Day Wins Scouting's Silver Beaver

Vernon Day, Scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troops 431 and 430, was awarded the Silver Beaver as the Adobe Walls Council annual recognition banquet held in Pampa Saturday, Feb. 25.

This award is given for distinguished service to youth by the Boy Scouts of America, acting through the National Court of Honor. It is the highest award presented to Scout leaders.

Day becomes the fourth Wellington Boy Scout leader to wear the Silver Beaver, joining Sandy Parsons (1952), Glenn McLain (1971) and Margaret Hartman (1972).

The Silver Beaver was presented to Day by Conner and Vastalee Hicks. The guest speaker was Justice C.L. Ray, State Supreme Court of Texas, an Eagle Scout and still a Boy Scout troop leader.

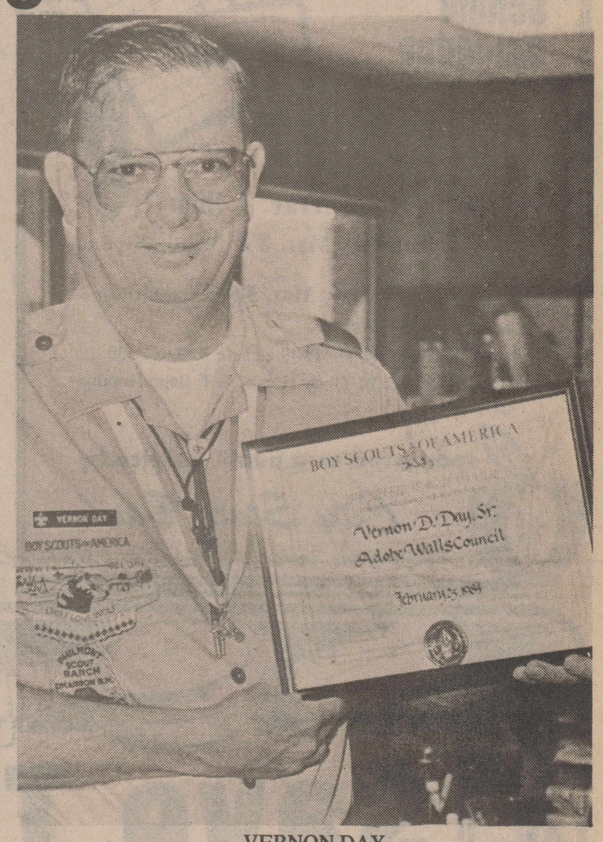

Ironically Day was not a Boy Scout as a youth and he did not join Scouting until 1973, when he became assistant Scoutmaster and later Scoutmaster of Troop 413, Pampa. However, two of his sons are Eagle Scouts, Dale Day and Tony Day, both of Pampa, and the two at home Terry Day and Tracy Day, have completed all requirements to become Eagles. The biggest booster of all these Scouters is Day's wife, Nita.

He has organized several troops, but the one he is proudest of is Troop 430, Wellington, the only troop for handicapped boys in the Adobe Walls Council.

This year the boys earned the garden merit badge for the garden they raised near the Satellite Center. Toni Wright and Hettie Keller worked with him.

In 1976, Day attended the Walking Wood Badge Course at Philmont. In 1977 he became Webelos Leader

Tennis Team Opens at Vernon

The Skyrocket Tennis Team enters its first tournament of the 1984 season Friday and Saturday, March 2 and 3, playing in the Vernon Invitational.

This is one of the strongest tournaments in the North Texas-Lower Panhandle area, says Coach Ronnie Williams. Wellington is the defending champion and will be playing against 4-A and 5-A teams as well as others of its own class.

Next week, the team travels to Quanah, which will be the site of the District 2-2A tournament later in the season. Wellington players can measure their strength against several teams from this district, as well as other strong teams from the area.

Wellington will host its own invitational tournament March 23 and 24 on Ellison Park courts.

Coach Williams looked at his players this week and was pleased with what he

Wellington Volunteer Firemen Blend New Skills, Long Tradition

Oldest of the volunteer organizations in Collingsworth County is the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department, yet none of its present members can say in which year it was organized, but its 60th birthday is not far away. Firemen intend to check into this. Meanwhile, they're too busy volunteering and honing their fire fighting skills.

Not only is it one of the best equipped departments in this part of the state, its members are among the most highly trained.

