Carter urges Teddy to wait 'for a while'

BOSTON (AP) — President Carter evoked the memory of John F. Kennedy, using the late president's own words Saturday to tell his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy: Don't seek the presidency, "at least for a while."

Political undercurrents cut through the breeze off Boston Harbor at the dedication of the John F. Kennedy presidential library, and at the very outset of his speech, President Carter brought the subject of his intraparty challenge from Sen. Kennedy into the open.

President Kennedy, Carter said, was reminded at a March 1962 news conference, that younger brother Ted — now the candidate-in-waiting — had observed the ravages of the presidency showing on his elder brother and commented that he might never want to be president.

"Would you run again for the presidency, and would you recommend it to anyone else?" Kennedy was asked 17 year ago.

Carter recalled the Kennedy response: "I do not recommend it to others, at least for a while," and he added, "President Kennedy's wit and also his wisdom is certainly as relevant today as it was then."

That was Carter's only open reference to the battle shaping up between himself and Sen. Kennedy for the Democratic Party's 1980 presidential nomination.

His 19-minute speech drew a wave of laughter from the senator and others who gathered to honor John Kennedy, but the senator did not respond, not even indirectly, and no other speaker made any reference to the potential Kennedy challenge of Carter's re-election bid.

In the few seconds between the Carter and Kennedy speeches, the presidential seal was unobtrusively removed so that it did not decorate the lecturn while Kennedy spoke.

With his voice rising to a shout and echoing over and over against a University of Massachusetts building nearby, the senator — his New England accent proving an aural reminder of his brother — recalled the days of Camelot.

"The thousand days" of the John F. Kennedy administration, "are like an evening gone. But they are not forgotten," the senator said. "The journey never ends. The dream shall never die."

Kennedy's speech was filled with personal reminiscenses of his brother and his administration.

"He taught me to ride a bicycle, throw a forward pass and sail against the wind," he recalled. And looking back at John Kennedy's domestic and foreign policy deeds, the senator said, "He could make lightning strike on the things he cared about. He was the irresistible force that could move an immoveable object."

President Carter arrived at the stone and glass library overlooking Boston Harbor at mid-morning and was immediately surrounded by a mob of Kennedys. Among them was Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis; her daughter, Caroline and her son John Jr.; brother-in-law Sargent Shriver; sister-in-law Ethel Kennedy. And introducing the lot of them was the supposed challenger — Sen. Kennedy.

"My son Teddy, Kara, Patrick," the senator said during the litany of names. "Patrick," the senator said proudly, "recited a reading in church Saturday. ... It was the whole business. The priest had never heard a reading like that."

The group then headed off for a tour of the library, the president walking hand-in-hand with his wife, Rosalynn. Far behind trailed several current administration figures, and walking along near the end of the tour group was Jackie.

Scooting across the pavement on their "wheels", Scott Vann is shoved along by Paul Coody during a Cub Scout pushmobile race Saturday. Participating in the relay races on Memorial Stadium's parking lot were 48 Cub and Webelos scouts from Packs 6, 96 and 231. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Bond election Tuesday

Trustees express optimism over passage

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Midland voters will decide the fate of a $10.2 million all-or-nothing bond package Tuesday.

School trustees have been working diligently to overcome vocal opposition to the proposal and to inform anyone who would listen about the schools' needs. In addition, a citizen's group has donated funds for a fairly extensive advertising campaign in favor of the bonds.

Service clubs, chamber of commerce groups and League of Women Voters forums have heard trustees speak on the bond package. PTA organizations have sponsored question-and-answer sessions for the general public.

While attendance at some of the meetings has been spotty at best, trustees express optimism at the prospects for passage Tuesday.

"I think most people who've heard our story have come away convinced," Trustee Parker Humes noted midway into the campaign.

THE $10.2 MILLION requested by school officials will be spread throughout the district, making additions or improvements to most of the buildings in the city. Major areas for improvement include:

"I think most people who've heard our story have come away convinced." — Trustee Parker Humes

— $5.5 million for expansion and renovation of Midland High School and its campus.

— $1.3 million for improvements at Lee High School.

— $2.1 million for a new elementary school in northwest Midland.

— $844,600 for "other capital improvements" from new rest room facilities to reroofing jobs.

— $431,000 for vocational facilities.

MUCH OF THE OPPOSITION to the $10.2 million package has centered on the all-or-nothing aspect of the bond package.

While the funds will be spent in five basic areas of the district, voters will get to vote only for or against the whole package.

Not all school trustees originally favored the one-vote concept. But the board decided before calling the election they would follow school district tradition and offer a unified package.

The city has been divided enough this year with the controversy over Plan O and the Hill house, Trustee Johnny Warren noted when the election was called.

"We don't need more divisiveness, with Lee voting against Midland; vo-

Hoover suspected agent was posing as Oswald

NEW YORK (AP) — Then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover suspected that an impostor — possibly a Soviet agent — was posing as Lee Harvey Oswald in 1960, three years before Oswald assassinated President John F. Kennedy, the New York Post reported Saturday.

The story, copyright by News Group Publications Inc., parent company of the Post, said Hoover's suspicions were found in a memo from Hoover to the State Department dated June 6, 1960, when Oswald was known to be in the Soviet Union.

"Since there's a possibility that an impostor is using Oswald's birth certificate, any current information the Dept. of State may have concerning this subject will be appreciated," the memo reportedly said. The paper did not say if any information was forwarded to Hoover, now deceased.

Nine months later, according to the Post, Edward J. Hickey, chief of the department's passport division, sent a memo to the consular section warning that "it has been stated that there is an impostor using Oswald identification data and that there is no doubt the Soviets would love to get hold of his valid passport."

The Post said the documents were obtained from the National Archives under the Freedom of Information Act.

Why are there no stop signs at the intersection of Tarleton and Sentinel streets?

I have been noticing this for months and cannot help wondering how such a potentially dangerous situation can go unnoticed for so long.

Thank you for Answer Line. It is most informative. — Kay Gassie

ANSWER: Answer Line has talked with Doug Vanover, traffic engineer for the city of Midland. He said a traffic counter will be placed at the intersection in the near future to determine the flow of traffic. When the results of the traffic count are known, he will be giving Answer Line a call.

I am an 82-year-old widow and am being bothered by anonymous telephone calls in the early hours of the morning. Is there anything I can do about it? — G.S.

ANSWER: Yes, contact the business office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., if a threat is involved. Also notify the police.

The Texas Penal Code "provides that a person commits an offense, if he intentionally communicates by telephone in vulgar, profane, obscene or indecent language, in a coarse or offensive manner or threatening language and by this action ... annoys or alarms or intends to alarm the recipient; or places one or more telephone calls anonymously at an unreasonable hour in an offensive and repetitious manner, or without legitimate purpose and by this action ... annoys

Saudi Arabian leaders split over whether to hike price

ATLANTA (AP) — Saudi Arabian oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said Saturday that Saudi leaders are split over whether to follow the recent move by some OPEC members and raise oil prices above the cartel's established ceiling.

Yamani said he has so far resisted efforts by a group of Saudis he calls the "young-turk mafia" who want to raise prices and cut production.

Five of the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries have raised prices during the last two weeks.

And Yamani, a key figure in the oil policy of the United States' largest supplier, said there is some pressure within the Saudi government to increase prices in an effort to reduce demand.

Yamani said recent studies have shown that Saudi Arabia needs to produce only five million barrels a day to meet its domestic financial requirements, but is now producing 9.5 million barrels a day.

"That's a very strong argument for the 'mafia,' and God help me to do something about it," Yamani said at an international affairs forum sponsored by the Southern Center for International Studies.

Yamani also reiterated his belief that oil prices can be controlled only by strict conservation in the United States. "Unless we conserve and use other sources of energy, we face an economic catastrophe," he said.

Russians are here

HEARST

NEW YORK— The sudden silence that has descended over Cuba, contrasted with the swift progress of events elsewhere in Latin America, combine to give me the uneasy feeling that the American public is not being fully informed about the deal reached on those Russian troops on Castro's island.

The only visible signs of the accommodation between the Kremlin and President Carter are the stepped-up surveillance of Cuba and the token military exercise we conducted at Guantanamo Bay, both of which could not have produced more than a shrug from the Russians.

We have had no assurance, really, from any source that the Russian Bear has halted in his tracks toward our continent. Meanwhile, sinister takeovers are occuring in the Caribbean which would appear to call for a forceful restatement of our Monroe

It is too early to assess the results of the coup in El Salvador which, this past week, deposed Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero by a junta of military-civilian dissidents. Whether they swing to the left or seek eventually to establish some kind of democracy, remains to be seen.

It should not be overlooked that Panama has already been heavily

After four-decade wait, Basques get referendum

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — After waiting four decades, Spain's independent-minded Basques get a chance in a referendum Thursday to regain home rule. But dissent, doubts and fear may keep at least half of the voters away from the polls.

"I am not going to vote, even by mail," said a Bilbao boutique owner in a comment that apparently echoes the feelings of many Basques. "I don't want anybody to know where I stand."

This Basque-populated region of northern Spain will be voting on a statute that would give the Basques control of their health services, return a greater portion of Basque taxes from the central government in Madrid, and establish Basque-administered courts and a Basque police force.

Approval seems certain, but the credibility of the referendum results may be tainted by a high abstention rate among the 2.5 million residents of the three Basque provinces involved — Vizcaya, Guipuzcoa and Alava.

In contrast, a home-rule referendum for 6 million residents of northeastern Spain's Catalonia region is expected to get a big turnout.

The difference is a wave of Basque separatist terrorism that has taken more than 60 lives this year and shows no sign of stopping even with home rule.

"Terrorism will not end with autonomy. The separatists have said as much," said a Bilbao journalist.

The guerrillas of the Basque separatist organization ETA — a Basque-language acronym for "Basque Land and Liberty" — have denounced the referendum, something many here take as a warning of a step-up in violence during the coming week.

"We don't fear a democratic referendum," said Txomin Ziluega, a leader of the leftist party HASI, which backs the separatists and their demands for full independence, not just autonomy. "Neither do we fear an anti-democratic referendum, which is what we are going to have."

With other parties of a coalition called Herri Batasuna — "People's Union" in the Basque language — HASI has mounted a campaign urging voters to stay away from the polls.

Speeding train slams into bus

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A speeding train slammed into a bus at a crossing in western Cairo early Saturday, and witnesses reported 30 persons were killed and 28 others injured.

The automatic warning system at the crossing had not been working for the past two months, residents of the area reported.

The witnesses, who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, said they were told the bus driver apparently did not see the frantic hand signals of the gate operator because of an early morning fog, and tried to drive through the crossing before the manually operated gate closed.

They said the bus struck and killed the gate operator, smashed through the descending barrier and then was hit by the five-car train, which tore off the back of the bus and dragged it for 1,000 feet before coming to a halt.

The bus driver was among those killed, the witnesses said. The bus was headed from Cairo into the nearby countryside.

Minister pledges Vietnamese troops will not enter Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam's foreign minister said Saturday Vietnamese troops in Cambodia will not enter Thailand in pursuit of Cambodian guerrillas they are battling.

"Our policy remains unchanged. Our troops will not invade any country and they will not cross the border into Thailand," acting Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach told a news conference on the second day of his visit here.

Thach also said he might meet with with U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, scheduled to arrive in Bangkok Sunday. Such a meeting might be "necessary and useful" to improve bilateral relations and promote peace in Southeast Asia, he said.

Holbrooke was to visit the troubled Thai-Cambodian border area Monday with U.S. Sens. James Sasser, D-Tenn., John Danforth, R-Mo., and Max Baucus, D-Mont.

On Friday, Thai Prime Minister Kriangshak Chomanan announced he would open the Thai borders to all Cambodian and Vietnamese refugees, including remnants of the Pol Pot forces, and would move 70,000 Cambodian refugees to special camps.

Vietnamese troops invaded Cambodia last December and helped Cambodian rebels overthrow the government of Premier Pol Pot. The Vietnamese and rebel forces seized the capital of Phnom Penh in January, but guerrillas loyal to Pol Pot have continued to fight the Vietnamese and new Cambodian government.

Thach told the news conference that international aid being sent to Cambodia favors the Pol Pot guerrillas.

The Thai Red Cross has set up aid stations near the border to help civilians and soldiers fleeing a Vietnamese offensive in Cambodia. The International Red Cross and UNICEF are coordinating the 30-nation, $100 million famine relief program to Cambodia.

Thach called the aid a "political scheme" to create two administrations inside Cambodia — the Pol Pot government and the Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin government.

Salvation Army, Red Cross provided tornado victims help

Following last spring's tornado disaster in Wichita Falls, the Midland branches of the Salvation Army and American Red Cross were at the scene providing relief to the victims.

Back in Midland, Red Cross telephones rang continuously with calls from people wanting information about friends and relatives in the stricken city.

As well as providing basics of water, food and clothing to victims and National Guardsmen, the agencies provided a note of concern and stability throughout the chaotic first days of shock and grief.

United Way

In addition to emergency disaster service, the Red Cross and Salvation Army have programs devoted mainly to other crisis situations.

Red Cross trains people to handle emergencies when they happen through nursing and safety programs.

A group of Midland volunteer nurses last fall attended a seminar in Lubbock on how to function in disaster situations, executive director Ray Trumbull said.

In addition, Red Cross has the only nationally recognized water safety program, Trumbull said.

It also has the only nationally recognized first aid program, with the exception of its cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) program, which the American Heart Association also offers, Trumbull added.

The Red Cross trains industrial personnel in order for industries to meet safety requirements set by OSHA and serves as an independent medium of relief and communications between the American people and its armed forces, Trumbull said.

Salvation Army is well-known for its emergency home shelter for stranded travelers, temporary housing for Midlanders in emergencies and behavioral rehabilitation program for men.

Professional counseling, financial assistance, referrals and other aids for families in crisis situations are other Salvation Army services.

Through its Thrift Store, Salvation Army provides low-cost clothing and furniture to Midlanders.

Annual projects for underprivileged families include Christmas baskets, new and used toys for children and new school clothes through the "Dress a Live Doll" program.

Salvation Army also conducts character-building youth programs through a pre-teen club for girls and a teen club for girls and boys. The new Family Development Center at Holly and Park streets offers day care for children, evening classes for pre-teens, teens and adults, and Sunday worship service.

Performing cardio-pulmonary resuscitation on an inflatable mannequin is student Kim Coffman, daughter of Brenda Coffman, Route 2. American Red Cross, 2306 Elizabeth Ave., offers CPR training as one of several first aid and safety courses.

Auto runs down six joggers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A station wagon ran down six teen-age girls jogging after a birthday party, killing one 15-year-old and injuring two 13-year-olds, Multnomah County sheriff's officers said.

The girls, who were jogging on Sauvie Island just outside the Portland city limits, were struck from behind on a straight stretch of road at about 5 p.m. Friday, said Sheriff's Deputy Bart Whalen. Another police investigator said visibility was good at the time.

Consortium to buy Mexican natural gas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A consortium of six U.S. gas transmission firms has signed a contract to buy 300 million cubic feet of natural gas a day from Mexico, according to one of the firms.

The spokesman for Tenneco Inc. confirmed Friday that the agreement between a new Tenneco subsidiary, Border Gas Inc., and Petroleos Mexicanos, Mexico's state-owned oil company, follows terms announced by U.S. and Mexican government negotiators who worked out the deal last month.

The pact calls for an initial price of $3.625 per thousand cubic feet, to be reviewed quarterly and increased by the same percentage as the average rise in world crude oil prices.

Court won't block Bishop execution

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The Nevada Supreme Court refused Saturday to block the execution of convicted killer Jessie Bishop. The American Civil Liberties Union said it would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The ACLU asked the Nevada court to order a delay of Monday's scheduled execution until questions about the constitutionality of the state's capital punishment law were settled.

ACLU lawyer Rollie Rogers, arguing on behalf of 11 Nevada taxpayers, told the court the execution of Bishop would be an unconstitutional expenditure of taxpayers' money.

The case was brought on behalf of the taxpayers because Bishop has refused to allow appeals to be brought in his name.

Rogers argued the sentencing court which ordered Bishop's death by lethal gas did not hear mitigating circumstances in the case as required by U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

He contended that the Nevada Supreme Court had a duty to require that mitgating circumstances be aired. But Chief Justice John Mowbray said, after a half-hour of arguments and 10-minute closed-door debate by the court, that the appeal was dismissed.

Mowbray told the ACLU it had no standing to bring the case before the Nevada Supreme Court.

Nevada Attorney General Dick Bryan opposed the ACLU petition, as he did an unsuccessful ACLU appeal earlier Saturday before Clark County District Judge James Brennan.

Brennan said Bishop's refusal to appeal — a move that could save his life — "might be because he doesn't want to grovel...because it might destroy the man's pride." Attorneys for the state argued that the lawsuit was "frivolous" and "meritless."

Attorney Dean Breeze, representing the taxpayers' group, said the suit was filed to oppose "spending state money to carry out an unconstitutional act — the execution of Jesse Bishop."

The ACLU acted after the U.S. Supreme Court rejected for a second time, by a vote of 7-1, an appeal for a stay of execution, this one by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. The court voted 7-2 in rejecting the first appeal by two public defenders on Oct. 1.

Before the hearing, ACLU representative Henry Schwarzschild charged that the state was holding Bishop "incommunicado."

"There is reason to believe he wants to talk," Schwarzschild said. "They're trying to stuff Jesse Bishop into the gas chamber. I consider this a monstrous outrage."

State Prison Director Charles Wolffe Jr. said that although Bishop has not had access to the news media since Thursday, he had "immediate and unlimited access to an attorney when he wants it."

Earlier Saturday, Bishop was visited by his family. Bishop, a tough-talking repeated robber, one-time heroin addict and decorated Korean War paratrooper, remained adamantly opposed to the legal efforts to halt his trip to the gas chamber on Monday as scheduled, a family spokesman said afterward.

A sister and two brothers arrived at the Maximum Security Prison and said they would remain most of the day. Bishop's mother, said to be in failing health, visited her son a week ago but was not present Saturday.

Perjury charge to be dismissed

LUBBOCK — A Midland man who was to stand trial next week for allegedly making false statements to a federal grand jury will have his case dismissed, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney David Blass.

A motion to dismiss a perjury indictment returned against David Lansom Rankin in June will be introduced this week, Bass said Friday.

Bass refused to say why his office wants to drop the charge.

Rankin was one of 17 persons indicted by the federal panel this summer for alleged participation in a Lubbock-area cocaine distribution ring. The perjury indictment handed down against Rankin involved statements he allegedly made in a phone call to a Lubbock woman.

Taylor man, 22, charged with rape

BIG SPRING — Michael Russell Nelson, 22, of Taylor was charged Friday with rape in connection with the reported assault of a 24-year-old Big Spring woman, police reported.

Nelson was in Howard County Jail. Bond was set at $50,000 by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

According to police, a woman reported she had been raped about 11 a.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce office. Nelson was arrested about 11:40 a.m. near the railroad tracks.

I am writing in concern of the Midland street priority system, or more specifically, what criteria a street must meet before it warrants paving?

In the past few months I have noticed many of our one and two block sections of unpaved residential streets being paved. While this is probably greatly appreciated by the residents of that street, I fail to see how it can be for the good of the majority.

Midland's tremendous rate of growth has created new problems with traffic. Due to new home construction and increase in population growth south of Midland, many people have begun to use Marienfeld as an alternate to the congestion on South Big Spring Street during the rush hours. This has multiplied the problems of the residences on Marienfeld many times over. The foliage is covered with dust, automobiles stay dirty inside and out, and everything in the house is constantly covered with a film of dust.

Paving the remaining three blocks of Marienfeld to its junction with South Big Spring Street would do a great deal to relieve rush hour congestion. What are the present priorities for pavement of a street? Are traffic counters used to insure proper distribution of our street funds? What's a reasonable date to expect Marienfeld to be paved? — Robert W. Gollihar

ANSWER: George Medley, city engineer for Midland, says the first step in getting a street paved is to petition the City Council. He also said this does not always insure that a street will be paved, but a study of the situation will be made. Traffic counters are used to study the flow of traffic to determine if traffic control devices need to be installed.

Parents spend 'worst' weekend waiting for son

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Vera Mokshefski said it was going to be the "worst weekend I've ever spent" — waiting for Monday to see her 2-year-old son Jamie again. He was missing for nearly a month.

Mrs. Mokshefski said Jamie was the boy in a photograph sent from Texas, where child welfare authorities were taking care of the youngster.

The FBI compared ink footprints of the boy in Texas with Jamie's hospital records on Saturday and confirmed that the boy in Texas was Jamie.

Officials in Liberty, Texas, said the boy was taken into protective custody after a young woman tried to sell him for $100. Mrs. Mokshefski and El Paso County sheriff's officers were convinced before the FBI report that Jamie, missing since Sept. 25, had been found.

"I guess I won't see my boy until Monday. It's gonna be the worst weekend I've ever spent — worse than when I was having labor with him," Mrs. Mokshefski said. She and her husband, Charles, identified their son Friday night.

The boy was placed in a foster home after the woman tried to sell him so that she could have an abortion, authorities said. The woman escaped while being questioned by authorities, who picked her up Oct. 12.

"He was identified to us as Joe James Bishop by the girl who brought him in to us," said Donna Dodd, a Liberty County child welfare caseworker. "She left us at the courthouse, went to the restroom and never came back."

Federal and local kidnap warrants are outstanding for Jamie's babysitter, Letha Rose Kingsbury, 15, of Cheyenne, Wyo. She and Jamie disappeared after leaving the Mokshefski family trailer home here to go to a grocery store.

David Abernathy of Liberty said he picked up the boy and the woman along Interstate 10 in southeast Texas. The woman told him that she was traveling to Wallisville, Texas, to see her husband and would sell the boy to the first person who would pay $100.

Abernathy reported the woman's offer to the Chambers County Sheriff's Department.

Aside from some bite marks on his shoulder, the boy appeared to be in good condition, said Ms. Dodd. Jamie's parents feared that the boy, who has an asthmatic condition, would become ill without the medication he normally takes.

Mrs. Mokshefski said that she, her husband and their other three children had returned to Colorado late Friday from checking out possible sightings of Jamie in St. Louis, Des Moines, Iowa, and Cheyenne.

"We were putting posters out on our baby at a Denver truck stop late Friday night and a girl said, 'Why he's been picked up,'" Mrs. Mokshefski said.

In their search for Jamie, the Mokshefskis have gone twice to St. Louis, once with a clairvoyant on a trip paid for by well-wishers. Mokshefski makes $139 per week as a scrap yard worker.

The family took the Kingsbury girl into their home Sept. 20 after finding her walking along Interstate 25 near Colorado Springs. She told them she was a homeless orphan.

She had been released earlier that day from El Paso County Jail after serving a term for prostitution under an alias. Authorities later determined her real name and that she was a runaway.

$10.2 million bond issue to be decided Tuesday

cational versus academic, or elementary against secondary," he said.

"The bond package is for the benefit of the whole school district," Warren added.

THE OTHER MAJOR complaint about the bond issue has been the amount of money dedicated to expansion and renovation of Midland High School.

Of the $10.2 million package, $5.5 million will be spent at MHS. A million dollars will be set aside to purchase 13 homes and businesses west of the campus for new athletic practice fields and a $2.4 million physical education building.

While some complain the bond package — promoted as the "barebones needs" by school officials — overlooks the needs at Lee High School, others object to the possiblity the district will use of the power of eminent domain to acquire the remaining homes in the MHS expansion area.

Many of the residents in the area are senior citizens. While school officials claim they will pay fair market value and aid in relocating the residents, many are concerned about where they will go if they sell their homes.

To complaints about the amount of money being spent on athletics and physical education at MHS, trustees point out the present facilities are totally inadequate.

The ceiling in the current MHS gym is so low, special volleyball rules must be used, and only two restrooms are available for spectators at games played in the gym, school officials said.

THE CURRENT GYM will be remodeled into a learning resource center to replace the present inadequate library at MHS if the bonds pass, school officials said.

The tax increase needed to pay for the bond issue likely will be much less than the increase if the bonds fail, school officials note.

Projections show Midlanders will have to pay only a 4 percent average tax increase — about a nickel per year — to pay for the bonds. Since part of the repairs in the bond elections must be made soon whether or not the issue passes, the tax increase needed to add those expenses to the operating budget could run 15 cents next year, Warren predicted.

In addition, the growing population makes building a new elementary school in the booming northwest area of town a necessity within three years, school projections show.

Putting off the bonds for the new school will only up the cost later and result in crowded conditions in the existing schools, school officials contend.

While trustees profess they are optimistic about the outcome of the election, Warren, at least, has an alternate plan in case it fails.

"If the bonds don't pass this time," Warren said, "we have a responsibility as trustees to come right back and try again as soon as possible."

Cooler weather due in Basin area

Editor's Report

influenced by the Soviets. Nicaragua is teetering on the verge of Communism.

In other parts of that general area, Jamaica has turned sharply left, and so have St. Lucia and Grenada. All three have strong ties with Cuba.

With three naval bases in Cuba, Russia now could control the main shipping lanes, especially for those vessels that use the Panama Canal.

In the Middle East and in Africa, Russia also has us boxed in with military bases that command the international sipping lanes. If the Kremlin so desired it could shut off Europe's, Japan's and our Mideastern oil supply. If it were to clamp down, Saudi Arabia, our biggest foreign supplier, might as well be on the moon.

Iran, once one of our most powerful friends, is in chaos. Somalia is a Russian base. Ethopia is occupied by Cuban troops. Thus, the east coast of Africa is under Soviet domination. On the west coast of that continent, Angola is completely under the influence of the Kremlin, thanks to the incursion of Cuban troops.

Now the British and Americans are bringing all manner of pressure on Rhodesia's new government — strategically located near Africa's southeast coast — to force it to accept two Communist guerrilla leaders, Nkomo and Mugabe, one a fervent admirer of the Kremlin, the other an avowed and vocal Marxist.

One of the latest proposals is that the white families (who developed the coutry) be moved out and their land seized and that Britain and the United States reimburse them. Why, by any kind of reasoning, should American taxpayers spend money to help solve this British blunder?

What on earth are the Western leaders thinking of? Can they not see that the Russians are up to mischief throughout the world?

The cold war is not over. It never has been. The Communists are nibbling away at the smaller countries, especially those of strategic significance.

Yet Gov. Jerry Brown of California, on his 10-day tour of the East and Midwest to launch his presidential capaign, dismissed the Communist threat with a verbal shrug.

"The real threat to this country isnot the Russians but the weakening of our industries, the loss of jobs and the growing dependency," he said.

Worries about Russian troops in Cuba and proposals like the MX missile are not even relevant, he stated. He called them "crackpot."

It must escape the governor that when the Kremlin shouted a loud "no" to President Carter's request to withdraw Russian troops from Cuba, it gave the world a very clear and definite signal as to who is getting to be the boss.

That signal especially reached the Third World countries. The Soviets in effect proclaimed that their imperial expansionism, their colonialism, is getting new steam and they made it obvious that they hold it to be more important than their relations with the United States.

As Jeffrey Hart, Columnist for The Hearst Newspapers, pointed out, the Soviets are in the process of destabilizing the Caribbean. If they had made any concessions to President Carter or to Secretary of State Vance, they would be telling their local clients in Central American that Soviet support was less than certain.

The Kremlin's "nyet" to President Carter and Vance means full speed ahead in the Caribbean and in other tender Latin Amersican spots.

It was encouraging to hear Mr. Carter announce — belatedly — that he intends to take steps to cut Cuba's involvement abroad and to undercut Castro's influence in the Third World. Among other things, he intends to increase economic aid and military sales to small nations in the Caribbean and Latin America.

This will be fighting the Kremlin with its own weapons. But it will also be doing what Castro requested at the United Nations.

Nevertheless, these poor and small nations look first to the U.S. for help and if it is not forthcoming, they then turn to the Russians.

This is how the Soviets sustain their nibbling programs. They overwhelm a country with economic and military aid, then sic it on its neighbor with the intent to converting it to Communism.

As we have pointed out in this space before, the Russians are experts at saying "Let's you and him fight."

In akll this worldwide conquest described in the foregoing, you haven't seen one Russian platoon under fire.

They know that neither they nor we would unleash the nuclear holocaust over a small, Third World country, and they press that knowledge to its fullest advantage.

West Texas' 'rock of ages' called caliche

By MIKE SLATON
Staff Writer

Covering West Texas is a white, chalky rock that's as much a part of the landscape as pump jacks and mesquite.

Caliche is the name of the rock.

Used extensively to surface roads, the rock probably covers every rancher's trail and well location in the Permian Basin.

Dusty when it is dry and trecherously slick when wet, caliche is on or under nearly all the Tall City's streets and alleys.

Caliche road and caliche pit (what is left in the ground when you dig caliche to make a road) are common to the West Texas vernacular.

Scrape aside the thin topsoil of West Texas and there probably lies a layer of caliche.

It may be a few inches deep. Or it could be, as many would be shrub planters have suspicioned, 30 feet deep.

Caliche is found in selected areas all over the world, although more than a few Texans have voiced concern that the world's major supply was located in their backyard.

Locally, caliche is visual proof of the days when the Permian Basin was a vast inland sea.

When the water began to dry up about 40 million years ago, most of the sediment that was floating in the sea ended up on the bottom, according to reference material.

Part of that sediment was limestone — the dissolved remains of shell fish that lived in the sea.

Historial records show that rain dissolved the limestone out of the rest of the sediment. It filtered through the earth where it eventually collected in layers of sand, clay and gravel to became caliche.

People in West Texas have been digging caliche for years.

"It's not too hard to find," according to Don Bonifay, area manager for South Texas Construction Co.

The caliche pit his company operates south of Midland covers about 80 acres, Bonifay said. His firm owns four other caliche pits in South Texas, he added.

Other companies recently opened two caliche "mining" operations in north Midland, observed Bonifay.

The rock primarily is used as a base for roads and parking lots, said Bonifay.

Crushed and compacted, caliche provides a solid base for traffic.

"It acts something like concrete," he explained.

Asphalt is poured over the caliche to keep the water off, said Bonifay, adding that water has a tendency to break down the compacted caliche to a less-than-cement-like surface.

The landfill operated by the city of Midland near Cole Park originally was a caliche pit, said city engineer George Medley.

That was during the early 1950s.

"It wasn't called a landfill back then," Medley observed.

"We paved alleys and streets with the caliche and threw trash in the hole and burned it, the engineer said.

Joe Moore, a consulting geologist in Midland, remembers one caliche pit that had a more romantic use.

"In the 1930s and 1940, there was a big caliche pit on College Street near where the old college used to be. It was a local lovers lane where couples would drive and park."

A reminder of the days when Midland and the rest of the Permian Basin was at the bottom of an inland sea, caliche rock has been used for years to surface many of the Tall City's streets and alleys. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

Countries in 'Marxist family' giving IRA arms, explosives

CHESTER, England (AP) — The top police officer of troubled Northern Ireland said Saturday the outlawed Irish Republican Army is getting arms and explosives from "countries which are members of the Marxist family."

Sir Kenneth Newman, chief constable of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, did not name the countries, but in a scathing speech prepared for delivery to the Guild of British Newspaper Editors he called the IRA's terrorist acts "tyranny and depravity at its foulest."

"There are no limits to the depths to which they will sink: A child's body blown to pieces, a mother shot in the head, a group of diners incinerated in a restaurant, a town center devastated by a 1,000 pound bomb, a soldier or a policeman shot in the back as they go about their duty protecting the community," the text read.

Chinese, U.S. welcome ship to Chinese port

CANTON, China (AP) — Chinese and American officials clinked glasses Saturday and with a hearty "yum sing" — bottoms up — officially welcomed the first American ship to call at a south China port in 30 years.

