Five Jurors For Glenny Case

BOND ISSUE OF $800,000 MAY BE ASKED HERE

Property Owners Petition City Council to Call An Election

SEEK AUDITORIUM

This And Sewage Disposal Plant Will Be Included

A sewage disposal plant for Wichita Falls and a city auditorium with space for public gatherings and a public market place loomed just one step nearer last night following the presentation to the city council of a petition signed by 65 Wichita Falls' largest property owners requesting an election on an $800,000 bond issue to provide forthosethings.

Presented by Marlow.

The petition was presented by J. B. Marlow, former mayor, who made an eloquent plea in its behalf. He stressed Wichita Falls' growing position and the constantly recurring need for both hte sewage dispolsal plant and the auditorium. Mr. Marlow was thanked by Mayor Shepherd for his interest in the matter and the petition was taken under consideration. City Engineer Rugely was instructed to go into the matter of the sewage disposal plant. The petition points out that the assessment per hundre dollar valuation in Wichita Falls would be increased only 15 cents by the passage of such a bond issue. The petition excited considerable comment at the council table from which it may be inferred that action on the petition will not be long delayed.

In detail the petition lists the $800,000 bond issue to be divided as follows, $200,000 for the sewage disposal plant, $100,000 for street improvement, $50,000 for sewage extension, and $450,000 for the auditorium and market place.

Prominent Names.

The names of A. H. Britain, former president of the chamber of commerce; W. S. Curlee, former councilman and president of the Wichita Falls Real Estate Board; J. L. Jackson Jr., and others appeared on the petition.

Those close to city officials last night were of the opinion a call for such an election as requested would be made in a short time.

T. U. Regents On Verge of Fight Over Oil Funds

And it Was Just 100 Degrees Here All Day Monday

DENVER, June 8.—(AP)—Snow plows were put into service on the Denver and Salt Lake track for trains over the continental divide.

Fourteen inches of snow fell at Corona Saturday and Saturday night. It was driven by a high wind that caused the formation of great drifts. Snow plows had to be run ahead of trains to open the way.

The mercury last night at Corona, the "top 'o the world" dropped to 28 degrees above zero.

It has been many years since it was necessary to send snow plows out on the road as late as June 7.

Stormy Session Predicted Monday When Regan Issue Comes Up

AUSTIN, June 8.—(AP)—Indications that the university board of regents' meeting tomorrow will be a stormy one when divergent factions present their views on the oil royalties problems and the best way of solving the question, were made today as members of the board arrived in Austin.

Padelford Leads

One faction, headed by S. C. Padelford of Fort Worth is in favor of not only leaving the present one-eighth royalty given the state on the Reagan county wells in the permanent fund, but in favor of cancelling the present leases with the Big Lake Oil company and retaining the entire output of the wells for the permanent fund. He is said to be joined by M. H. Royston of Galveston and Chairman H. J. L. Stark of Chicago.

Another faction, said to be headed by R. G. Story of Dallas, and joined by Sam Nethery of McKinney, is in favor of testing the bill of the Thirty-ninth legislature which would transfer the royalties into the university building fund. This bill was held unconstitutional by Attorney General Dan Moody, but signed by the governor when she said Mr. Moody was drawing a "hair line distinction," but Comptroller S. H. Terrell followed the ruling of the attorney general and refused to certify the royalties into the available fund and thus make them available for immediate use.

Funds Mount

Since Mr. Terrell refused to deposit warrants the funds have mounted to $230,275.97.

The special committee charged with the task of evolving a plan of forcing an issue on the bill, which includes Messrs. Storey, chairman; Nethery, Padelford and Royston, has been divided on the issue, which is said to explain the delay in announcing the course of action.

Marrs Must Recognize Contracts Entered Into By Commission

AUSTIN, June 8.—The state board of education today lost its fight to cancel free text books contracts valued at approximately $1,500,000 made by the text book commission at its December meeting when the state supreme court in a special sitting granted writs of mandamus to force the state superintendent of public instruction to recognize the contracts to each of the eight publishing compaies that had filed suits.

HOT DAY IN WICHITA

City Gets One of Hottest Days of Year Yesterday.

Part of the heat wave that has made things uncomfortable in the north and east reached down to Texas Monday and gave Wichita Falls a baptism of fire. It was one of the hottest days this year.

Absence of the stiff breeze that has prevailed for two weeks was probably the main factor in the rise intemperature. Little wind prevailed to keep things cooled off, and accordingly thermometers soared.

The weather bureau's prediction for Tuesday was continued fair and warm.

Judge Carl, Long Missing, Sent To Austin Hospital

AUSTIN, June 8.—Garbed in the drab gray clothing of an asylum inmate, Judge J. F. Carl, one-time distinguished member of the San Antonio bar and secretery of the state council of defense during the war, returned to Austin Sunday.

Carl, who was brought here and placed in charge of physicians at the Oaks, local sanitarium, by his brothers, does not seem to remember anything that has happened during the last 10 months, or since his disappearance from Austin, when his clothing was found on the bank of Lake Austin near the dam.

Further Investigation

Sheriff W. D. Miller is going out to the sanitarium Tuesday morning to further interview Carl. The man was located at Barstow, Ward county, when he was found wandering around the town. Papers in his pockets indicated that he was from San Antonio. Barstow police communicated with San Antonio police and Carl's brothers were notified.

Remembers Nothing

"Carl remembers nothing," Miller said Monday night. "He continually repeats the name of some physicians and we have been trying to connect that name with some state institution, but so far, we have been unsuccessful. He does not know where he came from, nor does he remember where he went after leaving Austin some time ago."

Carl's condition is said to be serious, due to worry and lack of treatment during the past several months. Tags, buttons, and identification of any kind had been cut from Carl's clothing.

4-Pounds in Weight, Babe May Live Thru Milk-Ice Fund Help

The Record News Milk and Ice fund of 1925 has already demonstrated its value in one case.

Commandant Johnson of the Salvation Army came in abeaming Monday after a trip to a humble home where a tiny mite of humanity, weighing only four pounds and, by his own assertion, 'just about big enough to fit in a teacup," was believed to be on the road to health and growth as a result of milk furnished it from the fund. The mother was utterly destitute; her purse was empty and the larder stripped. It looked like lean days for the newborn babe, but through the milk and ice fund agency the Salvation Army provided an abundance of sweet, pure milk. The youngster will be looked after until it is reasonably certain of life.

More "cash" contributions came into The Record News office Monday and will be turned over to the Army officials at once. Hot days are ahead—the thermometer reached 100 yesterday—and there are scores of other cases, not quite as bad as the one chronicled above but which neverthe less are pitiable that need attention.

Hundreds of visitors from all parts of the state were here to hold conferences with the commissioners. They swarmed the land office, where the private hearings were held. It was unofficially reported that a proposed bond issue for Walker county of about $1,000,000 and proposed state and federal aid to that county for $800,000 was under discussion.

Another Project

Another project presented to the commission was the proposal to complete the Waco-Beaumont highway from Corrigan, by way of Chester, Woodville and Kountze, instead of through Liberty on highway number 40, as designated. This would eliminate the necessity of building a $150,000 to $2,000,000 bridge over the Nueces river, R. M. Barns of Chester said.

Henrietta Man Goes On Trial For Murder Of His Son

NEW VENIRE CALLED

First 100 Exhausted, 50 More to Report To Judge Stine

HENRIETTA, June 8.—Five jurors, the gleanings from an original venire of one hundred talesmen of which only 59 appeared, were the results of the first day's arial of Charles Glenny of Byers, indicted for the murder of his 20-year-old son, Robert, last April 11. The case is being tried in the 98th district court before Judge Vincent Stine.

The jurors selected are:

J. D. Champion, Joy, farmer, age 50, married.

Lee Gilbreth, Joy, farmer, age 52, married.

C. Ford, Shannon, farmer, age 47, married.

Luther Young, Petrolia, furniture dealer, age 35, married.

Wm. Barnett, Vashti, farmer, age 46, married.

Court was adjourned shortly before 5 o'clock when the venire was exhausted. A special venire of 50 men was ordered called for 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Witnesses who were excused yesterday were also ordered to report at the same time.

State Asks Death.

