HST Supporters Counting On Party Victory in Texas

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman's supporters are counting on a victory in Texas tomorrow to offset the spreading revolt that threatens to keep him off several Dixie state ballots.

Truman forces were primed for an effort to squash an attempt of States' Rights backers to seize control of the party machinery at a state convention.

Maine Casts Nation's 1st State Ballots

PORTLAND, Me. —(AP)— Traditionally Republican Maine cast the nation's first state election ballots today with Rep. Margaret Chase Smith seeking a GOP Senate berth in the major contest.

Dr. Adrian H. Scolten, 55, Prairie View, Kans., native and newcomer to politics, is the 49-year-old congresswoman's Democratic opponent.

Republican leaders confidently expected their seventh straight "clean sweep" of major offices. The others at stake are the governorship and three House seats.

Officially conceding nothing, Democrats looked for a big labor vote. There are two labor bills at referendum that they felt will help them more than the GOP.

Both major parties scanned the election for a hint of how November political winds will blow.

Two years ago the total vote was 179,591. The GOP Senate winner, Senator Brewster, polled 63.5 percent, and the gubernatorial victor, Gov. Horace Hildreth, 61.3 percent.

Now seeking Hildreth's job are Frederick G. Payne (R), 47, of Waldoboro, a former state finance commissioner, and Louis B. Lausier, 68, Democratic mayor of Biddeford since 1940.

Legislative and county offices also are at stake.

The States' Rights Party already has qualified electors for Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi.

It will contest the Truman-Barkley ticket for Texas' 23 electoral votes, sixth largest bloc in the nation, even if it can't win control of the party machinery.

The Truman camp made no secret of the fact it would like a Texas victory to counteract last week's setback in Louisiana.

The state party committee's action there ruling Mr. Truman off the ballot brought threats of a suit from the Democratic National Committee as well as retaliation against Louisiana politicians involved.

William Primm, Jr., assistant to National Chairman J. Howard McGrath, called the Louisiana action "flagrantly dishonest and fraudulent."

McGrath gave the Republicans something new to answer in a charge yesterday that they had "welched" on price support promises to the farmers.

He said the GOP-controlled Congress had passed a bill granting the Commodity Credit Corporation a federal charter but had refused to permit it to increase its storage facilities.

This meant, McGrath said, that the CCC which buys farmers' surplus crops or makes loans on them, would have to sell those crops about as quickly as it got them.

"If the CCC has to flood the market with crops, prices would be forced down, together with price supports, and many of the major purposes of the support program would be lost," McGrath said.

Henry A. Wallace, meanwhile indicated plans to join in the agriculture arguments. Progressive Party headquarters said he will confer with party farm leaders in Chicago where he will speak Tues-

Rio Grande Starts Flood

BROWNSVILLE —(AP)— Flood warnings were issued today for the Mercedes-Harlingen area as the Rio Grande continued its steady rise.

A system of canals running off from the Rio Grande cuts through the Harlingen-Mercedes area. The high water already was backing into the canals this morning.

A crest of 24 feet was expected at Mercedes late this afternoon. The river was rising steadily here and a crest of 19 feet, one foot above flood stage, is expected late tomorrow.

The river was .8 of a foot above flood level at Hidalgo at 6:30 a.m. today and was rising slowly. Flood stage is 21 feet. A crest between 23 and 24 feet was expected by noon.

International Boundary and Water Commission floodways, which divert water from the river above Hidalgo, were expected to carry more water than they did early in July during the last high water.

Crop loss was expected to be relatively small and confined to the vegetable area between the river and its levees.

The river was falling at Rio Grande City this morning. Scattered light showers fell in the McAllen area this past weekend but no rain was forecast for the river's watershed today.

Houston Producers Raise Milk Prices

HOUSTON —(AP)— Grade A milk was one cent a quart higher in Houston today after the South Texas Producers Association raised the price of milk 25 cents a hundred pounds.

We Heard...

Several of the North Dallas football team members were looking the Courthouse over Friday afternoon. When they came to the County Superintendent of Schools office, one of them jokingly said, "What say fellows, shall we burn him out?" Now we are wondering just who got burned out.

Walter V. Bowman, Woodward, Okla., district governor, and Fred Thompson, Pampa, program chairman, presided at the meeting.

Those present included Charles D. Dannel of Sherman, lieutenant governor of District 2.

In addition to Fred Thompson and his wife, the following local Kiwanis members, with their wives, will attend the Fort Worth convention:

Lieb Langston, who is president of the local club; Ed Weiss, lieutenant governor, District 6; Huelyn Laycock, E. L. Henderson, Roy Kay, Bob Curry, W. B. Weatherred, Joe Wells, L. N. Atchison, Gene Fatheree and A. C. Troop.

Ali Jinnah, Founder of Pakistan, Dies

KARACHI, Pakistan —(AP)— Mahomed Ali Jinnah, founder and first governor-general of Pakistan, was buried last night with full military honors.

Jinnah, who was 71, died here Saturday night of heart disease. His fight of many years for Moslem Pakistan free from Hindu India was crowned with success in the division of the sub-continent Aug. 15, 1947. Jinnah had been governor-general of the Moslem dominion since that time.

Government sources here said they expected an announcement from London at any moment naming a new governor-general, who is the direct representative of King George VI in this portion of former British India. Sir Ghulam Hussein Hidayatullah, premier of Sind Province, was mentioned as a possible successor to Jinnah. Official sources said Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan prefers to retain his present post.

(In London, British commonwealth officials said they had no inkling of who may succeed Jinnah. The new governor-general will be appointed by King George VI only on recommendation of the Pakistan government, the Office of Commonwealth Relations said. An office spokesman expressed eagerness to see the "highly responsible" post filled soon "because of the speed with which delicate events are developing in the orient" but pointed out Britain cannot take the initiative. The spokesman said the new governor-general can be either an Englishman or a citizen of Pakistan.)

Jinnah, who held the official title of "Quaid-E-Azam" (great leader) was held in veneration by the 70,000,000 inhabitants of Pakistan similar to the devotion of Hindus to the late Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Thousands of mourners gathered early yesterday in front of Government House, where the body lay in state, and clamored for a last view of their beloved leader. When the doors were flung open and the crowd entered, women

Trio Guilty, Sentenced on Vice Charges

NEW YORK —(AP)— Beautiful Nancy Fletcher Choremi, daughter of a U.S. career diplomat, received a suspended three-months sentence today on her conviction in connection with vice charges.

Similar suspended sentences were imposed on two other women tried on vice charges with the shapely 27-year-old brunette.

The two other women were Madeleine Blavier, 33, a native of Belgium, and Margaret Starr, 30, daughter of a retired minister.

Magistrate Arthur Markewich, who pronounced sentence, said all three defendants were intelligent, and added:

"I don't think they need to have anyone stand over them with a horsewhip.

"The problem of prostitution is not solved in a criminal court. It is a social, economic and moral problem."

The three were found guilty on vice charges brought by police who wire-tapped phone conversations between the women and men.

Mrs. Choremi is the mother of a five-year-old son. Her husband arrived recently from North Africa. She was found guilty on a charge of loitering in her East Side Manhattan apartment for the purpose of commiting an act of prostitution.

Mrs. Starr was convicted of offering to obtain Miss Blavier for a Park Avenue business man for an act of prostitution and of aiding Miss Blavier in committing an immoral act.

Miss Blavier was convicted of loitering for the purpose of prostitution and of three other vice charges.

Miss America Heads for a Quick Visit to Farm Before New York

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —(AP)— Beatrice Shopp, 18-year-old Miss America of 1948, heads for her Minnesota farm home today. She will spend a few days there before coming to New York to start her new career.

In a breathtaking weekend, the baby-faced brunette, who "loves to clean fish," won $16,000 in contracts and scholarships by outclassing 54 other beauteous contestants.

She says she'll have a few days at the four-acre family homestead to think over all the offers that have come her way as the beauty of the year.

It's all a far cry from the Hopkins, Minn., farm, where Beatrice, nicknamed "Bebe," says she tends about 100 chickens, drives a tractor and helps her mother in the kitchen.

"I kill and clean a chicken whenever we have one for dinner" and "I love to clean fish whenever daddy brings them home," the beauty queen confided.

The five-foot, nine-inch Miss America plans to use some of the scholarship funds to continue to study music.

Her renditions in the vibraharp were among the talents which took the judges' eyes in the weeklong shore resort beauty pageant.

The musical education, which Miss Shopp says she'll pursue, will emphasize percussion instruments. She also plays the piano and drums.

She may even wind up in Hollywood, but, says Miss America, there won't be any film appearances unless she can play a vibraharp.

The little girl from the farm, who neither smokes nor drinks, says she won't consider marriage until "I am 24 or 25 years old."

The crown she won Saturday night entitles her to a $5,000 scholarship, a $3,000 automobile and $8,000 in contracts for personal appearances.

COMMITTEE MEETS TO COUNT RUNOFF VOTES

FORT WORTH—(AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee convened at 10:47 a. m. today to begin the tough task of counting the votes in the Aug. 28 U. S. Senatorial runoff between Lyndon B. Johnson and Coke R. Stevenson.

Court Hears Request for Recanvass

ALICE —(AP)— Coke Stevenson's attorneys tried today to have thrown out of court a request for an injunction to prevent a recanvass of Jim Wells County votes in the U.S. Senate runoff.

Five attorneys and Stevenson's brother, Pierce Stevenson of Austin, were here to press the former governor's case against the injunction sought by Stevenson's senatorial opponent, Rep. Lyndon Johnson.

At stake were 203 votes - -202 for Johnson and one for Stevenson- - which turned up in the precinct 13 count certified to the State Executive Committee, but which were not included in the unofficial count made public immediately after the election.

Johnson's petition for an injunction to prevent a recanvass contends Stevenson conspired with others for the purpose of altering the returns as originally canvassed.

Today the battery of attorneys representing Stevenson presented the former governor's answer, which was made public in Austin yesterday in advance of filing here.

This answer said Johnson "is attempting to conceal the fraudulent and criminal acts of the parties who altered the returns and who now wrongfully withhold said election date until after the State Democratic Executive Committee certfies the final result of the state election for United States senator."

But the grounds on which they sought to have the injunction request thrown out of court was that the court cannot "invade" the rights of the County Democratic Executive Committee; that a court cannot enjoin a political committee from performing its duties.

Stevenson's attorneys cited the case of the City of Dallas vs. Dallas Electric Railway in which it was ruled that "it is as far beyond the power of the court to enjoin a political committee as it is beyond their power to enjoin an act of the Legislature."

Johnson also had a formidable battery of attorneys here. They were Dudley T. Tarleton, Corpus Christi; Donald Thomas, Austin, and Philip Kazen, Laredo, loser in the 15th District Congressional runoff.

Sneed Struck By Ptomaine

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Jerome Sneed of Austin, Lyndon Johnson's representative on the subcommittee that will count senatorial race returns, suffered a light attack of ptomaine poisoning today several hours before the committee met.

State Senator Alvin J. Wirtz replaced Sneed on the subcommittee.

Sneed collapsed in the lobby of Fort Worth's Blackstone Hotel and was taken to Methodist Hospital.

Dr. A. I. Goldberg, the attending physician, said: "Mr. Sneed's condition is not serious. Something he ate caused his illness. You might call it a light attack of ptomaine poisoning."

Sneed signed over his proxy to Wirtz while he lay on the floor of the hotel lobby, in front of the elevator. He rolled over sufficiently to sign the document before being put on a stretcher for the trip to the hospital.

Legionnaire to Address Meeting

CORPUS CHRISTI —(AP)— James O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, is to speak to the 30th annual Texas convention today.

The convention opened yesterday. At a general session, Gov. Beauford Jester recommended legislation providing for prosecution of those who defrauded veterans by magazine sales and in the building of homes.

Remy J. Ancelin of Dallas was elected grand chef de gare of the 40 & 8 Grand Voiture of Texas as the two-day convention of this group came to an end yesterday.

Mexico Plans Huge Birthday Celebration

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— An estimated 10,000 marching soldiers and motorized troops will pass in review before President Miguel Aleman Sept. 16 as Mexico celebrates her 138th independence day.

Similar parades will be held throughout the country and the afternoon and evening will be given over to folk dances and sports events.

