Holiday weekend ends in tragedy

Earlier this week, the flag in front of bldg. 800 was lowered to half-staff in honor of 2nd Lts. Mark Schweigert and James Jameson. (USAF Photo)

Two student pilots assigned to the 64th Student Squadron were killed in an automobile accident early this week.

Second lieutenants James J. Jameson, III of Colorado Springs, Colo. and Mark A. Schweigert of Santa Barbara, Calif. died as a result of injuries sustained from the accident.

The two were travelling early Sunday morning on Interstate 27 just south of Plainview, Texas, when the car they were in collided head on with another vehicle going in the opposite direction.

The accident is currently under investigation by Air Force and Texas Department of Public Safety Officials.

Lieutenant Jameson was a 1987 graduate of the University of Northern Colorado where he was a meteorology major. He received his commission through the Reserve Officer Training Corps Program there.

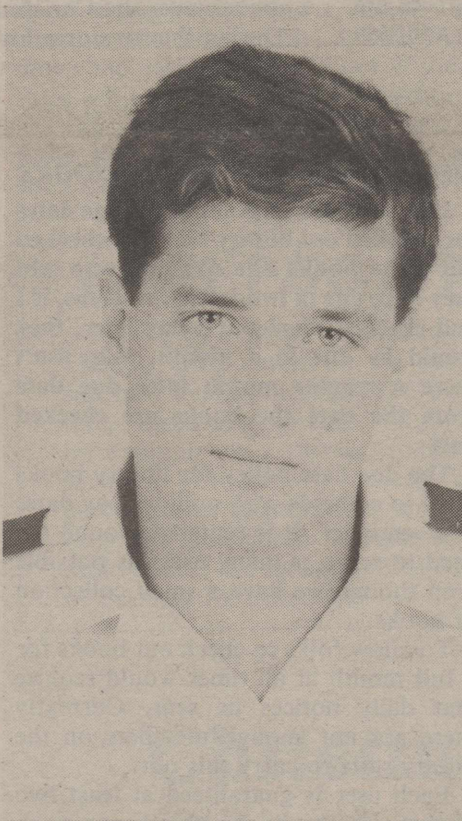

Lieutenant Schweigert was a 1987 graduate of the Air Force Academy where he received a bachelor of science degree in International Affairs.

Both lieutenants were in Undergraduate Pilot Training class 88-08 which began training in October of last year.

Services were held earlier this week in the hometowns of the two. A memorial service was held at the Reese Chapel Wednesday afternoon.

Lieutenant Jameson's family has requested memorials to be sent in his name to the Christian Officers' Association, P.O. Box 1177, Eaglewood, Colo. 80150-1177.

Lieutenant Schweigert's family has asked that memorials be sent in his name to the First Congregational Church Memorial Fund at 2101 State Street, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93105.

Bits and Pieces

Welcome Back . . .

I hope everyone enjoyed their holiday season and made full use of the much needed break to rest, recuperate, redefine goals and replenish energies for the upcoming year. Marie-Jacques, Mark, Michael and I have taken this week to enjoy our break by going skiing in the beautiful mountains of Colorado. We have had abundant snow and are enjoying great weather here in Bear Creek.

I want to urge everyone to commit themselves toward continuing the proud tradition of excellence at Reese throughout 1988. We can ill afford to rest on our laurels; rather, we should always strive to do our best—we can never do more, we should never aspire to do less.

Practice Makes Perfect . . .

I know it reads like an old cliché, but there is just no suitable substitute for practice. If we at Reese are going to be adequately prepared to impress the MCI team with our knowledge and ability, we must know our jobs and perform them well.

Even Rembrandt the famous painter/philosopher recognized that fact. He said, "Practice what you know, and it will help make clear what now you do not know." Also, a certain confidence and pride is derived from being good at what you do and any inspection team will pick that up, recognizing the positive effect it has on overall performance.

So, display a sense of urgency and project a degree of realism into the remaining scenarios in order to gain the maximum benefit from each practice.

For A Job Well Done . . .

I was proud to award an Achievement Medal to Senior Airman Barbara Huffman for flawlessly maintaining my aircraft for the last six months. I wanted to recognize her for putting in the extra time and effort that far exceeded the normal job workload.

The extra time on weekends, the constant switching from early mornings to late nights, cold hours on the ramp awaiting my uncertain arrival or departure are just a few of the challenges she faced daily, in addition to her normal workload. My thanks and congratulations.

Flying Orientation . . .

The Wing was able to fly 12 fortunate individuals on orientation flights over the holiday period. The purpose of the flights are to expose non-rated individuals to the flying environment and to give them an appreciation of how their jobs may affect or impact the flying mission. They are not intended to be incentive flights, but rather to provide an opportunity to those who otherwise may not get to fly.

I would like to be able to provide flights to all of those who desire to fly, but due to a limited number of wing authorized slots this is impossible. If you are interested in participating in this program, let your supervisor know and you may become one of the flyers next time.

Special thanks to the IP's who came in to support this effort!

Making The Grade . . .

Three Colonels from Air Training Command were recommended by the President of the United States for promotion to the grade of Brigadier General. The Squadron Officer School Commandant, Col. Ellwood P. Hinman III, the Goodfellow Technical Training Center Director, Col. William E. Collins and the Deputy Directorate for Bases and Units, former 64th FTW Commander, Col. James W. McIntyre. My congratulations to each of those gentleman, and in particular, Col. Jim McIntyre.

Each of you who worked for him here at Reese can know that you played a significant part in his selection to Brigadier General. I know he is grateful and would like to pass along his sincere thanks.

Good Samaritan . . .

