

Farmer To Be Honored At C-CA Banquet

Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture directors decided to add an award for the "Outstanding Farmer" to be given at this year's C-CA Banquet.

The decision was made at a meeting of the directors Tuesday.

The banquet will be held Friday, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria.

Chamber members each year honor an outstanding man and woman from the Olton area at the banquet.

Nominations for the three outstanding persons will be taken at the C-CA office until Saturday, Jan. 29.

Ballots will be mailed to C-CA members two weeks before that date listing new C-CA director nominees and a space for nominations for the outstanding persons will be provided.

The directors also announced Mrs. Ruth Holladay as speaker for the program. Her topic will be "Lagniappe". She will also do scenes from some of the most successful Broadway productions of the past years.

Mrs. Holladay is a teacher of English in the local high school. She attended school at McMurry College in Abilene and is a veteran school teacher.

She was at one time in the public relations department of the Celanese Corporation of America, and reviews books as a hobby.

Directors decided to table a discussion on having a "Santa Day" next year, and decided to go ahead and mail tickets for the annual banquet out to members.

Appointed to the decoration and food committee for the banquet were Mrs. Walter Struve, Mrs. Charles Polk, Mrs. Garland DePrang, Mrs. Ralph Glover and Mrs. Jesse Stovall.

A financial report showed the chamber still operating in the red at the end of 1966.

Registration

Certificates

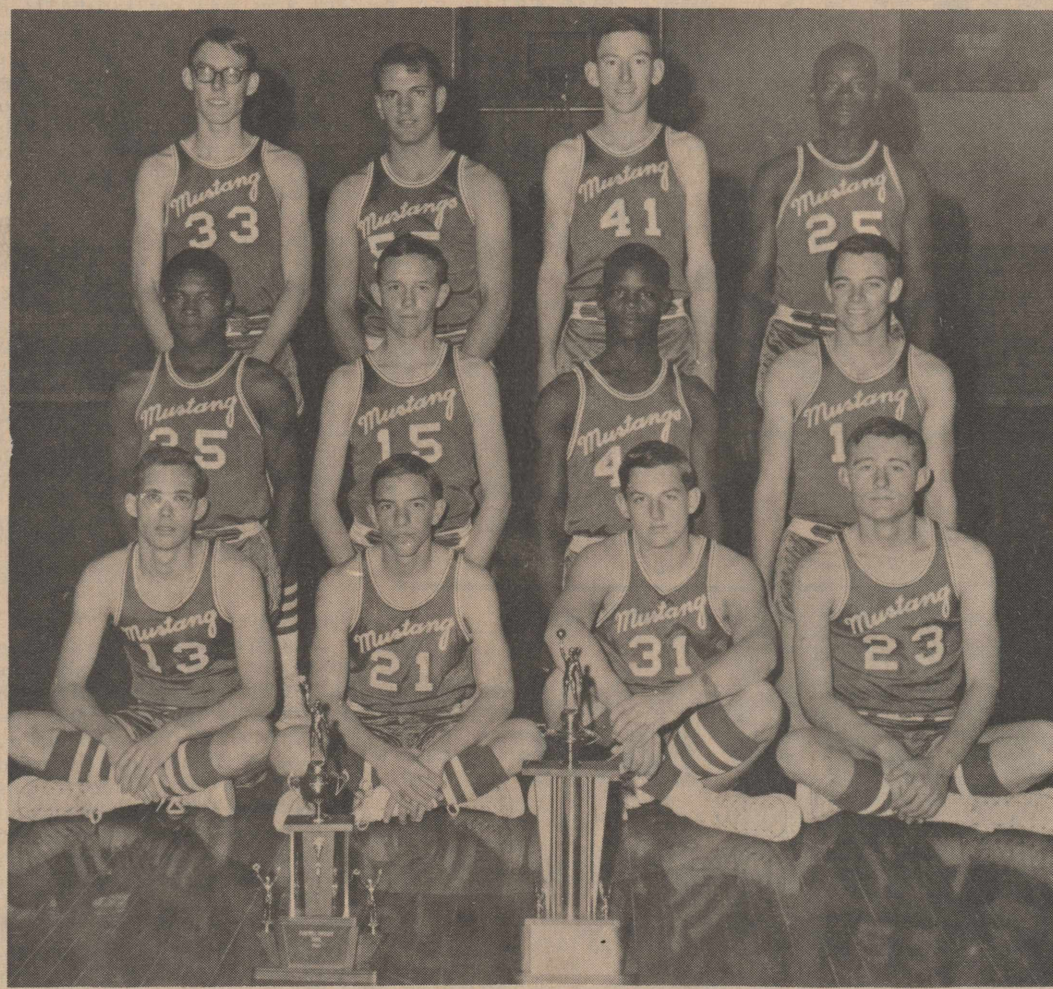

Still Available

Despite passage of Constitutional Amendment Seven which abolished the Texas Poll Tax last November, Texans must still register to vote this year.

