Balm Suit For Million Stirs Waco

Merchant Sues Rich Italian Broker for Affections

WACO, Texas, Nov. 14. (AP)—A crowded courtroom today heard Mrs. James H. Riley of Waco, friend of all principals, testify in the suit of Willard Wigley versus Pio Crespi, for $1,000,000 for alleged alienation of affections.

It was a wordy exchange at times between Mrs. Riley and defense counsel.

"I love Pio and Pio loves me," was the alleged statement of Mrs. Florence Wigley to Mrs. Riley on Saturday, June 18, 1927, the day before the former's permanent separation from her husband, after which she left for an European cruise, as brought out by Clay McClellan, chief counsel for the plaintiff.

Many Objections

Speaking above almost constant objections of defense counsel Mrs. Riley told how devotedly Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wigley had appeared to each other in the early years of their marriage. She had never heard them quarrel or speak impatiently to each other, but had frequently heard Mrs. Florence Wigley mention their "absolutely trusting each other," she testified.

On Sunday, June 19, 1927, after Mrs. Florence Wigley had departed by train, Wigley talked to Mrs. Riley regarding her leaving, the ness testified. She said he appeared unhappy and "very much upset." Later, he asked her to write Mrs. Wigley a letter imploring her to return to Waco and to him, which Mrs. Riley did, she said.

On cross-examination conducted by Alva Bryan, defense counsel, sought to prove that after the Wigley divorce was granted, the plaintiff participated in social functions as indicative of his desire for a divorce.

Mrs. J. L. Staton of Waco, who made the same Mediterranean cruise as did Mrs. Wigley, put on the stand, her testimony brought out little except a reference to a birthday party alleged to have been given at Naples by Crespi, honoring the birthday of Mrs. Wigley.

The defendant is Pio Crespi, multimillionaire cotton broker of Dallas and New York, descendant of a noble Italian family and holder of a distinction awarded by King Victor Emanuel of Italy for meritorious service performed during the world war.

The plaintiff is William Wigley, Waco merchant, who is asking $1,000,000 from Crespi for alleged

Germans Drinking More Beer and Less Wine

BERLIN, Nov. 14. (US)—Germany, flooded with beer, has gone back to its pre-war Brauhaus days, and the consumption of wine has fallen off 20 per cent in the last year.

Although Germany prides itself on possessing some of the choicest white wines on the continent, wholesalers believe that increased tax on alcoholic beverages has been the cause of the decline in wine-bibbing.

The hosts of the Coyote Pack of Wichita Falls are drawn up in the home city of the Lubbock Westerners this morning, waiting for the zero hour that will send them onto the gridiron and into combat with the terrible Westerners.

The Coyotes with their mentor, Barry Holton, arrived in Lubbock with their bristles up early Thursday morning. Both teams will rest Friday morning, waiting for 3 o'clock when the fireworks are scheduled to start. The game will be played on Tech field.

Wichitans on Hand

A special train, the "Lubbock Special," is scheduled to arrive in Lubbock from Wichita Falls at noon Friday bringing some 300 Coyote partisans and fans and members of the pep squad to see the game and to cheer on their favorites to victory.

Upon the issue of this contest hangs the runner-up position to the Amarillo Sandstorm. Both teams are trained to the minute and are equally determined to put up great fight for the coveted distinction. Several thousands are expected to witness a thrilling spectacle of the gridiron.

Final Workouts

Both elevens went through a light workout Thursday afternoon and completed the final polishing off process for the contest. The Coyotes arrived in Lubbock Thursday about 7 o'clock and after a lengthy rest took to the practice field for light exercises.

The Westerners have put in two weeks of strenuous training in anticipation for one of their hardest struggles of the year and announce themselves as being "prime to the muzzle" for the Wichitans. Two weeks ago the Westerners met the powerful and vaunted Sandstorm and battled to that team on even terms for three quarters only to

COTTON PROBE OPENS TODAY

Futures Speculation to Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Investigation of speculative activities of the New York, Chicago and New Orleans cotton exchanges will be commenced Friday by a senate committee, as ordered by the senate today through adoption of a resolution sponsored by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama.

The action was taken without a record vote soon after it was recommended by the audit committee. Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee appointed committee members to make the inquiry: Townsend, Delaware; Walcott, Connecticut; Hatfield, West Virginia; and Thomas, Idaho, Republicans; Smith, South Carolina, Ransdell, Louisiana and Heflin, Alabama, Democrats. Townsend probably will be chairman.

All of the Republican members are serving their first terms in the senate. Townsend said the committee would make as thorough an investigation as it could between now and Dec. 20, when a report with "helpful" recommendations must be made to the senate.

Heflin originally proposed an investigation into the effect on cotton prices of fluctuations on the New York stock exchange, but the audit committee amended the resolution to confine the inquiry to the cotton markets. The Alabaman said he would suggest that the presidents of the three exchanges be asked to appear as well as other persons who could tell about "manipulations" of prices on the markets.

FIRST SNOW OF SEASON MELTS AS IT DESCENDS

Heavy Fall at Northern Points Fails to Last to Cover Ground

FREEZES REPORTED

Temperature Rises After Dropping Below 32 In Some Towns

Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma saw the first snowflakes of the season Thursday.

It was not enough to blanket the ground with a spotless covering, but the tenacity of the cold wave Thursday night promised a real lasting snow to the more northerly points.

Snow fell in light flurries Thursday afternoon at Sayre and Altus, in Oklahoma, while great thick flakes fell at Wellington. Shamrock, far in the Panhandle, also received its share. At Childress the flakes melted as they fell.

Temperature Rises

Contrary to expectations, the temperature in Wichita Falls Thursday rose, the mercury at 5 p. m. showing a temperature of 41 degrees. Early in the morning the temperature had fallen to 33 degrees, according to the Texas Electric Service company weather bureau.

Weather reports from correspondents of The Record News in this region follow:

SEYMOUR—Real winter was here today, following a drop in temperature Tuesday night to 28 degrees, the lowest of the season.

WELLINGTON—A thick snow began falling here at 2 p. m. Thursday.

SAYRE, OKLA.—Snow began falling here at 1 p. m. Thursday. Cloudy skies tonight indicate the fall will continue.

ALTUS, OKLA.—As the weather continued to take an even stronger appearance of winter today the first snow of the season was seen here. More was expected to fall tonight.

Wheeler County Chilled

SHAMROCK—Ushering winter in with a whirl, freezing weather and flurries of snow kept Wheeler county hugged close to the fire Wednesday and Thursday. The temperature hovered around the freezing point Thursday. Livestock is in good condition and the cotton has not been damaged greatly.

CHILDRESS—The first snow of the season began falling here late Thursday afternoon. The flakes were large, but a rise in temperature to above the 40-degree mark caused them to melt as they hit the ground. The mercury was gradually dropping again tonight, and more snow or rain was expected during the night. The temperature is 30 degrees.

CLARENDON—A heavy snow began falling here about 5 p. m. today and tonight it was still coming down at a rapid gait.

PADUCAH—Snow fell in large flakes here this afternoon, and continued tonight, promising to cover the ground.

Tunney Attorneys End Depositions

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—The defense in the Fogarty-Tunney deposition hearing closed its testimony this afternoon with the exception of one witness.

Depositions are being taken for the suit brought against Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, by John S. Fogarty, Fort Worth plumber, alleging alienation of his wife's affections. The former Mrs. Fogarty, who underwent a minor operation yesterday, is suing Tunney for $500,000 heart balm damages.

The deposition of Miss Beulah Rucker, milliner, first Fogarty witness, was taken at Miss Rucker's home today. The witness was confined to her home by illness. Other Fogarty witnesses will be heard Friday. Both sides will finish taking depositions this week.

Elite Party Gems Taken By Brigands

$400,000 Jewels Lost by Guests When 'Stripped'

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 14. (AP)—Eighteen socially prominent men and women were held up and robbed by seven armed bandits at the home of John L. Carson Jr., in Snyder, a fashionable suburb tonight. They were stripped of their jewelry, estimated worth $400,000.

The victims of the robbery are Mr. and Mrs. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Alan Van Clief, Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Metz, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Keating, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Williams, Miss Eleanor Cameron, Courtland Van Cliff, Mrs. Pauline Breustedt and Clarence Siway Jr.

The heaviest loss was suffered by Mrs. Ray Van Clief from whose neck one of the bandits tore a triple string of matched pearls worth, its owner said, between $250,000 and $300,000.

Not only did the bandits, all of whom were masked, unceremoniously strip jewelry from the guests at the party, but they stole from an upper room the evening cloaks and fur coats owned by the women guests.

ROAD BANDITS ROB WICHITAN

T. W. Martin Hijacked for Second Time Recently

For the second time within two months T. W. Martin, 2707 Ninth street, was held up and robbed by bandits on the Burkburnett highway Thursday night. On each occasion the hijackers took small amounts but failed to discover large sums of money which Martin had with him at the time.

As Martin was driving on the highway about three miles out of the city Thursday night, a man stepped out of the shadows of a closed filling station and waved at him. When Martin made no sign of stopping, the man fired his gun at the car, the bullet striking in the center of the door opposite the driver and penetrating the metal. Martin brought his car to a quick stop and three men walked up.

The men forced him to get out and then rifled his pockets of $67 in cash, failing, however, to discover a pack of bills amounting to about $102 which he had concealed elsewhere on his person. The men left him in the car and went away. Martin told police he did not see an automobile.

Last September Martin picked up two youths a short distance out of Burkburnett and brought them almost to the city limits here when they ordered him to stop. They also forced him out of the car, made him stand in a ditch and rifled his pockets of 85 cents, all he had on his person. They failed to notice a folder which he had carried on his lap during the drive and which contained $180 in cash.

Martin is an employe of the Maytag company here and makes frequent trips to Burkburnett at night. He seldom fails to pick up someone walking along the road, he said, when they ask him for a ride.

JAMES M. GOOD LAPSES INTO SEMI-COMA

Secretary of War Takes Turn for Worse as Pulse Weakens

CONSULTATION HELD

Physicians Attending Cabinet Member Called in Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (UP)—Secretary of War James M. Good, lapsed into a state of semi-consciousness about 9 o'clock tonight and great anxiety was felt by attending physicians over his condition.

A consultation of physicians was called at about 8:30 o'clock when it was discovered the patient's pulse was lagging slightly. Although there was no indication that artificial restoratives had been administered, the consultation suggested that emergency measures were under consideration.

Fights Bravely

His temperature increased slightly this morning, and persisted tonight. Attending physicians did not regard this as surprising or particularly serious, considering it a normal reaction in a patient suffering from peritonitis.

The secretary was fighting bravely, and was mentally alert and in good spirits while awake during the day. He revealed his plucky spirit by sending a message through his wife, who has been constantly at his bedside at Walter Reed hospital, to his secretary at the war department this morning regarding office detail. He dozed almost constantly during the morning. He had only a fair night last night, his rest being broken frequently.

Heart Action Good

The critical period will not be passed until noon Saturday, physicians said. The secretary's heart action and pulse continued to be well sustained, reflecting an unusual reserve of energy and vitality.

Physicians said no final prognosis can be made until it is determined whether the infection caused by the perforated appendix has been checked.

Swains Fight For Fair Ambrosia But Later Desert Her

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Romantic and 18, Ambrosia Brown curled her lip scornfully last night when two suitors, meeting on her doorstep, agreed to flip a coin for her company.

"Fight it out like men" she taunted. "My hand to the winner."

So Albert Hanson and Tallmat Tietze fought — until Sergeant James Kearney happened by with his squad. Today they glared at each other from before the bench of Judge Herbert C. Immenhausen. Ambrosia, blushing appropriately, stood near.

"Which one do you love?" the court inquired.

"Both," was the perturbing reply.

"Well, the three of you go in my chambers and settle it."

A few moments later, the two men, arms about each other's shoulders, stood again before the judge. Ambrosia was missing.

"You are friends again?"

Together: "We are."

"Do you still love Ambrosia?"

In unison: "Never heard of her."

SHERMAN WINS NEW COLLEGE

Merged Presbyterian School To North Texas City

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Sherman late today was selected as the site for the Consolidated Presbyterian college to replace Austin college of Sherman, Daniel Baker of Brownwood, and Texas Presbyterian college of Milford.

Sherman was chosen on the first ballot by the commission appointed nearly a year ago by the Texas synod of the Presbyterian church to recommend a location for the proposed consolidated institution.

Other cities which asked for the school were Brownwood, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth and Houston.

Members of the commission said that committees would be appointed to supervise the sale of properties at Brownwood and Milford and then move to Sherman. The college at Milford is now inoperative but the other institutions will continue to function as usual during this school year.

The name of the new institution has not yet been decided, members of the commission said. The consolidation movement was begun about two and one-half years ago. The three schools which will be merged with the present Austin college as a nucleus, last year had an enrollment of approximately 750.

SURVEY FINDS BUSINESS MEN IN HAPPY MOOD

Leaders in Many Commercial Enterprises Are Questioned

EAST MORE GLOOMY

Western Financial Heads Display More Cheer, Report Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—General optimism as to the future volume and profitableness of American commerce, characterizes a summary of views of 600 representative business men throughout the country, as shown in their responses to queries circulated in the last week by W. M. Kiplinger, conductor of a business information service here.

More than ordinary official attention has been given the consensus elicited by the survey, the frank but confidential opinions having been scanned by cabinet members closely in touch with the commercial world. Practically all of those questioned are leaders in business and financial enterprises of consequence.

West More Optimistic

Taking all the replies, it was noticeable the middle western writers expressed much more cheer than the average eastern writers. Scores of the letters insisted that the fundamental soundness of American business could be gauged by the lack of stocks on hand in any lines of importance and by the lowness of general commodity prices.

Actual earnings of business enterprise, it was concluded by the majority, during the fourth quarter of this year would be fair for small as well as large enterprises, through it was also expected by many that the first quarter of 1930 would not show as large returns for corporations generally as the first quarter of the present year.

Farmers "Safe"

"No business panic ever happened when corporations had ample cash," one writer said in pointing to the business position of several organizations of his acquaintance.

"Farmers have not been speculating, and Christmas trade with them will be good," another westerner observed.

From Pennsylvania, a man in the industry remarked that "anthracite coal demand is improving," while still another mercantile specialist advanced the view that "chain store business always improves with any declines in purchasing power."

Three Views

Three characteristic general views were incorporated in statements that "basic industries are in good position;" that "slack is seasonal after nine months of record output," and "that railroad buying now in progress may offset declines in other lines."

Other general views were that "purchasing power will be curtailed progressively for the next six months," while it was noted that "insurance companies have been lending heavily on policies."

A plentiful supply of business credit in all quarters of the country was also indicated, and comparatively few of the writers went into discussion of government or federal reserve policies as having been responsible for security price subsidence.

State Witness Sues Pantages for $500,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14. (US)—Charging that he had been slandered, Nicholas A. Dunaev, Russian playwright and state witness in Alexander Pantages trial, today filed a $500,000 suit against the millionaire showman.

The complaint asserts that on the day he was arrested for attacking 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, Pantages publicly charged Dunaev, the girl and others with conspiring to "frame" him and to "get him." During the trial, the vaudeville magnate's attorneys often insinuated there was such a conspiracy.

Moody Asks Farm Board to Lend To Individual Cotton Producers

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody tonight petitioned the federal farm board to authorize responsible Texas banks and local cooperative units to advance cotton loans to farmers.

The governor said he thought the loan to the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association would help tremendously, but that a loan through a central bureau would not reach the largest possible number of farmers.

"The number of people engaged in the production of cotton in Texas and the relatively small percentage of that group which is affiliated with the farm bureau leads me to believe that the farm board will experience to a large degree the same difficulties in attempting to extend aid through the farm bureau that it would if it undertook to deal directly with the producers," the governor wired.

"If the farm board regards it as practical and legal it seems to me that more of the cotton farmers could be reached if the board, in addition to what it has done, would authorize responsible banks as representatives of the farm board to extend loans to a fixed amount upon specified grades of cotton.

"It also seems that more people could be benefited if the agency through which you are now functioning in Texas could be authorized to make loans to the existing local cooperative units in various communities in Texas and provisional units which can be organized.

"The action taken by the board in extending loans to the producers has undoubtedly served to check the falling prices of cotton and I believe that these additional steps will further benefit our farmers."

Winter—
Five Hours Away—

Snooty City—

(Editor's Note—Last summer The Record News sent Marjorie Mathis, reporter, up through the Middle West on a week's "air vacation." Miss Mathis was so pleased with her experiences that when her regular vacation time came around in November, she decided to have a month through the North and East on a combination air-rail tour. Her reports of her travels, written from impressions that might be typical of any Wichitan, will appear in this newspaper from time to time.)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14.—The triangle of wild geese that honked derisively at us as they headed enthusiastically for the south out of St. Louis were certainly flying on sound metereological information. Winter is only five hours flying time from Wichita Falls and may have already made the hop. Perhaps the natives here don't call it winter, but the autumnal shivering is just as authentic.

◇ ◇ ◇

I am preferring to think that the geese didn't mean anything personal in their unflattering remarks to the Safeway Tia Goose as they sailed past beneath it. It is probable they haven't heard yet that the big tri-motored ships which are invading their own special field have been informally christened with the family name. The Southwest Air Fast Express literature still speaks of the standard equipment as Ford all-metal ships, powered with three Wasp motors, but the boys who take a ship up and set it down again speak of the "goose" and listen for the "bugs." But maybe that's telling.

◇ ◇ ◇

One can literally watch the seasons merge in a November flight northward from Texas. The golden browns and reds were still lost in green in Texas; they proclaimed themselves more insistently as we left Oklahoma City, until, over the Ozarks, they made the hills their own. The ancient cabins of the hill people blend gently into their colors, and the rolling country, softened by a light haze and made austere by the somber winter clouds above is like an old, time-mellowed painting.

