Raid Tip-Offs By Cops Charged

Jack Hill Arrested Again; Sheriff Visits With Rev. Barnes

11 Say Scott Sane; 5 Take Other Stand

Seven Guards of Death Watch Tell of Observations in Prison Cell

WILL DECIDE TODAY

Fate of Condemned Man To Rest on Jury Finding Of His Sanity

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Russell Scott, his life at stake in a sanity hearing, sat stoically in court today while seven guards of the death watch and four prosecution alienists told the jury that they believed him sane.

After the testimony of Dr. W. O. Krohn, the last prosecution expert is put into the record tomorrow morning, closing arguments will begin.

The case probably will go to the jury late in the afternoon.

There is no appeal from the verdict. If Scott is found sane, Judge Joseph B. David, who issued a stay of execution on an insanity petition ten days ago, will fix a new date for the march to the gallows. If the prisoner is found sane, he will be committed at once to a state institution.

He Says He's Sane.

One jailer testified he believed "Scott is sane as any one could be under the circumstances." Another, that Scott professed to face the future with confidence "because he had a couple of governors working for him." Another guard of the death cell related how his charge stood over him with critical eye and bantered him about his technical errors in pinochle and solitaire.

"I'm sane and nothing but," another guard said he heard Scott tell a newspaper reporter who brought him news of the stay of execution.

"He told me about a gambling house holdup which netted him and his brother $4,500," another jailer recalled from his store of death row confidences.

"He said his brother did the shooting and thought he ought to come forward and save him," said the man who took him what he thought was the prisoner's last meal.

They all believed him sane. None were cross examined.

Alienists Testify.

Four alienists, all in the service of the federal or state government testified that they concluded from a 15 minute observation in the jail office in which Scott was the unwilling subject, that he was sane. One was cross examined for half an hour on involved technical questions dealing with types and manifestations of mental debility.

The others were dismissed by the defense with the question "how much do you expect for your services?"

The last three expected about $100 a day.

Fourteen witnesses have described Scott as sane.

The defense rested its case with the testimony of five alienists who on the basis of more than ten hours examination over three days asserted the prisoner insane.

The jury may decide tomorrow.

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch

Looks

At ten we wish for twenty's days—
It must be fine to be a man
Or woman, fine a lot of ways;
And so, as soon as mortal can,
The older clothes we start to wear,
The older clothes and older air;
And, my we're happy when we're told
We look at least, well, twice as old.

At thirty—now we stop and think:
That's quite a lot, it's thirty years;
And when you put it down in ink
How rather aged it appears!
Of course we're men and women now,
Yet not much older, anyhow,
And not quite sure we want to grow
Much older so much faster, though.

At fifty—well, we're glad to say
We feel like twenty—maybe not,
But—well, like thirty anyway;
This talk of getting old is rot,
But now the thing that makes us glad
Is for some friend we've always had
To scratch his head, or drop her book,
And say, "My, my, how young you look!"

Hardware Men End Meet at Iowa Park

Though attendance was relatively small, the two-day meeting of hardware and implement dealers of district 14, Texas Hardware and Implement association, which closed Wednesday at Iowa Park, was an entire success according to Dan Scoates, secretary-treasurer of the state association. Mr. Scoates spent several hours in Wichita Falls Wednesday night, en route to Dallas and his headquarters at College Station.

Following the formal program Tuesday, Wednesday's features tended more toward entertainment than formality. After the delegates had assembled Wednesday morning, District Chairman Walter R. Golden declared the session adjourned. An automobile tour of the Wichita Valley irrigation project, with a picnic luncheon served at the diversion dam, followed.

Formal vote was taken Tuesday to effect the permanent organization of the district, and it was decided to hold meetings annually. Walter R. Golden of Iowa Park was retained as chairman. Iowa Park extended an invitation to the dealers to hold their 1926 convention in that city, but no decision was announced.

While in Dallas Thursday, Mr. Scoates will attend to details of arrangement in connection with the annual convention of the Texas Hardware and Implement association, which will be held in that city next January. The secretary was accompanied to Wichita Falls by W. T. Owen, southwestern editor of Southern Hardware and Implement Journal, organ of the association. Mr. Owen will remain in this city and vicinity for several days.

KLUX WIZARD ASKS $150,000 IN LIBEL SUIT

M. M. Crane And Austin American Defendants In Action Filed at Dallas

STATEMENT ISSUED

Publishers of Austin Paper Points Out Editorial Position in Matter

DALLAS, Aug. 5.—Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the ku klux klan, has filed suit of $150,000 damages against M. M. Crane and the American Publishing company of Austin, Texas, publishers of the Austin American, the basis of the suit being certain remarks by Mr. Crane, published in the Austin American, delivered in course of a political address in September, 1924.

Mr. Evans in the petition, declares he takes exception to alleged published remarks in the course of the speech to the effect that "H. W. Evans split $150,000 of sucker's money" with William Joseph Simmons. He alleges further that Mr. Crane asked: "What would happen if those fellows got their hands in the state treasury?"

STATEMENT ISSUED FROM PUBLISHER.

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—Charles E. Marsh, editor and publisher of the Austin American, tonight made the following announcement concerning the $150,000 libel suit filed against the American Publishing company, and M. M. Crane, anti-ku klux klan leader.

"Intimation of the intention of Evans to file this suit indirectly reached the management of the American several weeks ago through Dallas sources. The position of the American was neither to court nor attempt to forestall the suit. The American printed the remarks of Gen. Crane in the normal course of business. These remarks were delivered at the state capitol before 15,000 people and constituted one of the important news items of the American's issue of September 3, 1924.

"The editorial position of the American in the entire campaign had been one of printing as fully as possible the speeches of all candidates and those of prominent supporters of candidates, especially when such speeches were delivered in Austin.

"The American had every reason to give prominence and a complete report of Gen. Crane's speech for the benefit of its readers, and particularly does the American believe that its report of Gen. Crane's speech was accurate and impartial, because the report as printed was written by a representative of the Associated Press, the world's most impartial and most careful news gathering agency.

"The American, believing that facts will show that the management acted with due care, without malice and with full impartiality, does not desire to withdraw in any way from the responsibility of having printed the item through the agency of the Associated Press, neither does it care to place the responsibility as far as the American is concerned, upon the speaker, Gen. Crane.

"The American merely feels that there is considerable more latitude by courts and because of the needs of a truly democratic form of government granted newspapers in the printing as fully as possible of the public speeches of political candidates and their responsible supporters. Any other course taken by the American would result in the production of a spineless and uninteresting newspaper and of a general political report highly unsatisfactory and uninforming to its readers."

Ma Let Peter Welk Die; Will Pleas Of Gib Calloway and Convict's Wife Save Clem Gray from Death Chair?

Zero Hour Rapidly Nears as Governor Gives no Indication of Commuting Sentence Of Condemned Man

AUSTIN, Aug. 5.—Fate of Clem Gray, sentenced to die in the electric chair at Huntsville Friday, remained in the balance late today, following conference between Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, former Governor James E. Ferguson, Mrs. Minnie Gray, wife of the condemned man, and Gibson Calloway, Dallas attorney.

No Action Today.

Former Governor Jim Ferguson said, "no action will be taken today in the Gray case."

Calloway said he believed Gray's sentence will be commuted.

Mrs. Minnie Gray was permitted to plead for the life of her husband, convicted of killing Otis Ballard at Mount Pleasant, September 24, 1923. She told of what she knew of the tragedy, and affirmed her belief in her husband's innocence.

Mr. Calloway presented a letter to former Governor Ferguson from R. T. Wilkerson, trial judge in the case, in which it was stated, Mr. Calloway said, that the judge would take no official action, but would be glad to see Gray's sentence commuted.

The pardon board made its report, but whether the report was adverse or favorable was not divulged.

No Indication.

Mrs. Gray was told that the governor would go over the pardon board's report, but no indication as to what action, if any, will be taken, was given.

In a desperate appeal today Clem Gray wired the governor asking her to commute his death sentence to life imprisonment.

Mr. Calloway said that during the trial Gray's hands were handcuffed. Mrs. Gray said that Gray's trial was "little more than a trial by a mob."

Henry Gray, 15, and George Clem Gray, 12, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gray were beside their mother, when she made her plea.

DAMAGE SUIT TO COME FROM FATAL CRASH

Sisson Relatives Planning Legal Action as Result Of Death

A suit asking heavy damages is to be filed in a few days as a result of the fatal auto crash on the Seymour road early unday morning in which J. E. Sisson was instantly killed and three other persons slightly injured.

This was learned on good authority Wednesday when relatives and friends of the Sisson family appeared at the court house to obtain some information relative to the case. They left with the avowed intention of taking the matter up with their attorney and instituting legal proceedings.

Although the amount to be prayed for is not known, of course, it is expected to run into high figures. Actual damages for the death of the man, injury to the other parties, destruction of the Sisson automobile, physicians' and hospital bills; and exemplary damages for alleged negligence on the part of the defendant will probably be asked, it is said.

POLICE GET JACK HILL AND TWO IN EARLY RAID

Hill And Two Glenns Made Liquor Charge Defendants Wednesday

FOURTH IS ARRESTED

Four Plainclothesmen Enter 813 Ninth Place And Make Seizures

Less than an hour after the Hill Auto Supply house at 813 Ninth street was opened Wednesday morning, a squad of city officers invaded it, placed Jack Hill, the operator, O. J. and L. J. Gleun and a fourth man under arrest; returned alter with a search warrant and found what they say was over six gallons of grain alcohol and corn whiskey. It was the second time in less than three weeks that the place had been raided and the owner arrested.

Closely Watched.

Officers have watched the room closely since the recent drive on whiskey sales was started. Four or five days ago it was closed and locked by the owner, but Wednesday morning the doors were opened again. Learning of this, police officials ordered an inspection and Plainclothesmen Bryan, Allen, Jenson and Johnson were detailed to the work.

Bryan and Allen went in at the front door, but before they appeared Jenson and Johnson had gained access to a window at the rear of the building and were given an unobstructed view of a small ante-room partitioned off from the main business compartment.

When Bryan and Allen walked in the front door they said aman slipped into the rear room and while Jenson and Johnson watched, pulled up a loose board in the floor and cached several jugs and bottles.

Prepared to Close.

The officers inquired of Hill what he was doing and he replied that he was preparing to close up his place for good and that the men with him were there to help take an inventory of the property.

He denied that any liquor was about the premises.

