Churchill In U. S. To Map Plans

Top Of The Mornin'

LONGMONT, Colo., May 11. (AP)—George Schlichter was walking along a street when a paper fluttered from the bill of a bird.

It was a dollar.

REAL THING DOESN'T LAST WITH CURIOUS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11. (AP)—Instead of artificial flowers, Mrs. Merrill A. Newman arranged fresh ones on a veil and wore it as a hat.

But the bonnet didn't last long. Curious luncheon guests kept pinching the flowers to see if they were real.

EXCITEMENT COSTLY AS SAILOR CALLS GIRL

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11. (AP)—Sailor Scotty Binn, back from a year at sea, was excited when he called his girl friend.

He was more excited when he rushed back to the phone booth later.

But the $1500 he left in the booth was gone.

WHAT'S THAT ABOUT THE WOMAN'S PLACE

MIAMI, Fla., May 11. (U.P.)—Because her soldier-husband is jealous of her superior rank, Lt. Betty Ratchford Lamacchia, an Army nurse, has filed suit for divorce from Sgt. Joseph Lamacchia.

Mrs. Lamacchia, stationed at Miami Beach, charged "extreme cruelty."

NEW TYPE BONE IS BAFFLING FOR DOG

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., May 11. (U.P.)—A puzzled year-old terrier was still trying to figure out today how to handle the new bone he found in a nearby farm field.

Four times he carefully scraped out a hole and deposited the bone. Four times the bone emerged from the hole and started to crawl away.

The dog had dragged home a turtle.

PUNGENT POSIES POSE PROBLEM FOR POLICE

SAN PEDRO, Cal., May 11. (AP)—A strange odor, accompanied by smarting of the eyes, was detected by residents of this harbor area.

Some people, fearing there had been a mustard gas attack, telephoned police.

The latter finally traced the trouble to its source—a field of wild flowers just coming into bloom.

FEDERAL JUDGE GETS GOOD CHUCKLE HERE

TUCSON, Ariz., May 11. (AP)—Seven aliens were before Federal Judge Alber M. Sames on charges of illegal entry.

As each of the first six was asked whether he came through the international fence, he answered "yes."

Te seventh, Jose Ortiz, 17, answered:

"No, I, who am of slight build, came under it."

Even the judge smiled.

Rommel Action Angers Italians

TUNIS, May 10 (Delayed) (AP)—Italian troops who already hated their German comrades-in-arms were furiously angry when they heard Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was withdrawn from Africa to save him from responsibility for the Axis debacle in Tunisia, it was reported here today.

"All during the time they were in Tunisia, the Germans and Italians would not speak to each other," said Leland R. A. Smith, formerly of Portland, Ore., who served as United States consul in Tunis for eight years preceding the war.

Smith had been held under arrest at his home in the Tunis suburb of La Marsa for the past six months.

Never Seen Together

"Italians and Germans were never seen together on the streets," he said, "and refused to frequent the same hotels and cafes.

"Italians living in Tunis are confident that the people of Italy won't stand much more and believe that a revolution is brewing."

Smith disclosed for the first time just how close the Allied gamble on reaching Tunis with a small expeditionary force early in December came to success.

"On the night the American troops got to Djedeida, the Germans were ready to evacuate," he said.

"Their general staff had their bags all packed at the Hotel Majestic" (in which this dispatch is being written) "and planes were ready to leave with them for Italy. Every fighting soldier and every gun they had was sent into the line.

"The distant gunfire rattled the windows of my house. But then gunfire faded and we knew the Allied forces had been driven back."

TWO DIE IN CRASH

BRADY, May 11 (AP)—Aviation Cadet William H. Wardell, 26, of Alameda, Calif., and civilian instructor Jesse E. Medley, 32, of Santa Rosa, New Mexico were killed in a plane crash 12 miles west of Brady while on a routine training flight today. They were both from Curtis Field, an Army primary training school here.

Reds Down 56 Planes, Capture Key Nazi Post

Russian Bombers Lash Rail Centers Behind Axis Lines

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Wednesday, May 12.—The Red Army captured a German fortified key position in the violent battle of Novorossisk Tuesday and pounded the Nazi foe in the Caucasus with infantry, artillery and aerial power on a day marked by a continuation of heavy air battles and vigorous activity along the entire front.

The Red Air force, whose recent exploits have caused the Germans to express official amazement, reported downing 35 planes in air combat and 21 more were shot down by anti-aircraft fire during the day, as against Soviet losses of 11 planes, said the Soviet midnight communique broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

Rail Centers Pounded

In an additional announcement Moscow said that Red airmen carried out heavy raids on Monday on half a dozen key rail centers behind the German lines, including Kiev, Bryansk and Orel.

The heaviest fighting of the day was in Kuban, where the remnants of a Nazi Caucasus Army which once numbered 200,000 men are backed up against the Black Sea around Novorossisk. Here, said the midnight bulletin, "Soviet troops continued demolishing enemy fortifications by artillery shelling and air bombardment."

A number of German blockhouses, dugouts and other fortifications were blasted to ruins in the region northeast of Novorossisk, and German soldiers were taken prisoner, the communique said, while in the lower reaches of the Kuban river, apparently northwest of Novorossisk, the German key fortified position fell to the advancing Soviet troops. About a company of Germans was wiped out, and war material was captured.

Lash Supply System

The pulverising pattern of bombing Germany's whole eastern front supply system was carried into the third successive day Monday by a persistent Red Air force onslaught which has begun to suggest that the Red Army is preparing for its first summer offensive.

The Moscow announcement of the air bombardment behind the German lines, which was made following broadcast of the midnight communique, brought the total Red Air force transport junction attacks to more than two score in the three days ended Monday night.

The Russians apparently had the Germans guessing regarding their next move against Novorossisk, for the Berlin radio's military correspondent, Captain Ludwig Sertorius observed that the Red attack at the Kuban bridge-

Six Known Dead In Oklahoma Floods

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 11 (AP)—The lives of 150 marooned persons were endangered tonight as the crest of eastern Oklahoma's flood tide poured into Haskell county, leaving behind six known dead and untold crop and property destruction.

The refugees were trapped in lowlands near Keota and State Senator Guy Curry of Stigler, telephoning to the highway patrol for help, declared "there's every possibility that some of those people or all of them have been carried away already."

Sheriff Ralph Kelley of Leflore county added a belief that some of the refugees had been carried away. He said a military barge from Camp Chaffee, Ark., was trying to reach the vicinity through raging waters sometimes 40 feet deep.

Rescue workers were unable to maneuver rowboats in the flood.

Mainland Nazis Surrender As Peninsula Trap Closes

French Decline Armistice Plea

British Move For Cap Bon Clean-Up

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 11.—German troops cut off on the Tunisian mainland by a British breakthrough across the base of Cap Bon peninsula surrendered unconditionally to the French tonight and agreed to the immediate transfer of all their materiel.

Pocketed in the Zaghouan mountains, the Germans asked the French comman for an armistice in the first such request to be made by the Germans to the French since the last war.

Just as the Americans had done in the north, the French followed the Casablanca formula by demanding immediate unconditional surrender and the immediate delivery of all materiel, and the Germans accepted.

There was no indication of the number of surrendering forces, who were isolated when the French 19th corps drove through to the coast to cut them off from their comrades facing the British Eighth Army to the south after the British First Army had stabbed across the base of Cap Bon.

Once established across the neck of the peninsula, First Army armored units immediately moved up both sides of the mountainous strip jutting into the Mediterranean, rounding up 20,000 prisoners during the day and capturing all the territory between Hammamet and Beni Aichoum in an 18-mile sweep up the southeast side.

Allied airmen carried out another tremendous raid today on the Mediterranean island steppingstones necessary for a continental invasion. Nearly 200 bombers escorted by more than 100 fighter planes smashed at Marsala, Sicily's closest port to Cap Bon.

This raid followed heavy attacks on airfields in western Sicily yesterday and the largest daylight raid of the campaign Sunday when nearly 400 planes were over Paelrmo, Sicily.

Smoke Rises 10,000 Feet

Smoke from fires started by today's attack rose as high as 10,000 feet and could be seen by the returning pilots when they were back over the African coast. The bombardiers scored hits on railroad yards and warehouses and set a ship afire in the harbor.

Other Allied planes hammered Pantelleria in the sixth raid in four days on that tiny island in the Sicilian strait, smashing the harbor and hitting several ships.

Armored forces of the British First Army reached Hammamet at dawn today, completing a lightning thrust across he peninsula from Hamman Lif which resulted also in the capture of Soliman, Grombalia and Menzel Bou Zelfa.

Then they turned and advanced up the sides of the peninsula. Axis troops which retreated into the rocky reaches have been reduced to morale-shattered rabble, and general surrender was considered imminent.

Resistance from the demoralized enemy is slight as the British in American-made tanks continue to round up prisoners by the thousands and halt the destruction of German supplies.

The advancing columns found the disorganized Axis forces had made little effort to blow up roads and bridges and that few booby traps had been left behind. Much Axis materiel already has been abandoned to the British.

The 20,000 prisoners captured today were collected in the area of Beni Aichoum, and with others being herded to the rear, it was estimated that the total soon would surpass 100,000.

House Group Votes Strike Restrictions And Requires Union Financial Statements

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 11—By a 21 to 0 vote, the House Military committee today approved legislation to restrict strikes in war plants and to require periodic financial statements from unions having members who work in war plants.

In other major labor developments:

1. The National Labor Relations board reversed an earlier decision and refused to recognize unions of supervisory employes as appropriate collective bargaining units. Since the earlier decision last June 15, a movement had been launched at the capitol for legislation to outlaw unionization of supervisory employes on the grounds they perform managerial functions.

Hold-The-Line Order

2. President Roosevelt said he would talk with Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor board about the board's difficulties with his hold-the-line order against inflation. The board asked Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes last week for clarification of the order, calling it unworkable in its present form.

3. Senator Byrd (D-Va) said he would insist that the WLB furnish more detailed information to the Senate on wage increases it has approved. He said a report WLB filed in response to his resolution was "incomplete" and that a decision as to its accuracy should be reserved. The board contended the wage increases if has approved had not contributed to price inflation.

The military committee's drive to enact labor legislation was touched off by the soft coal wage dispute, and members said they hoped to get their measure enacted before expiration May 18 of the 15-day truce under which John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, ordered the miners back to work after the general work stoppage the first of this month.

One committee member—Representative Stewart (D-Okla)—did not vote when the labor measure was approved. Other members said he told them he felt the legislation was not stringent enough.

The bill, applying only to war plants, provides that:

A strike may not be called without the approval, in a secret ballot of the employes involved. After such approval, 30 days notice must be given.

In the event of a strike, picketing shall not be engaged in except by bona fide employes on strike, and employers shall not interfere with peaceful picketing.

There shall be no jurisdictional strikes, sympathy strikes or secondary boycotts.

Unions shall annually file with the National Labor Relations board sworn statements showing the names of their officers, the number of paid-up members, the amount of dues and assessments levied, and the method of electing officers.

Final Decision On Disputes

The War Labor board shall have final authority to decide disputes certified to it by the labor department conciliation service and may require, through court order, the attendance of witnesses at its hearings.

When a controversy develops between an employer and his employes the status quo as to working arrangements shall be maintained on order of the WLB. The government may not, however, continue the status quo for more than 60 days after it has taken jurisdiction.

Penalties are provided for persons fomenting strikes or slowdowns in plants taken over by the government, as well as for persons or unions violating the legislation. The former would face a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a fine of $5,000, while the latter would lose their standing under labor protective laws including the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act.

Through the 30-day "cooling off" period and the 60-day status quo period, committee members said, strikes could be stalled off for at least 90 days while the machinery of the bill was in operation.

The measure embodies some provisions of the bill introduced by Senator Connally (D-Tex) and passed recently by the Senate, and the main features of the bill of Representative Smith (D-Va) which the House passed on December 3, 1941, but which the Senate failed to approve.

Japs Hit Allied Base On Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, May 12.—Japan pushed its small scale air offensive in the southwest Pacific into its third day yesterday, inflicting "damage and casualties" on Merauke, Dutch New Guinea, while Allied planes were heavily raiding Rabaul, New Britain.

Nine enemy bombers attacked Merauke, on Dutch New Guinea's south coast.