Actually, the same old procedure is required—all that is missing is the $1.75 tax.

Voter registration certificates for Lamb County may be filled out by Olton area residents in the Olton City Hall. Deadline for filing remains at midnight, Jan. 31, the same as under the poll tax.

The certificate will be good from Feb. 1, 1967 to Feb. 29, 1968.

Council Okays Budget, Hears Irate Resident

Olton city council members approved the city audit and budget, then settled back to listen to an irate citizen Tuesday night.

Mrs. Clara Ashley, of 1720 Ave. E., appeared to complain about what she felt to be discrimination on the part of local policemen in checking her cafe for liquor violations.

Mrs. Ashley said she felt local lawmen, along with liquor control board agents and county officers, were harassing her. "I'm not here to complain about being arrested if I break the law," she said. "But why do the lawmen just check my place and nobody else?"

She said, "Everybody knows almost everyone in the flats bootlegs, so why do the officers just check my place?"

On one particular night in question, City Judge Bill Smith said he had issued four search warrants, not just one, to state Liquor Control Board officers who searched suspects homes and businesses for illegal liquor sales.

Council members listened to Mrs. Ashley for approximately 40 minutes, but took no formal action.

In other matters, the council voted to employ E. L. Hatfield of Earth as new city night policeman.

Hatfield took over as night assistant to Police Chief Emmett Burrows when former nightwatchman Harvey Castleberry was injured in an auto accident in December.

Council members set Hatfield's salary at $325 with a raise of $25 after six months.

Council members also approved a request by Fire Chief Tom Smith to purchase a new water heater for the living quarters in the fire department building.

Smith made the request for the heater to go along with remodeling changes in the building also approved by the council at the meeting.

In other action, Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas called the city election for the first Tuesday in April. Up for election this year is the mayor's position and council spots now held by Lester Thompson and Parley Meyers.

Thomas also discussed the possibility of buying a radio unit for Burrows to install in his home.

Thomas made the suggestion so that the night officer might be able to get in touch with Burrows more easily if trouble arose at night.

Council members took no formal action on the request. (See City Audit Report on page 5).

FOR SATURDAY

All-Region Band Tryouts Set Here

A lot of high school students will be tootin' their own horns Saturday in Olton.

The cause of all the noise will be the annual tryouts for All-Region band, slated to be held in Olton High School.

Approximately 600 band students from class AA, A and B schools in the south zone of Band region I will be in town for the tryout sessions during the morning.

During the afternoon, the 130 students chosen to play in the band will get together for a rehearsal with A. Clyde Roller, formerly director of the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra and now associated with the University of Houston music department.

Olton band director Leslie Ross said approximately 15 Olton Mustang Band members will try out for the honor band.

The group will meet in Lubbock to give a concert at Coronado High School on Jan. 21. About 30 bands from the area will be represented at the tryouts.

The Saturday session will mark the first time the tryouts have been held out of Lubbock.

Cafeteria Change Okayed By Board

Olton School Board members approved a change in the serving operation of the school cafeteria to see if rising costs of the operation can be cut.

The action came at the regular meeting of the group Tuesday night.

Board members also heard a report by Supt. Ray Schultz that school enrollment dropped by 51 over the previous month, with the majority of the decrease coming in the elementary grades.

The group also extended administrative assistant Elmer Moore's contract through June 30, 1969, and approved a $25 a month salary increase for Virginia Moss in the school tax office.

The group approved a request by Mrs. Ray Slatten, the lunchroom supervisor, to cut lunchroom serving lines from two to one to see if the lunchroom operation could be speeded up somewhat.

Schultz said the cafeteria program is currently operating approximately $2,800 in the red so far this year, with some of the loss attributed to food still held in inventory. Actual loss was placed much lower by the superintendent.

Schultz said much of the deficit was due to the loss of use of surplus foods furnished by the Federal government used in previous years by cafeteria systems throughout the country.

Schultz said Hale Center was one of the few cafeterias in the area operating in the black, but that lunchroom prices were raised to 50 cents per meal at all grade levels in order to do so.

In discussing enrollment, Supt. Schultz said enrollment in Olton schools on Jan. 9 was 1,223, compared to 1,274 on Dec. 12, 1966.

