Arab Nations Line Up For Defense Of Egypt

Demos Open Convention

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago (AP)—The Democrats swung into the formalities of opening their national convention today. A covey of "favorite sons" still held tight to the key votes ardently desired by Adlai Stevenson and Averell Harriman, top bidders for the presidential nomination.

By all the signs, the favorite sons were of a mind to keep the conclave's big prize in doubt, if possible, right into Thursday's balloting.

As the opening day came, an Associated Press poll of delegates willing to state a public preference gave this picture:

Needed to nominate, 686½.

Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, well out in front with 538. His aides claimed he would have 600 to 630 on the first ballot.

Gov. Harriman of New York, 213 His camp claimed 400.

Scattered among favorite sons, 277½.

Still uncommitted, 343½.

The Democratic legions began whooping into this big ampitheater in the stockyards area long before the noon hour set for party Chairman Paul Butler to bang his gavel and declare the 32nd nominating meeting underway.

For many, it had been a wrangling, struggling weekend. The pulling and hauling was touched off by former President Harry S. Truman's plump for Harriman Saturday when Stevenson seemed to have the nomination within his grasp.

And there seemed to be a disposition among many of the leaders to seek to soothe ruffled temperers and remind one another that after all the real enemy was the Republicans.

There were optimistic predictions also that a fight over a civil rights plank in the platform will be avoided.

Truman and Stevenson met for the first time since the former president's pronouncement of his sentiments as to a nominee, and had only smiles and a brief greeting for each other. The meeting was at a breakfast given by Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

And Truman, questioned by reporters as to what his attitude would be if Stevenson won the nomination, said he would support the nominee and if asked, maybe campaign for him. "I want to elect a Democrat," he said. "We've had enough Republican rule."

Stevenson, in a visit with the Minnesota delegation, said he "deeply deplores any effort to demean one another here in our convention."

He said that he is more concerned with promoting party unity and welfare than in any one individual.

Stevenson recalled he had campaigned for Harriman in 1954 when Harriman won election as governor of New York.

The disposition of the favorite sons to hang on to their votes, at least for the time being, reflected the practical politics of the situation.

Henry Gets Off To Bad Start In Akron Derby

By WAYLAND YATES

AKRON, Ohio — Henry Hendricks missed out on his bid for honors in the All-American Soap Box Derby Sunday, but he swallowed his disappointment and promised to help send his brother Eddie to the big race next year.

Henry wouldn't be eligible for next year's race in Big Spring, but Eddie, who was eliminated in the local event on July Fourth, can have another go at it.

Henry got off to a wobbly start down the incline at beautiful Derby Downs. He recovered quickly, but had lost too much ground and finished third in his heat.

Norman Westfall, a 14-year-old lad from Rochester, N. Y. coasted to All-American honors, winning a $5,000 college scholarship. It was the second straight victory for a Rochester entry.

Landon Flake of Daytona Beach, Fla., was second and David Long of Long Beach, Calif., was third. Steve Cress of Fort Wayne, Ind., who eliminated Hendricks in their heat, placed ninth in the big event.

There was some drama to young Westfall's victory. His sleek plastic car had been damaged in shipment to Akron, and he spent practically all his time here in rebuilding. He went without lunch Friday in a mad race to make repairs ahead of the deadline. A year ago, Westfall had finished second at Rochester to Richard Rhorer, who went on to cop last year's national crown.

A Texan, Don Weedon Jr., of Austin won a trophy for the fastest heat of the day. He made the course in 27.03 seconds in his first heat.

The crowd of thousands watched Joe E. Brown take the Derby's famous "oil can trophy" in a comic race preceding the Derby runs. Roy Rogers placed second and Snooky Lanson third.

All the Derby champs and their parents were feted at the "banquet of champions" Sunday night. They were entertained by notables in the stage, screen and television world, and saw trophies and prizes handed out to the winners.

The All-American, sponsored by Chevrolet Division of General Motors, gives out $15,000 in college scholarships, plus trophies, in this racing event for boys.

Henry, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hendricks and his brother, were scheduled to depart Akron today, making a leisurely trip home in a Chevrolet they picked up here. They came up by train.

Egyptian Women Under Arms

An Egyptian national guardsman issues military uniforms and rifles to housewives at a "national liberation army" training center in Cairo. Egypt has begun a military training program for her growing volunteer forces, including women, and has welded them into a new peoples' army to stand by the regular army in the Suez Canal crisis.

West Is Warned On 'Aggression'

LONDON (AP)— The Arab League of nine nations warned the West today an attack on Egypt in the Suez Canal crisis would be considered aggression against all Arab States.

The League's Political Committee, meeting in Cairo, also pledged support for President Nasser's call Sunday for a 45-national conference to write new guarantees for freedom of passage through the canal.

Nasser's proposal was a counter to the 22-nation conference called by Britain that is opening in London Thursday to consider international control of the waterway which Nasser nationalized July 26. Egypt refused to send a delegation.

In the face of Arab threats, Britain airlifted more troops into the Mediterranean to meet any emergency. In fact, it was a two-way airlift.

As giant planes landed troops in Britain's island outposts around Suez, two flying boats began ferrying British wives and children from the canal zone to Malta. They are dependents of British employes still in the zone.

In Bonn, the West German government said Britain is withdrawing some noncombat troops stationed in Germany and sending them home to strengthen the strategic reserve. Presumably they will replace troops being ferried to the Mediterranean.

In Tel Aviv, Premier David Ben-Gurion's passive policy toward the canal crisis drew criticism from Menachem Beigin, leader of the opposition Heruth party, second strongest in Israel.

Beigin told a news conference if Nasser "gets away with turning the Suez Canal into the Nasser Canal he will be ready for an all-out attack on Israel." He said Israel should make alliances with any anti-Nasser power.

The Arab League Committee's resolution said Arab countries "consider any aggression against any Arab country as aggression against all other Arab countries."

The committee said Nasser's plan for a broadened conference on Suez was "consistent with international principles of justice." It said the offer "represents a sincere assurance from Egypt to all other countries of the world to secure navigation in the canal."

The committee, composed of foreign ministers of the Arab states, has been in special session in Cairo drafting a policy on Suez.

Meanwhile, support for Egypt's stand continued to build up in the Arab world.

In Baghdad, Iraqi leftwing leader Kamil Alchaderchi called on workers throughout the nation to stop work Thursday, when the conference opens. The executive committee of the Federation of Arab Trade Unions, now meeting in Cairo, already has called for a general strike in the Arab nations that day.

Thousands of Pakistani students demonstrated in front of the Egyptian embassy in Karachi, shouting "Long live Nasser" and "The Suez Canal belongs to Egypt."

Murder Added To Charges In Abduction Case

DURHAM, Conn. (AP)—A man arrested in the stranger-than-fiction abduction of an Air Force sergeant's wife Friday night has been charged also with a murder committed 13 days before.

He and his brother, also charged with murder, pleaded innocent late last night.

John Davis, 22, was shot dead in his car parked here July 28. Carol Brookes, 19, of Durham, his fiancee, was shot in the arm. She told police a man shined a flashlight in the car and fired twice, then fled.

Police first arrested Everett Cooley, 25, of New Haven, when he was found in the woods Saturday with the wife of Sgt. Albert W. Drepperd, 26. Cooley was charged with appearing at Drepperd's home in nearby North Branford Friday night as the couple watched television, announcing at gunpoint he was a downed Russian pilot, shooting the sergeant in the face and kidnaping his 29-year-old wife, Grace.

He kept her captive in the woods 14 hours, without harming or molesting her, until searchers found them. He was holding a loaded pistol at her back, but offered no resistance. The sergeant had staggered to a neighbor's home for help, and was taken to a hospital.

Cooley, wearing a bizarre garb including a green shirt on which he had sewn a swastika and a German eagle, wouldn't talk about the Davis case when police questioned him Saturday.

But yesterday, they said, he admitted the shooting and named his brother, Milton, 28, of Guilford, as the man who drove for him while he sought parked couples to rob.

The Cooley brothers were arraigned in Justice Court here last night, and now will be held for a New Haven County Grand Jury.

Lyndon Pledges No Convention 'Steal'

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Lyndon Johnson promised Texas Democrats today there would be no steal of their September state convention and that a loyal state executive committee would be chosen then.

Johnson was cheered repeatedly as speaker after speaker at the first Texas delegation caucus called him the man who will win the Democratic nomination.

Johnson's reassurance on his determination to keep loyalists in control of the Texas party came as some rumblings of discontent followed his decision not to convene the May state convention.

Prolonged cheers greeted Johnson's statement that the next job for Texas Democrats is to "control the September convention and select an executive committee that will support the presidential nominee of this convention."

Former Rep. John Lyle of Corpus Christi told 300 Texans including delegates and visitors that the Texas delegation "will very likely have the deciding voice in this convention."

"Let us tell the nation and tell the world that we have here the next president of the United States," Lyle said.

"The people have taken over this convention and the people will choose."

Among those joining Lyle in plugging the Johnson nomination prospects were former Sen. Tom Connally of Marlin and national Committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple.

"We are for him until we are released and I hope we will not be released," Connally said. "He's the man who can be elected and give the President plenty of time to play golf."

Vann Kennedy of Corpus Christi was praised by Johnson for his work on the platform committee. Kennedy said he felt the committee would find a common meeting ground on the civil rights issue and solve the "seemingly insoluble problem."

Johnson, calling for harmony, told the delegates they must conduct themselves at this convention "so as to command the respect of millions of Americans."

CAP Holds Air Defense Tests

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A practice to test civil air defenses over a 48,000 square mile area of Southwest Texas was held by 47 planes from 16 Texas airfields yesterday. Maj. Dan Baines said the exercise was the most successful of three held to date.

Authorized by the 33rd Air Division of Oklahoma City, the operation called for the planes to fly predetermined flights across the area. Baines said the San Antonio air filter center received 552 aircraft flash calls within the four-hour period.

Taking part were civil air patrol planes from Del Rio, Waco, Brownwood, Brady, San Angelo and Midland.

Marilyn Bikes Without Notice

ENGLEFIELD GREEN, England (AP)—Sheathed in a formfitting blue slack suit, Marilyn Monroe took her first bicycle ride in the English countryside yesterday. Hardly a British eyelid fluttered.

Marilyn pedaled along beside her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, for an hour through country lanes near the home they have rented while she makes a film here.

Her bike ride, which she announced was one of her dreams when she arrived here three weeks ago, went almost unnoticed. There were no fans, no autograph hunters.

TEXAS ELECTION

Ballots Of Rebel Counties Okayed

FORT WORTH (AP) — The State Democratic Executive Committee included votes today from counties which refused to place referendum questions on the ballot.

Earlier, Chairman George Sandlin, said there was a possibility votes in those counties would not be counted because the county committees refused to include the referendum in the July 28 Democratic primary.

Today, he said that the courts might uphold the committee if it refused to count votes from Bexar, Kleberg and Uvalde counties, but that if the votes were not counted, voters would be disenfranchised.

In the official canvass of the July 28 primary, the vote totals did not change the results materially from that of the unofficial counting agency established by newspapers, the Texas Election Bureau.

It was a harmonious meeting.

The committee certified Ben Ramsey as nominee for lieutanant governor, His opponent in the runoff, State Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., formally withdrew, giving health as the reason.

The official totals gave Price Daniel 628,914 votes and Ralph Yarborough 463,416 for governor.

Moore had 492,592 votes and Wilson 673,566 for attorney general.

These were the only statewide races involving runoffs.

The session was held to officially count the primary vote.

Earlier, when several counties refused to place the questions on the ballot, Sandlin said that votes for candidates in those counties would be illegal and that the committee might not certify them in the official canvass.

Earlier indications of a challenge in the Court of Criminal Appeals race faded when Dist. Judge Jesse Owens of Vernon failed to appear. Owens was defeated by incumbent W. A. Morrison in the primary. Owens had charged irregularities in the race.

Sandlin said that no official notice had been received from Will Wilson of Dallas asking that Tom Moore of Waco be certified as his runoff opponent in the race for nomination as attorney general. Wilson several days ago said he would make such an appeal.

Wilson led the field in the first primary but lacked a majority. However, should the votes for Curtis Hill of Dallas, who withdrew a few days before the primary, not be certified, then Wilson would have a majority.

Sandlin said the executive committee had never received official notification of Hill's withdrawal and that Hill's votes would be certified.

The committee was also expected to take note of the withdrawal of State Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. the runoff race for lieutenant governor. Sandlin earlier had instructed that Aikin's name not be placed on ballots.

Clanton Body Is Recovered From River

Body of Joe Ned Clanton, 26, former Howard County resident, was recovered Sunday from the Mississippi River where he went down with a capsized drilling barge on Friday.

The remains are to arrive here at 3:50 p.m. Tuesday and services have been set for 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home with the Rev. Jack Power, Trinity Baptist pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Surviving Mr. Clanton are his wife, Mrs. Lillian Clanton; one daughter, Jodie Clanton; one son, Ricky Allan Clanton, all of Houma, La.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ellige, Big Spring; and several aunts and uncles who reside here. He was born April 6, 1930, in Arkansas and moved to Big Spring in 1936. He was formerly in the military service.

Pallbearers will be Billy Massengill, Frank Dehart, Carl McKee, Billy Brown, Bill Masters, Roy Anderson and Gayle Batson.

