Clark Boy Hurt In Horse Mishap

Jimmy Clark, seventh grade son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Clark Jr., remained in a Matador hospital Wednesday after he was injured in a horse race Saturday in Matador.

The boy was riding a horse owned by Angus Davis in a two-horse race when, near the end of the race, the horse was frightened and either jumped or ran through a barrier.

It was thought shouts from the crowd might have excited the horse and not known whether or not the horse might have rolled over on the boy.

Someone connected with the race track is reported to have taken dirt from the child's mouth and throat and administered artificial respiration to start him breathing again.

It is believed the boy suffered a concussion. No broken bones were reported.

A report Wednesday was that he had regained consciousness at intervals but still could not be moved.

Area To Pay U.S. Almost $4 Million

With April 15 just around the corner, taxpayers in Lamb Co. are preparing to make their peace with Uncle Sam.

What will be the price of this peace? Just about what it was last April, despite the tax cut that was voted a year ago and despite the lower rates that are now in effect.

The answer is that incomes have risen since that time to the point where the taxes on the larger incomes, even at the reduced rates, will be even greater, in many instances, than they were before.

This is indicated on a national scale in the Federal budget, which lists the expected receipts from individual income taxes at $47.0 billion this year, or only 3.5 percent less than in 1964.

In some parts of the country and with some families, the change will be more than this and, in others, less. Overall income is the determining factor.

Last year, payments of individual taxes by residents of Lamb County came to approximately $3,734,000, according to a breakdown of the statewide returns reported by the Internal Revenue Service. Included is what was paid in the form of withholding taxes.

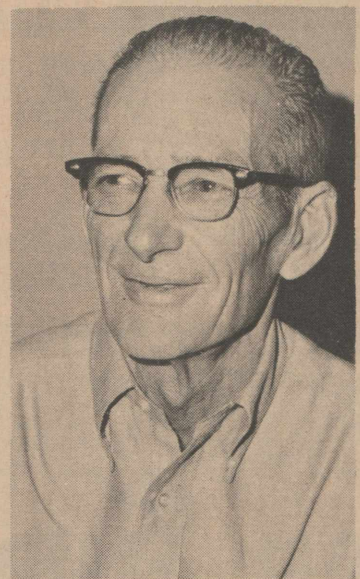

County residents, as a result, contributed 0.20 percent of the taxes collected in the State of Texas as a whole, which amounted to $1,867,000,000.

Because of the changed situation since that time, the returns from the area this year, based on preliminary earnings reports, are expected to be in the neighborhood of $3,820,000, a rise of $86,000.

The tax rates that went into effect in 1964 after the reductions, when they dropped to a range of 16 to 77 percent on personal income, went down still further on Jan. 1, 1965. The range now is from 14 to 70 percent.

Despite this additional cut in rates, which will apply to income received this year, the Administration estimates that tax receipts from individuals will rise by $1.2 billion in the coming fiscal year.

It counts on a continued expansion of the economy, duplicating the achievements of 1964, when the gross national product rose 6.5 percent to a total of $623 billion.

Thomas, Hatley In Bid For Mayor

Names of two candidates for mayor and three for councilmen will appear on the ballot in the city election next Tuesday.

Bill Thomas, incumbent, and Elvis Hatley are seeking the mayor's post. Candidates for the two city council posts to be filled are Parley Myers, Lester Thompson and L. H. McAdams.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the city hall. Hatley, in the insurance business here, had this statement to make:

"If I am elected mayor of Olton (my dad always told me the truth hurts nobody, so this is it), I will, if the other boys will go along with me, improve the dirt streets in Olton and fire Emmett Burrows, the Chief of Police."

Thomas, who was elected to his first term as mayor here in 1963, said that he feels quite a bit has been accomplished in the last two years "with the limited means which we have."

"We have drilled a new water well. We have purchased a new fire truck. We have improved the water system to the point that it has been approved by the State Department of Health. We have also purchased the land for a baseball park for our youth. These are a few of our better accomplishments," Thomas noted.

