Eisenhower Reported As 'In Good Spirits'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported "alert and in good spirits" today in Walter Reed Hospital where he suffered his fifth heart attack Saturday night.

"Gen. Eisenhower has been comfortable for the past 24 hours and his vital signs have remained stable," the hospital said in a 10 a.m. EDT medical bulletin.

"There has been no further recurrence of pain since the initial episode the night of June 15.

"No signs of heart failure have appeared. He has remained alert and in good spirits. Mrs. Eisenhower has visited with him frequently.

"His son, John, and the general's brothers have been kept fully informed of his condition. John Eisenhower expects to visit with him some time this week."

The 77-year-old five-star general suffered a coronary at about 9 p.m. EDT Saturday at the hospital, where he had been recuperating from a heart seizure April 29 in Indian Wells, Calif.

In its last previous statement on Eisenhower's condition, the hospital said he was recovering satisfactorily from the April heart attack, and soon could go to his home in Gettysburg, Pa., but the Sunday bulletin said: "In view of this development, the previous tentative plans for

3 Children Are Drowned

BELTON, Tex. (UPI) — Despite efforts by two soldiers recently returned from Vietnam, three children from a picnicking family drowned at Lake Belton Sunday when they waded into water over their heads.

Spec. 4 Ronald Harris of Tulsa, Okla., and Pfc. Larry Hornback of Fairborn, Ohio, said they noticed one of the children seemed to be staying under the water too long.

They and other lake visitors pulled the bodies of 8-year-old Jacinto Garza, 9-year-old Frances Garza and Jacinto's twin brother Jesse, all of Temple, from the water.

A fourth member of the family, 12-year-old Nicodemus Garza, was saved when he hung onto a tree hanging over the lake.

Legislators Discussing Bill On Liquor-By-Drink

By ROLAND LINDSEY
AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas legislators began debating a liquor by the drink bill today, but a flood of amendments dimmed the prospects of a vote on the measure before Tuesday.

More than 50 amendments, including several attempts at deleting liquor by the drink from the combination little bottle-liquor reform bill, will be offered from the House floor. However, the measure is expected to pass the House by a slight margin when the floor fight ends.

Rep. Cletus Davis of Houston, one of the sponsors of the liquor by the drink proposal, told House members today the bill is a "major liquor reform measure, and it is an answer to the people who voted for liquor by the drink in the May 4 referendum."

'Pile Of Junk' Entered In Exhibition

COVENTRY, England (UPI) — The eight-foot pile of fused and twisted metal sat in the Coventry Cathedral modern sculpture exhibition.

Including an automobile engine, a girder and some metal rods, it was sandwiched between two futuristic pieces by Dame Barbara Hepworth and Henry Moore and drew comments both laudatory and detracting.

"Very interesting," said an art critic.

"Mmm, angular lines. Daring," said a solemn gentleman in a bowler hat.

"But it's not in my book," an American tourist disagreed.

An exhibition official who came upon the scene disagreed too. He called the exhibit "rubbish" and started an investigation.

Twenty metallurgy students at nearby Lanchester College of Technology confessed.

"We saw the exhibits being put up," said one, "and figured we could do as well ourselves. So we welded all this scrap metal together and..."

No action was contemplated against the students, exhibition officials said.

Pampan Dies In Accident

Edward Collins, 333 S. Finley, was killed Sunday morning in a one car accident east of Okemah, Okla., on Interstate 40. His son, Mark Collins, Jr., was injured when the car swerved and fell into a ravine beside the highway.

Funeral services are pending at Webb Funeral Home in Okemah.

The younger Collins was listed in fair condition today in Okemah Memorial Hospital in Okemah.

According to the Oklahoma Highway Patrol, Mark Collins was driving and apparently went to sleep at the wheel. The accident apparently happened about 5 a.m. Sunday and the car was discovered by passing motorists. The two were en route to Arkansas.

Other survivors include his wife, Gladys, of Pampa.

INJURY NOT SERIOUS

BORDEAUX, France (UPI) — Willard "Mitt" Romney, son of Gov. George Romney of Michigan, suffered slight injuries Sunday in a two-car collision that killed the wife of the president of the Mormon Mission to France.

Rain, Hail Pelt Sections Of The Panhandle; Only Light Rain Here

Rain and hail accompanied by high winds pelted sections of the Panhandle yesterday, causing the death of one man, but Pampa officially received only .03 inch of moisture.

John Bean, a 52-year-old Silverton man, was struck and killed by lightning yesterday afternoon as he fished at Lake Theo, three miles north of Quilake.

Panhandle received 1.65 inches of rain in a 40-minute storm beginning about 4:20 p.m. Sunday. Pampa received .03 inch of rain and 70-mile-an-hour winds struck the town, knocking down electric wires and causing damage to wheat crops.

Residents of the town took themselves to cellars as the storm approached from the northeast. The wind and hail damaged wheat crops north and east of the town and struck branches and leaves off trees in the town.

Some businesses and homes were flooded as the sewer lines and gutters overflowed from the downpour. Some areas of town were without electricity for about two hours.

Director Of DPS Sees 'Awakening'

DALLAS (UPI) — The acting director of the Department of Public Safety said today people are awakening from "complacency and lack of respect for law in our country."

Col. Wilson E. Speir told the Texas Police Association signs of the changing attitudes are apparent in Texas. He said people now favor attacking the root causes of crimes, as well as giving stiffer penalties to law violators.

"I for one take issue with the statement that America is sick," Speir said.

"It may have some growing pains, and it will have some more. And it may have been dozing in recent years, but be assured, it will wake up. It will wake up to the fact that rising crime must be dealt with, that looting is robbery, that burning is arson—that there is no place in our scheme of things for violence."

Speir said that although Texas has avoided "tragic incidents of lawlessness that have occurred elsewhere in our country."

General Cites Reds' 'Escalation' Of War

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI) — American jets shot down seven Communist helicopters being used in South Vietnam and the border Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) for the first time in the war, military spokesmen said today.

Never before had North Vietnam sent its Russian-built helicopters south of the border in a challenge to total American air superiority.

