FLOOD WATERS SUBMERGE VAST TEXAS AREAS

Dynamite Blasts Fail To Raise Body Of Youth From Lake Wichita Depths

SCORES SEARCH FOR VICTIM OF BOAT ACCIDENT

Rushing Channel Current Baffles Rescuers In Long Hunt

BOATS DRAG LAKE

Crews Continue Effort To Locate Body of Geo. Rockhill

The use of four heavy charges of dynamite to aid hundreds of volunteer searchers in their work failed Tuesday afternoon to wrest the body of George Rockhill, 19-year-old Wichita Falls youth, from the waters of Lake Wichita, where he was drowned late Monday.

The last word from the scene of the search came early Wednesday morning from J. W. Roundtree, night watchman at Lakeside Park. At that time more than a dozen boats were ceaselessly at their task, each craft equipped with its own drag. Lanterns powered with dry cell batteries added their illumination through the night. The number of workers was only slightly diminished, although spectators thinned after midnight.

The combing of the lake, which recommenced as the waves calmed about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, continued without interruption all through the day and night. Under the direction of Police Chief Burns, and J. L. McClure, head of the fire department, searching parties in craft of all sizes covered the entire surface of the lake, probing its depths which every available type of grapnel. As night fell Tuesday, the smaller boats were ordered from the lake, but the search went on without interruption, the lights from larger craft and from the pavilion playing over the waters, and workers taking alternate shifts in their grim task.

Cox Leads Search

Wright Cox, 22, who almost lost his own life in an attempt to rescue his friend at the time of the accident Monday, was forced by fatigue and the persuasions of his friends to temporarily drop his part in the quest for the body late Tuesday afternoon. The youth, working with N. H. Martin, nephew of the drowned boy, spent Monday night and all day Tuesday on the lake, directing the movements of a boat which cruised above the deep water channel in which young Rockhill lost his life.

Many Boats in Search

Directors of the search Tuesday morning requistioned every privately owend boath moored to the pier. The boats were manned and put into service through the day. Grapnel brought in from Lake Kemp, other special equipment furnished by Boy Scout troops, including the T shaped pipe with wire hooks on each apex, and emergency searching rods constructed by members of the fire department were all in constant use. Divers added their efforts to those of occupants of boats, and concentrating in an effort to determine the course of the channel and the undercurrents believed to have caught the body of the youth, and

Swimming Instructor Held In East For Kidnaping Austin Girl Student

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP) — Jack Freith, Austin swimming instructor charged here with kidnaping Fannie Lee Minter, is under arrest in New Bedford, Mass., according to information given out at Governor Moody's office today.

Miss Minter, a young Texas university student, was socially prominent.

The governor issued a requisition on Massachusetts for Freith's return to face trial on a swindling indictment.

Whether the missing girl also is held in New Bedford is not known.

A swindling charge was filed against Freith shortly after the kidnaping charge was lodged. Freith and Miss Minter disappeared here last January, and immediately became objects of a wide search. They were believed to have left in a car owned by the Minter girl, later found in storage in a garage in Waco.

Miss Minter was one of Freith's swimming pupils.

HOUSE PASSES HIGH TARIFFS

Republican Protection Bill Is Pushed Over

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
Universal Service Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 28.—After another day of acrimonious debate, the Republican majority in the house this afternoon forced passage of the tariff bill. The vote was 264 to 147, two members voting present.

Cheers went up from the G. O. P. as the bill giving greater tariff protection for agricultural products and manufacturers was sent to the senate.

Garner Bowled Over

A last-minute attempt by Representative Garner of Texas, Democrat floor leader, to have the bill returned to the ways and means committee, was bowled over by the smoothly-working Republican majority on a vote of 254 to 157.

Having loaded the measure with a batch of amendments increasing duties on farm products, the Republican leaders brought the farm bloc into line behind the bill, leaders of the farmer group declaring themselves satisfied with the measure.

Commission Opposed

Garner's final thrust in his motion to recommit called for abolition of the tariff commission and with it the so-called flexible tariff provisions under which the president may raise or lower rates up to 50 per cent of the amount specified in the list.

The Democratic leader's proposition also called for creation of a fact-finding tariff commission by congress, to be responsible to congress and report only to congress.

The house also turned thumbs down on Garner's proposal to strike out the authority given to the secretary of the treasury to be final arbiter of the basis of valuation placed on imported goods.

A further condition of Garner's motion to recommit was that the bill be amended so that in adjusting dates in all schedules, the duties imposed should not exceed the difference between the cost of production in the United States and abroad.

Lone Concession

Democratic forces wrung one concession from the Republicans in the final showdown, when they obtained an amendment knocking out of the bill provisions reducing the United States customs court to a board of general appraisers, with limited powers.

An amendment adopted today upon motion of Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee continues the court as at present, except under other features of the bill the treasury secretary is made the last resort in appeals affecting the basis of valuation of goods.

The court will determine values and from those values importers may appeal to higher courts, but the treasury secretary becomes the final arbiter in determining whether the foreign valuation or American valuation may be used as the basis.

As the bill was passed by the house, the power of the president to raise or lower duties was broad-

Arguments Begun In Flowers Murder Case

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—Trial of Ed Swearingen, charged with the murder of Carter Flowers, probably will be completed tomorrow. Argument were begun late today, after a delay caused by inability of the defendant to reach Austin from his home in Lockhart. He was held up by high water.

Swearingen and Flowers had been life long friends, having served together during the world war. Swearingen told the jury that whisky and marihuana had so benumbed his brain that he did not know when he cut Flowers and that for a period of four days preceding the homicide he was not responsible for his acts.

Hoover's Jurists Recommend Change Of Any Law Found Unenforceable

WASHINGTON, May 28. (US)—President Hoover's commission on law enforcement decided at its first meeting today to recommend changes in any law found to be unenforcible.

"If we find any law which is not enforcible we will not hesitate to recommend it be changed," declared George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission after meeting with the president and other members at the White House.

At the outset Judge Wickersham made it plain, however, that all law violations would be studied with as much emphasis and determination as would be devoted to prohibition with the same frankness to recommend changes or modifications and that all would be approached where it would prove helpful.

Guests of Hoover

The commission of 11 jurists, lawyears and sociologists who gathered here were guests at a White House luncheon and later met with President Hoover in the cabinet room. Here the president made a brief address outlining the scope which he intends the inquiry to take.

He urged them to approach the subject with courage and to make their conclusions such that they would command the support of the public. He omitted any reference to prohibition, but asked the commission to find what is at fault in the general attitude toward all law.

Judge Wickersham responded and the commission immediately held a brief organization meeting. Afterwards Judge Wickersham outlined in more definite detail the commission's idea of the task before it.

"Our first consideration is the enforcement of all law," he said. "We expect to make it impossible to violate any law without being speedily brought to book."

Long Probe Seen

Asked if he considered it within the scope of the president's directions to recommend changes in the prohibition laws, he said:

"Yes, it is intellectually possible, but I may add that I think it improbable."

Judge Wickersham said that he expected it to require one year and probably two for the commission to conclude its investigations.

ISLAND BALLOT BATTLE NEARS

'Flapper Vote' Unknown Quantity in Election

LONDON, May 28. (US)—Day after tomorrow is general election day in England, Wales, Scotland and North Ireland. Voters to the number of 27,000,000, men and women, will have the privilege of casting ballots for the return of a new government to power in the house of commons.

The most concrete forecast of the result is found tonight in the premium demands of Lloyds who are asking 45 per cent to insure against an absolute labor majority in the new parliament and 60 per cent against a Tory majority.

Of the 27,000,000 voters, it is revealed that roughly 12,500,000 are men and 14,500,000 women, the latter number being augmented by the equal franchise act passed by the last parliament and operative for the first time at this election. The new law made the voting age of women 21 instead of 30 as before.

The excess of women voters over men throughout Great Britain today represents what the politicians and press have designated the "flapper vote."

Reapportionment Bill Clears Highest Hurdle

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The census and reapportionment bill cleared its highest hurdle today when the senate by a vote of 48 to 2, defeated an amendment to exclude aliens from the 1930 census.

Behind this amendment was the purpose to cut down the representation in the house of those states having large alien groups resident within their borders.

Had the amendment been accepted, it would have killed the hope of congressional reapportionment for another two years and perhaps for a decade.

PRYOR DENIES PLOT TO ROB ELECTRA HOTEL

Defense Rests Case on Testimony Given By Ex-Constable

"POLITICS," HE CLAIMS

Officers Scrambled For "Publicity" of Shumate Arrest, He Says

After Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, had spent two hours on the stand Tuesday afternoon in a dogged denial of the robbery accomplice charges brought against him in the 89th district court, the defense rested its case and rebuttal testimony for the state got under way, promising a completion of the trial by noon Wednesday.

Except for the vigorous cross-examination of every state's witness throughout the trial, the defense depended largely on the testimony of Pryor himself. Four other witnesses were called by the defense Tuesday afternoon, but most of the testimony offered by two of them was ruled out by the court.

During a comparatively brief direct examination by Shields Heyser, defense attorney, Pryor denied in general and in particular, practically all of the testimony that had been introduced during the day and a half of the trial.

At Bedside of Wife

Specifically he said he did not conspire with Henry Shumate for the robbery of the Jefferson hotel last June, that he did not suggest the enterprise or promise Shumate protection. He declared that he had been at the bedside of his wife, who was ill in Childress, on the night in question, and that he knew nothing of the robbery until the next day.

Pryor declared that his acquaintance with Shumate had begun on the night after Shumate's arrest and subsequent break from the Wichita county jail. He saw the state's witness first, he declared, when Shumate came to his home to give himself up after the jail break. Two ladies driving a closed car brought Shumate to the front of Pryor's home in Electra, the witness declared.

Testimony already introduced showed that both Shumate and Pryor were arrested on that same night by Sheriff W. G. Bralley and members of the sheriff's department. The officers entered the Pryor home to find Shumate and the constable occupying the same bed, the evidence showed.

The defendant declared that he

Father Of Slain Youth Tells Why Burial Ordered Here

Providing for Ten Other Children Left Him Without Funds To Bring Body of Raymond Sillars Home, Parent Writes

The parents of Raymond Sillars, youthful prisoner killed as he tried to escape from the Wichita county jail two weeks ago, want it known that they relinquished the body of their eldest son only because they hadn't the money to have it sent back across the continent to them.

"He was an A No. 1 boy and we wanted him brought back," his father wrote in a letter full of staunch loyalty, received here Tuesday by J. W. Bussey, recording secretary of the local Odd Fellow's organization. The letter, written from the Sillars home at Ladysmith, Wis., begs for particulars about the boy's death and seeks to correct an impression that the manner of his going made his body unwelcome in his home.

Eleven Children

Raymond was the oldest of 11 children, eight of whom are still in the home to be cared for, the father explained. These heavy demands left the family without money for the oldest boy's burial, the letter went on, especially when a funeral would require the sending of the body almost across the continent. Raymond, with all the other Sillars children, was given an education which the parents hoped would make them "a credit to the world" the father continued.

Sillars was buried in a pauper's grave here after members of his family had wired instructions that he be buried at the county's expense. The youth, under sentence for the car theft, was instantly killed by a shot from the gun of W. W. Allen, jailer, who fired when he was attacked by four prisoners two weeks ago. He was indicted under the name of Raymond Sellers and was known by that name by court officials here.

The letter from Harry Sillars, father of the slain youth, is quoted in full below:

Writes Letter Here

Mr. J. W. Bussey, recording sec't'y., Wichita Falls, Texas.
Route 6, Box 22.

Dear Brother Secretary:

"I suppose you have read of the death of my son, Raymond Sillars in an attempted jail break. As a brother Odd Fellow I am asking you or any member of the lodge to please send me the full particulars in regard to his death. There must be something wrong. He either got in bad company or was misused at the jail, as when that boy left home he was A No. 1.

"I suppose you have noticed also in the paper that his mother has refused to accept the body of her slain son, which is all wrong. The reason why we did not have him shipped home was we did not have the $200.58. The reason I did not have it was I have eight children at home trying to feed, clothe, and educate, and have three children away from home, Raymond, Harry and Ruth. The later I sent through high school, educated them so they might be a credit to the world, and the eldest was slain.

"I am going to ask one more thing and that is that you post an article in the paper stating that the parents did want him brought and not as has already been printed."

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—Governor Moody today vetoed two bills and filed with the secretary of state six others that he approved.

One of those approved was identical with one vetoed. It authorised the land commissioner to accept and award applications for repurchase of public school land in Gaines, Hudspeth, Kinney and Yoakum counties. The other bill, which got the blue pencil, was one providing for an increase of $1 per day in compensation paid riding grand jury bailiffs in Bexar county.

ROTARY WORKS ON PHILOSOPHY

Codes of Ethics Discussed By Delegates

DALLAS, May 28. (AP)—Representatives of nearly 100 businesses and professions worked on codes of ethics, or commercial philosophies, to apply to their businesses today after the first session of the 20th annual Rotary International convention had heard the report of its president, I. B. (Tom) Sutton of Tampico, Mexico.

The general convention session also heard reports from other international officers, a message from Paul P. Harris of Chicago, founder of Rotary and greeted R. L. Robbins and Jim Kelly, whose monoplane Fort Worth added almost 22 hours to the world's record for sustained flight before landing at Fort Worth Sunday.

Dr. Alfredo Colmo of Beunos Aires, told of the work of Rotary in South America in developing the youth of the land and greetings were read from a number of prominent people including Baron Giichi Tanaka, prime minister of Japan and President Hoover of the United States, and Portes Gil of Mexico.

All of the delegates were looking forward to tomorrow's general session at which nominations will be made for the many offices to be filled. Only two candidates were conducting active campaigns for the presidency. Raymond Knoeppel of New York, and Eugene Newsome of Durham, N. C., each had a big following. Nominations will be from the floor, however, and it is possible that others will get in the race.

Lester Dawley of Dallas, Roy Ronald of Mitchell, S. D., Dave Clark of Charlotte, N. C., Claybrook Cottingham of Pineville, La., and Clyde Hueziger of Des Moines, Iowa, were the outstanding candidates for the five directorships to which the United States is entitled.

The British delegation already has selected Sidney Pascall of London to fill the one seat on the board of directors to which England and Ireland are entitled. Elections will be held Thursday.

Okmulgee Teacher's Wedding Costs Her $140

OKMULGEE, Okla., May 28 (UP)—The secret marriage and divorce of Miss Phabrice Montgomery, Okmulgee school teacher, has left her indebted to the school board for $140, according to officials of the schools.

The superintendent revealed that disclosure of Miss Montgomery's marriage would result in the withholding of part of her salary as married teachers cannot draw as much as those who are single. The teacher became Mrs. Armand Base, wife of an Okmulgee man, before signing her contract with the board. She obtained a divorce last week.

Presbyterian Ministers Plead For Union of All Churches of Christ

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 28. (UP)—Half a dozen obscure ministers from St. Louis, Cincinnati, San Francisco and other widely separated American cities charged today that the Presbyterian church was too slow in union deliberations with other churches and demanded that it "step on the gas."

Demand came late today at the 141st Presbyterian general assembly when the committee on cooperation began reading routine reports and recommendations.

J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton seminary and chairman of the union committee, was discussing deliberation negotiations with other branches of the Presbyterian church and Methodists and Episcopals when Rev. John E. Stuchell, San Francisco, leaped to his feet and shouted:

"I don't know how conditions are in other parts of country but if anything like those in California we are in desperate need of immediate union with not only other branches of Presbyterian church but all Christian churches.

"For years we have talked union but have produced no results.

"Competition between churches is becoming more and more intense daily. If ever a country needed union it is modern America.

"Lets step on the gas. I don't want to think that there are separate heavens for my Methodist or Episcopal or Lutheran or Catholic friends. Let's try and unite with all followers of Christ."

MANY STREAMS OUT OF BANKS AFTER DELUGE

Two Deaths Attributed To Rains and Overflows Are Reported

47 WORKERS TRAPPED

Crops and Livestock Suffer Injury as Waters Cover Lowlands

(By The Associated Press)

Two vast sections of Texas—South and East—were pounded with heavy rains Tuesday which took at least two lives and broke high water records of years standing.

The death toll might have been higher had not 47 pipe line workers, suddenly swept into a high wall of water made by convergence of the Blanco river and a tributary, had almost unbelievable good fortune. All succeeded in clambering into the high branches of nearby trees.

In Milam county alone, 225,000 acres of land were reported under water and in Bell county, 60,000 had been inundated.

Livestock Destroyed

The San Marcos, Trinity, Colorado, Guadalupe, Neches, Blanco and San Gabriel rivers and hundreds of small streams were out of their banks. Widespread destruction of cattle, poultry and property was reported.

