primaries will go to the polls Tuesday and vote, she will lead in the list of states in Wilson and Marshall majorities.

The Republican party, apparently has been making preparations for defeat for sometime back, judging by the fact that, after having placed a Republican in every Federal office or any consequence, they then placed them under the civil service rule. A nice job, that. But one that, with a Democrat of the right sort in the presidential chair, will not work out just as smoothly as the trick is expected to work.

Contractor W. M. Ross informs the Times he has completed and turned over to the owners twenty small cottages in the factory district during the past forty days, of an average of one cottage for every two days. Other contractors have been quite as busy in the construction of residences of a more pretentious pattern, and yet the supply is nothing equal to the demand.
Wichita Falls, without a question of doubt, is growing faster today than ever before in her history. Come to Wichita.

The articles appearing in the Texas press on "The Penitentiary System," by Will H. Mayes, who is to be our next lieutenant governor, are well worth reading and studying. They also go to show that the Democrats of Texas have made no mistake in selecting Mayes for that position. Should misfortune overtake our present governor, and remove by death the people can be assured that they have one who will be in every way competent to fill the governor's chair.
Both Gov. Colquitt and Mr. Mayes have spent considerable part of their lives in editing newspapers, and therefore no calling or profession that better fits a man to learn with accuracy and precision the needs and rights of the people.

Little has been said of it, but it is a fact nevertheless that a city election for the purpose of issuing $10,000 worth of bonds for additional sewers and $12,000 for street improvement, is to take place next Tuesday, Nov. 5th.
The street improvement bonds, it is understood, will be expended for adding more gas or electric lights in the business section. Only property taxpayers, either real or personal, are entitled to vote in this election, and they cannot exercise such privilege unless they have paid their city and county poll tax for the year 1911 prior to Feb.
1st, 1912. This election is to be held at the city hall. The proposition is a good one, and there is not much doubt but that it will receive the endorsement of at least 90 per cent of the taxpaying citizens, but this fact should not keep the voters away from the polls. The larger the majority in favor of the proposition, the better. Everyone interested in Wichita Falls growth, and prosperity should take time enough off to vote.

WHEAT WITHOUT WATER

Going dry farming one better, Prof.
Aaron Aaronsohn of Jerusalem, the director of the agricultural experiment station there, proposes to grow wheat without water; to grow it, in fact, in the most arid of desert regions and to produce a flourishing crop. According to those in this country who vouch for the claims, the secret of them lies in the production by the expert of a cross of wheat by using the original Palestine brand and some others that will grow in desert places.

This would mean the doubling of the wheat crop in this country and the production of wheat in the desert places of the earth. Unlikely as such claims are, it must be borne in mind that the keynote of vegetation lies in adaptation. There is no such thing as actual aridity, for in the desert places places of Mexico are grown cacti that store water enough in their frames to fill a railroad tank without a drop of rainfall.

As for the lack of nourishment in soil, experimenters are finding out that ground glass will grow vegetation very successfully. So that the new discovery may be one of worldwide value.—Baltimore American.

MEASURING LAND IN TEXAS

Texas surveyors, in computing areas and distances, use varas instead of yards, as taught in the books. A vara is 33 1/3 inches in length and 1900 varas make a mile. The common school boy and girl is taught that 12 inches make a foot, 3 feet a yard, and 1,760 yards, 5,280 feet, or 63,360 inches, make a mile; but when they go to measure land they have no use for yards, etc., for they have to deal with varas altogether. The yard mile is 26 2/3 inches more than the vara mile, as commonly used. They are taught at school that 4,840 square yards make an acre, but then they go out to survey they say that 5,545 square make an acre. The reason why we use the varas instead of yards is that when Texas was under the Spanish and Mexican rule they began surveying with the Spanish system, and when the Americans assumed control, in order to prevent confusion, they continued this system. But just why the English standard of measure is taught in our public schools instead of the one now in actual use, is more than we can understand. We believe it would be safe to say there is not one teacher in ten of our public schools that could tell you how many square varas in an acre, yet all the lands in Texas are measured in varas.

THE BANNER PLURALITY

What is Texas going to do to maintain her prestige as the banner democratic State? It is a distinction we have long possessed, and one that we can not lose in the matter of majority, but there are States contesting with us for the prestige of the banner plurality, if the preliminary polls count for anything.

For instance, the republican split has created such a condition that optimistic democrats in States like Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania are predicting pluralities in six figures.
It is difficult to conceive of democratic pluralities of such magnitude in States which have been giving vast republican majorities for twenty years but we have reached the period when surprising things happen.

If the Ohio Republicans split in the middle, however, and the democrats hold their lines steady, there is unquestionably a possible plurality for Wilson exceeding 200,000. The same is true of New York. A split in the middle of such states as Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and New Jersey would give some 100,000 pluralities.

Four years ago Texas gave a democratic plurality of 151,636; eight years ago, 105,558.

We can not hope for 200,000 plurality unless the democrats get out of the habit of remaining at home. We go to the primaries nearly 400,000 strong, but in November we count but little more than 200,000.

The people of the great Northern commonwealths vote. Ohio will go to the polls 1,250,000 strong, Pennsylvania, 1,400,000, New York 1,800,000, Illinois 1,300,000. Texas will drop far behind, possibly, with not more than 200,000 of all parties, although we have 650,000 qualified voters and 1, 000,000 men of voting age.

If we could send to the polls next Tuesday all the democrats who voted in July we could count on a plurality of at least 250,000, but from the present outlook about 175,000 is about as good as we can hope for.—Houston Post.

There is no question of doubt but that if all Democrats vote on Nov. 5 Wilson will get in excess of 200,000 majority over all opponents, but all who voted in the July primaries were not Democratic. They went in to the Democratic primaries to support the ticket from head to tail, but many have already forgotten that pledge and will either scratch the head of the ticket or vote for their choice.
They should not have gone into the Democratic primary unless they meant to keep the pledge. The only honorable thing to do under such circumstances, is either vote the ticket or not at all. Many will not vote at all.

The Times is in receipt of a telegram from William F. McCombs, general manager of the Woodrow Wilson campaign, urging this paper to join with other daily papers in the South in a campaign to bring out a full vote on election day. Mr. McCombs says a great democratic victory is practically assured on Tuesday, but that a majority of the popular vote for Wilson and Marshall is greatly desired.

This can be secured if the Democrats in the South will turn out and vote next Tuesday. Too many believe their duty done when they vote in the primaries as there is no doubt how any southern state will vote on election day. But every Democrat ought to go to the polls and by his vote help swell the popular vote for the Democratic candidates. It should be a personal, county and state pride with every Democrat. It would be a glorious thing for Wichita county if as many Democratic votes were polled on election day as participated in the primary. There is no reason why every Democrat who voted in the primary should not vote in the election. Let's roll 'em up for Wilson and Marshall.

The ballot to be voted throughout the state of Nebraska next Tuesday is exactly six inches in width and measures 8 feet 1-1/2 inches. Now those who have been, are yet perhaps, of the opinion that the Texas blanket ballot is cumbersome and awkward should feel like congratulating themselves that they are not up against an election law that forces them to vote a ballot almost as long as an ordinary rail, and so complicated that but few can decipher, and have any intelligent knowledge of how they voted, or who they voted for after having gone to the trouble to vote.

Germany Accepts Proposal

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Nov. 2.—Germany has accepted the proposal made by the French premier, Raymond Poincare, regarding the form which intervention in the Balkan situation by the European powers shall take, according to an announcement made by the foreign office here today.

The proposal does not contain any plan for the settlement of the Balkan situation. It is understood that the French proposal represents also the Anglo-Russian view. Therefore, as Germany is acting in accord with her allies, all the powers are united.

DEAD BODY OF MAN NAMED HAYNES FOUND

Message Received By Sheriff's Department From San Saba Asks to Locate Brothers

The sheriff's department received a telephone message from San Saba Saturday morning saying that the body of a man named Haynes who had two brothers living near Wichita Falls had been found in a pasture near that place. While communication was indistinct enough of it was understood here to learn that the man had evidently been dead a month or six weeks when the body was found. The dead man's first name or initials were not understood over the telephone nor were the names of his brothers here learned.

The sheriff's office telephoned to several men named Haynes living in this section but have not yet located the brothers of the dead man.

LATER.—A brother of the dead man was located near Iowa Park last night.

SUNDAY MORNING EDITION—WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 3rd, 1912—PART TWO

NUMBER 149

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Mrs. W. F. Weeks will be hostess to the Tuesday Bridge Club this week. The meeting of the Forty-Two club which was to have been held last Tuesday evening with Mrs. Orville Hullington, will be held next Tuesday. The Thursday Sewing Club met last week with Mrs. M. J. Gardner. The Altar Society will meet this week with Mrs. Frank Cullinan. Halloween parties without number were held Thursday and Friday and both young and old observed the autumn festival in elaborate style. Some of the hostesses decline to tell the s. e. what kind of refreshments they served. It doesn't do to be modest when the s. e. calls you up. Many of the ladies are anxious to see the city officials make good on their promise to enforce all those ordinances. Violations of some of them have caused discomforts in the past and it is hoped that an end will be put to it. Wichitans are interested in the wedding Friday night of Miss Panetta Wortham to Mr. Gehle at Austin. Miss Wortham has visited this city several times and has many friends here. October passed with very few weddings in Wichita Falls, but if several rumors are to be credited there will be many of those affairs before the winter is over. The Alamo Home and School Club will give a tea in the school building on the afternoon of Friday, November 8th at four o'clock. Everyone is invited to patronize this tea. An interesting program has been arranged.

