Clinton calls for end to youth violence

Midlanders feel parents should have more accountability

By Rick López
Staff Writer

Twenty days after the Colorado school shootings, President Clinton mobilized representatives of the movie and media industry on Monday for a national campaign against youth violence.

"We'll have to overcome the old ways of doing business," he declared.

The president challenged producers of violent movies, video games and CDs to consider the consequences of what they make.

"We cannot pretend that there is no impact on our culture and our children that is adverse if there is too much violence coming out of what they see and experience," the president said.

The White House meeting was called after the April 20 massacre at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colo., where two students killed 12 classmates and a teacher before shooting themselves.

Power of the media

Midland County sheriff's deputy Sgt. Terry Cowin has witnessed the effect that violent programming has on children.

While working for the Texas Youth Commission in Brownwood, Cowin met a teen-age offender who idolized '80s heavy metal musician Ozzy Osbourne.

"This rock star would have everyone spit in a cup and then he would drink it," Cowin said. The teen "was completely infatuated with this rock singer and doing everything he did ... like drinking spit from a cup, wearing an upside down crucifix ... worshipping Satan."

Cowin now investigates juvenile crimes in Midland, and has heard reports of people mimicking a scene out of the 1998 thriller "Urban Legends."

In that movie, two teens drove with their headlights off and waited for another motorist to flash his high beams at them. When he did, the teens chased the driver at a high speed and eventually forced him off the road.

China reaction

BEIJING — China broke off military ties and other contacts with the United States on Monday and demanded those responsible for NATO's bombing of its embassy in Yugoslavia be "severely" punished. Thousands of protesters hurled rocks at the U.S. Embassy in Beijing for a third day, with some dragging and kicking a life-size effigy of a U.S. soldier with an American flag on his chest.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Yugoslavia announced a partial withdrawal of its forces from Kosovo on Monday, a move that was swiftly rejected by the United States. Secretary of State Madeleine Albright called the reduction in forces a "half-measure," and NATO said it would continue its bombing campaign until Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic withdraws all of his Serb forces.

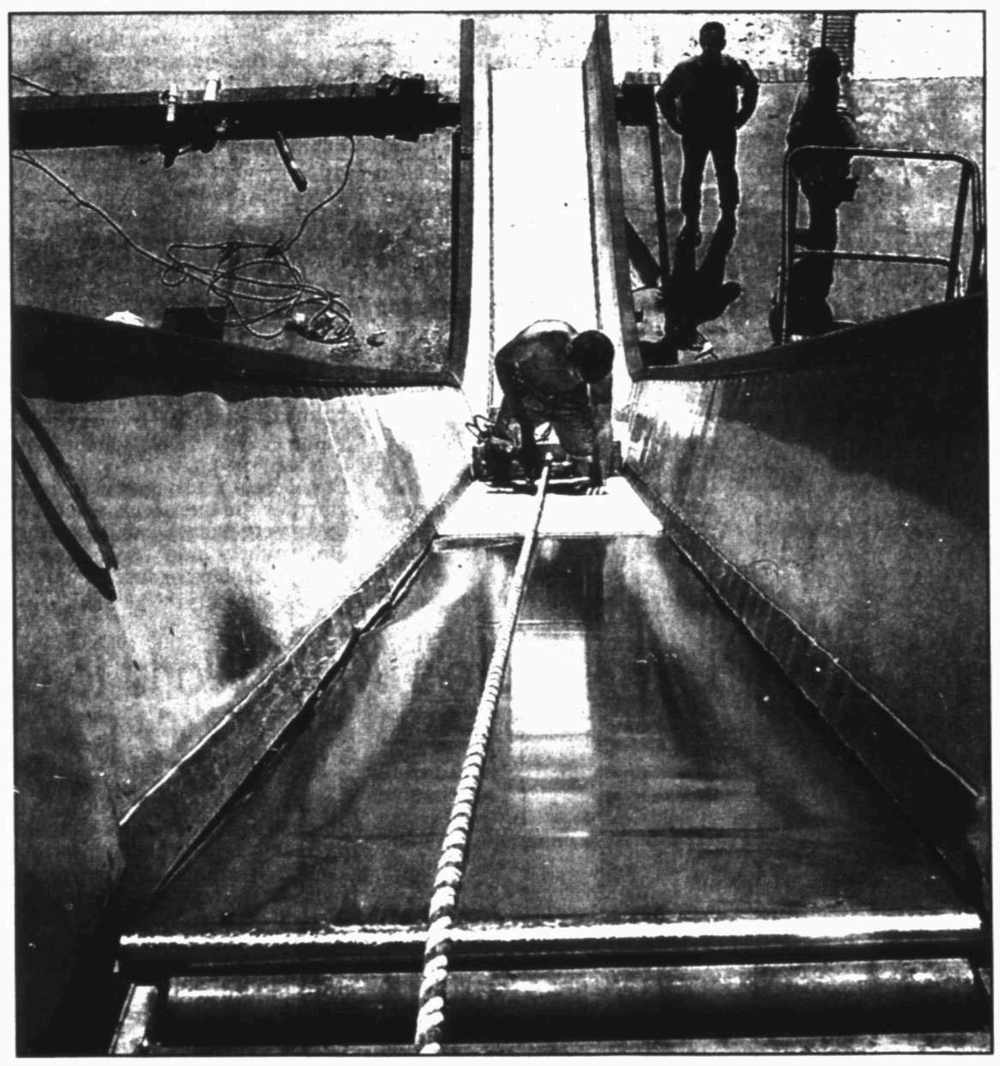
Face lift for fun



Stuart Hines, an employee with the newly named Hero's Water World, installs new half-inch thick plastic sheeting Monday morning on the Rampage, on which riders get in a sled and slide straight down before skimming across the surface of the pool at the bottom of the ride. Houston-based Entertainment Technology and Programs Inc. now owns the park, which is expected to open at the end of the month.

New owners give water park another life

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

As the former Water Wonderland — now known as Hero's Water World — prepares to open at the end of this month, the park's new owners are making changes a step at a time.

"This is our first year taking things over, so we made each feature a project," explained Phil Zaccaria with Houston-based Entertainment Technology and Programs Inc. and park director. "Our first step was health and safety — we wanted the park to be safe and the water to be healthy. It was an overwhelming initial project. Each feature had its own little budget."

The goal was, he said, to make the park a source of pride for the Permian Basin, that the chambers of commerce can promote to visitors and use to draw visitors from the outlying areas.

Shura Lindgren, director of convention and visitor development for the Midland Chamber of Commerce, said the chamber has always supported the park.

"In the first place, we have to counter the perception that we are a dry area," she said. "Too, the park allows us to offer the people coming here attending conferences in Midland or the young people participating in

After today, MISD briefing sessions could become thing of the past

By Daniel Arp
Staff Writer

The meeting takes place in a small, nondescript conference room, on the sixth floor of the administration building of the Midland Independent School District.

Three current board members and two who will take the oath of office today trickle in on Monday just after their lunches and take their seats around the table.

The only furniture in the room is the blue conference table surrounded by chairs. A stack of blue plastic chairs also stands in the corner, in anticipation of observers who never show up.

At the head of the table sits Superintendent Joseph P. Baressi Jr.

"Any questions?" Baressi begins.

These are what opponents like to call the "meetings before the meetings," indicating a suspicion that some board members take the opportunity to plow through controversial issues in a less public setting than at the 4 o'clock meetings the next day.

They are posted and open to the public but rarely attended — even by some board members, who claim that the noon Monday meeting time is inconvenient.

Officially, they are called "agenda item briefing sessions," and administrators and some members of the board claim they are for information purposes only.

Nevertheless, if four board members decide Tuesday to kill the meetings — and three already have expressed concerns — they will end as quickly as they began two years ago, when new board members who now oppose the meetings asked for them in order to assist in their learning curves.

"Board meetings take place on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, not on the second and fourth Mondays of each month," said board member James Fuller, who is leading the push for the meetings to be eliminated.

Fuller is using as a springboard a bill that has passed committee in the Texas House of Representatives and is on its way to the Senate. The bill calls for an end to closed staff briefing sessions for

Coliseum losses don't worry officials

By Jeff Stevens
Staff Writer

Being $83,000 in the red doesn't always have to be a bad thing. That's what Ector County Judge Jerry Caddel said about Ector County Coliseum's most recent deficit.

The coliseum showed a net loss of $83,127 for fiscal 1998, but Caddel said, "It's not something that's of a major concern."

The judge explained that the coliseum is considered a service to the community and is not necessarily meant to be a profit center.

"A lot of what we do in the way of services are not necessarily profit centers. A prime example is law enforcement. You provide it for the good of the community, not because it makes any money for the county."

The coliseum, however, may be a profit center after all, but it all depends on how you look at it.

Linda Sweatt, director of the Odessa Convention and Visitors Bureau, said that just one event at the coliseum can bring as much as $600,000 into the community in one weekend.

"What it loses in that $83,000 is very small compared to what it brings into our economy and our community," said Ms. Sweatt.

In addition to being beneficial to the local economy, Ector County Coliseum doesn't lose as much money as its counterparts in other similar-size markets.

When told of the deficit, Amarillo Civic Center and Coliseum General Manager Kris Miller, said, "If that's all that facility lost, it's in excellent shape."

The Amarillo facility posted a $150,000 loss for 1998 and has lost as much as $500,000 in one year.

"Public facilities like this are not designed to be big money-makers. If it wasn't for the subsidies from cities and counties, a lot of these facilities would not exist," Miller said, adding that economic impact and quality of life are the true measure of such facilities.

Miller added that few people expect coliseums in smaller markets to produce profits. "The only time you're going to get one that's

VIOLENCE: Midlanders say parents need to be involved

(From 1A)

"What they're doing here is driving with their high beams on, and if you signal them to turn them of' they'll turn around and chase you," Cowin said.

The movie industry, he said, is not totally culpable. The news media, he said, has piqued children's interest about bombs and has spurred copycat bombings across the nation.

"I think that after the shootings in Colorado, the media took the bomb idea everywhere," he said. "It's the news media's job to report it. I understand why they're doing it, but it has a negative effect on the kids.

"The compromise I can see ... is that kids are going to have to be told by parents, preachers and everyone else that going out and committing violence is wrong — whether it's killing or painting graffiti on the side of the barn."

Clinton's motive questioned

Former Houston Press reporter Paul J. MacArthur, a media expert with Sam Houston State University, said Monday that he was skeptical of the Clinton meeting's purpose.

"It's a public relations opportunity. You take your photo, look nice and make it look like you're trying to do something about the problem," MacArthur said from his office in Huntsville. "There's nothing Congress can do to change this problem. I don't think anything substantial will be accomplished.

"I don't know that we can draw the correlation between the entertainment industry and juvenile violence. I think we need to look at other problems, like the number of single-parent households, number of divorces, people living in poverty. ... Those factors contribute far more to the problems. ... The entertainment industry isn't why you're scared to go to an ATM in a bad neighborhood."

But Clinton admits that Hollywood and the news media aren't the sole culprits of juvenile crime.

"We know that there is more for each of us to do at home and at school, in Hollywood and in the heartland, and here in Washington," Clinton said. "Every parent, every teacher, every leader has something more to do."

The solution, MacArthur said, is "We need to start pointing the finger inward. The problem stops when people start taking responsibility for their children's actions, and responsibility for their own actions."

He said open forums create an avenue for everyone to discuss solutions but are useless when it doesn't move beyond finger-pointing.

"Discussions like this are wonderful," he said. "But what we need to ask is 'Why do crack houses exist?' 'Why are we afraid to walk the streets at night?' 'Why do we allow this to continue?' "

Web expert talks

Scott T. Grusky, author of "Silicon Sunset: Where the Information Highway REALLY Leads," thinks it's likely the Web industry and Congress might reach a censorship compromise one day. But it won't solve violence.

"Many (users) are eager to see the Internet as a powerful force with an agenda of its own, but really it is just a mechanism for connecting human minds," Grusky said from his home in Malibu, Calif. "Therefore, unless one wants to censor human minds, it makes little sense to censor Web sites."

The industry probably won't agree to total censorship but could reluctantly accept some form of filtering offensive Web sites.

"Subscribers will obviously have mixed reactions. Most parents will likely approve (censorship), since it reduces their supervision burdens," Grusky said. "However ... the best possible outcome would be one where our society determines what Internet content is so offensive that it is considered morally irresponsible to allow a child unsupervised access even for just five minutes.

"After all, would you leave your child unattended even just for five minutes in the middle of a bustling downtown commercial district that you've never visited yourself?"

Parental involvement

"In 75 percent of my cases, the parents aren't controlling the kids, and 10-year-olds are out on the streets at night," Cowin of the Midland County Sheriff's Office said. "We have a very low percent that actually cooperate with us. A lot of the blame (for violence) is on them."

He believes there is very little the motion picture industry can do these days.

"If they stopped filming all that violence, there still is all that other stuff out there at the video store. Maybe their rating system should be better," Cowin said. "It has to be as strictly enforced as going out and buying booze. It's too late for the entertainment industry to change. I think it went too far already."

Lindy Adams, therapist at the Child Advocacy Center in Midland, thinks parents have more of an impact on their kids than the news media or movies.

"I don't think (the media) helps, but when the TV is a baby sitter, that's where children are going to learn from," Ms. Adams said. "Putting restrictions on the film industry will be putting a Band-Aid on things."

Parents need to take more precaution than just selecting the programs their children will watch, Ms. Adams said. They need to set an example.

"A lot of times, if parents are doing the opposite from what they tell their kids, it's not going to make sense to them," she said. "It should be our church, family and schools telling us about violence and telling us how to counteract it, not TV."

Midland forum

Like many other students, Whitney DeBoer, a sixth-grader at Midland Christian School, has spent a lot of time thinking about the Littleton slayings.

But the tragedy hits a little closer to home. Whitney went to school in Littleton before she came to Midland about 20 months ago. As much as she misses Colorado, life in Midland has been good to her, Whitney said.

"I'm comfortable. I'm going to a Christian school, so I don't think that (violence) is going to happen here," she said.

Whitney is one of several panelists involved in today's town hall discussion at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin Center for Energy and Economic Diversification. The event starts at 6:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

Whitney said she hopes the meeting will help adults and children understand each other's fear about school safety.

"I hope people who go will learn what a kid's outlook is like," Whitney said. "I don't think they (adults) understand what's really happening at school. At school, the kids get upset, and people tease them for it. I can understand why kids feel that way, but I don't think adults understand."

MISD: Board members to vote today on briefing sessions governmental entities.

"That bill, to me, has a direct bearing on the matter," said Fuller, even though it would not impact the MISD briefing sessions because they are publicly posted.

"They are posted at a time and held at a time that is exclusive," said Fuller, who routinely does not attend the briefings because of scheduling conflicts. "There are people out in the community who question briefing sessions and their legitimacy."

Some board members and Baressi, however, have no problem with the sessions.

"I think it helps the board prepare better for the meetings," Baressi said. "I think the danger would be if decisions are made in advance ... . From my vantage point, that's not happening."

But Fuller — who would seem to have the support of at least Glen Bufler and Pat Hodges on the board — still questions the meetings, even if they are reserved for information purposes.

"The public has a right to hear all of the questions we need answers to in open session (at Tuesday's meeting)," said Fuller. "It gives the constituencies the opportunity to basically determine to what degree we are representing their particular interests."

At Monday's meeting, it is hard to tell what all of the fuss is about — though it is a rare instance when a member of the media is visibly present.

New board member George Lara has a number of agenda items and documents highlighted. Board Member Becky Oekerman wants clarification on the meaning of a sentence in the report on the Excel math program. Baressi clarifies the questions — most of them centering around curriculum reviews and recommendations — in short order.

"Anything else?" he asks.

"That's it for me," says Ms. Oekerman.

The meeting has lasted much less than 30 minutes. New board member Shane Boring has not asked a single question, though he has been following the discussion, leafing through his agenda.

Board President Martha Manulik has played mostly an informative role, giving Lara some background on the questions he has about the FLES program of elementary Spanish language instruction.

Board member Jackie Hamilton similarly has played a largely instructive role.

Baressi takes the last few moments to note some of the other matters coming up Tuesday that board members haven't mentioned.

First, he brings up the election of officers today, which he indicates Fuller may want to take place in open hearing, though it is currently set to happen in executive session.

Then, Baressi mentions a couple of items on the long list of executive session items slated for the end of the meeting, pointing them out to the new members who have yet to experience closed meetings.

The student hearing, he said, is "pending."

"Individual employee matter — I'll talk to you about that in executive session," Baressi says.

After the meeting, Lara — who previously said the issue of briefing sessions is "open for discussion" on Tuesday — remained noncommittal after experiencing his first briefing session.

"I think its purpose is for information only," Lara said. "It's helpful, but if they do away with it, then I'll just come here on my own time and ask the questions."