At a reception aboard the S.S. Velma Lykes, anchored in Huangpu Harbor outside Canton, both the Americans and Chinese hailed the visit as another link of friendship between the two countries and a harbinger of increased trade.

The 7,189-ton freighter arrived in Huangpu as thousands of businessmen packed Canton for the annual fall trade fair, buying and selling goods that will keep more and more ships plying the Pacific between U.S. and Chinese ports.

"These are ports that the old U.S. tea clippers went to," said Capt. Joseph O. O'Connor Jr., of Chicago, who toasted his ship's arrival with California chablis. "I hope in the future, we'll have a lot of trade and be carrying a lot of goods both back and forth between China and the United States."

Ho Hu Guang, vice chairman of the Whampoa harbor administration bureau, who chose a soft drink for the toast, said increased shipping between China and the United States would "contribute to building friendship between the people of these two countries."

Iranian soldiers kill at least 14 Kurds

By The Associated Press

Iran's Revolutionary Guards have killed at least 14 Kurdish insurgents in scattered fighting in the Kurdistan region, rebel sources said, and the violence threatens peace talks initiated by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's government.

The commander of Iran's West Azerbaijan regional police, Col. Purshahab, was wounded in the leg in a two-hour clash between his men and a group of rebels in a Kurdish area, the official Tehran Radio reported in a broadcast monitored in London.

It said 20 rebels were wounded in the fight.

Sections of West Azerbaijan are part of the Kurdistan region, a mountainous area where the borders of Iran, Iraq and Turkey meet. Guerrillas were driven from major towns in Iranian Kurdistan last month in one of their periodic uprisings for political autonomy.

In another development, Iran's oil minister again denied reports of a drop in the county's crude oil production from the official target of 3.3 million barrels a day to one million.

FOR QUALITY EDUCATION
FOR EVERY MIDLAND CHILD!

Each one of us has served one or more terms as a member of the Midland School Board, many of us during periods of rapid growth such as our City is now experiencing. We have worked to maintain and enhance Midland's reputation for having the best schools in West Texas-a record which goes back to the early 1900's. We believe passage of the October 23rd bond proposals to be absolutely necessary, if our public school system is to continue to perform its responsibilities to every Midland child...and that is our solemn duty as citizens.

The School Bond is submitted in one "package", because improvements are designed to benefit the ENTIRE city not just one section. We have ONE school system, and ALL of it must measure up, if we're going to do the job.

Veterinarian 'really likes' job

By BILL MODISETT
Staff Writer

Most doctors don't expect to heal their patients and be bitten in return.

For Dr. Bobby Boyd, 27, of Midland that possibility exists every day. He is a veterinarian.

Boyd said he "really likes" his profession. "It's nice to do something that works occasionally."

During the two years he's practiced in Midland and the time he spent in Childress before coming to the Tall City, Boyd has seen all kinds of patients — dogs, cats, parrots, parakeets, ferrets, horses, buffalo, snakes and even a bobcat.

Midlander in Profile

Boyd said he treats "just basically anything that walks in the door."

"Every day you walk into a new world," the bearded Andrews native said. "You never know what's going to walk in the door that day."

Boyd recalled an incident a couple of years ago when he treated a bobcat — a pet — in Childress. The cat was afflicted with a sore throat. Not being a typically small, docile house feline, the situation was different in that a bite could have been serious.

But everything went well and the bobcat was given medication, he said.

Horses, literally, present the largest problem for Boyd. The four-legged creatures are difficult to treat, he said, "because of the size" and the fact that they're stronger than a veterinarian.

A veterinarian faces the possibility of being injured when treating a large animal such as a horse, Boyd said. But even small animals, such as dogs, can inflict a serious bite.

"With tranquilizers and other kinds of chemical restraints, you can usually get by all right," he commented.

"Snakes are very good patients," the veterinarian noted, "but I haven't treated rattlesnakes either."

What attracts a person to veterinary medicine?

"Umph. That's a tough question," Boyd noted. For him, the decision was a natural one because he grew up in Fort Stockton around farm and ranch animals, he said.

"You've got to have a soft heart, but...," the veterinarian paused.

"It was a job that I would enjoy and it wasn't something where I would get up and hate going to work every day," he added.

The job is challenging, technical and certainly not boring, Boyd continued. He was employed at a dairy while attending college, and he likes animals.

One would think a veterinarian has to care about life — the lives of animals — and Boyd confirmed it, saying he gets personal gratification out of curing animals.

He urges preventive medicine, saying many of the life-threatening illnesses he treats, such as canine distemper, can be avoided by vaccinating puppies as young as eight weeks of age.

"If people would start vaccinating dogs and cats as soon as they get them, that would be helpful," Boyd said.

That applies to rabies, the almost always fatal disease that has experienced a marked increase this year.

Heartworms in dogs is another dangerous canine disease, Boyd said, "and that will become a problem in Midland in time."

The disease, transmitted by mosquitos, can be prevented through a medication program, he said.

The veterinarian likes his patients, but he hates to lose one just as much as a human physician does; even if, occasionally, the patients thank him with a bite.

Oil official blames presidents, greed

HOUSTON (AP) — President Johnny Mitchell of Westworld Oil & Gas Co. blames American presidents since Dwight Eisenhower — plus the greed of major oil companies — for inflicting an "economic tragedy" on the United States.

Mitchell said Saturday although Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was the most knowledgeable president about oil and gas, "he did less to solve our nation's energy problems, and did the most to destroy our domestic industry."

The remarks by Mitchell, past president of Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association, were prepared for delivery to the Desk & Derrick Club seminar.

"What happened after World War II to the oil and gas industry was an economic tragedy inflicted upon the American people ... by a combination of ignorance, ambition, and deceit by national politicians from presidents down to the rookie congressmen and senator, plus the greed of the major oil companies," said Mitchell.

He said the "economic tragedy" was brought about by the decision of seven major oil companies to flood the American crude market with overseas oil, which depressed prices and made "life economically unbearable for thousands of independents," and the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling placing "unrealistic price controls on natural gas."

"We have learned a hard lesson, that energy is the staff of life for every nation, that energy is expensive, that our nation is out of energy,

Killers no more

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — It's 99-to-1 that the surly bees in Omar Aguilar's Brownsville hive aren't really killers.

Oh, they act like the killer strain from Brazil that have inspired movies and which cause periodic panic when false migrations are reported. They're aggressive, produce a large amount of honey and don't hesitate to move in with other species.

Those are traits associated with the killer bees, and they caught the attention of Rod O'Connor, director of the freshman chemistry department at Texas A&M University here.

O'Connor had just finished a seminar on the chemistry of bee stings when Aguilar, a student, told him about his family's hives near Brownsville.

O'Connor and other experts flew to Brownsville to inspect the suspect stingers.

"It didn't take long to see that the hives were not uniform — some were built better than others," O'Connor said. "And that was the case with the hive in question, the one that possibly housed the killer bees. It was better designed, and that was the reason for the increased honey production."

Aguilar told the A&M team that he worked his bees without smudge pots, which produce smoke that has a calming effect on bees. O'Connor said that probably accounted for the noted aggressiveness.

For those reasons, O'Connor said, "We're 99 percent sure that those "unusual" bees young Aguilar spotted...were just drones," he said.

But because of the longshot, two dozen of the bees met untimely ends. They were frozen and reposed in a freezer at A&M, pending shipment to a California specialist for final analysis.

THE MIDLAND NATIONAL BANK presents straight talk on high interest rates and tight money.

To our customers and other interested West Texans,

Recently, there has been a great deal of talk about high interest rates and the money supply. I think it is time for The Midland National Bank to address this subject.

The regulatory bodies and the administration in Washington have chosen to fight inflation primarily by decreasing the supply of lendable dollars and increasing the interest rates charged to borrowers. While the merits of this action will be debated for years to come, The Midland National Bank makes this statement now . . . we will honor all of our existing commitments and continue to meet the legitimate credit requirements that are requested.

We have the professional ability to stay abreast of economic conditions, and we will respond quickly and positively to your banking needs. Therefore, the communication you have with your Midland National Bank officer is more important than ever. Together we can make sound financial decisions in your personal or commercial business.

As in previous uncertain times, The Midland National Bank has approached the situation in a realistic and honest manner. We will continue with this approach and a renewed commitment to keep Midland strong and viable. We believe in the future of our city.

Over the past several days, we have had numerous calls from you seeking information and advice. We are always pleased to hear from you and encourage your inquiries.

Yours very truly,

Council to consider annexing property

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Midland's sprawling growth in recent years stretched slowly northward until it bumped into the city limits, and then has inched slowly into the county.

For this reason, the Midland City Council will consider a proposal to annex 5½ square miles north of the Midland city limits when the six-member panel meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

If the council passes a resolution calling for a public hearing on annexation, it will mark the first time in five years the panel has considered the subject of enlarging the city's limits.

Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, said the item was placed on the agenda at his request.

If the city passes the resolution, a date for the public hearing will be scheduled. Hennessy said the proposal for annexation would go first to the Planning and Zoning Commission for its review and recommendations.

Those recommendations would be considered at the public hearing, Hennessy added.

Midland last annexed property on Oct. 22, 1974. This action brought 2,700 acres under the arm of the city, said the director. "Very little more has been added since then," and that was at the request of landowners.

Midland currently consists of 21,900 acres over 34 square miles.

The 5½ square miles proposed by the planning department ranges from one to two miles beyond the north city limit, starting on the west at Holiday Hill Road and ending at Ramesa Road.

The two mile jag is planned to include Green Tree Country Club, Hennessy said, because of the residential development planned there.

The city's northern boundary stops about half a mile north of FM 868. The annexation move would bring the current and planned developments along FM 868 — also location of the proposed Loop 250 — under the city's regulations, services and taxing capability.

"This is a reasonable area to begin consideration (for annexation)," Hennessy said.

His department first studied the issue in 1976, but the Planning and Zoning Commission recommended annexation be dropped for at least 18 months. And there was a problem with the city's animal and fowl ordinance, he recalled.

That ordinance prohibited any farm-type animals within the city limits, Hennessy said, which made it contradictory to the Agriculture-Estate District regulations. Under those rules, farm-type animals could be retained within city limits.

Since 1976, the city ordinance has been amended so farm-type animals are permitted in an Agriculture-Estate District and some single-family districts, Hennessy said.

"With the additional development in this area (north of FM 868) since 1976, it appeared to be timely to bring it (annexation) up for consideration," he said.

Rules of annexation restrict the city to taking in a maximum of 10 percent of the town's existing area. "Any part of that (10 percent) we don't use one year can be carried over to the next for up to three years," he said.

Midland could annex an area of land 30 percent the size of the existing city, he explained.

The 5½-square-mile tract falls well within the 10 percent restriction, Hennessy said.

An annexation process — from the time it is initiated until its final approval — takes about three to four months. The fastest time period would be little more than two months.

This means, in effect, that if the City Council moves ahead with annexation on Tuesday, landowners in the proposed area could find themselves under the wing of city government by February 1980.

Refinancing of water, sewer bonds on council's agenda

Implementing the plan for refinancing water and sewer bonds will be considered by the Midland City Council when it meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

A plan proposed by Rauscher, Pierce, Inc., was selected by the council at its last session as the road to take on refinancing the bonds.

One item on the agenda will consider all matters relating to the refinancing and passing an ordinance on the matter. A second item calls for the council to consider authorizing the city manager to borrow funds on a short-term basis to implement the refinancing procedure.

Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, Inc., is scheduled to report on the water supply and transmission system improvements at Paul Davis Well Field. Expansion and improvements to this water supply were approved by the voters in a bond election in early September.

Council members should hear a report from Louis Perkins on improvements to streets, alleys, vacant lots and zoning in an area south of Industrial Avenue.

The panel also will consider a resolution establishing the Midland Center Advisory Board and deciding qualifications and duties of the members. Midland Center is the city's exhibition center under construction at Wall and Main streets.

A management and operating agreement with the Midland Chamber of Commerce concerning Midland Center also should be considered.

A bid for site work next to the center will be considered in Tuesday's session.

Parking turnover and usage of downtown meters will be reviewed for the council by a representative of the city's Public Works Department.

Proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance will be discussed. One change would be in the sale of alcoholic beverages and the other would be in the size of signs for residential, office and neighborhood service districts.

Peddlers and where they can sell goods may come under scrutiny by the council. A proposed amendment to the city code regarding this type of salesmen is on the agenda.

Other items deal with zone change requests, preliminary plats and accepting a bid on chairs and chair carriers for Midland Center.

Cherokee rally at dam site stalled when dynamite found

CHOTA, Tenn. (AP) — A rally of Cherokee Indians and other opponents of the Tellico Dam was interrupted briefly Saturday when sheriff's deputies found 16 sticks of dynamite at the rally site, an ancient Cherokee burial ground.

Monroe County Sheriff R.H. Johnson said the dynamite with blasting caps attached to it was found in a plastic garabage bag about 200 yards from a stage used by rally speakers.

Two agents and a bomb expert from the federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau dismantled the material but said there was little danger of it exploding since there was no timer or other detonating device.

Police allowed the rally to continue but ordered about 50 of the more than 1,500 people gathered at the site to move away from the area where the dynamite was found. Traffic to the site was also blocked for about two hours.

The rally was held to support a lawsuit filed by the Cherokees to prevent completion of the Tennessee Valley Authority dam. The Indians say the ancient burial ground and the birthplace of the Cherokee Indian nation will be flooded if the dam's gates close on the Little Tennessee River as scheduled next month.

It is the latest — and probably the last — legal move to block the flooding, which was suspended for three years during a legal fight over the habitat of a rare tiny fish, the snail darter.

Cherokees from Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Colorado and Oklahoma began arriving at the site Friday afternoon — their numbers swelled by landowners displaced by TVA, environmentalists and others opposed to the dam. In all, about 650 people camped out overnight.

Organizers hoped for a peaceful meeting, but other signs of the strong feelings between supporters and opponents of the dam were abundant.

Friday night, TVA officials had to use a truck equipped with a magnet to pick up more than 150 pounds of nails strewn along the single-lane dirt road to the campsite. And on Saturday, two busloads of Cherokees passed by a dummy of an Indian hung in effigy from a telephone pole five miles from the rally's site.

Chota was the capital of the Cherokee indian nation in the late 1700s before Andrew Jackson drove them west on the grueling and fatal march to Oklahoma remembered as the Trail of Tears.

To protect the site, the Cherokees filed suit in federal court in Knoxville on Oct. 12 charging that completion of the dam would violate their religious rights by flooding their sacred burial grounds. A hearing on the suit is scheduled next Friday before U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor.

Environmentalists and the displaced landowners, who had fought the dam for 10 years, looked on the Cherokees' suit as their last chance to stop the TVA from turning the Little Tennessee River into a 16,000-acre lake.

Last week, TVA completed all the work needed to close the dam's gates and impound the lake.

McInnis ordered to turn law license over to clerk

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis has been ordered disbarred and instructed to turn his law license over to the district clerk.

State District Judge Joe Evins disbarred McInnis Friday, saying the longtime prosecutor was guilty of the State Bar charges brought against him.

A jury ruled last week in favor of the State Bar in its civil trial to have McInnis barred from practicing law. The charges alleged professional misconduct.

Before disbarring McInnis, Evins said that people in the county elected him to try all cases "regardless of controversy, public clamor or criticism."

"I would never make a decision I myself would never be able to live with," said Evins.

After he heard Evins' decision, McInnis said, "Over 2,500 years ago there was a king, one of the wisest kings of the Jews, who said that any story sounds true until someone comes along and tells the other side and sets the record straight."

AREA REPORT

Chamber to print city maps of Stanton

STANTON — Martin County Chamber of Commerce has decided to provide Stanton residents with a map of the city.

Chamber officials said that a map of the city doesn't exist that could be mass produced. Director George Harrill located a map of Stanton and said it would have to be updated somewhat.

The chamber is planning to print about 1,000 maps. Selling advertisements on the maps to defray printing costs still is being discussed.

McCamey sets radiological course

McCAMEY — A three-day Radiological Monitor School will be held here beginning Nov. 6. Sponsoring the workshop will be the Division of Emergency Medical Services of the Texas Department of Health and the Upton County Civil Defense Office.

The class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. Nov. 6-8 in the Fire Station at City Hall. Further information may be obtained from Judge Peggy Garner.

This training is designed to assist local officials in developing a monitoring capability to cope with a nuclear emergency.

Lamesa annexes property

LAMESA — The Lamesa City Council approved annexation of a lot in the Wymiajean subdivision, bringing the area into the city limits.

The property is owned by Richard Brewer and Ray Brewer. It is located adjacent to the city on South 8th Street.

During the City Council meeting, Assistant City Manager Mike Duran said the city should expect to receive about $623,000 in federal money for construction of a water main out to the new shopping center.

Hobbs voters OK bond issue

HOBBS, N.M. — A $4.5 million bond issue for New Mexico Junior College was passed by Lea County voters by a margin of 652 votes.

The 11 NMJC precincts voted 2,865 for to 1,759 against for the issue to expand and improve the junior college facilities.

The money will finance an addition to Pannell Library and Instructional Resource Center and an expansion to Caster Gymnasium and Activities Center.

Crane parents plan celebration

CRANE — The Halloween Carnival celebration will begin here Oct. 30, and is being organized by the Crane Elementary Parents. Trick or treating will be conducted from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Oct. 30. A fire whistle will sound the opening of the house-to-house search for candy, and the whistle will signal the end.

Crane residents are being asked to donate items for the Country Store. Boxes are set up at the elementary, primary and kindergarten buildings where these items can be deposited.

Conservation district names Post

ANDREWS — John Post of Andrews has been elected to the position of director of Subdivision No. 1 of the Andrews Soil and Water Conservation District. His term is for five years.

The election was held at the Andrews SWCD Agriculture Building with all land owners in the county's division eligible to vote.

Howard County youth named state 4-H winner

COLLEGE STATION — Kent Robinson, a Howard County youth who "grew up" with 4-H, has been named a state winner in the Santa Fe Railway program.

Robinson will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 25-30, provided by the Santa Fe Railway System, according to state 4-H officials at Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University System. Santa Fe sponsors a total of eight trips to the congress plus four $600 scholarships to outstanding 4-H members in Texas.

Robinson, 19, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Ackerly. He currently is attending Howard County Junior College in Big Spring where he is majoring in agriculture-business. He is a member of the Knott 4-H Club.

Robinson said his parents have been involved in 4-H for as long as he can remember, and he went to 4-H events long before he was old enough to join. Over the past 10 years, he has served in every office in his club and has served on the county council.

In 1975 he received the Gold Star Boy Award in his county. For the past five years, he has served as a 4-H junior rodeo director.

He is a member and past director of the Texas Junior Hereford Association and is now involved in his own beef cattle operation due to his beef project in 4-H.

He has won a number of awards at local and area livestock shows with his steers and heifers. He also has been active in livestock judging and has competed at State 4-H Roundup. In addition, he competed at roundup in the entomology contest.

This past year, Robinson assisted with the state steer validation tagging and indentification program. He also assisted his father on the Howard County Screworm Committee in taking samples for laboratory study in Mission.

He plans to begin farming and ranching full time when he finishes college.

Ike secretly taped talks in oval office

HOUSTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower secretly recorded conversations in his oval office over a five-year period, including one in which he criticized his vice president, Richard Nixon, the Houston Chronicle said Saturday in a copyright story.

Newly disclosed records at the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan. revealed that Eisenhower started recording meetings in October 1953 and continued the practice at least until December 1958, the Chronicle said.

When Nixon was elected president he also followed the practice.

The Chronicle said that although the existence of the taping system was a well-kept secret of the Eisenhower administration, some top officials were aware of the system including Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Transcripts of the tapes generally were prepared by the president's trusted personal secretary, Mrs. Ann C. Whitman, who had problems understanding the tapes. Many of the conversations were paraphrased rather than transcribed word-for-word, the newspaper said.

On one transcript, Mrs. Whitman noted, "Large portions of tape were completely garbled. The noise of the machine itself is so great that the words, while loud enough, cannot be understood."

Nixon, who was forced to resign as president in August 1974 in part because of information that became public from his own secret taping system, was criticized by Eisenhower in a transcript of an oval office conversation from June 29, 1954, the Chronicle reported.

According to the newspaper Eisenhower was upset with Nixon for his outspoken criticism of the Democratic leadership's handling of foreign policy.

Eisenhower started by telling Nixon that he wanted to talk with him about what the president called Nixon's "castigation" of Democratic handling of foreign policy. Secretary of State Dulles was trying to obtain bipartisan support for his polices, Eisenhower said, and Nixon's speeches clearly endangered Dulles' efforts.

Main Street entrance to parking lot to open

Entrance to the parking lot at the George Mahon Federal Building on West Wall Street will be switched to a different location Monday.

Instead of entering the lot off Wall Street, drivers will have to come in off Main Street, said George Medley, engineer for the city of Midland.

Only traffic that is northbound on Main Street can pull into the lot, he said. It will be illegal for those cars going south on Main Street to make a left turn into the lot.

Medley said the change was made because of the traffic pileup at the intersection of Wall and Main streets in the early morning and late afternoon as many residents are on their way to the Post Office, located in the Federal Building.

The General Services Administration approved the change and supplied the money, Medley said. The city of Midland did the work.

The switch should provide a few more parking spaces in the long run by the time the Wall Street entrance is closed, he added.

Medley warned there may be some confusion for the first few days about the new opening. But by the time residents become accustomed to it, the flow of traffic into the parking lot should be smoother and traffic problems at the intersection should decrease, he said.

All-City Choir will perform after day-long music clinic

The Midland All-City Choir will perform Tuesday in the Lee High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Eighty-four students were selected Oct. 9 for the all-city group by a panel of six judges. About 150 seventh-, eighth-, and ninth-grade students auditioned.

The performance, following an all-day clinic, will be directed by Bobby L. Siltman, music consultant for the Abilene Independent School District.

Siltman received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. While serving in the U.S. Army, he was director of the Second Army Major Command Chorus.

Siltman has done pioneer work in the use of guitars and handbells used as accompaniment to junior high choral music. He also serves as an arranger of male chorus literature for several music publishers.

Joining the 11 city choirs at the evening performance will be choirs from Midland and Lee high schools.

Commissioners meet Monday

The Midland County Commissioners will gather again at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the commissioners courtroom in the county courthouse, this time to discuss the proposed Loop 250, Spur 217 and Highway 191.

Commissioners also will hear a request from the city of Midland to aide financially in the completion of the Senior Citizens Center.

Commissioners will discuss appointing a representative to the board of directors for the Midland County Appraisal District and consider holding a public hearing at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 12 to discuss lowering the speed limit on County Roads 1223 and 1221 from 55 mph to 35 mph.

Texas pecans fine in '79

By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Extension Agent — Agriculture

This year's Texas pecan harvest will reach a record high. One million trees currently hold 100 pounds of nuts each and Texas producers are anticipating a harvest of over 80 million pounds. Much of this crop will be marketed and consumed in the Lone Star State. This large crop means the price for Texas pecans will be very good in 1979. Our 1979 weather conditions plus freedom from pests indicate that the quality should also be good. Local producers in Midland and other West Texas counties can supply high quality, improved pecans straight from the farm.

Shoppers should be aware of poor pecans coming into Texas from other states. Last year's pecan crop in the Southeastern states was very large and their annual rainfall was very low, which resulted in poor quality nuts. These nuts have been held over in refrigeration and will be sold in October and November. If you purchase pecans directly from your Texas producers, you know you will be getting better quality pecans.

THERE ARE MANY REASONS for an exceptionally good crop in Texas this year. The cold, wet winter was excellent preparation for this spring's growing season. The fact that Texas had a low crop in 1978 means the trees were not in a stressed contition when growth began last spring. Cool weather and frequent rain in April and May encouraged a large crop.

By the middle of May, horticulturists throughout the state had recognized that 1979 was going to be a good year. Rains have been far above average in most sections and have come on a three-week interval, which is almost perfect for setting a good crop of pecans. The low spring temperatures also suppressed pecan scab, which is a major disease in many seasons. An insect known as the pecan nut casebearer can frequently reduce the crop 30 to 90 percent. However, in 1979 this pest was essentially non-existent in many areas of Texas.

More important, many growers are following recommendations of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and, through good management, are producing high quality pecans on a regular basis. This management program includes nitrogen fertilization, zinc sprays, insect and disease control, weed management and regular irrigation. The test of a good pecan producer will come in 1980, for only the growers who have a good management program will have a good crop next year.

WITH VISIONS OF A WARM fire and a cozy fireplace, many homeowners begin to search for firewood this time of year. To help in this effort, here are some pointers on shopping for, or choosing, the right type of wood.

Price comparisons may be difficult since firewood is sold in various quantities — the standard cord, the face cord or by the truckload. A standard cord is 8 feet long, 4 feet wide and 4 feet high, or 128 cubic feet. On the other hand, a face cord measures 8 feet by 4 feet on the face of the stack, with the wood cut into shorter pieces. The face cord measurer about one-third to one-half of a standard cord and is often called a "short cord."

The best way to compare prices is to calculate the cubic feet of wood. Measure the stack and multiply the length by the width and by the height. Following this advice will also keep the unwary buyer from making a mistake on what appears to be a bargain. Also, use cubic feet measurements on truckloads of firewood. After the truck is unloaded and the wood stacked, multiply the length, width and height of the stack in feet; then divide by 128 to obtain the portion of a cord you have. For example: 6 feet by 2 feet by 4 feet — 48 cubic feet; 48 divided by 128 equals .38 or about one-third of a standard cord. A good rule of thumb is that a standard half-ton pickup without heavy duty springs can carry about one-third cord.

What woods make the best firewood? Certain types of firewood burn better than others. Live oak, hickory, white oak, post oak, red oak, pecan and mesquite are excellent, long-burning woods with a high heat output. However, pine and cedar are softwoods that make excellent kindling but produce only short-burning fires.

Grain producers given green light

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Friday that farmers who produce corn and other feed grains will not have to idle any of their land next year as a qualification for federal price supports.

Bergland announced the decision at a meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Consultants and asked that it be "off the record." However, it was widely circulated within hours among commodity traders.

For the past two years, wheat and feed grains producers have been required to idle a portion of their cropland to be eligible for federal price supports, target price payments and other benefits.

Bergland announced on Aug. 1 that wheat farmers would not have to set aside any acreage to qualify for supports on their 1980 crop.

Thus, so far as federal farm programs are concerned, grain producers have a clear signal to go all-out on production next year.

Rocks from high and low

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Murray arranged to obtain a moon rock to display at the Toledo Gem and Rockhound Club Show. They also obtained no duties scooped from the ocean floor some 30,000 feet below the surface.

The show can thus display specimens from the highest and lowest points reached by man.

Home heating and cooling costs doubled after the 1973 oil embargo and continue to rise. Some authorities predict that energy prices could double again in 5 years. A dismaying prospect. If this happens, each energy saving step we take today that saves $100 a year will save us $200 a year in 5 years.

Most of our homes were built when energy was cheap and plentiful and they lose and gain heat in ways that we can no longer tolerate. It flows out all too readily in the winter and streams in just as readily in the summer. Their invidisble flow are a at our expense.

It is not necessary to plug all leaks. For example, a partially insulated outside wall - hard to get into except by a contractor with blowers - may not repay the cost of added insulation. Roofs, attic spaces and windows are more important sources of leakage and are easier to deal with. We should therefore give priority to plugging big leaks and those that can be dealt with easily.

How much can be saved in an average home by conservation measures? Estimates by experts range from 20-50%.

Tests now offer help for men

SEATTLE (AP) — Researchers have launched a program of self-examination for early detection of possible malignancies in the testicles of men.

Testicular tumors are relatively rare but usually malignant, according to Dr. William B. Hutchinson, director of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle, which is conducting the program.

Hutchinson said testicular cancer was often curable if detected and treated in its early stages. But, he added, most cases were now diagnosed in the late stages, making treatment difficult.

The self-examination program for men has been combined with the Center's breast self-examination presentation for women and is being presented to high school students throughout the Pacific Northwest, Hutchinson said.

Matera sentenced in GSA scandals

BALTIMORE (AP) — The highest-ranking government official accused in the General Services Administration scandal has been sentenced to six months in prison for bribery.

Albert Matera, one of the three supervisors overseeing GSA retail operations for the mid-Atlantic region, also was sentenced to two years probation for accepting an illegal gratuity from a government contractor. U.S. District Judge C. Stanley Blair handed down the sentence Friday.

Matera, 66, a retired Army lieutenant colonel from Alexandria, Va., pleaded guilty five days after his indictment in Baltimore last May. He retired from his $35,000-a-year job with the GSA five months before his indictment.

Matera told Blair that he had arranged to buy $1,300 worth of carpeting for his home through the contractor and had intended to pay for it when he retired from the GSA. But, he added, he had delayed his retirement due to family health problems and had not paid the contractor when the FBI questioned him.

The contractor, Thomas Willingham, is president of Atlantic Office Supply Co., of Bladensburg. Willingham was sentenced earlier this month to 10 months in jail for conspiracing to defraud the government by bribing GSA employees and failing to deliver merchandise.

Lions Club to honor Minear

The Downtown Lions Club will honor one of its veteran members and past presidents, Roy A. Minear, a past district governor of Lions International, at a banquet session scheduled Friday night at Ranchland Hills Country Club. It will be a ladies night event.

Chairman George Loudamy said a social period will begin at 6:30 p.m., with dinner to be served at 8.

Everett J. "Ebb" Grindstaff of Ballinger, third vice president of Liona International, will be a program participant. Mrs. Grindstaff will accompany her husband to the Midland meeting.

A number of past district governors and other prominent Lions from over Texas are expected to be in attendance.

Club President Ray Gwyn said a near-record crowd is expected for the special occasion.

J.A. firms receiving charters

Chief executive officers of Midland Junior Achievement adviser firms are presenting official charters to the J.A. companies they sponsor this week and next week.

Although the charters are issued by the regional J.A. office in Atlanta, Ga., they are designed to give Achievers a sense of what it would be like to apply to the state for a corporate charter.

Issuance of a charter signifies the achieving of certain requirements and represents legal permission to operate a business.

Each J.A. company also is holding its first board of directors meeting this week and next week. The first board meeting is a milestone in the five-week process of advisers turning responsibility over to the teenagers, J.A. officials said.

At the board meetings, reports are given on sales, production and finance and decisions and plans for future business are made.

Latin American industry on rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manufacturing represents a steadily rising proportion of Latin America's gross domestic product, says the Inter-American Development Bank.

According to the bank's annual survey on economic and social progress in the region, the manufacturing share of the GDP rose from 23.2 percent in 1960-64 to 26.6 percent in 1979-74.

At the same time, agriculture has steadily declined, dropping from 16 percent in 1960-64 to 12.2 percent in 1970-74 and 11.1 percent in 1975-78, the bank reported.

"No Question About The Need....."

Even those who have opposed Tuesday's School Bond Issue Acknowledge that the need is pressing to renovate and expand facilities at both high schools and other elementary and junior high schools and to build a new elementary school...but they use other reasons-totally unrelated to that need-to distract attention from the REAL issue: Shall we provide adequate facilities for the education of our children? There are no "frills" here-the School Board has cut the costs to the bone. If taxpayers wait to do these necessary things, the cost and the tax increase will be much, much more. And our educational program will suffer.

