Sheriff Claims Charge As Political Assault By Enemies

By The Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 17.—Sheriff Less Whitaker of Potter county was placed under arrest at 8:30 o'clock tonight on complaints of conspiracy and accomplice, filed by Ranger F. A. Hamar.

The complaint filed by Hamer is in two counts and charges conspiracy to commit a felony and that of being an accomplice in an assault with a prohibited weapon.

Total of Five Arrests.

The charges are in connection with the flogging, tarring and feathering of E. T. McDonald, railroad worker, late Wednesday night. Four arrests have been made in the case up to the time Whitaker was taken in custody. Whitaker's bond was set at $2,500 on each charge by Justice C. G. Landis which was made at 9 o'clock tonight.

T. W. Stanford, who had already was held on $2,500 bond on charge of assault with a prohibited weapon, was jointly charged with Whitaker. His bonds were set at the same as those of Whitaker.

Whitaker said tonight that the charges are the result of political enemies. Immediately after his arrest he consulted an attorney. Whitaker who had served several terms as county tax assessor, was elected sheriff while he was manager of a union laundry. Friends says that opponents of unionism and personal enemies are back of the charges.

District Attorney Fletcher tonight said that Whitaker could continue in office, pending action of the grand jury which convenes Aug. 27.

McDonald Knifed Captor.

One of the arrests bears out, according to the belief of officers, the statement by McDonald that he wounded one of his captors while being abducted. He claimed he inflicted a knife wound on one of them and the man placed under arrest late today was suffering from a serious knife wound in his thigh.

Rangers and sheriff's officers are now conducting search for the physician said to have attended the man after the attack.

Relighting Lamp In Mine Caused Death Of 99 Men

By The Associated Press.

KEMMERER, Wyo., August 17.—The coroner's jury investigating the Kemmerer mine explosion of last Tuesday, today returned a verdict to the effect that the explosion was caused by the ignition of gas in room 7, 30th entry, when the fire boss relighted his safety lamp. The explosion caused the death of 99 miners.

At the inquest, Peter Boani, gas watchman, produced the lamp he found 12 feet from the face of room No. 7. This lamp, he testified, was used as a safety lamp, but the top and bottom were two feet apart and a match with the head only burned, was found a few inches from the bottom part of the lamp. J. L. Matin, superintendent of pipe lines for the company, said he believed the fire was of incendiary origin.

Public Pressure Forces Department To Use Quick Measures.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A suit in equity under the general criminal statutes to break up alleged combinations to control gasoline prices was being planned today by the department of justice. Attorney General Daugherty has not decided when federal action would be instituted and the time and place of initiating a suit will depend upon a summary of the reports now being filed with the bureau of investigation with respect to the "gasoline price war" in the middle west.

Public pressure for government action has spurred the department to forsake the slow processes of the federal trade commission. The United States attorneys have been instructed to investigate conspiracies to fix or control price sand forward their information to the attorney general.

The relation of the so-called independent oil companies to the larger concerns also is being made the subject of investigation.

GEORGIA MOBS LYNCH NEGROES

Two Jails Broken Into To Get Blacks Charged With Assault

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17.—Two negroes were lynched in Georgia today. Early this morning a crowd of men broke into the Bleckley county jail at Cochran, Ga. took a negro named Alec Harris, charged with attacking a white woman, carried him 12 miles from town on the Dublin road, strung him to a tree and shot him to death. This mob was said to have been disguised and travelled in about 12 automobiles, from which the licensed tags had been removed.

Carried to Woman's Home.

The second lynching occurred in Houston county where Lee Green, negro, was taken from officers, carried to the house of the woman he is alleged to have attacked. There he was strung to a tree and shot to death. This mob is said to have been composed of about 75 men. The two counties in which the lynchings took place are in the center of the state, close to each other.

The Bleckley negro was serving a term on the chain gang for burglary at the time he was alleged to have committed the crime for which he was lynched. It took place last Wednesday. This mob tore a hole in the county jail, and sawed its way through a steel cage to get the negro.

NO EXCUSE FOR STANDARD RAISE, SAYS GOVERNOR

By The Associated Press.

PIERRE, S. D., Aug. 17.—Under present market conditions there would be no excuse or justification for the Standard Oil company of raise the price of oil in the middle west states owing to the fact that it has been raised four cents in South Dakota, and in the event that they contemplate such action, the public must immediately begin making its own purchases, Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota, said this afternoon in a statement to the Associated Press.

"SOMEBODY GOING BROKE EVERY DAY," SAYS GRAY

It is believed a plan was determined upon by independents to work together in committee battling the Standard Oil company in Iowa.

LIVELY SESSION MARKS OPENING OF CONVENTION

Morning Devoted to Program, with Luncheon Afterward

CLOSE MEETING TODAY

Stress Value of Editorial Policy of Community Building

Mixing seriousness with pleasure throughout the day, Northwest Texas editors, who opened a two days' convention here yesterday morning, enjoyed every minute of their time from the opening session yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock until the day was closed after a dinner at the Wichita club at 7 o'clock last night. Aside from the regular sessions of the association, in which problems of moment to the editors of this section were discussed, there was an enjoyable luncheon at the Kemp hotel, and then following another brief session all went to the ball game and had the pleasure of seeing their host win the honors. Several of the members' wives accompanied them and were entertained by a committee of Wichita Falls women.

The chamber of commerce was the host at the luncheon and for the ball game, and the Wichita Falls newspapers entertained the editors last night at dinner.

Following last night's dinner there was an impromptu program of speech making—not the cut and dried sort of speeches that poor, downtrodden newspaper men have to report in their line of duty, but short, breezy little talks that sparkled with wit and humor, and these were spiced with gentle sarcasm.

R. H. Nichols of the Vernon Record acted as toastmaster for the evening. Cloaking his opening remarks in a serious vein he finally removed the lid and let loose some gentle shafts of wit and sarcasm which spared no one. Expressing the appreciation of the visitors for their enjoyable time here, he criticized severely those members of the association who came to Wichita Falls and rooted openly for the Dallas ball team. One of these he named as Ralph Shuffler of Olney, and the popular secretary of the association. Shuffler replied to the criticism by saying that it was customary to curse the secretary at all times for everything. That if things went wrong at the association meeting the secretary would get the blame and that if everything was successful Wichita Falls would get the credit. His talk started the ball rolling.

N. R. Buckley of The Record News stressed the point that all of the editors of this section belong to one big family and that which is to the benefit of one community is to the benefit of all. He asked for the co-operation of the Northwest Texas editors in boosting the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

Toastmaster Nichols hastened to assure the speaker that with the proper amount of paid advertising and a sufficient number of press tickets to the fair the said co-operation would be forthcoming.

Mrs. O. C. Harrison of Seymour, wife of the president of the association, delighted the newspaper men with entertaining readings in negro dialect. Mr. Harrison may be president of the press association, but Mrs. Harrison is an entertainer of exceptional ability.

E. L. Covey of the Goree Advocate and a member of the legislature, after delivering a talk of serious nature at today's session, proved that he was not bowed down with the responsibilities of an editor or a lawmaker by talking in a lighter vein of his duties at Austin and those at home.

Ben D. Donnell of the Wichita Times told of the enjoyment Wichita Falls newspaper men get out of these meetings. Much good comes of these sessions, he said, and Wichita Falls is always glad to entertain the editors from neighboring towns.

The meeting closed with a short talk by President Harrison. He said that he was growing a bit discouraged since he had found that the gentleman from Goree had decided the people of Texas "didn't want to be saved" and had received some hints about printing in newspapers, not what the readers want. But he didn't mean it. He was just having a good time after carrying around all day the responsibilities which go with being head of the association.

Music for last night's dinner was furnished by Louie Burns and his orchestra. It was lively music and added much to the delightful affair.

All in all, the Northwest Texas Press association spent a busy day in Wichita Falls yesterday, and they have another day's program ahead of them today. While the attendance is not large, many being unable to get

TORNADO HITS LOOP IN DALLAS

Downtown Section Deluged By Rain Accompanied With Freak Winds

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 17.—Relief from the long continued drouth and excessive heat wave in Dallas came with a cyclonic suddenness this evening when rain from a wispy gathering of clouds, driven by a northeast wind, deluged the downtown section. The sky was still partly clear when the disturbance was at its height. The wind veered suddenly from one point of the compass to another, creating a miniature tornado in the Lamar street loop district, doing considerable property damage within a few minutes.

Some parts of the city remained totally dry and under clear skies while rain fell in torrents in others. The downtown district got the most precipitation.

Tin Roof Blown Off.

The most spectacular phase of the storm was observed opposite the Dallas News building when sections of tin roof blown from the top of the building occupied by the Texas Drug company wrapped by the wind around a pole carrying high voltage electric wires. The resultant short circuit put the street traffic lamps and part of the downtown fire alarm system of signals out of commission. As the heavy metal sheets were blown against the live wires, sheets of blue flame burst intermittently with a rasping roar that sounded over the whole district, with veritable showers of fire falling in the street. Wire men finally repaired this damage. Another telephone pole nearby snapped off and wires were scattered across Lamar street. No injuries, miraculously enough, occurred.

GIRL WHIPPING CAUSES KILLING

Second Death Likely As Victim Lies in Hospital Near Death

By The Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug. 17.—Leonard Johnson, shot yesterday afternoon in western Bowie county by M. M. Tucker, Cotton Belt machinist of Mount Pleasant, is still in a critical condition in a hospital here, with chances of recovery now doubtful. Clarence Johnson, brother of Leonard, was killed by Tucker at the time Leonard was shot.

Tucker and his brother-in-law Will Brown, both in the Bowie county jail, will be given a preliminary hearing Monday at DeKalb before Justice of the Peace Sellars, on charges of murder.

Bad Feeling Cause.

Bad feeling between the Tucker and Johnson families, which culminated in the alleged whipping of Ollie Tucker 14-year-old sister of M. M. Tucker, about two weeks ago, is said to have been the cause of the shooting. It is alleged that Leonard Johnson, after the whipping, threatened to kill J. T. Tucker, father of the girl, if she filed complaint against him. Complaint eventually was filed by two sisters of the girl and Leonard Johnson was fined $16.20 in justice court at DeKalb.

When M. M. Tucker heard of the flogging he came from Mount Pleasant, the shooting of the two Johnson brothers occurring the day after his arrival.

No statement can be obtained from Johnson because of his critical condition. Leonard Johnson is under a five-year suspended sentence for the killing of Tom Gamble, his wife's stepfather, on December 28, 1918.

IOWA PARK MAN ASKS DAVIDSON TO MAKE PROBE

Brother, Lonnie Davis, Beaten Wednesday in Serious Condition

OFFICERS ATTACKED

Claims Sheriff's Department Of Wichita County Is Failing in Duty

Declaring that the Wichita sheriff's department was failing to do its duty, a telegram was sent to Acting Governor T. W. Davidson by Z. W. Davis of Iowa Park last night, asking that the state probe the circumstances that led up to the flogging on the Holliday road Wednesday night of Lonnie Davis, now in a local hospital in a serious condition. The two are brothers.

