STATE TAKING DAY OFF IN FESTIVITIES

GOVERNOR ALLRED IS LEADING TEXAS IN CELEBRATIONS

(By The Associated Press)

Led by Governor James V. Allred, Texans took the day off today to celebrate the Fourth of July in various ways.

At least 15 rodeos, sporting events typical of the western part of the state, were on the list of the day's activities. Chief among these was the annual cowboys reunion at Stamford, where Gov. Allred was equipped with boots, spurs, big hat and a horse.

Will Rogers Drops In

Will Rogers dropped in at the reunion yesterday and made a hand in the arena. Before departing for Claremore, Okla., the cowboy humorist said the rodeo was a "good one."

Another big range classic was at Pecos, where on July 4, 1883, the world's first rodeo was staged.

Other Rodeos Scheduled

Other rodeos were at Olney, Electra, Graham, Henrietta, Lake Pauline, (near Quanah), Sudan, Morton, Canadian, Clarendon, Borger, Hereford, Dalhart and Estelline.

Although plans for Senator Huey Long of Louisiana to speak at Longview didn't work out because the senator had pressing business across the state line, a share-the-wealth speech was on the program in that East Texas town, The Rev. G. K. Smith, share-the-wealth organizer, was the speaker.

TEXAS GIRL DIES IN CAR TRAGEDY

GREENVILLE, July 4. (AP)—Apparently frightened when the automobile in which she rode careened into a bridge railing, Miss Ruth Wright, 20, of Paris, leaped from the machine and was killed near Royse City early today.

Maurice McElreath of Greenville, Miss Wright's companion, said he was temporarily blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile and swerved his automobile into the bridge railing.

McElreath, Miss Mirian Bougher and H. W. English, jr., other occupants of the automobile, said Miss Wright believed the car would overturn and jumped. She died instantly of a fractured skull.

The automobile struck the bridge but was righted by McElreath. Those remaining in the machine were not injured.

Miss Ione Wright of Paris, came here to make funeral arrangements for her sister. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Wright of Paris. Funeral services and burial will be held at Paris.

Firecracker Causes Hop Postponement

NEW YORK, July 4. (AP)—A firecracker indirectly caused Miss Laura Ingalls to postpone today her attempt to set a new transcontinental airplane speed record.

Not long before she was to take off the aviatrix announced that she had temporarily given up the attempt, principally because anti-tetanus serum had made her ill. She also was influenced by reports of bad weather in the western part of the nation, she said.

She had been unmindful of the pain in her foot which was struck by a carelessly thrown firecracker, but the burn necessitated the anti-tetanus injection.

LIBERTY HELD FOREMOST IN SPEECHES

STATE'S RIGHTS AND INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY ARE UPHELD

(By The Associated Press)

Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and former President Herbert Hoover centered Fourth of July remarks against policies of the Roosevelt administration in speeches today at celebrations in Canton, Ga., and Grass Valley, Calif., respectively.

Governor Talmadge raised the issue of state's rights in a bitter speech against the administration while Mr. Hoover declared "preservation of individual liberty is the mission of America."

Returns To Early Scenes

Returning to the scenes of his early career as a student mining engineer, Mr. Hoover in a prepared talk praised the American concept of liberty as voiced in The Declaration of Independence and The Constitution and warned his audience that a worldwide attack upon individual liberty had reached a crisis.

"America has today a transcendent mission to civilization far beyond our own safety," he declared. "It is our high duty to hold bright the light of individual liberty. From that light alone can come the material and spiritual redemption of mankind."

FRAIL OLD DOCUMENT, OVER WHICH WE CELEBRATE TODAY, NOT TO BE MOVED FROM OLD RESTING PLACE

* * * * * * * * * *

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—On this Fourth of July the word went out that the frail old Declaration of Independence will not be moved again after all.

Although a glittering new archives building has been built to hold state papers, congressmen, librarians and archivists have agreed, it is said, to leave the declaration in its "shrine" at the Library of Congress, along with the Constitution.

To the second floor of the Library of Congress, 2,000 or 3,000 visitors go every day to peer through protecting yellow glass at the two historic documents.

The constitution, inlaid in a marble table, is still easy to read. But The Declaration of Independence, encased in the wall over the table, is almost illegible.

MONARCHISTS JUBILANT AND SCHEMES LAID FOR RETURN

BY ALVIN J. STEINKOPF
Associated Press Foreign Staff

VIENNA, July 4.—The ancient Hapsburg monarchy took a long stride on the comeback trail today after the Austrian cabinet voted to restore properties of the old royal family.

Monarchists were jubilant and set afoot numerous schemes to further the move for assumption of the throne by the youthful "Kaiser Otto I."

Hasten To Castle

Several royalist leaders hastened for Steenockerzeel castle in Belgium, where the 22-year-old Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Austrian throne, is living with his family.

There was note of caution, however, in the exultation of the legitimists. Having waited 17 years for an opportunity to revive the monarchy which fell with Emperor Carl in 1918, they do not wish to fail now.

The deepest concern felt by the sponsors for a restoration was over the reaction abroad to the movement.

An impression prevailed that the attitude of the Little Entente na-

LOUISIANA IS CELEBRATING FOURTH BY PREPARING FOR MORE "DICTATORSHIP" FROM THE KINGFISH; SESSION CALLED

(By The Associated Press)

Long hopped aboard an airplane yesterday and sped to New Orleans to take direct charge of state affairs.

He was asked if he would legislate Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans out of office.

"I don't know," he answered. "I haven't decided yet."

Long said the assembly, the third this year under martial law here, would provide funds to pay salaries of New Orleans police and firemen and would furnish money for street construction and maintenance in

AAA COUNTING ON CONGRESS FOR AID

SUITS SEEKING TAXES RECOVERY CLAUSE OF WORRY

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 4—The AAA is counting on legislation now before congress to turn back a rising tide of suits to recover processing taxes which the government levies to finance its crop control programs.

The AAA amendments, now pending in the senate, provide that in case the farm act is declared unconstitutional, taxes which the processors have paid cannot be recovered.

Jones Issues Statement

On Capitol Hill Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the house agriculture committee, pointed to this provision, and said:

"So it's not going to do them a bit of good to rush in with all these suits now. They can't hope to get decisions before the amendments are enacted, and the bill applies as well to pending suits as to new ones."

Passed To Consumers

The AAA contends that the taxes in most cases have been passed on to consumers and would be impossible to trace for proper repayment to those who actually bore the burden.

Processors, however, declare the taxes seldom have thus been passed on. They insist they can show to the dollar how much they are out of pocket because of the levies.

The department of justice made public an incomplete list of 56 suits attacking processing taxes. The list was compiled as of June 27. Seth Thomas, solicitor for the department of agriculture, said he understood that 85 suits have been filed altogether. About 15 temporary restraining orders have been grant-

Mrs. Katherine Smith, grand recorder of Mooseheart, recommended that the Columbia bounty idea be extended to every local chapter.

WHEELER SAYS FDR TO KILL MEASURE

"DEATH SENTENCE" IS REASON FOR ACTION FROM PRESIDENT

BY PRESTON L. GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 4—A new prediction that the utilities bill probably will be vetoed if it goes to President Roosevelt without the "death sentence" for holding companies was made today. This development occurred as opposing forces prepared for another conflict on the measure Monday.

"I am morally certain," said Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont) of the senate interstate commerce committee, "that the president will veto the bill if it is sent up to him without the death sentence."

Wheeler is a sponsor of the bill which passed the senate in a form satisfactory to the administration. The house, however, struck out a provision for mandatory abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies and voted to give the securities commission discretionary authority to kill them or let them live.