Soviets Delay 'X-Day' for Red Seizure

BERLIN —(AP)— A liberal democratic newspaper here said today "X-Day" for achieving Communist seizure of Berlin has been fixed for some time after the November presidential elections in the United States.

The newspaper Montagsecho asserted the Russians have given German Communists orders to step up riotous demonstrations to seize control of the city because Moscow wants no four-power settlement of the 80-day-old blockade crisis.

A highly informed source in Moscow said last night resumption of four-power talks there on the Berlin crisis is "quite likely" this week.

Until "X-Day," Montagsecho said, the Communists aim to "seize every opportunity to promote riots, strikes and demonstrations" to worsen the local political situation.

The newspaper asserted the Communists hope the weather will interfere with the British-American air lift that has been supplying Western Berlin and that the Russians have promised "to interfere with the air supply shuttle by increasing their own plane maneuvers over Berlin."

Montagsecho said the date for Communist seizure of control had been fixed at a meeting of leaders of the Communist-dominated Socialists Unity Party (SED) during the past week.

The parley was called after last Thursday's giant anti-Communist demonstration, during which more than 200,000 Berliners cheered denunciations of Communist pressure which had forced the City Assembly to move from the Russian sector into the British sector for protection.

Meanwhile, German Social Democrats in the Russian Zone addressed a "cry of help" to the Western Allies. The message was read at the annual German Socialist Party convention in Duesseldorf.

Some 120,000 Germans assembled in the Russian sector of Berlin yesterday to hear Communists harangue the United States. American armored cars patrolled streets in anticipation of another march on the Allied Control Authority building in the U. S. sector, but no disorders were reported.

The French army announced yesterday it will stop feeding its troops from German farms Oct. 1. This will leave only the Russians living off the land.

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Loyal Democrats will hold a rally here tonight to map strategy for a possible convention floor battle tomorrow with a states' righters faction.

Rep. Sam Rayburn, minority leader of the U. S. House of Representatives, and Gov. Beauford Jester will be the principal speakers.

All County Delegations Certified

FORT WORTH —(AP)— The State Democratic Credentials Committee today recommended the seating at tomorrow's State Democratic Convention of all chairman-certified county delegations but called for "voluntary withdrawal" of any delegate not supporting party nominees.

The decision was announced by Committee Chairman J. D. Dickson after a closed meeting which began yesterday and continued into the morning.

The recommendation, if adopted, would seat four contested anti-Truman delegations from Harris, Harrison, Dallas and Tarrant counties, a contested Truman-loyal delegation from Stephens County and all other uncontested delegations regardless of their stand on the party nominees.

The action is to be "without prejudice of the right of the convention to determine which delegations shall sit in its councils," the committee's report said.

While the committee recommendation cleared the way for the temporary seating of the states righters, it left the door wide open for a floor fight early in the convention between those who refuse to hew to the Truman-Barkley line and those who insist on Truman-Barkley loyalty.

Group Proposes Base Teacher Pay

KERRVILLE—(AP)— A minimum pay of $2,400 for Texas teachers and a state school officer appointed by an elected education board has been recommended by the Gilmer-Aikin Committee.

The committee, an advisory group to the Legislature, wound up two days of meetings here Saturday.

It also recommended a proposal that county school finances be supplemented on an economic factor basis.

The proposals will be sent to advisory committees in each county for approval, then will be presented to the Legislature when it convenes next January.

Minimum pay of $2,400 for teachers would be on a 10-month basis. The point was included in a provision for a minimum foundation program in nine districts designated. The board would appoint a chief state school officer, who would be administrator of the state school system.

Rites Today for Veteran Cattleman

The 81-year-old Browder died Saturday in Amarillo. He was owner of the famous Diamond Tail cattle brand, located in Hall, Collingsworth, Childress and Donley counties.

Nizam Refuses to Surrender Arms

By the Associated Press

NEW DELHI.—Indian troops invaded the princely state of Hyderabad from all four sides at 4 a. m. today. The declared purpose was to restore order.

The dominion soldiers, with tanks, armored cars, and air support, advanced swiftly, mostly against negligible opposition, a goverment statement indicated.

A Madras dispatch said Indian forces striking from the east advanced to within possibly 60 miles of Hyderabad City, the state capital.

The first Indian communique said her troops made "steady progress in all sectors."

Indian planes operated over Hyderabad all day against what the communique said were military objectives. A Bombay dispatch said Indian planes made two minor raids on airdromes at Warangal and Bidar, two important Hyderabad towns.

The communique said Indian casualties were "slight" and that opposing forces suffered "serious casualties" in the Aurengabad sector in northwest Hyderabad, where nine prisoners were taken.

Lt. Gen. Maharaja Shri Rajendrasinhji, the Indian commander, sent congratulations to all his troops on their opening successes.

India asserted disorder is rife in Hyderabad and that the fabulously rich Nizam had refused to disband private armies. The state and dominion have been at odds for months because the Nizam, Gen. H.E.H. Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan, a Moslem, had refused to accede to India.

About four out of five of the 16,338,534 people of the state are Hindus. India has demanded a plebiscite to determine the future of Hyderabad. The state is in South Central India and surrounded by Indian territory.

The invasion was launched within 48 hours of the death of Gov. Gen. Mahomed Ali Jinnah, the founder of Pakistan and the main force in the partition of India. New Delhi sources said they expected Jinnah's death to ease differences between India and Pakistan.

Brig. S.N. Bhatia issued orders at Sholapur to stop trains running to the state. He invoked a curfew and prohibited the gathering of more than five persons.

Guards at the Nizam's palace at New Delhi refused to surrender arms. Hyderabad's agent general, S.M.A Razvi, tried to persuade the guards to comply, but they replied they could only accept such orders from the Hyderabad Army commander.

The Nizam interned K. M. Munshi, India's agent general in Hyderabad. Indian postal and telegraph workers also were interned.

Telephone communication with Hyderabad was cut off late in the day.

Sirens were installed in many parts of greater Bombay, west of Hyderabad state. Officials said they did not fear air attacks, but needed the sirens to summon scattered home guards.

Announcement that Indian troops would march across the borders of the huge, rich state had been expected for days, but came with startling suddenness this morning six hours after the march began at 4 a. m.

Gen. Rajendrasinhji, Indian commander-in-chief in the south, informed the population of Hyderabad that the Indian army was

Gas Explosion Wrecks Building

NEW YORK —(AP)— A terrific gas explosion resulting from an apparent suicide wrecked two floors of a Manhattan apartment house before dawn Sunday. Three persons died and ten were injured.

A veteran fireman said the 17-story building at 200 West 108th Street looked as if a bomb had hit the fourth and fifth floors.

Police said the explosion apparently was caused by Eugene Hurley, 35, who they said had threatened suicide after estrangement from his wife. Four gas jets were found turned on in his wrecked apartment where he lay dead of gas asphyxiation.

Lots of People Like to Shake Hands With Political Candidates

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON —(AP)— I see by the papers Governor Dewey will do a lot of handshaking on his cross-country campaign to get elected president.

It seems his brain trust figures he ought to go in for it in a big way so people can see, close up, what a warm, friendly man he is.

President Truman, who wants to get re-elected, is quite a handshaker himself.

This may disturb people who think a candidate ought to get votes strictly on his record, party or promises and not because his hand is warm or his eyes smily.

But, the fact is, lots of people like to shake hands with a political candidate.

Right here in Washington handshaking is a big enterprise.

Those parties are the happy merry-go-round for the celebrity hunters and the professional spongers who slide in for the free drinks and sandwiches. Free loaders, they're called.

I remember one character a few years ago—he's still around—who wanted all the for-free he could get and, at the same time, being an aspiring young man, wanted to be seen in prominent places, talking to prominent people.

He talked me into going to a cocktail party at the French Embassy for Leon Blum, one-time French premier.

When we arrived, we saw two rooms. One, full of chattering people, was the room with the eats and drinks. In the other poor Blum was standing up manfully, pumping the paws of the hundreds of people.

I told the character "Let's skip Blum and go in here."

"Oh, no," the horrified character said. "One can't do that. We must shake hands with M. Blum. It's expected of us."

I don't know who expected it. No one knew us there, not even Blum. I said:

"I'm against it. It's tough enough on Blum already. I can't speak a word of French. I can't even say hello to Blum in French."

"Just do what I do," the character said.

In we went. In 15 minutes we reached Blum. The character bowed from the hips in the best Continental manner and, with great feeling, said "Ah, oui, oui."

I was next. I said something to Blum like "Hajajaja" but Blum didn't look surprised and he said calmly to me something that sounded like "Hajajaja."

The character is still going to the cocktail parties, meeting the prominent people and eating free food. He's finally putting on a little weight.

Hurricane Hits 140 MPH At Bermuda

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP)— Hurricane winds approaching 140-mile-an-hour velocity swept the British island of Bermuda in the Atlantic today.

The Weather Bureau's storm warning service at Miami said the center of the severe hurricane was only 65 miles southwest of Bermuda at 9:15 a.m. (CST). The storm was moving north-northwestward.

"Winds at Bermuda have reached hurricane force and will continue to increase until the storm passes," forecasters reported.

"The center is expected to pass 40 to 60 miles west of Bermuda during the next few hours."

Although pointed in the general direction of the Virginia Capes, the storm is expected to recurve to the north and northeast before any effects are felt on the United States coast, the storm warning service stated.

The hurricane for the next 12 hours will sweep the busy coastal shipping lanes with dangerous winds and wild seas. Ships were warned to avoid or flee its path. The recurving movement was expected to begin tonight.

Bermuda was braced for the blow.

A Navy task force, including a 22,000-ton aircraft carrier and 12 ships which arrived Friday on maneuvers, left Bermuda yesterday ahead of the approaching hurricane. Planes at the U.S. Air Force Base on the island were ordered to the United States.

The U.S. Naval Base at Bermuda removed boats from exposed areas and tied down all loose lumber. The British Naval dockyard took similar precautions.

Seven Local Men Given Arrow Award

Seven of the eight Pampa men who participated in the Order of the Arrow ceremony at Camp Ki-O-Wah Saturday and Sunday were among the 22 successful candidates for the honor, Paul Beisenherz, executive of the Adobe Walls Area Council, said this morning.

The Pampa men completing the activity were W. B. Weatherred, Huelyn Laycock, Farris Oden, Russell Cartwright, Flaudie Gallman, Jimmie Harrah and L. W. Smith.

Other men passing the rigid examination were Orlan Baker, Booker; Homer Price, Follett; John W. Craig, Jr., Guymon; Stephen O. Harvey, Guymon; Julian Schaub, Guymon; A. W. Paris, Phillips; Carl Fisher, Phillips; J. E. Anderson, Phillips, E. F. Glasgow, Phillips; D. R. Wallace, Borger; Burl Willis, Phillips; Noble Trueblood, Canadian; R. E. Smith, Phillips; Dalton Ford, White Deer and Clarance Beesley, Canadian.

"The candidates for the honor enjoyed the ceremonies tremendously," Weatherred, said. "We could see, after going through it, what a sincere initiation it is for the Scouts."

The men went through the same activities as do the Scouts who are chosen for the honor. Saturday night the Scout members of the honor organization started the calling-out ceremony on the banks of Lake Marvin. They were dressed in Indian regalia and started the men on their "silence."

One of the requirements for the honor is that the candidates remain silent throughout the entire ceremony. If they speak more than twelve words after the ceremony starts Saturday night and before Sunday afternoon, they are not eligible to become members of the Order of the Arrow.

The Adobe Walls Council plans to make the men's Order of the Arrow ceremony an annual event. The men selected to try for the honor are all related to the Scout program as Scoutmasters or District Counselors.

Boys Injured as Car Overturns

Two local boys were admitted to the Worley Hospital Saturday night after their car hit a tree and turned over on E. Brown.

Charles Bretthauer, driver of the car, and Robert Dowdy were taken to the hospital in a Duenkel-Carmichael emergency ambulance after the accident.

Officers investigating the wreck said the boys were evidently coming into town when they lost control of their car. After the 1940 Ford coupe ran over a curb and hit a tree, it turned over.

Both boys have been released from the hospital with minor injuries.

