Q—Is there anything than can be done about the mosquitoes in Hermleigh?

A—Scurry County Health Department, which handles spraying in the county, has been to Hermleigh, Ira and Fluvanna and will make return trips through the summer. A spokesman said, however, there is little they can do in the open areas of the county where mosquitoes are so abundant. He also noted the department has only one person this year to do the spraying.

In Brief

AIDS vaccine

BOSTON (AP) — Scientists say they have developed a genetically engineered vaccine that appears to hold the AIDS virus in check.

The researchers reported in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine that levels of T cells — disease-fighting white blood cells that ordinarily are destroyed by the virus — have remained stable during more than two years of treatment in some people receiving the experimental vaccine.

Scientists say it represents a new approach to fighting infection. Until now, vaccines have been used to ward off infection. But in the latest approach, doctors used a vaccine to beef up the body's virus-fighting powers after infection.

ISD reps set first county education district meeting

Representatives from school and appraisal districts encompassed by the newly formed County Education District 11 had more questions than answers as they met here Tuesday, but they did manage to set a date for the first meeting of the board.

An organizational meeting of the CED board is set for 5 p.m. Monday in the Snyder ISD school administration building.

County Education District 11 is one of 188 CEDs created statewide by Senate Bill 351 and amended by House Bill 2885. The CEDs were formed as a way to coordinate and dispense equal funding for an educational system based on unequal property taxes and constantly fluctuating tax rates. Basically, the CED boards' purpose is to exercise a portion of the taxing power in the representative school districts, and of distributing that tax revenue back to those school districts.

Scheduling of the meeting was the only action taken Tuesday by the representatives, which included superintendents from Snyder, Crosbyton, Lorenzo, Ralls, Roby, Rotan, Post, Southland, Jayton-Girard, Hermleigh and Ira school districts. Future action will be determined by appointed CED board members, beginning with Monday's meeting.

The 11 education district board members are to be appointed by the 11 school districts represented. Snyder ISD plans to appoint a CED board representative during its June board meeting, set for 6 p.m. Thursday.

Monday, the 11 CED board members (trustees) will be sworn in and will elect a chairperson, vice chairperson and secretary. The board will then adopt a resolution calling for an Aug. 10 election concerning various tax exemptions, including homesteads, non-income-producing property such as cars and boats, and for disabled and elderly residents. A companion election will be held by each county in the district for exemptions on the tier one portion of school taxes.

The CED board will also discuss the process of selecting an entity or entities with which to contract for tax assessment, collection and distribution. Many of the questions asked during Tuesday's meeting concerned methods of tax assessment, property values and centralized distribution.

At the same time, those asking the questions were aware that the entire process could be for nothing. Also on June 17, a hearing will be held as to the constitutionality of the new school finance law. It has been challenged by a number of wealthy school districts who oppose the take-from-the-rich, give-to-the-poor, or so-called "Robin Hood" approach of the law.

Snyder Supt. Dalton Moseley however, urged the group to set a date for the first CED meeting, and not wait, noting that the outcome of the constitutionality hearing could take a week.

"We need to get moving on this as soon as possible," Moseley stressed.

Formation of the CED will not be without costs. The CED will impact Scurry County Appraisal District immediately, said Chief Appraiser R.L. Peveler, who said the current computer equipment used by the district is "maxed out."

The appraisal district uses the city's computer system and contracts for that use. Peveler said that the appraisal district will have to spend approximately $37,000 to upgrade the capacity of the present IBM 36 system or go to an AS 400 system at the cost of about $53,000 to accommodate the changes. Peveler's estimates are one-half of the total approximate cost. The city would pay the other half.

The city has scheduled a meeting for 6:30 p.m. June 18 to discuss the problem.

Other appraisers within the CED have also noted they will incur additional expenses, Peveler noted.

The CED will operate much like a local school district. The CED board will determine who will collect the taxes and who will calculate tier one tax distributions and what entity will distribute them.

The law requires that the largest school district in the CED take responsibility for organizational meetings.

2 males arrested for theft of autos

Snyder police wrapped up two cases of auto theft and one case of attempted auto theft with the arrest of two young men Tuesday.

Taken into custody at Snyder Police Department were 18-year-old Rudy Perez and a 16-year-old male juvenile. Each was arrested at 5:15 p.m. on two counts of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, one count of attempted auto theft and one count of misdemeanor theft.

Perez was taken to Scurry County Jail. The juvenile was released to his mother. The cases are being forwarded to the district attorney and juvenile probation department for prosecution.

The two males have been identified as unlawfully taking a 1985 Oldsmobile from the S.A. Taylor residence at 2111 28th St. on Dec. 1, 1990. The vehicle was later recovered in Fort Worth.

Authorities contend that the two suspects also attempted to steal a 1990 Chevrolet at the 2712 Ave. U residence of Richard Hester on the same date.

The second count of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle stems from the April 20, 1991, theft of a 1982 Chevrolet pickup at the Jeff Mitchell residence, 205 36th St. The pickup was later found abandoned on U.S. Hwy. 84.

The two have also been charged with the April 30, 1991, theft of a toolbox at 3309 Ave. U from a pickup owned by Todd Shaw. According to reports, the toolbox was traded for a case of beer and later recovered.

Some 100 people, including 27 first-time donors, took the time to give blood during Tuesday's drive, sponsored by Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and Scurry County Advisory Council for United Blood Services of Lubbock.

There were 14 deferrals. Those receiving pins included Howard Bigham, five gallons; L.V. Anderson, four gallons; Cheryl Winkles, three gallons; Stanley Pavlik and Norris Lofton, two gallons; and Phillip Cockerell, Bill Daves, Jose L. Costilla and Breland Ledbetter, one gallon.

