Mediterranean Loss By British Another Setback for Allies

CAIRO, Nov. 17—(AP)—The British command announced today the loss of Leros to German invasion troops, one major setback for the Allied attempt to seize and hold the Dodecanese islands, outer defense lines for Hitler's Balkan.

"Organized resistance ceased" late yesterday after "an overwhelming air bombardment" and landings of fresh Nazi forces, a Middle East communique said.

(By German account, the Allies have lost all their footholds in the Dodecanese, and the Nazis have control of the sea lanes in the Aegean).

The British in September landed on Leros, Cos, and MOSCOW, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Red army troops closed in on Gornel today, storming the last important German base east of the Dniester river, in a furious assault which threatened to add the city to the impressive list of conquests achieved by the Russians in their 1943 offensive.

Russian forces pushed west from their bridgehead on the Sozh river north of Gomel, while other units struck beyond the Dnieper south of Kiev. The main thrust was made below Rechitsa, an important railroad town 115 miles east of the old Polish frontier.

A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said that the German hold on Korosten had been further weakened by severance of the third of six rail lines converging there. The dispatch also stated that the Germans were evacuating their troops from the Leningrad-Ordesa and Kiev-Warsaw railways.

A German broadcast reported the capture of the island said 3,000 Soviet soldiers, including many taken prisoners, along with 1,000 tons of supplies.

shelled by Russian field guns and that the city was virtually isolated.)

One Red army column, a Russian communication said, already had reached the city, 10 miles south of Korosten. A second coming in from the southeast captured Chornivchi, 15 miles away, and a third was at Obikhod, 15 miles north of Korosten, about 20 miles of the north-south Odessa-Leningrad railway.

No further details on Leros were given yesterday. The Allied position had been reported strengthened—were given by the Allied communique.

Allied fighter planes made extensive sweeps over the Aegean area yesterday, with enemy installations damaged on Crete, and a bomber hit Leros.

Bombers by night hit the island of Calato and Maritza on Rhodes, and preliminary reports point to the city being successful.

quantities of war material held by the advancing troops. It added that "The Red army is continuing to take the German armor, having cut off some Kalinkovichi rail line yesterday, were driving toward the latter stronghold, which is still another rail junction important to the enemy supply system."

The Moscow bulletin said the Germans had "sustained tremendous losses" in the fighting. It said that the "successful fight to win Lereros from British forces which moved into Italy after suffering heavy losses" was waged a dual purpose struggle—to protect their first line of defense of the Balkans and to impress the Turks that they still have power in the Aegean.

The British-Italian garrison was under constant threat from German planes based on Rhodes, said the bulletin. Lereros is only eight miles from Rhodes.

Price told De Margigny, "I had no idea he was in a profession of innocence."

Banker John H. Anderson pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of violating gasoline rationing laws by putting in more than the allowable amount and was fined 50 pounds (about $210).

Witnesses who testified at the murder trial which brought De Margigny's acquittal said several drums of gasoline were taken to De Margigny's Victoria avenue cottage July 8—the day the bludgeoned and burned body of his father-in-law, Sir Harry, was found.

Sir Anderson testified that De Margigny asked him July 9 to have the gasoline moved away.

Anderson said he reported the matter to the British government, which said it would not accept written guarantees of a free trial in running the French army, as he demanded.

Giraud expressed confidence in the written statement of the committee's agreement with his conditions for forthcoming. However, he said a De Gaulle spokesman predicted the committee would not accept Giraud's terms.

Court Reviews Negro Voting

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The supreme court has taken under advisement litigation to determine whether Negroes have the constitutional right to vote in a Texas Democratic primary to nominate members of congress.

William H. Hastie, Washington, D. C., attorney, argued that "the primary election scheme in Texas was created by statutes" and hence a 1932 resolution by the Democratic party of Texas excluding Negroes from voting in primaries was ineffective.

He added that all of the justices of the United States supreme court, in a 1941 case from Louisiana, "agreed that the right to vote in a direct primary election which the state has made an integral part of the procedure of choice among candidates for congress or which in fact effectively controls such choice, is secured by the constitution as fully as is the right to vote in a general election."

The litigation involved whether the tribunal should overrule its 1935 opinion sustaining the exclusion of Negroes from voting in Texas primaries. The exclusion was upheld then on the ground that the action was taken by the Democratic party and not by the state.

Hastie and Thurgood Marshall, New York attorney who argued Wednesday, represented Lonnie E. Smith, Houston Negro who was barred from voting in a 1940 primary by the election judges of the 48th precinct of Harris county, Texas.

Both the federal district court at Houston and the 5th federal circuit court ruled against Smith.

Paradise Has Its Drawbacks, Servicemen in Hawaii Learn

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

HONOLULU, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Paradise has its drawbacks, and anyhow it isn't Iowa.

In a sentence that is the quickly discernible attitude of thousands of soldiers, sailors and marines who have what looks on the surface like the best duty in this far-flung war.

These are the men who are defending Hawaii or who come in from ships to spend their shore leaves here. And it is not argumentative to say that almost to a man they are homesick like service men everywhere.

There is little which all of them have in common except duty in hot country. Some are quartered almost in the center of Honolulu, guarding docks or manning guns. Others have their posts at places no more interesting than cane fields in the most remote parts of this or other Hawaiian islands. Crews of the little ships come here frequently after off-shore patrols; some of the larger vessels

Choosing laxatives? These 3 Questions may be important

Ques. What laxative has been a best-seller all over the West with four generations? Ans. Black-Draught. Ques. Is Black-Draught purely herbal? Ans. Yes, and you'll find it easy to take. Ques. Is Black-Draught satisfactory in action? Ans. Yes, usually, if you follow directions. 25 to 40 doses only 25c. Insist on Black-Draught. Caution, use only as directed.

get in only once in months of sea duty.

But once here, they all do the same things. They jam the soft drink counters and restaurants of downtown Honolulu. They rush for famous Waikiki to swim or simply to walk the streets. In complete boredom, many of them simply ride the trolley buses, to the considerable displeasure of Honolulu civilians who depend on the buses to get from homes to offices and back again.

They are, by comparison to most foreign posts, plenty of girls here; but most of them are Oriental. Many soldiers date them; but the boys from the inland United States find themselves awkward in the presence of Hawaiians, Japanese, Koreans, Chinese and Filipinos. Some of them get over it after a while, but many never do. The population of young white women is not nearly large enough to offer any companionship for most of the service men.

Service clubs and centers are plentiful. The most famous is the Royal Hawaiian hotel, one-time twenty-dollar-a-day hostelry taken over by the navy at the beginning of the war.

It is used now as a shore rest station for crews of vessels which have been long at sea, with submarines in from patrol getting first call on the ornate suites. These are not administered with quite the luxury they used to be—men make their own beds, sleep six to a room in some instances—but the rate is never over 25 cents a day and some of them get free accommodations and use of the hotel's park and beach, which offers surf-boarding, swimming, fishing, tennis, table tennis and various other sports. There is also a movie and occasional dances are on the program.

For the garrison in the most immediate-Hawaiian area, there is a huge new recreation center in downtown Honolulu, occupying the quarters of what was a large Japanese department and art store before the war.