THE PEOPLE OF MIDLAND HAVE ALWAYS RESPONDED TO THE DEMANDS OF GROWTH, AND BECAUSE OF THAT WE HAVE CONTINUED TO GROW. ONE OF THE FIRST THINGS A PROSPECTIVE NEW INDUSTRY CLOSELY EXAMINES IS OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM AND HOW THE COMMUNITY SUPPORTS IT BY PROVIDING ADEQUATE FACILITIES AND A QUALITY PROGRAM OUR RECORD AS EDUCATIONAL LEADER IN WEST TEXAS IS ESTABLISHED. LET'S KEEP IT INTACT BY GOING TO THE POLLS TUESDAY AND VOTING "FOR" THE SCHOOL BONDS WITH AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY!

- The cost per family is minimal: less per month than most of us pay for lunch every day...much less than one ticket to a movie. We expect good schools and we can have them if we're willing to pay just that much!
- Unless we do these things NOW, the cost will be much higher...and we might be forced into one high school-which Midland neither wants nor needs.
- Midland has ONE school system, and ALL of it needs these improvements. Let's act TOGETHER to make it happen.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Prescription drugs called greater problem than illegal variety

Dear Dr. Solomon: A few years ago I had trouble losing weight, and my doctor prescribed amphetamines. I am also taking tranquilizers and antidepressants. I would like to stop taking all these pills, but the trouble is that I can't do without them now. Is there any place I can go for help with this problem? — Tessie.

Dear Tessie: An organization called Pills Anonymous (PA) has been formed to try to assist people who have become dependent on prescription drugs. The founders were members of Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) who were addicted to both alcohol and pills, and their idea was to apply the AA approach to people dependent on drugs.

It is important to emphasize that it is not illegal drugs that are the focus of PA, but drugs prescribed by a physician. Thomas Coffer, director of the Bureau of Prescription Analysis within the New York State Department of Health, says that prescription drugs are a greater source of drug abuse in the United States than illegal drugs. He notes that people are becoming increasingly more dependent on drugs, and that many seem to be loath to tolerate any degree of pain or discomfort as long as there is a pill available that can make them feel better.

Many people start taking prescription drugs to alleviate chronic pain, such as that caused by an arthritic condition, migraine headaches or a pinched nerve. Frequently the amount a person takes gradually increases until drug dependency develops.

The National Institute on Drug Abuse reports that 120 million prescriptions for sleeping pills and tranquilizers alone were filled in 1977. It is estimated that 51 million people in the United States have used tranquilizers prescribed for them by a doctor, about 23 million have used sedatives and 17 million have used various kinds of stimulants.

Dr. Herbert Peyser, a psychiatrist, notes that dependency on prescription drugs is largely a middle-class phenomenon. Since there is a stigma attached to it and the habit is therefore kept secret, the extent of the problem can only be guessed at. The problem, however, is serious — and growing.

Although many people begin using prescription drugs for legitimate reasons, others become dependent after experimenting with tranquilizers or stimulants for what are termed "recreational purposes." PA not only provides the emotional support needed by its members, but teaches methods of coping with pain that do not require drugs.

A number of state and federal agencies have become interested in the problem of prescription drug abuse and are exploring ways to control it. The Senate Small Business Committee has held a series of meetings, part of which was devoted to suggestions for restricting the sale of various prescription drugs which lend themselves to abuse.

The goal of all these efforts is the same — to make certain that when drugs are prescribed for a medical condition, the cure does not become worse than the disease.

Chrysler fears loss of two plants

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — The federal government's pressure on Chrysler Corp. to cut back its requested federal aid could be "an anti-worker move" if it means the tottering No. 3 automaker has to sell two of its best plants, a vice president of the United Auto Workers union said Saturday.

The two plants in question are the company's electronics plant in Huntsville, Ala., and a gear plant in Syracuse, N.Y.

Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca, as quoted by UAW President Douglas A. Fraser on Saturday, has said all or part of the two plants, plus the automakers's financial subsidiary, might have to be sold as a consequence of Chrysler's scaling back its request for loan guarantees from $1.2 billion to $750 million.

If the difference between the two figures means the partial or total sale of the two plants, "then the price is too high," Fraser told reporters during a break at contract bargaining at Chrysler headquarters Saturday.

UAW Vice President Mark Stepp, head of the union's Chrysler department, added, "for the government to demand that of the corporation is really an anti-worker move."

As examples of harm to workers, Stepp said they would lose rights to transfer to other Chrysler facilities in the event of layoffs.

Fraser said both plants are "excellent facilities" and profitable. Chrysler as a whole expects to lose $1 billion this year.

The Syracuse plant employs 3,577, of which 3,026 are UAW members. The Huntsville plant employs 1,674, with UAW membership of 1,015.

Chrysler has about 110,000 production workers in the United States and Canada, with 29,000 of them now on indefinite layoff. Their average wage is $9 an hour.

Both plants have extensive sales to other auto companies. Transfer cases made in Syracuse for four-wheel drive transmissions have found wide acceptance in the industry in the recent four-wheel drive boom.

Chrysler's revised aid request, said the company, would increase by $400 million from its previous plan, unspecified "asset dispositions" and other items. The company's financial subidiary and the gear plant had been targeted by industry analysts as prime candidates, but the Huntsville plant had been much less frequently mentioned.

Fraser said reports he was receiving agreed with those coming to Sen. Carl Levein, D-Mich.

Hogs shock Texas, 17-14

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz is famous for his magic acts, but War Memorial Stadium has never seen anything like the one he pulled off Saturday.

He took a talented but untested No. 10-ranked Arkansas team, tried out some new formations, chewed out a tight end who became the game's hero and took the Razorbacks to a shocking 17-14 upset over the No. 2-rated Texas Longhorns.

Tight end Darryl Mason caught a 7-yard touchdown pass and Ish Ordonez kicked a 31-yard field goal to provide the second-half points the Razorbacks needed.

Earlier, Mason had dropped a pass and Holtz told him when he came off the field: "You've got to compete. You've got to make the tough plays in this kind of game."

MASON THEN came back to make one of the toughest plays possible, catching the touchdown pass as he tumbled into the end zone.

"Our players looked adversity in the eye and hung in there," said Holtz. "It was a great victory because we beat a great football team."

It was the first time Arkansas had defeated Texas since 1971.

"We didn't do anything all that fancy," said Holtz. "I told the squad before the game we'd have some trouble moving against their defense. Their defense is everything people have said about it."

Arkansas, short of tight ends, had as many as three wide receivers in the game at times.

"We just had to play our own game," Holtz said. "It was a heckuva game. Things happened almost like I expected. The only thing I didn't expect was for them to intercept the bomb (on Arkansas' first play of the game)."

TEXAS COACH Fred Akers said, "Arkansas is a fine football team. They deserved to win the ballgame."

Texas Quarterback Donnie Little said, "If we had taken care of our business, we would be No. 1 in the country. This is hard to take."

Mason's spectacular third-quarter catch of a pass from Kevin Scanlon and Ordonez's field goal gave Arkansas just enough room to escape the Longhorns. It was Ordonez's 15th consecutive field goal — an NCAA record. With 1:29 to play, Texas charged to the Arkansas 33, where barefoot sophomore John Goodson's 51-yard field goal attempt was short into a 24-mile-an-hour wind.

With Arkansas leading 17-7, Texas sophomore tight end Lawrence Sampleton somehow caught a tipped, 35-yard pass from Donnie Little to pull Texas within the final margin with 5:01 left.

The frustrated Razorbacks, who hadn't beaten the Longhorns since 1971, shook off an early 37-yard touchdown run by Texas' A.J. "Jam" Jones to dominate the second half and send the stadium record crowd of 55,838 at War Memorial Stadium into delirium.

FRESHMAN GARY Anderson of Columbia, Mo., gave the Razorbacks heart just before halftime when he bolted 28 yards for a touchdown to even the game 7-7.

The game-winner came after a critical Texas mistake when sophomore Ricky Richardson forced Little to fumble and another sophomore, Jeff Goff, covered it for Arkansas at the Horn 29.

Scanlon then passed 16 yards to Mason, who lost a shoe in the process. The Razorbacks worked the ball to the Texas 7. On third down, Scanlon found Mason all alone with a wobbly pass that Mason snagged at his shoetops as he rolled over in the end zone.

Then Arkansas iced the game against the second-best defense in the country by charging 66 yards in 16 clock-eating plays to set up Ordonez's 31-yard field goal with 8:25 to play.

Arkansas increased its overall record to 6-0 and the Razorbacks are 3-0 in SWC play. Previously unbeaten Texas dropped to 4-1 overall and is 1-1 in league play.

IN TEXAS' last gasp, the Longhorns got the ball with 3:52 to play on their own 43. Arkansas seemed to have the drive stopped when Johnny "Lam" Jones made a leaping catch over the middle on fourth and 19. The play stood for 23 yards and Texas had a first down at the Arkansas 33.

The hard-pressing Arkansas defense forced three hurried incompletions before Goodson failed in his attempt to tie the game.

Arkansas took it to Texas starting with the first play of the game. With three wide receivers in the lineup and speedy Bobby Duckworth at tight end, Scanlon threw long down the middle and All-America safety Johnnie Johnson intercepted and returned it 24 yards to the Razorback 46.

Texas had to punt, but Anderson made the mistake of fielding the ball on his 1-yard line. Arkansas couldn't move and quick-kicked the ball to the Razorback 46.

The Longhorns had to settle for Goodson's 41-yard field goal attempt and it went wide.

Texas struck for a touchdown on its next possession. On second and 9 from the Arkansas 37, "Jam" Jones set sail wide with a pitch from Little. Jones turned the corner and followed a block by Leroy King on Trent Bryant to score standing up.

Arkansas battled back in the second period with the gusty wind at its back on a humid, 85-degree day.

Duckworth dropped a sure touchdown pass and Arkansas had to punt, but safety Kevin Evans made a leaping interception at the Longhorn 40. Anderson exploded on his 28-yard touchdown run with Robert Farrell chopping down cornerback Vance Bedford for the key block.

It was the first rushing touchdown allowed by Texas this year.

Raiders act like beach bullies

BY TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

LUBBOCK—It was the first time they've had the opportunity all year and Texas Tech behaved like the beach bully against Rice, the 98-pound weakling of the Southwest Conference, kicking sand in the faces of the Wise Ones from Houston, 30-7. And it was the perfect day for Beach Blanket Bingo as 41,732 Jones Stadium fans basked in 90-degree weather Saturday.

The Raiders, who hadn't had any easy days this fall, took charge early, despite a roughing-the-punter penalty in the game's early moments, converting four of their first five possessions into points. On the other possession, tailback James Hadnot fumbled at the Rice 26 after Tech had moved menacingly toward a third touchdown from the Raider 32.

It was the only mistake the senior from Jasper made as he rushed for 196 yards.

It was just the way Coach Rex Dockery had it planned, "The defense gave us field position early and we got the points. It was Ron's (quarterback Ron Reeves) best game and we needed it. We were down after last week's loss to Arkansas."

Reeves passed 38 and 29 yards for touchdowns on Tech's first two possessions and kept 11 yards for a third period touchdown, a performance which Reeves hoped would slow down the letter writers.

HOWEVER, the sophomore from Lubbock Monterey didn't agree with Dockery that it was his best game. "I wasn't at full speed and lots of times the option opened up for me and three or four times I was just caught from behind," which no one would have noticed if Ron hadn't brought it up.

About the letters, Reeves said a lot of them were offering advice. "If they had come from Tom Landry, I might have taken them seriously. Some made fun of me for being slow, but those don't bother me. That's something I can't do anything about."

Bill "Blade" Adams toed 24 and 26 yard field goals in the second period to stake the masked riders from the Llano Estacado to a 20-0 halftime lead.

Tech had things so much their own way that Reeves hit five of nine first half passes for 74 yards and Hadnot had his first 100-yard half ever with 5:31 still left in the second period.

If there was any cause for dismay over Tech's performance which leveled the record at 3-3-1 facing an off date next Saturday, it was the inability to push over a touchdown in the second period.

The first time, Tech took a punt out of bounds at the two and resolutely hiked 91 yards in 16 plays to the Rice seven where the Owls stiffened and Adams drilled home his 24-yarder. "It was our best drive," said Dockery, "And we showed a lot of poise. We probably should have called a time out, but the important thing is that we got points out of it."

On the next series, safety Ted Watts dribbled a 56-yard punt on his 20 for a few counts and then returned it 66 yards, but again the Owls refused to buckle and Adams did the honors from 26 yards out.

Dockery added, "Those touchdown passes were something we have needed."

The first wrapped up a 74 yard drive and saw Reeves hit Pampa's Howie Lewis at the flag. Lewis simply outjumped safety Mike Downs and muscled the ball away from him.

"It happened so fast, I'm not really sure how I got it, but it was a little under thrown and I had to wait for it."

Lewis said Hadnot's running set it up. "We noticed the cornerback was dropping back a step and coming up to meet the run. So I waited and when he came by me, I took off."

On Tech's second posession of the game, Reeves zeroed in on Skip Newsome, running a 15-yard deep slant and hit him at the precise moment he broke away from the defender.

Strangely enough, it has been at wide receiver that Tech has felt its attack has suffered the most this year. Most of the Raiders' long gains last year were to Godfrey Turner and Brian Nelson, both possessed with the kind of speed to burn a defense.

Tech padded its lead on Reeves' 11-yard run to close out a 69-yard drive, but first the Raiders had to stop Rice drives of 57 and 48 yards that intruded Tech terrain to the 23 and 32 yard lines.

The Raiders' margin swelled to 30-0 when Willie Stephens recovered a Rice fumble at the Owl 34 and set the stage for Adams third field goal, this one from 34 yards out less than three minutes into the final period.

Rice, now 1-6, finally cashed in on a 10-yard pass from quarterback Robert Hoffmann, replacing starter Randy Hertel, who suffered through three periods of frustration, to tight end Robert Hubble, a 67-yard drive aided and abetted by three major penalties.

Tech had one other opportunity late in the second period when Rusty Maroney, the linebacker from Midland, tipped a pass that went five yards behind him and then turned in time to intercept the ball after it caromed off a Rice and a Tech player behind him. This gave Tech the ball at the Rice 34, but the Raiders surrendered it on downs.

Houston smothers SMU as Brown fuels attack

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston quarterback Delrick Brown fueled a 20-point first quarter — aided by four Southern Methodist fumbles — with a 7-yard touchdown run and 9-yard touchdown pass to key the 5th-ranked Cougars to a 37-10 Southwest Conference football victory Saturday night.

It was a drastic turnaround from two years ago when the Mustangs scored 20 points in the final 39 seconds to beat the Cougars in the Astrodome.

In this game, three of UH's five first-half scoring plays followed SMU turnovers.

Brown hit Lonell Phea with a 62-yard bomb on the second play of the game to set up a 29-yard field goal by Ken Hatfield before the Mustangs started their fumbling act.

Receiver James Collier fumbled first and UH defensive end Sam Proctor recovered at the SMU 19. Three plays later Brown ran 9 yards untouched for the first Cougar touchdown.

SMU fumbled three of the next four times it got the ball and Houston added 10 more points on a 39-yard field goal by Hatfield and Brown's 9-yard touchdown pass to Terald Clark with 1:19 left in the opening quarter.

The Cougars, ranked eighth nationally in rushing, capped their first half with a 24-yard touchdown run by backup quarterback Terry Elston.

SMU linebacker Byron Hunt grabbed a fumble by Alan Polk in midair and ran 25 yards in the second quarter for SMU's only touchdown. Eddie Garcia kicked a 45-yard field goal for SMU in the third period.

The loss, SMU's third in a row, dropped the Ponies to a 3-3 record overall and 2-2 in SWC games. The Cougars are 3-0 in the SWC and 6-0 for the year, equalling their best start in history.

Razorbacks celebrate win

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — There was 1:29 left on the clock when University of Arkansas defensive coach Monte Kiffin and Razorback defensive end Jim Howard rolled around the Astroturf in each others' arms.

They both knew Arkansas had beaten Texas for the first time since 1971. Texas kicker John Goodson had just missed a 51-yard field goal attempt and Arkansas' 17-14 victory over Texas was secure.

"That's why I love coaching," Kiffin said. "That's what it's all about ... to see the tears in their eyes."

"We told each other we loved each other," said Howard, who had started in two previous losses to the Longhorns.

"There was no genius defense planning," Kiffin said. "We showed Texas where we were at. We kept our poise and hung in there."

Someone asked Arkansas coach Lou Holtz if the field goal attempt had been blocked.

"I can't tell you," he said. "I was afraid to look."

Holtz praised Texas as a "class team" and said that he told Razorbacks before the game that they would have trouble moving the ball against the Longhorns.

"The defense is everything people have said about it," Holtz said. "It was a great victory because we beat a great football team. Texas is so well-coached, you can't out-coach them."

Texas wide receiver Johnny "Lam" Jones refused to concede much.

"Although they deserve to win, I'm not going to say that Arkansas is a better team," Jones said. "They just came out on top. They gave us trouble and we gave them trouble."

Texas coach Fred Akers mentioned Arkansas' fourth-quarter drive which gobbled up almost seven minutes of the clock as the key turning point in the game.

"They had a tremendous drive," Akers said. "They were taking it right at us. The pass play on third-and-16 hurt. That won the game for them."

"Arkansas is a fine football team. They played well and they have fine talent. They deserve to win the ball game," Akers said.

Staubach just keeps on rolling

BY TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

IRVING — If Roger Staubach is slowing down, you can't prove it by the Los Angeles Rams. The 37-year-old former Heisman Trophy winner from Navy riddled the respected Rams' secondary for 176 yards and three touchdowns, completing 13 of 18 attempts.

With his 18-yard TD pass to Tony Hill in the first period, he tied Don Meredith's Dallas Cowboy career record for TD passes and then broke it with a three-yard flip to Tony Dorsett and a 23-yard bullseye to Jay Saldi.

Staubach was so good, it must be discouraging for Danny White, who punts away his time while waiting in the wings. But Danny takes his role in good humor and even sees the future in an imaginary newspaper story.

Says White, the story will say, "Ninety-eight-year-old Tom Landry announced his retirement as head coach of the Dallas Cowboys today. Sixty-eight-year-old quarterback Roger Staubach said, 'We'll miss him.'"

(NFL roundup on Page 6-B)

The three TD passes raised his 11-year total to 137 and his nine straight completions in the first half gave him a string of 11, one short of the club record he set last year. It also kept Roger atop the passing statistics in the NFC and the ex-sailor made some historic waves, moving into the top spot in the NFL's all-time career quarterback ratings. According to the complicated system, Staubach is 83.0, followed by Sonny Jurgensen, 82.8, and Len Dawson, 82.6. At the season's start, Roger trailed both.

But fans Sunday at Texas Stadium will be asking "What's he done for us lately?" The Cowboys can't afford to look back against the St. Louis Cardinals, a deceptive 2-5. Going into the game, the Cowboys are locked in a tie for first place in the NFC East with the Philadelphia Eagles, who play Washington, at 6-1.

Shocked by the death of end J.V. Cain before the season, shaken by injuries and rocked by internal bickering between coaches and management, the Cardinals have held together remarkably well. In the season's opener, the Cowboys won 22-21 over the Cards on a 27-yard field goal by Rafael Septein with 76 seconds to play. Other losses have been by three to Pittsburgh, 10 to Washington and four to Philadelphia and one of their two victories was a 27-24 conquest of Houston.

Overall, the Cowboys own a 20-14-1 edge over St. Louis and will be trying for its second season's sweep in a row. However, the Cards' last triumph came at Texas Stadium in 1977 as the Cardinals staged a dramatic comeback for a 24-17 victory. It marked one of two defeats the Cowboys have suffered in their last 21 games at Texas Stadium.

Bud Wilkinson, the University of Oklahoma legend who came out of retirement to take over as St. Louis coach last year, is 8-15 in the NFL, but St. Louis came on to win six of its last eight in 1978 after losing its first eight...

While Staubach was taking over the passing lead in the NFL, White averaged 50 yards on five punts, including a monsterous 73-yarder to the Rams' six, to take over the NFC punting lead...

Horned Frogs pull off rally to nip Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Texas Christian quarterback Kevin Haney scored three touchdowns to lead the Horned Frogs to a 24-17 victory over Tulsa in college football here Saturday.

Haney carried 22 times for a total of 178 yards. He broke a 17-17 tie with 3:20 left in the fourth quarter with a 77-yard scoring run.

Tulsa scored on its first two possessions, a 25-yard run by junior fullback Kenneth Sessions and a one-yard sneak by sophomore quarterback Kenny Jackson.

Jackson, who finished with 199 yards, set up his own score with a 54-yard keeper to the Tulsa 15.

Tulsa placekicker Stu Crum hit a 40-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to end Tulsa's scoring. Crum missed field goal attempts of 36 and 38 yards.

Haney, a sophomore from Decatur, Texas, came in for Texas Christian late in the first quarter and led the Frogs to two quick scores. Haney was untouched on a run of 40-yards and 13-yards as TCU tied it, 14-14, at halftime.

Texas Christian went on top 17-14 midway through the third quarter on a 33-yard field goal by Greg Porter. The score came after Crum's punt from his own 26 was blown backward by a gust of wind and he had to down it at Tulsa's 25.

The only scoring in the Tulsa homecoming game occurred when the teams had help from wind gusts that sometimes reached 36 mph.

Unser captures first CART win

Chaparral owned by Midland's Jim Hall.

The Unser brothers had started side by side in the front row, Bobby having drawn the pole in qualifying. But Al roared ahead at the starter's flag and except for that pit stop, was never headed.

The race was accident-free and almost incident-free except for a spinout by Wally Dallenbach on the 142nd lap, and when Pancho Carter lost a tire on the 146th. Neither driver was hurt.

Saturday's 5:76-second victory gave Al a one victory edge over Bobby in races the two have run here since 1964. Al's win was his fifth and as he put it "a most gratifying one."

"It's been a long time coming this year," he said, "but this day the car worked beautifully."

His best previous finish in this first CART season — this being the organization's 14th Indy-style race this year — was a second in Trenton, N.J., in a 100-mile event.

His victory was worth $13,610 and pushed his year's earnings to $117,190. He finished fifth in the CART point standings behind Mears, brother Bobby, Gordon Johncock and Johnny Rutherford.

Mears, by finishing the 150 miles, set a record for miles completed in a season. His 2,593 miles was seven short of a perfect year. He led for only six laps in this race — during the Unser pit stop — but said "my only concern was finishing the race and winning the point title."

Gottfried advances in Swiss tournament

BASEL, Switzerland (AP)— Third-seeded Brian Gottfried downed fellow American Eddie Dibbs, the No. 2 seed, 6-1, 6-4 Saturday night to move into the finals of the $75,000 Swiss Indoor Tennis Championships.

Gottfried will meet South African Johan Kriek Sunday. Kriek defeated Yannick Noah of France 5-7, 7-6, 6-2 in the semifinals Saturday.

Gottfried overpowered his opponent with sizzling backhand cross court returns and aggressive net play. He broke Dibbs' serve in the opening game of the second set, and then was content to keep the games with serve.

It wasn't Dibbs' day. Dibbs sent forehand after forehand just one or two inches out. The match took only an hour and five minutes.

Oklahoma forgets Texas, whips Wildcats, 38-6

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Quarterback J.C. Watts scored two third-quarter touchdowns and Billy Sims ran 5 yards for another, awakening a sluggish Oklahoma offense and sparking the eighth-ranked Sooners to a come-from-behind 38-6 victory Saturday over Big Eight upstart Kansas State.

The underdog Wildcats led at halftime 6-3, on Darryl Black's 1-yard touchdown run, while the explosive Sooner offense only was managing four first downs and 53 yards total offense.

But the Sooners, 4-1, marched 80 yards with their first possession of the second half to take a 10-6 lead and command of the game.

After Watts scored on a 1-yard plunge, the junior quarterback directed an 82-yard drive on Oklahoma's next possession, scoring on an 18-yard option run out of the wishbone.

Simms, the reigning Heisman Trophy holder, capped another 80-yard march early in the fourth quarter with a 5-yard touchdown run and finished the day with 67 yards on 16 carries. The Sooners broke it open early in the fourth period, with a quick 80-yard scoring march, which featured a 49-yard run by freshman quarterback Stanley Wilson.

Reserve quarterback Kelly Phelps scored the final two touchdown on runs of 14 and 36 yards as Kansas State fell to 2-4.

North Texas State rallies to down WTSU

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Jordan Case hit 16 of 20 passes and running back Bernard Jackson jaunted for 122 yards as North Texas State overcame a second half deficit and downed West Texas State, 28-14, Saturday.

West Texas State snapped a 7-7 tie in the third period by blocking a North Texas punt and returning it 25 yards for a touchdown. But the Buffaloes were called for clipping after the score and were assessed an additional penalty for unsportsmanlike conduct on the ensuing kickoff when West Texas Coach Bill Yung protested the call.

The Buffaloes wound up kicking off from their own 13-yard line, and Jackson returned it to the West Texas 33.

From there it took North Texas only seven plays to tie the game on Case's 1-yard sneak. The Mean Green took the lead on its next possession, moving 73 yards and scoring on Bruce Chambers' 4-yard run.

North Texas final score came on Malcolm Jones' 2-yard run with only 2:26 remaining in the game.

Slippery Rock falls to surge

INDIANA, Pa. (AP) — Linebacker John Dugan intercepted a pass to trigger a 15-point fourth-quarter surge that gave Indiana, Pa. a 28-14 victory over Slippery Rock Saturday in Pennsylvania Conference football.

Indiana, 6-1, trailed 14-13 early in the final quarter when Slippery Rock was in possession of the ball at its own 19-yard line.

Rock quarterback Mike Sachire, who had passed for one touchdown and run for another, threw a short toss that was intercepted by Dugan and returned three yards back to the 19-yard line.

Indiana then moved in for the go-ahead touchdown, which came on a 5-yard run by Jeff Heath with 13:39 left.

Nebraska routs Cowboys

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Kenny Brown became the first University of Nebraska wingback to rush for over 100 yards as the No. 3-ranked Cornhuskers registered a 36-0 Big Eight Conference football shutout over Oklahoma State Saturday.

Brown, who exceeded performances by 1972 Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rogers, amassed 111 yards on eight carries and combined with a two-touchdown performance by junior Jarvis Redwine to completely outman the Cowboys.

Nebraska dominated both ends of the field, holding Oklahoma State to an unimpressive 75 yards in total offense at the half while running up 318 yards in the same time.

The Cornhusker defense now has managed to prevent a touchdown by the opposition during the last 16 quarters and has held opposing teams scoreless during the last 13.

Redwine rushed for 104 yards in 15 carries and scored on runs of 29 and 5 yards.

Kicker Dean Sukup hit a 23-yard field goal to begin the romp. Other points came from Tim Smith, who combined with quarterback Tim Hager on a 42-yard scoring pass, Jim Kotera, who scored from 5 yards out, and Anthony Steels, who also went in from the 5.

Strange charges

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Fourth-year pro Curtis Strange charged out of the pack Saturday with a sizzling course record round of 10-under par 62 to grab the lead after three rounds of the $200,000 Pensacola Open.

Strange, who never has won a PGA tournament, holds a 1-shot lead over former U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, who birdied the final two holes for a 4-under-par 68. Strange has a three-day total of 14-under-par 202.

One shot in back of Moody at 204 is a group of four golfers — Bill Kratzert, tour rookie Mike Nicolette, John Mahaffey and Dan Pohl. Second round leader Morris Hatalsky fired an even par 72 but lost ground and now is 3 strokes back at 205.

Strange blistered the 7,133-yard Perdido Bay Country Club course with six birdies on the front nine for a 30. He added a birdie at 11 and another string at the 14th, 15th and 16th holes to go with eight pars to better the course and tournament record by two shots.

"I'm like that," Strange said. "I just get hot and the birdies seem to come in bunches. It's my best round — my most consistent round since joining the tour."

Firing of Kush has repercussions

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The firing of Frank Kush, Arizona State University's winningest football coach, has triggered a barrage of repercussions including financial influence, intimidation and deceit that could bring the Pac-10 school under NCAA scrutiny.

"You've heard only the tip of the iceberg," a source close to the investigation said as a federal judge heard that Kush punched Kevin Rutledge and then asked his assistant coaches and players to protect him through perjury if necessary.

Kush, 50, winner of 78 percent of his games in 22 years as Arizona State head coach, denies slugging the player or asking anyone to lie. He blames the mess on Rick Lynch, a drag race promoter who Kush said swore to get Kush fired when the coach "tried to run him off" for interfering with players.

Lynch admits telephoning the mothers of several players, taking injured players to private doctors instead of the team physician, and loaning money to the players. He also appeared with several player-witnesses at a secret meeting with Arizona State Athletic Director Fred Miller, three days before Miller reversed his defense of Kush and fired him. But Lynch denies vowing to get Kush fired.

All the loans were paid back in money or labor, and "the most money I've ever lent a player is 100 bucks or so," Lynch told The Associated Press.

Within an hour of that statement, Gary Bouck, a linebacker from Alhambra, Calif., testified in federal court that Lynch loaned him $2,100 for tuition last year after Bouck lost his football scholarship for skipping two weeks of school. Only half the money was paid back, said Bouck, a principal witness against Kush.

"NCAA legislation would definitely apply to situations involving money provided to student athletes," said Steve Morgan, NCAA executive assistant in Mission, Kan. "We're aware of the situation through the news media. We can't even comment whether we would be pursuing anything further."

At a hearing on an unsuccessful request to enjoin Kush against intimidating witnesses, Bouck admitted lying three times — when he told the former coach he did not witness the punching incident, when he filled out a card on the incident for an Arizona State recruiter acting as investigator, and when he swore that the only money he received from Lynch was "what I earned."

Kus was expected to make statements under oath this week. Operating under no such restriction at news conferences last Monday and Wednesday, he gave two different versions of his instructions to subordinates for handling inquiries into the Rutledge case.

"I said, we as a coaching staff must stick together. There's going to be a lot of innuendos and lies," Kush said on Monday. Faced with the same question two days later, he said, "I don't think I told them anything at all."

In reaction to Kush's removal as coach, directors of the Sun Angel Foundation, a 13,245-member Arizona State booster group, said they would withhold $6 million in proposed funding for an Arizona State golf course and sadium expansion until Kush returns.

"Frank Kush's method has been there for 25 years," said Dan Mardian, director of the group which has provided about $6 million in athletic scholarship and stadium funds over the past 30 years.

Neither Mardian nor Miller nor Kush has made any apologies for Kush's habit of grabbing players by the face mask and slapping them on the headgear.

The firing was "an error in good judgment," said Harry Rosenzweig, former state Republican chairman and Sun Angel president. "They need somebody like Frank to keep the money coming in."

The flow of money into, out of, around and through the athletic department promises to be a major issue as the Ruledge affair unfolds.

Among topics in depositions to be taken this week is the financial involvement of Arizona State athletic officials in several Phoenix-area restaurants and in Sunvalco, a Phoenix-area sporting goods store incorporated by former Arizona State assistant coach Larry Kentera.

Store President Mark Markichevich said he sells about $10,000 worth of equipment to Arizona Stae annually but "since he's (Kentera) been at Arizona State, there's no way he's been connected." Markichevich also denied a published report that the store once employed a brother of Kush as a salesman.

East Texas St. nips ACU, 31-16

COMMERCE, Texas (AP) — Led by tailback Cary Noiel's two touchdowns, East Texas State delighted its homecoming crowd with a 31-point third-quarter explosion to blitz Abilene Christian 31-16 Saturday afternoon, in Lone Star Conference action.

Tarleton State nips Sul Ross

ALPINE, Texas (AP) — Greg Edwards tossed a 65-yard scoring pass to Billy Vacek and Mike Mahler booted three field goals as Tarleton State rallied to defeat Sul Ross 18-14 in a Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association game Saturday.

