Radiation leaks continue at nuclear power plant

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Radiation leaks from the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant continued today, authorities said, as a debate grew over what was described as one of the most serious such incidents in this country's history.

Officials of Metropolitan Edison Co., owner and operator of the plant, said that minor levels of radiation were measured this morning two to three miles away and that it may be Friday before the leaks are stopped altogether.

They said the radiation was escaping through a ventilation system and from a pump designed to remove water after it has cooled the reactor.

"We concede that it's not just a little thing," said Don Curry, an Edison spokesman. "In terms of publicity it will probably surpass the Browns Ferry incident."

But John G. Herbein, a Metropolitan Edison vice president for generation, said, "There is presently no danger to the public health or safety."

"We didn't injure anybody, we didn't over-expose anybody and we certainly didn't kill anybody," he added.

Herbein said that of the 100 to 120 employees in the reactor area at the time of Wednesday's accident, only 10 to 15 had to be decontaminated with showers.

The officials told a news conference that it may be several days before workmen will be able to enter the reactor building to assess the damage because of a large amount of radioactive water.

As for what caused the accident, Walter M. Creitz, president of Metropolitan Edison, said, "I'm not ruling out human error."

Until now, a March 1975 fire in the control room of the Browns Ferry nuclear plant in Alabama has generally been considered this nation's most dangerous incident involving a nuclear reactor.

Low-level radiation was detected in the air as far as 16 miles away after an apparent valve failure Wednesday morning resulted in excessive pressure being built up in the water used to cool the reactor core at Three Mile Island.

Curry said the latest radiation measurements outside the plant were at two to three millirems. Individuals are exposed to up to 30 millirems in a single X-ray examination.

Walter Creitz, president of Metropolitan Edison, said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" show this morning that the plant shut down safely and that the level of radiation released "would not endanger or injure any people."

State officials said they had no plans to evacuate any of the 15,000 people living within a mile of the site.

Grim-faced crews of 70 men each wore hard hats and protective clothing as they worked around the clock to mop up radioactive water in an unprotected auxiliary building next to the reactor.

The crews were changed every hour to prevent fatigue and avoid over-exposure to radiation. The reactor — in use only since December — would be shut down for at least several days, authorities said.

The $1 billion plant is owned by General Public Utilities, an energy consortium in which Metropolitan Edison Co. has a half share.

Egypt concerned over security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egypt has registered grave concern over what it calls unacceptable new U.S. security assurances to Israel.

But it was not immediately clear what, in a practical way, Egypt could do about the American pledges to Israel, outlined in a memorandum released Wednesday by the State Department.

The memo includes a promise to urgently consider an increased show of American strength in the Middle East and emergency arms shipments to Israel if Egypt violates the peace treaty signed Monday.

"It gives the United States the right to impose a military presence in the region for reasons agreed between Israel and the United States,"

Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil wrote Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

This, said Khalil, is "a matter we cannot accept."

At Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's direction, Khalil sent two letters of complaint to Vance Wednesday. They were not released, but became available to The Associated Press.

In a reply made public, the State Department said the "expression of unhappiness" in the Egyptian letters was based on a misreading of the memorandum.

"We advised Egypt well in advance that assurances would be given to Israel," the department said in a statement. "Egypt, in fact, frequently indicated that it would have no objection to security assurances or guarantees in the context of peace."

The department statement said the memorandum does not assume Egypt is likely to violate the treaty.

"On the contrary, we have full confidence that Egypt and Israel are determined to honor their treaty obligations," it said.

A similar document was offered to Egypt and refused, the statement said. "The offer remains open," it added.

The sole purpose of the Israeli memorandum of agreement, along with that offered to Egypt, is to facilitate the maintenance of peace in the area."

The memorandum drawing the Egyptian protest was signed by Vance and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan a couple of hours after President Carter, Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin signed the peace treaty at the White House.

In a separate memorandum, the United States agreed to provide oil for Israel in the event of shortages for 15 years. Israel would pay the current market price.

All the U.S. security assurances to Israel appear to be conditional, with the United States promising, for the most part, to consult or to consider taking certain actions if Israel is in danger.

Carter will probably lift crude oil controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, described as ready to lift price controls from domestically produced crude oil, told congressional leaders today he will probably announce his decision early next week.

Carter, who is directing intensive consultations with members of Congress on a promised new energy blueprint, said he called the leaders to a Cabinet Room meeting to discuss the broad range of options confronting him.

The president opened the session by noting he will have the power, come June 1, to decide whether to lift price controls on domestic crude.

"We are prepared to take that burden," he declared.

Senators who met privately Wednesday with top administration economic officials reported the president is prepared to lift price controls but remains unsure of how to go about it.

The biggest question marks, the senators said, involve possible imposition of a special tax to accompany deregulation, and whether Congress would pass necessary tax legislation. Although Congress rejected Carter's 1977 proposals for taxes on crude oil and gasoline, two Republican senators said the country might be better off had Congress been more receptive to the president's original energy program, passed in bottled form last year.

These sentiments were expressed by Sens. Charles Percy of Illinois and Pete Domenici of New Mexico after a bipartisan congressional group met Wednesday with Carter to discuss energy matters.

Two sentenced in income tax refund scheme

Larry G. James and Jerry D. Hankins, formerly of Big Spring were sentenced Wednesday in Lubbock Federal District Court for their participation in a fraudulent income tax scheme which was operated out of Big Spring during 1976 and 1978.

James was given a three-year suspended prison sentence and three years probation. Hankins was sentenced to two years in prison.

James previously pleaded guilty to filing a fraudulent 1977 income tax return in Snyder showing a refund due and Hankins pleaded guilty in lying to a federal grand jury in September 1978 which was investigating a refund scheme.

The sentencing of James and Hankins brings the total to six who have been sentenced in regard to the scheme.

There were 26 individuals indicted last Jan. 16, by a grand jury in Lubbock from which 24 have pleaded guilty.

One defendant is still a fugitive and the other is scheduled for trial May 14.

Those participating in the scheme were accused of presenting income tax papers showing alleged tax return due, and "sold" them to financial firms at a discount rate for quick cash. The returns later were proved to be fraudulent, with fictitious names.

73 cents-an-hour salary boost sought

Cosden, union discuss wages

Representatives of American Petrofina and its subsidiary firm, Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., and officials of Local 826 International Union of Operating Engineers were to sit down together at 10 a.m., today in Cosden's conference room to discuss the union's wage demands.

Representing American Petrofina and Cosden at the sessions are Hood Barnwell and Glenn Selvidge.

Kenneth Howell, business manager for Local 826, heads the bargaining team for the 525 to 530 Cosden employees, who are seeking a 73 cent-an-hour across-the-board salary boost this year, to be followed in 1980 by a seven percent increase.

Howell said the 1979 wage demands of the union were within the federal guidelines proposed by President Carter. Howell also stated that other oil companies, at least one of which has been represented by Local 826, have already agreed to union terms.

Howell said negotiators for Cosden had already offered the union a seven percent pay boost this year, to be followed by a similar increase in 1980. This year's demands by the union figure out to about 8.3 percent. The increase offered by Cosden for this year approximates 60 cents an hour, Howell said.

A strike vote will be taken within the Local 826 membership tonight in event no agreement is reached at today's meeting. Should a strike be called, it would begin Saturday, Howell added.

Howell said he had no reason to believe Cosden would not agree to the union's demands. The labor negotiator also said other issues were involved in today's discussions, including a stronger declaration of benefits for sick leave.

In addition to Howell, members of the union's bargaining team at today's session are Lloyd Arnold, Clovis Phinney Jr., Dale Walker, Don Fite, George Murphy, J.C. Self and C.E. Gressett.

Union members were last given a raise in January 1978. That increase amounted to 75 cents an hour.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Fire liability

Q. Is there a state statute that relieves a city like Big Spring of fire liability as a third party? No signs have ever been posted at Comanche Trail Golf Course attesting to the fact that the municipality is not responsible in case of fire or other natural disaster.

A. "There is no statute which makes cities immune to lawsuits involving loss of property under circumstances such as those of the recent fire at the municipal golf course. In such cases, a city's position is similar to that of any other person or corporation. Signs and other similar disclaimers of responsibility for losses do not, in and of themselves, absolve a person of liability," said attorney Elliott Mitchell.

Calendar: Drama competition

NO CHANCES THIS TIME — Ernest Marlow, 42, of Carrollton, Ga., covers the grill of his truck Wednesday night as he stopped at the Detroit Truck Stop in Woodhaven, a downriver community south of Detroit. Marlow saw seven bullets rip across the front of his truck, just inches below his legs, during the last Teamsters' strike; and, says he is taking no chances this time and will park and wait if there is a strike.

Public affairs director named

DALLAS — Appointment of Gary W. Bruner as Director of Public Affairs was announced here today by American Petrofina, Inc. In the newly created post, Bruner will be responsible for maintaining liaison with various local, state and federal officials.

Senator John Tower.

A resident of Arlington, he is married to the former Teresa Thompson. The couple has one daughter, Sarah, 18 months.

Course in tatting to be offered at HC during April

Bruner joined Fina March 1, 1979. Formerly, he was Director of State Government Relations for Steak and Ale Restaurants of America, Inc. A native of Tyler, he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science at the University of Texas, and a M.A. degree from Stephen F. Austin State University. Also, he has served as manager, state affairs, Southern Region, G.D. Searle & Company, manager of the Washington office for Searle, special assistant to the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., and on the Washington staff of U.S.

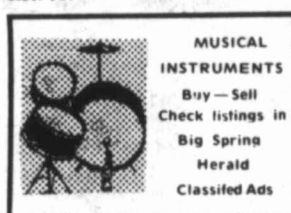

The Adult and Continuing Education office of Howard College will hold a course in Tatting. Tatting is a gentle art form that evolved from mariners' utilitarian knots. It is a lace-making technique that requires a tatting shuttle. Place mats, tablecloths, doilies, collars, and cuffs are items that can be made using this process.

The class will be held from April 5 to May 10 Thursday nights, 7 to 9 o'clock, in the Student Lounge of the Horace Garrett Building. The cost of the course is $12. Materials will be discussed the first night of class.

Zella Lindley, a local seamstress, will be the instructor for the course.

Interested students must pre-register in the Adult and Continuing Education office located in the Horace Garrett Building. For more information, call 267-6311, ext. 70.

Regents of Texas Tech to be sworn in Friday

LUBBOCK — J. Fred Bucy of Dallas, Dr. Nathan C. Galloway of Odessa and B.J. Pevehouse of Midland will be sworn in as regents at 8:50 a.m. during the Friday meeting of the board of regents of Texas Tech University and School of Medicine.

Following an executive session, the regents will reconvene at approximately 9:50 a.m. to consider various actions on behalf of the school of Medicine.

Included will be affiliation agreements with Sun Towers Hospital of El Paso and Reese AFB Hospital of Lubbock and a contract with Amarillo Hospital District.

Other scheduled action includes an amendment to an interagency contract between the medical school and the university, specification of officers authorized to sign checks and a proposed change of policy for employees' retirement.

At approximately 10:45 the regents will convene as the university board.

The academic and student affairs committee will recommend appointment of Horn Professors and minor revision of security clearance documentation.

Award of construction contracts for renovation of West Hall and for renovations to provide storage space for hazardous materials, as well as acceptance dates for athletic facilities at the north end of Jones Stadium and for renovation of Phase I of the Fire Alarm Systems, will then be considered.

Other agenda items include study of a revised oil and gas lease and adoption of an altered travel policy for the Athletic Department.

Pentagon announces closings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, under intense political pressure, was announcing today moves aimed at closing, reducing and consolidating military bases across the country to save more than $400 million a year.

If all the plans are carried out, the Defense Department could cut more than 40,000 of its 3 million civilian and military personnel from the payroll.

Defense officials refused to identify the affected bases in advance of an afternoon announcement. But it is known they plan to clear up some cases dating back to the Ford Administration in 1976, as well as proposals the Carter administration made last year.

Sources who declined to be identified said a major part of the plan calls for studies aimed at streamlining supply operations and shifting to civilian contractors some support missions now handled by defense workers.

The Pentagon says it has saved about $5.4 billion in operating and personnel costs as a result of base streamlining actions over the last 10 years.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has said about $1 billion still is being wasted by operating bases "we do not need."

According to a variety of sources, these are some of the expected actions:

—The Army's basic training center at Fort Dix, N.J., will be closed, while the one at Fort Jackson, S.C., will remain open. Fort Dix still has a chance, however, to become the home of the 2nd Infantry Division, due to be withdrawn from South Korea.

—Defense supply and logistics centers and depots in a number of states will be merged.

—Army anti-aircraft missile batteries in Florida and Alaska — the service's last in firing position in the United States — will be closed.

—The Marines will retain recruit training camps at Parris Island, S.C., and at San Diego. The Pentagon had considered closing one of them.

—The Navy will keep open its boot camps at San Diego and Great Lakes, Ill. The Pentagon said last year it was thinking of shutting either of them.

—The Air Force will keep both Chantut Air Force Base, Ill., and Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., but close Goodfellow Air Force Base, Texas.

Band sponsors garage sales

The Big Spring High School Band Boosters will sponsor a garage sale Friday and Saturday to raise money for the band's spring tour to Denver, Colo. The sale will be held in the small shopping center next to Elmer's Liquor Store near the intersection of FM 700 and 34rdwell.

Local merchants have donated plants, athletic apparel and many other new and used items for the event that will be opened at noon Friday and close at 9 p.m. Saturday. The sale will last from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. The public is urged to come browse and support the Steer Band.

The rehab center often is asked to undertake treatment of athletes who have suffered broken bones or severe sprains and who need to follow an exacting schedule before returning to regular practice.

Conviction reversed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Deaf Smith County theft conviction was reversed Wednesday because neither the defendant, David Riggall, nor his court-appointed attorney was present at pre-trial proceedings.

Their absence, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled, denied Riggall the "opportunity to support his motion to dismiss and controvert any facts presented by the state."

Riggall was assessed six years in prison. He was in the New Mexico state prison at the time of the May 25, 1977, pre-trial hearing.

Rain forecast for most parts of state

By The Associated Press

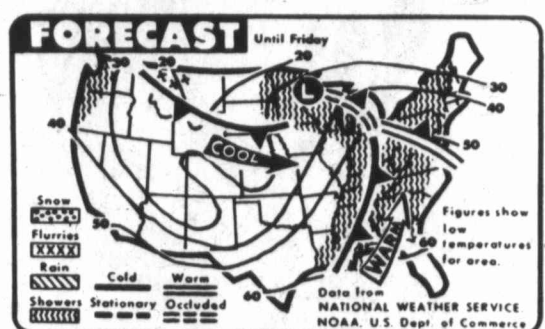

Severe thunderstorms were forecast for much of Texas today with the entire state expected to get some form of thunderstorm activity.

