Americans To Leave

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Three hundred Americans were expected to begin leaving Ethiopia today in the wake of the leftist military government's closure of five U.S. facilities.

U.S. State Department officials said about 100 American staff members and 200 wives and children would leave via commerical flights.

The Americans have been given until Wednesday to leave the country, but a State Department spokesman in Washington said:

"We have been informed that time would not be a problem and that there would be no pressure to meet the deadline. We were also informed that we would have access to the affected facilities and security would be provided wherever we requested it."

Prepare To Cap Well

STAVANGER, Norway (AP)—American experts went ahead today with preparations to cap the runaway well spewing millions of gallons of crude oil into the North Sea. They hoped to do the job by Wednesday and were working against an unfavorable weather forecast.

"Our plan for plugging the leakage continues according to schedule, and the weather today is still very good," said a spokesman for the Phillips Petroleum Co., which operates the well 180 miles off the Norwegian coast.

"The barge Schoctow is along-side the rig with necessary technical and hydraulic equipment. The two Adair fire-fighters will enter the rig again later today and start preparations for the plugging work. It may still take some days to complete the dangerous work."

Boots Hansen and Richard Hattenberg, two of famed oil well firefighter Red Adair's men, were put aboard the oil-covered drilling rig atop the well Sunday.

Carter Greets Hussein

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter welcomed King Hussein of Jordan to the White House today and warned against over-optimism in the search for a Middle East peach settlement.

With the diminutive monarch at his side on the White House south lawn, the President said, "it would be a mistake to be too optimistic" in view of the long-standing divisions between the Arabs and Israelis.

But Hussein, who is on one of his frequent trips to the United States, said "Jordan is ready to play its full part in the quest for a just and lasting settlement" and "a final resolution of the problems of the Middle East."

The welcoming ceremony was abbreviated, because this is billed as a "working visit." Unlike visits of other foreign leaders to the White House this year, there were no small flags handed out for the crowd on the lawn, and there was no review of military troops.

Carter, who met after the ceremony with Hussein in private in the Oval Office, said he would seek advice and counsel "on how our own country might play a role" in bringing together the opposing factions in the Middle East.

In addition to the meeting today, Carter planned a working dinner for Hussein in the State Dining Room of the White House tonight and another meeting with him on Tuesday.

Protest March Called

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto's police rounded up more leaders of the campaign demanding his resignation, but the opposition defied him by calling for a protest march on the National Assembly.

Bhutto jailed 48 more persons Sunday in his counteroffensive against the six-week-old campaign to oust him. Most top leaders of the opposition Pakistan National alliance PNA were already in jail, and the roundup brought in the acting PNA head, Nawabzada Nasrullah Khan, and second-echelon leaders in major cities.

AMA Opposes Plan

LITTLE ROCK(AP) — The president-elect of the American Medical Association said Sunday that the AMA will oppose President Carter's plan to control increases in hospital costs.

Dr. John H. Budd of Cleveland said Carter's plan eventually would reduce the quality of medical care.

Bud spoke at the annual convention of the Arkansas Medical Society.

Carter has indicated that he will propose limiting increases in hospital fees to a fixed percentage.

Budd said that if hospitals' costs go up at a faster rate, a hospital would have to reduce services to continue operating without a financial loss. He said that would hurt only the patients.

ON DESEGRATION PLAN
Midland Parents Are Denied Review

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Texas parents today lost their bid for Supreme Court review of a lower court decision denying them an opportunity to challenge a desegregation plan for the Midland Independent School district.

The justices let stand a U.S. 5th Circuit Court decision denying the parents' request for an order blocking the desegregation plan.

The lower court denied the parents' petition without comment.

Opposing the parents' request for Supreme Court review, the Justice Department argued that the parents of children in the Midland schools were not parties to the lawsuit which led to the desegregation plan and had no standing to challenge it in court now.

Department lawyers noted that the trial court had denied the parents' petition to intervene in the lawsuit.

The desegragation plan was developed in 1976 in an agreement between the department and the Midland school board.

The consent decree settled the department's desegregation suit against the board.

In other action today the Supreme Court:

—Let stand a lower court's ruling that the Federal Energy Administration is authorized to regulate all credit terms and payment schedules within the petroleum industry.

Refused to hear the appeal of a condemned Texas murderer who five months ago asked the high court to let him die.

—Refused to consider whether the editor of a student newspaper at a state university may refuse a paid advertisement describing counseling and legal services offered by an alliance for homosexuals.

—Let stand a lower court decision allowing the government to penalize those responsible for oil spills into U.S. waterways even though they obey the law requiring them to report the spills.

The justices turned down a barge owner's challenge to the U.S. Circuit Court ruling on grounds that it is unfair to penalize vessel owners who report spills themselves.

County Okays Summer Funds

Scurry County Commissioners Court this morning approved a $1,200 grant for the summer recreation program for the retarded and $1,000 for the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation Service District at its meeting this morning.

The SCD has been receiving funds for promotional purposes from the Board of County Development, which are matched by state funds. Commissioners said the request for this year would be referred to the BCD with the commissioner's recommendation that it be put in the BCD's budget.

The commissioners delayed a decision on reinvesting $16,000 in certificates of deposit for the permanent school fund. County Treasurer Billy Wayne Thompson said a $12,000 certificate which had been drawing five per cent interest and a $4,000 certificate which had been earning three per cent interest had matured. The commissioners indicated they wanted to look into the possibility of getting a higher interest rate on the funds.

Also on the agenda today was a report from the county grievance committee recommending that the salary of the Justice of the Peace in Precinct No. 1 be set at the same level as that of county commissioners, but no action had been taken on that item shortly before noon. The grievence committee sent the request to the commissioners following its meeting last week.

Hospital Plans To Be Studied

The Cogdell memorial Hospital Board and the Scurry County Commissioners Court are scheduled to hold a joint session this evening to discuss a proposal to enlarge the county hospital.

The session is set for 8:30 p.m. in the conference room at the hospital.

The hospital board, at its regular meeting last Thursday night, approved preliminary plans for a 50-bed addition to the hospital and took steps to assemble data needed for presentation to the State Hospital Facilities Commission to obtain a certificate of need.

The preliminary plans, prepared by Page, Southerland and Page, Austin architects, call for an addition to the present building to extend northward from the present emergency room entrance.

It would provide rooms for 50 additional beds and also take care of storage requirements and support facilities for the new addition as well as the present building. The building now is in urgent need of more storage, it was noted.

Preliminary estimates indicate that the new addition would cost around $3.25 million, which would require a bond issue. The hospital board and members of the commissioners court are due to discuss the building plans as well as financing at tonight's session.

Senate Okays Pipeline Report

AUSTIN (AP)--The Senate approved a conference committee report today on a bill allowing construction of a coal slurry pipeline from Colorado to Texas.

The sponsor, Sen. Max Sherman, D-Amarillo, noted that all five senators had signed the conference committee report, and three of the five House members had signed it.

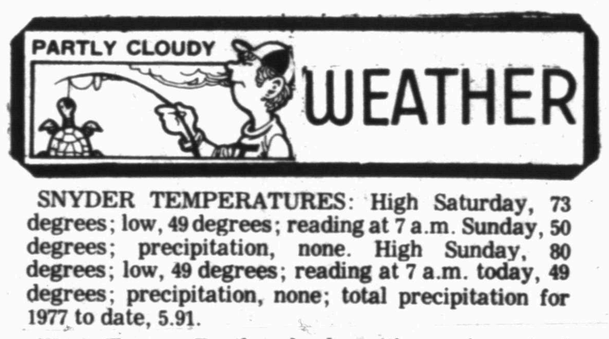

One of the changes made by the conference committee--which was appointed to adjust the differences between the House and Senate versions --would allow companies building coal slurry pipelines to condemn temporary work areas of up to 100 feet in width while the pipeline is being built.

The bill grants pipeline operators the power to condemn land for constructing the pipeline. The House must still vote on the conference committee report.

The bill also would permit the use of Texas water for personal needs of the personnel building and maintaining the pipeline, but not for transporting the coal.

Coal slurry pipelines would carry a 50-50 mixture of pulverized coal and water to the Texas Gulf Coast.

The Senate went to work in the morning, with the House scheduling an afternoon session of a $15.7 billion general appropriation bill.