Larry Hill threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Willie Rodriguez and a 53-yard scoring bomb to Troy Peoples to give Sull Ross a 14-3 lead in the third quarter.

Mahler put Tarleton on the board first with a 47-yard field goal. He added fourth-quarter kicks of 40 and 36 yards. Tarleton closed out scoring with a safety as time expired.

Tarleton is now 5-2 on the season and 4-2 in conference play. Sul Ross is 3-4 for the year and 1-4 in TIAA play.

White beats Ferguson

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — All-American Charles White rushed for a career-high 261 yards Saturday and decided one of college football's greatest individual ground-gaining duals with four short second-half touchdown runs that sparked fourth-ranked Southern California to a wild 42-23 victory over Notre Dame and record-setting Vagas Ferguson.

White surged past Terry Miller of Oklahoma State, Ted Brown of North Carolina State and Ed Marinaro of Cornell into third place on the all-time rushing charts with 4,796 yards. He carried 44 times, most ever for a running back against Notre Dame.

The 185-pound senior tailback, who trails scond-place Archie Griffin of Ohio State by 381 yards, scored on runs of 3 yards and 1 yard in the second quarter and put the Trojans out of reach on a pair of 1-yard plunges in the final period.

White's third touchdown capped a furious 7½-minute stretch, in which the Trojans outscored ninth-ranked Notre Dame 21-3, as the two long-time intersectional powers combined for more than a combined 1,000 offensive yards.

White's heroics overshadowed a 185-yard performance by Ferguson, who became Notre Dame's career rushing leader with a total of 2,847 yards.

Ferguson gained all his yardage in the first three periods and scored Notre Dame's first two touchdowns on runs of 1 yard and 21 yards.

Paul McDonald, Southern Cal's cool-hand quarterack, accounted for the Trojans' other touchdowns with 12-yard passes to Dan Garcia in the second period and Kevin Williams in the final quarter.

After a scoreless first period and a 7-7 halftime struggle, these two gridiron goliaths staged another memorable encounter in their classic series, which the Irish leads 27-20-4.

The game was witnessed by a sellout crowd of 59,075 in Notre Dame Stadium, plus a national television audience.

Notre Dame threatened another in its history of miracle comebacks when Jim Stone's 2-yard run with 12 minutes left narrowed the margin to 28-20.

But White scored for the third time barely two minutes later, and the best Notre Dame could manage after that was Chuck Male's 42-yard field goal with 9:14 to play.

White's final touchdown came with 28 seconds left.

Buckeyes romp past Wisconsin

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Art Schlichter figured in four touchdowns Saturday to lead undefeated and sixth-ranked Ohio State to a 59-0 romp over Wisconsin, one of the Badgers' worst defeats ever, in a Big Ten Conference college football game.

The worst previous modern day setbacks for Wisconsin were 56-0 defeats by Ohio State in 1975 and Michigan two years ago. In 1890 they were defeated by Minnesota 63-0.

The victory was the Buckeyes' seventh overall and fourth in the conference, as they beat the Badgers for the 20th straight time. Wisconsin, 2-5 overall and 1-3 in the league, never has won in 57-year-old Ohio Stadium.

The margin of victory was Ohio State's largest in 72 games, dating back to a 60-0 whipping of Northwestern in mid-1973.

A crowd of 87,585, Ohio State's 68th straight home sellout, watched Schlichter run 4 and 2 yards for touchdowns and fire scoring passes of 14 yards to Chuck Hunter and 20 yards to Gary Williams.

Ohio State, a 20-point favorite, opened with a pair of 14-point quarters and had settled the outcome by halftime. The Buckeyes ran their margin to 38-0 in the third quarter before Buckeye substitutes took over.

Ray Ellis, a cornerback, returned a Steve Parish pass 27 yards and No. 2 quarterback Greg Castignola ran 1 yard for the other Ohio State touchdowns. Vlade Janakievski kicked a 19-yard field goal to wrap up the Buckeyes' most decisive victory under first-year Coach Earle Bruce.

Schlichter, the Big Ten's total offense leader, played less than three quarters and totaled 162 yards. The sophomore quarterback completed 11 of 17 passes for 150 yards and ran 11 times for 12 more yards.

Alabama survives Vols

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Major Ogilvie raced for two third-period touchdowns as top-ranked Alabama, stymied early by four lost fumbles, overcame a 17-0 deficit and defeated No. 18 Tennessee 27-17 Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

It was the 15th consecutive victory for the defending national champions, but it did not come easy.

Tennessee struck for two touchdowns and a field goal on three straight possessions to shock the Crimson Tide with an early 17-0 lead.

The total came against the nation's No. 1 defense against scoring, one that had allowed only nine points through five games.

Ogilvie's first touchdown, a 1-yard plunge with 9:40 left in the third quarter, came after Ricky Tucker intercepted a Jimmy Streater pass at the Tennessee 30. Ogilvie had raced 16 yards on the play before his touchdown that cut Tennessee's lead to 17-14.

The Crimson Tide came right back with a 70-yard drive that required 14 plays and 7½ minutes to take the lead with only five seconds left in the quarter on a 6-yard run by Ogilvie, who rushed for more than 100 yards on the hot, muggy afternoon.

The Tide put the game on ice with an 80-yard march early in the fourth quarter, which ended on Don Jacobs' 13-yard keeper with just over six minutes to play.

Tennessee, 4-2 overall and 1-2 in the SEC, opened the scoring on Streater's 11-yard pass to Phil Ingram after a fumble recovery at the Alabama 16.

Streater then capped a 63-yard drive with a 3-yard touchdown run on Tennessee's next possession, and the Vols stretched the lead to 17-0 early in the third quarter on a 45-yard field goal by Alan Duncan.

Alabama, now 6-0 for the year and 3-0 in the conference, scored its first touchdown in the second quarter on a 33-yard pass from Steadman Shealy to Tim Travis on the first play after Robbie Jones intercepted a deflected pass by Streater.

It was the 20th consecutive conference victory for Alabama, tying the league record for such a streak set by Tennessee from 1937-1940 and tied by Alabama from 1973-1975.

It also was Alabama's ninth consecutive victory over Tennessee, lifting its series advantage to 32-23-7.

Explosive feud looms at race

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — A potentially explosive feud between drivers Darrell Waltrip and Bobby Allison loomed in the background Saturday on the eve of the American 500 stock car race.

Thirty-six drivers, headed by pole-winner Buddy Baker and Benny Parsons, were set for the 12:05 p.m. start.

With only three races left on the NASCAR Grand National season, the American 500 could play a major role in the driving championship duel between Waltrip and Richard Petty.

But a car-banging episode between Waltrip and Allison at North Wilkesboro last Sunday has caused concern among many of the drivers, who fear that it may spill over onto the steeply banked North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Parsons, who won the North Wilkesboro race, explained, "With just three races left, everybody is pushing a little harder."

"It's like the deciding game of the World Series. Like no tomorrow. The competition always gets closer at this time of year and you're not as willing to give ground in a pinch as you might have earlier in the season," Parsons said.

Allison and Waltrip claim they have buried the hatchet.

Black Bears finally score

COOKS, Mich. (AP) — A yard. Three feet. That's what the Black Bears of Big Bay de Noc High School needed to overcome Saturday to keep from extending their national football record of 15 straight scoreless games.

Running back Ron Collins made sure when he took a handoff from quarterback Mike Popour and plunged into the North Dickinson end zone for the Black Bears' first score in two years.

"I had to look at the scoreboard to see the scoreboard and lights," Collins said. "Then I looked around to see if the referees had thrown a (penalty) flag on the play."

But the play was legal. The Bears had scored. Never mind that they trailed 34-0 at the time and were assured of suffering their 23rd straight defeat. Never mind that the Black Bears have still been outscored 864-8 in the last 16 games.

None of that mattered to the 250 Black Bear fans who watched from the stands at the high school in Michigan's Upper Peninsula on a warm but overcast day. They all cheered as the Black Bears finally came out of hibernation.

Coach Paul Babladelis expressed relief and pride in his players following his team's "record-breaking" score.

"To be realistic, we lost the game. But at least we broke the streak and in that way we won," Babladelis said. "It's a tremendous accomplishment to go all year without a point and then to get a touchdown in the last quarter of the season. It shows they did not die."

Ironically, the last time the Black Bears scored was in the final game of the 1977 season, in which their opponent was North Dickinson.

MC women host tournament

For a change, the Midland College women's golf team stays home next week to compete. It's the annual Midland College Fall Invitational, set for Wednesday and Thursday at Midland Country Club.

Four teams will compete in the 36-hole event, starting at 9 a.m. each day. Teams entered include Texas Tech, University of New Mexico, Temple Junior College and MC.

Coach Susan Holland will have all eight of her players competing, although only five of them will be listed for team scoring. The other three will play only for individual honors.

"Our team has generally been playing very well this fall," Coach Holland noted. "Most of their competition has been with four-year schools and they are holding their own with a great many of them. They have competed in Oklahoma and in Huntsville. Following the Midland tournament, they will wind up their fall competition at Temple Junior College Nov. 12-14."

Javelinas win, 49-10

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Robert Poole, Marcus Bonner and Sam Bailey all rushed for more than 100 yards as Texas A&I pounded Sam Houston State 49-10 Saturday afternoon in Lone Star Conference action.

Poole had 184 yards, including an 87-yard touchdown romp, Bonner had 120 yards and two touchdowns, Bailey got 103 yards and two touchdowns for the Javelinas, while quarterback Martin Stroman added two TD passes to John Herrara.

A&I now is 6-0 for the year, 3-0 in the LSC. Sam Houston falls to 1-5, 0-3.

McMurry gains victory

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Dudley Woodard broke loose for touchdown runs of 47 and 30 yards in a 60-second span during the final four minutes of play to give McMurry College a 41-24 football victory over Colorado College here Saturday.

Woodard rushed for 193 yards in 16 carries for game ground-gaining honors.

The Tigers had led 7-0 and 14-8 in early going on a 9-yard run by Pat Geonetta at 9:27 of the first period and a 20-yard scoring pass from Mike McQueen to Doug Sims at 10:09 of the second.

But the Indians roared back with touchdowns on a 6-yard keeper by quarterback Brett Lang and a 13-yard scoring pass play from Lang to Rick Williams, to take a 21-14 lead into the half.

Colorado College is now 3-3 overall while McMurry is 6-2.

BOWLING BEAT

Darrell Hopkins rolls 698 series

By RANDY ISENBERG

Darrell Hopkins, a 17-year-old senior at Midland High, was the top bowler during the past week in the Midland area as he fired a spirited 279 game enroute to a 698 series.

Hopkins, averaging 192 for the first 15 games this year, rolled his scores while bowling the Saturday Air Park Juniors and Seniors league.

Ten-year-old bantam Arturo Nunez, Jr. is just beginning his second year on the lanes, but entering this week's play, is averaging 149 and that was prior to bowling 202 and 173 Oct. 20.

Nancy Martin paced the women with a sizzling 266 game and 621 series while bowling in the Silk Stocking league.

Charlie Lacy rolled a 695 series in the Keglers and a 669 series in the Petroleum American. Rick Daughtrey rolled a 690 series in the Teachers league and a 648 series in the Civic Commercial. Jim Ledbetter rolled a 680 in the Civic Commercial while Jack Moore fired a 668 series in the Oil Stars league.

Brent Gallagher and Brian Gillette moved into third place in the Miller's local qualifying tournament with a 1380 handicap total of which 1272 was rolled scratch. Gallagher rolled games of 222 and 279 for a 685 series, while Gillette turned in a 231 game and a 587 series. The top 15 in the tournament as it heads into its last two weekends of play are: Jim Parker-Earl Roberts 1408; Steve Masoner-Arthur Correa 1395; Brian Gillette-Brent Gallagher 1380; Steve Bellis-Andy Bellis 1366; Jesse Reyes-Juan Bustillos 1354; Linda Williams-Vernon Williams 1348; Rick Daughtrey-Jesse Carrasco 1346; Ty Bowling-Steve Masoner 1343; Rick Daughtrey-Gwen Wiseman 1340; Dave Goodman-Lorenzo Davila 1330; Terry Urban-James Stacy 1327; Dave Goodman-Randy Isenberg 1324; Rick Daughtrey-Sonny Poole 1321; Brent Gallagher-Rick Daughtrey 1320; Sonny Poole-Penny Poole 1311; Jackie Brookshire-Jimmy Kimble 1311.

Miller qualifying continues through Oct. 28. One of five local entries qualifies for the state finals in Euless and has state entry fee paid. The national tournament is in Reno, Nev. At nationals, doubles teams will roll three three-game blocks before the field is cut to the top six. No PBA or PWBA members may enter nor can teams with a combined average of better than 380.

Women: Be sure to ask for your newsletter next time you go bowling. Noreta Livergood, secretary of the MWBA, is taking time to prepare an information sheet for your benefit. Silver cups will be awarded this year in honor of the MWBA's twenty-fifth championship tournament. Make plans now to enter this tournament to be held the weekends of April 13 and 20.

Clint Benefield, Super Bowl manager, reports that his bowling ball was taken and he would like to get it back. The ball is a "Black Diamond" and it has an extra white spot on the side and the word "insufficient" stenciled on it. The ball has both sentimental and monetary value. If you should spot this ball, please report it to the control counter of the center where you are bowling. Your interest will be greatly appreciated. If you should locate the ball or may have seen it, please call Clint at 694-9521, or you may notify me at 683-4683.

Lobos spank Miners

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico, sparked by the running of tailback Jimmy Sayers and a rugged defense, stopped Texas-El Paso 20-0 Saturday to shove the Miners into the cellar of the Western Athletic Conference.

The Lobos held Texas-El Paso to eight yards rushing on 32 attempts and 177 yards in total offense. The Miners managed just 36 yards in the second half.

Sayers paced the Lobo ground attack with 92 yards on 11 carries, including a 29-yard touchdown scamper on a fourth-down play in the final period.

The Lobos scored on their first possession, driving 68 yards in seven plays. Alvin Cartwright capped the march with a 3-yard run.

Is there still hope for SEC's Florida?

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Since the Southeastern Conference was formed in 1933, the University of Florida has never won — or even shared — the SEC football championship. No other school but Vanderbilt can make that claim.

Only Kentucky, Mississippi State and Vandy rank below Florida in the SEC's all-time football standings.

Into this Alligator Alley of also-rans, which included the worst facilities in the SEC, last Dec. 4 stepped 38-year-old Charles Byron "Charley" Pell of the Albertville, Ala., Pells. And recently, just a few hours before Florida's 1979 record bottomed out to 0-4-1 — the worst start since 1971 — Pell said, "The University of Florida is capable of having one of the top football programs in the country; I'm convinced of that from every aspect."

One might think that Pell has had too much alligator juice, but Charley Pell knows about winning. In seven previous season as a head coach, Pell compiled a 51-17-2 record. He inherited a losing team at Jacksonville (Ala.) State and turned it into a small college power. He went 8-3-1 and 11-1 the last two years at Clemson, which had only one winning season in the previous nine. As a player, he starred on Alabama's 1961 national champions.

The funny thing is that many knowledgeable observers of the SEC scene agree with Pell as to Florida's potential to challenge Alabama & Co. The state annually turns out more high school athletes than any other in the South.

"First of all," says Pell, "we're in a top conference. Secondly, we're the state university in a state which produces year in and year out 125-plus athletes capable of playing on the top teams in the country. And we have the tradition of people like Larry Smith, Jack Youngblood, Rick Casares, John Reaves, Carlos Alvarez, Nat Moore, Charlie LaPradd, Ralph Ortega, and so on.

"We have 90,000 alumni within the state boundaries. On a broad spectrum, the leadership in business, banking, etc., are University of Florida people."

It seems like Pell has shaken hands with each of the 90,000 since he arrived in Gainesville.

"But all those things don't make it happen," he says. "It just makes it possible to happen."

Pell, who has a four year contract, is determined to make it happen. He has gone at such a frantic pace since his arrival that the days are rarely long enough and he reached a state of near-collapse exhaustion in the spring. The long hours are necessary to catch up with the rest of the conference in the recruiting race.

"There was no design to the recruiting program as we inherited it," Pell says, pointing out that only a dozen or so linemen were recruited in the last two years. "A long-time pro scout told me last spring that he has the fewest number of Florida players to check out since he's been covering Florida football.

"We think we had an excellent recruiting year, but we're gonna sign a minimum of 15 linemen again. And recruiting a top-notch quarterback is unquestionably our top priority."

After opening with a 14-10 loss to nationally ranked Houston, the Gators tied Georgia Tech, were beaten by Mississippi State and Louisiana State and wiped out 40-0 by Alabama. There are extenuating circumstances.

Mark Midden, a starting guard, was lost for the season after a summertime swimming mishap. James McClellan, who ended spring drills as the No.1 quarterback, injured a wrist lifting weights before the season and was sidelined for 1979.

Skipper Peek, a regular in the secondary, pulled a hamstring the first day of practice and missed four games. Kyle Coburn, the other cornerback, missed a couple with a similar ailment. Less than an hour after fall practice began, starting defensive tackle Steve Tanner suffered a knee injury that required surgery. The other tackle, David Galloway, went down for the count with a knee injury on the third play of the opening game.

It got worse against Georgia Tech. Scot Brantley, touted as an All-American linebacker, had his career ended by a head injury. His brother, John, a quarterback, went out a few minutes later with a pulled hamstring and later quit football because of his parents' concern after Scot's injury.

Defensive end Yancey Sutton, the leading tackler, sprained a knee against Mississippi State and hasn't played since. Tim Golden, the other end, sprained an ankle and missed a lot of valuable practice time.

"On Sept. 1, we were expecting to have one of the strongest defensive fronts in the SEC," says Pell.

Cooper maintains state supremacy

By The Associated Press

Quarterback John Slaughter rushed for two touchdowns and threw for another as Abilene Cooper — the state's top-ranked schoolboy football team — rolled to a 28-14 win Friday night over ninth-ranked Midland Lee.

Slaughter rushed for 55 yards on seven carries and completed six of eight passes for another 166 yards as Cooper posted its sixth straight win of the 1979 season. The loss was the first for Midland Lee, one of Cooper's strongest rivals in district competition.

Although the weekend proved to be another fruitful one for Cooper's chances in the race for the Class 4A state title, it was a different story for No. 3 powerhouse Plano — another top squad in The Associated Press schoolboy football poll.

Scott Wedell booted a 41-yard field goal late in the fourth quarter to send unranked Richardson to a shocking 3-0 win over Plano — the Wildcats' first home loss in three years.

With 1:16 left, the Wildcats took over on downs on their 33. After moving to the Richardson 36 in four plays, Plano stalled and the Eagles took over on their 17 with only eight seconds left.

Plano immediately recovered a fumbled Richardson snap, setting up another last-second victory shot. But a pass fell incomplete, giving the Eagles a maior upset win.

"Richardson did an outstanding job," Plano Coach Tim Kimbrough said. "We had a number of breakdowns and no excuses. Richardson maintained ball control, which was the key to the game."

In other Class 4A action Friday night, No. 2 La Porte downed Pasadena Dobie, 45-23; fourth-ranked Conroe blasted Houston Cypress Creek, 55-0 and fifth-rated Temple blanked Killeen Ellison, 31-0.

Sixth-ranked Converse Judson rolled to a 48-0 win over neighboring San Antonio Harlandale; No. 7 Killeen was upset by unranked Bryan, 22-8 and eighth-rated Highland Park polished off Denison, 29-0.

Tenth-ranked Dallas White defeated Dallas Bryan Adams, 25-0, Thursday night.

Quarterback Don Richards put on a one-man show as unranked Little Cypress-Mauriceville pulled off a shocking 10-7 upset win ovr Jasper — ranked No. 1 in Class 3A.

The underdog challengers took the opening kickoff and marched 61 yards in a 13-play drive which ended with a 1-yard scoring run and extra-point kick by Richards.

Jasper drew blood for the first time on the last play of the third quarter when Todd Hunt pulled in a 39-yard scoring pass from quarterback Quince Harris.

But Richards kicked a 34-yard field goal with two seconds left to give Little Cypress-Mauriceville the upset win.

Tate captures boxing win

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Big John Tate, cautious early, used short punching and his great strength in the second half of the fight to score a unanimous 15-round decision over Gerrie Coetzee and win the World Boxing Association heavyweight championship Saturday night.

Tate, who came in at 240 pounds but had no problem handling the weight, showed great patience in the early rounds, trying to finesse Coetzee into mistakes. Then, beginning in the seventh round, Tate began scoring heavily to the body and the head, and took control of the fight to become the successor to the retired Muhammad Ali.

The fight between Tate, a black from Knoxville, Tenn., and Coetzee, a white South African, drew a paid crowd of 81,000 to the Loftus Versfled rugby stadium.

Tate gave the crowd little to cheer about over the final rounds.

The fight, which was criticized by American civil rights groups because of South African racial policies — about 25 persons picketed the NBC building in New York Saturday — was watched by an integrated audience. However, the crowd was predominately white, ticket prices ranging from about $345 down to $12. It was the first time blacks were permitted to attend any sporting event in the stadium.

The fight, called by the Rand Daily Mail of Johanesburg, the nation's largest white newspaper, the most prestigious sports event in the history of this nation which has been barred from many areas of international sport, ended with Big John smiling broadly and Coetzee's manager, Hal Tucker and his wife, Rina, in tears.

Referee Carlos Barrocal of Panama scored it 147-144 for the 24-year-old Tate. Judges Ken Morita of Japan saw it 147-142 and judge Carlos Martinez Cassas of Argentina had it 148-145.

The Associated Press scored it for Tate 146-139.

Tate has singlehandedly taken care of South Africa's attempt to climb onto an important international sports platform — the heavyweight championship. The former migrant worker stopped South African Kallie Knoetze in eight rounds last June 2 and now has taken care of Coetzee to gain a share of the title.

The World Boxing Council recognizes Larry Holmes of Easton, Pa., as the champion.

Promoter Bob Arum said he thought it possible that Tate and Holmes could fight in the fall of 1980 for universal title recognition. Arum said Tate's first WBA title defense could come in February against Mike Weaver, Scott LeDoux, Earnie Shavers, Ron Lyle or possibly Leon Spinks.

Coetzee, who weighed 222, forced the tempo in the early rounds as Tate was content to circle and feint.

Montgomery lifts Eagles

By The Associated Press

As far as Coach Dick Vermeil is concerned, the 6-1 record the Philadelphia Eagles own still means nothing — but the man who has been so instrumental in getting them there is everything.

"We're not a winner yet," he said, despite the Eagles' lofty perch, tied with the Dallas Cowboys atop the National Conference's East Division. "And in a 16-game season, you're not a winner until you've got nine wins. We need three more. Last year, it took us to the 16th game to get there," namely into the playoffs as a wild-card team.

The man who helped get them there last year, when he set the club rushing record of 1,220 yards, is Wilbert Montgomery, who has 696 yards and eight touchdowns thus far this year.

"Boy, I'll tell you, the more you watch what that guy does with a ball in his hand, the more you appreciate what a fine running back he is," Vermeil exclaimed. "Wilbert is becoming a great back."

Montgomery, who rushed for 117 yards and a touchdown against St. Louis last Sunday, runs into Washington this week, where the Redskins are a surprising 5-2, one game back of the Cowboys and Eagles and bidding for a playoff berth, too.

"If we put our best defensive game and our best offensive game and our best special teams game together on one afternoon, then you'll see one hell of a game," Vermeil said.

Sunday's other games are St. Louis at Dallas, Miami at New England, the New York Giants at Kansas City, Green Bay at Tampa Bay, Atlanta at San Francisco, San Diego at Los Angeles, Baltimore at Buffalo, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Oakland at the New York Jets, Chicago et Minnesota, Detroit at New Orleans and Houston at Seattle. Monday night's game is Denver at Pittsburgh.

If Washington hopes to remain in the race, it'll have to do something abou Montgomery. Two weeks ago, when the Eagles beat the Redskins 28-17 in Philadelphia, Montgomery scored all four touchdowns. In his last three games against the 'Skins, he has amassed 339 yards and seven TDs.

"There's not a whole lot we can do with mirrors to hide or cover ourselves," Washington Coach Jack Pardee said when what the 'Skins might do to stop Montgomery, Ron Jaworski, the NFC's No.3 receiverm and Harold Carmichael, the Eagles' towering receiver. "Our matchups will have to beat theirs. Our linemen have to whip theirs and our linebackers have to whip their offensive backs."

Like Vermeil, Pardee believes it's not going to be a shoo-in for his team to make the playoffs. "We've got five wins," he said. "It'll take 10 to get in. There's an outside chance that nine will make it. But we're not near that yet."

"We were in a lot better position than this a year ago and didn't make it," when Washington won its first six games, then faded to an 8-8 finish. "Our hope is to get bettr the longer we play."

In a showdown of American Conference East co-leaders, each at 5-2, Miami visits New England. The Patriots lost the teams' last-meeting 23-3 when Chuck Fairbanks was barred from the bench by club owner Billy Sullivan because Fairbanks had announced his intention to return to college coaching. Ron Erhardt was the interim coach. Now he's the head man.

The Giants, who have won two in a row with rookie Phil Simms at quarterback, visit Kansas City, where Coach Marv Levy has yanked rookie Steve Fuller from the starting quarterback spot and put in veteran Mike Livingston.

Seahawks expect Campbell to romp

SEATTLE (AP) — The word out of Houston this week was that Earl Campbell, the Houston Oilers' star running back, was listed as questionable for Sunday's game against the Seattle Seahawks at the Kingdome.

Informed of that news, Seahawks' Coach Jack Patera responded sarcastically, "That means he'll probably carry the ball 35 times Sunday."

Campbell, the 1977 Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Texas, led the National Football League in rushing as a rookie with 1,450 yards last season.

In his second year in the NFL, he is the No. 1 rusher after seven weeks with 771 yards.

In the Oilers' last start, a 28-16 victory over Baltimore, improving Houston's record to 5-2; Campbell suffered a severe thigh bruise.

But regardless of the news from Houston, Patera and the Seahawks prepared all week to see the bruising 5-foot-11, 224-pounder from Tyler, Texas, Sunday. On Thursday, Campbell's status was changed to probable.

Houston Coach Bum Phillips insisted he does not worry about his ace running back, who is averaging 24 carries a game this season.

"Earl blocks as well as he runs with the football," he said. "No, I don't worry about him getting injured because he carries so often. That's part of football. I've seen backs who carry only three times get hurt."

The Oilers, tied for first place with Pittsburgh in the American Football Conference Central Division, are two-point favorites over the 2-5 Seahawks.

Seattle, which won nine games in the third year of the franchise, lost to San Diego 20-10 last Sunday.

While Campbell is having another banner season, Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini has been having a subpar year. He has only a 43 percent completion average and has 12 interceptions in 135 attempts.

The Oilers report a "rare virus" as the reason for Pastorini's problems. It has "destroyed a nerve" in his throwing arm and takes eight to 12 months to correct, they said.

"I understand Pastorini has had some problems," said Patera, "but we all know he's a fine quarterback."

The Seahawks have a standout running back in Sherman Smith, who ranks second in the AFC in rushing with 480 yards on 97 carries. He also has caught 27 passes for 274 yards.

Gerulaitis, Vilas gain Australian tennis finals

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Top-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States and Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, seeded No. 2, gained Sunday's finals of the $175,000 Australian Indoor Tennis Championships at the Hordern Pavilion.

Gerulaitis staved off a brilliant second-set recovery by young Puerto Rican Francisco Gonzalez to win his semifinal match Saturday 6-1, 7-6 while Vilas shrugged off a nagging foot injury to beat Kim Warwick of Australia 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Gerulaitis, an U.S. Open finalist earlier this year, displayed his best form to race through the first set in 22 minutes against the 23-year-old Gonzalez.

The American bolted to a 5-1 lead in the second set with his serve to come. But the Puerto Rican rallied and evened the set at 5-5.

Games went with service to 6-all forcing a tie-breaker. Gonzalez broke through to lead 5-3 in the tiebreaker and was in a commanding position to take the set and square the match.

But Gerulaitis' all-round experience was instrumental and he won the next four points to wrap up his spot in Sunday's final.

Gerulaitis admitted he had relaxed after leading 5-1 in the second set and lost concentration momentarily. But Gonzalez pinpointed a pre-match snack as the key to his downfall.

Gonzalez admitted he had eaten two hamburgers less than an hour before the crucial semifinal and these had made him sluggish in the opening set and for the first half of the second set.

In the second semifinal match, Vilas withstood a comeback by Warwick after taking the first set 6-4.

Warwick stunned Vilas with a service break in the sixth game to take the set 6-3 and level the match.

The Australian constantly tested Vilas, who again went into the match with the toe cut out of his right shoe.

Co-op picks Leonard as president again

Hoot Leonard of Midland was reelected president of the West Texas Cooperative Oil Mill at the firm's annual meeting Oct. 13 in Pecos.

Leonard, manager of the Midland Farmer's Cooperative, was serving the unexpired term of Charlie Hunter, who had resigned.

Also named as officers were Cliff Hohensee, manager of the Wall Co-op Gins, vice president; Jerry Mimms, a grower from Acuff community, secretary; and Bobby Carroll, manger of the Farmers Co-op Association in O'Donnell, treasurer.

The elected officers form the executive committee of the board. William R. "Bob" Bickley was named executive vice president and general manager.

Bergland to be in Wichita Falls

WICHITA FALLS — Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland will preside over a meeting Dec. 6 here to give residents a chance to discuss the future structure of American agriculture.

The meeting, to be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., will be in the Wichita Falls Activity Center, 10th and Indiana streets, according to Dick Hagelstein, Midland's District Conservationist.

The meeting is one of 10 scheduled across the country.

Persons wishing to address the meeting should send a request as soon as possible to Project Coordinator, Structure of Agriculture, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Cattlemen oppose quarantine bill

AUSTIN — The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas is taking a strong stand against a draft bill proposed by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland which would expand the secretary's powers, allowing him to quarantine livestock in case of an "extraordinary emergency," due to the existence of any communicable disease.

"We find this a very dangerous bill because we don't feel the agriculture secretary should be given the ultimate authority to control the intrastate movement of livestock and interfere in the day-to-day business of producers," said an organization spokesman. "We are just as concerned as the secretary is in preventing the spread of disease in our cattle, but we already labor under too many government restrictions."

The group is urging all livestock producers to write their congressmen to defeat the bill if it is introduced.

Cotton sample receipts gaining

ABILENE — Cotton sample receipts are gaining as expected, reported B.B. Manly of the USDA Cotton Classing Office here. Harvesting is beginning in all Abilene areas and probably has reached a peak in and around the counties of Tom Green and Runnels.

During the week ending Friday, 24,000 samples were classed at the Abilene office, bringing the season total to about 35,000.

Local cotton prices were unchanged during the week. Most cotton sold at 9 to 9½ cents over 1979 loan values. Grade 31, staple 31 cotton milking 35 to 49 sold for about 55 to 56 cents per pound. Cottonseed prices paid producers at gins were mostly 115 dollars per ton.

Quality of cotton continued high, being very bright and clean, with Grade 21 comprising 17 percent of the samples classed.

Grade 31 comprised 58 percent and Grade 41 comprised 13 percent. Fiber strength averaged around 89,000 pounds per square inch breaking strength.

Credit board appointments OK'd

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate has confirmed the appointments of Jewell Haaland of Clarkfield, Minn., and Dwight L. Tripp Jr. of Auburn, Maine, to the Federal Farm Credit Board.

Their terms will expire March 31, 1985.

The 13-member Federal Farm Credit Board sets policy for the Farm Credit System, made up of borrower-owned agriculture lending institutions, and for the Farm Credit Administration, the independent federal agency that supervises and regulates the system.