Highest school enrollment was on Nov. 11 when totals for the school showed 1,317 students attending.

In other action, the group accepted the resignation of Mrs. Lynne Clifton effective at the end of the semester.

Mrs. Clifton, home economics teacher in the high school, resigned to join her husband, who is in the army.

The group approved the hiring of Juanna Jo Moore to replace Mrs. Clifton. Miss Moore is a recent Texas Tech graduate and a native of White Deer.

The group recommended extending Moore's contract from Sept. 1, 1968 to June 30, 1969. Moore's current contract runs through July 1, 1968.

Schultz also told the group he would attend a meeting this week in Canyon to seek approval of an art program for the Olton schools under Title I funds.

Schultz said insurance ad-justors had checked damage to the school caused by the wind storm last week.

He said the roof of the home economics building was heavily damaged by the blow, in addition to the roof of the ticket office at the football field.

He also said the band hall door was damaged and some glass in the gymnasium shattered.

Schultz said possible damage to slates on the junior high building would be checked.

In the only other major action, the board decided to accept bids once again on two school buildings formerly used by the vocational agriculture department.

Board members last month declined to accept a lone bid on the structures.

Mustangs Down Abernathy To End Antelope Win Mark

Olton Mustang basketballers broke a near-jinx about playing the Abernathy basketball teams last Friday, downing the Antelopes, 57-53.

The win marked the first by Olton over Abernathy in basketball and was the tenth victory for Coach James Cagle's young squad.

The Fillies had a tougher time the same night, dropping a 66-50 decision to Abernathy.

Jerry Harris was the leading scorer for the Olton squad with 16 points, but he was backed up by three other players who also hit the double figures.

Pat Bodkin collected 14 points, MacArthur Thomas had 12, and Lannie McClain had 10. Harris also led the rebounding with 12, followed by Bodkin with 11, McClain with 10 and Roger Thompson with 9.

In the girls' contest, Lynn McGill scored 18 points to lead the Olton squad, while Pam Foster collected five rebounds to lead the defensive unit.

The win by the boys placed their district record at 3-2, while their season mark is now 10-9.

The loss by the girls moved their record to 2-3 in district play.

Next opponent for both teams is Dimmitt.

Dimmitt's boys are currently leading the 2-AA loop race with a perfect district

mark. Dimmitt was earlier tabbed as favorites for the district crown.

OBSERVATIONS OF A NEWCOMER

By MIKE WALL

A Tribute To One Of A Kind

It's sometimes said most weekly newspaper publishers publish a newspaper just to get their own writing into print. They of course feel it really belongs in a slick magazine, but usually the magazines are not quite so sure.

With that observation begins installment one of this small epic.

Last week Troy Morris died. A lot of people never heard of Troy, but many who did will remember him for a long time.

He was 67 when he died, still at work as editor of the Levelland Daily Sun-News. He probably didn't really have to work, but I doubt if he would have felt comfortable if he couldn't go down to a newspaper office each morning.

I knew Troy for eight months just a short while before he died. He had most of the occupational hazards of the profession including a bad stomach and high blood pressure.

But he didn't have the hard-bitten bitterness often associated with old newspapermen. Don't get me wrong. If he thought a public official was neglecting his duty or mistreating someone, he could write an editorial that would take the hide off.

But underneath it all he was involved in the things about which he wrote.

When crops were bad due to hail or drought, he suffered with the farmers.

And when he discovered something about which he thought the public should know, even if it offended a longtime friend, he wrote it.

He learned the business the way many newspapermen did, by growing up in one. His father started the Ralls Banner when Troy was just a boy. Troy said he learned to read by setting type by hand. He could match up the letters on paper with the lead letters and he finally just figured out what the letters meant.

When his father died, Troy moved back to East Texas and took over a small daily in Pittsburg.

Unfortunately, the area was then in the heart of the Ku Klux Klan area in Texas, and Troy just couldn't pass up the opportunity to editorialize against the Klan any time he had a chance.

"I lasted about six months", Troy once said. "If I had had any sense, I would have just kept my mouth shut."

But he didn't, and maybe that kind of truthfulness made him the man he was.

For a while he and his wife, Irene, both wrote stories for pulp magazines. They were just getting set to break into the big magazines when their agent in Chicago died. That killed his chances for the big time, but he kept his hand in by turning out historical pieces for statewide Sunday magazines.

He finally wound up in Levelland setting type for the Hockley County Herald.

During the depression, he managed to raise a family on the same job. "We were really lucky," he would say. "We had a regular salary when most people couldn't get any job at all."

But working for other people just didn't seem to please Troy and he finally moved to Ropesville to publish his own paper.