Despite this, he and the other three men were taken to the city hall while an officer remained on guard at the place. Another officer went to the court house, secured a search warrant from a justice of the peace and armed with this authority broke in the door of the rear room, pried up the floor and found what police say was the liquor and alcohol. There was approximately six gallons of grain alcohol and three pints of corn whiskey, police declare.

Hill and the two Glenns were transferred to state courts and charges of possession of intoxicants lodged against them. They were in jail for a time, but later were released when bonds of $1,000 each were perfected. The fourth man, who is said to have no direct connection with the place, was released from custody under a $100 cash bond posted by Hill at the police station. He will be tried on a vagrancy charge Thursday morning. Hill, when officers refused to accept a personal bond, produced $100 in currency from his pockets and left it for the man.

SHERIFF CALLS ON BARNES FOR A SHORT VISIT

No Special Matters on Law Enforcement Discussed, Is Said

"A very pleasant visit in which we merely discussed matters generally," was Rev. S. A. Barnes' characterization of a conference he held Wednesday evening with Sheriff Fred K. Smith.

The sheriff called on the pastor at the latter's study in the Floral Heights Methodist church prior to the regular mid-week prayer meeting and was closeted with him for some time.

General Discussion.

Asked if the sheriff called to discuss recent developments in the better law-enforcement campaign for which Dr. Barnes has been fighting, the minister asserted that "conditions here were discussed but Sheriff Smith did not come here for that specific purpose at all."

Dr. Barnes is leaving Thursday morning for a 10-day trip to Dallas and Waco. Dr. F. M. Richardson, presiding elder of this district of the Methodist church, will fill his pulpit Sunday morning and will also speak before the union church service at Bellevue park in the evening.

No Raids.

In seeking to verify reports earlier in the evening the Record News called Sheriff Smith to ask him about them. He replied in answr to questions that "no, we have made no raids today and have found no whiskey."

BOOTLEG PUDDLES DRY UP—HODGINS

Chief of Police George H. Hodgins does not believe whiskey operations are running as unchecked in Wichita Falls as some recent reports would indicate.

He said this much Wednesday in asserting that the bootleg puddles around town were almost completely dried up now.

"There's just one place now that I know is selling whiskey that we haven't been able to catch yet," he declared, and named a soft drink parlor that has been notorious ever since the palmy days of legalized firewater.

CERTAIN POLICE TELL 'LEGGERS SAYS SHEPHERD

Mayor Throws Bomb Into Law Enforcement Ranks Wednesday

AT THE LIONS CLUB

Barnes to Seek Conference With Federal Judge Atwell in Dallas

Open condemnation that carried a sting more pointed than any leveled thus far at lax law enforcement of prohibition laws in Wichita Falls was sounded Wednesday by Mayor R. E. Shepherd in a ringing indictment against bootleggers, whiskey dives and discreetly passive officers. Speaking before the Lions club he hurled a plain spoken rebuke at the constituted authority that has allowed such conditions to prevail—and of greatest significance was the fact that, in the main, he addressed himself frankly to the city police department.

Before he had been speaking five minutes the mayor unlimbered his first broadside. It concerned alleged notices sent ahead to a whiskey parlor that a raid was planned for that particular place.

Tells About Letter.

"Recently," the mayor asserted, "I received a letter from a citizen who did not sign his name, to the effect that he knew a certain place in this city—he gave the address—where notice was sent before hand that officers were going to raid the place. The letter said the sender knew the drayman who hauled away the liquor before the officers came. The raid was made all right, but, of course, nothing was found.

"The only fault with that letter," Mayor Shepherd continued, "is that the sender did not sign his name and that he did not give the name of the drayman. If I knew either I would personally see that the matter was tracked to the ground and that the officer who tipped off the place, be he city or county, was fired on the spot."

Continuing in the same vein, the mayor expressed an emphatic belief that there are officers in the city who take care to send information ahead to bootleg institutions that raids are to be made.

Thinks Tip Giver.

"I don't doubt but that tip was given," he said. "I don't doubt but that there are officers who are tipping off the places that raids are to be pulled. I have called the chief of police and the police commissioner into conference several times in regard to this. They have made inquiries; have worked hard trying to find out and have reported back to me—but nothing definite has ever been learned."

More broadsides were coming, and in them the mayor indorsed recent statements of Rev. S. A. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church who in recent sermons has roundly assailed liquor traffic in the city. Rev. Barnes, incidentally, also appeared before the Lions club and reiterated charges he made in a sermon at his church last Sunday morning.

"I believe," the mayor said, "there are several members of the city police force who are not particularly interested in law enforcement in this city—not so much, perhaps, as you men who are here today. I admit Rev. Barnes was correct when he charged that city patrolmen who walk the streets day after day should have seen some of these many bootlegging joints which, reports have it, have been running wide open.

No Desire to Report

"Some of these officers have no desire to report these places. Perhaps they know whiskey is being sold inside but for personal reasons have refrained from making reports, I don't know who these officers are, however. I have tried to find out and several times have succeeded. You can look over the payrolls of the city police department and you will see there have been several changes in the last few months. Some of these changes have been due to this very thing."

In this connection the mayor promised that every officer who could be proven to be lax in his duty would promptly feel the official ax.

Turning from the police force, Mayor Shepherd next assailed the lack of help and co-operation from well-meaning persons who have been able to give valuable information but who conceal their identity and decline to make specific enough charges to give officers a workable clue. "I have received many letters regarding conditions in Wichita Falls," the mayor avowed, but the writers have not the courage to sign their names and give me little to work on."

Experts Think Petroleum Supply Is Assured for 175 Years

REPORT MADE TO COOLIDGE BY ENGINEERS

Will be Made Public About August 10 in Entirety

IS OPTIMISTIC

Improved Production Methods Will Help Stop Shortage

TULSA, Aug. 5.—How long will the present petroleum resources of the United States last? This is a question that has been worrying the geologists for a decade, and the official report of the oil experts of the American Petroleum Institute who made a complete investigation of the oil situation for the oil board named by President Coolidge, delved into the future for 175 years.

Information comes that the forthcoming report will cover the next 175 years in as complete a manner at it is possible for a forecast to do. The report has been approved by the committee of 11 and will be presented to the president about Aug. 10. It will then be made public.

The gist of the report, compiled by hundreds of expert engineers, is that the public and the nation have less cause to fear an insufficient supply of oil than the oil industry has; that on the other hand there will be an over supply because of the improved methods of finding oil, of producing oil, of refining oil and for carboration of automobiles. Boiled down to its lowest possible meaning these few lines cover the entire report.

In assembling the information, to be used in making such a report, the American Petroleum Institute committee called upon hundreds of engineers, using over 200 of them in one branch of the industry alone. The result of their efforts provided over a carload of information assembled from all portions of the nation. The finding is that for at least 175 years there will be an oil supply.

Fearful that there might become a shortage of the oil supply, thus crippling the industrial life of the country and also endangering the nation in time of war, President Coolidge named a federal oil board, consisting of members of his cabinet and with Secretary Hoover as chairman. He called upon the oil men of the country in making an investigation and the American Petroleum Institute named this committee of 11 to carry on the investigation.

A. P. I. Shows 2,650 Barrel Under Increase

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 2,650 barrels for the week ended August 1, totaling 2,114,000 barrels, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute. The daily average production of Smackover, Ark., heavy oil field increased 1,050 barrels. The daily average production in the United States excluding Smackover heavy, increased 1,600 barrels. The daily average production east of California was 1,444,900 barrels, an increase of 650. California production was 669,500 barrels, an increase of 2,000.

Gulf coast crude was cut 25 cents a barrel and now is being quoted at $1.50 for grade A and $1.25 for grade B. No other changes were reported for the major districts. Pennsylvania crude, Bradford district, is quoted at $3.90 a barrel; all other grades being quoted at from $3.45 to $3.80. Mid-Continent crude oil is quoted at $1.40 to $2.68 a barrel according to gravity. California prices range from $1.25 to $2.40 a barrel according to gravity.

Sale Rumor Persists For Waite Phillips

The rumor that the Waite Phillips company is to be sold still persists.

This time it is Blair and company, eminent bankers and bond underwriters, is after the Waite Phillips company. The terms on which the negotiations are to be conducted are not available.

Mr. Phillips is in Tulsa, but appears to be trying to absent himself from newspaper reporters.

When officials of that company were appraised before that the Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company was after the Waite Phillips company a quick denial was made, and when the information was conveyed that the Independent Oil and Gas company was seeking to purchase it, but when Waite Phillips company officials were advised of the report that Blair and company was now after it, no comment was made.

Advertising as first employed in American newspapers was in the form of "readers" now employed chiefly as "classified" advertising. It was advertising that was a great success.

Old McNamara-Pace Area West of Anarene Will Get New Test

"I talked to the driller on that hole. He says it should have made a well," etc., etc., etc.

A familiar remark, that, around a popular Wichita Falls street corner. It is usually preceded by a glance at a pocket-worn map, and accompanied by nods of assent from those listening to the words of the wise, but is never followed by anything more material.

"A well ought to be drilled there," the sage will say, but he never drills it, and most of the time the hole stays in the "ought to" stage.

This time it is different, though. Some months ago McNamara and Pace drilled a hole on the William Justice land, W. H. Patton survey, abstract 325, just west of Anarene, south Archer county. The well had a good showing of sand below 1,000 feet. Casing was set to test, but in setting a packer—the sand had been entered with a big bit—the seat failed to hold and the hole was lost. Of it it was said that it should have been a well. Some of North Texas believed but most of North Texas doubted.

A derrick has been erected and a rig is moving on now, though for a new hole just 0 feet away from the old one. Smith and Trahan believe in what was found in the old hole and are going to see for themselves. But it is a new situation at that.

Report California Gas Market Drug

Stories that have been going around about the shipments of California gasoline into the Atlantic and other eastern states and thus retarding the movement of Mid-Continent gasoline to that area, cannot be corroborated. It is reported that California gasoline bringing 11 cents at the refinery is tanked through the Panama canal and to the Atlantic coast whalf for two cents a gallon freight. While it is true that many such shipments have taken place the story of such motor fuel keeping Mid-Continent gasoline off that market cannot be run down.

HUMBLE GETS DEEP WELL ON CASTLEBERRY

Southeast End of South Vernon Further Proven At 2,300

The Humble Oil and Refining company has further proven the southeast end of South Vernon for deep production in its new Castlebury well on the east line of the northeast forty of the southeast quarter of section 83 H&TC survey, block 14, flowing by heads from a sandy lime at a depth of 2,286-2-300 feet.