PARK: Hero's Water World to open in few weeks

(From 1A)

sporting events, a place to go and be tourists. It's also successful in attracting people from out of the area. So we promote the park and are pleased it's getting ready to open."

What interested the officials at ETPI, Zaccaria said, was not just the lack of another water park for miles, but "what caught me was that this can help children."

Jerri Christian, marketing director at the park, said she is excited about the work she is doing with local charities, working with them, particularly the ones that need more exposure, to sponsor a weekly "charity day" with proceeds from the gate going to that charity.

Zaccaria said he hopes that not only will the 60 to 80 young people hired at the park learn responsibility from having to ensure the safety of the park's visitors, but that they will be affected by working with the underprivileged and handicapped children park officials hope to welcome throughout the season.

Contractors went in and cleaned all the pool bottoms, repaired cracks, cleaned the filtration system and rebuilt every deck in the park, he said. The slides were sanded to remove abrasive materials and the walkways were pressure-cleaned and nonstick materials put down. Bathroom fixtures were replaced, and even the 11 water wells that provide water to the park were reworked, he said.

He estimated the cost at about $500,000.

"We went to a lot of cost to fix the park up this year," he said. "We could have waited on some of these projects."

Next year, he said, it will be easier to tackle new projects. Plans are to add a new water ride between the wave pool and the go-cart track, and company officials are studying the park's site plan to decide where to install a "lazy river" ride, either throughout the park or at the back of the park. The miniature golf course has been closed this year for renovations, and Zaccaria said consideration is being given to adding a lighted nine-hole golf course or RV park.

He said he hopes to schedule concerts and other events at the park and said the public is welcome to offer ideas on events and attractions.

Additions to the park, he said, depend on public response.

"If the community responds like we hope they will, we could spend even more on the park."

Ms. Christian said the goal is to build up the entertainment portion, complete with concessions and high-tech arcade games, to be kept open year-round, with only the outdoor water attractions open during the summer season.

This is the first water park for the company, founded in 1978 as a vendor of military entertainment facilities worldwide, Zaccaria said.

"This is the only water park we have," he said. "It's a step out for us, but it's still in the entertainment industry."

COLISEUM: Officials say facility brings money in making any money is in a community with a million-plus population."

Tommy Gonzalez, general manager of the Municipal Coliseum in Lubbock, agreed.

A coliseum losing money is common, "in tertiary and secondary markets. We're not a primary market like Dallas, Houston or San Antonio, so we're not going to draw the same type of events as those markets."

Lubbock's coliseum lost $25,000 last year, but according to Gonzalez, that's above average.

"Last year, the city budgeted to lose approximately $150,000 but the employees did a good job and we only ended up losing $25,000," Gonzalez said. "It used to be a heck of lot worse than that. The coliseum used to lose half a million a year."

The news for Ector County Coliseum gets even better, though. Ector County Auditor David Austin said it's difficult to assess a facility's profit/loss statement on a year-to-year basis.

The reason is that in 1990, the county issued $5 million in debt service for the facility's improvement. That year the coliseum fund showed a profit. Whenever the county spends money for improvements, it actually is spending more money than what it is making. But the money was there in the fund for just that purpose.

"For a couple of years, they're expending cash received from a previous year."

Either way, Caddel said the issue of profit is of little concern.

"We may tweak the system and make what adjustments we can, but we consider it to be a service to the community and we simply won't look at it from a cost-benefit basis."

And perhaps they shouldn't. Some seem to think they're doing fine just as they are.

"There are a few facilities around the state that have gained excellent nationwide reputations in the industry. Ector County is one of them," Amarillo's Miller said.

China demands punishment of those responsible for bombing

BEIJING (AP) — China broke off military ties and other contacts with the United States on Monday and demanded those responsible for NATO's bombing of its embassy in Yugoslavia be "severely" punished. Thousands of protesters hurled rocks at the U.S. Embassy in Beijing for a third day, with some dragging and kicking a life-size effigy of a U.S. soldier with an American flag on his chest.

Chinese authorities allowed waves of protesters to descend on the paint-spattered, debris-strewn U.S. Embassy from mid-morning Monday until early today. Some hurled burning objects, and Tibetan monks in blood-red robes also joined the demonstrations.

Police allowed protesters along a seven-block route that snaked between the U.S. and British embassies and shooed away onlookers.

China's suspension of high-level military ties — and talks over arms control, international security and human rights — signaled one of the lowest ebbs for China-U.S. relations in 20 years.

China's Foreign Ministry didn't say when contacts might resume.

Foreign Minister Tang Jiaxuan condemned NATO's attack as a "vicious invasion" and demanded an "open and official" apology. He said the United States must thoroughly investigate Friday's attack, make the results public and "severely punish those responsible."

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright said NATO would provide China with a full explanation. She added that statements by Chinese authorities indicated anti-American protests in Beijing had the government's approval.

Hunkered down inside the embassy compound was U.S. Ambassador James Sasser, who refused Tang's summons for a face-to-face meeting. In an interview, Sasser said the protests got so threatening at one point that he ordered preparations for destroying sensitive documents.

Tens of thousands of protesters, spurred on by the government, have marched in 20 cities nationwide in the past three days in the biggest protests since the Tiananmen Square pro-democracy demonstrations in Beijing 10 years ago.

Protesters' emotions were inflamed by government-run media reports that the attack on the Chinese embassy that killed three journalists was deliberate.

"How could you be that shameless? Get out of China, American butchers!" read a slogan spray-painted by protesters on a sheet-metal fence facing the battered U.S. Embassy.

President Clinton apologized anew Monday for the bombing, calling it "an isolated tragic mistake." U.S. officials blamed it on misinformation from CIA target planners.

"I apologize. I regret this," Clinton said.

China's suspension of contacts with the United States represented a blow for Clinton's foreign policy. His administration has repeatedly cited talks over human rights, arms control and other issues as proof that their policy of engaging China was bearing fruit.

The suspended meetings cover concerns that China has provided nuclear weapons or missile technology to Pakistan, Iran and other countries and comes at a time of controversy over Chinese espionage in the United States.

The measures were similar to ones China took but never publicly announced in a confrontation with Washington over Taiwan in 1995.

China called off a visit by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and downgraded but did not cancel a visit Wednesday by German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder.

Russia's envoy in the Yugoslavia crisis, Viktor Chernomyrdin, arrived in Beijing for talks with Chinese leaders. Aides said he would meet Tuesday with Chinese President Jiang Zemin and Prime Minister Zhu Rongji.

Chernomyrdin criticized the embassy bombing, but insisted it should not derail progress toward resolving the Kosovo crisis.

Chernomyrdin has led Russia's bid to find a diplomatic solution to the 7-week-old conflict, shuttling around Europe to meet with Western and Yugoslav leaders.

The abrupt decision to send him for talks in Beijing came after President Boris Yeltsin talked by phone with Chinese President Jiang.

"The leaders of both states discussed in detail the situation in Yugoslavia and its further aggravation due to NATO's barbaric action, which caused casualties among Chinese citizens who served in Belgrade," said a statement from Yeltsin's office.

Sasser, a complement of Marines and other U.S. officials remained Monday for safety reasons inside the U.S. Embassy compound, which was surrounded by hundreds of police in riot helmets. Thousands of demonstrators marched past, pausing to shout slogans and throw stones as they did Saturday and Sunday.

State-run Chinese media helped set the stage for an angry public with coverage of the Kosovo conflict that has ignored Yugoslav atrocities and set a belligerently anti-American tone.

Instead of halting the violence, police guided the protest — directing the march, blocking nearby streets and keeping foreign reporters at a distance. Authorities even ferried students on buses to the embassy district.

After clearing the streets near the U.S. Embassy early Monday, police allowed protesters to return, although in more regulated, smaller batches than on Sunday.

While Sasser said "the situation has stabilized somewhat," protesters still shouted "Down with the Yankees!" on Monday and hurled rocks at embassy buildings already peppered with smashed windows.

Childbirth Classes for Expectant Teens
Expectant teens tend to have different concerns than older mothers. Many are not comfortable in a class with older couples. Also, the healthcare needs for younger women are different than those of older expectant mothers. That's why its very important that pregnant teenagers get comprehensive prenatal care and instruction.
At the Birthplace our goal is to obtain better outcomes for babies and their mothers. This includes shorter, more comfortable labors with fewer complications, and greater satisfaction.
Mary Ellen will assist a laboring young woman throughout the entire labor, providing emotional support, practical comfort measures, and help to make the birth experience a positive memory with rich rewards and feelings of accomplishment.

Stadium backers ought to broaden their objectives

The proposed sports complex has captured the imagination of many Midlanders.

More than 1,400 signatures have been collected in an effort to put a sales tax initiative on the November ballot which that fund a new stadium for the RockHounds baseball team as well as a new football stadium.

The dream is twofold: Keep the immensely popular RockHounds in Midland and attract a variety of high school sports events to Midland to fuel our city's tourism efforts.

However, some voices in the community have criticized the "prioritization" of putting a sports complex ahead of other needs, including the increasing call for a new Midland High School.

In addition, for years there has been a desire to see a performing arts facility built in Midland to house the symphony and other musical events.

Isn't there room enough for all of these dreams in Midland?

Perhaps we ought to take a three-pronged approach to the entire issue.

Step One might be the construction of the proposed sports complex with its consumption-based sales tax that would pay for the massive project.

Step Two might be a community-backed initiative to build a new Midland High School adjacent to the new sports complex. The decaying structure that currently houses Midland High School students rapidly is becoming a disgrace to our community and a disservice to the young people we are trying to educate.

Step Three in the process would be an effort to construct a performing arts facility.

If the proposed sports complex lands in the current Air Park; the sports complex, new high school and performing arts center would be grouped together and conveniently located adjacent to Midland College, already a leader in cultural community events.

We would urge stadium backers to work in conjunction with governmental entities and the community based Vision 2000 Committee in this effort.

By bringing in the high school and performing arts facility efforts, stadium backers would ensure broad-based support from the community and silence critics who claim those needs are being ignored.

Midland is a community with many needs and desires. We all need to work together to accomplish these goals.

If any of these objectives are to be successful, our leadership needs to sell the public on the great things we can all accomplish together.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, May 11, the 131st day of 1999. There are 234 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 11, 1946, the first packages from the relief agency CARE (Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe) arrived in Europe, at Le Havre, France.

On this date:

In 1647, Peter Stuyvesant arrived in New Amsterdam to become governor.

In 1858, Minnesota became the 32nd state of the Union.

In 1910, Glacier National Park in Montana was established.

In 1944, Allied forces launched a major offensive in central Italy.

In 1949, Israel was admitted to the United Nations as the world body's 59th member.

In 1949, Siam changed its named to Thailand.

In 1973, charges against Daniel Ellsberg for his role in the "Pentagon Papers" case were dismissed by Judge William M. Byrne, who cited government misconduct.

In 1985, more than 50 people died when a flash fire swept a jam-packed soccer stadium in Bradford, England.

In 1996, an Atlanta-bound ValuJet DC-9 caught fire shortly after takeoff from Miami and crashed into the Florida Everglades, killing all 110 people on board.

In 1997, the Deep Blue IBM computer demolished an overwhelmed Garry Kasparov and won the six-game chess match between man and machine in New York.

Making abortions illegal would accomplish nothing

I saw on the news about the Youth Council and Mayor Bobby Burns' ideas to make May the month to pray about ending abortion. This is all well and good, as we all know abortion is terrible. Just ask anyone who has gone through the ordeal of discovering they are pregnant at the worst time of their lives and, after much thought and prayer (yes, I said prayer), decided to have an abortion.

This is the hardest decision any woman has ever had to make and can be an extremely hard decision to live with once the abortion has been completed. However, women have been making this decision and living with the aftermath of it for years and years. Before 1973, the women who decided this was the right course for them faced the possibility of losing their own lives, as well as that of the fetus they were carrying. At least now they can be assured of a safe procedure performed by professional doctors and not fear for their own lives.

So while you're praying to end abortion, please pray for the need for abortion to be overcome. I've always heard that God helps those who help themselves. So help yourself. Educate your children! Yes, we all know that abstinence is the best policy, but it can't be the only policy you teach your children. I've heard people say that they don't want sexuality education in the schools because if you teach the children about sex they will become curious and try it. Please! They are already curious and they are, in many cases, already sexually active. We must teach them the methods by which to prevent pregnancy, and even worse, death! By all means, teach abstinence, but you must include more information in their education that will allow them to make informed decisions.

Making abortion illegal again will accomplish nothing. After all, drugs have been illegal forever and look how much good that's done. This would kill young women, as well as the fetuses. It didn't work the first time, so why revert back to something that didn't work? Instead, we need to spend our time and energy in preventing unwanted pregnancies and try to make every child a wanted child.

Haley's 'book review' belonged on opinion page

Regarding "Lindbergh was an American hero," a purported book review in the April 25, Midland Reporter-Telegram, I was disappointed to see an editorial disguised as a book review by Evetts Haley Jr. As an admirer of Lindbergh, I was anxious to read of another book about this remarkable man. However, I was not prepared for the anti-Semitic tone of Haley's "review," nor was I expecting to see again that "Roosevelt maneuvered our country into inviting the 1941 Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, so determined was he to thwart the will of the American people and get us into war."

That is simply bad history: America's entry into World War II was not because Roosevelt wished to assure himself a third term in the White House, nor was it because of "world Jewry," a term that, in light of events at Columbine High School in Littleton, demonstrates a bias I would hope the MRT does not share.

Haley is more than welcome to write editorials expressing his viewpoints, but he should not claim to be simply reviewing a book about Charles Lindbergh. His reply in today's (May 4) MRT is, at the very least, disingenuous. Haley's views on term limits, the Monroe Doctrine, the causes of World War II, and the Jewish people, all found in his "review," should be included in the opinion/editorial pages, where they can be evaluated accordingly.

Young person's attitude is main issue, not guns

Is the editorial page so full that columnists' personal views must be printed in the news section? I take exception to Myra Salcedo's editorial on gun control being printed in the Lifestyle & Travel section of the Sunday, May 2, newspaper. Her article was not an investigative piece or even a statistical composite. She was merely citing incidents from her past to draw a conclusion. Her statement that gun access is the main issue is totally ignorant. Wake up and smell the roses.

We spend billions trying to keep all of our people from having access to drugs that are illegal for anyone to even possess. Have all the restrictions and laws against drug use and possession curbed kids' access to drugs and alcohol? Not according to Ms. Salcedo's own recollections, she could recall a number of times her kids' friends had overdosed on illegal drugs. Guns will be with us for the rest of time. More legislation banning sales and ownership will only take us down the same path as drug regulation. In 1997, 5,477 young people (passengers and drivers age 15-20) died in motor vehicle crashes. Twenty-one percent of the drivers were DUI. How many lives could we save if no one could get a driver's license until age 18? I would guess more than have been killed in school shootings.

Ms. Salcedo's headline should have read, "Guns; dysfunctional students a dangerous mix." In my opinion, a young person's attitude is the main issue. These days, many young people seem to have no conscience, no sense of right and wrong or respect for authority. Just because one of these little monsters cannot easily gain access to a gun is little comfort to me. They still want to kill and they will find a way.

Nudity, energy enough to shake lawmakers

WASHINGTON — One hundred fifty peaceful exhibitionists assembled at 6 a.m. in Manhattan's Times Square recently, stripped off all their clothes and together posed in the altogether for the photographer Spencer Tunick.

Before he could get the shot of massed nudes, the lubricious lensman was arrested for "tumultuous and violent conduct." The D.A. has charged Tunick with "promoting the exposure of a person." (What kind of crime is that? I try to do that in this space twice a week.) We libertarians view this bluenosed suppression of artistic expression as a foolish waste of the police's time.

Safire

Half a world away, at almost the same moment, a crowd of more than 15,000 middle-aged Chinese of the Fulan Gong sect assembled in front of the compound housing China's leadership. Fully clothed, they sat silently on the sidewalk in yoga's lotus position for 13 hours, in deep concentration.

They thereby threw a scare into the Chinese Communist government the likes of which has not been felt since the demonstration at Tiananmen Square 10 years ago on June 4.

But this year's demonstration was not political. No signs were raised, no slogans shouted, no replicas of the Statue of Liberty held aloft that triggered a massacre. These are practitioners of qigong (pronounced chee-goong), both a martial art and a method of breathing and meditation that directs energy to improve health and spiritual awareness. Though an offshoot of Buddhism and denounced by the government-run qi establishment, it avoids condemnation as a cult by claiming not to be a religion.

Accordingly, Prime Minister Zhu Rongji rolled out no tanks. He listened to a delegation's complaint about harassment by officialdom, and offered them bus rides home. The crowd dispersed, having made its point. The official newspapers are now warning the Fulan Gong not to try that surprising stunt again.