Harry Mike of Lockhart was killed when his automobile skidded during a rain near Temple. His neck was broken. J. T. Terrell, 84, was drowned near San Marcos. A rise swept down on him as he was attempting to lead his cow through flood waters to safety on high ground.

All highway and rail communication was severed as a 20 inch rain fell in the vicinity of Woodville, Tyler county.

Rains Continue

The San Marcos river rose 25 feet at Luling to equal the high water mark of 1913 and was still coming up late last night. Temple and Bell county suffered in a seven inch rain with water soaked clouds continuing to dump torrents of rain on the county. A 10 inch rain fell at Rockland on the Neches river in north Tyler county. The San Gabriel river north of Austin was a mile wide. More than 5 inches of rain reported in the vicinity of Georgetown brought a rise in the San Gabriel there causing the highest water since 1921. The Colorado river at Austin was at the highest stage since 1921.

Thousands of dollars damage to crops and highways was reported at Bremond, Texas, where all streams were full and the Little Brazos out of its banks, flooding the lowlands. Traffic to Waco and Marlin was halted. A number of tourists were marooned between the Little Brazos and Big creek near Marlin due to flooded highways.

The Navasota river was out of its banks in some places near Mexia due to a five inch rain.

Warnings Issued

Flood warnings were issued at Rockland that heavy rains upstream would cause a stage of 26 to 28 feet there within 24 to 36

IMPROVED FARM AND TRADE CONDITIONS REPORTED IN TEXAS

RESERVE BANK SURVEY BRIGHT

Fruit and Berry Crops Loom as Nearly Perfect

DALLAS, May 28. (AP)—A sustained volume of wholesale and retail trade, further improvement in agricultural conditions and a record-breaking volume of construction work were major developments during April disclosed by the monthly report of the Dallas Federal Reserve bank, issued today. Condition of livestock and grazing ranges also improved and livestock prices again turned upward.

Breaking all previous records, the valuation of building permits at principal cities in the eleventh reserve district in April totaled $19,442,938 as compared with $16,134,114 in March, 1928, the previous high level. The volume was 124 per cent larger than in March, and 186 per cent greater than in April last year, the report said.

Store Sales Decline

Department store sales reflected a seasonal decline of nine per cent as compared with March, but exceeded those of April, 1928, by two per cent. Wholesale distribution of merchandise, while showing the usual decline at this season of the year, was substantially larger than in April last year.

Although high winds, sandstorms, dry weather and torrential rains affected adversely in varying degrees agricultural developments in some sections, farmers generally made favorable progress with planting and other farm work. Heavy general rains towards the middle of May offset bad effects of the previous drying winds and left a good season in the ground in practically all sections. The wheat crop which had begun to deteriorate was greatly benefitted and present indications, according to the report, point toward satisfactory yields.

Cotton Mostly Planted

Planting of corn has been completed and most of the crop is well cultivated. Early corn in South Texas is beginning to mature. Cotton planting in all districts except Northwest Texas is nearing completion, and a considerable portion of the crop, especially in the southern half of the district, is chopped to a stand. Reports indicate, however, that some replanting will be necessary since the early May rains. Sandstorms in West Texas on May 1 destroyed practically all the cotton which was up, says the report, but subsequent abundance of moisture will enable farmers to do the necessary replanting. Cotton in South Texas has already begun to square.

Texas fruit and berry crops promise well, the review stated, prospects pointing toward a 79 per cent full peach crop despite damage resulting from hail storms in April and early May. The strawberry and blackberry crops in East Texas promise good yields. Movement of fruit and vegetables from South Texas already exceeds that of last year by several thousand cars.

The fruit crop continues promising in southern New Mexico.

Business Failures

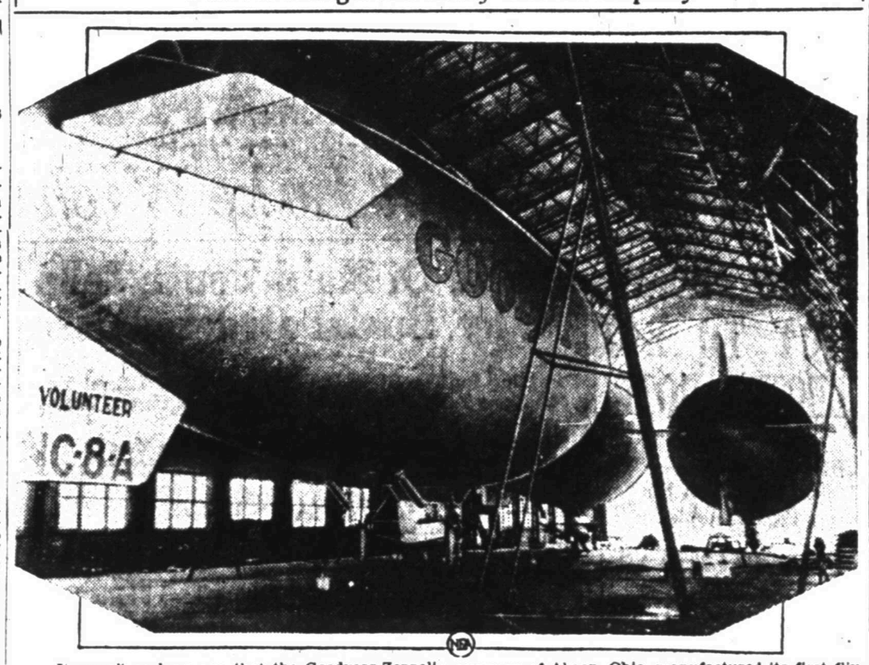

While a slight increase was noted in the number of business failures in the district during April, the indebtedness involved showed a further decline from the previous month, which the review said is significant in view of the comparatively low mortality rate throughout the current year. There were 51 defaults with indebtedness of $515,003 compared with 49 failures in March that owed $569,130. In April last year there were 46 insolvencies with indebtedness aggregating $1,283,614.

Output of crude oil in the district amounted to 24,480,070 barrels in April, a reduction of 823,554 barrels from the high level reached in the previous month. Although the number of completed wells was slightly larger than in March, initial production was considerably smaller. There were 553 completions in April of which 272 were producers of oil yielding 126,689 barrels of new production compared to 549 completions in March that netted 281 producers with an initial flow of 208,640 barrels.

Financial Report

Debits to individual accounts at banks in principal cities of the district declined 4.0 per cent in April compared to March, but showed a gain over the corresponding month last year of 15.3 per cent. The volume of acceptances executed by banks and outstanding at the close of April amounted to $4,103,881 which reflected a further decline of $594,444 during April. Savings accounts of 88 reporting banks amounted to $148,039,855 on April 30, representing a decline of 0.2 per cent compared to March 31, but an increase of 9.7 per cent over those of a year ago. Loans to member banks increased during April and at the close of the month amounted to $22,525,972, which was $8,197,737 greater than on March 31. Federal reserve notes in actual circulation at the close of the month aggregated $37,568,715.

Flivver Dirigible Family Grows Rapidly

It wasn't so long ago that the Goodyear-Zeppelin company of Akron, Ohio, manufactured its first flivver dirigible, a tiny copy of the Graf Zeppelin. The family has grown rapidly, there now being three of the craft in the hangar at Akron. The newest addition to the group is the Volunteer, shown in the foreground. The others are the Puritan and the Pilgrim.

Heavy Livestock Trade Revealed In Tenth Reserve District Report

KANSAS CITY, May 28. (AP)—Unusually heavy livestock trade, industrial production and building activity, maintained trade and industry in the 10th federal reserve district in record breaking volume during April and showed no recessional tendencies in early May, the bank's monthly review said today.

Trade in livestock was the heaviest for April in several years. Market receipts for all classes of meat animals were larger than in March.

Industrial establishments, with but few exceptions, functioned during April at high percentages of full time capacity.

"Movements of commodities during the month was in larger volume than a year ago, as evidenced by carloadings of revenue freight in regional shippers advisory board areas serving this district.

"Department of agriculture reports placed the condition of crops in this section at a higher per cent of normal on May 1 than on the corresponding date last year. A winter wheat condition of 82.2 per cent forecast a yield of 299,944,000 bushels in the seven states whose areas or parts form the 10th district, compared to 336,139,000 bushels harvested in 1928.

"Spring plantings of crops were late. A large part of the corn area was unplanted at the middle of May, although reports indicated practically all of the intended corn acreage would be planted by June 1."

Nine American motor boats were introduced into Guatemala last year.

ST. JORGEN RIDE AGAIN HELD IN BLACK FOREST

FREIBERG, Baden, May 28. (INS)—An ancient custom, revived last year after many decades, was again carried out this year in St. Georgen, in the Black forest, when the "St. Jorgen ride" was held.

Quanah Farmers Stick to Fields as Women Do The Shopping

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, May 28.—Fewer farmers were in town Saturday than any Saturday for nearly a year, according to merchants and bankers. The "wimmin' folks" did the shopping for the entire county, while the men worked early and late in the fields. The recent rains put the ground in exceptionally fine condition for planting, and thousands of acres of both feed and cotton have been planted in the last 10 days.

The E. B. Smith Cotton company which has had high grade cotton seed for sale, report the demand has been more than they were able to supply since the rain.

Mrs. E. E. Milburn States That Results From the Use of Orgatone Have Been Remarkable

Mrs. E. E. Milburn, residing at 501 Holliday, this city, during an interview with the Orgatone nurse at the Allison's Drug store, a few days ago, made this remarkable statement on the results she had obtained through using Orgatone.

"I suffered from rheumatism, indigestion, food would sour on my stomach causing gas to form, followed by a bad case of heartburn. I finally developed a bad case of constipation and was always in a nervous condition. My rheumatism had me so I could hardly get around to do my housework, in fact, I was getting to a stage where I was in a general run-down condition and knew that I must get something to build myself back up to my normal stage.

"I had been following the endorsements in the local papers and saw where so many people that I knew had been using Orgatone and had been getting wonderful results by using same. I decided that if it helped my friends with their troubles some of which were troubled the same as I that I should try it and I am certainly glad that I gave it the trial for it has proven a wonderful medicine in my case.

"I have taken just four bottles of Orgatone and these four bottles have relieved me of one year's suffering. I am no longer troubled with indigestion and gas formation on my stomach. I can sit at the table and just eat most anything I want to with no fear of ill effects resulting. I am no longer troubled with heartburn, it has taken care of my rheumatism in fine shape and I have gained in strength. I am not as nervous as I was and those dizzy, bilious spells, that used to trouble me so much, have disappeared. I am also relieved of that very stubborn case of constipation.

"I am more than glad to give this statement on Orgatone for I feel that I really owe it to the medicine and anyone that is troubled the same as I have been I invite them to call me on the phone and I will tell them just what results can be expected by using Orgatone. My phone number is 2-1866 and I will gladly answer any questions that anyone may wish to ask in regards to this wonderful medicine."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by Allison Drug store, under the personal direction of the special Orgatone nurse.—Adv.

TEXANS LET'S TALK TEXAS

and now CARNATION comes to Texas.

TEXANS have talked Texas again with splendid results. The Carnation Milk Products Company, after a tour of intensive investigation of the possibilities of dairy development in Texas, is now building a $300,000 milk condensery at Schulenburg.

At the time of making the announcement of the location of the Schulenburg condensery, the Carnation Milk Products Company also announced the purchase of a building site at Sulphur Springs. This action is indicative of the sound faith which this great company has in the possibilities of milk production in Texas.

The coming of Carnation to Texas, right on the heels of the coming of Borden, brings to this state the world's largest buyers of whole milk. These and other milk and milk products plants will pay millions of dollars to Texas farmers each year. There is probably no other type of manufacturing plant which would sustain a payroll of such economic significance.

As Carnation and other great organizations extend their activities in Texas, our Texas farmers will gain a new appreciation of the solid value of the dairy cow as a source of daily income; and business will gain a new respect for the economic importance of manufacturers who use farm products as raw material.

The Texas Electric Service Company takes this occasion to commend the foresight of the Carnation Milk Products Company in coming to Texas. This Company also expresses its commendation of the efforts of those Texans who worked so diligently in helping the Carnation executives in making their decision to come to Texas.

The Silent Partner of Progress

It is this sort of "talking Texas" which means much to the rapid and sound development of Texas. Texans, let's talk Texas!

MORROW TO BE UP ON CARPET

Legate to Render Account Of His Stewardship

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN

WASHINGTON, May 28. (US)—President Hoover has invited Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow to be a White House guest over the coming week-end. Both the president and Secretary of State Stimson await the coming of the ambassador to render an account of his stewardship in Mexico.

Ambassador Morrow is expected to confer at length with the state department on the status of the following problems affecting Mexican-American relations.

First, the lapsed payments on Mexico's financial obligations and the possibility of further American financing in the country.

Second, the reconciliation of church and state.

Third, the weaving of closer relations between Mexico and the United States by the increase of air traffic.

Fourth, unsettled claims against the Mexican government by Americans whose property or holdings have been expropriated.

Financial rehabilitation of Mexico is already well on the road to realization following the reforms affected by Finance Minister Luis Montes De Oca. The expenses attendant upon the crushing of the late revolt nevertheless have threatened to upset the delicate equilibrium of Mexico's national budget. Expenditure of some $50,000,000 for war purposes have put an unexpected strain upon the national treasury.

Mexican authorities are counting upon Mr. Morrow's prestige in Wall street as well as in Washington to help them in their temporary straits. As a former partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & company, Mr. Morrow enjoys the confidence of banking elements in Wall street. In addition to that, he has most satisfactorily represented the administration in its policy with regard to Mexico, as he demonstrated during the late Escobar revolt. Mexican officials are sanguine in their hopes for financial assistance, if that be necessary, in the readjustment of their country.

It has long been known that Mr. Morrow's delicate handling of the religious problem was instrumental in paving the way for the reconciliation which seems to be imminent. He is the bearer, it is believed, of President Portes Gil's personal views upon which hope for a conference between Mexican officials and Roman Catholic dignitaries is based. In many circles, it is held entirely possible that following his visit, the exiled Catholic bishops, and the Mexican officials may be able to sit down together and work out the bases of a compromise.

Closer relations between the two republics have been auspiciously inaugurated by the operation of international air lines. In addition to this, Mr. Morrow's son-in-law, Colonel Lindbergh, has been instrumental in developing these airways, and to have promoted the good will between the two republics. Ambassador Morrow will urge the advantages of more international lines between the two countries.

He Won His Bride by Shooting Her

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, May 27.—Dan Cupid has tossed away his bow and arrow and bought a revolver. It works a great deal better.

Thomas Weekly, 23, has just got married, taking as his bride Miss Winifred Ramsey—and the high spot, not to say the utter climax, of their joint courtship was a pistol shot, with the bride-to-be on the receiving end.

This happened several weeks ago. Mrs. Weekly, who was then Miss Ramsey, went to a dance with another man. Weekly heard about it. It hadn't been the first time. So Weekly got out his gun, hunted up Winifred, and shot her.

Fortunately, the girl wasn't seriously wounded. As soon as she was able to be about, Weekly was summoned for trial. She, as the chief witnes, was in court also.

But it didn't take Judge W. W. Cowan long to dispose of the case.

For he was quickly informed that prisoner and complaining witness had just married one another.

So he fined Weekly $100, and then suspended the fine on condition that Weekly spend the money on household furniture for his bride.

Husband and wife discussed the matter briefly.

"Winifred just wouldn't quit going around with other fellows," said Weekly. "I took the only way out. I shot her down. Then she married me. It was worth the $100 fine."

And Mrs. Weekly said:

"I'm glad Tom shot me. It hurt awfully—but I guess I hurt Tom worse by going with other fellows. We're so happy now."

Mr. Weekly and his bride, whom he won by shooting her . . . and it didn't happen in Chicago, either!

JUNGLE HOLDS HUNTER'S FATE

Wife Plans Air Trip to Her Husband's Side

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, May 28. (US)—A devoted London woman is planning to fly to India to the bedside of her explorer-husband, who is desperately ill in a Siamese jungle, while Theodore Roosevelt Jr., and his brother, Kermit, are pushing through uncharted mountain and jungle regions with their exploring expedition on the same mission of succor.

The explorer, F. Kingdon Ward, is a plant hunter of world wide experience, who joined the Roosevelts in India prior to their plunge into unknown southwest China and northern Tonking, Siam.

He was accompanying the Roosevelts through southern Yunan province, mapping the unexplored country. When the party descended from the high mountains toward the coastal plain and the jungles of Tonking, adjacent to Burma, Ward left the party to push ahead and explore a route through the trackless jungles toward Burma, with the idea that the Roosevelt expedition would follow the trail more slowly.

