Will Rogers and Rotary
Sloan Field's Changing
Stanton-Rankin Play-
Off

By R. C. Hankins

Midland is somewhat agog at the appearance in San Angelo of Will Rogers, "self-appointed ambassador," and the Rotary club has written for information of the noted humorist's plans while in this part of the state. It is hoped he can be induced to come to Midland for a night.

When it comes to educating the public on daily issues, Rogers stands apart. Working under the assumption that people had rather read something light and funny, he conveys essential news of happenings over the world in such an entertaining style that thousands who would not read of those incidents otherwise get some conception of what's what in the world.

The real thing of note in this announcement is not the possibility of Will Rogers coming to Midland, however; the value lies in the fact that Midland's service clubs are always watching for some way of helping their town. The Rotarians are gathering old clothes for dispensing to the poor. The Lions are engaged in treating eyes, mouths and throats of school children. This latter organization is also sponsoring the appearance here of the S. M. U. band, the proceeds from the concert of which will go into the high school band uniform fund.

The Little Theatre, by its appearance in Odessa last night, did its part in the maintaining community relations between the two towns. A large audience saw "The Whole Town's Talking," and was exceptionally responsive to every mood "put over" the footlights.

Paster communication with the outside world has been provided for at Sloan field, the airport. A type-writer arrangement, fitted with wires, sends a message to some interested flyer's destination airport in a fraction of the time required last week.

The airport is not only interested in getting fast wire communication. Volume of airport traffic has long engrossed the attention of the field manager and Harvey Sloan. Sloan has been in San Antonio during the week, getting the official stamp of approval on an administration building plan. The building is expected to start immediately. Then there are the radio towers, radio and meteorological stations, and the barracks and hangar to be put in. These have been assured.

Deer season starts Saturday. Midland hunters will watch all announcements of the local paper Sunday, trying to find out who got the first buck. This is sure-fire interest that never fails to get Nimrod together around the hot stoves in convenient sportings goods stores.

The American Legion is expected to announce a drive for membership any day this week. The local post has established in the past an enviable record for alignment with requests of the state commander, and will probably put over the drive this year in the same way.

It seems quite likely that Stanton is assured Place 1 in this interscholastic football district, and will play either Marfa, Rankin or Ft. Stockton for the bi-district honor. It is understood that Rankin, a team seen here this season, is one-half game ahead of the two other teams, and that the boys from the county from the south stand a fair chance of beating Stanton. That is paper talk, of course, but fans of this section may as well begin to ask for the game here. Midland has the best park in this area, has a citizenship well noted for fair-mindedness, and is distinctly as much a neutral place as could be found. The game would attract many people from the oil field sectors.

WEATHER IN MIDLAND IS UNSETTLED

Section Southeast Of Here Reports Heavy Snowfall

Cloudy and colder weather which prevailed in the Midland area today had turned into a light snow shortly after noon, the flakes melting at first but later forming a light blanket.

Midland people driving to Big Spring this morning reported that it was necessary to stop their cars on account of moisture freezing on windshields of their cars, and considerable snow fell along the road. Some sections of West Texas, according to United Press reports, were blanketed in snow today.

Heavier Southeast

At Abilene, the snow was light, but it was described as moderate at Rotan and heavy at Winters.

Bellinger and San Angelo reported heavy downfalls of snow. Partly cloudy weather tonight with Saturday fair, is the forecast in the report of the Associated Press.

Cattle Are Strong

The present weather conditions are not regarded by stockmen as severe, because of the fact that cattle are in good flesh and weeds and grass are plentiful. Comparatively little feeding will be necessary in the Midland cattle area, according to present prospects.

Although the bulk of the cotton crop is picked in Midland county, the gathering of the last part will be slowed up by wet weather, snow or a freeze at this time.

Maximum temperature here yesterday was 48 degrees, the minimum during the night being 26.

AFFILIATION OF TRAFFIC BODY IS DENIED BY KIRBY

HOUSTON, Nov. 15.—(P)—John Kirby, Houston capitalist, in a statement here today denied vehemently what he described as a charge that the southern tariff association is affiliated with the Republican party and favors election of negroes to congress.

"If the views on tariff of the Caraway committee at Washington become effective, it will mean bread lines and soup houses in the industrial centers and poverty distress in the country homes," he said.

Such affiliation was charge at the hearing before the lobby committee headed by Senator Caraway.

NELSON IS TRANSFERRED

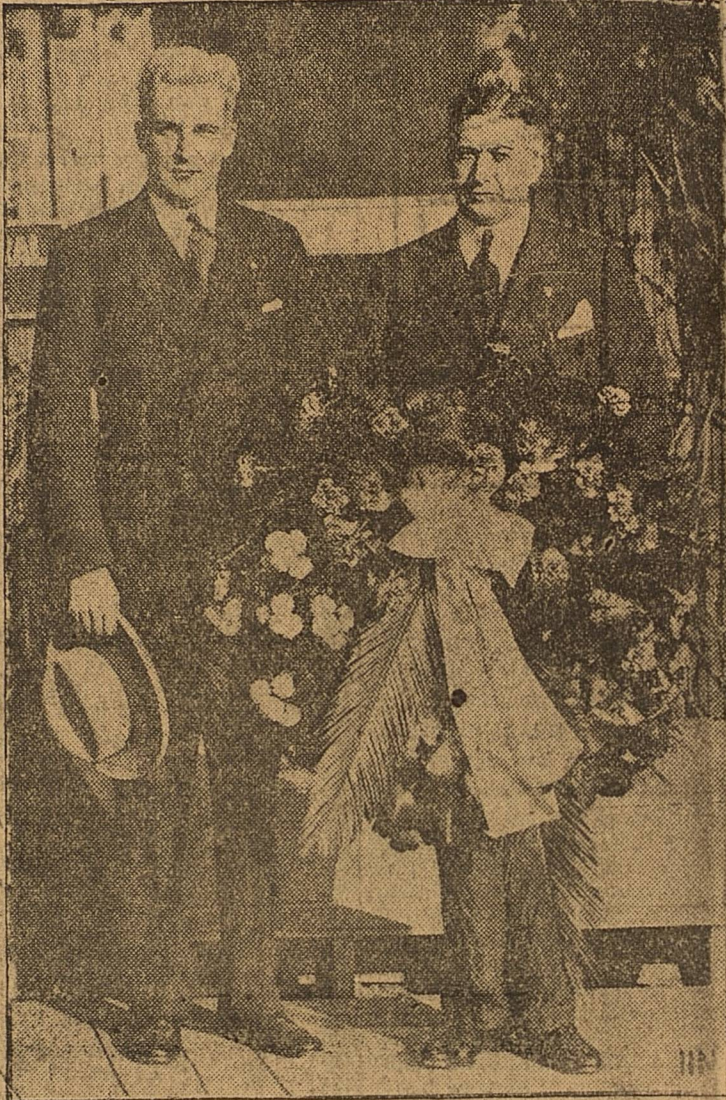

E. L. Nelson, traffic representative of S. A. T. passenger airline in this territory, has been transferred from El Paso to Fort Worth, it was announced Thursday by the general offices in Fort Worth.

