New Troubles Are Reported In Congress

Fight On Compromise Housing Bill Hinted; Night Sessions Ordered To Break Filibuster

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Two new controversies arose today to harass senate leaders, already disturbed by the continued southern filibuster against the anti-lynching bill:

1. Carl Holderman, New Jersey chairman of labor's Non-Partisan League, said he would ask for an investigation of the record of John Milton, appointed senator from New Jersey to succeed Gov. A. Harry Moore.

May Fight Bill

2. Republicans and some Democrats were expected to fight approval of a compromise bill to aid home construction unless the senate reinstated an amendment by Senator Lodge (R-Mass) to require payment of prevailing wages on government insured building projects.

The opposition to Milton developed in connection with the fact he has been a legal adviser to Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, who has fought the activities of C. I. O. organizers in his community. John L. Lewis and other C. I. O. leaders are active in labor's Non-Partisan League.

Wagner Author Of Both

Senator Wagner (D-NY), author of both the housing and the anti-lynching bills, was expected to make the decision as to whether the housing bill would be considered at once, temporarily displacing the anti-lynching bill.

Discussion of the housing legislation would give southerners a rest from their two and a half weeks' speechmaking against the latter measure.

They want to continue the filibuster until the anti-lynching bill is shelved.

Wave Of Crime Hits Here Over Weekend To Harass Officers

Two hijackings and six breakins, one by knob knockers, were reported to police over the weekend.

J. L. Lehr of Arkansas and a female companion were confronted by a man Sunday night near the airport, and his automobile, a pistol, money, camera, and a quantity of tools taken, he told police.

Description Is Given

The hijacker, whose description was given to authorities, roared away toward Plainview, but Sheriff Kelly Hooper of Hale county reported after watching highways several hours he had found no trace of the missing car, a 1933 (Ford) V-8 coupe, Arkansas license "unknown", first three digits of Texas license 108——, flag on rear.

The man sought was described as being about 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing approximately 155 pounds and as wearing a large, light hat, brown leather jacket and gloves.

Burglar Gets Boots

Louis Michaelson, proprietor of the Bargain house, at 815 Broadway, told police a burglar broke a plate glass display window of his shop early this morning, reached in and took a pair of $20 boots.

"He musta wanted them pretty bad," said Michaelson, "because it was daylight when a negro working nearby heard a crash and ran down. He didn't see anyone leaving. It was about 5:10 o'clock.

"The fellow whoever he was could have had about $100 worth of merchandise, but he took only the boots."

First Time To Be Victim

Michaelson, father-in-law of Sam Rosenthal, another Lubbock merchant, said "it is my first time in three years here for anything like that to happen to me."

A residence occupied at 1512 Fourteenth street by Misses Ione Loper and Myrta McCrummen was broken and entered by an intruder who took money and a wrist watch. Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, harassed by numerous calls this morning, said a front window had been entered when the women were at church.

Wood Wrecking yard, at 1605 Avenue H, was entered through a side door Sunday night, but inspection failed to reveal any valuables or other property missing.

Money Is Missing

Shamburger Lumber company, at 719 Thirteenth street, missed $9 from a safe which had been blown by safecrackers a year ago. Entrance Sunday night was through a back roller door, which had been prized open from the bottom. A padlock was broken, as well.

Man's Fight To Gain Immortality By Fasting Now Is Fight To Save Life

(By The Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 24.—Israel Harding Noe's fight to win immortality by fasting was changed to a fight to save his life today, with physicians resorting to forced feeding to restore strength to his wasted body.

The doctors said they considered his condition "grave" but not hopeless after 22 days of absolute abstinence from food, and that three months might be required to restore him physically.

The 47-year-old ousted dean of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral was rushed to a hospital last night after he had fallen into what physicians described as a "deep sleep." Sweetened liquids were forced into his dehydrated body and intravenous feeding was to be started as soon as his condition permitted. Meanwhile, he was kept in seclusion under sedatives.

Hal Buchanan, attorney and a member of the cathedral chapter, visited the former dean last night and said he talked "intelligently" but expressed opposition to the forced feeding that ended the long fast by which he sought to prove immortality was possible on earth.

The trip to the hospital ended an eventful day for the dean. Sunday morning he heard another man, the Rev. Royden Keith Yerkes of the University of the South, Sewanee, assail religious "vagaries" from the pulpit he occupied for more than 17 years.

Bishop James M. Maxon assailed these same "vagaries" Thursday when he removed

Cold Wave Is Reported For North Texas

Rivers In Arkansas And Texas Near Flood Stage And Traffic In Some Areas Is Hampered

(By The Associated Press)

Winter attacked North Texas on two flanks today, driving a dust-spotted cold wave in from the west and hemming in Texarkana with rain-gorged rivers.

In coastal South Texas squally weather and stiff winds added a harrying note to the weather picture.

Red River Rising

A total of 8.83 inches of rain since Friday flooding into the Texarkana sector sent the Red river toward flood stage. Most of the highways leading into the city were impassable as small creeks left their banks.

At index bridge the river stood at 22.5 feet and was swelling rapidly. Last night about 2.5 inches fell and observers expected flood stage of 25 feet there to be reached today.

Meanwhile from El Paso's corner of the state cold winds moved eastward, hammering temperatures to around freezing in the Amarillo area. The minimum at Amarillo was 29 but yesterday's worst dust storm of the year there had moved on and a 24-mile wind had declined to 12.

Mercury At 29 Here

At Lubbock the dust also disappeared and temperatures fell to 29.8. The duster, apparently springing from New Mexico and Colorado soil, reached Fort Worth and cut visibility to half a mile this morning. Dallas skies were a bit hazy.

Borger's worst duster of the year gave way to cold weather, temperatures there dropping from 67 to 30 overnight.

The Tyler section reported torrential rains, dust and cold. Precipitation totaled 3.75 inches followed by a temperature drop from 63 to 47. Traces of dust were evident. Temperatures were coming down rapidly at Paris.

All Creeks Overflowing

Around Corsicana all major creeks were overflowing, although no state highways were reported closed. The rain total since Thursday was 2.84. Palestine had high winds and a touch of cold.

The U. S. weather bureau at New Orleans warned of stormy conditions on the coast, reporting 30-mile winds swept the Louisiana-Texas coast overnight.

J. O. Pool, bridge-keeper, said more water was pouring down the Red river than he had seen in four years. Flood crest on that stream was reached at Fulton this morning. Garland City reported a stage of 21.5 feet, 11 under flood stage. The rise on the Sulphur river appeared to be slowing.

Colder Is Forecast

Colder weather for most of the state was forecast for tonight, with a hard freeze predicted for the Panhandle and freezing at least to Dallas.

A threat to highway 95 was seen in the rising Little river south of

Violence Claims Nine Over Texas

(By The Associated Press)

Nine persons died by violence in Texas during the weekend. Traffic accidents claimed five, three were killed in shootings, and one leaped in front of a train.

H. C. Smith, 20, and his wife, 18, died Sunday from wounds received in a triple shooting on a farm near Shamrock Saturday, in which Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. D. Ellis, 46, was critically wounded.

Jumps Before Train

At Corsicana, John L. Lynch, 52, magazine salesman, a lieutenant in the Royal Flying Corps of the British army during the World war, waved to trainmen and jumped in front of a freight train. Justice A. E. Foster returned a coroner's verdict of suicide.

Foster said notes revealed Lynch had spent nine years in the United States army, was once connected with the United States department of labor, and had resided in San Antonio, Tex., El Paso, Tex., and Seattle, Wash.

Shot By Father

David C. Haynes, 42, executive of a Fort Worth fan company, was shot to death in an office building there. His father, Charles F. Haynes, 67, was free under $10,000 bond.

An automobile-truck collision near Haskell took the life of J. L. Howard, 21, a farmer. Mrs. W. H. Yarbrough, 60, wife of a Gordonville farmer, was killed in another collision. Ralph Johnson, 22, died about an hour after an automobile he was repairing at his home near Plainview slipped off a jack and pinned him underneath. Thoburn Grove, Mission plumbing contractor, was injured fatally when his automobile failed to negotiate a curve on the Edinburg-Mission highway.

Benjamin F. Scott, a blacksmith, was killed when he was struck by a car at San Antonio.

Death Strikes Swiftly Over Battle Fronts

(By The Associated Press)

A week-end of death and havoc from Spanish skies brought a formal protest and armed precautions by France today while the fate of American volunteers in the long battle of Teruel became the subject of contradictory Spanish insurgent and government dispatches.

Half way round the world Japanese airfleets also spread death and terror in China.

Eleven Fall In France

No one was killed in France but 11 bombs fell on French soil when an insurgent squadron attacked the Catalan railhead, Puigcerda, on the French frontier, yesterday.

Between 21 and 30 persons were killed in Puigcerda, one of a dozen towns and cities attacked in the mounting series of reprisal assaults by both government and insurgent airfleets. At least 80 persons were killed in yesterday's aerial operations and hundreds wounded.

France accompanied her protest by the dispatch of anti-aircraft and artillery batteries to the eastern Spanish frontier.

Units Reported Destroyed

Official insurgent dispatches reported two American volunteer units were "destroyed" Saturday outside Teruel in eastern Spain and a third internationale brigade "decimated" by machine-gun fire as they assaulted insurgent positions.

