

Randow: school taxpayers should get relief this year

By BECKY WERHAN
Staff writer

Taxpayers expecting a repeat of last year's high school taxes should be relieved this year. Due to an increase in state funding to the district, the school tax rate is anticipated to be around 52 cents, as opposed to last year's $1.10. According to School Superintendent Joe Randow, the school board is anticipating setting "whatever the appraisal office sets as the effective tax rate." That figure is estimated at 52 cents.

Thus, while the school board's new budget will show a total increase of 23.3 percent over last year's, taxpayers should not expect to pick up the tab, due to state funding allocations being raised.

Randow explained that the yearly state funding is based on operating cost, transportation, average daily attendance and other areas including program salaries and special education. Allocations for state revenue are made for each of these areas.

Last year's total school budget was $8,927,000, including the new building fund, which made for some $3,000,000 of the total. This year's budget does not include the building fund and is estimated, after school board workshop meetings, to total around $7,000,000.

"What people tend to forget," said Randow, "is that in education, you're having to talk about anticipated figures. It's anticipated expenditures and anticipated revenues. There are a lot of variables."

The 23.3 percent increase in this year's budget is due primarily to a salary increase for all school personnel and increased utility expenditures.

The $105,334 increase in salaries was budgeted, according to Randow, "to help our employees keep abreast." The increase, over and above a state salary increase of 12 percent, puts most employees in the middle bracket of the district-wide salary range. Teachers will be put slightly above the middle bracket.

According to figures cited at the board's most recent budget workshop, held last Monday, central office personnel will receive a salary increase of $900; all principals, $800; counselors, $600; teachers, $300 and secretaries, aides and clerks, $200. Maintenance and cafeteria personnel will receive a 25 cents per hour raise.

Next year should see some 218 employees in the school district, estimated Randow.

An estimated 44 percent in utility expenditures is included in the new budget, due to increased school air conditioning, higher CPL rates and higher Southwestern [See Relief, page 12]

Water supply is 'okay'

Following threat of a shortage earlier this month, Rockport's water supply is "okay now," according to City Administrator Herman Johnson.

"We've got our tanks full now," Johnson said in an interview Monday morning, July 26. The tanks go down during the day as a result of water usage, but "they're able to catch up at night."

That was the problem back around July 10 when Rockport residents were asked to voluntarily cut back on their water usage. Demand for water in Rockport was running about equal to the amount of water — an average of 2.6 million gallons per day — being supplied to the city by the San Patricio Water District.

Johnson said Monday, "A lot of people have cut back" and the city is in danger at this point of a water shortage.

"Of course that could change at any time," Johnson said. "If a line breaks or something. We need rain," he added.

The city of Rockport, which supplies water to some 4,300 customers in the Live Oak Peninsula, buys water through the San Patricio water district and resells it to its own customers.

"The only water we can get is what the San Patricio district sends us," Johnson said in an earlier interview on the water situation. And what the San Patricio district sends, he elaborated at that time, is controlled by the fact that San Patricio also serves several other cities including Port Aransas, Aransas Pass and Ingleside.

In a council meeting earlier this month, Johnson told those attending the session that water is piped to Rockport through an 18-inch line. "Everything is dependent on that line," he said.

CP&L files for interim rate hike

Central Power & Light Company has filed a request with the Public Utility Commission to put a 13.45 percent interim rate increase into effect if the PUC does not make a final decision on the company's 48.54 percent rate increase Thursday.

The Public Utility Commission will hold final hearing on CP&L's rate request in Austin Thursday, July 29, and officials anticipate a final decision at that time. However, the rates set by the PUC cannot go into effect for at least 20 days.

CP&L officials are seeking to put the interim rates into effect for that 20-day period.

The utility commission will hold its final hearing in Austin on the CP&L rate request on Thursday, July 29, and could conceivably make a decision at that time.

However, a decision is not anticipated until mid-August, according to CP&L officials who have filed the interim request.

The interim rates are proposed to go into effect Friday, July 30. If approved, they will be put into effect under bond until the PUC's final order becomes effective. If the PUC approves rates lower than the interim rates, the additional money collected during the interim period will be refunded to CP&L customers.

Under the interim proposal, a residential customer using 1000 kilowatt hours of electricity per month will see his bill increase from $68.81 to $78.07, a difference of $9.26, according to CP&L officials.

CP&L has asked for a final rate increase that will allow annual revenue require- [See Rate, page 12]

Suit pledged against PUC

CORPUS CHRISTI — A damage suit is being filed against the Public Utility Commission by the man who earlier launched the petition campaign protesting Central Power & Light Company's proposed rate increase.

Ronald McGee has called a meeting — which he urges all area residents to attend — at 7 p.m. Friday, July 30, in Corpus Christi to announce the hiring of attorneys to file the lawsuit and seek assistance in funding the action.

McGee said he has issued special notice to, among others, members of the Aransas County Taxpayers Association and to city officials in the area.

He has retained the Corpus Christi law firm of Baker & Baker to file the damage suit and pledges "to carry the suit all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary. I promised that when I started the petition drive and I will do it," he added.

McGee said he collected some 21,000 signatures on his petition drive protesting the proposed CP&L rate increase. Approximately 3,000 to 3,500 of the signatures were of Aransas County residents, he said.

The petitions, addressed to the Public Utility Commission, asked the PUC to deny the rate request.

"I took them (the petitions) to Austin and I was ignored," McGee said during a telephone interview Monday afternoon.

