DENTON PREPARES FOR BATTLE WITH BANDITS

Carey Pool's Best Yet Is In For 1,700

WHITE BROS., P. J. AND TOM, HIT ON KUNKEL

Wildcat End of Field Comes In For Excellent Production Monday

ANDRADE, LIKEWISE

Harvey et al No. 1, Kunkel, Of Same Calibre From 30 Feet of Sand

Completion of possibly the largest well ever brought in in the Carey pool and in south Archer county, and that on the east wildcat end of the field, was recorded yesterday when White Brothers, P. J. and Tom, No. 1, Kunkel, started off flowing 52 barrels an hour from 27 feet of sand at 1,1331-2-60 1-2 feet and increased to 70 barrels an hour. Almost coincident with its completion Harvey and Andrade's No. 1, Kunkel, on a five-acre tract, and a location west, was showing for a well of the same caliber from 30 feet of sand at 1,125-53 feet.

Increases Its Flow

The White Brothers well was increasing its flow early last night and reported to be gauging 70 barrels an hour, a rate of nearly 1,700 barrels a day. The initial showing in the Harvey and Andrade well indicated that it would be just about as good.

The two distinct sands found in the Roxana Petroleum corporation's No. 2 Hausler, a location or so west, the upper of which tested salt water, and the lower at 1,132-82 feet which made one of the best wells ever brought in here, depth below that from which any well in the Carey pool to that time was producing, seem to have consolidated in these two wells, and it is not unlikely that their production will better past completions. Initial flows in Carey district wells in the past have given rise to 1,000 barrel estimates when the wells would actually gauge only 600 to 700 barrels, although some few wells better than 1,000 barrels a day have been completed further west.

Already Connected

The White Brothers well was connected to tanks and a pipeline prior to completion and was able to take care of production.

Three other wells on the Shaw and Rathke leases, Hausler and Kunkel, are due in almost at once with No's. 5 and 6, Hausler, and No. 1, Kunkel, a south offset to the White Brothers well, due to be looking for the sand today and tomorrow.

Completion on both of the two new wells was delayed more than two weeks by rig fires, the rigs in either instance burning when the well was just on the verge of getting down to the sand.

American Carson Co. Well May Make 2,500

Associated Press dispatches from Amarillo last night stated that the American Refining company's No. 3 Burnett, in the Carson county field, north of Panhandle, was flowing at a rate of 2,500 barrels a day after actually doing 1,100 barrels in six hours. Attempts to reach Mr. Silk and others with power to confirm these dispatches were unavailing last night.

Other reports from the Panhandle fields, while not giving any actual production figures, indicate that the well is probably by far the largest ever completed in the Panhandle. Sand records and other data on the well were not obtainable last night.

NEW PAVING PLANS

Unanimously agreeing that the bill drafted by Senator J. D. Parnell of this city proposing regulation of municipally owned and operated public utilities was a "distinct menace" to such enterprises, members of the Wichita Falls city council Monday night authorized Mayor Frank Collie to go to Austin next Thursday when a senate committee hearing will be held on the matter and use his influence to defeat its passage.

It was also the sense of the council that the chamber of commerce should send some representative to the same hearing to present the claims of Wichita Falls in the matter.

WICHITA SOLON WINS HIS FIGHT

House Passes Finally The Daniels Legion Hospital Measure

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS
Record News Staff At Austin

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—Representative J. Roy Daniel of Wichita Falls, led his first big bill to success Monday when his measure for sale of the American Legion hospital, return of $1,500,000 to the treasury and placing $200,000 trust fund in the hands of the American Legion for care of disabled veterans, withstood a barrage of amendments and was passed finally.

The amendments sought to prohibit the federal government from mixing white and negro patients or employes.

Daniel announced that the principal objection to his measure, that the state could not refund to the Legion money contributed by the organization toward starting the hospital, had been overcome by a ruling from the attorney general that such a trust fund, administered by the state Legion department for the care of disable veterans could be created by the legislature.

Jordan stated that federal government has signified its willingness to buy the state Legion memorial hospital for a price of about $1,700,000. The state spent $1,500,000 in construction and the Legion raised $200,000 of which, under the measure, $200,000 will be restored to it for a trust fund to be applied to the care of disabled veterans.

This may take the form of a home for veterans or for district aid in needy cases.

POPE REFUSED EMBASSY FROM FRENCH NATION

Herriot's Radicals Fulfill Their Platform Demand By Vote Monday

ALSACE IS PACIFIED

Decision of Ostracism Must Yet Have The Approval of French Senate

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Supression of the French embassy to the vatican was voted by the chamber of deputies this evening 314 to 250. It was the realization of part of the program upon which the left group of radical socialists were elected May 11 and which Premier Herriot, refusing to accept advice from self-termed well-wishers or bitter criticism from his avowed political opponents carried through with firm determination "for the interest of France."

The premier pacified the opposition of the Alsace-Lorraine deputies by giving an official understanding that a diplomatic agent would be maintained at the vatican to represent the recovered provinces, but he refused to accept the suggestion of Georges Leygues, former premier, and Abe Lemire, the latter speaking "not as a Catholic priest, but as a radical deputy," who begged the premier to reconsider his decision before it was too late.

The measure must be passed by the senate before it becomes final. The vote tonight was not obtained actually on the question of "suppression of the embassy" but came up on the suppression of credits in the foreign affairs budget necessary to mtaintain a diplomatic mission to the vatican. The credits needed fo rthe Alsace-Lorraine representative in Rome will be included in the Alsace-Lorraine budget instead of the foreign affairs budget, this technically doing away with any French representation at the Holy See.

TWO BARRICADE SELVES INSIDE AFTER PURSUIT

Denton County Officers Refuse Tarrant Detectives Permission to Arrest

SHERIFF WILL ACT

At a Late Hour, However, States He Refuses to Give Out His Plans

FORT WORTH, Feb. 2.—A lone ranger, Tom Hickman by name, in Fort Worth on a purely personal visit, has been precipitated into the leading role of the most spectacular out-law fight in this section in months as the result of refusal of Denton county officials to allow Fort Worth and Tarrant county officers to storm the retreat of two men who shot and wounded Ed. N. Smith, Fort Worth detective, in a running gun battle in the main street of Denton shortly after noon today.

With authority denied a score of officers from Forth Worth, Captain Hickman has taken upon himself the task of dislodging the raiders, who are barricaded in a Denton house.

Hundreds on Square.

Hundreds have assembled near the court house square, where the battle ensued, awaiting the next episode in the thrilling fight, advices from Denton say. Plate glass windows along half a block are full of holes as a result of the firing, and excitement is running high among employes of business firms who were subjected to danger but miraculously escaped.

The street battle was precipitated by the visit of three county and city officials to Denton when it was reported that two men under indictment here were seen in that vicinity.

One man had been arrested and two cars recovered and the officers had grouped on the court house lawn to discuss the next phase of the search with Denton county Sheriff William Fryer. Suddenly a high-powered car containing two men circled the square and when coming in range of the officers, opened fire with a 30-30 repeating rifle.

Wounded in Shoulder.

Detective Smith was wounded in the shoulder, and although his wound is painful, it is not believed to be serious. He still is in Denton ready to rejoin his companions if an attack becomes necessary. Chester Reagan, third Fort Worth officer in the fight, was unscratched.

On reports of the fight, Police Captain H. B. Lewis obtained an airplane and went to the aid of officers. A number of other officers left immediately in automobiles. Among those in the party was Ranger Captain Hickman.

According to late advices from the district attorney's office, a telephone call from the house in which the bandits are barricaded, offered to surrender to anyone except an officer. From other sources it was learned that Denton county officials have refused to allow Tarrant officers to arrest the pair.

