Volume 44

C. OF C. WILL MEET AT PARK SATURDAY NIGHT.

The Kimble County Chamber of Commerce will meet Saturday night at Schreiner's Park. Supper will be served under the auspices of the C. of C. promptly at 8:30 to all present. A short program will be rendered by the band, after which the regular business will be taken up.

The question of incorporation will be discussed thoroughly. A petition has been circulated requesting an election to be held to determine whether or not Junction shall be incorporated. This petition will come before the meeting for its endorsement or rejection. The action of this meeting will decide as to whether or not the petition will be presented to the County Judge for action.

It is the duty of every member of this organization to be present at this meeting, for there will be decided the question as to whether or not Junction shall progress or retard, for there is no middle ground for a town. She must advance or retard; she cannot stand still.

Let every man lay his personal preferences on the shelf and work for the interest of Junction as a whole, for after all a city is like a big family; our interests are mutual, we share one another's sorrow, prosperity and happiness. Let us work together in this as a unit. If a majority of the members of the Chamber of Commerce are opposed to incorporating Junction at this time, then let us forget about it. If, on the other hand, the majority are for incorporation, then let every man shoulder his part of the load, to the end that harmony shall prevail in this, our big family.

LOCAL TELEPHONE CO. INSTALL L. D. BOOTHS

The Junction Telephone Company last week completed the installation at their new quarters in the Riley, Holekamp & Denman building, two long distance booths of the very latest type. The booths are finished in mahogany, and when the party enters the booth and closes the door, an electric fan and light are automatically turned on, and when he opens the door to pass out, the fan and light automatically turn off.

This is just one of the many improvements that the new company contemplate making. They now have on the ground a new switch board, which will be installed as soon as possible, and when the new equipment is all finally installed, a new directory will be issued and the patrons of the company will be required to call by number, thereby giving a wonderfully improved service.

The company is contemplating the erection of a new building for the plant, and when this is done the exchange office will be housed therein; for the present the business and long distance calls will be handled at the office of Riley, Holekamp & Denman.

NEW BUSINESS TO OPEN ABOUT 10TH

The Eagle has been informed that between the 1st and 10th of September, a new firm, The Vogue, under the management of Mesdames Joe Turner, Antoinette Wynne and Jim Carpenter, will open for business in the Chase building.

When asked by the Eagle reported regarding the new business, Mrs. Turner stated that as soon as the present occupant, Williams Cafe, vacated, they

GOOD ROADS FOR PRECINCT NO. 4

Good roads are one of the best assets to any country, or community. The automobile is no longer considered a luxury, but is an actual necessity for the ranchmen and farmers. When we consider the expense of operating an automobile on bad roads, we can readily see that the small amount of tax we will pay on a $50,000 bond issue would be insignificant compared to the amount of benefit derived from good roads.

Anyone can easily figure what their tax will be, if they know their assessed valuation. The total assessed valuation of Commissioners Precinct No. 4 runs around $1,000,000 and the actual tax rate required to retire these bonds will run somewhere between 37 and 40 cents on the $100 valuation, and from $3.70 to $4.00 on the $1,000 valuation. For instance, your rendition is $3,000, the total annual road tax on this bond would amount to from $11.00 to $12.00.

Being your Commissioner, with vital interest in the roads of our Precinct, will say that we certainly appreciate the hearty co-operation of the citizens of this Precinct in the road work we have been doing, and especially the attitude the people are taking in the bond issue that is now before them to build a highway from Segovia to the Gillespie County line.

We feel that by building the main trunk-road from Segovia to the Gillespie County line and getting the State to take it over, would save us quite a lot of money that we could spend on the lateral roads intersecting this main road. We feel that in the course of a few years we could build good roads all over the Precinct, thereby benefiting every citizen.

We want Kimble County to stand out as a monument in good road construction to serve as a model for other counties. We feel that we have one of the best ranch counties of the State, which we think has a great future. But in order to develop our county as it should be, we must have good roads.

The Commissioners' Court, as a whole, are endorsing our movements, and with great interest, are awaiting the results of good roads in Precinct No. 4. Of course we know that $50,000 will not build this road, but we expect the State to match us, and until such a time as they see fit to match us, we will let our money be drawing interest in the bank. We do not feel that we will have to wait long until the State will be ready to start work. We hope to be ready to start this work by the early part of next year.

would be ready with a complete stock of ladies' ready-to-wear, piece goods and novelties, with which to stock the room.

Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Wynne left Thursday for Dallas and Kansas City to buy the stock, and stated that they would search the markets for the very latest in lines mentioned, and that The Vogue would be one of the most up-to-date stores in West Texas. Besides the goods mentioned, Mrs. Turner will have a dressmaking room in connection, where she will be prepared to do hemstitching, pleating, button covering, painting and a general line of dressmaking.

Mrs. Turner has had many years experience in this line of work and feels confident of the ultimate success of the business venture.

EVERGREEN BARBECUE WAS GREAT SUCCESS.

Last Thursday was a red letter day in the life of the Evergreen community, in that the entire citizenship turned out en masse, together with a large crowd of visitors from other communities, to celebrate the completion of their newly erected concrete school building.

The event, a big barbecue, had been planned and looked forward to for some weeks, and the preparation of the entertaining features was in the hands of the very efficient and energetic committee composed of Messrs. M. Huffman, Jack Hubbell and Ollie Fleming, who left nothing undone for the pleasure and comfort of their visitors.

The Kimble County band furnished excellent music from 11 o'clock until dinner was announced; then again in the afternoon until about 4 o'clock.

Judge J. E. Randolph was master of ceremonies, and also delivered an address in which he commended very highly, this progressive little community of Evergreen and its leading spirits for their foresight in erecting this magnificent school building. Judge Randolph also painted his audience a word picture, "The Magic Dream of Man," in which he portrayed the life of the pioneer who first happened upon this particular spot, on to the present time.

Judge Randolph then presented Judge Weaver H. Baker, who addressed the audience, giving them much praise for the accomplishments in the furthering of their educational program and the erection of the substantial school building. He concluded his address in speaking briefly upon the subject uppermost in his mind: that of securing a railroad for Kimble County, giving some convincing figures to substantiate his claims for immediate action on the part of the citizenship in an attempt to secure this road.

Dinner was announced at about 1 o'clock and the crowd did ample justice to the fine barbecued chevon, mutton and young beef, which was cooked excellently; the balance of the menu consisted of bread, pickles, iced tea and coffee. Many complimentary remarks were heard regarding the quality of the barbecue, everyone agreeing that it was the best they had eaten.

The community of Evergreen deserves a great deal of credit for the manner in which the affair was carried off, there not being a hitch at any time.

A conservative estimate places the number in attendance at around 2,000, many of whom were tourists in Kimble County, and they were given an excellent opportunity to observe the manner in which a real West Texas barbecue is conducted.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTORS MEET

Wednesday the directors of the Chamber of Commerce held a short business meeting to discuss the advisability of sending a representative to Abilene to attend the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and Power Syndicate by the State Water Rights Board. It was decided to take no active part at this time.

The directors voted to pay to Mr. D. T. Williford the sum of $10.00 as a prize for having marketed the first bale of 1927 cotton.

Louise Farmer has returned to the State University.

LIVE STOCK AND RANCH NEWS

John Fish of Fort McKavitt sold to Lee Maddox of Junction 150 does at $5.50 and $6.00.

W. G. Meacham of Sonora sold to Artie Joy of Roosevelt 300 does at $5.00.

Asa Murr of Junction sold to Roland Murr 125 kids at $3.50.

R. E. Taylor of Sonora sells 500 head yearling does to G. C. Allison of San Angelo at $6.00 per head.

R. E. Taylor of Sonora sold a bunch of aged does at $4.50.

Morris Murr of Junction says it is a little early for billies, though he has sold quite a number already at a good price.

D. Q. Adams of the Roosevelt country has recently bought 175 ewes from a Sonora man at $7.00, and 4 rams at $35.00 per head.

Renfro & Sons of Sonora sold 2000 lambs to a Sonora man at $6.50, September delivery.

Generally speaking, ranges everywhere are dry, though stock is all doing well. Ranchmen are all getting ready for root shearing and they don't need rain. While we are always ready for it we can get along fine just now without it, as it would make the flies worse, and they are bad enough.

D. Q. Adams sold 150 kids to J. T. Evans of Ft. Terret Ranch at $4.00, September delivery.

C. W. Adams of Langtry has taken possession of what is known as the Old Hurst ranch, located on North Llano. Fine, Mr. Adams; when you come to Junction call on the Eagle office. We are glad to have you.

In discussing the ranch problems with Mr. Renfro, he said he has ranched in Texas 60 years, is now 73 years old, and rides among his stock every day. Says when the boys "hub" something they can't handle, he saddles his horse and finishes what they started. People must raise more horses. The past few years Texas has been running her ranches in Ford cars. Quoting the old gentleman, he says, "It just won't work. The Ford is all right and we've got to have them, but when we go to work we have to round up our saddle horses and leave the car out of it. The best thing to do is to lend it to someone until you get through; if you don't, it will have some of the boys off the job. Necessity put me to raising horses. I couldn't buy them; they weren't here. I have two thoroughbred horses on the ranch. Some people say we haven't any grass to spare for horses. My young horses bring me from $100 to $250 a head and I have plenty of grass and plenty of horses to run my ranch and am still raising them."