On the Allied side of the ledger, Flying Fortresses struck at one of Rabaul's airdromes during the darkness of yesterday morning.

Two Previous Thrusts

The Merauke raid was the latest flareup of enemy aerial activity. The previous two Allied communiques had reported Japanese aerial thrusts at Millinkimbi, an Australian outpost 300 miles east of Darwin.

Three enemy floatplanes attacked shipping off Cape Wessel, Australia, but inflicted no damage and one plane was shot down.

This also was the second enemy air activity against Allied shipping reported in as many days. Yesterday's communique told of a small Allied convoy near Millingimbi driving off three Japanese planes.

Solons Plug On At Cleanup Job

AUSTIN, May 11 (AP)—The 48th general session of the legislature plugged away at its cleanup business tonight, sending to the governor a bill re-enacting the road bond law which two years ago greatly prolonged the general session.

The House adopted, without a murmur of dissent, a conference committee report on the bond bill which the Senate had accepted hours earlier.

Rural School Fund

House acceptance of another committee report put the finishing touches on a bill allocating $19,661,980 to country schools for the next biennium ending Aug. 31.

The rural aid bill increased the base pay of teachers $10 a month, made a small increase in funds for school transportation and eliminated 12 of 24 deputy superintendents of education. It also provided for an accounting to audit rural aid expenditures.

Both branches promptlyl adopted a conference report on a bill appropriating $20,131,902 for state supported colleges in the next biennium, a decrease of $2,756,908 under authorized funds for the current biennium.

Conferees reported the following approximate totals for various institutions: University of Texas main branch $3,920,218; University of Texas medical branch, $1,920,000; Texas A. and M. college $2,360,000; University of Texas school of mines, $400,520; Texas Technological college, $1,450,000.

Congratulations To:

Sgt. and Mrs. Wilson L. Ansley of 2612 Twentyseventh street on birth of a daughter weighing 8 pounds 2½ ounces at 5:31 o'clock Tuesday morning in West Texas hospital. The father is stationed at Lubbock Army Air field.

Soaring Unrest Adds To German Woes In Europe

Germany Switches Propaganda Theme To Defensive War

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 11.—While the impact of the Axis North African defeat was reflected in reports of soaring revolt in Europe and mounting Axis woes, the Nazi-controlled Danish radio predicted today "this battle for Germany is about to begin."

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, dealt at length with difficulties that would face an Allied invasion of Hitler's European fortress.

It said that behind his fortifications, Hitler had from 14,000,000 to 15,000,000 soldiers set to meet the invader.

Nazis Switch Theme

"Germany has switched to the strategic defensive, which does not exclude offensive action," the broadcast asserted. "This battle for Germany is about to begin: The situation is unique in the history of war."

But while this and other Axis sources attempted to cheer their worried public with pretensions of confidence, reports from one end of the continent to the other spoke of rising unrest in conquered lands, to which the outcome of the American campaign has brought the highest pitch of hope since the war began.

One continental dispatch told of the execution of 20 Dutch patriots on May 2 and the imposition of the death sentence on 10 others—all of whom were sentenced a day after Holland was placed under martial law as a result of disorders apparently connected with an attempt to start a general strike.

Wholesale Killings Feared

More wholesale killings were foreshadowed in a German-controlled Dutch newspaper which Dutch circles in London quoted as saying that in The Netherlands "agitation has turned into unreasonable unrest, which has already assumed a dangerous and intolerable form."

An the Axis is having trouble at home as well as outside.

The Algiers radio reported that anti-fascist and anti-war slogans were appearing in many Italian towns. One poster in Venice read:

"People of Italy, wake up. Soon the banner of liberty will again fly over Italy."

Premier Mussolini tried to comfort his people with a statement in the Poplo D'Italia, quoted by the German radio:

"The British and American landing in Italy will not prove so easy as bombing Italian towns. . ."

To which the German radio broadcast added:

"The events in Tunisia find the Italians neither unprepared nor discouraged."

Alsace-Lorraine Actvie

A Reuters dispatch from Zurich said that increasing anti-German manifestations had occurred in recent days in Alsace-Lorraine.

In Norway, German soldiers were forbidden to appear in public or in restaurants because of the hostility of the population.

Meanwhile, Henri Queuille, a former French cabinet minister, warned that a delay of a few months in an invasion of the continent would curtail seriously the morale of the French people and their resistance to their Nazi oppressors.

"The French are burning with the desire to fight for the liberatoin of France," Queuille declared at a press conference, at which he said the present morale and spirit of resistance of his people "could not be increased . . . it is at a peak now."

Another Axis Blow Pending

Hurried Trip Follows In Wake Of Tunisian Victory

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived here tonight against a background of an Allied victory in Tunisia and German jitters over invasion, for more war talks with President Roosevelt.

He was accompanied by a staff of military and naval experts.

His swift trip to the United States after the sudden collapse of Axis arms in Tunisia led to conjecture that he had come for a final checking over of plans for hammering open another front on the European continent and perhaps to project Allied strategy even beyond that point.

The White House naturally gave no specific details of the exact purpose of the fifth Churchill-Roosevelt parely in 21 months and the fourth since this country plunged into the conflict.

Brief Announcement

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early issued only this brief announcement:

"Prime Minister Winston Churchill has arrived in Washington. He was met by the President upon arrival and will be the President's guest for the duration of his visit. Mr. Churchill was accompanied by a staff of experts, military and naval."

MISSED THIS GUESS
(By The Associated Press)

The Berlin radio, apparently fishing for information, broadcast tonight the following dispatch credited to a correspondent of Transocean, German propaganda agency, in Stockholm:

"Churchill personally is attending a large conference of all military and civilian prominents in the Near East being held in Cairo these days.

"According to information received here Tuesday this assumption is being more and more openly expressed in London and in some quarters suspicion is even strongly being voiced that also Roosevelt is participating in this conference and that possibly a meeting may subsequently be held between Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin . . ."

The current Anglo-American conference gave added significance to the secret letter which President Roosevelt entrustd to Joseph E. Davis to deliver to Joseph Stalin in Moscow. The contents of the message have not been revealed and there was no definite indication that the Russian premier might join the talk here, or even that he had been invited to do so.

Nor was there any way of learning whether the conversations would continue long enough for the Russian leader to reach Wash-

Production Of Planes Zooming

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—Estimating American plane output by a new method, President Roosevelt said today the 1944 total is expected to be 1,417,000,000 pounds of airplanes of all types.

This compares with 87,000,000 pounds turned out in 1941, 291,000,000 pounds in 1942 and an estimated 911,000,000 pounds for this year.

The President told a press conference it is a pretty good way of showing how the country has boosted plane output.

He said he thought it is correct that American airplane factories are turning out more than the rest of the world combined. His figures covered planes for the Army, Navy, and everything else.

Mr. Roosevelt said that more and more of these planes are of offensive types which can carry the war to the enemy.

Weight Truer Measure

He read to a press conference army estimates of production in pounds and said that figures by weight are a truer method of measure than the number of planes since several light planes

Britons See Big Moves In Store

Conclaves Usually Followed By Action

LONDON, Wednesday, May 12 (AP)—Britons, recalling the positive military actions after previous conclaves, welcomed the new Churchill-Roosevelt meeting as a prelude to a grand attack on Axis-held Europe.

Best informed observers said flatly that war strategy was the prime purpose of the conference although political problems involved in the invasion plans undoubtedly were discussed, as well as coordination of Russian and Allied offensives.

Soothing of the disputes between the Poles and Russians and the intramural arguments of the French also were regarded as likely subjects taken into consideration, together with allotment of war supplies for the global conflict.

Significant Facts

These significant facts were recalled:

When Churchill met President Roosevelt in Washington June 18, 1942, British fortunes in the Middle East were at the lowest. The Eighth Army stood at El Alamein July 2 and the subsequent turnaround was followed by the North African invasion November 8.

Churchill met Stalin August 12, 1942 and the Russians began their Stalingrad and Voronezh counteroffensives the next day. The former resulted in the gravest German defeat to date.

Again on January 14, 1943, Churchill met Roosevelt at Casablanca and the two set "unconditional surrender" as the joint war aim. March 20 the Eighth Army moved against the Mareth positions while United States forces began tentative advances which reached their height with the Tunisian victory.

Cotton Crop's Value Shows Big Increase

AUSTIN, May 11 (AP)—Texas' cotton crop was worth $60,000,000 more last year than 1941, the USDA's crop reporting board said in revised estimates issued today.

Value of lint in 1942 was $270,340,000 and cottonseed $59,664,000 compared with a total crop value of $270,910,000 the year before.

Total bales produced numbered 3,038,000 of 500 pounds gross weight, while cottonseed production amounted to 1,356,000 tons.

"Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."—By the Apostle Paul, in First Corinthians, Chapter 1, Verse 10.

City Slashes 15 Cents From Tax Rate To Bring It To 85 Cents, Lowest In State

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

REDUCTION of 15 cents in the Lubbock city tax rate was agreed upon by members of the city commission at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon.

This will mean a tax rate of 85 cents on the $100 of assessed valuations. The present rate is $1, which is shown by available records to be the lowest of any city in Texas of comparable or larger population.

The reduction will mean that Lubbock propert owners will pay $50,000 less in city taxes than if the rate had remained unchanged.

It was the second consecutive year of reduction in the city tax rate. The present $1 rate represents a cut from the $1.10 rate of the previous year.

Of the rates, both new and old, 5 cents is set aside for the Board of City Development. This is required by the city charter.

The action looking to the tax rate reduction was taken at a special meeting called by Mayor Carl E. Slaton to consider the budget for the fiscal year which started last April 1, as submitted by City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr.

Officials said that it was the earliest in many years, possibly in the history of the city, that a budget has been ready for submission to the commission. Likewise, this is the earliest in many years, if not in history, that the commission has been in position to give indication as to the probable tax rate.

Participation in the deliberations, additional to the mayor and city manager, were Commissioners W. B. Price, Hub Jones and J. O. Jones, City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley and City Secretary Lavenia Williams. Although pressing business engagements kept Commissioner Garland Newsom from the meeting, he had taken part in various of the numerous conferences that have been held during the shaping of the

Wild White Stallion Keeps Distance On Canyon Brakes

AMARILLO, May 11. (AP)—Somewhere in the rough breaks of the vast Palo Duro canyon there roams a wild white horse, an animal which apparently considers a mile too short a distance for safety from man.

At intervals the past several years the mysterious horse has been sighted, and this spring he has been seen by several visitors to the canyons and by aviators flying over the Palo Duro.

Delbert Dalby, president of the Will Rogers Range Riders, a riding club, said he saw the horse not long ago. The animal was standing on a cliff near a recess known as Lost Cedar Canyon.

Cowboys on the JA ranch, one of the biggest in Texas, have seen the wild white horse many times in the past several years. Efforts to catch him have failed. No cowpony can get within a mile of the mystery horse. The cowboys have watched the animal close enough to know he is a stallion.

Mrs. Pauline Peterson of Amarillo says she is positive the horse belongs to her. Fourteen years ago her late father, L. B. Muncie, bought a string of wild Mustang colts in Colorado and shipped them to Clarendon. While loading out the horses at Clarendon, Munsie lost a white colt which had given trouble all the way from Colorado. He leaped a stockyards fence and headed for the canyon breaks. Cowboys who gave chase didn't sight the horse after he disappeared in the wooded breaks.

Change Is Likely For Radio Field

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP) — A Supreme court decision upholding half a dozen regulations of the Federal Communications commission, and particularly one striking at the long-established practice of obtaining exclusive options from local stations by networks to channel their programs out to the country, raised before the broadcasting industry today the prospect of an essential change in many of its business relations.

The court's action, announced yesterday in Washington, was a victory for the commission itself and for Mutual Broadcasting system, which had intervened and fought its competitors, National Broadcasting company and Columbia Broadcasting system.

Admit Hard Blow

NBC and CBS indicated themselves hard hit in this decision, one of the most important to the networks since nationwide broadcasting began, and through their top executives expressed hope that what NBC termed "wisdom" would be shown by the commission in administering its regulations — regulations now confirmed by the court after litigation going back to October of 1941.

