Defense Production Program Criticized By Senate Group

Curtailment Of Electric Power In Homes Seen

Severe Shortage Of Aluminum Is Blamed By Solons

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 26. — Caustic criticism of the defense production program was heard in the Senate today as its special defense investigating committee reported a shortage of aluminum that may cause curtailment of electric power in homes.

In a bluntly-worded report on its inquiry into aluminum—vital metal for fighting airplanes—the Senate group said production of 1,600,000 pounds annually was needed, with only slightly more than half of that in sight immediately. Some electric power may have to be diverted from home use to the production of aluminum, it was indicated.

"This situation is especially serious as we can not have confidence in our estimates of needs for aluminum, and as we may want to increase our airplane program still further," the special committee reported. "Unless we proceed at once to create new facilities, we may be unable to get aluminum when we need it., or we may have to ration private consumption of electricity in the home."

Housing Funds Asked

This was only one of several defense deevlopments during the day, others being:

President Roosevelt asked Congress to authorize the expenditure of $300,000,000 additional on defense housing, making possible the construction of 75,000 more homes in places where defense industries have sprung up. A like sum was authorized last October.

Rear Admiral C. W. Nimitz asked the Senate naval committee to approve legislation empowering the navy to hold enlisted men, including marines, in service beyond their present terms of enlistment. Such power was necessary, he said, because of the expansion of the fleet.

After the critical aluminum report had been explained by Sen. Mead (D-NY) Sen. Brewster (R-Me) told the Senate the "biggest bottleneck in our preparedness effort is on the president's desk."

The Maine legislator said it was "fantastic" to expect the president

Sen. Houston Dies After Operation

O'Daniel-Appointed Senator, Aged Son Of Gen. Sam Houston, Taken By Death

SEN. A. J. HOUSTON

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 26. — Sen. Andrew Jackson Houston (D-Tex), 87-year-old son of the famous Sam Houston, died today at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore after an operation for a stomach ailment, his secretary, D. R. Potter, announced tonight.

Potter said physicians had called him from Johns Hopkins hospital saying that Houston had died at approximately 8 p. m. With the senator at the time of his death were his two daughters, Ariadne and Marguriete.

Oldest man ever to enter the United States Senate, Houston was appointed recently by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas to succeed the late Senator Morris Sheppard, who died April 9.

Houston was to serve only until the winner of a special election in Texas Saturday could qualify and

Candidates Fill Air With Cries Of "Victory"

Election Officials Prepare For Heavy Vote Saturday

(By The Associated Press)

TRIUMPHANT cries of "victory" —following the usual last-minute pre-election pattern—filled the air Thursday as only a day and a night remained for the record-breaking field of senatorial candidates to have their say to the electorate.

With the voters' time to do the talking coming near, election officials were preparing for an unusually heavy turn-out which many observers believed would total more than a million.

While many persons had not paid their poll taxes, not anticipating a special election of importance during this off year, indications were that exemption-holding old folks would turn out in large numbers Saturday to poll for their choice to succeed the late Morris Sheppard in the United States Senate.

O'Daniel At Bowie

This year only 814,336 poll taxes were paid as compared to a million and a quarter in 1940, and conservative estimates were that there were in excess of 200,000 exemption holders who would vote.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel began his next-to-last day of campaigning at Bowie in Northwest Texas, with the cry: "We're going to do it again." He moved along to Mineral Wells, and to Temple for a night rally.

Gerald C. Mann went to Waco for a night rally; Lyndon Johnson to San Antonio; and Martin Dies to Port Arthur.

"I want all of you to vote for me," O'Daniel told the crowd at Bowie. "If I go to Washington with a record vote behind me they will say 'everybody in Texas is back of the fellow' and I will have

Texas May Salvage Fair Crop Incomes

Potential Bumper Yields Have Been Cut Considerably By Unseasonable Moisture

By LEDGERWOOD SLOAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

RAIN-SOAKED Texas farmers in recent weeks have seen potential bumper yields reduced greatly by unseasonable moisture but they may yet salvage fair incomes from their soggy acres.

Dry weather remains a pressing need over most of the state.

Wheat stands waterlogged in many fields. Cotton is late and planters are preparing to fight what they expect to be an unprecedented infestation of insects.

Fields Deep In Mud

But wheat is worth around a dollar a bushel for the first time in years. And prospects are considered bright for cotton to reach 15 cents a pound. That and cottonseed at $45 per ton—paid at Abilene this week—would bring the growers $100 a bale next fall.

Unlike the farmer, the ranchman has no worries. The rains which brought distress to other areas kept water tanks overflowing and shaped up the finest ranges in decades. Livestock are fat and prices for range products firm.

Hardest hit at this grain harvest time are the growers of the Panhandle, Fields where combines should be running are deep in mud. Wind and rust that accompanied the rains reduced the expected wheat harvest from about 38,000,000 to 31,000,000 bushels, the U. S. crop reporting service estimates. This compares with the record crop of 51,000,000 in 1931.

Yield May Be Higher

In the 15 counties of the South Plains the wheat yield may be slightly higher than the mid-June estimates of 7,500,000 to 9,000,000 bushels. On June 1 the estimate was for yield of 16,000,000 bushels. Wheat heads are not filled out well and the first loads tested at Lubbock showed up to 17 per cent moisture. Most wheat graded No. 2 there.

Around Plainview, some farmers say their fields will not yield more than 4 bushels on acres they thought a few weeks ago would make 25 bushels. In Northeast Texas, County Agent A. L. Edmiaston of Lamar reports oats and wheat 75 per cent lost while around Sherman a 50 per cent crop is predicted by Grayson County Agent V. O. Tiddie.

The oats crop varied from ex-

Nazi 'Chutists Reported Killed As They Land

Russians Claim Successes From Poland To Sea

(By The Associated Press)

GREAT forces of Russian tanks are waging a violent and winning battle against German tanks in Poland and every Axis attempt to drive into the Ukraine from Rumania by parachute and by the infantry has has been beaten down, the Soviet military report declared early Friday.

The Russian communique was a tale of success from the Polish front to the Black sea; of parachute troops killed as they landed by charging cavalry, of successful raids into German and Rumanian lines, and of fierce bombing attacks on Bucharest, the port of Constanta and the rich Ploesti oil fields of Germany's Rumanian ally.

The Red army skipped over the action along the northern front except to say that Soviet soldiers were in action against "infiltrating enemy tanks units" in the Minsk area of western Russia.

No Finnish-Red Action

Despite that Finland formally arrayed herself beside Germany against Russia, the Russian army said there was no land action yesterday along the Russian-Finnish frontier.

The wail of air raid alarms sounded repeatedly over Helsinki, Finland's oft-bombed capital, and new showers of Russian bombs fell on that city's environs soon after President Risto Ryti told the Finns they were at war again against Russia. But this time, he said, it was a defensive war and they were not alone as they were in the winter of 1939-40.

Tanks Clash

The huge tank engagement was being fought in the Luck sector of southeast-central Poland and, said Moscow, was going "with a manifest advantage for our troops."

German tactics now familiar to the world—to attempt to gain a foothold behind enemy lines by parachute troops—evoked an energetic and prompt Red army answer, the war report indicated.

"The strongest resistance" is meeting every German attempt to land parachute troops, the communique declared. Local residents are helping round them up and in

Fort Worth And Denver Railway Claim Rejected

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

Without attempt to conceal their irritation, members of the city commission flatly refused at their semi-monthly meeting Thursday afternoon to pay a claim to $2,612.82 presented on behalf of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway in connection with construction of the storm sewer in the southern part of the city which was completed several months ago.

The money, according to a letter from Fort Worth & Denver officials, is due as reimbursement for expenses to which the railroad was put in strengthening the supports of tracks under which the storm sewer was constructed.

Ready To Go To Court

Officials contrasted the Fort Worth & Denver claim of more than $2,612 with the approximately $200 that was paid to the Santa Fe for a similar purpose because of the construction of the storm sewer under the main line of those tracks.

The storm sewer passes under the Fort Worth & Denver tracks in five places, only one of which is main line. Most of the others are switches.

The commission directed that the Fort Worth & Denver be offered settlement in an amount commensurate with that paid the Santa Fe. Otherwise, commissioners declared, they are prepared to go into court with the issue.

Claims by the Fort Worth &

CIO Machinists Consider Going Back To Work

(By The Associated Press)

CIO machinists considered Thursday whether to go along with AFL machinists in calling off the strike at San Francisco shipyards.

A meeting of the CIO strikers was called after announcement that the AFL men, at a meeting Wednesday night, had voted 5 to 1 to return to work Monday and negotiate a contract later.

To Be Protected

The vote broke the lines of a strike begun May 10 when about 1,200 AFL and 600 CIO machinists walked out at 11 San Francisco shipyards and drydocks holding $500,000,000 of defense orders.

The AFL metal trades department had agreed to a so-called master contract calling for an increase from $1 to $1.12 an hour in wages and for payment of time and one-half for overtime instead of double time. Refusing to accept this, the machinists demanded $1.15 an hour with continuation of double time for overtime.

Before deciding to go back to work, the AFL machinists were assured that they would receive immediate protection of the master agreement.

Strike Is Begun

Meantime, a strike of CIO workers began in 13 plants of the United States Gypsum company. R. W. Hanson, national director for the Gypsum Workers Organizing committee, said 4,000 workers had joined in a walkout and were demanding 10 cents increase in hourly wage scales now ranging from 62½ to 95 cents.

Of deep concern to defense officials was a threatened strike at the Sperry Gyroscope company, Inc., of Brooklyn. A walkout of 6,000 employes was threatened by the Brotherhood of Scientific Instrument Workers if an agreement with the management is not reached by July 1.

A possibility that the strike might be averted was seen in continued negotiations between management and union officials.

The union asks 20 per cent increase in wages which it said range from 45 cents to $1.30 an hour. The company makes bombsights as well as other instruments

Cotton Research Program Opens

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, June 26. — The second World Research Cotton congress was inaugurated today with a rousings peech by U. S. Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, member of the House agricultural committee, amid one of the largest exhibitions of cotton and cottonseed products ever assembled.

Poage, who came from Washington to attend the congress, took a positive stand against export of cotton to Japan.

"The continued sale of cotton to Japan," he said, "is a most short-sighted policy. The broader aspects of the national policy, I think, absolutely dictates a complete embargo of all exports to and imports from Japan until she shall have conformed to her treaty obligations and withdrawn from China."

Price Common Problem

The congressman welcomed the visitors and speakers, who represented several cotton-growing states, to the congress. Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro, chairman of the Texas Statewide Cotton committee, which is sponsoring it, formally opened the assembly. Poage also asserted that "it is the common problem of every one in any way connected with the cotton industry to see that the cotton farmer gets a fair price for his product."

Another speaker was Dr. Henry G. Knight, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, United States Department of Agriculture, who talked at a joint luncheon sponsored by Waco civic clubs.

Dr. Knight said that "when we consider means of increasing the utilization of American cotton, most of us think in terms of new

Hitler Said To Be Calling On Friends To Fight Reds

(By The Associated Press)

MADRID, Spain, June 26. — Adolf Hitler has demanded from each country forming a part of the "New Europe" a tokep force to fight against Communism, but what part Spain will take in this connection has not yet been announced.

(Here three lines of this dispatch were deleted by censor. It was the first indication that Hitler had made such demands upon countries dominated or strongly influenced by Germany.)

Extermination Necessary

(Two lines deleted by censor). The Spanish government is not expected to make any definite announcement now other than declarations of opposition to Communism, in view of Anglo-American opposition to a further Spanish approach to the Axis camp.

Letters from thousands of men offering to fight against Communism have been received by the foreign ministry and headquarters of the Falangist party, said Felipe Ximenez de Sandoval, the ministry's diplomatic chief.

No Election Party Saturday; KFYO To Broadcast Returns

The Avalanche-Journal will not stage an election party Saturday night, but you will be able to get all the returns from the special senatorial election hot off the wire over KFYO, the Avalanche-Journal radio station.

The Avalanche-Journal will collect the returns from Lubbock and the South Plains. The usual leased wire will bring the tabulations from all other portions of the state from Dallas headquarters of the Texas Election bureau, which is operated cooperatively by the newspapers in the state. These returns will be broadcast at regular intervals by KFYO.

And, of course, you can read all the details, including news later than that available for broadcast, in The Sunday Avalanche-Journal.

Farley Says Texans Able To Make Choice

DALLAS, June 26. (AP)—James A. Farley, commenting on the Texas U. S. Senatorial campaign, said today, "I think the people of Texas are able to make their own decisions without any suggestions from me or any other person outside the state."

"I am a firm believer in home rule and you will recall that I did not participate in the purge of 1939. I don't believe in that sort of thing," said the former postmaster general who is in Texas on business.

"I deeply resented it in my own state and likewise I resent it elsewhere," he added.

Farley said he would go to Fort Worth tomorrow to visit Publisher Amon G. Carter. From there he will go to Waco to speak before a banquet of the World Cotton congress. He also will go to San Antonio and "run down to Uvalde to see my old friend, John Garner."

Two Fliers In Army Training Plane Killed

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 26. (AP) —Two fliers in an army training plane died today in the wreckage of their ship as it crashed near the San Jose airport while coming in for a landing.

Deputy Coroner Harry Ryder identified the men as Lieut. W. C. Senner of Kansas City and Cadet Waldo E. MacIntosh of Miami, Okla.

Slaton's Rodeo To Start Today

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, June 26.—Slatonites were watching the skies tonight and hoping bad weather would not interfere with the expected record attendance at Slaton's second annual Roundup and Rodeo which starts at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

A mammoth parade at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon will precede the rodeo, said Jack Norman, secretary of the chamber of commerce and of the South Plains Roundup association, which sponsors the rodeo. Slaton merchants and organizations will prepare floats and automobiles for the parade.

The parade will be led by Company C of the Texas Defense guard. Capt. P. G. Meading is commanding officer. The Slaton High School Tiger band also will be in the parade. Slaton merchants will close their stores at noon, it was said.

A political "speaking" will precede the rodeo, which will be held at the high school football field. A representative of Lyndon Johnson has notified officials he will be present.

Prizes in the various contests were announced: calf roping, $150; bronc riding, $150; steer riding, $150; bulldogging, $150; sponsor's contest, $30; and chair-sitting contest, $40 total.

Sponsors will be present from Posey, Southland, Cooper, Union and other nearby communities, it was said.

Roundup association officials are C. F. Anderson, president, Nick Carter, vice president, and Ray Ayers, C. C. Hoffman and Sugg Roberston, directors.

Turkey Blames Italy With Sinking Ship

ANKARA, Turkey, June 26. (Delayed) (AP)—The Turkish steamer Refah, sunk in the Mediterranean with a loss of 160 lives out of 180 passengers and crew members, was reliably reported today to have been sent down by an Italian submarine.

The 2,500-ton steamer carried Turkish naval personnel assigned to bring back from England several warships built there for the Turkish navy.

Some of the twenty survivors were reported to have landed in Palestine, others at the British Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

It was understood here that all the belligerent powers, had been notified before the vessel sailed three days ago.

Officers Installed By Slaton Masons

SLATON, June 26. (Special) — Immediately before World war 1, I. E. Madden was installed as worshipful master of Slaton Masonic lodge 1094.

Coincidentally tonight Madden was installed in the same office in the lodge.

He is one of seven new officers for the next fiscal year. R. M. Sheppard is holdover secretary and K. C. Scott was renamed treasurer.

Burton S. Burks of Lubbock, was installing officer, and George Eubank, also of Lubbock, was installing marshal.

Other new officers are L. L. Lively, senior warden; P. G. Meading, junior warden; Sam Phillips, senior deacon; J. L. Benton, junior deacon; W. P. Layne, senior steward, and Fagen Genn, junior steward.

W. Guy Casey of Lubbock spoke briefly.

Levelland Delegation Visits In Lubbock

Nearly 100 Levelland residents, traveling in 15 private automobiles, visited briefly in Lubbock late Thursday afternoon, publicizing the annual July 4 rodeo.

They arrived nearly an hour ahead of schedule, with the result that a welcoming delegation of five carloads of Lubbockites waited fruitlessly on Littlefield highway, while the Levelland group prosented a program down town.

Ralph Brock, county attorney, welcomed the delegation when it stopped at Broadway and Avenue K, east of Lubbock hotel. Former Rep. Alvin R. Allison of Levelland also spoke.

Musical numbers by Big Boy Bailey and his "Go-Devils" and a square dance completed the program.

Simultaneous with the Independence day rodeo, Levelland will celebrate its 16th birthday. The rodeo will continue July 5, with $1,200 in prize money offered to contestants.

Levelland Lions club is sponsoring the event.

Besides Lubbock, the group visited nine towns in Texas and eastern New Mexico. A similar trip will be made next Wednesday in both states.

Woman Picks Casket, Then Shoots Self

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, June 26.—A smiling woman carefully selected a casket at a funeral home today before stepping into the firm's office and shooting herself to death.

A suitcase containing clothing and instructions for burial was found beside the body.

A verdict that the woman, Miss Nell Milam, 40, committed suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace W. L. Sterrett.

Attendants at the funeral home said she appeared unusually friendly and smiled often while looking over the caskets

Ten Questions To Be Asked Youths Registering July 1

Gen. Page Gives Out Information

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 26. — Ten simple questions will be all that young men registering for selective service on July 1 will be asked, General J. Watt Page, state director, said today in explaining procedure of the second national registration.

General Page asserted the questions on the registrant's card pertain only to his identity, his address, the person who will always know his address, and his employer. Registration should not take longer than five minutes for each individual, but registrars will allow ample time to each registrant so that every question on the registration card can be answered properly.

Lottery Is Scheduled

No questionnaires will be answered by registrants when they register July 1. Such documents are sent to registrants only after their order numbers have been determined by a national lottery to be held in the near future.

General Page also pointed out that there will be no physical examinations at the time of registration. Physical examinations will be given only after local boards have considered the registrants classification and determined that, subject to his physical test, he is eligible for military training.

Questions Are Listed

The ten questions registrants must answer, General Page said, include the following: 1. Full name of registrant, including full middle name (registrant must have with him papers of identification showing it to be his true name); 2. Place of residence (registrant will be permitted to determine what place he desires to give as his residence when he is not located in the same place all of the time); 3. Mailing address (this may be the same as the place of residence, or it may be another address where the registrant would receive his mail more readily); 4. Telephone; 5. Age in years; 6. Place of birth; 7. Occupation; 8. Name and address of person who will always know registrant's address; 9. Employer's name and address; 10. Place of employment or business.

After a registrant has answered the questions and signed his name to his registration card, he will be given a registration certificate signed by the registrar. He must have his certificate in his personal possession at all times, General Page emphasized.