The department has a colorful past and a present dedicated to year around training. It puts a hand on the pocketbook of every fire insurance policy holder and its activities help to determine the city's fire insurance key rate. In some ways, its ties with the State Fire Insurance Board are identical to a metropolitan department using paid firemen.

Currently the Wellington department, along with the young Samnorwood and Quail Volunteer Fire Departments, is in a 5-weeks firefighting school being taught in Wellington by Billy Marcus, one of 5 instructors from Texas A&M University who conduct schools statewide.

Firemen cover almost every situation they will come up against, from ventilation and hazardous substances to protective equipment, cleanup and salvage. It will be approximately 5 years before another school is held here.

Wellington firemen receive year around intensive training, a minimum of two hours at each meeting for a total of 52. Additional hours are gained at the annual Texas A&M Firemen's and Fire Marshal's School and at the two-night Canyon firemen's school. All these hours count toward the 300 hour requirement for state certification, the goal of every fireman.

At the Canyon school, for example, they fight LP gas fires, explosions, and they burn a house--the same house every year, says Department secretary J.D. Sheer.

The specially built training house is filled with hay and other flammable materials for a spectacular blaze and firefighting exercise.

Approximately 10 firemen are state certified, two gained certification recently, another is coming up and two more are not far behind. The goal is to have 75% of the department made up of certified firemen, Sheer says.

Fireman certification is one of the factors which determines the city's fire insurance key rate, which determines fire insurance premium rates.

The Department has 7 Scott Airpacks which firemen wear when going into a burning or smoke-filled building. Each man learns to operate and maintain one. But 7 aren't enough.

If there had been more, two firemen, Tommy Hud-

The equipment, from left, includes the tanker truck, country booster truck, fast response truck, chief's car, equipment van, 500 gallon pumper truck, and another 500 gallon pumper. Firemen, standing from left, are Danny Morris, Elmer Green, Eddie Davis, Walter Clements, Jim Sikes, Billy Jackson, Billy Wilkerson, Danny Gray, Richard Keller, Don Gray, Kenneth Patterson, Bill Anders, Leon Martin, Dan Langford, Johnny Brown, David Peters, Jeff Langford and Gary Sanderson. son and Walter Clements would not have inhaled too much smoke in fighting a recent fire.

Clements is back ready for another fire. Hudson has been told by his doctor never to go into a burning building again. He offered to resign from the department, but instead members created a new training position, safety officer, to which he was appointed.

A man may complete 30 years service and want to remain a fireman. Buster Hughs and Jim Sikes, both former fire chiefs, have done this.

"We value these men. They may not be as quick at firefighting now as some of the younger men, but their knowledge and coolheadedness are invaluable," Sheer said.

Although he has been with the Wellington Department only about 5 years, Sheer is one of its more experienced firefighters, as he came here from Crosbyton, where he was a member of the department 23 years and secretary 22. The Wellington department took the cue and before long he was secretary.

In so far as is known, Russell (Bo) Yates is the oldest former member from the standpoint of service. He joined the department in 1926, when he was 17 and served more than 40 years. Bura Handley, was chief when Yates joined. Handley built the first two trucks and set the high standards which the department still follows.

The 1926 equipment included one fire truck Handley had put together using a Hudson chasis and Ford motor. It was the second he had built for the department.

The firemen believe the worst fires come in the middle of winter on the coldest nights.

This was the case when Wellington High School burned to the ground in January 1928, at night, when water froze where it fell--on the ground and on the firemen.

Pioneer Hardware, in Saied's location, was another of the winter night fires. Firemen thrashed the motor on the Hudson-Ford fighting that one, Hughs remembers.

Grass fires occurred more frequently and the Mill Iron Ranch has had its share of big ones.

Everytime the Ford pumper went to Mill Iron, somewhere on the pasture roads, it got a vapor lock. Firemen sat helplessly while the engine cooled down.

Grass fires flared again after development of the El Paso Natural gas field in the north part of the county, in some of the roughest part of the county. It took a veteran fireman to know how to get to some of these. Many fires north of Salt Fork are set by lighting. The river seems to be the dividing line.

The City Grocery fire brought heavy loss and the Masonic Lodge on the second floor was lost.

Hughs will forever remember the John Deere Farm Equipment fire, a block north of his Ace Hardware. He had just undergone back surgery and was in a body cast, but he did what he could at that fire all day. A high northwest wind was blowing, sending flames toward the entire north side of the square. "We could easily have lost that entire block," he remembers.

