Alvin Gardner To Suggest Radical Changes At Texas League Meeting Today

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The Red Cross drouth relief office in Wichita Falls has been closed after distributing 39,223 bushels of seed wheat, rye and barley to 5,929 families in 29 counties in the Wichita Falls area, which has been used, it is estimated, in seeding 50,000 acres to these crops. The seed furnished by the Red Cross has been absolutely free.

Wheat growers associations, with the cooperation of the federal farm board, have furnished other thousands of bushels of seed. Banks have advanced money for seed purchases and landlords have furnished seed in many instances. The result is that a very large acreage has been sown to wheat, oats, rye and barley.

And are the crops growing? Say, Reader, if you want to see pretty landscapes, drive out into the country in almost any direction and see the greening fields.

These several seed distribution efforts have been most timely, coming as they did in a time of need and in the most favorable crop growing fall in many years. The fields will furnish food for livestock throughout the winter months and well into the spring. They will carry many a farmer through and give hope that will help sustain courage and endurance until another harvest.

Talker may be giving something away prematurely, but he cannot hold th.. hopeful news; that better business committee in Wichita Falls is going out and getting citizens signed on the dotted line pledging expenditures in November for repairs and improvements. Talker knows that a good start has been made. Of course, that is not all the committee is doing but to Talker it seems the most important.

Suppose that enough work is started here next week to employ 300 men who are not now employed—and Talker believes that jobs will be provided for at least that number—these men will be distributing somewhere between $6,000 and $10,000 a week next Saturday night. If this amount added to the retail trade of Wichita Falls will not pep things up, we would like to know what would. And the following week it can be bigger. There are a lot of folks who will join in just as soon as they see somebody is in earnest about this matter.

Give employment to those not now employed and nothing else would be needed to bring about a business revival. As a consumer of food and of things to wear the working man is just as good as a millionaire. In fact he is often better. The millionaire can spend just about so much on the necessities of life. The working man always has a healthy appetite and wears out a lot of clothes. Practically every cent he makes is put into circulation immediately. As a circulator of money he is America's best.

Give the workers employment and this whole jam of depression will be blasted loose within a week. The jam is so big and tight right now in the country as a whole that Wichita Falls nor any other community alone isn't going to break it, but from the reports that are coming in big charges of employment dynamite are being fired in every section and the effect is likely to be that of a single great explosion that will blow depression clear out of the water.

We have endured this depression much longer than we ought. The trouble has been that Mr. Average Citizen has been depending upon the Big Interests, the Economic Experts, the Administration or somebody else to revive business while he himself has had the power to do it and has been about the only man who could do much about it.

Mr. Average Citizen is the country's most powerful man when he decides that George isn't going to do it and that he will have to handle the job himself.

Wichita Falls is going to have a winning football team just about when we show a winning interest in football, and this applies to the public as well as the students of the high school. The way to show this interest is to attend the games. There's one here this afternoon between the Coyotes and Childress.

We have heard a lot about the five-day week as a remedy for the unemployment situation. Here and there large employers of labor have put the five-day week into effect temporarily. One of the latest of the big companies to do this is the Kellogg company of Battle Creek, Mich., which has gone to the five-day week thereby giving employment to 300 more persons.

So far as reported those employers going to the five-day week have made a corresponding reduction in the weekly pay of their employes. So far, Talker has heard of no employer paying the six-day wage for the five-day week. That is what some labor organizations are seeking. The five-day week at five-day pay involves no sacrifice on the part of the employer. It does mean that the man who has a job is dividing his favored situation with his less fortunate fellow laborer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (INS)—The federal radio commission today renewed the licenses of station KONO, of Galveston, Texas, reversing an adverse action of a few days ago.

PREXY TO URGE BALANCING OF MONEY AFFAIRS

Big Cities Expected To Violently Oppose New Regulations

WOULD POOL 'GATES'

Loop's Annual Session May Develop Bitter Rows At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—A number of important changes in the Texas baseball league's regulations will be suggested by President J. Alvin Gardner here tomorrow at the league's annual fall meeting. If the suggestions, all of which Gardner thinks would be for the ultimate good of the league, are followed they will be far reaching in their effect.

Seven changes the league's chief executive would like to see are:

1—Alternating the schedule so Dallas and Fort Worth and other clubs who have been meeting on opening day for years, will have new opponents the day the race starts.

Pooling of Receipts

2—Pooling opening day receipts to be equally divided among eight clubs as is done on July 4 and Labor day.

3—Elimination of the financial benefit derived from the Dixie series by owner of the pennant winning team. After all expenses are paid he would like to see the owner's share divided equally among all the clubs of the league.

4—Institution of salary limits that would prevent the big cities from getting teams far more expensive than the smaller members can afford.

5—Increase the number of required rookies from five to six.

6—Delay start of night play in all parks until June 1.

7—Require the same standard of lighting in the parks of all clubs.

Audit Completed

The league president and the league's secretary, Milton Price, arrived today. They were accompanied by Fred Ankenman, president of the Houston club, who has just completed an audit of the league's books. He was appointed as a committee of one to do that job and make his report tomorrow.

Another early arrival was Homer H. Hammond, president of the San Antonio Indians.

The executives from Shreveport, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Waco and Beaumont are due to arrive on early trains Saturday.

The meeting, which will be held at the Texas hotel, is expected to start at 10 a. m. and probably will continue until Sunday afternoon. There are many matters to discuss and there are likely to be sessions both Sunday afternon and night.

Night Game Problems

Making new regulations to fit problems arising from night play is expected to take up the major part of the time.

Gardner has little or no hope of all his suggestions being adopted. The larger cities are bitterly op-

He Rode the Buses Alone From Electra to Florida

Here you see Charles (Buddy) Wetzel, aged 3, well known in Electra, perched atop the bus in which he arrived in Miami, Fla., after a 2,000-mile bus jaunt from Electra. Buddy was checked straight through and addressed to his mother in Miami. His identification tags, his tickets and his money, he wore pinned to his clothing. Bus operatives say he is the youngest solitary passenger they have had the pleasure of carrying so far.

Three-Year-Old Takes 2,000-Mile Bus Ride From Electra by Himself

Youthful Globe-Trotter Orders Candy for Breakfast And Prefers Station Benches to Hotels

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 31.—When Charles (Buddy) Wetzel, 3 years old, traveled alone in bus lines between Electra and Miami, Fla., he established an unofficial junior sojourners record of his own that may hold good throughout the United States. "Checked and double-checked," to use his own technical expression, Buddy made the 2,000 mile journey to Miami unattended except by the solicitous eyes of bus attendants and the admiration of his fellow-travelers.

The small wayfarer left Electra early Friday morning, Oct. 11, aboard a coach of the Wichita Bus company. His grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Myers and his great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. East, to whom he had paid an extended visit, tagged him carefully and addressed him in care of his mother, Mrs. Nora Wetzel, 3700 N. W. Twenty-Third avenue, Miami. Along with his name and destination, his tickets and money were securely pinned to his clothing.

Starts East

At Wichita Falls, Buddy competently transferred to the North Texas Coach company and set out for Fort Worth, Houston and points east, gaining experience and fame with every mile.

Buddy didn't care for hotels, preferring to curl up on a seat at a bus station and find himself all ready to go in the morning without the bother of bell hops and the red tape of registering, an art in which he is not yet versed.

He enjoyed choosing his own menus, too, and had hoped on this trip to realize a life-long ambition, a generous serving of candy for breakfast. When he placed his order, attendants looked dubious and at length persuaded him that eggs and grits would taste better, with candy as a mid-morning refreshment.

Prefers Apples

Young Buddy grew camera-wise and bored with reporters before the journey ended.

"Oh, yes," he sighed, "I like being a piece of baggage well enough, but I like apples better."

He arrived, only a little sticky from the candy, to have his greeting to his mother photographed. Mrs. Wetzel sings for station WQID at Miami under the name Mrs. Nora Hayes.

Shot Ends Life Of Texas Judge

DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—The body of County Judge Robert L. Hill, 36, of Hillsboro, Hill county, shot through the heart, was found in a hotel room here today. A justice of the peace returned a verdict of suicide.

An automatic pistol lay on the floor nearby. A note said Judge Hill had been in ill health for two years and was going to "end it all."

The room was registered in the name of Fred O. Grimes of Hillsboro, district governor of the Lions organization, with whom Judge Hill was visiting various Lions clubs in his district.

Wichitan to Wed Girl By Long Distance

Just how far Hymen has advanced in his art of marriage-making since first he roused the hearts of youths and maidens 'neath the olive trees on Mt. Olympus will be revealed in a strictly modern wedding which is to take place in Wichita Falls Saturday night at 10 o'clock.

In view of the fact that a wedding can not properly be said to have taken place, however, until the bride has spoken the all-important affirmatives to sundry questions, this Saturday night ceremony really can not be described as taking place in this city. For the bride will not be present. In fact, she will be some 1,300 miles from the listening groom when the bridal "I do's" are expected to be spoken.

On the other hand, since the happy pair intend to make their home here, and since the groom has lived in Wichita Falls for almost a decade, Wichita Falls properly may take pride in being the scene of this most unusual wedding.

Bride 1,300 Miles Away

Long distance telephones have served many and varied purposes, but seldom are they called upon to carry the nuptial promises of a bride and groom over an expanse of 1,300 miles, annihilating time and distance in order that the wiles of Cupid may attain fruition.

Principals in the eventful wedding service here Saturday night will be E. T. Higgins, 712 Brook

LAKE ACCIDENT CLAIMS LIFE OF AGED MAN

BODY BROUGHT HERE

Life Preservers Help Four Hunters in Party To Reach Shore

Four of five duck hunters who dared the rolling waves of Lake Kemp Friday morning probably owe their lives to their forethought in wearing life preservers while the fifth, S. L. (Dad) Sutton, aged caretaker of the Walter K. Campbell cabin at Lake Kemp, was dead of shock and exposure from immersion in the cold waters of the lake when the boat which contained the party capsized.

Charles P. McGaha, Adam Seitz, J. R. Seitz and W. B. Comegys, all of Wichita Falls and all excellent swimmers and equipped with life-preservers, struggled 350 yards to shore when their boat sank at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning. Mr. Sutton, 72, unable to swim, clung to a preserver as the others went for aid. His body was recovered still floating on the surface by John Crawford, caretaker for the irrigation district at Lake Kemp, who set out immediately in another boat as soon as he was informed of the accident.

Hampered by Clothing

The four men who were with Mr. Sutton battled waves which were rolling high from a stiff wind and probably would not have made the shore even with life preservers if all had not been good swimmers. Heavy hunting clothing and boots hampered their progress toward the shore.

Before the accident occurred, the party had set out from the mouth of Big Moonshine creek about 5 o'clock, starting for Coffee creek to set out duck decoys. About a mile south of the big dam the boat nose-dived into the water, filled with water and sank. Due to Mr. Sutton's inability to swim, the remainder of the party told him to remain where he was until the shore could be reached and help brought. Accustomed as Mr. Sutton was to the water, the four men accompanying him in the ill-fated boat believed that he died either from shock or heart failure, as when he was found his head was resting out of the water on the life preserver.

Services Undecided

A Markel Undertaking company ambulance was summoned when the body was found and returned here at 1 o'clock Friday. The four companions of the man returned to Wichita Falls shortly after.

Mr. Sutton had been employed at the lake for more than a year. A son, Scotty Sutton, is employed at the fish hatchery at the Diversion lake.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed late Friday night, pending word from relations in other states.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Mary Ramsey of Ponca City, Okla.; Mrs. Viola Townsend of Portsville, N. Y., and Mrs. Myrtle Clark of Olean, Pa., and the son at the Diversion lake.

CLAY COUNTY ROAD WIDENED

Work Starts on Henrietta Highway

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Oct. 31.—A project to widen the concrete highway through Clay county, costing between $60,000 and $65,000, has been approved by the highway commission and actual work started, according to T. K. Howard, county judge.

The project, it was explained, is being done at this time to relieve Clay county employment conditions and the work of widening the highway will be let to Clay county citizens exclusively, Judge Howard said. Between 75 and 100 men will be given work for a number of months, it was estimated, although only a small crew of eight men are at present working under Boone Biggerstaff, foreman.

The plan is to widen the highway to 100 feet right of way by embanking dirt along the side of the pavement, which is of regulation size in a 70-foot right of way. When the dirt has been placed into position, it will be planted with grass to give the embankment firmness.

U. S. TO SPEND BILLION DOLLARS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (US)—The government will expand its public works program to a billion dollars by Jan. 1, it was announced at the White House today following a conference between the president and Col. Arthur Woods, "employment dictator."

At the same time the president and Colonel Woods received reports that private industry would spend even a larger amount in new projects which would give work and relief to a large part of the army of unemployed as soon as contracts can be let. It was impossible to furnish an accurate estimate, it was stated, but the total will be larger than the government's.

Apoplexy Strikes Sheriff A. Y. Baker

EDINBURG, Texas, Oct. 31. (AP)—Sheriff A. Y. Baker, prominent in Hidalgo county politics for many years, suffered a stroke of apoplexy at noon today while attending a water district meeting at Linn, near here. He was removed to his home in Edinburg, still unconscious and in serious condition.

Baker has been sheriff of Hidalgo county for 18 years and previously was a Texas ranger serving on the border.

Political storms of recent years have centered around him as a leader of the Democratic party in this section. He met with strong opposition two years ago and again this year.