In speaking of flies, Mr. Renfro says that "when we go after them in earnest we will do to them just what we did to the fever tick; 75 per cent of the ranchmen didn't think of the fever ticks, though we did. Seventy-five per cent of the loss to the ranchmen in this county is due to the aggravating flies. An organized system of fighting them will practically, if not totally rid us of that pest. I would suggest legislating against them in some way. If every ranch in the country would set so many fly traps, let it be governed according to his watering places or according to the number of acres of land he controls, then have his riders burn every dead carcas he finds on the spot, then every 10 or 12 miles set a buzzard trap. If we will do that, I firmly believe we will save the ranchmen 75 per cent of the losses that we now suffer."

SOVEREIGN RIGHTS OF PEOPLE IN JEOPARDY.

Stamford.—Violent concern over the water rights situation in Texas was expressed by Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman Friday. Speaking before the Kiwanis Club, Senator Woodward declared that the interests of West Texas and of all Texas are jeopardized by the forthcoming decision of the State Board of Water Engineers in ruling whether the water of the Colorado River belongs to the people of Texas or the Syndicate Power Company which has succeeded in trying up every drop of water which falls upon the watershed of the Colorado and of every creek and branch which empties into the river.

Woodward declared that every man interested in the welfare of West Texas should attend the meeting called by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Texas Conservation Association in Abilene and stated that he would organize a delegation of Coleman County people to attend the session. He called Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber, by long distance telephone to pledge his support of the regional chamber in its fight and to urge Wade to redouble his efforts in the fight.

"The people must not be misled by smoke screens in this matter," he said. "The fight is not between land owners in different sections of Texas but it is a matter of principle as to whether the man who owns land is entitled to use the water which falls on his land. Western States have had terrible strife over water rights."

"In California there are entire communities where land owners may not dig a well because water rights have been taken up by other interests. Texas is face to face with this grave crisis and the Abilene meeting will give Texans an opportunity to decide this issue before the people lose their rights to the god-given rainfall."

The issue is new to Texans, Woodward said, and for this reason many people do not understand its importance.

Water Issue Told in Meeting Call

The official call for the mass meeting of citizens of West Texas in particular and Texas in general, to be held in Abilene August 18, to discuss water rights of Texas, was issued from the headquarters office of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Friday upon authority of President J. A. Kemp of the Texas Conservation Association and R. W. Haynie, president of the regional organization of the West.

Governor Moody, Attorney General Pollard and the Board of Water Engineers, as well as other State officials, have been invited to attend. The water rights problem has likewise attracted statewide attention of leading business men, farmers and others, and it is expected that a record breaking crowd will be on hand August 18 to take part in what is scheduled to be an "open forum" discussion.

Text of the Call

The call reads in part as follows: "The Texas Conservation Association and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have for years given serious consideration to the development of the water resources of Texas, with the ambition to conserve and utilize them to the greatest possible advantage. The constant efforts of these organiza-

BOWIE MINE IN KIMBLE CO.

(By E. V. S., London Special Correspondent)
 Many, many years ago, long before white man ever put his foot on Texas' vast domain, the Spanish were here in probably greater numbers than we anticipate. Let us remember the fact that the Spaniard's one desire was to seek precious metal for their potentate, the king, and a quantity sufficient for himself, whence he could return to the land of his native birth and there enjoy the fruits of his conquest in America. No Spaniard at that time ever entertained the idea of making his home in America. That is why Spain was destined to lose all her colonial possessions in America.

These Spaniards who searched a goodly portion of Central and North America became experts in their line of business, the same as we if we follow a profession and study its possibilities from the triangle of life. These Spaniards visited quite frequently what is now a portion of Kimble County, and now on the banks of the limpid Llano can be found an old smelting place where ore has been smelted in considerable quantity. The shaft and much evidence are left here, enough to convince any thinking man that the primary purpose of this smelter was to refine ore that had been taken from the earth at no great distance away and in no small quantity.

Where did this ore come from? From generation to generation it has been handed down to us that the Spaniards said that it was a three days' trip with their pack donkeys from the smelter to the place where the ore was mined and for the return, one day for going, one to load their pack saddles with the ore, and one to return.