"That," he continued, "was what made me mad. This petition drive cost me more than $1,100 out of my own pocket. I haven't even begun to fight — that's my motto. I will go to the Supreme Court."

McGee said the PUC has based its rulings on Article 31, Section A of the 1975 Public Utilities Regulation Act, amended in September, 1981, "which says that we [See Suit, page 12]

Rockport sells bonds -- will need more funds for lift station repairs

Sale of $100,000 in revenue bonds to fund repairs to Rockport's Little Bay Shore lift station went to First National Bank here — but bids for the repair work ran "a little higher than we expected," in the words of Mayor Burt Mills.

Bids for both sale of the bonds and repairs to the 25-year-old lift station were opened in Monday night's, July 26, city council meeting — which also saw the tabling of a request by Delmar Hiller, general manager of Rockport Country Club Inc., for rezoning of three lots in the development on the basis that not enough information was provided.

Rockport First National Bank was the only bidder for the $100,000 water and sewer junior lien revenue bond issue. The bid cited effective interest of 9.5 percent with the bonds maturing during a period from 1983-87, at $20,000 each year.

The bonds can be called any time after six months.

Allied Live Oak Bank was invited to bid and submitted a letter, read in Monday's meeting, in which bank officials thanked the city but declined to bid at this time.

Three bids were submitted on repair work to the lift station, prompting Mills' comment, after bids were opened, that "it was a little higher than we expected on all of them."

The apparent low bidder for the job was Hallmark Construction of Corpus Christi, with a base bid of $135,480. Also bidding on the project were Goldston Corporation of Corpus Christi with a bid of $145,630 and Isles Construction with a bid of $159,980.

At the recommendation of City Administrator Herman Johnson, all bids were tabled until they could be examined by the city engineers.

One other bid was opened by the council Monday night, for sale, by the city, of a surplus lot at the southwest corner of North and Magnolia streets. The bid, by Ted Greenfield for $13,500, was the only one submitted for the property which is the former site of the elevated storage tank torn down earlier this year.

The city received no bids on proposed sale of a 1976 three-ton garbage truck and packer and will re-advertise.

Hiller's request on the country club rezoning, first heard in a joint public hearing of the city council and city planning and zoning commission at 7:15 p.m. Monday, drew charges from the zoning board members that they did not receive enough information on the proposal prior to Monday's meeting.

During the public hearing, Commission member Barbara Armstrong said, "We did not get enough information to even remotely make a judgement" on the matter. Armstrong said, "A letter came to most of us about a week ago." She said the letter mentioned enclosure of a check and a plat: "The plat we received was a miniature of a map of Rockport with an area blocked in that says Rockport Country Club Estates."

She further charged the letter does not specify what Hiller wants and told the council, "If we are to make a recommendation, we must be given sufficient information in sufficient time. I respectfully submit to you we cannot do our job if we are not given sufficient information."

Zoning Commissioner Al Vandever read Hiller's request which was for rezoning of three lots in Rockport Country Club Estates Unit 1 "to a category that would allow the resubdivision of the [See Bonds, page 12]

Good news sparks hope for utility district

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

LAMAR — A guaranteed offer of repair of the water treatment plant and a report from attorneys handling delinquent tax collections were greeted enthusiastically by directors of the Aransas County Municipal Utility District (ACMUD) last week.

The good news, which came during the district's meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 22, was dampened somewhat by a later report on the 1982 appraisals of property in the district but the directors present announced an intention to appeal to the appraisal review board.

Hopes for the water treatment plant were raised by the presentation of representatives of Membrane Systems Inc., a Corpus Christi company that engineers, designs and manufactures water treatment systems.

Edmund H. Hecht, marketing manager for MSI, told directors Thursday night, "Mainly we focus on reverse osmosis systems."

The ACMUD plant is a reverse osmosis system. It was completed essentially in 1977 but began developing problems soon afterward, including clogging of the sand filters and corrosion of the acid tank and membranes supposed to filter impurities out of the water.

At this point, the plant is still not functioning properly and residents of Goose Island Lake Estates, the area served by the ACMUD, charge they cannot get drinkable water from the plant.

Approximately $40,000 of the cost of constructing the plant remains unpaid because the money was payable upon acceptance of the plant by the district and the directors never accepted it.

Hecht in his presentation Thursday told directors his company could guarantee repair of the plant for an estimated $63,000. He said this price includes "everything to make the system workable." The end result, he said, would be a plant that can put out 125,000 gallons of water per day with a total dissolved solids content of 200 parts per million (ppm) or less (state standard is 500 ppm).

Hecht said his firm would give a 12-year warranty on the general system, a three-year warranty on membranes and a six-month performance guarantee.

"You're going to get a different system," Hecht told the directors: "a 1983 system. You give us water at the wells," he emphasized, "and we'll give you water at the other end."

The district's attorney, Herman Little, said before the board could accept any proposal for repair of the plant, state law requires that because of the amount of money involved, the district must advertise for bids. "Somewhere along the way," Little said, "you need to devise a set of specifications and it is required that you accept the lowest responsible bid." He emphasized the word "responsible."

Director Leonard Owens applauded the proposal as "the first positive thing I've heard in over a year."