Confessed Embezzler May Be Re-Elected

LEMARS, Iowa, Oct. 31. (AP)—James Sickler, confessed embezzler of $14,000 in Plymouth county funds, taken while he was county clerk, and who resigned Wednesday, may find himself re-elected to office.

The Republican county committee met to choose a candidate for the office as a result of Sickler's resignation. But the committee did nothing, as ballots have been printed and it was too late to put a new candidate forward by means of ballot stickers.

This left Sickler's name on the ballot as Republican candidate, with Earl Remer, Democrat, opposing him.

WILD GUSHER SPEWS CLOUD OVER DISTRICT

Troops Ordered Out In Battle to Minimize Hazards

GREAT FLOW GROWS

Control Device Sought As Hundreds Abandon Menaced Homes

By GEORGE B. ROSCOE
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31.—Oil, the secret of much of Oklahoma City's prosperity and growth, tonight had become a destructive menace through the wild flow of a well in the wholesale district.

The No. 1 C. E. Stout gusher sent a roaring cloud of petroleum over the city, caused a fire menace and splashed buildings with a grimy waste.

Troops had been called and patrolled an area of 50 city blocks adjacent to the business section where the gusher blew in last night, cutting away valves and throwing into the air an output equal to 125,000 barrels of oil daily. Behind this inflammable cloud was a gas volume of more than 65,000,000 cubic feet which vaporized the black fluid.

Apprehension gripped the city which was faced with a menace paralleling the Frankenstein of fable which turned destructive fury on its creator.

Stones Add Menace

Stones were coughed up from the well and rattled against the steel framework of the derrick, falling like hail on surrounding wholesale houses and factories. Any one of them might strike a spark which would cause a disastrous fire emergency.

Conference Seeks Strike Adjustment

GALVESTON, Oct. 31. (UP)—Longshoremen union officials and representatives of Lykes Bros. Steamship company met in conference tonight in an effort to settle a strike that left 3,000 men idle today and tied up 30 freighters at Texas docks.

The strike was called last night after a meeting of longshoremen and stevedores and representatives of the maritime committee of the Houston and Galveston cotton exchanges at Galveston. A wage agreement that had been reached Oct 12 was believed settled until discussions were renewed last night.

Campbell Freed On Baker Murder Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—It took a jury only a little more than a half hour today to free Herbert M. Campbell of a charge of killing Mary Baker, navy department clerk.

There was a mild demonstration in the courtroom and the usual handshaking and congratulations. Campbell, a Virginia real estate dealer, had been somber-faced during the last days of the trial but he grinned after the verdict was announced.

Hambone's Meditations

Costumed Crowds Jam Streets In City's Annual Halloween Party

Hilarious merry-making on the downtown streets of Wichita Falls Friday night supplied definite proof that Halloween has entrenched itself firmly among the holidays which retain an unfailing hold upon the fancy of American families.

Families they were, these crowds which milled about the business district in a swirling spectacle of varied mummery. While the most elaborate costumes, and far-fetched reaches of practical jokes, originated chiefly with the youngsters, thousands of adults paraded about town with seasonable adornments and in a spirit of abandoned gaiety. All classes and both sexes, reduced by panto-mime and camouflage to a common membership in the fun-making crowd, paid honor for the few brief hours afforded annually by Halloween to the spirit of make-believe.

No high school "pep" epidemic has raised more of a din than that which echoed between business blocks down town Friday night from 7 to 9 o'clock, as horns, squawkers, rattles and less describable noise-equipment mingled with shouts both joyous and mischievous in a bedlam of sound. Not only was a holiday spirit evidenced by the jostling hordes upon the sidewalks, but in the agitated, feverish crowding of automobiles on all the downtown streets. Drivers watched apprehensively less the revellers leap aboard, or play some prank upon them while jammed traffic forbade advance. Many calls for tire service resulted from deflated tires on parked cars, while other returning owners rolled up their sleeves and labored in payment for the hours of riotous fun.

As usual, the thousands of costumes which put in their appear-

SPEWING OIL THREATENS O. C.

Wild Gusher Hurls Mist Over District

oil floated over business buildings, dropping a drizzle of filth on these and on the capitol building. A few motor cars were on the streets. Windshields soon became almost opaque from the oil.

Officials tested the gas in the air and stood ready to order evacuation of an area more than a mile square. Already families were moving from houses nearby.

Airplanes were escorted in a detour as they approached Oklahoma City. There was danger of their exhausts causing aerial explosions in the charged atmosphere.

Col. Turner Roark, commanding officer, said tonight that several coal fires were found in abandoned shacks. These were extinguished. All matches were taken from guardsmen so that they would not be tempted to smoke.

Guards Mobilized

A total of nine companies of guardsmen were mobilized. More than 200 men will be in the field by morning, Colonel Roark said. Some of the guardsmen were mounted. All were armed, with either side arms or rifles with bayonets fixed.

During the day the sun's rays were tinged with an orange glow as they shone through the mist of oil. As darkness fell few lights were seen. In many homes it was impossible to light fires to cook meals. Relief was provided for those jeopardized, many of them unemployed workers.

A constant roar could be heard for miles and kept ever-present in the minds of the city's people that the danger persisted. The roar came from the whine of the powerful gas and oil pressure behind the flow.

Patroling soldiers wore field equipment and raincoats. They were under orders to arrest anyone striking a fire. The men's faces became grimy. They were joined by firemen and officials.

Meanwhile at a foundry a device was fashioned which it was hoped would cap the powerful well. The device is known a s a "Christmas tree" and is a powerful iron peak equipped with valves. It was completed shortly after night and preparations were made to attempt to adjust it over the gusher.

May Blast Well

Attorney General J. Berry King announced he might condemn the well if he could find a legal basis for such action. Such action would permit an attempt to blast the well and plug it permanently. It is a measure which never has been invoked in the United States, oil men said.

Veteran oil men described the well as the most tremendous they had ever seen. These men have seen gushers brought in in the Oklahoma City field almost daily and the city's wealth increase as the field slowly extended into corporate limits. Recently a ruling was made permitting drilling inside the city.

Fred Morgan, operator of the wild well, was at the scene of danger all day.

"No one will take a bigger chance than I," Morgan said.

It was estimated that the daily loss from the wasted oil would amount to $125,000. The Champlin Refining company built pipes to the scene and diverted a portion of the oil into tanks. Embankments were thrown up in nearby streets and dammed the black flood into lakes. Workmen wore steel helmets. The curious were forbidden to approach the district.

The weather tonight was still and chilly. Both factors were unfavorable. The absence of wind caused the gas to tend to settle earthward. The cold air worked hardship on families forbidden fires.

The flow showed a tendency to increase as the hours passed. Authorities said:

"We can only hope there is no fire. It would cause an unprecedented emergency."

Many of the residents in the immediate vicinity of the gusher were negroes. More than 200 of them had left their homes by dusk. They found refuge from the cold night in negro churches. Others slept in alleys, preferring to race the hobgoblins of Halloween than the dangers of unleashed nature.

All available tents from the national guard were checked at armories. They may be used to construct a tent city away from the danger zone for those without shelter.

avenue, and Mrs. Nina H. DeChantel of Superior, Wis. The bride will be recognized by many magazine readers throughout the country as the contributor of various stories during recent years. Throughout the North Central states also she has become well known to radio audiences during the past two years. Mr. Higgins is a native of Texas, having been born in Young county, and began his career as a school teacher at Graham. For more than a score of years he was active in the Socialist party in Texas, and is said to have been placed on national election ballots by that party on numerous occasions. He is now in busin - at 712 Brook, and is an officer in the Modern Woodmen of America.

Marrs to Officiate

When Judge John P. Marrs reads the marriage rites here Saturday night, the groom will be present, but the bride will be in Duluth, Minn. The telephone which will serve the wedding party here will be equipped with three receivers, one of which will be used by Judge Marrs, one by Mr. Higgins, and one by Mrs. E. M. Cantrell, daughter of the groom. At the other end of the matrimonal wire arranged for the occasion the bride will be accompanied by a friend who will "witness" the ceremony by wire.

The room in which the wedding is to take place, in its local phases, has been ingeniously prepared for the event by Mrs. Cantrell. Except for the three receivers which will be visible, the nuptial telephone would not be recognized, for it is concealed in the form of a doll-bride, in luxurious wedding gown of white satin with a bride's veil of white tulle. The "proxy bride" will stand before a miniature altar of white which has been arranged in one end of the room, and will deliver from Mrs. DeChantel at Duluth the answers for which the groom will be listening. Floral decorations will complement the improvised altar in providing an attractive wedding bower for the affair.

Invited guests for the ceremony will be Judge and Mrs. Marrs, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Self of Electra, Roy Anderson, Childress; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Ramage, Mrs. Mollie Rogers, Mrs. Cantwell, of Eldorado, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thoes, formerly of Duluth, and W. M. Hamson, also from Duluth.

According to the groom, arrangements for performance of the wedding by telephone were made in order that transaction of business matters by the bride in the northern city under her prospective new name might be completed without occasioning an early trip back to that point. CASSEL, Germany, Oct. 31. (AP)—The provincial governor of this area today forbade the publication for 30 days of two National-Socialist (Fascist) daily newspapers, the Frankfurter Volksblatt and the Wiesbaden Rheinwach.

THOROUGHMAN TAKES STAND

Fighting Parson Was Just Looking for Drink

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 31.—As the only witness in his own defense, C. L. Thoroughman, former noted federal enforcement officer charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, occupied the stand for two hours in federal court here this afternoon, making positive denial that he had any interest, financial or otherwise, in the big distilling outfit captured and destroyed by federal officers on the night of March 18, 1930, on the Frank Avery farm, eight miles southwest of Lawton, where he was arrested at the time of the raid.

He admitted on the stand, however, that he had driven to the Avery place on the night of his arrest for a supply of liquor, but asserted it was the first time he had engaged in such an act. He made further denial that he had made statements to officers that every dollar he had was invested in the outfit.

The defendant admitted he had sufficient number of jars in his car to transport 50 gallons of whisky. He made denial after denial relative to testimony of the many witnesses placed on the stand by the government giving his own explanations as to when and why he had been seen in the company of whisky makers and his association with them. He denied having hauled any supplies or apparatus to the farm or of having known of such having been hauled.

For almost two hours the former Methodist minister who seven years ago left the pulpit at Yukon to become a dry sleuth, withstood a terrific barrage from the prosecution without apparently losing his temper or raising his voice. Even when repeatedly quizzed about a woman who had been seen in his company for two years and whom he admitted was not on the government pay roll, he apparently retained his self control.

Death Takes Foard County Old-Timer

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 31.—P. P. Cooper, who died last week at Crowell in Foard county at the age of 76 years, had been a resident of that county for 47 years.

Coming to the section that is now Foard county in 1883 he was among the first settlers in this part of Texas. Only four persons now living in Foard have been here longer that Mr. Cooper. They are Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley and W. T. Dunn of Margaret, and Mrs. George Burk of Crowell.

Margaret was formerly the county seat of Hardeman county, which embraced what is now Foard county.

Mr. Cooper worked as a cowhand and trail driver in early days, and until 1908, when the Orient railroad built into Crowell, he was a freighter from Quanah to Crowell. In later years he was a farmer.

In 1884 Cooper traveled the old Chisholm trail with herds of cattle to Dodge City, Kan., and was widely known among the "cow-hands" and ranchmen of West Texas.

LONG HONORS GRAY HEROES

Louisiana Vets Promised Christmas Gift

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 31. (AP)—The Confederate veteran was characterized as the "greatest soldier that has ever borne arms either in medieval or modern ages." by Gov. Huey P. Long in an address before the annual reunion of the Louisiana Confederate Veterans here today.

The governor told the gray heroes that their pension amendment would be passed by the voters of Louisiana next Tuesday and that they would all receive a check for $60 at Christmas.

Tribute to the women of the South was paid by John R. Hunter, local attorney, as well as to the worn heroes. "The mothers, wives, daughters and sweethearts fought equally as valiant a battle at home as did the soldiers at the cannon's mouth," he asserted.

The speaker said there should be two monuments erected to commemorate the deeds of heroism of those who played a conspicuous part in the civil war—one for the women of the South and the others to the heroes of the battlefield.

HOSPITAL KEPT UNDER GUARD

Police Fear Gang May Seek Wounded Victim

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Armed police patrolled the halls of West Lake hospital today to prevent hoodlums from making a new attack on Police Sergeant James McBride, who was shot and wounded on a street car pseusmably to prevent him from testifying in a murder case.

The guard was placed last night after authorities expressed belief that the men who fired a hail of bullets and slugs at McBride yesterday, breaking his jaw and throwing fellow passengers into a stampede, would not hesitate to try to invade the hospital for a renewed assault.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne said he believed there was no doubt the assault was made by members of the gang of Jack (Three-Fingered) White, accused of slaying Policeman Edward Pflaume and wounding McBride in a suburban tavern five years ago. White was once freed on a murder charge growing out of Pflaume's death, but the case was recently re-instated, in line with the present campaign against crime in Chicago.

Breckenridge Drouth Relief Plans 'Fall Through' at Eleventh Hour

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 31.—After waiting here until 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon for word from his superiors at Washington regarding the shipment of government wheat to the Breckenridge chamber of commerce to be distributed to Stephens county farmers, N. E. Hackney, vice president of the Oklahoma Wheat Growers association and special agent of the federal farm board, left without having made any arrangements for receiving the wheat seed for this drouth area.

Just when all arrangements had been made with Mr. Hackney, the local chamber of commerce and more than 50 Stephens county farmers Wednesday, a wire was received here informing the agent that the federal government has decided to withdraw the plan of furnishing cheap seed wheat to this county. It is thought that the federal government believed the project would grow to such an extent that it could not be properly financed by the government.