Generally, there is little friction between the armed forces and the civilians—surprisingly little considering that many men fresh from difficult battles come here and notice immediately that the majority of the people on Honolulu streets are Orientals, the majority of the Orientals, Japanese.

One of the more common complaints among soldiers is that they have been in the islands months or even years without being invited to a civilian home. With the great number of uniformed men here now, there obviously is little that the small civilian population can do about this situation. If all civilian homes entertained soldiers nightly, there still would be some who never received invitations simply because there would not be enough hosts.

Perhaps the most common complaint among army men at least is the lack of action.

So they complain about the lack of mail from home, spend their time walking the streets when they are in town, look enviously at the few soldiers or civilians who manage to get out the afternoons and early evenings.

And constantly they talk about going home. For despite their beautiful Hawaiian tans, they are like soldiers everywhere. They want to fight or go home, and the latter by preference.

FDR, Jr. Receives

Silver Star Award

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., was among six naval officers and enlisted men awarded Silver Stars Tuesday by Vice Admiral H. Kent Hewitt.

The president's son and the five other recipients, as well as two men who received the Legion of Merit and 15 awarded Purple Hearts, were members of the crew of the destroyer Mayrant, which fought off persistent air attacks during the Sicilian campaign. Several crewmen were injured.

Lt. Roosevelt also received the Purple Heart, the award for wounds. His citation was for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action while serving on board the U.S.S. Mayrant during an enemy air raid on the harbor of Palermo, Sicily, Aug. 1, 1943."

Roosevelt, 29, received a commission several months before the United States entered the war. His wife is the former Ethel DuPont.

Disputes to Be Settled After War Is Won

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain are agreed, Secretary of State Hull said, that settlement of European territorial disputes should be put off until the war's end.

He explained at a news conference that the formula reached at Moscow for giving Italy political self-determination would serve as an example in dealing with other liberated areas, but that settlement of some 30-odd territorial controversies must await the end of the war.

The secretary of state mentioned no area specifically, but his remarks seemed to indicate that the political status of Poland and the Baltic states would be deferred until final determination of their boundaries.

All territorial disputes are set off by themselves, he said, until the end of the fighting. No other policy can be allowed to interfere unless someone wants to stop the whole war and settle the many territorial questions first, Hull emphasized.

He said it was natural that no liberated area could be dealt with finally until territorial questions had been disposed of.

4,000 Nickels

Fall Down Grate

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The afternoon crowd made its way along 42nd street. Of a sudden, came a cacophony, metallic clattering—2,000 jingles and 2,000 jingles, to be exact, as $200 worth of nickels slithered to the sidewalk and through a subway grate.

The buffalo heads poured from a burst bag being carried by a money express delivery man to a car.

Police stood guard as the unhappy man methodically picked up the 4,000 potential cups of coffee. The back-breaking, finger-scraping job took a half hour.

How many of the nickels he recovered was not known. But, commented a patrolman, "while he was down there he found two dimes and two pennies. For all I know, maybe he came out with a profit."

Civil Air Control

The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee, after studying the post-war civil aviation problem for nine months, has drafted and presented three bills. Two of them are in substantial agreement on the need for federal control; the third bill would safeguard state sovereignty by leaving domestic aviation control in the hands of the various states.

Now state sovereignty is a precious heritage that is being increasingly threatened, and that needs safeguarding. But here, it would seem, is a case where state control might easily lead to 48 different brands of confusion.

If post-war aviation develops as it promises to and ought to, there will need to be uniformity in such matters as traffic regulation, safety, standards of installation and equipment, and ownership responsibility. Long commercial flights will be faster and more frequent, traversing some states in a matter of minutes. Intrastate air travel will be greatly expanded.

Unless both types of travel recognize the same traffic laws, real danger as well as countless mixups would develop. For safety sake, too, clear understanding will be necessary in the matter of control, dispatching, zoning and air port facilities, for emergencies as well as regular runs.

The war probably will leave us with a great many planes on hand, as well as production facilities for turning out many new ones. Some sort of strong regulation is going to be needed to see that these planes, if they are offered for sale, are in good condition for commercial operation, and to protect the public from irresponsible operators who are certain to be attracted by new aviation possibilities. Another essential will be a fair set of standard trade and labor laws, if post-war aviation is to develop normally.

By all the rules of efficiency, these and similar conditions should be the federal government's responsibility. There will be plenty for the states to do. Air traffic and commerce within a state should be left to general regulations. And the same could be said for such things as airport construction, maintenance and operation. But not much of a case can be made out for any proposal to extend state-line restrictions upward to infinity.

Secretary As We Go
Morganthau reported, on his return from the European conference, that he is worrying about post-war economy and the war debt. Judge Fred M. Vinson, director of Economic Stabilization, echoed this sentiment in a recent speech. Both were arguing for a greater payment of taxes now. And their arguments are hard to refute.

No one in the country, surely, wants our soldiers and sailors to fight this war and then come home and pay for it for the rest of their lives. The least that we here at home can do is to pay as much of the tremendous debt as possible while the war is going on.

Mr. Morganthau thinks that 50 per cent current payment is about right. And we can afford to do it. Of course nobody will admit that this much money is available. The money is in his own hands. Yet the fact remains that after we have bought all there is to buy, purchased war bonds, paid taxes, and made payments on debts and insurance policies, a cash surplus of at least $20 billion will be floating around in 1945.

Judge Vinson quotes figures to show that our purchases of clothing, fur and jewelry, and our expenditures in eating and drinking places are all up more than 100 per cent a day. A little more without undue effort to reduce the public debt (which is growing at $225 million a day) a little more without undue sacrifice.

AFTER THE CONNALLY RESOLUTION

(The Chicago Daily Tribune)
The Senate, by the overwhelming vote of 85 to five, approved the amended Connally resolution on post-war economic policy for the maintenance of peace.

The formula adopted, as has been pointed out frequently in these columns, is a very simple one or doubts about its character, they were removed when the roll-call took place. Men whose opinions about the proper economic policy for this time are polar apart were found voting for the resolution. It was endorsed by Vandenberg, Taft, and Brooks as well as by Pepper. With the fewest exceptions, the senators felt that if the formula did nothing to promote their respective ideas, at least it did nothing to shelve them, or to approve any rival conceptions. All could agree on the clauses calling for prosecution of the war to complete victory and just peace.

That is not to say, of course, that each senator did not read into the resolution what he wanted to read into it. The Tories in and out of Congress undoubtedly intend to use it as they used lend-lease, for purposes of deception. They gave the country their solemn assurance that lend-lease was not a gift, that it would deprive us of nothing that we need, and that it would keep us out of war. This time they are going to stress the words in the resolution calling for "international authority with power to prevent aggression," and overlook the repeated insistence upon the preservation of national sovereignty and the submission of any arrangements which may be made to the Senate for confirmation.

On the other hand, those senators whose allegiance to their country is not divided are hoping

Initiation or Complete Registration and End Results of Collective Bargaining

Now that we see how collective bargaining pushes up the costs of coal and everything produced by the use of coal, we should begin to see that it is impossible not to have high costs for everything, and thus inflation, when the public believes collective bargaining can help those in the collective bargaining group without lowering the real wages of the consumers.

When the public believes that certain groups have an exclusive right or monopoly on determining the wages for such work, this group invariably runs the price up so high that the consumers are obliged to buy less or do without entirely. The reason people do not see this is because the benefits are concentrated and are thus large to the individual, while the disadvantages of higher costs are spread out over so many people that they are not so readily noticeable.