Owens made the motion — seconded by Director Bill Southern — to advertise for bids for repair of the water treatment system so the plant will produce 125,000 gallons of water per day with 200 ppm or less of total dissolved solids. The specification. [See District, page 12]

Lions' Club to present most unusual program

BAYSIDE — On Aug. 7, at Glenn's Marina on FM 136 at Bayside, the Lions' Club "Eyes of Texas" Eye Bank and KYOT radio will present the world's most unusual program for the benefit of the Lions' Club "Eyes of Texas" Eye Bank.

Among the events scheduled for the day are: Teensy-Weensy Bikini contest, Ugly Husband contest, Ugly Wife contest, Wet T-Shirt contest, and, of course, the No-Boat Race contest.

The No-Boat Boat Race will begin at 9:30 a.m., Saturday morning at the public boat launch on FM 629 three miles South of Bonnie View. The boat launch site is on the beautiful Aransas River and the purpose of the race is to see which No-Boat Boat can arrive at Glenn's Marina on Copano Bay in the shortest time — and the longest time. Entries will be launched at 15 minutes intervals and clocked in at the finish. Rules are simple: You may use anything that floats, other than a boat, canoe, skiff, etc. An entrant may use their ingenuity in constructing or using any type of craft. This includes bathtubs, inner tubes, rafts, etc. Prizes will be awarded for the most ingenious craft, shortest time to finish and longest time to finish. Distance is approximately 11 miles and will take anywhere to five hours to complete.

While the No-Boat Boat Race is going on there will be plenty of activity and contests getting underway at Glenn's Marina starting with a Championship Chili Cook-Off. Also, as this gets underway, there will be the world's First Bar-B-Que Seafood Cook-Off. There is no reason why a chili expert can't try out his personal recipe in the Bar-B-Que Seafood Cook-Off at the same time he cooks his chili.

So as not to leave out anyone, there will be a Fishing Tournament going on at the same time. This will get underway at 5 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 6, and weigh-in will be at 5 p.m. on Saturday. Trophies will be awarded for the largest fish in three categories as well as for the most fish in these three categories. There will also be a Grand Prize for the largest crab that is brought in at weigh-in time.

For landlubbers waiting for the No-Boat Boat Race and the Fishing Tournament weigh-in there will be live bands, plenty of iced beverages and food.

Socrates, the captain of Brazil's World Cup soccer team, said he plans to retire in two years to dedicate himself to medicine. Socrates, 28, is a pediatrician. He told Sao Paulo correspondents accompanying the team that he would turn down even a high-priced offer from abroad. "I have another profession and I don't see the need to go to extremes as an athlete. Maybe I could earn a lot with a transfer, but I'm not interested."

Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda, on charges by San Diego's Kurt Bevacqua that he should be fined for ordering a pitcher to throw at the Padres' Joe Lefebvre, "I have never ordered a pitcher to throw at a hitter in my life...if I were, it wouldn't be at .170 hitters like Bevacqua and Lefebvre."

Stay alert and stay clear—

AVOID POWER LINES

Putting up the antenna for your TV set or for the base station of your CB radio can be dangerous unless you take certain precautions.

Plan the project carefully if you install the antenna yourself. First, know where all the power lines are—then stay well away from them. Any contact between a power line and you or your antenna can be serious.

Make sure you locate your antenna (including the supporting mast and guy wires) at least one and a half times its total height from all power lines. For example, an antenna 30 feet high should be 45 feet away from power lines in all directions.

Don't use a ladder near power lines—during an antenna installation or while performing any other task. The danger from using a metal ladder is obvious. But a wooden ladder can conduct electricity, too, if it's damp or if it has dirt or paint on it.

Electricity brings a more comfortable life to all of us, but it must be treated cautiously. Stay alert—and stay clear of power lines!

Aransas County Toys for Kids needs your help

The Aransas County Toys for Kids organization needs help—in the form of Texas Gold stamps.

With the discontinuation of Texas Gold stamps by the H.E.B. grocery company, the Toys for Kids organization will be losing its primary source of "funding."

"The bulk of our toys have always been purchased with gold stamps," says Jo Lee McConnell, a volunteer with the Toys for Kids organization. "I would say at least 75 percent of the toys were bought with gold stamps last year."

Toys for Kids is making a special plea for donations of the stamps in the next few days so as many toys as possible can be acquired before the Texas Gold redemption centers in Portland and Corpus Christi are closed.

The special Texas Gold collection boxes will remain in place through the end of August "with permission of H.E.B.," McConnell said.

H.E.B. officials have announced that the giving of Texas Gold stamps will be discontinued on Aug. 7. The redemption centers will remain open until November for the Portland center and December for the one in Corpus Christi.

Toys for Kids is an annual project sponsored by the Rockport Lions Club to provide toys for children of lower income families who would not otherwise be able to give their children toys for Christmas.

The organization buys or collects new toys and, prior to Christmas, invites selected parents to "shop" for toys for their children.

Families are selected upon recommendation of local pastors and assistance organizations and each child is allotted a certain number of toys based on the number of children to be provided for and the number of toys available.

Wieting of Portland, chairman, and George Fred Rhodes of Port Lavaca, council vice chairman and head of the executive committee.

Wieting said, "Rep. Sharp's interest in and commitment to a resolution of the Matagorda Island issue, coastal problems of flood control and shoreline erosion, and the enhancement of recreational fishing by development of artificial fishing reefs will make him a valuable asset to the committee and to the council as a whole."

The council's executive committee is responsible for developing recommendations for projects, identifying coastal problems and their solutions, as well as overseeing the general administration of the council. Other executive committee members include Senator J.E. "Buster" Brown of Lake Jackson, Senator Carl A. Parker of Port Arthur and Dr. Charles P. Three men involved in vehicle collision

Three men were reported in a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of FM 1069 and 881 Saturday afternoon, July 24.

