Rocky Gambles His Political Future, Marries Divorcee

Going Steady

Mary Kay Jullie, 18, and her boy friend of three weeks, David Robinson, 17, both of Minneapolis, are shown seeking help at a suburban Brooklin Center police station, after they had been playfully shackled together with handcuffs. Mary Kay's 12-year-old brother, Jimmy, shackled them with Japanese handcuffs sent to him by an older brother in the Armed Forces. Then he couldn't find the key. Police were unable to free them. Later, a school chum showed up and filed a key from a sewing machine to fit the lock, and freed the couple.

Censor Document Is Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—A potentially explosive document in the hands of a House subcommittee is reported to lay down administration guidelines for restricting the movements of American correspondents covering the warfare in South Viet Nam.

Sources familiar with the document, a message to the American ambassador in Saigon, said it contains two main points on how to deal with U.S. newsmen trying to cover the shadowy rice paddy war:

1. Keep American reporters away from areas where fighting is being done entirely or almost entirely by U.S. troops.

2. Keep American reporters away from any area which will show the extent of President Ngo Dinh Diem's failure to attract the full allegiance of the South Vietnamese people.

Pledged to secrecy, the House subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information plans to hold closed hearings on the directive later this month.

At issue: Is the document properly classified as a confidential military secret or is it being covered up because it might embarrass the Kennedy administration's relationship with the authoritarian Diem regime?

The document, signed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, is more than a year old. But it is still in effect.

In the cable jargon of the State Department, when communicating to field stations, it is labeled "Message to AmEmbassy Saigon 1006."

PUBLIC SESSION

The House subcommittee, conducting a wide-ranging inquiry into censorship and charges of news management, already has heard in public session Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester and his State Department counterpart, Robert Manning. Both are in charge of public information for their departments.

They may be called back in closed session to testify about "Saigon 1006."

An official description of the South Viet Nam news situation prepared by subcommittee staff members mentions that a "confidential State Department message to the American ambassador in Saigon stated that 'more flexibility at the local level' was needed in dealing with U.S. newsmen covering the Viet Nam operations."

FAR BEYOND

But sources familiar with the document say it goes far beyond such general language.

Two members of the subcommittee have confirmed they know of the existence of the message. Both say they have not actually seen it, but have been briefed on its contents, which seem certain to add fuel to Republican outcries against alleged news management.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

What we need now is another sneaky shower such as slipped across the southeast third of the county last Sunday morning. Most of the area from Lomax to above Coahoma got an inch or more of moisture—some with a brisk peppering of hail. The season is ripe now, for the next 30 days will be prime planting time.

Formalities surrounding the closing on sale of Cosden Petroleum to American Petrofina were executed on Monday. Some more definite picture of adjustments to take place under the new combine may begin to shape this week. Meantime, Cosden Oil & Chemical Company has come into being to handle operations on this end.

Another sale, that of the television station (KWAB) was announced, but immediately there arose some dispute on the actual trade and terms.

The week was one that Lamesa can remember, for a $100,000 fire wiped out the Dawson County Farm Store and threatened other business houses for a time. During the week, the City of Lamesa moved its administrative offices to a new home, a renovated building acquired and outfitted for $60,000. This gives 5,500 square feet of work space, and represents a mighty good buy at the price.

Khrushchev's Successor Is Stricken

MOSCOW (AP)—The apparently grave illness of Frol R. Kozlov, 55, wavy-haired, choice of Premier Khrushchev as his successor, whipped up speculation Saturday as to who might be next in line.

Informed sources said Kozlov has a blood clot on the brain and is likely to be hospitalized for months.

Most Westerners here considered the mantle of heir apparent will fall on Leonid I. Brezhnev, 56, the hearty, beetle-browed president of the Soviet Union, if Kozlov is eliminated from the political scene.

Brezhnev has long been a protege of Khrushchev, who told a Kremlin gathering April 24 old age is creeping up on him—"I am already 69 and I have the right to say so"—and that he cannot hold the Soviet helm forever.

The Soviet Communist party's Central Committee confirmed in an unprecedented announcement that Kozlov, one of its secretaries and a member of the 11-member party Presidium, is ill.

Officials declined to elaborate, but the announcement at least authoritatively explained his absence from the reviewing stand on Lenin's tomb at the May Day parade through Moscow's Red Square. His last appearance at an official meeting was April 8.

"In connection with requests received," the announcement said, "the Central Committee of the Communist party reports that member of the Presidium, secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party, F. R. Kozlov, could not participate in the May 1 celebration because of his illness."

Well-informed sources said Kozlov, who was felled by a heart attack two years ago, suffered a thrombosis, a clot of blood in the circulatory system.

They said the clot lodged on the brain and may already have brought on some paralysis. Newsmen who asked whether he had suffered a brain hemorrhage, as reported in some circles, were told emphatically he had not.

A Western doctor explained that a damaged heart, such as Kozlov's, might permit a clot to form any place in the circulatory system.

NO ASSURANCE

There is no assurance that Khrushchev is going to need a successor right away, despite his April 24 reminder that he cannot carry on forever. While leading the government as premier, he is also chairman of the Presidium of the Central Committee, which makes him head of the party.

His speech provoked a flurry of talk that he might give up one or possibly both jobs as early as a Central Committee meeting called for May 28. But the talk quickly ebbed and Khrushchev seems to be riding high.

There is no automatic succession, either in the government or in the party. There are several deputy premiers, the senior being Anastas I. Mikoyan. He is Khrushchev's closest friend, but is rarely considered a likely successor either in the party or in the government.

Brezhnev's job as president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet makes him a figurehead chief of state. While that is virtually nothing as a job, he has been called constantly into the full party and government councils under Khrushchev.

Lyndon Wows The Kids As He Acts Familiar Role

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson made his first visit to Wisconsin Saturday, and in the space of a few hours managed to plug the administration's foreign policy, to receive an ovation at a luncheon of business leaders—and to win the hearts of a dozen curbside moppets.

Primary purpose of Johnson's trip was to address a $100-a-plate Democratic fund raising dinner at the Milwaukee Arena Saturday night, and there was some evidence that the party would have difficulty living up to state chairman Patrick J. Lucey's promise that attendance would top the 2,140 who paid the same sum to hear New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at a similar GOP dinner earlier this spring.

Wisconsin Democrats have been having their intra-party troubles over the dinner, with leaders of organized labor openly critical of the $100-a-plate prices. Last year's event, addressed by President John F. Kennedy, was sold out, and additional hundreds crowded the arena balconies.

During the day, the vice president signed a plaque at the Milwaukee Press Club, and in a brief talk outlined administration policy toward Cuba, which he termed a "costly failure of communism." He praised the leadership of Kennedy — "that able young man in the White House" —and said that suggestions for dealing with the Cuba problem would be welcome.

"But we don't think that dropping bombs is the way to deal with it," he said.

But it was the children on the streets that brought out the campaigner most conspicuously in the vice president.

Shortly after his arrival he stopped the motorcade bearing him downtown from the airport to interview 6-year-old Billy Large, who wore a green helmet liner and carried a toy rifle to his parade vantage point.

Johnson halted again to talk to John and Elaine Jayson about their 16-month-old daughter, Diane, at another intersection, tried out a small boy's baseball bat with a couple of vigorous swings—including one which nearly felled Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier, standing behind the vice president — and three times stopped to talk to youngsters in bands along the motorcade route.

J. D. Hines Dies In Oil Rig Accident

Jefferson Davis Hines, 56, 811 Baylor, was fatally injured in an oil field accident about a half mile southeast of Vincent at 11 p.m. Friday. Justice of the Peace Walter Grice of Big Spring ruled death was accidental.

Witnesses said the man's head was crushed when struck by a joint of pipe which fell from the inside of the derrick. He was brought to Big Spring by a River ambulance.

The accident occurred on the Tom Brown Drilling Co. Rig No. 3. Mr. Hines was a roughneck with the crew drilling the well.

He was born June 20, 1906 at Carbon and had lived in Big Spring since 1948. Mr. Hines was a member of the Carbon Masonic body, and of the Carbon Baptist Church.

Funeral will be held in the River chapel at 2 p.m. today with the Rev. Carl Lee, pastor of the Forsan Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of River Funeral Home.

Survivors include three brothers, Henry Hines, Carbon, L. Z. Hines, New Orleans, La., M. M. Hines, Big Spring; two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Speer, Port Neches, and Mrs. G. A. Plumber, Midland.

Pallbearers will be Earl Hughes, Tony Barrow, D. E. Scudday, C. Y. Clinkscales, Foy Dunlap, and O. F. Clark.

Rusk, Yugoslav Leader Confer On Relations

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred with President Tito Saturday night on improving U.S.-Yugoslav relations and handed the Communist leader a personal letter from President Kennedy.

Contents of the letter were not disclosed immediately, but the message was believed to contain Kennedy's renewed assurances that his administration would seek to restore Yugoslavia's most-favored-nation trade status with the United States.

Over Kennedy's objections, Congress canceled Yugoslavia's most-favored-nation status last year when Tito's regime seemed to be swinging back toward the Soviet camp.

The move became another irritant in U.S.-Yugoslav relations and is said to be one reason why U.S. Ambassador George F. Kennan reportedly plans to resign this summer.

Tito brought up the matter in a private letter he wrote to Kennedy recently.

PRIVATE LETTER

Tito, 71, an independent Communist who would like to keep his fences repaired between both Washington and Moscow, was host to Rusk at his private residence in suburban Dedinje.

Rusk and 28 State and Defense Department aides arrived in Belgrade at noon from New Delhi. They will leave for Washington Sunday, ending a trip that took them to Ankara, Tehran, Karachi and the Indian capital.

Rusk was greeted in high fashion. A Yugoslav Air Force band played the Star Spangled Banner and Yugoslavia's national anthem. A red carpet was rolled out and Foreign Minister Koca Popovic came to meet Rusk.

With Popovic, Rusk reviewed an honor guard.

NO DETAILS

The details of Rusk's talk with Tito were not made known. But both Yugoslav and U.S. officials said they hoped the meeting would serve to reduce U.S.-Yugoslav misunderstandings and frictions. These have been snowballing since September 1961 when Tito implied his approval of Soviet resumption of nuclear tests. Soviet tests ended a tacit U.S.-Soviet agreement banning them.

It became clear, at off-the-record briefings by both Yugoslavs and members of the U.S. Embassy staff that both governments are unhappy about the current state of affairs. It was equally clear the Tito-Rusk talk was intended to establish a base for better relations.

'Happy' Becomes Governor's Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, gambling his political future for his love, married newly divorced Margaretta (Happy) Murphy on Saturday.

The ceremony took place within the privacy of the wooded and walled five-square-mile Rockefeller family estate in suburban Westchester County. The couple will leave Sunday for a honeymoon in the seclusion of the 1,235-acre Rockefeller ranch in Venezuela.

Rumors of the romance between the 54-year-old Republican governor and the 36-year-old tawny-haired social registerite who once worked on his staff had excited national attention for weeks.

Political experts tried to assess the effect on his presidential chances of Rockefeller's remarriage, after divorce just last year after 31 years of marriage.

Republican National Chairman William Miller, a congressman from New York, said he thought it would have no material effect. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., thought it might help Rockefeller by giving "him a more integrated life socially."

Several Republican national committeemen advised him publicly last week that marriage would hurt him with the voters. But the newly elected state party chairman in New York, Fred A. Young, remarked: "If it's a solid marriage, what's wrong with it?"

UNION CHURCH

Rockefeller and the former Mrs. Murphy exchanged vows before a Presbyterian minister at the home of Rockefeller's brother, Laurance. The governor is a Baptist. His bride, christened an Episcopalian, has been attending the Union Church of the Rev. Marshall L. Smith, who performed the marriage.

Only immediate members of the bride's and bridegroom's families attended the ceremony, according to the announcement issued three hours after the noon wedding.

The announcement did not specify whether the guests included any of Rockefeller's four grown children or his bride's four, who range in age from 3 to 12.

The governor's former wife of 31 years, Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller, maintains a residence on the vast Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, 25 miles north of Manhattan, where the marriage took place.

The new Mrs. Rockefeller's ex-husband, Dr. James S. Murphy, 41, a medical researcher for the Rockefeller Institute, lives in New York City. But he and his former wife also had homes near the Rockefeller estate and near the governor's vacation home at Seal Harbor, Maine.

CLOSE FOR YEARS

Moving in the same social circles, the Rockefellers and the Murphys had been close for years. In 1958, Mrs. Murphy campaigned with Rockefeller as a volunteer aide in his first bid for governor. Later she became a paid member of his Manhattan staff.

"Smart set" gossip first joined the names of Rockefeller and Mrs. Murphy when the governor announced the breakup of his marriage in November 1961. Mrs. Rockefeller went to Reno, Nev., for the divorce, which she obtained March 16, 1962, on grounds of mental anguish.

After Mrs. Murphy divorced the doctor on similar grounds at Sun Valley, Idaho, on April 1, the gossip became public. But Rockefeller, always smiling, repeatedly refused to comment on the speculation which preceded Saturday's wedding announcement.

BRIDE'S DRESS

"The bride wore a pale blue dress of silk shantung, of straight line with a small bow at the neck," the announcement said. "She wore natural color shoes and white gloves, and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

"Mr. and Mrs. Laurance S. Rockefeller were hosts at a luncheon following the ceremony."

The honeymoon ranch, called Monte Sacro, is situated about 20 miles from Valencia, an interior city 100 miles southwest of the Venezuelan capital of Caracas. It was not learned how long they will stay there.

"On their return," the announcement said, "the couple will make their home in the executive mansion in Albany and at the governor's home in Pocantico Hills."

The new Mrs. Rockefeller descends from a Philadelphia "Main Line" society family, just as did the governor's first wife.

The former Margaretta Fitler, the new Mrs. Rockefeller, got her nickname "Happy" from her classmates at the elite Shiley's School of Bryn Mawr, Pa., her native city.

Her mother is Mrs. George E. Bartol Jr. of Wynnewood, Pa., and her father was the late William W. Fitler Jr.

ONE SON LOST

Rockefeller and his former wife had five children, but one, Michael, 23, was lost on a primitive art expedition in New Guinea just at the time his parents announced the end of their marriage. The other Rockefeller children are Rodman C., Steven C., Mrs. Robert L. Pierson and Mrs. William L. Strawbridge Jr.

185 Drown In Nile River

MAGHAGHA, Upper Egypt (AP) — One hundred eighty-five persons were drowned in the Nile Saturday in one of the worst disasters on the river, police reported.

Only 15 persons survived the sinking of a motor launch which had been carrying 200 passengers, police said.

So far only 15 bodies have been recovered, the police added.

Authorities said the craft was equipped to handle only 80 passengers.

Aboard were Moslems returning from Bairam feast observations. Maghagha is 200 miles south of Cairo.

Shot To Death

ABILENE (AP)—Marvin Smith, 40, a construction worker, was found shot to death today in his home. Justice of Peace Silas Clark ruled suicide.

Neutralist Prince Charges Reds Fired On Truce Team

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma charged Saturday that pro-Communist Pathet Lao shot up two truce mission helicopters near the Plaine des Jarres. He threatened to abandon peace talks with Pathet Lao chiefs.

The attack—called totally unprovoked by a Western diplomat—posed a threat of renewed civil war in this troubled land.

Souvanna blamed the Pathet Lao for the incident after his return from truce talks at Pathet Lao headquarters. He said he may not resume the negotiations.

"I don't know yet," he said, looking grim and tired. "But I may not return to the Plaine des Jarres."

Souvanna was shaken by the attack Friday on the truce commission helicopters, the Western diplomat said.

Souvanna said the Pathet Lao who shot point blank held a hill position at the site of the attack, near the neutralist-held Plaine, 110 miles northeast of Vientiane.

The helicopters had gone to the area near the Plaine des Jarres to pick up the body of a Frenchman killed when a truck hit a land mine.

The commission—made up of Poland, Canada and India—is stationed in Laos to serve as an international watchdog.

A French army sergeant guarding the truck also claimed the Pathet Lao opened fire.

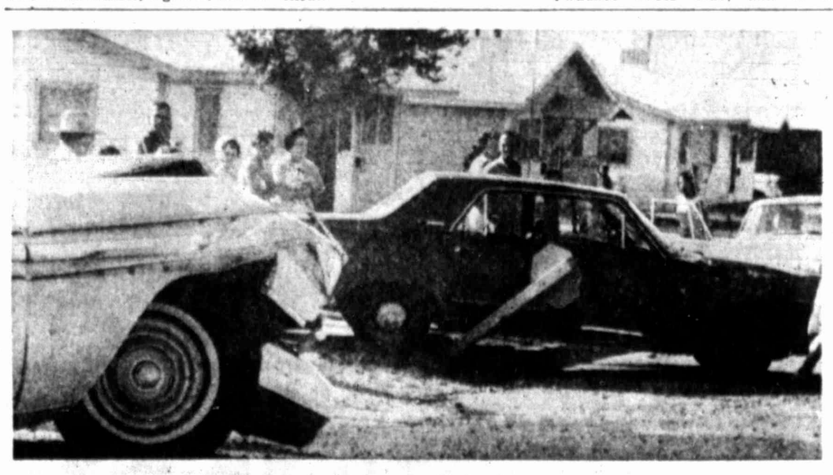

Three Frenchmen and an Indian major were injured.

The helicopters were dispatched on a mercy mission with the clearance and authorization of Pathet Lao chief Prince Souphanouvong, the Western diplomat said.

The pro-Communists fired at the helicopters after the occupants got out, French Staff Sgt. Henri Simon said.

He said he was out of the range of fire.

"The others were out in the open and they were immediately rounded up," he said. When they opened fire I dived into a canal beside the road, swam a distance of some meters, crawled out and managed to make my way to the Plaine des Jarres."

Two Injured

A Coahoma man, Jackie Hanes, was treated and released at Howard County Hospital Foundation, and a Dyess AFB man, owner of the car in the background, was hospitalized at Webb AFB Hospital following a collision of the two cars at Marcy and Bluebird. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $1,550.

Two Injured In Auto Crash

Two men were taken to local hospitals following a two-car crash at Bluebird and Marcy Drive about 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Edgar D. Van Pelt, 25, of Dyess AFB at Abilene, was the more seriously injured. He was a passenger in his own car, which was driven by Jackie Hanes, 22, Coahoma. Driver of the second car involved was Richard Y. Cloud Jr., Midland, who was not injured.

Van Pelt and Hanes were taken to Howard County Hospital Foundation in a River ambulance. Hanes was treated and released for minor hurts, but Van Pelt was moved to the Webb AFB Hospital. He was treated for cuts and bruises and is being held for observation of possible internal injuries.

The Van Pelt car was traveling east on Marcy and the driver was attempting a left turn onto Bluebird at the time of the mishap. The Cloud car was moving west on Marcy.

Dogs, Water Hoses Break Up Marchers

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Police used dogs and high-velocity water hoses Saturday to disperse an estimated 1,000 racial demonstrators.

One of the Negro leaders called on the crowd to disperse before someone got hurt.

"We don't want a riot," said the Rev. James Bevels. "Lives could be lost. I saw at least 25 Negro men with guns."

It was the third straight day of a stepped-up campaign against racial segregation in this steel city, Alabama's largest.

President Kennedy was reportedly dismayed at the turn of events and his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, dispatched two of his key civil rights men to Birmingham to confer with leaders on both sides.

After police had broken up the crowd with six or seven police dogs, Bevels called to the crowd, "Get back. We don't want any trouble. The only way you can help our movement now is to get back."

"Something like this could easily cause a riot," he said.

The demonstrators had challenged the fire hoses and dogs, but started to give ground when firemen splashed them with water from the high-velocity nozzles.

At least two Negro women were knocked off their feet by the water as firemen began using high-pressure hoses.

The water was used after someone threw a pop bottle at police. The bottle broke near Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor and he ordered, "Give them the water."

Police held the dogs in readiness.

The federal government entered the picture for the first time when it sent two Justice Department officials to Birmingham to confer with both sides.

Several Negro men challenged the water but were knocked down.

A huge roar welled up from the crowd as the dogs were brought up. The Negroes did not disperse immediately as they did Friday.

Two Negroes with rocks attempted to climb on top of a car but ran when a police dog approached.

The Negroes started to give ground gradually as firemen played the hose into the crowd. White spectators cheered when the water hose was brought into play.

Another 1,000 Negroes gathered in the area and shouted encouragement to the embattled demonstrators. Many were old Negro women.

Two Students Build 18 Foot Sailboat

By M. A. WEBB

Two Big Spring boys, Jimmy Pierce and Roger Parker, have turned up with a brand new 18-foot sailboat at 2305 Roberts. They built it themselves at a total cost of $43.62.

Rogers is a member and assistant leader of the Sea Scouts, and Jimmy has been a member. Both are freshmen at Howard County Junior College.

The long, blue sailer is five feet, three inches at the breast, and is 16 inches deep. It carries a 24-foot mast with an 11-foot boom. The keel, or center board, is made of one-quarter-inch steel and will drop four feet into the water.

The boat has not yet been put on the water but the two boys were to try it out this weekend on Moss Creek Lake. They still have to build a trailer for the boat.

The boys said they had been interested in sailing for some time. Both had sailed smaller boats but had never handled one 18 feet long.

"Our leader in the Sea Scouts said he didn't believe we could do it," they said. "That set us off. We went at it then with the intention of completing the job. We got a set of plans from an HCJC library book, 'Small Boat Building,' and began.

"We managed to scrounge most of the material," the boys said, "but bought the half-inch plywood, mast, the backbone of 1x10's and the 10 gross of brass screws.

"We built the boat in the Parkers' back yard at 1607 E. 17th, and Roger's father, who is a carpenter at Webb AFB, provided us with a lot of power tools which saved hand-work," Jimmy said. "Before it was done, our parents were about as interested as we were."

Jimmy and Roger said they now needed somebody to teach them how to handle the boat.

"In a light wind and small pond we can learn a lot," they said, "but we don't want to take it out on a body of water like Lake J. B. Thomas until we know what we are doing."

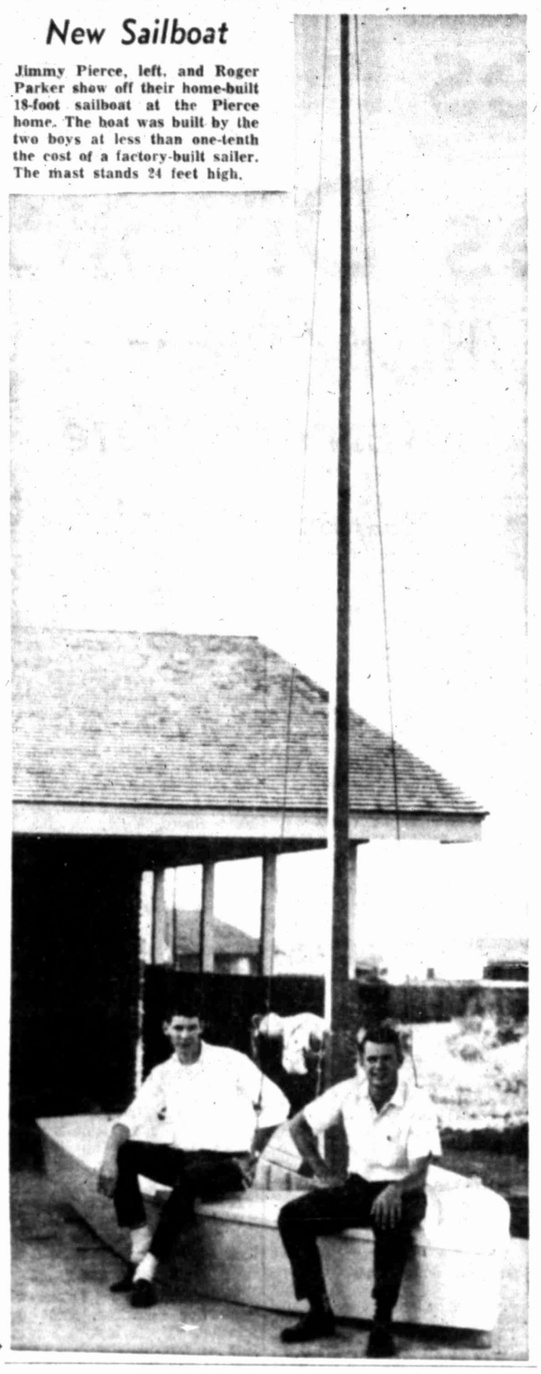

The boat has not been named but the boys said they had been "kicking two or three names around." They said it might possibly be named "Mr. Blue," because of its color.