The argument of NBC—and it was joined in the court attack by CBS—had been that the commission's proposal to knock out the present option system, under which the networks arranged through long-term agreements with hundreds of local stations to broadcast their national programs, would put the network in the position of having to try to plan its national programs and sell its advertising time on an "if as and when" basis having to negotiate individually with scores of stations until all of them had agreed upon a time that they would carry the program. "The unanimous consent" of dozens of radio and advertising executives, it was added, thus would have to be obtained for each program scheduled.

National advertising contracts, it was said, customarily are made on the basis of a year, and thus "optional time is as necessary for the practical operation of network broadcasting as traffic lights are for the practical flow of vehicular traffic."

Mutual Alleged Handicap

Mutual, which intervened before the court against NBC and CBS, argued for its part that under the old regulations it had been under unfair competitive handicaps and that the commission's regulation against exclusive option time still would give its competitors an "entirely sufficient clearance" for three hours per "segment," the broadcasting day being divided into four such segments.

The long disputed rule, called "3.104' in the trade, thus reads as to network options — that is, the hour at which a station has agreed to carry a national program:

"Such options may not be exclusive as against other network organizations and may not prevent or hinder the station from optioning or selling any or all of the time covered by the option, or other time, to other network organizations."

The argument of NBC has been that this would mean a scramble for the best hours of such scope that it would be diffilcult to promise an advertiser, and carry through with it, fixed stations at fixed hours for his national programs.

Medical Move Receives Favor

HOUSTON, May 11. (U.P.)—Houston and Harris county physicians received with mixed reactions today the news that the Baylor university medical and dental colleges will be moved here from Dallas in time to open a new session Oct. 1.

Heaviest opposition came from dentists and doctors who pointed out that the city already has one dental college and that a gigantic project for building up a medical center around a post-graduate unit of the University of Texas school of medicine already had been planned.

Surprised At Speed

The majority, however, favored the move, although most doctors expressed surprise at the quickness with which the deal was consummated. All offered to cooperate in its establishment here, and one doctor expressed belief there was room enough in Houston for two medical schools.

The school will be established here with the help of the Anderson foundation, a research and philanthropic organization founded by heirs of the Anderson cotton family.

Ray L. Dudley, of Houston, a member of the board of trustees of Baylor university, said the move would be effected as quickly as possible.

20-Acre Site Offered

"Of course, we can't build any new buildings now because of the war," he said. "How soon the move is made depends on how quickly we can obtain temporary quarters. Another problem will be the clinical staff. While most of the faculty remains in Dallas, my information is that such key members of the staff that we want to retain will come on down."

The Anderson foundation agreed to give an unrestricted site of 20 acres within the general tract provided for a medical center to the Baylor dental and medical schools. In addition the foundation immediately will place in escrow $1,000,000 in cash and securities for erection of permanent buildings; provide temporary quarters; and assign to the school $1,000,000 for research, to be made in 10 annual installments.

PREPARATIONS DUE FOR FOUNDATION OPENING

DALLAS, May 11. (U.P.)—In Dallas today to prepare for the opening of the new Southwestern Medical foundation was Dr. Donald Slaughter, assistant dean of the University of Vermont college of medicine.

That Dr. Slaughter would head the new Dallas medical center was announced Saturday by Dr. E. H. Cary, president of the foundation.

Conferences Set

The school will open June 21.

Conferences with faculty members of the Baylor medical school —which will be moved to Houston in the near future, according to a Baylor trustee announcement — have been arranged, Dr. Cary said.

Ultimate distribution of Baylor medical faculty members loomed as a problem—since conflicting statements had been issued by both the Baylor trustees and the Southwestern foundation.

The foundation announced that full-time faculty members would remain in Dallas with its new school. Baylor trustees said the faculty members would go to Houston when the Baylor unit becomes a part of the medical center there, fostered by the Anderson foundation.

There was a possibility this would be cleared up with the arrival of Dr. Slaughter. Announcement was expected as to how many faculty members would go to each medical center.

Major Kleinoeder Is Transferred To Gulf Coast Training Center

Major Leonard P. Kleinoeder of Bonham, director of aircraft maintenance at South Plains Army Air field, has been transferred to the Army Air Forces Gulf Coast Training Center at Randolph Field, it was announced Tuesday.

Capt. Alfred C. Larson of Montevideo, Minnesota, senior flying instructor at SPAAF, succeeds Major Kleinoeder.

A veteran of Army Air Forces, Major Kleinoeder has been stationed at the big glider school since last fall and has been prominent in the building up and advancement of the school to its present position. He started his flying career at Randolph Field in October, 1931, receiving his commission at Kelly Field in October, 1932.

He has seen service at Scott Field, Brooks Field, Duncan Field, at Bonham and has flown over most of the nation, parts of Canada and Alaska while in the service. He has logged more than 3,500 hours in the air and has served efficiently in a varied number of of jobs and planes. He flew the mails when the Army took over that job. He served as one of the original members of the transport command. He was engaged with the Department of Commerce from May, 1940 until August, 1941. Then he served as superintendent of engineering and maintenance at Bonham from August, 1941 until May, 1942, at which time he began his duties at Lubbock.

Capt. Larson, who succeeds Major Kleinoeder, has been at SPAAF since last fall also and is one of the old timers at the school. He is a graduate of Central High School in Montevideo, was a student at St. Olaf and graduated from the University of Minnesota. He received his commission in October, 1941. He has served at Ellington Field, 29 Palms, California and at Lubbock.

Spiritual Awakening Cited By Churchman

"A spiritual awakening is being felt by a nation facing the sacrifices of war," believes Rev. Tom D. O'Brien of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Slaton. He said the reason for the statement is the quite definite increase in church attendance and more professed interest in worship.

"Prayer is this nation's second front," he said, and explained he was reading a 6:45 a. m. Mass and a 7:30 p. m. May devotional service daily.

"In the 16 years I have been at Slaton I have observed no comparable attendance records or interest in devotion," he said.

For approximately 11 years before his removal to Slaton, Rev. O'Brien commuted between Amarillo and this area. He held a monthly Mass for railroad construction gangs engaged in laying the Seagraves branch of the Panhandle & Santa Fe railroad.

"There was not a single block of paving in Lubbock then," he recalled, "and the streets were the roughest I ever saw. There was no mud — apparently it never rained. Now when you look at the city—

"It makes you wonder what will happen over the next quarter-century here."

Uncollected Taxes In City Virtually Nil

V. R. Plummer, Lubbock city tax assessor and collector, has reported to the city commission the uncollected portion of the 1942 city tax roll now is less than $13,000.

Collections as of last May 1, according to the report, have totaled $302,441.62 on a roll of $315,248.45. This left $12,806.83 uncollected on May 1, and the figure has been reduced further since then.

The percentage of collections is 95.94, which was described as being by far the best record that veteran officials could recall.

WHAT TO DO WITH FATS DURING RATIONING

FIRST—Save every drop from pan drippings, gravy skimmings, etc., to use again in your cooking. The government has asked for fats to make gunpowder—but it doesn't want them until you've got all the cooking good you can out of them, for various dishes you may want to make.

THEN—When all the cooking good is gone, don't throw your used fats away. They're desperately needed for gunpowder. Every little bit counts. Just one tablespoon will fire five machine gun bullets. Even with rationing, you can save that much every day. Keep it in a can. Rush each canful to your meat dealer.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THE HOME OF NATIONALLY KNOWN MERCHANDISE

Hitler's Supreme Gamble Due Soon

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

Hitler's final attempt to break out of the trap which the United Nations are closing around him must and probably will be made this summer.

That is the preponderant view among British military observers, many of whom look for a win all or lose all offensive similar to the one which proved the dying gasp of German military power in the spring and summer of 1918.

The same observers believe this effort is most likely to be directed against Russia, which is the only target offering sufficient rewards.

Bare Chance For Stalemate

If Hitler could break Russian military strength, which he tried unsuccessfully to do in two previous campaigns, he still might have a fighting chance to achieve a stalemate in Europe.

Total victory apparently has vanished from his calculations. His frenzied propaganda efforts have been directed at splitting the other United Nations from Russia by sowing the seeds of mistrust.

Simultaneously, the Goebbels machine has been doing its utmost to convince the peoples of subjugated Europe, particularly the middle and southeastern states, that the "bolshevist menace" is their greatest peril and only an Axis victory can save them from being overrun by Red terror.

Hitler's strength lies in his Army, still the most powerful military machine in existence. Unless he tries an invasion of England, and the lack of air and sea power makes that improbable, there is no direction in which he could turn with profit except Russia.

If this proves to be Hitler's choice and he fails, it would mean essentially the loss of the war this year, with total defeat on the continent most probable in 1944.

Russia appears to be facing the issue with supereme confidence, bolstered by the certainty of an imminent Allied second front in western or southern Europe in the wake of the smashing victory in Africa.

In his May Day order, Premier Josef Stalin spoke not of defense against a German assault but of a Russian blow, in conjunction with the armies of the Allies, which would smash Hitler. Stalin knows that he is more than ever assured of a steady flow of war material, now that the Allies are about to make the Mediterranean a safe highway for their transports to the Middle East.

Will Ease Pressure On Reds

In addition, he has every reason to expect that Allied offensive action in Europe, even beyond the smashing aerial assault on Germany, will greatly ease the pressure on Russia, both by land and air.

Russia, fortified by Allied military assistance, is stronger than last year. Unless Hitler can miraculously muster far greater strength than he showed in 1941 and 1942, there is apparent reason for Stalin's air of confidence.

Bicycle Registration Warning Issued Here

Lubbock school children are too slow about registering their bicycles, Police Chief Don Reeder, announced yesterday. He said this was true notwithstanding the fact that the police have been conducting registration in various schools for the convenience of the children.

Reeder also emphasized that too many children have appeared before the registration boards without positive proof of ownership. Applicants for registration must have with them last year's license receipt or notarized ownership papers, Reeder said.

The deadline for registration is May 15, and up to that date the registration fee is only 35 cents, Reeder said; after that date a 50-cent penalty will be added.

The police will conduct a registration board at the Roscoe Wilson school from 12 until 1 p. m., Thursday, Reeder said. Meanwhile, bicycles may be registered daily at police headquarters from 6 a. m. until 10 p. m.

The registration is particularly important because of the number of current bicycle thefts, Reeder said.

Morale Is High, Dr. Benson Says

Separated from their homes, receiving mail infrequently and reading months-old magazines, the boys at sea nevertheless have high morale, said Lt.-Com. Martin H. Benson, who is home on leave.

"People at home may feel they are living under hardships and strain, but compared to the boys in the South Pacific area they are living between satin sheets," said the browned young lieutenant-commander, who returned recently after four months at sea.

Battle Service Star

A star decorates his campaign bar to attest to battle service while he was in the South Pacific.

Military secrecy prevents Dr. Benson from revealing location of the islands visited during his sea services. He refers to them instead by the names with which the Navy conceals their identity.

On one he met Lt.-Com. M. C. Overton, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton of Lubbock. Another highlight of his service in the Pacific was his meeting with Lt. Homer Maxey of Lubbock.

Lt.-Com. Benson, who is on leave from West Texas hospital while in the Navy, entered naval service in 1941 and was stationed in Dallas in recruiting service several months, after which he went to San Diega Naval hospital. He was engaged in pediatrics at that hospital and the Mercy hospital at San Diego. Two days after the Japanese attack, he went to Pearl Harbor, returning later to the naval hospital at San Diego. Last Dec. 9 he went to sea duty, with the amphibious forces, Pacific fleet.

Following his leave, he is to be stationed at Treasure Island hospital. He will be accompanied to his new post, where he is to report Monday, by his wife and young son, Martin.

Army Organizing Units Of Civilian Physicians To Assist In Case Of Coastal Attack Or Other Emergencies; May Get Active Duty

WASHINGTON, May 11. (U.P.)—Civilian Defense Director James M. Landis announced today that units of civilian physicians are being organized to assist the army temporarily in case of coastal air attack or other emergencies.

Should the Army find that it is unable to handle a sudden influx of war casualties or some other military emergency in regular war department hospitals, civilian physicians will be called to active duty, Landis said. They are now being accepted for service with affiliated OCD hospital units with reserve commissions in the U. S. Public Health service.

