Miller Seeking More Incentive To Raise Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller is calling the plays for an economic policy he hopes will help beat inflation by giving businesses more incentive to raise capital.

Miller wants the government to speed up the rate at which businesses write off capital expenditures "to give them every incentive to modernize their facilities and expand their production capacity."

The modernization, he said Tuesday night, would lead ultimately to more products made more efficiently. And, as the theory goes, that would temper rapid price increases.

Miller suggested that Congress begin studying such a plan now "so that in 1980 we can put in place this powerful policy weapon of investment to bring us back in the next growth pattern."

Not only did Miller explain his plan to a dinner gathering of the Advertising Council. He illustrated it, ad-man fashion.

At the close of the speech, the usually reserved central banker laughingly presented his hosts with red and yellow footballs, each inscribed with the numbers 1, 5 and 10.

"You now have the ball," he told them. "I hope you will run with it." The council sponsors public service ads on topics from Savings Bonds to forest fires.

Complaint Lists 7 Oil Companies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Energy Department today accused seven major oil companies of overcharging their customers $1.7 billion for crude oil over the past six years, in what could be the biggest such case ever between the government and the oil industry.

The department, in an administrative complaint, said the companies on paper illegally converted lower priced categories of oil into higher priced categories.

This was done mainly by improperly redrawing the boundaries of their oil-producing properties and by counting some wells that should not have been included.

Accused in the complaint were Texaco Inc., Standard Oil Co. of California, Standard Oil Co. Ohio, Standard Oil Co. Indiana, Marathon Oil Co., Gulf Oil Corp. and Atlantic Richfield Co.

The complaint alleges the companies violated federal regulations to obtain higher prices, and demands they refund the $1.7 billion to customers or, if they cannot be located, to the U.S. Treasury.

If the new charges are upheld, the government could seek penalties later that might increase the cost to the companies to as much as $2.4 billion, the department said.

Texaco is accused of half the alleged overcharges, totaling $888.3 million.

SHS 1-Act Play Cast, Crew Head For Austin

The cast and crew of "Macbeth," Snyder High School's one act play, will leave Thursday morning to attend state competition in Austin.

The SHS drama department has seen its one-act play go to Austin five years in a row.

The competition begins Friday in Hogg Auditorium, said Jerry Worsham, high school drama teacher and 10-time director of state-winning plays.

Of the eight Class 3-A plays to be put on Friday, Snyder will be the seventh, and presentation of "Macbeth" will begin about 9 p.m.

For Snyderites, "Macbeth" will be presented May 18 in Snyder High School Auditorium. The production begins about 7:30 p.m. and lasts about one hour.

On the state level, Snyder will be competing against Paris, Austin West Lake, Gregory-Portland, Brownwood, Wichita Falls Herschi, Daingerfield, and Brazosport. The judge will be Dr. Randall J. Buchanan of Beaumont.

"We've worked as hard as you can on it," said Worsham. "The kids have worked very hard, and I feel very good about what we're taking down there. I think we'll represent Snyder very well."

Crew members are Becky Pierce, Todd Fritz, and Nettie Moss. Alternates are Laurie Allen, Michelle Penrod, and Nicci Fox.

Mike Greenfield, president of the SHS National Honor Society unit, was master of ceremonies for the induction ceremonies, and Melinda Masters, vice president, presented the new members. Ration Backers Still Hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers of President Carter's standby plan for gasoline rationing say they have a fighting chance of seeing it enacted, despite the fence-straddling vote of a key House panel.

"We'll try. It will be a hard fight," said Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., the plan's leading House supporter.

The House Commerce Committee voted 21-20 Tuesday to send the plan to the floor, without a recommendation of approval or rejection.

Dingell said the plan would come before the full House for a final vote sometime within the next few days. A Senate vote is expected Thursday.

The Senate was taking up today a related standby administration energy conservation plan, one setting mandatory thermostat controls for public buildings.

Meanwhile, a group of House liberals was prepared to move today in the Commerce Committee to try to block the president's decision to lift price controls on oil beginning June 1.

Basin Wax Blaze Halts Operations

Operations have been shut down at the Basin Wax plant north of Snyder following a major fire that swept through the facility early this morning.

Plant manager William Powell estimated the damage to be approximately $150,000 to $250,000, and said the plant would probably remain shut down four to six months.

"I assume it'll take a month to clean up the debris," said Powell.

The fire swept through the boiler house and plant this morning and was called in to the city fire department about 2:10 a.m. Three fire units were dispatched to the scene and remained there about two hours, said Fire Chief Alfred Kohl.

Neither Kohl nor Powell would comment on the possible cause of the blaze.

The fire, said Powell, was parafin and gas based, "but the biggest part of it was natural gas."

No injuries were reported.

Q—Why do the public records published in the newspaper not include county and JP court records?

A—Only civil court cases in district court are included—criminal court cases are reported in regular news stories. The JP court is not a court of record, and most county court cases fall into the misdemeanor criminal category and are reported elsewhere in stories.

whose windfall profit?

The price of most everything we use today has been hiked by inflation. As the value of the dollar has steadily declined and can buy less and less, people seem to accept the price increases generally without expressing the thought that they are being ripped-off by any particular segment of business.

There are two notable exceptions: when the subjects of gasoline or energy utilities arise, the industries concerned are usually villified for a public rip-off. Of the two, the price of gasoline will bring forth the quickest vehement retort.

Even though the domestic source of oil brings far less than imported crude, if a statement is forthcoming concerning our dependence on the OPEC nations, it is usually in the context that our own oil firms are taking advantage of the higher world price to gain great profit.

There have been plenty of stories which have put the whole situation in proper perspective, but these have fallen victim to headlines featuring the utterances of politicians and public officials who seek to mislead by pointing to an easily accepted target.