The Breckenridge officials immediately wired government heads asking for an extension of the plan for a few days but no definite word complying with this request had been received here Thursday by Mr. Hackney before he left for other drouth areas.

It had been the plan of the Breckenridge chamber to order at least two carloads of the government wheat for distribution among farmers unable to buy seed on any other plan.

ALTUS SCHOOL EXPENSE LESS

Despite Additions, Costs Are Reduced

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 31.—Although the Altus public school system has increased by three additional schools since 1929, the expenses for operating the seven school building system will be $2,000 less than last year, M. L. Cotton, city superintendent, announced this week.

The statement was made by the county excise board, following the approval of the estimate prepared by the local board of education.

The budget for the year ending June 1, 1931, calls for an expenditure of $89,740, compared with approximately $92,000 spent in 1929-30.

Of this amount salaries comprise slightly over $73,000 of the total; transportation, approximately $1,700; heating, $4,000; paving tax, $1,250; insurance, $1,500, and the remainder is expended for lights, water and incidental expenses.

The estimate required a levy of only 14.83 mills for the general fund and six mills for the sinking fund.

Valuation of the Altus school district on the other hand, shows an increase from $5,602,050 to $5,801,445, the superintendent said.

Closing out today, 28 Society Brand and Barbury suits at $25. P. B. M. company.—Adv.

Seven Cases Set in Altus Court Term

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 31.—Seven cases have been set for hearing at a new term of district court, beginning Monday, Nov. 13, by Judge Frank Mathews.

Paramount among the cases in local interest will be that of Vernon Robsion, charged with the murder of Elmer Carter, Jackson county deputy sheriff, which will be held Nov. 17. A change of venue may be asked in this case due to feeling that it might be impossible to secure a fair trial due to prejudices in Altus and Jackson county.

The second day of court will be occupied in a rehearing of the case of the state of Oklahoma against J. P. Leslie. Leslie, charged with obtaining property under false pretenses, was bound over for a new trial as a result of a hung jury during the first hearing earlier this month. The jury deliberated over a period of several hours.

Versatile Cranberry Favored by Cooks Since Days of Pilgrims

Mrs. Dawson Gives Many Recipes for Preparation of Food; Oyster Omelet for Sunday Breakfast

By MRS. ARCH DAWSON, B. S. M. A.
Written Especially for The Record News

Oyster Omelet

Melt six tablespoonfuls of butter in an omelet pan over very gentle heat; and beat the yolks of six eggs, add a cup of milk, stir together, and season with one-half a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth a teaspoonful of pepper and a cup of large oysters, measured after bearding and cutting in fourths with a sharp knife, and add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Next beat in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs.

Now let the butter in the pan get very hot, pour in the mixture, and have ready a large, flexible spatula to slip around the sides of the pan as the eggs coagulate, then under the omelet, lifting it so that the butter may reach every part. When the center is set and the bottom delicately brown, fold the omelet as usual and turn out on a hot platter. Serve at once, garnished with parsley.

Roast Beef With Yorkshire Pudding

Sear the meat in a hot over (450 degrees F.) in an uncovered roasting pan, for 15 minutes. Lower the flame to moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and roast until tender, allowing about 12 minutes to the pound. After the first half hour, place the meat on a rack in the pan, season it, and continue roasting in a covered pan.

To make the Yorkshire pudding, beat 2 eggs, add 1 pint milk, and beat in 1¼ cupfuls flour and one-half teaspoonful salt with the egg beater. Half on hour before ready to eat, pour the batter into the bottom of the roaster under the rack on which the meat is resting. See that there is about one-eighth inch of drippings in the pan. Return to the oven, and continue roasting. Ten minutes before serving, remove the meat, and brown the Yorkshire pudding. Cut it in squares and serve with the meat.

Molded Sauerkraut Ring

Two tablespoonfuls gelatine.
Two tablespoonfuls cold water.
Two cupfuls sauerkraut juice.
Three tablespoonfuls sugar.
One-half cupful diced cooked beets.
One-half cupful diced cooked carrots.
One-fourth cupful diced celery.

Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in the hot sauerkraut juice. Add the sugar and let cool. Pour half of the mixture into a mold and when it begins to set, add the other half, mixed with the vegetables. Chill. Serve on lettuce with tomato mayonnaise. Serves six.

Tomato Mayonnaise

One and one-third cupfuls mayonnaise.
One third cupful tomato catsup.
One-half teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce.

Combine all ingredients and mix well.

Marlboro Pie

Marlboro pie is one of the old-time apple pies, and it deserves to be brought back on our tables. To make one you should cut in quarters one pound and one-half of large sour, cooking apples. Do not core or pare, but steam them until soft enough to press through a colander, and mix with them while hot four tablespoonfuls of butter, the beaten yolks of three eggs, the juice of a small lemon and its yellow, grated rind. Lastly, beat in the stiffly beaten whites of the three eggs, and bake in a deep pie plate lined with a flaky pastry. Serve cold, with a blanket of whipped cream and a garnish of red jelly pressed through a ricer.

Parfait Mazarin

One cupful sugar.
One cupful water.
Three egg whites, stiffly beaten.
Two cups cream, whipped.
Two squares (two ounces) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled.
One tablespoonful vanilla.

Cook sugar and water until a small amount of syrup forms a soft ball in cold water, or spins a long thread when dropped from the tip of a spoon (238 degrees F.) Pour syrup in fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until mixture is cool. Fold in chocolate, cream and vanilla. Pour into mold filling it to overflowing, cover with waxed paper, press cover tightly down over paper and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand 3 to 4 hours. Or, place in freezing trays of a refrigerator and let stand 3 to 4 hours. Serve in parfait glasses and top with whipped cream. Makes 1¼ quarts parfait.

The Verstile Cranberry

The Pilgrim women discovered the bright red, acid berries, which grew in the marshes of the Cape Cod peninsula, were good to eat. It is easy to imagine how they first tasted the raw cranberries and then decided that these berries might add zest to their meals when sweetened.

It was probably by accident that cranberries were served with wild turkey out of which grew the custom of serving the bird with cranberry sauce on Thanksgiving. Cranberries are often forgotten as soon as the holiday season is over even though they may be procured the greater part of the year at our markets. This should not occur as they are a valuable food from the health standpoint. They contain mineral salts, in good proportions being rich in iron, and they are known to contain a small amount of vitamin C. Then, cranberries blend well with many meats and may be served freely as an accompaniment to fresh pork, veal cutlets, and mutton chops, as well as with the reigning fowls of the holiday season.

Most modern cooks know that cranberries make delicious pies, conserves and puddings as well as sauces and jellies, but few realize the variety of delicious dishes that may be made with them. The following recipes offer a few novelties in preparing this versatile fruit.

Stewed Prunes With Cranberries

Simmer until tender a pint of prunes, soaked overnight; remove from the sauce pan with a skimmer and when cold remove the pits and place in a serving dish. Add to the water in which they were cooked one quart of cranberries—put in more water if necessary—and cook until tender; sweeten to taste and pour the cranberries around the prunes; serve cold.

Apples Baked With Cranberries

To prepare them fill the core space with cranberry jelly and baste often with a syrup made of equal parts of sugar and water. One and one-half pounds sugar, (three cupfuls).

Wash the fruit. Cook the cranberries in the water until the berries burst. Strain. Add the remaining ingredients and cook 25 minutes or until the mixture is thick stirring to prevent burning. Test the thickness by dropping from a spoon. If it falls in heavy drops, the conserve is sufficiently cooked. Pour into sterilized glasses. When cool, seal by pouring melted paraffin over the cold conserve. Allow the paraffin to harden and cover the glasses with the lids. Wipe the outside of the glasses, label, and store. Cranberry conserve is a delightful substitute for cranberry jelly and will keep indefinitely. It should be made at least a week before using, and thus it can be done before the last busy days preceding Thanksgiving, when there is so much to do.

Cranberry Jelly

Pick over carefully one quart of good firm cranberries, discarding any that are soft or imperfect. Then place the berries in a strainer or colander, wash them thoroughly with cold water, drain, and place in a saucepan with one cupful of boiling water. Allow them to boil about 10 minutes, or until soft and the skins are broken. Remove the saucepan from the fire and pour the berries into a seive. With the back of a wooden spoon mash through the seive as much of the pulp as possible. Place the strained pulp and juice in the saucepan again, add two cupfuls of sugar, and return to the fire. Allow the mixture to come to a boil, stirring so that the sugar may be thoroughly dissolved. Turn immediately into a wet mold, or sterilized glasses, for if it is cooked longer it may go beyond the jellying stage and not stiffen or set. (An apple, peeling and core, may be cut up and cooked with the cranberries, if you have trouble in making cranberry jelly jell).

Because of its high acid content, cranberry jelly has a tendency to liquefy if kept for a long period

He's Been On That Corner For Thirty Years

When you hear someone make a remark like that, you know without looking that he is speaking of an INDEPENDENTLY MANAGED store. Indeed, many of these have been doing business in Wichita Falls for considerably longer than thirty years. They were founded by sturdy business men, pioneers in a true sense. These merchants had faith in Wichita Falls, and were willing to "stick with" the town through adversity.

These men . . . and their sons and grandsons . . . have carried on . . . have helped Wichita Falls over rough spots . . . have extended credit during hard times . . . have contributed gladly to any project that meant a greater Wichita Falls. Patronizing them now means an assurance of continued prosperity.

of time. For this reason it is better to plan to use it soon after making.

Cranberry Sauce

Boil two cupfuls of sugar and two cupfuls of water for five minutes. Add one quart of berries to the syrup. Cover and simmer until the berries are tender and transparent.

Cranberry Frappe

One quart (1 pound) cranberries.
Two and one-half cupfuls sugar.
Four cupfuls water.
Juice one large lemon.

Cook the cranberries and water slowly, until soft. Force through a sieve, and add the sugar and lemon juice. When cool, freeze, using equal parts of chopped ice and rock salt. Serve with roast chicken or turkey, or as a dessert.

Cold Pork, Veal, Corned Beef or Chicken Pie

To two cupfuls of the meat, chopped and seasoned, add one cupful of white sauce and one cupful cranberries, chopped and mixed with four tablespoonfuls sugar and one tablespoonful melted butter. Bake in a deep dish lined with pastry and with a top crust.

A tasty variation to the stuffing for turkey, chicken, duck and the pocket of veal or pork is made by adding three-fourths cupful of cranberry sauce to each cupful of breadcrumbs, with the usual seasonings.

Cranberry and Celery Salad

Cook one pint of cranberries with one cupful of water and one cupful of sugar until tender and press through a sieve. Soften one tablespoonful of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water; add the cranberry pulp and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Pour a layer into a wet mold; add a layer of diced celery, chopped walnuts and olives, as soon as the jelly becomes firm enough to hold them; repeat, having the last layer of jelly and using about a cup of celery, and one-fourth cupful each of walnuts and olives. When cold cut in squares and serve garnished with mayonnaise and sprigs of parsley.

Cranberry Cream

One and one-half cupful cranberries.
Three-fourths cupful boiling water.
Three-fourths cupful sugar.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls gelatin.
Three tablespoonfuls cold water.
One-half cupful apple sauce (sweetened).
One-half cupful chopped walnuts.

Put the cranberries and water in a sauce pan and cook until tender. Strain; add the sugar and cook until the sugar is dissolved. Stir in the gelatin, soaked in the cold water. Remove from the fire; when slightly cool stir in the apple sauce and chopped nuts. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

Deep-Dish Cranberry Pie

Two cupfuls cranberries, chopped fine.
One cupful sugar.
Two-thirds cupful soaked prunes.
One tablespoonful lemon juice.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.
One-half cupful prune juice.
One-half cupful chopped walnuts.
Two-thirds cupful apples (sliced thin).
Pie crust.

Chop the cranberries fine and add the soaked and pitted prunes, cut in pieces; add the lemon juice. Put in a deep pie-dish in alternate layers, with the very thinly sliced apples, sprinkling each layer with the walnut meats and sugar. Pour the prune juice over all. Dot with bits of butter, cover with the pie crust. Make several slits in the top for the steam to escape. Bake in a moderately hot oven for about 30 minutes, starting with a temperature of 425 degrees F then reduce to 400 degrees F for the last 20 minutes. Serve plain or with whipped or hard sauce.

Dry Agent Spies In Senate Building At Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The disclosure was made today that an undercover prohibition agent was stationed sometime ago in the senate office building.

When published reports to this effect were shown Dr. James M. Doran, former prohibition director, and now commissioner of industrial alcohol, he said he had sent the agent to the building at the request of authorities there.

"It was my understanding," Doran said, "there never was any intention to spy upon the members of the senate, but merely to stop the activities of a bootlegger whose liquor selling the authorities on Capitol hill wanted stopped."

Brothers Indicted On Bribery Charge

HOUSTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Two brothers, Frank and Carlos Carso, were indicted today by the Harris county grand jury on charges of attempting to bribe officers and of possession and sale of intoxicating liquor. The charges grew out of a raid Oct. 17 on a combination filling station and residence.

One indictment alleged the defendants tried to bribe Capt. J. J. Kuykendall and Detectives A. Bartlingok and B. A. Durden. The officers were offered $300 to "refrain from performing their duty" by arresting the Carso brothers, the indictments charge.

