US Troop Strength In Vietnam Drops

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American military strength in Vietnam has dropped below 480,000 men for the first time in two years, continuing a five-month trend downward that began with the first troop withdrawals last summer, the U.S. Command announced today.

There was increased speculation that President Nixon before the end of the year will announce more withdrawals beyond the 60,000-men reduction ordered so far this year.

The U.S. Command said that as of last Thursday there were 479,500 American troops in the country, a drop of 4,900 men during the previous week and 4,500 under the maximum of 484,000 Nixon set for Dec. 15.

American troop strength in Vietnam was 485,600 two years ago and rose to a high of 543,400 last April.

Meanwhile, enemy attacks across South Vietnam were reported at a low level, but allied spokesmen said this was part of the cyclic pattern that has prevailed in the past year.

Viet Cong snipers moving behind a mortar barrage blasted their way into the compound of a U.S. Army combat support unit eight miles north of the big American supply base at Cam Ranh bay.

Security forces and helicopter gunships attacked the Viet Cong commandos, and they withdrew within an hour. Headquarters said three Americans were wounded. Material damage was reported light. There was no report of enemy casualties.

Militiamen and U.S. artillery killed 40 Viet Cong Sunday on the northern edge of the Mekong Delta, the allied commands reported, while the Viet Cong made two small attacks on the government pacification program deeper in the Delta.

One South Vietnamese soldier was reported killed and three wounded in the clash between the Viet Cong and militiamen in a rice paddy in Long An province, 24 miles southwest of Saigon. The militiamen killed 27 of the enemy, and then American artillery killed 13 more as they were withdrawing, allied communiques said.

Three civilians were reported killed and four wounded when Viet Cong terrorists threw a hand grenade into a hamlet 60 miles southwest of Saigon.

Forty miles farther south, Viet Cong troops moving behind a mortar barrage attacked a village administrative office defended by 12 militiamen. One South Vietnamese was killed and six were wounded. There apparently were no Viet Cong casualties.

Lt. Gen. Julian J. Ewell, commander of the U.S. 2nd Field Force covering the Saigon region, said Long An province is the only region in his command where allied troops are "putting on real pressure" in the pacification effort.

"It's just a grinding pressure," Ewell said. "The five local force (Viet Cong) battalions there vary in strength from 50 men to 200 men and they're really in bad shape."

Ewell said the Viet Cong are still putting some replacements into the area, "but the strength of the battalions is slowly going down."

Mideast Proposal

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration will make a major effort to get Israel to follow a new U. S. peace plan for the Middle East, but only if the Soviet Union accepts the proposal first, according to nigh ranking officials.

But, the sources say, chances of a Soviet okay are slim. In any event some officials believe no definite answer to the Amercian proposals will come before the December 20 summit conference of Arab heads of state.

In an extensive review on the eve of the resumption in New York of Big Four consultations on the Middle East, the officials summed up the new U. S. proposals, handed to Soviet ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin Oct. 28, as follows:

—Isreal should withdraw behind its pre-1967 borders with Egypt in exchange for Cairo's "binding commitment" to establish peace with Tel Aviv — and to keep it.

— Both sides also would commit themselves to start talks with each other on the basis of the so-called Rhodes formula on "practical security arrangements" regarding the Gaza Strip and Sharm El Sheikh, the strong point guarding the entrance to the Straft of Tiran and the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Rhodes formula, applied in the 1949 Arab-Israeli armistice talks on the Greek island of Rhodes, means that representatives of the two beligerents would be under one roof but would talk to each other indirectly through a mediator.

Persuading Israel to adhere to the plan will be a difficult task, officials acknowledge, but there is no point in trying before the Russians accept it, which would also mean Egypt's acceptance.

Despite the negative and often bellicose noices from Cairo and the month-long silence in Moscow the United States does not consider its plan rejected.

The Soviets are usually quick in saying a terse "nyet" if something does not please them. The month long delay might mean Moscow is still bargaining with Cairo on how to answer the U.S. proposal, informants believe. Accordingly there is no pressing concern here over the delay.

It will be surprising, though, if President Gambel Abdul Nasser would give up his current rigid attitude before the Arab nations that have subsidized his country since the 1967 war and he probably believes only by displaying a firm stance can he hope for increased funds. "But he did not close the door" to the U. S. plan, informants stressed.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Dec. 1, the 335th day of 1969. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes formed the single nation of Yugoslavia.

On this date:

In 1824, a U. S. presidential election was turned over to the House of Representatives after a deadlock developed among four candidates — John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William H. Crawford and Henry Clay.

In 1917, during World War I, Britain completed the takeover of German East Africa.

In 1936, President Franklin D. Roosevelt opened the Inter-American Conference at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

In 1942, gasoline was rationed in the United States during World War II.

In 1942, the Japanese were defeated in the Pacific war battle at Lunga Point as they attempted to reinforce Guadalcanal.

In 1955, a Negro woman in Montgomery, Ala., was arrested when she refused to give up the front seat on a bus. A bus boycott followed.

Ten years ago — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said the Soviet Union had enough rockets to destroy all its foes.

Five years ago — The United States and the Soviet Union were in dispute over unpaid Soviet assessments at the United Nations.

One year ago — It was disclosed that 754 persons had died in U. S. highway accidents over the four-day Thanksgiving weekend. It was the highest toll in any holiday period.

FATE OF YOUNG MEN AT STAKE

Draft Lottery Set Tonight

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tonight the nation holds its first military draft lottery in 27 years, with the fate of half a million men at stake.

There will be a big board with numbers and dates being posted one by one; a hot glare of lights; standing men and women, intently jotting down every announcement and handling the notes to scurrying messengers. It may look more like a hot day in the stock exchange than a December night at Selective Service.

The numbers and dates will be birthdays—each one telling hundreds, or thousands, of men throughout the country their chances of being drafted in 1970.

Just outside Selective Service's jammed conference room where the drawing takes place will be a glass case in the lobby, containing a souvenir from the past.

It's a large glass jar—some kind of laboratory jar—the one used for the first draft lotteries in World War I and again in World War II.

In the lottery drawings of World War II this jar held 10,000 little capsules containing draft registration numbers.

Sample capsules are still in the jar; green and pink plastic with metal heads, like little lipstick tubes, for 1940 and 1941; blue ones for 1942, made entirely of plastic—every bit of metal was being saved by then for war production.

Soon every available man was needed, too, and there was no point to a lottery any more. It was abaondoned, even during the low-draft peacetime years, until President Nixon revived the lottery—calling it "random selection"—last Wednesday by signing a law, an executive order, and a proclamation of tonight's drawing.

Even before Nixon signed the lottery into law, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director since 1941, had ordered a new jar.

The old one held 10,000 capsules and could easily have served again tonight, when only 366 capsules—one for each day of the year, with an extra day for Leap Year—will be mixed and drawn.

But Hershey, 76 years old and being removed from his post as of next Feb. 16, felt the old jar symbolized the past, a spokesman explains. He wanted a new one.

On Nov. 21, two days after Congress approved Nixon's plan, Selective Service ordered a new, bigger laboratory jar, measuring 16 inches in diameter, with sides two feet high and walls a half inch thick. It lists for $115.

The next day, a colonel drove up to the lab supply dealer in northern New Jersey, to pick it up.

Today, another colonel and a Navy captain planned to write all the days of the year, from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, on gummed stickers, roll them up with the writing inside, and pack them into inch-long plastic capsules.

Tonight those capsules will be dumped into the new jar. Somehow—the draft people were still deciding how—the capsules will be "randomized."

They may simply be stirred in the jar, like cooking noodles.

"We have a sort of dairy-type paddle," a spokesman explained.

Hershey is expected to open the lottery ceremony at 8 p.m. and close it around 10 p.m. if it runs on schedule.

The actual drawing is to be done by 53 young people, members of the Selective Service Youth Advisory Groups from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, New York City (a separate draft region) and Puerto Rico.

Whoever reaches into the jar—almost to the shoulder—will withdraw a capsule, open it, and read the date contained inside.

Then he will peel off a protective backing to expose the glue and paste the date next to the number "001" on the big board.

The number, and the date next to it will be announced once more, and the next capsule will be drawn by the next youth advisory and be stuck alongside the next number.

Where a man's birthday appears on that list will determine how fast his draft board will get around to him. Men with birthdays next to the low numbers can expect a draft call in 1970; those next to high numbers will probably not be drafted; those in the middle range face a year of uncertainty, waiting to see if the draft reaches them or not.

In less than two hours, all 366 numbers should be matched with dates, and the half million draft-eligible men who weren't going to join the Army if they could help it will have some idea where they stand with the draft.

Another, smaller drawing will follow, but it's only to provide a way of deciding who goes first when men in the same draft board's pool share the same birthday.

In that one, the letters of the alphabet will be loaded into 26 capsules and their drawing will establish an order which draft boards can follow, by matching the letters with the initials of the men involved.

By 10 or 11 p.m. it should be over.

Senate Vote Due On Allowance

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior Republican senator says he is confident efforts to retain the 27½ per cent oil and gas depletion allowance will fail in a tax reform-minded Senate.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., speaking in advance of today's scheduled vote, predicted the Senate would approve either the 23 per cent figure favord by a Senate committee or the 20 per cent benefit contained in the House-passed tax reform bill under debate.