This can be dismissed as a cult promoted by Li Hongzhi, a Chinese forced out of China and now in New York. Reported to believe in alien beings and levitation — and selling TV cassettes of his outlook on his Web site — Li's 5,000-year-old symbol of yin-yang means "all is well" but looks a lot like a swastika. Tibetan and Chinese friends tell me that by a Buddhist, he's no Buddhist.

But whether he's selling scary superstition or uplifting spirituality — or the brain-body interaction that Western scientists no longer pooh-pooh — between 40 and 70 million people are buying. The movement has about as many members in China as the Communist Party and is growing much faster. Beijing has not cracked down because it fears turning the energy of qi on itself by making martyrs.

Zhu has reason to worry. Communism is producing political suppression while its capitalist road requires economic belt-tightening and its social policy limits families to one child. With 200 million unemployed or underemployed making up 25 percent of the work force, China may be yearning for a movement offering a happier, healthier, freer life.

In good times, Communism and Confucianism, with their common respect for authority, can easily co-exist. But when a sense of impermanence takes hold, and the mandate of Heaven comes into doubt, all in authority sense the danger of spiritual revival. Most sects die aborning, but a few, strengthened by repression, mushroom into a major challenge.

Advice to Zhu: Ease up. Don't turn a shrewd salesman into a mythic hero. Neither your stolen nuclear secrets nor your boughten supercomputers can smother an internal brush fire begun in spirituality and selflessness and ignited by outrage.

On a different order of magnitude, advice to the NYPD and the Manhattan DA: Lighten up. If they're not blocking traffic and do nothing more violent than smiling at a camera, let the nudies shape themselves into a message and pose. Good for tourism, better for art, best for liberty.

Nothing is wrong with rejecting exploitation

Well, after Littleton, no journalist will ever be able to criticize ambulance-chasing lawyers with a straight face. The news business pounced on that tragedy like a starving tiger and relished every tear, every drop of blood. It licked it clean. It sniffed around the graves for any stray morsel.

Maybe not everyone feels the way I do — that grief is a private thing, and that strangers should not intrude on it, least of all those who do so just to make a buck. I wouldn't be surprised, because I'm really out of fashion in just about every category I can think of. And glad of it.

But we really have reached a point where several industries, for greed's sake, descend on any hapless group of individuals who get caught up in some tragedy considered newsworthy. There's the news business, the grief counseling business, the psychology business, the talk show business and, of course, the lawyer business. Next comes the ideologues. If a gun is involved, the gun-control nuts charge in. If it's weather-connected, the global warmers jump in. And the politicians. Somehow, they will think of a new excuse for new legislation no matter what the occasion.

Reese

It's called exploiting, and it isn't pretty.

Whatever happened to the idea of just reporting the news, then going home and leaving people alone? Apparently, at least in the minds of media moguls, there is such a dearth of news that the giant maw of 24-hour-a-day news must stretch out any event, with good video and melodrama, as long as possible. Preferably, I suppose, until the next tragedy with video possibilities.

It was amusing, in a mordant way, how quick the TV round-the-clockers dropped the Albanian refugees off the screen as soon as the gunfire broke out in Littleton, Colo. Now, as things are quieting down in Littleton from a video point of view, the refugees are back on the screens.

You can be in a hellishly tragic situation, but if there are no video possibilities — dramatic visuals, easy access, easy uplinks, preferably good hotels — you will just suffer invisibly, as 99 percent of the world's miserables do.

As many have remarked, American journalism is the most ethnocentric in the world. In earlier times, that was natural. The United States was indeed isolated by two oceans and, with such a big nation of its own to exploit, had very little interest in other countries. Communications were slow.

That is no longer the case. While we need to practice what meddling internationalists call isolationism (better known as not intefering in other people's lives and countries), we do need to be aware of what's going in the world, lest someone get the jump on meddling and interfering in our lives and our country. For another reason, a sizable portion of the world is heading here or intends to.

For another, the more ignorant we are of other countries and other people, the more easily we can be manipulated by mendacious politicians who have been purchased by foreign lobbies. It seems to me that avoiding manipulation by other people is a worthy goal in and of itself for any human being who values liberty.

The people who exploit their fellow man, not to mention the land, air and water, are relatively few, though very visible and vocal. There remains a decent majority who respond to, instead of exploiting, their fellow man's pain and suffering.

Hopefully, the decent majority will find its voice. There's nothing wrong with: "No comment." "Get off my property." "Get that camera out of my face." "None of your business."

Yugoslavia announces partial troop withdrawal; NATO says not enough

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia announced a partial withdrawal of its forces from Kosovo on Monday, a move that was swiftly rejected by the United States. Secretary of State Madeleine Albright called the reduction in forces a "half-measure," and NATO said it would continue its bombing campaign until Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic withdraws all of his Serb forces.

The Yugoslav statement, carried by the state-run Tanjug news agency, said the army supreme command had ordered the partial withdrawal after finishing its operations against the rebel Kosovo Liberation Army. The pullout was to begin at 10 p.m. Sunday (4 p.m. EDT), it said.

The announcement, apparently aimed at garnering international support for an end to the bombing, gave no indication of how many troops have been withdrawn, or how many are left. Virtually all foreign reporters have left the province under government orders and it could not be determined if any units have actually left.

The notice also made no mention of the ethnic Albanian population, largely driven out or displaced within the Serb province. The State Department said Monday that Serb forces and civilians have expelled more than 90 percent of all ethnic Albanians from their homes.

About 40,000 troops, police and special forces are believed in Kosovo, and they are widely blamed for expelling some 700,000 ethnic Albanians into neighboring Macedonia, Albania and Montenegro. Before NATO airstrikes began March 24, Milosevic had an estimated 12,000 troops in the province, including regular and special police, and Yugoslav army troops stationed along the volatile border with Albania.

Fighting in Kosovo erupted in February 1998 when Milosevic sent thousands of troops in to crush the KLA, which is fighting for independence from Serbia.

"Considering the fact that the actions against the so-called Kosovo Liberation Army have been completed, the Yugoslav army supreme command ordered the beginning of the partial withdrawal of the army and police units beginning May 9, 2200 hours," the military statement said.

It added that when there is agreement on a "U.N mission in Kosovo ... it will be possible to realize a plan with which the army and police units in the province would be reduced to peacetime levels."

At the United Nations, a spokesman for Secretary-General Kofi Annan responded cautiously to the announcement.

"We only have heard initial reports and we'll need more detail. But if in fact it is confirmed that Yugoslavia has ordered a partial withdrawal of its troops from Kosovo, that could be viewed as a positive development," Fred Eckhard said.

NATO's conditions for ending the bombing include an immediate and verifiable end of violence and repression in Kosovo, the withdrawal of Serb forces and paramilitary police from Kosovo, the deployment in Kosovo of an international military force, a return of all refugees and the establishment of an interim political solution.

Meanwhile, air raid sirens wailed over Belgrade around lunchtime and NATO missiles pounded a factory for 20 minutes in the central Serbian town of Cacak, 60 miles south of Belgrade, killing four people and injuring 13, Tanjug reported.

Palls of smoke shrouded the factory, which makes heating and technical appliances, and two more people who had been driving past the factory were feared dead, the agency said.

NATO missiles also landed near the Serbian towns of Kraljevo, 70 miles southeast of Belgrade, and Raska in the south.

From the Albanian border town of Kukes, where thousands of refugees were huddled, Kosovo-bound NATO bombers were seen thundering overhead, dumping bombs on targets on the far side of a mountain. Huge plumes could be seen from the frontier.

The attacks followed one of the quietest nights since the bombing began — a relative lull that NATO said was due to bad weather, not because of growing Chinese outrage over the bombing of China's embassy in Belgrade on Friday.

Netanyahu orders 3 offices of PLO headquarters in Jerusalem closed

JERUSALEM (AP) — Just one week before Israeli elections, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on Monday moved toward a confrontation with the Palestinians by ordering the closure of three offices in the PLO headquarters in Jerusalem.

Netanyahu, who is trailing in the polls, has been trying unsuccessfully to turn Jerusalem into a key campaign issue.

Palestinian leaders and Israeli security officials predicted large-scale riots should police try to use force in closing parts of the PLO headquarters, also known as the Orient House.

The closure order was shrouded in confusion. Hours after Netanyahu announced his decision, his minister of public security, Avigdor Kahalani, tried to negotiate a last-minute compromise with the Palestinians.

Kahalani gave the Palestinians until Monday evening to accept the compromise, but the top PLO official, Faisal Husseini, said the offer contained "nothing new," suggesting it would be rejected.

Under the Kahalani plan, two of the three offices would be moved to the West Bank, but Husseini's office would remain in place.

Even if the closure orders are served, it is unlikely police will raid the Orient House in the next few days.

Hawaii landslide kills 6, including 10-year-old

HAUULA, Hawaii (AP) — Rescuers using heat-seeking cameras and military search dogs did not find any more bodies early Monday in tons of debris left by a weekend landslide that killed at least six people and injured dozens of others.

"We're pretty much certain there are no more dead bodies under the landslide," said Honolulu Fire Capt. Richard Soo.

Dozens of hikers were sunning themselves at a pool beneath one of Hawaii's most scenic waterfalls Sunday when the landslide sent tons of boulders — some of them the size of compact cars — crashing down.

A helicopter survey indicated the area, a popular hiking spot at Sacred Falls State Park on the northeast coast of the island of Oahu, remained unstable hours after the landslide.

Geologists were gingerly trekking into the valley this morning to determine the stability of the debris and the surrounding cliffs.

"It looks like the cliff face came away," state Department of Land and Natural Resources geologist Glenn Bauer said after flying over the area.

Four victims were female, and two were male. None of their identities were released, but authorities say one victim was a 10-year-old girl.

Thirteen of the injured, including a 29-year-old man in critical condition, remained hospitalized.

The park in the lushly forested Koolau Range is about 30 miles north of Honolulu. The falls spill into a pool, reachable by a 3-mile hike, at the base of a 90-foot cliff.

"Probably about 50 feet from the base, a big chunk of the upper cliffs slid down on the base of the falls where all the people sit down and others are swimming," Honolulu Fire Chief Attilio Leonardi told television station KITV.

The pool, popular with tourists and locals, was crowded on a sunny, tropical Mother's Day.

"There were people in the water, there were people under the falls, there were people 50 feet from it that still got hurt," hiker Rodney Woodington told KITV.

Another hiker, Dr. Geoff Scott, of Anaheim, Calif., coordinated medical efforts at the scene.

"The first thing we did was we got the people we could help, we got them out of the fall zone," Scott told KITV. "And then after we did that, we triaged who was sickest and basically tried to support them until the Fire Department got there."

Tracey Murphy, 22, of Kunia, a former volunteer fireman, cut up towels from his pack and helped bind wounds. Murphy told The Honolulu Advertiser he walked out of the area carrying another hiker who had a broken arm and a missing finger.

"My heart goes out to the victims of this terrible accident and their families," Gov. Ben Cayetano said after inspecting the area by helicopter. "On behalf of the people of Hawaii, I extend deepest sorrow and sympathy over the tragic loss of life in this devastating natural disaster."

Statistics: Buses safe transportation despite recent run of deadly accidents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last June, it was a Greyhound bus that veered off the Pennsylvania Turnpike and smashed into a parked tractor-trailer, killing seven. On Christmas Eve, it was a casino-bound charter that slid off an icy Garden State Parkway, killing eight. On Sunday, it was the worst one yet, another casino bus swerving off a highway in New Orleans, killing 22.

Despite a run of deadly accidents, federal statistics show that buses are generally a safe way to travel on the nation's highways. On average, six people die in motor coach crashes annually; in 1997, 22,000 people died in passenger car crashes, 2,100 were killed in motorcycle crashes and just over 700 died in large truck crashes on U.S. interstates and highways.

Still, the National Transportation Safety Board is concerned about the safety of America's coach fleet.

The board is just completing a special investigation of bus crashworthiness, and preliminarily it has found that the most dangerous aspect of a crash is passenger ejection, said Joe Osterman, head of highway safety for the NTSB.

That may prompt the five-member board to recommend new guidelines for the size or rigidity of bus windows — especially in new coaches offering panoramic views of the landscape.

It's also triggered a discussion of seat belts in motor coaches.

While the federal government has required seat belts in passenger cars since 1968, it has never required them in any kind of bus, whether school buses, transit buses or motor coaches. The thinking has long been that with their size, height, padded seats and high seat backs, buses offer passengers a protective cocoon in the event of a crash.

Chamber concert

Musicians from the Midland-Odessa Symphony will perform a chamber concert at 7:30 p.m. today at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave. The concert will include works by Poulenc, Stravinsky and Neilson. No admission will be charged.

Young Republicans

The Midland County Young Republicans invite interested persons to attend its next meeting at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The group gathers at the Midland Hilton's Santa Fe Bar & Grill and then goes to the fifth floor at 112 S. Loraine for the actual meeting. This week's meeting will be a discussion on "A Status Report on America, 1999." To be a member, a person must be between the ages of 18 and 40.

Hearings closed

SAN MARCOS — Over the objections of media lawyers, a county judge Monday closed a hearing and sealed search warrants in the case of four Wimberley Junior High School students accused of planning to bomb their school.

Hays County Court-at-Law Judge Howard S. Warner II also refused to lift a gag order preventing lawyers and others from speaking about the case.

Warner said it was in "the best interest of the children and the community" to keep the proceedings closed. Later that morning at a closed hearing, he ruled that the four boys should remain in juvenile detention.

Tech celebrates big bucks in Permian Basin contributions

By Daniel Arp
Staff Writer

Midlanders gathered at the Petroleum Club on Monday to join Texas Tech University leadership and staff in celebrating a successful fund raising campaign in the Permian Basin.

To date, Tech has raised $31.3 million in the Midland-Odessa area since setting a goal of $25 million last February. A large chunk of that money — $14.5 million — was given by an anonymous donor.

The fund raising efforts are part of the university's Horizon Campaign to raise $300 million statewide by 2001.

"A lot of times, you don't get too many celebrations of accomplishing a goal," said John Montford, chancellor of Texas Tech. "We wanted to give everyone a hearty thank you."

Montford expressed pleasant surprise at the response fund raising efforts have generated in the Permian Basin, especially given the oil difficulties the region is facing.

Montford

Smith

"It's two years ahead of schedule," he said. "It certainly feels good."

Much of the money will be used to specifically benefit not only the health science center in Odessa but the Physician's Assistant program at Midland College, which will open this fall.

David Smith, president of the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center, said a class of 16 already has been admitted to the Midland program out of an applicant pool of over 200.

Smith said the goals of Texas Tech to expand research opportunities is "well in concert with Midland's goal."

Aging especially will be a top research priority for the school, Smith said, which he said was in line with the demo-

Four Arc of Texas prizes go to Midland entities, individuals

By Daniel Arp
Staff Writer

Midlanders took a high percentage of prizes at this year's Arc of Texas awards. The consensus among most of the winners seems clear: recognition is nice, but what they are doing to promote inclusion should not be considered so spectacular.

Integrating physically and mentally challenged people into the work force and classroom is simply part of the philosophy of many of this year's winners.

"The philosophy is: people are people," said Tom Miller, whose school, Milam Elementary, won 1999 educator of the year from Arc of Texas in Austin.

Miller and his school were recognized for integrating a diverse set of students into the classroom.

"Everyone who walks through our doors is part of our population," said Miller. "We look at the child, as we do every child, and see what we can do that is best for their needs."

H-E-B of Midland also won an award for 1999 employer of the year. Ten of the store's 250 employees have physical or developmental disabilities.

"We really just don't worry about it at all," said Bob Richardson, general manager of the Midland H-E-B. "My experience of working with the people that have disabilities is that some have difficulties, but to the person, make up for it in desire and hard work ... and are a real asset to the store."

Richardson said he employs people with disabilities in various capacities around the store — doing store returns, working in customer service, stocking, stacking and carrying out.

"They're treated the same as any other partner," said Richardson. "They're just part of the team."

Such inclusion has not historically been a part of every institution, however, a way of thinking Miller considers dangerous.

"I think we've segregated the population (when we exclude)," said Miller. "We've become an elitist population."

Miller said the fear of inclusion often centers around the feeling that the needs of all students cannot be met — a legitimate concern, he said.

But in the case of Milam, students are evaluated individually and needs are assessed student by student. Miller said a more inclusive, diverse classroom

Some feel 'Jenny Jones' verdict has chilling effect

By Jeff Stevens
Staff Writer

A panel of 12 decided Friday that a television show can be held liable for another's criminal actions and at the same time put First Amendment defenders on their guard.

"Verdicts like this potentially could set all kinds of precedents that could impact what we consider good journalism," said Robert Thompson, director of the Center for the Study of Popular Television, Syracuse University. "If you take that to its logical conclusion, we could be reduced to silence. In this sort of steady circling of the sharks around the First Amendment, this has been a big bite."