Lonnie Davis, the man who said he was flogged by five unmasked men, was removed from the Iowa Park hospital Friday afternoon and placed in the general emergency hospital here.

Too Sick to Talk.

Bernard Martin, district attorney, and James V. Allred, assistant district attorney, began a probe of the flogging Friday afternoon. Allred said late Friday night that Martin called at the hospital Friday night to get a statement from Davis but that attendants said the man was in no condition to be talked to.

In a telephone call to Z. W. Davis, the older brother, last night, he said the sheriff's department officials came to Iowa Park awhile Friday night, stayed a few minutes and then went away. The brother said that he wanted something done about the matter at once and felt like an appeal to the governor was the only thing left for him to do.

Given Thorough Beating.

Sheriff Pat Murphy and Deputy Warren Belcher said they called on the younger Davis Friday afternoon and tried to learn who was responsible for the flogging. The officer said that Davis, other than saying the five men were unmasked and made no effort to conceal their identity, gave them little evidence to work on. They admitted that Davis had gotten a thorough beating.

Hamp Love, city marshall of Iowa Park, in a telephone conversation, said everything was being done there in the way of apprehending the floggers that could be done. He admitted there was much feeling over the matter and that sentiment for and against Davis had developed two strong factions that made the situation appear serious.

Police Conference Today.

The older Davis said he was coming to Wichita Falls this morning and confer with the police department and otherwise do all he could personally to start an investigation that will bring the floggers to justice.

WARSHIP PACTS GO INTO EFFECT

Two Treaties for Scrapping Armaments Finally Consummated

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The most important international accomplishment of the Harding administration—the conclusion of treaties under which the great powers of the world agreed to scrap most of their big warships and maintain peace in the Pacific for at least 10 years—has been consummated.

Two Treaties in Effect.

The four-power Pacific treaty of the Washington armament conference between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, which provides simultaneously for termination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance of 1911 and the five-power naval treaty between these four nations and Italy, went into effect at noon today with the formal deposit of ratifications at the state department.

The naval treaty remains in force until December 31, 1936, and the Pacific treaty until August 17, 1933, but both agreements will continue in effect indefinitely unless one of the contracting powers gives notice of intention to withdraw at the end of the specified period.

Simple ceremonies in the diplomatic rooms at the state department marked the deposit of ratifications. The United States is represented by Secretary of States Hughes, who was chairman of the armament conference.

BUSINESS

away from their duty at home, their activity yesterday, made up for what they may have lacked in numbers.

With the morning session in the Hotel Kemp, featured by an excellent address by the president of the association, O. C. Harrison, editor of the Seymour Banner, addresses of welcome and the discussions of the problems which confront the small publisher, the luncheon hour came soon enough, being followed by another short business session. Then all forgot their editorial troubles for the time and hied themselves to the ball game in which Wichita Falls and Dallas were contenders.

This morning's session was formally opened with the invocation by B. O. Brown of Electra News.

Major Luther Hoffman, representing the chamber of commerce and the city, welcomed the newspaper men to the city, paying high tribute to the place they hold in the affairs of men. "You enjoy the wholesome respect of all men outside of your profession" he told them, "by reason of the part you play in influencing public opinion in the right direction and in furthering the interests in your communities. This prompts me to extend to you a hearty welcome on the behalf of our citizenship and the chamber of commerce."

Welcome on behalf of Wichita Falls newspapers was extended by Jim Allison of The Times. Mr. Allison made a strong plea for the continuation of the fruitful co-operation which has existed between members of the profession.

In replying to the welcome addresses on behalf of the press association, R. H. McCarty, editor of the Albany News, said the others are glad of having the opportunity of accepting the hospitality of Wichita Falls. Commenting upon the pleasure in gathering together to discuss their mutual problems, praising the hotel accomodation offered by the Kemp and the Wichita Falls newspapers, Mr. McCarty said:

"Your newspapers have been mighty factors in your growth, put life into dead things, nursed your infant industries with the elixir of faith and the lubricant that gives speed to the wheels of "Do." Here we get a new vision of life, we go home and knock the unpainted dust off the unpainted type case, pour some oil in the old G-Wash and Country Campbell to eliminate the squeak and kick the bellbox out the back door and give the den a general cleaning up in imitation of our adopted home. Last year we went home with the picture of your pretty homes focused in our minds and as a result of it the front fence was torn down, the water was turned on and the grass made green, and our little cottage up there on the Hill road was painted white and the very first thing that our wife said was, 'Dick, that begins to look like Wichita Falls.'

"But maybe us country folks bring you something, we hope so at least, if nothing else you can take observation of our make up, dress and demeanor, and if nothing more you will catch the scent of the new mown hay, get a whiff of the wild roses, the tang of the wild woods will again woo you, hear the lowing of the milk cows at eventide, the bark of the coon at night and to say the least of it, it will remind you of the time that you lived out in God's country and were kinder green and did not know it."

Arguing the need and benefit to be derived from the Northwest Texas Press association and pleading for more interest in the association by its members, President Harrison stressed the value of the smaller association to its members as against the larger association. He said:

"The district meeting is a help. Some of our programs have been better than others, but as a usual thing they are very much to the point. The member who comes here with a receptive mind will receive enough practical benefit to more than pay him for his time and expense, and if he gets any fun out of the meeting he is much further ahead on the deal. Our state greetings supply every need from the standpoint of recreation and association, but they have partially failed when it comes right down to the questions that have to do with our daily conduct of affairs. Their delinquency in this line makes imperative the need of the district association.

"I want to impress this need to the extent that our members will have the proper appreciation of our organization. We ought to have more members in order to lend dignity to our body but mere numbers will not suffice. China has numbers, but New Zealand has a better government. A smaller enrollment is not without its advantages. It is my purpose that we shall hear from every member present at this meeting. Those not on the program will be asked to take part in the discussions. This cannot be done in large bodies. I have heard county associations with only a few members, that have been able to carry on successful meetings.

"The experience of the state association, with its splendid secretary, Mr. Sam P. Harben, proves our need of a permanent secretary. The woods are not full of Sam Harbens, but the history of the world has generally demonstrated that there is a man somewhere for every job, if only he can be found. My friendship for our present secretary and for other men of the association who might be named would be a protection against any suggestion of mine as to who should be the permanent secretary, but somebody is going to have to be the goat if our best interests are served. The transferring of records from place to place is not always successful, and the chances are that these records are not now all in the same place. We ought not to ask a secretary to service entirely without pay but if there is a man among us upon whom the lot should fall, he ought to be elected to that position during good behavior.

"As our association has not realized its possibilities, so we as individuals have fallen far short of the glory of God and nearly everything else. It is given to me only to suggest the responsibility that devolves upon us as publishers. Most of us are to needest in this particular. We may have an idea that it does not matter very much what goes into the paper, so long as all the advertisements are there. But it does matter. The communities in which our members reside have several preachers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, merchants, etc., but many of them have only one paper. These other folks have to make good or get out. Sometimes I think it might be beneficial to us if we had a set of deacons, censors of some kind of an outfit that would tell us candidly where we were falling down, and kick us out if we were not mindful of the trust reposed in us. Do you imagine your paper is not read very closely? It may not be worth a close reading, but there is where your subscribers honor you more than you do yourself. The greatest care you may exercise in regard to what goes into your paper will not be too much.

Regarding the financial side of the smaller newspaper, the president said:

"I hold in my hand a report from the National Editorial association committee, in which the recommendation is made that papers of 500 circulation and less charge 25 cents per inch for their advertising space, with practically 1 cent per inch added for each additional 100 circulation. Other business men do not hesitate to charge for their wares on the basis of their cost, but the newspaper man as a rule does not even know what his costs are. What is worse than that, there are editors who do not place any value on their own time. The printers finally rebelled and forced us to place a value on their time. When I first began the newspaper business we had no set hours for work, and night work was one of the commonest things about the office. The boys got no extra pay for it, and I know now that this work was donated to our patrons. We are doing no night work now, and the office is making little or no money. A raise in prices is inevitable if fair profits are to show up on our books again. One of the most important features of our business is the collection department. Do not make your good patrons pay for money lost on the bad ones and you can't afford to pay the loss out of your own profits.

"The financial side of our business deserves more than a cursory glance, but I must hasten to one other point before my time is up. Charge a fair price and make money in your business, but at the same time do not be a wart on your community. Give value received to the man who wants to keep his printing at home. Our profession has risen above the basis of charity. Make your advertising space and job work worth every nickle charged for it; and then beyond that if our news and editorial columns can be of service to our communities, we shall have earned the right to the high position we hold.

"I hope the addresses to be delivered here today and tomorrow shall have been prepared with care, with greater care than has been given to some of the weak efforts I myself have been guilty of in the past. I solicit you to enter into the spirit of our program, and I hope that each one of you may contribute in your way toward making this the best meeting the Northwest Texas Press association has ever had. I thank you."

R. H. Nichols of the Vernon Record discussed the development of foreign advertising, making some very worthwhile suggestions. Mr. Nichols pointed out the advantages of being represented by a representative in the foreign field. The advertising agent, he said, was a buyer of space, while the foreign representative sold the newspaper's space to the agency, and is better acquainted with the newspaper and the territory under consideration. Following his address, there was an informal discussion in which Mr. Nichols answered a number of questions regarding foreign advertising.

Frank Bowron of the Graham Leader, in an comprehensive talk treated the problem of "Keeping Subscription and Advertising Rates on a Paying Basis." He discussed costs and pointed out the necessity of selling advertising at a rate that will give the merchant a good value and the publisher a fair profit.

"The Legislature and the Newspaper" was the subject of an interesting address by E. L. Covey of the Goree Advocate, a member of the Texas legislature. Mr. Covey urged the newspaper men against thoughtless criticism of the legislature. He said he wished every newspaper man in Texas could serve a term in the Texas legislature and thereby get a better idea of what the lawmakers are trying to do. He pleaded with them to work with the lawmakers and to try and get the sentiment of the people of their communities.

At the noon luncheon at the Kemp, Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court entertained the editors and their wives reminiscences of his early days in the newspaper game. He is always a welcome visitor at these gatherings. Judge Martin dwelt on the important part that newspapers can play in the building of their counties and state.

P. A. Rogers, manager of the Wichita Electric company, who was on hand to see that the visitors were well taken care of, made a short talk, opening with a humorous story. Mr. Rogers said he felt at home among newspaper men, as he regarded them as a semi-public utility.

Mrs. W. W. Silk who, with Mrs. Rogers, provided special entertainment for the wives and daughters of the visiting newspaper men made a delightfully charming talk, which was heartily applauded.

The following committees were appointed by President Harrison yesterday:

Resolutions—R. H. Nichols, Vernon; R. L. English, Stamford; R. H. McCarty, Albany.

Finance—E. L. Covey, Goree; A. W. Cline, Bowie; J. A. Kennedy, Munday.

Membership—Harry Koch, Quanah; Milford Rouse, Vernon; V. A. Baker, Electra.