Help from Shamrock, Childress, and Memphis was called in.

Older firemen remember what Cotton Dorman, A&M instructor, told them over and over: "Never be too proud to call for help."

Cotton gins, with their flash fires were constant worry in the fall.

They will remember longest fires that took life: one in which a child died; an elderly bedfast man being visited by friends when a fire broke out in the house. They jumped and ran. He died. The worst by far was the blaze in which four children died.

Johnny Brown and Sikes have both gone into burning buildings to save ch ren. The latest fire involvin loss of life was last year at a farm home.

"The fire department has more authority legally than it ever uses," Hughs points out. You're in charge when you respond to a call--more authority than the police."

Hearings Mar. 1 to Discuss Extracurricular Absences

AUSTIN--The State Board of Education has called for public hearings to be held throughout the state on a proposed rule regarding student absences for extracurricular activities.

The hearings will be held until March 14 at the 20 regional education service centers. Two hearings will be held at each site. Members of the State Board of Education will sit on each hearing panel.

The public hearing for Region XVI will be held Thursday, March 1 at the regional service center, 1601 South Cleveland, Amarillo. The hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and 4 to 7 p.m.

Anyone wishing to contact the hearing should call 806-376-5521.

The proposed rule to be discussed is as follows: Student Absences for Extracurricular or Other Activities: School districts shall not schedule, nor permit students to participate in, any school related activities on or off campus that would require, permit or allow a student in grades seven-12 to be absent from class in any course more than five times during the 175-day school year (full-year course) or more than three times during any one semester (full-year and semester courses.) Classes missed or UIL and state-approved participation in extension of the academic curriculum (subject-related fairs, assemblies, field trips, and other subject-related activities) in English/language arts, reading, mathematics, science, social studies, fine arts, or other languages, or student organizations, shall not count as any of these absences.

Each student who participates in these activities must have and maintain at least a 70 average in at least four of the courses in which the student in enrolled for that semester.

Districts shall develop a policy which implements the stipulation of this rule.

The proposed rule has been accepted for first reading and filing authorization by the State Board of Education.

Board chairman Joe Kelly Butler of Houston, 7th Congressional District, described the rule as a very important issue and said individuals who have concerns regarding the rule should plan to attend one of the hearings.

Individuals who desire to speak at a hearing should contact the education service center director in their area.

Samnorwood PTO Chooses Projects

In a meeting Monday, Feb. 27, members of Samnorwood Parent-Teacher Organization chose projects which will be funded with proceeds from the annual carnival held in October and money from the pop machine at school.

These will include an opaque projector for elementary school, a projector for Mrs. Jane Sheer's room, a number of smaller items for Jimmy Brown's vocational ag shop, a calculator for Paul Schaub's classes and dishes and stainless flatwear for Judy Barber's home economics department.

If money remains, it will be used to buy chairs for the gymnasium foyer, and stainless flatwear for the cafeteria, said LaDonna Oldham.

Supt. Garland Cavitt, who gave the opening prayer, also discussed proposed changes in House Bill 246. The length of the school day will not be changed, he told the PTO and the number of days a student can miss for participation in extra-curricular activities is being upped from 5 to 9.

The room count was won by grades 3 and 4.

Curtains, Divider Material Received for Hospital Rooms

Material to be used in making dividers for the office-examining area used by Dr. G.N. Pillai, staff consultant in oncology, and the new curtains for patient rooms at Collingsworth General Hospital, have arrived, Loretta Wright, Collingsworth General Auxiliary president announced.

Edna Wooldridge, Irene Yarbrough and Myrtle Yarbrough are hemming and fitting the divider sections, while Dollie Wilson, Corky Bowen and Mrs. Wright are doing the required fitting, altering and hanging of the curtains.

In other activities the auxiliary hosted a film showing for the women of Collingsworth County Tuesday, Feb. 21, which gave information relating to cancer in the middle years.

To understand any cancer one must first know what it is, an uncontrolled growth of abnormal cells, the film brought out.

Normally the cells that make up all the parts of the body reproduce themselves in an orderly manner so that the body grows, replaces worn out cells and repairs itself after injury. But occasionally certain cells grow into a mass of tissue called a tumor. Some tumors are benign and many others are malignant. These are the cancers, it was brought out.

Sandy St. John, field representative for the American Cancer Society, Amarillo, showed the film which stressed uterine cancer risk factors. She answered questions afterward and gave each woman present an information packet to take home.