27 Cars of Feed Shipped Into Jackson County

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 31.—Twenty-seven cars of feed have been shipped into Jackson county under the terms of the reduced freight rates for drouth-stricken communities, and one car of cattle has been shipped out of the county since the beginning of the reduced freight rates this fall, a check of local railway freight depots revealed this week.

Of the 27 cars of feed, 17 have been prairie hay, seven oats and one each of wheat, maize and barley. The cars were shipped in accordance with a policy adopted by railway freight systems in this country, whereby farmers in drouth-stricken communities may secure feed grains with one-third freight rate reduction and one-half reduction on hay shipping rates.

Helping the Jobless
At Last Some Action!
The Limit in Rackets
New York's Vice Ring

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Cold weather gives the unemployment problem a touch of realism which makes our city officials think a bit faster.

In New York, the Bronx market, a white elephant on the hands of the city for several years, will be opened to house the homeless. A fund providing $150,000 a week, to be distributed among the idle, is being raised.

It is planned to tax municipal employes and executives to aid in the relief. City employes living on small wages should not be made to carry the burden.

A 44-hour week for those holding government jobs is advocated. That is more like it. It would make room for 50,000 workers. In Chicago there is a "Hire-a-Worker Week" plan under way. In Cleveland rail unions urge a six-hour day with full pay, looking towards the employment of another 50,000.

In Detroit a number of large industries are trying out the "stagger" system of employment. The country, it seems, is waking up to a condition which needed remedying six months ago. It is not too late to prevent much suffering. If there is hardship you can blame government officials, who have been sitting back in their comfortable offices and saying for months that things were getting better—and doing nothing!

You get an idea of how vicious corruption can be in New York by studying the report of the very able Mr. Isidor J. Kresel, special counsel inquiring into the irregularities of city magistrates. He reveals the operation of a huge vice ring, including a number of policemen, stoolpigeons, bondsmen and attorneys, who have extorted a vast sum from women through framed vice raids. The leader of this racket, a gentleman known as "The Dove," volunteers the information that the ring is so powerful it does not need to "fix" magistrates whose courts it used as threats to extort money.

In Russia, wicked country of the Bolshevists, "The Dove" would be lined up against the wall and shot. Here, if authorities get too rough with him, he will hire a high-priced lawyer who will tell him how to protect his "rights" and get him out of it.

Here is a case which will show you how the system works, if you are interested.

The widow of a famous New York impresario is framed and arrested on a sex charge. She is convicted, but a higher court now declares she is innocent. This will no more give her back the status of respectability than pinning a gold medal on a bad soldier. Here is a rank injustice which could only be slightly remedied by a public apology to her from the police department and the magistrate who convicted her.

But men like Capone and "Legs" Diamond the law lets alone. They cannot be arrested for anything. The impresario's widow, however, is dragged through the mire "to serve the ends of justice." It is a sinister fact, due to the corruption in our courts, that the public is beginning to believe a man is guilty when he is acquitted and innocent when convicted.

Theft Suspect to Be Returned to California

HOUSTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—D. F. Scott, under grand theft indictment in California in connection with the alleged disappearance of $12,000 in securities of a Hollywood securities firm, arrested here, will be taken back to California Sunday, officers announced today.

Deputy Sheriff F. R. Fletcher of Los Angeles was here today preparing to return Scott, who waived extradition, said he wanted to go back and declared he knew nothing of the affair.

The indictment contained 25 counts.

Nobuddy knows you in a big city, an' that's the reason quite a few ordinary people make good in 'em. Mrs. Lester Jet was arrested today fer lettin' her engine run while askin' fer help at the township trustees office.

Druggists at a recent convention favored excluding bathing suits and auto tires from their sales lines. What with a profitable sandwich and book trade, maybe they regard other commodities as drugs on the markets.

At least, there's one thing that Chicago gangsters have to be thankful for—life insurance agents probably never pester them.

John Gregg, inventor of the shorthand system, has just married. His wife should find him adequately equipped to take dictation.

The Road to Nowhere

THE American motorist is beginning to get pretty snooty on the subject of good roads. No longer is he content to take things as he finds them. When he goes driving, he wants to follow only the best highways there are. Bring him to a cross-roads and he will inevitably take the fork that looks the smoothest and the most heavily traveled.

No one, of course, likes to be bumped, and sticking to the slickest pavement is ordinarily very sound; but the bumpy, narrow dirt road that wanders off to nowhere will often give the driver a lot more pleasure than the modern highway from which all bumps have been removed.

It is, let us say, Sunday, and church and the Sunday dinner have been duly attended to. Mr. Average American gets out his car, piles himself and his family into it, and sets out to drive. What happens to him?

Well, if he sticks to the good roads he is apt to have more trouble than fun. Traffic does get heavy, on a nice Sunday afternoon in the fall of the year. Hot-dog stands and filling stations make the roadside depressing. If one comes to a lovely bit of scenery one cannot stop, or one will be tooted at by a thousand cars following after. All in all, it isn't so hot.

But there is a way out. Let the wandering motorist deliberately seek out some utterly unpromising and neglected road, unpaved and untended, that wanders unobtrusively off from the main highway and loses itself in the farmlands. If he will follow such roads all afternoon, taking the bumps as they come, risking the mudholes and the narrow places, he can have motoring at its best.

It is on such roads that one can really savor the countryside. One comes to drowsy farms, with snake-rail fences whose corners harbor sumach, with weatherbeaten old barns innocent of advertisements, and orchards whose leaves have turned a delicate soft brown and whose branches droop low with ripe fruit. In the background there are the hills and plains, swathed in the haze of autumn, mysterious and wistful, as if some profound secret lurked in their empty dales. Now and then—even close to large cities—the motorist will come to some tiny cross-roads country town of whose very existence he had been ignorant, a town that looks precisely as it did 40 years ago, except for the gasoline pump in front of the general store.

And the best part of it is that the wandering sightseer can take his time. If he finds some vista of forest land, its leaves aflame and its aisles clouded with a blue haze, as if the whole earth were dully smoldering, he can stop and look to his heart's content. He does not have to hurry. He does not have to be reminded that many things in this modern world are ugly and nerve-wracking. He can loaf along and draw peace and contentment into his soul.

Try it, sometime. Quit the main roads, hunt out some untraveled byway that looks as if it led to nowhere, and follow it. Then you will learn the real joys of motoring.

Diaries and Privacy

THE sculptor in Richmond, Va., who left directions in his will that his diary, which he had kept up to date for 73 years, be burned without being read by anyone, had, it seems to us, the right idea about the proper place a diary should have.

A diary, if it means anything at all, is composed of one's most private and intimate musings on one's self, one's life and one's acquaintances. Its excuse for existence is the fact that its author wants to get things off of his chest but does not feel like letting his fellow men hear him do it. It is strictly a personal matter. Hence, when the diarist dies, he does not want others to look at it. They would get too close a glimpse at his own soul.

The man who writes his diary with the notion that someone else, some day, will read it is not really a diarist at all; he is simply an exhibitionist. The genuine diary exists only for the writer of it.

The Passing of a Grudge

MOST hatreds do not last very long. National feeling has a way of softening as the years pass. A collective grudge is a hard thing to keep alive.

The other day the Spanish General Valeriano Weyler died—and got, on an average, a paragraph or two of type in most American newspapers. Yet it was only a generation ago that Weyler was the object of more American hatred than any other man alive.

Weyler was the officer Spain sent to Cuba to curb the insurrection of the '90's. His inhuman methods of treating the civilian population had a great deal to do with rousing indignation in this country to the point where a declaration of war could have popular support.

But now, when he dies, the old hatred is dead. It takes a more than ordinarily bitter grudge to last 30 years.

A Cause for Optimism

ALTHOUGH the bureau of business conditions of the Alexander Hamilton institute does not believe that business will improve to any satisfactory extent before next spring, at the earliest, it nevertheless sees reason for a strong, healthy optimism as regards the future.

"Prosperity," it remarks in a current bulletin, "depends on production, and the means to produce are as great now as in 1929. The United States still has machinery, abundant natural resources and an energetic, capable and intelligent people. Given these fundamentals, nothing can stop, over the long-term trend, increasing production, greater prosperity, a higher standard of living. A period of depression is not a sign of degeneration but a sign of progress. It is merely the result of zealousness overdone, a characteristic which is the root of progress."

There is a lot of sound sense in that. It comes as a good antidote to some of the gloomy pessimism which is so popular right now.

HEARTBREAK GIRL

By ROB EDEN

Gail Stuart, befriended by Nick Walther, wealthy Hollywood man, fails when he gets a screen test for her. She becomes secretary to Carla Cross, the star, who hopes to marry Walther. Gail, by a white lie, gets Ross Hardy, her fiance, a chance as Carla's leading man. Nick again befriends Gail when she takes the blame for an auto accident in which Carla runs over a woman. Ross makes good in the picture, but Gail is heartbroken to overhear him making love to Carla. She mails back her engagement ring. The critics praise Hardy's acting over that of Carla. She flies into a tantrum when she reads them, telling Max Brackett, her director, she'll never have him in another picture. Brakett tells her Ross is to be featured by himself.

CHAPTER XXII

The next day Gail saw Ross for a few minutes on the terrace. He had just brought Carla in from a ride.

"I want you to know how glad I am—" the girl went up to him. Her heart was beating very fast, and her voice shook as she addressed him. Her cheeks were crimson and her eyes almost black with excitement. Would he say anything about the ring? About her returning it? Would he . . .

"So am I." Ross seemed embarrassed. He did not look at her. His fingers tore a leaf from a rose bush, and crushed it quickly.

"It's marvelous, Ross." Why was she trembling so? Why were the tears coming into her eyes? She had wanted to say so much, and now she could think of nothing to say, nothing to hold him. She hoped he wouldn't see her eyes, all wet. She half turned away so he wouldn't, and noticed that in place of the Sun car there stood another, larger, and leaner and longer, a smooth shiny black, with red wheels, and a line of red around the slim body.

"You've a new car?" Anything to hold him. Keep him here with her.

"Yes, the other was too small."

Gail remembered how thrilled he had been with the Sun. Their first ride in it. Ross praising it to the skies, telling her that after his old Ford it was heaven. The Sun, too small. This car was a foreign make. Expensive. A roadster as the other had been. No more room, but the Sun too small. . .

Then Ross, with a hurried good bye fled to his car, and swung himself lightly into the seat without opening the door. In his white flannels, he looked like a god. . .

Carla and he had tried out the car this afternoon. Gail and he had tried out the Sun. . .

Disappointed the girl started back into the house. Carla would be wanting her.

Ross hadn't been at ease with her, hadn't mentioned the diamond. Perhaps it had been lost in the mail. Should she inquire about it? After all she had not insured it, had not registered it. It might be lost.

Lost in Mails

Gail was sure it was lost as she went quickly up the stairs. Else Ross would have said something. She had sent it to him, and it had been lost. He was probably wondering why she wasn't wearing it. He would mean that even if he didn't love her any more, she could keep the ring as a gift. She wished she hadn't been so hasty about sending it away. Wished it were now on her finger.

Some day Ross would ask her about it, and she would have to tell him it had been lost in the mails. Lost. His gift.

He didn't love her. That was certain. He loved Carla . . . She swallowed the sob in her throat and went into the actress' bedroom, where Carla was changing her clothes.

"Ross has a new car," Carla remarked idly. Gail said she had seen it on the drive.

The hysterics of yesterday were forgotten. The scene after Max had left when Carla raved and tore about the reviews of "Crossroads" Gail would never forget. Even today some of the passion of that hour remained in Carla's face. Her eyes were not quite so bright. They looked strained, and glassy.

"Ross gave me a present today. He said it was to celebrate the picture, and its success. He's a dear, don't you think? Small, but rather nice, isn't it?"

Carla drew a diamond ring from her slim hand and passed it over to Gail. The girl took it, and looked at it dutifully. Then with more interest. The ring—why it was hers! The ring Ross had given her, the one she had sent away yesterday morning. Her diamond ring! He had given it to her. Of course it was hers! She would know it among a million. And she had thought it was lost. . . .

Over and over she turned it, aching to slip it on her finger for just a minute but not daring. Ross giving her ring to Carla. A gift, Carla had said. But she had sent it back. It was his now to do with as he chose. That was why he hadn't said anything about it, why he had been embarrassed on the terrace.

"Nice, isn't it?" Carla asked again.

Moments of Suffering

"Yes—very—nice—" Gail hardly knew how she managed a smile as she uttered the words. Her tongue was dry, and her lips seemed parched.

"Small, but I'm going to have it set with two others the same size for a dinner ring. Don't forget to remind me to go into the jewelers tomorrow. My other two diamonds are there—I only intended to have two in the setting, and now I can have three. The ring will really be gorgeous."

Ross' ring, and Carla was having it reset. With two other diamonds. The ring that had meant so much to her. She had kissed it every night before she went to bed. A silly ritual, but she had done it because Ross had given it to her . . .

Kissed it and wished on it. Wished Ross and she could be married right away. A fool, she had been.

Carla said the stone was small. She had thought it large. Indeed, she was conscious of it all the time. Now it was Carla's to do as she pleased with. Throw it away, have it made over—anything.

The platinum band seemed to be burning her fingers as she handed it back to the actress. Obediently, she went to Carla's engagement book and entered in the appointment for the next day. "Jewelers—Ross' ring."

"Yes—very nice—." Gail hardly knew how she managed a smile as she uttered the words.

Her ring, she should have put. Her ring. She had worn it for two months.

"Call Tod for me, will you?" Carla asked. "I want to see him right away."