As has previously been stated in other articles that there are different minerals to be found here. To the skeptic, the critic, the disbeliever and to the avowed confidante, if circumstantial evidence is worth anything in any instance whatsoever. And it might be added here that without circumstantial evidence, no case pending on the court dockets of our Texas courts would ever sustain a conviction, and without it America would never have been developed, for someone had to believe the story of Columbus told on his return from this land. Without it, we would have no idea of the age of the earth and of the different periods of its existence. Without it we could not convince our associates of a life here on earth. They might say, Ah, my friend, you are only dreaming dreams: your soul is in a trance and exploring an unknown and unheard of place. You cannot convince me of a life on earth.

Yes, we must take our brother's words and the words of a superior being for our existence. Then, it would not be impossible to believe the legends of history if enough circumstantial evidence coincided to make the story more likely true than false.

In one day's ride on a burro from the old Spanish smelter at what is known as the Red Bluff in E. I. Cummins' pasture will be found a mine; a mine that has been worked, a mine that has contained minerals and in all probability does yet. The trail leading from place to place has been blazed which can be followed by the markings on the timber. At one interval a stump has been hewn out to resemble a Goliath with his ears laid back, looking always toward the secluded spot of the opening of the mine.

The opening of the mine was found in an accidental way. Early one morning while wolf hunting with a pack of hounds a man of this neighborhood ran his horse across the opening that leads into the mine. It was something short of miraculous how the man and horse escaped with their lives. Upon investigation it was found that the mine had been capped about thirty feet from the top of the ground. A few sticks of dynamite soon removed the cap and upon further investigation it was found that almost another whole county underneath the ground was open for the explorers to examine. Water trickled and dripped through the rocks at places, the wall solid at every place and showed that it had been carved out in the rock by human hands with human intelligence.

Upon going farther into the cavern the oil lamp failed to burn. Then, a sensational feeling and a tremor of the knees was noted. The legs began to exert a stronger power over the body than the will-power or brain which did its utmost to go farther on. For a while there seemed to be a debate between the brain and legs. The lure of precious metals was so enticing, the fondly cherished hope of some day finding a hidden treasure, and then of living a life of ease and contentment almost carried the body on. But legs stiffened and were finally triumphant in carrying the body swiftly away from harm.

It is said by responsible authority that the Bowie Brothers, James Bowie, who lost his life in the fall of the Texas Alamo, Resin Bowie, who invented the knife that bears his name, and presented the first one he made to James for use in the chase, at one time explored the mine in the northeastern part of what is now Kimble County. Here the Bowie brothers and their companions encountered severe difficulties with the Indians. Resin Bowie was injured by an arrow from an Indian's bow to such an extent that he afterward became lame. Some believe that Col. Bowie and his brother left his loot of forty pack-saddles of smelted silver and gold in this cavern and capped it to prevent the Indians from getting possession of it.

During Lafitte's rule on Galveston Island the Bowie brothers were said to have made $65,000 in the slave trade. Their loot from all their many adventures is believed by a number of treasure seekers of Galveston Island to be buried somewhere on the island. Many unsuccessful attempts have been made to locate it.

While clearing land in this vicinity, a bar of pure silver metal was found that no doubt

WHY?

Some people swelter in the intense heat of a summer day because they have not taken advantage of our special price on Westinghouse Desk Fans.

Some people wash by methods as primitive as those employed by an uncivilized race, all for the lack of a "Federal Electric Washing Machine."

Some people cook with as much heat, dirt, smoke and smell as possible when they could provide cooler meals, quicker meals and cleaner meals on the famous Hotpoint Electric Range.

Some people pretend to clean their homes and keep them clean when in reality they are just transferring the dirt, when a "Fidelco" Vacuum Cleaner could do the work more thorough, quicker and easier.

tions have been to conserve the storm waters for domestic and agricultural purposes, including municipal uses, irrigation, stock raising, etc.

"In these efforts in this direction the organizations have made much progress in having laws enacted that will give title to the water which falls or that may be secured by appropriation. This was necessary for the construction of large systems and disposing of the securities.

"Private interests have and are now seeking to take advantage of this situation and by means of their ability to expend large sums of money and to finance great projects, are menacing the people's rights to the free use of the God-given waters that fall on the lands comprehended by the headwaters of the various streams in Texas.

Water Control Sought

"The waters that flow in our streams have always been considered as belonging to the people and it is our firm conviction that the title to such waters is vested in the State in trust for the people.