Earlier, the Barcelona government reported a volunteer battalion from the United States had wiped out two squadrons of insurgent Moorish cavalry which attempted a flank attack in Gener-

Final Appeal Is Made For Lower Taxes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — A senate committee studying the relation of unemployment to the recession received today a final appeal from organized business for lower taxes and a respite from new regulations of trade and industry.

As experts began the task of sifting thousands of words spoken by leaders of industry, labor and government during three weeks of hearings, President George H. Davis, of the United States Chamber of Commerce wrote the committee:

Lack Of Confidence

"The real cause of the present recession is due to lack of confidence in the future, caused accumulatively by the passage of laws culminating in the undistributed profits tax and the threat of the wages-and-hours bill."

Davis said laws repealing the profits tax, easing the capital gains tax, and freeing stock and bond markets and commodity exchanges from rigid control "would result in a restoration of confidence which would revive business activities."

Would Solve Problems

This, he added, "would do more to solve the unemployment and relief situation than possible by further artificial means, regardless of what form they would take."

The data now being summarized by committee experts will form the basis of a report covering the extent of current unemployment, the out-

(Special To The Journal)

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 24.—Capture of Howard Atchinson, 32, who escaped from Terry county jail Wednesday afternoon and had escaped Oct. 25 from an Oklahoma prison farm, was effected near Anadarko, Okla., Sunday, apparently on pick-up orders issued by Sheriff C. D. Gore of Brownfield.

Sheriff Gore had broadcast descriptions of the man and the car he was thought to be driving from Duncan, Okla., Saturday night, and from Oklahoma City Sunday.

Returned To Prison

Atchinson was arrested with three other persons when highway patrolmen halted him on a reckless driving charge, the Associated Press reported from McAlester, Okla. Woman Seeks Senate Post

(By The Associated Press)

OTTUMWA, Ia., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson, who was the first woman to receive the American Farm Bureau's distinguished medal for meritorious service to agriculture, announced today she would campaign for Iowa's U. S. senatorial nomination on a program advocating world peace, freedom, happiness and security.

The 59-year old farm woman, veteran of many campaigns for economic and social reform for agriculture, surprised party leaders when she said she would attempt to wrest the Democratic nomination from Senator Guy Gillette and other possible aspirants in June.

Mrs. Richardson will be the first woman in Iowa to seek congressional office since suffrage was adopted in 1920.

Plainly, Mrs. Richardson bases her entry in the political field on the theory that women have a "definite place in politics."

New Electrical Brain To Help Department Stores In Sales

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—A new kind of electrical brain—to substitute for both salesgirl's slip and cash register check in department stores—was announced to the American Institute of Electrical engineers today.

This sales brain was made by L. F. Woodruff, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which in the past has produced mechanical brains to do things like figuring out where a 16-inch shell is going to hit and solving third degree differential equations.

The "gray matter," for a good sized department store, would be about 300 machines, electrically connected. This network not only records a sale and gives the customer a receipt in five seconds, but does much of the bookkeeping on the transaction. It can handle a large number of sales simultaneously.

The brain is operated by the salesgirls with a transmitting machine resembling a cash reg-

First Application For Display Space At Panhandle-South Plains Fair Received

Despite the fact that the 1938 Panhandle-South Plains fair is nearly nine months away, the first application already has been received for display space in a building which, as yet, is non-existent.

The applicant, officials of the fair association announced this morning, is the Waples-Platter Grocery company. The accompanying letter explained that the firm wanted to "get in on the ground floor."

Officials recalled that many more applications for space in the Merchants building were received than could be filled.

While plans for a new building to replace the Merchants structure, still are tentative, it is the expressed opinion of association officials that it will be erected.

The type and size of the building, however, are matters yet to be decided, although the first of a series of meetings leading to detailed plans probably will be held this week. The size will be determined by the indicated demand for space. The present frame Merchants building will be razed and the materials salvaged probably will be put into a new home for the ground caretaker.

Insurance Business Facing Good Year

DALLAS, Jan. 24—Predicting 1938 as the greatest year ever experienced by the life insurance business in Texas and by his own company in particular, A. Morgan Duke, of Dallas, president of the Gulf States Life Insurance company today reported 1937 as his company's most successful year.

"Our tenth financial statement," said Mr. Duke, "reveals the fact that in 1937 more premiums were received, more interest earned and more rents collected than for any other year in the decade history of the Gulf States company.

All Figures Are Better

"Our admitted assets have increased 21.8 per cent. Our reserves for the protection of policyholders have gained 24.1 per cent. Capital and surplus account, which is an additional reserve for the protection of policyholders, has increased 8.4 per cent. Our gross premium income shows a gain of 13.2 per cent, and insurance in force an increase of 6.09 per cent over the total in force at the close of the year 1936.

"The substantial character of the gains shown by the company is indicated by the fact that 44 of the 168 representatives under contract recently showed a renewal ratio of 100 per cent, nine a ratio of 99 per cent and six with 98 per cent. This evidence of our field force to not only produce excellent new business, but also keep this business on the books, is unquestionable proof of the financial stability of this state, its financial institutions, and of the quality and ability of our representatives in the field.

"The Gulf States Life Insurance company does not have in its investment account a single bond in default as to principal or interest. The income from interest, dividends and rents shows a remarkable gain of 44.4 per cent. Most of our mortgage loans completed during the last year have been reinsured as to repayment by the Federal Housing administration, and the net yield from our home office building, which is included in our real estate account, is more than sufficient to maintain the rate of 3 1-2 per cent required in our policy valuation by the laws of the state of Texas for the maintenance of reserves for the protection of policyholders."

More Changes Being Hinted

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 24 (AP)—Reports that President Lazaro Cardenas had more cabinet changes in mind refuses to down.

An official statement issued after the cabinet meeting Jan. 10, said he had not, but well informed political quarters believed the resignation three ministers tendered Jan. 3 would be followed, sooner or later, by others.

Shot With Graft

Business men were known to have complained to the administration that some departments were shot through with "mangoneo"—graft.

Too, the executive was reported to feel certain parts of his vast public works program were not being pushed toward completion as rapidly as was possible.

It was expected, however, the current cabinet lineup would be held intact at least until after Cardenas' projected tour of northwestern Mexico. Hence cabinet members could be fairly sure of their jobs for two or three months more.

In the first of the year shakeup, Silvestre Guerrero, Rafael Sanchez Tapia and Cosme Hinojosa resigned as secretary of interior, secretary of national economy, and chief of the federal district department, respectively.

Successors Are Named

They were succeeded, respectively, by Ignacio Garcia Tellez, who had been Cardenas' private secretary; Efrain Buenrostro, then under secretary of finance, and Dr. Jose Siurob, who was chief of the health department.

Raul Castellanos, attorney general for the federal district and territories, replaced Garcia Tellez. Victor Villasenor, previously head of the national bank of farm credit, Buenrostro, and Dr. Leonides Andrew Almazan, brother of the commander of the Nuevo Leon military zone, Siurob.

In those changes, most observers detected little indication of any shift in Cardenas' policies.

Veteran Politicians

Guerrero, Sanchez Tapia and Hinojosa they knew as veteran politicians, unmarked either as decided radicals or conservatives, and their successors were distinguished chiefly as whole-souled, hundred-percent "Cardenistas."

There would be considerably more significance, however, in some of the other changes rumored to be impending.

Frequently reported on the verge of resigning has been Gen. Francisco Mujica, secretary of communications, leading radical and reputed aspirant to succeed Cardenas. Mujica's exit might mean either that Cardenas was swinging to the right, or that he disapproved of the minister's presidential ambitions.

Foreign Secretary Eduardo Hay, a conservative influence, also has been reported ready to retire from public life, as have Gonzalo Vazquez, attorney general, and Graciano Sanchez, chief of the department of indigenous affairs.

Adult Schools Are Popular

DALLAS, Jan. 24 (AP)—Parents no longer need be ashamed of their dullness before their college-educated children.

Contrary to the belief of some, scientific studies demonstrate that adults up to forty-five learn as rapidly as adolescent children and even more rapidly than younger children, says Dr. G. O. Clough, director of Dallas college of the Southern Methodist university.

Dr. Clough predicts the important changes in education just ahead are the nursery schools and adult education. Emphasis on the need of nursery schools, he says, was brought about by a scientific study of the pre-school age of child development.

Interest in adult education, he says, is due not only to the ability of adults to learn rapidly but also to the fundamental change in the age composition of the population because of the declining birth rate. In 1840 for every 1,000 children under 16 years of age there were 1,000 adults; in 1930 there were 1,900 children for 2,000 adults; and in 1970 there will probably be 1,000 children for 3,000 adults.

Need Is Emphasized

Dr. Clough says the need for adult education is emphasized by this change in the age composition of the population and by the rapid development of new machines. He says that in the future more adults must be provided opportunities to improve their occupational efficiency and to guard against unemployment in case their specific skills become useless by the invention of new machines. The slowing down of population growth will multiply occupational shifts as well as increase unemployment occasioned by technological change, he says. According to him an increasing demand for adult education, especially a program of vocational education, may be expected as the rate of population growth slows down and technological changes multiply.

"It is estimated that $230,000,000 was spent last year for various phases of adult education," Dr. Clough said. He believes the time will come when there will be a tax-supported program of education for adults.