So Gail called the press agent, thinking all the time of the ring, and Ross. If she could only forget him. She must forget him. And yet—would Ross always love Carla? Wouldn't he come back to her, when the glitter of Carla wore off? It must wear off. Carla was older than Ross. Wiser. He must see sooner or later, that he didn't love her. Infatuation he felt now. He was crazy about Carla. But did he love her? Something within her was telling her yes, but her hope was saying no . . .

Couldn't she hope that Ross would forget Carla? That was all right, wasn't it?

A Plot

Tod Johnson came an hour after Gail called him. He was tied up, he said, and couldn't get there any quicker.

Gail and Carla and he sat down in the living room. The girl was used to being present at conferences now. There were always so many errands to run for Carla that she stayed in the room to be within easy call. She noticed as she made herself comfortable that there was only one ring on Carla's fingers, a big topaz. Ross' diamond was not there. Gail bitterly supposed it was lying now up in the actress' jewel box, probably forgotten.

"I wanted to see you, Tod, about something frightfully important."

Tod raised his thin eyebrows. Everything Carla wanted to see him about was important in her mind. But he kidded her along. Indeed her account was one of the largest he had. He was always ready to be called night or day when she wanted him.

"It's about Nick, Tod."

"Yes? What about Nick?"

"You haven't been doing your part, that's all." Carla's mouth drooped petulantly.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I wanted our names, Nick's and mine in the pa-

"Most of the changes," the president points out, "will help balance the difference between the big and little member cities. The annual Fort Worth-Dallas opening hurts Shreveport and Wichita Falls. I think it would be better to have Wichita Falls open in Fort Worth and Shreveport to open in Dallas. Both would draw just as well as the old Cat-Steer arrangement. Opening day is opening day and the old idea that thousands of Fort Worth and Dallas fans travelled back and forth for the two first day contests is a myth.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 31.—The new Oklahoma proration program goes into effect Saturday, Nov. 1. The daily allowable output remains the same, 550,000 barrels a day, but the wells are to be classed in eight groups. The radical change is in prorating wells making five barrels a day or over.

The first purchasing company to announce its plans for penalizing these small stripper wells is the Prairie Oil and Gas company. The 10,000 five-barrel wells will cut off 50,000 barrels a day, which will be given the Oklahoma City field which has been greatly underproduced.

Prairie's plan provides that on wells producing in excess of five barrels a day, it will run a marginal requirement of five barrels and prorate the excess on a 50 per cent basis. For example: a lease having eight wells, with potential of 100 barrels for the lease. Marginal requirement would be eight times five or 40 barrels. Excess oil would be the difference between 100 barrels and 40 barrels, or 60 barrels, of which Prairie will run 50 per cent, or 30 barrels, making a total to be run from the specific lease 70 barrels.

AUTO STRIKES WAGON

A mule was injured and an automobile and a wagon heavily damaged in a collision on the Iowa Park road Friday night. The accident occurred, according to Officers Earle Brooks and Herbert Pogue, when the car driven by J. H. Turner struck the wagon being driven by Wilford McLean, an employe on the J. S. Bridwell farm. Both drivers escaped unhurt.

OLNEY WHIPS CHILLICOTHE, 33 TO 6, IN BRILLIANT GAME

LONG RUNS AND PASSES COUNT

Hotly Contested Tilt Thrills Crowd of 2,500

By FRED D. THOMPSON
Record News Sports Editor

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Oct. 31.—The gallant Chillicothe Eagles, after battling Coach Akers' weighty Olney Cubs to a standstill in the first half, succumbed in the final half to a masterful passing and running attack and tasted defeat for the first time this season here today. The score was 33 to 6.

The victory for the Cubs assured them their third successive championship of class B, district No. 3, the Eagles having conquered everything else so far in district competition, and having been the only obstacle of any proportions in the way of the rampant Cubs.

Tough Battle

The score might indicate the game was one-sided, but such certainly was not the impression of some 2,500 cheering fans who were breathless during the scoreless first half and who watched with awe the charge of the Cubs in the last two periods of the game. In the multitude were at least 300 loyal boosters of the Olney team, who made the trip here by automobile, the crowd including a girls pep squad of about 50 rooters, and a band. The red and white clad Olney girls staged a celebration in the intermission between halves, while the Chillicothe girls pep squad, attired in attractive purple and gray costumes made things merry throughout the entire game to the accompaniment of the Chillicothe band.

In the first half, two more evenly matched and courageous teams could not have been found than Volney Hill's Eagles and Akers' Cubs.

Cubs Worried

The Cubs, at the end of that half, were frankly worried, but they returned in the third period and scored the first touchdown of the game, Goode crashing through center over the goal after a brisk series of passes and runs had put the ball within distance. The Eagles then chose to kick to Olney. Then Graves of Olney fumbled a bad pass from center and H. Ramsey recovered on Olney's 15-yard line from whence they marched to the goal, Creighton carrying the ball over. The kick for the extra point failed and for a time the score was tied, six all. But it wasn't for long for Goode, snappy Olney quarterback, got away within a few minutes and made a 25-yard plunge for a touchdown. Duckworth place kicked for the extra point.

With Olney in the lead, 13 to 6, the Eagles crumbled in the final period. With the ball well in Chillicothe's territory Goode broke loose through tackle for another touchdown and a little later a series of passes and off tackle plays got Olney in position to score and Duckworth carried it over for the fourth Olney counter. One of the most sensational plays of the game followed when a short time after the kickoff, Goode of Olney intercepted a Chillicothe pass and ran 65 yards for the final Olney touchdown.

Outstanding Players

Duckworth and Goode were clearly the outstanding ground gainers of the Cubs, Goode making four of the touchdowns and Duckworth making the fifth. Olney's defensive stars were Hill, guard; Wilson Gilmore, end, and B. Gilmore, end; for Chillicothe, Creighton was at times a second Red Grange, and R. Ramsey was a demon with the ball. On the Chillicothe defense, H. Ramsey, right end; Wigington, center, and Montgomery, left end, were walls of concrete. Olney made the majority of its gains through the tackle posts when the lines were plunged.

Olney won the toss and elected to defend the east goal. A wind sweeping north and south favored neither team.

Creighton of the Eagles kicked off across the goal and the Cubs were given the ball on their 20-yard line. Graves went in for Hamilton on the Olney team. Duckworth went through tackle for nine yards. Temple Bumps Waurika In Conference Standing

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., Oct 31.—Waurika tumbled to third place in the Southern Oklahoma high school conference here Friday afternoon when Temple High school scored a 12-0 victory with a fourth-quarter rally. The victory puts Temple and Walters in a tie at the top of the conference standing. Ryan is in second notch.

Waurika held a noticeable advantage in the first quarter's play Friday, but could not cross their opponents' goal line. During the two ensuing periods, play was about even. In the fourth stanza, Temple finally co-ordinated its line-bucking efforts against a weakening defence and pushed over a touchdown. A few moments later, a blocked Waurika punt was converted into a second marker.

ALTUS BOWS TO QUANAH TRICKS

Hardeman Boys Defeat Oklahoma, 30-13

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 31.—Quanah High school's Indians continued their savage warfare on all invaders here Friday afternoon, tomahawking the husky Altus High school braves to the tune of 30 to 13.

The locals decided the game in the first two minutes of play by outguessing the visitors. Kicking off to open the encounter, Quanah recovered an on-side kick in midfield. On the first play, Horn carried the ball on an end-around play for a long gain. On the next play, the same scheme of attack was reversed, Norman coming around to sweep the other end for a touchdown.

Altus recovered its balance, however, and with a consistent line attack hammered through their lighter opponents for two touchdowns before the first half ended. Quanah also crossed the goal-line a second time before the halfway mark was reached, but by virtue of one extra point having been scored, Altus led, 13 to 12.

The Indians received to open the third quarter, and marched down the field to Altus 4-yard line, only to lose the ball on downs. Abandoning the end-sweeping and forward passing game which featured the first half, the locals centered their attention upon the Altus line, utilizing a deceptive spin play, and rolled up 18 adidtional points during the two final quarters.

Captain Hall, Norman and Lovell shone brilliantly as ball-toters, but were aided by sterling play of the line.

VETERAN TEAM SHOWS POWER

Indians' Spin Play Proves Complete Puzzle

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Texas, Oct. 31.—With a class of football which may result in a championship if maintained until the end of the season, the Nocona Indians here today smothered the Jacksboro High school under a 34 to 0 score.

Nocona pitted its team with three letter men against the Jacksboro eleven credited with more than a half dozen of last year veterans and came forth decidedly victorious.

The visiting gladiators time and again made gains through the Jacksboro line with a spin play which almost invariably succeeded for yardage and seldom failed to puzzle the Jacksboro defense. Nocona also used a very deceptive triple pass back of the line to account for good gains.

Zachery, star Nocona back, carried across four of the five touchdowns of the game and kicked as many goals. Cunningham accounted for the other Nocona touchdown.

At the close of the game the Jacksboro team was within two-feet of scoring following a long pass from Whitt to Black which netted an 80-yard gain.

Nocona made two touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second one in the third and two in the fourth period.

Near the last of the game, Jacksboro attempted aerial tactics with no measure of success as nearly all were intercepted.

Evans, Zachery, Cunningham and Fenaglio played remarkable football for the Nocona victors, while Martin, Black Turner and Whitt took Jacksboro laurels.

The lineups follow:

NOCONA (34)	Pos.	JACKSBORO (0)

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Oct. 31.—The Bear Cubs hit their stride today when they swamped the Hedley high school football team, 31 to 0. The teams were evenly matched in size. The Cubs pushed one over for a counter in the first quarter and the game stood 6 to 0 until the last two minutes of play when Lawrence, Estelline tackle, intercepted a long pass and ran for a touchdown. Hays was on the receiving end of a fake play that netted another touchdown. Estelline played the Hedley boys off their feet in the last few minutes of play.

Panhandle Boys Get Dander Up When Hall County Clan Protests Eligibility; Passes Are Effective

Special to The Record News.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Oct. 31.—Outplaying their opponents in every phase of the game, the fighting Shamrock Irishmen outfought, outplunged and outpassed the highly touted Memphis Cyclone on the local field today taking the long end of a 24 to 0 score and upsetting a dope bucket that had bubbled for a week or more with a prediction of entirely different results.

The visitors came to Shamrock as favorites to participate in an easy win. The Memphis coach tried to help the psychology of the situation by starting his second string but he quickly changed his mind and the veterans were rushed in to stop a vicious plunging, fighting bunch of outweighed Irishmen.

The change mattered but little to the Shamrock boys who were going at high pitch, all wrought up by the action of Memphis in contesting the standing of Shamrock in the conference because of an oversight on the part of local authorities in failing to pay an eight dollar membership fee in the Interscholastic league.

Memphis paid dearly for that action, for the locals fought with more ferocity than has ever before been witnessed on the local field, and with telling effect.

Brannon drew first blood with a long end run for 30 yards in the first quarter, crossing Memphis' goal for the first six points. Ogorman made the second touchdown with a line buck and Tarbet took a 30-yard pass for the third counter. Bland crossed Memphis' line for the fourth counter. No points were made after touchdown.

Captain Hammond, Jarvis, and Pierson were the high lights on the visitors' team.

To pick the best players in the Shamrock line would be to pick the entire line, featuring perhaps Banks for defensive work. Ogorman, Brannon and Gardner were stars of the game. Under a ruling of the league, this defeat counts against Memphis, although Shamrock has been ruled ineligible for failure to pay dues in time.

Clarendon Wins From Turkey High, 48-12

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Oct. 31.—Clarendon High school maintained its district tie with Memphis for conference honors here this afternoon by defeating the Turkey team, 48 to 12.

Although the Turkey team put up a hard struggle its one-man strength in Colbin failed to prove sufficient, allowing the Clarendon warriors to pile up seven touchdowns.

The feature of the game was a Turkey pass intercepted by Reed who raced 65 yards for a touchdown.

Colbin, spectacular fullback for Turkey, was a shining light throughout the entire game, passing twice to Lacy for touchdowns. His excellent passing, punting and running accounted for many gains that would have been hopeless except for his brilliant work. Nichols was the outstanding star for the victors.

The first half was hard fought and ended with Clarendon leading by a 14-6 score. In the latter half the Turkey eleven weakened to allow Clarendon to strengthen its lead and to win.

COYOTES TO PRESENT UNTRIED LINEUP AGAINST CHILDRESS

HOLTON TO USE YOUNG PLAYERS

Two Regulars Absent From Final Practice

By JACK ALLEN

When the Wichita Falls high school Coyotes line up for the opening kickoff today at 2:30 o'clock at Spudder park against Childress high, several new faces will be found in the lineup. New men that have never seen action in a conference game will enter the battle with the Bobcats, which is expected to be a tossup affair. Both teams are near the bottom of the standings, and Coach Barry Holton's charges are striving to break into the win column after four straight losses.

Putting the squad through its final workout before the game today, Coach Holton Friday drove his proteges until dusk took possession of the field. Several former B squaders joined the first squad today and clicked the signals off with precision in a long session of dummy scrimmage. The Coyote mentor is rewarding some of the second stringers for their hard work by putting them in the battle today and at the same time is giving his regulars a much needed rest. Bill Jenkins, shifty little ball toter along with Decker and Harbes, hefty tackles, are the graduates from the ranks and this trio will likely see much service in the fray today. Harbes, a promising youngster, was one of the stellar performers in the Vernon game last Saturday which the Coyotes lost by a 6-0 count.