"A certain power company, known as the Syndicate Power Company, has made filings on the Colorado River which, if held valid, will allocate all the waters of that stream to the benefit of said company. The result will be that no waters on that stream, which has a water-shed covering some 40-odd counties, will be available for municipal purposes, for irrigation, or for agricultural purposes. If a private company is able to allocate the waters on one of the rivers of Texas for power and other purposes, it has the same opportunity to allocate all of the waters of the State.

"The private companies and interests could, and no doubt would, concentrate the water for use at points below the place for small flow and in sections of ample rainfall. This process would deprive the people of the western part of the State of the water that is absolutely vital for their happiness and prosperity.

Other Surveys Being Made

"It is understood that surveys are now being made on lower stretches of other rivers, with a view of building a series of dams for hydro-electric purposes, as seem to be planned on the Colorado River. It can be easily observed that there is grave danger to the property owners of the head waters of the rivers, if there is not some relief given.

"When the Legislature in 1913 enacted a law providing that water could be appropriated for use for power purposes, it intended to provide that the use of water for such purposes should be subordinated for the use of water for domestic and irrigation purposes. In this way our lawmakers undertook to safeguard the interests of the people against such impending evils as now are threatening. The Syndicate Power Company claims that it has prior rights to the title of the water in the Colorado River. It has filed objections with the Board of Water Engineers to the application to Brownwood Water District No. 1, for water and irrigation purposes, setting up the claim of prior rights to the waters of that stream. If it succeeds in establishing its claim, then a real menace to the people of West Texas and Texas exists.

Needed for Irrigation

"The people of West Texas are becoming alive to the importance of the conservation and utilization of the water that falls in that section. As the country grows and develops there will be greater necessity for the waters of that stream. Irrigation for small patches as well as large areas has proved practical and should receive every encouragement. The citizens bought the land they own, expecting to enjoy all of the assets that it possessed. Water is one of the outstanding resources. Now if the citizens are to be deprived of the free and untrammeled use of its fundamental resources, the disappointment will be real and their loss distinct.

"The owners of these lands are the real developers of West Texas. They believe that the people who wrote our Constitution would give protection against any encroachments. We believe that the framers of the Texas Constitution intended to do this very thing.

"But if a syndicate is permitted to monopolize the waters of the Colorado River, for example, and say to all that vast part of Texas in the water-shed of that stream that they can not use their water, but must let it run down to their power plant for selfish use, then there should be some redress."

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

The Junction Eagle.

Dear Editor:

I take this method of expressing my appreciation for all courtesies shown us while in your county, and especially the city of Junction of which we knew nothing until two years ago when my husband was just recovering from a spell of typhoid-pneumonia, the doctor advising a trip to the mountains near Kerrville or Junction; so we came up here in the month of February, staying until the last of May.

We then returned home, all well and feeling fine after staying in your high and beautiful county with such an abundance of good pure water and beautiful rivers, saying nothing of the scenery in and near Junction.

So when my husband was recovering from the flu and bronchial-pneumonia we knew where to come to recuperate, and we are here two months this year and enjoyed the climate, hunting and fishing, so we are back again on a pleasure trip which we are enjoying immensely, and to bring Joy Bell, a milk goat, home, which Mr. Skaggs let us use while we were here, and it did Mr. Williams so much good Mr. Skaggs let us take her home with us where we all enjoyed the milk very much and we believe that the milk was the means of Mr. Williams being well and strong today and we regret very much that we can not take her back with us as we know what the milk has done for us and we take pleasure here in thanking Mr. N. H. Skaggs for the use of her and the kindness which he has shown us in the privilege of camping on his place which we greatly enjoyed and whom we cannot praise too highly, and we hope to come to your county every year and tell all our friends about the lovely places so they can come here for their summer outing and recreation.

So hoping to see old and new friends next summer, will say goodbye till then.

Mrs. T. C. Williams, and Family,
Waco, Texas.

P. S.—Just another word in connection with the nice things of Junction I can not say too much for the high school of this place, as my daughter went here the last two months of school and such nice teachers and lovely school children.

Last but not least, we will not go home without a milk goat; we are leaving Joy Bell this time but are taking Lucille, a younger goat, so this was made possible by Mr. N. H. Skaggs. We thank him again and again. Mrs. T. C. W.

OBITUARY

The Allwise Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call from this earth another young man. Mr. J. T. Bartley, from our midst.

He was born in Kimble County by June 23, 1907, died July, 31, 1927.

Our hearts are full of tender sympathy for the bereaved parents and the two brothers and grief stricken uncle, as well as the host of friends. But we have learned to say to the All-Powerful God "Thy will be done."