Receiving certificates from Jaramillo's were Floradean Cockerell, Ann Casebolt, Danny Helms, Brian Blair, Olin Bunch, Faydean Hart and Barbara Granato. Olin Bunch was also the recipient of a Sunday buffet for two at Willow Park Inn.

Other businesses donating items for the drive included Dairy Queen, Sonic Drive In, Whataburger, Taco John's, Wal-Mart, Long John Silver's, Golden Corral, McDonald's, Coca Cola Bottling Company and Gill's Fried Chicken.

Cookies were furnished by Lawrence IGA and orange juice was provided by Cogdell Hospital Auxiliary.

Scurry County Senior Citizens Center VIVA volunteers assisted in the drive.

First-time donors included Lupe Contreras, Ann M. Reed, Janice K. Jeter, Shannon M. Ashford, Karen S. Walker, Terri L. Owens, Kenny R. Gambrell, Carmella J. Dean, Lola L. Wagner, Carol L. Kenner, David L. Kenner, Claudette Costilla and Janice Highfield.

Russians cast ballots today in first presidential election

MOSCOW (AP) — Russians cast ballots today in their vast republic's first popular presidential election, which pitted heavily favored populist Boris N. Yeltsin against Communist stalwarts who want to slow the tide of reform.

A clear majority would strengthen Yeltsin's hand in his dealings with President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who has never faced popular election and has refused to throw his support behind any of the six candidates.

Yeltsin advocates a swift transition to a market-based economy, including the legalization of private property, and political and economic decentralization that would shift power from the Kremlin to the republics.

Gaining the presidency of Russia, which contains half the Soviet Union's 285 million people and three-quarters of its territory, would significantly boost Yeltsin's ability to achieve those goals.

Yeltsin's chief rival, former Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov, was the first of the major candidates to vote and he repeated his call for national unity and a gradual transition to a market economy.

"I cannot allow Russia and the rest of the country to be divided into two camps," Ryzhkov, a Communist Party member, said as he voted in Moscow.

Turnout was forecast at about 80 percent on election day, a holiday marking the first anniversary of the Russian legislature's declaration of the republic's sovereignty.

It was above 80 percent on the Far Eastern Kamchatka Peninsula, said election commission member Fyodor Sharov. In the Pacific port of Khabarovsk and in the naval port of Vladivostok, turnout was reported at about 44 percent by late afternoon, elec-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Statistics show that the best time to buy anything is 30 years ago."

The capitalistic spirit is moving into Russia this summer. The long-running hit series, Dallas, will air on Soviet TV along with other prime-time features from U.S. television.

The success of the project will hinge on television sponsors, just like in the United States. But when buyers go to purchase advertised items not available in local stores, there is concern that the question may be more serious than "Who shot J.R. Ewing?"

Others scheduled to air this summer are Barnaby Jones, The Love Boat, Little House on the Prairie, Beverly Hills 90210, The Jetsons and The Flintstones.

The shows' distributor is making the risky bet that U.S. advertisers will be lining up as sponsors. Success is the big question, as many U.S. companies are reluctant to advertise in the Soviet Union because their products and services are not available. The problem is compounded by Soviet law that prohibits companies from taking profits out of the country.

Other critics say that the state of the Soviet economy makes it untimely to push consumer products. Hurry-on-down advertising typical to lure American consumers won't work in the USSR since a lot of shelves are still empty there.

Advertising executives counter that, even if products are not yet available, firms can begin to build a corporate image for the future. We suspect the experiment just may work. Some of the advertising is more entertaining than the actual shows.

A friend who just got back into attending movies after their last kid left home, says TV programming could be worse.

"If you think TV is bad now, go to the movies and see what it's going to be like in five years."

Success Seminar set Thursday at college

The first of three Success Seminars held for students entering Western Texas College is scheduled Thursday on campus.

Students entering as full-time freshmen for the first time in the fall semester are required to attend one of three summer Success Seminars. Seminars are also scheduled July 18 and Aug. 15.

During the seminars, students are given information needed for the selection of courses and career planning, financial aid and housing. Students may also pre-register for the fall semester and take placement tests if they have not completed the ACT or SAT.

Students must make advance reservations for the seminar they wish to attend. Information about the Success Seminars can be obtained by calling the student services office at 573-8511, extension 394.

Experimental hovering plane crashes

NEW CASTLE, Del. (AP) — A developer of the V-22 Osprey held out hope of continued backing for the controversial aircraft on Capitol Hill despite the crash of the experimental cross between a helicopter and an airplane.

The fifth Osprey built so far crashed and burned eight minutes into its maiden flight Tuesday at the New Castle County Airport, officials said.

The pilot, Grady Wilson, 50, of Wilmington, and co-pilot, Lynn Freisner of Wallingford, Pa., suffered minor cuts.

The Navy is investigating the accident.

The Osprey, at a price of $22 million to $26 million, is an assault aircraft designed to take off and land like a helicopter with its propellers turned skyward. In air, its engines tilt forward and it can fly at the speed of a plane.

The Bush administration wants to scrap the project, claiming existing helicopters are adequate. But Congress refuses to kill it, and lawmakers have restored funds for the Osprey that the Pentagon dropped over the last two years.

"Obviously there was a problem with ship No. 5, which we are confident is isolated to that particular airplane," Bob Leder, a spokesman for Bell Textron Helicopters of Fort Worth, Texas, said in a statement.

"Following an investigation, we see no reason why the V-22 flight test program cannot continue as scheduled."

The plane was one of six being built jointly by Bell Textron and Boeing Helicopters of Ridley Township, Pa., under a $1.8 billion appropriation. The first was tested at New Castle in 1989; none has crashed before.