My personal congratulations to Lt. Col. Rufus Hutchinson for his humanitarian concern and willing assistance to the victims of an automobile accident in Lubbock over the Christmas holidays.

During the ice storm Lubbock experienced on Dec.

Col. Mark H. Lillard III, Wing Commander

27, he rendered emergency first aid, secured blankets for the injured until the ambulance arrived, and directed traffic around the scene of the accident.

Because the out-of-town family involved were not able to drive their car, he transported them and their luggage to a local motel. Lt. Col. Hutchinson's genuine concern and demonstrated generosity is a very fine example of Reese people helping out in the local community. I am proud of his unselfish actions and wanted to say thanks to him for making a positive contribution to the Air Force, Reese and the Lubbock community!

Kudos to . . .

SrA Felix Saenz for being selected as the winner of the Outstanding Practitioner of the Year Award. This award reflects SrA Saenz' hard work, dedication, and determination to improve his community and the US Air Force . . . Brig. Gen. Martin, USAF, Chief of Security Police.

The entire Company Grade Officers Council for helping the elderly and handicapped of Lubbock by painting the house of Mr. and Mrs. G.H. Davis . . . Sharon Pattillo, Paint-up coordinator, office of Community Development.

Careline

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Mark H. Lillard, III, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885-3273.

NCO Leadership School Dinner Payments

I think it would be a good idea for squadrons to pay for the dinners of their graduating students of the NCO Leadership School. I feel it takes some of the excitement away of the graduation if the students are required to pay for their own meals.

It would indeed be very nice if squadrons would pay for the meals of their graduating NCOs. However, base funds are not available to carry this out, except for what squadrons raise on their own. In such a case, the squadrons can opt to pay for the meals for their graduates. Thanks for your call.

Due Dates for Library Books

I'm a bit confused about the due dates for checked out library books. I checked out some books one day and was told they were due in two weeks; whereas, if I had checked them out a day later, they would be due in a month. Why isn't there a regular month later due date from the date the books are checked out?

The due date policy for library books is set to coincide with military pay dates as a reminder. It is centered around the need to serve as many users as possible even though we have a small collection of books.

To allow folks to check out books for a full month at all times would require that daily notices be sent. Currently there are not enough members on the library staff to carry this out.

Each user is guaranteed at least two weeks with the books plus a one week grace period before overdue notices are sent. The two week period is standard across ATC. The occasional monthly use of books is an added plus for Reese personnel.

Thank you for calling.

Cold Water in FMS Dorm

The FMS dorm was out of hot water for two days a few weeks ago. What can be done to keep from having to take cold showers?

I'm sorry for the inconvenience, in this case we had two problems which resulted in the loss of hot water. One problem was due to a faulty regulator which caused the hot water to be shut off on half of the base. The next day there was a problem with a faulty pilot safety valve. Unfortunately in the case of the faulty regulator, it took six hours to find and correct; but rest assured the Civil Engineers do everything possible to correct situations like these, as soon as possible.

Use of one way signs

Can't something be done to enforce the use of one way signs on base? People continue to ignore them especially in parking areas and one day this is going to cause a serious accident.

Absolutely. The Security Police are constantly on the look out for traffic violations such as this and have been briefed on the situation. They are currently taking measures to rectify the situation.

In the meantime, it is everyone's responsibility to be safety conscious and to observe all traffic laws. Thank you for your concern.

Rec Center Tours

I signed up to take a tour to Llano Estacado Winery through the Rec Center and was later called by Rec Center personnel telling me the tour was cancelled due to transportation conflicts. This has happened several times before. This is quite distressful because plans are made to take these tours and then they are cancelled because of a conflict with the transportation.

I'm sorry for the inconvenience. Even though the transportation division makes every effort to support the tours, in this particular case, the transportation request was inadvertently cancelled.

From now on, once transportation is scheduled for a tour, it will be available for use. Thank you for calling.

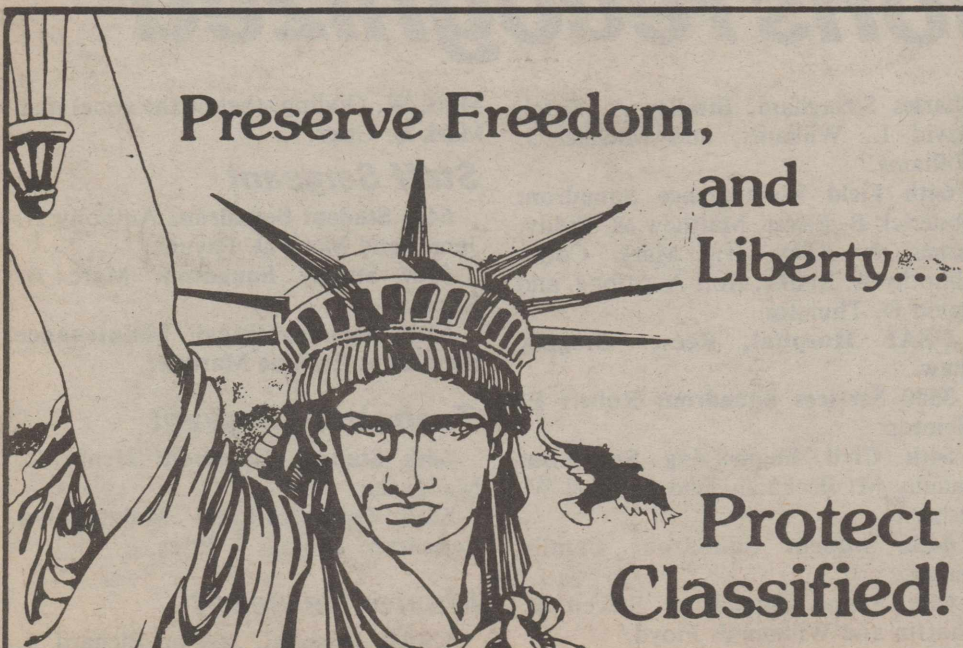

Commissary Express Lane

It is to my understanding that during a certain time of the day the commissary express lane is supposed to serve uniformed military personnel first. However, while in the express lane one day, I received no indication from the cashier to move to the front of the line. Is this policy still in effect?