He added that the city has on the agenda two paving programs which it hopes to accomplish in the near future.

"I would like to point out that these things are being done as we get the money, without raising taxes," he added.

"The things that have been accomplished have been done because of the fine cooperation of a good city council," Thomas commented, adding:

"With the good candidates which we have for aldermen, I am sure that this fine cooperation will continue. Credit should also be given to the efficiency of a fine bunch of employees."

"Naturally," Thomas added, "since I am running again for mayor, I want to be elected. I want your vote. I believe that I am more qualified to be mayor now than I was two years ago."

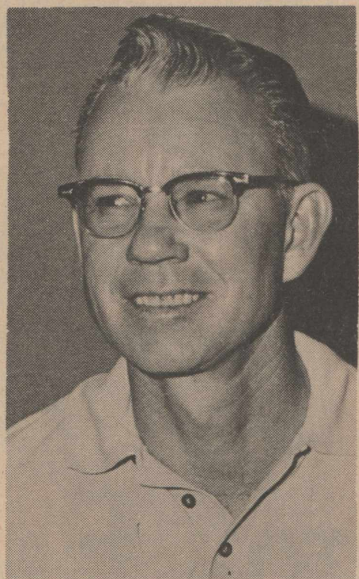

'Just Doing My Duty'

Police Chief Emmett Burrows, contacted Wednesday, had this reaction to a statement by Elvis Hatley to the effect that, if Hatley were elected mayor, he would favor firing Burrows:

"I'm sorry if there's any hard feeling. I was asked by the Hale County sheriff to serve a warrant on Mr. Hatley and I was just doing my duty."

A check with the Hale County sheriff's office showed that the warrant in question was felony warrant number 5738, worthless checks, on a complaint filed by Cooper Pontiac of Plainview.

The Hale County sheriff's office reported that Hatley is now free on $3,000 bond in connection with the warrant.

PARLEY MYERS

Experience in any position improves a man's ability."

McAdams listed three things that he will be interested in seeing done if he is elected councilman:

"1. I would like to see the ag barn moved to some other location to give that part of town a chance to grow with some nice houses there."

"2. I'd like to see the two blocks paved east of the post office so that traffic would travel better in all kinds of weather."

"3. I'd like to see Highway 70 project completed and the highway widened."

Myers stressed that he wanted to say to the people of Olton that the decision to seek a place on the city council was entirely his own. He also noted that he has lived in Olton most of his life and "I like the town."

"I am interested in any improvement that we can do within the limit of the city income and I would like to help work toward any good that may be done," he said.

"I believe," he added, "that any government should be honest and fair and never based on personal likes or dislikes."

Thompson said that he would like to promote and work toward a better community in which to live, including recreation and social aspects.

He also noted that he would like to see more interest by the individual citizen in city government and development.

"I am certainly interested in a more stimulating environment for manufacturing and processing plants," Thompson added.

Thomas and his wife, Oveta, have lived in Olton since 1947. He is in the real estate business here.

Hatley moved to Olton in 1936 and farmed until 1939. He then worked for Bill Yates, and H. D. Thomas, Consumers Oil Co., until 1945, when he went into business for himself.

He has two children, Alice Juanella Hatley and Elvis Louis Hatley Jr. He is a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner.

Thompson, owner of a dry cleaning establishment, has lived in Olton 10 years.

He and his wife, Wanda, have two daughters, Deanna and Cherie. They are members of the Methodist Church.

He is secretary-treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors, Boy Scout master and is active in his church choir.

McAdams, employed at Cashway Food, moved to Olton in 1948.

He and his wife, Mona Lou, are members of the Methodist Church. They have four children, Mrs. Bobby Daugherty, Doyce McAdams of Hart, Kirk McAdams, Pueblo, Colo., and L. H. McAdams Jr. of Canyon.

Myers, owner of a local barber shop, is a lifetime resident of Olton.