New Conflict To Start

Beginning next Monday a new conflict will start. Opponents of the death sentence will try to have the senate concur in the house amendments immediately. Wheeler and the other administration forces hope to send the legislation to a conference of senators and representatives in an effort to obtain a result more satisfactory to Mr. Roosevelt.

Meanwhile two investigations of "lobbying" for and against the bill were shaping up. Speaker Byrns said that an inquiry which the house rules committee will open Monday will be "full, fair, thorough and im-

TWO HELENS IN TENNIS FINALS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 4. (AP)—For the third time since 1929, Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody today battled their way into the final round of the All-England Tennis championships.

Miss Jacobs played some of the finest tennis of her career to eliminate the 3 to 1 favorite, Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany, 6-3, 6-0, while Mrs. Moody, six-times winner of the Wimbledon crown, swept aside Joan Hartigan, top-ranking Australian, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody, playing in her first major tournament since a back injury forced her to default to Miss Jacobs in the third set of the American championship finals of 1933, thus gained the Wimbledon final round for the seventh time in her career. She was beaten for the title by Kitty McKane of Great Britain in 1924, then defeated Senorita Ella De Alvarez of Spain in 1927 and 1928; Miss Jacobs in 1929 and 1932; Elizabeth Ryan in 1930 and Dorothy Round in 1933.

Miss Jacobs never has won the title but has reached the final round three times previously. In addition to her defeats by Mrs. Moody in 1929 and 1932, the current United States champion was beaten by Miss Round in the championship round here last summer.

The demands were said to include insistence on a government apology and punishment for persons responsible.

Vets In Amarillo May Hear President

WASHINGTON, July 4. (AP)—Representative Jones (D-Tex) has announced President Roosevelt would address the United Confederate Veterans reunion in Amarillo, Tex., in September either in person or by telephone and radio. Jones talked briefly with the president.

The Texan said this was the first time a president had been invited to speak at a Confederate veterans' meeting.

PLAN FIELD TRIALS

SAN ANTONIO, July 4. (AP)—Members of the Lone Star Bird Dog association of this city have started plans for next year's field trials by joining the Capital City Field Trial club in leasing the 14,000-acre Edgar Martin ranch near Goliad, H. J. Patterson, secretary of the association, announced.

A liberal supply of Mexican quail has been added to the numerous coveys already inhabiting the ranch. Insuring an abundance for the trials to be held in January.

Would Parole Texas Felons To Citizens

BRADY, July 4. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred has declared he intended to ask the established luncheon clubs in each county to appoint a board comprised of prominent citizens to whom he could parole worthy convicts.

Allred, speaking at a luncheon given in his honor by Brady business men, scored the policy he said had been pursued in the past of issuing paroles and conditional pardons without ever checking up on the deportment of paroled convicts. He said he believed most properly paroled convicts will go straight if placed under the right influence.

INDIANS TAKE TEXAS LOOP LEADERSHIP

GALVESTON BUCS DROP TO SECOND WITH TULSA CLOSE

(By The Associated Press)

The Oklahoma City Indians lead the Texas league pennant race today, taking the lead from the flashy Galveston Buccaneers as the result of yesterday's play.

A 6 to 1 Oklahoma City victory over Fort Worth and a 3 to 1 decision San Antonio won over Galveston elevated the Indians to first place and pushed the Bucs down one notch. In third place was the threatening Tulsa Oilers, who hold a good percentage despite a 3 to 1 loss to Dallas last night.

Hits Plentiful

Red Evans, ace Oklahoma City hurler, was nicked for nine hits, including three-baggers by Weiss and Epps, while Wistert, pitching for Fort Worth, was hammered for six hits and five runs in the seven innings he pitched before he was replaced by Milstead.

"Pay Day" Abe Miller turned in a one-man job of defeating Galveston. He scattered four hits and clouted two doubles and a single to lead the Missions to their victory. Miller decisioned Eddie Cole, hard-luck right-hander of the Buc squad, who allowed nine hits.

Dallas Wins

Dallas ripped into Tulsa's cherished hopes of the league lead as John Berly turned in a fine job of hurling that was more than Matuzak and Selway could match. Berly's sharp-breaking curves set the Oilers down with seven hits and blank them after being nicked for a run in the first inning.

Joseph T. Hare pitched one of his best games of the season to lead the Houston Buffs to a 2 to 1 win over the Beaumont Exporters. He limited the Buffs to four hits, one a double by Padget.

BOUTS ARE TO OPEN HERE

ELIMINATION TO START NEXT TUESDAY IN BOXING MEET

Local officials of the Texas Amateur Athletic federation announced yesterday that preliminary bouts in the local elimination process to determine representatives to regional and state tournaments in the T. A. A. F. boxing championship would begin here next Tuesday night.

As a result of a meeting here of amateur boxers, twenty-four registrations were recorded, and ten matches scheduled for next Tuesday night. All amateur fighters of Lubbock and vicinity are invited to register. The elimination tournament will be directed by A. S. McKown and will be conducted according to the rules of the T.A.A.F.

Is Former Fighter

McKown is a former amateur and professional boxer of Fort Worth, San Antonio and Austin. He has handled previous tournamen' in the central and southern parts of the state. He invites communications from boxers interested in competing in the elimination tournament here. His mail address is 2106 20th street here, telephone number 2324. He may be interviewed daily at 4 o'clock p. m. at the Texas Tech gymnasium, where workouts are being conducted under his supervision.

It is planned to make Lubbock a district center in the state elimination tournaments. Winners in their respective weight divisions here will compete in a regional tournament, and from there to the state finals at San Antonio late in August.

From Here To Region

Francis Cunningham of San Antonio, state manager of the 1935 tournament, has announced Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, El Paso and San Antonio as regional centers. Winners in the Lubbock tournament probably will compete next at Fort Worth.

"This T.A.A.F. boxing tournament is being conducted upon one of the most pretentious plans of any past federation project," Koger Stokes, president of the T.A.A.F., said. "It will bring together representatives of every section of the state, with contestants numbering in the hundreds. Every recognized weight division will be represented."

Hunting, Fishing In Mexico Halted

EAGLE PASS, July 4. (AP)—Hunting and fishing in northern Mexico has been strictly prohibited to foreigners as well as Mexican citizens, an order received by the game warden of Piedras Negras reveals. A permit to export 10,000 Bob White quail to the United States also was canceled indefinitely.

TEXAS TECH ATHLETES AND A. B. C. TO TANGLE IN DONKEY BASEBALL TILT AT COLLEGE PARK; TO BE CRAZY GOINGS

There'll be crazy goings on at the College Avenue baseball field this afternoon when the Texas Tech football players meet the American Business club in a donkey baseball game, feature athletic event on Lubbock's Fourth of July program.

The game goes on at 6 o'clock, probably for five innings or as long as the players are able to mount the bucking burros.

Captain Walker Nichols of the Texas Tech forces predicted glorious victory for the footballers, suggesting that they had been spilled on their respective, ah, er—shoulders so frequently by 200-pound tackles and heavy fullbacks that a few falls, more or less, from the withers of a donkey won't make much difference.

Chief hope of the ABC'ers lay with such men as Bert Pinson, and others whose long legs provide them with extra braces since they can drag their feet along the ground. Captain Dutch Wiginton of the American Business club and his right hand man, Bruce Craig, were hopeful, however, of giving the athletes a run for the donkeys.

A squad of imported burros, brought here by representatives of a syndicate which makes a business of providing donkeys for donkey baseball games, were paraded through the downtown streets yesterday in a large trailer. Some of them appear to be rather cantankerous animals. They are especially trained for this crazy game, but not in the right way.