Denton Sheriff Waits.

The sheriff of Denton county when reached by telephone tonight, affirmaded in the house, but asserted that ed that the two men still were barricaded in the house, but asserted that he was not giving out any of his plans." So far as could be learned no organized plan on the part of Denton county officials to dislodge the men has been made.

Officers from Fort Worth, dispairing of obtaining permission to arrest the men, are preparing to leave Denton, according to latest reports.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

SHOULD THE WISHES OF A DEAD HUSBAND PREVENT REMARRIAGE?—THE WIFE WHOSE HUSBAND WON'T GIVE HER EVEN SERVANT'S' WAGES—SHALL SHE REMAIN "BABYISH?"

Dear Miss Dix—I am a lonely widower, 65 years of age. I know and admire very much a widow, who is about 58. We have known each other forty years, and have always admired each other greatly. I have asked her to marry me, and she would gladly accept my offer, only that when her husband was dying he asked her not to marry again, and she feels that somehow I would be disloyal to him for her to take another husband. Do you think that the wishes of her dead husband should stand between us and our happiness? ANXIOUS WIDOWER.

Answer:

Certainly not. It is is foolish to let the dead rule us. Even if the woman gave a promise to her husband not to marry again, it is better broken than kept. Doubtless, if the spirit of her head husband could speak to her it would urge her to marry and be happy again.

For it is nothing but jealousy and selfishness that prompts men and women to make their husbands and wives swear to keep up a perepetual mourning for them and never to form new ties, and these human weaknesses and limitations are buried with us in our graves.

Certainly, in that land where there is neither marriage nor giving in marriage, it can add nothing to the bliss of an angel wife to know that her poor, lonely old husband down on earth is wearing holes in his socks, and eating food that is giving him dyspesia, and groaning with the rheumatism because she has made him promise not to marry again and he has no woman to look after him. Nor can it increase the felicity of an angel husband to see his forlorn wife having to work to support herself or living around in her children's homes and being snubbed by her in-laws because he bound her never to take another husband.

Perhaps if we ever succeed in establishing communion with the dead the wire will be kept hot with the messages of the repentant spirits, who will urg their former spouses to marry again while the marrying is good.

For a widow and a widower to marry again shows no disrespect to the memory of the dear departed. Rather is it a compliment, for it indicates that the first marriage was sufficiently happy for them to want to try it over again. But i nany event, the dead are not to decide the matter. It is the living whose happiness is to be considered, and middle-aged people who can find congenial and suitable companions for the last lap of their journey are foolish not to take them.

For the elderly need companionship, they need a home, they need some one of their own age to chum with far more than the young do.

So I urge you, Anxious Widower, to hasten with your widow to the parson. Don't let a ghost keep you from the happiness that may be yours. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Should not a man who gets a good salary give his wife an allowance? I have been sick, and while I was ill my husband was perfectly willing to pay a girl $30 a month and her board to do the housework. But now that I am able to do the work again, he is not willing to giv eme the same amount of money that he paid to a servant. MRS. J. B. A.

Answer.

I think a man is the meanest sort of a tightwad who does not give his wife as big an allowance as he can offord for her own personal needs. Furthermore, he need not throw any bouquets at himself for being generous about it, either, for every woman who does her own housework earns all she gets a dozen times over.

Why, if the average man had to pay somebody to do his wife's work he would have to pay for a cook, and a housemaid, and a nurse, and a governess, and a seamstress, and a laundress, and Heaven knows what else besides! And that says nothing about what she saves him in patching, and turning, and mending, and using makeshifts that no servant would use.

One of the reasons that widowers are in such haste to marry again is because they find that it bankrupts them to pay for a substitute for their wives.

Perhaps if you can make your husband see how unfair he is in refusing to give you even the wages of a cook for all that you do, he will realize how unjust he is to you and he will give you a little money of your own. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am 19 years of age, and have been married nearly four years. My husband and I are perfectly happy together, and he is good, kind and generous to me, but I am treated by every one, husband included, as a child. People always say, "Now, a child like you——"

My husband spoils me, and it pleases him that I am babyfied; but do you think that I should act more grown-up and sophisticated, or keep on being just a child? BABYISH.

Answer.

If you please your husband and are happy why change?

But remember this, being kiddish is only attractive as long as one looks the part. As long as you are young and pretty, cute little ways and artless ignorance, and even not knowing how to do things, may seem funny and alluring to your husband, but ten years from now they will be just plain stupidity and incompetence.

So under your childishness be preparing yourself for the rainy day when you will have to stop being a baby and be a grown-up woman, with a grown woman's ability and outlook on life. Personally I haven't much faith in the child-wife stunt lasting. The time comes when a man gets tired of playing with a child and wants for his wife a sensible, mature woman. If you want a close-up of a child-wife and her fate read about Dora in "David Copperfield." It will do you good. DOROTHY DIX.

WOMEN BORN 1873 TO 1881

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good." I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish." — Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Plains Production company was drilling yesterday below a last reported depth of 1,360 feet on its No. 1, Wise, located just south of Spring Creek in Throckmorton county, after passing up a broken sand showing oil at a depth of 1,265 feet.

Texhoma, Portwood

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company is abandoning their No. 1, Portwood in the southeast corner of Baylor county, TE&LCO survey, block 1,578, without ever getting a sand, total depth given as 1,504 feet.

P-K-H, Jean Sector

The Panhandle Refining company and Knight and Hines have abandoned their No. 1, Nick Brooks, south of Jean, north Young county, at a total depth of 1,002 feet. The Annie B. Streetman, the second of a series of three tests here is spudding.

Andrade-Verschoyle

Andrade and Verschoyle are moving on for their No. 1, Haley, in the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of block 309, TE&LCO survey, just north of the Salt Fork of Brazos river and southeast of Spring Creek.

Andrade, Cockerell

Andrade and McGregor were rigged up and should have spudded yesterday on their No. 1, Cockrell, in block 2,404, TE&LCO survey, southeast Baylor county.

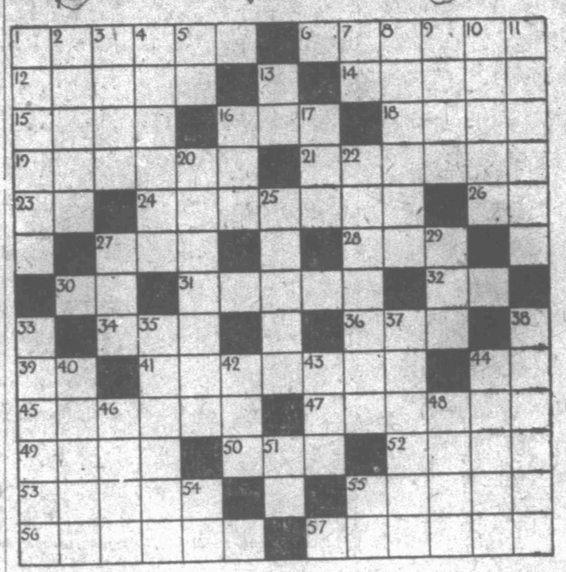

Texas Company, Hill

Depth on the Texas company's No. 1, Hill, north of the Stamfli-Roberts section southwest Archer county, was given yesterday as below 1,278 feet, and drilling, block 2,408, TE&LCO survey.

Postpone Dial Ranch Trial for Two Weeks

A postponement of the trial of the suit of J. J. Perkins et al versus Gulf Production company et al for cancellation of leases on 5,000 acres of valuable Panhandle oil lands, the Dial ranch in Hutchinson county was allowed at yesterday's meeting of the 50th district court by Judge Martin when the defense requested more time to prepare for the trial.