◇ ◇ ◇

We were on the ground only one minute in four hours. But that minute was at the Springfield airport and the landing brought us close above the flaming red maples that glorify Springfield's old cemetery and make the sleepy little city one of the most beautiful in all the South when the fall has heightened its colors.

◇ ◇ ◇

But inside the ship there is no sign of colder weather. Heaters from the motors are turned on and presently overcoats are pushed aside. For that matter, the changing winds that brought snow to us over Texas kept the higher altitudes 10 degrees warmer further north. Believe it or not, the mate had the figures to show that at 6,000 feet a wind from the southwest was pushing us along while on the ground the northwest breezes were sending the thermometer down.

◇ ◇ ◇

Then, there are indoor sports, good the year round, especially provided. Studies in map reading and little problems in navigation to quicken your vision and give you an interesting dizziness. Safeway towns and rivers, railways and oil derricks, that lie reasonably within the line or vision from an average altitude. Try and pick out the distant lead and zink mines near the Oklahoma-Missouri border in time to catch the next railroad intersection, or before you've passed that little town in the river that means so much to your pilot. While he's holding his course mid-way between a tiny break you hadn't noticed on the left and a state institution on the right, his activities are becoming a little less miraculous and decidedly more to be respected. It's real sport to spot the intersecting railroad lines that mark Claremore, the home of Will Rogers, just in time to sight Chelsea some 20 miles to the left.

◇ ◇ ◇

The sport developed at once into a heated competition between myself and the enthusiastic fellow traveller and novice who was flying home from Dallas—so heated that we had to call over the mate as referee to say that both of us were wrong and all our landmarks long since left behind. My rival in navigation problems had just enough time in Tulsa before the roar of the motors mercifully drowned his voice to admit that he felt guilty about the trip because his wife and three daughters wanted to fly, and he had copped off the journey for himself. But I was unable to observe that the pangs of conscience seriously impaired the appetite with which he attacked the contents of his box lunch, rashly devoured to the last crumb.

◇ ◇ ◇

This business of occupying a world that contains a wife, three well-grown daughters and no son leaves its mark upon the most stalwart male. The map reader became increasingly conscious of his lady and the trio of damsels when he landed 10 minutes ahead of time at Lambert field. For the slighted four had signified their sense of injustice by failing to meet him at the field until he was already aboard the luxurious aero-car for passengers and had started into town. He had to flag them down on the road in, and run, hat in hand, to hear the quartet of outraged ladies. I hope he enjoyed the trip.

◇ ◇

Maybe you already know it, and again, maybe it isn't true, but I have it on the authority of the bus driver that St. Louis is the only city in the United States that isn't a part of a county. He says that once upon a time the city got snooty and withdrew from the county, only later to covet the added population and taxes, extend repeated invitations, and itself be repulsed. Maybe that's statistics and maybe that's slander, but it's what the bus driver confided and I had not time to get a statement from the chamber of commerce.

◇ ◇ ◇

It was that same driver who showed us Laurel Hill cemetery where the concrete grandstand that used to seat the crowd at the races still stands beside the mausoleums, a monument itself, perhaps, to a dead gayety. He explained, too, how many men sought to be grave diggers when they moved the downtown cemeteries because of the rich jewels to be found among the dead. A bus driver after Shakespeare's own heart.

M. E. DELEGATES ARE ELECTED

McMurry College Heads Chosen at Pampa

By HAMILTON WRIGHT
Special Correspondent

PAMPA, Texas, Nov. 14.—The Northwest Texas Methodist conference in session here today elected Boyd McKeown, dean of McMurry college, and Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of the same institution, as lay and clerical delegates to the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, which will be held in Dallas in April next year. McKeown led in the race among six candidates elected, with 45 votes out of 56 cast. Mrs. Nat O. Rollins of Abilene was also elected with 35 out of 56 votes. Other lay delegates are D. T. Yoder, Snyder, H. S. Black, Judge J. R. Porter and Dr. P. W. Horn, president of Texas Tech college. Alternates elected are J. E. Swepton, O. H. Cline and C. B. Breedlove, the latter of Haskell.

Clerical Delegates

Hunt was second in the running in the clerical race. William Pearce of Amarillo being first. Other clerical delegates elected are D. B. Doak, Lubbock; E. E. White, Abilene; C. A. Bickley, Vernon, and J. O. Haymes, Vernon. Clerical alternates elected are W. M. Murrell, Clarendon; Mark Beavers, Plainview, and J. H. Hamblen, Stamford.

These laymen and clergymen with those from the other 40 odd conferences in Southern Methodism make the laws of the church for the next four years. An afternoon session was necessary to secure the completion of the balloting.

Elders and deacons were ordained during the forenoon by Bishop Moore and his assistants. Elders ordained were O. B. Herring, Orville Terrell, J. D. Jenkins, J. W. Price, O. V. Alo, J. B. Thompson, C. R. Hooten, Sam A. Thomas, M. G. Brotherton, J. H. Sharp, R. C. Cline, Cecil Fox, Weinert, F. R. Pickens, and Uel D. Crosby, the latter a local elder. Deacons ordained were J. S. Strother, Dewitt van Pelt, H. D. Moore, S. H. Hamilton, J. D. Farmer. Bishop Moore addressed the deacons who were taken into full connection with the conference. He importuned them to be diligent, use good language in the pulpit, to be good mixers, to study, pray and meditate.

Bishop Sam Hay of the Pacific coast and Texas conference, was introduced to the conference which stood and applauded. J. W. Mills, presiding elder of the Beaumont district, addressed the body on the superannuate endowment fund. D. H. Hotchkiss, superintendent of the Methodist hospital, at Houston, spoke on the church's hospitals and the golden cross.

J. Edmund Kirby, Abilene district, J. E. Peters of the Lubbock district, Otis F. Mason of the Plainview district and Earl M. Nowlin of the Stamford district were admitted on trial into the travelling ministry. A slight tilt resulted when the case of Peters came up. He had not reached the educational requirements of the church of two years in a university. When the vote came he was taken in by a large majority.

E. L. Hill, Dumas, 33 years in the ministry, brought tears to the eyes of the audience when he stated he must retire because of ill health. During that career he has never gone to conference without reporting all his finances in full. The secret he vouchsafed to the young preachers when he said, "I just love my people into it." He will be superannuated.

L. H. Jones, C. W. Perminter, O. C. Stapleton, I. H. Biggs and Uel Crosby were advanced to the class of the second year. U. S. Bird and Sam Hilburn remain in the first-year class.

Dr. H. E. Stout, president of Texas Women's college, spoke during the afternoon. J. S. Huckaby and R. R. Gilbreath, Stamford, on the supernumerary staff for the last year, were put on the effective list.

G. C. Williamson, J. B. Baker, R. O. Browder, G. C. McCullom, E. B. Thompson, Reginald Hardy, Ray Lee, F. O. Garner, H. L. Thurston and Hamilton Wright were advanced to the class of the fourth year upon completing their examinations.

Reports on superannuates were heard during the afternoon. J. R. Porter was elected a member of the board of education. A collection was taken for Rev. M. H. Hudson, Hermleigh, sick. Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist university, spoke tonigh'

HIGHWAY MEN HOLD ELECTION

Association of Officials Names Officers

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 14. (UP)—Samuel Echkels, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania state highway department, today unanimously was elected president of the American Association of State Highway officials in the closing meeting of the annual convention. W. W. Mack, chief engineer of the Delaware state highway department, was elected treasurer.

Other officers elected included: District No. 1, L. D. Barrows, chief engineer of the Maine highway department; No. 2, Robert N. Baker, commissioner of Tennessee highways; No. 3, T. H. Cutler, chief engineer of the Missouri state highway department; No. 4, J. D. Wood, commissioner of public works, Boise, Idaho.

Elections to the executive committee included Lew Wentz, chairman of the Oklahoma highway commission.

Federal aid increase to $125,000,000 was asked for the fiscal years 1932 and 1933, while it was requested that the present appropriation for the fiscal year 1931 be raised from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The resolution declared that during the past year less than 10 per cent of the funds used in construction of state trunk line highways was contributed by the federal government and that several states in answer to public demands had built more miles of the federal aid highway system without federal aid than with it.

Toll Bridge Policy

Congress was asked to refrain from issuing any further permits for the construction of toll bridges by private parties across the Rio Grande between the United States and Mexico. It was suggested that a law be enacted permitting the construction of such bridges by the governments with a provision that tolls may be charged for their use until they are paid for after which they would become free bridges.

The federal government was called on to leave the regulation of motor buses and trucks for commercial purposes in interstate traffic "entirely in the hands of the various states," intervening only "in case the states concerned are unable to reach some satisfactory agreement as to the regulation of this traffic."

The convention went on record as being "unalterably opposed to privately owned and controlled toll bridges upon state and federal aid systems of highways." It expressed itself not opposed to "publicly constructed, owned and operated toll bridges where adequate traffic funds are not available for immediate construction of free bridges needed to complete interstate and intrastate highway systems as planned."

It was suggested that the general bridge law be changed so that all franchises should be effective only on state approval as to location, design, plans and specifications and state supervision of construction and maintenance.

Forest Highways

The association endorsed increasing authorization for forest highways for 1931 to $10,000,000, also proposed legislation increasing the 1932 and 1933 allotments to $12,500,000 per year.

The executive committee was authorized to appoint a committee on roadside beautification to deal with problems and studies relating to roadside parks, strips of natural timber screen, roadside advertising and beautification. Roadside advertising signs were condemned as distracting.

The association recommended to states issuing automobile licenses that the applicant for a license be compelled to submit a receipt showing that all additional taxes contemplated by the laws of the states have been paid before the automobile license is issued.

It was proposed that all of the states should enact statutes requiring the railroads to participate in the cost of grade separation structures, the railroad companies to pay 30 per cent of the total cost incident thereto, including necessary approaches and drainage structures.

The association voted to recommend to congress that the limitation of $15,000 per mile placed on federal aid participation in all cases with the sole limitation that federal aid should not exceed 50 per cent of the cost.

Bills Endorsed

United States senate bill 121 by Senator Oddie and the companion house measure by Representative Colton directing the construction of roads across the public domain were endorsed. Unless the federal government provides a large increase of funds for this purpose it will be impossible for many years to complete transcontinental highway systems, it was declared. It declared that there is urgent demand for construction of important connecting links on interstate highways across the forest reservations, unreserved public lands, non-taxable Indian lands and other federal reservations.

'DROWNED' BOY HELD FOR DAD

Mississippi Authorities Detain Youth

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 14. (AP)—An auburn-haired youth reluctantly admitted to police here tonight that he was Donald Wood Cutting, of Kansas City, Mo., son of F. L. Cutting, who had been given up several months ago as drowned.

Cutting said he did not want his parent sto know that he was alive since he faked the drowning near Hollister, Mo., where he attended school.

"My parents have done enough for me," he told police in pleading that they not be informed.

Sheriff Tom Moore of Hinds county immediately wired Cutting informing him that his son was being held here.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug store. Renfro Drug Co—Adv.

Maniscallo, by herculean effort, succeeded in wrenching himself free after his clothing had been nearly burned off his body. He is in a critical condition.

The New
Air Flight
Principle
BRINGS AIR-TRAVEL

Eight years ago balloon tires had their christening. You bought them. Then found them a great improvement over the narrow gauge, high pressure kind. Today a new tire is announced. This tire is as great an advance over the balloon as was the balloon over its predecessor. Its motif has come from the sky.

The Seven Points of Superiority in The Fisk Air-Flight Principle

1—Large Air Chamber—your car rides less on the rubber—more on the air.
2—All-Cord material reduces internal friction and adds strength without rigidity or weight.
3—Multiple Cable Bead gives added strength at the rim while increasing sidewall flexibility.
4—Increased length of Flex area at the sidewall provides greater use of the air cushion.
5—Rim width, stream-line tread, eliminates the useless overhanging tread rubber and allows greater air-cushioning.
6—Greater Road Contact—results in better and longer lasting Non-Skid qualities.
7—The Air-Flight Balance.
The newly perfected balance between Air and Materials achieves the maximum of Air Cushioning and Mileage.

LIKE A FLIGHT THROUGH THE AIR.

Perhaps you've experienced the frictionless, soaring sensation of riding on nothing but air. Then, you were actually flying, hundreds of feet off the ground. Wouldn't you like this smoothness of airplane flight when traveling the road in your car? There's no reason why you can not! Applying a FISK fundamental, FISK engineers have designed this new tire to enable you to ride—less on the rubber, more on the air. It makes air lines of even the roughest roads.

LIVES SAVED BY TOMATOES

Plants Give Warning of Poison Gases

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 14. (AP)—Tomato plants are finding a new use in the commercial world, as gas detectors.

A hundred times as sensitive to illuminating gas as are canaries, the plants furnish above ground protection analogous to that given by the birds against carbon monoxide in mines.

Some recent examples of plant protection are described by Dr. William Crocker, director of the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, who is one of the pioneers in discovering gas-sensitive properties of plants.

A large American coke works is using tomato plants to insure against gas leaks about its ovens. One of the leaks guarded against comprises the invisible ingredients of illuminating gas. In the presence of these gases the leaves of young tomato plans droop, grow stiffly downward and even form coils, due to rapid growth on the upper side of the leaf. The plant is 200 times as sensitive to this poison as is the human nose, and 50 times more sensitive than the best chemical test.

As long as the leaves of the tomato plants remain in their normal posture, it is assured that the air about the oven is pure beyond the best powers of human detection.

In the home, Dr. Crocker says white carnations are good gas indicators. One part of gas in 80,000 makes carnations "go to sleep," that is, half close, and remain so. There is no danger to human beings in such slight gas concentrations. But the plant gas detectors might explain the source of an occasional headache.

As cities grow, the commercial mouths that spit invisible gases multiply, gas uses increase, and new varieties develop. Gas mains age and higher pressures are coming into use. All this widens the field of usefulness of the plant detectives.

Ethylene in the illuminating gas is the main constituent that causes injury to growing plants. It is also the gas that is employed without harmful effects, to color lemons, and recently came into use as an anesthetic in surgical operations.

Sections of Birmingham Flooded by River Rise

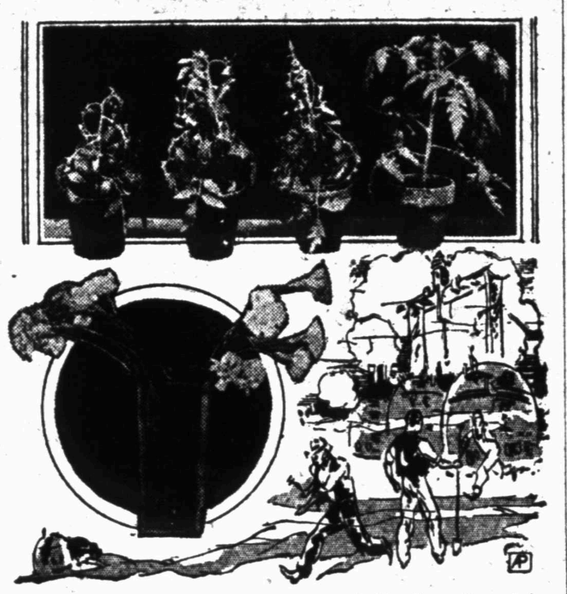

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 14. (UP)—Hundreds of families in lower sections of the city were marooned in their houses today as a heavy downpour of rain sent streams over their banks.

Many streets and highways near the city were under water and traffic affected.

Tomatoes Guard Against Gas

If carnations indoors half close prematurely like those shown below, look for a gas leak. Tomato plants are extremely sensitive to gas. Those on the left (above) have been subjected to gas; the one on the right is normal.

Seymour Family Given Surprise Anniversary Fete

SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 14.—The children of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown surprised them yesterday by taking in a bountiful dinner at noon to celebrate their parents' golden wedding anniversary. The couple had not planned any celebration as they had children at distant points who could not be here, so they were thoroughly surprised when their children living here came in with the lunch and a present for each, a gold watch for the father and a bar pin for the mother.

The couple was married Nov. 13, 1879, in Plano, Texas, moving to Seymour in 1898. They have been one of the outstanding families in the upbuilding of the town, being engaged in business and holding large tracts of lands. Their children, Grover C. Brown, Mrs. Lee W. Harris, Mrs. A. A. Harrison and Porter J. Brown reside in Seyour, Mrs. Bryan Bailey in Wichita Falls, Hardie W. Brown in Dallas and Mrs. E. A. Chambers in Denton. In addition there are 17 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

STUDENTS REQUESTED TO REMAIN OUT OF CLASSES

DES MOINES, Nov. 14.-(UP)—Six Drake university students ware absent from classes today at the request of Dean Raymond O. Davies because they drove to Ames early today and exercised a paint brush on the Iowa State campus.

The Drake move was in retaliation for a number of "Ames fights—beat Drake" signs which the Iowa Staters painted on the Drake campus earlier in the week.

The football teams of the two schools meet each other in their annual battle Saturday at Ames.

TOKYO NAVAL CLAIM SPURNED

London and Washington Cool Toward Proposal

TOKYO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Although official confirmation was unavailable, it was learned authoritatively today that Japan's claims for 70 per cent of American strength in cruisers carrying eight-inch guns have met with a discouraging reception both in London and in Washington.

Recent diplomatic correspondence from those capitals has been a closely guarded secret at the foreign office, but this afternoon's papers gave prominence to reports of an Anglo-American tendency to reject the Japanese ratio claims, arousing editorial criticism which also appeared to be cropping out in some official circles.

While it was officially denied they were meeting in connection with the receipt of unfavorable reports from Washington and London, it was noteworthy that Premier Hamaguchi, foreign minister Shidehara, Kyo Takarabe of the admiralty, and other advisers were closeted this afternoon discussing prospects of the London conference.