The game is played with a large playground ball, an oversize bat and enough donkeys to serve as mounts for outfielders, infielders and base runners. The field corresponds in size to the ordinary softball diamond, except that bases are large, marked off circles providing space for an infielder and a base runner.

Only the pitcher and the catcher remain unmounted. The batsman hits from the usual position, then climbs aboard the waiting donkey. Sometimes he's waiting, that is; sometimes, the batter has to run him down.

Then the race for first base begins. The cause looks hopeless for the batsman in most instances, because the donkey may head toward third base or center field, or he may stand perfectly still and refuse to budge under any amount of coaxing, or he may give a demonstration of a wild mustang in a western rodeo.

Meanwhile the fielder is having his troubles. He may dismount to recover the batted ball, provided he gets his donkey to the spot. He has to remount before throwing to first. The first sacker may catch the ball on the ground, but must be on his burro in order to make the putout. Unlike baseball, the hit and run and put-out play may require much more time than it does to describe it.

BURRO BASEBALL this afternoon at 6 o'clock on the College Avenue field. It's the big Fourth of July attraction here, so don't miss it.

Even if it were not July 4, you shouldn't miss it. Ask the folks who saw the game last year. It's a parody on the national pastime, to be sure, but different enough to be a game in itself. And it's just about the most comical game going.

Opposing teams this afternoon are the Double-T club of Texas Tech and the American Business club of this city. The donkeys are provided by a traveling organization which makes a business of providing donkeys.

If you have never seen a donkey baseball game, you may be just about as skeptical as this fan was when grunion hunting was first described to him, as unbelieving as the two readers who saw our account of the West Coast sport. But it's real-la a fact, donkey baseball, just a grunion hunting is a fact. The burros do many strange things. Sometimes they even settle down and run bases, or chase fly balls when properly propelled, but more often they run the other way, throw the riders or balk like a mule.

There's nothing exactly flashy or fast about a donkey game, because there's nothing much colorful about a donkey. You'd think that the game would be a series of putouts after you see a batter swat the oversize pellet, mount his donkey and try to get to first base. The baselines are short, as in the ordinary softball game, but it takes a mighty long time for some donkey's to make it, if they ever do. But the score is evened on the defense. The fielders have no more advantage than the batsman, if as much, because they've got to ride after the batted ball, dismount and pick it up, remount and throw or bring it to first. Som fon, eh kid!

SWITCHING FROM THE ridiculous of baseball to the more aesthetic side of the pastime, we wish to remind you again that there is to be a baseball tournament, the hard kind, here beginning one week from Sunday.

To make the tournament a success, much more will be required than a lot of newspaper stories, eight or ten teams, Umpire Sled Allen and a bunch of balls and bats. You Charley Middletons, John Dalrymples, Judge Raleys and the rest of you dyed-in-the-wool baseball fans must be out there, and bring a lot of folks with you.

Not only is your presence required for just this tournament, but for the future of baseball, if any, in Lubbock. There is a chance, a pretty fair chance, of Lubbock obtaining a first class ball park within the next year. If there is good attendance out at the prairie park for this tournament, plans for a fenced in field and some sort of grandstand and will be speeded considerably.

The tournament management is not asking anything of the fans and business men except their moral support and attendance. Of course if you want to put up some prizes, like Doc Cook at the Brodaway Pharmacy and Sam Rosenthal at the Hub Clothiers and others, voluntary and of your own free will, that's positively hunky dory. You'll get credit for it, it will help the tournament, and prove that baseball interest here is not all dead.

Doc Cook is, putting up three prizes, all unsolicited. The player in the tournament slapping out the most hits gets a new bill fold. The player hammering the most home runs gets a shaving set, and the pitcher credited with the least number of hits in any game, provided he goes the route, gets a malted milk and a sandwich every day. These all come from Cook's place. Rosenthal, sponsor of the Lubbock team, is giving a shirt to the pitcher winning the most games in the tournament, and a pair of sox to each of ten members of the championship club.

In addition to the prizes mentioned above, Cook, former manager of the Wilson ball club and now one of Lubbock's most ardent baseball supporters, offers malted milks each day to twelve members of each team which wins its game that day. This offer is made in connection with Doc's presentation of malted milks to the Lubbock Hub Clothiers every time they win a game, at home or away, or to any team which defeats the Clothiers on the home field. That's pretty generous of Mr. Cook. It'll cost him several shekels before this tournament is over.

A NUMBER OF LOCAL golfers are trudging the links of Abilene and Clovis this week in quest of tournament honors. Manson Allen, Clinton Bussey, Edgar Doherty, Joe Bihl, John Bell and John Edmisson, possibly others, are at Abilene. Today is official qualifying day for the Abilene Invitation tournament. Jo Dick Slaughter, Alfred Holton, winner of Meadowbrook's championship last Sunday, and J. K. Bradshaw, runner up to Holton, are in Clovis. Bradshaw, co-medalist here last week with Holton, qualified at Clovis with a 72, one over par, to lead the early medal race in a tie with Shorty Hornbuckle, defending champion of the New Mexico-West Texas open tournament which gets under way today.

This is quite a representative group of Lubbock golfers. On Abilene's grass greens, they may not get so far, but the tournament experience will do them a lot of good. They play on sand at Clovis, and some of the local sharpshooters may bring home a large slice of the bacon. Lubbock has its quota of good golfers. Could they play on grass greens and fairways at home, they would be among the state's strongest contenders for tournament honors anywhere.

MARVEL BESTS LA RUE IN MAT TILT

CLEVER WRESTLER IS LOSER WITH MAN WITH THE HOOD

The artistic Masked Marvel, undefeated mat phenom of the Southwestern circuit, cut another notch in his victory belt last night, at the same time letting the belt out a notch to relieve a very sore tummy.

The man with the hood defeated Long John La Rue, clever leg wrestler from Dallas, in the third fall of their main event at Sled Allen's arena, but the Dallas Daddy Long-Legs took his share of the plaudits by wrapping his lower limbs, which are longer than most persons can draw a straight line, and crushed the Marvel's abdomen something awful with as effective a hook scissors ever demonstrated here.

So La Rue won the second fall in 24 minutes of good, clean wrestling. A family gathering of fans, who came out chiefly to see Cyclone Mackey who didn't show up, saw La Rue, as a hopeless case at first, but fickle fandom rushed to La Rue's support in that neat second round.

Marvel Wins Opener

The Marvel won the first fall in fairly rapid order, 14 minutes to be exact, after they had twisted each other's arms and legs for a while.

La Rue came back with fire in his eyes, and in the second fall accomplished a double feat. First, he caught the Marvel's left arm in a fine stretch, blocking off the Unknown's body with an upper arm scissors and pulling on the limb with might and main, meanwhile working hard on a wrist lock. With this, he held the Marvel longer than any other man has held him with a single hold in the local ring. He gained and lost this hold three times, after swinging on for five minutes the first time. Then he started working on the Marvel's midriff.

Cowboy La Rue

The way he did it was this: John would take a full nelson, then swing his legs around the Marvel's middle, hooking one leg with the other, and bringing many pounds of pressure to bear across the solar plexus. He fixed this several times and the Marvel rowed for the ropes, with John sitting astride him like a cowboy. After so many trips to the edge, La Rue began riding herd on the Marvel, blindfolding him and guiding him to mid-ring. The gasping Marvel gave it up in 24 minutes.

La Rue started the same tactics in the third fall, dodging the Marvel's flying heels and shoulders. He got the hook scissors, all right, and started riding again, but the Marvel suddenly whipped backward, fell with all his strength on his back—and La Rue was on the bottom, his shoulders on the mat. It was over in nine minutes.