News Briefs

Tom C. Ivey of 1801 Main street, pioneer West Teas rancher, with properties near Hereford, who was injured recently in a car crash, was able to make a trip to Hereford early this week.

J. E. Calloway of Dallas, a chief quartermaster for the U. S. naval recruiting office there, is to open an office today in the basement of the federal building, it was learned Thursday. Calloway was here earlier in the week to secure quarters. He will occupy room 1, which has been used by C. M. Norman, a chief torpedoman, who had a temporary office here this week.

George M. Garrett, division engineer of the state highway department, is to leave today with Mrs. Garrett and their son for their new location in Bryan, where he has been assigned as division engineer. Mr. and Mrs. Garrett resided at 2618 Twenty-second street and last week sold their home and moved to the Hilton hotel for a temporary residence. Stewart McCarty, his successor, is expected here Monday or Tuesday from Atlanta, where he has been stationed. McCarty so far has been unable to rent a house, Garrett said Thursday.

A scheduled meeting of the county Agricultural Adjustment administration committee will be held today at its office, 1320 Avenue Q. Routine matters, including discussion of complaints of farmers on cotton acreage allotments, will be considered. C. E. Lilley of Slaton is chairman.

Sixteen additions to the College Avenue Baptist church have come as a result of the revival which is being held there by Dr. William H. Joyner of San Antonio, an evangelist for the Baptist General Convention of Texas, said Rev. A. E. White, pastor, Thursday. Dr. Joyner's subject tonight will be "Poor Present Day Fools." He also is to preach this morning at 10 o'clock. The night service begins at 8 o'clock. Two special sermons will be delivered Sunday, the closing day of the revival. Dr. Joyner has resided 11 years in San Antonio and has conducted 40 revivals there in that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lee of 2429 Twenty-third street are parents of a daughter weighing 8 pounds 4 ounces born at 2:48 o'clock Thursday morning in West Texas hospital. The father is a grocery clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Magee of Abernathy are parents of a son weighing 7 pounds 3 ounces born at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in St. Mary's hospital. Magee is a carpenter.

Assignments to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., were made to Claude E. Nees, jr., Wellington; Hugh L. Holland, jr., Amarillo; James W. Hester, Milford; and Joel F. Crow, Lamesa, Thursday, said Major Walter Jessee, district recruiting officer.

Before he left for his district office at Abilene Thursday afternoon C. M. Norman, chief torpedoman and recruiter for the U. S. navy, said William L. Carter and Robert E. McMillan of Lamesa were accepted for enlistment.

Edmond Austin, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Austin of 2012 Fifteenth street has been taken home from Lubbock sanitarium, where he was treated for injuries in an automobile accident Sunday morning in which Burrell B. (Bobe) Liles was killed. Young Austin is recovering, friends said.

Designed to interest the families of Lubbock county young men, and others, who are eligible for service with the Civilian Conservation Corps, Miss Frances Allen, area supervisor of the Public Welfare department will broadcast for 15 minutes Saturday afternoon, over KFYO discussing the July call. Men secured in the next call, Miss Allen explained, will be trained in national defense work. They will be given an opportunity to learn shop methods, mechanics, etc. "It will be in the form of an interview," Miss Allen said. "Time of the program is 2:15 o'clock. We hope to be able to get 150 boys from this area in the call, which is now scheduled for July 17."

Neither of two men named on felony charges Thursday in Lubbock courts had been reported arrested at midnight, officials said. One was charged with forgery in justice court of J. T. Inmon, the other was named for child desertion in Walter Davies' justice court.

Government To Set Tire Prices

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—The government moved today to fix automobile tire prices at the June 16 level, and there were new indications that efforts would be made to set up some sort of mandatory price controls applying to American industry generally.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, made known that a price schedule applying both to tires and tubes would be issued, probably next week after conferences with representatives of manufacturers. He said he was announcing the impending move in advance so that the trade would know what to expect and would avoid price increases before the schedule is issued.

Some of Henderson's price curbing efforts have not yet been successful, notably in the case of the Chrysler corporation and part of the furniture industry.

Submitted To FDR

Concerning his power to enforce price schedules in general, his aides said that several methods are available under the selective service act, a transportation act passed during the World war, and other legislation.

They said the government had power to commandeer a plant considered recalcitrant or withhold transportation facilities from it; that it could release some of its own stores of strategic materials to keep market prices down, or lower tariffs for the same purpose.

However, such methods are regarded by some officials as "cumbersome and harsh" and they indicated that they favored legislation providing some "simpler and more direct" system.

Thus far, it was indicated, the study of new methods has not progressed to the stage where legislation is being drafted. A great deal of information has been gathered, however, the officials said, and this will be submitted to President Roosevelt as the possible basis for legislation.

Austin Man To Run For Johnson's Place—If Lyndon Is Elected

AUSTIN, June 26. (AP)—J. G. Smith, Austin attorney, today announced he will be a candidate for Congressman if Tenth District Cong. Lyndon Johnson is elected U. S. Senator next Saturday. Mayor Tom Miller of Austin and State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles of Austin both have been mentioned as likely candidates if Johnson becomes Senator.

REFINERY IS PURCHASED

FORT WORTH, June 26. (AP)—The Premier Oil Refining Co., today announced the purchase of the Ohio Oil Co.'s Fort Worth refinery. The purchase price was not announced. Maj. J. R. Parten, Houston, Premier's board chairman, said all prices will be increased to correspond with the prevailing schedules in North, West, Central Texas areas when the company takes over July 16. The refinery, with daily capacity of 4,000 barrels, has been purchasing an average of 3,500 barrels daily from 517 producers, chiefly "strippers," in the Ranger field.

O'Daniel's Breathtaking Defense Plan Disclosed

AUSTIN, June 26. (AP) — A national defense plan which President Roosevelt termed "breathtaking" was revealed in a United States Senate campaign broadcast by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel.

The governor suggested in a letter Jan. 29, that the president set up a separate defense commission and let the state proceed "just as if we were still the Republic of Texas."

O'Daniel said the Lone Star State would "build a navy, an air fleet, a mechanized army and arms and ammunition that will stop any nation or combination of nations from coming into the United States from the south."

Texas would accomplish the feat, O'Daniel declared, "independent of everything you are now doing and independent of everything Texas is now doing for you.

"We will not use Texas draftees. We will supply our own manpower, and our own Texas raw material, of which we have a variety and an abundance," he said.

Texas' present defense output is only a drop in the bucket compared to what the state could do, O'Daniel claimed.

The people east of the Mississippi are "almost 100 per cent dumb" regarding the potential power and resources of Texas, the governor continued.

Mr. Roosevelt replied in a letter Feb. 5 that, although "the Texas record for accomplishment prompts the belief that the plan could actually be made effective," he did not feel that "we should impose upon the state of Texas, no matter how willing, a larger proportion of the burden of national defense than the other states are being called upon to bear."

Americans Are Forced To Make Supreme Choice, Says Secretary Harold Ickes

HARTFORD, Conn., June 26 (AP)—Secretary Ickes declared tonight the American people must "make their supreme choice" now "whether we are willing to buy a craven's truce" or "work, sacrifice, fight and die, if need be, for liberty."

"This is a war for liberty," the interior secretary said. "If we win it, we may live, but at any rate we will pass on to our children, undamaged, the great heritage that has come to us from our fathers. If—God forbid!—we lose the war, some of us may live, but those who do would much better be dead."

Ickes made his remarks in an address prepared for delivery before a meeting sponsored by the "Fight for Freedom" committee and the "Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies."

Weaker Than Germany

While declaring that "democracy and Stalin today have nothing in common save the enmity of Hitler," Ickes said practical considerations dictated that "Russia, undoubtedly weaker than Germany, should be aided so that Hitler will be required to waste greater quantities of men and more pieces of equipment, thereby weakening him in his struggle with the democratic forces."

The secretary again lashed out at Charles A. Lindbergh, declaring:

"If Lindbergh is for Hitler now, as every act and word of his seem to indicate, it is because through an understanding with Hitler, or as an expected favor from him, he glimpses a political future which a free people would not accord him voluntarily. Thus it was with Quisling, who betrayed Norway to Hitler, and with Laval, who is doing the same thing to France.

Might Be All In

"Lindbergh said recently that we need new leaders. This shocking exposure of personal political ambitions—ambitions, which apparently, he would attain by unconstitutional means—made even his simple-minded adherents gasp."

Declaring "Hitler has us on his list of the doomed," Ickes said, "We must use more than words in defense of our liberty. We must offer in full measure the sweat and blood and tears that the heroic English have been yielding at the call of Churchill." He added solemnly:

"Make no mistake. The situation is so serious that if America does not quickly go all-out for Britain, America may find herself all-in—without Britain."

Ten-Pound Gain Is Averaged By Draftees

DURHAM, N. H., June 26. (AP)—An average of 10 pounds per man in the first three weeks is the weight gain of America's million new soldiers.

The total gain, 10,008,000 pounds, is equivalent in avoirdupois, to 66,666 more soldiers due to scientific diet.

The 10-pound gain was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today by Miss Mary I. Barber, food consultant, quartermaster corps, U.S.A. She said it is the most spectacular result of the new army's diet.

The meals are the summation of years of scientific study of nutrition.

The boys all get pie. Mothers who can't resist the temptation to send their boys delicacies, should send cookies and home-made candy, preferably stuff that won't cause too many crumbs as their presence are likely to get the sons into trouble at inspection time.

National Income Of At Least 85 Billion Dollars Forecast For 1941

Increase Will Be Eleven Billions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 26. — A total national income at at least $85,000,000,000 for 1941 was forecast today by agriculture department economists, or a minimum increase of $11,000,000,000 over last year.

Looking beyond 1941, the economist said it was probable that the 1942 income would reach $92,000,000,000 and that the rate of industrial production would be 40 per cent greater than in the boom year of 1929.

These estimates were contained in a special report on the effect of the war and the defense program on agriculture, and most of the economists' findings concerned the outlook for the farmer, which was considered very good.

History Made By Old Kettle

BATON ROUGE, La., June 26. (U.P.)—An old iron kettle, blackened by the many fires over which it has hung in the past 200 years, rests on the campus of Louisiana State University as a memorial to the man who made Louisiana's sugar industry possible.

Indigo was the money crop when the French planter aristocracy owned plantations that stretched for miles along the bayous and lakes of Southern Louisiana at the end of the 18th century. Jean Etienne de Bore was no exception.

De Bore was born in the Illinois section of the Louisiana Puchase territory. At the age of 4, he was taken to France by his parents where he received his education and later married into large colonial holdings.

He returned to New Orleans with his wife about the time of the French Revolution and established his plantation on what now is a part of Aububon Park near the city limits.

Planters Near Bankruptcy

There he engaged in the planting of indigo. When a blight, however, wiped out the indigo crops, de Bore and other the planters were faced with bankruptcy.

Many planters already had tried to granulate sugar from cane juice, but their experiments failed time after time. De Bore, over-riding the protests of his wife, decided to have a fling at the sugar business.

He planted his entire plantation in sugar cane, built a small sugar mill and imported an experienced sugarmaker. His experiment attracted wide attention.

Success Achieved In 1795

A crowd gathered at the sugar house one day in December, 1795. A large black pot had been placed over a hot fire. As many as could crowd into the house watched the cane juice for a sign of granulation. Finally, small white spots appeared on the surface.

Historians say that on that day the sugar industry in Louisiana was born.

When the Audubon sugar school was established in 1891 for training experts in sugar works, the old kettle was taken out of its corner and presented to the school by Charles Etienne Gayardre, Louisiana historian and grandson of de Bore.

The kettle passed with the school when, five years later, it was taken over by Louisiana State University. It now is firmly ebedded in a brick base in front of the sugar school.

New Chief Of Staff Is Named For VIII Corps

BROWNWOOD, June 26. (U.P.)—Lt. Col. Hugh C. Gilchrist has been named chief of staff for the VIII Army corps, it was announced today at corps headquarters here.

Gilchrist will succeed Col. Homer S. Slaughter, who has been assigned duty at the University of Iowa as a professor of military science and tactics.

The new chief of staff has been assistant chief of staff of G-3 plans and training—on the staff of Major General George V. Strong, commanding general of the VIII Army corps.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Better Have Poll Tax Or Exemption If You Plan To Vote In Saturday's Election For Senator; Qualifications, Penalties Cited

County Attorney Ralph Brock Thursday reminded Lubbock county voters of the qualifications of voters and cited penalties for illegal voting in the special election for United States Senate.

All citizens of the United States who shall have resided in this state one year and the last six months within the district or county in which he or she offers to vote, provided that any voter who is subject to pay a poll tax under the laws of this state and holds a receipt showing that said poll tax was paid before the first day of February, A. D., 1941, are qualified to vote in the election. Such voters who are exempt from paying poll tax and who reside in a city of 10,000 inhabitants or more and who may have a certificate of exemption as required by law.

Every person who is more than 60 years old or who is blind, deaf, or dumb, or is permanently disabled, or has lost one hand or one foot, shall be entitled to vote without being required to pay the poll tax, if he has obtained his certificate of exemption from the county tax collector when the same is required by the provisions of the law, that is, if the person lives in a city containing more than 10,000 inhabitants, he must obtain his exemption before the first day of February next preceding the election at which he proposes to vote, provided, however, that a voter who is exempt from payment of a poll tax because of his or her age and who does not live in a city of 10,000 inhabitants or more is not required to obtain an exemption certificate.

Article 232 of the Texas penal code says: "If any person knowing himself to be an unqualified voter, shall at any election vote for or against any officer to be then chosen, or for or against any proposition to be determined by said election, he shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years."

Article 234 says: "Whoever shall swear falsely as to his own qualifications to vote, or who shall swear falsely as to the qualifications of a person offering to vote who is challenged as unqualified, shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years."

By way of further explanation of these two articles, Brock cited the court of criminal appeals in the case of Arrington versus State, in which it was said that the offense of false swearing and illegal voting as defined in the two above articles are different offenses and there is no inhibition in the Constitution against the defendant being prosecuted for both offenses; the mere fact that they occur contemporaneously does not make them one and the same offense.

Brock said the following persons were not qualified to vote in Saturday's election: (1) Persons under 21 years of age. (2) Idiots and lunatics. (3) All persons convicted of any felony exeept those restored to full citizenship and right of suffrage or pardon. (4) All soldiers, marines and seamen employed in the service of the army and navy of the United States. (5) All paupers supported by the county.

Farmers To Talk On Soil District Plans

LITTLEFIELD, June 26. (Special)—Formation of a soil conservation district will be discussed and a petition to be presented to the state soil conservation board will be arranged for when Lamb county farmers meet Saturday afternoon at First Presbyterian church.

W. G. Kennedy of Muleshoe, a member of the state board, will preside. Meeting will be at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

It is planned to vote on the joining of the Blackwater Draw district, already formed in Bailey county, if the election is held. Kennedy is expected to preside and he will report to the board the attitude of the farmers as shown by the meeting.

ERROR IS COSTLY

CLYDE, N. Y.—Small fry found an "ice cream mine" in the village dump—a cigar box crammed with "free" sticks used by an ice cream company which freezes ice cream on a stick, the last lick sometimes revealing that its holder gets another one on the house. They were tossed by error into the waste-basket and thence to the dump.

Confectioners reported a rushing business, one admitting he had accepted 150 "free" sticks.

NOT MUCH PROTECTION

ST. LOUIS. — A burglary was reported at a downtown office. Thieves had obtained $68.72 from one cash box and an undetermined amount from another.

The victimized office was headquarters for a theif protection service.

THIEF DISAPPOINTED

TACOMA, Wash., — The thief probably was disappointed with the loot he took from the car of Robert Goodwin, University of Washington professor.

Goodwin reported 60 blue books, college final examination papers, were gone. None had been graded.

SOME SCOOTING

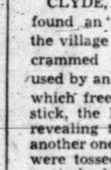

CHICAGO, — Arnold Witt really scoots around.

The 16-year-old youth rode his motor scooter the 125 miles from his home in Watertown, Wis., to Chicago on one gallon of gasoline. And he still had enough left to scoot around and see some of the sights.

Ward's Annual Bike Parade To Be Held This Afternoon

Montgomery Ward & Co.'s annual bicycle safety parade will be held this afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock from Central Ward school on Thirteenth street and closing in front of the Avalanche-Journal office on Texas avenue.

Any boy or girl of Lubbock is eligible to compete in the parade, regardless of the make of bicycle, its age or kind, it was pointed out.

Expecting 250 Bicycles

Line of march will be east on Thirteenth street to Avenue O, north on Avenue O to Broadway, East to Texas avenue and south to the newspaper office, where awards will be made.

O. J. Sexton, John Cochran and Jack Payne will be judges. A 16-inch silver trophy will be given first place winner.

It is expected that 250 boys and girls will participate in the parade. A city traffic officer will head the group on the march. There will be ten prizes, nine of them merchandise, for the ten best decorated bicycles, in the opinion of the judges.

Each contestant will be given a free ticket good for a admission to either the Texas or Lyric theaters, Saturday morning at the special matinee.

HASN'T MUCH TIME

NEW ORLEANS, June 26. (U.P.)—J. Joseph Linehard, jr., decided to spend his 60-day vacation in New Orleans but it took him 61 days to get here. Lienhard works in Cairo, Egypt.

An estimated 60,000 young men are being trained under the defense program of the U. S. Office of Education in co-operation with schools and colleges.

1ST LINE QUALITY costs less THAN YOU GUESS

Two things determine first-line quality in a tire: what goes into it, and what you get out of it.

On both counts, Lee DeLuxe Tires are up in front. Into them go only the finest materials, the most exacting craftsmanship. And the famous 5-million mile Florida Road Test proved that you can expect extra miles of travel out of them.

Pitted against other leading first-line brands, Lee tread-wear was actually 6 per cent less than the average. This is equivalent to 1000 extra miles of travel per tire.

Yet Lee Tires cost no more than other leading makes. Actually, they cost less than you guess!

FOR THE SOLDIERS

ARE you disturbed over how to entertain that soldier in your life? Base his fun on talk, food and a pretty girl. A soldier likes to talk about himself—just like any other man—so let him talk about his organization, his post and his feats in camp athletics. But don't talk to him about camp details—how many troops there are and where they are going and whether he thinks we are going into the war. He's supposed to keep quiet about things like that.

These and other discoveries were made by Adelaide Kerr, Associated Press feature service writer when she talked with a New York army sergeant the other day. And because soldiers are more or less alike all over the United States, we thought you might like to read what she wrote.

IF YOU are entertaining an officer, introduce him as Lieutenant or Captain or whatever he is. If he is a trainee, introduce him as "Private Smith," not Mr. Smith." Civilians are rather stupid on occasions when they introduce army officials and since we are going to have a training base near Lubbock it might behoove us to learn how to distinguish a sergeant from a captain and a brigadier-general from a major.