Presentations Made By Guard

Pictures depicting the history of the Texas National Guard were presented to local schools, the city and Western Texas College during an "open house" observance Saturday at the National Guard Armory in Towle Memorial Park.

The open house was held in connection with observance of a special month by the National Guard. Designated as "Operation Lone Star," the period from April 15 to May 15 is focusing special attention on the local National Guard unit as it takes part in an intensive period of recruiting.

Capt. Don Vineyard, commander of the local guard unit, and S-Sgt. Bill Barlow, said that opportunities for service in the National Guard are being emphasized and brought to the attention of young people throughout the area during "Operation Lone Star."

As one who has declared himself wholeheartedly in favor of efficiency and economy in government perhaps President Carter should look into some of the federal assistance programs that funnel money into cities, towns and villages.

There have been complaints about the formula for distributing federal revenue sharing funds (Houston's Mayor Hofheinz is one of the leaders) because it seems to penalize cities who do the best job of helping themselves.

A similar situation apparently exists and even to a greater degree in the awarding of "block grants" for municipal improvements. These grants are ostensibly awarded on the basis of need, especially when its enhances the quality of life of minorities and underprivileged. However, cities who make special and successful efforts to take care of their own problems have no chance whatever of qualifying for such grants.

And a recent list of block grants announced by the West Central Texas Council of Governments discloses that towns who have literally done nothing in recent years to take care of their municipal obligations for services are automatically qualified to receive these grants. It seems that all a city must do to assure that Uncle Sam will step in and pick up the tab for an improvement project is to sit back and twiddle its thumbs and let its equipment and facilities go to pot. When it reaches the point where it becomes a health hazard, the town gets a grant without even competing against others to qualify.

And, of course, we all know who pays.

a step to democracy

There are so few democracies around anymore that it is cause for great rejoicing when a new one joins the dwindling ranks.

Much has been written about Spain's struggle to establish political freedom in the 17 months since the death of its long-time dictator, Francisco Franco. The country has taken another step in that direction by deciding to legalize the Communist party, which was outlawed by France after the 1936-39 civil war.

It is also a potentially dangerous step for the fledgling government of Premier Adolfo Suarez. The Communist foot in the door has more than once been followed by the stab in the back.

The action was not taken without serious dissent among Spaniards. The navy minister has resigned in protest and other governmental resignations were prevented only by the persuasive efforts of King Juan Carlos.

But the fact that Suarez felt Spain could now permit the return of a party which, if it ever got the power, would quickly abolish all other parties, signifies his confidence in the strength of the country's newfound democracy.

One can only hope the confidence is not premature.

"Refreshments?"

growing older

by harold blumenfeld

We complain about the increased cost of postage stamps and the occasional late delivery of our mail. But the mailman trudges through rain, snow, sleet, etc., and very often the postman rings twice to make his deliveries.

I've learned a few things about our postal system which help provide better service and also save us money. Although it now costs us 13 cents for a first class letter, the price is only 11 cents for each additional ounce. And the average rate for the first ounce in other countries is 17 cents.

No reason to send letters airmail since all distant mail is carried by plane anyway. It you have any old airmail stamps, use them up, but don't mark the envelope "airmail." If you do, it will be returned for extra postage.

A nine-cent postcard will arrive just as quickly, and you'll be saving the difference in the mail rate plus the cost of a letter head and an envelope. Next year you can cut down on the cost of those commercial Christmas greeting cards and the cost of the 13-cent stamps. Buy a couple of bright-colored felt-tipped marking pens and create your own Yuletide greetings on the message side of the nine-cent postcards. It will cost much less and will be appreciated as a personal message from you to someone you love.

When you move you should notify friends and organizations from whom you have been regularly receiving mail. The Post Office provides a free "Change of Address Kit." It contains cards to notify others of your move, and a reminder of people, publishers, companies, etc., you may forget to notify in the excitement of moving to a new home. And, of course, there's one card to notify your old local post office so they will forward mail which continues being sent to the old address.

The months following the Christmas holiday is the time when we can anticipate receiving calendars, gadgets, books, and assorted things - which we did not solicit. We are in no way obligated to acknowledge, pay or even return this material. However, if you did order something from a mail order house and believe the advertising was misleading, send a complaint to: Chief Postal Inspector, C.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

If you are dissatisfied with your local mail service, your own post office will provide a "Consumer Card" to help register your complaint.

Now's the time when your mail box is stuffed with advertising literature trying to sell you books and magazines, promoting travel, get-rich-quick contests, and soliciting charity contributions. Many of these advertising come-ons make interesting reading material. But if you want to stop receiving this advertising mail, write to: Direct Mail-Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Especially if you've moved far away and want to keep in touch with old friends, it's quite a chore writing individual letters. Write a round-robin letter to different groups who will pass the letter around or read it at a bridge club, neighborhood social or church party. In addition to eliminating the need for duplicating the same news in separate letters, the round robin can be mailed for 13 cents.

If you're sending a large package, first call the post office and you may learn you can save about a dollar if you're in no great hurry to have the package reach its destination.

Despite my occasional complaints, I believe our postal system does a pretty good job. We can help by addressing the envelope legibly and include the zip code. And reinforce a package with tape because twine may get tangled in post office equipment. Also in case the wrapper is torn or address smudged, put the address and return address inside the package. Which is a sure way to keep it from ending up in the dead letter department.

But I still look for ways to cut down on my postage expense. It used to cost me 13 cents each to mail my two monthly checks to the telephone and electric power companies, totalling $3.12 a year. If you also mail a check to a gas company, add another $1.56, all of which can be saved.

My local bank accepts the bills and checks and makes a bulk delivery to the utility companies.

Not only do I save money, but I get some much-needed exercise walking a half mile to the bank.

Accident Kills Pipeline Worker

FAIRBANKS (AP)—A 35-year-old trans-Alaska pipeline worker has been killed in an accident 22 miles north of the Franklin Bluffs Camp, the Alaska state troopers report.

The victim was identified as Virgil J. Boolin of Buchanan Dam, Tex.

The troopers said Boolin was crushed Thursday when the brakes on a lowboy failed as he was trying to lead a crawler tractor aboard it and he was caught between the tractor treads and a boom.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There's more trouble looming between the Carter administration and organized labor, which is rapidly coming to regard the new Democratic president as a wolf in sheep's clothing.

Carter's top economic advisers have reportedly turned thumbs down on legislation long sought by the maritime unions to require that 30 per cent of foreign oil headed for American refineries be shipped on U.S. flag carriers.

This "cargo preference" measure, a cherished goal of the shipping industry as well as maritime labor, was pocket-vetoed by President Ford in 1974 after heavy lobbying by the oil companies, which opposed the bill.

In retaliation, the maritime unions poured more than $150,000 into Jimmy Carter's primary campaign last year and vigorously supported his election over Ford.

The unions thought they had a firm commitment from Carter to back their cargo preference bill. But they are discovering, as others already have, that what Carter told them and what they thought they heard weren't always the same.

At a series of meetings with Carter during the campaign, maritime union leaders repeatedly emphasized the importance of the cargo preference bill to the merchant marine and to the U.S. shipbuilding industry. The cagey candidate responded with pledges of support for a "national cargo policy" that would assure U.S. ships access to a "fair share" of the maritime trade market.

Although Carter never explicitly endorsed the cargo preference bill itself, White House officials admit that he came pretty close to it and that his campaign promises to the maritime unions are making it awkward to oppose the legislation.

Nonetheless, Carter's economic advisers - like Ford's - are convinced the bill would drive up the cost of imported oil and contribute to inflation at a time when the economy simply can't afford the added pressure.

The only reason labor isn't publicly hollering "doublecross" is that so far, the administration has avoided taking a stand on the cargo preference measure.

The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee has held five days of hearings on the bill over the past couple of months. On each occasion, administration witnesses were asking to testify - and on each occasion, they declined, saying the president needed more time to develop a policy position.

"We haven't reached any agreement within the administraion as yet," one White House official told us, adding that an effort is under way to come up with some alternative proposals for strengthening the U.S. merchant marine.

Labor and its supporters on Capitol Hill insist they've already considered every possible alternative and found none that would be as effective as the cargo preference bill. But they concede their pet legislation will probably fail unless the president gives it his full support.

"So far, our meetings at the White House on the subject have been discouraging - to say the least," said one lobbyist for the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, which last June held a $1,000-per-person fund-raiser for Carter.