An unconfirmed report which the afternoon papers publishes was to the effect that while Great Britain was prepared to agree to Japan's desire for a 70 per cent eight-inch gun cruiser ratio towards Great Britain, Japan would have to be content with a 60 per cent ratio towards the United States.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

Pine's Support Of F. D. Bearly Seen

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14. (UP)—Senator William Pine's support of Fred D. Bearly for Republican state chairman was seen today in political circles following Pine's appointment of S. A. Byers as census supervisor for Payne, Oklahoma and Logan counties.

The Republican state central committee meets Monday to appoint a successor to the late Frank A. Parkinson, of Enid. Byers, long active in Republican affairs, has been in charge of the Bearly campaign for state chairman.

Pine was en route here today. He has made no statement regarding support of Bearly. The report is based on discussion at the capitol and views of various usually well-informed political observers.

Two others still remain in the race for the state chairman. They are Guy Cobb, Ardmore, and Fred C. Clarke, Oklahoma City. Cobb, an oil operator, was active in John Fields' campaign for governor in 1922. Clarke, an insurance man, was treasurer of the state committee during the last campaign.

DEATH CLAIMS WOMAN EXILE

Relative of Russian Royal Family Dies

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 14. (INS)—Madame Verna Snejinska, a relative of the royal family of Russia, was dead here today of tuberculosis brought on by hardships endured in fleeing from her native land during the Soviet reign of terror. She was 34 years old.

Daughter of Victor Leshin, Russian army officer and member of the royal family, Madame Shejinska saw her father and sister slain before her eyes for their loyalty to the monarchy. She escaped with her husband, a Polish army officer, hidden beneath a load of freight in a wagon.

Later she separated from her husband and took refuge in the Orient finally coming to New York and joining Pavlowa as a ballet dancer.

Her health broke down completely two years ago and she came to Colorado Springs, living in strict economy, her once vast estates having been ursurped by the Soviet regime.

Her mother was the Baroness von Moller.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 14—Twenty minutes of 12 on Wednesday night and we have just risen from the dinner table. Former Gov. Pat Neff, who was the last speaker, remarked on it. He said that the long program with his name at the end reminded him of a similar occurrence in South Texas.

◇ ◇ ◇

The toastmaster, he said, read the program; there was a singer and then a speaker and then music and then a dance and then a speaker and more music and finally, "Governor Neff will be the final speaker and the national guard will fire a salute for the dead."

◇

"I have no objection to your going to sleep," Mr. Neff said. "I have no objection to your looking at your watches if you won't hold them to your ears. If you will cooperate with me that much, I will cut my time down."

◇ ◇ ◇

But we believe, if Governor Neff had spoken all the evening, the crowd would not have sagged and talked and known they were tired.

◇ ◇ ◇

Two programs were combined at the evening dinner table, the dinner program and the district president's evening and Mrs. W. R. Potter's speech which was left off Tuesday evening's program because the hour grew late.

◇ ◇ ◇

Besides the introduction and each speech of the toastmistress's, 10 talks were given during the evening and four of them were major talks. The speech made by Mrs. Potter might have stood alone for entertainment, as would that of Senator Margie Neal; Gov. Pat Neff's, one would go far to hear and Dr. Merfeld of Fort Worth was entertaining.

◇ ◇ ◇

We do not mind going on record in criticising a program like this; fine as the numbers are, it is not fair to the audience nor to the late speakers.

◇ ◇ ◇

The Texas Federation of Women's clubs is composed of women with brains. They realize this mistake and will not make it again.

◇ ◇ ◇

But it makes it mighty hard right now on a poor reporter who wants to write about it while it is fresh, and doesn't want to sit up all night.

◇ ◇ ◇

This Dr. Harry Merfeld of Fort Worth was rather clever. His speech dealt with the double standard. His subject was "The Southern Queen and Her Domain," but it boiled down to her right to protect home and demand purity of manhood.

◇ ◇ ◇

He said that in this age, the old legend of an innocent Adam being beguiled by a sophisticated Eve, was an exploded idea. He asked the question, "What Is Morality?"

◇

Some, he said, told one to look at the churches and compare the picture with the overcrowded theaters; some went so far as to mock at the kalsomined faces, the reddened lips and darkened brows; some, with more temerity, spoke of the dress of modern woman—or fraction thereof. "We have two standards of morality," he said; "One on the statute books and the other practiced in everyday work; one we would have teachers teach to our children; one we would have preachers preach to our families and another which we practice in everyday life."

◇ ◇ ◇

He told us privately several things he meant to say and we asked him if he believed them. "Well," he hesitated, "I want to make a speech the ladies will like."

◇ ◇ ◇

Pat Neff didn't. He stepped on everyone's toes and thrilled his audience. We will tell you more about his talk.

◇ ◇ ◇

If he'd seen all the backs we saw, he might have said something about them. But as every chair was turned to face him, he just crashed into the "programs" some eight or nine women had been outlining, and my, but he's a grand looking man!

Dorothy Dix Gives Rules for Girl To Assure Popularity

The Best Way for a Girl to Insure But if she is too good-looking. Her Popularity With the Boys Is for Her to Be Pretty, but Not Too Pretty; Clever, but Not Too Clever; Companionably Near, but Not Quite Within Reach.

A young woman asks: "What qualities should a girl possess to be popular?"

I should say that a girl's first aid to popularity is mediocrity. She should be able to strike a good general average, but not be pre-eminent in any line. She should be just enough, but not too much, if you get what I mean. For thus does she inspire admiration without arousing envy.

She should be pretty, but not too pretty. Every one enjoys looking at a girl who is balm to the eyes. Men like to take her out. Hostesses appreciate her value as a parlor ornament at their parties, and as a drawing card to their week-ends. Even other girls like to have her about because she helps make the picture, and doesn't present a too invidious comparison between themselves and her.

That is another pair of sleeves. Her beauty throws every other woman into the discard and it is the back of their hands for her, and while men may rave over the living picture, few of them desire to hang it on their own walls.

They feel that it would require a more expensive frame than they can afford. Or that it wouldn't be a useful household utensil. And, anyway, they want a wife who will admire them instead of one before whom they will always have to be burning incense. Observation shows that beauties seldom make the best marriages. Nor do they have as many dates as the girls who are just merely pretty.

A girl should be clever, but not too clever. Nobody has any time to waste in these days on the Dumb Doras who never read anything, who never understand anything and who have to have every joke diagrammed for them. Men like girls who keep up with the times, who are bright and wide awake and carry a peppy line of conversation and who can entertain and amuse them.

But heaven help the girl who lets a man find out that she knows more than he does, and who is always flaunting her college education in his face, and who thinks she makes herself entertaining by discoursing by the hour on highbrowed topics! And heaven and all the saints preserve the girl (for she will need all the help she can get) who is sarcastic and witty at men's expense! Many a clever girl cuts her throat with her own tongue and ruins her prospects for the sake of a laugh.

A man likes a girl to have enough gumption to listen intelligently to what he is saying without trying to be a spellbinder herself, and enough sense of humor to laugh at his wisecracks without handing him any snappy comebacks, but the thing he won't stand for in a girl is for her to have more brains than he has.

She should dress well, but not too well. Every man likes to see a girl dolled up and he likes her to have on the kind of skirts and hats and doodads that make her look like a this year's model instead of something that has been fished out of the ragbag.

But he reads price tags on women's wear in the shop windows and he shies off from the girl who always looks like a million dollars. He knows that it takes real money to supply that kind of scenery, and that the man who undertakes it will spend the balance of his life slaving for milliners and dressmakers, and the prospect leaves him cold.

Many a girl loses a good husband by overplaying the clothes racket and making men feel that she is a luxury they cannot afford.

She should be gay and lively, but not too gay and lively. Nobody likes a dead one. Nobody wants a prunes-and-prisms girl who is always shocked at everything and is never willing to play the game.

But no other girl is such a bore as the one who is always giggling and no one gets more on our nerves than the girl who is always keyed up to a point of hysteria and who thinks she is being vivacious when she shrieks continually like a steam siren that can't be silenced. And no girl makes a greater mistake than the one who thinks she makes a hit with men by going the limit in drinking and swearing and telling dirty stories.

Men like girls who are bright and cheerful and who have laughter on their lips, but with it they want womanly reserve and modesty and tenderness and sympathy. They want a woman they can go to in their troubles, not a hard-boiled sport who will make a merry jest of them.

She should be willing, but not too willing. Of course, every girl wants attention from men. Of course, every girl wants to get married. And, of course, every girl who wants a husband has to put herself in an attitude to receive the blessing, as old-fashioned Methodists used to say about spiritual benedictions. Gone are the days when the tactics of Dear Lady Disdain were effective, and when men ran after women who flouted them. Human icicles are not to the taste of the modern man and any girl who has dates now has to show some enthusiasm over the attentions men pay her.

But it is still true that man is the pursuer and likes to be the chaser instead of the chased, and that the mere fact that he knows that he could have a certain girl any time he asks her keeps him from ever asking her at all. Also it is true that the more a girl runs after a man, the more he runs away from her, and that the more she hounds him over the telephone to know when he is coming to see her, the more determined he is to escape the trap he sees being laid for his feet.

It is the girl who is pleased when he calls, but apparently doesn't miss him when he doesn't come; who shows him that she has a good time when he takes her out, but who apparently can get along perfectly well without him, who piques a man into trying to find out why she is indifferent to him. It is always the peach that hangs highest on the tree that looks most luscious and that a man is willing to risk his neck climbing to get.

So there you are, girls. The secret of popularity is mediocrity. Steer the middle course and you will reach the haven of safety.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Itch Stopped In Few Minutes

Druggists now selling famous doctor's prescription

"Thousands of letters bear testimony to the fact that Dr. Dennis' famous prescription — D. D. D.—stops itching almost the moment it touches the skin. That is why druggists always have it on hand." It is surprising to see how quickly you can get relief from eczema, pimples, rashes, scales, blotches, and other skin troubles. Just apply clear, liquid cooling D. D. D. Penetrates the skin, soothing and healing the irritated tissues. Stops itching instantly. Clear, greaseless and stainless, dries up almost immediately. A 35c bottle will prove the merits of this antiseptic, or money back. At all drug stores.—Adv.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Dallas Lady Knows How To Relieve Indigestion

"Ten years ago I started giving mother Nature's Remedy and she has kept away her spells of constipation, indigestion, sick headaches and pains in the back ever since," says Mrs. Arthur Brown of 313 Reiger St., in Dallas.

That's because those little Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) soothe sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Then the starch and sugar wastes can't remain in your system to form those acids which bind the bowels, sour the stomach and rob the blood of the red corpuscles it must have plenty of to keep you from suffering pain, biliousness, headaches, indigestion and rheumatism. You can get NR Tablets in the 25c box at any drug store. More than three million are used in a day.—Adv.

The why of a clear skin

A clear, smooth, lovely skin speaks of rich, red blood within. It is Nature's outward reflection of internal healthfulness.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. They cannot be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

If you are unfortunate in this respect you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

More important still, strong healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

YOUTHFULNESS and BEAUTY are dependent upon a strong body—firm flesh—a clear skin

Loss of strength, flabby flesh and skin eruptions are but a few of the symptoms of a deeper and more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

NOTHING is more beautiful, more inspiring, more glorified than the supreme manifestation of Nature in the human body. Those sparkling eyes, that clear skin, that firm flesh, and that vigor of action denoting vitality, bespeak loveliness and internal healthfulness.

And so, is it not our birthright to be masters over our own bodies? To be sure not much is said openly about personal handicaps—skin blemishes—sallow complexion—poor health—but secretly they influence many important affairs.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

When you build back your red-cells to the correct number you will have followed Nature's own way of regaining Health. Your skin should clear up and you should have the body strength to fight against disease and infection. You should get hungry again and sleep soundly. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong; your nerves become steady.

This is why so many thousands, seeking youthfulness and beauty, have taken a course of S.S.S. It helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state.

FEDERATION BALLOTING ENDS FRIDAY

FIRST DISTRICT AWARDED CUP

Citizenship Prize Goes to Wichita Area

By MRS. L. N. CASON
The Record News Staff

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 14.—Ballots are being cast in the election of officers in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. The balloting will be closed at 11 o'clock Friday morning. There are 304 accredited delegates, 61 of these being from the first district. The American citizenship cup has been won this year by the first district, of which Mrs. Harry Karlsberg, Bowie, is department chairman.

Friday morning the annual press and publicity breakfast will take place at the Period. Mrs. Roy Woodruff is local hostess and Mrs. Ben G. Oneal will be toastmistress. Mrs. Oneal was also one of the speakers at the pioneer dinner in the Baker lobby this evening.

Educators Lead Program

Educators have figured in the programs of the day. Dr. C. S. Potts, S. M. U., closed the morning program. In the junior membership luncheon, Miss Estelle D. Hefley, dean of women, C. I. A., was one of the speakers, giving young womanhood a challenge to live up to the dreams of the women of 25 years ago.

"But there is a greater challenge," she said; "a challenge prompted by certain social needs of today, unlike those of two decades ago; not superstition and prejudice; not meager opportunity, but more subtle forces to meet; a misinterpretation of freedom, a leisure which makes not for poise of mind and body, but which consumes. These and kindred forces make life more pregnant with ill than ever before. These can only be met by spiritual forces made real through fine living."

Miss Maud B. Davis, dean of women at Trinity university, also addressed the juniors. In the afternoon session Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, spoke on the problems facing higher education in Texas. He began his talk with the statement, "Men don't amount to much—they're not federated. Even the lawyers," he said, "our most active social workers, are wrong 50 per cent of the time." Doctor Benedict told of the state of affairs in Texas with dry humor.

Benedict Speaks

"Texas is quite a complex affair," he said.

"You can look out of one eye and rejoice and look out of the other and shed large tears." Then he went on to discuss the general attitude of Texas toward education, stating that Texas spent only about two-thirds on education of the general average spent in the United States. The size of the institution made no difference, he said. If C. I. A. had 500 more pupils and U. of T. 1,000 more, there was still the same percentage toward the average in other states. Later in the afternoon, Dr. L. H. Hubbard of C. I. A. gave a lecture on "The Development of Civic Responsibility." Doctor Hubbard graded the United States as the best educators grade children of this day, chronologically, physically, pedigogically, and psychologically. He quoted figures and data in an enlightening speech which was voted to be printed in the federation magazine so that all federated clubs might study it.

Mrs. Frank Tomkins, Corpus Christi, membership chairman, announced 63 new clubs organized during the year, with 200 new members. After reports of standing chairmen, the conference adjourned to be taken by the courtesy of the Mineral Wells Chambef of Commerce to local beauty spots. On their return the Mineral Wells social clubs served tea to members of the conference.

Directly following the pioneer dinner honoring older members of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, "fine arts evening" was celebrated in the ballroom of the Texas. Miss Jennie Hill Barry, daughter of Mrs. Maggie Barry of College Station, one of the life members of the federation, was presented in costume recital, giving nine numbers. Mrs. Ethel Mayfield of Austin was her accompanist. Miss Ruth Pennybacker proved herself only second to her mother when she gave an interpretive address on "The Voice of the Negro Poet." The chamber of commerce and the club women and other hostesses of Mineral Wells spared no expense nor trouble to entertain visitors.

Composer Appears

David Guion, composer and pianist, assisted by Marcel Jones, baritone, gave the remainder of the program. Four of the songs were typically western, three being Texas cowboy songs. A crowded ballroom greeted this unusual entertainment on the last evening of the conference. Cooperation with state education institutions will furnish the Friday program with Dr. R. F. Cousins of Brownsville College of Arts and Industries, Dr. P. W. Horn, Texas Technological institute; J. A. Hill, West Texas State Teachers college, and Dr. H. W. Morelock, Sul Ross State Teachers college, entering open discussion.

Election returns will enliven the day as voting will close at 11 o'clock.

Junior C.-C. to Discuss Home Buying Campaign

Plans for "Buy it in Wichita Falls week" which opens here next week will be discussed by Maurice Cheek in an address at the Junior chamber of commerce luncheon at the Kemp hotel Friday at noon, it was announced by Guy D. P'Pool, secretary of the organization.

In addition, plans for next year's work will be outlined. The chamber will decide whether the fiscal year of the organization shall begin Jan. 1 or later in the year. Should the former be decided upon, plans for election of new officers will be discussed. The chamber was organized last spring.

BOYS HELD IN THEFTS HERE

Three Youths, Under 14, Accused of Burglary

Three small boys, all under 14 years of age, were being held in the juvenile ward of the county jail Thursday in connection with at least two burglaries here within the last few days, according to J. A. McDonald, county juvenile officer.

The three together are believed to be implicated in the theft of a quantity of oil from a local filling station and two of them admitted stealing a small quantity of merchandise from a roadside lunch stand. At least two others boys of about the same age are being sought, McDonald said.

The two connected with the lunch stand robbery told officers they took coffee, bacon, candy and tobacco from the place because they had spent the bacon and coffee money to see a picture show and were afraid of what their parents might do if it were discovered. A much larger amount of goods was reported stolen from the lunch stand and, Mr. McDonald said, someone else probably entered the place later and took a considerable quantity of groceries. The proprietor of the store had seen the boys loitering about the place prior to the robbery, thus giving the clue which led to the arrests.

Guatemalan President Denies Mexican Charge

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 14. (AP)—Gen. Lazaro Chacon, president of Guatemala, today replied to a query by Rafael Martinez, a Mexican newspaper publisher, that reports concerning maltreatment of Mexicans in Guatemala were false. He explained that the rumors arose from the arrest at Amtilan, Guatemala, of a Mexican commercial attache who got into a quarrel with another man.