It is estimated roughly at 200 barrels a day. The Continental Oil company has a well producing from a sandy lime at 2,311 feet about a quarter of a mile to the north; Atlantic, offsetting the Humble Castlebury with its Zipperle lease to the east has a number of 1,300-foot wells, and is testing a sandy lime at 2,360 feet in its No. 5, southeast of the new Humble well.

Oil Gossip

Humphreys Oil corporation has lately purchased something like 600 acres, a la checkerboard, in southwestern Throckmorton county, in the general area of the new Schimmel well. It is the first real buying of the colonel in north Texas. The new corporation was organized with the north Montague holdings numbered among its assets.

The corporation is contemplating a test in northern Reagan county very soon. Outside of some drilling in Jack county, in the west, and the north Montague county activity, the company has shown little inclination for the usual Humphreys wildcatting campaign since its inception last spring.

Gulf Production company is understood to have acquired a sizeable block of acreage in Crane county, near the town of Stillwell. Crane is the second county west of Reagan county, and has the Pecos river for one of its boundaries.

W. D. Davis, vice president and general manager of the Orient Petroleum company of this city, is negotiating for the purchase of a string of bulk and service stations in northern Illinois for his company. It recently established a distributing plant at Elgin, Ill.

In Michigan, a proposal has been made to abolish the yearly auto license plates and inaugurate a three-cent gasoline tax to bear the expenses of building and maintaining state highways. A two-cent tax and weight tax are now imposed there.

Midwest Exploration company, a subsidiary of the Midwest Refining company, has established offices at Abilene, Texas, with J. E. Redfern as manager. State offices, however, are maintained at Amarillo. The Midwest has 23 wildcat wells now drilling in Texas.

A pamphlet entitled, "World Trade in Gasoline," may be obtained for 15 cents, by writing the superintendent of documents, Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

The department of commerce is printing through its new minerals division, "Petroleum Foreign Trade Notes." It appears every two weeks.

The American Oil Men's association will hold its fall convention on October 20, 21 and 22 at Chicago.

Of the 159,443 tank cars in service for the oil industry, 31,553 are owned by the Union Tank Line company, a Standard subsidiary, and 9,179 by the General American Tank Car corporation, and 5,378 by the Texas company.

Some Mid-Continent refiners are looking into the report that certain railroad employes have been careless in billing shipments of gasoline as kerosene. One oil jobber advises his trade association that during 1924 he received six cars of gasoline billed as kerosene. A car of gasoline billed as kerosene, and carelessly handled, might result in a terrible accident.

Bert Benear has been named chief scout of the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, with headquarters at Tulsa.

2,503 Wells Are In In Month of July

There were 2,503 wells completed in July in the oil fields of the United States, so The Oil and Gas Journal will say today, 177 more than were drilled in during June.

However, the July completions only had an initial output of 362,203 barrels, compared with 2,125,512 barrels, a decline of 1,663,309 barrels. Of the total there wer 620 dry holes and 204 gassers, a gain of 70 and 15, respectively for the same character of wells in June.

In field activity there were 4,352 wells drilling, a gain of 117; 4,116 rigs standing, a gain of 21, or a total of 5,468 operations, a gain of 138 over June.

Humble-Sinclair Meet Coastal Cut

Humble Oil and Refining company and Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company have met the 25-cent reduction posted Monday by the Gulf Production company for Gulf coast crude oils. Word from New York said that the cut took the financial market by surprise. For the week ending August 1 the Gulf coast fields produced 148,910 barrels a day, a loss of 6-100 barrels over the previous week.

it necessary to keep a small amount of liquor in his home for his personal use came in for a less lengthy though equally severe arraignment. In that vein the mayor said:

"There is no doubt that whiskey has a prominent place in Wichita Falls. Some time ago Dr. Grafton (N. F. Grafton, First Presbyterian church) made the statement to me 'it will be a hard job to clean up Wichita Falls as long as prominent citizens in this city can reach into a side drawer and pull out a drink for their friends.'"

About Sisson Death

Liquor alone was blamed by the mayor for the tragic auto crash on the Seymour road last Sunday morning in which a man was instantly killed.

"I am of the conviction that the accident on the Seymour road Sunday was directly caused by booze, and that the booze was obtained from a certain roadhouse nearby. I am certain that if that roadhouse had been closed Mr. Sisson would still be alive. I have no hesitency in saying this."

Prior to this statement Mayor Shepherd said he was quite sure there were a large number of roadhouses running wide open on roads leading into and out of the city.

A conference with William H. Atwell of Dallas, judge of the United State court for the northern district of Texas, is to be sought in a day or two by Rev. Barnes, the latter explained when he spoke ahead of the mayor. Rev. Barnes said he was to leave for Dallas Thursday morning and hoped to gain a hearing with Judge Atwell and lay before him a report on some of the things he had heard here.

Rev. Barnes' address was really more lengthy that than of Mayor Shepherd, and in it he repeated substantially the same charges included in his Sunday morning law enforcement sermon. He condemned the policy of "advertising through the newspapers" that official raids were to be made on bootleggers; rapped the policy of paying as much attention to vagrants and loafers while the whiskey fountains were ignored.

Barnes Praises Officers

In the end, however, Rev. Barnes warmly commended those officers who are really doing their duty. He said he knew there were many such here, that they were striving earnestly and sincerely to drive out the whiskey traffic and that they had his full and unqualified support.

J. B. Hatchitt and J. S. Dickey, prominent attorneys here, thanked the speakers for their remarks, characterized them as "timely talks" and pledged their support to the officers.

SUSPECT HELD IN ACCIDENT IS RELEASED

Proves Innocence of Any Connection With Injury To Officer

Charges lodged against a man arrested Monday morning in connection with the Sunday night crash in which Motorcycle Officer E. E. James suffered the loss of his right foot were dismissed Wednesday by Chief of Police Hodgins.

No formal complaint was ever lodged against the man, although he was placed under a $200 bond to assure his appearance at any time the officers wanted him. He established undisputed proof of his whereabouts at the time James hit an automobile at Eighth and Holliday, and convinced officers that he was not the man responsible for the accident.

Not Right One.

The offender, whoever he was, drove away without stopping to see what damage had been done and without offering aid to the injured policeman. Passersby obtained a number they thought was on his license plate and this subsequently led to the man's arrest. It appears, however, that the number was incorrect.

James is reported recovering rapidly from the effects of the accident. His right foot was amputated just above the ankle when it was found to be too badly shattered and broken to be saved.

THE TRIMMINGS SURELY DO.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 5.—A fine in a justice court is like a woman's dress. It is the trimmings that cost.

Lawrence Pearson learned that fact after a jury in the court of a justice of the peace had fixed his fine at five cents. Pearson laughed. When the costs were figured they totaled $26.60. Pearson lost his grin.

Mission Starting Today

JACK MULHALL & ALMA RUBENS IN "SHE WOLVES" A WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL

MISSION CHANGES TODAY

"She Wolves" Offers Excellent Acting and a Good Story

It has been said that it takes nine tailors to make a man.

At that rate it takes ninety and nine modistes to make a woman.

Alma Rubens, who plays the leading feminine role in the William Fox production, "She Wolves," which will show at the Mission theater today, is the acme of perfection in her gowning. Both on and off the screen the lovely Miss Rubens understands the art of making herself appear to the best advantage.

For her costumes in "She Wolves" she spent many hours with designers to perfect the numerous beautiful costumes she wears in the role of Germaine D'Artois. Over her evening gown of cream-colored georgette, with a tunic waist of net exquisitely embroidered in brilliant sequins, she wears an ermine evening cape edged with white fox.

One of the gems of her collection is a black Nagasaki crepe suit. Sport clothes and charming country frocks are included in Miss Rubens' almost endless wardrobe.

Betty Compson At Palace in "The Ramshackle House," Today Only

Beautiful and competent, as always, Betty Compson achieved another triumph as the charming occupant of "Ramshackle House," which opened at the Palace theater last night. This picture which is the screen version of Hulbert Footner's popular novel is a gripping murder mystery of a "different" sort.

Pen Broome thought herself buried on the neglected Broome estate in Florida, and indeed she was until Don Counsell arrived bringing love and adventure. Pen accepted the latter with a daring that equaled the fevor of the former.

There is an abundance of thrills in this picture. Among them is a rescue from a giant alligator in the treacherous Everglades. This was done by a real Seminole Indian, said to be the first one who has ever appeared before a motion picture camera.

K. C. HEAD IS RE-ELECTED

J. A. Flaherty of Philadelphia Is to Serve Ninth Two-Year Term.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 5.—(AP).—James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, was re-elected to his ninth two-year term at the forty-third annual supreme convention here today, defeating Edward Haggerty, Greenwich, Conn., newspaper publisher, 358 to 51.

The Adventures Of Ronald in N. York

Ronald Bentley is a modern youth—one for whom the night holds no terrors except that of having to go home before daylight. He lives in a small town, has a wealthy father and is possessed with an unconquerable desire to display his deviltry at every turn.

John Bentley, his father, has entirely different ideas and wishes to cure his son of his wildness. In such a case, what would seem more natural than to send the boy to New York with the object of letting him get himself into a few real scrapes which would make him content with family life in the old home town.

This he does and here we disclose through letters from Rodney to "the governor," his escapades and his "Night Life of New York."

LETTER NO. 5.

Dear Gov.:

It's a great life if you don't weaken but believe me, your young hopeful is beginning to bend just a little. I don't know whether its the influence of Meg, or myself just tiring of seeing painted faces, rouged cheeks, red lips and marcelle waves, but never-the-less old Clay will look mighty good to me when I check out of this place. Got into an awful jam last night and I'm writing this letter under greater difficulties than I ever dreamed of before. I am afraid to tell you what it is but I guess you'll see it on the front pages of all the newspapers in a day or so. I hesitate to ask you to help me or come up for I know that it has all been my fault and I guess I'll have to do my best to get out of it by myself. It would take a volumn to relate the mix-up and it all seems as a night mare to me and a terrible one at that. So the best I can do is to tell you to go to a local theatre Saturday and you will see all of my adventures protrayed in "Night Life of New York."

Yours fora greater movie season.

RONALD.

WORK ON J. H. BUILDING

Good Work Made on Structure In West End.

Good headway is being made on the new Junior high school building being erected by the school board on Garfield street between Avenue J and K. The foundation work is about completed and additional construction is to be started at once.