Organized labor always had trouble persuading Congress to enact legislation that is of benefit primarily to its own members. That's one reason the common site picketing bill so dear to the building trades was defeated this year, and why repeal of 14-B, the right-to-work section of the Taft-Hartley Act, remains a distant dream.

But with Carter in the White House, in part because of labor's massive campaign effort on his behalf, the unions really thought Washington was going to become a fat city for them. In what AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland has called a "triumph of hope over experience," they didn't expect a Democratic president to bite the hand that feeds without the slightest compunction.

experts disagree

NEW YORK (AP) — On the same day that a respected housing economist was saying that single-family housing starts this year could reach a record 1.4 million, a man who monitors consumer moods was declaring things very, very bad.

That's how the economic outlook appears at the moment, at least as depicted by those who are regulars in the business of looking ahead. There is a split. The reports are contradictory, often unclear and sometimes confusing.

For reasons that don't explain themselves very clearly, some students of economic matters have begun marking down the anticipated advance of 1977, while others seem unswayed by the challenge presented in President Carter's energy message.

Kenneth Thygerson, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, states that the housing industry is now well into what should be its best year since the boom days of the early 1970s.

Simultaneously, Albert Sindlinger comments that his company's measure of consumer attitudes, based on current and expected household money supply, took its biggest one-week drop ever, bigger even than that following imposition of the Arab oil embargo.

In Thygerson's view, Americans know their minds. They want single-family houses and they're prepared to buy and finance them with savings and easy terms. The supply of mortgage money is not just plentiful; it's abundant.

Sindlinger, however, says "This is a nation of confused people," following President Carter's energy message. We're being asked to sacrifice, he said, when that's what we've done for years. We're being told to conserve, he said, while we see government waste.

While Thygerson sees Americans expressing their confidence by committing themselves to the biggest purchases most of them will ever make, Sindlinger interprets such plans as a lack of confidence.

Listening to some of the more than 1,100 telephone interviews a week his firm conducts, Sindlinger observes: "They're buying houses for the same reason people used to buy gold."

Gold, he explained, is the last refuge of many people around the world who expect poor political or economic times. Americans are a bit different, he said. Their gold, their repository ot value, is a house. A house has utility.

And if it isn't a house, he continued, it's a car, a big car, because big cars might be in short supply some day and therefore might command a fairly good price, energy shortage and taxes notwithstanding.

Thygerson and Sindlinger aren't unique. They are chosen only because they represent views that are shared by many others in the business of measuring the economy's strength, present and future.

Because they seem to be poles apart, and are joined by hundreds of their colleagues at these poles, there does indeed seem to be some collective confusion about the future. Bringing them together at the positive pole seems to be still another challenge for President Carter, one in which he apparently could succeed.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Today is a rather important one for me since it is your 45th wedding anniversary."

Oswald: "We failed to discuss your 44th birthday that occurred just three weeks ago."

Jim: "How about some of your experiences in teaching mother how to play bridge?"

Oswald: "Here is a typical hand. I opened two notrump. The next player asked, 'How many points?' Mary Zita replied, 'It's supposed to be 21 or 22, but he probably has 19 or 20.' Then she bid six."

Jim: "This time 19 opposite 12 produces a good slam contract because it will make if South can score four club tricks or if something good happens in diamonds."

Oswald: "The clubs were wrong, but something good did happen in diamonds. West led his ace of spades and continued the suit. I cashed three hearts and three spades to come down to a six-card ending with just two diamonds left in my hand. Poor West had to chuck a club to keep protection for his queen-jack diamonds and I had my slam."

Ask the Jacobys

A Vermont reader wants to know how many points a positive response showed in the original Vanderbilt Club convention as described by Harold Vanderbilt.

In the original Vanderbilt convention point count wasn't used and two quick tricks were required. This could mean anywhere from 7-10 high-card points with 8 as a good approximation.

"About three years ago, I read an article about a man who invented a sail bicycle," he explained. "I was fascinated, so I built one myself."

New Study Underway On Air Bags

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Air bags are back in the spotlight again, despite a December ruling that deflated supporters of the controversial devices.

The federal government is conducting a new study to determine whether the bags should be required equipment on cars of the future.

A public hearing on the issue is scheduled in Washington on Wednesday. Written comments can be sent to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHYSA) up until May 27.

The hearing is being held in the department auditorium, between 12th and 14th Sts. on Constitution Ave. Written comments should be sent to the administration, Room 51-08 400 7th St., S. W., Washington, D. C. 20590. Writers should refer to Docket No. 74-14, Notice 08.

At issue is whether the government should require some sort of passive restraint system, such as air bags, to protect automobile occupants in case of accidents--even if the individuals take no action to help themselves.

Air bags are balloon-like devices that inflate automatically and almost instantly during a frontal crash. They begin deflating in less than a second. Another type of passive restraint system is a belt that is attached to the door of the car and automatically wraps itself about the driver when the door is closed.

William T. Coleman, then the secretary of transportation, ruled against mandatory air bags Dec. 6, although he did say they were technologically feasible. Coleman ordered further research to determine whether there was some way to increase seat belt usage.

Coleman's successor, Brock Adams, decided in February to reexamine the entire air bag issue.

Adams said he favors some type of passive restraint system, but added: "I haven't prejudged what should be done or when or how." He said the lighter, smaller cars of the future might not be safe enough without additional built-in protection.

Opponents of air bags say that seat belts--required since 1968-- provide adequate protection. They say air bags would boost the price of cars by as much as $300 and would limit consumers' freedom of choice. The opponents also argue that more tests are needed to determine the effectiveness of the air bags in actual traffic accidents and to make sure the bags cannot inflate accidentally.

Supporters contend that many people do not use the seat belts properly. The safety administration estimates that no more than 20 to 30 per cent of drivers and passengers buckle up. They claim almost 12,000 lives could be saved every year if air bags were required and that mandatory mass production would cut costs. Adams said he believes automakers could install air bags in all new cars by 1980 or 1981 at a cost to consumers of $100 to $150.

According to legend, the herb rosemary is associated with remembrance because it had a white flower which turned blue when the Virgin Mary hung her linen to dry on the rosemary bush during her flight into Egypt.

Lady Soviet Cosmonaut Visits In US

NEW YORK (AP)--Soviet cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova, the only woman ever to orbit the earth, is in the United States for a two-week visit.

The Tass news agency said her schedule included a meeting today with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and a news conference Tuesday in New York.

She also is to appear on NBC's "Today" show, and speak to the Conference of Presidents of U.S. Public Organizations and meet with the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

She arrived Sunday at Kennedy Airport aboard a Soviet Aeroflot jetliner. It is her third trip to the United States.

Mrs. Tereshkova, who has a 12-year-old daughter, piloted the Soviet Vestok-6 spaceship in 1963 and heads the Soviet Women's Committee.

Tribe Crumbles Before Yankees

By Herschel Nissenson
AP Sports Writer

You might say the New York Yankees have the Indian sign on the Cleveland Indians. At least since last July 1.

That was 10 losses ago, and the last time the Indians have beaten the Yankees. New York took the last seven 1976 meetings and made it three in a row this year with Sunday's 10-1, 7-1 doubleheader sweep.

"We don't have Yankeeitis, or anything like that," said Manager Frank Robinson. "We're just not getting the hits with men on base. If we score early and do some things with the opportunities we have, it's a different ball game."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers outlasted the California Angels 10-9, the Kansas City Royals clobbered the Seattle Mariners 16-1 then lost the nightcap 4-2, the Chicago White sox whipped the Oakland A's 12-5 and dropped the nightcap 11-4, the Baltimore Orioles edged Detroit 3-1 with the Tigers taking the second game 2-1, the Minnesota Twins outslugged the Texas Rangers 12-6 and the Boston Red Sox trounced the Toronto Blue Jays 9-0.

The Indians stranded 13 runners in the opener, 10 of them in the first four innings - they left the bases loaded in the second and third - as Gil Patterson and Dick Tidrow kept wriggling out of trouble.

Browning, Fritz Pace SHS To Runnerup Slot

Brad Browning and Ricky Fritz earned blue ribbons to lead Snyder High School's track and field team to second place Saturday in the District 3-AAA meet at Brownfield.

Browning leaped 6 feet, 4 inches to win the high jump, while Fritz turned in a time of 2:00.4 to win the 880 yard dash.