The $43.62 boat might have cost several hundred dollars on the market.

"I am just about as thrilled as the boys," Mrs. J. C. Pierce, Jimmy's mother, said. "The nearer the time comes to get it in the water, the more interested I am. I think two sets of parents are going to enjoy the sail boat as much as the youngsters—from the shore, that is. Maybe we'll take a ride later."

New Sailboat

Jimmy Pierce, left, and Roger Parker show off their home-built 18-foot sailboat at the Pierce home. The boat was built by the two boys at less than one-tenth the cost of a factory-built sailer. The mast stands 24 feet high.

More Campaigns

A SAMPLE

My querist sent a tract which tells how members are received into his denomination. The following quotation from the tract illustrates the authority that denominations usurp over the souls of men: "All applicants should be thoroughly informed that they will be expected to pay their tithes into the church treasury, and make offerings and gifts besides. They should be willing to engage in all the activities as instructed by the General Assembly. Loyalty to the General Assembly is one of the chief principles to be emphasized, but this is only being loyal to the Bible, because the General Assembly of the Church stands for the whole Bible right-ly divided." (White Wing Publishing H & P). This is a sample of denominational over-lordship.

Today, attend one of the independent and undenominational churches of Christ, where you are not asked to be loyal to someone besides Christ.

Services today: 9:30, 10:30 and 7.

Extra Rodeo Events Are Being Planned

Several events in conjunction with the 30th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo—the oldest professional show in this region—are shaping.

Joe Connally, president of the Big Spring Square Dance Club, is working on plans for a square dance festival on one of the downtown streets during rodeo time.

Carlton Chapman said the Chamber of Commerce agricultural committee is taking over sponsorship of tours to neighboring cities to boost the rodeo. Hoyle Nix, an old favorite in these parts, will take his band along to liven matters.

On the afternoon of the final day of the rodeo, a horse show will be held at the Howard County Fair Barns, and Jimmy Taylor, in charge of this event, reported that a number of outstanding entries already have been indicated.

Meanwhile, the rodeo grounds are being put in top shape for the year's production.

While there are several other rodeos in this area, they are open or limited to amateur performers. The Big Spring rodeo alone remains in this territory to attract the leading professional cowboys on the rodeo circuit.

The first rodeo performance will be the evening of May 28, followed by shows on three successive evenings.

New Construction Nears A Million

LAMESA (SC)—Construction in Lamesa fell short of the $1 million mark after April building boosted the 1963 total to $956,635.

Building here last month amounted to $112,756, a sharp decline from March, but still enough to boost the figure near a million dollars for four months.

The largest permit issued was to Lee & Webb for a commercial building at 210 S. Houston for $31,956.

Legislature May Quit In 3 Weeks

AUSTIN (AP) — Three weeks from now, the 58th Legislature may be history.

The Senate sent the tax bill to the governor Thursday and the Appropriations Conference Committee began work at once on a compromise spending bill.

Some members jubilantly thought they could see daylight from beneath the load of legislation that has smothered the pink granite Capitol since Jan. 8. They put a lot of "ifs" together and came up with a final adjournment by midnight of May 24, three days before the 140-day limit placed on regular sessions by the Constitution.

That timetable is dependent upon the progress made the next week by two very important conference committees — the group deciding Senate-House differences on 1963-64 spending and the anti-loan shark bill negotiations.

Gov. John Connally has said repeatedly he does not want to call a special session after the regular session even if some of his program is left undone. He has indicated that unfinished spending plans and a loan regulation bill that is not "workable" might be two reasons that could change his mind.

Some Connally associates say a special session might interfere with the governor's plans for a re-election campaign just as the session would put campaigning legislators on the spot.

Under the early primary laws, the filing deadline for all candidates is Feb. 5, which means that any one interested must begin work back in January or earlier to have a campaign organization in full swing by the filing date.

The frequent personal appearances and speaking engagements being made now throughout the state by Connally, the attorney general and a large number of legislators could be considered pre-campaign travels.

The fact that 15 state senators are having to run for re-election after serving only two years will add to the campaign circuits.

Some statements being made by Texas Democrats and Republicans concerning legislation also sound a lot like campaign charges and counter charges.

After the passage of the San Angelo College bill Thursday, the eight House Republicans accused the governor of backing the bill to pay off "the governor's political debts to certain powerful men in the San Angelo area."

Connally came right back and said the Republican candidate for governor, Jack Cox, had endorsed a four-year state-supported status for the San Angelo College.

If the legislature adjourns May 24 or 27 with any degree of harmony it could be that the final hours will be marked by a number of re-election campaign announcements. It has happened before.

Work Begins To Restore Ruins At Old Fort Davis

The assignment of Charles Woodbury of Petaluma, Calif., as resident architect at Fort Davis National Historic Site, marks the beginning of restoration work on the old Army post in the Davis Mountains. Shortly after his arrival in March, Woodbury began emergency stabilization work designed to prevent further deterioration of the old buildings and also began drawing up plans for the first phase of the restoration work. A contract is expected early this summer for roofing and porching about half the buildings.

Fort Davis National Historic Site became a unit of the National Park System in January following study by historians of the National Park Service and evaluation by the National Parks Advisory Board. Bills introduced in Congress by Sen. Ralph Yarborough and Rep. T. J. Rutherford in 1961 were enacted to authorize addition of the site to the National Park System.

Fort Davis represents one of the best surviving examples of the typical frontier fort of the 19th century. This was recognized by the citizens of the town of Fort Davis who worked for years to have the old fort preserved by the federal government.

Michael J. Becker, the first superintendent of the site, moved to Fort Davis in January. He was formerly superintendent of Tumacacori National Monument, Ariz., and earlier served at the Blue Ridge Parkway in Virginia. National Park Service Historian Erwin N. Thompson reported March 31, having transferred from Whitman Mission National Monument, Washington. Park Ranger Robert D. Dunnagan was expected to move from Bandelier National Monument, N. M., in April.

There are more than 25 buildings standing at Fort Davis in varying stages of decay. The National Park Service plans to stabilize, and in some cases restore, these buildings in order to save them from imminent collapse.

The long and dramatic history of Fort Davis will be portrayed in a museum to be erected at the site, with exhibits prepared by the Western Museum Laboratory of the National Park Service in San Francisco.

This history began in 1854 when General Persifor F. Smith, commanding the Department of Texas, selected the site on Limpia Creek as the location for a fort. It was designed to guard the road from San Antonio to El Paso. Stagecoaches, immigrant trains, and freighters had suffered repeated attacks from Apache and Comanche war parties raiding southward from their homes in New Mexico and Oklahoma.

The fort was built and garrisoned by Lt. Col. Washington Seawell and six companies of the 8th U. S. Infantry. The first buildings, located in a box canyon, were rude structures of upright pine slabs that rapidly deteriorated. The troops lived in these until the outbreak of the Civil War, when the fort was abandoned by federal troops and occupied for a short time by a Confederate company of the 2nd Texas Mounted Rifles. During this brief period occurred the famous Mays Massacre, in which a detachment of 14 men under Lt. Reuben E. Mays was wiped out by Apaches under Chief Nicholas.

Federal troops under Lt. Col. Wesley Merritt, famed Civil War cavalry general, returned to Fort Davis in 1867 and built a new fort of stone and adobe at the mouth of the canyon in which Col. Seawell's fort had been located. It is the buildings of this second post that are to be seen at the site today.

For 15 years after 1867, Fort Davis was garrisoned by Negro soldiers of the 9th and 10th Cavalry and 24th and 25th Infantry. Arduous scouting, patrolling and skirmishing finally reached a climax in 1879-80 with the outbreak of the war with the skilled Apache chief Victorio. Under Col. Benjamin H. Grierson, the troops from Fort Davis fought Victorio's warriors in the deserts west of the Davis Mountains and finally drove them across the river into Mexico, where Victorio was killed by Mexican soldiers.

The last decade was routine. The railroads came and cattlemen filled the country. The frontier moved on, and Fort Davis was no longer needed. It was abandoned in 1891.

Museums Listed In New Directory

The first directory on Texas' Historical Museums is being distributed by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, according to John Ben Shepperd, Odessa, president of the state agency.

"Last year 4,569,399 people visited historical museums in Texas —1,255,915 from out of state and 226,769 out of country. They were one of the best tourist attractions in Texas," Shepperd said, "and produced a large amount of additional tourist revenue for the state."

Each museum is listed according to city, giving street address, collections and exhibits contained, hours open and manner of admission.

Rolled-Up Sleeves Stimulates Action

When a tiny band of Peace Corps Volunteers moved last month into flood-devastated Ica, destruction among mud huts (like those above) was everywhere. Sammie Sue McComb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. McComb, 811 E. 13th, and fellow PCVs rolled up their sleeves and went to work. This proved a catalyst that worked miracles.

Peace Corps Report By Local Volunteer

"We showed up at 7 a.m. with shovels, picks, rakes and started clearing out their community meeting place. We girls helped shovel, and before you knew it, the women were out there helping us to do this hard work!

"After the women started working, soon the men came in and took the shovels away from us and started working. You should have seen the movement!"

Thus the flood-stricken town of Ica, Peru began to do something about its abominable mess. It gave Sammie Sue McComb perhaps her greatest thrill to date as a Peace Corps volunteer.

LETTER

In one of her letters to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. McComb, 811 E. 13th, Sammie described the havoc, filth and pestilence left in the wake of a terrible flood.

Seven PCVs were dispatched to Ica, and they went at once to see the barridas and the results of the flood.

"To begin with," she said, "the slums in the states are veritable paradises in comparison with ours here. The houses in Ica are made of cane covered with mud. On all the houses you could see the flood line because only the cane was left standing as far up as the flood waters had reached. . . . In some places, the waters reached almost seven feet.

The streets were in terrible shape. People urinated in them and threw their trash there, too. On these heaps were blankets of flies.

"What a situation ripe for an epidemic," Sammie Sue wrote.

She and others urged the people to boil their water before drinking, especially since the flood had made the water worse than ever.

WATER

"You should see the river," she said. "They throw garbage in there, too. As if that wasn't bad enough by itself, they bathe there and get their water from it!"

Although the natives agreed that there are "microbios" in the water, they still don't boil it.

The tiny contingent of Peace Corps workers lost no time tackling the problem despite the hygiene and health frustration.

"We distributed blankets, rice, corn meal, rolled oats (all donated by the United States and Caritas, the Catholic relief agency), sprayed the garbage piles and along the river, built latrines, set up medical posts and started an inoculation program (I even gave injections), supervised the feeding program and helped in the general cleanup," she wrote.

"The first two days were rather explosive, such as being called American exploiters, etc. by the demented Communists. Soon the situation calmed down when they saw we were there to work with our hands and not to make meaningless promises.

"We arrived three weeks after the flood, and by our second day, we had talked with the mayor and got a bulldozer and truck to cart off the junk piles."

PITCHED IN

This was when, instead of pleading with native men to help, the PCVs, including the girls, pitched in with their tools, got response from the women and then the men.

"People started cleaning out their houses. It was just amazing. After three weeks of doing very little, a few gringos come in, set an example, and boom, they get to work. Even the little kids were helping.

"In all, it was the most exciting Peace Corps work I've done since my arrival in Peru. It was really electrifying. We really felt good when we saw the results. The most important thing was that the people themselves did it and didn't need any outside help. Things were going so well, we had to leave and go to other barridas to get the people moving."

Her new station is Cuzco, and her new assignment is in nutrition. This week she went to Paucartambo for a month because there was only one girl PCV there and authorities did not want her to be alone.

From Cuzco to the jungle is only about four hours, but there is the small matter of the Sierras. Cuzco, once the capital of the Inca Empire, is at elevation 11,440 feet. The city of some 70,000 souls is at the head of a gently sloping valley which is densely populated.

LOCAL GRADUATE

Sammie Sue is a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Howard County Junior College and was graduated as a major in Spanish from North Texas State University. She taught briefly in Dallas before joining the Peace Corps in May, 1962 for a four month's period of training in Puerto Rico. In Peru, she and other PCVs live like and with the native population.

Recently her two Dallas roommates, who are airline hostesses, visited her in Peru. She splurged and spent the night in a Lima hotel with them.

"This is the first time since November I've got to wash my hair with hot water," they said Sammy confessed. "But when she got to talking about her work, you should see her face light up."

County Docket Opens Monday

Cases left untried on the first of a two week criminal jury docket in Howard County Court are to be called up this week, Lee Porter, county judge, has announced.

He said he would call the cases still on the docket (which was started the week of April 15) Monday at 1 p.m. Tuesday at 9 a.m., a jury panel will report to the court for duty in any of the cases announced ready.

Judge Porter and Wayne Burns, county attorney, set down 26 cases for disposition on two non-consecutive weeks of jury docket. The first week's trials were April 15.

The following cases are still on the docket and subject to call Monday afternoon:

Jerry F. King, DWI; Jerry F. King, unlawful possession of firearms; McAllyn Edmiston, DWI; Fred Constancio Jr., DWI; Lillian Clark, DWI; Lillian Clark, driving with driver's license suspended; J. W. Purser, DWI; Eula Mae Barber, DWI; Bransford T. Bulls, negligent homicide; Moises Garcia, transporting; Michael Harrison, driving with suspended driver's license; and Richard L. Kelly, DWI.

FFA Chapter Awards Presented

COAHOMA (SC) — FFA awards were made during the Parent-Son banquet of the Coahoma chapter Thursday at the school. Approximately 160 persons attended.

Olen Fryar Jr. received the Star Chapter Farmer award and Keith Hodnett was named the Greenhand Star Farmer. Fryar also received the Crops award and the livestock award went to Vernon Long.

Honorary Chapter Farmer presentations went to Jim Burgess, Aaron Stoker and Delton Long.

The Livestock Judging team left Friday morning for Texas A&M College to participate in the State FFA Livestock Judging contests. Team members are Vernon Long, Tommy Menser, Olen Fryar Jr. and Jimmy Shafer. They will return Sunday.

Court Activity

LAMESA (SC)—Activity in 106th District Court here picked up considerably during April as 29 cases were filed for disposition. Divorce actions and delinquent tax suits topped the list with six each.

Plans Shaping Up For Webb's Open House

"We are working on what we hope to be the best Armed Forces Day Open House ever for Webb AFB," Col. Harold C. Collins, Wing Project Officer, reported. "Every effort is being made to insure our visitors will enjoy their visit with the Armed Forces May 18."

The Webb open house will start May 18 at 1 p.m. and will last until 5 p.m. The activities portion of the afternoon will begin at 1:30 o'clock with individual and group awards being presented. The air show will open with a sky diving exhibition and will follow a fast paced schedule throughout the mid-afternoon. The same sky divers will jump again to close the show.

Static displays of aircraft and missiles including replicas of the Polaris and Zuni missiles will be on exhibit.

Inside the big hangar there will be displays of civil defense, academics, civil engineering, hospital, and supporting services equipment.

The Armed Forces Day luncheon this year will be Friday, May 17, instead of immediately prior to the open house as in previous years.

Col. Wilson H. Banks, commander at Webb, said he hoped as many people in Big Spring and this area as possible will plan to attend the open house.

CPA Chapter Meets Tuesday

MIDLAND—The Permian Basin Chapter of Certified Public Accountants will hold a monthly meeting Tuesday at 6 p.m. at the Midland Elks Club. Speaker will be Louis W. Matusiak, director of professional development division of the American Institute of CPAs in New York City.

Immediately prior to assuming his duties at the Institute, Matusiak had served as national director of staff training and education for the firm of Touche, Ross, Bailey and Smart. From 1949 until 1957, he had taught accounting, first at the University of Illinois and later at the University of Detroit, where he served not only as associate professor of accounting but also as chairman of the department of accounting and business law. He has had long private practice as a CPA.

Water Usage Climbs Higher

LAMESA (SC)—April water consumption here posted its best monthly figure since last summer when a total of 67,411,000 gallons were pumped by the city water department.

Lawn-watering and a major fire on the last day of the month helped boost the total. About 400,000 gallons were used by firemen in extinguishing an April 30 blaze at the Dawson County Farm Store.

Postal Receipts Continue To Mark Heavy Increases

April postal receipts were $11,945 greater than receipts for the same month last year, E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said today.

So far, the first four months of 1963 have produced $172,960.69—a net increase of $48,149.92 over the same four months in 1962.

"Our receipts so far for the first one-third of the year are almost half of our total for the entire year of 1962," said the postmaster.

"Each month this year has shown a heavy increase over the preceding year. The increase in April represents a 44 per cent boost over the same month a year ago.

"Part of this increase can be charged to the increased postal rates which went into effect early this year, but not all of it. We are enjoying the heaviest business in post office history. We should pass our 1962 total receipts mark in early autumn if the same tempo holds for the months ahead."

Boatler said he has received no further word from Washington relative to a proposal to enlarge the plant here to better serve the public. A report was circulated some weeks ago which led to the hope plans were ripening for remodeling the post office building.

Boatler said the current difficulty over postal appropriations in Washington had probably curtailed any immediate action on the proposed improvements here.

'I Got Him Right Here'

Mrs. Jessey R. Hearn points to map of the route taken by her new husband from Antlers, Okla., to Big Spring. The couple was married at her home town of Santo within 22 hours after they met. Old Rex, his horse, looks at the map and frowns. He gets only about a 15-mile workout each day now, and rides in the trailer over more miles.

Booster's Bride Joins Homecoming Mission

By M. A. WEBB

"When you see a man you like, get him!"

Those were the words of advice given by Mrs. Jessey R. Hearn, new bride of a one-man mission from Pushmataha County, Okla., to Los Angeles, Calif.

"Two hours after we met in my home town of Santo," she said, "we were taking a blood test. Just 22 hours later we were married and I am now a part of the mission to boost the third annual Pushmataha County homecoming June 14-16."

Hearn, 37, a deputy sheriff from Antlers, Okla., set out on the California trip March 30, riding an old horse dressed in an 80-year-old saddle, and packing two 1917 model Colt revolvers.

His aim was to contact and alert some 18,000 former residents of Pushmataha County who left after the 1945 tornado which wiped out much of the county. He carries posters advertising the homecoming, and urges those who can't attend to write so their addresses will be known.

He spent 10 days on the road and then had to stop in Santo (Palo Pinto County) for about a week to relieve an infection which set up in an operation wound. While in Santo he met Opal Ince and the couple was married soon after.

Now old Rex, the horse, rides in a trailer pulled by a 1951 model car, and the two-person commission moves along a little faster. Rex is ridden about 15 miles each day. The couple left Abilene Saturday morning and pulled into Big Spring about 8:30 p.m. They will follow US 80 to Los Angeles.

Hearn carries credentials from the governor of Oklahoma, Sen. John Tower of Texas, and others, requesting safe passage on his trip to California.

"We are selling photographs of Jessey and Old Rex along the route," Mrs. Hearn said. "Ten per cent goes to the Pushmataha County Heart Fund, and we eat and buy gasoline on the balance.

"So far we haven't done so well. Up until tonight we have collected only $6, and that doesn't give much to the Heart Fund or to us. However, when people in Abilene heard about it this morning they began calling in and that helped some."

Hearn, who shows some fatigue from his recent illness, said: "Somehow we are going to make it to California and alert as many former Pushmataha County residents as possible to be in Antlers for the homecoming."

Police Investigate Several Thefts

Two thefts were investigated by police Friday night and early Saturday morning.

Two air conditioner water pumps, valued at $9.95 each; two hoses, and a side for an air conditioner valued at $30, were reported stolen from Skeeter Casselman, at 2507 and 2511 Rebecca. Bobby Howell, who was working on the air conditioners, said they were taken between noon April 30, and 4 p.m. Friday.

Alvin Vieregge, 1111 N. Gregg, reported the theft of a tire and wheel and eight quarts of motor oil from a 1958 model car parked at his home. The items, valued at $17.72, were taken from the trunk of the car between April 14 and Friday.

Troy Love, Reed Roller Bit Co., reported the theft of several regular and roller bits and assorted hand tools sometime Friday night. The theft occurred in Mitchell County and the report was radioed to area departments.

Drama Offering Slated Thursday

High school students call their drama offering here Thursday "A Night at the Theatre." The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium; tickets are 50 cents per person.

A variety of stage presentations is scheduled, all performed by members of the Court Jesters and Thespians. These include:

A scene from "The King and I"; the sleepwalking scene from Shakespeare's "Macbeth"; a scene from Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest"; and a one-act thriller mystery, "High Window."

All residents are invited to attend the performances.

Kathy Shaw Wins First In Show

Kathy Shaw, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw, Big Spring, took a first place with her entry in the "Favorite Food" show at Lubbock Saturday. She participated in the district 4-H Club exhibits.

Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Howard County Home Demonstration agent, said Kathy would be eligible to participate in the state finals at College Station in June. Approximately 20 girls participated in the show.

"This is the first time in several years that one of our girls has taken a first place in the food show," Mrs. Crawford said, "and we are proud of her achievements."

Big Pipe Work Set To Begin

Laying the first 24-inch pipe on the Lake J. B. Thomas-Silver pipeline project will begin this week.

Approximately 10,000 feet of large dimension concrete steel cylinder pipe have been strung on the ground, said O. H. Ivie, assistant general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Deliveries of this pipe amount to 3,300 feet per day.

Laying pipe on the south end of the 51.5-mile project has been proceeding satisfactorily and now 17 miles of 16-inch pipe are in the ground. The contractor, R. H. Fulton Company of Lubbock, is coming out of the rough country and is expected to step up the pace.

The north half of the project will have 24-inch line as the basis of a potential loop from Lake J. B. Thomas to Moss Creek Lake southeast of Big Spring.

The pipeline job is due to be completed by July 1 in order to furnish a supply to Sun Oil Company for a nothern Coke County waterflood program.

Missing Girl Found Saturday

Fourteen-year-old Judy Smith, who had been missing from her home in Big Spring for a week, was located by Howard County Sheriff's officers shortly before noon Saturday. The girl had been staying with friends on the Snyder Highway since she left home a week ago.

A general alert had been sent out for help in locating the girl. Juvenile Officer Bob Darland took charge of the girl Saturday.

Crusade Draws Second Big Crowd

Two nights of what may have been the largest religious gatherings in the history of Big Spring left the sound of Evangelist Freddie Gage's voice in the ears of many residents. Friday night's crowd practically filled the municipal auditorium, and Saturday night's attendance was almost as many.

Only about 20 seats were available Friday night in the main auditorium and the balcony. Temple Baptist pastor James Pucket said, and Saturday night found about 50 vacant seats, although some persons were standing in the doorways.

The five-day crusade by the evangelist drew crowds which the Temple Baptist Church auditorium would not accommodate, and the meeting was moved to the city auditorium. Plans were discussed for moving to Memorial Stadium if attendance threatened to best Friday night's.

The movie, "The Tony Fontane Story," was disrupted about half way through Friday night when the projector failed, but Gage took it up and related the life story before giving the invitation. The film was shown again last night, with no interruption.

There were 60 confessions of faith Friday night, Rev. Puckett said. The number was not available Saturday night.

More than 200 young people went to the Big "M" drive-in and sang hymns after the Friday night service, and another group turned out to sing again Saturday.

THE WEEK

assured for Martin County during the week. Texas Crude No. 1-253 Knox flowed strongly and then was shut in for completion.