Selectees have more leisure time than you might think. They have week-ends, after Saturday noon, to themselves. If your son or nephew brings a soldier pal home from Camp Bowie or Fort Bliss or Camp Wolters, Camp Barkeley or Fort Brown, you might remember that Napoleon's creed still holds good: An army travels on its stomach.

Soldiers like hearty food. Steaks. Baked potatoes. Apple pie. Ice cream. Sure, they get these things in camp, but a soldier has a sweet tooth. He'll enjoy candies, cookies and cakes a lot more than sandwiches, which he can buy himself. And it's a good idea to have several cartons of soft drinks in the house. Lots of soldiers don't drink hard liquor.

All of this, according to the New York sergeant and Miss Kerr, but helpful hints for hostess in Texas.

IF A SOLDIER is your guest for the week-end, he'll love a Saturday night dinner party or a dance with a pretty girl as his partner. Sunday you had better ask him if he wants to go to church. We were at Brownwood one Sunday when church was breaking up and soldiers had been attending in droves. You might remember to give your soldier guest a little time to himself too. He might like to read a magazine or write a letter or just loaf around.

The army gives the soldier movies, weekly camp dances, athletics and sports such as baseball and softball. You might add two or three other young people to the party you give your soldier to give it zing. After that choose bridge, rummy, dancing, skating or swimming for fun.

DARNING GADGET

EVEN darning socks isn't so bad if you have handy tools to work with. A darning egg that lights up is the latest gadget shown on notion counters.

It is made of plastic in pink, blue or green, contains a battery and an easy twist lights the gadget right under the darn you are weaving. It will save you many a squint and possible wrinkles.

Wodehouse To Broadcast On Camp Life

By ERNEST G. FISCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, June 26.—P. G. Wodehouse, the British humorist, free after 49 weeks' imprisonment in a German civilian internment camp, said today he had been given the freedom of the Reich and would make a weekly broadcast over the German shortwave on the amusing side of life in an internment camp.

The first broadcast, arranged by the foreign office, probably will be made tomorrow, but the time has not yet been fixed.

"What's humorous about being in an internment camp?" an interviewer asked.

"Well, off hand, no particularly amusing incidents occurred to me," said the 59-year-old writer, "but the series of talks should present the lighter side of camp life. For instance, washing one's own clothes. I have never been used to that sort of thing you know, but I enjoyed it."

"I also liked being with the men—1,200 of them—from all walks of life," he added. "Their experiences and their views were interesting."

In his camp in eastern Germany, Wodehouse said, there were 200 Dutch prisoners, 700 British subjects picked up in France, 200 British merchant seamen, and a group of Norwegians and Yugoslavs.

More than 18,000,000,000 cigarettes were sold in North China and Meng Chiang in the last year.

Billy Johnson Finds That His Name Is Not Billy At All

Billy Johnson's name is not Billy Johnson, he found out Thursday.

Since birth Nov. 6, 1910, Johnson has believed Billy his first name. His mother, Mrs. J. W. Johnson of Los Angeles, who is visiting in the Johnson home here, thought that name had been given her son.

Johnson, who is a member of the Texas Highway patrol, found the name James William Johnson, jr., had been placed on his birth certificate when he obtained a copy of the certificate.

The family had comtemplated giving him the longer name, that of his father, but Mrs. Johnson had believed Billy had been officially accepted.

Apparently the father had given the physician the James William title for the son.

Anyhow the patrolman had married as Billy Johnson, registered for selective service under that name and had used it every day necessary during his more than 31 years.

Now he's perplexed. He signed his application for a radio operator's license with the short name, which isn't his.

Johnson's Experience And Influence In Washington Is Needed Now!

As National Youth Administrator in Texas he established an organization which became a model for the nation.

Before that he was secretary for Congressman Kleberg for many years.

In 1937 he was elected to Congress over 10 opponents to succeed the late Congressman James P. Buchanan. In 1938 he was re-elected to Congress without opposition.

As a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee was instrumental in obtaining for Texas the $45,000,000 Naval Air Training Base at Corpus Christi—the nation's largest.

Development of world's largest rural electrification project (the Pedernales Electric Cooperative). Also obtained appropriations and authority for system of rural electrification project throughout Central Texas making cheap electric power available to every farm and ranch in his district.

Helped obtain defense ship building yards for Orange and Houston; established the Naval Reserve Base at Dallas; the ROTC Naval Unit at University of Texas. He has made Texas "navy conscious."

Became advocate of National Youth Administration in Congress and was outstanding in aid to CCC and other youth projects.

Obtained among the first slum clearance projects and gave every aid to farm credit advancement; tenant purchase plan; AAA soil conservation; parity payments; flood control. Active in the fight for lower freight rates for the Southwest on par with Eastern rates.

Fire Department Gets Inhalator

The fire department received an automatic resuscitator and inhalator Thursday morning after 10 years of trying, said Fire Chief W. E. Twitty.

The portable equipment, purchased at a cost of approximately $350, will be available for use within any "reasonable distance" of Lubbock, he said.

To Use Within City

Long trips will not be attempted with it, he said, for the two-fold reason that it probably would take too long to reach the patient to be of any benefit and that it is intended to keep the equipment closely available for use within the city of Lubbock.

The inhalator may be of possible value in reviving victims of apparent drowning, suffocation, asphyxiation, heart attack and the like.

Private Contributions Help

"Probably this equipment won't bring many of them back," Chief Twitty commented. "But if it should be instrumental in saving one life, the investment will be very much worth while."

Of the total cost, one-fourth will be paid by the city. Private contributions paid the balance, the donors stipulating in each case that the device become the property of the fire department.

Fears Of War Grow Swiftly

By RODOLFO L. NAZARENO
United Press Staff Writer

MANILA, June 26. — With the Commonwealth government redoubling its efforts to prepare the Philippines for any possible emergency, a sudden war-consciousness appears to be rapidly developing among all sections of the population.

Not many weeks ago, the Filipino in the street went about his daily routine with scarcely a thought of war.

Today, however, United States and Philippine involvement in the was is a foregone conclusion. The constant arrival of American soldiers and warplanes and the evacuation of army families from the Philippines have served to arouse Filipino public opinion to the belief war must be imminent.

Canned Goods Stored

Merchants report that many families have bought large quantities of canned food "just in case." Most of the populace, however, has done nothing. The proverbial bahala na (let us cross the bridge when we come to it) attitude describes most Filipinos.

But the Commonwealth government has become suddenly aware of the tense international situation.

The National Assembly is expected to approve a bill appropriating $5,000,000 for civilian defense. The bill was partial fulfillment of Commonwealth President Manuel Quezon's recommendations in a special message, which warned that "the trend of events seems to point strongly to the possibility of America's entry into the present war." The message pointed out that in case of United States involvement, "it goes without saying that the Philippines also would be involved directly."

Additional appropriation measures designed to meet any emergency are expected to be drafted soon. Many legislators said they would be ready to approve appropriations totaling as much as $50,000,000 for national defense.

Quezon's Power To Rise

A majority of national assemblymen has approved in principle the extension of the grant of emergency powers to the Commonwealth president in amplified form to cover all possible emergencies.

The Assembly majority also has agreed informally to authorize the Commonwealth president to negotiate a loan of $100,000,000 from the Export-Import Bank of Washington for defense purposes and to request United States military aid under the lend-and-lease act.

The unpreparedness of Manila, capitol and nerve center of the islands, for a major emergency was demonstrated May 3 by a fire in Tondo district which razed 100 blocks of houses made 30,000 peoples homeless and caused material damage estimated at $2,500,000. The fire was considered the worst in Manila's history.

The lesson was bitter, but it had the result of awakening officialdom and the citizenry to the realization that if the country was to be prepared for such calamities as air raids it should have adequate fire protection.

Housing Problem Stressed

The fire also made manifest the problems of housing and feeding the homeless, of giving first-aid treatment, and of transporting refugees amid the confusion inherent to a conflagration or similar emergency.

The American-owned Manila Daily Bulletin severely criticized Manila municipal administrations past and present as a result of the fire, pointing out it was "next to criminal for a city of the size of Manila to continue to be unprotected against fire."

"Recently," the Bulletin declared "there has been much talk and some official planning in anticipation of a major emergency. Now an emergency comes, a major emergency of a purely local character. Unpreparedness for dealing with it is written in the wreckage of that which was a densely populated residential district . . . The situation is so very serious it cannot be handled by lame excuses and timid efforts at reform."

Texas Girl Winner In Young Artists Contest

LOS ANGELES, June 26 (U.P.)—Four girls—three of them from Southern states and the fourth a Californian—were winners today in the nationwide young artists contest of the National Federation of Music clubs.

Elizabeth Carroll Glenn, 21, Chester, S. C., won the violin contest for a $1,000 prize and a chance to appear as soloist before the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Symphony orchestras.

Sylvia Haimowitz, 21, student at Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla., who financed her trip to the federation convention here by performances in private homes, won the piano contest and a $500 prize.

Because the judges were unable to decide between them, Eula Beal, 22, Los Angeles, and Mary Louise Beltz, voice teacher of Belton, Texas, shared the $1,000 award in the singing contest.

Band Concert Will Be Given At Park Tonight

Texas Technological college summer band school's concert band will be presented in an hour's concert in Mackenzie state park at 8 o'clock tonight, it was announced Thursday.

It will be the first concert ever to be played in Mackenzie park by one of the bands, according to D. O. Wiley, conductor.

Scene of the concert will be under the floodlights southeast of the swimming pool. The spot is convenient to parking areas.

Col. Earl D. Irons, director of bands of North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington, will be guest conductor during part of the program. Wiley will direct during the remainder. The concert band consists of 80 members.

Mexico will spend nearly $6,000,000 on new and modern public markets.

Bids To Be Opened At Caddoa, Colo., This Morning On Air Base Construction

Three Groups To Present Bids

Bids will be opened in Caddoa, Colo., this morning for instruction of the advanced twin-engine aviation training school of the army air corps 10 miles west of Lubbock, information in Lubbock indicated Thursday.

Deadline for the submission of bids, according to reports here, is 11 a. m. Major James H. Stratton, chief district army engineer who has visited Lubbock on many occasions during recent weeks, is to officiate.

Four Groups Qualify

According to information here, a group of contractors will join in each bid, and four groups have qualified and have been invited to compete for the contract, which will involve approximately $4,600,000 worth of work.

Included in one group of the three expected to compete are Nathan Wohlfeld and Austin Bridge company, both of Dallas, and W. G. McMillan of Lubbock. Another is made up of C. S. Lambie and Page Construction company, both of Amarillo, and W. S. Moss of Lubbock. The third group includes R. F. Ball Construction company, Central Construction company and Uvalde Construction company, all of Houston.

Will Not Compete

A fourth group qualified and was invited to bid, but will not compete, according to reports here.

The indicated procedure, according to reports in Lubbock, will be to open the bids; telephone them to Washington, and the announcement of the award of the contract not later than Monday.

Within two weeks or thereabouts after the announcement of the award, contracts will be signed. From that date, the contractor will have 120 calendar days to complete the work, and will be liable to a penalty of $1,000 per day for each day beyond that time which may be required.

To Involve Everything

The work, it was explained, will involve everything in connection with the construction of the school—buildings, aviation runways, water, sewage and lighting systems, and even the setting out of approximately 110 acres of grass.

One of the stipulations of the contract intended to expedite the work, according to information here, will be the requirement that the successful contracting group must name one responsible representative who will be empowered to act in all matters.

It was explained also that the successful contracting group for the whole contract also will do the letting of such sub-contracts as they deem advisable.

The outlook for labor, according to information here, was described as being "very good in some respects, and not so good in others."

The explanation of that statement was that surveys indicate there will be an abundance of unskilled labor, probably an ample supply of such skilled labor as carpenters and the like, but "not so good" for such skilled labor as steam-fitters.

The successful contracting group will have two weeks or thereabouts between the time of the announcement of the award and the signing of contracts in which to assemble the labor and materials for the start of work.

Defense Bond Week Opens At Tech Today

Advance pledges of approximately $4,000 already had been made, it was announced Thursday afternoon as plans were being completed for defense bond week opening this morning at Texas Technological college.

Sale of defense savings stamps and bonds will open at 9 o'clock this morning at the number one cashier's window of the business office.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the week are F. L. McRee, T. C. Root, Mart G. Pederson, Cecil Horne, and Miss Josephine Looney.

Legislator Didn't Want O'Daniel News As Much As He Did That Phone Number; Halsey Asks To Serve On Christmas Tree Group

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP) — Rep. Fred V. Klingeman of Karnes City plainly was in a lather. He had lost something and wanted it returned. He hurried to the microphone and interrupted proceedings of the House.

"Mr. Speaker," he told Speaker Homer Leonard of McAllen, "I had a copy of the W. Lee O'Daniel News on my desk and it is gone. I would greatly appreciate its return."

He paused, then added:

"I don't care about the O'Daniel News. But it had a telephone number on it."

The cost of seersucker suits and the language which "country boys" can understand figured in House deliberations the other day.

Rep. Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo was presiding temporarily as speaker and Rep. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton took exception to "big words" which Hardeman used.

Phillips loudly objected:

"Get down to the level of us country boys."

Hardeman just grinned, but Rep. Mark (Hop) Halsey of Lubbock came to his defense.

"If Jimmy is going to be a country boy," Halsey snapped into the loudspeaking apparatus, "he ought to quit wearing those $90 suits."

"Whoever heard of seersucker costing $90?" roared Phillips.

For weeks the Senate and House had wrangled over when and how to terminate the session. The Senate wanted to adjourn sine die; the House, to recess and return for a brief stint of work in July.

Everybody quit predicting when the session would end. Plainly it was a sore, worn-out subject.

Rep. Halsey obtained the floor.

"Gentlemen," he addressed the House, "Rep. Skiles, Kersey and Halsey would like to serve on the Christmas tree committee if there is no objection."

Rep. Joe Skiles is from Denton and Clinton Kersey from Bridgeport.

Lieut. Gov. Stephenson may not have been sure as to the figures in the vote on passage of a local bill acted on by the Senate, but he knew the general result.

"There being plenty of ayes and no noes, the bill is finally passed," he rapped, ending that piece of business.

GIRL IS HEROINE

DALLAS, June 26. (AP)—Jeanette Williamson, 16-year-old Royse City High school student, was a heroine today. She smelled smoke in the apartment house where she was staying and rushed upstairs to find the walls of a room afire. With a wet broom she stamped out the flames, then carried a two-months-old baby out of the smoke-filled room.

Tom Connally Is To Be Advanced

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 26. — Senate speculation on the choice of a successor to the late Pat Harrison of Mississippi as president pro tempore centered today on Senators Walter F. George of Georgia and Tom Conally of Texas.

They were almost the only ones mentioned for the post. Senate officials said the selection might not be made for some time.

Meanwhile, Senator Glass (D-Va.) will continue as acting president pro tem. He was designated by Harrison while the latter was under treatment at Hot Spring, Ark. The Democratic steering committee may designate a new temporary presiding officer.

George, 63 years old and a Senator 18 years, must decide whether to retain his chairmanship of the foreign relations committee or succeed Harrison as finance committeeman. During the latters illness, he was acting chairman of the finance group.

Connally, also 63, came to the Senate from the House in 1929. If George turns down the finance chairmanship, Connally may get it even though he is outranked by three other Democrats.

Lamesa Business Men And Dawson Officials Honor Geo. M. Garrett In Luncheon Friday

By Staff Correspondent

LAMESA, June 26. — Lamesa business men and Dawson county officials who have worked with George M. Garrett, division engineer of the state highway department at Lubbock, for the past six years, gave him a dinner at noon today to show their appreciation of his cooperation with them in the building of 100 miles of paved highways in the county.

Sam Richardson presided as master of ceremonies, for the affair, held in the Williams hotel. Speakers were men who had been leaders of highway work in the county for the past decade or more.

"This business of highways means a lot to a country like this," Richardson said in introducing the speakers. "We appreciate what Mr. Garrett has done. We were so long getting our highways in this section of the state."

Garrett Started Paving

J. E. Barron, secretary of the National Farm Loan association and one of the leaders in the road work, gave a brief history of the county's efforts to get hard surfaced roads. The work started in 1933, he explained, when the late Guy R. Johnston was division engineer, but no paving had been done when Garrett succeeded Johnston.

Paved highways include five miles of farm-to-market road, with 95 miles of state highways, north and south across the county and east and west, as well as one to Stanton, in Martin county, a another to the southwestern part and No. 137 to Punkin Center and Welch.

Former Judge Talks

W. M. Yates, who served two terms as county judge, from 1937 to 1941, spoke briefly of his personal appreciation of Garrett's cooperation during the four years.

M. C. Lindsey, first county judge, spoke of the engineer as "our friend." The state can hire a road builder, or an engineer, but they cannot hire a friend," he added.

Carl Rountree, attorney and former state representative, said "we certainly regret to see this change, to see you transferred." He contrasted highway procedure and methods of 12 to 15 years ago and more, with the present system. "It is one of the finest organizations of its kind in the United States," he added in referring to the present department. "There is no politics now, when administrations change."

"I really and truly do appreciate all of the kind words you men have said here today," Garrett told the group of 45 men who attended the affair. He praised his co-workers in the district and said he could not have accomplished his purpose unless there had been cooperation from them.

The affair was planned by the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce with both the Lamesa Rotary club and the Lions club cooperating. It was the only public tribute given Garrett by a civic group in the area.

Garrett was accompanied by Jimmie Kerr, assistant division engineer. Kerr has been with the department here since July, 1929 and while in Lamesa he conferred with John D. Wilson, foreman.

Following the meeting those present wished Garrett success in his new location. They assured him of continued support of the new division chief.

Stanolind Oil And Gas Company Pays $1,100,000 For Acreage In Hockley

Deal Is Made By L. C. Harrison

Producing acreage in southeastern Hockley county has been bought in a $1,100,000 transaction, it was revealed in Lubbock Thursday.

Awoeb Oil company of Lubbock, owned by L. C. Harrison, and Bond Oil corporation of Dallas will receive that amount from Stanolind Oil and Gas company for approximately 700 acres, including 18 producing wells, in the Slaughter pool of southwestern Hockley county, it was revealed. Harrison offices in Lubbock National building.

One Third In Cash

The contract has been signed and one-third of the amount is being paid in cash and the remainder in notes to be paid over a period of five years, Harrison said. The deal is expected to be completed in the next few days.

Without doubt the largest lease deal ever made in this area, the transaction is one of several that the Stanolind Oil and Gas company has closed in recent months.

750-Barrel Allowable

The wells have a daily allowable of 750 barrels. The acreage being sold includes only the producing properties of Bond and Aweob in the heart of the Slaughter pool, which takes in part of southeastern Cochran county and northeastern Terry counties.