In all, Snyder scored 90 points and qualified five individuals for competition in the regional meet. Lubbock Estacado won the meet with 151 points.

Ricky Rice placed second in the pole vault with 13 feet, six inches off his best performance of the season. He was edged by Doug Cornett of Brownfield, who cleared 13-3.

Tim Falls placed second in the 120-yard high hurdles, with a time of 14.4 and fourth in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles with a 41.7.

Clay Peterson's 9.9, his best time of the year, won him second place in the 100-yard dash. He also placed third in the 220 with a time of 22.6. Kenneth James of Lubbock Dunbar won the 100 with a 9.75.

The Snyder mile relay team of Fritz, Joe Garza, Lloyd Benson and Johnny Velasquez placed third, and the 440-yard relay team of Doyle Browning, Ronnie Hines, Ronnie Collins and Peterson was fourth.

Randy Courtney placed fourth in the high jump with a 6-2; Joe Garza was sixth in the 880 with 2:08.4, Doyle Browning was sixth in the long jump with 19-5; Ronnie Collins was sixth in the 100 with 10.2; Lloyd Benson was fourth with a 52.2 and Johnny Velasquez was sixth with a 53.9 in the 440; and Ronnie Hines was sixth in the 220 with a 23.3.

Finishing behind Estacado and Snyder in the team standings were Lubbock Dunbar with 85 points, San Angelo Lake View 79, Brownfield 50, Lamesa 27 and Sweetwater 13.

SHS Golfers Finish 4th

Sweetwater's No. 2 team fired a 309 Saturday in the final round of district play to win the 3-AAA golf title with a season aggregate of 1287. Brownfield, which was second Saturday with 311 playing on its home course, also was second in the final district standings with 1291.

Snyder's No. 1 team had a 317 in the final round of the season and finished in fourth place over-all with a total of 1318 strokes. The third place team in the final district standings is Sweetwater's No. 1 team with 1308. Lamesa finished fifth with 1351 and Snyder No. 2 was sixth with 1455.

In the final round Saturday, for Snyder No. 1, Mike O'Day had a 78, Lance McMillan and Clint Baack each had a 79, and Ronnie Parnell and Dennis Gary each hand an 81. For Snyder No. 2, Randy McCown had an 83, Randy Wolfe 85, Chip Wadleigh and Randy Chambers 86 each, and Mike Wolfe 92. Tommy Holder, playing as an individual medalist, had 100.

'Horns Dethroned As Hogs Triumph

By The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns have lost their first Southwest Conference baseball title in 12 years, but their timing is good.

For the first time, the SWC is holding a postseason baseball tournament to determine its representative in the NCAA playoffs, so Coach Cliff Gustafson's crew will get a chance to redeem itself for finishing second to Texas A&M.

Texas' second-place finish was sealed Sunday when Arkansas' Tim Lollar and Bill Bakewell combined for a two-hit shutout in a 1-0 Razorback victory over the Longhorns.

Lollar, now 6-1, allowed only a bloop single by Wendell Hibbett before walking leadoff hitter Bobby Kearney in the eighth inning, when he was relieved by Bakewell. Then Kearney was picked off first base by catcher Jeff Hemm to end the threat.

Bakewell surrendered a single to Charlie Proske and a walk to Mickey Riechenbach in the ninth, but got Hibbett to bounce into a force play, ending the contest.

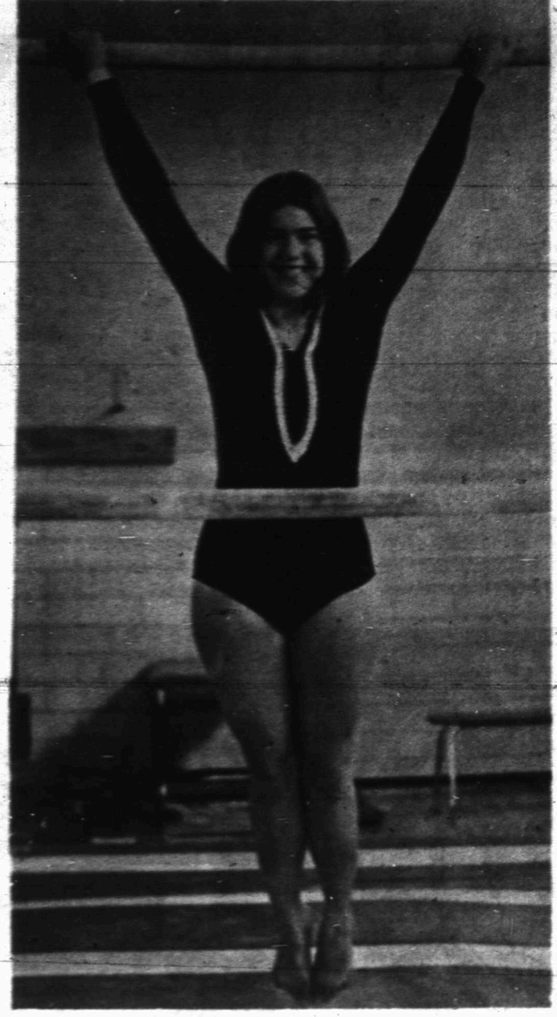

Arkansas scored the game's only run in the first inning when Arvis Harper struck out but reached first on a passed ball, went to second on Ralph Bradbury's single and raced home on Lollar's single.

The defeat left Texas 16-5 in the SWC with three games to play against Baylor next weekend. A&M finished at 18-4 after knocking Houston out of the tournament with a three-game sweep Friday and Saturday.

The Razorbacks, with a 14-10 mark, and Baylor, owning a 13-8 record, will be the third and fourth teams in the postseason double elimination tournament, to be played May 19-20 and 22-23 in Austin.

Even if Baylor loses all its games to Texas next weekend, its 13-11 record would beat out fourth-place Texas Tech, which finished 12-12.

Ever since he managed the Texas Rangers, Yankee manager Billy Martin has lived in Arlington, Tex.

STATE COMPETITOR—Laura Cameron of Snyder High School placed 15th in a field of 40 on the uneven bars at the State Gymnastics Meet held over the weekend at San Angelo. The Snyder High team, newest in the meet, placed 7th. (SDN Staff Photo)

SHS Gymnasts 7th In State

Snyder High School's Gymnastics Team finished seventh in a field of nine teams of Division I of the State Gymnastics meet held over the weekend in San Angelo.

Coach Doug Fitzjarrell said he was pleased with the performance of the Snyder team, which was in its first year of state competition.

"We were the newest team there, and less than five points separated the fifth, sixth and seventh place teams," said Fitzjarrell.

Odessa High won the state title with 196.65 points, while L.D. Bell of Hurst was second with 191.10, Odessa Permian was third with 183.70, San Angelo Central was fourth with 188.10, Houston Dulles was fifth with 166.75, Alvin was sixth with 163.95, Snyder was seventh with 162.80, Highlands was eighth with 160.80 and Kingsville was ninth with 103.60.

Laura Cameron of Snyder was 15th in a field of 40 contestants on the uneven bars, and Rita Black was 18th in a field of 40 on the balance beam. Miss Black is as sophomore.

Slow-Pitch Softball Meet Set Tonight

There will be a meeting of all Slow-Pitch Softball League team coaches, or representatives, tonight at 8 o'clock at Snyder National Bank.

All teams that have been formed, or that are trying to form, have been urged to have a representative present. If a team cannot be represented, the Jaycee project chairman, Robert Pinkston, should be contacted at 573-9692 between 5 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Purpose of tonight's meeting is to set up guidelines and a committee to run the league this summer.

Womack Is Defeated By Pecos Entrant

Margaret Womack, making her second trip in as many years to the regional tennis tournament Saturday, lost in the second round of play to Angie Shoemaker of Pecos, 6-3, 3-6, 5-7. She defeated Laura Dillard of Canyon in the first round, 6-3, 6-1.

Marcus Anderson will make his first appearance in regional play when he goes to Odessa for the boys regional meet this Friday.

Coach Bill Boles, who accompanied Miss Womack to the regional meet, commented that tennis is a game of mistakes "where you earn about 25 per cent of your points and receive the rest by mistakes made by your opponent. In keeping statistics Saturday, Boles said Margaret got 55 per cent of her first serves in both matches, while making 42 errors and hitting three "winners" in her first match. In the second match, which went three sets, she made 31 mistakes while hitting no "winners." The third set, which would send her to the state meet, was decided on 34 mistakes while she was hitting three "winners," Boles said.