When and if the need arises, the doctors will be placed on active duty for the duration of the emergency, and receive the pay and allowances of medical officers of equivalent rank in the Army. Landis said they would be returned to inactive status as soon as they could be replaced by Army medical officers.

Wheat Forecast Slightly Negated

CHICAGO, May 11 (AP)—The pessimistic implications in the latest government winter wheat forecast, showing a substantial decline from last year, are at least slightly negated by recent favorable crop developments, grain experts asserted today.

The government forecast, issued yesterday, set winter wheat production at 515,159,000 bushels against 703,252,000 bushels last year and a ten-year (1932-41) average 550,181,000 bushels. One month earlier the government had forecast this year's crop at 558,551,000 bushels.

Grain experts said, however, that the government's forecast was based on conditions as they existed May 1, which was a date on which green bugs were doing much damage in Texas and Oklahoma, and a drouth was developing over a wide area west of the Mississippi.

Since the beginning of this month the drouth situation has greatly improved. While weather reports are subject to censorship, and not easy to obtain by grain men, it was said that many of the areas which needed rain on May 1 subsequently obtained it. Thus the crop condition improved considerably.

Local Legion Names Convention Delegates

M. D. Stanley, commander of Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, Tuesday announced the names of delegates and alternates to represent the Lubbock organization at the district meeting to be held here on Monday night, May 24.

The appointments were authorized at the semi-monthly post meeting Monday night.

Alternates are Sam Gillespie, A. H. Maas, B. H. Meskimen, Hugh Slagle, W. T. Strange, C. M. Trout, Fred Childress, George Meiser and F. W. Groce.

The commander reported that the representation is based on a membership of 305, the second largest in the history of the post. This total was exceeded only during the acute stages of agitation for payment of the war bonus several years ago.

Stephens CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

Where the "So-Called" Hopeless Do Get Well

CASE HISTORY No. 1243. Lady age 29 who had suffered from severe insomnia, unable to sleep for nearly two weeks. Back hurt all the time aching in left shoulder for four years, sinus trouble, and constipation. Had tried many kinds of remedies without results. She came to a chiropractor as a last resort. The spine was X-rayed, especially the upper neck, in different angles, and she began taking chiropractic service. After the first few days she began sleeping soundly. The adjustment released the nerves and in a few weeks time all symptoms had disappeared and under a complete course of adjustments, she felt like a new person. This case thought so much of Chiropractic, that she had mother take adjustments, and she responded wonderfully.

CASE HISTORY No. 282. Lady age 73 had a pain under shoulder blade. Had high blood pressure, tingling sensation in right hand, severe dizziness in head, pains in knees and ankles. Under a course of Chiropractic, she was greatly improved and continued adjustments off and on for many months for other necessary ailments. Although not entirely well she states that the adjustments had saved her life from some form of paralysis.

WHAT DOES A CHIROPRACTOR DO? The chiropractor locates and corrects the cause of physical suffering so the nerve impulse traveling from the brain to the affected organs of the body can rebuild that particular part that is dis-eased, and the brain can control the body the way it should. Brain or nerve energy is transmitted over the body's network of nerves. These nerves come from the spine, and it is in the spine that these nerves can be "pinched"; and the flow of energy over them may be impeded or partially cut off. It is the Chiropractor's duty to locate the points of nerve interference and to correct that by the proper adjustment. When you deal with nerve energy you are dealing with the spiritual something that controls the welfare of the human body.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THE only form of exercise that we never tire of is walking which we consider the most inexpensive, beneficial and safest recreation one can take.

NATIONWIDE CANNING

THE Office of Civilian Defense in Washington has launched a nationwide community canning program designed to help housewives throughout America preserve the produce from their victory gardens and orchards.

The Lubbock County-City Food and Nutrition committee is discussing arrangement for location, use of pressure cookers and for instructors who will explain methods of preserving, canning and pickling this summer for Lubbock women who are interested.

American housewives are expected to can 5,200,000,000 jars of food during 1943. (In case some of those zeros get lost in the linotype machine, the number is five billion two hundred millions. Sounds like a war debt, doesn't it?) This is more than half again as much as last year.

THE other morning a friend who works in a downtown office called and asked our help in putting through an idea which she had been mulling over for some time. She says this summer she will have vegetables and fruits she is anxious to have preserved, canned and pickled, but she does not have the time to put them up. Our friend was wondering if there were women in Lubbock who have the time to can vegetables and fruits but who are not raising them who would be willing to work on a share-the-crop basis.

"Almost every woman I know, certainly women with families, is looking forward to cooperating with government requests to supply her table needs from her own shelves next winter," our friend continued. "There must be other women situated as I am who do not have the time or the opportunity to work at canning and preserving, but who would be only too glad for the opportunity of furnishing fresh stuff for the pressure cooker to the woman who does have the time."

The Woman's Angle has not had an opportunity to discuss this matter either with Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of the home economics division at Texas Tech college, or Miss Clara Pratt county home demonstration agent, but we know they will be interested and perhaps have suggestions as to how this project might be successfully carried out. This column will be glad to cooperate in any way and in the meantime we'd like to get opinions. Would you like to help?

CAN ROUNDUP

SPEAKING of cans, we suppose you know there is to be a salvage drive for tin cans in Lubbock in the near future. Mrs. H. F. Godeke, president of the City Federation, is asking club presidents to suggest to their clubs that members begin to save cans now for the drive.

The cans' ends are to be cut off, the labels removed and the cans flattened. You may flatten the container by stepping on it in case there is not a Superman in your home to do that little task for you with his bare hands.

CASUALTY LIST

MEMBERS of the American Legion auxiliary are compiling a record of Lubbock and Lubbock county boys who have given their lives for their country in World War 2. Mrs. George S. Berry, chairman of the project, has enlisted the aid of church pastors and church secretaries but she feels sure she has overlooked some of the religious institutions.

Mrs. Berry has asked us through this column to invite pastors to send her lists of gold star youths on their rolls and in case a survivor knows of a man in the service who was not affiliated with a church she wants to learn of that, too. She wants names of survivors, in addition to the information about the men.

Her address is 2021 Fifteenth street.

Definite Year Around Activity Offered As A Solution To Juvenile Delinquency

At a children's war time council conducted at Senior High school Monday night, a definite year around recreational program was described as the solution to Lubbock's juvenile delinquency problem. The council, which was in the nature of a panel conducted by Miss Johne Bowles, was sponsored by the Association for Childhood Education.

Taking part were John W. Wilson, Mrs. Mary A. Ware, Dr. Agnes True and Miss Mary Alice Crosson.

It was brought out in the discussions that Lubbock offers little in recreation for children after school hours in the spring or during summer vacation.

Miss Crosson, who has made an investigation of poor nutrition in homes where there are school children, recommended that more adults take nutrition courses. Poor nutrition contributes to delinquency, it was brought out.. It was stated that most towns the size of Lubbock have cafeterias in the public schools where children who are unable to buy health giving foods are served nourishing lunches.

Another need in Lubbock is adult leadership. Miss Rosemary Head, Girl Scout executive secretary, said Lubbock could have an enrollment of 1,000 Girl Scouts if leaders could be found for that many girls.

The audience included representative groups interested in children's welfare.

Nazi Master Lost Heavily In Africa

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cap Bon was not fated to be either a Dunkerque or a Bataan. For the remnants of the almost legendary Africa corps there obviously is to be neither an epic escape nor a fight to an heroic, tragic end. For the former the Axis had neither the seapower, command of the air nor the refusal to accept disaster that enabled Britain to withdraw her armies from the lost battlefield of France. For the latter its forces lacked the courage and the fortitude that enabled General Wainwright and his men to fight on for weeks against overwhelming odds after all hope was gone.

GLENN BABB

The last tatters of the proud army that Rommel led to the gates of Alexandria are swarming into American and British prison stockades. Of the few who attempt to escape by small craft across the Sicilian narrows it is not likely many will survive. The Italian fleet remains huddled in its ports. The Luftwaffe, terror of the skies three years ago, has retired to its Sicilian and continental bases to heal its wounds.

Likely Disappointed

Perhaps the end came so swiftly that the Nazi command was unable to carry out its resuce plans. There is strong evidence that Tunis and Bizerte were expected to holdout weeks, perhaps months, longer. But it is more likely that Hitler and Mussolini long ago decided that the Tunisian armies were simply to be expended for whatever time they might buy. It is likely that they are disappointed with what was purchased. Apparently the Axis chieftains chose not to hazard the air and naval forces which would have been needed to attempt an evacuation, especially when the chances were that all the warships, the planes and the men, would be lost to no purpose, in view of the tremendous Allied superiority on the sea and in the air.

Some few thousand soldier, high officers and technicians, probably were withdrawn to Italy before the end, but virtually all of the great armies with which the Axis for three years had sought for the mastery of Africa and the Middle East have been lost. Counting the native levies the Italians used in East Africa and the early Italian armies that melted away in the desert fighting, the total loss is not far short of 1,000,000 men.

Rommel Salvaged

But Rommel was saved. And his fuehrer apparently is trying also to salvage something of his reputation for future use. The desert fox, ailing, left Africa almost as soon as he had been chased into the Tunisian hills, according to Berlin's broadcast story, but will be given "a new task after complete recovery" of his health. That assignment may be the defense of Italy, or the Balkans.

The Allies stand now where Hitler stood after Dunkerque. There are some differences in their favor, such as command of the seas and growing superiority in the air, the lack of which were among the factors that made Hitler delay until it was too late. Others are to their disadvantage. Whereas Hitler was looking across some 20 miles of water toward a land which—although he did not know it then—was almost undefended, the Allies are faced by 100 miles or more of the Mediterranean beyond which lies a great fortress which has had six months or more to prepare its defenses.

It is a moment of tremendous decisions. The unnecessary loss of a few days may mean loss of golden opportunity. A great risk taken prematurely may bring tragic consequences. It is a reasonable assumption that the swift rush of events calls for consultations among the highest authorities of the United Nations, though it is possible only to speculate as to the time, place and form.

New decisions may be called for concerning the overall direction of the coming blows against Hitler's Europe, of which there may be several to be synchronized and coordinated. It is even possible that in the light of Joseph Stalin's recent declarations of admiration for and solidarity with his Allies something may be done to achieve a unity of strategic direction among the United States Britain and Russia such as hitherto has been possible only for the western Allies.

Weeds Grow In White House Victory Garden Like Anywhere Else

WASHINGTON, May 11 (U.P.)—Weeds grow just as fast in the White House Victory garden as elsewhere.

Diana Hopkins, 10-year-old daughter of Harry L. Hopkins, is the authority for that. She has a garden on the southeast lawn of the White House grounds.

"Farmer" Hopkins said that her planting is all done and she is hoping for a good harvest of radishes, carrots, beets, lima and string beans, tomatoes and cabbage.

Barring ruinous weather or other acts of God, Diana predicts that her produce will add substantially to the White House larder and will be a boon to the pantry at the executive mansion.

Diana lives at the White House with Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, where her father is the intimate adviser of President Roosevelt.

"Buy A WAR Bond TODAY"

Directive Issued On Wage Setup

WASHINGTON, May 11 (U.P.)—Economic Director James F. Byrnes today issued a directive to the War Labor board permitting an adjustment of wages paid by canners and other processors of seasonal and perishable food.

The directive, Byrnes' office said, was designed "to prevent loss of perishable foodstuffs which might have occurred if the food processing industries were unable to secure adequate supply of seasonal labor during the coming summer and fall."

Adjustments Limited

The directive limited the wage adjustments to correction of substandard wage conditions, the maintenance of intra-plant differentials and restoration of "the customary relationship between wages in the food processing industries and wages paid to labor engaged in agriculture."

A statement accompanying the directive said that the last category of adjustments was necessary because agricultural wages are uncontrolled and canneries and other food processing plants usually draw their seasonal labor from the same sources of supply as do the farmers.

Order Not Violated

Maintaining that the directive did not depart from President Roosevelt's hold-the-line executive order of April 8, the statement said it was necessary "to permit processing wages to rise to a point where the ordinary relationship with wage rates had been restored."

Under the directive, wage adjustments may not be made in excess of the minimum prevailing rates for unskilled labor customary in the particular area affected.