Included in the transaction are labors 51, 30, 46, and east half of 29, all league 39, Maverick county school land. Five wells are located on each of three labors, 51, 30 and 46, and three on the east half of 29.

Other Stanolind company deals include purchase of the discovery well and more than 3,000 acres in the Abell pool in northern Pecos county, purchase of acreage in southern Crane county and one-half interest in the M. J. Delaney properties in the North Cowden pool of Ector county.

Sen. Houston Dies

take the office.

Houston wa staken to Baltimore last Friday by Potter for a physical checkup. It was then learned that the stomach operation was necessary.

The secretary said he talked with the senator this morning shortly before the operation and that the octogenarian appeared in good spirits.

Arrangements for Houston's funeral will be made sometime tomorrow, Potter said. He left for Baltimore to confer with the senator's daughters.

Houston was born nine years before the death of his father, then 70 years old, who was a member of the Senate almost a century ago.

He arrived in the capital on May 30 and took his seat in the Senate on June 2.

He was accompanied on his trip to Washington by his daughters and a physician.

Little Known Recently

Houston had been little known in his native Texas in recent years, but in the latter part of the last century was prominent there.

Born in Independence, Tex., June 21, 1854, Houston was educated at Baylor college and was a graduate of West Point Military academy. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1876 and was clerk of the United States district court at Dallas from 1879 to 1889. He was appointed United States marshal by President Theodore Roosevelt and served from 1902 to 1910. He was candidate of the prohibition party for governor of Texas in 1910 and 1912.

One of the organizers of the Travis Rifles at Austin during the reconstruction period in 1874, he also formed a troop of cavalry for Roosevelt's Rough Riders during the Spanish American war.

The famous Texas pioneer and first president of the Lone Star Republic, Gen. Sam Houston, first came to Congress as a representative from Tennessee in 1823 and was later one of the first senators to represent Texas in the United States Senate.

On Floor Once

Houston appeared on the Senate floor only three or four times and attended only one committee session, a closed meeting of the post-office and post roads committee.

He introduced one bill—authorizing an appropriation of $250,000 to complete a Southwestern historical museum at the base of San Jacinto monument on the battle ground where his father led the Texas forces to victory over Gen. Santa Ana on April 21, 1836.

It was on the anniversary of that battle that Houston was appointed to the Senate.

Senatorial Race

greater influence.

"You may like some of the other candidates and you may want to show them you like them by voting for them. Don't do it, for they haven't a chance. Just buy them an ice-cream cone. It will do them more good."

At Austin, Mann issued a formal statement saying it was apparent to him after a 15,000-mile trip through 198 counties that the race has boiled down to him and O'Daniel. He has made similar assertions from the stump. Mann added:

"It must now be apparent to supporters of the other candidates that this is true, despite the fact that some of them have waged vigorous campaigns. In view of this fact, I ask supporters of these other candidates to join hands with the countless friends of mine . . . and vote for me if I more nearly typify those things you desire in your United States senator than does my opponent."

MAIDEN FLIGHT OF BIG BOMBER AGAIN DELAYED—The maiden flight of the army's huge bomber, the B-19, was postponed again June 25 when engineers discovered the brakes were not working properly. The $3,500,000 craft is shown above after undergoing preliminary tests on the runway at Clover Field, Santa Monica, Cal., before a previous delay in the test flight.

British Mission Sent To Russia

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 26. — Great Britain was reported tonight to have sent a military mission speeding to Moscow via the Middle East and at the same time was said to be planning to ask the Soviet union to pledge itself not to conclude a separate peace with Germany before the end of the war as Russia did once before—in the spring of 1918.

The military mission, understood to represent the army, navy and air force, was reported en route to sit in with the Soviet high command to discuss details of British help in beating Germany.

U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant has been conferring here with both British and Russian officials, presumably on the question of American aid for the Soviet union.

May Free Poles

Russia was known to want, for one thing, an even harder bombing of the German western front by British planes, an undertaking involving American aid indirectly since the flow of American planes here permits the British to take greater risk in their new mass attacks.

Meanwhile negotiations were said to be going on in London to free 300,000 Polish soldiers who are prisoners in Soviet union that they may fight against Germany. A high neutral source said that progress was being made toward carrying out this plan despite Russia's original objection. The move first was suggested by the Poles.

The prisoners number many officers, including generals, and skilled troops who have had training with modern war implements.

City Commission

Denver were listed in an itemized statement, one of which concerned a house-mover brought from Fort Worth.

Three Members Attend

"Why didn't they hire their house-mover in Lubbock?" one of the commission wanted to know. "We have plenty of them here."

Only three members of the commission were present at the meeting, and most of the business transacted at the relatively short session was routine.

Those attending were Mayor Carl E. Slaton and Commissioners W. B. Price and Garland Newsom.

Commissioner Hub Jones is spending a brief vacation trip visiting near Marlin. Commissioner W. G. McMillan was preparing for his departure for Caddo, Colo., where bids are to be opened this morning for the contract to build the advanced twin-engine aviation training school of the army air corps to be built 10 miles west of Lubbock.

Action Deferred

Action was deferred on an ordinance proposing to require licenses of share-expense travel bureaus. It has been passed on first reading. City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley said he would like to study the proposed ordinance more closely before it is passed on second and final reading.

Members of the commission rejected a proposal that parking in metered spaces at banks and in front of the social security office at 1309-A Texas avenue be limited to 15 minutes.

A loading zone at the east entrance to Lubbock hotel was designated.

Requests for approval of the plats of two proposed residential additions outside the city limits were submitted, but no action was taken on either until there is a proper dedication of streets and alleys.

One has been named "Murphy Place" and is owned by H. W. Stanton. It's boundaries are Nineteenth and Twenty-first streets on the north and south, and Fillmore and Pierce avenues on the east and west. The nearest boundary is approximately two blocks outside the city limits.

Stop Signs Ordered

The other addition, designated as Hillcrest addition, is bounded by extensions of Thirty-fourth and Fortieth streets on the north and south, and extends a distance of four double-length blocks east of the Slide road, which forms the west boundary.

City commission approval of such plats is a necessity under the recently adopted city zoning ordinance. It is described as assurance that additions will be harmonious as to general layout should the time ever come when they are considered for inclusion within the city limits.

The commission declined to order a traffic light installed at Sixteenth street and Avenue H, but ordered stop signs placed on Avenue O at Sixteenth street.

Three items were approved for inclusion in the new city budget which is now being prepared.

One of $560 is for the extension of sanitary sewer lines from Sixth to Fourth streets between Avenue E and F so as to serve 11 residences already in that area.

Airport Improvements

Both of the other items are for improvements to the Municipal airport. One of $1,015 was the amount of the bid of Lydick Roofing company for the contract to reroof the big hangar. The other item, of $551, is the amount of the bid of Jones Brothers for the contract to repaint airport buildings.

The commission took under advisement the application of M. W. Hunter, who moved here recently from Texarkana, for a franchise to operate a taxicab company here. Hunter said he negotiated for the purchase of the franchise of one of the four taxi companies now operating here, but the deal fell through when $4,000 was asked.

Members of the commission pointed out with some emphasis that such franchises cannot be transferred except with the specific approval of the commission, and that they may be canceled whenever the commission may choose.

Members of the official body were not pleased by the report that attempt had been made to set such value on one of the franchises as to indicate that support is being given to a monopoly. The officials made clear that no taxicab operator can give assurance of his ability to deliver his francise to any purchaser.

Color Fanciers Seek Black Canary To Join Blue, Bronze And Orange Birds Of Specie

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 26. (AP)—An election was held here recently but few of Bloomington's residents knew about it.

The election named officers of the American Color Breeders, Inc., and ballots were received from Argentina, Chile, Peru and all sections of the United States.

The American Color Breeders, Inc., is an association of persons who breed canaries for color rather than for song. Mrs. Helen Kneller, Bloomington, is permanent secretary of the organization.

After all the ballots were in Mrs. Kneller took them down to the city hall to be counted, tallied and certified by Judge Rolla Jones. No ballots were received this year from the association's members in Great Britain, France and Belgium.

Results of the poll showed Fred A. Wedemeyer, South Pasadena, Cal., elected president. Other officers were:

Virginia Miller, Sierra Madre, Cal., first vice president; William Ross, Chicago, second vice president; Edna L. Ferguson, Indianapolis, Ind., third vice president.

Sam Gooch, Peoria, and Mrs. G. W. Murphy, Tacoma, Wash., directors for one year; J. George Claffey, St. Paul, Minn., and Joe Gary Williams, Winter Haven, Fla., directors for two years.

Most of the thousand members of the organization make color canary breeding a hobby on a non-commercial basis, breeding birds of virtually every color of the rainbow.

Mrs. Kneller and her husband, George, have about 500 birds of every hue, including carmine, blue, orange (one of the most valuable), apricot, copper, bronze and citron, which they have developed by cross-breeding.

At present they are trying to breed a black canary by crossing an ordinary canary with a South American Black Siskin obtained at a cost of $400 from the Andes mountains.

Like the chinchilla rabbit, the Siskin is so delicate that it must be brought down from the high Andes altitudes gradually, being lowered 2,000 feet at a time and remaining 30 to 60 days at each level.

Thus it takes the Knellers a year to have an order for a Siskin filled. They now have four of the birds, the only ones in this country. Experiments for a red canary are already well advanced.

Development of a particular color in the birds is a long, slow process, the first generation of the cross-breeding usually showing a dominant tendency toward wildness. As the process continues, however, the true canary song is developed.

Johnson's Race Costs Highest

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—Campaign finance statements filed with the secretary of the United States Senate by candidates in the Texas election show that Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson had received contributions totaling $9,645, the greatest sum received by any of the four leading candidates.

Atty. Gen. Gerald Mann showed contributions had totaled $4,695; Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel swore contributions to his campaign had amounted to $3,224.65; and Rep. Martin Dies showed contributions aggregating $2,000.

Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel accounted for $2,329.55 of the funds received by the governor. On May 21 she contributed $629.50 to her husband's cause; one June 7, $604.05, and on June 14, $1,100.

Dies Gives Addresses

Mrs. Lady Bird Taylor Johnson, wife of Rep. Johnson, contributed $2,500 to her husband's cause. Among others contributing to the Johnson campaign fund were Miss Lucinda Rayburn, sister of Speaker Rayburn, who gave $50; Mrs. James V. Allred, wife of Federal Judge Allred, former Texas governor, $200; Clara Driscoll, Texas Democratic national committeewoman, $500; and E. S. Fentress, $2,500.

Mann's list of contributors showed a gift of $1,000 from T. C. Mars, and $1,000 from Guy L. Mann.

Largest contributions shown by Dies was $800 in radio time contributed by Dr. Webb Walker.

Only Dies showed local addresses of contributors.

used by the army and navy air forces.

Protest Strike

A strike of four men—members of the AFL Hoisting Engineers union — halted erection of the structural steel framework for the Curtiss-Wright Airplane company's new plant at St. Louis.

The construction company's superintendent said the four men walked out Monday after he rejected a request that he employ a master mechanic at $2.25 an hour and a helper at $1.50 an hour.

"They just sit around and watch the men work," he added.

A labor dispute which had hampered construction work on the new Curtiss-Wright plant at Columbus, Ohio, was settled. Union leaders ordered 156 AFL electricians back to work today after assurances from defense officials that grievances would be adjusted. The electricians struck June 19 protesting installation of telephone cables by members of the Telephone Workers union, an independent organization.

to handle details of national defense production along with other heavy responsibilities and urged coordination of all defense production under a single responsible head, similar to the war department's industrial mobilization plan.

"Aluminum presents a tragic case history of failure to coordinate," Brewster said. "Today Germany is producing around two billion pounds of aluminum a year while we are unable to produce one billion. The country needs aluminum. The country gets an alibi."

Shipments of products from the Philippines are greater than a year ago.

St. Paul Church Meeting Ends

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 26. (AP)—The ninth National Eucharistic congress ended today with thousands in the church center at the Minnesota fairgrounds humbly receiving from the personal representative of Pope Pius XII the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

A weather break that came an hour before the last spectacle of the four-day congress began—the two miles procession of the Blessed Sacrament—saved scores of thousands along the line of march from a heat wave such as exhausted many at Wednesday's pontificial mass for children.

Skies that clouded up in the late morning let loose a deluge of rain about 1 p. m. that knocked temperatures in the sun at the fairgrounds from about 100 down to 75 degrees. Thousands standing in open areas along the procession line were drenched.

March Despite Rain

Officials of the Roman Catholic church said 80,000 made the two-mile march from Como park to the Great Altar in the Baldachin at the fairgrounds despite the rain. Shortly after the procession started the rain tapered off, and then started again as the benediction began.

The procession, an honor guard for chief preliminary to the giving of the last benediction of the congress by the papal legate, his eminence, Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, opened with a picturesque tableau of the life of Christ from the prophesies of the Old and New Testament to the Crucifixion. Ancient folk of Jerusalem, the martyrs of early Christiandom, all in the varied colored dress of that far-away time, some carrying palm leaves symbolical of martydom composed the tableau.

The men and women in this unit of the procession had been caught in the heavy downpour, and their hair matted about their faces from the rain, and their clothing, streaked and soggy, added touchingly to the theme of sacrifice for Christ upon which the Congress was assembled.

Pope Pius Addresses Broadcast To U. S.

VATICAN CITY, June 26. (AP)—"Self-sacrifice" was urged by Pope Pius XII in a radio broadcast to the United States today to combat a "current on paganism" and "the natural enemy within" which he said were "breaking down the self-respect and decency" of the peoples.

The pontiff is to deliver a radio speech to the world Sunday in which, usually reliable sources said, he will define the Catholic church's position toward Soviet Russia "as a foe of religion and a factor in the war."

The pontiff deems the war situation now that it has extended to the seat of atheistic Communism so important, unofficial informants declared, that it requires a special message.

He spoke for 15 minutes in English today from his private library, addressing the closing session of the National Eucharistic congress at St. Paul, Minn.

Warning Sounded

Paganism, he said, is "sweeping over the peoples." The church has been "persecuted in some of its members," he added, and Christian culture is being "undermined."

Issuing his call for self-sacrifice, he declared it was "hard to say how far-reaching the suffering will be."

He said a "current of black paganism" was "carrying along in its onward rush newspapers, magazines and motion pictures" and that "only young men and women of self-sacrifice will escape the flood."

"You live in a country where the tradition of human freedom allows you to practice your faith without let or hindrance," he reminded. "Your natural enemy is within you—that natural drag of our fallen humanity to self-seeking and sin. Self-sacrifice must combat him."

uses—that is, new customers.

"But if we neglect our present customers we shall lose soce of them, and their loss may easily offset any gains derived from the sale of merchandise to new customers.

"Cotton is a raw material possessing a highly complex set of properties and as man learns more about these properties he is able to produce goods of increasing usefulness."

W. E. Morgan, economist of the Texas A. and M. college extension service, said that if further shrinkage of the United States cotton enterprise is to be avoided when the war ends, domestic consumption must be raised materially above the prewar level of 6½ million bales. This cannot be done until some way is found in peacetime to gear our economic system to fuller employment of labor and material resources. This will not be possible until there is drastic liquidation of internal, as well as external monopoly controls and restraints to trade.

Newspaperman Is On K-P Before Enlisting

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 26. (AP)—Ed Hopkins, markets editor for the Times-Union, hopes a little mixup in his selective service assignment isn't an omen of kitchen police duty to come.

The notice from his local board instructed him to report to the army duty at a downtown restaurant. A clerk made a transportation in the assignment order—it should have been the reverse. The restaurant is the assembly point for selectees leaving for Camp Blanding.

Absentee ballots were cast by 108 person in Lubbock county, a check of late Wednesday mail revealed. Boxes for seven of the county's 20 precincts had been called for at the county clerk's office Thursday afternoon. They were taken for Slaton's three precincts and those at Shallowater, Abernathy, Junior High school and Roosevelt.

Nazi-Russian War

one instance in the Ukraine—fertile wheat county which Adolf Hitler evidently wants—a Red army cavalry force "immediately attacked and exterminated all the parachutists at the moment of landing."

Holding Their Own

The Russians indicated they were holding their own on the Bucovina and Bessarabian fronts, hurling back German and Rumanian attempts to cross the Prut River and meting out punishment of their own.

A scouting force crossed the Prut, took 10 prisoners, captured material and returned safely.

The Red air fleet raids on Rumania left oil refineries in the Ploesti area ablaze, the communique said. It gave no details of the raid on Bucharest and Constanta.

At sea, the Russians reported the destruction of two German submarines by Russian air and naval action.

These, which were among the broadest claims to success yet made by Moscow, came at the end of a day during which it already had become obvious that the Germans had run up against serious trouble in their invasion.

This perhaps unexpected setback was suggested by Berlin itself in its failure to come through during the day with detailed news of those victories "baffling the imagination" which had been promised in advance.

May Be Temporary

Whether the apparently general success of the Soviet defense was anything more than temporary was of course wholly uncertain. But it seemed clear that the Red troops had survived without catastrophe the shock of five days of a mighty Nazi assault.

The German high command in its communique subordinated Russia to the older struggle at sea with the British.

Officially, nothing whatever was said in Berlin about the eastern land and air front except for a restrained paragraph reporting that "after decisions fell in our favor in numerous border battles, successes in operations of great dimensions are beginning to show themselves."

Military spokesmen spoke privately of deep advances by Nazi arms, but didn't say where they occurred.

From Moscow it was reported that the master plan of the Red army was to attempt to absorb the Nazi advance forces in the vast distances of the Soviet union and there to destroy them. This historic maneuver would be similar to what the French tried against the Nazis last spring, with the vastly important difference, however, of the sizes of the terrain involved.

Farm Income Is Hurt By Rains

cellent in some Central West Texas counties such as Coke where Agent H. E. Smith calls it the "best in history" to near total failures in Northeast Texas.

The corn crop is spotted. Some fields are doing well on uplands, say reports from Navarro county, but in other sections the crop was drowned out in lowlands. In Northeast Texas much corn is waterlogged and tassling out from a small stalk.

Cotton is in poor condition in much of the vast belt extending from the blacklands of the Northeast to the lower Rio Grande valley. Flea hoppers and boll weevils are prevalent with grasshoppers and lead worm infestation threatening. Many fields are choked by weeds and plants are rank. With price prospects good, however, farmers are hoping dry weather and intensive poisoning of insects will enable them to make up from cotton their losses from small grain failures.

Hale 50 Per Cent

Up in Hale county cotton is about 50 per cent normal, estimates County Agent C. B. Martin. On the South Plains a fair to good crop is considered possibley if killing frost does not come sooner than its usual time about Nov. 3. In Central West Texas around Abilene and San Angelo cotton could make a bumper crop with dry weather.