The state will seek the death penalty while the defense will plead temporary insanity, it was indicated in the early proceedings, and questioning of talesmen served to bear this out. The plea of the defense was first seen in the motion made by defense attorneys for a continuance; owing to the absence of material witnesses, among them the mother of Glenny, who would testify that Glenny was subjects to fits of temporary insanity. This motion was denied by Judge Vincent Stine.

The state questioned each veniremen closely regarding conscientious scruples against the death penalty. A number were dismissed because of avowed disbelief in capital punishment. The defense injected the phase of self defense in their questioning, bearing out to some extent the belief that Glenny would depend for acquittal on the fact that the dead boy was said to have held a pistol in his hand at the time of the shooting.

The state used two of its peremptory challenges while the defense dismissed six via this route.

Delay Comes.

Questioning of veniremen was delayed until after 1 o'clock, due to a motion made early in the morning for a continuance. Judge Stine gave the defense until 11 o'clock to write out their motion for a continuance. At that time, however, Glenny's lawyers appeared and said they were not yet ready. The time was set back two more hours until 1 o'clock, and witnesses dismissed for the day.

The motion for a continuance was made on the grounds that material witnesses essential to the Glenny cause were absent and could not appear for some time. The motion set up the fact that the defendant's mother, Mrs. O. E. Glenny, is ill and will be unable to testify in the event the trial continued.

Attorneys claimed that her evidence would be that on ehe evening prior to the fatal shooting she had been with her son and at that time he had shown no intention of killing his boy, and that though he held some resentment against the youth, he had not been violent.

Furthermore, they claimed her testimony would show that 15 years ago, Glenny had been struck on the head by a pump handle and since that time had been subject to violent fits of wrath in which he was not responsible for his actions. These "insane spells," as the motion called them, became noticeable when the defendant was agitated or disturbed.

Other absent witnesses, which the defense set forth were material were: Hiram Vaugher of Byers, O. M. Seals, Mr. and Mrs. Garret Mayes of Oklahoma City; Dr. Calhoun of Dallas, the physician, it was stated, who treated the defendant at the time of the injury to his head; Brit Lippcott of Lubbock, Perry Kajoe and a negro youth, Mrs. B. L. Harris of Fort Worth, Monk Taylor of Temple, Okla., and G. W. Byers.

The testimony of Kajoe and the negro both will be used, the defense argued, to prove that Glenny's former wife, now divorced, had at one time hired the two to kill Glenny for $25. The motion set forth that the two men took the defendant on a badger hunt and would have carried out their plot had not Glenny suspected them and returned to his home.

Judge Stine carefully read the petition and then announced that the trial would proceed. Several of the venire had been examined before the first juror was accepted. Practically all the talesmen were farmers and married, those that were not the defense strove to have disqualified by cause, but failed in three cases and was forced to use challenges. The state used its two challenges on married men.

Each prospective juror was questioned closely regarding his knowledge of the case, regarding his scruples against the death penalty, against circumstantial evidence, and

RUPERT HUGHES ON DESTINY.

In his latest production "Destiny," Rupert Hughes, the novelist, essays the task of overthrowing the doctrine of free will. He attacks this old established truth blithely and in a rollicking fashion, not at all inclined to regard it too seriously. Always a good story teller he manages to make readable matter out of a construction based upon the stale idea of a triangle formed by a spoiled rich girl, a faithful, but unappreciated friend and the uncouth figure of a primitive man. The expected happens, of course, the rich girl recoiling from her strange lover, and accepting her true and tried friend. This is a very commonplace ending, and it may be wondered how it can prove anything in an argument for blind inexorable destiny.

But Mr. Hughes has made this ending the culminating point of an argument that the lives of human beings in a complex civilization cannot be altered for the better even by Divine Providence. Providence is made to enter into his story by the device of having the angel of derision and the angel of scorn to occupy respectively the bodies of his heroine and his wild man. These angels had looked with contempt upon human life on the earth in a prologue to the main story. They are given an opportunity to change it as they think best. They fail utterly in their endeavor, and from this the author would have us believe that there is no such thing as free will.

Such a surprising turn is decidedly amusing. It has always been supposed that free will guaranteed to the individual the right to determine his own fate. If an angel could take possession of one's personality and absolutely rule it in defiance of the motives and impulses which commonly govern it, then we should, indeed, have an instance of the power of destiny as philosophers have conceived it to be. Mr. Hughes, however, sees the whole subject of human behavior and divine ordinance in quite a different light. He evidently thinks that free will is a bore because it is accompanied by responsibility, and since the sense of moral obligation has been implanted in man by the Creator this is what must be gotten rid of in order to destroy the idea of any overruling of human actions.

Consequently Mr. Hughes puts in the place of the sense of moral obligation the despotic demands of the physical constitution influenced by inherited instincts, environment and a mesh of circumstances. It never occurs to Mr. Hughes that for the human mind to operate amid all these complexities requires choice, and adherence in making choices to some kind of binding sense of right or wrong. Without a centrally controlling principle such as freedom of will or moral obligation, our intricate modern life would jam like a machine which had slipped its gears.

Since Mr. Hughes really misunderstands the problem with which he attempts to deal, it may be said that he actually confutes himself. A novelist to be a good writer must be true to the facts of life as he has seen them, even if he is not true to philosophical principles. Accordingly, in developing his story, Mr. Hughes has his wilful heroine to acquire self-knowledge and a certain amount of self-distrust. In order to keep her life pleasant and happy she learns at the last not to embark upon a foolish adventure with the man from the mountains. She comes to consider romance with death as a final ending, as a way out of difficulties. But she does want to live and be happy. So she makes her choice, which is the only rational choice for her to make, and marries her patient friend. This surely is not blind destiny, but free will as it operates sanely and not extravagantly in the world of men.

THE PRESIDENT'S ANNAPOLIS ADDRESS.

In addressing the graduating class of the Naval academy at Annapolis, President Coolidge said so much of peace and war that he provided abundant material for the advocates of all shades of pacifism as well as the proponents of various degrees of preparation. Taken as a whole, however, what the president said seems a sane and temperate exposition of national security with, on the one hand, a due amount of military preparation without aggressive gestures, and on the other an advancement of peaceful concerns without trenching dangerously upon pacifist theories. He disclaimed alike that a huge armament could absolutely prevent war, and that harmless intentions could serve as an adequate defense. His position was that we must seek to progress along the lines of truth and justice, believing that reason must finally prevail, while we take care to maintain a minimum defense to protect us from the possible assaults of an enemy.

Speaking to the graduates of Annapolis of the necessity to maintain a body of experts in the military profession, Mr. Coolidge declared, "the true spirit of American institutions requires that each citizen should be potentially a soldier, ready to take his place in the ranks in time of peril, either in the field or in the necessary productive activity. It is exactly because we wish to keep our standing forces small that the average citizen must give some attention to military affairs, precisely as he gives some attention to other government affairs, in order that he may express a deliberate and informed judgment at the ballot box. . . . Though ultimately I believe peace will prevail I have too much knowledge of the history of mankind and too much experience with the traits of human nature to dare to assert that we shall never again be engaged in war."

War will remain at least a possibility even in the best state of established peace. Such a possibility will have to be taken into account, and the people best able to meet it when it does become an actuality will contribute most to the maintenance of peace as they will also enjoy the greatest security when peace is broken. Military preparation which is neither extravagant nor threatening is a necessity to progress and to good relations with our neighbors. It gives us confidence at home and assurance abroad. Feeling ourselves secure we are not suspicious of the purposes and intentions of other peoples, nor are we fearful, hesitant and inconsistent in the policies which we adopt toward the rest of the world. Firm and sure, with the respect of others as we have our own, we can give ourselves unreservedly to the upbuilding of civilization and be ready to defend it when it is menaced.

EXPENSES OF FUNERALS.

When Mrs. Lydia Harding Hammond died last January, she stated in her will that she did not want her children to spend money foolishly on funeral display. They were to bury her cheaply, to wear no mourning, and to think of her as living happily in heaven and not dead. She added:

"Don't keep anything just because it is mine. They are just things, and worn and shabby at that. Love does not need such things for remembrance."