Two brief cables from Mandalay, received here by Mrs. Ward, say that Ward was suddenly prostrated in the "Laus country," of Eastern Tonking, on the border of Burma, in an almost unheard of village named Moungsing. The sick man was lodged with the natives by his bearers, who pushed ahead through the poinsonous jungle for fourteen days to Mandalay, where they reported Ward's condition and said that other runners had back-tracked to Yunan to notify the Roosevelts of their sick comrade's condition.

Two physicians, after cabling Mrs. Ward, announced their imminent departure for Moungsing, but it is believed that the Roosevelt expedition, will arrive at the sick man's hut before the doctors.

Mrs. Ward will leave London on June 8 as the first woman passenger over the newly established England-India British airmail route. She will land at Karachi, India, where two English endurance fliers were recently forced down, and then will begin the toilsome journey across the whole of India and Burma to Mandalay, where she hopes at least, to hear favorable word of, if not find her husband.

Before he left London to join the American expedition, Ward was threatened with appendicitis, and his wife fears an acute attack may have overtaken him in the wildernerr, and may have been complicated by jungle fever.

A few years ago, Ward gained fame when, with Lord Cawdor, he explored the Tsangpe gorge, between Gibet and Assam. He also discovered the rare "blue poppy."

HOT TESTIMONY OPENS PROBE

Oklahoma Examiner's Office Under Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 28. (UP)—Edgar Baker, a deputy in the state examiner and inspector's office, today told the house investigating subcommittee that unauthorized help in the examiner and inspector's office was financed by M. E. Durham, an Oklahoma City tax attorney.

The testimony was given as the committee opened investigation of the department headed by John Rogers.

Baker's allegation was repeated by Millie Mock, deputy in the department for the past eight years. Robert Graham, chairman of the committee, asked her if Durham had paid her instead of the state.

"Rogers said State Auditor Shaw would not approve of salary claims for more than 10 deputies in the department," Miss Mock replied.

R. W. Skinner, member of the committee, asked Baker what interest Durham had in assisting Rogers in caring for his salary warrants.

"I don't know," replied Baker, "but he had had all the forms for county estimates and levies changed and there now exists an unprecedented opportunity for tax attorneys to protest taxes."

Junior Forum May Breakfast Is Original in Program and Plans

Golden coreopsis and dark blue larkspur were massed on the tables at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Tuesday morning to make them beautiful for the May breakfast of the Junior Forum. In the bowls were ruffles and bows of leaf green tulle.

Miss Mary Tancred, the 1929-30 president, presided. The invocation was given by Miss Jonnie Morgan and the next feature of the program was Mary Virginia Barron's lovely vocal numbers. Miss Mary Hamilton gave a splendid reading and Marjorie Fay Hoenscheidt, accompanied at the piano by Miss Eleanor Pitman, gave several lovely numbers.

A delicious breakfast was served and during the course, the Junior forum members discussed plans for next year's work. Beside helping students through the Junior college, they expect to establish in the fall, a Junior Junior, for members from 12 to 14. In September, they are intending to put on a "rush" week when they will start in with a bridge benefit, then follow each day with an original program and all the new members secured during this time will be initiated into the Junior forum. An initiation ceremony is something new in their department.

Miss Mathilde Donnell read a letter addressed to Miss Joline Woods and the officers of the past year, thanking and commending them for the work they had done. Then Mary Virgina Barron made a lovely talk thanking Mrs. Claude Woods for all her work for them, and presenting her, as a memento of their affection, with a very lovely antique pin. Mrs. Woods responded in a few sincere words of affection.

Miss Tancred suggested a new idea for meeting during the summer and at the same time making small amounts of money that would pyramid until they would add to the Junior forum quite a nice sum. Mrs. T. A. Hicks invited all members with their friends and relatives to come to her house from 4 to 5 Wednesday afternoon for tea. Each member who accepts, is to pay 10 cents for the privilege of attending and is to give a tea to at least 10 members sometime later in the summer, her guests to pay 10 cents. By this unending chain of small events, the department expects to benefit socially and financially.

Mrs. Woodward Bass volunteered at once to have a garden tea and Miss Elizabeth Langford said she would give the next party. A number of girls declared themselves ready to use this get-to-gether social way of making a little money for the Junior's future work during the summer. Though the regular Junior forum season is over, the Junior forum members will not lose touch with one another through the summer.

Breakfast was served to Misses Mary Tancred, Joline Woods, Corinne Tucker, Lela Belle Jenkins, Mary Virginia Barron, Elizabeth Langford, Lucile Carter, Laura May Costley, Katherine Hill, Marilyn Miller Maude Waller, Laura Lee Hampshire, Rose Marion Art, Camille Avis, Elizabeth Smith, Martha Ellen Hines, Mary Louise Staley, Wilma Thomas, Jessie Lucille Raley, Dorothy Allison, Mary Jane Covington, Lou Ruth Coffee, Kathleen Colligan, Madaline McCarty, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Estelle McPhail, Helen Moulder, Peggy Durkin, Margaret Biedenharn, Mary Louise Clark, Lucille Shears, Pauline Gardner, Bonnie Holmgren, Marion Proctor, Kathleen Cason, Marguerite Sheldon, Mary Elizabeth Donnell, Mathilde Donnell, Genevieve Fritz, Imogene Willis, Katherine Weldon, Elizabeth Weldon, Jonnie Morgan, Virginia Hogue, Colista Morrison, Mary Hamilton, Mary Leona Robertson, and Mesdames T. A. Hicks, C. B. Woods, P. P. Langford, J. L. Art, Gluck, Leiterman, Tancred, Ben G. Oneal, Woodward Bass, W. M. Cason.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Prodigal Daughters

Mr. Jones is independently wealthy. His daughter runs a hat shop. She is a modern girl and scorns what she refers to as the "pampered Pekinese" existence.

Her shop is one of a thousand small, expensive establishments that are owned by women whose desire to be doing something exceeds by far their business aptitude and training.

Like those others, Miss Jones is threatened often with bankruptcy. And Mr. Jones, kindest and most generous of fathers, always writes a check to tide her over.

Miss Smith on the death of her parents opened a florist's shop because she had always "liked arranging flowers."

Her brother protested that she knew nothing of the game and that it was foolish of her to sink her small capital in a business undertaking when he was perfectly willing to support her. But she insisted that she must have her independence at all costs.

After a year of struggle she came to him in tears and admitted that she was financially ruined. Her failure cost her brother several thousand dollars, not to mention the time and energy spent in adjusting it.

Now Mr. Brown, who is a friend of the Jones and Smith family, has a daughter who is eager to earn her own living. Brown points out to her the horrible example of the Jones and Smith girls. He says that she will fail as they have failed, that he doesn't mind the money but he would rather give it to her as a fixed allowance.

He says most women go into business in order to get the sensation of an independence which they do not possess. He says he doesn't want a "prodigal daughter."

There is much to be said for Mr. Brown's point of view. But these girls, ineffective as they may be, have also something to be said for them.

A habit of mind is not changed in a generation. Women are still in their infancy where business is concerned. And yet how far they have advanced since the days, not so long ago, when no nice woman traveled alone, when the feminine mind was supposed to be incapable of coping with anything even as simple as checking a trunk or signing a lease!

Perhaps the great mass of women will continue ignorant and inefficient for a long time to come. But the Miss Jones and the Miss Smiths among us, with their instinct to do and dare, are straws to point the way the wind is blowing. And as such we owe them our good wishes and our thanks.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help our readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her care of this paper.

DIX EXPLAINS NAGGING WIVES

Love Often Makes 'Em That Way, Says Writer

When a Woman Nags Her Family It is Because She Has Such Great Affection for Them, Because She Has a Naturally Bossy Nature, or Because She Just Hasn't Anything Else to Think About

A poor, harassed, henpecked man asks me why wives nag and if there is any cure for it.

Well, brother, there are three reasons why women nag and, curiously enough, the first and greatest of these is love. It is one of life's little ironies that the woman who tortures her husband and children by nagging, and make them hate her and flee from her as from the stinging of a gadfly, is oftener inspired to her pestiferous course by affection than by any other cause.

Many a wife and mother who would die for her family, if necessary, makes them wish they were dead to be rid of her ceaseless admonitions and warnings and inquiries and remonstrances and interferences, but it is not malevolence nor a desire to irritate and make herself offensive that causes her to play upon the same themes endlessly, as upon a harp with a single string.

It is just her devotion to her husband and children. Her absorption in them. Her anxiety about them. The fact that her world centers around them. She has no other thought but about them and she must express it, no matter how much they resent it, or how tired they get of hearing it, or how much it gets upon their nerves.

It is love that makes a wife warn her husband every morning when he starts to work to watch out and not get run down by an automobile; not to eat a heavy lunch; not to get his feet wet; not to fail to go to the doctor and see about his cough; not to sit in a draft; not to do this, not to do that, until he goes off feeling like one incarnate damn.

It is love that makes a wife make the same protest every time a man lights a cigarette for 40 years. It is love that spoils every meal for him by her telling him how bad everything he likes to eat is for his digestion. It is love that makes her object to his sitting up at night reading, or going out to take a stroll before bedtime.

And it is love that makes a mother nag her children to extinction about everything they do and don't do. It is love that makes her put them through the same questionnaire every time they go out of the house about where they are going and who they are going to see and what they are going to say and when they are coming back. It is love that makes her nag them about their clothes and their dancing and their friends and that makes them have to fight over the same old battle with her every day of their lives.

It isn't really that the woman wants to interfere with her husband's and her children's pleasure and happiness. It is just that she is so anxious about them that she can't let them alone. A woman has either to be very broad-minded or else have very little affection for her family to be willing to grant her husband and children any personal liberty and refrain from nagging them about everything they do.

The second reason why women nag is their determination to boss their families. They are petty domestic tyrants who are determined to rule or ruin, and they soon find out that the most effective way to do this is by nagging. For as the constant dropping of water will wear away the hardest stone, so will the never-ending repetition of the same objection break down the stoutest resistance.

Most of us are cowards who take the line of least resistance and we find it easier to give in to the nagger than it is to fight her. And so we let the nagger nag us into joining her church and voting for her political candidate and giving up our friends and family and moving into the neighborhood she has made up her mind to live in and buying the automobile we cannot afford.

For once the bossy nagger has made up her mind to have anything or do anything, she worries her family about it until they give in in sheer exhaustion.

The third reason why women nag is the narrowness and lack of outside interest in their lives. This is amply proved by the fact that nagging is almost exclusively a domestic vice. You never hear of women indulging in it in business, or anywhere outside of the home circle.

The nagging wives are almost always the sort of women who are ingrowing wives and mothers and housewives; the women who boast that they rarely go away from home, and that they devote all of their time and thought to their husbands and children. They don't read. They don't go to clubs. They don't do anything to amuse themselves.

The result is that they lose their perspective. Having little to think about they thrash over the same old grievances until they make mountains out of molehills. Having nothing new to talk about, they talk ceaselessly about the same old things.

It is these women with nothing new to divert their thoughts into fresh channels who will nag a man for 30 years about the money he loaned an old friend, or a bad investment that he made, or the time he came home from a lodge celebration all lit up like a Christmas tree.

As for the remedy for nagging, there is, alas, none, because no woman ever admits that she is a nagger. The nagger only says what she does say to her family for their own good, and she never can understand why they don't appreciate it and enjoy staying at home and hearing her repeat herself.

Park Wading Pool Draws Many Children

More than 100 children went to Scotland park Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock when the new wading pool, 40 to 20 feet in size, was opened for the summer, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

The new pool ranges in depth from four inches to four feet and will remain open from 9 until 12 o'clock each morning, and from 3 to 9 o'clock in the evening. Younger children will be kept from the deeper end of the pool by means of a barrier which has been added to the pool.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, May 28. (US)—A crowd was gathered on the corner of Sixty-fourth street and Madison avenue in New York. People with their heads out of doors, and standing in groups talking excitedly.

"Must have been his wife," said a plain little working woman just coming from her day's work around the corner. "She sure was scratching him in the face, he was all injured and then she kicked him in the legs. Young and good looking and all in black," she explained. "And the man signalled to the policeman at the corner, but by the time he started toward them, the woman got scared and ran. Then the man ran after her and they disappeared — together. It must have been his wife."

A thoughtful flapper, leading a small dog listened and then remarked with a sophisticated smile, "and just what will that get her!"

If anybody knew they didn't tell her.

Gene Tunney says he doesn't remember ever having met "a Fogarty woman." The wish as father to an idea.

A California man suing for divorce says that his wife lies on the floor and kicks the walls, screaming loudly.

There is one other cure than divorce. I knew a woman who had a trick like that, and one day while she was feigning a dead faint, the doctor arrived. He took a pitcher of ice water and threw it over her. She recovered instantly and didn't faint again.

It's not an extravagant experiment. You're welcome.

In Jamaica, a wife hid in the rumble seat of her husband's automobile and the next day sued him.

A man is never alone. If it isn't his wife, it's his conscience.

London is worrying about whether or not Helen Wills is going to play tennis at Wimbledon, in bare legs. They fear "an unfavorable reaction," is she does.

The English don't care how they get their wrinkles!

A man escaped from prison where he was sent for theft when he was down and out. He made money had a good business and was doing well when his wife, with whom he had had trouble, snitched on him. Now he will have to go back to his ball and chain.

The bets are that he's going to sleep better than she will. But you never can tell about a woman. At least men don't.

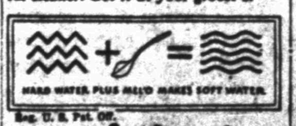

Victim of Auto Crash Is Believed Identified

TEMPLE, Texas, May 28. (AP)—A man partially identified as Harry Mike, Lockhart, Texas, was killed last night when his automobile skidded on "dead man's curve," two miles south of Salado. Three men in the automobile with him were not injured, but Mike's back was broken.

Wash clothes in water softened with Melo—save ⅓ to ½ the usual amount of soap

CLOTHES washed in hard water are hard to get clean. The hardness in the water combines with the soap and makes scum. The scum collects dirt. It gets into the fabric of the clothes. No amount of rinsing can get it all out.

But soften hard water with Melo and there isn't any scum. The water makes wonderful suds. Melo saves from ⅓ to ½ the amount of soap ordinarily used. With or without soap, water softened with Melo is a wonderful cleaner. Get it at your grocer's.

June Bride-Elect at Home To Her Friends Tuesday Afternoon

Miss Modena Howell was at home very informally to her friends at the lovely home of Mrs. W. W. Silk, on Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The broad south porch was full of flowers and the spacious rooms lovely with beautifully gowned guests. The dining room, where Mrs. S. S. McKenney and Miss Marguerite Haynie presided at the punch bowl, was particularly bridal in tone. The center on the linen cutwork and handmade filet runner was of water lilies in crystal holders, with long fern branches and tiny bits of white hedge blossom adding to its beauty.

One large room was filled with Miss Howell's lovely gifts and the guests were invited to see them. The number and beauty of the pieces of crystal, silver and linen gave indication of her popularity.

HOOVER RESENTS REPORTS OF BREAK WITH WILLEBRANDT

MABEL TURNS IN RESIGNATION

President Expresses Regret For Loss of Aide

WASHINGTON, May 28. (US)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt resigned today as assistant attorney general, quitting the turmoil of dry law enforcement for the challenge and bustle of the booming aviation industry.

She will become Washington counsel for the Aviation Corporation, an important holding company, and for its subsidiaries. It is understood this post will pay her about $30,000 a year.

President Hoover announced the acceptance of her resignation "with deep regret" and with a tribute to the "legal ability and moral courage" she displayed in filling a post he called "one of the most difficult in the government."

In her letter of resignation, dated last Sunday, Mrs. Willebrandt asked to be relieved from active duty by June 15.

President Hoover did not receive the letter until today, the White House said.

The president was resentful of reports of disagreement between Mrs. Willebrandt, Attorney General Mitchell and himself. Mrs. Willebrandt wished to resign on March 4, it was stated at the White House, but the president and Mr. Mitchell prevailed upon her to stay and assist in important re-organization work that was impending.

This work has about been completed and the administration does not feel justified in asking further financial sacrifices of Mrs. Willebrandt, it was stated.

The letter of resignation, dated May 26, before Mrs. Willebrandt left for Waco, Texas, to receive a degree from Baylor university, was received at the White House this morning.

Mrs. Willebrandt explained that she had been tendered the post of Washington counsel for the aviation corporation and its subsidiaries which offered her "a field of construction legal work" and that she wished to accept it.

"I genuinely regret leaving official connection with the accomplishments of your administration," she wrote. "I have given, however, more than seven years to public service and I trust my helpfulness to you may not cease when I become just a private citizen."

