Lubbock Vagabonding Newspapermen Leave Today On World Tour

WITH visions of unearthing secrets as yet untouched by the eager and prying eyes of a reading public, two Lubbock newspapermen will leave this city today on the first lap of a vagabonding tour which will carry them to every civilized country of the world and require a period of more than two years.

The two, Allan Carney, sports editor of the Avalanche-Journal, and Sutton Christian, city editor of the Daily Journal, have been connected with the local publications for the past two years.

Have Ambition, Typewriter

Necessary arrangements have been made, according to the two young travelers, and they will board ship within the next two weeks at Galveston for a first time on the water for either. Armed with passports, letters of identification from prominent men of this country, a portable typewriter, very little money but a determination to "go places and see things", the pair look forward to an exciting journey into the lands they have only dreamed of heretofore.

"We realize that such an expedition as we are making is nothing unusual to those who see it from the out side," they aver, "but, our plans are such as to make it unusual. We will spend very little time in concentrated centers of the world—that is not our idea. From the first time the dream entered our minds we have tried to get away from the stereotyped 'visit to London, Paris, Berlin, etc.'

To Write Articles

"The articles we will write, titled 'Turning With The World,' are going to be of interest to every reader in the Southwest and for that reason, as well as for financial gain, we have tried to interest newspapers throughout Texas in our venture. To date we have met with surprising success and editors in all of the larger cities of the section have given us encouragement."

Little known spots of a wide world are serving as a magnet to the vivid imaginations of Carney and Christian. Possessing a fortitude, to cope with sudden and perhaps surprising circumstances cultivated through association of several years in the newspaper game, the two do not embark blindly. Realizing the dangers which lie in the paths of curious Americans in foreign, and sometimes hostile, lands—such details as heavy insurance have not been overlooked. While serious accident and perhaps death could result from their efforts to gain admittance into unwelcome surroundings, the possibility has not dimmed their enthusiasm. The two young men, both clean-cut and physically fit from much time spent in

Heat Relents After Hundred Deaths Caused

Thunderstorms and Scattered Showers Bring Relief to Stricken Areas; Hot Wave Is Breaking Up

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 12.—After causing more than 100 deaths in the middle west this week, the worst hot wave in a decade seemed to be breaking up tonight as reports of scattered showers and thunderstorms brought some relief.

The official forecast said the heat wave would be entirely broken up within 36 hours, and already was dissipating over the Mississippi valley, where 100 degree temperatures of yesterday had fallen to the 80's and and low nineties.

Wave Hits Chicago

The warm spell, before vanishing completely, paid the Great Lakes states a visit, and in Chicago the mercury rose to 95, the hottest July 12 since 1914, when it was 93. The in rush of the heat sent thousands to the beaches.

Scattered showers in Nebraska sent the mercury tumbling from 103 or thereabouts down to around 85, but not until 15 deaths in the state had been attributed to the heat.

Missouri, adding 20 more victims since yesterday, suffered most from the prolonged hot wave and counted a total of 52 deaths traceable to the heat.

Seven more deaths were reported in Iowa, for a total of 32 during the spell. In South Dakota, where temperatures up in the 100's had been general all week, the mercury had dropped to 79. Five died from the heat in South Dakota during the week.

ADVERTISERS MEET

Twelve Representatives of Out Door Concerns Here

Twelve representatives of out door advertising concerns from 27 towns over the South Plains met yesterday for business meeting in Lubbock at the Hilton Hotel The meeting occupied a greater portion of the day at which time plans were discussed for setup of equalized showings and other business looking to the betterment of the trade was taken up.

W. T. McKinley, of Lubbock, a director of the Texas and New Mexico Outdoor Advertising association, was in charge of the gathering.

Tech Professor and Lubbock Attorney Talk at Regular Monthly Session of County Farm Bureau Here Saturday

Addresses by Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, head of the department of agricultural economics in the school of agriculture at Texas Technological college, and L. A. Howard, Lubbock attorney and farmer, were features of the regular meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau, held at the courthouse Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Ellsworth talked upon the need and opportunities of a cooperative marketing organization in this county for dairy and poultry farmers. Mr. Howard's speech centered upon the need for such an organization and the evidence of support for it comes from business men of this section.

W. M. Ross Presides

W. M. Ross, president of the Lubbock County Farm bureau, presided at the meeting, the program being in charge of County Agent D. F. Eaton.

"Milk and egg checks pay the grocery and other bills and pay the interest on the farm mortgage, when wheat and cotton fail." Dr. Ellsworth declared. "We are past the pioneer stage in cooperative marketing and need only to get the facts about our needs and the figures on cooperatives already established and in successful operation for the commodities we are interested in.

"The question is whether or not we need a cooperative. Then we must learn the volume sufficient and if it is available to permit savings to

Bobbitt Gives Answer To Political Charges

Speaks Here

Attorney-General Is Heard In Lubbock Saturday Night

ROBERT LEE BOBBITT
(Story in Column Five)

IN his first answer to accusations made publicly against him regarding his actions in the Bexar county ouster suits, Robert Lee Bobbitt, candidate for re-election as attorney general, last night declared that the political machine in Bexar county is seeking to "slaughter me for doing my plain, simple and sworn duty."

Mr. Bobbitt spoke before a gathering of several hundred Lubbock county citizens on Avenue K, between Main street and Broadway.

Cites Criticism

"I observe by the press that I am being publicly criticized for the filing of the ouster suits against two officials in Bexar county," the attorney general said. "It strikes me that in view of this criticism the public is entitled to know the facts.

"Several thousand citizens of Bexar county in a mass meeting passed a resolution reeusting that I, as attorney general of the State, investigate the alleged illegal issuance of poll tax receipts in Bexar county. This group of citizens appointed a committee of outstanding citizens of the county to present that matter to me, which was done in writing, setting out in detail serious charges against certain officers of that county.

"The attorney general is charged with the duty under the law of Texas of filing and prosecuting ouster suits in certain cases against public officers. I did not make the law; I did not make the facts.

Facts Described

"I made the investigation demanded in Bexar county and the following facts developed:

"Hundreds of illegal poll tax receipts had been issued to aliens, persons not claiming to be citizens of Texas or the United States.

Hundreds of illegal poll tax receipts had been issued to people who did not pay for them but it was

Sixty Persons Meet Death as Trolley Falls

Victims Trapped in Car in Plunge from Half-Raised Bridge in Argentina; Only Three Passengers Saved

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES, July 12.—Plunging off one section of a half-raised cantilever bridge, a trolley-car today carried to their deaths in the waters of Riacho river about sixty persons, including five women.

Three passengers, who had been seated on the rear platform, escaped and swam ashore. All the others were trapped inside the car, which was submerged, only the trolley pole sticking out above the water.

At the time of the accident, about 6:15 a. m., a heavy fog hung over the Riacho, a small stream dividing Buenos Aires from the town of Avellanda. It is believed that the motorman, failing in the fog to see that the far section of the bridge was raised, ran off the level section before he could put on the brakes.

Rescue squads of firemen and police were swiftly organized. By noon 53 bodies had been recovered. Most of the dead were laborers on their way to work.

The accident was one of the worst in the history of transportation in Argentina. Municipal authorities began an investigation.

Milk-Ice Benefit Dance On Monday

With several features planned for additional entertainment, the milk and ice fund benefit dance Monday night will be one of interest as well as pleasure for those who attend, according to announcement yesterday by officials in charge of the event.

The benefit dance is to be held at the Crystal Ball Palace on Texas avenue and will start at 9 o'clock. Half of the proceeds are to go toward the Avalanche-Journal milk and ice fund.

Good music is assured, according to officials, with Lew and His Hollywood Loons, Eight Loony Loons, furnishing this part of the program.

William Cooper of Colorado City Chosen President and Charles A. Guy of Lubbock Elected Vice-President

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

ABILENE, July 12.—After snowing opposition from Cisco and Mineral Wells under an avalanche of ballots, Lubbock today was selected as the 1931 meeting place of the West Texas Press association. The vote on next year's meeting place closed a two day conclave here, attended by more than 200 newspapermen from over the section with the Abilene Reporter and Morning News as host organization.

Lubbock's victory came on the first ballot after a hot fight throughout the period of the convention, with Stamford, El Paso and Carlsbad, New Mexico, early aspirants, withdrawing in the face of busy work on the part of Lubbock. Cisco and Mineral Wells delegates. Following the first ballot representatives of Cisco and Mineral Wells good-naturedly moved and seconded that the convention selection be made unanimous and the motion was carried without dissenting votes. The first ballot showed 39 for Lubbock, 9 for Cisco and 6 for the resort city.

Two Spectators Killed When Plane Crashes in Grandstand

Rallies Are Held For Clint Small

Continuing the campaign for Clint Small throughout the South Plains in his candidacy for governor, two Lubbock citizens yesterday spoke at a political rally in Muleshoe before a gathering of some 600 citizens of that area.

Jess Levens, assistant city attorney and George Dupree, local attorney, were the two Lubbock speakers to appear on the program. Both of the men reported last night that feeling in that section of the state is very favorable to Senator Small.

One other speaker, Jas. O. Cade, of Amarillo, candidate for congress against Marvin Jones, appeared.

Several Lubbock men also attended a rally held yesterday afternoon in Petersburg and spoke before a group there in interest of Senator Small's candidacy.

TWO MEET DEATH

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—(AP)—Two men were killed tonight as their plane nose-dived in the woods at McKee City, on the outskirts of Pleasantville. The victims were Chas. F. Hirsh, 34, the pilot, and Edwin Noonan, 18, a passenger, both of Philadelphia.

Pilot To Be Charged With Manslaughter In Fatal Mishap

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., July 12.—Two persons were killed at the Curtis-Wright flying field here tonight when a huge 18-passenger plane crashed into a grandstand filled with spectators watching a night flying exhibition.

The victims were Hyman Kanterman and his wife, Mary, both 30. They were struck by the whirling three-bladed propellor of the ship as it ran through a guard railing into the grandstand.

Alfred Watts, 21, a licensed mechanic, was piloting the ship, he was moving it from a place on the field where it had been stationed all day into a hangar about a half-mile away.

Loses Control

He apparently lost control of the ship as it taxied across the ground.

Kanterman died instantly, and his wife lived only a few minutes after being carried into a hangar.

George McConnell, a friend of Watts, was in the ship with the mechanic.

The Kanterimans lived in Brooklyn.

Pilot and Student Killed in Crash

MATOON, Ill., July 12. (AP)—Jack Bell, pilot, of Bloomington, Ill., and Cliff Holt, student, of El Paso, Illinois, were killed today when Bell was unable to pull his plane out of a power dive at the observance of the opening of the new airport here.

The ship, a biplane owned by Archie Baldridge of Bloomington, was being used in a "balloon-bursting contest" staged as part of the air circus arranged to open the airport. It had already performed satisfactorily in several previous events.

Bell and Holt rose to about 1,500 feet, then threw out their balloons. The "contest" consisted of catching the balloons as they floated earthward and diving into them to break them with the wings of the ship. Bell caught one then missed the second twice. He looped and came back in a power dive to try again, but his

Aged Father Jailed For Killing Daughter To End Years Of Suffering; Officers Believe His Story

(By Associated Press)

WALTON, N. Y., July 12.—Andrew L. Beers, 77, was in the Delaware county jail at Delhi tonight in consequence of the killing of his 24-year-old daughter, Frances, whom he could not bear to see suffer in illness.

He feared, too, the girl, described here as mentally blighted, might fall into less kindly hands when death comes upon him, according to the county authorities whom he voluntarily told of the slaying. For twenty years Beers' affection for his almost helpless daughter was a matter of comment in the little community.

His explanation of the deed as a "mercy killing," due to an "irresistable impulse to save the girl from further suffering and to guard against harm coming to her after he was gone has been accepted even by the prosecutors, who, believing him, must nevertheless observe the letter of the law and hold him without bail on a first degree murder charge. It is believed he will be committed to an institution for the insane.

From birth, the girl had been confined to the Beers home. The father and mother shared the burden of caring for her until four years ago, when the mother died. The father cheerfully assumed the extra duty then, and even sought night jobs so that he might be with his daughter during part of the day.

Wednesday night he attempted to poison her. When she did not die after a half hour, Beers took an ice pick and a wrench and went into her room. Using the wrench for a hammer he twice drove the pick through her head.

He was so unnerved after the death that he could not carry out his plan of taking his own life, he said. He walked to the home of an undertaker and told him.

"Frances is dead. I killed her. The poor little girl."

Candidate Faces Mob Violence

HOPE, ARK., July 12. (AP)—Threats of violence heard from a mob estimated at 500 persons late today caused Sheriff Dorsey McRae to remove to another city John Hartafield, city political candidate arrested on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death today of Mrs. Lum Vines, 50. Mrs. Vines was killed by an automobile, allegedly driven by Hartsfield. He denied he drove the car.

Negroes Leave Shamrock when Threats Given

Warning Aftermath to Death of White Woman at Hands of Black Assailant; Prisoner "Spirited Away"

(By Associated Press)

SHAMROCK, July 15.—The hundred or so negroes living in Shamrock were treking rapidly away tonight, more than 50 having left already, after threats were posted in the negro quarter last night warning them to be gone from the town "before sundown Saturday."

Sheriff W. K. McLemore of Wheeler county in vain assured them they would be protected against any attempt at violence, as an aftermath of the slaying yesterday of Mrs. Henry Vaughan, farm wife of Collingsworth county, who was beaten to death with an iron pipe.

Whereabouts Unknown

Sheriff Claude McKinney of Collingsworth county and Luther F. Gribble, county attorney, declared they didn't know where Jesse Lee, Washington negro accused of the slaying, was in jail.

Officers were attempting to discover who posted the threats in the negro quarter of Shamrock and were confident that order would be preserved in the town.

The negro, whom officers said had the reputation of being feeble minded, yesterday was rushed to an Oklahoma prison by Sheriff McKinney, after the mutilated body of Mrs. Vaughan was found in the yard of her farm home near here. McKinney outdistanced members of a mob who pursued him in automobiles. He said afterward the negro was taken to Granite, Okla.

Gribble, McKinney and James C. Mahan, district attorney, obtained a statement early today from the negro at Childress, Sheriff McKinney said. Afterward, he said the negro was turned over to other officers and sent to a place of "safe keeping," which he would not divulge.

Missing Society Girl Discovered

RICHMOND, Va., July 12. —(AP)—A staff correspondent of the Times-Dispatch reported by telephone at 10 o'clock tonight (E.S.T.) that he had located Mary Frances McClenny, missing Richmond society girl, and Harry Dickinson, Richmond garage man, charged with secreting her, at Waynesboro, Va.

The correspondent said he found them on the porch of a house where they had been staying. He stated that he was leaving with the couple by automobile for Richmond immediately.

Waynesboro is more than 100 miles from Richmond.

HUNT FOR PROWLER

Young Girl Brutally Beaten By Unknown Abductor

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 12. (AP)—Police today were searching for a prowler who entered a Springfield home before daybreak this morning and kidnaped ten-year-old Mary Lee Ellis after stealing $100 from her father's trousers.

Bound and gagged with one of her own dresses, the child was carried to a nearby field and brutally beaten. She escaped after ten minutes and ran home. Her screams awakened her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ellis, who had slept through the robbery and abduction.

Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Appropriates $500 as an Inducement; This Route Is Chosen Over Other Line

LUBBOCK will be one of the control points for the women's western aid derby, which will take off from Long Beach, California, the latter part of August, according to an announcement made Saturday by the contest committee of the National Aeronautical association.

Designation of Lubbock as one of the stopping places follows solicitation on the part of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, which offered $500 in lap prizes as an inducement.

Originally two routes were considered. One was the commercially used line over northern Arizona, New Mexico and Amarillo, and the other was the southern route to El Paso and thence over the Texas and Pacific railway lines. Officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, in addition to offering a premium for the event, sought to show that the flight from El Paso to Amarillo via Lubbock would be much shorter than a continuation of the southern route and that it would also be removed of the mountain and desert hazards of the northern flight.

To Let Paving Contract Soon

Highway Commission Plans to Award Job on Approximately 28 Miles of No. 9 Latter Part of This Month

Contract will be let by the State Highway Commission for approximately 28.4 miles of additional paving on state highways in Lubbock county at a meeting of the commission July 30, 31 and August 1, according to information received in this city last night from Austin.

The paving in this county will include 12.3 miles on Highway No. 9 from Lubbock south to the Lynn county line, and 16.1 miles on Highway 9 from Lubbock north to the Hale county line.

Letting of contracts for these two strips of roads will continue the program of Lubbock county for hard-surfaced roads, following the voting last year of a bond issue in the county totalling almost one million dollars.

Work has been progressing steadily on a strip 15 miles in length from Lubbock through the City of Slaton on Highway No. 7 and officials in charge of the work hope to report completion within the near future.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS—Fair and continued warm except probably thunder showers and cooler in the Panhandle Sunday; Monday, partly cloudy in south, probably thundershowers and cooler in north portion.

Sunday-School Lesson
BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson For July 13, 1930

General Topic:
Jacob: A Selfish Man Transformed.

Scripture Lesson:
Gen. 25: 29-34; 28:18-22; 29:18-20; 33:1-4, 18.

Gen. 25:29. And Jacob boiled pottage; and Esau came in from the field, and he was faint:

30. And Esau said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage; for I am faint: therefore was his name called Edom.

31. And Jacob said, Sell me first thy birthright.

32. And Esau said, Behold, I am about to die: and what profit shall the birthright do to me?

33. And Jacob said, Swear to me first; and he sware unto him: and he sold his birthright unto Jacob.

34. And Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentils; and he did eat and drink; and rose up, and went his way; so Esau despised his birthright. Gen. 28:18. And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put under his head, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it.

19. And he called the name of that place Bethel; but the name of the city was Luz at the first.

20. And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on.

21. So that I come again to my father's house in peace, and Jehovah will be my God.

22. Then this stone, which I have set up for a pillar, shall be God's house; and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee.

Gen. 29:28. And Jacob loved Rachel; and he said, I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.

19. And Laban said, It is better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man; abide with me.

20. And Jacob served seven years for Rachel; and they seemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her.

Gen. 22:1. And Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, Esau was coming and with him four hundred men. And he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids.

2. And he put the handmaids and their children foremost, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joseph hindermost.

3. And he himself passed over before them, and bowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.

4. And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kissed him; and they wept.

18. And Jacob came in peace to the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Paddanaram; and encamped before the city.

Golden Text:—For what shall a man be profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and forfeit his life? or what shall a man give in exchange for his life?—Matt. 16:26.

Introduction

Nowhere in all the Bible, that marvelous portrait gallery, is a picture more wonderfully painted than that of Jacob. It is manifestly honest, the work of a true historian, and the glaring faults of the great ancestor of the Jews are set forth as graphically as his splendid virtues. We see a greedy, grasping man scheming his way through life, failing because of his very successes. We perceive alongside his selfishness a strain of noble idealism, the highest quality of his race, and we rejoice to see it triumph at the last.

Jacob was the son of Isaac and inherited his father's gentle and peaceloving nature. His mother was Rebekah, whose energetic will and scheming ability he also inherited. He was a child of the covenant made by God with Abraham and Isaac, and he never forgot Jehovah's promise to his ancestors.

Jacob's Twin Brother, Esau

Jacob had a twin brother, Esau. As the boys grew up, their diverse characters developed. Esau, with his mother's bold and impetuous temper, became an outdoor man, a brave and skilful hunter. By the law of opposites, he was the favorite of his quiet and retiring father. Moreover, Isaac was inordinately fond of the venison which Esau brought home from the hunt. Jacob, on the contrary, possessed his father's gentle nature, and loved to stay at home. He was the favorite of Rebekah, and mother and son must have had many conversations concerning his birthright. They must have plotted often in secret, devising ways by which Jacob might obtain Esau's birthright. "And Esau came in from the field, and he was faint." He had had a long and perhaps unsuccessful hunt, probably in the hot sun, and he was thoroughly exhausted, an ideal condition for Jacob to practice upon.

Esau Sold His Birthright. v. 31.

"And Esau said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage; for I am faint." "A fair equivalent in colloquial English would be, 'Some of that red stuff! that red stuff there!'" And Jacob said, "Sell me first thy birthright." Jacob, as cool and crafty as his brother was hot, hasty and imprudent, saw instantly his opportunity, and acted upon it. "And Esau said, Behold, I am about to die; and what profit shall the birthright do to me?" The birthright was nothing, the headship of the clan, a double share of his father's possessions, even the inheritance of the covenant promise of Jehovah—all were nothing compared with the ecstasy of gulping down those lentils. "And Jacob said, Swear to me first; and he sware unto him; and he sold his birthright unto Jacob." "Esau is thus an idolater of the immediate, the real founder of the Epicurean school—'Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die.' His birthright is a vague vision of the future, while the pottage is a 'bird in hand worth two in the bush.'"

"Esau Despised His Birthright"

He had no appreciation of his ancestral connection, nor of the promises of God, nor of the possibilities of the future, which were involved in the birthright. He would rather have a good dinner when he was hungry. How many others have been like him! "Achan covets a Babylonish garment and a wedge of gold, and forfeits his life in consequence. For the sake of

Detour Is To Be Open Soon

Road Around Huge Lake Over State Highway Between Tahoka And O'Donnell Will Be Completed By Saturday

(By Staff Correspondent.)

POST, July 12. —Completion of the detour around the huge lake that has stopped traffic over the state highway between O'Donnell and Tahoka, is expected the middle part of the week and the detour may be opened to the public by Saturday. George McPherson, foreman of the state highway department stationed here, announced today.

"We had to delay building of the detour because some of the property owners from whom we were to get our easements for the detour were out of the city." Mr. McPherson said, "Just as soon as we got the papers signed, we shall begin work on building the detour.

Over Two Miles

"The present detour is about two and a half miles long. The new one will be several hundred yards longer than the regular highway.

The lake was in two sections and covers the road for about half a mile north of a cross road. South of the cross road the lake covered the road for a short distance, as well as several hundred feet on the cross road also.

Mr. McPherson has completed the raising up of the roadbed south of the big lake some five feet. This part is ready for traffic.

The detour, from the cross roads to the north side of the lake is now being built. It will be in use for many months owing to the probability that the lake will not be drained of water for a year or more.

"We have to build several cattle underpasses on the detour and we will open it as soon as they are completed," the foreman added.

AGENTS INSPECT CASE

Insurance Men Investigate The Theft Of Jewels

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 12. (AP)—Representatives of a Chicago insurance company, which insured the jewels of Mrs. Clara Hymans, a guest at the Imperial Hotel, whose rooms were looted by burglars yesterday, today arrived to aid the local police in their investigations.

The agent said the jewels were insured for sixty per cent of their value but did not announce the worth of the gems, which had been reported by the police at from $600,000 to $1,000,000.

The insurance agents expressed the belief the thieves belonged to a well-known band of international crooks.

a woman's caresses Samson loses his hair, his strength, his sight, his all. David, for the sake of Bathsheba, loses a year's communion with God, and hands his name down with an ugly blot upon it to all posterity. Ahab, coveting a pretty garden, commits murder and brings down heaven's judgment on his head. Judas, for a few shillings, betrays his Master."

Jacob's Vow At Bethel, 28:18-22

On the long journey to Haran Jacob had plenty of opportunity to think. One night, as he slept on a stony hillside, he dreamed of a ladder reaching to heaven, and of Jehovah speaking to him. When Jacob awoke, he said, "Surely Jehovah is in this place; and I knew it not."

This vision of God was the first step in the transformation of Jacob. The next morning he named the place Bethel, the house of God, and made a vow that he would give to God a tenth of all that he should receive. In our English versions Jacob is represented as saying, "If God will be with me—I will surely give the tenth unto thee." This looks as if he were making a bargain with God, promising the tenth on certain conditions. But in the dream God had already promised to be with him and preserve him. That dream changed his whole outlook, and his language may mean, "Since God will go with me." His vow would then be an expression of gratitude for the blessings God had promised him. It should be noted that the religious custom of tithing did not begin with the Mosaic law, as many people think. Where did Jacob learn that a tenth was a suitable proportion of his income to dedicate to the special service of God? Probably from the example of his grandfather Abraham, who paid tithes to Melchizedek, "A priest of the Most High God."

"Bethel The House Of God." V. 19

"And he called the name of that place Bethel." That is, "the house of God." Beth, meaning house, is found in Bethlehem, Bethany, Bethphage, and many other Hebrew place names. El, meaning God, is also found as the prefix or suffix of many names, as Elijah, Elisha, Samuel, Lemuel. The town of Bethel became one of Jeroboam's two sanctuaries for the worship of his golden calves, and the place is famous as the scene of the work of the prophet Amos.

Jacob's New Name, Israel, 32:28

When Jacob started back home, after many years, he was very anxiousto conciliate his brother Esau. To do this he sent him large gifts from his flocks. Each drove was to be driven by itself, a long procession, and each driver as he came up was to say that his drove was a present from Jacob to Esau, so that the effect would be cumulative."

But Jacob did not rely on his presents alone; before sending these he had appealed to God for help. On the night after, he wrestled long with God, pleading for his blessing. There he received the new name Israel (Prince of God).

Jacob's Old Age In Canaan, V. 18

"And Jacob came in peace to the city of Shecham, which is in the land of Canaan." Shecham, which afterwards became the chief city of the Samaritans, is in the heart of Canaan. There Jacob bought land, and there was Jacob's well where Jesus had the memorable conversation with the Samarittan woman. Joseph was buried there. He did not, however, make that his permanent home. On he went to the south, but as he neared Bethlehem his beloved Rachel died in giving birth to Benjamin Jacob buried her with profound grief, setting up a monument above her grave, and then went on to Isaac's home, now at Mamre near Hebron. Rebekah was dead, but he was in time to spend twenty-three years with the aged Isaac before he passed away. Esau came up from Seir to stand with Jacob beside the grave of their father in the cave of Machpelah.

Windle-Arnett-Baker House To Handle Affairs For Co-Op In Texas; Dick Arnett Heads Cattle Work

Of interest to people over the South Plains is announcement that the Texas Livestock Marketing association, an organization representing large cattle and sheep interests in Texas, with headquarters at Fort Worth, has closed a deal to take over Windle-Arnett-Baker, South St. Joseph, Mo., one of the leading livestock commission firms at that market.

Windle-Arnett-Baker, under the new ownership, will be operated according to the cooperative plan and will serve not only the Texas Livestock Marketing association as its selling agency at South St. Joseph, but likewise all other livestock producers and shippers who desire to avail themselves of their service. Announcement of this transaction was made by John C. Burns of Fort Worth, manager of the Texas organization.

One of the first steps taken by the Texas Livestock Marketing association in building its sales service organization was to engage the services of Dick Arnett, jr., of the firm of Windle-Arnett-Baker, to head the cattle department of the association and to serve as director of cattle sales, both in Texas and on the river markets. Arnett is a ranch reared, native Texan, and a scion of the oldest and best known families among the cattle people of Texas.

During the next 90 to 120 days Mr. Arnett will spend most of his time in Kansas and Oklahoma directing the marketing of the association's cattle. He will also exercise general supervision over the selling agency at South St. Joseph.

Jailed For Not Defending Negro

Because at first he refused to accept the assignment of the criminal district court to defend Rainey Williams, negro, held at Beaumont, Tex., on several charges of criminal assault, R. J. Jernigan, Port Arthur, Tex., lawyer, was fined $250 and held in jail for contempt of court by Judge R. L. Murray. Photo shows Jernigan, left, entering jail, from which he later was released after deciding to defend the negro, and Judge Murray, right. A jury later sentenced Williams to die in the electric chair after deliberating 18 minutes.

INJURED BY FENCE PICKET

LEVELLAND, July 12. (Special)—J. W. Pearcy, Jr., son of J. Warren Pearcy, county clerk, suffered a badly lacerated arm pit on a sharp picket on the fence of C. E. Ross. Mr. Ross was entertaining his Sunday school class and in some manner young Pearcy threw his arm across the fence and struck the member on a picket.

"Singing Senoritas," Selected As Official Music Makers For Druggist Convention Here, August 12 And 13

RALLS, July 12.—(Special)—The "Singing Senoritas" of Ralls, more generally known as the Ukelele Girls, have been selected by the West Texas Druggists Association, as the official music maker for their convention which will be held in the city of Lubbock on August 12th and 13th with the Hilton Hotel as headquarters.

The Singing Senoritas were recommended to the organization by R. J. Belcher, local druggist and member of the committee. The girls attracted much favorable attention on their trip to the Rotary convention at Temple recently and are very popular with their singing and dancing wherever they go.

TRANSPORTING PUPILS

Change In Districts Being Made In Dawson County

LAMESA, July 12.—(Special)—Transporting pupils from one district to another is being made this month in Dawson county, it was stated by W. T. Webb, county school superintendent.

