TEXAS DEMOCRATS VOTE FOR RESUBMISSION

Debenture Farm Relief Proposal Defeated In Senate

VOTE CLEARS OBSTACLE IN TAX BILL PATH

Norris Amendment to Give Authority to Farm Board Voted Down

VETO FEAR CITED

Farm Leaders Submit Plans For Tariffs to Give Agriculture Aid

WASHINGTON, May 24. (UP)—The senate, after an all-day battle, tonight defeated a proposal to include the debenture farm relief plan in the $1,080,000,000 revenue bill, thus clearing another obstacle from the path of the tax measure.

It defeated, 46 to 33, an amendment by Senator George W. Norris, Republican, Nebraska, which would have authorized the federal farm board to employ at its discretion the debenture plan designated to make the tariff applicable to farm products.

Warned of Veto

The proposal supported by farm belt senators, was voted down after Democratic Floor Leader Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, had warned its inclusion would delay and might even cause a veto of the tax bill.

Twenty-one Democrats and 12 Republicans voted for the Norris amendment, while 31 Republicans and 15 Democrats voted against it.

Norris' plan would have authorized the issue to farmers of debentures equal to half of the tariff for agricultural produce exported, the debenture to be used in payment of import duties on articles the farmer buys. In the case of wheat, this would have been 21 cents a bushel, the tariff being 42 cents a bushel.

Fought for Relief

Before rejecting this amendment, the senate voted down, 64 to 16, an amendment by Senator Lynn Frazier, Republican, North Dakota, which would have provided for a debenture equal to the full tariff.

Farmer members still sought to add agricultural relief to the bill after the Morris plan was defeated. Senator Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, immediately submitted amendments to increase the tariff duties on copra and vegetable oils, which suffer competition from abroad, as a night session began.

Farm leaders blocked the $1,080,000,000 revenue bill in the senate today in a fight over the so-called debenture agriculture relief plan to which President Hoover is bitterly opposed.

Hoover Apprehensive

Some apprehension was expressed at the White House that the amendment might carry, thus further complicating the budget balancing program, but Majority Floor Leader James E. Watson counted enough votes to defeat it. Its rejection appeared certain after Democratic Floor Leader Joseph T. Robinson threw his influence against it in a speech late today.

Robinson said there should be some farm relief legislation passed before congress adjourned, but he warned that involving it in the revenue bill would cause indefinite delay and might force President Hoover to veto the tax bill.

The amendment of Senator George W. Norris, Republican, Na-

WASHINGTON, May 24. (UP)—The senate tonight began reducing automobile taxes in the $1,080,000,000 revenue bill by lowering the tax on trucks from three per cent recommended by its finance committee to two per cent as proposed by the house.

By a vote of 39 to 30, it adopted an amendment by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, to restore the house rate. It showed its opposition to elimination of all automobile taxes by voting down immediately thereafter, 40 to 29, another amendment by Vandenberg to strike out the truck tax entirely.

New Yorkers Flock To Court Room For View Of Walker-Seabury Battle

Hofstadter Investigation of Gotham's Mayor Begins Today; Questions to Center on Jimmy's Finances

NEW YORK, May 24. (UP)—Ten thousand citizens of New York will try to crowd into room 139 of the Supreme Court building tomorrow in the expectation of hearing the political battle of the century between James J. Walker, bantamweight champion of Tammany, and Samuel Seabury, heavyweight champion of the New York Bar association.

In this corner, Jimmy Walker, slender, sharp-eyed, witty and wise-cracking mayor of New York, whose clothes are the envy of Broadway, and whose oratorical ability is the envy of rising young politicians.

Voice Snarls

In that corner, Sam Seabury, a solid, ruddy-faced burgher, who looks like an English squire, serene except when he is sarcastic, and possessing a voice that purrs sweetly and insinuatingly and then suddenly develops a ferocious snarl as he pounces on the hapless witness who has trapped himself.

And both are members of the same club—the Democratic party of New York.

Tonight, when the harried Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, chairman of the committee that has been investigating reports of political skulduggery in New York, counted up the passes he had issued for tomorrow's hearing, he shook his head sadly. The room holds only 400 persons. More than 100 will be newspaper men. More than 1,000 passes already are out, some of them, it is whispered, in the hands of the speculators.

First Come, First Served

"It will have to be first come, first served," the senator said. And telephone operators reported that requests for seats were coming in all day at the rate of 12 a minute.

Seabury is expected to launch his attack on the mayor on five separate fronts. They are:

1. Where is Russell T. Sherwood, admitted financial agent of Mayor Walker, who has been missing ever since he was subpoenaed last year, and will the mayor answer to the charge that Sherwood is in hiding "on orders from city hall"?

Letter of Credit

2. Why did the mayor accept a $10,000 letter of credit which was paid for by J. A. Smith, agent for a group of financiers who had recently been granted a bus franchise, and spent the entire amount on a continental tour?

3. Why did the mayor make an overdraft of $3,000 in Paris, and charge it to the same J. A. Smith?

4. Why did the mayor accept a "profit" of approximately $26,000, given him by an agent for J. A. Slate & Co., who were interested in taxicab securities, on an investment for which he put no money down?

5. Why did the mayor accept the courtesies of Pullman cars, to the extent of more than $7,000, the same being paid for by State Senator John A. Hastings, $18,000-a-year "contact man" for the Equitable Coach company, which also was interested in a bus franchise?

KILLS ROBBER

NEW YORK, May 24. (US)—Himself wounded by two gun shots, James Markstein, proprietor of a restaurant, today shot and killed an unidentified robber in a furious battle with three men who tried to rob him of $5,000 he had brought from a bank.

BOND ISSUE DEMAND GROWS

Plans Go Forward for Huge Public Work Program

WASHINGTON, May 24. (US)—Demands for a huge federal prosperity bond issue to finance a great public works program and put hundreds of thousands of men to work continued to spread in congress today and plans went forward in senate and house to expedite action.

Outstanding developments included:

1. Speaker John N. Garner announced his $2,100,000,000 program would be in bill form by Thursday.

2. Senator Wagner, Democrat of New York, announced he will introduce the $2,300,000,000 relief plan worked out by a special committee of Democrats in the senate tomorrow.

3. Plans went forward for a congressional mass meeting to be held Thursday night.

Hoover Confers

4. Administration forces in congress spread rumors that President Hoover would veto any bill carrying provisions for a bond issue for federal projects.

5. Representative Ralph Horr, Republican of Washington, issued demands for a $5,000,000,000 federal prosperity bond issue in a warning people were undernourished and want work, but no dole.

6. President Hoover conferred with Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Eugene Meyer Jr., governor of the federal reserve board, and Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, on Reconstruction Finance corporation plans.

Despite efforts of administration leaders to stem the tide for a prosperity bond issue for federal projects, claims were made that a coalition of Democrats and Republicans would be able to force passage of such a measure.

Big Wheat Crop Ready In Texas and Oklahoma

ENID, Okla., May 24. (UP)—The Oklahoma wheat crop for this year was set at 40,000,000 bushels late today in an estimate presented a group of railroad executives and southwest shippers meeting here.

The Texas crop was set at 35,000,000 bushels. The Kansas crop was classed as "light, along with the anticipated Nebraska yield."

The report was made before railroad heads, the Southwest Shippers advisory board, the Oklahoma millers and coal dealers.

NATIONS FALL IN LINE FOR WAR PAYMENTS

Finland and Greece Sign Contract to Repay In 10 Years

CALLED GESTURE

Great Britain and Others Due to Follow Suit In Few Days

WASHINGTON, May 24. (UP)—Finland and Greece today led the parade of nations who, during the next 10 days, are due to sign agreements to repay in 10 yearly installments, the war debt payments which the United States postponed last summer under the one-year moratorium.

The Finnish and Greece ministers signed, at the treasury department, contracts to refund the deferred sums. Finland's contract calls for a total of $312,295; Greece's for $1,109,080. Interest is set at four per cent a year.

England to Sign

It was announced in London that the British government had authorized its ambassador here to sign a similar contract, calling for a total of $159,520,000. France, with $50,000,000, and Italy with $14,706,135, come next in importance. Sixteen nations altogether benefited under the one-year moratorium, which expires June 30, for a total of $252,566,803.

The contracts are regarded by most administration experts as a gesture. They are convinced, now as a year ago, that the war debts are not going to be paid in any substantial proportion.

Conditions Unimproved

Economists warned today that conditions here and in Europe are not improving. Europe's plight, they say, is getting worse, and they frankly do not believe that any of this country's debtors will be able to meet the next debt installment without great, and perhaps dangerous sacrifice.

The surface situation here remains as it was at the beginning of this year. Congress, which reluctantly approved President Hoover's emergency moratorium, stands

Birth Control Act Rejected By House

WASHINGTON, May 24. (US)—By a vote of 20 to 4, the house ways and means committee today rejected the Hancock bill to legalize the dissemination of birth control information by physicians.

Margaret Sanger and a group of supporters of the legislation urged its passage at hearings a week ago. It was opposed principally by Catholic church groups.

Credit Expansion to Aid Trade Recovery

WASHINGTON, May 24. (US)—Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board were hopeful today of accelerated economic recovery.

Their optimism was based in a large measure upon the credit expansion potentialities in the newly formed Young committee in New York and its prototypes since organized in Chicago and other important industrial centers.

Mills expressed his conviction that through these agencies, the success of the government's and the reserve board's drive to release billions through open market purchase of United States securities, is assured.

State Patrol Captures $50,000 Load of Liquor

AUSTIN, May 24. (AP)—Apprehension of a liquor truck driver that he would be arrested, led to the capture early today by state highway patrolmen of a truck loaded with imported fancy liquors inside the city limits of Austin. The driver escaped.

The cargo was valued at between $40,000 and $50,000.

L. G. Phares, chief of the state highway patrol, said he believed the liquor was being sent from Temple to San Antonio. State rangers last week raided a warehouse in Temple in the belief a large liquor ring was operating out of that city.

Exiled Oil Magnate To Remain in France

PARIS, May 24. (UP)—Henry M. Blackmer, self-exiled Denver oil man, probably will remain in France even after payment at Washington of the $60,000 fine imposed on him for refusal to appear as a witness in the Teapot Dome oil cases.

Blackmer declined to comment on the arrangements to pay the fine, but his friends said they did not believe he would return to the United States at present.

Senate Votes Air Medal To Miss Earhart

WASHINGTON, May 24. (US)—The senate today unanimously voted to award the distinguished flying cross to Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, for her solo transatlantic flight.

The resolution, brought up by special consent and sponsored by Senator Walcott, Republican of Connecticut, close friend of Mrs. Putnam's husband, authorized the president to award the decoration to a woman for the first time. It is the highest aeronautic honor in the gift of the United States government.

Walcott, after giving a brief history of her career, added:

"Modest, retiring, resourceful and courageous, Mrs. Putnam flew for fun and for the honor of her sex."

SHOT TAKES WICHITAN'S LIFE

Body of W. C. Russell Found in Weeks Park

W. C. Russell, 45, 1204 Broad, was found dead shortly after midnight Tuesday in Weeks park with a bullet wound through his head, and a pistol nearby. His car, parked about 150 yards away, was found by friends who had been searching for him for several hours. The car was found about 30 minutes before the body was located in a small branch running into Holliday creek.

Search Leads to Body

Mr. Russell left his home at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and went to a garage on Holliday street where he changed the oil in his car. Garage attendants said he had driven north toward town, and insofar as a check Tuesday night revealed that was the last time he was seen alive.

All police patrol cars had joined in the city-wide search for the missing man and J. B. Flenniken and Frank Warfield joined the party which located the body after the car had been found.

Judge R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, returned a verdict of suicide at the scene of the death, he said at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A .38 caliber pistol was clutched in Russell's hand and from appearances the shots were fired between 5 and 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Judge Gwinn said. The gun had been fired three times with only two shots taking effect, one in the heart and the other in the head. The body was brought to Wichita Falls by the Merkle Undertaking company and is being held by the Hines mortuary pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Linotype Operator

Mr. Russell had been in ill health for the last two years, during which time he was in a Colorado hospital for about six months. He was employed by the Times Publishing company as a linotype operator from 1920 until his health forced him to retire.

Mr. Russell was a native of Parker county and first came to Wichita Falls about 1907 and was employed with the publishing company until about 1915 when he moved to Oklahoma City for a five-year residence. He was a member of the Masonic lodge here.

Survivors are his widow; four brothers, J. L. Russell of this city, A. M. Russell of McKinney, Texas, H. M. Russell of Cotulla, Texas, and G. H. Russell of Eagle Pass, Texas; and a sister, Mrs. Herschel Plummer of San Antonio.

Bank Bandit Gets $7,000 in Holdup

HOUSTON, May 24. (AP)—Eastern Harris county was combed by armed men tonight as irate citizens attempted to track down two bandits who robbed the Spring State bank of $7,000 shortly after noon today.

One of the desperadoes was believed to have been wounded by Cashier Homer D. Brown, who fired six pistol shots into the bandit's fleeing sedan as the pair made their escape from the small community 21 miles northwest of Houston.

Court Grants Bankruptcy Petition to Kreuger & Toll

STOCKHOLM, May 24. (INS)—A Stockholm city court today granted a petition of bankruptcy filed by the firm of Kreuger & Toll, and its affiliates, appointing Prof. Martin Fehr, former head of the committee which investigated the concern, as chairman of the bankruptcy committee.

The three companies involved also ask the government to withdraw the moratorium on the firm's obligations, and compliance with

CURTIS CASE GOES TO JURY ON THURSDAY

If Boat Builder Indicted Speedy Trial Promised By Prosecutor

JAFSIE MAKES PLEA

Dr. Condon Asks 'John' To Return Ransom Money And Take Reward

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 24. (AP)—The strange coterie of intermediaries, who once buoyed false hope for the return of the slain Lindbergh baby, monopolized the murder hunt today—one in a jail cell; another before a grand jury and a third sponsoring an appeal to the ransom receiver.

The course to be pursued in prosecuting John Hughes Curtis, confessed and imprisoned hoax negotiator, brought Anthony M. Hauck Jr., Hunterdon county prosecutor, to the Lindbergh estate for a conference.

Speedy Trial Promised

At its conclusion the prosecutor announced that he planned to lay the Curtis case before the grand jury at Flemington, N. J., on Thursday. Should an indictment be returned he said it would be reported formally Saturday.

He said he talked only with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, but that he had wished to make sure the Curtis prosecution at this time would not interfere with the main investigation.

In the event of an indictment he said a speedy trial within the month of June would be set for Curtis, but that there was no desire to "railroad" the boat builder.

Lindy Not Called

Before coming here Hauck said he did not deem it necessary to call Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for grand jury testimony in the case charging Curtis with obstructing justice and furnishing false information.

Meantime, Morris Rosner, undercover man for Colonel Lindbergh, who, on at least one occasion voiced

Poland Given Warning By German Officials

BERLIN, May 24. (UP)—The long-smouldering threat of trouble on the eastern frontier of Germany was brought into the open today when the reichstag foreign relations committee sharply warned Poland and Lithuania to keep "hands off" of the free city of Danzig and the territory of Memel.

The committee, led by Fascist deputies, passed a resolution asking the government to take suitable precautions to prevent the violation of the rights of the Germans living in the areas and to protect German interests.

Federal Court Padlocks Popular College Inns

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 24. (UP)—Temporary injunctions for violation of the federal prohibition amendment were issued today against 15 inns and cafes in Columbia, many of which have been among the most popular of gathering places for University of Missouri students. Most of the injunctions were posted late this afternoon. They are effective today, are for one year's duration and call for immediate closing and padlocking of the premises should the 18th amendment be violated again.

Customs Officers Fine Society Girl $417

NEW YORK, May 24. (US)—Miss Lucille Brokaw, 17, soon to make her society debut here, paid $417 fines and penalties at the customs house today because she failed to declare a $300 diamond studded wrist watch which she wore when she landed from the Bremen last week.

The payment averted prosecution as a smuggler. She did not pay the additional $417 required to recover

CAR LOADINGS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, May 24. (US)—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 14 totaled 517,667 cars, the American Railway association announced today. This was 16,000 cars under the preceding week, 229,390 below the corresponding week in 1931, and 411,092 under the 1930 level.

Police Called Out To Quell Disorder When Convention Goes Wet

Party Stands Solidly Behind John Garner for President; State's Entire 46 Votes Instructed for Speaker; Riotous Vote Ends Harmony

HOUSTON, May 24. (AP)—The Texas State Democratic convention tonight voted for submission to the states of the question of repealing the 18th amendment to the federal constitution.

The vote was 851 to 564.

Injection of the repeal submission into the convention came suddenly after the sponsors of Speaker John N. Garner for the presidential nomination had won every point in their advocacy of a "harmony" expression by Texas Democrats, relegating controversial issues that might embarrass his candidacy before the nation to the background.

Police Quell Disorder

The expression was attended by confusion and disorder in the convention. Policemen had to go to the stage in an effort to protect officers of the convention when delegates demanded a roll call after the question first was adopted on a viva voce expression.