MRS. ALLEN TO ENTERTAIN EPISCOPAL GUILD LADIES.

A social meeting of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd will be held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. H. A. Allen, 1105 Burnett street. All the Episcopal ladies of the city are cordially invited to attend.

MISS CLOPTON WILL BE HOSTESS TO HOUSE PARTY.

Miss Mabelle Clifton will have several out-of-town friends at a house party at her home on Eighth street for about a week, beginning next Thursday, and a round of gaieties is being planned for the visiting young ladies. Misses Mamie Whaley of Marshall, Mae Taylor of Fort Worth, Edna Panturnett of Fort Worth and Frances McCart of Fort Worth will make up the party.

NEW CENTURY CLUB HAS MEETING AT MRS. MCGREGOR'S.

Last Wednesday's meeting of the New Century Club was at the home of Mrs. W. M. McGregor, there being thirteen members present to take part in the program. The roll call was answered with facts about Venezuela and the study of Panama was then resumed, with Mrs. T. L. Toland as leader. Among the evening's features was a reading of one of Holmes' poems by Mrs. Gresham. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be at Mrs. Gresham's home.

MISS GORSLINE HOSTESS TO UNITY CLUB LAST FRIDAY.

Miss Esther Gorsline was hostess to the Unity Club at its meeting Friday, the members continuing the study of the play "Othello" with Mrs. H. B. Patterson as chairman for the afternoon. A paper by Mrs. J. C. Hunt on "Venice" was one feature of the afternoon's program the lesson for the meeting being Act III. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the program.

PRESBYTERIAN'S GATHER TO CELEBRATE HALLOWEEN.

The Scouts' headquarters at the First Presbyterian Church were the scene Thursday evening of one of the many Halloween parties, a number of the young people of the church gathering there. Ghost stories, bobbing for apples and similar timely diversions served to while the evening away. Refreshments which included coffee, doughnuts and other homely but delicious eatables were served, and the meeting was given a sure enough spectral thrill by the unheralded appearance of several ghosts. Those present included Dr. and Mrs. J. L. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dolman, Messrs. Joe Jones, Brewster and B. M. Bell; Misses Laura Bell, Fowler, Richie, Wright and Mrs. Uitz.

M. E. PHILATHEA CLASS HAS HALLOWEEN FROLIC.

The Philathea class of the M. E. Church, South, enjoyed a Halloween party in the basement of the church Thursday evening, about thirty young people being present. The rooms were bedecked in Jack-o'-lanterns and ferns in keeping with the occasion, and such games as bobbing for apples also served to make the guests realize that it was Halloween. A salad course was served, the table also being arranged in Halloween style. Practically all the members of the class and some of the older folks of the church attended and found it a thoroughly enjoyable affair.

ART LITERATURE CLUB MEETS WITH MISS CHILDERS.

The Art Literature Club met with Miss Childers last Tuesday. The roll call was answered with notes on Leonardo de Vinci, after which beautiful hand-painted covers for the club's year book were distributed, the work of Mesdames Hartsook and Robertson, which were highly appreciated by the recipients. Owing to the large amount of business before the club, the parliamentary drill was omitted and the program for the afternoon was carried out. Miss Seelinger read a paper on the "Biography and Best Picture of De Vinci," and a review was conducted by Mrs. Robertson on "Panama," from the first magazine of the Bayview course, which the club is studying this year. After the program was concluded the hostess, assisted by her mother and sister, served refreshments of cream and cake while Miss Kerr rendered a selection on the piano. Then the members, with many expressions of enjoyment, adjourned to meet next week with Mrs. Filgo. Those present Tuesday were Mesdames Harris, Gebhart, Robertson, Rountree and Carrithers, and Misses Bell, Childers, Seelinger and Kerr.

FIVE HUNDRED CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. FRANK BLAIR.

The Halloween idea predominated Thursday when the Five Hundred Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Blair and the decorations and score cards both reflected the spirit of the October festival. There were six tables of players and the end of the games saw the club prize awarded to Miss Dent and the guests' favor given to Miss Chamberlain. These favors were with heads, the mouth opening to form porcelain jaws. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Blair at the end of the playing. The following were present: Mesdames H. A. Allen, Fontaine, McGregor, Duke, Duval, Everett Jones, Bruce Smith, Reese, Tom Roberts, Zundelowitz, Gravens, Sammons, Gray, E. P. Greenwood, Short, Ted Smith, Inge, McKee, Cullinan, Haney, Misses Sherrod, Chamberlain, Dent and Allen.

MRS. SHORT IS HOSTESS GIVES HALLOWEEN PARTY.

The pleasant home of Mrs. E. H. Short at 1302 Burnett was the scene on Thursday afternoon of one of the season's most enjoyable affairs and Mrs. Short firmly ensconced herself in the ranks of this city's hostesses. Five Hundred was the diversion and five tables of players took part. The house was a veritable witches' cave, being darkened and decorated to typify the Halloween idea throughout. Jack-o'-lanterns, made with real pumpkins, lurked on every side and the Halloween idea was carried out in the score cards and the refreshments. The refreshment table was covered with red satin, and a real harvest scene was portrayed by its array. The afternoon's favors went to Mesdames Haney and Duval. The refreshments consisted of chicken salad served in miniature Jack-o'-lanterns made of apples, individual pumpkin pies, olives, sandwiches and coffee. The guest list included Mesdames T. L. Smith, E. P. Greenwood, Smith, Duval, Norton, Tom Roberts, Cullinan, Gravens, Ted Smith, Grisbam, Starns, Sammons, Haney, Binford, Fontaine, Allen, Frank Blair, Inge and Clint Wood, Misses Dent, Chamberlain and Allen of Fort Worth. Mesdames Fontaine and Inge assisted Mrs. Short.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH AID SOCIETY'S PLEASANT SESSION.

A very successful social session of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. E. Carey, 1609 Tenth street. A short business session was held, after which the members enjoyed the afternoon's social features. Piano music was pleasingly rendered by Mrs. Charles Montfort, and the Misses Lillian Bachman, Agnes Andres and Althea Friberg. A delicious two-course luncheon was served.

WELL KNOWN FREDERICK COUPLE IS MARRIED HERE.

Mr. T. S. Dickey, Jr. and Miss Lillian Irene Vinson, both of Frederick, were married Friday at 12:30 at the residence of Rev. Walter McKenzie. The groom is connected with the cotton oil mill at Frederick and is a rising, young business man of that city. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Vinson. They will make their home in Frederick.

WEDNESDAY BRIDGE CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. WHITE.

The Wednesday Bridge Club met last week at the home of Mrs. D. J. White on Tenth street. The house was decorated with Halloween effects and presented a charming setting for the several tables of guests who gathered to play. Mrs. Strih Moore of Petrolia won the guest prize, while the club favor went to Mrs. Frank Cullinan. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Luther Webb at the home of Mrs. Elmer Filgo on Tenth street. Those present Wednesday were Mesdames Piner Ayia, Binford, Gravens, Cullinan, Haney, Griffin, George Harrington, Luther Webb, D. L. Smith, Weeks, E. P. Greenwood, Loebe, Loebe of Dallas, Misses Dent and Leje White.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY WILL MEET NEXT SATURDAY.

The W. R. Scurry Chapter of the U. D. C. will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. P. P. Langford, next Saturday, November 9 at 3 p. m. The following is the afternoon's program: Roll call, answered by names of brilliant statesmen of the south; vocal solo by Mrs. P. C. Barron; reading, by Miss Louise Montgomery; "How the South Planted the Seeds of Independence," Mrs. J. W. Lee; piano solo; "The Organization of the Confederate Government," Mrs. T. H. Peery; "The Reunion at Macon," Mrs. G. D. Anderson.

MOTHERS' CLUBS JOINT MEETING AT HIGH SCHOOL.

In spite of the inclement weather, a good representation of all the mothers and teachers clubs of the city was present at the high school Thursday afternoon for a joint session. The feature of the evening was a very instructive lecture by Dr. J. W. Hill of the M. E. Church, South. The program was opened with a piano solo by Mrs. A. B. Huff, following which Dr. Hill was presented. Dr. Hill's talk was addressed partly to the mothers, partly to the teachers and partly to both. He recalled the saying that civilization is represented by the tripod of the home, the church and the school, of which the home was most important, he said; whatever contributed to the advancement of church and school benefitted the home and whatever injured the home harmed church and school as well, he continued, the home being the real foundation of civilization. Reciprocity between mother and teacher was essential, Dr. Hill said, to the proper education and development of the child. He cited instances where criticism and abuse of teachers and preachers by mothers had resulted very deleteriously to the child. Too many mothers, said the speaker, had to fight the old myth about their John and Jane being the most wonderful children on earth, and were not inclined to support corrective measures adopted by teachers. Dr. Hill expressed himself as favoring the rod of old when it was needed. On the other hand, he went on, the teacher should know of what the child has to deal with at home. At the conclusion of the lecture the president, Mrs. Lee said that members of mothers' clubs could feel proud that reciprocity with teachers had always been their rule. A vocal solo by Mrs. Carpenter proved as pleasing as all her renditions do. After the benediction by Rev. F. L. McFadden and a short business session, the clubs adjourned.