"This is the symbol of tax reform," said Williams, senior GOP member of the Senate Finance Committee. "If we don't cut the allowance, the country will not think we are serious about reform."

Failure to make some cut probably would encourage special interests to try to eliminate or weaken other major provisions in the tax reform bill, Williams said.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., author of the amendment to retain 27½ per cent, said the allowance has served the nation well over four decades and should not be disturbed.

It has assured the nation a steady oil and gas supply by providing an incentive needed for exploration and development, he says.

Other senators from oil-producing stafes took a similar view.

The depletion allowance works this way: A producer can deduct 27½ per cent of gross income before figuring taxes so long as this does not exceed 50 per cent of net income or profits.

The 50 per cent limitation sometimes means the taxpayer cannot deduct 27½ per cent of his gross.

For this reason, some congressional tax experts have contended the 27½ per cent figure has been given undue importance, although conceding it was a major symbol in the tax reform fight.

These experts said oil import quotas and the tax benefit known as the intangibles can be of more help to many producers than the depletion allowance.

Under the intangibles provision of present law, a producer may write off on his taxes in the year they were incurred all of his well drilling costs. This is a bigger writeoff than would be allowed most other industries for similar expenses.

College Board Sets Session

The Scurry County Junior College Board of Trustees will hold a special session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Snyder Public Schools administration building.

Principal items on the agenda include a discussion of guidelines for the handling of applications for the position of president of the college; guidelines for arranging for temporary office space; tax assessments and collections for 1970, and the acquisition of a site for the college.

The board already had announced that it was accepting applications for president and that proposals for sites would be accepted in writing.

LEON DOUGLAS

TSTA Will Hear Douglas

Leon Douglas, a representative of the Texas State Teachers Association, will speak Tuesday at a meeting of the Scurry County Unit of TSTA. The meeting is set for 4 p.m. at the Lamar Junior High Library.

Douglas' subject will be "Available Services to TSTA Members."

A graduate of West Texas State Douglas served as a classroom teacher in junior and senior high schools and was a high school principal before joining the TSTA staff. He has membership in national, state and local professional organizations and has worked closely with local and district organizations.

Santa Due For Visit Here Today

Santa Claus was scheduled to make his appearance in Snyder at 5 p.m. today as the Christmas season-opening festivities were underway.

A Santa-land house was to be installed this afternoon on the south side of the courthouse, and a Nativity scene was in place, all ready for the Christmas lights to be turned on this evening.

Christmas music was to begin at 6 p.m. The special music program was arranged by Ken Claunch of Abilene.

Meanwhile, Snyder merchants were observing their regular Dollar Day event on the first Monday of the month. The Chamber of Commerce, which has planned the Christmas season opening event, has asked stores to remain open until 8 p.m. or later today.

The Christmas lights will be turned on for the first time this season at dusk.

Common Market Summit Opens

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

THE HAGUE (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany proposed today that negotiations begin as early as next spring to bring Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark into the European Common Market.

Brandt made his proposal at the opening session of the Common Market summit, where leaders of the six member states convened to give European unity a fresh impulse.

On hand for the summit were Brandt, French President Georges Pompidou and the prime ministers and foreign ministers of Belgium, Holland, Italy and Luxembourg.

Brandt said: "We are fundamentally agreed that the candidate countries will have to accept our treaties, their goals and the legal decisions that have followed from them."

There also is agreement, he went on, that the main lines for the Common Market's further development must be agreed on and laid before the candidates. He said the candidates would have to accept these too.

France has been insisting that the future development of the community must take precedence over the admittance of the candidates.

Under former President Charles de Gaulle, France twice vetoed Britain's bid. While his successor, Georges Pompidou, has let it be known this standing veto has disappeared, he will nevertheless be striving to fix a high price tag on opening up the community to new members.

In his welcoming speech inside the Ridderzaal, Dutch Prime Minister Piet de Jong spoke of the risks of failure at the summit.

The problems alluded to by the prime minister are:

—Establishment of a permanent system of financing community farm price supports. The common fund now totals over $2.5 billion, and could reach $8 billion by 1980. Under treaty stipulations, the new scheme must be adopted by Dec. 31.

—Closer monetary, scientific and technical cooperation among the members. In brief, moving beyond the present stage of being a customs union.

—Finally, agreement, perhaps, on how and when to begin negotiations with Britain, Norway, Denmark and Ireland—the candidate states.

More Light Rains Forecast For Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Intermittent light rain that has plagued southern portions of Texas for the past few days will continue at least one more day, the Weather Bureau said today.

Occasional light rain was predicted for South Central and Southwest Texas through Tuesday. Elsewhere, skies were expected to remain clear to partly cloudy with minor temperature changes.

Scattered showers left .02 of an inch of rain at Brownsville Sunday night, and .01 at McAllen. A blanket of clouds was drifting across South Texas toward the state's western border during early morning hours, dropping light rain at Del Rio and Laredo.

DEAR ABBY: What advice have you for a middle-aged wife, whose middle-aged husband seems to be infatuated with a young divorcee? They teach in the same school.

John (not his real name) pretends his interest in her is strictly paternal, but the frequency with which her name comes into the conversation and the excuses he makes to drive by her house on week-ends makes me believe otherwise. I'm sure this young woman has no romantic interest in my husband. In fact, she's dating a young, single teacher now, and when this came to light John displayed such jealousy I actually felt sorry for him.

If John has been as obvious about his feelings among his fellow teachers as he has been at home, I'm afraid his colleagues may be misled about his character. He is really an upright and moral man.

He seems to get a lift out of all this, and I admit I get a beneficial fallout from his current infatuation.

I love him very much, but wonder if I should DO anything about this situation?

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: John may be "infatuated" with the young woman, but she's obviously not infatuated with John, so your biggest concern is keeping your man from making a fool of himself.

Since he claims his interest in her is "paternal," why not adopt a "maternal" interest in her? Invite her and her young single friend over. Let John get a good look at both of them. It may hurt for a little while, but a good dose of reality is sometimes necessary to put things in their proper perspective.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have had several discussions with some very intelligent people and we still disagree on this question. Is a Jew a Jew because of his religion? Or because of his race?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I like Ben Gurion's answer to "What is a Jew?" "A Jew is anyone who says he is."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which I am sure many other married couples have had to face. I think I have made the right decision, but I want you to reassure me, Abby, as I could be wrong.

My mother is not speaking to me because I told her that my husband and I will be having Christmas dinner with HIS parents this year. We have spent the last two Christmas dinners (and Thanksgiving, too) with MY family, and now I think it's time we went to HIS mother's for Christmas dinner.

My mother told me that there is an unwritten "law" that married daughters always spend ALL the holidays with the girl's family. I have never heard of such a "law" and I told her I thought it was ridiculous.

Don't suggest that his family and mine get together for Christmas dinner because it would never work out. They are both too large, and besides, they don't get along that well. So who is right? My mother or I?

HATES HOLIDAYS

DEAR HATES: You are right! Why not spend Thanksgiving with one family and Christmas with the other? And alternate every year.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is for the single girl of the "Back Alley Intimacies" with married men: "Would you still have time to dance around the dining room table with HIM if you had four kids to run after, clean the house, do the laundry and cooking and run to the store for HIS beer, and still hold down an outside job to make ends meet? I doubt it.

I got your letter to Abby thrown at me last night, so while two of our kids are in the tub, and before I do the dishes and shampoo the rugs I will try to find time to write this. I think I'll have about ten free minutes to make myself beautiful so I can dance around the dining room table with my husband, so he won't go looking for any back alley intimacies with the likes of you!" (Abby, please print this. I am so furious I could choke!)

Eight Mishaps Are Logged Here

City Police investigated eight motor vehicle mishaps over the weekend.

Four of them occurred Saturday, and four occurred Sunday. The only one involving injuries occurred at 1 a.m. Sunday on Avenue S at Twenty - fifth Street. Marie Ballard, 39, Rt. 2, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle for treatment of minor injuries. She was a passenger in a 1965 Model Cadillac driven by Carl Edison Ballard, Route 2. Damage to the car was placed at $75. The other vehicle — a 1963 Model Chevrolet driven by Billy Lynn Wilson, Arah Route, received damages set at $75.

Two of the Saturday mishaps occurred at the intersection of Avenue S at Twenty - seventh Street and both involved single cars colliding with a street barricade.

Damage to the 1964 Model Chevrolet of Myrtle S. Sullenger, 303 Thirty - sixth Street, was set at $10. The mishap involving her car occurred at 3 p.m. Five minutes later, the 1962 Model Chevrolet of Teresa Logan Barron, 4500 Avenue U, struck the same barricade, officers said, causing $15 damage to her car and $5 damage to the barricade.

Minor damage resulted from a two-car mishap on the East Highway at Avenue E at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. Damage to the 1964 Model Buick of Bert Brown, Sr., Route 2, was placed at $100, and damage to the 1968 Model Ford of Ornal Keily Fletcher, 3004 Crockett, was set at $125.