Resignation Accepted

In accepting the resignation President Hoover wrote:

"I have received your resignation with deep regret. In view of the very great opportunity which has come to you and for reentry to private practice of the law, and in view of the seven years of sacrifice you have already made to public service, I do not feel that I am justified in again asking you to reconsider.

"I had hoped you would be able to continue until we had established the steps of reorganization which have been initiated in the department. I am glad to know that you will give us your continued cooperation and advice in these special problems.

"I cannot, however, allow this opportunity to pass without an expression of the indebtedness of the American people and of the government for so many years of effective public service. The position you have held has been one of the most difficult in the government and one which would not have been conducted with such distinguished success by one of less legal ability and moral courage."

The letter was signed "Yours faithfully, Herbert Hoover."

MRS. WILLEBRANDT ARRIVES AT WACO

WACO, Texas, May 28. (UP)—"I am not discussing it," Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt declared from her plane at the airport here today in answer to a query regarding her resignation as assistant attorney general of the United States.

She reached Waco from Fort Worth at 12:15 o'clock, after weathering a bad drizzle all the way.

DONKEY BRAY CAUSES FIGHT

Boisterous Backyard Pet Affects Man's Nerves

ENGLEWOOD, Mo., May 28. (UP)—Last Christmas Santa Claus brought Edward Bosworth a real, live braying donkey, the great giver not reckoning with the fact that David, 61, neighbor, had nerves and a wife with high blood pressure.

Today George Bosworth, 30, father of Edward, was suffering wounds and Emerson was in jail after a backyard argument.

Emerson, charged with assault with intent to kill, issued a statement saying he had repeatedly asked his neighbor to remove the donkey because it got on his nerves and affected his wife's health. But Bosworth remained mulish about it.

Bosworth's wife said Emerson backed up his ultimatum by attacking Bosworth, whom she said was peaceably inclined, with a milk bottle in one hand a knife in the other.

The donkey grased and brayed unconcernedly today while the master of one house recuperated in a hospital and the master of the other faced arraignment in court.

SECRECY RULE COMES TO END

Rules Committee Votes For Public Roll Call

WASHINGTON, May 28. (UP)—An end of the 150-year-old secrecy rule of the United States senate was made virtually certain today when the rules committee voted 9 to 8 in favor of making public all executive session roll calls and also in favor of considering nominations in open when a majority of the senate so decides.

Chairman George Moses of the committee announced after the meeting he would bring the issue before the senate some day next week and that he expected the senate to agree with the conclusions of the committee.

The decision to change the rule came after a fruitless inquiry into the manner in which the United Press associations obtained and made available for publication the recent secret votes on confirmation of former Secretary of Interior Roy O. West and United States Customs Judge Irvine L. Lenroot.

Moses said the committee still is considering the question of whether it would call 95 senators to ask each one if he gave out the information. He said he thought an effort would obtain no results because he presumed "senators will perjure themselves like senators."

The committee defeated 7 to 5 or 8 to 4 a proposal to restore floor privileges to the press association representatives in the senate.

The movement to restore the privilege of the floor to those who had them before will be carried to the floor of the senate for a vote when Moses presents the other rules change.

BEATEN KINGS REACH BOMBAY

Erstwhile Afghan Rulers Still Hopeful

BOMBAY, India, May 28. (UP)—Two dark skinned brothers, each of whom has won and lost the throne of Afghanistan, arrived here today on the way to join the ranks of men-who-once-were-kings.

Amanullah, probably the most modern ruler ever in power at the Moslem capitol of Kabul, and his elder brother, Inayatullah, whose reign lasted less than a week, have turned their back on the Khyber Pass forever—unless the tribesmen of Afghanistan summon them back.

The power of Bacha Sakao, son of a water-carrier, who led a Brigand army to overthrow Amanullah and to frustrate the attempt of Inayatullah to hold the throne, is waning and soon will fall, according to the exiled monarchs.

Amanullah authorized a statement upon his arrival here that Nadir Khan, whose armies are opposing the bandit king, will succeed in winning the throne at Kabul.

Amanullah's statement that he would return to his country only when the people demanded it, was supplemented by his expressed belief that his rule was popular among the commno people of the country.

'Down to Sea in Ships' No Longer Said by Whalers

WASHINGTON, May 28. (US)—"Down to the Sea in Ships," age-old epigram of whaling life, is a thing of the past now, having given way to "over the sea in planes."

A newly organized whaling company in Norway, about to begin operation, has bought airplanes instead of ships, and will start on its first expedition in search of the giant sea mammals early in June, according to a report from the commerce department representative in Sandefjord today.

47 TRAPPED BY SUDDEN FLOOD

South Texas Streams High; Two Dead

nours on the Neches and a progressing flood downstream for several days.

The rainfall passed seven inches Tuesday night and continued to fall in torrents at Temple. Bell county streams overflowed in places and threatened a serious overflow in the Little river, south of Temple was predicted. The Little river is one to three miles wide over the lowlands. The Temple-Taylor road was closed to traffic.

The Leon river, which feeds the Little river, was out of its banks at Gatesville. Railroad tracks and bridges, damaged by high water two weeks ago on Big and Little Turkey creeks near Woodville, were washed out.

The T. & N. O. bridge south of Woodville was washed away, even to its supporting piling.

Relief crews and repair gangs on the railroads at Woodville last night numbered 250 men.

Red Cross Busy

A 30 foot rise threatened Bend, on the Colorado river.

The Red Cross, still busy rehabilitating families suffering effects of the flood two weeks ago in the Livingston district Tuesday night faced new crises and more work. Eighteen hours steady rainfall totaled nine inches at Livingston where flood waters covered the lowlands. The fire department was fighting to keep the water from flooding the Livingston power and light plant.

Southern Pacific trains were not running at Livingston. Missouri Pacific and Katy trains, which use the same track between Austin and San Marcos, were turned back at Austin last night.

The highway bridge over the Blanco river, five miles north of San Marcos on the Austin-San Antonio-Post road went out. Its heavy timbers battered the Missouri Pacific trestle a short distance below, damaging the railroad bridge so trains could not cross. Every road leading out of Austin was blocked by high water.

The Guadalupe river reached flood stage at Seguin and was rising rapidly.

The rainfall yesterday was 4.5 inches and the precipitation for the month was 17.13 inches. Creeks were out of their banks and traffic was halted. Farm lands were reported under water, and estimates of the total loss were not made as late reports indicate increasing devastation.

The Trinity river rose five inches at Liberty when a one inch rain fell. Many farms already were under water from the last rise, and many farmers were going to higher land.

FLOOD TRAPS 47 PIPELINE WORKERS

SAN ANTONIO, May 28. (AP)—Flood waters sweeping down the Blanco river and a tributary creek converged at the Smith Brothers pipe line six miles below Blanco this afternoon and engulfed 47 men, none of whom was drowned.

The men were able to scramble into the upper branches of trees and several found safety on an island created by the flood waters.

Appeals were sent out for rescue boats but communication failed between Blanco and other points before boats were located. However, horses were found capable of breasting the current and late tonight the men were being brought to safety.

At the same time the creek and river rose, a bridge on the river just above the pipe line camp was washed away, adding to the plight of the pipe line workers.

The 47 men were employed on an oil line being built from McCamey to Houston.

Reports were current that a rainfall of cloudburst proportions, estimated at between 12 and 14 inches, had struck Blanco this afternoon and had wrought havoc there.

Part of San Marcos also was under water from the San Marcos river and Purgatory creek. Many families have been forced to leave their homes in the southern part of the city.

Reports from Fredericksburg indicated that the Perdenales river was up 26 feet and threatening to flood the surrounding country.

A rise of 24 feet was reported on the Guadalupe by the Boerne telephone exchange. It was reported to be out of banks between Comfort and Boerne and threatening to damage a large area.

Boerne also reported that the Cibolo was rising but it was not thought that it would go high enough to cause any damage. Charles Gill of Kerr county escaped by jumping when a sudden rise in Quinlan creek swept his automobile off a causeway.

Business and Professional Women Elect New Directors at Banquet

The Business and Professional Women's club met at the Municipal Park club Tuesday night for dinner and business session. The dinner was served at a table made beautiful with streamers of green vine and a large brown basket filled with coreopsis.

Secretary's and treasurer's reports showed a wonderful work done the past year and the report of the membership committee was good.

The ways and means committee report showed that the spirit of the organization was cooperation and that Camp Noble was not only a recreation center, but one that radiated good to the community in general. The business and Professional Woman's club has put five girls through business school and two have received help in this year, it was stated.

Special committees reported on the annual picnic and on the arrangements for the annual dance. Plans were discussed for a week-end at Estes Park on June 22.

Six new directors were elected: Mrs. Joella Butler, Misses Rose Tickell Mayme Kuhfuss, Jewell Mays, Glenna Miller, Stella Watson.

At the next board meeting new officers will be nominated. Miss Arnie Smith, who received a rising vote of thanks for her work for the club, presented the organization with a beautifully bound reference library. Ten volumes are complete and 10 loose leaf volumes will serve for the next 10 years.

Those present were Mesdames Irby, W. E. Millican, Johnnie Hanson, Mary Crane, Mary F. Lyons, Ernestine Kennedy, Joella Butler and W. M. Cason and Misses Arnie Smith, Zula McKay, Mae Miller, Elizabeth Miller, Catherine Walker, Mayme Kuhfuss, Winnie Ballard, Lora Eichelberger, Lena Derzafa, Opal Balleau, Gertrude Parker, Rose Tickell, Ruth Bentley, Maude Thomas, Jewel Mays, Glenna Miller, Anna Sepelmeyer, Stella Watson, Mima Stringer and Minnie Mae Giddings.

'THREE GHOSTS' WELL PLAYED

Little Theater Performance Wins Acclaim

Soldiers with a penchant for doing the unusual, mostly off duty, usually run in three's, as is witnessed by Kipling's "Soldiers Three" and Dumas' famous "Three Musketeers," favorite in every quarter by virtue of their dynamic spirits and unflagging humor. Another trio of soldiers came to Wichita Falls Tuesday night, holding attention not by their deeds but by their surprising predicaments as "Three Live Ghosts," enacted by the Little Theater at the Episcopal parish house before an audience of more than 200 persons.

The three soldiers who return from a lengthy sojourn in an enemy camp, two of them dead by declaration of the British government, the third by complete divorce from mental health as an aftermath of the conflict, supply ample material for a plot which immediately possessed and retained the interest of the audience.

Action Moves Swiftly

From the opening scene, in which three ghosts appearing very much like the soldiers whose names they bore respond to Mrs. Gubbins' fervent plea to the spirit world, the action of the story moved smoothly and with commendable articulation into a maze of complications fraught with genuine pathos and equally refreshing humor.

Mrs. W. F. Pagan, as Mrs. Gubbins, was splendid in character as a resourceful, witty, and perhaps business-like old English mother who spoke the tongue with acceptable coloring. Her character adapted itself to the exigencies of every new situation with the agility of a weathervane, never overlooking Mrs. Gubbins' own advantage, of course.

Mr. Norwood, as Jimmie Gubbins, wheel-horse of the three returned veterans, threw the "cockney" English about with a convincing degree of freedom, and enhanced his comprehensive performance with all-expressive facial gestures, effective because they had all the appearance of bein entirely natural.

The romance woven into the plot was delicately worked out by Mrs. Bailey R. Collins and Trent Hill, depicting a nurse and a Tommy Atkins who hailed from New York—and after many near-disasters, hail back again. Mrs. Collins gave her Rose Gordon an appealing charm, with restrained force commensurate with the sweetness with which she endowed the role.

Comedy Part Well Done

Grady Shipp as the shell-shocked unknown, who eventually turns up as one of old England's blue-bloods, effected with a remarkable success a completely vapid and blank face which knew nothing but a charitable smile. His kleptomania produced much laughter and exceedingly helpful results.

Hiss Ella Merle Mathis, Miss Elva Killingsworth, George Wright, S. A. Wyatt, and Ted Williams completed a well-chosen cast which gave a thoroughly entertaining performance.

An orchestra composed of Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, pianist and conductor; Mrs. F. C. McClung, Miss Mathilde Donnell, William L. Donnell, Paul Scheurer, Dewitt Tanner, and Harry Strief furnished music before the curtain and between acts.

Performances will be given Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8:15, closing the Little Theater's program for the spring season.

The cast is as follows:

Mrs. Gubbins (Old Sweetheart), Mrs. W. F. Pagan.

Peggy Woofers, Ella Merle Mathis.

Bolton (an American Detective), George Wright.

Jimmie Gubbins, Charles Norwood.

Wm. Foster (Alias Bill Jones), Trent Hill.

Spoofy, Everett Shipp.

Rose Gordon, Mrs. Bailey R. Collins.

Briggs, of Scotland Yard, S. A. Wyatt.

Benson, Ted Williams.

Lady Leicester, Elva Killingsworth.

Pastor Talks On Greatest Leader

Rev. Patrick Henry, speaker at the Tuesday evening service of the revival meeting being held at the Highland Heights Christian church, took for his subject "The Pre-eminent Leader of All Time."

"Though it has been that 60 generations of mankind have come and gone since Christ lived among men, still He stands out before the world today as the pre-eminent leader of all time," he said.

"A man's leadership cannot be properly measured by his passing influence, but it is to be valued through the length of time his principles will abide. On this score Jesus stands alone before the world, since His teachings and principles are wielding more influence today than at any time since he lived.

"A leader must be original. Christ patterned His teaching after no one; he launched out into the uncharted and taught new truths, establishing himself as a real leader."

Increasing crowds are attending the services each evening, which will continue through this week. R. E. Shepherd is leading in the congregational singing. The subject for Wednesday night will be "The Greatest and Most Beneficial Discovery of All Time."

Mud Bayou to Be Bridged Despite Court Protest

WASHINGTON, May 28. (US)—Mud bayou, between Texas and Louisana, is just what its name implies, in the opinion of Attorney General Mitchell.

Therefore the department of justice will not appeal a decision by the circuit court of appeals for the fifth circuit which restrained the secretary of war from interfering with the construction of a bridge across the bayou, it was announced today.

The circuit court affirmed the district court's decision that the bayou is not navigable, and that therefore the secretary of war is without jurisdiction.

The commencement exercises for the graduating class of the Academy of Mary Immaculate, followed by the awarding of diplomas to pre-academic pupils, were held at the Woman's Forum Tuesday night. It was as always an impressive ceremony and well attended.

It was outstanding in its musical presentations. The chorus showed good training and the violins added to the beauty of it all. But the piano-ensembles deserve special mention. Rarely have we heard seven and afterwards eight girls play with such rare sense of restraint and unity. It was a joy to listen to the "Homage of Verdi" by Duroc, which was the outstanding number on the program. Miss Erie Ward, one of the graduating class played in most of the numbers and accompanied the others and proved herself a thorough musician.

ELECTRA NIGHT

All Star Bill Promised At Vaudeville Program Thursday Night

Six acts of vaudeville of the highest and most entertaining type will be presented at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at Bellevue park when "Electra Night" will be sponsored by the chamber of commerce of Electra, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

A blackface comedy act by Russell Austin and George Asbill will feature the entertainment. A quartet, composed of young women, will present a number of vocal selections on the bill.

The entertainment promises to be of an outstanding type, as a number of leading performers of Electra constitute a bill of unusual variety, Mr. Bunnenberg said. The Electra band, directed by Ira C. Johns, which has received much praise for its work at a number of cities and towns where it has appeared, will play for the occasion.

DAIRY LEADERS SEEK AGENT

County Asked to Employ Expert in Work

Fourteen agricultural and dairying leaders of the county met with the Wichita County Bankers association in a called meeting and dinner Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the Wichita club, at which time a committee was appointed to ask the county commissioners' court to appoint a dairy expert under the recently enacted law legalizing such procedure.

Resolutions were adopted in favor of the banks of the county lending every possible encouragement and assistance in the purchase of additional dairy cows in this community. The meeting did not recommend any finance corporation at this time for handling such purchases.

J. T. Harrell was introduced by Carter McGregor, first vice president of the association, in the absence of the president, J. F. Boyd of Iowa Park. Mr. Harrell, as one of the most active during the last few years in the material development of the milk-producing industry in the county, inaugurated a round-table discussion of the means to be used for financing further purchases of milk cows.

Following the dinner, Honey Boy and Sassafras of station KGKO entertained with several musical numbers and blackface dialogue designed to extend the reputations of different bankers present.

The following were present: E. C. Knox, mayor; S. B. Jackson, Carroll Duke, C. E. Birk, C. C. Hudson, F. E. Hill, A. C. Golden and F. T. Felty of Iowa Park; Erwin Schwegler, L. L. Kincaid, R. H. HOUSE VOTES HIGH TARIFFS

Protection Measure Given Heavy Vote

ened, so that he would not have to ascertain the actual cost of production abroad. He is authorized merely to ascertain the difference in "competitive conditions" between the United States and abroad and he may invoke United States or American valuation as the basis for revision.