• • •

Bids were received for the third time on the former Texas Highway Department warehouse on South Gregg Street, and for the third time Gibson Industries had the high bid—this time for $65,210. Perhaps the third time will be charmed.

• • •

Among the Medal of Honor men at the White House military reception Thursday was George H. O'Brien Jr., now of Midland, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, reside here. Never will we forget the thrill of seeing this young hero and his wife, the former Janet Robb, return here 10 years ago to the heartfelt acclaim of his fellow citizens.

• • •

The Howard County Rehabilitation Center received a boost of the sort that counts when $8,266 was turned over to it by the Permian Basin Medical Society. This was the difference in the amount given at the Sabin polio clinics and the expenses of administering the three series. The gifts not only helped purchase immunity, but they may help bring relief to many suffering physical disabilities.

• • •

Construction was started last week on the Professional Building, a $60,000 structure at Seventh and Johnson. This will house a clinic and several other offices, and it is being put up by Dr. John Fish, Bob Heinze, and Winston Wrinkle. Another major building job, a motel and restaurant, will be announced before long. Plans for it are now undergoing checking by city officials.

• • •

The Air Training Command was announced last week as the recipient of the coveted Daedalian trophy, given for outstanding air safety achievement. Training bases, including Webb AFB, had only 3.5 mishaps per 100,000 flying hours—or about 40,000,000 miles.

• • •

Little League play began on three fronts last week, and before this week is out, a total of nearly 750 lads will be at it hot and heavy. For them, and their families, this will be the center of activity for the next two months. Everything started on a high note of fun and sportsmanship, and that's the way it should be kept—after all it's for the boys . . . and they are still boys.

• • •

Service clubs and others joined in the observance of Mental Health Week, several holding their luncheons at the state hospital where they have taken an active interest. A highlight of the week was presentation of the psychiatric aide award to Mrs. John O. Puckett, the fifth to be earned here.

• • •

John Edwin Myers, awaiting a new trial after previously having been under death sentence for the murder of Arthur DeKraai, was out of jail briefly last week—just long enough to be baptized into the Rusk Baptist Church. The Rev. Gordon Tolbert came here from Rusk to administer the rites.

• • •

There was a mild rush at the tax collector-assessor's office during the week. The law says that claims for the homestead exemption from Texas ad valorem tax must be made not later than May 1, and most of us managed to put it off until then.

• • •

Walt Stroup is wondering if he is persona non grata in his own neighborhood. The other night he and Mrs. Stroup invited the Runnels Dixieland band to practice for an appearance at the Lions convention, and it was one of those nights where music drifts, and drifts and drifts. Anyhow, all the kids in the neighborhood enjoyed it. They made a grandstand out of the backyard fence and stayed to the end.

Employment Group Elects

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. Marie Scurlock of Midland was elected president of the Southwest Employment Board Saturday.

The 1964 convention will be in El Paso.

Miss Nelda Williams of Lubbock was elected secretary. Directors elected included Bob Burns of Wichita Falls and Berlin Vance of Amarillo.

Texas' Moisture Pattern For Week Shows Mixture

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Several sections of Texas were hit by high winds and heavy rains as April ended, while the continuing dry weather was intensified in many other sections.

All sections of the state except those receiving rains last week would welcome ground soaking general rains, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Crops, pastures and crop planting would greatly benefit from soaking moisture, he added. Stock tanks in many counties are getting low, others are dry.

Dryland crops in South Texas suffered from a lack of rain. Pastures are in poor condition. Many ranchmen are still feeding their livestock. Stock water is short in some counties.

Scattered moisture failed to relieve the situation in South Central Texas except for small areas in northern and southern parts. Crops need rain at once if they are to make normal growth. Ranges are beginning to burn.

Lightning and thunder teased the upper Gulf Coast but little rain fell. Early rice looks good and the late plantings are now coming up. Cotton, corn and grain sorghums are good. Pastures are fading and rain is badly needed to stimulate forage.

Moisture is short in East Texas. Livestock are in fair to good condition. Crops made fair progress. Some planting is yet to be done.

The moisture situation improved in Northeast Texas. Oats and barley are maturing. Corn and cotton are up to good stands. Vegetable growth is good.

Storms and heavy rains covered North Central Texas with considerable property damage but apparently light damage to crops. All crops, pastures and ranges benefitted greatly. When fields are dry, planting can be completed. The area is in good condition now.

Rain varied greatly in Central Texas but will give some relief. Oats are heading but prospects are poor. Cotton, corn and sorghum are growing and farmers are finishing cotton planting. Pastures are green and grazing is fair.

A general rain is needed in West Central Texas where the wheat crop will be light and oats are either being grazed out or plowed up. Some cotton and sorghum has been planted but many farmers are waiting for moisture. Range conditions are fair but feeding will have to start again soon if rain doesn't fall.

Crops and ranges in far West Texas need a general rain. Livestock still are fed. Cotton planting is on and stands are excellent.

Some Rolling Plains counties got rain but more is needed. Wheat is in full head. More reports told of fields being grazed or plowed out due to the poor prospects. Early cotton and sorghum are up to good stands.

Most dryland farming areas in the South Plains need rain at once. A few counties reported as much as 10 per cent of the cotton acreage planted. Ranges need rain but are in average condition. The planting of corn, sorghum and castor beans was well under way.

The moisture situation in the Panhandle worsened and the plowing of dryland wheat increased. Some blowing was reported. Ranges are poor.

Circuit Exhibition Of Art Displayed At Junior College

Twenty-one paintings in the Texas Fine Arts Association circuit exhibition in Central and West Texas will be on display at the Howard County Junior College during May.

A variety of media is employed in the works by artists from all over the state. Included are five oils, five caseins, five water colors, two drawings, an oil and acrylic, a pen and ink sketch and a pastel.

The pictures in the exhibition were selected for the circuit following the spring jury show and the state citation exhibition last year.

Each of the paintings carries a price tag, together with its placement in various shows.

Subject matter is as varied as the media of the paintings.

The pictures are hung in the administration building at HCJC and may be seen any time during the day or evening except on Sunday. There is no charge.

Storm Strikes Valley Areas

By The Associated Press

A violent rain and hail storm struck areas of the Lower Rio Grande Valley Saturday night, flooding some roads and damaging crops and citrus trees.

Heavy hail and high winds damaged crops and citrus trees in the Mission area.

Rain in some areas was unofficially estimated at six inches. Farm-to-Market Road 681 near McCook was flooded to a depth of 18 inches in places.

A line of thunderstorms developed in the Texas Panhandle.

A tornado funnel dipped from a dark cloud east of Borger during the afternoon but apparently did not touch ground, the Weather Bureau said.

The thunderstorms moved eastward at about 15 miles an hour. The Weather Bureau said they would move into North Central Texas Saturday night.

High temperatures Saturday were generally in the upper 80s and lower 90s. They ranged from Presidio's 102, the highest in the nation, to Galveston's 80.

Increasingly strong winds from the south and southeast fanned the state, gusting up to 30 miles an hour in the Panhandle. Over the bulk of Texas, the wind velocity was around 20 m.p.h.

Temperatures grew a little warmer.

Partly cloudy and warm weather was forecast for Sunday with the northern part of the Panhandle a little cooler. A few Sunday afternoon showers were expected in South Central Texas, mainly near the coast.

Chemical Society Meets May 14

Dr. Saul Kit, head of the section of nucleoprotein metabolism for the M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, will be guest speaker May 14 at a dinner meeting of the Permian Basin Section of the American Chemical Society.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. with dinner at the Ranchland Hills Country Club in Midland. A business meeting will follow at 8 p.m.

Dr. Kit will discuss advances in virus research, the nucleic acid and the role of carcinogens in modifying cellular nucleic acids. Reservations may be placed in Big Spring through Jesse Looney.

Foresyth Is Home

R. V. "Skeet" Foresyth, Big Spring street superintendent, was released from the hospital last week, where he had major surgery. His condition is described as good and he is expected to be back at work in the near future.

Three Admit Breaking Shop Window

Three youths, ages 17 and 18, were arrested early Saturday morning, shortly after they had broken a show window on the front of Cizon's Jewelry, 115 E. 3rd, and took merchandise valued at $322. A woman, living at the Howard House across the street, heard the glass break, saw the boys, and notified Big Spring police.

One boy, 18, admitted in a statement to police that he broke the glass. He received severe cuts on his leg and hands when the glass broke. The other two boys, ages 17, were arrested for the same offense, and made statements that they were involved. The youths led police to an alley between Second and Third Street where the merchandise was recovered.

Taken from the window were two watches and two tie tacks. A brass anchor, which was a part of the display, was also taken. The boxes were found on the roof of a transfer firm.

Police found a lot of blood on the pavement at Cizon's and, following the trail north to Second Street and east to Nolan, located one youth and arrested him. A second boy was arrested as he ran across the Humble Station lot at Fourth and Nolan, and the third was arrested at home on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Walter Grice.

Two patrolmen had seen the boys loitering on the street a few minutes before the robbery and had asked them to go home. They were being held in the city jail until Monday when they will be turned over to county officers.

Local Historical Organization May Be Launched Here

All persons interested in the possibility of forming a Howard County historical organization are urged to attend a Thursday 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Howard County Junior College little auditorium.

The meeting is being called by the county historical survey committee composed of Ed Fisher, Mrs. Hubert Stipp and Joe Pickle.

The purpose of this meeting is to explore the interest in creating a historical society, and if there is sufficient interest, some steps may be taken toward perfecting an organization and projecting a program.

Survey committee members stressed that the meeting is open to all interested in gathering and preserving the history of the county and area.

Independents Face Battle For Gas Bill

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)— Independent oil operators admit they face a tough battle but they are ready to ask Congress to approve another natural gas bill.

The 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America decided last week to draft a bill for Congress.

Cooperation will be sought from all other segments of the industry, particularly producers.

A resolution adopted at IPAA's mid-year meeting at San Francisco said the nine-year struggle with federal efforts to control wellhead prices of natural gas is a producer problem and producers must take the initiative in finding a solution.

Minutes after the resolution was adopted, Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., advised the industry, in effect, to abandon a defeatist attitude and face the problem firmly.

Harold Decker, IPAA president from Houston, agreed.

"There is no useful purpose in further postponing the inevitable," Decker said.

President John Kennedy, as a member of the House and the Senate, voted against gas bills that later were vetoed by Presidents Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower.

IPAA's gas resolutions in 1961 and 1962 continued to plug for remedial legislation after Kennedy moved to the White House but spoke only in such general terms as "ultimate goals." Four resolutions were approved but none called for immediate action.

Rogers reminded the independents this week remedial legislation has been introduced the past two sessions of Congress.

"In each instance it was the considered opinion of the interested parties that the legislation had little chance of passage," he said.

He said a similar situation has prevailed this session because of fear on the part of many in the industry that conflicts could arise over pending tax legislation which might prove detrimental to the industry as a whole.

Yes, my child's school gives enough time to physical education.

That's what most parents say or assume—without really knowing.

Precisely how much time and how often? Precisely what kind of physical activity?

All parents should know these facts. If your child's school doesn't have a daily program that provides at least fifteen minutes of vigorous physical exercise, now's the time to act. Churches Schedule Family Emphasis

Many churches in Big Spring will follow a family emphasis program during the month of May, reflecting a consensus of the Big Spring Pastors Association.

This grew out of a recent series of discussions dealing with social problems, particularly those on a juvenile and youth level. To each church was left the manner and mode by which the objective would be sought, but there was general agreement that churches would seek, during May, to re-emphasize the responsibilities of the home as a foundation for Christian living.

Among churches communicating their plans to the association are these:

First Baptist — Families will worship as units at the 11 a.m. worship today, and a picture will be made of the congregation. The Rev. Robert Polk will speak on "The Church as a Family," and every family in the church is being contacted. On May 12, mothers will be honored. May 19 will be Baby Day, and babies and parents of the nursery department will be recognized, and again there will be pictures of the babies at the morning service. Worship, teaching and practice in the home will be stressed in the May 26 services, and special literature will be distributed. During the month, material will be available to parents and teen-agers on various matters pertaining to family living and practical problems of life.

The First Christian Church opened the month with all family night fellowship dinner with Dr. Preston Harrison as the speaker. During May, there will be an every member canvass for church finances, and a family commitment program to Christian living. Sermons during the month will develop the theme.

Today will be Children's Day at the Kentwood Methodist Church. The children's divisions of the church will be conducting the morning worship service at 10:55 a.m. Other services during the month will touch various phases of home life.

Virtually all churches of the city will join in paying tribute May 12 to the exalted place of mothers in the home. Numbers of other programs in keeping with the May home observance are due to be announced.

Famous Pilot Welcomed To Webb

Two members of graduating class 63-G and their commander greeted Tony Levier, famous test pilot, on his arrival at Webb AFB Friday. Levier, who has been a Webb visitor and speaker on several occasions, addressed the formal dining-in of the class. The reception committee included, from left, 2nd Lt. James Wilson and 2nd Lt. Robert Kritzler, and Lt. Col. Herbert Dahnke, student squadron commander.

Respect For The Air Keeps Veteran Alive And Flying

'A wholesome respect for the air has helped keep Tony Levier, veteran Lockheed test pilot, alive and flying for over three decades.

Levier, perhaps the most famous test pilot in the nation and once subject of a book (Pilot), told of some of his experiences in addressing the Class 63-G Dining-In at Webb AFB Friday evening.

"Nearly every time I have violated this rule (respect for the air), I have almost bought the farm," he declared.

Beyond this respect, he thanked "pure, unadulterated luck" for keeping him alive during 33 years of flying almost every type of aircraft known.

The renowned pilot first visited Webb 13 years ago and was last here in July of 1962. He told how, as a lad of 15, he started flying lessons in 1928 and soloed two years later. At one time he was the first man to have flown 16 types of military aircraft. He was one of the first men to break the sound barrier in 1950, a far cry from his early days when speeds of 100 knots were daring. He was on the Lockheed F-80 Shooting project and thus has been flying jets longer than any other man in the country. His most recent exploits involve planes with speeds so high they remain classified.

During the depression years, he participated in barnstorming, stunting, instructing and transport flying until he made big time in air racing in the late 30's. When World War II broke out, he became a test pilot for Lockheed, demonstrating the P-38 Lightning and ferried this airplane to various airbases, demonstrating its use to pilots.

He flight tested the T-33, the Air Force's first jet trainer. He tested the F-90, the first jet aircraft to make use of an afterburner, and the F-94, the first all weather jet fighter. More recently he has tested such super aircraft as the F-104 and the U-2.

Although he has never been a military aviator, Levier has worked with the Army Air Corps and the Air Force for 21 years.

"I tried to join the military years ago," he said jokingly, "but could not hack the physical."

It's Time To Get Lawn Equipment Ready To Use

By M. A. WEBB

The growing season has arrived and with it comes the reminder to get lawn mowers and other lawn care devices ready for the long, long summer.

Most do-it-yourselfers spent some of the winter months preparing lawn equipment for its work; others are beginning to make repairs and maintenance work now. Either way saves tempers when mowers are hard to start or lack power.

There are several points to check besides spark plugs when getting your mower ready for the grass harvest.

Old fuel should be drained from the tank and fresh gas added, after it is cleaned out. Then, old mufflers, which are least suspect, should be removed and carbon deposits cleaned out. A clogged muffler can cause a big loss of power.

There are air cleaners, depending upon the model and make of the engine, that need as much or more attention as an automobile engine's air cleaner. A clogged air filter will force the carburetor to function without enough air, resulting in clogged spark plugs because of the over-rich mixture.

An old spark plug is probably the cause of more failures to start than any other one thing about the engine. It takes a lot of pounding when the machine is operating. If it is too badly worn or burned, it should be replaced. It definitely needs cleaning and adjusting, according to specifications, and the electrodes should be flat and clean. Take a look at the spark plug wire to make sure the connection is good.

The crank case should be drained and filled with new oil as recommended by the manufacturer.

Several other points need to be checked for adjustment, cleaning, or replacement. These include the clutch V-belt should be tight and in good condition; all nuts and connections at the carburetor, manifold, and engine mounting should be tightened; the carburetor choke valve should be operating properly, and all dirt and chaff should be removed from the cooling fins to prevent engine overheating.

Following these points, at least once a year, will allow the home owners to do a clean job and save wear and tear on equipment.

Of course, if he operates an old-fashioned man-operated push mower, all he needs is lubrication, sharp and properly-adjusted blades, and a strong back.

46 New Citizens

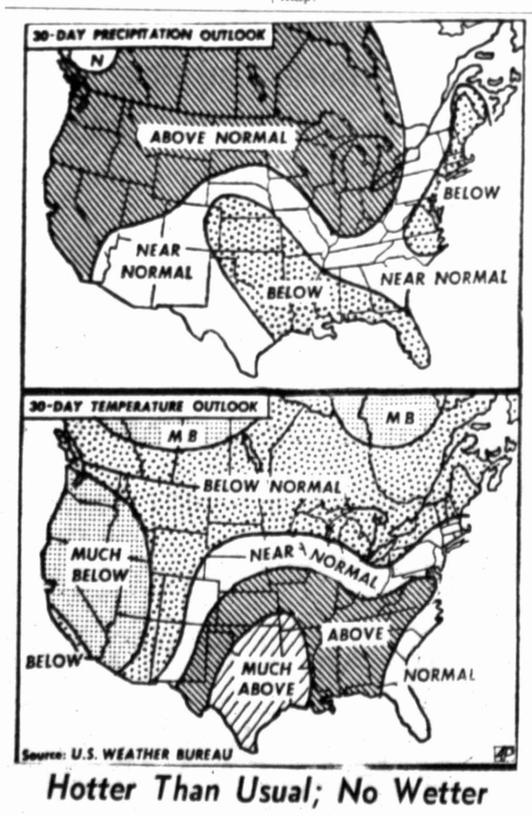

LAMESA (SC) — Vital statistics in Dawson County during April numbered 54, with 46 births and eight deaths recorded. For the year births amount to 206 and deaths at 55.

Mighty Dry

LAMESA (SC) — Lamesa has yet to record a full inch of rain for all of 1963. The total for the year is only .71 of an inch, compared to 1.49 inches for the same period of last year and the four-month average of 3.18 inches. January and March showed no moisture.

Lighting Map

LAMESA (SC) — A new street lighting map, pinpointing the location and kind of 558 street lights in Lamesa, has been presented to the new City Hall building here by Texas Electric Service Co., whose distribution department manufactured the 60 by 52-inch map.

Hotter Than Usual; No Wetter

U.S. Weather Bureau Forecast for May shows the Howard County area slated for what is termed near normal rainfall and above normal temperatures. The average rainfall for the month is 2.86 inches, but the most recent year when this average was equalled was 1959. The past three years, May has produced only a fraction of its normal precipitation.

Jayhawks Set Eight Records At Roswell

ROSWELL, N.M. — Howard County Junior College's Jayhawks, re-emphasizing their track and field authority in the Western Conference, won ten of the 16 events in a meet staged here Friday and Saturday to determine individual winners within the league.

In all, 12 WC records fell in the cinder carnival and HCJC set eight of them, and tied another. Coach L. L. (Red) Lewis said he was exceptionally well pleased with the performance of all his athletes.

Terry Williams of the Jayhawks set records in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and copped the high jump.

Kenneth Windham of the Hawks set records in both hurdles, negotiating the 120-yard lows in the blistering time of 14.6.

Another HCJC star, Mike Hill, shattered marks in both the discus throw and shot put. He hurled the discus an incredible 171 feet ½ inches and pushed the shot 50 feet 4 inches.

Milton Marrow of HCJC raced the half mile in the record time of 1:59.2, turning in perhaps his best effort of the year.

Williams roared to a 9.8.5 clocking in the 100 and was timed in 21.5 in the 220. However, he set his mark in Friday's prelims when he went the furlong in 21.1.

In the 220-yard low hurdles, Windham was timed in 23.7 seconds. He beat Eugene Franklin's three year old mark by two-tenths of a second.

HCJC teams won both the sprint relay and the mile relay.

In the sprint relay, the Hawk foursome of Terry Williams, Tommy Wise, Tommy Yarbro and Don Carter was clocked in 42.2, tying the record set by another HCJC team last year.

The Hawks hit the heights against the field in the mile relay, negotiating the four laps in the fine time of 3:17.5. Tommy Wise, leading off for the Hawks, was caught in 49.1 while Tommy Yarbro breezed his lap in 48.1, his best lap ever.

Bruce Teagarden and Don Carter finished up the race for HCJC and easily beat second place Lubbock Christian. LCC, incidentally, pulled out two boys in other events to concentrate on the mile relay in a desperate effort to beat HCJC.

Records also fell in the mile, which Delbert Spencer of South Plains won in 4:29.5; 440-yard run, won by LCC's Ray Patterson in 48.4; pole vault, where LCC's Allen Newberry soared 13.7; and sprint medley relay, won by Lubbock Christian in 3:30.7.

Gary Walker, HCJC discus thrower, was left at home due to illness.

No points were given in the meet, so no team winner was declared. Only the first three places in each event counted with the judges.

Chateaugay Springs Upset At Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Outsider Chateaugay overhauled the pace-setting Never Bend in the home stretch Saturday and drew off to a surprising victory in the 89th running of the $151,400 Kentucky Derby as the favorite, Candy Spots from California, finished third.

With a crowd estimated at above 100,000 roaring in high excitement, Chateaugay pounded past the finish line 1¼ lengths ahead of Never Bend, who held onto the runner-up spot by a neck over Candy Spots.

No Robbery, who was supposed to have made up the Big Three along with Candy Spots and Never Bend, straggled home fifth in the field of nine 3-year-old horses. Both No Robbery and Candy Spots were undefeated.

It was a brilliant, sunny afternoon at Churchill Downs with the temperature at 80 degrees as one of the classiest Derby fields went out for the race over the fast track.

Chateaugay, owned by John W. Galbreath of Columbus, Ohio, and the chestnut son of Swaps, the 1955 Derby winner, was ridden by Braulio Baeza of Panama. It was the first Derby triumph for both Galbreath, owner of the Darby Dan Farm and president of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team. It also was No. 1 for trainer Jimmy Conway and Baeza, who finished on Crozier behind Carry Back in 1961.

The time of 2 minutes, 1 4-5 seconds for the 1¼ miles was 1 2-5 seconds slower than the Derby and track record hung up by Decidedly last year.

Chateaugay returned $20.80, $7.00, $3.60 as the fifth choice. Never Bend, owned by the Cain Hoy Stable of Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim and ridden by Manuel Ycaza, returned $5 and $3.40. Candy Spots, carrying the hopes of Rex C. Ellsworth of California and ridden by Willie Shoemaker, paid $2.80 to show.

Ellsworth was going for his second Derby, having been the owner of Swaps, and Candy Spots was the 3-2 favorite. Greentree Stable's No Robbery was the 5-2 second choice and Never Bend was third on the board at 3-1.

Shuts Out Steers

Armando Gutierrez makes with the big grin after shutting out Big Spring, 7-0, for Midland High in a 2-AAAA baseball game here Saturday. Gutierrez limited the locals to two hits. With Gutierrez is coach John Hoiles.

Lemon Goes To Phillies

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Jim Lemon, once one of the American League's most feared sluggers, was sold Friday night by the Minnesota Twins to the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League.

It was a straight cash deal, with no purchase price announced.

Lemon's departure was prompted by the Twins' decision to keep rookie outfielder Jimmy Hall. They also have Bill Tuttle as a reserve flychaser.

"I had hoped to be able to help the Twins this season," Lemon said. "But they've got to build for the future. I've been with this organization a long time, but that's baseball. I'll be closer to home now. I have no regrets."

Lemon is part owner of a restaurant in Berwyn Heights, Md., near Washington, D.C.

Rice Owls Are Favorites In S'west Track Meet

By The Associated Press

Rice, with power in the pole vault, javelin and hurdles, is favored this weekend in the Southwest Conference track meet at Fayetteville. Texas will be expected to win the freshman title.

The Owls will be making their bid for their first championship since 1938.