WICHITA FALLS CLUB WOMEN INTERESTED IN POLITICS.

Texas women may not have the right to vote but they are nevertheless a factor of no mean importance in politics. Right here in Wichita Falls the women are displaying more activity and interest in the vote Tuesday than the men, for there are two amendments to be voted on in which they feel an especial interest. One of these is the amendment to provide aid for Confederate veterans, their wives and widows. This amendment has enlisted the enthusiastic support of the Daughters of the Confederacy and members of that organization here are making an active canvass in behalf of its adoption. Husbands, fathers, brothers and sons of Daughters of the Confederacy have been made to promise that they will go to the polls and vote for this amendment. The Daughters are not stopping their canvass with members of their own families but are asking all their friends not to forget to vote for proper aid for these old heroes and heroines.

Two other amendments in which the women of Wichita Falls feel an especial interest are those providing for six year terms for prison officials and regulating the terms of the board of regents of the State University and other boards of trustees or managers heretofore or hereafter established by law. The purpose of these amendments is to take these state institutions out of personal politics and to make fitness for office the first consideration in the appointment of such officials.

Nearly two years ago this matter was taken up by the Civic League and resolutions were adopted which were later endorsed by the State Federation of Women's Clubs and were adopted by many other civic organizations throughout the State. A member of the Civic League was appointed a member of the committee on Civil Service Reform of the State Federation and has been active in the promotion of the movement throughout the State.

The resolution as adopted by the Civic League and endorsed by the State Federation follows:

"Whereas, our State institutions are erected and maintained by taxation levied alike on men and women, regardless of political parties or administrations, and

"Whereas, it has been the practice of incoming governors to oust the heads of state institutions and to appoint such new heads as will strengthen them politically; therefore be it resolved:

"1. That all state institutions be kept out of politics;

"2. That no administration of any state institution be changed on account of political preference or for any reason whatever except for the betterment of such institution;

"3. That where competent executives are now in charge of state institutions they be retained so long as the good of such institutions require their services."

Officers of the Civic League Saturday morning urged members of the organization to work for the success of the amendments and to ask members of their families who have a vote not to forget these important amendments when they go to the polls.

HALLOWEEN STAG PARTY AT FONVILLE HOME.

While witches and goblins were abroad on Thursday evening a party of "stags" was making very merry at the home of A. S. Fonville in Floral Heights. The party numbered approximately forty. "No ladies in the house" so read the invitations which gives a conception of the nature of the pleasant function. The Fonville residence was elegantly decorated for the event in Halloween effects and the tables especially were bewitching. Goblins leered and witches frowned at every point and the orchestra provided for the occasion rendered weird musical numbers to heighten the effect. After a general jollification the party seated themselves to a six-course banquet which continued well beyond the midnight hour special car service having been provided by the thoughtful host for his guests. The menu cards were unique and the favors consisted of cut flowers. Those present included the following: Clint Wood, L. C. Heydrick, T. J. Wood, J. E. Head, D. P. Talley, A. L. Huey, C. E. Menzie, H. J. Robson, W. H. Wallace, W. A. Reid, J. F. O'Donohue, Ed Moran, W. C. Gibson, C. W. Hendricks, W. G. Skelly, W. H. Felder, W. L. Dalton, Ted Smith, S. R. Stanforth, Harley Health, S. E. Bell, L. W. Gorbam, H. W. Gaston, I. W. Patton, C. E. Naylor, V. E. Stampfli, M. Smith, R. L. Yates, D. G. Whitney, J. J. Doll, J. H. Howell, J. C. Forester, J. C. Straus, A. B. DeFreese, A. M. Britain, J. D. Scruggs, A. R. Cotton and J. F. Hutson.

CEMETERY ASSOCIATION TO MEET WITH CIVIC LEAGUE.

A meeting of the Civic League will be held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Richolt, and the members of the Cemetery Association will meet with the League. Mrs. J. A. Kemp, president of the League, requests a full attendance at this session, as business of importance is to receive attention.

A HALLOWEEN MASQUERADE PARTY BY MISS HERRON.

Last Thursday evening Miss Gladys Herron was hostess to a Halloween masquerade party. The guests were admitted at the back door and escorted to the library by the two phoshs, Miss Mary Herron and Laura Hall. Here they enjoyed themselves with silence until all the guests had arrived then much guessing as to who were others were took place and the prize was given to Lee Hollingsworth for being the best disguised. It was a comical sight to see the disguised ones all at once. They were dressed to represent ghosts, witches, pumpkins, lettuce leaves, priests, babies, gypsies, an Indian maiden, clowns, cowboys, a Jew, the Queen of Hearts, etc.

Progressive peanuts was the game of the evening and ghost stories, giving for apples, fortune by leaves and other Halloween games were engaged in. All had their fortunes told by the pretty gypsy queen, Miss Louise Montgomery, who did her part exceedingly well. Mrs. Herron assisted by Mrs. T. S. Ford, served the refreshments, doughnuts, cake, sandwiches, olives, popcorn, peanuts, apples and chocolate to the Misses Audrey Adickes, Bernice Jackson, Helen Stone, Dorothy Richolt, Lillian Fain, Lillian Bell, Beryl Murph, Celia Stayton, Lucile Haggy, Nell Bullock, Tulsa

FOR DINNER IN WOODS

VARIOUS DAINTIES THAT BELONG TO THE PICNIC MENU.

Veal beef Always a Faithful Standby—Deviled Eggs Preferable to Plain Hard Boiled—Fried Potatoes Add Zest to Meal.

A veal loaf is always appetizing in the woods. An excellent recipe is: Three pounds of veal is best—mixed with three well-beaten eggs, into which is stirred a grated nutmeg, a table-spoon each of black pepper, thyme and salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice and a dash of cayenne. Add three table-spoonfuls of cream and three water crackers rolled fine. Mix in a long loaf, dot with butter and bake about an hour in a moderate oven, basting frequently.

Veal loaf may be sliced thin and packed in a waxen paper in a flat box, but does not lose if taken to the picnic whole. Carry a sharp carving knife, as thick slices are unappetizing.

Deviled eggs are usually more popular than plain hard-boiled ones. Boil the eggs fully half an hour, throw at once into cold water and do not shell until chilled. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise, run the yolk through a sieve and mix to a paste with a salt spoon of mustard, cayenne pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley to a dozen eggs. Oil or melted butter can be used for filling the paste.

Deviled eggs carry better if both halves are filled, then put together and each egg wrapped in waxed paper. Or they can be put in a shallow tin box, with waxed paper between the layers. On hot days keep the box near the ice on reaching the picnic grounds.

If each one brings a certain allotted portion, one could take fresh eggs for scrambling—allow three for each person—a small preserve glass of butter, salt and pepper and a skilful or a chafing dish, whichever is more convenient.

Nothing is better than fresh scrambled eggs at a picnic, unless it is fried potatoes. Boil the potatoes at home—in their jackets—and take a good supply of butter for frying. A pound can be carried in a tin kettle with few packed around it. Have a sharp knife for slicing and a fork or short cake turner for stirring.

Leftover cold chicken or veal makes an excellent hot dish for a picnic. Cut the meat into small cubes at home and wrap in waxed paper. Melt a white sauce from a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour to every pint of milk. This is the allowance for a quart of meat. Season lightly with salt, pepper and a little onion juice. An appetizing sandwich for a picnic is made from slices of brown bread on which is spread a mixture of chopped green peppers, to which is added a can of sweet peppers or pimientos, a little minced parsley, bound together with a highly seasoned mayonnaise.

Where a hot sandwich is liked for a picnic, have two thin slices of white bread buttered, spread one with a little chutney, the other with grated Parmesan cheese. Fry an egg, place it on the cheese, and press the other half well over it.

ICED BEEF TEA IS EXCELLENT

During Hot Weather It Will Be Found More Acceptable Than the Hot Beverage.

Where beef tea is required on a hot summer day it is sometimes more acceptable to the invalid if served iced, and in condensed form. Prepared as follows it is quite palatable: Cut up a pound of lean, juicy sirloin steak in to pieces of about two inches square. Grease a clean pan with butter and put it on a fire of red-hot coals, and as soon as ever the pan is hot toss the pieces of steak in it, turning them rapidly this way and that with a fork until seared on every side.

See that not a drop of juice is in the pan, and that each separate square of beef is thoroughly heated through before you finish your work. Take the pieces now, one by one, and squeeze through a wooden lemon squeezer which has been standing in boiling water into a cold bowl. Extract all the juice from the piece, and you will have the finest beef essence. See the bowl in a pan filled with cracked ice. The coldness of the beef essence, which you serve in a tumbler, having added the necessary salt, and with a tiny triangle of toast—does not affect its quality.

Refreshing Beverages.

Any fresh fruit makes a delicious drink when the juice, squeezed from it, is strained, sweetened and filled with cold soda or aerated water. Or a syrup can be made to be kept on hand by boiling the juice with sugar. To make the drinks use a few spoonfuls of this syrup and fill the glass with water, lemon or carbonated.

The most delicious lemonade of limeade can be had at a moment's notice if the juice of the fruit be kept on hand, mixed with sugar to taste. It is simply itself to pour water over this and the drink is ready.

HEIGHT OF SHOOTING STARS

According to Cosmos, the mean height at which shooting stars first become visible is 81 miles. The mean height of their disappearance is about 55 miles. The mean length of their visible path is 45 miles.