In a town which today probably has no more than 300 residents, Troy and his family managed to pay for more printing equipment, pay off the paper and the mortgages on a pair of houses.

That alone tells a lot about his energy and spirit.

He finally retired a few years ago to let his daughter take over the Ropesville paper.

But he couldn't stay idle long, and when the Hockley County Free Press came into existence in 1963, Troy was back in the game again, writing news, feature stories and editorials.

When the Free Press merged with the Sun-News, Troy went along.

And there he stayed until a heart attack felled him last week.

They say a person never really dies until all of his friends forget him. I guess all of this is just to let Troy Morris know one person won't forget him for a long time.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

A LETTER FROM A "FAMILY FRIEND"

Dear Amy:

The letter in your column pertaining to the college student who desired to become engaged to a girl who was not satisfied with the ring of his choice and wanted to part-pay for her own engagement ring brought back memories of many years gone by. Memories of a young girl whose family was not poor, but who wanted to marry a boy who, financially, was beneath her. She, too, could have bought her own ring, but instead, she was happy to accept the ring her fiancé bought for her (which incidentally, came from Sears and Roebuck).

The marriage has been happy and fruitful. They have two daughters and live in a beautiful white house on a hill in Washington, D.C. She is known as the First Lady of our land and is married to Lyndon Baines Johnson.

So, as you so aptly put it, "the ring is secondary".

A Family Friend

Dear Amy:

I dated quite a few guys during these past years, but only once did I come across one with such a pattern of thought. Rich (not his real name) and I went steady for one month and then I decided that he was getting too serious for me. Rich told me there was no point in us seeing each other and going out every week if we didn't plan on getting married. When I heard this, I thought he was kidding, but he wasn't.

It has always been my philosophy that a guy and girl go out together to have a good time. How can one choose a partner for life if one doesn't go out with different types of people? If every guy thought like Rich did, then dating wouldn't really be any fun. What do you think?

J.A.M.

Dear J.A.M.:

If you are not worth the wooing, then surely, you are not worth the winning!

Dear Amy:

I read your reply about love to "The Married Set". I don't mean to be cruel or nasty, but your definition was just as silly as their's. The only place to get the definition of love or anything else for that matter is in the Bible which is God's word.

Love, as I have translated it, is slow to lose patience. It looks for a way of being constructive. It is not possessive. It is neither anxious to impress, nor does it cherish inflated ideas of its own importance. Love has good manners and does not pursue selfish advantage. It is not touchy. It does not keep account of evil, or gloat over the wickedness of other people. On the contrary, it is glad with all good men when truth prevails.

Love knows no limit to its endurance, no end to its trust, no fading of its hope. It can outlast anything. It is, in fact, the one thing that still stands when all else has fallen.

Happily Married

Dear Amy:

I am a 16 year old girl and need your assistance to help solve a problem my boyfriend has. His mother and father are separated, and he lives with his mother. His mother is always picking on him. If he stays home one day, she gets angry, and takes his keys away from him. He has a bad temper, and they get into terrible arguments. He doesn't want to leave home because he wants to finish school, but he doesn't want to live in constant strife with his mother.

He can't live with his father because his father is very strict, and he can't get along with him, either.

My boyfriend asked me what to do, but I'm afraid I might give him a wrong answer. Can you help?

"Trying"

Dear "Trying":

Advise your friend to stay where he belongs and learn to get along . . . by taking a tip and buttoning his lip!

1040 U.S. Individual Income Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q - When will I get my tax forms in the mail?
A - Distribution of the 1966 tax forms should be completed early in January.

Forms will also be available at IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices.

Q - Is a Social Security pension taxable?
A - No it is not.

Q - I worked last summer to earn money for college but made less than $600. How can I get back what was withheld from my pay for income tax?
A - File an income tax return to obtain a refund of any income tax which was withheld from your wages.

The card Form 1040A may be the best, as well as the easiest, for you to use. Don't forget to put your Social Security number on the return and attach your W-2 form. The W-2 shows how much was withheld.

Q - Has there been any change in the income tax rates for 1966?
A - No. An individual's income for 1966 is taxed at the same rates in effect the preceding year.

Q - When can I expect to get my W-2 from my employer?
A - Employers are required to issue Form W-2 by the end of January but many do so earlier.

Q - Can anyone use the figures for state tax deductions that are given in the 1040 instruction booklet?
A - These figures are provided as a convenience for those taxpayers who deduct state gasoline tax when they itemize deductions. If you are entitled to claim this deduction then you may use the table instead of doing the calculations yourself.