Fred Hansen and Warren Brattlof are expected to take first and second in the pole vault; Ed Red dominates the javelin throw; and Bobby May, appears likely to win both hurdles.

Rice also has some strong point potentials in most other events and might rank very high in the relays.

Texas A&M was favored a month ago but injuries, especially to quartermiler Ted Nelson, have dimmed the Aggie chances. They should make it a close fight with Rice.

Defending champion Baylor is not exactly impotent. The Bears could repeat and occasion no great surprise.

Texas and SMU appear ready to vie for fourth place.

Five records are expected with Danny Roberts, the Aggie weightman, leading the way. Roberts has thrown the shot 59 feet 3¾ inches and the discus 180-9½. Both are well over the records of 58-1½ and 172-5.

Matson Shatters Second Record

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AUSTIN (AP)—Randy Matson, Pampa's giant of the weights, closed his high school track career Saturday with a record shot put of 66 feet 10½ inches and this, with his 192 feet 3 inches in the discus Friday, made him the big star of the Texas schoolboy meet.

He did not hit national scholastic records as predicted but he threw the shot and discus farther than any Texan ever did before, and he did it under heavy pressure. His performance overshadowed the team championship fights in which Amarillo Tascosa won the Class AAAA title, Nederland won Class AAA, Daingerfield Class AA, Bloomington Class A and Bartlett Class B.

Matson headlined a meet that produced 11 records and two ties in its two days of competition, three of them overall records. Matson's marks, of course, were all-time highs. Mark King of Midland vaulted 14 feet 2½ inches for the third overall record.

Amarillo Tascosa won the Class AAAA championship with 60 points. The Panhandle team reached the mile relay having only to win third place to take the meet.

But Tascosa, with Dave Webb running a great anchor lap to move into second, finished a notch higher than necessary. Dallas Hillcrest won the mile relay in 3:18.2. Hillcrest also finished second in the meet with 54 points.

Three championships were decided Saturday, Class AAA and Class AA were determined Friday night.

Bloomington won Class A with 35 points. Petersburg, which took the mile relay in a record 3:25.3, was second with 30.

Bartlett wrapped up the Class B title with 52 points. Aspermont finished second with 32. Bartlett won both relays to easily take the title.

Nicklaus Leading By Four Strokes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Pace-setting Jack Nicklaus weathered gusty winds, an abrupt run of bad luck plus a sudden challenge from Bill Casper Jr. Saturday but finished the third round of the $60,000 golf Tournament of Champions with a lead of four strokes.

The 23-year-old National Open champion finished his appearance over the par 36-36—72 Desert Inn Country Club course with a 72 and a 54-hole total of 204.

The rotund Casper, an ex-National Open champion, came with a rush to threaten Nicklaus at the 10th hole only one stroke behind him.

But as Nicklaus settled down on the final hole, Casper was the man to have trouble and he finished with a 69 for 208.

Winds up to 32 miles per hour swept the course for the first time this week as a crowd of more than 11,000 tramped after the field of 27 golfers.

Bob Goalby, shooting his second straight 68, moved into the picture with a 209. And as the complexion of the tournament changed, Arnold Palmer, who had trailed Nicklaus through the first two rounds, fell back into fourth place with a 73 for 210.

Tied at 212 as the players headed into the final 18 holes Sunday were Ted Kroll, 69; Gardner Dickinson 70, and Tony Lema, 71.

Butler Twins Claim Conference Crown

ODESSA — HCJC's Butler twins, Kay and Karen, captured first place in doubles competition in the Western Conference tennis tournament here Saturday.

The Jayhawk Queens defeated Odessa College's combinations of Judy Goodwin and Wanda DeHart in the finals, 6-4, 6-3. It was the third straight year for an HCJC to win the doubles crown.

The Butler girls advanced by defeating Odessa's No. 2 team, Moss and Montgomery, 6-2, 6-3, after drawing a first round bye.

Goodwin and DeHart drew a first round bye and then turned back Amarillo's Sims and Dees in the semifinals, 6-1, 6-1.

Sims and Dees fanned out HCJC's Sue Lewis and Elaine Patterson in the first round, 6-2, 8-6.

HCJC was seeded first in the meet and Odessa second. Moss and Montgomery defeated Sims and Dees in the battle for third, 6-1, 6-0.

Bengals To Host Midland In Pair

Winners of four straight games, the Big Spring Tigers return to competition at 1:30 p.m. in Steer Park here today, at which time they oppose the rugged Midland Colts in a double header.

Officials of the Bengals concede that this will be the roughest foe, by far, the locals have played to date.

Big Spring owns two victories over Colorado City's CYO Club and as many wins over the Lamesa Eagles.

Tony Fierro (2-0) will probably hurl the opening game for the Tigers while Jimmy Roger (1-0) will mount the knoll in the afterpiece.

Other starters for the Tigers will probably be Albert Mendoza, center field; Jimmy Fierro, shortstop; Tom Arista Jr., left field; David Holguin, right field; Joe Martinez, third base; Charles Boadle, first base; Herbert Perez, second base; and Robert (Sonny) Dutchover, catcher.

Midland has been busy this spring. The Colts won their fourth straight last Sunday, defeating the Abilene Tigers, 12-3, without a great deal of trouble.

One of the Midland stars is Lee Velarde, who hit a triple, two doubles and a single against Abilene. Jesse Lopez and Cruz Sanchez are other standouts for the Colts while Manuel Munoz is the Midland mound star. Mario Torres catches for the Colts.

SPECIAL RULE FOR LAYNE

One of the latest entries in the first annual Big Spring Golf Open Tournament, scheduled June 8-9, is Bobby Layne, veteran professional football star.

He will team with Gil Jones, the district attorney here.

It has been decreed by the rules committee (in fun, of course) that anytime Layne gets within 100 yards of any green, he can throw at the pin with a football in an effort to get closer.

The chairman of the rules committee? That would be Gil Jones.

Jim Grelle Is Pan Am Winner

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Jim Grelle came from behind in the last 100 yards and whipped favored teammate Jim Beatty by two yards Saturday in the Pan-American Games 1,500-meter run.

Grelle, often beaten by the American record holder in the 1,500 and the mile, lagged a stride behind Beatty until they straightened out after the last turn.

Then he burst past the barrel-chested Beatty and pulled steadily away.

Canada's Don Bertola, winner of the Pan-Am 800 meters, was a distant third.

Both Beatty and Grelle are Los Angeles Track Club runners.

Time for the 1,500 was 3 minutes, 43.5 seconds, far better than the Pan-Am record of 3:49.1 by Dyrol Burleson at Chicago in 1959, but well off Beatty's American mark of 3:39.4.

There were 14 runners in the field, and about 15,000 fans in the big stadium for the blue ribbon race.

The U.S. men's 400-meter relay team scored a 3-yard breezing victory over Venezuela in record-equaling time of 40.4 seconds. The U.S. team was Ira Murchison, Brooks Johnson, Ollan Cassell and Earl Young. Murchison and Johnson are from Chicago, Cassell from Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., and Young from Abilene, Tex.

Dan Studney of San Jose, Calif., won the javelin with a record toss of 248 feet, ¾ inch.

The U.S. 1,600 meter relay team also romped home by 20 yards over Trinidad.

The last field event gold medal went to the United States, when Bill Sharpe of Philadelphia, fourth in the 1960 Olympics, won the hop, step and jump with a leap of 49 feet, 8¼ inches.

American runners also swept the two women's final events on Saturday's card the last day of competition in the Games.

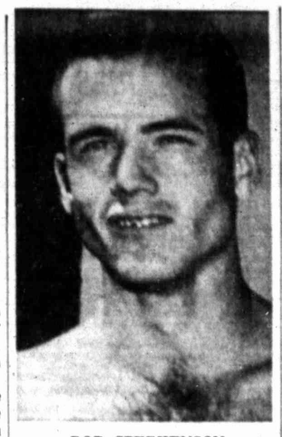

Jo Ann Terry of Indianapolis grabbed the gold medal in the 80-meter hurdles in 11.3 seconds, just off the Games record, and the U.S. 400-meter relay team raced to a 7-yard victory over Cuba's girls, with Brazil third. Canada finished third but was disqualified for an illegal pass.

Miss Terry, a 24-year-old Indianapolis teacher and former Tennessee State star, won in a tight finish with Canada's Jennifer Wingerson.

Ten boxing finals were scheduled Saturday night, along with a playoff of the tie in the women's basketball standings between the United States and Brazil. A synchronized swimming team medal was to complete the card.

Only the closing ceremonies and any necessary leftovers remain for Sunday.

The United States had 95 gold medals as the final full day of competition opened. Canada had 10, second to the Yankees.

AAA And AA Schools Ask To Vote On Spring Toil

AUSTIN (AP)— The perennial question of spring football training in Texas high schools was projected again Saturday.

Agitation for return of spring football to Classes AAA and AA schools was brought before the annual meeting of the Interscholastic League.

Spring training has been an annual topic for 20 years, and has been voted upon 15 times.

It now is conducted only in Class AAAA schools.

Another vote on AAA and AA was requested. School officials also asked that a period of physical training be allowed in August, some wanting it for the entire month, so that there might be a cutdown on injuries.

The schools also voted five of six amendments on track, football and baseball. The only one to fail was one calling for only conditioning exercises, without contact, in the first week of fall practice in AAA, AA and A schools.

The request for spring training in AAA and AA came in a questionnaire reported upon by Joe Means of Phillips. Coaches and superintendents were polled and all voted for spring training or physical conditioning. The coaches advocated two weeks of spring training or physical conditioning and the superintendents merely voted for the return of spring training, with no limit set.

Jim Tolbert of Austin suggested that a time limit be put on the vote on spring training—that if it should be voted in it be for a set period and that there also be a time limit on when it could again be brought up.

Director R. J. Kidd of the league said the question would go to the legislative council and probably would be submitted to a referendum.

The amendments drew 736 votes with these results:

There shall be no invitational track meet after the date of the league's annual meet in Austin—613 for, 121 against. Effective 1963-64 school year.

There shall not be more than eight indoor and outdoor track meets (excluding cross country) during a season, exclusive of regular league district, regional and state outdoor meets—591 for, 144 against. Effective 1963-64 school year.

Sports Docket Is Crowded Here

School is ending soon here but the sports docket is crowded for the next several weeks, what with the National Track and Field meet scheduled May 17-18, the annual football game between the 1963 high school team and the Exes booked the night of May 26, the first annual Big Spring Golf Open on tap at the Country Club June 8-9, John Pipes' Sectional round for the Amateur Public Links tournament set for June 17 and the Big Spring Golf Association's Partnership meet down for Memorial Day, May 30 . . . Of course, the calendar will be jammed with softball, baseball and Little League dates during the early summer . . . Charley Spieker, the former cage star at San Angelo High School, is now the leading hitter on the San Angelo College baseball team . . . Ernie Terrell, the scrowling Chicago Negro who recently beat Houston's Cleveland Williams, is now clamoring for a fight with Cassius Clay or Sonny Liston . . . Of Clay, Terrell waspishly says: "Cassius is his own cheering section. He's the only guy who says he's a great fighter. "A match between him and Liston would be manslaughter. I don't think he'd last two rounds with Williams" . . . Terrell was born in Inverness, Miss., and has been fighting professionally since 1957 . . . Bobby Moegle, coach of the Lubbock Monterey baseball team and a brother to pro football's Dickie Moegle, once quarterbacked the grid eleven at Blinn Junior College . . . Bobby was once under contract to the St. Louis (baseball) Cardinals . . . Gail, Garden City and Sterling City are three of the very few towns in Texas fielding eight-man football teams where county seats are located . . . Snyder's Horace Bostick, Sam Christy of Colorado City and Al Langford of Lamesa are three area football coaches who attended a coaching clinic at the University of Arkansas last week . . . Bostick, a Big Spring quarterback more than 20 years ago, is sure to use some of the play patterns he learned against Big Spring next fall . . . Langford is expecting 60 boys to report for workouts this fall.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Jack Cox, the GOP's candidate for governor in the last campaign, has agreed to visit Big Spring again Sept. 5 to serve as guest speaker at the Quarterback Club's pre-football season barbecue honoring the Big Spring Steers . . . Cox delivered the principal address at a similar party honoring the Steers several years ago and was a big hit . . . A resident of Breckenridge at the time, Cox now lives in Houston . . . George Mira of the University of Miami will get about the same treatment accorded TCU's Sonny Gibbs in the fall football magazines, a factor that could clinch an All-America berth for him, if he experiences any sort of success . . . Like Gibbs, Mira is a quarterback . . . Frank Pollard, a former assistant pastor here, now of Seagraves, finished as runnerup in the Ministers' Golf Tournament held recently in Seminole . . . Howard Marshall of Odessa's Bethany Christian Church won the meet . . . Fight champion Sonny Liston, who recently moved from Philadelphia to Chicago in a fit of pique, reportedly is shopping for a home in Denver . . . Two of the top baseball players in District 2-AAAA, Permian's Pat Brown and Midland Lee's Bucky Kimble, are second cousins . . . Michigan State has played 104 different football teams since starting the game back in 1896 . . . Big Spring's Charley Bailey, who won a set of woods for finishing second in the recent Lake Sweetwater Golf Tournament, may take part in the Big Lake meet May 25-26 . . . Wilt The Stilt Chamberlain tried to buy a house in an exclusive section of San Francisco recently and was turned down . . . "I feel inter-racial mixing of areas devalues property," development owner Marvin L. Sheldon said, in returning Chamberlain's $39,950 check . . . Two men with the last name of Steele will bring teams to the 1963 National Juco track and field meet here . . . Harold Steele coaches the Grand Rapids, Mich., entry while Jerry Steele is mentor of the Chanute, Kan., team.

Hero Of 1919 Black Sox Series Is Dead

HOUSTON (AP) — Dickie Kerr, 69, honest hero of the infamous "Black Sox" baseball scandal, died Saturday of cancer.

DICK KERR

Kerr, a southpaw pitcher, won two games in the 1919 World Series although eight of his Chicago White Sox teammates later were banned from organized baseball for having conspired to throw the series to Cincinnati.

The 5-foot-7 Kerr said several months ago he had cancer. He entered the hospital but was allowed by his doctors to go home. He returned to the hospital at intervals for treatment.

"I'm not scared," he said when he disclosed he had the distase.

Kerr, who had served in baseball as a player, manager and scout, was conected with an electrical firm the past few years.

The "Black Sox" scandal led to the 1920 appointment of U. S. Dist. Judge K. M. Landis as baseball commissioner with unlimited power to deal with any matter detrimental to the sport.

It was Kerr's dream to be named to the Baseball Hall of Fame. The dream never came true. He was ruled ineligible because the rules specify that a pitcher must have been in the major leagues 10 different championship seasons. Kerr didn't pitch long enough in the majors to qualify.

However, he was presented the first Tris Speaker Award in 1961.

While manager at Daytona Beach, Fla., a St. Louis Cardinal farm, Kerr advised a sore-armed Cardinal rookie named Stan Musial to forget about pitching and concentrate on hitting. He encouraged the young outfielder to continue playing the outfield.

The Kerrs took the Musials into their home. The Musials' first child was named Dickie in honor of Kerr.

In 1959, the Musials presented the Kerrs with a house in Houston as a birthday present to the former manager.

Although eight of the 1919 White Sox players were banned from baseball for life, Kerr and the others were cleared.

The Sox dropped the first two games to the Reds and the starting nod went to Kerr. With Ray Schalk, later to be named to the Hall of Fame, catching, Dickie set down Cincinnati on a 3-0, 3-hit whitewash. He came back to win the sixth game, 4-1, in 10 innings.

Schalk is reported to have walked over and tossed Kerr the ball following the second win saying: "There you are, little giant."

Liston-Patterson Fight Moved Back To July 22

NEW YORK (AP)—The Sonny Liston - Floyd Patterson rematch has been postponed again. The latest new date is July 22 but the site is the same, Las Vegas, Nev.

Patterson was hurt this time, forcing a third postponement from June 27 to July 22. An infected callous on the little finger of Patterson's right hand had to be removed. The doctor said the former heavyweight boxing king should not resume sparring for at least three weeks, perhaps a month.

Originally scheduled for April 4 in Miami Beach, the rematch was set back to April 10 and finally delayed to June and switched to Las Vegas because of an injury to Liston's left knee. The champ claimed he suffered the knee injury while swinging a golf club posing for photographers.

Erwin Quits Post At Sunland Park

EL PASO — Track president Riley Allison announced today that he has reluctantly accepted the resignation of R. Wood Erwin, who has served as general manager at Sunland Park since 1960.

In a letter to Allison, Erwin, who is president and general manager of La Mesa Park at Raton, New Mexico, stated that the extended racing dates, which went into effect last year, required his absence from La Mesa Park for periods longer than he considered in the best interests of the Raton track.

Barber Gains 5th Victory

DETROIT (AP) — Steve Barber, backed by two-run homers by Boog Powell and Jackie Brandt, recorded his fifth victory as the Baltimore Orioles trounced the slumping Detroit Tigers 8-4 Saturday.

Barber, beating the Tigers for the first time in his career, yielded four hits. Two were homers by Jake Wood and Al Kaline in the fourth as the Tigers took a short-lived 2-1 lead.

Kaline hit his second homer of the game in the ninth.

The Tigers have lost four straight and 12 of their last 15.

Powell powered his homer off loser Jim Bunning in the sixth when the Orioles snapped a 2-2 tie with three runs. Brooks Robinson drove in his second run with a single and rode in on Powell's shot into the upper right field seats.

Nicholson Is Star In Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Two homers by Dave Nicholson, driving in three runs, powered the Chicago White Sox to an 8-1 victory over Washington Saturday and snapped the Senators' three-game winning streak.

The former Baltimore bonus-baby slammed an opposite-field homer high to the right field stands in the fourth inning to tie the score 1-1.

After the game was interrupted for 1 hour, 21 minutes by rain, the Sox tallied twice in the fifth on Floyd Robinson's triple, then piled it on with five runs in the seventh.

Schwall Stops Dodgers, 5-0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Don Schwall blanked the slumping Los Angeles Dodgers on a crafty four-hitter Saturday and enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to take a 5-0 victory at Forbes Field.

Dick Schofield's single with the bases loaded in the second drove in two runs and a third runner scored when Willie Davis fumbled the ball in center field. Roberto Clemente had doubled and Jim Pagliaroni and Schwall had walked before Schofield came up with his hit off loser Bob Miller.

The Pirates added two more in the seventh with the help of another Dodger error.

Steer Footballers Awaiting Workouts

Candidates for the 1963 Big Big Spring High School football team—about 45 of them—fall out for spring workouts Monday afternoon.

The Longhorns will drill for three weeks and the spring toil will be climaxed by the annual game May 26 between the 1963 club and the Exes, which will be unreeled in Memorial Stadium under the auspices of the Big Spring Quarterback Club.

Incoming sophomores will not be allowed to work with the team during the spring, under a new Texas Interscholastic League statute.

Many of the incoming sophs figure to play, at least a little, with the varsity troops in the fall. Coach Don Robbins said the new rule will severely handicap the athletes up from junior high in that they will be getting a later start than the others.

The Steers will be much better fixed for experienced material than was last year's team.

Whereas Buster Barnes, a guard and linebacker, was the only returning regular in 1962, such regulars or part-time regulars as end DeeRoby Gartman, tackles Dick Irons and Tim Smith and Ricca Flores and backs Albert Fierro, Baxter Moore and Charley West will be returning.

Departure of such boys as fullback Dickie Spier, end Eddy Nelson, tackle Walter Minter and halfback Humberto Hernandez will leave the coaches with some big shoes to fill, however.

Moore is being moved from halfback to fullback this spring. Baxter weighs only 150 but he hits hard and gives it everything he's got.

Ralph Lydic and Charles Burdette, two boys Robbins had been counting on, won't be reporting. Lydic was a wingback and Burdette a center.

Each week's drill will be climaxed by a scrummage, probably on Fridays.

The Steers can field an offensive line averaging around 192 pounds per man but the backfield will be comparatively light.

Much is expected this year from junior-to-be Rickey Earle, who who played quarterback last year. Earle can lug the leather with authority and he's fairly quick.

Much depends on quarterback Albert Fierro, a 180-pounder who is regarded as one of the state's finest high school passers. Fierro is especially dangerous on the long bomb and toward the latter part of last season was learning how to run with the ball.

Working with Robbins will be Melvin Lindsey, Delnor Poss, Roy Baird (after baseball season ends next Saturday), Joe Sibley, Herman Smith and R. C. Moore.

The Steer roster:

Ruidoso Downs Improves Facilities For Planes

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M.—By air, land, and "see," Ruidoso Downs will be more attractive than ever to racing fans when it inaugurates its 54-day horse racing season here Friday, May 17.

From the air, a completely modernized Ruidoso Airport, more up-to-date than terminals at many large cities, has been given an enthusiastic round of approval by early visitors.

A new, solid black-topped landing strip, stretching almost 6,000 feet, now makes it routine procedure for "touching down" heavy duty ships, such as Convairs. The removal of approximately 1,000 pine trees, providing more than adequate clearance for landing approaches by planes of most any size, and the completion of a swank, new terminal building, plus many new hangars, also were part of the near-million dollar airport improvement program.

Negotiations also are nearing completion for a Southwestern airline to operate regularly-scheduled flights into Ruidoso. Along with the many charter flights by smaller aircraft in past seasons, this will enable racing fans, breeders, owners and horsemen to reach Ruidoso in a matter of hours from such states as California, Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Nevada.

From the airport, a short drive through picturesque Ruidoso Village and Ruidoso Downs (via taxi, if necessary), takes visitors to the world's most colorful mountain - playground racing plant. Grandstand and private Jockey Club quarters have been spruced up, much of it in the familiar Ruidoso Downs turquoise - colored paint, and the wagering enclosure underneath the grandstand is being completely black-topped.

Plush new press quarters, with a private entrance, also have been expanded to cover the unused portion of the grandstand roof, thus providing newsmen, TV - radio sportscasters and other visiting VIPS with the solid comfort of their own dining, refreshment and wagering facilities.

Yet, while the cost of continued improvements at this "Shangri-La of The Sport of Kings" goes up, the price of mutuel ticket remains unchanged at two bucks.

Steer Tennists Nearing Title

HOUSTON (AP)—The University of Texas took a belated victory from the Rice Owls Friday to all but clinch the Southwest Conference tennis title.

The win gave the Longhorns a 3-3 tie in the matches. With only one game apiece remaining, Texas stands 26-4 for the season to 25-5 for Rice.

Matson Sets Record With Discus Throw

AUSTIN (AP)—Huge Randy Matson of Pampa threw the discus a record 192 feet 3 inches in the Texas Schoolboy Track and Field meet Friday but because he obviously was too tensed in his earlier tosses, he failed to attain the national record of 195 feet 4 inches, something he had exceeded by four feet in the regional meet only to have it wiped away because of ground elevation.

Matson had only one smooth throw—his last one. That was the toss that became an overall Texas record by beating his own mark of 185 feet 9¾ inches set last year.

Seven division records and one tie were set in the big five-way meet. One of them—a leap of 14 feet 1½ inches by vaulter Tommy Marshall of Yoakum in the Class AA division—joined Matson's record in an overall category.

Nederland was a surprise winner of the Class AAA championship with 50 points, all made by just four runners—Jim McCloud, Steve Bailey, Bobby Dalby and Bobby Riley.

Kermit was second with 45 points while favored Fort Stockton was third with 41½. Failure of Fort Stockton to win the mile relay over Nederland cost the West Texans second place.

Daingerfield, an outstanding favorite, came through as expected in Class AA, rolling up 60 points to 39 for second place Denver City. Daingerfield won the mile relay, was second in the 440-yard relay and had fourth place finishes in the 100, 180-yard hurdles and 220 to account for its points.

Coleman, powered by Riley Dunn, who won both the 100 and 220, tied Livingston for third in Class AA with 37 points.