Michael, Castle Draw

Red Michael, Pampa youth, subbed for Mackey, and rastled with Bob Castle for 30 minutes and a semi-final draw. Castle, too much of a man for the less experienced but hustling Michael, carried the youngster the route, managing to make a pretty fair fight out of it. Michael made up in hustle and fighting spirit what he lacked in ring wisdom and strength.

Pat Dowdy, official Arena referee, spilled young Buddy Harrison of Littlefield in 16 minutes, 30 seconds of the preliminary with a crotch slam and body smother.

BATTLE BETWEEN INDIANS AND TIGERS GIVES YANKEES CHANCE TO BUILD UP LEAD LIKE THEIR NEIGHBORS, GIANTS

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The current battle between the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians offers a golden—or at least gilded—opportunity for the Yankees to build up a lead in the American league race which will resemble the one their townsmen, the Giants, already have acquired in the National.

At the traditional turning post of the season the Yanks have only three games for a lead as compared to the Giants' 8 1-2, but if the Tigers and Indians can belt each other equally, the margin should grow rapidly.

Turn Back A's

The Yanks continued their swift pace yesterday when they turned back the Athletics 2 to 0 in a brilliant pitching duel between Johnny Allen and Roy Mahaffey, but the Tigers kept pace with their third straight triumph over Cleveland, 11 to 7.

The western teams staged a highly promising slugfest as the Indians belted Vic Sorrell out in two innings only to have the Tigers come back with a four-run burst that sent Oral Hildebrand to the showers. Cleveland tied the score in the seventh, but Detroit's continued heavy hitting plus Roy Hughes' third and fourth errors made it easy at the finish.

Lazzeri Hits Homer

The Yanks and Athletics made only nine hits, the odd one going to Philadelphia, but one Yankee blow was a homer by Tony Lazzeri and another produced the second tally while Allen kept out of difficulty with eight strikeouts.

Chicago cut Cleveland's third-place margin to a game by bowling over St. Louis 5 to 3 on Ray Phelps's five-hit flinging and a homer by George Washington. The Red Sox slashed out 15 hits to beat Washington 14 to 7.

Homers Decide Games

In the National league, the Phillies outlasted the Giants in a ten-inning pitching and home run hitting duel 4 to 3 while the Reds went the same distance to turn back the second place Cubs by a like count.

Each game was decided by a homer. Curt Davis of the Phils won his own game with a homer off Carl Hubbell after Dolph Camilli had smashed his 16th of the season and Hank Leiber had hit his eleventh to tie the score. Ernie Lombardi turned the trick for Cincinnati to render Paul Derringer's three-hit hurling effective and give the pitcher his eleventh victory.

Van Mungo of Brooklyn also won his eleventh as the Dodgers crashed out 18 hits to beat the Braves 13 to 6.

NATIONAL A. A. U. MEET ON TODAY; NEGROES TO RUN

(By The Associated Press)

LINCOLN, Neb., July 4. — The annual assault on National A. A. U. and world track and field records, impressively launched by junior athletes, reached a crashing climax today as the star-studded senior field, topped by Ralph Metcalfe and Jesse Owens, assembled for the big drive.

The long awaited sprint duel between Metcalfe, the defending champion from Marquette university, and the Ohio sensation was crowded for the spotlight, however, by the effort of San Francisco's Olympic club which won team honors in the junior events yesterday to take the team championship away from the New York Athletic club, and by more than half dozen other events in which records were perilled.

Their First Clash This Year

When Metcalfe and Owens meet it will be their first clash this year on an outdoor track and the Marquette Comet will be seeking his third consecutive grand slam in the sprints.

TECH TRIP TO CAVERN SET

RESERVATIONS SHOULD BE MADE TODAY FOR ANNUAL EXCURSION

Reservations for a bus trip to Carlsbad, N. M., where Texas Technological college students can go through Carlsbad caverns Saturday morning as guests of the government, are to be made this afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock in Cecil Horne's office at the college.

At least 30 or 40 students will leave the college Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock and will return Saturday night. The trip was announced Wednesday.

T. C. Root, assistant professor of economics and business administration, will be in charge.

From 30 to 40 students attended a meeting south of the administration building Wednesday afternoon, called by Dean J. M. Gordon, who presided.

Several students plan to go in cars and join the party in Carlsbad. The city will be host at a swimming party Friday evening.

Round trip bus rate is $5 and Carlsbad hotels will give special rates.

The college sponsored a trip to the caverns last year.

Educators Called Into Gathering

The Texas Association of Colleges executive committee is to meet Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Texas hotel in Fort Worth, Dean J. M. Gordon of Texas Technological college, association president, called the meeting.

Program, place and time of the 1936 association meeting will be decided. Time of the meeting, usually conducted in April, probably will not be until June, since it is planned for the meeting to be conducted during the Texas centennial, Dean Gordon said.

Other members of the committee are Dean J. K. McLemore, Paris Junior college; Dean Alfred H. Nolle, Southwest Texas State Teachers college; President W. W. Jackson, Westmoorland college and Dean D. M. Wiggins of Hardin-Simmons university.

Tempus Fidgets

ELLIJAY, Ga. — To ask the time of day here is to invite an argument.

Ordinarily this seat of Gilmer county goes by central standard time, but the city council recently approved daylight saving time for the summer and then neglected to announce its decision officially.

Now the situation is in a muddle. On the top floor of the court house, district relief offices abide by standard time. Trains go by "slow" time, a drug store by "fast" time.

A hotel gets around the difficulty by serving two dinners. Many establishments use two clocks.

Design For Stealing

OKLAHOMA CITY — John Miller, negro, sentenced to 30 days in jail for taking a shotgun from his landlord, offered this reason:

"I took it so it wouldn't get anybody in trouble."

Sooner Millionaire Gets Applications

DUNCAN, Okla., July 4. (AP)—An avalanche of letters from job-hunters have descended upon Millionaire Erle P. Halliburton as his one man fight against what he calls "the dole" drew nationwide attention.

"I can't hire all of them," was Halliburton's comment as he turned from a pile of applications to three large stacks of communications both lauding and condemning him.

Halliburton—a slight, alert individual who once flew through a storm "to find out how it felt"—drew the mountain of mail by proclaiming that no person who has accepted relief can work in his interprises.

Woman Seeks Sum For Her Devotion

PITTSBURGH, July 4. (AP)—Mary G. Brown, described by her attorney as a comely light-haired woman in her forties, has asked $600,000 in court for six years of devotion which she said she gave the late Harry J. Parker, 76-year-old millionaire oilman.

She charged Parker promised to marry her in 1928, then changed his mind and agreed to leave her that sum on his death, less any amounts she received about her maintenance.

Allotment Is Given For Soil Projects

Allotment of $16,226 to Lubbock county by the state relief commission for soil erosion control was announced Wednesday.

The county agent's office here had not been informed of the allotment. It was not learned what projects were contemplated. The Associated Press, at Austin, reported the work would employ three men 42 days.

The commission also appropriated $3,387.38 for livestock feed distribution and street improvement in Lamb county. Work for 56 men 30 days is anticipated.

The phonograph still is very popular in India, the Bombay district alone importing $150,000 worth of phonographs, parts and supplies annually.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says clothes don't make the man but they can break the husband.

Oh, well. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Just think what a big help today's accidents will be to the doctors and hospitals!

SEEKING about for a patriotic message for today's stint, The Plainsman suddenly remembered Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

For the benefit of those who have forgotten their book larnin', Lincoln's memorable speech on the Pennsylvania battlefield was not made on July Fourth. It didn't even refer to the American revolution.

It was made in November of 1863, when the Gettysburg battlefield was formally dedicated as a soldiers' cemetery. But a part of it might well have suited July Fourth that year and it certainly suits the American Spirit of Independence of today.