Two Regulars Out

At least two of the mainstays of the regular eleven will see the majority of the game from the sidelines today. Danny Cox, signal caller, and Harlan Ray, one of the best ball toters on the team, both have injured legs and neither is expected to shoulder much responsibility when it comes to rolling up the scores. Janeway will likely succeed Ray at half while Hamlin Rugeley will probably do most of the signal calling. Both of these youngsters are capable of playing their positions and playing them well. Whether they play them that way remains to be seen.

Only one incident turned up to mar the otherwise perfect practice Friday, the unexplained absence of two of the regular linemen, Chick Holden, solitary letterman and a stellar performer in every game, and Roy Parrish, versatile tackle, were missing from practice. If these two should still be absent when the time for the game draws near today, the left side of the line will be weakened considerably and hopes of victory will be lessened considerably. Coach Holton spent the afternoon in grooming new men for the positions of Holden and Parrish if the truant pair should not show up.

Improvements Made

During the past week the Coyote mentor has brushed up both his offense and defense after the poor showing made against the Vernon Lions last Saturday. The linemen drew instructions on charging, tackling and blocking and the backs were issued new ideas on running, passing and blocking. A lesson on pass defense was dished out by the coach during the week, and the Bobcats will find their aerial attacks well received by the fighting Pack. After the lapse of defense at Vernon Saturday the Red and Black aggregation has been drilling hard on knocking down enemy heaves.

The ends and tackles were given lots of instruction in going down under punts during the past few days and the Bobcat safety man had best watch his step when Holden drops back to kick.

His starting lineup still doubtful, Coach Holton has nearly two full teams from which to pick his starters. Malcolm Mauldin, regular end, along with the other regular wingman, J. R. Holton, recently converted back, will probably get the nod from the mentor when the end positions have to be filled. Ed Greenwood and Hanks may break into the lineup on the flanks. At the tackle holes Harbes and Decker may see most of the 60 minutes of service today. Les Daniels and Parrish, both regulars, will be in reserve in case the newcomers can't hold the position down. Holden and Sepkowitch, both mainstays on the first team, will see lots of action at the foot of Seventh street this afternoon. Leopy King, promising pivot man, will take his first rest and Jack Gentry, a hard working youngster, will do most of the passing from center against Coach Ballard's blue and white team.

Withrow and White loom as the only regulars likely to see any great amount of time in the back cordon against the Cats who are coming to Coyoteville full strength and hampered by only a few minor injuries. Rugeley and Janeway are fully prepared to take over the ball-toting responsibility today. Ray and Cox, other members of the first string backfield will see very little if any service today. The secondary of the Pack is rated far beneath that of the kittens, but the defense of the yapping Coyotes is about par with that of Coach C. V. Ballards charges.

The Childress Kittys arrived Friday night by special bus. Coach Ballard brings 20 men to Wichita Falls and pronounces his squad in excellent shape for the fray. The Bobcats have lost three successive conference tilts while the snarling Pack has succumbed to four conference foes and it will be a case of dog fight dog on the orchard today. Both teams will be watching for an opportunity to improve their standings in the conference race. This is the first meeting of the two teams as it is the first year for the Childress eleven in this district, and a rivalry may and may not be originated by the battle.

The probable lineups:

(Doc) Stewart, and now under Clyde Littlefield, have been trying to smash a jinx that the Mustangs and Ray Morrison have held over them. This is one of a series of explanatory articles written for The Record News by Barry Holton, coach of the Coyotes. They will appear daily. Students of the game may clip the articles as they appear, and by preserving them in a notebook have a ready guide to fine points of the game. Mr. Holton will be glad to answer any questions in regard to the game coming to the mind of the reader. These should be addressed to this newspaper.—Editor.

THE KICK-OFF (Continued)

Last time I told you how the game is started. Team A is headed north. Team B is headed south and is kicking to team A. Have told you that kicking team has to remain behind ball till it is kicked. Have told you that team A must remain behind restraining line till ball is kicked. Have told you what happens if ball goes out of bounds between goal lines. Have told you what happens if either team is off-side on kick-off. Let us suppose first now that kick-off goes across A's goal line. What happens? If it stops in the end-zone one of two things results. If kicking team recovers in the end-zone it is a touchdown for that team. If receiving team gets control of ball in its own end-zone on kick-off it is a touchback and the ball is brought out to 20-yard line and put into play by scrimmage. The many things which might happen on a kick-off have been explained so you will know what takes place on a kick-off if the receiving team does not immediately catch the ball and run it back.

HOLTON

Now let us assume that a clean kick-off is made. That is, both teams lined up properly, ball is kicked by team B to team A. A member of team A catches ball and starts to run toward B's goal-line. In many instances the ball carrier will gain many yards. I understand that a Southern Methodist back returned a kick-off for a touchdown against Indiana last week. In this case a touchdown is scored thus giving six points to the scoring team. In the majority of cases however someone on the kicking team will go down and stop the ball carrier. Let us assume that he is stopped after returning 10 yards. Now the game continues under the following conditions. First: Whenever a team gets control of the ball in this manner the spot of the ball is marked. Another spot 10 yards up the field is established. These two marks, 10 yards apart, are shown by the side-line chain. This chain is fastened to two sticks or irons and is carried by two men—one representing each team. The chain is always on the side line. Rules say that chain shall be on one side for one-half, then on the other side of the field during the other half. What is our picture now? Ball is on ground and yard-chain is set up thus marking two spots. The location of the ball and distance to be gained—10 yards. This distance must be made in four attempts. In other words, when a team gets ball and tries to advance toward the other team's goal, is must move at the rate of 10 yards in four tries. These tries are spoken of as downs. Condition we have then is team A's ball first down ten. During these four attempts to advance 10 yards there are three ways in which the offensive team may play the ball. First by carrying the ball. That is, running with it. Second way is to throw forward pass. Throwing ball from one player to another. (Conditions of forward pass to be covered later). Third way to advance it beyond necessary distance is to kick it.

In the first two ways, running and forward passing, the same team keeps the ball. In the last way the team relinquishes the ball to the other team because nowadays a team kicks from scrimmage but can not recover its own kick. The kick, you might say, is the admission that progress is stopped and rather than to give the other team the ball it is kicked.

If in the four attempts team A does not advance the ball 10 yards the ball goes over and team B then has four attempts to go 10 yards toward A's goal. This then is the game. Taking the ball and carrying it across opponents' goal line. When it is carried on, above, or across, opponents' goal line the team so doing scores a touchdown and is given six points. Object of game then is to score as many touchdowns as possible. I should like to remind you that a team seldom takes the ball and makes one consecutive first down after the other. Certainly this will not happen if the teams are evenly matched, and most teams are matched against their equal. Sometimes they are not. Graham High school defeated some other opponent the other day to the tune of 130 to 0. You will observe that the ordinary condition of the game is, a team will drive toward the other fellow's goal for so long a time, then kick. Do not misunderstand, if the team can keep up the drive, well and good, the ball will not be kicked.

AUTO RACERS SET FOR GRIND

Program at Fair Park Slated Sunday

The stage is set for the stock car auto races to be staged Sunday at the Texas-Oklahoma Fairground track, with the majority of the 15 entries already in town.

One of the feature events of the day will be a special race between the Ford and the Chevy, which is second on the program. In a night race at Wichita, Kan., recently the Ford entry was the winner, while at Omaha the Chevy nosed out a victory.

An argument arose regarding whether the special race between the Ford and Chevy race would be a rolling start or a standing start. The Chevy wanted a rolling start and the Ford wanted a standing start. The I. M. C. A. official who will have charge of the starting of the races Sunday decided in favor of the Chevy, which will be a rolling start.

W. E. Boney, of Grady, N. M., has entered the races. Boney raced at Amarillo last Sunday and among 15 starters Boney, with his steady driving, came out a winner with his model A Ford.

There is some rumor around Wichita Falls that a dark horse will challenge the winner of the Ford and Chevy race.

Stamford Registers Win Over Hamlin, 25 to 7

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Oct. 31.—Stamford High school scored regularly throughout an unexciting game here Friday afternon to register a 25 to 7 victory over Hamlin. Friday's game was Stamford's second league game, and represented the first loss suffered by either participant.

Pep squads of the two competing schools Friday staged demonstrations which vied with the game itself for interest of the large crowd present. The rooting forces of Hamlin were clad in green and white costumes, and included a high school band. Stamford High also was represented by a large and colorful cheering contingent.

Dr. Baker, R. W. Bounds and Hubert Bounds featured the Samford attack with brilliant open field running, and a consistent passing game. The two elevens were about equal in weight.

NATIONAL CARD OFFERS ACTION

Notre Dame, However, To Get 'Rest'

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The gallop down the November football stretch, though lacking the spectacular elements of October's last explosive Saturay, nevertheless brings most of the sectional pace-setters up against the toughest kind of opposition.

Notre Dame alone among the outstanding entries in the national gridiron championship derby appears to have anything like a let-up. The fighting Irish return to their home grounds for a track and field meet against Indiana tomorrow and some thoughts for future tussels against Northwestern, Army and Southern California.

Stiff Battles Elsewhere

No such pleasant afternoon appears in store for the forces of Washington State, the Pacific coast pace-setter; Southern Methodist, in the Southwest conference race; Kansas, carrying the Big Six banner east to Pennsylvania; Northwestern, leading bidder for Big Ten honors; Dartmouth, one of the East's few unbeaten arrays; or the unbeaten strong teams of the Southern conference, Alabama, Kentucky, Georgia and Clemson.

Fordham's great outfit, the only major team in the country not yet scored on, figures to keep its record spotless against West Virginia. Pennsylvania's stand against the undefeated Kansas Jayhawkers, Army's battle with another unbeaten invader, North Dakota, feature in the East. Pittsburgh and Princeton go west. The Panthers tackle Nebraska at Lincoln, while the Tigers play Chicago at Stagg field.

'Bama vs. Kentucky

The big battle of the Southern front this week finds the Alabama powerhouse rumbling into action against Kentucky's Wildcats. Both are undefeated. Both have a scoring punch but the Alabama boys, on the strength of successive victories over Tennessee and Vanderbilt, rule favorites. Georgia's Bulldogs will need all their resourcefulness to tame Florida's Gators.

The Big Ten headliner is Northwestern's invasion of Minnsota for a clash between two conference championship contenders.

Washington State, which has galloped roughshod over all Pacific coast conference opposition so far, cannot afford to relax against Oregon State in the big battle of Northwestern rivals at Portland. In fact, the Oregon Aggies hopes to spring an upset.

In the Southwest conference, Southern Methodist is favored to break through the strong Texas defense in the day's only conference feature. The Bix Six headliner involves Missouri and Kansas Aggies.

Floydada Races to 25-6 Conquest Over Canyon

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Oct. 31.—Floydada beat Canyon here this afternoon, 25 to 6 in one of the fastest games seen on the gridiron in Floydada this season. Stevenson, Hale and Murray carried the ball for the Floydada touchdowns. Murray made a touchdown after receiving the kick off from Canyon on Floydada's 10-yard line and ran 90 yards for the last touchdown which came in the last quarter of the game. The Canyon team fought hard and showed a great defensive but was unable to advance against Floydada's line.

MORRISON MEN RULE FAVORITE

Capacity Crowd Expected For Grudge Battle

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 31.—The rival coaches having exchanged telegraphic best wishes, and student bodies worked up to the proper pitch by the customary "gigantic rallies," little was left to be attended to in preparation for tomorrow's tiff between Texas and Southern Methodist at Austin.

The two top contenders for the Southwest conference crown were camped only some 70 miles apart tonight, the Mustangs in Temple and the Longhorns in their home dormitories. Coach Ray Morrison sent his Ponies through their final workout late today at Temple. Early tomorrow the big Red and Blue squad will move on to Austin.

Special Train

Prospects were that Memorial stadium would be comfortably filled when the two powerful elevens hear the starting whistle at 2:30. With no other conference teams engaging in games of first importance fans throughout the state have headed for the skirmish at Austin. A special train will carry Mustang students and Dallas followers to the game site early tomorrow. Special rates also have been offered from various other points.

Principally because they have licked the Longhorns pretty consistently in recent years, the pass-throwing Ponies continued to rule flight favorites on the eve of the week's big tussle. The best the Orange has gotten in their last six meetings were a pair of scoreless ties, one of them here last year. Southern Methodist captured the other four. Whether the Longhorns can break the spell tomorrow remains, among other things, to be seen.

Coach Morrison has intimated he might try his scheme of using alternate "A" and "B" teams, as was employed with such success against Indiana, but some of the best minds believe he will send his most powerful combination into the fray and keep it there. They doubt he will try anything fancy against the Steers. Too much depends on the outcome for either mentor to take any chances. The loser will bid the 1930 title adieu.

Texas Has Weight

Unless all signs are wrong, the Mustangs will depend, as usual, upon their passing game, with the Gilbert to Long combination their greatest threat. Texas, with a weight advantage both in the backfield and line, may be expected to rely on a hard running game, with Key and Shelley bearing the brunt.

Except in a pair of instances, the five bouts in which other conference elevens will participate are regarded as sure things. The champion Texas Christian Frogs will be overwhelming favorites in their tilt with Abilene Christian at Fort Worth, as will the Baylor Bears against the Oklahoma Baptists at Shawnee and the Rice Owls against Sewanee at Houston.

The Texas Aggies and Arkansas appear to be in for an exciting afternoon. Meeting the Centenary college Gentlemen at College Station, the Aggies have been accorded no better than a fighting chance to win. The Gents downed Baylor, 7 to 2, last week. Arkansas' Razorbacks tackle an ancient rival in Louisiana State at Shreveport. Last Saturday the Louisiana eleven walloped Sewanee, 12 to 0, so it promises to be anything but a set-up for the Porkers.