Only one amendment, and that a comparatively minor one, was adopted by the house over protest of the Republicans of the ways and means committee.

The house adopted an amendment offered by Chairman Hawley, providing that Canadian wheat, milled in the United States and exported to Cuba shall no longer be given a 20 per cent decrease in the Cuban duty. This amendment was designed to take away the advantage given to Canadian wheat over American-grown.

Sugar Fight Biggest

Representative Strong of Kansas, offered an amendment, providing that this change of policy shall go into effect 90 days after passage of the bill, instead of one year as proposed by Hawley. Strong won, 162 to 101.

Overshadowing all other fights over the bill was that on sugar. The bill goes to the senate with the duty on Cuban sugar increased from 1.76 cents a pound to 2.40 cents, and on other imports, excepting the Philippine islands, Porto Rico and Hawaii, increased from 2.20 to 3 cents a pound. Importations from the island possessions of the United States continue to come in free of duty.

The Republicans settled the sugar fight in their party caucus, deciding not to permit a separate vote on that item. Estimates by the opposition were that the boost would cost American consumers upwards of $100,000,000 additional annually for this sweet.

Carried in the bill is a substantial increase in duties on building materials. Cedar shingles were taken from the free list and given a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem; maple and birch lumber, excepting logs, also taken from the free list, were assessed 15 per cent ad valorem.

Porch and window blinds, baskets and bags were given a duty of 50 per cent ad valorem, compared to 20 per cent in existing law. Cement, taken from the free list, was given a duty of 8 cents per 100 pounds or 20.4 cents a barrel. On bricks a duty of $1.25 per 1,000 was levied. They now come in duty free.

Leather Taken Off

Hides, leather, boots and shoes were taken from the free list. On hides a duty of 10 per cent was imposed; leather, 12½ to 30 per cent, depending upon type, and shoes, 20 per cent ad valorem.

Sweeping upward revision in the levies on glass and glassware, earthenware, rayon, silk materials, cotton and woolen textiles and chemicals were provided.

Vegetables, nuts and fruits were given heavier protection.

In place of the present duty of 1½ cents a pound on cattle weighing less than 1,050 pounds each, and 2 cents a pound on cattle weighing 1,050 pounds or more, the bill provided that cattle weighing less than 800 pounds shall carry a duty of 2 cents and those weighing 800 pounds or more, 2½ cents a pound.

Beef and veal were given a duty of 6 cents a pound, in place of 3 cents in existing law; sheep 3 cents in place of two, and swine, two cents, as compared to one-half cent at present.

On butter a duty of 14 cents a pound was placed, compared to the 12 cents provided under presidential proclamation. Oleomargarine and other butter substitutes also were assessed 14 cents a pound.

The duty on corn was raised from 10 to 25 cents a bushel; figs from 2 to 5 cents a pound; limes, two cents in place of the present one cent a pound; flaxseed, 63 cents a bushel, compared to 56 cents under presidential proclamation.

Soya beans were given 2 cents a pound, compared to one-half cent under present law, and potatoes 75 cents per 100 pounds, against 50 cents in present law.

On milk the duty was made 5 cents a gallon, against 2½ cents under existing law; cream, 48 cents, compared to 20 cents.

Grapefruit, pineapples, tomatoes, lettuce and other vegetables were also stepped up.

PRYOR DENIES ROBBERY PLOT

Former Constable's Case To Jury Today

was holding Shumate in his home as his prisoner, to be taken into the Wichita county jail on the following day. Shumate, he said, had told him that he was sick and unable to make good his escape, but that he was afraid to give himself up to officers in Wichita Falls because the jailer had been slugged in the course of the jail break and he was afraid of hard treatment. Pryor maintained throughout direct testimony and under cross-examination that Shumate was his prisoner and that the arrests made later in the evening were political maneuvers directed by Jim Taylor, Electra police chief and other members of the Electra police department.

Weeks Grills Witness

Pryor also denied the testimony of Mrs. Lillian Blair and her daughter, Miss Eddie Foy Thanes, introduced during the morning session Tuesday. He said he had not followed Mrs. Blair's car out to a quiet roadside near Electra to receive a message from Shumate. He denied acquaintance with Mrs. Blair.

In an exhaustive cross-examination, which lasted all through the afternoon session, Fred Weeks, associated in the prosecution, attacked every phase of Pryor's testimony and led him through a labyrinth of detailed questions as to hours, days and places, which left the witness obviously bewildered and at sea.

The prosecutor attacked the defense theory of a political frame-up and attempted to break down the defendant's claim that he had been watching at the side of his sick wife on the night of the robbery.

"When Mr. Bralley came to your home on the night you and Shumate were arrested, why didn't you offer to help him with the prisoner?" the attorney demanded.

"He didn't need any help. He was getting along fine," Pryor replied gravely.

"Why didn't you turn the prisoner over to county officials when he first gave himself up to you?" Mr. Weeks persisted.

"I wanted the publicity of catching him myself. I was running for re-election, and I knew I wouldn't get any credit for the arrest if I turned him over," Pryor explained.

He insisted throughout the cross examination that political enemies had sought to ruin him with the charges, and added that it was for political reasons that he didn't place Shumate in jail immediately upon his arrival at the Pryor home.

The defense opened its case after Sam Spence, district attorney, had announced that the state would rest on that count in the indictment of Pryor which accuses him of being an accomplice of Henry Shumate in the robbery of the Jefferson hotel at Electra on the night of June 19, 1928. Ed Wilson, 87-year-old Confederate veteran, former justice of the peace, was the first witness called to the stand. He said that, although his office adjoins that formerly occupied by Pryor as constable, he had never seen Shumate and Pryor together. Gage McDermitt, assistant district attorney at the time of Pryor's arrest, testified that Henry Shumate had told officials that he would make a complete confession if they would "put his feet on the ground." No such promise was made to Shumate in his hearing, Mr. McDermitt said.

Testimony Ruled Out

Most of the testimony of Jim Tom Wofford, hotel keeper in Electra, was ruled out. J. J. Marriott, deputy sheriff at Big Spring, was called to the stand, but his testimony was limited to the assertion that he had had Shumate in custody in his county, the state objecting successfully to all other questions essayed.

After the testimony of Henry Shumate, principal state witness, who Monday afternoon told the jury that Pryor and Tom Shook, former Electra police chief, now a fugitive, had helped him plan the robbery, the state proceeded Tuesday morning with the calling of six additional witnesses.

W. G. Bralley and W. Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, told of the arrest of Shumate in the Pryor home. Roy Hart, night police chief at Electra, described the finding of an out-of-date police commission bearing the name of Tom Shook in the car in which Shumate was driven to the county jail. John Houser, Electra city clerk, said that such a commission had been issued to Shook and had not been returned.

Mrs. Lillian Blair, to whose home Henry Shumate went first on the night of his break from jail came next to the stand. Her evidence, along with that of Miss Eddie Fay Thanes, her pretty 16-year-old daughter, was introduced as corroboration of the testimony of Shumate, whose unsupported statements cannot be used as evidence by the jury. The two witnesses told of carrying a message from Shumate to Pryor, and of taking Shumate to a spot on the Seymour road where he met Pryor and Shook on the night when all three were later arrested. The defense, in cross examination, tried to show that Mrs. Blair had known of Shumate's escape from jail, and was therefore an accessory to his getaway.

Mason Accused Of Accepting Auto

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 28 (UP)—Evidence of ownership of a Marmon automobile, allegedly accepted as a bribe in a supreme court case was introduced today in the impeachment trial of Chief Justice Charles A. Mason. Highway records showing ownership of the car and registration certificates were brought in by the house board of managers.

Mason, on trial before an impeachment court, is charged with accepting the car from Willis G. Sautbine, involved in a court case at the time of the transaction.

Other testimony today was along lines previously disclosed by investigating committees. The prosecution charged Mason returned the car, asking for a refund when he feared detection.

Women's Club For Dry Enforcement

SWAMSCOTT, Mass., May 28 (UP)—The General Federation of Women's clubs representing more than 2,000,000 women, went on record at the opening of its biennial session here today in favor of rigid enforcement of prohibition.

The action was taken by the approximately 1,800 delegates representing all sections of the country following a speech of Mrs. John C. Pearson of Marshall, Okla. She asserted that the first step was to combat propaganda intended to show that the dry law was "forced" upon the country.

Mrs. Eugene Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., second vice president of the federation and an Indian princess, urged all members of the organization to aid here in teaching America's Indian women the art of homemaking and to assist them in becoming Americanized.

The federation went on record in favor of co-operative efforts toward aiding the Indian women with their end in view.

Searchers Fail To Find Body

swept it for from the spot where the tragic accident occurred.

Choppy weather and cold interfered seriously with the work of the searchers, the dangers and discomforts increasing as the hour grew later. Shifts were quickly exhausted. Helpers at the pier waited their return with hot coffee and sandwiches and other volunteers rushed to fill their places.

Knocked From Boat

Young Rockhill was knocked from his boat by the force of an unusually high wave as he worked at running a trot line Monday evening. Wright Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Cox, with Rockhill in the boat, reached vainly to pull his friend back to safety. Cox himself followed Rockhill into the water and struggled to save him until his own strength was exhausted. At one time both young men went to the bottom of the lake together, Cox held in a choking grip by the arms of the drowning man. With the last of his strength Cox managed to pull himself over the side of the boat and start the cry for help.

Leaders in the search said Tuesday evening that the quest would continue without interruption until the body is found.

Besides N. H. Martin, his uncle, Rockhill is survived by a grandmother, Mrs. Alma Martin, and a sister, Mrs. Montgomery Wilson, both of Clarinda, Iowa. The youth came to Wichita Falls from Iowa three years ago. He was in the employ of the Texas Electric Service company.

DALLAS YOUTHS' BODIES RECOVERED

DALLAS, May 28. (AP)—The bodies of three high school boys, drowned late last night when a boat from which they were fishing overturned, were recovered from White Rock lake, a municipal reservoir, today. The bodies were found after an 18-hour search, participated in by several hundred persons.

The dead:

Clifford Hall, 19, of Richardson; Albert McGuire, 17, of Clear Lake; Roy Groves, 19, of Wylie.

Guy Watson, 17, of Dallas, a fourth member of the party, was rescued after he had clung to the overturned boat for several hours.

Watson said he and his companions had hung on to the boat for quite a while, but that the other three boys had decided to swim to shore after they had failed to attract the attention of any one who might have aided them.

He said one of his companions cried out in distress when only a short distance from the boat, but that his heavy clothing prevented him from going to his aid. Belief was expressed that the cold water had caused the boys to be seized with cramps.

The accident occurred when one of the boys attempted to cross from one end of the boat to the other.

About 50 persons were thrown into the water today when a pier from which they were watching searchers collapsed. None, however, was hurt.

Flier in Tenth Hour In Second Jab at Record

METROPOLITAN AIR PORT, Los Angeles, May 28. (US)—In a second effort to make a new solo endurance flight record, Lieut. Herbert J. Fahy this afternoon had been in the air for well over 10 hours and was "somewhere over Southern California."

Lieut. Fahy was forced to earth by fog Sunday in his first attempt after being up for 21½ hours. The present official record is 34 hours and 50 minutes.

Vigorous Search Continues On Land and Sea for Famed Newlyweds

NEW YORK, May 28. (UP)—Over land, sea and air the pursuit of America's most famous newlyweds went ahead with unslackened vigor tonight.

The challenge tossed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride to curious American public when they dropped from sight after a secret marriage yesterday found newspaper representatives of the public more than eager to accept it.

Arising collectively at dawn, hundreds of reporters proceeded with joyous abandon to turn the couple's honeymoon into a rollicking game of hide-and-seek that extended from the coast of Maine to the most secluded corners on Manhattan.

Every means of modern transport was used in the chase—airplanes, yachts, express trains, fast motorboats and amphibians—and an ingeniousness was displayed that would put the best of Scotland Yard to blush.

But the young colonel and his bride still were ahead of the game tonight, with no trace of their whereabouts to be found.

Sunflower Crops To Be Increased

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, May 28.—J. R. Weaver, farmer and ranchman of this section and instigator of the new sunflower crop for the South plains, states that he will plant some 1500 acres to sunflowers this year. Other farmers in the county will likely plant this amount of acreage, it is thought, making a total sunflower acreage for Dawson county of approximately 3,000 acres. Weaver states that Lubbock county will plant about 500 acres to this new crop while adjacent counties will plant small acreages.

Weaver found this new crop profitable both last year and the year before, yielding around six to seven hundred pounds per acre and selling for five to six cents per pound. Counting the minimum labor and trouble required to produce this crop it is indeed profitable, Weaver states. The principal type of seed planted is the Manchurian and Russian. The annual sunflower day is being planned again this year, according to Weaver.

For 20 years David Stitzel has kept the homes of Brunersburg, Ohio clean. Stitzel is now 71 but still makes brooms to order, raising the straw and performing all the labor.

Fort Worth Fliers May Receive Service Medal

Robbins and Kelly, after being presented to the International Rotary convention in the morning, went immediately to Love field, where they expected to file application for commissions in the reserve corps, U. S. air service, so as to be eligible for the medal.

MEN FREQUENTLY conclude that the careers which first attracted ambition aren't sufficiently spacious for subsequently aroused talents, or don't match their matured temperaments.

So don't worry because Charlie is jumping from one situation to another—he is probably trying to find himself.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who worries grows old before his time."

Worry is a terrible disease and those who relieve others of worry are great physicians though they have no college degrees. Love, understanding and encouragement are the most potent remedies for this malady.

Representative Rainey of Illinois said the new house tariff bill would cost the farmers of the country $400,000,000. And that, you'll have to admit, is relieving the farmers with a vengeance.

Now that a mechanical heart has been invented by a scientist in Canada, a couple of cartons ought to be ordered by the presidents of the American and National leagues.

Ruled by Our Emotions

AFTER the dirigible Graf Zeppelin landed at Cuers, France, when engine trouble interrupted its proposed voyage across the Atlantic, one who cared to observe things European could notice a strange phenomenon.

The French and the Germans were actually saying nice things about one another—for the first time in nobody knows how long!

Huge crowds of French men and women visited the hangar where the big airship was stored. French soldiers and mechanics worked beside the German crew getting the ship into shape. In Parisian newspapers there were words of praise for the aerial visitors; and in Berlin the newspapers expressed appreciation of the reception France had given Dr. Eckener and his men.

All in all, it was an unusual affair. It won't last, of course. In a week or so the old suspicion and hostility will be uppermost again. But for a few days there was an era of good feeling; and, to an irritable and over-weary world, even a few days of it are something.

It goes to prove—as if any proof were needed—that we are, after all, ruled by our emotions.

Just as Lindbergh's dramatic flight suddenly ended the discord between France and the United States, and restored the old harmony of 1917, so the Graf Zeppelin's landing at Cuers wiped out, for the moment, memories of war's wrongs and old-time hatreds and enabled two nations to meet amicably on a common ground.

The worst of it is, however, that it works the other way, too.

Just as some sudden and spectacular event can overrule old enmities and bring harmony overnight, so a less fortunate accident can create, equally swiftly, a wave of hatred and indignation.

Let your memory go back 31 years if you don't believe it.

If the battleship Maine had not blown up and sunk in Havana harbor in the early winter of 1898, it is quite possible that the American people would never have consented to the war with Spain. That one event set the nation on fire. It roused emotions that carried all before them.

A child is always ruled by his emotions. A grown man is at least supposed to be ruled by his intellect. In the mass, however, it appears that most of us are still children.

Today, for no reason except that a German airship landed in France, the French and Germans are showering compliments on one another.

Tomorrow, for some equally insufficient reason, they will probably be talking about war.

This rule of emotions is dangerous. It has good results, sometimes; but it is too uncertain. You can't ever tell what it is going to do to you.

Paul Mallon Barred by the Senate

PAUL MALLON is a noted correspondent of the United Press stationed in the city of Washington. He has been barred from the senate floor. Former Senator Irving Lenroot of Wisconsin was named by the president for place on the court of claims. He had been accused of representing the power trusts in the city of Washington and had been paid a fee of $20,000 for his services.

Coolidge sent his name in first. There was violent opposition to confirmation. President Hoover renamed him and Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska led the fight against confirmation. He declared that Lenroot was not a lawyer, that he had never practiced in the courts of Wisconsin, that he had lobbyed for the power trusts under the big dome of the national capitol and that it was an insult to the American people to make him a judge of the court of claims.