The crushing of the helicopters came as U.S. jets Sunday struck North Vietnam's southern panhandle in 12 bombing missions, their greatest raid in eight weeks, and as U.S. marines killed at least 226 North Vietnamese on the northern frontier.

Hanoi Radio said two U.S. planes were shot down by anti-aircraft fire Sunday and one on Saturday. U.S. spokesmen reported no losses. They said Communist MIGs were spotted but that there were no dogfights.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of South Vietnam forces in the five provinces just below the DMZ, said such Communist use of the helicopters in combat for the first time marks an escalation of the war.

Lam told newsmen two of the helicopters were shot down on the south side of the Ben Hai River which divides the six-mile-wide DMZ between North and South.

The U.S. radar tracking station at the Marine base at Don Ha, seven miles south of the DMZ, traced the first cluster of North Vietnamese choppers early Sunday. American fighter-bombers intercepted the helicopters and shot down three of them.

Another group of the helicopters crossed into the buffer zone Sunday night. Four of these helicopters were shot down.

All the helicopters were said to have been Soviet-made Mi4s, a single rotor model called the "Hound" by the allies. Earlier they had been spotted only on the ground at several North Vietnamese airbases. Never had they gone into combat.

Lam said it is possible the North Vietnamese would use helicopters in some dramatic assault in to South Vietnam. But he said the North Vietnamese helicopter force is too weak to take the pounding of regular combat service.

U.S. intelligence sources said reconnaissance indicated Hanoi has stationed about 20 helicopters near the DMZ.

Representatives Release Report On Hunger Conditions In The U.S.

WASHINGTON (Spt) — Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Tex., of the House Committee on Agriculture, and Rep. Page Belcher, R-Okla., ranking minority committee member, made public today a 79-page document entitled "Hunger Study" dealing with nutritional conditions in 181 counties in widely separated parts of the country.

Statements submitted to the committee by officials of the counties, which were among the 256 described in a much publicized but unofficial report as "emergency hunger counties," lead to the unmistakable conclusion that there is "very little actual hunger in the United States, but widespread malnutrition caused largely by ignorance as to what constitutes a balanced diet."

The few instances of border line starvation and hunger referred to in the statements were blamed mostly on parental negligence of infants, and most of these involved mentally retarded fathers and mothers.

Letters from the county officials constitute the bulk of the committee document made public by Poage and Belcher. They were responses to letters by Poage addressed to the County Health officer of each of the 256 counties designated as emergency hunger areas in a report put out by the Citizens Board of Inquiry into Hunger and Malnutrition, a wholly unofficial agency born of another private organization spearheaded by Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers Union.

In an inquiry April 27 to the county health officers, Chairman Poage noted that their counties had been labeled as hunger spots. Then after observing that the Agriculture Committee is always on cerned about the adequacy of food for all Americans, asked if they knew of any starvation or serious hunger in their areas occasioned by the inability of the individuals to either buy food or receive public assistance.

Hunger

Replies came in from 19 of the 20 states named in the Citizens' board report (Arizona where Apache county was named — was not represented in the replies.) Over and over in the responses from the health officials there was the observation that the problem is largely one of education and not a question of availability of food. The need for teaching those who buy the food and prepare the family menus was cited time and again. There was evidence also that many desperately poor people are unaware the federal food relief programs exist. There were comments also to the effect that but for the relief programs administered by the Department of Agriculture there undoubtedly would be much serious hunger.

"We set out to find the truth after hearing numerous complaints regarding the hunger report of the so-called Citizens' Board, complaints to the effect that its allegations in regard to many counties were inaccurate and misleading if not blatantly false," said Poage.

"In my judgment, the report was quite inaccurate and misleading, to put it mildly. There seems to be little or no evidence that any substantial hunger in this country exists as the result of the refusal of assistance agencies, public and private, to give needed aid to those who are unable to work.

"We find in many of the county health officials' statements a commendable desire to do all possible to alleviate suffering, and it is the objective of our committee to help them attain this goal."

Belcher gave his backing to the committee's checkup of hunger conditions in the counties. "I support the publication of this committee print in the hope that the information contained therein will help shed light upon a subject which for too long has been subjected to a great deal of oversimplification, under-statement, and exaggeration he said."

He warned that emotionalism could not lead the way to a solution of hunger in America, and said that only through logical and practical application of science and government can the nation hope to identify the causes and eliminate the reasons for any lack of proper diet by Americans.

Court Rejects Appeal On Pipeline

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Supreme Court rejected today the appeal of Hill Farms Inc. in a dispute with Hill County over location of a pipeline on a public road right-of-way.

Without written opinion, the court upheld a decision of the Waco Court of Civil Appeals in favor of the county.

The 66th District Court in Hillsboro ordered Hill farms to move a pipeline located on public road right of way.

The farms contended they had received oral consent to lay the pipeline from the county commissioner representing the precinct where the line was located.

But the Waco Court of Civil Appeals said only the full, official commissioners' court can make such decisions, and upheld the district court.

8 Retarded Children Go To Camp

Eight retarded children from Pampa will participate with other Panhandle retarded children in a recreation camp at Camp Wigwan near Amarillo this week.

The children left Sunday and will return next weekend. The camp is located on the Episcopal Church ground on the Bivins ranch covering several thousand acres.

Between 70 and 80 children from all over the Panhandle including Pampa, Borger, Dumas, Herford, Lubbock, Amarillo and Miami will be at the camp. The children swim, fish and participate in all types of recreational activities. Arts and crafts will also be offered the children.

Glenn Cox, administrator at Sun Oil Co. and president of the Retarded Children's Association in Pampa is handling the arrangements for the trip.

Venezuelan Sub Takes Russian Tug

CARACAS (UPI)—Venezuela's only submarine has captured an ocean going Soviet tugboat, military sources told United Press International Sunday night.

The sources said the tug was taken into custody within 12 miles of the Los Aves islands, 100 miles north of mainland Venezuela.

The Venezuelan news agency said the tug and its 14-man crew was escorted into the naval base at Puerto Cabello, 125 miles west of Caracas.

The military sources said the submarine and several patrol boats cornered the tug and staged a nearly 24-hour showdown before the Soviet skipper agreed to be escorted into port.

There was no word on what the tug was doing near the Los Aves. The Soviet vessel was described as being about 150 feet long.