James C. Foster Jr. of San Antonio and Joe Martinez of Rockport were taken to area hospitals and Douglas Lee Burke of Lavernia was treated at the scene by Aransas County paramedics following the accident at about 5:35 p.m.

Highway Patrol officers out of Portland investigated the accident which reportedly occurred when Foster, driving a 1979 Blazer, southbound on 881 pulled into the path of Martinez' pickup.

Foster told officers he had stopped at the flashing red light on 881 then proceeded across the intersection on the assumption that Martinez also had a flashing red light on 1069. The light that faces 1069 is amber.

Foster was ticketed with failure to yield right-of-way at the stop intersection.

Foster was reported suffering a possible fractured leg and Martinez suffered abrasions as a result of the accident.

R-F Choir has lifetime of memories

The Rockport-Fulton High School Choir is back from their trip to International Youth and Music Festival in Vienna and each and every member has returned with enough memories to last a lifetime. It's certain that they will never forget what their own musical talent, coupled with the generosity of their community, enabled them to do.

Also still ebullient is Martha Luigi, choir director. Recounting the trip, her conversation is sprinkled with "glorious", "fabulous", "wonderful" and other superlatives. She stresses the deep-felt gratitude she has for the fund-raising efforts of the community.

"I just want to thank the people of Rockport and Fulton for the money they gave us to make the trip," says Luigi. "We brought back a million dollars in memories and education. You can't really put a price tag on what we got."

Determining highlights of the two-week trip is difficult — it was all highlights, according to Luigi. She refers to Frances Iles, president of the Choir Boosters, saying, "Frances just kept saying over and over, 'Another blessing'."

Among the blessings was a performance by the choir in the Serviten Kirche, a monastery in Vienna. After their concert, a Father Walder of the monastery presented Luigi with a 150-year-old etching of the monastery chapel. Each student also received a small memento of the monastery.

Another was a reception held for the festival participants by the Lord Mayor of Vienna at the Rothaus, or city hall. After a wonderful meal (Luigi says every meal they had in Europe was delicious), each choir presented their own special gifts to the city. A desk set in the shape of Texas, inlaid with seashells was the Rockport-Fulton choir's offering.

On the Monday after the arrival, the choir toured the Sheonbrun Palace, former residence of Empress Maria Theresa. This followed by one day the group's visit to the Opernhaus Vienna and a concert at the Lackenhoff Sport-hotel.

The choir, in addition to their performance at the Festival, compressed years' worth of sightseeing and musical history into two short weeks. They were able to see Beethoven's home, or one of them, as well as the houses of Strauss, Schubert and Haydn.

The festival saw the Rockport-Fulton choir going up against some very high calibre competition, much of which was offered by professional groups or older established choirs, a surprise for Luigi. "They didn't win anything, but they did very well," says the director. Among the directors Luigi came in contact with was a festival co-ordinator who stages a yearly festival in Poland. He told Luigi that the R-F choir was of the calibre that he would invite to the event and did in fact proffer an invitation. "We won't go, but it was quite an honor to be invited," says Luigi.

In the ensuing days the choir students had a few hours for shopping and free time, compressed between tours of famous Viennese and Austrian sights.

In addition to ancient Christian catacombs in Salzburg, a lunch at one of the world's famous beer-gartens in Munich, tours of wineries and a fantastic 18th century hunting lodge, the choir enjoyed the motorcoach drive through the Austrian Alps. "It was beautiful the whole way," recalls Luigi.

Perhaps the most fantastic experience of the trip was a tour which only four people were able to take, quite by accident. On a tour of St. Peter's Cathedral, Luigi overheard an announcement of a special guided visit through parts of the monastery which had remained closed for hundreds of years. Due to a religious celebration, these ancient priest's quarters, together with an exhibit of religious treasures, were being made public for a limited amount of time, after which they would be sealed away from the world for another hundred years.

Luigi, her husband Jimmy, Frances Iles and Carol Crawford barely had time to catch the special tour. "All the kids were off with their sponsors, which is too bad, they would have really benefited from this," says Luigi, who is almost at a loss for words to describe what she saw.

Among the effects presented were jeweled garments worn by ancient bishops, covered with "every kind of gem you could name."

Also shown were head-dresses and statues, more jewels, ivory, paintings, sculptures and ancient manuscripts. "The feeling of the incredible holiness of the place just overcame you," recounts the choir director.

The behavior of the choir students was exemplary throughout the trip, says Luigi. She also has much praise for the adult sponsors making the trip. "They couldn't have been better. They worked so hard," she says and adds, "but they still had a blast. Everybody did."

In addition to their maturity, the choir's musical performances were at top form throughout the trip. "We never did less than three encores anywhere we performed," says the proud director. "They really had their hearts in it, more than ever before."

Luigi believes the trip will have a long-lasting effect on each student who went. "One parent told me that we took a girl with us and brought back a woman. They really did get a lot out of the trip. They learned more about the world than they could have in ten years."

One story that Luigi says sums up the whole trip involves the reaction of a tiny elderly lady who had seen the choir perform at a church. "She was so overjoyed by their performance. She spoke no English," says Luigi, "but she began telling me in German all about her children. She had a son and a daughter and both were musicians. She was talking to me and I understood every word she said. Then, one of the men standing next to us smiled and said, 'Where hearts are in harmony, there is no problem in communication.'"