MC schedules another course for beginners in piano

"Here we go again," said James Bramlett, director of the Midland College Department of Community Services.

"We've scheduled still another adult short course in beginning piano to accommodate more people."

This will be the fourth time MC has made extra classes for students who wish to enter the course on a non-credit basis, and it will be the final scheduling during the fall semester.

Piano I, taught by Charlotte Whitaker, is an introduction to the keyboard for beginners as well as an excellent refresher course for those who have had prior instruction.

Mrs. Whitaker, adjunct piano instructor at MC, teaches adults to read music, harmonize at the keyboard, play by ear and improvise music.

"By the third class meeting, we will be doing 'black-key jazz improvisation' which never fails to astound the class and spur them on to studying the textbook," Mrs. Whitaker explained. "This is accomplished by the use of an innovative approach to the piano, and most students readily adapt to the technique."

As in other classes, students will have the advantage of using the MC Wurlitzer Piano Lab which features 12 electronic pianos. Each piano is equipped with headsets and dial controls which allows the student to play only for himself or in concert with the class.

Those interested in enrolling may pre-register immediately. The class is limited to 12 students meeting from 9 to 11 a.m. each Wednesday for six weeks. First class will be Oct. 31. The fee is $24, and the textbook may be purchased at the MC Bookstore.

Preregistration is in room 156 of the MC Administration Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. The office will remain open during the lunch hour.

More information may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Students meet in room 156-A 15 minutes before the first class.

Stamp program may cost more

WASHINGTON (AP) — The food stamp program may cost about 20 percent more in fiscal 1980 than had been projected because of inflation and recession, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says.

Bergland told a subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee Thursday that present projections show the program will cost some $8.3 billion during the 1980 fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

1980 THE CHRYSLER ENGINEERS ARE CALLING IT THEIR YEAR

"Because it's a Chrysler, you would think it costs more than a Cutlass Supreme, but it doesn't."*
— CHARLES W. KELLEY, CHRYSLER ENGINEER

*Based on sticker prices of comparably equipped models.

LeBARON SALON

"We've made the 1980 Cordoba all new—for better gas mileage—without losing a bit of its style."
— T.P. DONOUGHE—CHRYSLER ENGINEER

EPA est. MPG (17 highway/est. 25 MPG). Use these projected EPA estimate for comparison to other cars. Your mileage may vary depending on speed, distance and weather. Actual highway mileage will probably be less. Improved mileage based on comparison of standard engines.

"We built Chrysler New Yorker to compete with Buick Electra. Most owners put it in a class with Cadillac or Lincoln."

WHY WAIT UNTIL 1981 TO PURCHASE YOUR DREAM HOME?
New Federally imposed mortgage rates will soon make it very difficult to obtain a mortgage, and in 1980, it may be impossible. In 1981 your new home could cost 20 to 25% more than it does today.

INFLATION IN THE HOME BUILDING INDUSTRY WILL NOT BE CONTROLLED BY THE PRESENT ACTION OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE.
Skilled construction workers and material suppliers are already taking advantage of long-term apartment, commercial and Federal contracts. Federal controls on timber harvesting are limiting the available supply of timber, thereby driving up the price of lumber materials.

WE STILL HAVE MORTGAGE MONEY AVAILABLE FOR OUR FINE NEW HOMES.
No down payment to vets on most homes.

Capp Homes
Finish-It-Yourself House™: Proof that housing is still affordable.

Homes from $23,890 to $75,000* and up

Finish-It-Yourself means just that. By doing the finishing work yourself, you can save thousands compared to the cost of having a contractor build the same house on your lot.

CAPP CUSTOM QUALITY
Choose the home design you want, then customize it to fit your needs. For over 33 years, Capp has maintained an old-fashioned dedication to quality building specifications and materials.

WHAT WE DO
Capp custom-constructs your home on your foundation. We install sub-flooring, interior stud partitions and exterior doors and windows, so you'll start off with a home that's completely enclosed and ready to finish.

WHAT YOU DO
You complete it yourself with all the finishing materials Capp provides. Things like plumbing and wiring aren't all that tough with the help of the Capp finishing manual. Finish it yourself, have your friends help—or hire tradesmen. The more you do, the more you save. And when you're finished, you have a home worth a lot more than you paid for it.

*Prices shown are for the house semi-constructed on the lot and foundation you provide and include materials to finish the inside. State and local taxes, processing fees, licenses, driveways, masonry and paint are not included. Pricing may vary according to geographic location.

MORTGAGE MONEY IS AVAILABLE
Capp offers various financing programs, including short term construction loans as well as permanent long term mortgages. With a small deposit, qualified customers can get Capp financing at competitive interest rates. Or if you prefer, use your local lender for part or all of your financing requirements. Either way your Capp Representative can help.

FIGHT BACK AT INFLATION Here's How To Win!

Is inflation eating away at your paycheck and your savings?

There's an easy way to turn inflation around ... be a homeowner. For a reasonable down payment, your total investment in your new home can wrap you in security and you can enjoy inflation. Fact is, national statistics reveal that homes have increased 13.5% in 1978 over 1977.

Home ownership is more than "owning a piece of the block." There is security, contentment, increasing equity and important tax deductions.

Will your rent receipts be worth $5000 to $6000 more next year, or will they be worthless?

Waiting costs money. Now is the time to buy a new Ramcon home. It could be the best investment of your lifetime.

CLUB OBJECTIVES

To elevate the standards for women in business and in the professions.
To promote the interests of business and professional women.
To bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women of the United States.
To extend opportunities to business and professional women through education along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

The foregoing objectives are fundamental purposes set forth by the Midland Uptown Chapter of Business and Professional Women's Club, a local charter of a 60-year-old national and international women's organization.

To achieve these objectives the 45 chapter members sponsor projects such as scholarships to local women pursuing educational advancement at Midland College, an annual spring seminar focusing on subjects as "Starting Your Own Business", "Financial Management", "Assertiveness Training", and "Women's Legal Rights".

Every second Wednesday the Club meets for a program and luncheon. Keynote speakers have included attorneys, political personalities, family counselors, special group advocates.

In addition to worthwhile womens' programs and projects, the chapter honors a "Woman of theYear", a woman in the community who has excelled in her field and the business world, and who exemplifies the standards of the BPW local, state, and national federations. This year's recipient is Pat Swindle, owner of the "Desk Top".

Mary Van Der Loop, employed as a geologist with Monsanto, is this year's winner of another Club award, "Young Careerist". Annually a panel selects a local young woman, the age of 30 years or younger, who has outstanding accomplishments in in her professional field or displays the background and desire to achieve in the business world.

Various programs, and state and national recognition is given to the honorees of "Woman of the Year" and "Young Careerist."

A feast for the eyes and the palate; that was the scenario Thursday as the new South Tower of the Midland Hilton opened its doors — and its banquet room — to several prominent dignataries. The new facility adds 120 rooms to the downtown landmark. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Midland Hilton opens second tower in Thursday ceremony

Scissors snipped the 50-foot ribbon Thursday which parted to open the new South Tower at the Midland Hilton.

The South Tower consists of 120 modern, richly-appointed guest rooms, bringing to 270 the total number of rooms in both 11-story towers near the heart of the Tall City, according to a spokesman for the Midland Hilton.

Those rooms are encased in deeply-smoked glass and a modern, marble-like finish.

The South Tower rises above the new Permian Ballroom and is connected to the North Tower by lower-level parking, lobby-level restaurants, lounges and a second-level pool area, the spokesman said in describing the new addition.

The atrium itself soars for four stories above the main lobby and is filled with lush, eye-pleasing vegetation.

The towers are a striking addition to downtown Midland, said the spokesman. They rest atop the site of the old historic Scharbauer Hotel which was purchased in 1973 and demolished to make way for the Midland Hilton.

The venture originated as the project of 55 Midland citizens who felt the city should secure an outstanding lodging facility, the spokesman related.

Basin Headquarters Inc., a subsidiary of Midland Southwest Corporation and a real estate investments firm, will continue management of the Hilton as it has done for the last three years.

The facility is owned by Prudential Insurance Co. of America.

The North Tower opened in June 1976.

Two restaurants are available to serve the dining needs of Tall City residents and their out-of-town guests. Two lounges cater to their drinking and social pleasures, said the spokesman.

The Permian Ballroom in the South Tower can seat up to 550 for banquets and 1,500 for meetings, which should keep Midland on the move as a convention city, the spokesman added.

For smaller meetings, several private function rooms are provided.

Camp Fuji blaze claims second life

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. military authorities reported a second American Marine died early Sunday of burns suffered in a fuel-tank fire during a typhoon and said 71 Marines were injured in the blaze.

They had said earlier that one Marine was killed and 43 were injured when a fuel tank spilled a river of flaming gasoline into a barracks area as typhoon Tip lashed central Japan Friday.

A team of burn experts from an Army medical center in Texas was flying to Japan to supervise the treatment and possible evacuation of the injured Marines.

The revised report released by Master Gunnery Sgt. Bob Green also said three Japanese were injured in the fire, and one was still hospitalized. Previous reports had listed only one Japanese woman employed at the base as being injured. Green gave no explanation for the sharp changes in the number of casualties.

Names of the victims have not been released.

The typhoon caused a total of 28 deaths throughout Japan, authorities reported, including another Marine who was swept into the ocean when the 75 mph-plus winds and rain struck Okinawa. Sixteen persons were missing and nearly 300 were injured.

The specialists from the Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio were expected to evacuate the burned Marines to the United States.

"Many are in serious or critical condition," a military spokesman said. He said a "final evaluation" of their injuries would be made by the doctors from Brooke.

American military investigators continued an inquiry into what caused the 5,000-gallon rubber bladder to empty during the storm and send the gasoline cascading into the wooden barracks at Camp Fuji, 90 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Witnesses at the joint U.S.-Japanese military training center at the base of 12,000-foot Mount Fuji said the typhoon caused an earthen retaining wall around the gasoline tank's base to collapse, ripping out hose connections and sending the gasoline spilling down toward the barracks.

Carnival worker held

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Maricopa County authorities held carnival worker Victor Beedley, 21, Saturday on felony warrants from Texas and Kansas.

The Arizona Department of Public Safety said Beedley was taken into custody as he operated a recreational ride at the Arizona State Fair here Friday night by officers who confiscated a weapon he was carrying. Officers said a routine check into his background discovered he was wanted in Texas for possession of marijuana and in Kansas for escape.

Other details of the warrants were unavailable.

School trustees to meet, canvass bond votes

Midland school trustees may have a short meeting and a long night Tuesday.

Trustees will face a fairly routine agenda at their regular 1:30 p.m. meeting, but will return to canvass votes in that day's $10.2 million school bond election when polls close at 7 p.m.

Depending on the results of the bond vote, the reception for workers expected to follow the canvass could continue for some time.

During the afternoon session, trustees will hear a report on SAT and ACT scores from the last testing session. The ACT and SAT are used primarily as college entrance exams.

Trustees also will hear a continuation of a report on the reading program in kindergarten through eighth grades.

Routine financial matters will take up the rest of the afternoon session.

Midlanders to join WTCC tour

Four participants from Midland will take part in the 1979 West Texas Chamber of Commerce Industrial Tour to California this month.

The tour, Oct. 29 — Nov. 1, is designed to encourage West Coast industry to consider West Texas as a place for future expansion.

Representing the Tall City are Grant A. Billingsley, manager, economic development, Midland Chamber of Commerce; Douglas B. Henson, vice president, First National Bank of Midland; Jack P. Hilliard, division customer service manager, Texas Electric Service Co.; and Darryl Pounds, vice president, Midland National Bank.

Hashish price broadcast to continue

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch disc jockey Koos Zwart's unique national broadcast of hashish prices probably will be resumed next spring, in an effort to halt the ballooning prices of the drug across the country.

For eight years, hash smokers tuned in at 2 p.m. each Saturday to Zwart's 35-second spot on the week's prices for their favorite brands.

"We believe that service to consumers helped to keep the price down," Zwart said recently. "Then, in January 1978, we decided to drop the quotes as an experiment.

"That experiment was to have lasted three years, but the doubling and tripling of prices in the 21 months since then prompted Zwart to open talks with the management of Vara, the Dutch socialist broadcasting organization, on reinstituting the quotations.

"Because of programming changes, we will probably begin the quotes again next April," Zwart said. "But the brief spot is likely to be around 5:30 p.m. instead. I imagine listeners will adapt.

Zwart, 32, the son of Irene Vorrink, a former Dutch Cabinet minister and Amsterdam city elder, said that without any ready reference, hash smokers now were paying the first asking price of dealers.

"Our broadcast, just 35 seconds every week, meant that everyone knew that somewhere in Holland, hash of certain types was selling for the quoted price," he said. "So if their own quote was higher, they just looked harder."

In the months that the hashish quotes have been off the air, the price of the Afghanistan variety leaped from about $2.25 to $6-$7.50 a gram, the DJ said.

The hash broadcast — Zwart said it was the only one of its kind in Europe — was readily accepted in a country that always has prided itself on tolerant attitudes.

Though smoking or possession of hashish still is illegal in the Netherlands, Amsterdam police said the activities of their 25-man drug squad now were confined almost entirely to the pursuit of hard narcotics, like heroin.

"We are a little more lenient toward hash than we were 10 years ago," a police spokesman said. "But even then, we did not worry specially about it, even though at that time it was really the only drug in circulation.

"Then there was no difference in the law between soft and hard drugs. Now there is."

Virtually the only time a hash smoker is in danger with the law now is when he is stopped by police for questioning for some other offense, the spokesman said.

'Windfall profits' tax could prove real federal bonanza

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "windfall-profits" tax approved Friday by the Senate Finance Committee is a complicated series of taxes on the oil industry that President Carter wants to pay for a national energy program.

Here is Carter's rationale for the tax and how it would work:

Since 1971, federal controls have held down the price of crude oil produced in the United States. The Carter administration agrees with the oil industry and with most economists that the price has been so low that production has suffered — that the industry has not been making enough profit to make greater exploration worthwhile.

Because U.S. producers now pump only half of the oil this nation uses, the other half must be imported, at a cost this year of about $60 billion. That is a big factor feeding inflation.

As a result, Carter on June 1 began a long phase-out of those controls. The price of U.S.-produced oil gradually will rise to world-market levels, which generally are set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The oil companies would like to keep all the extra revenues, claiming the money would be used for exploration and drilling that would increase domestic oil production.

But Carter contends the industry does not need all those billions — that part of the "windfall" should be used to finance a national energy program aimed at cutting consumption of foreign oil and to help lower-income Americans cope with rising fuel prices.

Thus, he recommended the "windfall-profits" tax. Begining next Jan. 1, the tax would take away a portion of the price increase as U.S. oil prices climb to world levels. Despite its name, the tax is on revenues the companies take in from selling the oil, not on the profit they make.

The size of the tax in the Senate bill depends on the location and age of the field from which it was produced:

—Old oil, from fields on which production began before 1973, would face a 75 percent tax. That is, the government would take 75 cents out of each dollar as the price of old oil rises above today's $6-per-barrel level. The $6 level would rise each year to reflect inflation, meaning the tax bite would drop. The House voted a 60 percent tax; either version would end in 1984.

—New oil, from fields that began producing in 1973 or later, would be taxed at 60 percent above $13 plus inflation. This oil now represents 52 percent of U.S. production; by 1990 it is expected to be about 9 percent. The same tax rate would apply to oil from Alaska's North Slope. The House bill has the same basic rate for new oil but would be tougher on North Slope production.

—Newly discovered oil, which by 1990 is expected to be 43 percent of U.S. production, would be exempt from the tax under the Senate bill. This is oil from property that did not produce in 1978. The House bill would tax this oil at 50 percent of the price increase between $17 and $26, and 60 percent above $26 a barrel.

—Stripper oil, which is from wells with average production of less than 10 barrels a day, would be taxed in both bills at 60 percent above a $16 level. The Senate bill, however, would allow an exemption for the first 1,000 barrels per day of stripper oil pumped by an independent producer — basically anyone other than the major oil companies.

Most of the tax in the House bill would be phased out by the end of 1990. The Senate measure would begin a 34-month phase out as soon as 90 percent of the projected revenue is raised.

Just how much revenue the tax will raise depends directly on how oil prices go. The higher the price of oil, the higher the tax take.

U.S. crude oil that is not controlled now sells for an average of $27 to $29 a barrel. Assuming the price at the end of 1979 averages $30 and increases annually by the rate of inflation plus 2 percent, the Senate bill would produce about $142 billion from 1980 through 1990. The House-passed tax would yield $292 billion.

In addition, removing federal price controls will raise billions more — as much as $400 billion by unofficial estimates — in increased income taxes on the oil industry.

Wexler moving force in soul, jazz, rhythm

NEW YORK (AP) — For years, Jerry Wexler, record man and mogul, has been a moving force in soul, jazz, rhythm and blues. He's boosted the careers of such folk as Ray Charles, Aretha Franklin, Joe Turner.

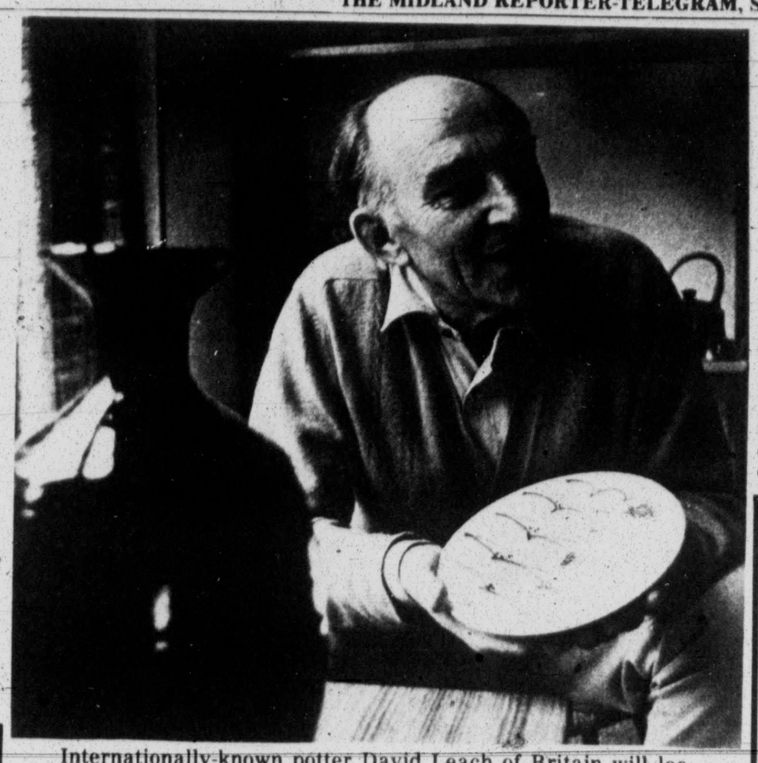
But now, at 62, he's trying a new game. He's making his debut as a theater man, co-producing a black musical, "One Mo' Time." It premieres off-Broadway next Monday in a Greenwich Village club.

"I've had many flirtations with the theater," says Wexler, a soft-spoken New Yorker with a gently rumbling bass voice. "But this is the first time I've actually come to the post."

The post is at the venerable Village Gate, where "One Mo' Time" is being put on by Wexler, Gate owner Art D'Lugoff and D'Lugoff's brother, Burt, a doctor by profession.

Set in 1926, the show offers the dances, music and skits of black vaudeville. Featuring a five-member cast and a five-piece band, it comes here from New Orleans, where it's been playing two years.

Naturally, Wexler has high hopes for the show. He thinks it has wide appeal: "There's a big nostalgia thing going with its music, which is pristine New Orleans jazz, two-beat jazz."



Internationally-known potter David Leach of Britain will lecture and conduct a special pottery workshop here this coming weekend. The illustrated lecture will be in the Midland College fine arts building at 8 p.m. Friday and will be open to the public. The pottery workshop, with limited enrollment, will be held Saturday and Sunday at the college.

Film maker risks big adventure, not little

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I took the risk of a big adventure, not a little adventure," remarks Bernardo Bertolucci, the Italian film maker whose career has been marked by risk-taking.

His early works reflected strong political stands, always left-leaning. He made his international reputation in 1970 with the powerful "The Conformist," then directed Marlon Brando and Maria Schenieder in "Last Tango in Paris."

"A judge in Italy condemned 'Last Tango' not only to be banned, but to be burned — like witches," Bertolucci recalled with a rueful smile. "Recently the judge said in a interview that today he would not condemn the picture. That's how much morality has changed in five years."

Why was the big monster kept there?

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a big monster of a TV set; with a giant screen set in a cabinet five-and-a-half feet tall. It was not a friendly looking thing.

It was kept in Mr. Woods' office, covered and quiet, for purposes unknown. Mikey Angel always said that Mr. Woods, being the principal and all, probably watched cartoons on it. Parochial Mikey. But nobody could come up with a better explanation, and for the whole month of September, that giant TV in Mr. Woods' office was the subject of schoolyard supposing.

The answer came. Mr. Woods, he of the grinding teeth and bow tie, was a baseball nut. One happy October morning, Mr. Woods wheeled the monster into the lunchroom, where good little boys and girls could catch a few quick minutes of the Go-Go White Sox and the just-arrived-in-Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was a miracle, some of us thought, a providential reward for coming to school. The World Series. Old Man Woods was all right.

The next year, Mr. Woods moved to a new school. But October 1960 was saved, as were the following couple of Octobers, by my Pop, an understanding sort whose youthful Octobers were survived not only without Mr. Woods but without TV.

Stalwart Pop.

Pop and I both sort of caught a bad cold the day before the Pirates greeted the Yanks in Forbes Field. Mom called the school. Pop and I recuperated at the home of Bob Salcedo, Pop's pal with the brand-new Zenith. The Yanks got beat, and the world was right.

I'm glad I was a kid then instead of now, when all the weekday Series games are played at night. Baseball, Mr. Wrigley would have told you, is meant to be played under the sun. I know that television and baseball are fast friends, and I know that networks benefit from a prime-time World Series, and I know that baseball is happy when TV is happy.

But consider:

All of the grumpy bosses in all of the workplaces in this land whose one chance to be regular folks came during the World Series. They could bring in a portable, turn the volume down and make small talk about Bill Mazeroski or Bob Gibson. The day of a Series game was like a mini-vacation.

Or consider the unlucky American kid, who doesn't get to sneak a transistor radio into class.

C. Warren Cullar exhibits collection in Snyder museum

SNYDER — C. Warren Cullar, a former West Texan, is exhibiting a collection of his water color paintings in the Scurry County Museum here.

The artist, who now has a studio at Bertram, near Austin, has exhibited his paintings in Midland and has taught watercolor workshops here.

Also currently on view in the museum on the campus of Western Texas College of Snyder, is a collection of bronze sculptures by Jim Thomas of Amarillo.

Thomas is a founding member of the Texas Cowboy Artists Association and has served as president of the group. His works are in many public and private colections in this region, including the collection of the Diamond M Museum of Snyder.

Cullar taught at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene before joining the art faculty of Wester Texas College of Snyder several years ago. He later turned to painting on a fulltime basis and moved to Bertram, in the Texas Hill Country. He is a member of the Texas Watercolor Society and was recipient of the $500 Alice Dinn Memorial Award in the TWS's annual exhibition this year. He has had paintings in the juried exhibitions of the West Texas Watercolor Association.

The exhibition presents a collection of fine Indian pottery, basketry and beadwork, along with Indian rugs, from the Fred Harvey collection housed in the Heard Museum of Phoenix.

The collection was assembled through the years by officials of the Fred Harvey Co., which operated hotels and dining rooms along the Santa Fe Railroad routes in the Southwestern U.S. The collection was gathered over a 40- to 50-year time span.

In conjunction with the Harvey exhibition is a showing of paintings of Indian artifacts by James M. Haney of Dumas, in the Texas Panhandle.

Egypt, Israel may not meet Mideast target date, Strauss reports

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Robert Strauss says Egypt and Israel may be unable to complete a Palestinian autonomy plan by May and yet get close enough to draw Jordan and other Arabs into Mideast peace talks.

"I think if we agreed on some half a dozen contentious issues, that would be a demonstrable thing," President Carter's special Middle East envoy said.

Egypt and Israel last year set the end of May as an informal target for arranging elections for the 1.1 million Palestinian Arabs who live on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in Gaza.

Strauss did not appear distressed by the prospect of not meeting the deadline in an interview Friday, before an office party with his staff to mark his 61st birthday.

"It's very important we exert every conceivable, responsible effort to meet that deadline," President Carter's special Mideast envoy said.

"But if, in fact, we are only two-thirds of the way there, it is a very big success."

He said that might draw Jordan, Saudi Arabia and moderate Palestinians into the peace process.

"The Jordanians have a big stake in this and I think they'll assume a role of responsibility when we get credibility into this," Strauss said.

Despite U.S. appeals, Jordan and leaders of the 1.1 million Palestinians living under Israeli control have boycotted the peace talks. Saudi Arabia, meanwhile, and virtually all other Arab countries condemned the Egyptian-Israel treaty.

And yet Strauss said if the negotiations can lend "additional credibility" to the Camp David accords by settling some major issues, "we will begin to see some room next spring for some participation."

By way of example, he said those could include agreement between Egypt and Israel on the Palestinian council and on economic issues, including water usage.

"We can have two-thirds of the tough issues out of the way and one-third of the issues holding us miles apart," he said.

An outspoken Texas lawyer with a reputation for political skill, Strauss said he has found the Middle East unique.

"I haven't met anything quite like the Middle East issues, I'll say that," Strauss said.

"I thought I had seen it all.

"These issues are so volatile, so emotional, so hysterical and create such violent over-reaction, not just reaction.

"And the worst part of it, I've found that every day I read an account in some paper, in Egypt, in Israel, in this country, that is wholly based on fantasy about what I said, or what I did, or what I intend to do."

Strauss will fly to London on Thursday for talks there with the principal negotiatiors, Mustapha Khalil of Egypt and Yosef Burg of Israel.

"It isn't a very significant meeting," he said.

He plans to visit the area next month and to participate in ceremonies at Mount Sinai.

What's in a name?

A family portrait of the normal American family, with one unusual aspect. Greg LeGrand and Sylvia Drew are married, but she has retained her maiden name. Also pictured are their daughter, Allegra LeGrand, and Windsor, an English Shepherd. (Photo by Brian Hendershot)

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

His name is Greg LeGrand. Her name is Sylvia Drew. They're married.

The practice of a woman taking her husband's last name at marriage is as traditional as marriage itself. But that's slowly changing.

"I have several female lawyer friends who have retained their maiden name for professional reasons," said Sylvia. But her particular case is different, for she decided years ago in junior high school that she would always keep her maiden name.

It wasn't a snap decision, she says. She thought long and hard before deciding to break with tradition.

"I come from an old, established family in Florida and Oklahoma," she explained. "My dad had no sons and I thought it was a shame that the family name would die with me. So I decided years ago to keep the Drew name."

She says there are advantages to the situation, though Greg isn't quite sure he agrees.

"I like having my own name, for one thing," she says. "And I always thought it was a pity that when a woman moves away from her hometown and gets married, no one knows her when they hear her 'new' name. This way, my friends always know who I am."

Also, she is proud of her last name and her roots in Florida. Her grandfather has a Drew street named after him. And Tampa International Airport was originally named Drew Field.

Not of least importance, however, she also has credit established in her own name.

It isn't easy being a trend-setter, according to Greg, who admits to being more of a traditionalist than his wife of two years.

"Our name difference has caused some embarrassments," he said. He recalls the time when they were returning to the States from the Bahamas and the airport's ticket officials refused to allow Sylvia to board the plane until she signed her name as Mrs. LeGrand.

"She only consented to do it by printing her name as Sylvia LeGrand which, naturally, made it invalid," said Greg. "But they let us by anyway."

They were also unable to get their wedding story printed in their local newspaper in Iowa Park, a suburb of Wichita Falls.

"The newspaper refused to print Sylvia's last name because it was different from mine," said Greg. "In fact, they wouldn't use her name for any story the entire time we were living there."

"Most companies with which we do business would prefer us to have the same last name because, otherwise, it causes more paperwork," explained Sylvia.

"They usually have to make a separate file for each of us."

Most recent problem cropped up upon the birth of their baby not long ago.

"There was a little confusion at first, but it was quickly resolved," says Sylvia.

When the baby was born, Greg and Sylvia were told at first that she would have to take the Drew name, but the couple wanted her to have Greg's last name.

There were legally within their rights and knew it, as both had taken a law course which covered this specific area.

Texas law does't require a baby to take the name of its mother, as is required in some other states," said Sylvia.

So, baby Allegra is named LeGrand and everyone is satisfied.

"If we had had a boy, he would have been named Drew LeGrand, said Sylvia.

She tries not to push the name issue too far.

"There's a time and place for everything and I don't always press the issue of my last name," she said. "For example, Greg is a petroleum engineer for a major oil company. It's also a rather conservative company. When we were introduced to his vice-presidents upon our move to Midland in May, I didn't try to bring attention to our names."

She considers herself somewhat of a feminist, but hates the label.

"I've always been more liberal than Greg," she says. "We are two different types, but everything has worked out fine."

Greg admits that he married Sylvia thinking he could change her mind about her name after the ceremony.

"It didn't work," he added.

He was very sensitive to the name issue at the beginning of their marriage, but says that he is used to it now and copes with it very well.

"He always takes up for me if anyone gives me trouble over our names," says Sylvia. "Whatever we may say or feel in private, we still have a united front in public."

"And once you get used to the comments and the ribbing, it's okay."

She is proud of her decision. "I think that, in taking Greg's last name, I would have lost something. I certainly would have lost more than he gained."

DEAR ABBY

It's unlawful in most places

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to SCARED, a woman in a rough neighborhood who has suffered numerous purse snatchings and indecent propositions, who is afraid of being raped, and who wonders about carrying a butcher knife, fell below your usual standard of helpfulness.

You suggested she check with her local law enforcement as to "what kind of weapon (if any) a citizen is permitted to carry to protect life, limb and pocketbook. The laws differ from state to state." That comment might imply that a weapon DOES offer some protection.

Not only is the carrying of concealed weapons unlawful in most places, but it is a bad, unsafe idea. A person who pulls a knife on an assailant is very likely to lose more than just a purse; he is likely to be seriously injured in a struggle which most probably would ensue. (SCARED herself was badly injured trying to protect her purse.

For that reason, crime prevention specialists are virtually unanimous in strongly discouraging the general public from carrying deadly weapons, or even keeping them around the home. Many accidental injuries and deaths have resulted from having such weapons at home.

It would be a fine service to your many readers if you would print the following suggestions. — SLADE GORTON, Attorney General; Olympia, Wash.

OUT ALONE: At night, try to stay on well-lighted streets; avoid doorways, shrubbery, dark shadows near buildings, alleys and other potential hiding places.

If possible, walk with a friend.

Better yet, take a bus. If there are few people on board, sit near the driver.

In a cab or friend's car, ask the driver to wait until you signal you are safely inside your house.

Don't hitchhike or accept rides from strangers.

Stay away from deserted laundromats or apartment house laundry rooms at night; be cautious even in the daytime.

Be alert in crowds, where pickpockets do their best work.

The safest place for a man to carry his wallet is in an inside or front pocket.

When you take out your wallet, be as discreet as possible in handling your cash. Remember that cash is a strong temptation to the potential robber, so try to avoid carrying it, especially in large amounts. Use checks or credit cards instead.

A woman should hold her handbag firmly and close to her body, preferably toward the front — never dangling at her side. In certain cases, it may be possible to avoid carrying a purse by concealing keys and a wallet in a pocket, for example. That is the best way to avoid having a purse snatched.