Most nations claim territorial rights 12 miles out from their shores. Venezuela claims her rights extend 30 miles.

Order of the Eastern Star Installs Officers in Candlelight Ceremony

Candlelight and roses formed the setting for the installation of Laverne Coombes and David Rife, as Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron of Top O' Texas Chapter No. 1064 Order of the Eastern Star recently.

The Holy Bible was presented by Jackie Coombes, Worthy Matron's daughter, and the square and compasses by Sammie Palmer, Worthy Matron's grandson. The American flag and the Texas flag were presented by the Worthy Matron's sons, Bob and Pete Coombes.

The meeting was called to order by M. Q. Wilson, outgoing Worthy Patron. John Shearer, of the Founders' Day Committee, was presented in the East for introduction.

Mary Wilson, installing officer, was assisted by the Worthy Matron's daughter, Alice Palmer, as installing marshal; Rachael Jones, installing chaplain; Ina Reading, secretary pro-tem; and Coy Palmer, installing organist.

Officers installed in addition to the worthy matron and worthy patron were Aileen Gordy, associate matron; Florence Rife, secretary; Marie Goodnight, treasurer; Leona Wilkerson, conductress; Ethel Stubbs, associate conductress; Murline Stephens, marshal; Lucille Attaway, organist; Donna Sims, Ada; Treva Wilkerson, Ruth; Lelah Dusanin, Esther; Sarah Blain, Martha; Mary McKnight, Electa; Margaret Washington, warder; and Valerie Shotwell, sentinel. Officers were attired in ankle-length gowns of pink brocade.

Faye Palmer, mistress of ceremonies, presided after officers' families and guests had been recognized. She gave the worthy matron's theme: "Harmony," watch words — Kindness, love and understanding, emblem — Star in the East, colors — pink and silver, and her flower — red rose. Her motto is "Together" and her scripture is 1 John 3:18.

The worthy matron's husband, A. P. Coombes, escorted her to the East, after she had been installed. Her husband later presented her with the gavel and her grandson, Sammie Palmer,

Paper Furniture's On Future Horizon

By AILEEN SNOODY
(NEA) Home Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — John Tapert, Detroit industrial designer may have mustache, wear black and white horizontally striped trousers with a striped orange shirt and red tie but his creative paper furniture is basic Americana of the '60s.

Now Tapert, 30, may consider such a view an insult. Yet his goal in designing paper products he said while setting up an exhibition here, is to put well-designed furniture in more homes.

"I'm interested in problem solving," he continued. "A vast segment of our population is not in the top income bracket. I'm shooting for those who can't afford expensive furniture but want some workable, unique and decorative items for their homes."

Luckily for the Michigander whose wife Marie bolsters his projects as graphic designers and sounding board, "there is more acceptance of paper and plastic, especially of paper in design than two years ago."

Having lived in six homes in six years the Taperts understand the needs "of our trans-sient society." Tapert feels the reinforced paper chairs, storage units, lamps and even baby cradles help couples furnish a home inexpensively but with flair and whimsy.

Although the experimental situation with paper furniture still keeps it unrealistically priced, he sees the possibility of furnishing a house for as little as $100.

The Taperts largest investment in furniture is the classic Eames chair and they admit to changing their furniture with each move. Their precocious daughter, Lisa 3½, who prefers cabs to walking in Manhattan, possibly inspired Tapert's baby cradle in non-nursery colors of Magenta and orange. Other items from his Design Workshop of Detroit are displayed along with Marie's huge relief sculpture at a three-month paper exhibition in the Allied Chemical Tower in Times Square. Marie's work shows multiple male profiles and is made of corrugated paper, no-seam paper and kraft paper laminated on a foam core.

Such designs follow through his manufacturing concepts which started when the Taperts almost took off for Nigeria to open a paper furniture factory. He is working toward "low-cost storage, low-cost sleep furniture and low-cost nursery furniture."

"I don't see them," he added, "as decorator pieces but solution to basic human problems. They're not kooky."

"What is important is the idea of paper furniture. Few people realize this and I think the fashion industry with its paper clothing hurts the image of paper furniture and of what I'm trying to do."

Tapert explained that the furniture requires completely new concepts in manufacturing and new equipment.

Currently, he farms out the work to plants in San Francisco,

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Although you are busy with other affairs, use your spare time to handle those responsibilities at home that make it your own private little castle. Put those ideas to work that improve security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Stating your ideas to intelligent associates and then combine your efforts so that all is more comfortable, successful around you. Write those letters that are important, but add a few compliments for best results. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Adding a very artistic touch, plus a clever practical use to your surroundings makes operations in the future more successful. Invite only the right people in. Stop being a soft touch for others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those dynamic young people who will never be bored for lack of something to do, but you must teach early to finish whatever has once been started or the fine promise here can be wasted by many beginnings and no results. There is the ability here to sell just about anything, so start education accordingly.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This woman idea that they owed it to us to put up a front, I guess you would call it, and stay together until we were grown. We knew they did not really love each other.

Well, 4 years ago they got the divorce they should have gotten long before. Since then we have all been much happier. We spend time with both our parents.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 13 years, and our problem is his brother who lives in another state. Every summer this brother (single) comes to "visit" us for a whole month. We do not invite him, and he doesn't ask if it's okay for him to come. He has his mother write and tell us when to expect him.

My husband and I would like to put an end to his visits because we don't enjoy his company that much. In fact, he is a real pain in the neck. We're afraid if we don't do it right his mother and the rest of the family will think we are inhospitable.

One year when we were expecting our oldest daughter and her new-born baby, we wrote and told him we couldn't have him at that time, but he came anyway and just sat around to be cooked for and waited on.

Can you help us?
NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO: YES! Write and tell him it is not convenient for you to have him THIS SUMMER. It may seem cold and inhospitable, but feeling as you do, it's better than having a "guest" of his description sitting around for a month.

DEAR ABBY: I just read something in your column that hit me close to home. You said, "If parents want to be noble and stay together because of the kids, they should be a little more noble and not let the kids know it. It makes them feel guilty."