One Of Our Biggest Assets...

In Rockport is our shrimping industry. Made up of two major shrimping concerns plus a large number of independent shrimpers. Still more shrimpers sell to bait houses or out of town dealers. More than 150 shrimp boats work out of the Rockport area employing well over 500 workers making the shrimping industry a vital part of the Rockport economy. Rockport and First National Bank salute these men who daily toil at a tough job to "bring home the shrimp."

One of our biggest assets at First National Bank is our ability to grow with the shrimping industry, by understanding their business needs and supplying the financial know-how to meet them.

HEB goes discount, stops giving stamps

H.E.B. Food Stores in 22 communities have gone discount, lowering more than 4,000 prices. Thirty-four stores are involved including 12 in Corpus Christi. Other cities include Portland, La Grange, Aransas Pass, Yoakum, Cuero, Ingleside, Gonzales, Rockport, Kenedy, Beeville and Edna.

Also, Refugio, Sinton, Mathis, Robstown, Kingsville, Alice (two stores), Falfurrias, Kingsland, Burnett and Marble Falls.

In order to offer customers these lower prices, H.E.B. will discontinue issuing Texas Gold Stamps in these stores on Saturday, Aug. 7. Although stamps will no longer be issued, the Texas Gold Gift Centers will remain open for several weeks. The Gift Center in Portland will close Nov. 27 and the Center in Corpus Christi will close sometime in December.

In addition, to better serve customers, the Gift Centers will be open Mondays through Saturdays. Merchandise will be restocked so that stamp holders will continue to have a large selection from which to choose.

The decision to drop stamps and reduce prices was made in response to changing consumer desires. As the economy has placed increased pressure on consumers' budgets, they have indicated a desire for lower prices. By dropping stamps, H.E.B. is able to offer lower prices without sacrificing the high quality, variety and services which H.E.B. customers have come to expect.

Hanke placed under bond after burglary

Forrest Charles Hanke was placed under $1,000 bond after being charged with burglary of a coin-operated machine Friday, July 23.

Hanke was arrested about 8:35 p.m. by combined effort of a Rockport police officer and a county sheriff's deputy.

In other action this past week, Rockport police were called to investigate theft of an air conditioning unit and a portable radio and a local motel operator reported three incidents of theft of service.

The air conditioner theft was reported by W.H. Albert who told police the unit was taken from a house he owns in Harbor Oaks some time between July 18 and this past Friday, July 23. Value of the unit was estimated at $800.

The portable radio, valued at $45, belongs to Cecile E. Robichaud of New Mexico who reported it taken between midnight and 8 a.m. last Wednesday, July 21, while she and her husband were staying at a local campground.

Trailer ban sought in Fulton

FULTON — A provision banning any new recreational vehicle-travel trailer parks and mobile home or manufactured housing parks or subdivisions in Fulton is being sought by the city's zoning committee in a meeting with City Attorney Allen Lee Thursday.

Lee will meet with members of the zoning committee at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 29, in his office. Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline and members of the city council have been invited to attend the meeting whose purpose is to discuss Lee's legal review of the proposed zoning ordinance.

Among specific questions to be put to Lee will be the legality of the proposed section banning the mobile home and RV parks.

If the ban is legally possible, the provisions currently proposed in the ordinance allowing these facilities under a special use permit will be dropped and special requirements will be developed by the zoning committee, city attorney and interested Fulton residents regulating existing mobile home and RV parks.

Copies of the proposed Fulton zoning ordinance and zoning map are on file in Fulton City Hall. Following Lee's legal review, the ordinance will be returned to the zoning committee for any corrections needed to meet legal requirements. The proposed zoning ordinance will then be submitted to the city council. The ordinance must be read in three separate council sessions before it can be given final approval.

Keeping In Touch

This is the first of what I intend to be a number of weekly columns from me, discussing various topics of importance to Texans. During the coming weeks, we will discuss such things as President Reagan's "New Federalism" proposal, the need for better laws dealing with drunk drivers, illegal aliens, the education of our children, and a host of other issues that will be on our political agenda.

I believe these columns will provide a unique opportunity to stimulate public discussion on these important issues. Indeed, this may be the only way. I have challenged my opponent, Mr. Hobby, to a series of free-wheeling debates on political issues, so both our views could be put before the people of Texas. We met in debate one time in Houston. In the view of all observers, Mr. Hobby lost and he has chosen this route to try to let you know my position on the issues. I feel you are entitled to know that before you make your decision in the November election. Additionally, I hope you will let me know your views. They are important to me.

The office of Lieutenant Governor is exceedingly powerful in Texas. It affects all our lives. In addition, presiding over the State Senate, the Lt. Governor appoints all Senate committees, their chairmen, and assigns all legislation to the committee of his choice. He presides over the Legislative Budget Board, which significantly shapes state spending. It is an office all Texans ought to be concerned about.

I hope you will watch for this column. Tell your friends and neighbors about it. Discuss the issues. Together, we can make a contribution to the political processes, and hopefully improve all our lives. Let me know your views on the issues I discuss in the weeks ahead. Just write me at 1213 W. 34th, Austin, Texas 78735.

Card of Thanks

The family of Clara Reader Grumbles, sons, sisters and brothers, all grandchildren, neices and nephews, wish to extend their deepest appreciation to all who helped her to ease her suffering in her long illness in which she fought so long but finally lost. She is at peace now.