Lubbock Seismograph Crew Goes To Canada

A caravan of 10 vehicles, six of them making up two units of seismograph shot hole drilling rigs of R. B. Myles, left Lubbock Tuesday for Calgary, Province of Alberta, Canada. Twenty-five men, women, and children went along with the equipment from Lubbock. They spend five months in Canada while oil explorations are made for private enterprise there. The work will be similar to that conducted in Saskatchewan province last year by the Lubbock firm.

The five-months' contract is with the Imperial Oil Co. of Canada, a branch of the Carter Oil Co. of Tulsa.

In the party that left yesterday are Mr. and Mrs. Rufus B. Myles, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Scott L. Allen, two daughters, Jennie Bess and Carlene, and son, Wesley; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Owen Porter, and their son, Thomas Owen; Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Greer and son, Travis Murrel; Mr. and Mrs. Buck Baker, Alton L. Edwards, Ray De Witt Hudgens, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert C. Lowrey and Baby daughter, Faye Nell; and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mahon and three children.

The rigs are used for exploration purposes. A hole is drilled for only a few hundred feet or less, explosives are set off in its bottom, and over wires extending for several hundred yards in all directions, vibrations of the earth are recorded on the delicate seismograph instruments. Officials of the company say the scientific results are such as to eliminate a large percentage of the strictly wildcatting operations. The governments of the U. S. and Canada have asked for new test wells, but they want them drilled where there are definite indications of oil or where there is known to be oil.

The Myles company, which located here about three years ago in the Lubbock National building, has from 80 to 100 men on its payroll all the time. The 25 persons attached to the crew leaving illustrates the number of persons directly affected when 24 units are considered.

Intersectional Play Starts In Majors

Several Questions Due To Be Cleared Up In Near Future

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—The major leagues square off in their first set of intersectional games tomorrow—western National league teams playing in the East and eastern American league squads parading through the West—and the 12-day program should go a long way towards providing a true yardstick of both pennant races.

As yet, there has been no actual yardstick by which to measure the respective values of the two defending champions—the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals—since all clubs have not played each other. Now several points are due to be cleared up, the most important of which are:

1)—Whether the Dodgers are likely to dethrone the Cardinals this year or have merely been padding their averages on the Giants and Phillies, weak sisters of the circuit this year.

Indians Face Test

2)—Whether the first meetings between the Indians and Yankees will prove Lou Boudreau's Cleveland club a real contender or just a flash in the pan.

3)—Whether the loss of Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter has actually deflated the Cardinals' batting punch to a dangerous level.

4)—Whether the Senators' fine early showing is a true indicator of contending ability or just a feverish spring burst that will fade before the tough lads from the hinterlands.

The Yankees, who open at Chicago for three games and then stop off at St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland in that order, have a two-game lead after winning 13 of 18 games. Their brilliant early stand proved only that the Red Sox, who dropped seven or eight to the Bombers, are definitely out of the "threatening" class and that Ernie Bonham and Spud Chandler, both of whom have won three, will probably be the two best righthanders in their loop.

Dodgers Still Ahead

Brooklyn faces a real acid test in a 14-game home stand at Ebbets field against the corn-fed westerners, since the Dodgers' two-game edge in the National league is indicative of only how little competition the Braves, Phillies and Giants actually provided. The Dodgers have won 12 and lost six, a half dozen of their wins coming over the Phillies, four over the Giants and two over the Braves. Their first place berth may only be the result of cutthroat competition which has been prevelant among the runner-up Cardinals, Cubs and Pirates.

Particular attention will be focused on the four-game sets between the Yankees, Tigers and Indians. The Tigers, in third place, are in exceptionally exclusive company for a club that on paper looked barely good enough to finish sixth. They found an unexpectedly soft touch in the disappointing Browns, who contributed four decisions to the Detroit cause, but Manager Steve O'Neill has been getting good pitching from Rookie Stubby Overmire, Virgil Trucks and Dizzy Trout.

Living, Breathing Ball Players In Phil Suits Attract Big Crowds

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 11.—A rumor is circulating among the populace of Philadelphia that there now are two major league ball clubs in the city and apparently is creating about as much amazement as if the National league scrap heap at Shibe park had been found littered with unused ration books.

Sunday a curious crowd of 24,934 swept through the turnstiles to see personally whether it was true that living, breathing ball players are wearing Phillies' uniforms.

It was an unheard of turnout of Philadelphians at a National league game. In September of 1941, when the Brooklyn Dodgers were wallowing in the full tide of their fantastic popularity, a Sunday doubleheader between the Dodgers and Phils drew 35,905. But the pennant was fluttering on those games and thousands in that crowd went down from Booklyn, stormed the playing field seeking souvenirs and autographs, prevented batting practice, and created a commotion the sedate city of brotherly love will long remember.

Promise Is Sufficient

It was different last Sunday. There was no super attraction. In fact, to liven up a dull day with the New York Giants Bill Cox, the Phillies' new owner, passed out word in advance that he would pitch batting practice. As things turned out he had to forego this fun for a more remunerative pleasure—working in the ticket office, which was swamped by the unexpected crowd.

This pretty well shows how the reborn Phillies have captured the imagination of the home-town fans.

In Philadelphia just the promise of better ball has been sufficient to win the fans. The team still is a collection of castoffs and has been in last place in every one of its appearances at home. Yet in seven days in Shibe park this spring, it has brought out more than 50,000 customers while a year ago the club drew only 277,000 in the entire season.

Fans Like Newcomers

Our Philadelphia operatives say the fans are particularly pleased with Schoolboy Rowe, rookie Jack Kraus, the southpaw pitcher, and Babe Dahlgren as a shortstop. The backing of the paying customers naturally has encouraged the players as well as the management and the league as a whole.

It all may work out to give a happy ending to the Philadelphia story, which was a pathetic tale under the authorship of Gerry Nugent.

Up till now the trading record of Cox has been remarkable. He not only has proved he can go full speed forward, but also that he can do equally well in reverse. He has succeeded in getting three clubs, the Yankees, Dodgers and Reds, to take back players who were traded to the Phillies and who either refused to report or were unsatisfactory.

In baseball that's as historic as the Phillies' three-game winning streak.

ORIGINAL CELTICS CAGE STARS — Basketball fans who saw the Original Celtics play back in 1922-23 say it was the greatest team of all time. The boys started as a New York City community house club in 1916 and played together with few changes until 1928. Today's Foto-Flashback, ninth in a series of ten, shows the complete Original Celtics squad. Left to right are: Joe Lapchick, Chris Leonard, Dutch Dehnert, Pete Barry (originator of the team), Nat Holman, Johnny Whitty (team manager), Johnny Beckman and Eddie Burke.

Connie Mack Says Son Earle Will Pilot A's 'When And If—'

PHILADELPHIA, May 11 (AP)—Connie Mack confirmed today that his second son and heir apparent, former minor leaguer Earl Mack, will succeed him as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics "when I retire"—if ever.

The 80-year-old baseball dean, who never before had commented publicly on expectations that his assistant manager would inherit his throne, told reporters:

"Earle is going to be the next manager of the Athletics, if they ever had one, and he'll probably do a better job than his dad."

His comment, he said, does not mean that he is thinking of stepping down.

Discovered Dykes

Earle, 51, learned the game at Connie's knee and has been his father's understudy since 1924, when he joined the A's as assistant manager after 14 years as a player and manager in the Three-I and Blue Ridge leagues and the old Carolina association.

While managing in the minors he won four pennants and discovered—and sent to his dad—such stars as Cy Perkins, Fred Heimach and Jimmy Dykes.

Like Connie, he began playing on the sandlots of East Brookfield, Mass. Later he played during his one year at Niagara university. He transferred to Notre Dame for one more year of study but while there he confined himself to books.

Army Nines To Clash Again Here Sunday

After a week-end of inactivity brought on by inclement weather, the baseball teams of Lubbock Army Air field and South Plains Army Air field will resume their rivalry Sunday afternoon at Hubber park, LAAF athletic officials announced yesterday.

Both games of last Sunday's doubleheader which was rained out will be played this week, with the first, between the negro nines of the two posts, starting at 1 o'clock and the second at about 3:30 o'clock.

LAAF, anxious to break into the victory column after two successive losses to the hard-hitting South Plainsmen, was back at daily drills yesterday under the eye of Sgt. Sam West, team manager. The SPAAF team also held its first workout of the week yesterday.

SPAAF originally had scheduled a game with Goodfellow field of San Angelo here this weekend, but this battle has been postponed until a later date.

Tech Fencers Shine In Southwest Tourney

Paced by George Beakley, captain and acting coach, Texas Tech's fencing team fought its way to second place in the annual Southwest Fencing league tournament conducted over the week-end at Dallas, losing by a narrow 3-2 margin to the Dallas YMCA veterans in team competition.

The Raider fencers turned in the major surprise of the tourney when they trounced Texas university, Southwest conference titleholder and stout pre-tournament favorite.

Beakley nearly achieved the coveted "triple crown" of the meet when he took first places in sabre and epee (dueling sword) competition and third place in foil. It was the nearest any fencer has come to capturing all three titles in the tourney's history.

Tech's Arvis Hilton won third place in junior foil and fourth place in dueling sword competition, while Stewart Dismuke, Calvin Merchant and Tommy Fowlkes, other member of the Raider team, all won their way to the quarter-finals in dueling sword.

Teams in the meet were Texas university, Southern Methodist, NTAC, Dallas YMCA, North American Aircraft and Tech.

Westerners Fall Before 'Exes'

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Sports Writer

J. "Mule" Davis, coach of Lubbock High's football Westerners, was a most down-hearted fellow late yesterday afternoon—and he certainly had a right to be that way.

For he had just seen a team of "Exes," made up of senior gridders at the high school, run through and around and pass over his 1943 Westerner edition for an easy 37-0 triumph in the annual Westerner-Exes game at Chapman field.

After watching his lighter, and less experienced, prospects for next season absorb as sound a drubbing as was ever administered in one of the traditional battles, the big Lubbock High coach seemed at a loss to explain the unexpectedly hapless performance of the crew he has directed in spring training drills for the past month.

"Didn't Play Ball"

"We just didn't play ball," he said. "Maybe some of the boys had the 'jitters,' or something—it certainly looked that way. But I still can't understand the boys' poor tackling. We've worked on that for three weeks in spring training, yet we looked worse today than ever before. I only hope that this doesn't happen again next fall."

Davis' statement just about sums up the entire game played yesterday. Although the Exes, boasting an all-letterman starting lineup, ranked as definite pregame favorites, few observers expected them to win with such ease.

From the time stocky Wayne Odam took the opening kickoff and wound his way 95 yards through the entire 1943 Westerner team for a touchdown, the Exes had things their own way throughout the clash, with Odam, "Curly" Allison and Charles Land reeling off many substantial gains while the senior line was holding the Westerners to short, and infrequent, gains.

Lettermen Listed

Lettermen on the 1942 Westerner eleven received their jacket awards between halves of yesterday's contest. Those earning letters last year were: Ends Mel Johnson, Hubert Bechtol, Jim Joe Reiger and Lee Turner; Tackles Jerry McCauley, Ross Brock, Ken Pharr and Jim Strawn; Guards Tom Pirtle, Bob Brock and Bill Smith; Centers Jack Conley and Robert Riek; Backs Bob Brewer, Doug McCurry, J. R. Allison, Joe L. Thompson, J. A. Raley and Wayne Odam; Student Managers Brown and Leslie Morrison; Business Manager E. J. Lowrey and Coach Davis.

Giants May Take Holdout Novikoff Off Cub's Hands

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 11. — The Chicago Cubs open a three-game series with the New York Giants tomorrow as part of the western National league club's first invasion of the East, and these two lowest-placed clubs in the circuit are expected to solve part of their plight with a deal that will bring Lou Novikoff to the Polo grounds.

The "Mad Russian" has locked horns with General Manager James Gallagher of hte Cubs in one of baseball's most prolonged holdouts in years and, while he has offered to compromise with his boss, Novikoff announced he would much prefer to play for any other club.

Larruping Lou, who batted an even .300 last season while driving home 64 runs, first asked $10,000—almost double what he received in 1942. The Cubs countered with a raise of $500. Then Novikoff said he would play for less than $10,000—but not that much less. Now he is on the league's suspended list and must apply to President Ford Frick for permission to play again even if he does come to terms.