Those who registered with the secretary for the meeting were:

J. A. Kennedy, Munday; Mr. and Mrs. E. Goeth, Dallas; Frank Bowron, Graham; Harry Koch, Quanah; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Roberts, Chillicothe; W. N. Beard, Fort Worth; John Gould, Wichita Falls; Judge and Mrs. P. A. Martin, Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCarty, Albany; Mrs. J. R. Webb, J. H. Allison, Wichita Falls; Rhea Howard, Wichita Falls; H. M. Burnes, W. E. Edwards, Henrietta; R. L. Inglish, Stamford; Miss Suzanne Inglish, Stamford; D. D. Donnell, Wichita Falls; W. S. Foster, Quannah; E. L. Covey, Goree; T. C. McDaniel, Abilene; O. D. McCoy, Wichita Falls; R. H. Nichols, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Harrison, Milford Rouse, Vernon; D. L. Boyd, Wichita Falls; R. A. Day, Wichita Falls; Burns Hegler, Wichita Falls; Henry Yelvington, Vernon; N. B. Buckley, Wichita Falls; B. Nelson; J. E. H. Bailey; Cedrick Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Henslee, Anson; Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Frichte, Wichita Falls; A. W. Cline, Bowie; Sam Actor; W. Frank Dyer; W. H. Parker, Dallas.

Hiram Johnson Thrown Into 1924 G. O. P. Spotlight

Hiram Johnson, California's dynamic senator, had planned no opposition to the late President Warren G. Harding. But death intervened. Therefore it is considered likely that Johnson now may decide to enter the lists for the republican presidential nomination at the 1924 convention. His friends are inclined to believe that he will make the race which President Harding's death promises to make anything but a cut and dried affair.

BLASTED AGAIN

bury her hopes—temporarily at least—of wedded bliss. It's nothing new to Marjorie.

She used to be the wife of Willard Mack. But that got tiresome, so Marjorie had the law wield the knife which severed the Rambeau- Mack marital bonds.

Then along came Hugh Dillman and another dip into the matrimonial sea for Marjorie. She became Mrs. Hugh Dillman McGaughey.

Says the poet: "Life is a passion built upon the rock of hope and everything moves smoothe as soap—till someone moves the rock."

Now just who put the dynamite under the rock isn't known, but it is known that Marjorie's rock in this case has been blasted sky high.

She's now suing Dillman for divorce.

She charges he "beat her up; that he failed to contribute to her support, although he earned in the neighborhood of $1,000 a week and that he deserted her last April." He says it isn't true.

They were married in New York three years ago, but she hopes a judge here will set her free.

YOUTH SOUGHT BY REPUBLICANS

Reorganization at Cost Of Battle Within Party Reported

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Reorganization of the republican leadership in the new congress will lead to a determined fight to place "young blood" in control, even at the cost of an intra-party battle, according to reports at the capitol today. If insurgent movements are successful, there will be a complete shakeup of republican leadership in the senate with younger men placed in charge of the party's legislative program.

In the house, through the defeat of former republican Leader Mondell of Wyoming, similar changes are expected.

Many Booms Launched.

Then senate fight will revolve around the election of a president to succeed Calvin Coolidge as permanent presiding officer. With the post paying $12,500 a year—$5,000 more than a senator's salary—it is a widely sought political plum. In addition, it gives its occupant the distinction of outranking the cabinet at all social and diplomatic affairs.

Senator Cummins, republican of Iowa, president pro tem in the last session, will be a candidate again, although he previously announced his determination not to run. Booms meanwhile have been launched for Senator Curtis, republican of Kansas; Senator Jones, republican of Washington; Senator Lenroot, republican of Wisconsin, and Wadsworth, republican of New York, and, as a result, the republican caucus may develop into a free for all political battle.

Want Lodge Retired.

At the same time republican insurgents are suggesting the retirement of Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, as republican leader and the selection of a younger man to head the party in the senate. As Lodge has a powerful following, a second plan is suggested for naming an assistant floor leader to direct the party in all debate, thus relieving Lodge of the leaderships most arduous tasks.

Strong party leaders are mentioning Senator "Jim" Watson of Indiana; Senator Wadsworth of New York and Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin for this post with Watson apparently having the "inside track."

If Lodge should retire, a dual leadership may be arranged with Senators Watson and Wadsworth sharing the honors. If Senator Curtis should be chosen president of the senate, another fight will develop over the naming of his successor as republican "whip." Among the names mentioned for this post if Curtis wins higher honors, are Senators Wadsworth, McNary of Oregon; Reed of Pennsylvania and Lenroot of Wisconsin.

Bank Robbed of $3,000

By International News Service.

HOLDEN, Mo., Aug. 17.—Posses are searching the vicinity of Kingsville, Mo., for two bank bandits, who early today robbed the bank of Kingsville and escaped with $3,000 cash.

The bandits parked a Ford car bearing an Oklahoma license at the rear door of the bank, entered the front door, and covering President Messick and Cashier Angel with revolvers, forced them to surrender the money.

Yields To Wanderlust

Yielding again to her wanderlust, Marguerite Harrison, globe-trotting lover of adventure, has sailed in quest of new thrills—only this time she has two partners in daring.

It was Mrs. Harrison, Baltimore society woman turned journalist, who in 1920 spent many months in a soviet prison. As a matter of fact, she was imprisoned twice by the soviet government charged with being an American spy.

Now she is about to embark upon an enterprise that will shortly take her into the few parts of the world she has never visited before.

She has formed an "adventure" partnership with Merian C. Cooper, traveler and writer, and Ernest Shrodesack, photographer. All three have the wanderlust and plan to indulge it to the full.

Starting from Constantinople in August, the trio will travel about Asia seeking strange adventures in spots the screage tourist never reaches. They will take pictures, both stills and movies, and Mrs. Harrison and Mr. Cooper will write their experiences for magazines and newspapers. New York Mail.

Elopes At 16

Mrs. Ralph Brill, nee Beatrice Kelly.

A childhood penny savings bank helped to finance the honeymoon of Beatrice Kelly, age 16, and Ralph Brill, age 18, who were successful in a second elopement which took them on an automobile trip through Indiana, Ill., and Michigan. Escaping the watchful eyes of her parents who had once before placed the girl in a school to avoid her eloping with Brill, the young couple pooled their finances, Brill's $25 a week pay and Miss Kelly's $25 penny savings, hired a "drive it yourself car" and flivved from Peoria to Joliet, Ill., where the knot was tied. The marriage certificate contains a big ink blot which got there where the groom tried to keep the justice from kissing the bride.

Mrs. Harding Leaves White House Home In Night Never To Return

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Quietly and almost unnoticed Mrs. Florence Kling Harding tonight left the White House, never to return, except possibly as a guest.

None of the crowds, none of the cheers, none of the excitement and none of the pleasurable anticipation that marked her arrival at the executive mansion on March 4, 1921, attended the departure into the gloom of a rainy night. The contrast was so noticeable that those who accompanied her away were plainly moved, but Mrs. Harding herself, whatever may have been her inner emotions, walked out of the door, across the portico and into the waiting automobile as calmly as she has passed through all the succession of trying hours that have been her lot in the last 15 days.

Shortly before 6 o'clock an automobile drew up to the north portico. It had waited for more than half an hour when another, bearing the coat of arms of the president of the United States, drove up and from it stepped Mrs. Coolidge, the new first lady of the land. She passed within the mansion and it was half an hour later and almost dark before there was another sign of activity.

Dressed in mourning, but without a veil, Mrs. Harding stepped out, followed by Mrs. Coolidge and George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late president.

Mrs. Harding went to "Friendship," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean, on the edge of Washington. There she expects to stay probably 10 days or two weeks before going to Marion to attend to the settlement of the late president's estate.

Although the White House is in readiness for them, President and Mrs. Coolidge do not expect to take up their residence there before the middle of next week.

GERMANY WANTS FRENCH PEACE

Conciliation Seen Possible By Son of German President

By FRITZ EBERT JR.
(Son of President Ebert of Germany.)
(Copyright, 1923, by International News Service.)

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—Chancellor Gustav Stresseman's maiden speech in the reichstag clearly opened the way for an understanding with France. If France will give up her humiliating and impossible demands, then conciliation will be possible also settlement.

Chancellor Stresseman's speech was significant. It was made at a time when beneath the surface, grave danger was threatening Germany.

Outside World Mistaken.

Bloody communist disorders had broken out which for a time seemed about to make the red aspirations successful. Also a general strike had been proclaimed. But, luckily the whole storm blew over just as the new cabinet made its debut.

The outside world, especially France, is grievously mistaken if it believes the new cabinet will crawl to Paris offering unconditional surrender and begging for mercy."

The new government stands as a bulwark against all attempts to annex or violate a single foot of German soil. This is proved by two developments:

First—Inclusion in the cabinet of Herr Soltmann, a Rhenish social democrat, as minister of interior.

Second—Creation of a special post called "minister of occupied territories" which will be administered by Dr. Fuchs, president of the Rhine province, who was expelled by the French.

This is proof of the consolidation of the young German republic.

The Stresseumann cabinet is backed up by the strongest parliamentary authority any nation has ever known.

It constitutes the final and supreme attempt to save Germany.

The commission formerly announced the operators and miners had agreed to renew their discussions at Atlantic City at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

City of Twenty Thousand To Live and Die in Week

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 17.—Fly-by-night towns in these days of newly discovered oil fields are becoming almost as common as transient stock promoters. But all records are broken when word goes out of a completely equipped city, built substantially with better public service than any pioneer town ever dreamed of but built with the understanding that in one week it will be torn down again.

This being the first year of the existence of the Annual International Petroleum Exposition and Congress, Tulsa has no permanent exposition buildings in which to stage the big conference of the industry, October 8 to 14. So the management intends to erect a steel-built "city" in which to house the exhibits, features and daily "population" of 20,000 oil men and visitors, and to tear them down again after the exposition.

The exposition grounds will have its own electric system, water, telephone and telegraph connections, its fire and police department, hospital, rest rooms, toilet facilities, food and refreshments, entertainment, and as active a business life as can be found in any town of its population in the country. Oil men are going to the exposition to enjoy themselves, but with their whole industry spread out in panorama before them, and everybody in the oil business there, October 8 to 14, 1923, promises to see more happen in the oil business than any other week since the Drake well.

WICHITA LIONS WELCOME CHIEF

Impromptu Luncheon Given For District Governor Visiting Here

When it was learned that Col. Louis C. Perry, commander of the military school at Terrell, and district governor of the international Order of Lions would be in the city for a few hours, a luncheon was called at the Kemp hotel Friday.

The Lions had planned not to hold their luncheons during July and August, but after the splendid attendance Thursday, it was decided to resume the regular weekly luncheons on Wednesday.

District Governor Perry is on his way to Albuquerque, N. M., where next Friday night he delivers a charter for a new Lions club for that city.

Perry is a forceful speaker and brought a great deal of enthusiasm and pep for Lionism. He spoke of the growth of the Lions that is going on very rapidly all over the United States, and Canada.

He says the Lions stand for "loyalty in our nation's security" and another slogan that means much is "Lions stand for militant faith in progress." Perry spoke at Burkburnett last evening and will attend the noon luncheon at Electra today.