The convention pledged the state's 46 votes in the convention to vote for Garner and "none other under any circumstances, until released by him."

The delegation was instructed to vote as a unit on all questions coming before the convention.

An effort to modify the instructions for Garner so that the Texas delegation would not be required to stay with the speaker until released by him personally failed.

Garner Leaders Silent

Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham, personal friend of Garner and director in the nation of his campaign for the presidential nomination, chosen temporary chairman and keynoter of the convention, would not discuss the convention's action in supporting submission of the repeal proposal. He was on the stage during the confusion that ensued after Clinton G. Brown of San Antonio, permanent chairman of the meeting first declared the proposition had been carried on a viva voce vote. Brown later ruled that the convention was entitled to a roll call.

Garner campaign managers did not raise their voices against an expression on the resolution proposing submission.

It was the first time since Texas adopted statutory prohibition in 1918 that Democrats had indicated anti-prohibition sentiment.

Convention in Uproar

When Chairman Brown announced the result of the viva voce vote, the convention was in wildest disorder.

"Dirty, dirty," cried some of the delegates.

W. A. Tarver, chairman of the senate insurance commission, rushed to the stage and demanded a roll call. Senator Julian Greer of Athens joined Tarver in his efforts.

The delegates surged down to the stage and crowded through the press section.

Steve Pinckney of Houston, leader of the anti-prohibition element suggested that there was not anything before the convention and suggested that if there was any dissatisfaction with the convention action that the matter be appealed to the national convention.

Former Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller rushed to the rostrum and grabbed the chairman's gavel. He pleaded that the convention proceed to name the delegation to Chicago. That was the only unfinished business of the convention.

Delegates Named

Chairman Brown said he would not tolerate adjournment.

"As far as I am concerned you will stay here and have a roll call if you want it," he said.

Delegates still opposed a roll call. They said they wanted to quit and go home.

Mrs. Sarah Hughes, assistant secretary of the convention, began reading the committee report on delegates to the national convention. The report was adopted. Maury Hughes of Dallas moved adjournment, but Brown held him out of order and ordered a roll call.

Battle Over Roll Call

Pinckney appealed from the chair's decision to order a roll call.

Pinckney later withdrew his motion to appeal and insisted that a motion to adjourn be put.

Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth took the gavel and insisted that there would be order.

"We are going to have order in this convention," he said. He pleaded that we "should do this for Garner."

"Yellow," many of the delegates yelled.

Albert Sidney Johnson, secretary of the convention, attempted to put the matter to a vote, but his voice could not be heard above the hubbub.

Johnson then proceeded with the roll call.

The convention adjourned at 11:30 p. m. in confusion as the final vote was announced on the submission resolution.

Jed C. Adams of Dallas was re-elected Texas national committeeman over A. J. Wirtz of Seguin,

GOP APPROVES TARIFF ON OIL

Texas Delegates Instructed For Hoover

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, May 24. (AP)—A strong defense of President Hoover's administration of the nation's affairs was voiced at the state Republican convention here today by John W. Philp of Dallas, fourth assistant postmaster general.

He declared that Hoover had been villified deliberately in the elections of 1930 and that true conditions were misrepresented. The status of national finances was not due to Republican administration, he said, but to many conditions outside its control, including worldwide depression and shrinkage of national income.

He asserted that the country was more in need of tariff now than ever.

Tariff Wall Defended

He defended the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, saying its effects had been misrepresented deliberately. He cited statistics to show the need for a tariff act.

After a succession of speakers had praised the Hoover administration, the state's 49 delegates were instructed to vote for the president's renomination at the national convention in Chicago.

The resolution of instruction lauded Hoover's administration of the nation's affairs and called for his renomination in behalf of the country's welfare.

At the same time, the convention went on record as favoring a tariff on oil and a protective tariff in general. It strongly opposed cancella-

Death of Oil Worker Attributed to Accident

KILGORE, Texas, May 24. (UP)—Isaac Dan Headrick, oil field worker, came to his death from accidental causes rather than foul play, Justice Homer T. Glover decided today after a coroner's inquest.

Headrick was killed when a heavy drilling pipe fell on him as he was working at the Griffith-Davis well near here the night of May 10. Justice Glover said the cause of the accident was "industrial negligence."

His verdict was reached after two weeks of investigation following rumors of foul play and revenge as causes.

Wichita Man's Skull Fractured When He Falls From Back Of Auto

Armond Bell, 26, 2413 Buchanan, suffered a fractured skull near the base of the brain at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when he was thrown from the turtle back of a small coupe in the 1800 block on Polk. Mr. Bell fell on his head and shoulders. The injured man lost his balance when the driver of the car, D. A. Fears, 3005 Grant, swerved his machine to avoid striking a car which turned into a driveway.

Mr. Fears rushed Mr. Bell to the Wichita General hospital where his condition was described as serious Tuesday night. Mr. Bell and Vester Benton, 2311 Buchanan, had previously met Mr. Fears en route to town and were riding to their homes with him. Mr. Bell occupied the top of the turtle back to hold a lawn mower.

General Rains Soak Wichita Area With Benefit to Late Spring Crops

The Wichita Falls area shared in showers and general rains Tuesday afternoon with storm clouds concentrating along the Wichita Falls & Southern railway lines from Olney to Seymour. Heavy showers fell at Munday and Goree.

The heaviest precipitation was reported at Olney where a three-inch downpour fell in 40 minutes, flooding the streets of the city and resulting in extensive damage from washing in unterraced agricultural areas.

An inch and a half downpour accompanied an electrical display at Seymour during a two-hour period. Reports covering Baylor county indicated the storm effects were scattered. Some damage to grain was reported with newly planted cotton also suffering. No grain damage was reported in Young county.

Overcast skies Tuesday night indicated additional rainfall might be expected. Showers over most of the area were reported as beneficial for late spring planting in farming former state senator. The wet and dry issue had been injected into that election, Wirtz being an outspoken advocate of repeal of the 18th amendment.

However, some of the delegations predominated by sentiment favorable to repeal voted for Adams, notably his home county of Dallas. That delegation had been chosen by a county convention which refused to send to the convention former State Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, dry leader and one of the prime movers in the 1928 revolt that resulted in Texas voting for a Republican presidential nominee.

C. I. Francis Loses

The liberals also lost in an effort to name one of its group temporary chairman and keynoter of the convention when Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham was chosen over C. I. Francis of Wichita Falls. Rayburn is director of the Garner campaign in the nation.

Those opposing Rayburn charged he had been put forward through "machine political manipulations." The liberals first planned to press the election of W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales, advocate of repeal of the 18th amendment, but later decided to support Francis, who is a conservative with reference to prohibition.

Debate Becomes Hot

Rayburn was given the undivided support of a conservative group in the party that had been working for weeks to keep any controversial issue from splitting the convention, thus putting Garner in an attitude of going before the nation in face of a division in his own home state party policies.

The controversy brought on a warm debate, which finally ended, after the roll call of the convention was only one-third completed, by Francis conceding Congressman Rayburn's election and withdrawing his name from consideration.

Pleaded for Unity

Francis, Hopkins and others in the movement to press prohibition as an issue, went to the rostrum and pleaded for unity on behalf of Garner. The controversy then was turned into an ovation for Speaker Garner.

Texas will have 46 votes in the Chicago national convention, which, added to the 44 votes to Garner by California, was expected to make him a serious contender in the nominating meeting.

The group advocating an expression on the 18th amendment announced it would go through with its effort to put the convention on record recommending repeal and favorable to a referendum in the July Democratic primary.

Candidates Heckled

Steve Pinckney of Houston, leader of the repeal group who supported Francis for temporary chairman, said he was not discouraged by the outcome of that campaign and that the prohibition matter would be carried to a definite expression.

Debate that preceded Rayburn's election was bitter. Francis advocates heckled speakers seconding Rayburn's nomination and Rayburn followers booed champions of Francis. A major part of the time the nominating speeches were being made the convention was in disorder.

Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth, chairman of the state Garner finance committee, appealed for contributions to the national fund.

Electors Named

Presidential electors were chosen by congressional districts, in order, as follows: R. T. Wilkinson Jr., E. J. Mantooth, Carl L. Estes, J. W. Purcell, Charles McCombs, Scott Reed, Mrs. Theodore Stubbs, John T. Dickson, J. V. Frnka, Ralph Goethe, E. C. Street, Frank Rawlings, R. J. Edwards, Arthur Seelig-son, H. P. Hornby, Robert F. Cunningham, Milburn McCarty, N. C. Outlaw. Electors at large chosen were Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas, Charles I. Francis of Wichita Falls, Nat Gentry of Tyler, Mrs. John E. Shelton Sr., of Austin, Mrs. John Davis of Dallas.

Mayor C. M. Chambers of San Antonio introduced Clinton G. Brown, also of San Antonio, the permanent chairman.

1928 Revolt Cited

Revolt of Texas Democrats in 1928, when the Lone Star state voted for a Republican presidential nominee, was injected into the afternoon debate.

Hecklers wanted to know how State Senator Walter Woodward, political friend of Gov. R. S. Sterling and advocate of Rayburn, stood in 1928 and he was asked from the floor if he were wet or dry. They also asked how Rayburn had conducted himself with reference to the 1928 defection.

Maury Hughes of Dallas and Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth joined Woodward in seconding Rayburn's nomination. Senator Hopkins, Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston and Pinckney spoke for Francis. Sentiment in the convention was highly partisan as the speeches proceeded and no one escaped hecklers.

Rayburn Speech Stirring

Rayburn stirred the convention to enthusiasm in his keynote address when he said John Garner could obtain more votes than any other Democrat.

He said Garner would be the second choice of more delegates in the Chicago convention than any other candidate. He said Garner's leadership and statesmanship had caught the imagination of the people.

As the afternoon session of the convention opened, enthusiasm seemed to be waning a trifle so the band struck up "Dixie" and had the delegates shouting and flinging their hats.

Telegrams congratulating the convention on its unanimous stand for Garner sent by U. S. Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard and Jesse H. Jones, Houston capitalist and member of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, were read. When Sheppard's wire was read there were scattered boos.

Rayburn Takes Chair

The details cleared away, Rayburn was escorted to the chair.

"We must have our little differences and our little arguments," he said in beginning his keynote speech, "but I know we are going ahead as one man from here on out.

"Three months ago in San Antonio was started an organization to make a Texan president. During the past three months I have counseled with you. I have talked with leading Democrats from every state in the union. They have told me of the conditions within their states. A New Englander told me 'tell the people of Texas I go to the convention at Chicago solely because I want to cast a vote for John Garner.'

"Texas alone would just put Garner in the class of a favorite son—but in the great state of California, the only state where our man was ever a candidate, he won handsomely. With California's 44 and Texas' 46 we have more votes already cast than Harding had or Davis had.

"The people in other states are believing more and more that the hope of the Democratic party lies in John N. Garner.

"Mr. Garner," Rayburn went on, "will be the second choice of more delegates at Chicago than any other candidate."

Rayburn referred to President Hoover as "a failure and a misfit."

"They went out in 1928 and made the most dishonest campaign in your time and my time, excepting the Harding campaign of 1920, which was based upon falsehood and prejudice. At that time lay in the White House a stricken man; a man who had carried America to the highest pinnacle of leadership. When Wilson was in the White House America knew it had a leader.

"In 1928, singing the song of hate again, they played upon prejudice as though only certain men in certain clans had a right to hold public office," he went on amid shouts.

Raskob Thanked

John Darrouzet of Galveston proposed a resolution expressing gratitude to John J. Raskob "for his efforts and energy in maintaining an active militant organization during the past four years through which organization the Democratic party has been materially benefitted, through the unselfish use of his time, talents and money in behalf of the party."

The motion was carried on a viva voce vote, and there were a number of boos.

"Good work, John," some of the delegates cried.

Mrs. Murray Not So Sure Bill Hasn't Eye On White House

Wife Of Fiery Governor Has Deep Love For 'Home Folks'

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, May 24. (US)—She's Mrs. Alfalfa Bill.

She's the wife of the governor of Oklahoma, and she's proud of the fact that she's a Chickasaw Indian.

Tall, gaunt, with a kindly face and a deep-seated love for her "home folks," she sat stiffly on a divan in the governor's suite at the Hotel Roosevelt today and talked of the days when Oklahoma was Indian Territory and Gov. William Henry Murray was a young law student in the town of Tishomingo.

Mrs. Alfalfa Bill was a young school teacher in those days and she lived with her uncle, D. H. Johnston, who was then and is still governor of the Chickasaw Indians.

She has known adventure and much pioneering since then.

For the young "Sage of Tishomingo" as William Henry Murray became known, went from his farm to the Oklahoma legislature, to congress, to the governor's mansion —and now he has his eye on the White House.

During his current visit to New York, Governor Murray laughed off his presidential aspirations—he said he didn't have money enough to run for president.

But Mrs. Alfalfa Bill isn't so sure.

"It's not like my husband to give up a fight," she says, her blue eyes twinkling. "But maybe I'd better not say any more. I don't know how I'd feel in the White House—but I've always gone with Bill wherever he went, and done my best to help him."

The Murrays have four sons and one daughter—all grown now. Mrs. Murray explains:

"We just had as many children as the Lord sent us.

"The oldest boy is named Massena—Massena Murray. I guess I'd better explain that a little. You see, before he was born Mr. Murray used to read to me from the life of Napoleon of an evening in our farmhouse, while I was sewing. So I said, 'Well, I guess the baby'll be just a little Napoleon.' And we named him Massena, after one of Napoleon's generals.

"The second boy is Johnston, named after my uncle. And then I insisted on having a junior, so the third is William Henry. The next is our daughter, Jean, as Scotch as her father. And then there's our baby, Burbank. He's 21, and goes to school at the little school of agriculture in Tishomingo. He'll enter Dartmouth next fall."

The wife of Alfalfa Bill Murray has been at his side all through his eventful climb to political eminence, a quiet, kindly figure, doing uncomplainingly the tasks that fell to her lot.

When Alfalfa Bill decided to start an American colony in Bolivia in 1924 she went along, and all the children went along, and they set up a home in the wing of an old adobe mission. They were there for five years when Mr. Murray decided to go back to Oklahoma and be governor.

She's a plain, simple soul, is Mrs. Alfalfa Bill. She's gently proud of her distinguished husband. And she's careful to see that he gets his pork greens and cornbread. She looks at a picture of him on the frontipiece of his biography, and says:

"Yes, that's my dear old husband —just look at that cigar."

The Murrays went back to Oklahoma this evening, after less than two days in New York. Mrs. Murray hadn't had a chance to shop, but she didn't mind. She had a little black book crammed with the names of people she'd met here. As she said:

"It'll be so nice to look them over when we get back home. I always want to remember the people we meet. They're all so nice to us—just like home folks."

sections, with little interference with early season grain harvesting.

Precipitation in Wichita Falls was .27 of an inch at 5 o'clock in the afternoon when intermittent showers had ceased. The temperature at 5 o'clock was 74 degrees, with a 90-degree high for the previous 24 hours and a low of 65 degrees.

A slow rain, regarded as beneficial to crops, was reported at Electra.

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway reported showers extending from Frederick, Okla., to Wichita Falls from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Tuesday. The area between Forgan and Woodward, Okla., received a one-inch rain Monday with a half inch extending to Altus and Frederick.

Fort Worth and Denver dispatcher's reports included light showers between Childress and Quanah and slightly heavier precipitation from Chillicothe to Henrietta between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. Reports indicated the showers extended southwest to Abilene.

Three Convicted in County Court Trials

Three convictions were obtained by the state Tuesday in the county court at law before Judge Irvin J. Vogel, while a fourth defendant won an acquittal at the hands of a jury on a charge of having operated an automobile with a defective muffler.

A woman tried Monday afternoon for the alleged theft of 10 gallons of gasoline from a local filling station three weeks ago was fined $100 and costs. Another woman, charged with theft in a companion case growing out of the same offense, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

City police officers testified for the state in the muffler case. They told the jury of the defendant's having driven past the city hall at a rate of 40 miles an hour, but testified also that when they manned a police car and started in pursuit, the defendant still was less than two blocks distant. Jack Ballard represented the defendant.

A negress was fined $10 and costs upon her plea of guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

American Trade With China Shows Increase

LOS ANGELES, May 24. (US)—"Despite foreign aggression, floods, internal commotion and the depreciation of Chinese currency, China is one of the few nations with whom American trade has increased," Frederick W. Hinke, United States consul at Canton, declared after his arrival here today.

The visitor pointed out that Chinese-American trade has shown a steady increase since this country acquired Hawaii and the Philippines.

tion of war debts, and indorsed the state Republican organization, specifically naming R. B. Creager of Brownsville, national committeeman.

Committeeman Ousted

Instructions for the president had been expected. At no time was opposition to him expressed. The resolution calling for a second term for him was approved with a shout of convention delegates after the reading of the report of the resolutions committee by Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, vice chairman of the Republican state executive committee.