The Pontiac, Mich., jury ordered the "The Jenny Jones Show" to pay Scott Amedure's family $25 million in damages.

Amedure was shot to death by Jonathan Schmitz in 1995 three days after the two took part in a "Jenny Jones" taping. Amedure revealed on the show that he had a "crush" on Schmitz.

The slain boy's family accused the show's producers and owners of negligence in putting a mentally troubled Schmitz on the show and humiliating him.

At his trial for murder, Schmitz's lawyers also put the blame on "The Jenny Jones Show" as well as a history of depression and thyroid problems.

"I feel that we can't be responsible for determining if everyone we interview is mentally stable," said John Foster, general manager of KWES Channel 9. "We are not qualified to judge if a person is mentally stable."

Foster didn't agree with the deci-

Judge Bunton, in good spirits, is recovering from cancer surgery

Judge Bunton

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Like the legendary Tom Mix of cowboy lore of the American West, the legendary federal judge, Lucius D. Bunton III of judicial lore, is a "straight-shooter."

He will tell you how things really are, at least how he views them, on or off the courtroom bench.

So, earlier, this spring as he was ailing and following a week or more or diagnostic testing, Bunton shot away with an honest, terse question to his physician.

"I said, 'OK, what's the deal, doc?' " Bunton recalled from his Odessa home on Monday.

The physician replied in kind: "'You have cancer.'"

After being laid up almost a month in the hospital following removal of his cancerous bladder and the rebuilding of a surrogate bladder, Bunton, 74, is "getting stronger, but I'm still pretty weak," he said.

"They took my bladder out, and you don't have but one. So, I didn't even know what duostomy was, but now I do. It takes the place of the bladder."

The surgery was on a Saturday morning.

"I never had surgery on Saturday morning, but, then again," he quipped, "I never had surgery" except for removal of his tonsils as a child. He grew up in ranching country, Marfa, in far West Texas.

The event was a dreadful time in his life.

More than 50 years ago, during World War II in Europe, Bunton was living in foxholes as an infantryman and fighting with the U.S. Army. That, too, was a life-threatening experience — the war.

"Time goes by, and you forget a lot of those (terrible) things. But one thing you don't forget is how cold it was," Bunton said of war-ravaged Europe during the winter. "I still remember the cold more

GARY OTT

Mother's Day mission: Getting everyone to church on time

Ott

It was Sunday morning. I was sleeping on the sofa-bed in the basement. The clock next to me read: 7:45 a.m. It was cool enough that the thick blanket felt good pulled up around my neck. From time to time I would roll over, fluff up the pillow and yank the sheet over my head. Upstairs, footsteps could be heard pattering about. Then the shower was turned on. The smell of coffee began to drift through the air. I heard my mother say to Dad, "Marsha said to wake her up at 8; Gary wanted to sleep 'til 8:30." I smiled to myself. "Fat chance of that." So I got up, pulled on a pair of sweat pants, headed upstairs and made my way to the kitchen. One by one, so did the rest of the family. And before you knew it, there were nine of us debating what order to do things so that we could all be at church in time for the 10:15 a.m. worship service.

I have one thing to say about that: Good luck.

It was Mother's Day. Approximately two-thirds of the immediate family had gathered at my parents' house in Plainview, Texas — hometown of Jimmy Dean, the undisputed king of breakfast sausage — to celebrate the occasion and to make my mother feel particularly proud by filling an entire pew at First Baptist Church. When you are 72 years old and have family spread out all over the country, it doesn't get any better than that.

It is enough to make you think you have a bit part in a modern-day version of the old TV series, "The Waltons."

Right, John-Boy?

Right.

But as mentioned before, getting to church on time is no simple endeavor.

It takes teamwork, improvisation and a whole lot of luck, especially when you only have two bathrooms, one ironing board and a variety of tastes in breakfast.

And regardless of the family's background, the Sunday morning conversation is always the same. It centers around those nagging short-term problems that must be dealt with on an immediate basis in order to ensure success. Indeed, if you just sit back and listen, these are the kinds of things you will hear:

— "Hey, mom, do you have time to iron this shirt?"

— "I told you she won't eat Corn Flakes. Do you have Cheerios?"

— "These eggs are too runny."

— "Did anyone bring a blow dryer?"

— "I forgot to bring a tie. Dad, do you have one that goes with this suit?"

— "Hmm, do you have another one?"

— "Who's got the sports section?"

— "Thanks a lot, Marsha. There's no hot water left."

— "Someone needs to make another pot of coffee."

— "I can't drink this. Don't you have bottled water?"

— "How many cars are we taking?"

— "Has anyone seen my keys?"

— "Hey, we've got 15 minutes. We don't want to walk in late and make a scene."

— "Will this preacher get us out on time or does he go on and on and on?"

— "I'll tell you right now, I'm not standing up when they recognize guests."

— "Me either!"

— "No one said you had to."

— "I'm leaving in 10 minutes. If you're not ready, you're not going."

But, of course, in the end, everything works out just fine. Three minutes before the service officially begins, the nine of you file in and take your place near the rear of the church.

When the music director steps forth and asks the congregation to rise, you notice out of the corner of your eye that your mom is beaming with pride as her family stands as one.

And that makes the hassles of the morning all worthwhile.

Right, John Boy?

There is no charge for death notices of residents or former residents of Midland or for those who have Midland relatives. We also publish death notices for residents of the surrounding West Texas area.

Free death notices include date and place of death, service and burial information, funeral home handling arrangements, date and place of birth, brief biography, survivors and memorials. A longer, more detailed obituary is available for a charge. It may include tributes, expanded biography, organizational associations, notes of appreciation, pallbearers, honorary pallbearers and a photo, one column wide and three inches deep.

Deadline for both free death notices and paid obituaries is 3:30 p.m. and information must be either received from or verified by a funeral home.

BUNTON: Lawyer says judge is as tough as they come than getting shot at, which is not funny. But as long as you are not hit, it ain't no big deal."

Well, Bunton indeed was hit by the cancer, endured surgery, and is recovering at home.

"I'm doing some dictation," which, he said, "consists primarily of writing people and thanking them for sending books and flowers and candy and all that sort of stuff."

Mary Jane Carsey Bunton, his wife of almost 52 years, is doing fine, Bunton said. "She is having to do double duty."

The visitors and get-well cards all help, too, in his recovery.

"He never gives up," Mrs. Bunton said of her husband and his perseverance.

Bunton plans to resume his court work as a senior U.S. District Court judge in late 1999, which will mark the 20th anniversary of his appointment to the federal judgeship by U.S. President Jimmy Carter.

Bunton plans to resume his court work as a senior U.S. District Court judge in late 1999, which will mark the 20th anniversary of his appointment to the federal judgeship by U.S. President Jimmy Carter.

"He is as tough as they come," Midland lawyer Steve Hershberger, who served as Bunton's law clerk in the mid-1980s, said of the judge. "I can't wait to get him back on the bench."

While Bunton is taking leave of his routine judicial duties during his recovery, U.S. District Court Judge Royal Furgeson of Midland is helping out in attacking Bunton's docket in Pecos.

"It's kind of a labor of love," Furgeson said. "He has helped us a bunch. Whatever we can do to just kind of do our part, plus some, is just fine."

Furgeson, U.S. District Court judge in Midland since late 1994 some time after Bunton took senior status, noted that Bunton is "such an upbeat guy with such a great sense of humor.

"I don't think I have ever heard Judge Bunton complain about one thing. And that's pretty hard to say about most people," Furgeson said. "He's never complained about anything. Even when he went through this terrible surgery, I don't remember hearing him complain."

Bunton's retrospection and his humor are delineated in his autobiographical "A Bit of Bunton," his 334-page memoirs written primarily for his family and friends. In trying to resolve a 1988 chili cook-off dispute, Bunton plugged in a bit a humor to bring reason and levity to the case:

Some like it hot, some like it cold,
Some like it in the pot nine days old.
When it comes to good, stout chili,
If you don't like it hot, you're just plum silly.

TECH: University will use part of endowment to help West Texas students without financial aid graphics of Midland and its prospect of transitioning to a more retirement-based community.

As for the Physician's Assistant program in particular, the hope exists that an endowment will be earmarked specifically for the program.

A top priority for the endowment, Smith said, would be scholarships for West Texas students.

"A lot of these students without financial aid or a scholarship find it hard to leave home or the ranch," he said.

Another priority would be endowed chairs for faculty, "so that we can keep some of our very best," Smith said. "We often get them recruited away."

Smith said he was pleased with the support Midland had given to Tech's program goals.

"Midland's been a great partner — financially and otherwise," he said.

JONES: Local TV station general managers disagree on decision's effect on First Amendment rights sion and feels that it will eventually be overturned in appellate court or by the Supreme Court.

"There is a lot of information presented on information shows and news shows and people are going to take away from those what they want to. If that (decision) holds up, I think it puts a strangle hold on talk shows, news shows, a lot of shows in general."

He added that the net effect could put local news agencies at risk for litigation charging them for responsibility for another's action.

KOSA TV General Manager Andy Lee said, "This could have a chilling effect on anyone's First Amendment rights.

"There are subjects that are covered by talk shows on television that I wish were not covered. Even so, they have the right to do such stories."

Foster, whose station used to air "The Jenny Jones Show" added, "I think some of those shows are vulgar in some ways and go into areas I personally don't like. But I still don't think they should have their hands tied."

Bob Young, general manager at KMID TV, doesn't think the case is a First Amendment issue.

"Free speech has always carried a mandate of responsibility. For a communicator — I don't consider her a journalist — to use the First Amendment as a shield, they also have to accept that they must act responsibly.

"I think that the tabloid talk shows that practice that type of ambush tactic probably had something like this coming for a long time."

Young said that he agreed with the jury's decision because Schmitz was ambushed on the show.

"In the Jenny Jones case, it was a matter of misrepresentation. He (Schmitz) was lured there under false pretenses."

He added that ambush tactics are the very reason why he doesn't feel the decision will have an effect on news shows.

"You don't have that in straight journalistic reporting."

His contemporaries agreed that even if one of their stations were sued under similar charges (responsibility for crimes resulting from their programs), such a case would not hold up.

"Anybody can sue anybody else for any reason whether or not it has validity or not. But, if we do a news story and do so without prejudice, it would seem like it would be very hard to sue us over something we do in our news programs, as long as we don't take a side," said Lee.

Young said that the difference between tabloid talk shows and legitimate news programs would keep his station out of such litigation.

"Because you are dealing with two different animals. We do not engage in that type of activity and I feel very safe that the material we put on our newscast is far removed from what you see on a Jenny Jones."

Foster agreed that it would be difficult to hold a news show culpable for someone else's criminal activity.

"I don't see that holding up."

Then again, Foster and Lee said they didn't believe the case against "The Jenny Jones Show" would hold up either.

Lee even suggested another culprit that may even be more sinister than television talk shows.

"It's surprising that litigation in this country is so out of control," Lee said, adding that he was surprised that the victim's family sued the show in the first place.

"Why not sue the guy who killed the other fellow?" he asked.

AWARDS: Principal says that teachers need to be trained to needs of disabled often presents challenges to teachers but not insurmountable ones. As for the argument that a teacher must individualize their teaching practices to meet each student's needs?

"Every teacher individualizes their education," Miller said. "That's the definition of a teacher."

Miller, whose background is in special education, argued that for inclusion to become more widespread in schools across the state and the country, teacher training was the key.

"What we need more in public education is staff training to meet diverse needs," said Miller. "I think we've come a long way in Midland in particular. I think we've got a long way to go.

"It takes time; it's not something you do overnight."

Adding to the pile of local awards, Rep. Tom Craddick (R-Midland) also took a prize. He received Arc's 1999 leadership award.

"I was just elated ... I was really honored to be honored by them," Craddick said. "I've always supported the expansion of opportunities for people with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities."

The Reporter-Telegram also was honored with the 1999 community media award. Reporter-Telegram publisher Charles Spence was in Austin to accept the newspaper's award.

Midland Gives Beyond Measure
Thanks to the over flowing compassion of local residents, tornado victims in Oklahoma City have received immediate help with needed supplies. Because of Midlands' quick and generous out-pouring of donations, the 48 foot tractor trailer was filled to capacity within two days. By Friday night the Emergency supplies were already in transport to Oklahoma City. Midlands' quick response to the need was so overwhelming that we were able to deliver the supplies one day sooner than it's scheduled time of departure.
The Salvation Army thanks all those who gave of their time, and donations towards the Tornado Disasters. Your help has touched people's lives and comforted their grieving hearts.

VAN PEARCY of Edward Jones & Co.

When you contribute to charity, everyone benefits

If, like many West Texans, you provide financial support to at least one civic, religious or educational institution, you may have often wished that you could give more, if you could afford it.

But if you look beyond strictly cash donations, you can make larger gifts—and both you and your institution of choice will benefit.

Donate appreciated stock

If you've been investing over the course of the long bull market, then you may own several stocks that have appreciated significantly in value. Why not consider giving some shares to the organization you want to support? By doing so, you'll gain a couple of key advantages.

Van Pearcy

To begin with, you will be able to deduct all or part of the gift from your taxes. Furthermore, when you contribute appreciated stock that you've held for at least a year, you won't be liable for any of the capital gains taxes due when the stock is sold. Even with the new, lower capital gains rate of 20 percent, these taxes can be considerable.

By donating appreciated assets to a charitable organization, you can also help your estate planning—if you make your donation through a charitable remainder trust.

Here's how it works:

You contribute appreciated assets—stocks, real estate, etc.—to the charitable remainder trust. The trust sells the assets and uses the proceeds to purchase a portfolio of securities. The trust then pays you an income stream for life, and the organization receives the principal upon your death.

By setting up such a trust, you'll avoid a capital gains hit and you'll be able to take a deduction on your current-year taxes. Furthermore, because you'll be moving assets out of your estate, your beneficiaries will have fewer estate taxes to pay.

You may have noticed one element that's missing from this picture: your children. How can you provide for them if you transfer the bulk of your appreciated assets to a charitable remainder trust?

One possible solution is to use the income you receive from the charitable remainder trust to purchase a life insurance policy on yourself. However, if you own the insurance, the proceeds will go into your taxable estate. As an alternative, you might want to consider purchasing an insurance policy in an irrevocable life insurance trust. Because the trust actually owns the insurance policy, the proceeds will be kept out of your taxable estate, which means your heirs will pay less in estate taxes. And, you can direct the trust to provide your heirs with regular income.

Trusts can be complex instruments. Before establishing one, consult with your legal adviser.

Everyone is a winner

Deciding how to make a charitable gift—through a straight donation of appreciated stock or through a charitable remainder trust—will depend, in large part, upon your financial objectives. If a tax deduction is your primary objective, making a straight donation may be the most appropriate route for you. A charitable remainder trust, on the other hand, might be appropriate for someone seeking an income stream, under certain circumstances.

Regardless of how you choose to make a charitable gift, you'll be helping a valued institution and yourself, In short, everyone benefits.

Van Pearcy, a native West Texan, joined the full-service investment firm of Edward Jones in 1987. He received his BA in economics and his Master's degree in business administration from the University of Notre Dame. If you need help with investment or retirement planning, you may call Van's office at 683-1516 for a no-fee, no obligation appointment. His office is located at 2020 West Cuthbert, directly across from the high school football stadium.

Southwest floors features no payments with interest deferred for six months*

When spring returns warmth and fresh ness to the air, homeowners start thinking of ways to refresh their décor. Southwest Floors makes it very easy to give your home a new look. If you buy any brand of carpet from Southwest Floors you'll owe no payments or interest for six months*.

Think of it! Now you can select the colors, styles and textures that reflect your individual decorating taste. Southwest Floors' experienced salespeople will help you choose carpet that will suit your lifestyle and please your eyes. You're not limited to one brand or one style.

You'll save in other ways, too. Buy only one or two rooms of Queen or Patcraft brand carpet and get the same discount you'd get if you bought a whole houseful of carpet..

These prices are for quality carpet—not seconds or off goods. "At Southwest Floors, we sell only first quality carpet," says owner Robert Burton. Their selection is made up of branded nylon fibers including Stainmaster, Wear-Dated II and Anso—so you know it will be a thing of pleasure for years to come.

Southwest Floors will also make sure you're happy with the installation. "I started out in this business as an apprentice installer 28 years ago," says Robert. "I know our installation crews are the best in town." Their crew will move all of your furniture for you at no extra charge.

"We make this no-interest offer because we want help out customers get the best values possible," says Robert. "Our business has always depended on customer satisfaction, and this is just one more way we can help them get what they need at a really good deal."