Note this excerpt from the famous oration:

"But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate — we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us — that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain — that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Let us read that over again, and consider that what Lincoln called "this ground" means the entire of the United States.

Let us suppose that he referred to all the nation's heroes of all the nation's wars, and all our years of peace, instead of the opposing hosts of the Gray and the Blue who fought the battle of Gettysburg.

And then let us look at it as if Lincoln were making that speech today and instead of referring to a war of arms, he referred to the American war against economic depression.

Then we see how the Gettysburg address fits the problem which the nation faces today.

The Plainsman has not the slighest doubt that depression has brought heroism as laudable as any brought by any war.

Neither does he think any true American should forget, as our nation is being renovated—and to a large extent, reconstructed — the patriotic service of those generations who have gone before and who have carved from a wilderness the greatest nation the world has ever seen.

As we shake the shackles of duress from our body politic, as we prepare to carry the torch of Americanism onward and upward, may we remember those last few lines of Lincoln's address:

". . . This nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth!"

IF you've heard this one, just try to stop me! It is the story of the old woman in the Piney Woods of East Texas whose feet had been toughened by a lifetime of shoelessness.

She was standing in front of her cabin fireplace one evening when her old husband addressed her.

"Mammy," he said, "you'd better move your foot a mite. You're a-standin' on a live ember".

"Which foot, Paw?" she inquired, laconically.

That Man on Avenue Q says no matter how low the dollar may fall it'll never fall lower than some people will stoop to get it.

The peculiarity about any law is the amazing amount of breakage it can undergo and still exist.

OPPONENTS of divorce will get a kick out of this. Up in Washington the other day the question arose of making it easier for discomfited mates to renounce their marriage vows. One Joseph William Neale, a leader in the fight against more liberal regulation, told a house

A Day In July---159 Years Ago!

Tell Your Movie Stars By Their Mustaches; Lip-Lapping Soup-Straining Variety Replaced By Personality Growths

BY DAN THOMAS
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 4.—Originally cultivated to insure purity in soups, hirsute lip adornments (plain old mustaches to you) have been converted into personality detectors.

And for this you can blame Hollywood.

Perhaps current styles are more decorative. But they're certainly not as practical.

Hearken back, for example, to the days when Chester Conklin was moviedom's principal devotee of upper lip adornment. There was a mustache! Only the clearest of soups could possibly have been strained through a Conklin plumage.

But Jack Oakie, for instance, could eat the creamiest soups without bothering—the modern streamlined tuft he has sprouted. Designed to capture beautiful maidens, it hasn't a single practical merit—unless you term knocking the ladies for a loop practical. Out here it's considered expensive.

They Tell Character

Then there's the similar but less sweeping fringe which Gary Cooper has been nursing of late. About the only reason for such an ornament is that it adds age and dignity to its wearer. And who the heck wants to look old and dignified?

Douglas Dumbrille comes closer to getting real use out of his plummage. It gets him plenty of jobs. Full grown, and with waxed, upturned ends, it immediately stamps him as an evil person. And, since the movies must have some way of telling audiences which character to hiss, he gets considerable work.

Any sort of a curve at the ends of a mustache, it seems, indicates unpleasantness of some sort. Take Warner Oland's, for instance. It turns down around the corners of his mouth. And the moment you see it you know there's going to be trouble of some sort.

Chaplin's Stands Alone

And don't forget Charlie Chaplin's stubby little prop tuft. If such an ornament has any use other than scratching an itchy nose, I've been unable to find it.

For complete facial decoration, however, all prizes go to Carl Brisson. The "your own mother wouldn't know you" mane he wore in "All the King's Horses" might actually come in handy. Behind such a growth even a Hugh Herbert could look stately.

All of these uses are superficial, though — created mainly to make life easier for Hollywood scenario writers. They stamp a character with a mustache and then quit worrying about him.

But maybe, just maybe, our ease-loving scenarists are due for a jolt. Conklin and his famous walrus mustache are with us again. And the other day I noticed Dick Powell and Joe E. Brown casting envious glances at his shrubbery.

Maybe they'll start a new vogue by joining his clan. If they do—they can both go to the South Seas.

Lining Up No. 5

Don't be surprised to hear almost any time now that Kay Francis has signed away her freedom to Delmar Daves. He's a screen writer and will be her fifth husband. While there was much talk about Kay's supposed romance with Maurice Chevalier during her recent European jaunt, whispered reports are that the real reason for the voyage was to break off a secret romance with a wealthy Italian, so she would be free to wed Daves.

Serious Occupation

A studio official on his way to a projection room to look at a special newsreel stopped at Eddie Cantor's dressing room and and asked him to go along.

"I can't possibly do it," said Eddie, who was working on the story for his next picture. "We're right in the middle of approaching a joke."

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

CELEBRATION—AND ITS POSSIBLE PRICE

While Americans everywhere today are celebrating the grand and glorious Fourth by overturning their automobiles, running into other cars and over pedestrians, drowning and blowing off their fingers with firecrackers, there lies in a Cleveland hospital a famous young man who would, if he could, warn the whole nation to be careful.

It isn't often that a big league baseball player can offer an object lesson in favor of a safe and sane Independence Day, but Earl Averill, star outfielder for Cleveland's Indians, has done just that.

Averill was setting off big firecrackers for his children the other day and one of them failed to go off as scheduled. Brightly, he picked it up to relight it—and the inevitable happened. The thing went off and mangled his hand so badly that it almost put an end his great baseball career.

It is a little late to offer warnings but even so, hundreds of Lubbock and South Plains kiddies—and their dads—will have fireworks to fool with between the time today's Journal is read and the Fourth is over.

Remember Earl Averill—and hundreds of other holiday victims—and be careful.

It's all right to celebrate the nation's birthday, but there's no sense in paying too great a price for the celebration.

Dutchers' News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 4 — Their nimble minds leaping far ahead, certain New Dealers who usually reflect what the White House thinks already are looking forward to the next session of Congress.

"With the tax bill out of the way," they say, "we won't be needing any more legislation.

"Next winter and spring, right up to the national conventions, we can concentrate on investigations and let them have the limelight."

The investigations especially referred to are the Senate's inquiry into railroad financing and reorganizations, the Federal Communications Commission's investigation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and an investigation of investment trusts by the Securities and Exchange Commission, authorized in the public utilities-holding company bill through a provision few persons have noticed.

The Senate munitions committee this fall will have hearings on World War financing — and war propaganda, if any—by Morgan and other international bankers and will be ready to report soon after Congress meets in January.

The political implication of these and other investigations should be as obvious to the rest of us as to the New Dealers. They all hit at the Wall Street-Big Business interests which are at war with the administration.

Each of the four inquiries mentioned leads to the Morgan door at Broad and Wall.

They are bound to produce plenty of ammunition for an administration displaying an increasing eagerness to picture the next political campaign as a battle between "the people and" plutocracy. At least, so the New Dealers anticipate.

Scandal Stirs SEC Fears

Agitation inside the Securities and Exchange Commission has been much greater than anyone would admit since arrest in New York of a former $6500-a-year SEC investigator charged with attempting to sell out the SEC case against an oil stock broker for $27,500.

One group is demanding more rigid standards for personnel and close scrutiny of many already hired. The man arrested had asked the oil broker for a job for another SEC employe who presumably was in on the deal.

Rumors of Wall Street "spies" and "fixers" alleged to be on the SEC payroll have been common here for months.

The "inside" group revolving around Chairman Joe Kennedy is also disturbed. It hopes the news won't leak into the newspapers that the prisoner, when hired by SEC, was known to have been a pool operator for a famous New York brokerage house.