Nelson, well known in Midland, has been connected with the airline for the past six months, having formerly been with an oil firm in Fort Worth.

Sets Record In Transportation

M. M. Seymour, manager of Barrow Furniture Company, uses all modern means of conveyance when he makes a trip. He left Midland November 12 in the trimmored plane piloted by Reg Robbins, took an Interurban car from Fort Worth to Dallas, caught a taxi out to a wholesale house, rode back to town on a street car, took the Interurban again to Fort Worth, caught a train to Abilene, "bummed" a ride in a friend's automobile to Midland, and then walked out to his home in west end.

FARM ADVERTISING TRIP IS PRONOUNCED A HUGE SUCCESS

Ira F. Lord returned late Thursday from the second 10-day farm advertising trip as a representative of the chamber of commerce.

"The results of the second trip were better than the first, and I am glad the two trips were made separately," Lord said; "the publicity from the first trip served as an announcement of the second, and it made people easier to approach."

State wide attention was drawn to the demonstration trip, in which Lord talked to people interested in moving to West Texas to buy or rent farms. An Oklahoma City newspaper even carried a story about the trip. Lord had met a man at Fort Worth who was interested in the project, and he took a quantity of the Midland farm literature to Oklahoma and distributed it in a territory where only Indians own land, and where white farmers are all renters, many of them having substantial sums of cash.

Publicity was received in the newspapers of practically every town the Midland man visited, and one story in the Sunday issue of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, with a picture of Lord and the car bearing the Midland signs accompanying, serving as an introduction to the other places he visited.

The Midland man found east Texans already sold on West Texas as a farming country, and many of them are ready to come here as soon as they can dispose of property or wind up business here.

The trip this time carried Lord to Rockwall county, then south to Terrell where he spent some time meeting farmers interested in West Texas; then to Willis Point, Mineola and intermediate towns, then to Tyler, Athens, Kaufman, Dallas and Fort Worth and along T. & P. towns. Excessive rains made it necessary for the Midland man to follow routes where there were good roads, but he made a circle which carried him to communities of farmers who were enthusiastic over hearing more about Midland and this section of West Texas.

Lord said he circled the territory around the new oil field in Van Zandt county. "Those people have gone crazy over one oil well," he said.

Information gained as to the requirements of farmers who seek to move here will be given in a subsequent interview wherein Lord will put it squarely up to land owners here to assist in locating additional substantial farmers.

Texas Girl Is Holdup Victim

BUFFALO, Nov. 15.—(P)—A reward of $35,000 if taken alive, and $70,000 if dead, was offered today for the seven men who, armed and masked, raided a suburban home last night during a prenuptial party in honor of a Texas girl and her fiancé.

Lining the 18 guests and a half dozen servants against the wall, the robbers stripped them of jewelry valued by the guests at $400,000.

Miss Eleanor Cameron of Waco and Courtland Van Cliff, her fiancé, were the honor guests.

VARSITY STUDE TELLS MURDER STORY TODAY

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—(P)—Frank Graham Jr., University student and radio salesman, reported to have accompanied Lehlia Highsmith on the night she was stabbed, is expected to give his version of the killing today to the Travis County grand jury which is investigating the charge of murder filed against John Brady, prominent jurist.

Although the jury investigation is expected to be completed today, no report is likely before next week, after 21 other bills are considered.

Midland Data To Secry. Wordsworth

A brief, various explanatory maps and other data sent out by the Midland chamber of commerce to Washington as an aid in getting attention to Midland as the logical point, from physical location and features, at which a proposed McAdoo airline would land airmail and air passenger ships as a control point, have been placed on the desk of E. B. Wordsworth, superintendent of the airmail service and secretary of the interdepartmental committee on airways, according to a letter from Harry H. Blee, director of the aeronautical division of the service, Washington.

RED CROSS DRIVE COMMITTEES TO REPORT SATURDAY

Committees for the Red Cross Roll call which begins here Saturday morning are asked to call or see Elliott H. Barron, chairman of the drive, for assignments to booths.

Members of the committees appointed by Mrs. J. A. Haley, county chairman, are by Mrs. George Abell, Mrs. Jack Hazeltine, Miss Thelma White, Miss Cordella Taylor, Miss Lotta Williams, Mrs. O. B. Holt, Jr., Mrs. R. W. Patterson, Mrs. J. F. Hornbeck, Mrs. D. J. Finley, Miss Ruth Blakeney, Mrs. Clifford Hill and Miss Ruth Norwood.

BOMB EXPLODES UNDER HOME OF POLITICIAN

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(UP)—A bomb wrecked the home of James W. Breen, republican politician and advisor of Mayor William Hale today throwing Breen and his wife from their beds.

It was unable to determine the motive unless it was to get revenge against Breen for the campaign he has been conducting against suspected gambling resorts. The damage was estimated at $5,000.

SHERMAN GETS PRESBYTERIAN BIG COLLEGE

AUSTIN, Nov. 15.—(P)—Sherman, site of Austin College, won the new consolidated Presbyterian college authorized by the Texas Synod of the southern Presbyterian church last winter, at a meeting last night of the commission appointed to pick the location.

The new college replaces Austin College, Daniel Baker College at Brownwood, and the Texas Presbyterian College at Milford.

Will Aid Midland In Airmail Plea

When Midland is represented at the Nov. 25 airmail conference before the interdepartmental committee of airways in Washington, a great deal of assistance may be secured from Tucson when the matter of petitioning for the proposed airmail route over the Southern Transcontinental route to be laid through Midland comes up, it was learned at the chamber of commerce.

Frank C. Hitchcock, former postmaster general, will be a representative of the Tucson chamber of commerce, and the Midland body has sent him data on the Washington conference to be held prior to the hearing.

Hitchcock is known to be a friend to Midland, Frank Gardner, Midland oil man, having at one time been his secretary. Gardner has interceded with Hitchcock in Midland's behalf.

Petit Jurors Are Announced Today

When district court open Monday there will be one of the heaviest divorce dockets ever to be tried in Midland county. Two murder cases are to come up, also, that of Phil W. Robinson and Jose Hinojos.

The following petit jurors have been summoned for court Nov. 18, according to Sheriff Audley Francis:

P. J. Mims, R. J. Moore, Earl Morra, Thomas McGuire, Ray McGee, Tom Nance, H. J. Neblett, J. O. Nobles, B. E. O'Neal, S. B. Owens, Herbert Patterson, E. B. Patterson, J. L. High School Girl, First Plane Suicide

An exit from life as spectacular as it was certain was chosen by Ruth Rockwell, at Valley Stream, L. I., when with a prayer on her lips, she jumped from a plane 3,000 feet in the air. Miss Rockwell is a high-school graduate who lived with her brother at Crestwood, N. J.