Cars of Dewey Keith Grinslade, 3201 Avenue V, and Freda Jean Pitts, Route 3, were in collision on the east parking lot at the Courthouse at 8:38 p.m. Saturday. Damage to Grinslade's 1965 Model Chevrolet was estimated at $150, and damage to the other car — a 1967 Model Chevrolet — was placed at $60.

Minor damage resulted in all of the Sunday mishaps. The one involving the most damage occurred at 2:43 p.m. on Twenty-sixth Street at Avenue B. Damage to the 1962 Model Ford station wagon of Bobbie Reed Thompson, 3102½ Avenue I, was estimated at $250, and damage to the 1966 Model Ford pickup of Foch Wilson Walton, Route 2, was placed at $125.

Cars of Jerry Louise Davis, 3915 Murial Drive, and Karen Gift, San Diego, Calif., were in collision in the 3700 block of Avenue M at 12:20 a.m. Sunday. Damage to the San Diego woman's car was placed at $40, and damage to the other one was negligible.

The other mishap occured at 9:20 a.m. on Thirty-fourth Street west of Avenue D. Involved were the parked 1956 Model Chevrolet of Larry Lee, 404 Thirty-fourth Street; and the parked 1967 Model Ford of Julia Diaz Luera, 405 Thirty-fourth Street. Damage to Lee's car was set at $100 and damage to the other one was negligible. Officers said one of the cars apparently slipped from its parked position and rolled into the other one.

City Firemen Are Called Five Times

City Firemen answered three calls Saturday and two this morning.

They extinguished a grass fire at Avenue O and Twenty-third Street about 11:30 a.m. today.

The first call Saturday occurred at 2:10 p.m. and summoned firemen to a grass fire one mile south of the Towle Park Barn.

Fifteen minutes later, they received a call to Cogdell Memorial Hospital. A light fixture in a men's rest room had shorted out.

At 3:40 p.m., a grass fire broke out on Deep Creek between Twenty - second Street and Twenty-third Street, but the flames were quickly quelled.

Gas from a broken hase to a heating stove ignited at about 6:15 a.m. today at Highland Park Cleaners, resulting in a fire alarm. However, the gas was shut off before the blaze did any damage.

Dallas Seeking Texas Pageant

FORT WORTH (AP) — The president of the Miss Texas Corp. answered reports that Dallas will seek to be the site of next year's pageant by saying Sunday, "We (Fort Worth) already have the franchise for 1970 and 1971."

Don Magness' remarks were made after Dallas sponsors met over the weekend and announced they will attempt to have the Miss Texas Pageant moved to their city.

"Dallas does not seek to withdraw from the current Miss Texas Pageant, but desires to unify the State of Texas for 1970," John Kunsak, the pageant's executive director in Dallas said.

The dispute over the annual event flared up with the announcement from Lubbock sponsors that they would withdraw, partly because of one Lubbock entry who waited what they said was too long a time for receipt of her award.

President of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Frank Butterfield, charged that the father of Susan Logan, Miss Texas of 1966, threatened to sue before his daughter received her cash and scholarship benefits.

He said other Lubbock winners in preliminary competition in the past couple of years had had trouble obtaining their prizes also.

Magness categorically denied all charges.

"So far as I know, none had difficulty nor were they slow in receiving prizes," he said.

"The scholarship money was sent by the sponsoring soft drink company in every instance as soon as the winner's university sent a request," Magness added.

He said Lubbock, Marshal and Gatesville are the only cities withdrawing from the Texas contest, denying a report that 15 or 20 franchise holders were withdrawing.

Lloyd Rites Set Tuesday

William M. Lloyd, 51, of Meadow died early Sunday morning in a Brownfield Hospital. He was a former resident of the Snyder area. He was born March 29, 1918, in Terrell. He was a retired carpenter.

Funeral services will be conducted in Meadow Tuesday at 10 a.m. and graveside services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday in Snyder Cemetery, under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Alton and Mickey of the home, and one daughter, Mrs. Virginia Daughrity of Philadelphia, Pa., one brother, Raymond of Snyder.

Cubs View Pictographs

Cub Scout Pack 37, sponsored by West Elementary PTA, traveled by car caravan to Paint Rock recently to see Indian pictographs. The group enjoyed a picnic lunch on the Concho River.

Later, the Pack Committee held a meeting, and the program, introduced by V. A. Stone, the Cubmaster, was a folklore theme.

Den 2 read stories about folklore and Den 1 did an Indian Dance.

John Smylie and Wayne Davis received Wolf badges, and Billy Taylor received a recruiter Badge.

Four Cubs Dennis Gary, Jay Martin, Larry Huddleston and Glenn Smylie were inducted into Webelos Den.

Refreshments were served afterwards.

Progress Seen In Rail Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials have expressed mild optimism about heading off a strike that threatens to shut down the nation's rail service at midweek.

Nevertheless, Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz Sunday ordered the railroads and four shopcraft unions to start around-the-clock talks starting today in an effort to settle a contract dispute before the Wednesday strike deadline.

Assistant Labor Secretary W. J. Usery Jr. said "I am optimistic that settlement can be reached. Both parties have been cooperating. Proposals have been exchanged. Some progress has been made. I believe both earnestly desire to reach an agreement."

But, in case desire falls short of accomplishment, Shultz warned "If a voluntary agreement is not reached by the deadline other actions will have to be considered by the administration."

The unions will be free to strike at 12:01 a.m. EST Wednesday at the expiration of a 60-day no strike injunction issued by President Nixon under the Railway Laber Act.

Although the unions—the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, Brotherhood of Electric Workers, Sheet Metal Workers and Boilermarkers—plan to strike only one or two railroads, industry spokesman said Sunday any walkout would result in a nationwide shutdown.

At stake in the negotiations is a demand by labor for a 10 per cent pay boost over the current $3.59 an hour scale, plus 20 cents an hour more for higher skilled workers and provisions to make up cost-of-living jumps.

The railroads' last offer was a 2 per cent wage increase applying back to last Jan. 1 and a 3 per cent boost retroactive to last July 1.

There was no clear indication what Shultz meant when he said the administration would consider other alternatives.

Vandals Active

Vandals knocked holes in the wall of a house at 2405 Avenue F sometime late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, causing damage estimated at $100, according to a City Police report. Officers said the property is owned by Jack Caldwell, 1909 Twenty-third Street.

Rural Electrics BRING THE 50 YARD LINE TO THE NORTH 40

Rural electrification brought a new way of life to rural Texas and television is a dramatic part of that change. Last year the member-owners of the 1000 rural electric systems in the U.S. spent a quarter of a billion dollars ($248,000,000) for television sets.

Projected in the areas served by the electric cooperatives of Texas this figures comes to a handsome $22 million for TV sets alone. By the time you add electric ranges, refrigerators, freezers, etc., the Texas figure swells to $135 million and the national total reaches more than a billion and a half dollars annually This almost unbelievable market for appliances and equipment means more jobs, more payrolls, more customers and a healthier economy. The Midwest Electric Cooperative is Helping Texas and the Nation Grow.

MRS. JAMES ROBERT SMITH

Miss Shearburn, Mr. Smith Wed In Hurst Methodist Church Rites

The First United Methodist Church of Hurst was the setting for the double ring ceremony uniting Suzanne Shearburn of Hurst and James Robert Smith of Grapevine in marriage. E. Richard Chaffin, associate pastor of the church officiated on November 28th at 7 p.m.

Arrangements of white gladiolas and stock, baskets of greenery and candelabra entwined with greenery were used in the church decor.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Shearburn, 621 Ponderosa, Hurst, Texas, formerly of Snyder, and Mr. E.A. Smith of Grapevine and Mrs. Raymond Austin of Houston.

Mrs. Jack Patchell of Fort Worth served as organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Juliet-inspired gown of white faille, fashioned with a high ring neckline and long lantern sleeves. The empire bodice of Venice lace was attached to a billowing faille skirt. Her Watteau train of faille fell from the hi - rise waistline to chapel length. Her capulet was outlined in pearls centered with a white rose accented with Venice lace holding her fingertip veil of imported illusion.

She carried an off-center cascade of phalaenopsis orchids with stephanotis.

Miss Patricia Kruse of Snyder was maid of honor and Miss Barbara Lacik, also of Snyder was bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of deep gold slipper satin, styled with empire waistlines and bell sleeves. They carried nosegays of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Michael Smith of Grapevine served his brother as best man. Michael Shearburn of Hurst, brother of the bride was groomsman.

Guests were seated by John Lacik of Snyder and Curtis Taylor of Grapevine.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The houseparty included Mrs. Janeen Haun of San Angelo, Mrs. Malcolm Wentling of Beloit, Kansas, Mrs. Curtis Taylor and Miss Jackie Haywood both of Grapevine.

Following a trip to Oklahoma the couple will be at home at Route 3, Grapevine, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and attended Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos. The groom attended schools at Grapevine and Houston. He is purchasing agent for Heritage Mobil Homes at Grapevine.

Out - of - town guests were from Houston, Snyder, San Angelo, Arlington, Richardson, Tex, Ohio, Kansas and New Mexico.