Future of Farming Is Farmers' Own Problem

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 14. (AP)—That the future of farming and farmers is almost entirely in the hands of the farmers themselves was the implication made by state grange masters who today presented their annual reports to the national grange convention, which yesterday opened a 10-day session here. Although reports from the East and Middle West were not so favorable those of the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain states all contained an undercurrent of optimism for the future of agriculture.

Traw of Dallas, corresponding secretary.

Fred P. Branson Wins $50,000 Libel Suit

CHANDLER, Okla., Nov. 14. (UP)—Former Chief Justice Fred P. Branson of the Oklahoma supreme court was awarded $50,000 damages here today in a suit for libel he had filed against the Oklahoma Publishing company. The judgment was awarded in district court by Judge Hal Johnson.

The Roman catacombs are 580 square miles in area, and it is estimated that they contain about 15,000,000 dead.

Neuralgic Pains Stopped By Capudine

Capudine quickly relieves the neuralgic headaches, rheumatic pains, and the aches accompanying colds that make life so miserable for so many people, especially during the winter months. It soothes the tense nerves, quickly stops the pain and affords peaceful relaxation. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instanly—much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore is most desirable.

The next time you suffer from such pains take two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water and note how quickly the pain fades away. Capudine has been sold by druggists for more than 30 years. 30c and 60c bottles.—Adv.

To Make Even Inexpensive Glass and China Sparkle

Simple New Way Does Wonders And Is Kind To Pretty Hands—Use Any Ordinary Soap

Most hotels use this method to make glass and china gleam. Housewives like it not only for this reason, but because it acts to soften and whiten skin fabric of the hands.

Results are surprising. Try it. Get at any grocery store in 10c or 25c package. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

Even the most inexpensive table china and glassware can be made to look far better than its price in a simple way. It can be given the brilliancy and sparkle of the most costly kinds; and glassware particularly is judged by its sparkle.

Simply add one teaspoonful of the cleansing preparation called CLIMALENE to your water. Use the same soap you ordinarily do, but use only ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity. Wash as usual.

This preparation is a grease dissolvent, while soap is, strictly speaking, a grease. Thus it gives shine and sparkle while soap often leaves a greasy film that's hard to get rid of even with the most careful drying.

EDUCATION is the only process through which democracy can diminish racial, social and environmental handicaps.

No political system will ever standardize intelligence.

But enlightened government is obligated by self-interest to afford all subjects the same chance to discover and develop their capacities.

To deprive a single American child of such opportunity is to violate his birthright and narrow his choice of careers.

Franklin, Lincoln and Edison are "sports"—variations from type. Steinmetz would have designed a kit of mathematical formulas, if he had never heard of calculus or seen a logarithmic table.

Prodigies are a law to themselves. Genius is self-sufficient—but average folk are not.

The ordinary brain is intrinsically commonplace, un-original and incurious. Precision, reason and logic are largely dependent upon stimuli.

Every normal person has some qualification which renders him fitter to succeed in one field than another.

And it's education's mission to reveal the task in which the individual will enthusiastically function.

Inefficiency is usually unaroused interest. Nine out of ten of us have definite affinities for given occupations.

The seeming dullard is often merely dormant, like Wagner the composer, Newton the philosopher, Scott the novelist—unaware of talents whose bell-buttons have not yet been pressed.

Heaven alone knows how many unwhittled pegs have wasted potential distinction in obscure and mental cubbyholes where lack of information or illiteracy, squandered them.

The backwaters and backwoods of the United States are filled with boys and girls competent to be merchants, lawyers, engineers, surgeons, and inventors, but who will remain ignorant of their possibilities until local compulsory education acts enlarge their horizons and put their neglected wits on the whetstone.

TRAINING alone divides the skilled and unskilled worker. Reading, writing and arithmetic are bridges on which millions of drudges might yet pass from uncertainties to independence, if legislation were not so laggard in recognizing that every dollar spent on night schools and home courses, would return tenfold via increased earnings and decreased public aid expenditures.

There'd be need for half as many old age appropriations and widow's compensation acts, if we spent twice as much money to equip their children for the attainments at which a previous generation had no chance.

Today must have common access to all current research, revisions and contemplations.

Each citizen is constitutionally entitled to set his sons and daughters on the same scratch as his neighbor's.

But census surveys indicate that millions of Americans are still without immediate hope of equality for themselves or their families.

Universal education won't banish or abolish poverty, but it will increase the odds against failure and against poverty—strengthen the fiber of citizenship—raise the standards of public service—purge the ballot box of prevalent stupidities and provide structural material for safer and shrewder tomorrows.

The world is moving too fast, to wait upon Lincolns and pine knots, Edisons and barrage-car laboratories, Franklins and kites.

The 20th century is too busy to postpone schedules, while Fortune's stepchildren battle the barriers of circumstance.

It's the state's duty to remove them.

How the War Started

IF YOU ever wonder how it happened that the murder of an Austrian archduke by a fanatic Serbian student could plunge all of Europe into four years of war, you might read Emil Ludwig's new book, "July '14." It will enlighten you considerably.

Indeed, this is a book that ought to be read by all people who are interested in preserving the peace of the world. It presents a terrible, damning picture of the way in which a dozen diplomats were able to drag their countries into the worst war in history. It ought to be a warning to the world for generations to come.

Ludwig uncovers no new facts, but he summarizes the old facts admirably. Here is the picture he paints:

A dozen men in different European capitals were playing a very interesting game—the game of international politics. It was an insane game, but it had been played for generations, and the players liked it very much.

In Vienna there was Berchtold, scheming for a war in the Balkans. In Russia there was Sazonov, looking for a chance to strike. Austria and get "revenge" for an "insult" that Austria had dealt Russia some years before. In Berlin there were Bethmann and Jagow, egging Berchtold on. In Paris there was Poincare, playing a deep game with the czar of Russia. In England there was Grey, honestly desiring peace, but bound by intangible, secret "understandings" with the French.

The murder started the ball rolling. All of these men went into action. War drew near. These men grew frightened and tried to draw back. But they tried only half-heartedly, and each effort was followed by a new move toward war. Worse yet; in each capital the army general staff came into power and moved relentlessly for conflict.

The czar of Russia made a frantic last minute effort for peace. He would halt Russian mobilization. But his general staff informed him that this would be impossible. The machinery could not easily be stopped. The czar let himself be persuaded.

The German kaiser made a similar last minute effort, trying to mobilize on the eastern front only. But his general staff, too, overruled him. Mobilization, he was told, once started, had to go forward.

So, with only two or three responsible officials really wanting war, war came. Ludwig makes it perfectly clear that if there had been one real statesman in Vienna, Berlin, St. Petersburg or Paris who really wanted peace, and who was willing to work for it, there would have been no war. But such a man was lacking.

Thus the world went to war. It went because its diplomats had played their game so long that they had lost all sense of values. And millions of men lost their lives!

If you ever doubt that some entirely new method of handling international relations is imperatively needed by the world, read this book. It will persuade you.

Not a Good Excuse

ALBERT B. FALL, sentenced to a year in prison and a fine of $100,000, protests that he was not guilty of any crime; he was merely indiscreet and injudicious.

Mr. Fall's sincerity in making this statement, of course, is a matter concerning which only he himself can speak; but it does not seem to us that he has helped his case much, even granting that he was perfectly sincere.

For a high cabinet officer to borrow $100,000 in cash from a man to whom he is extending a huge governmental favor—well, such "indiscretion," if that is all it was, was monumental, to say the least. A man so obtuse, so blind to all the ordinary dictates of reason and integrity, can hardly protest if a skeptical public assumes that there was an extremely improper motive back of it all.

A Warning to Ex-Soldiers

WORLD WAR VETERANS who have not yet filed application for the adjusted compensation made available to them by congress are warned by the Veterans of Foreign Wars that the first day of next year is the deadline for such applications.

Twice before congress has extended the time limit. This time, however, the V. F. W. believes it unlikely that such action will be taken. The veteran who fails to apply before Jan. 1 is out of luck.

More than 1,000,000 ex-service men have failed to apply for their adjusted compensation certificates. The value of the average certifiment insurance policy. Veterans who have not yet taken advantage of cate is $1,000, and provides the veteran with a 20-year paid-up endowthis offer should remember—only a few more weeks are available.

Our Gambling Bill

THE AMAZING STATEMENT that $4,000,000,000 changes hands annually in the United States through commercialized gambling is made in the current North American Review by Howard McLellan.

McLellan itemizes the nation's gambling bill as follows:

Baseball pools, $500,000,000; policy games (lotteries based on daily totals of bank clearings, etc.), $300,000,000; racetrack betting, $1,000,000,000; handbook betting on races, $800,000,000; cards, dice and similar games of chance, $1,000,000,000; bucket shops, $500,000,000.

It is impossible for the average man to estimate the accuracy of these figures, of course. But if they represent anything like the truth—and McLellan asserts that they are an undestimate, if anything—our gambling problem is a far greater one than most of us have supposed.

Plea

Since you must condemn me
For loving as I do,
When my quivering body burns . . .
(Homage paid to you).

Since you do not call it love
When one gives her soul,
And you must condemn me, dear,
Strike hard at your goal.

Cut me not too sharply nor bruise me,
Your blunt words
Peck upon my anguished heart
Like a flock of birds . . .

Wounded butterflies I've seen
Flutter back to life . . .
Since you must condemn me, dear,
Strike hard—with a knife!

The Wall St. Influence

He had been receiving telegrams from his broker for a week, each calling for more margin money.

On Monday evening as he dined with pals at his club he got another wire. He paled and then perspired freely. Finally his trembling fingers opened the message. "Haw! Haw! Haw!" he laughed hysterically, "Haw! Haw! Haw!"

"What does it say?" they asked him.

"Nothing serious," was the reply between nervous chuckles, "my father just dropped dead."

Always Belittlin'

". . . a fellow who fingers a mean flute in a Broadway dance orchestra is named Idew Blowhard —The very Odd McIntyre in the N. Y. American."

I don't believe it.

Obituary notice gleaned in a theatrical weekly:

In Memory of Father
Who Died May 1, 1926
The Four Happy Nelsons.

Of All Things!

John K. Winkler would have you believe that it really happened. At any rate, a lady, visiting a swanky Long Island home, came downstairs late one evening and asked a sleepy footman for a glass of water. She carried the glass upstairs with her. A moment or two later she repeated the request and again went upstairs with it. A third time she came back. This time she said: "Would you mind giving me a pitcher of water?"

The footman looked astonished. The lady smiled coolly and explained: "There is a small fire in my room."

At Parting

Another day will dawn, but you are vanished,
And only memories left of happy hours.
But should the rose leaves of our friendship wither
I'll still recall the fragrance of the flowers.
—JEAN DOUGLAS.

Immense!

New York's night life has gone limp over magicians. Fred Keating's master of ceremonying and magic at the Casanova has been commented on here often, but the newest delight is a German, named Sealtiel, who opened at the Club Richman the other night and triumphed. He is destined for great success in America. Sealtiel's stunts are all amazing, but he fascinates you most by making his dress tie change color a dozen times before your very eyes.

His ace concludes his act. When he thanks a committee of gentlemen for coming to help him, he gives them back their money, 'kerchiefs, pins, tickets, or anything he has thefted when they least suspected that they were having their jeans picked.

Then, after they have received their trinkets and currency and they have returned to their tables, he sends for them again and proves that he picked their pockets a second time.

The only danger is that the typical Broadway phoney will complain some night that before Sealtiel experimented on him he also had a $500 bill.

See You!

Rex Beach, the novelist, who apparently hasn't been around much, or even to any of the Broadway revusicals, observes: "What good are expensive negligees if nobody sees them except a maid?"

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who aids another in regaining health is a benefactor."

Professional jealousy is one of the worst diseases with which humanity is afflicted, and strange to say, it reaches its peak in the healing art. 'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXIX

From the janitor's suite in the basement Ann Marie telephoned Janet to let her know she couldn't come to her card party after all.

From there, too, she telephoned to the little Italian restaurant not far away on Charles street and ordered lunch for five people at half past one.

"You've just got to go—you two!" she told Alice and Jeanie when she went back to the flat and found them getting dressed in the bathroom. "After all, dad is our father, and we ought to treat him decently, no matter whom he's married! And you girls will want to go home to be married, anyway. A girl should be married from her own home."

"That's what Brookie tells me," Jeanie spoke up, "and I'm about ready to go home, anyway. This business of sleeping on an army cot isn't so wonderful. Brookie and John Lawler are coming up tomorrow, and I think I'll go home with them."

Her words were balm of Gilead to Ann Marie.

"I only hope she doesn't change her mind," she thought and sent up a swift prayer to heaven that she wouldn't.

"Now, then, about this here little car of mine," Mrs. Leezy began when they were all sitting around a big table in the Italian restaurant, starting off their meal with antipasto and hot crispy breadsticks. "It ain't exactly a new car, Ann Marie. I bought it cheap because it had been used as a demonstrating car. And if you want to buy it from me you can have it for fifty dollars down and so much a month. . . . It cost me four hundred and you can have it for three. If that ain't a bargain nothing ain't a bargain!"

It was a bargain.

Even Ann Marie, who knew nothing about automobiles, could see that.

"But I can't afford it," she said.

She simply was not going to be talked into buying the little car. It was the last thing in the world that she needed.

"Alice says you're making plenty of money these days," Mrs. Leezy said, "holding down a job in an office and painting dresses on the side—and you must be making money! Look at that hat you're wearing and those fresh flowers pinned on to you! Those things cost money!"

"Not much," Ann Marie told her. "And I don't want a car. I'm trying to save every dollar I can for some drawing lessons."

Mrs. Leezy dropped over her plate of ravioli and Parmesan cheese.

"I shouldn't never have bought that car in the first place," she admitted. "We ain't even got no place to put it when we get it home! No garage nor nothing. We'll have to rent one, and think how that'll cost!"

"Maybe you can sell the car back to the people you bought it from," said Ann Marie soothingly. . . . She simply was not going to buy that car!

That afternoon she bought it.

Neal, who came in just as the newly-weds were getting ready to go, turned the trick.

"It's just like picking it up—to buy a car at that price," he said, when Ann Marie told him about it. "And think of the fun we could have riding around in it, especially on Sundays. Summer's coming, and we could go out to Long Beach to swim and way out to Point-O'-Woods. If I had fifty bucks you can bet I'd buy it!"

"I have that much," murmured Ann Marie, "but—"

"Well, for Pete's sake, go and give it to your step-mother right now before she changes her mind!" he told her. "You're getting the bargain of a life-time!"

It wasn't of the bargain that Ann Marie was thinking, however, when she walked into the tiny dressing room where Mrs. Leezy was getting into an old-fashioned linen dust coat.

She was thinking of herself and Neal, in that little roadster, skimming over the white sun-baked road that runs from New York to Long Beach—of the two of them lying on silvery sands in their bathing suits with a blue expanse of ocean spread out before them and a sunny sky above.

"I've decided to take the car, Mrs. Leezy," she said and laid five $10 bills down upon the dressing table. "I know I shouldn't do it. But I'm going to, anyway."

Fifteen minutes later Neal drove Mr. Macy and his wife to the station in it and put them on their train.

On Sunday morning Brooke and Johnny came to spend the day.

They came at 10 in the morning while Jeanie and Ann Marie were packing Jeanie's trunk.

"I'm going home with you boys tonight when you get ready to go," Jeanie told them. "I'm tired of living like a sardine in a can—and I get blue and lonesome here without Brooky."

She put her hands on either side of Brooke's red head, pulled his face down and kissed him.

"I'm like the girl in the Songs of the Swamp, Brooky," she said with a husky tender little laugh. "I've got to go where you are—I've got to know where you are'."

Johnny Lawler turned his back on them.

"Where's Alice?" he asked Ann Marie.

"She went out a few minutes ago," Ann Marie replied. "She said that she and Neal were going to take a run around the block in my little car—You haven't heard about my car, have you?"

She told him and Brooke about it.

"I haven't had a ride in it yet, myself," she said, dragging Jeanie's leather hat-box out into the middle of the floor.

"Why don't you boys go over to Neal's flat while we finish packing?" Jeanie suggested suddenly. "It won't take us long—and it's so crowded and messy in here. Where's the key to Neal's flat, Ann Marie?—Give it to the boys."

Ann Marie took it out of her hand-bag and gave it to them.

They went out into the hall, shutting the door behind them.

It wasn't more than 60 seconds later that Alice came bursting into the room, her face ashen, her body trembling from head to foot.

"You did that on purpose, Ann Marie Macy!" she cried, her voice bitter with accusation and shrill with anger. "You knew I was in there!—And you gave Johnny that key so he could spy on me, didn't you—You low-down little sneak!"

Speechless with astonishment, Ann Marie could only stand and stare at her.

Then Johnny came back into the room. He came in very quietly and stood just inside the door.

And very quietly he spoke to Alice.

"This means, of course, that you don't want to marry me next month," he said to her. "And that's quite all right with me. I certainly don't want to marry a girl who's in love with another man."

Alice looked from him to the engagement ring that sparkled like a two-karat dewdrop on her left hand.

She started to take it off. Then she thought better of it and put it back on her finger.

"No, I won't give it to you!" she said to him in a loud defiant voice. "It's the only nice thing you ever gave me, and I'm going to keep it!—and you try to get it, and I'll sue you for breach of promise!"

Johnny laughed.

"I don't want the ring," he said, and he did not seem to be broken-hearted in the least. "All I want is a clear understanding that we're not engaged any longer."

Alice looked at him a moment longer. Then suddenly she burst into tears that rolled slowly down her cheeks, making little white streaks in the paint that was on them.