Oilers Take 2-Game Lead Over Dukes With 7-5 Win

The Pampa Oilers were boasting a full two-game advantage over the Albuquerque Dukes in the West Texas-New Mexico League play-offs today, by virtue of a 7-5 Oiler victory over the Dukes in Oiler Park last night.

The triumph gave the Oilers three play-off wins over the regular season league leaders as compared to a single win for the Dukes.

Southpaw Avon Driggers received credit for his 22nd win of the year in besting the Dukes' Frank Shone. This is the second time of the current series that Driggers has beaten Shone, the other occurring in the opener in Duke Stadium.

Although outhit, 11 to 7, the Oiler defensive work sparkled. The Dukes, off their usual standards, committed four costly bobbles, three in the same inning. The locals miscued twice but pulled several sensational catches and stops.

The Oilers broke the ice for two runs off Shone in the second inning when big John Bottarini powered one over the leftfield boards with Roy Parker on base.

Joe Fortin, recently sold to Shreveport in the Texas League, blasted a circuiter to lead off the fourth and shove the Oilers into a 3-0 lead. In the same inning, after Bottarini had walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch, Bob Belford doubled, scoring Bottarini.

Two more counters quickly followed on singles by Riley and Bottarini and a double by Bartholomew in the fifth.

The Dukes got their first run in the top of the fifth when Range bobbled Shone's slow grounder and permitted Dawson, who had previously doubled, to score.

Three Duke errors and a single by R. C. Otey gave the Oilers their final tally in the sixth. The Dukes attempted to salvage the game when they got three hits in the seventh inning but could make them good for only one run.

A home run by Leonard Pill in the eighth brought the count to 7-3. Shone started the ninth with a line drive single to left but Len Attyd flied out to right and Dixon forced Shone at second. Manager Herschel Martin of the Dukes then drove a home run over the leftfield boards to give the visitors their final tally. Bowen grounded out, short to first, ending the contest.

The two teams meet in the final game in Oiler Park at 8:45 p.m. today. The Oilers and Dukes then return to Duke Stadium in Albuquerque for as many games as necessary if any. Should the Oilers win tonight, they would be through with the New Mexicans and would then meet the winner of the Lubbock Hubber-Amarillo Gold Sox series, which is now in progress. The Hubbers downed the Sox 7-5 to even the game count at 2-2 yesterday.

ATTENDANCE IS UP

MIAMI —(AP)— The race track business is slumping in most sections of the country, but at Hialeah attendance records are being set this summer although the horses only run here in the winter. A survey shows an 18 percent increase in the number of sightseers thronging the track, which is kept open between racing meetings as a public park.

STOP FOR AIRPLANES

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — (AP) — It's the only one in Alaska and maybe in the world a stop light to keep airplanes and automobiles from tangling at an intersection. The light is out at Merrill Field, where the Palmer highway passes an airstrip. Sometimes cars are stopped for two blocks, waiting for planes to land or take off.

It takes more men to televise a baseball game than to field a team. Television uses 10 men to cover the games.

Baylor Bears May Prove to Be SW Giants

Ed Note: This is another in a series discussing Southwest Conference football prospects.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

WACO —(AP)— Baylor has moved out of the giant-killer class, is something of a giant itself and should reach mature stature this season in Southwest Conference football.

It has been a long haul but Bob Woodruff's program, now in its second year, has produced a team to be respected by the conference. It cannot be figured as a championship contender, but it can tear down a lot of air castles for those that are.

Baylor will have its best team in six years and might beat that. Twenty-nine lettermen, even from a team that finished last in the conference race, means enough experience to be taken seriously. Baylor really had a good season, material considered, last year when the Golden Bears won half their games, taking all intersectional encounters, licking Stephen F. Austin and trimming Arkansas in the conference race.

Baylor will have a smarter and faster team and its passing and punting look very, very good.

The Bears are two deep in letterman at all positions and 14 of the 29 have from two to three year's experience.

Most important addition is tall Adrian Burk, who came to the Bears from Kilgore Junior College where he played two years. He is just the punter Baylor needed and he looks like he will be its best passer.

Talented George Sims, playing his fourth year, is as good as any ball-carrier in the conference. Sims heads a versatile backfield loaded with passers like Burk, Dudley Parker and Hayden Fry. The latter is the regular quarterback.

Parker doubles in the backfield, being used either for quarterback or left half but probably will see most action at the latter. Sims and Frank (Jitter) McKinney are the halfbacks and Jerry Mangum offers top strength at fullback. But a youngster named Frank Boydstun, up from the freshmen, is attracting attention. He may give Mangum a tight race for starting fullback.

Other well-regarded backs are Lyle Blackwood, Bobby Griffin and Ben Hall.

Baylor has mapped one of its toughest schedules, including Tulsa, Mississippi State, Texas Tech and Tulane in addition to the six conference foes. Woodruff says that's a major reason why he's worried. Last season's victory over Arkansas was considered an upset.

But Woodruff lacks the pessimism of last season when he came to Baylor and took over without a chance to do advance work. Then, he couldn't see any chance at all for his Bears. Now he says he figures on giving all opponents a hefty battle.

HE HITS 'EM ANYWHERE

BOSTON —(AP)— An analysis of Ted Williams' hitting throughout his seven year major league career shows an impartiality in the home run department. He hits 'em anywhere.

Of his first 213 homers, Ted hit only 96 at home and spread the others all around the league. His worst year was 1941, the season when he posted his .406 mark. That year he missed at Yankee Stadium and Washington, Cleveland in 1947 and Washington in 1942 were the only other parks ever to go a whole season without seeing a single Williams home run.

Missing Pilot Found In Southern Korea

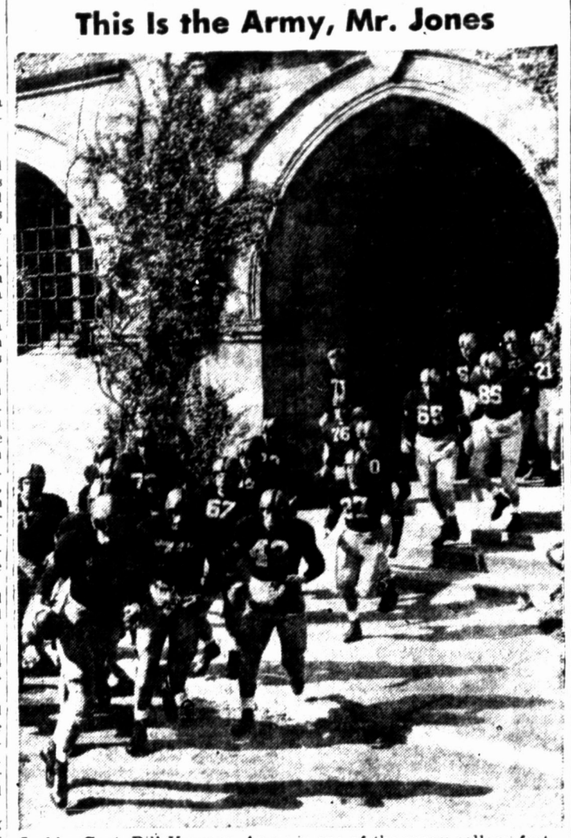

MANILA —(AP)— One of four missing American P-47 pilots lost on a training mission to Formosa was found yesterday. His name was not released.

The U. S. Thirteenth Air Force announced that the airman was returned to Clark Field air base from Southern Formosa. Three others still are missing.

In the two seasons that the All-America Football Conference has been in operation, the Chicago Rockets have scored exactly the same number of points 263—in their 14 annual tilts.

Statewide Competition Slated This Week in Texas Grid Race

By the Associated Press

The Texas schoolboy football campaign blazes from Piney Woods to Panhandle and the Gulf this week. Most of the teams that saw action last week and all those that did not will be hammering away.

Play starts tomorrow night when Woodrow Wilson and Highland Park, two Dallas powers, get together in probably the most important game on the schedule. Woodrow Wilson is the favorite in its district of the City Conference; Highland Park is one of the state title picks in Class AA. It will be the first game of the season for both.

A stand-out battle of the week-end will be North Side (Fort Worth) and Odessa at Odessa. North Side whipped Tyler 12-0 last week while Odessa was scrapping Lubbock to a 7-7 tie.

The Pampa Harvesters, who showed surprising strength in downing North Dallas 20-0 last week, take on the Graham Steers in Graham Friday night. The Steers lost to Denton 14-2 last week.

Abilene, which started impressively last week by licking tough Breckenridge 7-0, goes down to San Antonio to tackle Breckenridge Friday night. This is another highly important game. The city schools are in their own conference this year and Breckenridge and Abilene couldn't meet in a championship play-off, but this game will indicate if Breckenridge is up to its 1947 standard when it won the title.

Denison, which cracked San Angelo 25-6 last week, will test the rebuilt Wichita Falls Coyotes at Wichita Falls Friday night.

Kerrville, a well-rated outfit which last week trimmed Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) 12-0, goes to Brownwood in another feature. Brownwood opened the season by strapping Big Spring 32-0.

Horses Are Cold

A knotted handkerchief protects this horse player from the direct rays of the broiling sun shining down on Long Island's Aqueduct racetrack. Light and loose-fitting shirt and trousers add to his comfort, and the chair can be set up in the shade. The only trouble seems to be that the horses are as cold as the weather is hot.

ODDS AGAINST PITTSBURGH BUC, BUT PENNANT CHANCES SURVIVE

By the Associated Press

The odds are against them, but if Billy Meyer and his Pittsburgh Pirates win the National League pennant, he'll be the first manager in major league history to reach the top with a club that finished last—or tied for it—the preceding year.

Generally picked for fifth place at the best, the second-place bucs today were three games behind the front-running Boston Braves.

Pittsburgh picked up a half game on the Braves yesterday, defeating the Chicago Cubs, 7-3 while the Philadelphia Phils were holding Boston to a split in their doubleheader. The Phils won the opener, 6-4, but the Braves came back to win the 13-inning nightcap, 2-1.

It was a bad day for Boston all around as the American League leading Red Sox saw their first place margin shrink a full game when they were beaten by the fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics, while the runner-up Yankees and the third-place Cleveland Indians won.

The A's whipped the Red Sox, 10-4, to cut Boston's lead to two games over the Yankees and two and a half over the Indians.

The Yankees trounced the Senators in Washington, 10-5.

The Indians defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6-4, in the first game of their doubleheader in Cleveland. The second gmae was a 3-3 tie with darkness ending the contest after 12 innings. The two teams will replay the game today.

In the other American League game, the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved into third place by a half game over Brooklyn and New York in Cincinnati Reds, 7-6.

The Giants thre another wrench into Brooklyn's pennant plans, defeating the Dodgers, 5-3, for their seventh win in their last nine starts against Brooklyn under the leadership of Leo Durocher.

The victory put the fifth-place Giants only .0005 percentage points behind Brooklyn and six games back of the Braves.

Probe Into Athletics of Big 9 Teams

CHICAGO —(AP)— An intensive probe into athletic programs in each Big Nine Conference school was under way today in a campaign against "improper aid" which already has cost 11 athletes their eligibility.

Conducting the investigations are Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson and two ex-G men, one a specialist in accounting and the other a specialist in law.

This trio will follow the same pattern used in a one-year survey climaxed yesterday by disclosure by the Faculty Committee of 11 athletes ruled ineligible to compete in intercollegiate athletics for one year for receiving "improper aid." All were Freshmen last year, and five have dropped out of their schools.

Yanks May Have Tough Time in Defending Crown

NEW YORK —(AP)— It's still a long way to December, but from this September vantage point it looks like the 1948 All-America Conference pro football champion will come from the Western Division again.

The New York Yankees face a dogfight for the Eastern Division crown they wore in 1946-47, and even if they won it, they'd have the dubious pleasure of playing either Cleveland or San Francisco in the final.

On the basis of past performances against Cleveland in 1946-47 (three losses and a tie) and yesterday's 41-0 pasting by the 49ers, the Yankee outlook is gloomy.

Cleveland continued its parade yesterday by routing the Buffalo Bills at Buffalo, 42-13, a wider margin than had been expected.

FRESHMEN FACE FIVE

NEWARK, Del. —(AP)— University of Delaware freshmen gridders will play five games this season, two of them home tilts. Four of the teams— Lafayette, West Chester Teachers College, Muhlenberg and Gettysburg were met last year. Only Muhlenberg tumbled before the '47 Delaware Frosh. The Navy plebes will be the fifth opponent and will be met at Annapolis Oct. 23.