Knolle, who also owns a general merchandise store, was born at Industry in 1871, the son of Rev. W. A. and Dora Knolle. His mother's family name also was Knolle.

Gulf States Life Insurance Company

Dallas, Texas

A. MORGAN DUKE
PRESIDENT

January 22, 1938

TO OUR ESTEEMED STOCKHOLDERS:

The year 1937 was the most successful ever enjoyed by the Gulf States Life Insurance Company. More premiums were received, more interest earned, and more rents collected than for any other year in the decade of history of the Company. We have ended 1937 with the greatest volume of insurance ever in force on our books.

Our gains expressed in percentage figures are indeed remarkable. The Admitted Assets, every invested dollar of which has admirably accounted for itself in earning power, have increased 21.8%. Our Reserves for the Protection of Policyholders have increased 21.8%. The Capital and Surplus account, actually an additional reserve for the protection of policyholders, has increased to $685,384.96, or a gain of 8.4%. Our gross premium income has increased 13.2% over that for the previous year. Our insurance in force has increased 6.09% over the total in force at the close of the year 1936. The income from interest, dividends and rents reveals the astounding gain of 44.4%.

Notwithstanding our gratification due to the excellent gains above set forth, we are equally as proud of our saving in operating expenses. Our budget for the year, consisting of all expense items within the control of the management, reflects a saving of 4.3%, a fact which I consider quite an accomplishment, especially when such a feat has been attained with no sacrifice in the efficiency of the "nerve center" departments of the Company.

The investment of our funds in Grade A assets without the surrender of considerable yield continues to require the employment of every resource afforded by the judgment of your management. I am proud to say, however, that the Gulf States Life Insurance Company does not have in its investment account a single bond in default as to principal or interest. With reference to our mortgage loans, the majority of those completed during the year have been insured as to repayment by the Federal Housing Administration, and we consider these loans of quality as excellent as any obtainable.

In our Real Estate account is found our Home Office Building, located at Main and Akard Streets, and consisting of sixteen floors, every one of which, excepting the ground floor, is completely equipped with both summer and winter air conditioning apparatus. This building is a beautiful part of the inspiring skyline of the City of Dallas, and is one of our more excellent investments. The net yield for 1937, even after deducting depreciation, is more than sufficient to maintain the rate of 3½% required in our policy valuation by the laws of the State of Texas for the maintenance of the reserve for the protection of policyholders.

One of our greatest assets is an intangible one, and which is valued at not a single dollar in our financial statement, - our very remarkable agency organization, perfected after the expenditure of considerable time and money and of which our management is justly proud. Only the more fit of our agents have survived our rather severe process of elimination, and you are assured that every Gulf States Representative is not only a producer of an enviable volume of business but also of insurance of good quality as well. In fact, for one recent month which I recall, of the one hundred sixty-eight representatives under contract, forty-four revealed a renewal ratio of 100%, nine, a ratio of 99%, and six, a figure of 98%. This very tangible evidence of the efforts of our field force to not only produce excellent new business but also to keep such insurance in force is the prime factor in the procedure which has resulted in our unusual gain in this respect.

The year 1937 has, then, been one of Progress. A progress without the sacrifice of the financial resources of the Company. A progress with consequent high yields. A progress unaccompanied by a frenzied desire to place in force new insurance of questionable merit with apparent disregard of renewal possibilities. A progress, in fact, supported solely by Confidence, - the confidence of the public in the Board of Directors which you elected and in the resultant management; the confidence of the Board and the management of your support, many times demonstrated, of our program of expansion; and the mutual confidence existing between field man and management. Such faith can only result in notable achievement for our Company, and I earnestly bespeak its continuance.

Yours very sincerely,

A. Morgan Duke

Big Walloping Is Given Par By Golf Aces

BY ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 24 — Professional golfers teed off in the final 18-holes of the $3,000 Pasadena Open golf tournament today.

Leading the procession was Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, who led the par busters in yesterday's third round with a 64, seven under par, to take a one-stroke advantage over Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., with a 71. Thomson's 54-hole total was 69-73-64—206.

Nelson Pulls Up

Two shots back of the leader was Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., formerly of Texarkana, Tex., who duplicated Thomson's amazing 64 yesterday to pull into the front ranks. Breaking par 71 was something 17 others did, but doing it by seven strokes was something no one had ever done before over the local Brookside course.

Three players started four strokes back of Thomson today — Olin Dutra, Los Angeles; Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill., and Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore.

Bob Feller Has Pen Ready To Sign His Contract For '38

VAN METER, Ia., Jan. 24 (AP)—Bob Feller kept his pen handy and an anxious eye glued on the dirt road past his farm home today.

The Cleveland Indians' strikeout artist was expecting the mail carrier to bring his revised 1938 contract from the American league club.

Feller had returned the first contract "for minor adjustments," but announced yesterday he had reached an agreement with the Indians on this year's terms, which he refused to divulge.

Movie Fame And Riches Have Not Changed Sonja Henie

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Movie fame and riches have not changed Sonja Henie one bit.

She's still the vivacious little Norwegian who won three Olympic figure skating titles, retired unbeaten two years ago and then skyrocketed to new fame and fortune on a pair of skates.

When she completes a five-night stand in Madison Square Garden, opening tonight, she will have played before 26 capacity crowds in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and New York since Christmas. Boston and Miami remain, and then she will return to Hollywood to get ready for her fourth picture some $200,000 richer.

Not once has Sonja, 25, very blonde and very pretty, yearned for the return of the olden days. She doesn't even think of the 1940 Olympics, the first she will have missed since, as a chubby little girl of 15, she beat the world's best for the first time in 1928.

Valley League Is Organized

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 24. (AP)—The Texas valley baseball league, a class D organization of eight teams, was launched today with Guy F. Airey of San Antonio as president.

Representatives of cities comprising the loop, Corpus Christi, Laredo, Brownsville, Harlingen, McAllen, Refugio, Taft, and San Diego-Benavides, elected Airey in a meeting here yesterday, settled on a 140-game season, and adopted the Shaughnessy playoff.

Player Limit Of 14

The league set a player limit of 14, monthly salary limit of $1,600, voted to open play April 14, and close the schedule August 28. Corpus Christi will play at San Diego; Taft at Refugio, Harlingen at Brownsville, and McAllen at Laredo in the openers.

The schedule will be adopted officially at a meeting in San Diego February 13.

Bill Osley of Corpus Christi and Joe Sneed of Refugio were elected vice-presidents, and Roy Brandenberger of San Antonio, secretary.

Paul Waner Is Top Baseball Golfer

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP)—Paul Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, is baseball's champion golfer.

The elder of the Waner brothers defeated Jack Russell, former American league pitcher, 6 and 5, to win the annual baseball players golf golf tournament here yesterday.

Joe Medwick walloped Jerome Herman Dean, his teammate, 6 and 5.

For Dean, the tournament proved an expensive affair. Checking up, the Cardinal pitcher said he lost a total of $1,550 in bets.

Cunningham Continues As Big Puzzle To Old Pop Time And Now He's On All-American

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Old Pop Time still can't do a thing with this Glenn Cunningham fellow.

Despite the rise of younger runners such as Archie San Romani, his own increasing years—so far as track men go—and his heavy college work, the ex-Kansas cyclone is still Mr. Big among the metric milers. To prove it—if proof is needed,—there's his name in the 1,500-meter spot today on Dan Ferris' All-America track team for 1938.

Picked Over Romani

The secretary-treasurer of the national A. A. U. releasing his annual selections of All-America all-collegiate and all-scholastic track and field performers last night, picked Cunningham over his fellow-Kansan, Archie San Romani despite the latter's victory in the A. A. U. indoor championships last year.

San Romani also might have won the outdoor title if he hadn't fallen in the last 200 yards, but since Cunningham was the man who broke the tape, Ferris put him on top, and gave San Romani the all-college position in the mile.

Others Are Chosen

Other standouts included: John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's Olympic champion, at 800 meters on the All-America, and the half mile on the college list.

Don Lash, Indiana, cross-country on the All-America and two-miles on the all-college.

Spec Towns, Georgia's timber topper, at 110-meter hurdles on the All-America and 120-yards on the all-college.

Bill Sefton, Southern California pole vault on both All-America and all-college.

Alton Terry, Hardin-Simmons, javelin throw on both teams.

Vinegar derives its characteristic sharp taste from acetic acid.

Methodists In Groove Again In Cage Race

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Limber, sphinx-faced Bill Dewell, one of the best ball hustlers the Southwest conference has seen in a decade, has his Southern Methodists in the groove again.

Feeble at first in defense of the crown they carried away last year, the Methodists are in the thick of it now. Talk of an Arkansas runaway has lessened since sweet William Dewell started pouring the ginger to his Methodists.

Performance Uncanny

Uncanny was Dewell's performance against a bewildered Texas Aggie team at Dallas Saturday night. Only once did Dewell, silent and tall, fail to grab the rebound off the Aggie backboard.

He was gone with it and the Methodists were in charge again. Dewell found time to pump in 14 points besides starting all the Methodist scoring plays. He fed J. D. (Sniper) Norton, who draped 12 points, and held three Aggie center opponents — Freiberger, Wofford and Bokenkamp — to two scant points. To cap his remarkable performance, Dewell was not charged with a personal foul — and he handled the ball more than any other three men on the court.