ALLURING, exciting bare and totally feminine is this pants suit of imported lace over silk chiffon. Pure fluidity of design is seen in the pants with the single seam that falls gently and flows deliciously. They are held in place with a wide band of gold sequins. The topping, a frothy lace which exposes the right amount of bareness. Ravishing with gold panty hose and gold sandals.

Wesleyan Guild Meets With Mrs. Galloway

The Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity United Methodist Church met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Mel Galloway at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Galloway, president, presided and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Bobby McMillan.

Members were reminded to turn in their materials and patterns so they may be packed and shipped to the Wesley Community Center at Amarillo by the middle of the week.

The day care nursery chairman, Mrs. Ken McAllister gave a report concerning the plans for providing a day care nursery for pre-school age children of working mothers. An advisory board is to be formed and have the responsibility for the planning and taking care of the business of the nursery.

A pledge service was presented by the program leader Mrs. John Cline. Pledge cards for the coming year were made and submitted to the treasurer.

The Dec. 16 meeting of the Guild will be held in the home of Mrs. Howard Harrington.

Other members present Tuesday were Mmes. Milton Sturdivant, Billy Jack Hunter, Ray Peveler and C. J. Killgo.

Sectional Bridge Tournament

The Fort Worth Duplicate Bridge Club is to stage its winter tournament at the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel on Dec. 12, 13 and 14. The event has been sanctioned by the American Contract Bridge League of Greenwich, Conn. and assigned sectional status. Master points are to be awarded proportionate to the number of tables in each event. Silver trophies are to be presented also.

The schedule includes: single session team of four, men's, women's, mixed, master's, side games and consolation pairs and a two session open pairs.

About 800 bridge players, mostly from the southwest, are expected during the three days.

With the Dallas Aces, named to represent the United States at the World Bridge Championship in Stockholm, Sweden in 1970, having arranged to play in some of the events, the standard of the competition always high will be that much more challenging, said H. H. Pinkerton, club president. The Aces are Robert Wolff, James Jacoby, Robert Hamman, Robert Goldman and Michael Lawrence. Ira Corn is the team's non-playing captain. All are from Dallas.

The hospitality program consists of social hours, dancing, snack periods and a buffet. To enable contestants to arrive home early, Sunday matches are to begin at noon; on Friday at 2 and 8 p.m., and Saturday at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Ken Stone of Dallas on the ACBL national staff, has been named senior tournament director.

The club has 700 members and is non-profit.

Applesauce Coffee Cake

1 package (10 ½ ounces) coffeecake mix
1 egg
1-3 cup canned sweetened applesauce
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons raisins
2 tablespoons medium-chopped pecans

Into large bag of mix turn egg, applesauce, milk and raisins. Squeeze upper part of bag to force air out. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger. With bag resting on table, working bag vigorously with fingers, mix until egg is completely blended — about 40 seconds. Squeeze bag to empty batter into foil pan contained in package. (Do not grease pan.) Sprinkle pecans over batter, then sprinkle with topping contained in small bag. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven about 25 minutes. Open corner folds of pan for easy cutting and serving. Makes 8 servings.

With Apples

1 package (12 ounces) frozen escalloped apples
4 packages (each 4 ½ ounces) frozen pancakes and sausage patties

Remove frozen escalloped apples from package and remove lid from container. Place in a preheated 450-degree oven for 10 minutes; add sealed foil containers of pancakes and sausage patties. Continue baking for 20 minutes. Arrange pancakes and sausage on 4 individual plates and add a helping of apples to each. Makes 4 servings.

Sorority To Promote Jr. College

Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their regular meeting Tuesday night in the community room at Snyder Saving and Loan.

President Patsy Elliott opened the meeting with the rituals. Mrs. David Palmer read the roll call and minutes of the last meeting.

Patsy Elliott read a letter from the Jr. College Steering Committee asking permission to use the Sorority name on promoting the Jr. College and to sign a resolution in support of same. It was voted on and accepted. Also, President Elliott read a letter from International asking to make the Cottage at Girls Town a state project; it was voted on and accepted.

Mrs. Van York gave the treasurers report and Mrs. W. C. Cox gave a report for the social committee stating plans for a Thanksgiving Supper at the barn at Towle Park Saturday night. Each member was asked to bring various foods. Mrs. Carson Clayton, Ways and Means Chairman, reported her committee was making "Phi" shields for their project and each member would buy one to keep their sorority pins on.

President Elliott closed the meeting with the rituals and prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Eddie Lloyd and Mrs. Stanley Lowell Martin.

Mrs. James Barnes and Mrs. Eddie Lloyd gave the program on "Awareness of Blessings," each member was asked to tell some of the small things of life that makes them happy. The program was an inspiration to all members, realizing how much we take for granted the things of everyday life.

Formula Tale Of U.S. Life

THE WEATHER SHELTER. By Erskine Caldwell.

For many a year Caldwell has kept turning out these novels about race, poor whites, sex and violence in the South. After dozens of them, it becomes a formula.

This time the scene is a small Tennessee town where Grover Danford is a respectable citizen, breeding ponies on a farm he inherited from his father. He takes an unusual interest in a teen-age quadroon named Jeff, and there is a special reason. Jeff supposedly is a lost orphan — a little too white for the black community, and only a nigger to the whites — but actually he is the son of Grover and a near-white girl who was killed shortly after Jeff's birth.

Grover, now getting into middle age, has a problem. He is married, and abjectly so, to a woman who doesn't want him in her bed, for reasons that finally come to the surface. With no prospect for a legitimate heir, Grover considers the possibility of raising Jeff to that status.

But Jeff gets trapped, quite innocently, into one of those interracial situations which lead to Southern lynchings. As a result Grover and Jeff are boxed into a corner, and the author has an opportunity to bring on to the stage some poor white bigots who are standard caricatures of the human race.

Caldwell's plodding prose does not adorn the contrived nature of this narrative.

Move Is Launched To Overhaul Church Council

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A move was launched today to abolish the National Council of Churches in its present form and replace it with a broader, more flexible organization of Christian cooperation.

It would become, under the plan, more inclusive of all sorts of churches—in an umbrella fashion.

But it also would allow for greater diversity and wide-open options in the choice of varied courses of action by independent participants. And it would abandon insistence on majority—determined joint approaches on each front.

In calling for the overhaul, Dr. R. H. Edwin Espy, the council's general secretary, said "half measures will not suffice."

The surprise proposal, unveiled at the council's triennial general assembly, its top governing body, came amid rising pressures within and outside its present structure for major changes.

His proposal was directed particularly at enlisting nonmember denominations, including many smaller evangelical groups and three large bodies—Southern Baptists, the Roman Catholic Church and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Most other major Protestant and Orthodox denominations—33 of them with a total of about 42 million members—already belong. The council was formed 20 years ago.

The plan calls for a "General Ecumenical Council in the United States," to which all groups would belong, but they would retain full choice about what programs or activities they wanted to share—or shun.

Dr. Espy said this would provide a new cooperative framework that could bring many others into the ecumenical movement "while retaining their identity and power of self-determination."

The five-day assembly, bringing together 800 voting delegates and about 2,000 other church specialists and fraternal visitors, opened in Cobo Hall Sunday night with a worship service and with signs of swelling demands for reformation.

Insurgent blocs of black churchmen and of white reformers joined in the informal procession, and some of them afterward staged a hallway demonstration to air their proposals.

They called for massive dispersal of church wealth to the poor, a new emphasis on evangelism, along with social action, and election of blacks to top council posts.

Strikers Use Sidewalks In March

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP — Mexican-Americans striking against a local furniture company marched down the sidewalks some 600 strong Sunday after being refused a permit to demonstrate in the streets.

The city council refused the Chicano Huelga De Austin group a parade permit on the grounds that it would indicate endorsement of the strike against Economy Furniture Co.

The group obtained permission to march on the sidewalks bordering Congress Avenue after they had rallied for an hour and a half on the steps of the Capitol.

"This is a shameless day for the State of Texas," Bexar County Commissioner Albert Pena told the audience, in apparent reference to the parade ban. "This land was our land before they biult the Capitol. It was our land before they built the Alamo. We will reclaim it in 1970 because 1970 is the year of the Chicano," he said.

Several hundred raised their clenched fists and whistled and cheered as Pena, a prominent civil rights worker, told them, "We are the United Race."

"All brown people are brothers. If my brother needs me in Del Rio, I will march. If my brother bleeds in Corpus Christi, I will bleed in Corpus Christi," he said.

"Viva la Raza Unido," shouted the crowd as the Mexican Flag was run up a small flagstaff on the Capitol steps.

There was no violence as the rally moved onto the sidewalks. Two platoons of city police of 24 men each and a platoon of uniformed highway patrolmen, plus numerous plain clothes officers watched over the rally and march.

The Chicano Huelga De Austin claims that the furniture company refused to bargain with the union after an election ratified by the National Labor Relations Board. The strike against the company began one year ago Sunday.

Service Station Robbed 25th Time

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Peter Gottlieb had his 25th visit from bandits at the service station where he works.

The 74-year-old attendant struggled with an armed robber Sunday, but the gunman got away. Police arrested a man nearby.

Gottlieb said 18 men have been convicted of robbing him over a period of years.