The Auxiliary members remained for a short business meeting, when they voted to order service pins for their smocks. The pins read: "Volunteers - We Care"

Mrs. Marvin Knoll, treasurer, reported that the Auxiliary has received a $100 donation from the 1954 Study Club.

Two fund-raising projects were approved. The first and longest will be the giving away of a telephone clock radio combination.

The second fund raiser is to carry out an already decided upon project, a garage sale. The date and location of these activities will be announced.

Proceeds from these activities will go toward payment of the hospital patient room drapery and dividers and other projects of the Auxiliary. Members were reminded that an ongoing expense is the hospital coffee service in the lobby, which amounts to about $50 per month.

UDC Chapter Hears Program on Gen. Sul Ross Feb. 22

Sabine Pass Chapter 2459, Daughters of the Confederacy, heard a discussion of Brigadier General Lawrence Sullivan (Sul) Ross, a Texas hero of the Indian Wars and the War Between the States.

Mrs. Monty Mitchell, chapter president, was the speaker and also presided at the business meeting, when the meeting was held Wednesday, Feb. 22.

Members were reminded of Sul Ross' association with this part of the State, for it was he, who confronted a band of Comanches on Pease River, wounded the chief and captured his wife, and child, who Ross discovered was Cynthia Ann Parker with Prairie Flower.

She had been captured at Fort Parker when she was 9 years old.

Early in the Civil War, Ross' brigade served in the Indian Territory, then fought at the battle of Pea Ridge, Ark., and crossed the Mississippi River to fight at Iuka and Cornith. His brigade saw more action than any mounted unit during the Civil War. He survived having 7 horses shot from under him, Mrs. Mitchell continued.

An administrator as well as soldier, Ross was a member of the Constitution Convention in 1875, served in the 17th Legislature beginning in 1880, and was elected Governor of Texas in 1886. Afterward he was president of Texas A&M, Mrs. Mitchell told the group, and the school's elite company of cadets, the Ross Volunteers were named for him.

Sul Ross State University in Alpine was named for him. He is buried at Waco.

1924 Study Club Given Update on Series of Projects

American Heart Fund donations mailed to the 1924 Study Club, serving as county campaign chairman in February, the "heart month" total $303 so far, announced Mrs. B.M. Sims, club president. This announcement was made during a meeting of the club Tuesday morning, Feb. 28 in the home of Mrs. R.R. Crawley.

Another February project available for those wishing to participate is on electrical safety from U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. Some members reported on their home audit begun a few weeks ago.

The members continue their interest in the community education supplements for club membership and other interested adults and youth. These films have been made available to civic clubs and the schools of the county: "Ekofish", "City At Sea", "Escape", and "Chickenomics, a Fowl Approach," have shared-Kiw-BPW.

Available again is a tape for those interested in learning more of the free enterprise system. It is by Capt. Kenneth Ryker, (Ret., U.S. Army Air Force), Academic Dean, Northwood Institute (a Free Enterprise approach to higher education) of Cedar Hill. This tape was made available at the request of both students and adults.

Also available is a tape of the address by Congressman Charles Stenholm to the international convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs, 1982, on "Free Enterprise, the Great American Bargain."

For the public school students, the GFWC/Free Enterprise approach is current entitled "Economics Is Kid Stuff", sponsored jointly with the Council on Economic Education, Cities Service Company and Proctor and Gamble Company.

An update on the club's legislative communications launched during its American Energy Awareness Week events revealed the community communicated on ten energy related issues; however, a water development plan, nuclear waste disposal site, and direct fuel costs had the most interst shown. Regulatory reform and backfitting for utilities were next.

The pottery demonstration exhibit from Clarendon College by James Ivy Edwards during Public School Week has been re-scheduled for March 25-26. Mrs. James R. Ross is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Chuck Wilbur.

Delegate to the Top of Texas District convention to be in Amarillo is Lorene Jenkins.

Members voted to present Certificates of Commendation for advancing the cause of Free Enterprise to several persons in the county.

Announcement of their names will not be made until the time of the presentations.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Chester Fires, Mrs. Murray Dodson, Mrs. Truett Holland, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Wilbur, Mrs. Sims, and the hostess, Mrs. Crawley.

Scoopin'

Gary Hart's defeat of Walter Mondale in the New Hampshire primary Tuesday is the most interesting event of the political season so far.