In Third Place

The Methodists' 41-20 triumph landed them in third place with two wins and one loss—back of Arkansas and Baylor.

Baylor, pushed along by Clarence (Bubba) Gernand, an ailing guard who made his first start against Texas, tripped up the Longhorns 51-45. Potent enough as they stand, the Baylors will spring all their power for the first time against the Cadets with Wilson White, top-scoring forward, due back in the fold.

Arkansas, again featuring Deadpan Don Lockard and Jack Robbins, smothered Rice institute's weak entry, 38-31 and 59-37, in two games at Fayetteville.

Heading up the Southwest conference scoring parade were Lockard with 57 points, and Robbins, with 51. Close behind were the two Aggie forwards, Clark with 47 and Harris with 44.

Grid Stars Battle In Mud Before A Small Gathering

DALLAS, Jan. 24. (AP)—If Samuel Adrian Baugh, the Texas slinger, hasn't signed his contract with the Washington Redskins, pro football champions, he has an extra headache to slip into salary bickerings with Owner George Marshall.

He has won Owner Marshall another football game.

Yesterday on the rain-sodden Cotton bowl gridiron he triple-threated Washington to a smashing 13-0 triumph over the team Owner Marshall really likes to conquer—the burly Chicago Bears.

Not Yet Signed

Baugh's intimates revealed he had not yet signed a contract. Earlier in the week the Sweetwater pigskin pitcher said he would ask for a three-year agreement.

Baugh passed for one touchdown against the Bears, a wide, flatzone heave Wayne Millner, old Notre Dame star, gathered in across the line. But he also rolled up an amazing 48-yard kicking average with a soggy ball, ran wild on several ground gains and dropped cold any Chicago running threat that came his direction.

Intercepts Bear Pass

The second Washington score came late in the fourth period when George Smith, husky former California center, intercepted one of Keith Molesworth's wild passes and fought his way 46 yards for a score.

The Bears, crippled by the absence of Bronko Nagurski, failed to slash past the Washington 29-yard stripe—and they got that far only by blocking a quick kick Baugh attempted.

Only about 4500 sat in dismal, rainy weather to see the top pro teams play a thriller.

Riggs Looking For Davis Cup Position

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP)—Bobby Riggs, young Chicago tennis player who ranks second in the United States for 1937, figures he is virtually sure to be a member of the team which defends the Davis cup in this country next summer.

Riggs captured the Dixie tennis championship yesterday with a straight set victory over Wayne Sabin of Los Angeles, conqueror of Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta in the semi-finals, and immediately began planning for the cup tryouts.

"They can hardly leave me off this time," Bobby said. "I don't know whether or not I'll play, but I'm sure to be a member of the team."

Squeal Of Hog Being Heard

PALESTINE, Jan. 24 (AP) — A lume hangs over countless smoke-ouses and the squeal of the fatted rker is in the land for it is hog-lling time in East Texas.

The razorback, the Duroc, the pland-China, the red, black, white, e colored, pedigreed or plain gar-n-sass variety of grunt-and-root- is giving up the ghost by hun-eds that man may have ham and ock, side meat and jowls, or kunck-s for his kraut. The cottonstalk brown upon the land, but the g that fed unwisely well when the aple was whitening the country-de now must contribute its bit to e next cash crop.

Comes Early In Texas

The pig comes early in Texas and hiles away the balmy days of pring seeking to satisfy an insa-able appetite. When the sun points igh and the farmer cultivates the ed it must pay with its life, the nimal, now advancing into hog-ood, snores through the siesta our from the nearest mud puddle different to the fact that its an-stors fed the multitude and that the world of swine history re-eats.

Time marches on and the hog ices its ribs with the element that uts the perfect touch upon the oughnuts until the first norther sips down the pathway of the outh-bound sun and the farmer hutters "'s about time!"

Soon afterward the hog is spread-agled upon the prop at the rear of he house or against the barn, its nnards exposed to the gaze of the rayfarer.

Always Watched Moon

In the boyhood of men who shave wice daily to escape being typed graybeard," hog-killin' was con-ucted with a ritualistic observance the status of the moon. "Full o' e moon" was about right, but the dark o' the moon" was fatal to the ull flavor and conservation of pork. shrunk or "sniveled" in the pan, nd 50 years ago eastern house-ives looked askance upon western ork because it receded under fire. nd they refused to buy it entirely fter the rumor got around it was attened on rattlesnakes."

In those primitive times neighbors athered for the "killin' bee" each o his place at the hot water barrel the scraping bench, and each ent home with a "chunk of the eat."

Big Fall Industry

Farmers, however, no longer are eighborhood philanthropists nor bserve the "moon rite." Pork is illed for home consumption and arketing, and the marketing has ecome a sizeable fall industry in ast Texas. Farmers make their ausage, wrap it neatly in pound ackages and sell it for a good price irectly to the consumer or retail-rs.

County agents have taught house-wives the art of canning in addition to their traditional duty of "tryin' out" the lard. Therefore, the whole hog now is salvaged excepting the squeal and there is a rumor small boys use that to inflate the bladder.

"Sausage," reminded one farmer, "ain't hog dogs."

If you don't believe it try one on the Pekingese at breakfast tomorrow.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

Overtime

INDIANAPOLIS — Judge Frank P. Baker was willing to give a suspended sentence to Louis Vonkunkle, a mute itinerant artist, who had been in jail more than two months for carrying a gun without a permit, but that didn't suit Vonkunkle.

He wanted to stay in jail, his interpreter told the court, until he could finish a portrait of Sheriff Otto Ray, his jailer.

His wish was granted.

Unexpected Help

ST. LOUIS — C. F. Dalante, street car motorman, was unable to identify a suspect as the man who had robbed him.

So, related Deputy Sheriff Pelham Scott, the suspect, Herman Osterloh, spoke up.

"I'm wearing the same clothes now. Remember?"

Dalante remembered. Osterloh went to jail under $10,000 bond.

BOONVILLE, Mo.—A ragged old man held out a handful of pencils to a cafe proprietor.

"Sure, I'll buy one," said the cafe man. "Sit down and eat a square meal on me, too."

The old man thanked him but declined. Another merchant, he said, had given him some sandwiches.

He was back later and gave the man a dollar bill.

"Take this dollar and buy some other old bum like me a square meal some day," he said.

Terracing Is Aiding Crops

AUSTIN, Jan. 24. (AP) — Federal soil conservation authorities claim contour tillage and terracing made it possible to grow 50 bushels of grain sorghum to the acre on a field near Hereford which, due to wind erosion, had not produced a crop for several years.

Straight-row tillage, they said, permitted much of the small amount of rainfall to be lost by running off during the years drouth prevailed in the Panhandle.

Lines Are Run

The field, owned by C. R. Walser, was in danger of becoming hummocked with drifting sand when the owner became a cooperator of the soil conservation service project of that area in 1936.

After the acreage was surveyed for contour tillage and terrace lines were marked with a grader, Walser planted sudan grass and made a good crop, reports of the service show.

In the fall of 1936, terraces were constructed and the sudan stubble prevented further soil losses by blowing. The 10 inches of rain in the spring of 1937 was held by terraces and contour rows and permitted to seep into the soil where it was available for vegetable growth.

Good Harvest Made

In July hegari was drilled on the contour, after disking, and an excellent stand obtained, harvesting 50 bushels an acre.

Project Manager O. T. Williams reported 8,000 acres in the Hereford project had been terraced.

"When the spring comes," he said, "these structures will hold the water on the land where it falls and make it available for crop growth. Approximately 9,000 additional acres are scheduled to be terraced."

Louis XVI created a law in 1785 which made it unlawful to carry any kind but a square handkerchief. It is believed that the edict was made at the request of Marie Antoinette, who believed square handkerchiefs to be more convenient than the round, triangular and oblong shapes that were the style at the time.

Though movie scouts traced her to Sellersville, Pa., they're unable to lure Josephine Emily Richter, 6-year-old prodigy, to Hollywood. Her parents turned down a contract which would have exploited the girl's ability as a pianist, dancer and singer in three languages. Josephine will stay at home and play for her life-sized doll.

Native Hollander In U. S. Is Honored By Letter From Her Queen; Remark Causes Letter

NEDERLAND, Texas, Jan. 24. (AP) —Mrs. Helena van Heiningen, 92, part-time resident of Nederland and Norwalk, Conn., is composing a reply to the Queen of Holland.

The other day an official-looking letter, stamped with the royal seal, came to Mrs. van Heiningen here. Dated at The Hauge, Nov. 22, the letter read:

"Madam:

"The queen has asked me to tell you that her majesty has heard you are living with your children in America and that you still think very highly of your native country and the royal family.

"The queen appreciates this very much, and she hopes that your children will remember their native country with love and regard. A new photograph of the Queen was taken a short while ago. I take this opportunity to enclose one herewith, with the sincere hope that you will be very pleased to have one.

"With kindest regards,

"J. Heemstra, private secretary to Her Majesty, The Queen."

Mrs. van Heiningen attributes the royal letter to remarks she made in a conversation with a visiting Hollander recently.

She came to the United States from Holland in 1927 and divides her time between her daughter, Mrs. Jake Doornbos of Nederland and two sons in Norwalk, Conn., P. J., and J. C. van Heiningen. The children have been in America approximately 40 years.