This Is a Great Age

Without going into the question of nationality in art, I do think we know enough from psychology at present to believe that man produces out of his subconscious mind, that that subconscious mind is the well wherein all the early impressions are stored and it is probable that those early impressions are the ones that influence our minds most deeply. So it seems that men will be most apt to produce permanent and valuable things when they move along their own natural lines. Learn from other people all you can, but attach that knowledge to those natural lines.

We are living in a renaissance a time of great spiritual activity. In the lived during one of the great periods. That activit in this country has undoubtedly been increased by contact with the wonders of Europe, but let us be sure to use those things to increase our own creative activity; to use them neither merely to collect nor to copy. In the Italian Renaissance this is what happened: The old things showed what man had done, and the Italians said:

"We, too, are men such these; we, too, can create;" an dthe world was suddenly filled with the glory of their achievements. And then knowledge increased and the glory of their achievements. And then knowledge increased and the creative flame burned more feebly, and the power of the objects of the antique world became greater than the power of the soul of the antique world; the shadow was taken for the substance. See Santa Maria dei Miracoli in Venice, and see there the Renaissance alive with creative beauty, making something never before made in just that way; the spirit speaking again through vivid line and form. Then after long years, when man stopped dreaming and had walked up knowing facts and forgetting fancy, see the hopeless pile of stone in 6Paris called the Madeline.—North American Review.

Make Marriage Safe

Since congress is working on a bill for the establishment of uniform federal marriag and divorce laws, now is the time to get the thing on a sesible basis. Write to your congressman and insist on the incorporation of the following clauses regulating marriage.

5.—Doesn't like to get into evening clothes.
6.—Can't carve a roast.

1.—Insists on taking her escort's arm while walking along the street.
2.—Is likely to want frequent glasses of water.
3.—Reads aloud.
4.—Talks baby talk.
5.—Interrupts the telling of stories with corrections.
6.—Sings off-key.—Life.

Model of Crepe

Long, short or medium skirts—thus does the discussion waver. Paris said long for a time, but later dispatches say that an upward tendency is noted. Women this side of the water are loath to give up the freedom of the shorter skirt, and yet—dear me, "let us be fashionable or die." One might call a grucc—as long skirts as we wish for strictly dress affairs but medium—say six, eight or 10 inches from the floor—for street wear. Extremes are never in good taste, anyway.

This is an attractive model for an afternoon dress. It is made of gray georgette crepe and trimmed with sapphire blue chenille. (Bye the bye, chenille and other heavy appearing trimmings are going to be very popular.) The blouse of this gown extends to the hips and is shirred at each side seam. In the middle front is placed a handsome buckle with cameo setting. It is a sleeveless model. The neck is round. An effort is being made to get away from the bateau neck and return to the round or surplice with an occasional square.

The skirt is rather long and simply gathered onto the belt at the waist. The home dressmaker would find no difficulty in making a dress of this kind.

TAKES ADVICE OF HER FRIEND

Was Told That Stella Vitae Would Relieve Her Troubles and Finds Prediction True.

"I have thanked my friends a thousand times for advising me to take Stella Vitae, for it proved to be the very thing my system needed," said Mrs. Lula Henderson, a resident of Jumbo, Oklahoma, the other day.

"It was four years ago that I started taking Stella Vitae and I have taken it, off and on, ever since. Every month I suffered from terrible cramping spells that nearly killed me and often would get so blind I couldn't see a thing.

"It ended my troubles and gave me a grand appetite. Why, I have gained right along and now weigh a 150 pounds and feel just fine in every way."

Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief.—Adv.

ZONAGALE

In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

THREE ON THE DRIVE

Eight o'clock in the morning, and the North Shore drive is bright with the bodies of motors. A wine-colored car, beautifully turned out, and by its chauffeur in inobvious livery retarded to the slow pace of the lesser cars, has but one occupant: A woman of 25, as perfectly turned out as the car.

Her face has not beauty alone, but shows that slow, fashioning, cell on cell, to which generations have contributed. A face meditative tender.

She is off for a visit—on the seat beside the driver are two bags, and the smooth, black canvas is covering, one is sure, initiated morocco in its turn enclosing silver fittings and exquisite garments.

You know that you could trust shoes, gloves, peacock-beaded bag to be admirable. She makes you unconscious of fragrance. She is race and environment and economic ease incarnate.

A bell sounds. A patrol, impatient at even the skimming flight of the cars, is asking to pass, does pass, slips into the line just before the wine-bodied car. In the patrol, on the side seats, are two women. They are toward 25, in cheap, neat suits, and casual hats; they are gloveless, and they carry worn leather handbags. Their faces are still fresh and wholesome, and now their looks are bewildered.

They are talking in absorptive, not excitedly, tones but with a thoughtfulness, listening eo each other, evidently agreeing. Whatever it is, they cannot make it out.

It is all beyond them. It is unquestionably beyond them to discern just how they came to be here where they are. They do not even see the woman in the wine-bodied car.

She, however, sees them. Not with aversion or pity, but with something else. With a look widening upon more than the wagon or the woman. A sense of immense escape, of personal evasion of the byss. She is close to those two, she can see their inert hands, their awkwardly placed feet. One is shaking hands. "No, no, no," as if she were saying "no" to all of her life. Then the wine-car's chauffeur sees an aisle in the traffic, darts into it, and the two women are forever lost.

And the woman in her car is thinking thankfully and almost tenderly: "There, but for the grace of God, go I."

"There, but for the grace of God, go I."

Once another woman put it like this: "What have I done that I should be so protected, so loved, so loaded with comforts, when other women—"

And she was conscious of nothing save an added responsibility to spend her money carefully.

"There, but for the grace of God go I."

That slow-fashioning, cell on cell, to which the generations have contributed. Race, environment, economic ease, sacrifices of a thousand ancestors and their workers, of teachers, growers and fashioners of food. All swept up in one complacent phrase:

"There, but for the grace of God, go I."

Is it enough? Complacence, gratitude, responsibility, are these enough? Is it not more than this? How, if one were to look on these others and say:

"There go I?"

News Notes Movie Land

Corinne Griffith has again demonstrated the estimation in which her talents are held in the cinema world. She has been chosen to play the part of Madame Zattiany in the screen version of Gertrude Atherton's popular novel, "Black Oxen," for First National. This role and the one given to Blanche Sweet, the lead in the play "Anna Christie," are the prize roles of the screen this year.

In "Black Oxen," you remember, Miss Griffin has to portray the role of an elderly woman rejuvenated through science—a much more difficult one, we would say, than that of an out-and-out old lady.

Frank Lloyd, director of "Oliver Twist," "Within the Law," and other big successes, has been engaged to direct.

A strong cast has been lined up for Viola Dana's new Metro picture, "The Social Code." In addition to Miss Dana's own sister, Edna Flugrath, who reecntly came here from England and who will make her first American screen appearance in this picture, there are Huntly Gordon, Mary Ruby, John Sainpolis, William Humphrey, Yvonne Gardell and Cyril Chadwick.

Rose Dion, French actress who plays a leading role in Rex Ingram's massive production for Metro, "Scaramouche," served as a nurse all through the world war. She entertained at camps and hospitals during the day and did active nursing duty each night.

A man who loves his neighbors is James Morrison, who is now appearing before the camera in Metro's all-star picturization of Peter Clarke MacFarlane's famous novel, "Held to Answer." Mr. Morrison had the leading roles in "The Little Girl Next Door," leading cinemas of their time.

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl of 15. I have a boy friend of whom I think a lot. He takes me to our own basketball games in town, but mother does not allow me to stay out late at night. He is very nice-looking and has a good reputation.

When I say that I think a lot of him, I do not mean that I am in love, as I do not care to be in love at such an early stage in life. He says he loves me, and I honestly believe he does, but I do not care to talk about love yet. What shall I tell him?

Christmas he gave me a beautiful and expensive present. I gave him my photo in return. He also gave me a lovely box of candy for my birthday. Not long ago I noticed that he did not have a scarf, such as the boys are wearing, and so I bought one and gave it to him. Did I do right?

Do you think I am too young to go out of town with him to ball games?

At what time do you think I should be in when it is not on school night?

Please tell me how I may entertain my girl friend, her boy friend and mine, besides visiting, playing cards and making candy?

QUESTION BOX.

Tell the boy that you are too young to think and talk of love, and therefore you want him to regard you as a friend and to stop talking of love. Since he is notably very young himself, he would show better judgment if he waited a few years before he declared his love.

There is nothing particular wrong in giving the boy a scarf, since you did it from the kindness of your heart. It is considered better taste, however, to give very few, if any, presents to boys. The gift on Christmas or his birthday would have been all right, although I usually advise merely a greeting or book on such occasions.

Yes, you are too young to go out of town with the boy to ball games.

You are too young to be out later than 10 o'clock, and even that is a late hour for a little girl of 15.

Sometimes young people are musical and spend the evening playing the piano and singing. If such a plan does not appeal to you, you might read a short story. If you want game suggestions, get a book on the subject at the library.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a married man and find myself falling in love with a young lady in my office. The worst of it is that I cannot stop thinking about her when I am at home. She works well and doesn't do anything to make me care for her. Therefore, I feel cheap to get rid of her. What would you advise me to do?

MARRIED MAN.

The only safe way is for you to get rid of the girl. Perhaps you can secure a good position for her with some friend. At least, you can tell her that you find you must let her go, but will give her a good recommendation.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: If you were a man, and a girl pretended to care for you, but went with another man with a machine, and never told the truth except by accident, changed her mind with every change of the moon, if she flirted with other men while riding with you made promises only to break them, made appointments she never would fill, and talked from morning to night to 24 boys at least, what would you do?

DESPERATE.

It is easy to see what you ought to do. You ought to drop the girl and find peace of mind with some one else. Probably her very indifference whets your interest and makes you desire her even more than as though she were desirable.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Waffles—One and three-fourths cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon melted or liquid fat, one cup of milk, two eggs, whites and yolks separated. Sift dry ingredients, make hollow in center and drop in yolks of eggs, fat and milk, beat well, beat whites stiff, fold in last.

Biscuits with Cheese—Use recipe for ordinary baking powder biscuits and before adding the milk to the dry ingredients put in from a quarter of a cup to a half a cup grated cheese. Add milk and bake as usual.

Breaded Beef Tongue—If a fresh tongue is used salt the water in which it is cooked. Wash tongue, place in eight-quart kettle. Use enough water to half cover, and cook at simmering temperature for two hours for a fresh tongue or four hours if a corned tongue is used. When tender peel off skin, brush over with beaten egg and sprinkle with bread crumbs and brown in oven.

Sponge Cake—Six eggs, one cup sugar, grated rind and juice of half of a lemon, one cup of flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat yolks slightly, add sugar gradually and beat with egg beater. Add grated rind and juice of lemon and salt and continue beating until thick and creamy and light colored. Partially fold in egg whites sift in dry ingredients little at a time alternating with whites. They must be gently folded in, not beaten, until the white of the egg is folded out of sight. Bake in ungreased pan.