This account from the New Orleans Item told part of the story:

"Witnesses at the scene Saturday morning told reporters there were two reasons why the rig capsized . . . The drilling tower, which reports say usually isn't erected until the rig is at the drilling site and securely anchored, had been raised to its full 140 feet.

"And a load of 90 tons of drilling pipe, brought aboard Friday, probably wasn't centered.

"About 42 men were aboard the rig at 3:25 p.m. Friday when the list began. In five minutes, witnesses said, it had overturned completely. Depth of the water at the scene is believed to be 90 feet."

Hope that two of the men might have been saved by a trapped "air pocket" within the rig was abandoned when divers, entering through an air lock into the chamber where the men were thought to be, found nothing. Two of the victims were caught in the rigging and went down when the huge barge went down. The $1½ million structure is actually two big barges, one constructed on the top of the other and connected by columns. When in position the lower barge is flooded and sinks to the bottom to furnish a firm foundation. Cost of righting the sunken structure built by Avondale Marine Ways, Inc. for Southeastern Drilling Corp. and the California Company may run as high as $100,000.

Among the injured was Ralph Carpenter, 42, of Snyder. He sustained a fractured right arm.

Burglars Take All But The Hole

DENVER (AP) — About the only thing burglars didn't take in a weekend job, the manager of a swimming pool construction firm said today, was the hole itself.

Raymond P. Sweeney said the burglars drove off with 74 concrete moulds and a complete diving tower. The loot was valued at $3,690.

Disability Plan Rounding Out Social Security Begins In 1957

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new program of payments to totally disabled workers, rounding out the series of basic protections for the nation's families envisioned when Social Security was set up 20 years ago, goes into effect next year.

The program is provided under the Social Security bill passed by Congress just before it adjourned late last month, and signed by President Eisenhower. The disability provision was sponsored by Democratic leaders.

Stringent requirements must be met before a disabled person can qualify. Experts in the Social Security Administration estimate 300,000 disabled persons will receive payments in the first year, and that in 25 years one million will be on the rolls.

Local Social Security offices will begin receiving claims for benefits Oct. 1. First checks will go out next July.

The applicant must be at least 50 and must meet this test:

"Inability to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or to be of long-continued and indefinite duration."

The monthly checks will not start until the disability has been in effect six months.

Finally, the recipient must meet all of three requirements of Social Security coverage in a job or in self-employed work for which Social Security taxes were paid. These are:

1. One and a half years of coverage in the last three years.

2. Five years of coverage in the last 10 years.

3. Coverage for half the time since 1950 or, alternatively, for 10 years.

A person in covered employment for the last five years thus would meet all three tests.

A worker disabled some time ago and now 50 or over can apply at once for the payments. In his case, the Social Security coverage requirements would run in the years preceding the date of his disablement.

The applicant must furnish proof of this disability. At the local Social Security office, he can find if he has the necessary coverage and if his disability is severe enough to make him potentially eligible.

If he passes these preliminaries, he will be given medical report forms which he can have filled out by his physician, a hospital, his employer and other sources.

When his file is complete, the local office will send it to the state agency which, under the law, has the responsibility for making the determination of disability. The Social Security Administration will then pass on the claim and notify the applicant of the final decision.

If this decision is adverse, the individual can appeal to a referee of the Social Security Administration, and has the right to go on to federal court.

In general, however, personality defects, alcoholism or drug addiction will not qualify an individual. Nor will blindness, if the sightless person is able to engage in "substantial gainful activity."

The monthly payments will be the same as the primary retirement benefit for the individual under Social Security, ranging from $30 to $108.50 a month. They are expected to average $70 to $80 a month.

The Social Security tax will be increased effective next Jan. 1 by ¼ per cent each for the employe and employer, and ⅜ per cent for the self-employed individual, to finance the disability payments. The proceeds will go into a separate fund for these benefits.

This will mean a $10.50 tax boost next year for the individual earning $4,200 or more, and the same for his employer. A self-employed person earning the same amount will pay $15.75 more.

Hodge Changes Plea To Guilty

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Orville E. Hodge, ousted state auditor accused of taking about a million dollars of state funds, today pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement, forgery and confidence game.

Hodge, 51-year-old former official in the Illinois Republican administration, entered the plea before Circut Judge Clem Smith at his arraignment on 46 state indictments resulting from the million dollar financial scandal.

Danger

This dangling utility pole was snapped in two and power lines carrying 28,000 volts were severed when an auto crashed into it at El Cerrito, Calif. Parts of five surrounding communities were blacked out. Police said the driver apparently dozed for a moment while driving home from work. Not seriously injured, the driver, Byron Fairbanks, was cited for speeding and driving without due caution.

Breathe Plenty Of Air

Gina Lollobrigida, exciting star of Hecht-Lancaster's "Trapeze," suggests singing lessons as a contribution of beauty. "Learning to fill your lungs with oxygen," she says, "develops the chest and gives vitality to the whole body."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Gina Perfectionist In Beauty Routine

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Gina Lollobrigida has been called the most beautiful woman in the world, and since the release of "Trapeze" there are few to dispute this. Hers is a face you can return to for new values, for the regularity of her features are lighted with intelligence.

Gina told me, with less of an Italian accent than that of our first meeting in Rome three years ago, that she accepted a part in her first picture with the idea of saving money to further her career as a painter.

"It is not unusual," she went on, "for directors in Rome to walk the streets looking for types. Pier Angeli got her start that way and so did Rossana Podesta.

"But they liked my work, offered me a contract for two more pictures and by the time these were released I had decided to become an actress. And," she added, "I have never painted since."

"I feel it is not possible to follow more than one career seriously and do it well. I am a . . ." Gina turned to her husband, Dr. Milko Skofic, for the word she wanted, "a perfectionist."

"Yes, she is a perfectionist," her husband reiterated, "and most people's standards are not up to hers. She was given an unbecoming hairstyle in one picture, so in the next she requested permission to do her own hair."

"I prefer to take care of it myself," Gina confided. "I took lessons in heir dressing and I worked on wigs until I could handle hair with the skill of a professional. Learning to dress hair is easier than learning to cut it. This experience is a great time saver. I like to wash my hair every three days because it's oily, and it is so much more convenient for me to be able to do it at home."

"Gina is very clever at make-up," her husband told me.

"That was not difficult to learn," Gina replied. "I am a painter and I use my face as a canvas. The secret of applying make-up is keeping it natural. Anyone can put it on, but the effect is ruined if the result is artificial."

Miss Lollobrigida has a very clear complexion and I asked her how she acquired this.

"I have an oily skin and I wash it with soap and water," she said.

"Do you take your make-up off that way, too?" I asked.

"No. I use olive oil. But I am sure I have removed all of it when I steam my face with hot towels to open the pores. Skin has to breathe and be thoroughly clean to be clear."

Gina confessed she thought American lipsticks were the best in the world.

"What about this vogue in Rome for going without lipstick?" I asked.

"I think it is awful," Gina protested. "One's face is thrown completely out of proportion. It is a fad I have no desire to follow."

I asked Gina if she found it difficult to stay modest with everyone praising her beauty.

"Not at all," she said quickly. "The gift of beauty has a superficial advantage. People expect you to ride on it so that you have to work harder than others to overcome this. As soon as I decided to make acting my career I saw every movie I could. I would go back again and again learning from the mistakes of the poor actors as well as from such artists as Katharine Hepburn, Bette Davis and Lilli Palmer."

In parting I asked Gina how she kept such a perfect figure.

"I advise singing lessons for everyone whether the voice is good or not. Learning how to breathe properly makes a big contribution to beauty. It is helpful in teaching you how to stand properly, and learning to fill your lungs with oxygen develops the chest and gives vitality to the whole body."

BUSTLINE BEAUTY

Thursday at 1:30 the group will meet at the Officers' Club for bridge and canasta games. Instructors will be present to teach beginners. Block Six wives are hostesses, and all players are requested to be prompt in arriving.

Wedding Rings Are Old And Traditional Custom

With so many weddings always in the planning year after year, they are more or less taken for granted.

But, behind every wedding that is planned, whether large or small, there are many traditions and customs. People never think of the origin from which many of them come, and there are many bridal customs that we are not familiar with.

One of the customs, which has an interesting background, is that of the wearing or exchanging of wedding rings.

It seems that the ring more than any other form of jewelry supports the total weight of human emotions and stands by as the emblem of joy, woe and all the intervening shades of feelings.

The beautiful engagement and wedding jewelry of today represents not only the finest of craftsmanship, but thousands of years of customs and traditions. One of the most obvious questions is, which came first, the engagement ring or wedding ring?

In one sense, neither, because in the days of long ago the marriage rite was more of a business proposition than a ceremony. The ring merely symbolized the bridegroom's purchasing power.

ENGAGEMENT RINGS

In terms of the modern day marriage, what we call the engagement ring, given when marriage is proposed, is used before the wedding ring. It is agreed among most historians that, at first, brides received rings at the time of the betrothal as "earnest money." This custom prevailed among both Jews and early Christians. If a ring was used at all in the ceremony, it was the same one presented at betrothal time. History shows that it was around the time of the Reformation that the bride finally received two rings.

At Hebrew weddings a huge ring, shaped like the roof of a Jewish temple and sometimes the property of the synagogue, just borrowed for the occasion, was used. In Galway, Ireland, where the ancient Celtic language and traditions still presist, the Claddagh ring, with a design of two hands clasping a crowned heart, was used as a betrothal token as well as a wedding ring.

While the wedding and betrothal rings originally meant possession or subjection of the bride, these rings came to have another significant value at an early date. Some of the old Roman wedding rings had knobs in the form of a key attached, to show that the bride was to share in the authority over her husband's household. Very early too, the betrothal rings took on its present day symbolism, that of a pledge of mutual affection and faithfulness.

The double ring ceremony has a long and honored history. A couple of generations ago it was popular in America, brought here particularly by Germans and Scandinavians. Then, for a while, it was considered old fashioned, but during World War II, it was brought back into vogue. And, by the end of 1944, 85 per cent of all American bridegrooms were receiving rings.

It has not always been the style to wear wedding or engagement rings on the third finger of the left hand. In the days of Queen Bess of England the ring, after betrothal, was worn on the thumb.

The Roman Catholics did not use the left hand until the middle of the 18th century.

Among early Christian writings a passage stating a betrothal ring "is given by the espouser to the espoused either for a sign of mutual fidelity or still more to join their hearts by this pledge. Therefore the ring is placed on the fourth finger because a certain vein, it is said, flows thence to the heart."

Another adaptation of how the wedding rings came to be placed on the left hand is that the officiating minister would touch three fingers, not counting the thumb, and say, "In the name of the Father, the Son., and the Holy Ghost," and the ring went on the last finger touched.

Nearly all medieval paintings which represented weddings showed the ring being place on the right hand. The change in practice is first noted in the Book Of Common Prayer of Edward VI in 1549.

An interesting sidelight to this question of where to wear the ring is provided by a custom prevalent in certain parts of Europe up to a century ago. If a person wasn't interested in marriage at all, she wore a ring on her little finger; if she changed her mind, she switched it to the first finger. If she was married, second or middle finger; if betrothed, on the third finger.

In the Middle Ages some of the more dashing men about town would dangle betrothal rings from their hat bands just to keep the girls agog over them.

VARIETIES OF MATERIALS

Besides the caveman's plaited grass rings, bronze, flint, ivory and bone were used in ancient times.

The Romans favored iron rings, or gold for dress-up occasions. In the 17th century, young men of England gave their girls rings cut from the fingers of a heavy leather glove.

During the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, wedding and engagement rings began to be set with precious stones. The Venetians were the first to discover the possibilities of the diamond for rings. They experimented with different ways of cutting diamonds to bring out "Endurance and inner glow," as a symbol of love. This contributed to making the diamond the preferred gem for engagement rings.

In America many major changes have taken place in the style of engagement rings. The cluster ring, often composed of small rose-cut diamonds set around a large center stone, was a Colonial favorite.

Another variation was the marquise cluster, arranged in a long pointed oval shape. Victorian rings were fancier, often yellow gold ornamented with black enamel.

The snake ring that Prince Albert gave Victoria was made up of 14 hinged joints, with 12 diamonds, the inside enameled in black and white and the head joint passing through a loop into the tail.

The princess ring, also imported from England, has three to five good sized diamonds in a straight row across the top. After this, came the solitaire, during World War I.

About the beginning of this century, platinum became the vogue as a setting for engagement rings. Between 1850 and 1900 the favorite wedding ring was a plain wide gold band.

Several Big Spring jewelers agree that the wide gold band has come back into style in the last few years among both men and women.

The ring as a symbol of marriage seems to be one of our oldest and most permanent institutions. Even when the English Puritans tried to do away with the wedding ring, they failed to suppress it.

Glasscock 4-H Club Has Dress Revue

GARDEN CITY — The Glasscock County 4-H Club dress revue was held in the high school study hall Friday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Eiland of Stanton.

Senior girls who participated were Cora Beth Overton and Mary Ruth Asbill. Both girls received blue ribbons, and Miss Overton will represent the club at the district revue.

Junior girls who participated were Pat Saunders, Rita Hardy, Jo Cook, Sue Parker, and Betty Joe Schraeder. Miss Saunders and Miss Hardy received blue ribbons. The former will represent the club at the district revue.

Red ribbons were received by Miss Cook, Miss Parker, and Miss Schraeder.

Refreshments were served by the Home Demonstration Club. Twenty attended.