There were many sincere sympathy cards sent to me but the one that really says what I would like to say was sent by three close young friends — not the verse in the card itself but in the verse written by Jeanie West.

There's a new star shining to light the way
For a beautiful lady who leaves us today.
Her life here on earth is over at last,
And her pain and sorrows all in the past.
Her journey was long, but she was brave
And all the love she had, to others she gave.
We'll not mourn her, there's no need to grieve,
For there's a special place in our hearts
That she will never leave.
So farewell, until later, to a special friend,
For we'll see her again at our own journey's end.

Absentee charter vote off to slow start

Absentee voting in Rockport's city charter election got off to a slow start Monday, Aug. 4, with only three absentee ballots cast by shortly after noon.

The absentee election, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at Rockport City Hall, will continue through Tuesday, Aug. 10. Election day is Aug. 14, also at City Hall for all residents of the city. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. on that day.

Only registered voters living within Rockport city limits are eligible to vote in either the absentee or regular election. Those qualified to vote absentee include any person age 65 or over, any person physically unable to go to the polls or anyone who will not be in Aransas County on the Aug. 14 election day.

District

cations will require a one year warranty on the general system, a three-year warranty on membranes and a 180-day performance warranty.

Also added to the motion, at Little's recommendation, was that the work must be completed within 120 days after awarding of the contract.

Bids for the project will be opened at the district's next meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 24.

Good news on delinquent tax collections was presented to the directors by Howard Reynolds, manager with Calame, Linebarger & Graham of Houston, attorneys handling the delinquent tax collections for the district.

Reynolds said he will be taking judgments on some suits on Aug. 24 and that during September and October, he will have as many tax suits as possible on the court dockets.

Little urged board members to get an appointment with the Aransas County appraisal review board as soon as possible after the district received notice from the Aransas County Appraisal District that taxable property in the ACMUD has been appraised at $2.76 million with a taxable value, after exemptions are discounted, of just over $2.58 million.

Little told the ACMUD directors this valuation "could take the heart right out of" the district's proposed debt adjustment plan.

The plan is based on a taxable valuation of about $4 million but, Little said, that figure is not really the problem. Tax rates can be adjusted to handle the decreased valuation, Little pointed out.

The problem, he said, is that the debt adjustment plan is based on the premise that non-improved property forms a larger tax base in the district than improved property. On this premise, tax rates could be raised and resident homeowners in the district would not be penalized because they could claim the recently-adopted 40 percent general homestead exemption.

But, according to Steve Shenk, secretary of the ACMUD board, the appraisal district appears to have reduced the value of undeveloped property in the district by 50 percent while reducing the value of improved property by only 15 percent. This would throw the burden of any tax increase in the district onto the homeowners.

Voters in the election will be asked, first, to mark their ballots "yes" or "no" in response to the question, "Shall a commission be chosen to frame a new charter?"

Those answering "yes" will then be asked to mark their ballots for 15 of the 18 candidates seeking election to that commission.

Candidates are T.E. Griffith, Jerry L. Beattie, Thomas (Eddie) Raffliff, Martha Ann (Marty) Dillon, J. Curtis Kovacs, Edward M. Armstrong, Richard W. Lilly, Gayle C. Atchley, Gordon N. Dancer, Marv Lou Tiner, William G. (Bill) Walston, Robert K. (Bob) Phillips, Ralph Winkelman, Iris Jenkins, Marce P. Ramirez, Richard G. McMakin, J.C. Harlan and James (Pat) Brown.

for the increased salaries and utility expenditures.

A detailed explanation of the budget and how it is figured is being prepared by percent of the costs of construction work in progress (CWIP) including costs of the controversial South Texas Project.

The city councils of Rockport and Fulton have adopted resolutions recommended by

Board members directed Alma Johnson, the district's tax collector, to go to the appraisal district office and look at the appraisal rolls in an effort to determine how property values were determined. Johnson has also been asked to "find out if or when the utility district can appear before the review board," according to the motion made by Shenk and seconded by Southern.

Little said legally the ACMUD can only attempt to "see that all classes of property have been dealt with fairly" but he indicated there is a question as to whether this has been done and told board members, "You have a right to see that balance and equality are maintained."

Little was authorized to proceed with sending copies of the proposed debt adjustment plan to creditors of the district. The ACMUD has been plagued with financial problems since around 1978 stemming from a $1.6 million bond issue that funded construction of the district's water and sanitary sewer plants.

Failure of Goose Island Lake Estates to develop as projected and the bankruptcy of the developer in 1978, resulted in an inability of the district to meet its annual bond obligations. Audits have shown the district to be operating at a deficit every year since 1978.

Gowland, Kincaid, Davis & Company were appointed auditors of the district's books for the year that ends July 31. Funds to pay the auditors — including $1,950 still owed from last year's audit — were borrowed from the district's tax account since there were insufficient funds in the general operating account after other bills were paid Thursday night.

Complaints leveled against the district by the Texas Department of Water Resources last month in relation to operations of the sanitary sewer plant have been generally taken care of, board members reported Thursday.

Major complaints, that the effluent from the plant was not being chlorinated and the grounds around the plant were not being maintained, have been taken care of.

Another complaint, that plant operator David McCluskey is not certified, will be taken care of by the Aug. 24 meeting. McCluskey assured board members he plans to take a test for certification within the next month.

Four of the commission candidates, Armstrong, Walston, McMakin and Harlan, were on the commission elected in 1979 to draft a charter in Rockport's first attempt to become a home rule city.