SUGGESTIONS.

In many households where it is the custom to serve bacon for breakfast the fat accumulates. Clarify it and use it for biscuits or pie crust.

Enough pie crust for several pies may be mixed at one time if placed in the ice box. It will remain in good condition for several days ready to be filled and baked when needed.

In cooking potatoes it is a saving of time and labor to cook enough for two meals. Those not needed for the first meal may be escalloped, creamed, fried, or served in salad or au gratin.

Funnels of various sizes are among the most useful of kitchen utensils. One with a wide opening to fill fruit jars at canning time is indispensible. A large one with a small opening to fill the oil heater, the vinegar jug and etc., and a tiny enameled one for emptying medicine from one bottle to another, replenishing the vinegar in the glass cruet, and numerous other uses, or other conveniences that the housewife would not willingly be without once she has used them.

DRIFTING LOVERS

Like Gypsies, they wander down the long country road, hand in hand, looking neither to the right or the left—superbly contented with each other—listening to the birds and the bees, and enjoying the flowers and the open sky.

Skipping, laughing, dancing, they frolic down life's lane—singing, whistling, playing, they merrily drift along.

Life is big and full at the drifting time—life is sweet and heavenly sixteen.

When a girl is too young to consider marriage and a boy is too youthful to begin his career—then is the time they pass through the drifting stage of love.

No worry about the future, no anxiety about the coming year.

Young love's drifting time—would that it could last for ever!

MAY THEIR JOYS INCREASE

Wichita Falls has its guests the members of the Northwest Texas Press association. While they may not be many in number these men represent their various communities as only the editor of a small newspaper can. They help to formulate the thought of that community; they join in sending men to the state legislature, to the governor's chair and to congress, they build towns and commonwealths.

For the editor of a so-called country newspaper, or weekly newspaper, by reason of his intimate touch with the affairs of his community, probably knows more about that community than any other man in it. He is acquainted with their likes and dislikes and with sincere effort, he strives to keep everybody happy. There are exceptions, of course, which only prove the rule.

His labors are for the best interests of the community, and he enjoys the wholesome respect of the great majority of his fellows. Often he does not receive the material things that are due him, but he makes up for it in that he lives life and knows life to its utmost. It is a part of his craft.

Wichita Falls is glad to have the editorial minds of Northwest Texas as its guests, and they are entitled to the best that this city can give them. For in the building of this section of a state with limitless possibilities, no one plays a greater and more conscientious part than the man who is proud to be known throughout the world

More power to the editors of Northwest Texas. May their joys increase.

IN GEORGIA

Atlanta is one of the progressive cities of the south. Atlanta is the grand opera city of the south, east of the Mississippi river. Grand opera is an educational and cultural proposition and the representitive men of Atlanta are ever behind those who make it possible for the great artists of the world to give a singing festival there every year.

And now the Georgia legislature is in session. And now the "hilly-billy" are rolling high. There is a Georgia legislator, Pope by name, who introduced a bill providing for a tax of $2500 a year on grand opera in Atlanta. This was his argument in support of his bill:

"I say let us tax the crowd that attends grand opera the luxury rolling, silk rolling, diamond wearing, monkey and poodle dog nursing and abbreviated apparel wearing gang."

Great is democracy. Magnificent in its productivity of cultural and educational blossom is the direct primary of Georgia which sends to the hall of legislation such so-called statesmen of the Pope brand.

And yet Georgia gave to America Lamars, Hills, Gordons, Colquitts, Browns and other names written high and deep in historic scrolls in the years agone.

ing new fields.

THIS IS THE GASOLINE AGE.

According to the trade journals there are 13,500,000 motor vehicles in the United States and the output this year will touch the 3,500,000 mark. Furthermore production of petroleum in the United States this year is expected to establish a new high record.

According to the trade papers devoted to the petroleum industry domestic production and imports which make up the supply for this country are estimated at 692,369,000 barrels, an increase of eight per cent over the previous year. In the year 1909 the records show 167,000,000 barrels were used and since that year there has been a progressive increase of ten per cent.

In the past eight years the rate of increase has been eleven per cent annually. During the present year at the existing rate of consumption about 650,000,000 barrels will be required. In 1920 there was $3,542,000,000 invested in lands and wells in the producing branch of the petroleum industry in the United States, and it is estimated by men connected with the Standard Oil organization that almost a similar amount will be needed between now and the middle of 1925 to drill new wells to take care of the gasoline needs of the United States. It has been well said that there is no other basic industry in the United States that has grown so rapidly in the past decade as the production of petroleum.

Texas takes third place today as a producer of petroleum and in Texas the surface of oil bearing sands hasn't been scratched. There is money in petroleum. It is one of the greatest games in the world. America has the greatest motor manufacturing plants of the world and it is well to recall that the ever growing demand for gasoline which is the occasion for this large production of petroleum has increased at even a more rapid rate than the production of the product.

It is said that since 1916 when compilation of gasoline statistics was begun the annual rate of increase of the use of gasoline has been 16.9 per cent. It is also stated that the difference between this rate of increase and the lower rate of increase of crude production has been made up by distillation with improved methods.

Think of a nation with 13,500,000 gas burning motor vehicles! Think of a people who are able to buy 3,500,000 motor vehicles, all brand new, in a single year! All the big oil companies are developing foreign properties. There is a reason for it. Consumption in the United States, together with exports to foreign countries aggregated 646,000,000 barrels in the year ended June 30, 1923, an increase of twenty percent over the previous year while production and imports also increased twenty percent

There has been a record output in California, Texas, Arkansas and other western fields in the past six months.

However leaders in the oil industry are spending as much time developing new fields at home and abroad as they are in making room for the handling of the oil now being produced in the United States. They say that the flush production in California, Wyoming, Texas and Arkansas will not last and because of the record increase in consumption efforts are being directed to open-

THE SOUL - SCAR

By HELEN DUFF

Why cavil about a little thing like distance? Thank your lucky stars you are 300 miles away and don't have to get hourly bulletins from the love market. I've listened to eulogies until my ears ache.

It would appear that you have already met your son-to-be—five years ago aboard the Empress Something-or-other, coming back from China. Frankly, Warburton, I always thought that story of a derelict and a native crew that thought they were being torpedoed buy a submarine was just one of your yarns. But Natalie assures me that Schuyler Channing was the hero of the occasion—that he prevented a mutiny and kept the crew from seizing the life boats. Though what's so heroic in throwing a few Chinamen overboard is more than I can see. Personally, after the experience I had last year with Oriental servants, I would be glad to know that all of them were at the bottom of the ocean.

It may interest you to know, however, that the boat you were on is one of the Java-Pacific line, operated by Mr. Channing, senior, and that Schuyler was stoking his way back from China to outwit his father, who had purposely stranded him there to keep him out of the army. So you see what you are coming to. Natalie and he under one roof—you won't have an idle moment, which is just as well.

No: there is absolutely no use in your coming here. It is too late; you can't do anything about it. Besides, I might as well confess the truth—we are all in quarantine. Chickenpox is not as amusing as it sounds. I have been in bed for a week, and two of the other guests came down yesterday. If this is an adventure, then I'm going to spend the rest of my days daraing socks. My love to the family.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

Into What Sized Farms Should the Surplus Lands on the Irrigation Project be Divided?

The size of the average irrigated farm orchard.

Of the four tree fruits, peaches, plums, pears, and apricots, that are known to grow here successfully, we have found on careful analysis only two to be worthy of seri us consideration from a commercial standpoint. These two are peaches and pears.

From all the data we have it is apparent that peaches are more likely to be commercially successful than pears, but the pear must be allowed a place in the commercial orchard.

Now comes the question of what proportion of each should be planted. Certainly peaches should be allowed a greater acreage than pears. Just how much more is a matter of individual choice, but our suggestion would be four acres of peaches to one acre of pears. This is based on our judgement of the probable money value of the two crops.

Anyone planting a large orchard here should be familiar not only with fruit growing on a large scale but should understand the marketing of perishable fruits. The average farmer has had no such training.

Evaporators' canneries and marketing organizations, are essential to a large production of peaches and pears on account of their perishable nature. We may or may not have such facilities here.

From the above it is apparent that orcharding on the average farm by the average farmer should be limited. Probable 5 to 10 acres is all that should be planted. If 500 farmers plant from 5 to 10 acres each the aggregate acreage would amount to from 2,500 to 5,000 acres which would be sufficient to justify the formation of marketing associations and the erection of evaporators and canneries.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

SATURDAY, AUGUST 18

Today is fairly good, generally speaking, although there are some slightly adverse influences operating. These encourage carelessness in workmanship, and cause irritability. If you start right, everything will go nicely throughout the day. Try to remember to be kind and considerate of other people's feelings and do not be too stern and positive. Affairs of the heart will progress rapidly, provided you are gentle and not forceful.

A child born today will dwell in an ideal world which will vanish as it matures.

However humble their origin, Leo characters, those born between July 21 and August 22, are invariably proud of their ancestors. In the highest type the Leo faith becomes marvelous and the life is frequently devoted to doing good for others. At its worst, the Sun in Leo gives an emotive, passionate, nature; the weakest are led through their feelings into dissipation and extravagance, but the good qualities never seem really extinguished and they often rise from degradation to the heights of heroism and self-sacrifice.

If today is your birthday, you should seduously cultivate your will power, for if you will to do a thing you usually do it, good or bad.

You have some decided tastes in regard to colors and sounds. You have, in fact, the artist's senses and rather than have them irritated, you prefer not to have them gratified at all.

Emotionally, you are impulsive, affectionate, and at times dangerously amorous. The last is because your way of life is erratic and incomplete.

You should strive to live more abundantly every day, and the same way from day to day. You cannot have an emotional spree any more than a liquid spree without paying for it. The former in some ways is more dangerous than the latter; that is, if you aspire to marriage of the right sort. With your will you can curb any excessiveness of this character.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

Robley D. Evans, "Fighting Bob," naval officer.

FIRST HENRIETTA COTTON GINNED

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Aug. 17.—The first bale of cotton ginned in Henrietta this season was ginned today by M. B. Powell, ginner. The cotton was grown by S. S. Ogletree, who resides eight miles southwest of Henrietta.

In addition to ginning the cotton Mr. Powell purchased both the bale and the seed, paying 24 cents for the staple and $35.00 per ton for the seed.

This marks the opening of the seed market in Henrietta at a good substantial price.

She Nursed Two Presidents

Miss Ruth Powderly, who nursed President Harding in his fatal illness in San Francisco, might be called the Florence Nightengale of the white house.

It was Miss Powderly who stood by, ever watching and helping, through the long, anxious weeks that Mrs. Harding lay at death's door in the white house, the weeks in which anxiety and apprehension placed added burdens burdens upon the shoulders of the president.

She witnessed and aided Mrs. Harding in her successful fight against the malady and was present through the long period of convalescence.

Then, when the president became ill, it was Miss Powderly who was called to his bedside, to minister to him as she had to Mrs. Harding.

She was present at that last conversation between the president and his wife.

Perhaps her memory went back to another time when she had fought for another president's life, that of Woodrow Wilson.