"You'd think he'd caught Neal kissing me, wouldn't you?" she sobbed, appealing to Ann Marie and Jeanie. "Breaking our engagement just because he saw Neal's Arm around me in there—"

She jerked her head in the direction of Neal's apartment.

"Why, Neal and I are always fooling around with each other!" she went on, crying as she talked. "And Ann Marie doesn't throw a fit about it—Please, please, please do understand me, Johnny."

Johnny's jaw hardened in a stubborn line.

"I understand you all right," he said levelly. "And I'm through—"

He broke off abruptly in the middle of a sentence, turned and went out of the room and down the stairs.

Alice held her breath for a long moment . . . Then there came the distant sound of the street door closing.

"O-o-oh! He's gone!" she wailed, "He's gone—"

All at once she threw herself upon Ann Marie, shaking her by the shoulders, glaring at her like a wild little tiger-cat.

"And it's all your fault—you nasty beastly girl!" she shouted between great sobbing breaths. "You—sent him there—"

"No! I did!" Jeanie had to shout, too, to make herself heard above the uproar. "It was my idea to give the boys the key—Alice, please listen to me!"

It took all of them a long time to quiet her.

But at last she was quiet, stretched out on the day-bed, with her eyes closed as if she were asleep.

She wasn't asleep, however. A few minutes after Jeanie and the boys had carried Jeanie's baggage out to the car and started home, she got up on one elbow and spoke to Ann Marie:

"Please don't think I ever cared about Johnny Lawler . . . The thing that slays me is losing all of his beautiful money!"

Then she lay down again. She slept all afternoon.

At 6 o'clock that night Neal came knocking on the door of the apartment. He was solemn-eyed and shame-faced.

"Are you through with me?—I suppose you are," he said softly. "I suppose you feel as if you never want to see me again, don't you?"

Ann Marie shook her head.

"I wish I could feel that way about you," she said, and she said it with a kind of anger. "But I can't—and I know I'm a fool because I can't. Even if I knew you were in love with Alice, it would be hard for me to give you up."

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

Interview With a Market Optimist

Scene: Office of a financial king.

Characters: The financier; an apprehensive and badly dazed investor.

PHILLIPS

Financier: Now there is nothing to worry about, I can assure you. Business conditions are fundamentally sound. The future of this great country is secure. We are too big a nation to—

Investor (interrupting nervously): What did International Macaroni open at today, sir?

Financier: At 175, 10 points off from last night's closing, I believe. But, as I was saying, there has never been a more prosperous era in American history. Business is good. There is no recession in sight anywhere. Factories are belching smoke on all sides and—

Investor: What's General Pickle Fork, do you know, sir?

Financier: Just a second . . . It's just lost 20 points. Now, what I want to impress on your mind is that this is not a time to be panicky or apprehensive. There is not the slightest reason for pessimism. Plans for expansion are being made by industry on all sides. Big business men are going ahead with plans for record business in 1930.

Investor: What's Macaroni now, sir?

Financier: Let me see . . . it's 163 now. Where was I?

Investor (weakly): You were saying that everything is lovely.

Financier: Exactly. America is now capturing the markets of the world. Our exports are at new levels. The buying power of America alone defies the imagination. Nothing can stop or even check the forward march of industry. Speculation has been overdone and we are experiencing an inevitable reaction which was much needed and which is indeed a healthy sign. It will be good for business, good for the market and good for the average American citizen. I cannot urge too strongly that the skies are sunny and the outlook clear.

Investor: What's that excitement over in the corner?

Financier: Wait till I see. . . Oh. It seems International Macaroni has dipped again. Now, my point, as I was saying, is that this is no time for a man to be afraid, nervous or unduly upset. The business future is secure. We are not facing any hard times. Business leaders everywhere say they see nothing but prosperity ahead. You must believe in American business. You must be a bull on America. You must—

Investor: Would it be too much trouble for you to see what International Macaroni is now, mister?

Financier: What company is that?

Investor: International Macaroni.

Financier: I never heard of it.

Investor (slumping out of the chair): Umph-h-h-h-h-h-h!

The Task Ahead

The police were called to capture a parrot in New York the other day. It kept shouting "More margin! More margin!" A serious attempt is now being made to teach it to say, "The country is fundamentally sound. There is no need to worry."

Woman Censures Court Criticism

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 14. (UP)—What was termed "recent miscarriages of justice in Oklahoma" was criticized bitterly today by Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections, speaking before the sixth annual conference of the Oklahoma association of social workers in session here.

She compared the 30-day sentence given in the trial of R. E. Davis, former reformatory guard, and the death penalty meted out to Ted Cole, 17-year-old Tulsa youth, convicted of robbing with a gun.

She assailed the jury system, declaring that in this institution laid the basis for such "miscarriages of justice." She also referred to the life sentence imposed on Emmett Kelley, tubercular world war veteran, by Judge Saul Yager of Tulsa.

Mrs. Bassett also spoke on the plan of paying families of convicts while the providers were serving in prisons.

Bralley after forfeiture of his bond of $1,000 for failure to appear in the 89th district court to answer a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over the value of $50.

Bacon was charged in connection with the alleged theft of a large quantity of copper cable from a plant in Acme, Texas, several weeks ago. Prosecuting attorneys had also intended to use Bacon as a witness in the trial of Ladonia Stout, under a similar charge, Wednesday afternoon. His failure to appear caused a postponement of both his own and Stout's trials until Dec. 9.

San Antonio Firm Gets Book Binding Contract

R. B. Walthall, chairman of the board of control, estimated the cost during the next two years would be about $75,000 less than if the present contract had been renewed.

Mintzer made his estimate after a survey of the company's records and further data is expected from the Irving Trust company, receiver for the firm, which is carrying on an investigation of its own. Investigators reported the corporation's bookkeeping system was complicated.

Former Orient Railway Receiver Accused of Making Profits on Notes

Holder of Gold Securities Open Suit Claim Kemper Kept Facts From Investors

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—James C. Ayer of New York and other former holders of more than $1,000,000 in collateral gold notes of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad company, have started suit in federal court against William T. Kemper of Kansas City, for some years receiver of the Orient, prior to its sale to the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe railroad last year.

Technically, the case is an application by the noteholders for leave to propound additional questions to Mr. Kemper and to elicit facts regarding his operations. Prior to the present action, 166 interrogations were answered, while this suit asks 97 more.

The complaint alleges that for some time previous to 1924 the affairs of the Orient were at low ebb, and the gold notes, secured by a first lien of the entire system, were greatly depreciated and investors were discouraged by the possibility of loss of the entire investment.

In 1924, it was pointed out, conditions began to mend and that prior heavy operating expenses were succeeded by earnings, which gradually increased. This improvement was well known to the receiver, it was alleged, but he bought from the investors amounts of notes exceeding $1,000,000 at prices ranging from 10 to 25 cents on the dollar without apprising them of the improved conditions.

It is charged the receiver, acting in his individual capacity, sold all the notes purchased by him, or stock acquired in exchange for them, to the Santa Fe at a price netting him a profit of $1,875 on each $1,000 note.

Mr. Ayer charges that, relying on Kemper's representations, he sold his $24,000 notes, originally purchased at par, for only $8,000 and that Kemper, within a year, sold them or the stock rights based on them at a net profit of $45,000.

Texan Serves On Bank Group

Nathan Adams Member Of Special Committee

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—A Texan, Nathan Adams of Dallas, is a member of the new economic policy commission of the American Bankers' association.

Special significance is attached to the commission because it was instructed specifically by general convention resolution at the association's recent San Francisco meeting to watch and report developments under the proposal of Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole for an extension of branch banking in the national banking system.

Mr. Adams is president of the American Exchange National bank at Dallas.

FAMILY CLOTHED

Welfare Agencies Provide For Victims of Thief Here

A Wichita Falls family, deprived Wednesday of its winter clothing purchases by a thief, has been provided with a new outfit through the work of Wichita Falls welfare organizations, it was announced Thursday by Miss Myrle Neeley, executive secretary of the community chest. Two suits of clothes for two school boys in the family, two pairs of new overalls, and two dresses for the mother were provided by Ensign A. Shultz of the Salvation Army. A Wichita Falls merchant provided undergarments and shoes for the family. The family had invested its savings from the entire cotton picking season in the purchase of the fall clothing which was stolen.

Air Companies Merge Offices

Central Ticket Bureau to Handle Reservations

Consolidation of the ticket offices of the Braniff and Safeway airlines and the establishment of facilities for making reservations out of Wichita Falls to almost any desired destination were completed Thursday, it was announced by R. M. Mercer, traffic manager of the Universal Airlines of which the Braniff is a division.

The general ticket office is located in the Holt hotel lobby where the S. A. F. E. headquarters have been located for some time. Reservations can be made there for Wichita Falls travelers over the Safeway, Braniff, Universal or associated airlines to points in all parts of the United States, Canada, Central and South America and the West Indies, Mr. Mercer said.

The first such reservation was made Thursday morning when A. H. Bakke, 2203 Tenth street, purchased a ticket through the local office via the Pan-American airlines from Miami, Fla., to San Domingo on the island of Haiti in the Carribbean. Mr. Bakke left Wichita Falls by train for Miami Thursday afternoon.

Elaborate Plans Made by Police To Present Huge Musical Revue

Arrangements were completed Thursday afternoon by members of the Wichita Falls police department for the presentation of one of the largest revues ever staged in the city, with plans calling for about 500 persons to take part in the production.

Numbers including everything from drama to musical comedy are being arranged and talent is being selected from all parts of Northwest Texas, it was said. Many of the numbers are being modeled on those of Broadway revues and talking-picture productions. The entire revue will be under the direction of a professional producer who will be assisted by prominent art instructors of Wichita Falls.

A chorus of 50 Wichita Falls girls will be presented in new dance and song numbers and members of the police force will take leading parts in several of the scenes. Elaborate scenic and lighting effects are being arranged for each offering. One of the outstanding features will be "The Toy Maker's Dream," with more than 100 Wichita Falls children taking part.

The proceeds of the show will go to the police relief fund, part of which is donated to charity each year and the remainder used for the benefit of members of the force. The time and place for the production has not yet been definitely set, but rehearsals and complete arrangements should be completed within the next month, it was said.

Court Issues Writ When Woman Retains Custody of Child 'Loaned' Her

Because a Wichita Falls woman refused to give up a 4-year-old child which had been "loaned" to her for the week-end, Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Thursday issued a writ of habeas corpus directing that the child be brought into court Saturday, according to a petition filed by Miss Katherine Henricle, secretary of the Children's Aid Society of West Texas.

The petition alleges the child is being illegally restrained of her liberty without court order or parental authority. The child, according to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, is a ward of the Children's Aid society and the woman was allowed to take her only for the week-end. It will be alleged, Mr. Abernathy said, that the woman refused to give up the child in accordance with that agreement.

The writ issued by Judge Martin awarded custody of the child to J. A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, pending the hearing Saturday.

SCHOOL BOARD SLOW TO MEET

New Education Body Can't Be Corraled

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Until the present legislature created a new board of education of nine members to be appointed by the governor, it wasn't any trick at all to get the board of education together for a meeting. Often several sessions a week were held.

Until the new board came into existence, the governor, comptroller and secretary of state composed the board. They served without extra pay and whenever there was business to transact, like authorizing the purchase of bonds with money accumulated in the permanent school fund, the superintendent of public instruction got busy on the telephone and the board got together.

It is different now. There must be six members in attendance to make a quorum, and transact business. The new board members are paid $10 a day, during the time they are on duty at Austin, and their actual expenses. With a full membership in attendance, it costs the board about $150 a day to transact business.

Recently it was necessary to wait an entire day to muster a quorum, six members failing to report on the day set for a regular meeting.

Talks and Music On Rotary Program

Talks by J. C. Mytinger and J. Wilkie Talbert, discussion of the Spokesman, weekly club publication, and musical numbers by Mrs. Harold Carpenter of New York featured the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at their luncheon Thursday noon. President O. T. Kimbrough presided at the session.

Several of the Rotarians started a questionnaire concerning the Spokesman and the discussion evolved into a series of tributes to the paper and Tom B. Smock, its editor. At the opening of the meeting, the Rev. Patrick J. F. O'Beirne welcomed the guests and R. E. Shepherd led a singsong with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano.

Mr. Mytinger's talk dealt with the deep oil test project and pointed out that shallow sands would be conserved, thus insuring financial success for the proposed stock company. He further pointed out there would be no stock promotion, the money subscribed going directly into the capital.

World's Tallest Man May Become Wealthy

TROUP, Texas, Nov. 14. (INS)—"The tallest man in the world," J. A. Tarver, may soon be classed among the richest in the world.

Tarver is eight feet and four inches high and weighs exactly 480 pounds. He wears a No. 15 shoe.

He admitted he had been with Ringling Brothers shows for 21 years and will soon sail for London after completing his vacation. He will fulfill professional engagements while the shows are in winter quarters in England.

A Ringling agent made his "find" when he discovered Tarver working on a farm in East Texas. Since his connections with the show he has been one of the chief attractions.

LIBERATED MAN IS DESTITUTE

State Has Not Repaid Vargas for Imprisonment

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Although it took four years of Anastacio Vargas' life, the state of Texas has not recompensed him for the time he spent in jail away from his wife and two children as their chief support.

Convicted of the murder of Louisa Garcia, Vargas was first given life imprisonment and, after his first trial was reversed and remanded by the court of criminal appeals, on a second hearing the jury directed that he be put to death in the electric chair.

Four hours before the death penalty was to have been exacted Governor Moody granted a reprieve and later commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. A few days ago Acting Gov. Barry Miller gave him an unconditional pardon.

Judge W. W. McCrory, who presided at the trial of Vargas, and other Bexar county officials who investigated the case, petitioned the governor to pardon Vargas, having been convinced that he was innocent of the crime laid to him.

When Vargas was released and went to his little one-room home his children, now four and five years old, did not know him. His wife was sick.

Now the family is destitute. Vargas is weak from his long four years' confinement and the sunlight hurts his eyes. Because of his physical condition he has been unable to do manual labor since he obtained his freedom.

Crespi Married

Crespi was married at the time the alleged alienation took place. The Crespis and the Wigleys were divorced on the same day in November, 1927, and Crespi married the former Mrs. Wigley on the next day after the divorces were granted. They left Waco.

"I liked Pio Crespi very much and could not see him often enough," the second Mrs. Crespi wrote in a deposition which was read when the trial opened today. A letter Crespi is alleged to have written the former Mrs. Wigley before her separation from the plaintiff is promised as the sensation of the trial.

Both the Crespis and the Wigleys were prominent socially in Texas and their divorces created wide attention two years ago.

Newspaper Owner

Crespi amassed a fortune in a few years preceding the war. He became and still is owner of the Corrier D'America, the largest Italian language newspaper in America, published in New York. He lived in Waco 20 years before going to New York.

During the war, Crespi was an active contact agent between the United States and Italy, and was knighted by the Italian government for his service. King Victor Emanuel said, in bestowing the distinction, that Crespi had done more for the promotion of friendly relations between the United States and Italy than any other living Italian-American.

Crespi's uncle was food administrator for Italy during the world war.

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

Lunch—Eight-ounce glass of grape juice.

Dinner—Roast pork, cooked turnips and tops, combination salad of celery, cucumber, tomatoes and lettuce, jell-o or jell-well.

*Vegetable soup: To make soup stock use one pound of meat (ground) to two quarts of water. If any bone is used, and less meat, have your butcher break it into small pieces, and use a little less water. Cover in cold water and slowly bring to a boil. Continue boiling for an hour, removing any skum that may form. Strain and let cool. Skim off all fat that rises to the surface. If stock equals two quarts, add the following quantities of vegetables, or more or less, according to the amount of liquid:

Two or three finely diced small carrots (unpeeled),

One small stock of celery and leaves cut fine.

One tablespoonful of chopped parsley.

One small can of tomatoes.

Any other green vegetable desired, such as spinach or lettuce. Return to fire and simmer until vegetables are tender. Serve with croutons made of Melba toast.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Electricity in Paralysis

Question—F. D. asks: "Can you advise me concerning the use of the infra red or the violet ray as a cure for paralysis? I understand electricity administered is very harmful."

Answer—The infra red ray is very good, but the violet ray would probably not have any effect. The ultra violet might prove beneficial if properly administered. Slow sinusoidal currents also seem to produce very good results in paralysis.

Baby's Diet

Question—Mrs. R. A. B. asks: "What is the best artificial food for a baby? How old must a baby be before he may have vegetable juice?"

Answer—After changing from breast nursing the baby should be given nothing but Holstein milk and orange juice up to about two years of age, after which he should take a little less milk and begin using the minced, non-starchy vegetables.

Varicose Veins

Question—Mrs. F. H. W. writes: "I am greatly troubled with varicose veins, especially in one leg, which aches a great deal. My doctor advised me to have a medicine injected into these veins which will gradually destroy them. The process is very slow, and he tells me it will take me off my feet. What is your advice?"

Answer—There is a definite hazard with injection treatment for varicose veins because of the danger of embolism, which means the lodgment of a blood clot obstructing circulation. I would suggest the ice treatment—that is, rubbing ice on the veins several times daily for as long as five minutes at a time. This is especially beneficial if taken with the limbs elevated so that he blood will empty from the veins when the ice is applied.

Purchase of Cuyamel Fruit Co. Rumored

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Reports, generally credited in local business circles, were received in New Orleans today that the United Fruit company had purchased the Cuyamel Fruit company.

Samuel Zemurray, president of Cuyamel, is now in New York for the purpose of completing the negotiations which have been underway for several months. President Cutter, of the United Fruit company, was expected to meet the Cuyamel president in New York.

Yeggs Break Open Safe Of Fort Worth Store

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 14. (INS)—Authorities today sought yeggs who after breaking the lock on the strong box of the Martha Washington Candy store here, escaped wtih approximately $300 in cash.