Conference standing:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Texas Christian	2	0	0	1.000
Arkansas	2	1	0	.666
Rice	1	1	0	.500
Southern Methodist	0	0	1	.500
Baylor	0	0	1	.500

Washington School Leopards Score at Will on Gainesville; Score, 73-0

The negro high school football team from Gainesville furnished next to no opposition at all for the Washington school Leopards here Friday afternoon, the visitors taking the little end of a 73 to 0 score.

The locals made 39 points in the first half. On the third quarter, with second stringers and reserves in the lineup, the Leopards were held to one touchdown, but they ran wild in the final period, crossing the goal line four times.

The feature of the game was the forward pass by which the second touchdown was made. From their own 20-yard line, the Leopards completed a 30-yard pass, the receiver running the remaining 50 yards to the goal line. It was one of innumerable passes completed, the incomplete attempts being few and far between.

More than 200 white fans witnessed the game and were almost unanimously of the opinion that something should be done to provide the Leopards with stiffer competition.

By New Orleans from Elmira, N. Y., Robert J. MacDonald, pitcher; by Houston, Texas, from Scranton, Thomas Carey.

Spur Regulars Crush Crosbyton in Last Half

Special to The Record News.

SPUR, Texas, Oct. 31.—Spur's second string and Crosbyton played a scoreless first half but the Spur first string went in for the last and scored 26 points to defeat Crosbyton in the second conference game. Crysbyton presented the strongest forward wall that Spur has played at home this year. Rickles scored three times and Ragsdale once. Blackwood, Thompson and Smith were Crosbyton stars. Captain Puckett and Jim Hahn, Spur scoring aces, did not see action in this game.

LUBBOCK AGOG OVER BATTLE

Westerner-Sandy Battle To Lead District

LUBBOCK, Texas, Oct. 31.—All Lubbock is astir over the Lubbock-Amarillo High school football game that comes Saturday. The game is attracting more attention here than any previous athletic contest and with a couple thousand Sandie fans from Amarillo scheduled to come down for the battle, Lubbock seems destined to be a real football town on that day.

Both sides would lead one to think that they are the under dog, however the Sandie team does outweigh the Westerners, according to reports, and the Westerns hold the edge in experience.

Coach Henry Frnka, mentor of the Westerner squad, has his boys keyed to a high pitch, having pointed to the Amarillo game all season. Amarillo has realized that it is Lubbock that stands in the way for championship honors. A victory for the Westerners would put Lubbock back into the race for championship honors, the local lads having suffered a defeat from Pampa right at the beginning of the season.

A mammoth pep rally was scheduled for Friday night at the high school, in which all Lubbock was to take part, while a committee will likewise be at work getting 500 cars lined up to transport the special train fans to and from the game after they arrive in Lubbock.

If sentiment means anything, Coach Frnka's Westerners hold the edge because it was they who suffered a defeat last year, when fans game them praise for having played the best game.

Lubbock's backs are especially strong with Moody Smith, co-captain, Mina Watkins and Dub Lawson, and Ovie Teal toting the pigskin and the line is powerful.

Jack Crickard, Harvard halfback who blossomed in the Harvard-Army game, has been dubbed "Jimmy" Crickard.

Today a close-out sale of 28 Society Brand and Barbury suits. Right to wear now; $25, at P. B. M. company.—Adv.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—An opening decline in cotton today was followed by recoveries on trade buying and covering, but the marekt weakened again in the late trading when there appeared to be selling on the unsettled ruling of the stock market. March contracts, after selling up from 11.53 to 11.62, broke to 11.46 and closed at 11.52, compared with 11.58 the previous day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 6 to 12 points.

Initial offerings were absorbed by buying on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and predictions for heavy to killing frosts in the central belt, and prices later turned upward on a renewal of trade demand which was coupled with some commission house buying and covering by recent sellers.

Unfavorable weather may have been a contributing factor on the advance during the middle of the day, but evidently failed to materially stimulate buying interest. This was regarded by some local traders as indicating the market was paying more attention to the rate of marketing in the South and the development of trade conditions than to any possibility of late season revision in crop estimates.

Liverpool cables said hedging there had been absorbed by continental buying and trade calling, and reported a fair British home trade in cotton cloth with more looms working.

Exports today 43,248, making 2,182,237 so far this season. Port receipts 82,838. U. S. port stocks 3,767,998.

Futures closed quiet, 6 to 12 points lower. Spot quiet; middling, 11.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31. (AP)—There was less activity in the cotton market today and the trend of prices was reactionary owing to evening up and liquidation in advance of tomorrow's holiday here—All Saints—and owing to nearness of the government report due late next week. After opening 4 to 6 points down the market continued to ease off all day except for a rally at one time of 7 to 9 points on good dry goods news. The lows were reached in late afternoon, showing declines from the highs of 12 to 17 points. There was a rally of 2 to 4 points at the end on covering, the close being called steady at net declines for the day of 12 to 14 points.

Liverpool at the start was as due to 1 point better than due and cables reported hedge selling. December at the end of the first hour was at 11.16, January at 11.31 and March at 11.53, down 7 to 9 points from the previous close.

The market continued to ease off during the balance of the morning on pre-holiday liquidation and somewhat bearish weekly statistics, December dropping to 11.13, January to 11.27 and March to 11.49, down 11 to 13 points from the previous close.

The market made new lows in late trading at 11.08 for December, 11.24 for January and 11.47 for March or 13 to 17 points under the highs, but rallied 2 to 4 points on covering at the end.

Port receipts 88,996; for week 456,911; for season 4,480,442; last season 4,237,861. Exports 43,256; for week 172,945; for season 2,136,171; last season 2,049,771. Port stock 3,699,548, last year 2,337,108. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 172,933; last year 78,824. Spot sales at Southern markets 37,561; last year 32,800.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 12 to 14 points:

Market Yields Under Liquidation And Professional Bear Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (US)—Stocks suffered further setback today during a session which quite plainly evidenced lack of any aggressive support. To the constant liquidation was added some increased selling from professional bear quarters, although the latter was not particularly concentrated except in a few vulnerable issues. There was some expansion in volume in the afternoon, when the decline reached rather substantial proportions, the total trading for the day around two and a quarter million shares comparing with less than two million the preceding day.

The Industrial averages receded to a new low, carrying the market again into an uncharted area, despite the hoped-for support at the former low. It was quite apparent that the speculative community was observing with seeming conviction the inability of stock after stock in the high-grade group to hold their levels under any increase in pressure. The Commodities failed again to furnish any cheer, most of them being lower.

There were no new external developments to account for the weakness, except the same gloom which if anything has increased the last few days. It is under such circumstances that outstanding opportunities appear.

Allied Chemical assumed the center of the stage when a vicious contest between the bulls and bears was waged around the $200-level, but the buying was of no avail. The stock slumped over 10 points to a new low. Failure of this premier issue, recognized as one of the soundest stocks on the exchange, to hold against the pressure, not all of which would be attributed to short selling, had immediate influence on the entire list. Its weakness inaugurated the renewal of selling in the afternon which closed the entire list near the bottom levels of the day.

Allied Chemical, with is background of ever-growing earnings and expanding surplus, yields over 8 per cent, including the 5 per cent stock dividend which represents the only increase in capital by the corporation in many years—a record in decided contrast to other corporations which have expanded capitalization in some instances ten times over in the past decade.

Another factor of influence on the list was the decline in Radio through the supposed support level of 20. It was difficult to uncover any issue disclosing material resistance to selling. Even American Can, which had been counted upon to show such resistance, yielded to a new low on the current reaction, and other stocks allied to the American Can banking sponsors likewise were under continued pressure.

Sharp declines were experienced throughout the list as stop-loss orders were uncovered at previous low prices. American Telephone acted somewhat firmer than in the previous session, reacting less than two points on the day, but even here it was evident that investment demand is not being hurried.

The position of the stock market with respect to "support" becomes more obvious daily. There is no effort being made to support stocks, except in a few scattered instances where values have approached the bargain level. Lacking courage, the would-be bulls are awaiting termination of the liquidation before resuming large-scale purchases. The campaign against short-selling accounts for the widespread declines in many issues, since creation of a sizeable short account has been virtually impossible. The result naturally is to rob the market of that measure of support which always comes from short covering.

The market is in that drifting stage during which concentrated pressure will probably continue against any issue which is considered "out of line" on a basis of ratio to earnings, yield, or any other factor used in determining stock values. If accumulation is going on in the market, it is being accomplished at a slow pace. The seeming bargains in various stocks are being ignored in the greater emphasis being placed on still overpriced issues.

Faced with this mood even stocks of exceptional merit which may be selling below their true value find difficulty attracting buyers. The oft-forecast rally fails to develop principally because the usual excuse for such improvement in price is not present in a short interest. It continues to be a market for keen discrimination, with necessity for the exercise of discrimination on both sides of the market.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Cotton goods were firm today and sales for the week have run far ahead of current output. Burlap mills at Calcutta are understood to have definitely decided to continue curtailing after the turn of the year. Rayon sales held in fair volume. Silk merchandise was in moderate demand. Raw material prices again were lower.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Dullness continued to characterize the grain market today with even scant offerings finding slow sale. Mills were nominally bidding 85-86 for No. 1 hard wheat of any protein, the market following the decline in contract values.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 2 cars; corn, 2; oats, 2, and barley 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, ranged nominally as follows:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 85-86; No. 2 white or yellow 87½-88½; oats, No. 2 red according to seed quality, 49-50. No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 43½-44, to which add one cent for delivery group three. Barley No. 2, 63-64. sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.53-1.55; No. 2 kaffir 1.35-1.37.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Under pressure of heavy selling, the corn market today broke through the season's low price record, and dragged down all other cereals. Oats as well as corn reached a bottom level unmatched heretofore on the present crop. Enlarged estimates today of the country's 1930 corn production went with reports that ideal weather had brought about rapid curing of the new corn crop, and that most of the corn would be out of the fields before the end of another week.

After a tumble of as much as 2¼c a bushel in some cases, corn closed nervous 1⅝@1⅞ down, oats 1¼@1⅜c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 27c.

Confronted by corn market depression and also by weakness of securities, wheat values gave way to increased selling and to absence of any adequate buying support. The wheat market was steadied at times, however, by some purchasing of wheat against simultaneous selling of corn and by reports indicating uncertainty as to the wheat crop outcome in Argentina. Oats values suffered from liquidating sales associated with corn market downturns.

Most of the provision list went lower, responsive to setbacks of hog values and of grain.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 75¼@75⅝, 77⅝; Mar. 79⅝, 82; May 81½@81¾, 83⅝@83¾. Corn—Dec. 71¾@71⅞, 73¾@73¾; Mar. 75¼, 77⅝; May 77¼@77⅝, 79⅝@79¾; July (offers) 81½.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (US)—A bearish showing in the private reports on acreage on winter wheat is to be given to the trade Monday. Nat C. Murray in a preliminary estimate figured a reduction of only 4.5 per cent, while E. H. Miller, of James E. Bennett and company, today gave out an estimate which was 4.7 per cent. It was thought the reduction would be considerably larger.

The head of a local grain house prominently identified with the foreign trade was reported to have cabled a bearish view of the situation from abroad. His house was out today with a prediction of lower prices.

Rumsey and company say: "It is not outside the realm of possibility that a substantial movement of corn would find a welcome, both on the part of elevators and the industries, especially when the speculative investor senses the potential requirements of grain and balances them against the available supply.

pers a lot. I thought you understood."

"Yes, but there hasn't been anything lately. You haven't gone out with him have you?"

"No, not lately, I was thinking that you might start some rumors of our engagement again. It wouldn't do any harm."

Gail pricked up her ears. Was Carla really in love with Nick? Was she just leading Ross on?

"No, it wouldn't do any harm, but is it true?" Tod flicked an ash on the imported rug.

"Does it matter whether it's true or not? I'll be perfectly frank with you, Tod. I'd really like to marry him. I know I have to tell you the truth."

"All right. I'll frame up a little story for Miss Perkins' column tomorrow. You needn't worry. There's a lot of gossip around Hollywood about you and Ross—"

Carla waved that away airly. "That doesn't matter, Tod. He's a nice boy, and I like him. But I'd much rather have my name coupled with Nick."

"Just as you say. I'll fix up the story this afternoon."

"You see, Tod, if I marry Nick, I can do much more. Have a larger house. Really a show place. Have everything I've always wanted."

Gail wanted to ask her what else she wanted. Carla had so much now. Wasn't she satisfied?

"I'm talking to you as I would to a father confessor. But I must Tod."

"I want you to."

"I'd never need to worry if I married Nick. This worry is what is getting me down. Petty expenses, and all that. I need a new car. I'm sick of that cream and yellow thing. I want a chrome finished Mercedes, and I can't afford it. No, I can't, Tod. I can't afford it. I'd like a yacht, too, Tod. A big one, and you know I can't afford that."

"I tell you all the time, Carla, that you should save your money. You're not going to last forever. You've only a few more years in pictures, and then where'll you be?"

"Silly!" Carla laughed her silvery contented laugh. "Silly, I'll be married by that time. But there's nobody I know who has money except Nick that I like well enough to marry. You know, I like Nick. I always have."

Gail caught a pillow and held it close to her. She had to have something in her hands.

So Carla was playing with Ross after all? When Ross loved her so much. Was love that way? She loved Ross, and Ross loved Carla and Carla wanted Nick . . .