Abby, parents who stay together because of the kids can not hide it. The kids know something is wrong. You see, our parents had this crazy

Red Cross News

By MRS. NOEL THOMPSON
Red Cross Assistant
Children helping children. It happens all the time when Red Cross Youth throughout the United States prepare Friendship Kits and Boxes and School Chests for children in other countries.

There are thousands of children in Vietnam who especially need help from their friends in this country. They are Vietnamese children living in Red Cross refugee camps. For these children, the simple gifts of soap, wash cloths, and toys may mean the beginning of a more healthful and happy life. As a new school year approaches, we need to plan ahead for youth programs which will result in increasing numbers of these gifts from American children. Our young people have always been eager to do what they can for others. We just have to provide them with opportunities for service. And we can through enthusiastic promotion of our program for Vietnamese children.

A new publication, Red Cross Programs for Vietnamese Children, 1968-69, is being prepared and will be available soon, which lists specific details on contents, packing, and shipping of three program articles for Vietnam. We would like to summarize the ways in which Red Cross Youth can be of service to Vietnam youngsters.

Towles Tile Offers Torginol Flooring

Since man has learned to master the uses of the wheel, he has continuously strived to become the supreme builder of monuments, vessels to soar across the ocean, and even provide his family with a suitable place to live. Our cave man ancestor of the past was not completely satisfied with the bare earthen floors, especially during the winter months, so he devised a make-shift rug from the animals that happened to be grazing nearby. Then as man's learning progressed, he learned that the rugs were not sufficient for his cave dwelling and needed something far more suitable. As time passed the Romans built their floors out of stone. As a matter of fact, so were most of the roads and highways. It was enough to wander around the streets all day with cold feet, without having to come home to another cold stone floor. It was not as hard to keep clean as the cave man's dirt floor, but it wasn't as soft either.

Then came the illustrious Pioneers of the American continent. When their feet hit the shores of America they started building their homes in the frontier fashion and much unlike anything they had seen in England. For England still maintained the old Roman-like stone floors and pillars in the castles. The wooden floors of the first Americans started the process of building newer and better things in flooring. When the winter storms pushed the Northern blizzard into their midst, their floors were cold, but not like that of the English, Roman, or their ancestral cave men.

As men pushed Westward, their knowledge increased with the times. After the passing of the pioneers the early 20s brought a new discovery. Linoleum. It was durable, flexible, and widely accepted by most everyone. But it too had its drawbacks. Even if it was the greatest break in flooring in centuries, every traveler left his footprints in the middle of the floor. This aspect plagued and troubled the women until a German scientist discovered a revolutionary new flooring substance called Torginol Duresque. Unlike the linoleum, the new discovery Torginol was poured from a can onto the old and new floor surfaces. It also meant there would be no limited amount of color patterns, and it could be incorporated into a beautiful finish.

In recent years, Torginol has proved to be the most versatile floor covering in the known world. It can be used for the interior or exterior without any problems. Its uses spread into the hospital lobbies, sterilizing rooms and any place where there is considerable traffic or danger of infectious germs. It has been put to use on the deck of former Presidential yachts, in swimming pool decks, in cocktail lounges and, yes, even in zoos.

The personnel at Towles Tile have been highly trained to install this revolutionary floor covering in your home. To obtain this specialized house care give them a call. Their number is MO 5-5075.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—There is lots of money in television, but moviemaking is still the siren call for most of video's producers, directors, writers and stars.

For example, Mel Brooks, one of the creators of "Get Smart" as well as an exceptional television writer and comedian, is finally getting his just reward by being acclaimed for his movie "The Producers." Many consider it an instant comedy classic, and he wrote and directed it.

Brooks' sometime comedy partner, Carl Reiner, who played a brilliant straight man to his "2,000-year-old man" character, is of course one of the most prolific creators and humorists in both television and movies. But video is where he moved his name.

Shear Instant Hit
Producer-director Barry Shear, long associated with Ernie Kovacs and Edie Adams, and a strikingly original television creator in his own right, has just made the jump into movies, and is an instant hit. His film, "Wild in the Streets," which he directed, is very hot at the box office.

John Secondari, who with his wife Helen Jean Rogers has turned out the distinguished television documentary series "Saga of Western Man" is turning to movies too. He has formed his own production company, but will also continue to present documentaries for the home screen.

Selig Seligman, who has produced many television series, including "Combat," now

By WES DUMONT
Pampa News Sports Editor

Today's column is written by Jeff Holladay of the Pampa News for the sports page. The story concerns itself with the current controversy over whether auto racing is a dangerous sport that should be banned. The views expressed by Holladay are his alone. The views expressed previously were those of Wes Dumont, whose articles led to the writing of this column.

JEFF HOLLADAY
Daily News Staff Writer
Reaction was very strong recently to Sports Editor Wes Dumont's column on auto racing. Dumont denounced racing as dangerous and a not very stimulating spectator sport. This was few of course, only one man's opinion.

He was, in turn, roundly denounced as a scoundrel and a blackguard—and a few other unmentionable names. The reaction in some quarters was almost hysterical: shrill, outlandish, emotional and name calling.

The typical complaint, after identifying himself most readily—as an auto racing fan, and denouncing Dumont in scatalogical terms, proceeded "to set the record straight."

Typical of the "facts" used was that auto racing, including grand prix, Indianapolis-style and drag racing, drew bigger crowds than football or basketball and was second only to baseball as the great American sport.

"We'll let you decide about that. Do you believe it? I have no statistics to substantiate any of these contentions. By the same token, I cannot disprove them. But I'm skeptical."

An argument usually advanced for auto racing is that it contributes to research and development—and thus makes for mechanically superior automobiles.

Poppycock. It may indeed do so, but so what? Planned obsolescence is here to stay.

Most cars last, at the most, an average of about 100,000 miles—if that long.

Trucks often go 4 or 5 times that long. The point is that engineering is capable of doing the same thing for autos but doesn't because the American economy is predicated to a large extent upon the auto industry.

To keep the wheels rolling, so to speak, obsolescence is a necessity.

It is our personal opinion that the greatest benefit of auto racing is derived from advertising.

Auto, tire, transmission and engine manufacturers all accrue great benefits from having winners in auto racing.

It's a good selling point, for example, to say that the Chuckker Super 8 Sport Tiger Deluxe Special has "race-proven features" incorporated into its design. Catches the fancy.