"I've got one case pending, but that shouldn't take too long," he said. "The trial is Monday."

Then he remembered the new arrest Sunday and altered his calculations: "Make that two robbery cases pending."

Teacher's Strike Ends In Denver

DENVER (AP) — Classes resumed today for the 96,000 public school children of Denver after an unscheduled two-week vacation caused by a teacher strike.

By more than a 3-1 margin, teachers accepted Sunday a package raising minimum starting salaries from $6,300 to $7,000 annually. Pay at the top of a 10-step seniority scale was raised from $11,400 to $13,000.

The pact, negotiated with the Denver Classroom Teachers Association, enables the teachers to bargain for higher salaries beginning in January 1971.

Contingent on voter approval, teachers would then be able to seek top-scale salaries of $15,000 and minimum pay of $7,500, their goals when they struck. Voter approval would be required, the Board of Education said, because the higher scale would increase the district budget more than is legally acceptable.

The new pact runs through Dec. 31, 1970, and calls for talks between the board and the association before next March.

Rams Rip Redskins 24-13 For 11th Straight Win

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Take it from Sonny Jurgenson, the Los Angeles Rams have an appropriate nickname.

The Rams rammed the National Football League's most prolific passer all over the place—while Roman Gabriel let loose with a sizzling offensive show—in a 24-13 victory over Washington Sunday that wrapped up the Coastal Division championship for the unbeaten terrors of the West Coast.

It was Los Angeles' 11th straight victory—the first time an NFL team has strung that many together in a single season since Cleveland did it in 1953. And, it continued the Rams' hopes of becoming the first team to complete an unbeaten campaign since the Chicago Bears of 1942, when the full season was only 11 games.

Meanwhile, Bill Nelson's pinpoint passing spirited Cleveland 90 yards in the fading minutes for a 28-24 victory over Chicago—giving the Browns the Century Division title.

Los Angeles will play Minnesota—which sewed up the Central Division championship with a Thanksgiving Day conquest of Detroit—for the Western Conference title Dec. 27. There will be a preview of that pulverizing showdown next Sunday, when the Vikings travel to LA.

Cleveland will take on either Dallas, 8-2-1, or Washington 5-4-2, for the Eastern Conference title Dec. 28. Although the Redskins' loss Sunday virtually killed their Capitol Division hopes, they still have a slim mathematical chance of overtaking Dallas.

In other games Sunday, Baltimore edged Atlanta 13-6, St. Louis ripped Pittsburgh 47-10, Green Bay checked New York 20-10 and New Orleans beat Pittsburgh 26-17. San Francisco meets Jan. 4 for the NFL title and the right to go to the Super Bowl Jan. 11.

Dallas, Minnesota and Detroit were idle.

In the American Football League, Oakland whipped New York 27-14, Buffalo ambushed Cincinnati 16-13 and Boston topped Miami 38-23.

Gabriel fired two touchdown passes—one-yard to Bob Klein in the second quarter and three yards to Billy Truax in the final quarter—and Willie Ellison ran six yards for a score, while the Rams awesome defense threw Jurgenson into a tizzy.

Sonny, who lead the league in aerial yardage going into the game, was held to less than 50 yards net gain in passing during the first three periods, was intercepted twice and dumped for losses six times. He finished with 206 yards on 21 of 39 completions.

Gale Sayers, who scored a touchdown and rushed for 126 yards to take over the league lead with 841, led Chicago to a 21-14 halftime lead, and the Bears were ahead 24-21 in the late minutes when Nelson went to work.

In the race downfield from the Browns' 10, he hit Gary Collins for 12 yards and Leroy Kelly for 29. Then he hit Collins with a 34-yarder that set up Ron Johnson's seven-yard winning TD.

"I'm glad we didn't back into it and that we won it away from home against a good team," said Brown Coach Blanton Collier.

It was the 10th loss in 11 games for the Bears, assuring them their worst season in their 50-year history.

Tom Matte scored the game's only touchdown and Lou Michaels kicked a pair of field goals that powered Baltimore to a victory that didn't save the Colts from elimination in the Coastal Division.

Larry Conjar set up the final quarter marker when he got his hands on a Billy Lothridge punt, and the Colts took possession on the Atlanta 45. A few seconds later, quarterback Johnny Unitas fired a 19-yard pass to Ray Perkins on the two, setting up Matte's clincher with less than eight minutes to go.

Bob Etter kicked a pair of field goals for the Falcons' only points.

Jim Hart passed for three touchdowns and scored one himself, while Cid Edwards rushed for 128 yards and scored one TD as St. Louis handed the Steelers their 10th straight defeat.

The Cardinals managed only a 12-3 halftime edge, but three second half interceptions — all turned into touchdowns — put it away.

Hart, who had scoring tosses of seven, five and nine yards to Dave Williams, completed 19 of 32 passes for 195 yards. He also scored on a one-yard sneak.

Quarterback Don Horn, filling in for injured Bart Starr, connected on a pair of TD tosses as Green Bay shook off a three-game losing streak by handing the Giants their seventh straight defeat.

Horn threw a 36-yarder to Donny Anderson, climaxing a 35-yard march, after New York took an early lead on Pete Gogolak's 14-yard field goal. Then the young quarterback teamed with Carroll Day on a 41-yarder in the second quarter to put the Packers ahead for good.

Fran Tarkenton moved the Giants 75 yards in the last minute of the first half, hitting Aaron Thomas for the final 35, to cut the gap to 13-10. But Travis Williams streaked 27 yards for Green Bay's clincher in the third period.

Amazing rookie Tom Dempsey, who was born without half of his right foot and no left hand, kicked four field goals—from 27, 40, 26 and 17 yards—that provided the difference in New Orleans' victory over Philadelphia.

The Saints' defense, meanwhile, intercepted four Norm Snead passes as New Orleans picked up its third straight victory and fourth in five games.

Grid Crown Rides On Horn-Hog Tilt

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

Chalk one up for the Southwest Conference football forecasters. They hit this one smack dab on the button.

Even before fall workouts started back in September, the experts were talking about the "big shootout" Dec. 6 at Fayetteville, Ark. between Texas and Arkansas for the Southwest Conference championship.

Some even said the game could decide the national championship.

And suddenly here it is, just like they said—Texas, ranked No. 1 in the nation going against Arkansas, ranked No. 2 for the SWC title, the host role in the Cotton Bowl opposite Notre Dame, and quite possibly, the national championship.

Both teams tied the final knot on Thanksgiving Day by winning their ninth game of the season. Arkansas drilled upset-minded Texas Tech 33-0 and Texas paralyzed Texas A&M 49-12.

"It's not just another ball game," said Texas coach Darrell Royal. "We quit playing footsie next week. I don't think (Arkansas coach) Frank (Broyles) nor I will have much trouble getting our teams ready."

"I think our squad was hoping to be 9-0 (going into the Texas game)," said Broyles. "It's been a struggle, really. Being the favorite, the monkey gets heavy on your back, you know what I mean?"

Among the most interested parties concerning the outcome of the game are Notre Dame scouts Mike Stock and Larry Balinger.

"Texas is truly an outstanding football team," said Stock. "I haven't seen anything like them this year. Texas is much bigger physically than people think. You get the impression that football players down here are not big, but Texas is bigger than Notre Dame.

"I'd say Texas is comparable in size and speed to Southern California. As far as team speed, it's tough to judge."

Notre Dame head coach Ara Parseghian's comment after watching the Razorbacks on television was "they appeared to be awfully quick."

While most of the talk was about Texas and Arkansas, Rice and Baylor quitely closed out frustrating seasons Saturday, with Rice escaping the cellar with a 34-6 victory over the Bears, who finished with an 0-10 record.

It marked the first time since 1918 that a Baylor team failed to win at least one game during the season. That year, Baylor lost the four games it played.

Baylor ended up in the cellar with Texas Tech and Texas Christian tied for third, Southern Methodist in fifth and Rice and Texas A&M tied for sixth.

Full Cage Program Set

A full schedule of basketball games involving Snyder teams is on tap this week.

Lamar 8th and 9th grade begin the season today on their home court with Colorado City providing the opposition. The 8th grade teams vie at 5 p.m., followed by the 9th grade clash at 6:30 p.m. Travis 8th and 9th don't open until Thursday when they battle the Lamar teams at 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. in the Snyder High School gym.

On the 7th grade level, Travis Blue meets Lamar Red and Travis White takes on Lamar Gray in the Lamar gym with the program to begin at 4 p.m. Thursday.

The varsity Tigers, 0-2 for the campaign, meet tough Odessa Ector — one of the finest teams in West Texas — at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Odessa, following the "B" team tilt at 6:15 p.m. The Kittens are 2-0 for the season.

This weekend, the varsity will be at the Irving Tournament. They will meet Richardson at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the first round. The Kittens will be hosts for a "B" Team Tournament Friday and Saturday in the Tiger gym. Also this weekend, the Lamar and Travis 8th and 9th grade teams will be entered in a tournament at Big Spring.

Coach Underwood said the starters for Tuesday's clash with Ector will include Danny Farmer and Ronald Ward at double post with Bruce Almond, Glen Rambin and Wesley Bishop on the outside.