When collective bargaining becomes adopted by too many groups, these workers get so much money (orders for things) that there is not enough left for other workers. The only way to have anything left for the rest of the workers is to inflate the currency, so that the union workers cannot buy all that is produced with their monopoly wage.

The believers in collective bargaining are in effect acting exactly like a dictator. They are saying that they have rights without responsibilities, that they have a right to take from the total production as they see fit without any impersonal rule of determining how much they should get for their labor. This is exactly the way a dictator acts.

Thus the practice of collective bargaining is undemocratic, un-Christian and uneconomic. It destroys any impersonal rule of determining how much each man should get for his labor. This rule is that all workers and not just some workers have a right to help set values. Thus the union is set up as a force for freedom, but its very nature is to destroy freedom. It is a force for less production and more poverty and misery. The scarcity we are having is not entirely due to war. It is due to the fact that labor unions by collective bargaining are benefiting the working class of people. By instead of benefiting them, it leads to inflation, to reduced production, to giving power without responsibility and to taking from real creators of wealth the ability to serve the great mass of people.

As Henry Ward Beecher wisely pointed out, "Organized labor is the worst form of despotism ever devised by the human mind." Until people realize this the cost of living will continue to rise.

If we think inflation can be stopped by price-fixing, we are confronted with so much regimentation that production is reduced to the extent that the workers get less for their labor than they would under a free competitive basis. So the end result of collective bargaining is always lower wage levels for the workers as a whole.

That the approval of the resolution with its emphasis upon constitutional processes and a just peace will strengthen their cause, as well as may.

Time will tell which side, if either, will gain an advantage from the Senate's action. The resolution can bind only the men who voted for it. The ratification of the peace must rest with the President, whoever he may be, who will negotiate it with the allies. The last word will be said by the senators, who will either ratify or reject the treaty under the constitutional requirement of a two-thirds majority for approval.

Meanwhile, as we have said, the resolution will be used as a point of departure by those who aim to subvert the Republic or destroy it. For this campaign all the reviling tongue and slimy pens will be enlisted. The movement is organized by adroit schemers and will have influential backing in and out of the press, from persons, still considered respectable. In the circumstances, the people of us who won the last election from the New Dealers and their Tory and bolshevik allies must be more active than ever to safeguard our country's interests. The people must encourage their representatives in Congress to stand up and fight for America. The fact must be recognized that many members of Congress are men who are capable and the subversive influences which are concentrated in the capital. No congressman, and at least all the 14 senators who wish the United States to reveal to the status of a colony, should be allowed to forget the results of the latest elections.

The battle for America must be won by the Senate. The chief battleground will be the new Republican convention, where the New Dealers, the eastern millionaires, and the communist slime throwers will cooperate in an unscrupulous effort to dominate the Republican party and hand-pick its nominee. If that strategic is again successful the Republic can no longer survive.

TRANSPORT PLANES

(Denver Post)

Every lesson of every war theater we visited brings home the profound fact that no nation will ever again dare to rely itself against aerial preparation. This means factories to produce planes and the facilities and personnel for them to function. The bomber plants of today are the transport plants of tomorrow—and the reverse will be the case. America must realize the implications of these lessons before it is too late. —Senator Brewster of Maine.

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

DARK—One reason for G. O. P. resurgence is that its National Committee is working day and night, while the Democratic counterpart is slumbering. Since John D. M. Hamilton's day no chairman has been so active as Harrison E. Spangler.

The Iowa recently engaged Herman Roe of the Northfield (Minnesota) News to handle publicity for small town papers and hired Professor Neil Carothers, Dean of the Lehigh University School of Business Administration, and a brilliant speaker and student, to head his research bureau. He enlarged his press and radio divisions.

In other years the Republicans did not expand in this manner until after the nomination of their candidate in June. They had only five months in which to sell their man and his program to the country.

But under Spangler the minority group will have twelve months to do this. What they need is the incumbents, should be entrusted with control of the Government.

In the meantime the Democrats are maintaining only skeleton headquarters in the Capital. When correspondents called at their office in the Mayflower Hotel on November 2nd to ascertain the official reaction to the G. O. P. landslide, the place was dark.

National Chairman Frank C. Walker has not visited the rooms in many weeks. Their absence publicity man, "Charlie" Mitchell, is away on a hunting trip.

BETTING—President Roosevelt is striving desperately to retrieve certain groups of voters that deserted him and his candidates on Election Day. Almost every policy and directive since then has been designed to placate these hostile voters.

When it was apparent that Negroes had deserted the Democratic Party in great numbers, F. D. R. immediately ordered that the ban on racial discrimination in private and public factories shall be mandatory rather than discretionary.

It is understood that former Colonel William T. Coleman, whose rank was reduced to that of captain for shooting at a Negro, will be retired. Such steps presumably will appease this bloc which went heavily Republican.

Labor's exiles hurt the Administration. Now the National War Labor Board issues a statement that more punitive legislation may be necessary to curb strikes. Inasmuch as the Dr. Williams' Medical Agency has coddled the unions, this warning has political rather than economic significance.

Associates told F. D. R. that his insistence on the fact that the limit on enemies for him on Capitol Hill. The crowd at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue favors price increases in preference to Federal handouts.

Mr. Roosevelt has been urged to compromise. It will harm him to back down, but the betting is that he will eventually cater to the agricultural belt.

Another sore point with the citizenry is our lend-lease activities. Many think Uncle Sam is being gyped. But according to the post-war election statement from the White House, Britain is virtually making our own contributions to the general war pot.

EVIDENCE—Although he performed an excellent job in organizing the system of internal security, Colonel Felham D. Glassford has just been fired by the Army and is trekking home to Arizona by trailer. His discharge is a striking example of official waste of manpower.

"Happy" was shaved because he had reached the age of sixty, yet he is as vigorous as a man of forty-five. He was considered a liability because he was Herbert Hoover's Chief of Police when the "house army" was driven out of Washington by bomb and bayonet in 1931.

His immediate superiors begged that he be retained. They submitted evidence that they, not the work in preventing domestic sabotage. But he was in bad with the head man, so he got the gate.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

In one of the year's oddest casting moves, screen mamee Ward Bond was placed in the role of a navy lieutenant who goes to the home of Alletta and Tom Sullivan to personally tell them their five sons have been lost in the South Pacific.

Lloyd Bacon, directing "The Sullivan" for 20th Century-Fox selected Bond, who usually plays heavies and toughies, after remembering an emotional bit he played as John L. Sullivan in Gentleman Jim. In real life the assignment went to Lieut. Anthony MacDonald of Dubuque, Iowa, when the navy declined to send such tragic news in the usual formal telegram. The scene for the film, Director Bacon says, "is the toughest I've ever had to direct in 20 years of movie making."

In keeping with her role as a screen mother for the first time, Lana Turner will discard her "Victory Bob" for a more simple affair in "Marriage is a Private Affair."

A full symphony of 100 pieces will accompany Gracie Allen when she plays her famous "One Finger Concerto" in "Two Sisters and a Sailor."