Far too many people will accept the political drive without question, even though it would be easy for them to check just how the oil industry's profit compare with all others. Complete stock market information is carried in many newspapers and the dividends (profit) paid the owners (stock investors) can be determined at any time. The price-earning ratio is also usually shown in the listings and any brokerage firm will supply additional information.

President Carter only added to misconceptions when he had his little chat with the American people via television. He precondemned the oil industry on the basis of what it might do if regulations were lifted. He was beating the drums for pressure on Congress to pass what the termed "windfall profits" to his pet projects and deny them to the industry for use in developing domestic resources.

The Associated Press, in a story published the same week of Carter's speech, revealed that if any segment of our society is reaping "windfall profits' it is calculated that government received 20 percent or 14.4 cents per gallon while the oil industry's profit was 3 percent or 2.16 cents per gallon. The cost of crude oil took 45 percent or 32.4 cents with most of this going to foreign sources.

The rest of the 72-cent price went to retail dealers at 9.36 cents while refining marketing, storage, and transportation costs took up the balance of 13.68 cents.

Now just who is getting the "windfall profits" with 20 percent going to the government in taxes and 3 percent in profit to the industry? As we listened to our president, the picture of a small boy with pockets stuffed with cookies, blaming a neighbor boy for an empty cookie jar kept coming in mind.

National organizations campaigning for the right of all women to choose to have a legal abortion have quietly abandoned their attack on the Roman Catholic Church.

The National Abortion Rights Action League no longer includes in its direct-mail fund-raising appeals a leaflet that carries the headline "Who finances the anti-abortion movement?" and answers that question with a list of donations from more than 100 Roman Catholic dioceses and archdioceses around the country.

The National Organization for Women has discontinued its mailings criticizing the "reactionary coalition" bankrolled by the "well-funded efforts of the Roman Catholic hierarchy."

The reason: Officials of the "pro-choice" groups reluctantly acknowledge that direct criticism of the world's wealthiest and best organized religious institution was counterproductive.

at wits end

I really get ticked off at all this flap over the '40s being nostalgic.

How can they be nostalgic when I remember them?

As for the fashions of the '40' coming back, if I were asked to pick an era of clothes to bring back, the '40s would be my LAST choice.

We all dressed like we were going to a war. Our jackets looked like they hung from curtain rods, our skirts were pencil slim, and our shoes reflected our shortage of leather and good sense. Not necessarily in that order.

If there is anything I must protest, it is the resurrection of the hat. Some fashions are better off left buried. They make as much sense as Bette Midler when she appeared at an Emmy ceremony wearing a 45 r.p.m. tacked to the side of her head.

For those of you who never endured a Millinery age, allow me to fill you in.

The choice of hats of the 40s narrowed down to (a) pillbox, (b) pillbox with a veil. The (a) pillbox defied gravity and was attached to the back of your head by a large hatpin which hooked into your scalp. Any hair left under it turned brown and died.

The hat matched your gloves, purse and shoes. If it didn't your mother made you go back into the house and change.

The (b) pillbox with a veil set yet another tone. If you had good skin, the veil covered it. If you had a bad skin, the veil called attention to it.

The veil was not conducive to sneezing, smiling, scratching, yawning, talking, kissing or picking something out of your teeth with your tongue. The least movement set it off. Once when I took a deep breath of boredom, I nearly inhaled my hat.

The hat is not in the interests of most women. Most of us need all the help from hair we can get. I only remember one instance when I was wearing my pillbox that I got a whistle from anyone. A tall, dark Marine whistled at me and asked me to store his bag. He thought I was a bellhop.

That's really all I can remember about the '40s. After all, I was only a toddler at the time.

To The Daily News:

I would like to say a very special "thank you" to everyone who helped make the Hermleigh Community bazaar, bake sale and garage sale a success.

We were certainly appreciative of all who donated items for the sale, all who worked long and hard at the sale, as well as those who came to buy.

It takes hours and hours of work to have a sale as the one we had Saturday. Many times such community projects as this are left up to one, two, or three people, but not so with this sale. We had volunteers who came at 9 a.m. to work an hour and a half and stayed all day. At the end of the day when everyone was tired, there were two dozen or more who stayed to clean up and pack the "left-overs."

The Hermleigh Community Improvement Program got underway last fall with the purchase of a fire truck for our community. A fire chief was selected and volunteer firemen program was organized. A communication system was purchased. The fire truck and communication system have been paid for by donations from members and friends of the community, a community sale as the one we had Saturday, and a dinner theater by the adults of the community.

Several community improvement projects are in the planning stages now. The money raised Saturday will help these projects become a reality.

Anyone who would like to become a part of these projects or who would like to know more about them should come to the monthly community meetings at the Hermleigh School. The next one is May 21.

To The Daily News:

I would like to express my appreciation to the college drama department for providing an opportunity for our children to experience drama at its best. I understand that the children's drama is based on a folk tale and that our elementary children study folk lore.

I regret that when permission was requested to treat our children by classes to this performance Bill Hood denied that request. Satisfactory arrangements had been made for mothers to transport children to and from the performance and with our party fund (given by parents) the admission for each child was to be paid. I understand that Hermleigh, Roby and other area schools are bringing their children to the day performances on Friday, May 11.

I think that if other schools can take advantage of this opportunity and support our college in this manner that the Snyder Schools should be allowed the same privilege.

Many magazines and newspapers are filled with helpful, informative "How To" articles. Best selling books are often on this subject. By these How To books, our lives are enlightened, enhanced and enriched. We can learn how to do anything.

But there are still situations in life some of us need help with. I'm still searching for some information on.

How to confess we're out of catsup.

How to convince the vacuum cleaner to pick up only the dust and leave my son's sox under the bed.

How to manage to work, have dinner ready on time, pay bills and run errands for three family members plus take and make phone calls, and do all of these gracefully.

How to explain to my husband that togetherness accounts for his formerly white underwear and a pair of my red knee sox sharing the same load in the washing machine.