But we don't believe that auto racing really makes any substantial contribution to mechanical superiority in automobiles.

Don't get the wrong idea. I have nothing against auto racing. I like Indianapolis-style racing and particularly grand prix racing, but I don't particularly care for drag racing.

But if drag racing is your "bag"—well, that's just fine with us. To each his own. And if auto racing is more dangerous than some other sports, I don't object. It only brightens the competitive edge.

So what am I trying to say? That if you auto racing fans don't like something Dumont wrote in a column, don't bend my ear. Write him a letter. I am sick to death of having my ear bent.

That Dumont received a lot of criticism but it was all verbal. No one wrote him a letter. That if you want to make a case for auto racing, or if you disagree with Dumont, or if you want to be a critic, write a letter substantiating your views.

It is an old and venerable American tradition to sound off with a letter to the editor if you have something to say.

The obvious advantage of a letter is that you can sit down and write a reasonable, cogent and hopefully convincing case—an appeal to reason rather than the irresponsible spouting of emotional opinions.

Torre Doubles In Winning Run As Braves Defeat Cubs, 1-0

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

It was Joe Torre who was beamed but it is pitcher Chuck Hartenstein who is paying the price.

And what a price! The muscular catcher-first baseman of the Atlanta Braves has faced the slim Chicago Cub pitcher three times since the April 18 incident—and is batting 1.000 with two singles and a double.

Torre, who says he is no longer bothered by the injuries which sidelined him for a month, doubled home Hank Aaron Sunday from first base to give the Braves a 1-0 11-inning victory over the Cubs.

"The situation was the same as on April 18," noted Torre.

Trevino Captures Open With 275

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Beaten Bert Yancey said it all when he shook hands with unbelievable Lee Trevino, the new U.S. Open champion, on the 18th green.

"You played beautifully," said Yancey to the impish, 28-year-old El Paso, Tex., pro who had just holed his final putt to win by four strokes and equal the U.S. Open record with a 275 total.

Those were the only words the utterly frustrated Yancey said to the pudgy, irrepressible, little Texas-born Mexican all day Sunday and they certainly applied after Trevino fired his final round 36-39 over Oak Hills Country Club's 6,962-yard, par-70 acreage to become the first golfer in Open history ever to shoot four sub-par rounds.

Jack Nicklaus, whose one-year-old Open scoring record Trevino tied, and who carded a fourth-round 67 to steal second place with his 279 total, agreed with Yancey.

"Fantastic," declared Nicklaus, referring to Trevino's showing. "The way he played, there was no possible way to catch him."

First Big Win

Trevino, who had to borrow $400 to play in last year's open at Springfield, N.J., where he finished fifth, had never won a regular tournament before this one. But he made off with this one exactly the way he had planned.

"All I wanted to do was shoot a 70," Trevino explained. "I feel if I could shoot par, I'd be okay. I made up my mind to try to par the front nine and then catch him (Yancey) on the back nine if I could."

Playing head-to-head with Yancey, who had led after all three rounds and who still had a one-shot advantage going into the last one, Trevino made the whole thing go the way he planned.

Except for a momentary stumble on the first hole where he took his only bogey of the day, and where Yancey also took the first of his eight bogeys, Trevino never made a serious mistake.

He went in front to stay on and Yancey bogeyed, then wrapped it all up with a pair of eye-popping birdie putts of 35 feet and 20 feet on the 11th and 12th.

Those two putts ballooned Trevino's margin to four strokes and the dejected Yancey looked like the last rose of summer when he three-putted from 13 feet on the 13th hole to go five strokes down.

Thirteenth Decisive
"I didn't ever think I had Bert beaten," Trevino said gallantly after it was all over, "but when he three-putted the 13th I knew all I had to do was par in from there."

That's precisely what he did to earn the $30,000 first prize. Trevino's wife, Claudia, who watches the purse-strings carefully, will give Lee $300 of that bonanza—only if he promises not to spend it all in the same place.

For Nicklaus, who started the day seven shots behind Yancey and passed him on the 16th hole, the $15,000 he got for second place was pretty much an old story.

But, the $10,000 Yancey got for his 281 total after his final round 76 was like blood money. He led by five strokes at one point in the third round and it looked as if no one could catch him.

But Trevino did, with two birdies and 16 pars. The new champ said he was even helped by an early morning rain because "I'm a good mudder and I learned to play in the rain back in El Paso."

Bobby Nichols, the good-looking former PGA champ, shot the same fourth-round 69 that Trevino did and it brought him fourth place with a 282 total that was good for $7,500.

Steve Spray, the young Indianola, Iowa, slugger, electrified everybody with a flurry of eight birdies for a 65 that was the best round of the event and came within a stroke of the Open record. It also gave him a 284 total which deadlocked him with Don Bies of Seattle and netted each $5,500.

Jerry Pittman and Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, were next in line with 285 totals good for $3,750 apiece. There were a number of significant happenings during the rain-plagued competition and possibly the one which will be remembered longest was Arnold Palmer's sad 301 finish which made him $720 richer but which also made him do a lot of thinking. Palmer's final round 75 was better than his wretched 79 of Saturday but it still was a long way from the Arnold Palmer of old.

Then there was one more failure for 56-year-old Sam Snead, who still dreams of winning his first U.S. Open after 26 tries now. Snead wound up with a 286 that put him in a group with Billy Casper, the pre-tournament favorite, Gay Brewer, Australian Bruce Devlin, Al Geiberger and Dave Stockton.

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Age Law Won't Protect

We hope the good people between the ages of 40 and 65 do not expect much from a new federal law which prohibits discrimination in employment of persons of those ages.

The law became effective last week. It forbids employers to refuse to hire, or to discharge a person because of age or to pay different wage rates or lesser job benefits on the basis of age. The law "exempts bona fide seniority systems and pension plans, but says pension plans — which are more costly for newly hired older workers — cannot be used as an excuse to refuse to hire an individual." That should create even more confusion.

The News has always contended that an employer who refused to hire older workers just because they are past 40 — or even past 65 — was in error. However, we do not believe legislation can correct erroneous thinking and acting. It can only make it more discouraging for employers and employees.