In defense of Kennedy, who himself once played in pools, it is said that he felt sympathetic for the fellow at a time when the latter had been having bad luck.

On all sides, there's intense interest in the question whether the detectophone records of the prisoner's statements to the broker, taken down just before his arrest and referring to certain SEC officials, will be produced publicly.

One More Blank

SEC investigators have been quietly assigned to trace what is commonly supposed to have been an advance leak on Roosevelt's tax message which enabled individuals in Washington and New York to make a stock market cleanup.

Net result so far: A sensational rumor.

Wife's Welfare First

Death of Mrs. Owen D. Young recalls an inside story, seemingly authentic, as to why Mr. Young wasn't available as a candidate for the Democratic nomination in 1932 at a time when anti-Roosevelt forces could have made good use of him.

The story, never published, was that Young would under no circumstances enter a presidential campaign because Mrs. Young was suffering from an illness from which she wouldn't recover.

It's just possible that Young's presence among the 1932 entries, or his availability as a dark horse, might have given the "stop-Roosevelt" forces enough added strength to win.

He might even have been the nominee and the present president of the United States.

ENEMY'S KISS

by Evelyn M. Winch

SYNOPSIS: Guy Westurn has come chivalrously to the aid of Alison Rede when, through Daphne Sumers' "mistake," Alison has been sent alone to Daphne's lonely Sussex house. Now Daphne is trying to persuade Alison's father, whom she is about to marry, that there was something wrong in Guy's actions. Alison is grief-stricken at the thought of having such a woman as Daphne gaining control of her easy-going father.

Chapter 19
DAPHNE'S SUCCESS

"Don't worry," he soothed. "She's much too young yet to think of marrying."

"I know. That's the very age that appeals to the type I'm speaking of; a child, innocent enough to believe in them! They're experts. They know how to make romantic love, and how to work up to the point when she runs off and then—well, she'll make a settlement and after that he just won't care! I tell you, dear, I'm scared!"

"You must's be. You and I can look after her."

"That's just it," insisted Daphne. "I feel I'm to blame. That I haven't looked after her! That my stupid mistake may have done her untold damage!"

"You mean the other night?" He looked incredulous. "You're worrying about nothing, honestly. I'm not saying that I'm very pleased about it but I saw the young man and she was quite safe, I feel certain, with him."

Daphne shrugged her shoulders.

"Of course, you may be right. I haven't seen him," she admitted doubtfully. "He may be everything you say. Only, I could see that the child was taken with him, that he had a glamor—quite naturally! At that age one lives half in fairyland and a knight errant—well! It's not surprising she should fall in love with him, if he's at all good looking, and when I heard that you'd thought of asking him to lunch I could have almost screamed!"

"Surely there isn't any harm—" began Robert.

"Of course not, if he's the sort you say he is. But do you really think, Bob, that a decent young man would have stayed there with her? Don't you think he'd have found some way of getting hold of a chaperone? There are cottages, you know, a round War-y!"

"I suppose it was a bit late, and in that storm—"

"I know. One must allow for that. But even then, one's heard such terrible stories. Any idiot could see that Alison had money—her dress, those pearls, everything; and the type I've been talking of—well, it's their profession. I'm not suggesting that there was anything wrong—why should there be, when he saw there was a better, a bigger chance—of marrying her! Only, I got an awful shock, dear, when I saw that breakfast table!"

Robert shifted uneasily.

"I really think you're making too much if it," he said. "I'm sure if you come to lunch too, and meet him—"

"I expect you're right," said Daphne meekly. "I know that you're a good judge of people, better than I am. That's the awful part of the sort of time that I've had, Bob. It leaves one too suspicious. I wasn't saying that he was that sort of man. I only wanted to warn you, that's all."

"Perhaps you're right. I can easily find out about him," Robert agreed.

"If you could! And just drop a tiny hint to Alison that she mustn't be too romantic about him until she knws more. It'd take an awful weight off my mind if you would. You see, I do feel responsible."

"My dear, if you want me to, of course I will!" He got up, came over to her; and now Daphne yielded, leaning against him, holding up her mouth.

She said cooingly, between his kisses, "You know, darling, you're so wise! That's why I feel safe with you. I wouldn't have dared even to hint to Alison that I was worried. She wouldn't understand and she'd resent the idea that I was looking after her. But now I feel quite happy. I know you'll do it tactfully, let her think it comes from you—you are so clever at those things."

"It's you who've made me happy," responded Robert. "I'd no idea you felt like that, I mean about Alison."

"I'd love her anyway, but I love her doubly because she's yours," said Daphne Sumers and kissed him again.

If she had any thoughs, they remained hidden behind the dark veil of her lustreless eyes.

Robert chose the hour after dinner when he sat in the library, the heavy damask curtains drawn, the fire burning brightly, coffee and liqueurs on an old Chippendale tray table by the deep sofa, and Alison turning over gramophone records at his side.

A direct person at all times, and particularly with his girl, he made no effort to approach the subject obliquely.

"By the way, dear, if you're thinking of asking that young man to lunch—"

"Guy Westurn?"

"Yes. If you're thinking as asking him to lunch—"

"It was you who suggested it, father!"

"Oh, yes, well—anyway, I think perhaps we'd better find out just a little, more about him first, that's all. I mean, we don't know much, do we?"

"I thought you liked him."

"I do. Oh, I do! But, well, one can't be too careful; I mean, he seems a very nice, decent sort of fellow, charming and all that, but you know Alison, people aren't al-

SOONER STRIKE IS PEACEFUL

NO BLOOD SHED AND EVERYBODY HAPPY IN OKLA. CITY

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 4.—The muffled boom of a sorghum can full of gunpowder—an even month before the Fourth of July—heralding the walkout of more than 300 employes of the Wilson and company packing plant, set the public hereabout for another furious economic blood-letting, but the peacefully ensuing events have made the strike a near model of non-violence.

All of which leaves everybody happy, including the expanded police force, and leaves both sides claiming victory in the walkout. There has been virtually no violence. There has been no massed clash between approximately 300 strikers and those who chose to work.

All Are Satisfied

Satisfied with the first month are:

W. W. Wilson, firm but soft-spoken manager of the plant, who keeps saying when asked if operations are crippled, "everything is normal in the plant. As far as we're concerned there isn't any strike. The usual number of orders is being filled on time by the customary number of employes."

And Harry Carson, strapping calf-skinner who had worked for the company 11 1-2 years, now president of the local union, says: "We know the public has been taught through the years that when people say 'strike' they mean instead 'war,' with rocks and clubs and sometimes lead. We are attempting to show the housewives and the public in general that a strike doesn't have to mean bloodshed.

Peace Quickest Way

"We believe that the quickest way to get people to see our side of the labor dispute is to be peaceful in our protest."

"What we're fighting for is the privilege of organizing packing-house workmen into a union. The company apparently doesn't want that," Carson said. He places great hope in the pending Wagner bill, and in a "do not patronize" campaign.

tions was more favorable than it had been for years.

It was recalled that former Premier Yevtich of Yugoslavia said recently: "a return of the Hapsburgs means war."

With Yevtich in the political discard, monarchists expressed a belief that the new Yugoslav regime could be reconciled more readily to a restoration.

Nazis May Oppose

Czechoslovakian objections were believed to be weakening, while the monarchists maintained the great powers were tolerant of their movement, although there remained a possibility that Austrian socialists and Nazis might put a crimp in the royal comeback.

Conservative leaders in the royalist ranks recalled that Carl failed twice in ill-advised efforts to regain the throne.