No building permit has as yet been issued, but the plans are understood to be approved and will be formally submitted with the arrival in a few days of an engineer from Fort Worth.

The school is to represent a total investment of about $125,000, it is said.

Jimmie Allred Tells of Humor In General As He Had Found It Before Bar

Anecdotes tinged with humor that had come under his observation during his practice before the bar here and especially while he held the office of district attorney were related Wednesday noon to the Optimist club by James V. Allred, former attorney of the 30th judicial district.

Informal Address.

The address was an informal one, but he had an element of drama and fun that gave the Optimists one of the most enjoyable half-hours they have had in some time.

Negroes and their awe of the law were the principal subjects dealt with by the speaker. He gave some amusing accounts of divorce matters involving colored folk and admitted that an old negro once bestowed on him the dubious honor of being "the best colored lawer in town."

"Truth powders and truth serum" administered to a highly imaginative black with comical results during an intense grand jury investigation of a noted murder case were outlined by Mr. Allred, who also reviewed in some detail other steps that were taken by the authorities in their serching quizz into the truth of the slaying.

McCutcheon Presided.

No report was made on the boys' home being sponsored by the Optimist club and which about ready for occupancy. Most of the members of the committee are out of the city on vacation and the work will be pushed with renewed vigor when they return.

Mac McCutcheon presided in the absence of Berk King, president, who is out of town.

NEW SCHOOL ADDITION

Work has been started on a new $10,000 addition to the Booker T. Washington (colored) school in the negro district. It will be two stories in height, 24 by 69 feet and will provide additional roof for the negro classes.

Added space at the school has been badly felt for the last year or two and the school board has undertaken steps to provide it.

BRITAIN'S RUBBER CONTROL CRUMBLING.

Great Britain's rubber control seems upon the point of crumbling. After a steep rise, prices broke in New York from two to six cents. There immediately followed a sharper decline in London of three and a half pence, or seven cents in American money. Speculation was given as the cause. But it seems certain that overbuying in the United States actually produced the drop in the market. That it was somewhat worse in England was due to the fact that any check experienced here would naturally be felt with increased force across the Atlantic.

To prevent just what appears to be happening, the British adopted the policy of taking only advanced orders at regular prices. They discouraged contracts calling for immediate delivery. A penalty in the form of an excess charge was assessed against those American buyers who insisted on receiving their rubber as soon as possible. But all such precautions were unavailing in the face of a steady rise in price. It was imperative for purchasers on this side to protect themselves by accumulating stocks on immediate delivery before rubber should go higher.

The determined attitude of American buyers dominated the market to such an extent that the English rubber merchants began to sell almost wholly on premium prices. This gave prices an additional boost and led to the speculation noted in London which, however, was an effect rather than a cause. British sellers have not been able to resist the temptation presented by rush orders at extra prices. They have entered into speculation and thus made certain the breaking of their country's "corner" on rubber.

WAGE WORKERS BUYING STOCK

And now the manager of the Armour Packing company says the industry is backed on a thoroughly sound and prosperous basis, that 20,000 employes of the firm have finished payments on stock subscribed for in 1923, that Europe undoubtedly is coming back and Europeans are again working in earnest and have the money for the buying of essentials.

Furthermore, the South American plants of the American packers are furnishing Europe with its beef. They are doing a large business and the future is most encouraging. American packers control the meat industry of Argentine. Are they protected by Argentine tariff laws?

They are protected by American tariff laws—that is, foreign competitors are not permitted to land their products in this country duty free. Jumping from beef to oil our lawmakers continue to keep Mexican crude on the free list. One American company and one European company control the petroleum industry of Mexico. Just why a free list?

BIG GARMENT FACTORY FOR TEXAS

Every stream in New England is harnessed, every lake furnishes power for a factory and every village has its little army of wageearners. New Englanders are worth more per capita than the people of any other section and the savings bank depositors in New England constitute a grand army.

Manufacturing pays.

Manufacturing consumes the raw materials of the country and ever the manufacturing states are the wealthy states. Dallas has captured a large garment factory and more than 400 persons will be on the payroll at the start off. A large plant will be placed and some day in the future the proprietors of the concern hope to give employment to two or three thousand persons.

TEXAS LEADS ALL STATES

Texas leads all the states in export figures. New York comes second, Pennsylvania comes third. This is the way the figures point: Texas, $249,830,912. New York, $203,497,245. Pennsylvania, $81,278,304. And get this, Louisiana wins fourth place in the export figures as follows, $69,755,682.

Cotton manufactures and refind petroleum were close for the lead in value of shipments. Texas and Louisiana are cotton and petroleum producing states.

Texas heads the list of American states in exports. Louisiana comes fourth. New York and Pennsylvania are sandwiched in between. Yes, the south is slowly coming into her own.

THIS HAPPENED IN GEORGIA

Georgia legislators voted down overwhelmingly a bill designed to prohibit the teaching of evolution in the common schools of the state. Its author said, "I don't want any smart Alec trying to teach my child that man descended from a tadpole or a monkey." A colleague who was opposed to the bill termed it a silly measure, saying, "Write it in if you want it, but you will be making yourself ridiculous if you do." This closed the discussion. Georgia lawmakers refused to follow in the beaten path marked out by the lawmakers of Tennessee. If Tom Watson had been on earth, what would he have said and how would he have voted?

COOLIDGE IS CONFIDENT

President Coolidge has received assurances that the senate, early in December, will adopt the protocol, making the United States a member of the permanent court of international justice. Senator W. A. Borah of Idaho said to be the ablest member of the senate, is of the opinion that the world court will be rejected. An American senate refused to ratify the League of Nations treaty, but Henry Cabot Lodge is dead. There is a republican in his place in the senate who has the ear of the president and does the bidding of the president. Times have changed.

WHY AMERICANS WORRY

A magazine writer says that Americans spent over '60 million dollars last year for patent medicines and yet health resorts, hospitals, jails and asylumns are overcrowded. He says American farmers spent $800,000,000 last year for intersectides to check the ravages of crop destroyers and yet a loss of one billion dollars worth of farm products was recorded by these pests. Well, what is he going to do about it?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Debts.

As long as man lives he does not get out of debt. Nor ought he to want too.

Responsibility is debt.

And life without responsibility is like a ship with no ballast.

We hear people say that they owe nothing to the Creator for bringing them into life—that they did not ask to be born, and that there is no reason that they should exert themselves especially to remain on this planet.

But all people would gladly give everything they have to get over what seems to be a fatal illness.

All of them cling to life tenaciously, for all of them love life.

If life then is such a precious possession, men are fortunate that they have it.

And they owe something to Him who gave it—a definite debt, which they may never be able to repay fully, but which they can pay partially on the installment plan, by doing something while they are here to make life better, and to help the old world along on its way.

Such help has been given in great amounts by those who have gone before.

All of the big men of history, save the fighting conquerors, and even some of them, have partly paid off their debt while living.

Shakespeare far more than paid his, so did every other great writer from the Greeks down to the present day.

Galileo's account with life was pretty well squared when he died, as was that of Leonardo di Vinci and Michelangelo.

At the present day are many living men who are paying off their debt by contributing to the thought and progress and comfort of their contemporaries.

It may be a material age, but material progress is highly important, and we owe much to those who have given us rapid transportation, and telephones and radios—above all abundance of books and newspapers, easily read and cheap in price.

But what of the rank and file, the great majority of unthinking heedless people, whose only object is to keep themselves in comfort during their lifetime, and perhaps leave a little money to their immediate families?

How many of them are real producers?

How many of them actually think about others, and try to do something for them?

How many ever rise beyond utter selfishness?

Comparatively few.

Most human occupations are such that those who follow them could drop out and never noticeably modify the amount of work turned out by their associates.

Yet even such people have an opportunity of making the world a little better, if not by their work by their cheerfulness and sympatiy and helpfulness.

They owe that to the world that they think owes them a living.

It is not difficult to bestow. And it is worth the while of any person to feel that when he goes wherever he may be going he will have reduced his debt a little, even if he can have no hope to pay it in full.

And in the effort to pay he will increase his own responsibility and usefulness, and that, as well as reducing the debt, is well worth doing.

A FORERUNNER OF TRADE REVIVAL.

On the twenty-eighth of July the New York stock exchange had one of its biggest days. A wave of enthusiastic trading carried 50 of leading stock issues to peak prices. Two million shares changed hands in the day's transactions—something which has not taken place since May 21. Such a volume of trading is unusual in the midst of the dull summer season. It is explained by the fact that traders were looking ahead to fall business. Railroad issues were confidently expected to go upon a long rise in anticipation of increased railred earnings and special dividend distributions this fall. Steel shares were believed likely to respond to the quarterly report of the United States Steel corporation and to the expectation of increased pig iron prices.

Thus for a day at least the stock market recovered the position it holds in active seasons as a barometer of business. That its indications are dependable is not merely probable, because of the practical certainty of active trade in the fall, but certain on account of the showing already made by the more important railroads and by the steel industry. A Wall street brief is eloquent of the improved position of these roads. "Net operating income of 46 class one railroads for June aggregated $68,243,000, an increase of 34.5 per cent over the $50,728,000 for June last year. The same number of carriers had net of $56,373,000 in May, which was 21 per cent less than June. Gross revenues were $384,084,000 against $354,267,000 a year ago, a gain of 8.40 per cent."

These roads not only show improvement over the preceding quarter of this year, but also register marked gains over the corresponding period in 1924. This is an encouraging record. When we turn to the steel industry we fail to note the same degree of improvement, but the showing made is satisfactory. Total earnings for the second quarter of 1925 gain over those of the first quarter in a greater proportion than they fall below those of the corresponding period of 1924. The figures are somewhat difficult of comparison, but their general relationship can be perceived easily. They are $40,624,221 for the second quarter; $30,852,992 for the first quarter, and $41,381,039 for the corresponding period of 1924.

Steel products being basic in industry are more affected than rail earnings by a temporary lull in business. Having scored advances, even under discouraging conditions they will doubtless go well ahead of other items in the business register when the time of their normal increase arrives.

A GIDDY OLD SCOUT.

Joseph Christi of Newark, N. J., has celebrated his hundredth birthday. Thirty-five years ago his physicians ordered him to quit smoking. He laughed at the docs. They said if he continued to smoke 20 cigars a day the excessive use of tobacco would result in an early death.