Tea Sandwiches

Chop watercress leaves and the top tender part of the stems. Soften a package of cream cheese and add chili sauce to taste. (A dash of Worcestershire sauce and grated onion may also be added to the cream-cheese mixture). Now mix the watercress and cream-cheese mixture. Use as a filling for thin white or whole-wheat bread sandwiches.

Petty Family Meet Is Attended By 87

Eighty-seven attended the reunion of the J. R. and W. H. Petty families Saturday and Sunday at the City Park.

Taking pictures, visiting, a barbecue and a watermelon feast were some of the entertainment during the weekend. The reunion will be held again next year on the second weekend in August.

Relatives were present from Clovis and Farmington, N. M., Dallas, Fort Worth, Amarillo, Odessa, May, Cross Plains and Bangs. Guests attended from Indiana, Merkel, New Mexico and Port Lavaca.

Miss Mott Is Bride Of C. D. Truitt

LAMESA — Miss Joe Ann Mott became the bride of Charles Dene Truitt in a double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon, in the Bryan Street Baptist Church parsonage. E. L. Jones, pastor of the church, read the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James I. Mott of Rt. 2, O'Donnell, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Truitt, 311 N. 13th St., Lamesa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white suit with accessories of blue. She carried an arrangement of blue carnations.

The couple's attendants were Marita Truitt, sister of the bridegroom, and Kenneth Flowers both of Lamesa.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride wore a black and white sheath dress with white accessories.

They will make their home at 807½ N. 15th St. in Lamesa after Aug. 22. The bride is a graduate of O'Donnell High School and her husband was graduated from Lamesa High School.

Gregorys Return From South Texas

Mrs. Clyde Gregory, Clyde Jr. and Amy Jane have returned from a trip to points on the Gulf Coast.

They, accompanied by Mrs. S. E. Phillips of Merkel, mother of Mrs. Gregory, took her brother, Jerry, to Kingsville to play in the Pony League baseball games. The group visited another brother, Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips, in Brownsville and made a trip to Port Isabel.

On the return trip, they stopped in San Antonio for a visit to the Alamo and Brackenridge Park.

Bride-Elect Given Shower For Kitchen

A kitchen shower Friday evening honored Reba Riddle, bride-elect of Alvis Harry, in the home of Jolene Reynolds.

Cohostesses were Shirley Rogers, Sue Young, Nelda Garrison, Jane Hill and Charlene Eudy.

Wedding rings and a heart formed the background for an arrangement of pink dahlias from which streamers of pink and white radiated. Eighteen attended the party.

Threatened Oil Lifeline

Black line and ship symbols illustrate route now followed by tankers carrying critical oil cargoes from Mid-East wells to Europe and America by way of the Egyptian-seized Suez Canal. American, British and French interests are main sources of concern over the current Suez crisis.

'Arab Crisis' Started 1,300 Years Ago

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

The Arab crisis is 1,300 years old.

For more than a dozen centuries the Arabs, their civilization cradled in the scorched Arabian Peninsula, have conquered and been conquered until the tides of history scattered them over a vast area now loosely known as "the Arab world."

Today the heart and center of the world is Egypt, and Egypt has set the Western world's nerves on edge. Nationalization of the Suez Canal, focus of the immediate crisis, is not the only Western worry. Arab ambitions, tempers, frustrations and hatreds have spread ferment from the Persian Gulf to the Atlantic.

Egypt's President Nasser, central figure in the latest crisis, calls this whole area "the Arab nation." His spoken aspirations make it plain he considers Egypt the leader of an Arab world which one day will be united.

It is far from united now. It is not really one world but at least four, linked loosely by ties of common religion and the Arab language. Nasser speaks for pan-Arabism, and Arabic speaking peoples are pulled strongly toward the dream. But national, racial, geographical and ideological rivalries keep the Arab lands disunited.

The 10 million Arabs who inhabit the Arabian Peninsula are an isolated world to themselves. Only the thin veneer of a modern civilization, induced by the flow of foreign oil royalties, covers centuries-old feudal systems.

The so-called fertile crescent—the area formed by Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Jordan and Palestine—cradle of modern civilization and the great Western religions, is yet another world of some 12-million Arabs.

The almost 30 million Moslems of Egypt and Sudan, occupying a big patch of east Africa, are a third world, often described by fertile crescent people as more African than Arab. And about 20 million people who call themselves Arab occupy Morrocco, Tunis, Algeria and Libya in North Africa. Their religion is Moslem but in the mists of centuries many of the cultural ties with the Eastern Arabs have been lost.

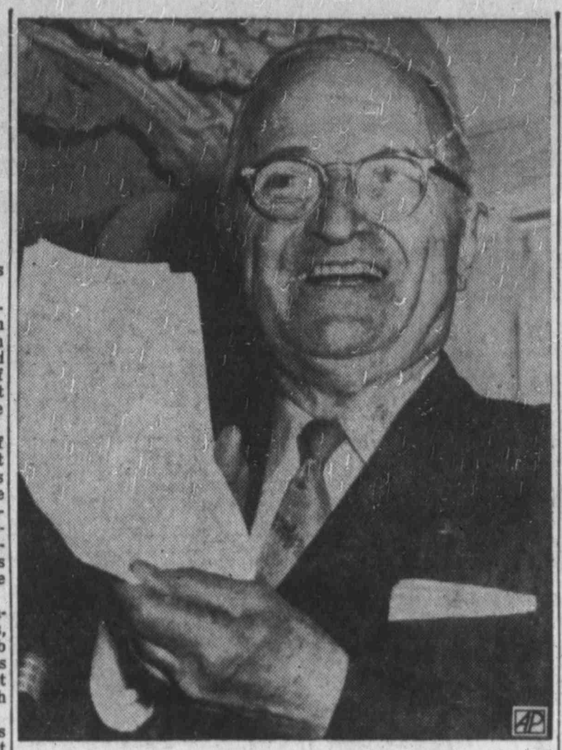

All these countries have their own cultures, some tied to Europe. Many Arabs are Christians, particularly in Lebanon and Egypt. Some are Jews.

The new Egyptian constitution calls Egypt an integral part of "the Arab nation," meaning the vast area in which at least 70 million who might be described as Arabs are linked by religion and language.

The common history and language stem from the militant religion founded by the prophet Mohammed, who was born in Mecca, on the Arabian Peninsula, in 570 A. D. The sword of Islam knifed East and West. In about 642, 10 years after Mohammed died, Arabs seized Egypt. By 683 they reached Morocco and in 1061 Moslems overran Spain. Islam spread eastward to what is now Soviet Central Asia.

But in the 13th century this power began to wane. The Arabs lost Persia and the eastern part of their empire to the Turks and Mongols. They lost Spain to Christians. Their empire split itself in fierce rivalries.

The rise of a hero like Nasser inflamed the deep-rooted desire among Arabs to regain their ancient grandeur after centuries of want and oppression. They sensed their latent power. They inhabited one of the most important sectors of the globe, the source of life-giving oil for Europe's industry and the crossroads of the world's trade. If Nasser could defeat the great powers in a spectacular show of defiance, there was a chance that the great pressure of millions of Arabs might overthrow rulers who failed to bury their old rivalries in the quest for a second empire of the Arab world.

Truman With Statement

Former President Harry Truman holds up the statement he read at a news conference in Chicago backing the candidacy of New York's Governor Averell Harriman for the Democratic presidential nomination. Truman read his statement from a copy he said he had written in pen and ink himself.

BI-PARTISAN

Ike Gets Support On Suez Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles seemed assured today of considerable bipartisan support for their drive to settle the Suez Canal crisis peacefully.

Evidence of broad Democratic as well as Republican backing among congressional leaders developed after Eisenhower and Dulles had briefed nine Democrats and 13 Republicans yesterday on "the continuing gravity of the situation" and what the administration plans to do about it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said no commitments were asked or given, but added in reply to a question that "politics stop at the water's edge when the security of our country is at stake."

Officials said results of the conference in the White House Cabinet Room should strengthen Dulles' hand when he enters a 22-nation conference in London this week on the future of the canal.

Dulles, who leaves here tomorrow, was winding up preparations today to seek agreement by a majority of the 22 countries on a proposal for placing operation of the canal under an international authority. Such agreement could provide a basis for later negotiation with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who took sole control of the canal July 26, and with Russia, India and other countries which side with Nasser.

Fresh hope for eventually achieving a negotiated settlement—instead of war—was found here in the manner in which Nasser yesterday turned down, as expected, Britain's invitation to Egypt to attend the London conference.

The tone of his statement was relatively calm. Instead of slamming the door on talk he made a counter proposal for a bigger conference in which the problem of guarantees for international freedom of the canal could be discussed.

Officials here felt that Nasser's willingness to suggest such a procedure means that in the end he may be willing to work out practical arrangements with the west despite his refusal to attend the London meeting.

The congressional leaders and 15 administration officials headed by Eisenhower and Dulles conferred for 80 minutes at the White House yesterday.

"All recognized the importance of dependable operation of the canal as a major artery of world traffic," said a White House statement.

The statement said Eisenhower and Dulles, in discussing the situation, made clear that the United States will try at the London conference to help provide a peaceful and equitable solution "with the objective of safeguarding the interests of those dependent on the canal as well as recognizing the legitimate interests of Egypt."

The statement described them as "hopeful" but added that they stressed "the continuing gravity of the situation and the difficulty in achieving a constructive solution."

Members attending said there was no discussion of the possibility of a special session of Congress, but Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said that "if things develop more seriously I could well conceive of there being a special session."

Back in Chicago, Johnson said he thought the Suez matter was a "a grave crisis partially of our own making." He did not elaborate.

GOVERNOR RACE

Candidates Enter Final Two Weeks

By The Associated Press

Sen. Price Daniel and Ralph Yarborough plunged Monday into the final two weeks of their campaign for governor. The drive has become as hot as the weather.

Daniel will visit Gatesville, Temple, Cameron, Taylor and Georgetown with a television address at Austin Monday night. Tuesday night he will stop at San Marcos and New Braunfels en route to San Antonio for another night TV speech.

Yarborough plans to appear at the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Dallas Wednesday and at an old settlers' reunion at Quitman Thursday.

The candidates for attorney general also plan extensive campaigning.

Will Wilson of Dallas was in Fort Worth Monday where the State Democratic Executive Committee met to canvass the July 28 primary.

Wilson will be in Fort Worth through Tuesday, go to Beaumont Wednesday, Port Arthur and Orange Thursday and Tyler Friday.

Tom Moore of Waco was to be in Dallas Monday before going to Tyler for a night meeting. Tuesday he plans to visit Marshall, Jefferson, Atlanta and Texarkana.

Daniel proposed at Waco that a new study be made of the state's responsibilities to the mentally ill and to the aged.

He said if elected he would ask the Legislature to authorize a commission to make such a study.

"We've come a long way in the past few years, but there's still plenty of room for improvement," Daniel added.

Drought, Heat Wave Continue Over State

By The Associated Press

The drought and the heat held Texas in its sultry grip Monday.

Skies were clear except for clouds on the lower Gulf Coast. No rain was reported.

Temperatures ranged Sunday from 105 degrees at Presidio to 90 at Galveston and Corpus Christi.

A windstorm which some thought might have been a small tornado ripped into San Antonio Sunday shortly after noon. It ripped the roof off a 20 by 50-foot construction company storage building. No one was injured by debris thrown over a wide area.

Boiling thunder clouds spawned tornadoes and isolated cloudbursts over the Midwest today.

Heavy thunderstorms lashed the Mississippi and Ohio River valleys with tornadoes reported in Indiana at Monticello and Logansport. An unconfirmed twister struck near Moline, Ill.

No injuries wree reported in the wake of the storms, but damage was widespread.

Windows were blown out throughout Logansport, a town of 21,000 in north central Indiana. The storm also knocked down trees and left the city without power.

Violent winds that hit during a thunderstorm in Mokena, Ill., blew down three tents last night at the community's three-day carnival. One man injured when a tent pole pinned his legs to the ground as he hurled a small girl to safety.

Strong winds and torrential rains caused extensive damage last night in the adjoining Minnesota mining communities of Crosby and Ironton. Trees, toppled by the winds, crushed several rooftops.

A severe thunderstorm accompanied by high winds hit the northern suburbs of Chicago last night, flooding streets, felling trees and plunging several areas into darkness.

Hurricanes Line Up For Annual 'Frolic'

By B. F. KELLUM
Associated Press Staff Writer

Some powerful women will debark along the Atlantic Coast and the Gulf of Mexico in the next three months—but they won't be welcome.

These gals are hurricanes—given feminine code names by the Weather Bureau. In August, September and October these destructive females make the greatest number of appearances.

These feminine phenomena have little resemblance to their weaker sex namesakes. It has been estimated that in one minute a hurricane expends more energy than the United States produces in electric power in 50 years.

Energy released by a hurricane in one second is greater than that produced by several atomic explosions.

Names selected for use this year in designating hurricanes are: Anna, Betsy, Carla, Dora, Ethel, Flossy, Greta, Hattie, Ine, Judith, Kitty, Laura, Molly, Nona, Odette, Paula, Quenty, Rhoda, Sadie, Teresa, Ursel, Vesta, Winny, Xina, Yola and Zenda.

Anna already has appeared, but was a little sickly. Winds never did get up to the 75 m.p.h. which is the minimum for hurricanes. This one blew itself out against the mountains west of Tampico about a week ago.