The first four V-22s logged nearly 600 flight hours without major problems, Leder said.

When the water is rough

By Phillip Alder

When you are in a contract that seems to be plain sailing, don't become overconfident and take your hand off the tiller. There may be a storm brewing, with choppy water just around the next headland.

If you would like to see how good a sea captain you are, cover the East-West cards and plan the play in four spades. West leads the club queen and continues with the club jack and a third club.

West's third club lead was an error. He should have realized East had the club 10 — otherwise declarer would have covered the club jack with dummy's king. If West had switched to a heart, declarer would have to do some good guessing to make his contract.

After ruffing the third club, declarer cashed the spade ace and continued with the spade jack, not the king. He did this to establish dummy's 10 as an entry, in case the diamonds broke badly. But it didn't work. East won with the spade queen, but instead of returning a heart, he returned his last trump. When the diamonds failed to break 3-3, declarer had to lose a heart trick and his contract.

Declarer had a good idea, but he put it into effect one trick too late. If he had led the spade jack at trick four (or crossed to the diamond queen and finessed the spade jack), he would have made his game. Say East wins with the queen and returns a spade. Declarer wins in hand, cashes the A-K of diamonds, ruffs a diamond, leads a trump to dummy's 10, and cashes the last two diamond winners.

DA wants more help in white collar crime investigations

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — District Attorney Steve Simmons had to rely on drug money to investigate El Paso's biggest white collar crime case.

Without the money seized in dope busts, the El Paso County district attorney said the yearlong investigation — which resulted in indictments of 29 people and businesses — probably would have been much slower.

Documents in the investigation were so voluminous, the county bought a special machine and software to catalog them and had to hire someone to input them.

Simmons said he believes there are probably many other district attorneys who are forgoing investigations of such unwieldy cases because they lack the resources. He said it is time for the state to get more involved in white collar crime by providing resources to investigate it.

"In a case like this there are a lot of resources you need, accountants, computer experts," Simmons said in an interview last week. "We have some, we're lucky, but there are some district attorney's offices that don't. The state needs to get more involved in an organized way. If that were the case, maybe we'd have fewer of the various types of thefts and insurance companies doing the things they do."

Last week, a state grand jury indicted 11 prominent El Paso residents and corporations and accused them of stealing $9.6 million from investors in annuities sold by First Service Life Insurance.

The company was part of the financial empire of car salesman Maury Kemp and was not licensed to sell the annuities, insurance policies that periodically pay dividends. The indictment alleges the money was diverted to other businesses in Kemp's empire and El Paso Electric Co., one of the defendants.

The State Board of Insurance's telephone number is 1-800-252-3439.

Shooting victim still breathing at city morgue

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A local hospital is investigating its own procedures after morgue workers discovered that a man declared dead was still breathing.

Henry L. Dobbins, 24, a shooting victim, was returned to John Peter Smith Hospital Sunday after workers at the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's office noticed he was breathing.

Dobbins was put on a respirator but soon died.

"It was nobody's fault," James Kirkpatrick, a medical examiner's investigator, said Monday of the discovery. "He was sent over a little early."

"What was happening (was) he was dead, but the muscles didn't know it," said Kirkpatrick. "Respiration was there, but it was involuntary."

Hospital spokeswoman Drenda Witt said Tuesday that reports showed Dobbins also had a pulse when he arrived at the morgue from the emergency room, where he had been brought about 3 a.m. Sunday. She said that although he was brain-dead his motor functions continued.

School finance law defended by state

AUSTIN (AP) — Difficult choices faced by wealthy school districts under Texas' new school finance law indicate the measure's fairness, the state's lawyer said.

"It is true that many formerly wealthy districts will be forced into hard decisions about whether to increase taxes or reduce programs. These are the very choices that poor districts have always had to make," said Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter.

"It is some measure of the success of the legislative process in achieving equity that all school districts in the state will be forced into a similar decision-making process," she said.

Her comments came in a written response filed with State District Judge F. Scott McCown, who has set a Monday hearing on wealthy districts' challenge of the new school finance law.

The law is designed to shift hundreds of millions of dollars in property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing regions drawn largely along county lines.

A minimum property tax rate is required in the countywide taxing regions, and local school districts may tax more to enrich programs and for construction.

The state guarantees every school district a certain amount of money, in state and local funds combined, for each penny of property tax, up to a certain level.

The law was passed in response to a Texas Supreme Court order to even out education funding available to school districts.

The Supreme Court twice has unanimously ruled unconstitutional the current $14 billion-a-year system, which now includes large funding disparities because of school districts' use of their own property tax revenue.

Wealthy school districts say the new law creates an unconstitutional state property tax, and unconstitutionally transfers local tax money from one school district to another.

The state says a state property tax is not created. It says the countywide education districts directly impose the minimum tax for education, so there is under the law no transfer of tax revenue from one school district to another.

The school finance law provides for each county education taxing region to be governed by an appointed panel consisting of school board members.

Wealthy school districts have argued that the system dilutes the voting strength of minorities who make up a large percentage of their individual school districts.

The state said the law has had no discriminatory effect. It said the county education boards have only ministerial duties, and that wealthy districts "do not seriously seek to vindicate minority rights."

"Instead, they seek to interpose roadblocks to a system designed to mandate equity in funding so as to enable the formerly wealthy districts to maintain their status of privilege," the attorney general's office said in documents released Tuesday.

The state said although the new law limits school district tax rates, there is enough funding authority "to allow any school district in the state to build and finance any needed and many unneeded facilities."

Man's Yearly Physicals Missed Growing Cancer

By Abigail Van Buren

1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this from a well-known cancer and tumor clinic in Texas.