Add things we wish we could have seen: Ginny Simms studying to become a trombone player while attending Fresno High school. . . . There's no more congruence in directing "Cover Girl" following a west-western, "The Desperados," according to Charles Vidor. "Just simply from horse opera to clothes horse opera."

DR. FOSDICK'S 'ON BEING A REAL PERSON'

Overcoming Bad Luck a Powerful Factor in Building Personality

We are not responsible for our heredity; much of our environment we cannot control; but if it is true that a third factor enters into the building of personality—the power to take life with an individual's re-orientation, then we are responsible for that. When such acceptance involves self-condemnation, an alibi almost inevitably rushes to the rescue. A college president says that after long dealing with students, he is unsure where the degree B. A. stands for Bachelor of Arts or for Builder of Alibis.

On the lowest level this desire to escape blame expresses itself in emphasis upon luck. Fortunate people "get the breaks," men say; personal failure is due not so much to mistake as to mischance. That luck represents a real factor in human experience is evident, and he who does not expect ill-fortune as one of the ingredients of life is trying to live in fairyland, but nothing finer has appeared on earth than unlucky people who are real persons.

Biography is packed with illustrations of this fact. Glenn Cunningham, who has run the fastest mile on record, in four minutes, four and four-tenths seconds, was crippled in boyhood in a schoolhouse fire. The doctors said he would never walk again. Then they said that only a miracle could enable him to walk. He was out of luck. He began walking by following a plow across the fields, leaning on it for support; and then went on to tireless determination to see what he could do with his legs, until he broke all records for his race. Unlucky people who face mischance with a redeeming personal response make a stimulating company.

In our day—one of the most disturbed, difficult, and fateful eras in human history—the massed weight of popular emphasis is naturally given to the environmental conditions that prevent self's fortunes and that a particular excuse his failures. So insistently are these dwelt upon that many come to think of themselves as their helpless victims.

It is significant that our modern novels commonly picture men and women as they prey of fate. They are trapped by life, fighting a hopeless battle against the conspiracy of tragic mischances, and finally crushed and managed by their novels are shaped to that outline! As one literary critic sums it up, the common theme of a whole school of writers is the individual defeated by the world, and made a conditioned "jest of." So one character exclaims, "Tricked by God, that's what I was, 'Tricked by life and made a fool of.' There is a serious need that we restore to our proportionate importance our power of personal response. Its universal presence is indicated by the universality of real blame. A mechanical automaton lacks any basis for self-condemnation. It is not responsible for anything it is or does. All human beings, however, confront the problem of self-accusation—conscience. But if self-blame has validity, it can only be because man possesses the power to face life with a personal rejoinder for which he is responsible.

At any rate, bad luck is a poor ally if only because good luck by itself never guarantees real personality. Prof. Henry N. Wieman says that a college roommate of his desired to improve his intellectual life. "He procured a large comfortable chair for study. He got study slippers and a lounging jacket. A book rest was fastened to the arm of the chair. He held the book at the right angle before his eyes. A special lamp was installed and eyeshades, pencils, paper, and a revolving bookcase. He would come into the room after the evening meal, take off his coat and put on the jacket, take off his shoes and slip into the slippers, adjust the study lamp, put his book on the book rest, recline in the comfortable chair rest, and when everything was perfectly adjusted, he would go to sleep."

Life is like that. It is not so sim-

It would be difficult to wrap up a large amount of explosives in a smaller package than has been done in the case of the tiny republic of Lebanon.

The efforts of this unquenchable banian state to escape the French mandate and establish its absolute independence, with the resulting disturbances and bloodshed, have created a dangerous problem for the French. Indeed, the situation has become so serious that one would expect it to be one of the important matters to be dealt with at any conference which may be held by Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin.

You will recall that at the time of World War One Lebanon was part of the Turkish province of Syria. The Allies drove the Turks out and Syria was placed under French mandate.

Lebanon was most unhappy about this arrangement for two reasons. The first was that it was not a Muslim state, but a Christian one. America or Britain, and she didn't wish to be part of Syria, which is Muslim while Lebanon was one of the Christian countries.

France gave her autonomous status, but still retained control.

Early in the present war the French Vichy government, were intriguing to withdraw Syria from the British and Free French sent troops into the country and took charge.

The Free French under General de Gaulle assumed administration of the country.

Seeing that sleeping youth in his comfortable bed, Christian countries, that Pilgrims Progress came from a prison, as did Don Quixote, and Sir Walter Raleigh's History of the World, and some of the best of O. Henry's stories. They were written by unlucky people who were, nevertheless, real persons.

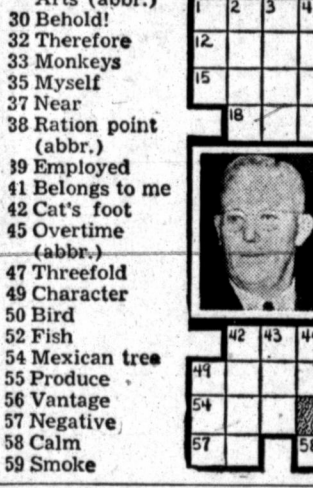

TOMORROW: Many become fatalistic to avoid responsibility.

"Many Pampanos Are Responsible For Our USO Club," Say Speakers

By Jane Bora

Pampa's USO club observed open house and held formal dedicatory services last night at the new building at 308 W. Foster.

Its formal dedication was more, however, than merely a routine affair that comes with the completion of a new building. It meant that the work, time and long hours which had been put in for its completion, the worry and planning had been well rewarded. It meant that each Pampano had a personal stake in the club. It meant that each Pampano family shared with one another in the club, and with that came a deep and vital concern and satisfaction.

A splendid program including speakers and various musical numbers were presented to hundreds of Pampanos who attended dedicatory services.

Lt. Colonel William George Gilks, USO Regional Supervisor, was the featured guest speaker. Colonel Daniel S. Campbell, commanding officer of the Pampa Army Air Field, spoke on "What the Army Thinks of the USO." Colonel Campbell said that the completion of the club here meant much to the Pampa Army Air Field; and speaking for officers and men at the field, he personally thanked Mrs. Julia Pagan, director, and Miss Lorene McClintock, assistant director, and the many women and men of Pampa, too numerous to mention, who gave so freely of their time, money and energy to make this dedication possible.

Pampa men and women have accepted their responsibilities as a personal obligation. It has been an obligation that they were proud to assume. The many activities that come to the USO daily, could not have been handled by the staff alone, even though they are trained workers in this field. USO directors could not meet a problem, therefore it took the full cooperation of every Pampano.

A message from the commander-in-chief of the armed forces of America expresses what we in Pampa believe about the USO club. "Not by machines alone will we win this war. Untidily, unkindly, and without interruption or delay, we have solemnly promised to give our men a mounting tide of guns, tanks, planes and ships.

"We shall keep that promise, and one promise more—that we shall preserve for them, wherever they are, and without regard to race, creed or color, the moral and spiritual values of the democratic ideals and freedoms for which they now are fighting."

"Because the USO is unitedly dedicated to that high purpose, and because that high purpose is a vital part of the job of winning this war, the USO should be supported by everybody—cheerfully, generously, and now."—Franklin D. Roosevelt. Our Pampa USO has risen magnificently to meet these promises. It has given living evidence to the soldier that we as a town do care about him now.