Another double winner was Leonard Peters of Seymour, who took both hurdles to account for all his team's 20 points.

Matson's discus throw was the only record in AAAA. In AAA, Brian Woolsey of Fort Worth Castleberry ran the mile in 4:22.0 to hang up one new mark while Gary Hobson of Kermit tied the pole vault record with a leap of 13 feet 6 inches.

Raymond Lanehart of Iraan broad jumped 23 feet 7 inches for a record in Class A.

In Class B George Tuel ran the 880 in 1:56.0 for one record, David Hutton of Turkey vaulted 13 feet 3 inches for a second and Charles Clifton of Rio Vista broad jumped 23 feet 11¼ inches for a third.

Cosden Nudges Locals, 9-3

Cosden rallied for five runs in the fourth inning and four in the fifth to topple the Locals, 9-3, in a battle of unbeaten Texas Little League teams here Friday night.

Greg Ryan pitched the victory for the Cosden club and helped his own cause with a triple and a single.

Andy Gamboa had a triple and a one-baser for the Locals, who managed only six hits, in all. The loss was charged to Joe Martinez.

MUSIC WEEK

WITH A

WESTERN AIR

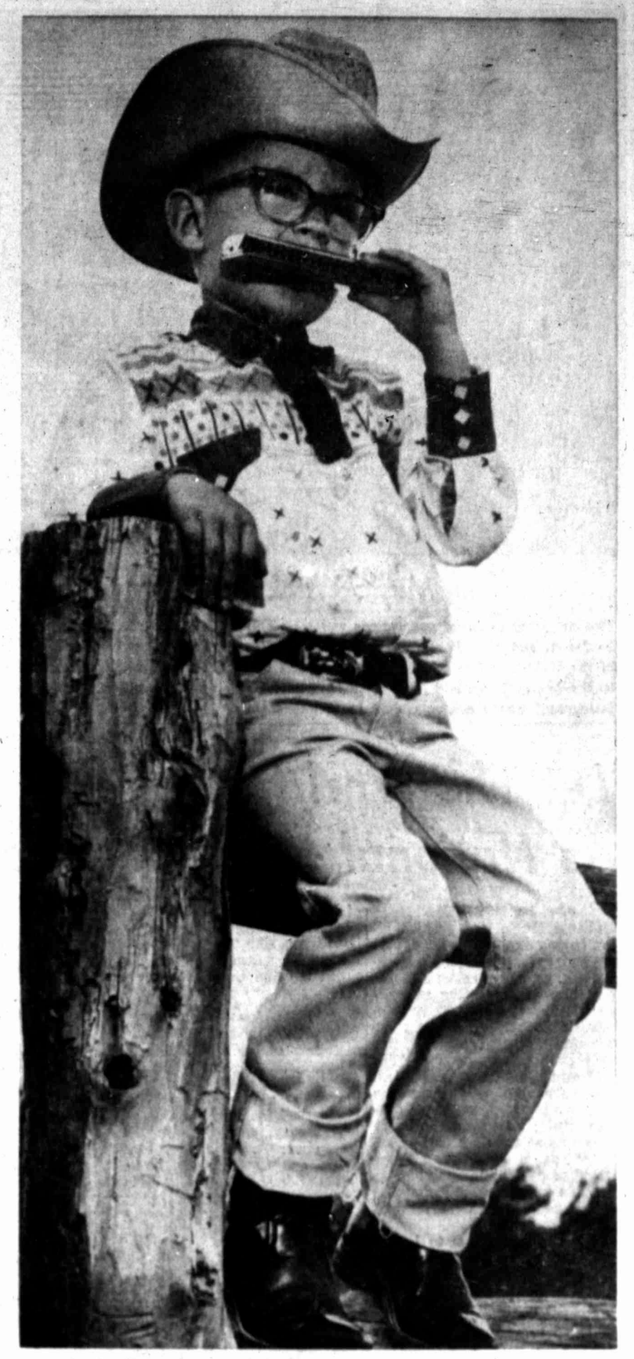

National Music Week observance in Big Spring will feature more classical presentations by various choral and instrumental groups, but the country Western phase doesn't go unnoticed, either. Here are some individuals and groups that have proven to be favorites with their own chosen brand of music. For additional details and pictures concerning National Music Week, see Page 2-C.

★

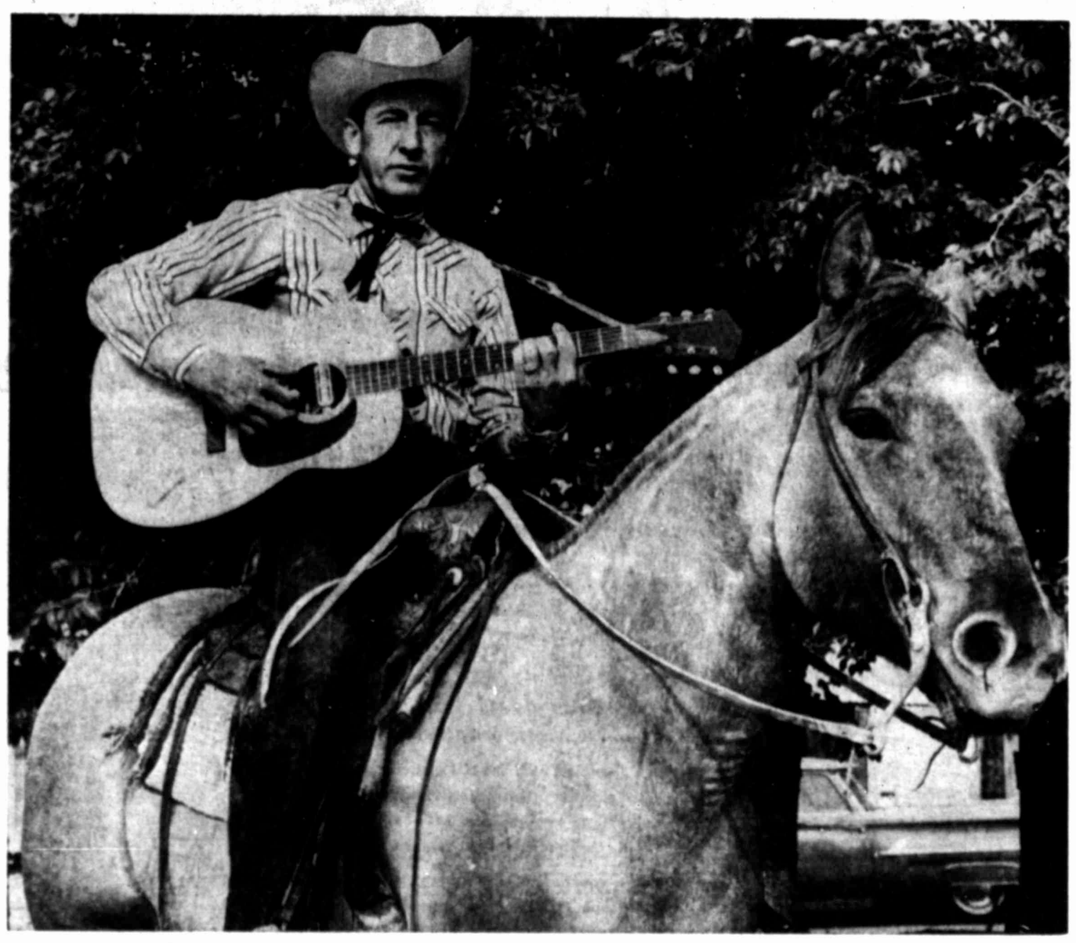

FIDDLER—Ben F. Logan, top left, at 84 has been playing the fiddle for 70 years. A Howard Countian for 66 years, he is no longer active with the bow as he once was, but he still appears at Howard County Old Settlers Reunions. He has written gospel songs and directed singing conventions. In his early days he set the tune and beat at ranch-house dances for cowboys.

★

WESTERN MAN — John Minnick, center left, was raised on a ranch near Gail, but in addition to being a cowboy he plays the guitar, bass fiddle, and drums, and sings and writes Western ballads. He has made a recording of two of his songs. He played for many years with Hoyle Nix, now is in a combo with Ace Ball.

YOUNGER MUSICIAN—Warren Jones is 6, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrol Jones, and he has taken to the harmonica, with cowboy effects. His sister, Glynna, 11, takes piano, and Leigh, 7, studies dancing. Mrs. Jones is a member of the Music Study Club and is recording secretary of the Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

SINGERS GO WESTERN—HCJC's vocal ensemble, pictured here, will don Western attire for a portion of a special Music Week presentation, scheduled at the college auditorium Monday evening at 8. First part of the "Festival Of Light Music" will consist primarily of hits from Broadway musical shows. The second half will feature music with a western theme. The program is under direction of Ira Schantz, with Jack Hendrix and Lt. Tom McDaniel as pianists. There will be a number of soloists, in addition to the ensemble numbers.

MUSIC TO DANCE TO—Enjoying a square dance session are Mrs. Alton Wooley, Bill Harp, (partially hidden), Royce Griffith, president of the Cosden Promenaders, and Mrs. O. L. Harp. The Promenaders meet twice a month, and their caller is Harold Graves. On the evening this picture was made, there was a joint festivity with the Big Spring Squares. BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 5, 1963

Music Week Brings Memories

The old pump organ of generations ago may still be found, and Mrs. Benjamin F. Meacham, wife of the Webb Air Force Base chaplain, plays one in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Nabors. This instrument was a common sight in churches (in fact, this one is supposed to have come from an old church in Virginia), and was in many a home. Mrs. Meacham recalls that her family had an organ almost like this one when she was a girl.

'Festival Of Light' To Be Presented By Choir

On Monday night, May 6th at 8 p.m. the music department of Howard County Junior College will present the second annual "Festival of Light Music." This concert will feature the HCJC vocal ensemble, under the direction of Ira Schantz, duo-pianists Jack Hendrix and Lt. Tom McDaniel and leading guest vocal soloists from the city of Big Spring. These will include Mrs. Carl Bradley and Mrs. Don Newsom, sopranos, and Milvern Ivey, baritone.

Featured in a novelty number will be Glenn and Dorothy Faison. Faison is the new minister of music at the First Baptist Church in Big Spring. Mrs. Faison, a soprano, is one of the soloists in the adult choir of the church.

The first portion of the program, entitled "Pops Bouquet," will feature primarily familiar tunes from various musical shows, such as "In the Still of the Night" from "Rosalie"; "Hello, Young Lovers" from "The King and I"; and "Hey, Look Me Over" from "Wildcat." These will be sung by the vocal ensemble. Among the solo selections will be tunes such as "Till There Was You" and "Seventy-Six Trombones" from "The Music Man"; "Tonight" from "West Side Story"; "Romance" from "The Desert Song" and several others.

One of the student soloists to be presented in this section will be Anne Keller, vocal student at HCJC who recently was named alternate in the college vocal division of the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra young artists competition. For this first half of the program the ensemble and soloists will be attired in colorful formal dress and there will be special staging and lighting effects.

The second portion of the concert will feature music with a western theme and will be entitled "Under Western Skies." The ensemble will sing such old favorites as "I'm An Old Cowhand," "The Colorado Trail," "Campfire Blues," and a medley from "Oklahoma." The ensemble will be dressed in appropriate costumes and the staging and lighting will also follow a western theme. One of the special features of this section will be a novelty act, "A Hillbilly Interlude," which will be both music and comedy, and which will be presented by Glenn and Dorothy Faison.

Assisting in production of the second annual "Festival of Light Music" will be Gary Pickle and Don Jones, who will be stage and lighting managers. Accompaniments and special piano arrangements will be by Jack Hendrix, head of the HCJC Music Department. Many stage props for "Under Western Skies" have been designed, built and collected by, the music students themselves.

Tickets to the "Festival of Light Music" may be obtained at the box office of the HCJC auditorium the evening of the performance. All proceeds from the concert will go to the Music Scholarship Fund. Admission will be $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students. All HCJC students will be admitted on presentation of their activity cards, and all HCJC faculty members and their wives or husbands will also be admitted free of charge.

Members of the HCJC Vocal Ensemble are Jerry Dean, Dorothy Downey, Gary Dunnam, Robert Heard, Jackie Hipp, and Sonnet Johnson.

Also, Anne Keller, Lt. Tom McDaniel, Donna Jo Percy, Rufus Rowland, Jackie Whetsel and Janice Winans.

Auditions Continue At Junior College

Auditions for piano students of members of the National Piano Teachers Guild continued in the auditorium of Howard County Junior College through the weekend.

Pupils of Mrs. Nell Frazier who will play Monday are David Holmes, Connie Gary, Teresa Spears, Nancy Kasch, Margie Newman, LaNell Meredith, Suzanne Cook and Karen Kee who will be playing for her high school diploma.

Mrs. Frazier's students who played Thursday were Eddie Frazier, Evette Fisher, Wilma Fisher, Ann Bence, Brent Clifton, Patsy Sweeney, Mary K. Tubb, Linda Dorough, Donna Swindell, Patricia Tubb, Vicki Hull and Ruth Russell.

Five pupils of Miss Elsie Willis who auditioned Saturday were Judy Ann Morris, Medena Furguerson, Tommy Polk, Sherry Bradbury and Elizabeth Moore.

'Let The World Rejoice' Is Theme As National Music Week Begins

By JO BRIGHT

National Music Week, which always begins on the first Sunday in May and continues through Mother's Day, is being celebrated for the 40th year. Under the sponsorship of the National Federation of Music Clubs, a non-profit organization dedicated to music, this year's observance theme is "Let the World Rejoice with Music."

The purpose of this observance is to focus the attention of the public on music; as a dynamic means of communication between all people; as a deeply satisfying channel of personal expression; as a forcible instrument for arousing, training and governing the minds and spirits of men.

Musical anniversaries to be observed this year will be the births of Guiseppe Verdi and Richard Wagner, both born 150 years ago. This year will mark the 100th anniversary of the births of Horatio William Parker and Pietro Mascagni and the 50th anniversary of the births of Benjamin Britten and Norman Dello Joio.

LOCAL PROGRAMS

Locally, a number of musical events are planned for the week. Monday afternoon patients at the Big Spring State Hospital will hear a program by members of the Big Spring High School Band at 4 p.m. Numbers will include a brass sextet playing "Joseph in Egypt" by Hehul. The musicians are Tommy Baccus, cornet; Dennis Harter, cornet; John Walker, French horn; John Lawton, trombone; Bill Clements, baritone; and Allen Dunn, tuba. A French horn solo, "Concert Rondo" by Mozart will be played by John Walker, followed by "Roll, Boom, Zing" performed by a drum quintet including Susan Ivey, Deane Terrazas, Dwayne Lawhon, Arnold Gibson and B. Salazar.

Monday evening the Howard County Junior College Choir will present its spring concert at the college auditorium at 8 o'clock. The vocal ensemble, under the direction of Ira Shantz, will present a varied program, enhanced by the use of stage properties and special lighting.

Tuesday, at noon, the Rotary Club will hear a musical program presented by the Big Spring High School Choir, under the direction of Mel Ivey. The numbers will be "Lo, How a Rose Ere Blooming" by Praetorius; "Jan Waselu" by Leontovich; and "Every Night When the Sun Goes In" by Gardner.

At noon, on Wednesday, the Downtown Lions Club will have members of the Big Spring High School Band as guest artists. "Sermonette", by Don Gillis, will be played by a woodwind quintet including Silvia Edwards, flute; Arlon Hughey, clarinet; Jim Burleson, oboe; A. J. Pirkle, French horn; and Carol Odom, bassoon. Silvia Edwards will also play a piccolo solo, "Butterfly" by Kohler.

At 2 p.m. Thursday, members of the Big Spring Music Study Club will present a program for patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

The last scheduled event will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday when the Big Spring High School Choir and the choirs of Goliad Junior High School and Runnels Junior High School will combine to present a spring concert. Admission to the program, which will be held in the high school aduitorium will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Family Orchestra

The entire Tolford Durham family can get together to observe Music Week, just as they do on many occasions, to form an orchestra. Durham, chief of social work services at the VA Hospital, plays the organ and violin, once directed the choir at the First Presbyterian Church, and used to sing in barbershop quartets. Mrs. Durham plays the piano and organ, is a member of the First Methodist choir and plays for Sunday School classes. Diana, 14, plays the piano, organ, clarinet, is a member of the First Methodist Junior choir, is in the Goliad Junior High band. Delores, 10, plays piano and flute, and is in the altar choir at her church. Donald, 16, plays clarinet and saxophone, is in the High School band and choir, and in the Chancel choir at his church.

Pawn Shop Fiddle Led To Music In Family Life

When Ben F. Logan bought a fiddle for $2.50 in a Dallas pawn shop as a Dallas County lad, he launched himself on a musical career, and one for his family, too.

Mr. Logan has reached an age where he is no longer an active fiddler as he once was, but he has about 20 violins around to keep him company. Now and then an old fiddlers' contest will entice him out of retirement.

Although he never pursued his music professionally, he has one son who does. Another is an accomplished player, a third son plays the guitar, and a daughter is expert at the piano. Mrs. Logan formerly was a pianist, but one son can't play a note.

"Beats me," said Mr. Logan, running his hand through his thinning hair. "I can't figure it out."

COMPOSER, TOO

Although he is self-taught on the fiddle, Mr. Logan actually had a good musical background, knows the basics of harmonics, and has composed a dozen Gospel songs. He and his wife and two friends for a number of years were in demand as an instrumental quartet.

From the time he came to Howard County in 1898, he's been doing some fiddling for fun. He farmed many years at Coahoma and later contracted the mail route from the post office to the train here.

His musical bent, however, wore off on his children.

Homer, who like two other boys went to Texas Tech, stayed with his avocation, and today is leading a popular band at Lubbock.

GUITARIST, PIANIST

Russell has played his guitar some since leaving Texas Tech. His job as an estimator with Texas Instruments at Fort Worth leaves him little time for music.

Mrs. Leon (Mary Lee) Peterson, Farmington, N. M., still plays the piano and is a polished performer, as her mother formerly was.

Sammy, who runs an oilfield supply house at Odessa, well — Sammy just doesn't play.

Ben (Tex) Logan Jr., however, is the one who has his father's natural bent for the fiddle. When he was a youngster he tried the fiddle, piano and trumpet. At 14 he took up the fiddle seriously. After graduating at Texas Tech with a degree in electrical engineering, he went to MIT at Boston, Mass., for his masters, but had to interrupt to earn some more money. More recently, he has completed his work on his Ph.D. at Columbia University and is working in the telephone laboratories on such things as the Telstar.

HILLBILLY ARTIST

Folkway Records, a specialty magazine, recently gave him a write-up, reviewing his record playing with a Boston band, then in the Wheeling Jamboree, the Kentucky Ridge Runners, and with Hawkshaw Hawkins. He also was with Wilma Lee and Stoney Cooper on their early Columbia records, and he has several compositions and recordings to his credit. Give him a break in his schedule, however, and he makes out for a country show in the New York area and makes that fiddle sing.

Friendly Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Robnett plan to make the Frontier Lodge the friendliest place in town for overnight guests. Free papers and coffee are given to travelers when they arrive. And when they leave, each visitor is asked to "Come back to Big Spring — the friendliest town in Texas."

Ex-Teacher Returns; Frontier Lodge Host

By JO BRIGHT

Some of you people who attended school in the Moore Community back in 1935 may be interested to know that one of your old schoolmasters is back in town. Neither old — nor still a schoolmaster— C. S. Robnett has returned to Big Spring, with his wife, to operate the Frontier Lodge.

"I was 19 then," said Robnett, "only a little older than some of my students and still wet behind the ears."

Robnett was born near Snyder but spent his youth in Klondike, where his father was in the cotton ginning business. After graduation from Cooper High School, he attended East Texas State College, studying for a bachelor of arts degree in business administration. It was during this time that he was assigned to teach at Moore. For five years he taught business administration and was the football coach at Mineola.

Joining the Navy in 1942, Robnett served in personnel training and supply; was stationed in Maryland, New York and Hawaii. When the war ended, like many GI's, he returned home to continue his education; receiving an MS Degree at East Texas State.

He accepted a position in Tyler and was the principal of Marsh Elementary School for two years. A growing interest in the retail world ended his teaching career. During the next 15 years he acquired three variety stores, supervising the operation of each.

Mrs. Robnett (Lilla Jo) finished high school in Tyler. For 11 years she was the PBX operator and receptionist for the Mayer-Schmidt Dept. Store.

The Robnett's moved to Big Spring in mid-March when they leased the lodge. Mrs. Robnett is not associated with her husband in the operation of the business, but since she is a talented seamstress, has made new drapes and assisted with the redecorating now in progress.

"We have never lived anywhere that we were treated more kindly than we have been in Big Spring," said Robnett. "I hope we can pass on the friendliness we have been shown, to our guests who are traveling through the city."

Mr. and Mrs. Robnett have five children. The oldest daughter, Sharon, is now Mrs. Jimmy Bedgood, who lives in Tyler with her husband and six-month-old daughter, Dawn. The other children are Brenda, 15, Joe, 14, Mike, 11, and Susan, 8. The family attends the Methodist church.

WEBB WINDSOCK

By MOLLI HARTZOG

By now, nearly everyone knows that Mrs. L. L. Patton is the newly elected president of the Officers Wives Club for the next 12 months. The outgoing president, Mrs. James Gehrig, made her departure all but complete at the recent OWC luncheon, leaving after a year's tenure of office and soon leaving Webb for Castle AFB at Merced, Calif.

At this writing, the new executive board has met once in official capacity and will endeavor this next week to fill all the appointed offices, chairmen positions and such before the traditional Board Breakfast Saturday, May 11, given by the ex-board for the new. The profit netted from the recent OWC charity musical is near the $500 mark, and is slated for the welfare fund to be used for charities during 1962 - 63. Also under way are plans for a summer soiree for OWC members and husbands similar to the traditional Christmas party.

The next Hi and Bye coffee will be May 23, and this is the time of year when transfers move many friends to distant parts. One of the most intriguing transfers (and co-related problems) belongs to Mrs. Wilson Banks whose next move will be to India. Among details as how to be chic upon an elephant, and ten easy lessons on sari wrapping, Mrs. Banks is having logistic problems. It is necessary, it seems, to carry along with the family, staples such as salt, sugar, etc., which are not available at the other end of the journey. Consider the sugar used by one person for six months, and then a whole family? Might be simpler to try to smuggle bees into India. But then who would want the task of trying to explain this to the customs people, who look askance at anything more frivolous than a toothbrush.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the Mario Steffanellis will move next week, the Roy Councils have left Webb, the George Gusses transferred a week ago, and the Max Odles have received orders for somewhere in the Pacific, and that is how it goes. The Hartzogs may go as far as Elbow or Snyder, but even that is doubtful: We shall remain at hand and watch the desperation grow in the Hugh Bowden household who will go somewhere, anywhere, to escape that houseful of kittens. Plans are for a trip to the East Coast which is about as far from the little darlings as they could go on one leave. So, if anybody needs some adorable fuzzy black kittens, call AM 4-4736 and help Hugh have a holiday!

This coming week all the various groups have their meetings and next weekend, May 18 is Armed Forces Day. The Officers' Club pool opens May 19 on a weekend basis until the last day of May. Hours are Saturday, 9 until 8 p.m., and Sunday, 1 until 8 p.m. Swimming instruction for children will begin June 14, and life guards are needed for the pool by Personnel Services. There is just barely time to lose those five winter pounds and acquire some tan to save face. The first weekend is always fun to watch because everyone creeps around feeling conspicuous and pale, but then a couple of weeks later all is forgotten and summer is really here.

SQUADRON SCROLL

Custom Of Dining-In Is Traditional Ceremony

Fifty-five weeks of hard work will be culminated next Friday morning, when the men of Class 63-G receive their silver pilot's wings. The class will scatter all over the United States to fly everything from super-sonic fighters to helicopters. Friendships made during the past year will not be lost, however, for in the Air Force, each new assignment not only brings new friends and experiences, but re-news old acquaintances.