The National Weather Service said the area most likely to get locally severe thunderstorms was east of a line from Amarillo to Del Rio and north of a line from Del

Rio to Houston.

Forecasts called for warm and windy weather today with highs ranging from the 70s in the northern half of the state to the 80s in the southern half.

Nuclear accident untimely for atomic power advocates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of atomic power, already under fire on a number of fronts not increasingly on the defensive, say the last thing they needed now was a nuclear accident.

Indeed, say industry and government sources, the escape of radiation into the air Wednesday at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant near Harrisburg, Pa., is sure to make it more difficult to sell atomic power to an increasingly skeptical America.

"It's hurt the argument for nuclear power and it's hurt it at a time that much of the argument is on an emotional rather than a rational basis," said an Energy Department official, a strong advocate of nuclear power who declined to be named.

The incident in Pennsylvania came at a time when atomic power, once considered the answer to the nation's energy needs, faces a broadside of criticism not only from staunch anti-nuclear public interest groups but government regulators as well.

Earlier this month the Nuclear Regulatory Commission ordered five nuclear plants in the East to shut down because of questions over whether their design would survive earthquake damage.

About the same time, a special government committee told President Carter it has yet to determine a safe and effective way to store nuclear wastes although Congress was told three years earlier such waste management is technically possible.

Last January, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission repudiated a study it had used for five years to show that nuclear plants were safe, saying the report was unreliable. The agency ordered a review of past and pending nuclear plant licenses.

Furthermore, utility executives once eager to enter the nuclear power business have become more hesitant, fearing they will become embroiled in a long and expensive controversy.

Teacher abuse increasing in state

In a Texas court case recently, a school teacher was awarded damages from the family of a student who struck him during an incident at his school last spring.

There will be no effort here to sit in judgment of the case but the case is noteworthy in that it underlines the right of abused teachers to seek legal redress.

"ABUSED TEACHERS" is a term which has been used in news stories with increased regularity recently. From all accounts, it is used sparingly because many such incidents occur in which reports are never made to school administration offices and fewer still in cases where police are asked to intervene.

In these parlous times, teachers have come to look upon such risks as part of the job.

The statistics are incontrovertible. For what ever reasons — breakdown of administrators to adequately support their teachers, indifference of parents to their children's conduct — teachers more and more are becoming the target of aimless, senseless violence in and out of the classroom.

Some teachers must feel as if they walk down the street with a circle on their backs with large dots in the center, they know they're apt to hear from some irate parent after they reach home, a parent complaining the instructor is discriminating against their child.

ALL SORTS OF solutions to the problem have been attempted. Students have been suspended from school. They have been offered special counseling. They have been shifted from one class to another. Invariably, the school administrators go to endless lengths in efforts to solve the problem.

In some cases, such treatment has produced the desired results. In many others, however, no amount of specialized attention seems sufficient to reach the student. It is in the latter kind of cases that the teacher has recourse to legal help.

It is a sad state of affairs, to be sure; but teachers must be given the right to protect themselves.

It's an indictment of our times that some of the teachers under siege refer to their salaries as "combat pay."

'Sadat will fall'

Evans, Novak

BAGHDAD — The strongman of oil-rich Iraq, whose nation is flexing new muscle following the fall of the shah in neighboring Iran, talks boldly about employing all means available, including full use of the oil weapon, to "retrieve the rights of the Arabs from the Zionist entity" — Israel.

Tough, handsome Saddam Hussein, however, failed in an exclusive interview with us to spell out precisely what he had in mind, except as punishment for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in signing what the Arabs call a sell-out separate peace with Israel. For Sadat, the punishments which militant Iraq hopes to push through the anti-Sadat Arab summit here this week include withdrawal of financial support, transfer of the Arab League from Cairo and other sanctions.

But as to reprisals against the United States for having been indispensable middle man in the Egyptian-Israeli treaty, Saddam Hussein was ambiguous. "How or when or against whom?" he asked rhetorically. "The enemy is the Zionist entity; we make a distinction between the American people and the Zionist entity. We also make a distinction between the American people and their government. We cannot and will not put the American people in the same place as the Zionist entity."

Or, as Tarik Aziz, a top Saddam Hussein strategist, told us separately, "We're not in the mood for cutting oil."

SADDAM HUSSEIN's official title is vice chairman of the Revolutionary Command Council, but he is the de facto leader of the ruling Baath party. Receiving us in his office in the parliament building, his mood during more than two hours of talks was far less bellicose than his threats.

Virtually ruling out any early effort to invoke oil as a means of persuasion, he spoke philosophically about his long-troubled relationship with the U.S., most of which is directly attributable to the Arab-Israeli struggle and the U.S. alignment with Israel.

"Our policy has to be long-term patience," he said. "We must carefully calculate our actions to make sure the world better understands us and sympathizes with our problem. We are not in a hurry. We are not adventurists."

The Iraqi leader and his Baath revolutionary high command have now given this once-splendid cradle of empires in ancient Mesopotamia an uninterrupted 12 years of highly nationalistic rule, replete with the refinements of a modern police state and a shaky friendship treaty with Moscow — the first indigenous rule since the Ottoman Empire first held sway 500 years ago. With Iran convulsed in its own revolution and Saudi Arabia straining to find a safe path between its alliance with the U.S. and the Arab cause, Iraq and its immense oil reserves are a major new factor in the Mideast power equation.

That is all the more true with the Egyptian fall from Arab grace. Rivalry for Arab leadership is intense between Baghdad and Cairo. As of today, Iraq has emerged as the foremost Arab leader, now speaking its revolutionary rhetoric in unison with such American friends as Jordan and Kuwait and possibly Saudi Arabia. Egypt's fall has been Iraq's windfall, and there is no ambiguity about Iraq's scorn for President Sadat or forecasts about his ultimate downfall.

"IF PRESIDENT Carter believes that Sadat represents the Arab nation (meaning all Arab states) he is wrong. If he now believes Sadat even represents Egypt, he is misled," Saddam Hussein told us. "Sadat will soon be an outcast in his own country."

"I'm afraid he doesn't understand me, Anwar. Ask him if the Arabs received that dove we sent over."

Age alone is no bar to surgery

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My father is 86 and has been having prostate gland trouble. This has been going on for a couple of years. I am told he is too old to have this repaired by surgery. What do you have to say? — Mrs. R.L.

Who told you he is too old? If it was the doctor, he may have reasons other than his age for saying so. When prostate surgery is needed it is usually performed with age being a secondary consideration. More important than your father's age is his general health. Will his heart and general blood circulation permit it? Will it permit him to weather the effects of the anesthetic required?

The alternative to surgery can be unacceptable — chiefly serious urinary complications. Compared with this the minimal risks of surgery might be worth it.

I suggest you have your father seen by an urologist to find out, first of all, if he needs surgery. Such surgery has been done on men in the 90s.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Explain, please, the difference between plain gout and "pseudo" gout. — J.F.

Both are capable of producing severe joint pain and swellings. Both stem from the same cause, the inability of the system to handle certain substances it usually handles without trouble. In the common form of gout the culprit is uric acid, and with pseudo-gout it's calcium. Both result in formation of deposits, usually in joints. Incidentally, the word gout is from the Latin "gutta," which means "drop." The ancients believed the deposits were formed from droplets of the matter "falling" into joints.

Because the crystals that form are different chemically, different treatment is required. For more on that see my booklet, "The Modern Way to Stop Gout." You can get a copy by sending 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Ruble: About 12 years ago I had a myelogram done for my back. No surgery was done. When I had X-rays recently, it was found that some of the dye material from the myelogram was still in my back near the bottom disc. I have had headaches and backaches quite often of late. I would like to know if this is the cause and what other damage this dye can do. — Mrs. E.L.H.

A myelogram is a special X-ray study that provides a clear outline of the object to be viewed — in this case your spine. The doctor injects a liquid into the spinal canal. The dye in the material shows up especially well on X-rays, and will give a good picture of, for example, a protrusion pressing against a spinal nerve.

After the examination as much dye as possible is removed, but a trace may remain and show up on future X-rays. I doubt this is causing your pains, unless a large enough amount was left behind to cause nerve irritation.

A newer substance is being used in some centers for lower spine studies. This dissolves in the spinal fluid and is later taken away by the kidneys so none remains behind, but it is used for lower spine studies only.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My sister is 65 and has chronic constipation. Rather than take stool softeners or bulk laxatives, she says its healthier for her to take several enemas a week. Please comment. Is a stool softener safe to take with high blood pressure? — C.S.

Regulation of bowels by diet is the ideal. I'm referring to a high fiber diet along with natural laxatives like prunes. If that doesn't work stool softeners and bulk-producing medicines can be tried to help things along. Two points are often missed — the need for adequate liquids and exercise. A good daily walk can work wonders for constipation problems among older people.

When all else fails, enemas and suppositories may be the last resort. This is not to say they are unsafe, just that they usually represent "overkill." The softeners and bulk laxatives are harmless as far as the high blood pressure is concerned.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Are there hospitals or clinics specializing in treatment of arthritis? — T.C.P.

There are, and the Arthritis Foundation can help locate one in your area. Write to them at 3400 Peachtree, N.E., Atlanta, Ga. A local medical society can also help locate a rheumatologist who is a doctor specialist in this field.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

High costs hurt even law breakers

Inflation hurts everyone, not the least of those who would violate the laws of the land.

Consider the case of that man in New York who occasionally gets drunk. When he drinks, he develops an irresistible urge to smash windows.

Sixteen of his 44 arrests have been for breaking panes in a federal courthouse.

In the past, he has drawn sentences of no more than a year, since the damages have been less than the $100 limit for federal misdemeanor charges.

The repairs for his latest mischief came to more than $100, however, making it a felony.

The result? His sentence was "inflated" to three years in Old Stony Lonesome. The judge called him a "victim of inflation."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why did some of Jesus' disciples not recognize Him after He had been raised from the dead? — Mrs. L.F.

DEAR MRS. L.F.: One reason is that they did not expect Him to be raised from the grave. They knew He had died, because they had seen Him die on the Cross. They knew His body had been anointed with spices, wrapped with linen strips and placed in a tomb. Beyond doubt Jesus Christ was dead, and they believed that was the end of Him.

They believed this even though Jesus had repeatedly told them He would rise from the dead. Perhaps the disciples thought He was only telling them that He would go to Heaven when He died, as every believer would. Or perhaps they simply did not believe Him. I wonder how often we fail to understand, or even believe, the promises God has given us in His word? Notice Jesus' rebuke to the men He meets on the road to Emmaus, who fail to recognize Him: "How foolish you are, and how slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken! Did not the Christ have to suffer these things and then enter his glory?" (Luke 24, 25-26, New International Version).

In all likelihood there is another reason, and that is because the Lord Jesus after His resurrection possessed a new body — one which was not subject to the decay of this world and is the type all believers will some day have in Heaven. He could, for instance, pass through closed doors, or suddenly appear and vanish. The Bible does not give us an elaborate description, but it does indicate Christ's body was somehow different. It is wonderful to know that some day all those who know Christ will receive a heavenly body, and all the ills and problems of this present body will be past (see 1 Corinthians 15:35-58).

The real question is: do we recognize Jesus Christ for who He is? He is the Son of God, who died for our sins and rose again from the dead. He wants to enter our lives as Savior and Lord if we will invite Him in.

Humanism

Around the rim

Don Woods

Paul of Tarsus, for many of us the most loved apostle, set down one of his goals in the book of II Corinthians 10:5. He said, "We are destroying speculations and every lofty thing raised up against the knowledge of God, and we are taking every thought captive to the obedience of Christ."

The battle Paul fought was in the realm of systems of thought and philosophies. The most dangerous of philosophies today is one that has come to be called "humanism."

Humanism is the basis of all philosophies that look to human abilities and efforts for their results. It contrasts with Christianity in that Christianity is based on God's power.

THE REASON IT is so dangerous is that it is often confused with Christianity. Christians and churchgoers alike are often deceived into believing and supporting humanism.

For example, often when the question of faith comes up in conversation, the basis for salvation people fall back on again and again is church attendance or membership. These are things accomplished by human effort and is a form of humanism.

The welfare system is based on man's efforts, also. God's viewpoint would be that He take care of the poor and the Bible says, "If a man doesn't work, neither let him eat." Many Christians and churchgoers are duped into believing that the welfare system is based on Christian ethics.

Humanism is easily mistaken for Christianity because both philosophies purport to do "good things." They are worlds apart, however, and the difference is subtle. Man's power energizes humanism and God's power energizes Christianity.

There is even a Fellowship of Religious Humanists, of which Lester Mondale, brother of Vice President

Walter Mondale, is a member. The Veep said, speaking before the Fifth Congress of the International Humanist and Ethical Union, "Although I have never formally joined a humanist society, I think I am a member by inheritance. My preacher father was a humanist — in Minnesota they call them Farm Laborites — and I grew up on a very rich diet of humanism from him. All of our family has been deeply influenced by this tradition including my brother Lester, a Unitarian minister..." (To Seek a Humane World, p. 69, Penberton Publishing Co. 1971.)

PRESIDENT CARTER also endorsed humanism in the following statement sent to the Annual Meeting of the American Humanist Association: "Your own efforts have been in the best tradition of religious liberty that has flourished in our society and enriched the lives of our people." (Humanist Magazine, July-August 1977.)

Betty Friedan, founder of the National Organization of Women, is also a supporter of the philosophy. She signed a document called the Humanist Manifesto II, a sort of humanists' bible. The document was published by Prometheus Books in 1973.

The manifesto states: "We find insufficient evidence for belief in the existence of a supernatural...we begin with humans, not God, nature, not deity. 'It also supports evolution and sexual conduct unrepressed by orthodox religions.'"

It shouldn't be surprising to see unbelievers and those untaught in God's word supporting a philosophy that is the essence of what Paul fought against. Humanism is the logical conclusion of a mind operating in a system that doesn't include the supernatural realm.

Unused uniforms

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — More than $6.5 million worth of fire-resistant uniforms are gathering dust in Army warehouses instead of being issued to the front-line tank crews who will need them in the event of a war in Europe. The protective clothing would save lives and reduce serious burns significantly.

The story has been swept under the secrecy label, but we have seen the classified Defense Department report.

The Army claims it doesn't have the money to distribute the uniforms, but military sources told our associate Peter Grant the real reasons may be that the generals don't like the unsoldierly appearance of the fire-resistant material. It is baggy and won't hold a crease.

The material, called Nomex, is worn by race car drivers, from the skin out, and many a driver has walked away from a fiery crash with only minor burns because of his fireproof clothes.

IT IS ALSO REQUIRED for fighter pilots' uniforms. Interestingly, the Army issued its pilots Nomex clothing only after the Air Force and Navy had done so. The Army's resistance to Nomex at that time, too, was based partly on the sloppy look of the uniforms, our sources say.