Kitten starters for Coach Bill Bundy are Dubby Preston and Kent Horsley at double post, Jackie Murray, Ronnie Morse and David Thompson at guard.

SWC Cage Slate Begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southwest Conference basketball makes its debut tonight with the Texas opener at Austin against Mississippi headlining the five-game card.

Texas is in the spotlight because Coach Leon Black's Longhorns have been tabbed as the team to beat in a poll conducted by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Other games on the opening night card are Arkansas at Missouri, Sam Houston State at Rice, Houston Baptist at Texas Tech, and Texas Christian at Oklahoma City University.

Black has only four returning lettermen from last year's team that finished with a 9-15 overall record, worst in the SWC. But the league's No. 9 scorer Wayne Doyal is back along with an outstanding crop from the freshman team.

The Baylor Bears basketball team could make Bear fans forget a winless football season. Baylor, rated a strong contender, opens Tuesday night against Texas Wesleyan.

Southern Methodist opens its season Wednesday at Oklahoma City and defending champion Texas A&M hosts Northwestern State Thursday.

Conference play begins Jan. 5.

When the Houston Astros had finished their June home stand they had turned in 26 victories in their last 32 home games.

CLASS A, B CONTESTS

Grid Playoff Tilts Set Here

Planning and hard work by Snyder civic leaders, school officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce paid off last weekend with the announcement that two schoolboy football playoff games will be held here this week.

Bronte will meet Sundown in a Class B regional playoff at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Clarendon will tangle with Sonora in a Class A Quarterfinals tilt at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Both contests will be held in Tiger Stadium.

Bronte and Sundown officials conferred by telephone and agreed to hold their playoff game here, then notified local officials. Both schools had been contacted earlier by letter.

Doug McGlaun, Bill Hood and Herb Reed attended the Sonora-Seagraves game Saturday night in Andrews. Sonora won 37-0, and after the victory, representatives of the winning team and Clarendon met to determine a playoff site. They received bids from the Snyder delegation and also from representatives from Andrews and Odessa. However, after it was determined there was only eight miles difference in distance from Snyder to both Sonora and Clarendon, the All-America City was selected as the play off site.

"That was the main factor," said McGlaun. He pointed out, however, that both Bronte and Sonora have held playoff games in Snyder previously and had expressed a desire to return again after being contacted.

Additional information on all four teams will be given later.

Palmer Smiles Again After Heritage Win

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (AP) — The magnetic smile was back in place, the king was back on the throne and all was right with the world. Arnold Palmer had just won again.

"This was as important to me as winning the National Open or the Masters or anything," the 40-year-old Palmer said after snapping out of a year-long slump Sunday with a three-stroke victory in the Heritage Golf Classic.

Palmer, written off by many as over the hill and never likely to win again after he pulled out of the PGA championship almost four months ago, managed a final 74, three over par, for 283.

That put him one under par or the tournament — the only man to break par on the treacherous little Harbour Town golf links, a 6,655-yard, par 71 layout on this resort island.

He was three strokes in front of Dick Crawford, with a final 74, and Bert Yancey, who closed with a 72. They were tied for second at 286, one stroke ahead of Doug Ford, who had one of the two subpar rounds on the final day, a 70. Homero Blancas closed with a 76 for 288.

Jack Nicklaus had a 75 for 289 and announced he was through for the year. He made $3,633, fell short of the $1 million mark and was mathematically eliminated from any possibility of catching Frank Beard in the race for the No. 1 spot on the money-winning list.

Palmer, the game's all-time leading money winner and its most dynamic personality, hadn't won since the Kemper Open, Sept. 1, 1968—the longest victory drought of his remarkable career.

But Arnold vowed he'd be back and pledged he would win again.

"I've never lost my desire," he said.

"This was as important to me as winning my first tournament. It was as difficult as winning that first one, maybe more so. I've gone through spells like this before, but never so long. It wasn't like this.

"And I'd made a lot of rash statements, things I haven't said before. Like 'I'm going to fight this all the way.' And that put some extra pressure on me, just saying things like that.

"This was awfully important. The people, the fans, they keep coming out to see you, and keep pulling for you, and writing to you. It makes you want to keep going.

"I hope I've still got a few more years to play, and a few more to win."

Abilene Cooper, the state's top ranked Class AAAA football team, going gunning for seventh ranked Wichita Falls this week in one of the highlights of the Texas Schoolboy football quarter-final playoffs.

Brownwood, which became the Class AAA favorite after defeating defending champion Lubbock Estacado last week, goes against Monahans Friday night at Big Spring.

But the Class AAA feature this week is the quarter-final showdown between Ennis and Bonham Friday night at Richardson. Ennis is ranked fourth in the state and Bonham is fifth.

In Class AA, top-ranked Lufking Dunbar and No. 2 Iowa Park roll on as favorites to meet in the championship game. Dunbar's quarterfinal foe is Georgetown in a match set for Saturday night in Nacogdoches. Iowa Park plays Reagan County Friday night in Lubbock.

In Class A, No. 1 ranked White Oak will shoot for the semi-finals against Mart Friday night in Athens. Defending champion Sonora, ranked seventh will play fifth ranked Clarendon Saturday night in Snyder.

'Rock' Is Taking Over The Music Industry Today

By WHAYNE EISENMAN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The kids who grew up on rock music are adults with jobs now, and instead of just listening, they're also buying, probably to the tune of $500 million a year in records alone.

"Rock is rapidly taking over the music picture," says Marty Ostrow, vice president of Cash Box Magazine, one of the music industry's bibles. Few others in the industry quarrel with the statement.

Last year, record sales boomed through the $1 billion mark and reliable estimates give rock music between 40 and 60 per cent of the market, depending on how one defines rock.

Meanwhile, young, long-haired musicians who once caused conservative parents to snicker at names like "Blood Sweat and Tears," "The Rolling Stones," "Steppenwolf," "Led Zeppelin," and "Jefferson Airplane" pull in thousands of fans willing to pay as much as $8 a ticket for live performances.

And taped-music sales, spurred by the advent of the cassette cartridge, are contributing a growing part of the buoyant rock music business.

Music companies don't like to give exact dollar figures for fear of tipping off the competition.

But Clive Davis, president of Columbia Records, long a leader in the industry, said rock now accounts for 60 per cent of his company's sales, compared with 25 per cent about five years ago.

He said he believed rock accounted for about half of the $1.1 billion industry sales total in 1968.

"Contemporary rock music is being treated as serious music now and appeals to the 21-to-35-year age group as well as teenagers," Davis said. "This is due to the mass appeal for the first time of serious popular music."

The words of the songs put the music, in the "serious" category. Many are songs of protest. Most have a definite message, a comment on the problems bothering young people today.

An exact figure for rock sales is complicated by various definitions of the term.

Between the clear-cut categories of "hard" rock and the "popular" music of say, Frank Sinatra, is the gray area of country-rock, rock performers who sometimes sing ballads, balladeers who also sing rock, popular music with a rock beat as well as rock music with a popular appeal beyond the normal rock audience.

Even so, there is general agreement that it is rock in its various forms that turns on the 17-to-24 year olds. And they accounted for 51 per cent of 1968 record sales, according to the Record Industry Fact Sheet, a trade publication.

That's the group that was between 10 and 17 years old when the Beatles swept Europe and the United States in the early 1960s with their unique style of song and dress and revolutionized the contemporary music scene.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROAD RUNNER

QUESTION: Why do we call a certain kind of bird a road runner?

* * *

ANSWER: The birds and animals which manage to survive in the dry deserts of the Southwest are those that have adapted themselves to this environment in special ways. Birds are rather well adapted to resist conditions of dryness, because their feathers act as insulation, holding in moisture. But birds have a problem to find enough insects and other food to keep them going. The road runner is a bird who solves his food problem in his own way. There are many snakes and lizards in desert areas. The road runner features these as the main items on his diet. To catch reptiles, which are ground creatures, he stays close to the ground, too. He likes to run much more than to fly, and this speedy running serves him well to catch up with some lizard which is making off like a flash. We call this bird a road runner because he actually does like to run on roads, probably because it lets him scan the areas to each side and dart out after some bit of shiny, fast moving lunch.

Cashing Checks Can Be Ordeal

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

GIBRALTAR (AP) — What is there about cashing a traveler's check that unlayers the larceny lurking in the hearts of all men? Why does the hand tremble and the pulse palpitate?

Signing an ordinary bank check, even a dubious, post-dated one, doesn't summon up similar feelings of guilt.

You've paid for the traveler's checks. They're perfectly valid and up to date and suitably crispy, just like real money. There is even a picture of justice or Mercury or some classic cat in his skivvies to denote legal tender, and check is spelled cheque to show that the World Bank or the International Monetary Fund or maybe the Indian money changers have been dealt in on the deal.

Yet, here you are in a crowded shop on an alien shore trembling at the mere formality of duplicating your own signature. Bonnie and Clyde on their first job couldn't have been this jumpy.

"Great day out, ain't it, Mac?" You say to the sales clerk to divert attention from your quivering hand, realizing too late that it is raining buckets outside and that Mac happens to be a girl.