So—if your carpet is worn or is just outdated, this is your chance to buy what you really need and defer the payments for up to one year. Go by Southwest Floors and let them show you how you can refresh and update your home with no payments and interest deferred for six months.

Southwest Floors was opened by Robert Burton in 1990. They carry a wide selection of carpet, tile, wood and vinyl flooring. The address is 1113 Andrews Highway, next to McDonald's. Seniors enjoy discounts on worry-free siding ost seniors take special pride in their home's appearance. But the West Texas elements work against most paint jobs, requiring them to be redone much too often.

With Lifetime Siding's 15 percent senior discount, you can save money and stop worrying about ever repainting your home's exterior. Lifetime owner Neil Letkeman provides a 15-year warranty on labor and a lifetime warranty on parts.

He can offer a lengthy warranty because he securely installs siding using screws or rivets in critical areas instead of nails.

While you're having the siding done, why not prepare for summer's hot weather by having insulated windows installed? The Lifetime warranty also applies to these double-glass vinyl windows that tilt in for easy cleaning.

Siding that includes insulation, along with insulated windows, can make a real difference in your electric bill this summer.

Don't worry, save money. That's the Lifetime Siding theme song.

Lifetime Siding has been in the Permian Basin for over 10 years. They specialize in steel and vinyl siding, as well as storm doors and windows, plus patio covers, carports and metal roofs. Call 580-8125 for a free estimate. Call for a list of references.

Judge rules against opening Wimberley school-plot hearing to public

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Over the objections of media lawyers, a county judge Monday closed a hearing and sealed search warrants in the case of four Wimberley Junior High School students accused of planning to bomb their school.

Hays County Court-at-Law Judge Howard S. Warner II also refused to lift a gag order preventing lawyers and others from speaking about the case.

Warner said it was in "the best interest of the children and the community" to keep the proceedings closed. Later that morning at a closed hearing, he ruled that the four boys should remain in juvenile detention.

Lawyers for three newspapers and a television station asked Warner to open hearings and records in the case and reverse a gag order he placed on all parties involved.

Paul Watler, representing The Dallas Morning News, the Austin American-Statesman and Dallas television station WFAA, said that withholding information about the case does a disservice to the public.

"They are left to only speculate and rely on rumors and second-hand information and so forth," Watler said.

Mark Cannan, a lawyer for the San Antonio Express-News, said disseminating information about the case could help parents, teachers and others learn more about spotting potentially troubled students.

"I think public awareness of what is going on in our schools and what is going on with our children is really important so those signals aren't missed," Cannan said.

Both Watler and Cannan said they expect to appeal the judge's decision.

Lawyers representing the students and Hays County prosecutors both argued Monday to keep the case closed to the public. The judge noted it was "rare and unusual" for the defense and proseuctors to be on the same side of an issue.

Hays County Assistant District Attorney Cathy Compton presented a petition with about 110 signatures from Wimberley residents. It stated that they object to "unwanted media attention" and asked for continued closure of the case to protect the town's children.

"Juveniles are special," Ms. Compton said. "They have statutorily mandated specific protections."

Attorney Kyle Maysel, who represents one of the four boys, presented as evidence the May 10 issues of Time and Newsweek magazines which feature information on the Wimberley case in addition to the Littleton, Colo., high school shootings and other recent cases of youth violence.

"The fact that there is national attention ... indicates that the order that was granted was the right thing to do," Maysel said.

The judge listened to lawyers arguing the case for about an hour before issuing his ruling.

He said he would close the hearing "to help insure that the state, as well as the children involved and their families, obtain and receive a fair and just resolution before this court."

The students, all eighth-graders at the Danforth campus of Wimberley Junior High School, were arrested April 23 and charged with conspiring to commit murder, arson and manufacture explosives.

Authorities said a search of the boys' homes revealed gunpowder, crude explosive devices and computer disks with bomb-building information, some of it downloaded from the Internet.

But one of the boys' mothers said police were exaggerating the seriousness of the case. She said one of the explosive devices was gunpowder from a firecracker that had been emptied into a pill container.

Museum of former speaker may not have to return historical artifacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders appear to have backed away from a plan to reclaim historic artifacts that legendary former House Speaker Sam Rayburn removed from the House in the 1950s and shipped to his boyhood hometown in Texas.

House Speaker Dennis Hastert has tentatively agreed to allow the Sam Rayburn Library and Museum in Bonham to continue displaying the items his predecessor took to stock his new museum, which opened in 1957.

The Rayburn collection includes a nearly 3,000-year-old Grecian urn valued at $3 million, the original House speaker's rostrum and a crystal chandelier that hung in the White House.

Hastert aides are working with House Administration Committee Chairman Bill Thomas, R-Calif., to craft a policy regarding items taken by Rayburn and previous House speakers, Hastert spokesman John Feehery said Monday.

The tentative policy would allow artifacts on public display, such as Rayburn's, to remain where they are, he said. While Feehery described the decision as "fairly definite," a Thomas spokesman said the policy remains unfinalized.

"We are developing some type of an arrangement, but we still hold that those items were removed without proper authorization," said Thomas spokesman Jason Poblete. "The speaker will be presented with several different options to decide from."

But Hastert has already given his word that the items will remain in Texas, a development first reported by Roll Call, a publication that covers Congress.

"I very much appreciate your commitment that the House will not pursue return of the items that are displayed in the Rayburn Library," Rep. Kay Granger, R-Fort Worth, wrote Hastert last month.

Library director H.G. Dulaney welcomed word of the proposal.

"Isn't that wonderful," he said when reached Monday at the museum, which is affiliated with the University of Texas Center for American History. "It would dismantle the library to remove all this."

Said Center for American History director Don Carleton: "Obviously, anything that can be worked out to maintain the situation as is is welcome. But we really haven't had any direct contact with the speaker's office."

Questions over the artifacts' ownership surfaced when the House clerk informed museum officials that Rayburn should have turned over to the State Department any gifts from foreign governments, like the urn bestowed by the Greek government, and then gotten congressional approval to take them back.

While House officials believe Rayburn's pieces belong to taxpayers, the museum's representatives contend he obtained proper permission before taking them.

"We've never converted any of this material to private use or stored stuff in private offices," Carleton said. "It's all been on display for 41 years."

DEAR ABBY

Boy's sleeping arrangements are cause of cousin's concern

DEAR ABBY: My cousin is the single mother of a 9-year-old boy, "Kenneth." He is an only child.

Kenneth has never slept in his own room. After his father left, my cousin used this as her excuse to let him sleep with her. He doesn't want to be alone and is afraid his mother will leave him, too, so that's the excuse she uses to justify allowing him to sleep with her.

Van Buren

I spoke to my cousin about this, and she said, "It's no big deal; plenty of people do it." The truth of the matter is that she doesn't have the patience to listen to him scream and cry all night if she tries to make him sleep in his own room. It's obvious to the family that Kenneth is in charge of their household.

I'm afraid this boy will have serious problems due to the sleeping arrangements. I'm also worried that a state agency will get wind of this strange situation and investigate my cousin.

Do you agree that this boy will become maladjusted? Perhaps if she sees it in your column, she'll wise up. —NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: Kenneth should not be sleeping in the same bed with his mother. If your cousin doesn't know how abnormal this situation is, she should be told in no uncertain terms that she's doing her son a terrible disservice with this sleeping arrangement.

Further, at age 9, Kenneth is too old to be "screaming and crying all night" when he's left alone. The boy needs counseling to overcome his fears of abandonment.

DEAR ABBY: As a state trooper, I would like to comment on your advice that drivers pull over before using their cellular phones. While it is dangerous to drive while using the phone, it can be equally dangerous to just "pull over" while on the highway.

Many vehicles stop in the breakdown lane for this purpose without realizing that the most serious accidents take place when there is a large variance in the speeds of the objects colliding. This occurs most frequently when a stationary car or person is only inches away from traffic traveling in excess of 60 to 70 mph. It takes only a moment's inattention for a tragedy to occur. Many fatal accidents are the result of a truck or car straying only slightly over the white line near a stopped vehicle.

Because of this danger, our state and many others prohibit the use of the breakdown lane unless there is a mechanical or medical emergency.

Abby, please urge your readers to use caution when pulling over. Look for a safe place to stop well away from the flow of traffic such as rest areas or parking lots, and of course, ALWAYS wear seat belts.

Thank you for all your good work on behalf of police officers everywhere. — TROOPER STEVE EARLE, MASSACHUSETTS STATE POLICE

DEAR TROOPER EARLE: Your advice to stop well away from high-speed traffic is a safety tip that could save the lives of many. Thank you for it, and for the reminder that a moment's distraction can occur during a long highway journey even with the safest of drivers. It is absolutely vital that motorists stay fully alert at all times.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll have: 5-Dymanic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, May 11, 1999:
You have high ideals and a strong sense of direction. However, your communication is often misunderstood or is heard improperly. Confirm messages and, if necessary, be willing to adapt your style of expression. You'll need occasional timeouts to regroup. Your caring manner has the power to reach others. If you are single, romance can land at your door at any given moment. You exude charm and draw others. If attached, your willingness to communicate draws the two of you together. Share your feelings through tokens of affection. ARIES reads you cold.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★ Confusion surrounds an important friendship or goal. What should you do? Ask questions; find answers. Don't get discouraged. Extremes mark talks, though another does mean well. Family and domestic matters take far more time than you are willing to give. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ Use the morning to work on major projects; take no details for granted. Your opinions are valued, but another simply doesn't see eye to eye with you. Put your differences on the table. Expressing your vulnerabilities brings another closer to you. Take some time to think. Tonight: Time for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Maintain a high profile. Think about news, bring friends together. Go within to think about recent developments. A major expenditure pleases you to no end. Share good news with friends; examine long-term goals. Tonight: Hanging out with your buddies.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ Make calls, finish writing tasks and handle communication before the afternoon. Verify news, seek information, make sure facts are accurate. Make a must appearance; you'll wow the boss and whoever else you need to. Listen to feedback. It's OK to blush! Tonight: In the limelight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ An issue concerning a friendship could confuse a key relationship. You might not be understanding the implications. Though you would like to believe what you hear, you could be heading down the wrong path. Your intuition proves to be instrumental with another. Tonight: Check out a new eatery.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★★ Others might not see a situation as you see it. Work hard, be direct and don't let wishful thinking affect your professional status. View another in a different, more realistic light. One-to-one relating remains the right avenue for success. Tonight: Make time for friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★ Plunge into work and get as much done as possible. A creative idea might backfire, especially with your finances and with a partnership. You could be putting a loved one on a pedestal — remember, he can only fall off. Take a stronger role when dealing with others. A partner is most indulgent. Tonight: Where the action is.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Touch base with a child or loved one. Your flirtatious nature emerges. Realize how easily a partner or family member could misconstrue what is happening. Focus on work; seek an expert if need be. Emphasis is on publishing, law and higher education. Tonight: Mixing business and pleasure?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ You come from a centered viewpoint, but another has a different impression. He is confused and might have a difficult time making a judgment. Work could be particularly affected. Verify messages, stay on top of communication. Tonight: Kick up your heels.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ Talk, get down to basics and understand what is happening with you and another. Be on red alert with finances. Take extra time with a domestic situation. Family seems subject to extremes in behavior. A partner clearly adores you; he beams when you are around. Tonight: Say "yes."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Extraordinary caution in domestic matters is important. You might not be hearing what others are saying; or, you might not be in tune with your personal needs. Be gentle, even if you feel gruff in some way. Understand where others are coming from. Tonight: Hanging out.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★★ You are personality plus. Listen to others and understand that a hunch could be way off. Verify news, appointments and meetings. Don't stand on ceremony. Your creativity and softer side emerge when you are dealing with a child. Tonight: Indulge a loved one.

Opening lead: Ten of ♡

When you know something about a hand that your opponents do not, take advantage of it as soon as possible. Later might be too late.

Most experts dislike opening minor-suit oriented hands with a demand bid if there is any other way to conduct the auction. Here South selected a one-bid, followed by a jump shift rather than open an artificial two clubs and not be able to adequately describe the minor two-suiter below the five-level! Since the three-club rebid was a game force, North-South were able to reach the best contract in short order.

West led a heart and the defenders were quick to take two tricks in the suit. East reasoned that South had at least 10 cards in the minors, and that, if a diamond trick was coming, there was no way it could go away. But East could score a club trick if declarer did not find out about the 4-1 distribution in time to take remedial action. Since the ace of spades was the only entry to dummy, and since an extra spade trick could not help declarer's cause, East brilliantly shifted to a spade away from the king.

Declarer won in dummy and there are those who would argue that declarer should have been aware of East's nefarious scheme. We do not agree. South made the normal play of a trump to the queen and continued with the king. When West showed out, there was no entry back to dummy for the marked finesse. Down one.

Fans to get new music from Beatles

LONDON — A previously unreleased single by the Beatles will be put out later this year, along with refurbished versions of the "Yellow Submarine" soundtrack and movie.

The single is about three minutes long and features all four Beatles singing, said Geoff Baker, a spokesman for Paul McCartney and Apple Records. He wouldn't disclose other details about the song Monday.

The 87-minute movie "Yellow Submarine," first released in 1968, is being restored and given a remixed soundtrack, Baker said.

The album had six songs by the Beatles and seven instrumental tracks from the film score by George Martin, the group's producer. The remixed version will drop the instrumentals and replace them with previously released Beatles tracks, Baker said.

A three-minute previously unreleased single by the Beatles and refurbished versions of the "Yellow Submarine" soundtrack and movie will be out later this year.

BOSTON — Joan Kennedy, the ex-wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, was hospitalized after what was described as a mild heart attack.

Mrs. Kennedy, 62, fell ill Friday. She underwent tests at Massachusetts General Hospital and was scheduled Monday to have an angioplasty to determine what further treatment was necessary, said her son Rep. Patrick J. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy, who was divorced from the senator in 1983, has described herself as a recovering alcoholic and has spent time in a number of rehabilitation programs following arrests for drunken driving.

Patrick Kennedy said in a statement that he spent Mother's Day weekend with his mother in the hospital and he expected his brother, Ted Kennedy Jr., and his sister, Kara Allen, to join them. Mrs. Kennedy is expected to stay in the hospital the rest of the week.

NEW YORK — Natalie Portman was far from a "Star Wars" fan when she landed the role of Queen Amidala in the latest installment.

"I was born in Israel and I lived there for my first three years," said the 17-year-old Long Islander. "By the time I got to the United States, all the films had already come out. So I missed it the first time around."

Portman plays a queen who resists invasion of her country in "Star Wars: Episode I — The Phantom Menace."

She said Sunday that she plays a "strong female character that's really good for girls. She has this unembarrassed idealism."

Portman also appeared in "The Professional."

PALM BEACH, Fla. — He's the Artist Formerly Known as Treasury Secretary.

Donald T. Regan, 80, took the Palm Beach art scene by storm with a February show of paintings at Wally Findlay Galleries. Some pieces sold for as much as $6,000. Another show is planned for August.

"I know. It defies the imagination," he said in Monday's Wall Street Journal.

The gallery wanted a three-year contract, but Regan would only agree to two. "At this age, I don't even buy green bananas," he said.

Regan's brightly colored canvases feature lighthouses, historic buildings and seascapes. "Believe it or not, I'm what they call 'primitive,'" he said.

Occasionally, Regan donates his art to charity — despite tax laws that bar a write-off.

"Some damn fool at Treasury once said a guy could just scribble on paper and sell it for $5,000 and take a write-off," he said. "Guess who that was?"

Jacqueline Bisset will play Mary in a new movie about the life of Jesus.

MUNICH, Germany — Jacqueline Bisset plays Mary, and Armin Mueller Stahl is Joseph in a new made-for-TV movie about the life of Jesus.

Filming began Monday in Morocco, said the Kirch media group, which is financing the movie with several other European broadcasters. The movie will be shown on several European networks and on CBS in the United States.

The title role in "The Bible — Jesus" is being played by an American, 25-year-old Jeremy Sisto.

The two-part movie is the latest in a project that began in 1993 to film the entire Bible. Ten episodes based on the Old Testament have been completed with stars including Richard Harris, Ben Kingsley, Dennis Hopper and Klaus Maria Brandauer.

Baseball playoffs

The times and places for the Midland High and Midland Lee baseball teams in this weekend's area round of the Region I-5A playoffs have been finalized, perhaps to the delight of the Rebels and the dismay of the Bulldogs.

Lee (23-5), which received a first round bye by virtue of winning District 4-5A, won a coin flip last Saturday to earn the right to host El Paso Coronado Friday at 4 p.m. in the first game of the best-of-three series at Ernie Johnson Field. The two teams will meet in the second game Saturday ar 11 a.m., with a third game if necessary to follow 30 minutes later.