The secret report was prepared by auditors checking the combat readiness of American medical units in Europe and is highly critical of the Army's refusal to issue the protective clothing. "Nomex uniforms," the report states, "would produce benefits on the battlefield by increasing crew survivability and significantly reducing the number of personnel requiring medical treatment for burns."

In dry accountants' language, the report disregards the horror of a burning tank and deals only with the strain that would be put on the medical facilities if the tank crews were sent into combat dressed in their current issue, cotton fatigues.

"Burn victims require long hospital stays and significant amounts of intravenous fluids and antibiotics in their treatment, as well as extensive medical care," the auditors point out matter-of-factly. "During the initial phase of a war, medical resources would be extremely limited. An unusual number of burn victims will have a serious impact on our medical treatment capabilities."

While the report bases its criticism on strictly practical considerations, an earlier Pentagon survey cited by the auditors gets a little closer to the terrible human side of the equation. The study, which dealt with the 1973 Arab-Israeli war, noted that 11 percent of the casualties in armored combat vehicles were burn victims. "The severity and extent of burns diminished when crewmen wore Nomex uniforms," the study showed.

ANOTHER DISTURBING statistic from the 1973 war showed that about 90 percent of the tanks destroyed were knocked out by other tanks. This fact, coupled with recent intelligence reports that Soviet tanks outgun and outmaneuver American armor, makes clear the danger our tank crews are in.

And it's not just other tanks that pose a threat. Recent advances in anti-tank weaponry include use of fighter planes, helicopters, personnel carriers and hand-held guns that penetrate armor with explosive darts.

The Army claims it would cost an astonishing $4.5 million — more than two-thirds the cost of the uniforms themselves — to distribute the 119,630 Nomex trousers and 166,723 shirts on hand. Army spokesmen say inflation and the declining dollar boosted 1978 operating costs by $250 million and forced cutbacks in some areas.

Our sources suspect the budget retrenchment was just a handy excuse for not issuing the Nomex uniforms, which the generals have disliked all along.

FALSE ECONOMY? A move by the Customs Service to save money on ship inspections may prove to be false economy. Inevitably, this will make it easier to smuggle drugs into the country and to evade legitimate duties on other products.

Last year, customs inspectors made more than 21,000 seizures of drugs with a value of $1.9 billion. The service collected $7.5 billion in duties.

But this record of success is endangered by three proposed revisions in enforcement procedures, according to inspectors we have talked to from all over the country.

One suggested change would replace the current rule of one inspector per ship with "general supervision" of a dock area, where two or three freighters might be unloading at once.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

I want to express my thanks to those who were instrumental in setting up the meeting where the citizens of Big Spring could hear the views of the candidates for the city council and the school board.

I also want to thank the candidates for taking their time and expressing their views of the different questions asked.

I feel we should have more of these meetings where we have a candidate running for public office. I'm sorry there were not as many citizens there as should have been.

We as citizens should take a bigger interest in our local, state and national government. We should have the coliseum filled with interested citizens and voters.

So please, citizens, take the time and talk to the candidates and vote for the man or woman of your choice.

I want to thank Jim Baum for taking the time to serve as moderator for the meeting.

Smaller beer bottle bill

Final approval expected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans who fill up easily could buy beer in 7- or 8-ounce bottles under a bill that is expected to win final legislative approval today.

Final passage of the bill, which advanced 110-28 Wednesday, would send it to Gov. Bill Clements for signature or veto.

While the measure would offer beer drinkers a wider selection of bottle and can sizes, opponents warned it would put an end to backyard keg parties.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, the sponsor, beat back seven attempts to change the bill, which was approved exactly as it left the Senate.

The bill would allow sale of beer in containers of 7, 8 and 16 ounces in addition to the present 12-, 24- and 32-ounce bottles and cans. The new container sizes could be sold only in six-packs or other retail packages of three or more.

Opponents of the bill concentrated on provisions setting up a "three-tier" system that would prohibit distributors from selling beer directly to retail customers.

Rep. John Wilson, D-La-Grange, was outvoted, 83-48, when he tried to restore the right of distributors to sell cases and kegs of beer off their docks to consumers.

He said the bill would "effectively do away with keg beer, at least in rural areas."

"It will increase the cost to consumers. They will have to go to the H.E.B. (grocery) and buy canned beer for these parties and celebrations they have bought keg beer for," Wilson said.

Lewis defended the bill as one that would "allow brewers to compete with other brewers, distributors to compete with other distributors and retailers to compete with other retailers."

"It is going to help all consumers," Lewis said. Wilson said Lewis was asking the House to "validate a deal cut before the session between wholesale beer distributors and retail package stores."

He said that while the beer distributors' lobby wanted the bill, individual distributors "understand now they bought a pig in the poke when they accepted the deal cut by their association."

Lewis also mustered a 76-56 vote to defeat an amendment allowing the Spoetzl Brewery, maker of Shiner beer, to continue selling direct to consumers.

Rep. Bob Leonard, D-Fort Worth, failed, 86-46, to eliminate all state restrictions on beer container sizes, saying that should be left to the market.

"If people want to buy it in a thimble, I don't care. That's their right," said Leonard.

In other action, the House passed and sent to the Senate bills that would:

—Place all 29 aircraft owned or leased by the state into a central pool, removing them from the control of individual agencies. A five-member State Aircraft Pooling Board would take control of the aircraft and check them out as needed for official business trips.

—Automatically restore convicted felons' right to vote when they have completed their sentences, including probation or parole.

—Require payment under health insurance policies for covered services performed by dentists.

—Exempt special telephone equipment for the deaf from sales taxes.

Senators passed a bill establishing a $5 million state fund to clean up abandoned hazardous waste dumps. Existing waste site operators would pay up to $10,000 annually to support the fund.

The genetics counseling program at the Denton State School would become an independent agency under the state mental health department under another Senate-passed bill. The program has 13 regional centers throughout the state. The bill now goes to the House.

Other legislation sent to the House by the Senate would allow higher add-on interest rates on installment purchases of heavy commercial vehicles.

Firefighters' masks defective, officials claim

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Three firemen fighting an early Sunday fire at a cafe died because their oxygen masks apparently contained carbon monoxide, city officials have concluded.

The officials called a news conference Wednesday night and said laboratory tests in Dallas on the firefighters' air packs showed they contained carbon monoxide.

Autopsies on the three showed they had a 50 percent level of carbon monoxide in their blood. A level of from 50 to 75 percent produces a coma, followed by death, officials said.

It earlier had been thought the men died because of toxic fumes, perhaps from ceiling tile, but no traces of other poisonous vapors was found in the victims' bodies.

The men were found lying on the floor, within six feet of each other, in a part of a restaurant that wasn't on fire early Sunday. Their deaths mystified fire officials who weren't aware the men were missing for awhile.

Fire Department officials immediately discontinued use of compressors, previously used to replace oxygen in firefighters' oxygen packs. They bought a new one and began using one obtained from Reese Air Force Base, officials said.

Tests were scheduled on the compressors as a possible source of the carbon monoxide.

The air masks of the three victims had pin-size holes in them, and officials had theorized a chemical caused by the fire had caused it, but later they discovered that other masks not used in the fire were similarly deteriorated.

Attorney to probe Bullock auto accident

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Travis County Attorney Jim McMurry says his office will talk to investigating police officers to see if Comptroller Bob Bullock was in violation of his probation when he was involved in an automobile accident.

"I wouldn't call it an investigation," McMurry said. "We are talking to the arresting officers and witnesses to see what happened."

"We're trying to treat Mr. Bullock just like any other ordinary citizen," he said. "No special privileges or anything."

Bullock was involved in a collision of a pickup truck stopped on a downtown street Monday. He was ticketed for "failure to control speed." He said in a statement Wednesday he was trying to dial his mobile phone and felt there were no other contributing circumstances.

Police officer Karen Brune, who investigated the accident, told the Austin American Statesman she thought Bullock had been drinking but not to the point that he should have been jailed.

Bullock pleaded guilty in July 1978 to driving while intoxicated and was placed on a year's probation. One of the terms of the probation was that Bullock not drink.

Grandfalls Flea Market, Playday scheduled April 21

GRANDFALLS — The annual Grandfalls Flea Market and Playday will be held here Saturday, April 21, in the Grandfalls Park, according to Ben Smith, president of the Grandfalls-Royalty Chamber of Commerce.

Plenty of parking space will be provided for merchants to display their goods in the area next to the swimming pool. Electricity will be provided for those needing connections. Prizes will be given each hour throughout the day. Also a drawing for a colored TV will be held that evening.

Paul Varner, owner of Varner Well Service, will have charge of the games, and promises some interesting ones for both old and young.

The Alter Society of St. Gertrudes Church will have Mexican food for sale. This has always been one of the most popular booths at the Flea Market.

Many activities are being planned for the day-long festival and there may be an outdoor dance, if arrangements can be made for music. Details will be available later.

Booth space will rent for $10 each. Mrs. Dorothy Kuykendall is in charge of them, and will be assisted by Mrs. Beverly Murphy. A request can be made for space by writing Box 364, Grandfalls 79742 or calling Mrs. Kuykendall or Mrs. Murphy after 4:30 p.m. week days, at 547-2808 or 547-2877 Grandfalls, Texas.

A number of bedding plants, shrubs and hanging baskets will also be for sale. Admission is free to the grounds. The park is in the Northeast end of Grandfalls, 2 blocks from Highway 18 on Avenue A.

CALLAGHAN CRUCIAL VOTE — British Prime Minister James Callaghan waves as he leaves 10 Downing Street, his official residence, Wednesday, for the House of Commons where his minority Labor Government faces a crucial no-confidence vote. If Labor loses, Callaghan will be forced to resign and call a general election.

Queen calls for election in England on May 3

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II today called a general election for May 3 following the ouster of Prime Minister James Callaghan's minority Labor government in a historic no-confidence vote.

Callaghan's office said in an announcement that the monarch set April 7 for the dissolution of the current Parliament and May 9 for the first session of the new Parliament.

The government was ousted Wednesday night by a margin of only one vote, 311 to 310, in the House of Commons. If, as opinion polls indicate, the opposition Conservatives win the election, their 53-year-old leader, Margaret Thatcher, will become Europe's first woman prime minister.

The announcement of the date for electing a new

House of Commons came after a somber Callaghan drove to Buckingham Palace to inform the queen that his government no longer commands a majority in the house. The monarch has to dissolve Parliament before an election can take place.

A crowd of 200 Labor supporters cheered the 67-year-old Callaghan today as he left his official residence, 10 Downing Street, after a Cabinet meeting for the short drive to the palace.

Callaghan, nicknamed "Sunny Jim," managed only a wan smile and a wave.

Mrs. Thatcher, by contrast, had a bacon-and-eggs breakfast in bed after celebrating with friends until 2 a.m.

On the London Stock Exchange, share prices soared. The market hopes a Conservative election win will bring firmer monetary policies and a business boom.

Mrs. Thatcher casually moved the motion "that this house has no confidence in Her Majesty's Government" Wednesday night, then accused the government of four things she said contributed to Britain's decline during its five years in power: too little attention to formation of capital, too much state centralization, an imbalance of power between unions and employers, and lack of government support for the rule of law.

"The government has failed the nation, lost credibility and the time for it to go has come," Mrs. Thatcher declared.

When the vote came, the 279 Conservatives were joined by 13 Liberals, 11 Scottish Nationalists, 5 Ulster Unionists and 3 Ulster Independents.

Police trial

jury verdict

to take time

HOUSTON (AP) — The jury in the trial of three former Houston policemen charged in the shooting death of a Shreveport, La., teen-ager may be a while deciding its verdict.

The jury, which isn't being sequestered, entered its second full day of deliberations at 9 a.m. today. It already had been at its work a little more than eight hours.

The possible shape of things to come entered the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Finis E. Cowan Wednesday when the jury foreman asked what procedure the panel should follow if deliberations continued into the weekend.

Cowan told the jury to set its own schedule, advising that if a verdict were not reached today, the jury could work Friday and Saturday, or take off until Monday.

The defendants — Danny H. Mays, 32, Norval Wayne Holloway, 29, and Paul D. Dillon, 38 — were charged in connection with the Feb. 8, 1977, death of Randall Alan Webster following a high-speed police chase in southwest Houston.

The defense contended during the trial that Mays shot Webster in self-defense. The prosecution alleged the officer's pistol went off when he struck the youth in the head while he was trying to surrender.

The prosecution accused all three of conspiring to cover up the truth by planting a "throwdown" gun beside Webster's body and lying to the grand jury that investigated the incident.

This trial is one of a series of actions taken against members of the Houston Police Department. It follows recent convictions of several officers, including a former officer, and precedes a case still pending against two former officers.

Former police chief Carroll Lynn was convicted last December of four charges stemming from a scheme to collect a $45,000 bribe from former Houston oilman John Vincent Holden, who was charged in another case with mail fraud and violations of securities violations.

In an earlier trial, three officers were found guilty of drowning Joe Campos Torres, 23, on May 8, 1977, in the waters of Buffalo Bayou, a stream flowing through a section of downtown Houston.

A federal court jury convicted Terry Denson, 27, Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph J. Janish, 22, of a felony violation of Torres' civil rights.

Six officers originally were involved in the case. Torres had been arrested three days before his death during a disturbance at a tavern.

The case now pending involves two former officers indicted by a grand jury on civil rights charges stemming from the July 1975 slaying of Billy Keith Jovvies, 18.

Walter Earl Plaster, 53, and John Stephen White, 27, are charged with planting a pistol in Jovvies' car shortly after the Houston youth was killed by police bullets.

Jovvies was shot once in the head after a high-speed police chase on the streets and freeways of Houston.

TWEEN 12 and 20 — A parent's responsibility

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 13 and have no freedom. After school, I have to clean the house and take care of my sister and brother who are 5 and 4 years old.

My sister used to help but she moved out of the house when my mom caught her shooting up heroin.

My dad is always drinking wine and beer so we don't have any money to pay our bills.

My glasses have been broken for over two months and I don't know when they will be fixed.

Please help me by printing this in your column because my mother reads it all the time. — Irene, Fort Smith, Ark.

Irene's Mom: Thirteen-year-old daughters should help but not be responsible for cleaning the house and taking care of young brothers and sisters.

Parents also have a legal and moral responsibility for the safety and welfare of their children. If your husband's drinking interferes with this responsibility, get assistance, and do it now!

Dr. Wallace: I don't know what to do to help my 15-year-old brother. He is constantly getting into trouble and he is very disrespectful to our parents.

He is on probation but he doesn't believe his probation officer is there to help him. The school calls almost every day because he seldom attends. He's not supposed to associate with one certain boy but he still hangs around with him.

The lies he tells and the grief he causes my parents are "unreal."

What can I do to help him stop these habits? I'm 18 years old. — Rose, Newton, N.J.

Rose: Nothing you say or do will help your brother. He will have to learn the hard way. He is violating the terms of his probation in several different ways and his probation officer should be made aware of it.