BUGSCUFFLE BUDGET

Editor Daily Times:

We are having a great increase of population lately. There have been more than twenty people added to our number in the last week. Just how much this is to benefit us remains to be seen; for, as Col. Jim Jawnsmith says, "it is not so much of quantity we need as quality of people." Of course we can not definitely foretell just how these newcomers are going to affect the community; but from their names we judge them all to be foreigners of some sort, and it is not always that we get good and desirable citizens from abroad. John Smith, Bill Jones and Sam Brown seldom ever give us any trouble; but we have had some hard luck with Fritz Sluggermacher, Antonio Ruffident and Gonzales Bustameunta. Our anarchists and assassins are generally of that type.

Some of the best people we have in this country are either foreigners or the children of such; but Bro. Bugle says, that as a rule, we do not see the best of other nations; the best are doing well enough at home, and stay there. Squire Yukes says that the old brother's remark is as full of suggestion as Sime Stiggins was on circus day of red liquor. But about our new people. Antonio Spegetti has put in a shoe shop in the back room of Squire Yuke's store; Bertram Reynolds has opened a tailor-shop in a new building recently erected by Mr. Ponder; Liverpool Stikemay, got the job on the first day of his arrival as sanitary secretary; Michael O'Toole with a lot of workmen, is engaged in putting down a sidewalk on both sides of our Main street.

A young buck from the Falls put in an appearance at Bugscuffle one day last week and said that he had House Trap, a small town about five Squire Yukes told him that we were trying to educate the head and heart and hand, but we did not need a professional heel whetter, and the best thing for him to do, if he wished to make an honest living would be to go out to old man Seet's place and get tangled up with a cotton sack. The young man took this in great duddison and borrowing a dollar from Dutch Bunker, pulled out for everybody saw what he meant by "unit miles from here."

Talking about Mouse Trap reminds me. A fellow from that little burg came here a short time ago and professing to be a preacher asked old Bro. Bugle for the use of the church for a few days. The old man said he thought the thing was pretty cheezy; but he asked him for his credentials and, behold, he had none. Of course he was denied the church. Then he got the school house and drummed himself up a right good crowd—especially among the young people, who went out more for frolic than for anything else. Well, the first dash out of the box, he informed the people that his special mission was to unite all the Christian people of the whole world, and had decided to begin with those who lived in Bugscuffle. Now we have folks who belong to some two or three different denominations living here, though we have only one church house, and everybody attends church there until the town gets large enough for the good people to have more houses of worship. Our "new light" preacher, (for that was the name he gave himself), informed the folks that they did not have sense enough to know what church to belong to, and that they all should belong to one church. That looked somewhat reasonable—especially in a small place like Bugscuffle, and people began to talk rather favorably of it; but, alas! in his next sermon he turned loose such a sluice of abuse as our people had not heard since Sime Stiggins ran against Tad Semble for constable of this precinct. He abused all the denominations of all Christendom for over an hour and then said that every one should come and join his outfit. Then we saw—every saw—what he meant by "uniting the people of Christendom." It was a surrender of their own interpretations of the scripture and a yielding to him as their guide in such matters. As soon as the folks got or to his racket, everybody broke out into a big laugh, and got up and went home. The next time he came to preach, there was not a soul in the house or on the lot, except Sime Stiggins and he was lying on the back steps, as drunk as a fool. So we got rid of that fake. By the way, that is one trouble with little places like ours—we are shifting marks for old broken down politicians, played out preachers and all sorts of old down and out cranks. Col. Jim says that we must pass an ordinance that will head off such old suckers before they get before the people.

Why there was a fellow here not long ago who made a speech on a soap box out in front of Bill Bellow's blacksmith shop, in the course of which he declared that all the political parties were grafters and thieves, and that men who owned stores and banks had all that, should be blown up with called for all the democrats and dynamite. Winding up his talk, he publicans to come and join his crowd. Then he took up a collection and pulled out. His graft was light, however, for he only got thirty cents. John Morebier and Fred Mugsucker, two fellows working at the gin here, said something that amount. So you see how we are imposed upon over here.

I notice in the papers that Morris Shepard is to be in the Falls on the tenth of this month. Col. Jim Jawnsmith said that if it was not too cold we all ought to go in a body to hear him. Cold or hot some of us will be there; for Morris is a great favorite with our leading men, and we are anxious to hear him. Mr. Young, who is a big Woodman, tells me that last night Shepard is to lecture at the Methodist Church and that they are going to try to put the biggest crowd in that building that was ever there. Mr. Fritz, who runs a cafe in the Falls, tells me he will be able to feed two hundred extra customers on that occasion. So you can look out for us. Mr. Reichelt told me that your glass works were now in operation; and he said that he and Mr. Forester, the new secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, would take us all out to the factory and show us everything about it.

We had a number of visitors from the Falls lately. Messrs. R. D. Kennedy and P. H. Pennington, broke their automobile down right in front of Squire Yuke's store the other day and had to stay here for supper. Miss Tibby Tut wanted to know if Mr. Pennington had gotten married yet; she was rather taken with him. Poor old Miss Tibby. She has not yet recovered from the shake-up she got at the Dallas Fair. She and Prof. Von Hunge have gotten quite chummy again and it is whispered that old Bro. Bugle will likely get to pull off another wedding soon. Judge Natts who came here recently from Tpaduck, greatly insulted Miss Tibby about her accordeon. He told her that such instruments were only played in the backwoods; whereupon she replied that "nut-crackers" were used in all kinds of society. Now as she accompanied this reply with the clutched of an iron poker which stood near the Judge got a box cut move on him, as Col. Jim says. Miss Tibby is "powerful tetchy" as Mrs. Ponder says. "An old man who goes out here by the name of Mr. Tightwad and who recently came here from the Falls, says that he would not live there another year for anything. He says you people are talking of paying Tenth street and what that is done all the other streets will get the paving fever, and the taxes will break every man who is worth his salt. Col. Jim Jawnsmith informed him that he had come to the goat's house for wool if he expected to dodge the onward march of progress, which, as he eloquently remarked, has arisen like the fabled phoenix from its immortal ashes, and with its caudal appendage flourishing above its inviolate spirituality, is sweeping with cyclonic power from the rippling waters of old Red River to the rolling waves of the Rio Grande. O, Col. Jim is nothing if not eloquent. Old man Tightwad, when he heard this, very quietly took another chew of "long green" and walked off. Tightwad is a prosy old sucker, and does not know a smart thing when he hears it. He told me that he had a large circle of kinfolks living at the Falls; and the other day when I was there I asked about them and Mr. T. B. Noble and several other leading men assured me that not one of them ever contributed a cent to any public enterprise. The crowd, he said was a set of leeches—enjoying the things others paid for, but refusing to bear their part of any public burden. Judge Huff told me the same thing. It seems from what I learned of that family, that they are what Col. Jim calls "strictly on the hog." Well, I suppose such people have places in nature. So do flies and mice; but the sooner we get rid of those pests the better. That is what Squire Yukes says and the old man is nearly always right.

Our Dr. Pellet has developed into quite a surgeon. He cut off a man's big toe one day last week and never gave him any kind of an anesthetic. He says that those big doctors at the Falls would have had that man sleeping until now. From what he said, I gathered, that those Wichita Falls doctors are pretty badly stuck up. One of them, he said, refused to consult with him in a certain case because, for sooth, he had not been to college. He knows more in a minute he says, than half of those big likes will ever know. Miss Tibby says she would be afraid to trust him in a bad case. On hearing of this remark the doctor simply sighed and said: "Poor old Miss Tut! She could not have a word, because there is nothing to get out of it. By which he had reference to Miss Tut's lack of flesh—a matter about which she is not a little sensitive. Cordially yours, JOSH BAGGS.

P. S. We had a delightful rain out here a few days ago and now it is cool and pleasant. Old man Seet says that if it stays this cool much longer he means to kill some hogs. He has a number of very fat ones. He says that the idea of our people saving their smoke houses in China is all rot; we should all raise our own meat. Our whole community has been stirred up on the question of home manufacture and so forth, ever since. Mr. Exall gave us his lecture on "intensive farming."

N. B. The health of our town is real good—only some few colds occasioned by the recent cold snap. In the beginning of it, however, some cotton pickers passed through here who had come by the way of the Falls and having a jug of whiskey with them, gave Sime Stiggins a load and he is now threatened with pneumonia. Dr. Pellet says his case is serious. Old Squire Yukes says that if Sime was worth killing he would have been dead long ago. Poor old Sime. J. B.

Vote For The Amendment to Aid Confederate Veterans

To The Voters of This County:

Don't fail to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the constitutional amendment. It is to aid the indigent Confederate soldiers and sailors and their wives.

Remember when these old men were headless boys and should have been in school, they were fighting for their country. There was never a more noble, brave or patriotic band of men than the Confederate soldiers. Many of them have gone through life handicapped for want of an education by reason of the fact that they were in the army when they should have been in the school room and others handicapped because of the loss of an arm or leg in the service of their country.

How often we go to the theatre and other places of entertainment (and when the band plays "Dixie" we are enthused and shout, and throw our hats up in the air and when we go to entertainments where some speaker pays a splendid tribute to these old soldiers, what a thrill of pride and pleasure we feel in their heroic deeds in those fierce years from 1861 to 1865.