Midland High (26-7) on the other hand, is on the road again against El Paso Socorro. The Bulldogs, who swept Amarillo Tascosa in the bi-district round in Lubbock last weekend, lost out when the Socorro athletic director correctly guessed a zip code. That means MHS will play No. 9 ranked Socorro in a best-of-three at El Paso Community College starting Friday at 4:30 p.m. (MDT). The second place game will take place at noon (MDT) Saturday with the third game if necessary to follow.

Midland High and Socorro had reserved Kokernot Field in Alpine for the series, but the catch was that the teams couldn't find any lodging for Friday night since Sul Ross State University has its graduation ceremonies scheduled for Saturday.

NBA playoffs

MIAMI — Alonzo Mourning scored 26 points and Miami shot 51 percent Monday night to beat New York 83-73 and even their best-of-5 series. That was one of four NBA playoff games played Monday evening.

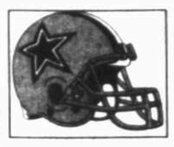
Affidavit says Tuinei bought heroin

By C. Bryson Hull
Associated Press Writer

McKINNEY — Former Dallas Cowboys star Mark Tuinei went to an apartment to obtain heroin the night before he died and apparently used it as well as the drug Ecstacy, one of the team's players told police in a court document.

The document, which investigators filed to get a warrant to search Tuinei's house, contains information from Cowboys running back Nicky Sualua, who said he spent Wednesday evening with Tuinei in a Dallas apartment. Sualua said he and Tuinei went to the apartment to get the heroin and "Mark went into the bedroom, and he said, 'Here it is.' "

"When Mark came back to the living room, he looked as if he was passing out. Nicky advised (that) Mark started having problems and stopped breathing," the affidavit continued. Sualua added that he performed CPR at the apartment, and Tuinei was alive when he dragged the 6-foot-5, 320-pound former player to his 1933 classic Ford roadster.



Sualua drove to Tuinei's house in an affluent section of Plano, a Dallas suburb. "Mark was snoring loudly," the affidavit said.

Sualua got two blankets from the house and slept in the car with Tuinei until about 5:30 a.m. Thursday, he told police.

"When Nicky woke up, Mark was not breathing," said the document, whose existence was first reported by Dallas-Fort Worth television station KDFW.

In a 911 tape released Friday, a man identified as "Nicky" told the dispatcher that his friend had stopped breathing. "I can't feel a pulse," he said.

Tuinei was pronounced dead after arriving at a nearby hospital.

Tuinei played 15 seasons for the Cowboys before retiring in 1998. He had made plans to return to Hawaii, hoping to coach high school football and teach youngsters the same skills that helped him become a three-time Super Bowl champion with the Cowboys.

Plano police officer Carl Duke said his death remains classified as "unexplained." The preliminary autopsy report was inconclusive and further toxicology tests were expected Tuesday.

Dallas police said Monday that since Thursday, they have arrested three people at the apartment on various charges, ranging from heroin possession to public intoxication.

In addition to heroin, Sualua said Tuinei had used Ecstasy, a stimulant, at Tuinei's house earlier Wednesday evening, according to the document filed with Collin County Court-at-Law Judge Mark Rusch, who issued a search warrant for Tuinei's Plano home. McKinney is the Collin County seat.

Police seized marijuana pipes, a marijuana cigarette, a white tablet, a cell phone and papers with phone numbers from Tuinei's house, but no heroin, according to an inventory attached to the affidavit.

Sualua's agent, Steve Weinberg, did not return calls to his office on Monday, and Cowboys spokesman Rich Dalrymple and NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said they had no comment.

But Aiello did note that not all players are subject to random drug testing.

Mustangs romp into usual land

By Oscar LeRoy
Sports Writer

It's become common on the Midland Christian baseball and softball diamonds to make the post-season. It has also become common that each team advance past the bi-district round.

This year is no exception as both the Mustangs and the Lady Mustangs are in the TAPPS 4A Regional Playoffs, and both are facing familiar district foes tonight. The baseball team travels to Abilene to play Denton Liberty Christian at 6 p.m. on the campus of Hardin-Simmons University, while the softball team heads to Hawley to take on Fort Worth Christian at 4:30 p.m.

The Lady Mustangs come in with a record of 23-11 and are very happy to be in this round after a slow-throwing pitcher from Fort Worth All Saints befuddled them for much of last Thursday's 3-2 bi-district victory. On the mound against All Saints, senior Mindi Sheppard was solid as she picked up her 11th win of the season by striking out 10 and allowing just 10 Lady Saints' hits.

"We played well in that game," said Lady Mustangs coach Byron Myers. "It just came down to where we didn't hit their slow pitcher very well. We didn't prepare for that speed."

Midland Christian has not been quieted very often this year as its .433 batting average as a team has made the Lady Mustangs a lethal offensive machine over the season. In order to beat Fort Worth Christian, Myers said a key is for his team to put the ball in play.

Fort Worth Christian comes in with a 14-14 record and finished third behind the champion Lady Mustangs in District 1-4A. FWC defeated the district's second place team Dallas Bishop Dunne, 8-4, in the bi-district round. The Lady Mustangs came away with 8-0 and 8-4 wins in their previous two meetings during the district season.

"It's hard to play a team three times," Myers said. "Mentally we have to get up

The Garden City girls mile relay team of (left to right) Michelle Fuchs, J'Layne Niehues, Deidra Hirt, M'Lynn Niehues and alternate Tiffany Kujawski will go to the state meet in Austin beginning Friday. This is the second year in a row that the Garden City mile relay team has made the state meet.

Fate puts Lady 'Kats in state

■ Garden City girls mile relay team takes roundabout route to state meet.

By Stewart Doreen
Assistant Sports Editor

GARDEN CITY — The fact is the Garden City mile relay teamis just lucky to be a finalist in the Class A division of the UIL Track Championships. The Lady Bearkats know it, but are ready to take advantage of it.

The relay team (Michelle Fuchs, J'Layne Niehues, Deidra Hirt and M'Lynn Niehues) is going back to Austin, and the same group, which finished second in the state last year to Sterling City, is looking to end a topsy-turvy year on top.

"That (returning to state) has been our goal the whole year," said J'Layne Niehues, the lone senior of the four. "We said 'state was great in '98 and one more time in '99.' That was our motto all year long. We decided we would be the last ones to run in the old one (stadium, Memorial Stadium) and first to run in the new one (Mike A. Myers Stadium)."

It is safe to say that Lady Bearkats' road was not like anyone expected, especially themselves. They did not dominate like one would expect of a team that placed second in state the year before. Illnesses made that impossible.

The Lady Bearkats were helped out in that the UIL added an area round for Class A. That meant instead of the top 2 teams at district advancing to regionals, the top four at district qualified to an area meet, and the top four at area advanced to regionals.

Team anchor M'Lynn Niehues missed district due to mononucleosis. In that meet, Garden City placed third.

At the area meet, Fuchs was forced to miss due to a respiratory infection. The Lady Bearkats took fourth.

"I has been a tough year," Garden City coach Doug Stone said. "I am kind of glad the UIL changed the rules for Class A, otherwise we wouldn't be there. We almost dismantled the team when M'Lynn got mono."

The Lady Bearkats didn't, and they can think senior Tiffany Kujawski for coming in and saving state chances. Kujawski will be labeled as the team alternate in Austin, but her role in district and area was as important as anyone.

"I wasn't going to run track in the beginning, then M'Lynn got sick," said Kujawski, a four-time state cross country qualifier. "J'Layne called me up and asked me to run with them. I just felt honored.

"I was playing tennis at the time, and they asked me a day before the district tennis tournament. I had to make up my mind and I told them I would do it. I practiced one day and we had district on Friday."

With Kujawski, Garden City advanced, and just as importantly, bought the team time to get well. When it did, the quartet showed its old form, capturing the Region I-A title. The time of four minutes, 13 seconds was a seven second improvement on times run at district and area.

Last week at a state qualifiers meet, the Lady Bearkats kept cutting, running a 4:11. That puts them as a top contender for the state title.

Blues stay alive with OT goal to edge Stars, 3-2

By R.B. Fallstrom
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS — After a slow start in the playoffs, Pavol Demitra is the St. Louis Blues' go-to guy again.

The team's leading scorer continued a postseason surge when he scored from the right side of the net at 2:43 of overtime for a 3-2 victory over the Dallas Stars on Monday night.

"Everybody tried to help me and I'm back," Demitra said. "I'm just happy and I'm enjoying my time on the ice and enjoying my time with the puck."

Demitra has five goals and eight points in the playoffs, including an assist in Game 3, and three of the goals have come in the last two games. He was 10th in the NHL with 89 points, but had entered the game a team-worst minus-4.

The game-winner came off a setup from Geoff Courtnall. Demitra knifed in front of a Stars defenseman and beat Ed Belfour to put an early end to the Blues' fifth overtime game in 10 postseason games.

"Somebody made a nice pass out of the corner," Belfour said. "I wish I could have gotten further out. Demitra made a nice shot."

Two less-likely sources of offense, faceoff specialist Mike Eastwood and rookie Jochen Hecht, also scored as the Blues cut the Stars' series lead to 2-1 heading into Game 4 Wednesday night.

The Stars, the NHL regular-season champions with a franchise-record 114 points, missed a chance to put the Blues in an almost impossible situation. Only two teams have recovered from a 3-0 series deficit, the last the New York Islanders in 1975 against Pittsburgh.

"We never thought about losing," Demitra said. "We know we can beat Dallas, and we proved it."

Dallas, which got goals from Darryl Sydor and Brett Hull, won Game 2 in overtime on a goal by Joe Nieuwendyk. The Stars' franchise-record six-game playoff winning streak came to an end.

"As much as you don't want to lose, you can't win them all," said Hull, who played his first postseason game in St. Louis since leaving the Blues after 10 seasons. "You have to battle harder because it's the playoffs.

"The team that makes the most mistakes usually loses, and tonight it was us."

Sydor forced the overtime with his first goal of the playoffs at 9:08 of the third. Grant Fuhr got a glove on Pat Verbeek's drive from the slot, and Grant Marshall got his stick on the rebound before Sydor tapped it in.

Hecht, who was with the Blues for only three games during the regular season, had given St. Louis the lead at 4:52 of the third. Hecht, the leading scorer at Worcester of the AHL with 21 goals and 56 points who joined St. Louis on Saturday, worked a give-and-go with Demitra and slipped a backhander past Belfour.

"He's a great player and to play with him is a

Duncan and Spurs take an early edge

SAN ANTONIO — Round One went to Tim Duncan.

Kevin Garnett aims to take Round Two when his Minnesota Timberwolves face the San Antonio Spurs on Tuesday night in the second game of their best-of-5 first-round Western Conference series.

"A must win, if that's what you want to call it," Garnett said.

The Spurs won the series opener 99-86 Sunday led by Duncan's 26 points and 12 rebounds and helped by 21 points from Avery Johnson.

Though Garnett was forceful in the first half, scoring 15 of his 21 points, he ran out of steam and into foul trouble as Duncan got going in the third quarter. Garnett was scoreless in the final quarter, when the top-seeded Spurs opened up a comfortable dou-

Lakers 'mopping' up with Houston

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — In high school, Derek Fisher was on the floor so often diving for loose balls that he earned the nickname "The Mop."

Fisher cleaned up for the Los Angeles Lakers on Sunday, making key defensive plays in the closing seconds of their 101-100 victory over the Houston Rockets in the opener of the first-round Western Conference series. His biggest play may have been a head-first dive onto the floor to grab a loose ball from Scottie Pippen with seven seconds remaining and Houston ahead by one point.

"I enjoy it, it gets my blood boiling," Fisher said of his on-court wrestling. "I don't really think I'm playing that hard or play-

McAlister signs with Iowa school

Nina McAlister only played year of varsity basketball with the Midland High Lady Dawgs, but that one year proved to be enough to catch the eye of a college scout.

On Monday, McAlister signed with NAIA Graceland College out of Lamoni, Iowa. Midland High coach Jim Raughton said the 5-foot-11 McCalister will probably play the power forward position at Graceland.

In her one season with the Lady Bulldogs, McAlister averaged 10 points, eight rebounds and 4.5 steals per contest. McAlister is the second Lady Bulldog to receive a basketball scholarship as Heidi Lange signed with Midland College last month.

Mirage '84 undefeated

LUBBOCK — The Midland Mirage '84 U-15 girls competitive soccer team met here Saturday for a doubleheader against Amarillo, improving its league record to 2-0-3.

The Mirage and the Amarillo Bears '84 played to a scoreless tie. Jamie Prementine and Morgan Pinter were in goal for the Mirage.

Mirage then took on Amarillo High Plains Drifters '84, and with a come-from-behind goal in the second half by Natalie Taylor, assisted by Christine Landry and Megan Mitchell, the match ended in a 1-1 draw. In goal were Pinter and Becky Weinkauf.

SPURS: Duncan leads in duel with Garnett

ble-digit lead and the eighth-seeded Timberwolves couldn't recover.

"They kept double-teaming, but I split a couple of them. They didn't come as fast," Duncan said. "A lot of things changed and I took advantage of it."

Garnett expects some differences Tuesday.

"I'm probably going to be a lot more aggressive," he said. "I'll try to stay aggressive for the whole game."

Garnett, who turns 23 next week, and Duncan, who turned 23 last month, guarded each other much of the time Sunday.

Early in the game a hot-headed Garnett got in Duncan's face and did some intense talking to his fellow 7-footer. Duncan listened, then walked away laughing.

"It just broke out like that, so I responded," Garnett said. Like Duncan, he didn't repeat the contents of the conversation.

Garnett insists his duel with Duncan is overblown.

"You have to understand, I was playing Sean Elliott, I was playing David Robinson and I was still being me," Garnett said. "I think that matchup thing is more of a media thing than anything."

Duncan seemed to agree, saying he makes little out of the "hype."

But fans and even teammates are intrigued by the competition between the two talented players.

"It's a great matchup. They can go back and forth and all the rest of us can go sit down and watch them sometimes," Johnson said.

Duncan, who gained some support for MVP honors toward the end of the regular season, and Robinson led the Spurs in a stretch run in which the Spurs captured the Midwest Division title.

The Spurs and Timberwolves split their regular season series 2-2. When Minnesota was successful against San Antonio this season, it was because the Spurs were forced to rely on shots from players besides Robinson and Duncan, said Timberwolves coach Flip Saunders.

So Johnson's point production Sunday wasn't a surprise. It was part of Minnesota's game plan. The tough part for the Timberwolves was that Duncan found a way to get the ball and score in the second half despite Minnesota's efforts, Saunders said.

"We'll do some things to change up, because we see some areas where we can make some improvement," Saunders said.

The Spurs aren't satisfied either. They're vowing to play better defense throughout Game 2.

"We're happy about the win but we know the next one's not going to be easy," Duncan said. "We're going to go out there and try to play a better game."

ROCKETS: Lakers hustle to 1-0 advantage

ing that well if I don't get down there and dive on the loose balls."

He also scored 20 points, one off his career best, and hit four 3-pointers while picking up an assortment of scrapes and bruises.

"If he wouldn't had the type of game he had, we would've lost," Glen Rice of the Lakers said after Monday's practice. "Offensively, he was explosive. Defensively, he was on every loose ball, stealing the ball from people."

It was the kind of performance Fisher needed to make everyone forget the flashiness of ex-Laker Nick Van Exel and the steady shooting of Derek Harper, two veteran point guards whom Fisher wasn't supposed to be ahead of in the lineup. Fisher took some of the Rockets by surprise, including Pippen.

"He played much better than we anticipated, much better than we wanted him to play," Pippen said. "That sort of hurt us."

Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich refused to get caught up in the Monday morning second-guessing of his team's final play, a pick-and-roll with rookie Cuttino Mobley driving to the basket only to have Shaquille O'Neal roar in from behind and swat the ball away. As the ball hit the floor, so did the Rockets' chance to win on the road.

"Everybody starts talking about this one little play and that little play," Tomjanovich said. "We did a lot of good things. We played good up until the last couple minutes."

Tomjanovich said being down one game doesn't make for a desperate situation, yet he admitted the pressure has shifted.

"The pressure was on them the first game, big-time. You got to hold serve. You lose that first one, then the visiting team has another shot at you," he said. "(Being down 1-0) changes the psychology."

TUINEI: Death latest in line of Dallas troubles

(From 1C)

Players who have first-time offenses are then randomly tested, however, their names are all confidential.

Under NFL rules, players involved in drug-related violations of the law are subject to disciplinary action. However, if it is not a violation of the law, and is a drug-related "incident," then doctors are authorized to place the player in a confidential program.

Tuinei was arrested a number of times in college for drunken brawling and he has admitted to mixing alcohol with marijuana when he was young. However it was his brother, Tom, whose professional football career was cut short by drug use.

Mark Tuinei told The Dallas Morning News in 1993 that he could not say his life had turned around.