Hacker Tosses Sports to Play-Offs

By the Associated Press

Shreveport made the Texas League Shaughnessy play-off in a photo finish with San Antonio yesterday as Warren Hacker pitched the Sports to 4-1 victory over Beaumont.

The Sports finished with a percentage of .4967. San Antonio downed Houston twice, 3-1 4-0, but finished with .4966.

Two games with the San Antonio Missions on the final day pulled a few more than 6,000 fans to Buff Stadium, boosting Houston's home attendance to 401,383 for the regular season. This is the first time a Texas League team has passed the 400,000 mark.

Opening round Shaughnessy play-off games tomorrow night find Shreveport at Fort Worth and Houston at Tulsa. Fort Worth finished on top of the league, followed by Tulsa and Houston.

Warren Hacker, ex-Pampa Oiler, spaced seven Beaumont hits to win his seventeenth game of the year.

Shreveport had to come from behind to nose out Beaumont - - and San Antonio.

In other games last night, Tulsa finished with a 4-3 victory over Fort Worth and Oklahoma City wound up beating Dallas, 6-3.

ONE-BID OPENER PREVENTS SACRIFICE

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

A short time ago I wrote up a hand played by Mrs. Gertrude Jobes and Mrs. Augusta Cantor of New York City. They are sisters, and at that time they had just won their first major victory, the Eastern States mixed team-of-four championship. Just recently they went up to the Adirondack Inn at Sacandaga Park, N. Y., and won the Adirondack women's pair championship, also the special pair event of the tournament.

Tournament—Neither vul.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	3 ♠	Double	Pass
4 ♣	4 ♦	4 N.T.	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	6 ♣	Pass

Opening—♠ K 6

The sisters gave me today's hand, on which they won a top score in the tournament. The bidding is worth a comment or two. Many players would open the South hand with a two-bid. Mrs. Cantor preferred the one-bid because, holding a singleton spade and diamond, she was sure there would be further bidding. She did not want to invite the opponents to take a sacrifice against a possible slam contract.

West tried to shut out further bidding with his jump to three spades. Mrs. Jobes (North) thought that the double of three spades would be profitable, as she had no idea of her partner's freak distribution.

Her next bid of four no trump was not Blackwood, as they had not agreed on a suit. It simply told her partner that she had the diamond suit stopped. When Mrs. Cantor went to five clubs, Mrs. Jobes made the correct response of six clubs.

Declarer won the opening lead with dummy's ace of spades and cashed the queen of clubs, on which West discarded a spade. She then led a small heart from dummy and finessed the jack. When that held, she played another club to dummy's ten, returned a heart and finessed the queen, West showing out.

Now Mrs. Cantor cashed the ace of hearts, ruffed a small heart in dummy, cashed the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond in her own hand. The fifth heart was ruffed with dummy's last club, and now she had nothing but high clubs in her own hand.

Bidding and making six clubs on this hand gave them a top score, as most of the other pairs doubled the opponents in spades or diamonds.

Wrong Slip Adds Unwanted Inches To Mature Figure

By Alicia Hart

The woman with a mature figure should make sure that the slip she wears is properly fitted so that it does not bunch up to magnify her size.

A slip that is large enough for her through the bustline, for example, may be too large at the waistline or hips. Unless this excess fabric is whittled out or darted in, it will fold up under her dress and add unwanted inches to her hipline and waistline. If her figure tends to be hippy, care should be taken that the slip she wears cleaves closely from the waist down without strain at seams. Too-tight fit at the hipline, however, is apt to force the slip to "ride up" when she sits down.

The only way to be sure that a new slip is going to fit is to try it on before you buy. According to tests made by clothing specialists, slip sizes in different makes vary in cut, design and proportion. It is worth the extra time it takes to try on several different types in order to find the one best suited to your figure.

Minor alterations in slips are easy to make and will pay dividends by giving the dresses that go over them better fit. A zipper closing inserted at the side of the slip is often a help-in-need for insuring a sleeker fit for both the undergarment and the dress that tops it.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

Most girls of high school age like to go to co-ed school. It makes it a lot simpler to get dates for dances and picnics.

But strangely enough boys don't give a hoot. As a matter of fact most of them won't attend a co-ed boarding school.

Enrollment figures at one suburban school in New York show boarding-boys stay away in droves. You'd think the school had a quarantine sign up. School officials say they have little or no trouble filling their quota of girls, but boys really give them a headache.

Just to make things more attractive to the males the tuition charge is reduced for boys. But does that drag 'em in? No, siree! Junior probably persuades Pop that he's not going to have pigtails messin' around in his chemistry and corn fritters. But the girls flock to the school like crazy. The day-school enrollment of boys helps to balance things off and make life more interesting for the girls who are at the dating age.

Your Latin prof won't know you when you get back to school in your new riggin's. Some dreamy clothes have popped out.

To keep you warm there are colorful new moutons in a navy blue, dark green, grey. In short or full length coats these really will make a hit at the football game. Fashion designers predict you'll be able to get them to match any school color pretty soon. Smart fur blazers with ribbon binding, top off skirts or suits.

Inspired by Blue Boy are the new Gainsborough pants. These go slightly below the knee, are made up in wool jersey and designed to keep you warm during cold and stormy weather. These are not supposed to show but come with matching blouses!

The girl who likes that look of studied careless will enjoy big over-sized camel hair coats built like Mother Hubbards. These can be tied around the middle or worn loose. If you're the spaghetti type with no bumps on your hips, you can wear the matching camel hair skirt.

Gay heavy-ribbed sweaters come with matching spats. The kids are on the borderline about the spats but the new exciting ones may send them scurrying to cover their ankles. Spats also are being shown with heavy rubber-soled shoes which can be worn as storm boots.

You'll wear garters around your shirtsleeves just as Granny did. New blouses come equipped with sets of fancy garters that are so pretty you can't ignore 'em. They are practical too, and keep cuffs from picking up school lint.

To dress up everything—blouses, sweaters, best dresses—you'll wear scatter pins. These can be great conversation pieces. Mix up your collection of fraternity and friendship pins to make an interesting collection. Drag out Dad's old wish-bone stickpin or Mom's fancy hatpin and use them to fasten scarves and ties.

And just to prove you're a wee bit Scotch, your wardrobe won't be complete unless you have a plaid skirt with a long matching stole, fringe on the end.

For sports the girls have dug up brother's shirts again, only now they wear them buttoned down the back.

Pampa's Future

... and after all, Pampa's future is YOUR future

LOCATED IN PAMPA IN 1929
ENLARGED AND REMODELED
IN 1946

In September of 1929, the J. C. Penney Company decided to add Pampa to their national organization and it was in that month that they opened their doors to the Top o' Texans. The people in this area accepted the company in such a way that they were forced to enlarge the store in November of 1946. The local J. C. Penney store is managed by friendly Mr. R. M. Samples, assisted by Mr. Harry Hight. You'll find many nationally advertised brands in this Golden Rule store. J. C. Penney in Pampa, employs 34 employees.

Many years ago, Mr. J. C. Penney organized his first store . . . on the theory that the Golden Rule was the basis of all business. His store was small, but through the years he kept the faith of the communities in which his stores operated, and practiced the idea that his first store was founded upon—to do unto others as you would have them do unto you. Too, Mr. Penney had another idea . . . that of saving the public money on the items that they bought in his store by giving them quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices. That practice holds good today . . . one of Penney's slogans is "Penney is an old hand at saving you money."

Housing for your telephone voice is scarce, too

Like new houses, telephone cable is not yet plentiful. It takes telephone cable to "house" your telephone voice as it travels.

Perhaps telephone poles near your house carry a telephone cable (the thick, lead-covered carrier for a bundle of wires strung from pole to pole). Why can't we connect a telephone for you to this cable?

Ordinarily we could. But today most of these cables have no idle wires in them.

So new telephones take new cable.

That new cable is being made as you read these words. It is spinning out of telephone factories twice as fast as prewar. It is hurried to wherever we need it. There we hustle it into place—at the rate of a million miles of wire in cable this year alone.

Compared with normal production, telephone cable isn't scarce—it's abundant. But when 50,000 more people order telephones every month in the Southwest—as they do—even yesterday's abundance is today's shortage.

We're closing the gap, however, and we owe a lot to your patience and trust that we'll get the job done. For we're just as anxious to get you a telephone as you are to get one.

What It Is We Should Fear

In his Detroit speech President Truman gave new evidence that he plans to continue singing his song of hate throughout the campaign.

Virtually all of his pronouncements since the campaign got underway have been based on hatred and appeal to the "get even" motive and stressing that his administration is a guard against "fear."

In Detroit he spent most of his time discussing the "reactionary" Republicans, but carefully avoided saying anything about the reactionary New Deal Democrats who are intensely more reactionary than the Republicans.

Typical of the thinking, if it may be called that, of Mr. Truman and his followers was the pronouncement that "If you get an administration and a Congress unfriendly to labor you'll have much to fear and you'd better look out."

This is the speech of the demagogue, as Mr. Truman knows, but he felt that it must be made to salve some of the union bosses he has offended during recent months. Just what he meant by being "unfriendly" to labor wasn't explained but it may be assumed that he meant that the incoming Congress may not give additional special privilege to organized labor. Organized labor has been getting this special privilege through the New Dealers for a long time and the American people are seeing the dangers that can come from such legislation. The American people can see shortages and high prices and other national disturbances coming as the direct result of union labor's demand or special privilege. It is not likely that the new Congress is going to give any more special legislation setting the union labor class against all the rest of the workers of the nation.

We do have "much to fear," as Mr. Truman has said, if the next federal administration continues the New Deal policies that have taken us into war, brought shortages of food and housing and other essentials. We hope that the voting public will realize that such policies cannot long be continued if we are to start on the long road back to sound government based on the fundamental belief in the integrity and dignity of the individual.

No democratic government can permit dissidents to destroy the government under the shield of civil liberties.
—President Syngman Rhee of Korea, in a warning to Communists in his country.

MOPSY by Gladys Parker

Fair Enough.... by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK — In this campaign, President Truman and the Messrs. Green, Murray and Tobin and all the predatory bund of union racketeers are appealing to the stupidity and greed of the American worker. These are highly developed faculties of the faceless fellow who, as we are told by the biographer of Harry Hopkins, was deliberately turned aside from the political issues in 1944, and made to think of the fight as a mere bout of repartee between Governor Dewey and Roosevelt's dog. The biographer, Mr. Sherwood, makes no apology to that exalted ignoramus whom the late Roosevelt in sly contempt often took onto his lap to say, "You know and I know—" or "Your government has decided—". Roosevelt did play him for a fool and with enormous success. And all the old professionals who have lived like kings on the pence wrung from his pay confidently understand that the way to win his vote is to tickle his greed, flatter his pride with absurd compliments and yowl over his woes as though they were always the inflictions of a hateful personality called "Wall Street."

Mr. Taft, as a man of honor and self-respect, simply could not force himself to gaze upon the faces of the American people and tell them that they were fine and blameless, or even handsome. He made some attempts but the lies gagged him. He never could master the melodious knack that made Roosevelt king. Professional politicians, a salty, sordid cult like the old school of fight managers, said Mr. Taft had political b.o. and they were right. It was apparent from his demeanor that he regarded himself as a person very superior to the common run, even as Roosevelt did. But whereas Roosevelt pretended to be a man of the people, a grotesque pose by a snob as full of affectations as an actor, Mr. Taft never has pretended. He is distinctly finer in all the admirable ways than the people in the subway or watching the ballgame more intelligent, diligent and conscientious and with less of their greed for the property and rights of others, and he would not insult the voters' intelligence by pretending to be no better than they.

At campaign time, if ever, the Americans should be told the truth about themselves, for most of the evils done by the government are committed in response to popular demand. Instead, however, the rivals for office lather the citizen with imaginary virtues and arouse his primitive superstitions with ghost stories which would offend the independent intelligence of a laggard child. The proposition that "Wall Street" somehow caused the Truman inflation while it opposed with ruthless greed the inflationary Roosevelt-Truman scale of union wages is typical of these. The proposition that the Taft-Hartley Law has injured the worker by imposing restraints on the union goons who kick the faceless man around is another. If the ballot were restricted to persons of a reasonably low minimum of intelligence such nonsense would be self-defeating.