We are here because my husband, who has had a complete physical every year since 1971, has inoperable prostate cancer. I am angry and bitter because no doctor, during 20 years of annual physical examinations that included a digital rectal examination, ever mentioned that there are blood tests which can detect prostate cancer.

We have been told that my husband has had this disease for at least seven to eight years. We also learned that if a man's brother or father has had prostate cancer, his chances of getting cancer are increased 2 1/2 times! In every medical questionnaire my husband has ever filled out, he stated that his father had died of prostatic cancer. (His brother was diagnosed last week with the same disease!)

We are hoping that our experience will educate others so they will not find themselves where we are. We strongly urge all "high risk" men to be examined by a urologist, because many physicians do not recognize prostate disease.

ANGRY AND BITTER

DEAR ANGRY AND BITTER: You have every right to be both angry and bitter, and I thank you for trying to warn others.

For readers who do not know what "high risk" means in this context, it refers to people whose blood relatives have been afflicted with the same disease.

DEAR ABBY: When a couple asks another couple to ride along with them, what is the proper seating? Should the wife automatically sit in front with her husband, or should she sit in the back with the other lady? Or should the couple whose car it is ask the other couple how they prefer to ride?

EDNA C. IN CARMAN, ILL.

DEAR EDNA: It depends on the circumstances — how well the couples know each other, the distance to be traveled and whether either of the couples are newlyweds. (Newlyweds usually prefer to sit together.)

The important factor in the seating arrangement is that everybody be pleased and comfortable. Couples who have a long friendship might prefer "one-on-one" conversation with the spouse of the same sex. My personal rule of thumb: When in doubt, sit with your own mate.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for insisting that a written thank-you note for a gift is still absolutely imperative. I was appalled when a reader suggested that a "warm hug and a verbal thank-you at the next chance meeting at church or a social function should be sufficient."

A child should be taught at a very early age to write a thank-you note. Writing improves finger coordination, penmanship and spelling, and helps to create a bond between the child and the giver.

In today's world of electronic communication — the telephone and fax — it is still necessary to record thoughts, events and instructions in writing. If a "tape" is erased, the message is lost forever. Therefore it is vital that we learn how to communicate in writing. And it all begins when a child is taught to write a thank-you note.

At 86, I am still writing.
M.S.P., SANTA ANA, CALIF.

Registration due now for next cosmetology class

Students interested in enrolling in the Western Texas College cosmetology course starting Sept. 3 are urged to complete the application process now. Judy Border, instructor said.

Persons planning to enroll should go to the Admissions Office to pick up the required forms. These forms should be completed by June 17 when prospective students will interview and take a pre-entrance exam.

Some financial aid is available for cosmetology students. Those forms require four to six weeks for processing and need to be filled out as quickly as possible for the September quarter.

Cosmetology students receive 1,500 hours of training in a 12-month period and are then eligible to take state Board of Cosmetology tests for licensing.

Government shaken up from the inside

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every once in a while, someone comes into government who declines to wear the gray flannel suit or speak the gray flannel words. He comes with a sense of mission. He makes waves.

The question that occurs is why these phenoms arrive so infrequently. Or is it a wonder that they arrive at all?

There are no statues in Washington of the C. Everett Koops, Joan Claybrooks and Nicholas Johnsons, but people still speak of them because they made a difference while they were here.

When Koop, a baby doctor, entered the Reagan administration as surgeon general, he put on a gold-braided white uniform and became a public scold.

He campaigned relentlessly against cigarettes. He said that while narcotics kill 12,000 people a year, "my enemy kills 350,000."

He irked the White House by writing, and mailing to every household in the country, a pamphlet graphically describing AIDS, but not moralizing about homosexuality.

Joan Claybrook took charge of a tiny government agency, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration — 796 employees — during the Carter administration and egged the auto industry into reluctant compliance on fuel economy and safety standards.

Carmakers called her "Big Sister," but the air bags that Detroit fought when she was in office it now touts in glossy magazine ads.

Lyndon Johnson put a young lawyer named Nicholas Johnson on the Federal Communications Commission. He charged his fellow commissioners with neglecting to ask broadcasters whether they were serving the public interest in any meaningful way.

Now comes David Kessler, 39, the commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, which oversees the safety and effectiveness of goods worth a quarter of the nation's gross national product.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Meader was looking for "eternal youth" when she asked a doctor for Retin A to erase the wrinkles around her eyes.

Instead, she spent the next two years trying to recover physically and emotionally from the burned skin and exaggerated wrinkles caused by a severe adverse reaction to the drug.

"This drug has caused me to lose 2½ years of normal activities in my life," said Meader, 44, of Saunderson, R.I.

She told her story Tuesday to a House panel that is examining the promotion of drugs and medical devices for unapproved purposes.

"Every day, thousands of lives are unnecessarily put at risk by the improper use of drugs or medical devices that have not been approved by the Food and Drug Administration," said Rep. Ted Weiss, chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee on human resources.

"While these risks may be acceptable if we are treating life-threatening diseases like AIDS or cancer, it is much harder to justify those risks if the potential benefits are cosmetic."

The subcommittee focused on the use of three products — Retin A, collagen and liquid silicone. Weiss said widespread use of the three "has resulted from illegal and improper promotion" and can cause potentially fatal diseases and disfigurement.

It is illegal for manufacturers to promote drugs for purposes other than those the Food and Drug Administration has approved for the label. However, doctors are free to use drugs for purposes beyond those on the label.

FDA Commissioner David Kessler told the subcommittee the agency will not tolerate promotions of drugs for unapproved uses.

"We need to stop the escalation of inappropriate promotional activities and make sure that consumers, as well as health professionals, are not misled," he said.