And Nick? Whom did he love?

"Just a Peddler"

How many times a day does the door bell ring and you peep out to see who it is and remark "It is just a peddler and I am not going to the door."

Peddlers usually aren't welcome—but lots of times the door bell ringer gets in and shows you his wares. Perhaps he has something for which you have no earthly use—yet he makes you look at it while he proves all the good points. He knows if he shows you—gets your attention—that it is half the battle. The sale is more than half made—if he gets inside the door.

While peddlers are harmful to local merchants—they at least have taught them one thing and that is—if they have anything to sell—they can't sit and just wait for a buyer—they have got to go tell the public about it.

Of course, most folks, when they have anything for sale, cannot ring doorbells—but they have found a better way of getting in homes. They put a Classified Ad in the Daily Times-Record News—because they know it is always welcome. Think of the time they save—everybody reads their Ad—and a buyer is soon found. All without tramping the streets being refused admission to homes.

BEAUTIFUL DISPLAYS CROWD 1930 FLOWER CARNIVAL

BLOOMS FILL MANY BOOTHS

Children's Hour to Open At 3 p. m. Today

By MRS. L. N. CASON
Record News Society Editor

Never before this season has the Woman's Forum annual flower show, designated this year as the "Flower Carnival," been so brilliantly opened. The decorative scheme that makes the tearoom, pie and cake, ice cream and cold drink stands so attractive are due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth, Miss Maud Nored and Mesdames G. L. Shapard, W. C. Duncan, C. W. Boller, Joe Cable, W. W. Fraser, John Dobbs and L. V. Abernathy.

The flower show it is said eclipses all former ones here. Chrysanthemums, cosmos, zinnias and dahlias make a glow of color in the same room with the teashop. Florists have their booths with the Garden club flower show and the great "mums" are wonders. There are enormous jars from each florist exhibiting. The garden setting of the Wichita Floral company is a lovely thing. Then, just as one steps out into the rear rooms where booths have been built, there's a table where "The World Book," stands ready to be inspected with a cozy corner under a cheerful light for one to read by. L. J. Clark and C. H. Aldrich are in charge of it and they have a "line of talk."

The Radiola dealers, Don McCauley, C. A. Canipe of the Canipe Music company, have arranged an attractive booth where a program will be given at stated intervals.

John Oeschner's booth deserves particular mention because he has brilliant prism'd lights that make a dazzlingly beautiful show in the large building.

Lesley Brothers have an exhibit that has particular attention called to it by a cage of Pekingese dogs before which every feminine person stops with unsubdued exclamations. The G. M. Radio booth is a beautifully decorated place, all arranged by certain artistic young ladies.

Baseball Club Enters Carnival

The Wichita Falls Baseball club booth is an attractive spot with pictures of the local team from 1920 the date of the charter, up to the present. Even those 10 years make a difference in looks. But the Oil City team of 1902, champion team of Corsicana, is what one woman called "cunning." An interesting thing to sportsmen is an old print dated 1866, showing a team when baseball was practically a new game; the team was a Hoboken, N. J., product.

The White House Market has an exhibit of "The Makins for Your Bakins," that are fortunately placed just far enough from the rail to be reached. They are too tempting. A great lawn umbrella shades the spot where the popcorn balls will be sold; KGKO has a rest room in pretty colors.

North Texas Furniture company has an interesting showing of heaters and another sort are in the Star and Mick's Furniture booth.

McClurkan's is individual with a black and white ensemble costume scheme that is smart as McClurkan's showings always are; just next to them P. B. M. shows colorful knitted goods and handsome hooked rugs with all the requisites for doing the work.

Riley's gas ranges are tempting to the housewives, then down the line are Kinney's goodlooking shoes, Wichita Falls Typewriter Exchange machines, Dixie Tire company, advertising "Blow Out Proof" tires, Huffines striking exhibit, Nunn's that's jsut as striking, Nossett's works of art, the DeLuxe Cleaners booth, the Wichita Nursery's "Home Owned and Home Grown" green booth; Trickett Bags and other leather incidentals; Kimberlins and Nathan Lynch's stands with symphonies in color; Perkins and Timberlake's booth, an advertisement of Atwater Kent radios and Bailey Moline with a splendid showing of their wares.

Side by side stand the Panhandle Refining company's booth and that of the writer's department of the forum, the manufacturer's booth.

More Gifts Friday

Among the merchants in the city who presented the writers with gifts Friday were the Wichita Mill and Elevator company, Wichita Floor Sweep company, Lehrack's, Martha Washington Candy shops, Noble-Little, Falls Sash and Door company; Sherwin-Williams, Goodner Wholesale Grocery company, Wooten company, Dixie Tire, Evans Pharmacy, Wichita Falls Wholesale Grocery company, Kent Tire company.

Mesdames Guy Raley and R. G. Scheurer announce the gift of all bread needed in the tearoom from the Mity Nice Bakery company.

Saturday at noon Mary Claire and Christine Burton will sing popular duets during the lunch hour and Mary Ann Walker and Charlotte Maer will play violin duets.

At 3 in the afternoon, a children's program will be an especial attraction. Vance Lee Allen will be the "Bird Whistler." A harmonica number is to be given by Billy Remington; a trumpet and saxophone duet by Phyllis and Dickie Seeds and the Midget Players from Burkburnett will give several musical numbers.

MAJESTIC: Gloria Swanson in "What a Widow!" Short subjects and sound news.

STRAND: "Laughter" with Fredric March and Nancy Carroll. Comedy, cartoon and news.

STATE: Betty Compson and Lowell Sherman in "Midnight Mystery." Cartoon, comedy and sound news.

A 1932 model, so the advertisement said. It sounded more like an automobile than a movie, but I donned my 1922 coat and 1928 hat and 1929 half-soled shoes and saw "Laughter," the 1932 picture at the Strand!

As a forecast, it seemed to be fairly accurate. Chorus girls will still marry millionaires in haste, repent at leisure and elope with their ex-lovers. Married women will be caught in storms with the wrong men and have to stay in cozy farmhouses. And love will triumph and the villain will be foiled and baffled!

Yet the advertisement isn't so far wrong in any other way, even though a review of the show might sound melodramatic. With Donald Ogden Stewart writing the play, it couldn't have been anything but new and sparkling.

The Nancy Carroll-Fredric March combination isn't half bad. Carroll fans had worried for fear that March would spoil the picture, and March fans had worried vice versa. Much to the surprise of all, they were excellently suited for the two leading parts.

There is real humor—the gay, tinsely kind—and real life in "Laughter." Is is enough ahead of the average 1930 picture to be classified as 1932.

Man Held on Charge Of Stealing Two Dogs

Two dogs alleged to have been stolen last December returned to this city from Oklahoma Friday, and the man who came with them was arrested charged with having stolen them, according to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney.

The accused has been picking cotton for several weeks in Oklahoma, it was said, but was charged with having kept the dogs concealed in a cellar for many months prior to taking them into the neighboring state.

BURGLARS RAID SCHOOL

Burglars who broke into the principal's office of the Fannin school Thursday night damaged filing cabinets and office fixtures and took several items of property, according to a report made to city police Friday. Entrance to the school was gained by removing a window pane from a rear door.

RETRIBUTION

Negro Who Took Clothes Of Samaritan Given 30 Days

Thirty days in jail and court costs were assessed by Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court-at-law Friday upon a negro who entered a plea of guilty of having stolen about $40 worth of clothing from another negro who gave him a ride from Dallas to Wichita Falls Wednesday.

The accused allegedly took such leave with a suitcase belonging to the owner of the car while the latter was absent having a tire repaired.

A Wichita Falls man was given a 30-day jail sentence, plus court costs, for carrying brass knucks which he was accused of having used with considerable energy recently.

TWO OFFICERS RESIGN POSTS

Thornton and Goforth Quit Constable's Work

Resignation of Elmer Thornton and Clint Goforth, deputy constables, effective Friday at midnight was announced Friday by Constable Frank Morgan.

Goforth and Thornton were indicted by the October grand jury on charges of extortion. Their trials, scheduled to have been held last week, has been indefinitely postponed.

Stating that both of the men already had obtained employment in other lines of work, Mr. Morgan said that they had felt that efficient work in the constable's department would be impossible because of the filing of charges and the indictments which were returned.

Postponement of trial of Goforth and Thornton, according to statements of District Attorney Sam B. Spence to Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district court, was asked because new evidence in the case had been obtained.

Acceptance of a fine from a local woman presumably for disturbing the peace when no charges had been filed was charged to the two deputies in the original indictments. Attorneys for the defendants stated, at the time the cases were passed, that they had new evidence upon which acquittal was expected.

RED CROSS ENDS RELIEF

Seed for 50,000 Acres Distributed Here

After distribution of 39,223 bushels of wheat, rye and barley the American Red Cross office in Wichita Falls for the district comprising 29 counties of Northwest Texas, has closed. E. S. Transue, director of disaster relief, has left for his home in Denver.

It is estimated that enough grain has been distributed free to the farmers to plant over 50,000 acres. Distribution started in September and many fields planted with this free grain are now of sufficient growth to pasture.

Director Transue stated reports coming to the office the past few days show that conditions on the farms in the district have improved with the October rains.

Junior C.-C. Leaders Go to Dallas Today

Jerry Vinson, president of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce, Wilburn Page, secretary and Walter Nelson Jr., a director, will leave for Dallas Saturday to pay a courtesy call to the Junior chamber of commerce there.

Every table filled in the Flower Carnival teashop during the lunch hour. All sorts of prominent business men, including lawyers and judges and druggists and automobile men and merchants of all kinds and the florists, who ate and worked and probably ate again.

Mrs. Frank Timberlake and Mrs. C. E. Bailey superintending things in the flower show where everyone, looking at the dahlias grown in Wichita Falls wondered why one need to go to California. Mrs. Bailey busy placing flowers and Mrs. Timberlake, who says she is timid in crowds, talking vivaciously and charmingly with every stranger who shows interest in the flowers.

Mrs. P. H. Boddy and Mrs. Wm. Myers from Henrietta, bringing gorgeous baskets and pots of flowers and plants. Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta and Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, who have been attending a club meeting in Fort Worth, coming in with other beautiful flowers waving their hands at Henrietta they said, as they came through.

Mrs. Newton Maer, the lovely and stately president of the Woman's Forum wearing a paper of pins on her left shoulder as a boutonniere and everyone calling on her for a pin. Mrs. Newton Maer venturing on ladders that didn't look completely safe.

Mrs. James P. Bowen dashing in with boxes of gifts that had been gathered for the manufacturer's department which she is sponsoring. Back to her car to unlock the trunk on the rear full of the smaller "precious gifts. Full of pep every minute.

Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth proving she is part of the firm "The Decorators," wrapping bands of black round a too yellow fence. Untiring in her efforts with her committee.

Mrs. M. T. Clements and Mrs. O. W. Harvey tacking tassels of gold and black around a booth, threatening to climb to the high spots, calling for nails and hammers and taking everything decorative in sight before someone else could get it.

Mrs. Wm. Huff standing still for the first time since work began, two weeks ago. Offering to buy cold drinks for others to celebrate the day.

Mrs. Claude Wood, much pleased over congratulations on receiving the prize for the best angel food cake, (which she did not bake), getting all the trash out the back doors where Mrs. Joline had been on watch some half an hour for a trash wagon.

Mesdames A. N. Lummus, Edgar Ratliff, J. Truman Stevens with boxes before them looking as serious as bankers in consultation, Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin at another table conducting some serious and mysterious business that brought crowds around her. Every forum worker doing her best to make things a success.

Man's Trial on Felony To Follow Sanity Verdict

Carl Holcomb, whose trial on charges of burglary and chicken theft has been set for the week of Nov. 10 following indictment by the October grand jury, was found sane by County Judge John P. Marrs in a hearing Friday afternoon after both sides had waived jury rights.

Holcomb was committed to the Wichita Falls state hospital in August, 1929, and was released on Nov. 25, 1929, Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent of the institution, declaring him sane.

The action before Judge Marrs Friday was brought by District Attorney Sam B. Spence in order to establish Holcomb's sanity legally in advance of the coming trial on a felony charge, it was said.

C.-C. JOBBERS AID CAMPAIGN

Effort to Increase Employment Pledged

Falling in line with practically every other organization in Wichita Falls, the executive committee of the manufacturers and jobbers division of the chamber of commerce at its meeting Friday noon at the Wichita club passed a resolution unanimously endorsing the better business campaign launched by the citizens of Wichita Falls and has pledged its efforts to increasing employment and the restoration of business conditions here, according to L. H. Estes, chairman.

Mr. Estes appointed the entire executive committee to meet with the central committee of the move to offer their cooperation in the matter. The executive committee will meet with the central committee probably at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning in the chamber of commerce offices.

The committee is composed of L. H. Estes, chairman, J. W. Chatham, Roy Mann, George Mobley and Paul Putty.

John Boswell, manager of the chamber of commerce, and Dudley S. Foy, assistant manager, met with the executive committee of the division Friday.

COMMITTEE TO SEEK PLEDGES FOR REPAIRS

At a meeting of the research and employment committee of the better business campaign held Friday afternoon, members decided to make their first work presentation of petitions seeking pledges for property improvements. Members of the committee have been given copies and some have already started work. No quota has been set but the expected amount will run into thousands of dollars, as early indications point.

There will be a meeting of the general commitee and the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Presidents of ten service clubs and other civic organizations have been invited to attend, according to John Boswell, manager of the chamber of commerce.

The research and employment committee will make a close canvass for improvement pledges all of next week.