There is no mechanical method of learning at the moment just how well these appeals are going over. But if they do fail, their defeat need not be a sign of an awakening of intelligence. Many of the voters are just bored and want a new set of sycophants to flatter and fool them. Moreover, the Republicans are offering equally toothsome stuff of the same kind. We may trust them absolutely to say nothing about the inflationary power of a basic wage of $27 a day for bricklayers who are forbidden by their union's contract with the builders to exceed one-third of a reasonable normal rate of production. This is twice the normal pay for one-third the production. Actually, bricklayers are producing at less than one-sixth of their capacity per dollar of pay when portal-to-portal and wash-up time are counted and compulsory overtime and arbitrary bonuses are added. But where is the candidate who would appear before a congress of bricklayers and say, "by your greed and laziness you bums have made it necessary for the displaced people of America to pay $6 for a dollar's worth of home construction and yet you have the gall to squawk about the cost of beef and butter. I am against all racketeers, and if I am elected, I will do my best to make it impossible for you greedy parasites to prey on the necessity and anguish of the community. If you strike, I will smash your picket-lines so decent men can do honest work"?

Robert Moses, of New York, the most competent public servant in the United States and the most straightforward, is the only one who is capable of uttering such honest criticism.

But perish the thought that Mr. Moses hates the people. He is onto them, that is all, and, unlike others who are onto them, he will not lie to them about non-existent virtues for the privilege of working himself to death for them. He has a decent contempt for the honor, self-respect and self-restraint of the people.

The appetite for sympathy and flattery is a dangerous weakness of popular government. Roosevelt and Huey Long fattened the people on such hog-food until they had scarcely more manhood than swine. The Germans' under the spell of Hitler, fell to brooding, then moaning over the terrible persecutions put upon them, completely forgetting their own iniquities.

A campaign waged on distortions and evasions must come to a misshapen conclusion. Dewey will be elected (Russia willing) and will come under heavy punishment right away for failing to tackle evils which are due only to the selfishness and stupidity of the people themselves. Naturally, he will try to cure these troubles by scolding the Democratic Party. He will be thinking of 1952 when he will have to go back to the people like some bum mooching five dollars for a cup of java, asking for re-election.

There was a big charity event in Los Angeles a week ago in which a bunch of Hollywood stars took over the roles of the regular circus performers and raised a huge sum for a local hospital. I'll bet that, if the circus pulls the same stunt when it gets to Washington, even more money would be raised—by simply using Washington personalities.

Secretary of State Marshall should certainly be adept at walking a tightrope by now, and President Truman could either perform as the man on the flying trapeze or as a tamer in a cage full of angry congressmen. He might handle the human pincushion job, too.

J. Edgar Hoover could be billed as the "man with the longest reach in the world" and the entire thing might even wind up with a parade of GOP elephants through town, with Governor Dewey in the role of Sabu, the head elephant boy.

WESTERN UNITY ..... by Upton Close

WASHINGTON — Ever since the end of the war the German people have been trying to find out a certain state secret.

What is the longterm policy of the Western Allies toward Germany? This "state secret" is as important to the people of the victor nations as to the Germans, because the future peace of the world and the future industrial, economic, social, racial and cultural balance between the East and the West may very well depend on the future role of Germany.

After three years of waiting, it has become evident that the Western Allies have no such policy. There is no secret. Not even the appalling truth that no policy exists is secret any longer.

The Soviet Union quite evidently has a policy toward Germany. This policy, as such, is secret. But of course it is no secret to anyone who has watched the pattern of Soviet conquest and subjugation of "liberated" countries. The Soviet policy is to take Germany by olive leaves and painted doves; then to liquidate so many of "the ruling class" that the Russian conquest will be permanent.

Today, the Western Allies are preferred by Germany for the single reason that the Germans understand how much more destructive would be Soviet occupation. This leaves our future friendship on a precarious base.

What is to be our future relationship with Germany? Are we going to occupy the country for 10 years, as former Secretary of State Byrnes proposed? Even Stalin turned down this proposition, knowing it was no way to deceive and win over the German people.

But if we are not, then how long are we going to occupy the country? And are we going to keep on paying the cost of occupation plus subsidies to save Germans from starvation while we keep them stripped of the means of paying their own way?

"MINORITY" NATION

Many of us asked these questions in 1945 and again in 1946 and again in 1947. They are old questions now. Readers are tired of them. But they still are of paramount importance and they still stand unanswered. Are we going to make permanent subjects of the German people? If so are we going to give them colonial status or continue to hold them in the same status as Roman slave-captives?

The most urgently needed thing in the world today is unity among the Western nations—those nations which have brought civilization to the world. Since 1914 these nations have been destroying themselves by intra-racial warfare. Another such war, with super weapons, would send the West into sudden and violent decline—and send civilization back to the primitive slave-state era, as found in Russia.

Western nations form only about a fifth of the world's 2,000,000,000 people. America with only 144,000,000 of this total is a "minority" nation.

The West can continue to maintain its progress and leadership only by regaining its unity.

And if there is any doubt about this point, just consider the results of an atomic war between, let us say, Germany, Austria and Scandinavia, on the one hand, and Britain and the United States on the other.

Such a war would delight hundreds of thousands of pro-Soviet people among us. They manage to influence our administration to frustrate our policies and apparently to prevent establishment of suitable policies. Truman caters to them almost in every press release.

MIGHT COLLABORATE

It should be better understood that these people would be delighted at warfare between the United States and Britain, on one hand, and the Soviet Union on the other, at such a time as the Soviet Union can be assured of superior strength—such as Germany could provide!

German leaders know they can trade on this danger. If we do not establish an honest and genuinely amicable relationship with them we cannot blame them for trying to find ways to prepare for their war of liberation in collaboration with the Russians—as they did in the early years after the first World War.

George C. Marshall, as secretary of state, made a start some months ago when he proposed to permit the people of the three Western zones of Germany to get together and set up a sort of supervised self-government. This would be a step in the right direction. What has become of this plan? Did Moscow talk him out of it?

There was a report that Mr. John Foster Dulles talked him out of it. If this is true, it is of great significance, since Mr. Dulles is adviser to Presidential Candidate Thomas Dewey on international affairs. If this is true it hints that Mr. Dewey, as president, might be as unwilling or incapable of solving the German problem as has been the Truman administration. Mr. Dulles should confirm or deny this report.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

"Give Me Liberty"

I will continue to quote today from the booklet "Give Me Liberty" by Rose Wilder Lane. This booklet can be obtained from the office of this newspaper for 50 cents, by those who are interested in reading this masterpiece on individual freedom.

In the last issue Rose Wilder Lane explained that on her visit to Russia she found all around her that the individual was nothing; that the only thing that mattered was the collectivist State. She explained that she came out of the Soviet Union no longer a communist because she believed in personal freedom. I continue with this masterpiece:

"It happened that I spent many years in the countries of Europe and Western Asia, so that at last I learned something, not only of the words the various peoples speak, but of the real meanings of those words. No word, of course, is ever exactly translatable into another language; the words we use are the most clumsy symbols for meanings, and to suppose that such words as 'war' 'glory' 'justice' 'liberty' 'home' mean the same in two languages is an error.

"Everywhere in Europe I encountered the living facts of medieval caste and of the static medieval social order. I saw them resisting, and vitally resisting, individual freedom and the industrial revolution.

"It was impossible to know France without knowing that the French demand order, discipline, the restraint of traditional forms, the bureaucratic regulation of human lives by centralized police power, and that the fierce French democracy is not a cry for individual liberty but an insistence that the upper classes shall not too harshly exploit the lower classes.

"I saw in Germany and in Austria scattered and leaderless sheep running this way and that, longing for the lost security of the flock and shepherd.

"Resisting step by step, I was finally compelled to admit to my Italian friends that I had seen the spirit of Italy revive under Mussolini. And it seemed to me that this revival was based on a separation of individual liberty from the industrial revolution whose cause and source is individual liberty. I said that in Italy, as in Russia, an essentially medieval, planned and controlled economic order was taking over the fruits of the industrial revolution while destroying its roots, the freedom of the individual.

"'Why will you talk about the rights of individuals!' Italians exclaimed, at last impatient. 'An individual is nothing. As individuals we have no importance whatever. I will die, you will die, millions will live and die, but Italy does not die. Italy is important. Nothing matters but Italy.'

"This rejection of one's self as an individual was, I knew, the spirit animating the members of the Communist Party. I heard that it was the spirit beginning to animate Russia. It was the spirit of Fascism, the spirit that indubitably did revive Italy. Scores, hundreds of the smallest incidents revealed it.

"In 1920, Italy was a fleas' nest of beggars and thieves. They fell on the stranger and devoured him. There was no instance in which baggage could be left unguarded; every bill was an overcharge and no service however small was unaccompanied by a bill; taxis dodged into vacant streets and boats stopped midway to ships, that drivers and boatsmen might terrorize timid passengers into paying twice. Every step in Italy was a wrangle and a fight.

"In 1927, my car broke down after nightfall in the edge of a small Italian village. Three men, a waiter, a charcoal burner, and the uniformed chauffer of wealthy travelers sleeping in the inn, worked all night on the engine. When it was running smoothly in the bleak dawn, all three refused to take any payment. Americans in a similiar situation would have refused from human friendliness and personal pride. The Italians said firmly, 'No signora. We did it for Italy.' This was typical Italians were no longer centered in themselves, but in that mythical creation of their imaginations unto which they poured their lives, Italy, immortal Italy.

"I began at last to question the the value of this personal freedom which had seemed so inherently right. I saw how rare, how new in history is a recognition of human rights. From Brittany to Basra I considered the ruins of brilliant civilizations whose peoples had never glimpsed the idea that men are born free. In sixty centuries of human history that idea was an element of Jewish-Christian-Moslem religious faith never used as a political principle.

"It has been a political principle to only a few men on earth, for little more than two centuries.

Asia did not know it. Africa did not know it. Europe had never wholly accepted it, and was now rejecting it.

"I began to question, What is individual liberty?"

A Good Trick If He Gets Anything

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The next Senate will be a wild and woolly body from the standpoint of party regularity, and will be a hairshirt to the next president of the United States, whether he be Harry S. Truman or Thomas E. Dewey.

It will resemble the rumpus-raising chamber which frustrated Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover in the years when a small band of extremely able and astute Republican Progressives—Hiram Johnson of California, William Edgar Borah of Idaho, George W. Norris of Nebraska, the two "Bob" La Follettes of Wisconsin and Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota—usually sided with the out-of-power Democrats across the aisle.

CONTROL — To make matters worse, despite the results of the November senatorial races, the question of which party will enjoy actual and organizational control of the Senate may not be decided until it assembles next January. As happened in the Garner-Longworth duel for the House speakership in 1930, deaths and illnesses between November and January may exert greater influence over the composition and control of the upper chamber than the voters.

In this respect the Republicans possess an advantage, for the age of their membership is far lower than the average among the Democrats. The latter have half a dozen men over seventy and eighty who are beginning to show their years by their record of absenteeism.

With the alignment now at fifty-one Republicans and forty-five Democrats, a heavy blizzard on opening day may upset the decision at the polls.

CHECK — Despite the general belief that the Dewey-Warren ticket will win in a glide, the Democratic high command will make an extraordinary effort to regain dominance of the Senate as a check on the expected Republican administration. They count on making an ultra-liberal record of legislation and opposition as one means of rebuilding the party for 1952 and future years.

The Democrats believe that they can retain their present strength and at the same time knock off at least six Republican incumbents. The six they are aiming at with high-powered political rifles are John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia, George A. Wilson of Iowa, C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, Edward V. Robertson of Wyoming, and Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota.

REVERSE — Assuming that the Democrats win these contests, although the Republicans do not agree to that assumption, the membership of the future Senate would be fifty-one Democrats and forty-five Republicans, exact reverse of the current status.

But the GOP strategists believe that they have a good chance to oust or replace three sitting Democrats. They are James E. Murray of Montana, Carl Hatch of New Mexico and Tom Stewart of Tennessee. Mr. Hatch did not seek relection because of his expectation of a judicial appointment, and Mr. Stewart lost out in the primary contest to Representative Estes Kefauver.