It has been set now for February 16, and every effort will be made to have a jury on hand and carry it through to a conclusion. The plaintiffs allege insufficient development to carry the lease beyond its ordinary five-year term, while the defense claims the one producer drilled there validates the title.

MARION, Ill., Feb. 2.—Appearing before the Williamson county board of supervisors late today State's Attorney Arlie Boswell, an ardent klansman, backed up the appeal of Sheriff George Galligan, an anti-klansman, for martial law in Herrin.

"Conditions in this county have reached serious proportions, more than serious proportions," Boswell declared. "The situation centers around the city of Herrin. There has been a call for martial law. My opinion is that we should have it. If martial law isn't declared in Herrin sooner or later we will have to have it in the whole county."

Atlantic-Donohoe Get Sand And Set Casing On Their No. 2, Ward, South Of Anarene; Depth Given As 1,060-1,073

Atlantic Oil Producing company and H. C. Donohoe have encountered a sand and drilled 13 feet of it in their No. 2, H. F. and J. F. Ward, located in the Tomlinson survey, abstract 452, just north of Abarene. The sand was topped at 1,060 feet and the bottom of the hole as given out yesterday is 1,073 feet. Casing had been ordered out last night and it was expected to get it set and bail some time today, with every indication pointing to a good well. This is the second test of the Atlantic at this spot, the first having been abandoned some time ago after being drilled into salt water sand with a good showing above.

Just across the survey line to the east in the center of the BRBB&CRR survey, abstract 36, west line, Gulf Production company has shut down on their test at below 900 feet.

Not So Bad Says Datson of the World

The times we live in are good times, and challenge the best there is in any of us, according to Rev. Fred T. Datson who addressed Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon Monday noon at the Kemp hotel, on "Signs of the Times."

Defining sharply and clearly the conditions in the world today, and contrasting them with conditions of other times, Rev. Datson pointed out the need in the lives of men to interpret correctly the times in which they live.

"This is distinctly a time of the people," Rev. Datson declared, "and they must act. Impatience with trifles is another characteristic of the times. Modern business men drive straight at a thing, with speed and efficiency as the result.

"Heroism in the youth of the country is a marked sign of the times. When men realize that the fatherhood of God means the brotherhood of man, the work of the times will not have been in vain."

Mrs. Harwood Stacy, president of the Musicians' club, announced a popular concert, composed of local talent to be held at the Junior college at 8 o'clock Friday evening, Feb. 10, to raise funds with which to complete the purchase of the grand piano on the Junior college stage which is a gift of the Musicians' club.

Nameless Wag Plays a Joke on Government Officials.

Panhandle Cattle Shipped to Chicago

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 2.—Texas Panhandle cattle that formerly were sold in the Kansas City and other southwestern markets have been deflected to Chicago, members of the Kansas City livestock exchange testified in the interstate commerce commission hearing on a petition for reduction in livestock freight rates here today. They asked a return to prewar rates.

A reduction in 1922 of 20 per cent in long and 10 per cent in short haul rates, they said, had made it about as cheap for cattlemen of the southwest to send their product to Chicago as to Kansas City, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Wichita and other markets of this region. Higher prices in Chicago, they said, had attracted most of the cattle.

WHEAT PROVING NERVOUS.

Set-back, However, Is But One Cent Below $2 Mark.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. — Although wheat had the weakest and lowest close today since the high record for May delivery, $2.05 7-8, was reached last Wednesday, the market proved stubborn, and greatly surprised a good many veteran traders who had looked for a tremendous rush of selling today to stop losses. A maximum decline of one cent a bushel below $2.00 turned out to be the limit of setbacks in price today.

Print This Good News About Joint-Ease Writes Eastern Druggist

"Joint-Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles.

"But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily.

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago over night—others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis and even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we, the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, inflamed, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, fingers or spine.

You'll like to use penetrating Joint-Ease, for which just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments—that's why it succeeds—for when Joint-Ease gets in joint misery gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. Legs Her Fortune But She Ruins 'Em

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 2.—Lotus Thompson's job in the movies starred her shapely legs which directors employed for "pinch hitting" in scenes otherwise like to be saddened by the unlovely limbs of the leading woman. This gained her a livelihood, but it wounded her pride as an aspirant to dramatic success and yesterday, unable to endure the situation longer, she employed a bottle of caustic acid on the legs she thought blocked her path to real acting.

Surgeons who treated her today and heard her story said she will recover, but the legs which helped her win a beauty contest in Australia will be permanently disfigured.

AL SMITH AND HIS FOES.

Governor Al Smith of New York who escaped the November deluge has been advised by United States Senator Royal A. Copeland to abdicate as state leader of the New York democracy and permit an up state democrat to be named for the place.

It may be true that the democratic party needs real leaders. It is certainly true that the democratic party needs a large increase in its voting strength in the states far removed from the solid south.

Senator Copeland was elected on a Smith ticket as the choice of Tammany Hall. Mayor John F. Hylan and William Randolph Hearst were Copeland backers at the time. Now Hylan demands a third term of four years as mayor of the greatest city of the world and Governor Smith is not wild about giving it to the head of the New York municipal government.

Smith and Hearst are bitter personal and political enemies. When Hearst takes snuff Hylan sneezes. Senator Copeland demands a third term for Mayor Hylan. Leaders are born; they are not made. Hylan may have to fight for his political life in the very near future and his defeat would be a knockout for the New York publisher and senator.

PRISON SENTENCES MADE MANDATORY.

By a vote of fourteen to three the house judiciary committee of congress reported the bill to make prison sentences mandatory upon conviction for violation of the dry laws of a nation. One section of the proposed law prescribes that if property is used for the illegal sale or manufacture of liquor, the property will be subject to a lien and may be sold to pay the cost assessed against the person violating the law.

Those who maintain places where liquor is sold shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined and imprisoned. Manufacturers of cider and fruit juices are not punishable when they make these in the home exclusively for their own use.

Should this bill become a law persons convicted of violation of the Volstead act are going to wear stripes. Now many of them escape by paying a fine. Uncle Sam is on the trail of the rum runners and the rum sellers. He is going to stamp out all opposition to the dry laws of the nation. It may not come in the near future, but it is just as certain to come as the sun rises in the east in the morning.

COTTON CONSUMPTION IN DECEMBER.

Growers are reminded that there was a large consumption of cotton in December and that exports and home mill takings were 301,000 bales above the same month in 1923. Growers are also reminded that the United States leads the world in the use of cotton. Its annual consumption of the raw material is thirty pounds per capita.

A bulletin makes known that for one purpose or another, Americans use about twice as much as the next nearest country, notwithstanding that Great Britain, which consumes half as much cotton as this country does, possesses about 56,000,000 spindles against 37,000,000 in place in the United States.

Regardless of this in 1923 Americans imported close to 220,000,000 square yards of cotton cloth. Isn't it queer that the country that produces the cotton and is the largest consumer of cotton goods should be compelled to go the European manufacturers for cotton cloth for home consumption?

LINDSEY ON THE RACK.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver is on the rack. He won reelection in November by a very small majority. He has been on the rack for the 23 years that he has been judge of the juvenile court of Denver. Now the klan leaders of Colorado have introduced a bill in the legislature to abolish the Lindsey court, the work to be taken over in turn by the nine district judges. There is a Waterloo in the life of [redacted] and those who are on the trail of the [redacted] Denver judge think they see his Waterloo coming up. They could not beat him before the people. Now they propose to throw him by legislative enactment.

Lindsey has defied and challenged his political [redacted] to do their work. Ever the friend of boys and girls who need a friend, this Denver jurist has won an international reputation by his humane methods and his splendid service for society.

A STEEL STRAW.