"All pupils who are seeking to taken subjects not taught in their own district or who are promoted to grades not taught in their district should move this month and inform the county superintendent of their transport," Webb said.

Slaton To Send Committee Here

SLATON, July 12.—(Special)—A committee from the Slaton Chamber of Commerce will attend the meeting to be held at Lubbock next Tuesday afternoon to discuss matters pertaining to further organization in this district for marketing of cotton through the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, W. H. Smith, president; L. A. Wilson, secretary; Horace Hawkins, chairman of the agriculture committee, and other representatives of the Slaton chamber will attend.

Among the speakers at the Lubbock meeting will be C. O. Moser, of Dallas, vice president of the American Cotton Cooperative association; and Lawrence Westbrook, organization director of the Texas association.

WOUNDED NEGRO DIES

PLAINVIEW, July 12 (Special)—Frank Brown, negro, died from injuries received in a fight with Ike E. Morgan, another negro, June 18. Morgan has been charged in county court with aggravated assault and will be bound over to the district court. Brown was struck over the head with a hoe and Morgan was cut with a knife.

Five Pennants Given At Boy Scouts' Camp

Close Competition Is Feature Of Various Contests Held During Annual Encampment At Post Memorial Camp

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, July 12.—Marked by close competition in all classes and with several groups having less than 10 points difference between the first five boys, five pennants were awarded in as many kinds of competition at the annual Boy Scout camp held at the C. W. Post Memorial camp.

All of the contestants were highly complimented by D. T. Jennings, camp director, who stated he had never seen such close competition.

Close Competition

"In several of the groups only five or six points separated the first and the fourth," Mr. Jennings said. "For example, in personal inspection, there was four points difference between the first and fourth place. In table inspection the second place troop was four tenths of one point behind the winner."

Pennants were awarded as follows:

Personal inspection, first, Lamesa Troop 23, with 98 points; second, Lubbock Troop 4, with 97 points.

Quarters inspection, first, Lamesa Troop 23; second, Levelland Troop 24.

Table inspection, first, Shallowater Troop 28, with 99 points; second, Post Troop 16, with 98.6 points.

Post Wins Cup

For the McMillan cup, the Post Troop with 868 points, was high troop in this contest. Lubbock Troop 4 was second with 834 points and Levelland Troop 24 third with 832 points.

Unless another troop in the second camp scores more than 868 points, Post will get the honor," K. M. Clapp, assistant camp director, added.

Individual honors were awarded as follows:

Celebration Of Old West Planned For Ruidoso, N.M.

"We are going to have a reproduction of the old 'Western days' said G. W. McDonald, manager of the Ruidoso chamber of commerce and also of the big rodeo and carnival which that group is staging there August 9 to 16. Mr. McDonald visited in Lubbock Friday afternoon.

"Ruidoso is the playground of the southwest," he continued. "It is the coolest place in New Mexico, located in the heart of the White Mountains.

Program to Vary

"There will be dancing in costumes, ball games, athletic stunts of all kinds, parades both old and new and a half mile of carnival. There will be rides of all kinds."

McDonald's music mixers will furnish music for the nightly dance to be given at the celebration. There will be two orchestras, thus insuring enough music, according to Mr. McDonald.

Money prizes and other rewards will be given for winning events in the rodeo. Some of the best riders in the southwest have been invited and quite a number have accepted.

"One of the days will be 'Texas day' and we would like everybody in West Texas and on the plains to come over," the manager added. "Come on, we will be glad to see you."

Joffre Sees Own Statue Unveiled

Ill health and the weight of his 78 years couldn't cheat Marshal Joffre of the almost unique distinction of being present at the dedication of a monument to himself. Here you see the famed French war leader, left, with Marshal Petain as they went to the ceremony. The statue, at Chantilly, is near the site of Joffre's headquarters when he saved France during the early weeks of the war. The dedication marked his first public appearance in several weeks.

Improvements Are Made On Post Airport

Workmen Finish Preliminary Construction On Field At Two Draw Lake; Concrete Work Is Under Way

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, July 12.—Workmen the past week have made the preliminary improvements at the new Post airport, located at Two Draw lake and about a mile from the city limits where a small but excellent field is well under way.

"We don't have as much land there as they do at Amarillo or some of those wide open spaces up on the North Plains," George Samson, secretary of the chamber of commerce said. "We do, however, have an excellent field and it has been pronounced one of the best in the state by federal government men."

The field has been grubbed clean of all shrubs and concrete work begun. A 100 foot circle in the center of the field was made of concrete.

Runways, 150 feet wide and more than 2,000 feet long have been built for the planes. These radiate in all directions.

The field will be kept level to insure safety in making a landing.

Later on it is planned to improve the present auditorium on the grounds and convert it into a hangare in which to house visiting planes. The building is about 80 by 110 feet and is said to have a capacity of 10 planes.

"Our field is located on a little knoll and that gives a gentle slope for the planes to take off from," Secretary Samson said. "Aviators say that this is even better than a perfectly level field as it gives the machine a chance to get up a little speed and then have something to help them rise in the air."

The federal department of commerce at Washington has inspected and approved the field and has so marked its records, according to word received here.

Burrus Elevators, Highest Building In City, Provides Storage For Over 1,400,000 Bushels; Costs $400,000

Towering to the topmost peak in Lubbock's skyline, the newly enlarged Burrus Elevators, 305 Ave. M, presents an arresting picture of white concrete to one who receives a panoramic view of the city.

This mammoth structure, measuring 600 feet in length, has a storage capacity of 1,400,000 bushels, believed to be the largest capacity of a similar building in the state. It represents an investment of approximately $400,000.

Has 122 Bins

In the building are 122 bins. There were only 50 bins before the expansion program was started.

The head house of the structure is 165 feet high, highest of any building in the city, while each tank is 100 feet above the ground.

Large belts which carry the wheat from scales to storage bins unload at the rate of 1,000 bushels each three minutes.

The huge scales have a capacity of 150,000 pounds.

W. H. Wright is manager of the local unit, and L. L. Lavender is superintendent of the plant. During the busy season about 15 persons are employed.

PROTECTION REMOVED

Fire And Police Protection Is Taken From Additions

SAN ANTONIO, July 12 (AP)—Police and fire protection of San Antonio was withdrawn today from Harlandale, one of the recently annexed suburbs, after Judge George Calhoun in Austin, sitting on the bench of the forty-fifth district court here, declared the annexation ordinance void.

A new fire and police station nearly completed in Terrell Hills, another suburb annexed will not be commissioned, city officials said. Seventeen arc lights and many stop signs in the new territory were removed.

The stations will be advertised for sale in the event the district court decision is ultimately upheld. There was little indication Thursday at the city hall that Judge Calhoun's decision would be appealed.

Mayor C. M. Chambers would not comment on whether the recently passed $4,975,000 bond issue would be submitted again to the voters in the old city limits.

CUT IN REGISTRATIONS

CROSBYTON, July 12 (Special)—New automobile registrations for June were the smallest in months, the records of the tax collector's office show. There were but 12 new tags issued during June.

BUYS LITTLEFIELD CAFE

LITTLEFIELD, July 12 (Special) Purchase of the Farmer's Cafe by Paul Vause, former mail carrier here, is announced. Mrs. Ida James, an experienced cook, will handle the kitchen work. The place will be known as "Paul's Cafe." Mr. Vause for four years was rural carrier between Littlefield and Morton.

Fay Guthrie Leaves Post At Lockney CC

Floyd County Secretary Is To Go To Tucumcari, N. M. Position; H. B. Adams Is Named Temporary

LOCKNEY, July 12—(Special)—Fay Guthrie, for the past three years secretary of the Lockney chamber of commerce, has resigned his position to accept a similar one with the Tucumcari, N. M., chamber of commerce.

His resignation was unexpected as there was no indication that he contemplated leaving Lockney. The resignation was accepted with regret by the board of directors, who said they felt that they were losing a very efficient official in the person of Mr. Guthrie. He has been a resident of Lockney for many years.

H. B. Adams, editor of the Lockney Beacon, in whose building the office of the chamber of commerce is located, was named temporary secretary. A full time man is expected to be employed in about two months.

Mrs. Guthrie is remaining in Lockney until about the first of August. Mr. Guthrie began his new duties as of July 10.

The American Library association has received more than half of a proposed $1,000,000 fund for the extension of county libraries.

Hobbs Gas Field To Be Extended, It Is Reported

LOVINGTON, July 12 (Special)—The recent visit to Lea county of Dougal Gordon and John Erwin, of New York, representing Brockaw, Dixon, Garner and Kee, a firm of geologists, has given rise to reports of the gas field of the county being expanded.

Both men are said to have made an investigation as to the use of natural gas from the wells around Hobbs and between Hobbs and Lovington by mining and smelter companies.

It also is reported that the new plan is to enlarge the Lea county-El Paso gas line to give room for additional gas from Hobbs and Jal.

CENSUS TOTAL GIVEN

Kansas Population Total Is Given As 1,882,518

TOPEKA, July 12. (AP)—Kansas' population for 1930 was 1,882,518, a compilation by the Associated Press of preliminary census reports from all of the 105 counties of the state showed today.

The increase over the 1920 federal census figure of 1,769,257 was 113,261, or a gain of approximately 6.4 per cent in the ten year period, the totals showed.

China has reached third rank among the nations for the production of cotton with an annual output of about 2,500,00 bales.

IN THE REALM OF SPORT

WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Journal Sports Editor

In spite of all the happy anticipations of a world tour, such as this writer is starting today, we can think of nothing more unpleasant than leaving the City of Lubbock and breaking association with hundreds of friends whose acquaintence we have formed during the past two years.

In no instance is it easy to break away from the beaten path and leave behind a host of comrades but the splendid people of Lubbock are even harder to leave. Work with the sport fans of this city and the Plains section has been most enjoyable and it is with a feeling of regret that we pack up the extra sock, hanky and portable typewriter this morning to start out on the long journey that leads to the farthest ends of the earth.

The spirit of adventure lingers long within the breast of every man. It is the spirit that lends incentive to worth-while accomplishments if directed in the right channels. We leave today with the knowledge that a life-long ambition is about to be realized and with the assurance our place will be capably filled. We feel certain that this newspaper and its clientele can struggle along somehow without our services. After all, there's no man so efficient that he cannot be replaced satisfactorily.

We are leaving Lubbock just on the threshold of what promises to be a new era in the history of Texas Tech athletics. Fans of this city and section have already proven their belief in the ability of Pete Cawthon to put the institution's teams on the athletic map of the Southwest. It would be too much to expect Matadors to go great guns next fall since the material available for the 1930 football season is weaker than it has been in several years. We feel safe in predicting Cawthon will put a fighting eleven on the field but it is not likely to set the woods afire. Prospects are bright for an influx of promising freshmen recruits, all of which will be eligible for varsity competition in 1931. Cawthon plans a strong schedule for the 1931 season and the team should be able to go out and do things in a big way.

With the assurance from Coach Henry Frnka that he intends to "to give 'em hell" next fall, it looks like a great season for the Lubbock High School Westerners. The fighting Westerners are due to set a fast pace when the District One campaign opens and it looks like certains for the haughty Amarillo Golden Sandies. Lubbock's chief rivals will appear here next fall and it is with the deepest regrets that we will be forced to miss the accasion when the Westerners reap vengeance for that heart-breaking 13-7 defeat of last season. While the high school team will miss the able coaching of Del Morgan, the Westerners will have in Swede McMurry and W. A. Kseling a pair of first-rate tutors. Both are former Austin College athletes and that means both are hard-working men with the ability to inspire the ole fight in their their pupils.

The West Texas Golf association tournament is scheduled for Lubbock next year. This is another event we hate to miss, chiefly because the home boys will be given an opportunity to make up for their poor showing at Brownwood this season. In their own back yard, Clinton Bussey, Don Mitchell, Dick Slaughter and the other shooters of the Lubbock Country club are certain to make the going tough for the invading army of golfers. It will be another case of sweet revenge. Such a tournament will give the golf fans of this city their first chance to see golf as it is played by champions.

If you've gotten this far down you will be relieved to know that this player of the English language has just about had his last say—sung his last tune, if you please—in this newspaper. All mistakes, misunderstandings et cetera are past history. The bridges are washed out behind us and all is well.

SOD FROG GRIDIRON

Work on T. C. U. Field Will Start This Month

FORT WORTH, July 12. (Special) Work of sodding the football gridiron at the new Texas Christian University stadium now under construction will begin about the middle of this month, according to L. C. Wright, Horned Frog athletic director.

"The construction work on the stadium is progressing rapidly and in a few weeks we will begin getting the field in shape," Wright says. "Sodding the gridiron with grass will be our first job."

TILDEN IN FINALS

NOORDWIJK-AAN-ZEE, July 12 (AP)—Bill Tilden entered the final round of the Dutch Tennis championship today by defeating Hans Timmer of Holland, 6-2,6-3,6-4. Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia is the other finalist.

BARNES WINS TITLE

DES MOINES, Ia., July 12 (AP)—Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas, today won the men's single tennis championship of the Missouri valley in a hard fought final match with Harris Coggeshall, Western champion. The scores were 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, 7-5.

New Yorker's Nag Takes $265,000 In 60 Days

(By Associated Press)

ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO July 12.—Gallant Fox won the $70,000 Arlington Classic by a head from Gallant Knight in 2:03 4-5 today. The distance was a mile and a quarter. Ned O., was third in the field of six.

The thrilling race was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 60,000.

The order of finish was the same as it was when this trio hooked up in the Kentucky classic last May. Mata finished fourth to receive a $2,000 slice of the Purse. Altcibiades, the Kentucky filly, was fifth and Dark Entry sixth.

The race, at a mile and a quarter was run in 2:03 4-5, a fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Winning his sixth consecutive stake raceq of season, the sensational colt, owned by William Woodward, New York bank president added $64,750 to his winnings as a result of his victory. The race had a gross value of $78,750, including the bonus of $10,000 paid to the winner because he previously had won the preakness, Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes. His total winnings to date including purses won as a two-year-old, aggregate $274,830. In the last sixty days, however, Gallant Fox was won $265,000.

Becomes Dodo Man

Floydada Man Gets "Hole In One"

FLOYDADA, July 12 (Special) Glad Snodgrass is Floydada's newest member of that world famous "hole in one" club.

Glad and his brother Roy were playing together and sank his tee shot on the second green into the cup, a distance of 118 yards.

Besides Roy, Glad had as witnesses, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brown who were picnicking near No. 2 and who saw the ball roll into the cup.

"Boy, I wouldn't take a million dollars for those witnesses," he said just before he left for California, either to celebrate or to challenge the golfers of that state.

DENNISON NAMED COACH

Former Tech Athlete Goes To Lorenzo High

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LORENZO, July 12.—Russell Dennison, former Texas Tech Athlete has been elected athletic coach of Lorenzo high and also principal of the high school. He succeeds Jack Agee, who resigned after several years service to become a school superintendent.

Mr. Dennison's parents reside north of town as does his brother Paul. He is well known here.

Batting Streak Again Gives Oscar Eckhardt Long Lead on Rivals in Texas League Chase

DALLAS, July 12. (AP)—By hitting safely in six consecutive times at bat against Fort Worth on Wednesday and Thursday, "Big Ox" Eckhardt, the Beaumont bombardier, ran his batting mark up to .404 and again was far ahead of his Texas League rivals. Eckhardt has not relinquished his leadership since the season began.

Gene Moore, Dallas rookie, who was pushing Eckhardt a week ago, slumped to .365 and was benched for a rest. His place as runner-up was taken by Tobin, Steer catcher, with a mark of .375. Other leading batters through Thursday's bouts were:

Rye (Waco) .374; Gene Moore (Dallas) .365; Fitzgerald (Wichita Falls) .360; E. Brown (Fort Worth) .357; Hunt (Houston) .354; Joe Moore (San Antonio) .344; Schinkel (San Antonio) .339; I. Burns (Wichita Falls) .337.

Spuds Lead 6 Departments

Leadership in six departments of play belonged to the leading Wichita Falls Spudders. Larry Bettencourt was pacing the field in homers, with 28, in runs scored, 61, and in runs batted in, 67. Howard Fitzgerald, his teammate, had banged the most doubles, 37, and Hal Wiltse had pitched the most victories, 15, and hurled the most innings, 172.

In addition to his batting leadership, Eckhardt had the most hits to his credit, 135, and was second to Fitzgerald in doubles, with 32. Joe Bonowits, Fort Worth, was runner-up in total hits, with 130.

Moore Leads In Triples

Joe Moore, San Antonio's brilliant rookie gardner, had whaled 12 triples, followed by Tavener, Ft. Worth, and Miskin, Houston, each with 10. Long Bill Kelly of the Panthers was second in the homerun race, with 23. Joel Hunt, Houston, with 30, and Holley, Beaumont, with 26, were pacing the league's base thiefs.

Oscar Tuero's record of 12 victories and one defeat for Shreveport had the league's pitchers stopped.

Night Ball "Champs"

Texas league fans have dubbed the Waco team the "night ball champions" of the league because of the team's success in the after-supper tilts. Waco won four night tilts in a row.

Golfdom's Emperor Is Victor In National Tournament After Tough Battle Against Hazards

Atlantan Finishes with Total of 287 to Clinch His Third Successive Major Triumph of 1930; Mac Smith Comes in Second with a 289

By ALAN GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor

INTERLACHEN CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 12. (AP)—The king of all the golfers, flushed with the heat of one of the greatest battles of his career, strode to the home hole today with his throne a trifle shaky, the professional light brigade in hot pursuit and a 40-foot putt over the rolling turf before him. While close to 10,000 spectators held their breath, Bobby Jones hit the ball straight and true into the cup for a biddie three that closed the door to all challengers, clinching his fourth victory and successful defense of the open golf championship of the United States.

The roar that greeted this final stroke of the master shot-maker sounded the knell of what few lingering hopes remained as the all-conquering son of the south completed his third major golfing triumph of the year at home and abroad.

Amateur Is Ahead

All that Bobby needs to do now to make it a clean sweep for 1930, with all four major British and American titles dangling from one man's belt for the first time in history, is to recapture the United States amateur crown at Philadelphia in September.

Jones, with successive rounds of 71-73-68-75, finished his conquest today with a total of 287, the second lowest total in the history of the American open and only one stroke short of the record set 14 years ago by Glick Evans at the nearby Minikhada course.

It gave him a winning margin of two strokes over his nearest rival, the veteran MacDonald Smith, of New York, who made a sensational fight that fell just a trifle short of overhauling the Georgian in the final round.

Mac Smith, alone of the star professionals to stand the gaff of the final day after Jones had burned up the course with a record-breaking third round, finished with rounds of 70-75-74-70 for a total of 289 to clinch second place.

Horton Smith, 22-year-old professional who shot himself into the lead at the half way mark only to crack under the strain of today, wound up in third place, five strokes back of Jones, with 72-70-76-74—292. Fourth place went to Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Chicago with figures of 72-72-73-76—293. Fifth was the veteran John Golden of Darien, Conn., with 74-73-71-76—294, while the rest of the professional clan, including such early threats as Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Charles Lacey and Walter Hagen, fell by the wayside.

To show just how badly beaten the big stars were, Armour finished ten strokes to the rear with 297, Lacey wound up with 298 after making a "dark horse" threat. Farrell finished with 299, Leo Diegel with 301, Hagen with 303, Denny Shute with 305, and Gene Sarazen with 306.

Jones, as it turned out, really clinched the championship he has now won four times since 1923, by shooting an almost flawless 68 on the third round, the lowest he has ever scored in the American open and a mark that might just as well have been as low as 66 but for some shoddy work on the last two holes.

This gave Jones a five stroke margin at the end of 54 holes over his nearest Rival, Cooper, and a seven stroke lead over MacDonald Smith. Yet, with all this, Bobby suddenly found himself in the midst of one of the stiffest fights of his career. Into his closing round was packed most of the drama of the final day as Jones shook himself free from one bad spot after another to avoid being overhauled by Mac Smith.

Three times on the short holes, Jones performed the almost unbelievable and took fives, two over par each time as he either got into trouble or was unable to make his putter work. Twice, in succession, he three-putted. Yet, after each calamitous short hole, the king manifest the sort of ability that has kept him on the throne. Three times he came back with birdies to offset 50 per cent of the previous damage.

Cotton Co-Op

rations located in the cotton producing counties of the section will receive telegrams reminding them of the Tuesday meeting. All newspapers have been notified, also, and requested that they have representation here.

In writing other chambers of commerce, President Murray of this city's said in part as follows:

"At this meeting a thorough explanation of the government's plan for helping the farmers of this district will be given and, in addition, the campaign plans and program for this particular section will be outlined in detail.

Held Biggest Task

"To my mind, the biggest single task of our chambers of commerce is to improve agricultural conditions, because agriculture is the foundation of our nation's prosperity and particularly of the prosperity of this section.

"I believe that our assistance in the government's plan to organize the cotton farmers of this section will do more to draw town and country closer together and develop and promote the business of our individual communities than anything else we could undertake.

"The promotion of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association in this section should be a highly cooperative undertaking between the town and country and if the chambers of commerce of this section will loan their secretaries to this campaign, that will be the best possible evidence of the spirit which the government is endeavoring to promulgate and cement between the town and country."

Farmers Anxious

Ever since the branch office for this district was secured, April 11, farm leaders and those interested in organization of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association in this area, have been anxious to get started on a membership campaign. They believe that this district will lead the state in total membership and point to the fact that the present membership in this area is more than one fourth the state's total.

There are approximately 30,000 cotton farmers in the 26 cotton counties of this district, the past season's production being almost 600,000 bales. Although the task of securing members is a momentous one, plans being laid are elaborate and the aim is to secure as great a percentage of farmers as humanly possible.

Liberalization of the contract, in which members are required to deliver only every other bale up to 20 bales, is thought to offer such inducements that practically every farmer, when he understands the contract, will join the organization.

BONURA SUSPENDED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 12 (AP)— Larry Gilbert, manager of the New Orleans Pels, today announced the suspension of Zeke, Bonura, 1st base man, because of injuries that may lay him out for several weeks. Play might incapacitate him permanently. Bonura pulled a groin ligament.

Hobbs Payroll Is Over $1,250,000

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

HOBBS, N. M., July 12.—Payroll of Hobbs, including the huge Lea county oil field which surrounds the town, is estimated at more than a million and quarter dollars per month.

Hobbs has more than 60 drilling locations, between 60 and 70 wholesale houses catering to oil field work; over 400 retail establishments and a royalty income in excess of $170,000 a month.

Monthly wage is estimated to be as follows:

Drilling activities, $720,000; Wholesale houses, $63,000; Retail houses, $162,000; Pipe Line, Etc, $62,500; Transient workers, $60,000; Royalty $50,000 barrels, $187,500.

of City Development were gratified Saturday with announcement of the race itinerary. Many viewed the routing as a measure which would greatly advertise this city throughout the nation, acquaint airmen with the airport facilities here and probably lead to commercial air traffic through Lubbock.

To Improve Airport

J. Bryan Miller, city manager, and George Benson, chairman of the airport committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, expressed belief that hangars and improvements at the airport, five miles north of the city, would be completed in time for the derby. Arrival of the contestants will probably be occasion for dedication of the field.

City and chamber of commerce officials started making preparations yesterday to entertain 10,000 visitors on the day that the contestants arrive in this city. Exact date will be announced later.

Other control points are San Diego, Phoenix, Tuscon, Douglas, El Paso, Roswell, Amarillo, Wichita, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Des Moines, Madison and Elgin.

the open, have an almost humorous philosophy of their task.

Plans Praised

Charles A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal papers, lauded the plans of two members of the editorial department in setting out upon the world tour.

"I have heard 'pipe dreams' of many newspapermen along this line", he said, "but Sutton and Allen are the only two with whom I have come in contact who had the nerve to set forth on the adventure.

"During their stay in Lubbock both of these men have proven themselves honorable, upright and reliable in every way and newspapermen of that type rarely encounter trouble in making their way about the world. They have the ability and the courage to make a go of the undertaking and as they set forth the best wishes of their co-workers in Lubbock will accompany them upon their every effort."

Both From Missouri

Both of the adventurers 'broke in' on the Avalanche and Journal after studying journalism at University of Missouri. During their years in Lubbock both have pushed their way forward to a position which is enviable among the younger writers of Texas, both being widely known and read in this territory.

The two will travel from this city to Vernon as guests of Edd Abbott, operator of Texas Motorways and they will be guests of Southland Greyhound Lines from Fort Worth to Houston, through arrangements made by Joe W. Bowman, of Lubbock, president of South Plains Coaches.

Armed With Letters

Letters of introduction to statesmen, business men, educators, publishers, civic clubs and various organizations of the world have been given the young men by Dean Walter Williams, president of the University of Missouri; the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college; Dr. J. C. Granbery, head of the department of history and sociology; Charles A. Guy, editor of Avalanche-ournal; W. A. Jackson, president of the Lubbock Rotary club; Bean and Klett, local attorneys; County Attorney Vaughn Wilson; W. H. Bledsoe; C. J. Duggan; the Allen Brothers Post, local American Legion, and Gus Dallas. Other messages of commendation have been offered by newspaper editors and publishers who will be visited before the two leave the United States.

Dawson Area Club Session Is Successful

Over Two Hundred Present In Encampment; Free Trips To Short Course Are Awarded To Winners

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, July 12.—Dawson county farm workers ended their annual encampment here last night as over 200 witnessed stunts exhibited by communities in county.

Winners in women's contests were announced by Miss Genevieve Chipman, county demonstration agent, after ice cream furnished by chamber of commerce was served.

Winners Announced

Mrs. W. S. Ray won free trip to A. & M. College short course with dress judging. Second place was given Mrs. R. E. Echols and third to Mrs. Roy Meyers. Louise Gill won a free trip in 4-H club girls dress judging while Pauline Towns and Charlotte Brown won second and third places respectively. Juanita Stevens also won a free trip in class one dress judging.

In linen judging Mrs. H. M. Phillips won first place, Mrs. Cecil Watkins second and Mrs. Lloyd Carr third. Mrs. Tom C. Stanfield won a free trip in butter judging. Mrs. Lloyd Carr won second place and Mrs. T. J. Sullivan, third. Winners of second and third places were presented with merchandise from Lamesa stores.

Dallard won first prize of five dollars with its stunt, while McCarty and Hancock place second and third. Cash prizes were given by chamber of commerce here.

Four-H club boy winners were not announced but will be revealed within next few days, according to W. W. Evans, county agricultural agent. Four trips with all expenses paid to A. & M. short course this fall are offered boys in hogs, cattle, poultry and livestock judging.

All agricultural club members were guests Friday afternoon of Palace theatre during free show. The building was crowded to capacity. Following announcement of prize winners M. C. Lindsey thanked those who attended for their earnest work in farming in Dawson county.

the producers by the cooperative."

Must Be Active

Members must be both active and informed, Dr. Ellsworth explained. Improving of grades and quality is one of the biggest opportunities for cooperative effort, others being the lowering of costs for distribution. He urged that effort be made by Lubbock county farmers to organize such a cooperative that will fit in with the Federal Farm Board's specifications and affiliate with the Land O'Lakes creamerics.

Mr. Howard said:

"The great thing about this whole matter of agriculture's problems is that the business men everywhere have quit trying to tell the farmer how to farm. They are trying to help the farmer and they are helping him."

Support Cited

He declared that Lubbock business men are ready to put up the money, if necessary, to put over a cooperative marketing association for dairy and poultry products. "Farmers have showed our business men that other markets out of this state are offering more for cream and other products than local markets offer," he said, "and these Lubbock business men will aid you in any way that you want. All that is needed is for you to tell them what you want and need."

shown that these receipts were paid for out of some kind of a slush fund.

"Hundreds of poll tax receipts were issued to people who never appeared before a tax collector as required by law.

"Hundreds of poll tax receipts were issued to fictitious persons who could not be found to exist in Bexar county.

Has Confessions

"In short, I found in a brief but deliberate and careful investigation that at least 2,500 illegal poll tax receipts were outstanding in Bexar county. I have hundreds of confessions of people who hold or have had issued in their names illegal receipts in that county.

"In obedience to the law and in the face of the facts I immediately filed ouster suits against the tax collector and sheriff.

"The so-called political machine in Bexar county, it is reported, at once held a mass meeting and denounced me in most bitter terms, stating that the suits would never be tried and that it was a political move and that the representatives of this organization were going out over Texas and defeat me for nomination for attorney general. The cases will be tried as soon as possible and I am ready now to try them.

"So long as I am attorney general of Texas I propose to fight such practices as occurred in that county and to see that the law is enforced to the full extent of my ability."