How to make a budget casserole look like a seven-course meal when unexpected guests arrive.

How to keep the car clean during the allotted time before another cleanup is due.

How to open the child-proof medicine and pill bottles that refuse to yield to adult pressure.

How to get into that advertised easy-to-open food box without tearing it apart and spilling it's contents.

How to keep my wits when the plumbing backs up with company on the way and a husband promising "I can fix it."

Not all the How To books have been written yet.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Once upon a time, as seasoned consumers will surely recall, "more for less" was a proud marketing slogan. And nobody had any doubt what it meant, either.

Whatever the service or commodity advertised, the purveyors were promising to deliver more bang for the buyer's buck. A better calculator at a lower price. A longer plane ride at a lower fare. Faster service for less money.

Those were the good old days, all right, but they are apparently gone forever. "More for less" is still a dominant theme of the marketplace, but the concept has taken on a nasty reverse twist.

As anyone who has bought a candy bar -- or a house -- in the past few years can readily testify, the new rule is "pay more and get less." If you don't believe it, just contemplate for a moment the prospect of dollar-a-gallon gasoline and rationing at the same time.

Or if that lacks appeal, as well it might, take a look at the latest "bargain" dear old Ma Bell, everyone's favorite utility, is seeking to foist off upon telephone subscribers in a growing number of states.

After years of not only providing but vigorously promoting the flat-rate local service now used by almost 90 percent of all residential customers, telephone operating companies have started switching signals.

In state after state, the companies are seeking to introduce a usage-sensitive pricing system for local calls similar to that already in effect for long-distance service.

Called "local measured service," or LMS, the new billing system imposes charges based on the number of local telephone calls made each month, the duration of each call, and the distance covered.

While the companies hold out the lure of lower monthly bills for customers who restrict their phone usage, heavy users such as families with teen-aged children would end up paying considerably more than they do now under the prevailing flat-rate system.

Consumer advocates, including the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, are justifiably wary of the slowly developing trend to LMS, charging it amounts to the introduction of a "pay phone in every home."

In areas where LMS has been initiated, the Miami metropolitan region is the latest to join the list -- the telephone industry offers customers a choice of retaining flat-rate service or switching to LMS.

But as Lee Richardson, of the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, points out, the choice may not last too long. As consumers with low phone usage shift to LMS, the flat-rate group will consist increasingly of heavy users -- whose rates will start to climb.

As flat-rate service becomes more costly, more and more customers will be driven to LMS. But unless they are able to drastically reduce their phone usage, their monthly bills under that system will still be higher than their old flat-rate service.

Indeed, in three Illinois towns where LMS has been tested for more than a year, company revenues dropped by 10 percent of what they used to be under flat-rate service and a petition for rate increases has now been filed. Customers who enjoyed lower phone bills under the early phases of the experiment may soon find the bloom is off the rose.

There's not much the federal government can do about all this. telephone rates are regulated by state commission, not federal agencies. But the U.S. consumer affairs office has performed one valuable function already by alerting the public as a whole to the potential dangers of this latest "bargain" offered by the telephone industry.

We could discuss the two-club opening bid for many articles. Today's experts have almost as many ways of using it as there are experts, but the bid does not come up often enough to warrant that amount of discussion.

As for the weak bids of two spades, hearts and diamonds, we recommend the hand have 7-10 high-card points with the understanding that you can go up to 11 or down to 6 if the spirit moves you. The suit should be six cards and should have some Lady to it and the preferred distribution is 6-3-3-1 with 6-3-3-1 coming second.

The two-notrump response to a weak two bid is artificial and forcing. Opener rebids his suit with a minimum (7 or 8) and shows a feature with a maximum (9 or 10).

The South hand is a maximum for a weak two bid so he rebids three diamonds to show his side ace. North's three hearts is a general continuation of the force. South's raise to four hearts is a raise. For all he knew, North was showing a real heart suit.

At this point North know that there was enough ammunition for 12 tricks. His five-spade bid confirmed spades as the suit and told South to bid six if he held second-round club control.

South might have held just one club. He did have two, so he passed at five spades. The defense took two club tricks and South took the rest.

Use Of Abortions Expected To Grow

WASHINGTON (AP)— The use of abortions is expected to grow in many countries as families decide to have fewer children and more women enter their childbearing years, a report by an international population study group says.

The report also predicted women would continue to turn to abortions because of a lack of alternative family planning measures.

The Population Crisis Committee's study estimated that at least 40 million and perhaps as many as 55 million legal and illegal abortions were performed or induced last year. That works out to about one in four pregnancies ending in abortion last year.

Give Steak Perky Flavor

When May showers dampen family appetites, perk up dinnertime spirits with a tangy beef round steak recipe. What gives it flavor zip? The family may enjoy guessing the different ingredients.

Slow braising of the beef allows for optimum mingling of these distinctive flavors in addition to making this less tender cut fork-tender and juicy, according to Reba Staggs, meat expert with the National Livestock and Meat Board.

PERKY BEEF ROUND STEAK

1½ to 2 pounds beef round steak, cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
¼ cup flower
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
¼ cup lard or drippings
¼ cup lard or drippings
¼ cup minced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 lemon, cut in 6 slices
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 cup (8 oz.) ginger ale
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Few drops hot sauce
½ teaspoon salt

Cut round steak into 6 serving-sized pieces. Combine flour, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Remove steak and brown onion and garlic in drippings. Pour off drippings. Return steak to frying pan.

Combine tomato sauce, ginger ale, Worcestershire sauce, hot sauce, and ½ teaspoon salt and pour over meat. Cover tightly and cook slowly, 1½ hours or until tender. Place a lemon slice on each meat serving the last 10 minutes of cooking. 6 servings.

Children Gain Through Allowances At Early Age

COLLEGE STATION— Helping children develop positive attitudes towards money is an important part of teaching them to manage it.