Hart won at least partly by saying he was the candidate of the future and that he had new ideas. We need to find out whether Hart has some new ideas on agriculture policy and whether or not they're worth supporting. We know our current agriculture policy is not working well for the farmer or the federal government's budget deficit.

Agriculture policy is not a flashy topic on the campaign trail. The issues are so complex that they are difficult to understand even if you study the problems. And they are certainly difficult to turn into an ear-and-vote-catching phrase. But addressing those problems should be high on any administration's agenda when a new farm bill is written in 1985.

---Henry Wells

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — What are the major issues that will face Texas in the future? Apparently the future is already here, because the issues and the problems we are deciding today are basically what policy-makers see as future challenges.

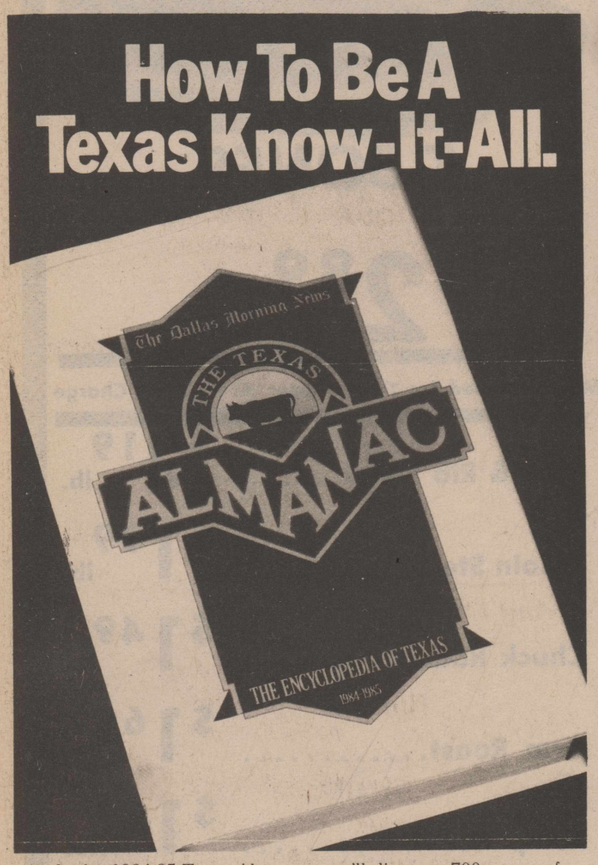

Texas was one of 30 states involved in analyzing goals and issues between 1972 and 1983.

Among those issues, the most frequently mentioned item by all the state commissions was economic development. More than 75% of the projects projected moderate economic growth in the next decade. They overwhelmingly favored dispersed industrial development in urban and rural areas and working toward even regional growth.

Agriculture ranked second, with preservation and productivity as major concerns. One of our major concerns in Texas is with productivity, and it was pointed out that the state's productivity rate in the past 10 years has been halved.

Transportation is a major item on the Texas list.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The state Board of Corrections continued its probe last week of the Texas prison system and learned:

—The Texas Department of Corrections overpaid architects $1 million for fees not called for in written contracts.

—Departed prison system director W. J. Estelle received a gift pickup truck paid out of prison employees "barber funds."

—It may be necessary to radically reshape the complex prison system bureaucracy, according to a management consulting firm's report.

The accounting firm looking into huge cost-overruns in recent prison construction found some $1 million was paid for architects fees which did not correspond to the architects' written contracts

If the attorney general permits, the Board of Corrections may sue for the overpayments.

The Board also wants to review the "barber fund," which is funded by voluntary employee donations. The name comes from the free haircuts and shoeshines in the inmate-staffed prison barber shops which is utilized by employees who contribute to the fund.

Official Gifts

Contributions are supposed to be used to pay dues in organizations, and to underwrite employee parties, gestures of condolences, etc. But Board chairman Robert Gunn is unhappy with what he has learned about the way the fund is managed and wants a full review.

Gunn said he has been told the money was also used to buy gifts for retiring prison officials. Other state officials have heard that prison employees are pressured to contribute, and that the wardens, not employees, control how the dollars are spent.

Estelle was presented the gift pickup truck at his going-away party this fall, an acting prison director said.

The prison director's job should be divided into two jobs to handle the complex state agency and new offices should be created for planning and financial controls, according to a team of efficiency experts hired by the Board.