According to the Associated Press the largest steel companies with headquarters in the Chicago district are operating at about 95 per cent of capacity and near capacity is predicted in the very near future. More than five thousand steel workers have been given employment since the beginning of the new year.

When the steel mills are doing business on a large scale business booms everywhere; when the industry is lagging, the depression is felt everywhere. All the big business men of the country are looking for a great year.

Prosperity is to be given a continuous run for a long time unless the signs of the times are being sadly misinterpreted.

HIGH MARK FOR WHEAT.

May wheat in the Chicago market scored the highest price in 45 years. This was for future delivery and happened in 1880. And a year ago wheat was selling for 90c a bushel. What will be the selling price next spring

DEMAND FOR COTTON GROWING.

According to experts the country over, exports have now reached the total which makes it reasonably certain that the five million bale line will be reached and crossed by the end of the month of February with six full months of the season still ahead. It further seems probable, according to these experts, that exports for the year will considerably exceed seven million bales.

Consumption is increasing among American mills and British mills are expanding their business. Cotton has not been dethroned and cotton is the money crop of Texas. Really the world is coming back, war did not destroy Europe, war did not destroy civilization, war did not set the world back a hundred years, and the diggers of the world are the men and women who should receive the greatest credit for it.

History merely repeats itself.

HARLAN FISKE STONE.

Harlan Fiske Stone was advanced from the office of Attorney General to the supreme court bench of the United States. President Coolidge did the picking, after a conference with Chief Justice Taft.

President Coolidge did not consult the politicians when he named a successor to Harry M. Daugherty. He did not consult the politicians when he named the successor to Justice McKenna.

After March 4 Coolidge will be chief executive of all the people and the supreme dictator of the republican party.

Now the radical critics of the government say that Warren holds large blocks of beet sugar stock and that Stone once appeared in a law suit as the legal representative of the house of Morgan.

Is it a crime to hold stock in a legitimate concern? Is it a misdemeanor to be retained as a legal advisor by the house of Morgan?

HOLDS THE WHIP HAND.

Governor Alexander Grossbeck of Michigan aspired to be attorney general of the United States. He had the backing of the republican machine of Michigan. President Coolidge named Charles Beecher Warren, a multimillionaire lawyer and diplomat, who sneers at the machine and machine politics.

Charles Beecher Warren has served as ambassador to Japan and to Mexico and he is a scholar as becometh a diplomat and has only contempt for what is known as the mob.

This thrifty son of New England, who holds the whip hand, received a mandate from the American people to be the boss of the job. Unless the signs are misleading he is going to be an iron handed boss when it comes to dishing out the plums of office.

BIG SALE OF LIFE INSURANCE.

Now that the returns are all in, it is shown that the American people bought four times as much life insurance last year as they did ten years ago, even though the population of the country increased only one-sixth during that period. Total life insurance outstanding in legal reserve companies is now $64,000,000,000 and the total new insurance procured by all of the legal reserve companies during 1924 was $13,514,000,000, a very handsome increase over the new business production of 1923. This speaks volumes for the American people. They are protecting their own.

SHOEING THE WORLD.

American boots and shoes continue to be popular the world over. Exports in last dozen years had a value of more than $350,000,000. They go to nearly one hundred countries and colonies in every part of the world. What is the value of a Texas hide?

By Dr. Frank Crane

The Woolworth and the Equitable Buildings have been called the Temples of Business.

They really are great marts of trade.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine that is building in New York has a better right to be called the Business Temple. It is a place for business to worship, to forget the cares of this world, and to think upon eternal problems.

Bishop Manning the other day said from the pulpit of this church:

"I wish that some part of this cathedral might be built by those interested in sports and recreations. I should like to see the steel men, the grocers, the clothing trades, the actors, the musicians, the artists, the writers, the physicians, the educators and the men of science all have their own distinctive part and place in it."

The great cathedrals of the Thirteenth Century that adorn Europe were built by the people. They received their land from the feudal lords who in that day represented the government. The merchants of the city were glad to give of their money, of their profits in trade, toward it. The stone was quarried and carved by the people of the city, and the whole community gathered in front of it on festal days.

We do not enjoy the unity of faith which that age did, but we probably have more religion. That is, our people are spiritually minded and disposed to consider the problems of life from a religious viewpoint. The people are hungry for the spiritual diet which the church provides.

All that is needed is to abate sectionalism and factionalism in the churches, and they will receive the hearty support of the community.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine is an Episcopalian edifice, backed by that sect, but it aims to be of service to all humanity. A recent contribution to it was made by a prominent Jew, and people of all faiths are uniting in its construction.

It may be possible that the Cathedral is not to be the form which the religious sentiment of this age shall take. But it is fitting that that sentiment shall express itself in a beautiful building. The construction of this building calls for the co-operation of the entire community, just as its support will depend upon the extant citizenship.

Any sect has an opportunity to enlarge its usefulness and base its works upon all human need, and its endeavor to do so should meet with all encouragement.

There is plenty of money in the United States, and money that is being used for all kinds of purposes. We consume a large amount of property annually. Would it not be well to take part of our surplus and invest it in some permanently beautiful building that through the ages it might represent an abiding feeling?

Nothing recalls to us the beauty of the middle ages like their buildings. It may be true that their civilization, as has been said, was "built upon a dung heap." Many wars marred their history. But there was underlying all a sense of beauty and of purpose. The evil is passed and exists only on the written page, but the good that they did and felt has been carved in stone and erected for us in their beautiful cathedrals.

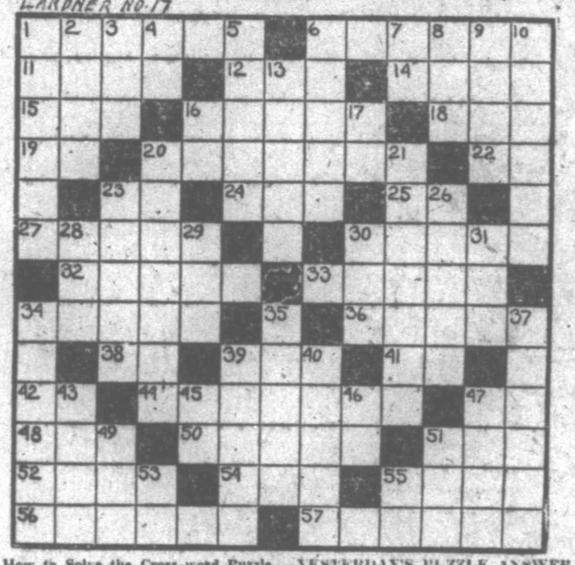

Shall this age leave anything equally beautiful?

How to Solve the Cross-word Puzzle.

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

Irrigation

THE SIZE OF IRRIGATED FARMS.

One of the great advantages of irrigation is the fact that it enables a greater number of people to gain a living from a given area than under rainfall conditions.

Maximum farm production can only be obtained when the farmer has complete control of the forces that make crops grow. Such control has never been attained yet. No farmer has ever, or will ever, gain complete command of sunlight, temperature, soil and moisture. Under irrigation he does however, gain control over one of the most important elements which is moisture.

Dr. Youngblood in his address before the chamber of commerce told of some of the benefits that will come to this community because of the farmers being able to control their supply of moisture. His main thought was that the population would increase many fold.

He says that instead of it taking 160 acres to sustain a family, the same area will under irrigation support ten families.

We believe that this statement is rather optimistic. Certainly there is no record of any 160 acres on the area covered by the irrigation project being the sole support of a family over any considerable period of years. The too frequent drouths have attended to that.

And the day when our project will support a family to each ten acres is certainly far distant. We do not believe that on any irrigation project in the U. S. is the average family unit as low as this.

A few years ago some figures were given out by the United States reclamation service showing the average irrigated farm unit on their projects was something over sixty acres. This was a decided decrease from the original size which was about 120 acres.