Rarely are there enough hurricanes over a single season to use up more than half of the 26 names in the alphabetical list. The record number in one season is 21.

The Weather Bureau felt that use of girls' names, in written as well as spoken communications, was shorter, quicker and less confusing than the older cumbersome latitude-longitude identification.

It felt also that the use of easily remember names reduces confusion when two or more tropical storms occur at the same time.

Hurricane is the term generally used to describe a circular disturbance in the Atlantic Ocean, Gulf of Mexico or the Caribbean Sea.

The "typhoon" of the China Sea, the "baguio" of the Philippines, and the "cyclone" of the Bay of Bengal and the Indian Ocean, are names used elsewhere for the same type we generally call a "hurricane."

The average life of a hurricane is about 9 days.

The hurricane warning service of the Weather Bureau was reorganized in 1935. In recent years, notable improvements have resulted from receipt of reports from reconnaissance aircraft, radar observations from coastal stations, and by obtaining more complete weather data from heights up to 40,000 feet.

Special teletypewriter circuits are established during the hurricane season. These connect Weather Bureau offices on the coasts from Brownsville, Tex., to Portland, Maine.

The Weather Bureau also is aided by various agencies and governments such as U.S. Coast Guard stations, lighthouses, mobile units and from weather stations in Mexico and Central and South America.

Air Force and Navy aircraft fly to the areas of suspected storm activity, and often directly into severe storms and hurricanes to report on the location, intensity and movement of the storms.

Hurricanes are great vortices composed of air swirling in a counter-clockwise direction around a low pressure center.

After hurricanes are spawned in the tropical Atlantic, they generally move westward until somewhere off the southeast coast of the United States they begin to recurve toward the north and then move northeastward.

Hurricane winds of more than 150 miles an hour have been observed at the surface in mature hurricanes. A gust of 186 miles an hour was recorded in the 1938 hurricane at Blue Ridge observatory in Milton, Mass. Structural engineers have estimated that surface wind speeds up to 250 miles per hour have occurred within a hurricane.

The area of destructive winds in a hurricane varies considerably. In a small hurricane the width of this area may be as small as 25 miles, but in some great hurricanes, the width may extend out to 500 miles.

The storm wave associated with hurricanes sometimes causes great coastal inundations. High water often is the cause of more loss of life than high winds. High water 10 to 16 feet above normal tides has been reported during some of the larger hurricanes.

The record amount of rainfall associated with a hurricane in the United States was at Taylor, Tex., in Sept., 1921 when 23.11 inches was recorded in a 24-hour period.

Violent Death Toll Spurts Into Holiday Proportions

By The Associated Press

Violent death tolls in Texas spurted into holiday proportions over the weekend.

At least 24 violent deaths were reported, 19 in traffic. Four died in shootings and one in a house fire.

Three persons were killed in each of two separate traffic accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hall and their son, Keith, were killed in a two-car collision 12 miles north of Wellington Sunday night. Seriously injured was Eric Fletcher Jr. of Wellington.

A Houston carpenter, J. C. James, was shot to death late Sunday in a home on the outskirts of Dallas. A tavern waitress, 40, was questioned.

Mrs. Millie Palmer, about 80, burned to death in her Sherman home.

Killed in a head-on collision near Palmer Saturday were Donnell Albee, 46, of Waterloo, Iowa; his brother, Ronald, 37, of Dallas; and their mother, Mrs. Rula Albee of Cincinnati.

Samuel Sanders, 58, was found shot to death in his Dallas home Sunday. Suicide was ruled. Sanders had lived alone since the death of his wife.

Sgt. Thomas Shell, 25, of Ft. Hayes, Ohio, was killed at Waco in a headon auto crash Sunday. A service man in the other car suffered serious hand and arm injuries.

Delmore Taylor, 39, of San Angelo, was killed Sunday when his car overturned on U.S. 277 near Eldorado.

Lester White, 60, and his wife, 58, were killed in an auto collision on U.S. 183 at Lockhart Sunday. The driver of the second car, Eladio Juarez, 21, of Lockhart, was injured.

DeWitt Johnson, 33, of Dallas, was shot to death late Saturday night as he sat on a bar stool in a crowded night club.

Machinery To Force Justice

The West Texas Press Association renewed its appeal for justice in representation during the annual convention just ended in San Angelo. The association went on record—again—urging the Legislature to submit a constitutional amendment setting up mechanics for compulsory precinct redistricting if the people desire.

Basically, the proposal is to make mandatory a referendum if as many as 10 per cent of the voters petition when a precinct falls below or has more than 40 per cent of the county's total population or voters. If the people then vote for a redistricting, the court could undertake to do this—as it is obligated under present statute to do, but without any penalty for failure to act. Should the court fail, then a redistricting board would be set up; and should the board not function within a stated time, then the District Court could mandamus the board into action.

Our commissioners attended to this chore a few years ago, moving to ease some grossly inequitable divisions in the number of people in precincts. Our situation, however, was never so bad as in such places as Midland, where one precinct contains around 96 per cent of the county's total population, and in Taylor County, where the situation is almost as bad. Fair play and justice demand that such conditions be corrected, and that where selfish interests refuse to correct them that the people have adequate remedy.

And that reminds us that August is the reprecincting month. How about splitting up some of these bulky, big boxes so that the holding of elections and counting of ballots can be made more wieldy?

The Power To Blackmail

Predicting that "good sense will prevail" and a solution will be found in the Suez crisis at the conference table instead of on the battlefield, President Eisenhower has felt it necessary to clarify some of his recent statements on that subject.

At his press conference the President answering a question, observed that he had been "very careful" not to say that he was opposed to the use of military force under any circumstances. He had said, he explained, that "every important question in the world in which more than one nation is interested should be settled by negotiation. We have tried to substitute the conference table for the battlefield.

Thus in a sense the U. S. was acknowledging that military action under certain conditions was not excluded. For her part Britain, on the other hand, modified her tough stand by saying it sought peaceful means of settling the dispute with Egypt's Nasser.

Neither Egypt nor Soviet Russia had accepted bids to the conference scheduled for next week as this was written, and they may boycott it. But 19 other nations had accepted, and whatever solution they agree on will pack a great deal of moral and material weight.

As Prime Minister Anthony Eden pointed out in an address to the world, keeping the Suez open to the commerce of the world is a matter of life or death to Britain and to Western Europe. Oil is an absolute necessity, and even a momentary stoppage of its flow through Suez would devastate the industry of Britain in particular and Western Europe in general.

Britain has her back to the wall. If Egypt is left with the power to shut down the canal at any time the very threat of a shutdown could throw the West into a crisis. President Nasser could and undoubtedly would use that power to blackmail whatever he wanted out of the West.

That would be an intolerable situation. The inevitable end would be an Arab coalition under Soviet dominance that would pose the greatest threat against the West, including the U. S., since the days of Genghis Khan and Attila the Hun.

At best, whatever the conference may be able to achieve may be no better than a stopgap. But it's worth trying.

David Lawrence

The Double-Talk On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON—The season of double-talk is on. It's a time when politicians say what they don't mean and never say what they do mean.

If anybody had predicted a few months ago that the great Democratic party at its national convention would be hesitating to endorse or approve in specific terms in its platform the Supreme Court's decision on segregation, he would certainly have been regarded as a poor prophet.

Yet this last week the weasel words are being beamed from Chicago to the Southland and back. The professional politicians among the Democrats from the South were amazed to read that Adlai Stevenson, in an impromptu interview, said the Supreme Court's decision should be endorsed. Immediately his managers disavowed any attempt to "dictate" to the platform committee and said that any "compromise" plank adopted would meet with his approval.

A subcommittee of compromise-writers from among Democratic senators and representatives, especially equipped with the best synonyms and euphemisms in the dictionaires of modern politics, will try to draft phrases which will keep the Negro vote in the Democratic column in northern cities and at the same time avoid estranging the whites who normally vote Democratic in the South.

This is quite an assignment. But it will be accomplished. There will be oratorical outbursts from both sides at the convention and the whole "civil rights" controversy will be rehashed. Governor Harriman will be paraded as the staunch supporter of "civil rights," while Adlai Stevenson will be portrayed as a wobbling "moderationist."

Yet this is about the only issue that separates the two leading contenders. The public has not been given any clear difference between their points of view on other issues, if indeed there are any other differences.

The political facts today show that Stevenson has the edge and isn't going to be sidetracked. The Harriman vote will go to Stevenson instead of to Symington if it is apparent that the New York governor can't win.

The public thinks, of course, that the nomination is really going to be contested for by rival delegations. Actually "rival bosses" would be a more accurate description of the true contestants. About a dozen men control the votes of enough states to win a presidential nomination for their favorite candidate. It has been that way in most national conventions of both political parties for a long while.

The only time the rank and file of voters come into the picture is after the conventions have been held. If the Chicago meeting results in a platform plank which offends the South, it can be taken for granted that there will be a split in the November voting.

A "walkout" of southern delegations is not likely to occur at the convention unless some flagrant offense to the southern Democrats is committed. With the experience of the revolt in the 1948 Democratic national convention still vividly in mind, the professionals feel they can avoid a recurrence. They now have as allies some southern politicians who are themselves candidates for re-election to Congress and naturally do not want to see the voting procedures in November messed up.

There will be a drive, however, to get "write-in" votes on election day, and it will be stimulated by the failure of the national platform to denounce the Supreme Court's decision on segregation, which the South feels is an unconstitutional usurpation of power by the high court. For the Democratic national convention, even by inference, to applaud what the Court has done is to fan the flames of fury in the South.

So ambiguity of phrasing could keep the professionals in the Democratic party harmonious next week, but it could also be the forerunner of a split ticket in many states, causing electoral votes for the top Democratic nominee to be placed in jeopardy.

Fish Stories

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP) — You can throw away the book when you're fishing in these parts.

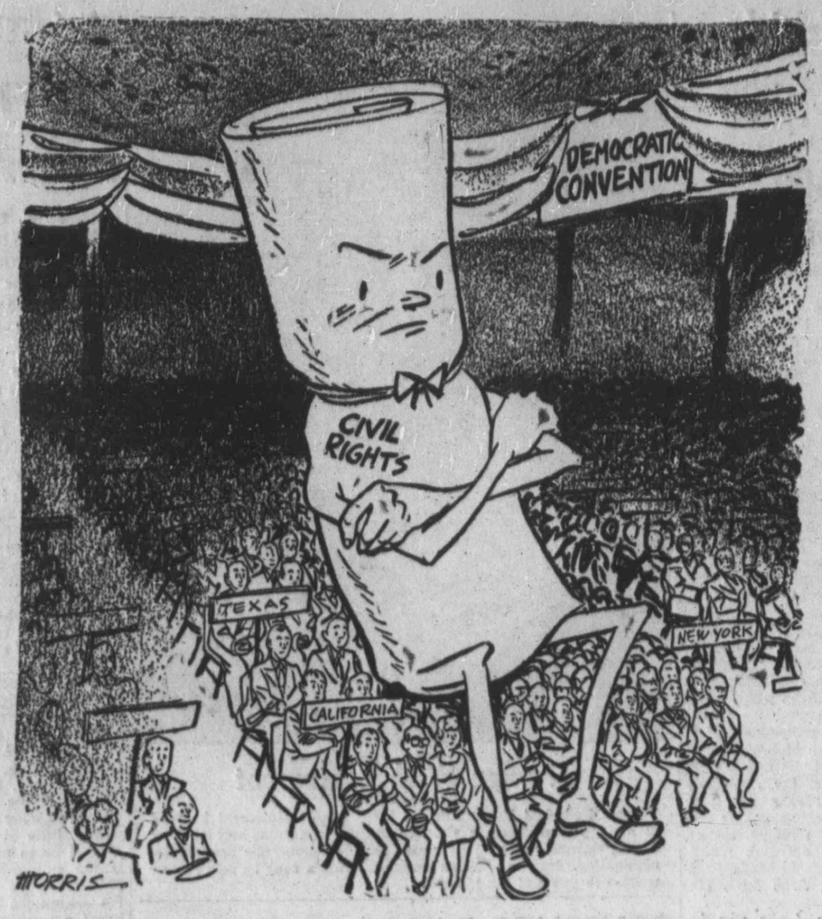

Jimmy Mitchell, 12, baited his hook with worms and tossed it into Boy River for a mess of bullheads. He caught a 14-pound muskie. A little later, in Black Bay, Mrs. Joe Taschuk ran out of minnows. She broke off a chunk of wiener, baited a hook, and caught a walleye.

Sober Story?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police are looking for Mrs. Rose Petrella's pink elephant. It was stolen from her front lawn.

But Mrs. Petrella doesn't think it should be too hard to find.

It weighs about 200 pounds and was wrapped in a two-foot tall iron frame on a concrete base with spikes driven into the ground.

Harriman, Adlai Look Like Twins

CHICAGO (AP) — The great illusion at the Democratic convention is that there is a big difference between Adlai Stevenson and Gov. Harriman on national issues.

There isn't. On most they look like twins.

Harriman himself has helped create this illusion by denouncing the "moderation" of Stevenson and of President Eisenhower too. He has done this for one of two reasons:

1. He thinks there is a difference or 2. he thinks it necessary to make himself sound like a political hot-rod in order to win the Democratic nomination and then the presidential election.