As had been expected, the convention was harmonious from start to finish on the surface, the only ripple of dissension appearing off the floor over failure of the 14th congressional district delegates to indorse Mrs. J. C. Griswold of San Antonio for a third term as national committeewoman from Texas. Charges of "gag rule" were made by some women who sought unsuccessfully to obtain Mrs. Griswold's indorsement at a caucus of the district delegates. Her renomination was opposed by organization leaders, although they did not make public specific reasons for their objections, merely saying she was "unpopular."

Bullington Delegate at Large

There was no mention of prohibition or other controversial questions on the floor of the convention. Leaders said before the convention they felt this should be touched upon, if at all, by the platform of the national convention and it was not a matter for consideration by the state convention.

The convention chose 49 delegates to the national convention, including the following 13 delegates-at-large:

R. B. Creager, Cameron county; Eugene Nolte, Guadalupe; Orville Bullington, Wichita; T. P. Lee and John P. Grant, Harris; J. F. Lucey and John W. Phelp, Dallas; F. L. Thomson, Bexar; H. E. PIONEER DIES AT IOWA PARK

T. C. Hail, 80, Succumbs To Long Illness

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, May 24.—T. C. Hail, 80, retired farmer and resident of North Texas during most of his lifetime, died early this afternoon at the home of his son, H. N. Hail, near here. He had been in failing health for the past two years.

The elder Mr. Hail came to Iowa Park 14 years ago from Sunset, where he had resided for many years. He was well known in this section.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of a daughter, although services will be held at Sunset probably Thursday.

Surviving in addition to H. N. Hail, are three sons, Tom of Iowa Park, W. M. of Shamrock, Texas, and Bert of Cheyenne, Okla.; and a daughter, Mrs. Minnie Hudgeons of Summerton, Ariz.

Call Issued To All Sportsmen To Meet Tuesday

Further discussion of problems confronting sportsmen of this section of the state, and the nation as well, will be held at a meeting of the Isaak Walton league next Tuesday night.

This was decided at an assembly of Walton leaguers in session last night at the 78th district courtroom in the courthouse. About 20 members attended. Better attendance is hoped for at the next meeting.

The annual election of officers, scheduled for last night, was deferred.

Problems discussed specifically were the threatened shutdown of the federal fish hatchery at San Marcos, from which the local chapter recently received over 6,000 fingerling bass; and the proposed slash in the number of state game wardens.

President Ben G. Oneal requested all sportsmen in this section to be on hand at the meeting next Tuesday evening, if possible. The meeting will not be held for the purpose of raising funds, he said.

Laborers Plan Commissary to Handle Produce; 'Hands' Promised Farmers

Opening of a commissary for the daily distribution of produce, milk, ice and other supplies was recommended Tuesday night at a meeting of the Common Laborers union at the labor temple. A similar enterprise last year, which collected and distributed supplies, handled a large amount of surplus produce donated for the relief of unemployed workmen.

A second meeting will be held Thursday night to perfect plans for the commissary, it was announced. Leaders also said that any farmer needing a hand could secure almost any type of labor by applying at the commissary. Men will work for wheat, produce or other supplies, it was said.

The meeting appointed a committee to confer with the city manager regarding a milk ordinance which prevents the distribution of milk in bulk at the commissary. Large quantities of milk have been promised if arrangements can be made for handling it, it was stated. The committee also was instructed to attempt to make arrangements for unemployed persons to work for the city in return for water service. O. B. Kelley is chairman of the union and C. L. Patrick, secretary.

NATIONS AGREE TO PAY U. S.

Greece and Finland Sign War Debt Contracts

fast against an extension of it, and against revision downward of war debts. The administration position is the same as when it was expressed by the president in a message to congress Dec. 10:

". . . It is clear that a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery in their economic life. It is useless to blind ourselves to an obvious fact. Therefore it will be necessary in some cases to make still further temporary adjustments."

Powers at Odds

With the administration and congress at opposite sides on the debt question, the state and treasury departments can do nothing. Officially they have no knowledge of the possibility of a further postponement, or of default by any nation. They are waiting for next Dec. 15 when the first payments after the Hoover moratorium are due.

When Pierre Laval, then French premier, visited President Hoover last fall, it was announced that European nations should reach an agreement on the German reparations problem, and then if desired ask this country individually for further leniency regarding their war debts.

Congress, however, in approving the moratorium, formally expressed its opposition to further postponements. Thus either congress or the administration must recede. Economists believe that it will be congress.

Await Agreements

There seems a strong possibility that if and when there is a postponement or revision of debts, or both, the United States will make a determined effort to force European nations to reduce their big expenditures for armaments.

This is a matter for next autumn, probably after the presidential election in November. Neither political party is expected to say more than can be helped on debts until then.

European nations are due to meet at Lausanne, Switzerland, June 16 to discuss and if possible to agree on the future of German reparations payments. They seem far apart now, if they do reach some sort of agreement, experts here will await the first approach to this country under the Hoover-Laval agreements.

Jafsie Writes Plea to 'John'

the belief the baby was alive and would be recovered, was taken before the Bronx (New York City) grand jury, which has been pursuing an inquiry into the futile payment of $50,000 ransom by Dr. John F. Condon. Rosner signed a waiver of immunity.

Condon Makes Appeal

From a summer cottage at Becket, Mass., Dr. Condon heard of the formal posting of a $25,000 reward by Gov. A. Harry Moore and dictated this appeal:

"John: Money I gave you is useless. You can't get rid of it. Return it to Colonel Lindbergh in time. Get your $25,000 reward.

"(Signed) Jafsie."

"John" was the name by which Dr. Condon knew the Scandinavian to whom he tossed the ransom in a cemetery April 2. "Jafsie," which is merely the aged educator's initials spoken rapidly as a single word—was the signature he used in negotiations conducted through newspaper advertisements.

Report Denied

In Norfolk, Va., W. C. Pender, counsel for Curtis, emphatically denied a report that his client still believed the Lindbergh child alive. Equally erroneous reports regarding Curtis were shown to be unfounded by New Jersey police.

New Jersey police were checking Curtis' Philadelphia connections and in Norfolk federal agents sought Sam Goldberg, indicted liquor smuggler, who was once mentioned by Curtis as "contact" man in his "negotiations."

Testimony Heard

In New York the testimony of Rosner and two other persons temporarily concluded the grand jury investigation of District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin. Rosner appeared for an hour and 45 minutes. Gregor F. Coleman of the newspaper in which Dr. Condon inserted his advertisements was questioned for an hour and Detective James Finn of the New York police testified for 15 minutes. The inquiry then was adjourned until June 2.

An application at the state capitol for additional funds disclosed that state police have spent $19,300 in their search thus far.

Example Of Stock Transactions Shows Where Speculative Money Of '29 Went

Assumption of Many People That Where Many Lost Fortunes Others Gained Wealth Shown to Be Wrong

CHICAGO, May 24. (US)—Where did all the money go that was lost in the stock market?

To many people this question is an enigma.

They know that gold, silver, paper, could not actually vanish into thin air. But where is the money of 1929? Why does it not function as a medium of exchange now as it did then, when everybody was a spender?

Assumption Wrong

They assume that because a vast number of persons lost fortunes—large and small—some others must have gained those fortunes, and be rolling in newly-acquired wealth which they refuse to spend or lend.

This assumption is wrong, and herein lies the basis of the seeming enigma.

The falsity of the assumption is a fundamental error that accounts for much bad economic reasoning. It grows out of failure to perceive the simplest distinction between speculation and gambling. In every gambling transaction there must be a gain for every loss. In speculation this is not so. In a speculative transaction one party to it may gain and the other lose, or both may gain, or both may lose.

Example Given

To make clear what has happened during the terrific decline in the stock market since 1929 imagine that "A" found himself in the autumn of that year the owner of 100 shares of XYZ stock listed on the New York stock exchange, for which he had paid $15,000—$150 a share. The market price was then $170 a share. If he had sold out he would have made profit of $2,000—nearly 15 per cent on his capital. But that was not enough for him.

The market began to break. When XYZ dropped below 160 "A" decided to sell his 100 shares. But he hesitated and did not sell until the stock declined to 150. Then he sold it for $15,000.

Decline Continued

"B" bought the stock at 150. The market continued to decline and he sold it at 140—for $14,000. "C" bought it and sold it 10 points lower at 130 to "D," and so on until "L" bought it at 50—for $5,000. Fifty is the present market price for which "L" could sell the 100 shares at this moment if he wished to do so.

Note what has taken place. Every buyer and seller of the stock from "B" to "K" inclusive has suffered a loss. "A" sold the stock at the same price he paid for it. "L" bought it at 50, which is its present market price.

Where Has Money Gone?

"A" got out of his transaction even. "L" has not yet either suffered a loss or made a profit. He still has the stock. "B," "C," "D," "E," "F," "G," "H," "I," "J," and "K" each lost $1,000—a total of $10,000. Where has the money gone?

This $10,000 has gone to pay back two-thirds of the price of $15,000 "B" paid to "A." The other third has been paid by "L" who bought the stock at 50 for $5,000.

If "L" sells the stock for 50 the purchaser instead of "L" will pay this third of the price received by "A." If "L" sells to "M" for less than 50 he will take a loss which will make up part of the final third paid to "A." The balance will come out of "M."

James' palace today and spent half an hour telling him about her flight across the Atlantic ocean.

"We talked of airplanes and it was all very informal," Miss Earhart said when she left the prince's working study, where he received Col. Charles A. Lindbergh five years ago. "He was just as I expected."

The prince sent for Miss Earhart because he wanted to hear her story first hand, as he heard Colonel Lindbergh's story of his flight from New York to Paris. He also is particularly interested in aviation and often pilots his own plane.

Plans Paris Trip

It was understood that the king and queen sent their congratulations to Miss Earhart at Londonderry, where she first landed, and the message was forwarded to the American embassy at London. Miss Earhart said she had not yet received it, although she had a letter from the king's secretary explaining the message was sent to Londonderry.

She announced that she might not go to Rome to attend the first congress of transocean fliers, because it will end probably Friday and she could not arrive before then. She expects to go to Paris on Friday or Saturday, however, and said she hoped her husband, George Palmer Putnam, would sail from New York this week-end to join her before she returns to America June 10.

EDUCATIONAL CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

Arrangements have been completed for a free educational chiropractic clinic to be held in WICHITA FALLS on MAY 25, 26 and 27.

Special Examiners of the Chirophactic Clinics Circuit will conduct the clinic. Dr. C. C. Phillips, who for several years was a professor of women's diseases and children's disorders and deformities in the Palmer School of Chiropractic, and Dr. F. A. Gorrie of Davenport, Iowa, will be the examiners. Victor H. Will of Columbia, Missouri, will be in charge of arrangements.

Latest equipment developed by the profession will be used, including Neurocalometer and an x-ray laboratory. The Clinicians will give personal and thorough attention to every person making an appointment, with a view toward making the chiropractic interpretation and diagnosis.

There will be no obligation or expense for any of this service, except when the person wishes an x-ray picture made, in which case a minimum charge will be set.

Appointments are limited because of the time required for each examination. The clinic will be held at the office of

FARM RELIEF PLAN KILLED

Vote in Senate Removes Barrier to Bill

braska, which the senate considered, merely directs the farm board to use the debenture plan at its option, and Robinson told the senate that the present farm board would not invoke any such option and therefore such a measure would be futile.

Norris offered his amendment because of the tariffs written into the bill for oil, copper, coal and lumber, claiming that the farmers had a right to tariff protection if these industries were to be aided.

The debenture plan, which was excoriated by President Hoover when the senate approved it two years ago, is designed to make the tariff effective to agricultural products. It authorizes the issuance of debentures by the treasury to the farmer, amounting to half of the tariff—21 cents in the case of wheat —for agricultural produce to be exported. These debentures then would be used to pay import duties on manufactured products which the farmer buys. The house saved President Hoover from a veto formerly by rejecting the debenture.

Scorned Veto Fears

Norris dramatically replied to Robinson by scorning fears of a possible veto.

"Are we going to be afraid because of a presidential veto?" he asked. "This amendment will give Herbert Hoover an opportunity to carry out one of his pledges to agriculture. If he wants to kill this legislation let him kill it openly like a man and not by pulling strings by which he controls legislation through his servants and followers in the senate."

Norris' amendment offered a vehicle for a veritable barrage of farm relief speeches by members of the farm bloc, and devoted all day to this subject.

Way Open for Battle

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, who supported the amendment, estimated it would cost the treasury about $100,000,000 annually, which must be made up from other sources. President Hoover estimated it would cost more than $200,000,000.

The way was opened for one of the next big tax battles today when Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, made public his manufactures sales tax amendment calling for a rate of one and three-quarters per cent, which he said the treasury estimated would produce annually $35,000,000.

ACADEMY HAS SENIOR RITES

Diplomas Awarded Eight In Impressive Service

Impressive musical and clerical services marked the graduation of eight young ladies from the Academy of Mary Immaculate at the Sacred Heart Catholic church with Very Rev. Patrick J. F. O'Beirne officiating before a congregation which filled the auditorium.

George L. Kelly read the proclamation of honors; musical numbers were directed by Sister Marie Celine, with Mrs. Carl Edwards at the organ.

Father O'Beirne Talks

Father O'Beirne opened his brief address to the graduates by reading the following text: "Wisdom is better than strength, and the wise man better than a strong man."

"The desire to wisdom bringeth to the everlasting kingdom," he continued. "No evil can overcome wisdom. You have received knowledge; it is for you now to make practical application of this knowledge to the end that it may serve the purpose for which God called you into being.

"On the paths of life we either direct our footsteps to the throne of God; or we are led astray, and lose our way to eternal salvation. In order to share the fruits of Christ's redemption, it is necessary that we learn wisdom, and that we kneel humbly at the foot of the cross.

"We must not forget the Creator in admiring creation. To forget the One who brought these things into being would be to only admire them as they appear and please us on the pathway of life. May God bless you to lives of happiness and service."

The processional of graduates provided one of the most beautiful and impressive features of the ceremony. Entering the chancel, each graduate was met before the altar by her page, a tiny girl robed in white satin as were the class members. The march to stations in the central aisle was made in slow and stately tempo. As the honors were proclaimed, each graduate and her page advanced to kneel before Father O'Beirne in the chancel, where the earned diploma and medal were conferred by the priest.

Class Members

Members of the class were Nelda Corridon, valedictorian; Margaret Davis, salutatorian; Mary Rosalie Murphy, with great praise; Patricia Kelly with praise; Marie Fiusche, Rheta Mae Neal, Kate Early Parker and Mary Frances Rousche. Miss Corridon also received a diploma in dramatic art and expression.

The choral service for the graduation ceremony, and special musical numbers were sung by a choir of academic students. They sang with excellent effect "Gloria Patri" (Palestrina); "Ave Maria" (Schubert); "Ave Verum" (Dierick); "Tantum Ergo" (Haller); and "Praise Ye the Lord" (Maery).

The choir was assisted by Mrs. F. B. Sharp, Miss Alice Philo and James Hull, violins; Edwin A. Bebb, cello; and Mrs. Edwards, organist. Members of the graduating class sang their class hymn following the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Low Water Pressure Causes Fire Alarm

Low water pressure in the city mains was given as the cause for a sprinkler system alarm from the Lasco Laundry Supply company, 1412 Sibley, at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday night. Assistant Fire Chief Grover Habern said. A unit of the fire department answered the alarm which resulted when low pressure allowed air to escape from the sprinkler system, which in turn set off the alarm.

No cause for the low pressure period was given at the city water plant and Dr. A. H. Douglass, general manager, had not been notified of any trouble at the plant, he said.

BOYS HELD FOR HORSE THEFT

Youthful Riders Captured With Stolen Steed

Hard-riding horse thieves again are abroad in Wichita county—

At least, that complaint was lodged with County Juvenile Officer James A. McDonald Tuesday by the owner of a team near Electra. The two accused defendants are at liberty on small bonds furnished by their parents.

The team is used in oil field work. Recently, when the owner went out in the late afternoon to hook up Spot and Baldy, the second horse was missing. Night, and curfew, failed to bring the wanderer home.

The search continued on the following day. Late in the afternoon—after school hours, in fact—the horse was found. During his 24-hours of A. W. O. L. he had been converted from a power unit into a mount for the two boys, 13 and 12 years in age.

The owner's aroused feelings were accentuated by an alleged stiffness in Baldy's joints. Due, the owner said, to hard galloping on hard roads. The horse had served two tours, it appeared. One on the first afternoon of his absence, and the second on the following afternoon up to the time of discovery. During the night he had been hidden out by his youthful captors.

According to Mr. McDonald, the owner is determined to press the complaint against the two boys. Disposition of the case has not been reached—but Baldy again is in harness.

SHRINERS HEAR WTCC ORATOR

Joe Witherspoon Jr. Talks On 'My Home Town'

Joe P. Witherspoon Jr. of this city was a guest of the Shrine Luncheon club at the Wichita club Tuesday and presented his oration, "My Home Town," which he delivered at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention recently to win permanent possession of the home town contest loving cup.

On Young Witherspoon's statement that the Wichita valley annually produces ample cotton "to clothe all Texas angels," nobles present declared there would still be an overproduction in the valley unless restrictions were imposed.