Femininity has its own way of posting a simple, everyday letter, according to one keen observer. For instance, out of thirty women who were watched at a street letter box in the residential section of a large city, twenty-one withdrew the letter before quite letting go of it, to scan both sides of the envelope, to be certain the letter was securely sealed, properly addressed, stamped and to make sure nobody could look through the envelope to read the contents.

THE HEIGHT OF CRUELTY

(A judge has awarded a divorce on the ground of cruelty to a woman whose husband called her a snake.)

Into a court there came one day
A lady young and fair
With many streaks of silver gray
Amid her chestnut hair,
And when the judge asked her complaint,
Which happened in due course,
She said in accents low and faint:
"I want, sir, a divorce."

"Upon what ground?" the judge remarked,
His features quite severe.
"Your husband has perhaps embarked
Upon a wild career?
Or did he beat you like a brute
And cause your tears to flow,
That you came here to bring this suit?"
The lady answered "No!"

"My dear young woman," said the judge,
"What can your reason be?
Have you been made a household drudge—
Is that, perhaps, your plea?"
The lady, but ten years a bride,
With sobs began to shake:
"He was so cruel," she replied,
"He said I was a snake!"

The judge recovered with a start
His equilibrium.
"The wretch," he said, "he has no heart,
The base, malignant bum!
No member of the human race
Could treat a lady so:
I never heard of such a case;
Take your divorce and go!"

WHAT WILL HENRY DO THEN?

"Jinks, your Grace," repeated the curate, raising his voice.

"I'm awfully deaf," apologized the duchess. "Would you mind saying it just a little louder?"

"Jinks, your Grace," he almost yelled.

"I'm sorry," said the duchess, giving it up. "It sounds just like 'Jinks' to me.

Steers Rally Wildly In Ninth But Lose 6 to 5

RIP WHEELER HOLDS DALLAS IN HAND UNTIL NINTH BUT EDDIE DYER SAVES BIG GAME

Eddie Shows 'Em How It's Done When He Takes Mound In Ninth With One Down and Two on Bases, Pops Out Connolly and Whizzes Three By Vache.

BY BILLIE SMITH.

A wild rally in the ninth inning by the wild Steers fell just one run short of tieing the score, giving the Spudders the first game of the series yesterday, 6-5.

Till the ninth inning, Rip Wheeler had kept his rope around Morris' so called wild gang of ball players in tight tension, but in this round the Steers stampeded Wheeler for four hits and three runs before Rip decided that he had had enough for one day.

Dyer Life-Saver.

With the winning and tieing runs on bases and only one man out, Eddie Dyer relieved Wheeler. The first batter to face Dyer popped out weakly to short, while Vache, the hard hitting Steer center fielder, was a strike out victim of Eddie's fast ball.

A fat third inning rally had put the Spudders four runs in the lead. The way they continued to hit Morris throughout the game, put the danger sign far out of their path. In every inning except one, the Spudders obtained hits, although they failed to score in but two innings.

Wheeler pitched a steady game until the ninth inning when two singles, a walk and two more singles, all in succession, put over three runs and forced the Ripper to the club house. Once or twice Wheeler got into tight places but with good support, he managed to pull through without any material damage. In the fourth inning, Vache tripled against the center field green boards to start things off. Donohue went out to Berger, while Tanner threw out Griffin. Segrist, the next batter up, lined a hot one to second that Barrett pulled in by making a good one handed leap.

Buddy Tanner, who here of late is playing the best ball of any player on the club, and what is probably the best playing that Buddy has done during his long career, was the sensation of the day.

Buddy made almost impossible catches of foul flies, while he stabbed many ground balls that were labeled for hits. In the fifth inning Buddy ran in between the grandstand and the "knot-hole" bleachers to take in Mathes' foul fly.

Scrap Iron Hits Hard.

At the bat Morris found old Scrap Iron hard to get out. In five times at bat Tanner secured three singles and walked once, while he scored one of the six runs. His single in the first scored Grigsby for the first run of the game.

Williams the outfielder recalled from Paris of the East Texas league got into the game, playing left field. He secured a scratch single while he hit the ball hard in his other appearances at bat. In the field his playing was faultless. He took Lingle's double in the third and had Mathes at the plate with a perfect peg, but Jonnard muffed the throw, allowing the runner to score.

The Spudders brought first blood in the opening round. Grigsby walked and was sacrificed by Williams. Tanner scored Grigsby with a single to right. In the second Berger got a hit, but could not navigate around.

Dalals put over a two run lead momentarily, in the third. Segrist doubled to right and scored on Lingle's double to the same place. Morris sacrificed Segrist to third and Segrist scored on Hamilton's fly to left.

Incidentally this fellow Lingle, who isn't supposed to be the best batter on the Dallas club, by a large percentage, rapped out four hits in four times up. His hitting figured in three of the Steer's scores.

All Hit In Third.

Every man in the Spudder lineup got a chance at bat in the third, while Denver Grigsby batted twice. All the scoring came after two men were out. Tanner walked and went to second on Cotter's single. Weiss was hit by a pitched ball filling the bases. Barrett bounced a hit over Segrist's head and on Hamilton's wild throw to first Tanner and Cotter scored. Barrett scored on Berger's single, and scored himself on Jonnard's double to center. Wheeler also secured a single.

Tanner and Cotter also got singles in the fourth, while Berger got a double in the fifth. In the sixth, Williams and Tanner both got hits. Cotter and Weiss flied out, Barret walked, but Berger fouled out to Griffin. In the eighth, Cotter doubled and went to third on Weiss' single, but Barrett ended the inning by grounding out.

For Dallas, Vache tripled in the fourth but was left stranded by his mates. Lingle and Morris, the first two batters up in the fifth, singled, but the next three men were retired, mostly with the aid of good fielding by Tanner.

In the ninth, Griffin led off by flying out to center. Segrist and Lingle singled in succession, and Morris walked, filling the bases. Wano scratched a single over Berger's head, scoring Segrist, and both Lingle and Morris scored on Mathes' single to left.

Out Goes Rip.

At this stage of the game Wheeler took himself out, and Dyer was sent into the battle. Connolly popped out to Berger on the first ball pitched. Evidently Manager Salm had intended for Kunz to pitch to Vache, a right-handed batter, as things were held up a few seconds while Kunz was warming up. But Dyer decided that he could pitch to Vache, so fed him three wide ones on the outside corners, on which Vache took three healthy swings.

CHAMPION WILSON TO ASH CAN?

Harry Greb May Pull Stunt August 31

Champion Johnny Wilson, left, and Harry Greb, the challenger.

The jolly boxers and fight promoters have taken the old slogan, "Make hay while the sun shines," and turned it into something like this:

"Make k. o.'s while the money's coming in."

For while the public seems to be in a receptive mood for championship battles the ring experts—from the glove and money ends—are giving them their fill.

We have in the offing now the sixth real championship fight in a period of three months. This is the scheduled titular affair between Johnny Wilson, holder of the world's middleweight championship, and Harry Greb, the man from whom the windmill builders got their idea.

The two will meet August 31 at the Polo Grounds, in New York.

Wilson virtually was forced into the match. Some time ago the two lads promised somebody to meet and when Wilson's manager became Panici (Wilson's real name) the fight was called off. The New York state boxing commission promptly announced that Wilson could confine his ring activities to other states until he met the Pittsburgh buzzsaw. Wilson weakened when he read the accounts of the gate receipts at the Criqui-Dundee and Leonard-Tendler fights and signed up for the postponed affair.

Wilson is much like the famous goat who took on the Twentieth Century Limited. He must be credited with plenty of nerve even if one questions his judgment.

Greb will outweigh him. The Pittsburgher is more of a light heavyweight—has fought the best men in that class and licked them. May we not point to his victory over Tommy Gibbons? One need only recall Tom's fight with the overrated Jack Dempsey to establish Mr. Gibbons' class as a pugilist and, by the same token, Greb's class.

Wilson lacks the science and ring generalship of Gibbons and has no greater nerve.

The clumsy, wild-swinging Bryan Downey makes a monkey out of Wilson. What the fantastical Greb, with his whirling dervish stuff, will do to Wilson is a problem, of course, but he ought to make the Boston boy dizzy if not seasick.

Greb made a clever move when he signed to fight Mickey Walker, welterweight champ, in a no-decision affair of eight rounds before taking on Wilson. The battle with Walker will allow Greb to tune himself up for the match with Wilson.

Wilson, on the other paw, has been taking life easy just like honest-to-goodness champions do.

So maybe we'll see another ring crown dumped into the fragrant ash can shortly.

On with the dance!

Harry Ryan Outpoints Country Boy Lance In Ten Rounds Of Boxing

Kid Snyder Victor Again In Technical Knockout.

In the classiest exhibition of boxing staged by the American Legion this season, Harry Ryan of Dallas, received the referee's decision over "Country Boy" Lance of Gainesville, in a 10 round bout last night before 2,000 fight fans at the opening of the new Legion arena next to the Spudder ball park.

Of the 10 rounds, Ryan outpointed Lance in seven, had a draw in two, and lost one by a close margin. The only round Lance could justly lay claim to was the fourth, while the lad from Dallas outfought his opponent in the corners.

Ryan's clever ring work gained the decision for him.

He frequently led Lance into a mix up to trade one blow for two. Lance had considerable trouble in placing his blows, as Ryan would usually be just out of reach or just underneath a swing. Ryan toyed with Lance until he forced him into a corner. Once in the corner, Ryan would cut loose with a volley of rights and lefts that usually hit the mark.

Ryan Hard to Hit.

Lance simply could not hit Ryan. In the first few rounds he missed blow after blow, and while so doing would leave an opening for Ryan to place a well aimed punch or a slashing uppercut. However, at uppercutting, both fighters were often guilty of swinging wild.

The first round went to Ryan for the reason that he dodged so many of Lance's swings if not for anything else. The next two rounds were much closer. Lance won out by a close margin in the fourth, but the next four rounds went to the Dallasite. The last two were hard fought, both fighters getting in some clean blows.

Kid Snyder, the pride of Burkburnett, handed Sailor Davis, of San Francisco, five rounds of unmerciful punishment, the fight being stopped in the fifth after Davis appeared to be so groggy that he could not stand in the ring. Davis showed plenty of nerve and had not the fight been stopped, he would probably have continued till he could have no longer stood up.

"Strangler" Hartwell of Iowa Park, gained a fall over "Cowboy" Rogers of Burkburnett, in 17 minutes. The two wrestlers were evenly matched, Hartwell winning out after he had punished Rogers with a deadening shoulder lock.

"Kid" Wichita fell victim to Kit Weyman in a three round bout. The two blacks mixed it in a lively manner while they were in there, but Wichita could not stand the punishment that Weyman poured on him. The battle royal resulted in a draw with "Battling" Gans and "Battling" Hunt the last two in the ring.

How About Permanent Berth For Jimmy Austin To Manage Browns?

Are baseball moguls overlooking a bet in not giving Jimmy Austin a real chance at managing a big league ball club?