Cotton is described as in bad shape in Lamar county. The growth is rank and weevils appearing in Grayson. In Central Texas that which was not drowned out is up in good shape in McClennan county. Navarro County Agent H. G. Robinson reports cotton fruiting slowly due to heavy insect infestation.

In South Texas, County Agent Henry L. Alsmeyer of Nueces county reports difficulty in controlling insects because frequent showers wash off poisons.

Largest In Years

The crop in the lower Rio Grande valley is the latest in recent years, adding materially to the insect hazards. Success or failure of the crop hinges on the weather during the next two weeks.

Rains also hampered harvesting of tomatoes for canning. J. R. St. Clair of McAllen estimates the pack in that area will not exceed 400,000 cases as compared to 750,000 cases last year.

Poor condition of the small acreage of cotton in Webb county is reported but ranchlands are excellent in the Webb-Duval-Zapata county area.

Contracting of lambs and calves and renewed activity of the wool market features trading in the range country.

In the San Angelo area, lambs for fall delivery are bringing 8 to 9 cents a pound with calves at 10 1-2 cents for heifers and 11 1-2 cents for steers. Yearling muttons are worth 7 1-2 cents a pound with yearling ewes at $7.50 and $8 a hundred.

Wool Goes Up

After being dormant two weeks, the wool market livened Tuesday with the sale of a million pounds of 8 months at prices ranging up to 42 cents a pound in sales at Uvalde, Kerrville, Bandera, Fredericksburg, Del Rio and Blanco. At San Angelo and Brady 270,000 pounds of 12 months brought 40 to 44 cents with one choice lot of 25,000 pounds of Rambouillet wool at Brady for 45 1-2 cents a pound.

Ranchmen in Abilene area are holding their wool for 40 cents or more with few sales made recently.

On the Fort Worth livestock market, the demand continues active for stocker and feeder cattle with steer calves at $13 a hundred and heifers up to $11 on a market which continues to surprise cattle men with its strength. Mature steers weighing near 1,300 pounds are cashing above the $10 level: fat cows up to $8 a hundred, and good fat calves at $10.50 a hundred with some choice heifers at $11. Hogs have passed the $10 top with most butchers selling above the government's $9 peg.

U. S. Invites Russia To Apply For Aid

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—The United States informed the Russian ambassador today that it would give immediate attention to any request from the Soviets for aid against Germany.

Ty, Babe Renew Feud On Shorter Course Today

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 26.—They are going to give Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb a break when the two earnest but inept old baseball immortals renew their charity golfing feud tomorrow out at Fresh Meadow Country club.

Considering the care that is being taken, in fact, it would not be surprising to see both of them break into the seventies.

Al Ciuci, the club pro, had a force out with measuring tapes late today planting the flags in the exact center of the greens, so that two putts should suffice from almost any point, and he also had them dusting off the ladies' tees.

Down To 6,500 Yards

Ordinarily, Fresh Meadow is a very tough proposition, stretching nearly 7,000 yards from the championship tees and abounding in 450-yard, par-four holes — the meanest kind there are. But tomorrow Babe and Ty will struggle only about 6,500 yards on their spike-scarred dogs and should finish fresh and full of fight.

"After all," commented Ciuci, "this is a charity match."

In yesterday's opening engagement at Boston, Cobb was victorious, 3 and 2, the Bambino having putter trouble and both soaring into the eighties. If Ruth squares it up by winning tomorrow they will play the rubber match in Detroit.

Clovis, Lamesa Split Twin Bill

(Special To The Avalanche)

CLOVIS, June 26.—Clovis and Lamesa split a doubleheader here tonight, the Pioneers taking the first, 5 to 1, and dropping the nightcap, 11-12. Jim Rollins hurled three-hit ball in the opener to best Ernest Minyard, recently of Sudan and making his first start for Lamesa. Minyard allowed seven hits.

The second tilt was a scorekeeper's nightmare, with Skippers Sam Scaling and Grover Seitz using all available men in efforts to capture the see-sawing tilt.

Borger Gassers Humble Hubs 6 To 2 In Second Of Series

Garland Limits Hubs To 4 Hits

(Special To The Avalanche)

BORGER, June 26.—Bill Garland, strikeout artist of the Borger Gassers, pitched his tenth victory of the season here tonight as he fanned ten Lubbock Hubbers and allowed only four hits in helping Borger to a 6-2 triumph.

Four Hubber miscues helped the Gassers cause. Garland never allowed more than one hit an inning and up to the seventh had pitched one-hit ball, that one in the second which helped produce two runs. After Castino had grounded out, Don Haley got on via Gilchrist's error. Bartkowski walked, and Garland's wild pitch sent the runners to second and third, from where they scored on Bengston's single to centerfield.

The teams conclude the three-game series Friday night, after which the Hubbers move to Lamesa for three games, two of them on Sunday afternoon.

Peterson, Borger right fielder, with three hits, led the nine-hit attack against Steve Vrablik, who went the route on the Hubber mound. The Gassers took a lead in the first inning, lost it when Lubbock scored twice in the second, regained it with a four-run splurge in the fifth. They added another in the sixth.

Whelchel Allows Two Hits But Loses, 0-1

AMARILLO, June 25. (Special)—Long Charley Whelchel returned to the baseball pitching wars after a two-weeks layoff due to illness and threw 'em past the Amarillo Gold Sox batsmen so fast tonight that Amarillo got only two hits—but Amarillo won, 1 to 0.

The Gold Sox presented a new pitcher, DeCroo, and he pitched four-hit baseball against the league leaders to win his first start, a shutout.

Amarillo scored once in the first inning, and that was all the tally-making. Each side made one error.

Pampa Oilers Outlast Wichita Falls, 7-6

PAMPA, June 26 (Special) — Bob LaFevers survived two three-run blasts by the Wichita Falls Spudders tonight to gain a 7 to 6 victory for the Pampa Oilers.

The Spudders got only six hits off LaFevers, but combined them for three runs each in the second and eighth. Meanwhile the Oilers blasted Lefty Lucas from the mound, scoring one run in the second and two each in the fourth, fifth and seventh.

Federals And Tech Faculty Team Win

The Federals defeated the A. B. C., and the Texas Tech Faculty downed the Baptists in Business-Professional softball league game played Thursday.

Wilson of the Federals hit a home run as his team defeated the American Business Club team, 17-3.

Harmon of the Tech faculty pitched a shutout against the Baptists until the final inning when two hits brought in a lone run as the Faculty won, 6-1. Dell Morgan was the catcher for the winners. Barley and Haygood comprised the Baptist battery.

Johnny Adams, crack racing rider, gives his son, "Jockey," a bouncing piggy-back ride.

College Lads Are Future Golf Champs

—Gene Sarazen

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 26 (The Special News Service)—Just when it appeared that a good, tough four-year course in football or baseball, garnished with a smattering of English lit and art appreciation, promised the quickest financial returns for our college students, we are reminded that the fellow who majors in golf has a pretty fair chance of doing all right by himself also.

We have it on the authority of Gene Sarazen, the knickered kniblick knight, that our future golf champions will come from the college campuses.

Sarazen took in the qualifying rounds of the national intercollegiate tournament at Columbus, Ohio, because, he said, he didn't see any new swings in the Open at Fort Worth, and wanted to see what a swing with a college education looked like.

"I was never so surprised in my life," he declares. "Mark my words, some of our future Open champions are going to come from the colleges. The schools are going to replace the caddy ranks as the training ground of stars.

"To begin with, these boys have the opportunity to develop, an opportunity the caddies don't have today. They have good coaches, and many of the schools have their own private courses.

"Why, Ohio State has two courses, either of which is suitable for an Open tournament. They could accommodate 40,000 spectators easily.

"Then too, these young fellows are fine physical specimens. Many of them go out for track, baseball or football. They are well-rounded athletes, have fine coordination.

"I saw some boys there who are ready for the Open competition right now. Some of them can hit a ball farther than Sammy Snead or Jimmy Thomson. A football player from North Carolina named Paul Severin, who only has been playing golf a little while, is one of the longest hitters you ever saw.

"And there's Earl Stewart of Louisiana State, a long hitter and an all-around good player. Otto Greiner of Baltimore was another who impressed me."

As to advising the prospective student on whether to study golf, football or baseball, we would hesitate. It depends on whether he has golf hands, a baseball arm, or a football knee. The financial returns also must be taken into consideration, although Freddy Corcoran will argue that Sam Snead, never an Open champion, averaged as much money as Joe DiMaggio over the last four years.

Mrs. J. R. Farmer Moves Up In Tourney

WICHITA FALLS, June 26. (AP) Carried to the fartherest point yet in defense of the West Texas Women's golf title, Mrs. J. H. Ball of the Wichita Falls Country club today beat back the challenge of Mrs. W. R. Wissler in the second round to win, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Wissler, an unheralded entry from the Wichita Falls municipal golf club, was two down after the first three holes of match on the country club links, squared the match at No. 5 and was even at the turn. She lost the eleventh and was one down until Mrs. Ball ended the battle on No. 17.

Mrs. W. G. Carter of Fort Worth, victor over Mrs. Francis Awtrey of Odessa, 1-up on 19 holes, will meet Mrs. Ball in the semifinals tomorrow.

Mrs. F. C. Rochon of Fort Worth defeated Mrs. Jess Rogers, Amarillo, 4 and 3. Mrs. J. R. Farmer of Abilene provided the first upset in the meet when she defeated Mrs. G. I. Phillips of Big Spring, 1-up.

The United States produced only 3 per cent of the world's steel in 1865. Now it produces 37 per cent of the world total and is the leading steel nation.

Junior Loop Baseballers Make 'Debut' In Twin Bill At Hubber Field Tonight

Doubleheader tonight!

Baseball, the snappy, hustling kind of baseball played by Lubbock's junior leaguers, is in order at Hubber Field tonight beginning at 7 o'clock.

It's the public debut of the junior league, which went into action a couple of weeks ago and is furnishing good baseball every afternoon. Tonight, two of the leading teams in each of the leagues pair off to do battle for the first time under the lights.

The feature game matches the undefeated, high-flying Baker Company Cardinals with the fast improving Avalanche-Journal Dodgers. That contest is scheduled to get under way at 8:30 o'clock, following a twilight game between Bill Dean's Yankees and the Kuykendall Chevrolet Cubs, scheduled for 7 o'clock.

The Cardinals and the Dodgers are members of the National, or senior, league consisting of teams whose players are in the 14-17 age group. The other two teams are members of the younger league, top age limit 13.

Dodgers Choose Mackey

The Cardinals are undefeated in four games and are all alone at the top of the National league. The Dodgers have won two and lost two, and have improved with every game.

Manager Norris Strickland of the Cardinals indicated last night that he'd start John Houk. The Dodgers, who boast the league's best pitching staff in J. C. Mackey, Junior Nichols and Billie Wooten, probably will start with Mackey in the box. Mackey has won one and lost one game this season, allowing seven hits in the two games. His loss was a 3-2 defeat, with his brother, D. B. Mackey of the Sluggers, outdueling him.

Johnny Lumpkin, ace holder of the American league, is due to take the mound for the Yankees. Manager C. E. Thompson of the Cubs was undecided last night on his choice of a starting hurler.

American interests now control 40 per cent of the Netherland Indies' oil business.

Brooks Win To Tie Cardinals

(By The Associated Press)

BROOKLYN, June 26. — The Brooklyn Dodgers battered the Boston Braves 11 to 2 tonight, scoring seven runs in the third inning, and advanced into a tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National league.

DiMag Shoots For Sisler's Hitting Mark

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 26. (AP)—The last man to get excited about Joe DiMaggio's sensational hitting streak of 38 consecutive games was Joe himself, but he wants to reach the record of 41 now as much as anybody.

"As long as I've gone this far, I might as well try to keep it rolling," he said today.

The mark for which the New York Yankees' great hitting star is aiming is a string of hits in 41 consecutive contests set by George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns in 1922, the same year that Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals set the National league record of 33 games.

Today DiMaggio had another narrow escape as he failed to hit in his first three times at bat against submarine baller Eldon Auker of the Browns.

In the eighth, the stoic Italian strode to the plate and drove the first pitch on a line into left field for a double scoring Rolfe.

WETSEL HIRED

DALLAS, June, 27. (AP)—J. C. Wetsel of Dallas, guard on Southern Methodist Rose Bowl team of 1936, has been signed as freshman football line coach, Athletic Director James H. Stewart said today.

Bunting a ball before it reaches the plate, reduces the chance of fouling it off because it gives the batter a wider angle in which to "lay the ball down."

DiMaggio And Yankees Continue Hitting Streaks To Subdue Browns, 4 To 1

Russo Gives One Hit For Sixth Win

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 26.—Lefty Marius Russo pitched a one-hit game today and the New York Yankees continued their prized hitting streaks as they bashed the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1.

Russo mowed down the Brownies without a hit for six innings before losing his bid for baseball's pitching honor roll on George McQuinn's arching home run into the right field stands with one out in the seventh inning.

The 26-year-old southpaw faced only 28 men, one over the minimum, and let no one except McQuinn get past first base.

He issued two walks, one in the second and another in the third inning, and each time double plays erased the runners. Except for the homer, the Browns could get only seven balls out of the Yankee infield.

It was Russo's sixth victory against five defeats.

Elden Auker limited the Yankee sharpshooters to six hits, but never had a chance to win.

Tom Henrich led off with his 13th homer in the sixth inning to extend the Yankees' record streak to 35 four-baggers in 21 consecutive games. In the eighth Joe DiMaggio slashed a double into left field for a run and made this the 38th straight game in which he has hit safely.

Red Sox Chase Feller But Tribe Wins, 11-8

BOSTON, June 26. (AP) — Bob Feller was knocked out of the box today, but his mates had piled up enough of a lead to give the Cleveland Indians an 11 to 8 victory over the Boston Red Sox and keep them apace of the New York Yankees, the new American league leaders. Feller, credited with his 16th victory of the season, was relieved in the eighth inning by Clint Brown with the score 10 to 8.

"Habitual Drunk" Charge Is Filed

A. E. Siniard, 42, was charged as an "habitual drunk" on a complaint filed Thursday in county court.

About the same time, an attorney for Siniard was filing an appeal from a corporation court fine of $100 against Siniard for drunkenness.

Complaint, signed by B. P. Millsap, city recorder, before County Attorney Ralph Brock, alleged the defendant had been convicted twice before his last arrest.

A 22-year-old Lubbock man, whose fine had been deferred by Judge G. V. Pardue, had not appeared to make payment Thursday night. Commitment was issued Thursday.

L. P. McKinley, jr., filed appeal from a $10 fine assessed in city court for violation of the city plumbing ordinance.

RALLYING SHOWS UP

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Stocks generally exhibited further rallying tendencies in today's market without working up a great deal of enthusiasm.

The list, hesitant at the start, began to pick up plus signs later and, at the close, fractional advances predominated, with a few wider swings in evidence. At the same time, many issues finished under water and a wide assortment was unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks as up .1 bf a point at 41.8, duplicating yesterday's advance. Dealings expanded in the first and final hours, with transfers totalling 833,390 shares against 425,730 the day before.

Savage Arms and Reading Railway Common, among stocks, entered new high territory for the year. Others in front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Glenn Martin, Sperry, N. Y. Shipbuilding, American Locomotive, Anaconda, Kennecott, Western Union, Dow Chemical, du Pont and Newport News Shipbuilding.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP) — Cotton futures today came within striking distance of recently established 11-year highs under a new wave of buying inspired by Washington "cotton news."

Closing prices were at the top with gains running from 21 to 23 points.

In its buying operations the trade seemed to regard as significant reported opposition in the Senate agricultural committee to cotton textile price buying. Also attracting attention was a report that the congressional farm bloc was urging the government to buy all 1940 cotton left unsold at the end of July at full market prices.

Worth Street business was at small levels and prices were unchanged on most basic cloths.

Exports Thursday nil; season so far 1,013,387. Port receipts 7,311. Port stocks 3,315,272.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, June 26 (AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton at 10 designated Southern spot markets today was 23 points higher at 14.84 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days was 12.43. Middling 7/8ths-inch average was 14.32 cents a pound.

Grain . .

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—Selling evaporated at times in the wheat pit today, permitting moderate buying of mills, commercial and speculative interests to lift prices as much as 2⅜ cents to new highs for the past 13 months.

Buying was based partly on the small portion of new wheat which is being offered for sale, as reflected in meager hedging sales, and was stimulated also by showery weather in parts of the harvest area, strength of soybeans, lard and hogs and Russian claims of success in certain military operations. Reports that downstate mills were overbidding Chicago, offers for the small amount of "free" wheat up for sale also attracted attention.

July and September futures touched highs of $1.05 and $1.06¾ but, due to profit taking, the market closed fractionally below best levels. Final prices were 1⅝ to 2 cents higher than yesterday, July $1.04⅝, September $1.06⅛@1.06⅜.

Corn closed unchanged to ¼ up, July 73⅞, September 76⅝; oats ⅛ to ¼ higher; soybeans 3 to 4 higher; rye ⅝ to 1⅞ up and lard 17 to 30 higher.

Billy Brown Shooting For Final Honors

PHILADELPHIA, June 26. (AP)—Headed toward an army career, Billy Brown, the bayou one-man gang of track, hopes to make his farewell to spiked shoe activities in the National A.A.U. championships Saturday and Sunday a good one.

The Louisianan, defending champion in the broad jump and hop, skip and jump, and a standout since he won an Olympic team berth at the age of 17, anticipates that this week-end will wind up his sports career. Only 22 now, he has received his selective service questionnaire and expects an early call for army training.

All signs indicate his final try will be just as good as he hopes it will. Favored to retain both of his titles, he also ranks among the favorites in the 100 and 200 meter dashes and is the leading candidate for individual scoring honors.

Last week, as Louisiana State university's lone scorer, Brown tallied 24 points in the outstanding individual performance of the national collegiate championships. He can count on points from an extra event this week-end, since the hop, skip and jump was not contested in the N. C. A. A. meet.

Brown's leading rival for sprint honors, defending champion Harold Davis of the San Francisco Olympic club, joined him in workouts on the Franklin field track today.

Most of the field of 200 entries is expected here tomorrow.

Authorities See German Victory

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 26—Some highly placed authorities expressed the opinion today that Germany is virtually sure to triumph in her invasion of Russia.

Despite conflicting claims from abroad, the view was expressed that the Russians are almost certain to be overwhelmed within three months. As for the immediate prospect, the Red army's chances of escaping quick disaster were believed to hinge on the validity of Berlin's claims that the Russian air force already has been dealt crippling blows.

If the Red army has been deprived of aerial eyes, its prospects of being able to withdraw to escape envelopment were rated as slight.

May Take Siberia

The situation prompted official quarters to express official concern over the possibility that either Germany or Japan would ultimately win control of northern Siberia, almost within sight of Alaska.