ABSTINENCE — Former Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who still has many friends in that state, will not lift a finger for his old enemy, Senator Murray, and Burt's indifference could mean a vast difference in the outcome.

Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico is so ill that it is doubtful if he can campaign for the Democrats' nominee there, former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson. And without the so-called "Chavez vote" Mr. Anderson may have a hard time in defeating Pat Hurley.

Another influential Democrat whose political abstinence may damage the ex-cabinet member is former Governor John J. Dempsey, who was beaten for the Senate nomination by Mr. Anderson. Although an elderly Democrat, Mr. Dempsey owes nothing to President Truman, who supported Mr. Anderson. Last, the former agricultural boss is no ball of fire as a campaigner.

LINEUP — The attitude of "Boss" Crump may be the principal factor in Tennessee. He branded Representative Kefauver as a "Red" in the primary contest, in which Mr. Crump suffered one of his few setbacks. If he passes out the word to "lay off Kefauver," the latter may not have too good a chance against Carroll Reece, former chairman of the Republican National Committee. three seats while losing the six listed above, the Senate lineup would be forty-eight apiece. It would then be Father Time or Washington's unpredictable Weather Man who might cast the decisive vote.

Two Democratic senators—71-year-old Wagner of New York and the age-unknown McKellar of Tennessee—have missed as many sessions as they have attended in recent years. And they cannot vote by proxy next January.

TRAIL — It is the certainty of such a narrow margin in the body that will plague the next president and jeopardize responsible party government at the very moment when our supposedly democratic and majority rule system is on trial before the world, with Russia as the prosecutor.

Should President Truman be elected, for instance, a few Dixiecrats and conservative Democrats could endanger his program by lining up with Republicans of like philosophy.

But should a Dewey-Warren victory reunite the Democrats, the bloc of six or eight so-called Republican liberals—Morse, Flanders, Tobey, Aiken, Baldwin etc. —could do the same to the man in the White House. In either instance, the Chief Executive would not possess the voting power to match or underwrite his executive responsibility.

That would be a setup to delight Josef Stalin and Henry Wallace.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — Sonny Tufts, I've heard some people say, is slipping. Well, since Jan. 1 he's earned $150.000 and owns 25 percent of the Columbia picture, "Untamed Breed." He's slipping, all right, only it's uphill. . . Enterprise is changing the title of "The Best Things in Life Are Free." It's hardly appropriate now that they've had to pay James Mason $150,000 plus a percentage to play in the picture.

The ink was hardly dry on the Franchot Tone-Jean Wallace marriage disagreement when she started dating Howard Huges.

Alexis Smith had to dye her hair red for her role in "South of St. Louis" and has decided to keep it that way. However, after thinking it over, young Dean de Stockwell will have his locks restored to their natural color. Dean just finished the title role in "The Boy With Green Hair.". . . Mickey Rooney and just-divorced Barbara Lawrence have discovered each other.

The frost is still on the box office from Bette Davis' last film, 'Winter Meeting.'' So Warner Brothers will release her next, "June Bride," in a hurry in the hope that the switch to warmer weather will thaw out the cash registers.

BIGGEST MISTAKE

Producer Edward Small said it and he can do the ducking: "Next to trying to please New York reviewers, the mistake that has cost Hollywood the most money is producers making pictures to please studio executives' wives.

"These ladies generally have lots of influence and litte knowledge. What they like best is a picture written by a literateur who's a good name to invite to their dinner parties and the devil with the box-office."

Lloyd Gough, who recently directed a Hollywood production of the play, "Shoemaker's Holiday," asked an agent what he thought of the play. "Never mind the play," said the agent, But what a title for a comeback vehicle for Garbo."

WORDS FAIL TRIGGER

Roy Rogers' Trigger receives between 75 and 100 bags of sugar every week from juvenile fans. Roy writes the donors: 'Trigger is so grateful, he can't find words to express his thanks." . . .Gertrude Niesen nixed the lead in "That's the Ticket," the new Philip and Jules Epstein show Broadway bound. Gertie said she liked the script, said the play is sure to be a hit for at least two years in N. Y. and she doesn't want to stay away from Hollywood that long.

Now that Melvyn Douglas' busy wife, Helen Gahagan, is home in Hollywood again, Mel has an appropriate sign posted above her studio door where she receives her friends and constituents. It reads: "Through These Portals Pass the Most

The Nation's Press

IT SEEMED SO SIMPLE, TOO

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

Operation of the national flaxseed market in Minneapolis came to a dead stop a few days ago because the processors who buy the seed and crush it to obtain linseed oil refused to pay the government's fixed price of $6 a bushel. Another federal price fixing scheme had come apart at the seams.

Flax is not a favorite crop with American farmers. In normal pre-war years we bought more flaxseed or linseed oil from the Argentine than this country produced. During the war, when shipping was not available for imports from the Argentine, price controls were relaxed to stimulate domestic flaxseed production. The current price is nearly four times the pre-war level. The Argentine now has flaxseed running out of Dictator Peron's ears, but because of his diplomatic and economic difficulties has shipped very little to the United States since the war.

The existing price plan was worked out by the department of agriculture and flaxseed processors in 1946. The arrangement was that the processors would pay farmers $6 a bushel for their seed, which is about 30 per cent above the current parity price, and that the government would guarantee the price of linseed oil. Because of post-war shortages, that guarantee was painless to the taxpayers.

When a crushing plant extracts oil from the seed, however, it has left about 35 pounds of oil cake for every bushel of seed. This cake is a valuable stock food, providing the protein supplement needed when cattle are fattened on corn. The chink in the price control arrangement was that no supports were provided for oil cake or meal. The oil processors claim they have to get $65 a ton, and the price is now $61 and likely to get lower, because tremendous soybean and cotton crops are producing record amounts of competitive meals.

The planners started out to fix the prices on one raw material and its principal product. They now find that if their scheme is to work they will have to have some kind of price supports not only for the by-product of the oil crushing process but for its competitors, such as soybean, cottonseed and peanut meals, and even for corn, soybeans and cotton.

Meanwhile, in spite of the failure of the Argentine to resume exports, the inordinately high price offered for flaxseed in this country has produced a greater supply than the country can absorb. The next thing we hear, the Marshall plan beneficiaries probably will be offered a lot of American flaxseed or linseed oil. What started out two years ago as a control program that wasn't going to cost anybody anything is going to end up, as usual, dipping into the pockets of the American taxpayer.

THE STORY: Hilary Shenstone, British secret agent, lies wounded in the Indian desert beside a crashed plane, after completing a dangerous mission. He thinks of Nana Farthing, his home in the English countryside, and feels a desperate need to get back there. He doesn't know that the house has been let and that dreamy, 17-year-old Sabrina, whom he has never met, has adopted his old room and eagerly awaits his return. "Things have begun to slip, Bill . . ." he tells the pilot with him, as they await rescue. . . . Hilary returns to London in what seems a dream, decides to enjoy himself even so and heads for his club. Meanwhile, at the club Hilary's brother George has just left two old family friends: Calthorpe, and elderly Lord Totleigh, father of Hilary's Alice.

* * *

"HOW does Alice feel about living in Waziristan?" queried Calthorpe dryly. "Or is that all off?"

"I don't know—I give up—I can't keep track of things," Alice's father confessed fretfully. "At one time there was a sort of understanding, I believe it's called, between Alice and Hilary, as you know. They're second cousins—more or less grew up together. But now—I don't know—he's been away two years. She seems to be seeing quite a lot of George lately, if it comes to that."

Because of his own guilty preference for Hilary, Calthorpe kept his eyes on the floor and forbore to remark that George seemed rather more Alice's sort. Totleigh nearly said it for him.

"Of course George was a lot older when they were kids. Now the difference in their ages doesn't matter so much. Or does it? Of course I'd rather it was Hilary. But on the other hand—" He petered out, for he too was aware that George, with his very decent income and settled habits, was surely more Alice's sort. "I give up," he said again helplessly. "You can't run other people's lives for them."

At that moment Denby of the Home Office entered the room, glanced round quickly, and made for Totleigh on the hearthrug. Hilary arrived on the threshold just behind him and paused there, watching Denby cross the room.

* * *

THE feeling that he must wake up any moment now had been growing stronger as he approached the club, while the reality of London wavered and receded. Then things began to go askew, as they always do in even the most vivid dreams—discrepancies—omissions—and a looming sense of something dreadfully wrong. First, he discovered he couldn't remember anything about the voyage home. And then it was a new commissionaire at the club door, in place of old Simpson, who must have died at last. The new man naturally hadn't recognized him, and the two members who had passed through the swing door just ahead of him were strangers to Hilary. It was not quite the entrance he had counted on. The commissionaire greeted the other two and turned away to find a telephone message. None of them took any notice of Hilary, so he tossed his hat onto a peg and started towards the lounge.

Denby was crossing the hall from the writing-room a few yards away, and Hilary cried his name with relief. But Denby went on, not hearing, into the lounge. Hilary followed, with an idea of moving very carefully now, so as not to jar himself awake. He paused on the threshold. Old Calthorpe was there, and Alice's father. . . .

"—I give up—you can't run other people's lives for them—"

They saw Denby then, and welcomed him. None of them glanced towards the door where Hilary stood. He drew a few steps nearer, cautiously. He must hear, before he woke. . . .

"You look as though you'd had a bit of a jolt," said Calthorpe to Denby.

* * *

"WE'RE full of jolts at the Home Office," replied Denby, and Hilary saw that he looked old and tired. "But this one pretty well floors me."

"Bad news from somewhere?" Totleigh sounded sympathetic.

"From India—as usual. Hilary Shenstone is dead. One job too many up beyond Peshawur. Nobody's fault, I suppose—"

Poor old Denby, Hilary was thinking. This has hit him hard. Poor old—WHAT? DEAD. WHO?

"But his brother George was sitting here just now—" began Calthorpe, dazed.

"He doesn't know yet. The family will be notified tomorrow. One or two things have to be dealt with first. I shouldn't have mentioned it, but—I loved his father."

The family will be notified. . . . A familiar Home Office phrase, as Hilary well knew. This wouldn't do, he was ready to wake up now, this was nightmare. They were talking about him. . . . Oh, yes, most decidedly, it was time to wake up now. . . .

"It's always the wrong one," Denby was saying. "All through the War, it seemed to be always the wrong one, the best one, first. Maybe there's some reason in it, I don't know— But I'm going to blame Pearson for this, at least till I know differently. He should have sent more men, instead of Bill Dalton alone. He should have sent sooner—"

Pearson. Yes, of course . . . there was a job to do for Pearson. . . . You'll have to write my family, Bill. . . . He'd said that himself . . . after the crash. . . .

"Hilary was dead of a gunshot wound when the rescue plane arrived," Denby was saying "Nothing could have saved him, once he was hit, but—I blame Pearson."

Dead. He remembered now. . . . Dalton sitting beside him, under the wing of the useless plane. . . His side was hurting . . . and he must get back to England . . . why? . . . something he had to do . . . what was the date? . . . But this wasn't England. . . . It was Eternity. . . .

FUNNY BUSINESS BY HERSHBERGER

"It sounds better than just 'groceries' with prices the way they are."

Most Modern Restaurant in Pampa -- Johnson's Cafe

DeLuxe Dry Cleaners Has Expanded Greatly Under the Ownership of Morris Enloe

The DeLuxe Dry Cleaners, owned for the past seven years by Morris B. Enloe, now has 17 employes as compared to four in 1941.

The expanding business has one of the most modern cleaning plants in the Southwest. The DeLuxe Cleaners specialize in their Sanitone dry cleaning, their bachelor laundry service and their free pick-up delivery service.

The organization has been in existance since 1935. Mr. Enloe started managing it in 1939 and purchased it two years later. Its present location is at 315 W. Kingsmill. Formerly it was operated where the Citizen's Bank and Trust Company building is at present, 123 W. Kingsmill.

Mr. Enloe doesn't confine his cleaning interests to Pampa alone. He is a member of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers as well as a member of the Dry Cleaners Institute of Texas.

He owns his own home at 441 Hughes. He lives there with his wife, Irene, two sons, Morris, Jr., 12; James Andrew, 11 and Carol Ann, 3. He is a member of the Pampa Lions Club, head of the Sports Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and an active member of the First Christian Church. In connection with his church work he is a district governor of the Laymen's League and Cub Scout committeeman.