The best way to judge Stevenson and Harriman — on any differences or similarities between them —is on where they say they say they stand on the issues. Under that kind of examination they look alike:

Civil rights — Both are for a careful, gradual carrying out of the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation. Both say that they would not use troops or guns. Both proposed a party platform plank backing the court.

Harriman would go one step further than Stevenson: he'd withhold federal aid to segregated schools. Stevenson wouldn't.

Natural resources and power development — Both — and this is a standard Democratic cry — accuse the Eisenhower administration of a "giveaway" of natural resources. Both favor public development of water power and natural resources.

Labor — Both favor changes in the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and both are critical of the right-to-work laws — in some states — which forbid union shops.

Foreign policy — Both favor sizable economic aid to foreign countries. Stevenson suggests the United States and Russia join in giving economic help through the United Nations instead of separately as now. Harriman suggests a new international agency to do the job with the United States and Russia as members.

Both, of course, were highly critical of the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign affairs.

Car Trouble

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP) — Harry Ralston, local Moose Lodge governor, pitched in to help bartenders serve customers celebrating the lodge's sixth birthday.

He was doing OK until a customer asked for a "screwdriver," a new drink made with vodka. It stumped him for a few seconds until he walked to a storage drawer and produced a small screwdriver.

"No," the customer said. "It's a drink."

"Oh!" Ralston said, "I thought you were having trouble with your car and needed a screwdriver."

Mr. Breger

The Postman Rings Again

NEW YORK (AP)— Odd things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That warm weather addicts who complain this has been too cool a summer might be happier if they lived on the sun. The temperature there ranges from 10,000 degrees on the surface to 36,000,000 degrees in the center.

That it takes the sun about 27 days to rotate on its axis. The heat makes it lazy.

That the popular impression tuberculosis has been whipped just isn't so. In the United States one person died every 27 minutes of this disease in 1955.

That nine ounces of beef a day will provide all the protein you need, and—goody, goody!— there are 917 million cattle in the world.

That singer Frances Langford, who had been a lyric soprano, earned fame and fortune with her voice after a tonsilectomy changed her into a contralto. But when I had my tonsils out all I got was a sore throat—and a bill.

That most people have no idea how busy their bodies really are. Every second—even when you're sleeping—three million of your red blood cells die, three million new ones are born.

That some nerve impulses travel up to 300 m.p.h. Well, we always knew it doesn't take long for a woman to feel hurt.

That bandleader Sammy Kaye spends his spare time between shows on one-night stands reading the English philosophers.

That tornadoes took 1,766 lives in America between 1945 and 1955.

That if the ticking of a clock in your bedroom keeps you from sleeping, you can silence it by covering it with a glass bowl. Yeah, but where does that leave the goldfish?

That the Leningrad radio has announced many schools in the Soviet Union won't hold their usual history examinations this year. Wonder why?

That songbird Teresa Brewer, whose records sell in the millions, doesn't own a piano and never sings a note at home.

That mighty Mickey Mantle has a long way to go if he wants to catch up with Ty Cobb, who hit .300 or more for 23 straight seasons and was still a star at 40.

That about 1 in 600 youngsters has a form of brain damage, often undetected, which prevents him from learning to read well.

That Hollywood has lost its monopoly of private swimming pools. Americans all over the country bought 26,500 backyard pools last year at a cost of 78 million dollars.

That Robert Q. Lewis, the bespectacled television humorist, has received proposals from 324 leap year lovelorn ladies. Some 22 per cent of the girls confided they wore horn-rimmed glasses, too.

That while we're on the subject of love a poll of 3,000 ladies showed 65 per cent believed men who smoke pipes are more attractive than those who don't. But one girl — bless her honest heart— wrote: "Any man is attractive no matter what he is doing."

Summer Dog Care

BOSTON (AP) — Pets can suffer heat prostration just as well as humans, says the Massachusetts Veterinary Assn.

Never, the association says, lock an animal in a car standing for hours in the sun, or a tightly-closed apartments and hot, stuffy rooms. Water should be made available to them at all times.

If the animal shows signs of severe panting, weakness and apparent helplessness it's an indication of approaching prostration. To combat this serious danger, the association says, the animal's body should be swabbed with cool water.

If the pet's discomfort is not quickly eased, death can follow quickly.

Fun For Children

HONOLULU, (AP)—Mrs. Russell A. Greer, wife of a retired army colonel, has a novel way of entertaining her six grandchildren. She catches sharks for them from the sea-wall of her home on Kaneohe Bay.

Mrs. Greer has caught as many as eight Hammerhead Sharks,, some two or three feet long, in one afternoon.

"My fishing for sharks keeps the children interested," she said. "It's a good way to keep them quiet when they come to visit."

Set Back

READING, Pa. (AP)—The 20th Century suffered an embarrassing setback here on a Reading street when a horse-drawn cart and a new automobile tangled bumpers.

The cart, owned by Charles Williams, was backed into the parked car by an unattended horse.

The car fender was wrinkled and the cart and horse didn't suffer a single scratch

Around The Rim

Some Impressions Of A 'Former Life'

Bridey Murphy isn't the only one who can talk knowingly of re-incarnation. These things I remember from a former life:

Ice cream parlors, with huge marble-top counters and steel chairs with wicker bottoms.

Slip-covers for automobile tires.

Radio loud-speakers that looked like capsized horns-of-plenty.

Circus parades.

Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

School children marching into class.

School bells, manually worked by ropes.

The taste of wild potatoes, especially after a rain which had washed their roots free.

The huge cottonwood trees lining the T&P tracks, near what was once the Y building here.

The triangular dinner gong outside the TP restaurant here, rung by a colored man when a passenger train arrived.

The ole swimming hole at the base of Scenic Mountain, called Red Dam, without water at this writing.

Happy Hooligan.

The professional fights staged in the old Casino night club at the northern edge of the city limits.

The appearance of the immortal Grover Cleveland Alexander with the House of David team in the old ball park east of town, his big league days long since behind him but still a baseball star of the first magnitude, in my eyes.

Phonographs with cylindrical records.

Lightning rods.

Medicine shows.

"All-day singing and dinner on the ground" church meetings.

Cattle drives that often terminated at the end of Lancaster (then Jack) street, in which the traffic on West Third proved no worry, either to the cowboys or the animals.

Painting with crayons.

The days when Iatan Flats and Jones Valley were under water after every sizeable rain.

Ghost stories told on a neighbor's porch, after which you were afraid to walk home alone.

Pre-viaduct days, when you had to get a signal from the flagman before crossing Gregg Street to the North side.

Piles of coal in the coal yards near the railroad east of Main Street, as high as a giraffe's eye.

The first view of a real whale, as displayed by people who pulled it around the country on a railroad flat car and placed it on derail here amid great balleyhoo.

All that couldn't have been impressions gained in this lifetime, or could it?

Showdown Or Guaranties On Suez

The Suez dispute is on two planes which, though they are related, need to be carefully distinguished in our minds. On one plane, the circumstances of the seizure of the Suez Canal Company are a spectacular test of prestige, precipitated by President Nasser in order to demonstrate that his power in the Middle East is greater than that of the Western nations. On the other plane, by taking over the administration of the canal, he is in a position to discriminate among the users of the canal, and to exert upon them political pressure.

On the first plane, that of prestige, the dispute is a showdown which, carried to its conclusion, would mean either the fall of Nasser or the collapse of the British, French, and American position from Morocco to the Persian Gulf. On the second plane, the issue is the modernization and the implementation of the treaty of 1888, guaranteeing free and equal use of the canal. The question, which has been posed in London, Paris and Washington, is whether to move on the first plane or on the second — towards a showdown with Nasser or towards measures to protect the international character of the canal. The decision agreed to by the Western powers has been to move on the second plane — that, as the London "Economist" puts it, "the immediate Western interest is not to teach Col. Nasser a lesson (he must learn his own lessons) but to keep the ships passing through the canal."

This is a wise decision, even from the point of view of the showdown on prestige. For if by patient, resourceful and disinterested diplomacy the treaty of 1888 can be modernized and reaffirmed, with general international support, there will be in the old Wilsonian phrase "peace without victory" in the canal zone.

* * *

There is, in fact, no other course open to us. For, except in the case of the Israeli ships which the Western powers have condoned, Nasser has not violated the treaty of 1888. To use force against him, say to blockade his ports or to reoccupy the canal zone,would, as of now, be aggression within the meaning of the United Nations Charter. Almost certainly, it would bring virtually the whole of Asia to Nasser's side and against the West. In all probability it would set off a chain reaction in the Arab countries, involving reprisals on the pipe lines and the oil fields.

* * *

The British decision to evacuate its armed forces from Egyptian territory — a decision for which we have some responsibility — marked the end of an epoch in the Middle East. It means that national interests in the Middle East will have to be based not on vested rights but on contracts and agreements arrived at by the calculation of mutual advantages. It is too late to consider seriously as practical policy the restoration of the old relationship.

The Western powers can intervene if they are attacked. They can intervene to repel overt aggression. But they cannot intervene in order to impose the kind of regime they would like to see in the canal zone. They must use diplomacy to induce Egypt and its friends.

* * *

The dependence of Western Europe on the canal is undesirably big, and the dependence of Great Britain is even worse. Nearly half of the oil consumed in Western Europe last year came through Suez; for Great Britain it was 75 per cent. Whatever the guaranties that can be worked out by diplomacy, it will remain the stark fact that Nasser has physical control of the canal, that Western Europe can be critically hurt if the canal is closed.

For that reason, it is imperative that the Western powers concert measures to reduce their dependence on Suez, to break over their vital communications. The less they are dependent, the more it will be to Egypt's advantage to keep open the canal on fair terms.

That is why we should encourage and help the British and the French who are thinking of such measures as: The building of more and bigger tankers to go around the Cape, and of a pipe line, conceivably even a second canal, from the Red Sea to the Mediterranean through Israel in order to by-pass Suez.

Pogo For President?

Unseated Delegates Await Candidate

(There is more going on in Chicago than the regular press correspondents are revealing. We refer to the Pogo candidacy. The Herald made arrangements for special dispatches from the convention city, so that all readers will be fully informed).

POGO CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS, Chicago, (Delayed) — Pogo's continued absence from this convention city has convinced his 456 unseated delegates that there is a possibility he has taken a few weeks off until the present political situation "blows over," according to party spokesman Walt Kelly, a cartoonist. "We have a feeling that the candidate believes he has every chance to gain the nomination hands down and that his natural-born modesty prevents him from making an appearance at this time."

Pressed on the question of Pogo's continued availability in the face of his undeniable non-presence Mr. Kelly assured a group of delegates that Pogo was just as ready now as he was four years ago when he first heard the clarion call of duty. "It is not that Pogo is afraid to show up here, as many allegators have said," explained Press Secretary Tom Brophy. "It is just that he wants to give everybody a fair chance.For him to sweep into the convention hall and take the nomination by storm would be undemocratic. He does not feel that he should dictate the nomination. Neither will he say who is for vice. He feels that the best man for the job would be the best man; whoever was for vice last time, unless he is a shilly shallower, should be for vice again."

Asked if he might be quoted Mr. Brophy said, "No."

"We want no weasel words," added Mr. Kelly, amplifying Mr. Brophy's remarks, over Mr. Brophy's protest. "We want no weasel words whatsoever. If a man was for vice in 1952 and can't be for vice in 1956, we feel he has switched his position. He is using weasel words."

Shortly after this a weasel delegation from upper Michigan left in a huff, accompanied by an unidentified stranger. Significance was seen in this.

Mr. Kelly went on record before a convention of calf-raisers (mother types cows) at the stock yards to the effect that Pogo's delegates at large were being picked up by Chicago authorities. "Three of them," said Kelly, "were taken to the Brookfield Zoo last night and incarcerated. An incarcerated rhinoceros, lion or buffalo cannot vote," he pointed out, "and merely because our delegates were at large and hungry is no reason to deny them their natural-born rights."

Reminded that his delegates cannot vote if they are not seated, Kelly replied, "It may take some time to seat our delegates, not all of them bend in the right places for one thing, and considering some of the other delegates I've seen on display around here. I think that this is somewhat of a distinction." Kelly also refused to be quoted.

Cut From Job

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Ten-year-old Samuel Gearhart probably is smarter than anyone thinks.

He suffered a slight cut on his left index finger and was given hospital treatment and a promise that he would never again be put in a position to suffer such an injury.

Sammy grinned when he heard this.

You see he cut his finger while helping his mother wash the dinner dishes.

BONNYVILLE, Sask. (AP) — Councillors of this Northeastern Alberta town described a new steel picket fence around the federal building as a "Monstrosity." Dangerous and an insult to Bonnyville.

Cliff Patton, Roscoe's new head football mentor, is cautiously optimistic about his term this fall.

The former NFL kicking great, who played his high school ball here, reveals his boys are big.

"But," he adds, "they're the kind who can get you beat."

Patton resigned a position as head coach at Clyde to take the Roscoe position. He starts his workouts Aug. 27.

For years, some of the coaches attending the Texas Coaches' Association annual school have complained that the clinic is too big.

The way some of the hotels put the bite on the registrants may reduce the turnout, however.

Some of the mentors who attended the clinic in Lubbock last week state they were charged $12 nightly for a $5 room.

And a few of the mentors found they couldn't get lodging the first night and, as a result, had to grab their 40 winks in their automobiles.

Rickie Starr, the grappler who was first trained by George Dunn, the local promoter, has adopted a new routine that may, in time, make him as big a drawing card as Georgeous George used to be.