Her smile is tentative and too quickly withdrawn, a flash of tolerance followed by a lingering glow of suspicion.

Disconcertingly, accusingly, the signature at the top of the check, when you bought it, bears no resemblance to what you have just scrawled at the bottom. You've left out your middle initial, failed to dot the "I" and dangled a nervous curlicue in the wake of the whole miserable effort.

"It's hard to make 'em both look alike," you explain with a light hearted laugh, but even that has a counterfeit ring.

If the sales girl is French and weaned on tales of international intrigue, she is by now trying to recall the number of Interpol and to place your face among the placards in the post and telegraph office.

If she is miniskirted and British and brought up on a brace of Alex Guinness movies, she is in tears or panic or both.

If she is Spanish, as many of them are in this rocky tourist outcropping, and used to dealing with shady characters from all over, she already is stamping on the foot lever that summons the carabinieri or the grand inquisitors of whoever deals with global riff-raff hereabouts.

By now, the manager is out of the back of the shop and the identity cards are out of the windows of your wallet, spread out under the white, hot glare of a lamp that has materialized somehow from the third-degree room in the second act of "Detective Story." Voila: Your driver's license, your air credit card, your First Communion picture, your Social Security number.

"Solid as the rock of Gibraltar," you laugh, trying to establish local identity with your credit references. "Or Alcatraz." That last touch was boldly light-hearted, but no one else is laughing.

Americans Moving To Australia

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — About 4,000 Americans a year are going to the down-under continent of Australia. Why?

"We haven't been able to discern a pattern," Sir Keith Waller, Australian ambassador to the United States, says, adding that the estimate of 4,000 Americans moving to his country is conservative.

"The one underlying reason, we think, is that Australia appeals to those looking for a new frontier, for those who want greater scope for individual initiative."

Texas Panhandle Has New Industry In Cattle Feedlots

Editor's Note: The Texas Panhandle, long known as cow country, has taken on a new look. The commodity still is beef cattle, but it's a new kind of game, with overtones of Wall Street. The risks are high, but the returns can be great. And investors are plentiful.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

HEREFORD, Tex. (AP) — America's insatiable appetite for beef has created a billion-dollar industry on the vast plains of the Texas Panhandle, and investors are scrambling to get in on the action.

Since the last century, the wind-swept ranches of the Panhandle have traditionally been the home of cattle and cowboys.

In the old days, steers were herded to northern slaughterhouses. More recently, they were dispatched there by rail and truck.

But these days are gone. Now most of the cattle never leave the state, except perhaps as slabs of beef in refrigerated boxcars.

The booming new industry is the feeding of cattle. Millions of cattle.

It sounds prosaic, but the way the game is played on the Texas prairie, it is not. Fortunes are being made. Some have been lost.

But the profit potential justifies the gamble.

The betting is on feeder calves, which are penned, fed on grain sorghum for maybe five months, then offered the public as steaks and hamburgers.

If the demand is good, profits are big. But who can predict demand?

"The element of risk," says one of the players, "makes Las Vegas look like a Sunday School class. It's a wide open deal.

"It's the most fantastic thing I've ever seen," says Henry Sears, president of Hereford's First National Bank and a prime mover in what suddenly has become a billion-dollar business.

"The feeder business is no more like ranching than running a shrimp boat. The only thing they have in common is the commodity—cattle."

Typical of the new feedlots is one at Morton, Tex. It covers only 527 acres, yet has a feeding capacity of 30,000 cattle and projected annual gross sales of $24 million.

Cattle feeding, commercially, is a sign of the times, a computerized, mechanized mass production of beef.

Feedlots, packed with cattle as far as the eye can see, are springing up like prairie grass around such Panhandle cities as Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview, Dimmitt, Hereford, Dumas and Perryton.

"Right now there are 600,000 cattle on feed within 50 miles of Hereford," said Sears, leaving no doubt that soon there will be more.

Texas has risen within a decade to the No. 2 or No. 3 ranking state in cattle feeding, depending upon whom you talk to. But few Plainsmen doubt it will soon be first.

"There is no doubt that this High Plains area will become the leading beef-producing center in the world," contends Lloyd Bergsma of Amarillo, vice president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

"That is no brag. It is just the economics of the situation."

What clouds the issue somewhat is that while the Texas Panhandle is the nucleus of the Plains feeder industry, with Amarillo at the heart, the producing area spills over into New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas.

But then Texans are reluctant to quibble about detail.

At any rate, an Amarillo banker said that by 1970 an estimated $6 billion will have been invested in Panhandle feedlots, packing plants, farms and other businesses allied with feeding operations.

"We estimate that during 1969," said Bergsma, "Texas cattle feeders will feed 2.7 million head of cattle and the 1970 feeding volume will be approximately 3.5 million head."

This is up from virtually nothing 10 years ago, says Orville Howard, an Amarillo Globe-News writer who has chronicled the raise of the industry from its infancy.

"A handful of commercial cattle feeders emerged from the Texas cow industry with a bunch of mills and feed pens," Howard said. "Oldtimers winked, businessmen scoffed and bankers did nothing.

"But this industry grew, slowly at first, but it grew."

Now, he said, it is "unbelievable."

Giant packing firms, such as Wilson and Missouri Beef, were quick to seize on the opportunity, opening new slaughterhouse, expanding others and drawing up blueprints for more.

They theorized it pays to be near the supply source.

A trade magazine says Panhandle packing plants have an expected capacity of 2.6 million head this year, up 2.2 million from 1960. Some of the new plants can process 10,000 head a week.

It would not be unusual for a feeder calf to be born, raised, fed, slaughter, packed, shipped and consumed without leaving the state.

The growth potential is unlimited, investors say. They point to good climate, a huge and handy harvest of grain sorghum, a large supply of feeder cattle coming off southwestern and southeastern ranches and a central location between the East and West Coasts.

Housing Recession Cuts Construction

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' current construction dip probably will be deeper and longer than the 1966 housing recession, a University of Texas analyst said Saturday.

Joe Jones, research associate with the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, said building authorizations this year are "decisively below" 1968.

Jones said during the 1966 construction recession, October authorizations totaled 60 per cent of the January level.

"During the 1969 downturn, which also began in January, the October authorizations for the current year were 64 per cent of the initial month of the housing cycle," he said.

"Recovery from the 1966 recession began in November-December of that year, and by May of 1967 levels reaching the 1965 highs in housing authorizations, which preceded the recession, had been attained. Such a recovery does not appear to be a realistic prospect for the current housing recession, and the relatively slighter decline of 1969 in housing authorizations seems destined to exceed the debilitating drop of 1966 both in depth and in duration.

"The exorbitant costs for housing, which are pricing potential buyers out of the market, are based on historical highs in money rates, mounting construction costs and urgent housing demands. Nothing indicates that any significant decreases will develop in any of these determinates in the near future."

Jones said the most optimistic note recently on interest rates was sounded by Robert Pease, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

Pease, said Jones, predicted mortgage rates would level off "somewhere around today's price for four to six months."

"Today's price," of course, means new financing at effective rates of about 9 per cent, which will not constitute an inducement to buy," Jones said.

Jones said the Census Bureau's estimates Texas' rate of household formation will range possibly as high as 3 per cent a year through 1970.

"The real crunch in housing is yet to come; the probable growth in housing availability through 1970 cannot satisfy this accelerated demand with past patterns of home ownership," Jones said.

He said apartment authorizations for January-October surpassed those for the same period of 1968, while single-family dwelling authorizations decreased.

Jones said total construction in October was 13 per cent below that of October 1968, with residential building down 33 per cent and nonresidential permits up 7 per cent.

BUSINESS and INDUSTRIAL NEWS

SPECIAL SERVICES — Highland Park Cleaners, 3803 Big Spring Highway, offer a number of special services as well as quality cleaning. Here, Shelby Coker, owner of the firm, holds different colored kid gloves. Cleaning of kid gloves is a specialty of the firm. They are returned to customers clean and as soft as when they were new.

Many Services Provided By Highland Park Cleaners

Highland Park Cleaners, 3803 Big Spring Highway, provide a number of services for its customers, including many that are in the special category. And, you can always count on the experienced, trained personnel at Highland Park Cleaners to do quality work.

Kid gloves cleaning is just one of the special services Highland Park Cleaners performs. It takes knowledge and attention to detail to clean these gloves so that they retain their original softness, and Highland Park Cleaner employes know how to do this. Kid gloves cleaned by them are returned to their owners, not only clean, but soft and supple.

Another special service is cleaning of knits and woolens. Knit garments tend to lose their shape unless careful handling is given each piece.

The experts at Highland Park Cleaners take the measurements of each knit garment before they do anything else to it. Then, after the careful hand cleaning of the garment it is finished out to exactly the same measurements. Customers often are not aware of the special care given their garments at Highland Park Cleaners.

The same professional skill is used in handling leather jackets and suede materials. The employes at Highland Park Cleaners can refinish either leather or part-leather clothing and restore that "new" look.

In addition, Shelby Coker, owner of the firm, invites residents to bring damaged clothing by the shop. Many times a small repair bill can save the cost of a new garment. Children's clothing especially require alteration as the child grows, and the alteration experts at Highland Park Cleaners can alter clothing to fit the new size of repair rips or tears.