The nobles were urged to bring their ladies at the next meeting of the club for a ladies' day luncheon and it was announced that plans for entertainment of local ladies were being made in connection with the Shrine ceremonial on May 31. Potentate Sydney A. Gaines urged members to secure additional novices for the ceremonial. J. E. H. Railey, delegate to the regional chamber convention at Sweetwater, reported on the trip.

Burk Woman Asks $9,000 In Death of Husband

Suit for $9,000 damages was filed in district court here Tuesday by Mrs. Etta Lee Propes against J. A. Collier and others as a result of the death of R. V. Propes husband of the plaintiff, on March 1 in a traffic accident at Burkburnett.

According to the petition, Mr. Propes was struck by an automobile while crossing the paved highway which passes in front of the filling station which he formerly operated. His injuries proved fatal.

Sandlotters Find Ideal Site For Games In Old Culbertson Pasture

Wichita Falls' daily baseball game has changed location, time, and admission, and is being both attended and supported with a frenzied enthusiasm.

The new institution is a development of the past two weeks. Its site is the spacious Culbertson pasture, located between Harrison and Giddings street just south of Eleventh. Games are played just after dinner in the evening, and continue until darkness conceals the ball. There is no admission charge. The public gains admission by climbing through or over the pasture fence.

The existence of a 20-acre pasture in the heart of a city's residence district is unique. But it has been allowed to have other uses during the past dozen years. Back in 1920 it provided a practice diamond for the city's amateur nines. Since then it has served from time to time as practice gridiron for junior high school teams, and for "scrub" football.

Now it is an old-fashioned commons for the neighborhood, and town-lot ball flourishes daily, save when interrupted by rain. The numerous parked cars along Harrison street testify to the presence of fans. The baselines toward first and third are crowded by cheering cohorts of the perspiring athletes. Players take "turns" in shagging balls for the catcher.

Wilted collars, creaseless trousers and dusty shoes are the regulation uniform. But the old American pastime is prospering as a neighborhood sport—thanks to the survival of a pasture.

Police Official Admits Bank 'Job'

OTTAWA, Ill., May 24. (INS)—Clarence Goss, assistant police chief of Streator, Ill., today was reported to have confessed to participation in the $50,000 robbery of the Union National bank at Streator a week ago.

Policeman George Kanus also was said to have admitted to State's Attorney R. O. Hansen of LaSalle county that he acted as a lookout for the bandits.

Aviation Committee to Meet With Merchants

A joint meeting of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce aviation committee with the retail merchants division will be held at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning for a complete discussion of plans for aviation week in Wichita Falls, May 29 to June 5. A meeting of the aviation committee announced for Tuesday morning was postponed for the joint meeting, Chairman C. E. McCutchen said.

More Wichitans are urged to enter the slogan contest for three prizes. The contest is now under way and will close Saturday at noon. Prizes include air trips to Oklahoma City and Dallas and over Wichita Falls. The week's activity will be closed with 'chute jumping by professionals and amateurs and other aerial acts at the municipal port June 5.

30 Olney Boy Scouts Camp at Diversion

Thirty Boy Scouts from Olney are spending this week at Camp Ephraim Griffin at Diversion lake, according to Frank B. Creighton, scout executive for this area.

The Olney camp is in charge of M. L. Lansford, scoutmaster for that city. A group of Wichita Falls scouts in charge of Don Ross, Kenneth Erwin and Dan Martin will go to the camp Wednesday night and put on a camp fire program.

Presbyterian Men to Meet Thursday Night

The men's club of the First Presbyterian church will close the season's activity with a banquet, ladies' night and election of officers Thursday evening at 6:45 o'clock at the church basement. A program on Texas will be presented with Frank Kell scheduled to deliver an address on "The History of Texas" with a stage setting depicting Texas under six flags.

Trolley Tickets At Special Rate

Aiming for increased use of Wichita Falls Traction company services an experiment of offering four rides for 25 cents is under way this week. Four tokens may be purchased from motormen or bus drivers for a quarter. The previous price was three tokens for 25 cents, since fares were recently raised to 10 cents.

Drainage District Seeks Change in Assessments

Members of the commissioners court will meet at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning to act upon the petition of taxpayers in Wichita county drainage district No. 1 for a revision of the drainage tax assessment plan in that district.

The petition, filed several weeks ago, asks that in the future taxes for maintaining the drainage system be levied on a per acre basis instead of on the ad valorem basis as in the past. Under the proposed plan, each acre of ground served by the drainage system would be taxed for an equal amount regardless of the improvements which might be upon it.

Substitution of the benefit assessment plan for ad valorem assessments is provided by a recently enacted law, according to County Judge John P. Marrs.

Cab Driver Cruises With $250,000 in Bonds

DALLAS, May 24. (INS)—Stick-up men overlooked a good bet here today as a taxi driver cruised over town for some time, unaware that a quarter of a million dollars in negotiable bonds was lying on the rear seat of his cab.

J. W. Gormley, of the law firm of Touchstone, Wright, Gormley & Price, hired the cab for a trip to the courthouse where he was counsel in a civil case. Under his arm, he tucked $250,000 in bonds which were to be used as evidence.

Arriving at the courthouse, he paid his fare and walked inside while the taxi drove away. Then Gormley suddenly discovered his account was $250,000 short of what it was a few minutes before.

There ensued a period of frantic telephoning, and after a great deal of difficulty the cab was discovered, with the fortune still intact.

Now everybody is happy, everybody but the hijackers.

Jewish Women's Council Holds Annual Luncheon

One of the most beautiful tables of the season was that prepared for the annual spring luncheon of the Council of Jewish Women that was an outstanding social event Tuesday at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. Pastel shades were noted in the frilled pink and orchid runner down the center of the table, covered with feathery sprays of salt cedar. Oblong boxes in exquisite shades, held spring flowers at close intervals, the full length of the table and a silver bowl of larkspur, verbena and sweet peas, stressed the same theme where it stood before the presiding officers between silver candle-holders holding pink tapers.

The place cards, dainty in coloring, were symbolic of the new season which the council will sail in the coming year; each had a little ship with full set sails. The stage was lovely with baskets of pink wild asters and purple larkspur.

Mrs. M. S. Kaufman, general chairman, was a charming toastmistress and in the beginning of the luncheon presented Mrs. Ben Newman, who cleverly toasted the outgoing president, Mrs. J. Cohen. Mrs. Louis Franklin paid tribute to Mrs. Eugene Liepold, the incoming officer and each president was gracious in response.

Telegrams Received

A novel feature of the program was the arrival of a Postal delivery boy, who brought messages to each member and guest that furnished a pleasant part of the social hour in the clever characterization of the recipients. They were supposed to have been sent from many cities and merchants. They were read by each member in turn.

Mrs. H. L. Goldstucker gave a lovely vocal number with Ernest Katz as accompanist and an inspirational talk was given by Mrs. Alvin Horwitz, whose unusual ability as a speaker, held the attention of her audience. Mr. Katz played magnificent piano numbers and Shirley Kauffman, accompanied by Mrs. William Rosenblatt, was a bit of youth and beauty of spring in a lovely scarf dance.

Clever Skit

A mock school with Mrs. Paul Green teacher, Mrs. S. H. Smith, director, and Mrs. Wm. Rosenblatt, musician, was a clever original stunt with Mrs. Max Shain as director. Pupils were Mesdames I. A. Fine, Louis Franklin, Leo Schusterman, H. L. Goldstucker and Morris Zale. Mrs. David Specter played an interesting part as mother of one of the pupils and Mrs. H. L. Leva was a splendid Italian peddler, furnishing special comedy. The playlet was original with the group presenting it.

Covers were laid for Mesdames J. Cohen, Leo Schusterman, Louis Franklin, I. A. Fine, J. L. Art, Eugene Liepold, J. Oberloffer, E. Weinstein, Wm. Cohen, Joe Blum, E. Lipshy, I. B. Persky, S. H. Smith, Pauline Letterman, Morris Letterman, Joe Max, M. J. Wolff, H. D. Wolff, P. Green, A. Kriss, Yale Glaser, Morris Zale, L. Lipshy, David Spectre, L. Freed, Zeitlen, L. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"Eddication and style," a man told me was the reason once given him for the ruin of the world. That was in 1897 and the woman who made the remark lived in the poorest hill country along the Tennessee river. She and her husband never had a newspaper in their home and it is doubtful if they ever read one; their inkling of what ruined the world (was it ruined at that date also?) was according to reports of what "they" said.

The man was about 70 and the wife about 60; she was quick as a cricket and never idle. She worked from morning to night and kept the kitchen floor in her log home so spotless one might eat from it. They had everything on earth they wanted on the farm. They even prided themselves on their private fish pond, so they could have fish, flesh and fowl to go with the vegetables on the table.

He wore homespun clothing and the woman cotton check, the coarsest and cheapest material the loom turned out. But they were satisfied. They had comfort so far as food and clothing went. Of screens and electricity and even of the telephone, they knew nothing—considering these probably among examples of the "eddication and style" that had ruined the world.

I thought of the story when I read in Julia Peterkin's last book, "Bright Skin," Big Pa's complaint, "Book readin' ruined my boy." How many a practical old white man of a past generation thought that book reading was ruining his daughter or son.

Was it only yesterday I spoke of what books mean to me? Escape from the trivial routine of life; travel in far lands; beauties I might not otherwise see and kinship with minds I would have known in no other way.

A young man—a quite clever young man—took issue with me. "I have just about quit reading," he said. "Even when you read at night the pillow slips out of place and you have to think if you absorb a book."

Music was to him the one pure pleasure. "You can listen to a beautiful piece of music," he said, "and not have to think. Of course, if you know anything about music, the meaning of certain movements comes into your mind afterward." But he—fortunate being—said he could hear one musician's composition and be in Paris; with another in the magic old city of Vienna. He mentioned many names, but left me with the feeling that Beethoven was his high point in artistry.

Well, I grant him the glory of music, which I know only from the sidelines. I have thrilled to the melody of an old ballad as well as to the compositions of the masters. I know what the words of the old ballads mean, but it isn't the words, it is the music, that haunts me. And I know nothing to brag about of what a movement means in music.

Then comes Sigmund Spaeth, music critic of renown, who says the finest work in the field of musical composition today in the entire world is being done in what we call "light opera." He waxes enthusiastic over Jerome Kern and George Gershwin and uses all those mesmeric musical phrases that are Greek to me.

Many men of many minds. When Victrolas first came into the world, I remember an old man—a man in his eighties—who walked more than a mile several times each week to hear the song he had sung to his sweetheart, before she became his wife, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." I have seen tears come into his eyes when the record was played. Maggie was gone.

And this one thrills to "The Star-Spangled Banner," that one to "Have You Ever Been to Texas in the Spring?" and doubtless many hearts felt the beauty in "On the Banks of the Wabash."

We haven't any Shakespeare today; we have no Beethoven. But they still live. The great beauty of both books and music is that when they are worthy they are immortal.

Mrs. Turner Presented In Studio Tea Recital

Mrs. Harry Fuller presented Mrs. A. C. Turner in a delightful program given at a seated tea at her studio, 1806 Huff street, Monday evening. An improvised stage was gay with baskets of pink and white spring flowers and Mrs. Turner's repertoire showed a pleasant versatility and real dramatic ability.

"Mother o' Mine," was her first number, a story by Alice Wolf, that was a lovely study in tender characterization.

In a miscellaneous group, including an Irish, an Italian and a negro lyric number, the reader showed her ability in characterization. "Dreaming in de Twilight," by Lytton Cox, a lovely musical reading, was given with spiritual significance. A story of the slums was a clever reading and the recital was closed with "Evangeline," Longfellow's beautiful narrative poem with a musical setting played by Mrs. Fuller. Mrs. Turner true rhythm and shading of tone color, combined with her sympathetic interpretation, made the final number outstanding.

Two piano solos by Miss Aura Carl Turner were given in intermissions.

The color scheme of pink, white and green was noted in the ice course served to 50 guests. Mesdames J. C. Vinson, W. L. Hawkins and Miss Aura Carl Turner assisted Mrs. Fuller in receiving.

Legion Auxiliary Elects Officers For Next Year

Mrs. W. W. Cook presented the report of the nominating committee when members of the American Legion auxiliary met in the regular business session at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. B. McDowell was named president; Mrs. A. M. Hutchins, first vice president; Mrs. B. C. Blackburn, second vice president; Mrs. Frank M. Brown, recording secretary; Mrs. C. H. Bodine, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. R. Grant, sergeant at arms; Mrs. W. W. Cook, chaplain; Mrs. A. Magonye, treasurer and Mrs. R. L. Williams, historian.

The meeting opened with pledging allegiance to the flag and Mrs. Cook gave the beautiful opening prayer. Mrs. McDowell, president, was in the chair. Reports were made on the poppy sale to be held Saturday, on a quilt made by the auxiliary and of Thelma Wisdom as winner in a contest.

Members who will work in the poppy sale include Mesdames L. K. Hotham, E. A. Underwood, V. V. Musick, G. L. Gilham, G. W. Wiest, C. W. Duncan, R. E. Benson, A. Magonye, C. R. Cowles, Milton Gaines, Ray Kenney, B. C. Blackburn, Schmitz, W. R. Irwin, Frank Brown and J. B. McDowell.

Mrs. Edwin Bebb urged the auxiliary to sponsor a group of Camp Fire girls, and told of the work in the city.

Mesdames J. V. Leggett and A. Magoyne reported on the membership campaign showing that Mrs. Leggett's group has a majority of one to that date. The drive will continue until August with a membership of 130 as the goal.

Our Children

Washing Dishes

"I've left the dishes for you, Mary. Better hurry up. It's pretty late."

"What? I've got to do the dishes? I won't do it. I hate washing dishes and I'm all tired out."

"You hate to do anything round the house. If somebody came along and invited you to go to the movies you'd soon discover that you weren't so awful tired. I've worked all day and the least you can do is to wash the dishes. Anyway you're going to."

"And I suppose all the pots and pans are there, too."

"They certainly are. They belong to the dishes. Now there's no use talking. The sooner you get to work the sooner you'll be through."

Mary stamped off to the kitchen. Soon there was the sound of slamming, crashing, jangling pots and pans and dishes as Mary angrily began the job. The kitchen table was a sight. Things had been carried from the table and piled any way. Silver spoons, steel knives, cooking spoons, pot-lids, cooking utensils with the ingredients still upon them, pots coated with their contents, plates with the remains of the meal still upon them were cluttered all over the place. Mary, with tears streaming down her face was making feeble attempts to restore order.

"I'll give you a hand, Mary. Things won't be so bad once we sort them. Here. You pick out all the silver spoons you can find and sort them into big and little. I'll collect pots and pans and cooking things. We'll soon manage them. Washing dishes isn't so bad when you know how. I used to hate it myself but it's rather fun now."

"Fun? If anybody can see any fun in this job they have a queer idea of fun. I hate dishes worse than poison. I'd break every one of them if I dared and some day I'm going to. I wasn't home to dinner, Aunt Susan, but mother saved all the dishes for me just the same. Saved them. She was afraid I'd miss one dirty pot so she saved them for me. She said so."

"Nonsense, Mary. Your mother did nothing of the kind. She was working hard all day. She made your dress. It's almost finished. Now fill up that pan with hot water and shake a little soap into it. You wash the silver and glass in that and I'll work on the pots. It's all the way you look at it."

"Your grandmother wouldn't let anybody wash her dishes. When she was so tired that she couldn't stand on her feet she sat at that table over there and washed the china. That's why there is a whole lovely set of it waiting for you in the china closet. You get to love your dishes and things when you take care of them and handle them every day.

"There aren't so many, are there? Ready for the plates? Rinse them in that first water and then wash them in clean water. These are nice towels, aren't they? As soon as you have them done I'll dry and we'll both put them away and the job will be done. I rather like doing it. You will, too, when you learn how to go about it."

A girl learns to do the dishes cheerfully if you sort them and give her the nicest bits to do in the beginning. Gradually add the other things as she grows older and understands better. If she does the pots that is her share. Only experienced and well trained people do all the dishes alone. Divide the job and lend it something of charm. That can be done even in dishwashing.

Girls' Circle Has Progressive Dinner

A progressive dinner was the novel program held Monday evening by 23 members of the girls' circle of the First Christian church, Mrs. H. T. Woods, sponsor. The fruit cocktail course was served at the home of Helen Steele on Brown street where Loretta Nichols gave the devotional. The business meeting was held there and officers elected for the next year's work were Helen Steele, president; Ines Sims, vice president; Ollie Mae Sikes, secretary-treasurer and Margaret Steele, reporter. Barbara Huckabee, outgoing president, was in the chair.

Mrs. H. T. Woods was hostess at the main course of the dinner and a resume of missionary work done in Africa was given by Helen Steele.

Marygene Yeargin was hostess for the salad course at her home on Fillmore where Helen and Margaret Steele gave a piano duet.