It is the custom in some circles almost to impoverish the remaining family under the feeling that they are doing honor to those that are dead.

While it is just to pay the dead all respect it is a question whether the dead would wish so much respect shown that the living would be impoverished.

With funerals, as with everything else, the simpler the better.

Surely death is no time for vulgar display or for show. The dead certainly do not want it and it is of questionable advantage to the living.

The funeral which is conducted with simplicity and severe plainness will have dignity and impress people more than one on which a lot of money is spent.

The custom of erecting costly monuments carries the distinction of class and property into the graveyard. If democracy should be anywhere it should be in death. There the prince and pauper are equal, and the worms prey alike upon the king and the beggar maid.

The occasion of death should be the last place for display or precedence.

ONE LAW FOR ALL.

Joseph Lieter of Chicago, multi-millionaire and citizen of the world, maintains a summer palace in Massachusetts. He was indicted by a federal grand jury for possessing whiskey and five of his retinue of servants were indicted with him. He appeared before a federal judge, entered a plea of guilty and a fine of $500 was imposed by the court.

His five associates in law invasion may be given jail sentences, unless the judge is in a merciful mood and lets them off with a fine instead of imprisonment. If a fine is imposed, then the multi-millionaire will pay it.

Joseph Leiter is the son of the late Levi Leiter, who for 50 years was the first among the merchant princes of Chicago, and a daughter of Levi became the wife of the late Lord Curzon.

Levi Leiter, despite the Hebraic ring to his name was not of the tribe of God's chosen people. He was a Vermonter of Puritan ancestry, and when it came to plain living he was of the Coolidge brand of plain living.

John Barleycorn is on the run. Rum row has been smashed, and now a federal judge hands a neat fine to a multi-millionaire who insists that his is the American privilege to keep his cellar well stocked. Gone are the good old days.

NEW JERSEY WOMEN MAKE DEMANDS.

New Jersey club women are going to introduce a bill at the next legislature of their state in which they will seek sex equality in property rights. At this time a wife in New Jersey has only a third life interest in her husbands property after he dies but the husband, when the wife dies, has full life interest in the property of his departed spouse. In addition to this the proposed measure would give both husband and wife equal interest in property regardless of whether there are children or not.

Birth control is advocated by many of the feminine leaders of New Jersey. Mrs. Robertson-Jones, one of their leaders, says with birth control there would be no baby farms nor would there be child labor and so many dependents upon the community.

Republicans controlled the New Jersey legislature. Republican women leaders say there are twenty-one members of the New Jersey state senate and there are twenty-two seats on the floor. This extra seat is occupied by an agent of the manufacturers of New Jersey and he dictates the laws of the state.

If so, are the people the masters?

Uncommon Sense

Shutting Out Health.

The man or woman without any organic trouble who cannot keep well in summer needs advice.

Nature's idea is that the race shall live mostly in the open air.

The time may come when she will adapt the human body for indoor life but it is so many centuries away that no one need to be making any preparations for it.

Fresh air and sunshine are intended for direct external and internal use. There are no substitutes for them. They cannot be imitated.

The ordinary two weeks holiday sets people up and makes them come back to work with a renewed interest in their job not because of the rest that they afford, but because they are commonly spent outdoors, where the lungs are constantly filled with fresh air, and where such parts of the body as are exposed get the benefit of the sunlight.

One of the great blessings of daylight saving is that it enables workers to have more time out doors, and to live as Nature intended them to.

Not far from my house lives a man who is eighty-five years old and who, every day of his life except during storms or gales, rows a boat around to a chain of lobster pots he maintains, or when lobsters are out of season snatches clams from the bottom of the sea with a long handled rake.

He has been doing this summer and winter since he was a boy.

He has looked about fifty years old ever since I have known him, which is more than twenty years.

And, excepting in very foul weather, he has probably not in all that time been indoors save to sleep and eat his meals.

The way things are organized it is not possible for everybody to employ this easy means of longevity, but it is possible for them to keep outdoors much more than they do, both in summer and winter.

The danger of catching cold, which is real indeed if one remains too much indoors is practically negligible to those who are accustomed to being outside a great deal.

This is natural, for the currents of pure air which sweep through the lungs soon dispose of germs.

Those who can, ought to sleep outdoors or with windows wide open, to take as much exercise as possible in the open air, and to avoid close and ill ventilated rooms as they would avoid the pestilence.

Once a germ colony is lodged and at work it is hard to eradicate. The best way to do is to keep it out, and that can be most successfully accomplished by spending all the time possible outdoors.

It has been found that bad cases of tuberculosis can be cured by the sun and air, and all physicians know that most of the other ills from which the majority of their patients suffer can be prevented if the same treatment is practiced all the year around.

To live indoors is to shut out health. To live outdoors is to maintain it, and to hold it against most of the assaults of disease

What Today Means to You

Gemini.

The favorable planetary aspects that prevailed towards the latter part of yesterday continue with unabated force, today, and the signs denote, with a clearness that cannot be mistaken, that conditions will prevail which will not only incite to exceptional effort, but give the necessary courage to "carry on" to a successful end. Everything related to business or the home is exceptionally favored, and, without fear or trepidation, you can today put your shoulder to the wheel, and accomplish something really worth while. If you have been hesitating about making a declaration of love, or have been longing to receive one, the signs denote that you will be urged to make the one, and destined to be offered the latter.

An exceptionally healthy infancy, but a serious illness during adolescence, with, finally, a vigorous maturity is, according to all indications, the fate of a child born today. In order to guard against the dangers of the predicted illness, this child should at the indicated period, be restrained from excessive or violent exercise. Temperamentally, this offspring of yours will be extremely introspective, and always disposed to take too serious a view of things in general, and of its own life and doings in particular. To offset this tendency, it should be encouraged, and, if necessary, forced to associate with others of a similar age.

Those who celebrate the anniversary of their birthday today are, in character, strong-willed and determined, while, in disposition, they are affable, and quite able, at all times, to stand their own ground, without giving or causing offense. Their powers of concentration are exceptional, while their persistency never allows them to "give up" until the goal is attained. Not only are they inherently capable of handling big problems but they possess a wonderful capacity for details, no matter how insignificant or trivial they may appear to be. They are commercially practical, without any artistic tendencies and with very little sense of humor, and are eminently qualified to fill any position that calls for high executive ability.

They rightly enjoy much popularity in their own immediate circle, as they have dispositions that are generous, kind, and affectionate, and are not only intelligent, but entertaining.

POEMS THAT LIVE

LINES

Often rebuked, yet always back returning
To those first feelings that were born with me,
And leaving busy chase of wealth and learning
For idle dreams of things which cannot be;

Today, I will not seek the shadowy region;
Its unsustaining vastness waxes drear;
And visions rising, legion after legion,
Bring the unreal world too strangely near.

I'll walk, but not in old heroic traces,
And not in paths of high mortality,
And not among the half-distinguished faces,
The clouded forms of long-past history.

I'll walk where my own nature would be leading;
It vexes me to choose another guide:
Where the gray flocks in ferny glens are feeding;
Where the wild wind blows on the mountain side.

What have those lonely mountains worth revealing?
More glory and grief than I can tell;
The earth that wakes one human heart to feeling
Can centre both the worlds of Heaven and Hell.

Irrigation

Railroads and Irrigation.

Most irrigation projects when first built were handicapped by lack of railroads. Railroads were often not built until long after the lands had been pretty well settled up.

The Union Pacific railroad used to have a sort of arbitrary rule that if a project covered 30,000 acres or more, had an adequte water supply and gave promise of going ahead they would build as much as 100 miles of road to reach it.

Of course whether they would actually built a hundred miles of road or not depended upon the expense involved. If there were a lot of tunnels, bridges and other expensive and heavy work they would not run their lines in. It was wholly a question of investment and probable revenue.

We know of at least one good project that never did amount to anything on account of lack of transportation. It was not so far off the main line but on account of rough country the construction cose would have been very heavy.

Here we have no such handicap. The railroads are already built and fully equipped. It is a fact which can be easily checked by an inspection of the project map that most of the lands lie within only a few miles of a railroad. It is hard to find any portion of the project more than five or six miles on an air line from the rails.