Have your parents notify his parole officer and if they won't, you do it!

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Free home buyers seminar April 19

A free seminar designed to help first-time home buyers understand the steps involved in purchasing a house will be presented at 7:30 p.m., April 19 at the Cactus Room, Howard College Student Union Building.

The seminar is sponsored by the Big Spring Board of Realtors and is open to the public. Forum participants will discuss what to look for in a first home, how to reconcile "home wants" with ability to pay, how to determine the price home you can afford, information on closing costs and formal procedures involved in buying a home.

The financial discussion will cover conventional financing, VA and FHA programs, as well as new plans available to some low-income buyers. A question and answer session will follow the panel discussion.

Speakers are Rufus Rowland, Charles Bell, Marc Campbell, Bobbie Reynolds, Bill Estes, Mike McKinney, Pat Medley and moderator Jeff Brown.

"The high costs of land, labor and materials, as well as the increasing rate of inflation, have made home buying difficult for many people, but especially so for the first-time buyer who may be in a low-income bracket," said Pat Medley, president of the Board of Realtors. "While the Board cannot lower the basic costs of buying a home, we feel we can offer expert advice to those who do want to purchase a home, particularly a first home."

Elbian Henderson, vice president of the Board, said, "We planned the program to help educate the first-time buyer about some of the pitfalls in home purchasing."

Information in the seminar is aimed at those who are now actively seeking a home, as well as those who plan to purchase in the future.

Mrs. Ronnie Hillger is shower honoree

Mrs. Ronnie Hillger, nee Rose Armstrong and formerly of Snyder, was the honoree at a bridal shower March 18 in the home of Mrs. John Robinson of Garden City at 2:30 p.m.

Wooten, justice of the peace and uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony.

Deadline extended

According to Nelda Colclazer, director of this year's Cinderella Girl Pageant, deadline has been extended until April 1.

Anyone interested in entering is welcomed to attend the pageant tea at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. Entries will be accepted there.

Baby shower held in Baptist church

A baby shower was held in the honor of Mrs. Darrell Blagrove in the fellowship hall of Trinity Baptist Church from 9:30-11 a.m. on March 24.

Hostesses for the event included Mrs. Nathan Stallcup, Mrs. Jim Newson, Mrs. Jack Shaffer, Mrs. George Murphy, Mrs. Roy Shaffer and Mrs. Jesse Majors.

They presented Mrs. Blagrove with a corsage composed of baby rat-ties, baby pins and white daisies. Hostess gift was a gown and robe set.

The table was draped with white floor-length cloth, trimmed with baby green satin ribbon. A baby cradle covered in white lace and baby green and yellow gingham flowers enhanced the setting as centerpiece. Refreshments of coffee served from a white ironstone service and doughnuts were enjoyed by those attending.

Other hostesses for the event, in addition to Mrs. Robinson, were Mrs. Steven Hirt and Mrs. Henry Hillger.

Out-of-town guests attended from Midland, Odessa and Eldorado. Refreshments of cake and punch were served from a table draped with white lace cloth. Crystal appointments were used.

The couple were married Feb. 18 at the home of Mrs. W.L. Robinson, grandmother of the groom. Ervin

A beef tip roast is an excellent choice for rotisserie roasting. It's easy to balance this compact cut on the rod so that it turns evenly and steadily. Since this roast is lean, boneless and practically waste-free, it provides more flavor-packed slices of meat per pound than most cuts. Brushing it with barbecue sauce, as in this recipe, supplies a popular supplementary flavor, says Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board home economist.

BARBECUED TIP ROAST
4 to 6-pound beef tip roast, tied Barbecue sauce

Insert rotisserie rod lengthwise through center of roast. Balance roast and tighten spit forks to fasten meat securely so that it turns only with the rod. Insert roast meat thermometer at a slight angle, so the tip is in the center of the roast but not resting in fat or on rotisserie rod. Place on rotisserie and roast at moderate temperature until meat thermometer registers 130 degrees F. Continue roasting, brushing frequently with barbecue sauce to desired degree of doneness — 140 degrees F. to 160 degrees F. When thermometer registers about 5 degrees F. below desired doneness, remove meat from rotisserie and allow to stand 10 to 15 minutes before carving into thin slices.

Honesty Best Policy But Premium Is High

DEAR ABBY: I want to share something with you that bothers me. My brother and six other guys were drinking at a friend's house. They were all on the basketball team at the time. The rule of the team is that no player is allowed to drink.

Well, the coach heard about it and got all the guys together and asked them flat out if they had been drinking. Two "brave" guys admitted it. The others lied.

I always thought honesty was the best policy, but I've changed my mind. The two guys who told the truth got kicked off the team. The ones who lied are still on it.

I no longer believe it pays to be honest. This incident proved it.

DISGUSTED WITH LIFE

DEAR DISGUSTED: The guys who were kicked off the team were punished for breaking the rules, not for telling the truth. Everyone must live with his own conscience, and the two who were honest scored much higher in self-esteem than those who lied.

Don't blame the coach. He had to stick by the rules, but I'm sure he appreciates the integrity of the two who confessed their guilt. (I'll bet he reinstates them. Please let me know.)

DEAR ABBY: In response to FEELING GUILTY: Her story sounds like a carbon copy of my life.

I'm 27, and when I was younger I had an abortion. It was the only thing to do at the time, but I am a good Catholic and I was scared to go to confession.

After seven years of great anxiety, I finally went. The priest never said a word. I'm sure he has heard the same story many times. I was not excommunicated (he didn't even know who I was) but granted absolution.

I wish I had gone sooner. I am glad you told FEELING GUILTY to go to a priest and confess. If she follows your advice, she will feel like a new person.

RELIEVED REPENTER

Doctor's Day will be observed March 30

Doctor's Day will be observed March 30 in honor of members of the medical profession, both living and dead.

This date commemorates one of the greatest discoveries in medical history. Dr. Crawford Long, a Georgia physician, first used ether as an anesthetic in a surgical operation. This act has provided mankind with freedom of pain and suffering during surgery.

The medical auxiliaries encourage some act of kindness, gift, or tribute in honor of the men and women who daily devote service to humanity by ministering to their health needs.

The red carnation has become the floral symbol of Doctor's Day and the Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary will decorate the tray of each patient in the hospital and each doctor's wife will send her spouse a red carnation to commemorate this day.

Westside Community Daycare Center receives over $900

The Westside Community Daycare Center is more than $900 closer to the money it must raise locally, thanks to efforts of the Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary and the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club.

"Fashion Garden," the auxiliary's showing last Saturday of spring fashions from Swartz, enabled the auxiliary to give $875 to the daycare center.

The auxiliary was joined in its support of the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club, which is adding $350 to the $575 raised by the medical wives, according to auxiliary president Donna Fish.

Now operating at a full capacity of 55 children in its new quarters in the renovated Webb Air Force Base Youth Center, the Westside Daycare Center serves low income families, charging fees determined by parents' income.

As a Title 20 daycare center, it qualifies for 70 percent state and federal funding. However, 30 percent of its budget must come from local sources — which include both parent fees and donations like these made by the Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary and the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club.

It is hoped, according to director Pat Lawlis, that other community organizations will join in helping the Westside Daycare Center provide the nearly $51,000 which must come from local sources.

"Community support is especially crucial this year," stated Mrs. Lawlis, "because the Westside Community Center which has been donor agency for the daycare center since it was founded in 1973 will cease to be donor agency in October.

"We are especially grateful to these two organizations for their tremendous efforts," concluded the daycare center director.

Mrs. Odelle Womack speaks to members

Mrs. E.D. Campbell hosted the Rosebud Garden Club meeting at the Dora Roberts Community Center Tuesday.

Mrs. Odell Womack was the speaker on the subject of plants of Texas, Florida, and Jamaica. She gave a list of Texas wild flowers which are on the conservation list. Blue Star and Texas Blue Bonnets are included and are not to be picked from the countryside.

Mr. and Mrs. Womack recently traveled in Jamaica where they observed the jungle. The average temperature is 87 degrees. Much of the food is imported because of the scarcity of farm land. They sampled a fruit called bread fruit that actually tasted like bread when it was baked.

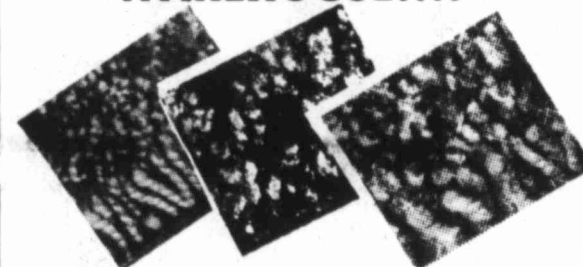

Succulents of all kinds thrive in Jamaica.

According to Mrs. Womack, Acaes resemble red apples on trees. At certain stages of its growth, the Acaes is poisonous. At just the right degree of ripeness, the Acaes is no longer poisonous.

Mrs. Tommy Hubbard presided over the business meeting as members contributed to cost of the tree planted on Arbor Day. This was part of the club's civic beautification project.

Next meeting will be April 24 at the Dora Roberts Community center.

Tison Brothers sentenced

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — A Yuma County Superior Court judge sentenced Ricky and Raymond Tison to die in the gas chamber for the Aug. 1 shotgun murders of four members of an Omaha family in the southwest Arizona desert.

The Tison brothers are also accused of murdering a honeymooning couple from Amarillo, Texas, last summer during a crime spree. They have not been tried on those charges yet.

The Tisons and Randy Greenawalt were sentenced to die for the deaths of Marine Sgt. John Lyons, his wife, 22-month-old son, and 15-year-old niece. Judge Douglas Keddie presided and sentenced the brothers. Greenawalt, 30, of Thornton, Colo., was sentenced by Keddie on Monday to die in the Arizona State Prison gas chamber.

Ricky Tison, 20, and his brother Raymond, 19, both of Casa Grande, Ariz., were convicted on 10 charges, including first degree murder, kidnapping, armed robbery and auto theft.

Testimony during the trial indicated that they did not actually fire the shotguns that killed the Lyons family, but under Arizona law they were tried for first degree murder because they were participants in the event.

Lyons, a Marine assigned to Yuma, was traveling on leave when he was ambushed by Greenawalt, Gary Tison and his three sons, Donald, Ricky and Raymond.

The three sons had used sawed-off shotguns to break Greenawalt and their father out of the Arizona State Prison and were fleeing when their car broke down near Quartzsite.

The gang then fled in Lyons' car to the Flagstaff area before continuing on to Colorado in another vehicle, authorities said.

The gang was captured Aug. 11 at a roadblock shootout near the Tisons' hometown of Casa Grande. Donald Tison was shot to death and Gary Tison was found dead later of exposure.

A van recovered at the roadblock was stolen from James and Margene Judge of Amarillo, whose bodies were found in November in southwestern Colorado.

Greenawalt and the Tison brothers face a murder trial in Colorado for the shooting deaths of the honeymoon Texas couple.

Stenholm to oppose gas rationing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Cong. Charles W. Stenholm indicates that he will oppose gasoline rationing in the Congress, because he cannot approve of the program as it is presently proposed.

On March 1, 1979, as required by the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975, President Carter officially submitted his Standby Gasoline Rationing Plan to Congress for its approval.

The plan does not take into account the needs and the differences in driving patterns of rural areas such as the 17th District. This inequitable plan will put the major burden of gasoline rationing on southern and western rural workers.

Texas residents would be required to buy ration coupons from coupon holders in the Northeast where per capita income is greater and per capita gasoline consumption is less. This would be one of the largest income transfer programs in the history of Big Government.

Bond for Hanke set at $5,000

Earl Perry Hanke, Sterling City Route, was transferred to county jail after his arrest Tuesday on suspicion of possession of a controlled substance. Bond was set at $5,000 by City Judge John Coffey.

Sam Hunnicutt misinterpreted?

Sam Hunnicutt, a candidate for Place 4 on the Big Spring city council, said this morning he feels his remarks made before a large group of citizens in a public forum-type meeting might have been misinterpreted.

Hunnicutt was credited with saying he believed members of the city police are "making enough money now."

"I did not mean they should not get a raise," Hunnicutt said this morning. "I did say that they have had two raises since last October. I am for fair, equitable salaries for public employees but we have to take a look at the pay scales of all city employees when we discuss possible raises."

Goal reached for purchase of drug-sniffing canine

Big Spring residents and business firms responded wholeheartedly to an appeal made by Police Chief Stanley Bogard for funds to purchase a drug-sniffing dog.

The original goal was $5,000, Bogard said, but donations to date have amounted to more than $6,300. The excess money will be used to maintain the animal, according to the police chief.

The dog is a 14-month-old German Shepherd now being trained by Sam Dooley in Albuquerque, N.M. The dog likely will be brought here in six weeks.

Individuals and firms donating to the dog fund include the Big Spring IAS,

Malone-Hogan Hospital service awards given

Three hundred and eighty-five years of service were recognized March 22 when Malone-Hogan Hospital held its service award dinner at the Big Spring Country Club.

One award was given posthumously. Eight employees received 20-year pins, while six were awarded 10-year pins, and another six were recognized with 5-year pins.

Receiving 20-year pins were Myrtle Banks, Delia Cevallos, Vickie Moore, Margarita Morales, Eugenia Salazar, Flora Salazar, Loraine Shirley and Mae Belle Rice. Ten-year pins were given to Betty Garner, Felipe Galindo, Belva Harrington, Mollie Smith, Patsy Tercero and Gertrude Unger. Hal Boyd, Alma Higgins, Merly Jackson, Lenny Prudhomme, Kenneth Randall and Sarah Traylor earned 5-year service pins.

In the above-20 years of service, Roney Woods, long-term employee in the radiology department, was presented with a 25-year pin, followed by 30-year veterans Letha Duke, and Deirdra Whitley.

One special award was given to Dr. P.W. Malone, co-founder of the hospital, in recognition for his services as a member of the hospital board of trustees. Dr. Malone has been a member of the board for five years. The doctor received a standing ovation, as he received his pin.

Accepting a 15-year pin, given posthumously to Danny Meacham, was her daughter, Charlsia Myers.

Wives form club

Wives of service chiefs, assistant service chiefs, physicians, psychologists, and dentists of the Veterans Administration Medical Center met Sunday in the home of Mrs. Paula Evers to form a VA Wives Club. Also included were women who held these positions as well as women who were formerly involved in these professions.

The purpose of the organization is two-fold. First, it will provide an opportunity for the wives to become better acquainted and plan activities through fellowship. Secondly, the group will have a courtesy committee which will serve to supplement the Medical Center staff and volunteers for special events such as tours, lunches, coffees and special Veterans Day functions.

Officers and committee chairpersons elected were Mrs. Paula Evers, president; Mrs. Evelyn Margolis, vice president; Mrs. Sue Dahl, secretary-treasurer; Sharon Balderach, courtesy committee; Mrs. Dene Shepard, social committee; and Evelyn Margolis, hostess committee.