An allowance will permit the child to gain experience with money, suggest two home economics specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M Univeristy System.

Children need to develop an understanding of how money works and what can and can't be done with money, Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist, says.

Parents can help teach this by treating money as a fact of life rather than a reward for good behavior, payment for home chores or as a means of exerting pressure or obedience, Diane Welch, a family life education specialist, explains.

A child's experience with money should begin when he indicates an interest in having his own money and can understand the spending power of a nickel or dime.

A simple allowance may start as early as 3 or 4 years of age.

By the time children are 6 and 7, they need an allowance that covers their needs and allows for a small amount that can be used freely.

Determine what the allowance is to cover, with only one or two items on the list of the younger child, Mrs. Welch recommends.

Children should know how much they will receive and how often they will receive their allowance.

The amount given depends on the child's age, needs and family financial situation.

Allowances should be given at regular intervals. Having a regular allowance helps children develop planning skills that will last a lifetime, Mrs. Granovsky continues.

Examples set by parents are also crucial in attitude development.

Stress that the money is distinctly the child's to spend as he wishes and remember that over-supervision can weaken the learning experience.

Although parents may offer advice, children should decide how to spend the money. Children need to learn how to make choices and accept responbility for their decisions.

Parents should praise successful efforts. Let the child know when he is doing a good job in managing his allowance, the specialists add.

The survival rate for low birthweight babies treated in intensive care nurseries is now between 75 and 95 percent.

Don't treat yourself

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I seem to have the same trouble as the man I heard you talking to Tab Hunter about on your TV show. It began when I was first pregnant. I seemed to notice having heartburn and I felt as though I was ruptured around my diaphragm where it joins the stomach.

The only way I could get some relief was to straighten my arms up and stretch. Then something would go back in place but I still get lots of heartburn. Sometimes I'm afraid to eat. I feel as if there is a hole and it's very disturbing. I'd like to learn more about this. Why is a hiatal hernia operation so risky? I'm 64 years old and can't seem to lose weight. I'm 167 pounds and am 5 feet 3. Can you help me?

DEAR READER — It's important to know why you have heartburn before you start treating it. This pain or burning in the pit of the stomach or just under the breast bone can be associated with irritation of the lower part of the esophagus, usually from the acid digestive juices leaking out of the stomach into the lower esophagus.

The leak occurs because of a faulty closure mechanism where the esophagus and stomach join. This can be associated with a hiatal hernia. Such hernias do commonly occur in women during pregnancy. The increased pressure inside the abdomen forces the stomach through the normal hole in the diaphragm. The hole is stretched.

As a result, part of the stomach that joins the esophagus where it comes through the diaphragm may slide through the enlarged hole or herniate.

It follows that pressure inside the abdomen is a bad thing for anyone who has a hiatal hernia. That pressure can be caused from the accumulation of fat inside the abdomen. Because of your weight problem this could well be a contributing factor to your recurrent heartburn.

Also you don't want to wear anything tight or constricting around the abdomen. This outside pressure will squeeze part of the stomach and tend to push it through any enlarged hole in the diaphragm.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you more specific information on things you can do to help control such problems.

I'd like to say again that you'll need to know for sure that you do have a hiatal hernia before you start treating yourself. That means you should see your doctor and have a medical examination.

To give you some help with your weight control program, I am also sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. (Other readers can order it for 50 cents, too, from the above address.)

There are two problems with an operation for hiatal hernia. The first is that they don't always relieve the symptoms. Correcting the hernia doesn't necessarily mean that you correct the leaky valve problem. In fact, a person can have the leaky valve problem with reflux into the lower esophagus without having a hiatal hernia at all.

The other problem is the risk of a major operation. How big a risk that is often depends on the overall medical status of the individual.

In Texas Legislature...

Forced Car Insurance Gains House Approval

AUSTIN (AP)—Every Texas motorist would have to buy automobile liability insurance under a bill that gained preliminary House approval Tuesday.

A 125-9 vote advanced the bill, which still needs the formality of a final vote to send it to the Senate.

Some 30 percent of all the motor vehicles in Texas lack insurance to pay for injuries, deaths and property damage inflicted on other people.

Minimum liability coverage would be $5,000 for property damage and up to $20,000 for injuries in any one accident.

The House bill would fine a driver $50 to $200 the first time he or she is caught without insurance and $200 to $1,000 for subsequent offenses.

When a Texan buys or renews an auto policy, the insurance company would give him or her a special windshield sticker. Cars without current stickers cerfifying coverage could not receive their annual vehicle inspection.

And a car without an inspection sticker can't be driven legally on Texas highways.

Rep. Gene Green, D-Houston, sponsor of the bill, said the sticker requirement which he opposed when it first came up last week would make it "a stronger bill in the eyes of the Senate."

He easily mustered a 112-26 vote to table an amendment by Rep. Bob Leonard, R-Fort Worth, that would have required proof of insurance in order to register a car.

The amendment identical to the bill Green first introduced would have required insurance companies to issue identity cards to policy-holders. It also would have allowed the state to make random checks with insurance companies to assure policies still were in force.

Insurance agent organizations oppose the bill, Leonard said, "but my insurance agent tells me he deals with too many people who have been hit by uninsured motorists to oppose this bill."

Rep. Ronald Coleman, D-El Paso, obtained a 120-15 vote for an amendment allowing police to enforce the mandatory insurance law, if passed, on foreign vehicles that enter Texas.

He said cars from Mexico are "causing a big part of the problem" of injuries and property damage inflected by uninsured motorists.

"In my opinion, trade will not be hindered. If you have the money to trade, you should be able to provide proof of financial responsibility," Coleman said.

Under the bill, a motorist who proves to the Department of Public Safety that he or she could pay for up to $25,000 in injuries and damage could get a sticker and still drive without insurance.