Exceptions will be made where age is a bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operations of the particular business. These exceptions "will be granted with caution" which means employers will have to go hat in hand to the bureaucratic U.S. Department of Labor to beg for a permit.

A news dispatch says: "Requests for exemptions must be made in writing to the secretary of labor. All interested parties will be given an opportunity to present arguments and evidence before a decision is made."

We suspect any employers who would be inclined to reject an applicant because of his age will now give some reason other than age for refusing to hire someone.

One of the problems of today is the increasing reliance on the power of political action in an effort to solve human problems. Then when legislation fails to accomplish its desirable aims, the victims become even more frustrated. That has happened in the racial laws which have been passed, and it has happened in other types of legislation designed to protect individuals against foolish acts.

Only through a change in thinking can there be an end to discrimination against individuals because of age, race, color or religious creed. Laws can't change people's thinking; they only harden their feelings.

See Sophisticated Future for War

The insanity of war will still be with us 50 years from now, according to 14 of the nation's eminent leaders in various fields.

Their predictions concerning life-and-death-in the second decade of the 21st century are contained in "Toward the Year 2018," recently published by the Cowles Education Corporation in co-operation with the Foreign Policy Association.

In 2018, the combat infantryman's "rifle" will be a laser ray gun that disintegrates targets. He will also have weapons in the form of acoustic shock waves, lightweight nuclear weapons (which will be available to gangsters, as well), ocean-bred fortifications and antiviral mechanisms.

Furthermore, say the experts, future wars may employ hurricanes directed by weather-producing satellites. But on the cheerful side, warfare may become "less gory" with the use of nonlethal gasses and with battles fought 20,000 feet under the sea or between manned satellites in space.

"Predicting is always chancy but on visions of the perfection of that mass irrationally called war, the crystal-ballers have usually been pretty close to the mark.

In the last century, long before the invention of the airplane, Alfred Lord Tennyson "dipped into the future, far as human eye could see."

"Heard the heavens filled with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew from the nations' angry navies grappling in the blue."

Though he didn't know it, he was looking toward the year 1918.

On the other hand, sadly, predictions about the end of war remain merely visions. Tennyson also saw a time when "the war-drum throbbed no longer, and the battle flags were furled in the Parliament of man the Federation of the world."

We're still waiting for that one to come true. So too, apparently, will our children and our children's children.

In 1935 Jim Braddock decided to win the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

In 1967 National Guardsmen were called out to quell a racial riot.

In 1877 the Russo-Turkish War began.

The Future of the Republic

As the country plunges into the election season, with candidates for the presidential nomination stepping up their appeals there is a depressing air of stalemated about many of the statements and speeches. So many of the proposals by the candidates have the smell of defeatism about them. Their ideas for running the United States during the next four years smack of philosophies that have failed.

The American people may be discerning that the country has traveled too far down one road to a dead end. The nation needs a new start and under new leadership.

Seven years ago, when the Kennedy administration took power, the country was forced into a path that to many citizens seemed alien and unwise. One disaster after another has struck this country since 1961. There was the Bay of Pigs fiasco, in which the Kennedy administration failed to press ahead and re-win Cuba for freedom. Then there was the Cuban missile crisis of 1962, which left the Reds firmly in control of Cuba and resulted in the U. S. quietly withdrawing missiles from Turkish soil. The nuclear test ban treaty of 1963 left the U. S. in a position where it couldn't test the super weapons that the Russians already had acquired. That treaty, surely, was one of the greatest menaces to American security.

In 1964, the Johnson administration imposed the War on Poverty on the United States. Billions of dollars were pumped into "community action" organizations, with the result that strife worsened in the country and agitation groups found an enormous new source of funds.

As 1965 began, the Johnson administration began to send large numbers of U. S. servicemen to Vietnam. The cost of the Vietnam war commenced to skyrocket, but the administration declined to press for victory in Vietnam. To this day the administration has refused to lay waste the homefront base of the Communists in North Vietnam. It has resisted appeals from Congress that the port of Haiphong be blockaded.

The administration made the tragic mistake of allowing the war to be fought on the soil of our allies, instead of carrying the war to North Vietnam. Despite the billions of dollars spent on the war, the administration has declined to accept the truth of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's observation that "there is no substitute for victory."

The situation is perhaps even more disturbing on the homefront. Inflationary spending policies, in time of war, has damaged the dollar, to the point where a major monetary crisis threatens to overwhelm us. The Johnson administration has failed utterly in maintaining the domestic tranquility that the Constitution seeks to guarantee. Several public figures of the administration cloth have actually encouraged the social rebellion that now causes massive upheavals in the nation's cities.

The environment of Liberalism that has been dominant in the federal government since 1961 has given the demonstration-hoodlum elements a feeling of great confidence. They invaded the nation's capital in late April and say they will camp there until Congress meets their demands.

A rabble of Vietnams and Black Power elements believes that it can dictate to the U. S. government. Who can say what will come from this rabble army of protesters that has built a shantytown between the Washington monument and the Lincoln Memorial? The British once burnt the capital of the United States.

This time the deed of arson may be perpetrated by the new anarchists who have been encouraged by two recent administrations to believe that civil disobedience is their right. Never in its history has the United States been at such a pass as it is today. The arsonist and the looter openly threaten law-abiding people and entire communities. Urban revolutionaries threaten to "burn" America if they do not get their way. If the United States does not get a change of leadership next year, if civil disobedience is not repudiated and the revolutionaries are not jailed, the future existence of the Republic will be in question. In the next election, the American people may be deciding whether they want their nation to survive as a free and peaceful land.

Foreign Aid Billions
Attacked by Congress-
sional Foes On Grounds of UN Debts of Many Beneficiaries

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The powerful congressional bloc opposing the voting of more billions for foreign aid is injecting a new issue into the closely contested controversy.

The point is being strongly made that some of the principal beneficiaries of U. S. aid and some of the harshest foes of the U. S. are heavily in arrears in payments for the maintenance of the United Nations, its various agencies and peace-keeping forces. Foremost among these unpaid debts, as of March 31, 1968, are:

Russia—which soars to the top of the list with an outstanding unpaid total of $30.106 million. Of this amount, $13.217 million is owing on the regular UN budget; $39.223 million on the UN Congo account; $27.665 million on the UN Emergency Force.