Jim, for the second time, has taken a badly demoralized ball club in hand to do with as best he can while the Brown owners are looking for a permanent (?) manager. And as he did last time, he is getting results that are pleasing.

First of all Jim seems to bring the club down to its feet. He does not start it off on a winning streak, but he does get conscientious efforts out of the men—no matter what their attitude was when he took charge.

There can be no question raised as to his ability to handle men.

He apparently has the brains, too. He ranks as one of the smartest men that ever cavorted around third base. He reads batters and pitchers well and knows inside baseball from the inside out.

Perhaps the one shortcoming Austin has, when it comes to being manager, is his failure to impress the fans with his ability. He is unassuming, quiet and even retiring in disposition. Any orders or suggestions he hands out from the bench are doled out in a quiet manner. So seems, almost, to lack the necessary fight. This, however, is wrong. He has the same fighting spirit, the desire to win, that he had on the field.

There are going to be more changes in the big league managerial ranks before next season. Personally, we'd like to see Austin get a real chance.

Jimmy Austin.

BUFFS AND EXPORTERS BATTLE TO 9-9 TIE

BEAUMONT, Aug. 17.—Beaumont and Houston battled for two hours and 50 minutes in the last game of the series, the contest ending in a nine-inning tie when darkness interferred. DeMaggio's failure to field a short fly to left in the ninth with two out gave Fortier a double. Shultz followed with his two ply swat and the game, seemingly won by the Exporters, was forced to a draw. There was abundant hitting throughout and much disputing with the umpires.

New Use for Airplane

Every day that passes suggests a new use for the airplane. The latest revelation comes from southern England, where photographs are taken by O. G. S. Crawford show the completest preservation of the boundaries between the fields of the ancient Celtic inhabitants who dwelt in England before the coming of the Romans and Saxons.

From the ground almost all vestiges of the ancient system of division have long since vanished, but photographs from the field still show the ancient field boundaries as a kind of pattern seen through those of the present day. The air photographs reveal earthworks which the observer on the ground can scarcely see.

The Celts appear to have made their boundaries of broad low banks in which they placed a good deal of chalk. Although the banks have vanished to a great extent, the earth where they once were retains a lighter color because of the mingling of small grains of chalk in the soil.

A definite relationship can be seen between the fields, roads and the sites of ancient villages. Mr. Crawford even thinks that he sees evidence of an ancient system of irrigation. The boundaries are supposed to be from 1,500 to 2,500 years old.—The Living Age.

National grants of land in aid of education were first made in this country in 1803.

NOW COMES MOURNFUL HOWL ON PITCHERS

Kaufman and Pillett Accused Of Trick Deliveries

Two hurlers said to have new "trick" deliveries. Tony Kaufman of Cubs, at left, and Herman Pillette of Tigers

Well, well, well!

Pitching's getting a bit tough for some of the boys in the big show once more. So we have the howl of "freak pitching."

Aforesaid puzzled batters rise to remark that while the spitball, shine ball, emery ball and haven't been resurrected since they were officially banned several enterprising pitchers have perfected wierd slants which are just as puzzling, albiet legal.

Which may or may not amount to anything. But here's two tales we would unfold.

Early in the year Tony Kaufmann, young flinger with the Cubs showed great promise. Grover Alexander took him under his famous wing and taught him curves, change of pace. Tony began to deliver but his stock in trade was not compete enough. Then all at once he started to win. He's the sensation of the league—outside Adolfo Luque—right now. And the reason is that he has perfected a "screw ball." Tis said that, with the aid of peculiar motion of the wrist and a couple of oriental cuss words, he puts a complicated twist on the ball which makes it do funny didoes shortly after the batter begins a healthy swing to strike it where it ought to be.

And while the National league fans are talking about that along comes the American league "students" with the statement that Herman Pilette, Detroit ace last year, has climbed back to his former position of prominence with the aid of the "callous ball." The name is derived from the presence of a callous on the index finger of his pitching claw. This callous palmed Pillette when he released the ball over the end of his fingers.

So Pillette found a way to let go of the ball without having it "ride" the end of that digit.

There you have it.

Figures don't lie. The records of the two look good. But the figures don't say anyting about how they are doing it.

The WATER'S FINE

Says William Bachrach

I.A.C. Coach Who Reveals How 20 Swimmers Trained to Become Champions

We have had in previous articles something about the spectacular speed swimming, and something about the principles of breath control. The latter is a subject in which all beginners are interested. They puzzle about and grope eagerly to find some practical hints to explain it.

They may paddle around for years, fighting the water and fighting their lungs, making little or no progress. They wonder what is wrong, but there is no one to tell them. If they could only find out, it would open a new vista to them. It would bring a new era. Their abilities would be multiplied as if over night.

For this reason I plan to go into considerable detail. Having taught swimming for 25 years I have come to appreciate the importance of this subject. I speak of it so that others may not underestimate this section of the series.

In the last lesson I told you the theory of breath control. Now in this lesson I hope to be able to give you the exercises so you can put this theory into practice.

First, it is advisable to have a little preliminary drill on dry land. I would suggest that you sit down in a comfortable chair. Open your mouth by relaxing your lower jaw enough to say "Ah-ah!" or to take a bite out of a big chocolate cake at a picnic.

Then relax your diaphram. As you do this the air pressure forces the air into your lungs through your mouth. Do not stuff your lungs. Take what ever air the outside pressure puts in naturally. Just take a quick bite.

Why It Makes You Dizzy.

Your lungs are now normally filled. Shut your mouth, compress your lips and order your diaphram to squeeze the air out of your lungs through your compressed lips, just as the hand would squeeze the air out of the hole in a soft rubber ball. To get the proper shape to the mouth, just imagine you are playing a cornet.

Do not blow out all your air. Keep a little. If you inhale and exhale more than normally in this exercise, you will get more oxygen that your lungs are accustomed to. This may make you light-headed. If you get dizzy while doing this exercise you will know why.

Natural breathing is somewhere between 16 and 22 times a minute. Try to do this unnatural exercise at the natural pace. The mouth is not opened wide for the purpose of stuffing your lungs, but to enable you to get your air easily and quickly and to decrease suction. In this exercise the mouth should snap open at the finish of the exhalation and take a quick bite.

Take your breath very quickly and blow it out slowly. Are you dizzy after doing this? If you are, it is because you stuff yourself inhaling and you blow out too much air exhaling, as I told you a while back.

16 to 22 Times a Minute.

Are you relaxed as you sit in your chair practicing this exercise? You probably will notice a decided tendency to tense your muscles. Relax. Try to keep up the regular, steady breathing pace of 16 to 22 times a minute.

Now that you have gained some idea of voluntary breathing, let's try to put it into practice.

Take a breath, fill your lungs, shut your mouth and hold your breath for a few seconds. Now with extra compression on your lips, give a forcible explosive blow to empty your lungs.

Immediately open your mouth and let the air run into your lungs. Follow this up by breathing very easily and normally all with your mouth, of course, until you get back to normal.

Always open your mouth wide when you inhale. To the beginner this gaping looks ungainly, but if you watch any experienced swimmer you will notice that he always opens his mouth wide when he inhales. The forceful explosive exhale will be used to advantage in the next lesson, which will be in the water.

A Tonic for Golfers

By Jock Hutchison

ONLY AMERICAN WINNER OF BRITISH OPEN

Prescribed by
JOCK HUTCHINSON
Former American Winner of the British Open Golf Championship.

First American Golf Clubs, Golf In Name Only, Says Hutchinson.

There has been some dispute about the origin of golf in America. I read an article in a recent magazine from the pen of Chick Evans which stated that we were all wrong in the idea that the first golf played in this country was played at Yonkers, N. Y., on the old "Apple" Tree course laid out by the late John Reid.

Chick bases his argument on some old newspaper clippings which were taken from old files of papers published over a hundred years ago at Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C. He has clipped no less than a dozen items which are merely announcements of meetings, dinners, dances and celebrations, but never once is the mention made of tournament or a good round played or a mention of any one likely to stand out as a champion player.

The meetings were always being held in town also. There is no doubt in the minds of every one who reads these clippings that there was a club of some kind at Charleston and another one at Savannah. At Charleston the clubhouse was located in Charleston's Green while in Savannah they met at a place called the Exchange.

One of the notices reads like this:

The honor of iss Eliza Johnston's company is requested to a ball to be given by the members of the golf club of this city at the Exchange Tuesday evening, the 31st instant, at 7 o'clock.

Signed by the Committee.

From reading closely all of the notices one easily gets the idea that a golf club was formd for purely social reasons. Probably they gave it the name "golf club" for the want of a better name.

It is my opinion that there was no links anywhere around or there would have been some trace of them or there would have been some sign of golf clubs or golf balls. In all of the notices printed not a word mentions the scores and there were no handicaps handed down to posterity.

Jock Credits Reid and Yonkers.

Here is a golf club that has all the ear marks of a club, but no links. They undoubtedly reasoned out that a 19th hole was quite sufficient and that the other 18 holes were unnecessary.

It will take a little more than these clippings to convince me that golf was played there. Perhaps there was something on the order of croquet and it might have been played on the lawn, or th "greed" as it is called. Maybe it was only a putting layout, but in this case there would have been clubs and balls and surely they would have left some of rnem for their heirs.

Golf undoubtedly began at Yonkers in 1888 and credit must be given to John Reid as father of the game in America. There are in existence many photographs and there are clubs also. And there is the old apple tree as proof positive that the course was there.

From time to time many claims have been made by others about early golf. I take extreme pleasure in defending the claims of St. Andrews because I know considerable about the old place. When I first came to America about 20 years ago I took a position at St. Andrews shortly afterwards. I was professional at the new club located at Mount Hope. St. Andrews moved four times altogether, but just now it looks as if the last place would be permanent.

Alex Findlay of Philadelphia came over here in 1887 the year before the old club was started at Yonkers. He was a Scotchman, as his name implies and when he came to this country he brought along his clubs, never realizing that there was no golf here.

Findley Played On the Plains

Findlay went to Nebraska and began life there as a cowboy. He often used to use the club and the balls he brought on the plains but no attempt was made to lay out a course. The cowboys were amused with the new weapons but they were not sufficiently interested to lay out links or to form a golf club.

In Boston, George Wright, the old ball player, is given the credit for starting golf in that locality. Bostonians had never seen golf played or even heard of it until he began playing back in 1889, a year after the Yonkers club had started.

Mr. Wright tells with great pleasure the story of how he had purchased some golf clubs for his athletic store by mistake and that no one in Boston knew what they were. Finally they were placed in the window as a curosity and an Englishman came along one day and asked where there was a links. He explained the uses of the clubs to Mr. Wright and they proceeded to the Boston common where a game was played in crude way.

The authorities however, did not permit this sort of sport to go on long as it was extremely dangerous to persons using the part for recreation. Not long after this Myopia Hunt club was formed. Another early club in Boston was the Country club of Brookline.

Shenecock Hills was formed soon afterwards down in Long Island. The country in this section resembles Scotland very much, that is, the sand dunes by the sea and the rolling country.

Curing Your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

By JIM BARNES.