He is well known among the children of Pampa because of his interest in young people. He works with the young people of the First Christian Church, the children who are connected with Lions Club activities, as well as with many other groups of Pampa children.

How he finds time and energy to keep up with so many worthwhile activities is hard to say. But find it he does since he feels working with the youth of the nation is a civic as well as an individual duty.

INTERIOR OF THE NEW JOHNSON'S CAFE is the latest thing in restaurants. There are enough seats to serve 60 people at one time. The exterior of the cafe coincides with the inside in modernity. The building in the middle of the 200 block on E. Kingsmill helps brighten the block.

Owen Johnson Has Operated Food Establishments Here For the Past Nineteen Years

By JIM McCLUSKEY
Business Review Editor

Been in the middle of the 200 block on E. Kingsmill lately? If you haven't been there, you haven't seen the new JOHNSON'S CAFE since it opened Aug. 5, and you don't know what you've been missing.

Twenty-two years ago Owen Johnson and his wife, Clo, arrived in Pampa to make their residence. Maybe 1926 doesn't sound as if that were too long ago. However, when they got to town, the city was starting to pave Cuyler.

During the next three years, Mr. Johnson worked at the Crystal Palace Confectionery. However, in 1929 he decided to go into business for himself. So—in due course—he picked out the location where the Ideal Grocery No. 1 is at present, and started his first Pampa restaurant.

Born and reared at Wapanucka, Okla., Owen worked for groceries, drug stores and confectioneries until he decided to make Pampa the Johnson headquarters.

HOMEMADE PIES

After 19 years in the restaurant business here, Mr. Johnson certainly can boast of having about the best homemade pies in the Top o' Texas area. In fact all the pastries used at the JOHNSON'S CAFE are homemade, and they can't be beat. Specializing in pastries, he sells 50 pies daily—some take-out orders and the rest sold with meals or with some of that good Johnson's coffee. Mr. Johnson also makes 25 dozen rolls and doughnuts per day.

"We would appreciate it if the persons who want to buy pies would turn in their orders ahead of time so that we will not run out during the day," he said.

Besides the regular excellent meals and many kinds of pies, the cafe sells ice cream and malts. It's safe to say that Mr. Johnson not only has been in the restaurant business in Pampa, longer than anyone else, but also that he now has one of if not THE most modern and finest cafe in The Friendly City.

FOUR CAFES

The second location for the JOHNSON'S CAFE was in the middle of the 200 block on N. Cuyler. Next he operated where the Duncan Insurance building is now. Then for the past several years he has had his food establishment at 200 N. Cuyler.

Mr. Johnson really has grown up with Pampa. He has always done his part in the civic betterment of the city, as well as providing those meals that everyone likes.

"I'm settled now," he boasted. "I've always wanted a 'dream' restaurant as I have now; so I'm here to stay for keeps."

After vacationing in seven states during the past summer, the Johnsons have decided Pampa is THE place to live. They toured through seven of the so-called resort states, going through many towns. However, they'er glad to be back in Pampa, and say they will take Pampa to any of the cities they've been through.

Residing at 1112 E. Francis, the Johnsons have three children. Neil, 17, now in his Senior year at the Pampa High School, Danny Joe, 11, a beginning sixth grader, and Clo Ann, 7, who is seeing how the second grade compares with the first.

SEVENTEEN EMPLOYED

After managing restaurants here with only four employes, the new JOHNSON'S CAFE seems far removed from the early-day JOHNSON'S CAFES. There are now 17 persons working at the cafe—10 waitresses, two cooks, two cook's helpers and four dishwashers. Doing a bit of everything, Mr. Johnson thinks he should count for two employes, "So there really are 19 of us on the job," he said.

The cafe is equipped with all the latest and most modern equipment available. Besides an electric dishwasher, the cafe has an electric potato pealer and roll warmer.

"We wish to thank all our friends who have so aided us with the opening of our new establishment," Mr. Johnson said. "Also, we wish to thank our many customers for their patronage. Our special thanks go to Brooks Electric Company, Texas Furniture Company, Sullins Plumbing Company, Parker's Blossom Shop, Clayton Floral Company and Arnholtz Coffee Company."

Unusual Honors Claimed by J. Ray Martin During His 15-Year Business in Pampa

J. Ray Martin, who has been in the life insurance business here for the past 15 years, has held many civic offices.

An underwriter of the Business Men's Assurance Company, Mr. Martin started writing insurance in 1921. His present office, 107 N. Frost, is a well known spot among Pampans.

The Business Men's Assurance Company pioneered health, accident and hospital insurance. The home of the company is in Kansas City, Mo., and the Texas office is in Dallas.

Since 1935 Mr Martin has operated from his present location.

Living at 708 N. Frost with his wife, Mary E., he has been a past president of the Pampa Shrine Club, past commander of American Legion Post No. 275, at Memphis, Texas, and member of the Chamber of Commerce for a number of years.

Mr. Martin is a charter member of No. 21 Bothwell Cain American Legion Post, Fort Worth, which was organized in 1919. He paid his 30th year membership this year. Also, he is a past commander of the Memphis Commandery, Knights Templar, No. 50.

After his 15 years in Pampa, he has gathered numerous friends. With his past commander's and past president's titles, it is easy to see that Mr. Martin is not only a very versatile individual, but also a man who really gets things accomplished.

His company specializes in life income annuities and group insurances.

Have a Car That Has a Need? If So the Place to Go Is Pampa Lubricating Company

The Pampa Lubricating Company, under the joint ownership of M. G. Elkins and Cris Walsh, has shown a decided increase in the past year since they took over the business. Roy Chisum, who operates the Roy Chisum's Garage in part of the lubricating company, completes the organization so any handicapped car can find its cure within the walls of the building.

One year ago Elkins and Walsh purchased the Pampa Lubricating Company from H. T. Hampton. They handle Gulf gasoline, and specialize in washing and greasing autos.

Located at 114 E. Francis, the tidy black and white building generally has from one to a half-a-dozen cars around it awaiting service.

Seat covers, tires of all sorts and all kinds of automobile accessories may be purchased at the Pampa Lubricating Company.

Chisum's Garage specializes in tune-up work. However, any and all kinds of auto repairs are done by Roy. He does complete motor and carburetor tune-ups. He doesn't limit his service to cars alone, either. He boasts he is ready and able to completely overhaul both autos and trucks of every make.

Giving both retail and wholesale services, Mr. Chisum attends the Carter Carburetor School in St. Louis each year.

With the typical Garvin, Chris, and Roy smiles, many Pampans are pleased daily after they drop into the Pampa Lubricating Company for gasoline, a minor auto repair job, or a major overhauling job.

Polio Virus May Move in Nerve System

TORONTO —(AP)— A new possible way of tracing infantile paralysis virus in the human body was opened here Friday.

Two research scientists showed pictures of tiny dots that may be polio virus moving inside a nerve. If these dots actually are the virus, the pictures are an important discovery.

They might be a new way to learn how the virus gets into the body and how it moves along nerve pathways to do its damage.

The photographs were made by D. E. Derobertis and Dr. Francis O. Schmitt of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, with a powerful electron microscope. They were shown to the Electron Microscope Society of America.

Labor Costs May Force Closing Mexican Plant

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— "U. S. Rubber Mexicana," subsidiary of the U.S. Rubber Co., is considering closing its Mexico City Tire factory because of high costs.

The Department of Labor said Saturday the company has asked permission to close, legally necessary in Mexico, in case it is unable to reduce labor charges.

The company's proposal, the department said, "is that its basic labor contract be re-instated without several subsequent pay increases, because it has lost 5,000,000 pesos and has borrowed 17,000,000 pesos for plant development, during its operations in Mexico.

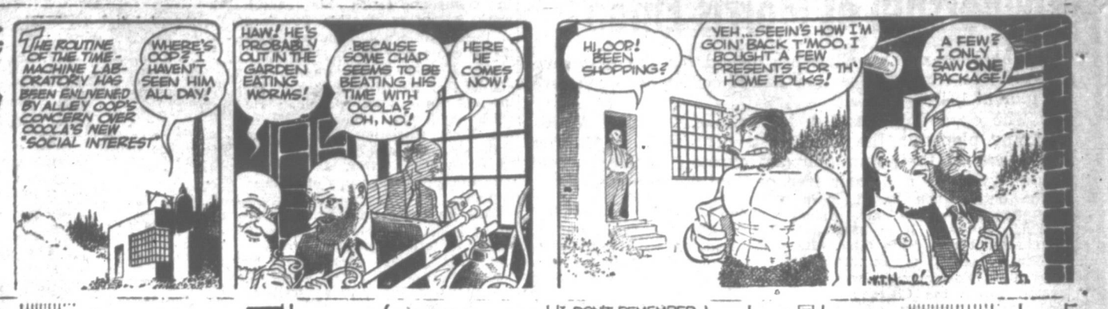

The Department of Labor has called a meeting of labor leaders and company officials to seek some arrangement to prevent a shutdown.

Extra nice 2 bed-room home just ½ block from High School—good garage, level yard—this home has a 6000 FHA loan, payable 47.00 month, that can be assumed—I have sold the owner a larger home so we could give immediate possession—if you're looking for something nice, close to the High School it would pay you to investigate this good buy.

. . . . A listing that I consider one of the outstanding buys in Pampa—large 8 room house with 2 baths—hardwood floors, double garage, everything in A-I shape—and it's located on the north side on a 100x140 ft. corner lot not too far from a good school—this home now converted into two 4 room apts—possession in 30 days—we can sell you this good property for as little as 8500 cash—or we will take as little as 2000 down with a smaller house or anything of value as trade—it's got to sell in the next few days, and that's the reason we're selling it this way.

Chief and His Scalp Hunters Hunt Princess

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Chief Wh-Nee-Ota and his Scalp Hunters are searching for the trail of their princess.

The chief is a real Indian and the Scalp Hunters are his band—night club variety.

The princess is his 22-year-old wife, the former Anna McGuire. The chief said he last saw her Sunday night. She was dressed in full Indian regalia.

"How," he asked, "can a costume like that stay missing with a girl in it?"

That is the 64 wampum question.

The chief recalls that six months ago Anna disappeared for three days while suffering from amnesia. He fears that she may have a touch of the malady again and be headed for her mother's home at Chambersburg, Pa.

Coast to Coast Strip on Film

DAYTON, O. —(AP)— The Air Force said Saturday it set an aeri photographic record by filming a strip of the United States from coast to coast in a single flight.

Photographers of the Air Materiel Command at nearby Wright Field shot 325 feet of film—390 individual photographs—in the Sept. 1 flight from Santa Barbara, Calif., to Mitchell Air Force Base, N.Y.

The Air Force photographers flew the 2,700 miles at 40,000 feet, with a Tri-Metrogon K-17 camera installation firing approximately each 50 seconds. Such a camera, consisting of three six-inch cameras positioned so they record the earth from horizon to horizon, pictures about 130 square miles with each photograph.

Humphrey, who has the blessing of the regular party organization and of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, expects to take on Senator Joseph Ball, Republican, in the general election.

Both Dewey and Mr. Truman are due to take a personal role in Colorado's senatorial battle when they speak in that state next week.

Former Gov. John C. Vivian and Will F. Nicholson, of Denver, are seeking the Republican nomination for the seat now held by Senator Edwin C. Johnson.

In Washington state, Gov. Mon Wallgren, close personal friend of Mr. Truman, is seeking renomination. If he gets by former Gov. Clarence D. Martin in the Democratic primary, he may have to face former Gov. Arthur Langlie, Republican, in the November election.

Extra Space Made by Odd Spot Shelves

The few feet of spare storage area you'd like to have can be provided by building convenient shelves, suggests Practical Builder, Chicago. Size-up your house and see where you can add inexpensive areas for books, utensils, dishes or any number of collected articles found in every home.

The overflow of jars and bottles, or those that are too large for standard bathroom cabinets usually wind up on an inconvenient window ledge. They can stay within reach on open corner shelves or narrow tiers of shelves on either side of the mirrored cabinet. Add color and convenience to your bathroom by using an egg-crate partition of shelves at one end of the bathtub to hold towels, brushes, soap, cleanser, bath salts and powder jars, etc.