This fine young man was injured in the Rocksprings storm last April and has been a constant sufferer since that time. But had been so patient in his suffering. It is said of this dear young man that he loved home, was a quiet, sweet spirited, kind young man; clean in his language, and in his life. What a fine thing to be said of any young man.

May our dear Lord comfort these bereaved ones. May they know that God is allwise and is the only cure for troubled souls. "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Think Twice Before Risking Money on Any Household Refrigerating Machine!

DRY COLD—an unavoidable condition in mechanically cooled refrigerators—is not so desirable as the manufacturers would have you believe. Food in a well-iced refrigerator is kept wholesome by air constantly washed and revitalized by the moisture from the ice. Modern cold storage houses know that dry cold is injurious to commodities and they produce moisture by forcing air through a fine mist of water. Cold without some moisture shrivels and destroys the natural flavor of foods by extracting the savory juices.

THE MERIT OF ICE lies in the fact that in a good refrigerator it produces cold enough to arrest the bacteria which cause decay. It provides air that is dry enough to prevent mold and moist enough to keep food from drying out.

ICE CUBES that are "clear and sparkling" can not be made in mechanical refrigerators, hence the suggestion that they be colored to hide their snowy, mushy appearance. Bacteriologists have found that "ice" made in this manner is laden with food bacteria which in an iced refrigerator are carried away through the drain. Can the health of your family be improved by letting bacteria accumulate in the cubes instead of being absorbed by melting ice and passed out continually by way of the drain pipe?

For You who use Ice in Your Homes

THERE is no noise of pounding pumps, whirring motors and snapping relays.

THERE is no dangerous chemical confined under high pressure that may leak and drive you from the house.

THERE is no delicate machinery—springs, valves, controls—to get out of order. The ice man is your service man and you don't have to wait until he comes from another city and pay his expenses.

THERE are no heavy interest, depreciation and service charges. Figure these things out and you will see that in a year's time your refrigeration costs you less than would the mechanical outfit if current were free. Do you know that in towns where the power companies are supplying ice they would rather sell you power than ice? Why?

DID YOU GET YOURS?

For the past ten days the mails have been loaded with catalogues from the mail order houses of the East.

Each of them an invitation to the people of this county as well as the people of all other counties in Texas to spend their money with them so that the mail order houses can help build up just such towns as Junction. Of course it goes without saying that a mail order house is interested in the welfare of our city; they pay taxes to help maintain our roads and local government. They will extend a helping hand at a time of need by carrying your account when misfortune over-takes you and yours. They advance you money to finance your crops or the purchase of cattle—in fact they do everything that could be expected of your local merchants and bankers. They even help educate your children and build your churches, and last but not least, they leave your money right here in Junction, trusting that sometime it will find its way back to you.

Now won't it be grand when we will no longer have the hardware man, the grocery man, the dry goods man, the drug store man and the variety store man, the clothing store man, and the garage man to contend with, and above all, the banker, for they all go together, to make room for the mail order house which has our interests so much at heart.

So just remember this if you

Mr. Adams, a teacher for-

There are thousands of just as smart, just as worthy, just as good and true Americans as Chas. Lindburgh, but he seems to have a monopoly of everything just now. Had his motor failed him in mid-ocean the world would have stood up to acclaim him a fool, but his motor carried him safely over and the world says it was true courage that did it. I say it was both real courage and a good motor.

And Chas. need not feel lonely when it comes to courage.

Mr. Editor you may not know

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

(By Will H. Mayes.)

Texans Opposed Amendments

Although the vote was extremely light, the people of Texas who voted, expressed a representative sentiment as to the constitutional amendments, the vote being about six to one against all of them. This opposition was not due to the activity of corporate interests, as has been charged, though naturally those interests were opposed to the tax amendment as being something too tangible. The vote in the country districts, where the corporations have the least influence, was stronger against the amendments than in the cities. Briefly, here are the reasons why the amendments were opposed and voted down:

There was little opposition to increasing the membership of the Supreme Court to nine and dispensing with the Supreme Court Commission, but the fact that the number of courts of civil appeals was increased, although limited, defeated this amendment, the masses being in favor of abolishing the courts of civil appeals and fearing that the amendment would fix such courts in our judiciary system for an indefinite period.

The people would relieve real estate of at least part of the heavy burden of taxation, but the fact that there is an able tax commission now studying tax problems, made the voters prefer to await the recommendations of this commission before making any radical change in our tax system through constitutional amendments.

The voters would hardly oppose doubling the salary of the Governor, but are opposed to a fixed increased salary for legislators unless the membership of the House is reduced to about twice that of the Senate.