Some monarchists, who lay their strategy with the care of a chess player, held that the next logical step would be to bring back the body of Emperor Carl from the Madeira island where he died in exile in 1922.

They believed that a solemn reinterment would reawaken Austria's attachments to its ancient rulers and that such an occasion would be propitious for Otto's return.

FOURTH BEING CELEBRATED

NATION TAKING TIME OUT TODAY IN BIG ARRAY OF EVENTS

joined in the greatest travel rush of recent years.

New Jersey's state police sought a solution to its automobile traffic problem in the air, through the use of two planes, one radio-equipped, to survey and control traffic routings.

Beaches Are Filled

Beaches caught a tide of pleasure seekers. Golf courses did rushing business while sports events and traditional patriotic observances drew others who chose not to spend the day at home.

OFFICIALDOM MIXES WORK AND PLAY

WASHINGTON, July 4. (AP)—Officialdom mixed work and recreation today as the Fourth of July arrived with congress still here and plenty of fighting ahead.

President Roosevelt set part of the day aside for a conference with house leaders on his "tax-the-wealth" program. The rest of the holiday was for whatever struck his fancy.

Some others prominent in the capital spent part of the day preparing for debates ahead—while some took the opportunity for complete relaxation. Many government folk left town; for those who remained there were fireworks and a traditional parade.

Vice President Garner and Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader—had a chore to do. They had to call the senate into session at noon and recess until Monday to comply with the law that says neither house of congress shall recess more than three days without the consent of the other. No other senators were required to be on hand for this ceremony. The house recessed Tuesday until Friday.

NEW DEAL ATTACKS

dividual liberty already had ceased to exist in "whole nations," with populations totaling 500,000,000 suffering from "discouragement and disillusion" and "with a sort of salve psychology, men would rather be safe than free. And it has turned out they are not safe," he added.

America's safety from attack upon liberty, he said, "lies in holding fast to the fundamentals of the great constitutional charter of our liberties." He continued:

No Legalistic Parchment

"That is no mere legalistic parchment. It is an immortal expression of the spirit of men who would be forever free. It is the invisible sentinel which guards the door of every home from the invasion of coercion, intimidation, and fear . . . its great list of freedoms should be a part of our daily thought, third only to the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount.

"It is not reactionary to hold fast to these fundamentals, to oppose tyranny, and to support liberty. We realize that life is different in 1935 from 1776. The function of government must always be expanded to restrain the strong and protect the weak. That is the preservation of liberty itself.

Times For Action

"These are times for genuine progressive action—that we recover prosperity and that we secure the better distribution among all the people of the abundance which has been the product of our system of liberty. But there are things that must be permanent if we would attain these purposes. The first of these is liberty.

"In this crisis of liberty and this darkening eclipse of human freedom through the world, America has today a transcendent mission to civilization far beyond our own safety. It is our high duty to hold bright the light of individual liberty. From that light alone can come the material and spiritual redemption of mankind. That is an obligation to our children and our obligation to humanity. The Fourth of July, amid a threatened world should bring rededication to the proposition that the freedom won for men shall not be dimmed in America, nor shall this light to the world be extinguished."

Talmadge Raises Issue

At Canton, Ga., for an Independence day dedication of a new highway bridge, Governor Talmadge made what many observers believe to be a bid for Georgia's vote against Mr. Roosevelt's renomination in 1936.

"State's rights is the bulwark of protection for the people of Georgia," he said in a prepared address. "It is also the bulwark of protection for the people in New York, Maine, California, Oregon and all of the other states of the union.

"When the time ever comes for the sovereignties of the several states of this union to be ignored and forgotten, then this union is ready for dissolution. . . .

Should Take Stock

"It is fitting for us on July Fourth to take stock and see how far we have departed from the old land lines and foundation stones of government.

"Georgia, being ever alert to protect the sovereignty of the state and state's rights, not only helps and protects the people of Georgia but protects every other state in the union and every citizen in Georgia."

Governor Talmadge said experimental legislation of President Roosevelt had been a failure, had retarded progress and called for immediate abandonment of the entire program "as the only road to recovery."

MISS LUBBOCK, CHOSEN LAST NIGHT AT THEATER, LIVES IN FT. WORTH

Miss Lubbock doesn't live in Lubbock!

Miss Norma Bradshaw, former Lubbock High school student, is visiting Mrs. E. C. Simmons, 612 Avenue K and other friends here. She was selected Miss Lubbock in a first round beach show and beauty pageant Wednesday evening in Palace theater.

Second and third winners were Miss Polly Parrott and Miss Irene McCoy, respectively.

Had Lived Here

The small blond first-place winner has been given a number of parties recently by Sub-Deb club of high school girls of which she is a former member. She is a daughter of Mrs. A. A. Bradshaw. Miss Bradshaw was a junior student in Lubbock High school the first part of last year, in a Fort Worth school the latter part.

The three girls are to represent Lubbock in a semi-final contest here August 2-3, in which a winner will be selected to compete in Roswell, N. M.

Three alternates chosen by five out-of-town judges were Misses Wyndham Gay Robertson, Rachel Alexander and Anabel Pool.

The latest styles in bathing suits were modeled by the girls. Miss Lubbock received a silver trophy cup.

The contestants and others modeled evening apparel.

A program, other than the pageant, was:

Tap dance, Mildred Mitchell; song, C. A. Rodgers; tap dance, Frank Atcheson; "Can't Help Loving That Man" song, Mary Stuart Williams; soft shoe dance, Frank Atcheson and Mildred Mitchell.

Hal B. Grady, manager of the Palace theater, said he did not know the winner did not live here. Mr. Grady presided for the program.

AAA FUTURE

ed, prohibiting collection of the taxes, he said.

LEGISLATIVE GROUP HEARS BOTH SIDES

DALLAS, July 4. (AP)—The Texas legislature's cotton investigating committee session, which resounded with both praise and condemnation for the AAA, stood adjourned today.

Prominent business men, bankers and cotton growers discussed the various phases of the cotton industry before the committee in its three-day meeting and opinions ranging from the belief that the government's program was the salvation of the cotton farmer to the prediction that the AAA and the Bankhead act would die the same death of NRA were heard.

Cobb Is Attacked

The parley ended yesterday after a bitter attack upon Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton division of the AAA, who Monday defended the administration's policy at the session, by R. E. L. Knight of Dallas.

Referring to Cobb as a propagandist, Knight said "industrial interests of the north and east have grown rotten and fat because of the peonage to which farmers of the south have been subjected."

"Is A Bribe"

"They think," he said, "they have lulled up into a sense of security with the processing tax, which appears to them to be a bribe. It is a bribe, yes, but it is a bribe that we pay to ourselves, camouflaged as a direct government subsidy.

"The farmer gets from 75 cents to $1 a day for working from dawn to dark in his fields. Every man who touches a bale of cotton after it leaves the farmer's hands receives from $3 to $6 per day. It is a shame and pitiable that we should be subjected to such ignominy, and we will not stand for it."

Program Defended

Rising to defend the AAA, A. A. Allison of Corsicana declared the government program was working and that under it the southern cotton farmer had "received at least a measure of the benefits to which he had been entitled for many years."

The committee announced that other hearings would be held, but no information as to time and place was given. Senator Tom Deberry of Hogota and Representative J. J. Olsen of Yoakum were named to represent the Texas committee at a south-wide cotton conference at New Orleans July 15.

WILSON SIGNS FIVE MORE INJUNCTIONS

FORT WORTH, July 4. (AP)—Five more temporary injunctions have been signed here by Federal Judge James C. Wilson, restraining internal revenue agents from collecting wheat and corn processing taxes.