On the three drugs examined Tuesday, Kessler said:

—Retin A is approved for treating acne but not for preventing wrinkles. The FDA is concerned that chronic use of Retin

A "could potentially increase the risk of skin cancer."

—Collagen has been approved for certain cosmetic purposes, such as treating acne scars, but has been marketed for unapproved uses such as lip augmentation. Collagen Corp. has agreed to stop promoting this unapproved use.

—Liquid silicone injections, which are used to remove wrinkles and other facial deformities, have not been approved for any use. "This product is illegal and its use must stop," Kessler said.

A spokesman for Johnson & Johnson confirmed the Justice Department is investigating the alleged promotion of Retin A for unapproved uses. The drug is marketed by Ortho Pharmaceuticals, a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson.

"We believe that our dissemination of information about research in sun-damaged skin was proper and ensured that balanced, medically accurate information was made available to meet broad scientific, medical and public interest," company spokesman Robert Kniffin said.

Jeff Trewhitt, a spokesman for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, said the trade group opposes the promotion of drugs for so-called off-label uses.

Your Birthday

June 13, 1991

If you make doing the best job you possibly can your primary objective in the year ahead, your chances for making money will greatly improve. Conversely, if making money becomes your priority, you might not do as well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Circumstances could put you in a position today where the priorities of others take precedence over your interests. If this occurs, strive to make the most of a bad arrangement.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to be productive today, you must be methodical, thinking every move through carefully. A lack of proper organization could create additional work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone you recently met may not be all that you thought. It may be wise not to get too deeply involved too quickly with this individual.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to achieve meaningful goals today, you must be strongly motivated. If your basic attitude is indifference, success is likely to elude you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't present yourself as an authority today on issues about which you know little. Respect for you will diminish — if you can't back up what you say.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If it's necessary for you to buy something expensive today, be sure to do a fair share of comparison shopping. If you're impulsive or impatient, you could make a bum purchase.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This might not be one of your better days for dealing with others on a one-to-one basis. This is why individuals who are usually cooperative could be the ones opposing you the strongest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're likely to be a better rationalizer than producer today. Several responsibilities that require attention might be neglected.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful what you say to a sensitive friend today; if this individual perceives that you'd rather be sharing time with someone else, hurt feelings could result.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If subordinates aren't producing the way you think they should today, the fault could be yours. Give crystal-clear instructions and define your expectations in detail.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you do things against your better judgment today, you could be asking for trouble. Don't let anyone entice you into doing something you know you shouldn't.

Judge in Navratilova suit steps down

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The judge scheduled to hear a lawsuit in which tennis star Martina Navratilova is being sued by her former live-in companion has removed herself from the proceedings.

Civil Court Judge Catherine Gant declined to give her reasons for the recusal. But she told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in today's editions: "I can't tell you right now. I can tell you when it is over."

The lawsuit by Judy Nelson, who lived with the reigning Wimbledon women's singles champion from 1984 until this year, contends Navratilova violated terms of a "non-marital cohabitation agreement" dividing the couple's homes, jewelry, cars and pets.

Nelson filed the suit last week, contending that Navratilova violated a 1986 cohabitation agreement after the two split up last April.

Before recusing herself, Gant set a hearing on a temporary injunction for June 20. Judge Harry Hopkins will preside over that hearing.

Hopkins has set a hearing at 1:30 p.m. Friday on Navratilova's request for a continuance until after she has defended her Wimbledon title.

Cosell being treated for cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Cosell, noted for "telling it like it is" during a distinguished broadcast career, is undergoing treatment for cancer, a source told The Associated Press.

Cosell, 73, underwent surgery on Monday at Mount Sinai Hospital for removal of a cancerous tumor from his chest. The tumor was found to be malignant, the source said.

Cosell was released on Tuesday while doctors investigated possible methods of treatment.

A hospital spokeswoman refused comment on Tuesday.

Cosell, noted as a boxing announcer and as a member of the team that called Monday night NFL games, is currently an ABC radio announcer and author.

He recently co-authored a book entitled "What's Wrong With Sports?" with Shelby Whitfield, sports director for ABC Radio.

Whitfield, contacted at his home on Tuesday, wouldn't confirm the report, saying only that Cosell had recently been in Los Angeles and Chicago on a book promotion tour and in Israel for a vacation with his grandsons.

Ryan statue to be erected in Alvin

ALVIN, Texas (AP) — A bronze statue of Nolan Ryan could greet visitors to his hometown by early next year, Mayor Allen Gray says.

The life-size sculpture of Ryan winding up for a fastball will be erected at the City Hall entrance in downtown Alvin at a cost not to exceed $52,000, Gray said Tuesday.

The council recently voted 6-1 to approve the funds, provided the project gets approval from Major League Baseball and one of the teams for which Ryan has played is depicted on the statue. The statue has Ryan's approval, Gray said.

Ryan, who pitches for the Texas Rangers, also has played for the nearby Houston Astros, California Angels and New York Mets.

A native of Alvin, Ryan still resides here with his family. He is regarded as the hometown hero in this Brazoria County city of 15,000 people about 30 miles south of Houston.

To one game weekly...

UIL asked to limit basketball

AUSTIN (AP) — A University Interscholastic League committee has been asked for a recommendation on whether cutting back on the number of basketball games would improve students' classroom performances.

Small schools in the West Texas-South Plains area proposed that no team or student participate in more than one game a week, except for tournaments or district make-ups.

There would also be a limit of one invitational tournament per season.

Letters supporting limitations were addressed to George Price, superintendent at Roby, who apparently originated the proposal.

Those letters of support came from school officials at Trent,

Miles, Post, Hermleigh and Aspermont.