As projects develop and become more intensely cultivated there is a decided tendency for the farm unit to decrease in size. We will see the same thing here and it will be greatly to our benefit.

HOW IT STARTED

Why the Barber's Pole?

A most ordinary object today is the spiral painted barber's pole. It is not what it is probably accepted to be by those who stop to think about it at all—a survival of some ancient barber's transgression in the realm of art or a lure for unsuspecting little boys to go in and be shorn of their locks. But wound in its folds is a most interesting revelation of former ages.

Not many centuries ago, when bleed-letting was the cure for all ills, the barber was also the surgeon, and in the pole before his shop today is bound up the story of this, to our mind, dual vocation.

During the process of bloodletting, patients used to grasp tightly a pole in order to make their veins swell and the blood flow freely. As the pole soon become blood stained, it was painted a bright red, and when not in use hung outside the door, wound spirally with white a linen band to represent the bandage used to tie up the wound. Happy thought for prospective victims.

One day an enterprising tonsorial artist conceived the idea of a substitute pole spirally painted red and white to stand permanently before his establishment. And the pole has stood. The addition of the gilt ball was to represent the brass basin which, with the notchlike cavity on one side fitting around the throat, was used to catch the lather when a man was being shaved.

This is one of the many enigmatical remains of former times which surround us on all sides and which by their very commonplaceness preclude curiosity and leave undivined the fascinating sidelights they might reveal on the story of the world.

SIGNS HER FIRST LAW.

Mrs. Ferguson Puts Her Name on the Dotted Line at Austin.

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Governor Miriam Amanda Ferguson signed her first law today. It was senate bill 62, transferring title in the steel rail now in the state railroad from the state highway department to the railroad. The bill was introduced early in the session at the request of Lynch Davidson, chairman of the board of managers of the state railroad.

MATTERS OF HEALTH

Heat with gas stoves—
But, e'er you do,
Pipe burnt gases
To your flue.

Men get what they give.

A man is known by the promises he keeps.

A dumb friend thinks that the Near East is a remedy for pimples.

Oh, the fireman stoked the furnace
Hod upon hod;
And the whole congregation
Started to nod.

What the radio fan wants is an announcer who is a man of few words.

In house heating humidity is of greater importance than temperature.

For better health, let's spend our wealth
On sunshine, golf and chowders;
It's wasted, friends, this dough we spend
For tonics, pills and powders.

When tubercular patients are able to educate their skins to stand very low temperatures without discomfort, we wonder why healthy, full blooded people, engaged in active occupations, wear so many clothes?

The unfortunate phase of modern life is that, in indulging ourselves, we borrow heavily upon nature, who demands payment at inopportune times.

Every fly egg in your frozen garbage heap is a million potential typhoid carriers.

More Truth Than Poetry

HARDLY WORTH IT

A former health commissioner of New York City declares that if men wore silken clothes of garnish colors, as they did in the time of chivalry they would be braver and rich and happier and healthier.

I might, were I clad in an apricot coat,
Be healthy and wealthy and valiant and bold;
I might never get my bi-monthly sore throat,
And never contract any bronichial cold.
No patron of husky young manhood am I;
My health isn't good and my pocketbook's lean,
But I'd rather be poor than tricked out like a guy;
I'd rather look sick than like Louis Fourteen.

The reason we moderns are ailing—I learn—
And sop up the microbes afloat in the air,
Is because we don't take any proper concern
In choosing the clothing we all ought to wear.
Bright colors are foes to all manner of ills;
We'll never be sick if we're gorgeously decked,
And elegant lace-ruffled rainment instills
The courage that's born of increased self respect.

Sir Launcelot slid off his armor at night,
And put on the flashiest clothes he could get,
And that, we suppose, made him great in a fight,
And a winner with all of the dames in his set.
King Richard the First, that crusading old sport,
Wore a blue satin jerkin and breeches of red,
And in vain one may scan all the tales of his court
To find he had ever a cold in the head.

If in silk and in satin we moderns were clad,
In all of the newest and popular hues,
We'd never be droopy, we'd never feel bad,
And not take an illness—not even the blues.
But though ailments may fade before flounces and ruffs,
As we're told that they did in the days of romance,
I'd rather have mumps than wear lace on my cuffs;
I'd rather be dead than sport pale lilac pants.

POOR CONSOLATION.

It would probably not cheer a cat very much even if she knew that she would become an otter in her next world.

UNFAIR.

This is the time of year when California gets a bad name because she insists on keeping her climate at home.

NOTHING LEFT

The trouble with censorship is that its advocates long ago took the sense out of it.

CHILDREN'S CROSS WORD PUZZLE

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across.)

Word 1. What the child in the picture is writing on.
Word 4. One who builds with stone or brick.

(Running Down.)

Word 1. Mother tells you not to ——— the door.
Word 2. Mountains in Switzerland.
Word 3. The garden where Adam and Eve lived.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

Aquarius.

Today's planetary aspects are neither good, nor bad, and while complex in character, are more negative than favorable. It is, above all, an occasion that demands much circumspection, and self restraint, as the temptation will be present all the time to go off at a tangent. All correspondence of a disagreeable character should be postponed until some more propitious occasion, and no contracts or agreements should be executed, and no obligations assumed. The signs improve in the evening, and are favorable for social entertainments, but are distinctly adverse to the making of any decisions of moment or importance.

A child born today will be robust and healthy, and almost immune from the weaknesses and ailments of childhold. It will, with plenty of outdoor air, develop great physical strength and prowess, and will be especially devoted to all forms of sport. Its character will be, unfortunately, just as weak as its constitution will be strong, and it will find great difficulty in saying "No" at the right time. It will have a very keen conscience, and its frequent fallings from grace will cause it much mental suffering and remorse. This child should marry young, as the loving companionship of a good mate will have a beneficial and lasting effect on its character.

If today is your birthday, you possess, in your characteristics, all the fundamental elements of success, and the only detracting influence is your excessive frugality, which often amounts to miserliness. Whilst it is inadvisable to spend foolishly, there is a limit to what is necessary as a provision for a rainy day. It is hardly desirable to anticipate and provide for a steady downpour.

Your friends—the few you have—look askance at you, and you do not derive from friendships—or association with others, that pleasure which it really affords to those who find it more blessed to give than to receive.

With your talents and your natural giffs, you would get out of life the best there is in it, if you could only overcome the ever present instinct to scrape and save at every opportunity. Liberality—not generosity—in action begets liberality in thought, and, without this requisite, one's outlook on life becomes narrow and distorted.

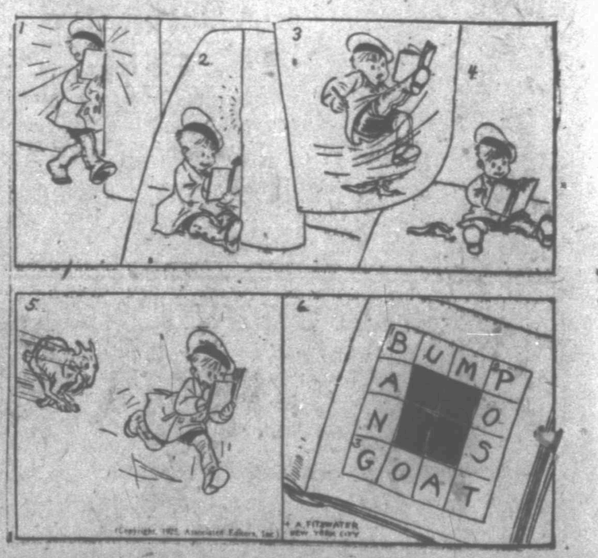

Successful people born on this date:
Horace Greeley, journalist.
Elizabeth Blackwell, physician.
Spencer F. Baird, naturalist. His specialty was birds and reptiles.
Ogden N. Rood, scientist and inventor. "The father of expermiental physics in U. S."
Sidney Lanier, poet.
Charles A. L. Totten, soldier and auther.