He and his wife, Mary, have two children, Alana and Denise, and are members of the Hope-well Baptist Church.

A check at the city hall Wednesday showed only one absentee vote cast at that time. Absentee voting will continue through Friday.

3 In Race For Trustee

Voters will go to the polls here Saturday and elect two new members to Olton's school board.

Three names will appear on the ballot: Elmer McGill, Joe Hall and John Norfleet.

The two incumbents, Fred Hicks and Roy Roberts, are not seeking re-election.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the entrance at H. P. Webb Elementary building.

A report from the school Wednesday showed only seven votes cast in absentee balloting.

Candidate Hall said early this week that he is for "any betterment of the educational system."

He added, however, that this should be done "within a reasonable cost."

McGill pledged his continued efforts to help strengthen the public school system and "improve educational opportunities for young people."

"I am aware of new and greater challenges to education," he said, adding:

"Our educational system has been developed and guided by the citizens in our school districts. This system must prevail if we are to maintain the quality of education vital to the needs of a free people."

"I think the financing of public education is a state and local responsibility."

McGill said he opposes expanded federal subsidization of education because "experience has proved that federal control follow federal aid; also local initiative diminishes as local responsibility is transferred."

"Indirect supervision of school finances," he added, "leads to increased over-all school costs as well as increased taxes."

Norfleet said he is interested in keeping the Olton schools "equal to or better than the best schools in the area."

"I will do my best to execute good judgment in working out any problems that might arise," he said.

"My main interest in this," he stressed, "is to help keep our schools the good schools they are now and strive to make them better."

Hall, a carpenter, is a native of Olton, a member of the board of directors at Olton Recreation Center, active in the Quarter-back Club and a member of First Baptist Church.

He and his wife, Betty Jo, have two children, Connie, 12, and D'Lynne, 8.

Norfleet has been a resident of Olton all of his life and is a member of Valley View Baptist Church.

He and his wife, Rosemary, have four children, Kathie, 14, Cynthia, 9; David, 12; and Nancy 3.

McGill also has lived in Olton all of his life and is a member of the Baptist Church.

He has served as director of the Co-Op Gin board and a director of the Co-Op Mill, has been president and a director of Farmers' Gin, Inc. has been a director on the REA board, has been president and is now director of the Lamb County Farm Bureau.

He and his wife, Doris, have four children, Jane, 8; Karen, 6; and Darrell and David, 10-year-old twin boys.

Children's photos will be taken here Friday April 9 at the Olton Enterprise building. Photos will be by Winston E. Lucas of Irving and will be taken between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

All pictures taken will be published in this newspaper. Parents do not have to be subscribers of this paper to take advantage of the feature.

Cotton Signup Is Extended

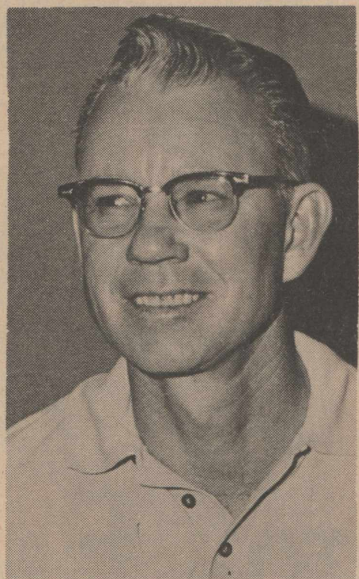

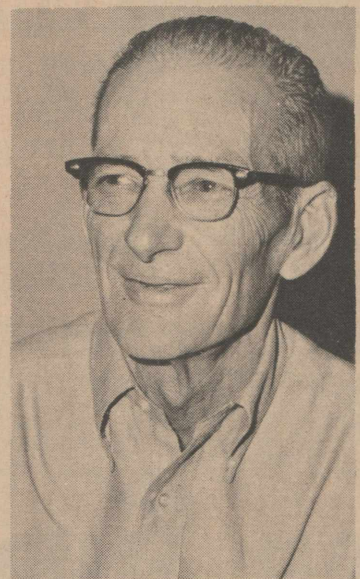

Deadline for signing up to take part in the 1965 Domestic Allotment Program for Upland cotton is extended to April 9.