Local News Briefs

MAY BE POSTMASTER

Dale Roberts, nephew of J. C. Roberts and cousin of Miss Johnnie Roberts of Midland, will probably be appointed postmaster of Hobbs, N. M., according to the Hobbs News, new weekly sheet published there for the first time this week. Roberts has been recommended for the position, and has made all preparations for postal fixtures to be installed immediately upon his appointment. All steel fixtures of the latest approved type have been purchased.

TRASH FIRE REPORTED

The fire department made a short run at noon, when a trash fire behind The Reporter-Telegram caught fire. The blaze was extinguished before the truck arrived, however, a plumber's assistant on the Hotel Scharbauer addition job coming to assistance of the composing room crew and fitting up a hose line with which to fight the fire.

URNS CAR OVER

Paul Osborne, Little Theatre member who had a role in the latest presentation of that group, turned his car over enroute to Odessa, where "The Whole Town's Talking," comedy, was given Thursday night, escaped without hurt when his car turned over on the Carlsbad road.

TERRACING SCHOOL HERE

A practical course in terracing will be given in Midland county Saturday, Nov. 23, when M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer of the extension department of Texas A. & M. college, Dad Short, soil conservation agent for the federal land bank, Houston, and County Agent Frank Wendt join forces. It has not definitely been decided where the demonstrations will be held, but this is to be decided the first of next week. Only two Midland farmers have terraced their land, Pat Bodine, who lives one mile from country club, and J. A. Jesse, whose farm is five miles east of Midland. A family of Bowman farmers who live six miles south of Midland have contoured their land. Reports say each has added to the productivity of his soil by conserving water supply.

Secretary Good Improving Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(UP)—Secretary of war James W. Good who is in a critical condition following an operation for acute appendicitis, spent a restful night. Physicians today considered his chances for recovery improved.

"INFORMERS" LAID OFF

BUS LINE HERE IS ABSORBED BY PICKWICK LINES

Absorption through purchase of the Pageway stage line, which operates from Big Spring to Pecos, by the Southland Greyhound Lines, Inc., a division of Pickwick, was announced Thursday afternoon by a representative of the Pickwick lines.

Two months ago, the same line bought the West Texas Coach's line. Carl Covington, in charge of the bus terminal in Midland, said no change had yet been announced for the line, with the exception of maintenance of only one division point between Fort Worth and El Paso, that of Big Spring.

Taking over of the line will be done the first of December or of the new year, Covington stated.

Alabama Rivers Threaten Floods

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 15.—(UP)—Rivers in Alabama threatened today to duplicate the havoc wrought by the disastrous Elba flood. Constant rains are swelling them in increasing proportions. Persons living in the lowlands have been warned to flee.

U. S. TIRE FLEET HERE

The "Million Mile Test Fleet" of the U. S. Tire and Rubber Co. arrived in Midland at one o'clock this afternoon, stopped for a short time at the local dealer, Vance & Cox, paraded the streets and departed for the west, to stop at Phoenix, Arizona, for winter quarters.

Skyscraper Lost In Midland, Man Says

That Midland has a skyscraper and is entitled to recognition for it was the basis of correspondence resulting in a letter of apology from the Texas Public Service Information Bureau of Dallas this week.

State papers published a list of Texas skyscrapers, classified as buildings with ten or more stories, and failed to credit Midland with the 12-story Petroleum building.

Aubrey S. Legg and the publicity committee of the chamber of commerce wrote Dallas about the matter and received from William S. Edwards, director of the information service, a letter which explained that the "unusual growth of your section of the state accounted for the omission, it being extremely hard to keep up with all your development."

A correction will be run, the letter added.

WILL ASK POSITION ON ROUTE

Good Argument For A Place On McAdoo Airline

Midland will be represented in the air mail hearing to be held at Washington, Nov. 25.

An interdepartmental committee from the Postoffice Department, Department of Commerce and representing the various war branches of the Government will hold a hearing a week from next Monday to gather data on the establishment of a proposed southern transcontinental mail route.

Midland will join with other towns on the northern route through Texas in pleading for the establishment of a mail route via Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and thence west. The Midland Chamber voted to send the president of propose a conference prior to the hearing to map a concerted course of action in making the plea before the committee.

Directors of the Midland Chamber voted to send the president of the organization to Washington to take part in the hearing and voted to send the secretary if the president would be unable to attend. Due to the illness of his wife, death of his brother-in-law in Chicago and his personal business affairs, the president will be unable to attend.

Two May Go

T. S. Hogan, who has a wide political acquaintance with influential Congressmen and Senators at Washington, volunteered to assist the Midland representative, providing he is in Washington or New York on his own personal business. Some towns are sending two representatives, but directors believe that one man can do as much work as two or more, as only one will be heard. Midland tried to handle her part of the hearing by correspondence, but Assistant Postmaster General Irvin S. Glover, head of the committee, indicated it would be better to have a representative present, and William Gibbs McAdoo, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, and Frank Gardner, oil man of Midland, and former private secretary to former Postmaster General Hitchcock, said it would be very dangerous to Midland's interests not to be represented in person.

A voluminous collection of data will be taken to Washington by the Midland representative. The Midland Chamber is preparing a brief in addition to a collection of informative data to be submitted. The Chamber of Commerce has been aided through its aeronautics committee head, Kenneth E. Ambrose, by Harvey Sloan, manager of Sloan Field and by Mr. Gardner, who through personal connections has been of much assistance to Midland. A conference in line with that (Continued on Page 6)

ADVERTISING THE CITY

Several West Texas cities, according to the Sweetwater Reporter, have been wrought up over the large billboards installed at the entrances to West Texas cities advertising San Angelo's water supply. The protests are based on the allegation that the advertising infers that no other West Texas city has such a water supply.

The Abilene News says "curiously enough, these billboards made their appearance simultaneously with an acute water shortage at Sweetwater, Ballinger, Brownwood and other West Texas cities—including, believe it or not, San Angelo."

Midland, with its abundant supply of water, enough to take care of a city of 50,000 without drilling another well in the Cloverdale "draw" where there is believed to be an underground stream, feels no resentment to the San Angelo billboards. If the advertising is good for San Angelo, that city is to be congratulated upon the effective method of laying its advantages before the touring public. If there is anything in the wording of the advertising which throws a blot upon other West Texas cities, it is San Angelo who will be hurt.

More cities should follow San Angelo's example and spend some money for advertising its advantages.

Dallas, Corpus Christi, El Paso and others have large advertising funds, and all of them are reaping benefits.

THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Beginning tomorrow, Midland people will be invited to share in the nation-wide relief work of the American National Red Cross.

Once each year, the roll call for funds is made, and Midland has always contributed its quota.