For a long time the nomination "hung fire." Then the senate in secret session confirmed the nomination of the former senator from Wisconsin. Paul Mallon never shirks a duty. By hook or crook he obtained the roll call on confirmation. He printed the names of the senators who voted for confirmation and those who voted to reject the nomination.

Reed of Pennsylvania, of the house of steel and iron and coke and anthracite, raised a violent row. He had something to say of the ethics of newspapers and newspaper writers. He was very contemptuous of the forth estate and all its representatives. Paul Mallon was barred from the floor. Reed would bar the United Press from the press gallery if he had his way. Why should there be star chamber sessions of the senate? Why should nominations be confirmed behind closed doors? And speaking of ethics, are those employed by star chamber statesmen and servants of the American republic to be applauded by the American people and continued by their expressed will? Are the people the masters, or are senators who hide behind locked doors the Mussolinis of this republic?

Wesley Jones a Flip-Flopper

SENATOR WESLEY JONES of Washington is a flip-flopper. A flip-flopper is a statesman who hands out an interview one day and then has a change of mind over night. President Hoover handed out the names of his law enforcement commission. Wesley said that if he had been selecting the commissioners he would have made different selections. What happened is funny. Over night he saw a great light. Thoroughly convinced or thoroughly repentant he issued a second statement interpreted as a sweeping endorsement of the commission. It must be true that consistency is a fool's virtue. Exhibit A: Wesley Jones' flip-flop.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 29.—Another sign of spring and approaching summer; the stampede of runaway girls toward the Girls Service league headquarters in East 19th street. New York annually gets a spring crop of runaways—some who come here "just for fun" and others to make fame or money.

Last week, 15 such girls had to be taken care of by the league. Usually they show up minus baggage, money and without any idea where to go next. Often they hitchhike from distant place, goaded on by the dream of success. I must say, however, that usually they find a warmer welcome than do runaways in most other cities. This is because the authorities are quite aware of the lure New York holds and for that reason they do not maintain a harsh attitude toward the runaway.

But little girls who have the illusion that running away to New York is a romantic thing, with hidden promises of thrills and adventure, might better stay at home and stick to love novels and a box of chocolates.

Steamship lines, due to stiff competition, are giving more consideration these days to "student tourists," as well as provision for teachers and "tourists, third class." In the old days these travellers had to be satisfied with rough and tumble conditions on board.

The steerage conditions have passed and now provision is made for cheerful staterooms and, in most of the boats, flying foreign flags there are even student bars.

Now and then you may see a colored gem'men of about 50 years or so, his form still stiffly erect, walking along Broadway. He is Jack Johnson, once champion heavyweight of the world. The once famous champ, they say, has fallen into days that lack the glamor he enjoyed in another decade.

Johnson, though he made quite a bit of money, saved little of it. He no longer lives in the sumptuous apartment of the past but in a modest Harlem hotel. There were days when he made a big splurge in Broadway. Today his activities cause no more ripple than the humblest pebble in the biggest sea.

On Broadway, today, you see the final triumph of the movies over the stage. Believe it or not, there is not one single theater on Broadway proper (or improper), from Fortieth street to Hammerstein's new theater farthest north at Fifty-third street, which houses any attraction other than those of the screen.

The last "legit" house to succumb to the movies is the Geo. M. Cohen theater. The criterion went picture ward some years ago; the Astor has been movieized for several seasons; in the same block the Gaiety is showing movies. In the next block, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets, the Globe and the Century have succumbed to the movies and the Winter Garden, home of Al Jolson stage successes, now cater to the spectacle, "Noah's Ark," with sound.

All the legitimate theaters are now in side streets—curiously appropriate since the movies has been making so much noise. But even so, such popular houses as the Apollo, the Selwyn and the Harris have been wired for talking-movie eprformances.

Perhaps the above is the most vivid proof of the increasing triumph of the movies over the daddy, legitimate. And it seems such a short time ago when the movies were in short pants, so to speak, and couldn't make any articulate noise and when people sneered at its infantile efforts to be entertaining.

It almost makes one belive the report that "Broadway is moving to Hollywood." Yet in this connection, Robert Benchley, the humorist, who went on a writing expedition to the cinema city, sends back word that Hollywood boulevard remains Hollywood boulevard and Broadway is still Broadway.

He says that you could put Joe Frisco on every corner of Hollywood boulevard and Ethel Barrymore in every drawing room of Beverly Hills, and a Harry Richman club in every "drive yourself" garage between Los Angeles and Santa Monica and the place would still be Hollywood. Broadwayites change when they go there, says he.

And I am rather inclined to agree with Benchley when he says that in November, 1929, Broadway will be just as it was in November, 1928, and that the majority of actors, directors, playwrights and newspaper men who went West in search of movie gold, will come back happy to be here again, even though they did find a pot of gold at the end of the Hollywood rainbow.

Big crowd viewed paintings of cattle; you see, some people haven't any idea here what cattle looks like. My idea of cattle is a Broadway crowd pushing and milling about Times Square without getting anywhere. . . . Henry T. Reynolds—they call him the boxer—has been a fireman since 1884 and tells me that New York fires aren't what they used to be. Oh well. . . . Four American sopranos and an American tenor will make their debut in the Metropolitan Opera company next year. Oh well, again.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

She: Hello, is this you, dear?
He: Yes. Why so excited?
She: She's much worse since you left. I'm really alarmed.
He: I think you're unduly disturbed, dear, but tell me what's happened?
She: I can't get her up at all now.
He: Hasn't she been up at all?
She: Not at all, except for a minute and she went right back again. She acts awfully strange. I've never seen her like that.

PHILLIPS

He: Perhaps she's just tired. She was up late last night, you know.
She: Yes, but it can't be that. She's really sick. I'm positive there's something radically wrong with her.
He: How's her tongue?
She: She won't let me look at it. That's another thing; she never acts like that ordinarily.
He: Is she in bed now?
She: Certainly. Just lying there in a sort of stupor or trance. Don't you think I should call the doctor?
He: How about breakfast? Did she eat anything?
She: No, I got up a nice breakfast of just the things she loves but she wouldn't touch it. Now you know when she acts that way there is something to be worried about. I'm dreadfully distressed. It might be pneumonia, you know.
He: Has she a fever?
She: Of course she has. I thought I told you that in the first place.
He: Well just watch her a while and phone me later. There's no use getting upset yet.
She: Of course you wouldn't get upset. That's just like a man. The poor dear is lying there sick and perhaps with a critical illness. She may be dying, and yet you say watch her a while. You just haven't any heart. You're insensitive to suffering. You're cruel. You're. . .
He: Oh, all right, get a doctor. Get Wymess, the specialist. You've got me wrong, dear. I just thought it would be all right to wait until noon. I'm just as fond of that dog as you are!

Texas Gulf Sulphur Officials Are Cited

WHARTON, Texas, May 28. (AP)—Officials of the Texas Gulf Sulphur company have been ordered to appear June 24 before the Wharton county commissioners to show why the valuation of the company's properties in this county should not be placed at $120,000,000.

The commissioners court, sitting as a body of equalization, arrived at that figure yesterday after a hearing attended by a group of citizens, officials of the county, and Paul Page Jr., and Dewey Lawrence of the state attorney general's department.

Advises Mothers to Take Dr. Pierces Favorite Prescription of Fort Worth, Texas, says:—"For many years I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when nervous and rundown. I found it especially beneficial during motherhood. When I took the 'Prescription' during expectancy I had no trouble whatever, and by taking it afterward I found that it helped in bringing back my strength. I don't think there is any medicine a woman can take that will benefit her as the 'Favorite Prescription' will."—Mrs. W. L. Lambert, 521 Grant Ave.

Altus Deputy Learns He Was Shot to Death

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., May 28.—The joys of being very much alive while enjoying the publicity relative to a sudden and tragic death are being experienced by Luther Bush, Jackson county deputy sheriff.

Inquiries concerning the killing of Bush said to have occurred while he was making an arrest, were first received at the sheriff's office Friday afternoon. As the rumor spread the telephone calls increased. Bush was finally assigned to telephone duty to assure the questioners that he was still alive and not the target for any ambitious criminals.

The report was believed to have started by rumors that Bush had gone to Duke to arrest a man believed to have killed C. Wampler several months ago.

HEADACHE AND BAD BREATH

These Symptoms Often Go Away Following the Use of Thedford's Black-Draught

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I have been using Thedford's Black-Draught for twenty-five years," says Mrs. Lydia E. Kerley, of 519 West Seventh Street, this city. "I try never to be without it in my home, because I find that a pinch will ease the headache.

"I take Black-Draught when I am bilious or have indigestion. I have found that much of the trouble of this kind comes from constipation. Black-Draught is the best medicine I have ever found to prevent it.

"It is the only medicine I can take and keep on with my work.

"One of my children was troubled with bad breath, and I gave her Black-Draught. She got over it right away.

"I favor Black-Draught, because it seems to drive the poison out of the system in a natural way."

When you take Thedford's Black-Draught, the digestive organs are helped in a healthful, natural way, and normal elimination is restored without the sickening effects that characterize the use of powerful mineral drugs.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

The Cure of Constipation

In curing constipation, one of the most important points to remember is that the patient should cultivate the habit of going to the stool at regular intervals each day whether the desire to evacuate is present or not. The best time for this is shortly after each meal, because a kind of peristaltic wave passes through the entire intestines soon after food begins to enter the stomach.

Many of the simpler cases of constipation can be entirely cured by cultivating this habit of regularity and by using larger quantities of bulky foods. All of the non-starchy vegetables are especially valuable. Sometimes it is advisable to use them in large quantities even as often as three times a day. It is also helpful to develop the strength of the abdomen and back muscles.

Where one has been eating a fair amount of bulky vegetables, the constipation may be produced by the passages being too dry because the fluids have become extracted and directed towards the kidneys. This habit of the kidneys eliminating too large a quantity of fluid may become so firmly fixed that much time is required to complete a cure. In many people, the water used for drinking is entirely absorbed before it reaches the intestines and is therefore not of much volue in moistening and lubricating. This is especially true of water used immediately before, during and after eating a meal. When, however, the stomach and intestines are practically empty of food, as occurs during the latter part of the night and early morning, it is possible for a large quantity of water swallowed at those times to reach the colon before being absorbed and this is a valuable remedy in many cases of abnormal dryness.

Where the intestinal muscles are weakened or where there is a prolapsus or a kink as the cause of constipation, the cure is not so simple and treatments by a doctor who understands manipulation and uses the sinusoidal electrical current are usually necessary. Deep massage is of special value in loosening adhesions and lifting prolapsed areas of the colon, or straightening kinks. The internal muscles may then be exercises by electrical sinusoidal treatments, a machine which contracts or relaxes the muscles as the current is alternately turned on and off.

Chronic cases should also begin with a diet of several days of acid fruit fasting and the use of enemas which, while they do not provide a real cure, are valuable in lessening the inflammation and increasing the flow of lubricating secretions.

After your fruit fast, begin your regular diet and eat large quantities of greens to provide the intestines with bulk. Even though much effort seems necessary in curing constipation, the reward of feeling good and being entirely free from the diseases resulting from constipation should be sufficient encouragement. One who is entirely free from constipation can enjoy life and is brimming over with energy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cracking Joints

Question—M. N. P. asks: "What causes a cracking of the joints, including the jaw bones when eating. I might mention that I am also troubled with ringing ears."

Answer—A cracking of the joints is usually caused by loose ligaments or a lack of synovial fluid around the joints. Sometime, what appears to be cracking of the jaw can be caused by the clogging of the eustachian tube leading to the mouth and ears, which is stretched when the jaw is moved and produces a cracking. The presence of the ear noises would also tend to indicate that this condition might be the cause.

Acid Fruits in Cystitis

Question—Mrs. A. B. asks: "Will you please tell me whether strawberries or tomatoes are bad for a weak bladder?"

Answer—Strawberries, tomatoes and other acid fruits must often be used with caution by those who have cystitis. This is not because the acids from the fruits actually pass through the bladder but because they stimulate the elimination of many toxins which are irritating. A fast on any of these fruits can usually be undertaken by anyone suffering from cystitis, if the patient will use a large amount of water at the same time, taking as much as two or three gallons in a day.

Uses Special Diet—for What

Question—M. G. asks: "Do you know what kind of a disease one has who cannot eat anything sweet, anything sour, anything fried, or cucumbers, radishes or fruit of any kind? Yet, I am supposed to eat often, about every two hours, and drink two or more quarts of water a day besides two or three quarts of milk."

Answer—It is hard to make head or tail of the diet you are on, but why not clean out your whole alimentary canal with a fast, and then live on a well balanced diet? Send for my special articles called Cleansing Spring Diet Course.

French Film Problem Is Tentatively Solved

PARIS, May 28. (US)—The American movie producer must purchase one French-made film for every four American films shown in France, under the plan approved tonight by the French Film commission.

By its action, the commission definitely rejected the American suggestion that the French industry should be protected by a tariff barrier rather than compelling the American producers, in effect, to subsidize French production.

A concession granted by the commission decision is found in the raising of the American allowance from the contemplated three-to-one basis to the four-to-one. The present ratio is seven to one.

The commission's recommendation now goes to the French government for final decision.

Persistent Blaze Results In Three Fire Alarms

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, May 28.—Quanah fire department was called three times to one house in 12 hours, although the first blaze totally destroyed the structure. The two-story frame house belonging to the Hendrix estate, was discovered on fire about 8 o'clock in the evening. The roof was ablaze before discovered, and fell in just as the department arrived. The entire building burned to the ground. About 1 o'clock in the morning the embers blazed up, with quick run by the chemical wagon of the fire boys; and at 5 o'clock the third alarm came in.

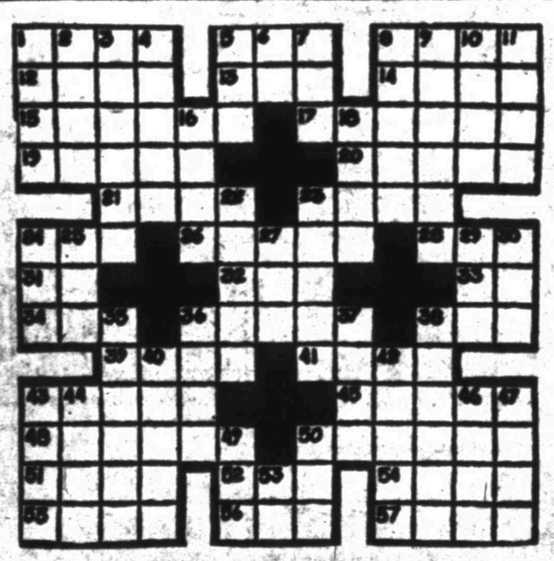

The family of A. N. Roper, a barber, was away from home when the fire was first discovered. The loss to building and contents was estimated to be around $10,000, partially covered by insurance.

The building was one of the first houses built in Quanah.

PAYNE OR TABER TO OPPOSE STEERS TODAY IN SERIES FINAL

PENNANT RACE IS TIGHTENED

Only 6 1-2 Games Separate Leaders From Tailenders

Special to The Record News

DALLAS, May 28.—Double-headers continue to pile up on the Spudders. Rain today caused the postponement of the second scheduled game of the Wichita Falls-Dallas series, which is to be played at the next invasion here of the Spudders.

"George Payne is the likely Wichita Falls chucker tomorrow in the final game of the series, though there is the possibility that Ed Taber will be the pitcher.

Charlie Barnabe or Vic Frasier will toil for the Steers.

After tomorrow's pastime the Spudders play at Fort Worth two days, including a double-header Thursday. They wind up the present road trek with a two-day stand at Shreveport, on which is carded a double-header Sunday.

Today's general rain over Texas washed out all but one game in the loop. Beaumont's second straight victory over San Antonio tightened up the already hectic league pennant scramble. Only six and a half games separate the league-leading Waco Cubs and the last-place Beaumont Exporters, in one of the closest pennant fights ever staged in the old Texas league.

Wichita State Beats Security

Victors Score Six Runs In First Inning to Win

Wichita State Bank bunched hits in the first inning off J. Mathis to give them the 8 to 4 decision from the Security National yesterday afternoon at Wilson field. The victory brought the Wichita State team out of the cellar.

McWhirter led the batting of the losers with three singles in as many times at bat. Davis also hit the ball for the losers with a triple and double in three times at bat. J. Mathis pitched good ball after the first inning lapse.

Woolridge led the winners with a double and single while Taylor gnared two singles. Taylor pitched invincible ball and was never in much danger.

Sensational fielding was the order of the day with several players making miraculous stops and throws. Habern, first sacker, for the Wichita State, leaped high into the air to snare a line drive by Davis and double McWhirter at first.