This concern was of a long-range nature, because for the time being the two semi-autonomous Far Eastern armies of Russia are considered too formidable for an attack by Japan. These forces were reported to include the equivalent of 52 divisions, as compared to 11 Japanese divisions in Manchuria.

The invasion was regarded as a victory by the German army over Nazi party leaders, who were believed to favor an all-out attempt to conquer England. The flight of Rudolf Hess to England was interpreted in this light.

Germany was reported to have ordered 30,080 parachutes to be made in France by Aug. 1 but there was no hint whether this meant that an attempt at invading England was planned this year.

Jap Policy Is Being Studied

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, June 26—The Japanese cabinet, seeking to determine this country's policy in view of the German-Russian war, will be urged tomorrow by a powerful group of retired military leaders and politicians to take a strong nationalistic stand in the Pacific area.

Details of these proposed recommendations were not disclosed, but it was said they "could not be considered as antagonistic to any given nation."

The delegation will be headed by Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, former home minister who on June 16 declared that if the United States entered the war Japan would have to participate.

Meetings Continue

The cabinet of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye continued its series of extraordinary meetings today but there was no indication as to whether Japan would make a choice between the Reich and the Soviet or remain neutral. She has an alliance with Germany, a neutrality pact with Russia.

The Japanese press continued to express anxiety over the prospect of U. S. aid to Russia and other American moves in the Pacific, and the newspaper Yomiuri prominently displayed a Hongking dispatch (unconfirmed from any other source) of an alleged meeting of Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador to China, and 15 prominent Chinese in which the ambassador was said to have announced conclusion of an alliance among Britain, China and the United States.

Soldier Guilty Of Killing Hospital Chef

BRIGHTON, Colo., June 26. (AP)—Daniel M. Short, 21-year-old soldier, pleaded guilty today to second degree murder charges in the slaying of a veterans hospital chef and was sentenced to serve 30 years to life at the Colorado pententiary.

Short was accused of strangling Dewitt C. Chandler, 53, last New Year's eve and robbing him of $100. Chandler's body was found four days later in his automobile, parked on a Denver street.

Short's attorneys suddenly announced his decision to plead guilty to second degree murder yesterday afternoon just before he was to go on trial on a first degree murder information.

Daniel M. Short, sr., oil man of Falls City, Neb., formerly of San Angelo, Tex., the soldier's father, said his son never had been in trouble before.

Army Specialist Has Only To Twist Siren

WITH THE ARMY IN TENNESSEE, June 26. (AP)—Private David Farjeon is what is known as a specialist.

He goes everywhere with the second armored division band but does his stuff in only one selection—he twists the siren, to simulate the wail of tanks, when the band strikes up the division's march.

Mexico is producing many movies

Mrs. Eloise Snyder Gives Concert At Tech Last Night

A program Mrs. Eloise Snyder, Fort Worth coloratora soprano, sang Thursday night on Texas Technological college's summer artist series would have crushed a soprano four times her size, an audience decided.

Mrs. Snyder has learned much since a Lubbock audience heard her last summer, critics agreed.

It was a beautifully chosen program, one which could have been sung in Town hall. Perhaps with the exception of the Rossini ar[illegible]—a baptism of fire for every coloratura—the program had the freshness and variety necessary for a first-rate artist.

The audience responded to Mrs. Snyder's grace and charm.

Articulation Praised

The most critical were struck with the perfection of intonation throughout her program. Her pure legato singing was a joy in "To Be Near Thee" (Rosa).

Her deft articulation in Gianinni's "Ohie Menche" was breathtaking and the style with which she sang DeBussy's "Mandolin" made this one of the highlights of the program. Her instinctively fine phrasing gave character to every number.

The closing group was especially interesting because the audience knew that Mrs. Snyder had been coached by the composer, Frank LaForge. At the end of the program of 20 numbers and a half dozen encores, the artist's voice showed no signs of fatigue.

Mrs. George Conner, who accompanied the singer, shared the audience attention in a presentation of Rachmaninoff's "Floods of Spring."

Floridan, 104, Ready For Civilian Defense

MILTON, Fla., June 26. (AP) — Susan Kelker, negro, listed her age at 104 when she registered for civilian defense.

She said she could take care of children, cook, sew, knit and do any kind of household work.

Pilot, Undersheriff Crash In Bandit Hunt

BROADUS, Mont., June 26. (AP)—Clem Spencer, about 36, Billings pilot, and Undersheriff Ed O'Donnell, about 50, also of Billings, were killed in the crash of an airplane this afternoon while hunting two armed bandits in this southeastern Montana region.

The plane piloted by Spencer was one of several that had been scouting over the Broadus area all day aiding a posse of 150 heavily-armed peace officers led by Sheriff Claude Anderson in a search for two men wanted in connection with a series of filling station robberies and car thefts from Iowa to Washington.

Randolph Officer And Private Die In Crash

SAN ANTONIO, June 26. (AP)—A Randolph field officer and his passenger were killed last night while on weather patrol duty.

Second Lieut. John W. Crews, 22, the pilot, and Pvt. Dennis A. Eckelberg, 18, a mechanic, were killed in the crash five miles north of the city.

Lieut. Crews graduated from Kelly field last April. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Crews, sr., of Columbia, S. C.

Private Eckelberg was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Eckelzerg of Bellville, Tex.

The wrecked basic training plane was found at daybreak today by Maj. John D. Gleckler of Randolph field.

British Styles Chic As Ever

LONDON, June 26. (U.P.) — The blitz has brought changes to the world of feminine fashions just as it has to every other phase of life in Britain today.

Even with the war raging around them, however, British women are still taking as much trouble over their appearance as they have ever done. Fashions have changed to meet changed conditions.

Two kinds of clothes are not bought as they once were. They are the afternoon dress in which a woman formerly played bridge and the grand evening dresses, exceedingly decollete. Bridge is played in the evenings as the days are occupied with war work, and women wear dinner gowns. The afternoon dress has disappeared.

The famous tailoring houses of London are busy making the more elegant little suits. They are crowded and have a list of appointments for fittings that begins in the early morning and lasts until the house closes.

Men's Material Copied

The material of the suits has veered from the tweeds that women have always bought in England to fine versions of men's suiting, exactly the same as the wool merchants supply to Savile Row for men's suits but in half their weight and as well in feminine colorings. What colors? Gray, to lead with, often combined with a fine overchecking of brilliant red, green and yellow.

The line of the suits? They are for the most part single-breasted with a rather longer opening and are closely fitted at the waist in accentuated curves. Emphasized pockets help in that accentuation of the feminine, small waist and the rounded hipline. Skirts are slim, fullness lying rather to the front. Pockets are slits for the fingers, no more. Both jackets and skirts feature yokes, which are put in with much fine, intricate seaming and detail.

The tailors, when they make suits in brilliant colors, whether the parrot blends of the sheer tweeds or the monotones of fine suitings, usually add a topcoat so that when a woman has to go into blitzed areas in the course of her war work, she may not feel conspicuous. These coats are swinging models.

Wide Sleeved Blouses

Because suits play such a big part in the Englishwoman's life, whether for town or country, she always has a big wardrobe of blouses. Typical of the models of today are those with close fitting necklines, tiny turnover collars, pleated fronts and backs, and really wide sleeves, full from the shoulders and held in by minute cuffbands. These are in cottons, (striped as a rule) in which case the collars and cuffs probably will be stiffened.

The hats, which are worn with these elegantly cut suits have changed this year. They incorporate fabric in the making. A woman in a gray suit with a lime yellow tie-silk blouse may be expected to wear a hat which is of gray fine felt and tie-silk mixed. If she is in a violet suit with a pink and mauve striped cotton shirt (and cotton is considered smart by Molyneux and the other great dress makers), then she may be wearing a little homburg hat underlined with the violet but with the whole top made of the striped cotton shirting. Even the quills which adorn them often are shirting quills instead of bird ones.

Delay Is Anticipated In Grocery Deliveries

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind., June 26 (U.P.)—Impatient housewives who fret over a slight delay in the delivery of a grocery order can console themselves with this tale.

It is expected that it will take up to four months for Mrs. M. Suurpaa of Helsinki, Finland, to receive the groceries ordered for her by her son. The order was placed in the Fiji Islands, filled in Columbia City, and will be delivered to Helsinki.

Mrs. Suurpaa's son, a gold mine foreman in Fiji, answered a plea from her by placing an order with his mine superintendent. Roy Reed, whose parents live in Columbia City. So Reed wrote to his parents, enclosing a $10 draft and suggesting that the length of the delivery would make tinned goods the safest item. Into the 16-pound package will go, as most necessary, two pounds of coffee, four pounds of sugar, a package of tea, and dried fruits.

The shipment will require $2.44 postage, and just in case this order is sunk, another just like it will follow in one month.

Fires sometimes are started by glass bottles in store windows. The glass acts as a light-gathering lens under the sun's rays.

THINK—When You Buy A—USED CAR
Consider the Following Points When You Buy!
1. The name and address of the former owner and how did he treat the car?
2. Is the title clear; no possibility of old mortgages or mechanic liens?
KUYKENDALL
3. Is the dealer well established, and a competent judge of price and condition?
4. Does the dealer consider me a one-time sale or a long-time customer?
5. Do you know your Dealer? Is he fair, honest, an asset to the community or is he a "Fly-by-nighter?"
6. Local cars are easy to check. Just ask the name of the former owner and then check with them.

Texas Legislators Trek Home To Vote Saturday

Houses Recess Until Monday

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 26. — Election fever coursed through the legislature today as House and Senate worked briefly and then adjourned until Monday.

A homeward trek to vote in Saturday's special United States senatorial election was the program of most members on this the 164th day of the general session, a new longevity record.

Unsettled as the legislators dispersed was the question of final adjournment. The Senate killed a House recess-adjournment resolution and sent the House a July 3 sine die resolution.

Heeding a suggestion of Speaker Homer Leonard, the House decided against further consideration of adjournment plans until after the election.

Over Next Week?

The consensus was that the session would end late next week, after members reviewed Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's vetoes of major appropriation items, if any. He has through July 2 to review the big money bills.

Before adjourning for the weekend the Senate by a paper-thin margin overrode the governor's veto of a bill remitting to counties $4,500,000 annually in state property taxes.

The vote was 18 to 7. A two-thirds vote was necessary.

The Senate passed, with amendments, House legislation conforming public welfare law to federal social security regulations without which, sponsors said, Texas would be deprived of federal matching funds for old age assistance payments in the quarter beginning July 1.

Enactment Urged

The legislation sets up a merit system for public welfare department employes and requires that all resources be considered in determining the eligibility of an assistance applicant.

Gov. O'Daniel repeatedly had urged enactment of the legislation.

Other highlights of the legislative day:

Senate—Sent to the governor a House bill validating laws creating housing authorities and obligations assumed by them.

House—dispensed with resolution period and again blocked consideration of resolution by Rep. Herbert J. Brawner of Joshua asking governor to appear before House and substantiate certain of his campaign statements involving the legislature or to public retract them. Asked publicly welfare department to mail aged assistance checks to recipients on the first of each month instead of at mid month.

Garza Will Vote On Bonds For Building

POST, June 26. (Special) — Garza county voters will decide whether $15,000 in bonds for construction of an office building annex to the county courthouse is to be issued.

It is proposed to use NYA labor in construction. The bonds would be for 20 years, with interest at 3.5 per cent.

Seventy-six taxpayers of the county signed the petition which was presented to the court. In it the fact that the present building is overcrowded and that more space is needed, was cited. The proposed building would be erected on the southwest corner of the present courthouse square.

Pat O'Daniel Ordered To Report For Army

AUSTIN, June 26 (U.P.) — Pat O'Daniel, son of Gov. and Mrs. W. Lee O'Daniel, has been instructed to report to the San Antonio reception center on July 10 for induction into the army under the selective service act, friends said here today.

The 22-year-old University of Texas student already has passed the army physical examination. He will continue aiding in his father's campaign for the U. S. Senate this week, after which he will return to Austin. The other O'Daniel son, Mike, will register for military service on July 1. He has become 21 since the first registration day on Oct. 16, 1940.

HEATED TO ORDER

On St. Helen's Island, in the St. Lawrence river at Montreal, picnickers secure boiling hot water for their tea gratis from scattered park kitchens.

Whiteface Plans Two Roping Exhibitions

WHITEFACE, June 26 — Business men of Whiteface have made plans for two Sunday afternoon roping events. The first entertainment will be Sunday afternoon and the second on the following Sunday, July 6.

Roping clubs from Levelland and Clovis, will contest, each club furnishing four of their best men. Twenty-five head of Brahma calves from South Texas ranches will be used for the two events. In addition to the regular events, there will be side roping and jackpot contests, according to Robert York, a member of the committee.

As An Expert Sees It—

Behind War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Morning Avalanche Special News Service

The most baffling thing about the Russo-German war news is the Nazi's failure to come through with promised announcements of successes that would "baffle the imagination."

It indicates that Nazi legions lunging against Russian defenses have struck unexpected snags somewhere. The fact that German spokesmen have confined themselves to glittering generalities lends some credibility to Moscow reports that Nazis armored spearheads which broke through at vital points have been cut off before their supporting infantry could follow through. At any rate it seems clear that the Nazi timetable has been thrown off schedule, although how seriously is yet to be disclosed.

Stress Follow-Up

If there was an instance in Poland, Norway, Flanders, France or the Balkans where a German panzer break-through was not promptly and effectively followed up by Nazi infantry, it was never publicly disclosed.

Infantry follow-up was the prime element of German panzer technique in those battles that swiftly shattered enemy resistance on wide fronts. German army publications have been full of professional expositions of the true nature of panzer warfare as developed by the Nazis.

Invariably the German military socialists analyzing previous victories have stressed the infantry follow-up as the vital factor. Tank attack, supported or preceded by dive bombers, they contended, merely paved the way.

Led To Dunkerque

What really counted, they said, was staff success in rushing motorized infantry into the gap, unexhausted by marching, to fall upon a dazed and disorganized enemy before he could recover.

Such tactics turned what otherwise would have been merely local successes into stepping stones for vast flanking operations and permitted assaults from the rear on enemy front positions.

That is what happened in "the Battle of the Bulge" in France when the Germans crossed the Meuse. It happened again in Flanders when a panzer break-through infantry supported, reached the channel coast, far in the rear of British-French-Belgian front lines in Belgium. That was what led to the Dunkerque evacuation.

May Turn Back

The same thing happened in southeastern Greece.

Invariably the Nazi technique has followed the same pattern with tanks and dive bombers as the cutting edge but with fast-rolling infantry exploiting enemy confusion. The point in recalling all that is its relation to what may have happened on the most critical Russo-German fighting fronts in the Pripet marshes areas. If Moscow war bulletins are credible, the Red army has achieved something that no other German foe of this war has done.

Russian reports omit reference to the fate of cut-off Nazi tank units. Lacking infantry support and fuel or ammunition beyond their self-contained supply, they must soon turn back to fight their way again into German lines. Otherwise they would be immobilized and destroyed.

Ira Wilson Is Buried After Rites Thursday

Body of Ira Wilson, 60, of San Antonio, was buried in Lubbock cementery after funeral services at First Methodist church Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Wilson died at noon Wednesday in a San Antonio hospital, where he was undergoing treatment for asthma.

Rev. H. I. Robinson, pastor, officiated, assisted by G. C. Brewer, minister of the Broadway Church of Christ.

Active pallbearers were W. J. Spikes, W. T. Gaston, Charles Adams, George W. Brewer, Ance M. English and C. E. Maedgen.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. M. C. Overton, H. W. Stanton, Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, J. A. Hodges, B. F. Hodges, A. W. Jackson and O. V. Bagwell of Lubbock, E. N. Banker and Dr. Tom Goodson of San Antonio and C. R. Schlapp of Covington, Ky.

Mr. Wilson lived in Lubbock 20 years and was owner and founder of an abstract company here.

Homing Pigeon Comes Back Home Via Motor

DENVER, June 26. (U.P.)—Pete, a homing pigeon that went astray, arrived home today—by automobile.

Pete was released last week in Gillette, Wyo., for a 300-mile race to Denver. But Pete wound up in Scotts Bluff, Nebr., a 125-mile miss.

His identification established, Pete was released at Scotts Bluff to fly on home. Pete flew all day and landed at nightfall—at Scotts Bluff.

Mel Gray, at whose home Pete made his Scotts Bluff headquarters, shipped Pete home in the care of an obliging motorist.

Seagraves Infant Is Buried Thursday

SEAGRAVES, June 26. (Special) The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Patton of Denver City died at Davidson hospital at Seagraves Wednesday afternoon, eight hours after birth, hospital authorities said today.

The baby was born at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, weighing 2 pounds 3 ounces. Patton is mayor of Denver City and operates a funeral home and lumber yard there.

Mrs. Patton was resting satisfactorily, hospital authorities said.

Larger than the states of Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island, combined, is Coconino county, Arizona.

Only Small Percentage Of Draftees Infected

WASHINGTON, June 26. (U.P.) — The Public Health service today estimated on the basis of physical examinations of selectees and army volunteers that approximately 2 per cent of the nation's population has syphilis.

The service said 1,000,000 military men were examined and 48,000 were shown to be infected. An additional 15,000 had gonorrhea.

"Vote To Promote"
MARTIN DIES
TO THE U. S. SENATE

WHY SHOULD HE BE PROMOTED TO THE U. S. SENATE?

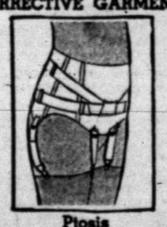

Because he is best qualified by long and active service in Congress and on major committees. A Senator must understand parliamentary procedure, departmental work, and the whole complicated machinery of modern government if he renders the best service to his state and nation. This is important in normal times; it is more important in the critical conditions which now exist. A senator lacking sufficient previous congressional experience will be seriously handicapped.

Keep America for Americans of every race and creed.

United States Army To Scan Glider Contests At Elmira, New York, Saturday

Axis Aliens Are Not Included

By HERBERT K. LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 26. —The 12th annual gliding and soaring contests will begin on Harris Hill near here June 28 with representatives of Germany—whose motorless aviation experts were principally responsible for establishing this center of the sport—virtually barred from participating.

The Chemung county board of supervisors, which has jurisdiction over the Harris Hill area, recently banned use of any of the soaring facilities to aliens "of Axis inclinations" unless they have written approval of the War department or Federal Bureau of Investigation. The ban was enacted to safeguard secrecy of any developments in soaring science which may be demonstrated before government officials here.

It was an expert from Germany, Dr. Wolfgang Klemperer, whose investigations brought attention to Harris Hill as a "perfect" starting point for motorless flights. During the first soaring meets here, Germans and German-trained pilots predominated entry lists.

Peter Riedel Not Entered

One of the most outstanding contestants in recent years has been Peter Riedel, attached to the German Embassy at Washington. Riedel, however, has announced that he will not seek permission to compete this year because, he says, "it's a national meet, not international."