When calamities fall on cities anywhere in America, emergency relief is necessary, and it is the Red Cross whose quick work saves lives, prevents the spread of disease, and takes care of thousands of homeless people.

Your dollars contributed to Red Cross work will pay dividends in the relief of suffering.

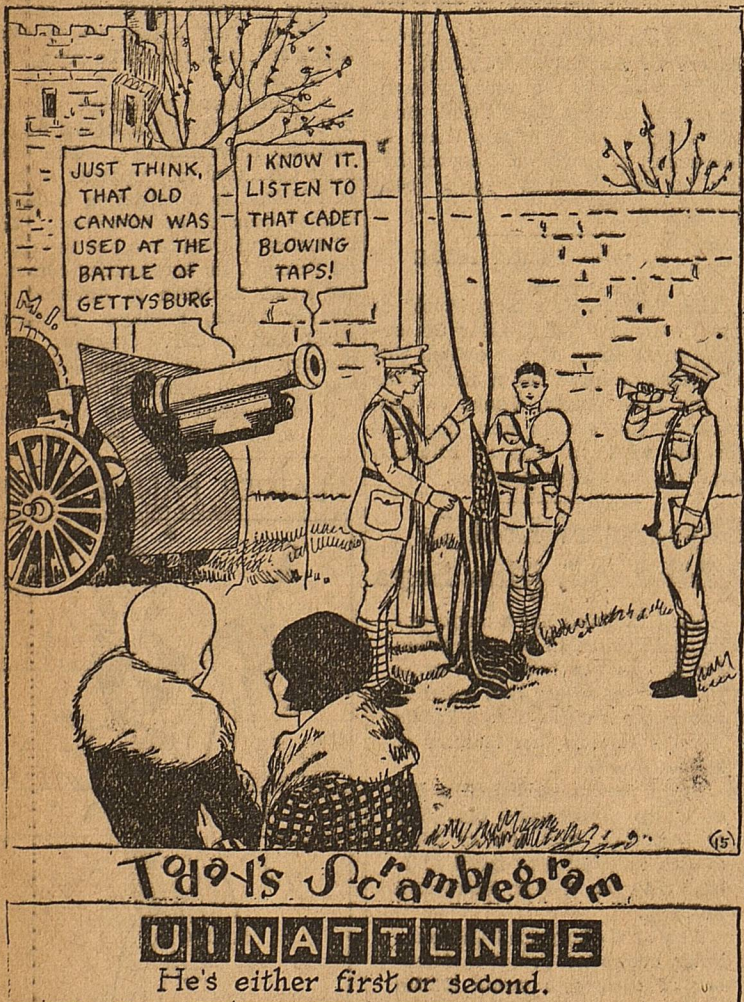

A WARNING TO EX-SOLDIERS

World War veterans who have not yet filed application for the adjusted compensation made available to them by Congress are warned by the Veterans of Foreign Wars that the first day of next year is the deadline for such applications.

Twice before Congress has extended the time limit. This time, however, the V. F. W. believes it unlikely that such action will be taken. The veteran who fails to apply before January 1 is out of luck.

More than 1,000,000 ex-service men have failed to apply for their adjusted compensation certificates. The value of the average certificate is $1000, and provides the veteran with a 20-year paid-up endowment insurance policy. Veterans who have not yet taken advantage of this offer should remember—only a few more weeks are available.

Ever Faithful!

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON.—Either this is the funniest place in the world or else things that have been going on here are all very sad and ought to be deplored by right-thinking citizens. No doubt some of our noblest American institutions would be undermined if a certain proportion of the voters did not always insist on taking Washington seriously.

To some of us who have not lived here too long it's a question whether this ought to be called the national capital of the national bughouse. There is material for a series of 70 or 80 articles on this theme, but your correspondent will try to confine it to one.

The Senatorial Out-Ups. One can pass over such deliberate wit as the spectacle of Senator Norris and his friends picking up musical instruments and pretending to give a concert on the Senate floor, or somebody's bright idea of planting a big green holly on Senator Brookhart's desk and of another senator's trick of putting a cocktail shaker in another senator's desk drawer.

The real laughs here are derived from things funny but not meant to be funny. Last fall we were all being urged to imagine Mrs. Smith in the White House. Yet more absurdities have occurred in the Washington social racket these last few months than were ever noted while the Smiths ruled the executive mansion in Albany. Where else in the world could the question of where Mrs. and Mr. Gann were to sit at dinner have become such a burning national issue, stirring up Congress, the State Department and the White House? Now on top of that unsettled problem has come the Hiram Johnson incident.

The facts, briefly, were: Senator Johnson was conspicuously left off of the list of guests at a White House dinner for Ambassador Dawes to which all other Foreign Relations committeemen were invited. Newspapermen gave the White House plenty of time to correct it by calling attention to the omission but, according to them, a spokesman for the president said: "I don't know anything about it." Other senators, including Borah and La Follette, talked loudly of the supposed snub to Johnson during the dinner. Morning newspaper stories agreed in front-page stories that this was Hoover's naive method of rebuking Johnson for his irregularity.

The whole Senate buzzed. Senator Dave Reed dashed to the White House and urged the need of an explanation. Mr. Hoover wrote Johnson that there had been a mistake. Everyone agreed with that, but a thorough canvas reveals no one who thinks it was accidental. Either the president, realizing his error, established a diplomatic alibi or everyone else in town is crazy. Washington insists on believing the worst.

Then look at Senator Brookhart, who is getting eight-column headlines with his story of the one boozed party he attended in 1926. Everyone knows that whenever two or more politicians get together in Washington something is likely to be poured and there have been a thousand bigger and wetter parties since the one Brookhart attended. The only thing to watch that one is Senator Howell's recent discovery that Washington was wet and President Hoover's challenge of the statement.

The Outspoken Cop

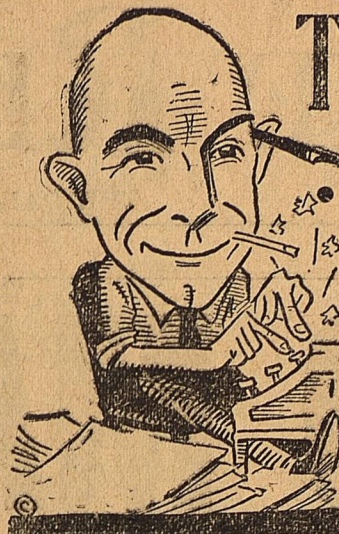

Perhaps you've read of a young cop named Allen here who has stood the whole police force on its head by making it look like a monkey cage. Allen has accused the force of everything that's improper for policemen and his independent investigations have cost several high police officers their jobs. At last Allen has been tried and convicted of insubordination, but he got away with it for months, thanks to friends in Congress.

You remember, of course, how Mr. Hoover's promise that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon would remain in office had such a bullish influence on the stock market that speculators lost many more billions of dollars than would be needed to pay off the national debt. To many persons there was more humor in that than in the spectacle of John D. Rockefeller, at 89, plunging into the market to buy stocks as an investment to take care of him in his old age.