Dessert was served at the home of Mrs. W. H. Penix on Jones street and mints and nuts completed the dinner at the home of Bonnie Awtrey on Monroe street, Earlene Longan giving an after dinner talk.

A novelty surprise was presented by Earlene Longan and Loretta Nichols at the Longan home on Travis street. A singsong followed, with Dorothea Terrill at the piano and after brief talks from the incoming and outgoing officers, Mesdames H. T. Wood and W. H. Weaver, the meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Repeal Plank Approved At Socialist Convention

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 23, (UP)—A plank, proposing repeal of the 18th amendment, submitted in a minority report, was approved this afternoon by delegates to the Socialist national convention.

The plank approved by a vote of 81 to 71 calls for the government to take over the liquor business with the right of state option.

First Presbyterian Groups End Season With Reception

An informal reception held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Fisher, Country Club estates, Monday afternoon, marked the closing spring meetings of the Woman's Missionary society and the Lucy Hansell society of the First Presbyterian church, members of the former group being hostess to the latter.

The handsome home was prettily decorated with spring flowers and Mrs. B. L. Fain, president of the Woman's Missionary society, greeted the guests. In the house party with her were Mesdames W. N. Maer, D. J. White, I. H. Roberts, A. E. Hull, J. T. Montgomery, J. A. Fisher, J. Warner Zimmer and T. D. Myers of Houston.

Mrs. Fain opened the program with prayer and Mrs. Luke McCrory played two lovely piano numbers, "Russian Romance," by Rudolph Frimil and Tschaikowsky's "Humoresque." Mrs. Dan Greider of Austin, gave a clever one-act play, "The Third Angle," and responded to an encore with a lovely reading. Mrs. J. W. McCutchen sang "The Answer" and "All for You," as a delightful close to the entertainment; Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey was her charming accompanist.

Mrs. H. B. Patterson read letters written to the church in regard to the death of Rev. R. H. Evans, missionary in Elat, Africa, from the First Presbyterian church of Wichita Falls. The societies were unanimous in their expressions of sympathy with Mrs. Evans who is with her sons in Baltimore.

Mrs. J. D. Maddrey gave an outline of work for the coming year and distributed yearbooks to the members.

Punch was served by Mesdames W. N. Maer, A. E. Hull and I. H. Roberts in the charmingly decorated dining room. The guest list included Mesdames B. L. Fain, J. D. Maddrey, J. A. Heyman, B. K. Conventions and Novelties Discussed

By EMILY POST

I should like to explain to those of you who ask me to describe hitherto unheard of ways of setting tables, announcing engagements, playing games and so on, that novelty is the direct opposite of my subject, which is convention as established by traditions of good taste.

If you, for instance, will describe to me any novelty you have in mind, it is within my province to give you my opinion on it. But devising novelty is not.

For example, a bride-to-be asks if it is correct to announce her engagement by sending a small photograph of herself and her fiance—she in his arms, and his lips on hers as in a movie romance close-up, surrounded by the drawing of a ring with a solitaire stone, and under it the date.

The answer to such a question is that it would be hard to imagine anything more outraging to good taste than making public display of what should have been a hallowed moment. On the other hand, were a young girl and man to have an ordinary picture taken—a typical snapshot, sitting or standing or walking together, which in no way makes a demonstration of emotion—and enclose one of these to most intimate friends, each signed as any such picture might be signed, "Mary and John," and a date, this would not be following the prescribed way to announce an engagement but it would be an entirely proper and charming thing that any one might do.

To a novelty-loving hostess who suggests giving a dinner for six on a tea wagon in her living room instead of conventionally on her dining table, I can only answer that quite apart from rules of table-setting, the idea sounds unattractively uncomfortable. But the suggestion of another hostess that she serve cereal, fruits, scrambled eggs and sausage, batter cakes, rolls and coffee for a breakfast-lunch is an appealing novelty—not very novel either, if the hour be before 1 o'clock.

Pretty Program Marks Meeting Of Wesley Girls

Members of the Wesley Girls Sunday school class of the First Methodist church met Monday afternoon in their regular monthly party in the church parlors, when Mesdames A. E. Kelly, John P. Marrs, J. S. Riggs, L. Byars, R. E. Fisher and J. L. Dashner were a charming group of hostesses. Larkspur and roses were stressed in the colorful decorations.

Mrs. J. E. O'Brien was at the piano when the meeting was opened with song and Mrs. Stanley M. Raub gave an inspiring devotional preceding the brief business meeting.

Mrs. J. Truman Stevens, program chairman, introduced the artists who took part in the program. Mrs. J. L. Elkin sang two lovely numbers, "Resignation," by Roma and "Souvenir" by Franz Dardia, with Mrs. R. H. Mahaffey accompanying.

Miss Thelma Norvell and Mae Bartlett played violin duets with Miss Marie Johnson at the piano, and a one-act play, "Let There Be Light," given by Mrs. Sterling Crumpler, was an exquisite conclusion to the program. Mrs. Crumpler's interpretation was a thing of beauty.

The hostess group served frozen punch from a huge cake of ice in which a wreath of fresh roses was frozen.

Members and guests entertained included Mesdames Wayne Somerville, Ross Smith, H. C. Cheshire, P. L. Fischer, E. B. Lehrack, L. M. Morrow, G. W. Cooper, G. A. Remington, C. C. Rhoads, W. J. Ranbarger, J. E. Davis, J. C. Hanks, V. R. Smitham, J. R. Walch, John A. Stulken, J. Truman Stevens, J. L. Elkin, W. W. Silk, J. E. O'Brien, E. W. Shaw, Walter Daugherty, E. S. Easton, Stanley M. Raub, J. P. Tarry, E. J. Barner, S. S. McKenney, C. E. Pross, A. H. Mahaffey, Sterling Crumpler; Misses Thelma Norvell, Mae Bartlett and Marie Johnson and the hostesses.

PRODUCTION OF CRUDE DROPS

East Texas Gains Offset Big Oklahoma Decrease

TULSA, Okla., May 24. (UP)—Daily average crude oil production showed a slight decrease last week over the previous seven days, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

Daily average production for the week ended May 21 was 2,219,739 barrels, compared to 2,228,101 barrels for the week before.

The Oklahoma City field and California areas showed heavy decreases. Their reductions were almost balanced, however, by production increases in East Texas and the Rocky mountains.

Kansas production held about steady.

The production table:

Well Makes 'Show' In Conroe Field

CONROE, Texas, May 24. (AP)—The crew at the South Texas Development company No. 2, which sent hopes high in this section by its show of oil Saturday, was preparing today to push the well through to completion this week.

The well is the third in the Conroe field to "show," the field having been opened in December when the Strake Oil company's South Texas Development company No. 1 came in for the recovery of 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas and 100 barrels of 54 gravity oil. Production there came from 4,930 feet.

The South Texas Development company No. 2 is 2,300 feet south and four degrees east of the discovery well, picked up the pay sand at 5,030 feet, and is approximately a mile and a half east and slightly to the north of the Heep Oil corporation's R. L. Cartwright No. 1, the second well completed in that field. It came in in the early part of April. Production in the Heep well was found at 5,078 feet.

Wilbarger Test Nears 2375-Foot Pay Level

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, May 24.—The W. H. Hawley No. 1 test, 22 miles south of Vernon, is expected to reach the 2375 foot level within the next few days, according to G. E. Slaugenhop, superintendent of the E. C. Lawson interests that control the well.

The test is located in block 2, section 29, H. & T. C. survey. Pay sand is not expected before the 2375-foot level, and it is likely that the test will be drilled to 3000 feet before a satisfactory showing is encountered.

The hole was bailing out Tuesday at 2340 feet preparatory to resuming drilling after a small showing of oil.

'Obscure Points' Cleared At World Oil Parley

NEW YORK, May 24. (INS)—The world oil conference, attended by representatives of British, Russian and American oil interests, was in a state of relative inactivity today, according to a brief announcement made by Charles E. Arnott, president of the Socony Vacuum corporation and chairman of the conference.

The last meeting between the Anglo-American and Russian groups produced no definite results, he said, serving only to clarify "a number of obscure points."

Mayors Invited to Attend Prosperity Conference

DETROIT, May 24. (INS)—Mayors of all cities in the country with a population of more than 100,000 will be invited to attend a national conference here on June 1, on the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan and unemployment relief.

The invitations will be mailed tonight from the office of Mayor Frank Murphy, who initiated a recent meeting of Michigan mayors to discuss the prosperity loan for unemployment relief.

If you want to be satisfied

FISHING FOR PIPE

The Falls Refining company No. 1 L. F. Wilson, located in section 119, A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county, is fishing for pipe at 2204 feet. The well, a wildcat one-half mile south of the deep production in Chalk Hill, topped the sand at 2200 feet, but while making preparations to test had the misfortune to drop the pipe and is engaged in fishing for the same. The sand is showing oil and a well here will give the new deep pay a good south extension.

NORTH OF NEWCASTLE

Gaffney and associates No. 1 J. D. Lowe, located in the southeast corner of section 2244, T. E. & L. survey, north of the Larimore shallow pool in Young county, is drilling at a depth of 550 feet.

ARCHER COUNTY LOCATION

The United Producers have made location for No. 1 L. F. Wilson, a 1500-foot rotary test to be drilled 2350 feet from the south, and 750 feet east of the northeast corner of lot 1, section 114, A. T. N. C. L. survey, northeast of the Burns production on the Turberville land, in Archer county.

NORTHEAST OF GRAHAM

The King Royalty and Bob Windfohr No. 1 Lowe, in block 15, section 3412, T. E. & L. survey in Young county, are engaged in drilling out the cement from the deep lime at 3480 feet and will test. The well is south of the Dewey Knox producer in the same block which came in several months ago producing from the 2700-foot pay. The King-Windfohr had a slight show in this sand but drilled deeper to the 3800-foot formation which showed plenty of oil and a heavy gas flow.

WILBARGER LOCATION

The Texas company No. A-601 W. T. Waggoner is a location 990 feet west, 330 feet south of the northeast corner of section 30, block 5, H. T. C. R. R. survey, Wilbarger county.

Troops Called in Ohio To Quell Mine Riots

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 24. (INS)—Two hundred and thirty Ohio national guardsmen were ordered into the Hocking valley coal fields by Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson this afternoon following new outbreaks today today in Ohio's bitter coal strike.

Machine gun, tear gas and rifle squads will be dispatched immediately to Nelsonville, the scene of a strike battle early today, and will also be available for action in the Tuscarawas county strike zone, where mine guards and a dozen men believed to be strike sympathizers engaged in a gun fight this morning.

One Defendant Remains In Chicago Kidnap Case

CHICAGO, May 24. (INS)—Only one defendant remained on trial today for the kidnaping of Mrs. Georgia Gecht.

Shortly after Mrs. Gecht left the witness stand and the state rested, Judge Philip Sullivan granted a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty for Redward Finnen, purported "go-between" during the kidnaping.

Former Assistant State's Attorney Ward Swalwell remained the only defendant in the case. His motion for a directed verdict was denied.

Two persons involved in the kidnaping have pleaded guilty, while another is a fugitive.

Deputy Sheriff Killed By Escaping Bandits

Special to The Record News.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., May 24. (INS)—Charles Knapp, 37, a Kent county deputy sheriff, was shot and killed today by four bandits who an hour previously had robbed the Wealthy street branch of the Grand Rapids Savings bank of $5,000.

Knapp did not know about the robbery but tried to stop the bandits' car because they were speeding through Lowell.

The four men in the machine opened fire and Knapp fell mortally wounded.

NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT TOASTED ON BOTH SIDES

Extra Crispness Just One of Many Improvements Developed for Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit

In line with its policy of constant improvement, the Kellogg Company some time ago introduced a new shredded whole wheat biscuit which offers several outstanding improvements in this type of cereal.

The new Kellogg biscuit is "pressure-cooked" by a special process that retains the full food value of the whole wheat. At the same time it produces a delicious mellow flavor and makes the biscuit very easy to digest.

The biscuits are also much crisper and crunchier, for they are toasted on both top and bottom—not just one side. Incidentally they are also a new, convenient size to fit the cereal bowl without crumbling. And you get 15 to the package instead of the usual dozen.

As evidence of the high food value of the Kellogg biscuit, the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia made a careful analysis and certify every package.

Grocers say Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits are winning wide favor. Healthful and delightful for any meal. Especially good with fruits. Identify this improved food product by the name, Kellogg's, and the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MORROWS FEEL IRONY OF FATE

Ambassador Led in State's Prison Reform

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 24. (US)—A dagger of bitter irony is twisting in the hearts of the family of the late Dwight W. Morrow, grandfather of the murdered Lindbergh baby.

It was Morrow, one of New Jersey's foremost citizens, who led a movement which abolished inhumanities in that state penal institutions and bettered living conditions for all incarcerated criminals.

Struck after Death

It was the criminal class which Morrow sought to "civilize" through humane treatment that struck back at him after death through the savage kidnaping-murder of his infant grandson.

Irony of ironies!

Morrow it was who led the fight for abolition of the prison "shave haircut"; the dank and tomb-like dungeons; the striped uniforms, and many another feature of the state's old prison system.

Urged Sweeping Reform

He had been appointed chairman of a legislative investigation commission in 1917 by Gov. Walter E. Edge to conduct a survey of prison conditions in New Jersey with a view to their improvement.

What he saw during his personal study of conditions made him resolve to recommend sweeping changes.

Prisoners were being thrown into unhealthy dungeons by brutal keepers on the slightest pretext. They were permitted to receive but one letter and one visitor a month.

Changed Despite Protest

They were confined with ball and chain. No exercise periods. Only rare bathing privileges.

The prisoners were forced to work in reed mat shops under a steady swirl of stifling dust that produced a growing number of tuberculosis cases among the prison population.

All this the commission headed by Morrow changed in the face of caustic protests from many penologists of the old school who warned against the abolition of penal brutality.

Treated as Humans

Convicts were treated as human beings. Food was improved. Incentives to learn a trade were given. Visit and mail privileges kept the prisoners' contact with the outside world to which society hoped to send them back, not as released criminals, but as new men fit for citizenship.

Fortunately for Morrow he died before the ironic boomerang from the criminal element he sought to aid struck at his infant grandson, kidnaped and fiendishly murdered.

Hawaii Military Rule Disapproved by Navy

WASHINGTON, May 24. (UP)—The navy and war department today declined to endorse the Britten bill for military control of Hawaii, at a hearing before the house territories committee.

Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations, in reply to a direct question as to whether he would recommend adoption of the bill, said: "As it stands, no."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, said the political change proposed by the bill would have little or no effect on the potentialities of defense of the territory, which, he said "depend on one thing only—a sufficient military and naval force."

Abilene Girl Killed When Train Hits Auto

ABILENE, Texas, May 24. (AP)—Nena Kate Ramsey, injured yesterday in a grade crossing accident in which her sister was killed, was recovering today in a hospital here. She had not been told that funeral services were being held for the sister, Norma Ramsey, at Baird, near here.

The girls are daughters of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Ramsey, pioneers here. Their car was struck by a passenger train at a street crossing here.

MUST PAY INCOME TAX

WASHINGTON, May 24. (INS)—Albert R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation, must pay additional income taxes amounting to $732,008 for the years 1923-1926, the board of tax appeals ruled today.

Saint Jo Girl Awarded Valuable And Prized Fellowship For Study Abroad

Autrey Nell Wiley Will Leave for Europe in August to Conduct Post-Doctoral Research for Year

AUSTIN, May 24.—Miss Autrey Nell Wiley, who received the degree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Texas in June, 1931, has recently been awarded a fellowship for study abroad by the American Council of Learned Societies, which has its headquarters in Washington, D. C., according to Dr. R. H. Griffith, professor of English, under whose direction Miss Wiley wrote her doctor's dissertation.

The fellowship is designated as a post-doctoral research fellowship in the humanities. It carries a stipend of $2,400 for the year, with additional allowances of $500 for traveling expenses and $50 for having photostats made, totaling $2,950.

Leaves in August

Miss Wiley will spend most of her year's time in the British museum, in London, and at the ancient libraries of Oxford and Cambridge. Before leaving for Europe in August, she will spend a portion of June and July in Austin working in the university library, checking up and arranging notes to expedite her studies abroad, and formulating more fully her plans for the year in consultation with Professor Griffith and other members of the English faculty.

Miss Wiley was born at Saint Jo, Texas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Wiley. She took the degree of bachelor of arts, with honors, at the Texas State College for Women, Denton, in 1922, and the master of arts at Columbia university, New York, in 1924. In summers she studied at the University of Colorado and the University of Chicago. In the summer of 1930 and through the long session of 1930-31, she was a graduate student at the University of Texas, and was at the same time holder of the Margaret E. Maltby fellowship, with a stipend of $1,500, awarded by the American Association of University Women.

Elected English Instructor

Immediately after her graduation as a bachelor of arts she was elected an instructor in the Texas State College for Women, and there she has since remained except for the intervals of graduate study. In 1924 she was promoted to be assistant professor, and associate professor in 1931.