This is anunusual situation on a newly constructed irrigation project. It is one of the great advantages we have here which wed o not fully appreciate.

More Truth Than Poetry

OLD WINE TO DRINK; OLD GAGS TO HEAR

There once was a playwright who said to himself,
"All the moth-eaten gags I'll eschew.
The public is weary of paying their pelf
For plays that aren't strictly brand new.
So he put on a drama with none of the tricks
That people had looked at before—
The sort that delighted the persons called hicks
Who lived in the brave days of yore.

The people came thronging to witness the play,
They remained for a while, then they hastened away,
And the scouts in the lobby heard most of them say:
"It's awful! we cant sit it out.
A silly idea that fellow has got,
He seems to mean something, but no one knows what,
Perhaps it is great, but it's probably rot,
Say, what was the thing all about?"

There once was a playwright who thoughtfully said,
Ere he started to dictate a word,
"A gag may be old, but it never is dead—
I will use all I ever heard.
So he ransacked the joke-books for twenty years back,
Which is far in the long, long ago,
Took out every antediluvian crack
And put them all into his show.

The people came in a crowd the first night,
And chuckled and giggled and shrieked with delight—
"This stuff," they exulted, "is just about right,
It sparkles with humor and wit."
And although the critics announced in disdain
"That stuff antedates old King Solomon's reign,
And the gags were all bandied by Abel and Cain,"
The piece was a whale of a hit.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

THE CASE OF ONE WIFE WHO SHOULD GIVE UP HER HUSBAND TO ANOTHER WOMAN—THE OVER-ANXIOUS MOTHER WHO IS STIFLING HER CHILDREN—IS THERE ANY HOPE FOR A BACHELOR WHO DOESN'T DANCE?

Dear Miss Dix—My husband and I have been married twenty-three years. I am several years older than he. I was kind to his mother during a long illness, and out of gratitude to me, and because his mother desired it, he married me. I knew that he did not love me, but I loved him as I never thought I could love any one, and have loved him more every day.

He has been good, kind and considerate, and supported me well, treating me as a sister. Now he has met a woman he loves, and who loves him. She is a fine, superior woman fitted to be his mate. He has told me about it frankly and asked me to give him his freedom, offering to provide for me financially. I have refused, because I love him so I cannot bear to leave him but his health is failing rapidly under the strain and worry, and I feel like a murderer as I look at him growing thinner and more broken day by day. What do you think I should do?

BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE.

Answer:

It seems to me that your duty is clear. It is to give him up. Set him free, and let him find what happiness he may for the balance of his life.

You say you love him, but you have not loved him well enough to be unselfish to him. Throughout your whole relationship you have considered your own happiness and not his. If you had not loved yourself supremely, you would never have married him in the first place. You knew when you did so that you took advantage of his generosity to bind him to you in a marriage that could bring him no real joy, that would always be a bondage into which he had sold himself.

He has given you twenty-three years of faithful service, of duty nobly done, and now you should repay him by making the sacrifice he asks of you.

Your case is different from that of the woman whose husband is a philanderer, who has passing infatuations for every pretty face, and who roams from flapper to flapper. That type of man nearly always comes back to his wife in the end, and whatever real affection he has in him he gives to her. But your husband is of a deeper and more serious nature than the philanderer. He will not change. He has never been your lover. He will never be.

You will not lose him any more by giving him up than he is lost to you now. For two people can sit at the same table, and sleep with their heads on the same pillow, and yet be as far apart as if the world divided them. And to keep the body when the spirit of love is gone is like keeping a festering corpse about the house. It poisons the air of the home.

You will not be as unhappy separated from your husband as you are now holding him against his will. For one thing, you will have shriveled your conscience, and for the first time since you married a man knowing he did not love you, you will be able to look your soul in the face.

And, for another thing, a great peace comes with finality, with having done with all the arguing pro and con, the hopes, the fears, the indecisions. Having once taken the fatal step, you will cease to worry over it and be able to build your life on other lines.

And if you really have a great love for your husband, you will be happy because you have made him happy.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a sister who has three children. She is one of those over-anxious mothers who never allows here children out of her sight. She takes them to school and brings them back. She never allows them to mingle with other children, or even to play in her front yard for fear they will learn something bad. Dont you think these children should have the pleasure of companionship, even if they are thrown with children who are not perfect little angels?

ANXIOUS AUNTIE.

Answer:

Does your sister think that she is going to be able to go through life holding her children by the hand, and protecting them from every difficulty and danger? Does she think that she can make a little sterilized, immaculate world free from all temptations, and purified from all wrong, in which her children will exist when they grow up?

How does she think that they are ever going to be able to take care of themselves or stand on their own feet? How are they to judge people if they are never permitted to know any one? How are they to know right from wrong if they have never seen anything but the beautiful and the good?

No mother in the world makes such a mistake as the one whose over love and over-anxiety makes her keep her children in perpetual leading strings. She unfits them utterly for life. She makes them soft where she should have hardened their muscles. She makes them weak where she should have strengthened them. She makes them parasites where she should have taught them to be independent. It is by falling down and getting hurt that we learn how to walk warily. It is by getting bumped, good and hard, that we learn to avoid the corners. It is from being thrown on our own that we learn to fend for ourselves.

A wise mother lets her children run risks, so that they may learn how to rely on themselves. She lets them make mistakes, so that they can profit from them, and so acquire judgment and wisdom. She does not try to keep from them the knowledge of evil. She shows them that badness does not pay.

Any mother who doesn't let her children associate with other children does them an irreparable wrong, because the knowledge of how to get along with other people is the most important thing that any man or woman can have. The education that children get from other children in school is just as important as anything they learn out of books. Children teach each other how to give and take, how to play fair, how to be good sports, and that is something that serves them as long as they live.

A child is better off with no mother at all than to have an over-anxious mother, who takes it to school every day, and segregates it from other children.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—In the present day of jazz and good times a man who does not dance is not wanted by the girls. In other words, he is classed as a dead one. I am of a quiet disposition, far from a sheik in looks, and have never acquired the art of dancing. Is there any hope for me?

LONESOME BACHELOR.

Answer:

Alas, I fear you are right, and that it is the heels instead of the heads or hearts that count nowadays. Men used to ask of a strange girl, "Is she beautiful?" Now they ask, "Is she a peachy dancer?" and if she is not, she is relegated to the lemon class no matter how good-looking or intelligent she is.

Girls appear to apply the same test to men, but men are more fortunate since a girl who is shelved on account of her lack of terpsichorean skill can do nothing but sit up and suck her thumb, whereas a man can always go out and hunt up another girl.

The solution of your problem is either to learn to dance or to seek out some maiden who also fails to shake a mean foot.

Wherein the Law's Goes Once More Without Challenge

It leaked out in Kiwanis club luncheon yesterday that Homer Sandeford and Dr. Ralph Peterson had become embroiled in a dispute since the arrival of new heirs at their respective homes, as to the lung power of the two infants, each of babies having yet to be two weeks old.

A contest between the two young rulers had practically been arranged yesterday when all plans were discontinued by the advent into the squabble of yet another of Wichita Falls' well-known citizens to be. Frank Queisser, police commissioner and Kiwanis secretary, was stepping high and handing out cigars yesterday. Both Mrs. Quiesser and the baby are doing well.

In order to make the contest a three-cornered one and aware of the danger of a dark horse any time, Frank obligingly consented to enter his aspirant in the contest. He insisted though that the affair be delayed another week or so to give his boy time to assemble all his strength. Peterson and Sandeford promptly replied that if the baby was anything like his illustrious sire, and Dr. Collard vouched that he was, the combined noise of the other two would not prevail against the power of this one.

The contest was called off.

Let'er Blow and Climb To A Hundred—We're The Best, Avers J. W. Chatam

Save this story and read it today sometime when the wind is blowing its gustiest and the sand is flying its dustiest, and the thermometer is trying its best to set a new altitude record.

"Wichita Falls is the best city the Shrine special passed through to and from the big convention last week at Los Angeles." So states J. W. Chatam, auditor of irrigation district no one, who declares this was the component opinion of the entire Shrine body on the train.