"It's a day-to-day, year-to-year battle," he said. "I know that I'm always going to run into trouble of some kind. I just need to make sure I handle it."

Word that Tuinei's death might have been drug-related is the latest in a long line of events — drug charges, weapons charges and other incidents — to tarnish the Cowboys' silver star in recent years.

All-Pro receiver Michael Irvin was suspended by the NFL in 1996 after a cocaine charge, and then-coach Barry Switzer was arrested in 1997 for taking a gun to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. In between, several other Cowboys faced drug- or alcohol-related league suspensions.

Last year, there was a mysterious training-camp incident in which lineman Everett McIver was stabbed in the neck with scissors during a dormitory scuffle with another player, reportedly Irvin.

The future of Pro Bowl defensive tackle Leon Lett might be now hanging in the balance after he reportedly failed an NFL drug test for the third time, league sources have said. The violation could carry a lifetime ban.

Ex-Major Leaguer's hit beats RockHounds, 8-6

Staff Report

TULSA — Milt Cuyler hit a two-run single to left field in the seventh inning to break a 5-5 tie and lead the Tulsa Drillers to an 8-6 victory Monday night over the Midland RockHounds.

Cuyler, a former Major Leaguer, went 2-for-4 with three RBIs, with the two most important runs being driven in the four-run seventh inning for the Drillers.

The RockHounds, who suffered their second straight defeat, had the lead in this game three times only to see Tulsa come right back. Midland took the first lead of the game in the fifth when Mario Encarnacion scored on a fielder's choice by Dionys Cesar for a 1-0 lead.

Tulsa came back in the bottom of the fifth to take a 2-1 advantage courtesy of a Cesar King two-run blast. Midland retook the lead, 3-2, in the sixth when T.R. Marcinczyk singled and Justin Bowles hit his third home run in the last two games with a two-run shot.

After Tulsa scored two more runs of its own in the bottom of the sixth, the RockHounds captured their last lead of the game in the top of the seventh. Jeff DaVanon singled, Adam Piatt walked and Marcinczyk doubled to left to score both DaVanon and Piatt. Marcinczyk led the 'Hounds offense by going 3-for-4 with a walk, a double and two RBIs.

Things for the RockHounds fell apart in the bottom of the seventh as Andy Kimball (3-2) in relief fell in trouble as he loaded the bases twice by allowing two walks.

Bucky Buckles (3-3) picked up the win for Tulsa in relief, and R.A. Dickey got his sixth save of the season.

STARS: Blues win with goal in overtime, trail playoff series 2-1

(From 1C)

pleasure," Hecht said. "I'm learning a lot."

The tight-checking game was in stark contrast to Game 2, which was filled with odd-man rushes. The Blues, playing in front of the team's first sellout crowd of the playoffs, outshot the Stars 24-18 in regulation.

A four-minute high-sticking penalty on Blues captain Chris Pronger, who caught Derian Hatcher in the face, helped the Stars get off to a fast start. Hull scored his second goal of the playoffs, and only Dallas' third in 33 power-play opportunities, with a shot from the left circle off a feed from Nieuwendyk at 3:07.

The Blues got off only three shots in the first period, but tied it on a fluky goal at 2:58 of the second. Ricard Persson flipped the puck end-over-end toward the net and it deflected off Eastwood's glove and Sergei Zubov's stick before eluding Belfour.

PLAYOFFS: Midland Christian facing very familiar opponents for this team like we're preparing for a different team all together."

Myers said he thought Fort Worth Christian was the second best team in the district but key injuries seemed to plague the team during the course of the season.

"Fort Worth Christian has got a good pitcher and they put the ball over the plate," Myers said. "They've got about two or three girls who are pretty good in their lineup. They'll put the bat on the ball. This is a team that's been in the playoffs the past few years."

On the mound for the Lady Mustangs will probably be sophomore Sarah Lemons (10-6, 0.64 ERA), who posted a shutout in the first meeting with Fort Worth Christian.

"Sarah just seems to be more effective when she throws after Mindi," Myers said. "We have about the same pitching combination as Midland Lee does where it's tough for a team to adjust to their different styles. They (Sheppard and Lemons) are comparable in speed, but Mindi just has more experience."

Midland Christian's baseball team is 18-9 for the season is in its seventh straight post-season appearance and for the third straight year in the playoffs the Mustangs face Denton Liberty Christian (21-5). The teams split the previous two playoff meetings.

In Midland Christian's first season in District 1-4A, the Mustangs lost both meetings to champion Denton Liberty Christian by scores of 16-3 and 13-8. But since those meetings, Midland Christian coach Gordon Awtry feels his Mustangs are playing improved ball. Much of that improvement is due to the stability of the Mustangs' pitching.

Early in the year, the Mustangs pitching staff took a hit when two starters pitchers were lost because of arm injuries. That left Awtry to do some shuffling around, such as moving senior catcher Trent Lee up to the mound. Lee has been solid with a 4-0 record after a 10-4 win over Waco Reicher last week in the bi-district round of the playoffs.

Lee also carries a 2.80 ERA and will earn the start today. Freshman Jamie Beeghley (5-0, 3.21) will probably come in relief. Both Lee and Beeghley will be asked to step up and shut down a good hitting team like Denton Liberty Christian.

"They're probably the best hitting team we'll see all year," Awtry said. "Their pitching is not something we haven't seen before. Primarily it's their hitting that carries them."

The Mustangs can hit the ball too, although without much power. Lee leads off for the Mustangs with a .515 average and one home run. Sophomore designated hitter Dustin Hull is the next best at .456 with five extra base hits. Senior first baseman Seth Denson chips in with a .415 clip.

In fact, every hitter in the Mustangs' lineup is hitting at least .300. The real strength, however, lies in the Mustangs' speed with 156 stolen bases as a team.

"We try and use our speed," Awtry said. "Once we get on base, we're looking to steal. We're no punch-and-Judy team, but we sure like to run a lot."

Lee leads the Mustangs with 34 stolen bases, while Beeghley has contributed with 26 of his own.

With both teams appearing to be clicking at the right time, especially on offense, it may come down to who can shut who down.

"It'll probably come down to whoever gets more consistent pitching and who gets the stopper pitch at the key time," Awtry said. "I know our defense is solid and our hitting will match their hitting. Hopefully Trent keeps it up."

RELAY: Lady Bearkats make way back to state track meet

(From 1C)

"I am feeling good about our chances," Stone said. "I think we will get the school record (4:08.56), plus a first place."

The team that set the record in 1986 earned Garden City's last state medal, prior to last year. This group is looking seriously at the school record.

For one thing, a 4:08 could win the state meet. Harper had the best regional time — 4:09.36.

"We missed the school record by .01 of a second, that was mainly what we were going for," said Hirt, a junior.

"That is a big goal," Fuchs said of the record, "not only to go back and try to win the gold but to break the school record."

Being so close, the girls want to accomplish as much as possible. This is goes double for the sister duo, M'Lynn and J'Layne Niehues.

"We share a room. That will make you close," J'Layne said. "We know when each other is in a bad mood and then we stay out of each other's way. That is way it is. We know each other so well."

Saturday, the two will be competing with each other for the last time.

"We both know it will be the last time we can win it together," said M'Lynn, a sophomore. "It makes state a bigger thing."

The duo have been standouts for Garden City. For two years, they have played on the varsity basketball team. This year, they were the top two scorers for the Lady Bearkat team which advanced to the regional quarterfinals.

"I wish I could have been a junior this year and we could play one more year," M'Lynn said. "It is so much fun working with her. She has a lot of talent. We both push each other no matter what."

"They are truly sisters," Stone said. "You would almost think they are twins, the way think and talk. They are very much a like. I would call them typical farm girls in that they grew up working hard and with great attitudes. They worked for everything they got."

Saturday, their relationship athletically will come to an end, although they don't expect to change anything out of the track.

"We are goofy as heck and get along. That makes things more fun. Michelle and Deidra are goofy too. You can imagine what or locker room is like," J'Layne said. "We are even goofy before the race. We are excited and focused, but we try to make it as much fun as we can so it is enjoyable."

Stocks mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices closed mixed Monday in a choppy session that saw profit-taking in blue chips amid worries about higher interest rates. But traders showed a renewed interest in technology stocks, particularly Internet issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 24.34 to 11,007.25 after fluctuating between positive and negative territory throughout the session. On Friday, the Dow rose 84.77 to close at 11,031.59, its second record high close for the week.

Broader stock indicators ended mixed Monday. The Standard & Poor's 500 index declined 4.70 to 1,340.30, but the Nasdaq composite rose 22.77 to 2,526.39, largely on the strength of Internet stocks.

Investors sold big-company stocks and growth stocks, which depend on lower interest rates, although yields actually declined in the bond market.

The 30-year Treasury yield fell to 5.78 percent from 5.81 percent late Friday, but it is still up more than 0.60 percentage point since April 20, and investors are concerned that it will continue to rise.

The Treasury is auctioning $15 billion of 5-year bonds Tuesday and another $12 billion in 10-year notes Wednesday. The new supply could push yields higher, said Hugh Johnson, market strategist at First Albany Corp.

Dollar falls

NEW YORK — The dollar fell against the euro and most other major currencies Monday as news of a partial pullout of Yugoslavian troops from Kosovo stirred hopes that an end of the conflict may be approaching.

The euro was quoted at $1.0782 in late trading in New York, up from $1.0748 late Friday. The dollar slipped to 120.50 Japanese yen from 120.85 yen late Friday.

The euro has been buffeted by changing expectations about the course of the NATO bombing of the southern Serb province.

The war has hurt the euro because of the risk of a broader war in Europe and the rising financial costs for European countries backing it.

But a settlement of the conflict would relieve some of those worries and take pressure off the euro, the currency since January of 11 European nations.

Yugoslavia's army announced Monday a partial withdrawal of military and police forces from Kosovo, saying it had completed its operations against ethnic Albanian rebels there.

Crude oil rises

NEW YORK — Crude oil futures rose on the New York Mercantile Exchange on Monday, helped by a report showing that OPEC is, for the most part, living up to its promise of production cuts.

A report by the International Energy Agency examining OPEC's April production, showed 85 percent compliance of the planned 1.72 million barrels in cuts, pushing crude prices for June delivery as high as $18.55 a barrel. Prices eventually settled at $18.50, up 28 cents a barrel.

The survey results offset news that the Yugoslavia crisis may be nearing an end.

Yugoslavia announced a partial withdrawal of its forces from Kosovo on Monday — a move that was soundly rejected by the United States. An end to the crisis would curtail the military's extra needs for jet fuel and diesel.

In other products, June heating oil rose .63 cent to 43.86 cents a gallon; June unleaded gasoline rose .76 cent to 53.97 cents a gallon; June natural gas rose 2.9 cents to $2.302 for each 1,000 cubic feet.

Lender to offer automatic interest rate cuts

BOSTON (AP) — Customers of the nation's largest home-equity lender who are paying 13 percent interest or more will be able to get automatic interest rate reductions on their loans.

Associates First Capital Corp. agreed to the cuts following a lawsuit by housing advocates who claimed the company was preying on poor, unsophisticated borrowers with bad credit histories. The company would not say how many borrowers would be affected.

The Irving, Texas-based company, which has come under regulatory scrutiny, announced Monday it had also agreed to commit $100 million to a no-fee, no-down-payment mortgage program run by Boston-based Neighborhood Assistance Corporation of America.

Bruce Marks, chief executive officer of the activist group, was most excited about the automatic interest-rate reduction program.

"This is going to revolutionize the subprime lending market," said Marks, who has wangled $3.8 billion in loan commitments from the nation's lenders.

The subprime lending market serves customers with "C" or "D" credit ratings. An Associates spokesman said the company has customers with somewhat better credit histories than that, in the "B" or "C" range.

Marks said other companies that make loans to customers with less-than-pristine credit histories will be forced to follow suit because Associates sets the industry standard.

But an analyst said the market may be too fragmented for that prediction to come true.

"Whether everyone else will follow, it's hard to judge. There's a lot of small brokers out there who do this, too, and they fall under the radar screen of the activists," said Joel Gomberg, an analyst with William Blair & Company in Chicago.

Although Associates is the largest home equity lender, with $1.2 billion in earnings on $9.7 billion in revenues last year, its market share is only about 4 percent.

"I don't know if it's a huge conciliation on the part of the company," said Gomberg. "They're trying to work with these groups who are making a lot of noise."

The activists' change in focus from commercial banks to a relatively unregulated company may, however, break new ground, said Thomas Theurkauf, an analyst with Keefe Bruyette & Woods Inc. in New York.

Associates, said Theurkauf, is a bellwether company.

"It's a lead steer in the industry," he said. "It could trigger some changes."

So could investigations into the industry's lending practices by both the U.S. Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Associates announced the agreement just two days after 16 consumers filed class-action suits in California and Massachusetts against the company.

The suits, organized by Neighborhood Assistance, charged the company used aggressive tactics to convince existing customers to refinance with lower interest rates, only to charge them monthly mortgage payments that were higher than before because hefty financing fees were charged.

The interest rate reduction program, said Marks, eliminates the company's incentive to refinance because interest rates will automatically go down by as much as 2.25 percentage points in three years for qualified borrowers who have kept current with their payments.

Permian Basin music tastes all over radio dial

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Country music stations led the local ratings in the fall Arbitron ratings survey. But ranking high were Tejano, contemporary hits and adult contemporary formats.

Spanish language stations posted large gains during the survey, climbing to a 16.8 percent share of total listenership, second to country's 24.4 percent share and ahead of contemporary hits' 14.8 percent share.

In other words, Permian Basin musical tastes are all over the radio dial.

"There's so much good music in a lot of different genres," said Don Schwartz, general manager of Gulfstar Broadcasting's local stations KCHX-FM, KMRK-FM and KFZX-FM.

"It's ultimately the best song," he continued. "There's so much crossover, the lines are really fuzzy."

Tommy Vascocu, general manager of Cumulus Broadcasting, whose two country stations, KNFM-FM and KGEE-FM were ranked first and third, respectively, said he has noticed crossover between genres "but I don't know that the lines are completely blurred."

In his career in the industry, he said, he's noticed some artists have had crossover appeal and that country artists have worked to develop more mass appeal, citing Shania Twain and Faith Hill as two who are currently receiving a lot of airplay on adult contemporary stations.

"In the early 1990s, we heard country music take on a more mainstream style, like Garth Brooks, Brooks & Dunn and Alan Jackson," Vascocu said.

Robert Hallmark, program director and a morning personality on KCRS-FM, said that music has been crossing formats for a number of years, saying the trend comes in waves.

"It goes in waves and we're in a wave now where listeners are looking for variety. People call our station and in talking with them they'll say they like the variety."

That trend can be observed in local record stores as well.

"My top seller right now is Tim McGraw, followed by TLC," said Wendy Davis, a sales associate in Hastings Superstore's music department, referring to country artist McGraw and pop group TLC. She said her top 10 also includes Tejano group A.C. Quintanilla and Los Cumbia Kings, rap's Korn Family Values Tour, and pop artist Britny Spears.

She agrees with Schwartz that the lines between formats is blurring.

"Alabama just recorded an N'Sync song and Shania is on just about every radio station in the country. It's the way they write the songs. If you listen to Shania, it's not the twangy country you'd assume," she said.

Corby Daniel with C.D. Warehouse said that his customers are buying a lot of different music, from country to rock to rap to new styles like swing by Cherry Poppin' Daddies or the Brian Setzer Orchestra and alternative ska by groups like The Offspring.

Vascocu said country is still a popular format, particularly across the South and in Texas. All radio formats are doing well, he said, though contemporary hits radio is clearly in a growth mode.

The current wave of crossing musical lines is a challenge to radio station programmers, but "it's exciting. I think it's great," Vascocu said.

Highest injury rates found in jobs requiring heavy lifting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jobs that require heavy lifting are getting extra attention from safety officials because of high rates of injury and illness.

Nursing homes, trucking companies and warehouses led a list of nearly 12,500 workplaces where the number of days lost to job-related health problems convinced the Occupational Safety and Health Administration to suggest bosses examine how they might keep their employees healthy.

"It surprises a lot of people that nursing home work is one of the most dangerous occupations in America — more dangerous than working in a coal mine or a steel mill," said Andrew L. Stern, president of the Service Employees International Union.

Employers on the receiving end of the special notices said they had been working on safety improvements for a long time, and noted they were targeted on the basis of 1997 data.

"That was two years ago," said Dan Springer, vice president of public relations for Beverly Enterprises Inc., an Arkansas-based nursing home chain. "Over the course of the last couple years, recognizing the strain that is inherent in our business ... we've taken action to mitigate workplace injury."

"Roughly three-quarters of the injuries, and probably more, that take place in a nursing home relative to workers' compensation, are back-related and that's due to the lifting of residents, primarily," Springer said. He said the company has invested $15 million in mechanical lifts.