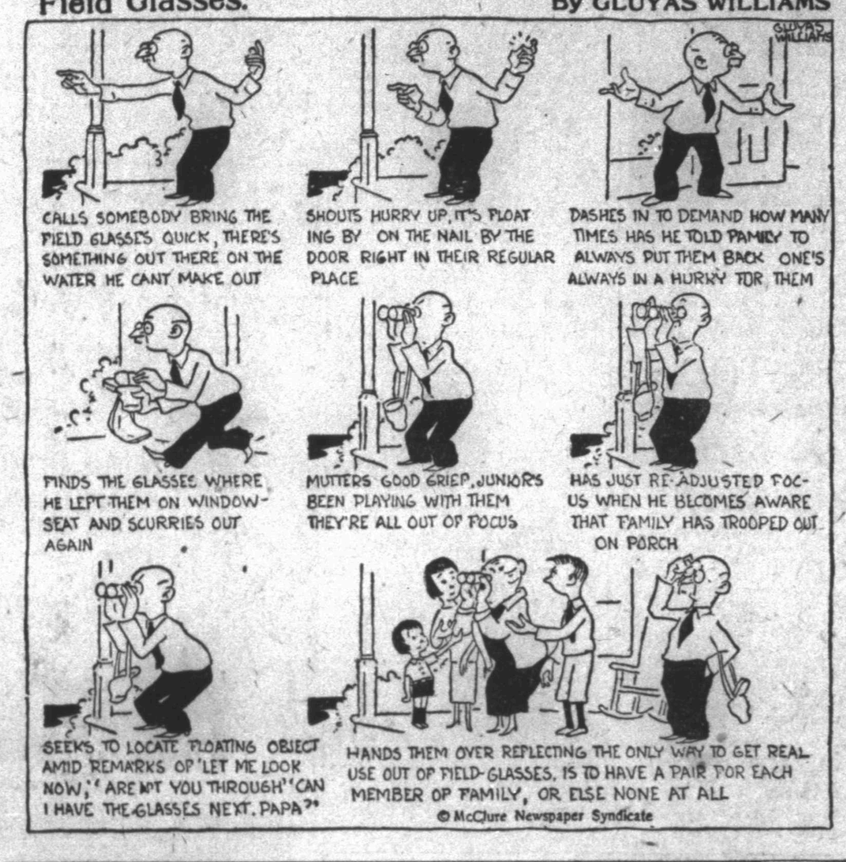

He was 65 at the time of the warning. He continues to smoke, he still drinks wine and beer but eats meat at the most twice a week.

He is a radio fan. He is opposed to the eighteenth amendment. He wouldn't vote for the return of the saloon. Now if he had hearkened to the advice of his physicians and let tobacco and beer alone he might have reached a ripe old age.

As for evolution, he doesn't bother his mind. He says no one asked his consent to come here and no one will ask his consent to leave here. This being so, why should he worry?

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Leo.

Today's planetary aspects indicate an active and probably eventful day. Initiative will be strong and the mind alert and sagacious, with a stimulus to something new and original. Provided that the "new and original" does not savor of risk or speculation, the urge to seek fresh fields and pastures new can be safely followed, and success is more than probable. Although ability, preseverance, and courage may "put it over," it will be found advisable to count also, on proper and adequate financial support or assistance. In the "kingdom of Home," the signs clearly denote unalloyed happiness and content.

A girl born today will have an exceptionally healthy maidenhood, and will, with proper nutrition, develop into a high physical type of womanhood. A boy, on the other hand, will not reach manhood without having suffered much, in early infancy and youth, from a variety of ailments. Both boy and girl will have attractive dispositions, and always be willing to do more for others, both financially and morally, than they should be expected to do. They will possess a keen and an original mentality, and will prove to be energetic, resourceful, enterprising, and well-liked. They will, however, be thriftless, unless this tendency is curbed in early youth.

If today is your birthday, you are emotional and erratic, and at times, tempestuous. Your impulses carry you away, and you very successfully still the voice of both judgment and reason. You are easily swayed by others and their specious arguments, and, although quite capable of leadership yourself, are always willing to follow any leader, whom you deem capable and intelligent. In determining this point, you are more influenced by your emotions, than by common sense.

You are ambitious, not so much for financial reward, as for social and intellectual betterment. You read with avidity, converse fluently, and take a great deal of interest in social and club life.

If you are mated with one who is positive and self-asserting, you are probably, must happier than if allied with one who is as "wobbly" as yourself.

Successful people born on this date are:

Solomon Van Rensselaer, soldier.
James Brewster, manufacturer.
John H. Wheeler, historian.
Samuel P. Carter, naval officer and soldier.
George T. Maxwell, physician.
Tarkington Baker, editor and author.

Shops in Maryland Prison Catch Fire

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 5.—(AP)—All downtown fire-fighting apparatus and a heavy police guard were rushed to the Maryland penitentiary here at noon today to fight a three-alarm fire which attacked the prison shops between the penitentiary and city jail.

The fire started in the furniture factory in the rear of the prisoner's dormitory next to the city jail.

From within the walls came the word that there was no disorder among the prisoners and that guards were ready to halt by gunfire any attempt by prisoners to take advantage of the emergency.

MAY BLOCK CHINESE PORTS

British Threaten Steps in Retaliation of Outrages.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP).—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Hong Kong says that a British blockade of Chinese ports is foreshadowed in Hong Kong official circles if the anti-British outrages and boycott continue.

Fresh Case of Hoof Disease at Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 5.—A fresh case of foot and mouth disease was discovered near here today.

The new infection was found in a herd of cattle six miles from the point where about 100 cattle were killed about a week ago after one cow in the herd of Rev. William States Jacobs, Houston minister, had been found to be infected.

According to Dr. Marion Imes of the federal bureau of animal industry, who is in charge of the disease eradication, approximately 4,000 cattle are pastured on the ranges contiguous to the place where the fresh infection has appeared. His scouts had not yet reported the number of cows in the herd which would be immediately affected.

HOW IT STARTED

"He Doth Protest Too Much"

Frequently, in modern speech, we hear, when someone is particularly loud in protestations of affection, overeare to be known as faithful or lowal to or devoted to a certain person, it is said that "he doth protest too much." The words signify suspicion as to the person's sincerity.

The old-time flavor has been retained in the modern use of the words for whose origin we must bark back to that prolific progenitor of pithy sayings, we find the first recorded use of this saying. Hamlet's actors have depicted the queen as protesting to her husband William Shakespeare.

It is in the third act of "Hamlet" that (Hamlet's dead father) that if he dere to pass away she would never marry again. Indeed, she calls upon herself curses. "If, once a widow, ever I be wife!" Hamlet, after the performance, turns to his mother, who has witnessed this impersonation of herself, and asks how she liked the play. The queen, who has the guilty knowledge of having married again, immediately after her husband's death, replied: "The lady doth protest too much, methinks!"

Chicago Dope Den Is Raided; Fortune In Narcotics Found

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A fortune in narcotics, found in a flat which had all the fixtures of an Oriental drug den, was seized by federal agents last night.

They arrested Kitty Gilhooley, who with her husband, Willie, they charged with carrying on a wholesale traffic that would handle nothing less than $500 sales. The value of the drugs confiscated was variously estimated at between $144,000 and $250,000 with an additional $10,000 worth of pipes and various weighing and measuring requisites.

Pat Roche, ace of the special intelligence unit of the internal revenue department, who led the raid, said the woman had been the biggest importer of drugs in the middlewest and could supply any amount on short notice.

Four men were arrested as peddlers and Roche said search would be made for 20 more connected with the organization.

WRITER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

John Temple Graves Has Little Chance to Recover.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP).—John Temple Graves, widely known southern writer, was in extreme critical condition at his home here today an dmembers of his family virtually had abandoned hope for his recovery.

IRRIGATION

The Road to Lake Kemp.

A few years before the beginning of the dam at Lake Kemp, Baylor and Wilbarger counties decided they needed a better road between Vernon and Seymour. This road crossed what is now Lake Kemp at a point several miles above the dam. Despite the fact that it was well known that the dam would eventually be built, a bridge was constructed across the river and the highway otherwise improved.

Of course this bridge and road were built before the dam and as it was a case of first in time first in right the Irrigation district had to provide another road to take the place of the one they destroyed.

This road runs from Maybelle across the top of the big dam and on to Vernon. For most of the distance between Maybelle and the dam it passes over Mr. Waggoner's land. So a provision had to be inserted in the contract covering the land taken up by the road. It reads as follows:

"(c) Upon the ascertainment of the area of the land belonging to the party of the first part (Mr. Waggoner) which will be appropriated by the party of the second part for the sixty foot road way above referred to, party of the second part shall pay to the party of the first part at Fort Worth, Texas, fifteen dollars per acre for the land so appropriated for said road."

A road sixty feet wide figures out at the rate of about seven acres to the mile. So if the road is seven miles long the district had to pay Mr. Waggoner for about fifty acres.

Of course the road was used for hauling materials in during the construction of the dam, but a strip fifty feet wide was far more than would have been needed for this purpose.

Commons Discusses Debts to England

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The question of the allied debts to Great Britain was discussed briefly in the house of commons today when Walter Edward Guinness, financial secretary of the treasury, in replying to a question, said that he presumed the debt negotiations with France which had been interrupted by the return of the French experts to Paris would be resumed in due course.

When a member asked if the negotiations had ended as reported in "an acrimonious breaking off," Mr. Guinness replied emphatically "nothing of the kind."

Steck Goes Behind In Tuesday's Count

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP).—Recount by a senate committee of uncontested paper ballots in 33 counties of the 78 in Iowa's senatorial election last year completed today gave Daniel F. Steck, democrat, 126,397, and Senator Smith W. Brookhart, republican, 130,711.

In the same counties there had been challenged 544 Steck ballots and 2,077 Brookhart ballots.

In the recount today teck made a Sgain of 65, offsetting Brookhart's gains late yesterday.

CRUDE RUBBER DOWN

Another Sharp Tumble Is Recorded at New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP).—Crude rubber prices took another sharp tumble today following a similar break in London where further liquidation was reported. Smoked ribbed sheets, spot, were quoted at 81 cents a drop of 7 1-2 cents since last night's close. Forward prices also slumped October and December ribbed being offered at 70 3-4 cents against 75 1-2 cents yesterday.

If the constant discord between them should end eventually in the open rupture she always feared!

There was only one law in the Sheik's camp, his own. He demanded implicit obedience and enforced his demands with the despotism in which he had been reared. Was the son she loved so dearly to go through the same crushing experience she had herself suffered so many years ago?