Because of the excellent work done here it has been a tremendous help in establishing contact between the service men and the civilian population. The women of Pampa are anxious to be hospitable and the USO has helped the boys to know what is going on outside of the Army Fields; a place where they can mingle and make friends in a congenial atmosphere, and where newcomers feel more than welcome.

It gives all of us a nice feeling to see our town put over something as worthy as the USO.

Mrs. J. P. Wehrung Entertains Daughter At Birthday Party

Mrs. J. P. Wehrung was hostess at a party given in the form of a circus in her home Saturday afternoon honoring her daughter Wanda Leigh on her fourth birthday.

Centering the table which was laid with a Victory cloth was a large square cake decorated with yellow candles and small animal cookies, surrounded with boxes of animal cookies which were given as favors.

Pictures were made of the group and games and stunts carried out the circus theme.

Refreshments of cake and lemon orangeade were served to Martha Sue Gordon, Barbara and Buzzie Hoover, Sandra Ann Sullins, Adelaide, Martha and Rebecca Skelly, Vickie Whitley, Nancy Jameston, Jewel Don Wilson, Marvin Berry, Paul Rush Kasiskie, Kitty May Kasiskie.

Gifts were sent by Nancy Hamilton of Amarillo, Miss Mamie and Winnie Wehrung of Waco and G. W. Wehrung of Waco. The honoree also received a long-distance call from Mr. and Mrs. James W. Smith of Tulsa, Okla., grandparents.

It isn't TABOO any more for girls to know these truths

Some girls take CARDUI, as directed, three days before "their time" to help relieve periodic pain due only to functional causes. Others take it as a tonic to stimulate appetite and aid digestion by increasing the flow of gastric juices, thus helping build up strength for those demanding days to come. A 62-year record says CARDUI may help. Try it, won't you?

Whenever the Quintuplets catch cold—their chests, throats and backs are rubbed with Musterole. So Musterole must be just about the best cold-relief you can buy! Musterole helps break up local congestion in upper bronchial tract, makes breathing easier, promptly relieves coughing and tight, sore, aching chest muscles due to colds. In 3 Strengths: Children's Mild, Regular, and Extra Strong.

Miss Dorothy Jo Taylor Entertains Members Of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Monday Evening

Continuing the study of "Paths to Loveliness," a program on "Verse Making" was presented with Miss Margaret Stockstill as leader Monday night at a meeting of Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority in the home of Miss Dorothy Jo Taylor.

Mrs. C. W. Henry gave selections from "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing," after which Mrs. C. A. Vaughn led the entire group in composing original rhymes. Also Mrs. Vaughn read "Thanksgiving 1943" by Grace Noll Crowell.

In the business session conducted by Miss Taylor, president, an invitation to the open house and formal dedication of the USO center Tuesday night was read preceding a report of the November meeting of the Council of Clubs by Mrs. Vaughn.

Following the program, coffee and individual cherry pies topped with whipped cream were served by the hostess to Mrs. James B. Massa, director; Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah and Mrs. Arthur M. Teed, sponsors; Mrs. Michael Bara, Mrs. Ray Ellis, Mrs. W. G. Gaskins, Mrs. C. W. Henry, Mrs. Roy Johnson, Mrs. Sam Leal, Mrs. James Pool, Mrs. Ray Robbins, Mrs. C. A. Vaughn.

Miss Johnnie Davis, Miss Mary Margaret Gribbon, Miss Helen Houston, Miss Dona Pursley, Miss Ruth Stapleton, Miss LaNelle Scheelhaugen, Miss Margaret Stockstill, Miss Virginia Vaughn, and a visitor, Mrs. Harold Dane of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Vaughn will be hostess at a regular meeting on Dec. 6. The Christmas party will be held on Dec. 15 in the home of Miss Barbara Heimbaugh, with Miss Vaughn and Mrs. Robbins as co-hostesses.

The fourteen needlework items sketched above, contained in Anne Cabot's new Christmas package, offer welcome gifts for all the crafters. The package itself makes a nice present to fellow needlecrafters.

Anne Cabot's Christmas package is a gay red paper pouch, tied up with merry-Christmas ribbon and seals—the 14 patterns, a new Album and a seasonal message are inside. What a grand remembrance it makes too, when you send it, intact, to friends!

Making a gift with your own hands has always given it greater value—but this year it is patriotic good sense to make gifts of these carefully selected gift specialties. Smart mittens, a draw-string handbag, pot holders, a baby bunting, soldier doll, toy cat, "Friendship" panel, set of towels, slippers, bibs, crocheted rug, quilted vestee, party apron and a snowflake doll.

To order the Anne Cabot Christmas Package, No. 5700, send $1 to Anne Cabot, The Pampa News 106 Seventh Avenue, New York 11, N. Y. State clearly your name and address or name of address of person to whom you wish to have it sent.

Big news for ANN CABOT readers. A new fall and winter issue of the ALBUM is now ready—the 32 page booklet of latest designs is better than ever! Order today, 15 cents.

Turks Train At Texas Air Base

MOORE FIELD, Nov. 17.—(AP)—All the way from Istanbul to the Rio Grande Valley, seven Turkish army aviators have come to this advanced single engine fighter school to take their advanced training—and they're liking it.
Heading the contingent is Capt. Ferit Goksel, a veteran of 10 years in the air. With him are First Lieutenants, Osman Akis, Selim Okyay, Nevzat Akie, Mustafa Sanal, Schattin Akut and Refik Ersoy. They wear flashy uniforms—dark blue trousers with a thin red stripe along the seams, dark blue shirts and overcoat caps to match. On their shoulders they wear gold stars which, under U. S. army regulations, would mean generals. The first lieutenants wear two stars and the overcoat caps to match. On their shoulders they wear gold stars which, under U. S. army regulations, would mean majors.

The men have had only 100 lessons in English, yet they seem to be getting onto the hang of it pretty well. They are keenly interested in U. S. aviation lingo and are picking up those words faster than any others.
They were already used to the P-51 Mustang fighter plane, so that they did not surprise them, but what arrested their attention was the Link BB trainer. This is a device to which a Moore Field officer adds automatic BB guns with which cadets can fire at moving targets in a large room. The Turkish officers found it intriguing and have already run up some good scores in simulated dogfights.
The visitors will return to their homeland after finishing the advanced fighter course here.

FBI Silent On Coal Inquiry
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The justice department made a "no comment" response when asked about persistent reports that its investigation of alleged 1938 financial transactions between John L. Lewis and the Mine B Coal company in Springfield, Ill., had been completed without the finding of any basis for action.

This stock answer met all questions regarding the case. Earlier it had been indicated the department would issue a formal statement on its inquiry, but it appeared today that no information would be given out.
The case came to the justice department after the internal revenue bureau had looked into the matter. The justice department inquiry was to determine whether there had been a possible violation of the civil rights statute.

Some of the Republicans said that Herbert Hoover may be invited to a later meeting and that other speakers may include all the party's potential standard bearers for 1944.

Plainview Herald Praises Harvesters Brilliant Plays

When it comes to dishing out the All-American sports writing award, the sports editor of the Plainview Herald should win it, and with a dozen oak leaf clusters.

Usually, when a team loses, the hometown paper cuts down the space on the story to about one-fourth of what it would be if the hometown team had won.

Also, in the losing game cases, the story is usually full of alibis.