Don't leave your purse on a store counter or set it on the floor in restrooms, theaters, restaurants, or other public places.

IN YOUR CAR: Keep your doors locked and windows rolled up most of the way.

Don't pick up hitchhikers.

If someone tries to break into your car, honk your horn repeatedly.

If you are being followed, don't drive directly home. Drive to the nearest police station, hospital emergency entrance, all-night restaurant or other safe place.

You should not travel at night when you know you have car trouble or are low on gas.

Look for a well-lighted parking place and lock up.

If you must leave your key with a parking attendant, leave only your car key, never the keys to your house. These can be duplciated while you're gone.

Before getting into your car, check the back seat and floors for someone hiding there.

AT HOME: A woman living alone should use only her first initial and last name in the phone book and on the mailbox.

Be cautious around elevators; if you are at all suspicious of another passenger, wait for the next car.

When changing addresses, change your locks, too. Install a deadbolt lock with a one-inch "throw" and a wide-angle viewer so that you can see callers. (A chain guard is NOT adequate protection in case someone tries to force your door open.)

Always check the I.D. of any repairman, salesman or policeman who wishes to come inside.

Instruct children and baby-sitters not to give out any information about who is home, who is out and for how long.

If you suspect your home has been broken into, don't go in or call out. Call the police from a neighbor's.

Don't leave your keys hidden outside. They're too easily found.

Always lock your doors and windows, draw your shades at night and leave a few lights on.

IN TROUBLE: If a robber demands your valuables, give them up! Your money or your jewelry is not worth risking injury or your life.

Don't carry weapons such as guns and knives. They can esily be turned against you.

Be selective about new acquaintances; don't invite a forcible sexual encounter. But remember, not all rapists are strangers, and you can't tell by appearance.

If you are confronted by a rapist, try to stay calm and think before you react.

Screaming or blowing a whistle may scare him off. Screaming "Fire!" rather than "Help!" or "Rape!" might bring more assistance.

Escape is your best defense. If you are trapped, crying, fainting, becoming hysterical, claiming you have a venereal disease, or pretending you are going to be sick may discourage him.

If the attacker is unarmed, try to employ basic self-defense measures — kick, bite, punch or scratch. The throat, face, eyes, knees and groin are target areas. He may injure, rape or murder you, so don't worry about hurting him!

If your attacker is armed and threatens to harm you, your child or someone else, you may think twice about physically resisting or attacking him. Remember, though, no one can tell you how to react. You should do what you feel is best for you.

Write down everything you can remember about your assailant; call the police right away.

Do not change your clothing, bathe or apply any medication. Although this would be your natural reaction, don't do it. The physical evidence will be important in the prosecution of the attacker.

Address comments and questions to Abby in care of this newspaper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The term "water resistant" is sometimes interpreted to mean waterproof. This deduction, completely erroneous, is most often made with adhesives.

When you read on an adhesive container that the product is water resistant, it means just that and nothing more. Anything that is water resistant resists water. It doesn't prevent the passage of water under certain conditions. When the label says waterproof, it means water cannot get through even if the glued item is placed in or left in water.

Perhaps the best known waterproof adhesive is resorcinol glue, used in the construction and repair of wooden objects exposed to the elements and most especially in the manufacture and renovation of boats. The glue comes in two parts — powder and liquid — which are mixed immediately before use. It is a very strong adhesive, most effective when applied in temeratures of 70 degrees Fahrenheit or higher.

The new "super glue" or cyanocrylates come close to being waterproof, but still fall into the water resistant category. They are, however, more water resistant than most other adhesives in that class. They must be used with great care and are most effective on non-porous materials, which makes them less than ideal for wood.

Miniskirts are back

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's sportswear designers, promising "a futuristic look for the 1980s," have unveiled their spring lines with some unexpected flashes from the past.

Don't look now, but the miniskirt is back.

And, believe it or not, square pedal pushers and Bermuda shorts.

There are lots of body-clinging, space age swimsuits and puffy space cadet jumpsuits that seem to have stepped out of "Star Wars."

But it was the time machine trip back to the '60s that set off a rumble of murmurs at the California Mart where hundreds of the 40,000 buyers in town for the annual spring market crowded into an auditorium Tuesday to get the lowdown on leisure wear.

There was a smattering of applause for the first miniskirt by Zoe's Elka Lasso. By the time the second one danced down the runway, there was silence.

"I think it's an unflattering look and I fought it for two seasons," conceded Mart Fashion Director Pam Roberts. "But its definintely going to happen. The miniskirt is coming back.

AT WIT'S END

Only eyes show

By ERMA BOMBECK

I know you've seen them advertised. Sometimes they're called lounging sacks. Other times they're referred to as body quilts.

Whatever, you can't open a magazine these days without seeing a family sitting around the living room in plaid sleeping bags zipped up to their throats with only their eyes peeking out. According to the blurb next to them, this is what the well-dressed family will be wearing during the coming winter's fuel crisis.

Okay, forget the fact that it will take you 32 ring-a-dings to reach the telephone. Forget that no matter how hard you try, you'll still look as sexy as an unmade bed. Forget what it's going to sound like when your son answers the door and says, "Mom can't come to the door now. She has a bag on."

Just ask yourself, "Is this the answer?"

This is not the first energy crisis I have lived through. When I was ten years old and coal was 50 cents a bag, a decision was made that winter to shut off all the rooms and heat only the kitchen. That decision had an unparalleled effect on my life. Not only did it build character, it unearthed talents I never knew I possessed.

I discovered in the mornings I could run the 50 yards from my bedroom to the kitchen in an unprecendented two and one half seconds (the record that year was five seconds) WITHOUT MY FEET TOUCHING THE FLOOR.

When I had to practice piano in an unheated room, I could play the Minute Waltz in 26 seconds.

I could stand on a kitchen chair (heat rises) and eat breakfast and carry on a conversation with people on the floor like a normal person.

I could jump under the covers of my bed and emerge three minues later fully clothed without so much as putting a wrinkle in my skirt.

Whenever the doorbell rang on the Siberian side of the house, I could go into self-hypnosis and feign deafness. To this day, I never hear a doorbell ring.

Oh, sure, we could sit around next winter like quilted mermaids, but where is the adventure of getting to the sealed-off room, the challenge of running through the darkness, dodging sofas and chairs, creating smoke when your warm breath meets the cold air and finally reaching the room with the oven on?

You can't get that kind of a thrill sitting around in the sack.

Spectators grumble

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Armed with a catcher's mitt and a court order, Patty Nagata was ready to play softball in an all-male league.

But while the 30-year-old secretary warmed up behind the plate Tuesday night, the other team walked off the field to the cheers of the crowd.

"Let's put her up against a 200-pound man and see how she's going to catch," grumbled spectator Judy Smith, who plays in a women's softball league.

Ms. Nagata won a temporary order from a federal judge earlier Tuesday blocking the Seminole County Parks and Recreation Department from enforcing a policy of separate teams for men and women.

U.S. District Judge Terrell Hodges of Tampa acted on a suit brought by Ms. Nagata's teammates, her co-workers at the Orange-Osceola state attorney's office. The suit said the segregation policy is discriminatory.

Ms. Nagata helped organize the team, called the Mob, and also plays shortstop and second base. She was disappointed by the walkout.

"They're the ones making the big deal," she said.

After an angry confrontation between coaches, members of the American Fastener Components Inc. squad said they would rather forfeit the game than play against a woman.

"Maybe they were afraid we would win," said Mob coach Bucky Blankner. The forfeit boosted his team's record to 3-2 in its first year of league play while American Fastener fell to 0-5.

Is your furnace ready to throw in the towel?
Your furnace may have been one of the all time greats but sooner or later it has to retire. Chances are it no longer runs as efficiently as it should and your heating bills are a knockout every month.

How to make butterflies

COLLEGE STATION—To make corn-husk butterflies, soften corn husks with water, then cut, pleat or stretch, says Pat Seaman, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Additional husks for the body plus painted designs complete the creations.

Also, create a giant angel the same way settlers made dolls, she continues.

Use husks for the body and wings and corn silks for hair, Ms. Seaman adds.

There's usually no difference in mushrooms

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Barring damage or growing problems, there is no difference in quality or taste of white mushrooms vs. brown ones or large vs. small, experts say.

White mushrooms are popular in the east, tan ones in the west. Easterners shun the brown ones, says Aron Kinrus, agronomist for the American Mushroom Institute at Kennett Square, Pa. He told about an advertisement by the mushroom cooperative showing brown and white eggs and brown and white mushrooms, saying the only difference was the color. The advertiement, he related, didnt persuade many to change their habits. But a more recent cream-colored introduction may help.

Mushrooms, Kinrus said, havebeen increasing in popularity along with dieting, since they have only 90 calories per pound. Of course, there'll be many more calories if you douse them with butter.

The Mushroom Institute offers this buying guide for the consumer:

Grading generally refers to size. Large ones are as tender as small, but they look more deluxe so may command higher prices. Buy large for stuffing or where appearance is important. Small sizes are fine for slicing or chopping.

Mushrooms with closed "veils," (tissue between cap and stem) are freshest. However, they are fine after the veil has opened and gills are exposed, or even with bruise spots. Don't open containers until needed. Quick rinse, drain and pat dry. Scrubbing and peeling causes loss of nutrients and changes in texture.

All of the vegetable is usable. If slicing or chopping is required, a day's supply will keep satisfactorily under refrigeration.

Keep mushrooms cold and humid and use as soon as possible, advises the Institute. Store them in the refrigerator where they can get good air circulation and cover with a damp paper towel to aid moisture retention. Avoid storing in airtight plastic bags.

Mushrooms may be quick-frozen raw. But they will keep longer and more attractively frozen if blanched first by steaming or boiling briefly, or if sauted in butter. A comparatively new item is frozen, breaded mushrooms.

Mushrooms, low in fat, are a source of protein, phosphorus, iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. They need only a few minutes' cooking. You can serve them raw, as a garnish, baked, broiled, sauted, stuffed or marinated.

Buy mushrooms at food stores. The Journal of American Medicine says there is no practical or reliable test for determining edibleness of wild mushrooms. Animals, for instance, may safely eat a variety deadly to man.

Some ancient peoples, Kinrus said, thought mushrooms had special qualities perhaps because of their habit of popping up overnight. The Egyptians at one time made it an offense for mushrooms to be eaten anywhere exeept in the Pharaoh's court. The Romans, believing mushrooms gave warriors extraordinary strength in battle, passed similar laws and called them "food of the gods."

Modern mushroom-growing techniques began in French limestone quarries outside Paris in the 18th century. In Pennsylvania, the mushroom capital of the U.S., mushroom growing was begun in 1896 by William Swayne of Kennett Square. The Quakers initiated the mushroom industry there. After the World War, Italian families moving into the Berks-Lancaster-Chester Counties area helped develop it. The location was good. It was close to the big New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore markets, and there was a race track and many farms to help supply horse manure needed for compost.

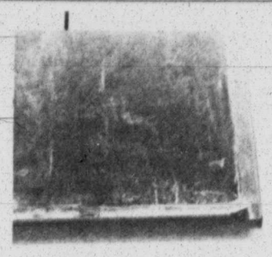
Parenting seminar scheduled



Effective parenting will be the topic of a seven-week seminar beginning Oct. 29 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Central YMCA.

The seminar will be conducted by John Young, staff social worker at Family Services of Midland. The two-hour sessions will instruct couples on dealing with their children's temper tantrums, low self-concept, poor school performance and other often time frustrating situations.

The format for the seminar will be a program entitled Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP). STEP focuses on teaching parents to raise responsible decision makers. By working together in a small group, the participants first will become actively involved in sharing experiences of common concern regarding their children's behavior.

Next, they will learn why their responses to their children's behavior is ineffective and then learn to develop more effective alternate responses.

The participants will have an opportunity to practice specific child-rearing principles and techniques during the sessions and to discuss how these and their weekly readings have been helpful in dealing with their children.

Interested parents can call Family Services for further information, 683-4241.

Registration will be held at Central YMCA from Monday through Friday.

New interest in urban living seen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Life in the city may become more attractive than suburban living in the 1980s, a recent study indicates.

The prediction, made by William C. Lichtenfels, president of Emhart Industries, Inc., is based on a survey made for his company by seven experts in the fields of architecture, urban planning, sociology, economics, energy planning, electronics and attitude analysis.

The new interest in urban living was attributed mainly to energy, economics and demographics, he said.

Lichtenfels said that while 24 million people added to the population during the '80s would require, minimally, 20 million new homes, the cost of new homes, combined with smaller families, was making the three-bedroom suburban house obsolete.

With the cost of buying and maintaining a single-family home increasing twice as fast as the average family's ability to handle it, only one of four families will be able to buy a house.

Unmarried heads of households, plus the 29 million senior citizens in the '80s and the trend toward wives going to work also are strong forces accelerating the move to the city, he said.

Woman pilot's list of firsts lengthy one

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Hanna Reitsch, the world's first woman helicopter pilot who recently died here at age 67, had a number of other firsts to her credit.

She was the first pilot to fly a glider over the Alps; the first woman to fly a rocket-propelled plane; the first German woman to attain the rank of flight captain; the first woman to be awarded the Iron Cross; the first woman German National Glider Champion; the first Woman World Helicopter Champion.

Food service field seen as rewarding

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Brother Herman E. Zaccarelli just might be described as a "heavenly chef."

The 48-year-old member of a religious order, the Congregation of the Holy Cross, is director of the Restaurant, Hotel and Institutional Management Institute at Purdue University.

The institute conducts seminars and training programs at Purdue and throughout the world for professionals in the hospitality-food service industry.

"With the advancement of technology, it is important for personnel in these industries to constantly learn, unlearn and relearn every five years," says Brother Herman, who also works closely with undergraduates in the Purdue Department of Restaurant, Hotel and Institutional Management in the School of Consumer and Family Sciences.

"The explosive growth in the food-service industry means tremendous career opportunities," he points out. "Finding, training and motivating a whole new generation of skilled individuals in all areas of the business is a challenge the hospitality-food service industry faces today."

The director, who received the 1979 American Culinary Federation Award, has written numerous articles and books on food, including "Retirement Food and Nutritional Manual," prepared for older people and those on restricted diets.

"We are doing some work with senior citizens, developing economical recipes for them using wine, which adds much to their nutrition," Brother Herman says. "As retirees, they have more time to prepare and enjoy food."

Brother Herman, who has been involved in cooking and other phases of food service since he was 13, likes working in the field, since it is "very creative work and you are dealing with people." He believes food is the symbol of the family.

A native of New Castle, Pa., he worked as a hotel bus boy while attending school and was later moved to the kitchen where, he says, he learned about food preparation. After finishing high school, he went to Washington, D.C., where he got a summer job in a restaurant. Then, in 1949, he joined the Congregation of the Holy Cross.

"I was motivated by the life of service to people and believed the congregation had the greatest service-oriented philosophy," he explains. "There is a greater emphasis on service to society, rather than to the institution.

"Members are more sensitive to the people by living in their style rather than in a monastery or special type of home. We live simply and the fruits of our labor are used toward human development. Our surplus salary is returned to the order and we can specify where we wish it to go."

Brother Herman is founder and former director of the International Food Research and Education Center in North Easton, Mass. He has served on the faculties of the University of Puerto Rico, Lansing College and, most recently, as visiting professor at the School of Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management, University of Minnesota-Crookston.

He notes that today one out of three meals is eaten outside the home, and predicts that the trend will continue. He adds that the growing number of retirees will boost the hospitality industry, since they tend to travel more.

His own favorite foods are hamburger and spaghetti, even though he admits he has to watch his waistline. "When you prepare food, of course you taste once in a while," he says. "Any person who is involved in the culinary arts is conscious of his calorie intake. We try to prepare small amounts in the finest possible way to retain all of the food's basic nutrients."

With the increasing popularity of ethnic food, he foresees the establishment of more ethnic restaurants. At present he himself is taking a great interest in Chinese cooking, since the institute is planning two educational-cultural trips for hospitality and food-service personnel to the People's Republic of China in May and October 1980.

"We have a great deal to learn from the Chinese, who are culinary masters," he says. "And they will have the opportunity to learn from us.

"It is hoped that the trips will foster greater understanding and friendship between our peoples and nations, resulting in improved communications and an expanded exchange of knowledge."

Dallas cuts power rate

DALLAS (AP) — The city council cut more than $22 million from a Dallas Power & Light Co. rate increase request, an action company officials said would endanger its AAA bond rating.

"I am not sure we have any option but to appeal the decision," said DP&L Vice President W.W. Aston, after Wednesday's unanimous vote.

The increase approved by the council was smaller than the increase DP&L received last Friday in a ruling from the Texas Public Utilities Commission.

Discussing plans for National Business Women's Week with Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo are Uptown Business and Professional Women's Club members, from left, Diane Newland, chairman of NBWW, and Rexanna Heidelberg, Uptown B&PW president. Mayor Angelo has signed a proclamation designating Oct. 21-27 as National Business Women's Week. The club is taking this week as an opportunity, through various activities, to honor and recognize business women in the community. (Staff Photo)

It's Business Women's Week in city, Texas

The third full week of October is observed as National Business Women's Week by all clubs of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and by many cooperating groups and organizations.

Working women constitute 43 million of the nation's working force, and are constantly striving to serve their communities, their states and their nation in civic and cultural programs.

Major goals of business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems, to help them be of greater service to their community, and to further friendship with women throughout the world.

The members of the Uptown Business and Professional Women's Club join with members of the various B&PW Clubs throughout the United States in observing the week of Sunday through Saturday as National Business Women's Week. Since it was first observed by the Federation in 1928, it has become a nationwide salute to working women.

If there is anything most women dread, it's taking a driver's test. Men aren't too anxious about it either, because it often proves that just because you have been driving for years, doesn't necessarily mean you are proficient.

We have been licensed in Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois; and now, in Texas. Of those six states, Minnesota was the toughest. It amazes me that there are any moving vehicles there.

SOME STATES require both the driving test and the written exam, but Texas requires only the written exam for licensed drivers from another state. the really neat part is that it's not written, but done by machine and more like playing a game than taking a test. Somehow, seeing the actual situation about which the question is asked, makes it so much more sensible and easy. The Rangers at the station are friendly and helpful and it is a pleasant experience.

Everone would be better protected if all drivers were to be tested every few years. It is so easy to slip into bad driving habits without even realizing it, and somehow, in the wide, open spaces, drivers are tempted to take more than their share of the road. Believe me, one stint on the Eisenhower Expressway in Chicago changes habits in a hurry. And, for sheer thrills, try stopping at a light in the middle of a forty-five degree incline on ice. I had a gentleman — total stranger — get into the car with me to help through that scenario in Burlington, Iowa. There was something about braking and releasing the clutch at the same time, as I remember.

PUTTING THOSE Texas license plates on the car is like putting your name on the mailbox — you've arrived. And now for the fun of driving in a sand storm or trying to cross the Wadley River at high tide.

Another thing you'll want to do to become a responsible citizen, is register to vote. Even though the first election may be on issues about which you are not well-versed or for candidates about whom you have no knowledge, at least you'll be all ready as son as you've had time to read and become acquainted with issues and candidates.

I'M NOT SURE what the system is here in Midland, but we've voted all sorts of ways —paper ballot, voting machines and the book and stylus punch system and they all come through with the same satisfying result — you have exercised your duty and privilege to be a caring American no matter where you happen to live.

Here's the answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We had aluminum siding put on our house a few years ago. It has taken on a dirty appearance, probably because we live fairly near a utility company whose stacks are constantly emitting smoke of some kind. I have tried hosing it down. It took off some of the dirt, but there are still stains in some places. Someone told me to use a detergent, but I am afraid that it will take off the paint, which seems to be in good shape. What's the answer?

A. — The information you got was correct. First try a mild detergent. If that doesn't do the job, get some trisodium phosphate and follow the directions on how to mix it. Scrub only as hard as necessary to remove the stains. The paint is not likely to be affected unless you have to repeat the chore every month or so. One way to avoid the use of a detergent and a scrubbing brush is to hose down the siding periodically before the grime has a chance to set.

Q. — How can I get stains off the top of a marble-covered table? I have tried regular cleaners without result and am afraid to try anything stronger for fear of ruining the marble.

A. — This must be the season for staining marble, since a number of letters have come in asking for similar advice. The answer is that stains on marble, like stains on anything, are different and yield to different treatments. If you know what caused the stain, go to a marble dealer, tell him what the item was and ask for the proper cleaning compound. If you do not know what it was, either buy two or three types of cleaners or see if the dealer sells a marble-cleaning kit. Also, you must resign yourself to the fact that, with an especially stubborn stain, you might have to have the top repolished professionally. For you and for anyone else who has a table or anything made of marble: do yourself a favor and buy a paste wax suitable for use with that product. Wax the marble once or twice a year and thn, if anything is spille on it, te odds are that it can be wiped awa easily.

Q. — Do I apply black lacquer the same as regular clear lacquer?

A. — Yes. It's regular lacquer with a pigment.

Potatoes are popular with Idaho Basques

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

I recently learned that Idaho, home of those big baking potatoes, is also the home of many Basque people who migrated from Europe at the turn of the century.

Apparently most of the Basques who came to this country had planned to stay only long enough to make sufficient money herding sheep to go back to their provinces in Spain and France and live out their days in comfort.

But many of them stayed, and today Idaho has the largest concentration of Basques in the United States.

For centuries, the Basques have been without a homeland. Living in border provinces of Spain and France, they have bad to adapt to their surroundings, which included the local cuisine.

In Idaho, this meant basing the diet in part on those large oval potatoes with russet skin for hich the state is famous and which are good inmany other forms beside baked.

Actually, otatoes were nothing new to the Basques. One of their mainstays in Europe is garbure, a heavy cabbage and potato soup flavored with preserved goose. I'm told that potatoes are almost as essential to garbure as the cabbage and goose fat.

Since settling in Idaho the Basque colony has come up with some ideas of its own on the potato. One specialty is Basque potato casserole, a side dish that combines green peppers, onion, garlic, olives and tomatoes with a mashed-potato topping sprinkled with Parmesan cheese.

An Irish friend who has spent some time in Idaho tells me the Basques have also acquired a fondness for colcannon, an Irish-inspired combination of mashed potatoes and cabbage. All of which proves that the potato, perhaps more than any other vegetable, has a universal appeal.

Here is a recipe for Basque Potato Casserole using instant Idaho mashed potatoes.

2¼ cups prepared instant Idaho mashed potatoes

2 tablespoons olive oil

1 green pepper, seeded and sliced, sliced

½ cup sliced onion

1 clove garlic, minced

½ cup coarsely chopped pitted ripe olives

1 can (8 ounces) whole tomatoes

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon dried leaf basil

¼ teaspoon dried leaf oregano

2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Prepare mashed potatoes according to package direction for 2¼ cups, and keep warm. Heat olive oil in skillet. Add green pepper, onion and garlic; cook till tender. Add olives, tomatoes with liquid, salt, basil and oregano. Simmer uncovered for 5 minutes. Turn into 1½ quart casserole. Spoon potatoes over vegetables. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Place under broiler 2 to 5 minutes till lightly browned. Serves 6. Good with a dry, white wine, well chilled.

Government does great job in creating crisis, Berg says

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON(AP)—Harold E. Berg says a review of events over the past six or seven years indicates the federal government has been very thorough in one area.

"It would appear that had our government decided to create an energy crisis, they couldn't have done a more thorough job," said Berg, chairman and chief executive officer of Getty Oil Co.

The man who succeeded the late J. Paul Getty as the head of the Los Angeles firm told a group of Texas oilmen the industry has had to work under very restrictive price controls and many unreasonable environmental restrictions.

He said there also have been additional restrictions on offshore sales, tremendous increases in paperwork, and endless delays in obtaining permits.

Berg first singled out the Department of Energy.

"The continual harassment by them, the continual problem of trying to interpret their ambiguous rules they are forever revising and making retroactive," he said.

"It has kept all of us wondering what happens next."

But, he said, it appears a bit of a change might be developing.

"We do now have some decontrol of crude oil prices, not entirely, but possibly there is a chink in the armor," Berg said.

"Also, we have a change in the top echelon of the department. Hopefully, maybe, these new leaders will not have the strong anti-industry and adversary position their predecessors have had in the past."

But he earmarked the Environmental Protection Agency as probably the worst enemy of the industry.

"The most aggravating aspect of this whole matter is that, in large part, the activities of the EPA in our industry are encroachments in areas which our state agencies have occupied, and very effectively, for many years," Berg said.

He referred to California's Kern River Field, where Getty was forced to shut down 62 steam generators when a very heavy fog last December continued over a 24 hour period and prevented emissions from the generators from dispersing.

"The shutdown was caused by a circumstance beyond our control, the only time, after many years of operation, that this occurred and then only for a few hours," he said.

Berg said ambient air standards set by EPA permits were exceeded and it was suggested to EPA shutting down a few of the generators would correct the matter.

"This was denied, so all of the generators were shutdown and are still down until scrubbers are installed," Berg said.

"The ongoing loss of production is many thousands of barrels per day in a period of shortage. To me, this makes absolutely no sense."

"It seems to me we are being governed far too much, not by laws in this day, but by regulations drawn up by individuals in the various bureaus who possibly are not sure what Congress intended when they passed the law or do not have sufficient knowledge of the subject to write sensible, reasonable regulations the average person can understand."

Berg said the nation is paying far too much for the results that are coming from the EPA.

"When a system allows a shutdown or delay of important projects simply at the whim of any obstructionist who can file a complaint, then I think our nation is in dire trouble," he said.

The nation, he added, is in a mess as far as energy is concerned.

But he said there is hope government agencies will shift from their adversary position and become more amenable to industry offers of cooperation.

"A constructive, cooperative approach to this national, and even worldwide problem, is the only soluti" Berg said.

Iraq joins in price hike

NEW YORK (AP) — Iraq has joined members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries who have decided they can't wait for the cartel's next meeting to raise oil prices.

Iraq, OPEC's second largest member, raised its oil prices Saturday about 10 percent, according to oil industry sources. Iran, Kuwait, Venezuela and Libya also have increased the prices of some or all of their oil in the past two weeks.

Iraq sends most of its oil to Europe and the Far East; very little comes to the United States. But if Iraq's move is combined with the price increases by the other OPEC nations, Americans can expect to be paying another penny or two a gallon for gasoline and heating oil.

Iraq raised the price of its best-quality oil only 18 cents, to $22.18 a 42-gallon barrel, sources said, but increased the prices of the lesser-quality crudes that dominate its production by $2, to between $20.65 and $21.96 a barrel, depending on the quality.

Unlike Libya, Iraq did not puncture OPEC's $23.50-a-barrzl price ceiling. Libya raised its price 12 percent to about $26 a barrel, the first OPEC nation to break the ceiling.

Analysts expect many of the other OPEC nations to follow with individual increases of their own in coming days. If enough of the 13 members impose their own increases, the experts say, OPEC will probably decide to apply the increases to the whole cartel at its December meeting. Similar rounds of price increases by OPEC's 13 members preceded the cartel's two official increases this year.

Many analysts believe Algeria and Nigeria will be the next OPEC nations to announce increases in price, because of Libya's action. The three African countries tend to move in tandem on pricing matters. But there were hints from oil industry sources late Thursday that Nigeria and Algeria had decided not to raise their prices.

"They only tell us when they do raise them," said an oil buyer at one major company. "So far, we haven't heard anything."

In Washington, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, oil minister of OPEC's largest member, Saudi Arabia, said, "there is an extremely strong pressure on the Saudis to raise prices." Saudi oil is OPEC's cheapest at $18 a barrel.

Yamani said earlier this week that OPEC seemed to be "losing control of everything," implying the cartel might not be able to control individual members who wanted to increase prices on their own. But he said Thursday that the group may be able to hold down the size of its next general increase. "I think the increase, if any, won't be what we're afraid of," he said.

SEPM plans mountian trip

The Permian Basin Section of the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists will hold its annual field trip to the Finlay Mountians in West Texas April 17-19.

Wendell Stewart, consulting geologist, will lead the trip.

The discussion will focus on the regional geology of the SW Diablo Platform, the Mexican geosyncline and its petroleum prospects, regional tectonics, depositional environments of the Leonard series and regional aspects of the lower Cretaceous.

Stewart also will discuss the source and significance of the late Paleozoic and Mesozoic conglomerates.

Participants are asked to make their own reservations. The night of April 17 will be spent at the Holiday Inn in Van Horn, and April 18, the trippers will stay at the Rodeway Inn in El Paso.

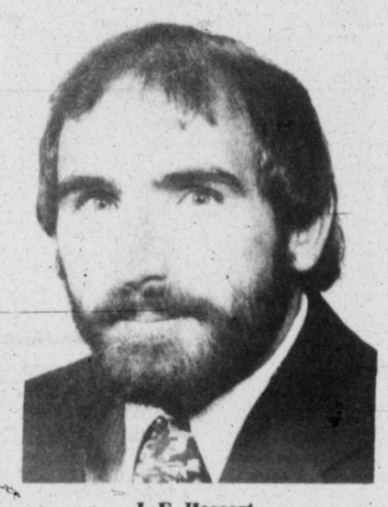
Persons who plan to make the trip should contact David Cromwell, 682-1607 in Midland.

Eucalyptus oil sought

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese researchers are turning to the eucalyptus tree, as well as to other plants, in the hope of finding a synthetic fuel to decrease this country's 99 percent dependence on imported oil.

A professor at Mie university in Central Japan said he had succeeded in refining oil from the leaves of the eucalyptus tree into a fuel similar to gasoline. Professor Sakurzo Takeda said he used the liquid to drive a small tilling machine at the university's agricultural department.

"The adjustments that had to be made to the motor were minor," Dr. Takeda told The Associated Press in an interview, "and the fuel can be made by anyone with a small distiller."



J. E. Hessert

Water flood talk slated

James E. Hessert, technical services director of Custom Oil Recovery Technology, will address the Permian Basin Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME Tuesday in Midland.

The event will get under way at 6:30 p.m. in Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Hessert will speak on "Gelled Polymer Technology for Improved Sweep Efficiency and Water-Oil Ratio Control."

Custom Oil Recovery Technology is a joint venture company of Phillips Petroleum Co. and Hercules Inc.

He attended Tulsa University where he studied chemical engineering. He joined the production research branch of Phillips R&D in 1968 where he was employed until joining CORT.

During his employment with Phillips, he worked on improving waterflood sweep efficiency with water soluble polymers and the development of Phillips' miscellar flood process.

Record attendance expected at celebration

A record attendance is anticipated at the 11th biennial reunion of the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers scheduled here Saturday, according to Les Weatherall, membership-hospitality chairman. Jno. P. Butler is the general chairman.

Gulf project reports gas

HOUSTON — A natural gas discovery in the Gulf of Mexico about 80 miles southeast of Galveston was announced by Tenneco Oil Exploration and Production.

The exploratory well was the first to be drilled on High Island Block A-416, which was acquired by Tenneco in the federal sale of offshore leases last December for a bonus bid of $21.8 million.

Gas was indicated by log analysis to be present in sufficient quantity to justify ordering a platform for developmental drilling. The exploratory well was started Aug. 29, and total depth of 8,010 feet was reached Sept. 27.

North Sea drilling surge seen

TULSA, Okla—After 18 months of declining exploration, the rough and stormy waters around the northwest coast of Europe are starting to see a much needed surge in activity.

Wildcatting in the Norwegian sector of the North Sea reached record levels this summer, reports Oil & Gas Journal's Oct. 15 issue.