If any Chamber of Commerce thinks it has a funnier town than this, communications will be incredulously received from the executive secretary.

Novel Play Given By Latin Class Feature Of High School Activities

The Latin department of the Midland High School presented a clever one act play entitled, "Off With His Head!" in chapel Thursday morning. It is to be regretted that those residents of Midland, who in years gone by were heard to say, "I hate Latin!" or "I wish I had never seen a Latin Book," were not at the high school yesterday morning to enjoy this unique and laugh provoking play.

Last week the Latin classes were entertained with a treasure hunt. The instructions were written in Latin and the winners were presented lovely gifts of candy. This treasure hunt and the play prove that Latin is not a dead language, hated and despised by those who elect to study it, but that it has been made a living thing under the capable leadership of those who teach this subject in Midland high school.

The object of the play was to impress upon the students the distinctive marks of the four conjugations, the use of the various cases, the importance of verbs of saying, thinking and knowing in introducing indirect discourses and so forth. Each of the five declensions were represented by a young lady who sang her declension in an effort to prove that she should be chosen by the King of Latin to sing at the execution of those who had violated the laws of the land. The most distressing part of the play was when Mr. Sum Esse Fui was condemned to die because he had fallen in love with Miss Accusative. Case. All ended well, however, when Miss Predicate Nominative championed his cause declaring, "I have always cared for Sum and always will, and I don't care who knows it."

The leading part as given by Barney Grafa was especially well played. The cast was as follows: John—A school boy who becomes King—Barney Grafa.

Abilative of Separation—Who Chops off the heads—Whitten Pinnell.

Adjective—Who refuses to agree—Myrtle McGraw.

Margare Conjugation, Margere Conjugation and Margire Conjugation, who are alike but different, played by Mary Belle Pratt, Ida Beth Cowden, Alma Lee Norwood and Helen Margaret Ulmer, respectively.

Mr. Sum, Esse, Fui—Who loves the wrong girl—Leland Murphy. Predicate Nominative—Who saves the situation—Annie Faye Dunagan.

Count Accusative of Extent of Space—Who paces—Knox Irwin.

Mr. Vocabulary—A. B. Cooksey, Jr.

First declension, second declension, third declension, fourth declension and fifth, played by Edith Young, Neil Wayne Carlisle, Ernestine Holder, Billie Suddeth and Olga Trammell.

Mr. Possum, Posse, Putio—Who is always able—Vann Mitchell.

Complementary Infinitive—Who tries to escape—Mervin Haag.

Dative—Who refuses to be claimed—Dorothy Bess Stanley.

Adjectives who claim Miss Dative, Like, Walter Fay Cowden, Unlike, Zonelle Post, Equal, Mildred Shelton, Unequal, Helen Lee Stewart, Near, Pauline Ashmore Dear, Phyllis Haag, Faithful, Norma Holtier, Friendly, Ella M. Newland,

The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in house decorations and appointments, when Miss Lois Patterson was hostess to the Contract Bridge Club in her home on 618 North Big Spring Thursday afternoon.

The bridge began at 10 o'clock in the morning, and at noon the hostess served a lovely three course luncheon on gold and white Picard china.

W. C. T. U. Holds Interesting Meet

The W. C. T. U. had their regular monthly meeting at the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon. The auditorium was beautified with an abundance of chrysanthemums and other fall flowers.

"America The Beautiful," was the opening song, with Mrs. George Ratliff at the piano.

Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy, president, read for the devotional the 58th verse of the 12th chapter of first Corinthians.

"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

This verse was received by wire at the recent W. C. T. U. Convention in Corpus Christi, from the Alabama State Convention which was then in session.

The larger part of yesterday's program was taken up with the report on the recent Texas State convention attended by Mrs. Florence Richardson and Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy.

The national W. C. T. U. will meet in Houston in 1930. All Texas has cause to rejoice in this fact, since, Denver, Colorado, and Rochester, N. Y. put up a strong plea to get the Convention, but were so impressed with the Houston invitation that they withdrew their invitation.

"Why Hold the Prize Essay Contest?" was ably answered by Mrs. J. E. Evans. Mrs. Evans stated that the first W. C. T. U. society she belonged to was the Loyal Temperance Legion, which is the children's branch of the W. C. T. U.

Plans for holding the contest were made and a committee appointed to present the work to the school authorities. This committee is composed of Miss Quinnie Cordill, Mrs. George Ratliff and Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy. A discussion was also held on the carrying out of the plans of the National W. C. T. U. in distributing 12,000,000 leaflets setting forth the benefits of prohibition.

Special guests were Mrs. J. E. Stephens and Mrs. Bertha McMasters, who is a member of the Ft. Worth W. C. T. U. and a prominent state worker in the Christian Church. Mrs. McMasters made two addresses in Midland recently.

The Union was pleased to have Mrs. Nannie Staton present. Mrs. Staton is one of the most enthusiastic members, and her aunt, Miss Helen Stoddard, was for sixteen years president of the Texas W. C. T. U. and for a time president of that organization in California. Mrs. Staton named her twins, Frances E. Willard and Neal Dow for these two nationally beloved temperance leaders.

The meeting closed by those present singing "All round the world, the ribbon white is twined," after which the W. C. T. U. benediction was repeated in unison.

Mayfair Club Gives Handkerchief Shower For Member

Mrs. T. C. Mitchell was honored Thursday afternoon at the meeting of the Mayfair Bridge Club by a handkerchief shower. Mrs. Mitchell is soon to move to East Texas to make her home and the Club expressed their regrets at her leaving in this manner.

The Club met at the home of Mrs. E. I. Head, which was beautiful with chrysanthemums in vases placed over the room. Chrysanthemums were found on the score pads, tallies and table covers and the color scheme of pink, yellow, and green was carried out.

High score for club members was held by Mrs. D. E. Carter who received a hand painted mayonnaise bowl. Mrs. John Dublin was high for guests and received a door knocker. Mrs. Jim Schroeder received a novelty prize for cutting high.

Thanksgiving Party For Bien Amigos Club

A Thanksgiving party was given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. M. L. Layton in her home to members of the Bien Amigos Club.

The rooms were decorated with colorful fall flowers, and all appointments carried out the Thanksgiving scheme.

In the bridge games, Mrs. Joe D. Chambers received high score prize, and Mrs. Fred Chapman was second high. Cut prize was taken by Mrs. D. M. Ellis.

After the awarding of the gifts, a tasty party plate was served to Mesdames C. D. Hodges, B. F. Taylor, C. B. Goodman, Jess Berry, Joe D. Chambers, Fred Chapman and D. M. Ellis.