While there are objections to our fee system, there is a feeling that those who dance should pay the piper rather than have the innocent foot more of the bills through increased taxation.

These are merely the main reasons why the amendments were voted down as I see them, and are not to be taken as the views of the editor of this paper. This column never attempts to express other than the opinions of its writer.

East Texas Regional Meetings

The East Texas Chamber of Commerce is having great success with its regional meetings which the people are attending in large numbers and thus showing that they are in sympathy with the work that is being done by that organization. It was estimated at least 10,000 people from 34 counties attended the meeting held at Groveton, and that fully 2,000 automobiles were handled at Woodlake, where the social festivities were held.

Cause for Rejoicing

While people were gathered in the Groveton conference, a telegram was received from Col. R. C. Duff, president of the road, that the Interstate Commerce Commission had granted him a permit to construct the extension of the Beaumont-Waco railroad from Livingston to Beaumont and Port Arthur, a distance of about 100 miles, and from Weldon to Waco, about 70 miles, thus completing a valuable railway system in East Texas. The granting of this permit had been strongly fought by opposing lines.

Much Railway Building

Railway building activities are apparent in several parts of the State. There is a current report that the work on the Orient Railroad in Mexico having about been completed, the closing up of the gap between Alpine and Presidio will begin not later than October 1. The Colorado and Southern is building from Estelline on the Fort Worth and Denver to Dimmit, Castro county, 132 miles, and has a permit to build south from Lockney to Lubbock. The Texas-Pacific is to build at once an extension from Breckenridge to Throckmorton, and a line is being proposed from Corpus Christi to San Angelo by way of Kerrville to Fredericksburg.

Carthage Paving Streets

Carthage has awakened from a period of civic inactivity and has begun the work of paving the streets of the entire city, including the public square. Many of the East Texas towns that were but sleepy villages a few years ago have taken on a spirit of life and are outstripping many western towns that have long prided themselves in their progress. Panola is one of the best agricultural counties in East Texas and there is no reason why Carthage should not make the neighboring towns "sit up and take notice."

Texas Fig Production

There are more than 16,000 acres in fig orchards in Texas, mostly along the Gulf Coast, and the acreage is being steadily increased. The Texas crop of figs is said to have an economic value of at least $15,000,000 annually. The fig requires intensive cultivation and almost daily attention, and should be preserved close by the orchard to bring the best financial returns. Co-operative growing and marketing are essential factors to success in the fig industry and these are gradually being worked out.

Rice Growers to Organize

Some 50 rice growers of Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas are undertaking to organize all the growers of these three states into an association for the handling of the rice crop of from one and one half to two million bales. The steady decline in prices has created a necessity for systematic, orderly marketing as well as for seeking new markets for the crop.

Cheese Factory

Mount Pleasant business men have subscribed more than $5,000 to secure a cheese, butter and cream factory and are negotiating with several companies in that business. Within the past year the number of dairy cows in Titus county has increased at least 100 per cent, large shipments of cream being made daily from Mount Pleasant by express.

Watermelon Prices

Weatherford is shipping from 20 to 30 tons of melons daily and the growers are getting from $15.00 to $25.00 a ton at the cars. Even at these prices the growers are realizing gross returns of from $50.00 to $100 an acre. When iced and sliced and served to customers, melons that are originally sold at about 30 cents each bring from $2.40 to $3.20 each at 15 and 20 cents a slice. Figure who gets the big share of the profits of melon growing.

The Jasper News-Boy is 62 years old and proud of it. Celebrates birthday.

brating that event, the News-Boy issued a 24-page edition that was a "humdinger", and of which all the people of Jasper must have been proud.

Goodbye, Bill

Will C. Edwards, for long years editor of the Denton Record-Chronicle and much loved by all the Texas press, has become publisher of the Washington (D. C.) Herald, and the Texas papers are all saying nice things about him. He deserves them all, but maybe if there had been more said before he hired to the Herald, he might have hesitated longer about leaving Texas.

BIG CROWD SONORA EXPERIMENT STATION No. 14

Many people from many of the western counties attended the program of the "Round-up," including Kimble. The group from Junction reported a big time.

The speaking program was most excellent. President T. O. Walton of the A. & M. College made the opening address. He was followed by Judge Cornell, attorney for the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association. Next came Mr. Kincaid, president of the sheep and Goat Raisers' Ass'n., who called himself only a sheep herder; then the "cowpuncher," R. M. Kleberg, spoke next. The first morning's program closed with a "sub" for the Hon. Claude Hudspeth, who is still ill. The barbecue that followed was great.