The injunction suits were filed by attorneys for Collin County Mill and Elevator company, Morten Milling company, Fant Milling company, Burrus Mill and Elevator company of Dallas and Burrus Mill and Elevator company of Oklahoma, with offices in Fort Worth.

Hearing on the cases will be held before Federal Judge William H. Atwell in Dallas, Sept. 19.

CHILD IS BURIED

PETERSBURG, July 4.—(Special)—Last rites for Billie Dale Tisdel, 6, who died Tuesday noon after three months' illness, were read Wednesday. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tisdel.

The child is survived by his parents, a younger sister and brother, his grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Stagner and W. R. Tisdel.

Mrs. Pup Thomas and children and Mrs. W. H. McFarland and daughter, all of Lubbock, attended the services.

Investigation To Be Made On Rates

SAN ANTONIO, July 4. (AP)—The Federal Communications commission will make an independent investigation of the rates of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company in San Antonio, Randle Taylor, attorney for an intervenor in the company's suit with the city involving reasonable rates, was advised from Washington Tuesday.

TEXAS EVENTS

The Amarillo City lake was the site, and it was the first boat racing event ever staged in the Panhandle city.

An outboard motor race at the municipal harbor with outstanding racers of the southwest competing was the feature of Beaumont's celebration.

A picnic for the combined veterans organizations headed San Antonio's list of events. Patriotic events included the firing of salutes by the military posts in the San Antonio section and by C. M. T. C. students at Camp Bullis.

Lake Worth was the chief point of interest at Fort Worth, where bathing revues, a pyrotechnical display, a pageant by 800 children, diving, swimming, golfing, roque contests and picnics were on the program.

Boat Races At Wichita

Boat racing on Lake Wichita was the feature of the celebration at Wichita Falls, and baseball and golf were on the program at the neighboring city of Vernon.

The 27 miles of beach at Galveston was wide open to pleasure seekers and fishermen.

The oil field workers union picnic caused much interest in the Goose Creek section, and Freeport had a big barbecue on the program on which Lieutenant Governor Woodul and former Gov. Ross Sterling were principal speakers.

A Mardi Gras program was on the slate at Slaton, between the edge of the plains and Lubbock. It consisted of a parade, basket dinner and an historical pageant.

A state park dedication at Crockett aroused wide interest.

Many persons from Texas joined their neighbors from Arkansas and Louisiana in a celebration at Shreveport, where the carnival spirit was in the air.

BAR SESSION

White of Pampa, secretary, and Bowlen Bond of Fairfield, treasurer.

Both groups voted to affiliate with the senior bar association as individual sections.

Procedure in state courts, particularly in criminal trials, was criticized by speakers before the judicial section, and the legislaure was attacked for its failure to reform the procedure.

C. M. Cureton, chief justice of the state Supreme court, urged terms of at least eight years for district judges and 12 years for appellate judges.

the city.

The matter of pay for the two city departments has been embarrassing to Long since he took control of them recently. Workers in other city departments, still under Walmsley's control, are being paid by the Federal Emergency Relief administration.

Municipal funds have been tied up by laws passed at previous special sessions and by court litigation started by Long's administration.

National guardsmen were still here today enforcing the martial law proclaimed last January when citizens took up arms against Long's "dictatorship." The citizens on one occasion were routed by the guardsmen after a pitched battle was threatened.

To Last Five Days

Long said the session would be concluded in the usual five days and that he would return to Washington Monday.

Six special sessions have been held since the regular session last summer. It was a these sessions, which Long controlled, that bills were approved making him absolute political dictator of the state.

Long stepped from the airplane at Shusan airport last night with five bodyguards and was met by other followers. It was his first long airplane trip, but he said he enjoyed it.

partial."

"White-Wash" Predicted

This declaration followed a remark by one legislator prominent in the utilities fight, who predicted privately that the house inquiry might be a "white-wash," with the senate making the "real" investigation later.

Under a resolution offered by Senator Black (D-Ala) and approved yesterday by the senate interstate commerce committee, the senate would conduct a $150,000 inquiry. The investigators would have the power of subpoena, an authority which the house committee lacks.

TAHOKA MAN IS FACING CHARGE

A charge of intoxicated driving was filed against M. A. Scott, 43, a farmer, of Tahoka in Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg's court this morning. Scott, arrested at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday at Twenty-first street and Avenue U, was in city jail this morning.

He had pleaded guilty of drunkenness and been fined $25 in corporation court.

Taken Into Custody

The intoxicated driving complaint was drawn by Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, who took Scott into custody before police arrived, and signed by Grady Harrist, assistant police chief.

A 1935 Ford coupe that police said was driven by Scott struck a parked 1935 Ford coach owned by Talmage DeWitt, 2613 Twenty-first street, in the 2100-block Nineteenth street about 3 p. m.

Scott, accompanied by a Lamesa farmer, owner of the car, drove away from the scene.

Another Car Struck

An automobile driven by Roy L. Anderson, a salesman for a New Orleans firm, had been struck between 2:30 and 3 p. m. at Fourteenth street and Avenue H by an automobile that did not stop. Upon reading a news story this morning of the Nineteenth street accident, Anderson suspected his car had been hit by the automobile that later struck DeWitt's. At city jail, Scott confirmed it, Anderson said.

Scott's companion pleaded guilty of drunkenness and paid a $25 fine.

"What are you talking about, dear?" Alison dropped the record on the sofa.

"Nothing. I only don't want you to go losing your heart to some damned crook or fortune hunter, that's all."

Alison looked at him steadily. "Father."

"Hm?"

"What's Mrs. Sumers been saying to you?"

"Daphne? Why, nothing."

"Oh, yes, she has! You didn't think of that idea yourself!"

"What idea?" said Robert rather huffily.

"About my losing my heart and Guy Westurn being a crook."

"Well, she's quite right." He did not notice Alison's bitter smile.

"WORLD'S RICHEST INDIAN" SLOWLY VANISHING, AGENT'S REPORT SHOWS

(By The Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 4.—Long a romantic journalistic figure, "the world's richest Indian" soon may be consigned to the category of the true "Vanishing American."

There are not so many of the fabulously wealthy redmen any more, A. M. Landman, superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, has reported.

Fewer Than 150 Today

Today there are fewer than 150 restricted Indians having more than $25,000, Landman's annual report showed. Among them are Exie Fife, Creek of Eufaula, and Enos Wilson, whose $2,000,000 birthright elevated him today to the position of the world's richest Indian.

Also there is Katie Fixico, wealthy Indian woman who is no longer restricted and under the jurisdiction of the agency.

Landman refused to reveal the names of other wealthy Indians lest they become prey to "get-rich-quick" schemers, but he said all members of the Five Civilized Tribes have approximately $25,000,000 in cash, bonds and property. Over this wealth the department of the interior has jurisdiction, acting in the capacity of the traditional Great White Father.

Polish Quads Can't Be Found By Investigators

WARSAW, July 4. (AP)—There aren't, it now develops to the chagrin of contributors to their upbringing, any Polish quadruplets.

Investigators today found that Julius Czarnowski, who yesterday proudly reported the birth of four husky sons to Mme. Czarnowska, was drawing pretty freely on his imagination.

Search of hospitals and public records failed to confirm the reported multiple birth and the father could not be located. Also missing was $40 donated by sympathizers.

In 1921, Kansas had 1,112 banks. Now there are 547. Bank deposits reached a maximum of $307,511,000 in 1920; now the total is $145,000,000.

SAN ANTONIO, July 4. (AP)—Chester Foster, automobile salesman, and Roy W. Hadler, head pantry man at the Plaza hotel, were injured seriously and Miss Rosalie Bentz, 26, was badly bruised, when the car in which they were riding turned over near Sonora Wednesday.