Reinstatement Sought by Iowa

Baby-Faced Dice Roller 'Cleans Up'

CHICAGO, May 28. (UP)—With a disarming baby face surrounding her baby-blue eyes, Virginia Nichols, 21, rolled in from St. Louis with a pair of dice and "took" the rolls away from the big wise boys of Chicago and there is little to be done about it.

True, Virginia was in a cell today with a technical charge of disorderly conduct pending against her but most of the boys with whom she rolled her eyes and then the dice—are married, police said, and unwilling to file complaints.

According to the story that led detectives to her room in a loop hotel, Virginia had an innocent way of leading up to the point of rolling dice. After the accommodating gentlemen would "show her the game," Virginia made her points with ease.

Her soft hands always took a firm grip on the dice. A roll on the blanket and up came seven and eleven quite frequently. The accommodating gentlemen always lost, she admitted.

When detectives entered her room she said she was waiting for a man who had lost $49 and had gone home for more funds. At the police station, she took the change away from the desk sergeant and others with her soft but educated hand.

"It just comes natural to shoot naturals," she told the police in showing them how to roll the dice. Virginia is hoping the judge will roll the dice to decide her sentence, if any, when she appears in court.

Bert King to Address Optimist Club Today

Bert King, district governor of Optimist clubs, will address the weekly Optimist meeting Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel on the international convention to be opened by that organization on June 19 in Tulsa, according to Solon R. Featherston, program chairman.

The Wichita Falls Optimist club has been one of the best represented in the country at international conventions heretofore, Mr. Featherston said, and an effort is being made this year to have an unusually large delegation from this city present at the convocation in Tulsa.

A musical program for Wednesday's meeting has been prepared by Joel H. MacGregor.

Upholds an Old Adage

There is an old saw that says, "Take nothing for granted in baseball." The least promising of half a dozen Wichita Falls Spudders who went to major leagues this spring was Eddie Roetz. True, he showed natural hitting ability last season. But the kid was green, and there was the problem of finding a place for him to play. Dan Howley evidently has solved that problem, for Eddie has been going great at shortstop for the St. Louis Browns. And he is hitting hard.

Eddie's errorless play and triple helped the Browns beat the Detroit Tigers yesterday.

SPEED RACES HERE SUNDAY

Harry Norris Drives "Coca Cola Can"

Speed duals of the type that thrill are on tap for the first racing program to be presented here Sunday at the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds track.

The local speed meet is the third of the championship series of meets in Texas as a part of the national elimination contests which will terminate in the fall with the crowning of the national dirt track racing champion.

The first of this series was presented in Houston ending on May 12, the leading drivers then continuing the fight for high honors at the Temple track on May 19.

The six events on Sunday's card will find the 10 leading drivers of the Texas meets in competition with the leaders in the finals of the Oklahoma and Louisana state meets.

The entry list includes Harry Norris, one of the South's most colorful drivers. Norris pilots a creation known in racing circles as the Coca Cola Can." This mount derives its monicker from the fact that the body is made completely from discarded Coca Cola metal signs. It is painted a bright yellow and bears the numerals 50. Norris is the type of driver who is constantly pushing his mount to the limit and will take any chance regardless of the results if it will cause him to gain on an adversary.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 28. (UP)—Fielding H. Yost, director of athletic relations of the University of Michigan, in a brief statement issued today, revealed that Coach Tad Wieman, who developed a winning combination in last year's football squad, had been "fired."

The Wolverines last season had a successful year, defeating, among others, the strong Illinois and Iowa elevens.

"It has been decided that Mr. Wieman will not be a member of the coaching staff next season," Yost's statement said.

DEMPSEY WILL BE OWN BOSS

Jack to Promote at Chicago And Elsewhere

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, May 28. (UP)—Jack Dempsey confessed today that his attempt to break into New York as a fight promoter had proved a failure, and announced that he will turn his attention to staging bouts in Chicago next fall.

At the same time, the former heavyweight champion severed his connection with the rather nebulous firm of Cole and Fugazy, and signed up as match-maker at the coliseum in Chicago.

Ed (King) Cole, the windy little impresario, and Humbert Fugazy were closeted tonight to see if there was a possibility of restraining Jack by legal means from cancelling his contract to act as their match-maker.

Partners Fall Jack

"Cole and Fugazy promised to have the site for an outdoor arena purchased by May 25," the ex-champion explained. "This was to be in the borough of Manhattan or within walking distance of the Brooklyn end of the East river bridges.

"They also gave me to understand that they could get the Polo grounds.

"Two months have passed since I signed up with them, and they have done nothing. You cannot promote fights without an arena, and after investigation I find that all available sites are taken. So I'm leaving New York temporarily. I hope to be back in 1930."

It was the stronghold on boxing in New York established by Tex Rickard and maintained by W. F. Carey and Madison Square garden which really forced Dempsey's withdrawal from New York.

May Enter Montreal

As his own boss, however, he may promote bouts in other cities than Chicago. The first big bout which he has in mind is slated for Montreal July 4, with George Godfrey, the big negro heavyweight as one of the principals.

The suggestion was made in fight circles today that Dempsey's break with Cole and Fugazy might mean that he intended to start training for a fight in the fall.

Nothing is farther from the ex-champion's thoughts at the moment. The United Press learns from Dempsey that he has no intention of ever returning to the ring. He may change his mind, if a large enough purse is put up, but for the moment he maintains that he does not intend to fight again.

Political Program For Lions Luncheon

Mrs. C. N. Cameron, soprano, with Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff as accompanist, will entertain the Lions club members in their weekly meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday noon, according to announcement made Tuesday.

The business portion of the hour will be given to further preparation for the election of officers, which is to be held on June 5, according to Dr. R. H. Graham, president. A. B. Maples, present secretary, will deliver prepared speeches supporting the candidacy of rival aspirants to that office, he announced, and will request all other incumbents to follow suit.

Music Program Given At Shrine Luncheon

A group of musical numbers comprised the entertainment given at the weekly luncheon of the Maskat Temple Luncheon club Tuesday noon. Piano solos were given by Mrs. Kindel Faulk. Miss Lois Franklin sang, with piano accompaniment given by Mrs. George T. Singleton.

The club has a membership of about 60, and its luncheons are open to all Shriners in the community.

The SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.; Trademark Registered, U. S. Patent Office)

Star Against Star

Some one opened an argument recently as to how the United States stood with Europe when it came to leading women stars in sport, especially golf and tennis.

In the last 10 or 15 years England has offered Joyce Wethered and Cecil Leitch for golf, while France has sent Suzanne Lengien to the front.

These are the three leading stars Europe has turned out from the feminine side, although Kathleen McKane was a fine tennis player, and Simone de la Chasme of France, was and is a fine golfer.

The two leading contributions from the United States have been Helen Wills at tennis and Glenna Collett at golf.

They have won more championships than any others in recent years. Mrs. Molla Mallory, who can also be claimed by Norway, has a brilliant record to fall back on, while in her prime Alex Sterling was only a shade back of Cecil Leitch.

The dominating position in this country has been held by its water spitties, swimmers and divers—Aileen Riggin, Helen Meany, Martha Norelius, Gertrude Ederle and others, who have featured the last two Olympic competitions.

Mlle. Langlen won from Helen Wills in their only meeting, but at a time when the latter was on her way up—not as far up as she is today. Joyce Wethered has beaten Glenna Collet twice, but on British turf, and while the former is undoubtedly a more consistent player it is still a question as to how she would come out against the Americans on this side of the Atlantic.

In the way of outstanding women stars from recent years the European side is perhaps a trifle stronger, but nothing to cable about.

Star Pitching Feats

Dear Sir: Have you noticed the unusually good pitching major league clubs have had this spring? George Uhle of the Tigers, has won seven in a row; Karl Hubbell of the Giants, pitched a no-hitter, and Rube Walberg, of the Athletics, pitched 19 consecutive scoreless innings.

But the best tossing of the spring has been done by Walter Miller of the Cleveland Indians. In four consecutive games, Miller allowed a total of just three runs. Two of the games were shutouts and he had a run of 26 successive scoreless innings before the St. Louis Browns nicked him for one run. Cleveland gave Miller little backing in his games; in three of them they made eight hits and two runs. Yet Miller won one of the games in which he was helped by two hits. He is a great left hander, who pitches smartly all the time, and with an easy motion that will keep his arm fit for some years. —F. J. P.

Race Horse Can't Also Be a Truck

Dear Sir: You have noted, no doubt, the fine sprinting done by George Simpson of Ohio State, this spring. He has run the century in 9:5 and several times in 9:6. Yet Simpson, one of our greatest sprinters, was not on the Olympic team last summer, when U. S. needed its fastest men. The reason is the obviously unfair system of selection employed by the A. A. U.

The system of regional, sectional and national trials in picking Olympic athletes is just pure bunk. Men are worn out before the finals are held. Every one knew Simpson was fast last year. Yet he had to go through all of the trials and in the finals at Cambridge was seriously injured and unable to run his last race. Why not pick performers upon their records and not after they have been worn out by running, jumping and throwing here, there and everywhere. Our Olympic system needs a lot of revision. —SUNSET SLIM.

The Up-and-Down, Back-and-Forth

Form, touch and timing never slip nearly as quickly in any other game as they do in golf.

Walter Hagen led Horton Smith by 20 strokes in the British open. A short while later in the French open, the same Smith was about 20 strokes ahead of the same Hagen after the first two rounds.

They were the same in name only, not the same in touch and timing. It also happened that the warmer winds of France, at St. Cloud, were much nearer to Horton Smith's liking and to his past experience than the raw gales which ripped in from the Scottish coast.

Nervous systems may change completely from one week to another. One golfer may have passed the peak to find himself ready for a big smear wherein he can do nothing with his nerves. It isn't so much a matter of physical fitness as it is of nerve rest and nerve reserve—nerve here meaning nerves and not courage.

There is a vast difference between nerve and nerves. There is no competitor who is always master of the latter form. Nerve weariness has caused more football upsets than any other single factor. And it has turned golf into one of the major guesses of sport.

Hard on the Nerves

Wild Bill Mehlhorn was out testing the Winged Foot course for the U. S. open a day or two ago. Before starting he related one incident of the wind effect at Muirfield.

"At one of the short holes on the last day," remarked Mehlhorn, "I laid my tee shot less than two feet from the cup. I had an 18 or a 20-inch putt for a 2. You didn't dare put your putter down within a foot of the ball. On this occasion there was a following gale and the putt was slightly down hill. I just started the ball in motion. It slipped over the rim of the cup and stopped six feet away. Hagen's two 75s under these conditions were both miracles. Nothing else."

All About the Big Races

Dear Sir: I think the record of one hundred one point thirteen miles per hour, the record for the 500-mile race established in 1928 by Peter de Paolo, will be broken in the race on May 30. Also that a front wheel drive car will win and that an oldtime driver will be victor. For the last three years unknown youngsters have been victors.

Ralph de Palma, who just entered after two years of absence, at Indianapolis, is beginning at the age of 46 his twenty-second consecutive year of racing and is the veteran of the coming contest. He has driven more miles in competition on two and one-half mile brick and concrete track here than any other driver in history. Billy Arnold, 28-year-old entry from Chicago, played quarterback on the University of Illinois varsity in 1922, defeating Minnesota, Chicago, Iowa and other teams.

Eighth Suit Filed Here for Insurance

Another suit against the United States for the collection of war time government insurance was filed with Miss Jessie Cowan, United States district clerk, Tuesday afternoon, increasing to eight the number of similar actions entered here within the past few days. Wednesday is the last day upon which new suits claiming the insurance can be brought, according to the limitation terms prescribed by an act of congress.

Mrs. Hattie Ewing and G. N. Monroe are plaintiffs in the last suit filed, seeking the insurance on a policy alleged to have been issued to Jake Ewing, who died following his discharge from the army in 1919. Mrs. Ewing sues as the mother of the soldier; G. N. Monroe joins in the action as the administrator of his estate. The petition asks for the full $10,000, with accrued interest, claiming that the soldier was permanently disabled as the result of injuries from gas and other wounds received during his action abroad with the American army.

DUNDEE TO BOX JACKIE FIELDS

Title Bout to Be Held July 11 at Detroit

DETROIT, May 28. (US)—Floyd Fitzsimmons, Michigan boxing impresario, announced late today that he had obtained the signatures of Joe Dundee, Baltimore, and Jackie Fields, Los Angeles, for a 15-round bout to a decision with Dundee's world welterweight championship at stake. The bout, Fitzsimmons said, will take place in this city on July 11.

The fight will mark Michigan's first 15-round bout since Gov. Fred W. Green signed the bill legalizing bouts of that length last week.

Fields is already recognized as welterweight king by the National Boxing association.

Dundee will receive a flat guarantee of $50,000 while Fields will be paid on a percentage basis of approximately 12 per cent.

JACK DEMPSEY, most famous living member of what Mr. Tunney calls the dignified profession, has severed business relations with Messrs. Cole and Fugazy, and has set out to promote boxing on his own. Messrs. Cole and Fugazy will be recalled as the gentlemen who were to become the foremost pugilistic impresarios, aided by Dempsey, who was to be the "front" for the concern.

Extravagant plans were announced by Cole and Fugazy when they formed their combine to corner the world's fistic market. They were going to build a gigantic arena, greater than Madison Square garden, for indoor shows. In the summer they were to stage their fights in one of Gotham's ball parks. They talked in millions, and Dempsey was lured to join them.

But the promotional enterprises of Messrs. Cole and Fugazy never got beyond the conversation stage. Both ball parks are in the possession of Madison Square Garden, Inc., for boxfight purposes, and the great coliseum they were to build is no nearer toward the laying of the cornerstone than it was last winter when the ambitious project was announced.

DEMPSEY, essentially a man of action, fretting under inactivity and restraint, has quit partnership with Fugazy and Cole. He will promote boxing in Chicago this summer. But speculation over Dempsey's future concerns his probable return to the ring, as an active principal. A mass of contradictory stories over Jack's "comeback" leaves the situation as it has been since he asserted after his Chicago mill with Tunney that he had hung up the five-ounce mitts forever.

Whether Dempsey will fight again is known only to Dempsey himself—if indeed, he knows. Circumstances may govern Jack's future, so far as actual fighting is concerned. Should Paulino or Schmeling win their coming fight decisively, it is possible that Dempsey will come back for one more shot. Dempsey could command close to half a million dollars for another fight. And regardless how he is fixed financially, half a million dollars ain't hay.

The mauler would only be a shell of the once smashing man-killer if he returns to the ring. Should he fight again, it will be more than two years since his last battle. The weary legs that tottered around the Soldier stadium ring will have grown more weary in two years. The accuracy and driving power of his mighty fists will lack former deadliness; the once-keen eyes that watched and telegraphed to those mighty fists every opening, will be dulled.

Even the fighting spirit that carried savagely into battle will be lessened, though there would be a flurry at the first bell when the old war horse would feel a surging of the old spirit. But it would be only a temporary flash. The spirit of youth only carries that unconquerable fighting spirit, and Jack Dempsey, as fighter's ages are reckoned, is an old man.

Dempsey is no sap. He knows his fighting days are ended. But for half a million dollars—

Half a million dollars ain't hay.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Mr. Paddy Harmon, a genial inmate of Chicago, who built the Chicago stadium, one of the largest, and, my operatives tell me, one of the emptiest arenas in all this broad land, has come upon an idea in his gropings among the vacant chairs of what my Brooklyn readers would call his jernt.

Mr. Harmon's idea it is to run a boxing tournament, the only requirements of which will be that the entry weigh 176 pounds, with prizes ranging from $50 up to $25,000. Mr. Harmon thinks that he may thus develop some fresh heavyweight contenders.

If Mr. Harmon's idea strikes him as new, it is only because he has found it in new surroundings, and if he will confer with some of his veteran associates in the dignified profession, such as Mr. Nat Fleischer, the bald eagle of the Ring Record, he will learn that he is fooling with a most insidious and sinister disease, which is known as heavyweightitis.

It comes upon a patient when he least expects it, and there is generally any cure, especially when it reaches the final, or tournament stages. Then, indeed, is the sufferer in sad case. As an old time victim of heavyweightitis, I would warn Mr. Harmon to have himself vaccinated at once, go to bed, and remain there for two weeks with cold towels on his noggin. He may thus avert calamity.

Damon Was Victim

Once upon a time, my little pollywogs, along about 1924, I promoted a heavyweight tournament at the old Madison Square garden with the idea of getting three young heavyweights to take to England to combat a trio of yearlings being nurtured there by Mr. Tex O'Rourke.

Mr. O'Rourke had been financed by a group of sportsmen to dig up an English heavyweight contender, and he had culled his trio from a horde of sturdy beef-fed Britishers. He thought well of his boys, and it was my idea to take over a little group of stalwart Americans and make those O'Rourke guys say uncle.