We now have an opportunity to do something practical for those old heroes, by voting for the amendment, which will bring aid and comfort to them in their declining years. Let us vote for the amendment. This amendment is the last one on the ticket and if you desire to vote for the amendment, then all you have to do is to run your finger through the last line on the ticket which says "against the amendment" and leave the next to the last line unscratched which says "for the amendment."

Respectfully,
William R. Scurry, Camp Sons of Confederate Veterans.

YOUR POLICY IS SAFE

IF IT IS WRITTEN IN

The Wichita Southern Life Insurance Co.

One of the elements of strength in any insurance company is its ability to write safe business—The Wichita Southern has written over two and one-half million of business in a year; and a half every dollar of which is written under a very rigid medical examination.

The Wichita Southern has deposited with the State Comptroller secured assets amounting to $115,000.00, which is several times the amount required by law, every dollar of which is there for the purpose of safe guarding its policy holders against any possible loss, and can be used for no other purpose than the payment of policies.

The Wichita Southern is organized and officered by Wichita Falls business men of recognized ability and experience, and is strictly a Wichita Falls institution. For this reason it should appeal to all Wichita people, and when its strength is recognized it should be the favorite of every person in the county who desires to purchase insurance. Tell your agent to write it in.

"The Heart Breakers."
Among the successful musical comedies of last season, "The Heart Breakers" which will be seen at the Wichita Theatre Monday night is ranked among the first. Under the management of Mort H. Singer, the company after a six-months engagement at the Princess theatre in Chicago, was seen for a season on the road. This year it will be presented in an entirely new version, with new scenery and costumes.

The cast will still be headed by George Damerel, whom the theatre-goers of the country will remember for his clever performance of the Prince in the "Merry Widow." This will be Mr. Damerel's second season as a star and if the critics are to be believed he has as good a part if not better than he had when in the "Merry Widow." Manager Singer has surrounded Mr. Damerel with a clever cast among whom are "Miss Myrtle Vail, a new prima donna whom he found in Europe, Miss Claire Noelke, Lorraine Bernard, Edward Hume,

Chas. Horn and forty others, including a perfect Princess singing and dancing chorus. The play is in two acts, the first taking place at the Sax-on Club in New York, and the second at Castle Mungler in the Adirondacks. There are numerous song hits. Some of those that are of the whistling kind being "Your Eyes, Your Smile and You," "The Tale of the Bashful Bumble Bee," and "Somewhere She's Flirting with Someone."

At The Gem.

The Gem Theatre has been repapered and repainted throughout and is now one of the most attractive little theatres in Texas. The program at the Gem is confined to motion pictures of a high class. No questionable pictures are permitted. New pictures are shown every night.

At The Lydia Margaret.

The Lydia Margaret opened for the winter season last week with its own four piece orchestra under the direction of Charles G. Templeton one of the leading musicians of the city. A special musical program is given for thirty minutes before each performance. Afternoon matinees are also a feature at this popular playhouse.

It has lately been remodeled on the interior and an eight foot ventilator installed in the middle of the ceiling providing plenty of pure air without any drafts. Tomorrow night the vaudeville program will be Long and famous, the singing and talking comedy entertainers; and Watts and Lucas, character singers and contortionists, featuring their original scarecrow dance. On Tuesday night arrangements have been made for the display of Times election bulletins at the theatre.

Gentry Brothers Show Scheduled To Arrive Here Today

Gentry Brothers dog and pony show is scheduled to arrive over the Wichita Valley today from Seymour for its two performances here tomorrow on the Seventh street show grounds. This show is a particular favorite with the children and is always given a good patronage on its visits in Wichita Falls to which its appearance Monday will be no exception.

Few persons who visit the show realize the work attendant upon its organization. Speaking of the difficulties of getting together the artists with the show, its representative here a few days ago said:

"No one realizes what difficulties beset the managers of shows when they are hooking acts which are a part of the show. To give one an idea of that I merely have to tell you of few of the details dependent upon the work."

"Last winter when our organizer went abroad he traveled or weeks incognito. He visited the circus buildings and the theatres, carefully scanning the many features to select those that would most please American audiences. Finally he decided upon the acts wanted and then his real work began.

"He sought the persons he wanted to bring to this country. They were skeptical, did not want to come to America and were afraid to trust themselves in this country away from home and friends. Consequently, it was up to a resourceful American to overcome these prejudices. Offers of salaries, far in excess of those paid in Europe, constituted the first attraction. Then with the aid of United States consuls, the foreigners were assured of the integrity of American institutions.

"After many weeks of negotiation contracts were closed by agents of Gentry Brothers shows. As a result they are presenting this season many things new to America. Among them are Bouchard and Blandford, Germany's leading acrobats; Marcelle and Fennet, tumblers from Paris; the Americans."

The Gentry Brothers with Gentry Bros. Show

Cervene Trio of ariel artists and Capt. Boutharo, Spain's greatest animal trainer, who presents a wild animal act that is without peer.

"The greatest trouble with foreign performers," concluded the agent, "is teaching them American customs. However there are few foreigners who come here for a season that do not become American citizens. After the novelty wears off they realize the liberties of this country and become Americans."

At the Alamo
Patrons of the Alamo Theater are agreeably surprised and pleased with the continuous program of pictures, which is given there. The Alamo uses two picture machines, and as soon as one reel is finished another is started, thus doing away entirely with any waiting for the operator to rewind his machine. The Alamo is producing some of the best pictures ever seen here, too, and under the management of Mr. Putz promises to become one of the popular play houses of the city.

DRESSING THE PART AT FIFTY

The Mature Woman's Evening Gown Must be Rich, Not Dainty

Tailored Wear Should be Distinguished, Not Jaunty

At Fifty One may Wear a Hat if it is the Right Shape

This is the Age when Charm and Grace Count Most

The Becoming Hat of Paramount Importance—Boots and Gloves as Youthful As One Pleases—Rich Fabrics and Subdued Tones the Older Woman's Choice—The Coiffure.

FIFTY is not old—in these days when no woman thinks of "old age" as anything under eighty or ninety, fifty is really little more than the half way point. But neither is fifty young. At thirty, even at forty a woman may contrive to keep up the semblance of youth, by her manner of dress, by her movements and actions and by innocent—or less innocent—artifices of the toilet; but at fifty she must yield to the inevitable and it is a wise woman who yields gracefully and makes charming her winning card instead of physical attractiveness. At forty her intellectual powers are at their best, her interests are keen, her sympathies are broad, the enjoyments of life in the way of music, books, art, the drama, travel and the like, are all for her, and she is not yet so lost to feminine coquetry that matters of dress have not still a zest.

Breeding, intelligence, sympathy, charm—these and not physical attributes, are the qualities that make the woman of fifty adorable and at this halcyon age one may at last relax and be gloriously one's self. No more striving to look younger than one knows one is; no more worrying about one's hats, gowns and wraps—lest they be "too old," settling one in the ranks of the middle aged instead of the ranks of youth; no more being bored by things that have lost their interest, lest one be accused of the attitude of the middle aged. One is fifty and admits it, youth is past, but there is a long time ahead to enjoy the things that make the world worth while and, unhampered longer by a strenuous effort to be youthful, one may have as glorious a time as one pleases, just being one's self.

Present Fashions—Kind to Middle Aged Women.

The draped skirts, graceful, not too severe coats, flowing wraps and moderate hats of the moment are especially becoming styles to women past first youth. Severe effects of all sorts should be avoided after forty. The mannish tailored suit, heavy soled tramping boot, negligee shirt with four-in-hand tie and untrimmed soft felt hat are all very well for the fresh young girl to whose rosy prettiness this rigid garb lends a certain picturesque quality; but not so for a woman over forty, for her look like a militant suffragette and show her of every atom of grace and charm. Soft colors, soft, graceful lines and soft, rich fabrics are the requirements of the older woman; and never did current styles fit in more perfectly with middle aged needs than they do now.

The tailored street suit, for instance, that is pictured on today's page—could anything more graceful, more charming and more appropriate to its fifty year-old wearer be conceived? The suit is made of plain colored broadcloth and though the lines are in perfect accord with the modes of the moment, they are not extreme in any way. The coat is loose and graceful and the wide, low collar and flat revers of silk give a touch of grace and dressiness and also soften the effect at the neck. Most well dressed women of fifty or thereabouts prefer the three-quarter sleeve under which a long wristed glove is drawn softly over the arm. Such sleeves are much more becoming than long, rigid coat sleeves that meet a short glove—especially when the figure is not slender and youthful. The loose, three-quarter sleeve gives a wrap suggestion to the coat and is moreover, much easier to draw on and off than the long, close-fitting coat sleeve. Loves of embroidered silk which come in a lustrous texture heavy enough for winter wear with a muff are worn with these open sleeves for they are easier to draw on and off quickly than long wristed kid gloves. A very long glove, worn in well wrinkled mousquetaire style on the wrist is more distinctive than a smoothly drawn shorter waisted glove.

About Colors

Every woman past forty-five has an instinctive knowledge that the bright colors of youth are not for her. Too often she makes the mistake of going to the other extreme and elects to wear dull, lifeless hues or assumes economical black for the residue of her natural existence. Now black may be interesting or non-interesting, according to what its fabric is, and how that fabric is fashioned. It has to be very interesting indeed to look well on the woman whose natural physical charms have faded, yet it is the standby of most aging women because it offers an easy solution of the troublesome color problem and because it is so economical.