"RASH" PRIME MINISTER

LONDON. (AP)—Some of the local bigwigs were concerned recently at what they called Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's "rashness."

He jumped off a wall while cutting across fields on a shooting party in Yorkshire. It was only a low wall—but the prime minister had just recovered from a bad attack of gout. And he lit on his gouty foot. But the critics' fears that this might precipitate a return of the ailment were unfounded.

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

Ignorance Of Texas Legislature Aided Growth Of Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 24. (AP)—Ignorance of an early-day Texas legislature about Texas geography was largely responsible for Dallas' developing into an important commercial center.

"The first railroad entering Dallas from the South completing its line by the end of 1871," Dr. Edwin F. Foscue, professor of geography at Southern Methodist university, writes in "Field and Laboratory," S. M. U. scientific publication.

"At that time the Texas and Pacific was building westward from Longview. Its original route called for a direct line southwestward to cross the Houston and Texas Central in Ellis county. Dallas, realizing the first major railroad junction in North Texas would develop into an important commercial center, made plans to deflect the Texas and Pacific northward so it would cross the other railroad in or near the 'City on the Trinity.'

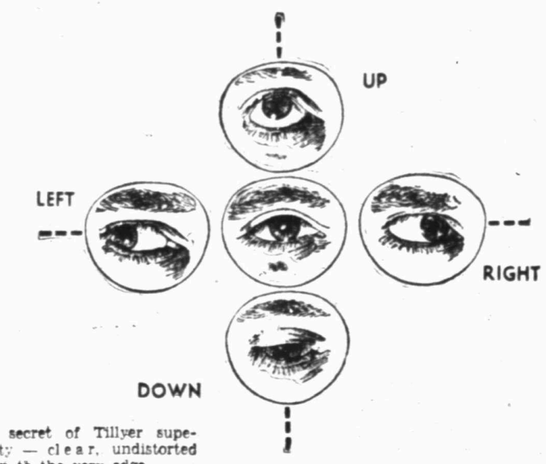

"Through a smart stroke a note was inserted in the charter of the Texas and Pacific railroad company requiring it to cross the Trinity river within one mile of Browder Springs. No one in the legislature knew the location of Browder Springs, but after the charter was granted, those springs were found to be along Mill Creek in the present city park."

Dallas also offered a bonus of $100,000 to the Texas and Pacific to complete its road to the city.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says a real friend is one who loves us just the same—even if we do disagree with him over the New Deal.

A lady timidly approached the big-hatted, booted man who had been pointed out to her.

"I beg your pardon, but are you the game warden?"

"Yes, madam," was the reply. "What can I do for you?"

"Well, I'm planning a birthday party for my six-year old son and I thought maybe you could suggest some games!"

MAYBE The Plainsman is goofy. A lot of people think so. But whatever be the cause, the writer has a very different conception of the duties of our government than those of many of his countrymen.

For instance, some guy suggested—in all seriousness—the other day that the government go into the junk business.

He really meant it.

He pointed out that seven million used cars were so clogging the sale of new models that they had put the automobile business slightly on the bum.

He pointed out that the government is going to spend a lot of money on new armaments; would need iron and steel for the purpose; and would need more shrapnel and shell of all kinds.

Presto! Why shouldn't the government buy up those seven million old cars, scrap them and use the metal?

Then the automobile industry would start humming again!

AT first glance, the idea might look all right to some people—especially to those who delight to see Uncle Sam getting mixed up in everything under the sun.

But:

Uncle Sam does not build his own guns, his own naval vessels, or his own shells.

They are contracted for.

So why expect Uncle Sam to buy the used cars?

If the deal would be good for Uncle Sam, why shouldn't it be good for the private manufacturers who make Uncle Sam's ships, guns and shells?

And if it isn't good for the private manufacturer, why expect Uncle Sam to play Santa Claus to the automobile industry—or to any industry?

Too many people forget where the government gets its money.

It gets it out of the pockets of all of us—whether we realize it, or not.

What we need most at this time is to curtail public spending wherever possible—not increase it.

And we need government out of business, instead of up to its neck in it.

THE Plainsman realizes, probably better than some readers, that the automobile industry is the nation's No. 1 industry and that every tenth worker among us gets his living—and that of his dependents—directly or indirectly from the automobile business.

But you start putting Uncle Sam into the automobile business, albeit in a round-about way, and soon other bright boys will get him into the stove manufacturing business, the newspaper business, the radio manufacturing business—and we'll all be riding the good, old tax wagon!

It just won't work, that's all!

The Plainsman is cheered over the news that practically every member of Congress now owns a tuxedo, a dress suit, or both. Boiled shirts, you know, are best for stuffing!

That Man on Avenue Q says there are other ways to make money than by hard work—but you've gotta work hard to learn 'em.

Some people are worried over the possibility that the President will continue to the left.

Others are just as worried that he will turn more to the right.

But what worries us is that he will keep on going in circles!

THE newspaper error is the most insidious of all mishaps. No matter how much care is taken and how hard the army of any newspaper works to avoid them, they will crop out.

And the worst thing about them is that they're rarely visible to the editor or members of his staff until the entire edition is run and on its way to the customers.

Along with everybody else in this business, The Plainsman hates errors; they hurt his soul; they all but slay him.

But the other day he ran across some statistics which make him feel a little better about newspaper "busts."

Mr. Tex DeWeese, of the Pampa Daily News, is the source of an item in "The Panhandle Publisher," official organ of the Panhandle Press association. In the item, Editor DeWeese is quoted as follows:

"When you see an error in the paper, remember the newspaperman has a perfect alibi. A statistician has worked out the number of chances for mistakes in one column of newsprint and the number is 70,000 to 1.

"In an ordinary news column there are 10,000 letters; there are seven wrong positions that a letter may be put in; (speaking of errors, wouldn't it sound better, Editor DeWeese, to say 'in which a letter may be put?') Thus there are 70,000 chances to make an error and millions of chance for transpositions. In the short sentence, 'To be, or not to be,' by transposition alone it is possible to make 2,758,009 errors. So there!"

By golly, when you stop to think about it, it's wonder we don't all make more "busts" than we do!

A friend of ours went up to the hospital the other day to visit another friend who had been hurt in an automobile accident and, to his dismay, found the victim giggling through his bandages.

The injured fellow explained that as he had returned to consciousness on the operating table, he asked the nurse what had happened.

She replied, coolly:

"You saved three minutes getting to town—and you'll be here six weeks!"

HERE AND THERE: Want to buy a buffalo? If so, your kindly, old Uncle Sam will sell you one, crated and delivered to the nearest railroad shipping point, for $60 . . . CAST OF CHARACTERS

CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.

BRET HARDESTY—hero; bridge builder.

RODNEY BRANDON — Connie's fiance.

KATIE BLYN — Connie's "double."

Yesterday: Constance Corby, on the eve of her announcement party, is the richest girl in the world but certainly not the happiest. She reflects on this as she whirls out on the dance floor with her fiance, Rodney Brandon.

CHAPTER II

"And now that everyone's drunk a toast to our happiness and you've danced until your pretty silver slippers must be worn through, when are you going to marry me?" Rodney asked. He had persuaded Connie to slip away to the little summer house that often served as a rendezvous when they wanted a few moments alone.

"When?" Connie murmured.

"When," Rodney repeated. "You can't expect me to want to wait much longer, darling. In fact I can't see any reason now for waiting at all."

Connie tilted her head to one side, regarding him. "You manage to sound like the impatient lover, Rodney — almost. Somehow, you don't make it quite convincing. For my part I can't see any reason to hurry."

From the marquee the low music of a languid waltz floated out to them, mingling with the soft shush-shush of the surf pounding against the wall. A night for romance, surely; the stage all set, the characters in costume. Yet—was romance missing?

"You're not going to keep putting me off now, I hope." Rodney bent toward her, smiling. He was seldom ruffled, seldom angry. He was too poised, one might have said, too perfect. Just as he was almost too handsome in his impeccable dinner jacket.

Connie shrugged her lovely shoulders. Sometimes she wished Rodney would get angry. It would make life more exciting. What fun was it to quarrel, if the other person never would fight back? She said, "I'll marry you next year, or tomorrow. What difference will it make? Things will just go on the same, anyway."

Rodney laughed. "That's not too flattering to my male vanity. But as I've told you, I'll take you on any terms, my dear. I'm such a lucky beggar to get you." He took her hand in his. "Would you really marry me tomorrow, darling?"

"Why not?" Connie asked.

He said, "I wish I could believe you."

"You could, perhaps, if you'd make me believe myself . . . What's that!" She threw back her head, listening. There had been a sound in the vines on the wall, or from the trees overhead, that must have been more than the wind sighing.

Rodney said he had not heard anything. He said, "You see. Already you're trying to elude the issue at hand. Tomorrow it will be the same. It's taken me all my life to make you announce our engagement. I wish I could make you . . ."

"I know. I heard something," Connie interrupted. "Perhaps we should go back." She got to her feet. He jumped to his. He put his arms around her.

"Don't go — not quite yet," he pleaded. She did not resist him. Yet there was no response in her arms or on her lips.

Suddenly there was a loud report; a flash of blinding light. A voice said, "Hold it!" A man had slipped up the stairs toward them.