Sun Baths Without Clothes Allowed

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 12—(AP)—Bathers in certain portions of Concha beach will hereafter be permitted to take sun baths in natural suits.

The moral associations of San Sebastian did their best to prevent bathers from appearing on the beaches without heavy clothing. The sun faddists, however, won out after a hard campaign.

Press Meeting

Lubbock Avalanche and Journal, was elected as vice-president and George F. 'Jimmy' Smith, editor of the Seurry County Times-Signal, was re-elected as secretary. Smith, sparkplug of the organization, was presented with a beautiful traveling bag for his activities in behalf of the association during the year just ending.

The Abilene session was proclaimed as the finest the association has ever had and praise for the hospitality of Bernard Hanks, publisher, and Max Bentley, editor of the Reporter and News, was voiced on every side.

Delegation Of Four Active

Lubbock's delegation was composed of Chas. A. Guy, Garnett O. Reeves, publicity and convention manager of the chamber of commerce; T. A. White, district manager of the Southwestern-Bell Telephone company, and C. A. Sheffield, manager of Hotel Lubbock. Upon motion of Secretary Smith, which carired with it thanks for Mr. Sheffield's aid in convention duties here, Hotel Lubbock was selected as headquarters of next year's session at Lubbock. The Hub City's bid was delivered by Mr. Guy and his nomination was seconded by J. C. Watson, of Stamford, leader of that city's forces which withdrew from the convention fight in Lubbock's favor.

In the final business session this morning, the association went on unanimous record as opposing the publishing of reading matter, with little or no news value, as tie-ups with advertising.

Neighbors Help Lubbock

In capturing the convention the Lubbock delegation resorted to the 'button-holing' method as compared to a more spectacular campaign by Cisco. The oil belt city was represented by a band, a bevy of beautiful girls, as well as by its newspaper editors and the president and secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Valuable assistance was rendered the Lubbockites by their nearest neighbors in the association. T. E. Roderick, publisher of the Slaton Slatonite, Edward Warren of the Post Dispatch, George F. Smith, of the Snyder Times-Signal, Elbert Smith, of the Lamesa Reporter and J. C. Watson, former Lamesa publisher and now secretary of the Stamford chamber of commerce helping at every turn.

The Lubbock session will be held in July of 1931, dates and program arrangements to be announced later.

ACCIDENT CLAIMED

Body of University Athlete Found in River

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—A verdict of accidental drowning was returned here this afternoon by Justice Frank Tannehill in the death of John Henry, 22, star track athlete of the University of Texas, whose partially decomposed body was taken from the Colorado river this morning.

Henry was the son of Judge Stanhope Henry of Navasota, a member of the state board of pardons and paroles. He had been missing from his home since Thursday evening. Members of the family stated they believed he had gone to San Antonio or San Marcos for a visit.

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 12.—Caterers to ballyhoo whims of the eleven candidates for the democratic nomination for governor in Texas have promise of reaping an extra rich harvest this year, with more than $25,000 already spent to further campaigns—nearly four times as much as expended at the corresponding time twwo years ago.

This imposing total was reached not by excessive expenditures by the candidates, as compared to previous years, but because of the extraordinarily large number seeking to be among those present when the second heat of the race is run.

Wardaw Has Record

Two years ago, L. J., Wardlaw, one of the strongest starters, spent more in the first period of the campaign than has any one of the eleven in the race this year. His total topped by a few hundred the $6,000 expenditure reported by Senator Clint Small, West Texas aspirant for executive honors.

The other three—Governor Dan Moody, W. E. Hawkins and Edith E. Wilmans—were still on their first thousand dollars when they made the first of three reports required by law.

"Ma" Slows Down

Going back four years, a strange contrast is found between the expense accounts turned in that year and this by Miriam A. Ferguson. Fighting her young attorney general, Dan Moody, Mrs. Ferguson's campaign had cost more than $5,000 when the first voucher was turned in. This year her expenses so far have been less than $400 in her campaign to vindicate the Ferguson name.

As an indication of what the final reports of the eleven starters may show when the last vote has been tabulated, Governor Moody's total expenses four years ago were reported as $7,883 and Mrs. Ferguson's as $7,966. Two years ago Governor Moody spent $6,505; Wardlaw $7,960; W. E. Hawkins $968, and Edith E. Wilmans approximately $700, no total having been given on her final affidavit.

Expenditures reported by the eleven candidates on their first preliminary report this year were:

Clint Small, $6,096.41; Earle B. Mayfield, $5,442.43; James Young, $5,384.52; Barry Miller, $4,366.75; R. S. Sterling, $1,746.65; Thomas B. Love, $1,604.30; Frank Putman, $385.80, Miriam Ferguson, $382.23; Dr. C. E. Walker, $172.75; C. C. Moody, $105; Paul Loven, $74.

GLIDER CLUB TO MEET

Membership Applications to Be Presented Today

The Lubbock Glider club will meet in a business session this afternoon at 1:30 at the Tumble N Swimming Pool, it was announced Saturday evening by C. C. Wright, president of the club, who will preside for the first time.

It is expected that applicants for membership in the club will be presented in sufficient numbers to fill the available places in the club. A maximum of twenty members will be strictly held to, according to present club members.

Other officers of the club who will be present in official positions for the first time are the vice president, H. L. Allen: secretary, Eugene Adair, and Alvin R. Allison, treasurer.

ASKS REDUCTION

Legge Ends Week's Campaign In Winter Wheat Area

ENID, Okla., July 12. (AP)—Resting the farm board's plea for acreage reduction in the southwestern hard winter wheat area with the growers, Chairman Legge late today closed a week's campaign in the territory after giving assurance the board was not departing from its pledge not to disturb the total holdings of grain involved in price stabilization operations.

Scoring Governor Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, outspoken opponent of acreage reduction proposals who blamed sales by the farm board for the break in the market today, Chairman Legge announced holdings disposed of "in closing up agreements with mills" would be replaced by the purchase of an "exact, equal quantity" of this year's wheat crop.

Eighty-Four Tracts Leased In 3 Counties

Walker Lets Contracts On All University Land In Ward, Winkler And Andrews; Total Received $1,134,180.20

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 12. — Eighty-four tracts of University of Texas oil and gas lands in Ward, Andrews and Winkler counties have been leased by J. H. Walker, commissioner of the general land office, under the terms of a recent Supreme Court decision which ended litigation that had been pending since January, 1929.

The total received by the state for the lease of the 84 tracts was $1,134,180.20. The money had been held by the commissioner of the land office pending decision in the litigation.

Robinson Enjoined

J. H. Robinson, late commissioner of the land office, was enjoined from awarding the leases by an injunction obtained by the attorney general. The state had sought to withdraw the lands from the market, contending Texas would not get a high enough price for it.

Robinson took the stand that he could not withdrawn the land from the market because specific requests had been made that it be offered for lease and that bids already had been received. The Supreme Court ruling was made on a mandamus action brought by the bidder to compel Robinson to award the land.

In its ruling the Supreme Court held that the state had entered into a contract to award the land to the highest bidder and should proceed with the award.

Contained 50,960 Acres

The 84 tracts contained 50,960 acres.

Ten Andrews county tracts were awarded to the Amarada Petroleum corporation of Fort Worth at a bid of $54,752; five Andrews county and four Ward county tracts to the Atlantic Oil Producing company of Dallas at $165,992; seven Andrews county tracts to the California company of Dallas at $39,264; one Ward county tract to Dean E. Gill of Abilene at $12,340; eleven Ward county tracts to Gibson and Johnson of Abilene at $649,657; five Ward county tracts to the Humble oil, and refining company of Houston at $104,592; one Andrews county tract to the Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company of Tulsa $5,888; McMan Oil and Gas company of Tulsa, one Ward county tract at $16,896; Phillips Petroleum company, Bartlesville, Okla., five Andrews county tracts $13,216; C. L. Renaud of Abilene, 24 Andrews county and three Andrews and Winkler county tracts $44,365; B. L. Ryan of Dallas, five Andrews county tracts, $17,248; Skelly Oil company, Tulsa, one Andrews county tract $5,907.20; Vacuum Oil company of Houston, one Andrews county tract $2,240.

HALE COUNTY LEADS

Lamb County Second in 2nd District Census

PLAINVIEW, July 12. (AP)—Hale county was the most populous county in census district No. 2 with its total of 20,192 announced today, and Lamb county, adjoining, was second with 17,449.

In the decade since the 1920 census, Lamb county's population increased from 1,175 to 17,449—a percentage of 1,385. Bailey county, sparsely settled in 1920, in the present census showed a population of 5,181.

Population of the district was 161,363, an increase of 68,619 or 74 per cent.

TO GIVE RESOLUTION

Distinction Asked In Posts Parade In Conventions

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SLATON, July 12.—When the Texas American Legion annual convention is held in Austin, September 1, 2 and 3, a resolution will be offered by the 18th Texas District which includes all of Northwest Texas, asking that when the annual convention parade is held each year, the districts be placed in the parade according to their membership records during the preceding year. This has been announced by Guy A. Giggs, of Plainview, executive committeeman of the 18th Texas District. Gibbs said the decision resulted from action taken when the 18th District convention was held in Slaton in June.

The 18th District now stands at the top among Texas districts, Gibbs stated. He said the June report showed the district to have reached 106 per cent of its quota, as compared with 84 per cent by its closest rival, the 13th District. Membership of the 18th district is 3,558, under the June report. The quota was 3,350.

According to Gibbs, the plan of having districts placed in the parade by number of their districts precludes giving deserved recognition to those districts that have made the best membership records, hence the resolution that the 18th district will offer.

CAPONE ACQUITTED

Chicago Gangster Is Freed of Perjury Charges

MIAMI, Fla., July 12. (AP)—Scarface Al Capone was acuitted of perjury on a directed verdict in criminal court here today.

Spectators in the crowded courtroom cheered as Criminal Court Judge E. C. Collins announced he had granted an order for a directed verdict of not guilty following a motion by Capone's attorneys. The noise subsided when Judge Collins threatened to arrest any disturbance creators.

He said he would set time for trial of other perjury charges against Capone next week and adjourned court until Monday morning.

TO HOLD JOINT SESSION

Portales and Lovington C. C. Groups to Meet

LOVINGTON, July 12. (Special.)—Members of the Portales Chamber of Commerce will meet here Monday, July 14, for a conference with the local group, Stanley McCauley, secretary, announced today.

Purpose of the meeting is to promote a more friendly spirit between the two towns.

Seth Alston, president, will preside at the conference. A large number of local men are expected to attend the gathering.

CHILDREN TO PLAINVIEW

PLAINVIEW, July 12. (Special)—A group of children from the Texas I. O. O. F. home at Corsicana, are to be in Plainview on Saturday August 23, according to W. A. Munger, district deputy grandmaster here. E. Q. Vestal, Dallas, grand secretary, advised Mr. Munger of the proposed visit to this section late in August, of the group.

LAMB COUNTY COURT

OLTON, July 12 (Special)—Next term of Lamb county court will begin Monday, August 4, Judge Simeon D. Hay announced. A list of jurors for the petit jury to meet the second week of the court and also for the third week, has been announced by Judge Hay.

Miss Truia Walraven, of Dallas, will arrive this morning and is to be the guest in the city for two weeks of Mrs. Sylvan Sanders, Bosque apartments. Several parties and other entertainments have been planned for the visitor while in Lubbock.

Requisition For Texas Is Denied

GULFPORT, Miss., July 12. (AP)—Governor Bilbo today refused to honor a requisition of Erath county, Texas, officials for the delivery to them of H. D. Wilkinson and C. A. Kelkinney of Macon, Mississippi, wanted in the Texas county on an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud in connection with an alleged cattle purchase.

The governor's refusal followed a lengthy hearing in his summer offices at which the Texas district attorney and other officials as well as attorneys for the two Mississippians presented their cases.

Wilkins, according to authorities, stopped payment on a check given for the purchase of cattle bought in Texas. The accused contended that the cattle were diseased and could not be shipped in this state.

Lovington Will Have Two Papers

LOVINGTON, N. M., will soon have two newspapers, it was revealed here Saturday when J. E. Hanway, publisher of the Casper, (Wyo.) Tribune and Herald announced establishement of the Lovington Tribune, a weekly.

Associated with Mr. Hanway in the enterprise will be F. G. Shepherd, former Lubbock druggist, who will have charge of advertising, and L. F. Griffith. First issue of the paper will be August 1.

Mr. Shepherd published the first issue of the present Lovington Leader in 1910.

RETRACTS TESTIMONY

Witness Blames Officers for Statement Against Mooney

BALTIMORE, July 12 (AP)—Refused his liberty though no charges are pending against him, John MacDonald, worn and broken, though but 58, today hurled charges that police of San Francisco were to blame for his testimony which 14 years ago sent Tom Mooney to prison in California for life. His retraction does not apply to Warren K. Billings, convicted with Mooney, who, he declared, is guilty.

Mooney and Billings, labor leaders, were convicted of the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916 which claimed eight lives, on MacDonald's testimony that he had seen the two plant a suitcase containing the infernal machine. This testimony, MacDonald said after his arrest last night through identification by a newspaper photograph, was planned by officials and he was coached in it by the state prosecutor.

Organization Is Answer to Farm Problem Says Legge

Farm Board Chairman Says Solution Of Agricultural Ills Depends Upon Concerted Move

By AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Farm Editor

One word spells the one answer to all farm problems facing America today, so Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, told the more than 1,500 who heard him Friday at Amarillo.

"Organization." This is the word he used and the answer he gave to innumerable questions popped at him from the audience, following his speech.

"If the wheat farmers and the cotton farmers, and other farmers," asked one man, "were now fully organized, what then would you and the Federal Farm Board be doing?"

Answer Is With Farmer

"Bless you," answered Mr. Legge, "then I could go home. There would be nothing whatever for me to do. My job would be finished.

"When you are properly organized, you'll get what's coming to you. You are the answer. The thing is in your hands. That is what has helped all other industries and it is what will help agriculture.

"If you were organized, there would be no use on earth for a futures market." He commented further on the futures market by stating he did not deem it wise to do away with present systems of marketing grain and other farm commodities. "Our present system should not be destroyed, but should be replaced by a system that will work," he said.

Speculator Would Go

"Organize, and do away with the system, and you do away with the speculators."

Mr. Legge's address and handling of open discussion climaxed a day filled with speeches by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics N. A. Olsen, and others.

Amarillo was next to last stop to be made on a tour of the southwestern hard winter wheat belt by the government officials. Purpose of the tour, as explained, was to acquaint wheat farmers with conditions confronting this country's wheat growing industry relative to marketing problems.

Touching upon conditions surrounding the marketing of cotton, Chairman Legge stated his belief to be that world production of this crop would not be so extensive as that of wheat and that export problems would not be so great for cotton as for wheat.

Compete With Paupers

"Farmers of this country," he said, in referring to wheat growers, "when operating in the world markets, are competing with the pauper labor of other countries."

In answering proposals made that the United States raise all the wheat it could and take chances on selling it, Mr. Legge declared he could see no advantage farmers could have in raising something to dump into the sea or to give away.

"The trouble with you people is that you're waiting for George to do it. Your problems can't be solved by legislation. You've got to do it yourself," he declared, and added "farmers will come to organization."

Scores The Politicians

Politicians were scored by the Farm Board chairman, particularly many attempts made by some to bring the board and agricultural problems into politics. He told that no one in Washington even knew what ticket he voted adding "It's none of their business."

"Citizens of Texas and fellow farmers" were Legge's opening words. He was in his shirt sleeves, very much at home among farmers and on the platform. His talk was in language farmers understand.

"One of the most common questions we are confronted with," he said, "is that we are advocating something new, radical change. After all, we are only advocating that you adopt the same policies and plans of procedure that all other industries have long ago adopted." He referred then to what he considered the greatets progress of all industry occurring in his life-time—that of a better guaging and better understanding of markets.

Conditions Worse Elsewhere

Other nations have farm problems, worse than those of the United States, and now are in far worse financial condition than this country, were statements of Mr. Legge. Increased acreage of wheat in Canada, Argentine and Australia, with Russia promising soon to be again the world's great wheat exporter, were conditions referred to, with decrease marked everywhere for demand of the crop.

Statements that some mysterious method of getting rid of our wheat surplus were referred to as all bunk. "There is no way out. You might as well forget it."

Dumping Is Bad Habit

Loans have been made by the Federal Farm Board to help steady the boat and to stabilize conditions. They have bought 60,000,000 bushels of wheat, which cost a million dollars a month now for carrying charges and storage. This will not be sold in competition with the 1930 crop, unless the price goes up high enough to warrant it.

American farmers are too much in the habit of putting all their goods in the show window at the same time, Legge said. As long as dumping on the market continues, "you will play into the hands of the speculator."

Must Stick To Wheat In Area

Economist For Texas Contends Main Crop For Upper Plains Must Continue To Be That Of Wheat

The Texas Panhandle area is one of limited alternatives, when it comes to a question of what crops are to be raised, in the opinion of C. A. Bonnen, of College Station, economist of the Texas Experiment Station, who spoke briefly Friday at Amarillo.

"Drouth-resident and early maturing crops, mostly wheat and grain sorghums," he said, "are necessarily the rule here. If grain sorghums are to be a substitute for wheat, this crop must be marketed for cash or on the hoof.

Shift From Wheat Unwanted

"It is difficult to become enthusiastic over a shift from wheat."

Mr. Bonnen contended that in the main farmers of this area are doing about the right thing. "Adjustments needed are already being carried out," he said, "and it really appears we are in a world-wide war in producing wheat."

New low cost of producing wheat is responsible for so great an acreage planted to this crop in the Panhandle, Bonnen contends, and stated he believed the area must produce wheat or nothing.

HIGHWAY TO BE PAVED

Route From Dickens To Spur To Get Improvement Soon

SPUR, July 12 (Special)—Judge W. R. Ely of the state highway commission has advised O. C. Newberry, county judge, that when Dickens county puts up the money for its share of paving highway 18 between Spur and Dickens will be paved. The road has been graded and drained by the state. The county, according to Judge Newberry, has had its money in the bank for two years awaiting action by the state.

Understanding of World Markets Big Need of Farmers', Says Hyde

Farming's Sole Aim Is To Make Money Not Bushels

Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, who last week referred to the tour of himself, Chairman Alexander Legge of the Federal Farm Board, and other government officials through the wheat belt as a sort of "Paul Revere" event, said at Amarillo Friday:

"Paul got his message across. Not immediately, but you ask England if he did. It may take 50 cent wheat to get this message of ours across, but it's going to be put over.

Are Giving The Facts

"We haven't yet found an audience that honest to God wanted to hear what we have to say. Legge and I happen to be posted in watch towers and have been given the job as sentries to warn you by imparting the information we have. We feel it is our duty to give it to you for your guidance. Use it or not—that's your job. We want you to have the facts.

"You can run by the red lights if you want to. It's up to you."

Secretary Hyde declared that there was a time when agriculture was more a means of living than a means of getting a living. He said the farm family no longer is a self-sustained unit.

Affairs Need Regulating

"Agriculture has become industrialized," he said. "You sell what you produce. You do not eat it or use it. You sell it to get the money to buy the things you need and want. Therefore, we need to regulate our affairs along industrial lines.

"Former problems of the farmer were within his own fence lines. His need of productions was for his own family. His surpluses now are sugject to all the vicissitudes of foreign markets and he must plan at planting time what he is to produce, in regard to all world markets."

Must Study World Markets

Farmers must take into consideration the things that control markets of the world. Mr. Hyde explained, as all nations are contending in these markets for control of them. He said the true theory of economy was the free and open operation of the law of supply and demand, yet the merger object of big business is to control the supply below the amount the world will take at a profit.

"You are proud of your production records," he declared. "Yet, what are you in business for? Is your object in life the production of wheat, or the raising of a standard of living on the farm, by the making of profit out of what you produce?

Standard of Living Talked

"Opportunity alone does not make economic equality. Whenever the standard of living on the American farm is as high as that of any other industry, we will have economic equality. Until we do have the same standard, there is something wrong."

He said that the strict application of the law of economy is the same as the law of the jungle—dog eat dog, but that the more human idea of "live and let live" is a finer doctrine in the United States of America. In this he referred to the clamor made by many wheat growers of the Panhandle that because this crop might be produce cheaper in this area than in other sections the other sections should be asked to reduce acreage and not this one.

"If you can produce a little less and get more for it," he said, "that sounds like logic, doesn't it? Profit of your transaction—not the bushels of a crop you can raise—that is what pays your debts, raises the standard of living and gives the farm boy and farm girl a better opportunity."

Hays Ford Attitude

Henry Ford's interview [illegible] made in which the automobile manufacturer stated the cure of agriculture's ills is more acres per man and more production per acre, was scored by Secretary Hyde. He said he had investigated Mr. Ford's own procedure in manufacturing cars and that he suspected Ford cutting down his production during depression.

"Neither Henry Ford nor you can afford to go on [illegible] more than you can sell at a price that will pay you a profit for [illegible]," said Mr. Hyde.

"We have been teaching our farmers to make two [illegible] grow where one blade grew before. Yet I say that the man who makes two blades grow where one grew before is not a wise man, unless he can sell the two blades for more money than he can sell the one blade for."

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hurd, of Menard, are visiting for several days with Mrs. Hurd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Judd, living one and one-half miles southeast of Lubbock. Another daughter, Mrs. Lucy Ince, of Amarillo, with her children, also are guests in the Judd home.

Mrs. E. D. Carr, of Hamlin, is a visitor in this city with her daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Davis, living on Avenue M. Mrs. Virgil Davis, of Arizona, a daughter-in-law, also is here.

Santa Fe Adds to Official Force in Lubbock; Payroll Now Over $200,000 Yearly

Approximately 90 Employes of Railroad Stationed in Lubbock at Present; May Extend Lines

THE Santa Fe now has six officials of the transportation and operating departments stationed in Lubbock with two of them transferred to this city within the past 30 days.

In addition to the six officials there are nearly 90 employes of the railroad located here, a large proportion of them men with families and some of them property owners.

Effective June 15 D. C. Cage, roadmaster at Slaton and A. J. Dillard, roadmaster at Plainview were transferred to Lubbock.

Kancher Assigned Here

Last August E. Kancher, now division freight and passenger agent, was assigned to this division with headquarters in Lubbock. At the same time a traveling auditor was sent here. He is C. A. Snow.

The other officials are: L. H. Hungate, transportation inspector and E. A. Tusha, traveling freight agent.

Mr. Kancher has a chief clerk and a stenographer in his office and there is also another clerk in the offices.

R. F. Bayless, local agent, has a force in his office that averages about 30 the year round. During the heavier freight movement, the number is larger, but the average, company officials state, is 30 or slightly more.

Five On Train Service

In the operating department there are five men in the train service on each of the three divisions, to Crosbyton, Bledsoe and Seagraves, or a total of 15 men.

Engaged in switching in the Lubbock yards are three crews of five men each.

Besides these men, the mechanical department has three men here all the time to take care of the engines that remain in Lubbock over night.

At present there are two sections gangs located in Lubbock, with more than 20 men regularly in the gangs.

Payroll $200,000 Yearly

Company officials estimate the average monthly payroll of the Lubbock force is between $16,000 and $17,000 or around $200,000 a year.

Assurances have been given by officials of the Santa Fe that as soon as conditions permit there will be an increase in the company's operations in Lubbock.

"Our desire is to provide the people of Lubbock with the very best transportation facilities," Tom B. Gallagher, general freight and passenger agent at Amarillo stated in a letter to the Avalanche-Journal.

Within the last several years the Santa Fe has purchased considerable property and has expanded its yard facilities to take care of the constantly increasing growth of business. The space now available for yard purposes is believed sufficient to take care of needs for some years to come.

May Extend Lines

There is a strong probability of the expansion of one of the branch lines out of Lubbock to take in new oil fields now being developed on the South Plains. Should this be done, the cost will be around a million dollars and all of the material will be handled through Lubbock.

Santa Fe officials report that their business from the branch lines out of Lubbock is steadily increasing as the territory grows and is opened up for settlement. Growth on the Bledsoe line is pointed to as one example.

At the same time the Crosbyton and Seagraves lines are showing substantial increases.

Business Increases

The latter has had an unexpected growth the past year owing to the development of the Hobbs, N. M., oil area. Business per month at Seagraves is reported to be more than double that it was a year ago.

No letup is seen by railroad officials in business into and out of Seagraves, in spite of the fact that the Texas-New Mexico railroad has completed its line into both Hobbs and Lovington.

In fact, one official indicated that the completion of the Hobbs line had had no adverse effect upon business but had, if anything, stimulated traffic over the Santa Fe.

Wholesale business at Seagraves is handled through the Lubbock division.

Most of the stations—of the Santa Fe in this territory report a slight increase month by month in spite of a seemingly general depression over most of the country in the east.

Expected grain movements this fall should exceed all previous years for volume and income, for the Lubbock office and also for the branch lines radiating from this city.

Objectives of Ag Department & Board Same

Bringing Increase of Profits to Farmers Is Chief Aim of Both, N. A. Olsen States at Amarillo Meeting

"The objectives of the Federal Farm Board and the United States Department of Agriculture are to increase the profits of the farmer," declared N. A. Olsen, chief of the bureau of agricultureal economics of the department, before the Amarillo gathering of farmers and business men last Friday.

Mr. Olsen continued by saying that only by increasing the income of farmers could they be given a higher standard of living—a standard comparable to that of other Americans. He was the first speaker on the day's program and quoted from many government charts in substantiating claims that reduction of acreage for wheat were essential if American growers were to make a profit.

Low Prices Seen Unfair

Present low prices are out of keeping with demand for wheat were conclusions drawn by Mr. Olsen, yet the world outlook calls for reduction in acreage and in cost of producing during the next six to 10 years. Price for wheat looks to be lower during the next seven years than the past seven.

A reduction of 10 per cent would probably increase the world price for wheat 13 cents per bushel, he declared.

Individual Will Determine

"Adjustments must be made by individual farmers. This is no time to leap into new enterprises, without counting all phases of the question. Farms are not yielding returns to the farmers."

Growing utilization of the combine and the tractor were given as big causes for increasing wheat production in America. Large scale principle of production, new lands put into cultivation for wheat growing and the raising of tariffs by foreign countries against American wheat were other factors entering into surplus causes.

Tech to Open Second Term On Tomorrow

Registration Is Scheduled for Monday; Past Term Is Viewed by Dean Gordon as Successful

Registration for the second term of summer school at Texas Technological college will be held tomorrow and classes will re-open Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, according to an announcement from the college Saturday.

"The past term has been one of the most successful in the history of the college," said Dean J. M. Gordon. "There was a seriousness of purpose evidenced in reports and study. Over 100 persons were doing graduate work and a great number of high school superintendents and principals enrolled for work."

Dr. W. C. Holden is offering a field course in Archeology this session and students are leaving for a six weeks' tour of ruins in New Mexico.

The college will close its doors for the session on August 22.

Behold the stranger!

A STRANGER moves to your neighborhood. You observe him tolerantly, but with no immediate display of interest. You are an established resident, getting along very nicely before he came.

But you do not avoid him. For reasons not entirely unselfish you wait for him to reveal himself. Possibly he may add something to your social and business life. Possibly he will take a highly respected place in the community. He may even become one of your intimates. It is up to him.

So you note his manners, talk with him, and form an opinion. If he comes up to your requirements, you accept him, and often he proves a welcome addition to your group of friends.

It is with exactly the same attitude that the intelligent newspaper reader regards the advertisements of products new to him. These strangers may add something to his civilized enjoyment. They may contribute to his comfort, safety—even his success. In many ways they may prove valuable. Certainly it is wise to give them careful consideration.

Read the advertisements in the Avalanche-Journal. They may be the means of introducing you to products that will take important places in your life. And every day they will give you information that enables you to buy intelligently and make your money go farther

Texas Tech Asks For Funds Totaling $3,345,430 To Run School During Next 2 Years

Dr. Horn Will Appear Before Board Of Education On Wednesday; Increase In Enrollment Demands Money

Texas Technological college, now full grown, has cast aside its youthful clothing and is now petitioning its parent for a wardrobe requiring an appropriation of $3,345,430.

Equipped with the itemized budget needs of the college for the next biennium, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college, will be in Austin next Wednesday at the meeting of the State Board of Education, of which Tom T. Garrard, of Lubbock, is a member. The newly organized board, after considering the needs of State institutions, will make recommendations to the Board of Control, which in turn drafts measures for action of the legislature.

Representing a 12 1-2 per cent increase over the enrollment of were registered at Texas Technological college during the 1929-30 season. The appropriations for the latter season were $40,000 less that for 1928-29.