Giants Pay Price

Now, even though Gallagher has issued the obvious face-saving assertion that Novikoff would play for the Cubs or nobody, it would be exceptionally poor business not to trade Lou at this time—especially since the Giants, berthed uncomfortably in last place and facing their first cellar finish since 1915, will probably offer a nice bundle of cash or give the Cubs the pick of their roster with the exception of Mel Ott or Billy Jurges.

The Giants, who have lost 11 of 17 games and are just one game worse off than the Cubs, seem to have suffered from a general lack of front-office activity during the winter. While most clubs strengthened their lineups and plugged gaps caused by the draft, the Giants remained strangely inactive. Now they are paying the price of that inactivity with a team definitely facing a slot in the second division unless they swing a deal.

The last-minute snatch of Catcher Ernie Lombardi from the Boston Braves has not paid off yet, for the league's leading batter last year is not in condition and has failed to get a hit in 10 tries. Remember this, it is exceedingly difficult for Giants' Prexy Horace Stoneham to take a chance on Novikoff, another acquisition who would take some time to get in shape. But the Giants—whose true caliber was painfully indicated in Sunday's double loss to the Phillies—probably will continue to lose anyhow and thus Novikoff might prove a good risk.

"KEEP 'EM GROWING"

You see every day the slogan "Keep 'Em Flying!" To keep a plane flying you wouldn't put a few gallons of gasoline in and expect the plane to keep flying. There are poultrymen who feed their chicks a bag of chick starter and then expect the chicks to keep on growing. This is a mistaken idea. There are more pullets ruined from the 6th to 12th week than there are from the 1st to the 6th week. With our government asking for more poultry and eggs this year do not neglect those pullets. Shock, Versus Strain

NEWSPAPER readers are familiar with censorship practices in reporting air tragedies in the armed forces. A crash is reported, with the number killed and injured, and with the usual further notation: "Their names have been withheld until relatives can be notified."

Names usually are released without long delay. Certainly, officers at Lubbock and South Army Air fields are diligent in expediting the release of such information. Perhaps this is typical, although we imagine that LAAF and SPAAF are well above average in this, as in most other matters. But delays occur, sometimes of a day or longer, in releasing names.

No one can quarrel with purposes of the practice. One is to guard against mistakes that might result from undue haste in reporting the names of casualties. The more important purpose seeks to minimize, in some degree, the shock to families of the victims. The assumption is that the shock is less when the news is conveyed in an official telegram than if learned via press or radio. Unquestionably, the official message often does give the stronger members of a family an opportunity to try to break the news gently to those who should be protected against shock.

So the purposes are splendid. But do the practices achive their intended purposes? Do the practices create a worse situation than those they seek to guard against?

Consider what happens when announcement is made that a number of men, whose names are not reported, have been killed. Until the names are released, every member of every family of every man who might have been in the accident is going to be under terrifying strain. Every ring of the telephone, every approach by anyone who might bear a message, will strike terror into their hearts. Strain ,if repeated often, could be worse than shock. Therefore, the question arises as to whether this sort of strain for a great many people can be justified by the desire to soften the shock for a few people who, at best, are sure to be shocked terribly.

Some might suggest, as an answer to the problem, that all reports of crashes be withheld until all information can be released. Some high officials never would allow information of this kind to be made public if they had their way. But either of these practices would allow rumors to get in their demoralizing work. The present system is better than either.

We don't pretend to know what is best in such matters. But we do lean to the view that it might be less cruel to more people if the names of victims were announced more promptly.

Less Rationing In 1944

MUCH of the available factual evidence tends to support the prediction attributed the other day to Paul M. O'Leary, deputy OPA administrator in charge of rationing, that the next year will see less rationing rather than more.

One of the biggest reasons for rationing practices of the past and present has been the requirements of the armed forces. These requirements have included the building up of enormous reserves. It is an acknowledged fact that a large portion of these reserves have been accumulated much faster than anyone believed possible a year ago. When requirements for the armed forces become less, it naturally must follow that there should be more for others—including civilians — even when allowances are made for lend-lease and for manpower shifts that may be expected from food production to the munitions industries.

Thus, Mr. O'Leary didn't sound like he was talking through his hat. However, it still will be a good idea to watch your ration stamps carefully until something more definite than predictions takes place.

The One Minute Sermon

The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plentious in mercy.

He will not always chide: neither will he keeps his anger for ever.

He hath not dealt with us after our sins: nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him.—Psalms 103: 8 through 11.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE RACE HORSE AND THE JAPS

A race horse born on the last day of the year is a year old the day it is born. All race horses born during a year are classed as two-year-olds the following January first, so that a two day old horse is officially considered to be 2 years old.

The identical principal is applied to little Japs. They too are considered one year old the day they are born and acquire another year every New Year's day.

THE LEANING TOWER OF NEVIANSK, SIBERIA

The leaning tower rises over the former town prison of Neviansk. It was built late in the 19th century by a contractor who repeatedly protested his integrity, and claimed that he actually lost money in supplying the high class material that went into the building. While the building was being turned over to the Governor, the latter said "there she stands as straight and honest as the contractor who built her." At this moment there was a crash and the building started to lean away from the speaker as if the inanimate witness wanted to repudiate the testimony attributed to it.

Horse Prairie

By CLEM COLT

Chapter 19

Horse Prairie in the morning light lay shimmering in its dust and heat, rimmed and girded by its cliffs and canyons, cut and slashed by trails and gullies, with the great cloud-shadows sweeping its floor and dappling sun's gold with cobalt. Horse Prairie, whose tawny bosom had echoed the wild tremolos of a thousand tribes, whose canyons had damned the harsh crescendos of bandit guns and owlhoot laughter — whose creeks had run with men's hot blood, and were like to do so again by the sign.

On the railed veranda Sam Holeman had built sat Tubac Jones with his hat pulled over his eyes, a limp cigarette in his mouth corner. He was thinking — very briefly—of Peter, and of how last night it had taken three brimming buckets of horse-trough water to bring the man out of his vapors. And of how, when brought to, the Stampede foreman's teeth had chattered as he promised, if allowed to slope, his shadow never should darken Horse Prairie again. On that understanding Jones had let him go.

"An' good riddance!" he muttered, scowling. Then suddenly bent forward, Tubac peered across the wind-swayed grasses. "Hmmm! Now who is that comin'? Get rid o' one an' get stuck with another. Sure ain't Blackwater — don't ride like him nor ain't built the same. Hmmm. Comin' from town, but it ain't Ike Shallet—don't look like Jinx Mueller, neither. Now who in Tophet. . . . Could it be McGillis? Don't seem like he'd be pasearin' out here; an' yet— Well, Judas Priest!"

Jones jumped from the rocker with a startled curse, ducked into the house and came tearing out with an extra sixgun and a .50-70 rifle. There was no mistaking that gaunt figure now. He knew that loose-shackled rider like he knew the palm of his hand. Yonder rider was Augustine Chacon!

"Ah! Ah!" cried Chacon, reining up with a grin. "Did you remember me then, amigo, or were you looking for somebody else to ride by?"

With his rifle held ready in the crook of his arm Tubac scowled up at him bitterly. "The Great Chacon!" he said with a display of his teeth; but the Mexican was not offended. In his great Chihuahua hat and crossed cartridge belts he made an impressive figure as he lounged in the saddle smilingly twirling a corn husk cigarro. He guffawed jovially at Tubac's black scowl. "A-a-ai-he! You have the face of the mad dog, campadre. Is it that you bemoan those caballos you sold me?"

"It's the broncs you stole I'm thinkin' about an' that wad of bum money you handed me—a fine trick to play on a poor man! I thought you robbed only hidalgos?"

"That is true," Chacon nodded, and puffed a few smoke rings through which he eyed Tubac amusedly. "Only the rich and the arrogant—that the poor may have food for their bellies."

"Do I look like a rico?" snarled Tubac; and the Mexican roared with laughter.

"O-ho!" he chuckled. "Do I look like a captain of Rurales?"

"No!" Tubac flared, and spat in the dust. "You look like that lobo, Augustine Chacon, who would steal the pennies off a dead man's eyes and pay his just debts with fake money!"

"Enough!" grated Chacon, every hair of his mustachio bristling. "Do you call me a—"

"You bet your boots! A thief an' a swivel-eyed liar!"

"For less than that I have killed men, Gringo! Have a care with your words lest I—"

"Bah!" Tubac sneeerd. "You sure layed down your character when you passed me that bum money. Don't blow your chest up at me! You're nothin' but a ragtail robber—a thievin' ladrone—a two-bit bandido who would sell his best friend down the river!"

Chacon, dark with anger peeled back his lips and, swelling up like a chuckawalla, grabbed out his sixgun and cocked it; but Tubac laughed in his face.

"Go ahead!" he jeered. "You got the drop—what you waitin' on? Go on an' shoot, you pelado!"

Before matters could be carried any further a rattle of hoofs came pounding the ground and a wild-eyed, quirt-slinging rider came tearing around the harness shed corner and pulled up his horse in a cloud of red dust.

It was Winch Face, trail-smeared and dripping with sweat; and he shouted:

"By God — I've found Blackwater!"

Like a man stumbling out of a trance Tubac said, "What's that? You've found Blackwater? Where?"

"Stampede south line camp," Winch Face gasped. "They got him in a root cellar—leastways, I guess it's him? They've sure as hell got someone there!"

"Who is this Blackwater?' Chacon said, laying a hand on Jones' arm.

Tubac shook him off with an oath and started for his horse on the double. But Chacon came lumbering after him and as he shook out his rope the Mexican said, "Senor! This Blackwater—who is she?"

"Dadblast it! I told you! Blackwater Bill Webster—my partner! Can't you understand plain English?"

Chacon grunted under his breath, but he waited til Tubac had roped Calliope and was leading him out toward the kak-pole. Then he demanled, "What does she look like ,this Blackwater?"

"Go 'way!" Jones said, picking up his saddle. "Anyone that would pass a guy bum money—"

"Did I know this money was no good?" cried Chacon, scowling. "You think I take no-good money for job if I'm know it? Carajo! I weel cut that gringo's heart out an' stuff hees damn' toes in hees gullet!"

"Go along an' do it then," grunted Tubac indifferently; and suddenly let loose of the trunk strap he'd been jerking, to whirl and eye the steeple-hatted outlaw intently. "Here—just a minute," he muttered, "Did you say a gringo give you that money?" and Chacon ducked his head pronto.

"What gringo?"

"That Deckerman—"

"Deckerman!" Tubac cried; and Augustine Chacon bared his teeth in an ugly smile.

Univ. Of Texas Senior Wins Student Award

NEW YORK, May 11. (U.P.) — S. Y. Wong of San Antonio, a senior at the University of Texas, today received the A. McLaren White National Student Chemical Engineering award.

The award, presented annually by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, was won by Wong for his design of an industrial plant for manufacture of magnesium. Designs were submitted by college students in the United States and Canada.

Second and third prizes went, respectively, to Roger J. Runck of the University of Colorado, and Herman Taylor, jr., of the University of Texas.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE inside story of the intrigues that preceded the miners' return to the pits shows up Washington at its worst. It suggests that certain people are more concerned about winning political victories at home than in mobilizing our full resources for defeat of the Axis. Here is one of the most significant chapters in recent American history.

President Roosevelt amazed and affronted the National War Labor board when he handed settlement of the walkout problem to Harold L. Ickes, a lifelong liberal according to his lights and a man always friendly to workingmen. The William H. Davis agency, backed by Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, Harry Hopkins, Economic Stabilizer James F. Byrnes and NWLB Chairman Davis, spent Sunday, May 2, at the White House begging FDR to be tough. They urged him to denounce John Lewis as "Traitor No. 1" and to call out the troops to insure continued production of coal.

But previously another group had entered the scene, a school of moderation consisting of Ickes, Labor Secretary "Frances Perkins" and John R. Steelman, the federal conciliator. They had asked Mr. Roosevelt to make a speech that would leave the door open for a compromise. He had evidently listened to them, and the "get-hard gang" was dumfounded when he gave Ickes full charge of the situation. The delighted Steelman immediately phoned the Secretary of the Interior late Saturday night.

"Will you talk to John L. Lewis?" he asked.

"Sure," replied Ickes, "but will he talk to me?"