The signup is being conducted only for the operator of farms whose domestic allotments are less than their effective allotments; in general, these are farms with an effective cotton allotment of more than 15 acres.

Growers on farms with cotton allotments of 15 acres or less are eligible for program without signing up provided their cotton acreage is within the farm's domestic allotment.

Program includes a price-support payment of $4.35 a pound on the normal yield per acre determined for the farm times the acreage planted for harvest. In addition, participating growers will be eligible for price-support loans at 29 cents a pound for middling one inch at average location on all the cotton produced on the farm.

A cotton grower qualifies as a participant in the domestic allotment program by (1) signing up, if the signup applies to the particular farm operator; and (2) planting within his farm's domestic acreage allotment, which for most farms with allotments over 15 acres, is about 65 percent of the farm's effective allotment.

Burrows Credited In Life-Saving Role

A letter from Supt. of Schools Johnny Clark Jr. to Emmett Burrows lauded the Olton police chief's efforts in connection with a recent accident in which Lupe Rodriguez, 14-year-old Olton school girl, was injured.

Burrows was the first person to reach the child after she was hit by a falling high line wire. Burrows regularly directs traffic at the school.

The letter read:

"In behalf of the school, permit me to express our appreciation to you for saving the life of one of our students. All of Olton is indebted to you for the service you render our community and school. We are especially appreciative of the cooperation and help you are always so anxious to extend the school. Without question, a life would have been lost had you not been alert and about your duties. Again, let me say 'thanks'."

EDITORIAL

How To Ruin A Town

The following article is borrowed from a Missouri publication. We thought we'd pass it along for what it's worth.

The article was entitled "How To Ruin A Town" and listed the following methods:

1. Never attend any meetings. Just sit around and criticize about the way "they" are doing things.
2. Vote against any kind of tax levy--whether the purpose is good or not. "They" just want your money.
3. Make fun of the fire and police departments. "They" are just out there for the glory and pay.
4. Don't ever go to the movie, school concert or ball game, benefit program, or exhibit. Sit in a half-trance in front of that "idiot box."
5. Knock your city council. This is a must. Every one of them is just on the council to get a little kick-back.
6. Stay out of church. You might go on Easter and Christmas just to prove to yourself that the minister does not know what he's talking about and everyone there is a hypocrite.

7. Buy everything you can out of a discount catalog or mail order book. These firms are the first to come forth with donations and service to the community.

8. Don't support your town's newspaper. The out-of-town papers are a lot better and contribute much more to the town than the local bugle. But jump on your paper's editor the first time Aunt Hegtha's visit is left out--Forget the other 10 times it was in.

9. Spread any story or rumor that is defamatory or uncomplimentary about the town. Never say nothing nice about nobody. All kids are delinquents, all businessmen are crooks.

10. Above all, always be skeptical and cynical about anything supposed to be good for the community.

Your motto should be: "If it's good, it can't happen here."

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE CAPITAL

Farmers May Get Tax Break In Constitutional Amendment

AUSTIN-----Farmers, especially those living near large cities, would get a big tax break under a constitutional amendment now pending in a House committee.

Bill by Rep. W. T. (Bill) Dungan of McKinney, calls for farm land being used for agricultural purposes to be taxed on its productive capacity, instead of its market value.

Witnesses testifying before the House Constitutional Amendments Committee said that in some cases taxes exceed the dollar-yield of the land being used for farming or ranching. In those cases, pressure to sell the land for residential or commercial development virtually is impossible to resist.

Testifying in favor of the resolution, Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton said Texas soon may get to the point when only people with city jobs will be able to afford land in the countryside.

Other supporters were representatives of the Texas Farm Bureau, the Texas Farmers Union, the South Texas Milk Producers Association and farm bureaus of Nueces and Hays counties.