Yes it is. From 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. each weekday, people in uniform have priority in the commissary express line. Although the cashiers should, sometimes they do not notice uniformed personnel and direct them to the front of the line. If you desire prompt service, you may step ahead of anyone not in uniform.

Usually, when available, the supervisor assists all commissary patrons and directs military personnel to the front of the line during this time.

Thank you for calling.

Two percent pay raise approved

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Military and Federal civilian workers will receive a two percent pay raise in 1988.

The across-the-board pay hike was effective Jan. 1. Air Force people will receive the raise beginning with their Mid-January pay checks. The pay hike applies to basic pay, housing and food allowances.

Although military pay will increase in 1988, another "pocketbook" item will not. Congress froze the variable housing allowance at the 1987 level. Local VHA rates may increase or decrease, but the overall spending level must remain the same.

Additionally, Congress did not increase overseas station allowance funding to compensate for the weakened dollar. Currently, Air Force people remain protected by the overseas allowance's automatic adjustment mechanism, which increases payments as the value of the dollar declines.

Lawmakers earlier had approved a three percent military pay hike as part of this year's defense authorization bill. However, the final budget, agreed upon by congress and the White House Dec. 22, reduced the military pay raise to two percent.

The administration agreed to a smaller military pay raise and other budget compromises to avoid deeper cuts under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law.

Under Gramm-Rudman, $11.5 billion would have been cut from this year's defense budget. Congress rescinded this year's cut as part of the budget compromise.

Congress has earmarked $292 billion this year for defense. That amount includes $19 billion in the Air Force's military personnel account, $325 million less than requested. That account funds military pay, allowances, bonuses, PCS costs and other personnel programs.

Permission for fund raisers required

by Capt. Sandy Gellner
Base Executive Officer

Many organizations hold fund-raisers throughout the year, such as bake sales and car washes. If your organization plans to hold fund-raiser on Reese AFB, written permission from the Base Commander must be obtained.

Proposals must be submitted in writing with inclusive dates, hours, where it will be held, a point-of-contact with a phone number, and items for sale.

The letter should first go to the legal office in Bldg. 800, second floor; a lawyer will coordinate on your request and send it down the hall to the Base Commander's office. If you are going to sell a food item, permission must be obtained first from Environmental Health before your letter goes to legal. Submit your letter 1 1/2 to 2 weeks before your event.

The Base Commander's permission for any sale is mandatory. If you have any questions, please call the Base Commander's office at extension 3655.

Sweethearts raise scholarship funds

In an effort to raise funds for scholarships, the Enlisted Wives Club is sponsoring a base-wide Sweetheart Contest.

From the 12 squadrons asked to participate nine volunteered to help in the fund raiser. To vote for one of the sweethearts, locked boxes are located at the Enlisted Open Mess, Officers Club, and Caprock Cafe for donations.

Photographs are also posted at the boxes. The candidate with the largest amount of nominal donations will be crowned the base Sweetheart.

A Sweetheart Ball will be held Feb. 13. Final donations can be made at that time. During the semi-formal dinner, the base Sweetheart will be crowned.

"We're really excited about the response we've had from the squadron for this new venture," said Cathy Straub, chairperson of the Sweetheart Committee. "It is not only a fund raising effort, but also a chance to foster some friendly competition between the squadrons," she said. "The support from the First Sergeants has been great," she added.

Fisher Price stroller modifications available

The Fisher-Price company reports that some of the strollers sold by the Army and Air Force exchange service (AAFES) in 1986 could fail, allowing a child to fall out when the seat is reclined, according to the consumer product safety commission.

The company said no serious injuries have been reported, although it has received two reports of children falling, and 17 other cases when heads or limbs protruded through the openings of the model 9110 combination stroller-carriages.

AAFES sold approximately 3,100 of the strollers, priced around $90.00 during February, March and April of 1986. The strollers were also carried in the 1987 and 87/88 catalogs.

The modification applies only to carriages made before July 1, 1986. The label on the back of the stroller seat shows the date of manufacture. Fisher-Price will make available a modification kit which will allow use of the stroller while preventing the child's head or body from going through the side openings.

To obtain the free kit and instructions, send the model number, exact date of manufacture and your name and address to Fisher-Price Consumer Affairs, P.O. Box 16, East Aurora, NY, 14052. In the CONUS, you may call 1-800-334-5439, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Providing Essential Elements of Friendly Information to the other side may weaken the COMSEC posture. Discussing specific, sensitive information on a current exercise, such as portions of projects or movement of personnel or aircraft over the telephones or interbase radio system are Essential Elements of Friendly Information.

The information may be unclassified, but could have a significant tactical intelligence value to those in the business of eaves-dropping. Information you provide could be the missing link "the third man" is listening for. With that information, he could know the combat capability of the base.