Gorgeous' star, incidentally, has just about gone into eclipse and he may have 'had it,' as far as getting an extra slice of the gate goes.

Starr has combined the study of wrestling and tumbling with serious ballet. He does a pirouette in the ring that is deliberately not very masculine. Fact is, he even incorporates the wilder gyrations of Elvis Presley into the dance, at times.

It gets results from the fans, however, who like to ape his gestures. Most important of all, it is paying off at the box office.

Baseball has become a parlor sport demanding parlor manners. What a change from a few years ago. Maybe it's for the better. Maybe not.

Once, during his heyday, the immortal Rube Waddell bolted into the stands and slugged a patron who was heckling him while he was trying to get on with his work.

The umpire exiled him, not for the knuckle dusting he did on the gabby patron but rather because he had left the playing field.

Ban Johnson, then the president of the American League, happened to be present, however, and ordered that Rube be allowed to return to the mound.

Nowadays, they exact a $5,000 fine against a man for showing his dislike for a hostile press.

Local fans who were here in 1938-39-40 may recall Del (Spanky) Ballinger, who caught for Midland in the old WT-NM League.

Del was a character, as he later proved in the Pacific Coast League.

Once, while performing for San Diego, he and Pepper Martin, his manager, discovered the clubhouse boy had a toy pistol that looked like the real thing.

Pepper talked him into "shooting" the umpire, if the arbiter made a call against him.

The chance didn't present itself until late in the game. The umpire, not wise to the scheme warned Spanky against stalling.

"You mess with me and I'll shoot you," yelled Ballinger, trying to look wild-eyed.

"I oughta put you out of the game. This thing is three hours old now!" admonished the ump.

Never cracking a smile, Spanky grabbed for the gun, stuck it in the umpire's middle and fired. Smoke came out of the pistol's barrel and both the ump and the fans thought murder was being committed on the field.

The arbiter fell back and started feeling for blood. He quickly recovered his poise and chased Ballinger.

Ballinger's association with Chief Warren, a genuine Indian pitcher for Midland who later got in trouble with John Law in Oklahoma, probably started him on his way toward being a real baseball character. Warren was about as predictable as March weather is around here.

Ted Kroll Is Tam Champ

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Ted Kroll, golf's Purple Heart hero, has captured the game's richest prize, the $50,000 top swag of the "World" tourney.

There was more than poetic justice as the 37-year-old Kroll, long seeking a major title, hit the jackpot with a sizzling 15-under-par total of 273 at Tam O'Shanter yesterday and prepared to pocket another $50,000 in exhibition money.

Kroll, who is short (5-8½), compact (152) and iron-nerved (he was wounded four times in World War II), indicated he would sign today with promoter George S. May for a minimum of 50 promotional exhibitions at $1,000 per appearance.

Kroll's fine string of 67-69-71-66 rounds matched the 1951 World record aggregate of 273 by Ben Hogan.

The $50,000 cold-cash first prize made Kroll the year's top money winner with $72,855, but fame and fortune have been elusive to this native of New Hartford, Conn., up up until the World show.

In finishing three strokes ahead of Fred Hawkins (276) with his bristling 32-34—66 finish, Kroll finally won his "big one" after 18 years as a pro.

Hawkins closed with a 67 for his 276 and collected $10,000. Roberto Vicenzo of Mexico City had the best closing round, 65 for a 277 and third money of $5,000.

Fourth prize went to Australia's Peter Thomson, who folded on the last nine for a 71 and a 278 total, good for $3,000.

Marlene Bauer Hagge won the $6,000 first prize in the women's pro division with 298, defeating Betty Jameson by one stroke.

Ward Wettlaufer, 20-year-old Hamilton College golf captain from Buffalo, N. Y., took the men's amateur with 290, seven strokes ahead of Martin Stanovich, Chicago.

Anne Richardson, Columbus, Ohio, finished with 309 to win by 10 strokes over Jackie Yates of Honolulu in the women's amateur division.

Colts Advance To 4th Place

By The Associated Press

San Angelo, which has fought a long, hard battle with Plainview for fourth place in the Southwestern League, moved into the position by one-half game last night with an 11-10 win over El Paso.

Plainview dropped back by being idle during the night.

Leading Hobbs stopped Carlsbad 12-5, Roswell beat Midland 6-3 and Ballinger swamped Clovis 18-5.

Pampa and Plainview play a doubleheader in Plainview tonight. Clovis again is at Ballinger, Roswell plays Midland, Hobbs is at Carlsbad and El Paso is at San Angelo.

A ninth inning single by Herman Charles drove across the winning run for San Angelo against the second-place El Paso Texans.

It was a real slugfest at Ballinger with both Clovis and Ballinger getting three homers each. Ballinger's Westerners racked up 17 hits.

Roswell got off to a good start with five runs in the first two innings and then held off the Midland Indians for the win.

Hobbs' Sports pounded out 16 hits, including two homers, to win and increase their lead in the league to 11 full games.

OLYMPIC TRIALS IN RUSSIA NOT A SUCCESS, NEWSPAPER REVEALS

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MOSCOW (AP)— Russia made it official today. The Soviet Spartakaid sports festival is not a success, and any hopes of matching the United States in track and field in the coming Olympics can be laid to rest for another four years.

Speaking in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, K. A. Andrianov, second in command of Russia's vast sports program, said:

"The level of achievements scored in track and field events cannot be considered satisfactory."

Andrianov is a member of the International Olympic Committee and has been acting as chief referee of the Spartakiad, Russia's unofficial Olympic tryouts.

Also the subject of critical words from Andrianov were the Soviet swimmers and even the boxing referees.

Andrianov had a backer in chief Russian track and field coach Gabriel Korobkov, although the latter wasn't quite so bitter. He merely opined that he was disappointed in the results here.

In his Pravda article, Andrianov recounted the main accomplishments in the big festival. They came primarily in weightlifting, a sport with 300,000 participants here.

Then after taking the runners to task, he was especially displeased with the 100- and 400-meter results, he turned his attention to the swimmers.

"They have not yielded especially good results," he thundered. "They have shown that progress achieved in this sport is still insignificant."

Red Sox Find Senators Tough To Handle In Race

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

If the Boston Red Sox fail in their drive to overtake the American League-leading New York Yankees, as it now seems likely, they can blame it on the Washington Senators.

The lowly Nats, waging a season-long struggle to stay out of the cellar, have been plain poison to the Red Sox. On the other hand, they have been little more than a doormat for the Yankees.

They have won 9 of 13 games with Boston, the best record of any team against the Red Sox. In sharp contrast, they've won only 2 of 16 with the Yankees. There is your reason why the Yankees today were in first place, 10 games in front of the third-place Red Sox.

While New York was increasing its margin over runner-up Cleveland to 8½ games yesterday by sweeping a double-header from Baltimore 6-2 and 4-2, Washington was whipping the Red Sox 8-2. The Indians widened their lead over Boston to a game and a half by defeating Kansas City 6-3, Detroit thrashed Chicago 5-2.

In the National, Milwaukee maintained its 1½-game bulge on Brooklyn by overpowering Cincinnati 8-2 as the Dodgers were beating Robin Roberts and Philadelphia 7-3.

Pittsburgh whipped the Giants 3-2 and 11-3 while Chicago played a scoreless nine-inning tie with St. Louis after defeating the Cardinals 6-2. Darkness halted the second game.

Outfielders Jim Lemon and Roy Sievers, who have been hitting practically everything Boston pitchers have thrown at them this year, were the offensive stars again as Washington knocked starter Willard Nixon out of the box in the first inning.

Lemon blasted his fourth home run in the three-game series with Boston and drove in two runs. Sievers collected three singles and drove in a run.

The Yankees' one-two punch of Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra did it again. Mantle smashed his 41st home run and drove in three runs in the opener as Don Larsen went the route for his seventh victory. Berra's two-run triple proved the difference in the second gane.

Herb Score struck out 14 for his 12th victory. Bobby Avila, Rocky Colavito and Al Smith homered for the Indians.

Second baseman Frank Bolling cracked a three-run homer and a double that enabled the Tigers' Billy Hoeft to win a southpaw duel from Chicago's Billy Pierce.

Lew Burdette hurled a five-hitter for the Braves as they won the rubber of their three-game set from Cincinnati. Milwaukee chased 16-game winner Brooks Lawrence in the third and went on to collect eight hits, including two by Bobby Thomson, who drove in two runs.

Carl Furillo slammed two of Brooklyn's four home runs. Pee Wee Reese and Randy Jackson got the other two. Roger Craig won his 11th although he needed help from Clem Labine in the ninth.

Homers by Jim King and Monte Irvin accounted for five of Chicago's six runs as right-hander Bob Rush scattered nine St. Louis hits for his 11th triumph. Herman Wehmeier, Card right-hander, and Jim Davis, Cub southpaw, waged the scoreless second-game duel.

Frank Thomas singled four times to spearhead a 17-hit Pirate attack against three Giant pitchers in the second game after Pittsburgh had won the opener on Bill Virdon's two-run triple.

Ham Decisions Neale Fraser

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — Ham Richardson, considered one of America's top Davis Cup hopefuls although ranked only No. 7 in the nation, held the limelight today as the Newport Invitational Tennis Tournament opened at the Casino.

Richardson, a Rhodes scholar from Westfield, N. J., was seeded second behind Australian Davis Cupper Ken Rosewall, but the tourney ratings were made before the young American's latest triumph.

Richardson won the Eastern Grass Court championship yesterday by overwhelming Neale Fraser of Australia, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, for his fourth straight victory over the Aussie tourists.

Before his straight-set triumph over Fraser, Richardson defeated Aussies Roy Emerson, Rosewall and Ashley Cooper. It was Richardson's first Eastern grass court title.

After watching his young star, U. S. Davis Cup Team Capt. Billy Talbert called Richardson "the most consistent amateur in the world, even more so than Lew Hoad of Australia)."

Later, Ham and Vic Seixas, veteran member of the U. S. Davis Cup team, teamed in the doubles, but lost to Fraser and Rosewall. The Aussies were hard-pressed before gaining a 6-4, 8-6, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4 victory.

Trailing in order in the seedings behind Rosewall and Richardson at Newport are Cooper; Grant Golden of Chicago; Fraser; Emerson; Sid Scwartz of New York and Al Morris of Atlanta.

In an opening match yesterday, Whitney Reed of Los Angeles defeated Alistair Martin of New York, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

Pension Committee In Parley Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The Major League Pension Committee was scheduled to meet here today to discuss the increased player pension benefits resulting from the new 16½-million-dollar radio and TV World Series and All-Star game five-year contract.

Player representatives Bob Feller of Cleveland and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia and owner representatives Joe Cronin of Boston and John Galbreath of Pittsburgh were unavailable for comment but it was learned that new pension benefits already had been agreed upon.

A source revealed that the 16 club representatives had decided, in a recent mail vote, on a compromise figure that would double the benefits now received by the players.

The vote provided for five-year men to receive $100 a month at the age of 50 and 10-year men to receive $200 a month at the same age. The players also agreed to make eligible all players now receiving benefits. That would include all players with at least five years of service in the majors who were present in 1947 when the pension plan originated.

Southerner Sets Accuracy Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A new national accuracy record and a hotly contested wet fly event highlighted the close of the 48th annual tournament of the National Assn. of Angling and Casting Clubs yesterday.

The new accuracy record—including ⅜ and ¾ ounce plugs and wet and dry flies—was set by Casper Rigamer of New Orleans. He scored 396 out of a possible 400 points in the four events. The old record was 395.

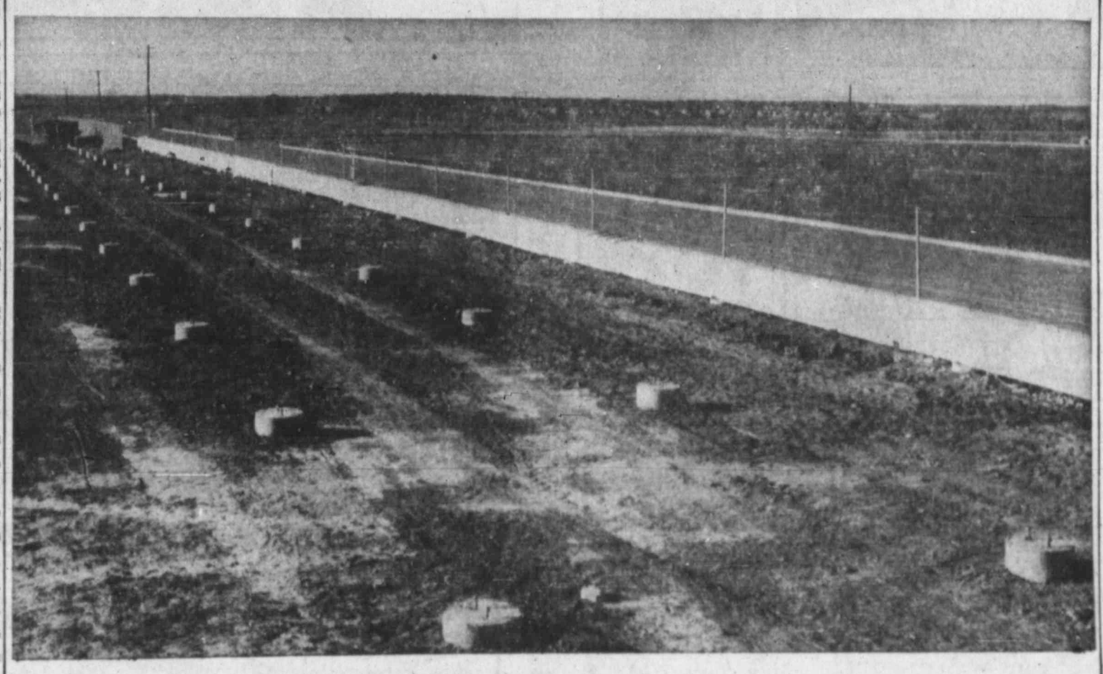

The wet fly event went to Clem Forcade of St. Louis after six casters scored perfect 100s in the regulation round. Forcade finally won by repeating his perfect score in six successive cast offs. Jack Crossfield of San Francisco was second and Jon Tarantino of San Francisco third.