Last Friday evening the men in the graduating class attended a formal dining-in at the Officers' Open Mess. The custom of dining-in had its beginning in England, in the monasteries. It later spread to the universities and then to the military. During World War II, the close association between the British military and the Army Air Corps inspired the late General H. H. Arnold to start the custom in the Air Force. The dining-in provides a situation where ceremony, tradition and good fellowship combine to strengthen morale and esprit de corps.

The wives of Class 64-B met for coffee Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. W. Eyler. Friday night, the married couples in the class met for an evening of bowling at Bowl-A-Rama. Although no one rolled a perfect game, the evening was enjoyed by everyone.

Lt. and Mrs. D. W. Martin recently welcomed Lt. Martin's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Martin and Lynn. The Martin family is from Denver, Colorado. Lt. Martin's brother recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Lt. and Mrs. W. B. Byrd Jr. are entertaining Mrs. Byrd's grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Pope, this week. Mrs. Pope traveled from Fayetteville, North Carolina, to see her fifth great-grandchild, William III, who is four months old. Mrs. Pope will visit Mrs. Byrd's sister in Sacramento, California, before returning to North Carolina.

Miss Mary Lou Roberts, formerly of Chicago, is the houseguest of Lt. and Mrs. Kenneth Furbush this week. Miss Roberts is the fiancee of Lt. George Manolis, who will leave for navigator training at Waco, Texas in June. The couple will be married in December. Miss Roberts is currently a social worker with the Catholic Charities in San Francisco.

Mrs. Lillian Fischer, from New York City, is visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. R. G. Lippemeire this weekend. Mrs. Fischer came to see her six - weeks - old granddaughter Lizbeth.

Capt. and Mrs. W. T. Salyor have a full house this weekend. Mrs. Salyor's parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Sammons, and her aunt and cousin, Mrs. Marybeth Scott and her daughter, MaryKay, are visiting from Hubbard, Texas.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Earl Harvey, Fort Worth, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Peggy Ann, to Bobby Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Grant. The wedding will take place on June 8 at the Sagamore Hill Baptist Church in Fort Worth.

Room Primping

Here's an idea to add color and unusualness to your bathroom—build the sink of colorful ceramic mosaic tile and—after forming the bowl—continue on outward from both sides with the same material, forming countertop space. The tiled sink-countertop will give a unity to the design of your bathroom, and at the same time give stainproof counter space where you may set cosmetics. A long mirror placed horizontally above the sink-countertop will make the room seem larger and give a more luxurious touch to the decor.

Class Ring, Wear And Care Of

Memo to the class of '63. Show off that new class ring to best advantage. Make sure it's sparkling clean, worn on the correct finger, and that it adorns well-groomed hands.

Most girls prefer to wear school rings on the right hand, and you'll find that school crest rings look most feminine when worn on the little finger.

A ring deserves its own beauty routine. Dull tarnished rings are no beauty mark. To keep rings sparkling, soak overnight in a mixture of one tablespoon of detergent to one cup of water. The next morning, rinse the ring in warm running water and polish carefully.

Remember that hand lotions, soap and dirt create dulling films. Rings should be given a frequent beauty bath. In addition, a quick polish several times during the day will keep your ring at its sparkling best.

Your new school ring deserves the setting of pretty hands, softened by faithful application of your favorite hand softener. Nails should be carefully manicured. Longer nails will glamorize short, stubby fingers. If you are blessed with long, tapered nails you can afford to file nails fairly short. Remember that colorful nail polish disguises flaws in nails that are less than perfect.

Shelves, Shades, Desk Make A Storage Wall

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A storage wall need not be a big expensive production, a bulky addition to a living room or a large architectural project.

Bookshelves that can be bought unpainted can serve the purpose well with the addition of decorative window shades and a simple do-it-yourself frame.

Such a unit was recently devised by interior designer Lois Munroe to suit her engineer-husband's hi-fi requirements. But in finding a solution for him, she also solved some of her own storage needs.

CONCEALMENT

The area covered was 13 feet along one wall. Seven-foot-high bookcases were strung along the wall. The distance of a foot between the open bookshelves and the eight-foot ceiling was enclosed to conceal hi-fi speakers set sufficiently far apart to achieve excellent stereophonic effects. Cane panel inserts were placed in the hi-fi valance.

A frame of 1 by 2-inch boards was set about six inches from the bookcase, running vertically to the valance above, but recessing the bookcase. These uprights were placed about 30 inches apart on the horizontal 1 by 4-inch board on the floor. Window shades were hung from the valance. When drawn, the edges of the shades are concealed by the uprights. When completely lowered, they fit behind the floor board of the frame. The shades' rollers are concealed behind the valance. Miss Munroe also managed to conceal an undesirable ceiling beam with the valance.

FOLD A DESK

The center area of the storage wall holds a fold-away desk about the size and design of an ironing board. It is painted the same color as the bookcase. A small clip-on light folds in with the board. The shade is raised to permit the hinged board to fold in, pulled down to conceal it.

Other areas of this bookcase unit are used as storage for files, records, tape recorder, radio and a complete tool chest. Books are kept below other paraphernalia so that shades need not be drawn completely. But shades were selected so they would be decorative if pulled all the way down.

Three shades have a black and white unicorn motif, vinyl ink on vinyl - impregnated shade cloth. They alternate with two white shantung shades, equally washable and edged with black-and-white trimming to continue the feeling of pattern. A Queen Anne style chair lacquered black has a red and white striated fabric on its seat, useful at the desk and a comfortable addition to the room when the desk is not in use.

Barefoot Styles Have Chic Comfort, Appeal

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Associated Press Fashion Writer

The next time some very important people are coming for dinner, invite them to take off their shoes and makes themselves at home.

Unless they have holes in their socks, they will, and at the same time shed some inhibitions. You as hostess will already have met them at the door in your own well-pedicured, unshod feet. And by the time everybody reclaims his shoes a good time will have been had by all.

"How can you possibly be stuffy or formal with your shoes off?" demands Georgia Bullock who has devoted a considerable portion of her summer collection to barefoot styles.

Nude feet are nicest on the warm sands of Malibu Beach where Georgia and her family have a magnificent home. To prove it movie producer Aaron Rosenberg recently tossed a shoeless party there in the Bullocks' honor "and it was wonderful."

BACK TO NATURE

However, anywhere at all where the carpet is thick and the heat is on is great for kicking off shoes, whether to entertain or to get housework done.

"Isn't that usually the first thing a woman does when she enters her front door?" debates the deeply-tanned, blue-eyed sophisticate from the West Coast.

The second thing a woman does as soon as she has the privacy is free herself of her girdle. For this reason Georgia fashions at home wardrobes that won't incarcerate as much as a mole. Her hostess dresses skim over the figure with the ease of a night gown, but with a lot more chic. Bands on pants costumes are elasticized to remain comfortable after too many desserts.

INTERIOR DECORATED

The designer emphasizes at-home clothes in her line because she believes that's where a woman's place is. Despite her highly successful career, she has devoted a great deal of time there to a husband and three children, a girl 16, a boy 7, and an infant son.

To deter the woman at home from clashing esthetically with her place, Georgia chooses colors that are compatible to current interior decorating trends. Yet she is careful that the hues are lively, for she doesn't want wives to fade into the background unnoticed, either.

Despite her artistic Sunday painter bent, Georgia is a practical woman, well aware that few female figures are perfect, not in her own Hollywood background, not even her own. "I put on some extra weight with my last pregnancy," she says ruefully.

She's always conniving with cut and fabric to deceive the eye. For example, overblouses are long enough to hide the worst of the hip. Her artist smocks also cover a multitude of figure sins.

With all, Georgia believes in femininity. Long pants, once undisputably masculine, are shocking pink eyelet, Bullock-style. They are lined, of course, as are her eyelet hostess dresses for the barefoot, or the footsore with sandles on. And eyelet is just about as giddy and girlie as you can get.

Happily married, Georgia is certain her formula for at-home clothes would do wonders at creating marital harmony.

"A woman who wakes up in the morning with a fashion-consciousness feels beautiful and womanly all day. She has self-confidence and," Georgia adds, "feeling comfortable does wonderful things to her disposition."

Indeed, a famous quip about how husbands can make their wives stay at home suggests, among other things, that they keep them barefoot.

HD Women Show Work At Exhibit

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Ingenuity, time and an enormous amount of patience went into the exhibit planned and executed by the Home Demonstration Clubs of Howard County Friday. The show was held in the former Student Union Building at HCJC.

Beauty and sparkle was given the show by the pretties fashioned with gay sequins, rhinestones, pearls, and beads. One attractive production was a jewel tree that would be an eye-catcher for the Christmas season as well as the beautiful tree ornaments made from satin and styrofoam balls which were decorated with bits of ribbon, sequins, etc.

Also there was a display of handsomely decorated soap cakes in various shapes trimmed with compatible colors of ribbon, lace and sequins.

Unusual were the mosquitoes made from devils claws, one dressed as a gay young man and the other as his girl friend. A family of French poodles was fashioned from silver sprayed cockleburrs, complete with touches of red for the collars and the ears. They were linked together with a dainty gold chain.

Exhibited also were three beer bottles that had been placed in a kiln and heated to a degree of heat that rendered them pliable enough to be molded together and bent to form a conversation piece.

One club member had used a barrel top to paint an oil picture of a mare and colt; another had used a pink detergent powder, glycerin and epsom salts to make a bath salt which she put into a glass, added some girlish features and a fancy hat and had a most attractive bathroom accessory.

There were any number of oil paintings on display as well as an exhibit of canned and baked foods, clothing made by the 4-H girls as well as the home demonstration members.

Mrs. J. F. Skalicky was general chairman of the exhibit which was attended by 200 people.

PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND CHURCH GUILD LUNCHEON

A nursery will be provided.

Sixty Players For Duplicate Games

Fifteen tables of players participated in the duplicate bridge games following the Ladies' Golf Association luncheon at the Big Spring Country Club Friday.

Winners in the north-south position were Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. Elvis McCrary, first; Mrs. E. O. Ellington and Mrs. Ward Hall, second; Mrs. Hayden Griffith and Mrs. Travis Reed tied for third and fourth with Mrs. Ray McMahen and Mrs. D. A. Brazel; and Mrs. Doug Orme and Mrs. R. R. McEwen Jr., fifth.

Scoring high in the east-west positions were Mrs. William E. Harris and Mrs. D. E. Jonker, first; Mrs. Hudson Landers and Mrs. Morris Patterson, second; Mrs. Paul Lee and Mrs. Ron Kibler, third; Mrs. J. H. Holloway and Grover Cunningham Jr., fourth; and Mrs. Gerald Harris and Mrs. Ladd Smith, fifth.

Mrs. Elmo Wasson announced that next Friday would be Master Point Day and that no qualifications are necessary.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

With just a little encouragement I believe I could become a bird watcher—the kind that studies the habits and looks into bird books for identification. In our part of town we have some of the beautiful birds including prissy families of quail that seem to be forever crossing the road. They walk with such dignity and firmness of purpose. It seems inconceivable that anyone could enjoy eating them. But then I'm no hunter either. We have enjoyed watching a couple of cardinals that perch in our juniper trees . . . The male is so pretty and brilliant in his crimson coat and his little mate seems quite dowdy in her drab dress but there is one little crimson spot on her head . . . Probably like a woman getting a new spring hat. That one spot makes her feel well dressed. Also there is our mockingbird that brightens up the early morning for everyone within earshot even if he does give our Stubby dog a bad time by pecking at his hindquarters.

Investor's Clinic Scheduled Here

Most American would like to become investors.

But many of them have some odd notions about it—that only the wealthy can afford to invest in stocks, that there is some mystery attached to buying and selling on the market, that it takes a wizard to figure out financial pages or interpret financial reports.

None of this is true, and to brush away a lot of cobwebs, the Herald and Howard County Junior College are sponsoring jointly an Investors Clinic in three weekly sessions.

ALL FREE

These are absolutely free, and the first will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the HCJC auditorium. The other sessions will be at the same hour May 14 and May 21. Each period will last about an hour and a half.

As a means of obtaining some idea of attendance, those who can attend the clinic are asked to obtain free tickets at any of the local banks, at the Herald or HCJC.

Leaders for the various explanations are being furnished by Rauscher, Pierce & Co. from its Midland office. Thomas G. Laros, assistant vice president of the firm, and Joe Liberty, representative will speak at the first. Laros and Wade B. Simpson, representative, will direct discussions at the second session, and Liberty will be in charge of the third.

12½ MILLION OWNERS

There are today in the United States something over 12,500,000 individuals who own common stocks. More than half of these are women. Fifty per cent of all the stockholders are those who have incomes somewhere between $5,000 and $10,000 per year. Most corporations are owned by thousands of people. The largest concern in the country, American Telephone & Telegraph, has no less than two million individual stockholders.

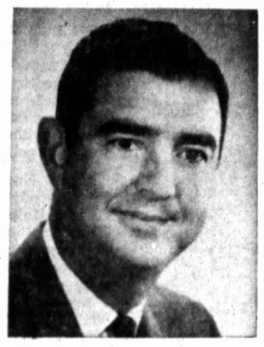

Discussions at the Investor Clinic series will provide some basic history about the New York Stock Exchange (it originated under a Butterwood tree on Wall Street where brokers gathered to swap securities), simple explanations of the jargon or terms used in trading, something of the types of stocks together with their risks and rewards, how to buy and sell securities, how to interpret financial pages, difference between listed and unlisted stocks.

FACULTY

Laros is a native of Galveston, having graduated from Texas A&M College with a civil engineering degree. In 1953 he entered the security business in Dallas, moved to Midland, was transferred to Houston and then back to Midland where he became an assistant vice president last year.

Liberty and Simpson are both Big Spring men and graduates of Big Spring High School. Liberty took his B.A. in economics at the University of Texas in 1959, graduated from the Investment Banking School at Northwestern, joined a member of the New York Stock Exchange in Houston, and then came to Midland in March, 1962. He is married to the former Nancy Kay King and they have one son, Phillip Todd, 2. Mrs. Liberty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. King.

Simpson took his B.A. in business administration at Texas Christian University, was in Who's Who among Students in Colleges while at TCU. He attended stockbrokers school in New York under direction of Francis I. DuPont. In June of 1961, he joined Rauscher, Pierce at Midland. He is married to the former Pat McDaniel of Abilene and is the son of Mrs. Modesta Simpson, Big Spring.

Conference Plans To Be Discussed

Plans for the 1964 grand lodge meeting of the Texas Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be discussed at a conference here Sunday.

W. D. King, Paris, grand master of the lodge, and S. M. Williams, Corsicana, grand secretary, will be in Big Spring to confer with deputy grand masters from 11 of the Odd Fellow Districts in Texas on grand lodge preparations.

Alvin H. Clepper, 4008 Dixon, deputy grandmaster for District No. 11, will be official host to the meeting. It will be in the IOOF Lodge Hall and will begin at 8 a.m. Clepper said the 23 expected to attend will dine at the Sixty-Six Truck Stop restaurant at noon and immediately resume their conference in the grand lodge.

Church Aims For 698 In Bible School

The drive for 698 in Bible School May 19, announced by the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ, has brought about a full slate of adult Bible classes. Many of these will place special emphasis on themes conducive to Christian unity, Curtis Camp, minister, said.

A series of two lessons, taught by Bruce Frazier, beginning May 19, will be entitled "Science and Faith," and will be of interest to many. Frazier, a geologist and head of the agriculture department at HCJC, is a member of the church. College students, as well as adults of all ages, are invited to the class.

A film strip, to be presented by Doyle Maxwell, teacher of the regular college class, is a two-lesson series, "Can I Understand the Bible?"

The minister will teach a special lesson for the auditorium class dealing with "Inspiration of the Bible."

Other adult classes will include: young adult, taught by Stanley Peurifoy, on "First Corinthians and Unity"; men's class, taught by Gilbert Gibbs and J. C. Rogers, on "Romans"; ladies' class, taught by Maxine Riley and Faye Rogers, on "This Life We Live", and couples class, taught by David Elrod and Arthur Latson, studying "Churches of Today."

An early morning worship service at 8:15 a.m. is scheduled for May 19 to accommodate the anticipated crowd in Bible School. Bible School will start at 9:30 a.m.

Base Personnel Made Donations

The 1963 National Health Agencies and Federal Service Joint Crusade Drive which ended at Webb AFB recently received more than $2,600 from contributions of base personnel.

The campaign included donations to United Cerebral Palsy Association, American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., and the National Association for Crippled Children and Adults. These associations received more than $1,600 in contributions. Other contributions went to the support of CARE, Radio Free Europe and the American-Korean Foundation. More than $900 was donated to these areas.

Eight Murder Cases Pend In Local District Court

By SAM BLACKBURN

There were 25 prisoners in the Howard County jail Thursday afternoon. Six of these are men accused of murder.

In addition to the six locked up, there are two other individuals, currently at liberty on bond, who are also charged with killing a fellow man. Oldtimers around the courthouse cannot remember when there were so many pending homicide cases.

Of the eight active murder charges pending here, one is on appeal. Another is to be transferred to another county for a second trial.

25 YEAR SENTENCE

One of the prisoners in the jail has a 25 year sentence imposed by a jury hanging over his head—a verdict returned in his case Dec. 13, 1961. He is the pioneer resident of the county jail, having been confined there since Oct. 24, 1961.

Most recent action in his case was a motion for a new trial, filed Jan. 20, 1962. No ruling has been made on this motion and there is a maze of confusion over the status of the case.

Two defendants are scheduled to be tried the week of May 20. Since it is unlikely that two cases of the gravity of these can be tried in a single week, one is almost certain to be passed to a later date.

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, said he hopes to dispose of some of the homicide cases soon. However, he called attention to other assignments in his court,—to the long array of jury civil cases and court duties both here and in the other counties of the district.

"There is little chance," he said, "that we can set down a criminal docket anytime in the next two months."

TWO ADDED

Two of the murder cases were added to the lengthy homicide docket this past week. These were indictments returned by the grand jury which met Tuesday and Wednesday. It is possible, but not regarded as probable, that one of these defendants may be able to post bond. If so, then Sheriff Miller Harris' list of inmates charged with homicide will be reduced to five.

These cases are the most recent local homicides. One of the killings occurred March 31 and the other April 1.

In murder trials, where the defense demands it, a special venire has to be called for jury duty. A special venire, possibly of 150 members, will have to be drawn sometime in the next few days. It will be instructed to report to the court May 20 to serve in the trial of whichever of two murder cases set for that date comes to trial.

A defendant charged with murder with malice cannot enter a plea of guilty before the court as in lesser offenses. He can plead guilty but a jury must hear the evidence in the case and decide his punishment. However, where this development arises, a special venire is not required. A regular jury panel can serve. One of the defendants now in the jail is said to be seriously considering this method of settling his fate.

LEWIS DAVIS

The most puzzling case of the lot is that of a 50-year-old man, Lewis Davis. He was tried Dec. 12 and 13, 1961, for the murder of Roy V. Brown. Brown was beaten to death with an old battery cell as climax to a quarrel between the two men. The killing occurred on a railroad siding Oct. 23, 1961. Davis was arrested immediately after the death of Brown and he has been held in jail here for nearly 19 months.

A jury in the 118th District Court found Davis guilty and fixed his punishment at 25 years in the state penitentiary. George Thomas, his court-appointed attorney, filed a motion for a new trial. After the time for such action had passed, the evidence was presented to support this motion. Prematurely, it is said, a notice of appeal was filed.

CONFUSING

Just why Davis is still in jail here is confusing. Court attaches agree that either he should now be in the state penitentiary serving his 25 years or that he should have been granted a new trial. His contention for a new trial alleged jury misconduct.

Gil Jones, district attorney, said that the law is vague on just what constitutes "presentation" of a motion for a new trial. He also said that insofar as he is concerned, he favors bringing Davis before the court, sentencing him and sending him on to the state prison.

"I prosecuted the case fair and honestly," said the district attorney. "That was my duty. A jury of Howard County residents held that Davis was guilty as charged and fixed his punishment. Insofar as my office is concerned, that is the end of the case."

Judge Caton has indicated that he intends to do something soon about Davis.

"I may possibly be able to get something done on the Davis case this week," he said.

JOHN EDWIN MYERS

The second oldest resident of the county jail on murder's row is John Edwin Myers, now 33. Myers, who is slated for a second trial for the murder Sept. 1, 1961 of Arthur DeKraai, an Iowa hitchhiker, has been in jail here since that date, with exception of a few days he spent in Rusk in March, 1962. He was found guilty by a jury in that city and his punishment fixed at death. The case had been shifted to Cherokee County on a change of venue. His attorneys were able to have the death verdict set aside by the Court of Criminal Appeals when they successfully presented evidence of jury misconduct.

Plans are now being pushed to try the case again. Jones, who prosecuted Myers at Rusk, said that a district judge in West Texas has agreed to try the case but that he is waiting word from Judge James H. Moore. Moore tried the case in Rusk. When he hears from the judge, he said he will push ahead with plans for the new trial.

JAMES MONROE STEWARD

A neighbor of Myers' in the jail is James Monroe Steward, 37. He is a convict, currently serving a six-year burglary sentence in the state penitentiary. However, he is in jail here, (placed in his cell Jan. 13), on a charge of the murder of Travis Hicks, 37, an itinerant electrician. The murder allegedly occurred in a Big Spring motel around Dec. 1, 1961.

A year later, Hicks' skelton was found in a lonely field in Martin County. The body was identified by code numbers on a set of dentures. Officers investigating the death, filed charges against Steward and he was indicted for the crime.

There are three other inmates in the jail facing murder charges

ROOSEVELT CARTER

Roosevelt Carter, a 27-year-old Negro, is the only man on the list with two murder indictments hanging over his head. He has been a guest of the county jail since Jan. 15. He is accused of having shot Arthur Roland Williams and Jerry Johnson, two young Big Spring Negroes, to death as climax to a tavern quarrel.

The newer members in the jail homicide club are George Clinton Ives, 38, and Joe Nunez Lopez, 38.

GEORGE CLINTON IVES

Ives was indicted last week for the gun death April 1 of Loma Flippen O'Neal. She was shot to death in her home. Bond has been set at $7,500 in his case but he has made no effort so far to post bail.

JOE NUNEZ LOPEZ

Lopez was added to the list last Tuesday night. He had been charged with the murder of Margaret Winters (alias Gloria Gomez), and was indicted Wednesday. Lopez, arrested a few days after the woman had been found dead in her apartment, was freed on bond. Tuesday, his bondsman asked officers to pick up Lopez—saying he wanted off the bond. Lopez was arrested and placed in jail. the court set a new bond of $10,000, which he has not posted.

Two other homicide defendants are on the current list of pending cases but not in jail.

JOE TORRES

Joe Torres, indicted for the shooting of Andrew Garcia Perez, was tried in the 118th District Court and a jury returned a guilty verdict against him Feb. 22. The shooting occurred April 18, 1962. The jury fixed Torres punishment at 15 years in the penitentiary. An appeal was filed and is now before the Criminal Court of Appeals.

JERRY LEE PARKER

The last on the list concerns the bludgeon death of Stanley Williams. A 90-year-old retired farmer, Williams was found fatally beaten Aug. 26, 1962 in his residence at 517 N. Benton. He and his aged wife had been attacked by an intruder who sought to force the aged couple to give up their money.

Williams died a few days later. Mrs. Williams recovered but she has never been able to provide officials with a coherent account of what happened. Jerry Lee Parker, 21, a Big Spring Negro is under indictment for the killing. He has been released on bond and tentatively slated to go to trial May 20. The 118th District Court has set both his case and that of Roosevelt Carter for trial on that date.

RAPE CASE SET AGAIN

Trial of A. C. Elliott, airman, charged with rape, re-set from last month, will be held May 13 in 118th District Court.

Judge Ralph Caton has instructed Fern Cox, district court clerk, to notify members of the same special venire which reported April 22 to be back in court May 13.