A short stair bannister can be turned into a greenery or display case for your porcelain or glass collection by rebuilding it into a tier of narrow shelves. And the long expanse of undivided living-dining room can become attractively shortened by an island of open shelves that suggests a division without using needed space.

Shelves open to both rooms can save steps from kitchen to dining room, yet be decorative when they hold choice glassware, silver or plants. The same type of open shelving between kitchen and laundry, when they are adjacent, affords extra ventilation and avoids the shut-off feeling of small rooms.

An awkward corner, or the unhappy-looking narrow wall area beside an oddly placed door or fireplace can become an important point of interest by adding floor to ceiling shelves for books, chinaware objects or plants.

Flank an ugly, exposed radiator with low bookshelves and cover the space between with open lattice work that does not prevent heat circulation yet hides the plumbing. A shelf across the entire unit affords extra space for plants, magazines, even an extra seat if radiator is low enough.

Glazed porches have a lot of waste space under windows which might become handy parking spots for books, games, summer equipment or sun-greedy plants. One of those small, high "piano" windows common in some bungalows can take its place as an interesting part of the room if it tops a bookcase built flush with its sides, or if framed in a "U" shaped shelf holding knick-knacks, books or plants. And those once popular but now too wide-archways between large rooms can be filled in with twin tiers of open shelves holding greenery, books or a handy spot for the record library.

Use a little imagination in installing shelves. Besides painted or stained wood, there is glass, plastic, tile, glass block or even common brick for use in their formation. But plan them for utmost utility and appeal, don't just scatter them here and there without being actually practical.

New Aid To Stop Home Settling

AUSTIN — A project to prevent building settlement by removing water from foundation soil before construction begins is underway in the University of Texas Bureau of Engineering Research.

Bureau Associate Director Raymond F. Dawson explained that buildings settle because their weight pushes water out of foundation soil, pressing it down. The bureau plan is to drain the water out before building begins by running electric current through the soil.

Laboratory experiments have been successful. Currently the project has progressed to the most important question—can the process be applied to larger areas and will the cost be prohibitive to general use?

Considerable work and testing has to be done before the final value of the method will be known, Prof. Dawson said.

War Time Uses of Asbestos Noted

Corrugated asbestos cement sheets were used extensively during the war for roofing and walls of port facilities, airdromes and other buildings needed overseas and at home by the U. S. armed forces. The sturdy sheets are fireproof, non-corrodible and require no painting or other preservative treatment. For that reason they also are widely employed in chemical plants. Because of their large size, they can be applied quickly at a saving in construction costs.

U.S. Report Shows Growth Of Asbestos Cement Industry

How public acceptance of a new fireproof, weatherproof roofing material at the turn of the century led to development of the asbestos cement building products industry as a major producer of building materials is told in a recent report by the Construction Division of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

As the report points out, asbestos cement building products now "are used for a multiple of exterior and interior construction purposes. They are produced in the form of sheets and building board. Besides being fireproof and weatherproof, they are immune to rot as well as to the ravages of termites and rodents."

They owe their origin largely to a discovery in 1899 by an Austrian who developed a process for combining esbestos fibers with Portland cement to produce a ridig material of great strength and durability.

The discovery solved a problem which had long faced the building industy. Portland cement, although fireproof, was undesirable as a general roofing material when mixed as concrete. In order to be sufficiently strong it had to be thicker and heavier than most construction warranted. If thin enough to be employed as roofing, it was too brittle and weak for the purpose.

The method of combining Portland cement with asbestos fibers produced a roofing material with such strength and resilience that thin slabs or sheets proved entirely satisfactory. Asbestos fibers were employed because of their virtual indestructibility, coupled with unusual strength and lightness. Mined from a rock, asbestos had been known for centuries as the "magic mineral," since it will not burn.

The immediate success of this fusion process encouraged development of asbestos cement building products in various froms. Their ready public acceptance for farm, home and industrial uses stimulated rapid growth of the industry during the next few years.

Within the last decade the demand for asbestos cement materials for new construction and remodeling has been especially heavy. The industry has expanded accordingly. A large contributing factor in this expansion was the introduction of improved products, notably new types of general utility asbestos board which were more flexible and easier to cut and install. These are widely employed both for exteriors and as interior finishes for walls and ceilings.

One of the principal advantages of all asbestos cement products is that they are practically maintenance free. Although they require no painting or other preservative treatment, they never wear out.

Fire Safety Aided by Material Men

Building supply dealers today constitute a first-line of defense against fire danger because they stock all types of fire-resistive materials as soon as new ideas are developed and made available.

Dealers often know about such developments, have the materials on hand before local builders are aware of their existence, and advise as to their proper use.

Such items as solid-panel doors, asbestos roofing and siding, metal door and window frames, fireproof insulation, metal lath and fire-resistive plaster, all of which increase the fire-safety of a home, can be found today in the stock of virtually every supplier in the country.

ROOF FIRES REDUCED

Within ten years after Des Moines, Iowa, prohibited wooden roofs, the number of roof fires dropped from 469 to 57 a year. Before the ordinance was passed, 41 percent of all firs in Des Moines started on roofs; ten years later, only 7 percent.

FIRES IN INSTITUTIONS

There is a daily average of six school fires, six church fires and three hospital fires in America.

Cool Porch Made From Garage

In the modern home, every room and any shelter connected with the house is expected to do double duty. Many homeowners get extra service from their garages by converting them into recreation rooms or summer porches. The family car does not need shelter in summer; it can stand in the driveway.

Most garages are ideally situated for such use, usually with a wall facing the yard. The first step is to open this wall and install removable screen panels extending from floor to roof line. Folding or overhead-type doors will shut out summer rain, and in the winter when the screens are taken down will serve as a wall.

The concrete floor should be painted in an attractive color. Furniture of light construction is best because minimum effort is required to move and store it in winter when the car goes back into the garage. Bright color should be used thruout the interior, and added summer comfort can be attained if the roof is insulated with mineral wool to keep excessive heat from entering the structure.

Without sacrificing space, built-in cupboard can usually be provided at small expense for storage of tools and equipment which has a place in the garage, and for books and articles used for summer living in this outdoor room.

Quiz Homeowners

1. How many persons are killed daily by fire?
2. How many home fires occur daily?
3. How many fires are preventable?
4. At what temperature does wood ignite?
5. How can ignition of wood near chimney and furnace be prevented?
6. How many fires are caused annually by defective stove and furnace pipes?
7. How far away from spark or flame will gasoline ignite?
8. By what percentage is 1948 fire loss expected to exceed 1947?
9. What is the chief cause of fire?
10. How many $5,000 homes could be built with material destroyed annually in farm fires?

ANSWERS

About 17,000.

26 percent. 9—Carelessness. 10—1,000. 3—At least 90 percent. 4—Mined from a rock, asbestos had been known for centuries as the "magic mineral," since it will not burn. 5—Keep excessive heat from entering the structure. 6—Approximately 5,000. 7—Up to 200 feet. 8—About 469 degrees. 5—Cover with thin metal wool. 2—Nearly 1—An average of 30.

Annual Fire Loss 10 Pct. Electrical

More than 65,000 fires a year, or over 10 percent of the national total, are caused by electrical short-circuits, defective appliances and misuse of electricity. Resulting damage exceeds $71,000,000.

A large proportion of these fires are caused by short-circuits due to overloaded wires or makeshift wiring installed by home-owners in the erroneous belief that they are saving money.

No circuit should have more that 12 outlets and no wiring be installed except by an expert electrician. In case of a short-circuit in wall or ceiling, the fire danger will be greatly reduced if the space is filled with mineral wool thermal insulation because this material is a non-conductor, muffles sparks and prevents them reaching nearby wood or other flammable materials, it is stated by the Construction Research Bu- of New York.

Farm Fires Kill 3,500 Each Year

Because of their isolated location, prevalance of frame construction and careless use of open flames, gasoline and kerosene, American farms record 3,500 deaths by fire yearly. Property valued at $85,000,000 is destroyed in these rural conflagrations.

Replacement of fire-wrecked farm homes, barns and other buildings requires the cutting of 5,000 acres of U. S. forests annually.

New Houses Use Variety Of Materials

Industry Engineered homes, which represent a new concept of home building designed to reduce housing costs, have the advantage of basic standardization of part sizes while retaining ample individuality in appearance, according to building experts.

They point out that besides the innumerable architectural designs and interior arrangements which can be effected, further distinctiveness is offered by the wide choice of materials that are adaptable to use in such homes. In that respect, Industry Engineered homes differ little from those of conventional construction.

For example, among the modern building materials particularly well suited to such houses are asbestos cement products, the experts say. Employed on an increasingly large scale in recent home building such products combine attractiveness and economy with fireproof and weather-resistant qualities.

Industry Engineered homes consist of one or more "livable units" each measuring 16 x 24 feet. A home owner can build one unit initially and add others as his budget permits. Units may be arranged in one or two stories, in L shapes, inverted L's, or in various other designs to suit the builder's preference. The sizes of materials used are in multiples of four—both in feet and inches.

This standardization of sizes is the basis of the entire plan, which is being advanced by leaders of the building industry. By means of such standardization they hope to reduce materially the on-site expense of cutting, fitting and assembling of materials. Wherever possible, items are pre-assembled. Standardization of sizes also is expected to cut costs by permitting more extensive mass production of windows, doors, framing lumber and so on as well as to effect substantial economies in distribution and inventories. Manufacturers of building materials are being urged to cooperate with the program by conforming to 4-foot, 4-inch multiples in product sizes.

The effiency of new system is well illustrated in the application of asbestos cement siding shingles, for instance. Available in attractive smooth or textured surfaces, the shingles are 24 inches wide by 12 inches deep. A course containing 12 shingles will span exactly a unit wall 24 feet long. Gable end exteriors can be finished economically with asbestos cement board, a general purpose product available in 4X8-foot size. One sheet, cut in half diagonally, can be so placed as to enclose a gable end area having a base of 16 feet, provided the pitch is not more than 6 inches to the foot. Roofing shingles and other asbestos cement products noted for their durability are equally adaptable to Industry Engineered homes.

Kiddies Help Prevent Fire

School children can play a leading role in fire prevention by hunting out and eliminating hazards in their own and neighbors' homes, suggest the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

With the cooperation of local fire departments, many schools now give instruction in fire prevention and where this is done results have been amazing.

In Los Angeles after 20 hours of study and illustrated lectures, school children corrected 201,376 home fire hazards. These included 1,664 extension cords removed from under rugs, 520 pennies removed from fuse boxes, 13,080 corrections of misuse of flammable fluids, and 976 cases of dangerous disposal of ashes.

In most cities where this work is carried on, pupils are given forms on which they list hazards they have asked their parents and neighbors to correct. At the end of the term the pupil with the longest list is awarded a certificate.

Lower Fire Loss by Safe Construction

In an effort to reduce the nation's huge annual loss of life and property due to fires, fire-fighting experts are placing more and more emphasis on fire-safe construction in homes as well as commercial, industrial and farm buildings.

The National Fire Protection Association reports that in the 202 largest fires in the country last year the greatest contributing factor to damage was inferior construction. Other sources report that in residential fires much of the damage can be attributed to combustible roofs and exterior walls which permit fires to spread.

Use of fireproof or fire-resistant materials is urged as one of the most effective means of protecting homes and other buildings from destruction by fire. Various types of such materials are now available. Among those widely employed are asbestos cement products, which come in the form of roofing, siding, general purpose board and corrugated sheets. They are made of two virtually indestructible substances, asbestos fibers and Portland cement.

Besides being fire-safe they are immune to rot and decay. The board product makes an attractive interior lining. It is used extensively to provide fire-resistant enclosures for heating plants, which are the source of many fires.

Artist's Canvas Made of Asbestos

Asbestos cement board has been called "the building material of a thousand one one uses." Now that phrase can be revised to read "a thousand and one uses." Now that wood, Ind., artist has found that asbestos cement building board is an excellent material on which to execute paintings. He and several artist friends began to use it some time ago in place of conventional canvas. They point out that the board not only serves the immediate purpose well, but it possesses permanent qualities which will make it last for centuries. The material is made of two virtually indestructible substances, asbestos fibers and Portland cement.