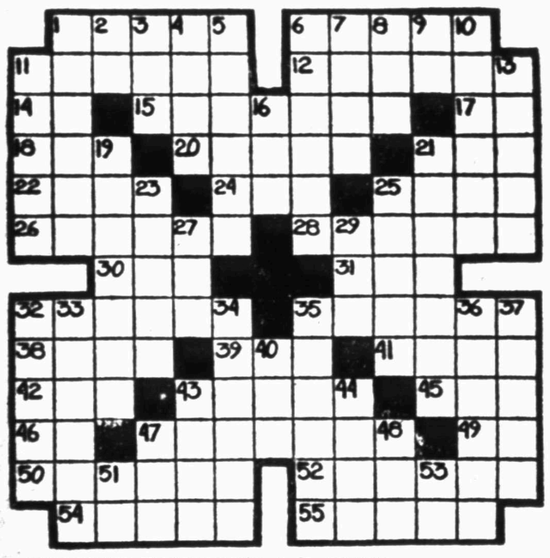

The safe of the George store was blown open, but no cash was found. The Martha Washington store was robbed a month ago by a white bandit who got $90 out of the cash register.

Announcing

a revolutionizing Motor Oil, a new principle and a Challenge

the Challenge

Several years ago, the exclusive North American patent rights on the Germ Process were acquired by this Company. It was evolved and patented by two British scientists after exhaustive chemical and physical laboratory tests.

Germ Process oils were revolutionary in that they met every requirement, through special characteristics, for each type of internal combustion motor. These scientists, by the Germ Process, eradicated the prevalent weaknesses existent in motor oils regardless of their base.

This Company has made innumerable laboratory and road tests, under every conceivable condition, over the past seven years, and we are now prepared to state definitely that your motor oil problem is solved by the Germ-Processed Motor Oils.

By comparison, our tests prove that the "Germ Essence" creates the only safe motor oil under all conditions and at all times operates at the highest obtainable efficiency.

We are now prepared to meet any challenge of competitors. I confidently believe that Conoco Germ-Processed Paraffin Base Motor Oils are superior to any other motor oils made from any crude by any process.

More than twenty thousand outlets are now prepared to offer to the public such a motor oil for the discriminating buyer, and for a technical problem which has always been recognized but not solved until now.

J. J. Moran
President,
CONTINENTAL OIL COMPANY

Here are our Claims for Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil— Check against the oil you are now using

1 Under the Germ patents . . . exclusive to CONOCO for North America . . . there is imparted to CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil an "oiliness" which is responsible for its greater lubricating value, greater film strength, greater penetrativeness, greater adhesiveness, greater tenacity, greater permanence, greater stability, greater stamina and a more nearly perfect compression seal than any other oil on the American market.

Because of this affinity for metal—this actually combining with the metal itself, CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil never leaves the bearings. Where other oils drain out and leave the surface dry, Germ-Processed oil penetrates the metal surfaces, forming a film that adheres for months. This "carry-over" film—this always present film gives ample lubrication to all parts needing it when a cold motor is started, until such time as oil from the crank case can reach them.

2 This remarkable and exclusive feature of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil is reinforced by the fact that these oils are refined from only carefully selected paraffin base crudes by the most modern and scientific methods known to the petroleum technologist. Patented processes are used to remove all objectionable elements, leaving a perfectly balanced, stable product that is 100% lubricating oil. Thousands of tests demonstrate its remarkable resistance to corrosion.

The majority of motor oils never receive this degree of refining. None ever exceed it.

3 Increased gasoline mileage and improved motor performance are realized through the use of this new oil. The exclusive CONOCO Germ Process so adds to the "oiliness" of this lubricant that metal-against-metal friction is eliminated, even in motor starting after all oil ordinarily would have drained from the motor into the crankcase. The perfect sealing qualities of the CONOCO fracture-proof film insures a high compression efficiency that results in greatly increased motor performance. Marked improvements in power, speed, acceleration and flexibility are noticeable.

4 Due to the Germ Process and the select, premium, paraffin base crude stocks used, CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil positively does not break down under the most intense cylinder wall heat. A climb, high speed, heavy load, temperature extremes—none of these strains cause this oil to heat sufficiently to actually burn, break down or evaporate to any appreciable degree. By comparison with many oils on the market, you may confidently expect a saving in oil consumption up to 50%.

5 Automotive engineers agree that 40% to 60% of all motor wear occurs during the starting period. This destructive wear is definitely reduced by the use of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Ordinary oil, thinned by heat and dilution, drains down past the piston rings when the motor is stopped, leaving little or no protecting film. On starting the motor, a considerable time is required for the oil to reach all bearings and working surfaces. Under adverse conditions, such as winter temperatures, this time may be from 15 to 20 minutes or even longer.

Since CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil never leaves the bearings and working surfaces, it is always there under any and all conditions to provide needed lubrication until the normal supply of oil arrives.

6 Unlike other oils dilution does not impair the "oiliness" value of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil.

7 CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil retains its fluidity at sub-zero temperatures. No practical operating conditions in winter will affect its immediate lubricating value at the first touch of the electric starter.

Pondering the Outlook

Here are just a few games that will mean a lot by tomorrow night—one way or another:

Notre Dame-Southern California—Chicago.

Purdue-Iowa—Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh-Carnegie Tech—Pittsburgh.

Cornell-Dartmouth—Hanover.

Vanderbilt-Tennessee—Knoxville.

Notre Dame and Pittsburgh, two of the strongest teams in football, will put their national ranking to hard tests. Purdue will face its hardest barrier to a conference title. Cornell, still unbeaten, steps out against its hardest game to date. Vanderbilt and Tennessee, among the southern leaders, meet in a battle that must eliminate one for both for there is little chance that Tulane will be headed now. Notre Dame has a world of power to face in Southern California, where a big, fast line will work in front of Duffield and Saunders, two big, fast backs. The South Bend delegation will need all the football it can show to win this game for Southern California is coming on to even up the California beating. Pittsburgh has a strong defensive team to face in Carnegie Tech and Judge Steffens will have his men geared for this particular scrap.

Yale and Princeton

A few weeks ago Yale seemed to be headed for a sure and certain win against Princeton. But the team that beat Brown, Army and Dartmouth on three successive Saturday's may find the Tiger an entirely different jungle animal from what he was in earlier games. All the psychology of football is on the Tiger side. He can shoot the works with all to gain and little to lose in the way of prestige.

This will be Princeton's final game and Yale still has a hard Harvard battle to think about. It might also be mentioned that Princeton has been coming along at a much faster clip in the last 10 days, while Yale has had five tough battles in a row—Georgia, Brown, Army, Dartmouth and Maryland—without a resting place along the road. Yale has had much the team so far, especially when Booth was hanging around, but this football situation can change in 20 seconds—and change a lot.

The Psychological Side

Princeton knows it can salvage a lot from the season's wreckage by beating Yale. Yale has looked for a harder game from Harvard than Princeton can show—based upon what Princeton has shown so far. It is hard to switch mental attitudes once the game is under way. If the Tiger can get the jump Saturday he has a great chance. It all gets down to a matter of stopping Booth.

Any man can be stopped, but the Princeton line will have to outplay Yale's forwards to put this trick across. Illinois refused to yield any holes last week and not even a Cagie could send his frame through a massed wall. The western linesmen refused to be drawn away from their assignments. They stuck to the job and let nobody through.

Princeton can be a much weaker team on the season's run than Yale has been and still have a good chance to upset the dope by clicking in the final stand.

The Big Argument

If Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Purdue and California all win their remaining games the argument over national ranking will be terrific. Pittsburgh's supporters are already writing in that Pitt is at least a touchdown or so stronger than Notre Dame. Purdue has put forth one of the best teams in football—a team with a strong line and three star backs.

The argument, as usual, will rage and get nowhere if there are three or four unbeaten teams who have played hard schedules. The type of schedule must be taken into consideration, but you can't make the supporters of an unbeaten, untied team believe their side can be stopped.

The beauty of these arguments is that none of them can be proved. They merely use up a lot of conversation and copy paper. In the meanwhile, it is safer to wait and see what happens in a game that is now almost as uncertain as baseball—where one or two breaks can upset an entire battle in about 12 seconds.

It might also be remarked in connection with Saturday's game that Ed Wittmer is no powder puff. If his line and supporting backs give him a chance he will give Yale a busy afternoon.

Cub Catcher Will Get An Operation Throwing Arm

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, Cub catcher, who was out of action all last season with an injured arm, left tonight for Minneapolis where he will undergo an operation which he hopes will put the member back in condition.

Visits to bone setters and rubbers failed to help Hartnett's arm, and he decided to have a surgical operation, in an effort to get into condition to help the Cubs in their drive for another National league championship next year.

TEXAS U. SCHEDULE

Iowa and Northwestern Added to Texas Baseball Slate

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—Northwestern and Iowa have been added to the University of Texas baseball schedule for next spring, the Hawkeye series to be played here April 16 and 17 and the two Northwestern games to be staged probably April 14 and 15.

Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, director of athletics at the university, said that an attept would be made to schedule Illinois if the Illini should come south next spring. Ettlinger is also considering a trip East for games with Yale, Harvard and Princeton. The trip would be made early in June so that the Dischmen might play before the commencement throngs of the Big Three.

weaken in the final period and succumb to a terrfic driving attack from the ruthless Sandstorm. The sheer power of the overwhelming Amarillo reserve wore down the Westerners and they were compelled to bow to the district leaders to the tune of 7 to 13.

Westerners Crippled

The Westerners will go into action somewhat at a handicap, for their two star backfielders, Smith and Lawson, are just returning to the squad from a spell of illness and cannot be at their best for the Friday game. Indeed, it is doubtful if these boys see very much of the warfare from the inside. They are most unlikely to start the game. However, Price, fast running little end, has been shifted to fill in at one of the backfield posts and is being counted upon to give a most creditable account of himself in this important game.

The park goes there with its full strength. The Coyotes have rounded into their best form only in the last couple of games and are confident of a victory over the Westerners. Coach Holton has tremendously strengthened both his defense and offense. He has also been drilling the team on the famous "Rockne shift" and is expected to pull it on the Westerners.

Two weeks ago against the Vernon Lions the Coyotes played a wonderful game of football. Their tackling and defensive work was magnificient in its effectiveness. Saturday a week ago against the Plainview Bulldogs they looked slowed down and were not the same team that played the Vernonites.

In addition to the scores of business men and downtown football fans signing up for tickets on the football special train to Lubbock which is to leave early Friday morning, a total of 209 persons had bought tickets when school closed Thursday afternoon.

The list of students who are going, as announced by Registrar A. K. Presson, is as follows:

Nocona Indians to Play Iowa Park Practice Game

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Nov. 14.—The Nocona Indians have pulled themselves together after their 20 to 7 defeat at the hands of the Jacksboro team here on Armistice day and will play the Iowa Park eleven here on Friday in a practice game. The Indians have tasted only two defeats during the current season and those to Decatur and Jacksboro.

The game with the Iowa Park team will be only a practice game but is attracting a good deal of interest. Nocona has one of the best lines in the class B of district 4 and Iowa Park will find it a matter of some difficulty to pierce it for any appreciable gains. Four young players who are making a name for themselves on the Nocona team are Zachary, Keck, Carieker and Evans. Also a fine crop of reserve material is presented in Garrison and Hill.

SPORT Loose Ends

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Barring tie games, the muddled up state of affairs in which the Southwest Conference football leaders now find themselves is due for considerable clearing up this week-end. No one team is preponderantly out in front of the rest. S. M. U., Baylor, T. C. U., and Texas are all in the running for the conference championship. Not one of the four has been defeated from within the ranks of the conference elevens. If victories, instead of tie games, is the order of the day on the Southwest front, either Baylor or S. M. U. at Dallas will emerge as an outstanding contender, and either the Frogs or the Longhorns will emerge as an outstanding contender at Austin.

Thus in the aforegoing contingency we are likely to see the field of contenders cut by one-half. At all events it won't be long now until one can lay his finger on the 1929 champions of the Southwest conference.

The battle between the Mustangs and the Bears at Dallas will bring together two of the best lines in the conference, opposing each other. The battle between the Horned Frogs and the Longhorns will bring together probably the two most talked of backfields in the conference. Though, conversely speaking, the Bears and the Mustangs are not lacking in backfield strength, nor are the Frogs and the Steers weak in the forward line.

When the rival lines of Baylor and S. M. U. face each other several potential all-conference nominees will be watched by numerous scribes, and to the most outstanding in this battle of individuals will go the coveted mythical honors. Some critics have it that in Paradeaux and Koch, Baylor has the edge in the center of the line. Though other critics maintain that these two stars have been no more outstanding than Powell, S. M. U. center, and Sanders, S. M. U. guard and 1928 all-conference nominee. All this may or may not be so. The game Saturday should tell the tale.

Down in Austin that Texas university backfield is reputed to have more versatile power than any in the Southwest conference. Their much touted running attack is headed by the mighty Dexter Shelly. And he has an able running mate in Nona Rees. Texas has resorted to a successful aerial attack in only one game—against the Arkansas Razorbacks. A powerful aerial attack is supposed to be the Frog's long shot, but their long shot didn't look so hot against the smarter teams which they have engaged, to wit, Texas A. & M. and Rice. Texas university also is supposed to have the best aerial defense in the conference.

From the aforegoing sketches and analyses it is easily apparent that the schedule for Saturday should be productive of the best football played in the conference so far, and more of it. Not only will the games have far reaching consequences on the title, but they should provide a brand of football good enough and sweet enough to meet the most exacting standards of the fastidious critics and experts and the fans at large.

The Coyote Pack is on brink of a momentous step Friday. They pit their might and main against the Lubbock Westerners in the game that means more to them than any they have yet engaged in this year. Upon the outcome of this game rest the Coyote's chance at the district title. If they can stow away the Westerners in the sack with a creditable performance, they will be in a position to make a most dangerous threat at the honors which Amarillo seems to have cinched.

TEXAS U. HEADS ACT ON REPORT

Faculty Rules on Work for Athletes

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—The University of Texas faculty considered today a motion by Dr. R. A. Law, former chairman of the athletic council, that it disapprove the employment of athletics in the physical training department.

The motion, in which Dr. Law is sustained by Dr. E. R. Sims, another member of the athletic council last year, was considered an outgrowth of the late widespread charges of subsidization of college athletics.

Dr. Law said his motion was not directed at the students who are now on the university's physical training staff, but was intended as a precedent.

Attacking Dr. Law's motion, Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, athletic director, pointed out that only seven athletes were being paid for work done for the physical training department and that their average monthly pay was $11.

Longhorns Put On Finishing Touches For Saturday Bout

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Longhorns spent today putting the finishing touches on the plays which they plan to use for the first time in their joust with the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs here Saturday.

Prospects for fair skies and ideal football weather together with the fact that neither the Steers nor the Toads have been defeated this season indicate a sizeable crowd for the tilt which may play a considerable part in the determination of the conference champion.

It is not at all unlikely that one of the two elevens will have more points scored on it Saturday than have been scored against it all season. No one has yet registered against the Longhorns and the Frogs' opponents have amassed a total of seven points.

Wilson "Bull" Elkins, No. 1 halfback, should be his old self Saturday but the Steers will miss "Dutch" Baumgarten, powerful guard, and Claude Meadows, ill-fated back.

Razorbacks Go Two Hours Scrimmaging, Prepare for Gents

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 14. (AP)—The giant Arkansas Razorback went through a gruelling two-hour scrimmage against Centenary formations today in preparation for their eighth annual homecoming game against the Centenary Gentlemen here Saturday, Coach Thomsen continuing his usual tactics of "no let-up" in the Porker camp.

The Gentlemen are expected Friday morning, and the Razorback field will be turned over to them, the Porkers tapering off on freshmen.

Seven regulars will perform Saturday for their last time on the Razorback field, including Captain Geis Miller and "Dandy Dick" Miller, star half. Five stalwarts of the "one ton wall" will also finish. They are: Shoonover, Moore, Crabaugh, Gardner and Van Sickle.

TRY SIGN RUTH

Colonel Ruppert Off Seeking Ruth's Contract

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert and Edward Grant Barrow, holders of the Yankees' purse strings, departed today for a session at French Lick to prepare for the ordeal of signing Babe Ruth to a new contract. The Babe had just served out a three-year document calling for $70,000 a season.

The colonel, as usual, delegated Comptroller Barrow to do most of the talking, or nodding, but it was gathered that the astute business manager of the Yankees would offer the home run slugger terms for no more than one season, even if they came a bit higher than the figures Ruth would demand in a two-year document.

Ruth has informed friends he will ask $85,000 for one year or $75,000 a season for two years. Negotiations with Ruth, Barrow said, would not be completed until some time in December.

Some of Best Teams in Class B Are Whipped on Armistice Day Program

FLOYDADA, Texas, Nov. 14.—Class B football on the South Plains ran true to form on Armistice day and the dope was upset with the defeat of some of the high school elevens that had not met defeat in the district for a number of years, the victory of other teams that had been considered as underdogs, the reversal of form of some squads that had looked to be sure winners, and the defeat for the first time at the hands of their ancient rivals by other elevens.

Perhaps the most surprising result of the season was the overwhelming defeat of the Slaton Tigers by the Lamesa Tornados. Backed by a thousand loyal fans the Lamesa team could not be stopped and played the Tigers off their feet administering the first defeat that team has suffered in the district for a number of years. Dopesters had placed the Slaton eleven as almost sure winners since the Floydada Whirlwinds had gotten off to such a poor start.