The Plainview Herald did neither in its complete account of the play-by-play of the Plainview football game at Plainview last week, won by the Pampa High school team, 33 to 0.

Starting off the yarn headlined, "Pampa Air Rafe Found Building Into Oblivion," the Plainview sports writer compares the situation that prevailed when the tiny island of Pantelleria, lying between Tunisia and Sicily, was conquered by air power alone.

Sensational Passing
"The same situation arose here Thursday afternoon when Plainview's play-by-play, of the Pampa team, was bombed into submission by a surprising flight of Harvesters."

"The sensational passing of Charles Boyle and the circus catches of the receivers took the heart out of the Bulldogs who were a thoroughly licked crew."

"The Harvesters blitzkrieg didn't help the Plainview civilian morale any either and the spectators were for the most part just as confused and bewildered as their beloved Bulldogs."

Boyle's how he describes Pampa's third touchdown:

Easy Does It
"Moments later from the Plainview 33, Boyle faded back again and tossed another mighty heave which Reginald Bridges gathered in easy 14 yards. Boyle passed to Bridges for the extra point."

Then, "that was all until the fourth quarter when Boyle intercepted Williams' pass on the Pampa 35."

"When the Bulldogs finally got started late in the fourth quarter, their efforts rebounded and hit them slap dab in the face when Washington intercepted Williams' pass on the goal-line and stepped 100 fast yards down the field to score again for Pampa."

There is a 2-yard difference in the length of the run in the story in the Plainview paper and in the Pampa News, who listed the run as 102 yards, not 100, based on accounts given by Coach Otis Coffey and a Harvester player who was in the game, but this is only a minor difference.

"Strange as it may seem, the Bulldogs didn't play a bad game. The line held on schedule and the backfield, particularly Bob Horne and Jack Weiden played pretty fair ball."

Uncanny Catches
"They were weak on pass defense, but the Pampa lads made some uncanny catches. We don't say they were lucky, for these were sensational, brilliantly executed plays, but we doubt if so many of them could happen again in three games."

"These passes utterly demoralized the Bulldog backs who floundered around pathetically trying futilely to stop them. They could not catch the 87-pound Boyle would crash the line and when he took to the air they were unprepared."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Last week's story about the Missouri co-eds who planned to greet the Oklahoma football team with kisses—and failed to recognize them in navy uniforms—gave the headline writers a big day. The Ft. Worth Star-Telegram headed it: Missouri Misses Miss and Soccer Players 'Unkissed'.

The Oklahoma City Times put the finger on Coach Shorter Luster: "Kissing Co-Eds Fuster Luster."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
After watching Sunday's air raid at the Polo grounds, owner Horace Stoneham of the Giants (not football) was wondering if he couldn't sign Sid Luckman as a pitcher. Sid was playing shortstop at college. The great Dodgers' Pete Cawthon claims he has the way to stop Green Bay's Don Hutson Sunday: "I have a lot of Texas boys who are pretty handy with a rope."

COACH'S QUANDARY
Coach Harry Mahlen of Princeton claims this actually happened to him. Looking for a sub to send in against Yale Saturday, Mahlen walked along the bench, peering at faces and calling: "Applegate, where Applegate?" Finally one of the boys spoke up: "Applegate's marching. The marines are restricted and he had to go out on a practice march." And, remembering the score, Harry added: "That's probably where I should have been, too."

Nazi Squadron Just Can't Fly

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 17.—(AP)—On three different occasions in the past four months, all planes of one German fighter squadron were either destroyed or made unserviceable, intelligence officers of the northwest American air forces learned today.

The total elimination each time came as the squadron was moving from one base to another in front of the Allied advance.

The squadron, flying Focke-Wulf 190's, was stationed at Castelvetrano airfield in western Sicily, from where it raided the Allied-held island of Pantelleria until heavy raids on the base compelled a move first to Gerbiti, and then to Vibo Valentia on the toe of Italy.

One day American Flying Fortresses blasted the Vibo Valentia field with thousands of fragmentation bombs and every plane in the squadron was left unserviceable.

A few days later the Nazi pilots were flown to Bari to get new planes, but arrived to find the bombers had visited there, too, and the new planes were wrecked.

The pilots then were taken to another airfield where they were given new Focke-Wulf 190's especially flown from Munich.

The squadron shortly shifted to a new base.

But the ever-present Fortresses showed up on the same day as the squadron. Once again deadly fragmentation bombs knocked out every German fighter down to the last one.

The squadron's unhappy history was pieced together from examination of the captured airfields and information from other sources.

Wheaton Ice Man Gave Pro Football Its Start Toward Present High Status

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Harold Edward Grange was the most spectacular and publicized football player of all time.

Red Grange turned a number—77—into a by-word.

The Galloping Ghost of Illinois gave professional football the impetus that elevated it from a discredited sport to its present high status.

The immortal Wheaton Ice man did not go out for football as a freshman until threatened with a paddling by upper classmen. Then he ran 65 yards through the varsity with a punt.

Thirteen years later, his valdictory as a co-bat was typically Grange. The time he carried the mail for the Chicago Bears in Los Angeles in January, 1935, he reversed off the weak side, and as New York Giant linemen admonished the backer-ups with "Look out! The goes the Old Man!" he sprinted 69 yards to the 20-yard line before being pulled down from behind.

In high school and college and as a professional, Grange carried the ball 4913 times, gained 33,520 yards, or 19 1/4 miles for an average of 3.4 yards a crack.

He scored 236 points in 247 games.

In 22 games in three years at Illinois, he gained 3,000 yards, scored 31 touchdowns. He averaged 180 yards per game for eight in 1923, 166 for seven in '24 and 172 for seven in '25.

GRANGE CREDITS OUTBACK
Red Grange's hair had a faint aurn tint only when the sun shone on it—spread upon the gridiron—the most dazzling—carpet of super football ever woven, and his performance against a great Michigan team in his junior year has no equal.

On Oct. 18, 1924, before 67,000 people, the occasion being the dedication of the Illinois Stadium, Grange, "a streak of fire, a breath of flame," scored four touchdowns in 12 minutes, the first from receiving the ball on the kickoff and all by heroic runs. Withdrawn from the game, he returned in the third period to make another run for a score. He forward passed to Leonard for

SAMMY BAUGH SETS LIFETIME PASSING RECORDS

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—While Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears set aerial records against New York, his teammate, Harry Clark, used the Giants as a convenient stepping stone to regain the ball-carrier leadership of the National football league this week.

Clark traveled 15 times with the ball to break through the Easterners' defense for 147 yards, bringing his total gain for eight games this season to 465. This production enabled the veteran Bear halfback from West Virginia to replace his rival, Tony Canadeo of the Green Bay Packers, in the No. 1 ball-lugging spot.

Canadeo, the former Gonzaga star who became top man in Green Bay's backfield this season with the departure of Cecil Isbell, fell into second place after being limited to 33 yards in eight attempts by the Chicago Cardinals Sunday. His total gain in eight games is 424. Canadeo's running average per play, however, is better than Clark's—5.3 to 4.6.

Luckman's feat of throwing seven touchdowns and officially gaining 433 yards on passes against the Cardinals—both new records—kept him entrenched in the aerial lead with a total of 91 completions in 153 attempts for 1,808 yards and 23 touchdowns.