"Leave that to me," said Steelman. "I will get him down here if you will give him an audience."

DENIALS: Lewis and Ickes met at the Department of the Interior at 10 o'clock, with nobody else present. They talked the same kind of language and parted good friends. John L. left with the feeling that he had at least one advocate in an unfriendly court.

Although the White House agent gave no commitments during their three-hour conversation, he was quite sympathetic to the miners. He and Lewis arrived at what might be termed an "understanding." The UMW czar left this conference about 1 p. m., or nine hours before the President was to go on the air.

The question of an immediate strike was then a dead issue; John L. had told Ickes that he would call it off. The pledge had to be ratified by the policy committee then assembled in New York City, but that was a mere formality. The labor leader carries this group around in his vest pocket—as FDR does the cabinet—and White House spokesmen have branded him a dictator for that very reason.

So, according to the coal diggers, FDR must have known that his delegated representative, Ickes, had succeeded in postponing a walkout. In their opinion, it is inconveivable that Harold did not phone Steve Early between 1 and 10 o'clock on Sunday and explain John L.'s willingness to negotiate and compromise. That is why more than 500,000 workers resent the President's failure to mention the truce in his broadcast.

When the WLB-ers learned of the Lewis-Ickes confab, and the understanding that had been reached, they were furious. Operating through Davis, Hopkins and Frankfurter, they forced Ickes to call a special press conference on Monday. At that powwow he appeased the "get tough" faction by denying that he had made any promises to Lewis, and by saying that the wage phases of the controversy would have to be settled by the National War Labor board.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

GENERALS would not dare to proclaim an Allied invasion this summer had not the American and British navies already won a tremendous victory, which in any other war would have been one of the decisive features of the struggle. But since it was not climaxed by a Jutland, it escapes the public attention it deserves.

The elusive U-boat is still unfinished business. But the Axis surface fleets have been whittled down to where strategists say they can no longer perform the functions of a navy: They cannot keep open thir supply routes or be relied on to repel our landing barges.

Their failure invites a second front somewhere between Greece and Finland. And enemy merchant vessels have fared even worse than his men-of-war.

More than five million tons of German and Italian shipping have been sunk and three million more badly damaged. The Gneisenau, Scharnhorst, Prinz Eugen and other big naval craft have been frequently scarred by shellfire and bombs in their hide-aways.

Our antagonists started the conflict with far fewer combat units than did the United Nations and have made only slight replacements. Yet from their small hoardings they have lost more than 200 warships, not including those destroyed by the Russians in the Baltic.

WATCHDOGS: The decline in Axis marine strength will throw out of balance any task force Hitler may desire to send forth. For example, Admiral Doenitz hasn't enough destroyers to screen his capital ships. A similar scarcity of escorts has kept Mussolini's dreadnoughts at their moorings—an extremely important factor in the North African affair. Only a desperate gamble is likely to bring them into action.

As Berlin-Rome armadas are depleted the Allied blockade grows tighter. British squadrons off Morocco have captured or sunk freighters carrying vegetable oils to Germany by way of Vichy-France. The clearing of the Bay of Biscay has checked a limited traffic in vital commodities between that region and Japan. Several speedy blockade runners have already been sent to the bottom. Concentration of battle cruisers in this zone makes trips too risky for Reich surface raiders and guardians of lone merchantment bound for Nippon.

Steady wastage of Nazi and Fascist warships helps us in our submarine campaign. Anglo-American battlewagons and cruisers, former watchdogs of enemy craft secluded in harbors, can now be released to protect convoys and to track down pigboats. Since greatly increased battle fleet construction is no longer necessary to offset Axis counterparts, certain English shipyards facilities have been diverted to anti-sub types.

REVOLUTION: GHQ believes the Reich will hold out at least until 1944. However, one of the highest ranking officers on the retired list of our armed services, who held a top position in the first World war and who before 1939 had associated with famous European militarists, tones down this estimate. He predicts that Berlin will quit in September.

"Germans are realists now as in 1918," he argues. "If by late summer they find that they are not winning their drive against the Soviet, they will sue for peace. They realize that, no matter what Stalin promises today about sparing the Fatherland, if the Nazi army is thrashed he will utterly destroy Germany so that she cannot menace Russia again in half a century.

"The Boches will reason that if they cannot defeat the Reds this year, they will be less likely to triumph next summer or the year following—especially as Anglo-American blows will increase. So while they still have some manpower left they will throw themselves on the mercy of Roosevelt and Churchill."

England will accept an unconditional surrender because she does not wish to see her continental neighbor completely annihilated—she wants to trade with her after the war—and we shall agree so we can turn on Japan.

"Hitler and his Nazi party will fall. Previously no revolt has succeeded against them because the Brown Shirts had machine guns to fire on the people. But when the Wehrmacht is forced to retreat this September, its soldiers will retain their arms and employ them against Hitler's government, following the pattern of the Czar's troops who used, Muscovite disasters for launching the Bolshevist revolution."

Texans In Washington

Plainview Editor Recalls Soldiering With McNair

By L. T. EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 11. (AP) — Lieut. Gen. Leslie J. McNair, chief of the ground forces who was wounded seriously in North African fighting, served in Texas immediately before going overseas with Gen. John J. Pershing in the first World war.

The high regard which Texas boys under him held for General —then captain—McNair was evidenced by their presentation to him—in rapid succession—of sets of gold leaves, silver leaves and silver eagles, upon speedy promotions to major, lieutenant colonel and colonel, respectively.

Son Wears Eagles

A token of his own affection for those Texans whom he had commanded came to light when his son last December reached the rank of colonel. Mrs. Leslie J. McNair, the general's wife, pinned on her son's shoulder at that time the same silver eagles which had been presented to her husband by the Texans a quarter century earlier.

And now, appropriately enough, Col. Douglas C. Nanair, the son, is serving in Texas. He is stationed at Camp Hood, near Temple.

THIS story is told by H. S. Hilburn, publisher of the Plainview Herald, who talked with Mrs. McNair here recently and learned that the silver eagles had been handed down to the general's son. Hilburn was one of the Texans who had served under the elder McNair.

As set forth by Hilburn, these are the facts. Early in 1917 Capt. Leslie J. McNair commanded a company in the first officers' training camp at Leon Springs, near San Antonio. General Pershing had him relieved of that duty to accompany him overseas and McNair was promoted to a major. The Texas boys who had been under him presented Mrs. McNair with a set of mapor's leaves. These leaves were acknowledged by "Lieutenant Colonel" McNair, who had again been promoted. Then silver leaves for that rank were sent, but McNair acknowledged them as a "full" colonel.

By this time the original outfit in the officers' camp had broken up, but a few from the old company, including Hilburn and Dan Leeper, a Denison man who was awarded the DSC posthumously for valor in the Argonne Forest with the Texas-Oklahoma 90th division, got together and bought a set of colonel's silver eagles for their former commander.

MODEST: Herbert S. Hilburn, above, editor and publisher of the Plainview Evening Herald, tells in an interview in the accompanying article of his World War I contacts with Lt. Gen. Leslie MacNair. But what Mr. Hilburn forgort to mention was that his own record as an Army captain was one of the brightest in the history of the first A.E.F. Decorated with "practically every kind of a medal ever struck," Mr. Hilburn's example of personal courage and bravery were outstanding. A former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the Plainview editor is a brother of M. B. Hilburn, of Lubbock.

Texan Seeks Kangaroo

The experiences of a Texas boy with the 6th Army in Australia are set forth in a letter received in the office of Representative Richard Kleberg of Corpus Christi.

The author of the letter was Master Sergeant Lee Lundell of Corpus Christi and Taylor, who had served as a secretary for Kleberg.

Incidentally, it was written on the night of April 23, sent by airmail and arrived here in the morning mail delivery, April 30.

HALF & HALF PEDIGREED SEED FROM SEED FARM NEAR VERNON, CERESAN TREATED, GERMINATION 94%
This is the thin rind, light burr, high linting, early strain of Half & Half kept pure by a prominent seed grower who commenced working with Half & Half when its originators switched to Hybred.
An average of 1,600 pounds of snapped cotton made 500 pound bales. It is not unusual to get a strict middling 500-pound bale from 1,500 pounds of snaps.
This is short cotton 13/16 and ⅞ inch staple but it went in the Government Loan at better prices than staple cotton because it made higher grades.
Recleaned and graded fuzzy seed in new 3 bushel cotton bags at $6.60 per bag.
Kemgas treated-tested seed at $11 per 100 pounds.

Ten 'Mankind United' Members Convicted

LOS ANGELES, May 11 (U.P.)—Penitentiary sentences today awaited ten members of "Mankind United," and two others paid $1,000 fines on conviction of sedition.

Arthur L. Bell of San Francisco, "the voice" of the organization, and five other members were sentenced to five year terms in federal penitentiary by Federal Judge Leon Yankwich late yesterday. Three other defendants received three year terms, another was given a one-year term and two women defendants were fined.

Witnesses had testified that leaders of Mankind United had defrauded followers of more than $300,000, urged them to forget Pearl Harbor, to disregard Selective Service regulations, and to refuse to purchase war bonds.

head had subsided somewhat Monday, indicating, he said, that the Russian command "intends shifting the center of its attacks again'. There then followed conjecture as to where the next blow might fall.

Attacks Beaten Back

The Russians reported in the midnight bulletin that the Germans on the Leningrad front after a heavy artillery shelling tried to reconnoitre the Soviet positions. "Two German attacks were beaten off by our units," the communique said. "The enemy lost about 700 officers and men in killed alone."

On the Kalinin front between Leningrad and Moscow Soviet patrols attacked a German garrison, blew up eight Nazi blockhouses and destroyed German guns. More than two score Germans were reported killed here. Similar activity was reported in the Lisichansk and Rostov regions.

Plane Production

can be built from the materials going into a single big bomber.

The 1942 production amounted to 49,000 planes. By the weight method of comparison, this year's output will more than triple 1942's although the number of planes is not expected to be three times last year's.

Mr. Roosevelt explained that stress now is being placed on producing relatively more multiple-engined bombers, long range fighters and cargo planes so that we can go on the offensive.

At first, he said, production emphasized lighter bombers, dive bombers, and fighter planes needed for defense.

The chief executive also disclosed that he had asked the Navy and the shipping administration to work out some uniform method of describing ship tonnage so there would be less controversy.

ington in time to participate.

To Be Kept Advised

It was considered altogether likely, in any case, that he and Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek would be kept advised of the meeting as was the case when the American and British war leaders met at Casablanca last January.

At Casablanca the President and Prime Minister charted plans for invading Europe, they announced and determined to force "unconditional surrender" on the Axis. The current parley was expected to solidify their determination on that point, and at least indirectly, answer peace felers which had been emanating from Spain.

Ever since the final rout of the Axis forces in North Africa began, speculation has been wide spread about the next Allied step. Possible invasion points have been mentioned all the way from Norway down through Holland, Belgium, France, Italy and around the Mediterranean to Greece.

Several times the American President has promised that there will be an invasion or invasions.

No Time Mentioned

He has spoken of them coming this year, but has omitted any reference to a specific time element. Whether it will be necessary for Allied forces to regroup themselves and obtain replacements in men and material after the African campaign remains to be seen.

Even if they were unavailable for any immediate attempt to crack the European fortress on the continent it is known that tremendous concentrations of arms and men have been built up by the United States and the British in Britain itself.

There were signs that Churchill's trip to Washington was arranged somewhat hurriedly since, in contrast with the volume of rumors that preceded his previous journeys to America, there was a minimum of speculation this time.

The White House did not reveal the membership of the Prime Minister's staff. Presumably if the names became known it might serve as a tip-off on the next major theater of Allied operations.

To Bring Leaders In

It was assumed that Mr. Roosevelt would bring in to the consultations General George C. Marshall, chief of the Army; General H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air forces; Admiral William D. Leahy, personal chief of staff to the President; and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet.

The Roosevelt-Churchill meetings have, in the past, come in times of crisis and important decisions have resulted from them. They met first on warships in the North Atlantic in August 1941, and promulgated the Atlantic Charter. Churchill came here the following December, immediately after this country was drawn into the conflict, and again last June, and the original invasion of North Africa was one result of these two parleys.

The last get together of the two top men in the English-speaking Allied nations was at Casablanca last January.