The seven other Iron Curtain countries owe an additional $28.392 million—making a combined total for the Communist bloc of $108.498 million. Topping the satellite list is the Ukraine with $9.778 million; Poland, $5.766 million; Czechoslovakia, $5.208 million; Hungary $2.713 million; Rumania, $1.518 million.

France—which owes the U. S. around $7 billion in World War I debts, and to which the U. S. gave some $9 billion in economic and military aid following World War II—$17.796 million. This UN indebtedness was accumulated under President De Gaulle, who has made utmost use of the UN to criticize, harass and oppose the U. S.

Nationalist China —$21.848 million, of which $9.886 million is in unpaid budget debts; $6.887 million on the UN Congo account; $5.274 million on the UN Emergency Force. The Chiang Kai-shek regime, the beneficiary of more than $5 billion in U. S. aid, is still getting a considerable amount of such assistance.

Other sizable UN debtors are—Argentina, $2.69 million; Mexico, $1.465 million; Cuba, $907.875; United Arab Republic, $400.334; Yugoslavia, $340.867; Venezuela, $557.256; the Philippines, $367.797; Peru, $287.925; India, $187.545; Pakistan, $140.000; Saudi Arabia, $144.377.

MORE JOLTING FACTS—In citing these little-known figures, Rep. Vernon Thompson, R-Wis., influential member of the Foreign Affairs Committee who is demanding drastic foreign aid curtailment, stressed the following significant contrasts:

Of the 122 United Nations members, only 37 are not in arrears. That is, less than one-third of the membership has paid all its obligations.

The remaining 85 owe an overall total of $172.079 million. Of this, 56 owe $82.107 million.

PAUL SCOTT

million on the UN Congo account; 76, $55.813 million on the UN Emergency Force; and 59, $34.145 million on the regular budget.

But the United States, in the five years 1963-67, paid into the UN and its various agencies and activities the huge total of $538.301 million. Of that, $154.915 million was for the regular budget; $303.602 million for specialized agencies, and $79.784 million for peacekeeping forces.

This immense U. S. contribution is well over one-third of the UN's total income.

LONG-NEEDED CRACK—DOWN—Rep. Thomson vigorously contends that UN members, big and small, in default on their payments should be barred from participating and voting.

The former Wisconsin governor points out that the World Court in an advisory opinion held that "operations of the United Nations in the Congo and Middle East were 'expenses of the organization which should be borne by the members as apportioned by the General Assembly."

"When the UN decided that 'peacekeeping efforts' were essential to the fulfillment of the UN's objectives," Thomson said, "it was assumed that the collective financial responsibility of member nations would apply to that activity. But certain nations have refused to observe the law or abide by it, and our government not wishing to 'have the work of the General Assembly immobilized in these troubled days,' has assumed a permissive attitude and refused to insist on observance of the law."

"The result is that Russia, which should be denied a vote because it is more than $80 million in arrears, and France, which also should be denied a vote because it is nearly $18 million in arrears, and the other countries also in default, are still permitted to participate and vote even though they flout the very law under which the United Nations is organized."

"It is little wonder that respect for our government has declined. It is little wonder that lawlessness increases when responsible officials of our government here at home and in international deliberations demonstrate our lack of moral commitment and confirm that we have an over-supply of weak knees."

"The biggest surplus in the American government today is weak knees. The moral courage which inspired the American dream of government under law has become so eroded that this nation and the world are faced with the choice of military government or anarchy."

"A permissive society has developed under which terror tactics and destruction are condoned as instruments of social reform. Civil wrongs are encouraged as means of achieving civil rights, and large segments of society assume the right to determine which laws they will obey and which they will ignore.

"This lack of determined adherence to the moral idealism of respect for law as the only means of providing freedom and justice for all makes government appear impotent and our cities suffer under the rule of the jungle."

IN DEEP TROUBLE—So widespread and powerful has congressional opposition become to voting more billions for foreign aid that it's anyone's guess when the President's proposed long-stalled $2.9 billion budget will be acted on.

The required authorizing legislation has been stalled for months in both the Senate and House foreign affairs committees.

So powerful is the bipartisan opposition in both committees that even if bills are finally reported out, the President's "bare bones" request is certain to be drastically slashed. He will be lucky if he winds up with $1.5 billion. It is known determined efforts will be made to cut the amount well below that.

Last year the House came within 8 votes of killing foreign aid outright. That could happen this year—with clamor for economy predominant and Congress virtually committed to lop $6 billion from the budget.

CUBAN SHAKEDOWN—Fidel Castro is shaking down a small bonanza in dollars from the U. S. government through its monthly subsistence payments to American nationals unable to leave the Communist-ruled island.

The subsistence payments are $50 monthly or $600 a year. At present, 282 of these U. S. nationals are receiving these payments—for an overall total of $169,200 in dollars going into Castro's foreign currency-hungry coffers.

This was brought to light by Rep. Frank Bow, O., ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the State Department budget at a closed-door meeting in which he questioned Ralph S. Roberts and Frank G. Meyer, budget officials of the agency.

They explained the dollars are not paid directly to the Castro regime. The money is turned over to the Swiss embassy in Havana which buys pesos in which the subsistence payments are actually made.

"The dollars go to the Swiss to buy the pesos," said Meyer, "because we do not earn enough pesos down there to make the subsistence payments. The Swiss buy the pesos. I don't know where, but I imagine they buy them in Cuba. It would be difficult to find many pesos available for purchase outside of Cuba under the stringent currency controls the Castro regime has put into force."

"But the benefit goes to Castro just the same," declared Bow. Meyer agreed that was so.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Tele-Funeral Turned Out To Be Study in Morbidity

By PAUL HARVEY
Newspapers managed to print other news that first week of June, but TV and radio didn't dare to or didn't want to.

News services and newspapers continued to cover all news fronts—legislative, financial, sports, foibles—but the electronic media felt themselves compelled to describe, detail, discuss, debate and repeatedly replay that assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the subsequent funeral to the exclusion of all else.