Two more touchdown passes will eclipse Isbell's mark of 24 last year, and 214 additional yards gained will top Isbell's 2,021, also made in 1942.

Sammy Baugh of Washington, who has a fine chance to better Isbell's standards as well as surpass Luckman before the season ends. He has four games to go and already has hit 85 of 154 passes for 1,138 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Baugh's foot is becoming as famed as his arm. The 1942 punting king took over the lead this week after getting off 10 punts against Detroit

Aggies Won't Believe Texas Can't Be Licked

By HAROLD RATLIFF
DALLAS, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The upstarts of Texas A. and M. who "blundered" through eight games without believing a word they read in the papers are going to play Texas at College Station for the Southwest conference championship.

It wasn't ignorance because, while they're the "young" team over to represent a college in this conference, they still are old enough to read. But they just wouldn't take stock in the wise words of the critics who told them they'd be lucky to win a game or two.

Such "unbelievers" were they that they have reached the Thanksgiving day clash with Texas the only undefeated team in season play and during the past week observers have decided they have "an excellent chance to upset the Longhorns."

Coach Leo Meyer of Texas Christian leads toward the Aggies. Texas wasn't impressive in defeating unranked T.C.U. being outplayed on part of the way and cashing on intercepted passes, fumbles and a blocked punt.

Some folks think Coach Homer Norton of the Aggies sparred for a psychological opening when he suggested that Coach D. X. Bible of Texas refrain from using players from the naval training program. "Against Coach Bible's great high school boys we would have a chance to win," said Norton. Bible wouldn't comment. Now was Norton trying to get Texas overconfident?

The Aggies have one of the nation's best defensive records, allowing an average of only 9.4 yards rushing and passing per game. Texas as will pit one of the finest ground attacks in the country against one of the best passing offenses. The Longhorns have rolled up 1,558 yards rushing and passing per game. Here Are Provisions Of New Tax Measure
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Here is how the new tax bill approved by the house ways and means committee affects individual incomes:

1. Repeals victory tax.
2. Increases the normal tax rate from 6 percent to 10.
3. Retains present personal exemptions and credits for dependents.
4. Adopts a readjusted surtax schedule calculated to help facilitate merger of the victory and income levies.
5. Suspends for the duration the earned income credit.
6. Requires married persons filing separate returns to take a single person's exemption.
7. Provides that the tax shall not be less than 3 percent of the net income in excess of a personal exemption of $500 for a single person, $700 for married persons and $100 as credit for each dependent. This is to retain 9,000,000 victory taxpayers now subject to regular income levies.
8. Retains existing over-all tax limit of 90 percent on the largest incomes.

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Want to start an argument? Here's some ammunition.

Labor is beginning to throw its weight around. It soon may start shouting. Right now it's grumbling loudly that it wants higher wages.

Labor says the government has kept wages at dwarf size while letting living costs grow up to giant-hood.

The president, hearing the grumbings, has appointed a war labor board committee to find out whether the government figures on living costs are right.

Those figures, compiled by the government's bureau of labor statistics show living costs have risen 23 per cent since January, 1941.

But the WLB has forbidden wage increases greater than 15 per cent in the same period.

Labor says living costs are even higher than the BLS figures show, that labor is saddled with a 15 per cent limit while prices keep climbing.

Opponents of labor's demands say labor is ignoring figures that tell a different story about wages.

Those figures, also compiled by BLS, show that average weekly earnings for workers in manufacturing industries have risen 63 per cent while living costs were rising only 23 per cent and that average hourly earnings for the same workers have risen 41.8 per cent in the same period.

These are what the experts call "gross" figures and include overtime pay, which those same labor opponents say should be included.

Labor-likers, however, say they should not be included, that overtime pay is for extra effort expended, that the overtime rate of time-and-a-half was set in this country long before the WLB was created and is normal practice.

But if overtime is excluded—using the same BLS figures—then the straight hourly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries would show a 35.6 per cent increase over January, 1941.

Right here labor-likers rush in to point out that since the figures are only average they do not truly tell what has happened to all workers.

They say that, since the figures are average, some workers' hourly earnings are far greater than 35 per cent above January, 1941, while others are far less.

High-paying industries like shipyards and airplane factories would boost the average. They were industries in which pay was high before WLB appeared to put a limit on increases.

Labor's friends also say the high percentage of increase is due principally to the enormous number of workers who have gone into the high-paying industries such as the shipyards and plane plants.

The high salaries paid to those workers, the argument goes, are bound to boost the national average because of the number of workers receiving those wages.

But what would the percentage increase in hourly earnings be right now if each industry had maintained its January, 1941, proportion of employment?

That is, what would it be if the shipyards and plane plants had now the proportionate number of workers they had in January, 1941.

We asked statisticians of the WLB to figure that out and they came up with this: Only a 26.9 increase in average hourly earnings over January, 1941. That would be almost even with the 23 per cent rise in living costs.

Here's a little more ammunition. You ask: Well, how can the average hourly earnings be 26.9 per cent above January, 1941, if the WLB really set on wages to hold them to only a 15 per cent increase in that time.

We asked that one, too, at WLB and got this answer: Some wages had been raised far over the 15 per cent limit before

WLB ever stepped in, in the fall of 1942, to put its 15 per cent limit into effect.

The WLB has had to make some adjustments for the sake of the war effort. For instance: There are two vital war plants near each other. One pays wages much higher than the other, therefore attracts that other's workers.

The only way to keep workers in both plants is to bring their wages closer into line.

Things like that. Now you battle it out, but keep one thing in mind: These figures are all on workers in manufacturing industries.

WLB statisticians gave up trying to figure out, when we asked them, increases for workers in non-manufacturing jobs. They said the statistics of them were not as complete or reliable as for those in manufacturing.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Who's the little guy with the worried look?

That's the white collar worker, he or she, the clerk, typist, stenographer, teacher, bookkeeper, accountant.

There are about 11 million of him in this country now and he is, in a way, the forgotten man in a nutcracker.

No one knows how much his salary has risen in proportion to the rise in the cost of living.

Government officials say no such figures on him exist but that nevertheless it is certain his earnings have lagged far behind those of other classes of workers.

The government's bureau of labor statistics investigators went into 65,000 establishments—including banks and hotels—and learned what salaries white collar workers were drawing now in different areas.

But those figures will not reveal whether the white collar workers' present salaries are higher now than they were, say, when the war started and living costs started upward.

The war has doubly nipped white collar workers: Higher taxes and higher living costs. Those living costs have been rising steadily, still are going up.

Dean Wayne L. Morse of the war labor board has said that the white collar group "usually suffers more than any other during the period of adjustment from a peacetime to a wartime economy."

"It is the salaried employees of the middle or low income brackets who are the last to receive an increased income. While they await this increase, living costs rise, purchasing power decreases and, if inflation becomes severe, their entire savings are jeopardized."

Labor representatives say the great majority of white collar workers earn less than $1,500 a year.

Government officials say the largest group of white collar workers who haven't received any increase at all are federal, state and municipal employees. There are about 4 million of them.

Lighter Works At Right Time For Castaways

DALLAS, Nov. 17. (AP)—The flickering glow of a homemade kerosene lantern at midnight, lighted from a cigarette lighter that almost wouldn't work, brought rescue in late September to four airmen traveling in the Southwest Pacific in a rubber boat built for three.