The company also has spent $5 million on training in the proper techniques for lifting patients who are unable to get out of a bed or chair unassisted.

United Parcel Service, which joined Beverly at the top of the list of companies receiving multiple OSHA notices, has spent nearly $1 billion since 1995 on improving health and safety programs, said spokesman Tom Walsh.

Days lost to disability have been on the decline at UPS, dropping by 7.5 percent in the first quarter of this year, Walsh said. He attributed that to a recent company effort to work with its unions to encourage safer work practices.

The Teamsters union, which opposes UPS positions on the need for new safety standards, gives the company credit for recent efforts to improve safety. "I do see some positive things that they're doing," said Lamont Byrd, the union's director of safety and health.

ERIC TYSON

Are mutual funds really better than individual stocks?

By Eric Tyson

Q: I am bothered when people ask for your advice on stock ownership and you advocate mutual funds. Many people have done far better investing in individual stocks than in mutual funds. Part of the reason is that we do our homework and will sit with a company's stock through good and bad, at a cost lower than a mutual fund.

Tyson

When you own a common stock, you will not be handed capital gains distributions expense if you did not sell. You have better control of your taxes. We have pride of ownership, and we understand the businesses we invest in because we bank, shop, own their computers, drive their cars, use their electricity and purchase their gasoline.

When these stock prices decline, we are inclined to buy more (dollar cost average) rather than sell out and chase the next hot stock. We can even reinvest our dividends. Also, your recommendation of the book "A Random Walk Down Wall Street" makes it sound like dart throwing works as good as anything. My 11-year-old son says, "Stocks are easier to understand than mutual funds."

A: Well, you certainly are passionate about picking your own stocks! Let's go through your points, some of which I actually agree with.

Your statement that "many people have done far better investing in individual stocks than in mutual funds" is wrong and without factual support. I know from my work as a financial counselor, lecturer and columnist who reads hundreds of letters annually that the reverse is true.

In fact, in all my years of financial counseling, I have never once had a client come in with an individual stock portfolio who knew what his or her overall rate of return had been over the previous five years! (Do you know yours?) About 98 percent of such investors underperform the market averages in my assessments.

It is possible for you to invest at a relatively low cost, compared with the average mutual fund, by picking your own stocks if you trade in significant size blocks, use a cut-rate broker and hold your stocks for the long-term. However, you don't have to invest in the average mutual fund. Index funds, for example, can be had which charge an operating expense ratio of 0.2 percent per year or less — that works out to $20 per year or less per $10,000 you have invested.

As for taxes, you are correct that you do have more control over when to sell stocks at a profit or loss. However, if you hold a stock at a profit and you've come to the conclusion that it is time to sell, you must take your tax lumps the same as a fund does. Recognize that increasing numbers of tax-managed or tax-friendly funds exist today for investors concerned about taxes when investing in stock funds outside of a retirement account.

Understanding the businesses you invest in and pride of ownership can feel good. However, I can assure you that good fund managers understand the businesses in which they invest as well as the industries those businesses operate in.

I don't think it's fair for you to say that funds dump stocks when they decline and jump into the next hot stock. Smart fund managers — and there are many of them out there — buy good stocks when they decline, just as it sounds like you do.

You should read the book "A Random Walk Down Wall Street." You can actually learn a lot about smart stock-market investing — whether in funds or individual stocks. Your inference from the title is correct that the author demonstrates that picking stocks with darts isn't such a bad strategy. If anything, this supports your premise that the pros aren't hard to compete with!

Finally, I do agree with your 11-year-old son. For many people, understanding stocks comes before understanding stock funds, which are portfolios of stocks.

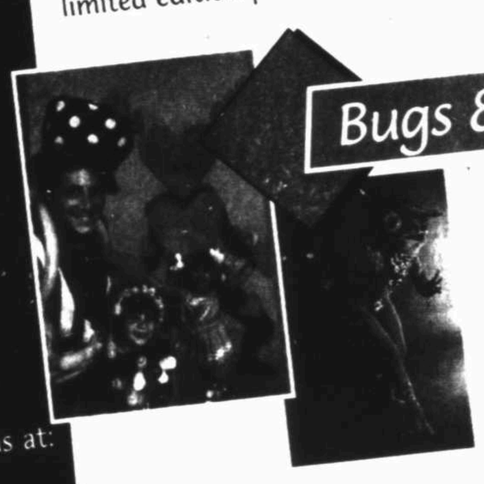
Ibara

A performance artist from France, Ibara works his mastery in paint on a 30-foot wall of black panels—a blur of color attuned to the pulsating beat of music. His show is mesmerizing, as he transforms the still wet paint into something even more spectacular. Ibara performs at the Preview Party and during the Celebration on Saturday and Sunday.

Art Cole, Distinguished Artist

The founder of Midland Community Theatre, Art Cole now resides in Santa Fe where he works full-time on his watercolors, oils and portraits. Many are on display in private and corporate collections around the world. His watercolor, "Apache Canyon Church," is featured in COA's limited edition poster.

Bugs & Balloons



Featuring Annie Hickman and Allynn Gooen, Bugs & Balloons combines intricately sculpted costumes, whimsical original songs, and graceful multi-cultural dances that thrill their audiences. Watch Allynn blow up three balloons with one breath, twist them while talking non-stop, inviting audience volunteers to join in enacting familiar stories on a stage inflated with colors. Bugs & Balloons will be featured during Sunday's Celebration.

Ricochet-Street Concert

This six-member country band was named Country Weekly's Top New Vocal Group of the Year and boasts a #1 hit, "Daddy's Money." Their Top 10 hits include "What Do I Know" and "Love Is Stronger Than Pride." Ricochet will perform a street concert Saturday night, 7:30 p.m. - midnight. Tickets are $10 in advance, $12 at the concert, and are available at Luskey's Western Stores in Midland and Odessa.
The Street Concert with Ricochet is sponsored by NewsWest 9. Opening Bands: Checkpoint and Black Gold

CHICAGO — Forget all that talk about Jaime Navarro's best years being behind him.

Navarro, who has struggled for three years to regain the form that made him the Chicago Cubs' ace in 1995, pitched four-hit ball for eight innings Monday as the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 5-2. Magglio Ordonez also hit his eighth homer of the season, a solo shot in the second inning.

"Jaime's really been on a roll lately," manager Jerry Manuel said. "He's the guy that last year came in as the ace and this year he came in as the fifth starter. He's pitching more like an ace than a fifth starter."

Though Navarro (2-3) had lost his last two starts, he's really only had one rough inning this season. In last week's loss to Baltimore, he retired the first 12 batters and took a perfect game into the fifth inning — only to give up seven runs, four of them earned, on five hits.

Against the Rangers, he was dominant, giving up just one run. He struck out four, walked one and shut down a Texas team that arrived in Chicago fresh from a 20-hit game in Toronto on Sunday night.

"I'm in a groove," Navarro said. "The last few outings, I've been throwing the ball great."

It's been a long haul to get here, though. Navarro won 14 games and had a 3.28 ERA, 10th best in the NL, with the Cubs in 1995. He led the Cubs again with 15 victories the next season, and had a career-high eight-game winning streak.

But when he moved across town the next year, things fell apart. He went 9-14 with the White Sox, and his 5.79 ERA was the second worst of his career. He was 8-16 last year, and Manuel finally demoted him to the bullpen.

But Navarro worked throughout the off-season, shortening his throwing motion.

"He now has some deceptiveness to his pitches," Manuel said. "I don't think (Texas) really figured it out."

After Tom Goodwin led off the game with a single, Navarro retired the next nine batters. Mark McLemore and Juan Gonzalez had singles in the fourth as Texas scored its first run. Navarro gave up another single to Ivan Rodriguez in the seventh.

Bob Howry pitched the ninth for the White Sox, giving up Rafael Palmeiro's RBI single.

"Jaime Navarro threw well," Texas manager Johnny Oates said. "The numbers say he's struggled the last couple of years, but not tonight."

The White Sox broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth after Paul Konerko led off with a double and Rick Helling (3-4) walked Greg Norton. Konerko scored as the Rangers turned a double play, and Norton then scored on Brook Fordyce's single to make it 3-1.

Ray Durham led off the Chicago seventh with a triple and, after Helling intentionally walked Frank Thomas, Tim Crabtree was brought in to pitch to Ordonez. McLemore tried to turn a double play, but the second baseman dropped the ball for an error, allowing Durham to score.

Helling gave up four runs and eight hits in 6 1/3 innings.

"I booted it," McLemore said of the error. "I tried to make the play too quickly, trying for two outs, and we didn't get either."

Ordonez led off the second inning by hitting a 1-0 pitch from Helling deep into the seats in left field. Fordyce added his second RBI single in the eighth off Mike Venafro to make it 5-1.

Red Sox 12, Mariners 4

BOSTON — Nomar Garciaparra hit two grand slams and a two-run homer to become the first AL player with 10 RBIs since 1975, leading the Red Sox past the Mariners for their fifth straight win.

Garciaparra, who tied a team record for RBIs, hit his first slam off Brett Hinchliffe (0-2) in the first inning. He then sliced a two-run shot around the right-field foul pole off Hinchliffe in the third.

After fouling out in the fourth and walking in the sixth, Garciaparra hit his second grand slam off Eric Weaver in the eighth.

Garciaparra became the first major leaguer to drive in 10 runs since Mark Whiten had 12 RBIs and four homers for St. Louis on Sept. 7, 1993, at Cincinnati. The last AL player to do it was Fred Lynn for Boston on June 18, 1975.

The 10 RBIs tied the Boston record that Lynn shared with Norm Zauchin (May 27, 1955) and Rudy York (July 27, 1946). Garciaparra became the 11th major leaguer to hit two slams in a game and joined the Cardinals' Fernando Tatis, who hit two in one inning on April 23 — this is the first season in which two players accomplished the feat.

Indians 6, Orioles 4

CLEVELAND — Roberto Alomar's sacrifice fly brought in the go-ahead run just moments after Albert Belle was picked off first base by Sandy Alomar, giving the Indians a win over the Orioles.

Alomar's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning off Juan Guzman (1-4) helped him defeat his former teammates and came shortly after Belle got caught off the bag for the final out in the top of the seventh. David Justice, Richie Sexson and Wil Cordero homered, and Dave Burba (3-1) pitched seven solid innings for the Indians.

Jeff Conine went 3-for-4 with a homer for the Orioles, who lost for just the second time in eight games.

Royals 8, Twins 4

MINNEAPOLIS — Johnny Damon had four hits, including a two-run homer, as the Royals completed a four-game sweep of the Twins.

Damon, who had four RBIs Sunday, extended his hitting streak to 14 games, the longest in the American League this season, with three singles and the homer. He scored twice and drove in three runs, helping send the Twins to their sixth straight loss.

Damon hit .556 (10-for-18) as Kansas City swept a four-game series for the first time since May 6-9, 1996 against the Angels. The Royals have won 15 of their last 18 games at the Metrodome.

Jay Witasick (1-2) allowed three runs and five hits in 6 2/3 innings.

Astros' hot Hampton shuts out Pirates, 6-0

Associated Press

■ NL Roundup

HOUSTON — Mike Hampton's confidence is pretty high these days.

"I'm confident out there, and the team is scoring runs for me. I'm kind of in a groove," Hampton said his five hitter led the Houston Astros over the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0 Monday night.

Hampton (4-1) struck out seven and walked none in his first shutout and complete game since a seven-hitter against the New York Mets on April 21, 1998. He also kept up his hot hitting, going 1-for-3 to raise his average to .286 (4-for-14).

Hampton, who got his fifth career shutout, has allowed just one run and seven hits in his last 16 innings, lowering his ERA to 2.83. He is 4-0 in his last five starts against the Pirates.

"This is three in a row that he's been dominating," Astros manager Larry Dierker said. "The last three games he has had command of all of his pitches, changing speeds, using all four corners, He's had a good sharp slider and his fastball has been good when he needed it."

Houston has won Hampton's last five starts — all following Astros' losses.

Pete Schourek (1-3) allowed six runs, nine hits and five walks in four innings. Derek Bell's sixth homer put Houston ahead in the third, and the Astros added five runs in the fifth, sending 10 batters to plate.

Jeff Bagwell walked, Ken Caminiti doubled, and Richard Hidalgo, Tony Eusebio and Tim Bogar followed with consecutive RBI singles that chased Schourek. Glen Barker's single off Brad Clontz loaded the bases, and Clontz walked Craig Biggio and Bell on 3-2 pitches, forcing in a pair of runs.

"You can't consistently pitch behind in the count and be successful," Schourek said. "I thought the biggest hit of the inning was the ball Eusebio cued off the end of the bat with Hidalgo running. I was living on the edge after that."

Cardinals 5, Phillies 2

ST. LOUIS— Mark McGwire hit his first home run at home in nearly a month as St. Louis stopped Philadelphia's five-game winning streak.

McGwire connected in the sixth inning against Carlton Loewer (2-3) for his seventh home run. The two-run shot was McGwire's first homer at Busch Stadium since April 11 and ended a 1-for-16 slump.

Kent Bottenfield (5-1) allowed two runs and eight hits in eight innings.

Rockies 10, Mets 3

DENVER — Henry Blanco hit his first home run since Sept. 28, 1997, and the second of his career. Dante Bichette also homered as Colorado ended a three-game losing streak.

Todd Helton drove in three runs for the Rockies. Luis Lopez and Jermaine Allensworth hit solo home runs for the Mets.

Pedro Astacio (3-3) won his third straight start, striking out seven.

Giants 4, Braves 1

SAN FRANCISCO — Ellis Burks hit a three-run homer in the first inning on a windy night to send John Smoltz (5-1) to his first loss of the season.

Russ Ortiz (5-2) allowed one run and four hits in eight-plus innings, settling down after Bret Boone's solo homer in the first.

Dodgers 4, Cubs 3

LOS ANGELES — Raul Mondesi hit a pair of two-run homers off Steve Trachsel, and Ismael Valdes pitched six effective innings despite constant trouble as the Dodgers beat the Cubs.

Padres 7, Marlins 5

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Reggie Sanders hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning, lifting the Padres over the Marlins.

Mourning leads Miami past Knicks

Associated Press

■ NBA Playoffs

MIAMI — Alonzo Mourning scored 26 points and Miami shot 51 percent Monday night to beat New York 83-73 and even their best-of-5 series.

The Heat hit a season-low 35 percent in a 20-point loss to New York in Game 1. Dan Majerle made two 3-pointers, his first baskets of the series, to thwart New York's comeback hopes in the fourth quarter.

Latrell Sprewell and Allan Houston, who scored 22 points apiece in Game 1, managed just 15 and 12, respectively, for the Knicks, who shot 39 percent. Patrick Ewing had 16 points and 15 rebounds for the Knicks, but was hampered by foul trouble.

Mourning went 10-for-16 from the field, had eight rebounds and blocked four shots in 46 minutes.

Hawks 89, Pistons 69

ATLANTA — Dikembe Mutombo and Atlanta dominated Detroit after halftime for its second straight 20-point victory.

Detroit had no one to contain Mutombo, who set a personal playoff high with 28 points and also grabbed 13 rebounds, after having 17 points, 19 rebounds and six blocks in the opener. The Pistons, held to a team playoff low of 70 points in Game 1, needed only two days to break the mark.

Atlanta trailed 44-43 at halftime only to score the first 17 points of the second half. Grant Hill led the Pistons with 15 points.

Kings 101, Jazz 90

SALT LAKE CITY — Chris Webber scored 20 points, including consecutive hook shots over Karl Malone in the closing minutes, as Sacramento evened the best-of-5 series.

*CUSTOMER SERVICE/ COLLECTION

Flexibility

Are you looking for an office type job that can be a little bit flexible with hours? Do you love talking to people on the phone? Do you possess a minimum of basic computer skills? Then check this job out.

We are currently looking for a person who can make 60+ outbound calls per day to existing customers and log the information into the computer system. The main focus will be to encourage customers to make payment, thereby continuing their service with our company. This position is not a hard collection position, but rather a soft collection with more of a slant toward sales/ customer service.

We would prefer applicants with a friendly and outgoing nature, but aggressive enough to collect payment. The applicant should have at least 3+ years experience in an office environment and be able to work on his or her own with light supervision. This is a temporary position with a strong possibility of turning into a permanent position for the right person. The successful applicant will work 40 hours per week, Monday through Friday. The daytime hours are flexible, but the candidate must be able to work from 4:00 pm- 8:00 pm daily. The hourly rate of pay will be $7.00- $8.00 per hour depending on experience.

If you possess the skills, attitude and tenacity that this job requires, fax your resume to: TAMI at 682-6999. Make sure to include daytime and evening phone numbers. (Interviews to start immediately). No phone calls please.