Meetings will be held in the Fireplace Room, Building 7 at the VA Medical Center the first Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

The next meeting will be held April 3 to plan the year's calendar of events. Any special interests or suggestions will be worked into the year's calendar plus several upcoming community events which would be of interest to the group. A family picnic is also planned for May. Meetings will not be scheduled during the summer months but will resume in September.

WITCH BURNING — Big Spring High School drama students (left to right) Brenda Clay, Sandy Kuykendall, Jan Whittington and Robin von Rosenberg, will present the play "To Burn A Witch" at 4:30 p.m. today in one-act play competition. The two players at right have been accused of being witches, and could just be burned at the stake. Students from Abilene, Midland, Big Spring, Odessa and San Angelo will present productions until 10:30 p.m. at Big Spring High School.

Hustler publisher vows

Conviction won't stop sales

ATLANTA (AP) — Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt says neither his conviction on obscenity charges nor the threat of imprisonment will keep him from selling his sex-oriented magazines in Georgia.

After a jury found Flynt guilty of 11 counts of obscenity Wednesday, Fulton County State Judge Nick Lambros fined him $27,500 and sentenced him to terms totaling 11 years in jail, to be served consecutively.

Lambros said the jail terms would be suspended on payment of the fine and on the condition that Flynt refrain from violating Georgia's obscenity laws again. But Flynt said at a news conference after the trial that he intended to continue selling Hustler and Chic magazines here. "The judge said as long as I didn't break any Georgia laws," he said. "Who's to say future issues will be obscene?" Defense attorney Herald Fahringer noted Flynt continues to sell the magazines in Cincinnati, where he was convicted on similar charges.

Fahringer said he would base an appeal on Lambros' refusal to allow the defense to introduce the results of a poll that reportedly showed most Fulton County residents believe people should be allowed to read sexually explicit magazines.

Flynt, who was released on $27,500 bond, said he "felt there was collusion between the prosecution and the judge."

"There was no way I could get a fair trial," Flynt said. "He (Judge Lambros) excluded all our attempts to show contemporary community standards."

Flynt, heavily guarded during the eight-day trial, remains paralyzed from the mid-thigh down since he was shot from ambush a year ago during a similar obscenity trial in nearby Lawrenceville, Ga.

Attorney Gilkerson filed writ of habeas corpus for Marquez

Attorney for writ of habeas corpus for Robert Marquez was incorrectly reported as Robert Moore. Marquez' attorney is George Gilkerson.

The suit says bail is denied Marquez illegally "as an investigatory aid by law enforcement officials." District Probation Officer

Guy Talbot said, however, Marquez was on probation at the time of his arrest and probationers are not allowed bail when arrested. Howard County Sheriff A. N. Standard's name is on the suit as a formality. Habeas corpus papers are always filed against the authority holding the prisoner. Standard does not set bails.

Goodfellow AFB to shut down

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — The closing of Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo was one of 103 military cutbacks announced today in Washington by the Pentagon. The closing, confirmed Wednesday by governmental officials, will save $10.8 million a year, the government said.

It also was learned Wednesday that the helicopter repair facilities in New Cumberland, Pa., will be moved to the Army depot in Corpus Christi, in a move that over a period of four years will involve the transfer of 233 civilian jobs and three military positions. The Corpus Christi depot now employs 3,200 civilians.

The Goodfellow base will be shut down "sometime in 1981," with the base's training missions moved perhaps to Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi or to Corry Station at Pensacola Naval Air Station in Florida, it was learned.

Deaths

James Johnson

James Johnson, 54, died at 10:55 p.m. Wednesday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born Nov. 24, 1924 in Rogers, Texas. He had lived in Big Spring for a month coming here from Snyder. He was a cook at the Country Fare Restaurant. He was a veteran of WWII, serving in the Army. He married Rosetta Venville in Temple, Texas. She preceded him in death April 28, 1960.

He is survived by two sons, Van Johnson of Snyder and Todd Burnett Johnson of Temple; two daughters, Sharon Elaine Johnson and James Elita Johnson, both of Temple; three brothers, Ted Johnson of Boston, Mass., and Melvin Felix Johnson and Clarence Johnson, both of Temple; one sister, Josephine King of Temple and three grandchildren.

Born Aug. 8, 1923, in Erath County, he married Mary Ann Harms Feb. 14, 1956, in San Antonio. They moved to Mitchell County in December of 1957.

He is survived by his father, Ben Fincher of Huckabay, Tex.; his wife of the home; two sons, Pete Nolan and Brad Kirk, both of the home; three sisters, Mrs. Fern Maughon of Fort Worth, Miss Nannie D. Fincher of Huckabay and Nelda Fay Rawson of Cortez, Colo.

He was a member of the Church of Christ and a veteran of World War II.

Police beat Woman, officer scuffle

Officer Troy Hogue got more than he bargained for during a routine speeding violation check, 9:20 a.m. Wednesday.

According to reports, Hogue stopped Fernanda Morales, 207 Benton, for allegedly speeding through a school zone on the 1000 block of Birdwell. When he asked for her signature on the citation, she refused.

Then, according to Hogue, he advised her that she was under arrest, and she scratched him on the face. She also hit and kicked him, said Hogue.

Ms. Morales now faces charges of resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer.

Ms. Morales, an employee at a local hospital, claimed she did not fully understand the officer's orders and resented being pulled from her vehicle. She pointed to what she said was her good record as a citizen and a driver.

Car burglars ripped off a tape case, containing 30 eight-track tapes from an auto belonging to Dannie E. Stevens, Gail Route. The car was parked in the lot of the Bogart's Club, Wednesday night. Loss was estimated at $150.

Douglas Lloyd, 1010 E. 14th, heard a knock at his front door, 9 p.m. Wednesday. When he went to answer it, a rock sailed through his living room window. Damage was estimated at $40.

Another window was smashed at the home of Dr. B. Broadrick, 1510 Dayton, Tuesday night. The window is thought to have been broken by burglars who were ultimately unsuccessful in getting inside the home. Damage was estimated at $20.

Vandals broke a concrete birdbath in the backyard of the Donald Murphy home, 1700 Purdue. The bath was valued at $30.

Burglars broke into the Auto Supermarket, 905 4th, through the west window of the office, early this morning. The only items stolen were two sets of keys to two Chevrolet Monte Carlos. Loss was estimated at $15.

Three fender benders were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Manuel

C. Castleberry, Route 1, and Vandra V. Grigg, Box 2532, collided on the South Service Road of IS 20, 3:24 p.m.

A vehicle driven by Cecil Long, Garden City Route, struck a parked vehicle belonging to Daniel Flores, 710 N.W. 9th in the lot of the Foodway Store, 10:48 a.m.

A vehicle driven by Cindy Cheathan, 1602 Canary, struck a parked car belonging to the Dacco Refrigerator Company of Dallas, in the parking lot of the McDonald's Drive-in, 12:16 p.m.

SUGAR RAY LEONARD KO's DANIEL GONZALEZ in last Saturday afternoon's bout. Leonard and his promoters are hoping that their budding star can move into a prime time boxing slot like the heavyweights.

Leonard hoping for prime time

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Writer

So far, only the heavyweights have been allowed to pound the daylights out of each other as headliners on night time television. The networks obviously don't feel the prime time public is ready to watch bushes get chopped down when tall trees are available.

But welterweight Sugar Ray Leonard is a good bet to break the "Pound Barrier."

Leonard, the stylish Olympic champion from

Silver Spring, Md., knocked out Daniel Gonzalez in the first round Saturday afternoon on ABC. That was some 16 hours after World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes pummeled Ossie Ocasio in seven rounds on ABC Friday night.

Leonard has been gaining a following as a matinee fighter, but his handlers are looking to make him a star under the stars. It was "learned that Leonard's fight with Gonzalez was the first of a five-fight, $1 million contract with ABC, which will air his next four bouts before the end of August.

The network thinking is that the little guys — anybody other than a heavyweight — cannot carry a prime time audience. In other words, their ratings would be too small for the small screen.

"The basic appeal is the heavyweights," said Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC Sports. "But Sugar Ray is clearly an outstanding draw."

Spence said the second of Leonard's four fights could be an undercard to a prime time broadcast. But it wouldn't be the main event. "I don't think that Sugar Ray, as a separate entity, is strong enough for prime time alone," he said.

What if Leonard were matched against Panama's

Roberto Duran, called by many the best fighter "pound for pound" in the world? Duran, the recently abdicated lightweight champion who is climbing the ranks in the welterweight division, currently is rated below Leonard.

"That probably would do quite well," said Spence. "It would be a special, special fight. I would have less reservations about that one."

Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney and business manager, doesn't believe in the "Pound Barrier."

"I don't think weight should make that much difference for Sugar Ray," said Trainer. "He's completely different. If you put him on an evening fight, he'd do fine. Put Larry Holmes on Saturday afternoon, and see what happens."

Lopez favored again

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, shaking off the sophomore jinx and looking for her third straight victory, is the clear-cut favorite in a $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament scheduled to begin today at Mesa Verde Country Club.

Winner of nine tournaments last year during her stunning rookie season on the tour, Lopez has won the last two LPGA tournaments on the tour.

A victory last week in the Sahara Open boosted her into an early lead in money winnings with $42,300. Lopez, 22, won $189,813 last year.

The LPGA's top 39 money winners are among the field of 115 pros and three amateurs for this tournament, which ranks among the richest on the tour.

Three inches of rain in 36 hours left the 6,134-yard, par 71 Mesa Verde layout a swamp earlier this week, forcing cancellation of Wednesday's pro-am. But clear skies were predicted for the first round, which was to be played under winter rules.

The tournament is sponsored by Kemper Insurance.

Cowens glad John Y. Brown is leaving

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Boston Celtics player-coach Dave Cowens described Wednesday the probable departure of the National Basketball Association's co-owner, John Y. Brown, as "the best news I've heard all year."

Brown announced Tuesday that he was seeking the Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky and probably would sell his half-ownership of the team to partner Harry Mangurian.

Cowens said an owner should be compatible with a general manager and coach, and he did not think that was the case with Brown.

"I don't think the owner should feel around with the players. He should be involved in what goes on in the office and things like that," Cowens said. "I don't think it's been an ideal situation this year. I think it's been somewhat tense at certain times, and I think our losing didn't help."

Cowens was here for a Celtics game against the Milwaukee Bucks.

Bradshaw released

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Quarterback Terry Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers was to be released today from Divine Providence Hospital following minor surgery Tuesday for removal of a bone spur on his left wrist, a team spokesman said.

Brown accepts UCLA position

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Many college coaches hope for the day when they can advance to the professional ranks, with a corresponding jump in pay and prestige.

Not Larry Brown. Brown, who resigned as coach of the Denver Nuggets earlier this year, said Wednesday that he is extremely happy to be UCLA's new basketball coach.

"This is a great moment for me, and I hope in the future UCLA can say the same thing," Brown said at a press conference announcing his appointment. "I was hoping I wouldn't have to go back to the pros. The pros are good for certain people, and it gave me the opportunity to coach. But I didn't think I was suited to that type of job."

"I love to coach basketball," he continued, "and I think I can contribute more in the college game than in the pros."

Brown, 38, succeeds Gary Cunningham, who resigned last week, saying he wants to spend more time with his family. Cunningham said he plans to take an administrative post at UCLA.

Brown was a guard at North Carolina, played and coached in the now-defunct American Basketball Association, then coached the National Basketball Association's Denver Nuggets. He was captain of his college team and a U.S. Olympian in 1964.

In 1968, the 5-foot-9 Brown was the Most Valuable Player in the ABA All-Star game.

UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan did not reveal terms of the contract but said it was for more than one year. Brown is believed to be making in the neighborhood of $40,000 annually, far less than his salary with the Nuggets.

The new UCLA coach resigned from the Nuggets on Feb. 1 and brings a 383-231 pro coaching record to Los Angeles.

Brown immediately rehired Bruin assistant coach Larry Farmer and said he would pick another assistant in the near future.

Rozelle, NFL owners nix instant replays

DALLAS (AP) — Video tape replay for professional sports is still science fiction thinking.

That's the conclusion reached Wednesday in a sports-broadcasting panel moderated by ABC News and Sports President Roone Arledge which involved Commissioners Pete Rozelle of the National Football League, Bowie Kuhn of major league baseball and Larry O'Brien of the National Basketball Association.

"It is a horrendous technical problem," Arledge said. Various camera angles make consistency impossible, he added.

"We'd love to have it but it is not feasible now," said Rozelle, who recently concluded a meeting with NFL owners in Hawaii.

"All 28 clubs concluded it was not feasible, perhaps technology in the future will make it possible," Rozelle added.

A controversial pass interference play against Dallas cornerback Benny Barnes in the Super Bowl triggered renewed pleas for video tape replays. Rozelle later admitted in a letter to a fan that no call should have been made on the play.

Tex Schramm, president of the Cowboys, was in the audience when Rozelle fielded the question. Noting Schramm's presence, Rozelle mused "I wonder where that question came from?" Schramm laughed.

O'Brien said there are just too many calls made in NBA games, adding "We'll just have to be subject to human frailty."

Kuhn blasts umpires

DALLAS (AP) — Umpires will be making a "serious mistake" if they fail to go back to work by the season-openers next week, says Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

In his first at-length statement on the umpires' boycott of spring exhibition games, Kuhn told national broadcasters Wednesday at their annual meeting that baseball owners are ready in case the arbiters stay away.

"We have plans for an alternate approach. The umpires would be making a serious mistake if they do not show up for work," he said.

"I hope these decent men see the errors of their ways. It is unfortunate we have the problem we have, but in this case they (the umpires) are way off base," added Kuhn.

The 51 umpires who work for both the American League and National League have yet to sign their individual 1979 contracts. With the umpires boycotting exhibition games, substitute umpires have worked the exhibition games in Florida and Arizona.

The umpires want more money and other improvements in a collective bargaining agreement negotiated last year. They are in the second year of a five-year agreement.

The owners asked a federal judge to order the umpires back to work, but the judge declined, saying he has no authority to order them back.

"There is no question in my mind they are entitled to bargain as individuals," the judge said Tuesday.

American League President Lee MacPhail said: "If these umpires don't want to work for us, we'll have to find umpires who do. The season will open on time, and we'll have umpires when it starts."

Umpire Bill Kunkel watched an exhibition game between Texas and Atlanta Wednesday at Pompano Beach, Fla. He said MacPhail sent him a telegram which said: "If I didn't sign my contract by Friday, I would be out of a job. I'm not going to sign unless he gives me the money I want."

The starting salary for a major league umpire is $17,500. Kunkel makes $32,000 and said he's asking for $51,000.