Dear Sir:

For nearly two months I have been suffering from inability to get a good tee shot. I either dub the shot or hit behind the ball. If you can help by giving the correct formula for hitting a good straight shot from the tee I will appreciate it very much.

H. N. L.

ANSWER:

Your fault of hitting behind the ball no doubt results from dropping the right shoulder or ducking the right knee, possibly a combination of the two. If the former is causing the trouble, you are probably lifting your head and shoulders on the backswing, then dropping them on the downswing. The cure for this is to keep your head still. To avoid any ducking or bending of the right knee, see that the right leg is kept fairly stiff at the top of the swing and that it remains so until you hit the ball.

I don't know that I can give you any formula for driving a straight ball. Too many faults are possible to analyize them all here. Here are however, a few suggestions. Take the club back low along the ground at the start, making the left hand do most of the work.

See that you pivot the body, turning it until at the top of the swing, you are looking at the ball over the point of the left shoulder. See that your weight is easily balanced at the top of the swing. Start the club down gently without any jerk, gradually increasing its speed and waiting until the hands are about level with the waist before attempting to apply any real hitting power.

Hit through the ball and send the hands out in the line of flight until the full stretch of the arms is reached. Keep your head stationery and look at the ball until the clubhead has hit it.

(Jim Barnes will suggest a remedy for your golf troubles. Write care of the sport editor, enclosing stamped envelope, if you want a personal reply.)

BOWIE MAY GET UNION STATION

Chamber of Commerce Puts Proposition Before Two Railroads

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, August 17.—Bowie will soon have a new railroad union station if plans originating in the chamber of commerce materialize. At a meeting of the directors Tuesday night plans were made for the merger of the two stations, and it was decided to put the matter before the officials of the two railroads having stations here.

At present, the stations of the Rock Island and the Fort Worth and Denver roads, are more than a half mile apart, making exchanges difficult. However, the roads cross at a spot in the heart of the city, where the chamber of commerce will ask that a union station be erected. Local railroad officials have declared the plan to be entirely feasible.

CAMP GROUNDS POPULAR.

The free camp grounds, recently opened by the city of Bowie, at a spot a short distance from the business section of town, is becoming one of the most popular places in Bowie. Although one of the largest camp grounds in north Texas, it is filled almost daily by tourists.

The camping spot is in the heart of the Cross Timbers, one of the prettiest natural camping grounds here.

COUNTY FAIR BOOMING.

Plans for the Montague county fair, to be held here October 4, 5 and 6, promise the best county fair of years. A big list of exhibitors have already entered and the displays are expected to far exceed any of previous fairs. The chamber of commerce has taken the lead in the program, and prizes have been arranged by the merchants for every contest. The fair will be held at the old soldiers reunion grounds.

LEGION BACKS REUNION.

The old soldier's reunion this year, will be handled under the direction of the Bowie post of the American Legion, who will finance the annual event. It will be held at the old soldier's reunion grounds August 28, 29 and 30, and all members of the confederate and United States armies of the Civil war will attend.

In taking over the entertainment of the old soldiers, the legionaires plan one of the biggest celebrations, hoping to make the event one to be remembered by the fast disappearing heroes of the Civil war. Lieutenant Boyd and Captain Croden will direct the reunion, and plan shows for all three days.

The middle day, the 29th, will be set aside as American Legion day on that day all stores will close during the afternoon.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN BY BRADSTREET'S

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Improvement is the key word in a number of lines this week. In some cases the betterment is a matter mainly of tone; in others a fairly definite enlargement of trade activity is to be noted; in others still, as for instance in prices of commodities particularly food products, the trend is upward following the exhibition of last week, when the food index turned up and advances and declines of all commodities balanced for the first time in many weeks. At the forefront of the improvement is to be mentioned quite an enlargement of the buying of cotton goods at large eastern markets, which has been stimulated by the stronger tone of raw cotton, the latter in turn due to reduction of crop estimates by drought, and the slightly better buying of other lines of dry goods, such as woolen and silks, the latter despite a rather sharp break in the raw material.

Weekly bank clearings $5,434,963,000.

SLUMP FOLLOWS COTTON RALLIES

October Closes at Decline of 31 Points and Others 11 to 18 Points

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An opening decline in the cotton market was followed by rallies on reports of a gradually improving trade demand and apprehension that the cooler weather predicted for the western belt would not be accompanied by any rainfall of consequence in Texas.

October contracts sold up from 24.30 to 24.78, or 27 points net higher and into new high ground for the movement, but the later market was unsettled by realizing for over the week-end and there were reactions of 35 to 40 points from the best. October closed at 24.40 with the closing steady at a net decline of 31 points on September and of 11 to 18 points on other months.

The market opened easy at decline of 16 to 21 points on prospects for a change in southwestern weather conditions, which many thought would bring showers as well as lower temperatures.

The official western belt forecast failed to hold any definite prime of rains in Texas, except for possible showers in the extreme western part of the state and covering became more active after its publication. December advanced from 24.15 to 24.60 and January from 23.90 to 24.25, with the general list showing net gains of some 19 to 27 points during the early afternoon. In the case of October contracts, this made a recovery of 396 points from the low price touched shortly before the publication of the last government crop report. Evidently this was sufficient to attract renewed realizing, particularly in vew, of the bearish week-end figures which showed very small mill takings, and the market sold off rather sharply late in the afternoon.

CANADA WHEAT NEWS BEARISH

Final Quotations Heavy at Some Foreign Grades Close to Import

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Assertion that some grades of Canadian wheat are close to an import basis into the United States had a bearish effect today on the wheat market here. Liquidating sales became of greater volume than could be readily absorbed and final quotations were heavy, 5-8 to 1 1-8 cents net lower, with September 99 3-4 to 99 7-8, and December $1.03 7-8 to $1.04. Corn closed 1-8 cent off to 1 5-8 cents advance oats 1-4 to 3-8 cent down, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to 10 cent gain.

Although the wheat market showed an upward tendency during the first half of the board of trade session, the apparent strength was due more to lack of offerings than to any special demand. Elevator interests here were buyers of the September delivery, but they were also at the same time sellers of December.

Under such circumstances the attention of the general trade gradually focussed on reports which were current that the poor quality wheat of Canada, debarred from any adequate outlet, was likely to seek entrance by rail into the United States, despite hindrance from 35 cents a bushel duty.

Short covering brought about a decided upturn in September corn. Other deliveries of corn and deliveries of oats were easier in line with wheat.

All provisions except January ribs reflected a decline in the hog market.

OIL OPERATORS CANCEL ORDERS

Slump Most Severe Since 1914, Says Prominent Oil Man

The prorating by the major companies ousting carrying lines has caused the cancellation of many orders for casing, tubes, and all kinds of drilling equipment from various local supply houses. For the past ten days there has been a slump in the valuation of producing properties and the price of acreage has dropped proportionally, according to operators.

Few permits for the drilling of wells have been issued and the most severe slump prevails in oil circles since 1914, according to a well known operator.

A few tests are being started in various parts of the North Texas district, but these are either offsets or contracts that must be fulfilled, according to E. L. Coplin of the railroad commission.

Many Answers To Irrigation Quiz By Record News

Much intelligent thought is being shown by irrigation district land owners in answering The Record News questionnaire mailed out Saturday, according to A. M. McPherson, who will compile a series of articles from the information gleaned. The questionnaire deals chiefly with the colonization aspect of the project.

McPherson asks land owners who have not yet mailed in their questionnaires to do so as soon as possible.

WALTON RECEIVES ANONYMOUS THREAT

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 17.—An anonymous letter threatening Governor Walton unless troops immediately are withdrawn from Tulsa was received at the executive offices today, according to an announcement from Aldrich Blake, the governor's counsellor.

"Unless troops are withdrawn at once your fate will be the same as that of the others," Blake said the letter read.

Blake said much of the contents of the letter was unprintable. He declined to divulge the name of the place at which it was posted, explaining that it might handicap the state investigators in their search for the writer. The governor left here today on a motor trip.

GERMANY EXAMINES BERGDOLL PRISONERS

By The Associated Press.

MOSBACH, Baden, Aug. 17.—Preliminary examination of Hooven Gritto, Victor Neilsen and Prince Guerin, arrested after the recent attempt to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, began here today under the direction of County Attorney Traurwein.

The preliminaries will probably consume several days and until they are complete the prisoners will not be allowed to communicate with any one. It is expected formal charges will be filed against all three and they will then be permitted to engage American counsel.

Forest fires in Canada last year destroyed timber lands equivalent to a strip one mile wide from Halifax to Winnipeg.

CITY MAY BUY PAVING BLOCKS

Purchase Planned Unless City Committee Takes Action

The city will soon purchase a number of wooden paving blocks for repairing the downtown streets unless the committee from the chamber of commerce appointed some time ago to work out a plan whereby the property owners and the city would bear the expense of brick or bituthic paving, does something soon, city officials said Friday.

The streets are in such a bad condition now that new blocks must be put in at once, officials say. It was planned that, if practical, a plan would be adopted whereby the owners would pay two thirds and the city a third of the costs for some paving other than wooden. Nothing has been done about the matter and the time has come for action, the officials say.

PARENTS MAKE PLEA IN VA[illegible]

Try to Avoid Publicity I[illegible] Daughter But Arrested Man to Return

Plea for the protection of the daughters' social standing made parents of a 15-year-old girl alleged to have been wronged by a man now held at Terrell at the instance of Constable Frank Morgan will avail nothing and the man must be tried for the offense as Deputy Sheriff Jack Miller left for Terrell last night to bring back the man, charged with the offense.

Constable Morgan said the parents of the girl came to him a few weeks ago and begged him to bring to justice the man who wronged their daughter. Morgan began work on the case and Thursday the man wanted by the parents was behind the bars at Terrell.

Parents Fear Publicity.

The parents Friday morning had changed their mind and told the constable they feared the publicity from the prosecution of the case would ruin their daughter's social prestige in the city. They asked the case be dismissed and the man discharged.

Morgan after conference with the sheriff's department decided that the man would be brought back and tried. It was not known Friday afternoon late whether the constable's or sheriff's department would make the arrest and bring the man back here. Both departments said they were going to send a deputy for the man. Deputy Sheriff Miller was met about 9:30 Friday night and said he was on his way to Terrell for the man.

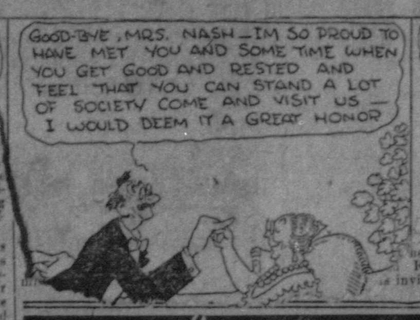

Sheriff Murphy and Deputy Miller are said to have had a conference with the girl's parents last night and decided that the man must stand trial for the statutory offense regardless of the publicity that will naturally come from the prosecution of the case.

MOST SCHOOLS WILL OPEN ON SEPT. 10

The Deep Creek new school building may not be completed on the opening day although efforts are being made to complete the building by Sept. 10.