By next year, the Journal reports, experienced explorers expect to see a revival of flagging exploration drilling in U.K. waters, although it is unlikely to exceed the peaks of the early 1970s.

A number of factors have contributed to the end of the North Sea drilling depression:

—The shortage of crude after the Iranian cutoff reemphasized the importance of oil sources outside the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

—Price rises that followed the crude oil shortages of the spring and early summer have turned marginal fields into commercial prospects and made it worthwhile to search for smaller oil accumulations.

—The Norwegians have decided they need to know more about the size of their total crude reserves and have offered more exploration licenses south of the 62nd parallel.

—For similar reasons, some of the highly prospective Norwegian acreage north of the 62nd parallel has been designated for exploration and will be drilled for the first time next year.

—In Britain the Conservative government has restored industry confidence by removing British National Oil Corp.'s exploration privileges.

—A seventh round of licensing is expected soon in U.K. waters, which companies hope will release substantial new blocks for drilling.

The people at Mid-West Door & Window, 904 W. Front St., are thoroughly capable and eager to fit your storm windows and doors to protect your home against the coming winter. Mid-West storm doors, windows keep cold out

It is common knowledge to all Americans that energy is scarce, and getting even more so with every day that goes by. Scarcity, we also know, causes the price to go up. Supply and demand laws make it so, and it is not likely to change for the better any time soon, so the consumer is well advised to look at alternatives, the main one being conservation.

Conservation in home heating can be effected by a number of means. Turning down the thermostat is effective, but is only a half-measure unless accompanied with lessening the amount of cold air entering the house. This brings us to storm doors and windows.

Well-fitted storm doors and windows, covering the regular doors and windows, form a dead-air space between them. Non-circulating air does not conduct heat well, so the heat in the house stays where it will do what it was meant to do — heat the house, and not all of West Texas! The chill of winter, on the other hand, stays where IT belongs, outside!

Mid-West Door & Window, 904 W. Front St. here in Midland, has experienced personnel and will make doors and windows, each measured and fitted individually, which will do their job right. They will give free estimates, and you may deal with them with confidence. Call 682-4632 today, and talk to Mike Smith about your requirements.

Government files civil action suits against 85 sweatshops

NEW YORK (AP) — The government has filed civil actions against 85 shops in New York City's Chinatown, charging them with employing children as young as 10, underpaying workers and often making them work in firetrap sweatshops infested with rats and cockroaches.

"Working conditions were reminiscent of a time we thought was long gone," federal official Frank Mercurio said of the eight-month U.S. Labor Department investigation that led to the charges.

Some children were working for up to 12 hours a day without overtime pay, and that their pay was as low as $50 a week, far below the minimum wage of $2.90 an hour, said Mercurio, regional administrator of the Labor Department's Employment Standards Administration.

He said investigators are checking reports of similar abuses in shops in the South Bronx, on Long Island and in Northern New Jersey.

The investigators visited 500 garment shops employing 5,000 persons in a 35-block area of Chinatown and said they found violations in 35 percent of them.

Violations included failure to keep records of hours worked, failure to keep proper production records, no records of the addresses, ages and Social Security numbers of employes, undated time cards and punching of time cards by employers.

Mercurio said the court actions, which seek injunctions against the violations, are "a very effective means" of bringing improvements.

"If these firms are compelled to keep proper records," he said, "they will also be compelled to pay the applicable federal minimum wage and proper overtime" and end other illegal practices, such as exploiting child labor.

The crackdown also will keep the employers from gaining an unfair competitive advantage over other garment firms which comply with federal standards, Mercurio said.

He said the investigation was made difficult by the fact that most of the workers were Chinese aliens who do not speak English.

Putting silver eggs in one basket seems to pay off

DALLAS (AP) — Sunshine Mining Co. has put all its eggs into a silver basket, and the gamble seems to be paying off.

A year ago the Dallas-based company was a small conglomerate controlling a fence company, some manufacturing plants and a silver mine in Kellogg, Idaho.

Today, Sunshine owns nothing but silver mining and processing facilities, with plans to acquire more.

"We are going to eliminate everything between what happens to the price of silver and the price of our stock," said President G. Michael Boswell. "We want Sunshine (stock) to clearly reflect the price movements of the products we mine and sell."

The strategy may be working. On the third day of last week's precipitous stock market plunge, Sunshine Stock went up.

The increase was too small to offset losses of the previous two days, but Boswell took it as an indication Sunshine investors were less interested in market trends than silver prices.

Sunshine has used part of the $31 million it gained from selling its other assets to buy a London-based silver trading company, for easier entry into the international silver market.

Boswell said he plans to introduce "American" methods to the market.

"The silver trade is still using 150-year-old methods," he said. "It has not been systematically attacked with modern business techniques," Boswell said.

Boswell is trying to make it cheaper and easier to buy Sunshine stock than to purchase silver coins or bullion.

Boswell said Sunshine has tentative plans to mint and sell its own silver coin, as South Africa has done with its gold Krugerrand, and perhaps pay stockholders in silver instead of dollars.

The company changes came in the wake of the "Hunt International trauma," Boswell's term for a tender offer by Hunt International, later withdrawn, and Sunshine's subsequent repurchase of Hunt's 1.6 million shares of Sunshine stock.

Sunshine also has made plans for an Idaho refinery using its own electrolysis technique to turn the silver it mines into bullion.

Buzzards in winter means their popularity will splinter

MIAMI (AP) — In Hinckley, Ohio, the return of the buzzard in March is cause for fanfare — it's the town's claim to fame.

But when red-headed, coal-black turkey vultures arrive here for the winter, no one celebrates.

"To my knowledge, no one ever gave a whoop about them," said Sam Griffith, former building superintendent for the Dade County Courthouse. The courthouse's silver dome has served as winter home for dozens of buzzards since its completion in 1926.

The first six arrived this week. They are called turkey vultures, because their wrinkled red heads resemble those of turkeys.

"They're an awful rotten-looking piece of equipment when you view them up close," Griffith said.

Griffith, who maintains the South Dade Government Center, doesn't have to worry about the buzzards any more.

His successor, Red Jones, does.

"They roost around the roof" and shed feathers that clog rain drains, which county workers must check and clean weekly, he said.

He said thermal updrafts from the courthouse apparently attract the buzzards, which spend the night at a nearby sewage treatment plant.

In Hinckley, where high stone ridges and cliffs provide them with ideal roosts, the buzzards are honored on "Buzzard Day" the third Sunday of March. The fowl festival attracted 30,000 buzzard fans last year.

Bethlehem Steel Corp. fined $21,000 for safety violations

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Bethlehem Steel Corp. has been fined $21,000 for alleged safety violations found on a single crane at the Sparrows Point shipyard — the first of about 200 cranes to be inspected after an accident killed two workers, federal officials say.

Bart Chadwick, who directs the Baltimore office of the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said the fines are the highest penalty his office "has ever proposed (for safety violations) for a single crane."

He said he found 21 violations of safety standards on a big tower crane that Bethlehem has set up to temporarily replace three cranes wrecked or disabled in the August accident.

Chadwick added that he did not know if the alleged violations found on the first crane "are indicative" of what inspectors will find as they scrutinize 140 other cranes at the shipyard and 70 more cranes on the inspection list at Bethlehem's Key Highway ship repair yard.

Bethlehem received the citation, but on the same day notified OSHA it would contest all of the charges, according to a company spokesman who would not comment further.

The fatal accident occurred when one of a quartet of cranes hoisting an extremely heavy deckhouse was pulled off balance and toppled over, smashing parts of two other cranes.

The two deaths are the latest in a series of on-the-job fatalities that have plagued Bethlehem's giant shipbuilding and steelmaking complex at Sparrows Point.

Since early 1978, 12 workers have died from accidents — three at the shipyard and nine at the steel mills.

Domestic drilling for petroleum lagging behind pace reported at end of 1978's first nine months

DENVER, Colo. — Domestic drilling for oil and gas through the first nine months of 1979 is behind the comparable period of 1978, according to Petroleum Information Corporation.

A total of 33,105 U.S. well completions were repoted through September of this year. This compares with 34,981 during the same period last year. The difference — 1,876 completions — is a 5.4 percent decrease, Petroleum Information noted.

Although the wells completed are behind the pace of last year — the best drilling year in the U.S. since 1956 — the are still above 1977 levels. By comparison, the 1977 third quarter total was 31,248 completed wells — 1,857 wells, or about five percent, behind this year's count.

The third quarter of 1979 totals included 12,595 oil wells, 9,530 gas wells and 10,980 dry holes.

THROUGH September, overall success ratios and natural gas well completions have shown an improving trend. Of the wells drilled during the first nine months, 66.8 percent were successful, compared to 66.4 percent at the same time in 1978.

The drilling of exploratory wells in search of new fields showed a 19.3 percent success rate, up from 17.6 percent. "Other exploratory" wells were 50.6 percent successful, compared with 47.3 percent a year ago. Only the rate of success for development wells declined, slipping to 77.9 percent from 78.2 percent in the third quarter of 1978.

The nine-month totals reflect a continuing emphasis on drilling of gas prospects, with a 5.7 percent increase in new gas wells from the comparable 1978 figure. Oil well completions dropped 11.4 percent. The third-quarter total for dry holes was 764 or 15.3 percent lower than last year's figures.

New gas field discoveries climbed to 517, compared with 457 at the same time last year. New oil field discoveries dropped from 439 to 401, or 8.4 percent, for the comparable time period.

DRILLING decline was most apparent in California, where 850 wells were drilled during the first nine months of the year. Suspension of San Joaquin Basin development, because of an air quality standards conflict, has been cited as the main reason for the California decrease.

Texas, the nation's major drilling state, continued behind the 1978 pace, down 274 wells from last September. However, the state's third quarter pace was improved, helping to partly overcome a very poor first quarter this year caused by bad weather conditions.

Other major drilling states showing decreases are: Kansas, 3,040 (down 14); New Mexico, 1,088 (down 49); Ohio, 1,447 (down 105); Pennsylvania, 880 (down 254); West Vriginia, 855 (down 108) and Wyoming, 887 (down 16).

Louisian and Oklahoma reported slight increases in drilling activity, up 231 and 108 wells respectively. Among other states showing increases are: Alaska, 78 (up 26); Alabana, 148 (up 14); North Dakota, 243 (up 42) and Montana, 456 (up 43).

An increase in depth of drilling — another trend noted by Petroleum Information in recent years — continues thus far in 1979, the figures showed.

TOTAL FOOTAGE drilled approached 164 million in September, a decrease of 1.8 percent from the 167 million feet drilled during the first three quarters last year. But the average well depth increased to 4,953 feet — 181 feet deeper than the 1978 figure.

On an average, new field wildcat, or exploratory, wells have reached 6,211 feet this year, 247 feet deeper than last year's three-quarter average. Other exploratory wells averaged 5,644 feet through this September, 292 feet deeper than last year. Development wells, with an average total depth of 4,626 feet through September, are running 153 feet deeper than similar wells in 1978.

A rotary rig count by the Hughes Tool Company showed rigs actively drilling have increased steadily in number through the third quarter, but remained below last year's level. The company's October 1 count topped last year's figure, however, indicating a possible upswing in drilling for the final quarter.

Deeper drilling and the present deficit in completion numbers make it doubtful that drilling will exceed 1978 totals, Petroleum Information said. To equal last year's mark, fourth quarter drilling this year must increase 13.6 percent above the 1978 final quarter pace.

Petroleum Information Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of A.C. Nielson Company, Northbrook, Ill., offers reporting services, data and data analysis, maps and technical exploration and engineering services to the petroleum and related industries.

Cartel may not up price

WASHINGTON (AP)—Saudi Arabia's oil minister says there may be no increase in the cartel price of oil next month if production in Iran holds to present levels.

But if Iranian supplies fall off, the United States should ration gasoline, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani said last week at a news conference.

He estimated current Iranian production at more than 3 million barrels a day, about half the level under the deposed shah but well above some Western estimates.

Yamani dealt mostly with oil prices at the news conference, subtly linking them to the Arab-Israeli dispute. "If we have peace in the area, you'd be amazed how many healthy and beautiful results you can get," he said.

Last month, Prince Saud al-Faisal, the Saudi foreign minister, called on the Carter administration to support a Palestinian state carved out of territory now held by Israel.

Yamani called for a ban on all U.S. arms sales to Israel, saying "it is now full of weapons that they do not know what to do with." Terming Israel's purchase of U.S. arms "a show of power," he said, "It is time to stop completely giving any arms to the Israelis."

Refinery figures reported

AUSTIN — Fifty-eight refineries in Texas processed 150,221,573 barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends during July 1979, according to their reports to the Railroad Commission.

This volume compares with 144,781,949 barrels in the previous July, the Commission's Administrative Services Division reported in its monthly recapitulation of Texas refinery operations. Inputs of crude oil and blends totaled 142,031,526 barrles in June 1979.

Texas refineries ran 126,856,671 barrels of crude oil in July compared to 127,045,109 barrels in July 1978 and 121,045,433 barrels in June 1979.

Products manufactured in July 1979 totaled 148,768,994 barrels, up from 145,010,305 barrels in the same month the previous year, and up from the 142,586,877 barrels in June 1979.

July 1979 manufacture of motor gasoline totaled 58,853,158 barrels, compared to 60,333,081 barrels in the year-earlier month and 57,827,310 barrels in June of 1979.

Texas refineries manufactured 12,355,633 barrels of home heating oil in July 1979—an increase of 2,311,363 barrels from the year-earlier volume. June 1979 output was 9,895,354 barrels.

Europe tour set

DALLAS (AP) — In its new role as monetary matchmaker, the American Stock Exchange has lined up a trip to Europe so Texas energy companies can meet European financiers.

Representatives from six Texas companies will meet the financial communities of London, Edinburgh and Zurich in a mid-November trip.

The matchmaking is a result of AMEX's aggressive new program of extra services to keep member companies happy.

"We're lending our good offices to bring people together," said AMEX spokesman John Sheehan.

"We've been acting like a catalyst ... helping the companies to help themselves," he said.

"There is an opportunity for these companies to seek business," Sheehan said. The Texans also could help themselves to some new sources of capital during the meetings with financial community leaders.

The Texas companies are Earth Resources Co., Delhi International Oil and Dorchester Gas Corp., all of Dallas; and Mitchell Energy and Development Corp., Weatherford International, Inc., and Crutcher Resources Corp., all of Houston. They represent a wide range of energy activity, from oil and gas exploration to tool production.

Sheehan said the American companies were chosen primarily by the Europeans.

Plant run under way

HOUSTON — Production of a high-octane gasoline blending component that helps increase gasoline supply as started at the Petro-Tex Chemical Corporation plant on the Houston Ship Channel, Tenneco Inc. announced.

Petro-Tex, a subsidiary of Tenneco, is capable of producing 100,000 metric tons per year of methyl-t-butyl ether (MTBE), but construction has already begun to expand capacity to 280,000 metric tons. When the expansion is completed by January, the plant will be the largest operating MTBE production facility in the world.

Because MTBE is mixed with unleaded gasoline, it has the effect of stretching gasoline supply.

A Gibson's cashier demonstrates for a customer the use of the new Fast-Scan method of checking out that will be initiated in Odessa Monday at Gibson's West County Road store.

Gibson's initiates computer checkout

ODESSA — Starting Monday, customers of the Gibson's Discount Center at 2419 West County Road in Odessa will be the first store in the Permian Basin to participate in computer assisted checkout.

Gibson's new Fast-Scan checkout uses electronic scanners to identify items being purchased.

The firm plans to install the system in Midland and in stores in other cities at a later date.

Cashiers will pass packages over a small panel in the checkout stand, exposing a bar symbol known as the universal product code printed on each item.

The scanner will read the UPC symbol and translate its numbers into an item description and size. The in-store computer will instantaneously supply the correct price, which will be displayed at the register as it is printed on the sales receipt, along with a description of the item.

The system, developed by NCR Corp., is the first of its kind in area supermarkets. All checkout lanes in the store have been equipped with Fast-Scan units.

Gibson's senior vice president, David Hoelscher, noted that Fast-Scan is more accurate than manual checkout, much faster, and provides the customer with an itemized sales receipt. "Although price information is stored in the in-store computer for each UPC—marked item, we will continue to mark prices on items for our customers' convenience," Hoelscher said.

Some items, such as soft goods and some other non-food items, do not have the UPC symbol, and will be manually checked.

Fast-Scan's detailed sales receipt provides an accurate record of a customer's purchases. All UPC-marked items are described by item name and price. The receipt will list credits for bottle deposits, coupons or food stamps. It will show the amount of sales tax, total purchases, the amount given the checker, and the amount of change. It also will list the date and time of purchase.

The system also provides the store with more information which helps with restocking inventory, scheduling personnel when needed, and keeping costs at a minimum.

The Midland-Odessa Gibson's Discount Center recently opened its fourth-store in El Paso. It is the largest Gibson's franchized store in the U.S. The Midland-Odessa operation employs 1,350 persons, including the El Paso personnel and personnel in other cities.

College schedules seminar

Midland College has announced plans for a one-day real estate seminar, designed to meet the educational requirements recently required by federal law.

Offered under the supervision of the Community Services Department, the course will be taught from 7 to 10 p.m. Nov. 14 in the lecture hall of the Allison Fine Arts Building. Jim Arnold will be the instructor. Fee for the course if $5.

"Since this is a required course, we anticipate as many as 200 persons for the seminar," noted James Bramlett, director of community services at Midland College, "We urge early registration in order that we can accommodate everyone."

Persons wishing to pre-register may do so in Room 156, Administration Building, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays or at 6:30 to 6:45 p.m. the day of the class.

The three-hour course meets the educational requirements under Senate Bill 171, Section 4, Subsection K, which requires all applicants seeking their Real Estate Salesmanship license to complete course work on federal, state, and local laws governing housing discrimination, housing credit discrimination, and community re-investment.

Home loans drawing attention of agencies

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — With interest rates soaring, and home mortgage money vanishing, additional attention is being paid to financial matters in general, and home loans in particular, around State agencies.

Even the Board of Insurance has become involved, with a hearing on a mortgage pool policy filing by PMI Mortgage Insurance Co., San Francisco, which it has taken "under consideration."

Supporters argue the policy is a concept which is in the public interest, and which can have beneficial results for the Texas economy.

Rep. David Cain, Dallas, sponsor of legislation passed this year authorizing cities and other entities to issue tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds, was among those on hand to endorse the proposal.

SBI staff members indicated they're not sure that such a group policy can be authorized under existing State Laws, which they feel indicate a policy is required for each mortgage insured.

PMI is taking the position that current law authorizes more than one type of mortgage policy, and that what's being proposed is just a different type of mortgage gurauranty insurance.

Supporters contend the approach would increase the availability of mortgage loan funds and make mortgage revenue bonds more attractive, and report similar operations are in existence in other states.

In a related matter, the Texas Savings & Loan League announced a seminar to explain to reporters about how interest rates, yields, points, etc. are calculated, and how the savings and loan system works. That session will be held in Austin Monday.

SBI is looking at several other insurance innovations, including an "indeterminate premium" charge for life insurance policies.

Under such policies, an initial premium is guaranteed for a certain period, after which the premium is increased or decreased, with the aim being to give the policyholder the benefit of changes in interest rates, and to assure what the insurer isn't stuck with an inadequate premium rate.

During an "informational" hearing on the policies, SBI staff attorney Jim Norman noted that "interest rates are more important than mortality tables" in setting rates for coverage.

Theoretcially, he added, the policy could be good for both the consumer and the company.

While the SBI doesn't set rates on life insurance policies, it is charged with examining life policies to determine that they are in compliance with various statutory requirements, including fairness to policyholders.

Course by Federal Reserve to bring about tough sailing

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The new course the Federal Reserve has set for its monetary policy will take the economy through some tough sailing in the months ahead, most Wall Street analysts agree.

But some still insist that the investment outlook isn't as bleak as it might have appeared in the two weeks since the Fed's new plans were announced.

"We firmly believe that the current decline is purely emotional," said Charles Kirkpatrick, a Portsmouth, N.H. investment advisor.

As measured by the pace of activity, emotions subsided a bit in the market this past week after prices took a near-record plunge the week before.

But the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 58.62 in the Oct. 8-12 period for the second largest weekly decline on record, fell another 24.31 to 814.68.

The NYSE's composite index dropped 1.57 to 57.62, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was off 7.33 at 205.48.

Though the market had calmed down somewhat, the mood was still very unsettled as analysts sought to sort out the likely impact on the economy of the Federal Reserve's new efforts to curb the growth of money and credit.

"The recent moves by the Federal Reserve will in great probability cause a genuine recession," said S. Jay Levy, a Chappaqua, N.Y.-based economist.

"Some very rough economic weather is likely in the course of the year ahead," observed Albert H. Cox Jr., president of Merrill Lynch Economics Inc.

It might seem illogical, then, that any stock-market analyst could be optimistic as Kirkpatrick, who contends that "the recent decline in the stock market provides the investor with one of the greatest opportunities to buy stock since the lows of 1974."

For one thing, Kirkpatrick argued, market breaks prompted by dramatic news developments like the Fed's announcement traditionally have been short-lived, and have been followed by strong recoveries.

As examples of this, he cited the market's reactions to President Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955, the Russians' Sputnik launching in 1957 and the assassination of President Kennedy in 1963.

In addition he noted that the news on the economy currently is almost uniformly dreadful and the mood of investors seems to be equally negative. These conditions, he contended, usually prevail at market bottoms — which are of course the ideal time to buy — rather than at tops.

Similarly, Richard B. Hoey at the brokerage firm of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields, maintained, "The extraordinary decline in bond prices has created an exceptional buying opportunity for long-term bond investors.

"Since the recent actions of the Federal Reserve Board decrease the probability of a runaway inflation and increase the odds of a serious recession in 1980, we believe that the probability has increased that our forecast of an 8 percent yield on long-term U.S. Treasury bonds by early 1981 will prove correct."

New flight scheduled

Braniff's flight No. 228 will be changed to flight No. 20, and flight No. 216 will change to flight No. 110 with no time changes on either flight.

Ted Kenndey's office greeter remembers '68

By LEE BYRD

WASHINGTON (AP) — "People just don't under stand," says Melody J. Miller, tears clouding her usually cheerful face. "Ted Kennedy isn't reaching for the brass ring. They're throwing it at him beating him over the head with it ..."

For years, Ms. Miller has worked the point in the Capitol's busiest office — fielding the phone calls greeting visitors and fighting, in ugly moments, to keep her composure as Sen. Kennedy's "first reflection" on the public.

She is a soft blonde, 34 years old, with a sharp eye for style and a steel sense of loyalty for nearly all things Kennedy, dating to her days as a teen-age assistant to the first lady, Jacqueline, and later as a press aide to Robert.

"I was the last person out of Bobby's office," when it was closed after his funeral, she says. "I turned out the lights."

NOW, WITH NO SMALL fright, she is feeling "1968 all over again. I understand the sacrifices Ted Kennedy has to make to do this. I don't think the public does.

"I'm against it. I've been against it, all the way down the line. But if this is his decision, I'll roll up my sleeves and work seven days a week."

Although she is Kennedy's chief expert on environmental legislation and is privately an experienced filmmaker on the side, her main job and only title is receptionist.

Her salary is about $15,000, meager by Washington standards, but she is widely regarded as the best in the business, as evidenced by the fact that the Senate has asked her to give classes in the art.

"In a sense, I'm the chief dispatcher at Grand Central Station," she says, noting that she and her assistant, Mary Ann Mikulich, answer nearly 1,000 phone calls per day. At least 300 of those are from presidential campaign boosters to whom they must gently explain that the senator's office can legally offer neither advice nor coordination.

THE ALWAYS-FRENETIC scene in their tiny outer office can get downright staggering. Often all 35 lines flash on the switchboard at once while a dozen people crowd around the two women, pleading their cases either directly to them or begging admittance to Kennedy's inner sanctum.

When the Secret Service first arrived last month for the senator's protection, one agent stood wide-eyed for an hour and finally blurted: "My God! Is it always like this?"

"You have to be the second-best politician, the second-best diplomat in the office," said Ms. Miller. "You have to defend and debate and explain all the positions the senator has taken. And sometimes ... sometimes you have to be a psychiatrist."

Kennedy's office attracts an alarming, albeit classified, number of visitors and callers from the ranks of the dangerous and mentally disturbed. "Most of them just want to be listened to," she says.

But not all, and Melody Miller has had not only to turn the other cheek, but sometimes, quite literally, to take it on the chin.

"SURE, I'VE BEEN SLUGGED," she says. "One man, a veteran, came in and I knew right away he was volatile. But I talked to him for about 15 minutes and he seemed to calm down. He said, 'You're good, but I'm going to prove you haven't got any guts.' And he gave me a right cross to the jaw. I went out like a light."

For years, she has had a panic button at her desk, now a standard device in every Senate office, which can bring the Capitol Police swarming in within seconds. It has been used many times.

"Once, I didn't have time," she recalls. "This woman came barging in and headed straight for the senator's office. I tackled her at the door and we both went rolling in on the floor."

Then there are the nut calls, some bizarre, some darkly threatening. One man gurgles "JFK" and hangs up. Another claims he is a ghost with a message for Kennedy from one of his dead brothers. And then there are the assassination threats.

But if Kennedy is the most threatened member of Congress, he just as surely is the most revered. No one else even approaches the load of casework from non-constituents; his office, it is said, is the "Lourdes of Capitol Hill."

A WOMAN FROM CLEVELAND calls to complain about the brown water in her faucet, only to agree that perhaps she should try a plumber. A housewife in McLean, Va., where Kennedy lives, wanted to know what she could do about a bad gardener.

Ms. Miller remains remarkable cheerful and even-tempered through it all, even the endless inquiries about the presidential campaign — for which the answer, for now, is the same litany. "I'm sorry," she says, "but we just cannot be involved in any campaign organization. Perhaps you could inquire locally ..."

But for nine calls like that, she says, "you get one from someone you know and love dearly ... or maybe a Nobel Prize-winner will walk into the office and you'll have a conversation that makes your week."

She confesses, though, to "moments when you just have to walk away, to go read your mail for a few minutes or slip downstairs to the cafeteria and have a cup of coffee."

Although she, like most Kennedy staffers, works long hours, "We all try to keep some distance fom the office in our private lives, just so we are not consumed by the Kennedy association. And that way you have greater judgment, and you are of greater service."

HER PRIVATE INTERESTS focus principally on films. She has a partnership in a small film company and has been a script consultant for several Hollywood projects, including "Washington: Behind Closed Doors."

But she entertains no thoughts of leaving the Kennedy office, even as her memories grow more haunting the closer the brass ring is thrust. "Ted Kennedy doesn't disillusion upon close inspection," she insists. "Our loyalty is not a one-way street. We get it all back.

"No, I don't want him to run. But I still believe in happy endings, that some day the promises of his brothers will be made whole. And I just have to cling to that with every ounce of my strength."

Old salt mine to close

LUNEBURG, Germany (AP) — Germany's oldest industry, the salt mine of Luneburg, will close in 1981, a mine spokesman said recently.

The mine opened 1,000 years ago. It used to be a profitable industry, but its appetite for oil to heat its boiling vats has made it uneconomical.

Let's vote the bonds!

A great deal has been written and much more even has been said, pro and con, about the $10.2 million school bond issue which will be before the voters of the Midland Independent School District on Tuesday. Few conversations on current events within recent weeks have escaped mention of the upcoming bond election.

School board members and administrative staff personnel have worked tirelessly in making information and material available to the public and in appearing before meetings of various kinds to explain the issues involved. They have been frank and above board in this respect.

The Reporter-Telegram has sent editors and reporters on personal inspection missions to buildings and other facilities mentioned in the bond issue proposals, as well as to study the overall proposition. This has resulted in a series of factual articles reviewing all of the items included in the bond issue. It is hoped that the series has been helpful in answering some of the questions posed by citizens and in clearing the air regarding the election.

At the same time, much misinformation on various of the election issues has been heard. Rumors have been rampant and unfounded statements, some tending toward emotionalism, have been made. Many of these have been answered in recent days and weeks.

And now the time is at hand for qualified voters of the school district to go to the polls to cast their ballots for or against the issuing of the bonds. Others have had their say and now it is up to the voters to have theirs. And their say is what counts. Hopefully, they will weigh the issues carefully and thoughtfully, and then vote their convictions. It is hoped that they will turn out in large and representative numbers.

We would point out at this time that it is the children for whom we are concerned in this election. All residents undoubtedly are interested in maintaining and improving the quality of education in Midland's public school system.

Following a lengthy discussion session between this newspaper's editorial board and school board members and the superintendent, at which time each bond issue item was covered thoroughly, and after further study and consideration, The Reporter-Telegram herewith endorses the school bond issue and recommends it for voter approval.

We are convinced that the overall bond issue urgently is needed in the best interests of the school system and students throughout the district.

The issue also has the endorsement of directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, the Downtown Lions Club, former members of the school board, and perhaps others.

This newspaper hasn't always agreed with the school board and the manner in which it approached certain objectives but in this instance we sincerely believe that its sole objective in submitting the bond issue is "to bring our schools up to adequate."

A Midland woman, a product of the Midland school system and a sizeable taxpayer in the community, hit the nail on the head Thursday in commenting to the editor that, "It's just good sense to vote for the bonds. We can be proud of our schools and proud of ourselves for fulfilling our responsibilities to the children of Midland."

Much has been said, pro and con, about submitting the bond issues in a single "package." Well, the board's explanation for this appears to us to be sound and reasonable. Board members are of the opinion that the issues, as in the past, should be submitted in one package since the various issues are designed to benefit the entire city rather than any one section. And if this were not the case, certain sections of the city would stand the chance of being deprived of facilities and improvements. Midland boards of the past have been of like philosophy.

Board members also assure residents of the district that they are not going to "put any homeowners out in the cold" in necessary land acquisitions at Midland High School. Rather, it is said school authorities are cooperating in every possible way in acquiring property and in relocating residents of the particulr area.

Remember, Tuesday is election day. Please take the time to voice your convictions at the polls.

ART BUCHWALD

Good luggage handling key to successful campaigning

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It's hard to believe that another presidential campaign is underway. It seems like only yesterday the luggage handlers for the candidates were running down the motel halls shouting, "Bags will be picked up at 4:30 in the morning for a 7 o'clock departure from the airport."

Good luggage handling is the key to any successful political campaign. If a newspaperman gets his luggage when he arrives at his room, he is more apt to write a favorable article on the candidate. If for some reason the bags are lost he will file take after take on how disorganized the staff is and how poorly the candidate is doing on the road.

Veterans of previous political campaigns take luggage handlers very seriously. These young, pink-cheeked, eager men and women checking off bags in the lobby of a hotel could, if their candidate wins, wind up sitting behind large desks in the White House, chewing out Cabinet officers, generals, State Department brass and members of the fourth estate.

It doesn't matter whether it's a Republican or Democratic administration, the winning candidate always makes sure his luggage handlers are not forgotten.

Someone may ask, "What qualifies a man or woman who can handle baggage to be appointed to one of the highest positions in the land?"

The answer is a candidate who can trust a member of his staff to see that the bags of his entourage are moved from town to town safely and efficiently is certain that person has the stuff to make up a balanced budget for the country.

In every presidential campaign there is one outstanding luggage handler, and it pays for the reporter to cultivate him because he knows that if the candidate succeeds this staffer will be the key adviser to the President.

During the last campaign I became fast friends with a 23-year-old man who started out as a Carter luggage tagger in Florida. This meant he tagged all the bags and loaded and unloaded them on the trucks going to and from airports. While other reporters were buying drinks and dinners for Carter's speechwriters and managers I bought meals for the luggage tagger. It was a good investment because he worked his way up from tagging bags to actually assisting them to the right rooms. Sure enough, when Carter became President my friend was assigned a desk 20 feet from the Oval Office and there isn't a domestic or foreign decision made in the United States which doesn't go through him.