Q - If my wife and I file separately instead of jointly, can one itemize while the other uses the standard deduction?
A - No. Married couples filing separate returns must handle their expenses the same way. If one itemizes the other must too.

Married couples filing separately must also take the same type of standard deduction. If one takes the minimum standard deduction they both must take it.

Q - Are you going to offer tax assistance over the phone again this year?
A - Yes. Check the local phone directory for the number to call.

Q - Does the law now require me to file my return with an IRS service center?
A - A new law authorizes the Secretary of Treasury to make such a request but it will not be required for 1966 returns. Check your 1040 instructions for the address of the office to which tax returns are to be sent.

Note that in some states, taxpayers are offered the option of mailing returns calling for a refund direct to a service center. Even in these states this is not a requirement but offered as a means to help speed up refunds and reduce processing costs.

Q - How does the minimum standard deduction work?
A - The deduction amounts to $200 plus $100 for each exemption taken on the return including those for age and blindness. For married couples filing jointly the deduction is $400 plus $100 for each exemption. The maximum that may be claimed by those using this deduction is $1,000 but it is limited to $500 when a married taxpayer files a separate return.

A married couple with two children as dependents would be entitled to a $600 deduction when this method is used. If the income reported on the return was under $6,000 then this method would be more to the couple's advantage than the standard deduction.

Q - I've heard that one of the tax benefits for older people is to be able to sell your home at a profit and not be taxed on that money. Is that true?
A - Yes it is if certain conditions are met. You will not have to pay tax on the profit if you were 65 or older before the date of the sale, the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less, and you owned and occupied the house as your principal residence for at least 5 of the 8 years before the sale.

If you sold the house for over $20,000 and the other conditions are met, then only a portion of the profit will be taxable.

Gain excluded under this provision of law can be elected only once.

This benefit is explained in the booklet, Tax Benefits for Older Americans, Document No. 5569. For a free copy, drop a post card to your IRS district director.

HOUSEWIVES ARISE

BY KAREN WALL

Random Hints For Homemakers

Through no fault of anyone by myself, I have become the author of a column on how to get the most done at home with the least amount of work.

The term Housewifery is used here in place of the overworked and much too pretty word, Homemaking, commonly applied to the art of keeping the home fires burning. Housewifery just seems to be more inclusive and certainly more honest.

It may seem to you a little ridiculous that such a novice and, I will add in the words of my dear spouse, horrible, housekeeper as I should be writing on this subject.

However I believe there is much to be said for the Random Housewife, like myself, who rather dislikes the lot she is in but will make the best of it.

She will strive continually to find short cuts to the drudgery, seek ways to do the least but show the most for her efforts.

The Random Housewife believes that there is more to life than dirty dishes, dusting shelves and ironing clothes.

Woman cannot live by dusting only. . . she must play bridge!

I would like to make another point clear. I am making no claim to be the soul source of brains behind this hopefully helpful column. My main source of information is being culled from a little well worn book that I would never be without.

THE I HATE TO HOUSEKEEP BOOK by Peg Bracken, (a girl after my own heart,) is my faithful associate in this writing adventure.

One further note of explanation about this venture into housewifery prose is needed. If you the reader are one of those spotless and never tiring homemakers who loves her work and would not have it any other way you will probably be shocked and mortified at what this generation of Mothers and Housewives to which I belong, is coming to.

However, consider it from this angle--Do not refuse to read my little column on the grounds that it is obscene prose. Put on your coat of shining armor and champion for your cause. We the Random Housekeepers are not beyond being saved from our messy ways.

Hopefully I aspire to have both the spotless and the Random keepers of the home write to me with ideas and tips they have found useful in getting the chores of housewifery out of the way. Also if you have views concerning the content of this column drop me a line and I will print it for all to see.

You see, my little manual on house work is only a hundred and sixty-nine pages long and I will soon run out of useful hints to pass along. Thus, I am relying on you to save me from banishment by supplying your own wise and worthy tips. These I will gladly publish, giving you full credit for your contributions.

Oh my gosh! I have just been informed by my all loving and understanding spouse that I must end my column now, that it is already too long and will have to be cut down. (I dare him to try) At any rate I must stop and I haven't even started passing out bits of wise and witty information on how to make people think you are a better housekeeper than you are.

But I will return next week same place and same space and I hope to be able to get in a few of the things I intended to say this week.

Please send any contributions for Housewives Arise care of the Olton Enterprise, Drawer E., Olton, Texas.

Original HPRF Director Re-Named Foundation Head

Dr. Tom C. Longnecker has been elected Executive Vice-President and Director of the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway.

This action has been announced by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees according to Frank Moore, President of the Foundation.