"Texas Technological college has grown beyond the point of adequate appropriations," said Dr Horn. "There is now an emphasized need for greater financial support. We have an able faculty, but we are now confronted with the problem of paying ample salaries. Recent resignations of faculty members have pronounced the salary needs. Dr. W. T. Read, for instance, former head of our chemistry department, has accepted a position as dean of the chemistry school at Rutgers college at a salary which doubles that received here. In order to keep the best type of educators in our colleges we must pay better salaries."

To Give Lump Sum

"It is believed," Dr. Horn continued, "that the board of control will consider recommending appropriations in a lump sum, rather than the former plan of itemizing expenditures. Such a system would make it possible to pay better salaries, perhaps."

For the school year of 1931-32 Texas Technological college is asking for an appropriation of $1,789,865 and for 1932-33 is asking $1,555,568. These figures represent requirements for building and maintenance.

Among the most needed improvements at the college are a library building, dairy products manufacturing building, a green house, and completion of the administration building. Present buildings of the college represent about one-fourth of the conception outlined in the general plan of the institution.

NO POLICEMAN AT WORK

Night Watchman Is Only One Around In Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, uly 12 (Special)—So quiet has Littlefield become the past few months that the city fathers have failed to employe a policeman.

No officer has been employed to keep the peace and quiet of the town for more than 30 days.

The only man now in this work is the night watchman, who has to be employed under fire insurance regulations.

No arrests have been made for weeks, Bill Street, city clerk, says.

TO JUDGE LAWNS

LAMESA, July 12 (Special) — Lamesa lawns entered in the city-wide lawn beautification contest are to be judged by out-of-town judges within the next few weeks, according to the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the contest.

New Ailment Is Discovered

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 2. (AP)—Dr. Walter H. Miles, Oklahoma City health director, said last night a new beer ailment, best described as "the knots" has been discovered. Dr. Miles said "knots" in the stomach resulted from the drinking of "home brew."

Advising temperance to avoid the disorder, Dr. Miles said the combination of too much "home brew" and hot weather has "floored" a number of persons.

The health director said one victim of "the knots" called at the health department and demanded immediate attention, declaring he could not last another minute without relief. Physicians gave him emergency treatment and suggested he pour his beer down the kitchen sink, Dr. Miles said.

Cecil Storey To Speak Here

Vernon Candidate Is To Be In Lubbock On Monday; Will Make Addresses Over Entire Panhandle Area

Representative Cecil Storey, of Vernon, will invade Lubock in his campaign for attorney general when he speaks here next Monday afternoon.

Following his engagement here Mr. Storey will speak at Plainview Monday night, Amarillo Tuesday, Borger Wednesday afternoon, Pampa Wednesday night, Childress Thursday afternoon and Wichita Falls Thursday night.

Auto Caravan Planned

A caravan of autos from Vernon will meet Mr. Storey at Childress and escort him to Wichita Falls, with brief stops at Quanah, Chillicothe, Electra and Iowa Park.

"I feel that in going into the great Western part of Texas among the people I know and among whom I have lived a quarter of a century, that I will find myself among home folks," Mr. Storey said. "It has been my privilege, at a financial sacrifice, to leave my office and go to Austin and help look after their interests as Representative. While they do not owe me anything, for I have done no more than my duty, yet I am glad to say that I had a part in helping to establish Texas Tech, to have helped write the livestock laws for tick eradication, to have helped keep down the income tax and the unreasonable tax on oil and gas in the great West, and above all I am glad that it was my privilege to lead the fight in the House of Representatives to pass the famous river bed Small land bill over the Governor's veto, thereby helping to reestablish the confidence of the people in the State and trying to see that the State should be as honest with its citizens as it expects them to be with it."

PROSPERITY

The Administration at Washington called innumerable conferences of the country's leaders in the fields of transportation, manufacturing, banking, retail and other lines of business, having a direct influence on the prosperity of the Nation. Conferences with but a single purpose, and that, to plan "policies" that would insure prosperity.

America's business leaders, have pledged themselves to a program of "Prosperity Insurance," the "premiums" of which will be paid by preventing curtailment of business expansion. The factories, the railroads, the agricultural districts and the business of both local and national government will continue to drive full steam ahead.

However, prosperity in it's final analysis, depends upon the individual worker . . . for without his whole-hearted co-operation the "premiums" may lapse . . . The Prosperity of YOUR State and YOUR Nation can only be assured through the enthusiastic efforts of EVERY individual . . . REMEMBER it's up to YOU and YOU and YOU.

Employes Of Indiana Company Take Over Stock In Celebration Of 13th Anniversary Of Unique Experiment

(By Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, July 12.—In celebration of the thirteenth anniversary of a social-industrial experiment in business management employes of the Columbia Conserve company have taken over fifty one per cent of the stock of this company which last year did $1,600,000 worth of business.

The 150 employes through their stock ownership were placed in a position whereby they might discharge the company president, William P. Hapgood. The president said he would remain at the head of the company only so long as his co-workers desired.

The employes of the company, which manufacturers soup, acquired the stock without paying for it. Accumulated profits were used to purchase the stock which was given outright to the employes.

Inherited Plant

Hapgood and his two brothers, Norman and Hutchins, inherited the plant in 1917. They made a contract with their employes as a group for purchase of the business by a retirement of the common stock from profits. This was consummated Friday and eventually the Hapgood brothers expect that 100 per cent of the stock will be held by the workers. All workers' stock is held, however, by the employes as a group and no employe can hand down the stock to his heirs.

There are many unusual features in the operation of the plant, for one thing wages are based on the needs of the worker.

A married man receives fifty per cent higher wages than a single man and he gets $2 a week more for each child up to the limit of three children.

Weekly Council Held

A weekly council is held by the employes at which plant policies are discussed. A janitor may criticize a program proposed by the president and upon a vote of the workers the program may be rejected. An employe may only be discharged by a council of his co-workers.

The plant has no "bosses." There are "leaders" who may give directions.

The president is the father of Powers Hapgood, whose militant methods while a member of the United Mine Workers brought him into conflict with authorities in Pennsylvania. Norman Hapgoood, brother of the president, is prominent in magazine editorial work.

ANNOUNCSS CONTEST

Bill Donaldson Is To Award Prizes To Fishermen

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, July 12. (Special)—Bill Donaldson, owner of Donaldson's lake, south of town, announces a unique fishing contest beginning July 15 and closing August 31.

"I will give free to the fisherman who catches the largest bass in my lake between those days, fishing license free and the right to fish at any time during the fall season," he said. "That means, he can fish in September, October and up to November 30."

Donaldson's lake contains about 15 acres. The water is from 15 to 30 feet deep. It is famous over the Plains for the splendid fish to be found there.

Largest fish so far caught is a 4 1-2 pound bass.

Eight states have laws to prevent guests in automobiles from suing owners in case of unavoidable accident.

Gilbert Swan

In New York

With Swan

SOUTHAMPTON, N. J., July 12.—For two years I have bravely fought off the inroads of New York.

Whenever it seemed to me that the city was about to get one, I would invariably run to some such shelter as an old picture album containing snapshots of myself fishing in the California Sierras.

But I've just been subjected to a test which is said to be final in such matters. I might as well surrender to the inevitable.

Because this very morning, the singing of birds outside my window woke me up.

I can sleep through riveters at work at a nearby corner and through the rumble of traffic outside my New York window. But here, where I have chosen to spend my summer week-ends, there is the soft music of the wind as it rustles over the timothy hay in the front yard—a Bob White appears with regularity in a nearby cornfield and thrushes sing the symphony of sundown.

Yet, the darn things wake me up in the morning.

This town is an interesting commentary on the invasion of the city on New York suburbiana.

Southampton, according to all the best metropolitan society pages, is the swankiest of the swank. Willie Vanderbilt's yacht pulls up in the bay and the Shinnecock Golf Club, one of the pioneer clubs of the ritzy, kicks out the younger social registerites. Down on "Main street" they have built a miniature of Fifth Avenue. Smart shops show their costliest summer wears.

Yet, such is the incongruity of this spot, that the old flavor of whaling days will not be erased by the obtrusion of the Blue Book folk.

In years agone, when New Bedford and Nantucket and Southampton were the capitals of the whaling belt on the Atlantic coast, this fashionable resort of the moment ranked high among the whalers.

There was a lookout place down by the beach. The fisherfolk survived on their catch. When a whale was sighted the lookout, from his tower, loosed the dismal boom of a huge horn, the tones of which were somewhere between a fog warning and a bellbuoy. This was the signal for the predatory fisherfolk to rush for their boats, always waiting them on the beach.

"Thar she blows!" and away they went.

The first to reach the whale got the rewards. It was a grand race for survival.

Very well! The oldsters of the town, who live in simple cottages down the road, who take in summer boarders and who have swell old-fashioned green shutters, have kept the old whale horn as a museum piece.

And today, when the noon hour strikes, instead of the usual chiming of the town clock, instead of the noon whistles—a hardy old pioneer ascends to the steeple of the town hall and lets go the whale horn. It resounds up and down the streets and swanky shoppers stop before store windows and look about asking each other "What's that?"

Thus far I have not achieved the fashionable beach club. Nor have I been allowed on the links of the swankier golf clubs, where one's family history is checked at the first green.

But where I swim a fisherman's boat rests on the sand beside nets strewn in the sun. And during the morning they roll it down to the surf on old logs and go out after the day's catch. And when they come back, you can see the gay parasols rising down the shoreline in front of the millionaires' clubs.

GILBERT SWAN.

PAVING WORK STARTED

Ninth Street In Slaton Is Being Paved To Highway

SLATON, July 12.—Preliminary work of paving Ninth street from the end of the present cement slab on the state highway, to the city paving near the business section and thence on south from the paving to the city limits, is well under way.

All the old city culverts and drains are being removed and a good roadbed built. As soon as the slab work is completed in the state highway, the paving contractor will come to Slaton and begin work on Ninth street.

The Oklahoma City detention hospital will be moved because patients complain of noise caused by oil drilling nearby.

Moose Hold Annual Convention

Good fellowship has been the keynote of the annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, at Moosehart, Ill., to which Secretary of Labor James J. Davis has given years of service. BLOOMS ARE REPORTED

Lockney High School Says He Saw First Bloom

LOCKNEY, July 12.—(Special)—Warren Rives, member of the agricultural class of Lockney high school, is the first cotton farmer in this section of Floyd county to report cotton booms.

"Pup," as he is known, has a 20 acre patch two and a half miles west of Lockney, his project in the vocational class work. He reports he cotton as a whole has a good stand except a small sector.

High School Staff At Seminole Named

SEMINOLE, July 12. (Special)—Election of J. C. Carter of Weatherford to the seventh grade and Miss Ellen Steffens of Commerce to the high school, completes the 1930-31 faculty, the school board announces.

Miss Steffins is a graduate of East Texas State Teachers college with the degree of B. S. science. Mr Carter holds an A. B. degree from the University of Texas.

Seven of the 11 teachers in the system hold degrees. Recent elections include: Miss Thelma McPherson, of Abilene, graduate of Simmons college and Miss Mary Rankin of Petersburg, who is completing her degree work at Tech this summer.

Miss Steffins will be home economics teacher the coming year.

REBUILDING PLANT

State Telephone Company Is Improving Ralls Plant

RALLS, July 12. (Special)—The State Telephone Company has had a large crew of men in Ralls for the past several weeks rebuilding the entire local telephone system. New cables were put in, new poles, where necessary and a complete metallic circuit system has been placed in operation. The Ralls people are well pleased with the improved system and heartily commend the State Telephone Company on their work.

The clock in the town hall of Castleton, on the Isle of Man, has been going for 380 years. It has only one hand.

Cotton Moderate Trading In Cotton Market Livestock Cattle Prices Are Higher in Circuit Grain Wheat Reaches to New Bottom Levels

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jul 12. (AP)—Cotton had a typical week end session with moderate trading and narrow price fulctuations. The weather was the controlling influence although favorable cables caused a slight opening advance.

As New York did not respond to the cables, the local market lost the opening gain, but prices soon started to improve on the weather map and made new highs near the end 13 to 14 points above the previous close.

The July position suddenly bulged practically a dollar a bale on some covering. The close was steady and at or near the highs, showing net gains for the day of 8 to 20 points.

Port receipts, 4,022; for season, 8,630,180; last season, 9,477,008; exports, none; for season, 6,553,732; last season, 7,798,796. Port stock, 1,620,833; last year, 674,889. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans markets, 1,209; last year, 2,685.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 12. (AP)—Early irregularity was followed by steadiness today in cotton on covering which may have been promised by reports that the decline in Liverpool had been checked by trade buying and the failure of weather forecasts to indicate any great relief from droughty conditions in the south.

After selling at 12.90 early July rallied to 13.00 while the new October contract sold up from 12.66 to 12.79, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 1 to 12 points.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week estimated at 41,000 bales against 56,000 last year.

REPORT IS ISSUED

Condition Of Grain Crops On July 1st Give Out

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—The condition on July 1 of the important grain crops by important states and the indicated production, as announced today by the department of agriculture in its report supplemental that for the country as a whole, issued yesterday, included: Corn: Kansas, 77 and 130-114,000.

Oklahoma 79: 67,040,000.

Texas 68; 78,336,000.

Winter wheat: Kansas 72 and 146,688,000; Oklahoma (yield per acre), 9.5 and 32,696,000; Texas (yield per acre), 11.0 and 27,720,000.

PROBE NEGRO COMPANY

AUSTIN, July 12. (AP)—W. A. Tarver, state life insurance commissioner, plans to start an investigation into the financial affairs of the Mosaic Templars of America, a negro fraternal insurance organization, early next week. The home office of the company is at Little Rock, Arkansas. Insurance department officials stated the organization was unable to pay its claims.

Stock Market Closes With Gains As Speculative Sentiment Looks Upward

By C. CONLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 12. (AP)—Speculative sentiment looked up rather than down today, and the stock market closed with gains averaging three points in active shares.

Increasing tendency toward at least a mild form of bullishness has so far had no encouragement from business statistics the absence of important liquidation on the declines has strengthened confidence. Failure of yesterday's technical reaction to bring out stock encouraged operations for the advance in today's two hour session which saw a lively little rally led by U. S. Steel, American Can, Radio, General Electric and other favorites, including numerous utilities.

Wheat Steady

Wheat was steady to firm. Corn on the other hand, weakened more than a cent. Cotton closed one to twelve points higher.

Considering the normal Saturday dullness, bonds continued to do well. Improvement in the high grade rails was sustained and foreign issues worked higher.

Radio was one of the day's leaders. Reviewed interests in the issue was attributed in part to the return from Europe of a prominent trader who is frequently active in it, and the stock ran up 3 points to 39 3-4, its best price in some time. U. S. Steel also went to a new high for the movement, closing at 160 3-4, the top, also a 3 points gain.

Hershey Popular

Hershey chocolate was strong, rising more than 5 points in response to favorable earnings estimates based on the low prices at which the company has been able to get staples. Vanadium Steel, popular with the professional traders, rose 4, while Westinghouse Electric was up 4 5-8.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, July 12. (AP)—Hardly enough cattle of any class arrived today to test values, but quality considered, sales were about in line with Friday and lower on cows and steers for the week. Other classes about steady. Figures called for 200 cattle, 150 calves, 350 hogs and 650 sheep.

Bulls sold from 3.25 to 4.00; Cows appeared to sell to fair advantage with one load at 2.90 and the other at 3.00. Few beef cows 5.00.

No especially good calves offered, but trading was fairly active on those offered. A load that averaged 271 pounds sold at 6.00.

No rail hogs. Truck hogs sold up to 9.00, steady to 10c lower.

Few sheep sold in line with Friday's trading which shows a little better tone for the week on most classes.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, July 12. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the eleven market circuit this week was featured by firm to higher prices on fat yearlings and better light steers, but matured native grain feds and western grass steers sold sharply lower. Maximum upturns of 1.00 were reported on yearlings while heavy steers at several markets took a 75-1.00 decline. For the first time in several months fed yearlings grade for grade command a premium over weighty steers. County demand for replacement stock remained narrow with shipments back to the country comparatively light. Aggregate receipts were around 180,000 as compared with 118,687 last week and 181,483 a year ago.

Hogs 240 pounds and down moved to best advantage this week, and at several point price on such offerings are 5-25 higher than the close of last week. Strong weight butchers are generally 15-25 lower. Total offerings were around 463,000, an increase of 121,500 over last week but 39,000 fewer than a year ago.

Moderate receipts stimulated demand for most all killing classes of sheep. Upturn of 25-50 were taken by fat lambs while aged stock ruled steady to 25 higher as compared with close of last week. Choice range lambs in Chicago late in the week realized 11.50. The supply approximately 224,000 against 181,043 last week and 253,064 a year ago.

WORK TO BE DELAYED

Veterans' Pension Affairs Will Be Delayed By Red Tape

AUSTIN, July 12. (AP)—Responding to hundreds of letters, Wynn S. Goode, department service officer of the American Legion, said today that adjudication of claims under recently enacted World War veterans' disability pension laws cannot be begun until definite instructions are received from the Veterans Bureau at Washington. He declared it impossible at this time to advise veterans of their rights under the law.

RECOVERY PLANNED

ROSWELL, N. M., July 12. (AP)—Drillers representing companies of the New Mexico oil fields meeting here with state geologist Glen Stale agreed today to set up their casings low enough to permit the maximum recovery and conservation of gas and oil. No arbitrary depth was set but the wells generally are carried to between 3,920 and 3,950 feet.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 12. (AP)—With Liverpool quotations on wheat offering an export outlet at only about 80c a bushel in the United States and Canada, wheat collapsed today to new bottom levels. Forecasts of a general break in the wave that has been damaging spring wheat both south and north of the Canadian boundary was a notable factor contribution to lower prices, and so likewise were reports of beneficial scattered rains. On the other hand, assertions that crops over a wide area of Saskatchewan Province, Canada, have been damaged beyond help, did much to rally the market.

Wheat prices here closed nervous in the extreme at exactly the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8c a bushel higher. Corn closed 1 1-8 to 1 5-8c down, oats unchanged to 1-4c off, and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 2c.

For the most part, the provision market was steady, helped by upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat July 84 7-8 to 85, 88 1-4; September 87 5-8 to 3-4, 92; December 89 3-4 to 7-8, 98. Corn July 75 3-4, 78 3-4; September 73 3-8 to 1-2, 76 3-8 to 1-2,; December 66 3-4 to 7-8, to 1-8 to 1-4.

Four Amendments Are Mailed Out

AUSTIN, July 12. (AP)—Copies of the four proposed amendments to the state constitution to be voted upon at the November election were mailed today to newspapers in each county by Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum secretary of state.

The law provides the amendments must be printed four consecutive weeks in one newspaper in each county, after July 20 of the election year.

The amendments would lengthen the regular legislative session to 120 days and increase the pay of members $10 per day, and otherwise reorganize the legislature; allow taxation of University of Texas lands; allow the supreme court, which now has an enforced vacation from July to October, to meet at any time of the year; and allow regents of the University of Texas to issue bonds against the university's permanent fund.

New Grain-Feed Firm Opened Here

Opening a substantial addition to the wholesale district of Lubbock, the Lubbock Grain and Feed company is to open Monday at Avenue Q and 4th Street, it was announced here yesterday. The new firm is under the management of Willis Pereau.

The firm is to handle all kinds of feeds and grain wholesale. It will also be distributor for "Lights Best," "Oven Perfect," and "Elkhart" flours.

A twenty thousand dollar warehouse and office building is being built at the company location. The first wing of the building has been completed and the structure is to be completed within a short time.

Mr. Pereau is an experienced man in the grain and feed business, coming here from Liberal, Kansas. He has moved his family to Lubbock and is making his home permanently here.

Ralls Man Claims Oldest Books On Medicine In Area

(By Staff Correspondent)

RALLS, July 12.—Two of the oldest volumes of medical works believed in existence on the South Plains are owned by Dr. P. H. Mitchell of this city, a former physician in East Texas who came here more than a year ago seeking a higher climate.

The books are: "An Improved System of Midwifery," written by Dr. Wooster Beach, M. D. and published in 1847 and the other a medical dictionary edited by John Redman Coxe, M. D., and published in 1808.

The first volume was published by the author at a publishing house located at 239 Bowery, New York, City.

Thomas Dobson, "at the stone house No. 41 South Second Street," Philadelphia, published the older volume.

Bound in Leather

Both books were bound in leather and are in splendid condition despite their age. They were partially burned in a fire in the doctor's office several years ago.

"I prize them very highly for they were handed down to me," Dr. Mitchell explained. "After the fire I thought they were burned beyond repair. I did have them fixed up a little.

"As far as I have learned, they are the only volumes of their kind in this section of the southwest. I have never seen or heard of any other volumes by these authors in any city I have ever been in."

Has Collection

Dr. Mitchell during his life has made many trips to interesting sections of the country. He has a large collection of specimens including some gold from Colorado, petrified wood, "fool's gold," quartz, granite, limestone and the like. He also has many Indian arrowheads, etc.

"I have always been a great traveler and I collect trinkets and things and like to keep them" Dr. Mitchell said. "Mrs. Mitchell has also traveled a great deal and we have a collection of unique pieces from all over the world."

Aided His Health

Dr. Mitchell was in poor health when he came to Ralls. He began to study his own case and worked out a system of treatments that has brought him back to normal healthy condition again.

One of Dr. Mitchell's hobbies is the use of electricity in his medical practice. He has eleven instruments of various kinds in his office, some with as many as 2,000 attachments or combinations. The doctor has taken numerous post graduate courses in this work, spending several months each year in either New York or Chicago with specialists.

Mrs. Mitchell, herself an experienced operator of the electrical machines, works with her husband. She keeps a case record of each patient.

Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell have made many friends since coming to Ralls. They are well known over this section and both of them say they find the higher altitude of the South Plains much more to their liking and to their general health than the lower altitudes of East Texas.

TO VISIT GIRLS

PLAINVIEW, July 12 (Special)—Mrs. Julia Kelly home demonstration agent of Hale county has started the visitation of each of the 75 girls engaged in home demonstration projects. Mrs. Kelly will assist the girls in preparing records of their products to be used as the basis for sending some of them to the annual short course at Texas A. and M. July 28.

Jones Leading In Names In Snyder

SNYDER, July 12. (Special)—Keeping up with the Jones is the popular sport here, following issuance of the new city directory.

There are 24 of 'em, county 'ers.

The Smith tribe, the Johnson bunch, the Greens, etc., are all distanced by the most famous of all Welsh names.

Snyder has 23 of the Smith family. There are 20 in the Green and Greene lists; 18 Davises; 17 of the Taylor tribe.

By combining the Johnsons and Johnstons there are 14. Close behind comes the Clark family with 14, while the Moore-Moar and the Thompson families tie with 13 all.

Listed are an even dozen members of the Williams family, while the Pierce and Martin tribes number eleven and the Wilson family has ten. All other names in the city directory show less than ten to the name.

COUPLE MARRIED

DIMMIT, July 12. (Special)—Stephen Lynn of this city, owner of the "L" service station and Miss Jacqueline Rustead, of Sweetwater, Okla., were married July 4 at Sayre, Okla. She frequently visited her brother here and is was while on a visit to her brother that she met Mr. Lynn.

O. K'S STORY IS TOLD

R. F. Hester Relates As To How School Got Its Name

O'DONNELL, July 12 (Special)—R. F. Hester one of the old timers of this section, tells the following story of how the "O. K" community got its name.

"About 28 years ago I came here and opened a grocery near a little settlement known as Central" he said. "I had a farm there and ran the store on the farm. The postoffice was later created and was known as Central.

"When the school, then known as Central school, was started, Miss. Panzy Pope was the teacher. She had a regular caller, O. K. Jones, then of Lamesa. Mrs. White, with whom Miss Pope boarded, being somewhat of a joker, began calling the school O. K. for Mr. Jones.

"It was about this time that the postoffice was discontinued and because the name Central was not well fixed and there were many newcomers who knew the school as O. K., that it was officially given that name."

Tamale Peddler Survives Death

SAN MARCOS, July 12. (AP)—"You can't keep a good man down," casually remarked old Ben, hot tamale peddler for the past 40 years, as he recently shuffled along his course much to the surprise of residents here.

For Old Ben was supposed to have been dead. So dead, in fact, that his family had called in the undertaker to prepare his body for burial.

Ben, however, decided to pull a comeback and when the undertaker arrived he was sitting up nonchalantly on the bed swinging his legs. He had suffered a heart attack.

Regardless of the fact that he "died", Ben announced he would continue on his wonted tamale selling course.

Bride And Groom Leave After Reception For Honeymoon Trip To Canada; To Make Home In Akron, Ohio

OF interest to many friends here is the wedding of Jack F. Maddox and Miss Mabel Le Claire Scofield, which took place Saturday evening, July 12 at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Scofield, in Gainesville.

The Rev. A. D. Foreman, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist church in that city, read the ring ceremony in the presence of several friends and relatives as the couple stood before an improvised altar of roses and ferns.

Nuptial Music

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Porter Wilson, of Gainesville, sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. J. Cox of Dallas who also played the wedding march. During the taking of the vows Mrs. Cox played "Meditation" by Morrison.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore her mother's wedding gown of point de spray and real lace with veil of bridal illusion and head dress of lace caught with orange blossoms. She wore long lace mitts and her single piece of jewelry was a strand of pearls.

She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley.

Sister Maid of Honor

Miss Alma Louise Scofield, sister of the bride, was the maid-of-honor. She was gowned in orchid georgette with slippers to match and carried a bouquet of roses.

Don Maddox, of Menard, the groom's brother, acted as best man. Mr. Maddox is a former student of Texas Technological college.

Bridesmaids were Miss Madeline Tune of Tulsa and Miss Ruby Ernst of Denton. They wore dresses in pastel shades and carried roses. Groomsmen attending were Morris Mitchell and Robert Keesee, both of Dallas.

Wears Flesh Georgette

Peggy Lou Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Collins of Gainesville, was the flower girl. She was frocked in flesh georgette.

The ring bearer was Billy Frank Bryan, little son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bryan, Memphis, Texas.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held, with Miss Berta Siegmund, Dallas, and Miss Emma Siegmund, Gainesville, presiding at the punch bowl. Miss Mary Woods was in charge of the bride's book.

Leave for Canada

Mr. and Mrs. Maddox left shortly afterwards for a motor trip in Canada. The bride chose a travel suit of aquamarine with accessories in eggshell.

The couple will reside in Akron, Ohio, where Mr. Maddox is connected with the fabric division of the Goodrich company. Mr. Maddox is a graduate of Texas Technological college.

Mrs. J. L. Murfee Hostess To Group

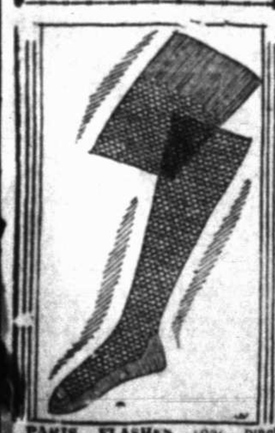

Garden flowers were used to decorate the home of Mrs. J. L. Murfee, 1615 17th street, when she was hostess to members of the Friday Needle club Friday afternoon.

Sewing and exchanging of recipes were diversions for the group, and ice cream with caramel cake was served to Mesdames E. M. Worthy, W. E. Twitty W. C. Bryan J. B. Pryor, M. K. Foster, Y. J. Aiken, W. E. McClendon, J. M. Davis, and two guests, Mrs. C. H. Amacker and little Miss Meta Craig Twitty.

Betsy Believes That Individuality Is Smartest

By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, July 12.—Every week-end is a gala holiday this summer, with those who have not moved out of town for the season making a dash for the country along about Friday afternoon.

Polo is the great spectator sport on Long Island these days, though water sports are the participator ones.

Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., is one o fthe consistently well-dressed women who watch from the sidelines while her famous husband "Tommy," makes some of his spectacular shots. Last week she wore a particularly becoming two-toned pink crepe frock, with the lighter tone fashioning a little revers collar and narrow yoke, a shaped banding where the short sleeve was set in, and a little drop cuff for the short sleeve.

Checks Are Popular

Evelyn Talbot usually wears white, in a one-piece or two-piece sleeveless variety. She has a stunning white paillaisson hat, with fringed eadge, almost a cartwheel in its brim's width.

The increasing vogue for checks instead of the ubiquitous polka dots was given a vote by smart Mrs Robert L. Stevens at the Meadowbrook Club the other day. It was a tailored frock, with tight belt and long sleeves, with a scalloped collar and cuffs of fine organdie. Her panama hat was banded in checkered grosgrain to match the brown and white of her frock.