Walston, Ratliff and Ramirez were members of the steering committee appointed this past May to determine if Rockport had sufficient population to try for home rule government. The committee determined the city has a current population of more than 6,000; a population of 5,000 is sufficient for a city to adopt its own charter.

City officials point out that, by going home rule, Rockport will have more control over its government. Rockport is presently governed by state general law statutes designed to cover cities of populations between 500 and 5,000.

the Texas Municipal League that would grant a rate increase to CP&L equal to about 48 percent of what the utility company is asking.

Recommended by Touche, Ross and Company, the rate consultants retained by the TML to study CP&L's rate request, the rate resolution adopted by the cities — along with other TML member-cities — would allow annual revenue requirements of $72,862,000, an increase to consumers of 22.67 percent in base rates and 8.72 percent in total revenue.

In passing the resolution, the TML member-cities hoped to influence the PUC's final decision in the matter. However, Rockport City Administrator Herman Johnson has pointed out the resolution will not influence the rates CP&L can put into effect if the PUC doesn't announce a decision Thursday.

(Part of CP&L's rate increase is to allow the company to recoup, through its rates, 100 percent of the costs of construction work in progress — with the bulk of these costs being for the controversial South Texas Project nuclear power plant.)

McGee said his suit maintains this provision is "unconstitutional and unfair to we, the utility payers."

Funerals and deaths

Lou Irene Odum Eller

Funeral services for Lou Irene Odum Eller were conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Marshall Funeral Home Chapel in Rockport. Graveside services followed at 4 p.m. in Victoria Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Odum died earlier this week. She was born Oct. 25, 1889 in Ivanhoe. She was married Jan. 2, 1910 to George Humphery Eller, who preceded her in death Aug. 8, 1953.

She was a resident of Rockport for the last 27 years. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church and a member of the Rockport Rebekah Lodge where she served as a Noble Grand.

Survivors include eight children, Paul Allen Eller of Knoxville, Tenn., Mattie Erlene Kazetsky of Houston, Erie True Eller of Rockport, Lynwood Eller of Rockport, Evelyn Myrtle Harryman of Groesbeck, Ella Mae Emmons of Houston, William Young Eller of Victoria and Glenda Demaree of Rockport. Two sons, Louis Manning Eller and Curtis Dewain Eller, preceded her in death.

Also surviving are 22 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Lawn care can be reduced

COLLEGE STATION — Texas homeowners can reduce lawn care energy demands without lowering lawn standards.

"While lawns offer many recreational and aesthetic benefits, these may be offset by energy requirements of lawn care," says

Dr. Richard Doble, turf-grass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Lawn mowing, watering, fertilizing, controlling pests and disposing of leaf clippings are all energy-consuming requirements. In the spring and summer, lawn watering and collecting and disposing of grass clippings place a heavy burden on services provided by cities. Grass clippings often account for more than 30 percent of total trash collections in some cities during this peak season," Doble says.

Several lawn maintenance practices, he says, will help homeowners reduce these energy demands. Reduce fertilizer applications to maintenance levels — two to three pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn per year — to help lower energy demands. (That's 20 pounds of a fertilizer containing 10 percent nitrogen.) By applying only maintenance levels of nitrogen to a lawn, a homeowners can reduce mowing frequency, water use, insect and disease problems and the volume of grass clippings.

"Excessive fertilization is the single most important factor that creates high energy demands for lawn care," Doble says.

Practices to reduce energy demands of lawns also include returning or composting grass clippings. Use of a mulching mower can be beneficial if grass clippings are not composted, says the specialist.

Rex and Erin Turner

Rex Turner really likes Rockport

"This is something that you can do to your house that pays you back each and every month." That's Rex Turner speaking of his company's product - insulation. Turner started his business, Aransas County Insulation Co., in 1977, after moving to Rockport from San Antonio, headquarters for his position in a marketing and sales corporation.

After Turner and wife Erin, who works in local real estate, dropped out of the hectic pace of city life and came to Rockport they discovered in addition to a good business climate "a whole different vista", as Turner describes it. "Rockport is the first place I've lived where the people I dealt with were becoming close personal friends. I began to know people and began to like them."

Despite Rockport's small town charms, Turner expects it "to burst at the seams" soon, as business and the population begin to expand. "Just look at the new homes going up here," he says.

Turner feels that insulation is one of the most important things that should go into all those new houses. It can also be a money saving improvement to older houses.

"Insulation, of all the things in the home except for the base foundation, is one of the parts that will last a lifetime," says Turner. He adds that in addition to saving energy dollars, insulation, particularly the cellulose materials he installs, is an excellent sound abatement.

Turner feels that insulation is particularly valuable to older citizens on a fixed income. "They can put this in their home and should not have to replace it and it will save them dollars every month."

The retrofit market in general is an area where Turner would like to become more involved in, as he feels that outfitting a standing home with insulation can accomplish what everyone seems to be trying to do - save energy.

Insulating new homes and businesses is keeping Turner busy at the present time. He cites local contractors Paul Jackson, Jack Guille and Reuel Yarbrough as having helped him build his business in the area. "When we first came down, they gave us a chance and now we're still working together."

Recent new construction insulated by Turner includes the Cove Harbor Machine Oil buildings and the clinic in Live Oak Plaza. Aransas County Insulation is branching out into Port Aransas, Ingleside and Aransas Pass, but Turner says of Rockport, "This area always comes first."