Taking office on Jan. 1, 1967, Dr. Longnecker will also serve as Chief Soil Scientist of the Foundation, continuing the work that he started as the original Director of the Foundation when it was organized on Oct. 20, 1956.

Longnecker directed the research program at Halfway for five and one-half years until May 1, 1962, resigning then to go into private business. Dr. Longnecker has resigned his position of Executive Vice-President of the Flame Cultivator Company of the Arkansas Foundry Company, Little Rock, Arkansas, as of Dec. 31, 1966.

Raised on a farm in Central Indiana, Dr. Longnecker completed his public school education in 1931 and secured his BS degree from Purdue in Agricultural Chemistry in 1935.

Upon graduation, he became a staff member of the New Jersey Experiment Station and Rutgers University where he specialized in soil science and grass management.

In conjunction with his work with the New Jersey Experiment Station, Dr. Longnecker spent a year conducting practical demonstrations on restoring soil fertility on run-down vegetable farms in New Jersey.

Receiving his MS degree in 1937 and Ph D degree in soil chemistry and plant physiology in 1941 from Rutgers University, Dr. Longnecker served from 1941 to 1946 in the U. S. Army, including thirty months on General Eisenhower's staff. At this time, he was directing food and agricultural activities in the liberated areas of France, Belgium, and Germany, all in conjunction with military government assignments. Due to outstanding work in his previous capacity, Dr. Longnecker was assigned to the U. S. Group Control Council in Berlin where he had the responsibility for establishing the Agricultural Production Program for the U. S. Zone of Germany.

In 1946, Longnecker went on inactive status as Lieutenant Colonel rejoining the staff of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, specializing in soil science research.

Joining the staff of the Texas Research Foundation at Renner, Texas in 1947, Dr. Longnecker had the responsibility of setting up a soil research program for the Blackland Prairie of Texas.

His research resulted in more effective use of fertilizer, crop rotation and other soil management practices to increase the productivity of the Blackland crops. In 1952, he became Assistant Director of the Texas Research Foundation and Head of Agricultural Research Division, serving in this capacity until October of 1956, when he became director of the High Plains Station of the Texas Research Foundation. Under his direction, the Station became the High Plains Research Foundation in May, 1959 thus becoming Director of the new Foundation.

Members of the Board of Trustees of the Foundation, along with many others from the area have extended a warm word of welcome at the return of Dr. Longnecker in his new capacity of Executive Vice-President of the High Plains Research Foundation.

8 Ways To Cut Doctor Bills

Stretch Your Medical Dollar

The cost of treating a serious illness or accidental injury most often is unanticipated and always is unwanted. Often it is not included in the family financial plan and often it presents an extra expense on top of an already tight budget.

Like all other living expenses, the price of medical treatment has risen in the last 20 years. But, says a pamphlet of the American Medical Association, there are still a number of ways in which you can stretch your medical dollar and at the same time get better protection for yourself and your family.

* Have a family doctor. He will keep a permanent record of your medical history which may save duplicating many expensive and time-consuming tests. He will know your background and be better able to tell promptly if anything is wrong.

* Don't wait too long. Many people try to save money on medical bills by not seeing the doctor until they are seriously ill. This not only defeats the purpose of preventive medicine, the only sound way to preserve your health, but it is more expensive in the long run.

* Have regular checkups. Early detection obviously offers a better chance to control and cure disease.

* Go to the doctor's office. Few patients understand that house calls are not only more expensive but less efficient. Without his office equipment and his trained staff, your physician cannot perform a complete examination. The doctor can give you better care, sooner and at less expense in his office.

* Use the telephone. This not only saves money but also often makes good medical sense. A family doctor who has examined you regularly can sometimes advise you over the phone about minor health problems. For anything that seems serious he will ask you to come to his office to be examined.

* Follow your doctor's orders. If you refuse to follow the expert advice you solicit and pay for, you are throwing your money away.

* Buy health insurance. Health insurance is a bargain considering the shattering effects on the family finances that prolonged illness can have. Buy as much insurance as you can afford, but especially protect yourself against the catastrophic expenses of serious illness.

* Take allowable tax deductions. Doctor bills, hospital bills and drug costs beyond a certain percentage of your income may be claimed as deductions for tax purposes.

All of these points will help you to cut your doctor bills. There are some other ways to save. Americans waste more than one billion dollars yearly on quacks and quack products. Countless millions are largely wasted by those who dose themselves with needless patent medicines. When in doubt, ask your physician. It costs less and is safer in the long run.

We've consistently s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-d your electric service dollar to give you more!