"How did you get in here?" Connie asked sharply. She pushed Rodney away; her blue eyes smoldered.

The man laughed: "I scaled the wall. Quite a feat, let me assure you, Miss Corby. But it was worth it."

"Rodney!" Connie whirled on him. "Aren't you going to do something?"

"What can I do?" Rodney gave her his slow smile.

"Oh, come now! You wouldn't have him do that, Miss Corby." Nevertheless the cameraman began to edge away.

"Wouldn't I! Nothing would give me more pleasure. We posed a dozen or more times, gave out interviews so that you'd let us alone . . . Can't a person have any privacy at any time any where?"

"Not when she's the richest girl in the world, Miss Corby." The cameraman laughed again, said he was sorry. He put his hand on the wall. He could hoist himself over it, manage the sheer drop to the beach; but how he ever had scaled it, especially keeping his camera intact, remained a puzzle.

"Aren't you going to do something?" Connie demanded of Rodney once more.

He did not seem to resent the intrusion. "Oh, let the follow have the picture. He's earned it. Though you'd better get going now," Rodney addressed the photographer, "or I'll have to summon the guards."

"That won't be necessary," the man returned. He tipped his hat to Connie, said, "Thanks!" again before he disappeared over the side of the wall.

"I hope he breaks his neck," Connie said, fiercely. Her hands were clenched at her sides. "As for you," the fire in her eyes had not abated as she turned them on Rodney, "I hope I never see you again!" She swept him out of her way, when he would have stopped her, broke into a run.

Rodney did not pursue her, though. He did call after her, shook his head, still smiling. One never knew what Connie would do next. Melt in his arms one moment, run from him the next.

But she would run back. She had always come back. The only thing to do was to humor her. Give her time.

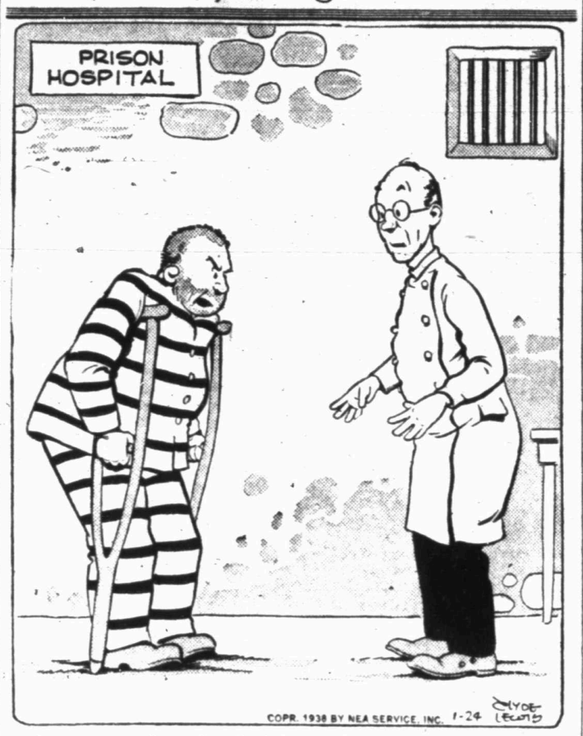

But that was where he made his mistake.

Paradoxical as it might seem, Connie was tired of being humored, of having her own way. She was tired of everything in her glamorous golden world. Sick to the soul of it, as she had suddenly discovered anew now, flung across the magnificent big four-postered bed, with its silk hangings and hand-made lace spread, that had belonged to the lovely and mad Marie Antoinette, shaking with sobs that tore through her whole body, that came from anger or sorrow, temper or pity, she did not know which.

She only knew that she would not marry Rodney Brandon now if he were the last man on earth. She had meant it when she said that she never wanted to see him again.

WILL TAKE A LONG STEP

If leaders of the automobile industry and the national administration succeed in establishing regulation without strangulation of installment sales buying, they will have taken a long step toward forestalling such disasters as the depression which began in 1929.

The fact that leaders of the industry and the President agreed so readily that curbs should be placed upon such buying is ample evidence that they recognize the dangers from that source. For that matter, the industries already have done much to put installment buying, so far as their products are concerned, upon a firmer basis than was the case a few years ago. Probably even more progress would have been made had they not been fearful and suspicious of too much governmental control.

Their fear has been, to resort to the ancient proverb, that if industry conceded an inch, the government might attempt to extend its control a mile. Too much federal interference or regulation, they have warned, might mean the utter strangulation of credit. And if there is anything which would be more dangerous to our economic welfare than installment buying gone wild, it would be to paralyze ability to use credit with intelligence.

Recent developments in Washington are a further indication that industry and the administration have reached a basis of common understanding. If that is true, then people of the nation can look toward the future with more confidence than has been possible for many months past.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24 — Short takes:

There were howls of rage in a projection room when Director Michael Curtiz viewed a recent day's rushes of "Robin Hood."

A big, expensive scene was spoiled because at one side of the set, and obviously unaware that the camera was turning, one of the extras munched on an ice cream cone.

Hollywood is howling about Marjorie Weaver's marriage to Ensign K. G. Schacht during her recent vacation trip. Funny part is that the trip was made on a pass obtained by a newspaperman who was in love with her — but who had no idea that her old navy flame was waiting in Chicago.

In fairness to Miss Weaver, though, it should be said that she didn't know, when she left here, that the spark still smoldered.

Frank Weatherwax, trainer of the well-known wirehaired terrier, Asta, is branching out. His 14-months-old son, Larry, probably will appear in the next "Thin Man" picture as the child of William Powell and Myrna Loy.

Joy Killer

Melvyn Douglas, wandering on Metro sound stages, came upon a slot machine, saw that it contained money and apparently was in working order, and put a quarter into it. It was working, all right, for out poured the jack pot.

The delighted actor was gathering up his winnings when a property man approached and held out his hands for the money.

He explained, "We fixed the machine to pay off for the next scene."

Live shrubbery surrounds the house built on a Hal Roach sound stage for "Merrily We Live," and among the vines and bushes is, or was, some poison oak. Two technicians have broken out with it, and the principals are being fearfully watched for signs of it.

Now that Jimmy Cagney and his former employers, the Warner brothers, have become reconciled, plans are being rushed to welcome the militant actor with the top role in "Boy Meets Girl."

D. W. Griffith is reported in a deal for the remaking of "Birth of a Nation," and Wallace Ford is mentioned for the part of the Little Colonel.

Greatest Grosser

"Birth of a Nation," released in 1915, made $3,500,000 but Hollywood business experts believe it quite possible that the greatest grosser in flicker history will be "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

That's because the Disney picture, unlike any other which has been filmed in many years, will be shown in practically every country in the world. The studio here has finished dubbing in dialog and titles in 14 different languages.

Grimly portentous was a scene in "Hollywood Hotel" in which the late Ted Healy was shown reading a newspaper under the headline, "Hollywood Actor Dies." Of course the scene has been deleted now.

Carole Lombard has given Clark Gable one of those little motor scooters, this one with a rumble seat.

Socko!

Helen Broderick spent almost a whole day socking Milton Berle during rehearsals and a scene in "Radio City Revels." Hit him so often in the same place that she knocked a bridge out of his molars.

Miss Lombard provided a birthday cake for Fernand Gravet's little celebration on the "Food for Scandal" set. When he cut into it, the pastry exploded. There was a football bladder inside.

June Lang is anxiously awaiting word that Peggy Fears will divorce A. C. Blumenthal. The actress and the pint-sized financier-promoter have been going everywhere together for months.

In a story conference, a big movie maker was adamant on a seemingly ridiculous point, and one of the writers said, "I hope you're being facetious."

"Facetious!" roared the executive. "You know I don't like Mussolini!"

UNUSUAL INDUSTRY

HARLINGEN—(AP)—J. D. Beals and Paul E. Jones operate an unusual industry here—breeding of queen bees for sale to apiaries throughout the United States. Beals, who formerly lived in Minnesota, and Jones at Corpus Christi, shipped several carloads of honey from the valley last year, notwithstanding production of honey is secondary to breeding queen bees.

LEAGUE IS FORMED

McALLEN—(AP)—A Catholic athletic league of the Rio Grande valley was formed here recently with the Rev. Frank Kilday of McAllen president. The league will sponsor boxing, basketball, golf, softball and swimming in the valley parishes, the area being divided into three districts. The basketball season runs from Jan. 23 to March 1.

South Carolina used whisky as a measure of value in the barter system which sprung up after the collapse of the continental currency in 1780.

Dutcher Thinks That Jackson Is The Logical Man To Follow Reed As Solicitor General

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. — Even the most pessimistic of the government economists seem to be agreeing that the bottom of the business slump was reached around the first of the year insofar as the next few months are concerned.

Rodney Dutcher

A substantial business pickup in the spring is considered almost inevitable. These upturns used to appear in the business activity curves each spring during the depression in Hoover's administration. The one now anticipated ought to be relatively large because the current recession has been so sharp.

But it is considerably more problematical just how many of the people thrown out of work since August will get back to work, and whether business and government will be able to keep the upturn going through the summer and fall.

The uncomfortable fact which no one can dodge is that Mr. Roosevelt and the country, in four months, have lost about 70 per cent of a "we-planned-it-that-way" recovery, the achievement of which required more than four years.