For weeks the ancient floor of the old garden fairly creaked to the trampling hoofs of my blood sweating behemoths, summoned from far and near to uphold the glory of the stars and stripes against those blighters overseas.

I have forgotten how many heavies passed through my tournament, but I do remember that the tenants of the buildings adjacent to the garden commenced to complain that the constant ker-blump of large tallowy torsos hitting the canvas was keeping them awake.

And of my tournament, at the finish, there survived just one bloke who even knew how to hold his hands up, and that was Mr. Sandy Seifert, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a bald, and thoughtful looking young man, who somehow didn't impress me as just exactly the Greek I needed to uphold the glory aforesaid.

Bronson Is Manager

Anyway, by this time Mr. O'Rourke's coves had all petered out, too, so if I had taken Mr. Sandy Seifert to England to fight, there wouldn't have been anyone for him to fight. I believe Mr. Seifert pursues the dignified profession to this day under the kindly auspices of Mr. Jeems Bronson with more or less success. About 20 per cent more, and 80 per cent less, I would say.

But if my own case isn't sufficient warning to Mr. Harmon, let him consider the very sad case of Mr. James J. Johnston, the old boy bandit. The gray hair which Mr. Johnston deftly conceals under a shining coat of Bixby's shoe blacking, was produced by running heavyweight tournaments.

In the course of several years, Mr. Johnson looked at no less than 1,000 alleged heavyweight prospects—this by actual count—and out of this number he found not one who could fight a lick. Or Mr. Harmon can go back to the days of the white hope tournaments when they were looking for some white guy to lick John Arthur Johnson, and when at least 100,000 truck drivers, dock wallopers, section hands, and apple knockers fell unconscious over the land before one of them outstood John Arthur for 20 rounds under a hot sun.

That was old Jess Willard, the Pottawatomie pounder, as synthetic as Mr. Tunney's intellectual pose, yet good enough to win the heavyweight title. But it took five years to develop Jess, and it takes just about that same length of time to develop any heavyweight, which is why heavyweight tournaments are futile, so far as the immediate production of a heavyweight contender is concerned.

If Mr. Harmon wishes to develop a heavyweight contender within a year he must center his attention on some one of the many promising youngsters around the country who have had a couple of years of real experience.

However, if Mr. Paddy Harmon is determined upon his tournament, and he acts to me like a man who is a set-up for heavyweightitis, I must insist, as an honorary vice president of the heavyweight hunters association of American, that he bear our cardinal principle in mind.

This is that any man dealing in heavyweights must feed 'em, and find 'em when they're lost.

FINE CATTLE SHIPPED HERE

Wichita and Archer Buy Car From Iowa

Fifty-five head of thoroughbred Jersey bulls and heifers shipped from Ohio last week by a purchasing party representing Wichita and Archer counties, are expected to arrive in Wichita Falls within the next 48 hours, according to messages received from G. C. McGown, Wichita county farm agent, who assisted in the selection of the stock.

According to H. R. Overbey of Iowa Park, who is buying several animals from the herd now in transit, 38 head, including five bulls, will go to the Electra community, where a number of farmers recently completed plans for inaugurating a bull circle. W. L. Hodges and Lee Warren of Iowa Park are among the purchasers of 10 head to be placed near that city.

Twenty bulls and a number of heifers are scheduled to go to Archer county, Mr. Overbey said, where several bull circles have been formed under the direction of G. R. McNeil, Archer county farm agent, who accompanied Mr. McGown on the trip to Ohio and Michigan, and Grady Bell, chamber of commerce manager.

Stocking of many farms in this section with the highest grade dairy stock available is the beginning of a campaign to increase materially whole milk production on a permanent basis, it was said. Other bull circles in Wichita county are now in process of formation, and a boys' calf club in the Electra community already is underway, according to the information given.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—An early decline under further near-month liquidation was followed by advances in cotton today with some broadening of demand reported on unfavorable features in weather and crop advices. October contracts advanced from 18.37 to 18.70 and closed at 18.69. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 10 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 11 points and active months sold off another point or two before the initial offerings were absorbed.

The market soon turned steadier on reports of further rains in Texas and prospects for more general showers over the belt.

Opinion was expressed in some quarters that liquidation of Wall street and Western long lines promoted by recent declines in grains and securities had run its course, leaving the market more sensitive to weather and crop advices.

Private cables reported liquidation in the Liverpool market.

Port receipts today 6,891 bales. U. S. port stocks, 1,116,699 bales. Exports today 6,891, making 7,651,866 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 28. (AP)—After declining 5 to 11 points in early trading cotton rallied sharply later today on demand influenced by expectations of a bullish weekly weather and crop report tomorrow and the continued unfavorable weather conditions in the belt. October advanced from 18.35 to 18.60 and closed at 18.57, or 15 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 10 to 20 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than due and first trades here showed declines of 2 to 5 points in sympathy.

Prices started on the upgrade under demand stimulated by map indications of considerable rain in the belt during the next 24 hours and although there were small reactions from time to time on realizing the general trend was upward for the remainder of the session.

Nearness of Reparations Agreement Causes Rally on Stock Exchange

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 28. (US)—Reports that the reparations settlement was near brought in better demand for stocks that rallied the market this afternoon. Liquidation had proceeded throughout the morning following by covering around noon that started technical comeback. As a result of the new demand toward the close the market was able to make up half of its Monday's loss.

Railroads enjoyed the best buying with Atchison gaining 13½, New York Central 5¾, New Haven 4¾ and others finishing from one to two points higher. Anaconda recovered 3⅞, United Aircraft 9½, General Electric 6½ and other active Industrials from one to over three points. Oils and Utilities enjoyed quiet but steady demand. Call money appeared tighter but the rate held at six per cent throughout. Turnover held around the 4,000,000 share level.

Federal reserve bank of New York directors will meet tomorrow, due to the holiday Thursday. There is belief in the banking world that they will not ask permission to increase their rate. The correction of the stock market has been such, it is stated, as to cause a change in opinion by some of the bank directors here. They now hope that they will not have to put the charge on a six per cent level. However, it makes no difference what the local directors think. The board will do as it pleases. If it wants a higher rate after the treasury financing is out or the way it will order it. The brokers' loans statement will not be made public until Friday although the figures will be known in Washington and perhaps elsewhere by tomorrow afternoon. It is thought that loans should be down $200,000,000 for the week at the very least and the decline may be shown at close to $300,000,000.

Monday the street heard the reparations conference would fall through today, the report was that 90 per cent of particulars had been agreed upon. All of which goes to show the character of the negotiations. It is really an "auction" and the representatives of the nations involved are the greatest traders the world has known. Settlement of the reparations is not immediately bullish on the stock market however. It enhances the necessity for improving the bond market and means that the most powerful bankers will be giving all their time to flotation of German bonds and thereafter they are likely to be most interested in bringing over foreign stocks.

As Anaconda rallied there was considerable talk of the benefits to the Copper industry by the "revival of buying power" abroad following the reparations agreement. However, the pool members who were forced to take the stock are most responsible for its strength and their interest is solely due to desire to get out with as small a loss as possible. Murray Corporation group displayed more aggressiveness. Increased operations at the new plant caused further increase in earnings during April and May income is expected to break all records. Atchison's strength, as well as that of Central and others partly reflected the recent quiet accumulation. These "gold plated" roads can now show real earnings and stop plowing back unwarranted large amounts into property as they no longer need fear recapture. New Haven dividend talk was heard as a result of surprisingly rapid increase in net revenue.

An exceedingly quiet market is expected for the rest of the week. Of course, those voicing such belief keep their fingers crossed as there is no telling what the reserve authorities will do from day to day in their campaign of terror. Many traders plan to leave today and not return to the street until Monday. With the possibility of no increase in the rediscount rate tomorrow afternoon and the probability of a big decline in loans being reported over Decoration Day there should be increased short covering before this holiday exodus takes place.

Fruit and Vegetable Shipments Are Heavy

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—During April there were 9,689 carloads of fruits and vegetables shipped from Texas, by far the largest movement on record, according to Bervard Nichols, of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

In March, 7,624 cars were loaded. The increase from March to April of over 2,000 cars is much larger than can be accounted for by any seasonal factor and indicates the expansion of the truck industry in the state, Nichols said. Shipments for the year to date are 17 per cent above those for the same period of 1928.

FORD INVADES GERMAN SOIL

Hook-Up With Giant Dye Trust Announced

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

BERLIN, May 28. (USB)—Henry Ford has joined forces with I. G. Farben, the 1,000,000,000 mark dye trust and greatest industrial unit in Germany. Ford has turned over 40 per cent of the shares of the German Ford company to the German Dye trust and names Herr Bosch, head of the board of directors of I. G. Farben a member of the board of directors of the German Ford company.

Announcement of this transaction, made in an official communique issued by I. G. Farben tonight, electrified all Germany. It means that Ford's battle against General Motors, which recently purchased the Opel company, Germany's greatest automobile concern, has assumed the major offensive in such proportion that repercussions in America are soon likely to be felt in a marked degree.

Ford's tie-up with I. G. Farben means that America's greatest manufacturer of automobiles, in fighting competition of General Motors, has marshalled the German dye industry against the Dupont interests which control General Motors.

Texas Judge Hangs Up New Record for Day

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 28. (AP)—Judge J. C. Hutcheson Jr. established what was believed to be a record here when he assessed 69 sentences on the opening day of the May term of the federal district court. The sentences were assessed in an all day session a year ago.

The court disposed of 54 cases within two hours when Judge Hutcheson sentenced violators of the immigration laws to the time they had already spent in jail and turned them over to immigration authorities. All the cases were handled at the same time.

THRILL TO THE LURE OF THE OPEN ROAD

Buy a

GOOD USED CAR

It won't be long now until the lure of the open road will "get" you—you'll be wishin'—Instead of thinking about your business you'll be seeking information regarding tourist camps—garages and the like. YES, you'll be wanting to go somewhere—get away for a while.

Ask the wife "where shall we go?" But—when you decide where to go you'll discover (if you're like the rest of us) your pocketbook says "NO!" Why, the tickets alone cost more than you can allow for the entire trip.

Things look mighty blue—then the wife says "Why not buy a used car like the Smith's did last year? They took a trip—and when they returned, remember how enthusiastic, healthy and happy they were?"

That's a bright idea—and it has saved the vacation trip for many a family. You'd better be glancing through the "Automobiles for Sale" Classified Ads in this paper and get yours NOW while there are so many to select from.

WESTERN GANG FUSION BARED

Five Now Held for Oklahoma City Robbery

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 28. (UP) Five persons, including a 55-year-old society widow of Hutchinson, Kan., were held tonight in connection with the $75,000 robbery and shooting of Charles Vowell, 21-year-old American First National bank messenger here last Friday.

Evidence of fusion of gangs of Middle Western cities and the implication of two women in executing the robbery may be disclosed soon, according to Police Chief Charles A. Becker.

After grilling R. B. Thompson, foster son of C. W. "Doc" Thompson, for six hours today, Becker said he knew the identity of at least four other persons he believed connected with the robbery. He also said he thought the robbery had been planned in Kansas City.

Russell Gibson had been held in Kansas City for questioning in the robbery. He was said to have been a friend of R. B. Thompson whose stepfather, a Seminole drug store proprietor, has been identified by five witnesses of the robbery as the bandit who seized the money from the messenger.

Mrs. Minnie Rayl, widow of Hutchinson, Kan., was still held in jail here late today. Officers found about $20,000 of the bank loot in her car when they arrested her returning home from Oklahoma City Sunday.

Mrs. Rayl, a sister of C. W. Thompson, was prominent in Hutchinson society. She was to have entertained a group of friends at her home today. With her in the jail here is Mrs. R. B. Thompson, arrested with her husband in connection with the robbery. Both women were composed and gave no indication of any discomfiture from their surroundings.

The arrest of Mrs. Rayl followed police investigation of an apartment here, said to have been rented by Mrs. Thompson and occupied by Mrs. Rayl prior to her departure for Hutchinson. Burned paper found in the apartment was believed to be wrappers taken from the money.

"Genuine Service" Greatest Factor In Holding Trade, Ad Club Told

Chatham Tells of Growth of Competition in Address; Don Ross Named New President

Growth of other cities and rapid development of transportation facilities have greatly heightened the competition met by Wichita Falls business enterprises in Northwest Texas, making necessary a more aggressive program and closer cooperation here, according to James W. Chatham Jr., manager of the industrial and traffic department of the chamber of commerce, who addressed the Ad club at the Kemp hotel Monday noon.

Through the rapid development of Lubbock, and the perfection of rapid delivery service from Oklahoma City, Fort Worth and Dallas, Mr. Chatham said, the merchant in the South Plains territory is enabled to maintain his stock by ordering frequently in small quantities. This practice precludes the possibility of any given house holding a retail establishment's business over prolonged periods by securing large quantity orders, the speaker said.

"More than 3,500,000 motor trucks have been placed in operation in America since 1918," Mr. Chatham stated, "popularizing that type of transportation through quick delivery, more service, and cheaper rates. Airplane freight lines are just ahead of us, and will further increase the importance of genuine service in building and holding trade.

"Our condition here is basically sound. The smaller towns are seeking our advice, our help, and our friendship. If the cooperation has slowed up anywhere, it is here in our own city."

In the election of officers for the club year beginning in July, Don Ross was named as president; T. C. Scott, first vice president; V. N. Armstrong, second vice president; Malcolm Putty, secretary; Lester Jones, treasurer; T. A. Bradley, M. A. Ellis, H. S. Ford, A. E. Kelly, directors. Holdover directors are P. B. Roberts, J. W. Pyland and H. R. Hanks. Mr. Kelly is the retiring president. Installation of new officers will take place in July.

Guests at the luncheon Tuesday were Mrs. Mary Ann Baccus of station KGKO and Mayor Frank Power of Archer City.

Crowd That Came to Jeer Comeback Of Dot Mackaye Remains to Cheer

Actress' First Appearance Since Leaving San Quentin Prison Brings Plaudits of Audience

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 28. (INS)—Laughter, plaudits and tears, the three great tributes of the stage, belonged to Dorothy Mackaye again today.

She won them by right of conquest, before a crowd that came to jeer and remained to cheer at her first appearance at the Plaza theater here last night.

And "Dot" MacKaye, five months out of San Quentin prison, where she learned the bitterness of tears through nearly a year of lonely nights and drab days, climbed the first rung of the come-back ladder today on a surge of emotions of her own creation.

Play Well Received

"The Dove," Dorothy's come-back vehicle, also the play in which she found fame in New York before she married her husband, Ray Raymond, was more than well received. Encore after encore greeted the actress as the play ran its course, with a profusion of flowers from her admirers adding to the success of her "first night" before the footlights since leaving San Quentin.

They laughed—they cheered—and they wept.

No actress could ask for more and Dorothy MacKaye repaid the packed house in its own coin, with laughter and Spanish love songs, with the tears of the stage and, at the end, with tears that looked real, whether they were or not.

"Walkout" Rumored

There were rumors of an anti-MacKaye demonstration, of booing and a "walkout" before the show opened—rumors that had the management worried—but when Miss MacKaye came on the stage, singing a lilting song of old Mexico, the tenseness broke, ended.

"Everyone was so kind and wonderful," she said backstage, afterwards. "I just had to come through."

Red-haired, 6-year-old "Mimi," her daughter, was in the wings to watch her mother's come-back. "Mimi" wept, too.

Miss MacKaye will play here for two weeks. Then she is going to Los Angeles to seek vindication in the city where the deluge broke some two years ago, when her husband was killed by Paul Kelly in a fist fight which resulted in both of them being sent to San Quentin.

More than 380,000 passengers arrive or depart from Chicago by rail each day. They are carried by 2,050 trains over 23 trunk lines and 15 switching lines.

"HURRY WITH THE SERVICE CAR
THE OIL BROKE DOWN"
DON'T LET THIS HAPPEN TO YOU

STRANDED five miles from nowhere because the oil wouldn't do its job! Has that happened to you? If it has, the chances are that you were not particular the last time you had the crankcase drained—or perhaps you ran too long without changing the oil. This will be a slack summer for service cars if motorists will remember two things: first, to change oil regularly, and secondly, to use only a brand of oil which they know from their own experience or the experience of others will stand up under the most trying conditions of motor operation.

You can depend upon any oil which has the backing of the Continental Oil Company. These are the brands which have been tried and tested—in the laboratory and on the road. They lubricate thoroughly, protect every moving part and stand up under intense heat.

Ask for these brands at leading service stations and garages.

Conoco Motor Oil insures protection. It seals compression—saves gasoline—fights friction. Stands up under most intense cylinder heat. In short, does a complete lubricating job in all kinds of weather.

Ask for the grade made especially for your car.