NBA Roundup

By The Associated Press

For the New Jersey Nets, it's not a case of whether you win or lose but how the other guys play the game. And happily for the Nets, the other guys are losing, too. "I know it sounds trite, and I know I've said it before, but we're taking them one at a time," Coach Kevin Loughery said Wednesday night after the Nets lost for the eighth time in 11 games — this time to the Washington Bullets, 127-108.

The Bullets, the winningest team in the NBA with a 51-24 record, beat New Jersey with bench strength. With starting guards Kevin Grevey and Tom Henderson out with injuries, Coach Dick Motta relied on reserves Charlie Johnson, Larry Wright and Phil Chenier — and they teamed for 52 points.

Sonics 111, Knicks 105

Dennis Johnson's 25 points and Jack Sikma's 21 paced Seattle past the Knicks. The Sonics, down 101-95, reeled off eight straight points but Earl Monroe's shot tied it 103-103.

Then Sikma and Johnson scored a bucket apiece to put the Sonics on top to stay and enabled them to chalk up their 48th victory.

Nuggets 115, Pistons 110

Dan Issel pumped in 29 points and hauled down 12 rebounds to propel the Nuggets to their sixth straight victory and 12th in their last 16 games — and into first place in the Midwest Division.

Bucks 135, Celtics 117

Milwaukee turned a 76-60 lead into a 94-92 deficit in the second half before Junior Bridgeman went to work, scoring 18 of his 30 points in the last 15 minutes to turn things around again.

76ers 112, Bulls 96

Julius Erving did a pretty good night's work in the first period alone, scoring 21 points against Chicago. Then he sat down for a spell while the 76ers operated without him, building a lead of 18 points in the second period.

Spurs 122, Jazz 94

San Antonio played without scoring ace George Gervin, sidelined by a virus. But the Spurs got 24 points from Larry Kenon and 10 or more from six teammates to rout New Orleans and halt a four-game slide.

Pacers 125, Rockets 124

Billy Knight's layup with four seconds to play shot down the Rockets. Knight had a season high 37 points for Indiana while Calvin Murphy led Houston with 33.

Suns 112, Lakers 106

Paul Westphal scored 32 points including a basket and two foul shots in the final minute to enable Phoenix to hold off the Lakers.

Warriors 132, Kings 122

Nate Williams, who entered the game late in the third period, finished with 17 points — nine of them in overtime. Williams' three-point play to open overtime put the Warriors in command for good.

Hangin' Out

by Nathan Poss

The Cinderella story of the Indiana State basketball team came to a screeching halt Monday night in the NCAA finals, but not before they had proven to the public that they were a legitimate national power. At least for the 78-79 season.

The Sycamores started out the season unranked and not even picked by many to win the Missouri Valley Conference title. 15 seasons ago, something similar happened to a basketball team from UCLA.

UCLA, like Indiana State, also went undefeated in the 63-64 season, and also advanced to the national finals unbeaten. But the Bruins didn't falter in their championship match, using their effective zone press to defeat Duke 96-83. It was the first national basketball championship in the school's history, and started one of the most reputable dynasties in history. UCLA went on to win 10 of the next 12 NCAA titles, all under the direction of John Wooden.

Wooden became a sort of living legend, and rightfully so. Even though he had the likes of Kareem Jabbar, Bill Walton, Lucious Allen, Sidney Wicks and countless others, it takes a great coach to blend championship talent to such a peak for a 12-year length of time.

Wooden now spends his time as a television commentator and a guest speaker. He recently spoke at the SMU basketball banquet, and had some of his own ideas on speeding up the game and recruiting.

The Wizard of Westwood claims that he is in favor of the 30-second clock for the college game. He validates his point by explaining that he did a study in the 1960's of old Hank Iba game films, and Iba's teams nearly always shot within 30 seconds. Wooden concluded: "If his teams could do it, there is no reason not to put the clock in."

Many argue the 30-second clock by saying that it would prevent the thinking and finesse from the college game, and ruin it by making it a run and gun affair like the NBA, in which the best athlete is usually rewarded.

Wooden doesn't go for this theory, however, explaining: "That is a completely erroneous idea. What hurts the pro game is too much one-on-one and too little team play, plus having 82 games to eliminate half-a-dozen teams and having playoffs into June. You can't depend on a pro game being exciting during the regular season."

Wooden also disdains the stall as a method for the underdog to achieve parity in a contest. "We found there were more upsets when the underdog played it's normal game."

Buying prospective college players also enters into his speech, and Wooden has some strong ideas about that. He believes that there is not as much of the buying of athletes as the public likes to think, and believes that stricter punishment should be enforced for those that are caught.

He doesn't stop with just punishing the school, but also penalize the coach and player. Wooden said: "If they do buy a player, we should fire the coach and bar the kid from participating at any school. He should not play anywhere. And don't tell me the youngster doesn't know if something is illegal. He knows he is being bought."

Of course, that's a little easier for someone who coaches at UCLA to say. The name UCLA and its location is in many cases much more valuable than money and will sell itself.

Speaking of Wooden, the top seven players on his first national championship team at UCLA were recently interviewed by Sports Illustrated magazine. The theme of the article dealt with how they accomplished what they did 15 years ago, how it affected them, and what it meant in their lives now.

An interesting aspect, but one true of many former successful athletes, is that they don't seem impressed with themselves over their being the first group that started the ensuing dynasty. But this is most true of many former successful athletes. The more successful ones don't toot their own horn, while the more frustrated ones tend to live on the 'ifs' and 'buts.'

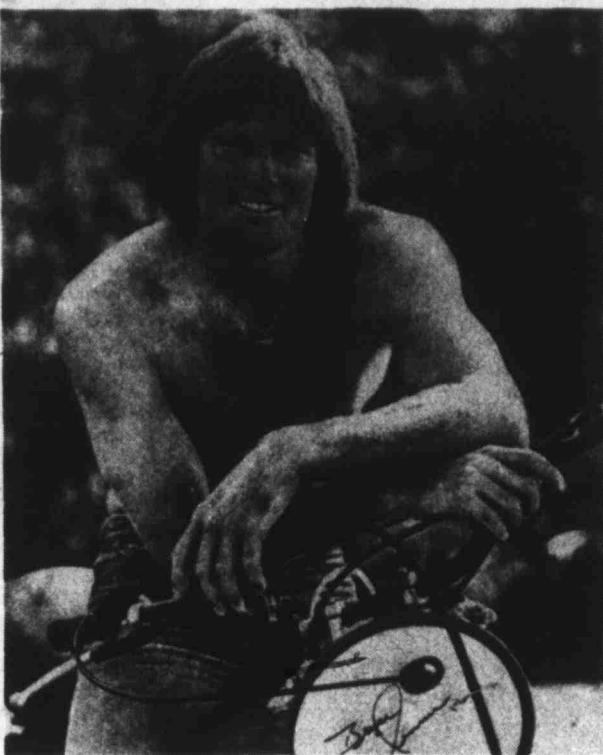

Here are some of their quotes on Wooden, winning and the present. MAHDI ABDUL-RAHMAN, a guard who used to be known as Walt Hazzard: "What I missed in the pros was playing with a coherent philosophy, as we did for Coach Wooden. Looking back at UCLA, I'm even prouder of the attitude we established there. And I think I had as much to do with that as any player. I was the passer and, when you have one player passing, it becomes contagious. Nobody ever expected us to win, but we knew if we stayed together we were never out of it."

KEITH ERICKSON, considered by Wooden as the most talented athlete he ever coached: "The NCAA, the NBA, you get a watch or something and after three, four years, nobody remembers. So to have been on an NCAA championship team really doesn't mean anything. But now I know that what was important was playing for Wooden, because he was a wise man, a great man. Of course, I didn't know that at the time. He wasn't any big deal to me. I didn't listen to anything he said."

JACK HIRSCH, a rich Jew who played because his father wanted him to, and was known as the iconoclast of the team: "You can be more successful if you're organized and I consider myself successful now because I have peace of mind. It's like Mr. Wooden's famous quote, that success means you've done your best. That's peace of mind."

DOUG MCINTOSH, a backup center who is now an evangelist: "Winning? Let me tell you something. I never heard Coach Wooden mention it. The word 'win' never escaped his lips. Literally. He just asked us to play to our potential. But winning had to have something to do with it, because if you played to your potential, if you won when you did, then you could see what would result, and you could carry that over into situations of life."

FRED SLAUGHTER, who came to UCLA as a high scoring center, but who was relegated in Wooden's system to the role of a high-post screen: "Our success was based on acquiring an understanding of roles. There's something in that for us all, anywhere in society. That's not just what politicians talk about."

Naive Bird must understand his role

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Writer

There was a tragic as well as poignant note to the court-side scene last Monday night amid the wreckage of Indiana State's shattered perfect basketball record.

How can one forget the picture of Larry Bird, sitting on the bench in utter dejection, his tears buried in a towel? Yet it was an understandable reaction, disappointment of a great warrior who had fought his last battle and lost.

Less understandable was his failure to tighten his jaw and show up for the postgame press conference — a slight that reflected on his team, his college and himself. He had proved more accessible after the Sycamores' first-game victory.

His teammates showed, as did the stout-hearted kids of DePaul and Penn, whose hope and disappointment certainly were as deep.

Excuse us if you think this is a cry-baby whimper from a wounded press. The media (a ghastly label) have been exposed to worse indignities and survived. It is Bird's right, as a free man in a free society, to take the press or leave it, except in this case there are underlying obligations.

In Bird's case, the most demanding obligation is to himself.

He is a marvelous talent with a fantastic future. If he doesn't blow it, he has proved himself one of the great basketball performers of our generation — a strong, naturally gifted young player capable of earning a king's riches as a pro.

He hails from a rural community, French Lick,

Ind., population about 1,000. He preferred to remain in his home state and play with a relatively little known school in Terre Haute. Almost solely because of his skills, this team swept through 33 games and gained No. 1 national ranking before bowing to Michigan State in the NCAA finals.

No one ever accused the "Bird" of being sophisticated. Acclaim and myriad honors fell upon him with such sudden impact that he found it difficult to cope. As the No. 1 college basketball player in the nation, he was swooped down upon by strangers from everywhere seeking to peek into every nook of his life — the price of fame.

This is a cynical and often caustic world. Not every report suited the young man's fancy. He became bitter, suspicious and — in the end — a sullen recluse.

This majestic giant of a man, although a campus idol, shows no trace of being spoiled. Misunderstood? Yes. Arrogant? No. He plays the game unselfishly. He fights like a tiger. Teammates and associates hold him in the highest esteem.

The kink in his rugged armor is naive. He must doff the cloak of campus hero. He must move into the hard-bitten world of pro sports — perhaps as a million-dollar bonus baby of the Boston Celtics.

Now his skills go out on the market shelf — to be admired, bought and sold like a can of beans. People who buy a ticket feel he is part of their property. He must relate. He can't lock himself in an invisible isolation booth. He can't be an island.

"AND NOW, SON, FOR THE MOST IMPORTANT LESSON IN GOLF...HOW TO CHEAT WHEN YOU MARK YOUR BALL..."

UIL summer ruling has two sides

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Summer basketball and football camps for high school athletes would be just another place where "minority kiddos get the short end of the stick," says a South Texas athletic director.

C.E. "Chuck" Haynes of Corpus Christi testified Wednesday against Sen. Ron Clower's proposal to open training camps to Texas youths.

Now, a youngster who attends a basketball or football camp loses his eligibility, unless he has court permission.

Haynes said when he coached at Gladewater years ago, the football team was able to go to summer camp because the school district was oil-rich. But Marshall, for example, did not have enough money to send its players, he said.

"After two weeks of summer camp, we were at mid-season strength," said Haynes. "It was unfair, and I see that now."

Tony Koriath, an Austin lawyer, said Clower, D-Garland, introduced the bill on his behalf. Koriath said he had a direct interest since his son William is a freshman at McCallum High School and wants to play basketball.

Koriath described the UIL, which governs public school athletics, as a "phantom system nobody can understand or explain. ... You are judged guilty when you walk in. Basically, there are no remedies. There is no way ordinary folks ... can get due process and have an effective right of appeal."

If UIL representatives show up, he said, "we will have made progress, because you will have actually seen somebody from the UIL."

Several witnesses did show up to oppose Sen. Ron Clower's bill, including representatives of the UIL, Texas Association of Secondary School Principals, Texas High School Girls Coaches Association, Texas High School Coaches Association and Haynes, representing the athletic directors association.

Jack Johnson of Southlake, representing the UIL, said the organization "believes the rule has merit," but he noted UIL member schools will vote next week on a referendum that could abolish it.

He predicted, however, "There will be some commercialization and exploitation of the high school athlete" if camps are allowed.

"Those who are economically deprived," Johnson said, "will not have an opportunity" to participate in the camps. "In our opinion, each school and each athlete should have the same advantage to participate and compete. This will not be possible if restrictions or rules are lifted."

Sandra Meadows, girls basketball coach at Duncanville and president of the girls' coaches association, said the additional training would cause parents and coaches to put "undue pressures" on high school athletes to excel.

Friends and handicrafts made

Club gets newcomers involved

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Almost everyone experiences that lonely feeling of living in a new city, state or even country. For many, it's difficult to meet new friends and become involved in the various activities of a strange place.

Well, the Big Spring Newcomers Handcraft Club was originated to eliminate such problems.

According to Joy Fortenberry, Newcomer Greeting Service Hostess and sponsor of the club, the organization was originated almost 15 years ago by Mrs. Fortenberry and a newcomer to Big Spring who wanted to create an outlet in which new residents could meet people and learn handcraft skills at the same time.

"Whenever I greet new Big Springers," stated Mrs. Fortenberry, "I tell them about the club and invite them to attend one of our meetings."

Present officers are Mildred Beckcom, president; Wilma Grice, vice president; and Suncha Christensen, secretary-treasurer.

The club consists of 15 old members and eight new members. The new members include Gayle Bickel, Pat Beach, Fran Brackeen, Helen McIntyre, Bennie Evans, Wilma Clark, Jeanette Bumgardner, and Dorothy Painter.

"Our group is very informal and circumstances usually dictate how we go about different things," revealed one club member, Kit Moody. "We just have a good informal get together."

Meetings are held the first and third Wednesdays of each month at 9:30 a.m. in different members' homes. Dues are 50 cents a month and are payable twice a year.

"Newcomers, however, are invited to join us for the first two meetings free," explained Mrs. Grice.

Included in special projects conducted by the organization is a Newcomer's Coffee usually held semi-annually.

"Our coffee is basically a membership drive and all newcomers in Big Spring and surrounding communities are invited to attend and get acquainted," said Mrs. Fortenberry.

Other projects include taking care of a needy family each Christmas. They prepare a Christmas dinner of either turkey or ham and all the trimmings and distribute toys to the children. Members also help with the bazaar held at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Regular meetings are usually spent teaching each other various handicrafts.

If you're a newcomer to Big Spring and are anxious to get involved in community activities and meet new friends, why not give club president Mildred Beckcom a call at 7-5466.