Hermleigh superintendent Jerry Church feels like midweek games are cutting into the students' class time.

"Basically, it's a lack of attentive students in class on Wednesday morning after a late road game on Tuesday," he said.

"It's just not fair to the kids to make them travel and get in late on weeknights and then expect them to be attentive the next school day."

"From an administrative standpoint, I'd like to see it pass," he continued. I'd kind of like to see the mid-week travel trimmed some."

Games would be played only on Thursday, Friday or Saturday, under the proposal submitted Tuesday to the UIL Committee on Athletics.

"For some time now I have felt that the number of games played in basketball is excessive," said Joe Giddens, Aspermont principal. "This has been evident as we have continued to put greater emphasis on students' academic performance."

"The late nights during the week certainly are an interference as well as costly.... I certainly do not feel that one game a week on Friday or Saturday would be an injustice to basketball," Giddens said.

But Tommy Newman, speaking for the basketball coaches association, said the one-game limitation would be a "disastrous step" toward de-emphasizing athletics in Texas.

"To take away the opportunity to play more than one game a week would lead many youths, particularly in the urban centers, away from the school teams and to club teams or to the streets," Newman said.

He said districts now are not required to play the maximum number of games, and added that "to restrict the entire state because of travel difficulties in only a few areas of the state would be a sad day for not just basketball but for education in the state of Texas."

The coaches association also said it was strongly opposed to any rule change that would allow students to participate concurrently on school and non-school teams.

Support for such participation came from Larry McGuire, youth minister at the First Baptist Church in Plano. McGuire said hundreds of Southern Baptist churches in Texas sponsor youth athletic events.

Opposition surfaced to a recent referendum that would lower the enrollment cutoff for six-man football from 95 students in high school to 75.

Other proposals prepared for the UIL athletics committee included:

— Sanctioning championship playoffs in fast pitch softball for girls.

— Creating North and South area track meets, after regional meets, with four individuals and four relays advancing to the state meet in each event from each area. The state meet would be moved back to the third week in May.

— Increasing from one to two the number of teams advancing from each region to state in team tennis.

Bulls look to close title series

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Michael Jordan's long wait should end tonight.

When he was a freshman, his North Carolina team won the NCAA title. Two years later, his U.S. Olympic team won a gold medal. Then the wait — six years without a championship — began.

"I was spoiled," he said, but "I was able to be patient" because he saw the Chicago Bulls progressing through those years.

Patience was a quality he needed the past two days.

A 97-82 win Sunday over Los Angeles gave the Bulls a 3-1 lead in the NBA Finals. Since then, the feeling has grown that the battered Lakers have little chance to survive tonight's fifth game of the best-of-7 series.

Jordan is holding his feelings in.

"I'm nervous and every now and then I get chill bumps thinking about the situation," he told reporters Tuesday, "but I'm not going to let you guys see that. I'm going to be really cool about it ... until it actually happens."

"Then I think the inside and the outside are going to be the same."

An NBA title is one of the few things Jordan didn't achieve as he grew into basketball's best player, winning his second most valuable player award this season. The Bulls' franchise also has waited a long time as it closes in on the first title in its 25-year history.

No team has won a Finals after trailing 3-1. The Bulls have been smooth on offense and smothering on defense, outscoring the Lakers 99.8 to 89.3 points per game and outshooting them 52.5 percent to 43.3.

Los Angeles has lost three straight games and been dominated and decimated in two of them. It may have to rely on its weak bench if injured starters James Worthy and Byron Scott can't play tonight.

"The momentum in this sport is so hard to counteract," Jackson said. "As matchups and game plans develop, situations come about where you know how you can stop them and you know how to score."

Country club golf winners are named

Winners from Sunday Couples golf and Friday Swingers competition at Snyder Country Club were announced this morning.

Bear and Peggy Hardin captured first place in First Flight in Sunday play followed by Bob and Bobbie Hargrove in second position.

Second Flight winners included Murray and Polly Bowden in first and John and Susie Miller in the runner-up spot.

Top honors in Third Flight belong to Mackey Greene and Judy Moss while Randy Hill and Donna Greene claimed second place.

The Millers also claimed first place in Friday Swingers play. Mark and Kaye Cypert grabbed second, Larry and Betty Hildreth came in third while fourth position went to Bill and Judy Moss.

Volcano erupts in Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Mount Pinatubo erupted with five thundering explosions today, shooting a giant plume of ash more than 12 miles high. Molten rock and hot gas poured from the volcano, and nearby residents fled in panic.

Today's first explosion began at 8:40 a.m. with a tremendous blast that sent forth a mushroom cloud. It was followed by a second explosion a few minutes later and a third, smaller blast at 11:49 a.m.

A huge plume 12 1/2 miles high could be seen in Manila, 60 miles to the south, and reporters at the scene said it blocked out the sun. The cloud drifted westward into the South China Sea.

Two more thundering explosions rocked Mount Pinatubo late today. The Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology said the blasts occurred at 10:52 p.m. and 11:05 p.m. The first explosion sent a plume of ash and steam 80,000 feet into the sky.

Estranged wife
kills girlfriend

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman accused of shooting her estranged husband argued with the man's alleged girlfriend in a hospital waiting room, then pulled a gun from her bra and fatally shot the girlfriend, police said.

Police were at Ben Taub Hospital attending to victims of a previous shooting when the violence erupted in the crowded emergency waiting room about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday.

The victim, who was shot in the chest and arm, died at 10:40 p.m., said hospital spokesman Roger Widmeyer.

"The staff, of course, is quite shaken up. But they are back to their work habits now," Widmeyer said. "Perhaps we were lucky that no one else was injured."

A 32-year-old woman was in custody today.