Mr. Chatam stated that the train stopped over a day in Salt Lake City. They found the business good but hardly as good in proportion as it is in Wichita Falls. The Salt Lake Telegram, incidenally, gave a full page with illustrations of Wichita Falls and the irrigation project.

After a day in Sacramento the trippers decided that conditions there were the best they had seen on the trip, through building was not much more active than it is in ths city, while Sacramento is approximately four times larger.

Los Angeles was quiet, with everything dead, the auditor explained. There was practically no residential building and comparatively little business constructon work.

On the way back the delegation took in El Paso. While a good live town, it was seen that the city of about 130,000 people were almost wholly dependent for their prosperity on the Elephant Butte Dam irrigation project, which is not nearly as large in extent as the Wichita Falls project.

By way of conclusion, Mr. Chatam added that this city was the smallest one east of the Rocky Mountains to send a special train to the convention.

So let the wind blow and the sand fly and the thermometer climb. Who cares.

New Tests To Determine Toughness of Any Given Piece of Beef Is Report

Over 200 Feet of Oil Bearing Stuff Shows in Texhoma Howard

WASHINGTON, June 8.—At the instance of the department of agriculture the bureau of standards is devising tests to show how tough a given piece of beef may be; the strength of an egg shell and the comparative strength of the leg bones of hogs.

Determining the toughness of beef has so far proven the harder task. Instruments now in the laboratories are being used to measure the tensile and torsional strains which the beef fibres can take and then expert beef eaters try the old test of the teeth to check the findings. In requesting the experiments the department pointed out that tender meat is worth more than tough and that experts who judge meat quality by its appearance are frequently deceived.

Egg shell strength varies considerably, according to the amount of lime in the diet of the hen and determining the crushing point quickly shows up the facts. The durability of hog bones which is believed to be controlled by diet, is an important economic question because many pigs are rendered unfit as pork because their legs break while on trains en route to market. The bureau of standards will determine the breaking strain of a number of sample hog legs whose owners were given different feed.

The merchants advertised in The Record are the most dependable in the city. They tell you only facts. Read their ads.

WOMEN BORN 1873 TO 1881

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The First Methodist baseball club of the Sunday school loop broke out on a wild spree and Monday administered a 21 to 8 defeat to the Floral Heights Methodists on the Twilight diamond. The game was a loosely played affair and the final innings dragged slowly by. The feature of the tilt was the pitching of Odell McDuffy of the winners. The First Methodist slab artist held the Floralites hitless until the sixth when Porter dropped a neat single inside the right field foul line. Tom Hall followed this with a hard double to the same pasture and also close to the foul boundary. Although he walked seven and pulled a pair of wild pitches McDuffy whiffed 11.

Johnnie McMahon led the hitters, with four hits in six times at bat, one a double. Taylor and Doke both poked out a trio of safeties in five times up. One of Taylor's went high and dry to center field for a home run. Ralph Walker poled a long triple to center that for one that was fast would have been a home run. Ralph once met with an accident that injured his feet and slowed his running.

The Methodists had their one big inning in the third when they scored 12 times. The club went wild on the bases and it was only after 15 batters had been to the plate that they were retired.

Hood Kizziar opened on the hill for the losers and was hit hard. Tally Timmons followed him and fared no better, in fact, worse. Young Tom Hall pitched the last two innings and did well, allowing but one hit and one run. Hall fanned four and walked two.

A single and a double for the Floral Heights Methodists were the first hits off McDuffy. These were followed by a hit batsman, a walk, an error, and an infield hit.

When Fritz Taylor batted for Timmons and fanned for the final out many wanted Pete Turgeon, Spudder cripple on the sidelines to bat, but Pete refused. The score:

Three Texas Schools Enter National Meet

CHICAGO, June 8.—(AP)—The intercollegiate track season will reach its climax Saturday when the national collegiate meet will be held at the University of Chicago with the pick of the nations' athletes from coast to coast in the competition.

Entries closed tonight with teams from 59 universities and colleges entered with the prospects that the complete entry would represent between 65 and 70 institutions. As only athletes who have won places in their conference or sectional meets are permitted to enter, the competition will bring together winners of most of the conference meets in America.

Baylor, Southern Methodist and Texas U. will be among the southern teams entered.

Kenmere Enters Oklahoma Polo Meet Saturday

Wichita Falls Four Plays 8-8 Tie With El Reno

Wichita Falls' Kenmere club four staged a fast game of polo with a selected team from Fort Reno, Okla., at Fort Reno, Sunday, reports of the returning players indicate. An extra inning failed to break an 8-8 tie at the end of the eighth period and the game was called.

The Wichitans made two goals in the last two minutes of play, and once with 30 seconds to go in the eighth period put across the goal needed to tie the score.

C. H. Featherston played No. 1, Jim Minnick No. 2, oHrace Robbins No. 3, and Dave White No. 4. The Fort Reno stables mounted the Kenmere group.

Kenmere club is to send its own horses to Forth Reno this week for a week's tournament there with teams over Oklahoma on June 13-21. Accompanying the horses will be C. H. Featherston, Jim Minnick, Horace Robbins, Dave White, R. E. Kennedy and John Fastnow.

Spudder-Steer, Buff-Bear Games Balked By Pluve

Tanner Outfit Mingles With Stockyard Brigade Today

CATS SLOUGH SPORTS

Waco Slips Over For 6-1 Win on Cellar Champs

John Henry Jupe Pluve opened up the clouds and belched forth sufficient H2O at Dallas and Houston yesterday to wash out the Spudder-Dallas and Buff-Bear bouts.

Two Texas league teams got away with murder, however. Waco's combination of young and old ball wallopers rubbed it on Beaumont, 6 to 1, and the ferocious Felines flipped the faltering Shreveporters for a 9-0 loss.

Majority of the Spudders journeyed over to Cowtown and saw the Atz crew in action. Saw from the grandstand how it looked to get beat by the champions.

The Tanner outfit enjoyed the day's rest greatly, no doubt, and will be primed this afternoon for the first of a two-game tie-up with the Stockyards gang.

Spudders return Thursday with Waco for a protracted home stay.

FORT WORTH, June 8.—Young Jimmy Walkup got his curve ball to working after the third inning today, and Fort Worth had little trouble in trouncing the Shreveport Sports, 9 to 1. Edmondson hurled nice ball until the sixth, when a trio of errors and timely hits by Cat batsmen accounted for seven tallies. McCauley, young left-hander from Muskegon in the Mint league finished the game, striking out three men in succession without allowing a foul in the seventh inning. The score:

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune has left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with

Lydia Harbook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Stevie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway.

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, has seen Rosilyn ——— but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however hungering for her love, decides to use

Marietta Fernandez, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosylin, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe who tells a "fishy" store to account for his proximity to the scene. Landis disproves heartily of the whole affair but conscious stricken at his neglect of Rosilyn invites her to attend a stage garden party with him. She joyfully accepts.

At the party Landis becomes his old lovable self again.

He apologizes for past misunderstandings and Rosilyn feels happier than ever before.

Soon after Lydia, getting wind of a recent legacy to Landis decides to renew her seige by appearing at his home. She is frigidly received and suddenly leaves a dance that evening.

"You—here?"

"And why not? Didn't your mother let you know that I was coming? Haven't I a standing invitation?"

Rosilyn moved forward first, to welcome her. Soon, other guests appeared, and the gong sounded for dinner. Lydia found herself considerably removed from Landis. Was that the fault of Rosilyn or Landis' mother The latter had not welcomed the intruder cordially.

After dinner, dancing started. The host did not seek Lydia out. She danced twice with Rupert Briscoe, and started a meaningless flirtation with a boy cousin of Landis', whom she had known in his infant days.

That palled.

What was the matter with the evening? It was irritating to see the deference that Landis paid his wife! Lydia knew her own clothes, too were extraordinarily -well chosen. The quaint Victorian gown became her, and the red roses that her husband had given her, blazed at her waist, as though in triumph over Lydia's annoyance.

Lydia felt herself, conversationally and mentally, "go flat."

And vivacity was almost as important as beauty, wasn't it?

Something must be done.

Unnoticed, by the majority of the dancers, she slipped up to her room.

CHAPTER LVIII.