Today, you pay less for an average kilowatt hour of electricity than you did in 1952. That's because you're using more, enabling us to use larger and more efficient generators. Through use of this more efficient equipment, we're able to offset the inflationary pressures that cause rising prices.

And, to continue to keep electricity costs low, without sacrificing dependability, we'll invest more than $20 million in 1967, in new construction.

Electricity is still the biggest bargain in your family budget.

Chit Chat

BY SANDEE GREGORY
AND JANE ANN DUNCAN

Solemn faced and droopy-eyed was a description of the students and teachers in OHS this week.

Semester exams created quite an unhappy air, but we think that after the tests are completed the students and teachers will perk up and look alive! We sure hope so!

The beginning of a New Year invariably brings forth thoughts of New Year resolutions. It's as natural as associating Pilgrims and turkey with Thanksgiving, witches and "trick or treating" with Halloween, lighted Christmas trees, the Christ child, and Santa with Christmas time.

Some people seriously make resolutions for the New Year with the intention of keeping them. It is often a time when one tries to break an unwanted habit or to become a more admirable person through the achievement of some goal or personality trait.

To others, making resolutions is strictly something to joke about. Partly because one's success in keeping them is not always so good.

Nevertheless, we all have some thoughts and opinions in the subject, so we asked a few individuals the following questions:

"What is your attitude toward New Year's resolutions? Are they worthwhile to you in your own life or are they something of little concern?"

Cheri Dorris: I believe New Year's resolutions are valuable to the person who is wise enough to make meaningful ones and strong enough to keep the resolutions he makes. These resolutions are guides for our self-improvement plans for the new year, and without these, we may not realize the ways in which we need to improve.

Myrtle Givens: They are good if they are reasonable and if the person making them strives to keep them; but to do this the person must be sincere in trying to improve himself. New Year's resolutions aren't worthwhile to me because I'm too impulsive in the things I do.

Linda Graham: The general attitude and feeling of people toward New Year's resolutions is that they are to be broken. I, like everyone else, feel this way. Just because I feel this way does not mean that I am against making resolutions. If we make resolutions, we are trying to improve. The person who never tries, never improves, and improvement comes from trying.

Barbara Gallaway: New Year's resolutions are useless unless you plan to stick with them. I wouldn't make any for this reason. This doesn't mean I think I don't need reforming.

David Neinst: Most everyone makes some New Year's resolutions but few actually follow them for a long period of time. New Year's resolutions are good if you stick to them. They can be good for everyone. I think it's easy to make them but hard to follow them. They usually are of little concern because I usually break them quickly.

BEAT DIMMITT!!

The Abernathy girls' team proved to want the game just a little bit more than our Fil-lies, but they have been working our real hard this week, and they will be ready to clip those Bobcatettes' tails this Friday night!

The Mustangs added another victory to their list and what a victory it was! The entire game proved to be quite a surprising evening.

Jerry Harris netted the most points but his team mates added to the victory with some really great saves. Keep it up Mustangs and dribble those old Bobcats right out of the gym!!

Fight with all your might Beat those Bobcats tomorrow night!

The population of Olton will increase mightily this Saturday as some 500 area students will participate in Regional Band tryouts on our school campus. This is Olton's first time to host such a meet. We know Mr. Ross will do a good job as official organizer. He was elected for this position last year by the Region I band directors. The Regional Band will perform the following week at Lubbock. Good luck to all those trying out!!

For the FHA's a short skit was presented and it proved to be a breather from the semester tests earlier that day. Following the skit regular business was discussed concerning events that will be coming up soon.

A going away party was given in honor of Kenneth Moss last Saturday night at the ORC. We are sorry to say that Kenneth will be moving to Decatur at the end of this semester. We'll miss you Kenneth!!!

Linda Graham and Doel Cordero were selected as the seniors that had the best conduct for the third six weeks Mr. Turner disclosed Monday. Linda has many outside activities, including being president of the senior FHA Chapter, Mustang Tale, and being head manager for the Fillie basketball team.

Doel Cordero was a fighting Mustang this football season. He is active in vocational ag. Doel is active in other things in school and he is a pleasure to be around. With these qualities these two students were destined to be Best Citizens.

Two typing students were discussing their troubles. "All I asked Mr. Howton," said one, "was if he wanted the carbon copies double spaced too and he blew his top."

A common good-bye used on the telephone now days is, "Let's hang up for a while, Susie... I can absorb so much gossip at one time."

Mrs. Scott: Eddie, name twelve bodies of water in the United States.

Eddie Hooper: Six lakes and six seas.

Life demands from you only the strength you possess. Only one feat is possible--not to have run away.