The new military importance of the soaring art, as perfected by Germany and recently demonstrated by the Nazi in the Crete conquest, has quickened military interest in what once was regarded as merely sport. The War Department has assigned six officers to observe the forthcoming contests to determine the valde of soaring planes in training power-plane pilots as well as an arm of defense.

Major awards awaiting winning pilots this year will be the $1,500 Edward S. Evans silver trophy carrying with it the title of "national soaring champion," and the Warren E. Eston Memorial trophy, of equal value, to be awarded for the most outstanding contribution to the art, sport or science of motorless flight. The Evans trophy is the gift of Edward S. Evans of Detroit, who was instrumental in introducing soaring in the United States after the World War.

Awards On Point Basis

Events in which point will be awarded to determine championships and awards at the conclusion of the two weeks, of competition include altitude, distance and duration flights, and flights to preannounced destinations.

Officials for the contest will be Prof. R. E. Franklin, University of Michigan, head timer; Gustav Schuerer of Maplewood, N. J., John Novak of Detroit, George Law of Nutley, N. J., and Elliott Hood, Elmira, assistant timers; Prof. C. W. Terry, Cornell University, barograph department chief, and Bernard L. Wiggin, New York, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorological expert.

Robert J. Lancraft, Elmira Soaring Corporation manager in charge of the contest, reports that advance entries indicate that this year's meet will attract as many participants as in the past despite the alien ban, selective service and increased employment.

Among early entrants were the University of Michigan Gliding Club; Frank Shelhorn and Herman Kursawe, Long Island City; Ypsilanti, Mich., Glider Club; Theodore Bellack, Chelsea, Mich.; Alvin D. Yates, Brooklyn; P. Fellows, Jr., Newark, N. J.; Parker Leonard, Osterville, Mass.; McGill University Flying Club of Canada, and the Buffalo, N. Y., Glider Club.

Ranch Horse Show Is Scheduled On Sunday

SNYDER, June 26. (Special))—At least 3,000 persons are expected to attend Snyder's Third annual invitation horse show at the Diamond M ranch in Scurry county.

C. T. McLaughlin, West Texas oil drilling contractor, owner of the ranch and exhibitor of gaited horses, annually plays host for the show. His ranch, a show place, has a special exhibit ring.

Some 60 horses are expected to compete in ten classes during the afternoon, the show being scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. Entries already have been received, McLaughlin said, from the Joe D. Hughes stables of Houston, Pickens Burton of Dallas, Rockwood and Beasley stables of Fort Worth, Frontier stables of Colorado City, and from exhibitors of Lubbock, Plainview, Amarillo and Midland.

Cash awards will total $400, and there will be ribbons to winners in all classes. The Diamond M horses will not compete.

Special music will be furnished by the Colorado City Cowboy band.

Berlin Hostesses Collect Ration Tickets For Meat Served To Dinner Guests

By JEAN GRAFFIS
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, June 26—Things you see and hear in the German capital these war-days:

Hostessing these days in Berlin is tough. Not only do all the little things have to be painstakingly correct, but the food tickets have to be asked for. The guest should bring his own wine, but, really, it's too much to expect him to lug along his own pork chop or veal cutlet.

The hostess nicely provides all the meat, and you are asked only for the equivalent meat tickets. Some shy hostesses don't like to ask guests for meat tickets at first, but after a time or two necessity becomes the master of convention.

Sharing rations is a popular means of sharing the burdens that go with any war. A family which doesn't use coffee will trade for meat from a vegetarian neighbor. Marmalade is a different question because it is almost universally favored. Last week it came to an impasse in one apartment where previously the marmalade had been pooled, but hadn't been lasting the month out. Finally it was decided that with the new food cards, each of the roomers would buy and be restricted to his own jar of jam.

Some American moralists probably are wondering whether a blackout doesn't have the same romantic effect as turning down the parlor light. The answer is no. For one thing, the ears are the eyes of the blackout, and after a bit of self-defensive practice, you can pretty well judge what's going on within a stone's throw.

Nevertheless, many a trolley cascading sparks from a support-wire lights up farewell kisses and embraces of varying degrees, so softly tendered you wouldn't have thought it possible, right at your elbow.

In most restaurants and bars radio loudspeakers adorn the wall. They are silent, in most cases, until time for the army communiques. Then they blare into action and guests remain properly attentive until the announcement is ended. Some main-drag stores have loudspeakers fixed in the entrance transom, high command announcements drawing knots of from 50 to 100 passersby.

During campaigns there are many special communiques which are fitted in between regular radio programs. These reports are slices of solid statistics sandwiched between long and pompous trumpet scores, thunderous martial music and drum rolls. If you live on the court in an apartment, it is patriotic to set these "sondermeldung" announcements at full volume, so they can be heard by neighbors who have no radio.

During a recent air raid a curious newspaper man stood at his window watching the spectacular defense fireworks. It was cold, so he opened and shut the window according to the intensity of the firing. Soon he got a lot of squawks from the passive defense patrol on the corner below. Someone observed that the full moon was pouring directly on his windows. Every time the glass was exposed, it could have reflected a signal visible for a mile.

The Knipe in Germany is analogous to the Bistro in France and to nothing that America has. It could be compared slurringly with the corner saloon, but that wouldn't be doing it justice. The Knipe is where they sell beer, schnapps, wine (very little), frankfurters and sauerkraut. Now and then you can get cigars and cigarettes when your tobacconist is closed.

The Knipe reeks with smoke, conversation, noise and convivility. Most of this atmosphere is provided by the "average German" who usually is there with his wife, his neighbor and the neighbor's wife. Rush hours are between five and midnight, every day but Monday. They are the most lively, gayest, least stilted or boresome of any public places in Berlin—and by far the most numerous.

This is a favorite anecdote in Berlin: Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini were talking one day. "I've really got a remarkable fleet," boasts Mussolini. "Yes, but have you noticed my submarines?" queries Hitler. "Sure, but my aviation is no slouch," parries Mussolini. "All right, but how about my panzer divisions?" counters Hitler. And Mussolini comes right back with this: "Okay, granted—but look at the ally I have—and what have you got?"

Berlin traffic regulations are simple. In three months' driving—some of it hurry-up variety—in the city, I haven't got into a jam or an argument yet. Getting out of a tight parking space, I cracked a big car's tail light, but the affair was settled without recourse to arms. The chauffeur merely held out his palm and said, "One mark ninety-five," which I paid unhesitatingly, even happily.

BRINGING BODY BACK

RALLS, June 26 (Special) — Body of Fred Cox of El Centro, Calif., brother of Mrs. Tom Coplin of Ralls, will arrive in Ralls at 3:55 o'clock Friday afternoon and will be taken by Marr Funeral home to the sister's residence, it was announced today.

Mr. Cox died in El Centro Tuesday. The body will be taken Saturday to Tishomingo, Okla., for funeral services and burial.

COMPRESS MANAGER

LITTLEFIELD — Ralph Gray, assistant manager of the Littlefield compress for two years, has been named manager succeeding E. O. McIver, who was sent to Brownfield as manager of the compress there. The plants are owned by the Union Compress & Warehouse Co. of Lubbock. Jack Iron has come here from Quanah as assistant to Gray. McIver was formerly at Slaton.

Brazil will have rural police forces.

John Bush Given Suspended Term

A jury in 72nd district court found John Bush guilty of murder without malice of Glenn Davis and his punishment was assessed at five years in the penitentiary suspended shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Bush was stoically calm as he has been throughout the three-day trial as Judge Daniel A. Blair read the verdict in a courtroom which contained only a handful of spectators as compared to the crowds which heard the trial. His father, J. W. Bush of the Carlisle community, sat by his side.

To Accept Verdict

Judge Blair passed sentence on Bush after Defense Attorney L. A. Howard announced the verdict would be accepted.

Bush, 21, was charged by indictment with the shooting of Glenn Davis, 22, on the morning of May 23 at a small cafe at 1505 Sixteenth street after Davis had driven up in a small coupe with Mrs. Bush. Davis was shot five times by a .32 calibre pistol.

A companion indictment against Leon Brown in the same case has been dismissed, court officials announced Wednesday.

The trial consumed four days, selection of the jury being completed early Tuesday morning and testimony being presented that afternoon. Reading of the court's charge and arguments were heard Wednesday and the case went to the jury at 4:48 Wednesday afternoon.

E. A. Hankins of Route 4 was foreman of the jury and members were: J. C. Coats, Emmett B. Kerr, S. L. Adams, Ralph Douglas, V. C. Walden, B. F. Hodges, C. E. Love, all of Lubbock and Will Russell, route 3; C. R. Searsy, route 1; J. C. Vannoy, route 1 and W. M. Joplin, route 2, Slaton.

First Seminole Well Is To Be Celebrated

SEMINOLE, June 26. (Special) —Attendance of 1,000 persons is expected when employes of Magnolia Petroleum company and Seminole businessmen attend a barbecue Saturday to celebrate bringing in of the first oil well in the Seminole townsite.

George Nelson, Magnolia superintendent, is chairman of the menu committee, with Eddie Johnson and O. C. Mitchell.

Dewey Davis, superintendent of schools, Reeves Cothes and T. S. McCarty are the entertainment committee. Games, including horseshoe pitching, fat man's race, softball and washer pitching are planned. A company team and a chamber of commerce team will compete in softball.

The program will begin with entertainment at 4 o'clock and the barbecue will be served at 6. The company has over 600 employes in the North Permian basin and a large number of them will attend.

Location of the barbecue will be Hackberry grove, south of town.

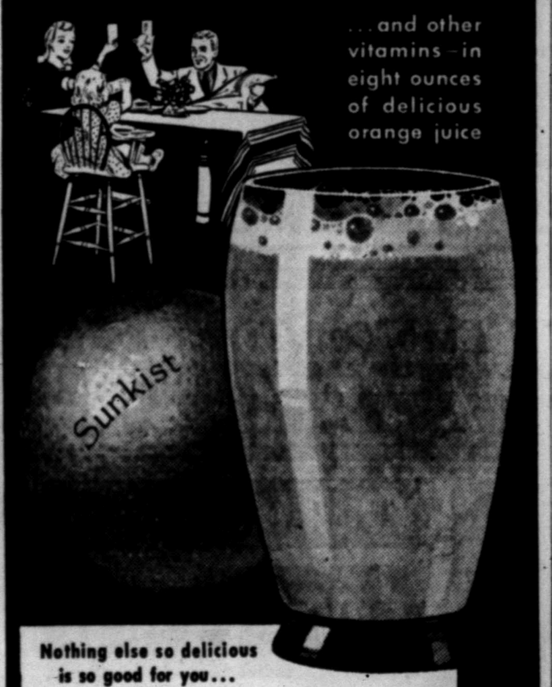

Local business men have invited a number of special guests for the occasion.

The company owns 80 acres in the northwest part of the city where one well has been drilled. A second test is under way.

All Texas Wins A Victory!

INTERSTATE Commerce commission refusal to approve the lease of the Fort Worth and Denver and Wichita Valley railroads by the Colorado & Southern was a victory of importance not alone to points on the line, but to the entire State of Texas.

It was unfair to Texas that the merger ever should have been attempted by operators of the Burlington system, of which the three lines affected in the proposed merger are subsidiaries. Yet it was attempted.

The Burlington management sought to close shops and general business offices in Fort Worth and in Childress and to transfer them elsewhere, most of them to Denver, Colo. It would have meant the loss to Texas of millions of dollars in payrolls and taxable property.

The attempt was made in spite of the facts that the Forth Worth & Denver is a much stronger road financially than the very weak Colorado & Southern; that there are many more miles of line of the Fort Worth and Denver in Texas than there are miles of all Burlington lines in Colorado; that Texas provides far more business for the Burlington system than does Colorado; that Denver headquarters would have been distantly and inconveniently located for Texas patrons of the Burlington system.

Considering all these facts—and they are facts which are matter of record—logic and good business would seem to have dictated instead of attempting to obtain approval of a lease of the Denver by the C. & S., it would have been the other way round. To permit the weak Colorado and Southern to take over the F. W. & D. C. would seem a somewhat aggravated example of making a short tail wag a big dog.

THE CHIEF reason urged in support of the application was the argument that the consolidation might, after four or five years, mean savings of around $300,000 by eliminating duplications. Even if such a saving was sure—and the ICC said such savings were most doubtful—the amount is not large in comparison with all the expenditures of the Burlington, or any major railroad system, in a year. It is relatively a small item.

The surprising feature of this whole proposition is that the management of the Burlington system would have attempted the merger. It took the risk of antagonizing the system's best customer—meaning the collective patronage in Texas—for the sake of a possible savings which does not justify the risk.

True, this fight is not over. Various courses are open to the railroad which might prolong the battle for a long time. However, in such matters, the first major battle usually is the decisive one, and the opposition to the merger is the unquestioned victor in that battle. It isn't often that the decision even the close ones, of the ICC are upset, although it does happen.

It is to be hoped that those in authority in the Burlington will accept the decision and let the matter rest where it is. To continue a fight that has become bitter and vindictive merely would add to ill will, and it would seem that the railroad system has accumulated enough of that. By intensifying further the ill feeling already engendered, it should be obvious that the Burlington will be the loser even if it finally should win a technical victory.

"It is impossible for a woman to park a car parallel to the curb," says a traffic engineer. He is mistaken. Frequently we see a woman park a car parallel to the curb—ten feet away, approximately in the center of the traffic lane.

"The rank and regalia of a sergeant has been bestowed on a bulldog, the mascot of a company." Rookies can still tell the mascot from the drill sergeant, however, because the mascot doesn't look so mean or bark so loud.

"Travelers who wish to enter Italy now must give a reason for doing so," announces an Italian paper. The type person who would wish to enter Italy now wouldn't be capable of reasoning.

Why is it that almost everyone is positive he prefers life to death, when he has never tried the latter?

Heart's Haven

By RUTH ROSEMARY CORBY

SYNOPSIS: To add to the other strains of Mrs. Marbury's impromptu houseparty, now marooned on an island off the North Carolina coast, both Eve Prentice and Gina Goodell are attracted by Brett Rodman, who seems oblivious to both of them. Besides that, there have been many mysterious affairs—a shooting on the beach, stories of ghosts appearing inopportunely, an injury to one of the party that cannot be explained, and the antagonism of the caretakers at the old house which shelters the party.

Chapter 15

Secret Passage

The day wore on, with Mrs. Marbury becoming more and more depressed with every passing hour. Late in the afternoon, when the girls went down stairs to join the rest of the company, they heard her telling Mr. Howe:

"I really can't think what's got into Theodore. Of course I did tell him that if Gina really liked the place and we were not too uncomfortable, he needn't expect to hear from me for a while. And then with the storm and everything, he probably couldn't send a plane. But I thought with the first clear day—"

Mr. Howe's voice, in a soothing murmur, broke into her complaint. But Mrs. Marbury, as Julie recollected bitterly, had been sheltered and protected all her life. It was a new sensation to her to find that, after all, she was important to only one man, that without Theodore she could appear or disappear as she pleased.

It gave Julie some small satisfaction to think that the whole group could not with all their money, buy their way out of this situation.

Dinner was a gloomy affair. They gathered in the living room afterward, but there was not much conversation. Eve noted that Gina's attempts to engage Brett in anything like a tete-a-tete were unsuccessful. He wandered around the room talking to each of the men in turn, evidently making out a schedule for the watch they were to keep that night.

Jim Droissard was given the first shift, from nine until twelve. As that hour approached Droissard began to walk restlessly about, apparently disturbed by the tire to her own room, and the with him. It was Mrs. Marbury who made the first move to retire to her own room ,and the others quickly followed suit.

When Eve and Julie got to bed they discovered that the odd events of the day, and the strain of fighting an unfriendly atmosphere, had tired them more than they realized. Eve attempted to read for a while, but she soon blew out the candle and fell into a heavy, dreamless sleep.

It was still dark when she wakened. There was no sound within the house, although the wind and the beat of the surf against the shore made the night outside alive with strange noises.

She lay for perhaps half an hour trying to get to sleep once again, but she had never felt more awake in her life. Cautiously, she lit the candle and, placing it on the floor so that it would not shine on Julie's face, she consulted her wristwatch. It was half-past twelve.

Downstairs in the library Brett Rodman went once more to the carved panelling of the mantelpiece. He had relieved Jim Droissard even before twelve o'clock, scarcely able to repress his eagerness to discover the secret passage that must be hidden in this odd half-wall that jutted out into the center of the room. He told himself once more that there was absolutely no reason for such a wall to be four feet deep, unless it were to admit a passage of some sort.

Once more he felt carefully over every bit of the ornamentation on the mantlepiece. And although he looked hopefully for some break that lined one side of the wall or the smooth, unbroken surface of the other wall, he could see nothing. Suddenly he had an inspiration.

He went back to the bookcase and pulled out the yellowed volume that the lawyer had been reading from a few nights before. Perhaps there was something in the description of the house which Mr. Howe had skipped over, and which might give him a clue.

But he never opened the book. As he removed it from the shelf, his eyes fell upon a button. Brett dropped the book onto the floor and stifled a shout of joy. Then he set his thumb against the button, pressing hard.

The Passage

Instantly a section of the wall on the right side of the fireplace moved outward. As Brett ran around, he was conscious of the old thrill that always came to him when he explored the secrets of old houses. Now he hastily lit a candle and, making sure that his lighter was in his pocket, went into the small opening.

The air was fresh and sweet. There must be an opening through the secret room upstairs, he decided, looking up the narrow staircase at the left that led to the second floor.

But he was in no mood to explore the upstairs room at the moment. He glanced to the right, and gave a light whistle of satisfaction as he saw the inclined passage descending.

He followed it gingerly, careful not to catch his toe on the uneven bricks with which it was paved. Dank walls, as the path straightened out, told him that he was far below the first terrace, possibly in a second cellar.

Here and there brick doorways appeared in the gleam of his candle, and remembering the stories in the old book, he nodded his head. Without a doubt this was where the slaves had come to be saved, and where some of them had perished.

Suddenly the narrow tunnel made a right-angle turn. Brett paused, holding his candle higher. There was a strong draft here; the candle flickered uncertainly. He paused a moment, trying to get his bearings. If his sense of direction were right—this passage led directly to the beach, at a spot somewhat removed from the house. It came out possibly in a concealed sand dune—or the boathouse. Of course! That explained a lot of things.

Faintly, he hard the echo of a cry—a wailing sound of distress. For a second, he thought the story of the ghosts had excited even his practical mind, and then, with a feeling of dismay, he recognized the voice. It was Eve—calling for help! Frantic, he turned and ran back the way he had come.

Exploring

Twelve-thirty!