She forced the thought from her even as it rose, dismayed by what seemed to her a disloyalty.

The Sheik was right, though his methods were severe. There could be only one head in such a community as theirs. And the boy would have to learn, as others had learned.

But oh, dear God, if she could only spare him the pain of that learning!

And even now she knew that should the Sheik return today there would be cause for further trouble between them—for the younger Ahmed was also absent from the camp, and that in the face of his father's stringent orders.

Her eyes darkened with fresh anxiety; then, despite herself, she laughed as she remembered his impetuous entrance into her bedroom early one morning, his gay insistence that a few days' leave of absence was absolutely indispensable to his peace of mind, and his laughing disregard of her remonstrances when he had ridden away with the two sons of Yusef who had been his personal body-guard since childhood.

And that was six weeks ago.

Used to his comings and goings she reasoned with herself, trying to make light of this last escapade that was only one amongst many. If he had but waited until Ahmed's return!

Ahmed! the lover-husband whose devotion had made possible the solitary life that was hers! She whispered his name with yearning tenderness as she strove to quell the fears that had become almost unbearable.

To distract her thoughts she turned to the other portrait—the portrait of the unknown elder son whom she had not seen since he was a child five years old, and whose approaching visit filled her with mingled joy and apprehension. What would his coming bring her? Would he ever love her as the boy loved her? Would he ever know that the separation that had caused her so many bitter tears had not been of her making, ever realize what that renunciation had cost her?

She had had to let him go.

And her heart still ached at the remembrance of her parting with the tiny, solemn-eyed scrap of humanity who had been sent to England as a kind of tardy concession wrung from the Sheik by the heart-broken appeals of the father he had never forgiven. Determined to remain in the land and amongst the people where he had been born, he had sent his elder son to be educated and trained for the position he himself would never assume. To be Earl of Glencaryll meant nothing to him—to be the chief of the tribe of ben Hassan meant everything. And to the lonely old man in England the child had come as an almost divine gift, the direct answer to fervent prayer, the fulfillment of a hope that had seemed well-nigh unattainable. He had lavished on him all the pent-up affection of years, and the boy had grown to manhood knowing only and caring only for the grandfather whose love he had repaid with single-hearted devotion.

It was Diana's own face that she was looking at, it was her own eyes that were staring back at her from the portrait she was holding. It was a very different picture to the other. This was a wholly conventional studio study of a short, fair, serious-faced young man whose air of almost premature gravity seemed ill in accordance with his youth.

Long and earnestly she gazed at the likeness.

What had time and circumstance made of him? What would his coming mean to him and to the parents he had forgotten?

She had only his few letters to go by, those stiff, meager little communications that, obviously inspired, had been merely a bare recital of facts, that had told her nothing of himself, nothing of what her mother heart was yearning to know. If she could only have seen him sometimes! If Ahmed could only have spared her for long enough to make the visits on which she had counted so confidently!

But the tentative suggestions she had thrown out had met with a flat refusal she had found impossible to risk again.

And now at last he was coming, and coming only because business compelled.

Her lips twisted painfully as she recalled the wording of his last letter, colder and more formal even than the others had been, in which he had expressed no pleasure in the forthcoming reunion with his family, but had given simply a dry statement of affairs, not the letter of a son to a parent, but the restrained, unemotional report of an agent to an absent employer. For the old Earl of Glencaryll had been dead for nearly a year. And rigid in his determination to abstain from any benefit that might accrue to him by his father's death, Ahmed ben Hassan had passed over to his son, fully and unconditionally, the vast estates he was not interested in and the big fortune which, even if he had not been rich himself, he would never have touched.

But certain formalities, certain points of discussion had arisen that had made a personal interview between father and son necessary. Months of corespondence, pedantically insistent on the one hand and casually abrupt on the other, had ended in a meeting being arranged. Diana's heart beat quicker as she thought of that meeting, so soon to take place.

It was only from Raoul that she had learned anything at all of the son who was a stranger to her. The sole link still, as he had been in the past, between the divided family, his occasional visits had meant more to her than just the advent of a trusted and beloved friend. She had never guessed the love he had kept hidden in his heart for twenty years, had never suspected the pain those visits occasioned. His coming had always meant news of Caryll, news of the stately house in England where he was a frequent and welcome guest. Through his eyes she had seen her son grow from childhood to boyhood, from boyhood to adolescence. And yet how little, after all, he had been able to tell. The passionate devotion and lavish generosity of a sorrowful old man towards a much loved and jealously guarded heir; the almost womanly tenderness of the boy in all things that concerned his grandfather—that much she had gleaned, and other little details of his daily life. She knew him to be serious beyond his years, immersed in the management of the estates that would be his, a shy, reserved young man who had always remained somewhat of an enigma even to the Frenchman who had known him all his life.

So of the real Caryll she knew nothing. She had had to feed on the dry husks of bare facts while she had starved for the deeper, more intimate knowledge that had been withheld from her.

And when he came, what would his attitude be?

Much as she longed for it, there were moments when she dreaded his coming. Reading between the lines of his last letter, she had sensed the reluctance with which he viewed the forthcoming visit, had become painfully aware of an impression of hardly concealed hostility.

She shrank from the thought. But bitter though it might be, it was, perhaps, natural. He could scarcely be expected to entertain any feeling of affection towards the parents who had apparently neglected him. Nor could he be expected to know the causes that had led to this seeming neglect.

There was so much he did not know. It was impossible to imagine that the proud old Earl could ever have confessed to his grandson the shameful story of his own short married life, could ever have told him of the tragical happening that had lost him wife and son and left him to face long years of sorrow, remorse and loneliness. It seemed equally impossible to blacken the memory of the dead by revealing now to Caryll the true reason of the estrangement between the Sheik and his father.

Caryll must be left to think what he would, to blame the one who was least blameworthy.

There was only one other who knew the real history of the Glencaryll family, and Diana guessed that the inmate chivalry that was so much a part of him would keep Raoul de Saint Hubert's lips closed.

Unless necessity obliged him to speak.

And in her passionate love for her husband Diana found herself almost hoping that the necessity would arise.

It was horrible to think that wrong motives could be attributed to him; horrible to think that the estrangement that had begun in one generation might be caried on into a second merely through a misunderstanding that might never be elucidated. For she knew Ahmed ben Hasson well enough to realize that he would never refer to the subject; he would ignore the possible condemnation of his son as he had ignored the relationship he had repudiated so many years ago. In the early days of her married life Diana had exerted all her influence to bring about a reconciliation, but her endeavors had been unavailing, for, flexible as he had always been, the Sheik had not only turned a deaf ear to her pleadings, but had finally definitely refused to discuss the matter with her.

She had done all that she could do. God alone knew what the future might bring.

She sighed again and, setting the photographs aside, turned once more to the letter lying on the pad before her.

But the ink dried slowly on her pen and no more words were added to the closely written sheet. Her letter was to Raoul, waiting at Tougourt. She had told him of the Sheik's absence, had given him directions where to find the camp, and had begged him to set out immediately. There was nothing to add, nothing that she could add. There as she wished it, it was impossible for her to ask Raoul to explain the family history to Caryll.

She signed her name and directed the envelope with a cold little feeling of mental chill, fighting against a sensation of foreboding that seemed to have taken a firm hold on her.

Angry with herself, but unable to shake off the strange apprehensions that beset her, she leaned her arms on the writing table and buried her face in her hands.

After so many peaceful years everything seemed to be changed, and she had a curious instinctive feeling that trouble was drawing very near to her. The concrete expression of what had been vaguely in her mind for days gave her a kind of shock as she whispered the words.

It was unlike her to have misgivings. It was foreign to her nature to meet trouble half way. What, then, was the matter with her, why was she oppressed with this feeling of coming disaster?

It was true that she was worried about Ahmed, worried about the boy, too worried lately even to sleep properly. But she had been anxious about them before, many times. It was not only fear of them that distressed her, it was a new dread that she had never experienced before.

She checked her racing thoughts with a little shudder.

She knew the danger of solitary brooding that led to shaken nerves and self-pity, knew the danger of unrestrained mental introspection that was born of loneliness.

Resolutely she gripped herself. What was to be would be, and no power of hers could either stop or alter it. She would leave to the future the things of the future, and live from day to day as she had trained herself to live, fighting the foolish fears that seemed unworthy. "God keep me strong," she prayed, "and guard them both—those men of mine."

She smiled suddenly through her tears and brushed them hastily away as though ashamed of them. How many times she had agonized over their absence—how many times they had returned to her unharmed! If then, why not now? Why torture herself needlessly?

So easy to say, so difficult to practice. Difficult, but not impossible. Determined to conquer her weakness she sat up suddenly, glancing at her watch.

Already the afternoon was wearing away and sounds of activity were echoing from the camp. Soon Gaston would be coming with her tea, and then she would go for a ride to dispel the headache that had been caused by a sleepless night.

She stooped to fondle one of the sloughis who had crept unnoticed to her feet, and then went into the inner room to fetch her hat and gloves.

More Truth Than Poetry

LEARNING—ONCE REMOVED

Not much I know of Keats or Poe,
Or bards of modern times or olden,
Or any sage, of any age,
Whose words, I understand were golden.
I cannot cope with Mr. Pope,
His dreary sing-song verses bore me—
To me they're bad, so I am glad,
That Mr. Bartlett read 'em for me.

Those classic birds who penned wise words,
Like Pliny, Socrates and Plautus—
I do not read nor care indeed
About the lessons that they taught us.
But for a bluff I pull their stuff,
And sometimes people think I said it.
I make a hit, but don't admit
That Bartlett should have all the credit.

The well known pote, Bill Shakespeare, wrote
A lot of rather nice quotations
Which I can spill with easy skill
In all my causal conversations.
My friends all stare and say "You're there!"
The things I seem to know astound 'em,
They think I'm bright—and they are right
But Bartlett was the chap that found 'em.

A learned pose, and upturned nose,
With classic phrases used in plenty,
Where they fit in is sure to win
The favor of the cognoscenti.
They're deeply stirred by every word
Of learning, wise, mature and mellow,
I do not blink, but sit and think
That Bartlett was a great old fellow.

Conley Pitches Texhoma Crew to Twilight League Championship

COURTNEY HAS TOUGH BREAKS IN ONE STANZA

Single And Stolen Base By Boone, Conley's Single Wins Tilt

Rabbit Gordon of Texhoma outfit copped the 1925 Twilight league championship Wednesday afternoon at Spudder park by nosing the Security National bank nine, 4 to 3, in the deciding game of the titular series.