The Senate passed, 26-4, and sent the House a bill revising the state's consumer credit code.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, tried unsuccessfully to eliminate a section repealing the present law that allows small loan companies no more than 60 outlets in Texas.

Patman said the section was written expressly for Beneficial Finance Co., which he said has reached the limit. But he could get only four votes, however, to keep the limit in the law.

The House passed and sent to the Senate on voice vote a bill by Rep. Bill Clark, D-Tyler, allowing local elections to roll back property tax increases that exceed 5 percent in one year.

Opponents of an increase would have 60 days to collect the signatures of 25 percent of the registered voters in the area affected. If they succeeded, a rollback election would be mandatory.

The bill applies to city, county and school district taxes. School administrators and school boards complained it would damage their flexibility to deal with changing needs.

House members tentatively approved, 70-66, a bill eliminating the authority of cities to set electric rates. If the bill becomes law, rate cases would go directly to the Texas Public Utility Commission, which now hears them only on appeal from city council decisions.

"Rate cases should originate in the ballpark where the game is going to end," said Rep. Jerry "Nub" Donaldson, D-Gatesville, a sponsor of the bill.

But Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, said electric companies want the bill because it would eliminate delays in putting rate increases into effect.

"The whole rationale is to provide a mechanism for accelerating rate action," Davis said.

House members passed and sent to the Senate bills that would:

-Enable city housing authorities or special nonprofit corporations to issue bonds and lend the proceeds at low interest rates to low-and middle-income families to buy homes.

-Allow the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to spend part of its one-cent per pack share of the cigarette tax on operation and maintenance of state parks. The money now can be spent only to buy land and develop parks. The bill also would require half the money to go toward buying and maintaining park land in the 22 metropolitan areas.

-Authorize state loans to build plants that would manufacture alcohol for mixing with gasoline into a motor fuel called "gasohol."

Legislators Act On Credit Laws

AUSTIN (AP)-The Senate passed an overhaul of the state's consumer credit code Tuesday that would remove a 60-location limit on companies making loans of $2,500 or less.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, argued more than an hour Tuesday against a section he said specifically would help Beneficial Finance Co. Aside from the one-paragraph section, he said the 29-page bill by Sen. Grant Jones was "innocuous."

Senators passed the bill 26-4 and sent it to the House.

"What compelling reason has been given to you for removing a limitation placed in the statutes for at least 12 years?" Patman asked his colleagues.

"We're adopted a practice of having a fiscal note attached to every bill. I think we ought to have a lobby note to see what lobbyists are registered for and against it," he added.

Patman said deletion of 60-office limit should have been discussed openly at a committee hearing, but it was not.

"I suspect the reason is because there was no one else except you concerned about it," Jones, D-Abilene, told Patman.

Jones said his bill would bring state laws into compliance with federal guidelines. It would not affect loan interest rates.

Patman said he learned that Beneficial Finance Co. had recently acquired First Texas Savings and Loan Association, which has 56 offices in the state. Beneficial has 60 locations, Patman continued.

The Texas consumer credit commissioner forced First Texas to give up its small loan license because the merger would violate the 60-office limit, he added.

"You could see why they want to repeal this particular section," he said.

The maximum location section originated 12 years ago when finance companies wanted to protect themselves from out-of-state domination, Jones said. Inflation since has forced small companies to sell out to large corporations, he added.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, argued the limit was outmoded and unnecessary.

"We don't limit the number of grocery stores," Brooks said.

"Why would you limit the number of stores if they can successfully serve the public, if they're regulated and if the public is responding to them."

Patman said small loan companies prey on widows and poor people "they pull off the street."

"Once they succeed in squeezing out all the others lenders, they'll jack up the rates," he said.

Only four other senators voted with Patman on his amendment to retain the 60-office limit.

He also lost fights to limit small loan companies to 140 locations and to reduce maximum interest rates on $100 loans from 108 percent to 30 percent.

Even Hints Of Success Encourage Lagging NBC

NEW YORK (AP)-It was little more than a hint that something from NBC might catch on, but for the No. 3 network, even that might be a good sign.

NBC listed but one show in the A.C. Nielsen Co's Top 20 for the week ending April 29-"CHiPs" in 20th place - but between there and 30th place the network had six programs, including four introduced since the end of 1978.

ABC, as usual, was a runaway winner in the networks' competition, with NBC still a distant third behind CBS. "Three's Company" on ABC was the week's most-watched show, with CBS' "M-A-S-H" second.

NBC programs bunched between 20th place and 30th were "Diff'rent Strokes," No. 21, "The Duke," 22nd, "B.J. and the Bear" 26th, and "Hello Larry" 27th. Two other shows - "Little House on the Prairie" ranked 25th and "The Rockford Files" in 28th place - are long-running NBC series.

Most programs aired during the week were reruns, but there were important exceptions. "Sanctuary of Fear," a two-hour NBC pilot starring Barnard Hughes as G.K. Chesterton's priest-private eye, Father Brown, finished the week No. 40. CBS' "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings," based on Maya Angelou's book, was 47th. And a variety show, "Presenting Susan Anton" on NBC, did even worse, 54th.

The rating for "Three's Company" was 28.6. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TV, 28.6 percent saw at least part of the ABC show.

Here are the week's Top 10-shows:

"Three's Company," with a rating of 28.6 representing 21.3 million homes, ABC; "M-A-S-H," 26.4 or 19.7 million, CBS; "Laverne and Shirley," 26.3 or 19.6 million, and "Mork and Mindy," 26.2 or 19.5 million, both ABC; "60 Minutes," 25.6 or 19.1 million, CBS; "Angie," 24.8 or 18.5 million, "Happy Days," 24.4 or 18.2 million, "Charlie's Angels" 24.1 or 18 million, and "Taxi," 23.4 or 17.4 million, all ABC, and "WKRP in Cincinnati," 23 or 17.1 million, CBS.