Post's Hopes Blasted

Always producing one of the best elevens on the South Plains and one of the runners-up in the race for district honors each year Post City woke up Tuesday morning realizing that the hopes of a championship had been blasted the day before by the fast stepping Spur eleven. At most interesting battle was staged at Post and one that had unusual color. Gene and Harry Taylor, brothers, are coaches of the Post and Spur elevens respectively and their parents had journeyed to Post to witness the contest, the mother taking the side of one team and the father the other. However, the Spur boys have already been eliminated from the race by a defeat at the hands of the Slaton Tigers.

Ralls' Slate Clean

At Ralls is the only place where the dopesters were lucky. The Jackrabbits won a well deserved victory from Crosbyton and thus kept their slate clean for the season to date. However they are yet to meet the Lockney Longhorns and if successful in beating that eleven must defeat the Lamesa team before winning the district title.

At Floydada 2,000 people witnessed the Lockney Longhorns trample the Floydada Whirlwinds under a score of 34 to 0 and the first loss the Floydada eleven has suffered at the hands of the neighboring boys in 10 years. The visiting eleven clearly demonstrated that they are serious contenders for the title this year and local fans are predicting that the Longhorns will be the champions of the class B teams in this district.

At the present time the only undefeated teams are Lockney, Lamesa, and Ralls. Lockney meets Ralls on Nov. 22, and it is likely that the winning team will play Lamesa for the championship on Thanksgiving. The Lamesa Tornados have won seven games this season.

SAN FRANCISCO.—An instance of real mother love was shown in Judge T. H. Graham's court here recently. The mother of Carol H. Ames paid $200 and promised to pay $200 more in 60 days to clear up the alimony of her son Carol H. Ames. Ames admitted to Judge Graham that he has gone through $40 000, inherited from his first wife, in one year.

HORSES BREAK RACE RECORDS

Three Marks Topple at Downs Thursday

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—Thoroughbreds broke three records in the Thursday races at Arlington downs.

The Worth hotel, five and one-half furlongs event, that shared feature honors with the third race, was captured by Bridge o' the Wind, Mrs. C. H. Allen's chestnut mare.

The third race was a six furlong dash. Old Kickapoo, with Comingore up, stepped the six furlongs to win the race in 1:15, three and one-fifth seconds faster than the record here. The brown gelding, raced by O. L. Foster, Bridgeport horseman, won the race by four lengths. Zacawelsta of the Three D stables, the favorite, finished fourth. Seth's Hope came in second, Sir Raoul third.

Favorite Comes in Third

The favorite in the fifth race, Kukui, came in third. Bocaratone was out in front until the stretch when passed Tommy Land, took the lead but lost in the final strides to Bride o' the Wind, brought up fast by Dyer to win by a neck.

Breaking the meet marks started in the first race when Red Mountain took a long lead in the first half mile and won the five and one-half furlongs by eight lengths. Red Mountain, chestnut colt of the R. C. stables, with R. Ayraud in the pilot house, went by the judges in 1:08 1-5, four-fifths of a second better than the record. Water Lily was second, Little Wood third in a field of four.

15 in Second Race

The second race, five and one-half furlongs, with 15 facing the barrier, produced anothed dope upset when Dodie Leighton, with Hanford up, breeze dhome with the colors of Mrs. R. Pollard, Dallas. Dodie Leighton started well, moved up fast and finished a length and a half ahead of Critic, a favorite that stayed well up all the way. Heartache was third.

Hanky Rice made a desperate challenge in the fourth race, but couldn't overtake Corinne Star. Hanky Rice was third, behind Money's Worth. George Glenn, with Swigert up, won by a nose in the last race. Stone Age, veteran campaigner of G. A. Rogers, ran second and Shasta Monk was next. It was a mile and a furlong.

A "master wireless clock" capable of controlling watches by wireless has been patented in Russia.

Pampa Eleven Wallops The Perryton High Team 18-0

Special to The Record News.

PERRYTON, Texas, Nov. 14.—The Pampa Harvesters, football machine extraordinary in district 1, invaded the home city of the Perryton Rangers to hand them a severe 18 to 0 defeat here Thursday afternoon. A three-inch snow on Wednesday night caused the playing field to be almost a sea of mud and prevented what was expected to be an exceedingly fast game.

Lard and Saulsburry played stellar ball for the visiting eleven and were conspicuous in the running attack of the Harvesters. This contest gave Pampa the upper half championship of the district. Three hundreds fans followed the Harvesters to see the game in Perryton.

"IRON MAN" J. J. McGINNITY PASSES AWAY IN BROOKLYN

GREAT N. YORK GIANT PITCHER

Played the Game Quarter Century Ago

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Baseball's famous "Iron Man," Joseph J. McGinnity, noted for his stellar pitching while a member of the New York Giants of 25 years ago, died today at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn.

He had been critically ill since last August when he underwent an operation for the removal of a tumor. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning with burial in a Brooklyn cemetery.

Crony With McGraw

The seventh of McGraw's 1903 immortals to take his final strikeout, McGinnity was a particular crony of the Giant manager. "It is always hard to witness the passing of one of the old guard," said McGraw. "Joe was a real credit to the game."

McGraw first knew McGinnity in Baltimore, where Joe began in 1899 a major league career which was to last 10 seasons, more than six of which were spent with the Giants. Moving to Brooklyn in 1900 in the merger with the Baltimore team, McGinnity earned the title of "Iron Man," by pitching in six winning games against Pittsburgh in seven days, enabling Brooklyn to win the pennant.

Started in 1901

McGinnity jumped to the newly organized Baltimore Americans in 1901, under the management of McGraw, and with McGraw jumped back to the National league in midseason of 1902, when the little Napoleon took over the Giant management. The Iron Man and Matty pitched the trailers of 1902 into second place in 1903, and with some additional help won McGraw's first pennant in 1904. McGinnity pitched and won three double-headers late in the 1904 campaign.

Player-Manager

The Iron Man's major league days ended after the season in 1908. He next pitched and managed in Newark, and remained active in one minor league or another until just four years ago. As player-manager of Dubuque, Iowa, in the Mississippi Valley league, McGinnity pitched in 20 games in 1925, at the age of 54.

The Iron Man was born at Rock Island, Ill., on March 19, 1871. He spent his boyhood in Springfield and Decatur and Bega playing baseball with the town team of Decatur in 1888 at the age of 17. His first professional engagement was at Montgomery, Ala., in 1893, when he began a career which was to last 32 years. McGinnity made his home in McAlester, Okla., during most of his active career.

In McAlester he married Margaret Redpath. To them one daughter was born, Mrs. Marguerite Lappen of Brooklyn, with whom the former pitcher had made his home for the last two years.

Producers Creamery Bowlers Take Three In Row Off Huff Co.

The Producers Creamery company bowlers took three straight games from the Huff Insurance Thursday night at the Spudder bowling alleys. Cinderella Boot Shop and Hub Clothing took two out of three from the Oriental Cafe and Ludlam-Riggs, respectively.

What was expected to be an exciting and well played match between the Hub Clothing and Ludlam-Riggs on Thursday night turned out to be a very drab and poorly played match. The bowlers were badly off form and turned in unworthy scores.

Risen of Hub Clothing was high three games with an aggregate of 566, and also high single man with a total of 226.

Notre Dame's Ends Rated Among Best

Most of the talk about Notre Dame concerns its backfield. But when it comes to effective duty on the field Knute Rockne's two ends—Vezie and Colrick—stand out among the best in the country.

Coach Morrison Has New Mustang Backfield Combination for Baylor

DALLAS, Nov. 14. (AP)—With Bob Gilbert at the quarterback post, Mason and Kattman at halves and Hopper at fullback, Coach Ray Morrison believes he has at last hit upon his strongest backfield combination to send against the Baylor Bears here Saturday.

The Mustang mentor has been using the quartet in practice all week and they are working like a machine. It is possible that Davidson will start in place of Mason, but "Speedy" is expected to get in the game before it is many minutes old.

Triple Threat Man

Addition of Gilbert to the Ponies' regular backfield puts three triple-threaters behind the line. All but Hopper can run, pass and kick. The burly fullback is counted upon chiefly in a defensive role. Kattman is being groomed to do the punting, while Mason and Gilbert will divide passing duties. Both are accurate tossers. Gilbert, out most of the season with weak ankles, came into his own against the Aggics last week, when he was one of the game's outstanding stars.

Morrison will start his regular line, with Long and Koontz at ends, Skeeters and Hammon tackles, Sanders and Neely guards, and Powell center. Saufley might take Koontz' place at end, but it is probable he will be held out as a possible substitute for Powell at center. Powell has not recovered completely from injuries received against Texas. Hammon, whose nose was broken in the Longhorn fray, has removed the guard worn over the member for two weeks and is in top shape again.

The Mustangs are taking Saturday's game seriously. That they remember last year's 2 to 0 defeat by Baylor is seen in the placards posted thickly about the campus: "Even that score with the Bears." The Ponies consider the Bruins their main obstacle to a conference championship.

Today's scrimmage was the last in which the Mustangs will engage. A light signal drill tomorrow, in which Gilbert will run the team through the plays to be used against Baylor, will top off training for the bout.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Nov. 14.—Total ginnings for Wheeler county have reached the 11,000 mark, it was announced here today by cotton men. The total for Shamrock to date is about 8,254 bales, approximately 2,800 bales less than last year's ginnings. Cotton men estimate the crop is about one-third picked.

LIONS ABOUND ON RIO GRANDE

Big Game Hunters Offered Sport Near Home

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 14. (AP)—American hunters in quest of big game need no longer journey to faraway Africa to get their "quota" of lions, for the "king of the jungle" abounds on the Mexican border.

In addition to several mountain lions killed during the past few years on the Gates ranch of Webb county, now comes one killed on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande by two Mexican hunters.

Juan J. Urtesga and Adan Campos of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, recently decided to take their annual hunt in the mountainous country between Nuevo Laredo and Monterey. They had gone about 20 miles south of Nuevo Laredo when they left their car on the side of the highway and walked toward a dense chaparral. A short distance away a big Mexican mountain lion stalked out of the brush. Both fired bullets into the animal and killed him instantly. The lion was brought to Nuevo Laredo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (UP)—Cotton consumed in mills in the United States during October amounted to 640,796 running bales, as compared with 545,649 bales in September and 612,238 in October, 1928, it was reported today by the census bureau of the department of commerce.

Linters consumed in October were 82,747 against 82,022 in September and 78,827 in October, 1928.

The population of the earth is said to double itself every 250 years.

PRINCETON SET FOR YALE TEAM

Traditional Game Will Be In Connecticut

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Tail lashing, eyes cruelly agleam, sorely wounded, the Princeton Tiger stalked from his lair tonight along the trail of the Yale Bulldog.

It really isn't as bad as all that, but the Tiger football team, beaten and trampled by comparatively inferior elevens this year, certainly is in a fighting mood for the annual game in Yale bowl on Saturday.

Princeton teams have come up with that same spirit many times in the history of this most famous of football rivalries, and many a Yale team has paid the penalty of overconfidence.

Captain Firpo Greene and his mates have fought gloriously as under-dogs themselves twice already this season, beating Army and Dartmouth. They will need a new kind of confidence to keep the tantrumed Tiger down on Saturday.

Individual Stars

Each team is built around an individual star, but Yale has the better replacements. Princeton's hopes are pinned to the broad shoulders of Eddie Wittmer, who never yet has left a Yale game without scoring a touchdown against the foemen in blue.

In 1927, Wittmer scored after receiving an underhand, behind-the-line pass. In 1928, he plunged for the first and decisive touchdown on Princeton's 12 to 2 victory over Yale.

It may be that Wittmer, kid brother of another famous Princeton athlete, will join the long line of Tiger heroes which goes back to the days of Arthur Poe and his famous toe.

Poe is now at sea, headed for New York, hopeful of landing Saturday in time to reach New Haven and see the Yale-Princeton game. Thirty-one years ago, it was Poe who snatched the ball from an Eli player's hands and sprinted the length of the field to win for Princeton. The following year, in 1899, Poe's drop kick from the 35-yard line beat Yale, 11 to 10, with but half a minute left to play.

All the heroes of Yale-Princeton games haven't been Tigers, by a long shot. But somehow, it has happened frequently when the Nassau contingent has gone into the game as under-dog, some individual in orange and black has popped up most unexpectedly or heroically to turn the tide against Yale.

"False to Ethics of Sportsmanship"

Co-Author of "Bulletin 23" Writes

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Young men who accept financial aid in return for services as college athletes are "false to the ethics of sportsmanship," declared Dr. Howard J. Savage, co-author of the Carnegie foundation's recent sensational report on recruiting and subsidising, in an article in the current issue of "sportsmanship."

College coaches and directors who induce them to do so are charged with "teaching young men dishonesty."

"For the abuses of recruiting and subsidising which beset our college and school athletics the code of the sportsmanship brotherhood," Doctor Savage says, "suggests a powerful antidote: 'Keep faith with your comrade.'

"This maxim, if honestly followed by athletes, coaches and directors and the friends of school and college sport, in a comparatively short time would entirely change the complexion of athletics.

"The notion that 'others get away with it; I can' makes matters much worse.

"No true friend of American sport and sportsmanship can be easy in his mind when he reflects that, the country over, one college athlete in seven is probably subsidized."

REAGAN TEAM PLAYS LAWTON

Local Youngsters Primed For Bout

The Reagan Junior high school boys will engage the flashy little Lawton, Okla., Junior high school outfit here at Wilson field Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Lawton junior boys come here with a better reputation than any team with which the Reagan juniors have yet met. The young Oklahomans have not lost a game this year and have defeated practically every Junior high school eleven of note in southern Oklahoma.

Coach Beck's Reagan eleven has suffered defeats during the season but not until after a bitter struggle. Last Saturday against the Denton Junior high school eleven they fought to a standstill on a muddy field the visiting team.

The Reagan boys are preparing for their bitterest rival when they tackle the Zundy Junior high eleven. All the other games are as nothing when compared with the rivalry that exists between the two local outfits.

Reagan will be without its star ball carrier Friday against the Lawton outfit. Captain Cossey will view the game from the sidelines, on account of scholastic ineligibility. Also the local youngsters will not have the services of A. G. Fletcher, another flashy young Wichitan.

PITT IN CAL.

Panthers Will Accept Bid If They Hold Clean Slate

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14. (UP)—Pittsburgh will accept an invitation to meet a Pacific coast team in the annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses football game, if they complete their season without a defeat, W. Don Harrison, graduate manager of athletics, declared today. "If we receive an invitation, I know that the faculty will not raise any objection," Harrison said.

Charges of Burglary Filed in Brass Theft

Charges of burglary were filed Thursday afternoon against Frank Yates and H. L. Womack in connection with the alleged theft of about 250 pounds of new brass from the warehouse of the Reid and Costley company at 1907 Burnett street Monday night, according to information given by Sam B. Spence, district attorney.

The men were arrested Thursday morning by City Detectives Pat Allen and Luke Hart. The brass, which consisted of 100 brass rods and 12 brass threshholds valued at about $50, was recovered Wednesday at a local junk company, the officers said.

MEMPHIS GETS FORFEIT GAME

Big Crowd Sees Cyclone Take Game, 13-0

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 14.—Scoring 13 points in the first quarter and at no time allowing its opponents within their 20-yard line, the Memphis Cyclone, before a crowd estimated at 1,500 become champions of second "D" when they defeated the Bronchos of Clarendon High school to the tune of 13 to 0 here this afternoon. Within eight minutes of the close of the game, the Clarendon Bronchos forfeited the game to Memphis making the final score read 2 to 0.

A blinding snowstorm began just before the half, and the two teams battled on through the snow and cold, and forced the spectators to watch a hot football game in a somewhat frigid manner.

Cyclone Is Superior

The game opened with the Cyclone taking command and throughout the game they looked far superior to the team that had played Clarendon to a 6-6 tie just a few weeks ago. The punting of Dillard, Clarendon quarter, was the feature of the game. His long punts one of which sailed 74 yards, played a large part in the defense work of the Bronchos.

Fast First Count

The first touchdown of the Cyclone came within three minutes after the game started. After Memphis kicked off to Clarendon at the opening of the game, the Bronchos found themselves up against some stiff opposition and were forced to punt. Memphis received the ball and started a steady drive down the field, the exceptional work of Hammonds playing a large part in placing the ball within scoring distance. With the ball on the one-foot line the Bronchos line held like a brick wall for two downs but on the third try Walker went over for the first touchdown. Bob Phillips scored the second touchdown, and Kunkler kicked the extra point. The outstanding players for Memphis were Hammond, Walker and Massey. The Cyclone next opposition toward district honors will be with Perryton or Pampa in a bi-sectional combat which may be played next week.

33,000 TURKEYS SHIPPED HERE

Prices Drop One Cent as Market Closes

Approximately 33,000 turkeys are being delivered by Wichita Falls packers to the eastern Thanksgiving market, 21,000 from this city and about 12,000 from branch plants in Grandfield, Memphis, Nocona, and Crowell, as a result of the past five days' activities, it was reported Thursday.

Dressing of turkeys bought this week was completed Thursday night at the Peoples Produce company's plant, while at Armour creameries it was said that dressing and packing of the No. 1 stock on hand for shipment to the East could not be completed before Friday night.

The Peoples Produce pack will total about five cars, and that from the Armour plant approximately nine carloads, it was said. Both these concerns have a considerable number of turkeys left on hand, and stated that small lots will be purchased at the plants during the coming 10 days for local markets.

Any additional shipments to distant points in this country will have to be sent by express, it was said, and it was predicted that few such shipments will be made. One cent was sliced from prevailing prices to take effect Friday morning, making No. 1 birds list at 17 cents, old toms at 12, and No. 2 grades at 7 cents.

Cotton ginnings for Thursday boosted Wichita county's total for the 1929 harvest beyond the 17,000 mark, the day's reports showing 130 bales turned out by the 13 gins still operation. Prices remained unchanged, ranging from 13.50 to 17.50 cents per pound on middling cotton.