"The game of tennis has often been referred to as a 'comedy of errors' and these statistics prove this to be true," said Boles. "Margaret played well all season and has another year of high school tennis to look forward to."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Blood sugar factors

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me the difference between hypoglycemia and hyperinsulinism. For several years I had spells of passing out and was out for three hours one day and taken to the hospital.

After a lot of tests my blood sugar was down to 40. I am on a high protein, no sugar, low carbohydrate diet and am okay as long as I stay on it. My doctor told me and put on all my papers that I had hyperinsulinism but someone else said it was just hypoglycemia.

DEAR READER — If that someone else had your problem he might not think it was just hypoglycemia.

Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) can be caused by many factors. Liver disease is one cause. A rebound type of reaction that occurs from rapid emptying of the stomach is another cause, as may occur after a stomach operation. It can occur after drinking too much alcohol or from a variety of complex enzyme disturbances. It can also occur because of disease of the adrenal glands. Low blood sugar is a symptom not a diagnosis.

One of the causes of hypoglycemia is an overproduction of insulin. The abnormality and hence the diagnosis then is hyperinsulinism and it causes hypoglycemia. The excess insulin production lowers the blood sugar. So hyperinsulinism can cause hypoglycemia but not all cases of hypoglycemia are caused by hyperinsulinism. Regardless of the cause, a severe case of true hypoglycemia that causes the problems you describe can be an important medical problem.

I am sending you The Health Letter, number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar; Hypoglycemia. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In accordance with your Health Letter on exercise I started my exercise by walking. At first I walked slowly and gradually increased speed and distance. I am now walking five miles in 75 minutes each day. I just noticed that about the center of my right calf a half inch bubble bulged out. It looks like a varicose vein. It disappears when I elevate the leg.

I am neither obese nor pregnant nor do I think that I have an abdominal tumor. What do I do now; decrease my walking, slow it up, stop it altogether or use an elastic bandage and keep on walking as I am doing now?

DEAR READER — That bubble which disappears when you elevate the leg is a varicose vein. Such spots are usually where a vein connects the superficial veins you can see to the deep veins inside the leg muscles. They can become over-distended into a varicosity also and sometimes are called "blow-outs."

Your walking did not cause the blow-out. The muscular contractions from walking milks the blood out of the deep veins and empties them as well as the connecting branches. Standing still would allow pressure to develop and could aggravate varicose vein problems.

You can use an elastic bandage or support stocking. It is most important when you are standing still or sitting, not while you are walking.

If the blow-out bothers you then you should see your doctor and see if he wants to tie off that vein.

One doesn't have to be fat, female, or have a tumor in the abdomen to develop varicose veins even though these factors do increase the tendency to develop them.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Important matters should not be finalized hastily today. In your eagerness to wrap something up you could lose some benefits.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to see things today for what they truly are and not what you would like them to be. The only one you're kidding is yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions relating to your resources are very tricky today. You could gain on the one hand, yet lose on the other.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others are willing to help you today but, unfortunately, they may not be the right ones to open the proper doors.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is opportunity around you today, but if it is ineptly handled it may not amount to much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful if doing business with friends today. One of you might wind up feeling they've been had.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others may throw roadblocks in your path today if you fail to treat them tactfully. Woo your allies, don't wound them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Second effort isn't your long-suit today. It's more likely you'll give up on tasks that you can't breeze right through.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take nothing for granted in your delusion today. Things that look nifty on the surface could be very complicated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might prove very unwise to let someone else make an important decision for you today. Think for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Taking on more responsibility than you can competently handle could prove extremely frustrating today. Keep your projects to a minimum.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Lady Luck could desert you today in risky, financial ventures. Don't put her to the test.

Civil Defense Officials Stuck With Crackers

DETROIT (AP)—Civil defense officials are asking if "Polly wants- a cracker?" Or anyone else, for that matter.

They are stuck with 240,000 boxes of crackers, left from the 1960s when the federal government stocked 600 Detroit-area nuclear fallout shelters with provisions.

The 5 million pounds of crackers have since outlived their shelf life. In other words, they are rancid or stale.

Civil defense officials say some will be used to feed squirrels and deer, but the rest are being offered to chicken farmers or anyone else willing to pick them up.

In addition to the crackers, the provisions included hard candy.

The candy is still good, although somewhat tasteless by now, authorities said.

Legion Post Meets Tonight

Layne-Kite Post No. 181, American Legion, will hold its business meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Post Home, 1802 Ave. R.

The session tonight will include initiation of new members, and a meal will be served following the business meeting.

All Legionaires have been urged to attend. The Auxiliary of the Legion is not meeting tonight.

House Burglary, Mishaps Logged

A reported house burglary, an act of criminal mischief and three traffic accidents were investigated over the weekend by Snyder policemen.

Saturday evening officers received a report of a possible house burglary of the 2201 21st St. residence of Maudie Harrison. Nothing, however, is believed to have been taken in the alleged breakin. Entry to the house is theorized to have occurred between 3:15 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. Saturday.

Fred Davis told officers that three tires on his 1966 Oldsmobile had been slashed by vandals while the vehicle was parked at the Canary Court Apartments. Damage was set at approximately $141. The incident was reported to officers at 9:45 a.m. Saturday.

A 12-year-old Snyder boy received minor injuries Saturday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding was involved in a collision with a car.

Joseph Yruegas, the biclyist, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

The youth was involved in a collision with a 1976 Oldsmobile driven by Ruth Barlett at 4:20 p.m. Saturday in the 3900 block of Denison.

At 4:39 p.m. Saturday, cars driven by Billy Jack Murray and Florentino Escobedo were in collision at the intersection of 37th St. and Ave. Z.

Reports at the police station showed that Murray was driving a 1976 Mercury and Escobedo was driving a 1975 Chevrolet. Only minor damages were reported to the two vehicles.

A minor one-vehicle accident occurred Sunday shortly after 1 p.m. at the intersection of College Ave. and Cogdell Drive. A 1974 Chevrolet driven by Jewel Williams struck a street signs and a light pole.

Beef, Salmon Stakes Now

DENVER (AP)--Thirty pounds of Colorado beef versus 20 pounds of Oregon salmon.

These are the stakes Colorado and Oregon governors are wagering on the National Basketball Association semifinals between the Denver Nuggets and the Portland Trail Blazers.

The original bet was $100 straight cash, but Oregon law forbids state officials from accepting $100 or more from anyone, even another governor.

The stakes were changed to 100 pounds each of beef and salmon. Same problem. One hundred pounds of either is worth more than $100.

So, Oregon Gov. Robert Straub and Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm settled on 30 pounds of beef against 20 pounds of salmon.

The loser is to pay out of his own pocket and both governors have agreed the winner will donate the pot to a charitable institution.

The Trail Blazers are one game out front in the best of seven playoff series. The next game is Tuesday in Portland.

Attempt Made On Khadafy's Life

CAIRO (AP)-- Libyan President Moammar Khakafy was wounded in the hand last week by a would-be assassin, says Egypt's official Middle East New Agency.

The agency quoted travelers coming from Libya as saying the gunman, a Libyan, shot himself to death after failing to kill Khadafy.

Carter Wins Favor Of Public

NEW YORK (AP)--President Carter's proposed energy program has won him favor with the public, but the majority of Americans think the program will hurt the economy and impose personal hardships, according to a Gallup Poll.

The survey said 40 per cent of the 507 persons questioned were more favorably disposed toward the President because of his program, while 39 per cent said they felt the same and 13 per cent felt less favorable.

The telephone survey was conducted for Newsweek magazine last Wednesday night and Thursday after Carter had announced his energy plan to a joint session of Congress and before a national television audience.

Newsweek said 82 per cent of those questioned felt increased energy costs would cause personal economic hardship.

The magazine said 64 per cent felt the nation's economy would suffer if the program was adopted.

According to the survey, 54 per cent of those questioned said they felt the nation is faced with a very series energy crisis. Two weeks ago, 43 per cent of those sampled believed that the nation's energy shortages were serious, the survey said.

Special Probe On Prostitution

FORT WORTH (AP)--Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill has authorized a special investigation after a report prepared for the state Organized Crime Prevention Council said that prostitution activites have increased significantly in the last five years.