Televised Execution?

So far, prison officials haven't accepted a death-row inmate's two-week-old plea to have his execution televised.

But Texas Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox last week indicated he had no objection to broadcasting the execution and that the prison board had the authority to allow television coverage and to issue strict guidelines on handling the broadcast.

Convicted killer James David Autry has told the press that a televised execution would be a deterrent to crime, but Mattox apparently doesn't share that view, according to a spokesman.

The Texas prison system traditionally allows some press coverage, but has never permitted television or still camera photography in the death chamber.

Phone Rates Delayed

Meanwhile, Mattox also succeeded in delaying the proposed telephone rate hike by Southwestern Bell.

Mattox warned the Public Utility Commission that in his opinion, it would be violating state law if it rushed new rates.

The PUC members, who at first did not want to hear an appeal of the rate hike approval, agreed to listen.

Mattox said a new law prevents bonded rates from going into effect for an additional 60 days.

Coastal Bonanza

Texas government won big last week—about $350 million—after a federal judge ruled the federal government had to share half of new offshore oil and gas lease money with the state.

The state's case was pushed mainly by former Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and his successor, Garry Mauro.

Mauro said about $215 million will go to the Permanent School Fund and $100 million representing interest money can be used by the Legislature for education.

Teacher Exams

While the Legislature considers whether teachers can get a raise, it also will debate whether to make public teachers take a competency exam. The president of the largest teacher organization in Texas, however, thinks that is an absurd idea.

The head of the Texas State Teachers Association, Dale Young of Fort Worth, implied that principals could tell which teachers were competent just by looking at the "blizzard of paperwork teachers submit every day."

Black Democrats

The Texas Coalition of Black Democrats meeting in El Paso last week surprised the state with narrow straw poll support for state Sen. Lloyd Doggett, seeking to replace retiring U.S. Sen. John Tower.

The funniest wise crack of the evening's featured guests probably came from Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower who told the convention, "This is the first time I've flown 800 miles west to speak to a bunch of East Texans."

Hance Endorsed

Meanwhile, Congressman Kent Hance, a U.S. Senate candidate, picked up a key endorsement in Southeast Texas from State Representative Mark Stiles. Stiles represents the 21st district which includes Liberty, Chambers and western Jefferson County encompassing the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Hance also denounced Bob Krueger's stand on immigration policy as being bad for businessmen and Hispanics. Responding to charges that he had flip-flopped on immigration issues, Krueger wrote Hance, "I support employer sanctions as long as such sanctions are part of a law that has sufficient guarantees that it would not discriminate against Mexican-Americans."

Hance said that position is still somewhat vague since most Hispanics insist there is no such thing as employer sanctions that won't discriminate against Mexican-Americans. "That's like saying he is for capital punishment as long as no one gets killed." Hance said.

Roof Back on at Elementary

Estimates of damage to Wellington Elementary School from a storm Feb. 17 now stand at $15,000. The roof has been repaired, but students and teachers who were displaced by the storm damage won't be able to move back into their regular rooms until after spring break, Supt. Kenneth McKay said this week.

Work that must still be done before the damaged rooms can be re-occupied includes new ductwork, repairing the ceiling, replacing library carpet, and painting walls in the library and migrant program classroom.

Two heating units and 6 air conditioners also will have to be replaced.

Included in the damage estimates are about $2,000 worth of educational materials.

Show Calves At Houston

Darvin Nix is exhibiting a steer and Patricia Fourmentin a steer and heifer in the Houston Livestock Show this week.

Patricia is showing a 1280 pound Semintal steer which her family bred and she raised. It is the same steer that placed 10th in a class of 70 at the Fort Worth Livestock Show two weeks ago.

Her heifer, a spring calf, has not been shown before. A Limousin, she was bought for Patricia, who plans to bring it home.

Accompanying the 4-H exhibitors to Houston were their fathers, Richard Fourmentin and Jerry Nix, along with Extension Agent Don Reeves.

The Collingsworth group left here Monday. Judging in the junior livestock show in which they are entered is scheduled for Thursday and Friday and the calves will sell Saturday. They will return home Sunday.

MONEY

Dollars, dimes, nickels, pennies . . . imagine the fine things these coins will buy. A cute new hat for that special anniversary, or curtains for the boys' room, perhaps a new tire for the car, even the down payment on that washing machine which has been sorely needed.