A special venire is required in the case because rape under Texas laws is a capital crime.

Elliott is accused of criminally attacking a baby sitter in his home Sept. 3. He was indicted Oct. 25.

A Devotional For The Day

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path. (Psalms 119:105.)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to be mindful this day of our heritage in Thee. We are grateful for the faith of our fathers who have passed on to us the blessings of a good and fruitful life of service for Thee. Rekindle our desire to serve Thee as faithful stewards of Christ, our Savior. In His name we pray. Amen.

Give It Your Support

The Month of May brings many things and events as we hasten to bring to a climax many endeavors. Activities pile upon activities.

One, however, which deserves the support of our community is the National Junior College Track Meet here May 17-18. More than a score of colleges across the nation will send their top athletes here. This automatically guarantees that the competition in every event on the program will be closely contested and exciting.

Big Spring is fortunate to have this outstanding athletic spectacle. The way to insure that we retain this is to boost the show in every way, and most of all to support it at the gate.

Inescapable Obligation

Through the Big Spring Pastors Association, most churches in the city will this month stress the role of the home in modern society. This has grown out of a concern over the transfer of the faiths, the ideals, the hopes of one generation to another.

Transmitting a heritage is something which may not be done with clinches, or something to be accomplished in one easy, magic stroke. In the final analysis, the process is one of absorption rather than of transfer.

The arena in which this can best be accomplished is the home. This is elemental, for the home has existed by custom since the creation of man in the image of God. The home has been ordained by the Scriptures, and virtually all religions accord it a place of pre-eminence. The state has recognized the sanctity of the home and of its responsibility. In short, the home is the basic institution.

Because of this standing, the home is the logical place to attack fundamental problems of morality, behavior, and attitudes. The simple reason is that the home provides an exposure for children that no other agency can remotely approach. Consider that of the hours in a week, a child will spend about one-seventh of the time in school (for only nine months of a year), normally about one-seventieth in church. Even the most nomadic child will spend at least 50 per cent of the time at home, and probably the time spend under home influence or control will approximate 75 per cent.

Equally important, the home has the binding forces which deepen its potential in shaping young lives. The home possesses a continuity of influence, not just for this week or year, but for the time a child arrives in the home until home-ties are broken. The home exercises this influence at a time when the child is pliable and insatiable in his desires to learn. Early he comes to recognize, though he may rebel occasionally against it, the authority of the home. Moreover, there is an intimacy in the home which undergirds authority as well as promotes trust, and thus exercise great weight.

This being true, what is the responsibility of the home? It is almost everything; it is so great that it cannot be vacated without peril to our society and certainly our sanctity. Evasion, half-heartedness, disinterest, abdication will not alter one iota that parents are responsible and accountable for the children entrusted to them.

How then can we come to grips with this sacred obligation? Broadly stated, it is by precept and example. After all is said and done, our children are quite apt to be like we are. Given the right climate and the right bent, they may even rise above what feeble goodness we may have mustered. Given an example of selfishness, of dishonesty, of low morality, of unconcern and disrespect for others, and for authority of slighting and ignoring religious obligations, our children will become a living indictment of our failures.

Around The Rim

No Music In The Soul, Alas

This being National Music Week, someone with a sense of the ridiculous suggested that Zeke might write a piece about it.

Well, he would, but he's busy trying to get his cotton up. I am just going to do it myself. In a sort of confessional way.

I AM AT HEART a frustrated would-be musician, and have been ever since I was old enough to realize there was something else in life besides baseball.

My private dreams at times put me in the crisp uniform of John Philip Sousa, standing as erect as a ramrod before the gleaming brasses, right arm chopping up and down to keep the horns and the drums in one mighty attack.

OR PUT ME in the white tie and tails of the symphony conductor, weaving the baton with delicate grace and bringing forth the glory of the hundreds of strings.

Or make me a Carmen Cavallero, my agile fingers caressing the keyboard and producing the lovely fabric of a melody woven of golden notes.

'TWAS NOT ever thus. Referring back to baseball, there was a time when Christy Mathewson was a much greater hero than Johann Sebastian Bach, and unfortunately this was the time my family tried to pound a bit of culture into my freckle-faced, tow-haired being.

Pound may be the literal word. A circumstance was that my piano teacher was my eldest sister, and fellows, you can sass your sister when you can't a piano teacher you have to call Miss or Mrs. Or at least you think you can, until she tells your momma about the agony of the day's lesson. That's when the pounding would start.

I USED TO think it was mere coincidence that the two days I had to go to music lesson were the two days that my sister came home from her studio with her worst headaches. I understand that today's music teachers sometimes put on space helmets when their charges are thumping at some first-year composition called "Dance of the Flowers," but the best they could do in those days was don earmuffs. My sister-teacher wore them on the warmest days.

AFTER ALL, the piano is a fairly intricate thing, when you take your first look at it. I never did quite understand why there had to be black keys, or why treble and bass notes couldn't have been all the same, or why there had to be all those sharps and flats just to confuse a fellow.

As you can imagine, my resistance to learning the piano finally outwore patience of all the family, and then I really began to deteriorate. I next essayed to become a drummer, but this soon resulted in my practicing in the barn loft. The neighbors felt that this was unfair to the cows in the lot.

SO THE DRUMS went the way of all skin, to turn a phrase. And then I reached the absolute nadir in the musical world. I turned to the saxophone.

This got me through some breezily happy days in the town band whose conductor was blessed with immeasurable tolerance (he was used to a lot of squawks), and a college outfit, where I was regarded with some pity as a sort of forlorn outrider. I was never elected Man Most Likely to Succeed in Music.

AFTER ONE sinks so low, there is no place to go but up. I surrendered all, abandoned the whole mess. Today I am left with a sort of screeching whistle, and off-key humming. And with my dreams. Hail and farewell, National Music Week.

We've Learned About The Money Supply

"You recently took it upon yourself," writes a company treasurer who wants his identity withheld, "to say that Americans in the postwar period have not been dumb clucks. You say we've managed to have prosperity without depression and without repeating the mistakes of previous postwar eras.

"How do you explain this? Is it wisdom or good fortune? Is it a greater understanding of economics or Stalin and Khrushchev? You stressed that commodity prices didn't collapse. But they might have done so if the cold war had not persisted."

NO DOUBT, the cold war helped. It provided fiscal excitement and stimulation. The Marshall Plan, a big defense budget, and a space race.

And yet, we were not unprepared for peace and demobilization. The Employment Act of 1946 set forth the broad guide lines:

"Congress hereby declares that it is the continuing policy and responsibility of the Federal Government to use all practical means . . . to foster . . . conditions . . . to promote maximum employment, production, and purchasing power."

YET BEFORE that, we had learned an important lesson: "Money makes the mare go." The panics which followed the War of 1812, the de-chartering of the Second Bank of the United States in 1836, the end of the Civil War, World War I, and the Great Depression were brought on by contraction in the money supply: Economic anemia.

At one time, we had more than 30,000 banks in the United States. Today we have about 13,000. During the New Deal Era, the establishment of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the separation of investment banking from deposit (commercial) banking insulated the money and credit structure from emotional disaster.

PRIOR TO THE establishment of the Federal Reserve System, the United States was always short of money. When the Civil War started, specie was scarce. That led to the First National Currency Act—the printing of greenbacks. Then followed the Second National Currency Act. The federal government chartered national banks to operate alongside and compete with state banks. (Thus began the dual banking system.)

National banks were authorized to issue national bank notes. And Salmon P. Chase, Secretary of the Treasury, shrewdly saw to it that these notes were backed by bonds, thus creating a market for government paper to finance the war.

IT WASN'T UNTIL after the establishment of the Federal Reserve System in 1913—and then, not really until after the Great Depression—that we learned that a sharp drop in the money supply inevitably punctures prosperity and deflates the price level (see chart).

After World War II, the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury did not always agree on policy details. President Truman and his Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder wanted the Reserve System to support the government bond market at par. This would have prevented any rise in interest rates. It would have kept money permanently easy.

THOMAS B. McCABE, then chairman of the Reserve Board, fought this and a compromise was ultimately reached. Yet, throughout the postwar period, the Reserve Board has fostered an increase in the money supply (see chart). We haven't run out of money to make the mare go.

Not only that, in the Western World, central bankers and finance ministers have collaborated against deflation in major countries—often under the auspices of the International Monetary Fund. Thus has the remembrance of panics past influenced present prosperity.

NOW, POSTWAR policy enters a new and important phase—the phase of the dollar glut. In the early postwar years, the world suffered from a shortage of dollars. Through loans and aid, the U. S. over-fulfilled the gap. The world is long of dollars, and the U. S. gold supply is down to less than $16,000,000,000 from a high of $25,000,000,000.

WILL INTERNATIONAL bankers continued confidently to accept the U. S. dollar as the fulcrum of the world's money supply and world prosperity? Do they have the wisdom and confidence not to draw down gold and create a monetary crisis here?

That will be the ultimate in monetary wisdom and international cooperation in which the United States has had thrust upon it economic and political leadership.

Does The Budget Think?

WASHINGTON — The much-discussed Federal Budget is as inscrutable as the Sphinx or the Mona Lisa. Nobody knows what the budget "thinks" or what it means, so the Proxmire subcommittee of the Joint Economic Committee is trying to find out.

ONE OF THE initial difficulties which the Proxmire meaning-seekers have encountered is simply to discover which budget is The Budget. The Government Printing Office sells for $1.50 a 440-page book which is supposed to be The Budget. But this publication is so misleading that I wonder why the GPO hasn't been called in to testify before the Senate committee that's investigating "truth in packaging." In order to find out what the 440-page book is all about, the reader has to obtain the 1,195-page appendix which tries to explain it.

ANOTHER PHASE of the mystery called "Which Budget Is The Budget," comes out in the President's various economic messages. When he's discussing his "administrative" budget, Mr. Kennedy uses the figure of $98.8 billion. But the figures which represent income and outgo are somewhat larger. This coming fiscal year, the federal government has an estimated income of $112.2 billion, and an estimated outgo of $122.5 billion. That makes a deficit of 10.3 billion. The deficit probably will be more because the income is exaggerated and the outgo is minimized. This fraudulent or ignorant bookkeeping is not entirely a Democratic way of economic life. The Republicans did it, too.

PROXMIRE WON'T find out what the budget "thinks" until the budget is made to think aloud. For example, when the budget authorizes the Corps of Engineers to build a dam, there ought to be some budgetary soliloquy on what the dam will economically accomplish. There isn't. In 1962 the President proposed a matching fund of $10 billion to help communities build nursing homes. From a humanitarian viewpoint, this sounds fine, but nothing in the budget says what this large amount of money would do to the construction business, the nursing home population or the communities.

LAST YEAR the Joint Committee's chief economist, Dr. Roy Moor, wrote a study of the budget which is now the basis of the subcommittee inquiry. Moor offered a 14-point program to aid Congress and the general public in understanding the budget's economic meaning, if any. The most significant item, it appears to me, is Point Nine where it is proposed that the government make quarterly reports to show what happened to the economy when money was released for dams, nursing homes, food stamps, area redevelopment, housing loans and all the rest.

MOOR HAS ALSO provided the Joint Committee with some sampling from budgeting in foreign countries and from the States. Sweden keeps two budgets, one for current running expenses, the other for capital (or "revenue producing") outlays. South Africa has nationalized railroads, airlines and harbors. They are supposedly self-supporting, quite unlike our biggest nationalized industry, the Post Office, which doesn't even try to support itself. Connecticut has a Puritan Ethic law by which any deficit at the end of any fiscal period becomes a priority obligation upon the next fiscal period. This usually means instant taxation to wipe out the debt.

Connecticut's director of the state budget told the subcommittee that this arrangement meant confronting "the moment of truth" at the earliest opportunity. Unfortunately, the federal budgeteers try to postpone the "moment of truth" until everybody forgets about it.

Italian Elections Affect NATO

WASHINGTON — Another "X" factor has been added to the growing uncertainty within the Atlantic alliance. The new unknown is the doubt raised by the outcome of the Italian elections over whether a center-left government under Amintore Fanfani can function as an effective partner.

THE KENNEDY Administration has put a big bet on bringing both Italy and Germany into the multi-lateral nuclear force. This is the sea-based medium-range ballistic missile force that would operate with mixed crews, the whole to be paid for by the participating countries. It is a counter to the French go-it-alone policy of creating a national nuclear deterrent.

On the President's trip next month the climax both in Italy and Germany was to be announcement of an accord on the new joint force. That may still come off. But the shadow of the election result, with the Christian Democrats losing nearly four per cent of their total strength in the vote on the Chamber of Deputies, raises a question whether Fanfani can form a government strong enough to bring about such a move.

THE IMPRESSION IS growing in Europe that Washington is pressing too hard and the pressure may very well run counter to a deep political undercurrent manifesting itself in a distinctly leftward trend. While names are hard to fit to this undercurrent—old cliches such as disengagement—it seems to reflect a growing concern over nuclear involvement under the domination of Washington.

AS FOR GERMANY, high officials of this government believe that when France sets off its first primitive atomic weapon the German demand to do likewise will become irresistible. That is what they have been told by high officials of the Bonn government including Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

RECENTLY THE President was given a different viewpoint. He is said to have been told by Fritz Erler, deputy head of the Social Democrats, in the course of a White House visit that the German people are far more reluctant to get into the nuclear act than certain of their political leaders. He argued that Germany's impressive contribution to NATO's land forces was an example of how the Atlantic community should share the defense burden. If this sharing were explained to the German people, so the argument goes, they would accept American responsibility for the nuclear deterrent.

THE SERIES of Social Democratic victories in Berlin and in several of the provinces, with corresponding losses for the Christian Democrats, underscores this viewpoint. Voters in Hanover later this month are considered certain to hand the Christian Democrats another defeat. Part of this can be put down to resentment over the refusal of the venerable Chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, to make way for a new government. But the Socialists, with Mayor Willy Brandt as their leader, are establishing a popular image in the country.

One aspect of the tragedy of President de Gaulle's turn down the old road of nationalism is the exaggerated emphasis it gives to the role of Germany in the alliance. In one stage of the planning of the President's European trip the three days in Germany, from May 23 to 26, took on the look of a campaign tour to demonstrate that he could draw larger and more enthusiastic crowds than did de Gaulle last year.

THIS HAS fortunately been altered. Visiting Bonn and Frankfurt, in the latter city, as now conceived, he will talk about Germany's first informal parliament and the great liberal movement of 1848 that sent so many emigres to America to contribute to America's political and economic growth as a free society. Berlin will be his last stop.

As for the government in Bonn there has been real concern lest the Franco-German treaty—in reality the de Gaulle-Adenauer treaty — cut across the relationship with Washington.

CHANGE IS IN THE air. What may have been valid for one set of circumstances can be entirely inappropriate and even unworkable in a new situation. That is the cruel lesson so often enforced on those who must try to master the realities of power in the nuclear age.

Mothers Can Stay Too Close To Home

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've always heard that a person who is emotionally or mentally ill is the last to realize it. Yet I feel deeply that there is something wrong in my own make-up. I find myself being childishly malicious at times in my dealings with my children.

One son in particular sets off these reactions constantly. While I realize I'm wrong at the time, I can't seem to help myself. I don't want my children to be made into emotional wrecks by their mother.—MRS. D. R.

You are far from being the only mother with such feelings, and I strongly doubt that you are verging on a mental collapse of any kind.

Mental illness, after all, can be fairly well summed up as a means of escaping from some situation with which the patient just cannot cope.

For various reasons (on occasion physical and others perhaps purely a matter of inherent strength or weakness, attitude toward life, and upbringing) some people can withstand much more pressure than others. And I dare say nearly all of us can withstand more than we thought, if we have faith in our ability to keep trying.

You didn't tell me anything about the youngster who touches off your explosions. Maybe he's an imp with too much energy and a bigger-than-average slice of mischief in him.

Try to analyze exactly what it is that annoys you. If his behavior isn't too malicious, undoubtedly it will change as time passes. Perhaps you should keep that youngster busier. Do it subtly, of course, so he won't feel that he is being picked on. Perhaps you can make a point of asking him to "help" you with things—things he'll find to be fun, like licking a cake spoon or some small chore that emphasizes his responsibility, and hence his importance.

And another thought which may be very important. Are you getting some recreation outside the home? Even an occasional show, dinner in a restaurant, or a visit with friends can be a wonderful and necessary tension-breaker.

With a family of youngsters to bring up, any mother can fall into the habit of staying too close to home all the time. Unending responsibility can make it into a prison, and you automatically rebel.

Get away from it occasionally, even for just a few hours, and see if the experience doesn't give you a new perspective.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a way to eliminate a post-nasal drip altogether, or must I put up with it the rest of my life? I stopped smoking two years ago. Ten years ago I was told nothing could be done, but thought perhaps now something new is available. —M. B.

It's possible. The main causes of post-nasal drip are (1) some chronic infection; (2) some physiological fault—polyps, deviated septum. Both may well be involved.

Some of the newer antibiotics may well help. So might surgery. You probably cannot expect overnight relief by resorting to either, but I would, most decidedly, have a new examination made if it is 10 years since your last one.

* * *

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healded." For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Poor Living Breeds Communism

WASHINGTON — Why did the Communist party make such substantial gains in the national election held in Italy in the last few days? Thirty million persons went to the polls, and nearly 8,000,000 voted for the Communist party. This was a gain of more than 1,000,000 over their previous strength and means an additional 25 seats in Parliament, so that they now have the second largest number of seats in the chamber—166 as against the 260 of the party called "Christian Democrats."

YET COMMUNISM itself has been vehemently opposed by the Vatican. Also, the overwhelming majority of Italians are Roman Catholics. About five years ago, this correspondent happened to be seated on a train alongside a Catholic bishop who had been attending the annual conference of the Catholic bishops in Washington. The conversation turned toward the influence of the Roman Catholic Church in opposing communism in different countries of the world. This correspondent asked the Catholic prelate the following question:

"Why is it that in Italy, where nearly everybody is a Catholic, there are so many Communists?"

THE BISHOP answered unhesitatingly and forthrightly:

"If I had been born and raised in Italy, and if I had not become a priest, I believe I might well have become a Communist."

The explanation that followed was along the same line that one hears today with reference to this same problem in Latin America, where the Catholic Church is also the dominant religious influence in every country there.

THE MAIN POINT is that economic and social conditions have caused people in the lowest income groups to grasp at communism as a means of improving their lot. The church has no way to influence economic trends.

Italy today is rated high in economic growth and is enjoying a kind of national prosperity. But inflation prevails, and this is hurting the low-income groups. The men in business have not solved the problem of better wages for the middle and lower income classes.

AGAIN AND AGAIN in connection with Latin America, for instance, it has been asserted by citizens of this country who are familiar with conditions to the south of us that "foreign aid," through the "Alliance for Progress" or any other medium, cannot of itself assure that the incoming funds will percolate down to those who need better pay so as to provide an improvement in living standards.

Criticism is widespread that a better distribution of national income is needed in most Latin countries and, incidentally, neither Italy nor France is an exception. Despite the popularity of General de Gaulle, for instance, there is widespread discontent among the farmers and low-income groups in France. Strikes are frequent.

ITALY'S LEADERS in all parties are well aware of the basic economic factors that are affecting politics. But there is no agreement among the leaders of the various parties as to how to handle the dilemma.

IT IS NOT CLEAR to the outside world how much influence Moscow has wielded inside the Italian Communist party. Not a single Russian appears openly. The same thing is true in other countries where the Communist party is led by native sons with a socialistic or left-wing proclivity.

Communist political parties in these contries are usually composed of apparently loyal citizens who, while they may at times express a sympathy with Moscow's aims internationally, endeavor to keep out of international affairs and focus instead on domestic factors of discontent.

ITALY'S ELECTION is a significant development. It is a warning to all Latin countries that the influence of the Catholic Church will continue to be exerted effectively in personal religion, but it will not be able by itself to block the rising tides of discontent due to domestic politics and local economic factors.

Billy Graham

QUESTION: At our church we have a difficult time with our finances. We have tried rummage sales, bake sales, and all sorts of things, but still we are not able to meet our budget. Unless we find some way to raise money, we will be forced to curtail our program. What do you suggest? Y.H.

ANSWER: Why not try Christianity? I have discovered that a dedicated church is a generous church. When I hear the clink of coins in an offering plate, I can be certain that the spiritual life of that congregation is at a low ebb. Liberal giving doesn't make a church spiritual — but being spiritual creates liberality, and generosity. Technically, there is no such thing as a miserly Christian—the Christian heart is a sharing one.

John Wesley is said to have preached a sermon which had three significant points: (1) "Get all you can," to which an old miserly man said, "Amen." (2) "Keep all you can," to which the miser said, "Amen" again. Then Wesley's third point was, "Give all you can." Then the rich but selfish man said, "What a shame to spoil a good sermon."

The best sermon a church can preach is one of liberality, generosity, and Christian sharing. Religion loses its meaning if it is tainted with selfishness.

Local Delegation Prepares To Attend District Parley

Delegates from all departments of the Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, are preparing to attend the annual district assembly and convention in Lubbock May 6-10, where General Superintendent Hardy C. Powers, Dallas, and District Superintendent Raymond W. Hurn, Lubbock will preside over the business and worship sessions.

Dr. Powers was elected in 1944 to this highest elective office in the denomination. He served as chairman of the board of general superintendents from 1949 to 1959. Mr. Powers was born at Oglesby, Texas, June 7, 1900.

DR. HARDY C. POWERS

REV. RAYMOND W. HURN

Supervision of missionary work has carried him into many countries including Alaska, Hawaii, Australia, Japan, India, Africa, and Central and South America. His exploratory trips preceded opening of work among the Europeans of South Africa, Haiti, New Guinea and West Germany. His missionary book, "And Now New Guinea" was a Nazarene bestseller. It tells how Rev. and Mrs. Sidney Knox, former pastors of the Big Spring Church of the Nazarene in 1955, pioneered opening the church and school in the Highlands of New Guinea where there was no written language and life was very primitive.

Rev. Hurn, Lubbock, is superintendent of the Abilene district portion of Texas. The district includes nearly 100 churches with a total membership of 6,096.

The Big Spring delegation will be headed by the pastor, Rev. W. M. Dorough. Local delegates to the Youth Convention Monday, include Eddie DeVore, past president, Mavis Martin, Shirley Dolan, and Kathryn Waller. Tuesday's delegates for the Missionary Convention include Evelyn McGuire, president; Mrs. Troy Newburn, Mrs. B. Y. Dixon, and Mrs. Ronnie Sandburg. They will hear Missionary W. C. Fowler, now on furlough from British Guiana and British Honduras, where he has served since 1949. Rev. Fowler was a college class-mate of Rev. Dorough in 1941.

Wednesday's delegation to the Assembly include: Kelly Mize, Sunday School superintendent; Mrs. D. J. McGuire, Missionary president; Eddie DeVore youth president; W. E. Spears, Marshall Brown, and Troy Newburn.

The delegates will hear reports of 98 pastors and the district officers including a report by the Rev. Hurn, in which he will outline plans for the 1963-64 year. District officers for the new year will be elected and also delegates from this Assembly will be elected to the 16th General Assembly of the denomination to be held in Portland, Ore. in June 1964.

Rev. Dorough, local pastor, is giving his fifth annual report for the Big Spring church, and his 14th report to the Abilene District Assembly. He is completing an extended 4-year call in the local church.

Nazarenes Here Report Big Membership Increase

Rev. W. M. Dorough, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, will give his annual report to the District Assembly next week in Lubbock showing a 20 per cent increase in church membership during the statistical year which closes this week.

REV. W. M. DOROUGH

The denomination, which stands in the Wesleyan tradition, had one of the most outstanding years in its 54 year history in 1962, with its membership standing at 335,000, an increase of 8,135, while the Big Spring congregation grew from 113 to 136, with 25 being received on profession of faith.