Whatever the type of clothing or garment, you can be sure that the personnel at Highland Park Cleaners will perform the best possible cleaning job on each garment. For instance, a Cissell form finisher is used to steam clean clothing from the inside so that seam impressions will not be left. Many customers have discovered that they can save themselves a lot of time and trouble by taking bedspreads to Highland Park Cleaners.

Other services offered by the firm are moth-proofing of clothing and blankets, free pickup and delivery service, use of plastic bags for protection of clothing and a night depository box.

There also is ample parking available.

TV Movies Have Had Good Season

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lights-Action! Ratings!

The movie made for television is turning out to be as consistent an audience-grabber as its theatrical big cousin.

NBC has had better success with its World Premiere movies than any other single package of films. The network will present about 12 of the two-hour movies this season.

ABC's Movie of the Week so far this season has outdistanced all but the biggest blockbusters. One week, partially through the providence of scheduling, it zoomed to first place in the national Nielsen ratings.

Mort Werner, the NBC programming executive who conceived the idea of original movies for television, believes the magic is in the name "World Premiere." It is the appeal of seeing a movie never shown anywhere before.

The made-for-television movie may be original. It may draw the audience. But is it really a movie? How does it stack up against the real thing?

First of all, it is a mistake to compare television movies point by point with theatrical movies. They are simply not the same thing, as the network executives admit. The production values are less because of the smaller budget, and, anyway, there is little room on a 21-inch screen for the traditional Hollywood cast of thousands.

Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor will never show up on your home screen in a made-for-television movie. Their fee runs to more than the $1 million TV allots to make one. The casts, then, are drawn from television itself and from the "also starring" ranks of the movies.

Most important, the TV movies are not aimed at the same audiences that frequent the movie theater. A few pictures, such as "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "Cat Ballou," succeed admirably in both mediums. It is unlikely that a World Premiere could pull many people into a theater—and more unlikely that one of the current theatrical favorites preoccupied with sexual explicitness would ever make it to the home screen.

The title notwithstanding, ABC makes little pretense that its Movie of the Week really is a movie. It is, they say, anthology under another name.

"We didn't want to call it ABC Playhouse or Stage 69 because the world anthology has a bad connotation to it. Anthology has never succeeded on a long-term basis," said Barry Diller, ABC vice president for feature films and program development.

"We're not competing with theatrical pictures. We haven't got the time, we haven't got the budget. We would be able to make very few 'Graduates,' let's say."

Essentially, the tailor-made movies were a response. Three years ago good movies were becoming scarce, and it was strictly a seller's market. The price of two showings of a film had climbed to $800,000 and was threatening to jump to $1 million. Since then the price has dropped and the networks presently have good inventories of films.

The potential of the movie as a pilot TV series is an important subsidiary value. Eight current series were born that way.

The possibility of a series is one reason the studioes have been willing to turn out the films, often at a loss. Universal, which turns out the World Premieres, picked up five series that way. Several of the Movie of the Week have been unmistakably pilots.

Pipeline Firm Has Diversified

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The board chairman of Tenneco Inc. says it is a tough job to make a dollar in the natural gas pipeline business.

That is why the Houston-based firm that was established 26 years ago as a gas transmission company has become a highly diversified multi-market corporation.

In addition to pipelines, Tenneco now operates in oil, chemicals, packaging, land use, and manufacturing. Pipelines now represent only 25 per cent of annual gross revenues that exceed $2 billion.

"We wanted to get into business where, when you make a dollar, you can keep it," says Gardiner Symonds, who retained the post of board chairman upon retiring last year after being Tenneco's chief executive officer 25 years.

His "philosophy of diversification" has been published in the autumn edition of Tenneco's quarterly magaine for employees and stockholders.

Symonds said gas pipelining is a hard business in which to make a dollar, particularly when the Federal Power Commission restricts rate of return to a level that does not recognize the increasing cost of debt capital.

He says Tenneco—then the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co.—found itself facing its initial rate case before it had collected the first month's bills after opening its first pipeline in October, 1944.

"It was then we decided that if the federal regulations were going to be as restrictive as that, and as arbitrary, it would be wise to have some of our stockholders' money invested in unregulated business, rather than entirely in the pipeline business," he said.

"Only by doing so could we create a climate wherein we could attract the right kind of personnel and the capital with which to grow."

The first step toward diversification was the production of natural gas. This led to oil production. Refining and marketing of petroleum products were added in 1955.

After the Supreme Court ruled that the production of gas is subject to federal regulation, the company moved into petrochemicals and, later, into the manufacture of paperboard and packaging products.

The 1967 acquisition of the Kern County Land Co., with substantial oil interests, also put Tenneco in the land use business and gave it additional manufacturing interests.

"We were a long way from our first pipeline and the first rate case," Symonds said. "But throughout this time, we had expanded the pipeline and held its place as a major transporter of fuel. But with diversification there had come a major change in outlook. Sales were the criterion now; not investment."

The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. was added to Tenneco's manufacturing operations last year. Symonds said Tenneco decided it should be represented in that market in that the federal government is responsible for approximately 15 per cent of the gross natural product.

"Perhaps, if needed legislative reforms are enacted and if investments can be protected from the whims of an entrenched bureaucracy, we may again emphasize investment in pipelines or in more directly related pipeline areas," Symonds said.

"But, today, an unwillingness to be realistic on rate of return and a slowness to recognize increasing costs force us to put our emphasis on our other five divisions."

Filmmakers Flip For Florida Sun

EDITOR'S NOTE—Florida's greatest natural resource—its sunshine—is providing the state with some extra business. Moviemakers seeking clear weather for outdoor shooting are seeking the sun in Florida.

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The benefit which first lured moviemakers to California—the climate—is now drawing some of them to the sunny shores of Florida.

"Hollywood moviemakers have been chased indoors," said producer Ivan Tors, a Los Angeles and Miami operator who blames the smog and cold concrete for cutting down on some of Hollywood's outdoor location filming.

"Florida needs only to protect its blue skies and clear waters to provide backdrops for more and more films," said Tors, who produced his "Flipper" and "Gentle Ben" television series in Florida.

"Florida has to guard its beauty," he added. "The site used for the first Flipper filming is now sprinkled with apartment buildings. It's ruined a shooting site.

"That's what happened to Hollywood. When I came to California in 1940, it was blue skies and orange groves. Now it's smog and parking lots."

Few predict a wholesale flicker shift to Florida. Roots are deep in California.

"Hollywood has a firm grip on the popular TV series shows," said Tors. "The stars live there and like working near home. You'll never get Lucille Ball or Red Skelton to fly 5,000 miles a week just to film in Florida."

Hollywood's indoor facilities are unmatchable, too. It has over 150 professionally manned sound stages to Florida's six.

Jackie Gleason, a Miami resident, is doing all one man can to summon the film business to florida. He made two movies last summer and tries constantly to coax more action for his adopted home state.

"Florida is paradise for me," said the trimmed-down Gleason. "Why the hell should I work or live anywhere else?"

Gleason hates to fly, which also keeps him pretty close to south Florida."

Gleason found time while dieting 61 pounds to shoot two movies, "How Do I Love Thee" and "Don't Drink the Water." Frank Sinatra did "Tony Rome" and "Lady in Cement" here. And Rod Taylor is currently teaming with Theodore Bikel in making "Darker Than Amber."

"Business is hot and cold," said Ricou Browning, a former deep sea diver who is president of Tors' Miami operation.

"You're buzzing when a movie is in the works," he said. "Then you sit around planning the next move. We need enough work to make actors want to live here . . . not stars, the other people who are so important to a film. That goes for technicians and production personnel, too."

Financing films is a hollow item in Florida. Most money for camera productions comes from New York or California despite Florida's large number of wealthy who line the ocean from Palm Beach to Miami Beach.

"We need the big money people," Browning said. "You need millions, but it's a vital—and missing—portion of Florida's film industry."

Arthur Godfrey first drew attention to Florida as a TV-movie possibility when his show came to Miami Beach in 1953. Locals enjoyed the redhead's publicity so much they named a major street Arthur Godfrey Road.

When Miami Beach publicist Hank Meyer talked Gleason into heading south six seasons ago, the city fathers pitched in $450,000 to prepare Miami Beach Auditorium for television shooting.

Other than Tors' studio, the F&B Ceco rates as a major film maker in Florida. Like the Tors people, its leaders are hoping for increased action, more financing by Floridians—and holding on to those blue skies and clear waters.

LA Residents Favor Growth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The researchers expected to find Los Angeles residents anxious to stop the sprawling growth that has made this the second largest metropolitan area in the country. They were wrong.

Behavior Science Corp. interviewed a random 2,000 of the area's more than 7 million citizens and found that more than half want a larger population. Why?

"The 59 per cent who favored continued population growth—perhaps it's their belief that growth of any kind is progress, that progress means jobs and opportunity," said Dr. Stanley C. Plog, the corporation's president. "Most residents obviously are not fully taking into account the real impact of this growth."

To no one's surprise, citizens listed the climate as Los Angeles' best feature and smog as its worst.