There are many shades which are very becoming after fifty but they are not the vivid shades that make for smartness and chic in youth. Cerise should be avoided as the plague-bright greens also. Likewise yellows and browns. After the hair has turned gray brown should not be worn at all, although the woman who has brown eyes and dark brows may sometimes venture upon pale yellow. Old blues are becoming; purples and pinks are almost invariably so and there are certain shades of rich soft green which are charming. When used sparingly, a very smartly dressed woman in the Astor corridor the other afternoon wore a tailored suit of black and white striped serge, the white stripe but a suggestion on the black surface, and with this black and white suit went a black and white chiffon blouse, white gloves, trim patent leather boots with buttoned cloth tops and a black velvet toque with a willow green ostrich feather at one side. That one touch of green, soft and subdued though the color was, made the whole costume individual and chic and the pretty green feather harmonized well with the iron gray hair and dark eyes of its wearer.

The color standbys of the woman over fifty, however, are black and white—a very different matter from all black and certain shades of gray. Smoke and pearl grays are usually flattering to middle age. Gun metal is always distinguished when represented in handsome materials. Taupe is possible sometimes, and when the complexion is still fair and the hair

The Out-of-Door Girl in Winter

AFTER all, there is nothing quite like a knitted sweater for all-around comfort. It fits the bill completely—so far as protection from the cold is concerned and it has a convenient way of snuggling under the arm or rolling itself nicely out of the way when not needed for immediate use which its would-be formidable rival, the Mackinaw, cannot hope to imitate.

Last spring everybody was prophesying that the Mackinaw was going to oust the long-beloved sweater from favor, but no such thing happened. The sweater was far too firmly established in feminine hearts to be banished, and the dozens of delightful sweaters are the dozens of delightful new sweater styles appearing this fall attest the continued popularity of these knitted garments.

A new arrival is the raw silk sweater, named the Gaby sweater after a popular little actress who visited New York last season. These silk sweaters are delightfully warm and they fit exquisitely, giving the figure beautiful trim lines. Sometimes two colors are combined, white and brown blue and green or some similar combination, the contrasting shades showing in the ribbed weave when the sweater is stretched over the figure. These silk sweaters are also most convenient for wear under a motor coat, and they seem to take up no room at all, for all their warmth and coziness. No fabric except fur or leather will really keep out the cold when motoring in winter time, and under the biggest, warmest worsted-woven coat a sweater is usually necessary for extra protection against searching winds. The pretty girls who are making ready to attend the big football matches this month are providing themselves with knitted silk sweaters in their favorite college colors and if the day proves bright and sunny, the motor coat may be removed part of the time at the same so that the loyal colors may be seen.

Most sweaters intended for cold weather year have now collars which may be turned up snugly around the throat. Two of the sweaters illustrated today have this arrangement. One is a double-breasted and buttons down the left side, a straight deep knitted band encircling the throat. The sweater on the standing figure is a new model combining a comfortable V neck with a knitted hood and collar which may be drawn up when desired. After the hood has been adjusted over the head, a buttoned flap holds the crossed revers snugly over the chest and throat. This sweater has trim, well shaped proportions and the deep hem or border at the lower edge, slashed at the sides, adds a new trimming note.

The knitted motor hood accompanying the double-breasted sweater is made of old blue worsted and is becoming as well as delightfully warm and cozy. It is lined with soft, white silk and is so shaped that it may be adjusted gracefully over the head

Simple Frocks Better Than Blouses and Skirts

Extreme Styles must be Modified for the Older Woman

ed over a soft natural hair rat all around without waving or curling. At the back is a large, soft Psyche knot matched to the natural gray hair and a jeweled comb.

Gowns and Blouses for Everyday Wear.

gray or white blue-lavenders may be combined happily with the gray costumes. The evening gown pictured is a most distinguished harmony in gray, black and white tones, and while essentially simple in line, has the dignity and distinction that are proper. The trailing skirt is of black chiffon and is gracefully draped about the feet the tip of a dainty black, add buttoned foot peeping from under the soft draperies. This question of length in the older woman's dress is a vital one. Too short a gown will rob the stately woman of dignity and after fifty all indoor and formal costumes should have skirts as long as can be worn with comfort. It is much better to have the gown drag all around and lift it slightly with the hand as one walks than to have it scrape the floor by an inch or two—no grace and dignity are concerned.

Over the black charming skirt of the evening gown under consideration is dropped a tunic of dark gray chiffon embroidered with white net—just now immensely fashionable. The bodice is of tucked gray chiffon over three layers of white net and at back and front a corsage of rich white Venise lace, veiled by black net, rises over the tucked chiffon bodice. Tuckers of flesh colored net veiled with white lace are set into the décolletage at front and back.

Coiffure an Important Consideration

The hairdressing pictured with the evening gown for a woman of fifty is worthy of note. It is perfectly simple in arrangement yet is in reality most exquisitely arranged—as the older woman's hair must be to get a graceful effect. Gray hair is seldom as plastic as more youthful hair. It crimps and frizzes instead of falling softly and it refuses to spring up fluffily preferring to stick to the scalp or stand out in unpleasant strings or wisps. Frequent shampoos with a pinch of bicarbonate of soda in the water will help to keep the gray hair fluffy and lustrous—which means that the white strands are clean and gleaming—and daily brushing will reduce the obstinate locks to order and make them take the positions desired. After the hair has become gray powder may be used plentifully in it with out showing and this helps to make it appear thicker and more fluffy. The coiffure in the picture has been well powdered and brushed and then turned the coiffure in this illustration is soft and very simply arranged on top of the head, but it makes a charming frame for the face—a most important point when the face is no longer young.

Another illustration shows an admirable one-piece gown for everyday wear. This gown has simple, dignified lines and the materials are smartly and pleasingly combined. It will be noted that the skirt falls well over the feet and that at the top, the bodice is softened by transparent "sleeve of fine white net." The woman past thirty-five is always very unwise to wear her neck in dark colors—unless the fabric is airy and soft like maline, ostrich or fur. The four-trim featured is of black with an embroidered epaulette of gray silk on the shoulder. This epaulette trimming lightens the black color and together with the gun metal buttons and steel trimmed belt gives the gown interest and style. The draped bodice over a sleeve and underbodice of black satin is an admirable notion.

The Modern Girl Must Dress Warmly But Lightly

Corsets, Boots and Hats of Paramount Importance

Far more important than gown, suit or blouse is the corset that makes the foundation for the outer garment. Few figures at fifty retain the straightness and slenderness of youth and really good corsets will immeasurably increase the grace and distinction of the carriage without interfering with comfort in the least. If the pleasingly arranged coiffure is important indoors, the becoming hat is even more important for out-of-door wear—perhaps no item of the middle aged woman's dress is as important as her hat. There is no good reason why, at fifty, one should forsake the charms of the hat and take to bonnets or middle-aged toques that settle flat on the head. Hats of the proper sort may be worn—just as long as there is a coiffure to support them; for one thing a hat must have to be becoming, and that is hair under it. The older woman may not affect the picturesque and rakish styles of youth; her hats must have a certain dignity and some elegance and they must not be tipped too far forward, back or toward one side for dash, daring and jaunty things to be absolutely avoided. The velvet hat pictured has both dignity and elegance and is well suited to the woman of fifty.

The woman of fifty or thereabouts may wear jewelry of distinction, but she should avoid cheap ornaments. Handsome earrings are permissible; a brooch and an odd or individual bracelet chain will add elegance and distinction to the dress.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS CELEBRATES HALLOWE'EN.

The Sunday school class of Mrs. C. B. Montgomery of the M. E. Church, South, was entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. M. J. Gardner. Halloween decorations and settings had been provided and the occasion was given a still more mysterious air by the arrival of the guests, all being masked. Each made an effort to guess the identity of the others, and Miss Evan Harris was most successful. A pot of sand was then displayed, and being stirred was found to contain the fortunes of all present; fortunes were also told by pinning envelopes on the wall, each blind-fold guest picking his own in the dark. Pumpkin pie, fruit and hot chocolate were served. Those present included Mrs. C. B. Montgomery, Misses Helen Hines, Pauline Herron, Ruby Moore, Beryl Murph, Evan Harris, Rheg Gardner and Lena Gardner.

MISS ALICE BURNSIDE IS HALLOWE'EN PARTY HOSTESS.

A number of the young friends of Miss Alice Burnside were her guests Thursday evening at a Halloween party at her home on Seventh street. The Burnside home was decorated for the occasion, yellow being the principal color theme, while black cats and witches were also in evidence. The guests were greeted at the door by a ghost, and another shade of the departed was stationed in the rear of the hall. Bobbing for apples, music and the game of "bunco" were the evening's features and were done full justice as was the refreshment course of nuts, fruit, candy and punch. Those present were Misses Mary Orth, Marion Carls, Ruby Self, Gertrude Orth, Cora Lee Waggoner, Alleen Waggoner, Amanda Fricks, Messrs. Harry Fleeter, Carter McGregor, Bert Anderson, Charles Jonta, Jake Avis, Jim Walker, Jonette Bonner and Al Dickerson.

neck. A third sweater and hood to match are of angora—the most expensive but the warmest kind of wool. Angora sweaters are as light as thistledown yet as warm as toast and are much worn in Canada where out-of-door sports demand garments that permit of free movement yet afford thorough protection from the cold. This angora sweater is white with brown markings and the hood with its turned back Dutch flap, is of brown angora. Sweater and hood are worn with a pleated skirt of heavy brown homespun having knitted woolen bloomers beneath. Pleated skirts are ideal for active out-of-door sports and one is thankful they have come back to fashion. Sometimes bloomers of heavy silk or of mohair are worn under the skirt instead of a petticoat, though the skating girl realizes the coquetry of a dainty white petticoat under her swinging skirt. With many of the velvet rink costumes the prettiest petticoats with sheer embroidery flounces are worn, but of course, such a petticoat goes over very warm knitted tights of wool.