The denomination's growing world mission program opened work in Chile and Bermuda, and the first Nazarene Church in the Republic of Panama was organized, making a total of 43 foreign countries where Nazarenes work. Also abroad, Nazarenes organized a new church district in West Germany with five congregations; dedicated a $100,000 sanctuary at Frankfurt; opened a church in Copenhagen, Denmark; opened another $100,000 church at Nazareth, Israel, the first Protestant church to be built in Israel since the nation was re-established in 1948; a new church at Brasilia, the first Protestant church to be dedicated in the new inland capital of Brazil. The Big Spring Nazarene Foreign Missionary Society, with Mrs. D. J. McGuire as president, has a membership of 68 members and gave over $2,000 for world evangelism during the past year.

Giving for all purposes in 1962 increased by $2,383,366 to a record total of $49,505,444. The Big Spring Church had an increase of $2,456 the past year with a total raised for all purposes of $17,750. Per capita giving set a new denominational record of $147.78. This was an increase of $3.62 a member over 1961 when the denomination ranked first in the nation in per capita giving among all Protestant churches with 100,000 members or more.

The denomination had a net gain of 28 new churches during the year for a total of 4,803. Three of these new churches were in this district, where Big Spring Nazarenes had a part in the $55,000 District and Home Mission budgets. The local Nazarene Young People's Society, with Eddie DeVore as president, has a membership of 46, and had a part in the District N.Y.P.S. Home Mission budget of $5,000, which supported with pastoral salary a new home mission work in Arlington.

Big Spring Sunday School, with Kelly Mize as superintendent, reports an increase of 23 in average weekly attendance, gaining from 118 to 141.

Special German Series Featured

By HAROLD C. PERDUE

The Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) will issue a set of four flower stamps in conjunction with the International Horticultural Exhibition in Hamburg, Germany, this spring. At this renowned "flower show," a display of "Flowers and Philately" will be featured.

SEAHOLLY ERYNGO
German flower set

The four German stamps will show some specialized flowers. The 10 pf issue shows the Checkered Fritillaria, a member of the lily family; the 15 pf depicts the Lady Slipper, an orchid; the 20 pf, the Columbine, a five petal flower; and the 40 pf is a reproduction of the Seaholly Eryngo, a cousin of the common carrot.

For Civil War buffs, a special cancellation die will be in use at Vicksburg, Miss., from the time of receipt through July 4. It reads, "SIEGE OF VICKSBURG CENTENNIAL, June 30-July 4."

Closer to home, permission has been granted for Eastland, Texas, to use a special cancellation reading, "EASTLAND, TEXAS, FLAG DAY JUNE 14," from time of receipt through June 14.

The Post Office Department has announced that there were 392,363 covers cancelled on the first day of sale of the one cent Andrew Jackson regular issue in New York March 22. Total sales that day amounted to 3,011,457 stamps.

For the Plate Block specialist, the Post Office Department has announced that the Carolina Charter stamp was printed with four plates during the month of March. Numbers of the plates are 27432, 27433, 27434, and 27437. Someone has asked, "What difference does that make? What is this all about?"

Many collectors specialize in the collection of plate number blocks, the four stamps in one corner of a pane of stamps which bears a number. That number designates the particular plate used to print the stamps. U.S. commemorative stamps are usually printed in a sheet of four panes with 50 stamps to each pane. The plate number is shown in all four corners of the original sheet, but when cut for distribution, each pane has only one such number. Specialists give each plate number block a designation, noting where that number was on the original sheet. For example, a particular block might be numbered 27432 LL, meaning the lower left. Other designations are UL, the upper left corner; LR, lower right; and UR, upper right.

Many collectors strive for matched plate number blocks, that is all four positions of a particular number. Further specialists will strive to have these four position blocks for all the plates of a particular issue.

Norway has released three values in their regular series, a 25, 40, and 90 ore. The Ryukyu Islands will release a three cent stamp for the opening of the Round Road of Okinawa April 30; a three cent issue for 1963 Bird Week May 10, and one cent stamps for the opening of Shioya Bridge June 5. Pakistan is releasing one multi-colored issue for the National Horse and Cattle Show. Indonesia has four bi-colors for the 12th PATA Annual Conference of 1963 held last month in Djakarta.

Screwworms Found Again

A case of screwworm infection has been located on the Douthit Ranch, south of Forsan, Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said Friday.

Helbig said the ranch, owned by Claude Collins Jr., is in Sterling County and the infected sheep was found about 200 yards south of the Howard County line.

The larvae taken from the wound have been identified as screwworms. Helbig and Marvin Bridges, with the Mission screwworm control laboratory, visited the ranch and marked the spot Friday afternoon.

An airplane with a shipment of sterile male flies swept the area Saturday, planting the flies over the infected district.

This is the first recent case in Sterling County. Howard County has had one case so far this spring — on the O. E. Hamlin ranch north of Big Spring. This ranch was treated 10 days ago.

County Board To Reorganize Monday

The Howard County School Board meets at 1:30 p.m. Monday to organize for the new year. One incumbent has been re-elected and a new member added to the board since the last meeting.

The board will meet in the office of Walker Bailey, county superintendent to elect a new chairman and likely consider appointment of a member to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Paul Bishop, member from Commissioners Precinct 4.

J. D. Gilmore, member from Commissioners Precinct 2, was re-elected to the board April 6. He has been chairman in the year just ending. H. H. Rutherford, newly elected member from Commissioner's Precinct 1, will be formally seated and begin his new duties.

The two holdover members are Jim Lewis, Commissioner Precinct 2, and Chub Jones, member at large. Bishop resigned when he moved out of the county.

The board is required by law to select a successor to fill vacant posts. At the last meeting of the board, an effort was made to fill the vacancy but terminated in a deadlock—Gilmore and Fred Roman, then member from Commissioners Precinct 1, voted for Jack Buchanan; Lewis and Jones supported Harvey Adams.

The suit was filed in 118th District Court.

From Horses To Airplanes (And Girls) For O'Brian

"It's a relief to be playing opposite a beautiful girl rather than a horse."

The speaker is Hugh O'Brian, handsome six-footer who achieved television fame during his six-year stint as the intrepid Western hero of the popular "Wyatt Earp" series, and who now enacts an airlines flight officer in Mero-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic comedy, "Come Fly With Me."

The girl he speaks of is Pamela Tiffin, sharing honors in the all-star cast with Dolores Hart, Karl Boehm, Karl Malden and Lois Nettleton.

"Not that I have anything against horses," adds O'Brian. "But let's face it. It was more fun kissing Miss Tiffin."

The actor had his share of adventures on horseback in such outdoor epics as "The Lawless Breed," "Man From the Alamo," "Saskatchewan," "White Feather" and "Broken Lance," to name but a few.

"I was beginning to think I was doomed to do all my emoting astride a stallion," he says.

O'BRIAN & TIFFIN
Better than a horse

However, O'Brian broke the spell by making a successful Broadway stage debut in "First Love," a play definitely without a horse. Now returning to the screen, he has signed an MGM contract for a picture a year for five years, first of which is "Come Fly With Me."

O'Brian was born in Rochester, New York. During his freshman year at the University of Cincinnati, he enlisted in the Marine Corps for a four-year hitch and at 18 became the youngest drill instructor in the history of the Corps. His father retired as captain from the Marine Corps before World War II and it appeared that Hugh would follow in his father's footsteps.

A visit to Los Angeles in the summer of 1947 changed the direction of his future. Circumstances threw him in with a Little Theatre group and the lure of grease paint determined him on an acting career.

But it was no bed of roses. Between work in summer stock and on television, he earned his living as a gardener, tie salesman and general handy man. The turning point came when Ida Lupino gave him his initial movie "break" in her film production, "The Young Lovers."

A series of screen roles followed (most of them with horses). He then did five Loretta Young shows on television before achieving his success as Wyatt Earp.

Star Of Airliner Movie Gives Travelling Tips

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

Although she substituted London, Paris and Vienna for Rome during location filming for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic comedy, "Come Fly With Me," Dolores Hart lived up to the age-old maxim.

"The first thing to learn when traveling abroad is to forget about your own background," she says. "People in the countries you visit find it annoying to be told 'We don't do it that way.'

"Remember when visiting a foreign land that you are a guest, just as much as if you had been invited into someone's home. If you start off with the idea that your hosts are peculiar, they will resent you and you will become a peculiarity to them."

Miss Hart always manages to be at home in whatever country she visits. She mixes with people and learns their customs and ways.

"You should try to learn at least a few of the elementary phrases in the language of the country you are visiting," she says. "The people with whom you talk will feel flattered to hear you speaking in their native tongue and they will like you all the more for it.

"It's easy to buy a phrase book and learn how to say 'Good Morning' or 'Thank You.' With just a few words you can make as many friends as if you spoke the language perfectly."

Miss Hart has advice on other aspects of foreign travel. "It's important to travel light," she says. "I take an absolute minimum of clothing and I rely a great deal on casual clothes for relaxation.

"Always have enough small change for tips," she urges. "I visit the currency counter at the airport as soon as I arrive to be sure I have enough change. Another good point to remember is to handle your own baggage whenever possible. If you can't, when you turn it over to a porter, remember his number so you won't be in a dither if you don't recognize him later on.

"As an American, you probably are used to your own type of diet. So don't rush into a restaurant in another country and order exotic dishes. You're likely to end up with indigestion. By all means, try the local specialties. But take them gradually. It's always safe to eat steak, chicken, eggs and fruit until you are accustomed to the native food."

Miss Hart advises travelers not to be tempted into trying to see everything in a short space of time, but to take it easy and enjoy the things you really want to see.

"Don't take in too many countries on one trip," she concludes. "It's much better to see as much of one country as possible than a little of several."

Dorothy Malone Seeks Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Alleging mental cruelty, Oscar winning actress Dorothy Malone is seeking a divorce from Jacques Bergerac.

Miss Malone, 35, complained last week that the French-born actor struck her on several occasions and forced her to move from their Beverly Hills home.

The actress asked custody of the couple's two children, Mimi, 2, and Diane, 1, plus alimony and support.

A hearing was set for next Thursday.

She and Bergerac, also 35, were wed June 28, 1959, two years after he was divorced from Ginger Rogers.

Connery Stars As Ian Fleming Hero

He has been compared to Brando and some persons have seen him in a special kind of spark and spontaneity reminiscent of the earlier Cary Grant. So if Sean Connery, newest and already one of the most strongly entrenched of stars, can remind separate viewers of two such diametrically contrasted screen colleagues, the future ought to be a rosy one. He should, in fact, be able to play almost anything.

The rugged, athletic, six-foot-two newcomer, whose "Dr. No," United Artists' Technicolor release opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre, is a strange combination of candid simplicity and dynamic self-confidence. He doesn't like people who talk about themselves all the time but he also feels that false modesty can be a terrible bore.

"I was lucky," he says in discussing the coveted role of James Bond, Ian Fleming's famous Secret Service Agent "007." "I never dreamed I could hold down a job in the chorus line of a musical when I was driving a milk truck in Edinburgh. But this happened to be the one door opening to my ambitions when I went to London, and out of it I managed to land some TV spots. Then I played in a couple of movies I didn't like because I had to keep myself going. About two years ago I made a decision that no matter what happened I wouldn't take another acting part that I didn't believe in. Well, I lost a couple of very good paying ones. My friends, most of them, said I was stupid. But some other good parts came along and then Harry Saltzman and Cubby Broccoli approached me about 'Dr. No.'

"This was like asking a boy that was crazy about racing cars if he'd mind having a present of the latest sports Jaguar. I had always been enthusiastic about Ian Fleming's James Bond stories. He is the British agent, you know, who has to work himself out of some of the weirdest situations any writer ever dreamed up. I had never actually visualized myself playing Bond when I heard the rights to the books had been sold for a record amount, but when the chance came along I hardly slept for days."

PRIVATE DESIGNING

'Dr. No' Actress Finds Jamaica A Fashion Haven

No place in the world offers a greater opportunity for women seeking their own privately designed dresses than the island of Jamaica, according to Ursula Andress, Swiss-born film star who spent many weeks there during the making of the new United Artists Technicolor picture "Dr. No," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

The reason for this special privilege, Miss Andress explained, is that a particular craft which has disappeared from most parts of the world still remains an integral part of the framework of life in the small Caribbean island. This is the institution of the "little dressmaker." She is carrying on a tradition of individualistic dressmaking from several generations back, and displays great pride of workmanship.

Frequently this dressmaker has studied at a designing school in London, New York or Paris, coming home afterwards to set up her own business or to reinvigorate an already existing family modiste shop with fresh creative ideas. From the customer's standpoint she provides a specialized service which is hard to duplicate in the field of custom dressmaking, and her prices are lower than almost any other country. "I had a small tropical type dress made for me," said Miss Andress. "I paid $2.14 for the material. Then the dressmaker charged me $1.96 for the work.

"So the whole thing cost $4.10. I could not have bought the same dress ready made in any store in London or New York for less than ten to twelve dollars. I also bought a beautiful silk kimono for six dollars and a half which I couldn't have bought under $35 in Europe or America.

"Many friends of mine—like the wardrobe girl and the hairdresser in our company—also had new dresses made in Jamaica and they were delighted with them.

"Jamaican dressmakers almost seem to read your mind. You describe what you want and the next minute it's being sketched out on a piece of paper. It's wonderful how your idea comes to life. No pattern is needed, and the whole thing is finished in two days."

In "Dr. No," the handsomely contoured Swiss-born film star had little to worry about in the way of recreational costumes, since the script called for her to appear chiefly in bikinis of minimum dimensions, and a loose fitting rose-pink kimono. The fact that she was not obliged to spend much time in being fitted for costumes provided a lucky break, in that it gave her a chance to go out on several shopping sprees for items augmenting her wardrobe at home.

"I will always remember the Jamaican 'little dressmaker,'" said Miss Andress. "I have never got so much value for my money before, and I probably won't again."

'Nun And Sergeant' Battle In Marine Saga

"The Nun and the Sergeant," opening Thursday at the State Theatre, through United Artists release, stars Robert Webber and Anna Sten.

This drama of a nun in a world where men must be like animals is set against the war-torn terrain of a Korean battleground. Both the nun and the sergeant are determined and dedicated, although in different ways and to different disciplines. The Marine leads a patrol to almost certain doom behind enemy lines and the nun leads a group of girls in search of safety—when women and soldiers meet.

Franklin Adreon, a colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve, directed with the experience of both his cinematic and military careers. Adreon was not the only one involved in the production who had firsthand knowledge of Marine tradition. Associate Producer Harold N. Even holds a commission as captain in the Marine Reserve and film editor Carl Mahakian is another ex-Marine.

Robert Webber, playing the sergeant, was often as much remembering as acting. He saw combat with the 6th Marine Division at Guam and Okinawa. Co-star Hari Rhodes served with the 2nd Marine Division during the same Korean action in which this story is set, earning a Silver Star.

Some of the cast could not understand the Americans, for the Oriental girls had learned their English literally, and "Marine-American" was a puzzlement. Even Linda Wong, who speaks Korean, Japanese, French and English, in addition to her native Chinese, protested that Americans do not speak English.

Another of the pretty girls in the movie is Caroline Kido who is a protege of Audie Murphy. The lovely Eurasian was born in Hong Kong, schooled in Macao and discovered, by Audie, when he was on location in Tokyo. He and his wife invited the then 13-year-old girl to make her home with them while finishing her education in the United States.

Be Merry

Big bad Marine Leo Gordon tries to force a young Korean girl to take a drink in this scene from "The Nun and the Sergeant," starting Thursday at the State Theatre. But the villainous Gordon gets his lumps before the show is over.

Wasn't Much Of A Gamble

There was no need for director Henry Levin to wonder whether two of his stars would be up to measure when he piloted Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new romantic comedy, "Come Fly With Me."

He was familiar with previous examples of performances by Dolores Hart and Karl Boehm.

Levin directed Miss Hart in the earlier MGM comedy hit, "Where the Boys Are." Subsequently he guided the biographical portions of the MGM-Cinerama production, "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm," in which Boehm portrayed Jacob Grimm.

The only stars he had to take a chance on in "Come Fly With Me" were Hugh O'Brian and Karl Malden, both acting veterans, the fast-rising Pamela Tiffin and Broadway's prize-winning Lois Nettleton.

It wasn't much of a gamble.

Levin, who started his show business career as a vaudeville actor, later became a Broadway stage manager and summer theatre operator. Since becoming a movie director, he has some 40 pictures to his credit, in which most of Hollywood's luminaries have at one time or another appeared.

Anna Leaves Canvas For Movie Role

After four long years Anna Sten has been persuaded to leave her canvas and return to the screen. Before accepting the role of the nun in "The Nun and the Sergeant," Miss Sten had established another reputation in a different field of art: painting. Although she has won several prizes and special awards, acting has always been her great love and friends at the Actors' Studio, where she continues to study, realized that when a challenging role came along, the actress would respond to that challenge.

Miss Sten's career soared when she starred in the German production of "The Brothers Karamazov." The film was an immediate international success and brought Miss Sten to Hollywood. Among the other pictures she has made are "Nana," "Resurrection" (with Frederic March), "Wedding Night" (with Gary Cooper) and "Soldier of Fortune" (with Clark Gable). Her stage appearances include "Nancy's Private Affair," "Separate Rooms," "Brothers Karamazov," "Crime and Punishment" and "The Three Penny Opera."

In "The Nun and the Sergeant," Miss Sten plays her most unusual role to date. Her co-star in this war drama is Robert Webber.

Back To Comedy

Dolores Hart returns to romantic comedy in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Come Fly With Me."

It was at MGM that the attractive Miss Hart scored her biggest comedy hit in the lighthearted "Where the Boys Are." Since then she has veered to dramatic roles in such films as "Francis of Assisi," "The Inspector" and "Lisa."

In "Come Fly With Me," she is seen as a sophisticated airline hostess who becomes involved in a romantic affair with Karl Boehm.

Bailey Speaks At Home Demonstration Meeting

MONAHANS — Walker Bailey, Howard County school superintendent, was one of the speakers for the District 6 meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association held here Tuesday in the First Baptist Church. The Ward County Home Demonstration Council was host.

Both Martin and Glasscock counties were represented at the meeting.

Mrs. C. E. Wells, Odessa, District 6 director, presided during the sessions of the day. Mrs. Maynard Gaines, state treasurer, represented the State Board and brought a brief history of the organization, which is 37 years old. She marked the progress of the organization in awarding 4-H scholarships, from the first one of $200 to the present three $500 scholarships awarded each year.

Jim Reese, of KOSA-TV and Radio, Odessa, spoke on citizenship. He pointed out that "apathy is our problem today," and urged every citizen "to let your Congressman know how you feel about what is going on in Wasington, by either talking to them in person, or writing to them in Washington, then they will know better how to represent you."

A buffet luncheon and style show was held at noon. A surprise in the afternoon session was Minnie Bell, a Home Economics Advisor from Honduras. She gave a short talk on the work in that country. She has worked there 5½ years and will return in August.

During the business session, Crane County was recognized as being the only county in the district that is 100 per cent in subscriptions to the Messenger, state magazine. Mrs. Gene Irwin, Andrews County, was introduced as the new district messenger chairman. Ward County received the Civil Defense Award.

Andrews County extended an invitation to hold the 1964 district meeting in Andrews.

Mrs. Joe Hamby and Mrs. William Schafer represented Glasscock County as delegates.

Mrs. L. C. Morris, Martin County THDA chairman, Mrs. Albert Pitman and Mrs. Lee Castle represented Martin County as delegates, and Mrs. James Eiland, Home Demonstration agent for Martin and Glasscock counties, attended.

Martin County members were in charge of the health and safety workshop and presented Walker Bailey, Big Spring, as speaker. Others attending were: Mrs. Walker Bailey, Big Spring, and Mrs. Marvin Lamb, Mrs. O. D. Green, Mrs. Paul Gerdes, Mrs. Lewis Carlile, Mrs. Floyd Martin, Mrs. J. T. Mims, Mrs. Jimmy Sawyer, Mrs. Jessie Francke, Mrs. Horace Tubb, Mrs. Donnie Jones and Mrs. Eldon Welch, Martin County.

DEAR ABBY

The Cruel Husband

DEAR ABBY: Is a woman justified in being embarrassed when her husband isn't polite to her in public? (I never expect it at home.) One night my arthritis was bothering me, and the waiter saw me struggling to get my coat on, so he helped me while my husband sat. He also runs ahead of me across the street in heavy traffic. When I ask him please to help me, he replies, "Who helps me?" He is always polite to strange ladies, helping them off the bus, etc. We've been married many years and I should be used to it by now, but I'm not.

HURT

DEAR HURT: Your husband is inconsiderate, lacking in manners, and is cruel to boot. I can't change his behavior in one letter, and I doubt if you could do it in one lifetime.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: We asked a very nice childless couple to be godparents to our first child. They accepted and are apparently pleased. Now we would like them to be godparents to our second child but don't know if it is proper to ask them. Has a couple ever been godparents to more than one child in a family?

PROUD PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: In some families all the children have the same godparents. The only "rule" governing choice of godparents is that they must be of the same religion in which the child is to be baptized.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell my parents what a "C" means? I got three "C's" on my report card and am on restriction because of it. I think a "C" is pretty good. I could have had all "D's."

ON RESTRICTION

DEAR ON: A "C" IS pretty good for a student who can't do any better. I suspect you are capable of doing more "B" work. All "D's" are nothing to be ashamed of IF the student has worked up to his capacity to earn them.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Experience teaches. I am experienced and would like to pass on some valuable information to all single females: "If you think you love a man, don't show it. If you want to marry the guy, never indicate it by word or action. Be aloof, untouchable and fun, but don't overdo trying to show him a good time. Fight off all his affectionate advances."

This may seem like a weird formula, but I know it works. Every man I have ever dated, and felt nothing for, has gone wild about me. The ones I could really care for don't give me a tumble because I didn't follow my own advice.

Nominations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has sent these Texas postmaster nominations to the Senate: Harry Rathjen, Canadian; Reese Upshaw, De Leon; James Latimer, Olmito; John Cullers, Shamrock; and James Scott, Wolfe City.

Some Benefit By Reporting

People who continue to work after applying for Social Security old-age insurance benefits may be able to get a higher monthly check, according to Erven Fisher, manager of the Big Spring Social Security district office. A recent study of the annual report of earnings made by Social Security beneficiaries earning over $1,200 a year showed that two out of three raised their benefit rates because of earnings after age 65. Each annual report is examined to see if a refiguring of the benefit rate is in order.

Fisher noted that an annual report of 1962 earnings was due by April 15. The report is required of all Social Security beneficiaries under age 72 who earned over $1,200 in 1962. He said that if any beneficiary has not yet made this required report, he should do so. Failure to report earnings can result in a loss of some benefits. When a person makes this report, he is asked to submit an estimate of 1963 earnings. This will determine how many checks he can be paid in 1963.

The annual report of earnings enables the Social Security Administration to determine the correct amount of benefits to which a beneficiary was entitled for 1962. In any event, the report he files permits the administration to balance and close the books for 1962.

Fisher also pointed out that only earned income is to be reported. Earned income is the pay received for work performed as an employe or the net profit from the operation of a trade or business whether or not covered by law.

Buys Ranch

LAWTON, Okla. (AP)— Courthouse records show that Dallas oilman Jack Dearing has bought nearly two-thirds of the Flying R Ranch from Frank Rush. The price was not disclosed. The 2,280-acre ranch is north of the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge.

Airmen Launch Recovery Firm

The D and L Salvage Co. went into operation recently when Airman 1.C. Fred Schlosser and Airman 3.C. D. L. Brown, both of Webb AFB, obtained permission from their squadron commander and ground safety to start an underwater recovery team. The skin divers recovered some fishing gear last week in Lake Champion near Colorado City.

"We'll recover anything of value such as motors, fishing gear, and tackle," said Airman Schlosser. "We have all the necessary equipment—tanks, suits and open Scuba gear."

The airmen started skin diving about two years ago as a hobby, but have never done recovery work as a business.