Miss Nora Grace . . . in the more intricate mode

Checks Are Replacing Polka Dots For New Vogue

It looks as if by winter the smart trick will be to have plaintoned, fancy-weave, worsted suits, with the coats lined gaudily in hand-blocken or other expensive and altogether ravishing silks. Many linen suits this summer indicate this. Mrs. John Van S. Bloodgood wears a stunning light blue frock, with a jacket to match which is lined with lovely handkerchief linen in a finely figured floral pattern.

Tricky Little Details

The increasingly intricate detail work in costumes is being thrown into high relief this summer. Hand-embroidery in self color, fine tucking in patterns, piped seams, tricky little double yoke effects and other examples of it being seen on every hand.

Mrs. G. Macculloch Miller, buying quantities of articles at a recent benefit out on the Island, wore a seemingly simple little pale rose frock. But its inverted pleats, around the skirt, asserted themselves at flounce depth to become petals all outlined in contrasting colors. The same finish was used on the short sleeves, while the neckline was simply scalloped and finished in self tone.

Nora Grace's new white suit illustrates this intricacy in detail quite as ably. It is a soft sheer wool crepe suit, with the skirt and the jacket finished in big scallops. The crepe blouse has its collar line and short sleeves finished with a row of little white silk flowers with pink edges. Her white hat has a narrow fringed finish to its brim.

The way you wear your scarf

Mrs. W. Averill Harriman . . . clips on a bright scarf

Society Styles Have Now Completed Revolution

these days determines how much ingenuity you have. Some attach them to bead chokers and tie them in a bow under the chin. Others have loops made in their frocks through which scarfs slip, high on one shoulder, low on the other.

Mrs. W. Averill Harriman attaches a bright colored scarf to a white frock by using a jewelled clip at either side of the square neck. The frock itself has a shirt collar in the back only, and she slips the scarf under this, leaving the white next her face. She wears sports bracelets in pairs, on one arm only and is apt to wear a single string of beads.

Stress Individuality

The vogue for monograms increases. But you have to be practically Chinese to figure out those that Mrs. James McVickar has on many of her blouses this summer. It is a charmingly decorative touch, however, and adds just the little color a pale green or other pastel-colored frock needs. Her jackets usually tone in with her monogram, and her hats are banded to match.

Every gathering of any social significance this summer emphasizes one thing. Styles have completed their revolution. It now is smart to be distinctly individual. No matter how much you may envy Mrs. What-Not, do not emulate her. Be yourself!

Small Groups Say Farewell During Week

Bridge-Luncheon Is Given By Mrs. W. G. McMillan Here Saturday; Bridge-Breakfast Is Another Pretty Event

MRS. Victor Payne, Jr., who is leaving Monday for Abilene to make her home, has been named honor guest at several attractive social functions during the past week. Included in the group was a bridge-luncheon given Saturday by Mrs. W. G. McMillan, a bridge-breakfast on Friday morning with Mrs. W. E. Cannon as hostess, and a handkerchief shower given in connection with a gathering of the London Bridge club in the home of Mrs. O. W. English, 2220 16th street.

A profusion of daisies, sweetpeas, roses, and other garden flowers made a colorful setting for the five tables of bridge on Saturday, and hand-painted colonial ladies made pretty designs for the appointments.

Luncheon Served

A dainty luncheon was served following the games, and a gift was presented to the honoree, as well as to guests making high score, second high, and cut.

Twelve Guests

Twelve guests attended the bridge-breakfast given by Mrs. Cannon 2322 18th street, Friday morning. Mrs. Cannon was assisted in serving by Elizabeth Ann Price.

Following the breakfast, games of bridge were played, with favors going to Mrs. K. L. Riggs for high score, to Mrs. George Sinnigson, for cut, and to the honoree.

Guests were Mesdames R. L. McAllister, H. H. Hunter, B. R. Ferguson, W. B. Price, K. L. Riggs, F. W. Zachary, W. G. McMillan, Victor Payne, Jr., George Sinnigson, E. J. Parsons, O. W. English, and D. Jarrett.

For Bridge Club

Mrs. Payne also was named honor guest at a party given for the London Bridge club in the home of Mrs. O. W. English, 2220 16th street, and a handkerchief shower for the hon-

Interesting Tales Of Foreign Lands Are Told By Mrs. W. H. Abbitt, Who Is Home From Extended Trip Abroad

By Margaret Turner
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The beauty of the Pacific Ocean, lure of the Orient with its funny sights and sounds coupled with glimses of temples, junks, coolies, elephants, native bazaars, the glories of ancient Greece and the grandeur that still is Rome's fantasies of Paris and the fogs of London—the pleasure of seeing these and many other things befell Mrs. W. H. Abbitt, 2207 17th street, who returned recently from a six month's tour of the world.

Mrs. Abbitt traveled as the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Knight of Portland and in company with a cousin, Miss Sallie Knight.

The voyage was made on the steamer, Belgenland, which with a passenger list of 405 persons and a crew of 700 began its sixth consecutive cruise of the world, January 6, sailing from Los Angeles to San Francisco and across to Hilo. At Honolulu Mrs. Abbitt had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Albert Mangiesdorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ellis of this city, who came to the steamer to see her after reading the name of a Lubbock resident on the ship's passenger list.

Two Weeks In Japan

Two weeks were spent in the picturesque country of Japan which was blossoming with plums in the season too early for the famous cherry blooms.

"Agriculture production is quite conservative," said Mrs. Abbitt. "Every available space is tilled and even with that only about fifteen per cent of the land is used."

Hong Kong was found to be beautiful and modern and upon docking at Manila the group were guests at a reception given in their honor by John W. Davis, American governor-general.

One of the pleasant discoveries of many who has not traveled that way before was the modern language, manners and dress of the people of China. The cities on the whole were found to be quaint with the charm of the Old World touched with the advancement in civilization of Europe and America.

"We found that the ruler of Siam had been educated in Europe and is quite ambitious for the progress of his country," said Mrs. Abbitt. "He has already made advancement and is yet retaining a native atmosphere."

Going on to Batavia the party spent four days. The rubber factories were visited in Singapore and here they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weida, who live on the island of Sumatra, where Mr. Weida is employed by the Goodyear Rubber company. They are personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Hargis, former Lubbock residents, who live at Sumatra.

Calcutta presented a striking contrast with its native quarter and European occupation.

Ride Elephants

Mrs. Abbitt and the party with whom she was traveling left the ship here and made the journey to India overland. They saw the natives bathing in the Ganges river and stopped at Jaipur. Here the Maharaja's stables were visited and the party mounted elephants and rode a mile to the deserted city of Amber.

At Bombay they again went aboard the Belgenland. This is one of the finest colonial cities of India according to Mrs. Abbitt. The businesses are managed by the parsees, who also conduct the political affairs.

Wealth And Poverty

Three weeks were spent in India with its startling contrasts of wealth and poverty, its discomforts of poor food and climate in places corresponding to modern construction and comforts in others.

Cairo was visited and in Athens the world famous ruins were viewed, now in process of restoration.

At Naples the party left for an inland tour of Europe. Venice, where gondolas were floating, Florence, Milan, all were explored.

While in St. Peter's cathedral on April 24, Mrs. Abbitt had the pleasure of seeing Mussolini, his daughter, Edda, and the Count Galeazzo Ciano, and members of the bridal party. The wedding was held in St. Joheph's and the Italians had come there to pray.

Lucerne, Switzerland, was paid a visit and afterwards Paris, and a trip made across the English Channel to London, on up to the Scotland highland, return to London and down to Southampton where they boarded the steamer for New York City.

After visiting in New York for a week, Mrs. Abbitt and her relatives went to Boulder, Colo., and spent a time before returning to their homes.

Mrs. F. L. McRee Hostess At Party

Mrs. F. L. McRee, 2424 22nd street, entertained at bridge recently to honor her mother, Mrs. E. Z. Ellyson and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Ellyson, of Georgetown.

Cut flowers were used to decorate the rooms and were given as plate favors with the dainty refreshment course.

Mrs. Julian Tallichet was favored for high score.

Guests were Mesdames O. V. Adams, J. C. Hardgrave, M. E. Heard, S. J. Boller, Miller, Carl Brandt, Bob Russell, E. Y. Freeland, C. C. Schmidt, W. M. Young, J. B. Acton, Julian Tallichet, E. L. Pitts, J. O. Ellsworth, A. B. Cunningham and her mother, Mrs. Gregory.

Autumn Styles For Women Will Be More Original, Say Authorities Of This City; Feminine Lines Prevail

By Hollyce Sellers
Society Editor

Attractive and more original, yet not bizarre, is the forecast of autumn fashions for women, according to Spencer A. Wells, general manager of Hemphill-Wells, and Miss Bernice O'Neal, acting head of the woman's ready-to-wear department, Ross Edwards.

"Early showings indicate that travel crepes will be quite the thing in sports dresses," said Miss O'Neal. "These crepes, a mixture of silk and wool, are used in designing many types of smart two-piece suits, most of them being button-trimmed and having pleated skirts. Some of the skirts, however, are slightly circular in the wrap-around modes.

"The length of sports dresses ordinarily is about 14 inches from the floor, and the more formal the occasion for which the dress is designed, the longer the skirt is made.

From Filmland

"Filmland offers a number of interesting suggestions for fall. Ruth Chatterton, for instance, wears a frock of brown wool crepe in one of her new pictures, the costume being completed with a brown and white felt hat and luxurious sables.

"Ruth Chatterton selected a peach satin for what she calls her 'dress of the moment.' The skirt, shirred at the natural waist line, falls to the floor in soft folds. The charming gown is unadorned.

To Match Roadster

"Then, come suggestions from Anita Page and Gwen Lee. These young players have selected motor coats with matching hats (and berets to take their places) to match their sports roadster.

"As for jewelry, turquoise alone or jade with gold in antique designs are lovely and come in triple and single strands in various lengths. Carved turquoise also is popular.

Feminine Lines

"Feminine lines and fabrics will be featured both for day and evening," said Mr. Well. "Many of the evening gowns are stately in line with fullness set in below a fitted hip section, and arranged by intricate seaming and cutting. In some cases the bodices are elaborated by bolero flounces, or by shirred and gathered inserts, back bows with trailing ends, and contrasting borders on the decolletage. Most of these details are found in gowns of softly draping fabrics like satin, sheer metals or transparent velvet.

"A large number of afternoon frocks accent black satin and black transparent velvet, and include some jacket suits and jacket frocks. The jackets are usually belted at the normal waist line, and suggest a peblum arrangement.

"In the taffeta and sheer gowns, the pastel shades are in the lead at present. Later, however, high shades are expected to predominate, especially in the metal fabrics which are usually printed."

New Trimmings

"Trimmings include hemstitching, fagotting, embroidered collars, novelty buttons, some fringe in place of bows, lace beads and flat furs.

"One outstanding line of evening gowns includes the three important silhouettes, namely, the peplum, Grecian, and bell-silhoutette, employed crepes, chiffons, georgettes, satins, velvets and beaded fabrics. In two instances, the entire bodices are of bugle beads.

"A well-known house featuring smart tailored lines for women employs the new materials, such as jacquards and novelty crepes, besides coverts, thin tweeds, satins and cantons to good advantage. Their evening models are of lace and chiffon, lace and velvet, light crepe satins and chiffon broche.

Youthful Models

"Another representative line of youthful models could be distinctly divided into six groups as follows: (1) Tailored sport and daytime dresses in novelty woolens, jerseys and tweeds, some with interesting belts and bright wool embroidery when the material is plain; (2) tailored sportswear and daytime suits including both short and long coats; tweeds and novelty woolens being employed, and some having scarfs and berets to match; (3) afternoon metallic dresses, cut on tailored lines; (4) velvet dresses and suits, usually of the stiff pile velvet type, the dresses being tucked vertically and ending in full, feminine skirts; (5) black crepe tailored street types trimmed with either white or bright colored collars and cuffs, some having rhinestone button trimmings; (6) Grecian evening gowns in crepes or satins, having beaded trimmings and interesting back treatments."

Forty-Two Played At Evening Party

Among the most attractive of the smaller parties of the week was the one given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Casey, 2211 21st street.

An hour of forty-two was enjoyed in rooms prettily decorated in cut flowers, and bon-bons were served during the playing.

Following the games, watermelon was served on the lawn to Messrs. and Mesdames D. Williford, L. S. Smith, W. H. Trice, O. C. Moore and Frazier McCrummen.

Mrs. Clint Small Will Be Honored

Mrs. Clint C. Small, of Wellington, wife of the West Texas candidate for the democratic nomination as governor of Texas, is to be honored with a reception at Hotel Lubbock July 19 from 4 to 6 p. m. Women of Lubbock, as well as those of rural districts and surrounding towns, are invited to attend, and plans are being made to entertain several hundred persons.

Recent Bride Complimented

Mrs. Wiginton Is Honored With Bridge Party On Saturday Afternoon; Mrs. Lorenz Ellis Is Hostess

Mrs. Clarence Wiginton, who, before her recent marriage, was Miss Faye George, of Tahoka, was honor guest at a very attractive bridge party given Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Mrs. Lorenz Ellis, 1901 24th street.

Dresden china slippers were given as favors with the dainty ice course served at the close of the afternoon.

The guest list included Mesdames Wiginton, J. H. Stiles, Lewis H. Price, Charles Bacon, Winfield Watkins, jr., Herbert Street, Jack Diamond, C. A. Gammill, jr., Sidney Trash, J. D. Caldwell, of Bakersfield, Calif., Misses Sylva Wilson, Nancy O'Neall and Kate Boyd.

Tea guests were Mesdames L. C. Ellis, Earl Hunt, Fred Spikes, J. E. Vickers and Mrs. Lovic Thompson of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. William Dingus, professor of Latin at Texas Technological college, is leaving the latter part of the week for a visit to Colorado Springs and Boulder. She will be joined in 10 days by Mr. Dingus and the two will visit the Grand Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lyle, 1607 9th street, have as their house guests for the next few weeks Mr. Lyle's mother, Mrs. N. G. Lyle of Brady.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline Caperton and daughter of Shamrock visited friends here yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton and family, 1812 Broadway, are leaving this week-end for a two weeks' visit in Colorado.

Mrs. Lena McElroy is expected to return tomorrow from a visit to El Paso.

Mrs. Julian Tallichet and son, Julian, jr., are leaving for Alabama and Florida to be gone until September when they will be joined by Mr. Tallichet, returning to Lubbock by way of New Orleans.

Mrs. John L. Vaughn and son, John Henry, and daughter, Mrs. C. M. Oakley and her daughter, Bettie, left Saturday for Mart where they will visit. They will be joined by Mr. Vaughn, Mr. Oakley and Leroy Vaughn next Saturday and will attend a family reunion of the W. W. Hammer family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter W. Richardson and daughter, Bettie, are leaving tomorrow for a visit to relatives in Central Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt, and family, 1927 Avenue N, are leaving Monday for Minnesota where they will remain until about the middle of September.

Mrs. Norton Baker and daughter, Coleta, have returned to their home, 2308 Broadway, after a two month's visit in Corpus Christi.

L. H. Jackson has arrived from San Antonio to take charge of Baker furniture store number two. He will assume responsibilities Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hutton and family, of Lamesa, accompanied by Grace Rankin returned yesterday from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Hutton on their ranch near Amherst.

Miss Mary Eleanor Nichols, 1905 16th street, has returned to her home after a visit to friends in Hale Center.

Rev. G. D. Robison, Polk and G. D. Robison, jr., together with Joe Howard of Paris, Tenn., were to return Saturday evening from Buffalo Gap. They had been attending the Young Peoples Conference of the Presbyterian church which was held there last week.

Miss Anna Belle Robertson of Vernon is the week-end guest of Miss Annie Fern Bickley, 1712 Broadway.

George Stowe and Miss Marshalene Stowe, of Abilene, and Mrs. Burton Herring of Sweetwater are spending the week-end here as the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Leaverton. Mr. Stowe is en route to Amarillo after spending his vacation in Abilene.

Miss Lily Opal Swearingen of Tucson, Arizona, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Roy Roberson of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Schenck, 1710 Main street, have as their guests during the week-end Miss Pauline Braddock of Graham and Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Schenck and child of Lovington, New Mexico.

Mrs. R. W. Walker and son, Earl, have returned to their home here after visiting relatives in Fort Worth and Cleburne.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Farris and son, Marshall, Jr., left Lubbock Saturday for Fayetteville, Ark., where they are to make their home for a year. Mr. M. Farris has a leave of absence and will be acting head of the department of Mechanical Engineering in the University of Arkansas during 1930-31 session.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurise Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Trussel, of Fort Worth, are the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pressley, 808 Ave. O.

K. Carter, son of Mrs. K. Carter, 1412 Avenue L, flew from Amarillo to Los Angeles, Calif., Thursday. He left Amarillo at 1 o'clock and arrived at his destination at 9 p. m. K. will remain in California for an indefinite stay as the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. C. Pearson at San Gabriel.

Mrs. Allen T. Stewart has returned to her home here after a visit to Sherman. She was accompanied by Misses Elizabeth Burke and Nancy Shepard, both of Sherman, who will visit here for a while.

Ray Culp, Tech student, is leaving today for his home in Greenville after attending the first summer term of Texas Tech college.

American Careerists Are To Convene With Europeans

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, July 12.—A post-graduate course in cooperations! It certainly sounds like a real departure to successful American careerists who are alleged to now much more about competition.

Yet this summer, 100 American business and professional women are going abroad to attend the first international forum on the problems facing working women, which will be held at Geneva, Switzerland.

These voyagers are all members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women who came together in the first place because they realized the benefits that accrue from cooperating with sister-careerists in talking over their mutual working problems.

For Mutual Benefit

Now, thoroughly schooled in cooperation at home, they are branching out into the international field, certain that women from 13 other countries can give them great benefit by their experience. They will meet a cross-section of able European women in similar lines of work and by lectures and round-table discussions they will take up some of the ever-present posers confronting women out of the home.

"How shall women safeguard the interests of the older business woman?" "Do European women face the same handicaps that American women do in their fight for economic equality with men? If so, what have been their solutions?" "What about insurance for women workers?" "What can American business women teach continental women about success in business and the professions?" These will all be discussed.

The 100 American women attending this cooperation convention give a real picture of the extent to which American women have gone into every field of gainful endeavor. They represent all the states, each of the 100 being a delegate from a different unit of the federation.

Farmers from the middle west bankers from the east, oil operators from Texas, sheep growers from Montana, doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs from all over publishers, teachers, insurance women, cosmeticians, advertising specialists, theatrical managers electrical engineers, department store experts—all of these taken together give a splendid composite picture of that modern phenomenon, the genus "Successful American Woman."

The list includes outstanding careerists. Grace M. Higgins, of Pampa, Texas, who furnished Rex Beach with the inspiration for his character, Barbara, in "Flowing Gold," has managed a shop where railroad tank cars were repaired has lost and won fortunes in oil, and now is secretary-treasurer of a construction company.

Grace Irene Roberts, of Omaha, Neb., is vice president and sales manager of three large dairies with hundreds of salesmen under her supervision. Emma E. Claus of Gary, Ind., as secretary-treasurer of a trust company, sits on a loan committee with nine bank presidents and passes upon hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of loans.

Go in Three Group

Lena Madesin Phillips, distinguished lawyer, honorary president of the Federation, will lead the half of the tour that takes a northern trip, including a jaunt into Soviet Russia, before convention for the conference. Miss Phillips will preside at Geneva, too. Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, of Richmond, Va., a forceful two-job woman, wife mother and hostess of a charming southern home on one hand, advertising specialist and head of the largest direct mail advertising firm in the south on the other, will lead the southern tour that hopes to see Mussolini and have an audience with the Pope, before arriving at Geneva.

Charles D. Williams, of Washington, D. C., educational specialist, will lead the third group, the Geneva Special.

Meeting these women at Geneva are outstanding successful women from 13 other countries. There will be energetic, forceful Helen Frasier, director of a large manufacturing company in England; Countess Eva von Baudissin, Bavarian writer; Anne Martin of Switzerland, director of Saffa, that great exposition of women's work which has brought thousands of tourists to Berne in the past few years.

Other Celebrated Women

Other famous delegates from abroad are Mme. De Munter-Latinis, one of Belgium's leading women lawyers; Dr. Maria Castellani, of Italy, who in competition with men in many European countries recently won an important actuarial position in the International Labor Office; Mme. Marthe Vernier, publisher, Mme. Leuke Nagy, educator from Hungary; Fraulein Kathe Bohm, electrical engineer from Berlin, and Mme. Laudier, president of the business and professional club of Paris.

In addition to the serious discussion of business problems of cooperation, these women will have many opportunities for social cooperation.

They will be entertained by eminent people in all the countries they visit and one of the outstanding events will be the garden party that Lady Astor gives for them at her country place, Cliveden.

Slumber Party Is Favor For Visitor

Mrs. Claude Burrus and daughters, Maxine and Louise, 1619 15th street, were hostesses at a slumber party Thursday evening in honor of Eloise Kuykendall of Big Spring who has been their house guest during the past week.

After guests arrived they first went for a swim in the county park after which a picnic lunch was spread. Returning to the Burrus home the girls played games on the lawn and later spread their covers and slept there.

Those present were Ruth Wilson Callan, Rosemary Callan, of Fort Worth, Helenora Reynolds, Mary Margaret Tunnell, Phyllis McReynolds, Mary Ruth Yowell, Mary Burk Yager and Maxine and Louise Burrus.

MOTH PROOF

In packing blankets away, clean thoroughly, pack with moth balls and newspapers that leave no cracks for moths to enter. If done right this is just as good as moth-proof bags.

Mrs. Bledsoe Is Speaker At Meet Of B. P. W. Club

Miss Maggie Mallard, newly elected president, presided for the first time when the Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club held a banquet at Hotel Lubbock Friday evening.

Mrs. W. H. Bledsoe, a guest of the club, addressed the group on "Laws and Their Relation to Women," and Miss Vada Bell Baze, also a guest, favored the group with several piano selections.

The banquet was served to about 30 persons from a table centered with zinnias and fern in a cut-glass bowl, and a corsage of sweet peas was presented each one present.

Fort Worth Guests Are Honored Here

Ruth and Rosemary Callan, of Ft. Worth, who are visiting their aunt, Mrs. William Dingus, have been complimented at several pretty parties during the past week.

Mrs. T. R. Prideaux, and daughter, Vondelle, were hostesses on the lovely lawn of the Prideaux home, 2408 13th street, Friday evening. The guests gathered at 7:30 o'clock for a pleasant evening of games, and dainty refreshments were served.

On Thursday night, Mrs. Claude Burrus and daughters, Louise and Margaret, entertained with a slumber party at their home, 1619 15th street. Early in the evening, a swim was enjoyed at Tumble N, and supper was served on the lawn of the home.

Mrs. Dingus entertained a small group with a theater party during the first of the week, and today the girls are on a trip to Palo Duro canyon with another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Manning.

Mrs. Payne

Shouts "Good" When Wife Dies

Following the death of Mrs. Mildred Ross, upper right, 27-year-old victim of the insane jealousy of her husband, Frank, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., first degree murder charges will be filed against Ross, according to authorities. Ross, who shot his wife after killing the Rev. Edgar R. Wood, lower right, before his congregation in the Pentecostal Mission at Niagara Falls, shouted "good" when informed of his wife's death. Ross, shown at left after the shooting, believed his wife was in love with the Reverend Wood.

POSTERS ARE BANNED

Gilchrist Orders Patrolmen To Watch For Postings

AUSTIN, July 12. (AP)—Orders to all division engineers to be particularly stringent in observing the ruling which barred the posting of political propaganda along state highways was issued today by Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer. Gilchrist stated he had observed instances where political posters were being placed along state routes since the campaign has become more active. He said there would be no deviation from the order and that all candidates would be warned against erecting posters on state highways.

SHOULDER STRAPS

To prevent shoulder straps from slipping, sew one inch bits of silk with a snap on each end onto the inside shoulder seams of your frocks. Snap around all shoulder straps.

To change bread or rice pudding, add some broken macaroons or some chopped, preserved ginger with cocoanut, instead of raisins.

PIGS BURN TO DEATH

Four Thousand Animals Are Victims In Flames

SECAUCUS, N. J., July 12. (AP)—Four thousand pigs perished in a fire which burned four farms along Weigands Lane Wednesday afternoon.

Firemen were unable to keep the pigs away from the burning buildings and hundreds of sucklings, raised for the New York hotel trade, ran back into the smoke and flames and died.

The fire, which caused damage estimated at $100,000, was believed to have been caused by a spark from a railroad engine.

SNAP FASTENERS

LEFT-OVER BERRIES

Visitors Are Honored Here

Lawn Party Is Held At Home Here; Mesdames Royalty, Wolffarth, Richardson And Slaton Hostesses

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Munger who are visiting here from Chicago were honor guests at a lawn party given by Mesdames Carl Slaton, George C. Wolffarth, Hunter W. Richardson and W. W. Royalty Saturday evening on the lawn at the Royalty home, 1619 19th street.

During the evening a program was given with Miss Lucille Jordan reading two costume selections, Mrs. Carl Scoggin singing two vocal selections, accompanied at the piano by Miss Florence Anderson, and Miss Margaret Halsell playing a violin solo. Miss Halcyon Campbell also read.

After several hours of games and contests the hostesses served sliced watermelon to approximately 75 married couples.

Mesdames Daniel, Nelson Hostesses

Mesdames Lloyd Nelson and W. L. Daniel were hostesses last week in the home of Mrs. Daniel, 2501 23rd street, honoring Mrs. J. P. Morgan.

The entertaining room were attractively decorated with cut flowers and pot plants. At the close of the afternoon the hostesses presented the honoree with a basket filled with lovely presents.

About 30 women were present.

North Carolina manufacturing plants imported materials worth $50,000,000 last year.

Baptists Will Meet Soon At Two Draw Lake

Large Crowd Is Expected In Annual Conference; Prominent Speakers Scheduled On Programs

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, July 12.—Baptists from as far north as Lubbock and as far east as Crosbyton and Spur and west to Levelland, will be here July 28 to August 3 for the annual encampment at Two Draw lake, Rev. M. O. Bishop, pastor of the local church, said today.

"Our territory includes from Snyder to Lubbock and from Lamesa to Brosbyton and from Levelland on east" he said. "We will use tents for camping and I am expecting a large crowd."

Dr. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the first church at Lubbock is president. He will be the camp pastor, preaching each evening. Reverend Bishop is corresponding secretary.

Others on the faculty will include; music director, L. A. Wilson, Slaton, assisted by R. E. Key, Tahoka and J. D. Carroll, Lubbock; Bible teacher, Dr. M. E. Davis, Brownwood; Sunday school, J. D. Carroll, Lubbock; B. Y. P. U. Mrs. Rucker of Abilene; pianists, Miss Delma Bishop, and Mrs. A. W. Boucher jr., both of Post.

Only Few Gins To Be Built In Area

(By Staff Correspndent)

SLATON, July 12.—Only a few new gins will be erected n the South Plains this summer as far as Santa Fe officials have been advised.

Kress and Muleshoe are the only towns on the line to have new gins, reports to railroad headquarters here show.

"Back in 1926 when we had such a good year a large number of new gins were erected," C. W. Taylor, chief clerk to the superintendent, said. "All of the little inland gins over the plains were built that year, I think. Not since then has there been as many gins erected.

"I do not know of very many gins planned for this year. I think most if not all of the gins now here will be operated this fall if the cotton crop is anywhere near what it should be."

Company officials are preparing for a record movement of cotton.

He's Marrying Out Of The Business

Frank Gives Away Hotel Every Time He Marries But He Seems To Have Married Once Too Often

CHICAGO, July 12. (AP)—The evidence indicates that Frank Gartenberg had a tendency to marry himself out of the hotel business.

He had four hotels to start with. When his first wife divorced him, he gave her a hotel and $30 a week alimony. When his second wife divorced him, she got a hotel and $10 a week. It was the same with the third who divorced him May 27, this year.

That left Gartenbero one hotel. He recognized that this hostelry would hardly keep up the alimony payments, so he remarried his third wife.

Now comes the first Mrs. Gartenberg complaining of alimony arrearage and asking aid of the court. Gartenberg told Judge Williams yesterday his remaining hotel business hardly justified paying the arrearage.

The court held that be as it may, Mr. Gartenberg should forthwith pay up on the alimony—or else.

If Mr. Gartenberg wanted to, he probably could indite an epigram, something about many wives making for fewer hotels: But doubtless he won't.

SOUTHLAND PAIR MARRY

SOUTHLAND, July 12, (Special)—Stealing a march on their many friends, Miss Dorothy Sue Martin and Lloyd McNabb went to Roswell, N. M., where they were married. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martin and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McNabb. They will reside in Southland.

Hi-Y Boys Will Camp In Palo Duro

PLAINVIEW, July 12 (Special)—Hi-Y boys of the Plains area will hold a camp in Ceta Canyon, in the famous Palo Duro canyon south of Amarillo September 12 to 14.