In another case, these same coins might be the exact amount for the fare back home to visit loved ones we have so longed to see. They might buy food for a hungry family. Start a forgotten man on the road to rehabilitation. Buy medicine . . . or a toy for a sick child. Or be the means to heat a cold and lonely house.

And yet, whatever their shiny value might be; whatever wonderful worldly possessions they may buy or how much temporal good they might do . . . these coins, as money, are absolutely worthless toward buying the one thing most important to man. Only through God can we all have the bountiful riches of eternal life . . . begin today, this very minute, making plans to go to His House. Be in your church tomorrow.

© Coleman Adv.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

THEY HONORED GREAT AMERICANS

Ninty-one boys and girls of Wellington Elementary School dressed to represent their favorite characters in American History on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22. At right back is Melvin Cardwell, principal, who pays tribute to Ben Franklin. Teachers who were also in costume are at right in the back row.

Students Note Great Americans Day

Florence Nightingale was popular among the girls of Wellington Elementary School, and so were Martha Washington and Betsy Ross, as they dressed the part of their favorite historical character to observe Great Americans Day Wednesday, Feb. 22.

Boys picked both historic figures and contemporary role models. A teacher came as Jean Laffite, and students portrayed Daniel Boone and George Washington, but also John Wayne and Martin Luther King. The children were encouraged to read about these historic figures and they were discussed during the day.

Hedley Trustees Report Meeting

A new five-year plan was adopted which stressed the written communication skills areas for grades k-12.

Two tax resolutions were adopted. One provided for the taxation of automobiles within the district.

The other provided for the granting of tax discounts for early tax payments. A three percent discount would be given if the tax were paid in October or earlier. A two percent discount would be given if the tax were paid in November. And, a one percent discount would be given if paid in December.

The board agreed to use the firm of Brandon and Blair to handle Collingsworth County delinquent taxes. That firm is already being used for the district's Donley County portion.

Supt. Holland reported that over ninety percent of current year taxes have been collected.

COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY AGENT REPORT

by Don Reeves

ROSES NEED TLC

With a little "tender loving care," rose plants will provide plenty of beautiful blooms during 1984.

While roses are a worldwide favorite, they do require considerable maintenance if they are to be productive.

Set out new varieties of bare-root plants no later than four weeks before the area's average last frost date. However, container plants can be set out at any time.

Prune roses in early spring, just as leaf buds begin to swell but before active growth starts. Because of the severe December freeze over Texas, pruning may have to be delayed until actual growth starts. Cut off all winter-killed growth and remove any broken or diseased canes.

Prune most bush roses to leave about five vigorous canes 18 to 24 inches tall. Hybrid tea varieties may be cut back one-fourth to produce an abundance of small blooms, one-half to produce a moderate number of medium-sized flowers, and three-fourths to provide a smaller number of exhibition-sized roses.

Prune climbing and rambling roses after they bloom. They produce flowers on one-year-old canes from buds that developed late last summer. If canes are too long, they can be trimmed now, but they must not be cut back drastically because it would eliminate most flowers this year.

Treat all cut ends with asphalt wound dressing or a drop or two of common white glue to keep insects out, suggests the horticulturist.

To promote vigorous green growth of rose plants, broadcast one-half cup of 8-8-8 fertilizer, or an equivalent, around each bush, but at least 12 inches from the trunk. Work the fertilizer into the top inch of soil and water thoroughly. On sandy or infertile soil, fertilize every three to four weeks.

Keep several inches of a mulch around the plants. And, to control blackspot, a fungus disease, spray plants every week during the summer with benlate, manzate or Funginex.

March Texas Book Month

AUSTIN, Texas - Texans-rightfully proud of their colorful heritage-annually celebrate the lore and legend of the Lone Star State in March.

The month includes two major historic observances. March 2 marks the anniversary of Texas' declaration of independence from Mexico, while March 6 honors the fall of the last brave heroes of the Alamo.

This March, Texans have a new occasion to celebrate - Texas Book Month.

Governor Mark White, in a proclamation signed February 23, urged Texans to celebrate Texas Book Month, calling books a "window to both Texas' history and future." He suggested that Texans, whether newly arrived or long established, learn about the state's history, government, industry, arts, literature, and folklore by delving into the state's treasure trove of books.