The next 10 shows:

"Alice," "Stockard Channing in Just Friends," "One Day at a Time" and "All in the Family," all CBS; "Barney Miller," "Eight is Enough" and "Vegas," all ABC; "Mary Tyler Moore Hour," CBS; Movie-"The Master Gunfighter," ABC, and "CHips," NBC.

Assassin's Bullet Kills Iran Religious Leader

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-One of the religious leaders of Iran's revolution died from an assassin's bullet early today, and a telephone caller claiming to represent the killers said the victim headed Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's secret ruling politburo.

Ayatollah Morteza Motahari, reputed to be among the 20 most influential of Iran's approximately 100 Shiite Moslem Ayatollahs, was shot in the head Tuesday night as he left a dinner party in Tehran and died early today, officials at Torfeh Hospital reported.

The assassin apparently escaped.

An anonymous telephone caller told the newspaper Ayendegan the assassination was the work of Forghan, the secret organization that claimed to have killed Gen. Mohammad Vali Gharani, the first post revolution army chief of staff, on April 23.

The caller said Motahari was head of the secret Islamic Revolutionary Council which Khomeini, the leader of the revolution, set up as the supreme power in the country. The membership of the council has been a closely guarded secret, and neither confirmation nor denial of the caller's identification of Motahari as its head was immediately available.

The council supervises the Islamic revolutionary courts that have ordered te executions of 164 persons after speedy trials in which the rights of the defendants have been minimal. Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan, who heads the provisional government appointed by Khomeini, threatened several times to resign because of the committee's power, claiming that its activities were hampering his cabinet's efforts to get the government and the economy working again.

Forghan reportedly was formed about 18 months ago, and almost nothing is known about it. The name can mean either "holy book" or "distinction between truth and falsehood." Apparently it is opposed to the religious domination of the revolution since after Gharani's assassination it charged him with cooperating with the "mullahs' dictatorship," disarming civilians and plotting a pro-American coup.

Motahari, who was reported to be in his 60s, was a professor of theology and a prolific author. At the time he was shot, Radio Tehran was reading selections from one of his books about the Prophet's a set med, "The Story of the True One."

Gharani, the first revolutionary figure to be assassinated, was appointed chief of staff two days after the revolutionary forces took over the government. Mobs looted the army's bases and arsenals of an estimated 300,000 weapons and many of the troops deserted.

Two Ink Pacts With Universities

DANA ELROD

Dana Elrod, a two-year All-State setter for Snyder High School, has signed a volleyball scholarship with Texas Tech University.

Dana will be joining Coach Janice Hudson's Raiders for workouts in the near future.

A co-captain this season for the state-championship Tigers, Dana has been selected all-state tournament for one year, and all-district and all-regional for three years. She was the Player of the Year at Snyder in 1978, and has been on numerous all-tournament teams in her three years as a varsity player.

At Tech, she plans to major in biology or physical therapy.

"I like the coach and the girls," she explained as to her reasons for going to the Lubbock school. "They play USVBA ball there and you get to travel a lot. I like to travel."

And while there is little doubt Danna will do well in athletics at Tech, one should be aware that she's scholastically prepared too. A class officer for three years, she has been in the National Honor Society for two years, and was also student council representative her sophomore, junior and senior years.

Dana is one of three girls off of this season's championship team to sign scholarships. Others are Kathy Harrell, to Angelo State, and Danna Myers, to Hardin Simmons University.

Snyder volleyball Coach Joyce Elrod has witnessed the signing of a third player from her state championship volleyball team. This one is spiker Danna Myers.

Danna, an honorable mention all-district selection this year, has inked with Hardin Simmons University in Abilene. She will play under the direction of Coach Joyce Cole.

"I knew the coach and it (Hardin Simmons) is close to home," Danna said of her decision. "I really like the campus, too. I like the atmosphere of a smaller university."

At Hardin-Simmons, Danna plans to work for a secondary science degree and plan her major after spending some time at the university.

Danna, who was all-tournament at the San Angelo and Burkner meets this season, aided the Tigers to a third straight district championship, to a regional crown, and a state title. She is the senior representative for Future Homemakers of America, and as a junior was treasurer of the organization.

Need One More Victory For 3-3A Crown

Tigers Shut Out Tornados, 2-0

LAMESA—The Lamesa High School Tornados trying desperately to get back into the district baseball race, limited Snyder to two runs on five hits here yesterday, but it wasn't quite enough.

With help from a Scott Crenwelge RBI and early no-hit pitching by Mitch Mackey, the Tigers shut out the hopeful Tors, 2-0, and solidified their lead atop the loop ladder.

It was the third straight victory for Coach Albert Lewis' Tigers, who can claim another District 3-AAA championship with a win over Brownfield at 1 p.m. Saturday in Snyder.

If the Cats can defeat the Cubs, no team would be able to beat the four-win, second-round record, thus assuring Snyder at least a tie for the series. And since the Tigers won the first half of loop play (4-2), they would automatically collect the district crown and the right of bi-district representation for the third consecutive season.

If so, it would by Snyder High School's fifth 3-AAA district championship of the 1978-79 school year. Others have already been entered in the record books of football, volleyball, and boys track and basketball.

Lamesa pitcher Armando Morales gave up hits in the first and second innings here yesterday, but never relinquished a run until the fourth inning.

Mackey slapped the first of three singles in a row after Morales secured one out in the stanza, and Sid Everton followed suit. Next up Crenwelge drove Mackey home with a blast of his own, garnering the only RBI of the game.

Snyder failed to take further advantage of the situation, but did manage another run in the fifth inning. Mark David reached first base when clipped by a stray Morales pitch, and took second on Bryan Vincent's sacrifice bunt. Richard Crayton also drew a walk, and that was the move that got Morales and company into trouble. The Tiger shortshop dashed to steal second base moments later, and when the pickoff throw got away from the receiving end, Davis ran in to score. Crayton was thrown out trying to take third base, but Davis crossed home plate before the tag - the third out - and the run counted.