The second grade teacher saw that her pupils were curious about the envelope the school secretary had given her. "That's my pay check," she said.

"Why, Miss Johnson," replied one girl, "I didn't know you worked anywhere."

People don't plan to fail--they just fail to plan.

Belated birthday greetings, Emma!!!

Linda Graham: How's your car starting in this cold weather?!!

Tony George: Did you get tired Saturday night?!!

Carol: Where did you all run off to Saturday night?!!

Danny Dial: Where did you learn that kick step?!!

Shirley Johnson: Don't tell us that they have found out your secret?!!

Mrs. Scott: Have you finished grading your papers yet?!!

Better luck next time, Glen!!

Has anyone looked out the the roadside park lately?!!

Jim Smith: Have you had any more flat tires lately?!!

Mac Arthur: Have you ALMOST crammed any baskets lately?!!

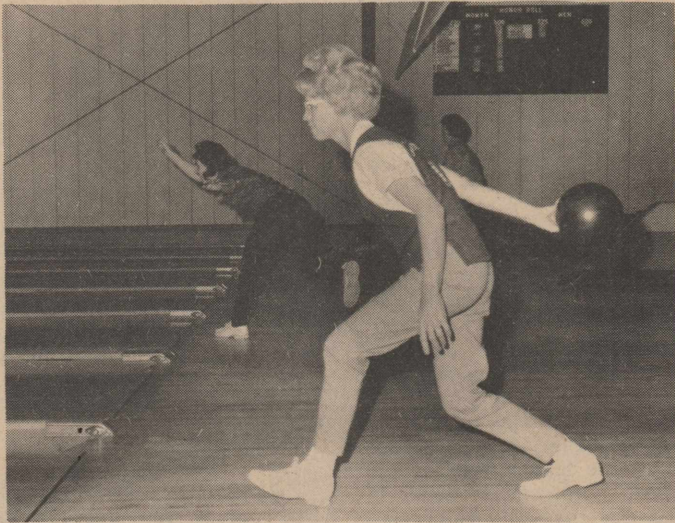

Jerry Harris: Do you have any new basketball tricks for our next game this Friday?!!

Rickey Smith: Have you been staying away from those cokes and strawberries! You know what happens when you drink cokes and eat strawberries!!

LET 'EM ROLL--Olton women getting in a few practice throws before the City Tournament begins here next week end at the Olton Bowl.

BOWLING

This year's representative to state and national will be Bettye Jordan, with alternate Oleta Richardson. State tournament will be in Corpus Christi, March 17 and National tournament will be held in Rochester, N. Y. May 1 through 5.

Olton Woman's Bowling Association officers consists of Prudence Jeffrey, president; Nora Lee Martin, first vice-president; Inez Yates, second vice-president; Bettye Jordan, secretary and Edisy Hackler, treasurer.

Mrs. Jeffrey, pointing out some of the benefits of bowling, called attention to the fact that "besides being a good exercise, it is a good, clean sport that any member of the family can enjoy. In fact, we are trying to rouse enough interest among the Olton people to begin a senior league, which consists of members 55 years and over and also a mother-daughter league. There are enough people who fit these categories that we could get a league together without any trouble."

When asked about the origin of bowling, Mrs. Jeffrey commented that as far back as five thousand BC, seven thousand years ago, the children of Egypt played a game similar to our present day bowling.

"Actually, the American game came more directly from Germany, where the game started around the beginning of the Christian era, though," she went on to say.

"A small wooden club called a kegel was used for recreation at that time and later became a part of the religious ordeals of the early Germans. In the cloisters of the church, they were required to set up their kegels, and throw a round rock at it. In the trial the kegel was called Heide, or heathen. If the man could knock the Heide down, he proved to the priest's satisfaction that he had been living an honorable life."

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT?--Not necessarily in this game called bowling but it sure helps. Shown here rolling 'em, is Bettye Jordan, delegate to state and national league tournaments, and Beedie Welch, two of Olton's top bowlers.

Mrs. Jeffrey continued, "Martin Luther set the number of pins at nine and drew up the basic rules for the game. The first bowling lanes were set up in America in 1623, with the pin arrangement the same as Martin Luther had set up, until the early Americans changed to ten pins."

"Olton Bowling Association contributes to the Bowlers Victory Legion of men and women, who serve the hospitalized and blinded veterans. The association gives $10 per year to the legion, which uses all donations for rehabilitation of veterans. Among the exercises of these men and women is bowling."

"We are looking forward to one of the best tournaments in the Olton association's history this year. With the interest that is being shown in it, I know it will be a big success."