The names of the victims and the suspect were not immediately released by police.

Period routine
for local police

Snyder police experienced a routine day Tuesday and early this morning, making three arrests and handling one minor accident.

At 5:15 p.m., police arrested two males for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, attempted auto theft and misdemeanor theft. (See related article, page 1).

Police also arrested a 37-year-old male at Snyder Nursing Center at 1:41 a.m. today for driving while intoxicated.

At 6:22 p.m. Tuesday, police worked a minor accident in the Furr's parking lot. Involved were a parked and unoccupied 1990 Chevrolet pickup owned by Todd Odom of P.O. Box 18 in Ira and a parked and unoccupied 1982 Cadillac owned by Steve Alexander of 2903 34th St.

Police also filed a report against a local woman at 4:06 a.m. Tuesday after another woman came to the department with a complaint. Police filed a report of disorderly conduct-obsessive gestures against the woman and advised her to be in Municipal Court today.

Among the more routine calls police responded to were 13 calls of motorists having locked their keys in cars.

Vernell Browning

1920-1991

Services are set for 2 p.m. Thursday at Victory Baptist Church for Vernell Browning, 70, a lifetime resident of Snyder. The Rev. Pat Githens, pastor, will officiate. Burial will follow in the Snyder Cemetery.

Mrs. Browning died at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock following a lengthy illness.

Born in Snyder on Dec. 17, 1920, she was married to Jimmie Browning on Feb. 22, 1950. She worked for several years as an LVN at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, and was a Baptist.

Mrs. Browning was preceded in death by a son, Larry Lewis in September of 1964.

Survivors include her husband, Jimmie of the home; one daughter, Brenda Row; one brother, J.W. Edmonson; one grandson, Craig Row; and her mother-in-law, Mrs. J.C. Browning, all of Snyder.

E.A. Oden

1917-1991

COLORADO CITY — Services are set for 10 a.m. Thursday at the First Baptist Church for E.A. "Sam" Oden, 73, who died Tuesday at his home in Westbrook. Burial will follow in the Westbrook Cemetery.

He was the brother of Jo Williams of Snyder and Aeron Oden of Dunn.

Born in Richland, he was retired from Cosden Oil Refinery. He also farmed and was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Amber Oden of Westbrook; a daughter, Maritha Blalock of Stanton; two sons, Tim Oden of Colorado City and Sammy Oden of Midland; three other sisters, Sylva Glasgow, Wanda Fraley and Maritha Bohall, all of Sweetwater, five other brothers, Jack Oden of Odessa, Marion Oden of Oklahoma, Walter Oden of Loraine, Norman Oden of Arizona and David Oden of Brownwood; and four grandchildren.

A Filipino serving with the U.S. Navy became the first reported fatality related to the eruption when his car collided with a bus on an ash-slicked road north of the Subic Bay naval base.

Tens of miles to the east, hundreds of Americans fled Clark Air Base, home to 15,000 American military personnel and their families. Most of the base's residents had been evacuated Monday.

Clark did not appear threatened by volcanic flow.

Scientists warned of more, possibly larger eruptions from the 4,795-foot volcano, which was dormant for six centuries until it began spewing steam in April.

"This could only be the beginning," said Raymundo Punongbayan, director of the Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology.

Residents of nearby Angeles panicked when a huge gray-greenish mushroom cloud burst from the volcano and turned day to night, and thousands of fleeing people packed roads.

Seismologists said searing gas, ash and molten rock raced at great speed down the mountain's western and northern slopes. They said most of the debris flowed into the Marella, Marauot and O'Donnell rivers and that there had been no reports that property or homes had been damaged.

About 3,000 Aeta tribesmen, descendants of the original inhabitants of the Philippines, fled the slopes of Mount Pinatubo.

At a refugee center in Olongapo, 35 miles southwest of the volcano, survivors told of the sky growing dark, then of hearing a tremendous explosion followed by a rain of ash.

Dad kills 2 sons in standoff

HOUSTON (AP) — A father who killed his two children in a standoff with police himself died of gunshot wounds, including at least one self-inflicted when he shot his 6-month-old son.

Jose Millan Sr., 37, also was shot by police who had watched him put a .357-caliber Magnum pistol to the head of his second son, 23 months old, and pull the trigger, instantly killing the child. Millan died early today at Ben Taub Hospital.

Tactical officers were frustrated in their efforts to intervene in what began as a domestic dispute because the man used his children as a shield, police said.

"Due to his proximity to the children, it was extremely difficult for the (SWAT team) officers to get a good shot," said police spokesman Sgt. Richard J. Retz.

Officers were called to a southeast Houston neighborhood about 6 p.m. Tuesday by Millan's estranged wife, who said Millan was trying to kidnap her two sons, Chris, 6 months, and Jose Jr., 23 months.

When officers arrived, Millan and both boys were inside a gray Chevrolet van parked on the street in front of the Millan house. Police said Millan had fired several shots in the house and was using both boys as shields.

tion officials said. It was high in the Siberian regions of Irkutsk, Kemerovo and Novosibirsk, the official Tass news agency reported, without giving figures.

Many reformers believe the Communists flooded the field with "spoiler" candidates to prevent a first-round victory by Yeltsin, who quit the Communist Party in July after being elected chairman of the republic's legislature.

A second round would be held within two weeks if no one wins an outright majority.

Preliminary results in the election, in which paper ballots are hand-counted, are not expected before Thursday.

Child in ICU
after accident

A five-year-old Snyder boy — who was injured in a fall from a diving board Tuesday — was undergoing treatment in the pediatric intensive care unit of a Lubbock hospital today.