Defensively, Mackey opened on the mount for Snyder and hurled four perfect innings before Lamesa began to find range. Morales started the fifth inning with a single, and Mackey sandwiched a walk between a pair of strikeouts, but Crayton grabbed a Rudy Rodriquez ground ball and flipped it to Crenwelge to quell the threat.

The senior lefty gave up three consecutive hits in the sixth inning, but again two strikeouts and a Toby Neves-to-Crayton pickoff iced the brief hot streak.

Everton came to the mound in relief in the seventh inning. Bill Roberts got on with a walk, but a ground-out, a strike-out and a fly ball were enough to put the Tors away for good.

The Lamesans pulled Morales in the fifth inning, and new hurler Rodriquez gave away only a walk, Snyder did get two men on base in the final stanza, but was unable to utilize the script.

The victory was Mackey's sixth of the season against three losses. He fanned seven batters, walked one and allowed four hits. Morales struck out four, walked two and gave up five Tiger hits, while Rodriquez was 1-1 and 0.

Crenwelge was two for two with a walk to lead the Cats from the batter's box. Mackey was two for four.

Cunningham Wants San Antonio To Share The Feeling

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham knows what it's like to be a part of a team that blows a 3-1 lead in a best-of-seven NBA playoff series. He sincerely hopes the San Antonio Spurs get a chance to experience that feeling tonight.

The Spurs, who have frittered away a 3-1 lead in the Eastern Conference semifinal series, host the 76ers tonight for the decisive seventh game.

Cunningham was a member of the 1968 76ers, who went ahead of Boston 3-1, but then lost three consecutive games, including the seventh game in Philadelphia. That was one of only two times that has happened in the 33-year history of the NBA.

He was asked Tuesday what it feels like.

"There's no question you start feeling a little doubt in yourselves," he said. "You think about the comfortable lead, and how things were going to be so nice and easy.

"A big key is the way they (the Spurs) get started in the game tonight. They have to get a good start to regain their confidence," he added.

The Spurs won three of the first four games, including one in Philadelphia, and returned home last Thursday, appearing to be a cinch to wrap up the series in five games.

WTC Finishes 5th In Region

WACO—For the first time since the school instituted a competitive golf program Western Texas College won't be going to the NJCAA National Golf Tournament.

The Westerners, who earlier this season had a three consecutive conference championship string broken, took a respectable fifth place at the Region V Tourney which concluded here yesterday, and failed to qualify for the national meet.

Instead, McLennan Community College and Odessa College will represent the region. McLennan, no foreigner to the national meet, took first place here with a 290-283-292 for a one-over par, 865 total. Odessa was 17 strokes back at 882, followed by New Mexico Junior College's 892, Weatherford College's 897, WTC's 898, and Midland College's 904. Grayson College carded a 916, and Cisco and Dallas Northwood withdrew after 36 holes.

Billy Sitton and Mike Waller shot well enough to be selected All-Region V, bringing in cards of 223 each. Teammates Greg Reynolds scored a 227, while Britt Lindsey had an equal mark and Don Cofer came up with a 228. Playing as an individual, Lee Baird also scored a 228.

Playing conditions here were good Monday, but grew increasingly worse for Tuesday's, final 18 holes. The meet was delayed five and a half hours because of heavy rains, which left casual water on the course during play.

The national tournament will be held in June.

Rangers, Astros Fall; KC Ruining Rep

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Kansas City's "Swinging Singles" are going steady, steady steady over the leftfield wall, steady over the rightfield wall.

Second baseman Frank White and hot-hitting catcher Darrell Porter each slammed home runs Tuesday night in a 9-3 pounding of the Texas Rangers in a display of long-ball hitting that could destroy the Royals' non-violent image if it keeps up.

Normally singles-hitters, the Royals have stepped out of character and mashed 14 home runs already this year. Eleven of the deep ones have come in spacious Royals Stadium.

White led off the Kansas City first Tuesday with a solo home run off starter Jon Matlack. It was the second time in a week White's begun a game with a homer and gave him three of the year. His career high is seven.

Cards 7, Astros 6

Thanks to a Joe Sambito fastball and an overdue assist from the weather, Roger Freed may be ready to bounce back from his early season of doldrums.

The husky Freed, perplexed by a slow start, cast growing doubt from his mind Tuesday night by slugging a pinch grand slam homer and powering the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-6 triumph over the Houston Astros.

Chamberlain In Fame Hall

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, one of the best big men to play the game of basketball, entered its Hall of Fame along with six other non-playing inductees.

The New York Giants won four straight pennants, from 1921 through 1924, the only National League team ever to do it.

Three Mishaps Logged Here

One traffic accident Tuesday and two more this morning have been investigated by city police officers.

The one yesterday occurred in the 500 block of 25th St. and involved a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Ramon G. Marcon and a 1970 Chevrolet pickup driven by Jimmy Gannaway. It was reported about 10:30 a.m.

The first mishap this morning was at 7:15 at the bus station. That collision involved a parked 1970 Chevrolet owned by Melba Cooper and a 1976 GMC driven by Robert Peterson.

The second accident today was at 8:40 a.m. at the intersection of 37th St., and College Ave. There, a 1971 Mack truck driven by Bernard Melton and a 1969 Ford pickup driven by Curtis Johnson collided. No damage was reported to the truck and moderate damage to the pickup, said police.

Dissidents Behind Friendly Fence

By WAYNE M. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

CAVENDISH, Vt. (AP) - Alexander Solzhenitsyn and Alexander Ginzburg, Soviet dissidents whose fight for human rights led to imprisonment, are once again behind a wire fence. But now the gate provides a welcome seclusion for the two exiles, reunited after five years separation.