Below are some tasty recipes shared by these women.

Macy Schwarz' LASAGNE

Meat filling:
1½ pounds ground beef
16-ounce can tomato paste
1 12-ounce can tomato sauce
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon basil
2 tablespoons oregano
1½ teaspoons salt
pepper to taste

Brown meat, drain off excess fat. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, cook lasagne noodles (8 ounces). Drain noodles and rinse with cold water.

Cheese filling:
1 16-ounce carton ricotta cheese
1 beaten egg
½ cup parmesan cheese
¼ cup parsley flakes
1 teaspoon salt
dash pepper

Combine, mix well and slice 8 ounces of mozzarella cheese.

Layer half noodles in 8x8-inch baking dish, top with half cheese filling, then top with ½ mozzarella slices, and top with ½ meat filling. Repeat layers. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Dorothy Painter's SPICED BEEF POT ROAST

4 teaspoons whole cloves
4 teaspoons allspice
½ teaspoon whole black pepper
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground mace
13 to 4 pound beef pot roast (fat trimmed)
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons lard
¼ cup flour

Coarsely crack cloves, allspice, and pepper; mix with salt, nutmeg and mace. Rub over meat and press in. Place meat in shallow dish. Combine sugar, vinegar, and ¼ cup of water. Pour over meat, refrigerate overnight. Turn meat often. Remove meat, reserve marinade. In Dutch oven, brown meat in hot lard. Add marinade and ½ cup water. Cover, cook until tender, about 2 hours.

Add more water if needed. Remove meat to warm platter. Strain juices, skim off fat. Add water to juices to make 1½ cup. Slowly blend ½ cup cold water into juices. Cook and stir until thick. Season to taste. Serve sauce with roast. Makes 6-8 servings.

Kit Moody's CRAB LORICE

1 head lettuce
3 pounds crab meat (frozen or fresh)
2 cups mayonnaise
½ cup cocktail sauce
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup sweet pickle relish
1 hard-boiled egg
1 slice of onion, grated

Shred lettuce to form bed. Combine remaining ingredients. Place on top of lettuce. Add desired garnish. Makes 6 dinner-size portions.

Helen McIntyre's CHOCOLATE

PEPPERMINT BARS

First layer:
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 stick butter or oleo
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sugar
½ cup sifted flour
½ cup chopped unblanched almonds

Melt chocolate, butter over hot water; blend together. Combine eggs, sugar, and beat until sugar is dissolved. Add flour to eggs, then nuts, chocolate mixture. Mix thoroughly.

Line 8-inch square pan with greased foil, overlapping edges of pan with foil so it will be easy to lift layer from pan. Add batter. Spread evenly over bottom. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven on lower shelf for 20 minutes. Transfer to center shelf for 5 minutes more. Remove and cool.

Second layer:

1½ cups powdered sugar
3 tablespoons softened butter or oleo
½ tablespoons half and half
1 teaspoon peppermint flavoring
Combine sugar and butter until smooth. Blend in cream and flavoring. Mix until smooth. Spread over first layer as even as possible. Refrigerate until chilled.

Third layer:
1½ squares unsweetened chocolate
1½ tablespoons melted butter
Melt chocolate and butter over hot water; blend together. Spread over second layer as smoothly as possible. Chill. Lift all from pan and cut into bars. Makes about 64 bars.

Joy Fortenberry's CHERRY PECAN PIE

1 can Eagle Brand Milk
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup pecans

1 can sour, pitted cherries (drained)
1 pint cream (whipped)
1-3rd cup sugar (into cream)
Mix above ingredients. Pour into two 8-inch pie shells, and chill for six hours or over night.

Suncha Christensen's TUNA FISH CASSEROLE

¼ cup cooked elbow noodles
½ cup milk
1 four-ounce package sharp shredded cheddar cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
1 can cream of mushroom soup

1 small can of tuna, drained (can be substituted with shredded chicken)
½ cup cracker or bread crumbs

Mix all ingredients and place in casserole dish. Sprinkle crumbs evenly over top and cover. Bake at 450 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 4.

Wilma Grice's GRAHAM CRACKER CAKE

2 sticks oleo
1 cup sugar
1 cup crushed graham crackers
1 egg
¾ cup chopped nuts
1 cup coconut
2 tablespoons sweet milk
Grease 9x12-inch pan, line bottom with graham crackers. Beat egg, add sugar, milk and boil two minutes, stirring constantly. Then add melted oleo, crumbs, coconut and nuts. Pour over pan of graham crackers. Spread all over.

Icing:
¼ cup oleo, melted
2-4 tablespoons sweet milk
2 cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Spread over the rest. Refrigerate and cut into squares.

Macy Schwarz' HEAVENLY COFFEE CAKE

Batter:
¾ cup butter or margarine softened

1½ cups sugar
3 cups flour
1½ cups sour cream
3 eggs
1½ teaspoons baking powder

1½ teaspoons baking soda
1½ teaspoons vanilla
Prepare crumb filling and topping, set aside. Grease 10-inch tube pan.

In large bowl with mixer at medium speed, beat butter with sugar until light and fluffy. Add flour and remaining ingredients and beat at low speed until blended. Increase speed to medium; beat 1 minute.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Spread 1-3rd batter in pan; sprinkle with 1-3rd of crumb filling. Repeat layering two more times. Bake 60 to 75 minutes until cake pulls away from side of pan. Cool completely in pan on wire rack.

CRUMB FILLING & TOPPING

In small bowl with mixer at low speed, beat ¾ cup dried bread crumbs ½ cup flour ¼ cup butter or margarine 1-3rd cup sugar 1½ teaspoons cinnamon ½ teaspoon nutmeg Blend well until large crumbs form. With fork stir in 1-3rd cup Calif. walnuts, finely chopped.

Suncha Christensen's EGG PLANT DIP

2 large eggplants
¼ cup olive oil
2 cloves of garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon capers
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup salad olives
¼ teaspoon peppers (whole)
1 large onion sliced in rings
½ cup water
Peel eggplants and cut in small pieces. Brown eggplant slightly in olive oil. Add all other ingredients. Cook on slow fire, stirring frequently, until eggplant is of a pulpy consistency. Serve hot on crisp crackers or as a side dish for meats.

Cullen Davis divorce trial begins all over again Tuesday

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)—The turbulent Cullen Davis divorce trial, with millions of dollars in community property at stake, begins all over again Tuesday, but the new presiding judge says five prior weeks of testimony will be retained.

District Judge Clyde Ashworth, 56, named Wednesday to take over the reins in the case, said lawyers on both sides have agreed to use court documents in lieu of actual testimony. There is no jury.

Under a stipulation procedure, attorneys can agree not to call a witness if it is believed the witness would give the same testimony he did in the previous trial.

The transcript of the Arabs split over actions in Egypt

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—The Arab League conference to punish Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was split today, with Saudi Arabia refusing to cut off its multi-billion-dollar aid to Egypt, and Syria, Libya and the Palestinians boycotting the others because they would not vote economic sanctions against the United States.

Official sources said the 15 delegations remaining at the conference of foreign and finance ministers would agree to a partial boycott of Egypt for signing the peace treaty with Israel.

But a Lebanese journalist allowed inside the closed-door meeting Wednesday said the only delegate whose government can put effective economic sanctions on Egypt, Prince Saud al-Faisal, the Saudi foreign minister, refuse to promise to break relations with Egypt and cut off all economic aid to Sadat's government.

Official sources said the majority of the delegations also rejected the demand by Yasser Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization for an economic war on the United States for sponsoring the treaty, including an oil embargo, a boycott of all U.S. companies in the Middle East and no more imports from America.

The sources said the ministers had neither the authority nor the desire to take action against any country except Egypt.

Arafat and his PLO delegates angrily left the meeting, followed by the Syrian and Libyan delegations.

"Don't make murderers of us. Don't make gangsters of us," Arafat told the meeting, apparently hinting at PLO retaliation. The chief has warned in the past that his guerrillas would attack Arabs who refused to retaliate against the Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

The rest of the delegates were expected to agree to implement the resolutions drafted at an anti-Sadat summit conference in Baghdad last November.

'Y' schedules 'Slim Living' lunch Friday

The first "Slim Living

lunch will be held at the Big Spring YMCA, 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 Friday.

The lunches will then be held every Friday thereafter. The lunch will be served buffet style, with all participants bringing a slim living dish in order to sample the other delectables.

Examples of such dishes include: protein-rich foods such as fish, poultry or lean meat (cooked without added fat), Swiss, cottage or Muenster cheeses, or peanut butter; whole grain or enriched bread; vegetables such as broccoli, brussel sprouts, greens, tomatoes, cauliflower, lettuce and others.

The Y asks each dishholder to print recipes to be shared with others. The entire "Slim Living Program" will run for 10 weeks, beginning Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The program is geared to teach proper nutrition, behavioral training techniques and awareness of body movement as it affects expenditure and intake balance.

divorce trial amounts to 5,000 pages and stacks several feet high from the proceedings that occurred before District Judge John Barron angrily withdrew Saturday and declared a mistrial.

Barron stepped aside after the Fort Worth Star-Telegram learned he had met privately in his hotel room twice in recent weeks with Davis, a multimillionaire Fort Worth industrialist.

Barron, denying he had done anything improper, said he was trying to get Davis and his estranged wife, Priscilla, to agree to settle out of court.

The trial, after five weeks, was within a day or two of completion when Barron made his stunning withdrawal. Ashworth said he will go ahead and hear the remaining "two or three" witnesses and then "woodshed myself" with the case until he finishes reading the transcripts.

Ashworth, a former divorce attorney, said he hopes to have the nearly 5-year-old case wrapped up by the end of April.

"I may be optimistic, but I'm hoping to get this whole thing wound up four weeks from Monday," Ashworth said.

Ashworth was appointed to the case Wednesday by Judge Charles Murray, administrative judge for Tarrant County. Ashworth and Murray are former law school classmates at Southern Methodist University.

Ashworth, a resident of Arlington, was appointed judge of the 67th District Court in 1969 by then-Gov. Preston Smith. He was once chairman of the Texas Turnpike Authority.

Ashworth said he understands the opposing attorneys wish to file a few motions with the court.

House members agreeing with pawnbrokers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members agreed with the pawnbrokers' lobby Wednesday that it should be harder to open a pawnshop.

They tentatively approved a bill raising financial requirements to become a pawnbroker and denying a pawnshop license to persons convicted of theft, forgery, fraud or crimes involving "moral turpitude."

A final vote was expected today. The Senate still would have to decide whether to accept minor amendments added by the House.

If the bill becomes law, a person who wants to open a pawnshop will have to prove he or she has liquid assets of $50,000, compared with $25,000 under present law.

Existing pawnshops, however, would not have to meet that requirement.

Investigation fees for license applicants would be increased from $250 to $1,000.

Not only the pawnshop but also its employees would be licensed.

The Texas Pawn Brokers Association has lobbied heavily for the bill, which also is supported by the Texas Municipal Police Association.

Rep. Ron Waters, D-Houston, attempted Wednesday to require pawnshops to photograph and obtain identification on persons pawning items.

He said this would help police locate persons who steal articles and "fence them" by taking them to a pawnshop.

Rep. Clay Smothers, D-Dallas, argued that it would "require people going into a lending institution (a pawnshop) to submit to the degradation of being photographed and fingerprinted." The amendment did not mention fingerprints.

"You are trying to increase the bad image pawnbrokers have," he told Waters.

Waters said he didn't mind having his picture taken when cashing a check at some grocery stores.

"I realize pawnshops aren't the only places that fencing goes on, but that happens to be the bill before you today," said Waters, adding that his office in Houston is above a pawnshop.

Waters' amendment failed, 107-30.

He also failed, 89-46, to make existing pawnshops meet the $50,000 assets requirement that new ones would have to satisfy.

Rain, winds hit Arizona

By The Associated Press

The rain and high winds that have plagued the Midwest and the Pacific Coast have moved into the Southwest causing millions of dollars in damage in Arizona, and flash flood warnings indicated more rain may be on the way.

To the North, a flood watch was posted for parts of Utah and heavy snow warnings cautioned motorists against unnecessary traveling in the Colorado mountains.

Wednesday's thunderstorm centered on the Phoenix area. The National Weather Service said winds up to 85 miles an hour were recorded along with heavy rain and hail.

Firemen said the storm caused an estimated $2.5 million damage in one north Phoenix area. Utility companies said about 35,000 houses and businesses were without power at the height of the storm as the winds toppled power lines and poles.

In Illinois, where the rains came again Wednesday, The Red Cross reported that 3,200 families have been affected by the flooding. More than 2,000 persons have been evacuated because of the flooding from the Illinois River. Another 50 families have been evacuated from Prairie Du Chien, Wis., because of flooding along the Mississippi, the Red Cross said.

The National Weather Service issued a statement saying it appeared the worst flooding was over along the Mississippi and the chance of a second crest next month has been "sharply reduced." In addition, the slowly falling Rock River, where several hundred residents were homeless after flooding last week, was not expected to crest again this spring, according to meteorologist James Wiggins.

A revised forecast issued by the weather service calls for a secondary crest of 13-15 feet at Davenport, Iowa, where floodstage is 15 feet. The Mississippi at Davenport rose to 15.15 feet last Saturday before receding. Showers were also expected today from the Pacific Northwest across the lower two-thirds of the Rockies. Occasional thundershowers were called for from the upper two-thirds of the Great Plains through East Texas, the Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley and New England.

Jogging patrol duty disclosed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The huffing and puffing jogger you meet on Austin's 21 miles of hike-and-bike trails may be a city cop.

Special Services Division Capt. Gil Miller said an unrevealed number of men and women officers have been assigned to the jogging trails after a number of complaints of flashers and other sex offenders.

"We will probably keep them out there several weeks; it depends on the results we get," Miller said.

Miller said a recent analysis of reported cases of exposure, assault and rape along the hike-and-bike trails failed to indicate a high ratio of those crimes, but the department believes most of these offenses are not reported.

By assigning the special patrols, he said, the department hopes to be able to determine the seriousness of the problem. So far there have been no arrests.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Engage in community affairs and show that you are a good citizen. Take steps to improve your health in some way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have good ideas about advancing in your career and can put them through sensibly. Show more consideration for others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being more practical is wise now. A special thought for your mate brings excellent results. Don't be so passive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Talk over policy matters with associates and get the results you want. Be sure to handle your money wisely at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you schedule your time well, you can make big inroads into all that work ahead of you. Be happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to spend more time on those special talents you have. This could bring you more abundance in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy improving conditions at home and have more harmony there. Show increased devotion to loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take time to have a conference with allies and gain their cooperation. Be careful in the handling of money at this time.