Pantomime —By J. H. Striebel

Playing with Fire
The Story of a Social Climber
by Lucille Van Slyke

"I must say I'm relieved to learn he has had the sense to stop caring about you. But —"

"Oh please do stop talking about it!" the tortured girl interrupted her. 'I'm perfectly aware what you think! That nobody should go on caring about me! That you just hate me! That everybody hates me! That everybody puts the worst possible construction upon what happened last night! I knew I couldn't make you understand—"

"But I understand perfectly," Chet's cousin was really unnecessarily malicious. "That kind of thing explains itself to anybody who sees it. The disgraceful condition of the men, the hour at which you returned, the —"

"I'll go just as quickly as I can," Rosalie again interrupted. She flushed with embarrassment. "Only it happens that I spent the salary check I had Thursday and—and I'll have to write to—to—"

It came over her with disagreeable lucidity that she couldn't write to Jean for money now.

"—to my aunt for some money—" she ended miserably, thinking that writing to Aunt Sarah merely meant that Aunt Sarah would have to ask Jean for it.

Miss Ferguson tapped the desk with her pencil.

"I'll see that you are provided with transportation and traveling expenses, she remarked frigidly. "You go and pack."

ROSALIE packed. And sat down upon a stiff little chair beside her bed with clenched fists, making no effort to go down to luncheon when the gong sounded. And by and by Miss Ferguson came up to tell her that owing to the fall change in the train schedule she would have to remain at Pendleton over night.

"Mrs. Hartwell suggested that you occupy the guest room to which you were assigned last night. The station bus will take you to the eight ten train in the morning. The porter will take your trunk over to the station on the truck that goes down to get the school supplies at two o'clock. You might take your hand luggage downstairs now while the children are at luncheon as Miss Slocum is going to move her personal effects in here directly after luncheon. I—one of the maids will bring a tray to you." She stalked stiffly away without a word of farewell.

"She treats me as though I were a criminal!" Rosalie thought angrily as she plodded down the stairway with her shabby suitcase to the solemn elegance of the guest room.

She sent the luncheon tray away untouched. And paced up and down the floor like a caged thing hating Chet's cousin and Chet and Jean—all of them! Blaming everybody in her world, save her foolish little self for the maelstrom of troubles into which her indiscretions had plunged her.

Was it only yesterday that she had started out so gaily to meet Dick Converse?

The very thought of Dick filled her with loathing. She shuddered as she remembered his moist hands upon her, she hid her face as she recalled how she had screamed out and the sordid scene that had followed.

"If only he hadn't been drinking!" she thought. "It was all his fault, the whole thing, the beast! I'd like to get even with him someday!"

THE afternoon wore slowly away. She wept a little, tried to quiet her nerves with reading—and couldn't keep her mind on the page. She manicured her nails, slept a little, awoke to weep more. It was raining again. She counted the money in her purse, less than two dollars, not enough to get her anywhere at all and she was ashamed to try to borrow from anybody.

"Nobody in this world cares what becomes of me!" she thought desperately.

Outside her door was sudden commotion. Nannette Quimby's shrill voice crying:

"I shall go in! I shall! I shall see my Rosy Lee!"

The door burst open and the excitable child flung herself sobbing into Rosalie's arms.

In the hallway an awestricken, whispering group of school girls were gathering.

"The chambermaids were talking and Una heard them—" Nannette's choking whispers came. "They said you went out joy riding—that the Harpy fired you for it! And this afternoon that nice Mrs. Adams came over with Cousin Dick and his face was all plastered up and Mrs. Hartwell saw them and they came out of her office and she said 'Nothing could make any difference' and—and—"

THE door to the hall shut with a bang.

"Need we submit the pupils to this distressing display of hysteria?" asked Mrs. Hartwell's voice. "Nannette! Come here!"

Nannette clung more tightly to Rosalie.

"I won't!" she defied the school principal.

"Tell her to go!" Mrs. Hartwell ordered.

"Nannie—you'll have to go—" Rosalie's voice trembled. "I—I—oh, she's the only one who cares about me!" She cried out wildly. "Can't you let her stay?"

"No, I can't," Mrs. Hartwell said drily, "you surely understand that this sort of thing is very bad for the morale of the school—bad for the child—Nannette, come here!"

Nannette flung her arms about Rosalie's neck and whispered: "All right, I'll go! But I know what I'm going to do! I'm going to telegraph for my daddy! He won't let them treat you like this!"

CHAPTER XXXV.
Clipped Wings

NANNETTE Quimby was only 11 but she was a rather precocious 11. She wept so much after they took her away from her beloved Rosalie that the school principal did exactly what the shrewd child reckoned she would do—sent her home for the night. And the minute she was in her father's house the little girl sped to the telephone and sent the telegram to her father.

"Come home at once, something terrible has happened."

In less than two hours he had his house on the wire. Nannette's grandmother tried to talk with him but the impetuous child shoved her away and poured a perfect avalanche of words at her defenseless dad.

"—and it was all Cousin Dick's fault. He took Miss Rosy Lee riding and the car broke down and they got home late and the Harpy fired Rosy Lee and wouldn't listen to Dick and they shut her up and—"

"Wait, darling," he reminded her, "Daddy is a long way off, the wire isn't very clear. Talk more slowly."

She talked more slowly, sobs choking her ardent plea that he come home at once.

"Philadelphia isn't so far—" she wailed—"you said yourself there was a train every two hours—"

He called the school after he bade his daughter hang up the receiver.

Mrs. Hartwell herself came to answer him, speaking clearly, "I'm more than sorry, Mr. Quimby," she assured him. "Nannette is very fond of this young teacher and the girl has many charming qualities. Too charming, I fear, for a teacher. We asked her for her resignation because we felt that it was better for the children not to—"

"You made a thorough investigation?" he snapped.

"Very thorough. And Mrs. Adams, who was with the party, was good enough to come here in Miss Blanchard's behalf but I'm sure you understand that even though the er—party—was chaperoned we can not take chances of that kind. It was a most deplorable affair. They arrived here after three in the morning, the men were certainly intoxicated—"

"What men?" Mr. Quimby demanded.

"Mr. Converse was one of the party, Mr. Adams another, I'm not sure who the third man was—"

HE thanked her, hung up the telephone and thought a while.

Then he stopped thinking and began to feel.

Anger, first. He was furious at Dick for getting poor Rosalie in such a mess.

TOMAHAWKS AND BASEBALL!

Will Newest Indian In Big Show Be Whiz Or Bloomer?

What will the future hold for John Levi, "Charging Buffalo," the Haskell Indian athletic marvel who is awaiting his first big league tryout with the New York Yanks this spring.

Indians have written some interesting chapters in baseball. Some have shone as players, some have drawn attention by their failure to shine and others go down in history mainly as "troubles" who drove their managers to gray hairs.

The two greatest Indians in diamond annals were Chief Bender and Soxalexis.

On down the line were Chief Meyers, Jim Thorpe, Ben Tincup, Chief Moses Yellowhorse, and a few lesser luminaries. All underwent pitcuresque careers.

The success of the Indian in baseball is varied There is no way of measuring his chances—except by the rule of time. What will be the extent of Levi's success?