A widely-followed general business index reached a depression low of 65 points, climbed to a high mark of 111 in August and then was back down to a bit above 78 at the first of the year. Figure it out for yourself.

How much of that 70 per cent of lost ground is about to be regained? What will be the net increase in the unemployed army and the relief problem by next fall? The most likely answer to these and many other questions will be found in the certainty that Roosevelt will try to do whatever he thinks necessary to put business on the upgrade during the election campaigns.

Current bright spots in the business picture include conspicuously the fact that inventories are being eaten up in certain important commodities such as steel, used cars, rugs, cotton textiles, clothing and shoes.

The Jackson Buildup

On the day after Stanley Reed's appointment to the Supreme court it became apparent to this writer that Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, groomed by the administration to become the next governor of New York, was the logical person to succeed Reed as U. S. solicitor general.

Jackson would thus control the handling of all cases in which the government is represented before the Supreme court. Perhaps it was even more significant to note that he would also become second in command at the Department of Justice, and the logical successor to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings should Cummings enter private law practice or accept another federal post.

Promotion of Jackson would be a continuance of the buildup of this brilliant New Dealer for the New York governorship—and a chance at the presidency.

Davis May Not Run

After a succession of Democratic victories in Pennsylvania, Senator James J. Davis—secretary of labor in previous Republican administrations—is understood to have given up hope that he can be re-elected this year and may decide not to run.

WHO ARE YOU?

Jerome Frank, one of the two members of the Securities and Exchange commission, has been working late of nights to catch up on the details of SEC problems.

He went into the SEC building the other night and was promptly accosted by a uniformed guard who demanded to know who he wanted to see.

"I want to see myself," replied Frank with a grin.

"Who the hell are you?" asked the guard, who probably would have reason to be sorry by now if Frank were as pompous as some administration officials.

Ask The Master Psychologist
Dr. La. Rose, Ps. D.

How to obtain Love, Happiness, Success, being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. You are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men even in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

A Silent Movie Of Two Girls And A Bright Idea

Cold Wave In North Texas

Temple. Travel on highway 22 west of Hillsboro was halted Sunday by overflowing creeks. Some lateral roads were cut off by creek waters near Corsicana, and the Fort Worth-Dallas pike closed Sunday night near Village creek.

The Sulphur river was rising near Talco and crews fought driftwood from the Paris-Mount Pleasant railroad bridge; creeks were over highways at Clarksville, and the Trinity river out of its banks at Dallas.

Widespread Property Damage Being Feared For Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 24 (AP)—Widespread property damage appeared imminent in south and central Arkansas today as torrential rains swelled rivers, bayous and creeks.

Today's forecast of thundershowers held out little hope for relief.

The principal threat was the raging Ouachita, four feet over its flood stage of 26 feet and with a crest of 40 feet predicted by tomorrow night or Wednesday. Thousands of cattle were in the threatened lowlands.

Agricultural experts said the high water would ruin much early planting. A score of highways were closed by the state highway department as a safety measure.

Bus and automobile traffic was disrupted in the Camden and De-Queen areas.

Electrical Brain

ister. When a sale is made, a card punched to resemble the spots on a domino, taken from the article sold, is slipped into the transmitter, along with two punched tokens, one identifying her and the other the cashier.

The transmitter automatically sorts these, telegraphs the information to recording machines in a central office and pushes out a domino-like card which is the customer's receipt.

On the card is the date and amount of sale. The domino punches are a code, identifying goods and inventory price.

The brain does its neatest trick with charge accounts. Charge customers are furnished with small punched tokens. The positions of the holes identify the customers.

One of these tokens goes into the transmitter, in place of the cashier's token, when a charge sale is made. The electrical network telegraphs this token to a separate battery of machines, manned by operators who have all the customer accounts handy. If the account is "good," the operator presses a button labeled o. k. The brain thereupon completes the transaction as for a cash customer.

In the central office are machines which can sort these punched sales cards at 400 a minute. Other machines tabulate the sales at the rate of 150 cards a minute.

Committee members said congress would have the report as a guide in drawing up relief plans for the year beginning next July 1.

Long-Range Aspects

The committee will consider later the long-range aspects of relief and unemployment in another series of hearings. It will study the development of federal relief policies, the effect of new machines on unemployment, and the question of what share of relief costs the federal, state and local governments should bear.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt continued his study of government-business relations and arranged for talks with representative small businessmen in the near future.

Hoover, immediately besieged by news men, declined to see them. An NBC official took in word they wanted comment, and returned quoting Hoover as follows:

If he cannot arrange for transfer of the prisoner back to Brownfield from the Oklahoma prison, he will ask for his custody after his sentence there has been served, the sheriff said.

The convict is serving five years' sentence in Oklahoma and has 46 years stacked against him in Texas, said Sheriff Gore, who was holding the convict in custody in Brownfield on three forgery indictments.

The escape from Brownfield jail was made while carpenters were working on the jail building. The door had been left open and Atchinson apparently bided his time and walked out when no person was watching. He walked from the building and entered the Headstream car.

A car later was reported stolen from Scoggin-Dickey Motor company in Lubbock and officials considered it likely Atchinson had abandoned the Headstream car and stolen another there, but failed to find an abandoned car.

Negro Is In Jail

A 29-year-old negro was in county jail where he had been transferred early Sunday by police who had arrested him for asserted hijacking in the negro quarters.

A negro woman, Capatola Warren, was freed on bond after a charge of theft under $5 from Max Coleman, attorney.

An automobile was reported stolen, but detailed information was not immediately available.

A charge of theft by bailee of a trailer had been filed in county court against a person who had not been reported arrested.

Two charges of speeding were filed in the court of S. E. McMillan, justice of peace. One person had been arraigned, drawing a fine of $1 and costs.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 24 (AP)—Cotton opened irregular today with liquidation of near months meeting covering and trade buying in distant positions.

First trades were 1 point higher to 1 lower. March opened at 8.57, May at 8.65, July at 8.68, Oct. at 8.78 bid and Dec. at 8.52.

Offerings were light after the start and enough buying support developed during the first half hour to lift price levels two to four points above the previous close.

Trading continued light during the morning and demand was sufficient to absorb all offerings.

Near mid-session March contracts traded at 8.60, May at 8.68, July 8.71 and Oct. 8.82, or 2 to 4 points net higher.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 1 higher to 1 lower. Steady Liverpool cables were offset by lower Bombay prices. March 8.44, May 8.52, July 8.55, Oct. 8.65, Dec. 8.76.

Trading was quiet. Prices moved up a few points on trade fixing and scattered buying.

Shortly after the first half hour May, which had recovered from 8.51 to 8.56, was selling at 8.52.

The market became quiet later in the morning but the undertone was steady.

By midday May was 8.54 and the list was 2 to 4 points net higher.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—While selling pressure was definitely lacking in today's stock market, the general drift was downward.

With the ticker tape barely moving, fractional declines were widely distributed near the fourth hour. The opening hour's volume of 140,000 shares was the smallest for this period in months.

Trading forces seemed a bit disappointed a week from Washington time for a special presidential message to congress on railroad revenues had again been delayed until later this week or next.

Wall street continued to look for something constructive to come out of the many White House business conferences, but the tendency to withhold sizable buying commitments in stocks was apparent pending announcement of a concrete anti-recession program.

Bond, commodities and foreign securities markets were quiet and uneven. The French franc pushed higher in terms of the dollar as prospects for the new Chautemps government brightened.

Inclined to tilt backward the greater part of the day were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Phillips Petroleum, Standard Oil of N. J., Santa Fe, Celanese, Union Carbide, Owens-Illinois, Johns-Manville and General Refractories.

A French destroyer rescued the French steamer Prado from a warship described only as "Spanish" which had stopped her off Palamos, Spain. The arrival of the destroyer caused the warship to free the Prado.

Japanese airmen bombed the defenses of Suchow, center of Chinese resistance along the vital Lunghai railway running west into China's interior. A Japanese spokesman at Shanghai said locomotive sheds, freight trains and barracks were blown up.

The spokesman added that air attacks coupled with an infantry drive had cleaned out Chinese irregulars which had challenged complete occupation of the Shanghai area.

casualties were reported.

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, said at Hilo, Hawaii, the earthquake's center was near Molokai or Lanai islands, approximately 150 miles north of the active volcanoes on Hawaii island.

Warning Is Given

Dr. Jaggar warned that unless a "safe building program" is adopted at once, earthquake tragedies as intense as those that have swept Messina, Italy; Tokyo, San Francisco and other great centers would strike the Hawaiian islands.

"Saturday's earthquake was only a sample of what may be repeated some day with far greater intensity and tragic results," he said.

More Legislation Planned

While the senate program remained in a tangle, committees were getting ready to present more major legislation. A joint senate-house committee probably will complete a compromise farm bill this week.

Another controversial subject will be turned over to congress early this week when President Roosevelt submits recommendations for a naval expansion program.

Safety Plans Are Speeded

Spurred to activity by the fact that more than 20 persons have been injured in the vicinity of Lubbock in automobile accidents within the last week, Lubbock Safety council hastened plans this morning for a public meeting to emphasize the growing traffic dangers.

O. B. Conley, president of the council, called a meeting of committees of the organization for Friday night at 7 o'clock at the American Legion hall at which plans for the public meeting will be discussed. Capt. W. W. Legge, head of Lubbock district of the Texas highway patrol, will be invited to attend.