Caught in the Act

"I can't think where your friend Miss Harbrook has disappeared to" said Rosilyn to her husband, perhaps twenty minutes later. "I saw her go up stairs alone, and she hasn't returned. I ought to go and look for her."

Rosilyn moved off in the direction of Lydia's room.

Landis felt uneasy. Concerning his wife's share in the interview, he had no qualms. Rosilyn was invariably lady-like and conscious of her duty as a hostess. But Lydia—particularly lately—was an uncertain quantity. She might fly off at a tangent, and frighten Rosilyn—or humiliate her—or disclose—who knows what Lydia might reveal, in a moment of jealousy or anger?

Rosilyn tapped at her guest's closed door.

There was no response.

She tapped again.

Not hearing the ungracious—"Don't come in!" she softly slid the hand'e round and looked into the room.

Her startled gaze met the amazing vision of Lydia pressing the needle of a small syringe into her left arm just above the elbow!

Then Lydia looked up. The syringe sliddered to the carpet, and the woman glared at Rosilyn, like a furious tigress.

"How dare you spy on me? How dare you creep in here, and try and get things against me!" With a quick stealthy movement she stooped and swept the implement out of sight.

"What were you doing to your arm?" Rosilyn asked.

Lydia, whose eyes were glittering in peculiar fashion, suddenly flung back her head and laughed.

"Buying Dutch courage, did you think? And what business is it of yours, I'd like to know?"

Rosilyn was not so ignorant but that the dreadful word—"DRUGS" darted through her mind.

Lydia was drugging!

"It' none of my buiness, except that I want to help you," she said, simply and naturally. "You are my guest."

Now Lydia, if the truth be told, had taken at least two "shots" of a most powerful stimulant. She had been taking drugs regularly in the last six months, and always the quantity was increasing.

"I am your guest? Ha! Ha!" She flung her head back, laughing shrilly and discordantly. "You to come here and patronize me—you—a gutter-snipe! Why don't you realise, you little upstart, that Landis has adored me all his life, and only married you for your money? The whole world knows it and is laughing at you! 'Gilded Rose' or 'Sugared Pill'—what matter?"

Rosilyn faced her bravely, head help up.

"If that is so—" her voice was calm and even—"if that is so, can you explain why my husband declined to leave me now that he is financially independent of any money I may have brought to our marriage? I gave him his opportunity. He does not need my money—but he needs my love!"

Lydia laughed discordantly once more.

"Your love, girl? Your are crazy!" She flung open a suitcase, thrust a hand inside, and drew out some letters. "Look for yourself! In Landis' writing! All to me! Written only a week or two ago, and full of love!" With a triumphant gesture, she flung the incriminatnig letters in the young bride's face.

"You are not yourself," said Rosilyn resolutely, facing the woman who had insulted her. Landis' letters lay between them on the floor. "You are under the influence of a drug. I know it."

Lydia glared in silence at the speaker. The cool level voice went on—

"You will destroy those letters here and now." She pointed to the envelopes in Landis' writing, lying on the floor.

"I won't!"

"I think when you fully understand how determined I am you will burn them—here and now—in this empty grate."

"Why should I?" The outward signs of truculence continued, though Lydia knew that she was losing. It had been a fool's trick, anyhow, to throw Landis' effusions in his wife's face, even though the letters had been written long before his marriage—only the bride wasn't to know that fact.

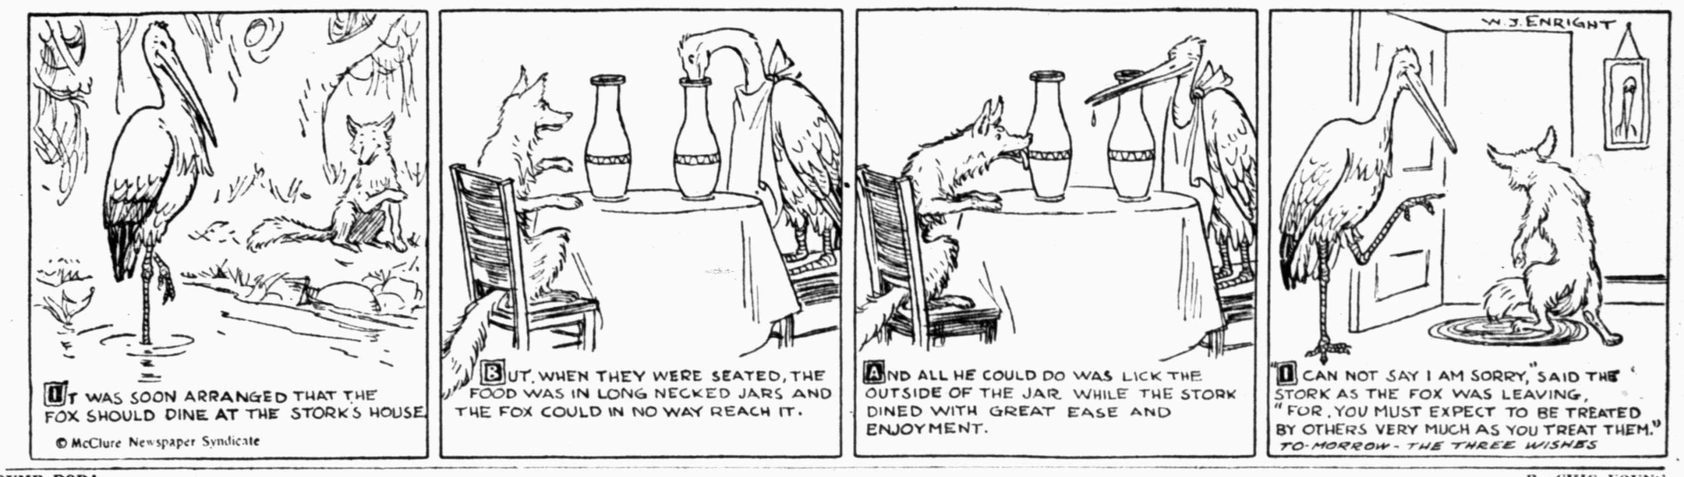

"You will burn them," said Rosilyn, slowly and intently, her clear eyes never for an instant forsaking the other's flushed face, "because I have too much regard for my husband's happiness to leave such a weapon against him in the hands of the woman I now know you to be. You are utterly selfish. You are unscrupulous.

"You are the victim of a habot which—unless checked at once—will further undermine your whole moral character, so that you won't even know the difference between right and wrong. Do you think, then, realizing all this, as I do, that I would leave one stone unturned to remove you—and such as you—from the path of one I love?"

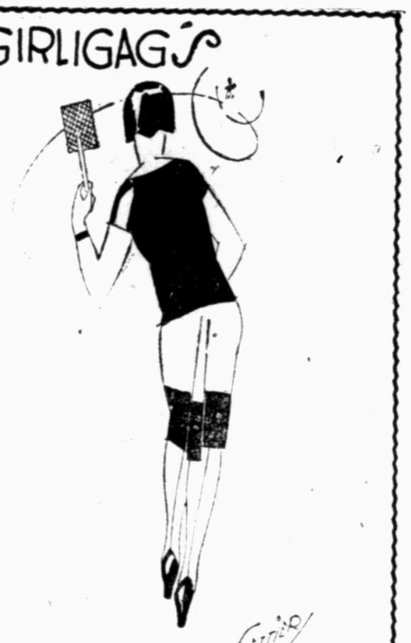

Lydia sneered.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP) — Stock prices turned decidedly reactionary today after an early period of strength which was featured by the brisk accumulation of a selected list of oil, rubber and merchandising shares. Selling, which was largely of a professional nature was attributed to prospects of temporary money stringency this week in anticipation of June 15 tax payments and the apparent inability of pools to attract a public following.

Pronounced weakness developed in a number of high priced stocks. General Electric broke 7 points than rallied 1, while net losses of 2½ to 5½ points were recorded by Allis Chalmers, American Can, Dupont Mack Truck, Maxwell Motors "B," Laclede, Nash Motors, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Western Union and Woolworth.