Snipe Conley, Texhoma's imported slabster, won his second game in three days. Oklahoma Lee Courtney of the Bankers hooked with Conley in a hard hurling duel. The battle was closely fought and was played in a drizzle of rain for the first three stanzas.

Hershel Johnson led the hitters with two singles and two walks. Choc Thompson's great catch in the first inning of Courtney's low line drive was the feature fielding play of the game.

That Bad Inning.

Courtney had one bad inning in the second, when Texhoma sent three runs over the plate. Thompson walked. McMahon beat out a bunt toward first base, Thompson taking second. Kizziar singled through the box, scoring Thompson and sending McMahon to third. Umpire Mosley waved Kizziar to second and McMahon over the plate when Courtney balked on the hill. Boone hit to Montgomery who threw Kizziar out at third. Conley forced Boone at secon. Conley went to second when Graves threw wild to first in an attempt to complete a double play. Johnson beat out a hunt toward first. Conley taking third. On a double steal Johnson stole second, and Conley home. Johnson took third on Montgomery's return throw to the plate. Kellogg grounded out to first, unassisted.

Texhoma threatened to score in the fifth but failed to hit hard after they had men on the bases. Johnson lined a single to left. Kellogg forced him at second. Gordon walked. Davis popped weakly to first. Thompson went out, pitcher to first.

Bankers Two In Sixth.

The Bankers got to Conley in the sixth for two runs. Randel collected the first hit off the Texhoma chunker when he singled to right. C. Graves walked. Harris flied out to McMahon. Montgomery walked, filling the bases. Fat Mathis came through with the only hit the big fellow has collected in the series by singling to left, scoring Randel and Graves. Montgomery went out attempting to steal third. Courtney skied to center.

Texhoma then put the game on ice in the last half of the sixth with another tally. McMahon flied to right, and Kizziar went out, third to first. Boone singled past second, and then stole second. Conley singled to center, scoring Boone and taking second on the throw in, and taking third when Stanfield threw wide to Brown. Johnson walked. Texhoma attempted a double steal and Conley was thrown out at the plate, Stanfield to Montgomery to Stanfield.

Oilers Threaten.

Texhoma threatened to score again in the eighth. Thompson walked. McMahon dumped one down the third base line but Stanfield juggled the ball and both runners were safe. Kizziar attempted to sacrifice and popped to Courtney. Boone forced McMahon at second, Thompson taking third. Boone stole second. Conley rolled out, third to first.

Security Bank made one final bid in the ninth, and managed to send over one run. Courtney popped out to Boone. T. Graves singled to left. Stanfield bounced one off Conley's glove, but Sniper recovered in time to throw him out at first. Graves taking second. Brown beat out an infield hit to third. Conley balked and Graves spiked the rubber, Brown going to second. Randel went out swinging.

The PASSING HOUR

by Wm. B. Ruggles

THE CALL

Faint and far I hear the shaking of the next fall bleachers quaking—
The rooter's hoarse appealing to the gridiron's chosen few—
One more yard, I hear them asking as the next offensive masking,
The bleachers sink to silence till a halfback crashes through.

Hot the summer's fevered races where the ball clubs strive for places—
Where in Speaker's tracks still thunder the spike shot feet of Cobb—
But the thrill of baseball's fading when September starts parading
And the giants in their moleskins get once more upon the job.

But along about November the sport bug will remember
That he got a kick from watching Walter Johnson's streak of flame—
Gents in bleachers never reason—want their flowers out of season—
Their hearts are always focused on next month's recurring game!

The Yale professor who is setting out to prove that the antique dame had the edge in brains on the modern can hardly be a married man. He might think it but he wouldn't say it.

Mark Koenig gets his pictures in the papers this year as the million dollar shortstop the Yanks are buying from St. Paul. And next year he will get them in as a million dollar bust on his way back.

The Right Idea

An item in the papers the other day tells you that Ed Forsgard, this years' Texas amateur trap champion, holds the long run mark of the year in winning a state title? The most interesting feature of the item to the old timers who remember "Fuzzy's" many brilliant feats up and down the trap lines is that the veteran Waco gunner is the amateur champion. For Fosgard in days when he was a pro held records—world marks—and was long regarded as one of the best of the shooting professionals.

The trap-shooting game has the right idea—one that might be adopted by other forms of competition to advantage. "Once a pro always a pro" has no standing in this game but instead there are well defined—and equable rules—by which a man can revert from the pro class to the amateur.

A professional in any sport is the man who is proficient at it beyond the probabilities of others because by being paid to participate in it he can devote so much of his time to the game that he perfects himself in it.

Resolve professionalism to its basic elements—and you can not get away from the fact that that is what it means.

Why then should not the professional who is prepared to give up his emolument, devote only the same time to it that the amateurs do, revert back to the amateur class?

He should—and in trap shooting, he does.

But not in golf, tennis, swimming, athletics and most of all not in collegiana where the absurd rule exists which makes a professional baseball player a pro in football, too.

Dempsey wires the New York commission he has only Harry Wills in view as an opponent. And, just as Jack Kearns is ready to go to the mat with him on the fight of his life.

Fistic stars always know when their next title bout will be pulled. But in the mat game they always know who will be the next champion. And the one after that.

The earth shocks felt in North Texas were probably due to Waco beating Fort Worth.

Not So Queer

North Texas fans are amazed that Jack Banner the Austin catcher, refused to report to a winning ball club. Not so much to that that is queer if you give Mr. Banner, a catching person, credit for sagacity. He saw readily enough that he was wanted only as a stop gap. The Fort Worth catching staff is set at Possom Moore and Silent Smith. The latter's injury, which induced LaGrave's offer to Austin for Banner, is only expected to keep him out for a period of from 10 days to two weeks. Banner would not even be used unless Moore was injured.

Banner had no chance at a cut-in on the Dixie series because the moment Smith reported back, he would be shunted elsewhere—probably to Okmulgee. And then he would be a fixture in the Fort Worth peonage system.

Under all the circumstances Banner quite probably asked a larger sum to play with the Cats than his services could be worth actually. And quite as probably he did not get it.

No meeting of the minds—no contract.

Nothing queer about that.

Georgia Peach has seen many stars grow dim, says Ford Frick of Ty Cobb. Especially since he took over the management of the Tigers.

Siki is indeed a singular Senegalese. He is the only professional fighter who gets into scraps without being paid for them.

Golf has doubtless replaced baseball as the nation's favorite playing sport but not as a spectators' attraction. You can't sit down and watch a golf match.

Better Playing

The opening of Knute Rockne's coaching school at St. Edward's this week is taken to be something of an event for the southwest in the first opportunity Texas has had to get the gridiron views of the famous Notre Dame mentor at first hand, other than as exemplified the year he was a player under Harper when the Catholics played Texas.

A bigger event for the section's athletic's progress than the mere fact Rockne has a school of grid play in our midst is the number of schools of coaching and play that have sprung up all over the state in the past few years.

Primarily designed as schools for coaches these little sessions are more and more drawing players, too. They are valuable in improving standards of play in their first purpose because they train tutors for others. But they prove even more valuable when they are luring to their brief curriculums the contestants themselves.

Southwestern football, once crude, has become highly polished. Able coaching has helped. The coaching school is doing its part, too.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals won their fourth straight victory today by overwhelming the Boston Braves 14 to 2 in the first game of the series. James Bottomley, Cardinal first baseman, hit his 18th home run of the season with none on in the fifth. Jack Smith, Cardinal center fielder, performed the unusual feat for an outfielder of executing a double play unassisted by catching Gautreau's fly in the second inning and then running to first base to retire Genewich.

SPUDS CLOUT TWO HOUSTON HURLERS HARD

Morgan Wins Number 16 With Ease by Score Of 15-9

HOUSTON, Aug. 5.—Wichita Falls broke away to a rousing start in the second inning scoring six runs off Littlejohn, and then came back in later rounds to count again in clusters. Morgan was not very effective, but this may have been because he was working behind a mammoth lead. Morgan won his sixteenth game of the season as the Spudders downed Houston, 15 to 9, and evened the series at two-all.

Three errors, mixed up with a walk, an infield out, singles by Query, Tanner and Fitzgerald and a double by Bodie scored the six runs in the second for Wichita Falls.

BODIE NOT HURT

HOUSTON, Aug. 5. — Ping Bodie, Wichita Falls right fielder who quit the game here this afternoon in the ninth inning and was succeeded by Sutherland in the outer garden, was not injured. Bodie merely asked for relief.

Houston made three in the second, and then the visitors scored three in the fifth on singles by Bodie, Turgeon, Callaghan, Dorman and Query. Littlejohn went out in this inning and Burns went to the hill.

Wichita Falls scored five runs in the sixth. Distel singled and Fitzgreald tripled. Bodie was safe on an infield boot. Turgeon singled. Callaghan fouled out, and then Dorman singled, Query followed with another single.

The Spudders scored another run in the ninth on walks and errors.

Houston got to Morgan for three runs in the sixth and three in the seventh. The Buffs were held scoreless in the eighth. Williams went in in the ninth after Boggess had led off with a single, and held the Buffs at bay.

More Blub And Blah, Blah About Heavy Situation

Everybody Agrees All Rest Are Wrong—Be Fight, Maybe

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The trans-continental battle of words over the proposed heavyweight championship clash between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills in 1926 waged furiously today.

Verbal broadsides were turned loose in three sectors, embodying a barrage of contradictory statements, but after being sifted, they all appeared to agree on one point—that Dempsey and Wills will climb into the ring to fight it out with blows instead of words, sometime next year.

Horses!

The high spot of the day's long distance sharpshooting follows:

Jack Dempsey, Los Angeles: telegraphs Tex Rickard "definitely eliminating New York state" as a site for the Wills match, but holding open prospect of engagement with Rickard or "any responsible promoter" anywhere else in the country, including Boyles Thirty Acres in Jersey City. Asserts agreement with Rickard only verbal and tentative and not binding, in view of New York state athletic commission's attitude. Willing to fight for Floyd Fitzsimmons near Chicago if Wills agrees.

Ditto!

Jack Kearns, Chicago: announces on way to New York to "iron out all difficulties with the New York boxing commission on both Dempsey-Wills and Shade-Walker matters." that Dempsey will fight Wills only under his (Kearn's) management. Difficulties with Dempsey not concerned with ring affairs and will receive bids for fight from any promoter in world willing to post forfeit of half million dollars up. Figures big match will draw two million dollar gate.