THE DANCE OF LIFE HEADLINER AT RITZ

The Dance of Life, Paramount's new all talking, singing and dancing feature opens Sunday at the Ritz. The lead is taken by charming, vivacious Nancy Carroll, and the leading critics of the country herald her acting in this production as the best she has given to date. The story deals with the interesting story of the stage, and is lavish with beautiful scenery, and clever prologue. The theme song, "True Blue Lou," has a beautiful haunting melody that will never be forgotten.

Notable among the coming attractions of the local theatre, are such pictures as, Will Roger's starring vehicle "They Had To See Paris," and "Showboat." But a real treat is in store for theatre fans Sunday when "The Dance of Life" opens.

According to Mr. Williams, local manager of the Ritz Theatre, who has just returned from Dallas, all the coming attractions at the Ritz are new releases. Bookings include First National, Warner Bros., Fox, and Paramount productions. Four major film companies are represented in this list.

went into places like that!"

Mrs. BEARDSLEY had just returned from the city and she was telling her friend, Mrs. Stanley, all about her visit.

"...and I saw him through the window. He was all alone at a table in the main dining room of the very best hotel. I was so surprised—you know, from seeing your husband washing his own car and cutting the grass himself and all those things. I didn't think he was at all extravagant."

"Sure, I go in there once in a while when I'm in the city," Mr. Stanley told his wife that evening. "It's not for the food. It's for the coffee. That coffee is worth the price of a meal there by itself. You know, dear, I simply must have good coffee once in a while and ... well, I didn't like to hurt your feelings by mentioning it."

"That coffee, madam," the waiter told Mrs. Stanley the next time she accompanied her husband, "is White Swan Coffee. This hotel has used it for years."

Wives who are coffee-wise know that the appetizing aroma and satisfying flavor of White Swan Coffee served at home makes everyone wish that every meal could be eaten there.

PROBABLE RESULT OF FOLLOWING BURKE'S PLAN

By BERTHA BARROW

Sir Edmund Burke said that there were only three ways of handling the colonists in America. One was to change the spirit of the colonists and make them want to be subdued. The second was to treat the American leaders as criminals. The third was to accept the American view and treat the colonists as equal partners with England. The third suggestion was the one Burke wanted to follow. To give the colonists equal rights did not suit George III, because he thought the Americans would have too much liberty. The king thought that the American opinion was absurd and their resistance unreasonable.

The Americans had objected to the Stamp Act, Townsend Act, and other laws that Parliament was imposing upon them without their consent, or even representation as they looked at the question. George III wanted to send more troops to the colonies to crush the "rebels." Every act took the contest out of the realm of reason and made matters worse. If Burke's plan had been adopted, America might still be a subject of England. It would probably have never been a free and independent country with a government as it has today.

The capitol might have been in America, if it has been according to the population of the countries. Maybe the capitol would have been located near the Great Lakes.

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE NOT ACT OF ONE MAN

By GEORGE McMULLAN

American independence was not an act of sudden passion nor the work of one man or one assembly. The colonies had long thought about the great step which they were taking. At first they did not think of independence at all but of reconciliation with England. They did not want war. That is clearly understood, because they tried to avoid war. They tried to prove to England that she was wrong, but England did not hear. She did not want to hear.

The answer to all of the pleas of the colonies was forced on the British side. America decided that she also could reply with force. When war, itself, was folding around the colonies, they attempted to make England see the American view. When England refused to see, the Americans were drawn into the path that led to separation from England.

What the Bulldogs Think About The Game Armistice Day

Cy Foster: We sure surprised Pecos. They were expecting to beat us easy. All the boys played a jam-up good game. Pecos will give us a tough battle Thanksgiving Day. Burris: Most of the people watched the ball instead of the interference and the good blocking. The line sure played a good game, both on defense and offense.

Parker: The good work of the line gave the backfield a chance to show what they could do. The line sure did their part.

Red: The backfield did some broken-field running that Midland had never expected to see.

Curly Cowden: Everybody played a very good game. Ham Pinnell: I think it was a very clean game.

G. B.: Everybody played a good game; hope to win from now on. James White: Everybody played a good game, and we are going to win every game.

Bull McCall: Sorry Parker was out, because he could have made a better job of that left end than I did.

Irwin: The "Cotton Pickers" did their best, and hope to do even better in the future.

Fleenor: Fine game. Everybody played hard.

Dave Allen: Best team we've met since we played Lamesa.

Arnett: A hard fought game, but Midland could not be stopped.

Midkiff: I thought it was a fine game for both teams fought hard, but Midland was the better team.

Long: I think it was the best game we have played this season. Every man played his best, and that is what it takes to win a football game.

What Would Have Happened If Parliament Had Accepted Burke's Plan of Conciliation

By MARGUERITE BIVENS

The house was full, and to the speaker, it seemed fuller than usual. The white wigs seemed as if they were thunder heads around some great mountain. The speaker, of course, was Edmund Burke; the speech, as you have already guessed, was his. "Speech on Conciliation," and the audience, which is inevitable, was Parliament.

After so long a time, Burke presented his plan of conciliation. "One has to remove the cause of trouble by changing the spirit of the colonists—an utter impossibility because that spirit is grounded in the very facts of American life. The second is to treat American leaders as criminals, but continued Burke, "we must beware lest they say, 'A government against which a claim of liberty is tantamount to high treason is a government to which submission is equivalent to slavery.' Burke paused for breath. "The third and right way to meet the problem," Burke concluded, "is to accept the American view, repeal the objectionable acts of Parliament, and treat the colonies as equal partners with England."

George III's face looked like anger personified, and the majority of Parliament followed suit. They thought that the American viewpoint was absurd, and American resistance unlawful, riotous, and treasonable.

Had they thought as Burke did, I, for one, believe we would still be subjects of England.

Parliament would have repealed the Stamp Act, the Sugar Act, the Five Intolerable Acts, etc. The Americans would have been pacified and therefore no Revolution. No revolution; no independence. Therefore we would still be subjects of England.

THE PECOS PSALM

The Bulldogs are our masters; we shall not live in peace.

They maketh us to live in hospitals for weeks.

They leaveth us with black eyes. They restoreth a string of doctor bills before us.

Yea, though we walk through the streets of Pecos with shame and disgrace, we will fear no evil, for they are not with us.

Thy helmet and suit try to comfort us.

We prepareth a big battle before us in the presence of our enemies. They anointeth our heads with bumps.

Our weary runs are not over. Surely, if these bulldogs follow us all the days of our life, we shall dwell in the hospital forever.

THEY SAY THAT—

Love is a tickling sensation which you cannot scratch.

Miss Hefner seems to enjoy life at the present time.

Everyone is happy—a result of the football game Monday.

Pupils of the high school want a gymnasium.

The juniors have selected class pins.

School children should retire early. Pupils, watch your hours.

M. D. is, conceited. We wonder why.

Alfred and Helen Margaret write notes.

Mr. Shifflett blushed in chapel Friday afternoon—we wonder why.

Velma Bilby actually had a date.

James Shepherd studies hard—not to overwork.