Commander's column

Prepare to undertake our mission

by Lt. Col. Kenneth Hess
Deputy Commandere for Operations

This was to be an upbeat article. One that waxed eloquent about all the neat and wonderful things that transpired last year and touted 1988 as potentially the best year in Reese's history. However, the personal tragedy experienced by Reese this week has made it difficult to develop demonstrative thoughts and ideas that will focus our attention on the good things to come. The fact of the matter is that this year has begun on an emotional low ebb, the wind taken from our sails by the tragic deaths of Second Lieutenants Jim Jameson and Mark Schweigert.

The bluntness of their deaths on a cold, dark and lonely Texas highway reinforces just how fragile our existence truly is. (A thought that honestly escapes me unless forced upon me by association in time and place.) Like many of you, thoughts raced through my mind when hearing of their accident "... what a waste; they were so young; so much more to accomplish in this life; but, you never know when..." Additionally, there was this intense feeling of time being compressed and an urge to make sure that all those unworked projects started getting some attention. Time is a tremendous resource to squander.

However, the benefit of time has allowed some distance from those initial reactions and brought to mind a thought from Winston Churchill. "To every man, there comes in his lifetime that special moment when he is tapped on the shoulder and offered a chance to do a very special thing, unique and fitted to his talents.

What a tragedy if that moment finds him unprepared and unqualified for the work that would be his finest hour." These two young men were enjoying a very special moment in their lives at Reese, being trained for something unique and fitted to their talents. Remembering the sense of fulfillment every time we fly a great sortie, accomplish that flawless engine change or complete any of the thousand tasks that make our mission go, should provide in each of us some pride and balance against the fragile nature of everyday life.

So it is as we begin this year, reminded we are vulnerable and fragile, and at the same time being offered the chance to do a very special thing. Let's dedicate ourselves to a safe 1988, don't be unprepared or unqualified in the undertaking of our mission.

Freedom, a continuous desire of humanity

by Chaplain Robert C. Stroud

One of the strongest drives possessed by people throughout the world is the desire for freedom. People yearn to be free, and to live in the land of liberty is the dream of many. We Americans dare not take for granted the great blessing we enjoy; citizenship in the United States is a tremendous privilege.

In this nation of ours, many different people have sacrificed much to gain and preserve our freedom. Individuals like Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln laid a firm foundation for America. In more recent years, people like Martin Luther King have had the courage to challenge our nation and remind us that freedom means nothing, it does not apply to all. Fortunately, our country has been strong enough to face its own inadequacies, and learn and grow. Truly there is no finer place in which to live, anywhere in the world.

Still, as fortunate as we are to live in America, the truth is that even here, people may still be in bondage.

People find themselves in bondage to many things; job, drugs, fear and doubt are a few of the things which threaten to rob life of its joy. Even living in the land of freedom, circumstances and state of mind may make our lives miserable.

However, just as circumstances cannot guarantee that we fully experience freedom, neither do our surroundings necessarily prevent us from enjoying genuine freedom in our hearts and minds.

While serving a church in Sacramento, I had the privilege of visiting Folsom Prison. The prison chaplain invited me to visit with a few members of the prison populace in their chapel. As we talked about the hope and meaning that faith can offer to people, even those imprisoned, I noticed a small banner hanging on the wall. The banner portrayed a dove flying free, with only a few links of a broken chain dangling from its leg. The message on the banner read: "Where the Spirit of Christ is, there is liberty."

I have seen no clearer image of how faith in God brings liberty to people, wherever they find themselves. This is one of the messages that we at the Chapel desire to share with others, especially in the afterglow of the Christmas season. A man named Paul Scherer once said: "We find freedom when we find God; we lose it when we lose him." May you experience all of the freedom God desires for you.

News briefs

Employment opportunities

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service is continually recruiting qualified applicants. A spouse of an active duty military member will be given preference when competing for vacant positions, if they are equally qualified with other applicants. In order to qualify for spouse preference, the spouse must have transferred to the new duty station with the sponsor and submit an application within six months after the sponsor's reporting date. Applications are accepted on Tuesday's between 10 a.m. and 12 p.m. For more information, contact Janice Dearwechter, 885-4581.

Furnace reminder

Residents of Reese Village should insure the filter for their furnace is clean. The filter should be checked every two to four weeks and be replaced when it is dirty. New filters are available at Housing Maintenance, 342 Harmon. When changing filters, insure the front panels of the furnace are replaced properly and secure. Visually inspect the vent pipes at the furnace and the water heater, checking for any gaps or missing pieces. If there is a problem, contact Housing Maintenance at 885-3047. For more information, contact Mr. Joe Hensley, 3047.

Weingarten rights

One of the rights established for civilian employees within the bargaining unit under the Civil Service Reform Act of 1987 establishes the right of representation during investigation interviews. It states as follows:

The exclusive representative (union) must be given the opportunity to be represented at any examination of a unit employee by a representative of the agency (Air Force) in connection with an investigation, if:

1. The employee reasonably believes that the examination may result in disciplinary action against the employee, and
2. The employee requests representation.

Luncheon date changed

The Martin Luther King, Jr. Commemorative Luncheon has been changed from Jan. 14, to Jan. 19. The Luncheon will be held at the Officer's Club at 11:30 a.m. Tickets are $5.00 and can be purchased from any Black History Week representative. For more information, contact 2nd Lt. Cecily Christian at 3410 or SSgt. Devett Washington at 3031.

Vet services limited

Veterinarian services will be limited during the month of Jan. and Feb. A new Veterinarian will be on station sometime in Feb. During this time, the clinic will be open for appointment scheduling and over the counter medications. On Jan. 14 and 15, a vet will be here TDY for privately owned pets. For questions that need immediate attention, contact the William Beaumont Army Medical Center, Autovon 681-4098.