"Rinkers" are worn by English girls for skating and all other winter sports. The rinker is a knitted sweater ribbed closely at the waistline and also at the hip so that it clings to the figure and emphasizes the curves of waist, bust and hip. It pulls on and off over the head and is slashed a little way down the front and closed with buttons. There is a trimness about the rinker which appeals to the English woman who adores anything that is tight, but as yet the rinker has not become the vogue in America. College and boarding school girls are wearing the plaided Scotch Mackinaw trimmed with fringe. These coats are made of Scotch plaid rug and though a little too picturesque for street wear in the city, they are very attractive against a campus or country background. The Mackinaw is short and requires a warm skirt beneath it for winter tramping. The college maid seems rubber overshoes, which really do take all the joy out of tramping. And wears sturdy laced boots of tan leather with broad, rather low heels and a sole that lifts her foot well above dampness. A new tan leather, much liked for all around out-of-door winter wear, may be cleaned with ordinary soap and water. The leather resists the water which removes every soil and stain spot from the surface without in the least injuring the color and luster. These boots come in the smart buttoned styles as well as in the heavy laced models for winter tramping in the country.

THE BEST PROOF.

Wichita Falls Citizens 'Cannot Doubt It'

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they cured.

The story was told to Wichita Falls residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the cure permanent.

The testimony is home-testimony—The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Wichita Falls residents.

R. P. Redin, Avenue A, Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "My back bothered me for two or three years and the spells often came on without warning. I was so lame across the small of my back that I could hardly bend. My kidneys became disordered and the kidney secretions were too frequent in passage, causing me annoyance. I finally got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. They cured me and I have not felt a return of the symptoms since."

The above statement was given on June 19, 1908 and when Mr. Redin was interviewed on December 27, 1911 he added: "When occasion requires a kidney medicine we always use Doan's Kidney Pills and know that they will act quickly in bringing relief. You are at liberty to use my statement as heretofore."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Notice Woodmen of the World.

I take this medium of further calling your attention to Morris Shepperd day which will be observed in this city on November 10, and to lay special emphasis on the importance of having a full representation from each Woodman camp in this territory on that occasion. Many camps have already responded to letters of invitation sent out by me and we are desirous of making a splendid showing. In the afternoon our Sovereign Banker will be present for an address on the unveiling of the monuments of Sovereign W. J. Haynes and J. S. Duke at 3:30 p. m., at Riverside Cemetery. At night he will deliver an address on "Christian Citizenship" at the First Methodist Church, South. We are expecting a great day for Woodcraft and want you to consider this as an individual invitation to join us.

Fraternally,

Woodrow Wilson's Message To The American People

From Maine to California and from Oregon to Florida, Democratic rallies were held in nearly every town and every county yesterday and last night, and at each of these meetings a message from Woodrow Wilson was read.

A copy of this message was received by The Times through the Associated Press but as the vote in Texas will be nearly unanimous anyway no rally was held here. The message follows:

Friends and Fellow Citizens—We stand face to face with a great decision, a decision which will affect the whole course of our national life and our individual fortunes throughout the next generation. We must make that decision on the 3d of November. It cannot be postponed. We cannot vote without making it, and if we do not vote those who do will make it for us. The next four years will determine how we are to solve the question of the tariff—the question of the trusts, the question of the reformation of our whole banking and currency system, the conservation of our natural resources and of the health and vigor of our people, the development of our means of transportation, the right application of our scientific knowledge to the work and healthful prosperity of our whole population, whether in the fields or in the factories or in the mines, the firm establishment of a foreign policy based upon justice and good will rather than upon mere commercial exploitation and the selfish interests of a narrow circle of financiers extending their enterprises to the ends of the earth, and the extension of the assistance of the government to those many programs of uplift and betterment to which some of the best minds of our age have turned with wise hope and ardor.

There is much to be done, and it must be done in the right spirit and in the right way, or it will deepen our troubles, not relieve them. The tariff question must be solved in the interest of those who work and spend and plan and struggle, those who are finding a foothold and working out a career, those who touch the sources of strength and are quick with the pulse of a common life, for the sake of "the power that fills the fields and builds the cities," and not for the sake of special groups of men who dominate and control their fellows and regard the toll of millions of men merely as an opportunity to make use of their established advantage. It must be handled very prudently, so that no honest toil may be interrupted, no honorableness of useful enterprise disturb; must be dealt with by slow stages of well considered change—change whose object shall be to restore and broaden opportunity, and destroy nothing but special privilege and unwholesome control. Those who handle it, therefore, must be men who understand the general interest and have devoted themselves to serving it without fear or favor.

The trust question must be dealt with in the same way with this distinct and single program to destroy monopoly and to leave business intact, to give those who conduct enterprise no advantage except that which comes by efficiency, energy and sagacity, those who only foundtains of honorable wealth, every man rewarded according to his insight and enterprise and service, his mastery in an open field. Currency and banking questions must be discussed and settled in the interest of those who use credit, produce the crops, manufacture the goods, and quicken the commerce of the nation, rather than in the interest of the banker and the promoter and the captain of finance, who if set off by themselves in the management of such things, too easily lose sight even of their own in-imate and inseparable relation to the general needs and interests of the rank and file. Forests must be renewed and mines and water courses must be husbanded and preserved, as if we were trustees for all generations, not merely for our own, for the sake of communities and nations and not merely for the immediate use of those who hasten to enlarge their enterprises and think only of their own profits. The government must employ its powers and spend its money to develop a whole people and a whole continent, and at the same time keep them free and alert and unhampered, its eye always on the common use and purpose, its thought constantly of what will happen to the average man and of what will be prepared for the next generation.

We must consider our foreign policy upon the same high principle.
We have become a powerful member of the great family of nations. The nations look to us for standards and policies worthy of America. We must shape our course of action by the maxims of justice and liberality and good will, think of the progress of mankind rather than of the progress of this or that investment, of the protection of American honor and the advancement of American ideals rather than always of American contracts, and lift our diplomacy to the levels of what the best minds have planned for mankind. We must devote the power of the government to the service of the race and think at every turn of men and women and children of the moral life and physical force and spiritual betterment of those for whom we profess to have set government up.

None of these high things can be done, because none of them can be conceived, from the point of view of those who at present exercise power over us at Washington. No established policy of the Republican party can be used for such ends. "The black tragic of campaign funds" cannot work these miracles. The government at Washington has not in half a generation been conducted from the point of view or by the counsel of the nation as a whole, but by the advice and with the consent of those who have exercised special favors from it, a very small number of persons with their own objects constantly in view, it may be unconscious of their selfishness, certainly unconscious of the interests of the vast majority whom they ignored in their scheme of prosperity. The great task that waits to be done can be done only by a free government with its eye upon the whole people and such a government we have not had since the Dingley and Aldrich tariffs began to be built up favor by favor and trusts began to multiply under the very prohibitions of the law. The Republican party is irrestrievably committed and bound to go in the very opposite direction from that in which release and freedom lie. It has become a party of special points of view.

The country has already perceived this.
Everywhere there has been a steadily gathering revolt by the voters. Twenty-six of the forty-eight state governments are now under Democratic administration. In the legislatures of the forty-eight states the Democrats outnumber the Republicans by a majority of 204. Seventy-three of the 129 chief cities of the country have Democratic mayors. There are now 227 Democrats in the national house of representatives and only 161 Republicans. The tide gathers in greater and greater volume. Only the presidency and the senate lift their heads a little above it, those citadels of power which the constitution makes it hardest for the people's majorities to capture and occupy. Until these are taken, the great task will wait and wait, the great task of putting the government at the service of the people.

Shall we not move forward to the final conquest? An organized, united, and enthusiastic force stands ready, the only united and militant force to which the people can turn with any prospect that they will be served, promptly, effectively and upon a clear principle of action—the great Democratic party, now at last solid and of clear purpose. To all who are full of hope and of the vigor that makes tomorrow, are looking—the young men of the nation, the noble and devoted women who wish to see better days for their children and for all who are oppressed, the men who never grow old but always press forward to enterprises of the new age, all who desire free opportunity and love the public cause that is just and righteous and quick with the hopes of mankind. A great people is turning its face to the light, not desiring a revolution, but loving the right and determined to set it up, wisely, temperately, honorably, with patience and patient debate, not in irritation or in haste, but like men, not like children. It is a great day and a propitious one. The responsibility is ours, and we shall assume it knowing what it means. The decision of the 3d of November will usher in, if we be true, a new day of confidence, freedom and prosperity. It will be no asgardly triumph of a party or a faction, but the triumph of a people.
The Democratic party will be, not the selfish victor, but the trusted instrument, and the years that follow will test every principle of the great republic. God grant we shall be worthy to prevail.

WHEN WASHINGTON WENT WOOLING.