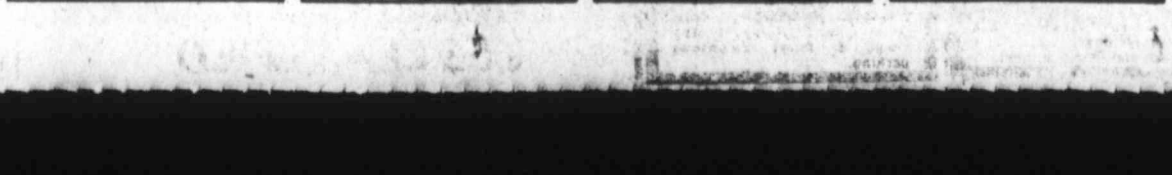

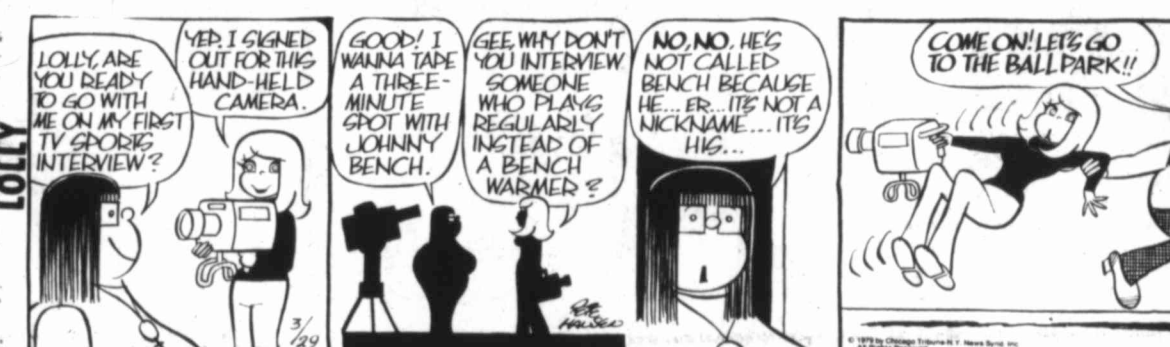

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a capable person, wise enough to get at the very core of any project and will always know what to do. Be sure to provide a fine education for your gifted progeny. Teach to understand the motives of others.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Farm

The high and mighty, riots, bracero program recalled

J.B. KIRKLIN

AUSTIN — Back in the '30s when it was tough to find work, J.B. Kirklin left north Louisiana and took a job in the Pecos oil fields. Forty-two years later he sits in his office at the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) in Austin and talks about the times in-between — years when he sat in high-level meetings with U.S. secretaries of labor, lobbied successfully for passage of the 1965 Farm Bill, and called a President, U.S. senators and congressmen by their first names.

A master storyteller with a chaw of tobacco in his cheek, Kirklin also dodged bullets when Puerto Rican terrorists shot up the U.S. House of Representatives and walked through the Washington, D.C., riots after Martin Luther King's assassination, plenty scared but unharmed.

Recently he was among five past presidents of the National Council of Agricultural Employees (NCAE) honored by the organization. Kirklin, 65, founded the NCAE to provide adequate farm labor and was its first president from 1964-68.

In 1950, when he was farming 1,000 acres of cotton in Pecos and heading the seven-county Trans-Pecos Cotton Association, he was one of seven men in the country called to Washington to advise Maurice Tobin, Harry Truman's secretary of labor, on farm labor. He stayed on as chairman of the group, the Offshore Labor Advisory Committee, through the appointment of Secretary Willard Wirtz during the John F. Kennedy administration. He calls Wirtz "one of the sharpest guys I worked with."

The committee handled supplemental farm labor, workers from Mexico, the British West Indies and Canada. "We had to set up regulations before the workers were brought in," said Kirklin. "We couldn't displace domestic workers." Mexican braceros comprised the biggest segment of foreign workers. One of the times the bracero program was being voted on for extension, Kirklin went to the House of Representatives and sat in the gallery right in front of the speaker. It was March 1, 1954.

"Old Joe Martin of Massachusetts, who was Speaker of the House then, had his gavel up and was fixing to announce the count when the shooting started," Kirklin recalled. Four Puerto Ricans "emptied four automatics, eight to the clip." They shot five congressmen as Kirklin ducked for cover. The next day everybody had to come back and vote all over again.

The bracero program ended at the close of 1964, leaving many U.S. farmers in the lurch. Members of the Trans-Pecos Cotton Association had counted on 25,000 Mexican laborers to work and harvest their crops. To fill the gap, Kirklin organized the NCAE, which drew farmers, cannery and processors from 42 states its every nook and corner in the cotton belt. In 10 days we had a real ground swell."

Kirklin was in the capital trying to get back to his hotel during the 1968 riots when "the city was literally burning down." When a cab driver would not take him any further, he had to walk from Seventh to 14th Street while shots all around were being looted and set afire. He made it unharmed. The next day when looked out his window, a battalion of soldiers surrounded the hotel and tanks were rolling down the street.

Kirklin stopped lobbying in 1971 and went to work as the TDA cotton specialist. He looks back on his experiences as "a real education. I wouldn't take anything for it. I can go into any state and meet people I know."

As for retirement he will not hear of it. "I've been blessed with good health," he said. "I feel like I was 20."

Lamesa notes building 'boom'

LAMESA — Building permits totaling $219,000 were issued here during the month of February, representing an increase of about $12,000 over January.

Permits for new residences totaled $219,000, the largest of which was for $80,000.

Nepotism, arrogance charges heard

SWEETWATER — Charges of nepotism, arrogance, excessive secrecy and conflict of interest were leveled at the Sweetwater school board and the school administration here Wednesday by Temple Dickson, a new member of the board. Dickson, an attorney, said the board was in violation of the state's nepotism statutes on several occasions.

Dickson cited the hiring of the wives of Assistant Supt. James Jeter and Supt. Joe Starnes and the employment of Jeter's son, Steven, for work on the middle school as cases where the board allowed trustees to hire relatives.

On the light side

Maybe they can't read

BOSTON (AP) — George Gloss says he is worried about the literary values of today's criminal. Gloss, the owner of the Brattle Book Shop, a five-story brownstone crisscrossed with over 400,000 volumes, says the shop has been burglarized nine times in the last 18 months. But the thieves haven't touched the store's books, and some are valuable collector's items.

"All they do is empty the cash register," Gloss said Wednesday after the latest break-in. "They don't touch a single book although there are great treasures all around them."

In the latest break-in the thieves netted a transistor radio and about $75 in cash. Gloss said he leaves a small amount of money in the shop for just such occasions.

"I leave a little something so they don't get indignant and destroy some of the books," he explained. "I feel that unless we raise the cultural level of our criminal element, our society is doomed."

Here a chick, . . .

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — Schools like to mold young minds, but what can you do for 2,000 baby chickens?

Police said Wednesday that the chicks were found roaming the halls of Avondale High School and Columbia Seminary on Monday morning.

DeKalb County animal control director John Bodie said pranksters broke into the school and dumped some chicks in a hallway before apparently tripping the burglar alarm. Another load of chicks was dumped at the nearby seminary, he said.

"I'm sure it's considered humorous, but I personally don't feel that way," said Avondale Principal Ames Kitchens. "This was a violation of school rules and we plan to pursue it."

Bodie said he believes the chicks came from a local hatchery. But police spokesman Chuck Johnson said, "We've had no missing chicken reports."

Skull found near Alamo battle site

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Archaeologists excavating along a wall of the Alamo have unearthed a skull believed to have been that of a casualty from the famous 1836 battle at the old Spanish mission-fortress.

Augustine Frkuka, 26, a University of Texas at San Antonio archaeologist, hit upon the skull Wednesday, finding it "miraculously preserved" and embedded between stones.

"While digging, I pulled up all kinds of animal bones and cow teeth. When I touched the skull, I thought it was the head of a cow," said Frkuka. "Nobody believed me, so I jumped out of the hole and looked for a brush to clean it and cleared away some of the rocks around it."

Anne Fox, a director with UTSA's Center for Archaeological Research working at the site when the discovery was made, said the skull appeared to have been buried before 1875.

"There is no way of being sure, but by judging from the strata in the soil and the levels of the soil, we can determine a time period," said Mrs. Fox. "I don't believe the person was from the missionary occupation, but most likely a casualty during the fall of the Alamo who was covered with debris and remained there."

Names in the news

ARTHUR FIEDLER

JOHN WOJTOWICZ

Desperado out three times

NEW YORK (AP) — John Wojtowicz, the real-life desperado portrayed in the movie "Dog Day Afternoon," is out of jail, out of work and may soon be out of wedlock.

Wojtowicz, 33, said Wednesday that his wife, Carmen, had sued for divorce, accusing him of adultery with a male lover in jail and with Liz Eden since his parole last November.

It was to finance the sex-change operation of Miss Eden, then known as Ernest Aron, that Wojtowicz pulled the celebrated 1972 bank holdup that cost him six years in jail, he says. But he claims he has not been with Miss Eden since then, and says he will countersue.

Fiedler has new namesake

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Pops maestro Arthur Fiedler has a new namesake — a 100-foot-long firetruck.

"I hope I deserve it," said the beaming 84-year-old Fiedler, who makes a hobby of fire-engine chasing.

Deputy Fire Chief John McCarthy said the truck will be called the Arthur Fiedler Memorial Aerial Tower. In a ceremony Wednesday in City Council chambers, the Museum of Transportation also named the firehouse holding its fire collection after Fiedler.

Three days earlier, Fiedler had returned to the podium to lead the Boston Symphony in a four-minute rendition of "The Stars and Stripes Forever." It was his first performance since undergoing brain surgery in December.

Hope, wife to be honored

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope and his wife, Dolores, are getting honorary doctor of humanities degrees from St. Louis University. Officials at the Jesuit school said Wednesday that the presentations will be made May 12, during commencement exercises.

The Hopes' daughter, Linda, graduated from the school in 1960. Hope entertained at its 1959 founders day celebration and received the university's Spirit of St. Louis Award in 1968. The Hopes have contributed to the school and to St. Louis Children's Hospital.

'Wilderness' stand voiced by WTCC

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has unveiled a six-point recommendation relating to the withdrawal of public lands for "wilderness" designation, according to L.H. Byrd of Midland, Chairman of the WTCC Mineral Resources Committee. In excess of 100,000,000 acres of public land is currently being considered for designation as "wilderness."

Byrd termed the WTCC position balanced and equitable, in that it endorses a multiple-use concept which would allow controlled oil and gas development, timber operations, mineral development, grazing activity and varied recreational uses of public lands.

Energy resources in particular are believed to be abundant in many of the areas proposed to be withdrawn, and these potential energy resources are critically needed by the country to support its economy, to reduce foreign imports of oil and to strengthen the value of the American dollar.

The following recommendations were made:

1. That a ceiling be adopted by the Congress limiting the amount of federal lands that can be withdrawn from a multiple use category.

2. That the Congress and the federal agencies responsible for the public lands wilderness study and designation programs utilize all available and obtainable resource data in their evaluation of these areas.

3. That those tracts which are identified as having high resource potential or multiple use values be released from study and returned to those uses at the earliest possible date.

4. That all educational efforts by public agencies and others to promote a public understanding of the use of public lands be objective, include multiple use concepts, and not be limited to a designated single use concept such as "wilderness."

5. That a prompt conclusion of this continuous study program be reached with comprehensive recommendations to Congress.

6. That elected representatives and appointed federal officials be hesitant to "lockup" public lands and resources without balanced input from user groups and the general population and a careful evaluation of the benefits and losses involved.

Byrd stated that in the opinion of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, land withdrawal policy adhering to these recommendations will provide sufficient esthetic protection for the nation's land resources while helping to guarantee the availability of undeveloped resources for satisfying future economic needs.

Whooping crane eggs

Jungle hens are foster mothers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Sebrina is gentle, devoted, fussy and protective — an ideal foster mother. That's why she and four other bantam jungle fowl hens at the San Antonio Zoo have been entrusted with five extremely rare whooping crane eggs.

The fertile eggs, seldom produced in captivity, are the last from Ektu and Crip, the only whoopers in a public zoo out of a total whooping crane population of about 100. Crip died Tuesday after living three decades in captivity.

All of that, however, is immaterial to the small brooding hens from the jungles of India. The hens are just happy to have something to mother and have been trained to think the whooper eggs, five times larger than jungle fowl eggs, are their own. They also don't know jungle fowl babies aren't supposed to be large, gangly cranes.

"Their brooding instinct is so strong, they will sit on a light bulb until they hatch it. They will literally sit on anything round," said David McKelvey, the zoo's senior aviculturist and originator of what he calls the "foster parent program."

"They're not allowed to lay eggs or hatch anything of their own species, just cranes," he added. "As far as they know, all baby jungle fowl look like cranes."

"They know damn well they are jungle fowl themselves, they just think their babies look like cranes. There is a great possibility they would turn against chicks of their own species."

The rare eggs were turned over to the brooding hens because of the somewhat unsettled domestic situation in the whooping crane household, what with Crip's death and all.

It also seems the year-old hens, which hatched a crop of more common cranes last year, care for the eggs better than the real mother, said McKelvey. "Once that old brooding hormone hits them and says sit, they sit," he said.

The zoo got more eggs this way, since Ektu would have produced only two eggs if she had been allowed to keep them in the nest. She continued, however, to replace the eggs removed and given to the hens.

It's also normal for the stronger and older of the baby whoopers to kill its younger sibling after they are hatched, the aviculturist added.

McKelvey said the hens are better than incubators because of the possibility of power failures or equipment malfunctions that destroy eggs in incubators.

The eggs, however, are almost half as large as the hens themselves. Therefore, attendants must open the covered, straw-lined wooden boxes several times per day to turn the eggs for the hens. If not, the embryo will stick to one side and die, McKelvey said.

The first of the eggs is due to hatch April 14.

"The chicks will immediately be taken away because of their rarity," McKelvey said. "We wouldn't want one of the hens to whack a chick in the middle of the night or something."

The foster mothers are disturbed when their foster offspring are removed, but easily forget it in less than an hour, McKelvey said.

The chicks will be placed in separate cages in boxes, so they can see, but not kill, each other. McKelvey, who has mastered 220 bird calls, will feed them while whistling like a mother whooper and using a whooping crane puppet on his hand.

If the chicks are exposed to the hens or to humans, they could grow up thinking they are a jungle fowl or a human.

"They really can get a warped outlook. I want our cranes to grow up to be cranes, not pets," he said.

In three weeks, the whooper chicks should be twice as large as their foster mothers.

Only one whooping crane now living was hatched and raised in captivity, said McKelvey and Assistant Zoo Director Ernest Roney. That's Tex, the daughter of Crip and his second mate, Rosie. Tex was hatched and raised in 1967 at the San Antonio Zoo.

The New Orleans Zoo has produced four healthy whoopers in captivity, but all are now dead, Roney said.

The chicks, also federally protected as an endangered species, will either remain at the zoo or go to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for restocking, McKelvey said.