Housing needed

The Housing Referral Service has a continuous need of non-discriminatory housing for military and DOD civilian personnel. If you have a house, apartment or mobile home for sale or rent, a listing service is available. The service is free. To register your property, stop by the Housing Referral Office. Providing a photograph of your property may aid in the sale or rental of the property. For more information, contact Paul Young, 3601.

Singles R&R

Singles Recreation and Relaxation is an event sponsored by the Single Adults Involved in Lubbock organization as well as several Lubbock businesses. The event will be held tonight, 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at the Texas Tech Student Recreation Center. Indoor sports, table games, live entertainment and refreshments will be available. Admission is $3 per person. For more information contact Deborah Willis, 744-5505.

Office help available

Any base agency which would like to utilize casual status officers waiting to enter Undergraduate Pilot Training may do so by submitting a brief job description to the Consolidated Base Personnel Office, Personnel Utilization Office. Descriptions should be submitted by Tuesday. For more information, contact 2nd Lt. Barbara Mahan, 3417.

Having a baby?

If you are E-3 or below and have a new baby, Project Stork sponsored by the Family Services Center has a free layette for your new arrival. For more information, stop by the Family Services Center, bldg. 6100 or call 3305.

Housing reminder

Air Force Regulation 30-15 requires all military personnel to report to Housing Referral Services before entering into any rental or sales agreement. This is to inform you of unsuitable locations in the Lubbock commuting area or any rental agency with which there have been continuing problems. Also it is to advise you of restrictive sanctions against an establishment, if any exist.

Housing Referral Services has a listing of all suitable apartments in the city of Lubbock and several two, three and four bedroom duplex and single family houses for rent. If you have questions, contact Mr. Paul Young at 3601.

Mortuary benefits

A new pamphlet has been published by the Mortuary Services Office at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla. The pamphlet is intended to clear up confusion concerning mortuary benefits for retirees. Policy changes on moving

New procedures went into effect Jan. 1 for personnel electing to use the Do It Yourself move program for PCS moves.

The major changes to the program include:

- Elimination of government contracts. The member pays all expenses of the move to a contractor of his or her choice;

- The member is taxed on the excess of his or her entitlement over expenses. The member submits a certificate of expenses supported by a copy of the rental contract, if applicable;

- The advance operating allowance is reduced to a maximum of 60 percent of the estimated constructive Government Bill of Lading or local contract cost.

"Old" DITY moves will continue to be processed under current procedures. These include any DITY move where the member received an advance operating allowance in Calendar Year 1987, or where a government contract payment is involved for a 1987 move.

Questions concerning the DITY move program should be directed to the Traffic Management Office at 3944 or the Accounting and Finance Travel Section, 3163.

AFIT now nonvolunteer

Programs where volunteer status is a qualifier for acceptance have recently been reviewed, as a result, Air Force Institute of Technology has become a nonvolunteer program, effective since January 1.

Under the provisions of Air Force Regulation 50-5, United States Air Force Formal schools, an officer could volunteer for AFIT, be selected, then request release from the AFIT assignment without prejudice, for any reason. This procedure caused problems that included funded quotas going unfilled or short notice assignments for replacements.

Under the new procedures, officers may continue to express their interest in AFIT through a variety of ways, by the Air Force form 90, letting their commander know, who will pass that on to HQ AFMPC, or by contacting their HQ AFMPC assignment officers. In turn, once the information is received at HQ AFMPC, assignment teams will carefully screen all eligible officers, interested and non-interested in AFIT, and nominate those officers who are academically qualified and have the right career background to successfully complete an AFIT program and meet the duty requirements of the follow-on directed duty assignment. Once the AFIT board selects the Officer for AFIT, the officer must accept the assignment or separate under the 7-day option provisions of AFR 36-20.

New Classes for '88

The Mathis Recreation Center will kick off the 1988 with two new hobby and craft classes. For those interested in learning the art of cake decorating, the five week class begins Jan. 19. The fee for this class is $15. Registration deadline is 6 p.m., Jan. 15.

Perhaps you enjoy sewing and would care to learn the fine art of quilt making. This will be taught in a six week class beginning Jan. 21. The fee for this class is $20. Registration deadline is Jan. 18 at 6 p.m. For more information on either of these classes contact the Mathis Recreation Center at 3787.

TROA Meeting

Personnel account of a POW

by Capt. Vic Warzinski
Goodfellow AFB, Texas

The first thing you notice is a real reluctance to talk about the experience.

"I suppose I've been asked a thousand times to get up and say a few words about it," said one former prisoner of war living in San Angelo, Texas, who asked not to be identified in this story. "It's one part of my life I would rather forget.

"Sometimes I'll go as long as two weeks without a nightmare. Other times I'll have them 10 or 11 nights in a row."

He was captured in the Pacific during World War II. "There's things I won't tell you," he said, "because I just don't care to remember. But I'll talk awhile and you can take what you want."

He told of a battle staged by the "Lost Battalion" in 1942. He was a gunnery mechanic aboard a Navy ship, the Bleu Fontaine, when it was attacked by the Japanese. Out of communication with friendly forces, the ship retreated 400 miles in three days to the Japanese-controlled island of Java.

About 500 crewmembers disembarked to stage one last desperate battle from the island so the ship could make a run for safety. The Japanese sank it as it pulled out of the harbor. Out of ammunition, fighting Zeros and outnumbered by 120,000 enemy troops, he and the other crewmembers were captured March 8, 1942.

From Java he was taken to Saigon and then to a prison camp at Pan Yan. From there he was marched to the village of Tai Swnia and finally to the 25 Kilo Camp in Burma.