Lee Clark, superintendent of schools here, will be manager and the camp will be held under the auspices of the Plainview Hi-Y club. One hundred boys from the Panhandle are expected to attend.

Grover C. Good, Dallas, Hi-Y secretary of the state, met with the local. Others in the meeting were: Glenn Flake, former president, who presided; Billy Clifford; Bill Baird; Bruce Collier and Harry Bond.

COLORED UNDIES

If you put a tiny bit of coloring in the rinse water when undies are brand new, they will never fade out completely and always look fresher than if you wait until they are nondescript.

LEVELLAND PLANS PARK

Twenty Acres To Be Used In Project For City

LEVELLAND, July 12. (Special)—Negotiations for the purchase of a half block in the south part of Levelland, as the site for a city park, are practically complete, officials of the chamber of commerce and the city commission announce. W. T. Thaxton, agents of the owners, is prepared to turn over the deed shortly.

The land is owned by the C. W. Post estate and contains slightly more than 20 acres. Included in the tract is a lake and it is the plan of the city to make of this place a recreation park.

City water mains are to be extended to the park to permit the irrigation of the lawns and flower beds.

Jack Oakie Now Showing In "Hit The Deck" Here

New Songs Heard In Talkie Now At Palace

ALTHOUGH the stage version of "Hit the Deck" was admittedly one of Broadway's biggest hits, it only could suggest the immense scope, color and narrative appeal of Radio Pictures' screen version, which started at the Palace Theater yesterday.

For instance, the "Hallelujah" song on the stage was a solo. In the picture it has grown into a Negro spiritualist meeting interpreted by a chorus of 100 Negro singers and dancers. Four new songs have been added to the original score.

The entire naval base at San Diego, Cal., is used for a background, which, on the stage, was represented by a painted back drop. The legitimate cast numbered about 100—the screen has utilized approximately a thousand.

Three of the largest motion picture sets ever built: a life-size village, a replica of the deck of a battleship and a Negro tabernacle, by comparison were only suggested on the stage. As a finishing touch, "Hit the Deck" is partially screened in technicolor.

Never before has "Hit the Deck" been produced with a cast of such distinguished names. It reads like a blue book of the profession: Polly Walker, Broadway star; Jack Oakie, Hollywood's sensational comedian; Marguerita Padula, mammy singer de luxe; Roger Gray and Franker Woods of the original New York cast; Ethel Clayton, June Clyde, Wallace MacDonald, Harry Sweet, George Ovey, black-face comic, Dell Henderson, Nate Slott, Andy Clark and Chas. Sullivan.

Luther Reed, director, and Robert Kurrle, cameraman, the team which produced "Rio Rita," Radio Pictures' sensational musical extravaganza, also teamed on "Hit the Deck."

Tahoka's School Faculty Changed

(Special To The Journal)

TAHOKA, July 12. — With the exception of one teacher, Tahoka high school will have a completely new faculty when school opens in September. With the election of five teachers during the past few days the faculty is now complete.

The new teachers are: Weir Washam, Baylor University graduate athlete and present Freshman coach and teacher of history; V. A. Dean, Southland, assistant coach and science; Evelyn Shepard, Ballinger, Spanish; Beulah Smith, Lubbock, commercial courses; and Mrs. Jack Link, Tahoka, Mrs. Dutch Wiginton, nee Miss Faye George, former teacher in Central ward.

J. B. Pace, Ballinger principal for the past nine years, was elected superintendent several weeks ago; M. J. Weaver of the same city, principal of the high school. Taylor White is the one remaining teacher; and in addition to teaching vocational agriculture is president of Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, manager of the Lynn county Fair association, president of the South Plains Agricultural Teachers association and member of the state board of affiliation.

Candidate Termed Liar At Speaking

McALESTER, Okla., July 12. (AP)—The lie was passed here last night during a bitter debate between Senator Guy L. Andrews and Pres. S. Lester, rival candidates for Pittsburg county's seat in the state senate. John Q. Newell, warden of the state penitentiary, charged into the area and told Andrews he was a "liar" if he meant to insinuate that he, the warden, had handled "a dirty dollar."

Andrews had been charged with accepting a fee from inmates of the penitentiary to draft a new pardon and parole law, and said in reply that the money had been raised without solicitation on his part. He added that if any dirty money was included in the fee it came from the warden, as the latter had handled the money.

Newell, accosted Andrews as he finished his speech. Shouts of "throw him out" greeted the warden's advance upon Andrews. After the two were separated, Lester took the platform in reply.

THREE BODIES FOUND

Girls Drown While Swimming In Lake; Infant Unhurt

MANISTIQUE, Mich., July 12 (AP)—The bodies of three girls, Mrs. Lawrence Grenier, 16, and her sister, Genevive Laberty, 13, and Lena 11, were found today in Lake MacDonald near here. The three were last seen yesterday. Mrs. Grenier's year old infant was found unharmed in a row boat tied to the shore. It was believed the girls went swimming and suddenly stepped in water beyond their depth.

VIOLINIST DIES

PATERSON, N. J., July 12. (AP)—Roderic Meakel, 28-year-old violinist, whom prosecutor's detectives charged with the murder of Jennie Brause, 22, in a death pact, died this afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital.

"Everyman At War" Gives A Complete Record Of Experiences In Big Strife

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

ONE hears that "war books" now irrespective of merit, are "dead." The public is bored, is fed-up with war records. Well, doubtless the arm chair public would have been bored and fed-up with the war itself. War books have been dead before. But so colossal an experience, and one so infinitely connected in all respects with contemporary civilization, cannot long remain dead. For war, due to the feeble gestures of governments toward outlawry of force, still is a sinister threat to the future of mankind; one cannot rest easy in false security. Records of experience in the last war will continue to be written and to be read, to serve in informing and warning us what we may expect again, unless man and his governments call upon commonsense and effectively outlaw war as a means of settling disputes that few understand or care greatly about.

One That Will Live

"Everyman at War," is one of the war books that will live, with or without benefit of popularity. Historians of the future will certainly have to consider it, for it reveals much of the temper of the war years at the front; its incidents are extremely varied. Fifty-seven men and three women here recall some part of their war experience, Gallipoli, Bulgaria, France, Belgium, the various battles of Ypres and Somme, Zeebrugge, South Africa, air fighting against Richthofen's "Circus," prison camps, hospitals, ambulance corps—all are known here in a critical moment of activity; they are revealed according to the variety of temperaments and training represented by the authors. It is a very effective book of English experience.

Many Stories Here

There are stories here, arresting and dramatic as Journey's End; there is the absurd Alice in Wonderland story of the private in charge of the Canon Cows, milked in the front line every morning for the colonel's breakfast. Various doctors described their work of frenzied salvation; one reads cold with horror of the flood at Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, where companies of men drowned or were frozen—and where the trenches, after holocaust, were dug three feet deeper so that would be safe for generals on a tour of inspection! An interesting book nearly all of which would have been censored during the war.

"Everyman at War," is edited by C. B. Purdom of the English magazine Everyman. He has gathered together an impressive, interesting and very valuable collection of personal narratives. It is one of the most satisfactor war books, and certainly by far the most complete. Although it is exclusively English it very nearly justifies its title. "Everyman at War," for the experience of one army is very nearly that of the ally or enemy.

"Everyman at War," edited by C. B. Purdom. E. P. Dutton company. Price $2.50.

Floydada Fire Department's Chief Is Re-Elected

FLOYDADA, July 12. (Special)—O. B. Strickland again was chosen as chief of Floydada's volunteer fire department at the annual meeting.

Other officers named were L. V. Rogers, first assistant chief; Orval Harris, second assistant; Burl Bedford, secretary; Harry Drace, captain No. 1 company; G. G. Glover, captain No. 2 company.

America Warned

AMERICA is warned in Everett Dean Martin's "Liberty" that much vaunted freedom is in a slump.

Even the liberals are bewildered and futile, says this author, a New York educator, who invites the public to think for itself.

Militarism, prohibition, fundamentalism, and "conflict between radical and conservative mob movements," one result of which was the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, are listed by the author as the principal illiberal tendencies that menace American liberty.

In order to appeal to the largest possible public, propagandists of all kinds, social, political or commercial, emphasize and repeat "over and over the cheap sentiments and stereotyped verbal formulas of dull wits" and make capital of "the prejudices to which the ignorant are most susceptible."

Liberty, the author believes, again is a problem of civilization. And the solution lies in a more widespread culture.

The menace lies in the rule of the people, he asserts, for men cease to be free moral agents when they are coerced.

The future of freedom in America," he declares, "depends on whether the friends of culture can hold out against its natural enemies in maintaining tolerance, openmindedness, individual responsibility and the supremacy of intelligence and good taste over prejudice and vulgarity."

In a single column the whole subject of liberty can barely be outlined and this Martin has accomplished, tracing its various forms in philosophical thought from the Athenian conception which he makes the ideal. This briefly would limit the power of the foreign, whether a king or a majority, and leave to the individual the control of such behavior as concerns primarily himself.

Brown Beau

"Sweet Man," by Gilmore Millen is a Negro story written by a southerner now resident in Los Angeles.

The type of its conquering hero John Henry, is obvious to those who know the Negro lingo, for "sweet man" means one of those dark Juans irresistible to their women.

A frank story of easy love on Memphis Beale street and the plantations of Mississippi, it ends in a tragedy of Negro helplessness.

Whisht!

A well-known Catholic priest learning that the author of "A Yankee Passional" was on the same steamer with him, arranged to be introduced to Samuel Ornitz. A friendship sprang up. Several weeks later, the two met again; and the priest took Ornitz to Cork for a week, during which time he was known simply as Ornitz-O'Brien, flaunted a perfect Irish brogue, and generally proved that he is as accomplished an actor as he is an author. In the latter capacity, his name will appear on the title page of "Call Me Ishmael," to be published next winter under the Live right imprint.

Literary Mystery

Something of a literary mystery has developed over "The Return of the Hero," published here as the work of Darrell Figgis, an Irish writer and political leader who committed suicide in 1926.

When the novel first appeared abroad, it bore the pseudonym of Michael Ireland. Immediately James Stephens, the noted novelist and poet, was suspected of having written it.

However, he then said there were only two men in Ireland who could not have written the book, Darrell Figgis and himself.

In an introduction to the American edition, Stephens repeats his skepticism regarding Figgis authorship, but carefully refrains from disclaiming it as his own.

In fact, Stephens, Irish Fairy Tales, derive from the same pre-Christian saga that Figgis told.

In Short

Returning to war-time Paris "Mitsou" by the French author who signs herself merely Colette is the romance of a music hall star with a young officer, a brief, emotional romance, told through striking use of letters and dialog.

"Casanova Jones," by Joseph Anthony is American — a rhymed spoof on prohibition, illustrated by Willy Pogany. Described as a satiric novel in verse, it narrates the fantastic adventures of a revenue agent.

Comedy Features "Dangerous Nan McGrew" Picture

Laugh-And-Music Frolic Begins Run Today

THE infectious comedy antics of Paramount's one and only "boop-boopa-doop" girl will rock the walls of the Lindsey Theater again starting today when Helen Kane appears there in "Dangerous Nan McGrew" original laugh-and-music frolic.

"Dangerous Nan McGrew is the story of a traveling medicine show which gets all mixed up with the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, with Klondike comedy characters and with wealthy city folk vacationing at a luxurious hunting lodge in the wilderness. There is a comedy twist for every one of the multitude of surprise turns in the engrossing story.

The fun is supplied by Victor Moore, veteran comedian of musical comedies in New York for over ten years; Louise Closser Hale, stage comedienne who scored a tremendous hit in Irene Bordoni's screen "Paris" and Frank Morgan, one of Broadway's leading comedy actors. The romance is supplied by James Hall, Clara Bow's leading man in "The Saturday Night Kid" and Roberta Robinson, blonde sensation recently "discovered" by Paramount.

The fun and romance combine is supplied by that capable team of fun-and-romance suppliers, Miss Kane and Stuart Erwin. They were teamed as "soul-mates" in "Sweetie." Erwin is the same "big, blond and befuddled" comedian who was seen and heard as Charles "Buddy" Rogers' sidekick in "Young Eagles."

Miss Kane was transformed from a person to a personality about two years ago when Paul Ash, maestro on the Paramount Theater stage in New York, discovered her and gave her a spot in a stage program there. She worked later in radio programs and about a year ago made her debut in the talkies, as one of the soubrettes in Richard Dix's "Nothing But the Truth." Since then it has been plain sailing to fame in screendom for the baby-voiced princess of "boop-boopa-doop."

Grassburs Aid In Escape Of Bandit Pair At Houston

HOUSTON, July 12. (AP)—How a grassbur patch aided two men to make their escape after robbing a taxi driver was told today by Deree Willshire, 32, driver of a taxicab.

Willshire, left on the highway without shoes, ran into the bushes while running to a telephone and was delayed several minutes extricating the painful objects from his bare feet.

He said he got a passenger at the Southern Pacific hospital, drove him around a while and then stopped. The passenger went away for a few minutes and returned with a second man. Willshire was then ordered to drive out Washington avenue to the Eureka foundry on the Southern Pacific crossing. Here a gun was jabbed in his side and he was made to take off his coat and shoes and turn over $8 in money.

"You walk back to town," Willshire said the robbers told him as they drove off in his car.

I saw the light in the Eureka foundry and started running across the railroad right of way, Willshire said. "Soon I stepped into a bunch of grassburs and that held me for quite a time."

The taxicab was found about eight miles from Houston.

DIES OF INJURIES

Oil Field Worker Killed by Two Taxi Cab Bandits

GALVESTON, July 12. (AP)—Joe W. Embry, 30, oil field worker of Houston, died at a hospital here today of injuries received when he was attacked by two taxicab bandits near Alvin early Wednesday.

Although Galveston and Brazoria county officers have carried on an extensive investigation, no arrests have been made.

Embry was shot, stabbed and slugged by two men he had employed to drive him from Galveston to Alvin in an old car bearing a taxi license.

After robbing him of $27, the two bandits shot Embry in the stomach, slugged him and left him in a ditch at the roadside. Later, he was found several hours later by a negro who

Lupe Velez Will Be Seen In Film Here On Thursday

"Hell Harbor" To Show This Week At Lindsey

THE average girl has simply got to love somebody—or something—and if there isn't a suitable male handy she'd better find herself some sort of job on which she can pour all her emotional fireworks.

Because if she doesn't she is apt to explode.

These are the studied conclusions of Lupe Velez, the impetuous, diminutive, black-haired Mexican movie actress whose latest all-talking picture, "Hell Harbor," will be seen and heard at the Lindsey theater, starting Thursday.

"No man," she said emphatically, "has ever touched my soul. I love my work. It gives me all the outlet in the world."

"Not even in the love scenes?" the reporter asked. "When you are supposed to kiss them in the love scenes, don't you really kiss them?"

Lupe Velez smiled.

"I do all my kissing before the camera," she said. "And when I kiss a man he stays kissed. But it is the actress that is kissing, not Lupe."

Then she returned to her first theme.

"A girl," she explained, "has got to love something or she dries up and withers away, if she doesn't explode first. Girls have to have an emotional outlet. When a girl is little she finds it in her dolls. When she grows older she tries to find it in boys and men. You can't bottle it up any more than you can bottle up a railroad train running at full speed. If you do, you wreck the brains."

South Plains Territory Continues Record Advance

Correspondent Finds Steady Progress Continuing In 11 Weeks Of Travel In Section

Improvements Being Carried On In Practically Every City In Area; Paving And Building Foremost

BY J. SAM LEWIS
(Staff Correspondent)

DURING the past eleven weeks the conductor of the new department of field work on the Avalanche-Journal, has traveled approximately 5,500 miles and has visited some score of counties in Texas and three in New Mexico. Over 40 towns have been visited, many several times.

Bringing in of the Hobbs and Lovington wells has added to the territory covered and the area of the field department now extends from Snyder and Lamesa on the south to Plainview on the north; from Spur on the southeast and Floydada on the northeast, to Hobbs on the southwest and Levelland on the west while to the northwest the area goes to Muleshoe.

Rich In History

This section of the southwest is rich in history as well as in agricultural and mineral resources. There are many places where one will find unusual people or places.

In this area are found some 25 or 30 towns, from mere hamlets of less than a hundred people to towns of 4,000 or more. They are all progressive, enterprising, with alert, energetic business men and women and up to date farming communities.

Properly speaking, Lubbock's trade territory should extend west to Roswell and Carlsbad, northwest to Clovis, southwest to Andrews, south to almost Big Springs and Sweetwater and east to Stamford. The interests of the immediate section around Lubbock are the same as the interests of the entire area.

All Towns Almost "New"

One thing should be noted about the towns in this territory; every one is almost a "new" town; new in the sense of new buildings, both business and residential as well as new people and new blood. The towns all have a "fresh" or new appearance, buildings are clean and neat looking, with most of the towns having a substantial business section of fireproof brick structures.

In the larger towns the streets of the business area are paved for the most part. There are several towns that are just now beginning to talk paving.

Littlefield Poses

Take Littlefield, for one example, says Jess Mitchell, editor, "We have made more rapid stride in Littlefield as a business place and as a residential city since we put in the paving that we did in four or five years before."

Spur is paving its down town portion and already the town has taken on a different attitude. Spur is up and coming and will give some of the larger places a good run for their money.

There are many points of interest in these towns or near by. Motorists who go through from Lubbock will find if they take the time many places of interest to visit.

Muleshoe Has Irrigation

For example, in the vicinity of Muleshoe are to be found some of the best irrigation projects in West Texas. Huge ranches, heretofore thought to be good only for cattle ranching, are now being reclaimed for agricultural development through the use of shallow artesian water. Scores of farmers are coming into this territory every month or two.

Lamesa is developing the dairy industry of Dawson county through establishment of the West Texas Milk Products plant, to handle powdered milk by a new process. Dairymen of Dawson, Lynn, Borden and other counties are much interested in the project, just now starting.

Abernathy Has Cheese Plant

At Abernathy is located a cheese factory, the only one west of Fort Worth as far as is known. The cheese made is of a high quality and it is finding an increased market each month.

Hale Center, so named for its location at the geographical center of Hale county, is noted for its splendid farming community. The town is growing fast as the dairy industry is being developed in its community. Paving of the streets down town is starting.

Littlefield, besides being one of the fastest growing towns on the plains, is the location of the second largest independent school district in the state. The famous Yellowhouse ranch interests are located here and nearby is Yellowhouse canyon and the ranch, where was once located the largest windmill in the world, 126 feet high.

Down at Post is to be found a recreation center second to none. The famous Two Draw lake, south of town, is known to campers and others. The Baptist encampment for the South Plains, the girl scout camp, as well as several other groups, meet here regularly for an outing, swimming, boating, fishing etc., are to be had. On the other side of town is the boy scout camp, also a good recreational place. There are several other lakes, privately owned, near town also.

Slaton Railroad Town

Slaton is division headquarters for the Santa Fe with a big pay roll each month and the dynamo of activity for more than 1,100 miles of a huge railroad system. It has one of Lubbock county's community parks and its city park is the center of attraction for tourists. The Johnston ranch is famous for its recreation work.

Crosbyton vies with Post as a recreational center. There is Silver Falls lake, on the White river, in Blanco canyon. Here is a great place for the camper, with boating, fishing, swimming, etc., as well as other amusements. Also the Hank Smith farm, first house in Crosby county, with an annual reunion, is located here.

Floydada 40 Years Old

Floydada is one of the "old towns" of the South Plains, forty years old. It is the county seat and the center of the activities of Floyd county. Floydada is a business city and has a famous free county fair.

Lockney has a municipal auditorium and park that is a splendid place for holding summer gatherings. It recently entertained the Plateau Singers, with around 4,000 people, several times the population of the town.

Plainview has a dairy show second to none in the state, every spring. Its location as the center of the dairy industry has been strengthened by the operation of a cooperative creamery, one of the largest in the state.

Amherst and Anton are towns built on famous early day ranch land. Both towns are fast growing, with a steadily developing agricultural section. Amherst is near the center of Lamb county and has the county agent's office located there.

Levelland Youngster

Levelland is less than ten years old but it is the county seat of Hockley county and a progressive town. The famous Slaughter ranch interests are located here and also some C. W. Post estate properties.

Seagraves had a fire a year or so ago that wiped out the business part of the town. Now it is rebuilt and does several times the business it did two years ago. It was at one time, before Bledsoe was established, the largest single cattle shipping point in the southwest.

Seminole is one of the few county seat towns not incorporated. It is growing due to oil development at Hobbs and has prospects of being a much larger place through agricultural and oil development.

Tahoka is the center of Lynn county. Its county fair, a privately owned group not for profit, has drawn attention from several nearby counties. Tahoka is growing fast, its business men are developing the dairy industry and bringing forward agriculture.

O'Donnell Coming Forward

Ralls has become the largest town in Crosby county. It has recently opened a creamery that has taken high rank in shows with its products. The town is now on the crest of a business wave that is bringing it forward into the front rank as a live city.

Lorenzo is undergoing a series of municipal improvements that will put it into prominence. Also the chicken industry is coming to the front through the leadership of Jack Suits. More mules are said to be bought in Lorenzo than any town on the South Plains and its market price governs even the Lubbock mart.

Petersburg is in the center of a good wheat and agricultural section. It has had a new lease of life due to construction of the Denver branch to Lubbock.

Idalou, on the Crosby county line, is the center of business in eastern Lubbock county. There is reported a constantly increasing business in the way of sale of butter, eggs and poultry for shipment to large cities.

Southland, probably the hardest hit by mishaps of any small town on the Plains, is finding the cow, the sow and the hen, means of salvation. Its business in the way of cream, butter, milk and poultry shipments is supporting the entire community.

Shallowater, northwest of Lubbock, has made a name for itself as the place where good water may be had for irrigation are varied and numerous and the community is famous for its splendid spirit of cooperation in all events.

Sudan Is Growing

Sudan, between Muleshoe and Littlefield, is another town whose business is finding expansion necessary through increasing population. The town has recently completed some modern public buildings, schools and churches.

Olton, county seat of Lamb county, is off the railroad systems. In spite of that fact it is the center of activity for a large and fast growing section. Some noted early day ranches are located near Olton.

Dickens Nice Little Place

Dickens, county seat of Dickens county, is a quiet place to visit after the rush and tumble of the larger towns. But it is growing and as it nestles at the foot of the cap rock, its beauty and general attractiveness has drawn the attention of a good many men towards Dickens.

Spur is the home of the Swenson properties. Large ranch and cattle interests are headquartered here, also a paying municipal power plant and several agricultural groups for building up the farmers of that section. A state experiment station located here, adds to its importance.

There are numerous other towns, Monroe, Plains, Bronco, Bledsoe, Tokio, Meadow and Ropesville, that while small, are active trading points and the center of good agricultural areas.

Brownfield Is Mecca

Brownfield is one of the larger places. Its farm territory is estimated to have over 1,000 farmers who do business here. The stores, through development of diversified farming, do a cash business most of the year.

Over in New Mexico, are found Hobbs, oil town and Lovington, county seat of Lea county. Hobbs is a boom oil town, full of business and broken men. It is booming right, with a bright future. Oil and gas development will make Hobbs important for years to come, with Lubbock as the best center for business connections.

Lovington the county seat, is growing. Predictions are it will be double in size by September 1 of its June 15 population. There is a rich agricultural section around Lovington that the state of New Mexico is to develop through its state agricultural college.

One may travel a wide area over Texas and not find a better group of cities and towns anywhere than on these South Plains.

BERLIN—A count of the beavers in Germany (animals, not whiskers) showed 263 specimens in a reservation between Magdeburg and Torgau, an increase of 75 since 1913.

Nabbed With Foster

Arrested with Frank Foster, sheik-haired Chicago gangster, in Los Angeles, with four other men, was a woman, believed to be his wife, shown above, all held in connection with the murder of Alfred Lingle, Chicago reporter. Foster, whose gun was found near the newspaperman's body, has been indicted for the slaying to insure his extradition from Los Angeles, thought police doubt that the former "Bugs" Moran lieutenant did the actual killing.

LEGISLATION OF LEGION ENACTED

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—The legislative slate of the American Legion vitually has been wiped clean by the recently enacted laws that have been placed upon the nation's statute books.

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the organization, speaking over a nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting company said Wednesday practically every important and outstanding legislative request of the American Legion has been enacted into law."

Expressing gratitude to congress and President Hoover for their consideration and attitude, he said "the president has not been as liberal as some had hoped," but "he has shown a sympathetic attitude with reference to this legislation."

Enumerating the various legions proposals that were written into law during the first session of the seventy-first congress, Bodenhamer lited the Rogers Hospital bill calling for $16,000,000 of construction; the Hawley bill extending the time for applying for adjusted compensation; the Williamson bill consolidating Veterans activities; the Reed-Snell resolution calling for a study of universal drafts, and, finally, the Veterans Pension bill over which congress labored so long during the last days of the session.

Here's our Answer to your Question

"What Mileage will my Tire Dollars buy?"

1 — 16,000 MILES over all kinds of roads . . . and the sidewall is still free of cracks and age-marks. Never were tires so age-free as Silvertowns, due to their special, long-lived, long-wear tread and sidewall rubber compound.

2 — NO SIGNS HERE of cupping or uneven wear! Silvertowns have a dense, tough, slow-wearing tread that wears down slowly and evenly. Water-curing makes the last bit of tread rubber wear as slowly as the first.

3 — SEE THAT EDGE? Sharp and clean, even after enough service to satisfy any tire buyer. No question here of traction or anti-skid protection. That's why the Silvertown tread is known as the finest in the field.

Publicly Established Mileage Records Show You what Silvertowns can do on your car

We have the blood brothers of this tire in stock right now. Casings identical to it. Come . . see them . . price them. They cost less than you think . . and mile for mile, are the lowest priced tires you can buy. Yes . . we have your size! By all means see us for exceptional tire values.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

But I say, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils.

MR. STERLING'S CHANCE

THE Hon. Ross Sterling, millionaire Houston publisher and business leader, will be in Lubbock tomorrow in behalf of his candidacy for the democrate nomination as Governor of Texas.

It is the first time Mr. Sterling has been in Lubbock for a long time—if he were ever here before—and there are doubtless many who will be glad to see him and to hear his speech.

The Avalanche-Journal is particularly glad to see Mr. Sterling in Lubbock, not so much in regard to his candidacy as in the hope that perhaps he can cast some light upon highway problems which have confronted this section for some time.

Mr. Sterling is a big man.

He has made a great success as a captain of industry and finance and as chairman of the State Highway commission he has seen many miles of good roads constructed. As head of the Houston Post-Dispatch he is in control of one of the state's leading newspapers and as an oil man he has made an enviable record.

Because Mr. Sterling is undoubtedly a big man, perhaps we in this area can prevail upon him to tell us a little about highways.

Perhaps he can, and will tell us why designations sought for several years cannot, or at least are not granted.

Perhaps he can tell us why the maintenance on our all-dirt highways has been no better than it has been and why the proposal of a state-designated highway from Lubbock, into the oil sectors of Southwest Texas, has been passed around like a hot potato when there has been a need and a demand for that designation. As chairman of the Highway commission Mr. Sterling can. If he chooses, pass us the information which Lubbock leaders have sought for many moons.

If Mr. Sterling has his finger upon the pulse of public opinion on the South Plains, he already knows that the subject of highways is a sore spot in this part of the world.

If his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination is as thorough as we suspect it is, Mr. Sterling knows that the feeling in regard to highway maintenance and new designations has not served to accelerate his candidacy in this territory.

Perhaps we are ignorant of many logical reasons the commission may have for its actions toward the South Plains in highway matters and if we are we'd like to be enlightened.

Mr. Sterling will be with us tomorrow. Maybe he'll throw some new light on an old subject, in addition to his campaigning.

THE AGE OF NOISE

Between beats the heart rests, and between breaths the lungs and diaphragm have an instant's respite. All the nerves and muscles of the body have some time when they are relieved of duty except those of the ear in the noisy city. This unjust arrangement is pointed out by ear specialists, who say something must be done about it to lower the amount of deafness.

City noises going on day and night keep the ear drum and the tiny bones about it in a constant state of vibration. People accustomed to them sleep comfortably through normal night sounds because the nerves are adopted to something like a temporary disconnection with the brain centers.

To provide for utter inactivity in the ear it would be necessary to construct a sound-proof room. Ear specfalists believe that they could relieve some ear troubles with such a room. In the case of ear inflammations it is thought that the constant vibrations of the city make complete rest impossible. Other organs benefit by rest. The ear certainly would.