As part of his own celebration of Texas Book Month, Gov. White-himself an avid Texana reader-taped a public service announcement to be distributed free to all Texas television stations and to air in March. Sponsored by the University of Texas Press, the public service spot features Gov. White asking Texans to take part in what he calls a "real Texas adventure, reading." As he says in the announcement, "It's your state-read about it."

The public service announcement has been distributed to all the state's radio stations.

The establishment of Texas Book Month was prompted, in part, by the desire of the University of Texas Press to spread the word about the many good books on Texas that are written by Texas authors, published by local publishing houses, funded by nonprofit institutions and associations, carried in libraries, sold in bookstores, and made available through other sources.

Books on Texas, explained Theresa May, coordinator of the Press' celebration, introduce readers to people and places both past and present.

"Through books, you can read about what happens at the Capitol, what happened at Goliad in 1836, or what probably happened in Indian encampments centuries ago. You can ride with the Texas Rangers or explore the scenic wonders of the countryside. You can read about Texas' weather, or museums, or cooking, or learn to identify native plants and animals," she said.

Support for a month devoted to reading about Texas has been strong in Texas book communities, educational circles, and nonprofit institutions. According to L. Tuffly Ellis, director of the Texas State Historical Association, "Texas Book Month offers a special occasion to celebrate the wonderful world of Texana in the fields of history, fiction, and folklore." Ellis added, "Everyone with an interest in Texas should take this opportunity to read at least one major book in the month of March about this state."

"Only the printed word can enable us to examine our state and rediscover its treasures again and again," he said. "To understand Texas and its people, there is no substitute for books."

And award-winning author James Michener, who is currently writing a major novel called Texas, said the Lone Star State is "very fortunate" in having what he called a "plethora of regional books." Michener said regional books published in Hawaii, Colorado, and Texas within the last three decades have provided invaluable help in his research. He added that, while neither author nor publisher knows how their books will be used or by whom, one thing is certain-they are "entering into the written record material that will contribute to a balanced view of regional history."

From all corners, the message seems to be clear for March: Texas is your state. Read about it.

GOLF WITH THE SWINGERS

By Mary Sanford

There was a Ladies Golf Association meeting at the Country Club Tuesday, Feb. 14; however, that meeting was supposed to be Thursday, Feb. 17.

Second Tuesday---Second Thursday.

Confused, so were the members of the Association. How could I have voted to meet on a night that I knew I could not attend, and certainly could not report if I was never there.

Frustration, even a little upset, wondering how this had happened. All of us thinking Thursday, yet we were meeting on Tuesday.

The confusion was cleared up when the minutes were read at the Tuesday meeting. It was discovered a motion had been made and carried to meet the 2nd Thursday. Imagine my chagrin when I discovered the boo boo was evidently mine in reporting wrong information to the newspaper. And to add insult to injury, I took those notes for the minutes and used those same notes for the newspaper report.

Sorry about that, ladies.

My apology is hereby extended.

From the Tuesday meeting, came a notice that the members voted to buy an airtank for the country club to air goft cart tires.

Bennie Sullivan, president had sent a report naming the following committees to serve this year.

-Tournament committee, headed by Betty Cochran vice-president, who is automatically the chairman, working with her will be Louise Mabery, Patsy Martin and Bennie.

-Ladies Day play co-chairmen, Lyna Hurst and Eugena Sherman.

-Mary Sanford will do publicity and report meetings boo boos and all.

The next meeting will definitely be the second Thursday evening, March 8 at the country club. Patsy Martin and Shannon West will be hostesses.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The Rev. David Keller of 1st Christian Church will be the leader of the newly organized Third Grade Brownie Troop.

An organizational meeting was held Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 28, but membership is still open to any third grade girl wanting to join. Rev. Keller should be contacted by calling 447-5529, according to Rhonda Colson.

When the girls register with the troop, they will begin selling Girl Scout Cookies.

"This new Troop is without funds, and if anyone in town has not already bought cookies we'd appreciate your calling some of these girls," said Mrs. Colson.

On Monday, Frances Schmidt visited Troop 3 when plans were made for the three Wellington Troops to attend the District Girl Scout meeting in Pampa on March 10.

Each troop is studying a different country in which Girl Scouts and Girl Guides are organized. All Wellington troops are studying Austria. They are learning to say the Brownie Promise, Law and Motto in the German Language and they will take Austrian food to Pampa for other girls to sample.

This is one of the events in preparation for Girl Scout Week which opens Sunday, March 11 and will continue through the following Saturday. The Girl Scout Birthday is March 12.