Dungan said the proposal provides for land to be assessed at lower rates as long as it is in agricultural use.

At the time the land is taken out of agricultural production, it would have lien for the difference between the agricultural tax evaluation and the market value the seven preceding years. Tax would be payable either by the farmer or the buyer.

Texas students from junior college to graduate school level would be able to get state-financed loans to pay for their educations under a proposed constitutional amendment due to go to voters in November.

Senate approved the measure by Rep. George Hinson of Minneola to set up a $75,000,000 bond-supported loan fund.

State, denominational, private college and university students would be eligible to borrow sums needed for tuition and reasonable living expenses. Loans would be repayable in 10 years at four to four and a half per cent interest.

Gov. John Connally recommended the program in his message to the Legislature last January.

If voters approve the plan, Hinson estimates $28,000,000 to $32,000,000 will be borrowed by Texas students within the next two years.

Gambling Curb Offered

Proponents of legalized race horse betting have a rival in a proposed constitutional amendment sponsored by Rep. Rayford Price of Frankston to prohibit all forms of organized gambling.

"The unfairness thing I ever saw to the little ponies," lamented Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio, perennial champion of horse racing.

Medical Advances

Bill to set up assistance payments for medical and hospital attention to persons over 65 who are not on the Old Age Assistance rolls is taking a speedy trip through the House.

Bill makes it possible for the state to take advantage more extensively of federal matching funds available under the Kerr-Mills program.

In the Senate, the bill will probably be held up pending action by Congress on new legislation for medical aid to aged.

Senate may write in provisions allowing Texas to participate in the newer programs before passing the bill. If this is done then the final details would be worked out by a conference committee of members from both chambers.

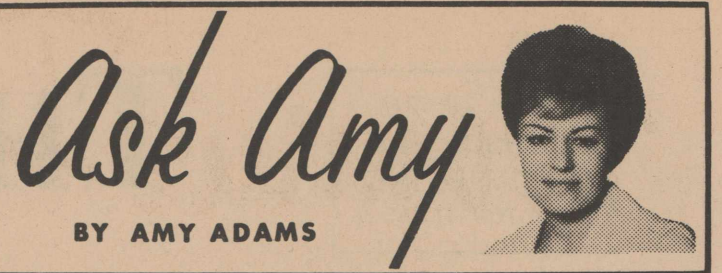

Election Invalidated

A justice of the peace and a constable elected by write-on votes in Mitchell County last November cannot hold their offices because at the time of the election the precincts for which they were elected did not exist, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr ruled.

An order of the commissioners court changing precinct boundaries had been entered, but it was made effective Jan. 1.

However, Carr added that it is perfectly lawful for persons to be elected to an office which is not printed on a ballot by writing in the name of the office and the name of the persons they wish to vote for. Election in this manner is valid even if only a small number of persons participates.

CYNTHIA IS HER NAME!

Dear Amy:

My name is Cynthia and I'm a married woman. When I was very young, my parents nicknamed me "Cookie." As I grew up, everyone called me "Cookie." I didn't mind when I was young and single, but now that I am married and have children of my own, I resent "Cookie" very much. When I tell my husband, my family and friends to please call me Cynthia, they laugh and say they can't; I'm just plain old "Cookie" to them. I don't like it and want to know how I can change this?

Cynthia

Dear Cynthia:

A long established nickname is difficult to erase. Correct your family and friends each time they refer to you as "Cookie," but don't expect quick results. Constant reminding may work in time. That's the way the cookie crumbles! (Forgive me, I couldn't resist the pun.)

no one to do my housework. My husband is writing this for me. My husband rushes out of the house at 1 A.M. to go to work and eats breakfast out. Then my son, 30, rushes out to work at 3:30 A.M. and doesn't get home until 11:30 A.M. He used to help me but in a month he is getting married to a girl with no front teeth and who is cross-eyed. Will you please help me?