Miss Wiley has published several articles in the learned journals. "Reiterative Devices in Leaves of Grass," an article on Walt Whitman's poetry, was read by title at the meeting of the Modern Language Association of America in 1928, and printed in American Literature, May, 1929, a journal published at Duke university, Durham, N. C. "The English Vogue of Prologues and Epilogues" was printed in Modern Language Notes, April, 1932, a journal that for 40 years has been published by the Johns Hopkins university. "The Prologue in Petticoats," a story of the introductory skits spoken by the actresses directly to play-audiences, was read at the meeting of the Modern Language association in Madison, Wis., in the Christmas holidays of 1931, and has been accepted for early printing in the Publications of the Modern Language association, a quarterly magazine published in New York. Her doctoral dissertation is a history of dramatic prologues and epilogues, which though now rarely used had a very great vogue in England in the 17th and 18th centuries.

ROOSEVELT SENTIMENT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 24. (INS)—Sentiment of Missouri Democrats is overwhelmingly for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president and he will receive the state's vote at the Democratic national convention after the first or second ballot, Col. W. D. Vandiver of Columbia, Mo., declared here today.

Wins Fellowship

Miss Autrey Nell Wiley of Saint Jo, Texas, recently was awarded a $2,950 fellowship for study abroad by the American Council of Learned Societies. She will leave in August for London, where she will spend most of her year's time in research work. The prized award won by her is designated as a post-doctoral research fellowship in the humanities.

Proposal Would Probe Government Competition

WASHINGTON, May 24. (INS)—Government competition with private business of all sorts will be investigated by a special house committee of five members if a resolution reported by the house rules committee today is adopted.

The action was taken after Representative Shannon, Democrat, of Missouri, author of the resolution, told how he had sent a young civilian to an army store here and had him outfitted from "socks to a hair cut."

He also exhibited to the committee samples of rum, bacardi and other flavorings purchaseable through government stores.

The resolution would permit the committee to continue whether congress is sitting or not and requires a report by Dec. 15 next.

Illegal Operations Subject Of Talk At Morticians Meeting

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 24. (UP)—An echo of the criminal operations performed by Oklahoma City physicians, given wide publicity after the death of two Oklahoma university co-eds recently, was heard today when Atty. Gen. J. Berry King addressed the state meeting of the Oklahoma Funeral Directors association.

King called attention of the funeral directors and embalmers to the statute making it unlawful to bury a body without orders from the coroner when there is any suspicion a crime was committed resulting in death.

The attorney general addressed the funeral directors on laws and legislation affecting the profession.

Disney Wins Decision In Oklahoma Election

WASHINGTON, May 24. (UP)—The house today unanimously decided an election contest in the first congressional district of Oklahoma in favor of Representative Disney, Democrat.

Disney's election by a few hundred votes in 1930, had been contested on grounds of alleged fraud by Charles O'Connor, Republican candidate. The election committee's report favored Disney.

Q.—What is the three-stringed musical instrument used in Japan which resembles a banjo?—M. C. N.

A.—It is a samisen.

Q.—What should be put in the barrel of a gun when not in use to preserve it from rust?—C. W. L.

A.—It should be closed up when stored by filling it with a good gun grease. This automatically closes it and prevents rust.

Q.—How many railroad companies are there in the United States?—L. J. T.

A.—There are 377.

Q.—What countries were included in the Roman empire?—S. G. H.

A.—The Roman empire included the present countries of Italy, Great Britain, France, Spain, Austria, Hungary, the Balkan Peninsula, Asia Minor, Palestine and northern Africa.

Q.—Who invented modern water color painting?—C. T.

A.—Turner, the great English landscape painter (1775-1851) is given the credit.

Q.—In what years did Lafayette come to this country?—M. C.

A.—Lafayette came to the American colonies in 1777. He returned to France in 1779, and again returned to the United States in 1780. He visited in this country in 1784 and again in 1824 and 1825.

Q.—What is the brightest star in the sky at present?—W. B.

A.—The most brilliant object in the sky at the present time is the planet Venus.

Q.—How is putty made?—D. F. H.

A.—The bureau of standards says that putty should be made of pure linseed oil and a good grade of whiting in the proportions of about 17 per cent linseed oil and 83 per cent whiting.

Q.—If the figures being carved on Mount Rushmore were full length, how tall would they be?—P. M. H.

A.—Senator Norbeck, in speaking of the memorial, said that each figure of the group scales to the proportion of men 465 feet high, fading into the ledge at the waistline, the tops of the heads being upon the sky-line. All are in the round.

Q.—How many Liberty motors were made for the world war?—E. E. R.

A.—The total production of Liberty engines to the date of the armistice was 13,574. Of this production 4,435 were shipped overseas to the expeditionary forces and 1,025 were delivered to the British, French and Italian air services.

Q.—In two-handed cribbage, what is considered an average count for a hand?—C. F. B.

A.—In six-card cribbage the average expectation of the non-dealer for his hand and pegging is 12 points; for the dealer, in hand, crib, and play, 17 points. Each player having had a deal their scores should be about 29. If a player is 29 or more he is said to be "at home," and if he is 7 or more points ahead of his opponent on even deals he is said to be "safe at home."

Q.—How is the distance of the run for a marathon race determined?—H. K.

A.—According to the Greek story, the original marathon runner was Pheidippides. He ran from Marathon to Athens to inform the king of the Greek victory. He dropped dead from exhaustion immediately afterwards. The exact distance was 26 miles and 386 yards which is the standard distance of the marathon run in this era.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Slip Covers

Slip covers may prolong the life of the comfortable chairs and davenports. The thrifty homemaker can make slips to protect them or to cover the worn places. In this way they extend the period of usefulness of furniture already on hand and help to tide over lean periods in the family income when the purchase of new upholstery or new furniture would be entirely out of the question.

This illustrated booklet tells all about slip covers and tells it in the most practical way.

An Opportunity for Our Cities

THE growing possibility that federal funds will sooner or later be made available to cities for construction projects as a depression remedy, presents the cities with a tremendous opportunity.

Originally, it was assumed that all such money would be spent on roads, bridges and similar public works. Recently, however, people have been discovering that housing might well be included in the list.

That is where the opportunity lies.

Every city of any size has its slum areas—the "underprivileged" neighborhoods, as social workers call them—where people of small means have to jam themselves into miserable, insanitary, antiquated and ugly dwellings.

They have to live there because they can't afford anything better. Living there, they form centers in which vice and crime find a perfect breeding ground. The underworld gangs recruit nearly all of their members from such localities. The slum's mere existence is a constant drain on the city's well-being.

It has been discovered that it is quite possible to replace such housing with modern, comfortable, attractive apartment blocks at a very reasonable price, so that a poverty-stricken family could actually rent decent living quarters for less than it often pays now for slum quarters.

It can be done, that is, if service and not quick profits is the motive that actuates the landlord; if he is content with a return of something like 4 per cent on his investment and cares more about providing people with good homes than he cares about increasing his own bank account.

Commercial builders can hardly be expected to undertake the job. City governments can—if they can find the cash. And if the federal government is to provide loans to cities for public works, the way is open.

Destroy the slums, substitute decent housing and enable the "submerged tenth" to get respectable homes—isn't that a program worth considering? The job would provide work for the idle and orders for the manufacturers quite as effectively as the much talked-of road building programs, and it would make our cities infinitely more healthy.

A Meaningless Remedy

SAMUEL VAUCLAIN, prominent industrialist, seems to have hit upon a depression remedy that at least has the merit of extreme simplicity.

"When everybody makes up their mind to go to work and stop talking about the government supporting them, we'll get out of our troubles," he remarked the other day.

Nothing could be much simpler—or, incidentally, much more meaningless.

"Make up our minds to go to work"—well, there are quite a few millions of Americans who would do just that, in a jiffy, if only someone would tell them when and where and how they could get the necessary jobs. They aren't idle because they want to be and they aren't living on charity because they prefer that mode of existence to supporting themselves.

It seems to be easy, somehow, for a rich man to overlook that little fact.

Strange Case of Mr. Curtis

MORE than one man, in times past, has gone slightly gaga from the strain of seeing his own name in the newspapers. It is hard to recall any one, however, who got as completely off his base in that respect as did Boatbuilder Curtis of Norfolk.

The cruel consequences of his hoax have already been enlarged upon in detail. There is one more point, though, that seems worth mentioning. That is the fact that Curtis' lies seem to have thrown a cloud of suspicion over certain other witnesses in the Lindbergh case.

It would be well if the public could withhold judgment until the case has been cleared up. Curtis may merit the contempt of his fellow-citizens, but it would be tragic if an indignant public should let some of that contempt slop over on those who do not deserve it. One headliner in this investigation lied fiendishly; but that is no sign that the others did too.

SO THEY SAY!

Music is the meat and drink of the people. I will lead street bands, I will give free concerts, when this depression prevents folks from hearing music they must have.—Leopold Stokowski, conductor, Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

The Wail of the Big City!

(Portrait of another young man talking to himself)

It's the kind of a sound you feel, but never hear...It whistles over your head as you turn a corner... And it slips up on you from subway holes...I mean the Wail of the Big City...I've never been able to distinguish it from the million other noises that jam themselves into the clamor of New York...That pound at you from the open windows of dance palaces and from the roar of the trembling curbs... That turn you, twist you, and jerk your head upwards in neck-crashing blows...But it's there just the same...And it has a suddenness that makes it all the more dreadful ...I've seen its effect on roysterers ...I've seen it swoop into gala repent-houses and shock them into a barren hush of overturned gin bottles and rouge-stained cigaret stubs ...Laughter is the first to wither before its unseen darts... Occasionally it brings tears...I think it would bring them more often, but you can't cry in the face of its eerie movements.

Last night it came to me over the telephone..."I've simply got to see you, Paul"...It was an old friend...For 20 years, he has been confecting the songs that have come to you across the footlights and over the air..."I'm going nuts, I can't sleep," he pleaded, "Please get dressed and come over right away"...You can't ignore the Big City's Wail...So, I dressed and hurried to his apartment that crowns a 52-story skyscraper...From its heights the whole island spreads out before you...You could see the Hudson and the East River dividing to make room for Manhattan and then converging again into the waters of the bay...To the south the Statue of Liberty gleamed before its arc-lights, and to the north the hazy rectangle of Central Park and its winding lights loomed like a vast pincushion..."I can't sleep, and Lord knows when I will be able to again"...His eyes were heavy and his hair disheveled by sleepless pillows . . . "Listen, kid, You've got to tell me what to do! ...I tried to stay away from her for four years...I went to Switzerland...I went to China...I even tried to fly across the Atlantic last summer...I thought I could beat it with work...There's 12 hit songs on the piano that I've turned out since the day she walked out...But it's no use...I'm licked, and I'm licked plenty...You know I've put a lot of guys on Broadway straight every time they got themselves in love with a worthless dame, but I can't do a damn thing for myself."

The muffled snorts of a dawn-fighting tug on the river punctuated his sobs. "Paul, there's no use I tell you...I can't get her out of my nights, that's the worst part of it...Some guys go out and drink ...Every time I do, it makes my memories more bitter...As I was calling you I looked out across that mad carpet below...It's exactly midnight...There's plenty of gaiety there...Look, at that electric bonfire...Broadway, eh...How many birds are squirming in and out of the speaks to take the knots out of their system?...There must be 10,000 of them right now...But I can't get consolation out of the thought ...It reminds me of the night I got drunk after they buried my mother...It was a dreary afternoon and I phoned Margie at the theater where she was playing a matinee ...I told her the chauffeur would pick her up immediately after the show and rush her to the cemetery in time for the final services...But she didn't show up...I waited out there in Cypress Hills as they lowered my mother from sight...And for two full hours afterwards...I couldn't believe that Margie would forget me at a time like that... Her excuse later that evening was that traffic had delayed the car... But the chauffeur couldn't keep silent...And told me the truth... He had called for her at the stage-door and her leading man got in with her...Then they stopped at his apartment and were up there for three hours...That was the traffic, Paul...You'd think a fellow could forget a dame like that with the snap of his fingers...But I can't...There's something about the rottenness of women that sticks to you like your skin.

"You know the songs I've written since...And you know how crazy people say I am...But, you can't go telling everybody what's tearing you apart inside...All they want to hear is the popular melodies about mildly aching hearts and the concerts of water-falls set to lyrics that make you blush every time you think of your schooling...I've written myself in, out and around every emotion I've ever had...But you can't stop the moon, especially when it's the same moon that made you deliriously happy in the early days of a romance...Anyway, I had to go to see her early yesterday morning...She's living on 54th St. by herself...And I've found myself walking past her house for no good reason at all, at least a dozen times a week...You know she's tortured me by refusing to get a divorce... So, I felt the hell with it...A man has the right to break in on his wife any time he feels like it!... It was 3 o'clock this morning...I rang the bell, and she opened the door...When she saw me, she closed it quickly...Then I heard some heated conversation, and a minute later she came back and invited me in...There was a fellow with her; He is one of the best known dramatic critics in town... I yelled at him...I told him off plenty...Then I ordered him out of her house and he left meekly...All the time she was grinning at the scene from a deep-cushioned chair ...As he stepped through the door, she called him a coward..."Afraid of a husband?" was her parting taunt...I lifted the glass covering off her boudoir table and flung it across the room...Then I rushed down the hall to the elevator to catch up with the guy...In the steam of my jealousy, I blamed the poor sap for all my trouble...When I got to street, he already had a full block start...But I caught up in a few seconds."

Motorcycle sirens tore through the avenue...And I could see the re-born rage that their shrill C's brought to his face..."I cornered the bird in the vestibule of a drug store...I was so mad I wanted to choke him, and he threw an umbrella he carried between us...I smashed it to the ground and a crowd began to gather...The poor sap was shaking, but I could see him gradually pulling his poise together..."Wait a minute,' he said ;..I can't make your wife love you any more than you can...It isn't my fault...All I happen to be is the guy you found in your wife's apartment at 3 a. m.'...And then, Paul, he said something that's haunted me all day..."Look, here, fellow,' he continued. 'Don't forget this is a Big City...It's so big that time has nothing to do with evil... The greatest infidelities are accomplished in the shade-drawn afternoon...Just because you found me there this time of day means nothing...absolutely nothing.'... I actually apologized to him...And walked away...But I can't help feeling the clinging misery...She sat there grinning...The broken glass at the wall beside her...The lousy dame whom I haven't the guts to forget...Do something for me, Paul...Talk to me, tell me I'm

The Wail of the Big City rushed silently in from the terraced roof ...It smacked me coldly in the face ...I couldn't talk...I only saw dawn coming over the Atlantic, creep-

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A TRIVIAL CAUSE AND A TREMENDOUS EFFECT—My recent trip to Manchuria followed the Japanese invasion and the establishment of the puppet government headed by the former boy-emperor of China. The immediate pretext for the Japanese military steps was a slightly damaged end of a rail, a broken pair of connecting fishplates, and a railroad tie, caused by an explosion on the South Manchurian railway near Mukden, Sept. 18, 1931. This trivial damage was sufficient however to cause Japan to wage war against three provinces of China and to bombard one of the world's greatest cities. My drawing was made when I visited the scene of the explosion and viewed the pile of evidence in April of this year.

THE SENTENCE OF CHINESE "BINGS"—An oft heard remark is that it is difficult to see how one Chinese can understand another. As a matter of fact ,they seldom are understood even by their own neighbors. But the reasons are many, and the peculiarities of their language could never be cataloged. While I was lunching with Mr. Peck, vice consul of the U. S. A. in Nanking, China, who has been a student of the language since childhood, he told me of the six "bings" that make a sentence, at the same time explaining that the intonation given to each word gives it an entirely different meaning. This same rule applies to countless other Chinese words, but few of them to such a great extent.

Frank Buck Needs Two-Fisted Nerve In Strange Work

Collector Gambles With Death To Bring 'Em Back Alive

Frank Buck has a fantastic job—and a tough one. He beards jungle beasts in their jungle fastness and packs them back to zoos and circuses for work-a-day folk of the temperate zones to pop their eyes upon.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive," a personal record of exotic and often hair-raising adventures in wildest Asia and wolliest Africa, discloses between the lines something of the Frank Buck who has been long a familiar figure of traders, trappers, huntsmen and soldiers of fortune in the earth's little-known corners. The stories he relates—as he writes, incisively, with virile emphasis give some of the reasons why Buck needs more courage and self-reliance than any lion trailing sportsman who goes out to kill.

Must Bring 'Em Back Alive

Killing them—elephants, panthers, rhinos, cobras, pythons—would be simple compared to the assignment Buck must fill. He must not only face the most merciless juggernauts of the jungle on their own hunting grounds, but he must go to the mat with them, truss them up in shackles and cages and deliver them, hale and kicking, to the zoos and circuses which give him commissions.

Buck is a compactly built, steely-eyed man who looks uncomfortable out of dungarees, or at any rate out of white duck and sun helmet. He's as brown from equator suns as some of the beasts he snares. He moves lithely, thinks quickly. If he didn't—he probably never would have lived to get his story into print.