To Invite Officials

Tentative plans also were made to extend invitations to high officials of the state patrol to attend the public meeting here and to deliver addresses. Those to be invited will include I. G. Pfaeer, chief of the patrol; Col. H. H. Carmichael, head of the safety division; and Capt. George Schauer, also of the safety division.

The fact that practically all the recent accidents have occurred on country roads emphasizes, Conley said, that the chief safety problem is in the rural areas where light traffic and good roads invite excessive speed.

For that reason, invitations will be extended to interested citizens throughout the Lubbock area to attend the meeting here.

Brought To Hospital

Passing motorists brought the victims to hospitals.

Investigators said they were told Finley was blinded either by lights of the approaching car or by dust. The collision occurred on the right side of the highway, they said.

The engine of the Finley car, a 1929 Ford roadster, was torn off, and the car driven by R. J. Swayder, a 1937 Ford, was damaged considerably. The Swayder car was coming toward Lubbock.

J. H. Jackson and B. I. Wooddell, highway patrolmen, investigated.

The trip took three months.

Charles S. Purcell, above, who opened the Sears-Roebuck store in Lubbock almost two years ago and who has been its manager ever since, will leave tomorrow for Beaumont, where he will fill a similar position with the company. Since moving here in 1936 from Baton Rouge, La., where he had been manager of a Sears store, Mr. Purcell has been active in numerous avenues of civic life and especially promotion of amateur athletics. No announcement concerning Mr. Purcell's successor has yet been made.

Institute Set Here Friday

A "different basis" and "monthly meetings with an interesting speaker" will be initiated Friday morning, when the Institute of Agriculture is conducted beginning at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will be in the agricultural building of Texas Technological college and Dean A. H. Leidigh of the division of agriculture and a member of the state planning board will discuss The Tax Situation of Texas.

On Different Basis

Officers of the Institute of Agriculture in the past have tried to schedule meetings that did not conflict with other meetings and hence have had "fewer meetings" than deemed required.

"It is our hope to begin on a different basis and schedule monthly meetings with an interesting speaker discussing some agricultural topic. In this way we hope to make the program interesting enough to make a definite drawing card," said a letter from L. M. Hargrave, presiding officer of the institute.

Speakers for February and March will include Harry L. Kent, former president of New Mexico A. & M. college, now director of administrative research at Tech, and Prof. M. F. Heard of the textile engineering department of Tech.

Ticket Sales Are Reported

Reports from five communities received at council Boy Scout headquarters this morning were to the effect that they have reached or exceeded their quota for the annual banquet to be held at Lubbock hotel Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, according to information given by Earl M. McClure, executive.

The reports were received from the following towns, with the quota assigned each and the local ticket sales chairman: Silverton, eight, Rev. John Thorns; Matador, six, U. L. Wiley; Olton, six, C. E. Bley; Pep, four, James Lynch; and Lorenzo, 10, Gene Stobaugh.

Reservations Urged

McClure urged that all persons in Lubbock planning to attend notify the scout office, phone 463, this afternoon if possible.

He was advised also this morning the executive said, that Charles E. Paxton, president of Buffalo Trails council at Sweetwater, who is to be the principal speaker here, will arrive about noon Tuesday.

Program of activities Tuesday will include an executive board meeting at 4 p. m.; three group meetings of leaders at 5 p. m.; and the banquet.

Agua Caliente Will Be Confiscated And Used For Schoo!

Built during American prohibition days, famous $10,000,000 Agua Caliente, shown in the above airview, has been expropriated by the Mexican government and will become an industrial school. Shown in the left of the picture is the luxurious hotel and casino, where in the palmy days of 1929, $500,000 weekly changed hands over the gaming tables, where movie stars, playboys and vacationers frolicked expensively. At the right is the race track where a $100,000 handicap once climaxed a glamorous season. Grouped near the center are the resort's bungalows. Agua Caliente is just a few miles below the border town of Tijuana, in Lower California. American investors, protesting the expropriation under Mexico's socialization program, were informed the owners would be reimbursed within 10 years, according to tax valuations.

Future Motors May Use Dust And Not Gas

ELBING, Germany, Jan. 24 (AP)—Dust and powdered grasshoppers soon may serve the Fatherland as motor fuel.

German scientists and engineers wrestling with the problem of using dust, waste, residues and even ground insects in motors have just received word that experiments of Dr. H. Wahl, of the Schichau shipyards, with dust combustion engines are nearing success.

One of the main obstacles of dust as fuel—the heavy wear and tear on the motor by grinding ashes—has been successfully overcome, declares Dr. Wahl. He says the Schichau company has developed a metal alloy which is harder than any known steel and therefore suitable for a motor designed to run on dust.

Previous attempts with dust combustion motors failed, explains Dr. Wahl, because usually after 150 hours trial run the cylinders and pistons were worn to pieces by the grinding effects of the extremely hard residue of burnt dust.

The new metal alloy, however, stands the hardest grinding, he says, citing that only 1-700 of a millimeter was ground off the cylinder walls of a motor made of the new metal during a test run of 150 hours.

Motor Small

The experiments are part of the nation's four-year plan to achieve economic self-sufficiency.

Dr. Wahl says his "dust eater" is not much bigger than an ordinary motorcycle engine, but declines to divulge further details, except to say that it runs on almost every kind of properly powderized dust, such as that of brown coal, hard coal, saw dust, remnants of grain, beech nuts, copra, cocoa powder, rice, hay and even ground grasshoppers.

The identifying whorls, loops, and arches of fingerprints extend clear through the five layers of the epidermis. Where the skin has been sandpapered away, the tell-tale patterns grow back into place in time.

Associated Press To Get New Building

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—The future home of the Associated Press will be erected in Rockefeller Center, where general headquarters and the New York office of the world's largest cooperative news and picture gathering organization will be located in a building bearing its own name.

Construction of the Associated Press building will begin shortly as the first of the units included in the program recently announced by Rockefeller Center. The Associated Press will occupy four floors in the 15-story structure, which will be completed in the autumn.

The quarters selected provide for the immediate needs of steadily increasing scope of the Associated Press news, news photo, feature and supplemental services to more than 1,400 newspaper members. The character of the press association's work, together with the requirements of its mechanical, laboratory and transmission facilities, involved engineering problems that necessitated far reaching solutions. Accommodations have been made for the installation of every phase of the organization's activities, including printing and other equipment used in the production of some departments of the service.

The building site is the north block of the center, Fiftieth and Fifty-first streets, overlooking the plaza between the music hall and the international building.

North America, with one-twelfth of the world's people, uses about one-half of the timber consumed in the world.

Fertilizer Used On Farms Of Texas From Other States

AUSTIN, Jan. 24. (AP)—Texas is a great agricultural state yet most of the fertilizer used on its farms, the Texas planning board claims, comes from other states.

This, the board says, in spite of the state's underground treasury of mineral resources.

Board mineralogists say most fertilizer contains potash and about 95 per cent of the chemical used in the United States goes into fertilizer.

In Texas, the experts say, cotton crops need and have consumed more potash than any other single crop. Other farm products needing potash are potatoes, tobacco and citrus fruits.

Up to the present time little effort has been made to utilize Texas potash deposits, the board found, yet research shows Texas has the other ingredients which go with potash into fertilizer and why this field has not been exploited is something of a mystery.

A survey by the board's mineral resources committee shows potash abounds in many West Texas counties.

"I AM ONE OF THE MILLIONS WHO PREFER CAMELS" SAYS RALPH GREENLEAF

WORLD'S CHAMPION IN POCKET BILLIARDS

"HEALTHY NERVES ARE A MUST WITH ME!"

FOURTEEN different times the news headlines have flashed: RALPH GREENLEAF WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP!

In a special interview during his recent championship play in Philadelphia, Ralph said: "I'd say the most important rule in this game is to have healthy nerves. And on that score, I think, Camels have a lot extra to offer. One of the main reasons why I've stuck to Camel cigarettes for twenty years is—they don't ruffle my nerves."

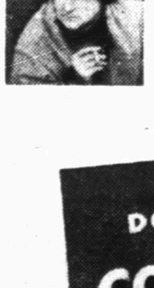

And America as a nation shows the same preference for finer tobaccos that Ralph Greenleaf does! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America

Fencing experts, too, appreciate Camel's finer tobaccos. As BELA DE TUSCAN, the famous instructor, says: "Fencing is very tiring, and I welcome the quick 'lift' I get with a Camel."

"The way these light boats bounce around knocks the daylights out of my digestion! Camels help my digestion to keep on an even keel," says MULFORD SCULL, outboard motorboat racer.

JAMES L. CLARK, famous scientist and explorer, says: "I always carry plenty of Camels with me into the wilderness. 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!' Many's the time I've done it."

HELEN HOWARD, top-flight spring-board diver, of Miami, Florida, says: "Camels don't irritate my throat—not even when I'm sitting around in a wet suit, a target for irritation."

HE IS COUNTED THE GREATEST POCKET-BILLIARD PLAYER OF ALL TIME. Here Greenleaf executes a difficult massé shot, requiring split-hair accuracy, faultless stroking, and healthy nerves. And the world's two famous masters of the cue—champion Ralph Greenleaf and the 18.1 balkline billiard champion, Willie Hoppe—are both Camel smokers.