PROSPECTS OF PEANUT CROP IMPROVE

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14.—Peanut crop prospects are believed considerably improved over North and Northwest Texas following the cold dry winds over that section during the last two days, Fort Worth buyers agreed Thursday night after checking up prevailing conditions. Continued dry weather is necessary to the proper growth of the nuts which otherwise will be prematurely developed, consequently failing to command favorable prices. It will be at least a week, however, before harvesting of any degree will get under way even with favorable weather.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Rather larger domestic consumption figures for October than anticipated together with reports of smaller spot offerings in the South and the better showing of the stock market, seemed responsible for advances in cotton here today. January contracts sold up to 17.34 or 20 points net higher and 58 points below the low level of yesterday morning and closed at 17.25. The general market closed steady at net advances of 7 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 7 points to decline of 1 point. There was some selling on the failure of Liverpool to fully meet the local advance of late yesterday, but it was readily absorbed by trade buying and cover. The latter was promoted by the firmer opening of the stock market and active months soon showed net gains of 8 to 15 points.

The census report showed domestic consumption at 646,798 bales for October compared with 616,238 last year.

Offerings were absorbed on moderate setbacks, however, and the market soon firmed.

December advanced to 17.20 while March sold up to 17.62 making net advances of about 20 to 21 points and recoveries of over half a cent from the low prices of Thursday morning. The advance was checked by realizing at those figures and later fluctuations were more or less irregular with last prices showing reactions of some 9 or 10 points from the best.

Some of the local spot people said that the attitude of the federal farm board with reference to loans to cooperative marketing association was having an effect in the South and that there was less cotton offering for sale in the immediate market.

Exports today, 38,582; making 2,721,639 so far this season. Port receipts 46,221. U. S. port stocks 2,486,854.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Record breaking October consumption figures together with firmness in stocks served to support cotton prices today and although considerable realizing developed final quotations showed gains of over 50 cents a bale. January contracts after advancing to 17.28 eased and closed at 17.16 or 12 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 11 to 13 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than expected but the local market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 5 points. The census bureau's consumption figures for October of 640,728 bales was the largest for that month on record and stimulated a good demand after the start. By the end of the first hour active positions showed gains of 16 to 18 points.

At noon December sold at 17.13 and March 17.55, or 23 to 24 points above yesterday's close.

The higher prices attracted realizing and hedge selling, and there was more or less liquidation of the December in advance of the first notice day a week off. Under pressure of the offerings values receded 6 to 7 points but the market rallied again and December made a new high at 17.14.

Towards the close renewed profit-taking was encountered and December closed at 17.03 and March 17.43, or 12 to 13 points net higher.

Bullish Factors Cause Steady Recovery of Stock Market Values

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (US)—Combination of bullish factors caused steady recovery in the stock market today. Secretary Mellon's comment on tax reduction proposal and its significance as to the business outlook was the most inspiring feature. Its influence was enhanced by bullish utterances from business leaders, Rockefeller buying of stocks, expectation of favorable showing in the reserve statements and indications that at least one well-known magnate was ready to leave the short side alone. Steel finished 8½ points higher, while Anaconda gained 5½, Johns Manville 10, American Smelting 7, American Telephone 10¼, Westinghouse 14½, American Can 16½, New York Central 9, Woolworth 8⅜, Alleghany Corporation 5, and Union Pacific 13⅞. Total turnover dropped to 5,500,000 shares with the tape close to an hour late at the close. The call rate was held at 6 per cent although an abundance of funds were available.

There is a wide difference of opinion among brokers as to the extent of influence of bearish pressure on the market during the cataclysm. There is information from quarters, usually most reliable, that indicates that at least one internationally known business magnate made an enormous fortune on the stock. Those operators most mentioned in rumors, one from Boston and the other from Long Island, undoubtedly were short at the beginning of the break but neither has sufficient power to be of any material influence on the market. The questionnaire of the stock exchange which will reveal short positions as of Tuesday undoubtedly was aimed to force short covering. Its effect was influenced by the flood of good news that came on its heels and also by the fact that knowledge thereof was kept concealed until a few minutes before Wednesday's close.

From the West comes information that the powerful Chicago and Detroit interests who were among the outstanding individuals of the "Big Ten" of the Coolidge bull market, have been quietly buying stocks for the last few days. Among the stocks mentioned are Johns Manville, Carbide, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Freight, Steel and Can. These groups are very experienced in stock market activity and they do not expect any sensational upward move to follow immediately on the heels of such a disturbance as experienced. They buy for the long pull but at the same time are trading constantly against such position.

One of the most important developments tending to change sentiment in the street passed practically unnoticed. It was the meeting of industrial magnates which was reported to have been held in the office of Owen D. Young on Wednesday. After that meeting Mr. Young was quoted as declaring "it is foolish to throw stocks over" but he made no official admission that such a session had taken place. The meeting was the second in the past fortnight. The first was told of here over a week ago. It consisted of important railroad magnates and unofficial agreement was reached that all equipment possible be purchased in effort to sustain activity of general business. It is believed that similar agreement was reached at the session of the industrial leaders.

Reduction in the rediscount rate to 4½ per cent is no surprise. It is hoped it will stimulate business recovery, particularly building. Drop of $710,000,000 in loans was about as forecast here and fulfills expectation of leading banking and brokerage interests. It makes total reduction of $2,462,000,000 in the three weeks of liquidation. That the market and country could stand the shock of such a tremendous correction is the most bullish development of the moment. Loans now are $809,000,000 below the level of a year ago when the reserve board was "warning" and the effect of the warnings was lost in the bullish utterances immediately thereafter from many other important quarters.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Black rust increasing in Argentina did much to send wheat values higher here today and to emphasize stimulating effects of sweeping exchange rallies. Estimates were current that the 1929 Argentine wheat acreage soon to be harvested amounts to 20 per cent less than last year. Largely as a result, maximum advances of 5⅛c a bushel were scored by the Chicago wheat market today, as compared with yesterday's bottom figures.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1¼@1½c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅜@⅝c up, and oats ⅛@¼c to ⅜c advance, with provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 22c.

Corn and oats proved responsible not only to wheat market strength but were affected also by corn belt weather likely to hinder prompt movement of the new corn crop.

For the most part, provisions were higher, reflecting upturns both in hog values and in grain.

Congressmen Generally Favor Plan To Reduce Taxes for Next Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—Congressional leaders spoke quickly today to voice approval of the treasury proposal for a ..160,000,000 tax cut and simultaneously Secretary Mellon said announcement of the contemplated reduction had been decided upon a week ago and was merely a coincidence with the disturbed condition in the stock market.

Mellon coupled this statement with an expression that he had the utmost confidence in the continued prosperity in the country and that before the tax reduction was decided upon all elements entering into government income had been considered thoroughly.

Bills Planned

At the capitol leaders of both houses prepared to move swiftly to draft legislation to carry out the proposed reduction and today it was their intention to offer the necessary resolution early in the December session.

Mellon, in duscussing the situation, said losses in the stock market, which might tend to reduce income of those who had suffered in the market, had been given thorough consideration and it was the decision of treasury experts that the continued prosperity of the country justified a tax reduction at this time.

Congressional leaders said it was their intention to carry out the proposed reduction by means of a resolution rather than by a bill looking to any widespread revisions of the revenue law. This, they added, was because the proposed cut would apply on 1929 incomes on which taxes are to be paid next year, beginning March 15.

Tentative Approval

Congressional leaders in charge of revenue legislation gave their tentative approval to the reduction proposal at conference with Secretary Mellon late yesterday.

Speaking for the senate Democrats, Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Harrison of Mississippi announced their approval would have to be tentative, until they had conferred with colleagues. These conferences were in progress today.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee looked with full approval upon the tax slice. He cautioned, however, that it should be made to apply only to the one year, after which it would be possible to determine more accurately the regular annual income of the government. Then, he said, a general downward revision might be undertaken. The tax plan provides the following reductions:

First $4,000 taxable income, present 1½ per cent, proposed, ½ per cent; $4,000 to $8,000, present, 3 per cent, proposed, 2 per cent; $8,000 and over, present 5 per cent, proposed, 4 per cent.

Corporation tax rate, present, 12 per cent, proposed 11 per cent.

BOMB STORY IS EXPLAINED

Death Bed Confession for Sake of Conscience

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (INS)—Lew Smith, the man who is said to have confessed throwing a bomb into the San Francisco preparedness parade in 1916, for which Thomas Mooney is in prison, confessed on his deathbed to free his conscience.

This is the explanation of Frank O. Stevens, president of the National Soldiers home at Dayton, Ohio, who reopened the famous Mooney case by writing to Senator Thomas Schall, Republican, of Minnesota, of the reported confession.

Stevens explained in his letter how he went to the home of Mrs. Dora E. Monroe, Smith's sister, and got an affidavit to corroborate his story of the confession.

Stevens Quoted

"I suppose by this time that you have come to the conclusion that you have heard from one man relative to the Mooney case that is on the level and not looking for notoriety or money," said Stevens in his letter.

"After Lew Smith told me that Tom Mooney was not doing his own time I kept my eyes and ears open. After I found out from Mrs. Monroe that her brother, Lewis Smith, had told her that it was he that did the bombing it has taken me seven years to get her to come across to the public with her affidavit. After I got her promise that she would come across I wrote to you. I wanted to get it just as soon as I could.

"This Lew Smith was no crazy man like some are that run into a police station shouting that they had killed a dozen people or more, and then when it is investigated, found out to have come from someone full of dope or insane.

Confided in Sister

"He told his sister, Dora E. Monroe, because he couldn't hold in his own secret any longer. He had to tell it to relieve his conscience. He had got away with the crime so easy that it weighed on his mind so heavily he had to tell it to some one, and his sister, Dora Monroe, being a few years older than he and has been so motherly to him in his childhood days and also in after years in manhood days. After he got to going wrong or bad it is natural that if he had a secret to tell she would be the one and only person he would confide in.

"Mrs. Monroe never saw Tom Mooney, neither did I. And as far as I am concerned I don't care if I never see him. But if the man is innocent I want to see him restored to liberty. And I believe Lew Smith told his sister, Dora Monroe, the truth."

Bomb Found Hidden Under Deserted Stage

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 14. (UP)—Previously believed to be a harmless movie "prop" bomb, a machine found last Monday night under a deserted stage at the old Metro studios was disclosed today as an instrument capable of bringing death and injury to hundreds of persons had it exploded.

Sixteen sticks of dynamite were packed into the steel casing which was 16 inches long and four inches in diameter. Two hundred ball bearings also were packed in such a manner that they would fly like shrapnel when the machine was touched off by an electrical detonation device.

The disclosure started a police search for the person who hid the bomb.

Poll Tax Defaulters Sought by Raiders

DURBAN, Natal, Nov. 14. (AP)—Durban police officers, accompanied by a special detachment armed with tear gas bombs and gas masks, today raided the native compounds in search of poll tax defaulters.

More than 6,000 natives were examined and 600 were arrested. It was not necessary to use force beyond the display of arms and use of one gas bomb with immediate effect one one group of defiant natives.

Durban has been the center of trouble between the British, natal government and the native element which has objected strongly to imposition of certain taxes, laws prohibiting illicit brewing and other legislation.

CHEST DRIVE ENDS SATURDAY

Final "Feather Day" to Seek Additional Funds

Winding up the community cheat campaign with a flourish, A. E. Kelly, campaign director, announced Thursday that he would call together several hundred workers from downtown offices, the business and professional women's organizations and the Girl Reserves in a second "Feather Day" on downtown streets Saturday.

Feather will be given each contributor much in the same manner as are tags on "Tag Day." Through this medium, it is hoped to put the total over $60,000, and the other $10,000 asked in the city's quota will be taken care of through underwriting the sum by several firms.

Letters asking prominent business men and organizations of the city to underwrite a certain amount have been prepared and are being signed. Twelve have already signified that they would underwrite the amount asked, according to Mr. Kelly.

All campaigners who have not turned in their cards and money solicited must do so by Saturday afternoon, so that the final total may be finished Saturday night.

Woman Gets Hearing On Extortion Case

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (UP)—Olga N. Edwards, 34, will have a hearing tomorrow on a charge of extortion, brought by Nathan L. Amster, chairman of the stockholders protective committee of the Manhattan Railway company.

Miss Edwards specifically is charged with extorting $500 from Amster, but she also is accused of obtaining $170,000 from him over a seven-year period by telling him he was the father of her son, Lea, and threatening to take the matter up with Amster's family. Amster denied parentage of the child.

Miss Edwards was arrested at the home of a friend of Amster, where she called to collect money. She was given $500 in marked bills, and detectives concealed in the room arrested her.

Plainview Painter Out With Facts

Orgatone Proves to Be the Right Medicine After Three Years' Illness

"Nothing has ever helped me, very much, for my stomach disorders, until I got Orgatone," said W. W. Thompson of 1008 Baltimore street, Plainview, Texas. Mr. Thompson has been a painter for the past twenty-two years and is very well known and has many friends here.

"At first, that was about three years ago, I began losing my appetite and noticed gas forming on my stomach. From that time on I have suffered terribly from a chronic case of stomach trouble. What little I did eat soured on my stomach and the gas that formed caused me to be in misery for several hours afterwards. I was very nervous and restless and couldn't sleep at night. I had headaches and my general condition kept getting worse and I needed something to build me up.

"Orgatone was so highly advertised I decided to try it; it has helped me more than anything else I have ever taken. I have a splendid appetite and eat anything I want and am no longer bothered with stomach or indigestion trouble. Gas does not form on my stomach any longer and in fact, I just feel a lot better. I am glad to recommend Orgatone for it has saved me a lot of suffering and money."

FEATHERSTON RETURNS FROM VALLEY TRIP

C. H. Featherston returned Thursday from South Texas, where he visited his fruit farm at Harlingen, one of the rapidly growing valley towns.

Mr. Featherston reported that an excellent crop of grapefruit and oranges is now being harvested on his farm there. During his visit, he went on a short hunting trip into old Mexico.

On the return trip, Mr. Featherston stopped at Menard, Texas, where he purchased several carloads of cattle for shipment to his ranch near Floydada.

Wichita Trucks Parade Through Business Area

Equipped with huge concrete mixers which were brilliant in a candy-stripe paint design of bright yellow and red, five 3½-ton Wichita trucks from the Wichita motor-truck factory attracted considerable attention in the business district here Thursday afternoon when they were brought downtown for delivery to the Peniman Gravel and Material company of Dallas.

The concrete mixer, which is on the standard truck frame behind the driver's seat, is constructed for operation by power supplied by the truck's motor. It is built to hoist, mix, and dump the materials, as well as to wash out the mixing chamber between batches of concrete. The trucks are dual-tired in the rear. They will be taken to Dallas early Friday morning, it was said.

TURKEYS FLOCK TO FLOYDADA

75,000 Pounds Already Sold On Market

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Nov. 14.—With less than two weeks of the turkey season passed and the Christmas market yet to be opened Floyd county farmers near Floydada have already realized approximately $15,000 from the sale of their turkeys. Three firms in Floydada have been kept busy the past 10 days weighing, dressing and preparing the birds for market and estimate that to date there has been 75,000 pounds of turkeys sold on the local market.

Although the Floydade firms represent a large section of this district there are thousands of pounds of turkeys being marketed in Lockney, South Plains, Sterley and Dougherty. It is estimated that the county has already marketed more than 100,000 pounds and with a fair market during the Christmas holidays the total should pass the 200,000 pound mark.

One firm in Floydada has employed 50 pickers and are preparing the turkeys for market as they are brought in. A number of substations have been established in neighboring towns and communities and this city is a concentration point for the birds from all these places.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 14. (UP)—Two federal customs agents were suspended from duty today pending investigation of the death of Ernest Sabrey, 27, Brasher Falls iron foundry worker, who died in Potsdam hospital today of a bullet wound in the head.

Inspectors H. H. Whitman and E. F. Watrous reported to John C. Tulloch, chief of the border patrol, that they had fired on Sabrey when he refused to halt at their summons.

No charge was placed against either of the officers.

JURY AWARDS COUPLE $35,000

Crash Victim Upheld in Damage Claim

A formal motion to set aside the verdict was made before Judge W. W. Cook Thursday afternoon immediately after a jury in the 78th district court had awarded $35,000 damages to Mr. and Mrs. John Maunders in their suit against Russell Morgan and the Trinity Portland Cement company growing out of an automobile crash last Jan. 22 in which Mrs. Maunders is alleged to have suffered permanent injuries.

The plaintiffs' original claim was for $40,000. The case was given to the jury Wednesday afternoon on about 40 special issues, in answer to which the jury found that the driver of the cement company machine which figured in the collision was negligent. The trial which ended Thursday was the second in the suit, the first having been declared a mistrial. Luther Hoffman of Wichita Falls and D. A. Frank of Dallas, attorneys for the defendants, filed the motion to set aside the verdict. The motion for judgment will come up Nov. 23 and in the meantime, defense attorneys are preparing a motion for a new trial, Mr. Hoffman said.

Texas Bank Deposits Gain

Only Two States in South Show Increase

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP)—Texas was one of the two southern states whose bank savings deposits did not show the decline reflected in the country as a whole, the American Bankers' association's current annual report shows. The Texas total was an increase of about $5,500,000 over the year before. A boost in the Arkansas figure also was seen.

For the first time in 20 years that the association has issued the resume, the nation suffered a sharp drop under the year before. On June 29, the association announced, the total savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States stood at $28,217,656,000 or $195,305,000 below the total for 1927.

"Although Texas and Arkansas each showed a gain in deposits," the statement continued, "they lost in the number of depositors, Texas losing in excess of 32,000 and Arkansas slightly more than 3,500."

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.