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, May 11 (AP) — Heavy selling on the part of traders who were in a position to take profits just before the close today, converted early gains of as much as ⅞ cents in wheat into losses of more than a cent.
The early upturn was associated with the bullish interpretation placed on the government crop report issued after the close yesterday, but grain men said more favorable conditions since the compilation of the report led to the belief that the winter wheat crop might be increased by several million bushels over the May estimate.
Wheat closed ⅞ to 1¼ cent under Monday's final quotations, May $1.43½; July $1.42¼-½, Sept. $1.42¾-¾; corn was unchanged at ceilings; oats were ⅛ to 1¼ down and rye lost ⅝ to 1 cent.

Tax Rate Slashed

budget.

The tax rate this year was agreed upon as members of the commission set Thursday, May 27, at 1:30 p.m., as the time for a public hearing on the proposed budget. This is a legally required procedure. After the hearing, the commission then may proceed with the formal adoption of the budget. Then, after 15 days, the new tax rates may be set officially. This procedure is required, too. Collections under the new rate will not be started until Oct. 1.

Meets Requirements Only

In line with war-time policies of economy, the commission agreed upon a rate to produce only the revenue required to meet interest and sinking fund requirements on outstanding bonds and warrants.

These payments during the coming year will amount to about $260,000. The city's estimated share of the estimated revenue, on the basis of the $32,000,000 valuation, would be $256,000. Actually, valuations probably will be somewhat more than $32,000,000, so the expectation is that the tax rate will produce almost exactly enough to meet bond payments, including interest.

On the basis of the estimated valuation, the BCD will receive approximately $16,000.

All of the remaining operaitng expenses of the city will come out of profits from the city electric and water departments.

Officials estimate that these profits will be enough to pay the operating expenses, which show an increase, and to provide for capital investment and permanent improvements during the year.

In the matter of capital investments and permanent improvements, officials recognized in setting up the budget that much of this nature cannot be done during the year because of war conditions. For example, provision is made for an overhead water storage tank costing about $60,000 which is needed urgently.

If this can be provided during the year, it will be. If not, the money will be available to provide the improvement as soon as it is obtainable.

In the case of this and a great many other needed improvements, the money will be on hand when it can be used. This precaution, officials believe, will guard against the necessity of a large increase in the tax rate, or of a bond issue, to buy the things that must be supplied when they can be obtained.

The budget estimates that total revenue to the city during the year will be approximately $1,100,000. Of this, $480,000 is expected to come from the electric plant, as compared with $486,616 last year; $340,000 from the water department, compared with $321,526; and $101,855 from miscellaneous sources, compared with $109,796.

Estimated expenditures total approximately $1,066,175. The principal items, compared with those of last year, include:

General departments, $432,478 this year and $376,648 last year; electric plant, $165,602 this year and $184,825 last year; water department, $85,750 this year and $72,579 last year; and equipment, $180,000 this year and $108,461 last year. The increase in the cost of operating general departments is attributed almost entirely to rising war prices.

Among general departments, $86,490 is set aside for police, $53,383 for the fire department, $124,169 for health and sanitation, $40,645 for streets and highways, and $46,821 for general administration.

Figures for these same departments last year were: police, $71,480; fire, $44,001; health and sanitation, $103,759; streets and highways, $37,867; and general administration, $55,882.

The proposed budget was filed with Miss Williams as city secretary, and is available for inspection by any property owner, officials announced.

Ten Miners Die When Trapped By Explosion

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 11 (AP)—Trapped more than a mile underground by a gas explosion, 10 coal miners were killed today at the Praco No. 10 shaft of the Alabama By-Products Corp., about 20 miles west of Birmingham.

Twelve others in the shaft escaped, but five were burned and required hospitalization. Three of these were in serious condition.

P. H. Neal, manager of the coke and by-products department for the company, said a small pocket of gas near the bottom of the shaft apparently was ignited by a spark from a coal cutting machine.

The dead:

Cleve Walker, Fred Blackston, Lovell Cook, Raymond Kemp, Francis Dill, John Files, Henry Merritt, Mack Feltman, F. E. Wood and Henry B. Beacham.

Rescue crews were seeking the bodies.

also reported continued clashes of Allied and enemy ground patrols in the vicinity of Mubo, 12 miles south of Salamaua, New Guinea. The clashes occurred in the Greens Hill area where they previously had thrown back a counter attack by the Japanese.

In the air, Allied planes were active over New Guinea.

A big bomber strafed enemy surface craft in the harbor at Alexishafen.

Near Lae, on the Huon Gulf, attack planes bombed and strafed Labu Lagoon where the Japanese often try to conceal their supply barges.

Big bombers swung across crescent-shaped New Britain to the northern tip where they raided Vunakanau airdrome before dawn. Fires were started which were visible for 60 miles. Many small fires in the dispersal area indicated burning enemy aircraft. This raid was made in the face of adverse weather conditions.

At Arawe, New Britain, a big bomber bombed and strafed the building area. The Cape Gloucester airdrome also was attacked.

Smaller furnished houses and apartments particularly are desired he said. Sgt. Smith suggested that many householders might work out a convenient arrangement in their homes, thus sharing living space and providing additional revenue for themselves. Salvage officials are asking everyone to put aside all tin cans. B. Sherrod, chairman for the county is arranging at least four depots for the collecting of cans. Wash all cans clean, then mash them flat. Remove the bottoms and tops completely. If it is not possible to remove the ends, save cans anyway, mashing them as flat as possible. Railroads will not accept a car of less than 30,000 pounds for shipment, hence the process of flattening the cans is to save shipping space.

Dr. J. W. Rollo, Lubbock city health officer, has sounded a warning to dog owners that rabies are prevalent in West Texas, and asks that all canines in the city be vaccinated against this dread disease. So far, there has not been a mad dog scare in Lubbock. A few persons residing on the South Plains have been to Lubbock for the Pasteur treatment, having been bitten elsewhere. The city's dog catcher has the power to pick up and confine any dog not wearing a tag showing it has been immunized against rabies. The city does not license dogs and issue tags except where the animal has in each instance been vaccinated against rabies.

Trapped Germans Killed On Barges

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. ARMY IN TUNISIA, May 10 (Delayed) — Nazi barges pulling out of a harbor in the Bizerte area were utterly smashed today by artillery and tanks of an armored column.

There was no time to call for an air bombing mission when the armored column commander reported the meager evacuation attempt by the trapped Germans.

Barrage Sinks Barges

"Sink them," was the cryptic order that came back from headquarters. A barrage was laid down and a few minutes later, headquarters got this laconic reply by radio:

"Mission accomplished."

The Germans tried several such efforts to flee.

The mountain slopes, the wheat and barley fields of this region still are littered with burned tanks, scout cars, kitchen trucks, motorcycles and command cars—relics of a ruined army.

Supplies Are Sacrificed

Most destruction of German military equipment was wrought before terms of the surrender went into effect forbidding further sabotage. Soldiers commented that few Nazis surrendered with useable supplies or stores. Even medical instruments and drugs were being sacrificed to flames.

American engineers, touring the great Mediterranean seaport of Bizerte in which suicidal snipers and machinegunners fighting a delaying action had been ruthlessly destroyed in street fighting by French and American infantry, were stunned into silence by the destruction along the waterfront by months of concentrated Allied bombing.

Like World Fair Site

"It looks like the World fair site a year after the fair was over," one observer said.

As the listing of prisoners continued, it was disclosed that at least six German generals had been bagged. These were:

Lieut. Gen. Karl Bulovois, commander of the Mannteufel division; Major Gen. Von Vaerst, infantry general and leader of the fifth panzer army, who was the highest ranking prisoner; Major Gen. Curt Bassenge, commander of the air force in the Bizerte area; Major Gen. Fritz Krause, artillery commander; Major Gen. Willibald Boroweitz, leader of the 15th tank division; and Major Gen. George Heuffer, who bossed the Nazi antiaircraft units which could not stop the Allied air assault.

American Soldiers Feted

Relaxing after the victory in one of the most quiet days since the North African landing, American soldiers were feted in Ferryville and other north Tunisian towns liberated from Nazi rule by their rapid advance.

In addition to congratulatory messages from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander, and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, land chief, Major Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the second corps, received this message from Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson, commander of the British First army:

"Well done. Please give my warmest congratulations to divisional commanders and all ranks on the splendid finish to three weeks of hard unceasing fighting during which the second corps have grown to full statue as a magnificent fighting machine. I am proud to have had your corps cooperate so intimately with the First army. You have fought with us so closely and so often, both on large and small scale, since we landed in Africa six months ago, that we all regard you as beyond an integral part of the First army, and certainly at least, as blood brothers.

"I only hope you reciprocate our feelings and that the ties between us will grow stronger."

To build a giant aircraft carrier it takes 266,000 war bonds of $100 maturity value.

South Plains Notes

BOND QUOTA DOUBLED

PLAINS—Yoakum county purchased $42,468, double its war bond quota of $21,000. Efforts are being made to stage an old-time auction sale in Plains. A petition is in circulation asking the county commissioners to have the courtyard cleaned up.

SEED IS DISTRIBUTED

DIMMITT—Castro county has sold $43,581.25 worth of war bonds and had only $6,418.75 to sell in order to make its quota at the last report. About 800 pounds of the (tapioca) waxy starch sorghum grain seed has been distributed among Castro farmers who will grow the crop.

MATADOR NOTES

MATADOR — A two-motored Army plane made a crash landing on its belly against freshly plowed rows in a nearby field, with no harm to the crew and small damage to the plane. Two automobiles were stolen the same night, and a youth from New Jersey was locked in the county jail.

EGG PRODUCTION

AMHERST—Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Dickson have gathered 31,605 eggs from 470 Austra-white hens in the last five months, the money income being $915.25, with a net profit of $119.47 a month for the five months, their books show. County commissioners bought $6,000 worth of war bonds.

COURTHOUSE IMPROVEMENTS

ANTON—Hockley county commissioners are accepting bids for equipping the courthouse with Venetian blinds. Tot Allen has a perfect stand of cotton on 25 acres, planted April 15. H. J. Butler, county chairman for the recent war bond drive, reports the county's quota of $206,000 is oversubscribed about $1,000.

SCHOLASTICS DECLINE

CROSBYTON — The 1943 scholastic census in Crosby county reveals a loss of 104 scholastics, Crosbyton and Lorenzo both losing a few. Crosby county's war bond drive for $246,000 was oversubscribed by $34,000. Dailey Bros.' circus was billed here for May 12. Until the rain last weekend, Crosbyton had recorded 1.69 inches of moisure since Jan. 1.

Texan Blames Cost-Plus Plan

WASHINGTON, May 11. (AP)—J. E. McDonald, Texas' commissioner of agriculture, declared today the government's policy of awarding war contracts on a cost-plus basis was responsible for inflation.

"Awarding of government contracts on a cost-plus basis provided the springbroad for the inflation which is unjustly being laid on the doorstep of the farmer, the miner, the manufacturer and others using practical econmies and business prineiples," he said in a statement.

The Texas official, chairman of the National Farm committee, asserted bureaucrats to whom the awarding of contracts has been entrusted justify their actions by saying the emergency demanded speedy production regardless of cost.

McDonald contended that high industrial wages had forced the farmer to pay more for his labor, with the consequent result that he in turn must receive more for his crops if adequate production is to be assured.

"Have had quite a bit of fun and also a little trouble with their dinero. Australian money follows the English system of pound, shilling and pence, but its value is about 20 per cent less than the English currency in terms of American dollars. An Australian pound contains 20 shilling, or 10 florings, and each shilling contains 12 pence or pennies. Used to go buy something and then stick a handful of dough in the clerk's face and tell him to help himself. Can make change with the best of them now, however, and am thinking seriously of running for treasurer. The quickest way to learn how to master their monetary setup is by playing poker. In that respect, thereis no shortage of teachers?

Traffic "Mixed Up"

"Oh, yes, over here everyone walks on the left hand side of the street (drive too) and all the automobiles have their steering wheels on the right hand side.

Nearly got killed the first time I went to town by crossing the streets and looking the wrong way for approaching traffic. It was really funny going down the walk on the right hand side and pumping into everybody. Doesn't take long to get on to things, however, for which we are thankful."