There was that fist fight he got into once, for example, on the way back from India. His antagonist was no brawny seaman or comparatively harmless pugilist, like Dempsey or Tunney. The problem was not as easy as that. He fought a granite-shouldered, evil-fanged orang-utan—and knocked the big ape out in fair compat, with a haymaker under the jaw!

May be Buck has studied animals enough to know their weak points, to be able to get the "psychological drop" on them, as it were. Again, he may have missed his profession. There aren't many professional prize fighters in the world who would enter the ring against that shaggy, snarling giant Buck putdown for a count.

And there was another time, even more terror-fraught, when he went into action with nothing but bare hands against a king cobra. The only way to get a fair idea of the king cobra's deadliness is to talk to the inhabitants of a native village after one of the vicious snakes has been seen about.

The cobra, unlike most other wild things, kills, apparently, for the pure love of slaughter. Lions and tigers will usually retire in disgust at the first scent of man. A cobra appears to like nothing better than the sound of footfalls, the scrape of puttees against jungle grasses. He simply rears and strikes. He seldom has to sink his great fangs with their poison reservoirs more than once into a leg or an arm. Death follows swiftly, invariably.

Fights With Cobra.

The cobra that mixed it up with Buck was a captured reptile. Buck had him in a crude native box and was in the act of transferring him to a more practical prison when the snake fell to the ground. Without a weapon of any description, the collector faced the cobra as it prepared to strike.

There was nothing for it but to meet the issue. Flight was cut off by a row of animal cages. How Buck bested the cobra in a wrestling match is a yarn that reads like fiction, but it is verifiably authentic, like the other strange adventures Buck relates in "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

This remarkable true-story serial of the jungle will begin Friday, May 27, in The Record News. In it Buck, who has crossed the Pacific 40 times, encircled the world five times, furnished the city of Dallas with a complete zoo, captured and brought home 39 elephants, 60 tigers, 52 leopards, 20 hyenas, 50 orang-utans, 3,000 monkeys, 40 bears, over 100,000 birds—tells how he did it.

This picture graphically illustrates how Frank Buck, world famous collector of jungle animals, brings them back alive for exhibitions in American zoos. To land an elephant it is necessary to use a derrick to lift the creature out of the hold of the ship. Many interesting incidents about his work in capturing and delivering wild animals are recounted in his book, "Bring 'Em Back Alive," which will be published serially in The Record News beginning Friday, May 27.

Union Carbide Declares Quarterly Stock Dividend

NEW YORK, May 24. (INS)—Directors of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation today declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock, placing the issue on a $1.20 annual basis. The previous payment was 50 cents quarterly, prior to which the stock had been on a $2.60 annual basis.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, May 24.—A lot of folk still cling to the notion that the best way to prepare to become president is to pick a very humble log cabin to be born in, preferably in Kentucky.

JOHN S. COHEN

If you doubt that the log cabin idea still has its place in American politics look up the voluminous Melvin Traylor-for-president publicity circulated for months before the Democratic convention. It usually starts with that Kentucky cabin, and reverts to it occasionally in discussing Mr. Traylor's banking or other activities.

Whether or not the presidential log cabin tradition started with Lincoln, certainly he is its most glowing exemplar.

A Changed Senate

Heading for the senate is quite another matter. Once money was supposed to be the all important factor to bolster up senatorial ambitions. Popular election of senators has changed that, of course.

Still, noting the arrival of Major J. S. Cohen of Atlanta, Georgia, to be a senator from that state, the fact impresses itself that there is now enough senate editorial talent in the senate to get out a flock of newspapers.

There are Editor-Publisher-Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Editor-Publisher-Senator Park Trammell of Florida, Editor-Publisher-Senator Capper of Kansas, Editor-Publisher-Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Editor-Publisher-Senator Cutting of New Mexico, Editor-Publisher-Senator Nye of North Dakota and now Editor-Publisher-Senator Cohen of Georgia—to say nothing of the mere editings noted in senatorial biographies like those of Fess of Ohio or Bailey of North Carolina, the reportorial work of Dill of Washington or the newsboy beginning of Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Many more senators have edited, reported, business-officed or otherwise done some sort of newspapering in their time.

A Good Springboard

Clearly a newspaper is a good senatorial springboard. Add a little law training, congress being more than half made up of lawyers and it looks like a fine start for either end of capitol hill.

Services Held For Pioneer Of Knox

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, May 24.—Funeral services for Blas Zulawik, pioneer Knox county citizen, were held Sunday afternoon at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Rhineland, where he had resided for more than 30 years.

Mr. Zulawik was born in Germany in 1855 and came to America in 1881, first locating at Panna Maria, Karnes county. He later moved to San Antonio, where he was a member of the police force for six years. He came to Knox county in 1899 and settled in the Rhineland community, where he has engaged in farming.

Mr. Kulawik is survived by one son, Judge Stanley Kulawik, of Cuero, Texas, and three daughters, Mrs. Agnes Blake of Rhineland; Mrs. Leo Kuebecker of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Mat Kreits of Rhineland.

Services Sunday were conducted by the Rev. Father J. F. Schiessel of Wichita Falls, who is serving as pastor of St. Joseph's church in the absence of the Rev. Father P. Boniface, who is on a visit in St. Louis.

Vernon Lions to Be Host To Intercity Meeting

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, May 24.—Representatives of 12 Lions clubs of this section are expected here Thursday night for an intercity meeting of the organization. The program will open at 8 o'clock at the Wilbarger hotel banquet room.

Julien C. Hyer, Fort Worth, international president of the organization, will attend the meeting, and District Governor Horace Connally of Eastland has been invited. R. M. Fielder of Vernon, group chairman, will preside at the meeting.

Cities to be represented include Wichita Falls, Henrietta, Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Electra, Childress, Necona and Chillicothe in Texas; and Tipton, Frederick and Altus, Okla.

Weather Delays Take-Off On Flight to Tokyo

SEATTLE, May 24. (INS)—Nat C. Browne, New York aviator, was forced to postpone his take-off again today on his non-stop solo flight attempt from Seattle to Tokyo.

Browne received adverse weather reports from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, on his proposed route to Japan.

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTH PACES TEXAS GOLF ASSOCIATION MEET

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Crack Golf on Telephone Post

The following communication was sent in by a bunch of Walters, Okla., golfers, and you can take it any way you like it:

"Nothing new under the sun does not work in golf. During the golf tournament played Sunday on the Walters course between Comanche and Walters a peculiar game was fought out with a telephone post.

"Dr. W. B. Horned from Walters was the man who had to receive the shock when his opponent sliced his second drive and hit a telephone post outside of No. 1 fairway, the ball coming back 50 yards in the fairway. This 'feat', according to report, was repeated with the home post. Clear judgment and his usual perfect nerve control overcame the danger for the local man. The Walters golfer would not slice, as he knows what makes him do that, so straight to the green he shot, and won the hole with an 86."

The Noble-Little Situation

When a team gets off to a whiz of a start and just keeps going, winning one game after another and never suffering a loss, it's a great thing—for that team. But it's tough on the other members of the league, and especially if it is an amateur organization that is likely to become dispirited with a one-sided race.

That is exactly what is happening to the Commercial league of this city. The Noble-Little Hardware company nine has an amazing string of 13 victories, and no defeats. The closest thing to a bad mark on their record is a tie.

The Noble-Little boys can justly be proud of their record, but something must be done about it, nevertheless, for their success is leading to the ultimate disbanding of the league. Only yesterday the Malone Beauty shop team threatened to quit.

The Commercial league is not as fast and tough a loop as the local City league. It has been suggested that Noble-Little cease firing in the Commercial league and join the City league, where they can meet some stronger opposition. One of the weaker City league teams could take Noble-Little's place in the Commercial league.

This, of course, would irritate the City league team chosen to switch over to the Commercial loop, but the change would be in the interest of amateur baseball in this city, and if viewed in that light the change should incur the enmity of no one. The league heads may see some other way out of the situation. If so, we hope they do it quickly. For pretty soon Noble-Little's string of victories won't seem so imposing. Thirteen or 20 wins in a row over teams able to hold their ground is quite some record, as the boys say; but 13 or 20 victories over teams unable to muster sufficient strength is simply a case of the strong man boasting of his prowess in a room full of invalids.

With the Baseball Fans

William Compton of Seymour writes: "Will you please give me the correct decision on the following play in our game yesterday. The managers of the teams had a squabble and it is up to me to make a decision.

"The score is 9 to 8, two out and none on. The batter hits to the shortstop who makes the throw to first on the first bounce. The batter throws his cap at the first baseman and the latter misses the throw. The runner scores the tying run and later wins the ball game. The game is protested and it is a pretty tough thing for me. What is the correct thing to do?

"We have a hot little league here in Baylor county and would like to enter your tournament. Westover is leading with all games won. I am sure we will play any team in the section a good game. Our league will be over the second week in August."

The rules state that if a base-runner interferes with the fielder taking the throw at first base, he, the base-runner, is out. If the offended team has protested the game, as you state, their protest should be upheld, and they should be awarded the game by the score of 9 to 0.

Boxing Bout in Vernon

Frank L. Pennington of Vernon is reviving interest in boxing in that city. He has a bunch of first raters lined up for a card at his arena, 1519 North Main street, Thursday night. Franchie Lefevre, 118-pounder, will meet Young Kid Kramer of El Paso in the main event. Kramer, of El Paso, weighs 121 pounds. They will go eight rounds.

Jack Kirkland, 145, of Fort Worth, will meet Spike Hutchins of Vernon, 142, in a special six-round bout. Jack Clark of Vernon, 140, and Ray Skipworth, 142, of Electra, will mix it for four rounds. In another four-round match, Jack Ryan, 142, of Wichita Falls, and Kenny Bowden, 145, of Vernon, will meet.

Ruth May Manage Red Sox

Universal Service, Mr. Hearst's enterprising news service, announces that Babe Ruth probably will manage the Boston Red Sox of the American league, beginning next season.

Abe Kemp, the news service's sports writer who turned in this story, said he had learned on "unimpeachable authority" that certain interests were thinking of buying the Boston American's franchise, and would go through with the deal if assured that Babe Ruth would become skipper of the club.

As this is written, no official confirmation of the deal has been made, but it would certainly not be a surprise to see the Babe catch on as manager. Even the most optimistic give the swatter only a couple of more seasons in the role of an active player. The Babe's great days are about over, despite his sensational start this season.

LOUIS NOWLIN SETS RECORD

His 69 Beats Moreland's 70 For Course Mark

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TEXARKANA, Ark., May 24.—A blond giant, 18-year-old Louis Nowlin of Woodrow Wilson High school at Dallas, shot six birdies, one eagle and seven pars here today to pace the first day qualifying field in the 26th annual Texas Golf association championship.

Meeting par stroke for stroke with a 36 on the front nine, Nowlin's 33 on the back nine was four under par. His phenomenal shooting today established a course record for the Texarkana Country club course, shattering the mark of 70 made by Gus Moreland of Dallas yesterday.

Conquers Hard Course

Nowlin played football with his high school team last season and injured a shoulder that hampered his golf but today the shoulder was feeling great and he celebrated by whipping par on a course ranked one of the most difficult in the state. Time after time he raced down long, curling putts. But most of all the youth had a stout heart to keep going after a bad six at the seventh and another six at the 16th. He concluded his round with a birdie three at the 17th and a birdie four at the 18th.

His card:

Par, out	453 443 544	36
Nowlin out	443 543 644	36
Par in	435 344 545	37
Nowlin in	523 334 634	33

Two strokes back of Nowlin was William Clark of Texarkana with a 36-35—71. Tommy B. Cochran, former state champion now living at Tyler, and Gus Moreland, defending champion from Dallas, were tied for third with 73 each.

Byron Nelson of Fort Worth, Gaston Peek of Houston and Reynolds Smith of Dallas, were tied for fourth with 74's.

22 Shoot in 70's

Twenty-two entries stayed in the 70's today. It was the consensus that a 36-hole card of 166 or 167 would make the championship flight.

After tomorrow's final 18-hole qualifying round, matches at the rate of two a day will be played until the final 36 holes Saturday.

Qualifying scores, first 18 holes, follow:

Louis Nowlin, Dallas	36-33—69
William Clark, Texarkana	36-35—71
Tommy B. Cochran, Tyler	35-38—73

Crowell Golfer Shoots Hole in One at Vernon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, May 24.—Dr. H. Schindler of Crowell joined the Hole-in-One club here Sunday when he hung up a dodo on the No. 9 hole of the Hill Crest Country club course here. He was playing with his brother, Dr. W. M. Schindler of Vernon, at the time.

No. 9 at Hill Crest, a par three hole, is about 130 yards long. Dr. Schindler's low drive over the lake hit the base of the green and the ball rolled into the cup.

Euller Hits Homer With Bases Full As Longview Defeats Tyler, 9 To 5

TYLER, Texas, May 24. (AP)—Longview combined five hits, one of which was a home run by Euller with the bases filled, nine walks and five errors to defeat Tyler, 9-5, here today. Pressnell went the route for the winners. George Washington, new Tyler outfielder, also hit for the circuit, the blow coming in the seventh with one on. Euller's homer in the fifth, gave Longview a 9-1 lead. Score:

Gomez Whiffs 13 In Brilliant Mound Performance To Turn Back A's, 3-1

NEW YORK, May 24. (AP)—Vernon Gomez, the slim Castilian who does some left-handed pitching for the Yankees, turned in his best job of the season today to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 1, for his third triumph over the 1931 American league champions and his seventh in eight starts.

Gomez allowed only three hits and one unearned run in a brilliant mound duel with Rube Walberg and struck out 13 rivals, one more than any other major league pitcher has whiffed in a single game this season. He granted only one walk. Score:

"Young man, you're Refreshingly Frank" . .

Last summer, O. D. Ellsworth, of Waukee, Iowa, drove with his family to Estes Park, Colorado. Whenever they stopped for the night, they faced questions that perplex most travelers: Which is the best hotel or cabin camp? Where is there a nice place to eat?

He wrote us: "The thing appreciated most was the frank manner in which your attendants made recommendations. It is hard to get reliable information from any one in a smaller town regarding these matters, people being reluctant to say that one place is better than another. Living in a small town myself, I appreciate their position. I found Conoco men's information correct in every case."

It is hard for a Conoco man to recommend one place above another, for they are all fellow townsmen and friends. But motorists traveling "the Conoco way" are the Conoco man's friends, too, and they come first.

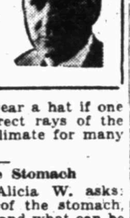

You'll like Conoco Travel Bureau service. Every Conoco station is a Bureau branch and every Conoco man your well-informed friend. If you are planning a trip, write the Conoco Travel Bureau, Denver, telling where and when you want to go. We'll send you a Conoco Passport, marked road maps and helpful information—free of charge and without obligation. Or, fill in one of our convenient applications for this travel service at any Conoco station—no delay.

Baking, Roasting, Broiling, Grilling and Braising

Baking is a process of cooking food in the dry heat of an oven. Great temperatures are in this way possible, but the interior of most foods will scarcely ever reach the boiling point. Baked foods are drier than boiled foods, and some dextrinization takes place in the exterior parts of all baked starchy foods. Baked foods are better than boiled foods because all of the juice and mineral contents can be retained.

In baking meat in the oven, have the temperature very hot and keep it hot for about 15 minutes. This will seal in the juices. Then reduce the heat and baste frequently to keep the meat moist and well-flavored. Baking seems to bring out some of the meat extractives more strongly than any other method. For baking beef or mutton, bake 20 minutes for each pound and allow 20 minutes extra. Pork or veal take 25 minutes for each pound, allowing 25 minutes over.

Baking is a wholesome method of preparing any food, even those which you might not ordinarily think of as being baked, such as carrots, beets, cauliflower, string beans, peaches and celery. The larger and more solid foods may simply be placed in the oven with a pan underneath to catch the drippings, but the small leafy vegetables should be placed in a baking pan with a cover on to maintain their moisture. Many different vegetables may be combined in this manner.

Roasting, Broiling and Grilling

Roasting, broiling and grilling are practically the same process and consist in cooking food by direct radiation in an unconfined atmosphere.

Roasting is similar to baking, except that it means cooking over hot coals or open fires. It is now often used to mean baking in the oven. The larger joints of beef and pork are referred to as roasts, even though they are really baked.

Broiling and grilling are terms applied to comparatively small pieces of meat. These three processes aim at quickly coagulating the surface of the meat so that the most of the juices are retained, and those which escape from the meat gravy used for basting or pouring over the roast to prevent drying, and to more uniformly distribute the heat. Because of the high temperature on the surface of the meat, a peculiar tasty substance is produced which gives the delightful flavor to the roast meat. Over-roasted meat gives a disagreeable flavor because of scorching. When grilling, the oats are cooked quickly and it is necessary to use more tender and expensive meats. Fish, small steaks, chops and bacon may be done in this way. The food is put under the hot flames or over the hot coals and seared on both sides. It is frequently turned to insure even cooking, and a chop may be cooked in nine minutes in this way, while a steak takes no more than 10 to 15 minutes. This process of broiling or grilling is used for meat which is cut flat and not too thick. Meat can be panbroiled in a skillet without using any fat, coagulating the meat quickly on both sides, and then turning the fire down.