That rescue came as they attempted to paddle 75 miles to the nearest Allied post after spending months in caves on a tiny island hiding from Japanese garrisons while friendly natives supplied food.

Lieut. (JG) Ed Peck, 26, Shreveport, one of the four, recounted the tale while visiting his uncle, H. L. Rolling, before returning to Shreveport to spend the rest of a 30-day leave with his family.

It was on the night of June 16 while they were bombing Kahili air- port at Bougainville that Jap anti-aircraft disabled his TBF Gruman Avenger. He and his two crewmen, all suffering minor wounds, landed in the water about 10 miles south- east of Shortland and spent two and a half days aboard their rubber boat before reaching the Treasury Islands.

One of the islands—Sterling, Lieut. Peck said, is very tiny, and the other—Mono—is about four miles wide and six miles long.

It was on Mono, he said, that he and his crewmen and later four other airmen lived. Three of the seven decided to stay on the island rather than risk the open sea in the rubber boats again, and Peck said he has not heard whether or not they escaped.

The island was occupied by seven Japanese when they first landed, Peck said, and three months later when they left there were 138 of them on the island.

Before making contact with the natives, he said, they had several narrow brushes with the Japs, but later lived in comparative safety in caves where the natives hid them. They were supplied with food, largely sweet potatoes and coconuts, he said.

After they had been there a month, an army pilot, Second Lt. Ben King, of Oklahoma City, landed in a rubber raft and the natives brought him to the hideaway. The following day another TBF crew of three landed and they, too, were brought to the hideaway.

There the seven remained for two months, he said, until they finally completed plans to try to make their way back to their own forces.

Each man elected whether he would attempt the 75-mile water journey to Vella Lavella, and three decided to stay.

From an emergency water can and a piece of felt salvaged from a jungle pack, they fashioned a crude kerosene lamp and filled it with kerosene supplied by the natives.

Lt. Peck, Lt. King, Ensign Joe Mitchell of Davidson, Okla., and Stanley Tefft, dynamo man, second class, Peck's gunner, whose home is near El Paso, set sail. Four days and four nights they paddled toward Vella Lavella, each man averaging about eight hours sleep in the 96 hours.

On the last night at sea they heard a huge PBV patrol boat approaching and began trying to signal.

For several moments Ensign Mitchell's lighter, the only one in the boat, refused to light, but finally they got the lamp burning. The pilot saw their light, landed and carried them to his base. They were about five miles off shore from their destination at the time, he said.

Constitution Vote Change Rejected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. (AP)—The senate judiciary committee rejected 9 to 8 a resolution by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) calling for a constitutional amendment to prohibit the collection of a poll tax as a qualification for voting for federal officers.

O'Mahoney said he would offer the resolution again at the committee's next meeting Monday in the belief that it eventually will carry.

The committee previously approved a bill to prohibit the collection of such taxes.

However, O'Mahoney declared, "the constitutionality of this bill is seriously questioned and the only sure way to outlaw this tax is the constitutional way."

Flame Thrower Kills Weeds

EDINBURG, Nov. 17. (AP)—Flame cultivation is being tried in the Lower Rio Grande Valley to kill weeds and grass in fields of winter vegetables.

A machine throws a flame which kills weeds and grass on contact. It is believed that the flame thrower would be particularly useful in fields where slow germinating weeds such as purslane and onions have been planted. Weeds in these fields frequently get ahead of the vegetable plants.

We hope that peace will be re-established as soon as possible. We must, however, have such a peace as guarantees our country's freedom. On this point no compromise is possible.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 17. (AP)—A gently mournful man is Staff Sgt. Al Weisberger. He takes pride in the front line battle record of Yanks in the Mediterranean theater, but he is sorrowful because all the scrapping hasn't produced a second Gene Tunney on what sports writers described as a fistie horizon.

In that respect Sgt. Weisberger believes the second world war has been an utter failure.

Warfare between nations is just a sideline with the sergeant. His real passion, profession and business is athletics, a branch of learning in which he has scratched a comfortable living, and to which he has sacrificed several ribs, one toe and a little finger.

At present Sgt. Weisberger, who is attached to the special services office of the 12th air force service command, is the chief boxing promoter in North Africa.

He was a nite club owner in Cleveland, his hometown, and promoted boxing in small Ohio towns, New York state, St. Louis and Oakland before going into the army.

"They wanted to put on fighting shows to boost morale," he said. And the fight game was dead as a herring when we started up. Now we have regular cards in Algiers, Cran, Tunis and Casablanca, and we get crowds of 5,000 at a show."

That would pep up a peace-time promoter like a swig of benzidine but Sgt. Weisberger, who thinks the most beautiful thing in the world is two men in a ring whopping each other across the skull with 8-ounce gloves, is disheartened because his shows are producing more boxing fans than boxers.

"I haven't seen a GI at any weight who looks like championship calibre," he complained mildly. "Nobody like Tunney, who got his start in the last war. They are mostly novices, just novices."

Army Releases Laundry Material

ATLANTA, Nov. 17. (AP)—Forrest Armstrong, war production board official, said today the armed services had released priorities on used laundry and dry cleaning equipment and that the laundry situation throughout the country should be promptly alleviated.

Armstrong, regional chief of the automotive division of WPB, said in an interview that WPB had issued a statement saying there was "no further requirement of used laundry and dry cleaning equipment by the armed forces."

been an utter failure.

Warfare between nations is just a sideline with the sergeant. His real passion, profession and business is athletics, a branch of learning in which he has scratched a comfortable living, and to which he has sacrificed several ribs, one toe and a little finger.

At present Sgt. Weisberger, who is attached to the special services office of the 12th air force service command, is the chief boxing promoter in North Africa.

He was a nite club owner in Cleveland, his hometown, and promoted boxing in small Ohio towns, New York state, St. Louis and Oakland before going into the army.

"They wanted to put on fighting shows to boost morale," he said. And the fight game was dead as a herring when we started up. Now we have regular cards in Algiers, Cran, Tunis and Casablanca, and we get crowds of 5,000 at a show."

That would pep up a peace-time promoter like a swig of benzidine but Sgt. Weisberger, who thinks the most beautiful thing in the world is two men in a ring whopping each other across the skull with 8-ounce gloves, is disheartened because his shows are producing more boxing fans than boxers.

"I haven't seen a GI at any weight who looks like championship calibre," he complained mildly. "Nobody like Tunney, who got his start in the last war. They are mostly novices, just novices."

Army Releases Laundry Material

ATLANTA, Nov. 17. (AP)—Forrest Armstrong, war production board official, said today the armed services had released priorities on used laundry and dry cleaning equipment and that the laundry situation throughout the country should be promptly alleviated.

Armstrong, regional chief of the automotive division of WPB, said in an interview that WPB had issued a statement saying there was "no further requirement of used laundry and dry cleaning equipment by the armed forces."

Germany Beset With Inflation

LONDON, Nov. 17. (AP)—Germany is beset with inflation; the British ministry of economic warfare indicated today, with the amount of notes circulating in the reich skyrocketing from eight billion marks at the start of the war to about 30 billion now.

The inflation was attributed to pyramiding government borrowing to finance the war effort as well as recent extensive repair work resulting from the Allied air blitz.