"Virtually all metropolitan areas of the state indicated they are experiencing some amount of prostitution, either from the presence of individual, unorganized prostitutes, through organized operations or a combination of both types of activity," the report said.

The Fort Worth Star Telegram reported in a copyrighted story Sunday that Hill has authorized the special investigation. The newspaper said the investigation will include prostitution connections with organized crime and white slavery.

The newspaper said that the openness of prostitution in Texas--in major cities as well as small communities--is a major problem in the state.

Asked to comment about the investigation, Hill told the Star Telegram, "This is premature and I can't comment on it at this time."

Hill did say, however, the prostitution problem is increasing in Texas and he sees increased involvement from organized crime elements in prostitution activities.

"Many people only speak of the Dixie Mafia or the Italian Mafia," Hill said. "But criminal activities exist whether or not they are related directly to these groups.

Firemen Called

The first fire in 11 days was extinguished this morning by Snyder firemen.

Firemen were dispatched at approximately 9:45 a.m. today to extinguish a reported couch fire at 1905 Coleman St.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Martin

Mrs. Octavia Martin 81, of Snyder died at 5:35 p.m. Sunday in Mercy Hospital in Slaton.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Bell-Seale Funereal Home Chapel. The Rev. Buddy Sipes, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Cisco, will officiate, and burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under the direction of Bell-Seale.

A native of Weatherford, Mrs. Martin was married on Jan. 19, 1912, at Ira to T. H. (Tom) Martin. He preceded her in death on July 4, 1966.

Surviving are three sons, T. L. (Lowell) Martin of Ira, Marshall Martin of Lubbock and J. Earl Martin of San Angelo; eight grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Man Choked Up Over Dog

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — For Homer LeBlond, meeting a dog was one of the greatest moments of his life.

"I guess it sounds funny for a person my age, but I was...choked up," said LeBlond, 46.

The North Bay, Ont., man has been blind for the past 28 years, and Jerry the guide dog was special - a puppy of Liberty, the pet of former President Gerald Ford and his family.

The Fords gave Jerry, a golden retriever, to Lisa Jensen of Kalamazoo to keep until he could begin training at Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester.

Prince Urges Youth To Help

WINDSOR, England (AP)--Prince Charles is urging British youth to use their energy and enthusiasm to help people rather than "bashing each other."

The prince is chairman of a fund organized as part of the Silver Jubilee of his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, to benefit community projects for young people.

Glomar Explorer May Still Probe Deep Sea

SUISUN CITY, Calif. (AP)--The Glomar Explorer, built to raise a Soviet submarine in 1974, may yet be used for the purpose that was its cover-deep sea probes.

The ship, costing a reported $550 million, was built for the Central Intelligence Agency under the cover of Global Marine Development, Inc., a subsidiary of Howard Hughes' Summa Corp.

It is now in mothballs near San Francisco waiting for a decision on its future use.

John Pottinger, the Maritime Administration's mothball fleet supervisor, recently showed the 36,000-ton ship to two reporters for the Sacramento Bee, who said they were the first journalists aboard since her arrival four months ago.

The ship is now in the hands of the U.S. Navy. Upkeep costs $300,000 a year--$3,500 a month just for electricity to run security lighting.

The newspaper said the National Foundation is awaiting word from its board of directors in Washington on a request for up to $5 million to study the feasibility of a 10-year, deep ocean drilling program.

Dr. Peter E. Wilkness of the NSF's Ocean Sediment Coring Porgram was quoted as saying that could include conversion of the Glomar Explorer at a cost of up to $52 million. He said it would cost about $110 million to build a new ship for the research.

There's also a possibility it will be used for mining the ocean floor for metal nodules, which would require a less-expensive conversion.

Rep. Robert L. Leggett, D-Calif., who represents the district, told the Bee the Glomar Explorer was "a treasure hunter and that should be exploited. How many ships were lost during World War II? Literally thousands. There is much to be recovered."

The ship has a cavern 200 feet long and 80 feet deep that opens to admit vessels or other objects brought up by a huge claw and three derricks.

Pottinger said the ship's engineers were a closed-mouth group who told him and his workmen only what they needed to know to take care of her.

"It must have had quite a crew," he said. "They took excellent care of everything."

Rig Count Up Slightly

The Permian Basin oil-well drilling rig count rose to 289 last week, according to the weekly survey by Reed Drilling Equipment.

The week's total represents a gain of one over the 288 reported the previous week, and is 87 more than the total a year ago.

Pecos County and Lea County, New Mexico, tied again for most rigs in operation, with 28 each. Eddy County, New Mexico, followed with 24 units making hole.

Scurry County had three rigs drilling, compared to four the previous week. Other area counties had the following totals, with the past week and the week before, in order: Borden 1 and 1; Dawson 5 and 4; Fisher 3 and 3; Garza 4 and 2; Howard 10 and 8; Kent 2 and 2; Mitchell 6 and 5; Nolan 1 and 1 Stonewall 4 and 4.

Carter's Aunt Helps Waitresses

WINSTON SALEM, N.C. (AP)--Restaurant hostess Vera Jarvis desperately needed help with the lunchtime crowd, but never dreamed it would come from President Carter's aunt.

An extra waitress had been relieved after the breakfast crowd was taken care of Sunday, and no one expected 30 members of the Roswell, Ga., Historical Society to come trooping in for lunch.

When an elderly lady commented that one of the waitresses looked tired, Mrs. Jarvis said she and the waitress had been working since 5 a.m. "with no coffee and no breakfast."

"She turned to me and said, "Well, bless your heart and hers too. Just as soon as I go up and pack my suitcase, I'm going to come back and help out some." Mrs. Jarvis recalled.

Other members of the group then told Mrs. Jarvis that her new helper was Mrs. W. J. "Sissy" Delvin, youngest of Mrs. Lillian Carter's nine brothers and sisters and an aunt of the President.

"She was the most down-to-earth person I ever met," Mrs. Jarvis said. "When I found out who she was, I said I guessed she wouldn't come back."

But, returning in a blue pantsuit, Mrs. Delvin grabbed a coffee pot and breezed from table to table, pouring coffee and preparing places for new customers, Mrs. Jarvis said.

Phillips Leases Deep-Water Boat

NEW YORK (AP)--The Discovery Seven Seas is an advanced deep-water drilling ship which can drill in water to a depth of 6,000 feet. The $60 million ship, which is leased by Phillips Petroleum, uses an onboard computer to pinpoint and hold drilling sites.

Langdon Says Carter's Energy Plan 'Nightmare'

AUSTIN (AP)—Commissioner Jim Langdon of the Texas Railroad Commission, an outspoken critic of federal energy policies, said President Carter's energy address showed "absolute—distrust—in the free market system."

Interviewed on an Austin radio program, Langdon added, "If they (oil and gas producers) make windfall profits, tax 'em. If they make it dishonestly or improperly, put 'em in jail, but don't just assume these people are all just a bunch of bandits."

Langdon, a former civil appeals judge who was appointed to the oil and gas regulatory agency by Gov. John Connally in 1963, was interviewed on "State Capitol Dateline."

"I thought almost nothing that he (Carter) said about production would lead to the enhancement of our energy supplies," Langdon stated. "I'm afraid that he has left no room for incentives for the people who are going out and drilling for oil and gas."

He described the Carter program as an "administrative and regulatory nightmare—really that's what it amounts to. There are all types of rewards for everybody except these people engaged in producing the energy."

Asked if the commission might propose an alternative energy policy, Langdon replied, "I think that would be an exercise in futility."

He said federal government questions about the reserve figures supplied by the oil and gas industry "is just another way to try to discredit the people who are engaged in the production of energy."

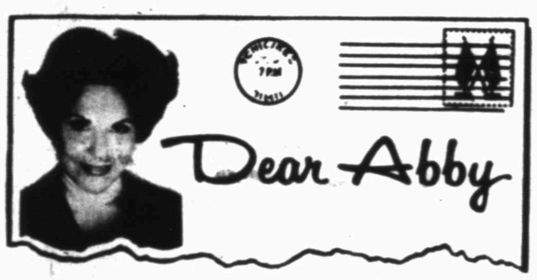

Langdon said he has "never really been suspicious" of these figures—which go back to 1918. "Any high school boy could look at these figures and tell if they were being manipulated," he said.