TEX ANTICIPATES NO DIFFICULTY IN COMING TO TERMS WITH JACK FOR TITLE BATTLE, HE DECLARES

Kearns Confirms Announcement, and Says Champ Will Meet Both Tom and Harry Wills

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The heavyweight ballyhoo for 1925 gathered full steam today when Tex Rickard announced he would match Tom Gibbons and Jack Dempsey for a return title bout early in June and then pit the winner against the perennial negro contender, Harry Wills, in September. Both bouts would be staged either in the Yankee Stadium or in Rickard's Jersey City bowl, Boyles Thirty Acres.

Rickard made this announcement after an hour's conference with Gibbons and the latter's manager, Eddie Kane, at which the St. Paul boxer come to definite terms with the promoter. Wills already is under contract with Rickard.

No binding agreement has yet been reached with Dempsey, but all doubt that he would be seen in action seemed removed by a prompt declaration in Los Angeles, by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, that the champion would give both Gibbons and Wills an opportunity to fight for the title. Rickard said he anticipated no difficulty coming to terms with Dempsey.

Tex and Kearns Agree

The statements by Rickard and Kearns synchronized so well that fight experts, accustomed to mid-winter caution and contradiction in the business of the ring game, jumped at the conclusion that the program of two title fights here this year was as good as clinched.

There was no explanation as to what effect Dempsey's fighting plans would have upon the matrimonial venture which he has announced for May. Observers concluded, however, that unless there was some hitch in this plan, the champion's fiancee, Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress had removed her objection to tuning their wedding bells to the sound of the ring's gong.

Gibbons Gets $100,000

No announcement was made as to financial terms, but it was understood Gibbons will receive at least $100,000 and probably $150,000 for a battle with Dempsey.

Wills may or may not regard his inclusion in the title plans as a hoodoo. The negro has figured annually for the past several years in mid-winter negotiations, but they have fallen through with equal regularity.

M'MULLEN AND TRAMMEL STEP ON SCALES AT HALL THURSDAY

Guests Invited For Weighing-in Process At 3 o'Clock — Wofford Bills Fast Semi-Windup

The weighing in process of the main entertainers on the Legion's Thursday night fisticuff offering, Elmer McMullen of Dodge City and Duke Tremmel of Fort Worth, is to be staged Thursday in the Legion hall as the City National bank time piece chimes the afternoon's third hour. Nope, those in the Legion gym more than a block away aren't going to strain their ears listening for said chimes but Promoter Don Wofford's watch will be set according to the City National's time. And providing one or the other time indicator doesn't speed up or slow down you can stand on Tipton's corner, look at the big clock across the street, and as the minute hand clicks at the figure 12 with the hour arm resting at the numeral 3, and say to yourself, "Now they're weighing Duke Trammel and Elmer McMullen, the two greatest welterweights in the southwest." Bet Elmer weighs the most," or less—suit yourself.

If that isn't good enough you can chase up to the Legion hall and see how it's done. The boys each have posted $50 forfeits to make the weight—147 pounds. If one fails the other collects. That's official. If neither comes through, then the cash goes to Don Wofford and Blondy Cross, or some other charitable cause, preferably the first. That's unofficial.

Trammel didn't arrive yesterday, as was announced he would, but Promoter Wofford expects him in Wichita Falls today.

McMullen is still on hand working away each day.

For the semi-final bout, Wofford has announced Benny Clark, Dallas welter, who recently defeated Dago Ryan and George Storey of Oklahoma City, who last week stopped Battling Jennings here. The bout will be a six-rounder. There are to be four or five four-round events to top off a snappy card.

Top O' Morn Stuff

Gents, you may now consider that the Spudder spring training session has officially rollocked off to an aerial beginning, otherwise recognized as a flying start.

* * *

The initial foray in Spud spring activities was enacted yesterday, although the afternoon was almost as cold as an Eskimo flapper's heart when she discovers her steady fishing through a hole in the ice with the little flat-faced squaw from down in the corner igloo.

* * *

The entire squad—all except the infield, outfield, rookies and batboys, turned out for the opening festivities.

* * *

In other words, Skipper Buddy Tanner has donned the sweat shirt, and gone to work.

* * *

Al White, infielder and only other Spudder wintering in the city, had threatened to come out of hibernation Monday, Feb. 2, but Al failed to show.

* * *

That's all right, though. Secretary J. Will, alias Bill, Gray filled in the gap, by taking a little conditioner himself.

* * *

Bill, or J. Will (call him what you want) created quite a furore among the spectators, namely Buddy and yours truly, when he tripped out, oh, ever so lightly, and did a bit of aesthetic terpsichore with a skipping rope.

* * *

Bud bounced to the fore with a medicine ball, but you couldn't tell which was the ball, Butter Ball Bud or the medicine ball.

* * *

You who haven't seen our worthy skipper of late would gather from this that Bud has grown considerably in the vicinity of the rotunda through the winter months. He has.

* * *

But a wool sweat shirt abetted by an air-proof, water proof rubber jersey, plus a flock of honest-to-gawd labor, all of which Bud has on his curriculum for the present, will sooner or later, probably later, remedy this.

* * *

The first week of conditioning will be for the greater part indoors. There's sufficient apparatus at the club house to give any small number of athletes sufficient work to make them wish they hadn't done it.

* * *

We tried to cajole Bud out into the open for a romp around the park, but he wouldn't do it. Fat men can't run anyway. However, this wasn't his reason.

* * *

Probably a pound or so rolled off the skipper's anatomy in the first workout. Today, another lb. Tomorrow, another, etc., etc.

* * *

Won't be long till Bud's ready to take charge of the hot corner again. We look for this season to be one of his best, present oversize rotunda regardless.

* * *

Speaking of Ping Bodie, which we did the other day, that ball-murdering outfielder was the cause of much jesting last spring when it was announced that he had his heart set on playing an infield berth. He found his desire fulfilled during the season. He broke into 31 games at the last corner and played satisfactory ball. So Ping has the laugh right now.

* * *

The tip is out among the boxers that the "big money" is in California, where the game has just been legalized by the state. The influx of ring stars to that territory has begun. Mickey Walker, welterweight champ; "Kid" Kaplan, unofficial featherweight champion; Pal Moore, Tommy Loughran, Sammy Mandell and several other more or less well known gladiators have gone to the coast to get in on the aforementioned money.

Suzanne Enters Nice Tourney.

NICE, Feb. 2.—Suzanne Lenglen, apparently completely recovered from her recent injury, today entered the second Nice tournament played this winter and defeated Misses Pranley and Moore, six-love, Mlle. Lenglen, playing with Baron De Morpurgo, won from Mlle. Joyeux and M. Parier by the same score. The French star appeared at the top of her form.

National League Veterans Gather At Golden Jubilee

First Pages of Loop History Flashed On Screen of Today

PLAN SCHEDULE NEXT

Moguls Stage Session In Cradle of League's Berth

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The National baseball league paused in its schedule deliberations today, turned back to the first pages of its history and flashed on the screen of today the personalities, trials and triumphs of those who laid the cornerstone of professional baseball. Emulating a scene enacted nearly half a century ago, the magnates of the National league, together with those players who have survived the flight of time, met in the Broadway Central hotel, the same hostelry which housed the first National league meeting February, 1876. The gathering inaugurated the golden jubilee year.

Five Old Players Present

In the same room in which Morgan G. Bulkeley of Hartford, Conn., was elected the first president of the National league the baseball men paid tribute to the character and courage of those pioneers a half century ago.

Five of the seven surviving players who played in the National league in its first year, attended today's gathering. These include George Washington Bladley of Philadelphia, a pitcher with the St. Louis club; Thomas Bond of Boston, a pitcher, with the Hartford club; Alonzo Knight of Philadelphia, who pitched for the old Athletics; John Manning of Boston, outfielder with the Boston club and Tommy York of New York, old time Hartford outfielder.