"We were put to work building the Burma Railway. Each day we had to move a cubic meter of dirt, which we dug out and carried on our shoulders in two baskets and a pole we called a yoyo stick.

"They'd call us out three to five times a day to make sure nobody had escaped. They'd feed us rice that had never been thrashed, full of worms. If we were lucky, about every three months or so we might get one cow to split between 800 and 900 men. When I was captured, I weighed 180 pounds. After I was released and fed five weeks, I weighed 105.

"They took our clothes and shoes away and gave us these cheap leather G-strings. The damn thing would break after you walked a mile or so, but we'd hang onto it and hope to find something to tie it back together. That was the only thing I ever got to wear during the entire three years I was a POW.

"We had this one guard we called Black Boots. He was a mean . . . with a degree from Penn State. Actually born in America and spoke perfect English. Came back to be with his family when the war started. He carried a riding crop and, if he wanted something done, he'd come along at night and hit the bottom of your feet to wake you up. You'd have to fall out, line up and go with no clue of where you were going."

The prisoner was then moved from 25 Kilo Camp and put to work building bridges in French Indochina.

"By this time, the war was going in our favor and our boys would come in and blow out the bridges. We weren't allowed to move from the area, but I guess our guys knew where we were because they didn't hit us. We'd replace the bridges, and the guards would beat us with bamboo rods, whips or whatever else they could find.

"I can tell you about decapitations and people they buried covered with honey water and left for the animals to gore. If someone would escape, he'd come back with his head on a stick."

Then one day, he woke up and guards were gone. They simply vanished. The prisoners took over a train that had been sitting near the camp and rolled into Saigon. From there he went to Australia and finally back to the states, to be discharged in San Antonio.

Another San Angelo resident recalled his experience as a civilian aircraft inspector for the Air Force at Manila in World War II. Feb. 3, 1942, he literally went to prison in a taxi.

He had taken safe house with a neutral Swiss family when the Japanese took the island. The enemy announced they would start arresting families that were harboring Americans, so he turned himself in.

"Some 4,000 people were taken prisoner on the island," he said. "A lot died. We were practically all civilians, with a few military demolition crews and some medical people.

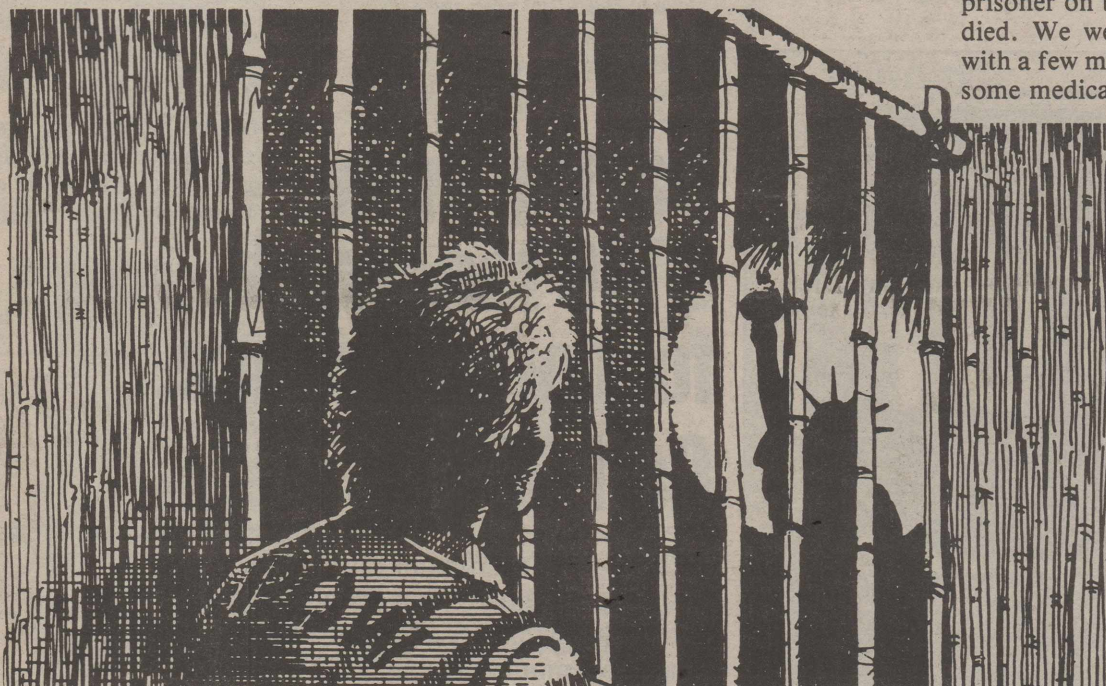

"The biggest thing I remember was the hunger. We starved. I don't believe we ever got a whole grain of rice. We'd get cracked rice, hulls and weevils mixed together. We used to have a detail that would go each morning and pick out the weevils. Then the medical people told us that as long as they were boiled, it was probably better to leave them in. You could tell the weevils because they floated on top.

"We kept our spirits up by joking about the lack of food. As the Japanese were going to cut the ration, they'd announce it over the camp loudspeaker. We'd all laugh and laugh hard. It really made them mad."

He was released by the Army's 1st Cavalry. "They barricaded the valley and sent out the advance scouts. Then they drove straight on through the front gate with machine guns blazing. The Japanese still had control of the island. The 1st Cavalry was in there with us for 12 days until reinforcements arrived."

On release, he met his wife in San Francisco. It was his first contact with her in 37 months. "They let us write two or three times, but she never got anything. The only thing she heard about me was that I was missing, and later that I had been taken prisoner.