Mr. Cotner is not satisfied with one teacher. He must have two.

Some pupils are naturally bad.

Lloyd and Jean are a cute "pear."

CAN YOU IMAGINE—

Mr. Lackey dancing to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw?"

Meade McCall's blushing?

An idle Ralph Rollman?

Ida Beth's being dignified?

Mr. Barry being skinny?

Georgia McMullan not having dates?

Where Bill Hogsett's tie went Wednesday?

Mr. Shifflett in a tunnel?

E. B. Estes' making A's?

Everyone satisfied?

All the juniors wanting the same class pin?

Leland in love?

Life without study?

CHAPEL DAY BY DAY

Monday: Holiday—whoopee!

Tuesday: Reports on the Midland-Pecos game by Mr. Shifflett, Mr. Barry and the football boys.

Wednesday: Chapel today seemed more like it—we sang, "Enter that ye may better learn to sing" is our motto. Mr. Lackey took the tenors, sopranos, altos, and basses separately—and drilled! Well, I'll say. The song was "Consider the Lilies," and believe me we did consider them before we got through—and how!

Thursday: Latin play, "Off With His Head," was presented. Several visitors were present. Everyone enjoyed the play.

THE TATTLER

This is station T A T T L E R broadcasting. Our program consists of a few "Odds and Ends" from the Midland High School. All right, fellows, let's go—

Did you know that our dear little Runt has a date with the football captain for the Junior-Senior banquet?

We heard that G. B. didn't know what he was doing when he made a thrilling touchdown. But Alma Lee evidently knew when he was knocked out, 'cause tears don't flow for nothing!

Helen Margaret had a "charley horse" in her neck the other morning after English class. Could it be because "Red" sits behind her?

Marian must be lovesick, too, from the wistful look she cast at Lloyd when she got up to give a talk in English class one morning this week. Archie is another one that has fallen! And this time it was a girl in a white dress and cap from "Peekus."

We heard that Mary Lou and Ernestine had a "rare" time in Wink this last week end.

Frank must have had a date with Evelyn Sunday night because he played a wonderful game Armistice Day.

We noticed that Imogene was terribly disappointed because Ray did not get to play in the game.

Marie talks quite a bit in school, and this time it brought her good luck. Mrs. Barry moved Lloyd by her to keep her from talking to Lottie. And now all the junior girls have a weakness for talking!

Those of us who were at church last Sunday night wondered who the lady was that came with Mr. Cotner.

—This is station T A T T L E R broadcasting. We are now signing off, and we will be on the air next Friday afternoon at the same time. Good afternoon, folks.

Pecos brought their Pep Squad also. They formed the letters "P. H. S." and placed confetti on the ground.

Their uniforms were very much like those of the Midland squad. The sweaters were trimmed in gold with "Pecos" written in gold letters across the front and "pep" across the back; their skirts were white. The M. H. S. Pep Squad will be at the game supporting the team. Friday, November 15, 1929.

Mr. Barry: Red, I want you to give me—Achoo!

Red: Yes, sir, but I didn't know that you chewed.

Senior: Oh I'm goin' to 9:45 class.

Archie: I wish I were like the rivers. Miss Solomon: Why? Archie: So I could follow my course without leaving the bed.

Mr. Cotner: Why are you late? Ida Beth: Bell rang before I got here.

Alma Lee: G. B. tried to put his arm around me three times last night. Sammy Lane: Some Arm!

Ida Beth: You're not far from a fool. Are you? Nancy: No, about two feet.

Address: I passed "Vergil" the other day. Dorothy W.: Did he speak?

Mr. Shifflett: Conrad, if you had a little more spunk you could stand better in your class. Now, do you know what spunk is? Conrad: Yes sir, its the past participle of spank.

Junior: Do you know why a senior is like a kerosene lamp? Freshie: No, why? Junior: Well, he is not especially bright, is often turned down, smokes occasionally, and goes out at night.

Victorious again! Besides winning the Pecos game 26 to 0 our boys won another banquet at the Liano Hotel, given by our superintendent, Mr. Lackey. Who could blame the boys for playing hard with a hope that there might be something in store for them. Boys, be sure and win the next game. There might be something next time.

Others enjoying the banquet were Dr. Wright, Dr. Ellinger, and Mr. Shifflett.

MEMORIAL STADIUM GAME MAY RESULT IN SOUTHWEST WINNER

TEXAS AND TCU WILL BATTLE FOR THE SUPREMACY OF CONFERENCE TOP IN BIGGEST GAME

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—Saturday morning some 2500 followers of the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University will make the trip to Austin, with Memorial Stadium, University of Texas, as their destination.

By auto and by train they will go, specials over the Missouri Pacific taking care of the train crowd. A rate of $4 for the round-trip is attracting many townspeople who are Frog Boosters. The rail delegation is due to arrive in Austin about 1:30 p. m., and the auto representatives will be pouring in all morning.

Not one of the 2500 or more who will be in the stands cheering the Frogs on Saturday afternoon but who believes that T. C. U. has at least an even show for victory. And there are hundreds who believe that the Frogs will win. Of course, the same thing can be said for the Longhorns. Both views are undoubtedly colored by the desire. Both sides, however, will agree on the neutral opinion that, given a dry field, spectators will see a real grid battle!

The Frog squad, under Coach Francis Schmidt, made the trip to Austin Thursday night. Their schedule calls for a light workout on Memorial Field late today and plenty of rest from the train trip.

Saturday's game has been somewhat unusual in that there have been no advance allis from either camp. T. C. U. is ready and in tip-top shape for Saturday's fray. Austin Griffith is not at his best, but Harlos Green is. The Longhorns, likewise, have reported that they are ready to do battle without quarter, and may the best team win!

T. C. U. has never defeated State on the football field. That in itself is sufficient to engender sufficient fight to win an ordinary game. Add to this the fact that a victory would place the conference championship almost within the Frogs' grasp and you have (so T. C. U. followers will tell you) the complete setting for a Frog victory.

MONOCLES FOR WOMEN

LONDON. — (UP) — The well-dressed English woman this year is wearing a monocle. There have been monocled debutantes, monocled brides and monocled business women. Signs of the monocle craze which swept Paris in 1925 and 1927 are being watched closely by opticians with an eye for business and an eye for a monocle.

HE CARRIES SCREWDRIVER

LYNN, Mass. — (UP) — Aloysius Ferris will carry a screwdriver with him for the rest of his life. He swallowed it in an unsuccessful attempt at suicide and surgeons have decided not to seek to remove it from his stomach.

Second String Men May Play Most of Pyote Game Today

SPEAKING OF SPORT

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

THE LUCK OF THE GAME

Al Marsters, who was the most superstitious of football players, will be looking on from the side-lines tomorrow when his team goes into action against its traditional rival, a game in which Marsters might have risen to the heights of gridiron fame.