Early strength of the oil shares was based on expectations of an early increase in Mid-Continent crude. Texas Company and Mid-Continent petroleum were quickly bid up to new 1925 highs at 49½ and 36¾, respectively, but for these gains were cancelled in the general wave of selling which swept the market during the afternoon. The Pan-American issues reacted about 3 points from the early highs, while net losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded by Atlantic Refining, General Asphalt, General Petroleum, Pure Oil and Pacific.

Rubber also enjoyed a temporary period of strength with United States Rubber common and first preferred, Fisk common and first preferred and Kelly Springfield 6 per cent preferred all breaking through their previous year's maximums. The early strong spots in the motor group were Moon and Chandler, but each closed lower on the day. Steels were heavy throughout the session, U. S. Steel common closing half a point lower at 113⅜.

Rails yielded with the industrials. Net declines of a point or more were recorded by B. and O., C. and O., St. Paul preferred, Rock Island, Great Northern preferred, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific and the Wabash issues. Call money held steady at 4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper sties were unchanged.

NEW ORLEANS, June 8.—The cotton market was reactionary today and except for a good rally before mid-session which practically wiped out the early loss. The market was on the down grade, becoming decidedly weak in the afternoon, when a sharp break occurred on reports of rains at many points in the belt.

At the start Liverpool was lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 5 to 12 points, at the end of the first hour of trading the market had eased off to 23.80 for July, 22.33 for October and 22.42 for December or 29 to 32 points below the close of Saturday. The official weather forecast promising fair weather for the western belt caused a wave of buying which advanced prices enough to overcome the early decline. July traded up to 24.14, or to a level 2 points above Saturday's close, and October to 22.62 and December to 22.65, or to within 2 to 6 points of the previous close. After mid-session the market turned decidedly easier on reports of rains in Georgia and Albama as well as in Texas and the selling gathered momentoum near the close. All active months made new lows with July at 23.40, October at 21.88 and December 21.93, or 72 to 74 points down from the highs. The close was at the bottom, showing net losses for the day of 72 points on July and 76 to 83 points on new crop months.

The weather news dominated the market, although July was for the most part supported by the strength of spots and the scarcity of supplies, particularly the steady shrinkage in the local certificated stocks. The report of a hard rain at Dallas during the last hoif of a session and private advices of other rains in that state was the main source of weakness.

Wichita Pipeline Buys New 4-Inch Line to Harmel

The Wichita Pipeline company has purchased thethree-mile four-inch pipe line of the Megargel Oil and Refining company from their plant near Swastika to the Harmel pool and will take over its operation at once for a consideration understood to be in the neighborhood of $12,000. The Wichita Pipeline company will build a pump station and gathering system in the Harmel pool for the new line at an additional cost of about $5,000, and will lay about two miles of four-inch line from their Bank station in Swastika to the new possession, which will add a considerable stretch to the territory served by their lines.

The Wichita Pipeline company has just this week completed and begun running oil through about four miles of two-inch line to the Hill and Roberts pool to take the oil off of the Ferguson-Hester-Hawkins lease.

in some cases by the defense, their belief in the suspended sentence.

The court room was filled to capacity throughout the day, but the crowd was orderly and Judge Stine had no occasion to call order. Glenny was brought into the room shortly after 9 o'clock and seemed to pay little attention to the proceedings, though he occasionaly bent over to whisper to one or the other of his attorneys. At the adjournment of the court at 5 o'clock he was taken back to jail, where he has been since the murder. He has been unable to perfect a $15,000 bond granted him first in an appeal to the higher court and later by the district court following his indictment last month.

The fatal shooting occurred last April when the youth was said to have stood in the doorway of his home at Byers and refused entrance to his father, with the words, "You can't bother my mother." Glenny is said to have returned to his car and taken out his shotgun, shooting the boy one time, death following instantly. The defendant then drove off in his car and passed over Red river bridge in spite of the efforts of the gate keeper to stop him. After an exciting chase he was captured late that afternoon by Oklahoma officers and returned to Texas.

Immediately after Mr. Pew's address, each committee will adjourn to a conference room. That night a conference between the national chairman and the national secretaries will be held and Tuesday's work mapped out. S. E. Baylor Operations Take on Definite Form; 20 Acres Bring $25,000

Another big price for acreage in southeast Baylor county has developed in a deal between Maer and Staniforth and M. L. Richards and Sheldon for the north 20 acres of the east 50 acres of the southeast quarter of block 2428, TE&LCO survey, offsetting to the east the tract on which the Richards-Sheldon No. 1, Mills is located. The twenty sold for $15,000 cash and $10,000 in oil.

Five Getting Under Way.

Five tests in the field are getting under way, three offsets to the well by Shaw-Rathke on the north, Gulf on the northwest and Texas company on the west, and two to the southeast of the well by Maer-Staniforth and Richards-Sheldon. Maer and Staniforth's location is in the northwest corner of the southeast thirty acres in the quarter, while Richards and Sheldon will move the old Star machine to offset this well to the west.

Humble Pipeline company is building a four and one-half-mile long, three-inch carrier to the field and should be running the oil by Friday, according to an estimate made yesterday.

Cranfill No. 3.

Besides the Richardds-Sheldon well there is some oil to be taken care of from the old Cranfill No. 2 Mills, about a mile to the southeast. Just west of this well the Cranfill No. 3 is reported yesterday drilling at 1,375 feet and looking for the sand. The well is two locations west of the producer and should show much regarding the real nature of the pool.

Act now and be sure of getting about 7% yield

As our customer ownership campaign draws to a close, we wish to welcome the thousands of new customer owners who have been added to the already large family of Cities Service Security holders.

And we wish to advise others who have not yet placed their orders for Cities Service Preferred shares, to act promptly, in order to be sure of getting some of these shares at a price to yield about 7%. The present price cannot be guaranteed beyond the close of this campaign on the evening of June 10th.

PICTURES FOR WEEK PROMISE MUCH VARIETY

Every Theatre Has Some Show That is Unlike The Others

An intimate view of the wild Paris night life isn't the only attraction at the Wichita Falls theatres this week; at the Strand its "Hearts of Oak", and "Old Ironsides' view of the New England coast land, at the Mission, Betty Compson and Jack Holt delve into the "Secrets of Eve", while the Garden and Palace theatres share the honors in the wild west roles. Thrills aplenty and novelty galore make for a good week on the screen here, and there's variety enough in the offerings to insure just the show for every fellow.

"Playing With Souls."

The Olympic offers "Playing With Souls," starring Clive Brook, Jacqueline Logan, and Buster Collier. It is the story of a boy who thinks he has a past, a questionable birth, to hide. This he attempts to do in a wild orgy of spending and Parisian indulgence. He is brought to his senses by his father in a very unusual way. The extravagant scenes, some of them more than intimate sketches of Paris' far famed night life cabarets, are a feature to a picture filled to the brim with drama and human emotion.

The Mission stars with Betty Compson and Jack Holt in "Eve's Secret", an adaptation of the Broadway success, "The Moonflower." An old custom, that of dueling, still in vogue in France, is brought to the limelight in this show. A peasant girl, through the jest of a duke, is brought up in the role of countess. The great scene comes when the duke, a foremost swordsman of Europe, fitids his protege in company with a young extailor. The show will be at the Mission four days.

"Harts of Oak."

"Hearts of Oak," is a scene version of the famous old melodrama by James A. Herne, starring on the screen Hobart Boswick. It is the story of the New England coast and the Arctic waters, rich in dramatic moments and dealing with a situation full of heart throbs. Terry Dunnivan, a ragged seaman, has adopted two children, a boy and a girl. Terry suddenly realizes that his love for the girl is changing as she grows up from the love of foster father to that of a man for a woman. But the boy and girl are also enamoured of each other. The boy learns of his adopted father's affection and sacrifices the girl to him. The boy hits the downward path, the adopted father not knowning what has happened. He rights the wrong he has caused in his own original way, after creating a situation that arises to the heights of drama.

It was Hoot Gibson in the "Saddle Hawk" last night at the Palace, but it's "Charley's Aunt" today. "Charley's Aunt" is a three-act roaring comedy, cramfull of laughs and the heights of the ridiculous. Big Boy McBride, Dan Friendly, and Irish Bottomer with the remainder of the Jolly Flappers Musical Troupe as a supporting cast make the stage version of the show even better than that of the screen. It is not a moving picture. The musical troupe is making its farewell appearance in Wichita Falls this week.