Nocturnal periods of rest for the ear seem as remote for the average city dweller as the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow. His days and nights are a bedlam of motor exhausts and horns, the footsteps and voices of passersby, and the thousand and one other noises of the city street. There is no rest for the weary ear.

REPUBLICAN FLOOR LEADER IN HOUSE GIVES IMPRESSION OF EXERCISING POWER WITH SMALL EFFORT TO HIMSELF, YET HE HAS VAST AMOUNT OF INFLUENCE

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 12.—"This niche, reserved for my statue in future years, will make a nice background," said Col. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, when I asked him for his picture for my album of notabilities just before congress adjourned.

With which jocular remark (not necessarily so jocular, either, for plenty of statues are erected to celebrities who deserve them less) the G. O. P. floor leader in the house of representatives leaned comfortably in an otherwise unoccupied cavity in the eastern face of the Capitol building and "our staff photographer" shot him forthwith.

The colonel vouchsafed the information that he was tired with the long session and would be glad of the recess, but I'm blest if he had the look of weariness; of all the men who sit in the seats of the mighty in Washington Colonel Tilson gives me the impression of exercising power with the smallest effort to himself.

Except the president, the three representatives of whom the colonel is one probably have more to say concerning the government than any other individuals in the country.

As a group, perhaps the justices of the U. S. supreme court speak with more authority, but theirs is divided up among nine of them; Speaker Nichols Longworth, Colonel Tilson and Bertrand H. Snell of the representatives' rules committee are but three, so that they unquestionably wield more of it per individual.

The senate, it is true, is on a legislative par with the house of representatives, but the senators pull in 96 different directions; in the lower house (no loyal representative will admit that it is lower; it merely is currently so called) the majority party rules and Speaker Longworth, Colonel Tilson and Chairman Snell rule the majority. They do it with the majority's consent, certainly; that is, they can be overthrown, but so can oligarchy. Once chosen, they are as absolute a triumvirate as any sultan—barring revolution.

Speaker Longworth is the showy member of the combination. He sits on the rostrum and presides ostentatiously. To the uninitiated spectator he doubtless appears to be boss of the house of representatives; in reality he does what he, the colonel and Chairman Snell have agreed on previously.

Chairman Snell lays plans, in his rules committee room; maps out programs. He does it in collaboration with Nick and the colonel, but Snell is the expert at this part of the work.

Colonel Tilson is the trio's field commander. In action, he has no time to confer with his colleagues. All three of them consult relative to the general strategy of their campaigns, but the colonel must be ready to meet emergencies on his own initiative.

I believe most critics will concur in regarding him as a kingpin of the house of representatives—not underestimating Nick's importance, or Chairman Snell's, but handing somewhat the predominance in influence among the three to the Nutmeg State congressman.

And yet one does not hear nearly as much concerning Colonel Tilson as of many a representative who has not one-tenth his weight in shaping the destinies of the nation.

He is just what he looks like—as amiable, kindly an old New Englander (born in Tennessee, by the way, but a perfect Yankee by adoption) as any congressional district ever sent to Washington. He probably likes power, but he assuredly is averse to making the slightest splurge about it.

Moreover, it would not be good politics on the colonel's part to concentrate attention on himself. Let it be known that he is a caller at the White House and a good many astute folk are likely to be able to guess the reason why he called there; it is preferable for him to slip in by a postern entrance and out again just as inconspicuously—then he not only does not have to explain himself; no one who will tell, even is aware he has been there.

To be sure, it is taken for granted that the New Haven district of Connecticut would re-elect him just the same, though he went to the Philippines, as he did last summer. However, he has lots of neighboring congressmen with harder fights on their hands. They will want him to help them. The colonel is a great vote getter.

BEING CALM HELPS ONE KEEP COOL

DEAR FOLLOWERS

I'll give you the same points for keeping cool that I gave last year, as they are just as applicable. The only thing I will add is a little something to the paragraph on bobbed hair. You will notice it.

Hint No. 1—Discard all clothing that the law will permit. This applies to children, and babies particularly.

Hint No. 2—Overweight or underweight, eat less meat and less concentrated energy and heating foods, and eat more salads and fruits. The high protein foods have more waste heat to be eliminated by the body, therefore they make you warmer. Eat less meat, fish, egg whites, and also cut down the rich pastries and fatty and oily foods. Get a large share of your protein in milk, in various forms, and cheese, preferably cottage cheese. You should always do this for that matter. Don't eat large meals. If you are thin and get hungry between meals, take some fruit or milk. Drink plentifully of water. Twelve to 15 glasses are recommended by Tice. Iced water is all right with your meals or between your meals, if you drink it slowly; and it certainly is a hundred time more refreshing. Remember my caution: drink it SLOWLY; don't gulp down two or three glasses of iced water at a time. It may be such a shock to your solar plexus that it may give uncomfortable, results. Be very moderate with tea and coffee, and take no alcoholic drinks.

Hint No. 3—Take a cold bath a dozen times a day if you can. If you have a weak heart, your physician may tell you to be careful of this advice. Any quick shock has to be avoided in such cases. But you can take cold sponge baths.

Hint No. 4—If you have an electric fan, keep it busy. Air in motion is more cooling.

Hint No. 5—If you have to be out of doors, keep on the shady side of the street, or carry a sun umbrella.

Hint No. 6—Don't run after street cars or anything else. Do as little physical work as possible.

Hint No. 7—If it is so hot at night that you can't sleep, wring a towel out of cold water and lay over yourself. The evaporation of the water cools you off.

I don't take cold by any of these measures I am advising, and I don't believe you will.

Hint No. 8—If you are a woman, have your hair bobbed, if it isn't already. It's comfortable, clean, comely and cool. (Irrespective of what the hair dressers, false hair and hairpin manufacturers say, it hasn't gone out of fashion nor will it ever—I hope—any more than short hair will for men. They used to wear theirs long, you know.)

New Note: The newest style of bobbing is to have the back hair long enough to curl in short ringlets, or to be pinned into a tiny knot. But it is still bobbed hair—not long.

Hint No. 9—Don't get excited about the heat. Keep cool with calmness.

The way to be happily married is to obey the laws and pay no attention to the in-laws.

Well, Whaddya Know About That!

DANCING JUDITH

by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Grant, beautiful artist's model, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with Chummy Morley, a lovely girl whose mind has been a blank since her lover, Alan Steyne, abruptly disappeared seven years ago. Steyne returns, but Chummy fails to recognize him; meanwhile he falls in love with Judith, telling her he never loved Chummy and never knew Chummy loved him. A few weeks later Chummy's memory suddenly returns, she meets Steyne and thinks that they will eventually be married. Judith, meanwhile, posing for Vincent Stornaway, successful portrait painter, excites the infatuation of Bruce Gideon, rich financier. Gideon learns that she has danced in the choruses of musical shows, and offers to star her in a musical show of her own. She refuses, and as she leaves him runs into Steyne in the park and suddenly discovers that she is deeply in love with him. Steyne urges her to marry him, but she refuses out of loyalty to Chummy. In a cafe she runs into Bastien Dumont, a young artist who has long loved her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

Bastien was a little late. Judy sat down at her accustomed table and ordered what she wanted. As she looked up into Dan's lean face, his smile faded.

The lanky, clown-like figure had acquired dignity.

"It's bad news, miss," he said. "My old mother's dead. She died all alone in Italy—Como, that's where she lived; and I haven't the money to go and bring her body back to be buried beside my father. He lies in Calvary Cemetery."

"Oh, Dan!" said Judy softly, as she saw the mist gather in his keen eyes. "I understand why you're not singing tonight. I am so sorry! Couldn't we do something — all of us—so that you could go to Italy?"

Dan shook his head.

"Was your mother Italian, Dan?"

"Yes, miss, but my father was a Londoner—born within sound of Bow Bells, as they say. They had an organ first, and then they did better, and got to be quite prosperous; but when my father caught a chill, and died of it, my mother took me to Italy. When I was 15 I came to America. There wasn't much of a living to be made in Italy. I was always saying she must come over and live with me when I could save a bit."

"Oh, Dan, and she never came!"

"But there, miss, it's no good talking. And I haven't told any one else. What'll I bring you, miss?" he asked.

But Judy's appetite was gone. Her loving, impulsive heart was planning how she could possibly get the money to send Dan to Italy, and bring him back with his mother's body.

When Bastien came in, eager, full of apologies, his ardent eyes devouring her with hopeless worship, she did not speak of Dan. It seemed so useless; and Dan had said that he had told nobody else.

Already Dan had struck up his mandolin in response to some careless demand, and his gay, light voice was trilling out "Santa Lucia" in a way that would have made the heart of a Neapolitan ache with longing.

"I haven't seen you for ages, Judy," Bastien said.

"I have been busy," she answered. "You've had no time for me, Judy." There was something akin to madness under the ardor of his splendid eyes. "That rich man has taken up all your time."

Dan here brought her food and coffee, and Bastien had to give his order.

"Bastien, have you any news?" Judy asked, when he had finished.

"I have, as it happens — the first bit of luck for years. I've sold 'The Dream of the Apache.'"

"Splendid!" She clapped her hands. "I always said it was a fine picture."

"What's the good?" he asked bitterly. "What does it matter to me? I never see you now, Judy."

"But, Bastien, I have to work. I have to live."

"Need you see so much of that brute in order to live, Judy?"

"I don't understand you!" she exclaimed furiously.

"Oh, yes, you do! I mean the man you brought to the Lemon Grove, the man you have dinner and luncheon with in expensive restaurants."

"Bastien, I don't like your tone," she said frigidly.

"And I don't like your goings on, Judy. They are hateful. He's not a man you ought to go about with. I've been hearing things—"

"You mean you've been spying on me!" she interrupted.

"Judy, don't look at me like that! He's a millionaire. You're a poor girl. He hasn't a good reputation. What can he want with you? Don't be angry. I'm a man, and I understand the world better, Judy—"

He gazed at her in miserable appeal.

Her fiery spirit was up in arms. She could hardly think for rage. So Bastien, her best friend, was accusing her of philandering with Bruce Gideon because he was rich, of laying herself open to blame, of behaving like a girl who was no better than she should be!

She went white and rigid, and turned on him an annihilating stare.

"My meetings with Mr. Gideon are purely of a business nature," she said icily. "I am taking up dancing as a career, and he is advising me."

Thus did Judy burn her boats. She would not allow Bastien to discuss the matter further. Her mind was made up, she told him. She was tired of a model's life. It was such hard work, and one depended entirely on one's looks and one's health and the decency of one's employer. She was going to take up dancing. She didn't mind working hard, and there might be something in it. Mr. Gideon knew a lot about such things—and he was introducing her to a teacher.

That was all the information she vouchsafed. She ended by asking belligerently if Bastien wished to deny that she had talent for dancing.

Of course, Bastien was forced to admit that she could dance like an angel, and that no doubt, given a chance, she would make a tremendous success. It was plainly Bruce Gideon he could not get over; but Judy would hear no word against him. It was purely a business matter, she told Dumont. Gideon was very kind in giving her advice—that was all.

"A business matter!" exclaimed poor Bastien, with a groan. "Judy, are you deceiving yourself, or are you playing with me? Was it on business that he came to the Lemon Grove and sat there and watched you dancing, and behaved as if you were his property, and we were all a set of queer animals who had nothing to do with you at all?"

"How could Mr. Gideon know whether I could dance unless he saw me?" was the cool reply. "You are prejudiced, Bastien. Mr. Gideon was very nice to you all—quite a sport. I thought him that night, because he must have felt a bit out of it."

There was nothing more for Bastien to say. He could only grit his teeth and swear a violent oath that if a hair of Judy's bright head were harmed, this meddlesome millionaire should reckon with him.

For the rest of the evening Judy was a reformed character, as far as he was concerned. She was nicer to him than she had ever been before. She allowed him to take her to the Lemon Grove, she danced every dance with him, and she walked slowly home with him. At her door she finished his renewal of enslavement by holding his hand in both her little ones, looking up into his face with her great pansy eyes full of affection, and saying with a catch in her husky voice:

And she meant it.

Judy did not go into Chummy's room when she got home. It was almost the first time that she had gone to bed without ascertaining whether she could do anything for her. She was pretty late herself, so she was sure that Chummy was at home.

She had a small lamp in her room, which was burning, so she knew that Chummy had lit it. Without taking her things off, she sat down to think.

It was in anger that she had burned her boats; but the deed was done. A myriad thoughts flashed through her brain. She had a queer way of thinking in pictures so that she saw all her reasons flashed out as on a screen in her mind.

She saw her anger against Bastien—that was a very simple and complete picture. She saw herself on some vast stage, dancing on air, amid the plaudits of a multitude. She saw Bruce Gideon, the typical financier, delighted with his speculation, but quite oblivious to herself as a human being.

She saw Bastien on his knees before her, begging her forgiveness; but that, of course, she might have seen at any time.

Then she came to the more difficult thoughts — the more clouded pictures.

She saw herself hard at work, withdrawn from the orbit of Chummy and Alan Steyne. She saw her life as a straight gray thread, like the worsted with which one darns thick stockings. The lives of Alan and Chummy were a tangle of bright golden threads, and soon they began to weave themselves into a lovely fabric. It shone with a beautiful light, and Judy discerned in it at last a little home among the hills and a happiness before which she veiled her face.

That was her task — she saw it quite clearly — to get out of Chummy's life as much as she could. This new work would take up all her time. Chummy, left more or less alone, would soon drift away. She and Alan would marry, and they would live part of the time in all the wonderful places abroad where people went to paint.

Here Judy heaved a deep sigh. She so longed to travel — she who had never been anywhere but to Newark, where she was born, and to New York, where she lived. She had posed to make so many pictures of places, and she might never see them. She resolved that when she was a great dancer — if she ever was one—she would see the whole wide world.

Next day she wrote to Gideon at his Park Avenue apartment. It was a guarded letter, dictated by her hard-won knowledge of men. It said that she was willing to entertain his offer under certain conditions.

He replied at once, asking her to come to lunch at his apartment. On the following day, to meet M. Guarvenius, and named an hour.

Slaton Clubhouse Is Popular Place

By Staff Corespondent

SLATON, July 12.—Lubbock county's community center for this section of the county, is easily the most popular place for social gatherings both of city folk and of farm folk.

Located in the county park, the building has an every day use as the location of the Slaton public library, with a librarian on duty every day.

Also, the two civic groups, the Rotary club and the American Legion, meet here for luncheons. Church organizations serve the noon meals, taking turn about among the Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, Catholic and other denominations. Real meals are served too, much to the delight of the members.

Is Ideal Place

The American Legion auxiliary finds the place ideal for its meeting as do a large number of the ladies organizations when they have any kind of a special meeting. Farm women also meet here from time to time.

The Cooperative farm organizations and other farmer groups have their schedule gatherings in the building. The Germania Insurance company, a local company, has its annual events here also.

J. I. Banks, the caretaker, keeps the bulding in first class condition all the time as he does the grounds. There are plenty of trees and a beautiful lawn, making ideal surroundings for summer outings.

O'Donnell Legion Will Get Charter

O'DONNELL, July 12. (Special)—The charter of the Fern Allen Post of the American Legion has just been received here and will be presented Monday evening at a meeting of Legionnaires, their wives, mothers, sweethearts and sisters and friends of the organization. On the program will be R. E. Kay, commander of the Tahoka Legion Post, and Judge Philip Yonge of Lamesa, as well as the pastors of the local churches. Special music and refreshments will be features of the big get-together meeting.

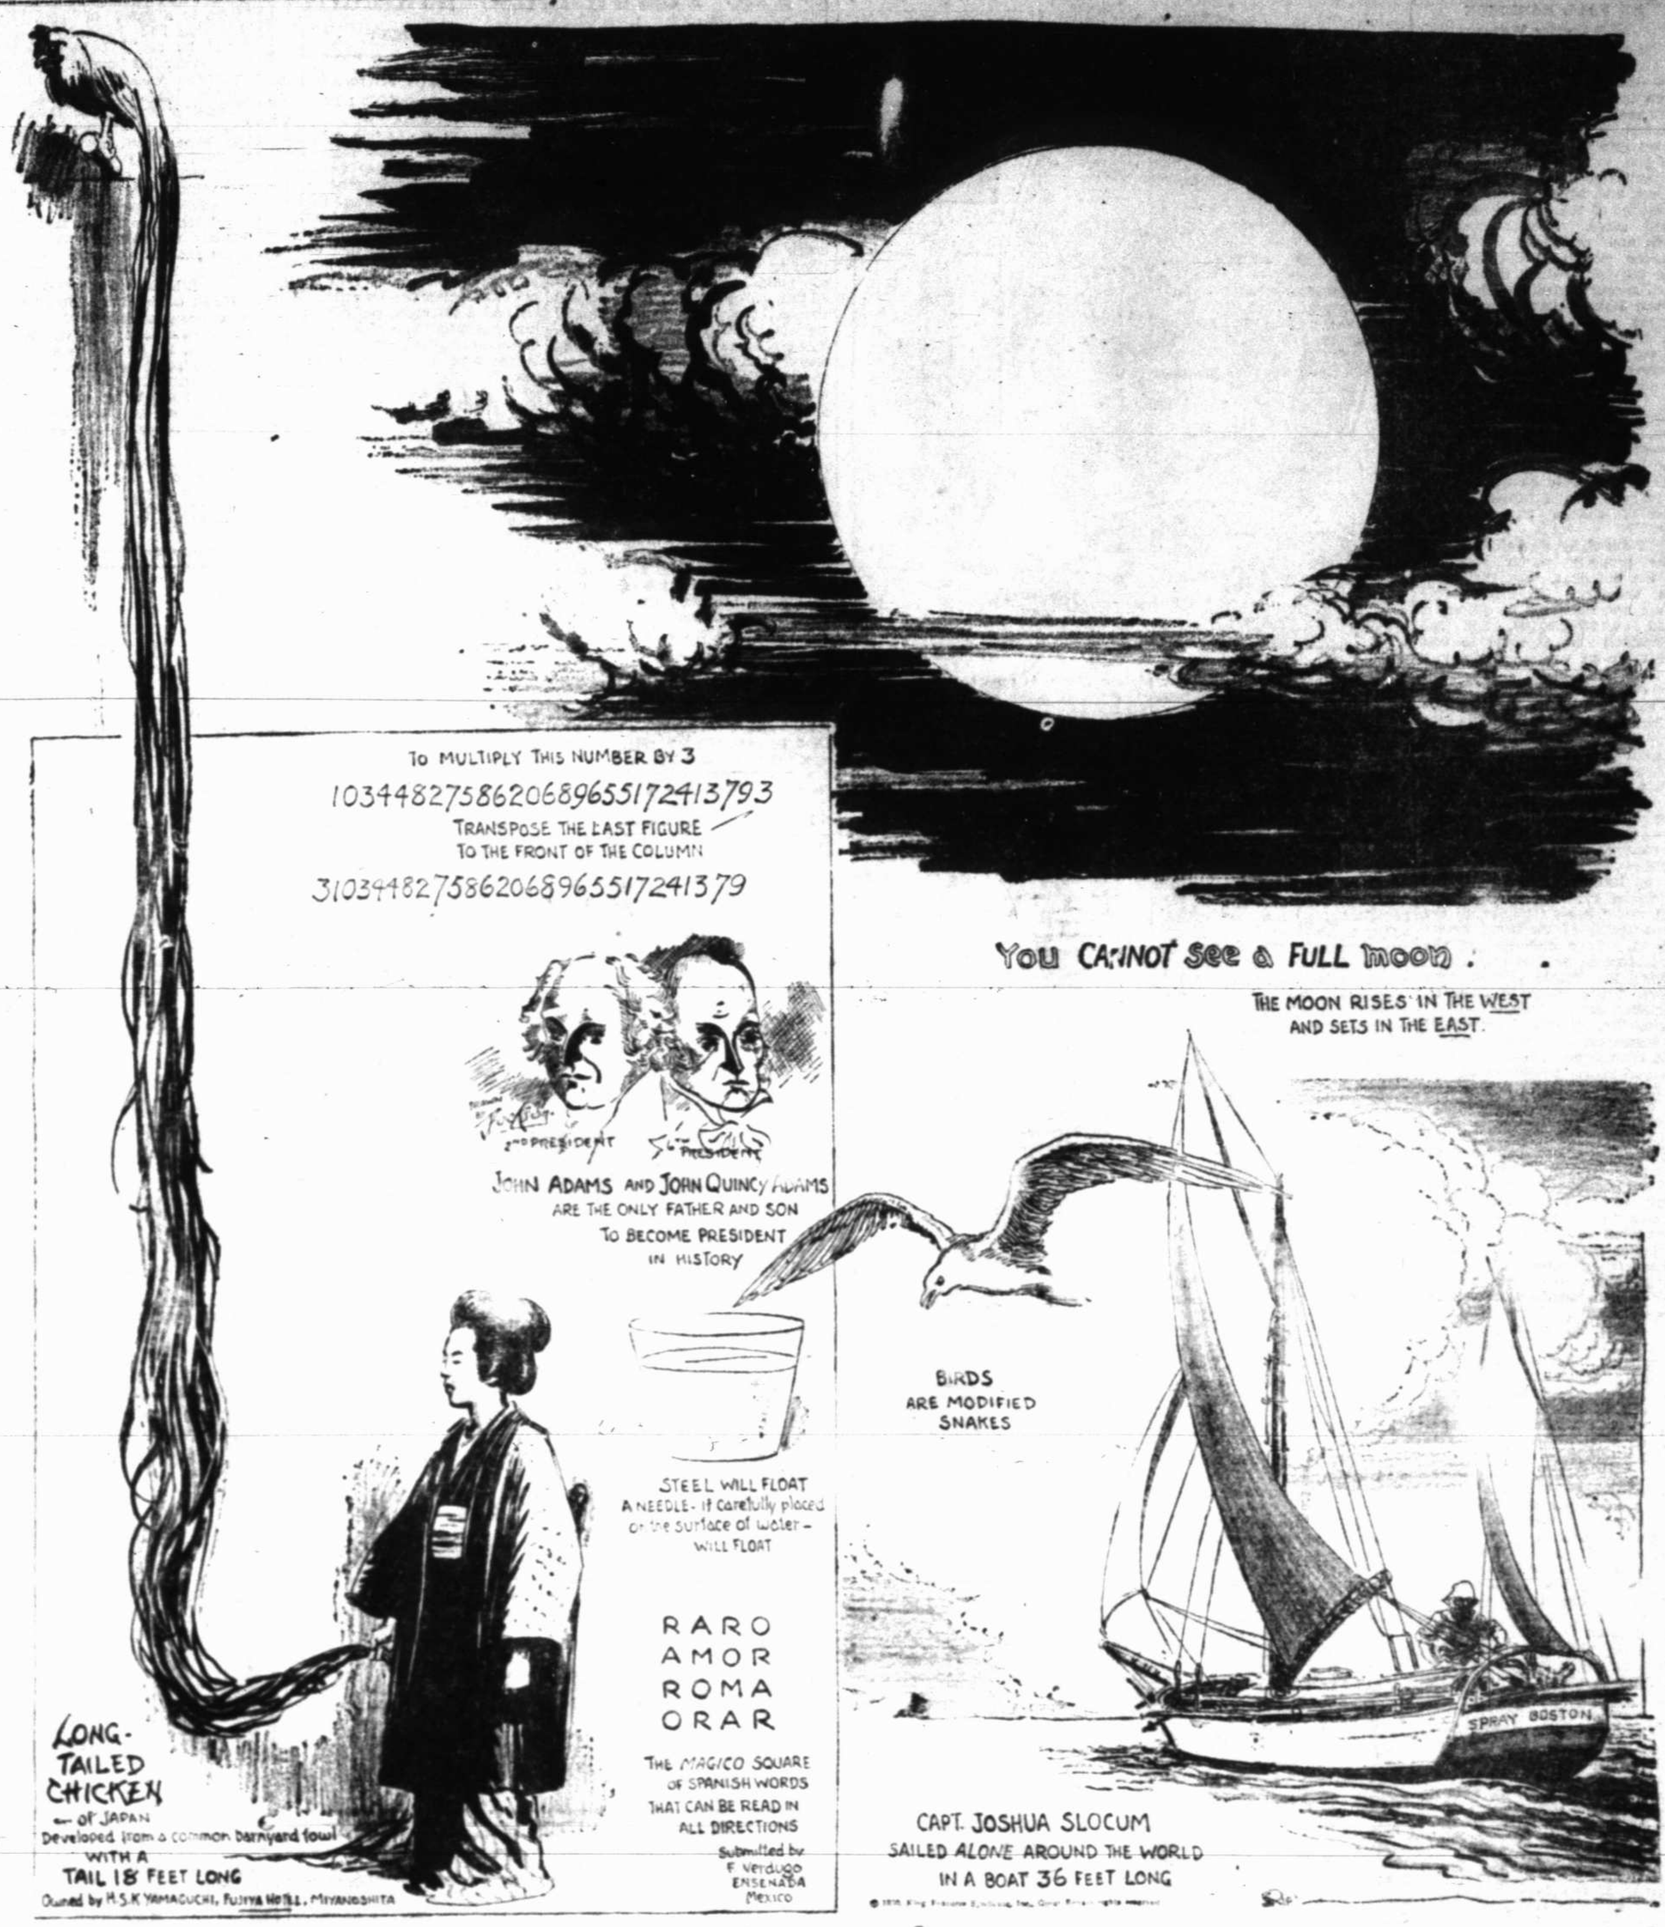

A meeting of the nineteen charter members and others interested in the organization has been called by Post Commander Guy Bradley for Friday night, July 11, for the purpose of making definite arrangements for the charter night event.

According to Post Adjutant M. B. Hood, more than fifty prospective members have been invited to the meeting, and it is expected that about two hundred people will be present. The contest between two teams, which was inaugurated last week for the purpose of getting prospective members, will officially close Saturday night, Hood said. It is expected that several of these will be listed as charter members Monday night.

ROTARY HELPS BOYS

LEVELLAND, July 12. (Special)—The Levelland Rotary club has sponsored the Boy Scouts of Levelland and as a part of this program, sent thirteen of them to the scout camp near Post. J. Russell Mitchell is scoutmaster. The club also has raised funds for the erection of a club house on the proposed city park.

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON
GENERAL BERNADOTTE

Bernadotte, who, like Napoleon was the son of a lawyer, was a fiery radical in his youth. From that period of his life dates the curious tattoo on his arm. After a distinguished military career, during which he rose to the rank of one of Napoleon's marshals, the General States of Sweden elected him Crown Prince. He succeeded Charles XIII as King of Sweden and Norway. His reign was a very successful one, and the Swedes remember him with great affection.

THE BEARDED LADY SAINT OF BELGIUM

The bearded lady saint, St. Wilgefortis of Belgium, is revered in Germany as St. Kummernias. According to legend she grew a beard miraculously, after she prayed to be delivered from her heathen suitors. A statue of the saint is located in the church of Neufahren near Freising, Germany, and another in the church of St. Etienne de Beauvais in Belgium. In Lissabon she is revered as St. Vilga. Her day of office is July 4th.

SOME ICE IS COLDER THAN ICE

Water normally freezes at a temperature of 32 degrees Fahrenheit. But if proper precautions be taken it is possible to cool water to a temperature which is considerably lower before it will freeze. Pressure also has an effect upon the freezing point of water, and the presence of dissolved substances in the water will depress its freezing point. Sea water, for instance, will freeze at 27 degrees Fahrenheit. In all these different circumstances the temperature of the resulting ice will differ.

Southland Farmers Are Working With Their Fingers Crossed Now-A-Days; Conditions Are Fair For Production

(By Staff Correspondent)

SOUTHLAND, July 12.—Southland farmers are working these days with their fingers crossed as crop prospects, while probably not as good as farmers would like to be, are much better than they have been for several years past at this time of the year.

For the past two years, the community around Southland, has suffered slight adverse agricultural conditions. Drouth, hail and storms have worked together both in 1928 and 1929 to bring to naught the best efforts of farmers to raise large acreages of cotton and feed crops.

Conditions Good

"Conditions in general look good," Frank Fletcher, editor of the Southland Sun, says. "The feed crop looks good for this time of the year. Cotton has a good stand and if we get a rain or two within the next week or so, we can be sure our cotton is made."

Early cotton, according to farmers, is in first class shape. It was able to get some early rains that brought it out fine and gave the stalks a good start.

To Plant Feedstuff

Several farmers had to plant over their cotton twice and many of them planted it over once. A few who had the third crop or the second crop hard hit by heavy rains, decided to plant feed crops instead.

One man, in close touch with the situation, gave it as his opinion that the cotton acreage was not as large as in other years, probably due to the fact that farmers planted feed crops instead of cotton when they had to replant.

As a result, the feed acreage is larger than usual and the cotton crop not so large.