In the afternoon the speaking program continued. Such speakers as W. A. Cochel, Mr. Belcher, Dr. W. L. Black, Dr. H. Schmidt and several others spoke. The round-table discussion led by Dr. Schmidt was greatly enjoyed and very helpful to stockmen; the subject was animal diseases.

The next morning President H. L. Kent of New Mexico A. & M. opened the program. He was followed by Dr. C. D. March who spoke on stock poisoning by plants, (Bureau of Animal Industry U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.) Then such speakers as V. L. Cory, J. D. Jackson, C. H. Alvord of A. & M., director of Extension Service, spoke; next L. P. Gabbard, J. L. Lush and G. Barnes, all of the A. & M. College, spoke. Then another good barbecue dinner was served.

In the afternoon several men made talks, including J. M. Jones and J. M. Dameron, wool and mohair specialists, Texas A. & M. College. After the speaking the judging contest began. Marvin Blackburn and Lofton Little entered, making a good score.

Both afternoons there was a special program for the ladies. Mr. Skaggs, Mr. Little and Mr. Woods attended the ladies program on the last afternoon, it is believed.

Mr. Snyder Saves the Day. Due to the foresight of Mr. M. Snyder the Junction crowd had a big supper the first day. It so happened that Mr. Snyder in some manner secured the last goat-neck of the barbecued meats. Mr. Little said that he never in all his life tasted better meat. The next morning found the Junction gang crowding around the egg and bacon stand, but as they departed hence, the memory of the previous day came to their minds with regret that Mr. Snyder had not secured a second neck. Another regret expressed was that Junction was not as well represented as might have been. It is hoped that several hundred Junction people will attend next year.

HAZELWOOD LAUNDRY
 "Quick Dependable Service"

was mined and smelted in Kimble County and lost from one of the pack donkeys that trod the trail of hardships so many, many years ago.
Col. Bowie served in Long's expedition and settled in Saltillo, where he married the daughter of vice-governor Veramendi of San Antonio. At the battle of Concepcion he was second in command. The Bowie brothers helped to make early Texas history and there is no one who can successfully contradict the fact that the Bowie Mine is not located in Kimble County.

On last Thursday the dwelling of Jacob Otte burned. The building caught from a defective flue. Very little of the contents of the house were saved. People have been generous in the relief of Mr. Otte, and it is right that they should, for we can not foresee our destiny nor read our fate from the handwriting on the wall, nor tell the time when we, too, might be placed in the same position. We should help them in every way that is possible for us to do so without working too great a hardship on ourselves.

The old Ford car driven by our friend, Clyde Deck, has ceased to make its way up and down our highway. We will miss its noise and shatter. Its creaking had become so familiar with us that it seems we have lost a friend indeed. To hear it was a deep enchantment that brought out a symbol of all the respect and admiration we had for the man. Now a Star car, not so aged in years, more vigorous and sturdy with a keener vision of foresight and not nearly so decrepid has taken the same respect for Mr. Deck. But we will miss the faithful old purr, purr, of the Ford that has endeared itself to our heart since childhood.

Cotton picking will get in full sway about August 22. A few bales have already been ginned. Mr. Cummins Massey of Red Creek had the first bale of cotton ginned at the London gin this year.

Some few have been taking their broom corn to the London gin press and having it baled. This is a kind act of Mr. Horn, the gin man, and is greatly appreciated by the people.

Mrs. Belle, a resident of London for many years, was baptized by Bro. Lewis Pearl last Sunday.

Some of our people are attending the Christian meeting held by Bro. Wallace at the Reese and Fisher community.

MISS CHADWELL ENTERTAINS CLUB

Miss Olive Chadwell entertained the Laf-A-Lot club and other guests Tuesday afternoon with a prettily arranged bridge party.

The yellow color scheme was faintly carried out in the tallies, favors and refreshments.

There were three tables, and after the games were finished and the scores counted, it was found that Mrs. Mary Wheat held high score and Mrs. George Braley received the consolation.

The refreshments consisted of two courses, a salad and ice cream and cake, served on bamboo trays.

Watch for the manless wedding.

MRS. LUEHRS ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Luehrs entertained the Merry Wives club and other guests with a delightful lawn party at her home Saturday night. The lawn was made bright and cheerful with many gay colored lanterns.

Six tables were arranged on the lawn for bridge. When the score was counted it was found that Mrs. Turk Kindrick held high score for the club prize, while Miss Fay Taylor held high score for the guests prize. The prizes were lovely framed pictures.

Delicious refreshments, consisting of angel food cake and banana nut ice cream were served to about twenty guests.

Beautiful white zinnias were the plate favors.