But the Dartmouth-Cornell game must go on without Al, for his luck went against him and he was crippled for the remainder of his college career in that memorable, bruising battle in Yale Bowl, a fortnight ago.

From four-leaf clovers and rabbit feet to making a cross on the ground and spitting for luck, Marsters ran the gamut of popular superstitions and added a few original ones—for good luck.

The White Jerseys?

Before a game, he always insisted upon being the last Dartmouth player to leave the dressing room. He never wore any but the hip pads of his sophomore days. He had his own particular number, "No. 6," and would wear no other.

Twice during a brilliant career on the gridiron he was seriously hurt, once in his junior year when a cracked ankle put him on the side-lines, again this year when he sustained an injury to a vertebra and was forced out.

Dartmouth, in the Yale game, for the first time appeared in white jerseys, an innovation. It may be that Al Marsters was superstitious about that. At any rate, his luck went against him.

Midland Man—

proposed by Midland will be held Nov. 24, a day prior to the hearing, so that a line of argument may be developed. In addition to Midland's direct participation in the plea for establishment of the southern transcontinental air mail route, the Midland representative and representatives of other towns will be given opportunity to argue the claims of their respective cities as a mail stop.

The Midland Chamber and airport authorities are in perfect agreement on a basis of argument already developed by chamber officials. A correspondence lasting more than a year has been carried on urging Midland's claims. The campaign has been handled somewhat similarly as that which enabled the organization to have Midland designated as an Army Airway station—which was a campaign of appealing facts.

So far as is known, the Government has indicated no towns at which the proposed air mail route would make a stop. The two U. S. senators, Congressman Claude B. Hunspeith and other agencies have been invoked to aid in the campaign.

Importance of an air mail stop is not alone in having air mail service, which Midland especially needs for the oil industry, but also in the wide publicity an air mail stop airport will receive, it is pointed out.

Southern Rivalry

Necessity for united action of the various cities along the proposed route is seen, when it is known that San Antonio, Houston and seven other cities held a conference in Houston about two weeks ago to map out a campaign to plead for a competitive route to the one Midland seeks. It is indicated only one of the routes, either via Fort Worth and Dallas to El Paso or via Houston and San Antonio to El Paso and thence west, will be established, hence it was deemed necessary for all cities along the northern Texas route to cooperate.

"Three birds with one stone," is the plan of Midland. The Midland

The regrettable accident which put Marsters on the side-lines deprived the Dartmouth star of his last chance of winning recognition as an All-America halfback. Too many other good players in too many other parts of the country remain in the running. But it is likely that Marsters will be named on a majority of All-Eastern football elevens for 1929. He deserves to be.

There is always the possibility that Albie Booth, the little Yale sophomore who is All-American beyond dispute, may be hurt and forced out of the game. But Booth seems pretty durable. He has taken some severe beatings at the hands of husky opponents this season and has come bouncing back for more.

The Captain's Burden

Chris Cagle of the Army, who was an All-America back in 1928, is not likely to win similar recognition this year unless he rises to great heights in the games with Notre Dame and Stanford. Should he be able to whip himself into the fury which marked his playing last season and perform brilliantly against the Irish and Cardinals, he would certainly retain his place, for he has the stuff.

It has been suggested that Cagle's duties as captain of the Army football team have hampered him in his initial performances on the gridiron. It will be noted, too, that the Army isn't a really first class football club this year, Cagle getting less help than he did in the days when he was running wild on eastern gridirons.

representative will not only take part in the air mail hearing, but will urge Midland's claim for a Federal building, and enroute to Washington will confer with officials having to do with Midland's growth as an oil city.

Big Spring Requested

BIG SPRING, Tex.—The city of Big Spring in an effort to assist in the promotion of air transportation and realizing the need for a civil airway line along a southwestern transcontinental route will be represented at the Interdepartmental Committee hearing to be held in Washington Nov. 25, by E. A. Kelley, president and C. T. Watson, Manager of the local chamber of commerce. Big Spring has one of the best equipped airports in the southwest with lighting equipment adequate for night flying, steel hangars, machine shop, administration building, and refueling equipment. The airport is located two miles west of the business district on a paved highway and comprises 230 acres of land or 3200 by 4900 feet, all of which is available for landing.

Former Pastor Of Church Here Dies

News of the death of the Rev. Granville Jones, at El Reno, Arkansas, last week has been received here by Mrs. Ethel Dickard.

Rev. Jones, a pastor in Midland in the early days of the town, was buried at his birthplace amid the

BARRY SATISFIED TO WIN GAME, HE SAYS

Midland will not win today's game with Pyote as handily as the sports scribe of The Reporter-Telegram has written in advance stories, according to Coach Barry of the Bulldog machine. It has been decided to cut down the length of the quarters, and second string men will probably play most of the game.

"It is my prediction that the score of today's game will be surprisingly close," the coach said this morning. "The Bulldogs have been keyed to the highest pitch for the past two games and anyone who understands the psychology of the game knows the Dogs are bound to suffer a 'let-down'."

Men Sore

"Five of my best men are still bruised and sore and positively cannot turn in their best game."

"It is my intention to use as many second string men in the game today as possible and still win."

No one realizes as does the coach how much it has meant to the team this season to have 35 men on the squad rather than 15 or 16, as has been in the past. The second and third teams have made the first team what it is, partly by offering stiff competition for places on the first eleven, and by battling the first string in scrimmages.

It would be both unfair and unwise coaching policy, the coach thinks, not to let these "scrubs" play as much as possible, where the score permits.

Pyote Rested

The Pyote team has had a two-week rest and is in the pink of condition. It is rearing to get to Midland and to beat the pack of Dogs.

"Pyote may out-fight us badly," Barry said. "I shall be satisfied to win by any score at all. This sounds so much like the usual 'line' handed out by college coaches prior to a big game that I hesitate to use these worn out allis, but I honestly believe I'm right and feel that today's game will be the toughest battle fought on the local gridiron this season."

The game was scheduled to start at 3:30 at Cowden park.

Caddo mountains, a beautiful territory that he loved well.

When in Midland, Rev. Jones was pastor of the First Christian church. He was widely known as a preacher and for his lectures following a visit to the Holy Land.

In number of points scored against them the Frogs lead the field, with only seven points as the season's total for points against them. Tulane, with 45 points scored by opponents, has the most points against her.

Airport Now Talks Over A Typewriter

When Samuel Morse flashed that first message of "What hath God wrought," across miles and miles of telegraphic wire to show the incredulous that telegraphy was actually possible, there was no more interest at the moment than that which centered at Sloan field, Midland Municipal airport, when the first message over the new Simplex transmitter was flashed by Field-Manager Becherer this week.

"Hello, Pecos," the wire said, how about seven gallons of gasoline for Lt. Thaden's Consolidated Fleet, due there shortly from Midland?"

The Simplex is operated by Becherer as a typewriter would be, and prints on similar machines at a distance the message conveyed. Faster, more