Milk, Cream Sold

Dairymen continue to bring in considerable milk and cream to the local buying station. For months the one station here has been doing a good business, probably better as a whole than two stations had done.

Eggs and chickens also are being sold in large quantities here by farmers to buyers.

Southland has four gins and prospects are that with even a fair cotton crop all four will be in full blast this fall. Owners are said to be waiting on the probable outcome of the crop to see whether or not to work over the gins in anticipation of running them this fall.

Outboard motors are no equipped with electric starters.

Two Counties Seek Agents

Women Of Terry And Castro To Appear Before County Commissioners In Request For Extension Work

BROWNFIELD, July 12 (Special)—Farm women of Terry county will meet here Monday, July 14, to discuss ways and means of securing a home demonstration agent for the county.

A committee of Brownfield women, composed of Mrs. W. W. Price, Mrs. E. D. Moore and Mrs. Brit Clare, are in charge of the preliminary arrangements for the meeting. They have issued the call for the gathering.

Since announcement of the plans, the committee has been assured by many women of their support of the project. The county has had a county agent for several years, but the women over the county feel they are entitled to an agent of their own.

Chamber Of Commerce Is Aiding Castro Work

DIMMITT, July 12 (Special)—The federated clubs of Castro county will appear before the county commissioners court on Monday, July 14, to ask for the cooperation of that body in securing a county home demonstration agent.

Recently word was received from the Texas A. and M. college at College Station, through its extension service, that additional money will become available in Texas for this service. This applies also to county agent work as well as home demonstration agents.

The chamber of commerce of Castro county has been at work on the securing of agents for some months. It is expected if the commissioners court gives its formal approval that Castro county will be placed on the waiting list for such extension work.

Capital stock is $25,000, with a surplus subscribed of $6,250. Stock is $100 a share par value.

Other stockholders are: J. L. Reed and Mrs. Carlton Clinton of Lovington; W. D. Grimes, A. G. Troutt and I Scrinopskie, of Hobbs, E. A. Cahoon of Roswell and W. J. Caskey of Chamberlain, Texas.

Lamesa Opens Up Clean-Up Monday

LAMESA, July 12. (Special) — During Lamesa's clean-up drive here Monday, July 14, the city will be divided into sections and each section will be supervised over by a committee of the different civic organizations here.

The clubs aiding in the clean-up campaign include American Legion, Lions club, Luncheon club, Boy Scouts, Parent-Teachers association, Chamber of Commerce, Women's Study Club, Delphian club and others. The clean-up campaign is hoped to terminate in one day, according to J. E. Barron, chairman of the Civic Bureau of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the campaign.

Beauty shop owners and operators have protested to the San Diego, Cal., city council against an ordinance compelling them to wear white uniforms.

Tour of Palo Duro Canyons Is to Be Held

Citizens of Panhandle Area to Be Shown Beauties of Territory by Canyon C. of C. Today

CANYON, July 12. —(Special) — Hundreds from every section of the Panhandle country are expected to view the grandeur and splendor of the Palo Duro canyons, Sunday, July 13, under the direction of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

A trip covering the most beautiful parts of the canyons has been arranged for by the Chamber of Commerce. The trip is the first of its kind sponsored by the local body. It is hoped that such a trip will arouse interest in the proposed state park to be located along a sixty-mile portion of the Palo Duro.

To Visit 3 Points

Three points which present the most color and spacious views of the entire canyons are included in the schedule of the trip. The gates to the Lighthouse canyons will open at 10:00 a. m. and close at 12:00 noon with all traffic out of that part by 1:00. The canyons cannot be entered at this point owing to the danger of becoming lost so easily and the lack of sufficient patrolmen to properly handle the large crowds which would enter the canyons. However, a most majestic view may be had by driving around the top rim and looking off into the beds which are some six or seven hundred feet below, and to the rim on the other side which is several miles away.

From the Lighthouse canyons the traffic will be directed to the Marshall and Elkins ranch which adjoin and will be opened at the same time. The gates there will be opened at 12 noon and will remain open until 6:00 p. m.

Rules Are Observed

National park rules and regulations are being carried out which will forbid the building of fires and such like. Special instructions will be given as each vehicle enters the gates. There will be no admission charges to enter any of the places.

Owners of many places along the canyons have suffered various losses due to the careless sightseers in times past and have during recent month forbid anyone to visit the canyons at certain places. It is through the efforts of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce that the free trip through the canyons is possible.

There are, however, a few places where persons may go for outings by paying a small admission charge. One of the places is the Marshall ranch which will be open free on Sunday, July 13.

Service Given Over New Line

Regular Trains Running Over Latest Construction Of Slaton Division Of Santa Fe From Angelo To Sonora

(By Staff Correspondent)

SLATON, July 12.—Regular train service is now being given by the Santa Fe on the newest construction on the Slaton division—the San Angelo-Sonora extension of the old Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, now a part of this division, it was announced at the division superintendent's office here.

Service began on July 1 when a special train was operated into the new end of the extension. Later on it is probable the line will be extended still further south, although nothing was indicated here as to how soon this might be projected.

Old Towns Served

No new towns were added to the company's list aside from the three old towns that the new rails serve. They are Christoval, the first town out of San Angelo, El Dorado and Sonora. The latter places are county seat towns and are known as good inland towns.

Christoval is famous over this section as a resort, with a large number of regular followers of the leisure pastime going there regularly. The town is some 30 miles from San Angelo.

Rejuvenation Expert Opens Up Laboratory In France

VENTIMIGLIA, Italy, July 12 (AP) —Professor Voronoff, the rejuvenation expert, has chosen for his permanent residence and laboratory the magnificent castle of Grimaldi, near the French frontier. Here he has provided quarters for the 27 monkeys who serve as "patients" for this experiments. The monkeys originally from French Guiana, find the climate here much to their liking.

Voronoff is not limiting himself to rejuvenation methods by using glands, but is also studying means of combatting tuberculosis, diabetes and cancer. He uses rabbits, dogs and other animals in his research, but prefers monkeys because of their physiological resemblance to man. He is aided by his brother and an assistant.

PURCHASE STORE

LOVINGTON, July 12 (Special)—Jack Hull of Roswell and E. B. Yarbo of Gallup have purchased the Gaither Furniture company here, it is announced.

Mr. Yarbo will be manager in charge of the store. Both men are experienced furniture men. A new stock has been ordered and will be placed as soon as it arrives. The line of goods carried is to be considerably enlarged.

HALF-BILLION DOLLAR ROCKEFELLER PROJECT IN NEW YORK IS "THEATER OF AMERICA;" TO BE ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK—They're building the Theater of America here in New York—making a fantastic modern dream into a five-hundred million dollar reality.

Though its tankible form is being set into the heart of Manhattan, you will attend this theater no matter where you are. You will see and hear the world's finest artists of the concert and theatrical stage, movies, vaudeville, drama and symphony. This will be made possible, of course, by radio television, which is, it seems, much nearer perfection than the average layman has been allowed to guess.

In addition to the mustering of vast sums of money and the paper-work of technical planners the project has actually been begun. In the chosen area of three square blocks, fronting on Fifth Avenue, workmen are clearing the way—demolishing fine old brownstone homes of a long-ago era that never even could have imagined the magnitude and wonder of this center of culture and entertainment.

Fianced by Rockefeller

The property which will contain the buildings, with their four large theaters, 27 broadcasting studios, and hundreds of offices, is valued at $250,000,000, and the construction is expected to cost more than an equivalent amount. All of this is being financed by "the Rockefeller interests" allied with such potent names as the Radio Corporation of America, its subsidiary, the National Broadcasting company, the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, in which the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric Corporations have large holdings as they also have in RCA.

It was Samuel L. Rothafel, motion picture magnate and radio enthusiast who is known to millions of listeners as "Roxy," who first voiced the dream o fa "city" which would bring together all the various forms of electrical entertainment. In a discussion of the future of radio, he told this dream to Owen D. Young, who in turn interpreted the vision to John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Rockefeller, it was known, had been intent on the construction of a vast civic center tround the cultural and social traditions of the Metropolitan Opera. But here was a new proposal which, although along similar lines, was quite different — democratic instead of aristocratic, reaching all of America—perhaps most of the world — instead of the relatively insignificant group of opera lovers in a single city. It was a project so new that it had no traditions. But it had enough of a future to win Rockefeller's support.

All the above-named corporations agreed to take office space in the development. The National Broadcasting Company alone, according to Merlin H. Aylesworth its president, will have 27 studios, many of them two or three stories in height, for the broadcasting of sound and television. Four theaters have been decided upon and a fifth, a great symphony hall, is under consideration. The variety theater is to seat 7000, the talkie theater, 5000. A third theater will be designed especially for musical comedy productions, and the fourth for drama.

"In effect," said Aylesworth, "all the theaters will be broadcasting studios, too. All will be equipped for the broadcasting of sound and sight directly from the stage. Ten of the studios will be designed for photography and recording and the building will be so arranged that visiting radio fans may see the artists at work.

"Thus we are building for the future instead of according to standards of today. We are taking into account the fact that broadcasting is not only a medium of mass entertainment, but that it has added to the cultural and educational values of modern life. With the great theatrical and musical enterprises to be created in this development, the broadcasting center of the country will be joined in a vast artery of communication with the dramatic stage; with opera, talking pictures, variety and the symphony hall.

New Opportunities Offered

"Radio has by no means exhausted the services it can render through the medium of sound, and it will have vastly greater opportunities when television emerges from the laboratory to give radio the new dimension of sight."

The NBC executive indicated his confidence that television will have reached commercial perfection by the time the vast electrical city is built, which will be in the autumn of 1933. And it will not be released, he said, until it is put within the means of the nation's buyers and can offer clear reproduction of form and action.

Regular programs of talking pictures will be put on the air. Musical comedies and drama, personally attended by thousands of New Yorkers in the Rockefeller center, will be witnessed simultaneously by television fans throughout the continent. Important news and sporting events will be sent through the ether. A championship prize fight, for instance, probably can be seen more clearly in Montana ranch houses than from the five-dollar seats in New York's Yankee Stadium.

The coming of television, Aylesworth pointed out, will not mean that ordinary sound sets will be out-moded or made useless. Visual transmission will not affect the quality of sound reception, and the 12,000,000 sets now in use will continue to perform as long as their owners are content with "blind" programs.

"Theaters Won't Suffer"

"Other means by which the talent we will gather will be brought to the country are the movies and phonograph records." Aylesworth said. "But I do not believe that motion picture houses or any type of theater in other cities will suffer from the perfection of television. People always want to go places, get into crowds. We are confident that if television affects theatrical attendance at all, it will stimulate it."

The architectural unit, as planned, will include three entire blocks with the two intervening streets running in underground boulevards, with a vast additional subterranean area for parking and bus terminals. The central structure will be an oval building of moderate height and great beauty of design. Back of this will be a magnificent garden plaza extending the full length of the development, and dominating the whole will be a 60-story building. Grand corridors, three stories in height, will extend from this to other office buildings at each side.

Yet there is nothing philanthropic about this half-billion dollar enterprise. It will pay for itself. New Yorkers will spend vast sums in attending the various theaters which will be laboratories for the analysis of public taste. Centralization of the world's finest talent in every field will effect some economies for producers.

"We are quite content as long as people will properly maintain and use their receiving sets. This whole enterprise is built for the home, and it should do more to revolutionize home life than anything ever developed."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., center picture above, is reported to be behind the giant "theatre of the future" which is being constructed in New York. Upper right, Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, who will have much to do with the new project.

Appeal Is Filed In Rates Action

GALVESTON, July 12. (AP)—Appeal in the new Orleans-Galveston port relationship case was filed in the United States district court here today by the Texas & Pacific railroad and other Louisiana interests which are contesting the Interstate Commerce Commission order giving Galveston the victory in the long fought rate case.

The appeal will take the case to the United States Supreme Court as the first court of appeal, three judge federal court — refused to grant the injunction asked.

In a series of decisions, the Interstate Commerce Commission gave the Texas ports a complete victory over New Orleans, thus enabling shippers in the grain territory in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas to ship through the Texas ports at lower rates than through New Orleans. The cases began in 1922.

The United States government, the state of Texas, Galveston, Houston and other cities defended the commission's order at the recent hearing, while the state of Louisiana, City of New Orleans and others opposed it.

WOMEN RESPONSIBLE

Women of Slaton are largely responsible for the splendid appearance of the lawn and the flowers at Slaton's community center and city hall. The women, urged by Editor Roderick of the Slatonite, began a campaign of beautification of the city property a couple of years ago. As a result the grass is a velvet green in appearance and almost as even as a dance floor. Around the city building there have been planted this spring numerous flowers and shrubs, both perennial and annual flowers. Roses also were planted. The city takes care of the lawn and flowers and many persons who pass through Slaton remark at the beautiful appearance of the city property.

"OFF" ON REPORT

Bill Donaldson says that George Samson, secretary of the Post chamber of commerce, was "off" on his report of a big bass caught in Bill's lake recently." In the first place," says Bill, "he was wrong on its weight. It weighed four and a half pounds, not three and a half. Second, George did not see it." George says Bill is mistaken about his seeing the fish as he did. As to the weight, he says he isn't as big a fisherman as Bill.

CLEANED HIM

Howard Holt of the Pioneer motor lines, had a little car trouble recently and had to stop in Littlefield, he says. While waiting for another car he decided to play checkers. "I challenged one of the old fellows up there and beat him the first game," says Howard. "He beat me every game after that. And I came from a checker playing country, too."

REAL AMBASSADOR

Perhaps this story should not be told, but it is too good to keep. Over on one of the branches of the Santa Fe out of Lubbock is a station agent who has been there several years and who has become one of the active civic leaders in the town. Before he came there, it seemed the business men and the railroad could not get together. Since this agent has been in the town he has cemented the friendship between the railroad and the town to such an extent that business is much greater than ever before and kicks are as scarce as buffalo now are on the South Plains. Recently the company felt it was forced to move this agent. His fellow-townsmen found it out and they went in a body to the superintendent to protest and insist and demand that the agent be retained. Superintendent Gillies, after listening to the delegation and after having had to answer numerous telegrams, letters and telephone calls, decided to change his mind about the transfer. "Wish we had a lot more railroad agents like that man," one of the company officials explained." He is a real ambassador of our company in his town."

PROUD OF TOWN

"Post is the best little town in Texas I believe," Bob Warren, new president of the Rotary club there, says. "I don't know of any better town of its size on the South Plains. We have a lot of improvements that many of the larger towns do not have. We have more miles of sidewalks than any town twice our size and we have as fine a group of business men as you will find anywhere." Bob and his brother have been druggists in Post since the early days.

ANXIOUS FOR HIGHWAY

Drivers of the South Plains coaches are anxious to get the state highway between Slaton and Lubbock open again for traffic. The road is now closed for construction work and the slab is completed for a couple of miles. It is not being used except by a few of the Slaton people out for an evening's drive. "When they get the paving completed from Lubbock to Slaton we can drive it in as quick time as we now use from Lubbock to Woodrow, one driver declared.

LEVELLAND CHANGING

Levelland has made as many changes in the past five years as any town on the South Plains says W. D. Cope, chamber of commerce secretary and an abstractor. Mr. Cope who came to Lubbock to attend the recent truck hearing, was telling Mark Marshall, director of motor transportation, about the town. "When I went there five years ago they were just starting the first brick building," he said. "Now we have about as many improvements as any other town except paving."

ISSUES CHALLENGE

Joe Swift, genial Post druggist and golf player, wants to challenge any left handed player on the South Plains to a game of golf. "I am champion left handed player in Post," he said. "I have defeated every other left handed player here and some would be left handed players including Charlie Quail, postmaster and Mayor D. C. Williams, both of whom say they are left handed but who shoot right handed. Now I want to play Dr. Paul W. Horn of Tech and the Plainsman. When I get them, I'll be satisfied." According to "Brother Mac" McPherson, Joe is the only left handed golfer in Post, hence he is the champion.

SNAKE COLLECTOR

K. N. Clapp, swimming expert, scout leader and general all around out of door man, collects snakes on the side. K. N. has been down at the boy scout camp on the C. W. Post memorial farm and while there managed to pick up some snakes to add to his collections. He had fifteen the other day, including a big bull snake about four or five inches in diameter and some five feet long. K. N. catches live insects of various kinds for his pets and he handles them without the least bit of fear. Also he has preserved in alcohol many different kinds of snakes and their eggs. These he uses in his scout instruction work at the camp.

CLUB WORK INCREASING

Greater Number Of Projects Being Carried On

BROWNFIELD, July 12 (Special) 4-H club work in Terry county is increasing according to J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

"The county agent reports he has a large number of projects going on among the boys in the county," Mr. Shelton said. "As an indication of the extent of the work he reports the following: Thirty boys have 170 acres in corn; sixty three boys own 66 pigs, not counting those owning litters; forty one boys and girls have 299 acres of cotton; fourteen boys have 90 acres of grain sorghums; fifty one boys have 2,102 chickens and turkeys; five girls have gardens and eight boys and girls have eight dairy calves."

RIO JANEIRO—Official estimates place the population of Brazil at 40,272,650. There were 1,274,627 births in 1929. The country is larger territorially than the United tSates.

THE TINY MITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When they had finished with their bread and started off, wee Scouty said, "Let's take some bread along with us and eat it after while. When we are hungry 'twill taste good." The Travel Man then said he could, and Scouty, loaded down with bread, made everybody smile.

When he had gone a block or two a breeze came up. Next thing he knew the bread was blown to pieces and it scattered o'er the ground. Then Scouty, through a silly grin, said, "Aw, that bread is much too thin. When we want more, we'll buy it fresh. I'm sure it can be found."

All of a sudden someone said "Where's Clowny? Look! He's far ahead. I wonder what he's up to now. We'd better run and see."

And then, when up to him they ran, they found him with an old fruit man. The fruit he had made all of them as hungry as could be.

"I want a bunch of grapes," cried one. "Come on, we'll have a heap of fun just sitting here and eating them. I'll bet they're mighty good. They promptly bought a great big bunch. "That surely was a real good hunch," the Travel Man exclaimed. "but don't eat more grapes than' you should."

They all enjoyed the fresh fruit treat and ate, while walking down the street. Soon Carpy said, "What is that woman doing, over there?" The Tinies turned around and saw a woman on the ground. 'She's spinning yarn. Let's watch her," shouted Scouty. "She won't care."

The spinning spindle, made of wood, spun 'round as quickly as it could. The woman's feet were holding it, just so it wouldn't slide. The yarn rolled 'round it very neat. To watch her work was quite a treat. The woman merely smiled, as they all gathered by her side.

(More surprises come in the next story.)

Era Of Sweet Smells Is Forecast By Colegate Professor; Bad Odors Are Offset By Others In New Experiment

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

HAMILTON, N. Y., July 12. (AP)—Early arrival of a new era of sweet smells was forecast today by Dr. Donald A. Laird, head of the department of psychology of Colgate university.

He foresees many of the widespread, disagreeable odors of industry, turned into pleasant aromas through a recently discovered advance in the perfumer's art. By this new method of using perfume to cover up bad smells, the evil odor itself is "put to work."

Produces Sweet Smell

It is given as a companion a minute percentage of some powerful chemical. The new partner, called an industrial aromatic, may be equally evil smelling. But the combination of the two bad odors produces a sweet or a pleasant one.

Industry, says Dr. Laird in a survey issued today, is rapidly taking up the new principle to increase sales of articles which once lacked smell appeal. He quotes a survey of 56 varieties of common smells made by F. Aumueller, a Milwaukee advertising man, to learn how they ranked among customers. The worst was perspiration, garlic second, rubber third and kerosene fourth.

Smell Disguised

Both rubber and kerosene, said Dr. Laird, now are coming upon the market in guises that no nose would recognize. He told of sprays whose effectiveness depends mainly upon kerosene, and which he said are widely used in homes which would not tolerate them until kerosene's odor was "put to work" at making perfume of itself. Rubber's odor is likewise used as the basis of new aromas, said Dr. Laird, but that he is not at liberty to name any of the new disguises.

He credited Dr. Eric C. Kunz of Montclair, N. J. with leadership in the research establishing the methods of getting rid of smells. Kunz found four aromatics which would combine with a linseed oil odor in some artificial leathers so as to produce a pleasant effect.

The same principal Dr. Laird said can be used to change disagreeable odors in rooms or auditoriums into quite a variety of agreeable scents. "New-mown hay" is one of the results. But the art has not developed to the point where it can be applied economically to open air odors of the "gas house" type.

Rate Changes To Aid Earnings Of Rail Companies

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 12. — Net earnings of railroads operating in the Northeastern quarter of the United States will be increased approximately $40,000,000 per annum as a result of the new classified freight schedules approved yesterday by the Interstate Commerce commission.

This was the opinion today of rate experts after 24 hours of study of the lengthy decision and its details. Officially, the commerce commission withheld any statement on the subject, but individual members confirmed the estimate as conforming entirely to their expectations.

Effective August or November

The new schedules will become effective on August, or November 1, under arrangements promulgated.

Though difficulty of determining the altered earnings from a new rate system is ordinarily very great during its consideration of the various proposals for revision of classified rates, the commission obtained extensive calculations from all eastern carriers as to the effect on revenues of proposals before it.

The sum of these calculations ran to approximately $60,000,000 annual increase in net earnings. It is the opinion of commerce commission members that the actual basis adopted was somewhat lower than that which produced the $60,000,000 estimate but that the orders promulgated will produce $40,000,000 of earnings increase.

REWARD IS POSTED

Renewed Activities Call For Enforcement

TAHOKA, July 12 (Special)—Renewed activities of chicken thieves in Lynn county during the past few weeks have caused Sheriff S. W. Sanford to post a $25 reward for the apprehension of any and all such thieves who are later convicted. The latest to lose chickens are Loyd Rice and W. C. Cowan. The sheriff's force is making a special effort to stop petty stealing.

Arrests From Pro Violation Show Increase

Treasury's Report Reveals 68,186 Persons Arrested And 24,373 Stills Seized During Fiscal Year

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 12. — Prohibition enforcement during the last fiscal year of its operation under the treasury resulted in the arrest of 68,186 persons and seizure of 24,373 stills.

The arrests showed an increase of approximately 2,000 over the 1929 fiscal year and of approximately 7,000 in the number of stills seized. The figures included the number of arrests and seizures for 11 months of the year and estimated arrests and seizures for June.

These statistics were prepared by the old prohibition bureau which operated under prohibition Commissioner Doran until the department of justice took over prohibition enforcement on July 1 and showed that about 1,320,000 gallons of spirits and 8,000,000 gallons of malt liquor had been seized. In addition agents of the bureau seized 8,778 automobiles.

Mostly In South

During the year the majority of stills were captured in the southern states. About 50 per cent had a capacity of less than 100 gallons daily while five per cent had a capacity of 500 gallons a day. Of the total the figures showed only about two per cent were found to be operating on denatured alcohol while the others used corn, corn meal, corn sugar, molasses and cane sugar to produce liquor.

Many stills captured in the south were of the old moonshine variety which were operating before there was a prohibition law.

Corn sugar stills during the last few years have shown an increase. Doran recently said this variety of illicit distillers had turned to corn sugar and were producing as good a grade of alcohol as that turned out in the industrial plants operating under permits. At that time he pointed to the huge increase in manufacture of corn sugar as one of the outstanding menaces which the bureau had to face.

PLAINVIEW MAN POPULAR

PLAINVIEW, July 12. (Special) — Peg Moreland, radio artist, often heard by South Plains radio fans over WFAA, Dallas, is a former Plainview boy and was raised here. His mother was one of the early day grocery store owners. Peg left for a training camp at the beginning of the war and in an accident lost a leg. He also makes records for Columbia besides singing over the radio.

France Makes Sincere Move With Italians

Optimistic Work of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand Serves to Lessen Nervousness in French Circles

PARIS, July 12. (AP)—That France has made another sincere bid for friendly negotiations with Italy today was the opinion oftenest heard expressed in league of nations circles in Paris.

The optimistic word of foreign Minister Briand, the man who generally is hailed as an apostle of peace, has served to lessen the nervousness which has been apparent in international diplomatic centers as a result of discussions in both Italy and France on the disarmament situation.

France Calm

Paris morning newspapers today gave prominence to one extract of M. Briand's summary of foreign relations, in which he said, "I wish to prove by the attitude of France that the peace atmosphere cannot be troubled. France remains prefectly calm, thus indicating her force and her will for peace. The essential thing is to dovetail our foreign policies into our national secudity.

"We must depend especially upon ourselves for our defense. I have never neglected national defense but I have devoted myself to demonstrating to the world France's good will. I am happy to note today that the world fully recognizes France's desire for peace."

To Meet Approval

Whatever measures France now may be adopting to increase her frontier security undoubtedly will meet with the approval of the masses of French people, whose leaders are insisting that there be no letup in necessary armaments.

Henry Berenger, former French ambassador to the United States issued an article today for publication in many provincial newspapers which he entitles, "first of all, let us have security." He demands a policy of firmness toward both Italy and Germany. He says he is troubled over Italy's attitude for one reason—because Italy is encouraging those nations which were vanquished in the World War.

ROME, July 12. (AP)—Doubt was expressed in some circles today that France, in announcing that no new naval vessels would be begun within the next six months, has gone far enough to match Italian offers of indefinite suspension of the 1930 building program.

The French move, announced by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand before the fireign relations committee of the chamber of deputies, was regarded generally as insufficient answer to Foreign Minister Grandi's more sweeping proposals.

Need Suspension

It was commented that the six months suspension of commencement of new activity would improve Franco-Italian relations, but would hardly solve their naval difficulties, particularly the Italian contention for parity.

Some quarters considered M. Briand's move a gesture of good will and as possible clearing the way for resumption of Italy-French discussion as to naval ratios.

Fort Worth Child Takes Poison Pill

FORT WORTH, July 12. (AP)—Little Donald Wallace Van Landingham, 19, months, played for seven hours around the house at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Van Landingham, before they realized the child had taken a fatal poison late Thursday.

At 11 p. m. the baby became seriously ill, and the mother recalled then that at 4 p. m. the child had put something in his mouth. At 1 a. m. Friday he died in a hospital.

While Mrs. Landingham was in another room, Donald Wallace dragged a chair over to a dresser. He pulled open a top drawer, where lay a box of pills containing the poison which the father had been taking. Later, it was found that two or three pills were gone.

In a few minutes, the mother noted the child had something in his mouth. Believing it was harmless substance, she removed it from the child's mouth. Nothing more was thought of the incident, until Donald became seriously ill.

Spiritualist Church In Dallas Will Attempt To Communicate Today With Sir Arthur Coman Doyle In Service

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, July 12.—Believing that spiritual contact with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes and one of the world's most interested spiritualists until his death a few days ago, will not be difficult because of his understanding of spiritual laws, members of the Research Spiritualist church here will attempt to communicate with his spirit at memorial services Sunday.

Mrs. Florence Erickson, pastor of the church, who knew Sir Arthur as a result of visits in England and later was with him in Kansas City when he toured this country, said today that her efforts to come in contact with his spirit thus far had not been successful. She said she would continue to "go into the silences" every night for some time, in order to heach his spirit.

No material manifestation would be expected to take place in Dallas, Mrs. Erickson said, although this might come about elsewhere. The contact expected to take place here, she said, would be merely conversation through psychic clairvoyance.

Discourtesy Of Secretary Costs

SYDNEY, Australia, July 12. (AP)—Because a secretary was discourteous a charitable institution here reported to have lost $50,000.

Charles McNess, Western Australian millionaire and philanthropist, walked into the institution and asked to see the governor "on private business."

"If you can't state your business, you can't go in," replied a secretary tartly.

"Well," said McNess, "if that's the way you treat poor people, I might as well tear this up."

He tore up a check for $50,000 and gave the secretary the fragments.

Divided Opinion Prevails Among Officers in Death of Candidate for District Attorney at Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, July 12. (AP) — County Attorney R. T. Burns and Special Ranger Homer T. Glover planned today to continue their investigation of the death of Earl R. Swanger, 37, candidate for district attorney of the Twelfth Judicial district, whose body was found in a wrecked automobile at Harmon Creek early Wednesday.

A divided opinion prevailed last night among law enforcement officers.

Statement Made

Dram R. J. Martin, Walker county health officer, made a written statement in which he said the body was Swanger, bore three stab wounds inflicted by "some sharp instrument," which could have caused his death.

Sheriff N. L. Spear after questioning a Trinity woman who was known to have left Huntsville Tuesday night with Swanger, reported to District Attorney A. R. McKinney, Jr., that in his opinion the death was accidental, and a corresponding verdict was returned by Justice R. J. Camp.

The latter, however, declared late night that he was not satisfied with the evidence and would reopen the case if other data was presented.