"The experience taught me there is really no place like the United States, and there's nothing better than our flag. I suppose I've got a reputation for being a nuisance about it. They tend to think of me as that old crackpot upstairs with the flag. We had a function at our civic club and someone hid the flag behind a piano. I raised all kinds of hell." Your rights concerning political activity

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Congress passed legislation nearly 50 years ago spelling out for military people and other government workers what types of political activity they may participate in, and what types they may not.

The Hatch Act, passed by Congress in 1939, still applies today. Penalties for violations of the act range from suspension without pay for 30 days to removal from government service.

Under the Hatch Act, federal employees may:

- Register and vote as they choose.
- Assist in voter registration drives.

• Express opinions about candidate issues.

• Participate in campaigns where none of the candidates represent a political party.

• Contribute money to political organizations or attend political fund-raising functions.

• Wear or display political badges, buttons or stickers.

• Attend political rallies and meetings.

• Join political clubs or parties.

• Sign nominating petitions.

• Campaign for or against referendum questions, constitutional amendments or municipal ordinances.

Federal employees may not:

• Run for public office in partisan elections.

• Campaign for or against a candidate or slate of candidates in partisan elections.

• Make campaign speeches or engage in other campaign activities to elect partisan candidates.

• Collect contributions or sell tickets to political fund-raising functions.

• Distribute campaign material in partisan elections.

• Organize or manage political rallies or meetings.

• Hold office in political clubs or parties.

• Circulate nominating petitions.

• Work to register voters for one party only.

The Office of the Special Counsel of the U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board enforces the law. Anyone with questions concerning proper political activity should contact:

Records belong to DoD

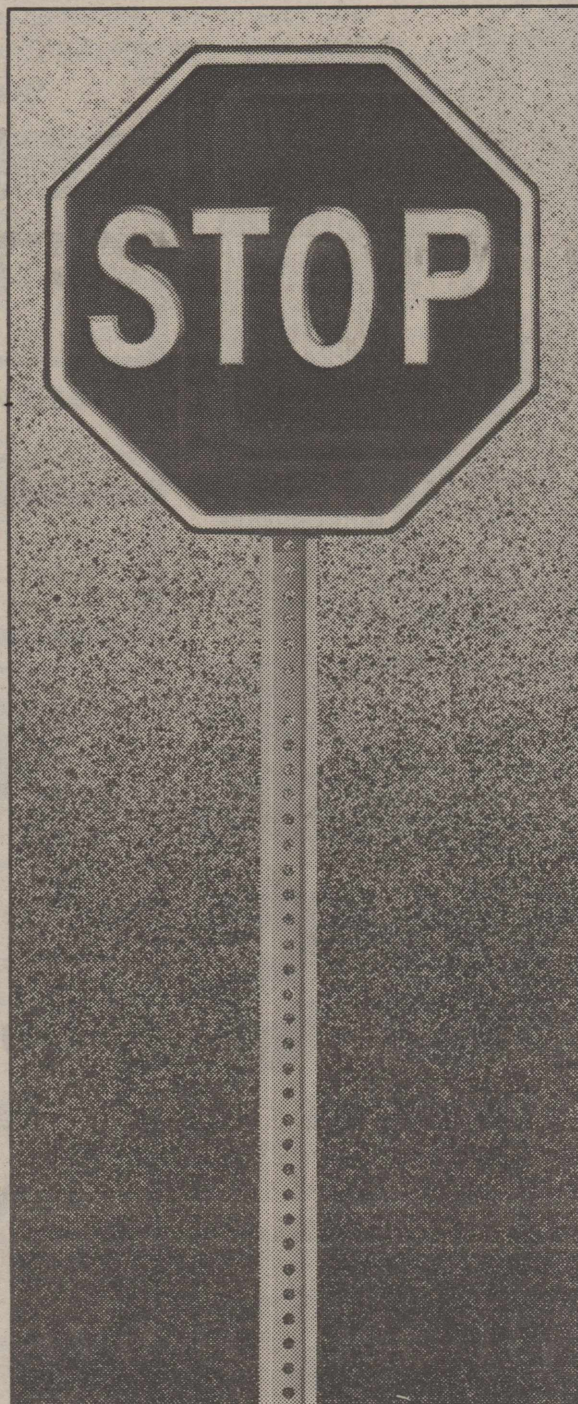

Did you know that the records you picked up at the Medical Records Section on your last hospital visit were not yours?

That's right, they belong to the Department of Defense even though they are about your health.

The paperwork must remain intact and in sequence. It is in fact, a violation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice to disrupt the records. Your health can be jeopardized if critical information happened to be missing during a visit to the hospital. Let's use a realistic example.

A DD form 741 is employed as the standard examination form by the Eye Clinic. You have recently undergone an eye exam and decide to use the 741 as a prescription for new spectacles instead of inconveniencing the personnel in Optometry. What's wrong with this approach? Plenty. First of all you should not dismantle the charts. The local optician is probably not familiar with the form or the doctor's data entry system, therefore; the glasses stand a good chance of being in error. The optical shop will likely keep the form and you have no chance to return it to the file. No big loss . . . unless . . . something subtle had been detected and future change is significant.

The system is not perfect, but don't complicate it any more than it already is. If you receive primary treatment at our facility, your chart belongs in our Records Section. Copies of any medical treatment from other practitioners should also be compiled and maintained with our facility serving as a central record depository. Simply fill out a records request form which is also available in the Medical Records Section.

Dedication recognized with special award

Washington (AFNS)—An Air Force couple described by the chief of staff as one "That cares and makes a difference"; has received the 1987 Gen. and Mrs. Jerome F. O'Malley Award.