Now 26 years old, the former baggage master has a staff of 40 people working for him. Because I was nice to him he is always available when I want to see him.

I asked him the other day if, since Carter was going out on a campaign trail every week, he would go back to his old job of seeing that our luggage got to our rooms.

"I wish I had the time," he said. "But I have to handle the SALT II treaty, the energy bill, ride herd on the Federal Reserve Bank, testify on the Hill about the DC-10 and decide what we should do about the Chrysler Corporation."

"You've certainly come a long way," I said.

"It was a gamble," he smiled. "I knew if Carter won I'd either get this job or an appointment to the Supreme Court. But if he'd lost I'd now be working in the lost and found department at Eastern Airlines."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Sales pitch of fear investigated

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Americans' fear of cancer has caused a boom in the sale of insurance policies covering just that single dreaded disease. Many experts consider cancer insurance a ripoff at worst and a questionable investment at best, because standard health-insurance policies usually provide better coverage at lower cost.

The companies that offer cancer insurance reject such criticism, arguing that they are filling a need that is not adequately met by Medicare and private health plans.

One thing is undeniable, though: There's a lot of money being made from the public's fear of the killer disease.

Leading the pack is the American Family Life Assurance Co. of Columbus Ga. Though the company is a relative pigmy in the field of general accident and health insurance, it is the giant of the cancer-insurance industry. With nearly 4.7 million cancer policies in force, American Family is the largest such insurer in the United States, perhaps in the world.

Last year, the company's revenues rose 41 percent — from $213 million in 1977 to $300.7 million. American Family's success has allowed it to branch out into endeavors unrelated to insurance. It recently plunked down $37 million to buy four television stations. And it has contributed $239,000 to various political campaigns.

The company's aggressive salesmen have also privided a bonanza for company chairman John Amos, whose salary is based on a percentage of the annual revenue. This year he'll make $918,351 — one of the highest corporate salaries in the country.

American Family executives attribute the company's phenomenal success to the product — a low-cost supplemental policy that covers only treatment for cancer. They point with pride to their high renewal rate, quick payment of claims and low rate of complaints.

But investigators for the House Select Committee on aging and the Massachusetts Insurance Department paint a less rosy picture of American Family's operations. They have raised serious questions about both the benefits the company pays out and the sales techniques it uses.

"(The) sales training program appears to utilize high-pressure, low-information techniques," an internal auditors' report by the Massachusetts agency concluded. The sales brochure "appeared to be inadequate, deceptive and misinformative," the report states, explaining that "the incidence and cost of cancer, rather than benefits in coverage, are used as the primary marketing tool."

An undercover House investigator who signed up as a sales trainee in Maryland was taught to tell prospective customers, "When you get cancer..." instead of "If you get cancer..."

In other words, the sales pitch was based on fear.

A particular target for concern by the Massachusetts investigators was American Family's "extended benefits clause," which provides $200 a day starting on the 91st day in the hospital.

The auditors' report notes that this benefit is "illusory" because rarely, if ever, do cancer victims spend more than 30 consecutive days in the hospital. And a study by other Massachusetts experts concluded that such extended benefits clauses result in a pay-out rate of about one dollar per thousand dollars in premiums.

CUBA CABLE: A Cuban poet, crippled and sick after 19 years in Fidel Castro's prisons, has smuggled a desperate plea for help to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Armando Valladares wrote Jackson and five other senators — three of whom he didn't know are no longer in the Senate — on a strip of toilet paper 7 and a half by 4 and a half inches, the missive was smuggled out of his cell to his wife in Miami.

Though he has often been denied food — once for seven weeks at a stretch — and has been isolated from other prisoners, Valladares has managed to get two books published outside Cuba since he was jailed in 1960. In fact, his latest book, "Prisoner of Castro," published in Paris this year, is the cause of his current troubles.

Valladares told Jackson that Castro is punishing the poet's family, most of whom still live in Cuba, for his recent writings. "It is not fair that my family should suffer the consequences of my literary work or my acts as a prisoner in rebellion," he scribbled to Jackson.

"A high official of the political police has notified me that it is in my hands to decide on my family's immediate departure from the country, but for it to happen I have to draft a letter denying my friends and forbidding them to speak or publish about me and my literary work," Valladares wrote, adding this poignant "cri de coeur" from his prison cell: "To write that letter would be to commit moral and spiritual suicide. I shall never write it."

Jackson and other senators have interceded in the past with Castro on behalf of Valladares and other prominent political prisoners, and in recent months some have been allowed to emigrate to the United States.

But not everyone qualifies for Castro's limited benevolence. Valladares' poetic eloquence might doom him — he would be dangerous to the Cuban dictator if given freedom to speak and write. As he once wrote of the fortress in which he is imprisoned, "Each stone has a story, thousands of cries have worn them down."

Nuclear industry ready to launch fall countereffensive

Nick Thimmesch

WASHINGTON — Ever since Three Mile Island, the nuclear industry has been nursing its wounds in the penalty box and enduring all manner of scornful criticism, indeed, unfair assault.

But enough is enough, and now the companies and people who are convinced that our country needs nuclear power as part of the energy mix show signs that they have had their fill of abuse and want to argue their case.

There was a time when the nuclear people stood proud and enjoyed the flattery that accompanied the much-trumpeted promise of "atoms for peace" and consequent benefits for mankind. But of late this industry has been under siege by a variety of issue-oriented activists who want to assign nuclear to hell's lower depths or at least stomp it to nothingness in the 1980 campaign.

The Fonda-Hayden team, Gov. Jerry Brown, Bella Abzug, Ralph Nader, Daniel Ellsberg, Barry Commoner, to name several, are the celebrities in the burgeoning anti-nuclear movement. They get instant media attention and, along with popular rock stars, draw big bucks to the cause. Additional financial support is provided by naive foundations and, in some cases, even by the federal government.

The celebrities are backed by groups which have long been grinding axes. Some extreme civil libertarians see an expanded nuclear power system as a means of repression because of the security clearances which might be asked for people looking for jobs in nuclear enterprises or for people already on such jobs.

Feminists long ago made a nuclear martyr out of Karen Silkwood and created the myth that she was victimized by a huge corporation's nuclear operation. The argument is also made that women are more vulnerable to nuclear's harmful effects than men, because women bear children and must rear them.

The Women's Strike for Peace — an old leftist group — is fiercely anti-nuclear. They and other activists love to confuse issues concerning nuclear weapons with commercial nuclear plants generating electric power.

Then there are the anti-bigness and anti-corporation activists who find nuclear a convenient target of opportunity and actually gloated over Three Mile Island. Along with so-called environmentalists, they exploit the law to tie up nuclear construction and, when they finally lose in court, point to the additional cost of the new plant as an example of nuclear's soaring costs.

They also love to join the civil libertarians who want no security clearances for nuclear employees, forgetting that when something goes wrong in a nuclear plant they are the first to charge that the employees are unreliable. Tsk, tsk.

But a counteroffensive rumbles. Last week, a Nuclear Energy Education Day (NEED) was held, with more than 100,000 people taking part in 4,300 events across the nation. Nuclear supporters are also determined to insist that textbooks include balanced treatments of the nuclear question and that teachers provide the same.

Moreover, Dr. Linn Draper, 37, and Sandra Keifer — both nuclear engineers — are following Fonda-Hayden wherever they go in a "truth" team program sponsored by the Edison Electric Institute. They have been very well received and occasionally have rattled Fonda. She refuses to appear on any program or broadcast with them. Indeed, Fonda gets rough with TV producers when she insists on the right to veto their selections of people to appear with her.

The nuclear industry now wisely recruits its younger engineers and scientists to speak out publicly and argue that this country needs nuclear power to keep the economy up and to provide jobs. The industry has also developed an internal communications system to function during nuclear incidents and thus avoid the confusion which characterized the Three Mile Island episode.

Since 45 of the top 50 electric utilities in the republic use nuclear power, some are showing the courage to defend it. Con-Ed of New York, for example, is suing to continue its practice of listing two figures on its monthly bills — one which the customer owes and a larger one indicating what would have to be paid if there were no nuclear power. Con-Ed contends it is exercising free speech; anti-nuclear activists argue consumers shouldn't have to pay for such propaganda.

And the nuclear industry will be even more visible in a few weeks when it launches a national, issue-oriented advertising campaign to show what it has done since Three Mile Island and to reassert that nuclear power is safe, cheap and absolutely necessary for the energy-short times ahead.

Eventually, sweet reason will prevail over Fonda-Hayden. They were wrong about the benevolence and peaceful intentions of the Communist regimes in Vietnam and Cambodia, and they are wrong on this issue, too.

Pro-Oil pride

To The Editor:

In happy contrast to the near total negativity which bombards us daily, Tuesday's Pro-Oil Rally provided an upbeat, positive experience. I am a New Mexican by birth, a Californian by adoption, and a Texan by job assignment; and yesterday I was supremely proud to be a resident of the Midland community. Hooray for those who conceived, sponsored, and participated in the petroleum appreciation program!

Regarding the energy problem debate, I take exception to one comment in your lead editorial (10-16-79, "Jane and Tom on Tour"), wherein you referred to Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden's "California message."

Fonda-Hayden and their misled entourage cannot repressent the total philosophy of the nation's most populous state. As another great producer of petroleum, California's energy interests coincide with those of Texas and the rest of the nation. Please don't label the entire state because of the ravings of a misguided few.

Pro-Oil programs such as begun yesterday in Midland can eventually offset the dissenters, because positive attitudes inevitably orveride negative. Thank you, Midland oil people, for taking a first step in the positive direction.

Who has right?

To The Editor:

Pope John Paul II, echoing Lopez Portillo and others of the so-called "Third World," calls for the rich nations (meaning us) to share with the poor nations not only our abundance, but our "substance." It's interesting that the pope would expect the United States to solve a problem which, to some degree, has been created and sustained by papal edict. Do the prohibitions regarding birth control have nothing to do with the pressures of over-population in parts of the Third World?

When the world food conference met several years ago in Rome, the Third World countries decided that, yes indeedy, they have "a right to food." In other words, they have a "right" to lay around breeding like hamsters, and a subsequent "right" to then demand that the rest of us support the result of their unplanned parenthood. Perhaps they feel that "the Lord will provide?"

In discussing this "right" to food, are they talking about your food, or my food, or (perhaps) just "food at large?" Are they talking about beans and beer, mealies and milk, or prime rib and premium wine? I think most Americans will agree that as soon as we once admit someone has a "right" to our food, a "right" to our substance, it won't be long (by virtue of a well known process) until they insist that they have an "equal right," or even (in that they have formerly suffered) a "superior right." I think we will find that the beans and the mealies will no longer do; they will have an equal or superior "right" to the best food.

Underlying this argument, thinly veiled, is another question — perhaps the real question — and that is, who in this over-crowded world has the "right" to propagate the human race? Who has the "right" to breed? Is it us, or is it them? The manner in which we use our abundance, and our "substance" will dictate the answer.

POSITIVE THINKING

The secret of a relaxed, easy life

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

In St. Petersburg, Fla., I saw a machine on the street with a sign asking "What's your blood pressure?" You could put a coin in a slot and get the bad news.

Well, in this column I want to tell you about one method that can keep blood pressure down. A lot of people nowadays are tense and upset and worried. Many do not know how to work hard with ease, which is of course the method by which you can do all you need to do and still be happy and healthy.

Here's the story of a friend of mine who cracked up, but found the secret of a relaxed and efficient life. He is a businessman, and pressure had made him high strung, nervous and tense. He thought the world rested on his shoulders and that his business and everything with which he was concerned would simply go to pieces if he didn't take charge of every last detail himself.

One day the pressure under which he lived caught up with him. He began to feel pains in his chest, around his shoulder blades and in his arms. He was frightened, so he left his office and went home to bed. His wife and children gathered around him with fear written on their faces. Finally, they persuaded him to let them call a doctor.

The doctor came, gave him a very careful examination and then told him he must have absolute quiet and that he would have to stay flat on his back for a least a month.

He fretted and fumed and said it was impossible. How could his business get along without him? "I'm not concerned about your business," the doctor told him. "My business is to get you well."

Before he was allowed to get out of bed, six weeks had passed. "Now," the doctor told him, "I'm going to send you to a little town on the coast of Massachusetts to spend a month with some friends of mine. They have a simple home, but they're the salt of the earth. They're old-fashioned Yankee fisher folk.

"They're very religious people. They go to bed early and they get up early. Life's not like it is in the city here. Their house is filled with an atmosphere of faith and peace.

"I want you to forget abour your business. I don't want you to get any mail from your office or any phone calls or telegrams. Just take it easy and, when the weather is good, get out and sit by the ocean or lie down on the rocks in the sun."

After some protest, my friend finally agreed to do what the doctor advised. He went to this small Massachusetts town and stayed with the fisherman. He relaxed and began to recapture some of his zest for living. His host said grace before meals and, every night before retiring, he read healing words from the Bible and had family prayers.

These great old words from the Bible began to sink in and he found himself remembering them. During the day, he would go down to the sea and sit on the rocks, listening to the sound of the waves breaking against the shore. He seemed to hear the voice of the sea, and above its roar, the voice of one who says to the storms and waves, "Peace, be still."

A month of this and he was well again. His tension and nervousness were gone, no permanent physical harm had been done him and, most important, he had gotten a new slant on life. He had acquired the peace of God. He has never been sick since.

The healing experience of this man is one that many of us need today. It's really pathetic the way so many modern people are in a perpetual "dither." They work on their nerves. You can't get away with it for long. That kind of life will break you if you don't watch out.

You probably think your grandfather was a quaint old boy, but did he crack up of tension? I'll guess not — and why? Well, they had a good old custom in those simple days of staying home nights and enjoying the family. They read good books and lived leisurely, and before retiring the family gathered round and listened to the reading of the Bible, and they prayed together.

Then they went to bed with some great old words of faith, and peace, in their minds. They developed the easy, quiet, yet powerful tempo of God in their hearts. That's a good cure for blood pressure. Ask your doctor.

Fair housing law needs teeth

By VERNON E. JORDAN
Copley News Service

Eleven years ago Congress passed the Civil Rights Act of 1968, which included a section banning discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

That law has gathered plenty of dust in the intervening years. It did help end some discrimination in some places, but overall the housing market operates as if the law did not exist. Discrimination in housing remains firmly entrenched.

A good part of the reason is that the law lacked adequate enforcement procedures. It left three routes open to those seeking to end housing discrimination.

First, people who had been discriminated against had the right to sue. That looks better than it plays. A private lawsuit is an expensive proposition, especially for the average person. It is time-consuming as well. So many people just could not protect their rights through that mechanism.

Beyond that, there is a failure of principle here.

Why should victims of unconstitutional and illegal discrimination have to bear the costs and the burdens of going to court to defend rights the government is supposed to guarantee?

A second means of enforcement was authority for the attorney general to bring suit against violators where there is a pattern of discrimination. This, too, is a faulty device. Housing discrimination cases never got more than token interest from the Justice Department.

Finally, the secretary of housing and urban development was empowered to resolve complaints of discrimination through conciliation and persuasion. That's hardly an enforcement mechanism — violators could always refuse to be persuaded.

Clearly, the law could not be enforced as it stands. President Carter acknowledged this earlier this year when he said: "Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968...remains largely an empty promise because of the lack of an adequate enforcement mechanism."

To correct this the administration offered, and Congress is considering, amendments to the law that would finally put some teeth into it.

HUD would get greater powers. It would be able to take firm administrative action. After a fair hearing procedure, HUD would be able to order violators to comply with the law.

The agency would be able to issue a temporary injunction preventing the sale or rental of the dwelling in question. And it could assess penalties.

The Justice Department would now have the right to intervene in private lawsuits and to initiate suits on the request of the secretary of HUD. That takes some of the constraints off federal lawyers in enforcing the law.

The bill also would prohibit the practice of redlining, or cutting off mortgage money to neighborhoods where minorities live. This long-standing practice needs to be attacked on a national basis, and the proposed bill would help end this tool of discrimination.

There's more to the bill, but all its provisions add up to finally putting some enforcement teeth in the fair housing laws.

Memorabilia

To The Editor:

The Rankin Museum, located in the old Yates Hotel on Main Street, south of Highway 67 in Rankin, has close ties with the Midland people.

Nancy McKinley's grandfather, F.E. Rankin, for whom the town is named, donated the townsite. Tyson Midkiff, a retired rancher of Midland an Upton counties and a trustee of the museum, has donated clothes and ranch equipment of a bygone era.

The late Miss Maggie Taylor, curator emeritus of the museum, worked tirelessly to amass a collection of memorabilia in time for the 50th anniversay of Upton County in 1960. She was assisted by Mrs. Bill Nix and Mrs. E.C. Higday. The museum is open from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday by the only paid worker, assistant curator, Mrs. Fred Welling. Open by request at other times by the curator.

Thanks, Midland

To The Editor:

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the many churches, clubs, organizations and individuals for the neighborly responses to the plea for assistance in raising funds to secure a Hearing Dog for Mrs. Mary Bess, a former Midland teacher of special education, who suddenly lost her hearing about two years ago.

We were concerned that if we tried to send individual "Thank You Notes," we may miss someone who had given time, money, prayers, well wishes or some other form of service that helped us to successfully complete the project.

We are especially appreciative of the student clubs and organizations of Midland ISD, and of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cormack who made a very unusual contribution.

The Hearing Dog has been trained by the American Humane Association of Idlewood, Colorado, and was delivered to Mary Bess Oct. 1, 1979.

Thank you Midlanders! You are neighbors indeed!

Trashy situation

To The Editor:

I feel it is great for the tourist driving down the interstate to see what Midland has to offer — TRASH. That's right — TRASH — from one end of the interstate to the other. I live close to the Petroleum Museum and I'm shocked at the way things are done here! We have signs forbidding you to litter, saying you can be charged as much as $200. Yet our highways look like trash dumps. To top it all our city is so poor it can only afford for workers to go clean the pavement and not whats on the curb! Come see the glass at the intersection of Cottonflat and I-20 service road. It's the one at the northeast corner! Personally I feel this is a great danger. If someone else has a wreck they could be hurt bad. I would think a person could be cut to ribbons. PLEASE, PLEASE can't we do something about this.

Moral surrender

To The Editor:

In 1933, the United States legitimatized a gang of cutthroat murderers when FDR first recognized the Soviet Union. Until then Bolshevik Russia had been an international pariah.

Now Jimmy Carter proposed diplomatic recognition of another group of terrorists who openly avow their intent to murder all Israelis. He is currently changing the official policy of the U.S. in favor of the Palestine Liberation Organization, to the detriment of peace and freedom, and in opposition to the stated tenets of the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the Bill of Rights of the United States of America. It would seem that the philosophy and ethics of Brother Billy are being adopted by our country. I guess that blood is thicker than principle.

The purported reason for granting official aid and comfort to these genocidial killers is appeasement of the OPEC nations, thereby insuring continued petroluem supplies from the Middle East. Thus, another American president backs down and further loses face and credibility in the eyes of the world.

Our tacit surrender goes hand-in-hand with the strictures already placed on our highly technical petroleum industry, further impeding our efforts to solve our energy problems. Instead we should seriously address the problem, rather than acceding to the overbearing demands of an upstart demagogue. Kowtowing to bullies has never worked, nor will it in the future. Jimmy Carter obviously hasn't learned this fact of history, yet he is condemning all of us to repeating it.

This moral surrender by our administration is just as shameful as the abject appeasement of Adolf Hitler by Neville Chamberlain. Let us hope that a modern-day Winston Churchill soon comes along to restore our national honor.

Weigh the facts

To The Editor:

As the school bond election approaches, I urge Midland citizens to weigh the facts about the issues, logically, and not emotionally.

Visit the schools involved and see their needs first hand. Talk with the principals of these schools and you will find the approval of the bond election is extremely important to the future of education in Midland.

Let us stop the "old boundary competition" and vote approval for the good of all schools for all Midland students.

Responsibility

To The Editor:

I am astounded by the opposition of a small corps of people to the school bond election. It is obvious that these people are not interested in the orderly growth of our city and constitute a dereliction to our obligation to our school children.

I would remind these people that the abhorrent alternative to rejection of the bond proposal is the possibility that the federal government will usurp our responsibility and further dictate our educational processes.

The cost per family of the proposed bonds is paltry by today's standards and will only cost much more in the future.

Midland High School has the smallest campus of any high school in West Texas. It is unthinkable that our students there should be penalized simply because we are not willing to pay the price of one hamburger a month to bring the facilities to first class status. Surely the citizens of Midland are more responsible than that.

J.E. Floyd

Timing question

To The Editor:

If a school bond election is so necessary why wasn't the bond proposal put before the voters two years ago BEFORE the school board began spending so called "surplus funds" for land instead of for necessary repairs to existing facilities. The need for these repairs certainly did not occur overnight.

Another case of "cart before the horse."

Mrs. J.W. Irving

Not a choice

To The Editor:

The $10.2 million bond issue the TAXPAYERS of Midland are asked to approve on October 23 has been presented on the basis of all or nothing. This is no choice. This is an ultimatum. Vote NO and tell this school board to go back to the drawing board and present these in the manner in which they should be — issue by issue. Then the TAXPAYER can decide issue by issue just exactly what he wants to pay for.

A new elementary school at $2.1 milliom should be a separate bond issue; $3.9 million for athletic expansion and land acquisition (MHS) should be a separate bond issue; $1,210,770 for renovation of MHS, and $1.3 million for LHS should be a separate bond issue.

Wisely, the city council presented to the TAXPAYER the various city needs and the TAXPAYER had a choice.

Unwisely, the school board has issued the TAXPAYER an ultimatum. ALL OR NOTHING. Vote NO to this ultimatum.

Room at Lee

To The Editor:

To anyone who has attended school board meetings during the last three years, it is unquestionably apparent that the sole purpose of the upcoming school bond election is to expand the high school on the downtown area — Midland High School. The other items included in the bond election are simply bait items to entice the voter to approve the board's main purpose. In addition, in order to reenforce their plea to the public, they have gerrymandered the attendance lines of the two high schools to overcrowd Midland High while Lee High is way under capacity.

I am all for Midland High being repaired and the existing structure outfitted in a modern fashion, but not for expansion of a school located in the downtown area. If the school is overcrowded, there's room at Lee. It was intended to accomodate more students.

Time for the best

To The Editor:

In the past, the boards of education, the school administration, and the people of this community have striven to provide the best facilities that money could buy for our school system.

The time has come to renovate, to repair, and to expand the existing facilities.

All of our young people, regardless of their areas of interest, should have every opportunity that we can provide.

Can we afford to do less then our very best for your children?

Love for Danny

To The Editor:

I would appreciate it if you could publish this letter.

I shall address it to the murderer of "Danny."

Why did you kill Danny? We all loved him so. He wasn't much to look at I know, kind of small with white hair, big brown eyes and wagging tail. Danny thought everyone was his friend, a more trusting fellow you could never find. Maybe that is why he didn't stay around home a lot. He was always going out to meet and get to know folks and most everyone that got to know him loved him dearly.

Did you know he was only six years old? I know what you are thinking: "Why did his family let him roam around?" Well they tried to keep him home, they even thought about tying him up. But they couldn't do that to Danny. He loved life and people so much. I know Danny did some things the folks did not like, but God didn't give him the intelligence that he gave you and me.

Danny was one of my best friends. Many a morning when I opened my front door there would stand Danny, smiling, his brown eyes twinkling asking for a little bit of breakfast and fellowship. The last time I was sick and had not been up and around I heard him at my front door. We let him come in and he sat by my bed, not saying much of anything, but seemed like he just wanted me to know he cared.

I want you to know Danny made it home after you shot him. We found him laying on the grass outside. He was so glad to see all the people who loved him. Danny died this morning so he won't be bothering you any more. After all he was only a dog.

Positive support

To The Editor:

Three times by vote Midland educators have accepted the community mandate of two comparable high schools — personnel, student bodies, programs, and facilities. The Midland Independent School District (MISD) consistently has expressed a district commitment to educational excellence.

At both high schools we have endeavored to provide: (1) quality staffs through extensive evaluation processes, inservice training, and continuous encouragement to improve professional skills, and (2) quality programs through a system of setting and reaching goals and assessing resources, materials, and facilities.

We believe that every student in the MISD should expect and receive an education which maximized the development of his-her potential to enter society as a self-respecting and contributing member. To meet the diverse aesthetic, academic, vocational and athletic needs and interests of present and future students, facilities play a critical role in the degree of success to which the public schools aspire. At the present time facilities have placed definite limits upon these programs — limits which could be altered appreciably by the passage of this current school bond issue.

To provide equal opportunities at both high schools we urge you to vote for these bonds on October 23! Your positive support and vote represents an endorsement of a quality education for all students and an investment in the future of our community.

Pass the bond

To The Editor:

The school bond election October 23 is very important to each and every Midland citizen and family. Good schools have always helped us attract new people to Midland, and new industries always want to see our schools.

If you have visited Midland High School recently, you know how desperate the situation is. Something must be done about it. We also need improvements at Lee High School and at many other junior high and elementary facilities. If we wait, the cost will just get higher, and we need the improvements now.

We owe it to our 15,000 school children as well as ourselves to pass the school bond.

Billie Meckley

Urgent need

To The Editor:

I hope that all voters will go to the polls Tuesday and vote in favor of the school bonds. The improvements are urgently needed and the cost will be small to individual property owners.

Midland is a growing city, and it would be tragic if we turned our backs on our schools and our children. We must look ahead to take care of our schools' needs.

Let's think of our children and pass the school bonds by a large majority.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

A cute gift for a little girl's birthday would be to make a "crayon apron." Just cut out the traditional square apron with ties (adjusted to the size of the child, of course). Make a front pocket the length of the hemmed edge of the apron.

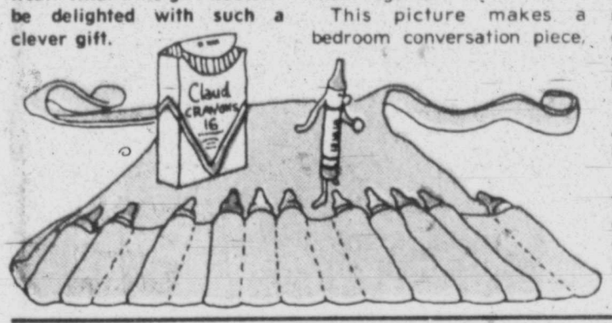
Purchase a box of crayons, whatever size you desire, though I wouldn't suggest the largest box that has 64.

After sewing up the apron with the front pocket, stitch individual sections large enough for each crayon to fit into.

There! You have an unusual crayon "holder" that will help to keep a child content on those "nothing to do" days.

A Child At Heart

How different, yet practical! What little girl wouldn't be delighted with such a clever gift.



You must have made many a little "angel's" face light up.

'MY GOLDEN OLDIES'

DEAR HELOISE:

This hint is for all grandmothers, and mothers, who have so many pictures of those loved ones.

When I remove the "oldies" from my billfold or picture frames, I put them in an old 19x23 frame. The pictures are all shapes and sizes, but I tape them together.

This picture makes a bedroom conversation piece, and even the teen-agers manage to get their friends to notice it.

E.N.S.

DON'T MOPE! MOP!

DEAR HELOISE:

I had a big mess of spilled water on the floor after I defrosted our big freezer.

I threw old newspapers on the floor to sop it up. In a few minutes all the water was in the paper and I just threw it all away.

Very easy!

TRICK OF THE WEEK

DEAR HELOISE:

When sending stamps inside mail, the stamps won't get lost inside the letters and won't need regluing if you wet the glue in the "dab center" of the stamp, leaving the edges untouched.

Mrs. Stella Jawgrowicz

DEAR READER:

This is your column. If you'd like to share a hint, ask a question or make a suggestion, write me care of this newspaper.

Just for Kids

IT SUITS MY MOM TO A TEE!

DEAR HELOISE:

My mother is a Girl Scout leader, so every time we take a field trip, she has all of us wear our "look-alike" school T-shirts.

On a recent outing, there were 49 ~~of~~ us all wearing the same shirts.

A stranger remarked to my dad that every place he looked he saw those school shirts coming toward him.

They really stand out in a crowd and my parents can keep up with their scouts much easier.

NO SHAMPOO BLUES FOR CYNTHIA!

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a helpful hint for mothers with smaller children.

Take an empty detergent container with a pulltop dispenser and put your child's shampoo in this bottle.

This way you don't have to worry about him knocking over the shampoo and wasting it.

When you're done, just close the top and store away for the next time. It works for me.

IT'S A SHOE-IN!

DEAR HELOISE:

When using the small, loosely woven mats for seat cushions, I use shoelaces to tie them securely to the backs of the chairs.

They don't fall off and you can choose the color that compliments the cushion, plus the proper length needed for the size chair.

As a mother who has a family of six children, someone is always needing extra shoelaces. In fact, if one of the kids has to have a shoelace quickly... just take a brand-new one from the chair!

Mrs. Bill McGinnis

Now that's using the old noodle!

ALL BOXED IN!

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you know the cube-shaped boxes some facial tissues come in make good places to store the plastic bags you get from the grocery store?

Just trim the plastic from the dispenser part of the box and roll your bags separately and put them in the box.

You'll be surprised how many of these handy bags you can put in one box, and they are so handy for so many things.

Thank you for being you and God bless you.

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:

I read in your column about a lady using baby powder to remove grease spots from her clothes.

I use it on my hat on the inside around the sweat band and it works like a charm. Just sprinkle the powder on the stain, let it sit a couple of hours, and then take a hat brush to it and you think you have a new hat.

I read your column every day and I can't do without it. Keep the good work going.

Jack Blackwell

And thank you, sir! We just can't do without you either.

PATTY'S PILLOWS

DEAR HELOISE:

I thought of a great hint for a quick and easy pillow that would match anything.

All I do is buy two inexpensive washcloths in the color I want. By sewing them together and stuffing them, I have a very nice pillow.

You can buy cloths with flowers on them and add fringe around the edges to make a fancier one.

WHAT HAPPENED TO SARA? YOU SAID THE POLICE BROUGHT HER TO THE HOSPITAL! WHY? WHAT DID SHE DO?

THEY FOUND HER WANDERING DOWN THE HIGHWAY ALONE! IT'S LUCKY THAT SHE WASN'T STRUCK BY A CAR!

THE POLICE SAID SHE ACTED CONFUSED---WOULDN'T TALK! AND SHE HASN'T SAID A WORD SINCE SHE'S BEEN HERE.

IS SHE ALL RIGHT PHYSICALLY? DID YOU EXAMINE HER? THIS HAS NEVER HAPPENED BEFORE!

BRADLEY and EDGINGTON 10/21

I WENT OVER HER CAREFULLY---ALTHOUGH THERE ARE A COUPLE OF LAB STUDIES I WANT TO DO ---BUT I MUST HOSPITALIZE HER FOR THOSE!

IT HAS TO BE SOMETHING PHYSICAL, REX! SHE'S BEEN FINE! JUST LAST EVENING WE HAD A LONG CONVERSATION!

NO! THERE'S NOTHING WRONG WITH HER MENTALLY!

I WANT HER SEEN BY A PSYCHIATRIST, VIKI!

YOU SAID THE SAME THING FIVE YEARS AGO! PERHAPS IF SHE HAD RECEIVED HELP THEN, SHE WOULDN'T BE HERE NOW!

SHE'LL BE ALL RIGHT! I'M TAKING HER HOME!