By A. W. MACY.
George Washington was a hustler, even in matrimonial affairs. When a young man of twenty-six he took dinner at the house of a friend one day, and there met a good-looking young widow named Martha Custis. She must have been charming, for George spent the whole afternoon in her society, and then accepted her invitation to remain to tea. It was evidently a case of ardent love at first sight, for bright and early next morning he was again at the front door, seeking admission. Before noon that day they were engaged to be married, and "married they were." Shortly afterward, she "in" and satin, laces and brocade, with pearls on her neck and in her ears, and he "in blue and silver trimmed with scarlet, and with gold buckles at his knees and on his shoes." At the wedding ceremony, which no doubt was highly impressive, they rode away to Mount Vernon, not together in the same carriage as bridal couples do now, but she in a "coach and six," and he on horseback, riding proudly alongside.

R-C-H "The Car Complete" $950.00 Delivered Wichita Falls

One's first Thought after noting R-C-H construction is—How can it be done?
For, judged by previous standards of automobile value, the car should be priced a thousand dollars higher

And bear in mind that the mere size of a plant does not necessarily mean economy. Up-to-dateness is the important factor and no matter how large the factory, if it is working with old equipment it cannot compete in production cost with the newer plant.

The R-C-H plant is entirely new. It is up-to-date in every detail of equipment. Its wonderful machinery, much of it specially devised, has reduced manufacturing cost to the minimum. It is complete in every way and has a capacity of many thousands of cars annually. These things are what make possible its price.

If you are considering the purchase of any car up to $2,000.00 don't fail to see the R-C-H.

Kohat's Mineral Water.
Is highly recommended by physicians and is used by thousands of its merits, for indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, kidney and bladder trouble. This water stimulates the secretion of the stomach, increases digestion and favors a more complete absorption of the food and prevents the action of germs that cause typhoid and other infectious diseases.

This water can be purchased at the wells or delivered in jugs or cases.

The well is located one mile south of Alamo, a brick building at Floral Heights, two deliveries daily morning and afternoon. G. K. Kohath, Owner, Phone 194-1-1, Crows-4, shorts.

THE OLD WAY

A man picks out a collar, places the tie in it and buttons it onto the neckband. Then he attempts to pull his tie through so as to adjust it properly. Doesn't budge—then he pulls it harder—finally yanks it—collar flies open. Tries again and again without results. The women of the house put their fingers in their ears so they will not hear. Even if he gets it through, it looks like a string. That's the Old Way.

BUT THIS IS THE WAY WE LAUNDRY COLLARS

Collars go over a ring; are pressed in live steam chest; no gas or friction employed to scorch or wear out edges; must be ample tie space in every collar. No trouble to adjust tie; points of collar match perfectly. Collar fits well, wears longer, looks better; and your tie wears longer too. We have the only one of these Prosperity Collar Moulders in town. Send us your collars and note the tie space and finish. Do it once and you'll do it again.

Talk With the Father of the Weather Bureau.

General Albert J. Myer, Discussing That Service in 1871, Seemed to Have Some Intuition of Coming of "Wireless."

By E. J. EDWARDS.

One of the most thrilling events connected with Sherman's struggle for Atlanta in 1864 occurred at Allatoona, Ga., when the small Federal garrison there was doomed apparently to fall into the hands of a division of the Confederate army, sent against it by Hood. But at the last moment, by means of the system of flag signals which he had invented before the war, when he was an assistant surgeon in the regular army, Brigadier-General Albert J. Myer, then in command of the signal service corps of the Union armies, was able to summon from General Sherman the assistance that saved the garrison. It was during this interchange of signals that Sherman sent the celebrated message that became the theme of one of the great gospel hymns of the world: "Hold the fort; for I am coming."

The year after the civil war was over General Myer was made chief signal officer of the regular army. Four years after, when congress had authorized the secretary of war to provide for the observation and prediction of storms—the official beginning of the Federal-weather bureau—General Myer was placed in charge of this work, and so became the country's first official weather prophet.

A day or two after the meeting of congress in December, 1871, I met General Myer by appointment in his office in Washington, and told him that I had been sent by some citizens of New Haven, Conn., to say to him that if it would be possible for him to establish a weather bureau station in New Haven, a convenient and otherwise suitable home for the bureau would be furnished rent free by the owner of one of the city's largest buildings.

"If I had the money I would like to establish a weather bureau in every considerable city on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts," replied the general. "At present, however, I am only authorized to establish twenty-four stations, and I am going to make the money go as far as I can in the establishment of stations along our Great Lakes. I want a sufficient number of stations from Duluth, on Lake Superior, to Clayton, on Lake Ontario."

I asked General Myer what special reason there was for thus seeming to favor the lakes.

"A special reason?" he replied with energy, while his eyes—so full of fire and yet so self-contained that they withdrew all of one's attention from his other striking facial characteristics—looked intently at me. "The very best of all reasons. It was while I was living in Buffalo, where I settled after the close of the war, that I took up the study of the storms which sweep the Great Lakes and have caused awful devastation thereon. I discovered that almost all of the dangerous storms for lake navigation are developed somewhere in the northwest and then come careering with increasing fury across the lakes, ultimately to disappear in the valley of St. Lawrence. Then, one day, it occurred to me that if we could establish telegraph stations along the lakes whose business it would be to give warning of the approach of storms we could probably reduce the dangers to lake navigation to a minimum, as far as storms were concerned."

"Well, but of that idea," has come this recently organized weather bureau, has already demonstrated its usefulness; with a complete system of storm stations along the Great Lakes I am sure that it will prove itself a necessity to the country. And when that has been done, then there will speedily be weather stations all over the country."

"I am sure, too," continued General Myer, "that ultimately this service is some day going to give the country perfect weather service. Of course, perfect weather service means that we must know what the weather conditions are far out upon the oceans that bound us, but the more I have thought about the matter, the more I am persuaded that some day some means will be devised by means of which almost instant communication from midocean with the mainland may be secured. It must be overhead communication; for you cannot tap the ocean cable so as to send reports of weather conditions from the deep. There are atmospheric conditions over the ocean which, I am sure, will yet be utilized for the conveyance of intelligence, and when that discovery is made we will have taken a long step in the direction of securing a perfect weather service."

Years later came Marconi with his invention by means of which the Hertzian electric waves are utilized for the transmission of intelligence from midocean to land; and I have often thought that General Myer, the creator of our weather bureau system, must have had some dim, prophetic intuition that told him of the coming of this achievement.

SAYS SHE MURDERED TWO WITH POISON

Woman Makes Startling Voluntary Confession to Los Angeles Police—Corroborative Facts

By Associated Press.
Los Angeles, Nov. 2.—Tansy Allen Lesh, aged 24, who said she had just been deserted by her husband today surrendered herself to the police, declaring she had murdered two women in Missouri, one at Green Ridge, and another at Sedalia. The victim she said was Mrs. Quantice and Mrs. Coe. Mrs. Lesh said she was taken from the Orphan Home Society in St. Louis when she was 13 years old by Quantice and lived with the family at Green Ridge. In June, 1904, she said Mrs. Quantice became ill and she put a capsule containing poison in some medicine and gave it to Mrs. Quantice who died the next morning.

The next spring she left for Sedalia and went to the home of Mrs. Coe, a widow. In August of that year she put poison in a glass of beer and gave it to Mrs. Coe who died next morning. Finally she drifted to Paducah, Kentucky, where on September 15, 1907, she married Lesh. They went to East St. Louis to live. In October of this year she and her husband came to Los Angeles.

The police are holding Mrs. Lesh pending an investigation of her story.

SIXTY HOGS SOLD BY THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

About sixty of the hogs placed on sale last week by the Chamber of Commerce had been sold up to last night and the organization's first venture into the pork market appears to have been successful. The carload is now about half sold and the remainder will doubtless have been sold by the middle of this week.

The hogs bring an average of six dollars each and the sixty which had been sold at the close of business last night brought $350. The hogs are being sold at exactly cost, the entire carload costing the Chamber of Commerce $700.

parks, on account of their failure to make provision for them when land was cheaper. His plans are quite comprehensive, and he wants to see sites for future schools and public buildings set aside now, without waiting until the necessity is more pressing.

"It is just as easy to plan now," said Mr. O'Reilly yesterday. Steps will be taken at once to bring Mr. Kesler here.

One year's supply of coal for New York, loaded into fifty-ton cars, would make a train reaching from that city to Salt Lake City.

DUCKS PLentiful AT LAKE WICHITA

Yesterday Was a Banner Day for Dealers in Guns and Ammunition

While the Bulgarians et al are gunning for Turkey in the far east, Wichitans are gunning for duck. Yesterday was a banner day for the stores carrying hunter's supplies and hundreds of boxes of shells were sold to those who expected to spend the small hours on the shores of Lake Wichita.

The ducks are very plentiful at present and a good shot can bag his limit of the birds with little difficulty. Every morning the past week, especially since the weather turned colder, has seen dozens of hunters on the lakeshore and some large bags have been brought home.

The Young Men's Progressive League does not believe that Wichita should be selfish about her ducks, and sent the following for publication in the Dallas News:

Wichita Falls, Texas, Nov. 1.—Today's News tells of many hunters and few ducks in Dallas county. Will you allow us space to invite every shooter in your city and county to visit magnificent Lake Wichita? The lake is black with geese, brant and ducks. Members of this organization are getting their limit daily. Shooting is free.