Col. Ronald W. Iverson and his wife, Penny, received the award from Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Larry D. Welch Dec. 14 in ceremonies at the Pentagon. Colonel Iverson, a Brigadier General Selectee, is commander of the 3rd Tactical Fighter Wing, Clark AS, Philippines.

The award is given annually to an outstanding wing commander and spouse. General

Welch noted the award is unique—the only one in the Air Force recognizing the contributions of an Air Force husband and wife.

In accepting the award, Colonel Iverson said the young airman working for him actually earned the honor. "The young kids are just outstanding," he said. "We only need to nurture them, take care of them and point them in the right direction."

Mrs. Iverson, a long time volunteer in the Air Force Community, believes in those young men and women as well. She said that younger people are always eager to volunteer their time to help.

Colonel Iverson assumed command at Clark in March, 1986 with the Philippine government in turmoil. Striking Filipinos barricaded the gates to the base.

Colonel Iverson used volunteers to keep essential base work centers and facilities operating. He set up off-base shops to handle finances, distribute food and water and provide information to stranded military people. Mrs. Iverson formed an information network for spouses to keep everyone informed on fast-moving developments.

General Welch said, "Working together, they ensured the security and welfare for their people and kept a vital base functioning effectively."

Mrs. Iverson began her volunteer work during the Vietnam conflict. She was among a group of volunteers who met the wounded aboard medical evacuation flights from Vietnam. "It was important they knew someone cared," she said.

At Clark AB, Mrs. Iverson has helped with a number of volunteer efforts. She has helped organize a safe house for battered spouses and a program for distributing free baby care products and clothing to junior enlisted families. She also has led volunteers dispensing food and medicine to Filipino villagers in the aftermath of a typhoon.

General Welch said couples like Colonel and Mrs. Iverson "Help Air Force people carry out their mission and make the Air Force and the community a better place for all of us."

Base roll-off rules outlined

Tryouts for the Reese Bowling team will be held at the Windmill Lanes Jan. 23, 24, 30 and 31.

To qualify:

- Bowlers must be active duty military personnel.

- Bowlers must be able to participate in the Interbase competition the 23, 24, 30 and 31 of January, and the ATC championship at Andrews AFB, Maryland, April 17 through 22.

- All permissive TDY/interbase competition requests must be turned in by Jan. 15.

- Male bowlers must have a 160 average established at Windmill Lanes during the 1987-1988 season.

A bowler may come to Windmill Lanes and bowl six consecutive games to establish an average of 160 or above, to be eligible to bowl in the Roll-off. These games will be bowled on lanes 1 through 6, two games per pair. This average must be established by Jan. 15. Charges for the games will be $.50 per game. The games will be bowled during open bowling hours, but the games must be scheduled. Open bowling hours are:

Monday through Friday—9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Saturday—12:30 p.m. to Closing

Sunday—Noon to 10 p.m.

For bowlers who qualify, the following rules must be followed:

1. This is a tryout for the ATC tournament and will not be sanctioned.

2. A $15.00 fee will be charged for the Roll-Off.

3. The Base Team will consist of four men and two women, plus three alternates. Two men and one woman. Total pinfall for 24 games will determine the men and women who will represent Reese at the ATC Championship.

4. Bowlers will bowl 24 games in sets of six per day. A drawing will be held prior to the beginning of bowling to determine the starting lanes. The men will draw first, after their lane assignment the women will draw for their lanes. This will equal the men and women on each pair of lanes. After two games are completed on starting lanes, bowlers will move to their right one pair of lanes after each two game sets until 24 games are bowled. All ten lanes will be used regardless of the number of bowlers rolling off.

5. Bowling will start at 1 p.m. Jan. 23, 24, 30 and 31.

6. The Roll-Off has been set up on weekends to allow everyone to participate.

7. Bowling scores will be posted the following day after all recap sheets have been checked for errors. Bowlers will be positioned in order of finish based on total pinfall. In case of a tie, bowlers will bowl a three game roll-off.

8. In the event a pair of foul lights are not working, all foul lights will be turned off.

9. A mandatory meeting will be held prior to bowling Jan. 23, at 12:30 p.m. in order to go over all the rules.

For more information, contact the Reese Bowling Center at 3116.

Reese powerlifters bring home victories

The Bench Press and Powerlifting Championships were recently held in Lubbock, Texas at the Holiday Inn. Five Air Force members from Reese participated. Rick Zambino, competed in the 165 pound division. Zambino was able to bench press 260 pounds enabling him to win first place in his division. Zambino is a SrA. at the Mathis Recreation Center.

Mark Miller, 1st Lieutenant and Instructor Pilot in the 54th Flying Training Squadron, bench pressed 385 pounds for a strong 2nd place finish, in the 198 pound division. Miller's attempt to press 402 pounds for first place was unsuccessful.

Todd Hamiltan, an Airman on the Mathis Recreation Center Staff, competed in the 132 pound division.

Hamiltan, competed in the bench press, squat and deadlift events, giving him a total of 1,085 pounds and first place in the powerlifting meet. Hamiltan bench pressed 265 pounds for a first place. He also posted 440 pound squat, and 380 pound deadlift.

Elliott Chambliss, a SSgt. assigned to USAF Hospital, Reese, competed in the 181 pound division.

Chambliss received a fifth place with a 1,157 pound total in powerlifting. Elliot, posted a 440 pound squat, 315 pound bench press, and a 402 pound deadlift.

Aaron Lamb, an A1C in the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, was able to post a 325 pounds on the bench press in the 198 pound division.

Lamb attempted 363 pounds for the Bronze, and was unsuccessful.