Langdon said oil companies are so competitive they "fight like bears."

Concluding his remarks on Carter's proposals, Langdon said, "I think Mr. Carter has been handed a bill of goods by some advisers who don't know a damn thing about what they are doing."

Canadian Favors Fed Health Plan

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The widow of a physician complained because two years after her husband's death, his unpaid bills totalled $11,000. Your suggestion was: "It's a wise dentist who collects his fee while the tooth is still aching"—in other words, payment in advance. This would limit health care to those who can afford it.

An example of how unfair that would be is the case of the woman who was refused admission to four hospitals just south of the U.S.-Canadian border because she was on welfare. The poor woman finally gave birth in a cab.

Under a government health plan, as we have in Canada, the doctor submits his bills to the government, so when he dies, no one owes him anything for health care. Your rebuttal to this will probably entail all the bad things (mostly untrue) that you've heard about government health care.

In Manitoba we don't even pay premiums, so only the taxpayers pay for health care—according to income. Unfortunately for the U.S., such plans are labled "communist" (again untrue), so the poor of your country will continue to go untreated adequately, and dedicated physicians like the widow's husband will go unpaid.

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: You make socialized medicine sound ideal. But whenever private enterprise is replaced by a government institution, incentive is thwarted and the quality of services usually deteriorates.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a person who at age 26 has his last NAME legally changed?

When I asked him why he changed his name, he said, "For business reasons."

Care to comment?

N.Y. READER

DEAR READER: Yes. It's HIS business.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for constantly reminding your readers to have their dogs and cats neutered in order to keep them from running wild, being killed in the streets or reproducing at such a rapid rate that thousands of unwanted animals are destroyed each year.

I enclose some recent figures from the Orange County Animal Shelter:

Total live animals received at their shelter annually:	62,000
Total dead received:	12,800
Total dogs destroyed:	23,000
Total cats destroyed:	17,400

Have a nice day.

NANCY IN SAN CLEMENTE

DEAR NANCY: I'll try to have a nice day, but my night may not be so nice. Those figures are shocking. You've performed a much needed humanitarian service by reminding me to remind my readers once more to neuter their pets!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box, No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Dad Offers Reward For Girl's Killer

TULSA (AP)--A $5,000 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer of Bernice Kuhlman, 20.

Alvin Kuhlman of Canyon, the young woman's father, offered the reward Sunday and said he hopes the fund will grow with contributions from Tulsa residents.

Miss Kuhlman moved here last summer from Canyon and found work with a travel agency. Her nude body was found in a creek in west Tulsa Jan. 15. Police said she had been beaten, raped and strangled.

"This reward money is her education fund," Kuhlman said from his home Sunday night. "We'd saved a little bit every year since the day she was born."

He said they established the college fund by selling "Three calves a year for the past 20 years" from the family ranch.

Authorities report no leads in the investigation of Miss Kuhlman's death.

Ralph Nader Influence Soars Through Raiders

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ralph Nader may not make quite so many headlines as he used to, but by one measure anyway his influence on government policy has soared. Many of "Nader's Raiders" now held important posts in the Carter administration and in Congress.

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the 1960's, when they worked for Ralph Nader in makeshift offices in a crumbling Victorian mansion, Harrison Wellford, Theodore Jacobs and Lowell Dodge hardly imagined they'd some day get a crack at reorganizing the government.

But they and scores of other former Nader workers have found places in the higher reaches of the Carter administration and on Capitol Hill.

They insist that holding office won't dilute their consumerist ideals, but there's a difference. Wellford, associate director of the Office of Management and Budget, summed it up:

"When you're on the outside, you don't have to face up to the consequences of your ideas, the tradeoffs, the scope of responsibilities," he says. "You didn't have to worry that some cabinet member or the President was going to implement your proposals."

Most of the Nader folk now on Capitol Hill made the transition slowly, first working for the Carter campaign, then during the transition period

Wellford, for example, worked at Nader's Center for Study of Responsive Law from 1969 to 1972, was the late Sen. Philip Hart's chief of staff through 1976, joined Carter's campaign and worked on his transition team.

Being associated with Nader, however, isn't without its drawbacks. Some say they have been accused of having an anti-business bias, of being Nader's inside agents, although Wellford and James Fallows, at least, say Nader is just one of the many voices they listen to.

Fallows, who once dug out corporate corruption in the South and now is Carter's head speech writer, says he is on the phone with Nader from time to time, sometimes seeking advice, sometimes taking his criticism. "A lot of people who bear his stamp are in the Carter administration. But it isn't that he's been laying plans to place his people into federal government."

Wellford, Jacobs and Dodge are working on the much-heralded federal reorganization.

Jacobs has known Nader since 1951 when they were freshmen at Princeton. He was director of Nader's "Center" from the beginning of the Nixon years "when we always viewed ourselves as working from the outside. But always inherent was a feeling that something could be done from within."

Needing a change, Jacobs left Nader in 1975 for the House Investigations Committee, chaired by former New York Congresswoman Bella Abzug.

Now he is a member of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, where he will cooperate with Wellford in the reorganization effort.

Dodge had a more distant, and at times, strained relationship with Nader, heading an affiliated group called the Center for Auto Safety from 1969 to 1974.

"I'm getting paid three times more to do what I was doing for Ralph," he says. "Ralph might consider that a sellout."

Of working with the Congress, he says: "I'd always criticized it for being political and too superficial. But some of my preconceptions have been shattered."

Joan Claybrook, if confirmed by the Senate as head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, probably will have the most powerful administrative job of any former Nader associate. She worked in the Transportation Department in the 1960s and had done legislative staff work on several occasions. In the 1970s, as head of Nader's Congress Watch group, she earned the reputation, which she agrees with, of being one of Washington's best lobbyists.

Already some of the auto industry have questioned her objectivity since she openly advocates such things as cars which are crash-worthy at 50 miles per hour.

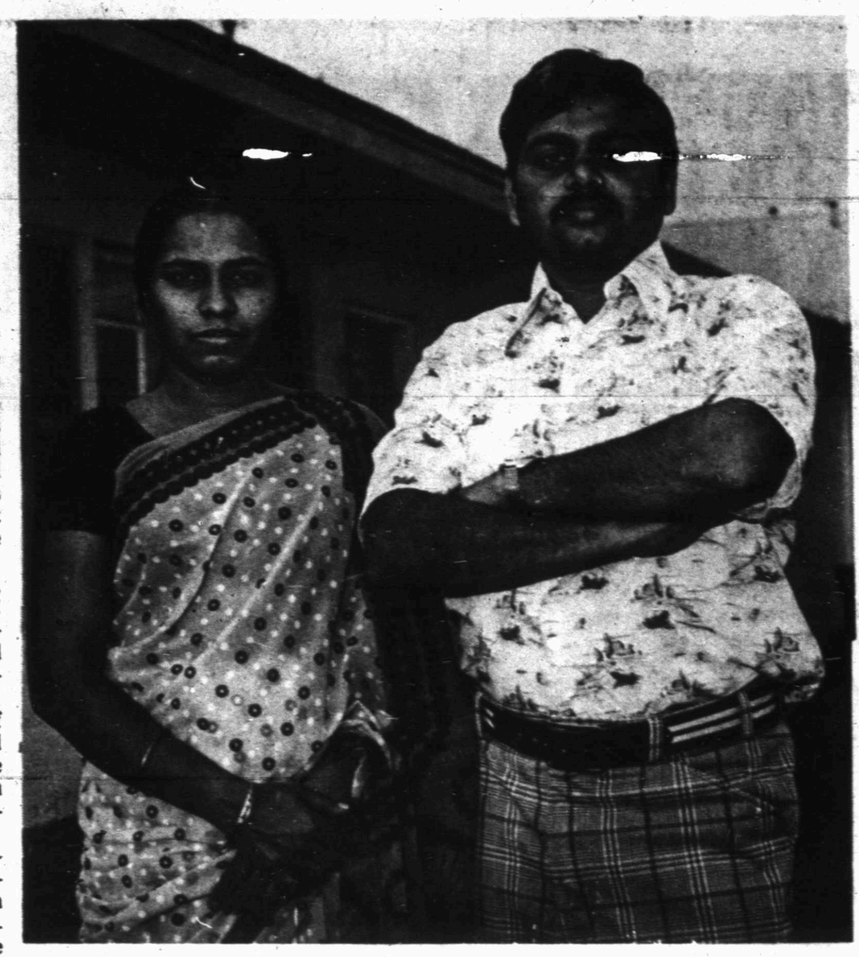

People can use any excuse they want to criticize," she says. "I'd rather be judged on the merits. I think I have gained a lot of respect on Capitol Hill."