Eve blew out the candle and lay back again, listening to Julie's steady breathing. Who had this watch downstairs? She tried to remember, but she had been so annoyed with Brett when the "council of war" was held, that she had not listened too carefully.

Anyway, no matter who it was—Brett, or Ham, or Neil—probably he would appreciate a little company and perhaps a glass of warm milk. Eve had not ventured into the domain of Mrs. Jackson before, but with the fear of remaining wakeful all night, she was resolved to risk anything.

She eased herself cautiously out of bed, shivering a little as the cold wind blew her flimsy gown. Luckily, she had brought a warm house-coat; she shrugged into it gratefully and buttoned it up snugly around her throat. With her slippers in her hand, she tiptoed to the door. The quietness of the circular hallway struck her as she closed the bedroom door behind her.

She thrust her feet into the slippers and went down the stairs as quietly as possible. They did creak a little, but not too much. Then, just as she reached the third step from the bottom, her slipper heel caught, and she could not save herself from sitting down, with sudden and awkward emphasis.

"Ouch" The cry was wrung from Eve as she bumped down the last stairs, and finally came to a stop by frantically clutching at the newel post. There she remained for half a minute longer, gingerly feeling her anatomy and trying to decide if she had sprained her ankle. The necessity for caution and quiet had gone completely from her mind.

But when she had reassured herself that no bones were broken, and was standing once more in the main hallway, she found that apparently no one was disturbed. For a second, Eve thought she heard a muffled football, but even that, she decided, must be only her imagination.

"A fine thing," she muttered, resuming her interrupted journey to the living room. "We could be all but murdered in our beds! I must have made enough noise to wake the dead, falling like that."

At the entrance to the living room she paused, her eyes suddenly wide with fear as she searched the shadowy corners and peered again at the lone candle standing on a small table before the fireplace. Eve could scarcely force herself to go into the room, yet she knew she must. There was something about the place that told her even better than her eyes, there was no one in the room. But there might be someone lying in the corner—dead!

For some reason, she did not think of anyone except Brett. She knew now, with intuitive certainty, that this was his watch, and the knowledge gave her strength to cross the threshold and advance to the fireplace. Her first thought had not been worng. As Eve glanced around, she saw that Brett indeed had vanished. His pipe, still faintly redolent, lay beside the candle. She tried to speak his name and could not, but she managed a few faltering steps toward the bookshelves.

And there she saw where he had gone. For a moment, an unreasoning anger for the fright he had given her made her almost decide to turn around and march back to bed. But as she looked at the yawning narrow doorway which was apparent when the row of bookshelves swung outward, curiosity got the better of her.

Eve went back and picked up the candle, shading it with her hand from the draft, and tried to look into the Stygian blackness. Steps led up to the left, she discovered, while the passage sloped gently downward to the right. Which way had he taken? Eve paused and called softly:

"Brett! Brett!"

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

FOES of the St. Lawrence Waterway have unearthed an argument which may doom this presidential proposal. They have discovered (and Maritime commission officials do not deny) that the canal will be able to accommodate no more than 25 per cent of this county's ocean-going vessels.

Under present engineering plans the waterway could not provide operating space for freighters of more than 27-foot draft. About 500 of the 705 ships which the Maritime commission has ordered in its emergency program are too large to utilize such facilities. Even those of smaller draft would have a tight squeeze to get through. Of our existing merchant marine it is estimated that 75 per cent could not use the projected canals. None of the tankers now being built could do so.

Thus, the theory that the St. Lawrence development would permit direct largescale shipment from and to Great Lakes ports appears to collapse, and the waterway is seen as no more than a pretext for the development of power—as its enemies have branded it all along. This revelation also weakens the president's contention that the water highway is essential to national defense. FDR is determined, however, to jam legislation through Congress. He has turned the heat on eastern Democrats who fear that the canal would reduce shipping at ports like Boston, New York, Baltimore, etc.

SMOTHERING: The feud between warehouse operators in the interior and those on the Atlantic coast may entail a tremendous increase in storage charges for both the government and private interests. Already it has precipitated a furious row behind the scenes on Capitol Hill.

Some months ago coast warehousemen started a campaign for transfer of stored cotton from the hinterland to the East. Their space stood empty, and they wanted the business which their rivals were enjoying. Senator McKellar of Tennessee successfully sponsored passage of a bill preventing the transfer. When President Roosevelt launched this aid-to-Britain move the situation changed completely. Coastal warehouses bulged with stuff awaiting shipment, and since a large part consisted of perishables they were paid higher rates than they would have received for holding bulk products like cotton.

Now the warehouse interests of the interior are complaining. They demand that the government boost the rates that they are getting now, in view of the larger profits which the men on the coast receive. So they have persuaded McKellar to resort to the unusual strategy of smothering his own bill. Although it has passed both branches of Congress, he has maneuvered to keep it pigeonholed in the House-Senate Conference committee. His intention is not to send it to the White House for fear that President Roosevelt will sign it.

EXPORT: Henry Ford's zeal for arming the United States is understood to lie behind his decision to permit the CIO to organize his workers. The man who launched the World war peace ship has become fanatically earnest in his determination to make the United States supreme in the air.

The Ford people have informed OPM representatives that they will be turning out 15 big bombers a day by February, barring strikes or material shortages. The Detroit organization is applying the same principles of mass production to the airplane that it did to the automobile. Once operations get into swing the 15-a-day total will be exceeded. The only limitation on output will be plant capacity and supply of key metals.

Ford's production promises will result in stepping up the shipment of heavy bombers to Britain, China and possibly Russia, even before February. With the assurance of large-scale manufacture, President Roosevelt and Army experts are planning to export a larger proportion of planes than they have sent abroad in the past. FDR always has contended that production capacity is more essential than a vast stock of planes on hand.

VINDICATION: President Roosevelt's hero worshipers in the administration are crowing over the way he has used the national defense emergency to gain many goals once denied him by the courts or by an unco-operative Congress. He has attained almost every objective in the fields of foreign and domestic policy.

Congress thwarted his attempt to pack the Supreme court. But when that tribunal reconvenes next fall it will be dominated by seven Roosevelt appointees. Five of them always can be depended upon to rule in accord with New Deal social and economic philosophy. They are Messrs. Black, Frankfurter, Douglas, Murphy and Jackson. Under price fixing and priorities legislation now being drafted, Mr. Roosevelt virtually will re-create the NRA that was outlawed by the Supreme court. He has inaugurated also a system of regimentation far more drastic than he proposed in pre-war days. He has persistently gained his point in casting our lot with Britain and in bracketing the Axis powers as enemies.

Attacks on his spending proclivitjes have ceased. He has won the approval of once critical conservative interests by his firmer attitude toward labor extremists and Communists. He has virtually forced a political armistice on the Republicans and his intra-party foes. And lastly, it appears that his-on-again-off-again policy with respect to the Soviet may be vindicated.

NEW YORK
By S. Burton Heath

A MYSTERIOUS and intriguing sildeight is thrown upon the government's acquisition of three important liners, for transport duty, by information that each has been equipped liberally with specially constructed metal landing boats suitable for use on sand beaches. The vessels mentioned are the 35,440-ton America, the 24,289-ton Manhattan and the 23,788-ton George Washington.

The landing boats are described as being made largely of aluminum, for lightness, with inboard motors for power. They are large enough to accommodate from 70 to 80 men each. Their prows are blunt and the bottoms are slanted so that the craft can be run well up on to shelving beaches where soldiers or marines could debark without wetting their equipment unduly.

To man these the Navy, which is operating the big transports, has called for Coast Guard surfmen, who probably have no peers at handling small boats under difficult conditions. Approximately 2000 of these experts are reported to have been assigned to the special duty.

CANTONMENTS?: The report in this column recently concerning material waiting in Rhode Island for shipping instructions—presumably to Ireland—has brought word of another unpublicized military activity involving that island.

While the company's offices have declined either to confirm or deny, it is learned that a major New York construction outfit has been given large government contracts for war work in the Emerald Isle. The nature of the building is not mentioned, beyond the fact that it assumes the impending presence there of a substantial number of U. S. troops.

SHORT: In connection with various known and reported incidents which point to belligerency on the part of this country in the very near future, armchair strategists are much interested in a recapitulation, which John T. Flynn has checked with competent military authorities, of the current armament available for the 1,400,000 men now in U. S. Army uniforms.

The personnel already in service should have at least 36,000 machine guns. Flynn says we have 5,000. Instead of the required 3,000 anti-tank guns, we possess 125. Of 12,000 mortars needed we can show only 600. We should have 4,500 of the new 105 mm. howitzers, regarded as the artillery keystone of modern defense, and we have 12. There are 250 light tanks where 3,000 are needed, two medium tanks where there should be 2,150, and not a single heavy tank such as Army requires at least 100. We have very few anti-aircraft guns, and inferior ones. There are not many armored trucks.

Hey, Fellers! Le's Go To Washington!

Eligible Males In Great Demand In U. S Capitol

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON, June 26.—This town definitely is not the answer to a maiden's prayer. That is, if maidens are still praying for a Prince Charming.

Washington has too few Prince Charmings to go around. The last census reports that there are only 91.1 men here for every 100 women. That's the greatest disproportion registered anywhere in the country.

So the stories of lonesomeness are legion.

Here's one from a 35-year-old secretary who's earning $3,200. She's a trim brunette from the Mississippi valley.

"Dates? Sure, I have plenty. But you know why? They figure I'll put in a good word to the boss. They're gallant. We eat at good places. They send me flowers. And they wouldn't recognize me on the street, if they met me a second time.

"I LIVE in a one room apartment. Gave up living with other girls. You know what happened when four of us lived together? We had a big apartment and a housekeeper. We made an agreement we wouldn't ever fight. We agreed that if we felt ourselves getting angry we'd go to our rooms and close the door. Do you know, there was always at least one door closed. So I live alone.

"I don't think I've been out with a man in a year who took me out because he thought I was attractive. It doesn't mean a thing. Why don't I go back home? Huh! I can't. I'm supporting part of the family. The future? I'll get pensioned at 65."

The disproportion has a subtle, creeping influence that adds to injury. The Prince Charmings soon find there is a premium on their company, so they lose their right to the title of "charming."

THIS was told me by a pretty red-head from upper New York state. She's so hungry for a home of her own (she's 32) that last year she took $1,000 from her savings and furnished her apartment as she would have were she a bride. She has a date, usually, on Saturday night. After all, red hair is red hair. But it always winds up in disillusion.

Her last man was a divorcee, manager of an auto company. He talked marriage. The last two Saturday nights he arrived at 11 p. m. for dates set at 7 p. m. The second time the red-head asked why. He blew up, went to the phone, called another girl for a date, and left.

THE end of the road was described to me by a charming gray-haired woman of 55 who lives next to me. Night after night, around 9:30, I hear her piano begin to roll out. Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata." Then she works on through Chopin. She plays superbly. She has a tired stoop, a gentle smile, and she wears feminine, frilly things, mostly in soft blue. I wondered.

She finally told me she had meant to be a concert pianist. But her father died, and she grabbed a $1,440 stenographer's job in the Department of Agriculture, leaving her home in Dallas, and all her friends. That was 25 years ago.

Now she lives alone in a good apartment. She makes $4,200. She never entertains. She goes to occasional concerts with another gray-haired woman. Once a month an elderly beau takes her to dinner. He's been doing it for 10 years. But he's never talked of marriage.

She says: "I get so hungry for men's talk—it's different—that I just go on seeing him. Of course, we're too old to marry. A woman is old at 27 here, you know. The young ones—18 and 20—get dates. But you marry before 27, or else"

SIGNS of social maladjustment here astound out-of-towners. They're in the restaurants, on the streets, at movies, in the parks. Everywhere are groups of women—from four to twelve of them—out seeking diversion.

Five o'clock on Saturday is the girls' witching hour. They save their pennies all week for a good dinner "with the gang." They reserve a table some place where the yean get a cocktail for 25 cents and dinner for 75 cents. The tip is a dime.

They dress up to impress each other. The older ones often take two or three cocktails. Their voices get a little shrill. They get up and dance together. Then they trot off to

OF COURSE plenty Washington women marry. But "guv'ment clerks" marry "guv'ment clerks." Even the combined salaries don't make for too-good living here. The wife goes on working. They can't afford a comfortable eight-room house like Dad and Mother have back home. They live in a little apartment. Their friends live in little apartments. It's different.

It's different like this: I dropped in to get the other side of the story from a good-looking bachelor with a good salary. Sure, he could date every night in the week if he wanted to. How long ahead does he made appointments? What did I mean? He just phones at the end of the day, if he feels like going out.

"Marry any of them?" he chuckled. "I should say not. I'm marrying the girl from back home."

When? When I get around to it. There's no hurry."

Whisky Drouth Faces Area Outside London

LONDON, June 26. (U.P.)—Landlords of public houses in whisky-famine districts of England are spending their days off traveling anything up to 150 miles to London to try to buy some whisky—genuine Scotch, for preference.

Distillers have cut the supplies to two-thirds of the 1939 consumption. There is an acute shortage in the evacuation areas in the country whose normal peacetime populations have been swollen by tens of thousands.

When the monthly ration arrives, these evacuee towns quickly find they run out of whisky. But, in London, there are areas from which half of the people have been evacuated.

So the landlords of publichouses in the evacuee towns, spend their days off traveling to London—trying to buy up odd bottles of whisky at retail prices from off-license stores.

Sometimes, they travel as much as 150 miles—and they can pay the rail fare, buy the whisky and still show a profit.

Tests To Ease Flier's 'Bends' Made In Army; Resistance Varies With Height

Ailment Caused By Air Pressure

By CAPEL McNASH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O., June 26 (U.P.)—Aeroembolism — similar to the "bends" suffered by divers as they return to the surface—is one of the most serious problems of modern military aviation, believes D. B. Dill, of the experimental laboratory at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

The ailment is caused by reduced air pressure during high-altitude flying at 40,000 feet or more and sometimes occurs at 30,000 feet.

"Aeroembolism takes various forms but in all cases may be attributed to the formation of gas bubbles in tissues or body fluids," Dill told the scientific session of the American Heart Association recently. "The formation of these bubbles has a simple physical explanation: A sudden reduction in pressure produces a supersaturated solution of nitrogen in body water."

Nitrogen Bubble Grows

He explained that once a nitrogen bubble forms it grows by "accretion" as both carbon diovide and oxygen diffuse into it so that finally it may contain no more than 30 per cent nitrogen.

"The bends" are pains in the joints, particularly the knee and ankle. These usually disappear on descent but if they have been experienced for an hour or longer may persist in diminished intensity for some hours at ground level, Dill said.

Another symptom of aeroembolism is itching of the skin—prosumably caused by gas bubbles forming in the skin and pressing on nerve termini.

Dill said that this itching in some cases gradually merges into pain. The distress, he said, becomes evident "through perspiration, paleness and the classical symptoms of shock."

"This form of the ailment in our experience is most common in individuals with too much subcutaneous fat," Dill said.

Pilots sometimes experience pulmonary pain, which starts as a throat irritation.

Induces Intense Headache

"In this manifestation there is pain on taking a deep breath," he said. "As the pain becomes more severe dyspnea becomes evident and collapse may ensue unless one descends rapidly to lower altitudes. A final symptom of aeroembolism is an intense headache."

As a remedy Dill said that much could be done by selecting resistant individuals.

"Unfortunately there is at hand no wholly satisfactory remedy," he said. "Under some circumstances preliminary breathing of oxygen is possible. Fifteen minutes breathing of exygen while exercising greatly increases one's tolerance."

Dill pointed out that some individuals resist high altitudes much better than others. He added that it is possible for men to become acclimated to the rarefied air.

"The most satisfactory high altitude communities are on the ridges of volcanoes in Northern Chile," he said. "About 100 men with some women and children live in such a community on Mt. Aucanquilcha at 17,500 feet.

Climb To 18,500 Feet

"Each morning the men climb up a zig-zag trail to a mine at 18,500 to 18,800 feet.

"There they spend the day with pick and shovel mining sulphur and loading it into the buckets of an aerial cable-way. The day's work over, they return to camp.

"There they seem to enjoy life —a soccer team may be seen in practice, for example, looking ahead to a Sunday's game at Ollague, a mile lower."

Tests showed remarkable differences between normal blood and the blood of these men, Dill said.

"The blood was so thick it was difficult to draw it through a 20-gauge needle," he said. "Alkaline reserve was reduced by more than a third and hemoglobin was increased 50 per cent."

Dill said that he and his associates never became fully acclimated to the high altitude, but a change was noted.

"Our hemoglobin increased only 25 per cent and while we spent from one to three weeks at 17,500 feet we never became comfortable there."

Amazing results in improving the looks... boosting vitality... pep!

Weak, run-down people suffering from sluggishness, underweight, poor digestion, lack of appetite now may restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... energize the body with rich, red blood.

If you are one of those unfortunates who have been ill, or have suffered with colds, the flu, worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, or have been vexed by overlaxing worries... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is good news for you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build back deficient blood strength... to revive and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Feel and look like yourself again

Yes, when you tone up the stomach and get its digestive juices flowing freely, you should enjoy again that old-time zest for food... stomach digestive miseries should vanish. S.S.S. Sailors Taken Ill At Sea Treated Aboard Navy's Mercy Vessel Accompanying Fleet

By NEA Service

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Sailors get seasick—just like landlubbers do—and no one pays any attention. But when a sailor falls seriously ill at sea, a signal is run up, the water-going ambulance is launched and he is transferred to a floating hospital which follows the fleet.

The navy has one hospital ship, the U.S.S. Relief, in service now, and another is being commissioned. The Relief is more than a hospital ship—it's practically a floating medical center.

Aboard the Relief there are operating rooms, laboratory, X-ray rooms, an eye, ear, nose and throat examining room, physiotherapy cubicles, and wards with hinged berths suspended on chains from the bulkhead. There are quarters for Navy medicos, nurses, and hospital corps men on the deck above.

The U. S. S. Relief can accommodate from 500 to 600 patients if necessary, but in peacetime the load is not often greater than half the capacity and from 12 to 15 nurses can handle the work.

Navy nurses like duty on a hospital ship, and are usually sorry to transfer when their 18-month tour is over.

A navy hospital ship is part of the base force and follows with supply ships and fuel ships in the wake of the fighting fleet. Since the movements of the fleet are secret., the seagoing navy nurses never know when they come aboard whether, when they put on civilian clothes and go ashore again "on liberty," it will be in South America, Hawaii, Australia or China.

The nurses' ward room, or common room, and their private quarters are in officers' "country," on the ship—which means that part of the quarter-deck reserved for commissioned medicos and the navy Nightingales.

And many a wind-swept romance has had its beginnings on the aft deck when the patients below are tucked in for the night and the men and women in officers "country" look out to sea.

Prices of many luxury products in Malaya have doubled in the last year.