Mrs. N. Fisher

Dear Mrs. Fisher:

A woman in your physical condition should, by all means, get help with the housework. As for your son, he is old enough to choose the girl he wants to spend his life with... regardless of what she looks like. It's his life, mother, and he's not tied to your apron strings any more. Treat him as a man, his future wife as a daughter, and you will all be happier.

Dear Amy:

My boyfriend and I have been going together for one year now. I love him and he knows this. Amy, he takes advantage of me, but I don't want to face the truth. He calls me anytime that he feels like because he knows that I will be sitting home waiting for him to call. He even calls me eleven or twelve at night and expects me to go with him, and, of course, I go with him because I am afraid of losing him.

I love him so much, Amy, but I can't go on like this any more. I don't know what I am going to do. Should I keep on sitting home or can you help me?

Night Owl

Dear Night Owl:

If you don't want to face the truth, you must take the consequences. But if you wise up, you will realize that you can't land a guy whom you let take advantage of you. Now if you still want to be a glutton for punishment, I say, "go ahead, sister. You deserve him!"

Early Vigor, Stormproofness & Stripping
Plus Grade, Staple & Yield

I had 3 different brands of cotton in 1964 including DeKalb 302 cotton. I stripped my DeKalb 302 last of the 3 because I was not worried about my 302 stringing out like the other 2 brands.

I was happy that my grade and staple remained good on my 302 even though it was the last stripped. It averaged 1 3/4 bales of lint per acre and had white cotton all the way to the top of the plant.

I liked the EARLY VIGOR of my DeKalb 302 and the bolls at the bottom of the plants were higher off the ground, allowing me to do a better job of stripping.

I certainly plan on planting more DeKalb 302 cotton this spring and in coming years.

Pioneer Gas Gets Award For Outstanding Program

AMARILLO--An award of excellence was presented to Pioneer Natural Gas Company last week in Dallas, by the National Security Traders Association. The award was in recognition of an outstanding stockholder information and education program conducted by the company in 1964.

Pioneer Natural was among a select group of 21 companies in the nation and three in Texas picked from some 5,000 whose stocks are traded in over-the-counter market by the National Security Traders Association. The award was made by C.

Thomas May Jr., president of the Dallas Security Dealers Association, at a luncheon, in the Chaparral Club on Tuesday, March 23. Accepting the award for Pioneer Natural were C. I. Wall, president; B. P. Smith, vice-president and treasurer; K. Bert Watson, attorney and secretary of the company, all of Amarillo, and W. E. Walker of Dallas, a director of the company.

"These annual awards were established to give deserved recognition to outstanding stockholder information programs by companies whose stocks are traded in the over-the-counter market," according to NSTA President Allen L. Oliver Jr. "We feel that these companies are rendering important and constructive public service by creating better informed stockholders and a wider knowledge of the investment process."

Growers Get Increased Diversion

The U. S. Department of Agriculture this week increased the partial payment rate to 50 percent of the farm average diversion rate where castor beans are grown on diverted feed grain-wheat acreage. The change applies to the 1965 crop.

When the substitute crops for 1965 were announced, it was indicated that participants wishing to plant castor beans on diverted acreage could do so, and that they would receive 30 percent of the farm average diversion payment rate. In the 1964 program, this partial payment rate was 50 percent. Reduction in the 1965 rate was initially made because it was believed adequate production could be obtained.

Because of a number of circumstances developing since the original announcement, USDA officials said it has become apparent during the current program sign-up, particularly in the major producing States of Nebraska and Texas, that farmers would not produce castor beans on their diverted acres at the reduced rate. Consequently, in order to maintain U. S. production of this crop, the 50 percent partial payment rate for diversion again will be used when castor beans are grown on diverted wheat or feed grain cropland.

Castor bean oil is used as a lubricant; as a fluid in manufactured items including hydraulic brakes and lifting mechanisms, and for chemical processes whose end products are paints, foam rubber and nylon.