The Garden retains its wildwest hummer, Fred Thompson in the "Galloping Gallapher," full of as much in the way of thrills that a daredevil man and untamed horse can put into a picture. In addition the Circus Mystery serial is booked and a comedy, "Monsieur Don't Care."

PROF. CRIME STILL UNSOLVED

Officers Fear that Slayer May Never Be Brought to Justice

BATON ROUGE, La., June 8.—(AP)—With every clue apparently exhausted the authorities investigating the killing here yesterday with an axe of Oscar B. Turner, instructor at Louisiana state university were today admittedly considering the possibility that the crime may remain unsolved.

Continuation of the coroner's inquest which had been in session most of today was fruitless. Eight students, among them two Chinese were summoned and took the stand but their testimony failed to disclose any new facts concerning the case.

Captains of the old East India company's traders shared heavily in voyage profits.

"WHITE MAN" BACK AGAIN

"Charley's Aunt" Is Offered for Last Day at Palace

It's "Charley's Aunt" at the Palace again today and if the results of yesterday's shows are any indications of the popularity of the play' today's houses should be packed. The play is better by far, say those who have seen it, than is the screen version.

In addition to the play there will be several other unusually good numbers put on by other members of the Jolly Flapper troupe which is playing its last week at the Palace. Baby Lorain, five year-old child, will offer some new singing and dance numbers; Irish Bottomer will present something entirely unlike anything yet seen at the show; a new quartette will sing; the Palace Syncopators will perform; and the Crowson Kiddies, local talent, will sing and dance.

The film offering is "White Man," a play that when showing here last year proved one of the most popular of the entire year. Alice Joyce, Kenneth Harlan and Walter Long take the lead roles and play them to near perfection as the success of the show in other cities testifies. The setting of the show is in Africa and gives thrills galore as well as a well directed romance, with one of the most unusual plots ever seen in any film. Walter Long, playing the part of the River Rat, the villain, and the outcast of London society, who once performed on the stage, but because of a mysterious murder has been forced to seek his home in the African wilds where he terrorizes the blacks for his living.

Drama is the background for the scene in which the girl, not knowing which of two men is the outcast, the one she loves or the River Rat, hears one sing the song that set London wild over him. She peeks behind the curtain, the music has stopped and she is seen. The rest of the story is a plot seldom equaled.

VIOLET BABPOERT.

Here is another of the Jolly Flapper troupe showing for their third and final week at the Palace. Miss Babpoert takes one of the leading roles in "Charley's Aunt" when she plays the part of the original aunt.

Welfare Payments Coming in Well, Is Secretary's Report

Third annual payments on united welfare pledges are coming in rapidly at the office of Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr., secretary of the welfare board, and it is believed that if the continue the next few days in the same manner one of the best quarterly records ever made will be established.

Statements of accounts were sent out late last week and the response Monday was exceedingly gratifying. It is asked that all those standing indebted to the fund remit as promptly as possible. Funds are badly needed to carry on the welfare work in the city during the summer months and the treasury has had a severe load to carry recently.

ENGINEER CONTRACT VOID

Agreement Between City And Montgomery And Ward Fails Ratification

A contract between the city and Montgomery and Ward, local engineering firm retained consulting and advisory work on the proposed new sewage disposal plant, failed of ratification by the city Monday night because of a legla flaw in its draft. Th name of John B. Gregory, consulting sanitary engineer of Baltimore, Md., who is associated with the Wichita Falls men, was not properly inserted in the contract.

The defect will be remedied and the contract approved later.

GIRL ATTACKED; BLACKS SOUGHT

Officers Are Searching For 3 Negroes at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, June 8.—Deputy sheriffs and city officials were tonight searching for three negroes who are alleged to have brutally attacked a young white girl near San Antonio late Sunday night. The girl is in Robert B. Green memorial hospital, where she was taken for treatment after being rushed to the city from the scene of the attack.

Her escort, who declared the negroes held him at the point of a pistol while they dragged the girl from his automobile, reported the affair to the officers but refused to go into details until the officers promised they would not give his name to the newspapers. The man is married, he told officers, and said that he was afraid his wife would cause trouble if she learned he was driving with the girl when the attack occurred.

Both the man and the girl are said to be prominent and the girl is declared to be not more than 18 years old.

After halting the automobile the man was forced to get out of the machine and marched a few steps away by one of the negroes. The girl told officers the other two men ordered her to get out of the car. When she refused, the girl said, she was seized by one of the negroes and dragged from the automobile.

The victim told officers she was dragged for several yards through the brush and assaulted. She did not know when the third negro joined his companions but was positive that the three assaulted her. The girl was badly scratched and bruised about the body. She said that all of the negroes wore masks.

BUSINESS MAN CHARGED WITH BEING FORGER

St. Louis Man Arrested; Admits Serving Two Prison Terms

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Telegrams from authorities in all parts of the country seeking information about Edward G. Tillian, head of a St. Louis furniture business, were in the hands of the police today.

Denver officers telegraphed that they held felony warrants for Tillian and requested that he be held pending issuance of extradition papers.

Requests for photographs and other information came from Milwaukee and other centers where a forger was said to have operated, swindling banks out of several thousand dollars.

Confident that he will clear himself, Tillian remained in jail here yesterday following his arrest Saturday by detectives who said they recognized him as the original of a photograph on a police circular requesting the arrest of R. W. Barth, alias Ksycki, alleged master forger and swindler.

Tillian said he would seek release on bond through his attorney, Jerome B. Duggan, who was out of town, but expected back today. He is president of the Lakeside Specialty company and is said to be highly regarded by his business associates. He admitted previous arrests and serving terms in two state prisons, but said they were the result of youthful indiscretions which he was trying to live down.

Large numbers of Wichitans and other north Texas workers will leave within the next few days for Sherman to attend the annual convention of North Texas Epworth leagues to to be held there. Forty or perhaps 50 will go to Sherman before the week is over.

Among the out-of-town delegates who will attend and who were in Wichita Falls Monday en route to the conventon were Miss Hope Yancy of Byers and Jack Lawson of Iowa Park.

Youth at Granger Is Killed And Four Are Injured in Explosion

GRANGER, Texas, June 8.—Oris Wheeler, 16, died at a hospital at 9:15 Monday morning of burns sustained from a gas explosion at the West Texas Produce company's plant. Four others were burned, one perhaps fatally. Wheeler was burned from the waist up and inhaled flames and smoke.

Verner Mitchell, 18, is seriously burned about the body from the waist up. His condition is considered grave. J. H. McCleskey, 21, is seriously burned about the face, arms and shoulders. Physicians say that while he is seriously burned he probably will recover. J. A. Longley, Jim Carr and an outsider who was not an employe of the company suffered minor burns in the explosion that rocked the building and caused property damage estimated at about $3,000 or $4,000.

Gotham Pastor Takes Sarcastic Cracks at John D's New Church

NEW YORK, June 8.—"Socony church" is the suggestion of Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton for the name of the new skyscraper edifice at which the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick is to be pastor.

Dr. Straton, fundamentalist and pastor of Calvary Baptist church, in his sermon yesterday poked fun at the plans of the Park Avenue Baptist church, which is attended by the Rockefellers and has called Dr. Fosdick, modernist and former Presbyterian preacher.

Dr. Straton suggested that three generations of Rockefellers might label the news church with an enormous "Socony" electric sign. "Socony" is the trademark of the Standard Oil company of New York.

Newspaper accounts of Dr. Fosdick's first sermon a week ago in the present Park avenue church also inspired Dr. Straton to satire. John D. Rockefeller, his son, John D. Jr., and the latter's son attended the service and shook hands with members of the congregation. The elder Rockefeller gave dimes to several children and one dime fell on the floor. Said Dr. Straton:

"A picture skillfully painted of the three Rockefellers standing in a row across the chancel and at the base of the pulpit the shining Standard Oil dime rolling on the carpet and the lucky youngster making his wild dive for it between the legs of the Standard Oil magnates ought to be historically preserved and the best place for it would be directly above the altar."

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Moore announce the arrival last Saturday of a new baby boy Robert Earl, Jr.