Both Turner and his wife Erin, who he credits with "working just as much at this as I have," feel the same way about the area. Turner sums up, "The people of Rockport have stayed loyal to us. We'll never leave Rockport."

Phone number for Aransas County Insulation is 729-1754.

THE EXTRA EDGE

The codfish lays a thousand eggs

The hen lays only one.

The codfish leaves quietly but

The hen cackles loud

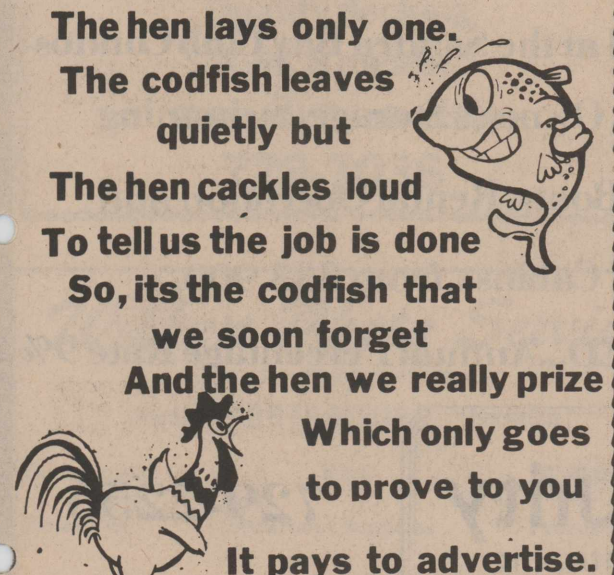

To tell us the job is done

So, its the codfish that we soon forget

And the hen we really prize

Which only goes to prove to you

It pays to advertise.

Texas ranks sixth

COLLEGE STATION — Texas continues to rank sixth in the U.S. in gross income from poultry and eggs. Turkey, broiler and egg gross income was estimated at $531.4 million in 1981.

"This is the second year in a row that poultry gross income in Texas has exceeded $500 million," said Dr. David B. Mellor, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

In Texas egg production, Gonzales County continued to lead followed by Camp and Denton counties.

"Eggs averaged 71.6 cents per dozen and produced a gross income in 1981 of $192.4 million," Mellor said.

Gonzales County also was the state's leader in turkey production. Texas turkey production in 1981 was down to 7.3 million head as compared to eight million head in 1979.

Other leading turkey growing counties were McLennan and San Saba.

"The 1981 turkey crop had a total weight of 148.2 million pounds (live) and brought an average price of 38 cents per pound," Mellor said.

The average price of live broilers was 30 cents per pound in 1981 with a gross income in Texas of $278 million.

"The top 10 counties produced 93 percent of Texas broilers in 1981," Mellor said. Nacogdoches County was first, followed by Gonzales and Shelby counties.

Mom's attitude about her work may effect children

COLLEGE STATION — Mom's attitude about her work away from home has a major effect on her children's views toward it, says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist.

"When mothers feel good about their work outside the home, the effect on their children is more likely to be positive," the specialist says.

Welch is with the Home Economics Program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Of course, many factors affect children's social and psychological adjustment to Mom working outside the home, but her attitude is significant, Welch notes.

For the first time in history, a majority of American women are in the labor force, Welch says.

Statistically more than half of all Texas mothers with schoolage children are employed. Of mothers with children under six the figure is only a bit lower — 40 percent are employed outside the home.

"This dramatic social change has created concern among researchers and the general public — many are asking, 'What's happening to the children?' Welch says.

Some of "what's happening" has been documented by studies that focus on children's thoughts about their mothers working.

Findings from these studies provide insight into needs of families in which the mother works outside the home, Welch says.

These family needs also suggest guidelines for parents, she adds.

Here are the guidelines: Mothers, share your work with the family. Children who have some information about their mother's employment are more likely to understand it.

Mothers can help children gain understanding by talking over their jobs with the children, taking the children to places of employment when feasible and introducing the children to people "Mom works with."

Mothers, consider the adjustments your children must make. When Mom works outside the home, the whole family has to adjust routines, schedules and responsibilities.

Complaints sometimes voiced by children of working mothers include these: "We miss out on all the fun." "We have too many household responsibilities." "We miss not having Mom at home when we return from school."

Complaints can be avoided when mothers communicate with children about routines and responsibilities, Welch says.

As children mature, they recognize the contribution they make to the balance of home and work life, the specialist says.

Mothers, assure your children of your primary interest in them. Children of working mothers need to know they still are a primary interest, Welch stresses.

To increase children's sense of security, take time to listen when they talk about the days activities and about "just things." Also, "be around" when possible.

Make sure that job demands are not all consuming of your time. In the work world, naturally, peak periods of job demands do occur. Children can accept these times better when job demands in general are not all-consuming of Mom's time, Welch says.

Finally, there is a kind of cycle about mothers' and children's attitudes, Welch says.

"The better a Mom views her work, the better her children will feel about how that work personally affects them — and the more likely they are to think of Mom's job itself in favorable terms.

"The more favorable children are toward the mother's work, the more likely her own attitude will stay positive," she says.

VA news

Persons who receive Veterans Administration checks should report a change of address as soon as it is known, say VA officials.

Recurring monthly payments are issued on the first of each month, so changes should be reported by the middle of the preceding month to insure timely delivery, advised Ted W. Myatt, Director, Houston VA Regional Office.

The VA accepts change of address over the telephone if the caller is the person named in the payment.