I have tried to imagine myself as one of Sen. Kennedy's vociferously devoted fans. Would I then feel that TV and radio should publicly bathe themselves in their own tears for days and nights on end? Perhaps.

Most of us were intrigued by and then ashamed of our own morbid interests; when cameramen had to be begged to remove their hot lights from his near lifeless body—when TV eyes intruded on the privacy of the bereaved family even during the widow's lonely vigil in St. Patrick's—when the telesupport them?"

"No, we do not," said Meyer. "All of these people, according to the Swiss, are very eager to get out. The Swiss handle these affairs for us, and we rely on them to make payments only to those evincing a desire to get out."

Meyer declared that "Most of these people are almost in a starvation state, even with the small amount of subsistence we pay them. Castro has taken everything from them that they own. They are not allowed to have a job or to possess goods of any kind. They are really in a critical state."

Under further questioning by Bow, it was disclosed that American nationals who do succeed in leaving are required to sign a commitment to repay the government for their plane fare. In contrast, Cuban refugees are transported free of charge.

Between December 1, 1965, date of the first flight, and February 29, 1968, 100,006 refugees had been flown to the U. S. at a cost of $996,843, or $9.97 per capita.

"In other words," said Bow, "the American national coming out of Cuba signs a note and the government attempts to collect it. But we make no effort to collect from the refugees who come to this country by airlift that we are paying for."

Roberts contended the cost of trying to collect from the refugees would be more than the amount involved.
"It costs about $10 to airlift a refugee," he explained. "At the beginning, we considered very seriously the advisability of asking them to sign notes, keeping books and trying to collect on accounts of this kind. But we decided it would not be economical to do so even if it were politically desirable. We figured it would probably cost $18 to keep the books alone."

Representative Bow pointed out that many of the Cuban refugees are quite successful in the U. S. and it would be a nice gesture if they voluntarily repaid the cost of bringing them here.

"We are making a big investment in this," he said, "and if something could be worked out where we could get some return, I think it ought to be done."

PREDICTIOUS—Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien will become a high official in the Coca-Cola company. He was offered the job before quitting the postal department, and postponed taking it to join the campaign organization of the late Senator Robert Kennedy.

The DeGaulle government, confronted with turbulent and uncertain economic and political tribulations, will terminate the quota system under which 1,000 Algerian workers are allowed to enter France monthly. This will still further strain relations between France and the pro-Soviet Algerian regime, which has even worse economic difficulties. An estimated 50 percent of its workers are unemployed. Senator McCarthy's New York manager will mail a letter and sample ballot to some 3 million registered Democratic voters throughout the state next week. This huge mailing will be financed by the Minnesota's New York supporters, who have raised most of the funds for his presidential campaign. Its cost to date exceeds $6 million. McCarthy sources estimate his unsuccessful California drive cost around $2 million.

"If they do not evince any interest in unlocking themselves," continued Joelson, "do we still dious funeral train trip from New York to Washington, requiring more than eight hours and resulting in additional deaths, kept an army of newsmen eulogizing in hoarse whispers.

Now to what lengths can we go to show our respect for men of even greater stature and accomplishment? Two aged Presidents are likely to precede most of us in death. Indeed, public servants of the tenure and stature of J. Edgar Hoover and Sen. Everett Dirksen are altogether deserving of national mourning. Yet you and I know that a day with the Flag at half-staff is just about the most our nation will do to mark the inevitable passing of such giants.

During those four unhappy days when cynics said the senator was being "over-buried," his disciples were emotionally rushing through Congress legislation which the senator had supported. PURPOSEful politicians immediately initiated the notion that the least we can do now is to hand brother Ted Kennedy the Vice Presidency—at least.

If the major network were seeking to provoke a "national conscience"—making the entire nation feel responsible for the diabolical deed of one gunman—then these important news services were themselves quite out of bounds.

If the predicted saturation TV-radio coverage of a senator's death can be attributed in part to the comparative newness of these media, then perspective may come with maturity.

Yet one remembers that Sen. Joe McCarthy and Gen. Douglas MacArthur and President Herbert Hoover and Helen Keller got no such astronomically expensive and elaborate send-off.

So it must be deduced after two all-out assassination extravaganzas that it is at least possible that Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy were in death the beneficiaries of a "prejudice" which they in life renounced.

Perhaps it was Sen. Ted Kennedy, who, at the televised funeral service, said it best: "My brother need not be idealized or enlarged in death beyond what he was in life."

Now they want to outlaw the guns again. They always start on the wrong end — what they ought to do is outlaw the out-laws.

It won't do anything to outlaw the guns except make the outlaws dance with glee. Why, they can always get guns. If not they know how to make them. Didn't any of them congressmen ever hear of zippguns?

So what then? Well, they will have to outlaw lead pipes. Then they will have to outlaw lead and black powder too. But that won't be enough either. Didn't David flatten that Goliath feller with a slingstone? Them sling-shots will have to be outlawed.

And they don't want to overlook the bows and arrows. A little 2 ft. nylon bow can knock any thing galley west quicker than you can say "create another commission."

And how about locomotives that knock spectators off of rail-road tracks? Why, they ought to be outlawed too. They just ain't safe to have around. There's a whole passel of things that have to be outlawed when you think about it. But whatever we do let's don't outlaw the outlaws. That would be too upsetting to the Supreme Court judges.

Do Motorists Stand Chance In Gasoline Games?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Do motorists really stand a fair chance in winning those "gasoline games"?

The House small business subcommittee announced that it will open hearings June 19 to investigate charges that giveaways sponsored by major oil companies are not really games of chance.

Chairman John D. Dingell, D-Mich., said the odds are that the panel will find reason to confer with the Justice Department and Federal Trade Commission about possible violations of antitrust and fair trade laws.

"Service station operators paid in over $32 million during 1966-1967" to the major oil companies to take part in the games, Dingell said. "This exceeded the amount of prizes paid by more than $8 million."

The subcommittee made public correspondence between a Marine colonel and Gulf Oil Co. The colonel had written Gulf to find out who had won the Rolls Royce and five Mercedes Benz cars offered as first and second prizes.

Dingell said the list of prizes sent to the colonel showed no first or second prize winner, and only five of the 100 color TV sets offered to third-prize winners had been awarded.