GRAY'S IS WILLING TO 'WORK ON ANYTHING'

"We'll work on anything." That's the motto at Gray's Garage, where they've been snowed under with repairs to irrigation engines lately. Operated by Floyd and Jackie Gray, Gray's Garage is a long-time Olton business. Floyd started the business here in 1937. His son, Jackie, went into the business with him in 1957. They've been in their present location on Highway 70 about three years, having moved there from about a block west. Jackie has been here most of his life. He attended Olton schools through all grades. The firm specializes in all types of automotive repair, along with sales and service of new and rebuilt Chrysler irrigation engines. They also do transmission work and have a good stock of new and used parts. "We do our best to give good service work in the shortest time possible," says Jackie. When farmers are busy, though, most of them want their work done "yesterday," says Jackie. "We do the best we can not to be much later than that." But the main thing about Gray's Garage is: "we work on anything." So, if you have anything that's in need of repair, from go-karts to cars, take it on down to Gray's. They're ready to serve you.

Cosmetics Safety Tips Are Listed

Since the dawn of civilization the human race has sought to enhance its physical appearance with cosmetics.

Cosmetics are very much a part of 20th century life in much of the world. Occasionally they can cause health problems.

Considering the millions of daily applications of innumerable cosmetics, the incidence of skin rashes and other irritations from their use is very low, says a pamphlet of the American Medical Association. Nevertheless, sufficient numbers of cases of dermatitis (skin ailments) directly traceable to the use of cosmetic products come to the attention of the dermatologist (medical skin specialist) and the manufacturer to warrant continued search for ever safer products the pamphlet says.

Some of the skin problems that might be traceable to cosmetics are dry, scaly, itchy, skin; red, swollen eyelids; rash on the neck and ears; pigmented spots on exposed areas such as the cheek, and skin problems around the fingernails.

If you suspect that a cosmetic may be causing a skin problem the first step is to see your doctor and ask his guidance in determining the cause. To help your doctor reach a diagnosis, there are some things you can do--

- *Stop use of all cosmetics temporarily.
- *Shampoo the hair with a bland soap to remove all hair preparations.
- *Stop the use of all creams, including cleansing creams, foundation creams, tissue and cold creams.
- *Wash the face with an unscented soap.
- *Remove nail lacquer.

*Bring to the doctor's office all cosmetics used, both old and new, for examination and testing. This includes cosmetic sponges and powder puffs.

*If there has been a recent visit to a beauty parlor, obtain the names of and samples of the actual cosmetics that were used.

*If the lips are not involved, the use of lipstick may be continued.

*The cosmetic responsible for the skin trouble might be a new one, or it may be one that has been used for many years. The hypersensitivity might have built up gradually over a long period of time. Or, the manufacturers may have changed the ingredients.

Once the offending agent has been identified, the means of prevention of further trouble is usually simple—just avoid this particular cosmetic hereafter. Often a switch to another brand will suffice. In a few severe cases, your doctor may consult with a manufacturer to help you find a safe product. And, rarely, it may be necessary to forego the cosmetic entirely.

Zing into spring! Corvair by Chevrolet

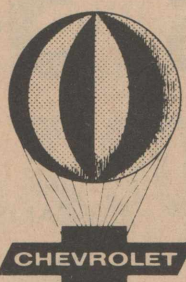

The steering's crisper, the ride's flatter, the style's racier—even the grass looks a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair

For all its finely calibrated instrumentation—tachometer, manifold pressure gauge, even an electric clock with a sweep second hand for rally buffs—the most important thing that happens when you get a Corvair Corsa out on the road doesn't register on the dash. It registers on you.

You feel it in the steering—crisp and precise—as you double back on a curve. In the flat riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180 hp available now in Corsa's Turbo-Charged version).

Drop down to your dealer's now—while the trading's extra good—and see for yourself.

Mrs. Hair is the owner and operator of the Colonial Beauty Salon.

She says she enjoys cooking, collecting antiques and is a member of two bridge clubs.