Kameron Harrison was transferred to St. Mary of the Plains Hospital by Snyder EMS just after noon Tuesday for treatment of a broken jaw and facial lacerations. Harrison sustained the injuries in a fall from the high diving board at Western Texas College. The child reportedly slipped from the board and hit the concrete.

The fall occurred at approximately 10 a.m. during swimming lessons at the pool conducted by the boy's father, Mike Harrison, also pool director.

The elder Harrison took his son to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for initial treatment and X-rays.

In other hospital activity, two people were treated and released for injuries sustained in a rural motor vehicle accident.

At 5:12 p.m., Nineteen-year-old Nanette Sanchez of Hermleigh was taken to Cogdell by Snyder EMS following the accident, two miles east on Hwy. 180. Jacob Sanchez, 10, also of Hermleigh arrived at Cogdell later by private vehicle. Both were treated for minor injuries and released.

There also was mayoral balloting in Moscow and Leningrad, where radical reformers and Yeltsin allies Gavril Popov and Anatoly Sobchak are running for offices that, like the Russian presidency, now have expanded executive powers.

Overseas matters on Bush's agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Persian Gulf War fading from the horizon, President Bush is trying to convince Americans that he cares as much about problems at home as he does about crises overseas.

Bush openly acknowledges that his heart is in foreign affairs, but polls show the public cares much more deeply about the economy, the nation's schools, spiraling health care costs, drug abuse and crime. Those are the issues that Americans say will determine how they vote.

Frequently accused of lacking solutions for domestic woes, Bush will go on the offensive tonight in a speech at the White House. He is expected to attack Congress for failing to meet his challenge to pass legislation within 100 days dealing with crime and transportation.

More than 1,000 people were invited to the White House to hear Bush's speech on the South Lawn. The event also is sure to turn into a birthday celebration as the president marks his 67th birthday.

The four television networks shelved any plans to carry the address live at 8 p.m. EDT after the White House said Bush would not announce any new initiatives.

The deadline — which Bush set in a March 6 address to Congress after the war — expires Friday. The president has made the crime bill a frequent subject of his speeches but rarely mentions the highway bill.

The highway bill has just gotten to the Senate floor, and the crime bill is expected to be debated after the highway measure passes.

Democrats already are complaining that Bush's 100-day deadline is a political gimmick. Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, said Tuesday the deadline is "a purely arbitrary date picked by the president for what, it now is obvious, was a political reason."

Congress aside, there is no shortage of complaints about Bush's handling of domestic issues.

"If you held a gun to my head, I frankly cannot say one good thing about George Bush in the area of domestic policy," said Colin Campbell, head of Georgetown University's graduate public policy program.

"On virtually all of the crunch issues, the administration has seemed to run away from some sort of effort to resolve the matters rather than to hit them head on."

Martin Anderson, who was President Reagan's first domestic policy adviser, said Bush lacks a sound economic policy that would be the foundation of a domestic agenda.

"You've got a lot of nice ornaments, but you don't have a structure," Anderson said.

The scope of the problems are staggering.

—Upwards of 37 million Americans have no health insurance, and health care expenses are one of the fastest-rising costs.

—The nation's unemployment rate, after holding steady at around 5.3 percent for the first year of Bush's presidency, has soared to 6.9 percent, pushing another 1.7 million Americans onto jobless lines.

—The latest cost estimate of the savings and loan bailout skyrocketed to $150 billion, more than triple what Bush estimated when he took office.

—The overall crime rate has slipped fractionally since Bush took office, but the murder rate has risen dramatically.

DEAR READER: I've been diagnosed with a muscle disease called polymyositis that is being treated with prednisone. What can you tell me about this disease?

DEAR READER: Polymyositis, a muscle disease of unknown cause, is one of many autoimmune diseases (such as lupus and scleroderma) marked by the body's inappropriate reaction to its own tissues.

Patients with polymyositis experience muscle pain, inflammation and weakness. The affliction may be associated with malignant tumors elsewhere in the body, and often overlaps with related diseases, such as progressive systemic sclerosis and vasculitis (blood vessel inflammation).

State's prison reform plan said rejected

HOUSTON (AP) — The Legislature's $500 million prison reform plan may have hit a stumbling block, with Harris County's decision to refuse the state's offer to ease local jail overcrowding.

The Harris County Commissioners Court voted Tuesday to refuse the state's offer to ease the number of state prisoners crowding local jail cells.

Last month, lawmakers approved a bill that would end lawsuits against the state over inmate backlogs. Twelve counties are suing in state courts to force the state to take thousands of felons currently held in local jails. A separate federal suit was filed over Harris County's jail overcrowding.

But a provision in the bill holds that if all of the counties involved in the lawsuits do not agree to a settlement by June 15, the bill automatically dies.

The state is offering to accept all its prisoners from overcrowded county jails by Sept. 1, 1995.

Additional symptoms include rash, arthritis, fever, malaise and weight loss.

The diagnosis is suspected from the symptoms, verified by blood tests (which show abnormal proteins and other abnormalities) and confirmed by electromyography (electrical testing of muscles) and muscle biopsy.

The prognosis varies. Some patients, especially children, may experience a mild form of the disease, interspersed with long periods of remission; other patients, notably those with underlying heart or lung disease, may succumb quickly from complications, such as pneumonia.

Prednisone (a type of cortisone) is the treatment of choice and almost always leads to improvement in muscle strength and an overall feeling of well-being. Obviously, if polymyositis is secondary to a tumor, the malignancy must be treated with surgery, radiation or chemotherapy before the muscle disease can be controlled. Maintenance prednisone therapy is the rule, although the dose is adjusted until benefits with the lowest dose are achieved.

Because there is wide variation in the severity of the disease and patients' responses to therapy, I urge you to question your doctor about your specific case.