The auto industry isn't the only corner for her critics. Some of Nader's people reportedly told her they'd give her three weeks to settle in - and then start their blitz.

"Ralph wouldn't be doing his job if he didn't," she says with a chuckle.

Years of fighting for change from the outside have left all of the former Nader people a bit skeptical about what they can do on the inside to change Washington.

Says Jacobs, "It's somewhat naive to say that because Joan Claybrook and the others are in, that the government will change very substantially very quickly. It's more likely we'll get more of the same for quite a while."

NEW SNYDERITES—Narottam Patel and his wife, Shushila, are new residents of Snyder. They have been living here since April 1 after purchasing the Ponderosa and Travel Inn Motels. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Natives Of India Move Here To Operate Motels

By JOHN LONG

"I have found nice, friendly people here in Snyder," said Narottam K. Patel of his new home.

Patel is a native of the Surat District in the State of Gujaret, India. Travelling from India in 1970, Patel first went to Toronto, Canada, before coming to this country and entering the motel business.

Patel is the owner of the Ponderosa and Travel Inn Motels here. Employed as a farmer in India, Patel studied the American motel industry from an uncle in California.

He came to this country to join a pair of family members already here, he said, referring to his two uncles. One of the uncles has been in the motel business since 1951 in San Francisco.

Patel also owned a motel in San Francisco, but sold it to buy his two motels here. He first came to Snyder during February to consummate the business deal and officially took over the operations of the motels April 1.

"Things are very different, he said, from what he had encountered in India and even in California.

India is an Asian country approximately half the size of the United States, but with a burgeoning population of about 600 million people.

Patel, 32, was born when India was still an English colony. Noting recent political developments in India, Patel said he was glad to see the political party of Indira Gandhi being ousted from power and a new government coming in.

Commenting on the recent rains in the Snyder area, Patel observed that in the region of India where he was reared it rains almost continually for four months.

Patel, however, is leaving behind a drought stricken California as water conservation measures have already been implemented.

Another new experience for Patel is the West Texas sandstorm. Patel pointed out that while sandstorms sometimes rage in certain parts of California, they do not often get down to the San Francisco area.

Patel, his wife Shushila and their three children live in the manager's quarters at the Ponderosa Motel west of town. The two oldest children attend a local elementary school.

While still retaining some of their native Indian customs, the family members are becoming Americanized.

Big Cars Will Be Dead By'85

DETROIT (AP)—The spacious fuel-guzzzling automobile is nearing the end of its road. But the American driver will continue to buy them until the last one rolls off the production line.

"The law is pretty clear," said one automotive executive. "We just can't build big cars much longer. And that's the only way you can stop people from buying them."

There is no dispute among auto executives that the so-called "gas guzzler"—an American symbol for two decades—will be dead by 1985.

President Carter's energy program calls for a standby tax on gasoline and a nuisance tax on buying big models.

And under a federal law now on the books, new cars must meet tough fuel economy standards. For 1978, each company's fleet of cars must average at least 18 miles per gallon. By 1985, the standard is 27.5 m.p.g.—a figure which only subcompact cars currently obtain.

To meet the ultimate standard, the auto companies are making all their cars shorter, narrower and lighter with smaller engines. By 1980, they should come full circle: The average full-size car will be equivalent to today's compact, which is the equivalent of the full-size car of 1955.

Scouts Help In Tire Recycling

SANTA ANA (AP)--Boy Scouts in Troop 151 here are helping themselves and the environment by collecting old tires and are also solving a raw material problem for a local tire retreader.

The troop collected more than 1,500 old tires for Fred's, a retreader in nearby Orange and earned more than $600 for troop projects.

The recycling drive, in addition to ridding the landscape of discarded tires, helped save oil.

Ask Dick Kleiner

MechanicalKong didn't make it

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I heard on the radio that the 40-foot "King Kong" mechancial monster played in only 25 seconds in the movie and the actor who played in 99 per cent of the film wasn't credited at all. Was the monster a publicity rip-off? GEORGE CLEES, Silver Creek, N.Y.

Pretty much. The mechanical monster just didn't work very well, so they had to turn to the man-in-the-monkey-suit. To give him the credit he deserves, his name is Rick Baker, and he not only wore the costume, he built it. He's a make-up man as well as stuntman — he won an Emmy for designing Cicely Tyson's makeup for "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pitman."

DEAR DICK: I have seen the movie, "King Kong," and it was great but, on the posters for the movie, King Kong is shown fighting Phantom jets, and in the movie he is not. Why? W.M.N., El Monte, Ca.

A little artistic license by the poster painters. They apparently felt that jets looked more dramatic on the poster. But, during the shooting, they used helicopters because they could fly lower than jets and hover.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know if John Belushi, of Saturday Night, is going to quit like Chevy Chase did. If not, is he really ill? BECKY LEONARD, Tucson, Ariz.

At the moment, Belushi has no plans to leave the show. He was sidelined with some leg problems and hospitalized, but is now back on the show.

DEAR DICK: On the segment of Charlie's Angels where Farrah Fawcett-Majors was on a skateboard, after she stepped on it, did she or didn't she have a stand-in stunt girl finish the ride? JEAN WOLFE, Hebron, Ohio.

I'm told by my Farrah informant that it was a stunt girl — for safety's sake — although she does know how to ride one of those contraptions.

DEAR DICK: My friend and I have a disagreement. I read that Lee Majors and Coach Johnny Majors are cousins. My friend says she read that Lee was actually born Lee Yeary and changed his name because he idolized Johnny Majors. Can you settle this? L.B., Gate City, Va.

You're both partly right. Lee and Johnny are cousins, but Lee wasn't born a Majors. When he became an actor, he decided to take the name Majors, because it was a family name.

DEAR DICK: There is a big rumor that you had an affair with Anita Bryant. Is this true? D.T., Amado, Ariz.

No, darn it. The closest we ever came was one day when I had a glass of orange juice.

DEAR DICK: My wife is typically female, and I hate to prove once again that she is wrong and I'm right, but will you tell her that Charles Dierkop of Police Woman also goes by the name of Dick Bakalyan? RALPH BOARDMAN, Tustin, Ca.

I hate to do this to you, Boardman, but you're wrong — just this once. Dierkop and Bakalyan are two entirely different guys.

DEAR DICK: My 2-year-son loves trains. Once in a while on the Captain Kangaroo Show they show a train film while a song is playing. I think it's called "The Chicka Train Song." I've gone to every record store but can't find this song. I even wrote to the Captain, but got no reply. Could you please tell me the name of the song, the artist who sings it and where I can purchase it? PAULA FOXWORTH, Camden, N.J.

It's called "I'm a Train," and was written by A. Hammond and M. Hazlewood. Hammond sings it and it was recorded in 1974 on Mums Records. Your store should be able to get a copy for you.

DEAR DICK: Please settle a bet once and for all. Who was the beautiful Oriental ex-wife of actor Robert Culp? Was it Nancy Kwan or Frances Nuyen? MERCEDES TAKAHASHI, Anaheim, Ca.

It was Frances Nuyen

DEAR DICK: Please name the actress who played Kate on The Real McCoys. My husband says it was Stella Stevens but I say he is way off base. Also, who played Dirty Sally? He says it was Sally Field, but I think it was the same actress who played Kate. JOAN M. NOVICH, Kansas City, Kan.

He's wrong on the first one, you're both wrong on the second. Kathleen Nolan played Kate — she is now president of the Screen Actors Guild. Dirty Sally was Jeanette Nolan, and you obviously got the Nolans confused.

Superman On Social Security

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Even Superman gets older. Kirk Alyn, who played Superman in 30 movie serials in the late 1940s and early 1950s is now 66 years old and drawing Social Security checks.

"But I feel like I'm 39," the actor said. "And I wish they would stop offering me the same roles."

For years after producers stopped making the serials, Alyn found it difficult to get acting parts. Movie-makers felt the public wouldn't believe him as anybody other than Superman.

"Now I get offers, but it's only for detective roles," he lamented.