Tex Rickard, New York: insists Dempsey will fight only under his direction and confident battle with Wills will take place in New York around July 4, 1926. Has "understanding" with Dempsey and is ready to stage battle here or in Jersey City. Brands talks of fight going elsewhere as "hot air."

DAVIES LEADS MUNY PLAY.

GARDEN CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—Nelson Davies of Cleveland, champion of the Florida west coast, forged to the front in the qalification rounds of the national public links championship at the Salisbury country club today, adding a 4 to his par 73 figures of yesterday.

Tom Storey Clashes With Bernie Irvine In Legion Final Tonight

MONTE HOOKS WITH GRANITE IN 8-ROUNDER

Murdock And Schaeffer To Meet in 6-Round Affair

TONIGHT'S CARD.

Tom Storey, Douglas, Ariz., versus Bernie Irvine, Tulsa. Welterweights, ten rounds.

Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls, versus Kid Granite, Granite, Okla. Junior lightweights, eight rounds.

Young Murdock, Sulphur, Okla., versus Joe Schaeffer, Chicago. Featherweights, six rounds.

Speedy Woods, Ragtown, versus Virgil Masters, Altus, Okla. Middleweights, four rounds.

Another four-rounder is to be put on. Principals have not been announced.

Tom Storey, the newcomer to Wichita Falls ring circles who meets Bernie Irvine another newcomer tonight, brings with him all kinds of literature declaring his class and abaility as a boxer. Storey has fought practically all of the tough eggs in the welterweight class, and has gone up against a number of middleweights. The point that should interest Wichita Falls fandom most is that Storey has defeated Speedy Sparks, the shifty middleweight who has appeared in rings here on several occasions, whipping everything put before him. Storey has beat Andy Smith, Charles Fitzsimmons, Frankie Adams, Lee Morrissey, Solly Burns, Tommy Freeman, Frankie Tull, Joe Atwood, Freddie Hamon, Sailor Lewis, Johnny Lynch, Kid Wheelock, Johnny Murphy, Country Boy Lance and Johnny Delaney along with Sparks and a number of lesser boxing lights.

Irving, though having never fought in Wichita Falls, is fairly well known to the fight bugs here. The Oklahoman really needs little introduction. He has been meeting all comers in the Sooner state, winning in great fashion. Irvine, in fact, has lost but four bouts throughout his career as a pugilist.

There are many fans who believe that Monte will meet his master in the tough Kid Granite. Granite has never fought in Wichita Falls, but he staged several bouts at Lake Wichita this summer.

Murdock is expected to beat Schaeffer, who, however, is an unknown quantity here.

Masters has fought here twice, winning both bouts.

Bears Run Over Sports, 18 to 2

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 5.—But for two errors by Gonzales in the seventh inning which gave the Sports their only two runs, Owens, built along the lines of Luis Firpo, and who was obtained from the Terrell club of the Texas association, would have scored an 18 to 0 victory in the second game of the Shevreport series Wednesday. The final score was 18 to 2.

YOU KNOW ME AL —By Ring Lardner

Friend Al:

Well Al the storm is beginning to break and the next thing you know there will be a lot of familiar faces missing on the old Yanks as Rupert is sore on acct. of where we are at in the penant race and threatening to sell everybody. Well he cant sell me any too soon as I am sick in tired of N. Y. but he will half to give me ½ the purchase price wherever I go. I told Huggins that today and he says don't worry the Col. wont hagle over a matter of $20 or so.

Since the sale was made later than Aug. 1, after which date inter-club player transfers are not permitted, a special dispensation through majority vote of the club owners was necessary. FISHER TAKES ON WOW WOW NEXT TUESDAY

Wrestlers to Stage Benefit Program for Injured Policeman

Chief Wow Wow, Frederick, Okla., Indian grappler, headlines the Wichita Falls wrestling association mat card slated for next Tuesday in the Eleventh and Indiana arena with Jack Fisher, American lightweight champ. The match is to be a finish affair, best two out o fthree falls, announces Promoter Ross.

The program is to be put on as a benefit card for Motorcycle Officer E. E. James who lost a foot in an auto accident here last Monday night. Policemen of the city will be alloted a number of tickets to sell.

Should Draw Well.

Promoters of the card are confident of a strong turnout. Wow Wow is expected to give Fisher a hard run for his money, possibly throw him. A number of fans who witnessed the Fisher-Gorman bout Tuesday believe that had not Gorman hurt a foot in tripping over a torn place in the canvas Fisher would have had his hands full. As it was, Gorman took the first fall and Fisher the next two.

The champion is in good shape and appears to be just as fast and clever as ever, and it may be that he was not extending himself during the grappling for that first fall. This, however, is problematical. The Indian has defeated Gorman twice. The pair have met three times. The third match was a draw, each getting one fall. This bout was held at the Elks club here and was called off arter the second fall, which went to Gorman.

Fans on the whole were well pleased with the Gorman-Fisher match. The Wow Wow-Fisher bout is expevted to be still better.

Tuffy McMullen of Breckenridge, who beat Jack Brown of Olney Tuesday in straight falls, was to have wrestled Gorman on next week's card, but because of the Plainview grappler's injury, will be forced to take on somebody else. Promoter Ross said yesterday he is on the lookout for some good boy to pit against Tuffy.

There is to be a 15-minute preliminary bout, also, said Ross.

Pelicans Announce Wheeler Purchase

Gorman Unable To Use His Left Foot

Jack Gorman, Plainview lightweight wrestler who injured a foot in a match with Jack Fisher Tuesday night, was unable to walk yesterday.

Gorman's left foot is strained in the instep. No bones are broken, but the injury is so painful and the swelling so great that the athlete was abed most of the day.

Allendale Seeks Bond Approval

An effort to induce Attorney General Dan Moody to reconsider his action in declining to approve a $4,000 bond issue floated by the district will be made by trustees of the Allendale school community, it was learned Wednesday.

The proceeds from the sale of the bonds were to be used in adding another room to the school, but the attorney general's department turned down the issue on the grounds that the field notes describing the district were faulty.

E. W. Entrekin, a trustee of the district, conferred Wednesday with Superintendent Burl Bryant and it was decided that a representative will be sent to Autin soon to confer with the attorney general.

If the issue is still disapproved, temporary arrangements for the accommodations of pupils must be made for the coming school term since it is too late to hold another election and get the building up before fall terms start.

Bus Company Is Sued for Damages

A suit asking damages of $1,342 was filed Wednesday in the 78th district court by George C. Burnett, complaining of the Northwest Texas Transportation company which operates a bus line from here to Electra and points beyond.

A fall from one of the busses on July 8 is made the basis of the complaint, it being alleged that a banana peel left on the floor of one of the big cars caused the plaintiff to slip and fall as he started to dismount at the depot in Wichita Falls. In the accident, the petition sets forth, the plaintiff's back was badly wrenched and strained, he was bruised and a cork leg was broken.

Damage to the leg is placed at $125; physicians bills at $25; loss of work at $192 and exemplary damages $1,000.

SCHOOL ROLL STARTED

Two Deputies Start Work Wednesday On Big Task.

Deputies in the city tax collectors office started Wednesday on hyping the school tax roll for the current year. All renditions have been made and approved, the tax set and figured and now the big task of making out the official roll is under way. Oddly enough the same work for 1924 was started exactly a year ago to the day, Aug. 5.

The city tax renditions are made out but work on the whole cannot be started until the city tax rate is set. This will be done in a short time now.

New Buildings To Have Fire Alarms

Adequate fire alarm protection for the two new six story office buildings being erected here by C. W. Snider and associates is to be provided in the form of a complete automatic alarm system in each new structure. One of the buildings, the Harvey-Snider structure on Eighth street, has the exterior completed while the other, the Parkins-Snider structure at Ninth and Indiana has masonry work for the first two stories up.

Arrangements are being made with fire department officials whereby two small alarm boxes will be installed on each floor of each building. These will be connected to a master box in the basement and this in turn will tie into the regular Gamewall automatic alarm system that spreads over the whole city. Pulling any box on any floor will instantly transmit an alarm to the central and all other fire stations in town. The system is being installed at a heavy expense.

The new buildings, in addition to being fireproof throughout, will also be equipped with the usual special fire mains and hose for the fighting of a blaze.

SEVEN PERMITS ISSUED

Seven building permits with a combined valuation of $17,050 were issued Wednesday by the city clerk after plans for the buildings had been approved by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith. No large projects were included.

Prospects for the week are that building permit values may run close to $100,000.

SIDE PAINED HER TERRIBLY

After Childbirth Women Should Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Normal Conditions

St. Louis, Missouri. — "After my first child was born I was bothered with a pain in my side which became more severe the longer I let it go. It was terrible. I often had to lie down to get any relief. I was in a weak and rundown condition, and my side seemed to be the point for all the pain. I was this way for three months, then I read your little booklet and the testimonials it contained, and started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I could feel relief after the first bottle and I have found it to do all you claim for it. I had to repeat it again after my second child was born. I sure will recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. N. R. LAYTON, 2726A University St., St. Louis, Mo.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when relief is at hand.

Millions Die Of Indigestion

Most Common Yet Insidious of Fatal Diseases Strikes Like Lightning and When Least Expected.

Protect Yourself by Strengthening Your Digestive Organs With Ferraline—Then Eat What You Please Without Fear of Trouble.

Nature, with her infinite wisdom, has provided in Ferraline a quick and sure relief for the millions who are living in constant fear of that dreaded disease—indigestion. Ferraline is not a concoction made by man but is a strictly natural product and contains the essential element which nature has provided to strengthen and tone up the weakened organs of digestion.

Indigestion and weak blood march hand in hand. No dyspeptic can have pure, rich blood until his digestion is made perfect again. Stomach disorders always weaken the blood and weak blood causes anaemia, weakness and nervousness.

If you have had warnings of indigestion, do not delay another day to accept the positive guarantee that your money will be refunded if the very first bottle of Ferraline does not give you relief. Don't be misled into believing that heartburn, gas, bloating, constipation, biliousness, sick stomach, heart and kidney pains will gradually go away. These are danger signals, warning you that the dread disease, indigestion, is gradually sapping your very life. Regenerate your digestive organs at once with Ferraline, then you can eat three good meals every day without discomfort. A ten-day treatment of Ferraline will cost you only one dollar at your druggist. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.