Coming Out Of The Ground

Big Spring's new, $200,000 football stadium, located on the HCJC campus, is slowly coming out of the ground. Here's a view of the concrete foundations on the west side of the field. Much of the steel is already on hand and ready to be put in place. The stadium is due to be ready by the time the Steers open their home season against Snyder Sept. 28.

Bengals Bomb Amarillo Indians By 14-2 Tally

Although playing short-handed, the Big Spring Tigers blitzed the Amarillo Indians, 14-2, in a baseball exhibition played in Steer Park Sunday afternoon.

Amarillo brought a 14-2 won-lost record to town but the Warriors were completely outclassed by the locals.

Bobby Beall, flashing his best form of the season, went all the way on the mound for Big Spring. He allowed only seven hits and struck out 11.

Amarillo took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when L. Mendoza crossed the plate but the Bengals found the range with a four-run third.

They got their runs in clusters, scoring four times in the seventh and six more in the eighth.

Pat Martinez and Andy Gamboa each drove out four hits for Big Spring. Martinez had a home run and three singles while Gamboa slashed a round-tripper, two doubles and a single.

In all, the Tigers collected 16 hits off Juan Hernandez and every player in the starting lineup but Beall accounted for at least one hit.

L. Mendoza and R. Palacia each hit twice safely for the Indians.

Sonny Dutchover also clubbed a home run for Big Spring. His eighth inning four-master came with two mates up front.

The Tigers will play the San Angelo Greyhounds in a doubleheader here next Sunday. The locals have been beaten three times by the Hounds this season. Elias Gamboa's team now has a 7-6 won-lost record.

SHADES OLD MARK

Shreveport's Ken Guettler HR King

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Ken Guettler, stocky outfielder of the Shreveport Sports who plays Class AA baseball despite a shortened right arm that handicaps him on defense, hit his 56th home run yesterday to better one of the oldest records in the Texas League.

Now he's aiming at the all-time record for organized ball, the 72 homers Joe Bauman clouted at Roswell in the Longhorn League in 1954. And he has 30 games in which to get the necessary 17.

Guettler, however, will face a tough battle in his quest to be the first to break Bauman's record. Dick Stuart of the Class B Lincoln Chiefs has already hit his 60th home run.

It was quite an occasion when the bespectacled Guettler looped a 1-1 pitch from the arm of Houston's Billy Muffett over the left-field fence. It smashed the record set in 1924 by Clarence (Big Boy) Kraft at Fort Worth. It also brought his season total in runs batted in to 131, his runs to 101, his hits to 121 and his batting average to .304.

Guettler is having his greatest year after knocking around in minor league ball no higher than Class A for 11 seasons. He came to Shreveport for nothing. Guettler managed Portsmouth, Va., in the now defunct Piedmont League last year, piloting his team to fourth and losing in the playoff finals. Because he was the manager, he became a free agent. So he caught on here.

Shreveport is happy he did. He's the bright spot in a somewhat drab season for the Sports, struggling down in the Texas League second division. And he should bring the club a nice sum although even Guettler himself doubts that he can get to the big leagues because of the crooked arm that hinders his throwing. But he might go to Class AAA. The arm was injured in a childhood hockey game in his native Bay City, Mich.

Guettler is 29 and had trials with Houston, Toledo and Nashville before coming here. That was before he began knocking down the fences.

They passed the hat yesterday when Ken, nicknamed "Kenneth the Meneth," poked the all-important homer. He wound up with more than $300. This was the first time in many years for them to take up a collection for a player in the Texas League.

Exporters May Be Kingmakers

By The Associated Press

Beaumont's Exporters may be down and out of the Big State League race but they bid fair to become the kingmakers.

They whip the leaders with monotonous regularity. They have won five of their last six games and among the victims have been Corpus Christi, the league leaders; Abilene, in third place, and Wichita Falls, in a tie with Port Arthur for fourth.

Sunday it was over Abilene 4-1 in a series opener at Abilene. The Exporters jammed three runs across in the sixth inning for victory while Tom Baker was picking up his fifth triumph with a steady 9-hitter. It was unusual but eight doubles were hit, five of them by the losing team.

Second place Waco stayed within four games of Corpus Christi by beating Victoria 2-0. Andy Olson twirled a 5-hitter and struck out nine. The Pirates got a run in the sixth on Eli Osorio's single and another in the seventh on Oscar Rodriguez' sacrifice fly.

Corpus Christi downed Texas City 7-6 as Carl Greene hung up his eighteenth victory. The Texans scored twice in the ninth but it didn't do any good.

Port Arthur shaded Wichita Falls 5-4 in eleven innings with Vic Comolli the hero. He hit a 2-run homer in the fourth and drove in the winning run with a single in the eleventh.

Marin And Subia Hurl Hawk Nine Past Abilene, 8 To 2

ABILENE (SC) — The Big Spring Hawks rang up their ninth straight victory and their 15th success in 21 starts by defeating the Abilene Tigers, 8-2, here Sunday afternoon.

Jimmy Marin and Johnny Subia teamed up to pitch the win, with the former getting credit for the victory. Subia hurled the final two frames and retired six men in a row.

Marin was tagged for four safeties in his stint on the rubber.

Abilene took a 1-0 lead in the first inning but the Hawks scored twice in the second, padded that with a two-run fifth and put the decision on ice with a four-run eighth.

In all, the Hawks collected eight hits, including two by Salvador Sarmiento.

E. May paced Abilene's attack with a brace of hits.

Burdette's 'Poor' Effort Nets Him Win Over Cincy

MILWAUKEE (AP)—To hear Lew Burdette and Brooks Lawrence talk, yesterday's 8-2 Milwaukee triumph over Cincinnati should have ended the other way around.

Burdette, with "the poorest stuff I've had in a long time," pitched a five-hitter for his 14th victory of the season and third over the Redlegs without a setback.

Lawrence, with "the best stuff I've had in a long time," lasted less than three innings and was tagged with his fifth defeat against 16 victories.

Braves' Manager Fred Haney said Burdette has had better days and the 29-year-old right-hander agreed.

"I've had a lot better stuff," he said. "In fact, I had less out there than at almost any other time this season."

He said his slider, three "good" screwballs and a changeup that threw the homer-happy Redlegs off timing carried him through.

"They were going after that first pitch all through the game," said loquacious Lew, "so I took a little off it and moved it around on them. More times than not, I was ahead of 'em."

Lawrence, in the 2 2-3 innings he worked, gave up 4 walks, 5 hits and 6 runs.

Airport Bond Bids Sept. 24

County Commissioners Court, at its regular mid-monthly meeting Monday officially canvassed the vote in Saturday's airport bond election. The official count shown was 1,415 for the bonds and 426 against.

After the vote was checked, the commissioners moved that the bonds be advertised for sale on Sept. 24. This was on recommendation of Ransom Galloway, bonding company representative, who said that the sale date had to coincide closely with the meeting of the state board of education.

He told the commissioners that the bond market at present was not too favorable and that from other recent sales of securities, it seemed very likely that the interest rate on the $500,000 issue might run better than 3.50 per cent. He expressed a hope that by Sept. 24, there might be some improvement in the market situation.

A delegation from the county must appear before the air space subcommittee of the CAA at Fort Worth on Sept. 11. Approval of the site proposed must be obtained from this committee as the first step in plans to push ahead with the construction.

County Attorney Harvey Hooser, Jr., was studying a contract submitted by Thompson and Benson, engineering firm, for work on the airport. He was to issue an opinion on the contract at the afternoon session of the commissioners.

Commissioners asked that all bond buying firms in the area be advised of the Sept. 24 date when the bonds will be offered for sale.

A statement of appreciation to all those who assisted in the campaign in behalf of the airport issue came today from the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, which had been a chief sponsor of the project.

"The strong vote in behalf of the bonds shows the desire of the people for airport facilities, and also may be regarded as an expression of confidence in the County Commissioners Court for their ability to plan, build and operate the facility."

The committee's statement of thanks singled out all communication media and volunteers who worked to give information on the bond issue and to get out the vote.

Traffic Violator Draws Five Fines

Two violators were assessed heavy fines this morning, as $251 in fines were meted out in corporation court.

One of the two drew fines totaling $65 and the other $50. The $65 was from a total of five violations. The violator pleaded guilty to driving on the wrong side of the street ($10 fine), exceeding regulation speed ($10), running a stop sign ($10), drag racing ($10), and driving without a driver's license ($25).

The other person was assessed $25 for excessive noise and a like amount for not having a driver's license.

Other violators included five drunks. One was fined $25, but the others were charged $15 each. A speeding charge cost $30, a drag racing fine was $10, and $6 for vagrancy completed the morning's court docket.

Methodist Men To Hold Meeting

LAMESA — The Methodist Men of the First Methodist Church will hold its monthly meeting this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Fellowship Hall, announced Bill David, president. "Dedicated Men," an outstanding film, will be shown to the group during the program hour.

Service Stations Robbed Near Lamesa

LAMESA — Two service stations on the Big Spring Highway were burglarized Saturday night. Sheriff Henry Mayfield reported Sunday that the Sheriff's Department is investigating the burglaries of the J. B. Molinas Humble Station and Bill Pearson's Shamrock Station south of the city limits. Burglars apparently broke a window at Molinas' station and rifled the cash register and cigarette machine. The cigarette machine was also robbed at Pearson's station.

Cafe Is Robbed Of Small Change

Less than $3 in change was taken from a cafe by burglars sometime over the weekend.

The break-in was at the Roundtop Cafe, 2401 Scurry, operated by J. E. Tebbitts. Police officials investigating today said that the burglary was made either Saturday or Sunday night. They felt however it was between 3 a.m. and 8 a.m. Saturday night.

The money was in nickels, dimes, and pennies. Entry was made through a front window, the police reported.

Other vandalism over the weekend included theft of binoculars and a flashlight from cars parked at the Herald building Saturday night.

The field glasses were stolen from the glove compartment of a car belonging to Coy Loving, and the flashlight from Bob Clark's car.

Billfolds Stolen

Two persons reported billfolds stolen when they were swimming at the pool at Cosden Country Club Sunday. The two were W. G. Billings, 1012 Bluebonnet, and Harold Moss, 631 Caylor.

Lewis Brown Dies; Rites Held Today

Lewis Brown, 61, retired farmer, died in a hospital here Sunday at 6:25 a.m. after a long illness.

Born on April 19, 1895 in Hillsboro, he had been making his home here with his sister, Mrs. H. D. Shade, 306 NW 8th, for the past five years.

Services were to be held at 4 p.m. Monday at the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with the Rev. W. A. James, pastor of the Airport Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was to be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Survivors include his sister; four brothers, Robert Brown, Lamesa, Jim Brown, Stanton, H. D. Brown, Big Spring, John Brown, Brownwood.

Pallbearers were to be nephews and included Norman Brown, Bobby Brown, Doy Dwane Furgerson, Rondy Booth, Don Brown, Herbert Doering.

Contract Awarded For Education Unit At Baptist Church

LAMESA — Members of the First Baptist Church voted in a called conference Sunday morning to award the contract to Bowers Purcell Construction Company for the erection of a forty-room educational building with parlor, chapel and new kitchen facilities. The cost to be $182,500. Representing the church as supervisor of construction will be Lloyd Fancher. Cost of construction included air conditioning and heating, but excluded carpeting for the parlor and chapel and the fixtures.

Actual construction will get under way in a few days and completion is due within 9 months. The two-story building will contain 23,700 sq. ft. of floor space and will be of brick veneer construction.

According to W. G. White, chairman of the building committee, an offer of $150,000 loan has been made, however the committee hopes to obtain a better interest rate with another investor with whom it will confer this evening. Members of the committee are C. A. Hollingsworth, W. J. Beckham, J. B. Leavelle, and Elmer Cope. Milo B. Arbuckle is the pastor.

Teeth Due Park Rule Enforcement

LAMESA — Members of the Lamesa Park Board, in a special meeting, have made plans to prepare an ordinance that will give city law enforcement agencies and park superintendents more authority to prosecute violators of park rules and regulations.

J. D. McPaul, president of the Board, said regulations for the use of the recreation hall in Pioneer Park and the use of the new community center Forrest Park will also be drawn up.

Florida Put On Watch As Hurricane Nears

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—All interests on the Florida East Coast from Daytona Beach to Miami were placed on hurricane watch today as the season's second tropical storm aimed 110 mile an hour winds at this state.

At 11 a.m. EST the hurricane named "Betsy" by Weather Bureau forecasters, was 530 miles east southeast of Miami, moving northwest at 19 m.p.h.