Sunday Didn't Come

George Wright of Boston and Al Reach, of Philadelphia, the remaining two, could not attend due to advancing age. Calvin J. Stambough of Chicago, one of the first National league umpires, attended the meeting as did Tommy Foster, the old Detroit shortstop; Sam Crane, former Detroit second baseman and noted sports writer; John K. Tener, former president of the National league and later governor of Pennsylvania; Bill Clarke old time Washington catcher; John Ward, New York third baseman; Jim Mutrie, first owner and manager of the New York Giants; Joe Hornung, Boston outfielder, and others of prominence. Most of these men have reached the seventy mark in the matter of years.

William A. (Billy) Sunday, former major leguer and now well known evangelist, sent a letter to President Heydler from Jackson, Miss., where he is holding a revival meeting expressing his regrets at not being able to attend.

No business was transacted today, the meeting adjourning until tomorrow when the magnates will sit to deliberate over the 1925 schedule.

The world grows more efficient. In the old days you couldn't have held a dance in a room 9 by 12.

And so the weight of the earth has changed. Perhaps that is because woman has her thumb on it.

Three Grilled In Baseball Inquiry, But Nothing New

Fletcher, Young, And Kelly Examined by State Attorney

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Arthur Fletcher, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals; Ross Young, outfielder of the New York Giants, and George Kelly, Giants' first baseman, today were examined by Assistant District Attorney Brothers in the state's investigation into the attempted bribery of Shortstop Heinie Sand of the Phillies before a contest in New York late last season.

District Attorney Banton will receive a full report within a few days and information regarding the testimony must come from him, Mr. Brothers said.

The three men named by Jimmy O'Connell barred from baseball after his confession to Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis that he had made the proposition to Sand have been questioned in the district attorney's office. O'Connell insisted that Frank Frisch, second baseman and captain of the team, Kelly and Young had knowledge of the proposed transaction. Coach Cozy Dolan, whom O'Connell implicated, also was exiled from the organized game after investigation by the commissioner.

Kelly, who came here from his home in California to testify, said that when he arrived he found a telegram stating his brother had died. He was questioned by Mr. Brothers for half an hour, but all information obtained from him was withheld and the investigator expressed his regret at having brought Kelly all the way from the coast.

Fletcher and Young, also interrogated today, failed to throw new light on the situation, it was announced officially.

Johnson Denied Injunction.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The application of Walter Johnson, pitcher of the Washington American league baseball team, for an injunction to restrain the Thompson Feature Service, Inc., and the Brooklyn Daily Eagle from publishing a series of articles purporting to be the story of Johnson's career as a pitcher, was denied today by Supreme Court Justice James O'Mally.

The wets have one good argument. The prune doesn't show its age until it goes dry.

BAMBINUS BABE EMITS ANNUAL CHIRP--EXPECTS TO SNAP RECORD

Odds Very Much Against Great Man to Make Ripple, Avers Well Known Sports Critic

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Imbued with the quite plausible belief that the season of 1925 will see him better his home run record or permanently abandon the chase, George H. Ruth, the well known outfielder today is enroute for Hot Springs, for the purpose of boiling the beef right down to the bone.

Before boarding the train, the Babe declared himself as follows:

He would hit at least 60 homers and the New York Yanks would win another pennant. He weighed slightly less than what the coal dealers refer to as a short ton.

"I admit that this year probably will mark my last serious attempt to break my record of 59," the great man said. "I feel, of course, that I am good for at least five or six seasons more as a big leaguer, maybe longer, but as time goes on my chances of beating the record reduce. I have no illusions about that. What was easy when you were a kid becomes increasingly hard as you advance beyond the 30 mark."

The great man expressed here the general opinion of close observers. They have witnessed his struggles with the demon fat from year to year and they are pleased to note that it is a losing battle. Just what the Babe weighs at the moment must remain a secret for the simple reason that the Babe is like the daisies. He wont tell.

Yanks Will Win

On other matters he was almost loquacious, however. The Yanks seemed to be his favorite theme.

"I think you will see the old club, as it was in 1923, playing ball this year," quoth he. "We just kicked the pennant away last season. Over confidence or something. I am not trying to take anything away from the Senators. They deserved everything they got and more. But we have the better club and 1925 will prove it. The Tigers are always dangerous, too, and the Athletics are bound to be an improved ball club. However, all I can say is watch the Yankees."

Many may agree with the young man's ideas here but not with his apparent belief that he has a white man's chance for the home run record. There are too many factors that will militate against his efforts.

One of them is the good word emanating from semi-official sources, that the day of the slugger is gone. This, they say, is to be the pitcher's year and the rather hectic efforts of the various clubs to line up and develop their staffs would seem to bear out this idea. Connie Mack, for example, is taking pitchers south in less than three weeks time. They also say the socalled "rabbit ball," the existence of which was never admitted in official quarters, is a thing of the past and point to the marked falling off in the home runs last year as proof of the contention. The Babe himself fell all of 12 behind his record, which is another angle to the story.

Can't Do It

He played 77 games on the wide open spaces of the Yankee stadium, and being a gentleman of tact and discernment, he shortened his swing on many occasions; in fact, so many that he led the league hitting. It might be mentioned that the babe will play 77 games at the Yankee stadium again this season. He compiled his great record while playing half of the season at the polo grounds where the right field wall is conventional and moderately low. The pitchers themselves will try to see to it that the great man doesn't again run wild. They may not be giving him as many intentional passes as before but they so seldom give him a good one that his walks are almost monotonous.

Ty Cobb has expressed the common attitude in rather succinct terms: "Four for one is better than one for four."

That epigram stands for something that will cramp Ruth's style beyond all probability of a successful record as a slugger.

"Old Dependable" Father Calls It

Georgia Lady Describes Use Of Black-Draught—Husband Agrees With Her As to Its Value

BERLIN, Ga.—"My father always used Black-Draught in our home as a remedy for colds and constipation, so I just naturally grew up thinking it was the only medicine that could do me any good," says Mrs. Rosa Lee Walden of this place.

"It always got results, and that was what father wanted.

"After I married and went to housekeeping, we continued to keep Black-Draught in our house. A body just has to have something of the kind to relieve indigestion and bowel disorders, and I have never found anything so effective as Black-Draught, although I have tried many.

"With a family of growing children it is absolutely necessary to have a good, reliable, simple medicine to keep them straightened out when they get a little upset. I always want something mild and something I am sure will not injure the system. I have found Black-Draught to be reliable and we are never without it. The 'Old Dependable'—that's what my husband calls it.

"I make it into a tea for the children and give it to them for bad colds. It relieves the system of impurities and so relieves the cold. For sour stomach and gas on the stomach, I have found it especially good."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—The cotton market was more active today than it has been in some time. Starting out with a better tone and a moderate gain, prices gathered momentum as the session proceeded and trading became quite brisk during the afternoon, the high points of the day being reached right at the close of the day's business. At the highest of the session May and July, the most active months, showed gains of 55 points each and both these positions closed within a point or two of the best. All the trading months were far above the 24 cent line at the end of the day and the undertone at the close was decidedly more buoyant than it has been in some time.

At the start as Liverpool was better than due, first trades showed gains of 12 to 14 points and the opening prices remained practically the low point of the day. The market advanced steadily during the morning with only slight reactions from time to time but in the afternoon the market gathered decided momentume and finally March traded up to 24.24, May 24.55, July 24.76 and October 24.29, or 48 to 53 points above the closing levels of Saturday.

The close was near the top, showing net gains for the day of 44 to 53 points.

The gradually advancing tendency during the morning was due in addition to favorable cables to the heavy export reported from Galveston and Houston and to the generally favorable reports coming from southern spot markets in which the highest basis of the season was said to prevail.

Boils!

S.S.S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.