Ginzburg arrived late Tuesday at Solzhenitsyn's fenced-in compound in Cavendish, where the Nobel Prize-winning author has lived as a near-recluse since coming to the United States in 1976.

Ginzburg was greeted by Solzhenitsyn's wife, Natalya, at the tall gate of wire mesh strung on a heavy frame leading to the 51-acre southeastern Vermont estate.

The two embraced, and Mrs. Solzhenitsyn told Ginzburg that he and his family, who are expected to join Ginzburg soon, should "think of this as if it were your home."

Ginzburg, who was released last week from a Soviet prison, looked gaunt and pale after a day of interviews in New York City and the long drive to Vermont.

But he bounded out of the car before it had stopped rolling to throw his arms around Mrs. Solzhenitsyn, her mother and Solzhenitsyn's 18-year-old son, Dimitri.

Solzhenitsyn, who is rarely seen by the 1,260 residents here, did not come to the gate to welcome his guest.

Mrs. Solzhenitsyn, speaking through a translator, said that Ginzburg was "very, very tired and very much in need of rest."

The 42-year-old Soviet physicist is suffering from an ulcer that he said Monday was "aggravated extremely" by his latest confinement in a Soviet prison camp.

Ginzburg, along with four other dissidents, was released Friday by the Soviet Union in exchange for two Soviets convicted of espionage in the United States.

Solzhenitsyn and Ginzburg are close friends and leaders of the Soviet dissident movement.

Mrs. Solzhenitsyn said the two men had not seen each other for five years and plan to devote themselves to the Russian Social Fund, which Solzhenitsyn created to help imprisoned Russian dissidents.

Ginzburg served as director of the fund in the Soviet Union before he was imprisoned in 1977.

The physicist, who has served three separate terms in Soviet prison camps, was again imprisoned last year after his conviction on charges of "anti-Soviet propaganda" for his work monitoring human rights provisions in the Helsinki accords.

Solzhenitsyn, who has spent a decade in Soviet prison camps, is the author of the three-volume "Gulag Archipelago," an indictment of the Soviet Union's prison camp system. Solzhenitsyn, who holds the Nobel Prize for Literature, was exiled from the Soviet Union in 1974.

Like Weeds, Bad Kids Flourish in Neglect

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live in a very respectable neighborhood and, although our children are still toddlers, we are deeply concerned about the rise of juvenile delinquency among younsters from "better" homes.

All around us, minors — some as young as 10 — have been convicted of violent crimes. They include armed robbery, beating up the elderly and handicapped, knifing and even rape.

Abby, these kids have never known hunger, poverty or discrimination. They come from respectable homes and have gone to the best schools. Yet more and more children from the so-called privileged class are turning to crime and violence.

Why?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Basically, it's lack of discipline. (Discipline, meaning "to teach" — not necessarily "to punish.")

For a better understanding of this growing social problem, get the May issue of PARENTS' magazine and read "Bad Kids," by Lori N. Andrews, a Chicago lawyer. It will open your eyes!

She says, "Unfortunately, only after a child has committed a violent crime are the roots of his behavior explored. A peek inside the middle-class home will reveal a child who lives with two adults — but has no real parents."

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who loves to play gin rum my. When HE wins he says it's 90 percent skill and 10 percent luck. When the other fellow wins he says it's 90 percent luck and 10 percent skill.

When he loses, he always wants to play one more hand — double or nothing. I get uptight and usually lose that hand. How can I get out of going along with his double or nothing challenge without looking like a poor sport?

HY

DEAR HY: Tell him you can't afford to play for such high stakes.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 14-month-old nephew whose feet turn outward when he walks. So severely, in fact, that the child walks sideways. My sister knows it and keeps talking about asking her pediatrician to put the child in corrective shoes. But that's as far as it goes.

I've mentioned this to her several times. I don't want to bring it up again for fear she'll think I'm putting my nose where it doesn't belong.

Please don't say that if my sister wants her child to grow up with turned out feet, it's her business, because it isn't my sister who will have to stumble through life on deformed feet. I see her pediatrician quite often. Would it be unethical of me to say something to him about it?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You may not have all the facts, but on the chance that your sister is either unable or unwilling to deal with this problem, mention it to the doctor.

Woman To Pay $1600 Alimony

NEW YORK (AP) - An oil heiress whose husband never held a steady job during their 36-year marriage has agreed to pay him $1,600 a month alimony as part of their divorce settlement.

The heiress, Elizabeth Phillips Irwin, 57, will pay Henry Durand Irwin, the money under the settlement, approved Tuesday by Justice Felice Shea in New York Supreme Court.

Mrs. Irwin's attorney, Vivian Gentleman, said the alimony was agreed to because Irwin has no career of his own and no savings.

Irwin's attorney, Philip Solomon, said it was the first major award since the U.S. Supreme Court earlier this year ruled that husbands were eligible to collect alimony from their wives under certain circumstances.

Irwin, 62, also won half the proceeds from sale of the couple's 30-acre Southbury, Conn., estate, estimated to be worth $250,000.

Mrs. Irwin is the only granddaughter of the late Frank Phillips, founder of the Phillips Petroleum Co. Her fortune has been estimated at $40 million.

The couple met on a blind date when he was in the 42nd Division during World War II and married in 1943.

A West Point graduate and an engineer by profession, Irwin has not, by his own admission, worked since leaving the Army after the war. Since then, Solomon said, Irwin has been entirely dependent on his wife for support and has had no money of his own.

The Irwins separated in 1975, and she sued for divorce in 1977. The couple has two adopted daughters, Elizabeth, 28, and Leslie, 25.

German air ace Baron Manfred von Richthofen, known as the Red Baron, was shot down and killed over the Western Front in 1918, by, according to some reports, Capt. Roy Brown of Canada. Brown was a flight leader in the 209th Squadron of the Royal Flying Corps.