"This is a small hurricane from the standpoint of size but it packs plenty of punch over a small area near the center," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

Easterly winds increasing to gales and hurricane force over some sections of the Florida coast were predicted for Tuesday. Gale winds extend 150 miles to the northeast 100 miles to the northwest and 75 miles to the south of the storm's center.

The storm was centered near latitude 22.7 north longitude 72.4 west or about 530 miles eastsoutheast of Miami. It had swept past Turks and Grand Caicos Islands in the Bahamas chain after swiping at Puerto Rico, where one person was reported killed.

"During the next 6 to 12 hours it will continue to move toward the northwest at about the same rate or slightly slower with little change in size and intensity," the Weather Bureau said.

"The hurricane center should pass near San Salvador in the Bahamas late this afternoon. All small craft in the general area of the Bahamas should remain in port beginning tonight."

The hurricane had dropped from 125 m.p.h. winds and slowed its forward movement from 20 to 19 m.p.h. as it sped into the Bahamas chain.

Reports from Puerto Rico indicated there was wind and water damage in some parts of the island and transportation was halted, but resumed after the hurricane passed.

Two Held Here On Forgery Charges

Sheriff Jess Slaughter said that two men wanted in Howard County for forgery have been apprehended. One is being held in Odessa and the other in Pittsburg.

Slaughter said that deputies will be sent to return the men to this county.

Clarence Boahanon is in jail at Odessa and Adolphus Williams is being detained at Pittsburg.

Office Opened By Yarborough Group

MARKETS

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP)—Caution prevailed and trading was quiet as the stock market dipped slightly early today. Fractional losses peppered leading stocks but there were occasional wide movements in special situations.

Gulf Oil which broke by 3¾ to 129 quickly regained 2 points of the loss. Royal Dutch was ahead more than a point. Both stocks were heavy losers Friday because the Suez crisis continued.

Motors were unchanged to higher. Rails showed a slightly upward tilt. Coppers were generally higher. Anaconda and Kennecott gained major fractions.

General Dynamics was off ⅝ at 73¾. Dow Chemical off ¾ at 70¼. Standard Oil (NJ) off ⅝ at 57¼ and United Aircraft up ½ at 52. Studebaker was unchanged at 8.

U. S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet lost fractions. Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar, Boeing, Westinghouse, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical, Texas Co. and Eastern Airlines were losers.

Angelo Man Is Held In Gun Death

FORT WORTH (AP) — George Strother, 32, San Angelo farmer, was charged with murder today in the death of Clarence Dicus, 43, a tavern operator.

Dicus was shot to death Saturday night in the tavern.

Peace Justice Whit Boyd set Strother's bond at $5,000, which had not been posted. Strothers refused to prepare a statement for assistant Dist. Atty. George Thompson.

The windburned West Texan, who farms 18 miles southeast of San Angelo, told a Star-Telegram reporter earlier the shooting developed from his efforts to take his wife, Opal Lee, 27, who had been working as a waitress for several days in the tavern, back home.

Earlier in the week, Strother said, he had come to Fort Worth, got the couple's baby, a 14-month-old girl, and took the child to Big Spring. Then, he said, he left the baby with a baby sitter and came back to Fort Worth Saturday.

He said he had heard he would be killed if he came to Fort Worth again "so I put a .22 pistol in my belt and drove up there."

Strother said he entered the tavern with a friend and was served beer by Opal Lee.

"Dicus walked over to the bar and came out with a gun. I held my gun under the counter. I wasn't going to use it if he was bluffing. When he pointed the gun at me, I figured he wasn't bluffing and I fired."

In the close range battle, Dicus fell dead with shots in his heart and shoulder.

Strother and his wife left in his car. They were arrested at Weatherford.

In a written statement Mrs. Strother said when Dicus walked behind the bar, where a pistol was kept, her husband pulled a gun and started shooting. Then, he forced her to go to the car and drive off with him.

In Big Spring, local officers said they had not been contacted by Fort Worth authorities in connection with the case. The mother-in-law was not identified in reports and was not known here.

County Budget Hearing Set

Budgetary needs of the county for 1957 were under study Monday afternoon by the County Commissioners Court.

Lee Porter, county auditor, has drawn up a tentative budget and the commissioners were going over each department and the suggested allocation of funds proposed for it in the ensuing year.

All of the estimates now before the court are subject to change as the study progresses.

Public hearing on the budget has been set by the Commissioners Court for Sept. 10 at 10 a.m.

Porter also had the monthly financial statement of the county for presentation to the court at the afternoon meeting and the routine bills which needed approval and payment.

Car Abandoned Soon After Theft; Boys Are Blamed

A motor vehicle stolen only a few hours earlier was found abandoned on the San Angelo Highway early Sunday morning by police officials.

The car, a 1955 Buick, was found a mile and a half south of the city limits by Police Captain Lindy Oldfield. The car belonged to Gus Barr, 611 Steakley, and had been stolen from in front of the First Baptist Church sometime between 10 and 11 p.m. Saturday night.

Police officials said that it had been taken by three juveniles, but they could not be identified. The three escaped into the city park. Police officers said the car's transmission had been damaged by the boys.

Jerry Hayes Has Honors At A&M

Jerry A. Hayes, Big Spring, has been named a distinguished student for the past spring semester at Texas A&M College, according to an announcement Monday. He won the designation for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Man Recovering

Lloyd Mann, 48-year-old Seguin man, gravely injured in a car accident on last Thursday afternoon, in which his wife was killed, was reported making good progress toward recovery at the Big Spring Hospital on Monday morning.

Francis Shine Goes To Dayton For Air Study

Remaining in the Air Force, but leaving Webb, 1st Lt. Francis M. Shine is returning to college to complete his undergraduate work in aeronautical engineering.

Lt. Shine expects to attend and earn a bachelor of science degree in two years from the resident College Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson AFB as a fully qualified aeronautical engineer.

Lt. Shine had previously attended Rockhurst College of Kansas City, Mo., as a math major. After 2½ years of college he enlisted in 1951 in the Air Force as an aviation cadet. He was awarded a commission and pilot's wings upon completion of advanced pilot training at Vance AFB, Enid, Okla., in May 1952. After jet upgrading at Moody AFB, Ga., and further training at Shaw AFB, S.C., he was assigned to combat duty in Korea. For his exploits in Korea, Lt. Shine was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the United Nations Ribbon and the Korean Ribbon.

In July 1953, Lt. Shine returned to the United States and was assigned to the Basic Instructor's School at Craig AFB, Ala. At the completion of his training there, he was assigned to Webb AFB as a jet instructor in Section IV. His most recent duty at Webb has been assistant to the commander in the AFROTC Summer Training Unit.

Lt. Shine, his wife Marjorie and daughter, Kathleen Marie, are now living at 1509A Sycamore in Big Spring. They leave Tuesday for Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Delegates Back From Fellowship Convention

Two members of the Christian Youth Fellowship of the First Christian Church of Big Spring have returned from the 13th annual Texas Youth Convention of Disciples of Christ held in Fort Worth last week.

Jennie McEvers and Gerry Girdner were among 1,200 high schoolage youth who attended the four-day convention.

Mrs. Alberta Z. Brown of Midland, author of "The 7 Teen Years" and Dr. Paul Wassenich of Austin, director of the Disciples of Christ Bible Chair at the University of Texas, were principal speakers for the convention.

A sunrise communion service in TCU's Amon Carter Stadium closed the meeting Saturday morning.

Saturday Was Day Without Accident

The crowds of shoppers in town and the tourists passing through Big Spring Saturday drove safely, with no accidents being reported during the 24 hours.

Two however occurred Sunday and six on Friday.

At Third and Benton Sunday, cars driven by Donald Nichols, Big Spring, and A. B. Terry of Iraan were in collision. Both cars involved were Fords.

The other Sunday mishap concerned George White Jr., 1709 Morrison, and Nellie Robert Miller, 1806 Goliad.

The accidentless day Saturday was the fourth of the month. The others were Aug. 1, last Monday and Tuesday.

Pleas Of Guilty In County Court

Three pleas of guilty were heard before Judge R. H. Weaver in county court on Monday morning.

Leo Nix, charged with aggravated assault on his wife, was fined $25.

Jesus Ortiz, charged with transporting intoxicating liquors in a dry precinct, pleaded guilty and was fined $100.

E. A. Lawhon, charged with writing a worthless check on a Snyder bank and cashed by Tom Phillips, admitted the offense. His fine was fixed at $25.

Civil War Vet Is Recovered

FRANKLIN, Tex. (AP)—Old Soldier Walter Williams appeared to be fully recovered today from his latest illness and said he is looking forward to his 114th birthday next Nov. 12.

"I'm starting all over and there will be only 11 candles on the cake," the Confederate veteran said.

"I've got no time to go to the hospital. I'm too darn busy," he said, adding that he wanted to read the big stack of mail he received during his illness.

A siege of dropsy gave him a few bad days recently.

Uncle Ray:

Gondolier Is Expert In Handling His Oar

By RAMON COFFMAN

VENICE — I have reached a famous Italian city. Venice was a leading place during the Middle Ages. Among the residents were Marco Polo and his father and uncle.

In a later century came an even more important resident, the great Galileo. It was here, and in a nearby city, that Galileo turned small telescopes on the sky, and started the world toward a vastly larger knowledge of the planets.

In these modern times we hear little about Venice as a place of learning, but it is a center of interest for tourists. The tourists come here mostly because of the canals.

When I arrived by train, I forgot, for a moment, about the canals, and looked for a porter to carry my baggage to a waiting taxicab. Instead of that, the porter took my briefcase and bags to a waiting gondola.

Along with a few other passengers, I was transported in the gondola to the hotel where rooms had been reserved. I have met my brother, Mr. Paul Coffman, who motored here from Austria with his wife and two sons, Douglas and Ramon.

The men who handle gondolas are experts in their work. With a heavily loaded gondola (six persons and a dozen suitcases) one of them can manage an oar as well that the boat travels about as fast as would a rowboat propelled by a man with a pair of oars.

Here and there on trips in

A scene in Venice.

Venice it has seemed that my gondola would strike another boat, but each time the oarsman makes little twist or turn, so as to miss the other boat by an inch or two. In going under bridges, the gondoliers often lower their heads hardly a quarter of a second before they must do so to avoid bumps.

Timing one gondolier, who was making an average pace, I found that his oar touched the water 18 times in a minute.

Accident Is Fatal

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Harry Sears, 48, who recently moved here with his family from Stratford, Tex., was killed Saturday night in what police said was an accidental shooting. Sears had cleaned a rifle and told his daughter, 13, he was going into a bathroom to load the gun. She heard a shot and found her father fatally wounded. "Go call your mother and tell her there's been an accident," he told the girl.

Twining Warns Of Complacency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining says "we should not ever downgrade" Russian ability to design and mass-produce top quality warplanes and other weapons.

The Air Force chief of staff told a Senate Armed Services subcommittee July 19 that Russia has "thousands more jet combat planes in operational units" than the U. S. Air Force and Navy combined.

A censored transcript of his testimony made public during the weekend quoted him also as believing the Russians are working on a long-range supersonic bomber "and will be able to make one someday."

He said that during his trip to Russia last month he and his group saw a light bomber which the Russians said was supersonic.

Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine of the Air Force's materiel branch testified the plane they saw "looks better than anything we have in our inventory in the light bomber category," but added that "I am sure our B58 will be much better."

Twining said this country still holds an advantage in aerial "striking power" but told the subcommittee "I was quite shocked" by the speed with which the Russians have produced MIG fighter planes.

Earthquake Shakes Central Japan

TOKYO (AP) — An earthquake shook central Japan before dawn today but caused no damage, the Japanese weather bureau announced.

Nixon Asks Policy Support

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Vice President Nixon asked the American people today for solid support of foreign policies designed to assure "peace with honor."

It is not enough for the administration and Congress to agree on sound policies, he said in an address prepared for the 57th National Encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Unless they are completely and enthusiastically supported by the American people," he said, "they will not be accepted by other nations as our true program."

His address dealt with principles rather than specific policies, and he said Americans want nothing for themselves that they do not want for every other people in the world."

"What we seek in our dealings with other nations," he said, "is that all men may have the freedom under law which we consider our priceless heritage."

The challenges in the struggle for peace, he said, are as difficult as the challenges of war and call for "patience, sacrifice, and intelligent, flexible effort."

"I am sure that we will rise to the challenge and will win the struggle for peace," he said.

But he said there is need for resoluteness of purpose backed by "military strength sufficient to warn any other nation that an attack on us or our allies would be suicide for the aggressor."

Nixon advocated economic assistance to free nations and a continuing effort to secure "effective world disarmament."

"As a final plank in our platform for peace," he said, "we must have an intelligent and enlightened program for removing the barriers of ignorance and prejudice that prevent world understanding."

He advocated increased exchange of visitors and opening of schools to foreign students.

Red 'Escape' Hoax Bared

HUSUM, Germany (AP) — Police say a man who claimed he escaped from a Communist freighter carrying arms to Egypt is just a runaway farm hand.

The man touched off an international police probe last week by recounting a bizarre cloak and dagger tale when he was found stranded on the North Sea beach near this Frisian town.

He told German authorities he was Rene De Marsou, a Swedish national from Stockholm serving as first officer on the 1,200-ton East German freighter Lenin. He said two companions were lost after the rubber boat in which they escaped sank in a hail of bullets from the Red crew.