Braising

Braising is a process of cooking resembling both broiling and baking. The meat is first browned by searing, similar to that of broiling, after which it is covered with a close-fitting lid to produce a moist steam. Braising is an economical and tasty method of cooking meat since all of the food value is retained by the covered process and the flavor is enhanced by the grilling. This process is of particular value in cooking tough meat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Should One Go Hatless

Question—Walter S. writes: "I recently read an article which condemned the almost universal habit some men have of not wearing hats. This article contended that the habit made these men susceptible to various illnesses, especially ear trouble, and that the practice was, as a whole, detrimental to health. I myself, have not worn a hat for over three years, and notice no ill effects. What is your opinion about this?"

Answer—It would not be necessary for a man to wear a hat except in bad weather, and there is no reason for using a hat in temperate climates except to conform to convention standards so as not to appear queer. It appears advisable, however, to wear a hat if one must be in the direct rays of the sun in a tropical climate for many hours at a time.

Ptosis of the Stomach

Question—Mrs. Alicia W. asks: "What is a ptosis of the stomach, what causes same, and what can be done for such a condition?"

Answer—Ptosis of the stomach simply means prolapsus of the stomach. This is caused through a weakening of the abdominal muscles and a stretching of the ligaments attached to the stomach. A cure can be achieved through strengthening the abdominal muscles and increasing the functional tone of all the abdominal organs.

East-West Air Line Cuts Time 15 Hours

ATLANTA, May 24. (AP)—Los Angeles and San Diego will be 12 hours nearer Atlanta June 15 under a new schedule of mail and passenger plane announced today by C. R. Smith, vice president of American Airways.

Passengers bound for the west coast have been forced to wait overnight in either Dallas or Fort Worth for the morning plane to California, losing 12 hours. Under the new schedule, planes from Atlanta will connect in Texas with night planes for the West.

The day schedule will be continued between Los Angeles and Dallas, but the night route will be divided at Phoenix, Ariz., passengers being dispatched from Phoenix to El Centro and San Diego on one plane to Los Angeles on another.

The new schedule gives the Southwest its first overnight transcontinental air mail and passenger service.

Electra News

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Chester Snow and daughters, Misses Ruth and Ruby Snow, visited relatives at Rush Springs, Okla., over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Glassman, H. H. Pearlman, and C. H. McGann, were Dallas visitors Tuesday.

Friends will be glad to learn that Mrs. Jodie McClinton is able to receive friends. Mrs. McClinton underwent an operation at the Parmley-Ogden hospital recently and she is reported to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Bates, Bob Bates, Misses Alma, Mary Jo and Claudia Mae Bates, visited relatives in Ryan, Okla., Sunday.

J. T. Peters who has been working in East Texas has returned to Electra to attend the graduating exercises as his daughter, Miss Josephine, is one of the graduates.

Mrs. Mason Harwell is reported to be greatly improved after being seriously ill at the family home on North Electra street.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Woodall and children will leave this week for New Mexico where they will spend the summer months.

Miss Blanche Butler of Tenana, formerly of Electra, is the guest of friends here.

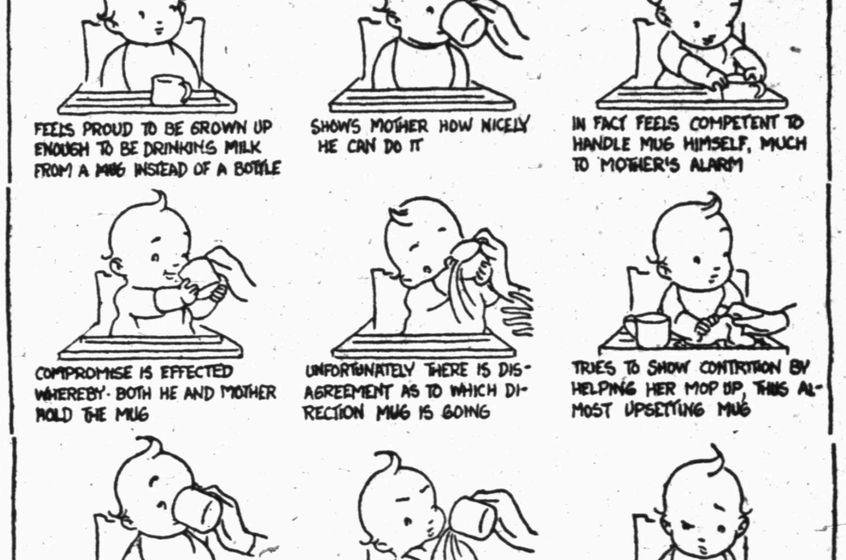

Night Police Chief Roy Hart was a business visitor in Wichita Falls Sunday.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

W. W.—Please supply me with some data on International Cement stock.

Answer—Earnings of International Cement corporation for 1931 equaled $2.37 a share [illegible], and 79 cents after deduction of foreign exchange losses, as compared with $7.19 and $6, respectively, in the previous year. Sales volume expanded slightly during 1931, but actual operating profits were adversely affected by the severe price war in the domestic cement industry, while a large foreign exchange loss was incurred through the company's operations in Uruguay and Argentina. Usual heavy depreciation write-offs were made, amounting to approximately $4.60 a share. Capital expenditures during 1931 totaled $2,137,023, a large portion of which was used toward construction of a million barrel plant near Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, scheduled to be completed late in 1932. As a result of steadily increased demand for Incor (a quick-hardening cement), five plants were equipped to handle production. Financial position remains strong, with cash almost double current liabilities. With building construction declining to new low levels for the depression, no earnings improvement is indicated for this year, and there is likelihood of a reduction from the present $2 dividend rate.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 24. (AP)—An irregular opening was followed by declines in cotton today under moderate selling which was evidently promoted by a more favorable view of the weather news and the easier ruling of the grain and stock markets.

July contracts closed at 5.66, the general market closing steady at net declines of 15 to 16 points.

Trade interests were buyers of both May and July, but the liquidation continued. The last sale of May, when trading in that month ended at midday, was at 5.71.

December sold off to 6.03 in the late trading with active months generally showing net losses of 16 to 17 points, and the close was within a point or two of the lowest.

Private reports were received here from the Southwest indicating a continued firm basis for spot cotton, but a continued quiet demand.

According to the New York cotton exchange service, the cotton mills of Europe are finding yarn and cloth business poor and mill activity is being maintained at the present rate largely on the basis of orders booked earlier in the year. Exports today 17,675 making 7,857,682 so far this season.

Futures closed steady, 15 to 16 points lower. Spot, quiet; middling, 5.75.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 24. (AP)—Cotton prices were depressed today under selling induced by prospects for favorable weather in the belt, and lower stocks and wheat. Trading was moderately active. At the lowest reached in late trading active positions showed declines of approximately $1 a bale. There was a minor rally at the end and the market closed steady at net declines of 14 to 15 points.

Prices reached new lows for the day in late trading under selling induced by prospects for better weather in the belt. July trading to 5.67 and October 5.85, or 19 to 20 points down from the early highs. Some of the loss was recovered towards the end on covering and July closed at 5.70 and October at 5.88, or 14 and 15 points, respectively, net down.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans 5 penny points down.

Heavy Wave Of Liquidation Forces Stocks And Bonds To New Depths

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 24. (US)—Heavier selling came into the security markets today, resulting in new lows in all sections of both stock and bond lists. There was no new explanation for the accelerated decline in quotations, merely a quite obvious impatience with the lack of constructive developments out of Washington, out of Europe, or out of general business itself.

In stocks particularly it seemed to be a case of holders, who had been clinging to their securities virtually by a finger-hold, finally being forced to let go. There was no suggestion of concentrated professional pressure, that is, short selling. In some stocks, however, it was rather plainly a reflection of sizable blocks of the particular issue or issues being unloaded.

A good deal more was heard of conferences both here and at Washington, but nothing came of these meetings, at least during the day. The public mind is very impatient and one day's delay in bringing genuinely cheerful news, even of contemplated action, has immediate effect on the markets. Then, too, the wheat list turned reactionary and dropped back a cent or so. This, however, might be considered quite natural in view of the sizable recent gain in this market.

Transactions in stocks rose to a million shares. Most of the activity was on the downside, indicating that even modest declines in prices were uncovering weakly-held stocks. In fact, some of the best informed observers are of the opinion that such selling is chiefly responsible for the present weakness.

It is quite apparent that internal condition of the respective companies in many instances has nothing whatever to do with the selling of their securities.

The holders have been trying to maintain their positions by increasing their margin, but the very passage of time without definite betterment in the price structure, necessitates additional margin.

With reserves squandered already in the vain attempt to maintain margins to date, and prices continuing to shrink, many holders are being steadily liquidated. In a great many issues, today, it is purely a market condition, rather than actual reflection of corporate condition.

Declines were so general today that it would be foolish to attempt to select any stocks as unduly depressed, but the market seemed most impressed by the weakness in National Dairy Products, Public Service of New Jersey, National Biscuit, and Consolidated Gas. Tobacco stocks were also lower, presumably in anticipation of a possible change in cigaret prices. It is well known, of course, that this supposedly depression-proof industry has suffered substantial decrease in sales and the additional rumors of a change in the price-structure has brought out considerable stock formerly classified as investment.

Regardless of the present rumors, however, it is a fact that the tobacco industry is far more able to resist depression than probably any other single industry. It is to be remembered that most of the big cigaret companies for years have been piling up enormous cash resources.

Public Utility shares were especially noticeable throughout the day as being subjected to a steady liquidation. The entire Electric Bond & Share group suffered declines to new lows, and their weakness affected the entire list.

Almost everybody in Wall street is either talking of or expecting formation of a "bond pool." It is difficult to interpret, therefore, the lack of interest in bonds. Perhaps most people prefer to await actual formation of a bond-supporting group and then bid in competition with such an organization.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, May 24. (AP)—Cotton goods demand continued light with a moderate amount of small orders coming forward on wash fabrics. Rayon yarn demand is light and curtailment is increasing. Little change was reported in silk markets. Several new lines of worsted dress fabrics are showing for fall. Burlaps were quiet.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 24. (AP)—Wheat and grain sorghums continued in good demand Tuesday on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Other commodities were slow.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads, freight paid, delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling, 61½@62½c; No. 1 hard, 13 per cent protein, 62@63c; 14 per cent, 64@65c; 15 per cent, 66@67c; 16 per cent, 68@69c.

Barley—No. 2 nominally, 36@38c.

Sorghums—No. 2 yellow milo or white kaffir, 73½@74½c.

Delivered Texas common points or group three:

Corn—No. 2 mixed, 41½@42c; No. 2 white, 42@42½c; No. 2 yellow, 40@40½c.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats—No. 3 red, 24½@25½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 24. (AP)—Rains southwest and west tumbled wheat down 2 cents a bushel today, despite assertions the moisture came too late to be of material benefit.

Selling pressure on wheat was augmented by the fact that the market appeared to be at least temporarily in an overbought condition after more than 6 cents advance from last week's low. Numerous eleventh-hour bulls let go of their holdings, and not a few stop loss selling orders were forced into execution by the downward swing of the market.

Wheat closed unstable at only a fractional recovery from the day's bottom figures, 1¼@1⅝c under yesterday's finish, corn ¼@1⅛c down, oats ⅝@¾c off, and provisions unchanged to 17c lower.

Adding to handicaps of wheat bulls were forecasts of unsettled weather tonight promising more moisture tonight over Kansas and Nebraska as well as east into Indiana. Signs pointed also to cooler temperatures ahead, another condition favorable to crop welfare. Furthermore, disappointment was apparent that new export business in North America lacked volume, the total being estimated at only about 300,000 bushels, most of it Canadian.

A general disposition was manifested to await developments following the fresh rainfalls, as the severity of crop damage would be thus given a new test to indicate whether or not plant injury had been irreparable. Meanwhile, houses with connections southwest were conspicuous sellers, and little heed was taken of 6,236,000 bushels for the week in world's available supplies, reducing the total stock to 403,994,000 bushels, against 417,069,000 a year ago. Foreign reports indicated better prospects for the wheat crop of western Europe, but Rumanian, Hungarian and Polish prospects were described as poor.

Likelihood of an after-planting movement of corn left that grain without much support in the absence of wheat strength. Planting operations have been completed in most part of the corn belt. Oats sold off with other grains.

Provisions sympathized with the weakness of cereals, and were unresponsive to an upturn in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 59½c; offers; July 58⅝@59c, 60⅝@60⅞c; Sept. 60⅝@60⅞c, 62⅝@62¾c; Dec. 63⅛@63¼c, 65⅛c. Corn—July 32½c, 33c; Sept. 34⅝c, 35¼c; Dec. 34⅞c, 35⅝c.

STUDENTS TO PRESENT PLAY

Seniors to Appear Tonight In Musical Comedy

"In Hot Tamale Land," a musical comedy with a comic opera theme will be the vehicle for final amateur stage production of Wichita Falls High school seniors Wednesday night at the college auditorium. A cast of 60 students will appear in the production under the direction of Miss Juanita Kinsey.

The story hinges on a trip to a comic opera nation in the tropic zone by an American business man to secure a shipload of pickles. The business man, Ezra McWhackle, is accompanied by his daughter and her sweetheart is a stowaway on the ship. The father forbids their marriage until Bobby Hunter, the sweetheart, secures $10,000. He sets about acquiring the cash in a bull fight and goes through several tangles with native men.

The comedy action is carried along by antics of senoritas, toreadors, American girls and boys, and bluejackets of a U. S. ship. The entire production is set to music and a major portion of the cast will appear in the choruses.

W. A. Bachman has the role of Ezra, with Nell Ruth Smith as the daughter, Eleanor, and Joe Witherspoon Jr., as Bobby Hunter. Other members of the cast are Paul Barnett as Ned Barlow; Nathan Chenault, Tom Harris; Marvin Pierce, Dick Baxter; Herndon Chism, Don Soda di Popo; Bill Huff, Punko Doro; Nann Campbell, Agatha Fidget; Jean Hunter, Dolores; Grace Warman, Juanita; and Annabell Farley, Carmela.

ATTENDS MASONIC MEET

Shrine Recorder Al Ellis returned Monday night from Dallas where he attended the spring meeting of Scottish Rite Masons at the Scottish Rite cathedral. The meeting was held under direction of Sam P. Cochran, sovereign grand inspector general of Texas. Mr. Ellis is master of the 16th degree with the title of prince of Jerusalem.

COTTON CLOTHING
Complete Man's Outfit, Made in Texas, Costs Only $11.85

A complete business suit of clothing and accessories made from Texas-grown cotton at Texas mills may be purchased at an average cost of $11.85, according to a survey completed by the Sherman Chamber of Commerce, copies of which were forwarded to the local chamber Tuesday.

The largest item in the list of clothing is the suit at $8.50, with shirt, tie, sox and underwear running the total to $11.85. The survey was made in connection with recent national cotton week program when service club members purchased similar outfits.

DAIRYMEN TO MEET FRIDAY

Oklahoma Expert to Talk On Marketing

"Problems of Marketing Milk and Dairy Products" will be the subject for an address by A. A. McPheeters of Oklahoma City before dairymen of Wichita and adjoining counties at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the precinct No. 1 courtroom in the courthouse basement here.

Mr. McPheeters, who is manager of the Oklahoma Cooperative Milk association of Oklahoma City, was invited to speak here by the Wichita Valley Development association. Notice of his acceptance was given Tuesday afternoon at the regular association board meeting at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce offices in the Hamilton building.

Dairymen of the Wichita Falls area and others interested in the dairy industry are invited and urged to attend the meeting Friday. Mr. McPheeters is recognized as a leader in the Oklahoma dairy industry and is a capable speaker on the subject assigned to him here, board members said.

C-C Files Protest On New Grain Rates

Traffic departments of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and Wichita Falls Mill and Elevator company have filed a suspension request with the Interstate Commerce commission, asking suspension of traffic schedules published by the Frisco railroad, carrying increased rates on wheat, corn and flour. The increase is effective from points in Southwestern Oklahoma to New Orleans for export.

The proposed increased rate, if allowed to stand, would prohibit Wichita Falls grain interests having access to grain originating in Southwestern Oklahoma in territory served by the Frisco lines. The proposed rate increase amounts to from seven to 10 cents per 100 pounds over the present rates.

44 Boys Sign for Annual Scout Tour

Forty-four boys, including one from Childress, had signed up Tuesday afternoon for the annual educational tour of Boy Scouts of the Wichita Falls area which is to start next Wednesday morning, June 2, from the Memorial auditorium, according to Executive Frank B. Creighton.

Spending 11 days on a tour of South and East Texas, the traveling scouts will visit many points of historic interest, and will spend almost three days on the waterfront at Galveston. The entire trip entails a charge of $12.50 for each boy. Four additional reservations were still available Tuesday evening, Mr. Creighton said, to fill the accommodations of two buses chartered for the trip.
